Last Conference For Methodists

Dr. W. H. Coleman, presiding elder of this district for the Methodist Church, will meet with the local church tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the fourth and last quarterly conference of the year. Rev. R. B. Hooper, pastor of the Ballinger church, is urging that all officials of the church attend the conference and make their reports as complete as possible.

At this session the officials for the coming year will be elected including stewards, Sunday school superintendents, and lay leaders. The district meeting of the Broadwood district will be held on Thursday, October 31st, at Coleman.

Rev. and Mrs. Hooper will leave Ballinger on November 3rd to attend the annual conference of the church at Hillsboro. The Hillsboro conference will open on November 6th, but Rev. Hooper is a member of the admission committee and is going ahead of time in order to meet with the committee and have a report ready when the meeting is called to order.

Rev. Hooper is finishing his third year's work in Ballinger and much of his time will be required between now and time for him to go to Hillsboro in preparing his annual reports for the Ballinger church.

Judge C. O. Harris, of San Angelo, was in Ballinger Thursday, attending district court here.

Arrest Man Who Took Fight Money

(By International News Service)
HOUSTON, Oct. 24.—Frankie Edwards, sought for more than a month after he was alleged to have disappeared from New Orleans with the entire gate receipts of the Canzoner-Wolfe prize fight there, is being held here by Houston police. Edwards had been the object of a nationwide search since his disappearance. He was accused of absconding with $15,000 in receipts while the fight was in progress.

Negroes Attempt to Wreck Hoover Train

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—W. H. Moran, chief of the United States secret service, received word from his operatives in Louisville today that they are confident the two negroes who stalled an automobile on a crossing in front of the Hoover train had no intention of possibly wrecking the president's special, or even knew that the train and its distinguished passengers were due.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Oct. 24.—Two negroes were arrested here today and lodged in the county jail by department of justice agents who said they caught the blacks in the act of placing an old automobile on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Sidney Crossing, east of here, just a few minutes before the special train bearing President Hoover and party was due to come along.

Special Pullman to Aggie Game Likely

An effort is being made here this week to secure enough fans to attend the Texas University-A. & M. College football game to book a special car on the Santa Fe. A number of couples have already stated that they would attend and several have signed up for passage on the coach in case the number is made up.

J. J. Beck, local Santa Fe agent, stated Thursday morning that about 25 people would be necessary to get the best accommodations and that he believed more than that number would want to see the Thanksgiving Day game. If the coach is secured it will be set out here on Wednesday and those reserving berths will be able to enter them at 10 o'clock Wednesday night. The car will be picked up at 3:30 Thursday morning by a special train made up at San Angelo, and will arrive at College Station at noon Thursday. The train will depart on its return trip about 7:30 p. m. after the game, and arrived at Ballinger about 3:30 a. m. Friday. The Ballinger coach will be set out on a sidetrack and passengers in the sleeper will not be disturbed until 7:00 o'clock.

It will be necessary to ascertain the number of passengers for the special at once so that tickets for the football game can be purchased before they are all sold. This game is sold out each year long in advance and the time is brief in which to secure tickets. The round-trip fare will be $6.35 and $2.25 each way for Pullman. A lunch car will be included in the train and no stops will be made for meals.

MEN DANCERS SCARCE IN BOSTON COLLEGES

(By International News Service)
BOSTON, Oct. 24.—"Wanted: Two men to dance the minuet." Conspicuously displayed on the bulletin boards of the ten schools and colleges of Boston University, the above notice went for a solid week with nary an applicant.

And thus was the definite ascendancy of the modern fox-trot made plain.

And so the society ladies seeking the two men to participate in a B. U. festival began a search for co-eds to do the ancient dance.

When Bandits Rob Indiana Bank

The crowd which gathered around the First National Bank of Peru, immediately following the get-away of six bandits after they had robbed the bank of $50,000 in one of the most daring daylight holdups in the Middle West. The six men, armed with machine guns, sawed off shotguns and revolvers shot a policeman and a pedestrian, terrorized residents of this city and sent volleys of shots up and down the street to intimidate police. Ten employees of the bank were forced to stand aside as the robbers systematically looted the vaults, cashiers' cages and security containers. Inset shows Martha Endicot, stenographer of the bank and Gordon Smith, assistant cashier, who were beaten and bullied by the six bandits.

Grand Jury Finds Nine Indictments

(By International News Service)
AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—The state prison centralization commission in session here is expected today to compose its recommendations to the special session of the legislature for purchase of a new site for the Texas prison system.

The subcommittee today reported that it had in view several sites within seventy-five miles of Austin which could be purchased at prices varying from $75 to $125 an acre.

Frost Thursday is Earliest in 12 Years

The first frost of the fall visited this section Wednesday night and reports coming in from over Runnels county indicate that practically every portion of the county had some frost. In low places the frost was thought to have been sufficient to kill vegetation.

E. E. Feeler, of Talpa Route 2, was a caller at the Ledger office Thursday and stated that he had a big frost at his place and that water left standing in a galvanized bucket during the night had a thin layer of ice early Thursday morning.

HIGH INFANT MORTALITY IS SHOWN IN MANHATTAN

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—An inventory of the Child Health Service of New York city reveals that one of every twelve babies born in the borough of Manhattan dies within the first year.

Manhattan's infant mortality rate is the highest of any of the five boroughs. The Bronx has the lowest rate with one death in twenty births. Staten Island has one in 15, Queens with one in 17, and Brooklyn, with one in 16, completes the list.

John Pechacek Dies at Abilene

John Pechacek, 57, resident of West Texas for more than 30 years and of Abilene for five years, died unexpectedly last night at 10:30 o'clock as he sat in his chair at the family home, 341 Mockingbird Lane.

Although Mr. Pechacek had been in declining health for some time, his condition was not regarded as serious. He had spent some time down town Wednesday afternoon. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Pechacek came to Abilene five years ago from Ballinger, where he was in the implement and blacksmithing business for 25 years.

The funeral will be held from the Sacred Heart (Catholic) Church, of which he was a member. Further arrangements, incomplete last night, will be announced by the Laughter Undertaking Company.

