Nixon Pardon Stirs Protests

Southern Governors Talk Energy

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southern governors took sharp issue today with Washington's handling of the energy crisis.

"As a governor I am entirely dissatisfied with the approach of Congress and the federal administration to our energy problems," said West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore Jr., Republican, at the opening session of the governors' conference.

"We have learned that you are not going to talk our energy problems away but that apparently is what the federal establishment is trying to do," he said.

Moore, who is a strong supporter of coal as an anergy source, said the conference would be offered a "strong" policy statement on the energy crisis.

Earlier, during the opening panel on power and energy, the Democratic Texas governor and senator expressed similar views.

Several other governors criticized the federal government informally. Federal Power Commssioner Don Smith told the governors in a speech that natural gas curtailments and the threatened coal miners strike are the greatest energy problems faced by the South.

"Generally, the situation is that next winter you are going to pay more for less," he said.

"The most serious potential electric power problem facing your states is the pending mine workers' strike," Smith told the governors. "Coal is a significant source of fuel in all but the western-most part of the Southern Governors Conference region."

The United Mine Workers contract expires at midnight Nov. 12.

"If the strike continues beyond the end of February, it is likely that by that time most coal-burning utilities in the South will be employing stringent load-reduction measures," Smith predicted. "The magnitude of the energy deficiency in the event of an extended coal strike is such that inter-regional transfers of electric energy cannot affect the overall situation."

Smith said that, based on major interstate pipeline reports, "we can see that natural gas curtailments presently anticipated will be about 81 per cent greater for the winter heating season. To compensate for the natural gas shortfall, the oil equivalent is about 330 million barrels."

The commissioner said the FPC has set general priorities of curtailment but "we have encouraged pipeline companies to modify their curtailment priorities to respond to emergency situations.

"In Texas and throughout the rest of the Southwest, where natural gas has been a major fuel source of electric utilities, increased gas curtailments are putting increased regional pressure on an already-strained oil supply and increased bills on strained consumer pockets."

The governors heard a report from the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board (SINB) recommending continuation of the

Surprise Action Shatters Accord On Capitol Hill

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—President Ford today encountered the first signs of public protest over his unconditional pardon of Richard M. Nixon, a surprise move that pushed his young administration into the backwash of Watergate.

"The honeymoon is over," one sign proclaimed in red letters as Ford arrived at a downtown hotel for a speech to an urban transportation conference.

His pardon for Nixon on Sunday ruptured his rapport with Congress and sparked the protest resignation of a top aide.

More than a dozen signs protesting the Nixon pardon were sprinkled through a crowd of more than 500 persons who waited on the sidewalk for Ford's arrival.

Signs Demand Amnesty

Several of the signs demanded amnesty for Vietnam draft resisters and Nixon top aides.

"There is law, no justice. Pardon all criminals," said one sign. "No pardon, Nixon trial 'first,'" said another, and one said "Okay Jerry, now pardon war resisters."

Newsmen a few feet from Ford heard no booing or catcalls as the President shook hands with those along the rope barriers. The crowd applauded as he passed.

Presidential advisers in Washington were assessing the probable political damage from Ford's disclosure of a "free, full and absolute" pardon for Nixon for any criminal conduct during his presidency.

Nixon Statement

The pardon was followed within minutes by a Nixon statement of remorse at "my mistakes over Watergate."

And, in the enusing hours, there were these major disclosures and developments:

—Jerald F. terHorst, a close Ford friend and adviser, quit as White House press secretary, saying, "Mercy, like justice, must . . . be even-handed" and "I couldn't in good conscience support the President's decision . . . even though I knew he took that action in good conscience."

Congressional Dismay

—Many Democrats and some Republicans in Congress voiced dismay at the pardon, contending it set a double standard of justice. But other Republicans, including Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, hailed it as an act of compassion and courage.

—Lawyers for former Nixon aides and associates began reshaping their strategy for the Watergate cover-up trial, and at least one defendant, H.R. Haldeman, planned new efforts to delay the trial now set to begin Sept. 30.

—Ford aides made public an agreement they had reached with Nixon to preserve his White House files for at least three years for possible court

Retired Justice Hamilton Dedicates New Courthouse

By JOE GORDON

Robert W. Hamilton of Tyler, a retired justice of the Supreme Court of Texas and a former district judge for Midland County, praised the persons responsible for the remodeling of the courthouse in making the dedication speech this morning.

Judge Hamilton directed much of his praise to the Midland County voters for voting the funds which made the remodeling and expansion work possible.

In speaking of the times when he served as a judge here, Hamilton said no keys were needed for your homes then, but now you can't go off and leave your house unlocked. "I would like to see it return to that way of life," he pointed out.

Perry D. Pickett, judge of the 142nd District Court here, introduced Hamilton.

Praises Women Officials

Hamilton praised the women officials in the courthouse by saying that out of the eight offices, five are held by women.

"I don't know of any women's liberation here. These women got their office on merit only," he said.

Calling Midland, "the greatest town I've ever lived in," Hamilton urged the citizens of Midland County to back their elected officials.

Joe Bill Pierce of Pierce, Pace, Dixon and Staley Architects of Midland and Wichita Falls, architects for the building, introduced members of his firm.

County Judge Barbara Culver, who served as master of ceremonies for the dedication, told the crowd of approximately 150 persons present that a Dec. 7, 1930, copy of The Midland Reporter-Telegram telling of the Crowd Boos, Hurls Fruit At Kennedy

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy was booed and splattered with a rotten tomato here today when he tried to address a group protesting a court-ordered integration plan for Boston schools.

The Massachusetts Democrat mounted a platform in front of the John F. Kennedy building in government center and tried to speak.

Drowned out by boos, chants and calls to "Impeach Kennedy," The senator left the platform and went into the building, making his way through the jeering crowd which surged toward the building and broke a plate glass window after he was inside.

The crowd, estimated at 10,000, first gathered on the Boston Common, near the state house, then marched through the downtown area, past the post office where U.S. District Court Judge Arthur Garrity has offices. They chanted, "Garrity must go."

Garrity has ordered the integration of Boston schools, which open Thursday.

INCLUDING AT LEAST 17 AMERICANS—

88 Aboard Die In TWA Jet Crash

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — All 88 persons aboard a TWA jetliner that crashed Sunday in the Ionian sea are believed dead. At least 17 of the 79 passengers and some of the nine crew members were Americans.

The Boeing 707 jet was en route from Tel Aviv to Los Angeles with stops in Athens, Rome and New York. It plunged into a stormy sea 60 miles west of Kefallinia Island 40 minutes after leaving Athens.

By early today, 18 hours after the crash, seven bodies had been recovered by the crew of a Greek freighter, the first ship to reach the scene.

A telephone caller in Beirut reported that an organization called the Nationalist Youth for the Liberation of Palestine had sabotaged the plane. But the Palestine Liberation Organization, the umbrella group for the major guerrilla organizations, said the call was a hoax and a "Zionist fiction" to discredit the Palestinian cause.

One Engine On Fire

The Greek merchant marine ministry said an Alitalia plane reported seeing the 707 "plunging steeply into the sea with one engine on fire" shortly before noon. Search pilots flying over the site soon after said all they saw were "remnants of wreckage and bodies floating on the surface."

TWA officials said 49 of the passengers aboard boarded at Tel Aviv and another 30 got on in Athens. It said 17 of those who boarded in Israel were Americans, including one infant, but the nationalities of the Athens passengers were not reported.

Two of the American passengers were Frederick B. Hare of Raritan, N.J., and his wife Margaret. Hare, vice chairman of a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson, had been in the Middle East on business.

TWA said the members of the flight crew were Capt. Don H. Holliday, First Officer John L. Cheshire and Flight Engineer Ralph H. Bosh and that they were based at New York's Kennedy Airport. It said six of the cabin attendants were based in Rome and the other in Hong Kong.

The Greek civil aviation authority said the sea and air search was made more difficult by high winds and stormy seas.

The TWA office in Tel Aviv said the pilot radioed shortly before the crash that one of his four engines had failed. TWA's Rome office said the plane's last radio contact was with the airport on Corfu, about 100 miles north of the crash site.

Hurricane Sputters Out Over Texas

Fading vestiges of once mighty Hurricane Carmen kicked up a wet rumpus in parts of Texas today although the big storm had sputtered out and dispersed before noon.

National Weather Service observers said the disturbance could be expected to touch off as much as three inches of rain in Northeast Texas.

Warm Days, Cool Nights

The National Weather Service at Midland Air Terminal forecast a high temperature near 90 this afternoon, with continuing clear to partly cloudy sky conditions over the Tall City.

Nighttime temperatures will dip into the upper 50s, but the high Tuesday should be in the lower 90s.

Midland's high Sunday was 90 and this morning's low was 58.

Rainfall was widespread over East Texas during the night and edging into neighboring sections of Central Texas.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported expremely low tides caused a number of small boats to run aground Sunday in the Galveston area.

A Coast Guard vessel rescued three men, a woman and a baby from a pleasure craft stranded on a sand bank in four-foot deep water just west of Pelican Island.

North winds increased over the central portions of the state

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has postponed indefinitely his decision on conditional amnesty for Vietnamese-era deserters and draft resisters because he was involved in pardon negotiations for former President Richard M. Nixon, a White House spokesman said today.

HOUSTON (AP) —District Judge William M. Hatton disposed of all pretrial motions and set procedures for a sanity trial Nov. 4 for David Owen Brooks, accused in the Houston mass murder case.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — President Ford said today that the energy crisis has made it clear that the nation must give high priority to building mass transit systems that people want to use.

White House Press Secretary TerHorst Quits Post Abruptly

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst has resigned abruptly, saying his credibility as spokesman for President Ford was irrevocably tarnished in the pardoning of Richard M. Nixon.

"The President acted in good conscience and I also found it necessary to resign in good conscience," terHorst said later. He told Ford he was quitting shortly before the President announced the pardon Sunday.

TerHorst will be succeeded at least temporarily by John W. Hushen, who becomes acting press secretary. Hushen, 38, who had been top spokesman at the Justice Department for four years, joined the White House press office three weeks ago as deputy to terHorst.

Hushen, like terHorst a former Detroit News reporter, said he did not disagree with Ford on the pardon. He said, "I personally think he did the right thing."

TerHorst, 52, a veteran Washington newsman whose career has been intertwined with Ford's off and on since 1948, was not consulted about the pardon. White House sources said he learned of it Saturday when it came time to prepare for a public announcement of Ford's surprise decision.

TerHorst said he did not use threats of his resignation in any effort to dissuade Ford.

In a telephone interview from his Alexandria, Va., home, terHorst said his conscience told him it was unfair for Nixon to be pardoned while his former subordinates continue to be prosecuted for Watergate-related crimes.

"Mercy, like justice, must also be even-handed," terHorst said.

Some Watergate figures are already in jail, others are under indictment and "their repu-

Panel 'Peeling' A Disappointment

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My parents bought a new 30-inch range to replace a 36-inch stove and now the white laminated, plastic wall (a best known brand) back of it is stained. They tried various cleaners but the paneling just peeled off so we need some ideas. — Ms.C.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the current practice of supermarkets advertising meats at a sale price and then when you go to buy it find it packaged in such large quantities that a single package costs several dollars. Unless one has a freezer or a large family it is not feasible to buy such large quantities. How discouraging this must be for the elderly and those living alone to find the large packages are not within their limited budgets. — MRS. H.W.

DEAR POLLY — I have help for Mrs. K.F. who sought a recipe for treating materials so they would be flame resistant. Mix nine ounces borax, 4 ounces boric acid and a gallon of water. Dip fabric in solution, wring by hand and let dry. — MRS. C.W.

DEAR GIRLS — Several readers recommended this same solution. Of course, such a treatment must be repeated after each washing and the fabric is put in the solution DRY. Remember, too, this is to make an article (not a Christmas tree) fire resistant, not fireproof. A fire prevention authority I talked with says they no longer recommend this, as they formerly did, as there are commercial products (look in the yellow pages of the phone book) that do a better job. It also was suggested that should one want to use this it is well to take a piece of the fabric, treat with the solution and when dry carefully hold a lighted match to it to see the results. I also was told the fabric will doubtless be stiff and feel clammy to the otuch so would not be good for clothing but only draperies, etc. A trial run might bring one to the decision that it is not worth the time and energy required.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Keep a magnifying glass handy in your car's glove compartment. You will find it is useful for reading small print or maps when on a trip.

To keep short stemmed flowers neatly arranged float a lacy plastic doily in the container of water and poke the stems through the holes in the design. — MRS. R.L.

