

Allies Vote Down Red Compromise Plan For Trieste

PARIS, June 27 (AP)—The western allies rejected last night two Russian counter proposals for the disposition of disputed Trieste, leaving the foreign ministers council still deadlocked today on the most difficult phase of the Italian peace treaty.

The Russian suggestions, offered by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov as a compromise following his rejection of a French plan to internationalize the Adriatic port, proposed (1) that Trieste be made an autonomous district under Yugoslav sovereignty, or (2) that the city be placed under the joint sovereignty of Italy and Yugoslavia.

Council Retains Spanish Issue On Agenda

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Security Council were agreed today, after a confused and acrimonious debate, that the Spanish issue remains on the agenda and that the veto has become an over-riding weapon in their deliberations.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko demonstrated that any question brought before the council can be knocked out by the single vote of any one of the "big five" permanent members. He wielded the veto three times last night on British-Australian proposals concerning the Spanish question.

After the council's longest and bitterest session adjourned, Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Ewart, who served as chairman of the council subcommittee which investigated Spain, challenged the validity of the method by which the veto was exercised in unprecedented fashion by Gromyko and declared the debate lasting five hours and 49 minutes constituted a "scandal."

British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan, in a United Nations "Charter Day" speech broadcast to the empire last night, criticized the veto power and said it would force the UN into an "all or nothing" policy.

Throughout the protracted argument the details of the Spanish issue were almost completely overshadowed.

The Soviet delegate engaged in running arguments chiefly with Ewart and Castillo Najera and used the veto to kill a resolution and a separate amendment on which he had been outvoted by the majority.

Mayor Appeals For Sanitary Condition

On the eve of the effective date of new sanitary ordinances for Big Spring, Mayor G. W. Dabney today appealed to citizens to maintain sanitary premises.

He referred particularly to a statement by Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, that the practice of raising chickens within city limits must be stopped unless it can be done in a sanitary manner without the breeding of flies.

The state health officer pointed out that if flies breed as a result of chickens, then improperly kept chickens could be said to be an indirect contributing pollution.

According to Dr. Cox, "chicken yards must be cleaned up, and if chickens breed flies and other insects, we must get rid of the chickens. The same goes for horses, cows and other animals being kept within city limits."

Dr. Chauncey Leake, vice-president of the University of Texas and dean of the medical school, doubted that poultry or stock could be raised without consequent fly breeding.

Thus, it behooves persons maintaining stock or poultry to exercise every precaution to prevent breeding of flies, said the mayor, not for their own good alone, but in a spirit of good neighborliness.

Telephone Men Make Survey Of Potential Growth In Big Spring

Russell Howard, in charge of the Big Spring and Stanton offices for Southwestern Bell Telephone company, and V. E. Brooks, Fort Worth, engineer, spent Wednesday in Big Spring, making a survey of potential development.

They interviewed community leaders concerning their views of anticipated growth of Big Spring and immediate area. This information, they said, would be helpful to the telephone company in making plans for expansion to meet growing needs.

At present there is a backlog of 548 telephone orders here, and it may be possible that the figure will increase before equipment is available for meeting the load, said Howard. However, production of phones and technical equipment is gaining momentum and deliveries increasing, he said.

MOTORMAN NOT SCARED BY GUN

DALLAS, June 27 (AP)—A gunman's threats today didn't scare streetcar operator Rufus Poff, they just angered him.

A motorist stopped his automobile in the middle of the trolley tracks, got out, and brandished a pistol at Poff, ordering him to "get out of that car or I'll shoot," Poff reported.

Poff got out. Then he walked up to the gunman, twisted the gun from his hand and went to work on him with his fists. The would-be badman retreated hastily to his car and drove away.

Truman Has Not Decided Fate Of Hobbs Bill

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The Hobbs anti-racketeering bill hasn't actually reached President Truman's desk, he said today, adding that he won't decide whether to veto or sign it until it does come to him.

Right now, he told his news conference, various government agencies are being polled for their opinions on the measure which the Senate passed and sent to the White House Saturday.

The Hobbs bill, banning union interference with the movement of farm produce in interstate commerce, previously was given to the president as a section of the Case labor disputes bill. He vetoed that legislation.

Aside from the Hobbs measure, congressional advocates of labor-regulating legislation abandoned hope today of passing any new measures.

Simultaneously, Chairman Murray (D-Mont) proposed to the Senate Labor committee that a presidential commission, rather than any congressional group, undertake the projected long-range study of possible new laws.

Cotton Loss Rate Due To Be High

J. G. Hammock, whose team of AAA cotton insurance adjusters completed its task of making preliminary surveys on Howard county crop losses Wednesday, said this morning that production on virtually every farm surveyed would be below normal.

"It is too early to make an accurate estimate on the percentage of farms that will show a complete loss," he stated. "It is, however, going to be high."

Some of the farms which have had rain will show some production, Hammock said, but even those will not be up to previous years.

The team will start another check Monday on the farms reporting complete losses.

Ralph White, Ellis Iden and Roy Anderson are helping Hammock make the estimates.

Matsuoka Dies; Once Jap Foreign Minister

TOKYO, June 27 (AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, the onetime foreign minister who formally linked Japan with the Axis, died early today with "great regrets" that he could not defend himself in the international war crimes court.

The disease-wasted University of Oregon graduate realized for days that death was near, and frequently told his eldest son, Kenjiro, that he had many things to say to the court—a defense that probably never will be told in full. War crimes charges against him were officially withdrawn after his death.

AUSTIN, June 27 (AP)—Two polio cases were under treatment today at Brackenridge hospital.

Both were brought here from the Cedar Creek area near the Bastrop-Travis county line, said Dr. Ben M. Primer, city-county health director.

OPA Sues 40 Lumber Firms In Attempt To Break Up Alleged Bottleneck

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27 (AP)—Pacific coast lumbermen lashed back today at Office of Price Administration officials who pressed forward a move to smash what they called increasing "rackets" that have caused "artificial lumber shortages" all over the country.

The OPA yesterday filed suit against 40 lumber companies in federal courts of California, Oregon, Washington, and Arizona, seeking to collect a total of $9,043,530 in treble damages. The alleged violations involved some 65,649,123 board feet of lumber.

At Aberdeen, Wash., Henry W. Anderson, president of the Twin Harbors Lumber Co., called the suits a "political move."

"I think it a crime that the OPA should pick on the north-west operator while southern operators are running rampant on the black market," he declared. The Twin Harbors Lumber company was named defendant in suit seeking an estimated $525,000 in damages.

"These suits are based on differences of opinion in interpreting OPA ceilings," R. G. Robbins, president of the R. G. Robbins Lumber Co. of Portland, said. Donald D. Baldwin, secretary-treasurer of the Mauk Seattle Lumber Co., said the suits were "unfair and without legal basis."

Anticipating that the OPA would be accused of "interfering with recognized business practices," the lumber enforcement chief Ralph Golub, as the suits were filed, listed as violations the following:

SIX-YEAR-OLD CHILD SERIOUSLY HURT KNOCKING BABY FROM CAR'S PATH

DETROIT, June 27 (AP)—Heroic little Peter Seaton, aged six, was suffering from serious injuries today, received when he saved a two-year-old girl from being hit by a car yesterday.

The frail boy, victim of a rare type of anemia, was in Ford hospital with a fractured collar bone and severe facial lacerations. Peter, Martha Jane Wild, 2, and her sister Carol, 5, were crossing a busy street yesterday on their way home from an ice cream store.

Peter and Carol reached a center parkway, but Martha Jane lagged behind. Peter turned around in time to see two streams of cars converge on the child as a signal light changed.

He dashed across three lanes of traffic, dived for her and pushed her out of the path of a car driven by Stewart H. Green, 55. The car struck Peter instead, merely brushing Martha Jane. Police exonerated Green.

The boy's father, L. G. Seaton, said his son has been receiving blood transfusions every five weeks.

Coffee Price Going Up 3 To 4 Cents A Pound To Encourage Imports

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The government today added an increase of 3 to 4 cents a pound for coffee to a steadily growing list of price boosts for dinner table items.

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles approved the higher prices, and OPA said they will go into effect within a week — as soon as the exact amount of the retail increase is calculated.

In authorizing the price hike last night, Bowles said the purpose was to encourage importation of green coffee from Latin America. To this end, exporters will get two cents more a pound. Importers' ceilings are being raised 2,075 cents a pound.

For housewives, the coffee price boost comes close on the heels of increases on such important market basket items as milk, bread, butter, cheese and breakfast cereals. And meat prices went up not long ago.

Bowles also announced that the present subsidy of three cents a pound paid to domestic importers will be continued, provided the OPA extension bill now pending in Congress maintains authority to make such payments.

If it becomes necessary to eliminate the coffee subsidy, retail prices will go up another four or five cents, officials estimated.

Bowles reported that in return for the present price boost, Brazil — the principal source of this country's coffee supply — has given assurances "to maintain a satisfactory volume of coffee exports" to the United States.

Britain Must Ration Bread

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Bread will be rationed throughout Great Britain beginning July 21. Food Minister John Strachey announced this in the House of Commons today.

The British did not ration bread in either of the last two wars. Strachey said flour also would be rationed.

The basic bread ration will be nine ounces daily for adults. Manual workers will receive 15 ounces and expectant mothers will get 11.

Abstracter Dies

The OPA said it started the actions under urging by US Attorney General Tom Clark and with funds appropriated by congress three months ago.

He testified yesterday that he asked her to marry him in 1942, that he signed a petition for her to adopt two of his three children and established a bank account on allotments from his Marine pay for her while he was fighting in the South Pacific. He said he also made her sole beneficiary of his will.

He broke off with her, Boyington, said, in Reno last January 3 after Mrs. Malcolmson had asked him in the presence of others, "Do you expect me to pay for my own engagement ring?" He said he had authorized Mrs. Malcolmson to buy a diamond engagement ring, among other items.

A few days after Boyington said the romance was broken off he married actress Frances Baker. She was present in court yesterday.

Truman Tries To Keep Bowles On; Senate Debate In Second Day

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Senator Moore (R-Okla) set fire with a 13,000-word speech against price controls today as senate clocks ticked away toward the OPA expiration hour of Sunday midnight.

He gained the senate floor, armed with a prepared address, at the opening of the second day's debate on a compromise OPA extension measure.

Moore lashed out at the CIO and Political Action committee as championing price control to force economic collapse and the "overthrow of constitutional government."

Nearly in the listless, sparsely populated Senate chamber sat Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex), ready to take over in his announced plan of talking OPA to death.

