Quitaque Hotel Guests Leap To Safety In $30,000 Blaze

FOUR INJURED IN DISASTROUS BUSINESS FIRE

Wichita Falls Man Jumps For His Life After Flames Sear Him

HEAT RUINS WINDOWS

Four Buildings Go Down While Others Suffer Lesser Damage

Special to The Record News.

QUITAQUE, Texas, Nov. 26.—Guests at the Ozark Inn hotel here were thrown into a frenzy long before daylight this morning by fire of unknown origin which swept through the structure and spread to three nearby business buildings, inflicting damage estimated at $30,000. Four persons were injured during the fire, the first of a serious nature here.

The entire business district felt the brunt of the disaster, nearly 15 plate glass windows in other buildings not otherwise molested by the blaze having cracked from the intense heat.

Guests Leap to Safety

Leaping from the second story of the hotel, three men, one of them from Wichita Falls, sustained serious injuries, Mrs. C. M. McFall, proprietor of the hotel, suffered painful burns and bruises about the face and arms while assisting guests to flee the burning structure, and several firemen received lesser injuries in combatting the blaze as it spread.

A. G. Hofenstahl of 1908 Collins avenue, Wichita Falls, route agent for the American Railway Express company, one of the first to leap from his hotel window, landed from his fall unhurt, but badly burned, most of his hair having been singed completely off, and his face and arms being painfully seared. Tonight he was in a hospital here, unable to leave his bed.

Fireman Injured

Jim Skell, fireman, the most seriously injured, sustained a broken ankle when he leaped to safety, and several of his companions received burns. George Parsons, a salesman from Dallas, miraculously escaped death when he landed on his head as he jumped from the hotel. His head was badly hurt, though the skull was not fractured, it was said. His back, arms and neck were severely strained.

The fire started about 3:30 a. m. Ravaging the hotel, which was a total loss, it spread to the Hook's barber shop, and two restaurants, all of them brick buildings, which were likewise destroyed.

TYLER, Texas, Nov. 26. (AP)—Because of illness of the defendant's father-in-law, trial of Loys Wilson, indicated for the slaying of the Rev. Fount Wallace of Troup last April, today was continued until March 25.

The defense had presented two motions, one to quash the indictments because it allegedly was based on an obsolete law, and a second to continue the case, because of the illness of U. D. Moore, father of Wilson's wife.

HOOVER BOWS TO HONDURAS

German Merchant Host To Good-Will Party

AMAPALA, Honduras, Nov. 26. (US)—The U. S. S. Maryland, bearing President-elect Hoover and his party, anchored in the Gulf of Fonseca, about seven miles from here at 9 o'clock this morning.

Launches furnished by the Honduran government took the American visitors ashore. Mr. Hoover landing on his first stop of his good-will tour at 11 o'clock.

The friendliness of Honduras for the United States was everywhere evident as Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and Ambassador Henry F. Fletcher, leading the procession, were escorted through the streets of the city amid a salvo of cheers.

President-elect Dr. Don Vincente Mejia Colindres and 18 Honduran officials met Mr. Hoover's party at the pier which was strung with pennants of the United States and Honduras.

Amapala is a tiny town surrounded by mountains. Its women are picturesque, wearing bright colored dresses and carry baskets and bowls on their head with ridiculous ease.

A last moment change in the luncheon plans was made. The American party dined at the home of a German retail merchant.

Mr. Hoover made a short speech after the meal in which he stressed the desire for mutual good will between the United States and Central and South American countries. Mr. Hoover spoke in English and his words were translated for the audience into Spanish.

The Hoover party stayed in Amapala less than three hours. Immediately after luncheon, the visitors crossed the Gulf of Fonseca in motor boats to La Union, about nine miles away.

At La Union Hoover was greeted by representatives of the Salvador government.

FOUR FIRMS ON HONOR ROLL IN CHEST DRIVE

Early Response Cheers Workers In '28 Campaign

$65,000 FUND NEEDED

Luncheon Monday Noon Launches Appeal For Needy

Within a few hours after the launching of the Community Chest drive Monday afternoon, four business organizations of Wichita Falls turned in 100 per cent reports for their personnel, the total subscription sending the chest fund well on toward its first mark of $25,000 on the "big, red heart," the official bulletin of the campaign.

W. B. McClurkan, the People's Ice company, Wichita Falls Traction company, and the First National bank are the firms heading the honor roll of 100 per cent contributors to the $65,000 goal. The ranks of "hundred percenters" are expected to be filled with the majority of business concerns as the drive progresses, in view of the number which composed the honor roll in last year's campaign.

Campaign Opens

Campaigning was only fairly started Monday afternoon, and reports trickling into headquarters until a late hour indicated bright prospects for the full force of the drive, if the success of initial efforts can be taken as a criterion, chest officials state. Particularly were workers inaugurating a canvass of the wage earners of Wichita Falls enthusiastic over the loyalty and support exhibited in their division.

"If the business houses and large givers will match in spirit and give in proportion to the salaried people, the drive will go over with little effort," predicted W. D. Cline, campaign committee chairman. "Our campaigners are being welcomed among the people who are able to make only small donations, and this is the sentiment we are seeking among the entire citizenship of Wichita Falls."

The industrial division has not yet completed its canvass, and this report is expected to send the quota subscribed by wage earners to a high mark. This will be supplemented by a large amount from organized labor, campaign chairmen believe.

Harry Hines made the principal address to campaign workers and leaders gathered at a luncheon Monday at the Wichita club, which was presided over by Mr. Cline.

Hines Makes Address

Any person or concern of Wichita Falls should be proud to be called a representative or supporter of the Community Chest, he said.

"The movement represents the highest requisites and attributes of our character," he declared, "and is built on the three cardinal virtues of faith, hope and charity. Our faith is shown in the confidence that we have in the existence of a universal power, and in our respect and love for our fellow citizens. We have the hope of living noble lives and serving our fellow men. And our expression of charity is a fine exercise, educating the heart in its noblest emotions."

In closing, Mr. Hines paid a tribute to a departed leader, John W. Bradley, whose presence is missed in this year's Community Chest drive, but whose service as a standard bearer, he said, should inspire every worker to carry on as he would have them do.

Large Georgia Bank Locks Doors After Two Hour Run By Depositors

MACON, Ga., Nov. 26. (AP)—The Fourth National Bank of Macon, one of the largest financial institutions in Central Georgia, closed its doors today after a two hour run of withdrawals. Leon S. Dure, president, said the bank's board of directors at a special meeting had decided to close the doors and take steps today toward reorganization of the institution.

The bank, organized more than 20 years ago, had a capital of $500,000, deposits of approximately $9,000,000, and resources listed at more more than $11,000,000. Its building stands at one of the busiest corners in Macon, which is one of the largest cities in Georgia.

Officers declined to comment on the cause of the run, which began soon after the opening hour. At the time about 2,000 persons, including depositors, stood in the vicinity of the bank.

City and county squads were called as a precautionary measure, but the run proceeded in an orderly manner.

BORDER BALLOT PROBE SPLITS

'Influence' On Voters Of Valley Causes Row

M'ALLEN, Texas, Nov. 26. (AP)—The house campaign expenditures committee split late today after a near row over a question of evidence in its investigation of alleged South Texas election irregularities and squelched attempts of Representative Loring Black, Democrat, New York, to learn what "outside" influence supposedly intimidated Democratic voters in Hidalgo county's general election.

Questions Barred

By a 4 to 1 vote the committee refused to permit Black to pursue questions as to identity of the "influence," hinted at by County Judge A. W. Cameron in a list of reasons as to why the Weslaco box was thrown out, giving the district judgeship victory to J. E. Leslie, Democratic incumbent, over the "Citizens Republican" candidate, Gordon Griffin.

Judge Cameron hesitated to name the influence. Black asked if it was the Anti-Saloon league or the Republican national committee. Protests ensued from other committee members, notably the Republican chairman, Lehlbach of New Jersey. Lehlbach insisted that the witness had said it was hearsay only. Black contended that the committee had reached the only clue so far justifying congressional investigation of "a local election

M. Johnson, Poultry Ranch Head, Injured When Auto, Truck Crash

Wichita Falls Man, In Hospital After Accident On Henrietta Road, Expected to Recover

Apparently misjudging the speed of an approaching truck, Mose Johnson, poultry ranch owner of Wichita Falls and Bowie, was badly injured in an attempt to swerve his car clear of the vehicle when the two met about seven miles west of Henrietta early Monday afternoon.

The two automobiles collided, the truck striking the left rear portion of the Buick coupe Johnson was driving, and virtually splitting the car in half, witnesses who returned to Wichita Falls said. According to Capt. Z. E. Parker, of the Wichita Falls Salvation army, who saw the crash, Mr. Johnson, not aware that the truck was coming at a fast clip, attempted to pull to the right of the road too late, and applied his brakes at the same time, causing the rear of the car to skid to the left directly in the path of the truck.

Motorist Gives Aid

Passersby rushed to the assistance of Mr. Johnson, who was found semi-conscious in the wreckage of his car. Roy Nunn, Fort Worth business man who arrived at the scene, placed the victim in his car and took him to the office of Dr. J. T. Jones in Henrietta. Dr. Jones reported to The Record News that owing to the shock, Johnson was delirious for a short while, but later regained possession of his faculties. There were no broken bones, he said, but a slight concussion of the brain required hospital attention.

Lum Lovett, Johnson's son-in-law at Bowie was notified, and an ambulance was called from that place also. Johnson was brought to the

Government Takes Over Task of Keeping Old England Calm

LONDON, Nov. 27 (Tuesday, 2 a. m.) (US)—An announcement at this hour from Buckingham palace stated that the condition of King George was unchanged. Two nurses are constantly in attendance.

According to the Daily Mail, no progress has been made by the king toward recovery and the original infection still persists.

The king's physicians were recalled to Buckingham palace just before 11 o'clock tonight. After an hour's stay they left without issuing a bulletin.

By ROBERT WELL RITCHIE
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

LONDON, Nov. 26.—On the highest medical authority in Great Britain, Universal Service has it that King George is suffering from pneumonia. This authority, whose name I am not permitted to disclose, tonight declared:

"Both the lesser disease of pleurisy and the more serious pneumonia have symptoms in inflammation of the lungs, so it is quite convenient for allaying public anxiety to call it by the softer name."

This authority then added:

"If there is no improvement in the king's condition in the next two or three days, a turn for the worse could be expected in the case of a man aged 63."

Bulletin Issued

At 8:30 this evening Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physicians issued their second bulletin of the day, which said:

"The king has not had a comfortable day. His temperature is now 101.6, but the pleurisy has not extended further and his strength is maintained."

It became evident today that the matter of the king's illness is no longer in the hands of his physicians, as far as public information is concerned, but in the hands of the government.

It is no longer a secret that the king is desperately ill, but for reasons best known to themselves the government has clamped down the lid on Sir Stanley Hewitt and Lord Dawson of Penn. This was first manifested this morning when Home Secretary Sir William Joynson-Hicks timed his Buckingham palace visit to coincide with the morning visit of the physicians and he held up their bulletin for three-quarters of an hour before making it public.

One result of government intervention was palpably apparent, even to the man in the street, when the bulletin said that a spread of the pleurisy must be expected at this stage of the illness.

PNEUMONIA IS KING'S ILLNESS

Writer Learns True Condition of Sovereign

ment was designed to cover the transition from pleurisy to pneumonia, which has apparently been obvious to the physicians ever since the rise in temperature on Saturday afternoon.

Now, so Universal Service is informed, the matter settles down to a battle between King George's unusual stamina and the inroads of the dread pneumonia, and may even come to the point of a dangerous operation in tapping the lungs as a last recourse.

In the light of this information it is apparent the physicians anticipated this trend when on Friday they took an X-ray of the royal lung and discovered the condition of the pleural lining.

Another indication of the government's determination to soft-pedal the news was evident this evening when a news association ticker sent out the following:

"A dispatch from Bermuda declared that Prince George will leave today on the cruiser Durham for England. The cruiser will meet a fast liner in mid-ocean and Prince George will transfer to it."

Less than a half hour after this message had been sent out, the news association sent out the following:

"Please kill all messages about Prince George."

Wales In Readiness

Notwithstanding this, Universal Service is in a position to say that messages have unquestionably gone forward to the Prince of Wales to hold himself in readiness to return home immediately, perhaps by plane across Africa to Cairo.

The wise and complacent British press this afternoon, even while preparing black "border dummies" for emergency use, one of which I have seen, detailed how the prince shot five lions, one of which measured eight feet from nose to tail.