DEAR POLLY — A beautician neighbor gave me the following money-saving idea. Try mixing your shampoo with equal parts of water. They are now so concentrated that we usually use more than is needed. By diluting we can use and afford any desired brand. I think this lathers more and rinses out easier. — ALICE.

We're building power plants that use different fuels so you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Natural gas is the major fuel we use in our generating plants, and will be for several years. Oil is used on a standby basis.

But new supplies of these fuels are extremely difficult to obtain and increasingly expensive. To reduce our dependence on them, we've begun using lignite coal. We now have one lignite plant in operation, and two others under construction.

We have adequate supplies of lignite for the operating life of these plants and for some additional planned units. Even so, we will need another dependable fuel source for the future. That's why we're planning to have a nuclear-fueled plant in operation by 1980.

The use of lignite and nuclear fuels is necessary to provide enough electricity in the years ahead. Supplies of these fuels are more abundant and neither is being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

But building plants that use these fuels is a difficult and expensive job. Lignite and nuclear plants cost much more to build than gas/oil plants. While this means electricity will have to cost more in the future, the cost won't be as much with lignite and nuclear fuels as it would be with natural gas and oil, even if adequate new supplies were available.

We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Pardon Climaxes 10 Days Of Secrecy-Shrouded Deals

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a process shrouded in secrecy, 10 days of deliberations and negotiations that spanned the continent.

It ended when President Ford signed with a felt-tipped pen the proclamation pardoning Richard M. Nixon "for all offenses against the United States" during the 5½ years of his presidency.

Ford had set the pardon machinery in motion on Aug. 30 when he asked White House counsel Philip Buchen to determine the answers to two questions: Was there any precedent for granting pardon in advance of any indictment or conviction, and how long would any criminal proceedings against Nixon continue?

Buchen worked through the Labor Day weekend, researching the law on the precedent question and conferring with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski about the duration of any proceedings.

Jaworski, who directed the grand jury that already had named Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, responded with a memo suggesting that jury selection in any Nixon trial, assuming the grand jury eventually indicted the former president, would be delayed for "nine months to a year and perhaps longer" because of unprecedented publicity in the case.

The memo was sent to Ford, who never talked directly to Jaworski, according to Buchen. Jaworski said later he was not consulted specifically about the pardon decision.

Just two days before Ford ordered Buchen to gear up the pardon machinery, the President had told his first White House news conference that while he shared "the general view and point of view of the American people" that Nixon be spared prosecution, he had made no decision on the pardon possibility.

It is unclear what led Ford to change his mind so completely and so quickly. White House officials weren't saying.

However, some Ford aides say the President's concern grew about Nixon's health as reports circulated that the threat of prosecution was gradually eating away at the former President's peace of mind as he sought tranquility at his San Clemente, Calif., estate. In addition, there were suggestions that Ford had become concerned that action on a pardon might be more difficult and controversial if delayed.

Ford expressed concern about Nixon's health when he made his dramatic pardon announcement.

One source said the White House was sufficiently disturbed about Nixon's health that former press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, with Nixon in San Clemente, was contacted last week and asked about Nixon's situation.

The source quoted Ziegler as saying there had been no change in Nixon's health.

On the other hand, a man who has seen Nixon in the last four days described him as having aged considerably since his resignation.

Whatever inspired Ford's decision, the execution was swift in coming.

Last Thursday, Ford tentatively decided to grant a pardon and he dispatched Washington attorney Benton Becker to San Clemente to relay the news.

Becker also was to complete negotiations for an agreement including access to Nixon's White House files during the next three years for possible use in Watergate prosecutions.

White House officials later insisted that the pardon was not connected with the agreement or with any statement of contrition on Nixon's part. But one official conceded that Ford knew "in a general way" what Nixon would say after the pardon was signed.

Becker, a partner in the law firm that handles Ford's personal legal work, flew to San Clemente Thursday night. There he met with Herbert J. Miller Jr., another Washington lawyer, who recently was retained as Nixon's defense counsel.

Becker carried a draft of the pardon and, after first conferring with Ziegler, he met Friday with Nixon and showed him the draft. Becker later described Nixon as "friendly and courteous and thoughtful."

By Saturday, Ford had made a firm decision to grant pardon and he assigned his speech writers to begin work on the pardon proclamation. He also informed his press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, to make arrangements for the Sunday announcement. TerHorst said word of the pardon was kept from him until Saturday.

On Sunday, 30 minutes before Ford made the pardon announcement terHorst met privately with Ford, a long-time friend from Michigan, and told him he was resigning because of the pardon decision.

Ford's Action Apparently Spells End Of Honeymoon

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
(An AP News Analysis)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's congressional and political honeymoon appears to have ended with his pardon of Richard M. Nixon, a decision that revived the Watergate issue and complicated the campaign for Republican candidates this fall.

Ford said he acted to write "the end" to Watergate, but the immediate reaction was a rekindled debate over the scandal and the propriety of an advance and absolute pardon for his resigned predecessor.

The prompt resignation of Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst, who as Ford's first appointee was a symbol of his pledge of an open atmosphere at the White House, underscored the controversy. TerHorst said he could not in good conscience accept the decision on Nixon, particularly while former officials of lesser rank face prison or trial.

That judgment from a member of the Ford inner circle seemed certain to heighten criticism of the pardon the President granted Sunday.

There was praise from many Republicans, including GOP congressional leaders. But there also was substantial Republican criticism, along with general Democratic protest against the Ford move.

However sharp the immediate criticism, in the long run Ford may have acted at a relatively opportune time in taking a step he seemed likely to take eventually.

Ford's unprecedented move came two months before congressional elections in which it is sure to be an issue and may prove an added burden for Republican candidates already facing questionable prospects.

But it also comes two years before the 1976 presidential campaign in which Ford, the first president to hold office without election, is expected to be a candidate. Had the Nixon case dragged on, it could have proved even more troublesome later.

Much of the initial criticism of Ford came from Democrats and liberal Republicans who ultimately could have found themselves at odds with the President whenever the honeymoon phase ended.

The pardon hastened that process. It may have an impact on other areas, too.

Ford's announced intention of attaching conditions, such as alternative service, to his proposal for amnesty for draft resisters and deserters may run into the criticism that Nixon was pardoned without conditions.

In Congress, Democrats already had started to criticize Ford for inaction in dealing with economic problems. They almost certainly will step that up against the President, who now seems more vulnerable to criticism.

Another imponderable is Nixon himself.

Although the former President went further Sunday than ever before in admitting Watergate wrongdoing, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., expressed the view that Nixon backers might now step up their contention that he was hounded unfairly out of office.

That theme would certainly stir new controversy and could prove embarrassing for Ford's efforts to put the Watergate issue into the history books.

Nixon Admits Watergate Mistakes, Misjudgments

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, newly immune from Watergate prosecution, admits he made "mistakes and misjudgments" in handling the scandal.

"That the way I tried to deal with Watergate was the wrong way is a burden I shall bear for every day of the life that is left to me," Nixon said Sunday of the scandal that shadowed his administration for two years and led to his resignation.

The former chief executive made his remarks in a statement released less than 10 minutes after President Ford announced he had granted Nixon full pardon for any offense he may have committed in the White House.

"In accepting this pardon, I hope that his compassionate act will contribute to lifting the burden of Watergate from our country," Nixon said.

"Looking back on what is still in my mind a complex and confusing maze of events, decisions, pressures and personalities, one thing I can see more clearly now is that I was wrong in not acting more decisively and more forthrightly in dealing with Watergate, particularly when it grew from a political scandal into a national tragedy.

"I know that many fair-minded people believe that my motivations and actions in the Watergate affair were intentionally self-serving and illegal. I now understand how my own mistakes and misjudgments have contributed to that belief and seemed to support it. That burden is the heaviest one of all to bear," he said.

Nixon said, "Here in California, my perspective on Watergate is quite different than it was while I was embattled in the midst of the controversy, and while I was still subject to the unrelenting daily demands of the presidency itself.

"No words can describe the depths of my regret and pain at the anguish my mistakes over Watergate have caused the nation and the presidency — a nation I so deeply love and an institution I so greatly respect."

Bride Sees Ad For Gift She Returned

DEAR ABBY: Chester and I were recently married. We received a lovely pewter bowl and matching candlesticks from Cindy and Paul, who are close friends. They came from Cindy's father's jewelry store and looked very expensive. Chester and I are furnishing our apartment in English country, but this gift is ultramodern and would never go with our decorating scheme. Rather than bury it in a cupboard, I called Cindy and told her the truth. She seemed to appreciate my frankness and said: "I will pick it up tomorrow."

She picked it up and seemed pleasant enough, but imagine how we felt when a few days later the following ad appeared in the local paper:

"Will sell at a sacrifice, returned wedding gift of Chester and Yvonne Douglas. Beautiful modern pewter bowl and matching candlesticks. Cost $70, will sell for $35." Then the name of Cindy's father's jewelry store.

Chester and I are so humiliated, we can't hold our heads up. This Canadian city is buzzing.

Do you think we were wrong in being so candid about the gift? And what do you think of people who would do a thing like that?

MAPLE LEAF READERS

DEAR READERS: Obviously you should not have been so candid with Cindy and Paul. They showed a shocking lack of taste in placing such an ad in the newspaper. Don't worry about the "talk." It will be about the tastelessness of your friends — not you!

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a 27-year-old man who refused to speak to — or even recognize — any member of his immediate family on his own wedding day?

When his aunt tried to congratulate him, he turned away, saying, "Don't get lipstick on me." (The only words he spoke to any of us all day!)

I was so disgusted that instead of going to the reception I changed my clothes, went downtown and returned the wedding gift I had bought for the couple. But then, I am only his mother.

HURT

DEAR HURT: The bridegroom could have been understandably uptight, nervous or preoccupied. And you could have been understandably sensitive and emotional. This would have been a good time for charity and restraint on both your parts.

DEAR ABBY: I was happy the councilman in my area voted against those kooks who wanted to go around naked on the beaches near where I live.

What's the matter with people today, anyway? Are they trying to make a big nudist colony out of our country? Don't we have enough trouble without letting those perverts and sex maniacs take off their clothes and run naked?

How do you stand?

DISGUSTED IN VENICE, CALIF.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Clothed. But nudity has little to do with immoral behavior. There are nudist camps for entire families, and there is nothing "immoral" about them.

Nixon Pardon Ends Ford-Capitol Hill Honeymoon

use. But the agreement allows the former President to destroy any White House tape recordings after September 1979.

Although Ford's announcement caught the capital and the country by surprise, sources said it had been preceded by 10 days of legal deliberations and negotiations with Nixon and special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

It also represented a reversal of Ford's previous public statements. During his vice presidential confirmation hearings Ford said, "I do not think the public would stand for" such a pardon. And at a news conference Aug. 28 he said it would be "unwise and untimely" for him to commit himself until "any legal process has been undertaken" against Nixon.

White House counsel Philip Buchen said Nixon faced likely indictment prior to the pardon. He said it was granted without strings attached, but acknowledged Ford knew in advance the gist of Nixon's follow-up statement.

Three hours after he knelt in prayer at early morning communion services, Ford summoned a television crew and a few newsmen into his Oval Office to announce the pardon prohibiting any federal criminal prosecution of Nixon "for all offenses against the United States" during his 2,027 days in office.

"I feel that Richard Nixon and his loved ones have suffered enough," Ford said, speaking slowly and glancing often at a 950-word statement.

"My conscience tells me clearly and certainly that I cannot prolong the bad dreams that continue to reopen a chapter that is closed. My conscience tells me that only I, as President, have the constitutional power to firmly shut and seal this book."

He said it is "common knowledge that serious allegations and accusations hang like a sword over our former president's head and threaten his health as he tries to reshape his life. . . ."

As Ford delivered his decision, his spokesman-for-a-month stood in the rear of the Oval Office, grim-faced and silent. Later it was learned that a half-hour prior to the statement, terHorst, 52, had told Ford he was resigning.

"It was . . . after a great deal of soul searching that I decided I couldn't in good conscience support the President's decision . . . even though I knew he took that action in good conscience," terHorst said Sunday night in an interview with The Associated Press.

He noted that former Nixon aides are either in prison or under indictment for Watergate-related offenses and added: "Mercy, like justice, must also be even-handed."

"I knew my credibility would be difficult to sustain . . . in the absence of a like decision to grant mercy to persons of lesser stations in life."

John Hushen, 38, hired by terHorst last month as his deputy, was named acting press secretary.