Downtown, President Truman told a news conference that he is trying to persuade Chester Bowles to remain at his post of economic stabilizer.

Bowles' retirement as a result of restrictions on OPA powers contemplated in pending extension legislation has long been talked.

The President said Bowles has been trying to quit ever since he took office and that he, Mr. Truman, had been successful so far in keeping him on the job. Bowles conferred with the president yesterday but refused to discuss the meeting with reporters.

Mr. Truman declined to discuss the watered-down price extension bill now before the Senate, other than to say it was unfortunate that it has been debated so long.

He said he would decide after the measure reaches him whether to make a radio address outlining his position on it.

If O'Daniel could talk steadily until Sunday midnight, or call up vocal reinforcements, he could succeed—in theory at least. The present OPA law expires June 30.

However, there is no present indication that any colleague will team up with O'Daniel in his projected talkathon. And the leadership is determined to keep the Senate in long-hour sessions if necessary to bring the compromise price control extension bill to a final vote.

As a matter of practical legislation, even a now-till-Sunday noon speech would cause no more than a brief lapse in price control regulations. A majority of the Senate obviously is in a mood to approve the measure worked out by a joint conference committee.

And the extension bill would be effective if passed a few hours or even a few days past the deadline.

O'Daniel, a former flour salesman who campaigned for office with a hill-billy band and a "pass the biscuits pappy" theme song, maintained an appearance of bright optimism.

"I'm against this OPA and I want to do away with it. I introduced a resolution right after the shooting was over to abolish it, but I guess they must have stuck it under the rug."

"If I can talk until Monday morning the American people will wake up under an American form of government, and I think that will be refreshing. We've been under this Communistic form long enough."

"OPA is all unconstitutional, unAmerican, Communist and unnecessary. It was foisted on us as a wartime measure and I think the war is over."

O'Daniel said he didn't expect rent controls from his general condemnation of the price agency.

So He Married Another Girl Refused Pappy Once, He Says At Trial

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 27 (AP)—Lt. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, famed Marine fighter pilot, testified in a preliminary hearing of his grand theft charges against Mrs. Lucy Malcolmson that he was all set to marry her once but that she told him to "make something" of himself first.

Mrs. Malcolmson, 35-year-old wife of an Australian General Motors executive, asked dismissal of the charges yesterday, and Municipal Judge Eugene Daney, Jr., indicated he would give a decision today.

Boyington charged Mrs. Malcolmson had failed to account for funds from his Marine pay, entrusted to her to care for his children by his first marriage, and charged embezzlement of $9,300. The amount was reduced to $8,800 when one count of $500 was dismissed on motion of the prosecution.

Counsel for Mrs. Malcolmson argued Boyington had failed to present cause for action.

Mrs. Malcolmson established residence in Reno and announced last winter she was going to divorce her husband and marry Boyington.

He testified yesterday that he asked her to marry him in 1942, that he signed a petition for her to adopt two of his three children and established a bank account on allotments from his Marine pay for her while he was fighting in the South Pacific. He said he also made her sole beneficiary of his will.

He broke off with her, Boyington, said, in Reno last January 3 after Mrs. Malcolmson had asked him in the presence of others, "Do you expect me to pay for my own engagement ring?" He said he had authorized Mrs. Malcolmson to buy a diamond engagement ring, among other items.

A few days after Boyington said the romance was broken off he married actress Frances Baker. She was present in court yesterday.

Bennett, Croft Resign School Board Positions

Resignations have been submitted by two members of the Big Spring independent school district board of trustees, The Herald learned today.

The two are Dr. M. H. Bennett, president and senior member of the board, and L. W. Croft.

Bennett's letter of resignation, sent to Board Secretary Ira Thurman, said that press of his private professional duties necessitated his retiring from the school post; and Croft, addressing an earlier letter to the chairman, said his health and the demands of business on his time made it necessary for him to resign.

Both men expressed regret in having to take the action, pointing out that relationships with other trustees had been entirely pleasant.

Bennett came on the school board in 1934, and had been its president since 1942. Croft was appointed to his trusteeship in January, 1945, to fill an unexpired term.

Next regular meeting of the board is on Wednesday night of next week, at which time action is due to be taken on the resignations.

Counsel, Naval Aide Appointed By Truman

Clifford, a St. Louis lawyer, who has been serving as naval aide, takes over the post formerly held by Samuel I. Rosenman, now practicing law in New York.

Foskett, a resident of Stratford, Pa., was the skipper of the cruiser "Augusta," which took the president to and from the "big three" conference at Potsdam.

World Food Crisis Not Over

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—President Truman said today the world food crisis "is not over," although the United States is abreast of its goal in the shipment of grain.

The President said in a statement that the country must continue to share its food "during the coming months of hunger abroad."

He released this statement to his news conference, asserting that the United States "will fully meet its half-year goal of 6,000,000 tons of food grains, but that final shipments to complete the total will not leave American ports until after the first of July."

Many shouts in Hebrew of "Long live Irgun Zvai" and "our struggle continues" rang out. The lone girl among the defendants, 21-year-old Deborah Bathe Moshe Kalifus, started up a second patriotic song which was taken up by many of those around her.

An exciting scene followed when several of the prisoners tried to leave the dock to say goodbye to their families in the courtroom. Police and soldiers tried to intervene, but several succeeded in kissing and embracing their parents or girl friends.

After the singing, the leader of the group, 20-year-old red-bearded Haim Lust, ordered his fellow defendants to "stand at ease" and was obeyed with military precision.

Another member of the organization, Benjamin Kaplan, was sentenced to prison for life for shooting at a British soldier.

After the sentences were pronounced the 31 defendants stood at attention on the command of a leader and sang in loud voices the first stanza of Hatikvah, the Zionist national song. Relatives of the defendants who jammed the courtroom participated in the singing.

The court president and the two military judges had previously left the room.

Vows Exchanged Before Aster-Decked Improvised Altar

In a quiet ceremony attended only by intimate friends and relatives, Anna Frances Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rice of Miami, Fla., was married to Arvie Earl Walker in the A. E. Walker home Wednesday evening.

For the ceremony the bride wore a delphinium blue silk crepe suit, designed with a tie effect at the waistline, a cardigan neckline and bracelet length sleeves. Her small hat repeated the shade of her frock, and was made of net with ruffling and veiling. Her corsage included an orchid. For something old the bride carried a miniature gold football which had been awarded the bridegroom, something borrowed was a cameo ring belonging to Mrs. Arvie Walker, something new was a strand of pearls, and the bride costume was blue.

Vera Dell Walker, sister of the bridegroom was maid of honor and was attired in an aqua crepe dress with which she wore a small off-the-face hat of black lace and black patent accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

James Webb of Plainview acted as best man.

Mrs. Arvie Walker, mother of the bridegroom, wore a frock of brown and ecru lace with a corsage of deep rose-colored carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the Walker home, and during the receiving hours approximately 75 guests called.

Mrs. Gloria Fletcher registered guests in the bride's book, and others in the house party were Mrs. Mickey Nail, Mrs. Joe Bur-am, Mrs. S. V. Jordan, Mrs. Pearl Hair, Betty Smith, and Norma Jones.

The refreshment table was spread with a lace cloth, and was centered with a miniature bridal couple standing before a bridal altar of feverfew, rainbow asters and fern. The scene was placed on a reflector, and pink candles set in silver holders were placed on either side. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with sugar lilies of the valley and topped by a small bride and bridegroom, occupied one end of the table, and the crystal punch service was set at the other end. Mrs. Clint Wiley and Mrs. Cecil Long presided at the table.

The house was decorated with arrangements of blue delphinium, rainbow asters and pink carnations.

The bride was graduated from New Mexico university and for the past year had been teaching in Miami, Fla., schools. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walker, was graduated from Big Spring high school and attended the University of Texas prior to his entry into army. He served with the paratroops for four years and was with the 82nd Airborne Division in Germany for two years. He now has his discharge, and is employed for the summer at the Walker drilling company. He plans to attend Texas Tech in September. Until that time the couple will be at home here.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for a 10-day wedding trip to Lubbock and on to New Mexico.

Don't Turn Your Back On Beauty, Today's Playclothes Scanty

By BETTY JO GLENN

AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

You'll have to show a pretty back not only for your bathing suit this season but for all the backless informal clothes that are being shown in the stores.

A back that is marred by whiteheads, pimples, blackheads and freckles is particularly unattractive. Whiteheads and blackheads usually can be sweated out, and the best way to do that is by frequent baths. If you are a daily bather the chances are you won't be afflicted with these tattle-tale blemishes. Pimples usually result from wrong diet. Freckles may be bleached with lemon juice.

A long handled bath brush is ideal if your back has a tendency to eruptions or oiliness. Use a mildly medicated soap. This circulation and help nourish from scrubbing should stimulate the within. For extra stimulation, you might give yourself a friction rub with a coarse towel. If you want to really clean make a little pack of salt and water and rub it over your back, down your arms, legs and thighs.

After your bath and rub-down, smooth on a light film of fragrant emollient ointment which contains sulphurated petrolatum, used by some hospitals for minor skin irritations.

11th Person Dies In Truck-Train Crash

HARLINGEN, June 27. (AP)—Constantina Hernandez died last night, the 11th death in a truck-train crash near La Feria Tuesday night.

Two of the injured survivors were reported in a critical condition. Of the 12 injured when a Missouri Pacific passenger train plowed into a truck load of Latin American farm workers, eight are still receiving hospital treatment.

Sellers Outlines Campaign Platform In Courthouse Lawn Speech Here

Big Spring was visited by its second gubernatorial candidate in three days when Attorney General Grover Sellers brought his campaign to the courthouse lawn for a one-hour stand Wednesday night.

Preceded by a snappy preliminary card, Sellers emerged from the sideline shadows, blazed a few fast ones across the plate, and retired while his wife and other members of the troupe distributed campaign literature.

Showing marked signs of fatigue (it was his seventh speech of the day), the attorney general opened his short address by assuring his listeners that they would be able to work smoothly with the legislature and other branches of the state government from the governor's chair. Platforms and campaign promises mean nothing, he declared, unless a man knows how to carry them out.

He pledged himself to push adoption of a proposed constitutional amendment for creating a state veterans' land board to purchase land for resale to veterans at a low rate of interest, which, he said would give 100,000 veterans a chance to get back on the farm and own, instead of rent, their land. His program also includes improvement of 40,000 miles of farm roads.

