House-Moving Project Halted By Legal Hassle

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A last-minute legal dispute between owner and mover stopped a massive house-moving project in Lubbock this morning.

Power lines already had been cut in front of the 2½-story home at 2523 19th St. when the dispute between owner Joe Batrice of 5007 44th St. and mover Jimmie Dickey of Woodrow stopped everything at 10 a.m.

Batrice said he had understood that Dickey would move the house without his signature on a contract on liability that Dickey presented Monday afternoon.

Dickey said he gave Batrice the contract and told him to make known any changes he wanted after he talked to his attorney.

Dickey asked for the signed contract at the site this morning, and Batrice told him he had been advised not to sign it.

Batrice then said he would get another mover to pull the house down 19th Street to the Brownfield Highway and to property he owns at the west end of 82nd Street.

Several city policemen to handle traffic and workmen from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Lubbock Power & Light Co. and Southwestern Public Service Co. to handle telephone and power lines were in place when the move was called off after an hour of last-minute preparations and discussion.

The University-City Club next door owns the property that the old home is on. The club wants the house either moved or demolished so that it can expand on the property.

Batrice, a mechanical engineer, said he spent six or seven months removing the bricks from the outside of the house and getting it ready to move.

Dickey said he and other men have been helping prepare for the move.

The house, estimated by Dickey to weigh 350,000 to 400,000 pounds, was elevated onto "skids" and three sets of heavy duty wheels by hydraulic jacks and a winch truck.

Batrice said he decided to handle most of the move himself after several movers gave him estimates of $50,000 to $120,000 for the entire project.

A telephone company representative said its costs are about $6,000 including the construction of steel beams to protect cables that will have to be taken down and passed over on each side of the Brownfield Highway.

Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin said a cable already has been rerouted at Quaker Avenue and Brownfield Highway in preparation for the move.

"The average house is 18 to 20 feet high, and Bell usually can raise the telephone cables high enough to allow the house to move under the cables," Goodwin said. "However, this house is more than 40 feet high, and the cables cannot be stretched that far."

Batrice also is having to pay for the services of the other utility companies.

The electric companies were ready to unbolt traffic lights and swing them out of the way as the house passed by.

If the house is moved, it will be the first time that any structure that large has been moved in Lubbock since the Nicolette Hotel was moved across Yellowhouse Canyon to downtown Lubbock in the late 19th century, said city planning director Jim Bertram.

Batrice said he bought the house last Dec. 23 with the idea of moving it to his property on 82nd Street.

It is believed to have been built in the 1920s by a manager of the Lubbock J.C. Penney Store.

Arab Nations Threatening Christians

BEIT EDDIN, Lebanon (AP) — The seven-nation Arab conference on Lebanon ended today with a pledge to neutralize the right-wing Lebanese Christians and, if necessary, to use force to end their collaboration with Israel.

The threat of action against the Israeli-backed Christian militias was one of eight major points contained in a statement issued at the end of the three-day conference. The meeting was called by Lebanese President Elias Sarkis to find a way to restore peace to the strife-torn country.

The eight points were largely a reiteration of previous Arab calls for the disarmament of private militias and an end to the radio and press propaganda war waged by the warring Lebanese factions. Those calls have gone unheeded in the previous four years of fighting in Lebanon.

The statement also affirmed the need for the preservation of Lebanon's unity and independence.

Observers noted, however, that the eight points did not refer to an extension of the mandate of the Syrian-dominated Arab League peacekeeping force, dispatched to Lebanon in November 1976 to police the armistice that ended the civil war between rightist Christians and the alliance of leftist Moslems and Palestinian guerrillas.

But one of the eight points spoke of the "exact, accurate and thorough application of the Riyadh and Cairo summit resolutions, "which created the Syrian-controlled Arab deterrent force in Lebanon.

The Syrians saved the Christians from defeat in the civil war, but since February the Syrians have been fighting to disarm the militias and bring the Christian areas under Syrian control. More than 1,200 Christians were killed in the 10-day Syrian artillery and rocket attack in Beirut that was halted by a cease-fire Oct. 7, but sniping has continued.

The Christians have refused to submit to Syrian control because the Syrians have done nothing to disarm the Lebanese Moslems or Palestinian guerrillas. The Christians charge the Arab League force is in fact a Syrian occupation army and have turned to the Israelis in southern Lebanon for arms, other supplies and military support. The Syrians have stayed out of southern Lebanon because Israel has threatened to attack them if they move south of the Litani River.

Talking to reporters after the conference, Lebanese Foreign Minister Fuad Butros said the eight-point statement was only a series of recommendations and not resolutions.

"Resolutions necessarily entail executive power to implement them," the foreign minister said. "What we have now is a group of recommendations within which the president of Lebanon can operate."

He refused to give details of a reported security plan presented to the conference by Sarkis. Reports said Sarkis' plan envisages the replacement of Syrian troops with soldiers from an enlarged Saudi Arabian contingent at confrontation points along the battle-line dividing Christian and Moslem sections of Beirut.

"The plan guarantees adequate action to end clashes and future bloodshed, and it will also enable displaced persons to return to their homes," Butros said, without elaboration.

Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam of Syria told a news conference Monday his government is determined to end collaboration between the Christian militiamen and Israel.

School Funds Up To Solons

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The new "wealth" figures assigned to the Lubbock Independent School District could cost local taxpayers plenty, state officials admit. But they have told Superintendent Ed Irons not to worry — yet.

In a letter to the superintendent, the School Tax Assessment Practices Board said there is "every likelihood" that the 1979 legislature will adjust the figures before using them in the distribution of state public-education funds.

In fact, if the figures are adjusted, instead of losing state aid, Lubbock would realize a considerable increase in state monies, according to the STAPB letter.

The letter was in reply to objections filed by the Lubbock school system concerning STAPB findings on the size of the local district's taxable wealth. Lubbock officials say the figure set by the state agency is way too high because it includes intangible property.

State aid is distributed according to the state-determined values, with poor districts having more of their costs paid by the state than rich districts.

Lubbock always had been considered a poor district — until this year, when for the first time the state included intangible property, such as bank deposits and stocks, in computing each school system's theoretical taxable wealth.

Irons and other officials warn that if the STAPB figures are used in distributing state aid next year, Lubbock would suffer a multimillion-dollar loss, and local taxpayers would have to make up the difference.

The Texas Constitution now requires taxation of intangibles, but the mandate is almost universally ignored because local tax assessors have no way of finding out how much each resident has in the bank.

Irons said he received Monday a letter from the STAPB acknowledging the district's concerns. The state agency said the reason Lubbock's wealth appears so high is that the STAPB included estimates of intangible property and household goods in its figures.

"Although we realize that local taxing authorities do not have the ability to discover and tax some of the properties covered in our study, our agency was mandated by the legislature to develop values for all property, both real and personal, both tangible and intangible, in each district," the STAPB said.

"We do not have the authority to omit any category of property from our study. There is every likelihood, however, that the legislature will have this authority when it meets in January."

The legislature will get that authority if

Stock Mart Dips Again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened sharply lower today after recording its worst day in nearly four years.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down nearly nine points to 866.25 after the first half hour of trading. The decline appeared to be a continuation of the interest-rate worries that push the indicator down 21.92 on Monday to 875.17.

It was the Dow's largest loss since it fell 22.69 Nov. 18, 1974 in the final throes of the 1973-74 bear market.

Many investors seemed to be fearful of further increases soon in the bank prime lending rate, on top of last week's quarter-point increase to 10 percent.

Carter To Resume Role In Mideast Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter planned to personally re-enter the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks today at an afternoon meeeting with the leaders of the two delegations, White House sources said.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, cautioned that the meeting was not an indication that the talks were about to conclude. "This is not the end. Nearly a week has gone by since the talks started, and the president felt this was an appropriate time to have a meeting," one official said.

The sources said the Carter meeting also was not an indication that any serious problem has developed in the talks, which have been reported as making progress steadily since they began.

Carter, after welcoming the two delegations to Washington last week, left the work of chairing the sessions first to Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and then to Alfred L. Atherton, the administration's special envoy to the Middle East.

Legal and military experts from Egypt, Israel and the United States are into the drafting stage at the talks.

"All sides are very pleased. We have achieved just about as much as anyone could have predicted," State Department spokesman George Sherman said Monday. Sherman, official spokesman for the talks, refused to predict when a treaty might emerge.

The meetings Monday included one between Lt. Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, the Egyptian defense minister, and Israeli defense minister Ezer Weizman. Military experts were also involved in the drafting session.

The drafting was to continue today.

One of the major tasks involved in writing a treaty is the demarcation of three zones in the Sinai desert, which is to be returned to Egypt.

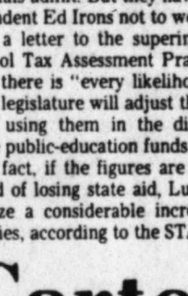

One would be a special boundary to keep Egyptian troops away from the Israeli border. Another would set the interim withdrawal point for Israeli troops. A third would establish a demilitarized zone near the Israeli border.

The talks held Monday were "informal" affairs at the downtown hotel where both delegations are staying.

Sherman said "side discussions" were continuing about the second part of the Camp David framework, the section involving the Palestinian refugees, the West Bank and the Gaza strip.

The treaty between Egypt and Israel technically does not involve those questions, but Sherman said the two sides were still trying to define the exact connection between progress on the treaty and progress on the West Bank and Gaza questions.

Singer Talks About Latest Book

WASHINGTON (AP) — Isaac Bashevis Singer says he's sure his parents wouldn't have approved of his latest book.

SINGER

Singer, the winner of this year's Nobel Prize for literature for his tales in Yiddish of the now-faded world of Jewish Warsaw, writes in "Shosha" of a rabbi's son who has affairs with three women at once and makes love to a friend's wife.

It is written in the earthy style typical of Singer's tales, which deal with love, sex and passion, both sensual and spiritual, and have been translated into English, Japanese, and even Finnish.

Asked in a recent interview whether he writes more to entertain his readers or for himself, the 74-year-old Singer's lively gray eyes sparkled as he replied:

"If you make love to a woman, and someone asks you, 'Why do you do it? Do you do it to satisfy her or to satisfy yourself?' the truth is that while you satisfy her, you satisfy yourself."

Singer, who chose not to become a rabbi as his grandfather and father had been, nevertheless feels that "without religion, man is not happy at all."

William O. Douglas Still Active

SEATTLE (AP) — Even though he's now an octogenerian, former U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas "goes to the office every day" and "sees a lot of people," his wife, Cathleen, says.

DOUGLAS

Douglas, the outspoken liberal famous for his opinions defending civil liberties, turned 80 on Monday.

He is "not as strong" as he once was, but writes every day in his office, said Mrs. Douglas, a land-use lawyer.

"All things considered, he's just fine. He goes to the office every day. He sees a lot of people, keeps up with a lot. ... People come to see him, to have tea or eat lunch," Mrs. Douglas said.

The second volume of his autobiography is nearly complete, but he is uncertain when to release book because it deals with people still alive, said his wife.

Douglas has needed medical care since a stroke Dec. 31, 1974, which put him in a wheelchair and led to his decision to resign the following November.

Protesters Greet Kennedy, Anderson

EVELETH, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, campaigning here for fellow-Democratic Sen. Wendell Anderson, ran into 100 angry protesters — some chanting "Judas, Judas" at Anderson.

The protest was over Anderson's stand on legislation affecting the use of motorboats in wilderness areas.

Police had to break a path through the crowd Monday so a car carrying Kennedy and Anderson could pass.

One woman was reported to have been injured in the melee, which started outside a motel where Kennedy spoke at a campaign rally for Anderson, the former governor who is running for his first full term. Three others were arrested for disorderly conduct, police said.

Mrs. King Praises Bill

ATLANTA (AP) — Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has hailed passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill as "a major policy achievement in the area of economic planning."

Mrs. King, who had lobbied intensively for the bill during the past week, denied Monday that it had been significantly "watered down by Congress" and accused those who made the charge of "not understanding the bill."

"There are people who say that the bill is only a symbolic bill," Mrs. King said. "It is much more than a symbolic bill. It was never intended to create jobs within the initial legislation, but to set policy to create jobs wherever they are needed.

The bill set a goal of reducing the national unemployment rate to 3 percent of the adult population by 1983.

Peter Frampton Wins Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Peter Frampton will have top billing over the Bee Gees rock group in the movie "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band," a state Supreme Court justice has ruled.

FRAMPTON

Justice Israel Rubin said Monday that Frampton's contract with the producers, the Stigwood Group, granted him "sole star billing" in the $12 million production.

The judge issued a temporary injunction barring producer Robert Stigwood from placing the name of the Bee Gees on the same line with Frampton's pending a trial.

The judge denied a similar request dealing with the record album featuring the sound track of the movie because that contract had different provisions.

Rubin added that he was aware of Stigwood's desire to capitalize on the Bee Gees' "sudden surge of popularity originating from the motion picture 'Saturday Night Fever.'" However, he said, Stigwood still had to honor its "contractual obligations" to Frampton.

Connally Eyes Campaign

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally says he's seriously considering seeking the presidential nomination in 1980 and adds that he's "not waiting for anyone."

CONNALLY

Connally made that comment at a Republican gathering here over the weekend when asked whether he was waiting for former President Ford to decide whether he would seek the GOP presidential nomination.

Connally, 61, said he would make his decision on a presidential race "early next year."

Connally now is a senior partner in a Houston law firm. He was a Democrat when he served as governor of Texas.

Don't Forget The Maps

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This city's new police chief, angry about his treatment when he first arrived as a tourist, has ordered his men to take a remedial lesson in what it's like to be a visitor.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Superintendent James Parsons, who came here from Birmingham, Ala., in June, said he spent his first few days incognito, walking around the French Quarter and generally getting to know the city.

But he found most beat cops uncooperative when asked for directions. Either they didn't know the answers, Parsons said, or "didn't want to take the time to fool with me."

As a result, two officers from the 140-person First District climb on tour buses each day to take the day-long ride around the city. They are there both to learn from the guides and to answer questions from tourists.

"I might get a couple of postcards," joked veteran officer Joe Cardella, a New Orleans native, as he climbed on one of the buses recently. "I feel like I'm somewhere I've never been before."

Middle-Class Students Eligible For Grants

By CHRIS CONNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) -Uncle Sam will be helping 1.5 million more college students pay their bills next fall, including some with family incomes up to $26,000.

In its final hours, Congress added $1.5 billion to the Basic Educational Opportunities Grant program to bring middle-income students into its net. This was President Carter's antidote to tuition tax credits.

The money, provided through the Middle Income Student Assistance Act, will sweeten the pot for low-income students while making those from families with incomes of $15,000 to $26,000 eligible for grants for the first time.

The grants will run from $200 to $1,800, up from this year's maximum of $1,600.

Here are congressional estimates of what the grants will be:

A family of four with one child in college and an income of $6,000 would get the maximum $1,800; a $1,676 grant for students from families with income of $8,000; a $1,500 grant at $10,000 income; $1,329 at $12,000; $1,158 at $14,000; $991 at $16,000; $827 at $18,000; $669 at $20,000; $511 at $22,000; $359 at $24,000, and $208 at $26,000.

The grants vary according to a family's assets and education costs. These estimates assume no unusual expenses and college costs of $3,600. A family with an income above $26,000 could qualify if it has several children and unusual expenses.

Carter originally proposed giving all students with family incomes between $16,000 and $25,000 a flat $250 grant, but Congress scrapped that idea early in the year.

The new aid will make all college students, regardless of wealth, eligible for guaranteed loans on which the government pays the interest while the student is in school.

Currently only students from families with less than $30,000 income are eligible for the interest subsidy, although all can get guaranteed loans.

An estimated 2.1 million college students are eligible this year for the basic grants, although more than a half-million have been denied them so far because of inconsistencies or omissions on their applications. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare tightened up its screening procedures this year to discourage fraud.

Carter proposed expanding HEW's existing student aid programs last February as efforts to pass tuition tax credits for both college and lower-grade tuition picked up steam in Congress. HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. advised him then in a secret memo, "We must act quickly if we are to seize the initiative on this very hot issue."

Califano maintained that tax credits for private elementary and secondary schools would be unconstitutional and also would undermine the public schools. Carter said all along he probably would veto a tax credit bill.

That veto threat apparently dissuaded the adjournment-minded lawmakers from passing both tax credits and increased aid for college students. Both the House and Senate passed tax credit bills, but the Senate version was for college tuition alone and conferees failed to resolve the differences.

The tax credits would have started at $100 this year and risen to $250 in two years.

Boosters of the plan to expand the basic grants have said the bill would mean the biggest single infusion of college aid for the middle class since the passage of the GI Bill after World War II.

Alaskan Court Scuttles Order

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The state Supreme Court has scuttled a lower court judge's order that ballots be printed immediately for a rerun of the state's photo-finish gubernatorial primary.

The court also delayed Monday oral arguments in the state's appeal of Superior Court Judge Ralph Moody's order overturning the Aug. 22 primary balloting for governor.

The high court said it would hear arguments Wednesday on the state's appeal and on petitions by former Republican Gov. Walter Hickel and former Democratic state Sen. Ed Merdes. Both men seek to overturn a recount of the primary ballots.

The recount certified Gov. Jay Hammond a 98-vote winner over Hickel in the Republican primary and gave state Sen. Chancy Croft a 260-vote victory over Merdes in the Democratic race.

The state won one round Monday when the court blocked immediate enforcement of Moody's order to print new ballots and election pamphlets. The state had argued the arrangements could cost $250,000.

But Hickel, a former U.S. secretary of the interior, prevailed in another motion when the high court refused a state plea to hear immediate arguments on a motion to count a batch of misplaced primary ballots.

The ballots, more than 200, turned up in September and never were tabulated. They were cited by Moody when he ordered the rerun primary election, saying unintentional malconduct by elections officials had cast doubt on the outcome of the primary.

Teamsters' President Subject Of Mismanagement Complaint

By OWEN ULLMANN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons is again the subject of a Labor Department complaint alleging financial mismanagement of a union employee benefit fund.

The Labor Department charged in a court suit Monday that Fitzsimmons and 15 other past or present trustees of the Central States Health and Welfare Fund violated their financial responsibilities by hiring a questionable claims processing firm for upwards of $20 million.

In a separate case last February, the government sued Fitzsimmons for losses due to alleged mismanagement and corruption involving the huge Central States Pension Fund.

The $1.5 billion pension fund and the health and welfare fund are administered by common trustees in Chicago.

The suit centers on multi-million dollar contracts awarded to businessman Allen M. Dorfman to handle claims filed by the health and welfare fund's 200,000 members.

Dorfman was convicted in 1972 of conspiring to accept a $55,000 kickback to arrange a loan from the Central States Pension Fund.

The department announced here that it went to U.S. District Court in Chicago to block the fund's trustees from renewing a three-year contract with Dorfman's Amalgamated Insurance Service Inc.

The department alleged that the fund's trustees planned to renew the contract on Wednesday for an amount reportedly in excess of $20 million.

According to the department's complaint, Amalgamated and three other Dorfman-run businesses collected $21.6 million in fees and commissions from the health and welfare fund between 1970 and 1975 to process claims and provide other insurance services. Dorfman's firms reportedly received millions more under a current contract, which expires next February.

The suit alleges that the trustees hired Amalgamated in violation of prudent standards required under the federal Employment Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA). The suit also contends that the trustees failed to maintain adequate safeguards to prevent improper claims processing by Amalgamated.

The department asked the court to appoint a temporary receiver to choose another claims-processing firm for the fund.

The department also wants trustees held personally liable for any fund losses that might have resulted because of their alleged mismanagement.

Last year, the health and welfare fund received $233 million in employer contributions and paid out $193 million in benefits.

Texas House Speaker Clayton Repeats Support Of Hance

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton predicted Monday that Kent Hance will be elected to represent the 19th District in Congress and repeated his support for the state senator's candidacy.

Clayton, from Springlake, said he expressed his "wholehearted support" for Hance over a year ago when Hance announced he would run for Congress, but felt a need to reiterate his endorsement.

"I think Kent Hance is going to be the next congressman and I'm for him," Clayton said.

"I know Kent has taken the posture of not asking people from outside the district to come in and help him in the campaign," he said, "so I feel privileged because I'm inside the district.

"He represents me now in the state senate and as 19th District congressman he would represent the entirety of my (house) district," Clayton said. "For that reason I feel I'm not an outsider coming in."

Clayton said Hance worked as an aide in his legislative office while in law school at the University of Texas.

As a state senator, Clayton said Hance "always would come to the aid of those who had problems or needed something in Austin.

"He always had the ear of the leadership of the senate," Clayton said, adding "it usually takes a young senator a good long while to get their feet on the ground and learn to operate within the system.

"For only one term in the state senate, that's most outstanding," he said.

Clayton also said he is supporting Hance because of his agricultural background. "I want to see someone in Congress who has a concern for the agricultural areas of this state, and particularly of this district.

"I know Kent Hance has this type of background and will work for programs in agriculture which certainly will be a boost to the economy of this entire area," he said.

Hance's Republican opponent, Midlander George Bush, did not escape comment by Clayton.

He noted recent contribution reports showed Hance collecting "approximately 90 percent of his contributions within the district from people who were concerned and knew the kind of guy he was."

In contrast, Clayton said Bush's report indicated only 35 percent of his contributions came from within the 19th District.

"To me that's saying something — it's saying we better slow down and take a look and see who's trying to run the 19th Congressional District.

"I'm proud Hance has raised most of his campaign contributions here within the district. This is good," he said.

"When money starts coming in from New York, it makes me start to wonder a little bit about the other candidate."

Clayton, once considered a possible candidate for George Mahon's congressional seat, urged voters to "weigh their choice of candidates carefully before they go to the polls Nov. 7.

"It's going to be hard to fill the shoes of George Mahon, but I think Kent's that kind of a man."

Anti-Busing Advocates Will Fight

If advocates of systemwide integration appeal the Lubbock school desegregation plan, anti-busing forces will be ready to counter with attorneys of their own, says the president of the local chapter of the National Association for Neighborhood Schools (NANS).

In fact, Dan Seale said NANS lawyers already are looking into possible legal action to reduce or eliminate existing court-ordered busing in the Lubbock Independent School District.

At a meeting of the Lubbock chapter Monday, Seale said NANS attorneys at the local and national levels are "analyzing Lubbock's court-order and busing program. We're trying to plot a plan of legal action...

"There may be loopholes" in the court order which anti-busing forces could "successfully challenge," he said.

Seale declined to go into detail, but he noted that other districts recently have had "some success" in getting U.S. Supreme Court justices to block busing temporarily.

Such legal action may be needed especially if the U.S. Justice Department or other pro-integration forces appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court to institute a comprehensive bus ing plan here, Seale said.

"If the Justice Department does not appeal, the Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools says it will appeal," he said. "CASS is not happy with busing 2,000 students, as under the present plan. They want to bus 30,000."

Earlier Monday, CASS filed a notice of appeal in the desegregation case. The group has not advocated any specific integration plan, but is pushing for a "systemwide" remedy. In contrast, the current plan leaves several schools still predominantly minority.

NANS of Lubbock, formerly called We the People, will be recruiting more members and "stay active in the local and national anti-busing movement," Seale said. To dramatize its opposition, the group may hold a "sick-out," with parents keeping their children home from school for a day, later this year, he said.

At Monday's meeting, the chapter discussed at length recent Internal Revenue Service proposals affecting private schools. Another meeting on those regulations will be held today at 7:30 p.m. at Trinity Church, 7002 Canton Ave.

Under the proposed regulations, IRS would revoke the tax-exempt status of predominantly white private schools unless they institute minority recruitment efforts, such as offering a "substantial" number of scholarships to minorities and using a "minority-oriented curriculum."

NANS members blasted the proposed regulations as an infringement on freedom of religion. They said the IRS is trying to close private schools.

Last Free Convict Caught In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The last of nine escaped convicts from Colorado has been apprehended in the Aleutian Island fishing town of Dutch Harbor, the FBI said.

David Lee Anderson, 40, was arrested on a fishing boat where he had been working as a cook, according to FBI special agent Simon Tullai. Anderson and eight others escaped Aug. 4 from the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canyon City.

Singer Talks About Latest Book

SINGER

Singer, the winner of this year's Nobel Prize for literature for his tales in Yiddish of the now-faded world of Jewish Warsaw, writes in "Shosha" of a rabbi's son who has affairs with three women at once and makes love to a friend's wife.

It is written in the earthy style typical of Singer's tales, which deal with love, sex and passion, both sensual and spiritual, and have been translated into English, Japanese, and even Finnish.

Asked in a recent interview whether he writes more to entertain his readers or for himself, the 74-year-old Singer's lively gray eyes sparkled as he replied:

"If you make love to a woman, and someone asks you, 'Why do you do it? Do you do it to satisfy her or to satisfy yourself?' the truth is that while you satisfy her, you satisfy yourself."

Singer, who chose not to become a rabbi as his grandfather and father had been, nevertheless feels that "without religion, man is not happy at all."

William O. Douglas Still Active

SEATTLE (AP) — Even though he's now an octogenerian, former U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas "goes to the office every day" and "sees a lot of people," his wife, Cathleen, says.

DOUGLAS

Douglas, the outspoken liberal famous for his opinions defending civil liberties, turned 80 on Monday.