Ford said in a statement issued by the White House press office Sunday night that he deeply regretted terHorst's resignation but "I understand his position."

Democrats led the parade of congressmen disagreeing with Ford's action, and they were joined by some Republicans.

". . . A serious mistake," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. "It raises very real questions . . . about whether we have a double standard of justice in this country."

". . . A dangerous precedent," said Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

Several Senate Republicans joined in the criticism, among them Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland, Lowell P. Weicker of Connecticut, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey and Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania.

But some prominent Democrats, notably Sens. John C. Stennis and James O. Eastland of Mississippi, said Ford took the correct action. And leading Republicans rallied to his defense.

"It was a courageous decision," said Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott.

". . . It was the only decent and prudent course to follow," said Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Response Divided On Decision

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Democrats and some Republicans have protested President Ford's decision to pardon former President Richard M. Nixon, saying it will be seen as evidence of a double standard of justice.

Others, in and out of government, praised the pardon described by GOP leaders as a presidential act of compassion, humanity and courage.

The divided response to the pardon that Ford granted Sunday signaled a rekindling of the debate about Watergate justice.

While Senate leaders were divided in their opinions, many others in and out of government said Sunday they disapproved of the decision.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said "it was a courageous decision that may very well be controversial." He said Ford acted "with great humanity."

But Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said Ford's action "sets a double standard, one standard for the former President of the United States and another standard for everybody else."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, said Ford told him of his plans prior to the announcement. "It would be easy for me to criticize the President's judgment," Mansfield said. "I will not do it."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., praised the decision as "right," was for an easy one but in my opinion it was the only decent and prudent course to follow."

Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller said the pardon was "an act of compassion and courage" that, while controversial, "will speed the healing of our nation."

Leon Jaworski, the current special Watergate prosecutor, said: "This is a matter that was decided upon by the President on his authority under the Constitution. It was something I didn't participate in."

James D. Fellers, president of the American Bar Association, said he was concerned about whether Nixon could have received a fair trial, if indicted, because the publicity surrounding his resignation may have prejudiced a jury.

"Then again, I strongly believe he should be treated like anyone else, that he's certainly not above the law," Fellers said in Oklahoma City.

Martha Mitchell, the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, another Watergate cover-up defendant, said: "I don't believe in pardoning one person and not pardoning everybody else — especially when they're the ones that did the dirty work for him (Nixon)."

The Rev. Billy Graham, a long-time friend of Nixon's, said Ford, acting "with decisiveness, courage and compassion . . . has saved the country from the emotional division and agony that would have further weakened America at home and abroad."

Rabbi Baruch Korff, one of the former president's most outspoken defenders, said "President Ford has exercised his responsibility toward his predecessor as well as to the American people. . . ."

The decision was criticized by Joseph Rauh, vice president of the Americans for Democratic Action, who said it was "a continuation of the Watergate cover-up."

Texas Reaction On Partisan Lines

By The Associated Press

Texas political figures voiced mixed and sometimes caustic reaction to President Ford's disclosure of a full pardon Sunday for former President Nixon.

And usually but not unfailingly they were divided along partisan lines.

Robert Strauss of Dallas, the national Democratic chairman, branded the pardon "premature and almost capricious," also saying, "Probably few Americans wanted to see the former President go to jail, but most Americans wanted the process of justice to produce facts of guilt or innocence."

Sen. Lloyd M. Benston, chairman of the Senate's Democratic campaign committee, called the move a disturbing precedent and also said, "I think history should record whether this man was guilty or not. I think we should have something in the judicial process which shows whether he's guilty or not."

Texas Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe, currently host to the Southern Governors Conference at a resort near Austin, declined to say whether he supported Ford's decision to grant the pardon. In response to questions, Briscoe added, "I'm not going to second guess the President right now with the limited information I have."

Opposing viewpoints were voiced by two Republican congressmen from Dallas.

"Rep. Allan Steelman said, 'The President has the power to pardon, but it was bad judgment to do so in advance of charges being heard. I had hoped charges would be brought, if necessary, go to trial and U.S. District Judge John Sirica would have found some grounds to be lenient.'"

Rep. Jim Collins, in a different tack, endorsed the pardon. He said, "It was a logical decision because there was no way under American principle of justice an impartial jury could ever have been selected."

A Democratic congressman, Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney, observed that Nixon had suffered from the Watergate consequences. "But if Ford is going to pardon (Nixon)," he went on, "then other people involved are going to have to be pardoned, and that's certainly not going to be a welcome example."

Martha Mitchell Vents Bitterness At Nixon Pardon

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Martha Mitchell, declaring her bitterness about President Ford's pardon of former President Richard Nixon, said Sunday she believed the whole thing had been prearranged before Nixon left office.

"I knew Nixon had something up his sleeve when he left the White House," said the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Mrs. Mitchell said she was sure a deal had been arranged before Nixon resigned. Other [illegible] Mrs. Ford [illegible] White House [illegible] spoke [illegible].

She was interviewed separately by television Station KATV and radio Station KARN both of Little Rock, while visiting a cousin, Ray West of Pine Bluff, at his Lake Hamilton condominium near here.

Saying she was vehement about the pardon, Mrs. Mitchell declared, "Nixon's just as guilty and responsible as anybody else, and it's a horrible, horrible thing. I don't feel sorry for him or his family either because they're too stupid to know what they're doing."

Referring to others involved in the Watergate burglary and cover-up, she said, "I think we should have amnesty completely across the board."

tations and families also have been injured," he said.

"I knew my credibility would be difficult to sustain . . . in the absence of a like decision to grant mercy to persons of lesser stations in life," terHorst said.

Ford issued a statement saying "I appreciate the fact that good people will differ with me on this very difficult decision.

"I deeply regret Jerry terHorst's resignation," Ford said. "I understand his position."

During his tenure as press secretary, terHorst won the praise of White House newsmen for speaking in simple declarative sentences and attempting to give reporters regular access to Ford's staff.

When Ford persuaded terHorst to turn in his press card and become at least an interim press secretary, the Grand Rapids, Mich., native was Washington bureau chief of the News. He was then about to start the final chapter of a biography of Ford, a book soon to be published.

terHorst has said he was on leave of absence from the News and had not made a final break from 31 years as a newspaperman.

He was the first man named to the new White House staff under Ford.

as the rains spread. The weather remained fair over West Texas and the south part of South Central Texas.

Conditions were expected to stay about the same in all sections into Tuesday.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 55 degrees at Lubbock and 57 at Dalhart in the Panhandle-Plains sector up to 72 at Longview and Tyler in East Texas. Sunday's top marks went as high as 96 at Brownsville, McAllen and El Paso. The Associated Press reported.

Energy On Governors' Agenda

board for another year, including its environmental surveillance and monitoring test and its study of radioactive wastes.

In welcoming the governors, Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe said "The Southern Governors Conference has always been a symbol of the unity of our states and of their joint determination to meet these challenges by consulting and working together in the public interest."

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., agreed with Briscoe that Washington is doing less than it should toward reaching the goals of national self sufficiency in energy.

Since last year's conference, Briscoe said, "increased exploration and production has occurred more in spite of national policy rather than because of it."

"While increased oil prices have caused a number of oil discovery wells to jump 25 per cent this year in Texas, talk of ending the depletion allowance and enacting the so-called 'excess profits' tax, along with the continued control of 'old oil' and natural gas at unrealistically low prices has retarded what could have been an even larger upswing," Briscoe said.

Bentsen said 90 per cent of the discovery wells drilled in Texas this year have been drilled "by independents who have no affiliation at all" with the majors.

He also criticized Export-Import Bank subsidation of exports of oilwell drilling pipe to foreign countries, including Arab oil producers who imposed an embargo on oil shipments to the United States last summer. Drilling pipe has been in short supply in this country.

"It is time to decide whose country comes first," said Bentsen, who has been mentioned, particularly in the South, as a potential contender for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

At noon, National Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss asked the 12 Democratic Southern governors to meet and talk about the December mini-convention of the national party.

"The basic issues before the conference are the same as those facing the nation today," Gov. Melvin H. Evans of the Virgin Islands, conference chairman, said Sunday in preconference activities.

"The dilemma we find ourselves in is that what may be good for inflation may not be good for unemployment."

About 1,000 persons including most of the governors from the 17 states and the Virgin Islands composing the Southern Governors Conference met at Lakeway, a luxury resort, 25 miles northwest of Austin on Lake Travis. Governors and most of their staffs were housed in two-to-four bedroom condominiums at Lakeway's World of Tennis, where former Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally has a resort home.

A stern ring of security, manned by Texas Rangers, highway patrolmen, National Guardsmen, and private security guards was drawn around the scenic hill country along the lake. There will be no public sessions of the conference.

Much of the preconference talk Sunday was about President Ford's full pardon to former President Richard Nixon.

Nixon May Make $32 Million For His Memoirs

NEW YORK (AP) — Literary agent Irving Lazar says he will negotiate the sale of former President Nixon's memoirs, and he predicts the ex-chief executive will make more than $32 million from sales of the book.

"I think he's going to tell one of the great stories of all time," Lazar said Sunday in a telephone interview. "After all, he's the only man in the world who really knows what happened about Watergate.

"His book will be candid, honest and honorable about the events of Watergate," added Lazar. "It will be a true, historical portrayal, especially of the great things he has done in the quest for peace."

Lazar said Nixon authorized him to negotiate the sale during a three-hour meeting at San Clemente, Calif., on Aug. 31.

Texas Has No Beauty Queen Now

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas had no Miss Texas today although the new Miss America is a Texan.

Crowning of Shirley Jean Cothran, the former Miss Texas, as Miss America Saturday night left the state with no reigning beauty titlist.

The Miss Texas first runner-up, Becky Bloomer, would ordinarily move up to fill Miss Cothran's role as Miss Texas.

But Miss Bloomer's parents said today their daughter is working in Iowa and may not return to Texas to claim the crown. Her parents also pointed out that Miss Bloomer would be ineligible to seek the Miss Texas title next year if she should wear the crown by default this year.

Senators Face Busy Work Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Control of commodities trading and copyright regulations top the Senate agenda this week, while the House returns from an extended Labor Day recess.

A showdown is expected in the Senate over whether to require broadcasters and other record users to pay copyright royalties to singers and other performers.

But first, at today's session, the Senate was to take up a bill providing for expanded government regulation of the nation's commodities-future market.

Trading Abuses

A strengthened version of a measure already passed by the House, it would set up an independent commission empowered to seek injunctions against abuses in the $500 billion-a-year commodity trading business.

The House returns Wednesday from an extended Labor Day recess. The Senate returned a week earlier.

The initial measure before the House will be a bill, prompted by recent controversy over floating rate notes, that would give federal agencies discretionary authority to control the issue of debt obligations by banks and other financial institutions.

In mid-week the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee is to consider a resolution to disapprove President Ford's deferral for three months of a proposed 5.5 per cent pay raise for federal employes and military personnel.

Unions Fight Delay

Delaying the increase from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1 would save $700 million, but government employe unions have mounted a campaign against the postponement.

The President's action, part of his budget-cutting efforts to fight inflation, can be overriden by majority vote in either the Senate or the House.

The Senate Rules Committee also has set a meeting for Wednesday at which it hopes to be able to announce a time for starting public hearings on Nelson A. Rockefeller's nomination to be vice president.

CARMEN DAMAGE — Hurricane Carmen, now reduced to a tropical depression over Southeast Texas, downed this tree on a parked car in Lafayette Sunday as it traveled through Louisiana with strong winds and light rains. Damage was comparatively light except to the state's sugar cane crop. (AP Wirephoto.)

Carmen Leaves Two Persons Dead, Damage Far Less Than Anticipated

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hurricane Carmen has sputtered out and dispersed over Louisiana and Texas after leaving two dead and ravaging the Louisiana sugar cane crop. But the storm did far less damage than officials had feared.

Authorities said about 14,000 refugees remained in evacuation centers early today. But thousands of others returned home as the storm disintegrated after missing the state's major population centers.

Carmen, packing winds gusting up to 180 miles per hour, had been heading straight north for New Orleans. But it stalled for five anxious hours early Sunday, then veered westward through marshland and hit Lafayette about dawn.

It was downgraded to a tropical storm soon afterward.

A lineman for Central Louisiana Electric Co. was found on Sunday hanging in downed power lines. The other victim died in a storm-related traffic accident.

Much of the state's sugar cane crop lay in Carmen's path.

Gov. Edwin W. Edwards, who toured the state by airplane Sunday, estimated that 75 per cent of the crop was destroyed at a cost of $100 million. Gilbert Durbin, vice president and general manager of the American Sugar Cane League, gave the same $100 million estimate, but said it represented only 20 per cent of the total crop. The disparity was not explained.

