Wellington Industries Production Rises

Southern Pacific Railway, largest customer of Wellington Industries, Inc., recently awarded an order which will total around 11,000 kegs of railroad spikes spread over the 1981 calendar year.

Wellington Industries now has 1981 bookings totaling 52,889 kegs, and this does not include the SP booking order.

The figure could go higher.

There are still a lot of major (railroad repair) programs on the line and not committed, said Brenda Marple, company secretary. Wellington Industries will aggressively seek a share of this work.

Burlington Northern Railway, one of the country's largest lines, on Friday, January 30, awarded Wellington Industries, Inc., substantial order.

Sales booked for 1981 calendar year already amount to in excess of $4 million.

These two railroads have between them some of the major railroad repair and rebuilding projects in the United States.

Southern Pacific, through its Cotton Belt Line, has acquired the Tucumcari to Kansas City portion of the bankrupt Rock Island Railroad. Rebuilding and repairing this line alone reaches major proportions.

"We have already shipped 6,000 kegs of railroad spikes on that project," said Mrs. Marple.

Burlington Northern has made several acquisitions within the last two or three years.

The Fort Worth and Denver Railway with Wellington as one of its railroads, is part of the Burlington Northern system.

In a second major announcement, Wellington Industries president Dwain Marple announced that a fifth 8-hour shift has been added at the spike plant bringing it to within about two thirds of its production capacity with the three machines that are operational.

Three shifts work around the clock at one machine. Two shifts work on the second machine.

This makes for a more flexible production schedule and enables Zeb Roberson, vice president and production manager, to move a shift from a down spike machine to the third machine with no loss of working time.

"There is no standing around by employees waiting for a machine to be repaired," said Marple.

In this industry, each machine can be expected to be down approximately 50 percent of this time, he explained. Wellington Industries has raised this so that the machines are in operation approximately 70 percent of the time.

City Seeks More Revenue, Adds Services

City Council members voted Monday night, Feb. 2, to increase the fees collected for two services provided Wellington residents, sewer service and trash collection.

There was no change in the cost of water.

In other action, the Council:

-Voted to continue its policy of adding street lights in areas without adequate lighting. This is an on-going city project.

-Approved the purchase of new "Stop" and "Yield" signs for Wellington streets.

-Learned that the city is now sole developer of a small park in northeast Wellington.

-Accepted the application of General Telephone Company for a rate increase, and voted to join the Texas Municipal League's move to fight this.

The minimum charge which a residential user will pay for water, sewer and sanitation service is now $16.25 per month, up from $13.75.

Breakdown, the sewer charge was raised from $2.40 to $5.00 per month. The sanitation fee (trash collection) went up from $2.60 to $5.00.

Rates for those living outside the city limits but using the city's trash collection service were upped from $5.00 to $10.00 per month.

"The city is operating in the black right now, but it is because of the franchise taxes we have just collected from the utility companies," Mayor Bill Hatch told the council.

Two weeks ago, City Manager Glen Taylor spelled out the need for additional revenue and said he believed the increase in sewer and trash collection fees would be the most equitable for all city customers.

He asked the council members to think about the proposal until the February 2 meeting.

The city is now operating on a $584,888 budget, up from last year's budget of $547,000.

Taylor cited increased costs of everything the city has to buy. A 10% cost of living increase was given city employees effective February 1.

Another expense facing the city this year for the first time is approximately $16,000 to be paid into the state mandated tax appraisal program.

Both Hatch and Taylor told councilmen that the sewer-sanitation charge increase would add approximately $52,000 per year to the city's income.

The four sewer pumps operate almost constantly and normally pump from 200,000 to 250,000 gallons of sewage per day.

Although there was no increase in the cost of water to the customers, Taylor cited as an example of increased costs the last check for electricity to pump

General Telephone Requests Rate Increase

AUSTIN--General Telephone Company of the Southwest Friday Jan. 23, 1981) filed a statewide request for increased revenues with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) seeking $44.6 million in annual revenues of which the company would receive $23.2 million after taxes and uncollectibles.

The request is based on financial data for a one-year period ending Sept. 30, 1980.

However, in Collingsworth County, General Telephone spent more than $300,000 in improvement and upgrading during the last year. This included putting all cables from Wellington to Quail underground and upgrading other facilities to serve customers. New lines were laid, also underground, to provide service into an area in the Marella, Quail, Salt Fork and Lillie areas that had been without service for many years.

