FRENCH RAISE RUMPUS OVER GERMAN NOTE

Paris Fears Loophole So Another Letter Is Sent

By Associated Press.

GENOA, April 22.—The crisis in the economic conference, raised today byb the French objection to Germany's reply to the 10-power note suggesting that the German delegation refrain from diseussions relating to Russian affairs had not passed satisfactorily up to a late hour this evening.

To Send Another Note

At the meeting of representatives of the 10 entente powers late this afternoon, it was agreed that another note be send to the Germans, stating it was assumed that they meant, in their reply transmitted yesterday, to refrain from all Russian discussions in the political commission of the conference.

Loophole Feared

In fact, the British and most of the other interested delegations so interpreted the German reply. But the French expressed fear that the German note left a loophol through which the Germons might enter into discussion of Russian questions not treated in the Russo-German treaty signed at Rapallo last Sunday.

The 10-power delegates are meeting tomorrow to draft this supplementary note to the Germans, but it was not certain tonight whether the French would agree to this action, as they are extremely suspicious of the German document, and apparently the French delegation at Genoa is being driven hard by Paris to have it revised.

STUDENT KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Another Girl's Thigh Is Broken

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, April 22.—Miss Martha Murchison, a University of Texas student, is dead and Miss Corinne Lotspeich, also a university student, is suffering from a broken thigh at a local hospital as a result of being knocked down and run over by an automobile near the university about 9 o'clock tonight. The homes of the two girls are in Corsicana.

The two girls had just started across Guadalupe street near the university, when they were struck by the automobile, according to witnesses. The Murchison girl was killed almost instantly, her skull being fractured by the impact.

N. P. Spring, driver of the automobile, stopped and offered assistance in taking the girls to the hospital. After they were placed in another automobile, he went to the police station, but no charges were filed against him. He declared that the accident was unavoidable as an automobile, passing him on the other side prevented his turning out.

ATTORNEY GENERAL UPHOLDS TRUCK LAW

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, April 22.—Permission of county commissioners' courts must be obtained in the respective counties before motor trucks of over four tons weight can operate on the county highways, Assistant Attorney General Bruce W. Bryant held in an opinion today.

The opinion was given after the position had been taken by numerous large oil companies that trucks over four tons weight can operate in any county on the blanket tax obtained from the state highway commission. It holds that counties have a right to say whether these trucks shall use their roads. The opinion construes the state highway law.

PAIR HELD AFTER MAN IS SHOT TO DEATH

NORMAN, Okla., April 22.—W. A. Harmon, a farmer living near here, and George Dailey, his father-in-law, were held today by county authorities in connection with the killing late yesterday of C. B. Cummons, a neighbor. Cummons was shot in an argument over land. Harmon came to Norman and surrendered to county officials following the shooting. No charges have been filed.

FIRE IN HIS CAMPAIGN

By Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 22—Mayor George L. Oles, of this city, today announced his candidacy for governor of Ohio on an independent ticket. Oles is not going to be sparing of "red fire" he said today. He told of some of the features of his proposed campaign. Three weeks before election, he said, will charter a private train for a state wide tour "with a brass band and two freight car loads of red fire."

Thought for J. Bull—
What Marshall Said—
Judge Jack Here—

By H. N. F.

GREAT BRITAIN OWES THE United States more than 5 billion dollars. France and other European nations owe the United States 6 billion dollars. Instead of thinking of trade and land grabbing the statesmen of these countries should begin to think of their debts to America—the America that saved them from the sword of the Hohenzollern.

VICE-PRESIDENT THOMAS Riley Marshall in his Sherman address said, "There is no room for the anarchist and the time will soon come when these blatant men who stand on the street corners and say kill, blow-up and burn, must be taken by the throat and punished or the government is at fault. We need today officials and citizens who when they see the law violated have the courage to punish the violators." Amen. and Amen again. And there should be no room in this country for men who corner the necessaries and necessities of life, who plunder alike the producer and the consumer, who seek to control legislation for selfish purposes and selfish ends and who haven't the slightest regard for the rights or the interests of the great mass of the people.

FEDERAL JUDGE J. W. JACK of Louisiana comes to Wichita Falls to try many important cases while Federal Judge James C. Wilson goes elsewhere. These judges are Wilson appointees and it may be said for them that they are as strong as the law and no stronger, as weak as the law and no weaker. Judge Wilson is a native Texan. He was born on a farm, he was educated in the school of hard knocks, he became a lawyer and his progress to the top of the ladder was very rapid. Oscar Calloway was a member of congress representing the Fort Worth district. He broke with the Wilson administration. Wilson was a federal district attorney. He announced as a candidate against Calloway. It was an ugly fight but Calloway was overwhelmed at the polls. Wilson made an excellent record in congress and before his term had expired he was appointed to the federal bench. There his record is known to all men of the district. He has a few critics who say that he should send rumrunners or runmakers to the gallows instead of to the jail but he is the judge of the law and the eivdence and the law does not call for the electric chair or the gibbet. Judge Jack had a run-in with a Republican district attorney over in Louisiana. Jack had the goods on the district attorney and after the judicial exposure Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty made a change. Jack is a Democrat, Daugherty is a Republican but the district attorney had to go.

LADY ASTOR CHOOSES TEXAN AS SECRETARY

AUSTIN, April 22.—Lady Astor, woman member of the English parliament, who is visiting America, has chosen Miss Ruth Pennybacker for her private secretary during her stay in this country, according to her mother, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin. Miss Pennybacker is a graduate of Vassar college and has also taken a special course in secretarial work. She is at present in New York city.

Suit to Fix South Side Is to Open Monday Morning

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Attorneys representing Oklahoma and the United States today served their briefs on attorneys representing Texas in the suit which will be argued Monday to Determine what is the south bank of Red river, which was fixed by the court in a previous decision as the boundary line between Texas and Oklahoma.

Texas contends that the south bank is the southern edge of running water at periods of usual flow, Oklahoma and the United States contended that the south bank is the high bluff banks which alone contain the waters at periods of highest flow.

16,000 Pages of Testimony

About 16,000 pages of testimony from laymen and scientists have been taken in preparation of the case. The testimony was taken by Frederick S. Tyler, who was appointed special commissioner of the supreme court for that purpose and who spent several months last summer taking testimony in the various towns in Oklahoma and Texas along the route of the river. The brief on the art of Oklahoma was prepared by S. H. Freeling, former attorney general and now special counsel for that state, while the brief on the part of the federal government was written by John Fain of Oklahoma City and W. W. Dyer, special assistants to the attorney general.

Three-Hour Argument

At a conference held yesterday by representatives of Texas, Oklahoma and the United States with Justice Pitney and Vandeventer to arrange time to be allotted in argument, the parties agreed in requesting three hours on a side. The justices indicated they would be glad to accord that time owing to the importance of the case.

NEFF ASKED TO SPARE LIFE OF DOOMED MAN

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, April 22.—F. W. Stephens, attorney for Carl Parker, who is sentenced to hang in Houston on May 4, was in conference with Governor Neff today. He seeks to have the governor commute Parker's sentence to life imprisonment. The governor said that he had as yet made no decision in the matter.

Parker was sentenced to death for the murder of Mordie Conroy, a taxicab driver, near Houston last year.

600 BATTLING FLOOD WATERS

Levee Breaks Near New Orleans

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—Approximately 600 men were battling tonight to close a 70-foot break in the Mississippi river levee at Myrtle Grove, 30 miles south of this city. Experts indicated the workers had good prospects for success.

After the break early today, the river rapidly cut away a section of the levee, which was almost submerged, about 70 feet wide. The arrival of engineers and workmen with necessary materials to fight the flood prevented the break being extended.

In the city of New Orleans the work of raising the low sections of the levees with sand bags proceeded in an orderly manner. With a gauge registering 22.4 feet today, four-tenths of a foot higher than the previous record established in 1912, and with a rise of another six-tenths of a foot forecast by the weather bureau by May 10, which will raise the water a few inches above the tops of the leves here, engineers say they will have no difficulty in holding the water with sand bags.

Harding Vigorously Opposes Ku Klux

SPEAKS TODAY

NEFF ASKED TO AID EDUCATION

Competent Teachers Need in Texas

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, April 22.—The discussion of the Texas educational situation by educators from over the state at the University of Texas the past two days culminated today in adoption of a resolution calling upon Governor Neff to take steps to better the situation in the coming school year.

The resolution read as follows:

"Resolved, That this conference on the teacher problem in Texas petition the governor of Texas to take immediate and definite steps to the end that the educational system of the state may be guaranteed adequate support for the 1922-1923 school year."

"TRAMP" IS BACKBONE OF MERCHANT MARINE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The "humble tramp" is the backbone of the merchant marine as the "doughboy" is the dependence of the army, Emil P. Albrecht, president of the Philadelphia bourse, said in a statement presented today to the joint congressional committee holding hearings on the proposed ship subsidy bill.

WET JURORS BARRED

NEW YORK, April 22.—Twelve men drawn for jurors for the trial of Edward Dim, a saloon keeper, charged with selling a half pint of liquor to Peter Reager, a prohibition officer, were excused in the federal district court when it was found that every member of the prospective jury was opposed to the Volstead act and its enforcement. As the 12 men filed out of the box, after declaring themselves the court room was shaken with laughter and cheers.

PRESIDENT'S IN NO WAY ALIGNED WITH KLANSMEN

White House Letter Follows Camp's Speech Here

The White House has denied that President Harding is a member of the of the Ku Klux Klan.

Not only is it denied that the chief executive is not a member, but the president frowns upon the secret society, it became known here late Saturday.

"The president enthusiastically and vigorously disapproves of the organization," are the closing words of a letter from the White House disavowing President Harding's affiliation with the Ku Klux Klan as well as sympathy in any way for the invisible empire and its leadership and teachings.

Col. J. G. Camp of Atlanta, Ga., is making a lecture tour of Texas for the Klan and has appeared in many of the leading cities and towns of the state. He visited Wichita Falls Sunday April 9, and delivered an address at the Wichita theater.

Christian Linked.

In this address he boasted of the rapid growth of the order and declared that while he could not vouch for the authenticity of the report that President Harding was a Klansman, he could vouch for the friendship of the president for the Klan and its program and he intimated that Attorney General M. Daugherty and Private Secretary George B. Christian were Klansmen.

A well known citizen of Texas, a stalwart republican as well as a warm friend of the administration, sent copies of the Record News containing the Camp address to the White House as well as to republican office holders high in the councils of the republican party and the administration. He is not a Klansman.

He received a prompt reply from the White House and the reply shattered the claims made by Colonel Camp to an audience of a thousand at the Wichita Theater in this city.

Used White House Stationery.

"I have yours of April 14," the White House letter reads, "and in reply will say that the report which has been more or less circulated of the president's membership in this organization is of course utterly false and doubtless of malicious origin. The president enthusiastically and vigorously disapproves of the organization."

The letter is on the White House stationery and signed by one who knows the attitude of the president toward the Klan and its program.

ATTORNEY WHO HELD K. K. PROBE QUITS.

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—J. Ben Robertson, district attorney, prominent in conducting the grand jury investigation of the Ku Klux Klan and who succeeded in having jail sentences sustained of J. D. Copel: and F. G. Reynolds, today resigned, effective at the end of the present grand jury probe of Klan affairs. No reason was given. Governor Neff immediately appointed Dan Moody of Georgetown.

FIRE LOSS INCREASE

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—A total loss of $406,699.65 was caused by 147 fires in the state last month reported to G. W. Tilley, state fire marshal. The report shows an increase in fire losses in Texas of $100,000 last month over the month of February. Thirty-three fires of unknown origin led the list of causes with a total loss of $163,944.75.

TEXAS TOWNS MEET

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—An interesting and profitable program has been prepared for the tenth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities, which convenes in Waxahachie on May 17 and 18, according to Irvin Stewart, of the bureau of government research of the University of Texas. Several members of the university faculty are scheduled to address the meeting.

MARRIAGE TO FINANCE

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—Relatives of Roger Lister, who disappeared Thursday a few hours before he was to have been married, said today they believed he had been kidnapped at the instance of a jealous married woman.

The county prosecutor declined to act, however, on the suspicions of Lister's relatives.

Miss Helen Twining, Lister's fiancee said she knew all about the "other woman" and had entire faith in Lister. Her wedding with Lister was originally set for Wednesday, Miss Twining said, but was postponed when the "other woman" threatened to make a scene.

MONKEY SPIES FOR WIFEY

WATCHES HUBBY CARESS BEAUTY

Pet May Win Divorce Suit for Her

NEW YORK, April 22.—"Monkey business" and a monkey promise to play an important part in the divorce suit of Flo Hart, former Follies dancer, against her husband, Kenneth Harlan, movie actor.

In fact, Flo is depending on her Simian pet, Nikko, to win her freedom from Harlan. True, she has other witnesses, but most of these depend on Nikko for their testimony.

Names Beauty

Flo charges that Harlan was guilty of conduct unbecoming a dutiful husband on a trip to Atlantic City. She further alleges that Peggy Brady, Follies beauty, was an aider and abettor of the misconduct.

Now here's where Nikko takes his cue.

"Yes," says Nikko, through the medium of his mistress, "I accompanied Flo and Harlan to Atlantic City on their honeymoon."

Then last Decoration day, Flo alleges, Harlan told her he was going to Atlantic City to act.

Acted, But Not for Movies

"He acted all right," charges Miss Hart, "but not for the movies. It was a little love scene of his own with Peggy Brady. And it was in a hotel and not on the shore."

Miss Hart charges that he gave Miss Brady the monkey on the trip and that she was able to trace the pair because the presence of the monkey with them made them conspicuous. She says they registered at the hotel as Mr. and Mrs. K. Brady.

"If it hadn't been for the monkey he might have gotten away with his monkey business," says Flo, "and now I intend to have Nikko in court so that my witnesses can identify him and them."

JACK PARLEY VOUZS BUT HE'S ONLY ONE WHO UNDERSTANDS IT

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 22.—Jack Dempsey, the champion heavyweight pugilist, was given a warm welcome on the stage here tonight. He had intended to remain indoors after his arrival from London this afternoon, but decided to attend the opening night of the review at the Casino de Paris, in which Pearl White made her initial appearance on the European stage.

When Dempsey entered the theater he was recognized by the crowd which cheered and applauded him. Miss White invited the fighter to go on the stage, where he joined her in doing "her turn." Afterwards, Dempsey made a little speech in English, thanking the Parisian public for the reception accorded him. Americans who formed a large part of the audience, loudly aplauded. The pugilist then spoke a few words in French but seemingly those who were listening were puzzled over what he was attempting to say.

REBEL CHIEF TAKEN AND SIX SHOT DOWN

Keen, the giant, A. & M. weight man, was high point man of the meet with a total of 13 points, and Heard of A. & M., and Crosby of Baylor, tied for second high honors with 10 points each.

FREIGHT RATES SHOULD BE CUT

Livestock Shipping in Poor Shape

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Transportation rates on products of agriculture as on many commodities now "bear a disproportionate relation to the price of such commodities," and should be reduced immediately, according to findings of the joint congressional commission of agricultural inquiry, announced today by Chairman Anderson.

The commission found that "livestock shows marked fluctuations on the shipment volume" and that railroad stockyards and shippers should co-operate to even out the supply at market points, thus preventing price and charge impositions, while hay, as the bulkiest farm commodity, required "a reduction in both freight and sales margin before there can be resumption of normal shipments." Costs of livestock distribution also must be brought down, it was held.

"TENANT BLOC" TO COMBAT RENT HOGS

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The "tenant's bloc," centering its efforts on legislation favoring the man who pays rent for his home, is being formed in the senate for war on rent hogs. Senator King D., of Utah, leader in recent legislative tilts on behalf of District of Columbia tenants, probably will lead the new affiliation.

The "bloc" now in its infancy, will seek legislation outlawing the padding of mortgages, stricter laws governing the marketing of second mortgages and interlocking directorates in real estate and construction companies.

TRAINING PLANS FOR SUMMER MAPPED OUT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A full schedule of summer military training this year under the new army of the United States military policy of the government has been completed at the war department and is now in the hands of the corps area commanders who will supervise the work. It covers the places, dates and purposes of scores of camps to be held over the country beginning June 15 if congress provides sufficient funds in the pending army bill.

GRAND-DAD OF 3 YOUTHS HELD AFTER TRAGEDY

Gas Jets Opened and Closed Then Again Opened

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, April 22.—Y. S. Mathis, grandfather of the three children found in their beds asphyxiated early Thursday morning, was charged with murder late today.

Filing of charges followed an intensive investigation by police since discovery of the tragedy.

The children, ages 6, 8 and 9 years, were discovered in a gas filled bedroom adjoining the kitchen in their home here. Three gas burners were going full blast and the door between the rooms open.

Officers investigating found windows and doors closed and paper stuffed in holes affording no outlet for the gas.

At the time the discovery was made the father of the children was at work and their mother was in Port Arthur, where she had been since last Saturday. The children were alone with their grandfather, who reported the matter early Thursday morning.

Denies Guilt

When told Saturday afternoon that it was a deplorable incident in the life of an old man to face so serious a charge, he said:

"I have never done anything in my life that would make me want to take a life. Very few fights have I had even when a boy."

Saturday morning detectives took Mathis to the scene of the tragedy, where he was compelled to see several small children wandering about the rooms of the home where the tragedy occurred. Officers watched the old man closely and they stated that he would not look at the children for a while.

Clues to Crime

Authorities also are of the opinion that the gas jets on the stove were opened and later closed and then opened again when it was found that all the children were not dead.

Officers closely associated with the case are of the opinion that a man could not have slept in the adjoining room without receiving some of the deadly effects of the poisonous gas.

GEORGE WHITE HURT IN WRECK; 1 KILLED

By Associated Press.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, April 22.—Former democratic National Chairman George White of Marietta, Ohio, was among eight passengers injured late this afternoon when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train was wrecked 12 miles south of this city. Engineer Elmer Preston of Parkersburg, W. Va., was killed. White's injuries are said to have been slight.

LEGION WILL CENSUS STATE FOR VETERANS

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—Some time during May, service censuses will be taken by all of the Texas American Legion Posts to obtain lists of all Texas soldiers in the world war and their present situations. Such was decided at the meeting today of the state executive committee and approximately eighty legion post commandants and adjutants.

No other business of importance was transacted, the day being devoted mostly to "getting together" and speech making. Governor Neff addressed the meeting this morning.

The meeting will adjourn tomorrow night.

STATE WILL OPPOSE BOND IN MURDER CASE

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, April 22.—The state will ask that D. E. Local Society Queens Shield Faces When They're Rounded Up in Police Court With Mountain Dew Breaths

Everything from prominent Wichita Falls society women to monkeys and organ grinders were associated together before the bar of the corporate court Saturday night at the police station.

A total of 11 arrests were docketed on the blotter, the larger number of which involved moonshine liquor, and one which involved a clever little Simian which amused feminine habitues of the dance floor while he made school-kid faces at the officer who had placed him under arrest.

Forming an unusual dragnet, the officers of the department raided the four corners of Wichita Falls, first bringing two youths into the headquarters and holding them for investigation because they are alleged to have had "mountain dew" in their possession—some of which was plainly where it could never be used as evidence.

Docketed as Disturber

The next arrest brought in two more young men on whiskey cases, while for a climax, the officers brought in three young Wichita Falls girls with four young men, one of the party being accused of having liquor in his possession, while the remainder of the "party" were docketed with disturbing the peace.

The girls and boys captured in the dragnet—among which was a married couple of the younger set—were all placed under arrest at the Bridge-

TAXES GOING UP LATEST SHOCK FROM CAPITAL

Naval Increase Made In Face of Huge Deficit

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Taxes must be increased, and the country might as well prepare for the inevitable.

That was the cheerful word being handed around at the capitol today. Congress has been unable to economize on the army and navy, the two places where it was hoped taxes could be cut, following the arms parley and the four-power pact.

Navy Cut Abolished

The appropriation committee cut the cost of the naval establishment down to $223,000,000. President Harding did not believe such a navy was adequate for national defense purposes and the naval strength was raised by the house to 86,000 men, bringing the cost back to $391,000,000 or $158,000,000 more than the appropriations committee bill originally provided.

Chairman Madden of the appropriation committee warned that the increases were being made when the country faced a $500,000,000 deficit, not taking into consideration the soldier's bonus or the proposed $300,000,000 reclamation bill.

It is now certain that taxes will lack $658,000,000 of meeting the running expenses of the government, and $958,000,000 if the reclamation bill is passed.

This does not take into consideration the soldier's bonus. Something will have to be found to tax, but republican leaders today did not know what it would be.

Majority Leader Mondell, Chairman Campbell of the rules committee, Chairman Madden of the appropriation committee and other house leaders who differed with the president were defeated.

Madden made a dramatic appeal to the house to vote for 67,000 men and go before the country with a record of "decent and reasonable economy."

Madden told the republicans who voted for the increase that they would hear from the voters in November.

There seemed little doubt today that the senate would follow the house in voting for the big navy.

"Just cash my check—I won't be back."

As the seriousness of the occasion dawned upon the society defendants, the young women hid their faces from the questioning glances of the crowd attracted to the police station through their appearance there, and it was plainly visible that they were making their initial appearance before the police court.

The initial arrest of the evening occurred when officers started down Eighth street with a youth who held in his hand a bottle of what was supposed to have been whiskey. Nearing the crossing on Indiana street, the officers demanded that the captive give up his liquor.

Hoisting his bottle in the air, the youthful character dashed the container to the concrete sidewalk below and stated:

"There's your evidence. Mop it up!"

Preceding the entrance of this defendant before the night police chief, Ginseppe Canzana, an Italian, and his "l'il monk, George," were brought into the station and charged with begging funds on the public streets. The monkey perched himself upon the rail which surrounds the judge's desk and amused the audience by making hideous frowns at the officer who had brought him into court, signifying that he was displeased. "George" was remanded to prison with his master, as was a hand organ, and the trio will be arraigned before Judge Ogle Monday.

CHIC GHOST SEEN

MILLERTON, N. Y., April 22.—There is a lot of talk going on here about the flapper ghost which for some time has been visiting the home of Theron Snyder at night and peering into a second story window. Mr. Snyder professes only a nodding acquaintance with the ghost but says that so far as he has been able to see it through the glass, it has bobbed hair and is addicted to the use of eyebrow pencils and lip-sticks. Also it is pretty.

BLANTON SAYS SISTER IN RACE IS BEING USED AGAINST HIM

By Associated Press.

ABILENE, Texas, April 22.—Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene received something of an ovation when he reached home this morning and delivered an address to an audience that packed a local theater. He said the most recent attack on him in the house came on the heels of his sister's announcement for congress to succeed the late Lucian Parrish.

"I want to tell you that my sister went with me to the farm and helped to raise her little brothers and sisters," he said. "She earned her way through college. They are not going to use an attack on my record in congress to ruin her campaign."

Congressman Blanton will make a two weeks' swing around his district, he said.

but would have to give consideration to other cases clamoring to be heard in the closing days of the session as no arguments are to be heard after Friday next.

Tentative arrangement of the argument is for the United States to open by Dyer, who will be followed by former attorney general of the United States, T. W. Gregory, representing Texas, and then W. A. Keeling, attorney general of Texas.

Bailey Represents Patentees

The patentees under Texas will be represented by Former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey, and Judge H. R. Ward, who probably will follow Keeling. The argument will be closed by Freeling. That feature of the case involving a strip of land 4,000 feet wide on the entire west side of Oklahoma cannot be heard at this time because of the limited time of the court and because Texas has not filed its reply to the answer made by Oklahoma to the original suit.

This case involves 30,000 acres of land having an approximate value of $2,000,000 and will determine whether the approximately 3,000 citizens in the strip live in Texas or Oklahoma.

LOCAL LAWYERS JOIN LEGAL TALENT

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, April 22.—Legal representatives of owners of land patented to them under the authority of the State of Texas and lying in the bed of the Red river, left Dallas Friday afternoon for Washington, where arugments will be made Monday before the United States supreme court in the Texas-Oklahoma boundary suit. The list of attorneys representing Texans includes former United States Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey.

Wichitans in Party

Mr. Bailey and A. H. Carrigan of Wichita Falls will make the arguments before the court.

J. H. Britain and Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls also are members of the counsel for the Texas landowners, and made the trip to Washington. The attorneys were in conference here yesterday before leaving.

The case has grown famous through the long months in which valuable oil producing lands and thousands of acres of rich agricultural lands along Red river where it forms the boundary between the two states have been in litigation. Frederick Delano, as receiver under appointment of United States courts, has operated the oil wells since the tracts were taken over.

Oil Removed

Between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 worth of oil has been taken from the wells on land formerly held by patented landowners, according to Mr. Britain. The profits are being impounded to await disposition upon final settlement of the litigation. The properties involved have an estimated value of millions of dollars.

Contention is made byb the landowners that the south water line is the boundary between Oklahoma and Texas, instead of the southern bank of the river.

Record Grows

The record in the case has steadily grown in volume since the inception. The brief of the State of Texas alone composes 12,000 pages of typewritten paper, Mr. Britain said; and the record in the case comprises about 30,000 pages.

DAUGHERTY GIVEN TABLE BY CONVICT

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A handsome teakwood table of rare design stands in the attorney general's office at Washington.

It is a specimen of the skill and workmanship of a convict at Atlanta prison. The table was a gift to Attorney General Daugherty. It was sent to him with the compliments of the man who is confined behind penitentiary bars for a serious crime.

American Oil Barons On Way Into Mexico to See Obregon's Finance Chief for Confab Monday Morning

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, April 22.—Edward Doheny, president of the Mexican Petroleum company, Harry Sinclair of the Sinclair Oil company, and other prominent oil men who own property in Mexico, passed through San Antonio last night en route to the City of Mexico where they will hold a second conference with officials of the Mexican government relative to the oil situation in that country.

The Doheny party is due to reach the Mexican capital tonight. La Presna, a Spanish language newspaper published in San Antonio, today carried a dispatch from Mexico City saying that a conference has been arranged with Adolfo de la Huerta, minister of finance, for Monday morning. The same dispatch said it is rumored in the Mexican capital that the American oil interests have changed their attitude on the Mexican government's proposals relative to the taxes on oil and prepared to accept the proposals with the object of getting the matter definitely and finally settled. The dispatch however, fails to state Mexico's proposals.

MARSHALL RAPS CHANGE OF LAW

Constitution Best As First Written

By Associated Press.

SHERMAN, Texas, April 22.—The constitution of the United States was best in the form which the fathers wrote it with reference, to the selection of a president and vice-president by electors and election of United States senators by legislators, Thomas R. Marshall, former vice-president of the United States, said in the third of his "Good Citizenship" lectures at Austin college here.

"The fathers never intended that this republic should be a pure democracy, but a representative one," said Mr. Marshall.

"The longer I consider this old legislation the more I am convinced that the worse you make it by amending it," he declared.

Mr. Marshall took to task severely those who make "An indoor sport of kicking congress around."

Shames Chiders

"You ought to be ashamed. They are your representatives. If they are not the kind of representatives you want it is your fault. You have the kind you ought to have," the speaker said.

"The American people are slowly killing their presidents because they will not let them be what the constitution provides they shall be—the chief executive of the nation. Instead, they are insisting that they shall be the attorney for every man, woman and child in getting what they want, and they are tickled when he goes down and kicks congress around. But you forget it is your dog he is kicking around. You forget the constitution provides three coordinate branches of the government."

350 METHODISTS AT CONFERENCE

Many From Here in Attendance

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, April 22.—The district conference of the Wichita Falls district of the First Methodist church, which convened in this city from Wednesday night until Friday night, broke all attendance records for the district, over 350 delegates from all sections of the conference district being in attendance at all or a portion of the services held during the time. The Wichita Falls district includes Wichita, Clay, Archer and portions of Jack and Montague counties and represents 22 different pastorates in those counties. Each church is entitled to be represented by their pastor and one official delegate for every 60 members of the church. Other delegates are permitted to attend the meetings of the conference but are not allowed the privelege of the ballot.

