SCENE OF FATALITY VIEWED — Police Patrolman Ricky Klahr (foreground) and others look over the site where a 13-year-old local girl was killed Sunday. Killed in the one-car accident was Laurie Ann Henderson. The accident occurred near the Garden City cutoff south of Big Spring at approximately 12:01 p.m., Sunday.

'. . . MY GOD! — WHAT HAPPENED'

Nebraska Man Held In Death Of Six

SUTHERLAND, Neb. (AP) — "My first thought was, my God! — what happened."

June Lindstrom, an ambulance attendant, was one of the first to discover the bloody scene where six members of the Henery Kellie family were shot to death Saturday night in a tiny frame house.

She also was the victims' friend. She had assisted in delivery of one of them — 10-year-old Florence — when the child was born.

Mrs. Lindstrom said she found David Kellie, 32, lying on the floor with the body of his 5-year-old son, Daniel, draped over him. The body of his 6-year-old daughter, Deanne, "was crouched in the corner, like she was hiding."

David's parents, 66-year-old Henery and 57-year-old Marie, also were found dead in their frame house where their divorced son and his two children had arrived earlier for an evening meal as was their custom.

Florence, who had been living with her grandparents since the death of her mother several years ago in an auto accident — was found in another room of the five-room house.

Mrs. Lindstrom said she knew David was still alive. "I looked over into the mass of blood and there were bubbles coming out."

David apparently called the police before he died. Floyd Paulman, who was on duty in the town marshall's office when the call came in — said he recognized David's voice.

Paulman said David, a close friend of his, told him "'We need an ambulance.'"

Sunday morning Erwin Charles Simants, 29, was arrested and charged with killing the Kellies. Mrs. Lindstrom described him as a "hothead" and "troublemaker."

Simants had been living at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, next door to the Kellies.

"I can't imagine it in a little town like this," said Mrs. Lindstrom's husband, Clyde, a municipal employe in the prairie town of 850.

Lindstrom said he spoke to a tearful Amos Simants, father of the accused, outside the Kellie home shortly after the killings. He said the elder Simants told him, "My son killed five or six people here."

Lindstrom also said that Amos Simants told him that he had encouraged his son to give himself up but Erwin fled. Amos Simants refused to speak to reporters following his son's arraignment Sunday.

Simants was held without bond on six counts of first-degree murder — which carries the death penalty in Nebraska — after authorities caught him returning to a relatives' residence early Sunday.

One-Car Crash Sunday Is Fatal To Girl, 13

Laurie Ann Henderson, 13, Sterling City Route, was pronounced dead at a local hospital after the car her brother was driving turned over at 12:01 p.m. Sunday.

Rusty Henderson, 14, was driving south on Wasson Road and apparently lost control trying to turn at the Longshore exit, Texas Highway Patrolman Bill Jennings said.

Rusty, who was described as hysterical, was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital for a head wound.

The two are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson, Sterling City Route, Big Spring.

Laurie was an eighth grader in the Forsan school system. She is believed to have been thrown out of the car, which then rolled over her.

The children were the only two occupants in the vehicle, witnesses said.

The car wound up on its top side and was believed a total loss.

The Longshore road exits into the Garden City highway and is about five miles from downtown Big Spring.

Funeral for Laurie Ann Henderson will be at 2 p.m., Tuesday in the Forsan High School Auditorium, with the Rev. Jim Wilkerson, pastor of Crestview Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

LAURIE HENDERSON

She was born Feb. 10, 1962, in Fort Sumner, N.M. The family has resided here the past four years. She was a member of Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Henderson, a brother, Aaron E. Henderson, all of the home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Evelyn Young, Tucson, Ariz.; the maternal grandfather, Aaron Hutchison, Albuquerque, N.M.; the paternal grandfather, Charley Henderson, Wynnewood, Okla.; the paternal grandmother, Daisy Henderson, Wynnewood, Okla.; the maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Shirley, Fort Sumner, N.M.; and Mrs. Lena Hutchison, Albuquerque, N.M.

Pallbearers will be Elzy Davis, Howard Dodd, Roger Kennedy, Don Stevens, George White and J. F. Poynor.

Unwanted Grenade Passes Through Several Hands

An unwanted hand grenade was passed through several hands Sunday morning.

Manuel Doque of Ackerly Route found the explosive on his farm. He brought it to town to the Giant Food Store.

Police were called to the store. A patrolman carefully took the grenade to the police sergeant, Claude Morris. Sgt. Morris didn't want it either.

The sergeant took the grenade to officials at Webb Air Force Base security.

Danger In Bacon Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the use of nitrite as a curing agent in meats should be limited because cooking nitrite-cured bacon produces substances that cause cancer in rats.

Dr. Donald Houston, assistant deputy director of the department's meat and poultry inspection division, said Sunday that nitrite-cured bacon produces low levels of nitrosamines — between 5 to 15 parts per billion — when cooked at high temperatures.

Nitrosamines have been found to be carcinogenic in rats, Houston said.

"There is really no definitive research indicating whether nitrosamines are carcinogenic in humans," Houston said.

Houston said nitrite, which has been used for thousands of years to cure meats and for which scientists have no substitute, is also used to cure other meats, such as frankfurters, bologna and luncheon meats.

But he stressed that nitrosamines are produced only when nitrite-cured meat is heated to a high temperature.

He said, "if you reduce the level of cooking to the point at which nitrosamines are not produced, you have the problem of botulism," a deadly infection.

"What we're trying to do is lower the levels of nitrite in bacon so cooking doesn't produce nitrosamines and, at the same time, maintain enough levels to prevent danger from botulism," Houston said. "We know the present levels aren't necessary, so we're cutting them back."

U. S., Russia Work Out Long-Term Trade Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have reached terms for long-range sale of American grain and a Soviet committment to supply some oil to this country, it was learned today.

The grain deal, completed by Undersecretary of State Charles W. Robinson in his third round of talks in Moscow, is designed to stabilize Russian purchases over the next few years.

The Soviets reportedly will buy about 5 million tons of wheat and other grains annually.

Periodic purchases by Moscow, sometimes of enormous volumes, have unsettled prices in the United States.

This year a poor Russian harvest has led to purchases of 9.8 million metric tons of grain from American exporters. According to some economists, this probably will result in a jump of U.S. consumer prices over the next few months.

The Soviets were hoping for a crop of 215 million metric tons this year compared to a consumption need of about 200 million metric tons. However, latest American estimates are a harvest of some 170 million metric tons.

A metric ton is equivalent to 2,205 pounds.

It was learned an announcement of the deal also will specify a stated Soviet intention to sell some oil to the United States. However, knowledgeable U.S. officials said there would be no undercutting of cartel prices set by the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

At the White House, press secretary Ron Nessen was asked if there would be any announcement on a reported oil-grain deal with Russia. Nessen replied, "I have nothing to announce at this time."

Exporters are required to report large foreign sales to the Department of Agriculture within 24 hours, but the department ordinarily does not report such sales except once a week and does not publish names of firms involved. No new sales to Russia have been reported by USDA.

In the two years since the Arab-Israeli war the price of oil has quintupled as Arab and non-Arab producers formed a solid front against the consuming nations, defending the boost as necessitated by spiraling inflation.

Even though there will be no discount, the fact that Robinson was able to tie in oil to Russian grain purchases could help counter criticism of detente as a one-way street favoring Moscow.

The Soviets were wary of doing anything that might appear to undercut Arab oil producers and thereby cast doubt on Moscow's reliability as an ally of the Arabs in their dispute with Israel, it was learned.

American officials had acknowledged privately that while the Soviet Union now exports oil to Europe, its spare capacity will diminish with rising domestic needs. By the 1980s, Moscow is expected to become a net importer of oil.

American negotiators had tried to buy Soviet oil at a substantial discount, partly as a sign to OPEC that it cannot completely dominate prices on the world market and partly in the hope that it might lead to price cutting, even by some OPEC members.

Robinson, the State Department's top economic expert, began working on terms for the deal in a trip to Moscow last month.

He continued with a return visit in early October, breaking off to head the U.S. delegation at a preparatory energy meeting in Paris and then flew back to the Soviet capital.

UN Council Eyes Woes In Spain

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations Security Council met today to take up Spain's request for action to dissuade Morocco from sending 350,000 unarmed civilians into the disputed Spanish Sahara.

Sources said Spanish Ambassador Jaime de Pinies would ask the council to send U.N. observers to the frontier between Morocco and the Spanish colony.

At the same time, the Spanish cabinet went into urgent session in Madrid to try to avoid a confrontation with Morocco.

A Moroccan official in Rabat said the only thing that can stop the march is a Spanish declaration recognizing Morocco's claim to the northern part of the mineral-rich territory and offering to discuss arrangements for handing it over.

The official Moroccan news agency said 524,642 volunteers had registered for the march by Sunday night. The fittest among them are to be selected to make the grueling 50-mile walk across stony desert from the border town of Tarfaya to El Aaiun, the capital of the Spanish Sahara.

De Pinies wrote Security Council President Olof Rydbeck of Sweden that "the announced invasion" endangers international peace and security and ignores the Saharans' right to self-determination. Spain is making plans to give up control of the territory but favors a referendum to determine its future.

Congress Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a week's recess, Congress is returning to work today to tackle the problem of natural gas shortages and the question of whether there should be another tax cut next year.

The legislative load facing the lawmakers is so heavy and includes so many controversies that congressional leaders say the 1975 session will run to Christmas and perhaps even New Year's.

Besides major tax and energy issues, Congress must deal with such questions as Middle East aid, defense spending and help for New York City.

A Senate-House conference committee goes back to work on an energy bill that contains a wide array of provisions ranging from petroleum pricing to mandatory auto-fuel economy standards.

On natural gas, Democrats are pushing for a temporary bill to allow gas-short pipelines to buy enough supplies to get through the winter at prices well above what they normally pay for interstate shipments.

Republicans and President Ford want to add provisions removing all federal controls gradually from natural gas. The Senate is scheduled to take a final vote on the legislation by noon Friday.