That is the way of the press over here. It knows that their people have learned to read between the lines much more than our own.

In anticipation of the possible tragic ending of the king's illness, Universal Service inquired today what procedure will be followed if the king dies with the heir to the throne almost 5,500 miles away.

It is learned on competent authority that the first step will be taken when the lord chancellor, Viscount Cave, notifies the privy council of the king's death. The privy council will then proceed with the formation of a regency council comprising Queen Mary, the lord chancellor, the Earl of Cromer, Lord Chamberlain, and Lord Balfour, lord president of the council. This regency council will constitute the nominal head of the empire until such time as the Prince of Wales takes the oath as king.

Business Faces Crisis

Under a limited monarchy, however, the temporary lapse of the titular head of the government is not nearly so important as would be the death of the president of the United States.

But the death of the king with the present approach of the holidays, would spell disaster for thousands of retail establishments great and small, from the fashionable Regent street to the meanest slums. This year England is just returning to a spending mood after the lean post-war years. The fashionable shops have laid in heavy stocks in anticipation of the return of pre-war Christmas spending.

The manager of one of the biggest London department stores, told Universal Service this afternoon that the Christmas gloom following the death of the king "would not leave a single buyer in our aisles."

Crowds haunt the palace gates eager to scan the bulletins which were displayed today for the first time in a mahogany, glass covered frame.

A little away from the crowd this afternoon, a sidewalk artist with a dirty hat spread out to catch pennies, was busy with colored chalks drawing pictures of the Death Angel with drawn sword, confronted by Brittania, underneath he wrote the single word: "Perhaps."

The humble sidewalk artist best exemplified the spirit of the whole empire at this hour.

WALES WOULD BE BACHELOR KING

LONDON, Nov. 26. (US)—If the Prince of Wales should succeed to the throne of England in the near future he would be the only bachelor king of England in 168 years. The whole weight of centuries of custom would decree that he could not remain a bachelor long.

The last bachelor king was George III who ascended the throne in 1760 and married a year later at the age of 22. Victoria was only 16 when she became queen on June 20, 1837. She married Prince Albert when she was 21.

Strangely enough Universal Service had to secure the services of an antiquarian who worked several hours to answer the question as to who was the last bachelor king. Royal bachelors are exceedingly rare in history.

County To Ask State Road Board To Repair Bridge On Ohio Avenue

J. M. Isbell, county engineer, will go to Austin Tuesday or Wednesday to confer with the state highway commission in regard to the repair and enlargement of the Ohio avenue bridge over the Wichita river.

This order was given to Mr. Isbell at the meeting of the commissioners' court Monday in the courtroom following the receipt of a request from B. J. Bean, C. D. Shamburger, Dan Hardy and others that the county commissioners take action looking to the widening and strengthening of the Ohio avenue bridge.

Taking the position that the bridge is a part of a state highway, and that as such it is under the law a duty of the state highway commission to look out for it, the commissioners decided to send Mr. Isbell to Austin.

Judge Nicholson said he believed the state should care for bridges over its highways regardless of whether or not they were within city limits.

Until Mr. Isbell returns with a report from Austin, no further action is contemplated here by the commissioners on the Ohio avenue bridge.

No progress was made at the meeting on the proposed new bridge over the river at Scott avenue. A group of backers of the new bridge was expected, but they did not appear.

such an experienced explorer for its expedition. He has led four expeditions into the Arctic and brought back specimens of animals such as polar bear, walrus, seals, kodiak bears for the Carnegie museum of Pittsburgh, Museum of Natural History in New York and Arctic birds for the Field museum in Chicago. He has lived with the Eskimos for years and his motion pictures of the Arctic are well known. Captain Kleinschmidt is also an aviator and will pilot one of the airplanes on the thrilling journey to the realm of Santa Claus.

"I am certain that I will be able to discover Santa Claus," said the captain last night, in a lengthy telegram in which he expressed his delight at being hired to render such a service to mankind and childhood. "I will be ready to take off whenever your companion plane joins me here in New York," he added.

The Record News and Times have been buying the outfit and equipment for the exploring party, securing the plane, in order to have all in readiness for the great take-off. The party expects to reach New York flying field by Friday, taking off immediately after being joined by Captain Kleinschmidt, for the north pole. They will fly from New York over Ottawa, Hudson Bay, Coronation Gulf to Victoria Land, the home of the blond Eskimos. This is as far as their fuel supply, including sufficient gas for the return trip, will permit them to go by airplane. Here the explorer has many friends among the Eskimos from whom he will obtain dogteams and reindeer for his final dash to the pole of inaccessibility, where he believes the home of Santa Claus is located.

Bexar Probe Promised

The committee promised Harry W. Wurzbach, only Republican congressman from Texas, to come to San Antonio on completion of the sessions here and investigate the reported narrow victory of Augustus McCloskey over Wurzbach in the 14th district. Congressman John Garner of Uvalde, whose re-election was followed by later withdrawn charges of illegal Mexican voting by Sid Hardin, defeated candidate, asked the committee as a matter of "vindication" to make full investigation, and also to investigate the American Tax Payers league of Washington, his enemy on the inheritance tax question.

Representative Black said the latter request probably will be granted on the committee's return to Washington.

After conferences nearly all day with faction leaders who outlined their cases, the committee decided to start the South Texas inquiry on the Hidalgo county election in which Citizen Republican or Independent candidates trying to oust the Democratic administration, were defeated for all main county offices.

A summons was issued for Tom Buckow, judge of the Weslaco box, which was thrown out in the official count, destroying the apparent victory of Gordon Griffin. Independent candidate for district judge, Mayors Dave Kirgan of Weslaco and F. B. Freeland of McAllen and other Independent leaders with counsel, told the committee in executive session that they expect to offer evidence of illegal voting of Mexicans, wrongful elimination of ballots and irregular poll tax transactions in Hidalgo county.

Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realising that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults — White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Miller's Drug store.—Adv.

County Commission Declines To Place Justices On Salary Basis

The commissioners court of Wichita county Monday declined to adopt a salary scale for justices of the peace in the county.

The action was taken after E. P. Walsh, county auditor, had presented a letter from H. G. Chandler, assistant attorney general, to the effect that such a course of action would be legal.

Efforts to solve the fee system problem were brought about following a recent decision to the effect that the fee system as applied to justices of the peace is unconstitutional. The possibility of a salary system was then considered.

O. L. Gibbs and R. V. Gwinn, Wichita Falls justices, indicated they believed the matter was one for the legislature to decide and that they would be governed meantime by the opinions of the county attorney and attorney general's office.

The action of the commissioners Monday was said by Judge H. W. Nicholson to be the commissioners' indication that the commissioners believed the matter one for the state and not the county to handle.

CITY FAVORS CHURCH MEET

Council Approves Bid To Methodists

Members of the city council went on record Monday night as being in favor of inviting the 1930 general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, to Wichita Falls.

The invitation was extended by the council at the suggestion of Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church.

B. W. Johnson was refused permission to erect a business building in the 2300 block on Brook when two property owners appeared before the council during the course of the public hearing and objected to the erection of the structure.

The council voted to give the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital a quit claim deed for the land over which the new addition to the building will extend into the alley. This distance is about 22 inches. It was found that the addition would extend this distance in the alley because of slight irregularities in the original platting of the block.

JURY TO SIFT VOTE CHARGES

Bexar County Inquiry Is Terminated

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 26. (AP)—On recommendation of District Attorney Lamar Seeligson, Judge W. W. McCrory, today ordered a grand jury to investigate alleged irregularities in the 14th district congressional race in the recent general election. Official returns had indicated the election of Augustus J. McCloskey, Democrat, to succeed Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican.

The action brought to a halt the court investigation which began last Friday.

The change in plans came after Congressman Wurzbach had rejected a proposal made by his Democratic opponent, McCloskey, that a Bexar county district court be authorized to recount the ballots cast in this county (Bexar) in the congressional race.

The grand jury will start its investigation tomorrow, Judge McCrory said.

Two Charred Bodies Found in Burned Car

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 26. (INS)—The bodies of a man and woman, both charred beyond recognition, were discovered in a burning automobile on Lake Shore drive half a mile north of Crocker boulevard early today.

The positions of the bodies showed that no effort was made to escape from the burning auto, as would have been the case if they had realized the danger from the fire, according to Coroner Howard V. Groesbeck. Authorities at Mt. Clemens said the fire evidently had started inside the car, as it was confined there.

WICHITA PEOPLE EXCITED OVER ORGATONE

"There's no Question About Orgatone Delivering the Goods," Declares Well Known Farmer

East, west, north and south, all over Wichita Falls, Orgatone is the talk of the town. People by the hundreds are now taking the sensational new medicine and reporting remarkable returns to health, strength and energy.

Statements such as the following from W. R. Bell, residing on rural route No. 6, a well known farmer, while apparently amazing, are heard on all sides every day. Orgatone has indeed captured Wichita Falls. In his statement of the relief his wife has secured by the use of this great preparation, Mr. Bell says:

"There's no question about this Orgatone delivering the goods—it's as different from any other medicine I ever saw as daylight is from dark. For over 14 years before my wife got Orgatone she suffered from stomach trouble of the worst kind. Instead of digesting, food seemed to lie like lead in the pit of her stomach, and she would bloat with gas and suffer from indigestion pains until she was simply miserable. This condition seemed to be even worse at night when she would lie down, and naturally it greatly interfered with her getting any restful sleep. Why, many times she would simply have to get up and walk the floor, and in spite of all she could do her condition seemed to get worse all the time.

"Well, sir, it's different with her today, for this new medicine, Orgatone, has certainly fixed her up in fine shape. She can eat as she pleases now, sleeps like a top every night and feels in the pink of condition when she starts her housework in the mornings. It's a real pleasure to tell others about Orgatone, for I believe it will help them the same as it has my wife."

Orgatone is the sensation of the day—over 500,000 bottles were sold in four months in three states.

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative, who is meeting the public daily.

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs. Out-of-town customers are being supplied all charges prepaid upon receipt of price, $1.25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

Gambling Lure Wrecks Peace of Tiny Town Until Sheriff Acts

WOODSTOCK, Ill., Nov. 26. (UP)—Harmony, Ill., a hamlet 17 miles from here, once lived up to its name but sin invaded it and now all is discord in harmony.

The General Store, so peaceful that it lulled the storekeeper to sleep, was sold to Carl Perschell, an ex-policeman from Bloomingdale.

Then came the serpent to this Garden of Eden.

Sturdy yeomen staggered homeward many hours after their accustomed 9 o'clock bedtime.

Whoopie at midnight aroused the countryside.

Acting on the complaint of a woman whose husband reeled home with a raffle won turkey that had been taken from his own poultry yard, Sheriff Cy Sanford of Woodstock raided the store.

Forty farmers were loaded in a hay wagon and jailed. Each promised to return and pay his fine after the chores were done.

Gerschell was locked up on charges of operating a gambling house and selling liquor.

NOBILITY HERE FOR WEDDING

Swedish Dignitaries at New York City

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (INS)—Swedish nobility arrived in full splendor in New York today to attend the marriage next Saturday of Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of the King of Sweden, to Miss Estelle Romaine Manville, daughter of H. E. Manville, the "asbestos king" and one of America's richest heiresses. The wedding, an event of international importance, will take place at Pleasantville, N. Y., and will be attended by prominent society personages.

His royal highness, Gustavus Adolphus, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden, was one of the party of 15 notable members of the Swedish court who arrived on the liner Gripshold.

Miss Manville, with her parents, met her fiance at the pier. The ship's orchestra played the Swedish national anthem and the Star Spangled Banner as Miss Manville and Count Bernadotte greeted each other on the deck of the liner.

Prince Questioned

Reporters descended upon Prince Gustavus, who is also Duke of Vesterboten. He is tall, handsome and blonde, and wore formal morning garb.

"What do you think of American girls?" the prince was asked.

Casting a mischievous glance at his cousin, Count Bernadotte, who was giving all his attention to his charming bride-to-be, his royal highness answered:

"They must be charming."

Prince Gustavus told the newspaper men he had a message to them from his father who visited America two years ago. "He told me that I certainly must see the reporters and that I probably would learn more about the United States thus than in any other way."

The prince said he was sorry he had not arrived in time to see Babe Ruth play baseball. He is interested in football and wants to see one of the major games. He also likes the movies. He remarked that he "had heard" of Gene Tunney.