Henrietta Man Opens Conference

The conference was officially opened on Wednesday night by Rev. G. J. Jones, pastor of the Henrietta church, who preached to a large crowd of visitors and local church people. The conference proper opened at 9 a. m. Thursday in business session, at which time visiting delegates and alternates were seated. Special representatives of the different conference boards were given an opportunity to speak and their reports were read. At 11 a. m. Rev Adams of the Blue Grove circuit preached, using as his subject, "He Saved Others — Himself He Could Not Save." At noon a luncheon was served in the basement of the church, to a crowd of 200 people. The afternoon session was devoted to reports from the pastors of the various charges, most of which indicated good progress from all sections, the reports all being full of optimism and showing noteworthy accomplishments. At 5 p. m. the conference adjourned and the visiting members of the conference were taken into the homes of the local church members for entertainment. Other churches in the city assisted the Methodist congregation in the entertainment of the guests. Friday night, H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First Methodist church at Wichita Falls, preached to a packed congregation, using as his subject, "Judas the Betrayer."

Devotional Program Friday

Assembling at 9 a. m. Friday the conference was led in a devotional program by Miss Florence Dial, a faculty member of the Wesley college at Greenville, Texas. Miss Dial spoke eloquently and forcefully on the girl and boy problems of today, using as her subject, "The Teen Age."

Rev. G. J. Jones, pastor of the Henrietta church, followed with a brief address on "Teacher Training."

At 11 o'clock Dr. C. C. Selecman, pastor of the First church at Dallas, delivered one of the most powerful sermons that has ever been heard in local churches emphasizing the duties that mankind owes to Christianity and stressing the fact that God is at work and men should also be at work.

The afternoon session was devoted to the election of delegates to the annual conference, which will be held in Sherman, Texas during October. The following delegates were named: J. M. Bland, Wichita Falls; J. T. Houde, Wichita Falls; Mrs. D. J. Carruthers, Wichita Falls; J. M. Alexander, Wichita Falls; J. C. Murphey, Iowa Park. W. H. Monning, Bellevue, and R. H. Henry, Burkburnett. Five alternates were also chosen.

Archer City Next Conference

An invitation was extended to the conference by Archer City to make that the next meeting place and the invitation was accepted unanimously. Numerous resolutions were adopted one of which was filled with praise for the city of Electra on the efficient manner and the unusual hospitality that had been shown to the visiting members of the conference.

R. W. H. McCulloch, district Epworth league secretary, made an interesting report on the condition of this phase of the church work in the Wichita Falls district and reported that there were now 30 active leagues in the district. He stated that it was the aim of the members to double its number by the close of 1922.

The conference was brought to a close by Dr. Selecman, who spoke to the biggest crowd of the entire number of services on Friday night, using as his subject, "The Christian Home."

BALTIMORE, April 22.—An unusually large number of government officials and speakers of national and international prominence will take part in the third annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, which is to be held here, April 20 to 29. "Co-operation" was the keynote of last year's convention, held in Cleveland, Ohio, and it has been broadened this year to meet the enlarged scope of the league's activities. The coming convention will stress "co-operation and international friendliness through women's work."

Williams-Morgan Debate Will Be Continued in West

S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls and Quinn Williams of Decatur, candidates for congress from this district, will continue their joint speaking arrangements during the coming week—completing the swing in the west and southwest end of the district, and covering Young, Baylor, Throckmorton, Wilbarger and Clay counties.

Monday the two will speak at Vernon at 2 o'clock, speaking at 8 of the same evening at Odell.

Tuesday Seymour and Bomarton will be visited, the former at 2 and the latter at 8 o'clock.

Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, schedules call for the three places each, while on Friday the candidates will make four speeches.

Wednesday the candidates will open in Young county, speaking at Graham at 1:30; at South Bend at 4 and at Eliasville at 8.

Thursday, Jean will be visited at 1:30; Loving at 4 and Antelope at 8.

Friday, the candidates will speak at Blue Grove at 10 in the morning, at Prospect at 1:30, at Buffalo Springs at 4 and at Vashti at 8.

Saturday is Clay county day, with speaking at Henrietta at 1:30, at Byers at 4 and at Petrolia at 8.

COUNTIES JOIN TO RAISE HOGS

Higher Grade Stock To Be Produced

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, April 22.—Since the discovery of oil in this vicinity 13 years ago the promotion of better farming and higher grade livestock has been sadly neglected, but recently interest is being revived in these things and from the steps that are being taken, it appears that farming is to come into its own again in Wichita county.

It was announced this week that the farmers of Wichita and Wilbarger counties had joined forces and have organized a Livestock association for the promotion of higher grade hogs in the two counties. Membership of the association is composed of farmers from both counties and all members have already entered the high grade hog business and have thoroughbreds on their farms and ranges.

Purposes of Organization

The object of the association is set out clearly in their by-laws a portion of which reads as follows: "The object of the association shall be to promote interest in the breeding and improvement of high grade, purebred livestock; to instruct its members in the prevention and eradication of the diseases peculiar to such animals; to provide and establish an adequate market for the same, and to create in the members of the association an affection for farm animals which will result in a fuller appreciation of farm life and purebred livestock."

It is planned for the members to hold a show twice each year at which time premiums for the best grade hogs will be offered and a sale will also be conducted in connection with the shows in order to encourage other farmers to go in for the better class of swine.

L. H. Creager President

L. H. Creager, a prominent farmer-stockman who resides west of Harrold is president of the association. Other officers are: H. Begeman, first vice president; J. C. Guyer, second vice president, and Byron T. Johnson, secretary. Members of the association who have already signed up are as follows:

T. M. McClendon, Harrold; W. A. Boaz, Harrold; L. H. Creager, Oklaunion; Robert Moore, Oklaunion; Chas. Moore, Oklaunion; Joe Moore, Oklaunion; J. C. Guyer, Harrold; H. A. Guyer, Harrold; Frank Weddle, Electra; E. M. Friend, Electra; Bob Brewer, Electra; W. L. Anderson, Burkburnett; Henry Begeman, Electra; D. E. Parmley, Harrold; H. C. Obenhaus, Electra; Albert Noyes, Electra; Mr. Clynch, Electra; Ed Payton, Electra; Dan Payton, Electra; C. A. Thomas, Electra.

NEGRO GETS 2 YEARS

Mrs. C. E. Bailey has returned home after attending the district Federation of Women's clubs at Haskell and a short visit with relatives at Knox City, Texas.

Hon. S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls and Hon. Guinn Williams of Decatur will be here next Tuesday and will speak at the court house at 2:00 o'clock in interest of their candidacy for congress. These are two able men and this will give an opportunity of hearing them together.—Baylor County Banner.

Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Christian, New York city, visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Griswold, will be here about a week. Dr. Christian, noted food specialist and dietician, is vice president of the Griswold Oil company, here on a visit to the company's properties and in the interests of eastern capitalists. Dr. Christian, is a lecturer and writer on corrective eating, his books and works being read in all parts of the world.

Wichita Falls may be a great business city, but Henrietta is being called on to help maintain the preaching of the gospel down here. A lady was here Tuesday soliciting aid for work of this character in that city, and received quite a nice sum of money. Henrietta has a reputation, though, of being liberal in contributions to Christian work, whether the field of labor be among the heathen in foreign lands or among the heathen closer home. And we are all compelled to admit that a heathen is a heathen, no matter where he lives.—Henrietta Independent.

MOVE THAT SIGN

"Sign Removal Week."

That is what the Chamber of Commerce has designated this week, in a final effort to get every merchant and business man in Wichita Falls to comply with the ordinance fostered by the chamber and passed by the city commissioners a year ago regultaing electrical sign boards.

Sign boards which are attached to posts hanging out in the streets, and otherwise arranged in places which are considered dangerous, will be removed during the week and properly placed in order to conform with the ordinance. A large number of merchants are said to have signified their willingness to change their signs before the ordinance goes into effect, not waiting until the "eleventh hour"

The ordinance has set June 1 as the final day for changing the signs.

DEBATE CALLED OFF

Due to a sore throat by one of the candidates no speeches were made by S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls and Guinn Williams of Decatur, candidates for congress from this district jointly for the past weeks, when they visited Wichita county points Saturday. The time was spent instead with visiting and talking with the crowds in the streets, offices and stores.

Burkburnett was visited in the morning, Electra in the early afternoon and Iowa Park in the evening.

A later date will be arranged for speaking at these points.

De Course Allen in Advertising Game

De Course Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Allen, who make their home at the Kemp hotel, has been elected advertising manager of the Princeton Pictorial, the campus publication which gives a photographic story of undergraduate activity at Princeton, where young Allen is a junior this year.

He has also become a member of the Princeton Triangle club, the undergraduate dramatic association which yearly produces a musical comedy, written and managed solely by the students, according to announcement made by the Princeton Press club.

LUNCHEON CLUBS TO MISS FOERSTER

Five luncheon clubs holding their weekly meetings at the Kemp will with regret take leave of H. J. (Bud) Foerster, who as manager of the cafe department of the hotel, has done much to further the popularity of the clubs here, as well as being chiefly responsible for making of the Kemp hotel the recognized community center of Wichita Falls.

This last is not only an attest to his popularity, with the members of the luncheon clubs, who are prone, being human, to find fault with any kind of "grub," but is a thorough testimonial to the manner in which he had handled the affairs which local society women have with increasing frequency given at the hotel.

F. W. De Fries, who comes from the Galvez hotel in Galveston, and who takes charge today, will succeed Mr. Foerster. Members of the clubs are prepared to welcome him this week with the hope that he will succeed in filling the very large place in their affections held by "Bud" Foerster and by Mrs. Foerster, who has aided him in handing the arrangements for the club meets. The Foersters will go north, probably to enter business for themselves.

JURY AWARDS SUIT TO BANK

All of Nine Issues Favorable

Judgment for the plaintiff in the case of the First State Bank of Electra vs E. L. Gallinger et al was the verdict of the jury Saturday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Nine special issues had been submitted to the jurors by the attorneys in the case, all of which were answered favoring the plaintiff.

The plaintiff charged that E. N. Treese, deceased, and Gallinger had entered an agreement or partnership purchasing lands on which drilling for oil was to be conducted. Treese died, willing his interest in the project to his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Parker, wife of one of the defendants in the case.

Sale of leases on lands adjacent to the drilling project of the Treese-Gallinger compact continued, and Gallinger is said to have incurred much indebtedness in the continuation of the work, a promissory note to the First State Bank of Electra for $30,000 being included.

The defense pleaded that the property was Mrs. Parker's, but that she had refused to have anything to do with the drilling scheme. The defense further pleaded that Mr. Parker had no interest in the land and was therefore not responsible, while Mrs. Parker, being a married woman, could not be held responsible for the lands.

Spuds Chase Cats Up Sycamore, Scoring 11 in Seventh

JAKIE MILLER SMASHES UP ANOTHER

Stands Go 'Nuts' As Salm's Slickers Shoot Home

By "Spike" Cooper

It's a mean trick to fool a cat, but that's exactly what the Spudders did yesterday afternoon. Teased 'em along with an eight run lead until the time was ripe, then lambasted every thing thrown in the direction of the plate for rows of bases numbering from one to four and piled up 14 runs much to the dissatisfaction of Jakie Atz's feline pets. Runner after runner spiked the rubber and the final total showed Spudderville 14, Cowtown 8.

Jakie Miller gathered unto himself honors sufficient unto a season in the seventh inning. The three runs collected in the sixth had been augmented by a like number in the riotous round, when he facted the situation of which all ball players dream, the bags loaded and the home club in a rut. It took two runs to tie and three to forge ahead. With the count two and two, Roy Appleton unlimbered one of his shoots in the general direction of the plate, then turned serenely and did a funeral march to the visitors bench. He didn't need to look, the stands told the story, for Jake Miller had driven it out of the park. The last view fans had of the sphere, was as it disappeared behind the Bert Bean sign which adorns the left garden wall. And Jakie had broken up the second game in as many days.

Cecil Coombs threw an awful scare into the fans when he walloped a couple of homers in his first two appearances in Athletic Park this season. In fact it seems to be a requisite of Panther firstsackers that they clout out circuit wallops and Cecil is doing an admirable job of filling the shoes of Kraft who staged a beautiful race with Hack Eibel for Ruthian honors in the Lone Star loop last season.

Rabbit Darrough started on the hill for the Spudders, but was drubbed considerably before Salm sent Clancy, the newly acquired south-hander, to help stop the slugging Cats. The southpaw fared a like fate and retired in favor of the Wichita Falls Bambino who in turn retired in favor of Abe Bowman. A total of eleven hits were registered by the visitors, four of which went to Calvo, the Cuban centerfielder. Three singles and a double echoed off his frail pole.

Buzzer Bill Whitaker looked good enough for anybody's nine during the first five innings and only two hits were charged against him, but the sixth saw him weaken and the seventh, disappear, as did Appleton and Paul Wachtel who sought to stem the tide of runs which swept away the carefully prepared seawall. Tiny Goodbred in turn presented his the seventh after two runs had compliments and retired the side in been charged against him. He retired three hitters in the eighth on strikes, but it was too late. The game had already been carefully embalmed and buried under six feet of spudder hitting, there to lie in peace forever.

To the Wichita Bambino goes credit for the origin of the parade, Young Babe Ruth carefully demonstrated his qualifications when he drove one against the high center field wall for three bases in the sixth when he was first man up, and grounded to Hoffman. Then scored easily as O'Brien again in the seventh, with Adams on third and White on second, he well-roped one for two bags more and counted for himself when O'Brien and Summa singled in rapid succession.

Nice bits of flashy fielding marked the progress of the game. Jake Miller pulled a beautiful catch of Phelan's high foul back of third after a long run. Calvo went back against the fence and speared a long one. Adams tried hard to get hold of a short Texas leaguer by Hoffman in the seventh, but juggled it after knocking it out of the air with his gloved hand. Tex McDonald grabbed a fast grounder off Goodbred's bat and threw him out at first in the eighth.

The eleven runs scored by the Spudders in the seventh were only three short of the American league record for runs scored in a single inning when the Yankees scored 14 runs against Washington in the fifth inning on July 6th, 1920.

The most enthusiastic bunch of rooters for the season were on hand for the fray and the applause accorded the visitors showed that there were a number of Panther sympathizers present, but they were forced to "take out" in the seventh when it seemed that the stands could not possibly withstand the outburst of enthusiasm manifested when Miller larruped his homer. Present indications are that every available bit of space will be necessarily utilized today to accomodate the crowd.

Cecil Coombs opened the first round by calmly slapping the second pitched ball, well hit and out of the lot. Sears drew a walk and went to third on Calvo's single to right. He drove fiercely past Beck's feet, but it was an impossible chance. Stellbauer hit to Tex at third who trapped Sears between that station and the last corner and he was retired. Hoffman shot a high foul to Tex for the second out and Sorey threw Phelan out at first.

O'Brien grounded out, Phelan to Coombs in the last half of the opening round. Summa sent Calvo on a merry chase after his drive toward the center wall, but was out, and McDonald grounded out to Coombs.

Tavener smacked a hard one down to Lex Sorey, but was thrown out. Homer Haworth walked. Buzzer Bill buzzed one out to Summa. Coombs thumped another of Darrough's offerings over the left wall, sending Haworth on in. Sears filed out to Summa.

Beck highpowered one straight to Stellbauer for the initial killing in the final section of the second. Jake Miller romped one but Hoffman took it in and Adams struck out. The Spudders had been driving the ball, but the blows seemed to be straight at some Cat.

Calvo opened the third with a single to center but was forced at second when McDonald made a nice stop of Stellbauer's fast grounder. Darrough picked the runner off first as he stood flatfooted and Hoffman filed out to Ray O'Brien.

Sorey lifted a high one to Phelan and Kitchens rolled one down to Hoffman who threw him out to Coombs. Dorrough was out Whitaker to first.

Phelan drew a base on balls and Clancy went in for Dorrough. Tavener, the midget shortfielder forced Phelan at second when he hit to Adams. Haworth shot a fast one down to Sorey and it looked like a double play, but the second sacker over ran the ball and both runners were safe. Whitaker hit to Clancy who played safe and stopped the advance runner at third. Coombs grounded to McDonald who tagged Haworth out on the line.

The Spudders threatened to score in the fourth but fell short. O'Brien flied out to center and Summa popped up to Hoffman. Tex git his daily hit, making his continuous games total ten and went to third as Beck singled to right. Jake Miller was not able to deliver his usual pinch knock and whiffed.

Clancy got a sever drubbing in the sixth. Singles by Sears and Calvo put the Panthers in position to score which they readily did on Stellbauer's double to left. Hoffman sent him on in with a single to right center. Art Phelan forced Hoffman at second when he hit to Beck who threw to Sorey on the bag. Tavener sent a liner to Sorey who promptly doubled Phelan off first.

"Get-Two" Adams opened the Spudder half with a walk. Bob Bescher went in to hit for Sorey but flied out to center and Kitchens hit into a double play, Hoffman to Coombs.

Ruth jumped on one and rattled the 'pickets on the back panel of the fence around Walter's run patch. O'Brien sent Hoffman deep behind first after his grounder and Ruth counted. Homer Summa shot a single into left and McDonald's drive against the right wall went for a couple, sending Summa to third and both rambled up the counting path when Fred Beck smashed a single out to left. Jake Miller straightened one out that was a line drive straight into Stellbaur's waiting hands and Adams struck out.

Hoffman lifted a fly over short, and Adams tried hard to make the catch. A back handed grab knocked it down but he was not able to turn and retreive it. It went for a hit. Bischoff threw out the runner as he attempted to pilfer the second cushion. Phelans short foul behind third made Jake Miller hustle to reach it, but he took it firmly.

Tavener was a victim of Ruth's strikes.

Then opened the gory splurge. Bischoff's drive was inches short of the top of the left field fence and he got only two bases. Ruth was out, Whitaker to Coombs, but Ruth advanced on the play. O'Brien's drive bounced off Whitaker's glove and the Babe scored. Summa singled to left and Whitaker knew that his day's work was done. Appleton came to his rescue and Tex greeted him with a single to center, scoring O'Brien. Beck shot a single to right which filled the bases. Then Jake Miller calmly willowed the apple over the wall and everybody came home. Appleton never looked back but retreated before the fire of the Spudders' artillery and willed his job to Paul Wachtel. Adams looked over four wide ones of the new flinger and went on his way. White, who had gone in for Sorey outguessed Ziggy Sears with a double sending Adams to third. Bischoff rolled one down to Phelan who in turn pulled Coombs off the bag with a throw that was none too good and all hands were safe. Babe refused to be outdone and doubled to left field, cleaning the bases and Wachtel had done for the day. Goodbred was sent to the altar and singles by O'Brien, his second of the inning, and Summa chased Ruth across the pan. Tex shot one skyward that got away from Tavener, but Summa was forced at second. Tex then swiped a bag and O'Brien completed a double steal by counting on the play to second. Beck ended the round by lifting a fly to Sears.

Haworth flied out to Summa in the eighth. Tex made a nice stop of Goodbred's fast grounder and retired him at first, and Coombs sent O'Brien all the way to the fence after his drive to left center.

Jake Miller drew a walk in the eighth, but Adams, White and Bischoff all fanned.

Sears could not locate Bowman's shoots and whiffed. Calvo popped up to White and Summa rammed Stellbaur's long fly into his hip pocket. The battle was over and the Spudders two full games to the good in the race for the Texas league rag.

M'DONALD UP AMONG HEAVY HITTERS

Over 50 Smashers in Hero Class at First Count

A bigger crop of first-week .300 hitters was developed in the Texas league this year than at any time in the history of the circuit. Through Wednesday's games there were 50 players with averages above the dividing line, and the majority of them were regulars.

This early in the race for the first century in the year, it is impossible to pick favorites, but Strong, a newcomer in the loop, playing first base for Beaumont, had the lead in the break from the barrier with 13 safeties. Ziggy Sears of Fort Worth followed with an even dozen, against the 11 of Hal Spencer of Dallas and Charlie McDonald of Wichita Falls.

The big crop includes:

Spudders Should Stop All Seven Foes, Says Sport Scribe

Fans're Jaming Their Way Into Games Already, Offsetting Hullabaloo of Financial Distress Predicted During Early Days

By Diamond Dust
(Of The Record News Sport Staff)

So this is 1922—the year in which baseball was to be a financial failure? Opening day attendance figures do not seem to bear out the "exports" predictions, nor do the crowded parks of later days, for instance:

Cleveland opened the season at home to an audience of approximately 22,500 and on the following Sunday more than 20,000 wild-eyed fans trampled over one another to register at Mr. Dunn's turnstiles. Both St. Louis teams were forced to lock the gates in the faces of a few thousand admirers on opening day and the demand for seating place at Sportsman's park still far exceeds the supply, while on Thursday last, in spite of a cold wave 18,000 turned out to see the Cubs and Reds pry off the National league lid at Chicago.

Getting nearer home, and taking our own Texas league, while no official statement has been made as to the actual numbers that gathered at the various parks in J. Doak Robert's league on opening day, its a safe bet that the total of the eight first day crowds will show a considerable gain over that of 1921.

Good Season Ahead.

To our way of thinking there are three good reasons why baseball will be a success in this year, and all the years to come, namely:

First—Baseball's ever increasing popularity.

Second—No matter how much howling there is about "hard times" the fans always manage to dig up the necessary shekels to gain admittance to a ball park and have a dime left for "sody."

The third calls for more explanation, and is the best of all, for, as we see it, it is the reason that will keep 'em coming in most cities until the last day—The Texas, American and National leaguers all boast of much better balanced clubs than has been the case since 1912. The past winter saw one of the greatest "swaping sessions" in several years, and although the thing was overdone in some few cases, as a whole it tended to strengthen and round out most of the weak places that were so apparent last season. Also there were many young players in these leagues that were just beginning to show their real worth at the close of the 1921 races, most of whom will pick right where they left off last year. If given a fairly close race the "bugs" cannot be kept away from a baseball game.

Here's the way they stack up at this time:

Looks Like Spudders.

The manner in which the Spudders have been bolstered up is known to all of us. Salm has probably spent more money than any three other Texas league clubs, and not a penny has been wasted, for he has gathered some of the best talent that ever performed in these parts. There never has, nor will there every be a pennant won in April, but only a greater number of mishaps and injuries than we suffered last year can keep Wichita Falls out of the thick of the fight all the way. Dallas looks like the next best bet, their only weakness being at second and third bases. Galloway's outergarden is excelled only by the Spudders. Pug Allen is a star in this company, while Spencer and Donohue are well above the average class A flychaser. Jim Galloway ranks close to Fred Beck as a first baseman, and can also capably cover any other position on the infield. Swartz, Hill, Conley, Harper, Reid, Seely and Mitchell unquestionably form the best pitching staff in this neck of the woods. Shandling is a wonderful maskman. Yes, the Giants are the club we will have to beat.

How About Houston?

George Whiteman has given Houston a classy entry at Houston. The outfield, composed of himself as utility and Red Josefson, Bailey and Bittle as regulars leaves very little indeed to be desired. DeNoville is a good steady man for the initial corner and can hit. Blades covers second in the most acceptable fashion, is a fair hitter and an excellent base runner. Danny Gross is the coming young shortfielder of the league and will not spend many more summers in the Lone Star State. "Policeman" Doyle at third, will do. Eiffert, although a tempermental bird, has few superiors behind the bat. Pitching is Whiteman's problem, and is a large one.

Cats Not Formidable.

Fort Worth, with its pitching staff and Jake Atz' usual run of luck, shows up about fourth, but the team as a whole certainly does not compare with the Dixie Champions of 1921. "Possum" Moore and Homer Haworth are two good receivers. Kraft has at last started at first, but his only real value is a swatsmith and he can hardly hope to equal his last season's record. Hoffman is an acceptable second sacker, no more. Tavener is "way miles behind" Topper Rigney, and unless Frank Haley returns to third with his oldtime vim, that station is going to be a thorn in the Panther's side all year. Cecil Coombs, Chink Taylor and "Iron Headed" Ziggy Sears form a very good outfield.

Gassers May Come Back.

We do not place Billy Smith's Gassers fifth because of their poor showing to date, and believe they will rise higher later in the season, with Slim McGrew added to the twirling corps and Ewoldt returning to third. Just now they are a very hard team to place. San Antonio's pitching staff is second best in the league, and is well balanced with youngsters and veterans, and the rest of the team is better than Johnny Nee's "hard luck champions" of last year. Hub Northen could shut his eyes and pick a good catching staff from the layout he has at hand, Jacks Beatty on first measures up the standard of the Texas league, which demands that a man must be a fair fielder and be able to hit them "high, wide and handsome." Frankie Fuller and "Turkey" Gross are a sight for sore eyes around the keystone corner, while Ezzell or Hiller are both good men for the hot station (if Jim Galloway takes out tip he will grab the one that is finally cut loose). No one seems to know just who will finally form the regular outfield in the Alamo City.

Pity For Tailenders.

It is a pity that Galveston and Beaumont have to contend with the two poorest looking teams in the league, for the fans of those cities even after allowing for their small population, are not the most enthusiastic in the world and it looks like a lean year for the cash registers of Messrs. Leopold and Steinhagen, and it would not be at all surprising to see the Exporters change scenry before the season ends.

The rest of the league, however, is thoroughly "put" and with the brand of baseball that will undoubtedly be dished up to the first six named clubs, all of them should finish the season in grand shape from a financial standpoint.

INTRODUCING MR. DIAMOND DUST

"Diamond Dust" has been secured to divulge a weekly digest of the great national pastime for the sport section of the Record News. This is the first of the series of articles which will deal with both the major and minor leagues. "Dusty" is not just a casual observer of passing events, but a daily student of the box scores which reveal the deep secrets of the individual and club effort.

Wesley College Team After Championship

WHITE HOUSE HIRES GOLF INSTRUCTOR

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Harding has added an instructor to the golf party in the White House south grounds. George A. O'Neill of Chicago has taken the responsibility of polishing up Mr. Harding's driving.

O'Neill is a confidential assistant of Chairman Lasker and has been a member of the president's recent foursomes, making the course in 71. The president, Mr. O'Neill and Laddie Boy, the White House Airdale, spent an hour and a half this morning, Laddie Boy acting as caddie.

RAY LONG'S FOE IS FORCED TO RETIRE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 22.—Ray Long, Oklahoma City welterweight, won a technical decision over Al Von Ryan of St. Paul, Minnesota, in the sixth round of their scheduled 12 round bout here tonight.

Van Ryan forced against the rope, fell out of the ring in the sixth, wrenching his back and was unable to continue.

CHICAGO PUTS TAX ON ALL BALL PLAYERS

CHICAGO, April 22.—The city athletic commission today put into action the machinery which will result in the collection of a tax of three per cent of the gross receipts of all baseball teams, whether professional or semi-professional, in addition to a fee of $2 for each player and $10 from each umpire. The commission appointed a sub-committee to hear the arguments of the baseball owner against the tax. Such a tax will raise about $230,000 annually, it was estimated.

SPUDDERS SET PACE FOR ALL

They've Won More Than Any Club In Majors

By defeating the Panthers yesterday, the Spudders stepped into a realm all their own, and thus far not achieved by any other team in either the major or minor leagues. The Spudders, with eight games won and two lost of a total of 10 played have won more games than any club in either the American, National or Texas leagues.

Fort Worth dropped to the third margin yesterday, and Beaumont climbed a rung up the ladder to second place, however, Beaumont is not thus far considered a strong contender for championship honors.

New York, leading the American league with seven games won and two lost, and Chicago, leading the National league with seven won and two lost, have tied for second place honors, under the Wichita Falls, Texas league lead.

WHY DO YOU WASH YOUR FACE?
You wash your face frequently in order to keep it clean. Imagine how one's face would look if it were washed only once a month.
Your outer garments collect dirt and dust, just as your skin does, and if this is allowed to remain the foreign matter is ground right into the fabric, causing it to lose its color, shape and resistance to wear.
When your clothes are dry-cleaned by our modern methods, all this ground-in dirt is removed—the fabric regains its original color and life.
It is real economy to have clothes dry-cleaned frequently, as they will then give many dollars worth more of service. Just phone us.

Your Stationery Reflects Your Business
One can hardly over-estimate the value of good printing to a business. In the absence of personal representation it becomes the representative of a business. At the other end of the continent it speaks a message for your firm. It is important that it is the kind of printing which will properly represent you.
This firm devotes its whole time and attention to printing. From early morning 'till late at night it receives our undivided attention. Costly machinery has been installed which enables us to put our ideas into execution. We are thoroughly equipped.
We believe that you would prefer for a wichita Falls firm to do your printing, everything else being equal. We do not expect it unless we can compete with outside firms on the basis of quality and price.
All that we ask is that we be allowed to submit a bid on your work before you send it out of town.