Touching on labor, he said one of his first moves after becoming attorney general was to set up a labor desk, with a competent attorney, whose duty was to familiarize himself with all state and federal labor laws. "I believe all workers should have the right to organize for collective bargaining," he declared. "And I carry the endorsement of labor leaders in Austin who have known me for years."

Advocating a raise in the $20 weekly maximum authorized by the workmen's compensation law, Sellers said the entire measure should be broadened considerably, and that women should have the same hours and pay as men for the same types of work.

"We must fight federal claims of ownership of our submerged lands, since our schools would lose multiplied millions of dollars if they are taken from the state. I have asked congress to pass a resolution giving Texas a quit-claim deed to lands in the Gulf of Mexico, which has passed the house and is due to come out in the Senate soon."

Referring to Marion Sweatt, negro, who asked to be enrolled in the University of Texas, Sellers charged that Sweatt "Doesn't want an education. He is only a guinea pig in the movement by a few radicals to break down the Texas constitution and place negroes in our white schools."

Teachers' pay must be raised, he said, citing statistics which he said showed that Texas has 3,300 fewer teachers than in 1941 and 5,000 teachers with sub-standard qualifications.

Emphasizing that he is not for socialized medicine, he pointed out, nevertheless, that the state health department should have adequate laboratories to combat polio and other communicable diseases.

Jimmie Jefferies, Dallas radio announcer, introduced Sellers, after several musical numbers by a five-piece band and songs by "Peg" Moreland, veteran radio performer.

Sick Governor Of A Sick State, Murrah Fled As Confederacy Fell

By PAUL BOLTON

(Editor's Note: This is the ninth in a series of stories about the governors of Texas.)

AUSTIN—The south was lost, hell was afoot, and the devil was awaiting his due when Pendleton Murrah, the ninth governor of Texas, left his office and fled to Mexico.

Murrah was a sick man, and the state he guided from 1863 to 1865 was a sick state. In fact, things were going so poorly for the confederacy and for Texas that Murrah was ushered into his term of office at a "state dinner" where cakes of cornmeal were served.

Murrah's administration covered the last 16 months of the Confederacy and there were months of turmoil, lawlessness and dissatisfaction in every corner of the state. The people were fed up with the harsh conscription laws, which took men in poor health and shoved them into the army. Murrah violently opposed and fought the Confederate Government's ideas of conscription, and the Supreme Court of Texas upheld his law—a decision the people loudly cheered.

Military law, and mob rule, were the governing forces. Old men and women were required to secure permits from Confederate officers before they could cross a county line. Crime was rampant and unless a mob with a rope took care of the criminal, he usually went unpunished. To add to the general confusion, 74,000 Texans were dependents of soldiers and needed help.

As the confederacy began to fall apart, disgruntled deserters poured into Texas. They traveled in packs. And during this chaos Pendleton Murrah was slowly dying of "consumption."

When Lee surrendered, Murrah tried to save something for Texas out of the wreckage. Commissioners were appointed to talk with Union army officers about reorganization of the state government. Proclamations were issued for protection of property, for an emergency session of the legislature, and for election of delegates to a constitutional convention.

Murrah tried hard but he saw he was wasting his efforts. Wild rumors prevailed that terrible punishment awaited the "rebel" leaders and the expression most often heard was, "The south is lost, hell's afoot and the devil is to pay."

Mexico became popular. The Rio Grande saw many gray uniforms crossing. Governor Murrah was one who crossed, but contrary to popular belief, he didn't leave.

"He joined Confederate General Joe Shelby, who was taking his shattered army to Mexico," Shelby wrote, "Murrah had been dying for a year. He knew death was near, yet he put on his old gray uniform, mounted his old war horse, and rode away, dying in Mexico."

On the night Murrah left Austin, the capitol experienced a pitched battle unusual even in those days. In the middle of all the other confusion, forty bandits led by a man known only as Colonel Rabb, came charging out of the cedar breaks near Austin to sack the state treasury. A lone patrolman on the streets heard the mob banging against the treasury door and summoned help by ringing church bells and blowing a bugle. Austin citizens fought with the bandits. One bandit was killed. Others were believed to have been wounded and carried away by their fellows—who also carried $1,700.

Murrah left his lieutenant governor, Fletcher S. Stockdale, in charge of a state torn by confusion, terror and misery.

The Irishman Stockdale, long went unrecognized as a governor. Recently the Board of Control directed that Stockdale's portrait be painted and hung in the capitol rotunda, hence apparently he is now admitted to the hall of fame. Stockdale was governor from June 11 until July 25th when A. J. Hamilton was sworn in as provisional governor. His last act was to serve on the committee that ushered Hamilton into the capitol, and then to officially surrender the archives and keys to the provisional governor.

ino-Reds Propose Army Reorganization

NANKING, June 27 (AP)—Gen. Marshall has been handed a Chinese communist proposal for the reorganization of China's army, last and most crucial unsettled point standing in the way of peace, a dependable source said today.

The same source asserted the peace committee of three, composed of Marshall and a government and a communist representative, had agreed on the two other outstanding points—cessation of hostilities and restoration of communications.

The new communist proposal was understood to be a long way from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's demands, which include a requirement that the communists give up certain strategic areas in North China.

Census By Plane Counts Antelope

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—(AP)—A recently completed aerial survey by the state game and fish department set Wyoming's antelope population at 48,043 in contrast to an estimated 5,000 forty years ago. But the department warned that an antelope kill of 42,579 in the past three years was far too heavy and this year's permits will be limited to 11,000. Antelope still are outnumbered by deer which the census estimates at 64,058.

Experts Remind Home Freezing Enthusiast To Select Foods Carefully

Most beginners in home freezing are so enthusiastic about the excellence of many frozen foods that they freeze everything. To their dismay, they discover their freezer or locker space filled to overflowing before the season's produce is more than half in.

To save you some worried moments, here is advice from one homemaker whose nine years of home freezing have taught her how to freeze more efficiently each season. Mrs. Leone Carroll, a homemaker and home economist as well, makes the following practical observations on what to freeze and what to can.

"In my experience, those vegetables which require a very brief cooking period to attain the most delicate flavor are better frozen than canned. Good examples are broccoli, cauliflower, brussels sprouts, tiny peas, spinach, chard, and corn on the cob. In addition, fruits which are nicest uncooked should be frozen. These include strawberries, peaches, some of your blueberries, cherries and fruit juices.

You may freeze such vegetables as green and wax beans, green lima, corn cut from the cob. I can part of them because I can in tin and this method preserves both flavor and texture. Here is how home canning in tin cans prevents that overcooked taste. When cans have been in the pressure cooker the exact number of minutes necessary for complete processing, cold water run over the cooker quickly reduces pres-

Safety Of Bikini Area After Bomb Tests To Be Determined By Ticks

ABOARD THE USS APALACHIAN, June 27. (AP)—The target ships in Bikini Lagoon and some of the islands nearby will be being ticked after the atomic bomb explodes above them about July 1.

Even the waters of the lagoon will begin ticked, and ticks will emanate from the huge atomic cloud which at its top is expected to mushroom to 16 miles in diameter.

The ticking will come from radioactive waves of three kinds—all dangerous—that will be emitted by ground, air, water and ships after they have been hit by the great flash of the bomb.

The ticks are not ordinarily audible. The sound will come from the Geiger-Mueller counters, that detect these rays and translate them into sound.

Radio mikes will pick up the ticking areas and transmit the sound to this ship, but especially to the safety officers of the Crossroads fleet.

If the sounds are like pouring rain, safety officers will know that the lagoon is still too dangerous even for the few hardy scientists who will enter first for a look around.

If the ticks sound like a gentle shower, that will mean the lagoon is fairly safe.

The official prediction is that the ticking will die out sufficiently for a re-entry in not more than 24 hours after the bomb goes off. The time may be much shorter.

Bikini probably will continue to tick a little for years. It was announced on the Appalachian that the atomic crater in New Mexico where the first bomb was exploded last July, is still ticking.

The ticking of the atomic cloud will be picked up by ships following it and by planes. The sound will be heard long before crews are near enough to suffer any harm.

This ticking can always be heard with the counters everywhere on earth. Man always lives in a small amount of these rays, and years of medical study show he can take a small increase, such as the warning zones at Bikini will give, without risk.

Oceanographers' studies made available here show that the radio-active waters in the lagoon will go round and round inside Bikini's ring of islands, carried by natural currents.

Only 2 per cent of the lagoon's waters spill out through the estuaries into the ocean each day. By the time much of the lagoon water gets out it will have lost most of the dangerous rays.

In fact, scientists are almost enthusiastic about the ticking water. Because it will give them for the first time an accurate method of measuring sea currents.

One radioactive hazard will be falling particles from the bomb cloud. If rain comes, this radioactive shower will become more intense and dangerous.

But all ships of the Crossroads operations will be stationed miles beyond the outer-most edges of this dew of earth.

Avoid Monotony With Vegetables By Preparing In Unusual Ways

Garden vegetables are appearing more and more frequently on southwestern tables, and to prevent monotony with too much sameness, variations have been devised.

Snappy Green Beans
1 1-2 qts. fresh green beans
2 onions, sliced
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 cup sweet or sour cream
2 tablespoons flour
salt and pepper

Cook beans and sliced onions in boiling, salted water until tender; drain. Cook down water in which they are cooked to half cup or less. Add vinegar and cream (the thicker the better). Thicken with flour. Season with salt and pepper. Cook until smooth, stirring. Pour sauce over beans and onions and serve immediately. Serves 8.

Escalloped Green Beans
Put drained canned or cooked green beans in shallow buttered, baking dish. Pour tomato sauce over beans, add grated cheese, cover with buttered bread crumbs, and bake in moderate oven until the sauce bubbles and the crumbs are brown.

Colorful Bean Salad
(Isora Clark—Castro County)
2 cups cooked or canned beans (tiny string or shelled)
3 hard cooked eggs (chopped)
1 sweet green pepper (chopped)
1 sour pickle (chopped)
1 T salad dressing
1 small sweet onion (chopped)
Mix and serve on peeled tomatoes cut in four to six wedges. Place on crisp lettuce and garnish with salad dressing if desired.

5 Minute Cabbage
2 c milk
1-2 qts. shredded cabbage
1 cup cream or rich milk
3 T flour
3 T melted butter
Salt, pepper

Heat the milk and cook the cabbage in it for 2 minutes. Add the cup of cream or rich milk, the blended flour and fat, and the seasonings, cook rapidly for 3 or 4 minutes, and stir constantly. The cabbage retains its crispness and is delicate in flavor and color.

