'Public Enemy'

DEPT. OF JUSTICE AGENTS
HUNT DILLINGER GANG

SQUAW LAKE, Wis., April 27. (U.P.)—Five automobile loads of department of justice agents stalked through the woods of this vicinity today for members of the John Dillinger gang who were believed to be in hiding here.

Agents were informed that at least four were in hiding on the lake front. The hunt started at dawn after a night of guarding all roads to and from the suspected area.

TO INSTALL HOIST AT POTASH SHAFT

Workmen were timbering the Midland county potash shaft Thursday preparatory to installing hoisting machinery. The hole looked to be from 40 to 50 feet deep. An ore car has been added to the equipment. The diggings are being dumped in an old lake bed, near which the mine was started.

The miners are living in shacks located at the No. 1 test hole, about 200 yards from the mine shaft. Those who have visited the scene of operations of the sinking of a shaft by the Texas Potash corporation on their leases some fourteen miles southeast of town, during the past week have commented on the progress made in sinking the 8 feet by 18 inch shaft. At this stage the digging is in solid rock, and progress is considerably slower, although air drills have been added to the equipment used.

The shaft site is reached from Odessa by following the Crater highway 12 miles, to a point near the county line, where an old cattle guard has been removed, and turning off on a freshly graded road to the left. The new graded road leads directly to the site.

It is estimated that the work of sinking the shaft to a depth of some 2,150 feet, where the rich ore of polyhalite is encountered, will require from nine months to a year. Until that depth is reached and drifting is started, little additional labor will be required, as the size of the hole will not permit any larger crew than is now used to work at one time.

News was also received this week that Homer Mitchell, president of the Texas Potash corporation, is in a Dallas hospital, and is expected to be there for several weeks. His untimely illness delayed a visit to the scene of operations planned by the board of directors of the company, but such a visit is said to be planned as soon as he has recovered sufficiently.

Large Crowd at Chorus' Concert

A crowd that filled the Church of Christ auditorium and two Sunday school rooms Thursday night heard the Acapella chorus and a quartet of the Abilene Christian college.

K. C. Tucker, Church of Christ minister of Midland, read appropriate scriptures and stanzas before most of the 14 songs.

The chorus, made up of mixed voices, has recently made concert trips to Lubbock and Dallas, and both the chorus and the quartet have made two recent radio appearances.

Waddell Pony Will Make London Trip

Jim Waddell's string of thoroughbred stallions will be represented when the special train departs from Fort Worth soon carrying ropers and their mounts who are bound for the big Tex Austin world championship rodeo in London.

J. D. Amburgey, one of four or five from this section who will make the trip, will rope calves from Waddell's big brown gelding, Billy, a seven year old horse that stands 15 hands, two inches and weighs around 1,150 pounds. The horse was sired by Dennis Reed, a government thoroughbred stallion.

Waddell reported an inch and half of rain in the last week, filling surface tanks for the first time in 18 months. He ranches west of Odessa, in Winkler county.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 27. (U.P.)—June Robles, 6, kidnaped Wednesday and held for ransom of $10,000, still had not been returned today. Authorities believed threat of a mob was keeping the kidnapers from contacting family members.

WASHINGTON, April 27. (U.P.)—The house rules committee voted today to give the right of way on the floor for investigation of the oil code administration. The plan was sponsored by Rep. Sterling P. SAN ANTONIO, April 27. (U.P.)—Francisco Martinez, 21, was killed, Manuel Reyes, 19, was dying and a third man was jailed today when Manuel Garcia, 40, carpenter, saw the trio hold up J. F. Alvarado, store keeper.

MADRID, April 27. (U.P.)—Ricardo Sampedro of the radical party today was commissioned to form a coalition of the government in the hope of averting a political revolution. The appointment came as a surprise.

AUSTIN, April 27. (U.P.)—Laten Stanberry, chief of the gas utilities division of the railroad commission was made chief supervisor of the oil and gas division to succeed R. D. Parker, recently made chief administrator of the oil and gas division.

Cline Culbertson, formerly chief examiner of gas utilities, was named chief of the same division, succeeding Stanberry.

NEW POTASH ROAD MAY BE PROPOSED

Reports on a proposed new road to the potash mine in Midland county will be submitted to the county commissioners court and the chamber of commerce at their next regular meeting by representatives of these bodies who were shown the various routes Thursday by Roy Pavks.