He is "not as strong" as he once was, but writes every day in his office, said Mrs. Douglas, a land-use lawyer.

"All things considered, he's just fine. He goes to the office every day. He sees a lot of people, keeps up with a lot. ... People come to see him, to have tea or eat lunch," Mrs. Douglas said.

The second volume of his autobiography is nearly complete, but he is uncertain when to release book because it deals with people still alive, said his wife.

Douglas has needed medical care since a stroke Dec. 31, 1974, which put him in a wheelchair and led to his decision to resign the following November.

Protesters Greet Kennedy, Anderson

EVELETH, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, campaigning here for fellow-Democratic Sen. Wendell Anderson, ran into 100 angry protesters — some chanting "Judas, Judas" at Anderson.

The protest was over Anderson's stand on legislation affecting the use of motorboats in wilderness areas.

Police had to break a path through the crowd Monday so a car carrying Kennedy and Anderson could pass.

One woman was reported to have been injured in the melee, which started outside a motel where Kennedy spoke at a campaign rally for Anderson, the former governor who is running for his first full term. Three others were arrested for disorderly conduct, police said.

Mrs. King Praises Bill

ATLANTA (AP) — Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has hailed passage of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill as "a major policy achievement in the area of economic planning."

Mrs. King, who had lobbied intensively for the bill during the past week, denied Monday that it had been significantly "watered down by Congress" and accused those who made the charge of "not understanding the bill."

"There are people who say that the bill is only a symbolic bill," Mrs. King said. "It is much more than a symbolic bill. It was never intended to create jobs within the initial legislation, but to set policy to create jobs wherever they are needed.

The bill set a goal of reducing the national unemployment rate to 3 percent of the adult population by 1983.

Peter Frampton Wins Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Peter Frampton will have top billing over the Bee Gees rock group in the movie "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band," a state Supreme Court justice has ruled.

FRAMPTON

Justice Israel Rubin said Monday that Frampton's contract with the producers, the Stigwood Group, granted him "sole star billing" in the $12 million production.

The judge issued a temporary injunction barring producer Robert Stigwood from placing the name of the Bee Gees on the same line with Frampton's pending a trial.

The judge denied a similar request dealing with the record album featuring the sound track of the movie because that contract had different provisions.

Rubin added that he was aware of Stigwood's desire to capitalize on the Bee Gees' "sudden surge of popularity originating from the motion picture 'Saturday Night Fever.'" However, he said, Stigwood still had to honor its "contractual obligations" to Frampton.

Connally Eyes Campaign

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally says he's seriously considering seeking the presidential nomination in 1980 and adds that he's "not waiting for anyone."

CONNALLY

Connally made that comment at a Republican gathering here over the weekend when asked whether he was waiting for former President Ford to decide whether he would seek the GOP presidential nomination.

Connally, 61, said he would make his decision on a presidential race "early next year."

Connally now is a senior partner in a Houston law firm. He was a Democrat when he served as governor of Texas.

Don't Forget The Maps

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This city's new police chief, angry about his treatment when he first arrived as a tourist, has ordered his men to take a remedial lesson in what it's like to be a visitor.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Superintendent James Parsons, who came here from Birmingham, Ala., in June, said he spent his first few days incognito, walking around the French Quarter and generally getting to know the city.

But he found most beat cops uncooperative when asked for directions. Either they didn't know the answers, Parsons said, or "didn't want to take the time to fool with me."

As a result, two officers from the 140-person First District climb on tour buses each day to take the day-long ride around the city. They are there both to learn from the guides and to answer questions from tourists.

"I might get a couple of postcards," joked veteran officer Joe Cardella, a New Orleans native, as he climbed on one of the buses recently. "I feel like I'm somewhere I've never been before."

Middle-Class Students Eligible For Grants

By CHRIS CONNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) -Uncle Sam will be helping 1.5 million more college students pay their bills next fall, including some with family incomes up to $26,000.

In its final hours, Congress added $1.5 billion to the Basic Educational Opportunities Grant program to bring middle-income students into its net. This was President Carter's antidote to tuition tax credits.

The money, provided through the Middle Income Student Assistance Act, will sweeten the pot for low-income students while making those from families with incomes of $15,000 to $26,000 eligible for grants for the first time.

The grants will run from $200 to $1,800, up from this year's maximum of $1,600.

Here are congressional estimates of what the grants will be:

A family of four with one child in college and an income of $6,000 would get the maximum $1,800; a $1,676 grant for students from families with income of $8,000; a $1,500 grant at $10,000 income; $1,329 at $12,000; $1,158 at $14,000; $991 at $16,000; $827 at $18,000; $669 at $20,000; $511 at $22,000; $359 at $24,000, and $208 at $26,000.

The grants vary according to a family's assets and education costs. These estimates assume no unusual expenses and college costs of $3,600. A family with an income above $26,000 could qualify if it has several children and unusual expenses.

Carter originally proposed giving all students with family incomes between $16,000 and $25,000 a flat $250 grant, but Congress scrapped that idea early in the year.

The new aid will make all college students, regardless of wealth, eligible for guaranteed loans on which the government pays the interest while the student is in school.

Currently only students from families with less than $30,000 income are eligible for the interest subsidy, although all can get guaranteed loans.

An estimated 2.1 million college students are eligible this year for the basic grants, although more than a half-million have been denied them so far because of inconsistencies or omissions on their applications. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare tightened up its screening procedures this year to discourage fraud.

Carter proposed expanding HEW's existing student aid programs last February as efforts to pass tuition tax credits for both college and lower-grade tuition picked up steam in Congress. HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. advised him then in a secret memo, "We must act quickly if we are to seize the initiative on this very hot issue."

Califano maintained that tax credits for private elementary and secondary schools would be unconstitutional and also would undermine the public schools. Carter said all along he probably would veto a tax credit bill.

That veto threat apparently dissuaded the adjournment-minded lawmakers from passing both tax credits and increased aid for college students. Both the House and Senate passed tax credit bills, but the Senate version was for college tuition alone and conferees failed to resolve the differences.

The tax credits would have started at $100 this year and risen to $250 in two years.

Boosters of the plan to expand the basic grants have said the bill would mean the biggest single infusion of college aid for the middle class since the passage of the GI Bill after World War II.

Alaskan Court Scuttles Order

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The state Supreme Court has scuttled a lower court judge's order that ballots be printed immediately for a rerun of the state's photo-finish gubernatorial primary.

The court also delayed Monday oral arguments in the state's appeal of Superior Court Judge Ralph Moody's order overturning the Aug. 22 primary balloting for governor.

The high court said it would hear arguments Wednesday on the state's appeal and on petitions by former Republican Gov. Walter Hickel and former Democratic state Sen. Ed Merdes. Both men seek to overturn a recount of the primary ballots.

The recount certified Gov. Jay Hammond a 98-vote winner over Hickel in the Republican primary and gave state Sen. Chancy Croft a 260-vote victory over Merdes in the Democratic race.

The state won one round Monday when the court blocked immediate enforcement of Moody's order to print new ballots and election pamphlets. The state had argued the arrangements could cost $250,000.

But Hickel, a former U.S. secretary of the interior, prevailed in another motion when the high court refused a state plea to hear immediate arguments on a motion to count a batch of misplaced primary ballots.

The ballots, more than 200, turned up in September and never were tabulated. They were cited by Moody when he ordered the rerun primary election, saying unintentional malconduct by elections officials had cast doubt on the outcome of the primary.

Teamsters' President Subject Of Mismanagement Complaint

By OWEN ULLMANN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons is again the subject of a Labor Department complaint alleging financial mismanagement of a union employee benefit fund.

The Labor Department charged in a court suit Monday that Fitzsimmons and 15 other past or present trustees of the Central States Health and Welfare Fund violated their financial responsibilities by hiring a questionable claims processing firm for upwards of $20 million.

In a separate case last February, the government sued Fitzsimmons for losses due to alleged mismanagement and corruption involving the huge Central States Pension Fund.

The $1.5 billion pension fund and the health and welfare fund are administered by common trustees in Chicago.

The suit centers on multi-million dollar contracts awarded to businessman Allen M. Dorfman to handle claims filed by the health and welfare fund's 200,000 members.

Dorfman was convicted in 1972 of conspiring to accept a $55,000 kickback to arrange a loan from the Central States Pension Fund.

The department announced here that it went to U.S. District Court in Chicago to block the fund's trustees from renewing a three-year contract with Dorfman's Amalgamated Insurance Service Inc.

The department alleged that the fund's trustees planned to renew the contract on Wednesday for an amount reportedly in excess of $20 million.

According to the department's complaint, Amalgamated and three other Dorfman-run businesses collected $21.6 million in fees and commissions from the health and welfare fund between 1970 and 1975 to process claims and provide other insurance services. Dorfman's firms reportedly received millions more under a current contract, which expires next February.

The suit alleges that the trustees hired Amalgamated in violation of prudent standards required under the federal Employment Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA). The suit also contends that the trustees failed to maintain adequate safeguards to prevent improper claims processing by Amalgamated.

The department asked the court to appoint a temporary receiver to choose another claims-processing firm for the fund.

The department also wants trustees held personally liable for any fund losses that might have resulted because of their alleged mismanagement.

Last year, the health and welfare fund received $233 million in employer contributions and paid out $193 million in benefits.

Texas House Speaker Clayton Repeats Support Of Hance

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton predicted Monday that Kent Hance will be elected to represent the 19th District in Congress and repeated his support for the state senator's candidacy.

Clayton, from Springlake, said he expressed his "wholehearted support" for Hance over a year ago when Hance announced he would run for Congress, but felt a need to reiterate his endorsement.

"I think Kent Hance is going to be the next congressman and I'm for him," Clayton said.

"I know Kent has taken the posture of not asking people from outside the district to come in and help him in the campaign," he said, "so I feel privileged because I'm inside the district.

"He represents me now in the state senate and as 19th District congressman he would represent the entirety of my (house) district," Clayton said. "For that reason I feel I'm not an outsider coming in."

Clayton said Hance worked as an aide in his legislative office while in law school at the University of Texas.

As a state senator, Clayton said Hance "always would come to the aid of those who had problems or needed something in Austin.

"He always had the ear of the leadership of the senate," Clayton said, adding "it usually takes a young senator a good long while to get their feet on the ground and learn to operate within the system.

"For only one term in the state senate, that's most outstanding," he said.

Clayton also said he is supporting Hance because of his agricultural background. "I want to see someone in Congress who has a concern for the agricultural areas of this state, and particularly of this district.

"I know Kent Hance has this type of background and will work for programs in agriculture which certainly will be a boost to the economy of this entire area," he said.

Hance's Republican opponent, Midlander George Bush, did not escape comment by Clayton.

He noted recent contribution reports showed Hance collecting "approximately 90 percent of his contributions within the district from people who were concerned and knew the kind of guy he was."

In contrast, Clayton said Bush's report indicated only 35 percent of his contributions came from within the 19th District.

"To me that's saying something — it's saying we better slow down and take a look and see who's trying to run the 19th Congressional District.

"I'm proud Hance has raised most of his campaign contributions here within the district. This is good," he said.

"When money starts coming in from New York, it makes me start to wonder a little bit about the other candidate."

Clayton, once considered a possible candidate for George Mahon's congressional seat, urged voters to "weigh their choice of candidates carefully before they go to the polls Nov. 7.

"It's going to be hard to fill the shoes of George Mahon, but I think Kent's that kind of a man."

Anti-Busing Advocates Will Fight

If advocates of systemwide integration appeal the Lubbock school desegregation plan, anti-busing forces will be ready to counter with attorneys of their own, says the president of the local chapter of the National Association for Neighborhood Schools (NANS).

In fact, Dan Seale said NANS lawyers already are looking into possible legal action to reduce or eliminate existing court-ordered busing in the Lubbock Independent School District.

At a meeting of the Lubbock chapter Monday, Seale said NANS attorneys at the local and national levels are "analyzing Lubbock's court-order and busing program. We're trying to plot a plan of legal action...

"There may be loopholes" in the court order which anti-busing forces could "successfully challenge," he said.

Seale declined to go into detail, but he noted that other districts recently have had "some success" in getting U.S. Supreme Court justices to block busing temporarily.

Such legal action may be needed especially if the U.S. Justice Department or other pro-integration forces appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court to institute a comprehensive bus ing plan here, Seale said.

"If the Justice Department does not appeal, the Citizens' Alliance for Successful Schools says it will appeal," he said. "CASS is not happy with busing 2,000 students, as under the present plan. They want to bus 30,000."

Earlier Monday, CASS filed a notice of appeal in the desegregation case. The group has not advocated any specific integration plan, but is pushing for a "systemwide" remedy. In contrast, the current plan leaves several schools still predominantly minority.

NANS of Lubbock, formerly called We the People, will be recruiting more members and "stay active in the local and national anti-busing movement," Seale said. To dramatize its opposition, the group may hold a "sick-out," with parents keeping their children home from school for a day, later this year, he said.

At Monday's meeting, the chapter discussed at length recent Internal Revenue Service proposals affecting private schools. Another meeting on those regulations will be held today at 7:30 p.m. at Trinity Church, 7002 Canton Ave.

Under the proposed regulations, IRS would revoke the tax-exempt status of predominantly white private schools unless they institute minority recruitment efforts, such as offering a "substantial" number of scholarships to minorities and using a "minority-oriented curriculum."

NANS members blasted the proposed regulations as an infringement on freedom of religion. They said the IRS is trying to close private schools.

Last Free Convict Caught In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The last of nine escaped convicts from Colorado has been apprehended in the Aleutian Island fishing town of Dutch Harbor, the FBI said.

David Lee Anderson, 40, was arrested on a fishing boat where he had been working as a cook, according to FBI special agent Simon Tullai. Anderson and eight others escaped Aug. 4 from the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canyon City.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

U.S.--Third and Long?

IF THIS IS October, it must be football season. Or so the saying goes. And indeed it is.

But it also is the climax of the baseball season, the start of the basketball season and the hockey season all rolled up in one.

The past week, all four major sports have been in action at the same time.

And while spectator interest in professional sports has played a major role in the overlapping of the seasons, television money also has made its voice heard.

To justify their demands for more money from the networks, pro-sports leagues have expanded their regular and post-season schedules.

MORE PRO football games will be telecast this season than ever before, mainly because the regular season has been expanded from 14 to 16 games.

The addition of a second wild card team in each of the league's two conferences will result in two more playoff contests prior to the Super Bowl.

None of this takes into consideration the numerous college football and basketball games.

Nor does it address itself to the huge sums of money involved. Such funds not only help keep pro sports alive and healthy, but play a major role in the athletic well-being of numerous colleges and their conferences.

The big point here is two-fold: 1. Are we in danger of over-exposure to athletics, especially pro-football to the extent that fans may start being turned off by so much of it? ; and 2. Are we as a nation over-emphasizing sports to the detriment of more serious pursuits?

NO ONE ARGUES the right of anyone to lounge in front of a television set with the necessary refreshments.

We enjoy a cliff-hanger as much as the next person.

However, without getting involved in the "football widow" argument, on a serious note we would hope that many of those who live and die with their favorite teams realize that they should give perhaps equal attention to some more serious "programs."

If we are to continue to enjoy sports, we must turn around a lot of other "games," from what is happening in Congress to the Statehouse.

It would be sad indeed if this nation repeated the mistakes of history, especially the Romans who worried more about the "games" than what was happening in the legislative halls.

ONE OF THE reasons given for combining the offices of the county attorney and the district attorney several years ago was to concentrate all bad check cases into one office.

Only way to have efficiency, it was said. Save manpower. Have uniform prosecution. Coordinate cases so the offender writing both misdemeanor (small amounts) and felony hot checks would be less likely to escape punishment.

So now, thanks to a squabble between one justice of the peace and the County Commissioners Court, we learn that the JP courts are into the check collection business in a big way.

Whatever happened to all of that centralization that was going to serve the public better and save the taxpayers money?

Questions also are being raised as to (1) whether any county office should be used as a collection agency as opposed to prosecuting and trying alleged offenders and (2) whether a court, in any event, should be the office processing and/or prosecuting cases.

A GOOD ARGUMENT can be made that if a merchant wants to collect on the bad checks he takes in, he should either do it with his own personnel or turn it over to a private collection agency which will do the work for a fee.

If, on the other hand, he wants to file charges and send an offender to jail or have him fined, then he should go to a public prosecutor which, in Lubbock County, is the criminal district attorney's office.

But why should a JP office have a staff of secretaries to process and collect bad checks? Is the power of the JP to fine and/or jail a hot check artist subject to abuse by using it to harass or intimidate an alleged offender into "making good" on a check? Should the judge also be the prosecutor?

THESE ARE AMONG the questions the Commissioners need to address in deciding whether the JP and district attorney's offices are overstaffed or under-staffed or whether overlapping duties need to be combined or maybe even eliminated in some instances.

At first glance, pay and staffing at the courthouse appear to be on the low side, but there's a nagging question on the Commissioners' minds: Is existing personnel being used efficiently?

It's a good question.

Holmes Alexander:

Ambition Is A Harsh Mistress

WASHINGTON—"The worst moment of my life was when I discovered that I had cancer," the late Hubert Humphrey is quoted in his biography, "Undefeated." (Lerner Publications) by Dan Cohen.

The next worst moment must have been when he told his wife Muriel about it: "It was a beautiful evening by our lake home...I suggested we take a walk across the fields and I told her."

"We'll work it out together," Muriel answered.

It is a matter-of-fact book that is also a history of America from the 1930s when the South Dakota prairies were so choked with dust that school children disappeared beneath it as if it were a sea composed of blowing sod.

ONE SPEAKS well of the dead, and the fault to find is not in Humphrey himself, but only to find blame in Humphrey's profession—politics—which has dismally failed at bringing us the sort of democratic republic that seemed possible for us.

It is the travesty of our second century as a country that, as Humphrey said in effect, it is virtually impossible to win the office once held by Washington and Lincoln without buying it.

Cohen, the Republican author of this book and no Humphrey stooge, lays on the line the illegal campaign contributions, the fact that two of Humphrey's aides have been guilty of corruption and much else that does his memory no credit.

I WAS ALREADY a Washington newsman when Humphrey came as senator in 1949, and I had heard his rousing speech to the Chicago Democratic Convention in '48, and came to know and like him well.

But I think that if one single factor has primarily guided the nation's deline, it is the malaise suffered by Humphrey and most of his political generation—presidential ambition.

Bribing the American people with their own treasure, building the top-heavy Welfare State bureaucracy, has become the business of all politicians, with rare exceptions such as Barry Goldwater.

Recently, Jimmy Carter found it advantageous to pitch his campaign against Big Government—and it's going to take bloodless but popular revolt, as in Proposition 13 and other protests, to keep Carter honest to his pledges...if it can be done.

Over the same weekend that I read the Humphrey biography, I read one about Max Perkins, the legendary editor of Scribners, who shepherded a whole generation of interpretive U.S. authors: Wolfe, Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Douglas Freeman and a list too long to name.

Linkage between these writers, as A. Scott Berg and his publisher (Dutton) set before us is the ambition for fame. Topflight authors under Perkins make political ambition seem ignoble, shallow and fleeting.

How many Presidential candidates held the mirror up for us to see human courage and intellectual curiosity as these writers did?

If Dr. Freeman's portrait of Lee, if Hemingway's "grace under pressure," is not more inspiring than the Hubert Humphrey Building, which houses HEW, then I have not understood at all.

In an article for The Carolina Magazine, Max Perkins spoke concerning the other ambition—the intellectual endeavor:

"It was not due to ambition in the cheap sense," writes Perkins of Wolfe's compulsion to picture America by its sounds, smells, inner life and motions, "and it was not what is generally meant by egotism. He was under the compulsion of genius..." to explain our nation.

Not many politicians have much compulsion beyond egotism.

Home's Higher Value Earns Tax-Free Cash

Seventh of 10 columns

YOUR HOME (or your parents' or child's) probably is worth tens of thousands of dollars more today than when it was bought.

If you or other members of your family are planning to buy a new home, there's a way to turn that gain in value into:

* Tax-free cash. For you can sell your present home at a big profit, buy a new home, pocket a bundle of cash—and pay not one penny in taxes. It's all because of an often misunderstood feature of a:

* Classic tax break. The basic sale-and-replacement break is that you may not have to pay any current tax on the profit from home sale—as long as you spend as much for your new home as you received for your old.

What's overlooked is that it's the purchase price of your new home that counts—not the amount of cash you put into it.

IN SUM, YOU do not have to roll over all the actual cash proceeds from the home sale into your new home to get tax-free treatment.

You can finance your new home with a mortgage that's bigger than your old mortgage and wind up with cash in pocket—completely tax-free.

For instance, say you bought your home for $40,000 some years ago and financed it with a mortgage which has now been reduced to $5,000. You sell your home for $100,000 cash and buy a more expensive one, putting down $20,000 cash and again, financing the balance.

The result is that you wind up with 75,000 cash (the $95,000 you net after paying off the old mortgage, minus the $20,000 down payment on the new house). And you don't owe any tax on that $75,000.

Q. BUT I'LL HAVE a big mortgage on my new home. I don't mind a big mortgage, but how will I benefit?

A. By freeing up the extra cash, you're using the same leverage technique that astute real estate investors have been using for years, explains Prentice-Hall.

Instead of freezing the money in a new home, you can put it to work earning more dollars for you in other investments or in your business.

Caution: To qualify for the sale-and-replacement, your new home must cost as much as you received for your old one.

BUT THE TAX law imposes two additional requirements:

(1) Both the home you buy and the home you sell must be your "principal residences." Condominiums and co-op apartments qualify—but vacation homes do not.

(2) You must buy and move into your new home within 18 months before or after the sale of your old home.

A drawback here is that you must move into your new home within 18 months of the sale of your old home and you can use the tax-free rollover break only once in any 18-month period.

This second restriction—only one rollover per 18-month period—can cause a problem and will be corrected by the 1978 tax law.

As an illustration, Bill Blake, an employe of XYZ Corp., bought a home in Chicago in 1969 for $40,000. In October 1977, he sold his old house for $75,000 and bought a new home for $90,000.

In September 1978, XYZ Corp. transferred Blake to Dallas. He sold his new home for $100,000 and bought another in Dallas for $100,000. Under today's law, Blake owes no tax on the 1977 home sale, for he qualified for the tax-free rollover break.

But he does owe a tax on the profit from the 1978 sale, because it's the second sale in 18 months. A new tax break is on the way, though.

UNDER THE NEW tax law, both of Blake's sales would be tax-free, for the law would exempt employes from the one-rollover-per-18-months limit if his home sale and purchase were dictated by his job.

Thus, Blake would pay no tax on his September 1978 home sale profit as well as no tax on his 1977 home sale profit.

If you're among the millions considering home sales and purchases related to your job—and you can prove the moves are job-dictated—the timing of this provision in the new law can be critical in your tax-savings strategy.

Tomorrow: How to write off the cost of household help.

James J. Kilpatrick:

It Is The 'Mix' That Matters

WASHINGTON—Some good may yet emerge from last month's tragedy at San Diego.

The midair collision that left 150 dead may compel a sober re-examination of the "mix" at major airports, and it probably will accelerate technology to prevent a recurrence.

At the moment, the best advice is to keep San Diego in perspective. Statistically speaking, it is still 33 times safer to fly in a scheduled airliner than it is to ride into town in a taxi.

The major carriers will haul 280 million passengers this year, and all but a tiny fraction of them will land with nothing more serious than an occasional hiccup.

IT IS A good time, also, for keeping "general aviation" in perspective. The term identifies the 178,304 aircraft now registered with the Federal Aviation Administration as privately or corporately owned.

Of these, about 12,000 are pure jets or prop jets. The number of privately owned aircraft increases by 8 to 10 percent a year, and many of these planes are superbly equipped with safety and communications equipment.

The planes in general aviation have every right to fly. Emotional demands to ban them altogether from every airport used by a commercial carrier cannot be sustained.

But just as trucks are banned from Washington's beautiful George Washington Parkway, it is altogether reasonable to impose sensible restrictions upon the private aircraft owners.

The safety of those 280 million passengers has to come ahead of the convenience of the private pilots. On that point there can be no doubt whatever.

IT IS THE "mix" that matters. Even at so busy an airport as Washington National, controlled private planes can be fed into the pattern of commercial takeoffs and landings without great risk.

The danger arises when the 144,000 single-engined planes, often flying without ground control, flutter into the airspace of the giant airliners. Near misses are constantly reported.

The FAA acknowledged 296 mistakes last year that almost resulted in collisions.

As both private and commercial traffic increases, the risks are bound to mount also. Congress and the FAA can take a number of steps to make flying safer for everyone.

FIRST OFF, AT a number of major airports—and San Diego's Lindbergh Field tops the list—much tighter restrictions must be imposed upon training flights and upon private aviation generally.

It is sheer lunacy, as last month's fatal collision demonstrated, to let students practice instrument touch-and-goes at a time when scheduled carriers are using an airport.

Second, tax funds will have to be appropriated to develop reliever airports and to beef up computer technology at major fields. One of the problems is that the number of fields accessible to private aircraft is declining.

U.S. News reports that many small airports are being sold to land developers. Over the past 30 years, Los Angeles County has lost 37 of the 55 fields that once served general aviation.