Military Youth

Prince Gustavus is an officer in the royal bodyguard. He was born in Stockholm in 1906 and was graduated from Karlburg, the West Point of Sweden. He is very military in his bearing.

His younger brother, his royal highness Prince Sigvard, was also in the party. He said he is interested in art and the drama and expects to visit some American art museums and attend operatic and theatrical performances while in this country.

The Swedish noblemen left for their headquarters at the Mayfair House, in Park avenue, where an informal luncheon was given by Mrs. Manville in honor of the distinguished guests.

Society will turn out in large numbers at the wedding next Saturday. The ceremony will take place in St. John's church at Pleasantville at 4 p. m., following which there will be a reception at the Manville home. A special car for guests will depart from New York City early Saturday afternoon.

Harrill pointed out that under the law the state does not lose control of the projects. Hudson and associates could not transfer the rights to the "power interests" without approval of the commission, he said.

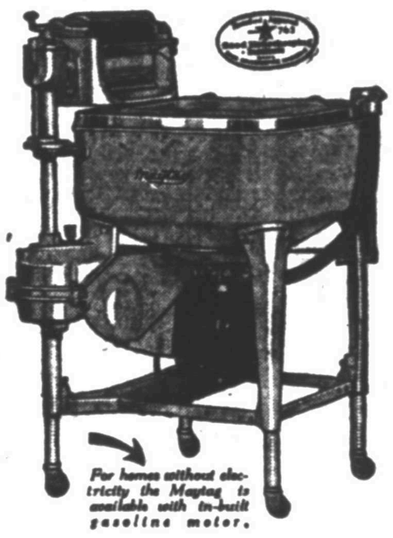

A Torrent of Soapy Water Kept Hot by

The Cast-Aluminum Tub

THE Maytag was the original gyrafoam washer, which makes water do the washing. But the Maytag does more than that—it keeps the water hot to expand the meshes of the clothes, loosen the dirt and aid the cleaning action of the soap. The vigorous water action of the Maytag keeps the soap thoroughly mixed with the water where it will do the most good.

These are some of the reasons why the Maytag washes faster—an entire washing in an hour or so; washes cleaner—collars, cuffs and grimy overalls without hand-rubbing; washes delicate garments hand carefully.

Wringing the clothes is easy with the marvelous New Maytag Soft-Roller Water Remover—another exclusive Maytag advantage. It is practically automatic in every operation.

For homes without electricity the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which usually follow the "flu", are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

GIRLS! YOU CAN START THIS VERY DAY TO CLEAR UP UGLY "BROKEN OUT" SKIN

Girls! This is especially addressed to you because in this day and age when almost everyone has a clear, beautiful complexion, any girl whose skin is all broken out with ugly pimples, eczema, etc., is under a terrible handicap.

It's a shame your skin is like that—but don't be discouraged and don't fret—while most things you've tried have most likely failed, here's something that will start right away to help you heal your skin swiftly.

It's called Heiskell's Ointment and for years it has been helping thousands of other girls, and men, too, many of them far worse off than you, to completely get rid of all disfiguring skin eruptions.

Any druggist can supply you with Heiskell's Ointment but, girls!—when you ask for the Ointment, get a cake of Heiskell's Medicated Soap, too. Ordinary soaps only too often contain something that irritates the skin and keep it inflamed and so retard results you get from the Ointment. If you use Heiskell's Soap, though, especially medicated to prepare the skin for the Ointment, you'll speed up results wonderfully and that's what you want. This combination treatment of Heiskell's Ointment and Heiskell's Soap will certainly amaze you at the quick results it gives and what a glorious feeling it will be to look in the mirror and see a skin such as you have always longed for—delicate, smooth, flawless—really yours! Don't forget—get both the Ointment and the Soap and for less than a dollar you get a new complexion that can't be prized in terms of money.—Advt.

Inevitable Tragedy Awaits Those Who Marry Too Young, Writer Says

The Fun-Loving Girl Who Married Too Early. Why a Wise Wife Does Not Sacrifice Too Much. Hard Lot of the Man With an Invalid Wife.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young mother, 23 years old. I have a loving and tender husband and two wonderful children, but they get on my nerves terribly sometimes. I was married when I was 18, just out of high school, and had never been anywhere or had any pleasure, as my parents were very strict. My husband's sole interest is his work. He never wants to go out of an evening. I've never been to a party or a night club or a dance or had an evening dress, and I am tired of this dull life of slavery. If my husband would only take me out occasionally and let me see a little life and gayety, perhaps I would soon tire of it and be a home-loving body. What shall I do?
—ONE WHO LIVES IN HOPE.

Answer: Yours is the inevitable tragedy of those who marry too early. It seems to be a law of life that we must have our playtime, and if we miss it, we are never happy nor satisfied.

The girl who has never had any beaux but the man she married, who has never flirted nor had admiration from men, makes the middle-aged woman who is man-crazy and who gets into compromising affairs with the lounge lizards she picks up at tea dances and cabarets.

The girl who gets married in her teens and is tied down with babies and never has any free time, any girl time, makes the mother, like yourself, who is mad about gadding around and crazy for pleasure and dancing when she ought to be satisfied staying at home with her children.

On the other hand, the woman who waits to marry until she has had her fling of admiration from men, and who has been fed up on dancing parties is glad enough to settle down to the love of one good man and is content to stay put at her own fireside.

If you will notice closely you will observe that nearly all the men and women who get into scandals at middle age were married when they were mere boys and girls. They married before they had had their fling at life, and when they took it later on it got them into trouble.

However, in your case it's too late for regrets. The fact remains, that you married at 18 before you had had your girl time, and now, if your husband is wise, he will try to make up to you for it as far as he can by giving you pleasure in broken doses. He will let you buy yourself as many pretty frocks as you can afford and take you out once or twice a week to some place where you can see the bright lights.

In this way he can prevent your craving for amusement from precipitating a tragedy, as it does in so many homes. For the devil stands leering over the shoulder of every pretty, restless, discontented young wife, and he'll get her if her husband doesn't watch out.

But don't forget that you yourself are responsible for your plight. When you married you deliberately forfeited your freedom and your playtime. You took upon yourself the responsibilities of an adult, and whether you are tired of domesticity or not, whether you want to dance in a ballroom instead of pushing a perambulator, whether you want to sit at a table in a night club instead of watching beside a cradle has nothing to do with the case. Your duty is to your husband and children and home. You can't get around that.

I hope your husband will have sense enough to take you out and give you some pleasure, but if he doesn't, don't listen to the men who will offer to substitute for him. That way perdition lies for a young wife.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I know a poor young couple who got married. Their union was truly a partnership. The husband worked at his business; the wife slaved and saved at home. The wife did without everything she possibly could so that every cent might go into the business, and they prospered mightily. At middle age they are rich—in fact, they have so much money that another woman has set her greedy eyes upon the husband and has convinced him that she alone understands him and is his predestined mate. So now the husband spends his time and his money on this other women, and his wife gets very little of either. The moral of which is that it doesn't pay to make your husband so prosperous that he becomes a prize for the vamps.
—AUNT HET

Answer: Right you are, Aunt Het. It's only the poor men who are safe from the gold-diggers, and there is nothing that makes for virtue in a man like lacking the price.

The instance you cite illustrates anew how difficult it is to be a good wife, for very often when a woman is trying hardest to help her husband she is most doing the thing that ruins him.

Take this very matter of a wife slaving and saving and denying herself all the comforts and pleasures she craves in order to help her husband get a start. As long as she is doing this and they are working shoulder to shoulder and planning every move together he is a faithful and devoted husband to her, and they are happy together.

But once the fortune is achieved how sadly often the man becomes the prey of other women! The wife finds out that she has handed over her husband to the women who prey on just such nice, fat morsels as he. Poor, they would never have noticed him and he would have been safe from them, but rich they go for him tooth and nail. They flatter him and cajole him; they use all their arts and wiles upon him, and he succumbs and forgets the wife at home on whose shoulders he climbed to success.

The lesson of which is that a wise wife does not sacrifice too much. She takes her pleasures and indulgences in moderation as she goes along, and keeps her husband at that state where he has enough money on which to be comfortable but not enough to make him a shining mark for the sirens.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am 40 years old and have been married 15 years. During this time my wife has been ill a great deal. I have given her a comfortable home and tried to treat her like a baby, but she has always been quarrelsome. Now it is so unpleasant at home that I dread to go to it, but I have a little girl 8 years old whom I love dearly and I can't see how I can either give the child up or go on living the life I do. I know there must be some one in the world who would make me happy and whom I could make happy. Please advise me what to do.
—MISERABLE HUSBAND.

Answer: There is nothing that you can in honor do, poor, unhappy husband, except to go on bearing your burden as bravely as you can.

There are few lots in life that are harder than those of the men and women who are married to invalids, because ill people are nearly always irritable and selfish, but when you married you swore to cherish the woman you took in sickness and in health, and the more you are of a man the less you can go back on that.

Also, you have your child to consider. Your duty to her. Find what comfort you can in her love and in developing her into a splendid woman, and put from you all thoughts of what life might be with an amiable and cheerful wife. We all have our dreams that we never realize, our castles in Spain in which we never set foot.

Company Starts Work This Week On Repairs For Wichita Jail

Work on the construction of a vestibule door into the run-around cage in the county jail, designed to prevent jail breaks, is expected to begin early this week, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, announced Monday afternoon.

Letters from the Southern Prison company, contractors for the work, indicated Monday that workmen would be on the ground Tuesday or Wednesday. Material to complete the additions has already been delivered.

The addition of a vestibule door to the run-around, where the prisoners are allowed to exercise together, was suggested by the county commissioners court in September following an investigation of the escape of six men on August 24. Four of the six who over-powered the jailer when he brought in the evening meal have been recaptured. Two, Tom Shook, indicted for murder, and H. R. Rich, indicted for burglary and for assault with attempt to kill, are still at large.

Besides the vestibule door, a partition and a door are to be added to the outside passage way around the cage.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—So much discussed and yet so little known. The center of world finance and the bread-box of a million mortals engaged in the daily task of its intricate operations. A mecca for amazed tourists. A huge super city unto itself . . . New York's great financial district!

◆ ◆ ◆

New Yorkers should visit this end of town and get an eye, an ear, and a head full, for here one sees, hears and learns. If a visitor, then put this call on your itinerary and take your New York friend along and show him his own metropolis.

◆ ◆ ◆

Lunch hour, and the mighty buildings pour their mass of humanity into the famous thoroughfares. The morning's business is being eagerly discussed as the crowds hurry to the cafes and lunch counters. The world holds no more complete shopping district than this "end" of town, and merchants pleasantly anticipate the regular noon-hour rush trade.

◆ ◆ ◆

A young man carefully fingering and testing a piece of cloth while two others await the verdict. A new "line" of goods that the "house" has taken on no doubt. . . . A group of other young hustlers earnestly discussing some business question in a manner punctuated with gesticulations that would immediately disqualify them from eligibility to New York's Irish police force. . . . A crowd around a "19c special" sheet music store, which would be tabbed "small-town" in the smallest hamlet outside of New York. . . . Rows of exclusive shops in continuous line to act as a contrast. . . . Little "holes-in-the-wall" banked high with nut-bars and the like. . . . An inquisite group around a fellow who is earnestly holding forth on some very important problem apparently. The group has become a crowd. Must see this myself. Some big news in the making no doubt. . . . It's somebody distributing advertising circulars for the corner cigar store. . . . A half dozen cobblers working in public view and in the next door window is an elaborate display of old stamp collections to testify to the "culture" of the district.

◆ ◆ ◆

The corner of Nassau and Wall streets. . . . The "hard boiled" sophisticated men of the nation, grouped and straining necks and ears to see and hear a swarthy complexioned bellow beseeching them to "work in the path of God and righteousness." I'm going to ask this chap one day whether he purposely posts himself right opposite the New York stock exchange, or whether it is a mere coincidence. . . . How many converts are captured daily, has never been recorded. . . . Certain it is though that quotations have never materially fluctuated on the floor of the exchange, with all due respect to our friend's fervour and his continuous audience.

◆ ◆ ◆

Many strange sights for the observer, and no doubt someone is watching me as I make notes and wondering by what "pull" I am loose. But who cares, this is New York.

THE CITY

The city's streets are dull and gray
With care and grief and pain today.
But out there on the hill and plain,
The birds sing out a glad refrain.
The city's streets are grim and cold,
But God's own nature ne'er grows old.

The city's life, with passing time,
Collects more dust and smoke and grime,
Approaching slowly some sad day
When, crumbling, it will blow away,
While works of which God's overseer,
Are given new birth every year.

