Legislator 'subs' as Central teacher

State Rep. Steve Carriker of Roby served as a substitute teacher at Central Elementary Wednesday after accepting an invitation to teach from Principal Charles Anderson

Anderson said he offered the invitation to several other state legislators included Gov. Mark White. Of the invitations extended, only Carriker — now in his second two-year term — accepted.

Carriker is now seeking his third term as representative for the 78th District and is opposed for that post by Danny Hunter of Roscoe, a former Western Texas College student now enrolled at Texas Tech.

Carriker's tenure as a substitue teacher will be "pretty much like everyone else's," Anderson said Tuesday, although Carriker will be offering teaching sessions at a variety of rooms.

Otherwise, he will be following a regular schedule throughout the day — beginning with breakfast duty Wednesday morning.

The first class he was to teach was the kindergarten class of Florence Lewis.

He will then "sub" in Rudy Gutierrez's third grade bilingual class for reading. Another reading class will follow with Kathy Moore's first graders.

Carriker's day was to include lunchroom duty, followed by a "duty-free" lunch period as guaranteed under provisions of House Bill 72.

During the afternoon, he was to teach language to Billie Walker's second graders. Next he will talk to the combined six grade classes.

During the afternoon, Carriker was also to teach reading to Wanda Hudgins' fourth graders. After a short break, he will teach science to fifth graders in Ann Uptergrove's class.

Carriker was to tour the building at the end of the day and be guest of honor at a reception sponsored by the teachers following the close of school.

Oil prices tighten SACROC budget

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

MIDLAND — SACROC's 25th annual report to its working interest owners here Tuesday profiled the unitized field as a highly profitable venture now facing the spectre of a substantial decline in its net income during 1986.

This decline would be as a result of the recent dramatic downturn in the price of oil.

Noting this, however, the field's operation is still projected to net in excess of $134 million in income this year — a projection based upon $20 per barrel oil.

During the past 12-month period — a time when West Texas intermediate oil held at $27.50 per barrel — SACROC noted a net income in excess of $348 million.

With $20 "or less" prices now on the horizon, the net income estimated Tuesday would equal a 61 percent reduction from 1985's operation.

While declines in both overall profit and production were singled out Tuesday, SACROC officials still pointed to the field's projected future through the year 2000.

The "best guess" estimate now offered for remaining crude in SACROC's Canyon Reef formation is some 80 million barrels — some 63 million barrels related to the injection of C02.

At the time of its discovery, the field was projected to contain in excess of 2.1 billion barrels. The amount of oil pumped from it to date totals almost 1.2 billion barrels or 54.7 percent.

The reports and projections offered during the morning session indicated the Chevron-operated unit is also reassessing its immediate operation plans in light of the recent drops in oil prices.

Initial preparation of the annual report included a projected 10 infill wells to be drilling during 1986. "Now," SACROC Superintendent John Daniel told the gathering, "It will be hard to justify these at $20 (a barrel) or less oil."

The unit's annual operating budget was also pared down from an initial estimate of some $184 million to the current projection of $160 million — a total which includes both capital expenditures and operating costs.

This will place 1986's budget some $7 million below the total spent during 1985.

But with the reduced profit predictions for 1986, Daniel noted early on that 1985 was "a very good year for SACROC."

With the year's production holding at some 17.4 million barrels, this equaled $20 net income for every barrel produced.

For 1986, the production totals are expected to be down, estimated Tuesday from 1985's total of 50,000 barrels per day to some 37,000 barrels.

The reduction in oil produced will come from a combination of dwindling supply in the Canyon Reef formation and an increase in the number of wells "shut-in" at the field — a change caused also by the "economics" of oil

Audit work gains okay

Scurry County Appraisal District board members accepted an audit proposal and agreed to a request for oil royalty labels during their regular monthly session Tuesday.

Board members unanimously approved a bid allowing CPA Jerry Vestal to perform audit services covering 1985 operations.

Although the bid was opened during the board's Feb. 4 meeting, no action was taken at that time pending clarification of the audit's cost. With cost set at $2,500, Vestal's proposal included a provision for cost overruns.

Members asked for clarification of that provision to include a cost ceiling.

In a written reply to the board, Vestal said his maximum fee will be $2,500 unless unexpected situations arise. Examples would include evidence of misappropriation of funds or a "significant deterioration" from last year in the district's accounting records.

4th candidate files for WTC position

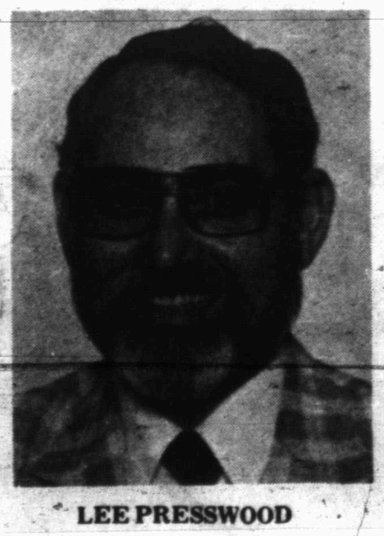

Wednesday morning, a fourth candidate surfaced for the Western Texas College board of trustees — Lee Presswood, a vice principal at Snyder High School.