Mr. Pechacek's son, John A. Pechacek, who left here last night with the Abilene delegation to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at El Paso, was notified at Midland of his father's death.

Surviving Mr. Pechacek are his widow and five children, Mrs. George Smith, Joe and John Pechacek, Mrs. Lillian Pitts and Gilbert Pechacek, all of Abilene, five grandchildren and a brother, P. P. Pechacek, of Wichita Falls—Abilene Morning News.

Atlantic Holds Fate Of Cowboy Flier

(By International News Service)
ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Oct. 24.—Reports that the wreckage of a plane believed to be that of Urban F. Diteman, American transatlantic flier, had been picked up at sea by an unidentified vessel were declared false by officials here following an investigation by International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The grim Atlantic today held fast the fate of Urban F. Diteman, "the cow-puncher" aviator, who dared its wide expanse in a tiny monoplane Tuesday and has not been sighted since.

One ray of hope remained that Diteman might have changed his course and headed for Julian-shaab, Greenland, where he ordered 600 liters of gasoline placed at his disposal two months ago, a Copenhagen dispatch said.

Compulsory School Attendance Monday

Compulsory school attendance will be enforced in Ballinger beginning next Monday with the opening of the third month of school. It was announced by H. C. Lyon Thursday. Ages for compulsory attendance are from eight to fourteen years.

The time and age limit is set by each district and in a district where there is no special truant officer the superintendent acts in that capacity.

Supt. Lyon said the law would be rigidly enforced in Ballinger and that any child not in school would have to give a very satisfactory reason for non-attendance.

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 24.—When you're out hunting and find a hidden still, don't try to operate it if you don't know how. Allen Langley, 22, did both and he's dead. It exploded.

Shoot at Italian Crown Prince; but Aim Poor

Nine Divorces; One License in Two Days

(By International News Service)
BRUSSELS, Oct. 24.—Guided by his "conscience," which he said made his duty clear, a young Italian student at the University of Sorbonne today was taken into custody by the police. The student was arrested immediately after the attempt to assassinate Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 24.—An unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Crown Prince Humbert of Italy was made here today.

The crown prince, whose engagement to the Belgian princess, Marie Jose, was formally announced yesterday, was attending ceremonies at the tomb of the "unknown soldier" here when a man wildly brandishing a revolver fired several shots at the distinguished visitor, but missed him.

A momentary panic followed and the solemn scene became an uproar as police made a mad dash after the would-be assassin. The prince remained calm, and an audible sigh of relief went up from those about the tomb when it was apparent he was not hit, and the catastrophe which might have had far-reaching consequences averted.

Cupid has been hit a hard blow by the court, but it is thought he will retaliate with a heavy batting average for the entire month. An average of one license a day has been maintained during the month, and with this average Cupid will win in the final counting.

If the court held continuous sessions for the entire year with the same average for divorces here would have to be many families imported into the county to make homes. In such a supposition there would be 1,642 separations granted with an average of 1.12 children each involved.

Miss Ima McKown, county clerk, should maintain her average in this supposition she would have granted 365 marriage permits which would leave a deficiency of 1,277 more divorces than marriages in a year's time for the county.

Our political observer says the difference between politicians and statesmen is that we still have the politicians.

THE DAILY LEDGER.

Some frost in Ballinger Wednesday night was reported, but it was only seen in the high places and is not believed to have killed any vegetation. Cold weather has been with us for two days and in many places in the north the temperature has reached new low records for the season.

Ballinger firms will observe two holidays next month. Armistice Day and Thanksgiving are always observed here by all business halting and without any petition being circulated. Armistice Day falls on Monday and will give workers two days of rest together.

Ballinger people have not paid much attention to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce since it was held in Brownwood several years ago. At that time a special train was operated to the convention site and many local citizens attended. If Abilene secures the big meeting for next year Ballingerites will again flock to the meeting, and that without the hardship of remaining in a crowded city at night. The pavement between Ballinger and Abilene enables anyone to make the drive in about an hour and a half. Abilene is seeking the convention and has thirty business men and thirty members of the Cowboy Band at El Paso staging the fight.

James E. Ferguson has announced that he is ready to be a candidate for governor next year if the people want him and this week promulgated a platform of ten planks upon which he would stake the race, if he got in the sweepstakes. There have always been many people in Texas who want Mr. Ferguson in the governor's chair, and he should have no trouble in getting people to urge him to run. Jim is one of Texas' best known politicians and has considerable support in practically every county in the state. Mr. Ferguson did not make an official announcement for the office this week but stated "I am not hankering but I am willing if you want me."

Old Ghost City Partly Revived To Make Movie

By Frederic A. Chase (International News Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24.—Bodie, one of the "ghost cities" of the West, forlorn relic of the gold rush, came to life the other day. A migration of strange men, horses and automobiles thronged the empty streets, and the old silence was shattered by the sound of hammers and saws, repairing rotted sidewalks and dilapidated buildings. From scores of miles around, stockmen, sheepherders, prospectors, drawn by what they believed a gold strike, flocked into the town, eager to stake out claims. Told the town was being rejuvenated only to provide a setting for a motion picture, they refused to believe it, and waited to see. Many were employed by the picture company. Food ran low, and the company had to share its supplies with newcomers. Finally, the film was completed, and the picture company left. The gold seekers, convinced there was no gold strike, followed. Bodie sank back into its sleep.

The real, old-time medicine wagon has vanished with the dodo bird and the woolly rhinoceros, according to Ken Maynard. The "western star" looked all over California, Oregon, Nevada, and Arizona for one he reported without finding a trace. One of the old vehicles on which the medicine man sold his marvelous cure-all under sputtering oil lamps after his assistant had performed with the tambourine and violin, was constructed from memory for Maynard's picture.

Ballinger Schools Get Good Report

Supt. H. C. Lyon is in receipt of a report from the State Department of Education as made by the supervisor who recently inspected the Ballinger schools. The report is very encouraging and every item in the report commends the local educational system. The fact that all grades are operating on all-day sessions is mentioned and wipes out the report of last year when first grade students were compelled to have half-day sessions because of lack of room. The health program carried on in the schools receives praise, as does the effort to direct pupils in selecting their courses.