Escalloped Vegetables
2 c cooked vegetables
1 c buttered crumbs or-and
1-2c grated cheese

Present Vitamins, Minerals Of Liver In Colorful Guise

For nutrition deluxe, with an appetizing, colorful "come-hither" look, serve barbecued liver. Platter highlights of onion and green pepper rings on the gay red barbecue sauce are a cheerful cover-up for the plentiful supply of minerals and vitamins beneath.

First, make the barbecue sauce and let it simmer merrily away while the liver is being prepared. Peel and thinly slice one small onion. Mix 2 tablespoons flour with 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Combine with 1 cup cooked tomatoes, 2 tablespoons catsup, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-8 teaspoon chili powder (if you like your barbecue sauce on the "hot" side), 1 teaspoon paprika and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Add the onion, and simmer 15 minutes.

While the barbecue sauce is cooking, wipe 3-4 to 1 pound of sliced beef or pork liver with a paper towel. Season with approximately 1 teaspoon salt, and cook thoroughly with flour, using about 4 tablespoons. Brown the liver well in hot bacon drippings. Thorough browning is important because it improves the flavor of liver. Pour the barbecue sauce over the browned liver, and simmer 20 minutes.

Serve hot, topped with slices of sweet Bermuda onion and flavorful green peppers. Parsley buttered potatoes, a seasoned green vegetable, very hot cornbread squares, and a simple fruit dessert successfully round out the menu.

Flood Control Action Sought

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—Rep. Poage (D-Tex) urged immediate action on a flood control project on the Leon river in Texas yesterday at the final day of a three-day hearing on the house-approved $900,000,000 flood control bill by the senate commerce committee.

J. W. Dickson, of the department of the interior's reclamation bureau, asked postponement of the action until "an over-all plan" can be considered for the Brazos river basin.

Poage contended that if the principle of waiting for completion of over-all plans had been applied to the Mississippi basin "you would never have built a levee."

The representative declared that the flood situation on the Little river, into which the Leon flows, is the worst in Texas—and "there has not been a single dollar spent to correct the situation."

Dickson said the interior department had had only one month—instead of the usual three—to study engineers' reports. He testified that construction now of the proposed flood control project, including a dam at Belton on the Leon, might postpone for years conservation up stream.

Manhunt Continues For Negro Stabber

TYLER, June 27. (AP)—An intensive manhunt for a negro suspected of fatally stabbing patrolman Jeff Bule in a city bus continued here today.

Last night a crowd of more than 100 persons gathered around the police station as the search expanded.

Planes and jeeps with two-way radios were being used in the hunt. Highways south of Tyler were guarded.

Constable Joe Luther of Dallas and his four bloodhounds were called into spearhead the "ground forces" on the trail of the suspect.

Bule was stabbed yesterday when he attempted to evict a negro from a crowded bus. As the negro lunged at him with a knife, the patrolman drew his pistol and fired.

Two bus passengers, Will H. Lewis, 50, and Paul Moore, 50, were slightly injured by the shots. The negro escaped through a window in the bus.

Bule died in an ambulance en route to the hospital.

Huge Pachyderms Tread Lightly

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 27. (AP)—Toby, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus elephant, is a lighter stepper than his more stealthy jungle cousins, despite his 10,500 pounds. A General Electric vibration meter yesterday recorded that, with the exception of the python, the only member of the circus who could match Toby's lightness of foot was the 500-pound fat lady. GE used the meter, a sensitive electronic instrument able to measure small shocks or vibrations, to test the walk or most of the animals during the appearance of the circus here. The meter recorded only three mils per second vibration as Toby walked by. The fat lady registered the same score. The lion measured 12 mils per second, the hippopotamus, 14, the tiger, 9, and the polar bear, 6. The meter picked up a vibration of only 1.5 mils per second as the python slithered by.

It is expected that within the next few years more than 300,000 stores will handle frozen foods as compared to 50,000 at present.

Lover Of Fantasy And Romance Indicted By Jury

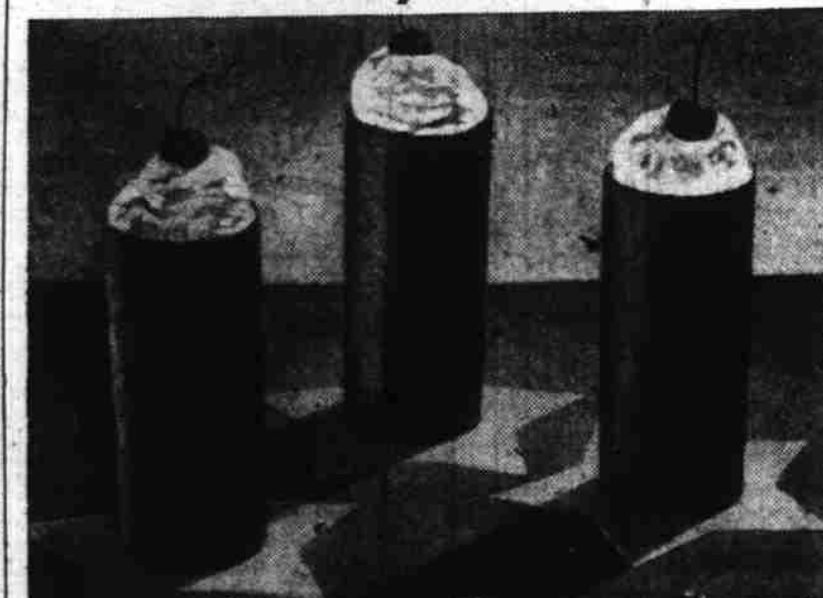

DETROIT, June 27. (AP)—Hazel-eyed Evelyn Katherine Stanton, 25, who advertised herself as in love with "fantasy and romance," was indicted by a federal grand jury on a six-count charge of using the mails to defraud the men who wooed her. Postoffice Inspector Raymond C. Miller said the attractive mother of three children, employed as a car-hop at a local barbecue, accepted money from at least six men to whom she promised herself in marriage. She married and deserted two of them, he added.

He estimated that she obtained at least $20,000 and two diamond rings from her various suitors. In March, 1945, Miss Stanton inserted the following advertisement in "Cupid's Columns," which Inspector Miller described as a matrimonial paper published in St. Paul, Minn.:

"Very fond of music. Love poetry, fantasy, romance and all fun. Alert and on guard constantly. Desire home and true companionship. Have a beautiful form. Look very smart in anything I wear, from overalls to a misty formal. Age 24, five feet six, and 127 pounds. Brown hair, hazel eyes. Not handsome but nice. Carefree and love adventure, though of best character. Trustworthy and good Christian. Always pleasant."

Plan Cool Party Dishes For Hot July 4 Meals

ICE CREAM FIRECRACKERS... For the Fourth...

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor
Fourth of July's the day for a party. It ought to be a cool sort of party because the Fourth ought to be a hot sort of day. Our suggestion for the menu goes like this:

Platter of Cold Cuts
Fruit Salad Bowl
Potato Chips
Raw Vegetables
Ice Cream Fire Crackers
Pensacola Punch

Make the cold cuts look more inviting by decorating the platter with sprigs of fresh green parsley. Serve the best mustard you can find in your "snappiest" mustard jar beside the platter.

FRUIT SALAD BOWL
1 cantaloupe
2 oranges
1 firm, ripe pear
1-4 pound seedless white grapes
1-4 pound red grapes
1 avocado pear
1 large head lettuce
French dressing.

Peel and cut cantaloupe into cubes. Cut out orange sections. Wash the pear carefully, cut it open and remove the core and then cut into cubes. Wash and stem white grapes. Wash, cut in half and remove seeds from red grapes. Peel avocado, cut it in half and remove stone. Slice. Put well washed and drained lettuce into a big wooden bowl. At the last minute add the fruits, which should be icy cold. Pour French dressing over and toss lightly to blend.

In serving potato chips you eliminate the necessity for any bread or butter and thus keep the party patriotic.
Fix a variety of raw vegetables—carrot sticks, green pepper sticks, cauliflower flowerets, radish roses, scallions, and anything else you choose to add—in one of the prettiest bowls and keep it thoroughly chilled until ready to serve.

He Smoked 30 Years To Keep Vet Warm

BRAZIL, Ind.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank Busbey sent a quilt on its way to a veterans hospital in a 30-year trail of tobacco smoke. For no particularly good reason, her husband started saving empty tobacco bags when he took up smoking 30 years ago. Then the textile shortage came along, and Mrs. Busbey ripped into the bags, washed them and ironed them, and put 185 of them into her patchwork quilt.

Y Directors Hear Monthly Reports

Reports on various activities of the YMCA were heard by the board of directors at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening.

Expanding programs, particularly in the athletic field, were noted in the report of Bill Dawes, general secretary. Included were the sponsorship of the Toastmasters Club and the inauguration of small group programs.

Arah Phillips, athletic director, estimated a total participation of Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., June 27, 1946

777 individuals each week in softball, swimming, archery, tennis, golf and volleyball. Some 315 children have attended swimming sessions each week and 360 have had part in softball leagues sponsored by the Y.

Resignation of Albert S. Darby as a member of the board was accepted, but election of a successor was delayed until next meeting of the board.

Plant more seed-bearing vegetables, such as lima beans, peas and garden soybeans. These go particularly well in bread-saving meals and are good sources of

Speedy, Comprehensive Reading Habits Explained, Taught By Dr. Stella Center

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Down on West 12th Street in New York there is a slender little gray-haired lady who can change almost anybody's life.

She is Dr. Stella Center, a soft-voiced Alabamian with a quiet dynamo drive, who is an expert on how to read rapidly and comprehend what is read. Today she heads the New York University Reading Clinic, which she founded 13 years ago with co-teacher Gladys Persons.

Through her aid, professional men and women whose work demands a prodigious amount of newspaper and periodical reading have tripled their reading speed. Men who longed to do a big research job in addition to regular work have found the way. Mothers with jobs learned to whip through books like "Gone with the Wind" in five hours. College students who could not keep up with their required reading gained their diplomas. Children who had been dubbed failures at school became happy well-rounded students.

And all by learning to speed their reading!

"The average adult reads 125 to 250 words a minute," says Dr. Center. "But with training he can as he goes along. He reads different things for different purposes, so he does not read everything the same way. In a news story the meat is in the first few paragraphs. In a short story it may be in the middle or the end. Editorials are written in still another way and require a third frame of mind to read.

"Now we come to the mechanical work of the eye in reading for speed. For this the eyes must have clear vision and muscular balance, and if these are lacking they must be corrected by the right treatment.

