JURY DEBATES FIVE HOURS TO REACH VERDICT

Electra Man Found Guilty But Wins Suspension Of Sentence

SECOND HEARING

Girl's Death Under Wheels Of Auto Brought Case In Court Here

Ray H. Page of Electra was given a two-year suspended sentence on a charge of murder by a jury in the 89th district court which returned its verdict before Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district about 4:30 p. m. Wednesday after the defendant's second trial on the charge.

Hung Jury in First Trial

After the first trial resulted in a hung jury early this year, Page was brought to trial again Monday morning in connection with the death of Miss Evelyn Mae Patton in a traffic crash near Electra last Nov. 13. The state based its charge upon the allegation that Page was driving his car upon a public highway while intoxicated. The accident occurred shortly before midnight about a mile south of Electra. The victim was standing at the rear of her escort's car, which had been stopped beside the highway for a tire repair, and was struck by the defendant's car. She died within a few minutes.

Page claimed that the girl's death was the result of an unavoidable accident. He testified that rain upon his windshield and the lights of a car which apparently approached him made it impossible for him to see the two young people and their car beside the road. Miss Patton's companion was Escho' Holbrook.

Denies Charges

The defendant also denied having partaken of any liquor on the date of the accident.

Introduction of evidence began about 4 p. m. Monday, and was completed at 10 o'clock Tuesday night. The case was given to the jury about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Bernard Martin represented the defendant. The case was prosecuted for the state by District Attorney Sam B. Spence and his assistant, George W. Anderson.

Dallas Cabmen Groan As Dime Ride Proposed

DALLAS, March 30. (UP)—Ten-cent tax service by unemployed automobile owners has spread to Dallas. The city council took under advisement today a request of R. A. Hornickle and E. Blanchard that they be allowed to direct 60 jobless men, using their own cars, in a low-rate service.

Taxicab company executives groaned. They said the city wasn't supporting the 500 commercial cabs that now cruise the streets with a 35-cent minimum fare. The unemployed service would start with a 10-cent minimum and follow a zoning system with a 25-cent maximum.

Philanthropist Or Philanderer?

Surprising testimony that Mrs. Esther Ann Hansel, shown in upper right, a St. Louis society figure, traveled through the East posing as a niece of the late Nathan Frank, former congressman and millionairs bachelor, was given by Mrs. Bernardine P. Marquis, lower left, a former housekeeper for Frank, when Mrs. Hansel sued Frank's estate for $44,000. Two other women claim recognition for alleged promises to remain unwed during Frank's lifetime and a fourth seeks the entire $4,000,000 estate on a claim of adoption. Frank, shown at left above, died a year ago.

Four Suits Involve Millions Left By Wealthy Former Congressman

Women, Unmentioned in Will, Set High Value On Alleged Companionship of Nathan Frank

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—Two women who claim they remained unmarried at the request of Nathan Frank, former congressman from this district, and two other women who allege large sums of money are due them, have filed suits against the $4,000,000 estate of the prominent St. Louis bachelor and philanthropist who died here a year ago at the age of 79.

Depositions that Frank had a pronounced penchant for pretty blond "nieces" and a fondness for so-called "soul kisses" have been made in connection with the suits. Early trial dates are now being sought.

Mrs. Gladys Catania of the Bronx, New York City, claims the entire $4,000,000 estate. Frank adopted her, Mrs. Catania says, asserting she was to be sole beneficiary.

Mrs. Ann Hamilton, former manicurist, mother of three children, is suing for $500,000.

Remained Unwed

Frank promised her this amount, Mrs. Hamilton alleges, if she would SHREVEPORT, La., March 30. (UP)—One of two bank robbers who robbed the bank of Bradley, Ark., of $3,000 today was captured several hours later near Plain Dealing, La., and identified by Jack Meeks, assistant bookkeeper of the bank.

The man gave his name as Burt Houston.

Between $700 and $800 in currency believed stolen from the bank was found in a flour sack nearby and was said by officers to be part of the loot in the robbery. In Houston's pockets were found keys to an abandoned automobile believed to have been the one in which the bandits escaped.

The case was expected to reach the jury tomorrow.

Negotiators For Return Of Baby Admit Possibility Of False Hope

NORFOLK, Va., March 30. (AP)—"Watchful waiting" was the term used this afternoon by Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, to describe present activities of three Norfolk men seeking to bring about return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby to his parents.

Assuming the role of spokesman for the Very Rev. Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, John Hughes Curtis, boat builder, and himself, the naval officer made negative answers to most of the questions asked him in the first two press conferences of the day.

His most definite statement as to his opinion of the outcome of their efforts was that "if there is failure in the Norfolk negotiations the kidnapers, and they alone, will know why."

Asked for a possible reason for delay in their negotiations, he replied: "You might say the kidnapers are afraid to go to Colonel Lindbergh with the child. That's a reasonable answer."

He admitted the possibility the negotiators were following a false hope with the statement that "everybody is sometimes misled," but when asked whether he believed the baby was alive, said:

"Unquestionably we wouldn't be working if we thought the baby was dead."

MAINE VOTES FOR F. D. R. AND RESUBMISSION

Demo Convention Instructs Delegation to Favor New Yorker

OPPOSITION SLIGHT

Roosevelt Backers Plan To Break Opposition With Choice Offers

PORTLAND, Maine, March 30. (AP)—An instructed delegation for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and a platform plank calling for resubmission of the 18th amendment to the people were voted by the Maine state Democratic convention here today as they brought their two-day session to a close.

Instruction of the 12 delegates to the national convention to vote for the New York governor as the party's presidential nominee, subject to the unit rule, brought out the only decided break in the party's ranks.

On a standing vote the resolution for instruction was lost, but the vote was questioned and a poll of the convention by counties carried the resolution, 286 to 245.

It was a real test of strength—not so much of Roosevelt strength—but of the power of the state leaders. Until this morning they had strenuously opposed any move to instruct the delegation, fearing such action might cause a split similar to that occasioned four years ago when supporters of Alfred E. Smith forced through an instruction resolution.

Overnight they had a change of heart and so just before the noon recess Charles L. Donahue, Portland, one of the most vigorously opposing the move, presented the resolution.

Hardly had it been placed before the convention when the opposition opened up much to the surprise of the leaders who had felt the sentiment among the delegates was almost solid for Roosevelt.

ROOSEVELT MANAGERS PLAN MASTER STROKE

WASHINGTON, March 30. (US)—The Roosevelt managers were preparing today to dangle the vice presidency before the eyes of Gov. George White, of Ohio, as a political master stroke to break up the opposition to the New York governor's nomination.

Encouraged by Roosevelt's victories in North Dakota, Georgia and Iowa, his preconvention backers were convinced that the time is ripe for a bold move to lure "favorite son" candidates out of the race.

The coveted goal, of course, is to secure Roosevelt's nomination on the first ballot at Chicago.

The first hint of the new strategy was revealed when Senator Alben Barkley abdicated as Kentucky's favorite son and was imme-

Few Oil Proration Changes Asked In Testimony Before Rail Board

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission today heard operators in Texas oil fields testify to physical facts obtaining in the areas incident to promulgating new conservation rules to replace those which expire April 1. Allowables of all Texas fields permit a daily production of 860,000 barrels at this time.

In most cases the information was technical and there was little brought to the surface to indicate dissatisfaction with existing conditions.

J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls questioned R. D. Parker, chief oil and gas supervisor of the commission, about methods used in arriving at proper allowable production in the various pools. He told the commission he was interested in knowing how the commission fixed what it claimed were fair allowables because he believed the methods were not fair.

Witness Questioned

Several members of an East Texas delegation cross-questioned witnesses about the production in certain wells, intimating that while the East Texas area was pinched to 72 barrels per well daily other fields with smaller potential were permitted to get more than their share of oil compared with the state's biggest pool.

Complaint was especially directed at some wells in the gulf coast section reported sold last week to the Humble Oil and Refining company. W. A. Wise and Carl Estes, both of Tyler, said it was reported that nine wells in area were producing 8,100 barrels daily.

Parker said the gulf coast area did not have an official allowable at this time, but that production there was about 107,000 barrels daily. It was decided later to defer a hearing for the gulf coast oper-

TUNNEL FOUND BENEATH BANK

Youths Held at Abilene After Discovery

ABILENE, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Four young men were in custody here tonight, held without charges, after police this afternoon, had discovered a 45-foot tunnel which had been dug under the J. C. Penney building, adjoining the Citizens National bank.

Two of the four under arrest, each 23 years old, were taken by Ruck Sibley, chief of police, and W. W. West, city detective, in an unoccupied concrete structure immediately east of the Penney and bank buildings and separated them by a four-foot passageway. It was in the concrete building that the tunnel was found to have its beginning, starting at a point about seven feet below the street level and extending westward, about 40 feet under the Penney building and eight feet north of the bank building's north line.

Kept Watch

Disclosure of the tunnel came unexpectedly to the officers, after they had kept watch since Sunday on a vacant building adjoining the city's other banking institution, the Farmers and Merchants National bank, across town from the Citizens National. That structure had been rented under circumstances prompting an investigation, officers noting that the new tenant had immediately painted the plate glass fronts.

Today Sibley and West discovered that similar treatment had been given the unoccupied concrete building east of the Citizens bank, and they took up a vigil there. When they demanded entrance this afternoon, they discovered the tunnel.

Employed to Dig

The two men told newspaper men and police that another person, whom they named, employed them to dig the tunnel at $5 each per day, telling them he expected to use it as a liquor cache. He has not been arrested. The boys said they had been working for two weeks, removing the dirt by truck. The other two youths taken in custody were found with the truck.

Atwell Hears Testimony Of Three Bowie Men Accused In Banking Case

Six Other Defendants Convicted in Federal Trials; Court Defers Sentence in Postal Cases

Trial of Charles C. Hutchinson, Arthur J. Turner, and Abe Anderson of Bowie on charges of misapplication of national bank funds and making false entries consumed all of Wednesday before Judge William H. Atwell in federal district court.

Each of the three defendants entered a plea of not guilty after having their rights to trial by jury.

Transactions involved were alleged to have taken place while the three defendants were connected with a bank at Bowie. The cases were continued from the November term of federal court here.

Taking of testimony began before noon Wednesday. Attorneys for the government indicated that most of Thursday will be required for completion of the trial.

LOVE TO FIGHT PARTY PLEDGE

'Ultra Drys' to Take Plea To Courts

DALLAS, March 30. (AP)—Democratic "ultra drys" who bolted the party in 1928 and carried Texas for Herbert Hoover, prepared today to again challenge the legal right of the Democratic state executive committee to bind them with a loyalty pledge.

Thomas B. Love of Dallas, former state senator who led the "dry" faction four years ago when Texas swung into the Republican ranks for the first time since reconstruction days after the civil war, said he would contest through the courts the committee's imposition of a fealty promise.

Protested Ruling

He declared several weeks ago that the Democratic party could not win in the November election if it nominated a "wet" candidate for president. The dry leader protested unavailingly a few days later when the Democratic state executive committee, meeting in Fort Worth, adopted a pledge to bind precinct voters to support "the

HOUSE MOVES SWIFTLY UNDER GARNER'S RULE

286 Million Added to Levy, With Theaters and Soft Drinks Assessed

POSTAGE INCREASED

First Class Rates Hiked To Three Cents by Vote Of 147 to 63

WASHINGTON, March 30. (UP)—A sobered house sternly bent on balancing the budget proceeded swiftly today to vote more millions of dollars in new taxes.

At the end of the day, a total of $286,000,000 had been added, touching the American citizen at many points of his every day life. The levies included corporations, theaters, soft drinks, letters, telegraph and telephone messages.

Speedy Action

This brought to $443,000,000 the total taxes voted in two days since Speaker John N. Garner took the floor with his fervent plea for a tax bill that would balance the budget and sustain the credit of the United States.

The speedy action forecast final passage of the $1,245,000,000 bill by tomorrow night. It will go to the senate for consideration by that body.

Just before it concluded tonight, the house took up the controversial one-quarter of one per cent tax on stock transactions, which the ways and means committee suggested to make the stock market help balance the budget.

This precipitated a lively controversy, and it was decided to postpone a vote until tomorrow on this tax, estimated to bring in $75,000,000 annually. In presenting the amendment, Representative Heartsill Ragon, Democrat, Arkansas, said he had received estimates that stock market business this year would amount to $17,000,000,000, as compared with $81,000,000,000 last year. Officials of the stock market appeared recently before the ways and means subcommittee head by Ragon which drafted the sales tax substitutes.

Garner Leads Vote

Garner moved into action again to urge a compromise on a provision of the measure dealing with corporation income tax returns, and the house followed his advice explicitly. Some items involving millions of dollars were adopted today without debate, so submissive was the temper of the new orderly house.

The most extensive discussion centered about an increase from two to three cents in first class postage rates, which was adopted, 147 to 63. This was the largest item added today, being estimated remain unmarried during his lifetime and thus allow him the complete companionship of herself and children. No mention of her was made in the will, however.

Miss Estelle Sensenbrenner, who says she was Frank's confidential secretary, is suing to be recognized as trustee of the estate. Miss Sensenbrenner alleges Frank promised to make her his executrix if she remained unmarried during his lifetime. He desired her companionship, she says.

Mrs. Esther Hansel, prominent in local society, said to have been introduced by Frank as one of his "nieces," is suing for $44,000 which she contends includes money she gave to him for investment and $5,000 commission due her on a real estate deal.

Mrs. Hansel's suit brought the key witness of the tangle into prominence. She is Mrs. Bernardine P. Marquis, who says she at one time was Frank's housekeeper.

Mrs. Marquis made depositions that evoked some sensation when the suits first became public.

Tells of Tour

She deposed that at one time she made a tour of eastern cities with Frank and with Mrs. Hansel. Frank introduced them both as his nieces, Mrs. Marquis said. She alleged this was to permit the party to have adjoining rooms.

Mrs. Marquis also deposed that Frank was "fond of blonds" and that he loved a "soul kiss," which she described as one of those extremely affectionate kisses and rather longer than the ordinary kind.

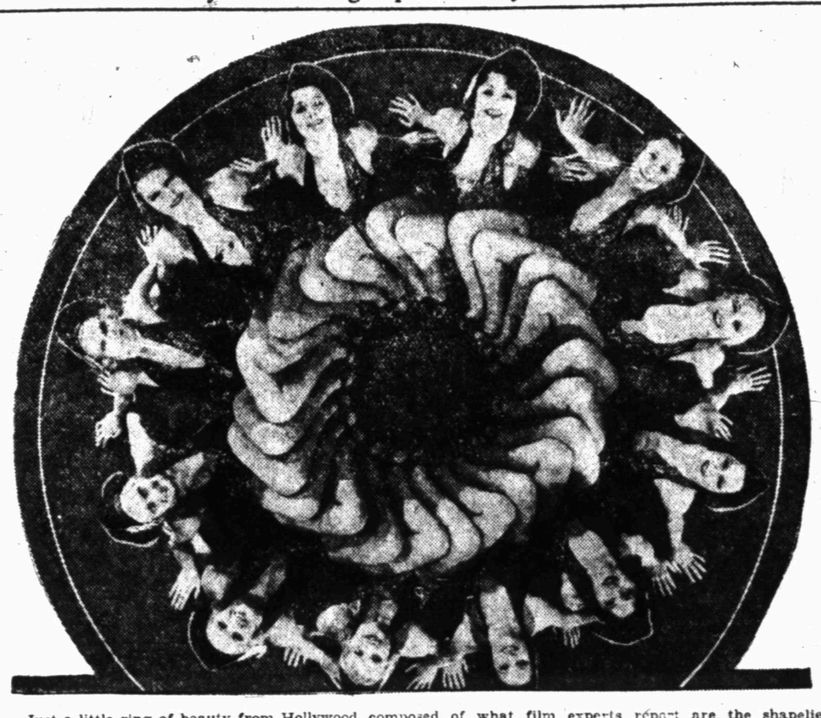

Frank's lawyers and others defending the suits declare that his interest in women was solely philanthropic in nature, based on a desire to assist them. His benefactions extended also to men and children, they point out.