The governor added: "The damage to the sugar cane appears to be the only significant damage resulting from the hurricane."

Red Cross officials estimated they had housed 60,000 refugees at the height of the storm early Sunday.

Edwards said he would not request President Ford to declare the state a disaster area immediately. He said a study would be made to find the best kind of aid to ask for farmers who suffered losses.

After raking the coastal towns of Abbeville and Franklin with winds of 135 m.p.h., Carmen came ashore near Avery Island.

Several store fronts were sucked out and huge oak trees were blown across roads in Franklin, where winds near the eye were clocked at 80 to 100 m.p.h. But rows of antebellum mansions remained standing.

Carmen pushed inland toward Lafayette, where parish civil defense officials said more than 25,000 persons had been evacuated — most of them as the hurricane stalled offshore and drifted westward.

Officials reported property damage but no serious injuries.

'I Wouldn't Have Done It,' Bentsen Says About Pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I wouldn't have done what President Ford did—I would have waited until all the evidence was in and acted on the basis of the evidence," Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., said after Ford pardoned former President Nixon.

Bentsen, chairman of the Senate's Democratic campaign committee, called it "a disturbing precedent for the country."

The Texas senator and Sen. William E. Brock of Tennessee, who heads the Republican senatorial campaign committee, appeared Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

"I'm concerned with his (Ford's) having prejudged all the evidence," Bentsen said. I, at least, would have wanted to see the evidence and know what he was charged with.

"I think history should record whether this man was guilty or not. I think we should have something in the judicial process which shows whether he's guilty or not."

Brock agreed that "probably I might have waited."

Watergate Cover-Up Defense Attorneys Reshape Strategies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense lawyers in the Watergate cover-up case are reshaping their strategies, hoping the unconditional pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon will turn the jury their way or even result in dismissal of charges.

At least one defenant, H. R. Haldeman, planned to make new efforts at delaying the six-man conspiracy trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 30.

President Ford's "free, full and absolute pardon" of Nixon, for all offenses he may have committed while President, does not extend to the numerous former Nixon lieutenants who already have pleaded guilty, been convicted or still face charges in Watergate and related cases.

One of Haldeman's lawyers, Frank J. Strickler, suggested it should.

"From what the President said, if you follow it logically, he could find grounds to do the same thing for Haldeman," Strickler said Sunday. "It's a logical extension. It seems to me something that might follow."

But he would not say whether an appeal will be made to Ford.

Although the grand jury named Nixon an unindicted co-conspirator in the case, no charges had been brought against him. But Ford's counsel, Philip Buchen, said, "I think it would be very likely that he would be indicted."

He said there were "lots of precedents" for pardons in advance of charges, citing one during the administration of Woodrow Wilson and others granted by Abraham Lincoln.

"As far as I know, no thought has been given to granting pardons to the cover-up defendants," Buchen said. They are, in addition to Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, John N. Mitchell, Gordon Strachan, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson.

President Ford's action does not mean the end of Nixon's legal involvement, however. He has been subpoenaed by Ehrlichman, his former chief domestic adviser, as a witness at the trial, and numerous civil suits name him as a defendant.

The pardon applies only to "all offenses against the United States" during his presidency. That would preclude any federal prosecutions for income tax fraud, for example, but not state charges if brought.

5-4A FOOTBALL TEAMS ALL POST WINS

Rebels, Bulldogs Impressive

By BOB DILLON

District 5-4A football teams all rolled to opening game victories over the weekend and defense seems to be the name of the game this season, at least against outside competition.

Midland and Midland Lee looked impressive in whipping Lubbock and Amarillo Tascosa, respectively while San Angelo probably had the toughest opponent in Dallas South Oak Cliff as the Bobcats posted a 13-0 victory.

Lee blanked the Westerners, 26-0 and it could have been worse, while Midland traveled to the Panhandle and beat Tascosa, 24-6.

In other openers, Odessa Permian beat a good El Paso Coronado team, 28-6, while Odessa downed the Amarillo Golden Sandies, 21-7. Abilene and Abilene Cooper both registered shutouts, blanking Brownwood and Sweetwater, 14-0 and 13-0.

Coach Bob Burris' Big Spring Steers captured a 16-6 victory over Class AAA Andrews to complete the sweep.

Tailback Milton Jones of Lee scored three touchdowns, one on a 76-yard scamper and ran over for a two-point conversion to score 20 of the Rebel's 26 points while Mike Gaddy, 200-pound senior fullback for Midland, also scored three TDs.

Junior halfback Mike Woodward of Permian scored a pair of touchdowns on a 17-yard pass from junior quarterback Kris Howard and then took a punt back 88 yards for a TD. Scott Ritchey of Cooper also had two TDs.

Midland had two ball carriers go over the 100-yard mark in rushing against Tascosa with Mike Hudspeth picking up 117 and Gaddy 116. Jones picked up 128 yards rushing for Lee, but the biggest night in the eight openers, was turned in by San Angelo fullback Marvin Williams, who gained 142 yards in 21 carries. Ritchey had 141 yards in 22 trips to pace Cooper over Brownwood.

Both Permian and San Angelo took on speedy outfits and did a good job shutting them down, but Lee held Lubbock to an amazing 26 yards total offense and only three first downs. The Bobcats were even more convincing, holding the lightening-quick South Oak Cliff Bears to a total offense of 84 yards.

San Angelo appears to be facing an even tougher outfit in Killeen Friday night. Killeen polished off a strong Seguin club, 14-9 and has a big, mobile line.

Midland opens its home season in Memorial Stadium Friday when the Purple Pack takes on the Ysleta Eastwood Troopers, who dropped a 28-7 decision to Las Cruces, N.M. Mayfield last week. Midland probably won't get tested until the following weekend when it takes on always-tough Lubbock Monterey in the Tall City.

While Midland is at home, the Lee Rebels hit the road for a date with the Snyder Tigers. Snyder beat a good, big Monahans eleven last week, 21-6 and should be a lot tougher test than Lubbock was.

In other action Friday, Permian travels to Amarillo for a date with the Golden Sandies while Odessa takes on Class AAA Andrews which lost to Big Spring, 16-6 last week. Big Spring entertains Hobbs, N.M. while Abilene travels to Irving to take on MacArthur. Abilene Cooper opens its home season against Fort Worth Southwest.

District 5-4A could stand 14-2 or better after this weekend gainst outside teams.

Most of the teams came out of openers without injuries with the exception of Permian which lost both of its defensive ends with knee injuries. Don Hanson, 194-pound senior, reinjured a knee and will be out of action until the district opener with Midland in four weeks while Steve Crain also was injured, but may be back sooner than Hanson.

Dodgers Post Win

Marshall Preserves Victory

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Mike Marshall, making his record-breaking 93rd appearance of the season, came on in the eighth inning to snuff out a Cincinnati rally, then struck out the side in the ninth to preserve the Los Angeles Dodgers' 7-4 victory over the Reds.

The victory gave the Dodgers two out of three in their weekend series against the Reds and put them 3½ games ahead of the second-place Reds.

Marshall pitched in all three games of the series to break his own record of 92 appearances in one season, set with the Montreal Expos last year. He also broke a record for innings pitched in one season by a reliever. He now has 189-2-3, surpassing his former mark of 179.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, New York beat St. Louis 5-3, Pittsburgh defeated Montreal 8-2, Houston edged San Diego 3-2, Philadelphia outscored Chicago 11-10 and Atlanta beat San Francisco 5-3.

The Dodgers chased Cincinnati ace Jack Billingham, 18-9, in the sixth, taking a 4-3 lead on Dave Lopes' bases-loaded grounder. Bill Buckner then greeted reliever Pedro Borbon with a double off the right field wall for a three-run lead.

Mets 5, Cards 3

Despite two stolen bases by the Cards' Lou Brock, who drew within one of equalling Maury Wills' single-season record of 104, St. Louis was beaten by the Mets and fell 2½ games behind Pittsburgh in NL East.

Wayne Garrett's three-run homer capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning that won the game for the Mets.

Pirates 8, Expos 2

Red-hot Pittsburgh posted its 13th victory in its last 15 games, exploding for five runs in the eighth inning, including a grand-slam homer by Dave Parker.

Montreal lost its sixth in a row, and starting pitcher Steve Rogers suffered his 20th loss against 12 victories.

Phils 11, Cubs 10

Bob Boone's three-run double capped a seven-run third inning for the Phils, who then held off repeated Cub rallies. Chicago's Jerry Morales accounted for the Cubs' final four runs in the ninth inning with the first grand-slam homer of his major league career.

Braves 5, Giants 3

Vic Correll drove in three runs with a double and a single and Ron Reed, 10-8, scattered six hits for the Braves.

Carner Takes Charity Golf Title Over Kathy Whitworth

DALLAS (AP) — Enriched by $5,700 as champion of the Dallas Civitan Women's Open Sunday, Mrs. Johnne Gunderson Carner moves across the Trinity River for the $40,000 Fort Worth Charity Classic starting Friday.

Mrs. Carner out dueled veteran defending champion Kathy Whitworth in the Civitan Open, shooting a 74 on the final round for 217, edging Miss Whitworth by a stroke, Miss Whitworth struggled in with a 77.

Miss Whitworth, a front-runner the first two rounds of this 54-hole tournament, carried a two-shot lead into the final 18 holes with 141. Mrs. Carner trailed with 142.

On the first hole Sunday, Miss Whitworth hit out of bounds and wound up with a double bogey seven as Mrs. Carner sank a 15-foot birdie putt to turn the race around.

Mrs. Carner shot a front side 35, 1 under par, as Miss Whitworth struggled in with 40 en route to a disastrous 77. The defending champion had but one birdie on the round whereas Mrs. Carner posted three.

Mrs. Carner boosted her Ladies PGA season winnings to $23,019, some $5,000 under the record one year mark set by Miss Whitworth in 1973.

Judy Rankin of Midland, twice a winner on the tour this year, was third, shooting a final round 73 for 220 and a $3,200 check. The 73 tied for low score in the windy, cool final round.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP—

Bosox Win, 8-6; Yankees Beaten

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, tied for first place in the American League East with the Baltimore Orioles perched on their shoulder, open an important two-game series tonight in Boston.

The Yankees, beaten 11-3 Sunday by the Detroit Tigers, have named Doc Medich to pitch against the Red Sox. Boston, an 8-6 winner over the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday, will pitch Roger Moret.

The Orioles, who stayed one game from the top after a 7-4 loss to the Cleveland Indians, visit Milwaukee tonight in the opener of a two-game series before playing the Yankees in Baltimore Wednesday and Thursday.

In the other American League games Sunday, the Texas Rangers clipped the Oakland A's 5-1; the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 8-4 and the Chicago White Sox defeated the California Angels 1-0.

Bill Freehan had a grand slam homer and three singles and drove in seven runs as Detroit slowed New York's pennant drive. Joe Coleman, 12-12, held the Yankees to seven hits.

Freehan's homer, his 13th of the baseball season, capped a five-run, two-out, third inning against Dick Tidrow, 11-12.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 6

Dwight Evans belted a two-run homer, Doug Griffin hit a key double and Dick Pole pitched sparkling relief ball to lead Boston over Milwaukee.

Indians 7, Orioles 4

Cleveland beat Baltimore on home runs by George Hendrick, Tom McCraw and Charlie Spikes, stopping the Orioles' 10-game winning streak. Hendrick's homer put the Indians in front 2-0 in the first inning and McCraw's belt made it 3-0 Cleveland.

Twins 8, Royals 4

Light-hitting Phil Roof, who came into the game with a .213 batting average and just nine runs batted in for the season, belted the first grand slam of his major league career to lead Minnesota over Kansas City.

White Sox 1, Angels 0

Lee Richard's third-inning double — the only hit off Andy Hassler — led to the only run of the game as Chicago beat California.

Goolagong Topples Evert

By KAROL STONGER

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — And then there were two: Evonne Goolagong, in her heyday, and Ken Rosewall, in the twilight of his tennis career, battling to retain Australian supremacy of the U.S. Open for the second straight year.

Miss Goolagong toppled America's tennis princess, Chris Evert, for the right to meet the nation's tennis queen, Billie Jean King. Rosewall outdueled defending champion John Newcombe and set up a rematch of Wimbledon, where Jimmy Connors needed only three sets to take the title — the only major crown to elude Rosewall in his long, illustrious career.