"The poor reader slogs along word by word. The experts read ideas. His first step in speed is to read by phrases. The second step is to see and grasp key words of the sentence (the eyes make a hop and a pause). He does not think 'speed,' he concentrates on the thought of the author. In the third step, the expert learns to pick up key words of the page. This last can be done only on material which has been read before.

"Finally the expert reader works constantly to increase his vocabulary by reading widely and inferring the meaning from the word used. This contributes greatly to speed, for every word he does get 350 (the high school graduate rate). A really good reader should do 500 to 600 on newspaper material, less on study material and 800 to 900 on material he has read before.

"The first and most important thing is comprehension. In order to read swiftly and comprehend, the trick lies in bending your mind to the author's frame of mind and thinking his thought in the pattern of his thinking. Slant your mind with his—don't pull against him. When the reading is finished, think over what the author said and decide whether you accept or reject it. If you take these three steps, you will have no difficulty remembering what you read and you won't be just a mental sponge soaking up other people's opinions.

"The good reader pauses before he begins, gets his mental bearings, opens his mind to the writer's thought, takes the first paragraph slowly and picks up speed not understand means a block." Due to the housing shortage, Dr. Center conducts her clinic on the first floor of an apartment house. In its old-fashioned ivory-toned rooms with big fireplaces flanked with bookshelves, she works with modern instruments. Motion pictures are taken of individual readers to show their reading faults. Flash-meters are used to train eyes for speed reading. Words, numbers and phrases—increasingly longer—are flashed on and off a screen until the eye is trained to grasp a nine-digit figure in 1-100 of a second.

"To me this means even more than the good of the individual," she said. "You can't have democracy without an educated electorate and you can't have an educated electorate unless it can read. If we could get reading taught efficiently in all schools we could really get an educated electorate. Today we have ten million illiterates."

Bedridden Polio Victims In Unique Scout Troop

By MARY E. PRIM
AP Newsfeatures

BOSTON—It's pretty tough for Boy Scouts bedfast with infantile paralysis to do a good turn every day, but the unique Children's Hospital polio ward troop has invented its own special corps of unselfish actions.

The five Massachusetts boys, who recently received their charter after nearly eight months as bed patients, proudly wore Boy Scout scarves over their pajamas as they discussed good turns.

"Don't throw gum on the floor," said George Learned, 14, of Fitchburg, the troop leader.

Working for Eagle Rank

Already a life scout, George has tried to keep his mind off his illness by working for eagle scout rank—highest scouting honor.

Second class scout Jimmy Wallace, 15, of Winthrop, suggested as a hospital good turn—"keep the place neat."

"Try not to cause the nurses any trouble," contributed red-headed Sheldon Gardner of Everett. Going on-12, Sheldon is one of two cubs in the troop.

Keeping Spirits Up

The other cub, 11-year-old Charles Puntly of Stowe, is most handicapped of the group. His legs strapped in a harness suspended from the ceiling, Charlie steadfastly maintains the cheerfulness enjoined by scout law.

"I'm getting along swell," he chuckled, nimble fingers weaving a basket anchored to his chest. The handwork will help qualify him as a tenderfoot scout.

Richard B. Treanor, 14, of Jamaica Plain, already in possession of basketry and first aid merit badges, has embarked on a reading project to help earn second class scout status.

"I've pretty near finished my twelfth book," Dick reported. Doctor Is Scoutmaster Hospital Director Dr. Charles F. Branch is scoutmaster of the bedfast troop, with occupational therapist Mrs. Robert Bloomer serving as "den mother" and assistant program director.

The idea of an in-bed, hospitalized scout troop was so novel, Mrs. Bloomer said, that scouting officials had to scurry around arranging program substitutions for the polio patrol.

One compromise was postponement of the traditional weekly hikes until the ailing scouts are back on their feet.

Mrs. Bloomer helped revise an observation test necessary for sec-

97 Oil Wells Brought In During Week

AUSTIN, June 27—(AP)—Texas oil well completions last week numbered 97, bringing the total for the year to 2,189, the railroad commission has announced.

In the same period last year, 1,913 oil wells had been completed. Completion of eight gas wells brought the year's total to 324, a decline of 26 from last year's figure for the same period.

Wildcat drills brought in two oil wells and one gas well during the week, making wildcat oil total for the year 64, and wildcat gas total 22. In the same period last year 63 wildcat oil wells and 35 wildcat gas wells had been completed.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 27—(AP)—Ensign Norlin C. Tipton, native of Goose Creek, Tex., was killed Tuesday when his single engine bombing plane crashed on an instruction flight near here. He was stationed at the Jacksonville Naval Air station.

Seven Postwar School Construction Goals Outlined At Educators Meet

AUSTIN, June 27—(AP)—Dr. H. J. Otto, professor of elementary education at the University of Texas, addressing Texas school administrators attending the school plant conference here, today outlined some postwar school construction goals.

The improvements suggested by Otto included:

1. Planning of classrooms to accommodate greater varieties of activity, and reduction of the number of specialized rooms, since there is a trend toward the single teacher per grade plan.
2. Equipment of classrooms with electrical outlets and dark shades, for increased use of visual aids.
3. Individual radio units for each classroom are preferable.
4. Radio-phonographs for use in music programs in classrooms, and provision for handicraft work-rooms.
5. Enlargement of classrooms by at least one-third.

7. Individual toilets, lavatories, and drinking fountains for all classrooms.

James Boren, president of Hardin college, Wichita Falls, spoke on the planning of junior college buildings. Such colleges, said Boren, cannot meet community needs if built on the basis of selfishness and penny-pinching.

People would "rather have a $100,000 building to do the job for which it was intended than a $50,000 building and a constancy of inefficiency," he said.

Arsonists Hunted In Houston Fires

HOUSTON, June 27. (AP)—City police and fire officials appealed for public cooperation today as their search for persons blamed for a recent wave of mysterious blazes here continued.

Police Inspector C. V. (Buster) Kern revealed that an intensive search is now underway for a tattooed, middle-aged suspect.

Two youthful suspects are being investigated.

The missing suspect was last seen yesterday by Mamie Wright, negro maid, shortly before a waste paper basket was discovered ablaze in the middle of a hallway at the Texas State hotel.

Police said the description given by the maid was similar to that of a stranger seen leaving the scene of a fire at the Sanford apartments on June 12.

Both of the youthful suspects were arrested yesterday.

Major Whitney Home After Directing Public Works In Seoul, Korea

Maj. Herbert Whitney, now on terminal leave, has returned home following separation from the service at Fort Sam Houston on Sunday.

He returned to the States on June 15 from Seoul, Korea, where he was public works director for the city of more than a million people.

One of his chief responsibilities was rehabilitation of the water system, an assignment he drew because of experiences with the water department while serving as city secretary of Big Spring before entering the service as a reserve officer.

Water which is drawn from a river like all streams in that country, is thoroughly polluted due to general insanitation. Consequently, the degree of chlorination was pegged from .75 to one part per million, a strong dosage when .2 to .3 is noticeable and .4 very distinctive according to American standards.

"We were besieged by natives who swore we were trying to poison the population," said Whitney. The original level was even higher to purify the mains.

Lack of sanitary facilities is appalling, he said. Plumbing fixtures vary radically from western ideas, and there is no such thing as a sewage system.

Large buildings or certain areas have collecting basins for raw sewage. A fleet of 250 ox carts, bearing wooden tanks, draws the sewage from basins and slosh to the edge of cities where larger collecting tanks are maintained. This is a busy spot for farmers from miles around bring their own tanks so they can take home the sewage and ladle it out along rice rows for fertilizer.

Directing the public works, which included streets, parks, public buildings, playgrounds, etc., was an interesting experience, said Whitney, for he had to develop an organization as he went. The Japs, having occupied Korea for 40 years, held all key positions. When they were kicked out, trained Native talent was missing. Whitney's staff consisted of himself and two sergeants, so he sat about developing Koreans.

"They responded remarkably and we uncovered some real talent," he said. Together they worked out problems as they arose, not having any manuals or technical authorities to fall back upon. For his work with the water system Whitney received a warm letter of commendation from the commanding general.

He had a pleasant surprise on arrival in San Antonio. He placed a long distance call to Mrs. Whitney. She wasn't home—in fact, he learned, she was in San Antonio in anticipation of his arrival.

Mrs. A. C. Hart and Mrs. R. V. Hart departed this morning for Baird and Cross Plains where they were to visit with relatives and friends for a few days.

Man Returned Here to Face Car Theft Count

A charge of car theft is being read against him. He is accused of stealing a vehicle belonging to B. D. Malone, Midland, here-Saturday night.

Roy Lowry, arrested with Romines by the Abilene authorities, has been taken to Coalgate, Okla., to answer to a charge of breaking jail.

Romines has waived bond of $2000, which was set by Justice of Peace Walter Grice.

Enrollment at the district No. 8 Baptist youth encampment, approximately 750 today as the girls' division program got into full stride.

While attendance is approximately 150 under last year and considerably under the 1,000 of two years ago, prospects are that the encampment will continue to be the largest in the state.

Wednesday evening camp officials shoved forward one day the YWA coronation ceremony and recognition of advancements in the various girls' auxiliaries. It was said Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Big Spring, one of the most impressive ceremonies ever held at the encampment. Time of the program was moved up to avoid conflict with the regular amateur hour in the amphitheatre tonight.

Dr. C. A. Morton, Lamesa, is camp pastor for the girls. Approximately 355 girls and some 75 leaders are registered at the moment. A total of 310 boys and leaders were in camp, at the city park, from Monday to Wednesday noon.

Retail Selling Classes To End

A series of classes in retail selling, offered by the University of Texas extension service and the state board of vocational education, and sponsored by the Big Spring chamber of commerce, will close Friday at the conclusion of a course in tourist courtesy being conducted at the city hall.

The courtesy course, first of its kind ever offered by the University's extension service, is the 10th to be taught here by Thelma Boone. Thirty-two business firms, represented by a combined total of 170 employees, have cooperated in the series.

City Paving Faces Fair Test

To all practical purposes, we have made the circuit on paving, and we are now back virtually where we started.

In a nutshell, status of the program at the moment is that the city will carry the ball this summer. Commissioners most likely are correct in assuming that the element of time would preclude the asking of additional bids and letting of a contract for extensive work before unfavorable autumn and winter weather. Hence, if we are to have paving in any quantity this year, the city will have to do it.

There is little objection, as a matter of principle, to the city doing the paving. Some raise the issue of intrusion in a field of private endeavor; but there seems to be an idea about that the city can do the work more economically, so that it can be said there is no general public objection to the city method.