When Frank died he willed amounts to various charities here, including $50,000 for a memorial chapel at the Jewish temple.

His entire estate was to go eventually to relative with bequests to certain other individuals. Former employes, mostly women, were remembered with small bequests.

Reduction from $2,000 to $1,000 of the exemption allowed corporations with less than $10,000 income—$6,000,000. At present a $3,000 exemption is allowed all corporations with incomes of less than $25,000.

Increased taxes on cereal beverages and soft drinks, restoring the 1921 rates—$11,000,000.

A tax of five cents per $100 on capital stock issues—$13,000,000.

Five per cent tax on manufacture of mechanical refrigerators—$4,500,000.

Corporation Levies

A tax on all admissions of one cent on each 10 cents over admissions of 45 cents—$40,000,000.

A tax of five cents on telephone and telegraph messages costing between 30 and 50 cents, and 10 cents over that amount and a flat 10 per cent tax on leased wires—$35,000,000.

Exemptions are provided for press associations and for newspaper press messages.

The house today also boosted the corporation income tax rate from 13 per cent in the bill to 13¼ per cent, the extra half per cent estimated to bring in $5,000,000. The present rate is 12 per cent. The new 13¼ per cent rate will bring in $26,000,000 annually, it is estimated.

This rate applies to individual corporation returns. If a corporation with affiliates files a joint or consolidated return for itself and affiliates, which it is permitted to do, it will have to pay a 15 per cent rate. This penalty was provided in lieu of elimination of the so-called consolidated return.

The house added another $20,000,000 in revenue by repealing for the years 1931 to 1933 inclusive the net loss provision. This permitted a corporation to spread its losses over three years for the purpose of income tax. For the three years, no such spreading will be permitted.

Garner, in urging adoption of the consolidated corporation income tax compromise, explained he previously had advocated abolition of the consolidated return, but that this step had been questioned. The new provision, which he called a "wise compromise," will afford a test of the consolidated return, he said.

ators to give them time to complete compilation of necessary data. It was suggested the hearing be held in Houston.

Hearing to Be Set

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the commission, announced at the outset of the hearing that rules governing production in the Big Lake pool would not be considered now. He said matters pertaining to it would be discussed at a hearing to be set within the next few days. Meanwhile operators in the pool have agreed to an allowable of 25,000 barrels daily, a reduction from the current output of about 10,000 barrels he said.

Other pools not directly concerned in the hearing were Van, Panhandle and East Texas. A hearing for Van operators has been set for April 5. Panhandle is operating under "continuing" rules. Parker said. He said it was likely that rules to be based on today's hearing would be "continuing" in order to preclude the necessity of holding hearings frequently.

The East Texas rules do not expire until May 1. They call for a field top production of 325,000 barrels daily, each well contributing its pro rata share to the total. The per well allowable now is 72 barrels daily. Rules call for another per-well apportionment April 1, when, Parker said, the allowable would likely be reduced to 70 barrels.

Meters Suggested

Clifford Moores of Longview suggested that the commission require installation of meters on all pipe lines in order to keep a check on oil leaving the fields and to "help keep the boys honest." He advocated also a meter in front of every refinery.

John R. Suman, director of the Humble Oil and Refining company, said the Yates pool was capable of producing from 75,000 to 95,000 barrels daily without waste. The allowable for that pool is 65,000 barrels.

L. E. Barrows of the Texas company said the Crane-Upton pool now under an allowable of 16,700 barrels daily should be permitted to produce 22,000 barrels.

E. G. Allen of the Shell company testified the Winkler field allowable should be about 35,000 barrels, the present production figure. He said there were 451 wells in the field and that 21½ barrels of water were produced for each barrel of oil. The last allowable fixed by the commission for Winkler was 40,000 barrels.

Ed Landreth said the Ector field should be permitted to produce 7,500 barrels daily. The current allowable there is 6,300 barrels.

F. C. Heath, geologist for the Sun company, said he believed the Howard-Glasscock allowable of 26,000 barrels should not be disturbed. He said the wells in the field ran 23,000 barrels last week, averaging about 45 barrels per well.

Proposals Made

Charles F. Roeser of Fort Worth proposed that the West Central Texas field allowable of 30,000 barrels be not disturbed. He said there were about 8,300 wells in the area, producing an average of two and one-half barrels per well. The production was running about 25,000 barrels daily, he testified.

F. C. Sealey of the Texas company said that he believed if the Darst Creek allowable of 18,000 barrels were slightly reduced it would be conducive to best interests of the field. He said the average production last month was 15,500 barrels daily from 263 wells, or an average of 60.5 barrels per well.

J. P. Nash said the Salt Flat field should be permitted to produce 10,000 barrels daily, the existing allowable.

R. B. Swiger, representing the T. B. Slick interests in the Pettus field, a part of the Southwest Texas area, said the 33 wells in Bee county were under an allowable of 7,500 barrels daily. Production has been between 5,500 and 6,000 barrels. He said he believed production should be held to 6,000 barrels in order to conserve the field.

Democratic nominees for president and vice president by voting for the Democratic electors of Texas."

Mrs. Claude de van Watts of Austin, president of the Texas Woman's Christian Temperance union, Love and others appealed to W. O. Huggins of Houston, chairman of the committee, to reconvene the committee to reconsider its action. Huggins refused to do so unless a majority of the members petitioned him for the call. Mrs. Watts wrote to each member but said replies indicated a majority did not favor another meeting.

Legal Steps Asked

Mrs. Watts yesterday requested Love to take the "necessary legal steps" to test the legality of the pledge.

"I am going to comply with the request of the official board of the Texas Woman's Christian Temperance union," Love said today in a written statement. "I shall prepare and file in the supreme court at Austin, with the least possible delay, a motion for leave to file an application for writ of mandamus, compelling the precinct primary officers to allow qualified Democratic voters to participate in the precinct primaries without making any pledge."

Rates on Hay Protested At El Paso Hearing

EL PASO, March 30. (AP)—Testimony was taken today from several witnesses in the first hearing in the reopened general hay cases involving freight rates west of the Mississippi.

Examiners A. S. Worthington and M. J. Walsh, here from Washington, conducted the hearing.

Growers of hay in Chaves, De Bac, Eddy and Dona Ana counties, New Mexico, said the proposed increases in rates of from $2.20 to $3 a ton, will be prohibitive.

Hearings also will be held in Seattle and Omaha.

Westinghouse Electric Reduces Dividend Rate

NEW YORK, March 30. (INS)—Directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock placing the issue on a $1 annual basis, as compared with the former rate of $2.50.

A year ago, the dividend on the common stock was reduced to $1 quarterly from $1.25. After two payments at this rate, declarations were cut to 62½ cents quarterly.

The regularly quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share was declared on the preferred stock.

Both dividends are payable April 30 to holders of record April 11.

How to Escape FLU and Grippe

1. Avoid so far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.
2. Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.
3. Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.
4. Try, particularly, to avoid catching cold. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin; remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. And if you have a sore throat, dissolve some Bayer Aspirin tablets in water and gargle; this relieves the soreness, and it usually reduces the inflammation.
5. If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

INNOCENT MAN TO LEAVE JAIL

Lumberman Served Term To Protect Needy Family

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 30. (UP)—Oscar Johnson, 24, who went to prison for a crime he did not commit, in order that a father might be free to earn a living for his family, was recommended for a pardon today.

Johnson, a lumberman heard a knock at the door of his cabin in the mountains near Laramie one night last year. He opened the door to find a man, his wife and several children outside. The father asked for shelter for his family and himself. Johnson took them into his cabin.

The father was sick and out of work. Johnson took care of the family until the man recovered. After the father had regained his health, forest officers appeared at the cabin one day and accused him of stealing a barrel of gasoline.

Johnson shouldered the blame for the crime and stood trial rather than permit the family to be deprived of its breadwinner.

Johnson was sentenced to serve six months in the Albany county jail at Laramie and pay a $100 fine. He was, however, transferred to the Laramie county jail here. During the time he was in jail here, Sheriff George Carroll became interested in his case.

Johnson told Carrol in confidence why he was serving a term. Carrol and Sehriff Gene Smith of Albany county investigated the case and today recommended that Johnson be pardoned. Johnson has served all but a few days of his sentence but is unable to pay the fine, therefore must serve additional time in jail.

Governor Clark was reported tonight to be very favorable to granting a pardon. The recommendation for pardon is now in the hands of the attorney general but will be presented to Clark in a few days.

Log Hut College Students Set On Mine Area Visit

MENA, Ark., March 30. (UP)—Commonwealth college, most unique college in the country, decided today to send a delegation to Harlan county, Kentucky, to "test what we believed to be the constitutional rights of students and to distribute supplies for strike relief."

The college's 24-year-old president, Lucien Koch, will head the delegation. Four students will accompany him. They will leave tomorrow. They made their decision after eastern college students who went to Kentucky to investigate mine labor conditions, were escorted from the state.

Commonwealth college, which is housed in a row of crude log huts in the hills near here, was particularly interested in the expulsion of students from Kentucky, because this college trains leaders for the "labor movement."

REMEDY FOR CANCER FOUND

Dotors Believe Discovery To Be Beneficial

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 30. (AP)—Three scientists, working together for half a decade, have developed a combination treatment they believed today might be of great benefit for cancer.

Although the trio announced they had apparently cleared up diseased cells in the cancerous tissues of several human patients, they warned against "undue enthusiasm," stating the development yet is in its experimental stages and that much must be done before their findings are to be accepted as conclusive.

The three are Dr. R. M. Parr, a professor of chemistry of the university of Illinois; Mr. C. S. Bucher, physician and surgeon, and Dr. R. S. Funk, bacteriologist associated with the latter. Dr. Parr and Dr. Funk are women. The announcement was made here today simultaneously with the scheduled delivery of a paper at the American Chemical society in New Orleans.

Cases Cited

The case histories revealed, the announcement said, that in several cases where the disease was so far advanced that death was considered only a matter of weeks, the disease appeared arrested, sometimes rapidly disappearing. In other cases, where cancerous growths were yet in their early stages, the affected areas have cleared up until all indications of the disease have vanished. In no case to date has the cancerous growth reappeared.

The development started when Dr. Parr began to experiment with the rare element "selenium," which had previously been used in connection with the treatment of cancer and rejected by Wasserman, Keysser and others.

In each case, however, Wasserman and the others rejected selenium in its various combinations because, while it appeared to cure cancer, it killed the majority of the rodents on which it was used.

Dr. Parr worked the selenium into a solution which, in its final stages, consisted of sodium selenite, calcium germananate, and sodium chloride. This solution, diluted a thousand times, was injected into the muscles of the patients or administered orally.

Result Observed

Working with Drs. Bucher and Funk, she discovered the blood of cancerous patients, which contained an increase of lactic acids and a decrease of calcium, potassium and blood cells, immediately returned to normal.

Further experiments demonstrated the selenium solution had an affinity for the cancerous areas. Not only did it pass up other healthy cells, but it immediately arrested the growth of and tended to destroy the diseased cells.

It was at this point that Drs. Bucher and Funk introduced an X-ray or radium treatment. They discovered that the solution, localizing after a couple of days into the cancerous cells, served as a reflective agency, setting up secondary radium rays. Thus, the radium rays, which also are destructive to cancer cells, were worked into the scheme so that double destruction was brought in the diseased tissues.

In addition to the radium treatments, and the injection of the selenium solution, the patients are placed on a full diet rich in vitamines.

Anson Rancher Recalls Early Days of County

Special to The Record News.

ANSON, Texas, March 30.—Edgar Boaz of Anson was a bit reminiscent Sunday. That day, March 27, marked the 50th anniversary of his coming to Jones county, where he has since resided and ranched with marked success. He stated that he first worked for a company who operated in both Shackelford and Jones counties, he having spent four years in Shackelford prior to moving to this county. The ranch home on the Clear Fork of the Brazos was a log structure and covered with buffalo hides, he stated. He came here without funds, and now owns a large ranch west of Anson and other property.

Radical Architect Pens Autobiography

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Frank Lloyd Wright, rebel in life as well as in architecture, blames most of the troubles that have beset him during his 62 tempestuous years on the "persecution" of those who could not understand him.

In an autobiography, published today, he says had he been "obscure or a nonentity I should have been left in peace; so, after all, I was shown up and plucked because of what I had by painstaking labor built up with some degree of success during a stormy 22 years."

The exponent of glass and copper buildings complains most American homes are "mere boxes, with smaller boxes inside called rooms."

He says the American city has "outgrown and overgrown itself, until its carcass is past redemption."

The necessity that built cities is gone, he says, and "only sentimental habit can keep the great city alive for any length of time."

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We wonder how the majority of mankind would make out if they had the responsibility of housekeeping on their shoulders. Lying in bed as much as we do of late, we wonder at the cobwebs that accumulate over night. Then there is walnut and mahogany over which one must run an exploring finger for dust.

But the greatest trial of all, if one would except bringing up the children in the way they should be brought (which is quite often the mother's job), is that of deciding what the family shall eat. Having a natural instinct for foods that provide the proper sustenance, we spend little time in studying the nicely balanced diets that feature magazines, etc., but we believe at that, we have, save for ourself, quite as healthy a family as any of which we know. The sums of their diseases have been mostly measles and whooping cough and chicken pox.

Yet every morning, when the usual question, "What shall we have for dinner tonight?" is asked, our heart goes to the toes of our slippers. For the sake of peace, which is the heavenliest quality we know, we never mention spinach save when only our daughter and ourself complete the family. On those dates, in the face of strong disapproval by a brilliant columnist, we have nice mounds of it, garnished with slices of white and gold eggs.

But there is every day—not just one; and who wishes to plan for every day? Think of those country relatives we used to visit who had all the spring chickens one would wish and hickory smoked hams that melted in the mouth. With cream or red gravy, hot biscuits and delicious preserves, there wasn't any worry about a meal.

But now they want a salad and a main course and a dessert, and the mother is the victim. For ourself, we like a bunch of collards and of turnip greens that are cooked together in liquor where hog jowl has been boiled vigorously; with neat little brown corn pones and well cooked hominy and a fruit salad, it is a delicious meal—even if it isn't delicate.

We know a salad that was invented years ago by a friend of ours in Mississippi that we will hand on to you. We shave the lettuce—(not to much of a head), slice thinly half a dozen young spring onions, slice even more thinly, some six or eight round red crisp radishes, the heart of a piece of celery and a few slices of crisp green pepper. At the last moment, mix it with French dressing and be sure you make the dressing by the magical quality of three of oil to one of vinegar; add a pinch of sugar, and a drop of tabasco and salt to taste. That furnishes that "roughage" that doctors talk of and it is also what we call "spring salad."