LEADERS COME TO BOYS' MEET

Opportunity Offered Local Youths

Wichita Falls boys of high school and working age, as well as boys of the same age in nearby towns are being urged to realize by instructors of the Wichita Falls schools of the great opportunity that is afforded them by the holding of the first Older Boys conference in Northwest Texas this one to be held in Wichita Falls on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week.

The conference is the one of the newly created Northwest Texas district, and it is expected that 300 or more boys will be in attendance.

Training For Service.

S. H. Rider and H. A. Glass, principals of the senior and junior high schools here, and C. E. Danheim, high school instructor who has taken a lead in student activities, are the teachers who have been given the assignment of visiting nearby towns to bring this opportunity before the boys of those places.

"Training for Service" is to be the theme of the three day conference, and the program which has been arranged includes talks by some of the leading educators and boys work specialists in Texas.

Aerial Circus to Greet 'Em.

The principal entertainment feature of the program will be the visit to the first day's program of the American Legion air circus next Saturday afternoon—a meet being staged on a more ambitious scale than ever before attempted in the Southwest, or probably in the entire South.

The meeting will begin Friday afternoon when Polly Clark, local boy, who will act as temporary presiding officer, will call the first session to order in the First M. E. Church, South at 3:00 o'clock. The afternoon session will be brief, including a song service lead by R. E. Shepherd, a devotional by Rev. J. D. Pinkston, and welcome addresses by Mayor Collier, Rev. J. W. Loving, a local pastor, and by Edward Kadane, president of the local Hi-Y club. The response will be made by a representative of the Graham Hi-Y club, after which a nominating committee will be named, announcements made by J. E. Lewis, state boys work secretary for the Y. M. C. A., and H. P. Demand, regional boys work secretary, heard on the subject of "Why We Are Here."

Friday evening the election of officers, and an address on "Training" by J. C. Watson, state boys work secretary for Oklahoma, will feature the program, which will be followed by a social hour.

Saturday and Sunday will see the conference down to work in earnest—the address by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of Texas A. & M. college. At the annual banquet in the evening of Saturday featuring the program. The program for these two days in full follows:

Saturday Morning.

Fitts Says He Likes Way New Chief Is Handling Department and Work He Has Jumped in and Directed

That Chief J. W. McCormick of the police department has made the best record for that department that has ever been made in such a short length of time, was the statement made Saturday morning at police headquarters by J. B. Fitts, police commissioner.

"The class of criminals that have been captured by the police department since Chief McCormick went into office, April 18, is a great record for him already," the commissioner said, pointing to a list of 42 arrests which have been made since that time only two of which resulted in dismissals.

The commissioner pointed to a total of $45 taken in by the department Saturday morning when five traffic violators were arraigned before Judge J. R. Ogle, magistrate of the police court. The five defendants pleaded guilty. Commissioner Fitts stated that this was an average run for the department, and it was his opinion that with the caution and discretion being used by Chief McCormick in directing the affairs of the police department, that but few arrests would be mistaken.

"I believe he's the most competent officer in the state of Texas." Commissioner Fitts said. "There's no question about whether Chief McCormick is an officer, and I think Wichita Falls is indeed fortunate in securing him for the position he holds.

"I like the way he handles the department. It couldn't be better. He has the good will and confidence of all his men, and he's a natural leader.

"He doesn't say 'boys, do so-and-so,' he's the kind of an officer that says 'come on boys,' let's go.' He doesn't confine himself to his desk to direct the affairs of the department, but he gets out on the streets and finds out what Wichita Falls needs in the way of police protection.

"He is courteous and a thorough gentleman, and that's the way a chief should be."

Commissioner Fitts declared that his ambition is to make the Wichita Falls police department second to none in the state.

PROSPECTS FOR ROUNDUP BRIGHT

Big List of World's Greatest Enter

Preparations for the Round-Up which will be staged at the ball park May 3, 4 and 5, according to reports from Round-Up headquarters, are advanced more than they were this far ahead of the opening last year. Although the time for advertising the Round-Up this year was shorter than the time consumed in advertising the same last year, the publicity campaign has advanced more rapidly than ever before. Numerous local citizens, according to reports, have called at the headquarters, getting literature to send to friends and relatives in many different parts of the country and from these people it has been learned that the Round-Up has attracted visitors from a greater distance than was first supposed.

Citizens Respond

Mr. Burnett, the producer, in a statement given out, expressed his thanks for the interest the citizens at large are taking in the coming show and the great help that they have been in distributing the literature.

The prize lists which have been sent broadcast to all the western ranches, announce larger purses than have ever been given here before and these increased purses are bringing results and there are already entered a great number of the greatest experts in the game.

Many Stars Coming

Splendid Location

The work of building the strong pens, corrals and chutes for handling the wild stock will commence the latter part of the week at the ball park and the arena and equipment will be so arranged as to afford an unobstructed view from any seat in the grand stand or bleachers.

The fact that Mr. Burnett will produce a Round-Up for the Southwest Durbar association at the Texas State Fair grounds, just three weeks later, will greatly help the Round-Up here in the matter of contestants, as the two contests coming close together will enable contestants from California, Montana, Oregon and other western states, that could not afford to make the trip for one contest, to be here.

Thousands of homeless people are living in soldiers' dugouts along the Polish frontier.

FRECKLE-FACE

Now is the Time to Get Rid of Those Ugly Spots.

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle-face?

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength, from your druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. The sun and winds of March have a strong tendency to bring out freckles, and as a result more Othine is sold in this month. Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.—Adv.

NIGHT PARKING COSTLY HERE

Cars Must Be Moved Before Midnight

Steps to break up the habit of parking automobiles on the public streets overnight have been begun by the police department, Chief J. W. McCormick declared Saturday morning. Seven persons have been brought into the corporate court and fined $5 each for violation of the ordinance prohibiting such parking, it was said, since the department inaugurated a drive against it two nights ago.

Chief McCormick said that with automobiles parked all over the public streets, the street sweepers found it impossible to properly conduct their work, and that all violators of the ordinance will be arraigned before the corporate judge for proper prosecution.

NONPARTISANS WILL DISCUSS CANDIDATES

Discussion of the various candidates for congress from this district, and the proposed school bond issue, to be voted on May 13, will feature a meeting of the "Non-partisan" political movement at the Labor Temple Friday of this week, it is announced—with a possible expression of the labor stand in each instance.

Reports from delegates who have attended the state convention at El Paso during the past week, when the political course of Texas labor unions was fully discussed, will also be a feature of the meeting.

DYED A SWEATER AND SKIRT WITH DIAMOND DYES

Every "Diamond Dyes" package tells how to dye or tint any worn, faded garment or drapery a new rich color that will not streak, spot, fade, or run. Perfect home dyeing is guaranteed with Diamond Dyes even if you have never dyed before. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. For fifty-one years millions of women have been using "Diamond Dyes" to add years of wear to their old, shabby waists, skirts, dresses, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, hangings, everything!—Adv.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Fruity Taste and it cannot Injure Little Stomachs.

Don't let child stay bilious, constipated.

Hurry mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If your child is constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good "physic-laxative" is often all that is necessary.

Genuine "California Fig Syrup" has directions for babies and children printed on the bottle. Say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN THE SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion in to the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.—Adv.

SINCLAIR RUNS LINE TO PALA

Wild Cat Well to Be Reached Soon

Lines being laid from the main trunk of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company's Ranger line, will reach the new Palo Pinto county wild cat early in the week, according to information received from the local offices Saturday.

The new well on the Jack Dalton ranch, drilled into the lime at 3,043 feet last Thursday, and has reached a total depth of 3,054 feet. The production, without a guage, was rated Saturday at 1,000 barrels daily.

This is the first "real" well, as the deep lime wells are rated, to be drilled in Palo Pinto county. The closest production is found in Young county, in the east extension of the Bunger pool, where the Miller, Horner and Taylor well on the Herron, has been completed about five miles from the Palo Pinto county line.

Taken in connection with Young county's recent deep lime discoveries, the new Palo Pinto well intimates the possibility of a speedy consummation of prophecies of oil operators that a considerable producing area in the deep lime, is to be opened in the southeast corner of Young, and adjoining portions of Palo Pinto county.

NAVY WINS

By Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 22.—Midshipment athletes showed the way to representatives of Harvard and the University of Virginia in a triangular field and track meet here today, winning with a score of 64 1-2 points. Harvard was second with 32 1-3, while Virginia's tally was 29 1-3. All of the sprint and distance events were keenly contested, the biggest surprise developing in the mile, in which Curtis, the Navy star, and Olympic runner, was beaten by Burke of Harvard by a scant two yards.

Baker of Virginia was the star of the meet, taking both short dashes and running as anchor man in the mile relay, which was also won by the Southerners.

U. TRACKMEN LOSE

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—The Louisiana State University track team defeated the University of Texas by a score of 61 5-6 to 51 1-6. The meet was close but was decided only by the last three events.

Senator Borah Declares That His Support of Soldiers' Bonus Bill Would Simply Mean Buying Votes

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, states in a letter to the Pocatello, Idaho, post of the American legion, that if he voted for the soldiers' bonus bill, "it would be a simple matter of barter, in which I use the people's money to buy somebody's vote." The letter was in response to a telegram received by the senator from the Pocatello post and was made public by him tonight. It said in part: "If I thought this measure a proper one, I could and would vote for it. But, believing with thousands of former service men who have written me that it is not a proper one, if I should vote for it, it would be a simple matter of barter, in which I use the people's money to buy somebody's vote; in which the account of my political expenses would be charged to the taxpayers."

At the outset of his letter Senator Borah said he had taken his position on the bonus "after great consideration and with much reluctance." He added that he understood perfectly the criticism it would bring and "the condemnation it would invite," but believing that his position was a righteous one, he could not change.

GOODNER PUSHES CHEER SPIRIT

His House Publishes Neat Booklet

Progressive ideas, E. S. Goodner, president of the Goodner Wholesale Grocery company, says, has prompted the wholesale firm to place on the market with their other wares a house booklet entitled "Goodner's Greetings."

With the initial appearance of the magazine, Mr. Goodner extends his greetings to his trade, which the "house of Goodner serves."

Everything from new notes, business opportunities and progressive grocery stories to advertisements and poems is to be found in the small booklet, which, the articles in the first issue set forth, is a spoke in the machinery of the Goodner Wholesale Grocery company that tends to make the retail merchant better acquainted with those who give him his source of supplies.

HIGH SCHOOL CAMP WILL BE RE-OPENED

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, April 22.—Plans are being made to reopen Camp Dallas, the Dallas high school summer camp at Lampasas, this summer, according to A. C. Ebie, chairman of a committee of business men working in the interest of the camp.

Dallas is the second city in the United States to undertake a camp for its school boys, according to Ebie, Chicago being first with camp Roosevelt. The camp is sponsored by the board of education of Dallas and is supervised and partially supported by the United States government. It is under the personal charge of Colonel F. G. Knabenshue, teacher of military science and tactics in the Dallas high schools.

ONE LIFE GONE

NIAGARA FALLS, April 22—Nig a pet cat of customs and immigration officials at the American end of the lower steel arch bridge, jumped 150 feet into a gorge Wednesday night when chased by a dog. She turned up Thursday a little ruffled of fur, but otherwise little the worse for the adventure.

After the cat plunged into the gorge, men employed on the bridge saw her crawl about on the rocks below and try to climb up the steel beams. Efforts to rescue her failed.

HEINKE KAYOED

CHICAGO, April 22.—Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., knocked out Edward Heinke of Milwaukee in the seventh round of their boxing bout on board the U. S. S. Commodore last night. Heinke substituted for Stanley Everett of Peoria, who was to have fought Taylor. The men weighed 116 pounds.

CLIPPING BUREAU AT AUTIN REMUNERATIVE

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—The students clipping bureau, a part of the journalism department of the University of Texas, is proving a very successful and renumerative feature of the department, according to Miss Mildred Paxton, manager of the bureau. The bureau was established four years ago and the list of subscribers has grown steadily ever since.

Clippings on nearly every possible subject are furnished by the bureau to its subscribers. All of the clippers are young women students, who by their work are enabled to pay, in part at least, their way through the University. At present eight clippers are employed.

SINGERS TO MEET

By Associated Press.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Texas, April 22.—Arrangements for the annual meeting of the East Texas Singers' association, here June 22 to 24 inclusive, will be made by a committee of the chamber of commerce. This is said to be the largest organization in number of members of any singers' convention in Texas, comprising all counties east of Dallas and south of Red River.

FRIED CHICKEN FAILS

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 22.—An offer of fried chicken and free entertainment made by the people of Waelder, failed to get for the people of the town the 1923 convention of the Baptist Organized Bible class. The convention went to Tyler. Dallas was the only other city besides Tyler, the winner in the bidding for the convention, that made an effort to obtain the 1923 convention. Tyler offered a bonus of $8300 and entertainment in the homes of its citizens and won.

'OPEN MINDS' FOR PROGRESS

Progress Depends on It Says Swanson

Future human progress depends on an attitude of "open mindedness" toward new problems of life as they arise, rather than a blind adherence of principles accepted in the past, F. G. Swanson, local attorney, told the congregation of the Temple Israel Friday night.

Mr. Swanson was substituting for Rabbit David Goldberg, absent from the city, and in the beginning of his talk expressed his appreciation of the invitation to substitute for one of the recognized scholars of Wichita Falls.

Quotes Emerson

While warning of the necessity for holding on to the established anchors, the constitutions and Magna Chartas, and the established laws and regulations of society, as a conservation of energy in the spirit of inquiry toward the new, he quoted Emerson's observation:

"I have no faith that that man will travel far or accomplish much who believes that that which was done in a remote age by those whose names have resounded far, has any deeper significance than that which we are doing today."

Reforms From Masses.

Pointing out that scientists have been quoted as saying that only seven per cent of the people think—a percentage which Edison reduces to two, the speaker reminded his hearers that history, and recent history, has shown that great reforms and great progress have practically all emanated from the messes, often at the expense of the hitherto ruling classes; and that the so-called plain folks have apparently got first and firmest grasp on the ideas that master mankind—raising the question, said, as to whether any teacher or leader is ever really over the heads of the people.

Toleration of those of all creeds for those of all others was urged by the speaker, in connection with which he pointed out that the first rule of human conduct, the Golden Rule, was equally the property of a wide number of peoples.

"Various social manifestations of self-styled human aragons of civic virtue," he said, "may be in part responsible for the severe arraignment of churches and schools by Dr. Henry F. Cope, who speaking before a meeting of the department of superintendence of the National Educational association, said:

" 'Churches have failed to furnish an effective motive to guide our conduct, and schools have not tried to teach the art of modern living. Now education must rebuild through children, a new society; and religion must give it motives and ideals that will make it possible to live together in kindness and happiness." The same idea was more caustically expressed by the Irish wit, who remarked: 'The trouble with us is our religion. Some of us are Protestants and some of us are Catholics. If we were all atheists, we could all live together like Christians.'

"Similarity of ideas in expression of Golden Rules throughout the ages should tend to eliminate pharisaical views, and make us more tolerant and liberal in attitude toward others, and humble before whatever Gods we serve.

"Thus we find that the Christian 'All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them' has its counterpart.

"In the Chinese 'What you would not wish done to yourself, do not unto others.'

"In the Buddhist 'One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self.'

"In the Egyptian 'He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.'

"In the Persian 'Do as you would be done by.'

"And in the Grecian, 'Do not that at your neighbor which you shall take ill from.'

"The philosophy and wisdom of all the ages have given instructions for human conduct in their own interpretation of the Golden Rule. And it is likewise an age old doctrine that every man is responsible for his brother; that in social orders we must all take an interest in those about us; that we cannot escape the great law of social and mutual responsibility.

"Bearing in mind that new occasions teach new duties, that time makes ancient good uncouth, does it not seem possible that in the not distant future a spirit of inquiry with an open mind, may conceive of social relations as broad as the world, and that one may travel far beyond the narrow spirit of intolerance and selfishness."

BURK REGRETS TO LOSE REV. FURNISS

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, April 22.—Resolutions of appreciation of the activities of Rev. T. J. Furniss and wife during their church work in Burkburnett were recently adopted by the members of the First Baptist church of Burkburnett when it became known that Rev. Furniss has been called to pastor the Baptist church of Harlinger, Texas.

Rev. Furniss has been pastor of the Burkburnett Baptist church for the past three years, during which time he has been a valuable citizen to the community, the church members asserting in their resolutions that "our city has become a much better place to live in because of him."

The minister and his wife will journey overland to Harlinger, going via Fort Worth, Waco, Austin and San Antonio to their new field.

'Maskat Wildcat' Tells Shriners of Big Ceremonial

Shriners of the Maskat Temple received through the mails Saturday "The Maskat Wildcat," announcing the program for the spring ceremonial which will begin here May 23. The booklet announcing the entertainment, and containing history outlines of the Wichita Falls Shrine, is replete with biographical sketches of prominent Shriners and leaders in Masonic work in this city.

Bearing the emblem of Maskat Shrine on the cover page, the camel of Masonic fame, on his long journey over the desert sands has a conspicious position on the borderwork of the booklet.

Creditable mention of Potentate W. D. Cline, former mayor of Wichita Falls, and of Frank Collier, chief rabban and who is the present incumbent of the mayor's chair, is made in the book, which narrates the interesting Shriner events which will begin to occur here May 9, with the regular Masonic temple session, to the next regular session, June 13.

Mention is made of L. G. Hawkins, assistant rabban; William W. Gardner, high priest and prophet; R. E. Shepherd, oriental guide, W. M. McGregor, treasurer; C. Orlando Fritz and "Al" Ellis, director of the work.

NO REPORT ON GAMES

Police officials stated Saturday night that no report has been received from Long Beach, Calif., officers relative to the condition of Cecil James, 22, of Wichita Falls, who was recently wounded in a running pistol fight with policemen there.

DEMOLAYS STIR INTEREST HERE

Parade Precedes Big Initiation

Sounds of many feet striking the pavement in unison waited on the air.

Around the corner of Eighth street and down Indiana came a band of youths clothed in white, with an American flag at their head. Behind them trooped numerous youths in civilian clothes. There was no mistaking the sight that the human eye beheld—the lads were marching, and several of their number were counting that old familiar tune of "one, two, three, four."

A hungry-looking Yank wearing the insignia of an American Legionnaire, and with a glitter in his eye that signified that he well knew a certain bonus bill will probably be brought up before several other United States congresses, protruded ahead and shoulders out of a business door on Indiana avenue and querried:

"What's that, another draft brigade"?

"No," a bystander averred, "just the DeMolayas doing a little drill work."

It was the DeMolay, and it was their first public appearance. They paraded the downtown streets at noon, just before their first ceremonial "on their own" at the Call Field auditorium of the Shriners.

A total of 38 were initiated in.to the first and second degrees, following which all members of the organization, some 120 took the work of the third and highest degree.

The third degree work was put on by Al Ellis, secretary of the Faith lodge, and by four assistants. A number of Masons witnessed the work.

Following are the names of those who took the work for the first time: Thro Edwin Yourn, John Franl Shaw, Joseph Clyde Straus, Phoney Leroy Scott, Joseph Edward Platt, Oron Cosby Henson, Winfred Essex Page, Harry Emanuel Gilmore, Henry Arthur Urban, Ray Williamson, James Richard Martin, Marvin Bond, Gerold Scott Yates, Gilbert Bourland, Donovan Weldon, Edgar Ellis, Wade Bartlett, Hubert Mayfield, Henry Drummond Harris, William Powers, L. Randall Canfield, Jack Dale Mayo, William Davis Beach, Sam Hildreth, Gaylord Swartz, — — Armstrong, Albert Chewning, George Ryder Lake, Henry Marshall Douglass, Allen Louis Gerock, George D. Keith, Jr., Charles Samuel Cook, Carl Benard Frazier, Gregory W. Dodgen, James Clark Skeen, Charles Alexander Morgan, Audrey Joe Everton, Cornelius Chewning.

DIVORCE GRANTED ON CHARGE OF CRUELTY

Cruel treatment and abusive language were the grounds on which Judge P. A. Martin, in the 89th district court, granted Mrs. Sylvia Scott a divorce from H. T. Scott Saturday.

Scott has been sentenced to serve 12 years in the penitentiary for robbery with fire arms. He is confined to the county prison awaiting action on his case, which has been appealed to the higher courts.

DEFENSE GETS AWARD

Judgment for the defense was the verdict of the jury in the case of Krise and Statlen vs. the Universal Drilling company and John Nelson, tried in the 89th district court before Special Judge J. W. Akin Saturday. Testimony in the case had been completed Friday afternoon, the arguments being concluded early yesterday morning.

The plaintiffs had instituted suit for recovery of commissions amounting to $2,000, which they claimed to be due them.

WHEAT PRICE RISE SHARPLY

Kansas Crop Report Bullish

CHICAGO, April 22.—A bullish construction placed upon Kansas state crop report, which was followed by some buying, caused wheat prices to advance sharply today. The advance was not held however, because of profit-taking by local longs. This caused a setback but at the finish which was strong, wheat ranged 1 to 2 5-8c net higher with May 1.47 1-2 to 1.47 3-4 and July 1.29 1-2 to 1.29 3-4, corn finished 3-8 to 1c up, and oats were 1-8c lower to 1-2c higher. Provisions ranged from 7 1-2 to 17 1-2 cents higher.

While wheat prices averaged lower in the early trading in sympathy with the easiness in Liverpool, there was no great pressure and it required very little buying to bring about a sharp advance ifrom the inside figures. The Kansas state crop report, showing a condition of 73.9, compared with the government April 1, return of 65, was construed as bullish.

To the fact that the condition is the lowest at this season, with one exception in twenty years, was added the fact that the abandoned acreage was 26.3 per cent, or 2,900,000 acres. It is estimated by exporters here that between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 bushels new crop have already been sold for export and there was evidence of further business, July sold at a new high on the crop and the July-September difference widened to over nine cents compared with five cents recently, the May-July spread went to over 20 cents.

Corn and oats showed fair activity and averagieid high in sympathy with wheat. Weather conditions over the west favored field work with the forecast for increasing cloudiness with the lower temperatures Sunday in the northwest. The Kansas report suggested an increase of 1 per cent in the corn acreage and at decrease of 20 per cent in oats.

Provisions averaged higher with grain and hogs.

Wichita Territory To Send Many Boys To Meeting Here

Support of the older boys' conference which will be held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday and promises to attend in large numbers was the report of S. H. Rider, C. E. Danheim and H. A. Glass, each of whom took three school boys and toured this section of the country Friday in the interest of the conference. The meeting here is fostered by the Y. M. C. A., and will attract numerous speakers to Wichita Falls who are familiar with boys' work.

Mr. Rider, accompanied by Polly Clark, Edward Kadane and Harold Anderson, visited Vernon, Oklaunion, Harold and Electra, Texas, in the interest of the conference. Charles Morgan, Wallace Bright and Mortimer Clopton, accompanied Mr. Danheim to Henrietta, Byers, Petrolia and Ringold, while a third group of boys headed by Mr. Glass visited Seymour, Megargle, Olney and Archer City.

The three groups departed early Friday morning, overland, returning here late Friday night.

Direction of the proposed conference is in the hands of Lee Clark, superintendent of the city schools, who is making elaborate plans to entertain the 250 boys expected here to attend the meeting.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22.—On application of the Whittaker-Glaising company of Wheeling, W. Va., Judge John E. Sater in United States district court today appointed a receiver for the Sears and Nichols Canning company of Chillicothe, Ohio, one of the largest food canning companies in the United States.

STEEL MARKET HOLDS STEADY

Prices Firm But Going Higher

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The steel market continues active and prices are firm with a upward tendency. A good deal of the buying movement is undoubtedly due to the coal strike which is a menace to the fuel situation. Producers are still showing a hesitation about booking ahead. Pig iron was strong on account of the better demand and the fuel situation and prices are advancing steadily.

Copper has remained comparatively quiet but no selling pressure developed and prices were well maintained around the 12 7-8c level with some producers asking an advance of 1-8c forward shipment. Less favorable views as to the outcome of the Genoa conference appeared to restrict business early in the week but lafer sentiment in that connection was more optimistic owing to firmer exchange rates and advanced in London while there was also some increase in the inquiry from exporters.

Tin was quiet with little change and the speculative rise in London received scant notice here. Lead was advanced to 5.10 by the leading producer and 5.20 to 5.30 by ourside interests. Consuming demand continues large and general.

Zinc is firm. Domestic demand has been light because of fairly good supplies on hand and the coal strike but operators are buying. Producers are in a firm position and foreign advices report firmness in the English markets. Antimony shows continued firmness and the market advanced to five cents at which level moderate sales occurred.

REPUBLICAN SOLONS SEEKING RE-ELECTION WILL DISTRIBUTE 'PIE'

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Thousands of jobs in the government service are to be placed immediately at the disposition of Republican senators and representatives who have fights for re-election on their hands.

Within a few days President Harding is expected to issue another executive order removing all appointive offices, which pay $3,000 or more yearly, from the provisions of the civil service.

Congressmen, who have been bringing pressure to bear on the president to give them pap for distribution before the congressional campaigns begin in earnest, say that they have been given pledge of their desires.

COTTON PRICE UP 18 POINTS

General Trade Helps Tone of Market

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—Prices were higher in the cotton market on the opening today and the gains were well maintained throughout the session, the active months standing 10 to 18 points up in the late trading, while the close was at net gains of 10 to 15 points. May closed at the highest, 16.99 cents a pound, while October traded up to 17.09 and closed at 17.06.

Probably the market got most of its support from the favorable tone of week end reviews of trade in general, which were considered to reflect more improvement than for many weeks past. Further accounnt of betterment in the demand for cotton goods were a help to values, as was also the continued favorable news from the Genoa conference.

In the late trading there were signs that southern spinners were buying contracts here. Dallas wired local brokers of a better spot demand in that market; Belgium being reported a buyer, while the large export movement for the day created a most favorable impression. Total clearances from all ports amounted to 43,200 bales against 12,757 this day last year.

The weather over the belt was much more favorable, being dry and warmer, but it caused no selling of consequence even after the posting of the forecast of continued dry weather in most sections.

COTTON GOODS STEADY

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Cotton goods primary markets were steady today with recent advances in print cloths and sheetings fully maintained. Finished goods were less active than unfinished lines. Yarns were steadier with more of a tendency to rise nearer a parity of cost values. Burlaps were attractive of most interests. Silks were steadier and more confidence was apparent in primary channels. Linens were steady but quiet.

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—Spot cotton quiet and unchanged; sales on the spot 158 bales; to arrive 481. Low middling 15.63; middling 16.88; good middling 17.88.

MORGAN RALLY SET

Supporters of S. A. L. Morgan have definitely established Saturday night of this week as the date for the open air rally in his favor by his local backers. Speakers are yet to be arranged for.

Mr. Morgan will speak here before some time in the following week, it being his plan to finish his campaign at home, and the Saturday meeting has been arranged as a demonstration of support in his absence in his campaign.

CHICAGO PRODUCE

CHICAGO, April 22.—Butter higher; creamery extras 38. Eggs lower, receipts 42,078 cases; firsts 23¾@24. Poultry, alive lower; fowls 26, broilers 50@60; roosters 17.

DEMOCRATS SEE SILVER LININGS

City Elections Give Rise to Hopes

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Democrats here are enthusiastic over municipal elections throughout the country, which almost universally have put democrats in office instead of republicans.

Burreville, R. I., elected an entire democratic ticket by pluralities of 500, overturning 1920 republican pluralities of 800.

Hagertown, Md., elected a democratic mayor by 360 majority, overturning a republican affiliated majority of 700; also two councilmen.

Hartford, Conn., went democratic by a record vote, reversing a republican victory of two years ago. The democratic candidate mor mayor received 3,575 majority and the democratic candidate for controller defeated a republican who has held the office for 28 years. The board of assessors is democratic for the first time in 20 years.

Benwood, W. Va., answered the question "What's in a name?" by electing James Cox, the democratic candidate for mayor, over a republican who had held the office for four terms.