The conferees trying to work out a long-range energy plan hope for agreement by mid-November. But the oil-pricing policies of both the House and Senate versions are so far from the President's proposals that he is considered almost certain to veto the final product.

The congressional plan would keep the present $5.25-a-barrel price on oil produced from wells in production before 1973 and roll back the price of new oil below the world market levels now running at about $13.50 a barrel.

Ford wants to end oil-price controls, but over a shorter period of time than many members of Congress desire.

The energy package also would establish an oil reserve system, authorize the President to allocate energy production materials, establish voluntary conservation programs, and continue authority to require that power plants use coal rather than oil or natural gas.

UT Regents Seek Advice On Leasing Area Land

AUSTIN (AP) — A University of Texas regent appealed to the Railroad Commission today for guidance in leasing 2.2 million acres of West Texas land for oil and gas development.

Such a plea apparently is unprecedented at a statewide oil allowable hearing.

Regent Ed Clark of Austin noted that the university had owned the lands since 1876 and had been leasing for years, but he indicated that the uncertainty of the oil and gas industry concerned the regents.

For example, Clark said, in a sale Oct. 10, the university for the first time got more royalties from natural gas than from crude oil.

He also said regents had considered calling off the sale but had actually gotten "several million more dollars than we anticipated."

"If you could just tell us what's going to happen in Washington," Clark said, the university might take gas and oil—rather than money—for royalties and sell the oil and gas for more money elsewhere.

"We're seeing things slow down. We're not seeing any development," Clark said. "It (oil and gas drilling) came on strong for awhile, but they're beginning to stack rigs."

Commissioner Jim Langdon said in Washington "they (the federal government) don't know what's going to happen tomorrow."

Langdon invited Clark, an Austin lawyer, to accompany him on one of his frequent trips to testify before congressional committees.

Following Clark's testimony, the commission routinely set the oil allowable for November at 100 per cent—the 44th consecutive month of wide-open production.

As usual, the huge East Texas field was restricted to 86 per cent production to avoid possible waste.

Chairman Ben Ramsey said Texas crude oil production was continuing to decline. A summary distributed by the regulatory agency showed that in production this month will be an estimated 98,909 barrels a day less than in October 1974.

United States imports for the four weeks ending Oct. 3 averaged 4,596,000 barrels a day, an increase of 824,000 from Jan. 3, Ramsey said.

"The demand for Texas crude far exceeds our ability to produce it," said Langdon.

He questioned each of the 14 company spokesmen who made presentations, asking if their companies were getting all the oil that they were seeking. Almost all said production was less than what they want.

Phillips Petroleum Co., for example, seeks 115,000 barrels a day in November, but a spokesman said its leases probably would produce only 96,000 to 98,000 barrels a day.

Nominations by major Texas crude oil buyers for November, in barrels per day, with any changes from October in parentheses:

Amoco 350,000

Girl, 7, Is Shot; Cycle Gang Sought

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joseph Mauro, his 7-year-old daughter Ann tucked in his arms, raced past the windows of his neighbors screaming "My child. They shot my child."

His wife, Carol, tried to keep up with him but collapsed against a stone wall, neighbors said.

Police today were searching for a member of the Southwest Philadelphia Warlocks Motorcycle Club on a charge of first-degree murder in the child's death.

Police said Edward "Ace" Kivlin, 24, of Yeadon, came to the Mauro house Saturday night with four friends apparently seeking revenge for a beating Mauro had given one of his buddies after the man challenged Mauro to a fight in a bar Friday night. Neighbors said they believed the 5-feet-9, 180-pound Mauro was a former prize fighter.

Mauro wasn't available for comment.

"Mauro came to the door and Kivlin challenged him to come out and fight," Darby Borough Police Chief Paul Coleman said. "He saw the other four and didn't go out."

But Mauro, described by neighbors as a doting father, poked his head out a window to answer their taunts and saw Ann coming home from play. He ran out and grabbed his daughter and a series of shots rang out, witnesses said. Ann was hit.

Mauro picked up the girl, blood spurting from her head, and ran toward Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital, about two blocks away. She was dead by the time they arrived.

Time Changes Again Sunday

The nation "gains" an hour Sunday morning when it returns to standard time.

Daylight savings time ends at 2 a.m., Oct. 26, at which time clocks will officially be set back to 1 a.m.

Standard times remains in effect until the last Sunday in April, 1976.

Partial Nude Makes News

It was a warm day Saturday.

A man running around town in light colored swimming trunks Saturday afternoon was reported to police as a nude at 3rd and Main at 5 p.m. Saturday.

A second man called police to report the "naked man." Police reporting to the scene discovered that the alleged nude was attired in swimming trunks.

Credit Card Industry Is Due To Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of a new federal commission charged with investigating invasion of privacy says the panel will study the credit-card industry because "you can trace a man's life by where he travels, what he buys, how he spends his leisure."

David F. Linowes, chairman of the Privacy Protection Study Commission, said the whole subject of privacy is "so complicated and so broad that it's frightening to come to grips with it."

Yet Linowes said in an interview he is confident that the seven-man group will be able to come up with meaningful results.

In addition to credit cards, the commission intends to study mailing lists, the use of Social Security numbers for identification, and state and local government practices.

Referring to the tremendous growth of the credit-card industry, Linowes, a New York City management consultant, said this is "very deep and could have serious implications."

"In the last decade, dossier maintenance has gone public — been democratized, you might say. A few decades ago only the well-to-do had such dossiers. Now every man in the street has credit cards."

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gross National Product, the broadest measure of the nation's economic health, grew 11.2 per cent, the biggest increase in 20 years, during the three-month period ending in September, the government said today.

The GNP figures released by the Commerce Department measure the total volume of goods and services produced in the economy.

The sharp increase had been predicted by administration officials and apparently represented the "encouraging economic statistics" President Ford said last week were on the way.

Older People Get Hit Again

The spiral is ever upward, and it's little wonder people look forward to their retirement with mixed emotions. Many of them are being priced into abject poverty.

Medicare recipients have been told they will be paying higher hospital bills after Jan. 1. At that time, each aged and disabled patient on Medicare must start paying the first $104 of his or her hospital bill, compared to the $92 now being assessed against them.

The reason for the increase, explains Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell, is the increase in medical costs. They have gone up 50 per cent faster than the cost of living as a whole; it is estimated the $104 will about equal one day's hospital cost, and less than that in some places.

Other Medicare costs similarly will increase: After 60 days, daily hospital costs will be $26 instead of $23, nursing home care will go from $13 per day for the 21st to 100th day, compared to the present $11.50.

All of these increases will mean additional hardship on Medicare patients, most of whom find retirement income which looked sufficient years ago now totally inadequate. As a society, we continue to do poorly by our older citizens — much more poorly than most other Western democratic countries, which manage to provide for retirement with dignity and without poverty.

Relationship Suffers

Jordanian Prime Minister Zaid Rifai has rejected a U.S. offer to sell Hawk antiaircraft missiles to Jordan because of "insulting" limitation on their use imposed by President Ford.

In a letter to Congress, President Ford said that Jordan would be prohibited from placing the missile systems under any binational or multinational military force.

"Jordan regards these limitations as unique and insulting," Rifai told the U.S. Ambassador to Jordan.

The limitations are insulting and perhaps a bit too clever. The President knows that Syria and Jordan recently entered into an agreement to create a joint Syria-Jordan command as a response to Egyptian-Israeli negotiations which ended in a limited agreement. Therefore the administration was reasonably certain that Jordan would not agree to limitations on the use of Hawk missiles.

So Jordan, with the financial backing of Saudi Arabia and other oil-producing Arab states, will turn to the Soviet Union for an antiaircraft missile system. Given the confused situation in the middle East it is difficult to know whether this turn to the Soviet Union for weapons is good or bad. But it may sign the end of a long period of close U.S.-Jordanian relations as King Hussein tried desperately to hold his position in a sea of Arab rivalries. The end of a Western-leaning Jordan may be at hand. That in itself is a pity.

Of Malcontents

Around The Rim

This and that:

When my No. Two daughter was learning to drive, it proved to be a traumatic experience for me as well as for her. I told her to go on green, stop on red and take it easy when I turned white.

ONE OF THE disgruntled students at the University of Texas at Austin, displeased that the board of regents would not show new president Dr. Lorene Rogers, the door, was heard to utter: "Students are learning at UT that our democracy is a sham, a fake and a bad joke."

That may be true, and it's best they learn it now than later, but it also proves to me that many students, not to mention members of the teaching fraternity, operate under the illusion that the schools belong to them.

The student also says that the American Association of University Professors has been asked to investigate this tyranny. If that organization finds against the university, the malcontent suggests, UT will be blacklisted.

That might happen, too. It is also a fact of life that educators in some schools would resort to revolution to tear down the very institutions which use tax money to provide them with pay checks.

Ford's Virus

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — The need by the Ford campaign last week to call on veteran California political pro Stu Spencer as a troubleshooter reflects how much Gerald R. Ford and his closest associates, all Washington-oriented, have been bedazzled and misled by the glitter of presidential incumbency.

SPENCER, HEADING the Los Angeles campaign management firm of Spencer-Roberts Associates, quietly slipped into Washington to take charge of the president's campaign on a temporary but indefinite basis. Landing on the run, he quickly did what had been neglected for months: setting up a Ford-for-President organization in New Hampshire, where the nation's first presidential primary will be held Feb. 24.

This was caused by the Ford political braintrust for so many months dismissing the possibility that anybody — including Ronald Reagan, an ex-governor of California lacking a political base — would dare challenge an incumbent President. The call for help to Spencer shows a belated, grudging, still not entirely convinced realization that Reagan is virtually certain to announce his candidacy before Tahnksgiving Day.

Tardy apprehension of reality has cost the President. Little has been done in campaign organization or fund-raising, and Reagan forces have a heart start in New Hampshire. Thus, Reagan's long delay in announcing his candidacy is largely neutralized. Although Mr. Ford remains an overwhelming favorite, the odds have been narrowed.