Kansas Wheat Crop In Good Condition

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 26. (INS)—The Kansas wheat crop is entering the winter in good condition according to a statement today from J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture.

The weather has been too wet for corn husking and harvesting of the grain sorghums, but this work is now getting under way again.

Stockmen in some counties have sustained heavy losses from hog cholera but the disease has been confined to limited areas, the reports show.

Art Here at Home

TALK to the average American about art and he promptly begins looking for a European accent. Speak of beautiful buildings and haunting skylines and he assumes that you are talking about some such place as Paris or Munich.

We are used to ugliness in our cities. To most of us, beauty and utility do not go together; and since utility is our specialty, we think we must get along without much beauty.

But some artists know better.

Louis Orr, famous American etcher, is issuing a folio of etchings entitled "Ports of America." In this collection he presents sketches made at the waterfronts of 13 American cities. He has gone to the very fountain heads of utility—the docks and wharves of commerce—and found rare, strange beauty.

On the Atlantic and Gulf coasts he has sketched scenes in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton Roads, Savannah and New Orleans. In the Great Lakes region he has sketched Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and Duluth. On the west coast he has sketched Seattle and San Francisco.

Now this is surely a representative list of American cities. One or two of them, perhaps, appeal to most of us places more romantic and appealing than the average; but for the most part they are solid, substantial, utilitarian trade centers. We are proud of them, but we don't, ordinarily, consider them good hunting grounds for artists.

But Mr. Orr's sketches are eye-openers. In each place he has found a scene of impressive beauty. In Chicago, for instance, he gives us a glimpse from the river's edge, with a winding stairway ascending to a bridge and a towering, mist-veiled office building shooting aloft in the background—so that you wonder why any middle westerner thinks he must go to Europe to see nobility of building.

We need more of this sort of thing. It is as if this artist had said to us:

"This America, that you think so commonplace and drab, is really not that at all. It is a land of majestic skylines, mystic structures that were built for trade but look like strange temples, jumbled heaps of buildings and bridges and climbing stairs in which men who have dedicated themselves to labor have hit upon form, design, beauty. If you had eyes that could see you would never again call it ugly."

We are doing a good many things of which we are not often conscious. Striving to make money, we are hitting upon a way of life that can eventually give every citizen freedom and leisure for spiritual development; and working for strict utility, we are erecting cities of haunting compelling beauty.

Wives and Skyscrapers

REBECCA WEST, English novelist, returns to London after visiting America with a distressing tale about the hardships of the American woman.

Most Americans, she says, "live in skyscrapers with their women perched high in the air where they can't keep a dog, much less keep a family." Lives of American women materially inclined thus become tragic, she says.

This is a saddening picture, and would be alarming if it were true. But, as anybody who lives in America knows, it isn't. The percentage of families living in skyscrapers, or anything approaching the skyscraper, is so small as to be negligible. Rather more than 50 per cent of all Americans own their own homes.

The amount of misinformation a visiting Britisher can collect about us seems to be absolutely unlimited.

Work That Is More Than Money

THE GOOD done by the welfare agencies of Wichita Falls is not measured alone by the money paid out by them. In many cases it is not money that is needed, but the advice, the sympathy and aid of the welfare worker which gives a help that money alone could not give. There are many hundreds of such cases in Wichita Falls in the course of a year and we do not believe it would be putting it too strongly to say that such help is worth a good many times the whole amount of the community chest.

If this fact were fully appreciated there would be no objection to the comparatively small overhead with which the community chest is administered. Of course there are some folks connected with the welfare organizations who draw salaries. Welfare work is their vocation and they have no other income. And it ought to be said for those who are employed in Wichita Falls that they fully earn their salaries. These workers do far more than merely expend the money budgeted to their organizations.

Synthetic Gasoline

IF YOU'RE worried what your auto is going to run on in that not-distant day when gasoline supplies begin to expire, take encouragement from the words of delegates to the international conference on bituminous coal, at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh.

A German tells how synthetic gasoline is made by combining hydrogen and coal. Another tells of an internal combustion engine that uses powdered coal for its fuel—and does right well with it, too. Still another says that powdered rice husks make excellent fuel for such engines. Peat dust is also spoken of as a good substitute.

We may be burning some curious things in our autos some day, but evidently we'll go rolling along as cheaply and powerfully as we do now, gasoline or no gasoline.

NOW THAT THE COUNTRY IS REPUBLICAN

The entire country has gone Republican, very muchly; the Chicago gangsters still kill them by droves; the Oklahoma and Texas bank robbers are as active, almost, as usual; bootleggers are thick as fiddlers in hades (we are told), and yet, we live, and will continue to do so until our time comes to die. —Stamford (Texas) Leader.

TIME TO VACCINATE

County health officers are urging all persons who have not been vaccinated against smallpox to do so at once. This is something that should not be neglected. It is the best and surest method of stamping out the disease and entails no danger and little inconvenience to those who undergo the treatment.

Smallpox was once considered one of the most virulent plagues, claiming thousands of lives annually. But thanks to the progress of medical science it has virtually been stamped out. The widespread use of smallpox vaccine has practically eliminated fear of this once dreaded disease. —Lawton (Okla.) Constitution.

The INN of the HAWK and RAVEN

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

(Copyright, 1927, Dodd Mead & Co.) (Copyright, 1928, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York)

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt acting as the escort of the princess, on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth, but he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

Urged on by his mother and his brothers, who hate Jonifer, Peter contemplates a revolt against his uncle's authority.

Jonifer, who, on learning that Gerane is in love with Starcourt, makes some secret plans that involve the soldier, takes a trip to Moscow. On his way home, near the Aiphain border the stage-coach is held up—not by his men however. The arrival of a troop of soldiers results in the capture of the robbers. The incident serves to inform Jonifer that Starcourt, with two picked men, is in the Forest of Droon to run down the Davos band, no matter how long the task keeps him there. Jonifer and his companion,

John Crispe and Jonifer Davos quietly disappear that night and make their way home, realizing that the situation is too serious to permit of their running the risk of capture.

Jonifer's return puts an end, for a time, at least, to Peter's thoughts of rebellion. The chief's next move is an attempt to capture Starcourt in a surprise attack at night. He is defeated, however.

Later, coming upon Starcourt while he is swimming in a mountain pool, Jonifer captures him. The colonel's men believe him to be drowned.

Meanwhile, he is among the robbers in the valley, free to do as he pleases, but unable to escape.

Jonifer tells Gerane that he has captured Starcourt as a birthday present for her. The bandit chief takes it for granted that the soldier will fall in love with his daughter and that they will marry. He is amazed when Gerane, in a fit of rage, says she will marry Peter—anybody but the soldier.

A man stepped out from among the trees and stood in her path, his arms extended.

INSTALLMENT XX

Late that afternoon Gerane started off in the direction of the house in which Starcourt was confined. It was her intention to tell him that, so far as she was concerned, he could rest in peace, for she would have nothing further to do with him. Then she would go up into the hills to reside with old Dame Marget, who was a very devout woman and had not been down in the valley since the death of her husband, 30 years ago.

All this was firmly fixed in her mind until she caught sight of the strange man in civilian clothes at the edge of the wood above the road. Who could this stranger be? Certainly not Colonel Starcourt. He would be in the resplendent uniform of—and then she recognized him. He was looking at her intently. A scant 50 feet separated them. She stopped short. Every vestige of courage deserted her. After a moment of indecision, she walked swiftly into the wood, her chin in the air, her cheeks flaming. She heard him call out to her, but did not pause.

For the next fortnight she avoided him as if he were the plague. Nothing that Jonifer could say affected her determination. Matilde argued with her. Broadaxe gave ponderous counsel. Elsie and Rose eyed her with obvious disapproval.

But she did not go up to old Dame Marget's forest. On the contrary, she went about the valley as was her custom.

As time went on, she could not help remarking the conduct of the people of the valley toward Colonel Starcourt. She was surprised and annoyed by their friendly attitude—but, more than that, it vexed her beyond words to see that Starcourt accepted these advances. Indeed, so far as she could make out, he behaved very much as if he liked them. And he was particularly courteous to the women. Notably, Professor Grais' daughter, Neva, or Barnabas Hutch's grandniece, or Jakob Kemlin's widow (and young Jakob dead not more than a year), or Flavia Melby, Jan Melby's cow-eyed wife. True, he seldom smiled, and there was a certain haggardness about his face that troubled Gerane, in spite of the fact that she had made up her mind never to notice him. She would have given anything, however, to be able to ask Matilde what he said to her when they conversed on several occasions. Her grudge against her father was not lessened by the conviction that he and Starcourt apparently were on the best of terms! At least, she supposed so, although Jonifer was careful never to mention his name in her presence.

Then, one day, the inevitable happened. Gerane was returning from a ride through the forest. Selim, descending a sharp curve in the road, suddenly shied. A man stepped out from among the trees and stood in her path, his arms extended.

"Halt!" he commanded. There was a smile on his face as he added warningly: "Stand and deliver! Your money or your life."

"Stand aside!" she cried out. "I will run you down. I will—I swear I will.

"Come ahead," he invited cheerfully.

"How—how dare you, sir!" she cried, and much to her own chagrin, drew rein.

"Everyone else is kind to me here, Miss Davos. What have I done that you should avoid me so—"

"You—you haven't done anything," she interrupted quickly. "Only," she went on, lifting her chin, "I do not wish to speak to you. Stand aside, please."

"But, my dear Miss Davos, I wish to speak to you," said he seriously. "Of course, if you insist, I shall obey your command. If you are determined to—"

For a second time she interrupted. "Do you know why you were brought to this valley, Colonel Starcourt?" she demanded, the red flooding her cheeks.

"Yes. Mutual acquaintances—chiefly women, may say—have enlightened me. It seems to be a joke to them. I am inclined to the belief that it is not a joke to either you or me. Still, since I am supposed to be your property, you might at least treat me with the kindness you would accord a pet dog. Unless I have been misinformed, Miss Davos, I belong to you."

He was not looking at her. Instead, his gaze was fixed on the guerdon of peaks visible through an opening among the trees.

He went on: "I wish you would let me thank you for trying to intercede for me that morning on the highway. I haven't forgotten it, Miss Davos."

She burst out impulsively. "I am sorry—oh, so sorry, Colonel Starcourt. I—I wish I could—oh, I wish you had never been brought to this place. You must believe me. I mean it. From the bottom of my heart, I mean it.

He was silent for a moment, enthralled by the loveliness of her deep, compassionate eyes. Then he shook his head slowly.

"You mean it. I suppose, but I am afraid you do not quite understand what my intentions were, up to the time I was made captive. It was my intention to kill your father and all of his men, or see to it that they were beheaded. It was my desire to have you locked up in the Tower for—well, perhaps the rest of your life. And it all might have come to pass, if this had not happened to me. It still may come to pass, Miss Davos. I will be honest with you—as I am with your father. I am praying, night and day, for my deliverance by a force of men powerful enough to—I was about to say kill every man, woman and child in this valley."

She uttered a scornful laugh. "You are a very bloodthirsty person, Colonel Starcourt. What have the children done that you should wish to slay them? Are you a second Herod? I can understand your desire to kill my father and me and all the rest of the robbers—but spare, I beseech you, the innocent babies and helpless children."

"You choose to be sarcastic. But put yourself in my place. If you were thrown into the Tower, for example, would you love your gaolers? If you were a captive here, would you consider your lot a happy one? I fancy not, Miss Davos."

She pondered this. After a moment, she replied: "Have you heard the story of my mother? No? She was brought here a captive by my grandfather. Ask someone to tell you who she was and whence she came. It may interest you."

"Your mother came here as a captive?" he exclaimed.

"And died here among thieves and robbers, contented with her lot. Now, be good enough to let me pass."

"I understand now why you have blue eyes and soft brown hair and are so unlike all the rest. It has puzzled me," was his comment. He still had his hand on Selim's bridle.

She had difficulty in hiding her pleasure. So he had noticed her, he had been thinking about her!

"Well, you need not puzzle yourself any longer about me," she said ungraciously. "Come Selim!"

"Wait, please," he protested. "Is there any reason why we cannot be friends, Miss Davos?"

No one had ever called her Miss Davos before. It sounded very strange.

"I do not see how you can expect me to be your friend when you have just finished telling me how much pleasure it would give you to put me in prison."

"Well," he began drolly, "can't we be friends until that time comes? Besides, that time may never come. Now I am not at all sure that your father may not have me shot, when he discovers that you have no use for me. Therefore, what could be fairer than this? Let's be friends until he shoots me or I shoot you."