But that is not deciding what one shall eat each night. And we like—just as our family does—to eat different things. We are not a meat and potatoes family; if so, it would be so much easier a matter.

Often we have looked at a month's meals planned by a dietitian and considered using it as it was written. But we are no millionaires. So we are basing our hopes on the "Tried and True" Forum cookbook.

Has Your Husband Ever Said:

"I'd Give a Hundred Dollars for Coffee At Home Like We Had At Smith's Last Night"

Don't Just Change "Brands" . . . Try Coffee From a Different Producing Country

Here are 20 Different Brands, but the Coffee Inside is the Same in All, Because it's all from one Producing Country.

HAS your husband ever "hinted" that your coffee might be better—even after you've changed your brand, oh so many times?

The trouble is that in spite of all the different brands you've tried you've probably been getting the same kind of coffee all along. For almost 70 per cent of all the coffee sold today is one common kind, all grown in the same producing country. Just put up in different packages, that's all.

If you want a different tasting coffee try a coffee that comes from a different producing country. Then you'll get a real change.

From Central America

The world's choicest flavored coffees, as any expert will tell you, come from a few tiny districts. They are grown chiefly along the West Coast of Central America. From this famous region we procure coffees with a rare tang and rich mellow body, utterly unlike any coffee you have ever used before.

The Bohemian Restaurants Of Old San Francisco

Years ago this coffee was first introduced in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco. Travellers tasting it there were captivated. They wrote back for shipments. They spread its fame round the world.

This is the coffee that Folger brings you today packed in vacuum. It's not only delicious, but thrifty. Its extra richness and quality make it go much further. And its rare flavor is kept fresh from the roaster right to your coffee pot by the latest type of key-opening vacuum sealed tins. If you want a real change—in coffee—and not merely in name, try it.

A 3-Day Test Of Flavor

Just go to your grocer and buy a pound of Folger's. Drink it tomorrow morning. Next morning serve the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. Then choose between them.

If for any reason you decide against Folger's, your grocer will refund your money. We'll pay him. That's fair, isn't it?

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our information bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Are the national guard and state militia the same organization?—K. K.

A.—The correct name for the state militia is now the national guard.

Q.—What is the history of the prejudice against a third term for presidents?—R. L.

A.—Washington declined a third term in his farewell address. Some Americans were offended because they believed John Adams would have liked to have the presidency changed to a crown. Jefferson thought the danger of personal control so great that he proposed a constitutional amendment providing for one term of seven years. Several times in the history of the republic a single term of six years has been proposed. In 1913 this proposal got so far as to be passed by the senate.

Q.—What is a recidivist?—R. E. V.

A.—The term is applied to one who has been convicted of crime more than once; especially a repeater in a penal institution.

Q.—Was Hamlet insane?—F. McL.

A.—Whether or not Hamlet is insane is a question which has disturbed critics for 300 years. It is interesting to know that most of the profound thinkers who have given the question deep consideration regard Hamlet as sane. It would seem that if Hamlet was insane there is no point to the drama.

Q.—What is the origin of the Shinto religion?—F. A. H.

A.—It is impossible to give the precise origin of the Shinto religion of Japan. This is a mild form of ancestor worship and lists 14,000 gods, and has 13 sects. It appears to have been the native religion of the early Japanese.

Q.—Is a window shade made of linen or cotton?—C. W. B.

A.—A good window shade is usually made of linen and a cheap shade is often made of starched cotton. A "Holland" shade is a linen shade which can be sponged off with soapy water and wiped dry. The cheaper filled or starched shades will crack and, if sponged, must be handled most carefully.

Q.—How did a motto, such as those used in heraldry, originate?—S. R.

A.—Often the motto was in early times the battlecry of its owner.

Q.—What is the difference between lager beer and other types?—H. M.

A.—The term lager indicates a special brewing process. Lager beer is produced from bottom fermentation while other types are produced by top fermentation. The fermentation also takes place at a lower temperature. Lager beer is aged longer than other types and takes its name from that fact. Lager is an early Germanic word for storehouse and, therefore, lager beer is storehouse beer.

Q.—What country is called the cock-pit of Europe?—B. L.

A.—Belgium has often been so called because it has been the site of more European battles than any other country.

Q.—Where is the deepest spot in the Atlantic ocean?—J. A. L.

A.—Its greatest depth, 28,000 feet, is near Porto Rico.

Q.—Why were the tennis matches between Helen Wills and Susanne Lenglen abandoned?—P. McE.

A.—They were not completed owing to the illness of Mlle. Lenglen.

A man in Washington who refuses to eat, hoping to attract the attention of congress, is certainly an optimist. Of course, he may succeed, but the rest of us have failed.

A Railroad to Play With

A PHILADELPHIA lawyer the other day bought himself a railroad. It is a standard gauge line that runs from West Denton, Md., to Lewes, Del., it has four box cars and a locomotive by way of equipment and it is just 41 miles long. He got it at a receiver's sale for $26,000.

After remarking that he intended to run the railroad, at least for the time being, the purchaser added:

"I really don't know much about it, but I am reliably informed that it has a locomotive which works."

Now the newspaper dispatches which told about all this did not mention just why the man bought the railroad. But it is pleasant to look at the implications in that little statement of his and to conclude that he did it quite irrationally, just by way of yielding to that vague desire that all of us nourish—the desire to have a railroad all our own to play with.

Railroads, of course, aren't to be spoken of lightly. One might as well yearn for ownership of the United States navy as for ownership of a trunk line railway. But the ordinary citizen goes ahead and yearns, regardless.

Every small boy, at one time or another, plans to be a railroad engineer. He grows up and becomes a real estate salesman, or an orchestra conductor, or a high school principal, instead; but almost always he retains in his heart a trace of that old affection for puffing engines and shiny rails, and he is apt to tell himself, now and then, that being a railroad man must be an interesting life.

This, probably, explains the phenomenal popularity of toy trains as Christmas gifts. They are bought for little boys, of course; but they are bought by grown men, and two-thirds of the time it is dad, and not sonny, who gets the biggest kick out of them. The man who buys such an outfit is getting even with fate. He now owns a railroad, and he can shuttle the cars about and twiddle with the switches at will.

This Philadelphia man has gone the rest of us one better. He owns a real, sure-enough railroad. We don't know just why he bought it, but it's nice to think that he did it for the same reason that the rest of us would, if we could—just for the fun of it.

A Philippine Boycott?

A DISPATCH from Manila to the New York Herald Tribune reports that the Philippine Civic Union, strongest of the insurgent Filipino political groups, is laying plans for a boycott of American manufactures as a means of expressing the islanders' desire for complete and immediate independence.

If such a move should be put into effect, it would give rise to an exceedingly odd situation.

The nation is pledged to set the Philippines free. Bills are now pending in congress to set a definite date. But if the boycott became effective, it is highly probable that the American government would at once devote all its effort to breaking the boycott—would try, in other words, to keep the Filipinos from demanding that which it has already promised them. And in the excitement the promise of independence might be forgotten for another two decades.

A Puzzling Problem

FRANK PAULETTA is back in prison in West Virginia, awaiting execution for a murder committed away back in 1914.

All of this raises once more the perplexing question about what should be done with escaped convicts who have managed to reform and have been leading respectable lives. This man seems to have been a useful citizen for some 15 years. Of course, he has never atoned for his crime—but does it seem quite fair, at this date, to drag him back to the gallows?

In that year he was convicted and sentenced to hang; but he broke jail, went to Pennsylvania, became a coal miner, married, and reared four children, his past completely concealed. Just the other day, however, the authorities discovered his identity, he was returned to the West Virginia prison, and his hanging was set for April 22.

Gandhi's Books

IT IS not simply by chance that among the books recently added to the library of Mahatma Gandhi in Poona jail were works by Carlyle and Thoreau.

Thoreau, self-exiled to a cabin by a little New England pond, produced literature which, once assimilated, is nothing less than dynamite. And Carlyle, crabbed Scot that he was, made clear for all time the way in which oppression and injustice inevitably culminate in revolution.

What should a revolutionist like Gandhi read, if not Thoreau and Carlyle? A rebel against the established order could hardly ask for two better handbooks.

SO THEY SAY!

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

DENVER'S MAN OF MYSTERY—On a dark night in 1914 a gentleman, dressed in a frock coat, a tall silk hat, and a gold-handled cane, was brought to the Denver General hospital as a result of an automobile accident which paralyzed his limbs and deprived him of the power of speech. Only his name was found among his effects, but outside of that nothing is known about Louis Dionne, the mystery patient of Denver, whose personal appearance bespeaks a man of breeding and refinement. He can neither talk nor write. For the last 18 years he has been gazing with dimming eyes from his place in a wheel chair at the window at a blank wall opposite. Seventeen years ago a beautiful young woman was a daily visitor of Dionne's for a whole year. She left one day never to appear again, leaving Dionne to an apparent fate of mystery and solitude.

Wanted—Love!

The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By ETHELDA BEDFORD, Author of "BROADWAY BRIDE"

READ THIS FIRST

Lillian Abbott, 18-year-old sub-deb, raised in severe New England atmosphere decides she wants a career and answers an ad in a New York paper calling for girls to be trained for the movies. She secures a personal interview with Thomas Blane, head of the movie school company, at her home in Salem, Mass., and arranges to go with him to New York without notifying her parents and after drawing her savings, $2,000, from the bank. They arrive in New York and Blane takes her to an obscure hotel and enters her room with her.

Lillian removes her coat, hat and gloves, and Blane, seeing a diamond on her finger, takes it for safe keeping.

Then he attempts to give her a drink from his flask. Lillian refuses. From the window she can see the electric signs being turned on in the streets and is wondering where her career will take her when she turns and finds Blane close behind her, his arms outstretched.

He had turned on the radio and together they danced about the room. When they finish Lillian asks him to take her out that she may see Broadway at night, but he evades the question and attempts to make love to her. As he reaches for her she snaps on the light switch.

Blane asks Lillian to kiss him. She refuses, but he is insistent and it takes all her effort to keep him away. She eludes him for awhile and then sits beside him when she sees he has become angry.

Lillian tells him that she is sorry and a few minutes later is sorry for having said it when he catches her in his arms and tries to kiss her. She escapes from his grasp this time by picking up his cigaret and pushing it against his hand. Blane becomes terribly angry, tells her to "get in touch with her folks" and leaves the room without even saying good-bye.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XII

When Thomas Blane closed the door behind him Lillian stood staring, listening to his hurried, departing steps along the carpeted corridor.

She started toward the door, opened her lips to call. But something kept her from following or calling him.

It was hard to realize just what the exact situation was . . . and she dropped down on the bed in her bewilderment.

"He's gone," she gasped aloud. "He's gone—and left me alone . . ."

Lillian knew he would not return. There was such finality in his leaving. . . .

"He didn't even say goodbye . . ."

Thomas Blane, with the soft voice and suave manner had come into her life and gone out . . . and he was gone forever. Lillian knew.

"What am I going to do . . ." the idea frightened her. She could feel her heart hammering.

Everything she had planned to do in New York had hinged on Blane. He was her director. But Blane had gone . . . he no longer was a part of her plans. Lillian had to get that thoroughly settled. Blane was through with her . . . through!

There was no consolation in that realization. It was almost strong enough to kill hope . . . and the stale expressions as "yours of even date, 12th instant," "your letter to hand," etc.

That with all the talk of a terrible depression, the income tax collection is but one million behind last year's.

That Bill Morrow says that Floyd Gibbons' secretary stopped to sneeze and Floyd had to repeat 3,000 words.

And that any once-was will tell you—that the only thing tougher than the ascent to fame—is the descent from it.

John Rumsey of Mayfair, received a complaint (anonymously) that a woman was not going to his place any more because, she said, "That Winchell persons gets all his news there, etc." . . . I reminded Rumsey you hadn't been there in a year . . . And the only news one could get at Mayfair was seeing what the ex-wives were weaning and whom the ex-husands were bringing.—Your Girl Friday.

Every cent she had was in that bag.

but tears that pushed into Lillian's pretty eyes proved that her hopes had received a stunning blow.

"There must be something I can do . . . to make him . . . make him keep his promise . . ." she thought. Intuitively she knew there wasn't a thing . . . she was powerless.

She suddenly felt sorry for herself. She thought how much she felt like her little white glove which lay in the middle of the room, where Blane had dropped it. He had stepped on it. The marks of several trampings showed on the expensive leather. It was crumpled and wilted looking.

"Oh . . . I mustn't . . . mustn't!" she whispered the words in a sort of desperation to herself. She was fighting to keep back the warm shower of tears which ran uncontrolled over her cheeks.

She remembered some silly thing one of the girls at finishing school used to say. She said it aloud: "I've buttered my bread so I'll have to lie on it."

What would Blane say should he hear her? Oh, she wanted to stop thinking of Blane. She hoped she never would think of him again. But his handsome face, his persuasive voice, his large, soft hands were as real as if Blane were still in that little room with her.

That stiff ache she had experienced because of his sultry moods possessed her, too.

She wished desperately that he would return . . . return to her. But suddenly the pride of fine old New England stock took hold of Lillian Abbott. Her head came up, her chin out. She blinked tears from her eyes.

"If I'd been some other girl—and not the daughter of an Abbott, a New England Abbott he'd never have proposed by leaving like this . . . he told me as much . . . thought he'd blackmail my father . . . thought he'd 'promote' me . . . he said. . ." Self-pity of a minute became anger, disgust, pride. "An infernal trick!"

The knowledge that the winning Thomas Blane had tricked her into coming to New York . . . that he was out to trick girls, and that was his trade . . . and that he did not have the slightest intention of doing anything else but trick her filled her with fury.

"Deliberately planned this . . . led me on . . . and to think . . . to think I fell for it . . . believed every word he said . . . oh, what a fool . . . what a fool!"

She met her eyes in the mirror and tossed a mocking smile at her own reflection. "Just a fool . . . that's all!" she greeted herself.

"He never cared for you . . . he never cared a hang . . . he was laughing up his sleeve . . . all the time . . . and you thought he was making love to you . . . thought he was mad . . . mad just to kiss you and hear you say you loved him. . ."

She asked herself: "Did he ever tell me he cared for me?" Then, she answered: "No—not really. You just wanted him to care . . . you thought he was so wonderful, so fine, so different . . . a man of the world!"

And after a while Lillian Abbott said to herself: "It was your own vanity that got you into all of this . . . now what are you going to do about it? . . . Your own vanity deceived you . . ."

It would be her pride, and that of her straight-laced old New England family that would prevent her returning home.

"You got sense enough to get in touch with your folks, haven't you?" Blane had told her. Sense enough! "Well, get in touch with them—and get back home, see?" He had said that to her . . . he had said it casually, as if he really did not care particularly whether she did or not.

"Sense enough—but what would my father say?" she asked. She feared even to think of her irate parent. If Cyrus Abbott knew that his daughter had been tricked into New York by a girl racketeer he never would forgive her. He would never want to see her again . . . he could never forget that she brought Salem gossips down on him, his family. Lillian had too much sense to get in touch with her folks.

"Blane said I was out on my own now . . . and I am," she thought.

The real significance of "out on my own" was not to penetrate Lillian for some time. It was such a brave thing to say, though. The idea of it appealed to her. "Out on my own . . . out on my own . . ." she repeated it several times while she picked up her crumpled glove from the floor and carefully straightened out the fingers.