General Telephone serves Wellington and Dodson customers, and in the rural areas, all of Collingsworth County lying south of Salt Fork River.

F.E. Hightower, vice president-revenue requirements, said the major factors creating the necessity for filing the application are:

- * Continued inflation.
- * Record-setting gross construction expenditures necessary to keep pace with growth.

- * New technology.

"The money to finance new construction in the fast-growing Sun Belt area

Braselton Mare Earns APHA Title

Steven Braselton has been notified by the American Paint Horse Association that his registered Paint mare, Tarzette, has earned the title of APHA Champion.

"This horse has distinguished itself in halter and performance events as an APHA Champion, Braselton was told by an Association spokesman.

In addition to receiving championship papers, she has won Register of Merit in the APHA approved events of Western Pleasure, Trail and Bridle Path Hack.

Braselton, the 21 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sut Braselton, raises and shows registered Paint horses and attends Clarendon Junior College.

Tarzette was featured with a picture and story in the January issue of the American Paint Horse Journal. Tarzette and another horse belonging to Steven Braselton won honors in the Paint Horse Show held in conjunction with the 1981 Amarillo Stock Show Saturday, January 31.

The Reserve Grand Champion stallion was Frosty's Flash, a 1978 stallion.

Tarzette placed second in the class for 1977 mares. She went on to win first in the Junior Bridle Path Hack, open class.

Frosty's Flash also placed first in the Junior Western Pleasure, open class, and second in Junior Trail, open class.

The mare and stallion were shown by Braselton.

He moved to Wellington recently with his parents, when his father became administrator of Collingsworth General Hospital.

SAMNORWOOD EAGLETES

There are only six Samnorwood Eaglettes this year, and that leaves just one substitute, but they make up for their numbers with enthusiasm and hard playing on the court. From left, they are Ester Alfaro, Sally Kincannon, Jona Stages, Rose Barker, Crystal Breeding and Diana Alfaro and their coach, Kenneth Martindale.

water amounting to $1,030, and this was a low water consumption month. In midsummer, the city pumps from 35 to 40 million gallons per month.

Mayor Hatch explained the state-wide application of General Telephone to the Public Utilities Commission for a rate increase, then read a letter from the Texas Municipal League urging that cities fight the motion.

Mayor Hatch said Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell has requested better street lighting in some areas as a deterrent to crime. "If it is well lighted, it will hold down crime," Maxwell believes.

Hatch and Deputy Billy Gilbert, on night patrol, drove over town to pinpoint those areas in greatest need of more street lights. Among these are Galveston from 15th through 3rd streets; Haskell from 1st to 15th Street, the alley on the north side of the square, and in the areas around Singley Mill and Warrick's Elevator are only a few of the dark spots around town.

The city now has underway an ongoing project of replacing street lights with 175 lumen mercury vapor lights. When new electric rates are effective, each light will cost the city $4.10 per month.

Work is progressing section to section of town, until eventually all the small lights will be replaced and streets without lighting will be adequately lighted, Taylor said.

Wilkins told the council he believes residents of the north part of town and other sections without street lights have legitimate gripes and he added that he thought lights also should be put along FM Highway 338 from Lucky Corner to Marian Airpark.

Taylor reported that the county has turned over to the city the small park for Block 185 in northeast Wellington, along with $4,600 in cash for its development.

This is the site of the old Mobile Oil Company warehouse and includes that building which the city manager proposed for a community building.

Wilkins said the building is substantial and could be lowered from its present elevated position, refinished on the inside and bricked on the exterior.

Playground equipment has been constructed, and Taylor proposed a barbecue pit, basketball court, with grass and trees to be set out this spring.

The city has made available rent free to the Satellite Work Center the buildings that were formerly the Green Acres Golf course club house.

The council approved a survey showing the need for street signs, most of them "Stop," "Yield," and School Advance Signs under a program with the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The Department will furnish the 459 metal street signs, while the city will furnish the pipe standards on which the signs will be mounted and do the installation.

Taylor said that in a later program, street name signs can be added to the sign standards.

The cost for the city's part for the first program was estimated at $5,000.

Councilman Willie Gragson reported on the Highway Department's authority over the placing of street and speed signs, and pointed out that its authority supercedes that of the city.