A good road is now open from Midland to the mine, and this will be marked by the chamber of commerce so sight-seers may readily find the shaft. This road is a little less than 35 miles long. A proposed shorter route would lessen the distance 7 to 10 miles, but would require more than $1,500 to build and would cross three or four pastures with resultant damage to their owners, cattlemen say.

The present route is a good road, most of it having recently been worked by Midland county.

Several Plan to Attend Big Rodeo

W. G. Riddle, district manager of the Bell Telephone company, several oil men, rodeo fans and others will attend the celebration at McCombs Saturday. The Midland chamber of commerce will also be officially represented. It is expected that others from Midland will attend the rodeo Sunday, as that feature of the celebration will be repeated.

Late News

WASHINGTON, April 27. (U.P.)—American Airlines, Inc., was unopposed in bidding for two major routes of four temporary air mail lines when the bids were opened today by the postoffice department. The lines were from Newark to Chicago and from Fort Worth to Los Angeles.

LONGVIEW, April 27. (U.P.)—Willie Mae, 5, and Beatrice, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Camp of Gladewater, were found sleeping in a broken down car east of here today, victims of a believed unintentional kidnapping. Joe Hubbard, bus driver, returned the children here.

Church Marriage Sunday Evening To Unite Babies

The wedding ceremony will receive special recognition in a special service at the First Christian church at 8 o'clock Sunday night. The Rev. E. B. Chancellor, pastor, will speak on "Lessons from the Wedding Ceremony."

A real wedding will be represented by a number of little people and their attendants. Patsy Lou Arrington will be the bride, and Odell Collier will be the groom. There will be the maid of honor, best man, bridesmaid, ushers, flower girls and ring bearer. Doris Lynn, Pemberton, cousin of the bride, will sing "I Love You Truly."

The bridal party will arrive at the church promptly at 8 o'clock, and the wedding march will begin at once. The bride and her attendants will pass down one aisle, while the groom and his attendants pass down the other, the groups meeting and forming at the altar before the pulpit.

Following the ceremony and explanations, there will be the recessional, the congratulations being served for the close of the service. Lessons from the marriage ceremony will be emphasized after the wedding party has been seated.

Mexicans, Negroes In Health Campaign

R. C. Ortega of Austin, director of Mexican Health Service in Texas, lectured to Mexican adults Thursday night on health education and tuberculosis.

Senor Ortega is assisting in the work being done in the Mexican quarter. Tuesday and Wednesday were clean-up days in that section. Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock a clinic for Mexican pre-school children was held. Dr. W. E. Ryan, assisted by Miss Elizabeth M. Wilson, Mrs. H. N. Phillips, Mrs. Harvey Sloan and a committee from the Junior Wednesday club, was in charge. The Rev. Edw. P. Harrison, O. M. I., acted as interpreter.

This evening at 7:30, Mexican school children will present a program, after which Senor Ortega will lecture. A motion picture on health will also be shown.

Although Negro Health week was observed the week of April 1, F. Rivers Barnwell, director of negro health work, will remain in Midland today to inspect conditions here. He will make an illustrated lecture tonight. He spoke to 70 Thursday night. He is well educated in health conditions as they affect his race, and has spent several years in health work.

With appreciation to work done by the Midland County Health board in the negro quarter and said this together with a hoped-for visit to the school building for the negro, will make for significant changes in the morality index of his people.

The speaker took occasion to praise a noted educational leader of his race and to say the appreciation of the negro quarter for the model school building built there.

Our work of health education takes us directly into the schools where we have the major cooperation on the part of school boards, teachers and children," he said. "I delight in telling the children of the story of how Booker T. Washington got his start in education when he cleaned so thoroughly a school room that the teacher could not find a pin headkerchief over the furniture in the room. Booker T. Washington believed that a thing worth doing was worth doing well. I am much impressed with the type of school building for the colored people here. It is well kept and the children appreciate it. In fact, it is the best building and best kept of any negro school building this side of Fort Worth, according to my observation. I am urging the negro residents to join the already interested superintendent and school board in planting trees, shrubs and flowers around the building so that the campus may be beautified the year round."