What should she do next? She consulted her wrist watch, a tiny affair, with a fine line of fine little diamonds for a frame.

It was almost 7 o'clock. Almost dinner time.

After dinner she could think better, perhaps. She would then outline something for herself.

"I'll get along. I'll get along . . . all right, too," she said. But she sort of mumbled the words. She turned to the mirror and caught her eyes. She forced a determined expression and repeated the sentence again, deliberately, taking time to give each word emphasis.

Lillian felt better. She felt revived. Confident.

As she turned on the water in the wash basin in the little white-tiled bathroom she hummed gayly.

"All the king's horses . . ."

"All the king's men . . ta-ta, ta-ta . . ."

The tune penetrated the hotel room from a neighboring radio, she realized. With her hands covered with lather Lillian went to the radio switch of her own room and clicked it on. The tune filled the room. She kept up with the music. It had a good swing. She wished there was some one there to dance with her.

"I hate Blane, but he was a grand dancer," she said to herself, swaying a little to the music.

She would go down into the hotel dining room for dinner. It would be fun, going into the dining room alone, wearing her little white hat, and leaving her coat in her room. Perhaps they would have music in the dining room . . . and perhaps some handsome man would come over and ask her for a dance . . . this was New York and she had heard of such romantic things happening . . .

She put on her hat and looked around for her hand bag. It was on the bureau, there with her hat she thought. She might have dropped it over on the bed, though. She looked. She couldn't find it. On her knees she explored beneath the bed. She looked under the bureau, too, and under the other pieces of furniture. Why, every cent she had in the world was in that hand bag . . . every cent.

In desperation Lillian gave up the hunt. There was but one conclusion—Blane had taken it.

"Could he be that mean?" she asked in bewilderment . . . she knew he could.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Had tall, happy natured Henry Fountain Ashurst been born when knighthood was in flower, what a gallant figure he might have cut.

SEN. H.F. ASHURST

He finds opportunity even in the prosaic political lists of today to ride a-tilt at some looming windmill every now and then. He has a poetic flair for fine gestures of courtesy as for singing phrases and unusual words.

Yet few laugh at Ashurst, the man who has been a senator from Arizona ever since Arizona was a state.

He is as hard-headed and practical a politician, for all his romanticism, as the senate knows.

More than that, he has an abounding sense of humor that never vents itself in a cutting verbal stab at his opponents in debate. His wit invites men to laugh with him, even foemen, not at him.

The thought is suggested by Ashurst's gallop down the field of the senate in defense of the Indian bureau during prolonged attack upon that agency.

Unexpected Champion

As he pointed out himself, the bureau could have no more unexpected champion.

Those three Arizona musketeers in congress, himself, Senator Hayden and the third senator from the state, Representative-at-large Douglas, have been doing battle with the bureau in season and out on the theory that it was almost "fanatical" in its jealous guardianship of its government wards, to the detriment of the interests of white settlers in the Indian country.

"There stands no one here who is in oppugnancy to certain policies of the bureau more than I," he told the senate in a characteristically worded "Ashurstism."

To that he coupled a pledge that those Arizona musketeers would keep up the battle "to the finish." Yet as an act of mere justice, failing which he could not be "wholly at peace with myself," the senator testified as to the amazing progress made by the Indians under bureau guidance in the last 20 years.

To assure the senate that his testimony was not a thing of the moment, the senator gave it just a glimpse of his random daily jottings when he sat with a committee that inspected the Navajo and Hopi reservations last year.

Indian Impressions

It applauded the bureau, sure enough, but it also chronicled the "impressions" of that day on the Ashurst mind of a "land of sunshine, far-flung distances, mirages, rich colors; of high mesas heavy with cedar, juniper, pinion and pine, of painted deserts and treacherous sands, of blankets and baskets woven and red clay pots—of patriarchal natives with leathery faces—of Indian families on sun-scorched hills tending their flocks."

And who in the senate save Henry Ashurst would think or write like that after a hard committee hearing day?

HOOVER KEEPS QUIET ON BEER

President Refuses Comment On Prohibition

WASHINGTON, March 30. (U8)—Another effort to force President Hoover to issue a public statement of his view on prohibition and legalization of beer has met with failure, Mrs. Lorraine C. Brewer, vice president of the Congressional Districts Modification league, announced today.

When Mrs. Brower testified before a senate subcommittee for the Bingham beer bill, she said that Mr. Hoover as a food administrator, had issued a statement saying he would regret to see the sale of beer discontinued, as it would make the people of the nation whisky drinkers.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, disputed this and at the suggestion of Senator Bulkley, Democrat, of Ohio, it was agreed that Mrs. Brower write the president in an effort to get a correct quotation. When he failed to answer, she sent him a telegram. He also declined to answer the telegram, Mrs. Brower said.

Brazil About to Settle Political Difficulties

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 30. (AP)—There were indications today that considerable progress had been made toward settlement of the political differences between the Vargas regime and the faction in Rio Grande do Sul which is demanding a return to constitutional government in Brazil.

The political writer in Diario Noticias said today the outstanding differences between the two groups should be settled quickly inasmuch as both sides realize that many more months of provisional government would have a bad effect both at home and abroad.

How The Federal Reserve Works

Hoarding In The Balance

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, MARCH 30.—Whether the addition of $14 per capita to the paper currency now in circulation will serve to stimulate business, start spending, and speed up the wheels of industry, or go scuttling into hiding to mildew along with the money already there, is the biggest issue of an economic nature before the American people today.

The Glass-Steagall amendment to the federal reserve act, which provides for a possible outflow of $1,750,000,000 in new federal reserve notes, now has become the law of the land. President Hoover himself has characterized it as a "national defense measure." If this fresh money, too, is hoarded by the American people, tying up the gold reserve which is behind it, the United States, conceivably, may become the victim of the machinations of French fiscal policy and be forced off the gold standard. Loss of the tremendous prestige which the American flag has built up in the world would follow.

Bill Provides Loans

Under the Glass-Steagall amendment the 12 federal reserve banks may put up the hundreds of millions of dollars in United States bonds which they hold as investments, as security and issue against them federal reserve notes. The 10,000 member banks of the federal reserve system may now use the miscellaneous lot of stocks and bonds, mortgages on real estate, and various other types of securities which heretofore have been immovable in the credit scheme as collateral for cash advances from their federal reserve banks. The federal reserve banks will issue the bond-secured federal reserve notes in loans upon this collateral.

But, under the basic federal reserve act, which has not been weakened in this particular, there must be a minimum of $40 in actual gold behind every $100 of federal reserve notes, in addition to other security. It will be seen that, for every dollar in new notes which goes into circulation, 40 cents of this gold must be set aside. It is tied up. It cannot be used for any other purpose whatsoever as long as that note is in circulation.

French Policy

The French fiscal policy is a political one. She makes short term investments in foreign countries for the purpose of being able to manipulate them. Thus, French bankers have purchased a large volume of American short term securities. One month, two months, six months they run. They are renewable at the option of the lender, France, in this case. Should France see fit to close in on a large volume of those investments and refuse to renew at a time when billions in gold were tied up in currency, embarrassment would ensue to the extent of causing a suspension of the gold standard in the United States.

The certain way to prevent any such contingency is for the American people to refrain from hoarding any more money, any of the new crop of federal reserve notes shortly to appear; and, in addition, to bring out of hiding the $1,400,000,000 which, it is estimated, now is stuffed away profitlessly in mattresses, old socks and buried tin cans.

Hoarding Ills Cited

Should the new issues follow the old into hoarding, the security which had been put up by the member banks as collateral for the cash advances made them by the federal reserve banks would become more tightly frozen than ever. The United States bonds which had been put up by the federal reserve banks as backing for the new federal reserve notes also would be frozen. Worst of all, the 40 per cent minimum gold cover, which must be held as reserve against the money outstanding, would become frozen, too. France, or any other nation in a position to do so, then could raid the remaining free gold by calling loans and the American financial system would be caught in a vise. Suspension of the gold standard would follow.

The result of this would be that the people who hid their money away in mattresses and behind the clock on the mantel would find themselves impoverished. If a man hid $500 in paper money, for example, he would go around believing he had $500. His action, multiplied over and over by other hoarders, would result in loss of the gold basis. When he took his money out from its hiding place he would find it worth—not the $500 value he had put there—but, perhaps, $400, perhaps only $350. And he would have no one but himself to blame.

Can't Blame Government

While it is a favorite pastime of the people to blame congress or, more vaguely still, the government, for economic evils, this loss of value would be one for which the people would be to blame. In enacting this amendment to the federal reserve act and in setting the machinery in motion, the government has done its part. If the people do not rise to the occasion and do theirs, any debacle will be their fault, not the government's.

This is the view not only of responsible officials of the government and of private citizens and economists intimately concerned with the problem in the United States but with competent observers all over the world. It is the law of money. Money destroys its own value by inactivity. Like an unused muscle, money becomes atrophied.

It is something new for the American people to succumb to the vice of hoarding. Once in a while, in the past, newspapers have printed reports of how some one has dug up a can full of money in a disused backyard, found bills, half-eaten by rats, in the walls of a demolished house, or shaken currency out of false-bottomed desk drawers. The occurrence has been so unusual that it has deserved special report in newspapers. That very fact emphasizes how uncharacteristic of Americans the practice has been. But the stage fright of the last year or two has sent over $1,000,000,000 into hiding in this manner. It is money committing suicide.

Situation Improving

The latest reports to the federal reserve board show that the situation already is improving. Every federal reserve district save one has shown marked gains in the return to deposit of hoarded currency. San Francisco has lagged, but this has been due to a large foreign population not conversant with American business methods. That situation, however, is rapidly mending, the federal reserve board reports.

Especially heartening are reports from New England where there also is a large foreign population. In that quarter, money has been pouring back into the banks. When federal reserve currency comes back this way and enters the channels of business, gold ultimately is freed again and is ready for use in combating the tactics of France or any other country.

The circulation of new money, the release of frozen assets, and the restoration of general financial confidence all turn on this matter of hoarding.

The whole story has been told long aforetime. It will be found in the parable of the talents in the 25th chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew.

FULL MEASURE

One of the results of the present economic situation is that a "full measure" of value is necessary in order to gain the confidence and patronage of the public. That's one reason why St.Joseph's Genuine Pure Aspirin has become the largest selling aspirin in the world for 10c. People everywhere realize that it is neither economical nor necessary to spend more than 10c for 12 tablets of genuine pure aspirin. In addition, they know that "St.Joseph's" is as fine and as pure as money can buy. They know further that St.Joseph's moisture-proof cellophane wrapping preserves the purity and full strength of each tablet. Be safe, be sensible and ask for the original, genuine, pure cellophane-wrapped aspirin — world's largest seller at 10c—St.Joseph's.

MURRAY GIVES MELLON BLAME

Recipe for Prosperity Told In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., March 30. (UP)—Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, speaking in the Municipal auditorium tonight, declared that former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, "under whom three presidents served" is "the man responsible for what is the matter with the country" and that Mellon inflicted present conditions "by design."

The depression "began when they cut off banking privileges in 1923. There will be more unemployment next winter and still more in 1934, but that will be the last of it if we elect a Democrat to reverse the lever and put us back on an economic balance," the Oklahoma governor said.

"We do not need a radical change in policy but in the government to right this economic condition," he continued. "I'd enjoy being president to give the speculators a licking. The American people have their necks chained to Wall street. I want to break the confounded chain. I'm only in this race to get the people to listen to reason.

"I promise you now a New Yorker won't be nominated in Chicago. I may be defeated myself but I'll be working for the people."

Governor Murray's formula for prosperity, in addition to electing a Democrat, is:

"If you want to make a country prosperous, give the farmer a living wage to produce and the laborer wage enough to feed and clothe his family."

The tousled haired executive from the Sooner state was supposed to address the Mississippi legislature as well as the public, but not enough members were present to fill the chairs on the platform. The crowd present numbered about 4,000.

Wheeler 4-H Girl Gets Scholarship

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 30.—Three scholarships given annually by the Texas State Fair association and the Texas Home Demonstration association to outstanding third and fourth year 4-H club girls have been awarded for 1931 to Hilda Ohlenbusch, Mitchel county; Lalia O'Neal, Wheeler county; Mary King, El Paso county, according to a recent announcement by Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent. Each of the scholarships is valued at $300.

Contestants for the scholarships carried on programs of food conservation and preparation, gardening, poultry, sewing and home improvement. They were required to keep careful records of the costs and values of their products.

"I think that the 4-H club stands for the betterment of community, home and church," Miss O'Neal said, "and its training has enabled me to help my friends and neighbors when the opportunity arises." Her record book for the past three years revealed that she has created financial values amounting to $1,243.80 in this time.

SUGAR USED IN MORTAR BRICKS

Tip From Ancients Adds New Building Strength

NEW ORLEANS, March 30. (AP)—Table sugar became a building material for skyscrapers today.

The little mortar bricks with their strength increased 60 per cent simply by sweetening them like coffee were shown to the American Chemical society.

This industrial use for sugar was announced by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in a paper by Dr. Gerald J. Cox and Dr. John Metuchi.

These scientists obtained their tip from ancient Rome, in fragmentary statements 2,000 years old. Encyclopedias stated the Romans sugared their mortar. Many present day lime experts said they had heard sugar was good.

But so far as the Mellon institute scientists could ascertain, no one knew precisely how or why. Their "discovery" consists in developing a process giving exact results, which they state is cheap enough to offer a new industrial use for the saccharine.

"Controlled tests have shown," they said, "that if as little sugar as 6 per cent of the quicklime is included in the mortar, the tensile strength is increased about 60 per cent.

They stated that probably the secret of the sugar's virtue lies in its dissolving power on the mortar materials. This results in tighter bonds between the particles constituting mortars and plasters.

Relieve Headache And Quiet Nerves In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B. C." a reliable, pleasant-to-take remedy. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle, from most relief giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics, or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. (Adv.)

Corns

The barefoot boy of the poem never had a corn. Corns follow footwear. The most common cause of corns is the wrong kind of a shoe which presses on one spot until the callous develops which we call a corn. The horny layers of the skin become thick and any type of pressure causes pain. Usually the corn is "hard," that is it has a hard core, but where it is protected, as between the toes, it may be "soft." I do not advise patients to pare their corns with an old razor blade as it is very easy for the blade to slip, causing a wound which may become infected. I would suggest washing the feet twice daily in warm water to which has been added one tablespoonful of epsom salts, using the bulk salts. Soak the feet for 10 minutes, dry carefully, and then shake talcum powder over them and in between the toes. In most cases the hardened dead skin of the corn will be softened and comes off very easily after a few days of this treatment. Where this fails, apply one of the commercial corn plasters. Most of these are prepared from salicylic acid in collodion. However, to keep the corn cured it is necessary to buy better fitting shoes so that all irritating pressure will be removed.

Sweating Feet and Cracking Between the Toes

Many patients are troubled with sweating feet having a disagreeable odor. Frequently cracks in between the toes will appear. The excessive perspiration keeps the sores wet and healing is retarded.

In such cases the best thing to do is to use the same bathing in epsom salts as given above, twice each day, drying and sifting talcum powder between the toes and over the feet. You should wear the newest shoes you have and continue with this cleansing of the feet until all the cracks have healed and there is no more noticeable sweating. Then it is all right to wash the feet at night with soap and water, and to powder them each morning before donning a fresh pair of hose.