THE NOTION that Reagan would never really challenge the President was implicit in the selection of Howard (Bo) Callaway, Secretary of the Army, to run Mr. Ford's pre-convention campaign. Callaway, a spellbinder but no policital organizer, was assigned to talk key Republicans into presidential endorsements. His choice as deputy was veteran party pro Lee Nunn, known for fund-raising rather than campaign organization.

Since nobody at the White House expected Reagan would run, there was no need to organize primary election cmapaigns. But we reported two months ago that some Ford supporters, recognizing the increasing likelihood of a Reagan candidacy, were pushing for a competent organizer to replace the Callaway-Nunn team.

The White House still reassured itself that Reagan wouldn't dare. Meanwhile, the Callaway-Nunn match was not made in heaven. Complaining of the fast-traveling Callaway's refusal to make decisions, Nunn packed his bags and prepared his return home to Kentucky two weeks ago.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Recently I read an article in The Herald dealing with Christian Science and a book written by Mary Baker Eddy. I believe the book was Science and Health.

The article told who all had read the book. Several famous people were mentioned. They tried to make like this was something great. In researching the said book, (I found) Science and Health was published in 1875. This is only 100 years for the book.

I believe that equal time should be considered for the best seller of best sellers — the Holy Bible. I could not say how many people have read this book, but consider what it has survived through. It has survived the time when people wanted to do away with Christianity.

It is surviving today behind the Iron Curtain where men are attempting to destroy it and the standards for which it stands.

Can Mary Baker Eddy's book survive such trials as the Holy Bible has, and still remain prominent in the world.

Thank you.

"There, now! You should feel much more secure."

My Answer

Billy Graham

Did you happen to read Alexander Solzhenitsyn's speech delivered to the AFL-CIO leadership in New York? I heard that one leader in high office said, after reading the speech, that the Russian poet is a mental case. Do you happen to know if this is true? What did you think of his remarks to the nation, if you read the speech? I.I.K.

I certainly did read Solzhenitsyn's speech and thought it to be one of the most courageous and forthright I have heard lately. Here is a man who has suffered for his beliefs, and has earned the right to be heard. He said many important things, but one statement struck me forcibly. "Communism has never concealed the fact that it rejects all absolute concepts of morality. It scoffs at any consideration of 'good and evil' as indisputable categories.....It is in this respect that communism has been most successful. It has infected the whole world with the belief in the relativity of good and evil. Communism has managed to instill in all of us that these concepts are old-fashioned concepts and laughable. But if we are deprived of the concepts of good and evil what will be left? Nothing but the manipulation of one another. We will decline to the status of animals."

Tragically, many Americans have bought the philosophy of the relativity of good and evil. It is as old as Eden, but people still buy it — from the communists, or somewhere else. But, "god commendeth his love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). If good and evil were relative, the cross would have been unnecessary.

Are GNP Figures Distorted?

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Questions being asked about the economy:

—Is the big increase in Gross National Product for the third quarter of the year a forerunner of things to come?

While some professional observers say the third-quarter figures show the economy is surging ahead, others are expressing doubts. They tend not to rely as they once did on the authenticity of statistics.

Some critics say the GNP figures are distorted by more inflation then we seem to realize. That is, what appears to be a husky surge of output really contains a lot of bloat.

Others comment that much of the production simply is going into the rebuilding of depleted inventories and that unless consumer buying improves many of the goods will remain right there in inventories.

Don Conlon, former economist for the Cost of Living Council and now executive vice president of a consulting organization, Capital Strategic Services, is telling clients not to expect any positive growth in GNP for the final quarter of the year.

—Will steel producers be able to make their prices stick?

The Council on Wage and Price Stability has already expressed the opinion that recent increases in steel prices were unjustified in terms of market conditions. They suggested prices might have to fall.

Another economic condition now might add to downward pressures. The U.S. economy is recovering faster than the economies of Japan and European nations.

That raises the possibility that, unable to maintain sales in their own countries, foreign steelmakers will ship increasing amounts of their product here and force American producers to lower their prices.

In times past it wasn't uncommon for the domestic steel industry to seek governmental protection from imports in the form of tariffs, and there is some industry pressure for doing so again.

However, the Council on Wage and Price Stability has already forewarned the industry that it cannot hope to obtain protection while maintaining prices higher than what the council feels the market calls for.

—Will foreign investors in U.S. securities be scared away by recent bankruptcies of American corporations and by the possible default on its bond obligations by New York City?

Money surged into Wall Street early this year, tapered off, and recently showed signs of rising again. That isn't proof that the flow will continue to increase, but it certainly is a comment on conditions elsewhere.

The fact is that the U.S. economy, despite its problems, appears stronger than that of many other industrial countries Moreover, it is in a more advanced stage of recovery from recession than are the others.

Nobody can be certain about the total impact of a default by New York City, but as far as foreign investors in U.S. securities are concerned, the picture apparently doesn't seem to be much brighter anywhere else.

Matter Of Blood Quality

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It was recently discovered that my daughter, who is 28, has thallassemia. I had never heard of this blood disease. She has been told that it is a Mediterranean disease. She happens to be our adopted daughter and she has a little Italian background.

She is constantly tired, seems pale, and always to be "pushing." As a teenager she was treated for anemia. We learned that the reason all the iron pills were not doing any good was because she had this problem.

Can you please tell us a little more about this? How serious is it and is there any medication to help her? — Mrs. T. B.

Your daughter has probably been well informed about her anemia and there is little more to add. It is a hereditary disorder in which the red blood cells are fragile. Pallor and fatigue are the main symptoms. Persons of southern European extraction are most prone to the problem.

Your daughter apparently has what is called "thalassemia minor." In this the symptoms are present but the victim manages to keep going. The "major" form is much more serious and is featured by episodes in which transfusions are needed.

It is true that there is no specific treatment and the blood-builders and tonics are of no help. The system is making sufficient red blood cells; it's just that they are of poor quality.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

The "New State Constitution" propositions to be voted upon within the next few weeks will in essence turn the state into an oligarchy consisting of the governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the house of representatives, attorney general and Chief Justice of Texas. These five individuals can use their positions as appointees of the nine member compensation commission to manipulate bills through the two houses of the state that are most favorable to their own special interests by offering to have pay increases approved or disapproved. Remember they are only human and subject to all human failings. Elective positions do not grant halos to the holder.

Granted, the "OLD" constitution is wordy and to the financial jugglers outdated. But it was written with this purpose in mind to prevent the type situations that exist in New York, California, Michigan and etc. To fully understand the gravity in passage of this new document we must be aware of those deletions from the present instrument.

Here are only eleven proposed deletions that in no way will benefit the tax payer. To be repealed from the 1876 Constitution:

Article III:

Sec. 49B. Veteran's Land Program.

Sec. 50A: Medical Education Loans.

Sec. 50B. Student Loans.

Sec. 51D. Aid To Law Officers Survivors.

Sec. 54. Liens On Railroads.

Sec. 59. Workman's Compensation.

Sec. 60. Workman's Compensation.

Sec. 61. Workman's Compensation.

Sec. 62. Minimum Salary For The Governor, et al.

Article IV:

Sec. 26. Notaries Public.

Article VIII:

Sec. 5. Taxation On Railroad Property.

There are over 100 more. Total additional taxes in excess of $1,000,000,000.

Each of the eight propositions is loaded in this manner and when we go to the polls our concern should be how much more do we want to spend on non-productive state government. Our state officials in the house and senate presently make over $132 per day for the 140 days in two-year sessions. This does not include travel pay or the $3,000 monthly office expense. These same officials could not agree on this very document last year and now, amazingly, we should! If we are to remain a solvent state the people must retain our "Horse-and-Buggy" constitution and maintain control of our state government.

Dear Sir:

The legislature giveth and the legislature taketh away — When writing the proposed state constitution which we will vote on November 4, our legislature used the same deceptive tactics which were so successful in hoodwinking the voters into passing the 'loan shark' amendment (Article X, section 22). They have written specific provisions into the various articles and then added such phrases as 'except as provided by law' and 'or as may be provided by law'.

These phrases mean that the legislature may, at any time, without the consent of the voters, revise that part of the constitution as they see fit. And there are at least 135 of these phrases spread throughout the proposed constitution.

In the case of the 'loan shark' amendment, the people thought they were voting to put a maximum 10 per cent usury limit into the constitution when, in fact, they were giving the legislature the right to increase the interest rates 'as provided by law'. In some cases the interest has been increased to as much as 38 per cent. One of the consequences of this 'as provided by law' power given the legislature is that Texans pay 18 per cent on their gasoline credit card balances while the people of Iowa pay 9 per cent, the people of Arkansas and S. Dakota pay 10 per cent, etc. And the poor fellow who is least able to pay must shell out 38 per cent if he wants to make a loan.

When the citizens of Texas wrote the constitution in 1876 they wrote it so that the power in our state government would remain in the hands of the people. The proposed constitution, written by our legislature, is written so that it appears to leave the power in the hands of the people but in fact transfers this power to the legislature.

I never seem to be able to get through to our public officials that they are not going to be in office forever and that someday they are going to have to live under the laws they create. It seems that once many of them get into office they get 'Potomac fever' (or, in the case of our state legislators, Colorado River fever) and lose touch with reality.

Of course our federal officials get around this problem by granting themselves fat, lifetime pensions with cost of living clauses and tax breaks. If the proposed state constitution is adopted November 4, I foresee that our state and local officials will be able to do the same. Then our government, of the government, by the government and for the government will be complete.

Sir:

What will happen to the alleys when the garbage trucks are stopped?

I think I speak for all the families in the 1900 block of Morrison Street. The alley between Monticello and Morrison, each time we have a heavy rain our houses are flooded. At least when the trucks are using them, they are graded.

I think the people should be asked if they want it changed, not just one person. He doesn't pay our taxes.

Dear Editor:

In regards to an article that appeared in your paper Tuesday October 7, 1975, in reference to the meeting of the School Board at Lakeview School; it said that the Staff and Facilities Committee recommended a centralized kindergarten at Lakeview School. As a member of that committee I would like for the people to know that this is not correct. We recommended neighborhood kindergarten whenever it was feasible.