He also discussed advisory and regulatory speed laws and other facets of speed laws inside the city. His study was made at the request of Mayor Hatch.

Present at the council meeting were Mayor Hatch, City Manager Taylor, Councilmen, Ralph Owens, Willie Gragson, Tom Wilkins, Lyndon Crelia and Gary Brewer and City Secretary Nell McKinney.

Inc., acquired the railroad spike plant just six months ago, after it had been closed for the preceding 6-months period.

The start-up began with 10 employees. The present payroll at the plant is 38, more than half the number employed when it reached its peak production after the third spike machine was installed.

Spike shipments for the first month, August 1980, amounted to 1,650 kegs.

Subsequent shipments trace its growth: September 4,610 kegs; October 5,522 kegs; November 5,630 kegs; December 6,350 kegs.

In January the company experienced its greatest growth, producing 8,188 kegs of rail spikes for a half year total of 31,950 kegs.

February is characteristically a slow month, yet production is projected as larger than January, and March shipments should increase by another 50 percent to 12,497 kegs.

Rich Albracht, Southern Pacific supervising head-buyer and his wife, Linda, of San Francisco visited Wellington Industries a few Weeks ago and were here a day and night, touring facilities.

"They seemed quite impressed," Marple said.

Customers Wellington Industries has added in its 6-months of operation include some of the lines of the United States:

Burlington Northern, Southern Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern, Ft. Worth and Denver, Illinois Central Gulf, Conrail, Kansas City Southern, Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern, and the

of Texas must be borrowed at record high interest rates," Hightower said, "and double digit inflation continues making everything connected with providing service cost more. The company's program to improve and upgrade service and to continue to construct new facilities makes it necessary to request higher rates to more nearly reflect today's costs of doing business."

The PUC order issued in August stated the company must improve its service levels or face possible further action by the PUC. Rex Bailey, vice president-marketing and customer service, said. "Company-wide service levels have improved significantly and are continuing to trend upward. We are optimistic the PUC review of our service will be favorable."

Mrs. Marple said that trains arrive in Wellington on regular schedule twice a week to pick up the cars each carrying 500 kegs of rail spikes.

Bailey added, "In hindsight, I guess we felt a little too strongly the customer was maybe more interested in us holding rates down. Maybe we were concentrating a little too heavy on controlling expenses and not enough emphasis on meeting service objectives.

Edgar Allen Poe was expelled from West Point for "gross neglect of duty."

Rev. Hughes Home From Haiti Work

The Rev. Stanley Hughes, pastor of First Baptist Church, has returned from Haiti, where he conducted services.

Here are some of his observations of the country and its people:

Haiti is said to be the poorest country in the western hemisphere. The minimum wage is $2.65 a day. There are many people that have no shoes. Several people have clothes that are worn out, but they continue to wear them. It is a common sight to see the hungry walking the streets. One cannot help but consider how blessed we are in America when he goes to a country so poor.

Even though the conditions are poor, everyone seems to agree that the people appeared happy and content.

The church services were really enjoyable. Because so many had so little to do they would just walk off the street into the service. People would accept Christ with little work on the part of the church.

The church where I was, met three times a week at 4:30 a.m. for prayer meeting. Their big service of the week was Sunday afternoon at 3:00. It started with Sunday School.

There were four classes that met in one room. The Sunday School offering was the equivalent of one U.S. dollar. The worship service began at 4:00 p.m. and it was over about 6:40. It was the longest service I had ever been a part of. The people were not in a hurry and seemed to enjoy it.

I wish everyone could go one time just so they could see the need. The dental equipment from Wellington

Gilroy Rummel Dies After Brief Illness

Gilroy Rummel, 78-year old retired farm and church leader, died in Collingsworth General Hospital at 11:50 p.m. Monday, February 2, a few hours after he was admitted for treatment. He had suffered from a heart condition, but his death was unexpected.

He farmed in the Loco community for many years until he and Mrs. Rummel moved to their home at 1701 Haskell Street.

Besides the years which he devoted to farming, he served several groups related to agriculture. He was a former director of the Farmers Co-op Gin and also served as a community committeeman in the ASCS Farm Program. He belonged to the Farm Bureau.

A long-time member of the Church of Christ, he had served as an elder in the Wellington church.

Gilroy Martin Rummel was born January 7, 1903 at Taylor, the son of William and Lena Stolle Rummel.