In some cases bathing the feet in first hot and then cold water will do a great deal to overcome sweating as it tones up the skin.

Aching, Swollen Feet

Those with feet which ache and swell should make an effort to be fitted correctly. Never try to wear shoes which are too small or too tight or which pinch, and avoid patent leather. At night soak the feet in warm water, rinse in cold, and then massage them well with cold cream. Begin at the toes and gradually rub until you have stroked all of the foot up to the ankle. Remove excess cream and when the feet feel cool and relaxed, walk around barefoot to give them the benefit of an air bath. It is well to have an examination to see if heart or kidney trouble is causing dropsy.

Blistered Feet

One with a blister should sterilize the point of a needle by burning a match under it, clean the tip with cotton, and gently prick open the blister. Soak up the fluid which oozes out with sterile cotton. Do not remove the skin which forms the blister as this is a protection for the wound. To keep dirt out of the blister cover with a clean bandange, strapped on with adhesive. If all your new shoes cause blisters it is likely you are not being fitted correctly. One with a narrow heel needs to buy a shoe which is unusually narrow at that part in order to fit the foot and prevent the new shoe from rubbing up and down.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Continued Boils May Mean Diabetes

Question—Mrs. W. writes: "My brother is in a run-down condition and has had many boils and has lost 12 pounds in the last three months. He has decided to try your diet if you will give him some advice."

Answer—When boils continue to occur, it is a good plan to have a urinalysis examination, as a diabetic tendency might be discovered. The boils together with the loss of weight in your brother's case would make it necessary that he undergo a thorough examination so that the exact cause of his trouble may be determined. Send me your full name and address and I will mail you my article on boils and carbuncles for your brother.

Impediment in Speech

Question—Pauline writes: "I have an impediment in my speech. When alone I can talk without trouble. It is evident my trouble is nervousness, lack of courage and mental weakness. What would you advise?"

Answer—You need a course of training under a psychologist, or, perhaps, from some teacher who is an expert in correcting speech defects.

Don't Stuff for Weight

Question—Mrs. Rosie R. asks: "Is a half pint of cream too much for a woman underweight to eat for breakfast with a dish of cracked wheat mush and seven dates?"

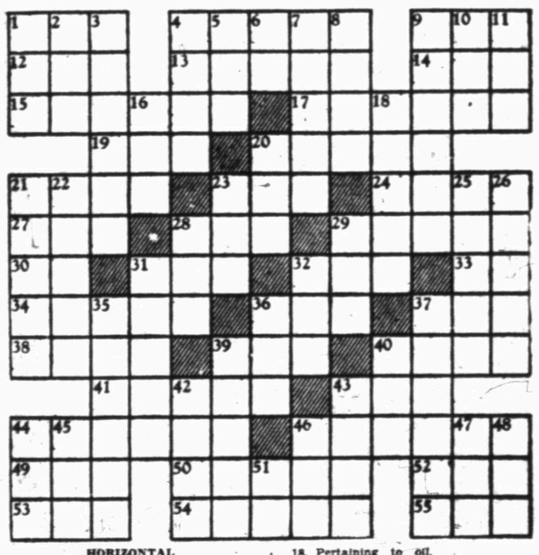

Answer—Such a large amount of cream is too much for any one to use at one meal along with other foods. If you do succeed in gaining weight with this stuffing method, it may bring on liver derangements. Have a diagnosis made and find out what is causing your underweight. When you remove the cause, you will find that you do not have to stuff yourself in order to bring your weight to the normal.

OIL TARIFF UP TO SENATE

Producers Urged to Continue Protection Fight

TULSA, Okla., March 30.—The fight of American oil men to have foreign imports taxed either by an import duty or a tariff is due to be won in the senate of the United States, if oil men keep up their support of the campaign that has been waged for three years.

This message was given to Mid-Continent Royalty Owners association Tuesday noon by Russell B. Brown, executive counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, who came home to arrange plans for the 1932 annual meeting to occur in April at Wichita, Kan.

The Oklahoma City oil field Tuesday morning produced 125,777 barrels of oil from 184 wells, compared with 53,544 barrels from 118 wells Monday and 96,670 barrels from 165 wells on Sunday.

The Sacred Heart pool of southern Pottawatomie county, discovered some months ago by Carter Oil company and associates at No. 1 Monett, in the southwest corner of 35-7-4e, looks promising as a producer of high gravity oil. The discovery well was opened up Tuesday and at a total depth of 4260 feet in the Wilcox sand, cleaned itself, and swabbed 215 barrels in five hours and flowed 680 barrels in the next 12½ hours.

It was then deepened two and one-half feet to 4262½ feet, and the next hour flowed 60 barrels of oil and appeared to be holding steady at such a yield. Field men of the Carter reported that the well might be shot to see if the production could not be increased.

C. W. James, who originally got the acreage for the Monett well and assigned it to the Carter, with associates, has a cellar and pits dug for No. 1 Tucker, in the southeast corner of 34-7-4, the direct west offset. This location staked some weeks ago was reported as Carter Oil company and others.

Nearly seven miles to the southeast, the Barnsdall Oil company and others No. 1 Gray, in the northeast corner of the southwest of 25-6-4, was drilling at 3046 feet in the Woodford shale.

Oklahoma Potential Set at 10 Million

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP)—The potential oil production of Oklahoma was estimated at 10,220,801 barrels daily for January by Ray M. Collins, state umpire, today.

Testifying before the corporation commission at a special hearing to fix allowable for the next three months, Collins also set the daily average production for the same month at 416,359 barrels.

No recommendations were made as to the possible April allowable, but it was estimated by experts that the figure would be approximately 455,000 barrels, due to increased demand.

WISE COUNTY WELL CORRECTION

In an article appearing in this column March 29, it was reported that the Denton Petroleum corporation in Wise county had abandoned its deep test at 2725 feet. The information which the writer received was incorrect as the well is drilling ahead in excess of the depth reported. This test, a rank wildcat in block 15, Smith county school lands, about eight miles southeast of the city of Decatur, is well financed, and is drilling to a contract depth of 3300 feet unless oil or gas in paying quantities is encountered at a lesser depth. The test is located on a favorable geological structure, and its further progress is being watched with considerable interest by the fraternity in Wise and other North Texas fields.

HOLLIDAY TEST

C. E. McCutchen No. 1 trustee, located in the northwest quarter of block 22, Denton county school lands in the Holliday area of north Archer county, has set pipe and will bail a sand showing some oil at 1050 feet.

WILBARGER COUNTY TEST

HOLBROOK & WOODS

Holbrook & Woods, putting down a shallow test in the southwest quarter of block 20, Denton county school lands at Holliday, in Archer county, are feeling for the 650-foot sand.

FISHING JOB COMPLETED

The Deep Oil Development-Lindsay interests have completed the fishing job by extracting tools from the hole in their No. 3 L. F. Wilson in block 119 A. T. N. C. L. survey, at Chalk Hill in Archer county. The well, which came in flowing last Sunday estimated at 800 barrels from the sand at 2203 feet while drilling out the plug, was accompanied by heavy gas pressure which blew the tools up into the hole where the obstruction formed a bridge. At present the bottom of the hole is being cleaned out and a few feet more sand will be taken before completion.

ARCHER COUNTY TEST

J. E. Minton and others No. 1 L. F. Wilson in block 121, A. T. N. C. L. survey, midway of the Hutchinson and Chalk Hill pools in Archer county, a deep test, is moving in a derrick.

Chief Bacon Rind Buried With Racial Ceremony

PAWHUSKA, Okla., March 30. (INS)—Following plans which he himself made several weeks before his death, Bacon Rind, Osage Indian chieftain, was buried here today with a mixture of racial and Catholic ceremonies.

At the grave the Osage custom of painting the dead warrior's body was carried out. His face was streaked with red, green and yellow paint, symbolic of his high station in the Osage tribe. A supply of food and water was placed in the grave.

LIONESS ROUTS PARIS ELITE

Beast Escapes From Cage And Diners Panic

(Copyr't., 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CANNES, France, March 30.—The fashionable "jungle gala" in the Ambassadeurs almost had a tragic sequel early this morning when an enraged lioness bounded over her cage and stood snarling a few feet away from 700 panicky diners.

Music for Lion

While some screaming women and shouting men fled through the far exits, tearing rich gowns and dropping jewels to be trampled in a mad rush, those nearest the lioness began dancing when Billy Arnold, leader of the American orchestra almost within arm's reach of the animal, shouted:

"Play up, boys! Give 'em 'Tiger Rag'!"

Lady Vera Torrington seized her partner and called out:

"For heaven's sake, everybody, dance!"

Mme. Paul Dubonnet pulled Grand Duke Boris of Russia to the dance floor. Lord Louis Mountbatten and other men guests braced themselves about their table to protect their hostess, Lady Mountbatten, Mrs. Harry Brown of Washington, and other women in their party.

Quickly Lord Fermoy, the former Edmund Maurice Burke-Roche of New York; Sir Geoffrey Archer, former governor of the Sudan and a famous lion hunter; Worthington Hines of New York; Count Salm, Mrs. Elbert Sopher of Ottawa, and Mrs. Woolley Hart joined forces to quiet fears. Both women's gowns were torn.

Lady Asquith and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Plaisance of Washington, were among those within a few feet of the lioness who kept cool and refused to follow the rush to the doors.

Jungle Act

Meanwhile, attendants rushed out with ropes. As the snarling jungle beast appeared ready to spring again, she was transfixed by the blinding flare of spotlights hurriedly flashed on her. The attendants roped her, and a fire hose was turned on other animals making ready to follow the lioness over the barriers.

The animals were part of a jungle act to provide appropriate atmosphere for the entertainment.

Roosevelt Gets Maine Demo Vote

Their next step, if possible, is to win over Senator Joe Robinson, senate leader, who can have Arkansas' 18 votes for the asking. The state committee meets on Friday. A few hints have been thrown out that if Robinson sees the light, he would make an excellent choice for permanent chairman of the convention.

Despite all the "victory" claims of the past few weeks, the Roosevelt supporters view the prospect of a deadlocked convention with heavy hearts. They realize that the most skilled political manipulators in the country, such as Frank Hague of New Jersey, are among his last-ditch opponents. Given a few more than the necessary one-third "veto power" and this group could block Roosevelt forever.

White is an extraordinary vote-getter in Ohio and many Democrats believe he could swing the state on the lower end of the ticket. Although listed for years as a "dry," he recently announced himself in favor of a prohibition referendum.

TAMMANY TO HOLD PRE-CONVENTION CAUCUS

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The all-important question who Tammany and the rest of the New York delegation will support for the Democratic presidential nomination may be determined at a caucus just before the Chicago convention. That is the opinion of no less an authority than John F. Curry, boss of Tammany hall.

The gray-haired, ruddy faced Tammany chief talked political turkey for more than an hour with newspaper men here today, but beyond predicting a Democrat would be the next president, maintained a strict neutrality as between candidates.

He said that Tammany would control the New York delegation, or at least have a majority of the 86 district delegates to be named in the April 5 primary; that the state convention April 20, would adopt a unit rule, and that a caucus at Chicago would decide to whom the delegation of 94 would go. This is the largest block of votes in the convention.

Fred Stone To Appear April 14

Added to a season which has brought to Wichita Falls Billie Burke, Ethel Barrymore, Al Jolson, Doris Kenyon and other celebrities in the artistic world, Fred Stone and his daughter in "Smiling Faces" are to be presented at the Memorial auditorium on Thursday, April 14, by H. C. Cheshire, local booking agent.

Stone has gained a definte hold upon the affections of American theater-goers not only by his unfailing loyalty to the stage, but by dint of a peculiar and appealing personality. His genius has been garbed in the attitude of a "likeable, every-day sort of a fellow," not unlike Will Rogers. His personality conceals, but does not exceed, his capacity as an actor and comedian.

In "Smiling Faces," Stone and his renowned daughter will bring to Wichita Falls one of the musical comedies which already has registered tremendous success in the East. According to Mr. Cheshire, the play will prove the most spectacular booked here since the brilliant "Rose Marie" was shown, five years ago. Fred Stone assumes the role of a motion picture director, establishes location on Long Island. Subsequent place settings include a flying field, a country club, and finally Havana, Cuba.

Besides his daughter Paula, Mr. Stone will be supported by Lotti Loder, Viennese motion picture star, and the Albertina Rasch dancers. The entire company will number about 75 persons.

Reservations now are being made at the Renfro Drug store, or by telephoning 9047.

City Mains 'Taken to Cleaning'

Here's How 'Go-Devil' Does Its Work

Wichita Falls' water distribution system is "being taken to a cleaning."

City employes who have been tearing up small sections of pavement in residential districts recently are not searching for hidden treasure, but are preparing water mains for insertion of the cleaning machine.

Men who may be seen kneeling in the street several blocks away, with heads to the pavement, are not Moslems responding to the call of worship, but are listening intently for the "go-devil" to squirm its way hastily through the water main at those points.

Efforts inaugurated about one year ago to rid the water lines of incrustation are now getting results. The "go-devil," a mighty little tool about 32 inches long, is inserted in a water main. The open end of the pipe behind it is capped tightly. Then the water is turned into the main behind the machine. A sound like an unwinding clock spring, and the go-devil is on its way.

Ten minutes later the other end of the main, three-quarters of a mile away, reveals something like a baby geyser. From the open end of the pipe a flood of water; then as the air which entered with the "go-devil" arrives, a fountain of water high into the air; soon the whirling little device can be heard approaching, and as it leaps from the main, its results already have been demonstrated.

And Out From the Pipe

Dark and rusty sediment, the accumulation of many years, tumbles forth from the main in huge quantities. Incrustation which has attached itself to the pipe walls to the depth sometimes of one inch is thrown out in thousands of pieces the size of a half-dollar. A deep layer of shale forms quickly on the ground under the flowing water. By that time the "go-devil" has been hastened back to the point of entrance, and this time it hurtles through the long main in about eight minutes. Another great discharge of shale and rust and murky sediment. Then a third quick trip, and after a few minutes' flow, the water clears remarkably. The pipe has been cleaned—three-quarters of a mile in about half an hour.

This 30 inches of whirling mechanical efficiency was made recently for the city by the Southern Electric Service company of this city. It consists of two parts, connected about half way by a flexible joint which enables the machine to move through pipe angled to as much as 45 degrees. Two leather flanges, with diameters equal to that of the main to be cleaned, provides locomotion, for the pressure of water against them moves the go-devil rapidly forward. Eight little steel disks on the front unit are set slightly at an angle, so that they run spirally round and round the wall of the pipe. Behind them are steel scrapers also revolving rapidly, and scraping loose the sediment which the sharp disks have cut into small parts. The second unit performs similarly, but is so devised as to revolve in the opposite direction. The result is that the incrustation is cut into small diamond shaped segments which instantly are scraped loose by the blades. The water pressure does the rest. It pours out at the open end of the main.

Big Saving to City

Efforts to increase water pressure here by cleaning out the mains began about a year ago. It was found that a patented tube survey to determine resistance to flow in the mains would cost $1,400—that was the lowest bid received. The city purchased a tube for that purpose for $198, used city employes, made the survey in the line of routine work, and still has the equipment for future use.