On the other hand there are some questions, and the program this summer will offer the administration an excellent opportunity of clarifying them. For one thing, the city has been more than a little short on paving action. Nearly a year ago we were promised that paving would start in September. To date there are only four blocks under construction, and these four were signed up, not by the city, but by private citizens. The matter of equipment and manpower also is on test. Rate of progress on the current projects is much too slow if any sizeable volume of paving is to be accomplished this summer.

It is entirely possible that these difficulties can be overcome. All concerned should work toward that end and in a cooperative spirit to give this plan a fair test and to realize the largest possible amount of paving this year.

Perhaps the worst feature is that the paving map may become spotted and without regard to most needed areas. This could easily be one of the penalties of a purely voluntary program, for traffic loads unfortunately do not shape up with consideration of financial standing of owners of abutting property.

Brass Gives In--A Little Bit

The war department has accepted, in part at least, 12 of 14 suggestions made by the GI "Gripe Board." These include some notable departures from present procedure. For one thing terminal pay practices will be placed on similar bases; for another, officers and men will wear the same uniforms by 1948. The use of the salute has been curtailed. But the war department could not go along on abolishing the distinction between "officers" and "enlisted men." It did not go along as far as the gripe board suggested in most instances.

But after all, the brass has conceded something, and a concession from that quarter is like a miracle in the eyes of the humble dogface.

The Nation Today—James Marlow

OPA Bill Means Higher Living Cost

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The OPA bill which congress may send to the president today will mean a lot of higher prices. They will mean higher living costs.

How much higher prices? How much greater the living costs? No one knows.

First here is the background of the bill. OPA automatically would die June 30 unless congress voted to continue it. Congress knew that some kind of price control was necessary, for a while, even though the war has been over for nearly a year.

How much price control? How strong should OPA be from now on? Those were questions congressmen asked themselves. The house and senate, separately, held months of public hearings to find out.

Business men went before the committees of both houses and said something like this:

1. OPA price controls are keeping down profits and therefore production of the goods which people want to buy. Businessmen can't, or won't, produce unless they can make a profit satisfactory to them.

2. The war is over. If price controls are removed, business will get down to a peacetime basis of one businessman competing against another.

3. True, prices will go up at first if price controls are eliminated, but when goods start flowing into the market that competition will bring down prices.

The house and senate wanted to ease price controls, and get OPA out of the picture as soon as possible. Each house then voted out a separate bill.

Those bills would continue OPA for a while but both would drastically weaken it and let prices up, widely.

There were many protests about those bills, from government people like economic stabilizer Bowles, and from consumer groups. A committee from both houses got together and softened up their bills a little. They knocked out one provision which would have made housewives mad in a hurry.

That provision would have removed all price controls from meat, eggs, poultry and butter July 1.

Yesterday the house finally agreed on a single bill which left out that provision but left in many others which will permit prices to rise in many directions.

The senate vote on that bill was blocked yesterday, but may go to President Truman for him to sign into law or to veto if it is passed today. He'll have to act before June 30.

If he should veto it, congress would have to decide in a terrific rush whether to pass it over his veto, let OPA die outright or pass some simple resolution continuing OPA, almost unchanged, a while longer.

Even if OPA were to remain just as it is right now, prices and living costs still would go up, although perhaps not so fast.

OPA for months has been easing up on prices in many directions and the effect of many of those actions may not show up for months.

Frauleins Like US Girls

BERLIN—(AP)—German Frauleins think American housewives are very democratic and "wear lovely shoes."

And, by and large, the women dependents of the American Army of occupation believe the frauleins, by and large, are all right, too.

It is a tentative judgment, on both sides, subject to further revision. But so far little friction has developed between "the Colonel's lady" and the teutonic housekeeper who preceded her in her new home.

Contrary to advance predictions, American women dependents are winning a warm welcome from German housefraus and frauleins. They are doing it strictly as a result of their own good conduct and horse sense.

No one is more amazed at this perhaps than the German women themselves. They had looked forward to something entirely different.

"We thought your women would try to lord it over us," said a former German banker's wife, now employed as a housekeeper. "But they have instead been extremely considerate—more so probably than were German officers' wives when we occupied France."

"They are very democratic. They are always cheerful and smiling and when they want something done, they say 'please,' instead of issuing a command."

Particularly pleasing to cosmetics-short frauleins is the fact that the American girls they have met here don't overuse or use too much lipstick or rouge.

BOF OF ALLEN PAYS OUT—

AP Newsfeatures

ROSSLAKE HARBOUR, Wexford, Eire — Fourteen thousand acres of the great central plain of Ireland, known as the Bog of Allen, formerly a desolate swamp, is today the scene of one of Eire's biggest industries.

Not until the war left Ireland short of coal and threw her back on her native fuel resources, was the value of the turf or peat in this vast bog realized.

Now, what was a wilderness home of the snipe and the grouse has no comparable scene of activity in Ireland. Night and day, the bog re-echoes to the burr of electrically driven turf machines and elevators.

The scene is at Clonsast, near the town of Portlannington, in County Offaly.

A $20,000,000 Project. Mechanization of the bog was a big task, but sufficient hand-cut turf to keep the country going could not be produced, so deValera's cabinet formed the Turf Development Board in 1940.

Now after six years the scheme, which cost $20,000,000, is reaching maturity. Miles of narrow gauge railway had to be laid across the bog. Electric power from the Shannon hydro-electric plant was installed. Workshops, foundries, and hostels for workers were erected and a comprehensive scheme of drainage was carried out.

A remarkable machine called a "bagger," automatically cuts, macerates and spreads the turf on top of the bog at the rate of 350 tons a day. Driven by electric motors the bagger weighs 45 tons and is 80 feet long.

Seven baggers now in use at Clonsast have no difficulty in coping with submerged bog oak, and each has an output of 120,000 tons a year.

Portlannington Prospects. The dried turf is carried across the bog by electrically propelled "collectors" to the distributing base, whence it is removed by Diesel engine locomotives along the narrow gauge railway to electric elevators near Portlannington town. These elevators can fill railcars with trucks and motor lorries at the rate of a ton a minute for distribution all over Ireland.

Workers are paid $12 per week, with keep.

Portlannington is now one of the most prosperous towns in Ireland. Small farmers and cotters in the district with their wives and families earn good money footling and stacking the turf, the only phases of production done by hand. It is not unusual for a man, his wife and a couple of children to earn, amongst them, $48 or more a week.

Help Wanted in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO—(P)—There is no unemployment in Brazil. This largest South American country is seeking workers for all types of new industries as well as additional farmers, miners and construction workers. Immigrants are being sought to help solve the labor shortage. Although wages are not high, there are jobs to be filled in every kind of employment.

HIGHEST BAR IN THE LAND

Broadway—Jack O'Brian

Grains Of Knowledge

NEW YORK — Milton Berle's amiable impudence during his appearance at Nick Blar's Carnival makes folks wonder how he performs his verbal acrobatics and doesn't make anyone mad.

The other evening he introduced Cary Grant, who was at the ring-side, as one of the many husbands of Barbara Hutton.

"She's been married so many times that the smart set used to play 'Hutton, Hutton, who's got the Hutton?'"

Katie Hepburn will be in the right cast can be found... John Emery is wanted... Curious casting in "Second Best Bed," a play about William Shakespeare which Ruth Chatterton, erstwhile First Lady of the Screen, produced and acted in.

As producer, she hired a former husband, Ralph Forbes, for a principal role, and her present spouse, Barry Thompson, to play Will Shakespeare.

The way the reviewers rattled it about, you'd think Ruth would have had a grudge against both of the boys.

Orson Welles took some hefty verbal swipes at the critics after the opening of his "Around the World." He waited up for the reviews and when he read them, only one of which was favorable, he started beefing about critics' general incompetence and assured everyone in hearing that he would fight it out until it became a hit.

On his radio program next day Orson recalled that once before he had been burned with critical opposition, and that some woodoo drummers in the show at the time, a Negro version of "Hamlet" which he produced for the Federal Theater Project, had put a "hex" on one of the aisle seats, who died a few days later.

Orson said he always could get his woodoo drummers together for another such reunion... "I'm not threatening you," he told his critics over the air. "I just thought I'd mention it."

Leon Enken (Leon & Eddie's) says the Louis-Corn fight weekend was the biggest in Broadway's history, bigger than any night except New Year's Eve, which traditionally has huge cover charges to hike the take.

La Martiniere, originally preparing to close for the warm months on June 19, was kept running until June 21, to take advantage of the fun-seeking mobs.

Gypsy Rose Lee, who left Chicago in a huff, may front a new night club here, to be financed by Paul Feigal and a syndicate.

Feigal is co-producer of "On the Town" and "Billboard Dollar Baby." Lena Horne, who turned down "St. Louis Woman" after first preparing to play in it, now is hoping to come to Broadway in Duke Ellington's treatment of "Beggar's Opera," which tentatively has been re-named "Street Music."

Betty Garrett, the smash hit star of "Call Me Mister," has been signed to a hefty M-G-M contract, which will start early in 1947.

her husband, Barry Parks, also is acting in Hollywood where he just finished a film based on the life of Al Jolson.

Makes Things Hot To Get Home

EVERETT, Wash.—(P)—Vern Welch, 19, a fireman second class in the Navy, was so anxious to get home on a 30-day leave that he helped fire the train which brought him up from San Francisco.

He took the fireman's place when the crewman was injured as the engineer halted the train suddenly at a bridge damaged by a western Oregon flood. And he kept the boilers hot until the next roundhouse was reached.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—Drew Pearson

Small On Spot Regarding Housing

WASHINGTON — Civilian production administrator Jack Small, worried over race-track construction while veterans are denied homes, has now sent out orders to his branch offices to spur veterans' housing.

Some of these problems were discussed with Small at a recent closed-door meeting with representatives of the major veterans' groups, when Wesley Pearce of the Veterans of Foreign Wars broached the subject of the new race track in Monmouth county, N. J., which is being built with OPA okay.

"Now, wait a minute," interrupted Small. "That particular race track was started before we had established effective building controls."

"You can't blame me," he insisted. "I admit that it was a mistake. But it was started last November, before we instituted these stop-orders on non-essential construction. The materials were already on the ground. The contractors couldn't get by with anything like that now."

Small did not, however, explain why the race track hadn't been stopped by the CPA.

Just before the meeting broke up, VFW's Jim Gillan asked Small about the 250-room addition to Washington's Shoreham hotel which was OK'd by the CPA on the shallow grounds that the added 250 rooms were needed to promote "foreign relations."