We are talking about a lot of money to buy land, to build runways, and to manage operations, but we are also talking in terms of life or death.

THIRD, IT IS imperative that FAA redouble its efforts to get improved technology into operation.

Collision avoidance systems, operating electronically according to split-second decisions fed through computers, can be developed and installed. Engineers already know how to construct an automatic traffic resolution system coupled to sophisticated ground radar.

What is needed is leadership—leadership and money.

The San Diego collision never should have happened. It is immaterial whether the student pilot and his instructor were at fault, or whether the airliner was at fault. They never should have been in the same airspace.

Just as we keep baby carriages off freeways, we must separate traffic at our airports—steps toward that end must be taken now.

Brighter Side...

At lunch the other day, a banker-turned-business broker was reminded of an exchange he'd once had with a waitress in a restaurant.

As she placed his plate before him, he said courteously: "Pardon me, miss, but why do you have your thumb on top of my steak?"

"Well," she explained, "I certainly don't want to drop it on the floor again!"

District Charges Hospital With Wage War Tactics

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock County Hospital District, which usually is defending itself against such charges, Monday accused the city's largest private hospital of trying to trigger a wage war in the recruitment of nurses.

District officials said they are losing employees to Methodist Hospital because Methodist now pays its night-shift registered nurses a $250 monthly bonus. The district's own Health Sciences Center Hospital provides only an extra $150 to night nurses.

"I can't see why Methodist should get by with this kind of thing," Joe Stanley, a member of the hospital district's board of managers, said of Methodist's decision to raise its shift differentials.

Stanley said Methodist administrators "had gotten the message across to the rest of the community that we (the hospital district) had been rupturing the salary schedules" for local hospitals. The district repeatedly has denied such allegations by private hospitals.

The recent pay raise by Methodist "puts the shoe on the other foot. Somebody should blow the whistle on them," Stanley said.

District officials said Methodist and the Health Sciences Center Hospital had been comparable in nurses' benefits until Methodist increased its shift differentials a few weeks ago.

"That does provide difficulty for us to recruit," said Gerald Bosworth, executive director of the district and its hospital. "It is difficult to understand" why Methodist would adopt such a "very high night bonus."

Bosworth said that according to a survey by the hospital district, Methodist's $250 nightside bonus may well be the highest in Texas. He said the district's teaching hospital already has lost one nurse to Methodist due to higher pay there.

Competition from Methodist will make it harder for the teaching hospital to fill the approximately 100 nurse positions needed to fully open the district's new facility, district officials said.

Added Bosworth: "The longer it takes us to open this hospital, the less favorable financial position we will be in." He explained that with more nurses, more beds can be made available — and more patient revenues will be brought in.

Nevertheless, Bosworth does not intend to try to match Methodist's shift differentials. "I don't think it's reasonable for this hospital" to offer such large bonuses, he said.

Besides extra pay for registered nurses, Methodist has increased to $180 its monthly bonus for nightside licensed vocational nurses, Bosworth said. In contrast, the hospital district offers only $110.

A spokesman for Methodist Hospital said the new shift differentials "are not out of line. These positions (night shifts) are the most difficult to fill. We had to raise the incentive" by offering more money.

The spokesman also said the increased bonuses were needed to "meet the competition" resulting from additional nurses' benefits granted by the hospital district in August. "They (district officials) were the ones who raised the ante first," he said.

Over the protest of private hospitals, the district two months ago increased its nurses' salaries five percent and adopted new fringe benefits. At the time, the district justified the extra compensation by citing salaries elsewhere (including at Methodist) and the district's recruitment needs.

Also at Monday's hospital board meeting, Bosworth said the district hopes to move one of its Emergency Medical Services (EMS) stations farther southwest to reduce the time required to answer calls in that part of the city.

"We have the same problem the fire department has," Bosworth said. "We need an EMS station somewhere in the vicinity of 50th Street and Slide Road. Our response time in that part of the city is more than in other parts of the city."

Currently there are three EMS stations in Lubbock. Station 1 is at West Texas Hospital, 1401 Ninth St.; Station 2 is at the Health Sciences Center Hospital, 602 Indiana Ave.; and Station 3 is in a rented building at Avenue Q and 48th Street.

With the existing alignment of stations, it takes two to three minutes longer for EMS to answer emergency calls in southwest Lubbock, EMS officials estimate. Bosworth said an analysis of response times may be ready for consideration by the board next month.

Bosworth said the data will support proposed relocation of Station 3 to the southwest section. Because of the high cost for renting facilities there, the district hopes to use publicly owned land.

Fuel Hikes Predicted In Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — In the next 10 to 15 years, Louisiana residents will see their fuel rates rise to among the highest in the nation, a consultant for Gulf States Utilities says.

And a $43.8 million rate hike now will help cut the blow of future increases, Dr. David Johnson told the Louisiana Public Service Commission Monday.

"Louisiana used to be one of the lowest states in terms of rates when fuel was cheap," Johnson said. "By the late 1980s or early 1990s, Louisiana probably will be one of the 10 highest."

Dramatic increases in the cost of natural gas, which has been used to fuel electric generators in the state, are pushing up the cost of electricity.

Low-cost energy is a thing of the past, Johnson said, and it's better to raise rates gradually than to hit consumers with a massive increase.

GSU wants permission to raise its rates now to help pay the interest cost of borrowing money to build a nuclear power plant scheduled for completion in 1985.

If the company can get enough of a rate increase to pay the interest on construction loans now, consumers will save on a long range basis, said Johnson.

If GSU has to wait a few more years, the cost of construction will go up and the cost of borrowing money will go up, he said.

Louis Lambert, chairman of the PSC, told reporters the commission would not make a decision on the request until sometime in December.

The series of hearings will continue through Wednesday.

Registration Drive Launched By Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hemophilia Foundation has started a drive to locate and register all American hemophiliacs, launching the nation's first national hemophilia registry.

The registry is expected to provide for the first time information about how many hemophiliacs there are in the United States and where, what kind of care they are getting and how much it costs.

The foundation describes hemophilia as a congenital blood clotting disorder which results from a hereditary defect in the blood's clotting mechanism.

Suspects Arrested In Police Assault

Three more suspects were arrested this morning in connection with the aggravated assaults Monday afternoon on two city police officers working as security guards at the South Plains Mall.

The arrests were made without resistance about 9:30 a.m. today at a house in the 1900-block of E. 16th Street.

Police Information Officer Bill Morgan said the 20-year-suspect believed to have been driving the car which struck officers Ernest Rendleman, 32, and Linda Clinton, 30, was found hiding in the attic of the house.

Morgan said police, who first thought only a man and woman were involved in the 2 p.m. incident, have learned that a third woman apparently was in the car when it struck the officers. That 19-year-old suspect also was arrested at the house this morning.

A 19-year-old man was taken into custody on suspicion of harboring fugitives, Morgan said. The three suspects, all black, were being questioned by detectives early today.

Another 25-year-old woman remained in the county jail today after being arrested at the mall soon after the officers were injured.

Police said the incident began when the women were seen shoplifting at Dillard's Department Store and the two officers attempted to subdue them outside the mall.

Miss Clinton and Rendleman were taken to Methodist Hospital where they were treated and released. However, Rendleman was re-admitted to the hospital after experiencing chest pains. A police spokesman said Rendleman may be suffering from broken ribs.

Bill Morgan said Miss Clinton had observed a woman taking a dress from the Dillard's Department Store without paying for it.

Miss Clinton followed the woman outside and attempted to take her into custody when the woman began hitting her with a shoe, Morgan said.

Rendleman, who had just finished his lunch break, saw the two women struggling in the parking lot. He ran over to help Miss Clinton prevent the woman from getting into a car driven by a male companion.

Apparently in the struggle, Clinton was knocked down and the car ran over her right hand, Morgan said. When Rendleman attempted to grab the keys from the car's ignition, his left ankle was run over.

After injuring the two officers, the driver and two female suspects dashed from the car and headed through Dillard's Department Store, reports indicated.

The driver was described as a tall, thin black man with his hair done in tight-plaited rows. He was wearing a red paisley shirt and blue pants.

Champ Gets Upper Hand In Chess Title Game

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — Soviet chess champion Anatoly Karpov attacked challenger Viktor Korchnoi in a sudden death title game today and emerged with a clear winning position that could allow him to retain his title and take home $471,500 in prize money.

The two men adjourned the game after 40 moves and although Karpov had only a one-pawn advantage he had pushed Korchnoi into a corner. Experts said Karpov, who played white, had an excellent chance of winning.

"I don't like this one bit," Korchnoi's chief second, Raymond Keene, said.

The two men are tied 5-5 and the next man to win a game is the champion. Korchoi has fought back from a 5-2 disadvantage.

Korchnoi sealed his 41st move after blitzing his way to the first time control, making 12 moves in six minutes. Play resumes Wednesday.

Michael Stean, like Keene a Briton, said earlier he thought Korchnoi might have to resign the game before adjournment.

The two players and aides were to go into all-night session to try to find — for Karpov — a clearly winning line and — for Korchnoi — hopes for a draw.

Karpov's 30-man delegation attacked Korchnoi head-on at the World Chess Federation jury meeting, and succeeded in stripping the challenger of his American gurus.

Then at the game itself, they put their alleged mindbender back in the front rows of the playing hall, openly violating an earlier agreement to make him sit in the back.

The game opened in a Pirc Defense, with Karpov, clad in an electric blue suit and looking very serious, playing his king and queen pawns to the fourth squares on his first two moves.

Korchnoi, in the same brown suit he wore to win last week's 31st game, moved his queen's pawn ahead two squares to open, then countered the second move of his opponent by shifting his king's knight to the bishop file.

It was the first Pirc game the two had played. Korchnoi aides had promised innovations for each game after the 28th.

Aides to the challenger lost a world chess federation jury fight to a Russian protest about Korchnoi's Ananda Marga sect gurus.

The jury ordered the Americans out of Baguio mountain resort and censured the two who were convicted of attempted murder last May but who are free on bond while appealing.

Korchnoi second Michael Stean said the Korchnoi team had managed to keep news of the setback from the challenger.

As the game began, pro-Karpov thought transferral expert Vladimir Zoukhar took a seat in the fourth row of the audience and began what appeared to be heavy concentration of the game.

The brown-suited Zoukhar, who Korchnoi earlier accused of trying to influence the match by long-range hypnosis, sat with his eyes covered by his hands, motionless in apparent deep thought.

Korchnoi did not appear to notice the Russian doctor, who had last month agreed and kept his promise until today to remain in Russian delegation seats more than 15 rows back from the playing hall stage.

Here is a move-by-move account of today's game:

Tax Protesters Stirred By DJ

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Disc jockey "Cuzzin" Dave Williford says it was only an "off-handed comment" when he told listeners he was going to City Hall to complain about higher property taxes.

When he arrived at city offices Monday, 4,000 angry protesters were waiting.

"Needless to say, I was a little amazed. I was shaken," said Williford, who was substituting on a Saturday talk show when he suggested listeners take their gripes to city officials. "I expected maybe 100 people."

The crowd, angered by the city's first property re-evaluation in 50 years, mobbed downtown New Bedford for four hours, crawled up scaffolding around City Hall, and even climbed onto the mayor's black Cadillac to wave signs reading, "Don't Pay Taxes!"

One man was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Another was picked up at the scene on motor vehicle violations.

"This is one of the first battles in the tax revolt," said Mayor John Markey.

"I don't know how to stop the spending," he said. "I sort of welcome their becoming involved but not on such an emotional basis."

Markey ordered the building evacuated as a safety precaution three hours after sign-waving demonstrators appeared. But the crowd wouldn't leave until Markey spoke to them. When he appeared, they booed.

"No one is more concerned about taxes than I am," he told the crowd from a second-story window. "If they want to cut services, there are no services to cut. You can't take off the police, you can't take off the firemen, you can't stop picking up the trash."

Property taxes have been an emotional issue in New Bedford, particularly to members of the old seaport's Portuguese community. Assessments for about 13,000 properties have been raised — some going from $400 to $4,000 — including some in the Portuguese community.

After tax bills were mailed out Wednesday, listeners called into Williford's show on WBSM to complain about "windshield evaluation," charging that the city's three elected assessors did much of their work from their cars.

Williford, a country music disc jockey, suggested a "quiet, peaceful" march.

Similar suggestions were made on a "Hot Line" program Sunday night on WJDF, a Portuguese-language station.

"Many of our callers have only been in this country a few years and are not aware of the intricacies and inequities of the tax system," said Alvero Antonio, WJDF program director. "Many of those hardest hit were immigrants who bought rundown tenaments and fixed them up."

New Bedford, a city of 100,000 residents, is the largest fishing port on the East Coast.

Williford, whose taxes "went up a few dollars," said he hoped city officials had gotten the message.

"Instead of politicans always promising to give me something, I would like them to promise they won't take anything else away," he said.

Police Car Stolen By Prisoners

DALLAS (AP) -Two Dallas men, proving that the impossible sometimes can be accomplished with the flick of a wrist, sped away in a Dallas police car while handcuffed Monday evening, leaving red-faced officers to give chase in a small foreign pick-up truck that belonged to one of the suspects.

It all began, police said, when Officers Leslie A. Myers and Jeffrey Nelson arrested a 23-year-old man for public intoxication. They put him in the back seat of the patrol car and headed for the city jail.

En route to the lock-up, the officers encountered a second man, honking and weaving in a blue Datsun pick-up, and finally running up on a curb near the patrol car.

The officers stopped again to arrest the pick-up driver, a 19-year-old man. Nelson reported that he put the pick-up driver in the front seat of the patrol car and joined his partner to check out the pickup.

Meanwhile, the pick-up driver wriggled his handcuffed hands from behind his back and drove off with the police car — and the first driver in the back seat.

Nelson and Myers said they tried to follow in the small pick-up, but lost the joyriders in heavy 6 p.m. traffic.

A short time later, police received a report of an abandoned patrol car in nearby University Park. Officers arrived to find the young pick-up driver in the custody of shotgun-toting Larry Coleman Jr.

Lubbock Area Free From Rail Hazards

A Texas Railroad Commission rail safety hearing today at the civic center produced very little evidence of any rail hazards in the Lubbock area.

Bill McDaniel, traffic and engineering director of the City of Lubbock, commented that the commission might investigate a possible need for additional safety devices at city rail crossings.

The commission's transportation division director, John Soule, who conducted the hearing, advised McDaniel that the commission should coordinate efforts with the highway department to ensure safe crossings.

Today's hearing was the seventh in a series of eight scheduled rail safety hearings being sponsored by the commission throughout the state. The commission is hoping to receive enough citizen responses to provide a clearer indication of where safety hazards exist.

These findings may assist the commission in seeking appropriations from the state legislature for fiscal years 1980 and 1981 to conduct regular inspections of rail track and freight cars in the state.

Oil Nations Unhappy With U.S.

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Representatives of oil-producing nations are disappointed that the United States has not been able to institute effective energy conservation measures and control its inflation.

Three panelists at the Fifth International Conference on Energy in the 1980s Monday said strong conservation measures are needed or the United States will face an increasing petroleum shortage.

"Maximum conservation on the domestic front and the encouragement of conservation abroad" are necessary, said Dr. Feretdon Fesharaki, advisor to the prime minister of Iran.

Fesharaki said the United States should institute a 50 percent sales tax on gasoline to keep consumption down.

Echoing his comments was Arturo del Castillo of Mexico, economic advisor to the general director of Petroleos Mexicanos.

"Oil is as important as food and should not be subject to monopoly by private groups," he said. "Oil, like all other natural resources, must contribute to the welfare of mankind."

Del Castillo said Mexico had decided not to export natural gas and would use it instead to release more crude oil for export.

Taleb Ali of the economics department of Kuwait said OPEC nations saw their oil profits decline by 15 percent last year because of U.S. inflation.

"Kuwait oil revenues have been lost in a real value of $1.2 million per day," he said.

But he said Kuwait was not being economically damaged and would maintain its production at the present level, or at a slight decrease.

"Kuwait has no need for more capital at present," Taleb Ali said. "Our petroleum is worth more to us in the ground than converted to petrodollars which fluctuate downward."

In another session at the conference, an energy consultant said the price of crude oil will more than double during the decade that started in 1975.

Edwards Symonds, a former deputy assistant secretars for energy policy in the U.S. Department of the Treasury, predicted the price of crude oil will rise nearly 130 percent from 1975 to 1985.

Eighty-eight percent of the increase will be due to inflation, Symonds said, and 41 percent will be because of actual price increases.

Symonds said world demand for oil would reach 61 million barrels a day by 1985, which said would mean a "finding rate" of new oil of 22 billion barrels per year. He said he doubted the new oil could be found at that rate.

California Retains Top Farm Production Billing

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — California retained its top ranking as the leading U.S. agricultural producer in terms of total commodity sales last year, says the Agriculture Department.

An annual report issued Monday said that cash receipts of California producers totaled about $9.37 billion in 1977, up from $9.1 billion in 1976.

The other states in the top 10 ranked by USDA included:

Iowa about $7.07 billion in 1977 and $7.01 billion in 1976; Texas $6.91 billion and $6.3 billion; Illinois $5.79 billion and $6.11 billion; and Minnesota $4.32 billion and $3.9 billion.

Also, Nebraska $3.98 billion and $3.87 billion; Kansas $3.85 billion and $3.53 billion; Indiana $3.24 billion and $3.33 billion; Wisconsin $3.15 billion and $3.03 billion; and Missouri $2.87 billion and $2.63 billion.

The only change is the lineup in 1977 was Missouri in 10th place, succeeding North Carolina which dropped to 13th in the value of farm products sold in 1977.

Cash receipts overall last year totaled about $96.1 billion, up from $94.3 billion in 1976. Livestock sales accounted for about $46.6 billion and crops $48.5 billion.

In 1976, livestock receipts were $46.4 billion and crops $47.9 billion.

Cash receipts are gross figures and are not what farmers get as profits or net incomes.

Net farm income last year was about $20.1 billion as computed by USDA by adding cash receipts, government payments and other farm-related income and deducting production expenses.

In 1977, gross farm income was about $108.1 billion — including $1.8 billion in federal payments — and production expenses $88 billion. That left $20.1 billion as farmers' net income.

Department experts have predicted net farm income this calendar year will rise to around $25 billion primarily because of improved prices for some commodities, mainly livestock.

The top 10 commodities in terms of cash receipts last year were: cattle and calves $20.2 billion, dairy products $11.8 billion, corn $8.7 billion, soybeans $8.5 billion, hogs $7.3 billion, wheat $5.2 billion, cotton lint $3.6 billion, broilers $3.1 billion, eggs $2.9 billion, and tobacco $2.3 billion.

California was the leader in cash receipts for the all-crops category. Iowa led in overall cash receipts from livestock and was the leader in hogs.

Texas was first in cattle and calves, cotton and grain sorghum; Illinois, corn and soybeans; Minnesota, turkeys; Kansas, wheat; Arkansas, broilers and rice; Wisconsin, dairy products; Idaho, potatoes; Georgia, peanuts; Florida, oranges; North Carolina, tobacco and forestry products; Washington, apples; and North Dakota, barley.

Three states ranked in the top 10 for overall farm cash receipts last year did not rate a first place for any of the 25 commodities listed in the report. Those are Nebraska, Indiana and Missouri.

However, Nebraska was fourth for cattle and calves; fourth in corn; sixth in hogs; eighth in wheat; tenth in hay; third in sorghum grain; and eighth in sugarbeets.

Indiana farmers rated third in corn; third in soybeans, third in hogs; sixth in eggs; and fifth in tomatoes.

Missouri placed eighth in cattle and calves; tenth in dairy; tenth in corn; sixth in soybeans; fourth in hogs; ninth in cotton; fourth in sorghum grain; sixth in rice; fifth in turkeys; and tenth in grapes.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Speculative demand for soybeans and corn helped push prices mostly higher Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

After a weak opening, corn and soybean prices recovered from profit-taking and rose on steady buying by commission houses and local traders.

Some exporter buying in corn, and some commercial buying in soybean meal, helped offset light harvest-time hedge-type selling in those crops.

The continued slow pace of hedge-type selling, or futures sales by grain processors and users to offset the risk of large harvest-time grain purchases, was a factor in higher soybean and corn prices.

The market was unsteady in early trading, influenced by speculative selling and international uncertainty about the status of the U.S. dollar against various currencies. But bullish sentiments among speculators prompted a recovery.

Unconfirmed reports of export business this week included possible wheat sales to Taiwan, Korea, Columbia and Malta and potential corn sales to Taiwan, Portugal and Syria. Reports that the People's Republic of China may consider accepting government-to-government loans to finance increased foreign trade also supported buying.

At the close, soybeans were 3½ to 6¾ cents higher, with November contracts quoted at $6.96 bushel; wheat was 1¾ to 4½ cents higher, December $3.53; corn was 1½ to 4½ cents higher, December $2.32¾; and oats were unchanged to ½ cent lower, December $1.49.

Lost Purse Found Two Years Later

DENVER (AP) — Linda Casey lost her purse July 13, 1976. She got it back two years, a flood and a forest fire later.

Mrs. Casey was camping with her family in Arapaho National Forest when a hailstorm — the one that caused the Big Thompson flood to the north — forced them off the mountain. In her hurry she left her purse.

A firefighter found the purse Saturday. It was dangling in a tree, in the middle of a 400-acre forest fire that lasted almost a week. The purse was somewhat worn from two winters of exposure, and it bore teeth marks that weren't there before.

Officials of the U.S. Forest Service theorized a small animal probably hid the purse in the tree. The critter did not disturb Mrs. Casey's contact lenses, keys and credit cards.

Congress Approves Farm Project Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A popular farm conservation program dating from the mid-1930s will continue to be financed at $190 million in 1979, a level ordered by Congress in approving new appropriations legislation for the Agriculture Department.

But in a departure from past years of operating the 42-year-old Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), officials said Monday that public comments will be received and studied before final rules are announced about Jan. 1.

The program provides both technical and financial assistance to farmers for carrying out approved projects on their land to reduce soil and water erosion and waste.

President Carter recommended to Congress last January that ACP be streamlined and reduced to $100 million in 1979, but lawmakers — as they have many times when administrations tried to reduce or eliminate the program — insisted that the spending level be maintained at the 1978 level.

Congress also raised to $3,500 from $2,-500 the maximum that an individual can get under the program in a year to help pay for approved conservation work.

Weldon Denny of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said that the 1979 ACP will emphasize practices that meet "rural pollution abatement and soil, water and woodland conservation" objectives.

A list of "national practices" or projects that will serve as standards for the entire country will be developed, Denny said.

Long-standing practices under the program have included land terracing, installation of waterways and other measures used to help conserve water and soil.

Details of the 1979 program will be officially published around Nov.1, and 60 days allowed after that for the public to file comments.

Written comments can be sent to Alan Durick, Acting Director, Conservation and Environmental Protection Division, Room 3096, South Building, ASCS-USDA, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Political Conferees Drop TI Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5-million tax break for Texas International Airlines was lost in the shuffle as Senate and House conferees reached weekend agreement on a compromise tax-cut bill.

Conferees agreed to drop the provision, which had been added by the Senate Finance Committee.

The provision would have allowed the airline an extra year to use investment credits that were accumulated in 1967 but which the firm has been unable to use because of operating losses.

TARRAGON SPECIAL — Carrot-Potato Ring Mold flavored with tarragon makes everyday vegetables something special. A sauce, made with milk and cornstarch, holds the vegetables together as they bake into a tasty ring.

Stir-Fry Cooking, Sauces Offer Vegetable Variety

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (Special) — Vegetables, as just about everyone has lately learned, are very good for people. They are chock-full of vitamins and help supply new popularized dietary fiber. Even many who were brought up suspecting the worst of vegetables have come to appreciate the virtues of vegetables as they are being served more and more often today. That is, they're cooked until tender but still crispy, colorful and full of flavor. Fresh vegetables cooked this way are always inviting. For added enjoyment, broaden the scope of vegetable imaginings and try such things as stir-fry and the addition of sauces and seasonings.

The recipe for Lemon-Flavored Vegetables uses a Chinese stir-fry technique and calls for vegetables that are available fresh almost all year long: broccoli, mushrooms, carrots, onions and peppers. This stir-fry dish is quickly tossed in corn oil and followed by a few minutes of cooking in chicken broth thickened with corn starch.

Beets and other root vegetables are favorites for cool weather meals. In preparing them, wash gently but do not peel, cutting tops to just about one inch from the beet (closer may reduce color during cooking). Orange Beets are cut into julienne strips and sauced with a sweet-sour combination of vinegar and orange juice. Because the sauce is thickened with corn starch, it remains clear and lets the deep rich-red of the beets come through.

Although any of these three dishes might be served at company meals, Carrot Potato Ring Mold is an especially festive looking way to serve these two most everyday of vegetables. After cooking in boiling water, they are packed into a ring mold and baked. A sauce, made with milk and corn starch and flavored with tarragon leaves, holds the vegetables together as they bake into a tasty ring.