1,000 METERS CHANGE

Belief that the ordinance passed over a month ago by the city commissioners regulating gas, water and light meters in Wichita Falls has had the tendency to effect changes in approximately 1,000 meters was expressed by Dr. A. H. Douglass of the health department Saturday morning.

"The $2 amendment attached to the ordinance recently and which went into effect three days ago," Dr. Douglass said, "has possibly brought about a drop in the tests of the meters, but the fact that the city will now examine all meters before they are sent out to customers will enhance the value of the meters and insure better ones."

Only 50 per cent of those meters tested since the amendment took effect have proved over 2 per cent fast Dr. Douglass said.

TO HOLDERS OF VICTORY NOTES AND OTHERS CONCERNED

Notice is hereby given as follows: First call for redemption of three and three-quarter per cent Victory notes. All of these three, three-quarter per cent series of United States of America convertible gold notes of 1922 and 1923 otherwise known as three three-quarter per cent Victory notes are hereby called for redemption on June 15, 1922. Pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the notes and in Treasury Department circular number 138, dated April 21, 1919, under which the notes were originally issued, interest on all Victory notes of the three three-quarter per cent series will cease on said redemption date, June 15, 1922.

Second—suspension and termination of Victory note conversion privilege in view of the call for the redemption of all three three-quarter per cent Victory notes on June 15, 1922 and pursuant to the provisions of said Treasury Department circular number 138, the privilege of conversion of Victory notes of either series into Victory notes of the other series is hereby suspended from February 9, 1922, to June 15, 1922, both inclusive and on June 15, 1922, will terminate. Victory notes accordingly cease to be interconvertible effective February 9, 1922, and on and after that date no conversions of the notes may be made.

Third—detailed information as to the presentation and surrender of three three-quarter per cent Victory notes for redemption is given in Treasury Department circular number 277, dated February 9, 1922, copies of which are available at the Treasury and Federal Reserve Bank.

A. W. MELLON

HERRON NO. 1 FLOWING 200

Sand Drilled Only Couple of Feet

Drilling into an oil sand at 2378, the Miller, Horner and Taylor No. 1 Herron, in the east Bunger field is flowing better than 200 barrels a day, according to Saturday reports from the field. The sand has been drilled only a couple of feet, according to the reports, and the well is flowing by heads, without having been cleaned out.

This new well gives the east Bunger field its fourth sand and adds material to the interest in the extended operations, while many oil operators have been watching closely since two weeks ago, when the Mahlstadt Mook's No. 1 Williams drilled a sand at 1700 feet, south of the Penn Cities No. 1 Herron, which was the first well drilled in this part of the field. This original well is producing from a sand at 2,300 feet.

The fourth distnict sand is on the Costello ranch, a mile and a half south of the Mahlstadt Mook, where Pitzer and West are completing a nice producer in a sand around 1820 feet.

More than thirty years of successful experience forms the foundation of the strength and satisfying service for which the City National Bank of Commerce is noted throughout West Texas.—adv.

FLOW AT M'GEE THRILLS CREW

Heavy Gas Pressure Shows Promise

A sudden flow of oil sending the fluid high over the crown block, gave the crew on the McGee test, Smith Capers ranch, on the south edge of Hutchinson county, a considerable thrill early Saturday morning, when a sand was entered at 2,820 feet. A heavy gas pressure, making the flow to continue, as drilling proceeds, made the well look very promising, until the sand was drilled through, and the flow stopped. There was five feet of the oil formation, according to reports from the Panhandle Saturday. The well was drilling deeper Saturday night.

This showing leads to expectation of a real find when the deeper level is reached. The McGee well is northeast of the Gulf Production company's two Burnett wells, in Carson county, which have been commanding considerable attention for some weeks.

TEXAS IMMIGRATION CLAUSE MAY WIN OUT

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The house conferees, it was learned today, probably will accept the Swanson amendment to the immigration bill providing for a five-year residence for European aliens in Mexico, Cuba and Canada before they can be admitted to the United States.

Under the existing law, aliens are required to stay in these nearby countries only a year before being eligible to enter this country. The charge was made by Congressman Box of Texas, that aliens were being colonized in Mexico for a year and then brought in, breaking down the immigration laws.

STRIKERS LIVE IN BARONS' HOUSES

This mining settlement in Harrison county, West Virginia, is one of the largest coal producing counties in the state, where striking miners still reside in houses erected and owned by the operators. The annual tonnage from this section of West Virginia is about 20,000,000 tons. There are 550 mines in the region employing about 20,000 miners. No mines have been working in Harrison county since April 1, when the strike was called by officials of the mine workers.

SPANISH WAR VETS OPPOSED TO BONUS

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Spanish war veterans want no bonus for their services, if a letter received by Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, can be taken as a criterion.

The letter to Willis came from the Ward A. Willford camp, United Spanish War Veterans, Akron, following Willis announcement that he intended to ask an amendment to the World's War Veteran's bonus bill, making Spanish war veterans eligible to its benefits.

"I have been instructed by unanimous vote of this camp to notify you that we oppose with all our strength any bonus to Spanish war veterans," F. H. Dalton, adjutant of the Akron camp wrote to Willis.

SHEPPARD BUCKING DEMOS TARIFF FRONT

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Much interest is being evinced here in the forthcoming senate vote on the McCumber tariff bill, which Senator Simmons, North Carolina, declared is the "most criminal tariff bill ever written."

Democrats are hopeful of presenting a solid front against the bill, but are doubtful as to whether they will be able to hold Senators Ashurst of Arizona, Sheppard of Texas, and one or two others in line.

It is reported that if Ashurst, Sheppard and other democrats vote for the schedules in the McCumber bill they will face opposition in their own party for re-election. Ashurt comes up for election this year and Sheppard two years hence.

50 BARRELS OF OIL AT 1,050-FT. DEPTH

HENRIETTA, Texas, April 22.—Fifty barrels of oil at a depth of 1050 feet is the status of the Dycus-Miller well which came in last Sunday. This well is located about five miles northwest of Scotland, and near west line of the A. B. Edwards ranch.

It is believed to be a good shallow producer, and acreage is changing hands considerably on account of the strike. The Godley Oil & Gas Co., of Henrietta, is one of the biggest purchasers of lease holdings.

Whether or not the present well will be finished up at this depth is not known, but at all events there will be deeper tests made.

THOMAS CITES FORD'S RAILWAY

Rates on Values Are Inflated, He Says

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, April 22.—In closing his week's speaking campaign, Cullen F. Thomas, candidate for the United States senate, emphasized in an address here today the necessity for the reform of the railway situation in this country.

Mr. Thomas declared the present extortionate freight rates highway robbery under forms of law. He gave numerous illustrations of the confiscatory rates charged on Texas products.

"While there may be some readjustments necessary in wages, those who advocate this remedy are beginning at the wrong end. On Henry Ford's railway he pays a minimum of $6 per day, and then his application to the interstate commerce commission to lower freight rates on his railway is turned down."

Planning Big Day At First Baptist

Plans have been made for one of the greatest days in the history of the First Baptist church today.

Following the Sunday school period, Dr. Scarborough will address the congregation on a special message to the workers of the classes.

The regular sermon will begin at 11 o'clock.

An effort is now being put forth in the revival to have all Baptists here with membership elsewhere to unite with some of the local congregations.

Special seating arrangements will be made to accommodate the overflow crowd anticipated at the evening service.

DOPING OLIVE OIL BEATS BOOTLEGGING

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Health Commissioner Copeland today announced discovery by research workers in his department of an illegal business "more profitable than bootlegging."

It is the adulterating of olive oil, which Dr. Copeland said, was assuming huge proportions. Seventeen per cent of all the oil examined by the department has been found to be adulterated, he said. Cotton seed oil and other oils used in the adulteration process yield a profit of more than 300 per cent when sold as olive oil, he declared.

WIFE OF ABNER DAVIS GETS MAINTENANCE OF $25 PER WEEK

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 22.—A decree of separate maintenance and $25 a week was granted Mrs. Isabel Davis, wife of Abner Davis, Jr., today. Mrs. Davis previously had won a $50,000 judgment from her father-in-law, Abner Davis, Sr., of Wichita Falls, Texas, in which she charged him with alienating her husband's affections. Proceedings are being started to collect the judgment.

Mrs. Davis spent some time here with her husband, and with her husband's parents, in the early days of the Burkburnett townsite boom, and at a time when Abner Davis maintained a local office and was active in the promotion of oil companies and a refinery in this district.

She first sued for alienation of affections some two years ago, and secured a judgment, which after the usual vicissitudes of litigation, was sustained.

"SALOME"

Mme. Rose Dionne as Herodias in "Salome."

Mme. Rose Dionne, the French actress recently from Odeon, Paris, and now a prominent player in the motion picture colony of Hollywood, has just completed what is perhaps her greatest part since her arrival in this country, that of Herodias in "Salome."

Mme. Dionne's previous important film appearances have been that of the patriotic French woman in "The Four Horsemen" wherein she is shown signing "La Marseillaise," as indeed she did in a Paris restaurant when war on Germany was declared and as "the other mother" in Mary Pickford's presentation of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

AMARILLO PLANS BIG LAWLESSNESS FIGHT

By Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Texas, April 22.—Bootleggers, prostitutes and gamblers must reform or leave Amarillo.

Cost of Drilling Cut by Electricity

Cost of drilling, with regard to fuel and water, is cut to almost one-third, by use of electricity, according to the record of a test well, which was completed yesterday by the Magnolia Petroluem company, in the Fowlkes pool. This well, in the 1660 foot sand, was drilled with a standard rig, to completion in 32 working days, at an expense of $14 a day for power. Fuel oil and water for boiler costs $40 a day, as an average for the field.

This experimental well, the first to be drilled in the local district, averaged around 50 feet a day, with no shut down or trouble of any kind. Frequent shut downs for water, or on account of boiler trouble, that are common in both rotary and standard tests, are entirely obviated with the electrical current power.

The motor with which this well was drilled was brought from Kansas, where the Magnolia uses power for drilling to a considerable extent. The experiment was closely checked, with regard to costs, to provide ground for further operations, and has been of much interest to all operators in the district.

With the water shortage that has been hampering development for months, until the rains of a few weeks ago, electricity would prove an admirable solution. It was in view of these frequent water shortages that the experiment was decided upon.

Electric power is used for pumping wells in a number of the Wichita Falls pools, and has proven a very satisfactory method. The Magnolia discovery well and others producers in the new Fowlkes pool, where this electric drilling experiment was conducted, are being pumped with electricity. This method is also in particular favor in the Burkburnett field.

EXCAVATE TO LAUNCH DREDGE

Ceremony to Follow Plunge of Boat

With excavation for the foundation of the giant concrete conduits at the storage dam practically complete, excavation is getting under way for the launching pit for the giant floating dredge now building on ways just above the dam site.

This dredge, which is now three weeks from the launching, takes a sizeable little pond to float it when it gets ready to take to the water again—250 feet long, 100 feet wide and 8 feet deep.

Preparations of the launching of the dredge, dismantled on Pudget Sound some weeks ago, and now being reassembled here, and which will be known as the "T. B. Noble" in honor of the vice president of the board of the project, include provision for a ceremony similar to the one which marked the start of the big dam.

Cost $300,000.

The dredge, when complete, will represent an expenditure of around $300,000 prior to its striking a lick of work. But the work it will be able to do at little cost after this time!

It has a capacity of putting into place a quarter of a million yards of material per month. It will nearly reach this rate when it begins to pile up the massive puddle core for the main dam, and will finish the work in about five months. This operation—the closing of the gap, is the most delicate in the entire operation, and must be done in a minimum of time, as a flood before the dam was finished and ready for it would probably set the contractors or their bondsmen back several hundred thousand dollars. Hence the necessity of getting it done quickly—the dredge saving weeks and months over any other method.

The water will be several feet deep in the channel when the big boat moves into action next August. The driving of sheet steel piling in the middle of the channel, forming the backbone of the core, and the closing of the gap between the ends of the long embankment, will be the last operation on either dam. When the water rises sufficiently, the dredge will begin piling the earth and rocks which will form the dam, and it will be soon finished. Work on the concrete conduits will get under way in the near future. First concrete work on the canal forms began last week, about a mile below the source of the South Side canal. Work on the concrete spillway, for the storage dam, which will be away from the main channel, will be gotten under way soon, in all probability.

Piling Finished This Week.

At the diversion dam, the driving of steel piling in the long muck ditch will be finished this week, and the building of the puddle for the embankment will be half through. Driving of piling will then begin for the storage dam embankment.

The usual progress was registered on the digging of the big South Side ditch last week. Practically all of the right of way clear to Call Field has been obtained, with the exception of a strip or two in which minor heirs or estates are interested, which must be taken through the probate courts. Only a single small piece has had to be condemned.

112 May Receive Sheep Skin Here

Possibility of 112 as a total for the graduating class of the Wichita Falls High school was expressed Saturday morning by S. H. Rider, principal of the school. The class, which will graduate May 19, is composed of 69 girls and 43 boys.

Five of those who will graduate with the large class are students who completed their High school curriculum during the mid-term; there being no graduation class at that time, the students were recommended for college work, and will receive their diploma with the class in May. Two of the five are boys, John Barnard and Nelson Sims, both of whom have entered the University of Texas as freshmen.

The three girls who finished their work at mid-year are Valree Fisher, Marguerite Hart and Syble Hayes.

The graduation exercises of the class will probably be held Friday evening, May 19, in the opera house, Judge W. F. Ramsey, federal reserve agent at Dallas, delivering the address. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. James Green, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, however, no place for the delivering of the sermon has yet been chosen.

51 YEARS ON THE SAME JOB

(By Central Press)

CINCINNATI, O., April 22.—Fifty-one years ago Miss Dora Ridder took a job in a cap factory here.

She liked her job and liked her employers. Therefore she made up her mind that she'd stay. And she has.

In doing so Dora has set two records for her sex to shoot at in the years to come. First, she showed that a woman can go fifty years without changing her mind; second, she has set a long distance record for sticking on the job.

When she began making caps in a factory Dora was twenty-five. Now she's seventy-six.

Four years after she started to work her sister, Carrie, came to work beside her. Carrie is still there also.

"Yes, years have flown and times have changed," Dora said as she celebrated her fifty-first anniversary at one job, before her machine in the factory.

"The grandsons of my first boss are running the factory now, but that doesn't make me feel old. When I started working here they weren't born.

"We used to make caps by hand but now it's by machine. Outside of that things haven't changed so much."

Dora and Carrie are all that remains of the organization of fifty years ago.

500 Dogs May Be Slaughtered Here

Issuing a warning to owners of dogs in Wichita Falls who have not paid a 1922 license on the canines and who have not muzzled them in accordance with the city ordinance, Chief J. W. McCormick of the police department said Saturday morning that there are approximately 500 dogs in this city which will be impounded and eventually killed unless some action in keeping with city law is taken by the citizens owning the dogs.

The chief stated that within the past year, about 500 dogs have been killed by dog catchers because their owners either refused to purchase dog licenses, or neglected to do so. It was his emphatic statement that a war on unmuzzled canines will be immediately begun by the police department, and that dog catchers will be employed to round them up.

Loose canines at this time of year are especially dangerous, Chief McCormick said, pointing to the fact that unmuzzled dogs which go mad can cause the death of many persons within a very short time, and infect many other animals with rabies.

KIWANIS TO RAISE PLAYGROUND FUND

Plans to raise sufficient funds to properly equip the Austin school with playground apparatus will feature the discussions of the Kiwanis club, when the organization meets at the Kemp hotel this week. Mrs. H. F. Weldon, accompanied by 15 women representing the Mothers' club, will be the guests of the Kiwanians, aiding the club in formulating the plans.

The Austin school has the largest attendance of any grade school in the state, 1,300 students being enrolled. No playground equipment has been placed on the grounds since the school was built, and it is the hope of the Mothers' club, aided by the Kiwanians, to correct this and equip the grounds.

Entertainment for the luncheon will be furnished by Mrs. Louella Thompson and Mrs. Allen of the Episcopal church choir, who will produce a specialty act for the Kiwanians.

Fire comes in the night and without warning. Thieves do the same. It does not pay to keep important papers and other valuables at home. In the loss-proof vault of the City National Bank of Commerce they are protected at all hours of the day and night.—adv.

MAN DISMISSED IN LIQUOR CASE HERE

J. W. Williams, charged with manufacturing illicit whiskey, was bound over to await the action of the federal grand jury, his bond being fixed in the sum of $500, while Lee Green, charged with the same offense in connection with the same case, was dismissed when the men were brought before J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner, Saturday.

Williams and Green were arrested at 501½ Holliday street, when officers raided the Williams residence and located a 50-gallon still in full swing.

ROTARY READY FOR BANQUET

Hamilton to Tell of Progress

With a snappy musical and entertainment program, featuring R. E. Shepherd and other members of the Rotary "choir," and a brief speaking program, Rotary club arrangements are complete for the annual dinner and installation of officers Thursday night—a meeting when the identity of the newly elected officers will be made known to the club.

As usual, the meeting will be attended by the wives and women friends of the members of the club, the annual meeting, from annual custom, being "ladies' night."

W. B. Hamilton will make the principal speech of the evening, telling what the Rotary club in Wichita Falls has accomplished, and some of the things it has perhaps tried to accomplish and hasn't.

This with a brief talk by Horrace Robbins, outgoing president, and the incoming president, whose identity will be made known then, will conclude the program.

Dinner will begin at 7:30 at the usual meeting place—the ball room of the Kemp hotel.

Several stunts at the expense of the members, it is expected, will feature the entertainment program.

An effort to get George Holmgren of San Antonio, retiring district governor, here for the meeting, is being made—it being known that the district governor was planning an early trip to this section to deliver the charter for the new Electra club.

Great Britain's external debt is now more than 1,161,653,000 pounds nearly all to the United States.

HENRY MEN BUSY

Supporters of Robert L. Henry, avowed Ku Klux Klansman, and candidate for the senate, who will speak here Friday night, plan formal organization of a Henry club at this place early in this week—probably on Monday. Arrangements are being made for Henry to deliver his talk at a local theater.

Dr. Schultz

THE RELIABLE SPECIALIST

For scientific treatment of chronic, nervous and special diseases of both sexes, catarrh of all mucous membrane, stomach, liver, kidney complaints, blood and skin diseases. Hemorrhoids and prostatis complications treated without the knife, by a safe and humane system of scientific treatment.

If you are sick of experimenting, sick of failures, sick of being sick, come to me. I invite sick people who contemplate taking treatment to come. Special attention given in the combination of curative powers, modern electricity, vibrations, etc., with the scientific administration of selected Specific Medicines. I endeavor to do everything to promote the welfare of my patients.

IF YOU NEED A SPECIALIST WHY NOT THE BEST?

Are you a nervous wreck? Are you worn out and broken down? Are you suffering from vicious Blood and Skin Diseases, that destroy bone tissue, and disfigure for life? Backaches and kidneys give you all-gone feeling? Whether these conditions were caused by early excesses, or contracted by inoculation, it does not matter, for they will all respond to my treatment. Consult Dr. Schultz, the Reliable Specialist, who is well equipped by long experience that enables him to offer his service on a basis that no other can; his charges are lower for cures than the average physician generally charges for failure.

Those who have wasted time and money, and failed to get rid of their ailments, are especially invited to consult FREE. I am giving the benefit of over 30 years' honorable experience: some of my cures are truly wonderful, yet I do not work magic; I do not make the old younger, nor the blind see; I simply apply the knowledge my years of honorable experience have given me, and I do this honestly and intelligently.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—EVA ALDRICH, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

It is prepared carefully from medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

FIERY FEDERAL GAVEL-WIELDER COMES TO TOWN

Jack Rivals Landis as Hard Heart Breaker

Federal Judge George W. Jack of Shreveport, who will hold district court in Wichita Falls beginning May 1, with the exception of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, has had probably the most colorful career of any jurist who has sat on a federal bench within the last generation.

Judge Jack, whose summary decisions have brought him into prominence on numerous occasions, threw a bombshell into the ranks of the party in power last January in the form of a sweeping denunciation of methods used by republican officials in Louisiana and an order for an investigation alleged corrupt practices.

Alleges Corrupt Practice.

In the order, Hugh C. Fisher, United States district attorney for the western district of Louisiana was alleged to have engaged in corrupt practice in collusion with Emile Kuntz, republican national committeeman from Louisiana and R. A. Giddens, member of the republican state control committee.

According to the text of the order, the court declared it had obtained information that Giddens had made the declaration that his son-in-law, charged with embezzlement would not be convicted. It was alleged that Kuntz and Giddens entered into a bargain with Fisher that if the last named were appointed federal district attorney, that he would not press the embezzlment case or at least have it nolle prossed.

Calls Daugherty.

In the interval of a month from the time Judge Jack announced his charges until the date set for the trial, the federal judge subpoenaed Attorney General Daugherty to appear at the trial with all correspondence and records relating to the appointment of Fisher. The report that Fisher had filed disbarment proceedings against him brought from the fiery judge the retort that the action was altogether unnecessary as he had already disbarred himself and intended to press the charges from behind and not pull them from the front. Consequently Federal Judge Hutchison of the southern district of Texas was appointed to hear the case.

In the trial that followed Jack emerged victorious in practically every round and won a draw in the others. Fisher's appointment was shown to have been made on the nomination of a negro chairman of a republican organization in the fourth Louisiana congressional district. In the course of a ruling regarding the admissability of certain testimony concerning the alleged contempt by Judge Jack contained in a motion filed by Fisher, Judge Hutchison made the statement that the language of the filing itself was "contemptuous and far beyond the limit."

Fisher Disbarred.

Upon conviction of the contempt charge, Fisher was disbarred as district attorney for six months, with the announcement that if at the end of that time should he exhibit sincere change of heart relative to the statements in his affidavit he might be reinstated. Giddens was fined $1000, payable in 30 days or 60 days in jail for contempt of court in threatening Mr. Fisher with the loss of his job did he not fulfill an alleged promise to dismiss the embezzlement charge against his son-in-law who was convicted after Fisher had refused to meet the demand. It was not proven during the hearings that Fisher ever made any such promise.

No action was taken in the investigation of the alleged corrupt practice charges against Kuntz, evidence to show that there had been any corruption being produced at the trial. Judge Hutchison remarked, however, that it was evident that Fisher, Kuntz and Giddens had left a New Orleans conference with a "happy understanding."

LOW FARE ON FOR OPENING OF LAKE

With the opening of Lake Wichita for the summer season today the Wichita Falls Traction company announces a new lower fare than has ever been put into effect before—11 cents each way. This is made up of the regular local charge of six cents to the city limits, and an additional charge of five cents instead of ten, as was formerly the custom.

Many improvements have been made in the swimming pool and the other concessions at the lake for this season, L. L. Allbritton, general manager of the Traction company, reports.

AUTO RACER EQUIPS CAR WITH WIRELESS

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—A wireless telephone will be used by Jack Curtner, Greenville, Ohio, in the 500 mile automobile race at the Indianapolis speedway, May 30, to keen in touch with his pit during the grind, it was announced Saturday. The car he will drive was designed and entered by Louis and Arthur Chevrolet of this city.

HATFIELD CARVED

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 22.—"Devil Anse" Hatfield, West Virginia's most noted feudist, has been memoralized by a life-size statue shipped here from Carrara, Italy where it was carved by a world famous sculptor. The statue shows Hatfield standing erect in the typical garb of the mountains.

WEEKS BOOMED FOR GOVERNOR

McGregor Says He'd Make Good One

By H. N. F.

"If West and North Texas want to elect a new governor in 1924 who possesses every qualification in that respect and who in addition is in every way qualified to be governor of Texas, they have him here in Wichita Falls in the person of W. F. Weeks" said former State Senator T. H. McGregor to the writer.

"He has youth, energy and wonderful executive ability. His experience as a lawyer, is riper than his years. He has spent his life in Texas; knows and loves her traditions; is familiar with all her laws and institutions; is a man of finished and cultured education; is in accord with the purposes and aspirations and knows the needs of the people of Texas and would make for them an ideal governor. Observing him as I have, I have, I think, seen in him the latent possibilities of a real campaigner and I would gladly support him should he see fit to become a candidate in 1924."

Mr. McGregor, who came to Wichita Falls on legal business and to try a case in one of the district courts, departed for Houston via Dallas Thursday night. Austin is his home but he has law offices in both cities. He was the American party candidate for governor in 1920 but called himself a Democrat in that year and calls himself a Democrat now. Speaking of Wichita Falls, he said:

"This is a city of beautiful homes, well kept lawns, modern business houses and public buildings—a progressive city, built by progressive people. It nestles on the edge of the coming greatest grain belt of America. There is no doubt about it. This country lying between Wichita Falls and the Colorado border will be the wheat granary of the world some day. As for oil production, the surface hasn't been scratched and with the coming of irrigation, this territory is certain to be one of the garden spots of the republic.

DALLAS GETS ANIMALS

DALLAS, Texas, April 21.—More than eight thousand dollars has been raised of the quota of $20,000 to finance an expedition to the Far East to obtain animals for the Dallas zoo, W. F. Jacoby, announced.

ARMISTICE DECLARED IN GASOLINE WARFARE WITH PRICES STEADY

Gasoline warfare over Texas, which resulted in gas being available for purchase at a great variety of prices, ranging from 15 to 21 cents, depending on what town you bought it in and where you got it in that town, is now all over, say gasoline men, in accounting for a cent a gallon boost in tank wagon prices here last week, just to get Wichita Falls in line.

Two big companies were conducting the fight, centering in Dallas, San Antonio and Houston, according to the independents here. But they soon got tired of slashing prices below the profit mark, and are now back to normal—as the gasoline vendor sees it.

Prices are now 18 cents tank wagon and 21 cents filling station here—a cent advance on the tank wagon prices—and these prices prevail at all important points in the state, gasoline men say.

CHINESE CRAZED BY HUNGER, EAT STONE

WOOSTER, Ohio, April 22.—That the slow process of starvation is being hastened by illness caused by persons eating powdered stone in famine-stricken sections of China is the information contained in a letter received by C. R. Compton, Wooster College registrar, from Miss Grace Walborn, a mission field worker, whose headquarters are Shanghai, China.

"Famine conditions in our district are very severe," wrote Miss Walborn, who graduated from Wooster College last year. "At present the extreme cold is, perhaps, thinning the numbers who would be open to plague if hot summer comes before conditions can be bettered."

HERE'S CHANCE TO GETTA JAIL CHEAP

MILWAUKEE, April 21. — Get your bid in by April 25 if you want to buy the old firehouse and police station in Milwaukee. It will make excellent fire wood. The steel bars in the old jail might be welded into crowbars and the sign is almost as good as new. It was painted when the building was put up at Florida and Chilton streets, back in 1876. The city is selling the house. There are some good old reminiscences hanging about it that will go free with the wood.

FEW GARDENERS HERE THIS YEAR

Drouth Scares Many Say Seed Men

Did you plant a spring garden, or did the drouth of the winter months scare you out of it?

And did the drouth really scare you off, or was it the thought of early mornings and late afternoons that might be spent at some more pleasant occupation than that of weeding seemingly endless rows of beans, peas and other garden sass.

Chickens Ever With Us.

Despite the fact that many have neglected the opportunity of having snapped beans and green onions for the Sunday dinner, they will probably suffer all the more. Consider the advantage of real outdoor exercise over indoor calesthenics as a morning breather. One might just as well spend the time circling the greening lot in mad pursuit of a neighbors marauding fowls. That's a deal more invigorating than the ordinary 1-2-3-4 which is the custom with many.

Commuters who have in recent years been prone to convert the rose garden and porch boxes into onion beds and potato rows seem to have realized the futility of the accompanying fruitless (or vegetabless) ventures are not worth the attendant trials and tribulations.

Get It?

Housewives of the present day are also credited with part of the decline in (horti-agri) cultural activities, due to the fact that they seem adverse to the continuation of tending the budding shoots and tendrils which falls their lots after about two weeks of enthusiastic attention from the bill-payers (some fail to last that long).

Local seed merchants report that the sale of seeds for the present season was not more than 75 per cent of a normal average of past years. Some attribute it to the drouth, some to one thing and some another, but this much is evident, there are not as many spring gardens as in previous years.

HONEY GROVE PLANS NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

BONHAM, Texas, April 21.—Preparations are being made at Honey Grove for the erection of a new high school building to cost about $60,000.