Gillan pointed out that it might have been smarter for CPA to divert bathtubs, bricks, and other building essentials into building homes for veterans, inasmuch as visiting diplomats already enjoy a high priority on Washington hotel accommodations.

"We have plenty of bathtubs," replied Small, "and a new type of non-essential flooring material for the Shoreham which won't interfere with construction shorthages."

Before veterans' spokesmen could pin him down on the number of essential housing items going into the Shoreham annex, including bricks, the OPA boss announced that he had an appointment with the secretary of war and ended the conference.

Getting The OPA

OPA Administrator Paul Porter was being quizzed by Senator Homer Capehart, the Indiana "music-box master," regarding the renewal of price control.

"We don't want to destroy price control," said the Senator from Indiana. "We just want to reform it so it will work. I don't see why you fellows don't co-operate."

"Senator," replied Porter, "you remind me of the fisherman who had just pulled in a whopper and then said to the fish, 'Hold still. I'm not going to hurt you. I just want to get you a little bit.'"

Horse-Trading At Paris

Secretary Byrnes' cabled reports to President Truman regarding the big four conference, have been reasonably optimistic. Both the Russians and Byrnes seem willing to do a little horse-trading. In fact, it was horse-trading that brought about the arrangement to evacuate Soviet troops from Bulgaria.

One victory Byrnes scored was on the evacuation of Soviet troops from Bulgaria. Here's how it happened.

The entire Italian question was being thrashed out, and the conversation between the two men went like this. Molotov asked Byrnes:

"What's this I hear about your Americans enlarging all your airfields in Italy? Could you be planning to pull something of a permanent nature there?"

Byrnes merely smiled and said: "What's this I hear about the new Red Army air base in Bulgaria? Were you Russians planning to settle down and stay there indefinitely?"

"Where did you hear that?" asked Molotov.

"Oh," replied Byrnes, "we have our sources."

"Well," replied Molotov, "I wouldn't believe every rumor you hear about what's happening in our area."

"In that case," Byrnes snapped back, "don't believe everything you hear about what is happening in our zone."

This conversation gave birth to further discussion which finally led to the important agreement to evacuate all foreign troops from Italy and Bulgaria.

Getting Bevin's Goat

In the same discussion, Molotov turned to British Foreign Minister Bevin and asked if, while the issue of evacuating troops was under discussion, the British might not like to talk about evacuating their 57,000 troops from Greece.

"That's none of your damned business," snapped Bevin.

Note—Some observers wished that Secretary Byrnes had supported Molotov in urging that the British army be withdrawn from Greece. If so, there might have been results.

Paris News Blackout

Here's what happened behind closed doors in Paris during the fight which led to the big four news blackout.

British Foreign Minister Bevin first proposed the blackout. Secretary Byrnes protested. He pointed out that he had to keep the American people informed of what he did in Paris, and he warned that everything would leak out sooner or later anyway.

Bevin, however, said flatly that if Britain was to get together with the other three powers on Trieste, the negotiations would have to be secret. So, reluctantly, Byrnes agreed to ending the news leaks on what happened at the conference.

Note—At the same meeting, the big four named Andrei Vyshinsky, Gladwyn Jebb of Great Britain, and Ben Cohen of the state department as members of the commission to investigate disposal of Italian colonies.

17 Years Without Crime Cramps Style

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—Oliver County state's attorney Burton Wilcox is proud of his county's law abiding record but he has one complaint. It doesn't afford him much opportunity for perfecting his jury technique.

Wilcox, starting his 18th consecutive year as state's attorney, never has had occasion to prosecute a criminal case before a jury.

"We haven't had a major crime in 17 years," he said. There have been a few isolated instances of petty crime but the offenders either pleaded guilty or asked for trial by judge without jury."

The United States consumes in the neighborhood of 4,200,000 gallons of lubricating oils daily.

Exploration for oil is underway in the Bahamas, although none has as yet been found.

Dixie Walker, Brooklyn's First Citizen, Comes Through In Style

By the Associated Press
Almost any Brooklyn citizen will tell you in all sincerity that the greatest thing that ever happened to that borough was when Dixie Walker came to the Dodgers back in 1939.

Probably never in the annals of baseball has a player so captured the hearts of the fans as has this soft-spoken, drawing Southerner from Villavieja, Ga.

To Brooklyn fans, Walker can do no wrong. Rarely, if ever, does he let them down. Dixie, in his eight-year reign at Ebbets Field, has won so many games that invariably, the newspaper vendors yell "Today's score, Dixie 4, opponents 2."

That's what they were yelling yesterday following Brooklyn's 4-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, which enabled the Dodgers to retain their three-game first place margin over the St. Louis Cardinals. And what did Dixie do? He only smashed two triples to knock in three runs and scored the other himself.

The season is dotted with similar Walker exploits. Currently the Dodger ace leads the National League in batting and runs batted in, and is runner-up in hits, triples and stolen bases.

The cards kept pace with the National league leaders by ending the five-game winning streak of the onrushing Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, to prevent — temporarily at least — Ben Chapman's hustling crew from taking over fifth place.

The American league leading Boston Red Sox had to come from behind to stave off their most disastrous day of the season. Trailing Detroit 3-0 and later 3-2 in the eighth inning of the nightcap, after having already dropped the first game of their double header 16-2, the Red Sox came up with seven runs to whip the Tigers 9-3 and earn an even split.

Detroit hammered 15 runs in the first two innings of the lid-lifter to allow Hal Newhouse to coast to his 13th victory. Hank Greenberg of the Tigers and Ted Williams of the Red Sox, running neck and neck for the home run leadership, belted a home run in each game to remain deadlocked at 19 apiece.

The New York Yankees parrowed Boston's margin to seven games by defeating the Cleveland Indians 8-4.

Washington edged out the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 16 innings with pitcher Sid Hudson scoring the winning run on Bob Kennedy's fumble in the longest game played so far in the majors. A three-run homer by Chat Laabs and another by Walter Judnich with one mate aboard enabled the St. Louis Browns to smother the Philadelphia Athletics 11-4.

The New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates exchanged places in the National league when Lefty Grove pitched the Giants out of the cellar with a five-hit 4-0 shutout over the Bucs.

Mort Cooper spaced 12 hits to outlast four Chicago pitchers as the fourth place Boston Braves walloped the Cubs 11-2.

Assault, Fifth In Cash Winning Records, Passes Up Empire City

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP) — They're going to have a horse race for a feature on Saturday's Empire City — at Jamaica card instead of another public workout for Assault, the Texas terror who rules the nation's three-year-olds from here to there.

Trainer Max Hirsch said yesterday that the equine king of Robert Kleberg's King ranch establishment will pass up the $50,000-added Empire City stakes and await Chicago's classic at Arlington Park on July 27.

Assault, hero of the triple crown (Derby, Preakness and Belmont) as well as a division of the experimental, the Wood and the Dwyer, has only (that word is used advisedly) to win the Classic, a $60,000 added test, in order to catapult into third place among turf history's money winners. To date, the colt with the deformed right foot has picked up $356,970 — $339,720 of it this year for an all-time single-season record — and is fifth in the world standing.

Dillard Starts Run On Records Friday Night

SAN ANTONIO, June 27. (AP) — Junior contestants open a two-day assault on track and field records in the National A.A.U.'s 58th classic tomorrow night with Harrison Dillard, Baldwin-Wallace's "ebony streak," set for his first of four cracks at the hurdles marks.

Dillard is expected to make his strongest bid for the 200 meter hurdle's record after a brilliant season of collegiate campaigning. The Cleveland negro duplicated the world's record for the 200 meter and 220-yard hurdles 22.5, in the all-Ohio meet earlier this month. His 14.2 seconds job for the 120-yard high was topped this spring only by Ralph Tate of Oklahoma A. and M., a senior entry.

Baylor University's Wilmar "Bill" Martineau, who racked up the fastest 100-yard dash of the year, 9.5 seconds, in the Southwest conference meet, is an odds-on favorite to snap the tape in the junior 100 meter run. He's likely to get a hot chase from Melvin Patton, Los Angeles A.C., another junior senior entry, who has stepped the distance in 9.7.

Patton, who owns a 21-foot 220 mark this spring, heads the junior 200 meter field that has other speed agents in Desmond Kidd, Texas University, Stonie Cotten, Baylor, both credited with 21.3's, and Tom Dickey, Louisiana State, the Southeastern conference dash king.

Dwight Edleman, Illinois, is favored in both the junior and senior high jumps. The Western conference champion has a 6-foot 6 7/8 inch leap to his credit and has been gearing himself for a shot at the meet mark of 6-9 3/4 inches.

While approximately 50 contestants were scheduled for warm-up trials today, the bulk of the 290-man field, including Lennart Strand, Sweden's middle distance sensation, were expected to arrive tonight.

All-Stars Clash With Champions

The Muny softball league All-Stars, a team made up from all squads other than the championship Cosden brigade, get a whack at the front running Oilers in a nine-inning exhibition at the city park diamond around 8:15 o'clock this evening.

Coahoma's Stanolind Oilers, unsuccessful in their all-out bid for the first half crown, will field three men against the Refiners. They are Roy Weeks, star tosser; Joe Aberig, who will plug the second base slot; and Bill Brown, utility man.

Dyke Talbot, affable skipper of the Big Spring Motor clan, and Jack Keith, Forsan pilot, will team up to run the spangled nine against the Cosdens.

Besides Weeks, Aberig and Brown, they'll have as help Ocie Henson, Redcaps, and Cleo Wilson, Forsan, as catchers; Glenn Bredemeyer, Ford; Jim Daylong, Manhattan; and Gordon Lowe, Forsan, to pitch; John Malaise, ABC, first base; Pat Patterson, ABC, third base; Lewis Heuvel, Forsan, short stop; and Hal Battle, VFW; Doc Malone, VFW; and Joe Hooper, United Body Works, in the outfield along with Lefty McCabe, Forsan and Billy Wasson, Dub's Garage, in reserve.

Cosden's skipper, Pete Womack, is expected to start his regular lineup.

Second half Muny play gets underway Monday evening.

Martin Homers But Lamesans Lose, 16-9

LAMESA, June 27.—The Clovis Pioneers plastered the offerings of husky Cecil Hart for 17 hits as they swept the three-game series with the Lamesa Lobos by a 16 to 9 score.

Hart was pummeled hard all the way until Jack Haupt took over in the sixth to retire the side and hold the visitors scoreless the rest of the way.