The deadline to file for two places with expiring positions on the board is Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Presswood, who also sought a college board seat two years ago, filed for place four, the position now held by incumbent Bob Hargrove.

The other incumbent with an expiring seat is Howard Sterling in place three. Both incumbents have indicated they will seek a new four-year term.

Thomas Aishman has signed up for the place three seat also.

Q. — After a divorce, at what age can a child legally choose which parent or guardian they wish to live with?

A. — A child can specify which parent to the court, but until they reach age 18 this preference is not legally binding and the court still has the final say. The Texas family code states a child age 14 or older may designate the parent they prefer as their "custodian." Again, however, this is not binding to the court, which may still rule in favor of the other parent. After age 18, the child is considered an adult and no longer under court supervision.

Injured man disputes findings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Sirhan, convicted of the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, says a summary of police files kept secret for 17 years supports what he always claimed: "I killed the senator and acted alone."

However, Paul Schrade, who was wounded in the head by a bullet as Kennedy was shot down in the Ambassador Hotel kitchen, disputed the conclusions in the summary released Tuesday. Schrade said he may file suit under public records disclosure laws to force release of the full 50,000 pages of files.

"You act as if you own these records," Schrade, who was not seriously wounded, told the Los Angeles Police Commission. "You don't. The public does." He believes there was another gunman besides Sirhan.

The summary written in 1969 and released Tuesday concluded that Sirhan was a lone assassin and that there was no evidence of conspiracy or another gunman. It said Sirhan premeditated the June 5, 1968, murder of Kennedy, who had just won the California Democratic presidential primary.

"The report says that I killed the senator and acted alone," Sirhan told the Los Angeles Times in a telephone interview. "That is true, and I have already admitted that.

"Beyond that, it is impossible to comment on any points without seeing the full report."

Sirhan pleaded innocent under California's "diminished capacity" provision, but a jury convicted him April 17, 1969, of first-degree murder and recommended a death sentence. In 1972, the state Supreme Court overturned the state's death penalty provision and reduced his sentence to life in prison.

In connection with Sirhan's trial, the report Tuesday said police filmed a reenactment of the crime five months after it occurred and confirmed that Schrade had been hit by a bullet that passed through Kennedy's coat.

Schrade claimed that was physically impossible.

The commission recommended that Mayor Tom Bradley appoint a separate committee to handle the editing of the 50,000 pages and to set a timetable for their release. Schrade said if that doesn't occur quickly, he will sue.

He and others have sought for years to have the information made public. Commissioners decided to release the summary Tuesday as a result of those demands, officials said.

Some postal rates to go up Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal rates for newspapers and charities will increase Sunday for the second time this year in what one critic calls a political move "to squeeze another $100 million out of the non-profit community."

"This administration, while they talk about non-profits being a replacement for government, are, in fact, now taking steps to foreclose the principal fund-raising means for most organizations," George E. Miller, president of the non-profit Mailers Federation, said of Tuesday's action by the board of governors of the Postal Service.

"It seems to be a move that is motivated by something other than an economic motive to squeeze another $100 million dollars out of the non-profit community," he said.

Joseph Lorfano, a spokesman for the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said many publishers of smaller newspapers believe the increase hurts them disproportionately.

"Sharing fairly the impact of budget reductions should not lead us to these unfortunately large postage increases," he said.

Tax dollars make up the difference between normal postage rates and cheaper preferred rates ordered by Congress for items such as church bulletins, charitable appeals, newspapers delivered in the county where they are published, farm and classroom publications and books mailed between libraries.

Robert Hoobing, a spokesman for the Postal Service, said under the law the postal service must increase the preferred rates if Congress reduces the subsidy.

"Legally, we can't just wink and say 'O.K. guys. We'll find another way to do this,' because what would happen is some other class of mail would have to foot part of the bill," Hoobing said.

The rate increases range from averages of 2 percent to 20 percent for particular types of non-profit and newspaper mail. They follow Jan. 1 increases ranging from 23 percent to 41 percent. First-class and other non-subsidized rates will not change.

The second rise is designed to make up for the $72 million difference between the subsidy the postal service had expected to receive and what Congress actually appropriated on Dec. 19. It also takes into account $32 million in cuts, effective March 1, required by the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Premier Menachem Begin signed a peace treaty in Washington in 1979 to end 30 years strife between their countries.

Vietnam Veterans Continue To Fight Bad Public Image

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reference to your column signed "Anna in Hillsboro, Ore.," whose father was denied treatment at the VA hospital because he was first admitted to a civilian hospital. While the advice you gave her—"Get the book, 'Viet Vet Survival Guide,' and learn what your rights are"—was good, I am highly incensed by your comment, "Realizing that the average Vietnam veteran did not get past high school, the authors use plain language and short sentences."

Where and how did you come by such ridiculous information? As if we do not have enough falsehoods to overcome, we now have been classified as practically illiterate!

I quote from Facts and Fiction, taken from the National Vietnam Veterans Review (Nov. 1982):

FICTION: High school dropouts formed the largest proportion of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

FACT: 79 percent of those who served in Vietnam had a high school education or better when they entered the military service.