He came to Collingsworth County in 1925 from Vernon, and on September 14, 1926, he was married to Miss Lola Holland in this county.

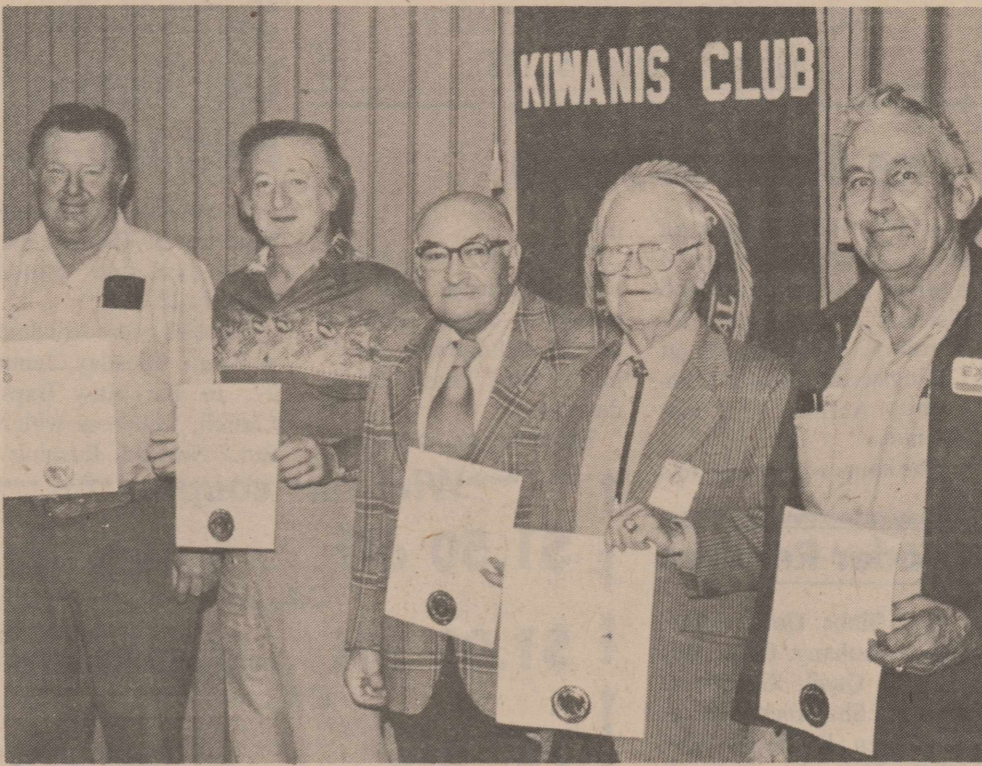

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Church of Christ with Garell Forehand, minister, officiating. Burial was in North Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Guy Owens Funeral Home.

He was also preceded in death by two brothers and one sister.

Plans Ready for Autograph Party

Friends of the Library have completed plans for the autograph party with which they will honor Judge R.L. Templeton Friday, February 6.

The party will be in the Heritage Room from 1:30 to 3 p.m. and the public is invited.

Judge Templeton published his third book, "The Death of Jimmy Littlewolf." It is one of the volumes in the Stores for Young Americans Series issued by the Eakin Press of Burnet, said Mrs. George Porter, a member of the Friends.

Mrs. Jerry Nix Tells of Tours to Historic Cities

Mrs. Jerry Nix was the program speaker at the regular meeting of La Paisana Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution Monday evening, February 2.

She showed color slides with commentary, from the family's two trips to restored Williamsburg, Va., Philadelphia and places of interest in New England.

She showed a cabinet shop where furniture is still made entirely by hand with tools like those used in pre-revolutionary days. No power tools are used.

The homes and public buildings had much pine woodwork and furniture and some of it was given an antique finish, even then.

Many windows had venetian blinds, as have modern homes. The difference is that those from New England were brought from Venice, Italy.

Churches had family pews that were enclosed by a wall about four feet high, continued Mrs. Nix. This plan helped to keep the worshipers warm and allowed the children to play on the floor during the long sermons of the day.

Views of Constitution Hall, where the U.S. Constitution was signed, and of the Liberty Bell were shown, as were Plymouth Rock and Mayflower II.

Mrs. Bura Handley, regent, presided and Mrs. Boyd Derryberry was hostess.