Bids for cleaning the mains were asked about one year ago. One bid was received, that from the National Water Main Cleaning company, represented here by A. M. McPherson of this city. It named a price of 11 cents per foot on six-inch mains, with the city to furnish all labor and material. With the equipment now owned by the city, all expense of cleaning six-inch mains amounts to approximately five cents per foot.

About three months ago, bids were asked for cleaning 18,000 feet of 14-inch and 20-inch pipe. The same company offered to do the work for 14 cents per foot, or a total of $2,520, supplying only the machine and superintendent for the work. According to Dr. A. H. Douglass of the city water department, equipment acquired for $450 is now doing the work, and will remain the property of the city.

On the basis of bids received for prospective water main cleaning, it was shown, cleaning of the entire local system would have cost Wichita Falls approximately $50,000 more under contract than it will cost as now being done with the city's own equipment.

Tests made of mains in various parts of the city showed that in many instances their water-carrying capacity had been reduced as much as 60 per cent. Cleaning with the equipment now in use has restored that capacity to approximately 95 per cent of its original efficiency, city officials said. Not only the decreased diameter of mains has impeded the flow of water, but the innumerable projections of rough, irregular masses of accumulated solids on the inner walls has materially checked the movement of water.

Map of Water Lines

Cleaning of the entire city distribution system, it was said, will assure a vast improvement in low-pressure areas, as well as cleaning the water drawn from the mains. Many obstructions of long years' standing have been found already in the inspection of mains, and have been removed. Resistance to water flow also is being removed by the substitution of long-sweeping elbows for sharply angled bends. New valves are being installed at many points, to reduce the size of areas which must be cut off while work is being done on the mains. City officials stated that results already obtained reveal that the entire distribution system should be cleaned at least every five years, and that a complete map of the system in detail is being compiled from the present work to facilitate future conditioning of the mains.

Every effort is being made, Dr. Douglass said, to inconvenience water users as little as possible while the necessary work of cleaning the mains is in progress.

TRUCK LOSES MERCHANDISE

Loss of candy, tobacco and drugs, valued at $25, from a truck between Byers and Wichita Falls Wednesday was reported to police Wednesday night by V. B. Murray of Byers. A reward is offered for recovery of the property, Mr. Murray said.

WANTS WIFE

Muskogee Man Asks Mayor to Find Mate With Money

SANTA ROSA, Calif., March 30. (INS)—Mayor George R. Cadan today blushed, having received a letter from George O. Strand of Muskogee, Okla., who asked the city executive to enact a new role—that of Cupid!

Strand's missive read:

"Dear Mayor: This is leap year and I am lonely for a life mate. So I am seeking your aid to make my wants known to some lonesome woman.

"I am unable to make a fair living with my trades, so please find a woman that can aid me financially.

"My age is 44, look 35. Will marry on short notice."

Oil Attorneys Win Ouster Case Tilt

AUSTIN, March 30. (UP)—Defendant oil company attorneys won their first points in the state's $17,850,000 penalty suit here today when District Judge Moore sustained special exceptions to parts of Attorney General James V. Allred's petition.

Judge Moore ruled out allegations that subsidiary companies had been organized by Standard Oil and Shell Union for the purpose of evading taxes in Texas, an allegation that Standard Oil had previously been fined under the anti-trust act and allegations that a subsidiary organization plan is followed throughout the United States.

Allred said the petition will be amended to omit these allegations.

Other exceptions are to be heard tomorrow.

Unpaid Chicago Employe Shoots Self to Death

CHICAGO, March 30. (UP)—Manassa Hecht, unpaid city employe, shot himself to death tonight on the lower level of Wacker drive, one of the spectacular municipal projects credited with helping Chicago on the road to bankruptcy.

Hecht, secretary of the bureau of water, board of local improvements, was in his office as usual today. When the city hall closed, he walked to the double decked boulevard beside the Chicago river and there sent a bullet through his chest. The coroner was trying to learn whether ill health or financial stringency was the cause of his act. He had not been paid in more than a month.

Poetic Prisoner Freed After Plea for Pardon

CHICAGO, March 30. (UP)—United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker received this today in his mail:

"I am writing this to as a plea.

"I want you to come here and set me free.

"I have to sign a pauper's writ,

"I am broke, no money, not a bit.

"And I will tank you from my heart

"When from this jail I do depart.

"William Rudolph.

"Kane county jail."

Commissioner Walker ordered Poet Rudolph freed from the jail, where he had been held on charges of bootlegging.

Kidnapers Try to Force Information From Negress

PAOLA, Kan., March 30. (UP)—Officers here today sought two men and a woman, alleged to have kidnaped a negro maid employed by Mrs. Jennie Sheldon, wealthy widow, and held her captive four hours in an attempt to make her tell where Mrs. Sheldon kept her money and keys.

The maid, Clarence Austin, told Sheriff Joe Achey the kidnapers abducted her as she left the Sheldon residence, forced her to drive to a country road, and beat her. She refused to divulge any information, she said, and they left her bound and gagged.

SHIP LINES CUT TRAVEL RATES

Reductions From 20 to 50 Per Cent Effective

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Drastic reductions in transatlantic fares, bringing ocean passage to the lowest level since 1914, were announced here today.

The cuts, affecting such prides of the sea as the Leviathan, Bremen, Europa, President Harding and President Roosevelt, range from 20 per cent to 50 per cent.

The United States lines announced reductions of from 20 to 40 per cent to apply immediately. The North German Lloyd line followed immediately by announcing cuts up to 50 per cent, effective April 4, and the Hamburg American announced reductions of approximately 20 per cent effective immediately.

The United States lines, the only large transatlantic line which is not a member of the steamship conference meeting in Brussels today, brought the lowest first class rate for its flagship, the Leviathan, down to $192 compared with the former $265 summer season rate.

John Schroeder, general passenger manager of the North German Lloyd line, said the reduced rates brought the price for a room with bath on "A" deck of the Bremen or Europa, the world's fastest ships, to $290 one way as against $582 previously for one person.

Mr. Schroeder said decrease in travel last year and the fact that advance bookings for 1932 summer travel held out little hope for a large increase led to the reductions.

President Hoover to Wage Campaign For Re-Election From Fishing Lodge

WASHINGTON, March 30. (US)—President Hoover will conduct a large part of his campaign for re-election at his Rapidan fishing lodge in Virginia, it was indicated at the White House today.

The president is already planning an early trip to the camp, probably next week if the weather is favorable, and intends to invite a group of party leaders to be his guests. The trout season opens April 1, and as most of the president's close political advisers are ardent anglers, he plans to hold most of his conferences there.

From the president's viewpoint there are many advantages in making the Rapidan the headquarters for his campaign when he is not in Washington. One is that the camp is so remote he can have any number of persons there with few on the outside being any the wiser.

Still another is the novelty of such a campaign. His campaign orators will be able to say he is too busy directing the affairs of state to absent himself from the capital on a speaking tour. He is expected to make numerous radio addresses, however.

With the possible exception of a trip to California to attend the opening of the Olympic games at Los Angeles July 31, the president's friends say that it is doubtful if he will get any further from Washington than his Virginia camp, 100 miles away.

He expects to go there every week-end and during the period that congress is expected to be in recess during the conventions.

Patman Assails Hoover on Bonus

WASHINGTON, March 30. (US)—The fight for full payment of the soldiers' bonus broke out anew in congress today with Representative Patman, Democrat of Texas and Rankin, Democrat of Mississippi assailing the president's warning yesterday that he would veto bonus legislation.

Both promised they would bend every effort to obtain favorable action. Hearings are expected to be opened before the ways and means committee as soon as the tax bill is out of the way.

Charles Hamilton, senior at Ohio university, paid his way through college by selling 27,000 sandwiches.

CHURCH PLANS DEDICATION

Southern Presbyterians To Celebrate April 10

Opening and dedication of the new First Southern Presbyterian church, scheduled originally for next Sunday, April 3, has been postponed to Sunday, April 10, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor, and James Biggs, chairman of the building committee.

Illness of F. M. Rugeley, who underwent a minor operation at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Tuesday, and a slight delay in building operations account for the postponement of opening ceremonies, it was explained. Mr. Rugeley has been active in the planning and building of the new structure, and is superintendent of the Sunday school of the church.

Work on the building has been under way for one month. The frame building used by the First Southern Presbyterian congregation during the past six years has been converted into a modern brick-veneer building facing on Avenue H.

Services next Sunday morning are to be held in the small auditorium of the Junior college building, Dr. Hall said.

Stockmen Secure Contract To Assure Wool And Mohair Market At Graham

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, March 30.—The North Central Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association has voted to pool its wool and mohair at Graham for marketing purposes.

The Graham Hide and Produce company a bonded warehouse, has agreed to furnish storage facilities at the reasonable cost of one-half cent per pound, which charge also includes an insurance policy against fire, theft and other hazards, as well as all handling charges after storage. National buyers have already agreed to visit Graham and bid on the products, thus insuring San Angelo prices to local producers.

Cost Reduced

The members of the association which include producers from Young, Jack, Archer, Baylor and Throckmorton counties expressed elation over this opportunity to market their wool and mohair at home and thus eliminate the cost of transporting their product to San Angelo, the average cost of which is about one cent per pound. More than five cars have already been pledged. "This amount is sufficient to insure the success of the market," said F. V. Hinson, president of the association.

The contract further provides that all proceeds from the sale of the wool and mohair will be paid directly to holder of the receipt, which will be issued to each producer when he places his product in storage. This precaution will eliminate any chance for losses incurred at other warehouses where the payment is made to the warehouse and the institution becomes defunct.

Sales Committee

Any producer of wool and mohair may avail themselves of these market facilities even though they are not members of the association, according to officials. Each producer, when placing his wool or mohair in storage will be required to list the minimum price he will take for his wool; this will serve as a guide to the sales committee, which is composed of Graham P. Stewart of Graham; E. G. Williamson of Jean; and Bill Johnson of Jacksboro. Each member of this committee has been in the livestock and sheep and goat business for many years and is recognized for his ability as marketers of wool and mohair. Each has large flocks of sheep and goats.

The board of directors of the North Central Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association includes the following men: F. V. Hinson of Graham; W. T. Hightower of Olney; Lewis Johnson of Jacksboro; Gentry Williamson of Jean; Graham P. Stewart of Graham; J. L. Jordan of Jean; Mat Andrews of Jean; D. G. Vick of Murray; Henry Schlittler of Graham.

Port Arthur Woman Tells of Attack of Men

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Mrs. J. C. Kilpatrick, resident of a Port Arthur suburb, was beaten yesterday by four men who halted her automobile on the coast highway near High island.

She said they lined up across the road and forced her to stop. One of them broke the glass of a car window and struck her on the head. She said the blow dazed her but she managed to jump from the car and run down the highway, taking the car keys with her.

She hid in a ditch and watched the men try to start the car. They were unable to do so and walked off down the highway toward Galveston. An hour later a passing motorist brought her to Port Arthur.

SPUDDERS GROOM FOR GAMES HERE AND AT FREDERICK, OKLA.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

The writer wouldn't trade places with Hank Severeid for anything in the world at the present time. All I've got to do is avoid starvation, side-step speeding autos, and swear at late buses, whereas old Hank has to figure out which of those fine young ball players to send home.

That's a hard job. Take the infield, for instance. Green at first, Bejma at second, Scharein at short, and Euller at third are ready to open the season. That's easy. But try to pick your utility man from Art Garbark, Harlan Clift, and Roy Sabine! There's another, Kibbie Gragg, but he has not been in camp long enough to make the impression the other three have.

Garbark is a clean fielder of ground balls, one of the best young infielders in the business. Well, so is Clift. Well, so is Sabine. Garbark is a solid hitter, capable of rattling the boards every now and then. Well, so is Clift, and so, too, is Sabine.

Now then, Hank, it's up to you!

If picking a utility infielder isn't hard enough for you, try the catching problem. You'll find it pretty catchy, too. In fact there's a good chance you'll find the infield worries a snap in comparison.

You have Furman Owens, Walker Taylor, Tom Heath and Jim Powell staring you in the face; Herbert Bryant due in from Florida in a few days; and last but not least, old Hank himself.

Well, Hank shouldn't have much trouble deciding whether he's good enough to make the grade this year. But that's about the only easy problem he's run into since March 1.

As for Owens, et al., they are great fellows. You won't catch this writer trying to say which is the best. That's where Hank gets a chance to show his stuff. We could say without much chance of contradiction that Powell can talk the most and the loudest, while on the field, but that's about as far as we'd like to carry the matter.

As for Bryant, the dope has it that he may stay with the Browns. He wouldn't be missed here. The Spudders could get along quite well with Severeid and Owens, or Taylor, or Heath, or Powell.

"Well, who are we gonna have on the team this year?" is a question asked us about 100,000 times daily. Naturally we would have to make some of the hairline decisions hinted at above in order to answer the question, and since that is not our business we generally beat around the bush with a vague answer to the efect that "They've got some fine looking material down there."

But let's pick a team, sure nuff. This won't be interfering with Skipper Severeid, or anything like that. It's just my idea of a good ball club, selected from players now at hand.

Catchers: Severeid and Owens.

Pitchers: Lester White, Tot Pressnell, Howard Taylor, Marvin Ferrell, Tom Conlan, all righthanders, and Floyd Isekite, left-hander.

Another Prank

The hotel clerk the other day gave one of the Spudder rookies an undertaker's phone number, told him to dial it, and ask for M. T. Graves.

Good Old Days

Some baseball yarns are immortal; you can drag them out every other day and they seem as full of life and humor as on the day they were first told, or enacted.

Of this brand belongs that one about the time a Houston player, in a bitter game at Spudder park, hopped on Catcher Pete Lapan. The Buff banged old Pete on first one ear and then the other, and the Spudder backstop was getting more than the worst of it until local club officials rushed out and stopped the battle.

In the clubhouse later Pete was talking to Secretary Airey. "Guy," he said, "It sure is a good thing you stopped us, or I'd a killed him."

Another one is about John King, the ump.

It was when King played with Midland of the old West Texas league, Airey recalls. John strode to bat one day and was greeted by a hoot from the grandstand.

"Aw John King, you old ——, you can't hit!" hooted the fan.

John promptly blazed one down the right field foul line. It looked like a clean double and John turned back to shout at his razzer, "Well, you ——, who said John King couldn't hit!"

But he had no more than said this when he stumbled and fell, and the right fielder threw him out at first.

60 Teams Entered In Pin Tourney

Sixty bowling teams have already entered the state bowling tournament to be held in Wichita Falls, April 9-24, assuring members of the local association that more than 300 team members will be guests of the city for the event.

Report of entries was made at a meeting of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce sports and recreation committee Wednesday afternoon at the offices in the Hamilton building.

Enlistment of 20 local teams to enter the tournament was set as a maximum goal for the local committee.

Chisox Send Pair To Buffalo Club

SHREVEPORT, La., March 30. (UP)—Manager Lew Fonseca of the Chicago White Sox tonight announced that Pitcher Joe Bartulis and Infielder Jack Ryan had been sent to the Buffalo International league team on option. Bartilus was a junior at the University of Illinois when he signed with the Sox. Ryan, signed after he had captained Holy Cross baseball team in 1930, was with Atlanta last year.

WIND PREVENTS CAMP CONTEST

Hank to Send Second Team Against Demons Sunday

All hopes for either a Columbus series here or a St. Paul series in Mineral Wells were erased yesterday, but Manager Hank Severeid carried those little cares lightly on his shoulders in the face of added grief in the form of a new threat of cold weather.