FACT: This was the best-educated army America has ever fielded. For comparison, 63 percent of Korean War vets, and only 45 percent of WWII vets, had completed high school upon separation from the military.

I think you owe the Vietnam veterans an apology. We've had enough bum raps over the years without your undeserved putdown.

VIETNAM VETERAN

DEAR VETERAN: The "ridiculous information" ("the average Vietnam veteran did not get past high school") is one of the myths about the Vietnam War still deeply ingrained in the minds of the American public over a decade after the last combat troops left the war zone. I was not aware that I was perpetuating a false stereotype. Therefore, I offer my sincere apologies to anyone I might have offended.

DEAR ABBY: I am feeling torn. It has taken a long time for me to adjust after suffering a nervous breakdown. During my time of adjustment, I was blessed with a wonderful psychologist who helped me to find my way again. During the time she treated me, we developed a special kind of friendship. I have not seen her for three months when we agreed that I no longer needed therapy.

I am now being baptized for the first time in my life in the Catholic Church. My priest tells me that I need a sponsor or a "godmother." I would like to ask my former therapist to be my godmother, but I don't want her to feel obligated. I am wondering if maybe it would be too much to ask of her.

This is very important to me. Should I ask her?

UNSURE

DEAR UNSURE: Ask her only if you feel reasonably certain that she will accept without hesitation. Some therapists, as a matter of policy, do not "socialize" with patients or former patients, so if you ask her and she declines, do not feel personally rejected.

DEAR ABBY: It's easy to find out if a gift was not received. Mail a postcard saying, "I am sending you a gift. You should receive it in a few days, a week, or whatever."

You may not hear if it is received, but you will surely hear if it isn't.

LEILA B. SLIGER,
TACOMA, WASH.

Pre-trial hearing date is scheduled

ALPINE, Texas (AP) — A pre-trial hearing date has been set for April 11 in Brewster County for a Mexican man accused of raping and robbing a Terlingua woman.

Meanwhile, FBI officials are awaiting authorization from the U.S. Department of Justice to investigate events surrounding the man's abduction at gunpoint in January from his Ojinaga, Mexico, jail cell.

Refugio Garcia Gonzales, 22, of Jimenez, Mexico, has been held in the Brewster County Jail since law enforcement officers found him Jan. 22, nude and tied to a tree at a roadside park near Alpine.

The identities of three men who broke into the Mexican jail armed with high-powered rifles and kidnapped Gonzales remain unknown.

FBI agent Matt Perez told the San Angelo Standard-Times no action had been taken yet by the department regarding Gonzales' abduction from Mexico.

WHEN THEY SAY 'BIG AS TEXAS', THEY'RE NOT TALKING ABOUT ELECTRICITY COSTS.

Hard-working, dedicated employees have helped us keep electricity costs lower than many other places in the United States. You pay less for the electricity you use than many people in the United States, which is an important factor contributing to the economic growth of the area.

How have we succeeded in keeping the price of electricity reasonable? Through hard-working, productive employees who provide quality service 24 hours a day, every day; with strict cost-control management; low-cost strategies for meeting future needs; maximum use of lower-cost Texas lignite coal for fuel; and by taking advantage of current market conditions to lower the cost of natural gas fuel.

We're working to meet the increasing electricity needs of one of the fastest-growing areas in the nation, while keeping costs down. We're working hard to keep the people, the plants and the jobs coming to our part of Texas.

Coterie enjoys Texas music

"Musical Coterie Salutes the Texas Sesquicentennial" was the program title for the organization's meeting that was held Feb. 20 at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The program was part of the National Federated Music Club's "Parade of American Music." The Coterie celebrated music of Texas composers as a part of the Texas Federated Music Clubs.

Serving as program coordinator was Barbara Perkins. The first segment of entertainment featured music by M.J. Van Appledorn who is currently professor of composition at Texas Tech University. Playing the piano were Katie Perkins playing, "Sun Devils;" Myste Malone, "Apache Echoes;" and Cole Latimer, "Fort Davis Salute."

The group heard a tape of Dr. Ronald Clinton playing Mr. Van Appledorn's "Piano Concerto" with the University of Houston Symphony Orchestra.

The Musical Coterie Chorale, accompanied by Lynn Bethel, sang a medley of Texas songs including "Deep in the Heart of Texas," "Streets of Laredo," "The Eyes of Texas," "Red River Valley," "The Yellow Rose of Texas," and the state song, "Texas Our Texas."