Mrs. Les White gave the National Defense report, discussing the controversial bilingual education ruling of the 1974 Supreme Court. On the day Mrs. White spoke, announcement was made through the Department of Education that this would not be enforced in its entity.

She also spoke of the Soviet naval gains and its effect on the United States.

Final plans were made for the annual American History Month tea to be held at Bura Handley Community Center at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 8.

Attending were Mrs. Nix; Mrs. Handley, Mrs. Walter Pendleton, Mrs. John McDowell and Mrs. Roy McNett of Shamrock; Mrs. Frank Fourmentin, Mrs. White, Mrs. Derryberry, Mrs. Louise Vaughan, Miss Maudie Coffee, Mrs. Clyde Drake, Mrs. Bill Long and Mrs. Dee Coleman.

Sunny sands by the sea or mountain view, the question of what to wear for that second wedding is answered forthrightly by the experts. Calvin Coolidge

I have always been fond of Calvin Coolidge and was delighted to read a press release the other day advising that "Silent Cal" is also a favorite of President Reagan. Paintings of three presidents will hand in the oval office: Lincoln, Coolidge and Eisenhower.

If you'll think about it you will realize that the Coolidge years marked the last placid years the country was to know -- until? There have been none since. Yes, the Coolidge years were placid, peaceful. Politically, especially when it came to international affairs we were naive, no doubt. But who bothered, weren't we safe, content, prosperous within our own borders. We laughed at his caustic Yankee grin, his wry jokes, and we grieved with him when one of his sons died as the result of a heel infection which resulted from a tennis court blister. I was quite young then but very much into tennis. It became something of a solemn ritual to not appear on the courts except in white cotton socks. It was a caution from our parents and for one we willingly obliged. Old Cal was a frugal sort, lived in the Willard Hotel when he was vice-president, for economy's sake. His was the age of the beginning of big bands, the well sort of, end of the flapper era. Henry Ford hadn't yet invented the Model A but just about everyone had a black Model T if not something better. Those were the years of the American Expatriates in Paris, many of whom were to contribute the best literature of the century. H.L. Mencken was a hero. Coolidge made his inaugural address March 4, 1925. It was the first to be heard over amplifiers and to be broadcast over the even more remarkable radio system. I wonder if a lanky youngster named Charles Lindburgh heard it, or was he off barnstorming or flying the mail, dreaming about flying the Atlantic? I can tell you what Cal would have said if he'd heard about such a dream -- "Ummmmmm-umph," dry and tart.

But that 1925 inaugural, striking for its simplicity in comparison with the sumptuousness of those in the past was without oratorical flourishes. He told them briefly: "This country believes in prosperity." He developed that in a passage more fundamental and controversial, in words that were understood differently than they would be interpreted were they to be spoken today. He said: "All owners of property are charged with service. These rights and duties have been revealed, through the conscience of society, to have a divine sanction. The very stability of our society depends upon production and conservation. For individuals or governments to waste and squander their resources is to deny these rights and disregard these obligations. The result of economic dissipation to a nation is always moral decay." After that, I suppose, he went back to the White House, moved his rocker out onto the front porch. When he was told presidents usually sat on the rear portico he simply replied -- "I like to watch the streetcars go by." --The Refugio County Press

a thought FROM HIS WORD . . .
(Part II)

Why is it that so many married couples seem to lose interest in each other after a few years of marriage? The answer is not as difficult to find as some leading social analysis would have us believe. Divorce and marital problems are caused by the breakdown of the basic law of design of the marriage of men and women.

God designed the husband and wife to be one in total completeness. (Gen. 2:23-4) God designed the marriage relationship so that the husband and father was to be the provider of spiritual, emotional and physical welfare for his wife and family. (Eph. 5:23, 25-31; 1 Tim. 5:8; Deut. 4:9) God designed women as man's help meet. (Gen. 2:23) This did not mean that a woman was not a human being. It did state obedience on her part to a loving, sacrificing, totally selfless husband. (Prov. 31:10-31; Eph. 5--22-33; 1 Cor. 7:1-16)

It is very clear that this basic law of marriage designed by God is not met by many in the style of marriage we have today. The problem falls squarely on the shoulders of the husband and wife. As real as the problem of divorce and marital difficulties have become, the solution is still as real. Christ as the center of our life provides the solution we will look at next week. REO

AUSTIN — Republican Governor Bill Clements, who has often said he sees no difference between running a large corporation and running state government, last week demonstrated he is going to keep that game-plan to bring unruly Democrats to heel.