WEDNESDAY TO MARK OPENING OF BURK FIELD

Third Anniversary of Waggoner No. 1 Stirs Memories

Wednesday, April 26 marks the third anniversary of the bringing in of the Burk Waggoner No. 1 Bob Waggoner, the well which opened up the Northwest Burkburnett field and completed the work of revolutionizing Wichita Falls and Wichita county, which was begun by the Burkburnett townsite discovery, in July, 1918.

This strike opened up the biggest single pool in Northwest Texas, discounting all previous booms and discoveries, as the Burkburnett townsite developments had put in the shade all operations up to July, 1918.

Of approximately eighty-five million barrels of oil that has been produced in the Wichita Falls district during the last three years, forty million, in round numbers, has come from the Burkburnett northwest, according to a survey of production figures available, by months, since the completion of the Burk Waggoner well. Placing the producing area of the pool at 3,000 this gives a recovery to date of over 13,000 barrels to the acre.

Million a Month Still.

Flush production figures for 1919 give this pool a production of approximately 35,000,000 barrels with about the same figure for 1920, and about 10,000,000 for 1921.

The average production today is 20,000 barrels, or 600,000 a month. If this production is maintained during the remainder of the year, the total annual production will be in excess of 7,000,000. Allowing for a ratio of decline equal to that registered by the past several months, the pool should produce better than 5,000,000 barrels in 1922. And even at this low figure the product will have a market value of more than $12,000,000, not allowing for a raise in the price of crude, which is forecast to take place before the end of the year.

In Wake of Discovery.

Characterized by heavy overdrilling, and "line fights" so disastrous in effect, as to cause an offset distance ruling which is now strictly adhered to throughout Texas, to be passed by the Oil and Gas department of the Railroad Commission, the months immediately following the bringing in of this Burk Waggoner No. 1 Waggoner, were the most hectic that the county has ever known.

The Burk Waggoner, when it was brought in, a real gusher, was three and a half miles from production, in territory which had been considered condemned. Drilling operations out from this well, towards the east, in the direction of the Burkburnett townsite pool resulted in reclaiming a considerable portion of this one time condemned land, though there was enough of a dry streak to make this a distinct new pool.

West from the discovery well, through the Morgan and George lands, for the distance of more than a mile, and northwest, jumping a narrow dry streak again, the oil sand was found until it reached the bank of the Red River. Then began the boundary dispute, Oklahoma claiming a large part of the Northwest field as a part of that state.

Plenty and Waste.

One hundred thousand barrels was the maximum daily output of the big pool, though there was never sufficient pipe line facilities to transport this much oil. At one time, in July and August following the drilling in of the discovery wells, had there been sufficient pipe lines, there were wells shut in that could have produced right around 150,000 barrels daily.

The lack of regard for offset distances in drilling the haste in getting down to production and failure on the part of many inexperienced operators to bring their wells in properly, caused a great waste in the early days. The heighth of boom extravagance was reached in the early development of this pool, and there is no possible way of estimating the cost of securing the initial production of the pool. Wages of drilling crews, cost of supplies, and all other items of expense entering into oil field development reached the crest as the Burkburnett Northwest was in it's prime.

"Days of '49."

Ten thousand dollars for a drilling site, stock run up into big figures on the Wichita Falls stock exchanges, for eighteen months now entirely unknown to this vicinity, sales of producing properties at enormous figures—and innumerable other deals and transactions, now seeming fantastical, viewed in the "cold grey dawn of the morning after" helped make this entire section a modernized "days of forty-nine."

And out of it all has come—

First, even with the many offenses committed against drilling ethics, a pool that in it's third year, with no new extensions or new drilling, save for perhaps two or three new wells a month, all of them small, is still producing at the rate of 20,000 barrels each day.

Second, improvements and growth to the city of Wichita Falls, the headquarters for the operations, that could not have been duplicated in an ordinary quarter of a century, if the growth of the previous twenty-five years were to be taken as a normal growth for a North Texas

Stock and Land Bank Would Solve Finance Problem for Farmers

Loans Up to $37,500 Would Be Made Thru $250,000 Fund

Report of the chamber of commerce committee recently named to investigate the formation of a joint stock land bank here, with a view of aiding farmers and stockmen already here, in addition to providing machinery for financing prospective irrigation farmers, hopes soon to make its report in the shape of an announcement that plans are under way for starting such an organization, says C. H. Clark, chairman of the committee.

Additional study of the workings and possibilities of such an institution results in increasing belief in the merits of such an Institution, says Mr. Clark, not only in Wichita Falls, with its big irrigation project facing it, but in any community with an interest in farming and stock raising.

A joint stock bank, with a capital of $250,000 could make loans up to $37,000 to an individual on half of the appraised value of his property.

It can loan, and issue five per cent tax free bonds, which have a ready sale, up to 15 times the amount of its capital stock—in the case of the above institution to $3,750,000. This money is loaned at six per cent, plus one per cent to amortise and retire the loan in 33 years—less money than the current rate of interest paid by farmers and cattle raisers now to private loan companies. The loans can be paid in full,

Parachute Jumping's Easy When You Land Right, But When Ropes Tangle You Flirt With Death, Says Flier

What dangers will Miss Mystery, the girl who'll jump overboard from a plane in a parachute, face in her death-defying jump here?

There's plenty of danger, says Ed Lairette.

Lairette, famous aviator and trick flyer, who will participate in the air carnival to be staged here by Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, April 29 and 30, does the "swing of death" for his own amusement and to the amazement of the crowd which usually watches from below. He has brought much apparatus with him to Wichita Falls to use in the meet, among which is a parachute.

A parachute is 30 feet in diameter, made in the shape of an umbrella. It has 32 25-feet braces that run from the top to the ring, the ring being one and one-half feet in diameter.

Danger?—Quite a Bit

All parachutes used in exhibition events such as the one planned here, according to Lairette, are made from muslin, and can be controlled by pulling the cords any way.

Dangerous to attempt a dive from an airship rushing through the air at 90 miles an hour? Sure it's dangerous, declares the famous flyer. Anything can happen; the cords can get tangled up on the catch from which the parachute is suspended from the plane, at the tail of the wings, or the parachute may turn upside down and fail to open.

Mystery Girl to Thrill

However, the aviator gives particular attention to the manner in which his parachute is attached to the wings, and especially does he notice the way the folds are placed, often putting newspapers in them to insure a safe opening when a descent is to be made.

Many parachutes will be seen in action here during the air carnival, with as many professional jumpers participating, and there is little doubt but that the audience will get a real thrill when the "Mystery Girl" takes her initial dive from a dizzy height in a parachute which she has never seen.

Wichita's Not So Crazy About Jazz As One Might Think—One Out of 10 Record Purchasers Select Caruso

One customer out of every ten that enters a music store to buy records purchase a song by Caruso or Galli Gurie; the other nine buy jazz music.

Sales of classical and popular music have decreased, but jazz-time numbers are still as popular as they were when they made their initial appearance in Wichita Falls.

But Jazz is Gaining

That was the unanimous declaration of the leading phonograph shops of the city, the management of each establishment agreeing that while music sales as a rule will compare favorable at the present time with the same period during 1921, that jazz music has gained in popularity and is outselling all other classes of records.

Jaz records will outsell popular numbers "six to one," one busy merchant said, pointing to a high sale of blues and fox-trots for the present month.

Sheik's Popular

Of the popular songs which are now on sale here, "April Showers," sung by Charles Harrison, "Ten Little Fingers and Ten Little Toes," sung by Billy Murray, "Sunny Tennessee," sung by the Peerless Quartet, "Carolina Rolling Stone," and "There's Silver in Your Hair" sung by Charles Hart and Elliott Shaw are said to be receiving the most attention from the public while "The "Bow-Wow Blues," played by the Original Dixieland and Jazz Band, "The Sheik" and "Wimmin", a fox-trot, played by the Club Royal Orchestra, and "They Call it Dancing," as rendered by Paul Whiteman's orchestra, seem to be the most popular dancing records.

Sure Nickle Stogie's With Us Again! But Who Wants to Smoke It in These Days of Piping Good Fifteen-Centers?

The day of the nickle smoke is with us again but it doesn't seem to mean anything. There are any number of good five cent smokes on the counters at present but they are shied from in the same fashion as the particular smoker of other days dodged the cheroot.

Wichita Falls vendors of the popular "weed" are of the opinion that during the days of high prices the smoker became accustomed to plunking down his 10 or 15 cents with such regularity that he educated himself to the fact that what was once considered as extravagance isn't so bad after all, and the 10 and 15 centers remain the popular sellers.

There is a gradual increase in the sale of the jitney models, but at that, there is not the rush that would be anticipated with the announcement of the popular priced smoke.

Another thing discovered by a local dealer was the fact that "butts" are not as short as a few years ago, despite the prices usually paid for the aftermeal enjoyment.

Kids of Just Twenty Years Ago Couldn't Find Old Swimmin' Hole Here 'Cause Houses Replace It

The Wichita Falls boy of some 20 years or so ago who returned after years of absence to revisit the old swimming hole, would be out of luck today, a Wichitan musing of these times observed the other day.

"The two swimming holes of my day were in what was called Huff's pasture," he said, "just back of and beyond the Huff residence at Brook and Eleventh. The popular tank nearest the house was located between Elizabeth and Huff in the Huff addition in about what is now about the 1800 foot block. I have seen 50 kids in swimming here. The other tank, at the foot of Brook, is within the grounds of the Wichita Falls Golf club, recently sold as a result of the planned move of the club, and soon to become additional residence property.

"It is only a few years ago that this change has come. Southland addition has been settled up only in the past few years, and the Huff addition, which covers the pasture and the old swimming hole, is only about four years old.

"Yes, the Wichita Falls boy of a few years ago would come back to find that the old swimming hole and its surroundings had given way to modern houses and attractive cottages."

BUY BRIDGE TO CUT OUT TOLL IS NEWEST PLAN

Oklahoma State or Federal Bureau Would Pay Cost

A free bridge across Red river north of Burkburnett to connect at the Oklahoma border with the concrete road now under construction between here and the river through Burkburnett looms as a probable development within the next few months, according to information obtained by county officials.

No definite announcement to that effect has as yet been made by any government officials, but through their action with regard to the matter during the last few weeks it is known that the construction of such a bridge is under consideration. For several weeks the federal highway department refused to approve the construction of the concrete road north of Burkburnett to the river because of the objection that it ended at a toll bridge owned and operated by private capital.

Construction Resumed.

Preparations to construct the road were halted by county officials who did not wish to build it without the state and federal aid. Two weeks ago the federal and state highway departments waived the objection and the construction of the project which extends to the river is now under way.

Asked about the bridge Wednesday, County Engineer Isbell said that he had received no definite information but that he had been requested by federal highway officials to make estimates as to the cost of the toll bridge across the river with other data regarding the river.

May Build Bridge.

Another indication of the probable action to be taken later was evidenced in the order to Mr. Isbell to cease

CRUDE ADVANCE SEEMS ASSURED

Air of Expectancy Prevails Here

With market prices for refined products on the upgrade, with the "head" at Mexia going off like sixty and no new sources of flush production in sight, and with independent refiners offering to better the current two-bit premuim a nickle a barrel on yearly contracts, producers in this district are all set for an early boost in the price of Mid-Continent crude.

Outlook Better.

This is probably the first time in practically two years that the producers have really experienced such an "expectant" attitude. When the downgrade started in the first weeks of last year, both producers and business men of this district, who use the crude market largely as their business barometer, lost interest in the oil market save for a sort of spirit of expecting the worst. Some thought that the worst was with them on several occasions, only to have the market chipped off a little more, until dollar oil had come in the place of $3.50 in the Mid-Continent. Then, last year when the trend started the other way, taking the posted price back to two and a quarter, the action of the market was taken as the confirmation of a not very confident hope, and the feeling remained with many oil operators and business men that the recovery was not real, and could not hold up. Market conditions for refined products had apparently not improved with the oil market, and Mexia was booming with daily production mounting into scandalous figures—production of low gravity oil, it is true, but oil just the same.

Spirit Changes.

The spirit of the operators is entirely changed now. The stiffening of the refined products market was recently predicted by financial journals with the prediction that crude would follow in the advance, and the predictions received general credit. Premiums again became in evidence, and feeling became general that the crude

VARSITY CAFETERIA WILL BE IMPROVED

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—Improvements will be made this summer in the present building plan of the University of Texas cafeteria to accommodate the increased attendance. New equipment will also be added to make the cafeteria more up-to-date, attractive and efficient, Mrs. S. G. Optrendek, manager for this year announced that the improvements include a plan to accommodate twice the number next year.

40 WOMEN TO ATTEND DALLAS PRESBYTERIAL

About 40 women representing 51 counties will attend the Dallas Presbyterial which will convene at the Central church beginning Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Sessions to be held Tuesday and Wednesday. The counties that will be represented include those between Clayton, New Mexico, and Milford, Texas, which is below Dallas.

Society Resumes Active Social Season With Dance Series Here

Younger Set to Honor Popular Bride With Parties During Week

OPENING the spring social season, the younger set especially have spent a busy week mostly dancing. An Easter dance given by the Comus club started the ball rolling and this was followed by one given on Thursday evening by the University club, another by the Get-to-Gether club, ending Friday with dances given by the Avoleh at the hall on Tenth street and by the Cypher club at the Lake Wichita pavilion.

LARGE numbers of boys and girls from the various colleges and schools, at home for the Easter holidays and their guests added much to the gaiety of the affairs.

SOCIETY will be busy this week in entertaining one of the popular members of the younger set, Miss Ruby Avis whose marriage to Ralph Dunkelburg at the First Presbyterian church on Thursday evening will be one of the events of the week which will be looked forward to with interest by a large number of friends. Many delightful affairs have already been given for the bride-elect and many more are being planned.

ON Tuesday evening, another event of the week which is anticipated with pleasure by a large number is the appearance in concert of Leopold Godowsky the international master-pianist and composer at the Wichita theater. This concert will prove a real treat to musicians and to lovers of the best music. Box parties for the affair will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Saul Lebenson and pupils of Mrs. Lee Clark.

Reports from delegates and other representatives from the local clubs to the first district convention of Federation of Women's clubs which met in Haskell the first of last week will be features of the regular club meetings this week.

MARCELLINE WYATT CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Celebrating her third birthday, little Miss Marcelline Wyatt gave her first real party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Wyatt, 1108 Lamar Wednesday afternoon.

Outdoor games were played for several hours the hostess being assisted in entertaining by her aunt, Miss Frances Willis, and friends, Kathleen Stokes, Dorothy Skeen, Sarah Beth Bodges, Gladys and Fairy Bell Fowler.

Following the games, the little folks were invited into the house where the rooms were attractively decorated with baskets and vases filled with cut flowers and ferns. A big birthday cake centered the table where places for 20 guests were marked with pink and white ribbons. The birthday candles were blown out with good wishes and the cake with pink and white ice cream was served. Blanche Penick won the ring in the cake cutting, Wanda Sherrell, the dime and the thimble went to Marcello Dulaney. The little hostess won the button. Favors of Easter bunnies were given to Marcello Dulaney, Maragaret and Douglas Perry, Shirley Dulaney, Robert and Virgil Skeen, Jane Smith, Dorothy May and Baby Cless Dulaney, Blanche Penick, Bobby and Martha Jane Honea, Bobby Senning, O. E. Dulaney Jr., Mary Kate Parker, Wanda and Sherrill, and F. L. Haynes Jr.

While the children played on the lawn, the mothers of a group of friends were informally entertained with contests and games. Plates containing angel food cake, cream and mints were served to: Mesdames Senning, A. C. Dulaney, E. Okey Sturm, Jess Dulaney, Harry Smith, F. M. Willis, N. C. Parker, R. C. Honea, Walter C. Smith, H. G. Parker, D. S. Perry, O. E. Dulaney, W. W. Sherrill and Mother Parker.

MISS MORGAN'S ROOM CELEBRATES FRIDAY

Friday at the noon hour, pupils of Miss Maragaret Morgan's room celebrated San Jacinto day in a fitting manner by assembling in front of the building and planting a bed of San Jacinto corn. This was done in commemoration of the request made by General Sam Houston after the battle of San Jacinto. The Texas soldiers crowding around General Houston and Santa Anna overheard the conversation between them in regard to the food which consisted of an ear of corn that had been eaten for four days prior to the battle by the Texan. Each requested Houston to divide the corn and allow them to plant it in honor of him. Houston presented each with the grains of corn with an impressive tribute to each, requesting them in return to call it San Jacinto corn in remembrance of their own bravery.

Each pupil deposited a kernal in the ground as an appropriate program was being rendered in keeping with the day.

MRS. RANDLE HOSTESS TO FIDELITY CLUB

Six tables of players composed of members of the Fidelity Bridge club and guests were entertained at bridge Friday afternoon with Mrs. C. C. Randle hostess, in the private dining room of the Kemp hotel. Roses and ferns were used effectively in the decoration scheme in the games. Mrs. A. W. West won the high score favor, a dainty cut glass bud vase. Mrs. Dudley Golding made second high and was presented a pretty red automobile vase. Mrs. W. A. Powers made low and was consoled with a cut glass olive dish. Novelty automobile dusters were presented as guest favors. Miss Katheryn Randle, daughter of the hostess gave a group of readings which was very much appreciated by the guests.

At the close of the afternoon, a refreshment plate consisting of chicken salad, individual cheery pies, sandwiches, olives and coffee was served to: Mesdames A. I. Kendall, A. E. Humphrey, of St. Louis, J. B. Broughton, W. A. Powers, R. E. L. Batts, J. R. Elliott, W. W. Shuler, Dudley Golding, H. F. Weldon, H. A. Gray, B. H. Porter, Paul McDermott, A. M. Lewis, F. A. ENJOY DINNER DAY

Members of the Royal Neighbors enjoyed the regular Thursday dinner day held at the hall when the discussion of a campaign for a class of 75 to be ready for the district convention to be held here under the direction of the district deputy, Mrs. Hardesty-Barclay was a feature of the session. Several applications to be balloted on were presented and a social hour was enjoyed.

Popular Local Girl Will Take Part in Aerial Circus Here

Wichitans who attend the Pat Carrigan posts mammoth aerial circus at Call Field next Saturday and Sunday will see a Wichita Falls girl, popular with the younger set up to her marriage and removal three years ago, driving a bif Curtic machine in the racing events.

This girl is Mrs. Errett Williams, formerly Stella Bachman. Her husband, who became an expert flyer in the aviation corps during the war, is the chief advisor to the legion in arranging the meet, and is one of the stunt stars who will take part—coming fresh from the American Legion meet at Kansas City during the national convention, and from the big meet at Omaha, Nebraska where he took the acrobatic honors of the meet.

Williams met his wife-to-be when he was a member of the T. C. U. Glee club which sang here in 1916. The acquaintance which was formed then lasted through the remainder of his school days, his flying instruction days at Kelly field, and through the time he was in overseas service and an instructor at one of the advanced overseas training camps. They were married following his return in 1919, and went to live in Kansas. Mrs. Williams learned to fly on their honeymoon. Williams took up commercial aviation and became agent for the Curtiss people in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. He has sold 41 planes to private individuals to be used in business during the past few years—for the most part to people without previous flying experience. He qualified each purchaser as a pilot when he gets his machine—giving each, he explains even longer flying instruction than was the case with the reserve military aviators during the war.

He has participated in many meets, and has been instrumental in promoting several. His purpose, he explains, has something beyond the mere gratification of the curiosity or thrilling of spectators by the stunts which the flyers perform.

"It is to convince the public, who see these almost unbelievable stunts pulled off, of the possibilities of flying, and the plane that aviation has reached. To show them, after seeing the feats the flyers perform with immunity, that ordinary aviation is today comparatively as safe as automobiling."

Stunting is not so safe, as many scars on Williams' body shows.

The planes sold to the public, however, are not the swift, tightly "strung" stunting planes—they are of a type similar to the ones the army used for training purposes, and are among the most stable of aircraft.

Among those who have purchased these planes since he has been in the selling game, says Williams' are a number of doctors—one of them having a flying ambulance with which he makes trips on accident cases in the Oklahoma oil fields near which his home is located—within a radius of 30 or 40 miles, and regardless of road or weather.

The plane with which Williams will do his stunting here is a "special job" built for him by the Curtiss people.

"It is not an expensive plane," says Williams, "but it is a mighty good one and will do anything I ever saw one do."

Williams says that Texas needs an aircraft law similar to the one prevailing in Kansas—one designed to assure that the flyer knows his business, and to protect the general public from chances which reckless aviators might take with a crowd. Williams, whose present home is in Arkansas City, Kansas, has charge of the examination and licensing of pilots in Kansas.

He believes that Texas will soon have such a law—in fact several Texas legislators through him have obtained copies of the Kansas law.

NEW COLORS FOR LAST YEAR'S DRESSES

In the spring a woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of clothes. In going over your spring wardrobe, remember that new colors make new dresses. You may find dresses and blouses which, while in perfect condition, are eye-sores because of frequent use.

It would hardly be economy to discard such garments, yet you are rather tired of wearing them.

Why not have them dyed? New colors will make them new to you—as fresh and attractive and delightful as when they came new from the shop.

Phone 5404 and we'll have our driver call.

UNITY CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING.

Members of the Unity club met at the home of Mrs. R. L. Miller Friday afternoon in the last meeting of the year and were delightfully entertained by half of the members in the second original program of the year. The entertainment was in the form of a closing exhibition of "The Turkey Ben Destrict Schule" proved immensely amusing. Mrs. R. B. Gorseline took the part of Professor Turnipseed and the pupils were: Lucindy Langford, Jerusha Patterson, Polly Ann Maer, the teacher's pet; Onita Donald, Nut Anderson, Bud Williams Kemp, Sis Daugherty and Florina Greenwood. The pupils were all dressed in their best bib and tucker, those taking the boy part wearing boy's clothes, while the little girls wore gay hair ribbons and were dressed fittingly for the gala event. The program opened with a song by Polly Ann Maer (Mrs. O. E. Maer) accompanied at the piano by Jerusha Patterson (Mrs. H. B. Patterson); Onita Donald and Lucinda Langford (Mrs. Benny Hyatt Donald) and (Mrs. P. P. Langford) gave a duett "No Sir;" Sis Daugherty (Mrs. Walter Daugherty) read an essay "The Humming Bird;" Polly Ann Maer gave a piano number; Jerusha Patterson read an essay on "Texas;" Nut Anderson (Mrs. G. D. Anderson) sang a solo, "Julia Glover" accompanied by Jerusha Patterson; Florine Greenwood and Sis Daugherty gave a duet; Lucindy Langford read an oration entitled "Anthony's Address Over the Dead Body of Ceasar." Onita Donald said a speech, "Hangman, Hangman, Wait Awhile;" Bud Williams Kemp (Mrs. J. A. Kemp) gave "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" and an encore "A Lament Over an Unknown Soldier's Grave." Florine Greenwood gave for her speech "Night, Beautiful Night" and the program closed with a song.

Lunches in dinner pails were brought and striped stick candy was a feature of the dinner pail contents.

MISS AVIS GIVEN PARTY AND SHOWER

Complimenting Miss Ruby Avis whose marriage to Ralph Dunkelburg of Fort Wayne, Indiana, will be an event of Thursday, Misses Cecelia Adickes and Lula Wood entertained at bridge at the home of Miss Wood Friday afternoon. The spacious living room where the tables were arranged for the games, was elaborately decorated in spring flowers for the occasion, carrying out a color scheme of lavendar and pink. A chair for the bride-elect was arranged under a beautiful bower of roses tied with fluffy tulle in the chosen colors. Four tables of players enjoyed the games in which Miss Nancy Jane Harlan won the high score favor, a bottle of perfume. Mrs. Ike Upchurch was consoled for low, with a deck of cards. The honoree was presented the guest prize, a pair of satin boudoir slippers.

A beautiful miscellaneous shower of dainty and useful articles were presented to the honoree in a pretty manner, a string attached to her chair leading to a garden wall trellised with vines and flowers near which an old fashioned well was arranged and by drawing the string, an old oaken bucket was drawn up containing the articles.

At the close of the afternoon, a dainty salad and ice course was served to: Miss Avis, her mother, Mrs. J. D. Avis, Misses Nancy Jane Harlan, Sadie Adickes, Ethel Owens, Gretchen Avis, Willie Lois and Catherine Moore, Mattie Ruth Corlett, Sibyl Kell, Jewell and Josephine Cummings, Josephine Mayfield, Ruth Nolen, Vera Hale, Thelma Kahn, Lucile Tancred, Florence Sammons, Annette Walsh, Mariam Maer, Suda Willis, Louise Hamlin, Estelle Revere, Mary Brown of Longview, Dorothy Bear and Sara Dale of Henrietta, Katherine Weeks and Mesdames Pat Jarrett, Robert Nolen, Jouette Bonner, Fred Weeks, Harry Weeks, C. GODOWSKY

A record advance sale which gives promise of a capacity house will greet Leopold Godowsky, world renowned pianist, who appears Tuesday eve next, April 25th, at the Wichita theater in a piano-forte recital. The interest manifested in this musical event by every musician as well as music student and lover of music, gives promise that Wichita Falls will get the benefit of the appearance of many noted musicians, instrumentalists as well as vocalists, and offers have already been made by one of the concert managements contemplating to bring a Symphonie Orchestra as well as an Opera company to Wichita Falls the coming season.

That musical attractions of such high calibre as Leopold Godowsky's recital are of great educational value for music students is unquestioned. Many reservations have been made by teachers in the Wichita schools as well as private music teachers who will attend the Godowsky recital in classes.

Classes who will attend will be Miss Geneve Goff's music appreciation class of the high school, Mrs. Lee Clark and her music students, Miss Anna E. Patterson and her class, while Mesdames Ida Harrison and W. M. Lewis will chaperone pupils of the local institute of St. Mary Imaculate.

Reservations have been made from all the surrounding towns. Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon, Chillicothe, Birkburnett, Devol, Frederick, Petrolia and Henrietta.

The concert will commence promptly at 8:15, and patrons are requested to be in their seats at that time, as it will be impossible to seat anyone during the rendition of numbers.

It is also announced that children in arms will not be admitted. Mr. Godowsky's programme for Tuesday evening follows:

I.

(a) Thirty-two Variations (C minor) ..... Beethoven
(b) Rhapsodie, Op., 119, No. 4 (E. Flat) ..... Brahms
(c) My Joys—

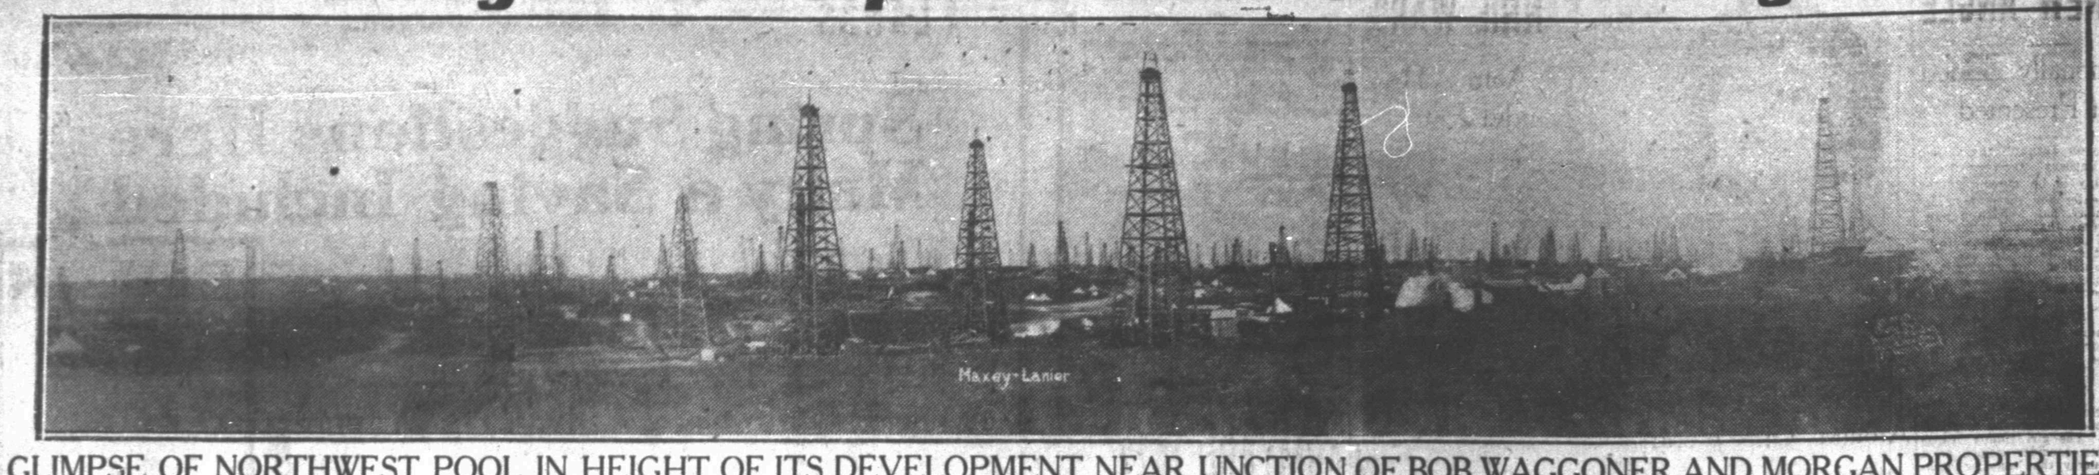
Another Bunger Anticipated After Gas Showing on Tyrell



GLIMPSE OF NORTHWEST POOL IN HEIGHT OF ITS DEVELOPMENT NEAR UNCTION OF BOB WAGGONER AND MORGAN PROPERTIES

SHALLOW POOL IS LOOKED FOR

Penn City Well on Herron Helps

Interest in the east Bunger wildcatting field, received a slight stimulus this week, when the Tyrell test on the Williams, south of the Mahlstadt Mook Williams well, drilled into a gas sand, around 1700 feet. The gas is estimated at two million feet, but testing is delayed by the burning of the rig, which occurred when the gas ignited, shortly after the sand was drilled. The rig is to be rebuilt, and drilling deeper continued.