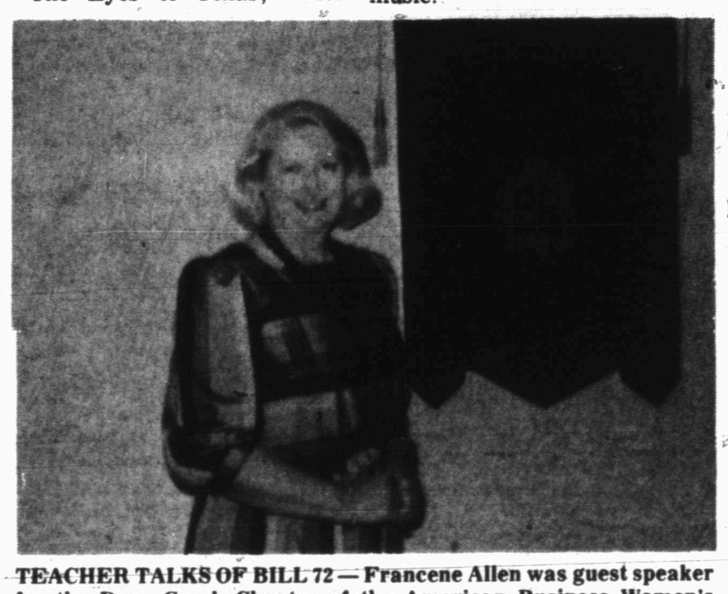

Emily Hataway sang a cowboy song, "I'm Going To Leave Old Texas." Guest soloist, Carolyn Wisemen sang "It Is No Secret," by Stuart Hamblen. Mr. Hamblen's brother, Dr. John Hamblen, is a former Snyder resident.

The Musical Coterie Chorale sang music by current Texas composers and arrangers. The music included "There Is a Lady," arranged by Bobby Siltman of Abilene; "Never Tell My Love," by Houston Bright; "Of Love," by Dede Duson; and "A Joyful Song," by Theron Kirk.

The Chorale premiered "I've Saved the Summer," words by Rod McKuen and music by Snyder junior high choral director, Barbara Perkins.

The program closed with "American Dance Suite," by Julia Smith. Lynn Bethel played the electric piano and Barbara Perkins played acoustic piano.

The program illustrated the contribution of Texas composers and arrangers to American music.

TEACHER TALKS OF BILL 72 — Francene Allen was guest speaker for the Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. Allen is a teacher at West Elementary School. (Club Photograph)

No pass-no play issue is topic for ABWA members

Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Club met Feb. 26 for their regular monthly meeting with president Mary Hall presiding over the meeting.

Mae Cole introduced guest speaker, Francene Allen, teacher of a resource room at West Elementary School. Allen has a bachelor degree from Texas Tech University and a masters degree from Hardin Simmons University. She is a life member of Texas Classroom Teachers Association and currently serving on the State Board of Directors. She has taught school for 24 years. She has two children.

Allen's topic of "Pocketbook" covered the no pass-no play issue. She said, "The no pass-no play has been in force for a long time; one week students couldn't participate. This is just a cover up for Bill 72. The Bill has a few good points, but the majority are bad. Who will be paying for all people to do the paper work, teachers' raises, etc.—it will be YOU, TAXPAYER; so sit up and take notice."

Allen added, "The State Board and your local School Board does not have any authority. They can not act until they ask or get an approval from Austin. How can our teachers instruct our children when they are loaded with paper work to comply with Bill 72? The paper work comes first, our children come last. Seven million dollars has already been spent on the test our teachers have to pass in order to teach. How much more of our tax money will be spent on this senseless test? What about the tests our children are going to be subjected to -- from first grade up?"

Allen closed by stating, "If we as parents and yes, grandparents, can't deal locally with our teachers, we don't need public schools. Open your eyes and ears, taxpayers—open your pocketbooks—you are the ones who will pay, and pay dearly you will. It all spells out dictatorship.

Standing committees gave their reports. Plans and the date was set for Spring Tea. Fund raising programs were discussed.

Hostesses Mary Hall and Tina Sullenger decorated the tables in red and white tablecloths and napkins with brass candle holders, holding red candles.

Serving on the telephone committee are Vivian Cochran, Dixie Stewart and Lajuana Sellers.

The invocation was given by Vivian Cochran and benediction by Dorothy Dortch.

Gabriel Chagas is ranked by most observers, including me, as South America's greatest player. He is also an excellent writer, reporting on important South American and international competitions.

Today's deal occurred in the waning stages of the match held to determine the team that would represent Brazil in the World Championship last October. Because the North-South team was considerably behind, the members of that team could be expected to take some heady risks. In fact, in the set of deals that include today's hand, they had already bid and made two grand slams. If you were Gabriel Chagas, sitting West, what would be your opening lead against six clubs?

As Chagas reported very matter-of-factly, "I led the jack of spades." The rationale is easy to find in retrospect. South had jumped to six clubs on a trump suit missing the queen. Was it reasonable to expect that he could have even one diamond? He might, however, have a spade, and the lead of the spade jack might just cut some important communications. And so most experts, armchair variety or not, would agree with Chagas's choice of lead. And since at the other table four spades was bid and made with three overtricks, Gabriel's lead kept the match from being decided by a whisker. But I wonder how many of us, beginner or world champion, would have the nerve to lead anything other than a high diamond against six clubs.

With any lead other than the spade jack, the slam will make, since declarer should win the opening lead and play the A-K of clubs.

Honey Do's Extension Club learns of camera

Honey Do's Extension Homemakers Club held their regular monthly meeting on Feb. 20 at Snyder Savings and Loan.

Roll was answered with members telling one thing that really irritates them. President Shirley Bullard presided over the meeting.

Jeanne Richardson was the speaker and the topic was cameras. She gave helpful pointers on how to hold and focus a camera to get clearer and more interesting pictures. Members used their own cameras to practice.