She looked puzzled and then broke into a laugh. In an instant, however, she sobered.

"But it is impossible. I refuse to have anything to do with you. Please remember this, Colonel Starcourt, and do not presume to—"

"My dear Miss Davos," he interrupted, "if my father had captured you and brought you home to give to me, even as a plaything or a curio, I would, at least, do my best to let him see that I appreciated his generosity, even though I hated you."

"I do not hate you," she cried impulsively.

"Then get down and walk with me to—"

"I do not choose to," she exclaimed haughtily. "And, if I tell my father that you have been annoying me, he will—he will make you pay dearly, let me tell you that, sir."

He released his hold on Selim's bit. "Forgive my effrontery. We know each other better now, and I shall keep my place, hereafter."

She experienced a distinct sensation of dismay and was glad that he was in the act of tendering her a respectful bow that prevented him from observing the look of alarm in her eyes.

"I wish I could help you, Colonel Starcourt," she said, rather bleakly. "If it were possible for me to obtain your release from—"

"That is quite impossible," he interrupted. "But I wish there was a way of letting my mother know that I am alive. I think that is what hurts me more than anything else. My poor, poor mother! I love her more than anyone in the world."

She gulped painfully. "I—I will speak to my father about it. He may—"

"Thank you, but it would do no good. I have already spoken to him about it. He is sorry, but he prefers that I should be looked upon as—as dead, Miss Davos."

Starcourt could have sworn he heard a chuckle break on her lips as she rode away. But he did her an injustice. It was not a chuckle.

He watched her till she disappeared around a bend in the road, a graceful, supple figure astride the fleet Selim.

He dreamed that night that she was gleefully pricking him with a knife and laughing at his appeals for mercy. She had him securely tied to a tree.

Gerane also had a dream. And in it she walked in a beautiful garden with a beautiful lady who rejoiced to hear that her son was alive and thanked her for bringing the message from him.

JEALOUS LOVER IS ARRESTED

Police Nab Man Who Kept Two Wives Locked Up

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26. (UP)—Jay Donald Sullivan, 33, was held here today on a suspicion of bigamy charge after two women, one of them from Dallas, Texas, claimed to be his wife.

Sullivan's intense jealousy, which caused him to keep each woman in turn practically a prisoner in apartments, led to his arrest.

Lula Pearl Sullivan told police she married Sullivan in Dallas on May 24 and came to Los Angeles with him. She said she left him after three months of confinement to an apartment.

Inez Alva Croft-Sullivan said she married Sullivan on Nov. 9, unaware that he already was married. She said she was unable to get along with him because he kept her locked in her room.

An anonymous tip led to Sullivan's arrest when he visited Mrs. Croft-Sullivan in an attempt to bring about a conciliation.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. —Adv.

Evolution of Man Towards Ultimate Perfection Championed by Scientist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (INS)—Not only does scientific information establish the fundamental unity of man and beast, from the earliest evidences gleaned of the most "primitive of primates" but evolution is still remoulding the human race to the ultimate perfect.

Taking a little-contemplated view of the evolutionary theory, rejected from the educational curriculums of Tennessee and Arkansas, Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist at Smithsonian Institution, said today:

"Current evidence of man's evolution is an important phase of the subject so far dealt with but little.

Goal Still Ahead

"With the knowledge of his past and with that of his present, man can well feel that ages of further development are still ahead of him, so that he may eventually reach the highest legitimate aspirations."

Hrdlicka went back to the tertiary—an era essentially of the evolution of mammals—and traced the fragmentary thread of human development down the ages, through the "two undoubted human precursors"—the "Pithecanthropus" of Java and the "Eoanthropus" or dawn man, to the first hint of intelligence in the chipping of flint, and until in the middle of the ice age there definitely came into being a man.

From the fossils, the chronological factor, embryological evidence, physical, functional and chemical similarity or man and beast, vestiges and reversions to primate types, and the remains of earliest man, Hrdlicka concluded there is a "fundamental unity."

This scientist takes issue with those who hold that man has reached a "sort of equilibrium" with nature and hence the end of his personal changes."

Man Is Plastic

Man not only is mentally, but physically plastic, Hrdlicka pointed out that the stature of certain families has increased. The form of the head is changing slowly. Changes in pigmentation have affected populations, some becoming darker, others lighter. The civilized white male shows everywhere an increasing tendency to early baldness. There is a perceptible refinement of the physiogomy, with diminution of the protrusion and size of the cheek bones, lessening of the size of the jaws and teeth, and more generalized beauty.

"The higher civilized man has advanced in lines of human endurance, due to the stresses of civilization and calls for endurance," Hrdlicka said. "He ma ynot have the more automatic strength of some primitive people, but his eyes, ears, body and above all, brain, are evidently capable of greater conscious exertions and endure longer.

The more man is developed intellectually, the more there is of a striving for a higher state and happiness, progress and intellectual freedom.

Grave Dangers Exist

There are, however, grave dangers in the path of the ultimate perfect. Hrdlicka referred to modern diseases, great wars, idleness, luxury and demoralization, excesses strains and misapplied birth restriction.

"It is a truism," he said, "that as soon as any being or group ceases strenuous endeavor and yields to comfort and indolence, he or it commences to retrograde and lose in physical and mental standards.

"The principle of birth restriction is sound and necessary, but the misfortune is that the very people, the morons and defectives, who should practice birth restraint most, do so least, while those who ought not to practice it, the intelligent and well to do, are those who put it most often into effect."

To meet this situation Hrdlicka advocated better bringing up of the youth, rational regulations as to defectives, and "by such measures as the furnishing, together with and as a part of the marriage license, to every marrying couple, a treatise of a high order on the health, eugenics and happiness in the family."

The field will be under United States army supervision.

DEATH HOVERS OVER PIONEER

Ezra Meeker, Noted Builder, Ill at 98

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 26. (INS)—The inexorable hand of death is slowly drawing upon the curtain on the life of Ezra Meeker, 98, one of the West's most colorful pioneers.

Attendants at the bedside of the stricken patriarch, in the Frye hotel here this morning, stated his condition as "slowly sinking." Dr. C. L. Templeton, his attending physician, has announced that there is little chance for his recovery. It is only a matter of hours or possibly days, he said, before the sturdy trail breaker will end his life's trek. His body, which has stood the rigorous hardships of pioneer life and attacks of disease in his later years, is slowly submitting to old age.

Builder of West

For nearly a century Ezra Meeker has traced a brilliant career through American history. He will be 99 years old on Dec. 29. Three fourths of his life he has spent in advancing the cause of his beloved West.

Since 1825, when with his wife and small baby he started across the plains in a prairie schooner to the land of the setting sun, the famed pioneer has steadfastly continued his efforts to build up the western empire.

Now as the gray light falls into his room from the city roofs, he still thinks of his work and mission.

"I have lots of unfinished work. I'm not ready to go," he was heard to murmur.

Ezra Meeker has always been a man of action. No pioneer gathering was complete without him. Rancher, historian, traveler, he has filled nearly a dozen books with valuable accounts of western life. During the first 50 years of his married life he claims to have never spent a day in bed or needed a physician.

Longevity Views

"His "parties" on his birthdays for old timers, "ninety or over," as the invitations would read, has been the occasion for his expression of views on long living.

"There's no reason a man should not live to be at least 200 years old, he once said, "if he lives a plain life, gets plenty of exercise in God's air and doesn't indulge too freely in the bottle."

Meeker is credited with introducing one of the northwest's big crops, the culture of hops. Because of his wide range of activities and extensive tours over the country, his name is known throughout the country and he numbers among his friends scores of the leading men in the nation.

COST TOO MUCH

To Woo-Flappers; Family Life Is Best, Says Professor

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (UP)—The high cost of wooing and alimony will maintain the permanency of the family life, Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago political economy professor, believes.

In a book, "Family Life of Today," Professor Douglas sets forth his belief that companionate marriages, five-minute divorces and equal rights never will supplant the home and babies.

Flowers, taxicabs, jewelry and other essentials cost too much for a man to woo very often, he says, and divorce has come to be expensive because of alimony.

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 26. (UP)—Word received here today from McAlester said Senator Guy Andrews, one of the four men discussed for president pro tempore of the Oklahoma senate, had withdrawn from the race.

The same word, believed authentic, said he intended to support Senator C. S. Storms of Waurika. This could not be confirmed.

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapepsin may do as much for you.

DURANTS PLAN PLANE COMPANY

New Corporation to Be Built in Kansas City

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—An airplane manufacturing corporation, modeled after modern automobile plants and having a production line capable of putting out five airplanes daily, is being organized by Clifford Durant, son of William C. Durant, it was learned today.

The organization will be built around the American Eagle Aircraft company, of Kansas City, Mo.

REAGAN DEFEATS ZUNDELOWITZ FOR JUNIOR PREP TITLE

BECK'S ELEVEN WINS, 38 TO 0

Smith Stars; Beaten Team Fights Courageously

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

A powerful Reagan machine overwhelmed and outplayed but fighting Zundelowitz eleven yesterday in their annual game for the city junior high school championship. The big red Reagan team, outweighing their foes several pounds to the man, showed a crushing attack, led by a swift-running, elusive ball-toter, Oren (Blondy) Smith and repulsed the threats of Zundy, to score a 38 to 0 victory at Spudder park.

Except for the second quarter, which was played in Reagan territory, Zundelowitz was clearly outclassed. Reagan scored six touchdowns, two each in the first, third and fourth periods, and it was the cotton-haired lad, Oren Smith, who ran for four of those touchdowns.

Although Smith overshadowed the other Reagan backs, all of the starting four of that team displayed speed and ball-carrying ability.

Captain Nichols directed his team well and was a strength on the defense on the few occasions that Zundy sifted through his forward wall. Logan was next to Smith in ground gaining, and scored the other two touchdowns.

The big line of Reagan overpowered their lighter adversaries, with Sepkovitch probably the outstanding luminary.

Zundy Fights Gamely

The unceasing fight of Zundelowitz aroused the admiration and sympathy of all, even of their foes. Captain Holton was a star of the game and was the only Zundy player who could gain consistently. In the second quarter, led by the line plunging of Holton, Zundy made a sustained march that was only stopped at the Reagan 5-yard line. Curlee and Mulligan, Zundy ends, also distinguished themselves in pulling down some long passes and in their defensive play. Barthosh was an outstanding lineman.

Reagan scored early in the first quarter. Smith ran 25 yards for a touchdown soon after the kickoff but was called back when a teammate was offside. Voss tore off 15 yards and Smith then dashed 25 for a legal touchdown. A pass for the point failed.

Holton returned the Reagan kickoff 20 yards but fumbled and Reagan recovered on the Zundy 30-yard stripe.

Glass of Zundy gathered in a Reagan fumble on his own 15-yard line and Holton got off a good punt of 35 yards which Logan returned 15, to mid-field. Smith reeled off 30 yards, and Logan carried the ball over on a pass from Nichols. Nichols' kick for the point failed.

Zundelowitz Braces

Shortly after the start of the second period, Holton tossed a pass to Mulligan for a 20-yard advance, placing the ball on the Reagan 27-yard line. Reagan was penalized 5 yards. A couple of plays made first down to Reagan's 15-yard line. Zundy made another first down, with Holton carrying the ball 5 yards to Reagan's 5-yard line. That was the nearest Zundy penetrated, for they were held for downs and Reagan punted out of danger.

After Zundy kicked off to start the second half, Smith sped 40 yards to Zundy's 15-yard line and then took the ball over. A pass try for the point failed. Holton heaved the ball to Curlee for a 20-yard gain to midfield after the resumption of hostilities. Zundy made a first downs to Reagan's 40-yard line but Nichols snatched a Zundy pass there. Smith made 12 and then Logan ran 40 yards for another touchdown. Logan went through the line on a fake pass for the point.

Curlee made a 30-yard gain on a toss from Holton but Zundy was held for downs on Reagan's 30-yard line when the quarter ended.

Smith made a 35-yard run off-tackle for a touchdown soon after the last period started and Nichols kicked goal for the point. Smith intercepted a Zundy pass on the Zundy 30-yard line but Reagan was penalized and punted. Smith (he was just about the whole show) grabbed another Zundy toss and ran 40 for the touchdown. The try for point was blocked.

Nichols' nose was broken in final minutes of play, the only injury suffered in the game. Nichols' nose was not broken badly.