In addition to the regular printed form the following two sections were an addenda to the report on the Ballinger schools:

1.—That recognition be given the reorganization made in response to the recommendation of the last visiting supervisor.

A ward building temporarily abandoned has been repaired and is now occupied by the fourth grade classes. Two teachers are in charge of this building. At present, no room in the elementary grades is over-crowded.

Any increase in enrollment will likely result in a need for more teaching force. The school seems able to care for such increase so that over-crowding will not be necessary. All grades are now operating on all-day sessions.

2.—That commendation be given for various features of excellence.

A carefully planned health program is operated. Effort is made to direct pupils in a judicious selection of courses. The curriculum is organized in elective groups of courses. Buildings and equipment are satisfactory and well kept.

Work observed was good. The various courtesies extended by members of the faculty are greatly appreciated by the visiting supervisor.

West Texas News Notes

Thirty business men and thirty members of the Cowboy Band of Simmons University, Abilene, left that city Wednesday night for El Paso to attend the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Abilene will make a strong bid for the next convention and in all probability will bring it back to this part of Texas. For a considerable time the Abilene commercial organization worked hard selling tickets at $25 for the round trip, including sleeper accommodation all the time the party is in the Gateway City.

Coleman is voting Thursday on a bond issue of $140,000 for the building of more streets in that city. Interest has been very keen there for some time but those favoring the proposition announced Wednesday that they were sure the issue would go over with a large majority. In case the bonds carry six streets will be paved and with the large amount of paving already down in that city motorists will be able cover the town without getting off the pavement.

A light snow fell Wednesday at Alpine and brought the first real touch of winter to that section of the state. The snow fell in large flakes for about an hour. Old-timers declared it is the earliest snow ever to visit that section.

A petition has been presented to the commissioner's court at Baird asking for a road bond election of $1,000,000 for the purpose of taking up the outstanding bonds on one road district and building a hard-surfaced road north and south through the county. In addition to the building of the one highway through the county, approximately 150 miles of gravel roads would be constructed in the county leading to the highways and giving that county one of the finest road systems in this section of the state.

A report from Lamesa states that 15,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in that county up to date. The estimate for Dawson county this year is placed at 35,000 and in case that many bales are turned out will be an increase over last year when 30,800 bales were ginned.

TERRAPIN RACING SEEN AS A POPULAR SPORT

(By International News Service) PONCA CITY, Okla., Oct. 24.—Terrapin racing is fast becoming a leading sport in the Southwest. More than 10,000 persons witnessed one of the terrapin races here recently.

Tourists Find Tips Still Go With Russians

By Edward L. Deuss (International News Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Oct. 24.—Tourists who come to Moscow expecting to find themselves free of the tipping evil find to their astonishment that the system is still deeply rooted. At the frontier station porters are forbidden to accept tips, but the first tilt with a porter at the Moscow station puts an end to the dream of a tipless country. The porter who carries one's bags from the train to a taxi looks deeply grieved if he is given less than two rubles ($1).

Unless the traveller is fortunate enough to get a state taxi with a meter, the ride from the station to the hotel, a matter of fifteen minutes, will cost anywhere from three to five dollars. But it is at the hotel where the real tipping begins.

"Try not tipping in the Grand Hotel and see how far it goes," said a protest article in a Moscow newspaper, which calls the hotel, the center of Moscow tourist life, "a relic of pre-revolutionary days, where the employees won't turn around without a tip."

There are other reasons why Americans are inclined to consider the hotel "pre-war"—from three to five dollars a day for rooms frequently without even running water, insufficient service, expensive and none too palatable food, red tape and frequent impertinence on the part of the clerks, all contribute to the impression. Ask a hotel clerk how to reach even a well known part of the city, and nine times out of ten he will misdirect you; ask him when the trains leave for any point, except perhaps Leningrad and Warsaw, and he will be unable to tell you and too busy to look it up in the railway guide.

Two American women recently left the full force of the red tape that rules Moscow hotels, when they discovered, well after midnight that they had locked themselves out of their apartment. The hotel clerk not only refused to give them a room, because in the first place they had a home in the city and the law, according to him, forbade their stopping in a hotel, and in the second place didn't have their passports with them, but actually turned them out of the hotel, to ride around the town most of the night in a drushky.

The hotel clerk's parting shot was that two women on the streets of Moscow after midnight without documents identifying them were very likely to be arrested, and he looked pleased at the prospect.

HONOLULU TO HAVE BIG GOLF MEETING

(By International News Service) HONOLULU, Oct. 24.—Two Japanese professional golfers, T. Yajuda of the Tokyo Golf Club, and Y. Miyamoto of the Ibaraki Club, Osaka, have been invited to participate in the Second Hawaiian Open to be held on the Waialae links here on November 15, 18 and 17.

Although not on the official list of invitations, it is understood that golfers from Australia, New Zealand and British Columbia may also participate in which case the November tournament will take on quite an international aspect. A large proportion of the professional golfers who participated in the first open here last autumn are returning, including William Meihorn, of the Fenimore Country Club, White Plains, New York, who won first place by taking a play-off from Fred Morrison, of Pasadena, California.

Among those who have been invited to play here, besides Meihorn and Morrison, are Tommy Armour, Horton Smith, Walter Hagen, McDonald Smith, Johnny Farrell, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Al Espinosa, Craig Wood, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Golden, Ed Dudley, Al Watrous, Billie Burke and Bobby Cruickshank. The players will come to the Islands as guests of the Matson Navigation Company and during their stay here will be entertained at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

MOSCOW HEALTH BOARD FIGHTS SCARLET FEVER

(By International News Service) MOSCOW, Oct. 24.—Health authorities have issued an order for the compulsory anti-scarlet fever inoculation of all children in the city. Public clinics have been provided with serum and are to make inoculations free of charge. No child will be admitted in school, nursery, kindergarten or any other public institution without a certificate stating that it has been properly inoculated.

This drastic step has been taken as the result of the prevalence of scarlet fever last winter, amounting almost to an epidemic, with a high percentage of fatalities.