Sincerely,
Nell Burgess

A Devotion For Today

"Jesus when he began his ministry, was about thirty years of age, being the son (as was supposed) of Joseph, . . . the son of Adam, the son of God."
(Luke 3:23, 38, RSV)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Lord, that we are Thy children. Many have not realized this marvelous inheritance. Help us, Father, to seek them out and say, "Here is my brother." Amen.

Rain Clouds Fall Classic

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Bench dislikes playing the World Series at night, but at this stage of the game, he'll take the World Series anytime.

The fall classic was postponed for the second day in a row Sunday and the prospect for another rainout clouded the air as the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox prepared for the sixth game tonight.

"I don't think any World Series game should be played at night," said Bench, Cincinnati's All-Star catcher. "I don't think you'll see the best performances from the players. Baseball should be played in the daytime, in sunshine preferably."

This hasn't been the set for the "Sunshine Boys" around here for some time. Last weekend, it rained during the second game of the Series, but they managed somehow to play between the raindrops.

After the Reds took a 3-2 lead in Cincinnati, the teams came back to Boston for Game No. 6 and were stopped cold by a "Nor'easter" — a long-winded storm typical for the New England area.

That troublesome storm was expected to linger through today, perhaps causing another postponement. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who rescheduled the sixth game for 8:30 p.m. EDT tonight, said he wasn't "very optimistic" about playing it.

While everyone talked about the weather Sunday, the Reds did something about it. They took their road show indoors and worked out at a cage on the campus of Tufts University, just outside Boston.

There, Manager Sparky Anderson announced that he was changing his starting pitcher for Game No. 6.

"It will be Gary Nolan, instead of Jack Billingham," Anderson said. "Nolan hasn't relieved all year and he's rested. Billingham has some experience as a relief pitcher. I'll have him and Fred Norman up early in the bullpen and I'll use them depending on the situation."

Other flight winners include Tom Pettigrew, first; Albert Gonzales, second; Joe Moreno, third; and Manuel Sanchez, fourth.

Award prizes consisted of merchandise and trophies. Entry list included a field of 60.

HOUSTON HOT

Pokes Nosed Out By Packers, 19-17

By The Associated Press

A lot of fans figured Houston might get a kick out of Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, the Oilers' dazzling kick-returner. Instead, the Oilers showed Washington their heels when Robert Brazile got the boot.

The surprising Oilers, once the laughingstock of the National Football League but now once-beaten in five games, erupted in anger Sunday after Brazile, their star rookie linebacker, was kicked out of the game.

With the Redskins leading 7-6 in the third quarter, Billy Kilmer was directing Washington deep into enemy territory. And with Kilmer scrambling, Brazile rammed him out of bounds at the Houston 21 — and applied what officials said was a forearm chop to Kilmer's neck.

Out of the game went Brazile — and out of the stands came a furious, thundering chorus of boos from the 51,911 fans in the Astrodome.

And out came the fury of the Houston defense. It stiffened and held the Redskins to Mark Moseley's 32-yard field goal.

And back came the equally aroused Houston offense, marching 62 yards with the ensuing kickoff. The final play, in the opening minute of the fourth quarter, was Don Hardeman's second one-yard touchdown plunge of the game, the one that carried Houston to a 13-10 upset victory.

In the rest of the NFL, Green Bay knocked Dallas from the unbeaten ranks with a 19-17 surprise victory; Cincinnati stayed perfect by whipping Oakland 14-10; Minnesota did the same by holding off Detroit 25-19; Miami mangled the New York Jets 43-0; St. Louis beat Philadelphia 31-20; New England scored its first victory by ..ping Baltimore 21-10; Pittsburgh crushed Chicago 34-3; Los Angeles whipped Atlanta 22-7; Kansas City nosed out winless San Diego 12-10; San Francisco outlasted New Orleans 35-21, and Denver squeezed past winless Cleveland 16-15.

Unbeaten Buffalo hosts the New York Giants tonight.

Packers 19, Cowboys 17

"I'm about three feet off the ground," said elated first-year Coach Bart Starr after John Hadl gave the previously winless Packers their upst of Dallas with a 26-yard scoring pass to Rich McGeorge in the closing minutes.

Bengals 14, Raiders 10

Rookie cornerback Marvin Cobb rambled 52 yards with a third-quarter interception for the touchdown that carried the Bengals past Oakland in their mistake-laden game.

"When momentum is on the sidelines for both teams, when you are bottled up like that, you have to be patient and not make mistakes," said defensive end Ron Carpenter. "Today they were the ones who made the mistakes."

Vikings 25, Lions 19

Fran Tarkenton fired his ninth and 10th touchdown passes of the year — four yards to Stu Voigt and 10 yards to Ed Marinaro — and Fred Cox kicked three field goals to keep Minnesota unbeaten. But the Vikings had to hold off the Lions, who fell behind 25-3, then rallied on two Bill Munson touchdown passes.

Dolphins 43, Jets 0

"I didn't expect to do anything like this against the Jets," said Miami quarterback Bob Griese, who completed 10 of 14 passes for 155 yards, threw for three touchdowns and ran for one. The Dolphins intercepted Joe Namath six times.

Cardinals 31, Eagles 20

Jim Otis' 116 yards gained and two touchdown runs and Jackie Smith's dazzling touchdown reception on a 30-yard Jim Hart pass helped St. Louis overcome Philadelphia's early lead.

Patriots 21, Colts 10

Unheralded Andy Johnson crunched out 124 yards and scored on runs of one yard and 66 yards to carry he Patriots past Baltimore.

Steelers 34, Bears 3

Terry Bradshaw's three methodical, second-half touchdown drives, one of them climaxed by his own short run, and Pittsburgh's smothering of the Chicago passing game, carried the Steelers over the Bears.

Rams 22, Falcons 7

James Harris' touchdown passes of 44 yards to Bob Klein and 28 yards to Harold Jackson and three Tom Dempsey field goals boosted the Rams over Atlanta. All five scores followed turnovers by the Falcons.

Chiefs 12, Chargers 10

Mike Livingston hit tight end Walter White with a 60-yard scoring pass and Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 31 and 27 yards to lead Kansas City past the Chargers.

49ers 35, Saints 21

A blocked punt and a recovered fumble set the stage for two first-quarter San Francisco touchdowns — passes of 29 and 20 yards from Norm Snead to Gene Washington — in the 49ers' victory over New Orleans.

Broncos 16, Browns 15

Jim Turner's 53-yard field goal — the longest of his 12-year pro career — coming with no time left in the game, vaulted Denver over the Browns.

Bryan Rolls By Cleburne

By The Associated Press

Bryan continued to ride roughshod over its Class 4A opponents over the weekend, apparently unhindered by the loss of an ineligible player and the forfeit of three games.

The top-ranked Vikings smashed Cleburne 62-6 Friday night for their third straight Class 4A victory since having their first three triumphs forfeited because they used a player who was 15 days older than the rules allowed.

Despite Bryan's crushing victory, the touchdown it allowed was the only one surrendered by No. 1 teams in The Associated Press Texas schoolboy football poll. Class 3A kingpin Cuero, Cameron of 2A, Class A pacesetter Seagraves and Class B power Big Sandy outscored their opponents 196-0.

Top Ten losers included No. 5 Irving MacArthur and 10thranked Houston Kashmere in 4A, No. 2 Silsbee and No. 3 Monahans in 3A, Class 2A's No. 7 Tulia, 10th-ranked Muenster of Class A and No. 6 Runge of Class B.

PAN AM

U.S. Holds Edge

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Americans have finally found what it takes to stop catcalling and whistling at them in the VII Pan American Games — the U.S. women's swimming team.

"The girls are cheered instead of booed because the Mexicans think the American girls are so good looking," said Peter Rocca, Orinda, Calif., who won a gold medal for the U.S. sunday night in the men's 100-meter backstroke.

"I talked this over with the other guys, and they think the same thing," he added.

There was a smattering of the usual hooting and whistling — booing's international equivalent — as the U.S. men churned to methodical, recordbreaking victories in the first heavy day of aquatics events Sunday, but for the girls, who added their share of records too, there were bursts of enthusiastic applause.

The swimmers, as expected, lit the fire under the sluggish American performance, and helped the U.S. win 10 of 18 gold medals Sunday, and move out to a 47-32 edge over runnerup Cuba in the race for supremacy here.

More swimming was scheduled today, with six finals set for later tonight. Today was also the final day for track and field events, where the Americans have had one of their worst showings ever.

In track Sunday, the U.S. won two of three events and both were in Games' record time. Bruce Jenner, San Jose, Calif., improved Bill Toomey's 1967 mark in the decathlon by one point to 8,045. Jan Merrill, Waterford, Conn., put her name in the Games' record book with a 4:18.32 clocking in the first women's 1,500 meters ever run in these quadrennial games.

Rocca's 58.31 in the 100 backstroke was also a Games' record, as was Rick Colella of Seattle at 1:06.02 in the 100 meter breaststroke.

Quarterback Meeting Set

Although the game was played closer than the final score indicated, a film of the Steers loss to Permian will be shown at the Big Spring Quarterback Club meeting at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday at the high school cafeteria.

A scouting report on Big Spring's next 5-4A contest at Midland Lee, Friday night, is also scheduled.

Both Steer reviews will be presented by Bob Burris, head coach.

Defending Champ Bears Ride Over To Aggieland Saturday

By The Associated Press

Southwest Conference co-leaders Texas A&M and Texas, both barely surviving with their hides, host two key games this weekend and Saturday's results should help them treat their guests with a certain amount of respect.

Fifth-ranked Texas A&M, the pre-season favorite, stumbled and fumbled by winless Texas Christian 14-6 and the Aggies have defending champion Baylor coming to town after a week's rest.

Eighth-ranked Texas outlasted Arkansas 24-18 in a mistake-filled game which saw the Razorbacks lose the ball eight times. Texas lost the ball five times itself and both quarterback Marty Akins and fullback Earl Campbell own bruised shoulders as saucy Rice comes calling.

Rice celebrated Coach Al Conover's birthday, homecoming and its 300th collegiate victory with a 28-17 thumping of Southern Methodist.