Reagan Challenges States

Principal W. A. Franklin and Coach A. D. Beck of Reagan said after the game that their team challenges any junior high school eleven in Texas for a game for the state junior prep title. Yesterday's lineups:

ZUNDELOWITZ (0)	Positions	REAGAN (38)

Barthosh	Right Tackle	Stephens
Mulligan	Right End	Voss
Peacock	Quarterback	Nichols

Touchdowns: Smith 4, Logan 2. Points after touchdowns, Logan, through line; Nichols, kick.

TROJANS LEAD IN FAR WEST

Southern California Undisputed Conference Boss

By CARLE H. BENNETT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (UP)—With Southern California in undisputed possession of leadership in the Pacific coast conference, Far West football teams still have before them most ambitious schedule of intersectional games they have ever undertaken.

The series starts Thanksgiving day in New York when the Oregon Aggies, one of the lesser teams of the West Coast conference, go against New York university.

Two Games Saturday

Two games will be played Saturday, Army against Stanford in New York and Notre Dame meeting Southern California in Los Angeles.

Climaxing the post-season schedule is the Tournament of Roses game in Pasadena on New Year's day. The opponents have not been selected, but it appeared probable that California would represent the West and Carnegie Tech, New York university or Army the East.

California May Play

California may decide to schedule a holiday game of its own. In that case probably Southern California would be asked to fill the New Year's date, although the Trojans have not been very friendly with the Rose Bowl committee and already have expressed a desire to be excused from participation.

This is the first year Southern California has emerged at the top of the conference heap. For the last six years the Trojans have had powerful teams but Stanford or California slipped in ahead of them. U. S. C. defeated Stanford this year, however, and tied California, so that when California and Stanford finished their "big game" Saturday in a 13-13 deadlock, the Trojans had the region's best record.

New Men Carry Pony Cage Hopes

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Southern Methodist university's prospects in the approaching Southwest conference basket ball campaign are dependent upon material coming up from the freshman squad, Coach J. W. St. Clair said today.

Only three lettermen will be back from last year's Pony squad, which finished second in the conference race for the fourth straight year. They are Elmo Johnson, guard, Al Brooks, guard, and Albo Brown, a forward. Such stars as Mann, Allison, Burgess, Lindsey and Hooks have departed.

Four newcomers who are expected to give the surviving lettermen a stiff race for berths on the Mustang quintet are Hammon, Hopper, Powell and Skeeters.

Pony Line Coach, Ill, Won't See Frog Game

DALLAS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Russell McIntosh, line coach at Southern Methodist university, has been confined to his home for three days with a severe attack of influenza. It was doubtful that the man who built the Mustangs' powerful forward wall would recover in time to witness the Thanksgiving day clash here with Texas Christian university.

Fate Helps Illini Keep Big 10 Title

Defeats of Gophers, Iowa Let Zuppkemen Cop

By HARRY M'NAMARA

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (US)—Illinois retained the football championship of the Western conference by beating Ohio State, 8 to 0, Saturday, but Bob Zuppke, himself, didn't know it until the returns were in on all the other Big Ten games, the final contests of the 1928 championship schedule.

As a matter of fact, a combination of circumstances gave the fighting Illini their second consecutive title. Before going any further with that declaration, however, we hasten to add that Illinois made some of those circumstances and the most of any and all others that came its way.

As it is Illinois' championship is dimmed somewhat by one defeat. Michigan did it—beat Illinois, 3 to 0, just when Zuppke's men appeared to be set to sweep everything in the conference before them. Zuppke refused to permit his team to fold up following that disheartening and totally unexpected defeat at the hands of the Wolverines, however, and the Illini came back to beat the two remaining conference teams on its schedule—Chicago and Ohio State.

Illinois Has .800 Mark

Thus, Zuppke's team beat Indiana, Northwestern, Chicago and Ohio State and lost to Michigan to wind up the season with four victories, one defeat, a percentage of .800, if you still go in for that sort of thing, and another conference football championship.

Oddly enough, the same fellow who beat Illinois for Michigan, "Dynamite Joe" Gembis, kicked the Illini into the championship with another deft swing of his good right toe that propelled a place kick over the bars and between the uprights. This Gembis kick beat Iowa and removed the last possible chance the Hawkeyes had to horn in on the title with a tie.

Illinois went into the final game of its schedule facing almost impossible odds against its chances of retaining the title. As matters stood Illinois was confronted not only with the necessity of beating Ohio State, itself a big assignment for any team, but required help from Minnesota and Michigan. This it received in the fullest measure.

Others Help Zup's Team

In order that Illinois could figure on any division of the title Minnesota had to beat Wisconsin. The Gophers did that, 6 to 0. Illinois was assured a tie for the championship, at least, once Minnesota had beaten Wisconsin, granting that Zuppke's men could "take" Ohio State. Michigan had to trim Iowa in order to knock the Hawkeyes out of the tie with Illinois. Michigan responded by spilling Iowa, 10 to 7.

Thus a combination of circumstances gave Illinois the championship in the dizziest Western conference football campaign on record. Going into the final game, no less than four teams, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio and Iowa, had a chance to win or break in on some division of the title.

Wisconsin could have won the undisputed championship by, beating Minnesota, which would have given the Badgers a record of four victories and one tie. Iowa would have tied with Illinois if it had beaten Michigan. Ohio State could have won the championship if it had beaten Illinois. Ohio State, Wisconsin and Iowa were not equal to the tasks that confronted them, however.

Illinois did the only possible thing it could do to remain in the title fight—beat Ohio State. That was one of the circumstances that made up the combination that gave Illinois the title that was made by Illinois.

Joie Ray's Record-Breaking Race In Marathon Had Great Incentive

Professional Swimmer and Chicago Runner Announce Engagement After She Helps Winner Set New Mark

BOSTON, Nov. 26. (US)—When Joie Ray broke all professional marathon records at the new Boston garden last Saturday night, defeating El Ouafi, Olympic marathon winner, he was running a race with cupid at his heels.

And he won that race, too. He admitted it today when he and Alice Eldredge, nationally famous professional swimmer, announced their engagement at Miss Eldredge's home in Cambridge.

Alice was present last Saturday night in the garden, when Joie Ray made marathon history. Every time he passed her box, he smiled at her and she smiled back.

When Joie showed signs of fatigue, it was Alice, an exquisitely beautiful blond, who rushed out to buy him oranges, and who passed the thrist quenching fruit to Joie as he plugged about the track.

Joie and Alice have known each other for more than a year.

"It was when I was a swimming instructor at Pemberton," Alice said today, "that I first met Joie. He was in Boston fulfilling an engagement for the Boston Athletic association. We fell in love; no doubt about that."

"Athletics certainly had a lot to do with it," Joie admitted. "First, I saw Alice swim. And then she saw me run. Now we're going swimming and running through life together."

They admitted their marriage will take place in the near future, but no specific date has been set.

Joie's divorce from his first wife took place in Chicago two years ago. The decree, he says, is now final, and he is free to marry at any time.

The first Mrs. Ray received custody of the two children.

OLNEY ELEVEN SHOWS CLASS

Individual and Team Excellence Score Victories

By M. GRUVER
Special Correspondent to The Record News

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 26.—The Olney Cubs, champions of the southern half of district No. 3, class B, won that title with a coordination of outstanding individual play and teamwork. The Cubs, who meet Megargel, northern half champions, here Thanksgiving day for the championship of the district, won all their games impressively in the southern half.

Bowie gave Olney the hardest game, the Cubs finally winning, 18 to 12. Olney won its final game, for the right to meet Megargel, by disposing of Archer City, 19 to 7, Monday, Oct. 12, at Archer City. Other district games won by Olney were over Nocona, 33 to 0; Henrietta, 46 to 0, and Bellevue, 38 to 0.

A brief sketch of the Olney players and coach follows:

CAPTAIN O'BRIEN—A center unequaled in this conference; a real leader, never misses a play, and morally a clean-cut example for the whole team; has played in every conference game of the season; playing his last year here.

CADDO GILMORE (end)—A well developed, all-around finished football player; the Cub's dangerous passing attack is developed around him; is a dangerous tackler and can run down punts; his last year.

BARNEY DEES (tackle)—Has played an aggressive game at tackle all year; is a tower of strength in the line, both on the defense as well as the offense; has one more year.

BINGO WELLS (guard)—The "master mind" on the Cub team; knows more about football than the average high school player; he never has an off day; is in every play; a man who uses his head as well as his strength; will be greatly missed after this year.

LOVE PERKINS (guard)—Has played a strong, aggressive game all season; a good interference runner; always following the ball; has recovered a number of fumbles and on numerous occasions converting fumbles into touchdowns; his loss will be felt.

OTTO ELLIS (tackle)—His first year but played like a veteran; has made himself prominent in all games this season; will graduate this year.

BRAXTON GILMORE (end)—His first year as a regular; is a worthy understudy of his brother Caddo; a vicious tackler, a good blocker, and always goes down on punts; he has two more years.

RANKIN GOODE (quarter)—The boy that shot fear into the Archer City lads; has the ability to pass the oval accurately, completing nine out of 15 attempts in the Archer City game; can return punts; his running attack is equally effective.

ELBA COSBY (half)—Is a tower of strength in backing up the line; the ramrod of the club; a dangerous broken field runner; his place will be hard to fill.

LEFTY ROBERTS (half)—Can take more punishment than any other three men; a fast lateral pass man; a dangerous ball carrier; made 253 yards in the Archer City game; can catch, pass, run and a good man on the defense; great things expected from him next year.

LEFTY GREER (fullback)—Although heretofore has shown very little, proved himself to be a real player in the Archer City contest; a punter of exceptional ability; intercepted a pass, running 45 yards for the final touchdown; can pass with the grace of a veteran; will be back next year.

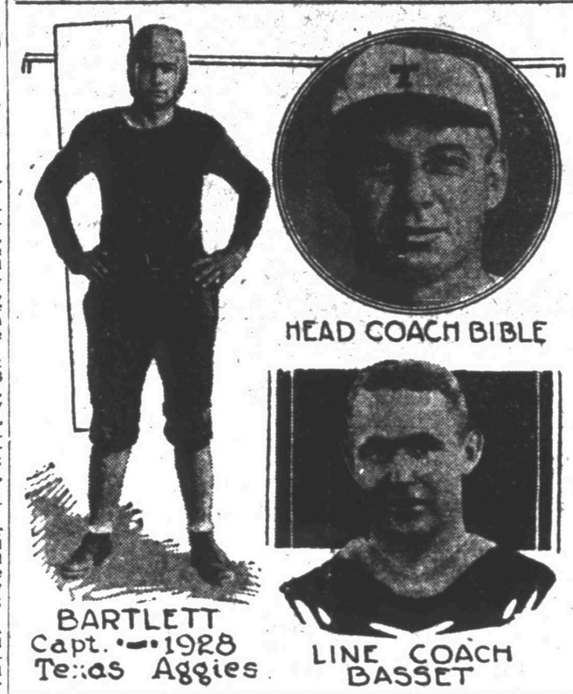

GEORGE ELLIS (half)—The lightest man on the team, but one of the fastest; a consistent ball carrier; can back up the line; is extra good on defensive pass work; can pass and kick and has played consistently throughout the season.

WILLIS ATCHLEY (quarter)—The boy who led the Cubs to victory from the first of the season until a broken collar bone, received in the Bowie game, caused him to retire for the season; is a dangerous triple threat man; can run, pass and kick with ability; has been the outstanding broken field runner on the team; always returns punts for good gains; his loss is keenly felt.

COACH A. S. ACKER—The man at the helm, his first year at coaching but already a proven football mentor; an outstanding college football player on the T. C. U. team; played right end during 1925, 1926 and 1927; has developed a fighting, championship team.

The two frog stars will be in the lineup but their effectiveness will be below par.

The Frogs Monday started their last two days of hard work before the final game of the season.

Griffiths to Make Eastern Ring Bow

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (UP)—The search for a logical heavyweight contender or two will continue in Madison Square garden Friday night, when "Tuffy" Griffiths of Sioux City makes his first eastern appearance in a 10-round bout with James J. Braddock of Jersey City.

Griffiths has been touted as a possible semi-finalist or so in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament, and the New Jersey heavyweight, an indifferent performer at best, will be in the role of a trial horse for the young Iowan.

Griffith's knockout victories over Mike McTigue and other light heavyweights won him recognition here, although he has done all his fighting in the Middle West.

Memphis To Meet Hereford For Title

Special to The Record News.