LEMON-FLAVORED VEGETABLES

3 tbsps. corn oil
½ lb. fresh broccoli, cut in flowerets
½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
½ lb. fresh carrots, cut in 2-inch strips
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ green pepper, cut in strips (¼ cup)
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. grated lemon rind
¼ tsp. dryed thyme leaves
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup chicken bouillon, cooled
1 tbsp. corn starch

In large skillet heat corn oil over medium-high heat. Add broccoli, mushrooms, carrots, onion and green pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender crisp. Add salt, lemon rind, thyme and pepper. Mix chicken bouillon and corn starch until smooth. Add to vegetable mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Makes 4 servings.

ORANGE BEETS

1 lb. fresh beets, trimmed
1/3 cup sugar
2 tbsps. corn starch
¾ cup apple cider vinegar
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1 tbsp. corn oil margarine

Gently wash beets. Place in large saucepan, cover with cold water. Bring to boil; boil 30 to 45 minutes or until beets are tender. Drain, slip off skins. Cut beets into julienne strips. Set aside. In small saucepan stir together sugar, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in vinegar, orange rind and orange juice until smooth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; add margarine and beets. Makes 4 servings.

CARROT POTATO RING MOLD

2 lbs. fresh carrots, pared, diced (4 cups)
2 lbs. potatoes, pared, diced (4 cups)
1 cup boiling water
2 tsps. salt, divided
1 cup milk
1 tbsp. corn starch
2 tbsps. corn oil margarine
1 tsp. dried tarragon leaves
⅛ tsp. pepper

Place carrots and potatoes in large skillet. Pour boiling water over vegetables; sprinkle with 1½ teaspoons of the salt. Cover; cook over medium heat 7 to 10 minutes, or until tender. Drain. In small saucepan, gradually stir milk into corn starch. Add margarine, tarragon leaves, remaining ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Toss sauce and vegetables together to coat well. Pack vegetables into well greased 5½ cup ring mold. Cover mold with foil. Bake in 400-degree F. oven about 15 to 20 minutes or until heated. Let stand 10 minutes. Unmold on serving platter. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

COPPER SUPPLIES

From 2 to 5 milligrams of the trace mineral copper is generally supplied by the foods we eat. This is a very small amount considering that one ounce equals 28,350 milligrams. Although there is not, as yet sufficient information to establish a Recommended Daily Allowance for copper, we know that it functions in blood formation, bone development and taste acuity.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: "DON'T EVER LIE TO ME — EVER! NOT UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES!" How many times I've heard my husband admonish our children thusly! Yet, he lies to me constantly. And when he's trapped, he admits it, but he doesn't view his lying as the loathsome act he criticizes in our children.

I feel so betrayed, and I've told him so. But he excuses himself by insisting it's much easier to lie to me than to tell the truth. (He says, "It causes less confusion that way.")

His lying is destroying the respect I once held for him. Please help me.

CRUMBLING

Dear Crumbling: I can't prevent your husband from lying — and neither can you. But if you better understand the anatomy of a lie, perhaps your anger, disappointment and hurt would be greatly reduced.

A liar simply lacks guts to tell the truth.

Your husband's problem is greater than yours. Encourage him to get professional help to develop maturity, self-esteem and confidence. Then he won't feel the need to lie.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 25 and never had a real boyfriend. Oh, I've had some dates, but they never develop into anything serious.

When I graduated from high school my mother started a hope chest for me, and it's been filled for a long time. I have silver, dishes, glassware and linen — just about everything a girl needs to go into housekeeping. My mother even made me a wedding dress.

Whenever a guy comes over, Mom shows him my hope chest, then she tells him what a wonderful cook and housekeeper I am. She even tells him what a wonderful mother I would make. Then I never see the guy again.

Abby, I've kept the same job for seven years, and my friends tell me I'm pretty and have a nice personality. So what's wrong with me?

WANTS A HUSBAND

Dear Wants: Your mother. She means well, but she's frightening the men away. Ask her to please confine her remarks to the weather when a young man is around. And if she can't — or won't — I see little hope of your using the contents of your hope chest until you leave your mother's bed and board. Think about it.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I know that etiquette demands that all personal letters and social notes be hand-written, and it is considered bad manners to use a typewriter for such things, but here is my plight.

I suffer from arthritis in the fingers of both hands, and it is extremely difficult for me to use a pen. However, I am able to use a typewriter, so I have been typing all my personal correspondence.

Is it necessary for me to apologize and explain that I know better, but because of my arthritis I beg to be excused?

KNOTTED KNUCKLES

Dear Knotted: No. Regardless of what the etiquette books say, circumstances and common sense should be your guide.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	3 ◇
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ◇.

A 4-0 trump split seemed to doom South's four spade contract, but declarer navigated brilliantly through tricky waters to bring his ship safely into port.

Once North could support his suit, South was well within himself when he jumped to game. It is a bit surprising that West didn't double the final contract. After hearing his partner bid vulnerable at the three-level, we would wager that most Wests would have doubled.

The opening diamond lead was covered by the queen and ace and ruffed in hand. A spade to the ten held, but revealed the bad break. It seemed that declarer could not avoid losing two trump tricks, a heart and a club.

However, declarer refused to resign himself to his fate. He discarded a club on the king of diamonds, then ruffed dummy's remaining diamond. The heart king was taken by the ace, and East shifted to a club. Declarer won the king, cashed his two high hearts and ace of clubs, then exited with a club. East won and was on lead in this position:

East had to lead a diamond. Declarer ruffed and West found that his second trump trick had vanished. If he underruffed, declarer would lead up to the king of spades; if he ruffed with the queen, declarer would overruff with the king and simply concede a trick to the ace of trumps; and if West ruffed with the ace, he would be end played and forced to lead from the queen of trumps into declarer's king-jack tenace.

MINERAL AMOUNTS

You have undoubtedly wondered if a little is good, isn't more better. Even though the amounts of trace minerals needed for good health are minute, increasing that amount by as little as a few milligrams, can be dangerous. The delicate balance of micronutrients can be easily maintained by eating a variety of foods from many sources. Dietary supplements of any nutrient, but especially of trace minerals, should not be taken except on the advice of a physician.

'Sexist' Complaints Aired Against Social Security

By BETTY YARMON

NEW YORK (WNS) — Since our Social Security system was developed at a time when most workers were men, and men traditionally supported wives and children, it is probably inevitable that today, when the economic facts of life in the United States have changed so drastically, we would consider the system to be "sexist."

That is exactly what is happening now, with so many basic changes in our economic picture: more than half the women of the nation working, women struggling to earn as much as men do for equal work, the two-income family commonplace, divorce rates at an all-time high, and so on.

Here are some of the 'sexist' complaints that are aired against the present Social Security system:

— Working wives find that often they are entitled to no more from the Social Security system than if they had never held an outside job. This is why:

— A married woman is considered to be a dependent of her husband. At age 65, her retirement benefits amount either to 50 percent of her husband's benefits, or to whatever her own work record entitles her to, whichever is higher.

Unless a wife's earnings are more than half those of her husband, it is economically sounder for her to take the 50 percent of her husband's earnings. Since women on the average earn only 60 percent as much as men, chances are she will do better this way. This means, then, that many working women find their Social Security benefits would have been the same had they never worked a day in their lives.

— Full-time homemakers get no credit whatever toward Social Security benefits. Widows are often hurt by this rule, of course, and divorcees have a special beef. That is because a divorced woman can make no claims to benefits unless she was married to her husband for at least 20 years.

She is frozen out even if married 15 or 18 years — although this rule is being changed so that divorced homemakers will be able to collect starting next year after 10 years of marriage. Most divorces come far earlier in a marriage, and thousands of divorcees are left out as a result.

Also, a divorced woman must wait until her former husband decides to retire and starts collecting his pension before she is entitled to any payments under Social Security.

— The two-income family feels it is being discriminated against. Even if a husband and wife pay maximum Social Security taxes, at the end of their working lives they receive only one-third more than the benefits paid to a family where only one person — presumably the husband — has been working.

— Even men feel the rules work against them. Widowers, for example, are denied benefits that routinely go to widows. Although elderly divorced wives and widows may get benefits from their husbands, men get nothing similar from their wives.

Recently the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a man did not have to prove he was dependent on his wife to be eligible for spouse's benefits, pointing out that women are automatically considered to be dependent.

What it all means is that the Social Security system is indeed sexist becuase it was developed in a sexist era in American life, and reflects that era.

As the days go on, changes in the Social Security system are inevitable.

And one of the areas that is being carefully scrutinized — by Congress and others — is just this one, where charges of sexism are being leveled at the system.

Small Children Injured Due To Parental Neglect

CHICAGO, Ill. (Special) — Hundreds of thousands — possibly as many as a million — small children are being killed and injured on the nation's highways because of parental neglect, according to safety experts.

Failure to provide and use adequate car restraints for children, especially toddlers, is the cause of at least 1,000 auto accident deaths and up to a million injuries among children under 5 years old every year, according to the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined American Insurance Company.

Unlike the battered and abused children who are causing emergency-room staffs to work overtime across the nation, these auto accident casualties are the victims of unwitting neglect, the safety experts said. In some cases parents are ignorant of how to safeguard children while riding in cars; in others they mistakenly think they are providing the best there is in the way of safety devices.

The first rule of motoring safety for children is that they be provided with government approved safety restraints designed especially for them. This practice should begin with a child's first ride home from the maternity ward after birth.

The smallest children should ride in safety cribs or seats, with nets or belts holding them in place in the "containers" and the containers in turn anchored by the standard seatbelts that come with most autos.

The mother who belts herself in and then thinks her child is safe when clutched in her lap is holding a potential tiny projectile in her hands. The impact of a collision can cause the child to shoot from her arms into the dashboard or windshield or out the door or window. Some mothers think they can reach out and protect the child sitting next to them with one hand and drive with the other.

There are other dangerous practices, such as allowing children to ride unrestrained in the cargo area of a pickup truck or in the back of a stationwagon or standing up in the back seat — all invitations to tragedy in an accident.

Physicians for Automotive Safety of Irvington, N.J., working with the New Jersey Department of Health, have been conducting a campaign for car safety for children. The doctors found that most infants and small children are either inadquately "packed" for safety in cars or are not restrained at all.

Here are some guidelines gleaned from studies by Combined Insurance, the National Safety Council, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Physicians for Automotive Safety:

Never use standard seat belts for children under four who weigh less than 40 pounds and are under 55 inches tall; lap belts press too hard on the abdomen and many shoulder belts are placed so they might choke a small child.

Make sure you buy a special car seat or crib made after 1971, when rigid Federal standards went into effect; examine the label for the date and look for assurance that the device adheres to Federal Motor Vehicle Standard No. 213 for car seats or Standard 209 for harnesses.

Once you have purchased a safety restraint use it according to the manufacturer's instructions. Harnesses should be adjusted to fit the child, car seats and backs must be locked firmly in place and the safety device must be anchored by the built-in safety belt. Any safety seat that hooks over the back of the car may be considered unsafe.

A child over four can be seated on a firm cushion and then strapped in with the standard lap belt; never restrain two children with one seatbelt.

If you use a car bed, it should be deep and strongly constructed and placed so the child's head is away from the door.

Secure all objects carried in the vehicle such as bicycles, mowers, luggage, boxes and other items, and keep all but the softest toys away from children while motoring.

Lock all doors and never lower windows more than necessary for ventilation; keep tailgates closed to prevent dangerous fumes from entering the car.

In support of the appeal to parents to make sure that they use car safety restraints on their children as well as on themselves, Combined Insurance's experts noted that a 30-mile-an-hour crash exerts about the same force on an unrestrained car occupant as would a fall from a three-story building.

"Survival of an impact like that is unlikely," they said. "The small cost and effort involved in preventing such a catastrophe makes one wonder why we have so many neglectful parents."

Clear Skies Cause Temperature Drops

Cold temperatures were the rule early today from New England to Wisconsin, as clear skies and light winds caused temperatures to drop rapidly.

Readings in the 20s were reported from Maine through New York and northern Michigan, and temperatures in the 40s extended from the mid-Atlantic Coast states across the Ohio and the mid-Mississippi Valley. Frost warnings were in effect through the night in lower Michigan, Indiana and much of Missouri.

Elsewhere, temperatures were reported to be near seasonal levels. Readings in the 50s were the rule, but the temperature was in the 40s in parts of the Rockies. Along the Gulf Coast, temperatures were in the 60s, while readings in the 70s were reported over southern Florida and the desert southwest.

Scattered thundershowers were reported over parts of the Carolinas northward through extreme eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 19 in Concord, N.H. to 79 in Blythe, Calif.

Today's forecast called for sunny skies across the nation with no significant precipitation expected. The dry air mass was forecast to keep temperatures in the 40s in the northern Plains and Maine. Readings in the 50s will occur in the northern Rockies, across the Great Lakes region and into the Virginias and New England. Warm weather will continue across the southwest and the West Coast. The remainder of the nation will have mild conditions.

Fair skies and warm temperatures prevailed today from the Red River to the Rio Grande and forecasters say the pleasant weather should be around at least through Wednesday.

However, a frontal system was expected to move southward into the Texas Panhandle late Wednesday, bringing with it a possible weather change. But the change will likely not be felt immediately except in the Panhandle.

A few clouds were reported along the coast and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, but most of the state had clear skies.

The forecast for Lubbock and vicinity calls for fair weather with warm afternoons through Wednesday. Today's high should be in the lower 80s, rising to the mid-80s on Wednesday.

The low tonight is expected to be in the lower 50s, not much change from today's early morning low of 50.

West-southwesterly winds of 15 to 25 mph today should diminish tonight, becoming southerly at 5 to 10 mph.

The extended forecast predicts slightly cooler weather beginning Thursday with the passage of the front. Highs in the 70s and lows in the 40s are predicted through Saturday.

Citibus Route Changes Clear Transit Board

The South Plains Mall will become a major transfer point for Lubbock bus riders, following the Transit Advisory Board's decision Monday to double the number of Citibus routes to the shopping center by January.

The route changes, expected to be implemented Jan. 15, will include an experimental route with stops at Monterey High School, an apartment complex for the elderly at 66th Street and Hartford Avenue and other area elementary and junior high schools before ending at the mall.

Riders also will continue to transfer downtown, but with the new routes East Lubbock patrons not wishing to go downtown will be able to change buses at East Broadway and Quirt Avenue.

Transit coordinator John Wilson recommended running the route six round trips a day for three months to determine if it would be successful on a regular basis.

He was optimistic about the route's success because of requests for bus service from residents of the 66th Street apartment complex and from those living south of Loop 289.

The experimental route will cost the city approximately $5,000 for the three months, less any income from fares.

Without the experimental route, the miles the buses travel per year would actually decrease under the new route system. With the additional route, however, buses will travel about 16,000 miles per year more.

But transit officials are hopeful the route rearrangement will increase revenue per mile from 21 cents to nearly 23 cents.

"The new system should generate ridership because it takes people where they want to go," transit planner Clyde Shannon commented.

The reduced mileage should come from the reduction in midday routes, Shannon said, to allow more buses to run on Saturday when most people shop.

An extensive marketing program, expected to cost $25,000 the first year, will accompany the route changes and help bus riders adjust to the new schedule.

In addition to printing route maps and schedules for the entire bus system, Wilson said 4,000 maps of five or six individual routes would be printed and distributed within a two-block area of the route.

The board is expected to select an advertising firm for a multi-media campaign promoting the routes at its next meeting.

Suit Filed Against Motel Settled Out Of Court

A federal suit in which a rape victim sued a motel chain for allegedly not providing sufficient protection was settled out of court Monday.

Attorneys indicated the plaintiff will receive $30,000.

The fact that the case had settled was announced to jurors by U.S. Dist. Judge Halbert O. Woodward. The trial had begun last week, and was in the fourth day of testimony Monday.

The plaintiff, 24 at the time, reportedly was raped in her room at the Rodeway Inn Motel, 2401 4th St., Jan. 20, 1977.

The plaintiff's original petition named Rodeway Inns of America, Inc., and individuals as defendants and asked for $1 million in damages.

Reportedly a California attorney, the woman was in Lubbock to meet with a Texas Tech University legal fraternity.

She said in her petition she was accosted by a male gunman as she walked from an adjacent restaurant to her room about 10 p.m.

The assailant forced her into her motel room at gunpoint, raped her, and then tried to get her to cash some checks, the petition said.

The man, in the effort to force her to cash the checks, accompanied her to the motel office, to a nearby convenience store and to the restaurant, according to the petition.

The plaintiff contended the motel failed to maintain adequate lighting on the premises, failed to provide adequate security and operated the business at night in a high crime area with inexperienced employees.

Water Supply Above Normal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A year after one of the worst droughts in its history, California has so much water from last winter's storms that experts say it doesn't matter if it rains this winter.

"Our supply is excellent," Bill Clark, spokesman for the state Drought-Flood Information Center, said Monday. "If water is managed properly, we should not have any problem regardless of what kind of weather we have this winter."

At the same time, the National Weather Service said a high pressure ridge was expected to persist off the California coast until mid-November.

It was persistent high pressure which blocked arctic-born storms from dropping south to California for about two years. Instead, the storms were shoved eastward and far to the north. While western mountains went largely snowless, some eastern cities experienced huge snowfalls and icy cold.

The drought, which began in 1976, caused agricultural losses of nearly $2 billion, forced water rationing in many areas and turned lawns brown and forests tinder-dry.

Despite the optimistic outlook for surface water, the Department of the Interior says it may take years to replenish ground water supplies in California, Idaho and Washington.

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that
RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS
HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT
MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading cosmetic laboratory has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your wash cloth. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Two Americans, Russian Share Prize In Physics

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1978 Nobel Prize in physics was shared today by two Americans and a Russian while the award for chemistry went to a Briton. The Americans were cited for their work on the "big bang" theory of the creation of the universe.

The physics prize was awarded to Dr. Arno A. Penzias and Dr. Robert W. Wilson of Bell Telephone Laboratories of New Jersey and Prof. Pyotr Leontevitch Kapitsa of Moscow. The prize for chemistry went to British Prof. Peter Mitchell, 58, of Glynn Research Laboratories.

Kapitsa, 84, one of the oldest recipients of the prize, was cited for his research in the area of low-teperature physics.

Mitchell was honored for his studies of biological energy transfer in a branch of biochemistry known as bioenergetics, which concerns the chemical process responsible for the energy supply of living cells.

Half the $165,000 physics prize went to Penzias and Wilson for their discovery of cosmic microwave background radiation, which has lent solid support to the theory the universe was created through a "big bang" explosion. The other half went to Kapitsa.

Penzias and Wilson were the fifth and six Americans awarded Nobel prizes this year.

Penzias was born in 1933 in Munich, Germany and received his doctorate at Columbia University in New York in 1962. He has worked with Bell Laboratories since 1961, and has been head of its radio physics research department since 1974.

"I'm very greatful," he said at his home in Holmdale, N.J. I came here as a refugee almost exactly 40 years ago. I guess it's kind of corny to say but I've realized the American dream. I came here with nothing and end up with everything."

He said he and Wilson were researching the Earth's galaxy, the Milky Way, when "we found more radiation than we could account for in the Milky Way, and it turned out upon investigation that this radiation was coming from outside even our own galaxy. There's nothing out there to cause it. That radiation was left over from the initial explosion from which the entire universe erupted," he said.

Wilson, born in Houston is the youngest of the physics laureates. He is 42. He graduated from Cal Tech in 1962 and went to Bell in 1963 where he teamed up with Penzias.

"I hope it (the prize) doesn't make a big difference in my work in the future," he said at his home in Elizabeth, N.J.

"A lot of the prizes have gone to Americans." He said he thought American physics could compete with the rest of the world. "It doesn't surprise me for Americans to win the prize at all," he said.

Their discovery of cosmic microwave background radiation, which may date from the creation of the solar system, has marked an important stage in the exploration of the riddles of the cosmos through radioastronomy.

Kapitsa is the second Russian to win the award for low-temperature physics. His associate, Lev Landau, got the physics prize in 1962 for studies on liquid helium.

Kapitsa, who was vacationing at a spa outside Moscow, said it was "an exciting event for all of Soviet science," when told he had won the prize.

Kapitsa worked in England for several years and is said to have worked on the Soviet atom and hydrogen bombs, although he denies this. His reluctance to work toward a Soviet arms buildup after World War II got him in trouble with Stalin.

Kapitsa's "discoveries, ideas and new techniques — such as a device to produce liquid helium — have been basic to the modern expansion of the science of low-temperature physics," the Swedish Academy of Sciences said.

Kapitsa, who worked with with earlier Nobel greats such as Lord Ernest Rutherford of England, who won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1908 but was also a great physicist, and Albert Einstein, who won it for physics in 1921, has long been mentioned as a Nobel prospect, having played a leading role in low-temperature physics for many decades.

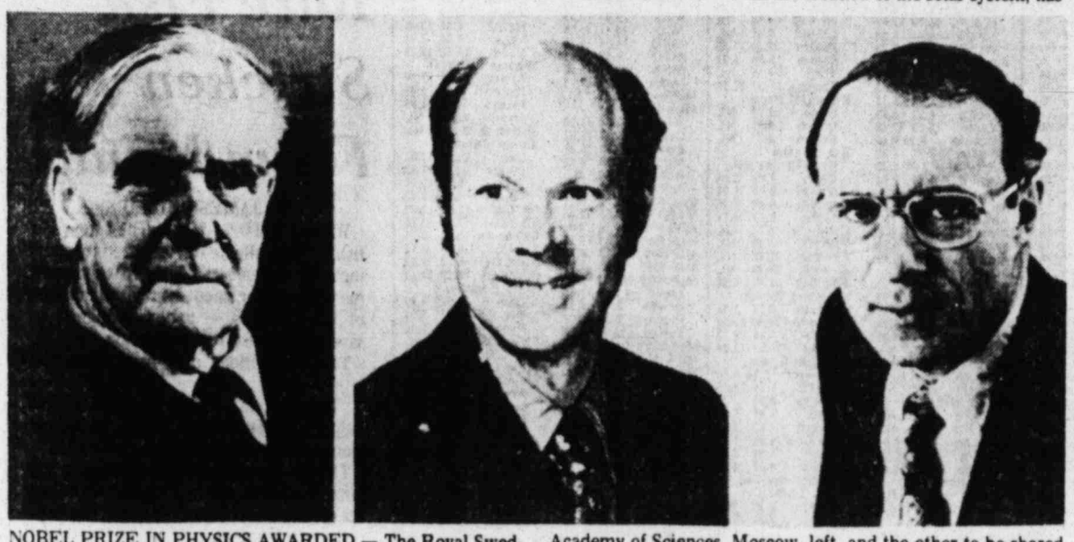

He maintained laboratories both at Cavendish at Cambridge in England and in Moscow, where he was director of the Institute for Physical Problems at the Soviet Academy of Sciences. In 1934 he was prevented by the Stalin regime from returning to England. In 1946 he lost his post at the academy but returned again in 1955 when the Stalin epoch ended. He has held his post ever since.

The sensitive equipment needed by the Americans for study of background radiation was developed at Bell Labs in the early 1960s. It was originally used for radio communications with the satellites Echo and Telstar until Penzias and Wilson decided to use it to study microwave background radiation.

Their fundamental discovery and painstaking research has given solid support to the so-called "big bang" theory of the creation of the universe through an explosion.

On Monday, Prof. Herbert Simon of the Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, won the 1978 Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science for pioneering research into the way complex business organizations such as multinationals make their decisions.

The other Americans to win 1978 Nobel prizes are Yiddish author Isaac Bahevis Singer, literature, and microbiologists Daniel Nathans and Hamilton Q. Smith of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, who shared their prize in medicine with Werner Arber of the University of Basel, Switzerland.

NOBEL PRIZE IN PHYSICS AWARDED — The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences has decided to award the 1978 Nobel Prize for Physics in two equal parts: one to Professor Pyort Leontevitch Kapitsa, Institute of Physical Problems, USSR Academy of Sciences, Moscow, left, and the other to be shared between Dr. Robert W. Wilson, center, and Dr. Arno A. Penzias, right, both from Bell Telephone Laboratories, New Jersey. (AP Laserphoto)

60-Year-Old Lubbock Man Shot By Occupant In Pickup Truck

A 60-year-old Lubbock man, walking toward a pickup truck parked in front of his residence about 10:10 p.m. Monday, was shot in the leg by one of the occupants in the truck.

Robert J. Patrick of 2808 E. 16th St. was in satisfactory condition this morning at St. Mary's Hospital, where he was being treated for a single gunshot wound in the leg.

Patrick told police he had no idea who would want to shoot him.

Reports show a light gray or blue Ford pickup drove up in front of Patrick's house and parked for several minutes. When Patrick walked about halfway to the vehicle to see what its occupants wanted, he was shot.

The victim said he could not described the persons inside the vehicle.

In other matters, police were looking for the man who attempted to rob Dick Lee Powell, 29, of 2129-B 51st St. about 11 p.m. Monday. The holdup was thwarted, reports indicate, when Powell wrestled away the bandit's weapon.

Powell said he was driving home Monday night when he picked up a hitchhiker at 13th Street and Avenue K. He said he drove to a residence in the 2200-block of 20th Street where the hitchhiker pulled a hunting knife and demanded money and jewelry.

Powell said he gave the suspect $1,250 in jewelry and some loose change. The bandit then reportedly agreed to let his victim go home and get more money. Once at Powell's residence, Powell was able to gain control of the robber's knife and get an unloaded tear gas gun.