Miss Evert, the favorite among the women, came back from a two-day break caused by bad weather and gave Miss Goolagong a good run. But Evonne, with a 6-0, 4-3 lead when the day started, survived the eager Miss Evert, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3, and increased the chance that Australia would keep the crown won last year by Margaret Court.

Connors, Chris's finance, protected his No. 1 seeding against a tough Tennesseean, Roscoe Tanner, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4 after Rosewall eliminated Newcombe, 6-7, 6-4, 7-6, 6-3.

It was the first setback for the 19-year-old bride-to-be since Billie Jean beat her in an indoor tournament in New York last March. Since then, she had won 56 straight matches and 10 tournaments, including the Italian, French and Wimbledon championships.

Ms. King, the "old lady of tennis," was well rested for today's final. She hadn't played since Friday when she beat Julie Heldman, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 in a match as dismal as the weather.

If honing hard shots is what it takes, Miss Goolagong has the edge. She played 15 games Sunday before finishing off Miss Evert.

The finalists in the men's singles were equally worn down — or keyed up — since both played Sunday.

But age is the difference in both title bids. Miss Goolagong is 23 and Ms. King 30. Rosewall is 39 and Connors 22.

So is experience.

Ms. King has won three U.S. Open crowns and Rosewall two. Miss Goolagong was seeking her first, as was Connors.

America's Cup Opens Tuesday

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Courageous, a long, lean, gleaming white sliver of aluminum, opens defense of the America's Cup Tuesday against the formidable challenger, Southern Cross from Australia.

"It could be what you sports writers revel in referring to as 'the fight of the century,'" said Bob Bavier, one of the country's top yachtsmen.

Bavier should know. He stepped down as skipper of Courageous on Sept. 2 after taking the $2 million craft through months of shakedown runs and well into head-to-head trials against other U.S. contenders.

Super Mex Takes Crown

By BOB GREEN

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lee Trevino beat Gary Player with a par on the seventh sudden death playoff hole today—the second hole of the day—and claimed the $50,000 first prize in the World Series of Golf.

The playoff went through five holes before being stopped by darkness Sunday and resumed at 9 a.m. CDT today.

Both Player, the little South African who won the 1974 Masters and British Open titles, and PGA champion Trevino birdied the par four 14th hole Monday.

Trevino holed out from 40 feet and Player scored from 12.

On the 15th, a long par three, Player bunkered his tee shot and Trevino was 30 feet behind the hole.

Player came out to 15 feet, Trevino got down in two and Gary missed the putt that would have extended the playoff.

Trevino and Player tied at the end of the regulation 36 holes Sunday with scores of 139, one-under-par on the 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club Course.

Notre Dame-Tech On Tv Tonight

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

ATLANTA (AP) — "We're not the No. 1 team in the country right now," says Ara Parseghian, coach of Notre Dame's defending college football champions.

That's Parseghian's honest opinion as the Fighting Irish prepare to open their season tonight in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 9 p.m., EDT) against Georgia Tech. And the sports writers and broadcasters who vote in The Associated Press poll agree with him. They have the Irish ranked third behind Oklahoma and Ohio State.

There's just one small catch to Parseghian's assessment of his team.

"It's not significant to be No. 1 at this stage of the season," he says. "It's more of a handicap right now than an advantage. I'm not saying we won't be No. 1 at the end of the season. Our objectives are always the same — we'd like to go undefeated, we'd like to go to a bowl and we'd like to win the national championship. It's just going to be a lot more difficult this year."

Parseghian seemed to be sitting pretty following the 24-23 Sugar Bowl triumph over Alabama that nailed down the 1973 national crown. He expected 17 starters back to defend the title, but for one reason or another — injuries, accidents, university suspensions — five of them have been lost and three of their backup men also are sidelined.

Parseghian doesn't know too much about Georgia Tech, but neither does Pepper Rodgers, Tech's new coach. The Yellow Jackets will use the Wishbone offense, which helped Rodgers mold an awesome rushing attack at UCLA.

In Saturday's action, UCLA and Tennessee battled to a 17-17 tie. The Bruins, ranked 12th, had a shot at winning in the final 14 seconds but Brett White's 40-yard field goal attempt went wide.

Quarterback Condredge Holloway got the 16th-ranked Vols on the scoreboard in the first quarter, connecting with Stanley Morgan on a 74-yard touchdown pass play on the second play of the game. Bruins quarterback John Sciarra ran and passed UCLA into the lead in the final period, but Holloway led Tennessee 80 yards for the tying TD, capping the drive with a 12-yard run.

Dave Buckey threw for two touchdowns and ran for a third as No. 18 North Carolina State piled up 30 points over the final two quarters to whip Wake Forest 33-15. The Wolfpack gained 265 yards rushing while holding the Deacons to just 46.

No. 15 Arizona State upset No. 11 Houston 30-9 with sophomore Freddie Williams racing 69 yards for one touchdown and going four yards for another.

In other top games, Syracuse downed Oregon State 23-15. Tailback Ken Kinsey gained 169 yards on 28 carries for Syracuse.

New Mexico State shaded Wichita State 13-12 with Jim Germany running for 118 yards on 28 carries.

Tampa shut out Tennessee-Chatanooga 28-0 as Freddie Solomon scored two touchdowns and passed for another.

The Tulane-Mississippi game in New Orleans was postponed due to Hurricane Carmen. It will be rescheduled.

JENKINS WINS NO. 22—

Rangers Defeat Oakland Again

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's are slipping in the American League West pennant race but they aren't worried about it yet.

"We are concerned but not worried," Oakland outfielder Reggie Jackson said after the Texas Rangers handed the A's their third straight defeat, 5-1, at the Coliseum Sunday.

The loss cut the A's lead over the surging Rangers to 5½ games. Texas has won seven of its last nine games.

Jackson said it would take a complete collapse by the A's to give Texas a chance to catch up.

"If we win only half of the rest of our games, they would have to win almost all of theirs to beat us," he said.

Ranger pitcher Ferguson Jenkins pitched a seven-hitter for his fourth straight victory over Oakland this season. He now has a 22-11 record for the year.

"We're back in the race," Jenkins said. "We don't have to play miracle baseball to catch Oakland. All we have to do is play good baseball."

Jenkins struck out 10 and walked one. In four games against the A's this season, he has allowed only two earned runs.

"There's nothing special about Oakland," Jenkins said. "I like beating everyone."

The Rangers got two runs in the first inning off losing pitcher Ken Holtzman and that was all they needed. With two outs, Jeff Burroughs walked and scored on a double by Jim Fregosi. Len Randle singled to score Fregosi.

The Rangers made it 3-0 in the fifth inning on a double by Cesar Tovar, a stolen base and an error.

Jim Sundberg, honored for the fourth Texas run in the seventh inning.

Each team scored in the ninth. The Rangers got an unearned run off relief pitcher Darold Knowles. Oakland broke Jenkins' shutout bid on singles by Jackson and Joe Rudi, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly by Ray Fosse.

Rangers Manager Billy Martin was pleased at winning three of four games from Oakland. He said, "We still have a long way to go but at least we're still in the race."

The Rangers lost the series opener Thursday night but then won 6-5 in 11 innings Friday and 8-2 Saturday.

Martin said he would not alter his pitching plan for a weekend series against Oakland in Texas, adding, "All the games mean the same. We'll use Jenkins and Jim Bibby every time they're ready."

Howard's Homer Sparks Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Wilbur Howard says he is happy for the chance to be playing and Randy Jones says he learns something in every game.

Howard's first major league home run was the difference Sunday as the Houston Astros edged the San Diego Padres 3-2 and handed Jones his 20th loss of the season.

The blast by Howard over the centerfield fence broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning and gave Houston starter Tom Griffin his 13th victory against eight losses.

"I'm known as a slap hitter," said Howard. "So everybody is going to try to throw fastballs by me. Luckily, I got one where I wanted it.

"I didn't know it was going to try to throw fastballs by me. Luckily, I got one where I wanted it.

"I didn't know it was going out. I thought it might hit the wall and I would get three bases."

Howard has played in 41 games and has been starting lately in left field in place of regular Bob Watson who is hobbled by an ankle injury.

"I'm glad I got this chance to play," said Howard. "At least they know one thing. I believe in myself. I want to play and I know I can play."

Jones, who has won seven games, was not downcast at joining Montreal's Steve Rogers as the only 20-game losers in the majors so far.

He allowed only four hits and only one of Houston's three runs were earned.

"It's the kind of game you have to accept," Jones said. "I go out and give 110 per cent each game and I learn something about myself each time."

Houston scored in the first inning when Greg Gross got an infield hit and went to second when shortstop Bill Almon threw the ball away at first. Gross took second on a ground-out and scored when third baseman Dave Hilton booted Lee May's grounder.

Hilton homered in the second to tie the game, and the Padres went ahead in the third when Almon singled, stole second and eventually scored on John Grubb's sacrifice fly.

Houston tied it 2-2 in the sixth on Griffin's double, an error and Lee May's sacrifice fly.

Two of the four hits allowed by Jones were questionable. A good throw might have nipped Gross in the first inning and May's fly ball to deep right field trickled off Hilton's glove when he lost it in the glare of the Astrodome roof.

Fezler Cops Open Match

By TOM SALADINO

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — "The money wasn't that important," said young Forrest Fezler after winning his first pro golf tournament. "I just wanted to get over the bridesmaid tag."

And the 24-year-old Fezler did just that Sunday, capturing the $180,000 Southern Open golf tournament by one shot over veterans Bruce Crampton and J.C. Snead as he blazed his way to a five-under-par 65 for a 271 total.

"I was getting an image," said Fezler, who in only three years on the tournament trail has been a runner-up five times. "People were saying I was a bridesmaid, or that I choked. I began to think maybe I would never win."

But win he did, earning a $30,000 first prize check for his nine-under-par total over the par 72, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

The Indian Wells, Calif., blond burst from one stroke behind Saturday's co-leaders Snead, Ben Crenshaw and Tommy Aaron, with a streak of six birdies over his first ten holes to jump ahead by three shots.

The mustachioed Fezler then held off the closing charges of Snead and Crampton. Snead had a final round 67, including birdies on Nos. 10 and 12 to close within one shot along with Crampton, who had six birdies and a bogey enroute to his 65.

"Ever since I arrived here, I had a feeling I was going to win," said Fezler, who increased his 1974 earnings to $85,152. He won more than $108,000 last year and had three second-place finishes, including the Southern, Gleason and Canadian Open.

This year, Fezler was second in the U.S. Open and the American Golf Classic.

Mike Hill took fourth place with a 275 after a 67 while Crenshaw, Phil Rodgers and Jim Ferriell tied for fifth at 277. Crenshaw had a 72, Rodgers a 70 and Ferriell a 68. Aaron, with a 73, was at 278.

Four top names, including defending champion Gary Player, the Masters and British Open winner, were competing in the World Series of Golf this weekend. Along with Player were PGA champion Lee Trevino, U.S. Open winner Hale Irwin and Canadian Open titlist Bobby Nichols.

Leading money winner Johnny Miller, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer did not compete.

Top Elevens Capture Wins

By The Associated Press

The pollsters who ballot on The Associated Press schoolboy football poll were right on target over the weekend with the top-ranked teams in all five classes of the Texas schoolboy wars escaping with victories.

Tyler John Tyler, rated No. 1 in Class 4A, showed it can win without graduated superstar Earl Campbell by whipping tough Waco Richfield 28-13.

Stepping down a class in 2A, top-rated Brazosport shutout El Campo 24-6.

Stock Market Skids Again In Face Of Inflation Woes

NEW YORK (AP) — The technical rally of late last week died out in the stock market today, leaving prices broadly lower in trading marked by an early wave of pressure on gold-mining and other precious-metals stocks.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 8.45 at 669.43, and losers outstripped gainers by close to 2-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the questions and worries posed by inflation and a lagging economy seemed to have overcome the bargain-hunting interest which sprang up Thursday and Friday, with prices of many stocks at their lowest levels in years.

Magnavox was the Big Board volume leader, up ⅛ at 9¼. A 100,000-share block, as well as smaller ones of 25,600 and 36,100 shares, traded at that price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .68 at 67.55.

None of the four or five best known gold issues on the Big Board had opened by noon.

Giant Yellowknife Mines was down 2 at 8⅛, Pato Consolidated Gold Dredging was off 2 at 4⅛, and Golden Cycle lost 2½ to 13½, all in active turnover on the Amex.

One close follower of Golds, C. Austin Barker of Hornblower & Weeks, Hemphill-Noyes, said the selling appeared to have arisen from a London publication's report that central banks of major Western nations were considering selling from their gold reserves to deal with oil payments problems.