A&M and Texas own 2-0 records and Rice is 1-0. Arkansas is 2-1, SMU is 1-1, Baylor is 0-1, Texas Tech 0-2 and TCU is 0-3.

In other games Saturday, Arizona edged Texas Tech 32-28.

This week's schedule also includes SMU at Texas Tech, TCU at Alabama and Utah State at Arkansas.

"With the league like it is anything can happen," said Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles after his Razorbacks had lost to Texas. "I told everybody TCU would give people trouble after we barely beat them and a lot of people laughed."

The Texas Aggies aren't laughing. Quaking would be closer.

TCU had a touchdown pass called back in the final period and A&M's No. 3 ranked defense had to make a goal-line standto preserve the Aggies' sixth consecutive victory of the campaign.

"I'm just damn grateful for our defense," said Aggie offensive tackle Dennis Smelser.

A&M fumbled the ball six times and lost two. TCU also intercepted an Aggie pass. However, the Aggie defense limited TCU to just nine first downs and 30 yards rushing.

"In this game, anything can happen when you leave the ball on the ground," moaned Broyles.

A&M Coach Emory Bellard would certainly agree. On TCU's apparent touchdown pass to Mike Renfrow deep in the game, both Renfro and A&M's Mike Williams were flagged for off-setting interference.

Renfrow said "I thought it was a good call. I pushed off because there was a collision when I made my cut. I thought the flag should have been thrown. But that had been going on all the game long and they hadn't thrown it before. It came at a bad, bad time for us."

Baylor was idle after two consecutive defeats to South Carolina and Arkansas.

Bear Coach Grant Teaff apologized to the fans for the 41-3 loss to Arkansas the week before and promised something different this week. The Aggies beat Baylor 20-0 last year before losing to SMU and Texas.

Like Broyles was saying anything can happen, etc....

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

Wildcats Finally Overtake Raiders

By The Associated Press

Since baseball games are still with us, you might be interested to know that football games, too, are never over until the last ... well, until the last down-and-out.

For example:

—Colorado, No. 12 in The Associated Press ratings, erupted for four touchdowns in a 14-minute span of the second half to erase a 17-3 deficit and defeat 10th-ranked Missouri 31-20.

—Arizona, the No. 13 team, trailed Texas Tech 21-6 at halftime but finally overtook the Red Raiders 32-28 thanks to Lee Pistor's 41-yard field goal with six seconds left and a safety on the ensuing kickoff.

—Notre Dame, No. 15, needed 21 points in the final period for the second week in a row, this time coming from 20 points down to shade the Air Force 31-30 when freshman Jerome Heavens scored from the one with 3:23 remaining.

—Phil Gargis tossed a one-yard pass to Ed Butler and Secdrick McIntyre scored twice on short runs — all within 3½ minutes of the second half — as Auburn came from behind 27-6 and defeated Georgia Tech 31-27. Coach Shug Jordan, in his 25th and final season, called it "the most thrilling and best victory of them all."

—Jeff Grantz' 28-yard pass to Phillip Logan with 22 seconds left gave South Carolina a 35-29 victory over Mississippi.

—Purdue notched its first victory of the season, beating Illinois 26-24 on Mark Vitali's five-yard pass to Paul Beery with 2:32 left.

—Ted Brown ran 27 yards for a touhdown with 3:43 remaining and Johnny Evans passed to Don Buckey for two points to rally North Carolina State over North Carolina 21-20. That TD made it 21-14 but the losers had a two-point try of their own foiled after scoring with 12 seconds left.

—Tulane rallied from a 14-0 first-half deficit and edged West Virginia 16-14 on David Walters' 28-yard field goal with 4:17 to go.

Missouri was the only one of the Top Ten teams to lose, while some of the conference races began to take on old familiar looks.

The Big Ten chase, as usual, finds Ohio State and Michigan tied for the lead after No. 1-ranked Ohio State mauled Wisconsin 56-0 while seventh-ranked Michigan clobbered Northwestern 69-0.

The Big Eight has a two-way tie between second-ranked Oklahoma, which downed Kansas State 25-3, and fourth-ranked Nebraska, which outlasted Oklahoma State 28-20 as Vince Ferragamo came off the bench, passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more.

There's a three-way race in the Pacific-8 among third-ranked Southern Cal, No. 18 UCLA and California. USC used Doug Hogan's 61-yard inteception return and Ricky Bell's threeyard scoring run to hold off winless Oregon 17-3, UCLA whipped Washington State 37-23 as Eddie Ayers ran for three touchdowns and unranked Cal trounced Oregon State 51-24 as Chuck Muncie scored three times and threw a 47-yard touchdown pass to Wesley Walker.

In the Southwest Conference, fifth-ranked Texas A&M and No. 8 Texas are tied for the lead, one-half game ahead of unranked Rice. The Aggies scored twice in the first half on short runs by Bubba Bean and held on to beat winless Texas Christian 14-6.

January Plays Well In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Don January, winner at the $125,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament, says he must be forced before he will quit the Professional Golf Association tour again.

January of Dallas shot a 66 in the final round Sunday at the 7,038 yard, par 72 Woodlake Golf Club course, then shot a birdie on the second sudden death hole to defeat Larry Hinson in a playoff.

It was January's first victory since the 1970 Jacksonville, Fla., Open and the first since he retired for two and a half years in 1972 to design and build golf courses.

"I shall not leave the tour again," the trim January, 45, said after collecting $25,000 first prize money at the Texas Open. "They'll have to force me off the next time."

Both January and Hinson, who wound up alone in second place, bogeyed the first extra hole. But January birdied the second extra hole on a three-foot put for the win.

Hinson missed a two-foot putt on the first extra hole after January bogeyed. Hinson won $14,250 for second place.

This was January's first full year back on the PGA tour since he retired.

Dear Abby

Clerk Shaken Up By Shoddy Sales Tactics

DEAR ABBY: To whom do I owe my first responsibility — another human being or my employer?

At the store where I work, two fans were brought up from the basement to be sold. These fans had been used all last year to keep the circulation going in the basement. But when they were brought up on the floor, they were not marked down.

If I were a customer, I would appreciate being told that the fans were used. Since I am a salesperson, have I the right to tell the customer the truth? And if I haven't the right (or the courage), should I tell my employer that I can't work where I am expected to lie?

STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT: Tell your boss that your conscience will not permit you to lie. He may be so impressed with your integrity that he will reward you for it. (P.S. He may also fire you.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have just had another violent fight concerning our 5-year-old son, and I need your advice.

Last Christmas, I bought our son a doll. He spends hours playing with it — putting doll clothes on it and feeding it on doll dishes. This annoys his father to no end, and several other adults have made nasty remarks about it.

Personally, I see nothing wrong with our son playing with this doll because it is a sailor doll, which is the image of masculinity.

Why is it that when a little girl plays cowboys and Indians, everyone says, she is a "darling little tomboy," but when a boy plays with a doll, they say he is "queer"?

N.J.

DEAR N.Y.: Because our society tolerates athletic, tomboyish girls far better than loving, motherly boys.

I personally see nothing wrong with a little boy playing with a sailor doll — or any other kind of doll for that matter, but I would wonder why a mother would go overboard by buying her son a doll, doll clothes and doll dishes.

The obvious answer is that she must have wanted a little girl. Did you?

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my 60s. When I was 45, I had a change-of-life baby who is now 18, and he's driving me crazy!

He goofed off in school last year and had to go to summer school to graduate next June.

He's going with a 15-year-old girl who looks like she's 20. They are together night and day. Her mother called and asked me to tell my son not to hang around her daughter so much because they're entirely too thick. I tried, but got nowhere.

I'm afraid these kids are going to get into trouble and will have to get married. I want my son to go to college and make something of himself.

How can I break up this relationship? I'll do anything.

WORRIED MOM

DEAR WORRIED: I doubt that you can break it up. If you forbid them to see each other, they'll probably do so behind your back.

I do not approve of premarital sex, but if you have reason to believe it's going on (or is about to), the lesser of the evils is to make sure they are sufficiently informed so there will not be a hurry-up marriage and — or an unwanted baby.

ROBIN VON ROSENBERG

KAY HEPNER

'Blithe Spirit' Had Long Run In London

"Blithe Spirit," the three-act farce written by the late Noel Coward, was first produced at the Opera House in Manchester, England, June 16, 1941, before moving to the Piccadilly Theater in London July 2, 1941.

There, it became one of the all-time long-running plays in England with 1,997 performances.

Coward had written it to get his countrymen's minds off the great war.

The Hawk Players bring the comedy to Big Spring Friday and Saturday nights, at which time they will perform at the Howard College Auditorium. The curtain goes up at 8 p.m., each night and the adult public can gain admission by paying $2.50. Students will be charged $1.

Can spirits return to our living world and make themselves visible to its inhabitants? Coward, with tongue in cheek, wrote as if he thought they could. The play emerges as one of pure escapism, with a laugh a minute.

Rovin Von Rosenberg takes the role of Violet Bradman in the play while Kay Hepner plays Madama Arcati.

At age 14, Robin is the youngest member of the cast. A freshman at Big Spring High School, she became interested in Howard College productions the past summer, when she assisted in lighting and had a walk-on role in the musical, "Guys and Dolls." Robin was inducted into the National Junior Honor Society here, while a student at Goliad JH. She is a member of the Order of the Rainbows and on her school debating team.

Kay Kennemer Hepner is library coordinator for elementary schools in the Big Spring ISD. Kay has had several roles in her hometown San Angelo Community Theater productions.

She appeared as Mame's mother in "Auntie Mame," Queenie in "Bell, Book and Candle," Mother Superior in "Lillies of the Field," and the wife in "I Rise in Flames Cried the Phoenix."

Perhaps her most interesting role came during her high school days at Saint Mary's Hall in San Antonio, an all girls' school, where she played Sir Toby Belch in "Twelfth Night."

Her spare time is spent in raising three children, the oldest of which is 12.

Dragnet Is Out For Escapees

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — A maximum security prisoner and two jail trusties escaped Sunday from the Brown County Jail after cutting through two steel bars on a second floor window and climbing down a rope made of blankets.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said the escapee from the maximum security cell, Donald Leonard of Dallas, had recently threatened to escape and kill his wife, also of Dallas.