LAREDO SEES OIL BOOM

LAREDO (U.P.)—Oil development this year in the Laredo district has assumed the proportions of a boom. From April 13 to 20, inclusive, ten new oil producers and three gasers were added to fields of the district and 17 new leases were made. Only three abandonments were reported two of these being in wildcat territory.

The Sun Oil company continues to lead in the number of new producers and of the eight wells completed in Government Wells field of Duval county for the week, three were Sun wells. Sun Oil company also led the past week in the list of new locations, and of the 14 in Government Wells field, four were made by that concern. Two major concerns, Sun and Magnolia, have an intensive development campaign in progress.

The Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas Co. has completed and tested another of the large wells in the Yates field, Pecos county, Yates B-33, section 61, tested at the rate of 92,300 barrels per day, and is even larger than the recently completed well by the same operators which tested in excess of 83,000 barrels daily. MAY PLEAD HIS GUILT IN FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

When Told Girl

DALLAS, April 27. (U.P.)—Raymond Hamilton today was sullen and disappointed, compared with the carefree and strutting air yesterday after he told that Mary O'Dare, his sweetheart, had double-crossed him saying she was "through with him and was going back to her husband."

"You can't trust anybody any more. They double-cross you every time," he said. "As long as you've got money you're a fine fellow. When you're broke they're through with you."

Hamilton said he robbed the Louisville bank to get money for Mary. He said, "Women are the cause of crime. They make criminals, then put 'em on the spot." He said he was "broke and didn't think a lawyer would do him any good anyway." He indicated he might plead guilty and believed that course the best means of avoiding the death chair.

Motorcade to Reach Midland on May 6

DALLAS—F. O. Mackey, president of the Broadway of America Highway association, today announced that more than 200 automobiles would form the two motorcades to the seventh annual convention of the association, meeting in Dallas, May 8-9.

"From every direction, and the splendid spirit of cooperation which I found on my recent trip over the highway from Douglas, Arizona, to McMinnville, Tennessee, I feel safe in saying that the Dallas convention will be one of the most outstanding in the history of this great association," Mackey said.

"The Dallas convention will celebrate the paying of the first transcontinental highway in the United States. At this time there remains but 42.7 miles of unpaved road on the entire route. Every foot of this is under contract and will be completed not later than September 15, this year."

"At the Dallas convention, we will lay out plans for advertising this great road, and the location is today is carrying the bulk of discriminating motor travelers."

The motorcade will reach Midland at 6 p. m. May 6 for a night stop, departing at 7 a. m. May 7 for Dallas.

Shinnery Killing Cattle in Sands

Ranchers in the sand country west of Midland are reporting the loss of a number of cattle pastured in the sands, due to the extent of green shinnery. This loss is not uncommon in the sands, where the shinnery, as it first greens out in the spring is often fatal to cattle.

Although customary precautions are taken against such losses by taking cattle off the shinnery during the brief danger period, it was impossible to be safe this year, as the shinnery did not all green out at the same time, coming off in spots over an extended period of time.

VICTORY, COSTLY BUT SWEET

One of the axioms of modern America is that you never can win an argument with the telephone company. But Dr. Alton A. Smahl of New York has done so.

After an eight-year fight, he has gained an official ruling that he has been overcharged on his phone bill, and the New York Telephone Co. has had to refund to him the sum of $5.40.

Dr. Smahl carried on his argument fruitlessly for years. Then, finally, he got a padlock and kept the dial of his phone locked to make absolutely sure that no one but himself would ever use it; and he kept a careful record of every call made, over a five-month period.

Then, checking up on his bill, he found that he had been charged $5.40 too much; so he went to court, and the other day he won his verdict.

As an exception to an almost universal rule, Dr. Smahl will doubtless appear to his fellow citizens as a bit of a hero.

The Town Quack

thing and sure enough he didn't.

Quite unusual was the deliberation with which Dr. John Klutho, 65, committed suicide in Los Angeles recently. He rigged up a machine whereby he fired a bullet into his head as he lay in a box. Equally unusual was his farewell note, which read: "To grandma—I apologize. To my sisters—I am sorry. To the rest of the world—Nerts."

How silly drunk men are! "Har, har, har! That's a good joke on the second drunk."

"What is a good joke on me?" asked the second drunk.

"That's not your har you are sitting on."

"Whose har is it?"

"It's my har—har, har, har!"