Members discussed a Christmas Craft Day and another club cookbook is underway with members bringing recipes. They were reminded to attend two programs on Pakistan at Western Texas College Museum. There programs are sponsored by the Extension Homemakers Clubs.

Honey Do's Extension Club signed up to launch a sesquicentennial balloon. Names were taken to the Scurry County Library to put in a balloon to be released on March 2.

An accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa., March 28, 1979, damaged the reactor core. A large hydrogen gas bubble formed in the top of the reactor and the temperature in the reactor building registered many times the normal level.

Tigers popped 7-4 by Central's Cats

SAN ANGELO – Snyder's Tigers gave up a three-run lead and took their third loss of the season here Tuesday in non-district baseball action, 7-4.

The loss left Snyder at 2-3 on the season as the Tigers prepare for Saturday's 1 p.m. double header in Big Spring.

"We had our chances, we just couldn't take advantage of them," mused Snyder Coach Albert Lewis.

The Tigers left the bases loaded in the sixth and two on in the seventh.

Snyder scored first when Jimmy Velasquez rapped an rbi single in the leadoff inning. In the second, Steve Parker and Chris Fryar slapped runs home.

Central pitcher Jimmy Childress calmed down and handcuffed the Tigers most of the rest of the way, however. Snyder's final run came in the sixth when Michael Long belted home Mike McWiliams, who had doubled to get aboard.

Central tagged Snyder starter Justin Webb for a pair of runs in the second inning. Velasquez came in to pitch and the Bobcats added one more. They also got one in the third and three in the fifth.

Velasquez took the loss.

The 'Cats, 4-1 now, benefitted from 10 hits and three Tiger errors.

"We hit well but in key situations he (Childress) would do what he had to do," said Coach Lewis. "We are still lacking a little maturity in crucial situations."

Fryar and Long led Snyder with two hits apiece. Long's were both doubles.

Lewis said he plans to pitch Ricky Hunter for one game of Saturday's twinbill and use Velasquez in the other. Webb and Kenneth Pickering will be ready for relief.

Zoeller using Doral Open for comeback

MIAMI (AP) - For the second year in a row, Fuzzy Zoeller is using the Doral-Eastern Open as the first step in a comeback.

While the situation is similar, it is not precisely the same.

A year ago, Zoeller was coming off career-threatening back surgery when he made his first start of the season in this tournament. This time, he is coming back after a 2½-week absence, also due to back problems.

The problem this time was not as severe. But for several agonizing hours, Fuzzy wasn't sure.

"I don't mind telling you, I was scared. I was hurting and I was scared," he said. "It felt just like it did at Las Vegas," his last 1984 start before surgery.

This time, the pain - so severe that he was knocked to his knees and left his body twisted and contorted - hit him during the Hawaiian Open.

Zoeller, who won the Skins Game late last year and the Pebble Beach Pro-Am early this season, managed a 5-under-par 67 in the first round of the tournament in Honolulu. Then, despite his position among the leaders, he was forced to withdraw.

"I could barely walk," he said. And he was worried that he was facing extremely serious problems.

"It was just muscular, just spasms," he said. "They treated it with valium. It relaxed the muscles and everything was okay.

"I'm fine now, no problems," Zoeller said before a practice round for the $500,000 tournament that begins Thursday on Doral's Blue Monster course.

"I'm still hitting the ball really well. I like the way I'm playing right now," he said.

Among his chief challengers for the $90,000 first prize are Tom Watson and Bernhard Langer of West Germany. Neither has won this season, but both have played extremely well.

Langer, the current Masters champion, finished second and third in his last two American starts, was fourth in the Australian Masters and ranks second on the American money-winning list. Watson has been third in two of his last three starts.

MVC semis down to wire

by The Associated Press

You say you want your college basketball conference tournaments to be tight? You want close games decided at the wire? You want excitement with every tick of the clock?

For your heart-stopping enjoyment, we present the Missouri Valley Conference tourney.

Ninth-ranked Bradley and host Tulsa escaped with one-point victories in the MVC semifinals Tuesday night to set up tonight's championship matchup. The Braves raised their record to 31-1 - best in the nation - including 22 consecutive wins, as Hersey Hawkins made a layup with five seconds remaining for a 65-64 decision over Illinois State.

Tulsa was leading 66-56 with 1:58 remaining, but Drake ran off nine straight points. The Golden Hurricane held on, though, for a 68-67 victory.

Bradley overcame a poor-shooting first half (31 percent) and a 12-point deficit, but didn't go in front until Hawkins' decisive basket.

A dunk by center Mike Williams, who had 22 points, brought Bradley to within 64-63 with 1:16 left. Illinois State missed its next shot and Hawkins drove the lane for the winning points.

"You have to give Bradley credit," said Illinois State Coach Bob Donewald. "You don't get to be 31-1 unless you are good."

Tulsa, 22-8, got 27 points from sophomore guard Tracy Moore, including two key free throws

Seven 'suspended' agree to meet Uberroth's terms

by The Associated Press

Seven of the 11 players conditionally suspended by Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth for using drugs have agreed to pay the price which will permit them to play this season without missing any time.