Despite the cold, high wind, Severeid ordered a brief workout so the squad may be in proper condition for three games definitely on the books for this week-end. On Saturday and Sunday the St. Paul club will be here, and on the latter day a second Spudder team will journey to Frederick, Okla., to meet the Des Moines Demons, who are training there.

Secretary Airey said Wednesday that Columbus hotel reservations here had been canceled, and this was taken to mean the Red Birds had no intention of playing even one game here. It had been hoped they would split the Fort Worth series, opening today and lasting through Friday, in order to give the Spudders one game. Originally they had planned to divide the squad and have teams both in Fort Worth and Wichita Falls the three days, but sickness and injuries among the players wrecked the plan.

As a substitute, a series with the St. Paul club in Mineral Wells was proposed, but Airey said this plan, also, had hit the rocks.

Severeid planned a camp game for Wednesday, but the temperature lowered and the wind velocity jumped just in time to prevent that, too.

Truly, the breaks weren't what they orta be.

Nevertheless, things could have been a lot worse. Although disagreeable, the weather didn't prevent a lusty batting practice lasting about two hours, and a fielding drill of equal length, both of which started at noon. Continued chilly weather, of course, would be a serious matter with the athletes, all of whom are in the pink of condition after two weeks of perfect training weather.

Hank hoped for warmer weather today, and once again hatched plans for a camp game in the event those hopes were borne out.

Radical Changes In Basket Ball Rules Suggested

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP)—Armed with mild to radical rule change proposals, designed to eliminate stalling and speed up the game, scores of the nation's master minds of amateur basket ball gathered in Chicago tonight for their annual meeting and rule clinic.

Almost to a man, the coaches, representing universities, colleges and high schools, were agreed stalling must be stopped, but many of them were at odds on just what method should be employed to do it.

Probably the most popular anti-stalling proposal would make life just a little more dangerous for the referee by allowing him to call for a "held" ball whenever he decided one team was not trying to score. One proposal would have him call a "held" ball whenever a player held the ball for five seconds in the back court even though he might be closely guarded; another would jump the time limit from 5 to 30 seconds.

Dr. James Naismith, the man credited with originating the hardwood game, favored a 30-second limit.

Dr. Naismith also proposed that when a player makes a field goal from a position beyond the furtherest forward player of the opposing team, it should count four instead of the regulation two points. He also would prohibit more than a certain number of players from going into the back court when the ball is in their offensive territory.

Coach Walter Meanwell of Wisconsin had probably the most radical of all suggestions to place before the meeting. He proposed to make all free throws at the end of each half and to use the principle of cancellation. That is, if two teams are awarded the same number of free throws during the half, none would be tried for.

Dempsey-Stribling Bout At Atlanta Considered

DETROIT, Mich., March 30. (US)—A Dempsey-Stribling fight in Atlanta, Ga., is under consideration, Leonard Sacks, Dempsey's manager, said here today.

Sacks admitted that "Pa" Stribling, Young Stribling's manager, had approached him on the subject of a bout and that there was a possibility that it might be held in Atlanta where Stribling as well as Dempsey would be a fine drawing card.

Dempsey's exhibition tour, however, officially ends here tomorrow night in his match against Babe Hunt.

"After this match," said Sacks, "he will go to Reno for a rest to be followed by intensive training in preparation for a major fight. There is a possibility, though, that the Atlanta bout will be arranged."

High School Golfers In Tournament Saturday

Golfers of the Wichita Falls High school will cross niblicks on the Weeks Park Golf course Saturday morning in the first student tournament of the season, Bill Morris, school athletic director in charge of the meet announced.

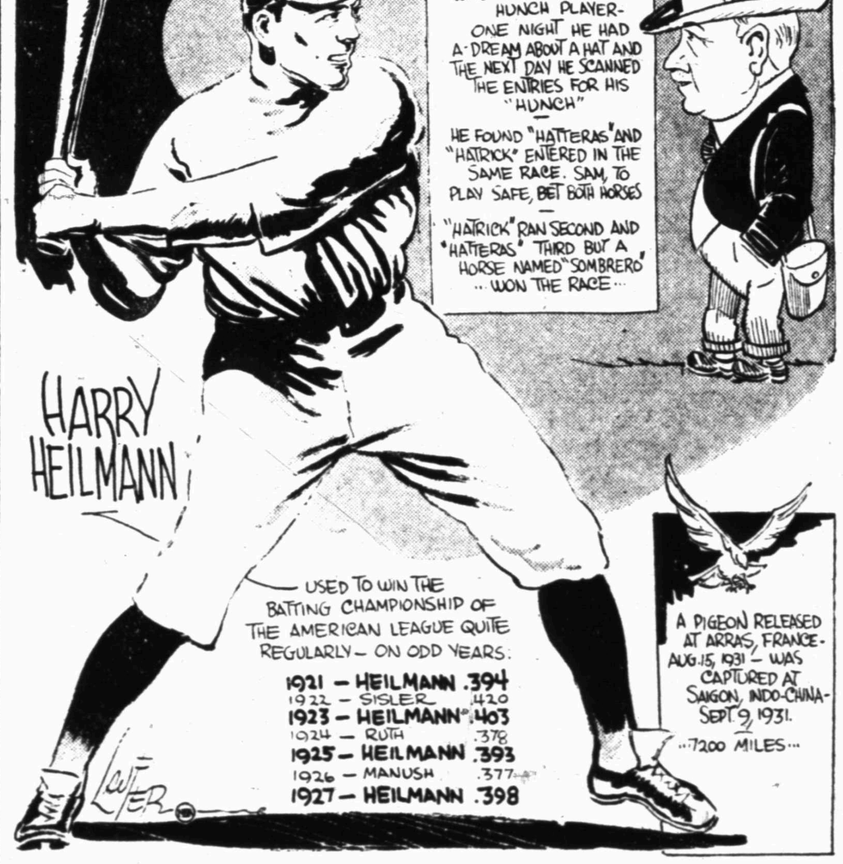

Drawings were completed yesterday with 18 entries, but additional entries will be accepted until Friday. Entrants should submit their names to Norvan Presley by that date, it was announced.

First round pairings were announced as follows: Jasper McBride vs. James Hill, Dan Lundien vs. Norvan Presley, H. R. Hanks vs. Harvey Breaux, R. K. Smith vs. Isidore Wolfson, Larry Mundy vs. Virgil Stengel, Steve Powers vs. Delmont Chism, Rufus King vs. Guy Underwood, Tommy Durkin vs. J. G. Dixon, and R. J. Boyd vs. Charles Veros.

FORT WORTH CATS

DALLAS STEERS

DALLAS, March 30. (AP)—Cold weather prohibited the scheduled game today between the Dallas Steers and Rochester Redwings. Both clubs worked out, but Manager Morse of Dallas and Pilot Southworth of Rochester decided to delay the opening game of the series until tomorrow.

Zeke Bonura, first baseman; Rip Radcliff, right fielder, Bernie James, second baseman, and Cecil Stewart, second baseman, worked out today after a few days of taking it easy due to sore arms and charley horses.

Manager Morse plans to pitch Fuhr and Whitehead against the Redwings tomorrow.

SAN ANTONIO WINS

SAN ANTONIO, March 30. (AP)—Speed on the base paths proved an Indian trait in the game with the 46th squadron of Randolph field in League park this afternoon, which was won by the Tribe, 17 to 1. The Indians stole nine bases.

The Tribe was in prime batting form in the second inning when eight hits blazed the way for nine runs.

Outfielder John Zaepfel's sprained ankle responded promptly to treatment and he was in the game for five innings.

Second Baseman Ray Flaskamper was carried off the field with a sprained ankle in the sixth inning when he went into second base on a drive to center field.

BUFFALO 3, BROWNS 1

BRAVES 11, CARDS 9

YANKS 2, BEARDS 0

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., March 30. (AP)—With Johnny Murphy, former Fordham university star, pitching three-hit ball, the New York Yankees defeated the House of David 2 to 0 today. It was the Yankees' final game of the season in Florida and their 11th victory in 16 starts. Babe Ruth took a day off to rest his stiff neck.

GALVESTON BUCS

GALVESTON, March 30. (AP)—Rain chased the Galveston Buccaneers indoors here today and Manager Del Pratt turned the practice period into a two-hour skull practice in the clubhouse.

The Bucs leave Saturday morning for a two-day stand in Houston against the Buffaloes.

SHREVEPORT SPORTS

SHREVEPORT, La., March 30. (AP)—Rain washed out today's game between the White Sox and Shreveport, so Manager Lew Fonseca held skull practice. Pitcher Joe Bartulis and Infielder Johnny Ryan were sent to the Buffalo club of the International league on option.

TEXAN BEATS GEORGE LOTT

Tennis Star Loses Match At Houston

HOUSTON, March 30 (AP)—George Lott of Chicago, seeded No. 2, was eliminated early tonight from the second annual Houston invitation tennis tournament, by Karl Kamrath of Texas university, 6-4, 7-5.

It was an upset almost as startling as that of late yesterday when Ellsworth Vines, national singles champion and seeded No. 1 in the tournament, was defeated by Martin Buxby, a Texas university sophomore.

Wilmer Allison of Texas, seeded No. 3; Gilbert Hall of New York, seeded No. 4, and Junior Coen of Kansas City, seeded No. 5, remained in the tournament.

Allison advanced to the quarter finals by winning two matches during the afternoon, from David Peden of Texas university, 6-0, 6-1, and from Doc Barr of Dallas, 6-1, 6-2.

Hall had to go three sets to enter the third round, defeating Sterling Williams, Texas university, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Coen did not play in singles today, having advanced to the third round yesterday.

Others who reached the quarter-finals with Allison were Jimmy Quick of Dallas, who beat Buxby, Vines' conqueror, 6-3, 6-0; and Kamrath, whose first victory today was over John McDairmid of Fort Worth, 6-1, 6-4. Quick advanced to the third round yesterday, in the first day of play.

INFRACTION OF RULE CHARGED

State Committee Delivers Verdict at Austin

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—Cisco High school today was suspended by the state executive committee from participating in football games sponsored by the Texas Interscholastic league next fall.

The action was taken by the state committee on recommendation of the district No. 3 football committee. Cisco was charged by Breckenridge with having used an ineligible player, Fred Hightower, in a game with Breckenridge last fall. The game was thrown out by the district committee. Hightower was alleged to have played at Cisco within 30 days of his transfer from Tyler.

"Upon recommendation of the district No. 3 football executive committee and after investigation, the state executive committee has suspended Cisco in football for 1932," Roy B. Henderson, athletic director for the league stated following an extended meeting of the committee.

The suspension will not apply to Cisco's participation in other interscholastic league activities.

JEFFERIES QUIET ON CISCO CASE

Ted L. Jefferies, who coached the Cisco High school team last year and who recently was named head coach here to succeed Barry Holton, refused last night to comment on reports the Cisco school had been banished from football competition in the interscholastic league next fall.

Jefferies is here in connection with the Coyotes' spring training activities. He expects to be here the remainder of the week.

Harrold Girls Defeat Electra Tigerettes

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, March 30.—The Harrold High school girls' basket ball team defeated the Electra Tigerettes, 31-17, at the local gymnasium Tuesday night. The Harrold girls are Wilbarger county champions and the Electra girls have only played two or three times since Wichita county does not sponsor girls' basket ball. The Electra girls put up a great scrap, but Harrold's experience edged them out. The girls are to play a return game at Harrold Thursday night.

The lineups: Harrold, Gootche, Janson, forwards; Lemmon and Phipps, centers; A. Gladden and Wolf, guards; Arnold and L. Gladden, substitutes. Electra, Chesher, Cloninger, forwards; Jones, Dees, centers; Boutwell, McClure, Brashear, guards; Greer, forward; Bryan and Shepherd, substitute. Miss Lucy B. Whiteside, former Electra High athlete and a former student of C. I. A., served as referee.

Football, Baseball And Boxing To Bear Brunt Of Admissions Tax

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—American sports led by football, baseball and boxing, figure to contribute close to $10,000,000 toward balancing the 1932 national budget, under provisions of the bill adopted by the house today for a 10 per cent tax on all athletic admissions over 46 cents.

College football, heretofore exempt from taxation, will be the heaviest single contributor. Even with a prospective shrinkage in gate receipts and school games exempted, the gridiron sport figures, all told, to collect from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 at the turnstiles and pay an approximate total tax of $2,500,000.

Other college sports, with exception of basket ball and some of the big classics such as the Harvard-Yale and Poughkeepsie regattas and the intercollegiate championship meets, do not collect much in the way of gate receipts.

On the basis of last year's major league baseball receipts, which were close to $10,000,000 and also untaxed, the American and National league clubs would contribute another $1,000,000 in taxes.

Minor league baseball figures can only be speculated upon but probably another million would be derived from this source.

Boxing, curiously enough, figures to benefit from the new tax program, especially so far as the buyer of the high priced tickets and the promoter are concerned. This would result from the general application of a 10 per cent federal tax in place of the present graduated levy of 10 per cent on $3 to $5 tickets and 25 per cent on all tickets costing more than $5.

"The new tax bill will hit the pocketbooks of the boys who sit in the galleries or other cheap seats, while benefiting the ringside patron," said a representative of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

From tennis and golf the benefits to the public treasury on a 10 per cent tax basis would be comparatively negligible.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—The better feeling which developed in cotton yesterday on budget developments in Washington was in evidence again today and prices were generally higher.

Buying was encouraged by reports of continued light offerings in the South, relatively steady Liverpool cables and the firmer tone of the grain market. May contracts sold up to 6.33 in the late trading and closed at 6.32. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 19 to 22 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 to 8 points on covering and trade buying promoted by the relative steadiness of the English market.

The best prices of the day were reached in the late trading with July selling at 6.50 and October at 6.27. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the best, with May contracts showing a recovery of 21 points from the low level of yesterday.

The weekly government weather report said farm work in the southern states was active, though interrupted in the last day or two by heavy rains in a few sections, especially in the northern belt.

Liverpool cables reported covering and buying there promoted by the lower sterling and said there was a little improvement in the demand for cotton cloths and yarns. Exports today 23,088 making 6,832,067 so far this season. Port receipts 14,974. U. S. port stocks 4,939,974.

Futures closed very steady, 19 to 22 points higher. Spot steady; middling, 6.40.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 30. (AP)—Although trading was only moderately active in cotton today, prices fluctuated somewhat broadly. After advancing 13 to 14 points in the first half of the morning on good cables, a firm opening of stocks and some buying in anticipation of an early passage of the tax measure by congress, prices eased off 9 to 10 points from the highs owing to a reaction in stocks and realizing. The market rallied again sharply in the late afternoon and shorts were run in. Prices made new highs for the day 14 to 15 points above the lows and the close was steady and at the top showing net gains for the day of 17 to 19 points.

The market opened very steady. Liverpool cabled that there was local and foreign buying in that market as well as covering on lower sterling exchange. Manchester cabled that there was little improvement in cloth and yarn buying.

Prices made new highs for the day at 6.34 for May 6.50 for July and 6.71 for October or 14 to 15 points up from the lows.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans 3 to 4 penny points up.

Port receipts 13,842, for week 62,940, for season 9,066,347, last season 8,484,850. Exports 23,088, for week 92,690, for season 6,707,619, last season 5,424,270. Port stock 4,436,356, last year 3,834,919. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 163,145, last year 111,174. Spot sales at southern markets 7,874; last year 6,856.