The escape occurred some time after 2 a.m. Sunday, but authorities were not notified of the escape until 8 a.m. Another maximum security prisoner knocked on the door of the jailer's apartment located in the jail and notified him of the ecape, according to Edna Cowin, wife of Brown County jailer Kerry Cowin.

The escapees were identified as Leonard, 28; Dale Reynolds, 18, of Brownwood; and Gary Don Beason, 17, of Rising Star.

A bulletin received by the Lubbock police department Sunday described the men as dangerous.

"If caught ... he will not be taken," the bulletin stated.

Leonard was being held on charges of theft by check.

Mrs. Cowin said he had been placed in the maximum security cell "a couple of weeks ago" because he had gotten depressed and "overdosed" on some type of drug. She said it hadn't been determined how he had obtained the drug.

Mrs. Cowin said Leonard was "the bully type," had threatened to escape and had "bragged about it" to other prisoners.

Beason was being held on theft charges in Midland and Brown counties and revocation of probation. Reynolds was being held on burglay charges and revocation of probation.

Mrs. Cowin said authorities were told that Beason had gained access to his parents' car after the escape.

The search for the escapees Sunday took authorities to Rising Star and Sipe Springs, both in Comanche County, where Leonard was believed to have relatives.

Eastland County sheriff "Lefty" Sublett said that units from his office were involved in the search for the escapees, but no sightings had been made.

"We are still on the lookout, but we think they are headed in another direction," Sublett said. "I figure they just headed east and kept going."

For the more advanced, the YMCA features a competitive swimming team, competitive gymnastics, and competitive judo and karate.

The "Y" also offers a full line of summer activities for all youth in the Summer Fun Club. The program includes special field trips, arts and crafts instruction, and camping skills.

In an effort to offer a completely diverse line of activities for all ages, the YMCA features special charm classes, tap dancing, and ballet instruction for all interested.

Charge Eyed As Benefit

DALLAS (AP) — Officials at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here say they do not know when the company will begin charging for directory assistance calls, but they claim the public will ultimately benefit from the move.

Bell already has asked the Fort Worth city council for permission to charge 20 cents for each information call after the third such call each month.

Jim Pattillo, a telephone company spokesman, says directory assistance charges are "inevitable" in Dallas but added that no fixed date has been set for a presentation to the council here justifying the change.

Pattillo said charging for directory assistance calls will benefit the public in the long run because such a charge would reduce assistance calls and thus reduce phone company expenses.

New Constitution Would Streamline Legislature

(Editors: This is the second in a series of nine articles on the proposed new state constitution that will be on the Nov. 4 ballot.)

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seen and heard in the Capitol—so often that it has become trite—is a quotation rendered 109 years ago by an obscure New York judge.

"No man's life, liberty or property are safe," he said, "while the legislature is in session."

That could be the slogan of the forces arrayed against passage of Article III of the proposed Texas Constitution. Probably the most frequent attacks against the entire document, in fact, are those that appeal to distrust of the legislature.

Backers of the document, however, say the anti-legislature appeal is demagogic. They say the new document will put the legislature on a modern, businesslike footing and make it more responsible and better able to deal with problems before they grow into crisis.

Article III—paired with the executive article on the Nov. 4 ballot—spells out the legislature's duties, powers and limits.

Its most controversial feature would wipe out the 19-month gap between regular legislative sessions. Lawmakers would convene for 140 days in odd-numbered years and hold 90-day sessions in even-numbered years.

Other innovations in the article would:

—Remove the $7,200 legislative salary limit. A salary commission would review lawmakers' pay annually and recommend a ceiling, within which legislators would set their own salaries.

—Enable the legislature, by petition of three-fifths of each house, to convene in extraordinary session to consider overriding vetoes signed by the governor after a regular or special session.

—Allow lawmakers to handle time-consuming organizational details such as adoption of rules and election of officers before the start of a regular session. They could meet after the general election in November to do this.

Require single-member House districts, something the state will have anyway after 1976 by virtue of court decisions and legislative action.

—Sharply curtail the legislature's ability to pass bills, local, which accounts for half of a session's output.

Sen. Peyton McKnight's "Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution" opposes the new document and talks against annual sessions and legislative salaries more than any other issue.

"My experience has been that the more they meet, the more money they spend and the more taxes we have to pay," former Gov. Preston Smith is quoted in one of McKnight's press releases.

Smith said he always had opposed annual sessions —not mentioning that he opted for annual budgets in 1971, vetoing one year of the general appropriation bill, and calling the legislature back in 1972 to do the job over with more up-to-date revenue information.

"If you like what Congress is doing to the country these days, you'd love a Texas legislature that sits every year," said another member of McKnight's organization, Brazoria County Commissioner Joe Brigance.

Former Rep. Wayland Simmons of San Antonio said it was a mistake to let the legislature draft the constitution in the first place. "If this passes, I assure you that the legislature will at least triple its own salaries with 12 or 14 months," he said.

Worrying over business opposition to annual sessions, Speaker Bill Clayton suggested that legislators might limit the scope of the 90-day session to fiscal matters.

Common Cause, the self-styled public interest lobby, said opponents of the legislative article fear that annual sessions will put special interests at a disadvantage.

"It is easier to operate for a special interest reason with a session every two years.

Christians, Moslems Fighting In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian-Moslem warfare spread through Beirut again today after a night of heavy rocket, mortar and machine-gun exchanges in several districts.

"I cannot tell you anything good," said the government radio. "All approaches and roads inside the city are unsafe."

Jeeps with loudspeakers toured Moslem neighborhhoods under fire urging residents of high-rise apartment buildings to take shelter in their basements.

Associated Press correspondent Farouk Nassar, trapped in one combat zone, reported that the local muezzin interrupted his morning call to prayers to tell Moslems who did not have basements to come to his mosque.

"We couldn't sleep all night," Nassar reported. "This place is under constant mortar bombardment. Ambulance sirens are wailing all the time."

Callers from Christian neighborhoods reported they were under attack by Moslems firing heavy mortars, rocket grenades and .50-caliber machine guns.

Bomb blasts in widely separated parts of the city signaled the destruction of more shops and commercial establishments in business districts that have suffered $3.4 billion worth of damage since communal fighting began in April.

Gaming Charges Filed

By JOHN EDWARDS

After 16 federal, state and local law enforcement officers raided a local apartment at 11 a.m. Sunday, four local persons were arrested for gambling activities, spokesmen said.

Federal Bureau of Investigation and Texas Department of Public Safety officials estimated more than $46,000 in bets on the World Series and college and pro football had been placed in the last three days through the local operation. The figure may increase as investigation continues.

AREA RAIDS

The same day, Amarillo Slim was arrested in a coordinated Amarillo raid for a gambling offense.

Texas Rangers made a gambling raid the week before in Odessa.

Bearing search warrants from Justice of the Peace Bob West, the law enforcement officers were prepared to break open the door to apartment nine of the Holiday Inn Apartments.

Force was not needed or used.

The law enforcement officers monitored phones there for about one hour. They confiscated betting slips, score sheets, ledger sheets, television and radio equipment.

DEFENDANTS

Gary Don Graham, 33, of the apartment was charged with keeping a gambling place.

Ronny Charles (Chubby) Moser, 34, Box 2292 Davis Road, and Ricky Lynn Brown, 20, Box 113 Gail Route, were arrested at the apartment also.

Ted Groebl Jr., 33. 706 Highland Drive, was stopped about 15 minutes later as he was driving in the 2200 block of South Gregg Street.

Two complaints each charging gambling promotion and communicating gambling information were filed against Groebl, Moser and Brown. West set bond at $10,000 for each count.

Bond for Graham was set at $15,000.

An official of the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) motor vehicle theft division charged Brown with removing the serial number of a citizen's band radio. Bond for this misdemeanor was set at $3,000.

All the defendants have posted bond and been released from county jail.

FOURTH TIME

"This is the fourth such raid to be conducted in the past three football seasons in the Howard County area," a spokesman for the district attorney's office said. There are two gambling indictments pending in Howard County's 118th District Court as a result of these earlier raids.

FBI agents are expected to be working in the Big Spring area for two weeks following leads uncovered in the Sunday raid.

Among the agencies represented in the raid were the Texas Rangers and criminal intelligence division of the DPS, organized crime unit of the Texas Attorney General's office the FDI, local police and district attorney's office.

Four New Employes Are Authorized By Court

County Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas abstained when County Commissioners Court voted to authorize four new road department employes this morning.

County Engineer Neel Barnaby said he will review the 100 applications on file before interviewing other prospects.

Terrazas mentioned a shortage in road department funds and called the action "a little hasty."

"We have just about enough money budgeted for salaries to go through the end of the year, "County Auditor Virginia Black agreed. The road department payroll is running more than $19,000 monthly and $63,000 remains for the year, Mrs. Black said.

Commissioners William B. Crooker Jr. reviewed the financial report noting $6,900 more than budgeted has been spent for paving and $463 more than budgeted for fencing.

But Crooker also referred to a balance of $4,900, which will not be needed for right-of-way purchases, and $27,000 in state lateral road funds.

Because of road department financial needs, Mrs. Black said she was not planning to transfer $50,000 scheduled to be transferred from the road department fund to the equipment operating fund.

Crooker estimated the cost of four employes at $2,400 monthly. "I think it would be money well spent," Crooker said, mentioning a need for mowing along county roads.

Commissioner Jack Buchanan, who seconded the motion for increasing the number of road department employes to 38, favored buying a larger mower also.

The court approved employing Michael Lee Jones at $2.10 per hour in the road department. He will be working through a Big Spring High School program.

Asked about draining the pond at Knott, Barnaby said: "I think by next Monday we can start tearing down and moving out."

To dismantle the pipeline and return the pipe and equipment to the Civil Defense at Palo Pinto, Tex., will take three or four days, Barnaby estimated.