A Quaker went to war. He was reluctant about going to war, but he went because he was brave as any man could be.

Coming up to the enemy's lines, he called out to an enemy soldier.

"Friend, 'tis unfortunate for thee, but thou standest just where I am going to shoot."

And then he blazed away.

I heard of a family argument last Sunday morning. The husband didn't want to go to Sunday school because he was afraid his new suit would attract too much attention. The wife didn't want to go because she was afraid her clothes wouldn't attract enough attention. But, being faithful folks, they went to Sunday school.

He'll feel a lot better next Sunday. First thing you know he'll feel so much at home in the new suit that he will have nerve enough to wear it to town.

I heard a street philosopher complaining the other day. He said when he was a boy his parents wouldn't have let him stay away from school for anything less than a broken leg. Now they let 'em stay at home a day or two for rosolia.

I know a case of a satisfied home here. A mother-in-law didn't want her son-in-law to amount to anything.

"I'LL TELL THE WORLD"

The Romance and Thrills of Newsgathering for the United Press—From Universal's Screenplay.

SYNOPSIS: Stanley Brown, correspondent for the United Press, thinks he's meeting Jane Hamilton of Baltimore, when actually she's Princess Helen, niece of Archduke Ferdinand, and is destined to become a ruler through a quiet revolution. His rival, Briggs, of the Confederate Press, is just as dumb as he is on the subject, and both are trying to get the story. The worst angle of all is that Brown has fallen for Jane. After a dinner of the royals at the Hotel Europa, at Vichy, Count Strunsky, guiding spirit of the proposed revolution, sends Princess Helen, alias Jane, onto the terrace where Brown is, to hold his attention. Strunsky is afraid Brown will discover his identity.

CHAPTER VIII

For the first time in his many feverish years of newsgathering, Stanley Brown, news agency correspondent, found himself more interested in a woman than he did in getting the story. He had been assigned. The beautiful young woman in the case was, as far as he knew, Jane Hamilton of Baltimore, and he was waiting on the moon-drenched terrace outside the windows of the hotel for her to appear, as she had promised.

After many minutes, Jane or Helen, stepped out onto the terrace—into a world of silver.

Brown stepped forward eagerly when she came through the French windows, feeling that such a night for romance for him and the girl, he realized that she was the most beautiful creature he ever had set eyes on—and he'd been all over the world, with his eyes open!

"Lucky you came out," he exclaimed impatiently. "I was about to break in again."

She walked ahead, pretending to ignore him.

"Hey—wait a minute!" he called after her.

He cast aside his cigarette and followed her.

"The lights have gone out in the dining room. I've got to find out what those birds were doing," he said, wavering as if about to turn back. He was between love and duty and didn't realize it.

"I imagine they're going to bed," she declared, noncommittally. "I heard them saying good-nights."

"Oh! Say—what's the rush?" He started after her again.

"Don't you like to walk at night?" she asked demurely.

"Sure. But I don't like to walk away from anything." He was still undecided as to what to do.

While Brown was trying to make up his mind, Strunsky slipped from the window and headed in the opposite direction, saying to Ferdinand as he left:

"I shall see you at my villa at Gray in the morning."

Helen sought the spot where she had ridden into Brown on her bicycle. He capitulated, followed her, caught up with her. She told him that she liked him—that she was glad he was an American—and that she was homesick. Obviously, she was thinking that on the morrow she would be a queen, even though she didn't relish the task. Then she said:

"Isn't it fun—to be foolish—and forget—even for a little while?"

Her strange attitude puzzled him. He looked at her sharply.

SOW FARROWS 20 PIGS

DALHART. (P)—Several weeks ago The Associated Press carried a story that despite the AAA and other government curtailment programs, a Chester White sow belonging to J. G. Jenkins, living near Dalhart, had farrowed 20 pigs. Jenkins says he has had letters from persons all over the country wanting to buy a pair of the pigs in an effort to produce similar phenomenal litters.

in a fairy tale—"

She drew away from him. Her hands went to her bosom.

"A princess—am I really?" she demanded, haltingly.

Tears welled in her eyes. She raised one hand to her face, not realizing that all this time she had been clutching a ticket envelope marked "Eastern Express." He saw the writing.

"You're going away?" he asked, feeling an unexplainable tug at his heart.