Paris to Have Gayer Lighting On Boulevards

By Alice Langeler (International News Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Gay Parée will soon be more worthy than ever of its reputation, as "La Ville Lumiere." Twenty-five thousand artistically designed and multi-colored lamps are going to turn the beautiful Champs Elysees into a blazing path. They will sparkle from the facades of the building and stream from roof to trees, forming garlands from the Rond Point to the Arch of Triumph.

The trees themselves will be illuminated and the windows of the many smart shops and luxurious buildings will be ablaze in floral decorations. Fountains in the Place de la Concorde and at the Rond Point will play from dusk to midnight and music will play in the gardens.

But if Paris is one of the brightest and gayest of cities, it is also one of the noisiest and is likely to remain so. For in spite of efforts on the part of the police, taxi-horns of the familiar shrill variety are more active than ever and rag-men, chairmenders and vendors of all kinds cry their wares in as noisy a manner as possible.

Not long ago the Prefect of Police issued an order that chauffeurs would be prosecuted if they made unnecessary noise. This, like nearly all of the traffic regulations, is practically ignored. If a traffic hold-up tries the patience of the waiting taxi drivers, they set up an infernal chorus of shrieking horns which continues until the gendarme's baton gives them the signal to move on. Nothing ever happens to them and they are never fined, although this is really against the regulations.

Meanwhile Parisians who wish a little quiet are studying the possibilities of several new ideas for shutting out noise from their homes. One of the most promising appears to be double windows of thick glass. This may be better for the nerves but it will also mean more bad air to breathe.

And while the popular Prefect of Police, Monsieur Chiappe, is busy working on the noise problem, his plump little wife is about to inaugurate a fine monument to her remarkable energy, a hospital for Paris policemen. Madame Chiappe got the idea for it one night in August, 1927, when the Communists made their raid on the Boulevards and 220 gendarmes were injured. It was found that many of the policemen lay in hospitals beside the very men who struck them and from that moment, Madame Chiappe set to work to raise funds for building an institution to be occupied and managed by the Paris police force.

The hospital is much needed. Last year no fewer than 1,335 policemen were injured in the line of duty, while three were killed and 694 were injured street accidents. The benefactress alone collected nearly $100,000.

BOSTON AND MAINE PUTS BIG ENGINES IN SERVICE

(By International News Service) BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Five super-power locomotives, 100 feet long and costing $100,000 each, capable of hauling the heaviest freight train from Mechanicsville, N. Y., to Boston, with only one stop enroute have been put into service by the Boston and Maine railroad.

The new plus-locomotive with their great tenders carrying 18,000 gallons of water and 24 tons of coal, are the biggest in New England. Boston and Maine engineers have dubbed them "Camels" because of their tremendous capacity for water. They have the pulling power of 3,400 horses.

Meanwhile Parisians who wish a little quiet are studying the possibilities of several new ideas

China, Land of Temples, Mandarins and Rickshas, Provides Travel Thrills for Voyagers Who Are Seeking the Unusual

China, that vast empire of the Far East, with its peculiar customs and traditions, has a subtle appeal for the Occidental tourist and traveler. Here the traveler in search of new worlds to conquer sees Chinese junk, queer-looking craft with eyes in their bows so that they can see to go; sampans with statted sails, and merchantmen representing almost every country in the world. Hong Kong is one of the highlights of the forthcoming winter cruise of the Canadian Pacific Ltd. "Empress of Australia," which leaves New York Dec. 2, 1929 for a round-trip voyage of 137 days. It is also the Oriental terminus of the "White Empress of the Pacific."

Shanghai, on the Whangpoo River, another fascinating Chinese city is a place of contrasts—magnificent buildings, hotels and theatres—and narrow crooked streets containing mean, wretched tenements where one can procure trinkets and Oriental novelties. Shanghai is the most cosmopolitan city in the world. It is now a thriving metropolis of 2,000,000 inhabitants but it was a mere fishing village when

Britain Builds Big Racing Car To Set Record

By Kingsbury Smith (International News Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A racing auto fitted with two engines designed to develop no less than 4,000 horsepower is being secretly constructed over here for Kaye Don, the British racing motorist, who intends to drive it along the sands of Daytona, Florida, next February, in defense of Great Britain's title to the world's land speed record.

Details of this car were revealed today. It will be the most powerful racing car ever constructed and is expected to attain a speed of between 250 and 300 miles an hour.

The machine is a Sunbeam. Its designer is Louis Coaten, who designed two of the cars which have previously established speed records for Britain.

Kaye Don, who hopes to wrest from Sir Henry Segrave the title of "Britain's speed king," is confident that he will "run away" with the present record of 231 miles an hour, established by Segrave at Daytona earlier this year in his 1,000 h. p. racer, the Golden Arrow.

Don is further confident that America will not be able to put any car in the field that can even threaten his chances, barring accidents.

The new machine has been virtually "made to fit" him, for it has been built especially for him. The whole measurements are based on the width of the driver. So close are these that he will be unable to get in the cockpit without the steering wheel being removed.

In order to cut down the wind resistance as much as possible, the 24 cylinders of the two engines have been crammed together. The machine is no larger than a small family car and is very close to the ground.

It is shaped almost like an airplane, but whereas an airplane rises when its speed is increased, this car will tend to clamp itself more tightly to the ground.

Experiments are now being conducted with the tires and it is likely that they will be made of a composition consisting of a large quantity of silk.

Unprecedented precautions are being taken for the safety of the driver. He will be sitting in what is virtually a chrome steel case and will be strapped tightly into his seat.

The seat of the car is built on a spring which is claimed will act as a shock-absorber. This will prevent Don from experiencing any serious vibration, which otherwise might hinder his steering while he was travelling at a speed approaching five miles a minute.

FIND CANNON BALL FROM REVOLUTION

(By International News Service)

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Oct. 24.—A three-pound cannon ball, believed to have been part of the Continental Army's ammunition during the American Revolution back in '76, was unearthed during the leveling of the old McLean Asylum here for the extension of the Boston & Maine Railroad's freight terminal facilities.

The ball, which was also known as Cobble Hill, was designated as Miller's Hill, Fort Star, in a map made by British engineers dated 1775-1776.