Also of importance is the showing in the No. 1 Costello of Pitzer and West, a mile and a half south of the Mahlstadt Mook well. Drilling the sand at 1820 feet, the well showed up for a 50 barrel producer. The sand has been shot, and is now cleaning out.

This showing, coupled with the gas in the Tyrell, reported above, the Mahlstadt Mook producer, and, still further north, the Penn Cities well on the Herron, strengthen the belief of operators in a nice shallow pool in this neighborhood, which may prove another Bunger, when the real producing area is located.

Fighting Water on Carmack.

The Gulf Production company's No. 1 Carmack, while producing more oil, after being drilled deeper, has developed water trouble, giving evidence of this well being on the edge of the deep lime. The greater depth at which it was drilled is another support to this theory. While the water would seemingly discourage drilling to the west and south of the Carmack, indications seem very favorable for the wide stretch of territory between the Gulf and Ralco wells, and the tests now drilling in this neighborhood are well worth watching.

The Gulf's No. 1 Askew is drilling around 800 feet. The Texas Company's No. 1 Jake Jones is drilling around the same depth, according to reports. The Monroe Production company's No. 1 Askew is down around 600 feet.

The MacKenzie Oil company's No. 1 Greenwood will start drilling early this week, and the Ralco No. 2 and No. 3 Roark are also due to start operations shortly, according to reports.

Ralco Holding Up.

The Ralco well, now three weeks old, is holding up splendidly, reports from the field the latter part of the week showing actual pipe line runs of 720 barrels daily.

In the main Bunger pool there were no new wells reported, though there is the usual activity.

The Union Oil company's No. 1 Whittenberg is drilling around 1380 feet. The No. 1 Lynn, this company is drilling around 830 feet.

The Gulf Production company's No. 2 Lisle is drilling around 1720 feet. the No. 1 Driver is drilling around 2230 feet, and the No. 1 Newby drilling around 2200 feet.

The No. 3 Owens of the Godley Oil company is drilling around 1170 feet.

The Cosden Oil company's No. 11-M Owens, and the No. 7-M Owens are rigs, as are the No. 5-A and 4-B Owens, and the No. 3 Askew. The No. 2-D Owens is drilling around 1720 feet.

Penn Cities Due Soon.

The Penn Cities Oil company's No. 2 Herron is due to strike the sand opened up in the No. 1, around 2360 feet, and will be closely watched for the next few days.

The Miller, Horning and Taylor No. 1 Herron has evidently missed this sand, being down below 2,400 feet with nothing yet reported.

The Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Lynn is drilling around 460 feet. The No. 1 Parsons, this company, is drilling around 1450 feet.

Two South Bend Producers.

Two new producers are reported from the old South Bend pool. The Texas Producing Syndicate has a hundred barrel well on the Kellar, in the 1900 foot sand, and the Roxana Petroleum company's No. 5 Ford is a 75 barrel well in the 1900 foot sand.

The Panhandle Refining company's No. 7 McCluskey is reported making about a half million feet of gas, from the top of the 3,200 foot lime, while reaming to set pipe and drill deeper is under way.

The Saint John et al No. 1 McCluskey, drilling for the 2,600 foot sand, is down below 2,300 feet.

There is practically nothing else new from the drilling operations in this pool, which are down to a minimum. Practically no change is shown in North American and Roxana operations which now make the bulk of the new drilling.

First Well Drilled by Electricity In District Completed During Week And Method Proves Satisfactory

The first well drilled by electricity in the Wichita Falls district, the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2B Duke, is one of this week's completions, and marks the close of an experiment that has been watched with much interest in this field. The eletcric power was installed when the water shortage was most acute, the current making water and fuel oil unnecessary. Magnolia local officials report the experiment to be thoroughly successful, and the electrical power mode of drilling highly satisfactory.

There was another new well in the Fowlke pool, the T. F. Hunter No. 1 Roberts, 20 acres, with production estimated at 75 barrels. Both these new wells are east of the discovery well, and in the 1600 foot sand.

Three Archer Producers.

Three new producers are reported from Archer county, in the Texhoma pool on the Gose. The No. 18 Gose, the Texhoma's far south well at present, is reported pumping 125 barrels and the No. 2 Gose of the Archer Oil company, a southern offset to the Texhoma No. 18 is estimated a 100 barrel well.

The No. 19 Gose an inside location, is reported good for 100 barrels.

Jumping Dry Ones.

The Archer Oil company's success in drilling south of production, after other tests, further to the south, has failed to get oil, was something of a surprise, and has reawakened interest, to a certain extent to the south end of the pool. The Texhoma is drilling south of the Archer company's lease, their No. 17 Gose being about 500 feet deep. This location is about 600 feet from the Archer Oil company's well.

In the Watkins pool, three miles east of the Kemp Munger Allen pool, the Texhoma Oil and Refining company has finished it's No. 1 Watkins, good for 25 barrels, in the sand at 670 feet. The No. 2 will be drilled immediately.

New Pool Has Completion.

In the South Burkburnett shallow field T. F. Hunter has completed his No. 2 Murdock, in the new Laning and Moninger pool a 150 barrel well.

The Stumpf Oil company No. 1 A. H. Fowler, southwest of the Laning and Moninger pool, reported on a 1300 foot sand, is reported still testing.

The Laning and Moninger leases in the new pool have had no new completions, but the two tests that have been held up with casing trouble are reported about ready to bring in.

The Hill and Jones test south of the producers in the new pool, is reported on the 1200 foot sand.

Drilling has started on the Eureka Producing company's No. 1 Murdock.

Fowlkes Drilling Tests

The Magnolia's No. 1B Duke, west of the Texhoma's No. 1, a shallow producer, missed the 1600 foot sand, and is drilling below 2,000 feet.

The Sooner Oil company is still at work of completing in the 1600 foot sand, drilling in with a star.

The Texhoma's No. 2 Duke is drilling below 1,500 feet, and should be on the sand in the next day or so.

The No. 2 Roberts of T. F. Hunter and the Mona Marie Trust is drilling around 1,200 feet.

The Texhoma wildcat on the Thockmorton, three miles south of the Fowlke 1600 foot producers, is drilling around 1,500 feet.

South Electra Field.

The Bridwell and Heydrick No. 1 Waggoner is drilling around 500 feet.

The Texas Company's No. 214 and 215 Waggoner, in the 1600 foot sand, were rigged up to pump the latter part of the week, showing up for nice wells. The No. 216, offsetting the Harvey-Cullum No. 1 Rio Bravo, and the No. 218 offsetting the Spencer-D'Yarmett well, are to start drilling immediately. The No. 217 offsets the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 9 inside the producing pool.

The Griswold Oil company's No. 23 Burnett is drilling around 1,200 feet and the No. 24, same lease, is drilling around 1,700 feet. Both are to be drilled to the 1950 foot sand.

The Griswold No. 1 on the Howell-Waggoner, north of the Griswold wildcat, recently completed in the sand at 1830 feet, is getting started drilling with a rotary, after a shut down of several weeks.

John O'Neil's rotary test in Section 19, Rio Bravo, is drilling around 600 feet. The No. 1 Waggoner, in section 18, is due to start drilling this week.

The cable tool test on the Rio Bravo lease of O'Neil in Section 31, is down around 700 feet, having been under reaming for ten inch casing. The No. 2, star test, is still shut down on the 800 foot sand, waiting developments.

BIG COMPANIES BUY AT DUNCAN

Interest Centering in Lone Star Well

By P. P. DUFFEY.
Special to the Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., April 22.—Interest in the Duncan field at the present time is centered on the Lone Star company's well. J. W. Martin No. 1, in section 7, 2s, 6w.

This is practically wildcat territory as the only other well that could be called a test was the old cable hole that was started by the Lone Star about two and a half years ago. Hard luck and the fact that it was particularly hard territory to drill in, caused the Lone Star to give it up as a bad job about a year ago. This well has all indications of making a fine gasser and also spurts of oil, and while it never made a commercial well it is furnishing gas for the entire drilling field.

The favorable showing that this well made in spite of its handicap is what caused much activity in that territory, and the Lone Star to take another shot at it on the location that is now being watched with much interest, namely J. W. Martin No. 1. The new hole has now reached a depth of 2700 feet with fine formations all the way. The bit is now about 100 feet in blue shale that has a depth of 400 feet, and as soon as they get through this they expect to hit the pay.

This will put the well at the 3000 foot level and with the 1500 pound rock pressure that is found in that territory, will probably make 40 or 50 million cubic feet of gas. This new hole has had excellent luck compared to what has been previously encountered in this field, and its successful finish will mark the opening of much work now as it is the general opinion of oil men that the oil bearing sand will be found below the gas. Big companies are buying on the strength of this hole, and while there are several standing back letting the other fellows take the chances, it only remains for this well to reach a successful completion to start the ball rolling.

The J. W. Martin No. 2 in section 9, 2s, 6w, which has been running wild, is now under control and is making the 6 and 5-8 casing back into the cement. Salt water and gas pressure caused the cement in this hole to fail to set properly, and it was necessary to mud it in to stop the flow of gas.

Westheimer et al located in the N. E. of the N. E. of section 4, 2s, 8w, struck the sand at 2452 feet. The depth of the sand could not be learned but they are in about four feet. This is expected to make an excellent well as it is the best looking sand found in that territory. Reports from this well are awaited with interest as it is a rank wildcat, being ten or twelve miles from the nearest production, which is the Healdton field.

Walter Gant has made a new location in section 33, 1n, 8w, Claude Bell made a new location in the N. E. of the S. E. of section 28, 1s, 5w. This location is on the farm of W. N. Angle.

Wade et al have their rig about completed in a new location in the S. W. of the N. W. of the N. W. section 29, 2n, 7w, two miles south of Marlow and eight miles north of Duncan.

Westheimer and Daube have a new location in the S. E. of the N. E. of section 34, 1s, 5w. They previously put down seven wells on this 40 and intend to drill nine more before they move off, one of which will be an offset to well No. 5, which was put down by the Magnolia. This well will be located in the S. E. of the S. W. of the N. W. section 34, 1s, 5w.

Well No. 5, drilled by the Magnolia three months ago was picked up at the 1100 foot sand, and has been making about 1250 million cubic feet of gas ever since, is on the same sand as they expect to get in the offset well. All these ning wells will also be on the W. M. Angle farm.

Sorrels and Cope are on the sand at 1500 feet in section 31, 2n, 8w and expect to bring in a good well. They are setting the casing to bring it in. The sand is eighteen feet in depth. This well is about a mile and a half north of proven territory. Fred Drake is drilling the well. The Magnolia on the Rock farm in the N. E. of the N. E. of section 12, 2s, 7w is drilling in blue shale at 2500 feet and is showing gas. Mid-Kansas Oil company is drilling at 1819 feet in the S. E. of the S. W. of section 18, 2s, 7w Owl Oil company, had made location on the Halloway farm in the S. E. of the S. E. section 26, 2s, 6w.

MAGNOLIA BUYS FRANKLIN AREA

$75,000 Paid for Burk Holdings

Purchase of the Wirt Franklin properties in the South Burkburnett shallow field by the Magnolia Petroleum company has recently been consummated. The consideration involved was approximately $75,000 it is stated.

Two leases, with a total production around 120 barrels daily, were purchased, 40 acres of the Dodson and 50 acres of the Cropper farms.

Other recent purchases of shallow producing properties in this field by the Magnolia have increased this company's daily production by several hundred barrels. A fair amount of new drilling on old properties, particularly in the Clara and older Burkburnett pools, is also being carried on, in addition to operations at Fowlkes, east of Electra, where the Magnolia drilled the discovery well.

town, situated as was Wichita Falls.

Ambitious plans had been made for the enlarged city, but the fulfilment of these plans was not entirely assured until this greater development.

Courage To Wildcatters.

And, while not actually a part of this development, the success of the wildcatters who went out from the Burkburnett townsite, jumped a dry streak and opened up a big new field, has been a stimulus to other wildcatters. Important new pools, while not of sensational size, have been opened since that April 26, 1919.

There have been no Burk Waggoner, nor Texas Chief gushers brought in in the last year or two, but there have been nice producers at Electra. South Burkburnett, the new Texhoma pool in Archer county, and as the fourth year after the "big boom" opens there is again wildcatting under way in various parts of the district, evidence of "the hope that springs."

There were many individual figures in the big boom, some blazing a fiery trail for a time being, and then heard of no longer. But the outstanding individual is the organizer of the discovery company, and the one from whom the pool takes its name, R. M. Waggoner, or "Bob" Waggoner.

Bob Waggoner.

Bob Waggoner elected to remain in Wichita Falls, his place of residence before the striking of oil on his ranch northwest of Burkburnett made him one of the outstanding figures in the sensational development. His big office building, and other downtown property, his support, generously, to all civic and municipal undertakings, his heavy interests in the material advancements the city of Wichita Falls in the past three years, give a pretty good concrete illustration of what this strike has meant in a material way.

There were many other individuals who profited richly by the developments and who have just as faithfully remained by the town of their choice building it into a city, while building up their own fortunes.

JUDGE MAKES WIFE SERVE UPON JURY

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND, April 22. — Judge Frederick P. Walther, presiding in Common Pleas Court, was examining jurors.

A woman summoned for jury service pleaded:

"Can't you let me off, Judge? You know I have a lot to do."

"That has nothing to do with it, madam," the Judge responded. "If I have my way about it you'll put in a week on the civil side and then round out with a week on the criminal side."

The juror meekly accepted her fate. She was Mrs. Frederick P. Walther, wife of the presiding Judge.

DEFINES "FLAPPER"

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 22.—A flapper, according to Cosmo Hamilton, famous author, is a girl with a twelve cylinder engine and a "jitney" body.

"She was caught in the unrest that followed the return of the boys from France," Hamilton states, "and is bursting with enthusiasm and vitality that she doesn't know what to do with."

'GRAND LARCENY' HAS NEW ANGLE

Exceptionally Good Cast Presented

Albert Payson Terhune, the author of "Grand Larceny" the new Goldwyn photoplay to be shown at the Olympic Theater for three days beginning Monday, has written a powerful melodrama that will make men think less of themselves and more of the women they profess to love. The story, as unfolded by the reliable Goldwyn process, presents the heroine as a rose between two thorns. She happens to be married to one, but that doesn't stop the other from breaking the commandment against coveting one's neighbor's wife.

As may be surmised the family is broken up. Then follows a series of events that lead to the surprising denouement. This much may be said without disclosing so much of the story as to spoil the observer's enjoyment of it. The girl finally learns that most men consider women as a form of property that may be decorated and shown off to the world. Her reaction to this brings about the defeat of both men's desires.

Claire Windsor, a slender blond beauty, plays the leading feminine role, while the nation's perfect "movie" husband, Elliott Dexter, gives an excellent interpretation of his part. Other well known actors in the cast which was directed by Wallace Worsley, are Richard Tucker, Tom Gallery, Roy Atwell and John Cossar. Some extraordinarily beautiful interiors have been designed by Cedric Gibbons, the Goldwyn art director. They are examples of beautiful modern interior decorations that will suggest ideas to many a discerning woman who sees "Grand Larceny."

market was soundly on its feet again, and had an even better future in store for it.

This feeling is the stronger because of the going off at Mexia, the only source of big flush production in the country at the time. According to reliable estimates here the production is now around 90,000 barrels for the district, in the place of 180,000 barrels which were actually reached. And the pool is going down from the latter figure fast. One pipe line company which has connections with leases which are representative of the field, reports a decline in production for the last month of 33 1-3 per cent for the single 30 day period.

Production Holds.

In the meantime the fields in Wichita and adjoining counties go serenely on their way, holding up their production of the valuable light oil, and offsetting a small decline this week with an increase in runs of the next —oil which promises greater value in dollars and cents with every day.

Production and consumption figures for the country as a whole, a month or so behind, are not the sources of confidence by oil operators of the expected increase—that comes from diminishing of visible supply future, that and improving business which is turning more wheels which need greasing.

Stocks show some of the largest volumes of history right at the time when the consumption peak approaches, but stocks, without daily replenishing, are only a few weeks supply, and seem to have little direct affect on the market, to judge by hikes in the refined products throughout the country.

The rise of consumption and expected gradual decrease of production —that is what oil operators are discussing when they are telling you how they are expecting a boost in crude.

FREE BRIDGE—

construction of the concrete road at the south bluff of the river and not complete the road down to the bridge as had been previously planned. This action is believed to indicate that an attempt will first be made to buy the bridge from the private owners and in the event of failure that a second bridge will be built and the concrete road then constructed from the bluff to the south end of the bridge.

U. S. To Pay Cost.

Although a variance of opinion in the matter has been expressed it is believed that the cost of the bridge would be paid by the federal government, Red river being classed as a navigable river and for that reason belonging to the government. Another opinion expressed is that the river in so far as the construction of a bridge is concerned belongs to Oklahoma under the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court which designates the south bank of the river as the boundary line of the two states. Under this interpretation the federal highway department would not be helpless it is said because it is provided in the new federal highway act that the federal government can force a state to construct a bridge across its streams when located on a federal highway.

The wish that a free bridge might be constructed across Red river in this section where the several bridges are all owned by private capital has often been expressed by business men of this city and Burkburnett. In order that Oklahomans might cross the river without paying tolls the latter city on special trades days has rented the toll bridge north of it at a rate of $85 daily. It is also claimed that a free bridge would greatly increase the tourist traffic through this city on connection with the construction of the improved roads.

BRITISH GIRLS POKE AT SUICIDE THREAT

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 22.—London girls now laugh heartily when their rejected suitors threaten to commit suicide; for cold, hard, unromantic statistics prove that it is not the young Romeo who ends his life in the Thames, but the well worn business man who seeks escape from his financial worries.

Five hundred persons committed suicide in London last year, and, according to a carefully compiled analysis of the figures, only eight were under twenty years of age. The suicide age does not begin until forty is well in sight, and it does not reach its climax until forty-five.

AT OLYMPIC

MISS BETTY COMPSON, In "Green Temptation."

"Green Temptation" Takes Spectators Around Old World

Opening with a scene on the Rue Macabre in Paris, showing "Le Petite Cirque" in action, the picture speeds through the haunts of the Apaches in the old Roman catacombs, to the dressing room of one of Europe's most famed danseuse in the "Theater de la Capitale"; to one of the old mansions of Paris of the grand period of architecture during Imperial rule; into the torn and battered French villages behind the battle lines; and thence across the sea to one of New York's fashionable tea rooms and the Long Island home of the nouveau riche.

Into such a picturesque background, Monte M. Katterjohn and Julia Crawford Ivers, the scenarists, have woven Constance Lindsay Skinner's gripping story of buffoonery, crime and regeneration, published under the title, "The Noose."

STOCK AND—

if the borrower decides to do so, after five years.

This Mr. Clark points out, will convince the farmer or stockman now paying 9 to 12 per cent for interest alone of the value of the institution.

One Per Cent Profit.

Now for the investor. The bank borrows its money from the bondholders at five per cent and lends it at six, a margin of profit of one per cent.

Empowered to loan to 15 times its capital stock, this means 15 per cent, if the limit of loans is made —entirely possible with the wide radius of action afforded by the loan. If the capital stock is loaned in addition, this is six per cent more.

Out of this must come the operating expenses, which are nominal —a president, a stenographer and a bookkeeper are all that are needed, besides the attorney, whose services are paid by small examination fees charged the borrowers.

With these expenses paid a nice margin of profit will remain to the investor after paying the expenses. The investors liability is the same as in a national bank. Loans can only be made to half the value of a piece of property. Appraisals and operation are supervised by the government.

Mr. Clark thinks that Wichita Falls should have had such a bank before now. There is one in operation in another Texas city, recently organized, and its stock is already selling at a premium, he points out. He thinks a Wichita Falls bank under the law, until recently in litigation will follow soon.

GEM GETS FILM BY FANNIE WARD

Noted Actress Has Splendid Part

After an absence from this country of nearly a year, Fanny Ward returns to the screen in what is declared to be the greatest emotional drama of her career, "She Played and Paid," a screen adaptation of Henri Bernstein's celebrated stage play, "La Rafale" which is to appear at the Gem Theater on Monday. It will be remembered that Miss Ward left Los Angeles last year for Paris, but no announcement was made at that time that Miss Ward's sojourn would include any screen activities. For this reason, the news of her newest production, which was filmed in Paris under the direction of J. de Baroncelli, has aroused much interest among pubilc, press and the film industry.

In its visualized form "She Played and Paid" according to critics who have seen it privately, surpasses the original story in humanness, depth of appeal and pathos—full of action and interest in every foot of its six reels. Mr. Baroncelli, one of the most brilliant of the younger directors, has succeeded in bringing out the heart of the wonderful story which Henri Bernstein conceived. He has made a picture which critics agree will be one of the film sensations of the year. The characterization is superb, the direction faultless and the photography marvelous.

Miss Ward, in the dramatic role of Helene de Brechebel, who is willing to sacrifice her friends, home, life, honor itself for the man she loves, surpasses anything she has ever done in the past.

Jean Deaux, the well known French actor, is her leading man, while M. Joffre, M. Croue and M. Janvier, in the roles of Baron Le Bourge, Jean Dupree and Bragelin, respectively, complete the exceptionally strong cast.

1919 "Profiteers" Now Replaced by 1922 "Lossiteers"

(By International News Service.)

LONDON April 22—The year 1919 marked the high festival of the profiteers, but the year 1922 the "lossiteers" are claiming as their very own.

The one big business in this country at the moment is bankruptcy and the only people working at anything like full pressure are the business accountants who are working overtime on winding up deceased businesses, getting them ready for their examination in bankruptcy.

The financial rot started with the crash of the City Equitable Assurance company, which involved a sum of about $10,000,000. The insurance world faced that earthquake with fortitude and is gradually recovering from the shock, but in textiles, rubber, oil and dry goods large numbers of once prosperous houses are now in serious difficulties.

SANITARY HUSBAND LOSES FRIEND WIFE

MILWAUKEE, April 22.—Marriage, 'tis said, has a high celestial flavor.

"This marriage was hardly made in heaven," remarked Judge J. J. Gregory in circuit court Thursday as he granted a divorce to Mabel Leischow, 20, plaintiff in a suit against Arthur Leischom, dentist.

"Next time get acquainted before marrying," the court advised after informing them they could not remarry for a year.

The Leischows were married July 9, 1921 and separated September 3, according to Mrs. Leischow. She said her husband refused to kiss her until he used a mouth wash and always carried a bottle of smelling salts with him when he entered her room during the time she was sick.

Paul A. Bernhardt was given a decree from Hattie Bernhardt. Hattie got drunk often, Bernhardt testified.

Twenty-three petitions for divorce were dismissed by Judge Gregory for lack of prosecution.

FARMYARD JAZZ FEATURES FILM

"Broadway Peacock" Made to Music

In the air was heard the mellow sound of a deep-voiced cowbell; at intervals came the barking of a dog, the mewing of a cat, the crying of a baby in distress, the plaintive "ba-a-a-" of a lamb, or the raucous crash of metal on metal. Occasionally there came the twitter of birds. A rooster crowed, a hen cackled, and from somewhere came the shrill squealing of a pig.

It was not evening on the farm, despite the lowing of cattle. The sounds came from a jazz orchestra which formed a very important part of a cabaret scene in Pearl White's new picture, "The Broadway Peacock," filmed in the mammoth William Fox studios in New York. Facing the scene sat Director Charles J. Brabin, who made no attempt to direct the orchestra, having his hands full with directing the progress of the scene.

For brilliance, beauty and gorgeousness, no silimar scene in a motion picture has ever eclipsed it, it is declared. The atmosphere was perfect, and the players were imbued with the boisterous spirit of the occasion.

As the cameraman ceased grinding on the last bit of movement on the set, Brabin arose, stretched his great length ecstatically and announced that the day's work was ended.

"The end of a really perfect day," suggested Mr. Brabin to the star.

SOLONS SEEK TO RECLAIM LANDS

Southwest and West Press Measure

By B. N. TIMMONS.
Washington Correspondent.
Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Much interest in the Smith-McNary bill providing for the development of the arid lands of the West and the swamp lands of the entire country is being shown by Southern and Southwestern members of congress.

Among the members who have been active in support of this bill, are Representative Hudspeth of Texas, Lazare of Louisiana, Montoya of New Mexico and Hayden of Arizona.

In Texas and Louisiana, it is pointed out, hundreds of thousands of acres of swamp land could eventually be reclaimed.

Much Land Wasted.

"Reclamation is in its infancy" said J. Addison Smith, one of the authors of the bill. "So far we have only elevated the waters of a few small streams to the arid lands, yet this effort produces food values aggregating about $150,000,000 a year. We expect soon to use the big rivers and reclaim lands by the wholesale.

"The reclamation projects tend to produce prosperity and believe unemployment throughout the entire country. The data which has been furnished by many western towns almost wholly supported by reclaimed lands prove conclusively that the manufacturers of the East find the best possible market in the reclaimed districts.

Will Mean Much.

"The United States, with its twenty million acres of arid land in the West, its 80 million acres of swamp land, mainly in the Northern Middle West, lower Atlantic and Gulf States, could, with governmental assistance in financing, reclaim larger areas, within the next 20 years than any other country in the world. These lands, when reclaimed, acre by acre, will be the richest lands in our country. It is, therefore, within the United States that our manufacturers have their best chance to extend their markets.

"Odd as it may seem, starting with New York, there is scarcely an Atlantic coast or Gulf city, that is not in close proximity to extensive swamps, which could be reclaimed; not alone for the crops which they would yield; but for the elimination of the mosquito and sanitation of the country. Most of these swamps were surveyed years ago and plans for their reclamation were worked out by the Interior Department.

Soldiers Want Land.

"Secretary Fall recently declared that over 100,000 soldiers have asked for opportunities to settle on land. Why should they not? Between 1800 and 1900, 400,000,000 acres of the public domain passed into private ownership. There never has been and there never will be a time when a fair percentage of our population will not desire to possess the soil.

"From the inception of our nation until recently, the farmers maintained first place in industrial affairs. Supremacy however, has passed to the manufacturers. Should manufacturing maintain its present rapid pace for the next 20 years, the paramount industries of a majority of the states will be manufacturing rather than agricultural pursuits, in which event manufacturing interests are likely to dominate both houses of congress. Our farmers cannot contemplate such a condition with equanimity.

"It is now time for the whole West which shows the value of reclamation to appeal to those of whom they purchase wares i., the Middle West and East to support the McNary-Smith bill."