Powell said he was able to recover all his jewelry and drive the bandit back to his apartment. He then notified police.

The suspect was described as a 20-year-old white man with light brown hair and weighing about 200 pounds. The man was wearing a dark shirt and white trousers.

Police arrested a 17-year-old Lubbock man about 5 p.m. Monday on suspicion of public intoxication and refusing to cooperate with officers after being involved in a traffic accident.

Reports indicated the teen-ager attempted to leave the scene of the accident at Main Street and Avenue V once police arrived. The man reportedly was slow in getting out of the car and refused to answer policemen's questions.

Police said about 15 persons gathered as the man, yelling "Let go of me, boys," was being handcuffed." Once inside the patrol car, the suspect allegedly began kicking the vehicle's prisoner shield and windows.

The man's feet were handcuffed and he was made to lie down on the floor of the car.

In one of several reported burglaries, Johnny F. Williams of 1320 53rd St., Apt. C, said he had $5,000 in property, including stereo equipment, clothes, a television set, silverware and jewelry, stolen from his residence between noon and 2 p.m. Monday.

Stereo equipment and a pistol, valued at $1,150, were taken by burglars who entered Don Eugene Wright's residence at 2006 15th St. between 5 p.m. and 11:50 p.m. Monday.

Charles Croff of 909 41st St. told police his day struck a sour note when he discovered a $600 guitar and other musical equipment stolen from his house. He said the break-in occurred between 2:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Curtis L. Hoover of Shallowater told sheriff's deputies he suffered a heavy loss when his house was broken into between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday. He reported missing a shotgun, .22 caliber rifle and jewelry.

Police today continued their search for two suspects who reportedly robbed a 71-year-old man of about $53 early Monday.

Huston Turner told police he had gone to 1614 Ave. D to tell a woman about a rent house. However, he said, when he got to the residence, a black woman dragged him into the house.

At that point, Turner reported that her black male companion, who was holding a beer bottle to him, told him, "Give us all your money." The woman went through his clothes and made off with about $53, he said.

In another assault, the 22-year-old clerk of the Minit Mart at 5520 Fourth St. reported that a woman socked her in the jaw at about 11:25 a.m. Monday.

Mary Alice Page said the woman fled the scene in a 1964 Ford pickup after the incident. She described the suspect as black, 18-25 years of age, of medium height and build and with black hair and brown eyes.

In property crimes, Paul Goggan of 2720 Second Place said that burglars took a $419 TV set from his home sometime early Monday.

Minnie Travenia, manager of a club at 407 Quirt Ave., said that thieves pried open the coin boxes on two pool tables and made off with $200 early Monday. She said the thieves had knocked a hole in the north wall of the establishment.

Burglars took an air conditioner from a 9304 Gary Ave. residence sometime between Friday afternoon and Monday morning. Clay Putman estimated his loss at $900.

Two women were booked into Lubbock County Jail Monday for the Sunday night theft of $3,900 worth of aluminum irrigation pipe, taken from a Lubbock County farm.

Lubbock County sheriff's deputies arrested the two women at a North Avenue H metal products company Monday morning after they sold a load of the pipe to the firm for $92. J. I. Speer, owner of the pipe, told deputies the pipe was the stolen property, and the two women were taken to jail.

Lubbock police found the second load of pipe abandoned in the 3300 block of Quirt Avenue.

Bandit Takes $100 From Restaurant

A man who walked into the restroom at the Rodeway Inn Restaurant, 2401 4th St., about 9:30 p.m. Monday, left the restaurant minutes later after robbing the establishment of more than $100.

The bandit, described as a Mexican-American male about 25, wearing a bluish-gray leisure suit and blue tennis shoes, entered the restroom behind the counter for about a minute and then emerged carrying a gun.

The robber pointed the gun at night manager Kenneth Dockins and demanded the money in the cash register.

Stuffing the money into his coat pockets, the man began to back out the door. He was last seen running south on Avenue X.

Top Chinese Educators Seek Student Exchange Program

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Top Chinese educators, saying they want to "learn from the vast experiences of this country," are in the United States to set up a student exchange program that could bring hundreds of Chinese students to American colleges and universities.

"The industrious and intelligent American people stand in the forefront of technology. We have come here to learn from you," Chou Pei-yuan, president of Peking University and acting chairman of All China Science & Technology Association, said Monday at Ohio University here.

Speaking through an interpreter, Chou said the Peoples Republic of China wants to educate some of its students abroad as part of a Chinese modernization effort.

"The goal of new China is to bring about the modernization of industry, agriculture, science and technology," he said. "To complete the modernization by the end of the century, the key is the modernization of science and technology, and this is based in education.

"The principal for bringing full modernization is self reliance. In the meantime, we will learn from the vast experiences of this country. The industrious and intelligent American people stand in the forefront of technology."

The move appears to be a dramatic change in policy by the Chinese directed at developing stronger economic and cultural ties with other countries. Under the late chairman Mao Tse-Tung, Chinese policy advocated total self-sufficiency.

"The Chinese education system is in a shambles," said John Thomson, U.S. State Department representative. "Last year they held college entrance exams for the first time since 1965."

Before that, appointment to a university was based on politics rather than merit, said Thomson, first secretary of the U.S. Liaison office in Peking.

Thomson estimated the pending agreement with the United States could bring several hundred Chinese scholars to this country.

"The consensus is that the exchange will take place," he said.

He said the Chinese government also is negotiating student exchange pacts with England, France, Germany, Canada, Australia and Japan.

Chou said the exchange talks stem from the Shanghai Accord of 1972 signed by then-President Richard Nixon and Chinese Premier Chou En Lai.

He said the meetings this month underscored the "profound and traditional friendliness between the American and Chinese people."

"This visit and the discussions with Dr. (Richard) Atkinson are very significant," Chou said.

Atkinson heads the National Science Foundation, which invited the Chinese delegation to visit the United States.

The Chinese arrived in this country Oct. 7 and toured four universities and a community college in California last week before visiting Ohio University. They continued to Boston Monday after a courtesy call at Ohio State University in Columbus.

Four members of the delegation — including Li Chi, the number two man in both the China Educational Association and the Ministry of Education — remained in Washington to continue the negotiations while seven flew to Athens.

Canadian Conservatives Pick Up Five Seats

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberals have suffered a sharp setback in special parliamentary elections that may promise a change of government for Canada after 15 years.

The opposition Conservatives picked off five Liberal seats in Ontario and one in Manitoba, and held onto four other districts Monday in a record 15 by-elections to fill vacancies in the House of Commons.

Of the other five seats, the Liberals got two, the New Democratic Party two and the Social Credit Party one.

Trudeau conceded that the setback in Ontario, generally regarded as the key to the next federal election, was a resounding expression of feeling against the Liberals, in power under Lester Pearson from 1963 to 1968 and since then under Trudeau.

William Rowe, Liberal leader in Newfoundland, said: "It's now time for Liberal leaders throughout Canada as well as rank and file members to sit down and discuss frankly and candidly" Trudeau's role as party leader.

"The ship is more important than any member of the crew, even if that crew member is the captain," he said.

But Trudeau still has an eight-vote majority in Commons, and he said he would work to regain the confidence of the public before the general election must be held next year.

Of the 264 seats in the House of Commons, the Liberals now hold 136, the Conservatives — officially called the Progressive Conservatives — 97, the New Democratic Party 17, Social Credit nine, and independents five.

On Monday, the Conservatives won seats from the Liberals in the Toronto districts of Rosedale, Eglinton, Parkdale and York-Scarborough. They took Ottawa Centre, St. Boniface in Manitoba and, as expected, held Halifax-East Hants in Nova Scotia, Fundy-Royal in New Brunswick, Hamilton-Wentworth in Ontario and Burnaby-Richmond-Delta in British Columbia.

The Conservatives averaged almost 49 percent of the popular vote in all the districts, up nine percentage points from the last general election in 1974, while the Liberals dropped from 41.3 percent to 30.5.

Conservative leader Joe Clark said the vote clearly showed his party's "superior ability to form a government."

Decline Shown In Oil Imports

PARIS (AP) — Net oil imports by major industrialized nations declined 7.7 percent to 307.3 million tons in the second quarter of this year compared with the corresponding period of 1977, the International Energy Agency (IEA) says.

The major declines were recorded in imports from Venezuela (25.9 percent), Saudi Arabia (21.6), Nigeria (21), Abu Dhabi (16), Libya (15.4), Iraq (9.2), and Indonesia (9).

Consumption by the 24 member nations of the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) in the second quarter rose 2.7 percent from a year ago to 409.5 million tons. For members of the European Economic Community (EEC) the increase was 2.3 percent, for Japan 4 percent and for the United States 3.1 percent.

Overall oil production in OECD countries increased 7 percent in the second quarter, after a rise of 6.8 percent in the first three months of the year compared with 1977, the IEA said over the weekend.

U.S. production in the second quarter increased to 120.3 million tons from 112.5 million a year ago, and in Britain to 12.9 million tons from 10.3 million.

Burglary, Rape Charges Filed

A Lubbock man was charged Monday with burglary of a habitation with intent to commit rape as a result of a reported early morning attack on two sisters at their apartment near the Texas Tech University campus.

One of the women, 18, was listed in serious condition from stab wounds late Monday at West Texas Hospital.

Charged was Larry Donell Perryman, 19, of 1812 E. Second St. The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended a $25,000 bond.

The 18-year-old woman reportedly sustained stab wounds in the chest, shoulder and back.

The attack allegedly took place at approximately 3:30 a.m. Monday. The other woman, 22, reportedly was treated and released by West Texas Hospital after the incident.

The 22-year-old told officers a man entered the apartment where the sisters were sleeping and held a knife to the younger woman's throat.

According to police reports, she said the man demanded money, then approached her with the knife and attempted to rape her. A struggle then ensued, reports indicate.

The man fled after the 18-year-old fell back, the older sister said.

The suspect reportedly was arrested shortly thereafter near an apartment complex at Sixth Street and Avenue S. Perryman reportedly gave a statement to police.

Cotton Maid Plans First Appearances

Janie Laws, the new South Plains Maid of Cotton, will make one of her first official appearances Thursday at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Membership Breakfast Club.

Miss Laws, a freshman at Texas Tech University, was selected for the title in competition Oct. 7.

The monthly breakfast, open to all chamber members and guests, will be held at the KoKo Palace, 50th Street and Avenue Q, beginning at 7 a.m.

Former Lubbock Mayor Roy Bass will emcee the breakfast, and Cowboy Kyle, a longtime Lubbock resident, will play the piano.

Everyone attending the breakfast, which falls during Chrysantheum Colorama Days will be given a lapel mum, in addition to a chance at the door prizes to be given away by Holden-Dodson Nursery, which will sponsor the breakfast.

Prizes include plants and bags of tulip bulbs, in addition to a $300 grand prize to be awarded to a chamber member in attendance at the breakfast.

Dr. Marvin Baker, president of South Plains College, will be a featured guest. Music will be provided by "Balance Due, Unpaid Bills," a bluegrass band.

Edith Cavell, a British nurse, was executed by Germans in 1915 for espionage during World War I.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Prices Drop Lower After Slide

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices showed virtual across-the-board losses again today in the aftermath of Monday's slide.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 21.92 points Monday for its largest decline in nearly four years, dropped another 6.93 to 868.24 by noontime today.

Losers swamped gainers by more than a 10-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Monday's decline in the Dow was its steepest since it fell 22.69 Nov. 18, 1974 in the final throes of the 1973-74 bear market.

Analysts said that sudden slide in stock prices had prompted additional selling today.

They also noted speculation that the Federal Reserve might seek to push interest rates still higher in the near future. The Fed's policy-setting Open Market Committee meets today.

Also contributing to the gloomy atmosphere was another decline by the dollar in foreign exchange today.

Brokers said investors were dismayed at the recent weakness of the dollar in spite of developments that some had claimed might shore it up, such as Congress' passage of an energy bill this past weekend.

Fourteen of the 15 most active NYSE issues showed declines, although only two lost as much as a point — RCA, off 1 at 28⅛, and UAL, down 1¾ at 36¼.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .59 to 57.21. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index took a 2.59 drop to 165.24.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 16.98 million shares at noontime, up from 9.73 million at the same point Monday.

Bing Crosby's Widow Keeps Busy Following Death Of Crooner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bing Crosby's voice echoed through the control booth of a recording studio on Sunset Boulevard as his widow, Kathryn, listened attentively, a smile on her face.

"It's a beautiful voice, isn't it," she said when the last strains of the Christmas carol drifted away.

Kathryn, with her sons Harry and Nathaniel and daughter Mary Frances, are carrying on the family Christmas tradition by taping this year's annual Crosby Yuletide television show. It will be aired by CBS during the holidays.

Tomorrow it will have been a year since Bing, 73, died of a heart attack on a golf course in Spain.

The past year has been one of deep sorrow for Kathryn, but a busy one as well.

"It's been a time of memories, painful and intense," she said. "I've managed to live one day at a time. I'm doing the things I would have done if Bing were alive. I've worked a great deal, but not as an escape."

Kathryn is writing a book titled "A Very Good Round — My Life With Bing." She did a bus and truck tour of 172 cities in 102 days starring in "Same Time Next Year" and appears with the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco.

"The pain was so intense I couldn't write things down for the book," Kathryn said. "I dictate into a tape recorder and work with Lee McGrath. We were high school cheerleaders together in Robstown (Texas).

"The book has a lot of Bing's letters to me. He was a beautiful writer and it expresses a side of Bing people don't know. He showed the depth of his emotions in writing that he never revealed in public."

During the past year Kathryn visited Bing's 1,500-acre ranch retreat in Northern California which is being sold. She's also visited their hideaway in Las Cruces, Mexico, where they fished and spent many a happy vacation.

"It saddens me to visit those places," she said. "I couldn't have done it without good friends.

"I haven't visited the cemetery here in Los Angeles. But then I haven't been able to visit my mother's grave either. I feel that Bing's golf tournament is where he is and his Christmas show is where he is. That's why we are doing it.

"We're putting together clips of Bing's old Chrismas shows and we sing some songs together. We were all in tears watching those old shows. But they were tears of happy memories. Bing looks so fine and sings as well in the last show as he ever did. His Christmas show goes back 40 years to the radio days.

Vietnamese Mother Weds Chiropractor

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Doan Thi Hoang Ahn, a Vietnamese who in 1976 won a court battle to regain custody of one of her eight children, now is Doan Thi Hoang Ahn Pardis.

On Saturday, she married Dr. Jim Pardis, 26, a chiropractor who earned his degree this fall from Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa. Doan Thi, better known to friends as "Miss Anh," gained custody of her then 4-year-old son, Ben, in 1976 when the Iowa Supreme Court ruled against Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson, who had adopted the boy about one year earlier.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be to quick to accept favors offered to you tomorrow. What may look like a kindness could have expensive strings attached.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your intentions might be good, but don't offer advice or counsel, solicited or not. If things don't work out, you'll be blamed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Thinking you can't get along without the help for another is a groundless fear. Rely solely on yourself. The job will get done right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A situation where you share an interest may not produce what was projected. Trying to place the blame on each other won't solve a thing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A broken promise tomorrow could serve as the spark to alienate an association. Be sure there is nothing worth saving before you cut the ties.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Grand or bold ideas are good only when you know how to carry them off. Before attempting such feats, be sure you possess the necessary knowledge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Counting on friends to bail you out of a financial mess you put yourself into would be a mistake. Be realistic. Work things out yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Due to a misunderstanding, you could draw an incorrect conclusion involving someone close to your heart. Don't let misinterpretation drive a wedge between you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency to talk continuously tomorrow. Stop and listen for a moment. You might even get some answers.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Bragging about how much you have will not impress anyone but yourself tomorrow. People are more stirred by humility than by bucks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Playing the one-upsmanship game is an insult to your intelligence and a waste of time. Don't let an exaggerator draw you into it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though you know your source isn't reliable, you could pass on faulty information tomorrow solely on the grounds it makes for an interesting story.

Instructions Given For String Holder

By SHARI LEWIS

One of the nice things about a ball is that it is round and it rolls. One of the rotten things about a ball of string is it is round and it rolls — off the table, onto the floor and under the nearest sofa.

Do your family a favor — next time anyone is using a ball of string or wool (for knitting or wrapping packages or weaving or whatever) make your household a String Container in a Cup. Here's how:

Start with two 9-ounce paper cups. Cut one down a little (so you are left with three-fourths of the cup). That's the bottom of your container. Use the whole cup for the top. Poke a hole in the bottom of the whole cup. Place the ball of string or wool into the bottom cup and put glue around the edge of that cut-down cup. Take the end of the string, slip it through the hole in the bottom of the whole cup, and place that cup, upside down, right over the bottom one.

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: A snail climbing up a post 20 feet high ascends five every day, and slips down four feet every night. How long will it take snail to reach the top?

ANSWER: Sixteen days. The snail gains one foot every day for 15 days and climbs to the top on the sixteenth.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: How can you buy eggs and be absolutely sure there are no chicks in them? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Economists Cite Glut Of Dollars

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — It's an article of faith among many analysts that the world economy is suffering from an overdose of U.S. currency.

"Too many dollars chasing too few goods," say economists seeking to explain virulent inflation in the United States.

"A glut of dollars," report foreign-exchange traders analyzing the dollar's protracted slump against the Swiss franc, the Japanese yen, and even such less robust currencies as the Italian lira.

Economists of the monetarist persuasion warn that nothing much can be done about these problems until the U.S. government stops printing more money than the country has "earned" through real increases in output of goods and services.

That would hardly seem to add up to a positive environment for the stock market. But amid all the gloom about the shrinking value of the dollar, stock prices have in fact been rising for most of this year.

Last Wednesday's session on Wall Street provided a vivid case in point. Overseas, the dollar fell sharply against most leading foreign currencies, and the price of gold — a traditional haven from monetary instability — reached a record high.

But on Wall Street the Dow Jones industrial average climbed nearly 10 points, crossing the 900 level for the first time in almost a month.

By way of explanation for this kind of seemingly incongruous behavior, one long-time observer of the market, John W. Schulz of Brean Murray, Foster Securities, offers the view that the dollar's problems may actually be working in favor of stocks.

"The current stock market juncture needs to be appraised in a decidedly unconventional perspective," Schulz wrote in the latest edition of his periodic bulletin to clients.

"From a technical viewpoint, it seems imperative to realize that, worldwide, the pool of dollars having nowhere to go but into dollar-denominated assets may never have been larger.

"This circumstance may account for some 'puzzling' facets of today's investment scene.

Expert Doubtful Of Edition

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Post needs a Sunday paper to survive but has little chance of starting one, an economist hired by the E.W. Scripps Co. says.

Michael L. Glassman of Silver Springs, Md., said Thursday that his survey of newspapers, paid for by the E.W. Scripps Co., indicated that afternoon dailies without Sunday newspapers tend to fail.

In addition, he said, the Scripps-owned Post had no assurance it could make a profit against the Cincinnati Enquirer's Sunday edition.

Glassman testified on the 24th day of hearings conducted by the Justice Department under the 1970 Failing Newspapers Act.

Scripps is seeking immunity from antitrust laws to enter into a working agreement with the Enquirer to take over its business, circulation, production and advertising services.

Scripps says the Post is in danger of financial failure.

Employee and union groups oppose the agreement.

White House Hints Carter To Sign Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hints and predictions from the White House and the Capitol indicate President Carter probably will sign the scaled-down tax cut Congress fashioned under his threat of a veto.

"There certainly were significant improvements in the tax bill," Rex Granum, deputy White House press secretary, told reporters Monday, referring to weekend changes in the measure.

Granum added, "We certainly can't commit the president to signing or vetoing a bill until he has done so."

But presidential aides who asked to remain anonymous said they expect Carter to sign the $18.7 billion tax reduction that cleared Congress in its final hours Sunday.

In an interview in his office at the Capitol, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he hadn't heard from the president, but "I don't know of any reason why he shouldn't sign it."

Carter had said he might veto earlier, more-costly versions of the tax-cutting bill, saying they would fuel inflation.

The bill would reduce income taxes for 65 million Americans, but the effect of the reduction will be blunted for many by increases in Social Security taxes.

Byrd defended the Social Security tax increases, saying they were needed to keep the system solvent and that it took courage for senators to vote for them.

On other subjects, Byrd said he expects Democrats to "hold their own and possibly pick up a seat or two in the Senate" in the November elections.

Meanwhile, legislative aides were working through mounds of paper left behind by Congress when it wound up with a round-the-clock weekend session that lasted more than 34 hours.

Each measure must be written out in near-perfect permanent form and signed by the speaker of the House and the vice president before being sent to the White House.

As a result, it may be days before the tax bill reaches Carter for his formal decision.

Without figuring the effects of inflation but taking the Social Security tax increases into account, here is how some taxpayers will fare under the provisions of the bill. For comparative purposes, it is assumed that there is only one wage-earner in each couple or family of four:

— A single person making $5,000 a year would get a tax cut of about $2.08 a month from the current $48.46 a month he pays in income and Social Security taxes; if he makes $10,000 a year, his tax cut would be about $1.17 from the current $150.33; at $20,000, his taxes would increase about $3.17 a month from $358.50 now; at $30,000, his taxes would rise about $8.42 a month from the current $585.00; and at $40,000 he would get a tax cut of about $1.17 a month from $858.58 now.

— A married couple with $10,000 income would get a tax cut of about $4.25 a month from the current $113.83; at $20,000, the tax would increase about $4.75 a month from $302.08; and at $40,000, the couple's taxes would be reduced by about $3.50 from $708.08.

— For a family of four with an income of $10,000, the tax cut would be about $5.33 a month from the current $87.58; at $20,000, the cut is about $1 a month from $270.83; at $30,000, taxes would increase by about $1.50 a month from $441.83; and at $40,000, a family would get a tax cut of $16.92 a month from the current $659.83.

Congress Aids Middle Class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd says Congress is changing emphasis from four decades of social welfare legislation and is now turning its attention to the "great middle class" which carried the burden.

"Congress, in recent decades, the last two, three, four decades, has enacted a great deal of social welfare programs," Byrd told reporters Monday. "There comes a time when there is not much to add.

"And it's quite right to turn to incentives ... for the great middle class which has carried the load, which has carried the burden, which needs relief," Byrd added. "It's the backbone of our country."

Byrd, who said he will seek re-election as Democratic leader in January, said the "varying of the compass" was visible in the $18.7 billion tax bill passed on the last day of the 95th Congress. Its individual income tax cuts were geared to those in the $15,000-$50,000 income bracket.

"...it is this group which not only has had to bear the burden, but also has not gotten relief," Byrd said.

Looking ahead to the 96th Congress, however, Byrd listed a national health insurance program — deemed by some to be social welfare — as probably the top priority domestic legislation.

He said if the administration signs a SALT II agreement with the Soviet Union and sends it to the Senate, ratification "will undoubtedly be the most important foreign international matter of all."

"There probably has never been a treaty of more interest to us ... and to our allies," Byrd said. "It's the kind that lends itself to taking a look at the grandchildren on the mantel there and wondering what effect it will have on them when they are in their prime."

Byrd said any SALT II agreement will be "carefully and thoroughly" examined and the treaty is so important the Senate does not want to "make a mistake on it."

He said trade, exchanges with the Soviet Union, efforts to strengthen ties with NATO and NATO itself would be "matters of great interest," and he called for efforts to normalize relations with China.

Byrd said Congress would support a "strong defense program" and said close scrutiny would be paid to the all-volunteer military.

"There could begin to be some changes in that if studies recommend that," Byrd added.

In addition to national health insurance, top domestic items mentioned by the Democratic leader included energy — partly in the area of increasing production — coping with inflation, acting if necessary on jobs and a continued move toward a balanced budget.

School Funding Change Sought

the so-called Tax Relief Amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot is passed. The proposed constitutional amendment would allow the state to exempt intangibles from taxation.

"Should the legislature choose to remove the value of intangibles from our study, your district's percentage of state wealth should decrease significantly," the STAPB told Irons. That would mean Lubbock would get more state aid.

Lubbock officials estimate that under current funding formulas, inclusion of intangibles would cost the district about $2 million a year. If intangibles are left out, the district actually would gain about $2 million in state monies.

The Legislative Commission on School Finance said that even if the state greatly improves its funding formula, Lubbock stands to lose about $350,000 a year in state funds if intangibles are used in defining each district's wealth.

"The losers are going to be in the millions in urban Texas," commission director Raymon Bynum, also an associate commissioner of education, said.

Bynum's calculations deviated from current law in one respect. They applied a 9 cents per $100 tax rate instead of the statutory 18 cents in computing local costs.

Otherwise, he said, the numbers would be out of sight.

Bynum said the six biggest districts — Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Austin and El Paso — would lose $14.7 million in state aid in 1979-80 under current law even if the 18-cent rate is halved.

He said the 46 largely suburban districts with 10,000 to 49,999 pupils would lose $24 million.

For all districts, the local cost of the Foundation School Program in 1979-80 — barring a change in the law — would increase $32.8 million, Bynum said.

Bynum said counting intangibles would strip North Forest Independent School District in Harris County — one of the poorest — of $500,000 in aid.

Through a slip of the tongue, Bynum said North Forest would lose "$500 million." He corrected the mistake, but Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said, "It probably sounds like millions to them."