Barker noted that such reports had been circulated before, but he said this one might have unnerved some of the "weaker" holders of gold-mining issues.

The NYSE's noon composite index of all its listed common stocks stood at 36.88, off .45.

JUMP FAILS—This view of Snake River Canyon shows the path of Evel Knievel's ill-fated Sky-Cycle. After traveling about 1,000 feet upward, the cycle began a twisting, nose-first descent, glanced off a canyon shelf and landed on the rocks 2 feet from the Snake River. (AP Wirephoto.)

Many Wouldn't Pay To See Another Try

By STEVE EAMES

DALLAS (AP) — Evel Knievel may or may not try to jump the Snake River Canyon again, but many of those who plunked down 10 bucks to see it on closed circuit television doubt they'll do it a second time.

"He (Knievel) said before it would be his last jump, but I bet he goes again," Pete Mattingly, a new car salesman, said.

Mattingly was one of about 3,000 who watched the jump at Moody Coliseum on the Southern Methodist University campus.

As they left, many said they would not come again.

Mattingly speculated, as did others, that the abortive attempt may have been the motorcycle stuntman's promotion for another try.

The crowds cheered Sunday afternoon as the steam-powered sky cycle shot off the 100-foot launch ramp. But there was silence moments later as the spectators awaited Knievel's fate as the sky cycle plummeted into the canyon.

Someone yelled, "There he is," and the coliseum was filled with deafening screams as the television closed in on the rescue boat which picked up Knievel.

"I'm disheartened," said high school pupil John Mead of Richardson. "I thought he'd make it. He didn't even get hurt."

Many patrons left their seats after the failure but others stayed to make sure their hero was all right.

The fans here were confident Knievel would make it safely across when asked before the attempt.

There were toddlers dressed in Evel Knievel fashion to elderly men. Most of those said they were not particularly motorcycle enthusiasts although there were a scattering of motorcycle helmets in the crowd.

Evel Blames 'Metal Fatigue' For Failure

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Stuntman Evel Knievel says a weakness in the metal holding the parachute system in place was responsible for his rocket ride into the Snake River Canyon rather than over it.

"There was a metal failure," Knievel told a news conference Sunday night less than four hours after he was lifted by helicopter from rocks at the base of the 600-foot canyon.

"To lose to a beautiful river and canyon like this to me is not a real loss," said Knievel, the cuts on his right cheek and lip standing out as red lines on his tan face.

The chutes began deploying even as the red, white and blue Sky-Cycle cleared the launch ramp Sunday, pulling the missile back like a yank on a shirt collar.

The vehicle was halted before it had traveled half the needed distance, and seconds later Knievel was on the canyon bottom, the bloodied survivor of yet another fall.

Despite the failure of the stunt, probably the most widely publicized in history, Knievel was assured of $6 million and stood to earn much more from proceeds of a live closed-circuit telecast and related deals.

Promoters of the telecast had been predicting the total take could reach $20 million, but they said Sunday evening that it would be at least 24 hours before ticket sales were known.

Asked if he would attempt the stunt again, Knievel responded, "I don't know what I'm going to do. I sat in it and gave it my best."

In a late night telephone call to television station KUTV in Salt Lake City, Knievel said that "metal fatigue" had caused bolts holding a canister containing the parachutes to sheer off when the engine fired, sending the chutes spilling out behind.

The steam-powered Sky-Cycle was to have traveled 3,000 feet at 300 miles per hour, enough to carry it well beyond the opposite canyon rim, 1,600 feet away.

Eighteen seconds after launch, Knievel was to have thrown the lever deploying the chutes to carry the missile earthward. Instead, the vehicle lurched upward for nine seconds and veered to the right. Then, about 1,000 feet in the air, it turned downward and began the twisting, nose-first descent that hushed the thousands of onlookers

Pushed by a brisk north wind, the cycle glanced off a canyon shelf and onto rocks about 20 feet from the Snake River, where it came to rest right side up. Knievel said that piece of luck saved his life.

Even for skeptics, Knievel's attempt to hurtle himself over the canyon was spectacular, dangerous and suspenseful. And the Montana-born huckster-stuntman carried off the defeat with characteristically arrogant style.

Gripping his custom-built black cane, Knievel walked along the metal fences surrounding the launch area to shake hands with his assembled admirers. "You are the living god," one group cried out to the figure in the stars-and-stripes jump suit.

In his telephone call to KUTV, Knievel cautioned adventurous children: "Maybe because I made this jump, young children will realize that even with the best help in the world, maybe this is not the thing to do."

So Barnabas went to Tarsus to look for Saul, and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. For a whole year they met with the church, and taught a large company of people; and in Antioch the disciples were for the first time called Christians.—Acts 11:25, 26.

Yes, One Out Of Six!

One out of every six civilian employes in the United States is working for federal, state or local governments.

As a result, taxpayers are forced to foot a payroll of at least $135 billion this year, up about 60 per cent in the last five years, according to Tax Foundation, Inc., estimates. This is a rather sobering fact, particularly to most of us who hadn't given the matter too much thought.

It is good to have such information called to our attention from time to time, although it isn't the most pleasant sort of news.

According to the latest Department of Commerce figures, there were 14.1 million civilian public employes in October 1973. The figures showed no increase from a year earlier in the 2.8 million federal employes, but the number of state and local employes increased by more than 500,000—from 10.8 to 11.4 million. Both figures include parttime workers, but the department estimates the number of equivalent full-time state and local employes last October at 9,578,000.

Local government accounted for 73 per cent, or 7,031,000, of the total. It further is explained that 4,751,000 were involved in education.

While the number of state-local employes increased by less than five per cent, payroll costs increased by more than 14 per cent. All state and local government payrolls totaled a little more than $8 billion last October, compared to just over $7 billion a year earlier.

Don't forget, this is at the state and local level.

Lots Of Vegetables

The fact that Americans last year ate more vegetables than ever before surely must be meaningful from some standpoint, but we are not sure just what.

Anyway, the intake was 223.4 pounds per capita. This is right amazing to the casual observer.

Canned vegetables are said to have been the most popular, with the average consumption reaching 101.7 pounds. Fresh vegetables were second with per capita use of 99.8 pounds. Per capita enjoyment of frozen vegetables was 21.9 pounds.

The report didn't say just how much spinach was represented in the per capita consumption, but chances are that Junior got his share, whether or not he wanted it.

Regardless, this appears to be a right healthful situation. It could be that consumption of vegetables will continue on the increase as Americans plant, cultivate and reap the harvest of more and more home gardens.

'Why Don't You Shake Hands And Make Up?'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: President Ford warns Turkey, but Turks may call his bluff.

WASHINGTON — President Ford secretly has instructed U.S. Ambassador William Macomber to warn the Turkish government that the United States may withhold economic aid if Turkey refuses to cooperate on opium controls.

The revival of the Turkish opium trade could be a serious blow to U.S. efforts to curtail heroin smuggling, which has helped aggravate the crime wave in American cities. For most of the heroin, sold on the streets by drug pushers, used to come from Turkish opium.

Under a 1972 agreement, the United States paid Turkey $35.7 million to ban opium production. This has reduced the availability of heroin in the United States.

But last June, the Turks announced they would resume opium production. Former President Nixon ignored repeated requests from Congress that he pressure the Turks to uphold the opium ban. Not long after President Ford moved into the White House, however, he sent the first blunt signal to Ankara.

Secret Cable

On August 30, he fired off a secret cable to Macomber, directing him to tell the Turks that the United States would help them monitor their opium crop but might shut off economic aid if they didn't cooperate in controlling the heroin traffic.

Three days later, Macomber sent back a pessimistic report on the progress of a United Nations narcotics team in Turkey. His "discussions with team," he cabled, "reveal gloomy picture . . .

"Turkish officials say they intend concentrate acreage as far as possible to facilitate control but plans they have in mind do not appear consistent such approach." Macomber reported tersely.

His confidential cable noted that head of narcotics police is developing arrangements for patrolling fields during critical period and that these proposed arrangements seem encouraging on paper." But the cable questioned "how these measures will work out in practice."

International Narcotics Control Board Chairman Sir Harry Greenfield, who met with U.S. officials in Turkey last week, "is not optimistic that Turks can be persuaded reduce acreage."

First Harvest

"Turks claim they have already sold 30 tons of opium from first harvest," added Macomber, "and have to date received inquiries from other prospective buyers for up to 100 tons."

Greenfield has sought a meeting, meanwhile, with Turkey's President Bulent Ecevit. "But foreign ministry officials have made clear," according to the cable, "this request unlikely to be granted."

It looks as if the Turks intend to call President Ford's bluff. If he backs down, the flow of heroin into the United States surely will rise and will bring with it a new surge of crime. But if the United States cuts off economic aid to Turkey, the Turks may follow the Greek example and pull out of NATO leaving the Western alliance dangerously exposed in the Mediterranean.

Footnote: In fairness to the Turks, they have tried in vain to persuade the United States to sign a U.N. agreement controlling the distribution of pep pills, goof balls and hallucinogens. Drug enforcement officials estimate that half of the 16 billion drug pills that the United States produces each year wind up in the underworld. The United States cannot sign the U.N. agreement without enabling legislation, which the drug industry has opposed.

SAMUELS FAVORED: Jimmy the Greek Snyder, who calculates the political odds exclusively for us, rates Howard Samuels a four-to-one favorite over Rep. Hugh Carey in Tuesday's New York Democratic primary.

The two are battling for the right to run against Gov. Malcolm Wilson in November.

Jimmy bases his odds upon his own private poll, interviews with political experts and a touch of Las Vegas magic. His poll of 700 New York voters gave Samuels 351 and Carey 299, with 50 undecided.

Jimmy expects a poor turnout at the polls, which he believes also will favor Samuels who has a stronger statewide organization.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The Watergate prosecutors now are digging deeply into ex-President Nixon's role in the scandal. Insiders say they intend to present the evidence to the grand jury but will not seek an indictment until the conspiracy trial of his six former aides is over . . . Spiro Agnew's good friend, singer Frank Sinatra, has apparently adopted George Wallace as the new object of his political affection. Just one month after Sinatra's pal Agnew resigned the vice presidency last October, the crooner donated $500 to Wallace's presidential campaign committee . . .

The President's Air Quality Advisory Board seems strangely unconcerned about the dangers of deadly lead in the air, particularly in high-exhaust ghetto areas. The board turned down a suggestion from Louis Lombardo, head of the Public Interest Campaign, that it solicit briefing memos on the problem from the Environmental Protection Agency . . . Meanwhile, Public Health Service figures show alarmingly high lead concentrations in the blood of ghetto children in Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, New Orleans and Philadelphia.

TIMELY QUOTES

"If the precedent is not set that an election can be challenged, that's a step up for some group to come along and corrupt the next election."

— Charles B. Griffith of Putney, Vt., who has filed a $22 million suit against the 1972 Committee to Re-elect the President on grounds it defrauded the American public and must pay damages to voters.

Jim: "I have a hand right here. I watched a very gadget-minded pair get to six after South opened with a weak two-bid. They were very proud of their method, which involved an asking bid in hearts."

Oswald: "Asking bids were invented by Ely Culbertson in 1936 and abandoned by him in 1938. An asking bid is artificial and asks partner about his holding in a specific suit. It works beautifully every year or so."

Jim: "The bidding in the box shows standard American getting to the same spade slam. North opens in third seat; jump rebids in his suit; raises spades to four and leaves the rest to South."

Oswald: "It requires a little faith in partner for South to go on but he should. South has a perfect hand for Blackwood after North's very strong bidding and can bid the slam confidently after North shows the three aces."

TOM TIEDE

Not Anti-Pet, Really, But Just Pro-People

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is a service station operator in New Jersey who says with ignorant pride that his dog eats twice as much food as his family. The animal, a German shepherd kept for security purposes, is so monstrously greedy it consumes several pounds of hamburger, steak, chopped liver, eggs, chicken and meal daily. All told, says the owner, "the dog eats $100 worth of food every damn week."

The example, though singular and excessive, is nonetheless illustrative of the lengths many Americans go to keep pets around the home or business. And these lengths should be thoroughly examined for their moral deficiencies. Even in the best of times the copious gorging of domestic animals is peculiarly offensive; today, with millions of people going hungry in the world, it is patently disgusting.