History does not recount any bombardment of the hill by enemy forces, so it was assumed the ball was part of the American stock. Army ordinance officers who examined the ball expressed the belief in its authenticity. It is solid, a hair under three inches in diameter, and weighs 3 1/4 pounds.

Early in May, 1775, a report was made to the committee of safety recommending immediate fortification of Prospect Hill and vicinity, to repel any attempt by the British to march out of Boston. Directly in front of Mount Prospect was Cobble Hill, one of a chain of fortifications, including Ten Hills, Winter Hills, Mount Benedict and Lechmore Point, under command of General Geo. Washington during the siege of Boston.

GRANDMA'S HONEYMOON TO NIAGARA SLOW TRIP

(By International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Just 100 years from the day the grandmother, for whom she is a namesake, set out on a romantic pilgrimage—a honeymoon journey to Niagara Falls—Mrs. Anna Boyer, of Philadelphia set out by plane over the same route.

It was a commemoration trip for Mrs. Boyers, of the trip of the woman who had been dead for forty-two years. In 1828, according to a diary found in a secret drawer in an old desk, a young woman set out on her wedding journey, over rough roads in a wagon. The diary mentioned all the places she stopped, and Mrs. Boyer planned her 1928 trip to fly over these plains in a chartered plane.

It took three weeks for the trip in 1829. It took Mrs. Boyer seven hours by airplane in 1929.

Workers Produce Three Times as Much As 30 Years Ago

(International News Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The United States has produced more during 1929 than any previous year in the history of this country—almost three times as much as was produced in 1900. This year surpasses all previous records both in total value of output and in value of goods per worker employed. The National Home Study Council of Washington attributes this increase chiefly to the fact that today workers are more expertly trained and their output is multiplied by the use of automatic machines and electrical energy.

Captains of industry realize that the trained man is their most valuable resource. Co-operation on the part of employer and employee in better preparation for the "job" is doing much to stabilize the employee's position and raise the status of the American worker. Much of this training is accomplished through the study of trade journals, the establishment of company schools and the vocational courses offered by some study schools.

"The per capita earnings of employees in manufacturing industries is approximately 3 per cent above that of last year, while total payrolls in these industries by an increase of 84 per cent, it shows that not only were the wages received this year higher in last year, but also that more workers were employed. This is particularly encouraging in view of the fact that the cost of food, rent, clothing, fuel, light and house furnishing goods has remained practically the same as for 1928.

"According to data collected by the U. S. Department of Commerce, output per wage earner averaged $2,420 in 1899. In 1909 it had risen to approximately $3,159. During the next decade it more than doubled, averaging $6,862 per wage earner. A conservative estimate for 1929 values the average output of goods per man at $7,381. This is an increase of 205 per cent over the output of 1899. This increased wage is reflected in a higher standard of living, increase in investment and savings and in better education."

VETERAN'S WILL REPAYS FOR KINDNESS SHOWN

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 24.—The old adage about "casting thy bread upon the water and it shall be returned a hundred fold," was forcibly proved here when a 16-year-old girl was bequeathed $10,000 for kindness she had shown to an aged man in his last days.

When the will of Thomas Kenney, 91, a Civil War veteran, was read, it was found that all had been left to Rose Brunl, 16. Her mother, Frances Brunl, was named executrix.

Mrs. Brunl and Rose cared for Kenney in his last days.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

My Sister Says She Obtained Relief By Taking Small Doses of Theford's Black-Draught.

Edmore, Okla.—"I have recommended Black-Draught to a great many people, and they always thank afterwards," says Mrs. Carina E. 116 "B" Street, this city. Fifteen years ago, I was in very poor health. I suffered a great deal of indigestion, and I traveled from place to place in search of relief, but nothing helped me. I lost weight, and my food disagreed with me, and I could scarcely eat a bit. I had bad gas pains across my stomach, and I would wake up mornings with very bad headaches. I had a bad taste in my mouth, and would feel dizzy when on my feet. I began taking Black-Draught and found that I was getting better. I took a dose about the size of a pea, four or five times a day, for four days. If I had taken several courses of Black-Draught, in that way, I could eat what I liked, and I gained in weight. I felt able to care for my household, and do my housework. I am nearly a hundred years old. Five doses 25¢. NC-273

Slang Gains in Good Usage is Parisian View

By Alice Langelier
(International News Staff Correspondent)
Use slang, urges Pierre Chantaine writing in 'le Paris Soir' arguing that it is the very color of the French language and very frequently much more precise and more to the point than the kind fixed up by the forty immortals of the French Academy.

"Slang," says Monsieur Chantaine, "is being more and more accepted and used by people of quality. They believe that the expression popularly used by the man in the street has more force and more of the picturesque than the academic expression."

"They have come to say 'ten fais pass', which means 'don't get excited' or 'keep your shirt on' rather than the more genteel, but longer-wider 'sois sans inquietude'. Modern literature is flirting with the language of the street and it cannot be denied that there is a charm about these bold images. For example, take 'to cool off' instead of the usual 'kill'. The former gives an image which may not be the taste of everybody, but it certainly is a very vivid one."

Monsieur Chantaine defends slang because it has its title of nobility. Before Francis Carco, Francisco Villon used it. Then, in the second place, it hits the nail upon the head.

"A little feminine mouth, touched up with carmine," concluded Monsieur Chantaine, "which has just pronounced the phrase, 'J'ai un poil dans la main aujourd'hui, meaning that she is not good for any hard labor for the day, is much more to my liking than the pretentious bourgeoisie who thinks she is being somebody by using the language of the protocol and thus borrows one to death. 'Divie fargot! Slang is a la mode!'"

The talkies, endowed with plastic relief and color will shortly be the sole entertainment of the masses. In fifty years, the theatre will exist only as a place in which the elite can indulge in aesthetic recreations.

This is the opinion of Maurice Deleury, well known French author of best sellers, who is very pessimistic about the world's future.