Edgewood ISD in San Antonio, another of the 20 poorest districts, would lose $243,700.

Including intangibles would cost Houston $8.1 million in aid, while Dallas would have to replace $3.6 million with local funds, Bynum said.

"The two districts in the state that would be the hardest hit are Richardson and Midland ... on a per pupil basis," Bynum said, with Richardson losing a total of $2 million and Midland $537,000.

The Texas Constitution now requires taxation of intangibles, but the mandate is almost universally ignored. A provision of the so-called Tax Relief Amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot would eliminate that requirement.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said if the constitutional amendment passes, a majority of the Legislature would want to do away with inclusion of intangibles in state aid calculations.

Otherwise, he said, a rural-urban fight would ensue, with city legislators lacking the numbers to prevent a cut in state aid until the 1980 census increases urban strength in the Legislature.

Judge Warns Soviet Spies

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Diplomatic considerations allowing two convicted Soviet spies to remain free will not influence their sentences, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Judge Frederick Lacey cautioned the pair Monday that his decision to allow them to remain in the custody of Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin "is no indication of what this court will do on Oct. 30," the date for sentencing.

Rudolf Chernyayev, 43, and Valdik Enger, 39, were convicted Friday after a 13-day trial of trying to pass U.S. anti-submarine warfare secrets to the Soviet Union.

The two, both United Nations employees, were arrested May 20 with Soviet diplomat Vladimir Zinyakin, who had diplomatic immunity from prosecution.

Solar Flares Troublesome

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — There's a dark side to those brilliant flares that erupt on the sun, says the National Geographic Society.

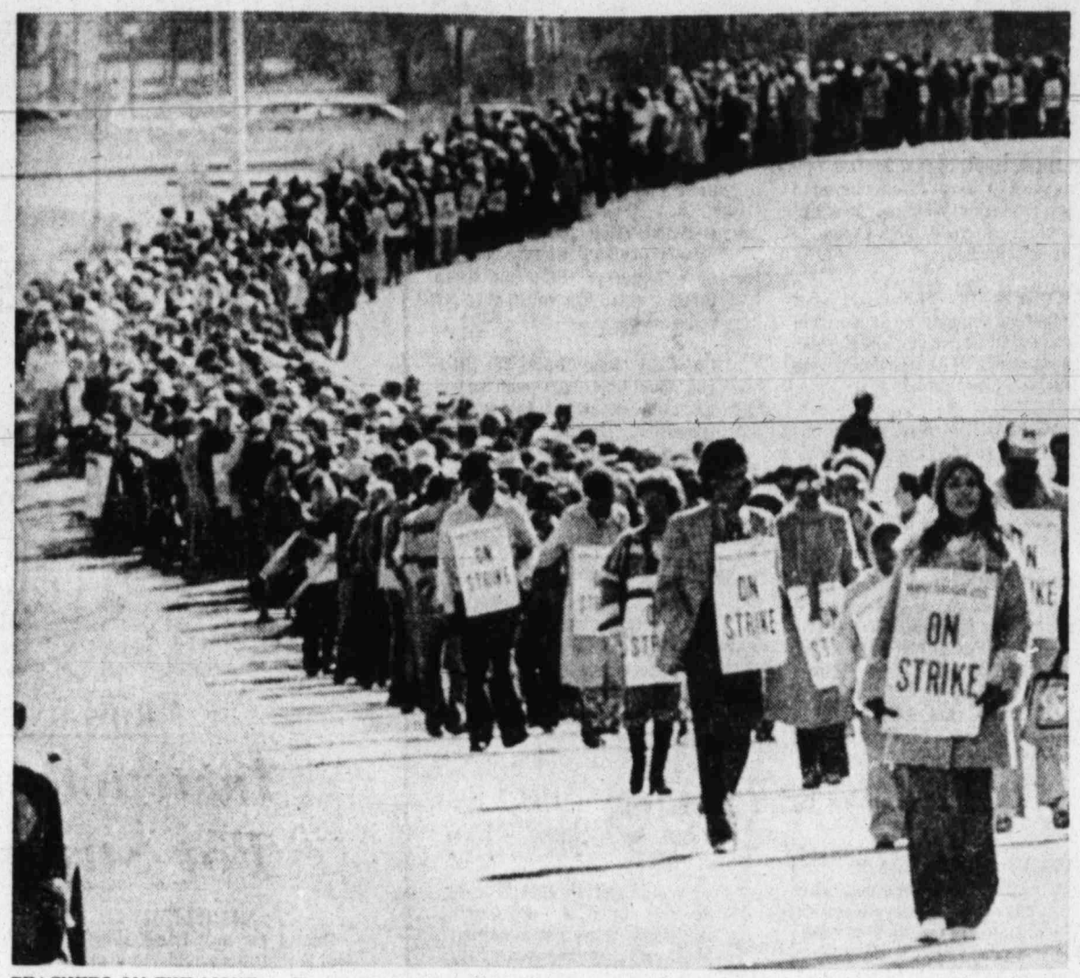

A powerful solar flare can release energy comparable to billions of hydrogen bombs and affect everything from orbiting spacecraft to the lights in the family living room.

Communications can be sent into a state of havoc by the X-rays and particles such as protons and electrons spewed toward earth by a large flare, with shortwave transmissions blacked out, compass needles swinging widly and teleprinter messages badly garbled.

A few years ago, a powerful solar emission caused a blackout in parts of British Columbia, Canada.

"If a crucial transformer were shut down in a peak load area by the radiation from a major flare, it could have a cascading effect," says Gary Heckman, chief of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Space Environment Services Center in Boulder.

Heckman says the center has been especially busy since a new 11-year cycle of major flare activity began in 1976, with 24 major flares sighted since the cycle began.

TEACHERS ON THE MOVE — Thousands of striking Memphis school teachers and their supporters march downtown to the city hall for a rally Monday. Cleveland Teachers End Strike

By The Associated Press

School opened today for 100,000 Cleveland pupils and about 10,000 teachers and other school workers, 40 days after the scheduled opening was delayed by a strike.

Classes were held in Memphis, Tenn., despite the strike by teachers there and Wilmington, Del., operated some of its schools despite the walkout by regular teachers seeking higher wages.

Some 113,000 students are affected in Memphis, while about 64,000 students are without their regular teachers in Wilmington.

Cleveland's strike ended Thursday, and the 10,000 teachers and striking employees have been preparing lesson plans and sprucing up school buildings since then. Today was a half-day of school, with regular classes set to begin Wednesday.

The State Controlling Board Monday approved Cleveland's request that it ease restrictions on a $20.7 million emergency loan, so the district could honor the agreement to increase employees' pay by 8 percent.

Also Monday, U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti said Cleveland could close 26 of its 182 buildings without regard for the racial effects of the closings. The ruling means there will be no court-ordered desegregation until Feb. 1, when the judge said the school board should be ready to implement plans to desegregate schools for 11,000 students.

In Memphis, representatives of more than 5,000 striking teachers and the city school board agreed to return to the bargaining table today after a scheduled contempt of court hearing — provided union leaders have not been jailed. Meanwhile, attorneys for the union asked that charges be dropped against 38 striking teachers and a judge said he would consider the request.

Negotiations were held Monday in Memphis for the first time since the strike began Oct. 10. Among items unresolved are salaries, teacher evaluation and assignments and teacher influence on policy.

In Wilmington, at least 20 secondary schools were closed for the day during the morning and shcool officials predicted they would have to shut down more during the day because of low attendance.

On the strike's first day 51 of the district's 98 schools were shut down and some schools which were open Monday had fewer than 75 students.

Industry Report Boosts Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP)— The nation's industrial output rose by 0.5 percent in September, a solid gain that appears to rule out any danger of a recession in the closing months of this year at least, government figures showed today.

The increase was the same as for August and followed gains of 0.7 percent in both June and July.

The Federal Reserve Board said industrial output increased in September for equipment, business and construction supplies and materials.

Although some economists and businessmen have expressed concern that inflation and rising interest rates could drive the economy into a new recession next year, recent economic statistics — including today's report — have pointed to continuing economic growth in the months ahead.

The gain in industrial production means the nation's mines, utilitites and factories are continuing to produce at near maximum capacity with little danger they will reduce employment.

The Federal Reserve Board said industrial production increased in the third quarter at an annual rate of 7.7 percent and was 6.5 percent above a year earlier.

Other recent statistics that have pointed to continuing economic growth in months head are an increase of 0.8 percent in the index of economic indicators in August and a 2 percent increase in retail sales in both August and September.

Housing and auto sales also have continued exceptionally strong.

However, any assessment of the outlook for next year has to take into account the effect of the continuing upward spiral of interest rates.

The industrial production report and other recent statistics measure economic activity that occurred before the Federal Reserve Board increased its key bank discount rate Friday to a record 8.5 percent.

The fear of some economists and businessmen, as well as some members of the Carter administration, is that the rise in interest rates will make consumer and business borrowing so expensive that it could throw the economy into a tailspin.

The board said the overall increase in industrial production in September occurred despite a fall in auto production that contributed to a decline of 0.7 percent in production of durable consumer goods, or goods with a life of more than three years. Production of durable home goods did increase, however.

Auto assemblies declined to an annual rate of 8.9 million units from the August rate of 9.4 million units. A key reason, the board said, was a strike by railroad clerks that tied up transportation.

The board said output of non-durable consumer goods rose 0.3 percent in September, while business equipment output advanced 0.6 percent and was 9.3 percent above a year earlier.

Output of materials increased 0.8 percent, although coal production was also limited by the railroad strike.

The board's industrial production index in September stood at 147.5 of the 1967 average of 100.

HEW Cites Toll From Alcoholism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten million Americans—or 7 percent of all adults —are problem drinkers, and alcohol abuse may be to blame for 205,000 deaths annually at a cost to society of at least $43 billion, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said today.

Califano released a special report to Congress on "Alcohol and Health" and promised that the administration would submit new recommendations next year for combating problem drinking.

"The evidence is overwhelming. This report documents the reality that problem drinking is threatening or damaging or destroying the lives of literally tens of millions of Americans," the health, education and welfare secretary said in a statement.

The report, the third such special report to Congress since 1971, contained these findings:

—An estimated 9.3 million to 10 million adults are problem drinkers, including alcoholics. More than a third of adult men who drink are classified as either being problem drinkers or having potential problems.

—An estimated 3.3 million youths aged 14 to 17 are considered problem drinkers, or nearly one-fifth of teen-agers. The young people's problems "tend to be acute rather than chronic" and involve binge drinking.

—Some 205,000 deaths each year may be associated with misuse of alcohol, including half of traffic fatalities, half of homicides and one-third of suicides.

—Research indicates "alcohol contributes to cancer, heart disease, liver disease and many other health problems," Califano said.

—Alcohol is the third leading cause of birth defects involving mental retardation.

—The economic toll from these problems was estimated at $43 billion for 1975, including nearly $20 billion in lost production and nearly $13 billion in medical costs.

—Alcohol consumption in the United States in the 1970s has remained at the highest level since 1850, with nearly 2.7 gallons of liquor consumed annually per person 14 and older.

Califano, in a forward to the report, said he hoped a trend to "increased emphasis on personal health and environmental concerns will favorably influence our drinking patterns in the future."

"The alcoholic beverage industry could make a substantial contribution by examining its current policies and procedures," he said. He suggested the industry seek to lessen "the potential ill effects of marketing strategies on youth."

Col. Sanders Plans To Continue On Job

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Work keeps you young," says 88-year-old Col. Harland Sanders, the man whose fried chicken changed the eating habits of many. "I'm up about 5 a.m. each day and ready to go anywhere they want to send me."

He travels about 250,000 miles a year but still hasn't been able to visit all 48 countries where his product is sold.

"I'm 88 now and still going strong. My ambition is to stay on for another 12 years and then think about retiring," he said. "A man who sits around and does nothing will soon rust away."

He says he collects about $200,000 a year from the Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. for advertising and promotional considerations, plus residuals from commercials.

"I'm not in it for the money. I've got all I need," he said, adding that his net worth is about $3.5 million. "The Lord has been good to me so I try to repay him by helping others."

A sixth-grade dropout, he doesn't remember how many scholarships he's created at various universities. "I've got six honorary doctor's degrees. Not bad for a boy who was educated in a one-room country school."

Born on a farm near Henryville, Ind., he learned to cook when he was 5 years old. His father had died and the youngster prepared meals for himself and a younger brother and sister while their mother worked.

"I cooked just like Mom did, and later, when I went into the restaurant business, I just kept on doing it the same way."

The Almanac
TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 17, the 290th day of 1978 with 75 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

American actresses Jean Arthur and Rita Hayworth were born Oct. 17 — Miss Arthur in 1908 and Miss Hayworth in 1919.

On this day in history:

In 1777, at one of the great turning points of the Revolutionary War, British Gen. John Burgoyne surrendered his forces to the Americans at Saratoga, N.Y.

In 1931, bootlegger and racketeer Al Capone was convicted of income tax evasion in a Chicago court and sentenced to 11 years in prison.

In 1945, Juan Peron became dictator of Argentina and ran the country for 11 years until he was overthrown.

In 1977, German commandos stormed a hijacked airliner in Mogadishu, Somalia, and freed 80 hostages held aboard the plane since it had left Spain for Frankfurt a day earlier. Three of the four hijackers were killed.

A thought for the day:

American humorist, artist and writer, James Thurber said it this way, "Early to rise and early to bed makes a male healthy and wealthy and dead."

- If you are a Senior Citizen
- If you have a Senior Citizen parent or relative
- If you have a Senior Citizen friend

Follow these precautions when considering the purchase of health insurance!

Recently various newspapers have reported stories of senior citizens who have been sold far more health insurance than they either need or could afford to supplement their Medicare coverage. In plain English, the stories have told of several cases where people have been taken advantage of by unscrupulous insurance agents.

While we know these cases to be by far the exception and while the few agents involved represent only a very small percent of the more than 250,000 professional, honest and dedicated insurance agents in our industry, we are deeply concerned and feel a responsibility to raise a voice of caution about this problem.

We, like other companies who serve this market, deplore the actions of any insurance agent who deliberately and knowingly sells anyone more insurance than they actually need or can afford. As a company, we want to do everything we can to seek out and eliminate these types of abuses by these types of agents.

We urge every senior citizen as well as their relatives and friends to be on the alert. We suggest that you always observe the following general principles or precautions when considering the possible purchase of a health insurance policy.

1. If you already carry private health insurance to help supplement Medicare, be very cautious if an agent suggests that you drop it in order to buy a different policy . . . or suggests that you need additional policies on top of those you may already carry.

2. Medicare is a complex subject . . . and so is health insurance that's designed to help supplement it. If you are not absolutely sure about your benefits under Medicare, or what kinds or amounts of health insurance you should carry to help supplement Medicare, always seek the help and counsel of someone who can give you good advice—a family attorney, an agent you know and trust, your State Insurance Department or a trusted and knowledgeable friend. Your nearby Social Security office will be able to answer any questions you may have regarding your benefits under Medicare.

3. All over 65 people eligible for Medicare should certainly apply for both Part A hospital coverage and Part B, which pays toward medical and surgical expense. These are fundamental to your security. If you think you cannot afford the modest cost of Part B, it is unlikely you should even consider private coverage.

4. Do not do business with any person who wants to sell you "Medicare-supplement" insurance by claiming that his or her company is somehow connected with the Medicare program, or that you might lose your Medicare benefits if you don't "sign-up", or that you must "act now" in order to get the coverage.

No reputable company or insurance agent will ever use such tactics. When in doubt, always ask the person to put it in writing, and then check it out at your leisure.

5. If you now carry health insurance designed to help supplement Medicare, and are not absolutely sure that you have good coverage, or think that perhaps you have too much coverage or too many policies, or feel that your insurance premiums may simply be too high—immediately consult a trusted advisor or attorney.

6. We invite you to use the coupon below so that we can mail you a free copy of an informative booklet published by the Health Insurance Institute, entitled, "What You Should Know About Health Insurance When You Retire."

This impartial booklet will give you many valuable facts about this important subject, and help you make sure that you will make the right decision when it comes to your health insurance needs after age 65. We will be pleased to mail you this booklet without cost or obligation, and of course, no agent will call on you.

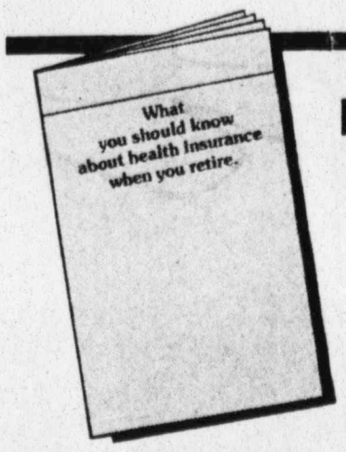

We here at Bankers Life and Casualty Company are proud to be a part of an industry which has contributed so much to the financial security and well-being of so many people for so many years. We are proud, too, of our reputation for integrity and honesty—and of the millions of satisfied policyholders we have been privileged to serve over the years.

We pledge ourselves to do everything in our power to continue to merit the trust and confidence placed in us. It is our most treasured asset.

DR. LAMB

Defeating 'Pot Belly'

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You had an article in our paper on sit-ups not helping a "pot belly." Could you please send me the information and exercises that may remedy this? Also, are there any other methods or exercises that will trim and firm a thick middle? I am short and tend to gain weight in my stomach and abdomen. I exercise daily but my waistline never loses any inches.

DEAR READER — There are two basic reasons for having a "pot belly." One is a lot of fat, either directly under the skin which you can feel, or inside the abdomen around the abdominal organs. Most people don't realize that there is usually as much fat inside the abdominal cavity as there is outside, under the skin.

The second reason is loss of muscle tone, because the lower abdominal muscles aren't exercised.

Walking and most running exercises do not use the lower abdominal muscles, particularly if all of the walking, jogging or running is done on a flat surface.

If you lie down and do an ordinary sit-up, regardless as to the technique of doing the sit-up, you are only going to use the upper abdominal muscles. If you want to test this, put your hand on the upper obdomen while you are doing a sit-up and you will see.

The lower abdominal muscles are worked by doing leg lifts. This means lying flat on the floor and using the legs as a weight against the lower abdominal muscles. I would caution that anyone who has back troubles of any sort should not try these without having seen their doctor first. But you can do simplified versions of these that do not strain the back and, at the same time, will help to strengthen the lower abdominal muscles.

If you get the fat out and off, and tone up the muscles, you can do a lot for the pot. To give you more information on this relatively common problem, I am sending you The Health number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old girl but feel like a 50-year-old woman because of those horrible bags under my eyes. I get enough sleep most of the night.

I found out that those bags might be due to lack of exercise of the lower lid of the eye and it was suggested that I practice closing the eye by bringing up the lower lid instead of lowering the upper one. I tried that and, after a while, I gave it up since no fast change was occurring.

DEAR READER — The first thing is to find out what you really mean by bags under your eyes. One cause for swelling of the lower eye lids is the accumluation of fluid. This is most apparent in the morning when a person first gets up. Why? Because fluid tends to run downhill.

If you are sitting up, the head is above the heart and drains down to the heart, and the face and the eyelids don't tend to swell. When you lie down, the fluids in the tissue move into the facial area and the lower lids swell. If you have marked swelling of the eyes, you need a medical examination to find out why you have fluid accumulating in these areas.

Another cause for puffy eyes is a small fat pad in that area. this little fat pad may be a familial or inherited characteristic. If that's what it is, about the only thing that can be done is the surgical removal of the fat pads. You are probably too young for this operations, depending entirely on the nature of the "bags" you are describing.

Grid Polls Undergo Reshuffling

A-J News Services

The Oklahoma Sooners, despite a narrow victory over Kansas, held onto first place in both The Associated Press and United Press International college football ratings, closely pursued by Penn State and Arkansas.

However, last weekend's rash of upsets caused some major reshuffling in the rankings, with five teams — Colorado, Florida State, Ohio State, Stanford and Iowa State — dropping out of the AP's top 20.

Oklahoma may have retained the No. 1 position by default since Southern California, Michigan and Texas A&M, last week's 2-5-6 teams, all lost, while Arkansas and Penn State didn't play.

The Sooners edged Kansas 17-16 and received 40 first-place votes and 1,137 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of 58 sports writers and broadcasters in the AP poll. In the UPI ratings, Oklahoma had 31 first place votes and 586 points.

Penn State received 11 first-place votes and 1,085 points (10 first place votes and 570 points in UPI) to Arkansas' seven and 1,072 (no first place votes and 499 points in UPI). If Oklahoma and Penn State remain unbeaten, they could meet in the Orange Bowl, while if Arkansas continues to win, it would be committed to the Cotton Bowl.

Both the AP and UPI polls are in total agreement as far as the first 11 spots are concerned. The rest of the top 20 lists have the same teams, but in different order.

Southern Cal dropped a 20-7 decision to Arizona State and slipped from second place to seventh in both polls. Alabama jumped to fourth with by defeating Florida 23-12, while Nebraska climbed to fifth by walloping Kansas State 48-14.

Maryland shot to sixth following a 24-9 defeat of Syracuse. Next came USC's Trojans, followed by Texas. The Longhorns moved up eighth after a come-from-behind victory over North Texas State.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Michigan and UCLA. Michigan lost to Michigan State 24-15 and skidded to ninth with

HE LOVES NY TOO — Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda is all smiles as he displays an "I Love New York" button Monday during a press conference about the World Series. The Dodgers are one game down to the Yankees and have to win the next two to win the title. They meet in the sixth game of the series tonight in Los Angeles. (AP Laserphoto)

Yanks Can Take Crown Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Yankees, unhealthy but happy, send tender-armed Catfish Hunter against Don Sutton tonight in the game the Los Angeles Dodgers must win to keep alive the 75th World Series.

After sweeping Games 3, 4 and 5 in Yankee Stadium, the defending champion Yankees crossed the continent to try and nail down their 22nd World Championship by winning either Game 6 or Game 7.

If there is a seventh game, 25-game winner Ron Guidry of the Yankees will oppose left-handed sinkerballer Tommy John of the Dodgers, the opposing managers announced Monday.

Sutton, who said he pitched well in losing Game 3 to Guidry's pitching and third baseman Graig Nettles' brilliant fielding, was upbeat about accepting the mound assignment.

"There's no gloomy attitude on the club," said the right-handed curveball specialist. "No one is dressed in black and nobody has made the funeral arrangements yet."

Sutton said the Yanks could expect him to change speeds and throw to spots, a style that Hunter has used since shoulder troubles and age have reduced his velocity.

"The key to pitching is to change speeds and keep hitters off balance," Sutton said Monday at a news conference, also attended by Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda and Yankees skipper Bob Lemon.

Hunter has made a miraculous recovery from an ailing shoulder, receiving a novel manipulation treatment June 24, then rescuing the comeback Yanks by going 10-3 for the rest of the regular season.

Hunter's arm is not 100 percent and he is just one of several Yanks who are hurting as the long season draws to a close. Catcher Thurman Munson, suffering from knee and shoulder ailments, had treatments on an ailing ankle Monday, according to Lemon.

Other walking wounded who used Monday's off day for medical attention were shortstop Bucky Dent and second baseman Brian Doyle, who has filled in admirably for injured Willie Randolph. Lemon indicated that first baseman Chris Chambliss (bad hand) probably would not play tonight, while Mickey Rivers, the hobbling center fielder, is expected to start.

It is a measure of the Yanks' depth that they are winning this World Series with several regulars in and out of the lineup. The makeshift right side of the infield, with Doyle and first baseman Jim Spencer in Game 5, did not hurt the Yanks at all.

Sutton said the scouting report on the Yanks' reserves had the tag line: "On a lot of ballclubs, they could be starting."

With Nettles playing third base in textbook fashion in the Series, the Yanks' infield has far outshone the Dodgers' inner circle.

Lasorda and Sutton used the Monday news conference to defend their leaky infield, which has committed four errors, but more importantly, has yet to make a situation-saving play.

"I'm not sure of the statistics, but I think we had the second best defense in the National League," said Lasorda. "The infielders shouldn't be buried because of a couple of tough plays."

Nettles' spectacular play has magnified the Dodgers' defensive problems. Los Angeles' infield had made only the routine plays during the first four games of the Series before collapsing Sunday in the Yanks' 12-2 rout.

"All I can say is they are the same guys who helped me get my 21 wins in 1976 and the same guys who got me in the World Series the last two years and three of the last five years," said Sutton.

Another area in which the Dodgers have come out a poor second is the designated hitter spot, the American League's wrinkle which is being used in this Series. Reggie Jackson, with a .444 batting average, six runs batted in and his mere presence in clutch situations, has given the Yanks a major advantage over the Dodgers, who have gotten three hits and one RBI from their designated hitters, Lee Lacy and Rick Monday.

Without the DH, one of the Yanks' four best outfielders — Rivers, Jackson, Roy White and Lou Piniella — would not be in the lineup. All of them have made big contributions to the Yanks' attack.

"When you have a hitter the caliber of Jackson and are still able to use those other guys, it's a big advantage," said Lasorda. "If there was no DH, one of those guys wouldn't be playing."

If the Yanks win tonight, they will be the first team in Series history to win four straight after losing the first two games. A Dodgers' victory would mean the home team had won each of the games, setting up another possible first: No Series ever has ended with the home team winning every game.