"Yes." For a moment sadness possessed her.

"When?" he pressed.

"I won't answer! You're spoiling our lovely fairy tale!" she exclaimed as she fought her way back to a carefree attitude.

Again he took her in his arms, kissed her passionately. She withdrew from his arms and stepped quickly to the French window.

"Good-bye, Prince—" The words to him were like caresses.

"See you in the morning," he answered. "Night, Princess."

"Good-bye!" she said, slowly. For her there was something terribly final in that word. She quickly passed into the room through the window and closed it behind her. He looked after her, puzzled and dismayed by that last sombre word of farewell.

The next morning, he failed to find her. Discovering he had lost track of Archduke Ferdinand, too, he was thoroughly discouraged. He boarded a plane for Paris. He walked into the Paris offices of the United Press just as Marshall was talking over the radio telephone with Hardwick in New York.

Marshall turned to him, a frown on his face.

"Take the phone," he ordered brusquely. "It's Hardwick. He's crying."

"I always walk in when things are getting hot," Brown replied. Then, into the phone: "Hello, Hardy!"

"What about Archduke Ferdinand?" was his chief's harsh query.

"Riding a bicycle over the Alps," retorted Brown.

"Don't wisecrack. Have you read the morning papers?"

"Just landed here," said Brown, weakly, realizing that he had been scooped, probably by Briggs.

"Well, read them!" Hardwick hung up.

Brown replaced the instrument and turned to Marshall, a panic-stricken expression on his pale face.

"What's in the morning papers?" he asked, fearing the worst.

"Nothing—except that Briggs has found out that your 'Jane Hamilton' is the Princess Helen—that's all!" rasped Marshall.

The Paris manager elaborated

IRAAN PLAYS AT ODESSA SUNDAY

ODESSA.—The first official league game of the season to be played in Odessa will be played on the local diamond, Sunday afternoon, when the Oilers entertain the Iraan Braves, a team which is now acted as one of the strongest in the league. The visitors are the team who defeated McCamey last Sunday by a score of 5 to 3.

The game here is expected to attract wide attention over the league territory, as a victory would give Odessa a jump in the first half of the pennant race, according to the dope.

Bill Collins of McCamey, president of the Permian Basin league, is offering a cup to the town which has the largest crowd at the opening league game at home. Although Wink, Midland and McCamey drew large crowds on their opening games last week, the game here Sunday is expected by many to draw a gate that will bring the cup to Odessa.

Iraan will undoubtedly pitch Smith, the righthander who served them so well in last week's game. He is expected to try the heavy artillery of the Oilers, which includes a majority of left-handed batters. Lefty Briggs, veteran southpaw, will have to do a solo on the mound for Odessa, since Kip Hinson, the only other Oiler moundman, is laid up with a bad ankle, due to an injury received during the Wink fracas, last Sunday.

"Cross Country Cruise" Plays at Yucca Saturday

DALHART. (P).—For 28 years the Rev. George W. Bryant, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, Texline, has been urging the pioneer sons and daughters of the Upper Texas Panhandle "to hit the sawdust trail" and he'll be doing it as long as strength lasts, he declares.

Although he has not held charges in every Panhandle county, he has preached in all, completing the circuit 12 years ago with sermons in Ochiltree and Hansford counties. He has preached from the Oklahoma line south to Ford and Wilbarger counties and spanned the Panhandle from east to west. In all his ministry he has been out of the Panhandle only once, that being at Throckmorton. His first charge was Umbarger mission, 10 miles west of Canyon, where he traveled about with a horse and buggy.

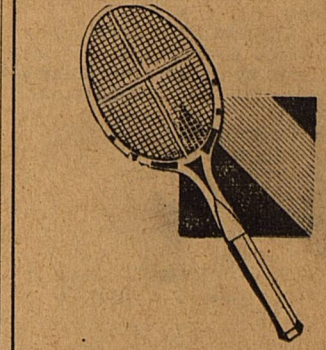

He was born at Ft. Payne, Ala., Nov. 18, 1879, but was brought to Texas when less than a year old, settling March 11, 1880, at Bryson, Jack county. In all his charges he has been not only pastor but an aggressive civic leader as well. This was demonstrated in his work as chairman of the newly-organized Texline civic club which reached a membership of more than 80 members in less than a month.