And he didn't do a bad job, either, despite indications the Legislature is getting its back up at the former oilfield worker who went on to found one of the world's largest oil drilling companies.

In short shrift, Clements backed down the House and Senate on the issue of an emergency pay raise for state employees . . . and he tried to grab the momentum from Atty. Gen. Mark White on the issue of racial discrimination in Texas universities.

White was Texas' hero in January after he flew to Washington and stalled off punitive federal action for alleged racial segregation. Following his visit, the U.S. Department of Education agreed to a six-month reprieve to allow Texas to divert more funds to predominantly black colleges.

Perhaps angered that White had stolen a political march on him, Clements declared last week he alone will control future dealings with the Education Department, and he fired off a letter to the Reagan Administration reiterating that point.

Clements apparently was angry at the success of White's mission which saved Texas between $250 to $300 million in federal funds from being cut off. Clements views White as a potential opponent in the 1982 gubernatorial race, and wanted to reserve negotiating action to his own advantage, a source in the Governor's office said.

Emergency Pay Raise

Last week's emergency pay raise bill affected only state employees, but it was significant as the "opening guns issue" between the Legislature and Clements. Clements probably won.

The basic play: Clements had wanted a 3.4 percent pay hike, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby countered with a 6.8 percent figure. Clements settled for a 5.1 percent compromise and vowed to veto a higher figure.

Nevertheless, the emergency pay raise bill by Sen. Lloyd Doggett passed the Senate at 6.8 percent and was sent to the House. A House Appropriations Committee amended to 5.1 and sent the bill to the House floor for debate. Several attempts failed to jack it higher, until the House finally agreed to 5.1, but with a $75 floor instead of the governor-approved $50 floor. It was a "dare" to veto and the votes to override were apparently almost enough (two-thirds majority).

But the bill was tailored to the Governor's wishes in conference committee, and the confrontation never appeared. Even if Clements had signed the "dare," he could have saved face and state money by postponing the pay raise by a month.

The real losers would have been state employees who depend only on the Legislature for a raise, unlike in private enterprise. As their equivalents in private enterprise will probably agree, a $25 point of difference pales against the vivid background of double-digit inflation.

Agriculture Bills

Already introduced this session are several bills to seek help for Texas agriculture.

A bill by Rep. Bill Keese, D-Somerville, would strengthen the rights of farmers and other landowners in cases where cities and utility companies use eminent domain laws to obtain land of right-of-way easements. Keese complains that some 170 types of governmental bodies have eminent domain rights.

Pete Patterson, D-Brookston, has a bill to keep foreigners from buying farm and ranchland, and to require present alien owners to register their claims with the state.

Patterson is worried about the huge amounts of prime farmland taken out of production, not only by foreigners but by developers and expanding urban areas.

State Senator Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has authored a bill to outlaw the state inheritance tax which often forces persons who inherit family farms and businesses to sell them to pay the tax.

A farm bill by an urban legislator, Sam Hudson, R-Dallas, would give farmworkers the right to bargain collectively with growers. The bill is being pushed by the Texas Farm Workers Union, a group which often makes below minimum wage. Opponents say farm product prices are so low now that the industry cannot afford a hike in labor costs.

The legislative process is moving rather slowly because of the failure to suspend a Constitutional rule that states the first thirty days of the session shall be devoted to introduction of bills; the 2nd thirty days to hearing these bills in Committees.

The Constitution also states this rule can be suspended by an affirmative vote of four-fifths of its members. Another exception is any bills the Governor designates as emergency legislation.

For many decades, these rules were suspended without opposition. But this year there were about 45 leaders in opposition to the speaker that voted not to suspend. This means, in effect, no bills will be heard in Committee for thirty days and none voted on before the first 60 days. When the motion failed, Speaker Clayton said that was fine with him -- less bad bills would be passed.

Now, what is happening?

The Governor is introducing a number of the bills of his own under the emergency designation and designating other bills for conservatives as emergency legislation that are being heard. At the same time, the liberal State Representative that killed the suspension of the rules cannot get their legislation before the legislature.

Jack Deahl, Former County Attorney Dies

Jack Boyd Deahl, 78, a former Collingsworth County attorney, died Tuesday, January 27, in Oklahoma City, where he had lived for the last 5 years. His death came after a lengthy period of ill health.