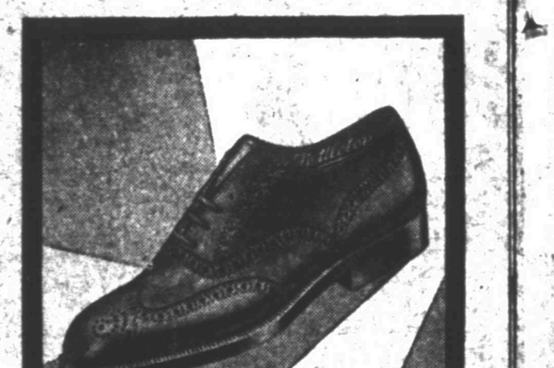

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 26.—The best football game of the season is expected here Thanksgiving day when Memphis and Hereford high schools tie up for the championship of the district No. 1 class B schools.

Memphis won its right to competition for the title honors last week by defeating Perryton for the championship of the Eastern half of the district. A special train will bring the Hereford team and its supporters to the game.

Memphis holds a slight advantage over Hereford in weight but the speed and versatile attack of the Hereford team makes up for the lack of brawn.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper
(Copyright, 1928, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Diet for Neuralgia

I have found that practically every case of neuralgia can be cured by dietetic measures alone, although there are a few cases which require manipulative or special treatments. The first thing to do in any case of neuralgia is to thoroughly empty the lower intestines by using at least two enemas daily for a week or 10 days. During this time the toxins should be washed out of the system by using no food, but drinking from three to four gallons of water each day. Distilled water is preferable, and one should drink about two glasses of water every half hour.

During this fasting period a relief from the pain may be had by the application of heat from hot water bottles, bags of hot salt, etc., or from a deep therapy lamp. Sometimes counter-irritating plasters applied over the sweat spot give immediate relief. The usual plasters are made from mustard, capsicum or Spanish fly.

Even though the pain may disappear shortly after beginning this diet, it is well to continue for a time so that you will have no recurrence of the trouble. After the water fast of one week, change to a milk diet. The best milk for this purpose is raw certified Holstein milk. Use one heaping glassful every hour, starting at 6 o'clock in the morning and finishing at 6 o'clock at night. This will take three quarts of milk per day. After 10 days the amount can be gradually increased by taking a glassful every half hour during the morning, and a glassful every hour during the afternoon. In this way you can use from four to five quarts a day, and if you assimilate this quantity you should gradually increase the amount until you are able to take a glassful every half hour during the entire day. In this way you will consume six quarts of milk daily.

The milk diet should be continued for at least one month and at least one enema should be used daily, even though the bowels should begin to move naturally.

Severe cases of neuralgia may require at least a month of the milk diet. In returning to a regular diet you must be very careful to employ only the right food combinations. In order to do this, you should make a thorough study of food chemistry so that you will know how to supply your body with all of the elements that it requires and avoid creating new toxins. This treatment may seem to be a little bit severe but one who is suffering from neuralgia is willing to undergo anything that will bring relief. Results from the dietetic method of treatment are much more permanently satisfactory than any other remedy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swollen Hands

Question—E. M. C. asks: "Will you please explain the reason for swelling of the hands and fingers? I have a boy eight years old—seems to be always sick, no appetite, complains of a pain in the stomach after eating. At times his fingers will swell in 15 minutes to twice the normal size. They will go down if I bathe them in hot water. Is this serious?"

Answer: Your child may have some heart derangement which is producing the trouble with his circulation. His case certainly requires a diagnosis in order to find out his true condition.

Home Brew

Question—E. H. R. writes: "I would like to have you tell me what effect if any home brew has on a man 51 years old if he drinks from seven to 10 gallons a week. I would like to know if it affects the kidneys in any way, as he is continually urinating—about every 30 minutes. He makes the beer himself."

Answer: I cannot too strongly condemn the use of any home-made beer. The brewing of beer is a science improved over centuries of experimentation. If all the best rules were employed and the best apparatus used, it would still be a complicated and expensive method to use in one's home on a small scale. I have been able to trace many cases of serious liver and kidney derangements to the use of home brew in both Canada and the United States. Well brewed beer can be purchased; the only difference is that in the United States the law requires the removal of the alcohol after the beer has been made.

Puffs Under Eyes

Question—Twenty writes: "I have puffs under my eyes. Can you tell me what they are from and the best way to get rid of them?"

Answer: Your trouble is caused from some form of dropsy, which is either from heart trouble, or because your kidneys are not able to perform their normal functions. Only a proper diagnosis will tell you the truth about the cause of your trouble.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to
FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By POMPEO COPPINI

Pompeo Coppini is one of the foremost sculptors in the world. Scores of his works of art decorate spots all the way from the little town of Moglia, in the Province of Mantua, where he was born, to the four corners of the United States. He recently completed the largest work of sculpture ever undertaken by a sculptor working alone—the Littlefield memorial which is now being erected near the capital of Texas.

Pompeo Coppini

"Tradition has it," Coppini told me, "that an artist must die to be appreciated, and that has to do with my favorite joke—which, however, is more of an experience than a mere funny story.

"I was immersed with my work one day not long ago when the doorbell rang. My assistant's hands were in the plaster, and though my dirty smock hardly looked presentable, I answered the ring. An old man with a portfolio faced me. It was obvious that he was a book salesman.

"'Mr. Coppini?' asked the caller.

"'Why, no—Mr. Coppini is dead.'

"'Dead?' repeated the venerable old man with a tremble. 'Dead?'—and tears filled his eyes. 'Why, I used to know him well—he was a dear friend of mine, and one of the best artists that ever lived—so generous—so good—so accomplished.'

"'Then you knew him well?' I went on.

"'As well as my own brother. I sold him many, many books!' and the old man turned and walked away—mumbling about my work.

"'Well, Coppini,' laughed my assistant when the door was closed. 'You are indeed a lucky artist—you are still alive but have tasted the joys of death.'"

U. S. Army Reduced To Fewer Than 150,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (UP)—The United States army has been reduced to fewer than 150,000, the annual report of Major General Lutzwahl, adjutant general, showed today.

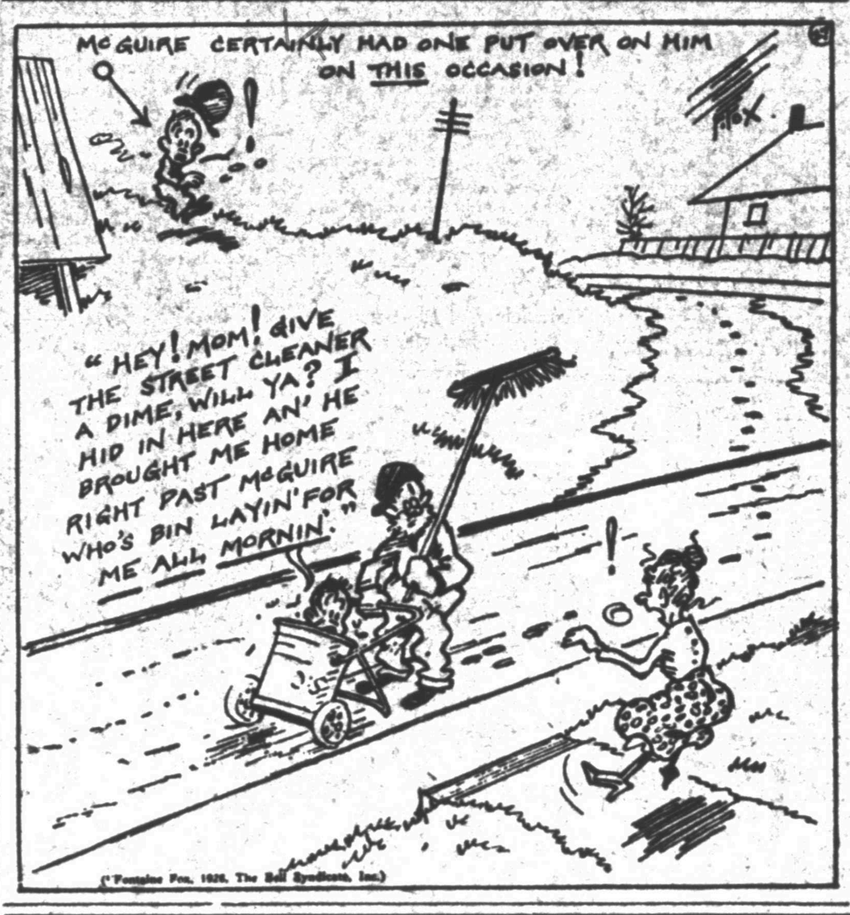

On June 30, 1928, the actual strength of the army, including 699 army nurses and 575 West Point cadets, amounted to 135,115 individuals. Of these 12,112 were officers and 121,185 were enlisted men.

Of the 55,600 men enlisted and re-enlisted during the fiscal year ended June 30, Wahl said, 93.76 per cent were native born Americans.

PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 26. (AP)—With six seamen injured and her battered decks testifying to the fury of two hurricanes she had passed through, the freighter Millpool was in port today after a 22 day voyage from Fowey, England that ordinarily would have been made in 16.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—The cotton market showed continued firmness today, with prices making new high ground for the movement on a continuation of the recent buying movement which seemed to find further encouragement in relatively steady Liverpool cables, talk of reduced crop estimates and favorable reports from the cotton goods trade. After selling up to 20.61 at the start, January reacted to 20.45, but later advanced to 20.74, and closed at 20.72. The general market closed firm at net advances of 25 to 27 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 14 to 22 points in response to relatively firm cables, and favorable trade reports from Manchester and the domestic goods markets. This initial advance met a good deal of realizing and some southern selling under which prices reacted during the early trading, with December selling off to 20.56 while March worked down from 20.61 to 20.50.

A private report estimating the crop at 13,804,000 bales, including 4,998,000 for Texas and 1,210,000 for Oklahoma, proved ably contributive to the advance which absorbed. Trade buying to fix prices as well as covering or rebuying by some of the earlier sellers and a further broadening of Wall street and commission house demand was reported.

The highest prices of the day were reached in the late trading with December selling at 20.84 and March at 20.77 or 27 to 40 points net higher on the general list and about 31/2 cents a pound above the low level of last September. Closing quotations were within 3 or 4 points of the best.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Under the stimulus of good trade and speculative buying cotton prices traded into new high ground for the movement and for the season today and at the highest showed gains of almost $2 a bale over Saturday's close. There were several minor reactions on realizing but the highs of the day were reached in late trading when January contracts sold up to 20.13, or 38 points het up and closed one point under the figure with the general market at net advances of 25 to 37 points.

The market opened firm in response to higher Liverpool cables and on the severe cold weather reported in the belt. First trades showed gains of 7 to 12 points and prices continued upward after the start on a demand prompted by the comparatively light tenders for December deliveries in New York. December soon sold up to 19.98, January 19.95 and March crossed 20 cent line for the first time this season to 20.05, or 16 to 20 points net up.

Following a minor reaction on realizing December ultimately advanced to 20.08 January 20.13, March 20.24 and May 20.07 or 36 to 38 points above the previous close. The afternoon demand was probably further stimulated by a report that there had been engagements of freight room at Texas ports for cotton shipments to Germany.

Ticker Stays Near Actual Market As Volume Of Sales Slumps Sharply

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (US)—Higher money rate and the holiday influence caused a more irregular but quieter stock market, today. The call rate was advanced from 6½ to 7⅛ per cent with a scarcity of funds reported during most of the afternoon that caused continued profit taking in many recent favorites.

Offerings were well taken, however, and except for the 3¾ point further decline in General Motors, most of the losses were confined to a point or so. Montgomery Ward lost 9¼ on comparatively light turnover. Yellow Truck was the outstanding bull feature, gaining 10⅛ points which Nickel added 9½ points to its climb as the pool work was resumed.

Railroads acted as a group with Canadian Pacific holding the leading position with 5¾ point gain, while New Haven jumped into prominence along with the more speculative issues.

Oils were quiet and net lower for the day while the Coppers continued to ease off as a result of rather steady realizing. With the volume less, the stock ticker kept within 10 minutes of the actual market for most of the session.

Call Advance Surprises

The advance in the call money rate was a surprise to many traders and naturally enhanced the tendency to lighten commitments. However, there were whispers last week that indicate some such application of the brakes was near at hand. The official explanation for the higher rate was the preparation for the mid-week adjustment, Dec. 1. Interest and dividend disbursements have to be taken care of the end of the week, however, so that the tighter money market is likely to be experienced for the next several sessions.