The United States of Europe appear to him as a dream which is quite impossible to realize and the only hope he sees is a war impoverishing America and England and in which France will remain neutral in an inevitable conflict which is looming in the Pacific in which the United States and Great Britain will be allied by mutual interests against Japanese expansion. Mr. Deleury says that at this time the French will be onlookers and will have their chance to enrich themselves and this time it will be France who will lend money to America, recover debts afterward and make the Yankees pay high prices for French stocks.

A threatened strike of bartenders here is driving everybody to drink.

The barmen are going to strike because the municipal government won't let them form an employment agency of their own.

The public is making a run on the bar because they want to drink all they can while the drinking is good. What is there to a brass rail, they ask, if there isn't a tried and trained mixer of drinks behind it to dish out the alcohol.

The position of the aggrieved bartender is this:

If they can't have an employment agency of their own, out-of-work barmen will have to go from bar to saloon begging jobs. And barmen won't do that sort of thing. They're proud.

The Minister of Public Works, M. Henri Loucheur, is the fly in their cocktail. It is he who has refused them permission to open their own agency.

SOVIETS PENETRATING LEVANT AND ORIENT

(By International News Service)
MOSCOW, Oct. 24.—Systematic Soviet economic penetration of the Levant and a part of the Orient is going on quietly. It is accompanied by a cautious political influence that may eventually work to the benefit of the Soviet government, especially in Mongolia and Chinese Turkestan.

A significant expression of Soviet politics towards its eastern neighbors was made by I. I. Schleiter, member of the Commissariat of Trade, at the gala closing of the annual historic fair at Nizhni-Novgorod.

"The Soviet government desires nothing more than a growing friendship with the eastern and southern border states on the basis of absolute equality and respect for the political and economic welfare of all."

See Agreement In McClintock Case Shortly

By Francis F. Healy
(International News Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—In the treasure chest of an English nobleman whose very name has been forgotten, years ago there were assembled emeralds, rubies and diamonds and many rare paintings in the feudal galleries. This nobleman died childless and his widow married a tradesman by the name of Hickling. Ostracized in England, she brought her husband to America and settled in Ottawa, Illinois.

From this vast fortune there remains today a little less than a million dollars and that is owned by William D. Shepherd, once tried and acquitted for the murder of William Nelson McClintock, his millionaire ward. Within the next few weeks it is expected that Shepherd will establish a settlement with the McClintock heirs, thus ending long and bitter legal battles and the "curse" those McClintock millions have brought in suffering upon the generations since the death of the unknown nobleman, ancestor of Billy.

It was back in December, 1924, that Billy died suddenly of typhoid fever, shortly before he was to have been married to Miss Isabelle Pope, Shepherd, guardian of the youth, exhibited a will, made out a short time before, in which Billy had bequeathed him the fortune.

Seven cousins of the boy announced they would attempt to break the will. Chief Justice Harry Olson a few days later ordered the body of Billy exhumed. Death, it was found, had been caused by typhoid germs.

Dr. C. C. Fauman was questioned and told the state's attorney he and Shepherd had conspired to murder Billy by administering typhoid germs. Both were indicted for murder by the grand jury.

Shepherd made many successful attempts to gain his liberty on bond pending trial, even appealing to the state supreme court which refused.

On June 10 Shepherd was brought to trial and the jury completed. There followed a bitter legal battle. Charges of jury tampering, influencing state witnesses and perjury flew in the packed courtroom.

State's Attorney Robert Crowe charged in his opening statement that Shepherd had conspired the plot to steal the McClintock millions years before and demanded the jury hear every bit of evidence concerning Billy's life since childhood.

Miss Pope took the stand and testified that Billy had pleaded with her to marry him on his sick-bed but that she was prevented from complying because of the Shepherds.

Dr. Fauman was guarded closely as the star witness for the state when suddenly Crowe disclaimed him. Fauman was then used as a court witness and told of selling germs to Shepherd.

The trial came to a close after three weeks and Shepherd was acquitted after five hours' deliberation.

Miss Pope since then has been given $2,000 annually.

Eskimo Studies King Island to Aid Scientists

By Pierre John Huss
(International News Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—On a tiny precipitous island 80 miles off the Alaskan coast in Bering sea, ice-locked nine months of the year, buffeted by smothering snowstorms and arctic gales, with temperatures from 30 to 40 degrees below zero, Nagozruk, only licensed Eskimo naturalist, has taken up his abode in the interests of science.

Nagozruk is a collector of arctic and sub-arctic specimens, and was assigned to this bleak spot known as King Island by Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Science museum. The object is to obtain a complete collection of birds and mammals inhabiting the island.

King Island is one of the few places in North America that has not been thoroughly investigated by naturalists. Mr. Bailey pointed out. A dozen hardy Eskimos hunters and their families, about 40 souls in all, comprise the population. The island is about three-quarters of a mile long and a half mile wide.

It is so precipitous that there is no place level enough for hut foundations, and the houses of the settlement are erected on high piles, for this reason the King Island Eskimos are known as "cliff dwellers."

For some nine months of the year the islanders are locked in by immense fields of ice, and cut off from all communication from the outside world. Their homes are on the south wall of the island, and the time is spent in hunting the bullhead whale and the walrus and carving ivory, in which they are quite skillful.

Several years ago four of the hunters were carried off on a huge sheet of ice which broke away from the island, and they drifted for eleven days before reaching shore. For food they shot seals and water was obtained by warming snow inside their parkas.

As the island has never been visited by zoologists, Mr. Bailey is collecting important collections will be made by Nagozruk. Despite the almost paralyzing cold, numerous species of Siberian and North American birds make this island a gathering place.

Nagozruk recently reported that he has joined the "cliff dwellers." After spending several weeks at Nome, they boarded their skin boats and were towed to the island by a United States government coast guard cutter for nine months more of isolation. Every year when the waters open for navigation the hunters and their families paddle their skin boats to Nome to sell their products, take a "vacation" and then return for the closed season.

ENGLAND NOW HAS TRAMPS' NEWSPAPER

(By International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 24.—The beggars and hoobs of Birmingham now have their own newspaper. The title is "Abrahamman's News" "Abraham-man" is English slang for a vagabond. The newspaper is a single sheet of typed matter produced on a cheap duplicator. The price is "one flash"—one cent.