Chillicothe Awakens From Sleep and Begins Building Modern City

GENERAL BOOM HAS DEVELOPED

Business Rivals City In Improvements

Special to the Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, April 22.—For ten years there had not been much activity in the way of building new business houses and making public improvements in Chillicothe and everyone seemed satisfied with the present conditions, but about eighteen months ago the people began to wake up after seeing what Quanah and Vernon were doing and decided to shake the moss from their backs and erect a modern town after sleeping twenty years.

Sewers Ordered.

The first step taken was to vote $110,000 for the erection of a modern sewer system and extend the water mains. This contract was let and the money is here and the contractor must begin actual construction not later than May 15.

Masons Build.

The Masonic lodge at this place after using an old wooden building for twenty years, decided to erect them a new home and now claim to have the only three story building in town. This is one of the best temples in this section of the state.

School On Way.

Seeing 700 school children crowded into a small building and not getting the attention they deserved, the boosters of the town decided to erect a new modern $60,000 High school building and it will be completed by September 1.

Bank To Build.

The Guaranty State Bank will erect a new modern bank building on the lot across the street from the Bank of Chillicothe and two more business houses will also be erected at the same time.

C. of C. Busy.

The Chamber of Commerce got busy and interested outside parties to come here and erect a modern cotton compress and it will be in operation in time to handle the fall crop. Last year Chillicothe received three-fourths of the cotton raised in Hardeman county.

New Church.

While the building boom was still fresh in the peoples mind, the Christian church people got busy and are now erecting a new brick church that will cost $8,000.

Will Pave.

The next move will be to pave four blocks of main street and this will be done as soon as the other improvements are completed.

SHRINE CLUBHOUSE FORMALLY OPENED

BURKBURNETT, April 22.—A banquet and dance celebrated the opening of the new Shrine Club House Friday night in Burkburnett, the invitations including all Mason and their families as guests.

At a business session this week the following new officers of the club were elected: R. Ramsey, president; Dr. W. P. Martin, vice-president; D. S. Blue, second vice-president; E. L. Butts, secretary-treasurer.

CHAPLAIN IMPROVES

BURKBURNETT, April 22.—The condition of Paul A. Chapman, who was sent by his fellow Masons of this city to the Tubercular Sahitarium in El Paso is reported most favorable by the medical director, Dr. R. B. Homan of that city.

Baylor County Building for Great Future; Irrigation Project Will Give Seymour Chance to Build Up

There is an era of prosperity dawning for Seymour and Baylor county. The mamouth irrigation reservoir to be completed in the near future will mean the establishing of one of the greatest assets ever instituted in the state of Texas.

The alue of thev project as an assurance of agricultural production will increase the land values to a substantial gain. Far sighted promoters who have made possible the great enterprise have become famous because of the undertaking.

Planning Summer Resort.

However, the citizenship of Seymour has delved deeper into the possibilities of the project and are now laying plans for the establishment of the greatest interior summer resort in the state. With the site selected for the great lake only seven miles from town, the resort will depend on the thriving little city for its livelihood, while the city will be dependent on the tourist trade for support of the mamouth plans now being made for the outing resort.

A beach line of more than 125 miles will afford ample room for any and all features that might be anticipated. The possibilities and probabilities are at present unlimited, and no definite steps will be taken until a far later date than this, dependent on the arising circumstances.

Two Highways Proposed.

Delegates to the recent highway convention in Plainview returned with the report that two important highways are to be surveyed and constructed, intersecting within the townsite. One coming from out of Oklahoma, through Wichita Falls and on toward the southwest. Another coming in from the plains country and intersecting the Bankhead highway out of Fort Worth, will afford tourists comfortable as well as assured travel. With the accesibility of the resort assured overland, and the two rail connections, there can be little to hamper the sucess of the undertaking.

A committee of the stockholders of the G. T. & W. railroad met with representative citizens interested in the extension of the road on to the Panhandle country, meeting the Santa Fe at Floydada, recently. A renewed effort will be made to culminate this proposed improvement.

Due to the fact that Plainview alone shipped 2500 carloads of produce last year which failed to touch a single Texas point, the construction of the proposed extension will offer them access to Texas markets.

Good Crop Prospect.

According to E. M. Wellman of Dallas, who has spent several days in that section of the country, the crop conditions are very good. Possibly better around Seymour than in any other section of the state lying between Wichita Falls and Abilene. Although there is some talk of the wheat prospect not being as good as known in a few instances at this season of the year, the farmers are not worried at all.

County Commissioner E. W. Emsoff of Seymour is doing all in his power to bring about the speedy construction of the various projects scheduled for Baylor county. Few details will be overlooked during his term of office, and many of the successes will be more or less directly the result of his activity.

All told it looks like a big future for Seymour. Nothing flashy, no gambling boom, but conservative, permanent improvements that bespeak prosperity.

Lotus Club Gives Enjoyable Dance

BURKBURNETT, April 22.—The Lotus Club dance at the Liberty Winter Garden Thursday night was an enjoyable affair. Fifty couples were in attendance and a number of Wichita Falls friends, including a party of young people. The music was furnished by a splendid orchestra from Dallas and the young men of the Lotus club are being congratulated on their well-managed social functions.

Mrs. Teel had lived in Henrietta 32 years and leaves a host of friends to mourn her going.

FRENCH IMPORTS OF OIL DECREASE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—French official statistics now available for 1921 show that French imports for consumption of the chief classes of petroleum products were less in 1921 than in 1920. There was a sharp decline in imports of crude petroleum from 1,194,000 gallons in 1920 to only 120,000 gallons in 1921. In 1913 some 52,000,000 gallons of crude oil were imported, of which nearly one-half came from Russia and Rumania.

Children at Burk Entertained With Easter Egg Hunt

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, April 22.—A delightful Easter entertainment in the form of an Easter egg hunt, was given by Mrs. John Hamlin, Saturday afternoon at her home on West 5th street. The guests included the children of the Kindergarten on East Fifth street and all the other little folks of her neighborhood.

A specially decorated table representing a beautiful meadow in which were hidden Easter eggs, rabbits, chickens, apples, oranges, bananas and candies and many other Easter mysteries so dear to the children. Everybody received a little favor to carry home and a jolly good time was enjoyed.

The little Kindergarten classes sang two songs very sweetly. The mother hostess was assisted by her good neighbors, Mesdames A. J. Whitesides, C. D. Nelms and J. Treshell.

Why These Dealers Can Give You Better Values

BE SURE of your DEALER—and then you can be sure of the USED car in which you invest your money.

Some of the greatest of all motor car values today are to be found in USED CARS.

But these values are only to be found in the salesrooms of established automobile dealers—and for good reasons which you will understand and appreciate.

The sale of used cars is a necessary part of the business of every established automobile merchant. These established dealers acquire used cars in the conduct of their business, but do not buy or trade in them for the purpose of reselling at a profit. They are satisfied with the profits made in the sale of new cars, and therefore offer you their USED cars at very modest and unusual prices.

Because of these very conditions, these established dealers accept only USED cars of real merit—cars still holding legitimate service and satisfaction for you.

These established dealers are organized to conduct their used-car business in accordance with the highest standard. Their used car departments are permanent, convenient salesrooms where you may see their offerings and inspect them at your convenience and with the utmost comfort.

The dealers named below are established automobile merchants in this city. They are here to stay. They have a reputation for honesty and square-dealing to maintain. They conduct their used-car departments on a high plane of frankness and courtesy. You can depend upon what they tell you. Go to them for "Used Cars of Known Value."

Each of the dealers listed below is entitled to your full confidence in the purchase of a USED car. Each of them displays in his place of business the symbol shown on this page—the sign of a reliable dealer: "Used Cars of Known Value."

The very car you would like to have may be waiting for you in the salesroom of one of these good dealers—and at a price that will surprise you.

Bought from a reliable dealer, such as these, a USED car always represents a reduction in price that is out of proportion to the actual depreciation in the car itself. A good USED car is always a bargain. Call on these dealers now—and get the facts for yourself.

ELEEMOSYNARY COSTS INCREASE

Southwestern Leads In Population

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, April 21.—Average per capita cost of caring for the 11,492 inmates of the 17 Texas eleemosynary institutions, was $23.85 for March, as compared with $22.42 per month for the seven months period ending with March, according to the consolidated report compiled by the board of control Thursday.

Total expenditures in all the institutions amounted to $241,869.73 for March, of which $132,194.36 was for construction work on the American Legion Memorial hospital at Kerrville.

Per capita costs of operation ranged from $14.27, for the month, at the North Texas asylum at Terrell, to $117.54 for the new Northwest Texas Insane asylum at Wichita Falls, which has only 106 inmates; and $119.11 for the American Legion memorial hospital which has only 63 inmates.

The largest population in any of the institutions is that in the Southwestern Insane asylum at San Antonio, where there are 2246 persons confined; and the next largest is the Terrell asylum, and the third largest, the lunatic asylum at Austin.

March costs for each inmate of the various institutions were: Confederate home, $27.67; Confederate Woman's home, $40.45; Blind institute, $60.53; Deaf and Dumb institute, $36.45; Deaf, Dumb and Blind institute, $35.98; Orphans' home, $26.04; Girls' Training School, $81.63; Juvenile Training school, $17.98; Feeble-minded colony, $18.68; North Texas Hospital for Insane, $14.27; East Texas Hospital for Insane, $36.84; Southwestern Insane asylum, $16.90; State Lunatic asylum, $20.93; State Epileptic colony, $18.64; American Legion Memorial sanitorium, $119.11; Tuberculosis sanitorium, $51.28; Northwest Texas Insane asylum, $117.54; average for all $23.85.

MAKING GOOD MEN OF BAD IS DAUGHERTY'S HOBBY OF HOBBIES

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty has a lot of hobbies.

He likes to drag away on a rusty looking pipe. He's a pretty fair fisherman. He turns a wicked tenor in an impromptu barber shop quartette. When not engrossed with official cares he enjoys a card game, a horse race, a billiard game, or any one of forty other varieties of pastiming.

His real hobby, though, is making good men out of bad one. It's not a new hobby for him. He's been doing it for years. Taking the helm as head of the Justice Department, and the president's right-bower in legal problems, Mr. Daugherty jumped into a field of activity genuinely to his liking. Possessing "human" qualities in a rare degree, the attorney general within one year has extended his humanness into the dark recesses of the federal prisons.

Within the federal penitentiaries Mr. Daugherty has introduced moral and educational advantages calculated to make real men out of the convicts, so that when their terms end they may go into different fields of activity and again become useful citizens—free from the temptation to repeat their old and dangerous ways.

EUROPEAN ILLS BRING ROYAL SILVER TO U. S.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The first complete set of silver of a French reigning family to come to America—the massive 919 piece set ordered by Napoleon I during the Hundred Days, delivered after his abdication to Louis VIII and used by the royal family at the Tuileries palace from 1815 to 1830—was placed on exhibition Wednesday at the galleries of Cartier here. The set came to America as a result of the upheavals in Europe.

Two bullet holes in the soup tureen bear evidence of the revolutions it has lived through. The other pieces are in excellent condition.

Governor Pat M. Neff will speak at Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon on "Texas, Its Possibilities and Perils." If the weather is pretty it is likely some will attend from this section.—Baylor County Banner.

Mrs. Allie Anderson, who has been visiting in Burkburnett, Texas, passed through this city Friday en route to Enid to visit her son, W. P. Anderson, a former resident of this city.—Frederick (Okla.) Leader.

R. L. Henry, ex-congressman, and at present candidate for the U. S. Senate, writes his old friend, D. L. Wardlaw, that he will speak in Quanah on Thursday, April 27th at 2 o'clock.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Major D. C. Priddy and Mrs. J. H. McDonald returned Monday evening from Wichita Falls. The major says his son, Everett, is getting rich, his last well of the Mona-Marie, being a 150 barrel producer.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

W. O. Hightower, representing a school supply house of Wichita Falls, was here this week in the interest of his firm. Mr. Hightower is an old acquaintance of the T. A. Hoods of this place and while here was entertained in the Hood home—Bellevue News.

Dr. R. K. Lowry is spending this week in Wichita Falls, supplying the place of Dr. Graham, in his specialty work, while the latter is on a business trip to New Orleans. He hopes to be back the last of this week or the first of next.—Baylor County Banner.

Mrs. A. H. Bell of Texarkana, returned to her home Tuesday morning after having visited here with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Griggs and family. Mrs. Griggs and little grandson, Charles Massey, returned with Mrs. Bell as far as Wichita Falls.—Clarendon News.

Clarity of the Denver road is out in a statement that an entire steel train is to be run from Fort Worth to Denver, beginning the 15th of May. The Denver has made improvements of late years, and is considered one of the best railroads in the South.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Mrs. A. E. Adkins and Mr. Emmet Adkins and family have been here from Electra on a visit. The boys are now working in the oil fields and Mr. Adkins is running a cafe. They had a bad storm there the other day but on the whole they are getting on fine.—Baylor County Banner.

The editor returned Monday night from Iowa Park and Wichita Falls, where several days had been spent. He acted a a judge in the debating and declamation contests at the interscholastic meet at Iowa Park, and also made a stop at Wichita Falls. He found those people pleased at the splendid rains and in high spirits over crop prospects.—Hall County Herald.

A rabbit hunt, the first to be had in the Iowa Park trade territory was staged Tuesday in the Pleasant Valley neighborhood when about thirty farmers and citizens of that vicinity and several Iowa Parkans spent the entire day shooting them. An accurate count of the slain rabbits was not kept but it may be safely estimated that 2000 or 3000 rabbits were killed.—Iowa Park Promoter.

The editor attended services Easter morning at the First Methodist church at Wichita Falls. The house was crowded to the limit, and the sermon of Rev. Knickerbocker was an inspiring one. At the close of the services, there were 151 persons joined the church. We noticed by the bulletin board that more than 1250 attended Sunday school there that morning. Great interest is felt.—Hall County Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roberts arrived here Thursday from Burkburnett, Texas, to spend several months. Mr. Roberts formerly lived at this place.—Frederick (Okla.) Leader.

Mrs. Ella Smith and Curtis Westbrook, both of Wichita Falls were married Thursday morning by T. J. Griffiths, justice of the peace, in his office at the court house. The couple will make their home in Wichita Falls.—Vernon Record.

Ninety-six pounds of guaranteed Jersey butter marketed in Iowa Park by one farmer in one week is not a bad business after all and is convincing evidence that good cows on the farm will stave off hard times when wheat, cotton, corn, oats and other crops fail. J. H. Hudgeons, a farmer living on the Specht ranch near Clara, north of Iowa Park, is the gentleman who received the handsome check.—Iowa Park Promoter.

Mrs. Georgia Lasater is home from Wichita Falls for awhile now to look after her business affairs. She has been in Wichita Falls for some time in the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. B. Smith, the latter having been out at El Paso with her daughter, Miss Maurine. It has been on account of Miss Maurine's health, and her friends here will be glad to know that the doctors say by June she will be perfectly well. However, it has been thought best for her to spend this summer in New Mexico.—Baylor County Banner.

The holdings of the Walker Consolidated Oil company in the Kemp, Munger, Allen field have been sold to Eugene Griswold for a consideration around $25,000, according to information that became known Saturday. The holdings consisted of several shallow wells in four tracts with a production of 35 barrels daily. The deal also included some drilling equipment. Mr. Griswold who is connected with the Griswold Oil company will drill additional wells and increase the production of the wells which have already been completed.—Iowa Park Promoter.

Contractor Pate of Wichita Falls has drawn plans for the new school building at Red Springs and the contract has been let to C. H. Mothes, who is just completing the new Presbyterian church here. The building will be six rooms and will be built of brick. It will be modern in every particular and will be such a house as a community much larger than Red Springs might well be proud of. The money is being received now, and as soon as material can be assembled the work will begin. In addition to the six rooms there will be a large auditorium.—Baylor County Banner.

Wichita Falls is delighted over the contract for the extension of the Wichita Valley, to be run from Byars to Waurika. It will perhaps be pushed on to Ringling, where it will connect with the Ringling line, known as the Oklahoma, New Mexico & Pacific. Connection with this line will make a through train right to the east and northeast, through Ardmore and other points. It will make the best outlet Wichita Falls has, and will very largely increase the railway importance of that city. It is understood that Mr. Kell will take over the Ringling road, that has heretofore been owned by John Ringling and associates.—Hall County Herald.

SAYS CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH

The Very Next Dose of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Adv.

OUSLEY ASSAILS OPPOSING VIEWS

Candidate Addresses Abilene Voters

ABILENE, Texas, April 22.—Clarence Ousley this afternoon assailed several of the proposals of his opponents in the race for United States senator, particularly those of Mr. Cullen Thomas in regard to fixing prices on farm products and the use of federal troops in states unable or unwilling to control disorders affecting the commerce and the peace of the nation. After discussing his own proposals of public policy, he said:

Ku Klux Klan.

"Mr. Strong and Mr. Henry by express avowal seem to think it all important to preserve the Ku Klux Klan society, though what the senate of the United States can do in maintenance or in restraint of that phenomenon of excitement I am unable to see. However, if you think a vote of confidence in the purposes and methods of the Ku Klux Klan is vital to the public welfare you ought to vote for one of these two gentlemen.

"Mr. Mayfield says he is running for the purpose of restoring the powers of the state over intrastate railway traffic and reducing railway freight rates. There is no difference of opinion among the candidates on that question and I think any one of us may be depended upon to contend to the utmost for a restoration of the powers of our state railway commission and for a moderation of burdensome freight rates.

"So far as I can gather their views Mr. Mayfield and Mr. Thomas hold to the policy of levying revenue tariff duties upon manufactured products and conferring incidental benefits of substantial value upon American manufacturers without levying revenue duties and conferring corresponding benefits upon farm products. I regard this as a perversion of the principle of equal and uniform taxation and as a rank injustice to American farmers and stock raisers.

Farm Prices.

"But the most dangerous proposals come from Mr. Thomas. I am moved to emphasize them because one is destructive of agricultural prosperity and another is destructive of national order.

"Mr. Thomas advocates the fixing of farm prices by congress or some agency of congress and cites the precedent of the war emergency act of a guaranteed price for wheat—I would be interested to have him make that proposal to an audience of western wheat farmers if I didn't fear that they might mob him. The wheat farmers know that the minimum price of $2.00 became the maximum price and that but for the fixed price wheat would have sold much higher. In fact it was selling higher in Texas in the fall of 1917 when the price was fixed. I was in Washington at the time and I protested to the price fixing committee that they were unjustly taking money out of the pockets of the wheat growers but they were moved by the demand of the great consuming public for cheap bread regardless of the fate of the producer.

MAN'S PUP'S SAFE AS LONG'S HE KEEPS IT LOCKED UP SAYS CITY

"We have no authority to break into a man's home and take possession of his dog and destroy it," declared City Attorney Mann Saturday morning, in informing a man who gave the name of Allen and said that he lived at 304 Austin, that the city authorities could not kill a dog which he said had bitten his child Friday.

Mr. Allen told the attorney that his child had been at a neighbor's house and that the canine, a Spitz, had snapped at the child and had succeeded in biting it. He was urged to have the child examined, and was told that the dog might not have rabies.

It developed that the Spitz is owned by Constable K. F. Beane, who has offered to pay for the examination of the child bitten. No symptoms of rabies have been found on the dog, it was said.

HOME LOVER STEALS MATERIAL TO BUILD

PASADENA, April 22.—Somewhere in Pasadena is a thief who loves home so much that he is stealing to get one. For weeks he has been collecting the component parts.

For some time, hardly a night went by that some small quantity of building material—a door, a window or a bath tub—was not stolen from some house in course of construction.

Then—indicating the police said, that his house was built and he was putting in his sidewalk and driveway—came a series of thefts of cement. For the last 10 nights, shrubs and plants have been stolen.

WILLIAMS TO SPEAK AT DECATUR MONDAY

VERNON, Texas, April 22—Guinn Williams of Decatur, candidate for the unexpired congressional term of Lucian W. Parrish as well as the nomination at the Democratic primaries in July, will address Wilbarger county voters Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house.

REV. FURNIS LEAVES BURK

489 Additions to His Church Secured

Special to the Record News.

BURKBURNETT, April 22—Rev. T. J. Furnis, and his wife, who has served the first Baptist church of this city for the last 3 years and 2 months, are planning to leave for their new pastorate in Harlingen, Texas, at the First Baptist church of that city, Monday morning, making the trip overland in their new automobile, a recent gift from the congregation.

This good man and his wife have many, many friends in Burkburnett of all denominations who regret to see them leave and who are hoping for them every happiness and prosperity in their new home. Aside from the church interest, Rev. and Mrs. Furnis are the fortunate owners of one of the best Rio Grande Valley farms, located within a short distance of the city of Harlingen.

The following splendid record of the church's activities, testifies to the faithfulness and energy that has marked the three years of Rev. Furnis' services as pastor of the Burkburnett First Baptist church:

Marriage ceremonies performed, 100.

Funeral services conducted, 103.

Ordination services 9; for the ministry 3 and deaconship 6.

Special offerings, $16,704.12 (This money does not include pastor's salary, running expense of the church, county missions, or the 75 million dollar campaign.)

To this might be added the fact that in the three year's time the church building has had to be enlarged the second time. And also this church bears the distinction of establishing the first free reading and writing room in Burkburnett during the oil boom, previous to the opening of the local Y. M. C. A. in the city. This church hut is now used as a social hall and class room for the large Sunday School.

RADIO BEATS ROOKIE

LONDON, April 22.—The first race course swindle by wireless telegraphy, in which two American citizens are concerned, has been discovered by the Vienna police.

The Americans, one a wireless operator, backed horses heavily in the Paris races about ten minutes after each race was run. A Viennese bookmaker accepted the bets, believing that communication between Vienna and Paris was impossible except by telegraphing, which takes at least four hours.

After the bookmaker had paid out large sums several times he became suspicious and informed the police. Both swindlers were arrested and admitted the fraud.

WOMEN BUILD CLUB

CLEVELAND, April 22.—A home for the Cleveland Woman's City club costing $250,000 will be built in the near future. Bonds of a face value of more than $180,000 were sold in a recent campaign. Work on the new structure, which will be a model of its kind, will begin in the early summer.

HI Y ORGANIZES

The Hi-Y club was organized this week under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. of Burkburnett with the following members and officers: President, Winefred Page; vice-president, George Lake; secretary, Oran Kite; treasurer, Orville Reeves; reporter, Charles Quast; membership committee, Don Musgroves, George Lake and Oran Kite.

Australia is offering inducements to immigrants.

NOTICE!

The Spring Wheel & Body Works have moved to 404 Indiana Ave. Under management of Patterson, Seitz & Smith.

BELLEVUE PLANS NEW BUILDING

School House Will Be Erected There

Special to The Record News.

BELLEVUE, Texas, April 22.—A new school building is to be constructed here during the summer months. It is to be a one story structure with an auditorium that will seat better than 500 people with a balcony that will seat an additional 200. The firm of Voelcker & Dixon, architects of Wichita Falls, are now at work drawing up the plans and specifications for the new building which are to be ready to turn over to the board within the next 2 weeks.

SWANSON COMES OUT AS KLAN OPPONENT

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 22.—F. G. Swanson, attorney of Wichita Falls, has announced his candidacy for the State Legislature from the 101 district, according to a communication received by the local newspaper. Wilbarger and Wichita counties are included in the district from which Mr. Swanson will seek election. The announcement of the Wichita Falls attorney carries a bitter denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan.

Jerry on the Job

Why Can't Dancers Stay Off the Stage?

Actresses Marry and Settle Down, but No Matter How Hard They May Try, the Devotees of Terpsichore Seem Unable to Withstand the Call of the Music--as Witness These Very Noteworthy Cases.

Bessie McCoy, the Original Yama Yama Girl, After Years of Motherhood and Widowhood, Returns to the Boards.

Irene Castle, Whose Husband and Dancing Partner, Vernon Castle Blythe, Was Killed in the War, Could Not Withstand the Call and Is Back in a Broadway Cabaret.

Edith Kelly, Divorced Wife of Frank J. Gould, Now Dancing Again in a Popular Revue.

A Photo That Sends the Mind Back a Decade and Recalls Bessie McCoy and Her Bevy of Popular Beauties.

By Betty Van Benthuysen

WHAT mysterious fatality attaches to the gift of dancing that makes it impossible for the dancing girl ever to lose the rhythmic spell?

Why is it that, once received into the sisterhood of Terpsichore, she can never cast aside her allegiance?

Other stage artists may marry, retire and forget. But to the dancing girl the lure is ever-present, and the fever recurs like the lingering germ of malaria, which returns season after season to plague the affected blood.

Edith Kelly Gould.
Irene Castle.
Peggy Joyce.
Peggy Marsh.
Bessie McCoy Davis.

These five recent evidences of the powerful, invisible hold of the dancing germ stand out among a host of others to prove that the dancer must revert to type, according to the law of the wild, and that, even where financial circumstances do not require it, there is no escape for the fast whirling devotee of interpretative art from the fascination and the glamor of lights, music, applause and the intoxication of the cadenced step.

They leave the stage and the lights. They marry. They put behind them the lives that held the make-up, the clinging costumes and the merry, blood-stirring pirouette. They come back, like some addict to intoxicants, pausing at the wings of the stage, poising for a new caper, and then madly abandon themselves to the delirium of the dance.

Mary Anderson leaves the stage, marries and lives the simple life. Lillian Russell resigns the footlights for the fireside. Eleanor Robson sends her bird cage to the storehouse and becomes a society matron. Mrs. Paul D. Cravath makes of the stage but a memory. The late Mrs. George J. Gould found no difficulty in placing the stage among the relics of the past. Scores of women of the drama have been graduated to private life without the slightest hitch or apparent concern.

The Case of Edith Gould

They come trooping back at his bidding to balance, poise, mark the measures of the music with graceful step, and to float upon the notes as bathers might disport themselves upon a series of rollicking breakers on a summer shore.

When Edith Kelly Gould left the stage of a London theatre to become the wife of Frank Jay Gould it was with the firm purpose never again to spring lightly over the boards of the world's stage. Consider the beautiful young woman of the London stage: graceful, lithe and the winner of the plaudits of the most critical and coldest set known to the entertainment world. She meets a young millionaire who becomes enamoured of her. There is a whirlwind courtship, and a hurried trip to Scotland, where a ceremony makes her the second wife of one of the richest young men of the world.

But as they planned and worked out the bower of love that astonished a country which boasts its eternal communion with the wonderful, the little, devilish, imperishable imp of the dance lingered in the background, waiting.

When the divorce came that separated her from Frank J. Gould, she found the necessity for making her own way. She is back in America, dancing in "Pins and Needles," a London revue that De Courville imported, or exported, and in which she is the leading attraction.

Once the pampered darling of a man who spent $700,000 a year upon her establishment, she dances, at the bidding of the mysterious imp of cadence, for $175 a week.

Monte Cristo would have said: "No. 1."

Vaults a Literary Barrier

Time was when Broadway applauded the Yama Yama Girl, and Bessie McCoy was hailed as a whirlwind of grace and merriment. Along came Richard Harding Davis, war correspondent, journalist and novelist, and fell before her charms. The quiet, rugged man of field action found in the dancer the other half of his spiritual self, and they were married.

They retired to a country home. There the dancing girl studied with her student husband. There they journeyed far into the land of books and letters, leaving the limits of dancelandfar, far behind. A little child came to add motherhood to the apparent barrier erected against the imp of the dance.

But in time the husband and father died.

And the imp, leering just beyond the literary barrier, vaulted it the moment its defender departed, and held aloft the fatal finger that pointed toward the stage door. She hesitated, wavered, and then obeyed, and the imp once more brought back to the fold one of his most cherished subjects.

All the world and its aunt knew Irene Castle as one of the first dancers of the time. As the wife of the late Vernon Castle Blythe, a wonderful dancer, she shared with him the honors of his career. War came. Vernon Castle answered the call of the bugle. A break in the gear of an airplane. A heavy fall. A mass of tangled wreckage. The mangled body of a delicate, slender hero who had proved that there was no regulation exterior for manhood, was tenderly laid away.

The widow married. She married a man who was able to care for her without the necessity for effort on her part. The minister came along with the blessing and the groom with the ring. But among the attendants at the wedding was the little imp of the dance, smirking and laughing in his sleeve, for well he knew that no form of ceremony could ever take from him the dominion over his subjects that made them do his bidding when and where his pleasure commanded.