The problem is not of small dimensions. According to one pet supply magazine, Americans now own more than 600 million non-farm animals — 23 million birds, 28 million cats, 41 million dogs, 340 million fish, 8 million horses and 125 million pet mice, gerbils, hamsters, snakes, frogs, turtles and infinitum. One estimate has it the owners spend between $15 and $20 billion on the care and feeding of these creatures, mostly the feeding. Pet food people guess that some $1.5 to $2 billion alone is spent on canned or packaged dog and cat food.

The grub for these beasts, naturally, is not created in laboratories. It quite literally is taken from the mouths of people. An agriculture department official says that at least 10 per cent of all food concentrates produced in the nation are sold to pet food manufacturers. This means that of approximately 203 million tons of feed concentrates grown in America last year, 20 million disappeared into the bellies of dogs, cats, backyard horses and fish that swim in garishly decorated tanks which resemble rooms in a Mexican bordello.

Measured against growing human want, the situation is only slightly short of insanity. Though world population is growing at a rate of 2.6 per cent a year, food production is off sharply. Last year, according to United Nations reports, the world crop dropped 4 per cent from the previous year, or 42 million tons. The result has been catastrophic. Some 12 million Americans, unable to afford enough food, now are undernourished. Some 14 million humans in the sub-Sahara region of Africa are facing the possibility of a drought-related starvation. Around the world, according to U.N. studies, as many as 400 million people go to bed hungry every night; "Babies cry, old men wait to die, pregnant women induce abortion rather than bring more children into hunger." Those who witness the misery believe hunger is worse than the scenes of war.

Yet in America the dogs in the streets are stuffed. No doubt they often eat better than their owners. The label on a can of Alpo chicken and liver "dog dinner" is ever so much more impressive than the label on a can of pork and beans; the nutrients alone occupy two full inches of print and include everything from four major vitamins to niacin, choline, calcium, potassium, magnesium, iron and copper. Besides food, then, the pets also deplete the world's mineral resources.

Clearly, priorities must be rethought. And the suggestion is not anti-pet so much as it is pro-people. It may be, as some suggest, that easy access to pets should no longer continue. Even the Humane Society admits that most pet owners are to some degree irresponsible and that this irresponsibility causes enormous social and moral woe. Last year, says the society's Guy Hodge, 17 million stray dogs (many of them abandoned by owners) were impounded in the nation; 13.5 million of them were never reclaimed and had to be fed for a grace period before eventually being killed. The feedings were humane, of course, but judging from the outcome wasteful; that food was sorely needed in Africa.

Limiting pet access, however, is probably not legally possible. Thus the best that can be hoped for at present is common sense attached to the status quo. Pets should be chosen with forethought and fed with table scraps; that's more than many babies receive in this screwy world.

The Country Parson

DON OAKLEY

The Curious Office Of Vice President

WASHINGTON (NEA) — John Adams called it "the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived."

Theodore Roosevelt said he would "a great deal rather be anything else, say professor of history."

A couple of years ago, Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, even suggested that we abolish it entirely.

"It," of course, is the vice-presidency, which John Nance Garner probably described most pungently as "not worth a pitcher of warm spit."

Many Americans probably agreed with Taft when he said: "Vice-presidential candidates are generally selected to balance a ticket . . . All too frequently the selection of a vice-presidential candidate is determined by who will bring the ticket strength rather than who can bring strength to the country."

The American vice-presidency is one of the more curious features of the system of government fashioned in Philadelphia in 1787. Creation of the position was almost an afterthought. The vice-president was given only one constitutional function, that of presiding over the Senate, with the right to vote to break a tie.

Yet despite the low esteem voiced by Adams, the vice-presidency from the beginning was intended and expected to be filled by capable men — in fact, by the man receiving the second highest number of electoral votes, and thus presumably the second most qualified man in the nation.

This soon was changed by the rise of political parties and by the 12th Amendment, which specified separate ballots for president and vice-president.

It was then that the practice began of "balancing the ticket" — Northerner with Southerner, Easterner with Westerner, liberal with conservative, etc.

There is a good reason to believe that the Founding Fathers never intended the vice-president to be anything but interim, acting president in the event of the death or removal of the elected president. But John Tyler, assuming the full powers of the presidency upon the death of William Henry Harrison in 1841, set the precedent that has been followed unquestioningly ever since.

At one time in its history, due to deaths and retirements, the United States was without a vice-president for seven years. Not until 1967, with the ratification of the 25th Amendment, did the nation see fit to provide for the immediate filling of a vice-presidential vacancy.

In the space of less than a year, the provisions of the 25th Amendment will have been put into operation twice — first with the confirmation of the vice presidency of Gerald R. Ford, and now that of Nelson A. Rockefeller.

As recently as 1932, a vice-president could be portrayed in the musical, "Of Thee I Sing," as a comic nonentity named Alexander Throttlebottom. But after hitting Throttlebottom, the vice-presidency had nowhere to go but up.

The last four administrations have witnessed a vast enlargement of the duties of the vice-president and a corresponding enlargement of his prestige.

In addition to presiding over the Senate, the vice-president now serves, by statute law, as chairman of the National Security, Space and Peace Corps councils and, by recent custom, as the president's international ambassador.

Because the modern vice-president has been made an informed and active partner in the day-to-day running and decision-making of the executive branch, we have almost come to look upon him as president-in-training, even thought no man since Martin Van Buren has succeeded in being elected directly from the vice-presidency to the presidency.

Were we to abolish the vice-presidency now, we might well discover that we would have to turn around and invent something very like it to take its place.

On this date in 1776, the term "United States" became official in a ruling of the 2nd Continental Congress.

On this date —

In 1830, Charles Durant made early aviation history by flying in a balloon from New York City across the Hudson River to Perth Amboy, N.J.

In 1850, California was admitted into the Union as the 31st state.

In 1893, for the first time in the history of the United States, a child was born to the first lady in the White House. Mrs. Grover Cleveland became the mother of a baby girl.

In 1919, Boston police went on strike and Massachusetts Gov. Calvin Coolidge ruled they would not be permitted to return to their jobs on grounds they had no right to strike and endanger the public safety.

In 1926, the National Broadcasting Co. was formed in New York City as a service of the Radio Corp. of America.

In 1946, the formal surrender of about one million Japanese soldiers in China took place in Nanking.

Ten years ago: The Chrysler Corp. and the Auto Workers Union reached agreement on a new contract which set a pattern for the auto industry for a three-year period.

Five years ago: An Allegheny Airlines jet with 82 persons aboard and a single-engine plane on a training flight collided over Shelbyville, Ind., and crashed, leaving no survivors.

One year ago: President Nixon, in a broadcast address, urged cooperation between Congress and the White House to help transform what he called "the blessings of peace into a better life for all."

Today's birthday: former Presidential Candidate Alfred Landon is 87 years old.

Thought for today: One of the best hearing aids a man can have is an attentive wife — Groucho Marx.

Mexican Army Frees Senator; Bandit Leader Eludes Troops

MEIXCO CITY, Mexico (AP) — The Mexican army has freed Sen. Ruben Figueroa and four aides held captive for 3½ months by Lucio Cabanas, Mexico's No. 1 guerrilla. But Cabanas eluded the troops, Defense Minister Hermenegildo Cuenca Diaz announced.

Figueroa's rescue Sunday after a gun battle was the second success within 24 hours for President Luis Echeverria's no-compromise policy for political kidnapings. Echeverria's 83-year-old father-in-law was freed Saturday night by another terrorist organization that held him for 10 days.

The defense ministry said some of the huge force that has been searching for Figueroa and Cabanas found the 66-year-old senator in the village of El Quemado, inland from Acapulco in the mountains of Guerrero state and 310 miles south of Mexico City.

Cuenca Diaz said a number of the guerrillas were killed or wounded, two of their captives were wounded, many arrests were made and a large amount of arms was captured. But Cabanas "either escaped or he was not there."

The troops "are pursuing the remainder of the bandits, and it is expected that they will be totally annihilated in a short time," the minister said.

It was the army's first major success against Cabanas in the eight years since the schoolteacher took to the Sierra Madre de Atoyac in southwest Mexico and put together a band of 35 or 40 armed men.

Echeverria, holding to a policy he laid down last year, refused to deal with the kidnapers and instead sent an estimated 20,000 troops to scour the mountains. The drive is one of the largest Mexican military operations in decades.

Meanwhile, Echeverria's aged father-in-law, Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, said his kidnapers freed him after he convinced them that their enemy was the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency and not the Mexican government.

Weekend Violence Takes 19 Or More Texas Lives

By The Associated Press

Violence took at least 19 lives in Texas during the weekend.

The toll tabulated by The Associated Press between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday included 13 deaths in traffic accidents.

Two persons drowned. Gunfire, stabbing and fire accounted for one fatality each, and a child died from being struck by a baseball.

In the worst single accident, four motorists were killed Saturday in Corpus Christi as a car hit a power pole and overturned. They were Christopher L. Scherzer, 25; Elizabeth McBride, 27; her daughter Leslie, 7, and niece Jacqueline Garza, 11. A nephew of Mrs. McBride, Gabriel Garza, 14, was injured.

Other Victims

These were among the other victims:

Hosea Allison Jr., 23, of Dallas, fell out of a motorboat and drowned Sunday near Lake Ray Hubbard breakwater.

Police said a car struck and killed Enrique Valanzula, 32, of Juarez, Mexico, in what appeared to be a deliberate hit-and-run case Sunday in Houston. They said the vehicle hit him soon after he fought with two other men outside a lounge.

Mike Thompson, 20, died early Sunday in a house fire one mile south of Cleburne. Two others sleeping in the house escaped.

Sammy Heisel, 17, of Center died Sunday when his car collided with a pickup truck on Texas 7 near Center.

Haywood Beaty III, 6, died before reaching a Dallas hospital Saturday after he was hit on the head by a baseball while playing at his home.

Jessie Robert Holsomback, 21, of Pearland and Daniel Leonard Buter, 18, of Houston died late Saturday in a two-vehicle collision on a farm road two miles east of Pearland.

Robert Earl Williams, 18, of New Braunfels died early Saturday when a car overturned five times on a farm road two miles west of Seguin. Another person was injured.

A one-car accident in the Dallas suburb of Irving Friday night killed Mark Rodriguez, 11. Two others in the car were injured.

Edward Ray Chapman of Dallas was killed early Saturday when his car struck a bridge railing on a South Dallas freeway.

Bernice Venable, 53, of Vidor drowned Saturday in Galveston Bay about half a mile south of Smith Point. Authorities said her boat was swamped by large waves. Her husband, D. J. Venable, was rescued by a shrimp boat.

Four-year-old Terry Tyrone Peterson was fatally injured Friday evening when he was struck by a car on a Big Spring street.

Vietnamese Beggar Girl Hospitalized In Hawaii

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Tran Thu Het, a 3-year-old Vietnamese girl en route to Texas for correction of a congenital heart defect, has been delayed in Honolulu after becoming ill during the flight, a social worker reported today.

Victory Srinivasan, who operates two homes for needy children in Saigon, said the former beggar girl "turned blue during the flight, was given oxygen and then had to be hospitalized in Honolulu."

The child, accompanied by an American nurse, was going to Houston, Tex., for corrective surgery at the Texas Heart Institute. Srinivasan said she would remain at a children's hospital in Honolulu for a week or 10 days before resuming her trip.

Until a year ago the girl lived on the streets of Saigon with her mother and four brothers and sisters, all of them beggars.

An Associated Press photographer 18 months ago showing her asleep in a discarded C-ration box on a sidewalk drew dozens of letters offering assistance. Srinivasan took her into one of his homes, but she has been hospitalized much of the time by a series of infections. During one examination, the doctors discovered a congenital heart defect.

13 States To Vote Tuesday

By The Associated Press

Voters in 13 states and the District of Columbia hold primaries Tuesday to select candidates for November's congressional and gubernatorial elections.

Most of the nine incumbent governors and five senators seeking new terms expected to win easy renomination.

Primaries are being held for either state or congressional posts in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Republican Govs. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire and John Vanderhoof of Colorado face the most difficult primary fights but are favored to win.

Two hot Democratic battles are in New York, where Rep. Hugh L. Carey and Howard J. Samuels are battling to run against GOP Gov. Malcolm Wilson, and in Massachusetts, where the winner of the contest between former state Rep. Michael S. Dukakis and Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn will likely face GOP Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

Of the five senators seeking new terms, only Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., has primary opposition. He is expected to defeat Dr. Ross Pierpoint, a perennial conservative candidate.

Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., are unopposed for renomination. Both parties have primary fights for the seats of retiring Sens. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Norris Cotton, R-N.H., and Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

In gubernatorial races, Wilson, who became governor when Nelson A. Rockefeller resigned last December, is unopposed for the GOP nomination in New York. Six other state executives are expected to win easy primary victories.