"It's certainly an advantage to have the fans pulling for you instead of against you," said Lasorda. "We have Tuesday night's game and we're gonna win it."

Hadnot Named To UPI Unit

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 236-pound converted tight end, a 21-year-old graduate student and a 155-pound halfback named Myron each rushed for more than 200 yards Saturday to earn UPI Backfield of the Week honors.

James Hadnot, the converted tight end, ran for 268 yards, including a 42-yard touchdown gallop, on only 26 carries to lead Texas Tech past New Mexico 36-23. Joe Holland, the graduate student eligible under a new NCAA rule, had 244 yards and four TDs in a steady rain to help Cornell upset Harvard 25-20. And Myron Hardeman, a speedy 5-foot-9, 155-pounder, raced for 230 yards on only 19 attempts in sparking Wyoming to a 31-22 triumph over San Diego State.

Joining the three runners was Michigan State quarterback Ed Smith, who passed for 248 yards and two touchdowns in the Spartans' stunning 24-15 upset at highly ranked Michigan. All four backfield members this week were named for the first time following a weekend filled with outstanding individual perfomances.

Hadnot, in averaging 10.3 yards a carry, broke a 36-year old Texas Tech one-game rushing record of 206 yards set by Walter Schlinkman against Creighton in 1942. He broke the mark with his 42-yard TD run late in the fourth quarter after New Mexico had closed the gap to 28-23. Hadnot's longest run was a 69-yarder that set up a first-quarter touchdown.

Hadnot, a junior from Jasper, Texas, was switched from tight end after graduation and injuries left Texas Tech with little experience in the backfield.

Despite the wet field in Cambridge, Mass., Holland scored on carries of 1, 1, 1 and 2 yards and set an Ivy League reord with 55 carries, eight more than the previous mark set by former Cornell star Ed Marinaro. Holland transferred to Cornell from the University of Michigan, which he attended his freshman year, and played for the Big Red his junior and senior years. Under the new NCAA rule, he was allowed to use his final year of eligibility even though he is a graduate student in histors.

Holland, a 6-foot, 204-pounder from Bronxville, N.Y., is the son of former Cornell AllAmerica Jerome "Brud" Holland, who starred for the Big Red in 1937-38.

Hardeman's effort broke his own Wyoming one-game rushing record of 220 yards, set last year, and was his third career 200-yard game for the Cowboys. Although he failed to score, the senior from Schulenburg, Texas, had runs of 46, 54 and 55 yards. He also had 58 yards in punt returns.

Hardeman transferred to Wyoming two years ago from Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, Texas.

Smith, a senior from Hallendale, Fla., completed 20-of-26 passes, including TD tosses of 10 yards to Lonnie Middleton and 11 yards to Mark Brammer, as Michigan State beat Michigan for the first time since 1967. It was also the Wolverines' first loss at home to someone other than Ohio State since 1969.

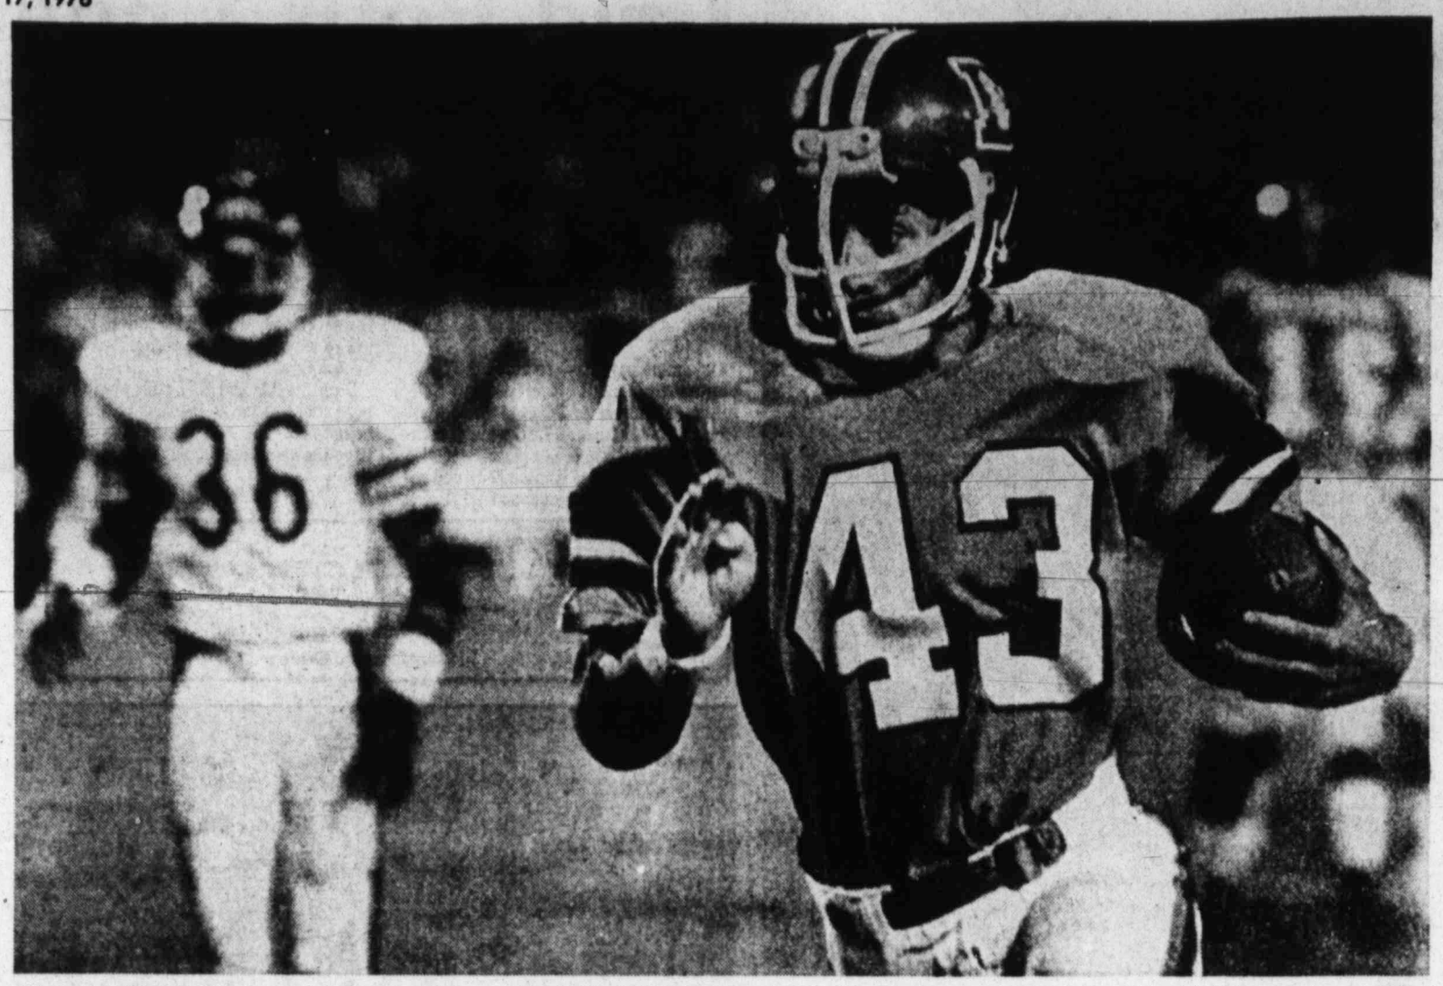

Smith, a slender 6-1, 168-pounder, holds every Michigan State career passing record except interceptions. And he was not intercepted Saturday.

"Eddie Smith keeps getting better and better and better," said MSU Coach Darryl Rogers.

Heading a long list of honorable mention runners was Temple's Zachars Dixon, who had a school-record 241 yards on 33 carries in the Owls' 16-13 win over Cincinnati, and Oklahoma's Billy Sims, whose 192 yards and a TD enabled the Sooners to survive a scare from Kansas, 17-16.

Other top performers were Miami of Ohio's Greg Jones (190 yards and 2 TDs in a win over Marshall), Arkansas State's Larry Lawrence (188 yards and 1 TD in win over Southern Illinois), Nebraska's I.M. Hipp (183 yards in win over Kansas State), Western Carolina's Jeff Norman (181 yards and 3 TDs in win over the Citadel), North Carolina's Amos Lawrence (180 yards in win over Wake Forest).

Also, Lester Brown (178 yards and 2 TDs in win over Virginia), Tulane's Marvin Christian (176 yards in win over Boston College).

KEY PLAY FOR BRONCOS — Defensive back Steve Foley, who played quarterback at Tulane University, gathers in the ball on a fake field goal play which set up a touchdown in the 16-7 Denver win. At left, Chicago's Wentford Gaines watches the play, which set up a TD four plays later. (AP Laserphoto)

Fourth-Quarter TDs Give Broncos Win

DENVER (AP) — The situation was growing desperate on the Denver Bronco sidelines. Norris Weese was injured the week before, Craig Penrose went out with a slightly separated shoulder in the second quarter and brittle veteran Craig Morton was left alone to direct the Bronco offense against the Chicago Bears.

If Morton got hurt in the Monday night National Football League game, the Broncos would have had to use cornerback Steve Foley, a running quarterback in college.

"Foley was our third quarterback," said Bronco Coach Red Miller, "and after that we were going to the single wing. And I'm serious."

Foley began preparing for that eventuality on the bench, discussing strategy with some of his offensive teammates. It wasn't necessary, however.

Morton held together and, after a successful fake field goal play executed by Foley, the Broncos struck for a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns to rally past the Bears 16-7 and hand Chicago its fourth straight defeat.

Depending on who you talked to, the fake field goal was either anticipated by the Bears or a surprise to them.

"We were looking for the fake all the way," said Chicago Coach Neill Armstrong. "We just blew the outside containment."

But Bears' safety Gary Fencik said, "It was my understanding we were looking to block. I had no idea it was a fake."

In the confusion, Foley took the snap from center and ran 14 yards around the left side for a first down at the Chicago 14-yard line. Four plays later, fullback Jon Keyworth dashed 4 yards for a touchdown and a 10-7 Denver lead.

On their next series, the Broncos were aided by a pair of pass interference penalties against Fencik to get another score, this one on Morton's 9-yard pass to running back Otis Armstrong.

It was a patented fourth-quarter explosion by a Bronco team which now has outscored the opposition 57-9 in the final period.

Morton, benched after a poor showing a week ago, replaced Penrose late in the first half and performed creditably, completing 8 of 13 passes for 109 yards and a touchdown with one interception.

"Craig Morton came off the bench and did a great job for us," said Miller. "The team gave him the game ball."

Denver took a 3-0 lead early in the game on Jim Turner's 45-yard field goal, which gave Turner sole possession of second place on the NFL's all-time field goal list with 283. George Blanda is first with 335.

Walter Payton, who rushed for 157 yards on 22 carries, keyed the Bears' offensive attack, but Chicago didn't take the lead until the third quarter. Roland Harper took a short pass from Bob Avellini and bulled his way into the end zone, breaking at least four tackles, for a 33-yard scoring play and a 7-3 lead.

Then Foley pulled off the fake, and Denver was on its way to being 5-2 on the season.

"We lost our poise," said Chicago's Armstrong. "Good teams don't lose their poise. That means we're not a good team yet."

Tahoka's Clifford Bailey Tops Area Honor Roll

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

What can you do about Clifford Bailey?

That's what everybody around the Class AA wants to know this season.

Last weekend, in a 38-21 victory over Roosevelt, Bailey rushed 34 times for 247 yards and scored 22 points (three touchdowns, a two-point conversion and a safety).

But wait, that's not all. On defense he made 15 unassisted tackles and helped out on nine others.

With that kind of game, there's no way anyone else could be chosen for the Avalanche-Journal's weekly Schoolboy Honor Roll leader.

That gives the 6-3, 205-pounder a total of 937 yards rushing so far this season. He also has scored 77 points on his 154 carries.

When asked the secret of Bailey's success, Tahoka coach A.D. Shaver credited a diet of "dynamite and raw meat."

This should serve as a warning to local Handy Huts to stock up on those ingredients.

One of the biggest games of the season so far was last weekend's Idalou-Muleshoe confrontation. Idalou won easily, largely because of its talented backfield.

Wingback Buckles Bryant carried 12 times for 112 yards, caught three passes for another 24 yards and scored a pair of touchdowns. He also made a key interception to stop a Muleshoe drive late in the game.

Then there's fullback Rickey Hobbs. The 200-pound workhorse carried 35 times for 141 yards and converted an amazing 15 first downs.

Tailback Larry Smith didn't have quite the credentials of those two, getting 97 steps on 14 tries and scoring a TD, but his contribution was bolstered by the fact that he was just filling in for an injured starter.

Other outstanding performers included:

Valley's Darrel Dowd had 18 carries for 275 yards, scored two touchdowns and kicked an extra point as the Patriots thumped Nazareth 42-0 in an important District 2-B North game.

Amherst's Wayne Johnson got 200 yards on 27 carries and scored three TDs, one on a 35-yard interception return. Halfback Ronadl Johnson ran 22 times for 115 yards and threw a 45-yard scoring as the Bulldogs took a 24-14 win over Sundown.

The Sterling City-Loraine matchup provided a couple of good rushing performances. Sterling City's Botts Demery had 168 yards on 25 carries. He scored the Eagles only TD. Loraine's Curtis Haden had 115 yards on 26 tries for the 20-6 victors.

Post wingback Cliff Kirkpatrick carried 17 times, gaining 138 yards and scoring a pair of touchdowns as the Angelopes fell to their fourth loss against one win, 21-14 against Slaton.

Lazbuddie's Charleson Steinbock just seems to keep rolling along. He ran 18 times and got 129 yards, but the big thing was that he scored four TDs in the Lonhorns 41-23 victory over District 2-B South arch-rival Sudan.

Those who have been following the area football scene know that Sudan has a star of its own, John Miles. This weekend he got 214 yards on 24 carries and ran over a pair of two-point conversions. He now has 1228 yards on 125 tries on the season.

Meadow's Marcus Cruz rushed for 241 yards on 31 carries in a 26-0 win over Dawson. Backfield mate Lance Bingham carried 13 times for 134 yards but also intercepted a pass, his ninth of the season.

Wilson's Calvin Wilke gained 144 yards last weekend, bringing his total of 678 for the year. He also intercepted a pass and returned it 33 yards and kicked a 39-yard field goal.

Shallowater middle linebacker Barry Randolph had 18 tackles, nine unassisted, and returned an interception 26 yards for a touchdown against Stanton.

Ropes' sophomore safety Gene Valentine intercepted two passes and ran them back for a total of 47. He was also in on six tackles, two of them touchdown safers, according to his coach.

SMU's Tolbert Nabs SWC Weekly Award

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff was trying to explain the frustration of keeping the football away from Emanuel Quezon Tolbert.

"We mixed coverages but there's no way you can stop a kid who can jump like that," said Teaff. "He's just a great athlete."

Tolbert, a junior wingback from Little Rock, Ark., caught 13 passes, four of them for touchdowns, and gained 134 yards Saturday as Southern Methodist charged from behind to nip the Bears 28-21 in a Southwest Conference game.

It earned Tolbert The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week award in the SWC.

On two of the touchdown passes, SMU quarterback Mike Ford just floated the ball in the air and Tolbert outleaped the Baylor defenders for the ball.

"I guess he could dunk a basketball if he tried," said SMU Coach Ron Meyer of Tolbert. "He is just fantastic. There's none in the country any better."

Tolbert, who stands only 5-feet-10, has caught 34 passes for 544 yards and 7 touchdowns this year. Last season he was the second leading receiver in the nation with 64 receptions for 966 yards and 6 touchdowns.

If he stays healthy, Tolbert stands an excellent chance of ranking No. 1 on SMU's all-time receiving list. Jerry LeVias snared 155 passes and Tolbert has 115 in two and one-half seasons.

Meyer, who scouted for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League before going to Nevada-Las Vegas and to SMU three years ago, said "Tolbert has it all. He has excellent speed. Some defensive backs are fooled because he doesn't look like he's going very fast. He has great hands and great jumping ability. And he runs precise routes."

Meyer said "Tolbert is a short Drew Pearson. If he touches it, he usually catches it."

Pearson is the ace receiver for the Cowboys.

Tolbert was a running back at Little Rock Central and not many colleges sought his services. Memphis State gave a call but Arkansas decided it wasn't interested.

"I heard about this great little player at Central so we gave Emanuel a call and told him what we had in mind," said Meyer. "I guess he was overlooked but we sure wanted him."

Arkansas has paid for the oversight ever since. In one game, Tolbert caught three touchdown passes against the Razorbacks. In another, he caught 13 passes.

Isao Aoki Snares Match Play Title

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Japan's Isao Aoki, having won the World Match Play title, hopes the door now is open for him to play more golf in Europe and the rest of the world.

Aoki beat Simon Owen of New Zealand 3 and 2 in the 15th World Match Play Championship on Wentworth's 6,969-yard, par-73 course Monday in a final that some observers unkindly called a "match of the understudies."

Neither Aoki nor Owen are well known in Europe, although both played impressively in the 1978 British Open, in which Aoki was a first-round leader and Owen was nipped on the final round by American Jack Nicklaus.

At Wentworth, they both started as 50-1 shots in the betting. But in the four gruelling 36-hole rounds, spread over five days, Aoki disposed of American Lee Elder, South African Gary Player, the U.S. Masters champion, and American Ray Floyd, while Owen beat U.S. Open champion Andy North, Severiano Ballesteros of Spain, and defending Match Play champion Graham Marsh of Australia.

In the final, a low-key match, Owen led 3-up after the opening four holes, as Aoki bogeyed two holes. But after that, Aoki put his game together — "They're like that in Asia; they don't get upset and they don't get excited. They just keep plugging away," Owen said admiringly.

LCC Hosts McMurry

The Lubbock Christian College volleyball team will be making its final home appearance tonight as the Lady Chaparrals host McMurry.

Presently 12-12 on the year, LCC has already beaten McMurry twice. The first was a five-set win in Abilene and then a three-set decision in Abilene on a neutral court.

The Lady Chaps are currently riding a hot streak, having won four of their last five matches.

LCC Qualifying Set

The qualifying round for the Lubbock Country Club women' championship golf tournament will be played this morning starting at 10.

After today's qualifying, match play will continue Wednesday through Friday.

Schoolboy Rankings Have New Leaders

By The Associated Press

Gonzales in Class AAA and Newton in AA, a pair of patient runnersup in recent weeks, finally have broken on top in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

Gonzales ascended to the top in the Class AAA ranks after Huntsville, last week's leader, failed in a fourth quarter rally and was beaten by Houston C.E. King, 7-6.

Newton, which has waged a tight voting race with previous No. 1 Mount Vernon this season, merely out-balloted Mount Vernon by a 161-156 point total. Mount Vernon dropped to second place with seven first place votes compared to six for Newton.

Temple in Class AAAA and Farmersville in Class A had little trouble retaining their No. 1 ranks following easy victories last week.

Huntsville trailed Houston Furr 7-0 going into the fourth quarter two weeks ago but rallied with 21 points for a 21-7 victory led by quarterback Lloyd Archie.

The Hornets were behind 7-0 last week too but the fourth quarter rally fizzled when Archie missed the extra point that would have tied the game.

Huntsville dropped to eighth in this week's ratings and Raymondville, fifth last week, fell to nine following a 6-6 tie with Rio Grande City.

Huntsville's loss and Raymondville's tie allowed Fort Stockton, No. 7 last week, to jump into fourth place this week. Fort Stockton is unscored on in six games this season, out-pointing the opposition 214-0.

The same 10 teams remained in the Class AAAA list, although Tyler, No. 9 last week, exchanged places with No. 8 LaPorte.

Muleshoe was the lone casualty among the Class AA ranked teams, losing to Idalou 21-7 and disappearing from the poll. East Bernard, 6-0, moved into the No. 10 spot replacing Muleshoe. Bridgeport and Cameron remained Nos. 3 and 4 respectively.

Wellington dropped out of the Class A top 10 after its second loss and Dilley, beaten by Three Rivers, also disappeared after a one-week stay in the top 10.

China Spring, 4-1 with only a 23-22 loss to Class AA Waco Robinson, returns to the top 10 in the No. 10 position and Franklin, 6-0, moved into the No. 8 spot. Franklin has 17 starters from last year's unbeaten district championship team.

Among top 10 contenders in AAA were McKinney with 14 points, Jasper with 12 and New Braunfels 10.

Idalou, following its upset of Muleshoe, polled 15 points among the Class AA teams while Coahoma got 13, Llano 10 and West and Hondo each received nine.

West, 4-0-1 is a former member of the top 10 and Hondo is 6-0, including impressive victories of AAA Fredericksburg and Uvalde.

Here is The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll with first place votes in parentheses, season records and points based on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Akers Lauds Freshmen Backs

AUSTIN (AP) — The impressive starting debuts of freshmen running backs A.J. "Jam"Jones and Brad Beck "sure provides more combinations," says Texas Coach Fred Akers. The question, however, is what is the right combination for Arkansas?

Arkansas, undefeated and challenging for the No. 1 spot in college football, has had a week off to concentrate on Texas, 4-1, which was the only team to beat the Razorbacks last year.

The two teams play here Saturday before a regional television audience and a sellout crowd of 78,000.

Akers indicated Monday that fifth-year senior Randy McEachern has regained his starting role.

Freshman Donnie Little opened in Texas' 26-16 victory over North Texas State Saturday and raced for 62 yards on only nine carries but fumbled three times in 1½ quarters, and McEachern engineered all of Texas' scoring drives.

Akers told his regular weekly news conference that McEachern would start practice as No. 1 and added, "as I've said, he will be tough to move out of there."

McEachern threw touchdown passes of 41 yards to Johnny "Lam" Jones and 13 yards to Les Studdard in completing five of seven for 101 yards, with one interception.

Texas coaches selected him as the Longhorns' outstanding offensive player of the game. Tackle Steve McMichael, a 245-pound junior, was chosen as the best defensive player. McMichael had 14 tackles, including four behind the line of scrimmage — with two quarterback sacks — and caused a fumble.

Akers said Jam Jones and Beck "were really slashing." Each gained 88 yards rushing. They started in the absence of Johnny "Ham" Jones and Leroy King, who were hurt.

Three more players — Lam Jones and offensive linemen Wes Hubert and Jim Yarbrough — were injured Saturday, and Akers said they should play against Arkansas.

Texas was penalized 130 yards and is averaging nearly 95 yards a game in penalties. "That's got to go," said Akers. "We're going to be leading the world (in penalties)."

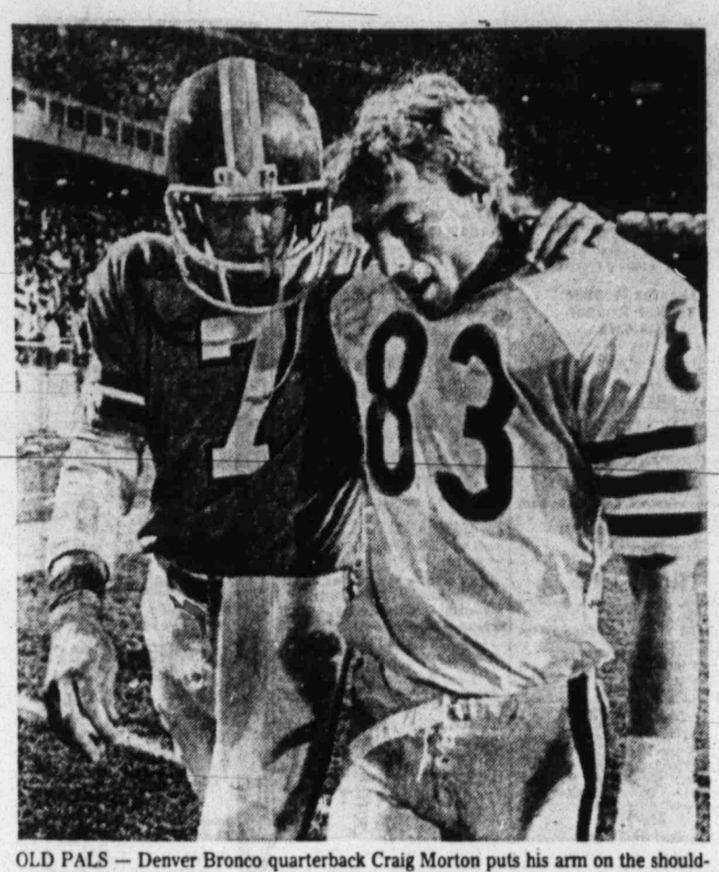

Akers said Arkansas, a veteran team, is "big, fast and good and experienced."

Asked about Arkansas' relatively low-scoring games, Akers said, "They've been awfully conservative in games to this point."

"They've got quite a stable of running backs ... and two good quarterbacks," said Akers, and " ... they're as proud of their defense as we are of ours."

Asked if anything was wrong with Texas punter Russell Erxleben, who had kicks of 28 and 22 yards and dropped a waist-high snapback in the Texas end zone for a safety, Akers said:

"It's just a matter of time until he's back up there (as one of the nation's leading punters), and I can't think of a better time for him to get back up there than this time. I fully expect it of him."