Dick Moldt led the Pioneer attack with 4 hits, including his third and fourth home runs of the series. He and Joe Dotlich, manager-first baseman, hit successive one-run homers in the first, and Moldt homered again in the fifth with 2 men aboard. Ray Bauer and Woldt each drove in 4 runs for the victors.

Glenn Blackwood went all the way for Clovis and fanned 16 batters, but his right-hand slants were far from a puzzle for the Lobos. Lamesa collected 13 hits including home runs by Popper Martin and L. B. Palmer, both with the bases empty, doubles by Buck Hucklebee and Rags Ragone, and 2 triples by Jack Wilcox.

Bill Scopetone, Lobo left fielder, Lobo left fielder, continued to fatten his average at a dizzy rate as he came through with a perfect night. He had 5 hits in as many trips, including 2 two-baggers, and drove in two counters.

Oscar Melago, formerly with Albuquerque, made his debut at second base for Lamesa following the release of Mac McClain. Hucklebee, a southpaw with pre-war experience at Amarillo and Lamesa was serving relief duty in the outfield. He is expected to face the firing line on the mound as soon as he rounds into shape.

Walter Condon, Lamesa's ace left-hander, will be the starting choice in the opener with Albuquerque here Thursday night.

Cosden Decisions Stanolind Oilers To Win Muny Crown

Largest Throng Of Season Turns Out For Finale

Cosden's rampaging Oilers won the fight for first half honors in Muny softball league play by turning back the Coahoma Stanolind Oilers, 6-1, Wednesday night, before the largest crowd ever to see a game at city park.

The throng was estimated at 2,000 or more.

Pete Womack's alert warriors, who had played second fiddle to the Coahomans until Forsan upset the Stanolind troupe earlier in the week, took advantage of every break and displayed a perchance for hitting in the clutch.

The Coahomans collected eight safeties off the offerings of Red Harrison, including a long triple by K. C. Grantham, but they failed utterly to hit when the heat was on.

Roy Weeks, on the rubber for the losers, surrendered seven blows and was betrayed by six fielding miscues on the part of his mates.

Leonard Morgan set the stage for the first Cosden run when he gained a life on a bobbie by Windmill Brown at the initial station. He ankleed all the way home on the next play as Conn Isaacs drove a loft into center field that was dropped by Rube Baker. Isaacs went into third standing up before the ball was retrieved by the middle gardener.

Pat Stacey followed with a sacrificial bunt that scored Isaacs and was safe at first when Weeks made a futile play at home.

Successive hits by Jim Tidwell and Jack Morgan gave the Cosdens another run in the third before the Coahomans pushed Brown across in the fourth on a bingle by Earl Reid.

The Refiners got that run back and added two for good measure in the fifth on an error, passed ball and blows by Harrison, Red Womack and Jake Morgan. Morgan's clothes-line drive into center field propelled two tallies across the plate.

Harrison was no mystery to the Coahomans, who hit him hard all the way, but their drives were invariably directly at some one and resulted in outs.

Grantham cut loose with his mighty triple in the seventh round but died on third base.

Umpire Chuck Smith had a lot of trouble with the overflow crowd, which flooded the sidelines and insisted on spilling onto the playing field. The stands were filled long before game time and filtered down the foul boundaries. Several scores of the spectators took seats along the tennis court in left field.

Big Spring Hardware took Dub's Garage into camp, 4-3, in a preliminary game. Johnny Daylong was the winning hurler.

Coulter To Play With Grid Giants

FORT WORTH, June 27.—(AP)—Dewitt Coulter, former West Point football star, has signed a contract with the New York Giants professional football team, he said here.

In confirming the signing of the agreement, Coulter said he planned to be married to Miss Ruth Tindle of Fort Worth in about two weeks, and this influenced his decision. Also, he said, the Giants promised to help him study art in New York.

Coulter had previously planned to enter Georgia Tech this fall.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Walker Bailey has written to his old friend, Joe Bailey Cheney, in an effort to get Howard Payne college's football team here next fall for the second annual ABC charity classic.

Bailey wore the mole skins under the tutelage of Cheney back in the late '20's. He figures inasmuch as the Jackets field one of the strongest elevens in Texas college circles every fall, that no better game attraction could be arranged.

Another HPC alumnus who will vouch for the Brownwood school's reputation is Good Graves, who was a crackerjack guard there before the war.

Bennie Adams sacked up $18 as his share for winning the Pro-Amateur at the country club here Tuesday. That represents 50 per cent of the total purse set aside for the pros. Second-place winner, Lloyd Watkins of Odessa, earned $10.80 while Foy Fanning, Big Spring, took down third place at $7.20. Twelve of the play-for-pay masnie welders took part in the tournament.

The simon-pures who finished in front did much better in the way of awards. The top team, which was captained by Billy Davidson, Odessa, gained $90 worth of merchandise prizes.

Morgan Hampton, the Abilene pro who recently returned from Germany to take over the teaching job at the Abilene country club, was an entry here but couldn't control his irons.

According to Pro Shirley Robbins, most of the linksmen who played here Tuesday will return for the Big Spring Invitational in late August.

Would-Be Governors Passing Legislation At Every Stop

By Associated Press

Texas' would-be governors are scampering around the vote-chasing circuit "passing" legislation at every stop.

"Pass a law to give the veteran a 1-card to work on the home front as was done to send him to the battle front," is John Lee Smith's solution to the problems facing ex-GI's.

"I promise you I'll keep my first legislature at work until every cent needed to pay the full $40 is appropriated," Beauford H. Jester told voters in Pampa in reference to full payment of the old age pension.

Jerry Sadler proposed a law requiring state officials to make a public accounting of their earthly possessions when they take the oath of office and at the end of each six months period while in office.

Yesterday in Amarillo, Sadler said Grover Sellers was a little lax in his inventory of worldly goods—a 350-acre farm in Hopkins county.

Dr. Homer P. Rainey thinks there will have to be some changes made in the state legislature. He predicted a heavy turnover in the members.

The candidate told Brownsville voters that the senate was a bottleneck of liberal legislation because "some of the members of the senate are employed by large corporations."

In Snyder, Grover Sellers met a first cousin he had never seen—Mrs. T. J. Peterson, 46-year resident of the city.

State Senator Allan Shivers opens his campaign for lieutenant governor tonight in Port Arthur, his hometown.

Boyce House, candidate for lieutenant governor, winds up a South and East Texas tour today. Next week he plans to invade West Texas, opening with two speeches Wednesday in El Paso.

Where they are today: Weslaco, Kingsville, Corpus Christi, Grover Sellers—Sterling City, San Angelo, Ballinger, Coleman, Brownwood, Beauford H. Jester—Pampa, Panhandle, Borger, Claude, Amarillo, Jerry Sadler—Borger, Pampa, Wellington, Childress, John Lee Smith—Gainesville, Whitesboro, Sherman.

Drive To Prevent Illegal Lumber Sale

DALLAS, June 27. (AP) — Criminal prosecutions, tax investigations and prosecutions, treble damage suits, injunctions and similar actions are planned for Texas as black markets in lumber and other building materials.

The combined operation was announced yesterday by Hugh C. Proctor, district national housing agency head, in connection with the Washington announcement of a drive against black marketers.

Proctor said the drive will be against all levels of operation, including producers, truckers, distributors and consumers.

Cooperating in the Texas drive, and throughout the nation, will be the National Housing Agency, the Attorney General's Department, the Treasury Department, and the Office of Price Administration.

Shippers Square Feline Series

By the Associated Press

Winners in the Texas league had an easy time last night with victory margins ranging from three to six runs.

Beaumont squared their series with the league-leading Fort Worth Cats by a 4-1 win. San Antonio staged a second consecutive defeat of Oklahoma City, 8-4.

The Shreveport Sports made it two in a row with a 6-2 win over third place Dallas. Houston broke even in a series by trouncing Tulsa, 8-2.

Joe Muffoletto led the Beaumont 11 - hit attack against Fort Worth with a double and two singles. Joe Bianco of the Exporters held the Cats to four scattered hits.

San Antonio collected a five-run lead in the first two innings and stayed ahead all the way. The Indians threatened when they pulled up to 5-4 in the seventh but San Antonio garnered one run in the seventh and added two in the eighth to retain the lead.

The Shreveport Sports blasted rebel pitcher Walter Wilson out of the box in three innings. Manie Vargas, Sports pitcher, held the Rebels to seven hits and added to his team's attack with a double and a home run.

Houston Buffs solidly pounded three Tulsa pitchers for 13 hits. Les Studener scattered Tulsa's seven hits and after the second inning hurled shut-out ball.

Today's schedule. Beaumont at Fort Worth. Shreveport at Dallas. (Both night games). (Only games scheduled).

CAPITAL COOLER

DES MOINES, Ia., June 27. — (AP) — Mid-morning coffee drinking by statehouse employes, frowned on by their bosses, saved Iowa secretary of agriculture Harry D. Linn and two other men from a thorough chilling yesterday.

They were accidentally locked in a new cafeteria walk-in cooler which they were inspecting. But their shouts and kicking on the door attracted the coffee drinkers, who released them.

In Hollywood How Vera - Ellen Stretches Way To Movie Fame

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 27 (AP) — Step in closer, shortly, and learn how you can stretch your way to movie fame.

Teacher is Vera-Ellen, the bright, blonde dancer from Cincinnati who is now starring in "Carnival in Costa Rica." Five years ago at 16 she was a puny four foot, six inches and weighed 76 pounds. What's more, she hadn't grown a bit for two years.

When she was turned down for a role in "Leave It To Me" on Broadway because she looked like a midget, Vera-Ellen decided to do something about it. She devised a set of exercises which would either kill her or stretch her.

The dancer demonstrated some of them for me. She bent over and tried to touch her elbows to the floor. Sounds hard, doesn't it? Well, it is. Then she stood next to a door and put one foot high over her head. Try that some time. "Really, any simple exercises can be used," she explained. "The important thing is to stretch and try to reach further than you can."

As a result of her exercises, Vera-Ellen is now five feet, four and a half inches and a well developed 115 pounds. And she is doing very well in her chosen profession, too. Aside from the big plans Goldwyn and 20th-Fox have for her, she will probably star in "Blondie Girl" and the life of Marilyn Miller.

Rios had been on leave of absence since last January because of ill health.

He was elected president on Feb. 1, 1942 in a sweeping victory of the Leftist Popular front.

He succeeded Pedro Aguirre Cerda, Chile's first popular front candidate and fellow-member of Rios' radical party, who had died several months earlier.

Rios previously had held the posts of prime minister, minister of justice and president of the Chilean Agricultural Bank.