They are Democrats Reubin Askew of Florida, Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Thomas P. Salmon of Vermont, Wendell R. Anderson of Minnesota and Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin, and Republican Sargent of Massachusetts.

Five Republicans and four Democrats are running to succeed retiring GOP Gov. John R. Williams in Arizona. Gubernatorial candidates already have been chosen in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

In the District of Columbia, appointed Mayor Walter Washington and attorney Clifford L. Alexander are the leading candidates in the city's first mayoral election. Their Democratic primary battle is tantamount to election.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

"Thy Word is Truth" (John 17:17)

by
Bryan Bost

In II Peter 1:16-21 the apostle Peter assures Christians that we have a good basis for our faith. He says, in part: "For we did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eyewitnesses of his majesty . . . And we have the prophetic word made more sure . . . no prophecy ever came by the impulse of man, but men moved by the Holy Spirit spoke from God."

Our faith in Christ is based on a good foundation. That foundation consists of the fulfilled prophecy of the Old Testament and the eyewitness testimony of the apostles. Peter says that the prophets spoke by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, and in John 16:13 Jesus promised the apostles that the Holy Spirit would guide them into all truth. Therefore, our basis of faith is strong not only because we have two witnesses (coming both before and after Christ) but also because these witnesses were divinely inspired. Our Christian faith is not based on cleverly devised myths but on the inspired testimony of the apostles and prophets.

HOROSCOPE

by Carroll Righter

(Sept. 10)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Plan how to put your biggest projects in operation. An emotional problem may arise so you feel imposed upon, but do the jobs facing you well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle family matters diplomatically for fine results. Use right methods to have more efficiency at home. Take no chances with one with ulterior motives.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can solve problems that have been difficult for you to do in the past. Be ethical. The evening is particularly fine for the social side of things.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your financial position, and you will know how to proceed instead of asking for advice. Listen to what an expert has to suggest, however. Try to please mate more in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get rid of anything annoying, or you won't accomplish much. A long telephone conversation with a new personality could prove most interesting in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A day to relax and study the progress you've made so you know what errors have to be corrected. Assist one who complains, and all is okay.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact good friends and show how much you value them, especially if you haven't had much time for them lately. Also contact a group with interests like yours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Handle civic affair well. Try to improve your credit. Make sure you study your financial position more carefully. Watch additions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22) Know just how to put those new ideas and plans to work more intelligently. A new associate may try to put a damper on them, but one who understands clears up the matter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Collect money. Pay bills. You have to be the aggressive one now where love life is concerned. A pretty posy or two can help matters along.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't permit associate who feels in a maudlin mood to keep you from getting out into the world of action and producing in a.m. Steer clear of those who get in your way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't procrastinate, or you never will get duties done. Take the right treatments to build up your energy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Spend little for amusements and build up your reserve funds. Some creative matter can turn out to be most profitable as well as interesting. Work on it.

Envoy To Japan Loses His Personal Swimming Pool Also

By STEVE WILSON

TOKYO (AP) — The new U.S. ambassador to Japan, James D. Hodgson, and President Ford have at least one complaint in common. Both lost their personal swimming pools recently when they took new jobs.

Hodgson used to enjoy a dip in the pool at his Beverly Hills, Calif., home. But the ambassador's pool in Tokyo was torn out when work began this summer on a new embassy building. Ford lost his pool when he moved into the White House.

"They took away my swimming pool, so I'm among the disadvantaged," the 57-year-old ambassador joked during an interview. "For a Californian not to have a swimming pool, he feels disadvantaged."

The former Lockheed Aircraft Corp. vice president and former secretary of Labor in 1970-72 arrived in Japan in July with his wife, Maria, for his first diplomatic assignment.

Hodgson was nominated in March for the post, but his confirmation was held up by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Md. Symington reportedly feared Hodgson's appointment might give Lockheed an edge in international sales over the McDonnell Douglas Corp., the giant aircraft maker in Symington's hometown of St. Louis.

Hodgson said he used the time during the delay to do extensive research on Japan and now he is immersed in meeting as many people as possible and learning first-hand about Japan.

"One of the delights of diplomatic life, compared to business life, is that there are many things in which the wife can be included," he said.

"It is not only good for domestic felicity, but in this case it also is good for Japanese-American relations," the ambassador added.

He said the Japanese seem delighted with President Ford and his obvious demonstration of interest in the Japanese.

The ambassador pointed out that the first individual representative of a foreign nation Ford met as President was the Japanese ambassador in Washington. The new President declared that he plans to visit Japan this year, and he has invited Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka to stop in Washington during his trip to Canada and Latin America this month.

"This is the kind of thing that Japanese-American relations need," Hodgson said.

"It shows a sensitivity to the fact that the Japanese feel they have a special relationship with the United States and they rely on the United States and they need assurance from the United States.

"No more conspicuous assurance could be given than this kind of attention."

The ambassador starts his day at 6:30 a.m. with exercises, followed by an hour's Japanese language lesson with his wife and an instructor. Most of his days and, frequently the evenings, are occupied with get-acquainted meetings with Japanese government and business leaders and members of the U.S. community in Japan.

Hodgson was raised in Minnesota and went to the University of California at Los Angeles for graduate work. He later taught labor relations there.

He joined Lockheed as a personnel assistant in 1941, spent three years in the Pacific as a naval air combat intelligence officer during World War II and then returned to Lockheed.

Shopping Center Zoning Proposals On Council Agenda

The Midland City Council will consider an 18-item agenda Tuesday of a mostly routine nature, but readings on permanent zoning for two proposed shopping center sites should keep the session interesting.

The last council meeting bogged down for nearly 2½ hours on the shopping center proposals of L. H. Hahn and Louis Rochester as planned district designs were presented by the developers. But Tuesday's readings on the zoning of both proposals should be routine.

Another zoning item could possibly bring some protest from the public as a request for a car wash to be allowed in the 3300 block of Douglas Street is aired in public hearing at 1:45 p.m. The request was denied approval by the Planning and Zoning Commission last week, and applicant Mike Kelly said that he might consider altering his local retail request to an office zoning.

Other items on the Tuesday agenda include:

PLANNING AND ZONING

At 1:30 p.m. hold a public hearing on request for a zone change from 1F-2 (single family) to MF-1 (multiple family) on Lots 9, 10, and 11, Block A, Cowden Addition (1707 - 1711 N. Marienfield St.)

At 1:40 p.m. hold a public hearing on a request for a zone change from 1F-1 (single family) to MF-1 (multiple family) on all of Block 1, Beckland Terrace Addition (3301 Andrews Highway.)

At 1:45 p.m. hold a public hearing on a request for a zone change from 1F-1 (single family) to LR-2 (local retail) on Lot 8, Block 5, Lilly Heights Addition (3300 Douglas St.)

Buck Rogers World Sprouts In Desert

By HOWARD BENEDICT

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Thirty miles east of Pueblo, amidst a semi-arid desert is a Buck Rogers world of modern buildings and sleek, powerful machines that look like spaceships.

They're possible forerunners of future mass transit systems to move people around at 300 miles or more an hour. They travel on rails, on cushions of air, on magnetic fields.

The Department of Transportation's High Speed Ground Test Center, which sprouted in the desert four years ago, is there to harness the latest technology to improve ground transportation, including present rail, future high speed rail and advanced systems.

The $55 million complex has more than 30 miles of tracks and guideways and a Rail Dynamics Laboratory with the world's most advanced computer-controlled simulator, which permits simulation of speeds up to 288 miles per hour under varying track conditions.

A bridge crosses a pair of tracks with a high rail in the center. Three miles up the track is a burst of smoke or dust — hurtling at incredible speed is a red and white bullet-shaped projectile. It zips under the ridge and out of sight.

The speeding object was a linear induction motor research vehicle, or LIMRV. Glenn A. Reiff, the center's senior project engineer, says it travels at 150 miles an hour and has a two-man crew. Earlier this year it set a world speed record for rail vehicles of 234 miles an hour.

Such motors are essentially rotary motors unrolled and laid out flat. They are propelled by electromagnetic forces and because they have no moving parts, they are noiseless, vibrationless and practically pollution-free.

Linear motors power two unconventional guided vehicles at the center: a tracked air cushion vehicle (TACV) and a tracked levitated vehicle. (TLV).

The TACV, designed to carry 60 passengers at speeds up to 150 miles per hour, uses the air exhaust from three jet engines for lifting itself a few inches above its five-mile long U-shaped cement guideway.

The TLV, built for speeds up to 300 m.p.h., may be levitated magnetically as well as by air on its 21.8-mile guideway.

The department recently awarded Ford Motor Co. a $2.1 million contract for development and testing of a a vehicle that could ride on a magnetic field above a single aluminum rail. It could lead to streamlined vehicles that would move along one foot above a guide rail at 300 m.p.h. or more in the mid or late 1980s.

The vehicle would be pollution-free and quiet. Rail maintenance costs would be reduced substantially because of lack of friction between the craft and the rail.

The Ford vehicle will use electromagnets to keep floating above the rail, but its propulsion will come from rockets. It will use rubber wheels to support itself at speeds under 50 m.p.h.

Department officials feel such a transportation system would be ideal for transit between cities. Representatives of several communities in the United States and abroad are watching testing developments at the center.

About two-thirds of the tracks completed here are for testing conventional railway and transit equipment. Included are different types and length of rail. With old-fashioned wood ties costing $20 each these days, the durability of concrete ties is being examined.

A nine-mile transit loop, with an electrified third rail, is used by the Federal Railroad Administration to develop portable instrumentation for on-the-spot diagnosing of track condition, to evaluate improved subway cars, to perfect hybrid electrical-gas turbine propulsion for rapid transit cars and to study energy storage propulsion for subway systems, using a flywheel concept.

Branching off one of the main tracks is a nearly mile-long spur where the impact of collisions and derailments is studied. Emphasis presently is on train-auto accidents at grade crossings.

In the lab, technicians are able to simulate various track irregularities, including track displacement under moving loads. It eventually will be possible to feed the computer characteristics of a specific section of track from an existing railroad anywhere in the country.

"These tests are aimed at improving ride comfort, safety, reliability and speed," Reiff said. "Through these activities we are developing the technology of systems which can provide the basis for transportation system decisions for the next two decades."

S. Viet Police Disperse Catholic Demonstrators

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Police used tear gas Sunday against several thousand Catholic refugees demonstrating in Hue against President Nguyen Van Thieu's government.

The demonstrators, led by an antigovernment priest, accused Thieu's regime of being corrupt and repressing freedom of the press.

Nguyen Quoc Cuong, the chief government spokesman, said the refugees were dispersed because they did not have a permit for the demonstration. He said such demonstrations profit the Communists by "inciting the people, sowing confusion and creating disorder."

An anti-Thieu member of the National Assembly told a news conference the government mobilized more than 500 armed police against the demonstrators. He said the melee lasted about three hours, and at least 10 people were injured, including two children.

Meanwhile, military sources reported that North Vietnamese troops overran an infantry battalion of more than 500 troops.

Thousands Of Auto Workers Can't Afford Early Retirement

DETROIT (AP) — Thousands of auto workers are not using the industry's unique 30-and-out retirement plan because they do not think they can afford to retire on a fixed income, says one of the plan's architects.

Doug Fraser, a UAW vice president who helped get the plan into the contract negotiated with Chrysler Corp. last fall, cited figures showing that only about 1,300 of the 33,000 auto workers eligible for full pension benefits have taken advantage of it so far. He says, however, that many workers may wait to retire until Oct. 1, when benefits increase.

The 30-and-out plan, which the union considered a major breakthrough in the last contract negotiations, allows a worker to retire after 30 years' service with Chrysler, General Motors or Ford with full pension. In the past, workers could retire after 30 years, but not with full benefits if they were under 65.

Top benefits will increase from $550 to $625 a month on Oct. 1. Most auto workers make more than $260 a week before taxes, with the average assembler pulling in about $240.

Fraser says of the low number of retirements: "With living costs continuing to rise, they feel they just can't afford to retire on a fixed income. They know they would be wiped out."

A GM spokesman says that in the past 11 months, 804 hourly workers used 30-and-out to retire. At Ford, a spokesman said 350 workers retired under the plan. Chrysler figures were not available, but a spokesman said they were expected to number about 150.

UAW officials say, however, they feel it's been important to establish the principle of early retirement.

Fraser said that many eligible workers may be waiting an extra few years to get higher benefits (they rise to $700 a month by 1978), and the company-paid dental program which begins next month.