Only first baseman Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets has said he will appeal Ueberroth's decision, while there has been no comment from Kansas City outfielder Lonnie Smith. Atlanta outfielder Claudell Washington and Chicago Cubs pitcher Lary Sorensen are undecided.

The latest to accept Ueberroth's terms was Oakland A's pitcher Joaquin Andujar, who hinted Tuesday that he probably will comply with the commissioners' ruling.

"I know the answer, but I can't tell you," Andujar said after his first workout at the A's training camp. "My agent and general manager are going to say something about it this week. I'm waiting for them. I'll do whatever they say.

"I want to get over everything. That way I can relax my mind and pitch and give a good year to Oakland's fans and club. When the bell rings, I'll be there and give 100 percent. That's one thing I can promise you right now."

Andujar, implicated in last year's drug trial in Pittsburgh, would have his one-year suspension lifted if he agrees to pay $115,000 - 10 percent of his $1.15 million base salary this year - to a hometown rehabilitation facility, performs 100 hours of community service work and submits to drug testing for the rest of his career.

Others whose penalty includes a 10 percent salary contribution are Hernandez ($1.4 million salary, $140,000 penalty), Cincinnati outfielder Dave Parker ($1 million salary, $100,000 penalty), Smith ($900,000 salary, $90,000 penalty), New York Yankees infielder Dale Berrea ($525,000 salary , $52,500 penalty) and Los Angeles infielder Enos Cabell ($450,000 salary, $45,000 penalty).

A second group of four players was hit with a 60-day suspension but can have it lifted by contributing 5 percent of their salary, performing 50 hours of community service work and agreeing to career-long drug testing.

Baltimore outfielder Lee lacy ($600,000, $30,000) and Yankee pitcher Al Holland ($400,000, $20,000) have agreed. Washington ($650,000, $32,500) and Sorensen ($200,000, $10,000) have not reached a decision.

Even if Andujar complies with the conditions, he will miss part of the 1986 season because of another Ueberroth suspension. The fiery 33-year-old right-hander was fined $500 and suspended without pay for 10 days after bumping umpire Don Denkinger in the seventh game of the 1985 World Series.

Parker doesn't agree with all aspects of his penalty but agreed to accept it.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Parker said: "It's worth it to me to put it all behind me. Actually, for me, it's the beginning of the end. It's an issue that's been dragging on for a year. I can't say that it's really right, but I think it is worth my while to put it behind me and think of more pleasant things, like winning the National League West."

Parker issued the statement on the condition that he answer no questions.

Meanwhile, Don Fehr, head of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said the issue of drug-testing clauses in individual player contracts should be settled within a month.

Fehr said the Players Association's grievance over the tests will be heard between March 25 and April 3.

Ever since the club owners terminated the drug agreement between them and the Players Association last October, the clubs have inserted drug-testing clauses in guaranteed multi-year contracts and many one-year contracts. The union contends that testing players is a matter for collective bargaining.

Hogeboom mulls over retirement

DALLAS (AP) - Gary Hogeboom, Dallas Cowboys backup quarterback who demanded a trade two months ago, says he would consider retiring rather than remaining with the National Football League team.

The move would cost him $3.8 million.

"Right now, I'm gearing myself to possibly not playing," Hogeboom told Norm Hitzges of Dallas Radio Station KLIF.

"It's a possibility right now," Hogeboom said. "I've been here six years and things haven't worked out the way I planned. I've always believed that if you don't enjoy what your are doing, you have to do something else."

Hogeboom became the Cowboys starting quarterback in 1984, but lost the job back to Danny White after 10 games. In 1985, he started two games when White was injured and asked coach Tom Landry to trade him.

Cowboys vice president Gil Brandt said he hasn't received any offers for Hogeboom, but said he expects to begin shopping Hogeboom at the NFL meeting next week in Palm Springs, Calif.

Hogeboom has $800,000 in salary coming the next two season and would stand to lose $3 million in deferred payments if he quit now. According to the terms of a contract Hogeboom signed after the 1984 season, he will receive $300,000 a year between 1994 and 2013, a total of $6 million. If he plays less than four years, the amount of his deferred payments would decrease accordingly.