DEATHS

Lucy Sample

Mrs. Eugene A. (Lucy) Sample, 84, died 6:58 p.m. Saturday at a local Nuring Home. Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. today at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Beame: Disaster Looming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Abraham Beame warned Congress today that if New York City defaults, "hundreds of millions of dollars" in his city's bills will go unpaid across the country, to the loss of cities where companies holding the bills are located.

"What is happening to New York City is, and will be repeated across the country," Beame said. "We New Yorkers have always been proud to be the urban laboratory for the rest of the nation. It would be disastrous if the federal government ignored what could become a national urban tragedy."

Beame made the statements in remarks prepared for a House economic stabilization subcommittee.

Spurned last week by President Ford, Beame pleaded with Congress over the weekend for help to stave off financial default by the nation's largest city, which narrowly averted fiscal collapse last Friday. Beame appeared Saturday before the Senate Banking Committee.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns will appear before the House committee later in the week.

"If New York City were to default, hundreds of millions of dollars in bills from vendors all over this country would go unpaid, and this could aversely affect not only the economic viability of the companies concerned, but also the communities in which they are located," Beame said in his statement.

"We are not seeking a handout or a bailout. What we want is the use of the federal government's credit; through guarantees of our securities, until we are able to reenter the credit markets on our own."

Beame said the near default Friday "sent shivers" through the financial community in the United States and abroad.

"There are no choices left for our city," the mayor said. "The rest of the country must place its confidence in us or be willing to let us become an object lesson of provincial politics and do-nothing doctrines."

Life May Depend On Court Debate

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Karen Ann Quinlan's life could depend on the outcome of a court debate today over whether she can be disconnected from a respirator that has kept her breathing since she lapsed into a coma six months ago.

Everyone agrees that Karen is alive. But her parents say she should be disconnected from the respirator and allowed to die; the state says this could be considered homicide, and the hospital finds itself caught between medical ethics and the law.

Miss Quinlan, 21, has been in a coma since last April, when she apparently ingested by accident a dangerous combination of alcohol and tranquilizers. She has been hospitalized in the intensive care ward of St. Clare's with no apparent hope of recovery and a mechanical respirator to help keep her alive.

The issues are complex and likely to have national implications on a problem that has usually been worked out in private if at all.

Even the central issue — that she would die after her respirator is turned off — has become clouded. Some of the briefs filed in the case say she would die almost immediately, but others quote doctors who say the young woman might resume breathing under her own power if the respirator is turned off.

The case skirts the issue of the definition of "death," because doctors say that she is alive by all medical standards — including brain activity as shown on an electronic monitoring device.

So it centers on the issue of and an individual's right to die — as Karen's parents put it — with dignity.

The case was to be argued before Superior Court Judge Robert Muir, Jr. The parties in the case include her adoptive father, Joseph T. Quinlan and his attorney, Paul W. Armstrong; New Jersey Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland and Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Collester; and Daniel R. Coburn, chosen by the court to represent Miss Quinlan.

The parent's petition filed last month seeks to have the attorney general and prosecutor enjoined from bringing criminal charges against the plaintiffs, the doctors or the hospital, should permission be given to shut off the respirator that has been keeping his daughter alive.

The attorney general and county prosecutor filed briefs opposing the parents' request because state law says causing a death, mercifully or not, is homicide, which the government is obliged to prosecute.

Armstrong, a Morristown attorney representing the Quinlan family, filed a pretrial brief citing recent court decisions that have given individuals the right to determine their own course of medical treatment, even if it hastens death.

A Florida court ruled in 1971 that a woman could refuse certain medical treatment because it "would only result in the painful extension of her life for a short period of time" and that she should not be kept alive against her will.

Because Miss Quinlan is comatose and therefore mentally incompetent, the court is being asked to let her father make such a decision for her based on his knowledge of her wishes and his estimation of what is in her best interest.

Armstrong adds that Miss Quinlan on two occasions expressed the wish not to be maintained by extraordinary medical efforts should she become terminally ill.

New Level Of Activity For GNP Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jump in the gross national product is expected to lead into a long, steady climb by the U.S. economy back toward the level of activity from which it fell nearly two years ago, administration economists say.

The gross national product (GNP) figures due out today apparently were the "encouraging economic statistics" that President Ford said last week were on the way.

The GNP figures for the third quarter were expected to show an advance rivaling the 10.1 per cent growth at an annuap rate in the first three months of 1971.

And just as that 1971 surge in gross national product was followed by a lower rate of growth — 2.8 per cent for two consecutive quarterly periods — administration economists are already predicting a similar course for the current recovery.

Within days after Ford's optimistic statement, James L. Pate, assistant secretary for economic affairs at the Commerce Department, estimated the GNP increase would be in the 9 per cent to 10 per cent range.

The volume of GNP, the dollar value adjusted to account for inflation, rose at an annual rate of 1.9 per cent in the April-June quarter. Prior to that revival, GNP volume had dropped 7.7 per cent over 15 months, marking the deepest recession since the 1930s.

But even in advance of the latest GNP report, administration economists were discounting it as a signal of any economic boom.

"To a large extent, this rebound will reflect a sharp slowing in the rate of inventory liquidation and will overstate the underlying strength of the economic recovery."

Inventory liquidation is the process of selling off raw materials and finished goods held in warehouses and showrooms. Despite constant demand for goods and services, production nosedives when business is filling orders from inventory, then swings upward sharply at the point where business leaders decide to begin restocking. The restocking means factories are kept busy filling empty shelves and warehouse space while also filling orders.

Meanwhile, there were these developments:

—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said Sunday that President Ford would veto any tax-cut bill from Congress if it does not include a comparable spending cut. Speaking on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Simon said Ford has made no decisions on where his proposed budget cuts will be made.

—Congress returns to work today from a week-long recess and resumes its debate over income tax cuts for next year and the budget for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1.

—The Ford administration is presenting his proposals for changing the food stamp program, and there are indications he will seek stricter eligibility requirements and more benefits for those below the poverty level.

Slowing Of Migration Last 5 Years Noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tendency of Americans to migrate to metropolitan areas has reversed in the last five years, according to a new demographic study by the Census Bureau.

The major urban centers of the country lost 1.6 million people from migration during the 1970-75 period, compared to an influx of 352,000 from 1965 to 1970, the study shows.

And, while the difference in over-all mobility rates between the two periods is only slight, there has been a significant slowing of migration since the 1950s and 1960s.

Americans are the world's most mobile population, changing residence at the rate of about 20 per cent a year, compared to about 12 per cent in Europe and about 8 per cent in Japan.

But, according to the latest Census Bureau findings, released Sunday, American are becoming slightly less migratory than they have been heretofore. As of last March, only 51.5 per cent of Americans over the age of five changed their abode from 1970 to 1975, compared to 52.9 per cent in the previous five-year period.

The flow of migrants continued in the 1970-75 period into the South and West. The net gain for the South nearly tripled, to 1.8 million, while that for the West held steady at 700,000.

But more people moved out of than into the Northeast and North Central states.

According to Larry H. Long, who headed the Census team that made the latest survey, the decline in migration rates has demographers puzzled, because there is a tendency for mobility to increase with education level. But apparently that is not happening.

"So something is counteracting the tendency for rates to rise as educational levels rise," Long said. "And that's something that is not fully understood."

Long said the influence of the recession on people's mobility could not be deduced from the study.

Drinking Moms Draw Fire

SEATTLE (AP) — Alcoholic mothers are damning their newborns to mental retardation, physical deformity or death, according to Dr. James Hanson.

Hanson, a fellow in the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Washington, says women don't realize how easily the alcohol from their own blood stream flows through the placenta into the child they carry.

Some infants are even born intoxicated, like the baby that showed a blood-alcohol reading of 155 miligrams shortly after birth. The mother had a reading of 130 miligrams. Although the point of intoxication varies with each person, a reading of 100 is usually where the line is drawn, Dr. Hanson said.

Hanson has studied the problem for two years.

"In one of the studies we have done, about 17 per cent of the babies didn't survive the newborn period," Hanson said. "Of the survivors, 44 per cent were mentally retarded."

He said others suffered from growth deficiencies.

"We don't understand exactly how it produces the damage in the baby, except that it appears to interfere with cellular growth," Hanson said. "And that isn't surprising because you can use alcohol to sterilize and kill bacteria, so it could kill or interfere with delicate developmental processes in a developing baby."

One Dies In Shootout

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — A Texas state trooper was wounded and a 32-year-old Houston man was killed Thursday in a shootout near Corsicana.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said Charles Albert Stewart, an ex-convict wanted for questioning in the Oct. 13 robbery of a Houston drug store, died of bullet wounds in the head and side.

Petmecky Is Death Victim

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — William Petmecky, 71, an outstanding civic leader and official of Fredericksburg for many years, died early Saturday of a heart attack.

He was frequently called "Mr. Fredericksburg."

Petmecky served 15 years as tax assessor-collector, five years as manager of the Fredericksburg Chamber of Commerce and retired in 1974 after 22 years as postmaster.

He was a past president of the Texas Association of Tax Assessor-Collectors, the Texas Association of Fairs and Expositions and of the Texas Chapter of the National Association of Postmasters.

Survivors include his wife and two sons, William Meir Petmecky of Houston and Frederick Petmecky of San Antonio.

Funeral services will be 3 p.m. Sunday at Bethany Lutherna Church, Fredericksburg, with interment at Greenwood Cemetery.

ORIENTATION PICNIC — Members of the Vietnamese group now living in Big Spring appear on the speaker's rostrum after a orientation picnic staged by the New Citizen Sponsorship Committee at Webb AFB Sunday afternoon. Lt. Col. Ron Miller (far right), base executive, served as moderator of the program. Among those speaking were Tran Dinh Quynh, Lam Van Binh, Nguyen Van Ky, Le Van Hoang, Tran Thi Phuong and Flower Trans Tri Phuong. An estimated 70 Vietnamese and 50 others attended the function. One firm here (Fiber Glass Systems, Inc.) now employs 35 Viets and has an expansion program under way that could result in jobs for anywhere from 50 to 75 more.

Stamp Program Facing Revision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's plan to change the federal food stamp program will concentrate benefits to the nation's neediest families and reduce costs to taxpayers by at least $1 billion, White House sources say.