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today. Meetings are being held looking toward a further restriction of production due to light consumption. Dull acetate rayon is in moderate demand. Burlaps held about steady on small sales. Small lines of faal wool goods for women's wear are being shown. Silks continued quiet. Official figures issued during the day showed a substantial decline in sales in February compared with a year ago.

Markets Sway Between Influence Of Budget And Technical Factors

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 30. (US)—Greater calmness prevailed in the securities markets today, although it is an open question which was the greater influence, brighter prospects for balancing the national budget or purely technical factors.

It is an indisputable fact, however, that the display of more sober treatment of the national fiscal problems by congress in itself induced somewhat greater cheer.

At the same time, the sharp imposts established on particular industries naturally caused some misgivings as to the effect on these trades. A heavy tax in times of depression can hardly stimulate buying, but in its anxiety for any means of balancing the budget the market accepted the latest tax proposals as possibly inaugurating a new era in congressional attitude.

The influence of technical factors in today's market, however, should not be overlooked. Tomorrow will mark the last day of "free lending" of stocks; that is, hereafter, brokers will be required to have specific approval from customers before they can lend the customers' shares.

Some nervousness over a possible temporary squeeze of shorts has already induced the larger bears to reduce their short commitments substantially, but of course there is constant short-selling and day-to-day short trading which serves to maintain the total bear account. According to brokers, the short interest probably has been reduced of late.

The new ruling probably will cause some confusion within the brokerage ranks, but the best information is to the effect that it hardly will cause much embarrassment to shorts, except in closely-held issues. The necessity for readjusting themselves to the new state of affairs, however, may be responsible for some "calling" of loaned stock and until the shifts are completed the market may temporarily reflect this condition.

It would seem from today's stock action that those issues which have been popularly classified as "favorite short-sales" were beginning to feel the effects of the necessary adjustments.

Premiums for borrowing such stocks as Steel Common, Allied Chemical and Westinghouse, along with American Telephone, Royal Dutch, American Can, Eastman Kodak, Steel Preferred, Western Union, Kreuger & Toll, People's Gas, Allis Chalmers, Case, Goodyear, International Harvester and American Foreign Power, all were increased.

Except for Case, all of these stocks represented large capitalizations which should provide ample borrowing supply once the month-end adjustments are effected.

The entire list, however, was stimulated somewhat by the firmness of the leaders. Westinghouse closed up a fraction despite reduction in its dividend to 25 cents quarterly. Perhaps some covering came in on bear disappointment that the rate was not entirely omitted, as widely predicted.

Steel rallied almost a point net, which was difficult to understand on fundamentals since the preferred dipped to a new low before rallying.

Telephone, which harbors an extensive bear account, rallied two points more.

Goodyear tire was a weak feature, dropping almost two points net on knowledge that the common dividend was omitted at a meeting on Monday, the outcome of which was not heretofore announced.

The oils as a group became active and stronger, under leadership of Standard of New Jersey.

Although Washington developments continue to dominate external news, the market for the time being is primarily concerned with the effects of the new short-lending policy of the stock exchange.

It is likely, according to some observers, that brokers' loans may be somewhat expanded as a result of the restricted lending, but all such comments are pure conjecture, pending more definite portrayal of the public's continued attitude toward lending of stocks. It may be that many "privileges" to lend stock may be rescinded.

The market, too, was deeply concerned over the Washington proposals to impose a stiff tax on transactions. The effect of this may be to restrict speculative activity.

The bond market firmed on the Washington news.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP)—Assertions that western Kansas and adjoining territory would not produce half as much wheat as last year gave brisk upturns to grain prices late today.

It was contended favorable conditions from now on would be needed to result even that well. The region referred to had a 1931 harvest of more than 200,000,000 bushels, but rapidly increasing complaints of crop damage focused attention on apparent likelihood of big losses.

Wheat closed stronger, contrasting sharply with earlier setbacks, and at ⅛@1⅛ cent above yesterday's finish, with corn ⅛@⅝c up, oats ¼@⅜c advanced and provisions unchanged to 7 cents down.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat.

Provisions slanted downward with hog values.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, March 30. (US)—Local wheat bulls turned aggressive buyers in the late trading today. Confidence on the buying side was increased by broadening of outside interest. Recently the failure of buying to follow any bulges has discouraged active support from bulls, bringing buying only on the dips.

German farm stocks of rye on Feb. 15 were 65,400,000 bushels, but it is thought that around 30,000,000 bushels will have to be imported Broomhall says. Inasmuch as the crop in Poland was short this season there will be little available from that source.

Imports into China during January included 3,000,000 bushels of wheat, of which 72 per cent came from the United States, and 410,000 barrels of flour, of which about 75 per cent was of American origin, according to a cablegram from the American commercial attache in Shanghai.

World's available supplies of wheat decreased 2,741,000 bushels during the past week, Bradstreets reports.

U. S. BUREAU FILES REPORT

37 Texas-Okla. Counties Show Big Increase

Thirty-seven Southern Oklahoma and North Texas counties in the Wichita Falls area ginned 1,006,534 bales in the 1931 season, according to the preliminary report by counties released by the department of commerce, through the census bureau. The 1931 total compares favorably with the 1930 total of 536,826 bales.

All counties showed substantial gains over the previous year, a check of the report reveals. The leading Texas county of the area in point of production is Lubbock with 72,172 bales as compared to 33,871 in 1930. Production honors for the district go to Tillman county, Oklahoma, with a production of 72,705 bales in 1931 as compared with 39,956 in the 1930 season.

Wichita county production totaled 21,183 bales for 1931, an increase of approximately 7,000 bales over the 1930 season of 13,549 bales.

FORD V-8 ON DISPLAY TODAY

Many Improvements Made In New Model

Wichitans will be given their first introduction to the new V-8 Ford automobile at a public showing Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at the showrooms of Northwest Motors Inc., Manager C. T. Boone announced late Wednesday. Two hundred cities of the United States will be given opportunity to view the new product at the same time. A detailed description of the new car has been released but no mention has been made of the price.

With a brake horse power of 65, the V-8 is described as capable of 75 miles an hour, and embodying a number of new features, including a silent synchronized gear shift, down draft carburetor, carburetor silencer, automatic spark control and a diaphragm pump drawing fuel from a tank in the rear.

The car is described as larger, with double acting hydraulic shock absorbers, flexible transverse cantilever springs and a newly designed rear spring mounted to permit a lower frame and body height. Other standard features include rounded roof lines, large cowl ventilator, oval instrument panel and inside sunvisors.

The engine is described as of the 90-degree V-type having an S A E rating of 30 horsepower, developing 65 brake horsepower at 3,400 revolutions per minute. The 65-pound crankshaft is of the 90-degree type, with its four cranks at right angles to each other.

The only reference to price was contained in the statement that "while the V-8 will sell at low price field figures, the 'four' will sell for still less."

A new four cylinder car of 50 horsepower also will be presented, capable of 65 miles an hour. The two cars will differ only in engines, it was stated and 14 body types will be offered of streamline design.

NEW EIGHT TO SELL $460 TO $650

DETROIT, March 30. (UP)—Prices on the new Ford eight and four-cylinder automobiles were announced tonight by Henry Ford.

The new V-8 will sell from $460 to $650. The four-cylinder car will sell $90 less than the eight on each of the 14 corresponding models. The chassis of the eight will sell at $370.

Ford's Statement

"These are the cars and these are the prices," Ford said in a prepared statement. "I think it will be granted that when an eight-cylinder car can be bought for the price of a four, and in some cases less, I am justified in saying that these are low prices. No profit can be expected from them unless we attain a certain volume of production. Naturally we hope to attain sufficient volume to keep these prices as low as they now are.

"A man asked me this morning if I thought the present system of doing business was going to last. I told him that since commerce and civilization depended on the manufacture and exchange of goods I was willing to manufacture and exchange under any system. The only bad system I know is one that interferes with men working and exchanging what they make. We are just one concern doing our best to start business under present conditions. Other manufacturers are directing their efforts to the same public good.

Gives Views

"I think there is field enough for any article worth the money. There are just two permanent satisfactions in business for me—one is designing and making a useful commodity, and the other is the jobs thus created.

"If you do one, the other naturally follows. I don't think it possible to separate them. It seems to me a waste of time to have to urge people to buy in this country. That is not the manufacturer's business anyway. His business is to make something so good at a price so low they cannot help buying."

Four C-C Committees Announce Meetings

Four committees of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce are scheduled to meet this week in handling details of scheduled programs.

The civic activity group will meet Friday with Chairman J. L. Jackson, Jr., in charge for planning enlistment of various groups in the annual spring cleanup program, April 3-9.

The committee will seek coordination of the American Legion, U. S. department of labor employment service office here, women's organizations and other groups in developing use of the legion man-a-block plan in a community wide drive to beautify the city during the cleanup week.

Chairman Julian Montgomery has called a meeting of the trade area development service at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Chairman Edgar Mann has announced a meeting of the taxation committee at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The hour will be announced later for a meeting Friday morning of the business council program committee, with Grover Bullington, chairman, to outline programs for the remaining council luncheons prior to the summer holiday period, starting July 1.

Curlee Criticizes Nelson; Claims 'Pressure' To Keep Him Out Of Race

Criticism of Mayor Walter Nelson's leadership in the Wichita Falls gas fight, and defense of the gas rate approved in 1920 when he was a member of the city council, was voiced by W. S. Curlee in a statement issued Wednesday. Mr. Curlee is opposing Mayor Nelson in the city election set April 5.

Mr. Curlee declares in his statement that he would not be in the race "except for the present council bringing pressure to keep me from running." His statement follows:

"Upon my return from a business trip to West Texas I find that my statement given to the press some days ago has had the result of bringing Mayor Nelson out in the open. His answer to my comments on the position he placed the city in with the railroad commission in regard to securing a reduction in our gas rates was to cite my action while I was a member of the city council in 1920. Over a week ago Mr. Nelson was circulating the statement that I had been responsible for the raise in the gas rates and had certain individuals carrying copies of the ordinance around to show to the voters.

Defends Old Gas Rate

"I am proud of my action at that time. No man who could claim to represent the citizens, as I have always done, could have done otherwise. Every one who was living in Wichita Falls in the winter of 1919-20 will recall the gas situation at that time. There was a totally inadequate supply, people were cooking on electric hot plates and were warming their houses with coal and wood stoves. The Petrolia field, which was the source of supply for gas, was fast becoming exhausted. It was necessary that an additional supply be secured. Due to the oil boom we had grown from a town of 10 or 15 thousand to a city of more than 40,000, and it was imperative that some action be taken to provide for extra population.

"Every effort was made during the summer of 1920 to secure an adequate supply of gas. The people were insistent in their demands that something be done to prevent the hardships they had undergone during the previous winter. It was found that an additional supply could be secured from Oklahoma, but at a considerably higher rate to the gas company than from the Petrolia field. To compensate the gas company for this increase in price and to allow them to make necessary extensions in the city, at a high cost for labor and material an increase in the rate to consumers to 75c per thousand cubic feet was allowed.

"This was a very low rate at that time, probably one of the lowest in the state. Gas was cheap then at 75 cents, for then eggs were selling at 60 cents per dozen; now they can be had at five cents per dozen. Common labor received five to seven dollars per day; carpenters received eight to 10 dollars per day; bricklayers received $15 per day or more; railroad men were drawing good wages. A five-room house rented for $75 per month and up, now a five-room house can be had from $10 to $15 per month. A five-room house sold for $7,500 and up, now there is no market. At that time the present mayor cared nothing about gas rates; he was wearing knee pants and going to school. Now he is criticizing the men who helped make the city he is living in.

"If Mr. Nelson could increase the income of our citizens to that of 1920 and put our unemployed to work, there would probably be but slight objection to the 75 cent gas rate. Let him tell what he would have done if he had been mayor in 1920, with the people facing a cold winter and no gas.

"Prssure" Brought

"Referring again to our gas situation: The mayor said more than a year ago that nothing could be done; he was right, in that nothing has been done, despite the constant demand of the people that some action be taken to relieve them of the burdens of a high gas rate. The council at the last election promised that they would do everything in their power to alleviate the situation. I asked the voters of the city to support the members of the council and to give them another opportunity to work out the situation and, in that letter through the public press, promised that I would not let them forget their promise to the voters, if they were elected. More than eight months ago I asked members of the council to take up with other public utilities the matter of rate reduction. As a result, the council has secured an agreement with the light company to reduce the cost of current for power and street lights, which will probably save from eight to 10 thousand dollars per year. The agreement was reached quite a while ago, but the mayor has withheld the announcement for political purposes, expecting to spring it only a day or two before election and secure credit which he hopes will result in his being again elected. This is on a par with his recent activities in the justice of the peace court, where he secured much publicity, but, as far as results to the people are concerned, amounts to just nothing.

"I do not particularly want to be mayor; in fact, I would not now be a candidate had it not been for the action of the present council in bringing pressure to prevent me from running, but (I promise) if I should be elected the public will know what is going on that affects their welfare and promise that, for once the small home-owners and the working man will have representation on the city council.

CHARTER FOR FIESTA SOUGHT

11 Committees Authorized For Celebration

General plans for celebration of the city's golden jubilee anniversary Sept. 26-28, were thoroughly discussed at an executive committee meeting Wednesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices in the Hamilton building. General Chairman Walter D. Cline was in charge of the session.

President Albert E. Kelly of the chamber of commerce formally turned over all jubilee details to the committee and the group will be known as "The Wichita Falls 50th Anniversary Celebration association." Application for a state charter as a non-profit organization will be made at once with Leslie Humphrey in charge of the details.

Members of the executive committee were authorized to name 11 committees to handle various phases of the jubilee program and appointments will be discussed and duplications in committee work will be ironed out at a meeting of the executive group Wednesday, April 6.

The 11 groups included finance, housing, publicity, western sports and cowboy entertainment, rodeo, reception of pioneers, historical exhibits, parades, music and pageants, decorations and registration of pioneers.

Members of the committee present Wednesday were Mr. Cline, A. E. Kelly, Leslie Humphrey, B. D. Donnell, R. E. Huff, Lester Jones, J. B. Marlow, Horrace Robbins, R. E. Shepherd, Marvin Smith and T. J. Waggoner Jr.

Optimists Told of Anniversary Plans

Tentative plans for the celebration of this city's 50th birthday anniversary on Sept. 26-28 were outlined before members of the Optimist club Wednesday by Walter D. Cline, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee in charge of the event.

Mr. Cline told of the committee organization which has been effected to complete detailed arrangements for the "golden jubilee" celebration here. Plans for the three-day fete call for several parades, sunrise prayer services, evening addresses by nationally known speakers, a track and field meet, rodeo, and street dances, according to the speaker.

Mr. Cline urged the necessity of all local citizens cooperating with the committee in planning an affair which will be of state-wide interest.

Officers elected recently for the ensuing year are to be installed at a buffet dinner and dance to be held at the country club on the night of April 19, according to Solon R. Featherston, chairman of the committee in charge. Ray Nichols, publisher of the Vernon Record, will be the principal speaker.

Hank Severeid, new Spudder manager, and all members of his team are to be guests of the Optimist club next Wednesday, April 6, it was announced. Homer Bennett will have charge of the program.

L. E. Stone presided over the meeting Wednesday.