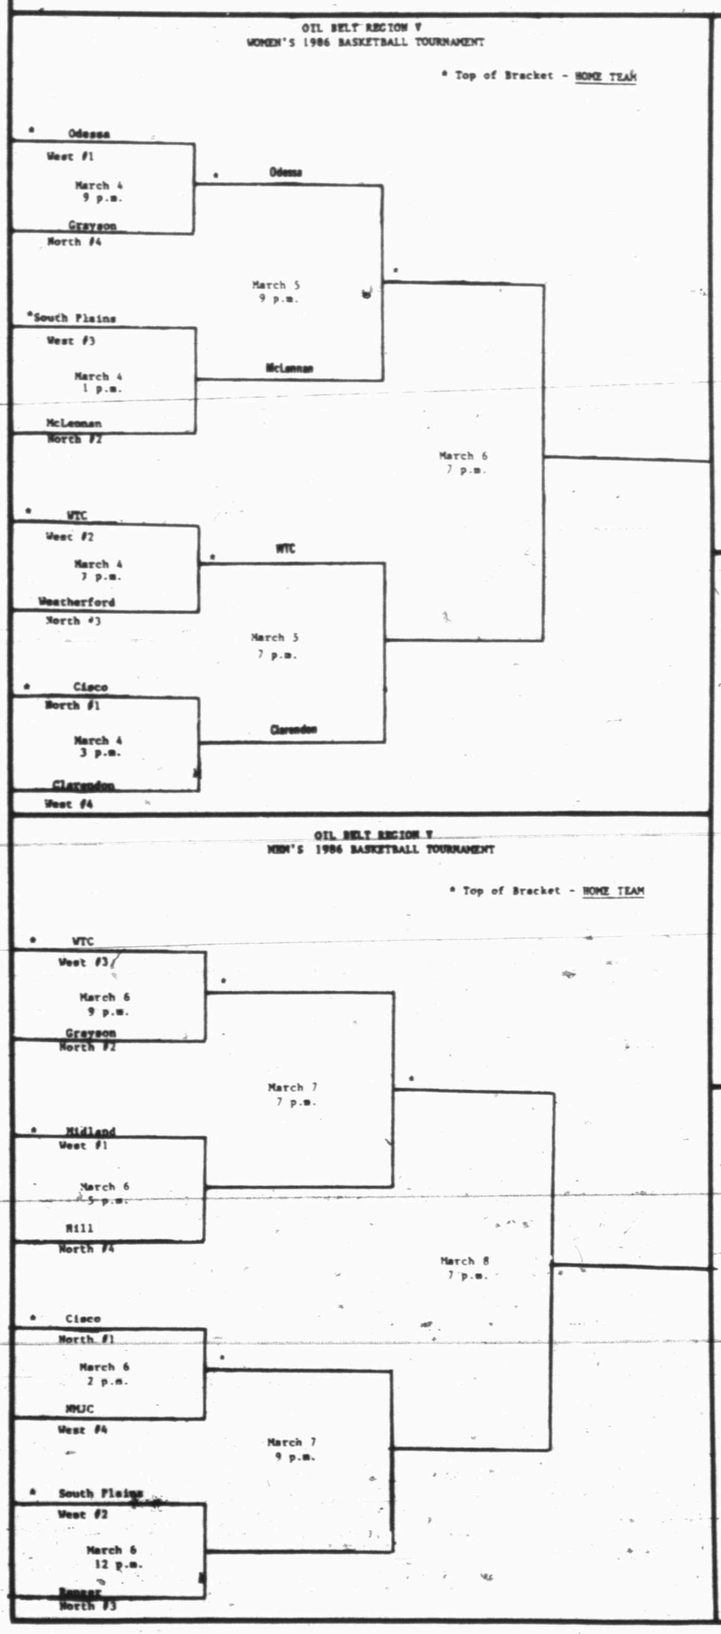

Hogeboom says money isn't the most important matter.

"I could stay and relax and stay a couple of more years behind Danny. But that's not how I feel or what I want to do," he said. "Retirement is a possibility."

Viking standout adds beauty to Region V basketball court

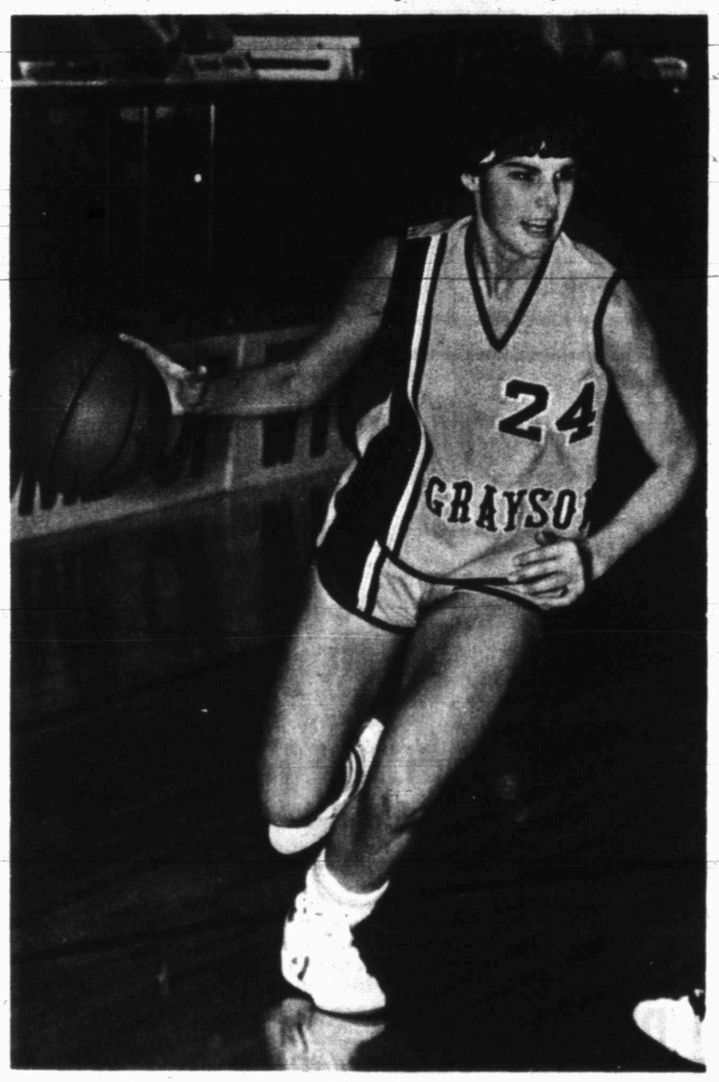

by VICKI BROWN
SDN Staff Writer

Do beauty, brains and basketball mix?