He was a member of a prominent Dodson family, his father, M.H. (Tobe) Deahl having had extensive farming interests in that part of the county. His grandfather, G.W. Deahl was one of the founders of the First State Bank at Dodson.

Norwood PTA Buys Chairs As Improvement Project

Samnorwood Parent-Teacher Association members voted Monday, January 26, to buy chairs for the gymnasium foyer and for grades kindergarten through two as their school improvement project.

Funds for this project come each year from harvest festival at Halloween.

In addition to the 48 chairs, PTA will also buy lumber and other materials to repair the seesaws at elementary school.

Some money remains in the fund, and the project committee will make further selections and report to the PTA at its February 23 meeting.

Don Wells, Shamrock certified public accountant, discussed income taxes, and the many things involved in reporting taxes and the penalties for violations.

Members were told of the Gifted and Talented Program, set up in the school, with Mrs. Mary Burcham full responsibility for its operation.

This will be the Smile Samnorwood Motivational and Intellectual Learning Educational Program. This year it will be limited to children in grades one through six.

State-wide this is set up to serve 5% of the children meeting certain criteria.

During the entertainment program, fifth and sixth grade students, directed by Peggy Hendrix, presented "Our Country 'Tis of Thee."

A historical dramatic experience presented in the form of a choral reading, it depicts the events in the history of the United States in stirring prose and verse.

Beginning with the settlement in the New World by the Pilgrims, it continues through the Civil War and Civil rights, down to the inauguration of Ronald Reagan, lauding the greatness of the United States.

The narrator for the evening was Leslie Bradvik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brandvik and sixth grader.

Grades 5 and 6 won the room count by having the most parents present for the meeting. Students of grades 7 and 8 served refreshments.

Samnorwood PTA meets on the fourth Monday of each month through the school year.

Concerned about the welfare and growth of the community, Mr. Adkins was active in community affairs and in the church over a long period of years.

He was married to Miss Emma Breedlove, December, 23, 1922, at Independence.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, January 31, at 2:30 p.m. in the Church of the Nazarene at Dodson with the Rev. Hoyt Ellis of Hollis and the Rev. Dennis Hayes, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Independence Cemetery under the direction of Patterson Coley Funeral Home at Hollis.

DWI Cases Tried In County Court

Cases of driving while intoxicated and theft dominated the docket in county court Friday, January 30, with Judge Bob Watson presiding.

The case of the State vs. Tony Glover who faces two cases of theft of money, was continued because his attorney was out of town. Glover is also being held in county jail for violation of probation. He was arrested January 14, Judge Watson said he would probably set the case this week.

Kenneth Lee Hunt, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $300 plus $69.30 court costs and 30 days in jail. The jail time was probated for six months, the judge said. His arrest date was January 15.

Roy Edward Farrow, arrested January 16, and charged with driving while intoxicated, was passed at the request of his attorney, Charles Darter.

Lonnie Wayne McClendon, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. His fine was $125, plus $69.30 court costs and three days in jail. This had been pending since his arrest November 3, 1980.

Thelma Lee Ford, arrested January 8, and charged with driving while intoxicated, pled guilty and was fined $300 plus $69.30 court costs and three days in jail.

Mrs. Gary Thomas, charged with theft by check (hot) pled not guilty and Judge Watson set her case for February 23 at 10 a.m. She was arrested January 6 in Memphis and made bond.

The case of Robert Lavendar, also charged with driving while intoxicated, was on the docket but his attorney, which he hired, Dean Roper of Amarillo, did not appear. Judge Watson took this under advisement. Lavendar was arrested June 9, 1980.

Three cases of the State vs. Randy O'Hair was passed at the request of his attorney, Bill Spillman. O'Hair is charged with possession of a prohibited weapon, possession of marijuana, and transporting alcoholic beverages in a dry area, Judge Watson said. He was arrested August 12, in all three cases.

Burglars, Vandals Hit Businesses

The office of Singley Mill was burglarized some time Friday night, January 30, Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell has reported.

Entry was gained by breaking a 12" x 12" window on the west side of the building. An AM-FM radio and scanner were taken and were valued at an estimated $300. The burglary was reported to the Sheriff's Department at 7:32 a.m. by Bill Lowe, an employee.

There are no suspects at this time, Maxwell said.