Together with the Thanksgiving day interruption, the market leaders hope that this will influence more orderly trading so that the plans for constructive operations in selected industrials and many of the rails may be carried out without interruption by a bad crack in the general list such as would have resulted had the wild trading of last week continued.

The sudden burst of strength in Yellow Truck was the result of steady accumulation by Chicago interests over the last few weeks. This group first took a position in Yellow many months ago and recently added to their holdings due to belief that the current quarter would find the corporation operating in black figures for the first time in several years. The same group took over the operation of General American Tank, coninc. dent with analysis of its favorable position by one of the largest stock exchange firms.

Texas Gulf was subjected to further quiet accumulation due to the growing belief that special dividend distribution will be made early next year.

Dry Goods Merger

Associated Dry Goods responded to the announcement of election of new directors with a rise to a new high record price. Entrance of the new interests, it was rumored, was preparatory to carrying out a merger plan.

Goodyear and Goodrich both enjoyed consistent demand and led the entire rubber and tire group higher coincident with reports from the trade indicating that the leaders of the industry were in agreement on stabilization.

Superior Oil group resumed activity as announcement was made of important strike on the Oklahoma holdings. Dunhill International added a point to its advance under the influence of expectation that directors will declare a stock dividened in addition to the regular cash disbursement at the next meeting.

Buying in New Haven in good part was by brokers who usually act for the most powerful interests in the Big Ten. Its advance was helped by expectation that October earnings report would prove even better than generally expected and added to belief that the final quarter of this year will be the best for this period in more than 10 years. Continuation of improvement as indicated, it was maintained, would result in a larger dividend distribution by Canadian Pacific it was pointed out that the company has Consolidated Mining and Smelting stock which recently has increased in value to the extent of over $25,000,000.

Grain

CHICAGO REVIEW

CHICAGO, (Nov. 26. (AP)—All grains scored advances in price today and in some quarters a reason suggested was increased notice being taken of prospective farm legislation. Curtailment of the United States wheat visible supply total, unexpected upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool, and comparative smallness of country offerings of corn to arrive were likewise construed as factors favorable to grain bulls.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm ½ to ⅝c net higher. Corn finished ⅛@⅜c up, oats showing half to ⅛@⅜c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

Particular attention was given to the fact that the Liverpool wheat market today, instead of undergoing an expected decline went in the opposite direction, notwithstanding that world shipments for the last week were the largest on record. Fact that arrivals of corn in Chicago today totalled 614 cars.

Provisions reflected upturns in the value of hogs.

Enginemen Hurt in Train Crash

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 26. (INS)—A. R. Keister, engineer, and H. B. Baldwin, fireman, were injured today in a head-on collision between two freight trains at Gordon, Palo Pinto county, according to advices received here. One of the men was reported seriously injured.

Fire that followed the crash spread to an oil car, and destroyed two cars of cattle and a car of mules, the report said.

An unconfirmed report said that two hoboes that were on the train were missing.

The flames spread to the home of Dayton Bulett, near the tracks, and burned the house to the ground.

Grandchild of Electra Minister Is Killed

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Nov. 26.—Word was received in Electra Sunday morning of the death of the six-month old child of Mr. and Mrs. Eulis Woods of Lubbock, which occurred in an automobile accident earlier in the morning while the family was en route to church. Details of the accident are meager, other than that the car in which they were riding turned over, pinning them beneath it and breaking the child's neck. The parents were uninjured. The family is well known in Electra, having visited here many times with Mr. Woods' parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Woods of the Church of Christ. Rev. and Mrs. Woods and daughter, Miss Hazel, left immediately for Lubbock, on receipt of the message.

Yates "Extensioner" Finds Sulphur Water

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 26. (AP)—Prospects of extending production seven miles west of the Yates oil pool in Pecos county stood materially lessened today by the encounter of sulphur water at 1,652 feet in Lyles and others' No. 1 Sellman in section 20, block Z, Texas Central Railway Co. survey.

After penetrating four feet, the test shut down for orders.

RIGHT OF WOMEN TO SUE SHERIFF UPHELD IN COTTLE CASE

ATWELL RULES IN SUIT HERE

Wrongful Arrest At Paducah Claimed

Describing as "revolutionary and preposterous" an interpretation of a Texas statute purporting to deny the right of a citizen to sue in his own right on the bond of a sheriff Judge W. H. Atwell, Monday afternoon refused to rule out of the United States destrict court the petitions of Miss Ruth Owens and Mrs. Lola Meadors seeking redress for alleged false arrest against the sheriff and county attorney of Cottle county.

The exceptions and demurrers of the defendants on points of pleading and law were sustained at the close of the arguments Monday afternoon and the plaintiffs granted the right to re-plead their case and to add further parties to their suits Miss Owens and Mrs. Meadors each asking for $5,122.20 actual damages and $25,000 punitive damages against Sheriff A. A. Payne, the National Surety company of New York and Clifford Graves, county attorney of Cottle county.

Gives Ruling

Judge Atwell's expression of astonishment came Monday afternoon when attorneys for the defense urged that the surety could not be sued by a third party.

"What redress can a citizen have upon a sheriff who has no property?" he demanded. "It seems to me that is against public policy. My opinion is of no moment if counsel is right in the meaning of the law But I will rule against him, subject to change if I am convinced that his version of the statute is correct and that I must rule with him."

The question of a married woman's right to sue for damages without being joined by her husband is also involved in the suit of Mrs. Lola Meadors against Sheriff Payne, his sureties, and Clifford Graves. Judge Atwell granted attorneys for the plaintiffs the right to re-plead the case in its entirety

Wrongfully Arrested Claim

The petition of Miss Owens and Mrs. Meadors alleged that on or about Sept. 13, they were wrongfully arrested and falsely imprisoned "after dark in the death cell" of the jail at Paducah, Texas.

On Tuesday, the second day for civil hearings in the semi-annual federal court session here, the following four civil trials are set: Martin S. Slayer vs. Reliance Life Insurance company; Southern Casualty company vs. H. A. Kennedy; R. C. Morrison vs. New Amsterdam Casualty company; and O. L. Shockley vs. the New Amsterdam Casualty company.

Black Boy Hero of Vestris Feted

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—A diminutive West Indian negro member of the crew of the lost liner Vestris today received the official congratulations of the City of New York for his part in the rescue of more than a score of persons when the vessel sank off the Virginia capes.

The hero of a welcoming ceremony in Mayor Walker's reception suite at city hall was Lionel Licorish, quartermaster of the Vestris, who maneuvered a life boat for hours about the scene of the Vestris.

In congratulating him, Mayor Walker referred to the willingness of persons floundering in the water to receive assistance from Licorish regardless of his race or color, and added:

"I am rather inclined to believe that if we had a little more of that while the ship was sailing safely along, if we had the same willingness to accept assistance, and the same absence of discrimination, even this would be a greater country than it is today."

The negro's reply was brief.

"I thought it was my duty," he said in telling of the rescues.

"I am very glad to be alive," he added, "and I appreciate this reception and the loving way American people treat me."

MAJESTIC: Mary Philbin in "Drums of Love." Comedy. Topics. Fables. Paramount news.

STRAND: (Vitaphone theater) Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky in "Two Lovers." Two vitaphone shorts. Pathe news.

MISSION: John Barrymore in "The Beloved Rogue." Comedy.

OLYMPIC: Zippity Zip company in musical comedy. On the screen: "The Farmer's Daughter." Comedy. Fox news reel.

And another thing. Why is it that the wheels of a cart in the movies always are seen turning in the wrong direction? When one considers the millions that some producers brag about spending in producing just one picture, it seems as though they could set aside a paltry half million for laboratory work to eliminate the laughs that reversed wheels have brought to serious or spectacular parts of many pictures which otherwise were really good.

◆ ◆ ◆

This is but one of the 2,037 things exhibitors fuss and cuss about in trying to pick and book good pictures.

◆ ◆ ◆

John Barrymore has gone and done it, according to current news stories. That is, he is now a benedict. Dolores Costello, just about half as old as Jawn, is the bride. Those who wish to see Jawn for the last time in the movies before he took the fatal leap, may do so by trotting over to the Mission and planking down the admission price. The picture is "The Beloved Rogue."

◆ ◆ ◆

Speaking of the Mission, reminds us that a schedule of prices of 10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults is now in force there. The show is all movies, and the programs are the best of the second run movies. The organ has been rebuilt since the fire.

◆ ◆ ◆

The writer of this column was in the Mission that day a few months ago when the fire was at its height. No one was worried and the back of the house was filled with spectators who watched the fire just as they would watch a show. They stayed there until the firemen and police run them out.

◆ ◆ ◆

While the police were doing this, the organ started to play. The chief inspector of spooks might have been called to get at the cause of the trouble had not Charlie Moorehead, manager, showed up and discovered that the organ was playing due to a short circuit that had started the instrument.

This work by the organ reminds us that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, and that the band on the Titanic played "Alexander's Rag Time Band" as the waves closed over the ship.

A serious thought on the season's biggest and best musical entertainment is not out of place. We take cracks at some of the poor shows and efforts, and we try to point out some of the better things. There is no doubt that Shubert's "Rio Rita," musical comedy, coming to the Majestic Dec. 3, is the biggest and best of the new musical comedies we will see this year. The Majestic is a very small theater, and tickets are now on sale. The upper and lower floors of the Majestic combined have only half the seating capacity of the lower floor alone of the Memorial auditorium. These facts are stated that those who cry for good shows will be able to get their seats now while there are still seats to be had. In our opinion, "Rio Rita" will be a sell out by the end of this week. That means if you want to see it, you must look out for yourself now.

URGES DELAY OF FARM BILL

Indiana Leaders Want All Action Held Up

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 26. (AP)—A plea to congress not to enact agricultural legislation at the short session convening in December because President Coolidge will still be in office was voiced by William H. Settle, Indiana Farm Bureau federation president, speaking at the federation's annual convention in Indianapolis today.

Praising the agricultural stand of Herbert Hoover, as expressed in an address at St. Louis, Settle said:

"Never in the history of this country has there been promised to agriculture by one who is in a position to make good his promise definite action as was promised by the president-elect."

Settle at the Republican national convention was a leader in the strenuous anti-Hoover demonstrations of the embattled farmers.

R. C. A. Loses New Hearing of Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (INS)—The supreme court today denied the petition of the Radio Corporation of America for review of a lower court decision holding that the corporation violated the Clayton Anti-Trust act in requiring other radio manufacturers to use only R. C. A. tubes.

Federal Judge Morris, of Delaware held that the R. C. A., was engaged in restraining competition.

The R. C. A. contended that it held the only patent under which receiving sets could be made but that instead of monopolizing the business it licensed 25 manufacturers. However, it required the manufacturers to buy R. C. A. tubes exclusively.

Several independent tube manufacturers brought the action, claiming that the R. C. A. agreement had greatly restricted the market for tube sales.

Izaak Waltons Plan New Chapters In Area

Will J. Tucker, state fish, game and oyster commissioner, who was invited to attend the banquet here, advised local officials of his inability to accept owing to his being required to be in court in Corpus Christi Tuesday on business concerning his department. He promised, however, according to Mr. Oneal, that in response to a request made this month by the local Izaak Walton league, an additional warden assigned especially to the Lake Wichita region will be furnished within a few weeks.

Following the dinner, the following moving picture films will be shown: "Ozark Meets the Bees;" "With Rod and Fly," "What the Doctor Ordered," "Hunting Wild Ducks," and "Wild Turkey and Quail Hunting." The menu as announced includes baked wild duck and Lake Kemp bass.

Wife Places Hubby Under Peace Bond; Chased Her Out In Night Gown, Says

Barefooted against the sandburrs in the grass and clad only in a sheer night dress, a 22-year-old wife stood shivering outside her home early Monday morning until sounds of the loading of a shotgun forced her to fly from her husband into a neighbor's home, she told officers Monday.

Before dark Monday the husband, a business man of 30, was under a $500 peace bond issued by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn, and charges of aggravated assault had been filed against him by County Attorney Wayne Somerville.

Bruised and half-dazed by a beating she had received when her husband came home drunk about 2 o'clock, the young woman disregarded the cold and fled out doors, hoping to hide in the darkness until his anger should subside, she explained to Mr. Somerville. Her terror was increased when she heard him get his gun and start loading it, she said, and she ran, wounding her bare feet on sandburrs, to the home of a neighbor where she spent the night. She reported to the county attorney late Monday that her clothes, her bag and other possessions had been taken from her home and asked that they be recovered when the peace bond and assault warrants were served.