Despite its vast circulation this newspaper is completely unintelligible to the ordinary citizen. It is written in a jargon that only those belonging to the craft can possibly understand.

It contains a mine of information of the "blackberry-swagger" (hawker) and other itinerant visitors. The best of the "Wool-holes" (poorhouse) are given and all the "ganny vials" (towns where the police discourage beggars and hawkers) are given. The "scraper" (pavement artist) is told where he can hire chalked pictures for a "susheroon" (five shillings per day). The "gloak" (beggar who is "quicky" (broke) and cannot find "downy earwig" (charity) is enlightened by erotic signs of the whereabouts of the nearest "dolly shop" (legal pawnbroker) where he can "jug" (pawn) whatever portable property he may have gathered in his travels, and so dine in luxury off a "twoeyed steak" (kipper) or a German duck or sheep's head.

In fact no "manunder" (tramp) or "fencer" (out-to-door hawker) need "clem" (starve) or do without "chow chow" (food) if he follows the many "patteras" (private marks which tramps made on or near the doors of generous housekeepers) indicated in this newspaper.

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE scorns that ancient prejudice which harshly dictated that age was a limiting factor of usefulness. To-day, old age not only commands respect but demands its place in every walk of life.

Cons is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. See "Four Horsemen" of Football Riding On New Raids After Years

By Davis J. Walsh (By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Are the Four Horsemen, gay, insouciant marauders of the football field, riding forth on their raids again after an absence of five years? Eastern critics who saw Notre Dame win from the Navy at Baltimore aver this is so. They say the deeds of Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden are living again in the names of Carideo, Elder, Mullins and Brill and that, regardless of what happens to Notre Dame in its remaining games—anything can happen to a team that persists in playing everybody—the 1929 quartet looks to be the finest now playing football. Whether the present backfield actually owns a punter as good as Layden, a strategist such as Stuhldreher, an interferer like Don Miller and a half-runner of the ability of Crowley is something of a question. But there seems to be no doubt that the master hand of Rockne has fashioned another team for the gallery of football posterity.

know he was in South Bend until he was about to leave on the next train, with Southern California his destination. He had been told by the college authorities that there wasn't room for another student after an absence of five years? An undergraduate football manager recognized him at the railroad station, heard his story and found the solution. Undergraduate managers are likely to do that when talking to football players who are about to leave town on the next train. Anyhow, the solution in this case was furnished by a student whose father had died conveniently that day, making it necessary for the boy to leave college. Brill, therefore, could have his dormitory, it being mandatory that students at Notre Dame must live on the campus. The next day Brill had joined the scrub team at Notre Dame, there to remain for the year of grace necessary to first team eligibility.

He was only a fair backfield man at Pennsylvania, promising but no more than that. He is a star of the first water at Notre Dame. Maybe this is a natural development. Maybe Rockne had nothing to do with it. For myself, I greatly fear that he had everything to do with it. Rockne usually has everything to do with everything around Carter Field.

As for Carideo and Mullins, I know them only as members of the squad last year, maturing to the fulfillment of the master's plans. Jack Elder was a print star last winter, the only man to defeat Percy Williams, the Olympic champion, in a scratch race. Elder must be a sight to see as he turns an end at top speed. Few sprinters carry their speed in a football suit but they say Elder does. Rockne had another back of this type, Gus Desch, some eight years ago. Desch was a hurdle champion at Pennsylvania and this seemed to have inspired him to a wish for a delphia was spontaneous, impetuous. They say Rockne didn't even the game. Besides, with backs like Mohardt and Castner, they didn't exactly need him. But Elder is a first stringer, with much of the team's success depending upon his twinkling shanks. It will be interesting to see how far and fast they carry him this season.

"LIE DETECTOR" SHOWS CRYING HELPS CHILD

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 24.—By means of the lie detector used by the police department here the discovery has been made that crying relieves the nervous tension in the body of a child.

It was noted by Dr. Herbert Stolz, director of the University of California Institute of child welfare, in his address today to the regional conference of the American Red Cross, that when a child cried the galvanometer suddenly dropped to zero, thus indicating emotional relief.

The machine also indicated, he said, that children sleep less soundly than adults.

Needless Pain! The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing. Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

Parachute to Sail Down is New Invention

By William S. Neal (International News Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A parachute which sails instead of drops to the ground is the latest contribution of Army research engineers to make aviation safer and parachute jumping more pleasant. The new 'chute, unique in design already has undergone tests with dummies which have caused high officers of the Air Corps to hope that a much superior adjunct of aviation has been developed. Experimental work has been in progress more than a year.

When an aviator takes off into space in the new parachute, he will be able to control his place of landing, because the 'chute has a sail which makes it possible for him to steer it much as a small sailboat is guided. It also is claimed that the new article may greatly lessen the shock felt when the air catches it in the drop-off and also lessen the impact when it finally carries the aviator safely to earth.

Instead of the present circular mainsail, the Army research engineers have designed a parachute with a triangular mainsail. This triangle is rounded at two corners while the third is sheared straight across. The lines reaching down to the 'seat' in which the escaping aviator sits are straight, except across the sheared off corner, which has no shroud lines at all. Thus, when the 'chute is opened, the corner without shroud lines becomes a sail, forming a tail-like vent through which air escapes. By pulling the shroud lines, the descending flyer can use the sheared-off part as a sail, and direct the 'chute. It has a speed of three to four miles an hour under 'sail' in calm air, and can be 'tacked' to meet wind conditions just as can a sail in a boat.

The shock to the jumper is lessened through new venting of the apex of the mainsail. It is claimed. During 'low shock loads' this vent remains closed and at 'high shock loads' it automatically opens. It also is claimed that the new 'chute sways very little while descending, thus eliminating one of the most unpleasant experiences of the jumper.

New packing, change of the pilot parachute and other features of the new development all are said to represent an advance in the art of making the 'aerial life preservers.'

Particular effort was made to design a 'chute in which there would be no possibility of failure to open through bunching of the folds and tangling of the shroud lines.

Army authorities have not yet decided to give final approval to the new parachute, but they believe that a great advance has been made through the development and experiments.