And so she is back, dancing for the joy of the thing, and for the delight of the midnight audiences of the greatest city on earth. Every night one finds her as the chief attraction at one of the leading Broadway cabarets.

"No. 3," in the dramatic enumeration of Monte Cristo.

And years and years ago, in a little country town in Virginia, the imp of the dance came to a young girl of humble parentage, and placed her under his spell. Westward she went and sought to shake the imp by working at a telephone switchboard. The imp was persistent. He captured her, led her to the dressing-room, and soon had her on the centre of the stage following the bent of his will before the painted scenery that represented a strange and inviting land.

Three marriages came to her. Each brought a rich man. The last brought divorce and left her with a fortune in alimony and jewels. No need for her to follow the orders of the little imp of the dance. She might well defy him. Did not a dozen millionaires vie with one another for the privilege of dancing attendance? Did not they fight for the privilege of paying her checks and holding her mantle? Did not at least one of them stand ready to be No. 4 in the lineal list of husbands who had come to her life? Yes.

Then the stage was surely behind her.

He beckons.

Presto! Peggy Joyce announces that she is returning to the stage with a new play all of her own, in which she may serve the impish overlord who holds the high justice, the middle and the low over those who once enter his dominion.

Peggy Marsh, coming into the stage world at the command of the imp, danced her way to place. In the dancing she met Henry Field, one of the heirs to the great Marshall Field estate, holding its millions, and its possibilities for financing a revolution against the supreme dictator of the dancing world. And Field financed the revolution.

A Common Law Wife

Peggy left the stage and became, as she now asserts, the common law wife of the heir to millions. She points to years of happy existence with him, and holds up a little boy whom she says is the visible proof that the union existed, and that she is entitled to claim the post of wife and widow. With Field's death the support that had been hers passed away.

She came to New York, battled with the heirs of the estate, and strove in vain to get Marshall Field, 3d, to set aside a sum for her benefit. Then she found that the insurance policy that she supposed had been provided to give her boy and herself $100,000 had no more existence than the proof of her marriage. A period of charges and counter-charges followed. Then she married A. L. Johnson, a broker, who is no mean subject of the Kingdom of Motion himself, and now she has come to the fore with the announcement that she has signed a contract to appear again before the public.

Try as she might, and she did try, she could never escape the sphere of influence of the little imp who never releases and never recognizes the naturalization of one of his subjects in any other estate of human existence.

So they go.

And so they return.

WHY HE QUIT.

Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles, was elected principally by the indorsement of the ministerial union and the head of the union had guided a bitter fight to reform or eliminate motion pictures. James W. Everington was appointed chief of police to do the fighting. This happened months ago. On Thursday of this week he ceased to be a reform chief when he handed in his resignation. In handing it in he said, "The religious element supported me only with prayer and prayer is not sufficient to eliminate the underworld element. I am disgusted and I do not intend to be made a goat by hyprocrites who pose as saints and live off graft and vice. I am through. As soon as it was discovered that I meant business, to run out the crooks, the gamblers and the bootleggers, representatives of various societies and lodges and banks sought to dissuade me from a crusade they themselves had inspired. I have had no backing. Los Angeles poses as the one white spot and maintains about as near an open town as I have seen. Only the United States army can enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act in Los Angeles." And thus it was that the reform chief was supported only with prayer and the men who had inspired the crusade and passed resolutions for a clean-up were the first to hamstring the chief of police and to dissuade him to abandon the crusade that they had publicly supported. He got out and he was wise. He did not intend to be made a goat by hyprocrites who pose as saints and then wink the other eye. Los Angeles like many other cities, wishes to be good but not too good.

TITANTIC PROJECT.

Herbert Hoover has returned from the West where he inspected the Colorado River irrigation project to be constructed by the government. Six states are interested and all will be included in the project. Colorado, Utah, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona and California are the states. It is said that the waste torrents that flow through the canyon walls of the Colorado has long been the dream of the desert and the plainsman but always differences between the states named have prevented action. It involved a question "who owns the rainfall?" This is one of the most gigantic irrigation projects ever attempted in world history. It is the most titantic project for reclamation ever conceived in America. According to a Los Angeles correspondent if carried out to its fullest possibilities it would mean 5 million acres, now desert, would bloom into green fields and orchards. It would mean the development of unparalleled hydro-electric, some six million horse power. Of course the big power companies of the mountain states and the Pacific Coast do not want the government as a possible competitor and they are arrayed against the project. Engineers estimate that it would take two years flow of the Colorado River to fill the huge reservoir that would be created and that the initial dams would cost 30 million to 50 million dollars but likewise the wealth of new farms and electric power that would be developed would be unprecedented. Texans are interested in this vast project of six states backed by the federal government. Wichita Falls has one of the greatest irrigation projects yet launched and the magical flow of water on semi-arid lands in other sections of the state has demonstrated to the people that that is possible to make richly productive every acre of arid or semi-arid land under Texas skies. Isn't it queer that men who call themselves intelligent and boast that they are capable of self-government should waste their time in bitter wrangling over puerile personal matters or insignificant trifles while the builders of the world are seeking to reclaim or develop the latent wealth of America for the people and posterity.

WHERE TAFT LOST.

Years ago when William Howard Taft was president Gifford Pinchot drove Richard P. Ballinger from the interior department of the federal government. Ballinger wished to turn Alaska and other preserves over to the water hog, the land hog, the ground hog, the timber hog and the mineral hog for exploitation. Because of the Pinchot fight which had the backing of the late Theodore Roosevelt, the Taft administration went on the rocks. Now there is another Ballinger-Pinchot fight coming. Secretary Fall and Secretary Denby have declared for the opening up of naval oil reserves in Wyoming and California to private interests. Fall was a Ballingerite. Now he has signed a contract with a Sinclair concern for taking oil from a naval reserve in Wyoming and another with a Rockefeller concern for taking oil in the California reserve. This is not all. Secretary Fall has a program for the development of Alaska by private interests and this includes the mountain of anthracite coal of more than 7 billion tons. Fall has his eye on the timber resources owned by the government and he is battling for the transfer of the forestry bureau from the agricultural to the Interior Department. Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture, a progressive Republican and a friend of the people, is bitterly opposed to the Fall-Denby program of private exploitation of the resources of Alaska and the mountain states of the West. Now who will win? Its a hundred to one shot that the men who put Newberry over will put over the program of Albert W. Fall of New Mexico, former Senator and present secretary of the interior. Gifford Pinchot is making a fight for the people of Pennsylvania and hopes to win the Republican nomination for governor. He has all the big interests arrayed against him and it is a pity that he is not on the firing line telling the people that Fall is as dangerous to the public weal as that Ballinger who was driven from public life when he was secretary of the interior by appointment of William Howard Taft. Taft was and is the soul of integrity, incorruptable and patriotic but Big Business placed Ballinger in his cabinet and Ballinger wrecked his administration.

"Yessir, Times Have Changed Awful Lot," Says Old Timer Who Drove First Stage Between El Paso and Juarez

EL PASO, Texas, April 22.—Times have changed an "awful lot" especially in the west, during the past half century. Many old timers say so, and "Billy Davis," pioneer El Paso citizen, is one of them.

"I ran away from my home in Baltimore," he said, "and didn't stop until I got to Chicago. I met a man who was going west, but he tried to sell me to an Illinois farmer for $10, so I ran away from him.

El Paso Was "Edge."

"There was no railroad west of Newton, Kansas, in those days, but I reached El Paso. I thought that was as far west as a fellow could get. That was in 1860 and I was 14 years old at that time."

Mr. Davis drove the first stage between El Paso and Juarez. El Paso was then called Franklin. Later he bought a hack, then a carriage and a few years ago he owned an automobile.

"Yes, times have changed," he commented. "Passengers no longer shoot holes through the vehicles they ride in."

When Mr. Davis first came to El Paso, big herds of cattle from the western plains were driven overland to Newton, and from there were shipped by rail to eastern markets.

"When I came here everything was quiet and peaceful," he said. "The era of the 'bad men' had not begun. There were no 'killers' here then; just pioneers who came to develop the country and not to shoot it up.

Played Fiddle.

"But in a few years I drifted back to Kansas," Mr. Davis continued, "where a man taught me to play a bass fiddle. I got a job at Newton playing a fiddle at a cabaret.

"Newton was a bad town. I remember one night when there were nine shootings in which five men were killed. There were many gamblers there.

"In 1880 I had a chance to come back to El Paso, so I left Newton. When I got to El Paso things had changed some. It was no longer a town of three hundred Americans and hardly that many Mexicans. It had grown to a town several times that size and had become considerably rougher.

Railroads Rivals.

"There was no railroad running into El Paso then but the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific were in competition to see which road could get tracks into El Paso the quickest. Everybody was excited over the prospect of the railroads and there was a lot of betting as to which road would complete its tracks first.

"The Southern Pacific reached here four days before the Santa Fe, the track gangs of the Santa Fe having been delayed by heavy rains. Otherwise the finish of the race would have been a matter of a few hours or even minutes.

"The old coaches, like the ones I used to drive, averaged twelve miles an hour. We changed horses every twenty-four miles, or thereabouts, whenever possible. We figured on making an average of twelve miles an hour between towns.

$5 To Juarez.

"I charged $5 for taking a stage to Juarez, one passenger or a stage full, it made no difference. It costs six cents to go from El Paso to Juarez now, or only five cents to go from one city to the other on the street cars, and it is not nearly as dangerous. When passengers rode in the stage we forded the Rio Grande. Many a time I got stuck in the middle of the stream and had to go back to the corral and get more horses, leaving the passengers in the marooned coach. And often, but usually while I was gone, the passengers indulged in target practice, shooting holes in the sides, floor and roof of the stage.

Riddled Stage.

"When passengers in those days felt good they had to do something, so they usually shot the floor out of a hack, or perhaps removed with bullets half of the side, or put a series of holes through the top. Usually, however, when any damage was done they paid for it without any protest.

"In 1883 El Paso had its first building boom. It was in that year the first brick building, two stories high, was built. Other brick buildings followed soon afterward and in 1884 a street car line was built. Mules pulled the cars."

When "Billy" first got here the town was decent, he said, but he saw the wild period of its existence, too. He told many stories of the "bad man's" times. He knew John Selman, Bass Cutlaw, Sam Carr, George Scarborough and many others who were "quick on the trigger"—all southwestern characters each of whose stories is a border epic in itself.

"Billy" like all the rest of them, wants to die with "his boots on," he said.

WHEN RUSSIA PAID.

Paris has a paper "The Temps" which editorially declares that Russia and Germany can go ahead with their treaty and France can prepare for war. France is nothing if not militaristic. Germany and Russia have formed an economic pact. They got there first. Why should the allies damn Russia? Russia was an ally of France in the early days of the war. More than 3,500,000 Russians died to save France from the talons of the Black Eagle of Germany. Russia suffered more than any of the allied powers and more Russians gave their lives for liberty than France or England gave up as the toll of death to the Kaiser's sword. As greedy as ever are the ruling powers of Europe. As intolerant as ever are the militarists of Europe. They have forgotten the lessons of Flanders' field.

UNCLE SAM—BENEFACTOR.

Germany and Russia organized a two power pact. France says it is dishonorable. Great Britain says it is treacherous. Why dishonorable and why treacherous? America, Great Britain and France and Japan organized a four power pact to dictate to the world. Why shouldn't Germany and Russia organize a two power pact for cooperative effort? Germany has a huge indemnity to pay. Russia has the raw materials. Germany has the mills and the workers. France insists that the indemnity must be paid. Then why not give Germany an opportunity to pay it? Germany must import its raw materials and manufacture goods or else Germany will never pay. It isn't the business of the United States to say that the German and the Slav shall not join hands together for economic progress and commercial expansion. Uncle Sam is not a world dictator. He is a world benefactor.

MORTGAGE ON THE HOME.

Statistics which should be of interest to Texans are given in a preliminary report of the United States census bureau just issued. The mortgage debt on owned homes and farms in Texas in 1920 represented 29.5 per cent of the total value of those homes. The total number of homes in the state other than farm homes was 555,615 of which 234,077 or 42.1 per cent were owned by the occupants and of these owned homes 59,155 or 24.3 per cent were mortgaged. The average mortgaged debt of the homes now on farms for which mortgage reports were secured was $1,550 and the average value was $3,862. Not a bad showing.

ORIGIN OF SPECIES

BUTTE CITY, Cal., April 22.—The term "flapper" originated in Scotland, declares Eugene H. Grubb, noted livestock and agricultural authority, and applied to young girls whose long braids of hair flapped against their backs as they skipped along the streets.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS
(Copyright by J. G. Lloyd.)

NANNY MEADOW MOUSE HAS CALLERS

"My love must be a hero bold,
With heart both stout and true,
And by his might must prove his right
For my regard to sue."

Little Miss Nanny Meadow Mouse wasn't in loveyet. But she was quite ready to fall in love if only a real hero would come along and make love to her and just prove to her that he really was a hero. She never said so aloud, but right down in her heart she felt sure that there never had been a prettier Meadow Mouse on the Green Meadows than her small, gray-coated self. She spent a great deal of time brushing her hair and washing herself and seeing to it that not so much as a single hair was out of place on her fur coat. And as she brushed and combed and washed and smoothed out her coat, she would repeat over and over that little verse. Somehow she felt sure that sooner or later her hero would appear. She wondered how she would know him and what he would look like. When she curled herself up for a nap she dreamed about him.

Now, little Miss Nanny lived all alone and she couldn't spend all her time making herself look beautiful and dreaming. Oh, dear, no! She had to eat, just as everybody doest, and, what is more, she had to get her own food. In fact, she had to spend so much time hunting for enough to keep her stomach full that she didn't have half as much time for dreaming as she wished for. And always when she was off hunting for seeds or a fat cricket or a nimble grasshopper, she was afraid that her hero might come along and she would miss him.

On this particular morning she had a feeling that something was going to happen. She didn't know what it was going to be, only she just felt that something was going to happen. She didn't eat as much breakfast as usual, but hurried home and at once began to wash and brush and make herself look as fine as possible. Right in the midst of it she heard footsteps coming along her private little path. She peeped out through the grass that overhung her doorway and there she saw a very fat, very important looking meadow mouse, and he was coming straight toward her doorstep as if he felt very sure of himself and of things in general.

"He's very handsome, though he does look a little old and a little gray," murmured Miss Nanny, "and I do believe he is coming to call on me."

Her heart fluttered with excitement, and she did wish that there was a little pool of water handy so that she could look at herself in it and be sure that she was looking her very best.

The fat, important, self-satisfied meadow mouse had almost reached her doorstep and Nanny was feeling very shy and timid and was wondering what she should say to him, when her quick little ears caught the sound of other footsteps approaching from the other direction. Once more peeping out through the sheltering grass, she saw another caller approaching. He was younger and slimmer and trimmer looking than the first, and he seemed very uncertain and bashful. He would come a few steps and then hesitate, as if he was almost of a mind to go back. Then he would come on a few steps more. It was Danny Meadow Mouse.

"He's very handsome," murmured little Miss Nanny, and her timid little heart fluttered more than ever with excitement. She never had had a caller before, and now here were two callers at the same time. She wondered what she should say to them and if they would be pleasant to each other. And then all of a sudden she had a foolish feeling that she wanted to run away. She had almost made up her mind to, when she heard the sharp, angry voice of the fat, important looking visitor. He had just discovered Danny Meadow Mouse and he wastelling him to clear out, that he had no business there. Little Miss Nanny decided not to run away just yet. She wanted to see what would happen next.

When happiness is in the heart
It simply must get out,
That's why the little birds must sing
And boys and girls must shout.

Of course that is why Danny Meadow Mouse, who has such a funny, squeaky little voice, tried to sing. Yes, sir, that is just why. Of course, it was very ridiculous for Danny to even think he could sing, very ridiculous, indeed. It is no wonder that the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind, who are among his best loved playmates, laughed at him. But Danny didn't mind. He just laughed, too, and kept on trying. You see, his heart was full of happiness and it just had to get out. Of course, the Merry Little Breezes knew this, but they didn't know what had put so much happiness in Danny's heart, and though they teased and teased him to tell them he wouldn't. It was a secret, the very best secret he ever had had, and he had had a great many.

So when they found that he wouldn't tell them the Merry Little Breezes tried to find out for themselves. They pretended to go away, but, instead they hid in the hearts of the flowers and kept perfectly still, hoping that Danny would do something or say something that would give his secret away. Of course, this wasn't a nice thing for the Merry Little Breezes to do but they didn't think of this, for you know they are very thoughtless and sometimes quite heedless. So they waited and watched and listened, but all in vain. Danny just sat in the warm sunshine and stroked his funny little whiskers and tried to sing, and this is the song he tried to sing:

Squeaky, weaky, tweaky dee!
I'm as happy as can be!

Danny sang it over and over and over again. It was just as foolish-sounding as his funny, squeaky little voice. After a little the Merry Little Breezes gave up, for they haven't a great deal of patience and they cannot keep still very long. They came out of their hiding places, pulled Danny's whiskers, rumpled up his hair, and then raced away across the Green Meadows to the dear Old Briar Patch to see what Peter Rabbit was doing. Danny chuckled as he watched them go. When he was quite sure that every one of them had gone and that no one else was watching him he started to run along a certain particular little private path, and as he ran he tried to hop and skip, which was as funny to see as his effort to sing was to hear.

The truth is Danny was going to see some one. He was going to make a call. Only a few days before he had found just by accident that there was a very beautiful Miss Meadow Mouse living in another part of the Green Meadows. At least she was very beautiful to Danny. She was quite the most beautiful person he ever had seen, and her name was Nanny.

Now you have guessed why Danny Meadow Mouse was so happy and what his secret was. Danny Meadow Mouse was in love! Yes, sir, Danny was in love! There was no doubt about it. That was why he tried to sing and to hop and skip.

DANNY PROVES HIS HEART IS STOUT AND TRUE

When little Nanny Meadow Mouse timidly peeped out through the grasses that hung over her doorway, and saw two callers approaching, a fat, gray, important-looking Meadow Mouse coming from one direction, and young, trim, handsome Danny Meadow Mouse coming from the other way, her little heart was all a-flutter with excitment. She hadn't met either, but she knew that they were coming to call on her, and right away she began to wonder which one she would like best and if she could really love either of them. The fat, gray Mouse looked as if he had all the good things in life and as if the world had used him very well, indeed. To be sure he was a little old and a little stout, but if she should marry him—Nanny's heart gave a funny little jump at the very thought—he would surely give her a good home and plenty to eat.

Danny—she didn't know his name was Danny then—was not as important looking. He was not so fat and he didn't look as if he had had so many of the good things of this world but he was young and very handsome. He seemed very, very bashful as he came forward a few steps, then stopped, came on again, and stopped once more. He didn't seem so sure of himself as did the important-looking visitor. Nanny wished that he didn't seem so bashful and that he looked as well-to-do as the other. Then there would be no doubt as to which one she would love.

It was right at the very minute that she was thinking this the fat, important-looking visitor discovered Danny and in a sharp, angry, squeaky voice ordered him away. Nanny was just on the point of running away and hiding herself, but when she heard that she just had to stop and see what would happen. Would Danny run? If he did that would settle the matter. She would never never love a coward. Hadn't she been saying over and over to herself that very morning that her love must have a heart both stout and true?

Danny didn't run. Oh, my no! When he heard that sharp angry voice ordering him to go away he replied just as sharply and just as angrily. He wasn't bashful any more. He didn't hesitate. He just came right on, snapping his teeth and saying ugly things and daring that important-looking Mouse to fight. Nanny held her breadth as she watched. She didn't want either of them to be hurt but wasn't it wonderful and perfectly splendid that they should be willing to fight for her! She felt as if she must be a very important person.

The fat visitor didn't go back a single step. He just waited for Danny to come and all the time he worked himself into a terrible rage. All of a sudden Danny darted forward and there they were fighting on her very doorstep! They kicked and scratched and bit, for that is the only way in which a Meadow Mouse can fight, and they rolled over and over down Nanny's private little path. And how they did squeal and squeal! Sometimes Danny was on top and sometimes the other was on top. She didn't know which she wanted to win, and so she just held her breath and watched.

Now it is hard work to fight if you are fat, and it wasn't long before Danny was on top most of the time. How splendid he was! Anyway, that is what little Miss Nanny thought. After a little the fat visitor seemed to think of nothing but getting away, and at the very first chance he started down the private little path as fast as he could go. He didn't look important at all now. His sleek coat was torn and all rumpled up. He was covered with dirt and his face was scratched. And as he ran after him nipping at his heels and tail and warning him never, never to show himself there again.

"His heart is stout and true," murmured little Miss Nanny, meaning Danny of course, as she watched them disappear down the private little path.

NAME "MARY" LOSES FAVOR IN ENGLAND

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 22.—Mary, one of the prettiest names, typically English, and hallowed by many beautiful associations, is now falling rapidly out of public favor in England. Since Byron's day it has fallen under a cloud and lovers of old-world names and places are distressed.

The unpopularity of the name has only been evidenced lately, when one of the organizers of the English Marys tried to collect together all those named Mary, Marie, Maria, Marion or Marianne and subscribe a wedding present to Princess Mary. They searched the registry offices and to their chagrin they made the discovery that, although the name is the favorite with the Royal family, it is not by any means so with the rest of the inhabitants of the British Isles.

FRIAR PRAISES U. S. FOR AID IN FAMINE

(By International News Service)

LONDON, April 22.—That the United States is already grappling with the Russian situation, while others are only groping about it, was the declaration made by Friar Bernard Vaughan to a representative of the American Relief Administration, with whom he was discussing the horrors of the Volga Valley.

FOLKS BACK HOME

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE GIRL ACROSS THE STREET

The butcher boy and the girl across the street were not long estranged. They occupied seats in the fourth row to enjoy the last number of the lyceum course Wednesday night. This was the boy's first appearance in public with a lady companion, but he bore the ordeal well, sitting very erect and staring hard at the stage with a fine indifference for the whispered gibes of more experienced swains. And if his face was red beyond its wont, the more charitable of his neighbors attributed the phenomenon to the pressure of a collar of unbelievable height that chafed his tonsils and confined his Adam's apple.

The girl was resplendent in a daring frock that exposed her arms almost to the shoulder, and all unconscious of the disapproving glances of staid and deep-bossomed matrons who sat about her—or perhaps because of them—she giggled much and squirmed in her chair and thought of many confidences that needs must be whispered into the ear of her grave and suffering knight.

How old we grow! And with what drab colors age paints the world! Here was romance in full flower, and those of us who are bald and fat and possessed of creaking joints scowled upon it with intent to cry it down in order that we might listen to the drivel of mediocre play-actors on a stage.

Not all the world loves a lover, but only that part of it yet capable of experiencing some of the glorious idiocy of youth.

CREATION

One who finds it difficult to believe that God created man in His own image has not yet learned that all creative work is done in the image of the creator.

Not all of autobiography is so labeled. Every good novel is in some measure a chronicle of the author's experiences and a confession of his standards. The essayist transfers to paper the opinions that are the warp and woof of his character; the historian illumines dull facts with a flash of his own prejudices.

Any work a man may do will mirror his character and his habits of thought. "This is a sorry bit of work," confesses the craftsman, "but no matter. It won't show when the job is completed." Here, then, is a rogue full fledged. He has no personal sense of honor to serve as ballast; he is restrained from knavery only by fear of being caught.

Man creates in his own image.

If his standards are wholesome and his mental processes orderly, the work he does—whether it be the setting of bones, the building of bridges, or the sawing of boards—will proclaim his merit and do him honor. His work is a mirror in which his image is to be seen.

If he is by habit and preference disposed to render the minimum of service that will keep him on the pay roll—if he has no sense of obligation and is bound to society by no tie other than a desire to get what he can—the work he does will proclaim him one of the unfit and confess his want of all the qualities that combine to make a proper man.

AUNT HET

"Pickin' a hen always reminds me o' spoilin' a reputation. It takes the hen a long time to grow feathers; but once she gits in hot water, they come out quick an' easy."

UNCLE GUS

A furtive little man, whose bearing reminded one of a dog with its tail between its legs, scurried by the store without a sidelong glance, and Uncle Gus removed his corn-cob pipe to express his disgust.

"Dirty little liar," said he. "But I feel kind o' sorry for him. I do' know but I feel sorry for most all liars. Some of 'em o' course is plum' low down an' lies just to hurt folks they envies, an' them kind I ain't got no pity for. But most liars gits that way on account o' havin' a yellow streak. They would tell the truth if they wasn't scared to. I've knowed lots o' children, an' grown folks, too, that lied reg'lar an' frequent just because they was afraid o' the boss. It's right pitiful to see folks that scairt.

"If I had a boy, I'd teach him to take pride in tellin' the truth an' feel like a kind o' hero when he knowed tellin' the truth would git him in trouble. The's a kind o' pleasure in takin' a beatin' when you know you're provin' yo'self a reg'lar man by takin' it."

WILLIE WILLIS

Little Willie Willis is selling subscriptions to The Idlewoman Magazine to win a Shetland pony. The prize is given for 250 subscriptions, and although he has worked for only five days he already has two.

STANDARDS

Virtue is a state of mind, not a standard of conduct. To say that honesty is the best policy is to confess rascality. To be honest for policy's sake is to pose, and to pose is to be dishonest.

The thief may be more honest than the man who is careful to take no more than his own; for the thief may be an honest man overcome by temptation, while the other may be a rogue at heart—a thief whose evil desires are held in check by fear of the law.

When a man says that his religious convictions place him at a disadvantage in a practical world, he has no religious convictions. He but adheres to certain doctrines in hope of a present or future reward, and his complaint is a confession that he desires to be "practical"—i. e., a little crooked—but refrains through fear of punishment.

Reputation is the sport of circumstance and the passing days, but character is formed during the first twelve years of life. During this formative period, standards of virtue may be woven into the warp and woof of character, there to remain as standards, however ignored and flouted, while life endures.

But standards accepted in later years are for the most part accepted for the sake of expediency; and while they give the appearance of virtue, they indicate no more than discretion; for virtue is a state of mind not a standard of conduct.

CRAZY

By DR. FRANK CRANE
(Copyright, 1922, by Frank Crane.)

Some time ago a wealthy girl, according to the press reports, disappeared from her rooms at the University of Chicago and was found in a boarding house near the campus, where she had been sleeping nights while spending her days seeking work.

Her father and other members of her family, who are people of wealth, went on from New York to assist the police in finding the girl, and suspected that her disappearance was caused by amnesia, which had followed an attack of gastritis.

They found her, but it was not amnesia that she had. It was an idea. It was so strange an idea that it was euphemistically referred to as eccentric, while others said in plainer speech that she was just crazy.

The idea was that she wanted to work for her living. She got tired of the routine of college life and sought to make her own way in the world. She went first to the home of a coal dealer, where she worked as cook. She found, however, she was not suited for kitchen work, and decided a business career would suit her better. She said:

"I did not expect that my action would cause this excitement. I told my room-mates what I intended to do, but they kept my secret well. Ever since I can remember I have been petted and pampered, but I grew tired of it and wanted to prove that I could be economically independent."

All that is necessary to be considered crazy is to be different from other people. If everybody thinks the moon is made of green cheese and you believe that it is a burnt-out satellite of the Earth you will be called crazy.

So in a society where everybody is struggling, sweating and praying for luxury, prominence and a life of idleness, if you want simplicity and love work and shun notoriety, you need not be surprised if fingers are pointed at you and foreheads are significantly tapped. The idea that this young lady had, as far as one can gather from the printed accounts, is about the soundest idea anybody ever did have.

In fact, the catechism might well be amended, and the answer to the question "What is the first duty of man?" should be "To earn his salt." Also woman.

The last thing many fond parents learn is that no favor they can bestow upon their child is equal to teaching him to shoulder his own responsibilities.

We can be friendly and helpful. We can train children and we ought to inspire them.

But to step in and take the load off their shoulders, to provide for them so that they will not have to earn their own living, to remove them from the normal struggle which is the very essence of life and of manhood, is to wrong their souls about as bitterly as we can.

About the details of this case we have no means of knowing and pass no judgment. But in regard to the idea expressed by the young lady, it should meet our enthusiastic approval.