Vandals heavily damaged a 17½ foot boat and outboard motor belonging to Lyman Daniel and located behind Lyman's Automotive during the weekend.

The damage was discovered Monday evening February 2, and reported to the Sheriff's Department.

"This took lots of nerve," said Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell. "It was in a well lighted area and about 300 feet from the jail."

Daniel told The Wellington Leader that the sides of the boat were sprayed with paint, a hole was knocked in the side of the boat and holes were beat in the motor. He believes the vandalism took place Sunday night. An estimate of the loss has not been made.

Other cases of vandalism were reported. Hezze Jones, manager of Smith Motor Co., said paint was sprayed on two used pickups and one car. He was able to remove the paint, he said.

Cecil Browning, 915 9th Street reported to the sheriff's department that two windows at the back of his building were broken Monday afternoon while he was working at the front. He said he heard the glass break but when he got to the alley he could not see anyone. Deputy Ray Akemon investigated.

Services at Childress for Annie Bryant

Mrs. Annie Nora Bryant, 83, died in Thomas Nursing Center at 4:55 p.m. Monday, January 26, after a long illness. She formerly lived at Tell and Childress.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m.

Wednesday, Jan. 28, in First United Methodist Church in Childress with the Rev. R.H. Knight, retired Methodist minister, and Dr. J.V. Cohorn, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Tell Cemetery under the direction of Newberry Funeral Home.

Born Aug. 6, 1897, in Mountain View, Okla., she moved to the Tell community in 1911. She was married there to Alves Bryant in March of 1916. He preceded her in death in 1948. She came to Childress in 1957.

Survivors include three sons, Orville Bryant of Tulia, Cecil Bryant of Wildorado and J.W. "Boody" Bryant of Childress; two daughters, Mrs. Joyce Harris of Wellington and Mrs. Loyce Kelley of Childress; three brothers, Buck Cosper of Pina, Arizona, John Cosper of Portales, N.M.; and Virgil Cosper of Amarillo; one sister, Mrs. Vida Bumpas of Childress; 16 grandchildren, 36 great grandchildren; and two great great grandchildren. Pall bearers were grandsons.

Those who attended the service from Wellington were Mr. and Mrs. R.F.

More Aviation Fuel Storage At Airport

Fuel storage capacity at Marian Airport was increased this week to 15,000 gallons, an increase of 6,500 gallons that will make it easier to keep all users supplied.

Wellington Spraying Service owner Joe Fickling reported that Owens Farm Supply had replaced this week two tanks that together held 1,500 gallons of aviation fuel with one tank that will hold 8,000 gallons. New pumps with a key guard system are also being installed. The new tank, and a 5,000 gallon tank owned by Fickling and a 2,000 gallon tank owned by Duggie Jameson bring the airport's capacity to 15,000 gallons.

Fuel at the Wellington airport is 100 octane low lead.

With the new capacity, airport users won't have to let tanks get as low as they had previously before they can order and store a tanker truck of fuel. Fickling said that work on the project was done this week before any improvements begin on the surface of the new runways, since part of the paved apron had to be torn up to replace the tanks.

TEXAS HOMES

Students of Coach Ray Bostick's 7th grade Texas history class now know what the homes of early Texans looked like. Class members built the model houses after researching early Texas homes both in and out of class. At left on the table is an example of the earliest stone shelters, the first Texas homes of many settlers. A pioneer home with dog trot is next and at right a cut-away model to show the interior of a log cabin. Back row, from left, are Kim Castleberry, Kristy Settle, Nicole Keller and Carla Caison. Second row, from left, are Julie Caldwell, Rhonda Heisler, Hope Thomas, Karen Mote, Joe Jernigan, Johnny Nash and Lesa White. At front, from left are Gwendy Kerlee, Tommy Cochran, Johnny Molina and Brenda Molina.

HISTORY PROJECTS

These students are shown with their carefully built models of early Texas homes—the log cabin era. Several were complete with stock pens and even outhouses. It is a part of their study of the way early Texans lived, in Coach Ray Bostick's 7th grade Texas history class in Wellington Junior High. Some students wrote research themes or brought examples of recipes used by pioneer Texas women. From left are Kendall Harris, Gerald Bland, Jimmy Trimble, Neal Duncan, Bobby Lynch, Mike Skelton, Tracy Day, Rudy Torrez, William Estes and Max Kellison.