Ford spent part of Sunday finishing his proposals, which will be presented to Congress today by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz.

The 11-year-old food-stamp program in August was serving an estimated 18.8 million persons at an annual cost to the federal government of $5.2 billion.

The proposals being given some last-minute attention include a plan to cut off from eligibility families above the government's official poverty line. At present, there are no limits on income that disqualify a family from the program.

The Census Bureau estimates that almost 12 per cent of the present food stamp population has gross incomes above $6,000. By federal definitions, a family of four is officially impoverished if its gross income is $5,050 or less.

There also would be an increase in the percentage of net income families would pay for food coupons. Recipients now pay between 16 and 24 per cent of net income; under Ford's plan cash payments would be about 30 per cent of net income, sources said.

Another part of the President's program is expected to change the way eligibility is determined. It would replace current itemization of deductions with a standard deduction from gross earnings for families.

The provision was expected to mandate a $100 per month standard deduction plus $25 if an elderly person is in the family. That compares with a current average nationwide deduction between $55 and $70.

The net income in the present calculation is determined by uing a complicated, eight-page application to calculate about a dozen itemized deductions from gross earnings including payroll taxes.

Officials and outside experts agree that itemization is what allows the many loopholes that enable middle-income families to spend enough on deductible items to qualify for food stamps.

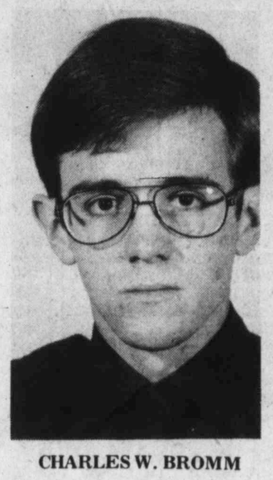

Ford's plan joins others already pending in Congress. A proposal sponsored by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., and Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., the minority whip, would cut off all families making more than the federal poverty line of $5,050 a year. It further would allow no deductions at all from gross income.

A rival bill, one expected to pass the Senate with most of its provisions intact and a few new enforcement sections from Buckley-Michel, has a standard deduction of $125 plus $25 and allows payroll-deductions, too.

That one, sponsored by Sens. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and George McGovern, D-S.D., lets the smoothly graduated scale it proposes run its course to a gross-income ceiling after taxes of $7,776 for a four-person household.

Four people at Webb AFB were recognized recently for jobs well done. They are as follows: Capt. Homer W. Meadors was named Instructor Pilot of the Month in the 3389th Flying Training Squadron. He performs additional duties as assistant flight commander, assisted in establishing standardization and flying safety programs and is a "buddy" IP sponsor." "His flexible and well balanced instructional techniques, coupled with his genuine interest in foreign students, demonstrated his professional approach to instruction in the Security Assistance Training Program," said Lt. Col. Stanley C. Hanson, squadron commander.

MSgt Jesus Canedo, Jr., of Field Maintenance, graduated from the USAF Senior NCO Academy at the Air University, Gunter AFS, Ala., Oct. 9. The University's boards, including the official Board of Trustees and the Board of Development, and the Young Associates, will meet on Friday.

Many reunions of classes and other organizations are scheduled for Saturday morning and afternoon. The annual assembly for the campus visitors will be held Saturday morning, featuring entertainment by the Cowboy Band and the Celebration Singers.

At Least 6 Killed

By The Associated Press

In a weekend marked by an unusually small number of fatalities, motor vehicle accidents were the major source of violent deaths in Texas.

The Associated Press tabulation showed at least six persons died from violent causes over the weekend, including four traffic fatalities, a drowning and a cave-in death. The tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and included deaths that occurred before midnight Sunday.

Jeannie Elizabeth Winkler, 3, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Frank W. Winkler of Pantego, drowned shortly after noon Sunday when she apparently fell from her tricycle into the family swimming pool.

Authorities said Laurie Henderson, 13, of Big Spring, was dead on arrival Sunday at a Big Spring hospital after being injured in an automobile accident south of that West Texas city.

Two Amarillo men were killed Saturday in a collision between a car and a train in Amarillo.

'Hospital Rip' Is Reopened

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hospital the Israelis have nicknamed Rip van Winkle awakens Tuesday after a 27-year slumber.

A ceremony marking the event will be attended by Israeli officials and many of the American women who made it possible.

The Hadassah University Hospial was built in 1939 on Mt. Scopus in Arab East Jerusalem and got its nickname after it was cut off and isolated in the Jordanian sector of the Holy City from the time of the 1948 Arab-Israeli war until the six-day Middle East war of 1967.

After Israeli paratroopers captured the old city, the Hadassah American women's organzation vowed to restore the neglected, run-down hospital and pledged $40 million for the purpose. The first part of the project has now been completed.

Jacov Rechter, a prize-winning Israeli architect, was awarded the restoration project, with one major stipulation: the hospital's exterior must be preserved.

"We were faced with a very unusual human phenomenon, what we may call a Rip van Winkle hospital," he said.

"The simplest thing would have been to tear the old building down and begin again. I think it was . . . correct to preserve it."

Rechter solved the space problem by going underground, building a new world of wards, rooms and tunnels."

The new hospital, whose more than 300 beds will be open to both Arab and Jew, will operate on a new medical concept, says Kalman Mann, director of Hadassah's medical arm. It will provide continuous care and treatment of patients before, during and after admission.

Music Special Likely To Please Youngsters

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've some kids in the house, put them in front of the TV set on Tuesday at 4 p.m. EDT, turn the channel to the NBC station, and let them check out "Soul and Symphony."

A one-hour pop and classical music special for young viewers, it features Donald Byrd and the Blackbirds, singer Melba Moore, Blood Sweat & Tears and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, conducted by James Frazier Jr.

The famed Wolfman Jack hosts the show, which we heartily recommend, particularly for those kids who think the only music in the world is that emitted by a Top 40 radio station.

As the guest list of stars would indicate, this NBC special, taped in Detroit last June before an enthusiastic audience of students, isn't a heavy classical music trip.

But for many young viewers, it'll at least prove a low-key introduction to classical music as well as the workings of a symphony orchestra. The pop stars are there to keep them interested.

And as Wolfman points out in his best hey-baby-what's-happenin' manner, all the pop musicians have had classical music training, and Byrd's band members still are studying music in school.

The general idea of the show, written and produced by Rift Fournier Jr., is to tell youngsters subtly that they've got to study to make the sounds they hear. And to open their ears to all kinds of music.

Of course, the Wolfman does go a bit overboard when, in introducing "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, he declares, "If Mozart were alive today, he'd probably be another Stevie Wonder."

But no harm is done. Young viewers who are aroused enough by his claim to check out this Mozart cat may find he doesn't quite sound like Stevie Wonder. But at least they'll give a listen.

One aspect of the show I rarely see in programs of this kind is an awareness that music alone won't keep the television audience interested. In "Soul and Symphony," the camera work is magnificent.

And electronic attention-getters, such as three scenes in one picture, keep the eye as well as the ear engaged by showing specific sections or instrumentalists playing specific passages of music.

Much credit for this is due director Sid Smith, a part-time musician. His background is put to excellent use in one selection that helps kids identify the brass, woodwind, percussion and string sections of an orchestra.

In all, a fine show by people who care about getting the message of music across to young folks. Special cheers go to conductor Frazier, who conceived the idea of the pop-and-classics concert.

The program has been recommended by the National Education Assocation. But don't tell the kids. They distrust such things. Just put them in front of the set Tuesday afternoon. They'll dig it.

Ex-Big Leaguer Is Dead At 72

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Horace Kent Kibbie, 72, a former professional baseball player and a longtime Fort Worth physician, died Sunday in a Fort Worth hospital.

Kibbie, who retired from his medical practice in August, played shortstop for the Boston Braves in 1926 when Leo Durocher and Casey Stengel were members of that team, and he played shortstop for the Fort Worth Cats in 1927 and 1928.

He was graduated from the University of Louisville Medical School in Louisville, Ky., and interned at Scott and White Hospital in Temple. He returned to Fort Worth in 1933 and began the general practice of medicine.

Kibbie was physician for Fort Worth employes and for employes of the Santa Fe railroad for many years.

Snyder Girl Is Killed In Automobile Mishap

SNYDER — a 16-year-old Snyder High School student was killed and two companions were injured here early Sunday in a car-truck accident near downtown Snyder.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital here after the 2:15 a.m. accident was Norma Kay Fraley, daughter of Margaret Fraley of Snyder and Norman Fraley of Midland.

Hospitalized in stable condition at Cogdell were Gary Lee Free, 20, of Snyder, driver of the car, and Judy Faye Buchanan, 16, also of Snyder. Police said Miss Buchanan underwent surgery Sunday.

Orland Hill of Corpus Christi, driver of the truck, was uninjured in the accident, police said.

After the truck-tailer and car collided at the intersection, the truck skidded down the highway, jumped a sidewalk and crashed into the Brownfield Building, an office building which formerly was a bank building. No damage estimate was available.

Services for Miss Fraley will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. Sam Kitching, minister of Eastside Church of Christ, will officiate.

Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery.

Born April 2, 1959, in Snyder, she was a junior at Snyder High School.

Survivors include her parents; and two brothers, Daniel and Don, both of Midland.

Walls' Sales $15 Million

CLEBURNE — Walls Industries Inc. announced that sales for the nine months ended September 30, 1975 reached $15,166,260. Earnings for the period are $1,701,833 or $1.08 per share.

One of Walls' plants is located in Big Spring.

In making the announcement, Sam Walls, president of the apparel manufacturing firm, noted that sales and earnings for the nine months of 1975 remain slightly lower than the comparable period in 1974. However, he added that sales for the third quarter equaled the preceeeding year and that the Company still expects 1975 sales to be as good or slightly better than the $24.5 million reported in 1974. Mr. Walls also pointed out that the Company has experienced increased utility and labor costs throughout the year and although they are lower, earnings remain well above the industry averages.

Walls designs, manufactures and markets apparel, principally insulated garments for the sports and utility wear.