Maine Seascap Scene of Domestic Triangle Film

"Whispering Winds," a triangle drama told against the rugged background of the Maine seacoast, is the dialogue feature showing for the final time here tonight at the Palace Theatre. This Tiffany-Stahl Tiffany Tone production features Patsy Ruth Miller, Malcolm McGregor and Eve Southern.

The story by Jean Plannette is of two women who loved the same man and of a man who loved them both, but each one differently. Eve was "that Benton girl" to Jim's mother and to most of the others in the village, for she lived in a shack on the water's edge with her shiftless father and Eve must be shiftless, too, for all she did was mend the fishing nets and sing. But to Jim she was the end of all his dreams while Dora was just a nice, sweet kid.

Then Eve's gorgeous voice was heard by some New York show folks, who offered her a career—and off Eve went in search of fame, leaving a letter asking her lover to wait for her. But the letter never reached Jim until after he had solemnly promised to love, honor and protect Dora in a marriage that was more a gesture of wounded pride than a real desire to make Dora his wife.

The story of their marriage and the return of Eve is unfolded in "Whispering Winds," directed by James Flood, and with dialogue, singing and music score synchronization by RCA Photophone.

Norma Shearer Tops Fine Cast in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" at the Palace Monday

"The Trial of Mary Dugan," Bayard Veiller's all-talking picture, of the stage success of the same name, will begin an engagement at the Palace Theatre Monday of next week.

Bayard Veiller, author of the stage play, went to Hollywood under a special agreement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to direct the screen adaptation. Veiller, whose earlier plays include "Within the Law" and "The Thirteenth Chair" recently sailed for England and plans to produce his next play there.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" ran for more than a year on Broadway and is now being presented by capital and compass in his country and Europe. The picture has an all-star cast headed by Norma Shearer. Lewis Stone has the part of the defense attorney, H. B. Warner that of the prosecuting attorney, and Raymond Hackett, who played the role of Jimmy Dugan on the stage has the same part in photoplay. Others in the cast include Olive Tell, Lilyan Tashman, DeWitt Jennings, Mary Doran, Wilfrid North, and others.

The new picture is M-G-M's second all-dialogue production, following the sensationally successful "Broadway Melody" in that classification. Miss Shearer was personally selected by Mr. Veiller for the title role, despite the fact that she was entirely without stage or 'talkie' experience. Her voice is reported to be one of the best yet encountered among screen players, in its recording quality.

In transferring "Mary Dugan" from stage to screen, Mr. Veiller is said to have adhered to the original dramatic treatment. Courtroom dialogue provides the action and setting and the stage production is altered slightly to conform with film requirements.

GERMAN EXPERIMENT TO CURB DISASTERS

(By International News Service)
BERLIN, Oct. 24—In order to curb fatalities and to learn more about the real causes of mine disasters the German government, in close connection with the Prussian state and the German Miners Association, installed an experimental mine near Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr coal district. This mine is the only one of its kind in Europe.

In the former Hibernia mine, which long ago was abandoned because of the danger of explosion there, salvage crews are trained to use gas-masks, reinforce and rebuild destroyed pits and handle fire fighting apparatus. In special rooms beneath the surface rescue workers of the various German mines undergo severe tests as to their fitness for this kind of work, five times a year. These rooms are filled with poisonous carbon gas and heated up to 104 degrees, and, under the same conditions as after a real mine explosion, the men have to fulfill various tasks.

In other parts of the mine chemists and mining engineers are experimenting with artificial coal gas and dust explosions. From safe cabins the explosions are photographed and measured by scientific apparatus. All sorts of explosives are thus tested to find out one that develops the least sparks when exploding.

FRENCH SCULPTOR IS STILL WORKING ON "TIGER" BUST

(By International News Service)
LES SABLES D'OLONNE, Oct. 24—Georges Clemenceau is once more sitting for the sculptor, Rene Godard, who is making a bust of the celebrated "Tiger." Since his illness, the ex-premier has continually fussed about the world's anxiety in regard to his health and slight attack and wanted to know whether Monsieur Godard thought he would be able to finish the bust before he died.

Mrs. J. F. Currie returned Wednesday night from San Antonio after visiting three weeks with friends and relatives there. She was accompanied home by her cousin, Miss Eddie Storm, who will visit here for the next several weeks.

The Ballinger Bearcats have finished the crucial time of the year in their football schedule. Next week they will start a series of conference games that will continue until the season is over. Four hard games stare the Bearcats in the face and each game to be played will tax the strength of the Ballinger team. Lampasas, Coleman, Brady and Winters all have good teams and any team is capable of taking Ballinger out of the running unless the boys quit thinking they are good and come to realize that they just barely have a fighting chance to get in the finals of the district. It has been unfortunate that the first part of the year's schedule has been so light and that no real hard competition has been provided for the Bearcats. The long string of easy games has had a tendency to make the players and fans over confident and unless Coaches Wright and Davis can make the Bearcats understand that they will have to play real well, anyone of the four teams to be met is likely to win.

Coleman now looms as a real district contender. The Bearcats have a raft of reserve strength and the team is shaping into a powerful defensive aggregation. They have played two district games to date, and have not been scored on.

Lampasas is regarded as a hard team due to the passing attack of the team. People who have seen them in action state that it is one of the best passing high school teams in the state and is likely to score on anyone at any minute.

Brady still looms as the hardest contender in the district. The Brady team has a wonderful line and a set of aggressive backs that have piled up a big score on all teams met this year. It is seldom that a real defensive and offensive team is found in the same organization and when such a combination is, they are hard to beat.

Winters has already suffered a defeat at the hands of Brady, but when they meet Ballinger they will be playing ball hard and will have had a full month's more coaching and a lot of new plays. They have the size, speed and nerve to make hard going and Ballinger will have to play hard to emerge from the game with a victory.

The Bearcats have been fortunate with injuries and it is hardly likely that this will continue throughout the season. The loss of anyone of a half dozen men would greatly weaken the team and this is to be expected in any game.

Rising Star will be here Friday (tomorrow) afternoon at four o'clock at Fair Park and after that every game will mean our standing in the league race.