Houston Squad Displeased

HOUSTON (AP) — It is now a moot point whether the Houston Oilers were looking ahead to unbeaten Pittsburgh when they edged Buffalo 17-10 Sunday — a Monday night date with the Steelers is all that lies ahead now.

The Oilers, 4-3, were not pleased with their performance and had to come from behind in the third quarter to finally put away the Bills, 2-5.

"I don't think we wre looking ahead to Pittsburgh but I might have relaxed a little after that quick touchdown," confessed Oiler linebacker Robert Brazile.

Relaxation is the last thing on the Oilers minds now. With a 4-3 record compared to the Steelers' 7-0, another Oiler loss would severely dim any playoff hopes.

"Now you are talking about conference ball," Brazile said of the American Football Conference Central Division bout with the Steelers. "The only team that can stay with Pittsburgh is one that can control the ball and play like hell on defense."

That was the Oilers game plan two weeks ago when they lost in the closing minutes to Oakland in one of their best performances of the season.

"We left a little bit of our game in Oakland," said Oiler linebacker Willie Alexander, who batted down three Bills passes to help preserve the victory. "We were at a emotional high last week in Oakland. We were in the Bills' game mentally. We didn't make the mental errors that could have cost us a win. But we didn't always execure physically."

Oiler linebacker Steve Kiner said though of the Steelers might have spurred the Oilers in the second half.

Ponies, Dunbar Take Victories

Coronado beat Monterey 15-11, 15-7 Monday night to highlight area high school volleyball action.

Led by the serving of Lisa Spaugh (eight points) and the spiking of Beckie Lovett (81 percent) and LaRonda Williams (88 percent), the Mustangs evened their district record at 1-1 and their overall mark at 13-13.

The Coronado junior varsity also won 15-3, 7-15, 15-7.

In Levelland, Dunbar raised its won-loss mark to 5-15 with a 15-1, 15-7 win over Levelland.

District 4-AAAA Eyes Start Of League Action

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Rusty Talbot may have summed things up best when, last week after the Lubbock High Westerners had whipped the Caprock Longhorns, he commented: "Well, I guess the fun part of the season is over. It's time to get down to work."

He sounded like some Big Cigar, but he was right.

What Talbot meant, of course, is: It's District time again.

Down in District 5-AAAA, playing for keeps has been going on for the past couple of weeks. But in the Panhandle loop and in District 4-AAAA this Friday is really the beginning of the beginning, so to speak.

Just in the past 14 days or so, Midland Lee and Odessa Permian, a couple of teams that were expected to rule 5-AAAA with an iron fist, have emerged as the powers. Both have 5-0 season marks and stand 2-0 in loop wars. Abilene Cooper is also 2-0.

In 4-AAAA, Plainview enters the chase as the only teams over .500. Lubbock and Coronado both are a couple of games behind the Bulldogs at 3-3.

So it would appear the Bulldogs would be the team to watch out for, starting Friday night. And most of the loop's head bosses feel that way.

"There's no doubt about it," said Monterey's James Odom. "they are the team to beat. Plainview has the material and they've been scoring a bunch of points.

"There's just no doubt about it, Plainview has one of the best teams in the area...if not the best."

Monterey, the defending district champs, opens its second season Friday night against—guess who—Plainview.

Plainview's Greg Sherwood, a newcomer to the four scene, is one of those who likes to think the league title could go to any of the five teams competing.

"This district is pretty well balanced," said Sherwood. "Monterey was the preseason choice and until they are beaten, they're the district champs."

Informed that his Dogs had been mentioned by a couple of his compadres as the team to watch out for, Sherwood replied: "I hope they're right. We feel we've got a good team here, but it all starts over Friday night. The wins in pre season were nice but they really didn't mean much. We're just hoping to continue the success we've had so far this year."

Meanwhile, Lubbock's Rusty Talbot agrees with Sherwood about the race being "competitive".

"We should know more after the first week who to watch out for," said Talbot, who leads the Westerners against city-rival Coronado at Lowrey Field Friday night.

Talbot also mentioned that he feels a loss will not eliminate any team from the loop race. He feels it will take two setbacks before a team gets gonged.

Not wanting to "make anybody mad", Coronado's Jack Quarles declined from making a pre-district pick. "We've got enough troubles without getting some one made at us already," said Quarles.

But again, it was Talbot who may have summed up the chase best. "You know," he said. "I'm already nervous and its just Sunday."

No doubt, he was speaking for them all.

Top-Notch Records Common In 4-AA

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

A 5-1 record should qualify Floydada for consideration as one of the best teams in the area Class AA scene. Unfortunately for the Whirlwinds though, that kind of season is becoming a dime a dozen around District 4-AA.

There are three teams with only one loss in the conference and a fourth with only two defeats.

It doesn't help matters at all either when one of them, Idalou, is considered one of the very best Class AA teams in the state.

And to make matters worse, when Floydada finally gets a chance for some headlines (playing one of the top-ranked teams in Class A) Idalou takes off to Muleshoe for a long-awaited battle with one of the top-ranked teams in Class AA.

Well, Idalou did what was expected of it, knocking off Muleshoe 21-7 and Floydada did what wasn't expected of it, upsetting Wellington 19-14.

Now the district teams can get down to serious business and start fighting among themselves.

District competition opens this weekend with Abernathy (5-1) visiting Tulia (1-4) and Floydada (5-1) traveling to Lockney (4-2). Idalou takes a breather.

"Starting this week there's no tomorrow," said Whirlwind coach L.G. Wilson. "This is a tough district all around. Even the ones that — well, look ol' Lockney's sitting over there with a 4-2 record.

"Even Tulia, they're over there with a 1-5 record but they're going to develop," he continued. "They have to have had one of the best AA schedules in the state. If they can bounce back and not be down they're going to be tough."

Despite last week's win over Wellington and next week's showdown with Idalou, Wilson says Friday night's matchup with Lockney is the one his players are looking forward to.

"We've been fortunate to beat them probably more than our fair share of times but its never been easy by any means. The shoe's just been on the right foot so far.

"This is a real community battle. And when you get two communities that support their teams like ours do, the kids take a little more pride in the game.

"We can't even look forward to after that. With our people and our fans Lockney is probably a bigger game than Idalou."

That might be true of the townspeople involved, but to the impartial observer, that matchup with Idalou looks like a dandy.

The Wildcats looked next to unbeatable in last Friday night's matchup with Muleshoe.

Whether it was 200-pound fullback Rickey Hobbs doing his Larry Csonka act up the middle or wingback Buckles Bryant whirling past everyone, Idalou showed that it has a varied attack — and has the offensive line to support it.

On defense, the Wildcats were stifling, allowing the Mules only brief encounters with the football.

Mavericks In Midst Of Southland Race

By The Associated Press

After its first five games, the Texas-Arlington Mavericks of Coach Bud Elliott were winless and wondering where it was ever going to end.

Now, they are right in the middle of the Southland Conference football championship race with a victory over a team which had upset the defending league champion, Louisiana Tech.

The Mavericks mauled Southwestern Louisiana 24-3 Saturday night to run their league record to 1-1.

Browns' Fans Use Ingenuity

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' ban on beer and booze bottles taxed the ingenuity of the tipplers who attended Sunday's Browns-Steelers National Football League game at Cleveland Stadium.

One fan, David R. Shirk of Pittsburgh, eased through the turnstiles with three quarts of beer concealed on his person. He had two bottles in special pockets sewn inside his coat and a third under his 10-gallon hat.

"I'm not a bottle-thrower," said Shirk, 23. "But neither am I a rich man. I can't afford to pay 75 cents a cup for weak beer — not as much as I drink."

Cecilia Kennedy of Pittsburgh said she knew her husband John would be "miserable if he didn't have his beer," so she bought him a two-quart hot water bottle.

"I figured if it could keep water warm, it could keep beer cold," she said.

Another Pittsburgh fan, Bill Harvey, 24, brought his beer in a 5-gallon plastic container. He said he "used to walk into the stadium with a case under each arm. This time I got the plastic bag."

The ban was ordered by the Browns after bleacher fans threw bottles and cans onto the field after a disputed call two weeks ago.

Grid Polls

644 points, while UCLA rose to No. 10 by defeating Washington State 45-31.

Houston moved up to 11th in both polls following the Cougars' 33-0 win over Texas A&M.

The AP's second 10 consists of Houston, followed by Texas A&M, Missouri, Arizona State, Pitt, Louisiana State, Navy, Georgia, Purdue and Notre Dame in that order.

The UPI second 10 lists Houston, Arizona State, LSU, Texas A&M, Pitt, Georgia, Missouri, Notre Dame, Purdue and Navy.

Texas A&M and Pitt dropped out of the Top Ten. The Texas Aggies were trounced by Houston 33-0 while Pitt bowed to Notre Dame 26-17. The Fighting Irish, the defending national champions, returnd to the Top Twenty after a three-week absence.

Other new faces were Arizona State, Navy, Georgia and Purdue. ASU, 5-1 Navy and Purdue — a 27-16 winner over Ohio State — made the rankings for the first time this season, while Ohio State, Florida State and Iowa State dropped out for the first time.

Florida State was crushed 55-27 by Mississippi State, while Iowa State lost to Missouri 26-13.

Stanford Prepares Plan For Huskies

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Rose Bowl dreams almost certainly will vanish this weekend for either Washington's Huskies, the reigning bowl champions, or the 18th-ranked Stanford Cardinals.

The Huskies are 1-1 in the Pacific-10 football race and Stanford is off to an 0-1 start. Both teams' conference losses were heartbreaking ones to UCLA.

Washington, 2-3 over-all, and the 3-2 Cards have two of the conference's top running backs in Joe Steele and Darrin Nelson. Stanford has a big edge in the passing game, with quarterback Steve Dils averaging 22 completions a game to such talented receivers as backs Nelson and Phil Francis, flanker Ken Margerum and a trio of talented tight ends.

TECH IN ACTION

The Tech Tech women's volleyball team will take on Angelo State University for the fourth time this season when the two play tonight in San Angelo. The Tech ferns enter the game with a 16-14 won-loss mark, while ASU is 19-3.

"THE ALL NEW 1979 MARQUIS"
The Most Scientifically designed Marquis in history!

Mercury Marquis 4-Door Sedan
★ Room: '79 Marquis is actually bigger inside than in '78
★ Ride: A new Marquis "ride package" — a new experience for you & your family
★ Steering: a four foot less turning diameter than '78
★ Command Seating: More glass area than in '78 to give you a commanding view of the road.
★ Insulation: We believe you'll find the 1979 Marquis, with its new sound insulation package, is a quiet experience on the road.

New Pope To Maintain Traditional Bans

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Polish Pope John Paul II told the world today his primary duty will be to carry out reforms introduced by the Second Vatican Council along the guidelines laid down by Pope Paul VI and Pope John Paul I.

The church's first non-Italian pontiff in 455 years thus indicated in his first sermon of his reign that he would maintain the church's bans on artificial contraception, divorce and married priests.

The Second Vatican Council, which called together all bishops of the church in 1962-65, examined the status of Catholicism in the modern world and instituted some reforms.

Meanwhile, the Vatican announced John Paul II would preside over a Mass marking his formal installation as pontiff next Sunday. The announcement made no mention of a coronation, implying that the new pope would follow the trend of his predecessor by refusing the crown of temporal ruler of the Vatican.

Heads of states and of governments were expected to attend. The Vatican would not say whether it would be held in St. Peter's Square or inside the basilica, nor did it give a time for the Mass.

In his sermon, John Paul warned that the "general criteria of loyalty to the Vatican Council" must not affect loyalty to the basic doctrinal truths of the church.

"Loyalty is the respect of the liturgical rules. ... Loyalty also means the cult for the great discipline of the church" which must be "protected from the threats which are carried to certain truths," he said at a Mass celebrated jointly in the Sistine Chapel with the 110 cardinals who elected him the church's 264th ruler on Monday.

He said his two immediate predecessors set guidelines for the application of the council's resolutions "and we intend to continue on the road they have indicated."

The new pontiff said the church must take its example from the top.

"Called to the supreme responsibility of the church," he said, "an imposition which forces us to be exemplary in our wishes and actions, it is we in the first place who have to show our loyalty with all our energies, preserving intact the heritage of faith and corresponding in full to the peculiar commitments by Christ."

The pope stressed he would try to promote ecumenical relations with other churches and faiths and a "collegial spirit" between him and his bishops.

"The special cohesion or collegiality that 'with Peter and under Peter' unites among themselves the sacred pastors is an element on which we can never concentrate long enough," he said.

Collegiality, he continued, implies "adequate development of bodies, some new and some renewed, that can guarantee the best spiritual union," such as the synod of bishops promoted by Pope Paul VI.

John Paul said he would take a stand in political controversies only "for religious and moral purposes." His only reference to a specific political issue was to the Syrian-Christian fighting in "the beloved land of Lebanon ... for which we all ardently wish peace in freedom."

The second John Paul until his election was Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, the archbishop of Krakow, Poland, and at 58 he is the youngest Roman Catholic pontiff of the century. His adoption of the name of the "pastoral" pope whose reign lasted only 34 days was taken as an indication he intends to stress the pastoral side of the papacy and the pope's role as the shepherd of the church and to look to all the bishops of the church for advices, not just to the Italian cardinals of the Vatican Curia.

The stocky, fair-haired Polish prelate was elected Monday on the seventh or eighth ballot cast since the secret conclave began Saturday evening. White smoke signalling the election poured from the chimney atop the Sistine Chapel at 6:18 p.m. — 1:18 p.m. EDT — and about an hour later the new pope appeared on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica.

The new pontiff charmed the 150,000 persons packed into St. Peter's Square and millions more watching on television. With an informality reminiscent of Pope John Paul I and Pope John XXIII, he ignored the formal papal "we," addressed himself to "brothers and sisters" and asked the crowd's forgiveness for his accented Italian.

"Even if I cannot explain myself well in your ... our Italian language, if I make a mistake you will correct me," he said.

"I was afraid to receive this nomination but I did it in the spirit of obedience to our Lord," he told the crowd. Then he crossed his arms three times over his gold-trimmed stole as if to embrace the throng cheering him in the floodlit, moonlit square.

As archbishop of Krakow since 1964 and a cardinal since 1967, Cardinal Wojtyla spoke out strongly in defense of religious freedom and the rights of workers. But he dealt with Poland's Communist government in a businesslike manner to avoid confrontation, in contrast to the fiery antagonism of Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski, the 77-year-old primate of Poland.

"It is not the church's place to teach unbelievers. ... Let us avoid any spirit of monopolizing and moralizing," Wojtyla said in a statement in the name of the Polish bishops for the Second Vatican Council.

A Polish government spokesman in Warsaw said Wojtyla's election was "significant especially because he is a Pole, a citizen of a country that has lived the inferno of war which completed deep changes in its homeland and which follows a different development pattern as is universally noted."

In moving to the Vatican, the new pope will still find himself surrounded by Communists, with a Communist-led municipal administration in Rome and Italy's ruling Catholic party, the Christian Democrats, dependent on the support of the Italian Communist Party for the parliamentary majority necessary to govern. But the Communist-line Rome newspaper Paese Sera commented that the election of a Polish pope "broke the umbilical cord" between the Vatican and the Italian government.

The new pope is the youngest since 54-year-old Pius IX was elected in 1846 to begin a 32-year reign. He appears robust and in good health, factors the cardinals presumably took into account as a result of the sudden death of John Paul I of a heart attack on Sept. 28. John Paul I would have been 66 today.

The new pope is a skiier and mountain climber, two pastimes he will presumably have little or no time for in the future. He also loves to play pingpong, writes poetry, and is said to have a good singing voice.

He speaks Italian, French, English and German in addition to Polish, visited the United States in 1969 and 1976 and has toured Canada, Western Europe and Australia.

Religious Freedom Defended By Pope

By BONNIE TUCKER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, the first non-Italian pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church in 455 years, is a scholar, a sportsman and a poet who played a leading role in the Polish church's defense of religious freedom in his Communist-ruled homeland.

The son of working class parents and a factory worker in his youth, Cardinal Karol Wojtyla as archbishop of Krakow stood by the workers and the students, defending the rights of both Catholics and non-Catholics.

"Every year the workers celebrate the anniversary of his ordination," said the Rev. Bogumil Lewandowski, the press secretary of the Polish Bishops' Conference. "He is also a great friend of the students."

A soft-spoken man with a discreet smile and craggy features, the new pope is a great sportsman. He gave up canoeing in the mountain streams near Krakow several years ago but continued to ski, swim, climb mountains and go on camping trips.

He also loves to play pingpong and is reported to be a good singer, specializing in Polish mountain songs.

"Once while he was teaching moral theology at Lublin, we took the students on a mountain climb near Zacopane," said Lewandowski. "It was raining and he was drenched. As soon as he had changed his clothes he asked me to join him in a game of pingpong so he could warm up."

The new pope was born in Wadowice, near Krakow, in southern Poland on May 18, 1920. His mother died when he was nine and his father, a noncommissioned officer in the Polish army, died at the beginning of World War II. Oswiecim, the site of the Nazis' Auschwitz extermination camp, is 19 miles from Wadowice.

His family was poor and he worked to help out while attending high school and the university in Krakow.

During the war years he worked in a stone quarry and then in a sodium and chemical products factory. While working in the factory, he secretly studied theology, set up a recreational center for his fellow workers and was an actor in a clandestine theater group.

After studying theology and philosophy at the major seminary in Krakow, he was ordained a priest at the age of 26. Then he went to Rome and earned a doctorate in philosophy at the Pontifical University of St. Thomas two years later.

Returning to Poland, he did pastoral work in several parishes, took a doctorate in theology at the University of Krakow and then taught moral theology there and at the Catholic University of Lublin.

He was named an auxiliary bishop in Krakow in 1958 and became archbishop there in 1964. As archbishop he persistently fought the Communist government's restrictions on the construction of new churches and the establishment of Catholic publishing houses and information centers.

During the 1966 celebration of the Polish church's millennium, he led a procession of 500,000 people through the streets of Krakow. It was one of Poland's biggest postwar religious manifestations.

Pope Paul VI made him a cardinal in 1967.

Wojtyla's relations with Poland's Communist government were businesslike, and in church meetings he urged against head-on clashes with Communist atheists. But he often had to plead with government officials for understanding.

During the Second Vatican Council in 1962-65, he and other bishops from Eastern Europe insisted on a strong statement on religious freedom in Communist countries. But they warned that if it was too strong, it would be counterproductive.

Speaking in the name of Polish bishops, Wojtyla said: "It is not the Church's place to teach unbelievers. ... Let us avoid any spirit of monopolizing and moralizing. One of the major faults of this schema is that the Church appears authoritarian in it."

He speaks Polish, Latin, Itslian, English, French and German; has traveled extensively in Europe; toured 11 American cities with large Polish-American communities in 1969 and visited Canada the same year.

He has published nearly 300 books and articles on the problems of youth, marital and sexual ethics and philosophy and has contributed poems to two Catholic periodicals in Poland.

Americans Laud Election Of John Paul II

By The Associated Press

Americans, including many whose lives he has touched, responded to the election of Pope John Paul II with enthusiasm, praising his personal compassion and his courage as a Catholic leader in a Communist country.

As Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Krakow, the new pontiff has traveled extensively in the United States, speaking as a pastor and friend to Polish-Americans whose heritage and culture he shares.

The 58-year-old pontiff breaks a tradition of Italian popes nearly five centuries old.

"The tradition ... has been broken, but the 1978 legacy of a pastoral, people pope has been maintained," said Bishop Kenneth Povish of Lansing, Mich.

Americans of Polish descent, sometimes the butt of cruel ethnic jokes, were delighted with the College of Cardinals' choice.

"Now we can expect GOOD Polish jokes," said the Rev. Stanislaus Grabowski, pastor of a 316-member parish in Redwood Falls, Minn.

"We passed out free drinks. Everybody got a shot of Black Velvet for the pope," said Nick Muntean, treasurer of a Polish Falcons Lodge in Erie, Pa. "Everyone's tickled to death."

President Carter called the choice "very exciting" and "a very good choice." The new pope is a friend of Zbigniew Brzezinski, Carter's national security adviser, who was born in Poland.

"Pope John Paul II has shared the experiences of working people and understands the daily victories and defeats of human life," the president said.

Americans who know him, and there apparently are many, spoke of the new pope's humility and good nature.

"Boy, when it happened, ... I have to admit, tears come rolling down my cheeks," said the Rev. Edward Maliszewski, pastor of a Pittsburgh parish, who served as the new pope's chauffeur during a 1969 visit. "He's the man of the moment."

"He is a man for the people, a smiling, humble, warm man who blushes a lot," said the Rev. John Rolek of Chicago, home to 1.2 million Poles — more than any city in the world except Warsaw.

Dr. Wieslawa Hrynkiewicz, of Laconia, N.H., recalled meeting John Paul II in 1954 in Poland. A priest then, he came by singing on the slopes to cheer her after she'd broken her leg in a skiing accident.

"The man is tireless," said Bishop James Rausch of the Phoenix diocese. "I have known him to lay in the form of a cross all night long to pray for someone."

Bishop Alfred Abramowicz, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, noted John Paul II's compassion, which was demonstrated in visits to the city in 1969 and 1976. "He wanted very badly to know about the problems of our inner city. ... He did not come just to visit churches."

"I think we've got a pope now who can change things ... a man who can do things. ... He's young, intellectual enough and he's not afraid," said Jude Dougherty, dean of the school of philosophy at Catholic University in Washington and a host to Cardinal Woytyla during a U.S. visit.

Archbishop John Quinn of San Francisco said he expects John Paul II to take a special interest in the needs of persecuted peoples because he has felt the oppression of both Nazi and Communist rule.

"A shared experience forges a bond between people and this man has shared the experience of oppression," said the president of the National Conference of Bishops.

There also was this comment from a fellow native of Poland. "A 17th century prophet named Wernyhora predicted a Polish cardinal would become pope toward the end of the world," said the Rev. Joseph Wdowiak of Parsons, W.Va. "... We hope he wasn't right about the end of the world."

Seasoned Fighter Resides In Vatican

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Church scholars see the election of Pope John Paul II as the enlisting of a seasoned front-line fighter against religious oppression to lead Roman Catholicism in an age when faith is variously threatened worldwide.

They said he had shown his mettle and found ways to maintain church stength under the strictures of Poland's Communist regime, and such tested-under-fire leadership seemed fitted internationally to withstand diverse challenges to belief in many lands.

"We've picked a man who has lived through one of the great, historic crises of our times, keeping faith vigorous under persecution," said the Rev. Joseph O'Hare, a theologian and editor of the U. S. Catholic weekly, America.

"Similar difficult circumstances confront Christianity in many areas, not only in the Communist East but in the secularism of the West and under repressive, rightist regimes in Latin America and elsewhere. The church seems trying to gear its leadership to come to grips with the modern world, as it is."

Other far-reaching implications were seen in the stunning, unprecedented choice of a pope from the Communist-ruled sphere, Poland's Cardinal Karol Wojtyla, who also was the first non-Italian pope since Adrian VI of Holland in 1522-1523.

Scholars said the choice not only concretely dramatized the global dimensions of the church, beyond the long Italian stamp on the papacy, but seemed to back church struggles for human rights in various areas.

"It will be a tremendous impetus and encouragement to others fighting for social justice in the Third World," said the Rev. Paul Boyle of Chicago, head of the Passionist Fathers, who has twice lunched with the former Polish cardinal.

"There are many things in this man that people have been looking for, especially people in hard and trying circumstances. Here is a man who has lived through that experience, kept people together, and been a leader in seeking social rights and justice for his people."

The new pope's stance under Communist pressures while also maintaining working relations with the Communist regime, was seen as a timely, widely applicable experience in these days.

Asked whether it would mean broadened church dialogue with Communist countries, and extending church policies of detente where possible instead of confrontation, the Rev. John Long of the Vatican's Christian Unity Secretariat, said:

"He would be able to strengthen it. He has been involved, in a sense, in doing the possible. It could mean a more positive dialogue with other countries where similar difficulties exist. I don't think it means either an aggressive anti-Communism or a complete opening up to Communism."

While the new pope has not been directly associated with the rising ecumenical ties between Catholics, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox, since Poland is so overwhelmingly Catholic, those acquainted with him say he has worked to sensitize Catholics to inter-Christian solidarity.

He also has been involved in Christian dialogue with atheists.

"He's gone through some good learning experiences for becoming pope in these particular days," said the Rev. Donald Campion, a Jesuit official. "His is a direct, personal contact that transcends borders of different systems and viewpoints."

Italian Bishop Luigi Bettazzi of Ivrea, near Turin, called the new pope "the sign truly of a church that opens itself to the whole world."

Bishop Loris Capovilla, who once served as secretary to the late Pope John XXIII, wrote that the new pope signified a "renovation of faith".

Barnard Suggests Papal Heart Exam

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the South African heart surgeon, says papal candidates should undergo medical checks with an electro-cardiogram "as a basic requirement."

Barnard, writing in a weekly column in the Rand Daily Mail newspaper, said, "I can't give a medical opinion on the death of Pope John Paul...but it is clear that if his death had anything to do with coronory artery disease the chances are high it would have shown up on an ECG.

An ECG is a reading of electrical pulses from the heart normally carried out twice: before a stress test while the heart is resting, and immediately after.