Those who meet Kasi Higgs, wing guard with the Grayson County Junior College Lady Vikings, must say an emphatic "Yes".

Now in her sophomore year, she leads the conference in rebounds and free throws, maintains a 3.95 GPA and is a former beauty pageant winner.

Although she was named Miss Decatur while in high school, Kasi said she had never actively pursued involvement in beauty pageants. "My aunt was a model and always wanted me to learn about modeling," she said. "But my mother always told me that doing it was my decision."

A letter from the organizers of the Miss Teen Texas Pageant brought back memories of her aunt's encouragement. "Although I never really thought about getting involved before, I just decided to try," she added.

Judged primarily on academic achievement, involvement in school and community activities, personality, beauty and a written essay, Kasi garnered the crown as Miss Teen Texas 1984.

She doesn't intend to pursue modeling as a career even though she seems just as at home in front of a camera as on a basketball court. Last year and again this year she wanted to participate in the Miss Grayson County College contest, but scheduled basketball games both years prevented her entry.

Although pleased with her successes in the beauty arena, Kasi is committed to basketball. The 5-10 wing averages over 11 rebounds and some 18 points per game. She is the only player on coach George Speer's team to attain a quintriple double in a game.

"It isn't uncommon for her to reach double figures in rebounds, points and assists in a game," Spear said. "But in the game against Ranger, she had 23 points, 14 rebounds, 12 assists, 10 steals and, although we don't like to see it, 12 turnovers."

Noting that Kasi has already been named to the all-conference squad, Speer believes that "she's got a pretty good chance to make all-regional."

The co-captain doesn't limit her sports involvement to the basketball court, however. In addition to serving as a referee for intramural games, she helps lead a cheerleading camp at Decatur High School each summer.

"Because of her leadership and involvement in the Decatur program, we are seriously considering putting in a day-camp style cheerleading program at Grayson," Speer added.

Kasi fills time between studies and sports through activities sponsored by the Baptist Student Union on campus and participation in a dorm Bible study.

Last year she served as a counselor for the Super Summer program for high school youth sponsored by the Baptist General Convention of Texas and hosted by Baylor University. "One of the girls from Cisco's team was there last year too."

A member of Phi Delta Kappa, the junior college honor society, Kasi is majoring in elementary education with a minor in computer science. "But," she added, "I'm thinking of making computer science my major instead." Although she would like to attend Baylor next fall, she said she's willing to transfer to any school "where they want me to play."

Speer added that four or five Division I schools are considering her talents now.

"Part of the problem for the kids (on women's teams) who are real good is finding a role model," Spear noted. "They look for a stereotype, one they can model after. There aren't any so they look to males to pattern their behavior after. Kasi and other girls like her can help provide excellent role models for younger girls."

OC's Conwell MVP...

Duster trio selected to All-WJCAC squad

Western Texas College placed three players on the Women's All-Western Junior College Athletic Conference Team, announced Wednesday morning.

Odessa's Doreatha Conwell, who led the conference in points, rebounds and blocked shots, was named the WJCAC's Most Vaulable Player for the second straight year.

Named first-team all-conference from Western were 5-8 sophomores Pam Cox and Angela Jeans and 5-10 freshman Brenda Welch. South Plains' Sally Walling filled out the five-player roster.

Odessa also had two girls named to the second team - 5-4 sophomore Donna Wilson and 5-7½ sophomore Renay Daughtery.

Others chosen to the second team were Clarendon's Aretha Brown, New Mexico Junior College's Claudia Austin, Howard's Terri Powell and South Plains' Shari Schilling.

Conwell, a 6-3 sophomore, averaged 27.3 points and 16.6 rebounds for the nation's top-ranked Lady Wranglers during the regular season. She also blocked 100-plus shots and had an equal amount of steals.

Western's Cox averaged 17.9 points, 5.8 assists, 4.1 rebounds, shot .581 from the field and came away with 74 steals during the regular season.

"It's really an honor for us to be chosen all-conference but you can credit Coach (Kelly Chadwick) and the team," said Cox. "Without Coach and the rest of the team we wouldn't have been able to do that. It's a whole team thing in my mind."

Teammate Jeans, point-guard for the Dusters, was equally impressive by averaging 10.6 pooints, 7.7 assists and 5.2 rebounds. She shot .583 from the floor and had 81 steals.

Welch was one of the top players under the basket, averaging 21.3 points and 8.8 rebounds. She was second in the conference in field goal percentage, shooting .604.

Walling, who helped South Plains to a third place finish in the WJCAC, averaged 13.6 points and 4.1 rebounds.

OC stays unbeaten; wins 98-57

Odessa College put five girls in double figures and made short work of Grayson County in the nightcap game of Tuesday's Region V Basketball Tournament here, 98-57.

Grayson Coach George Speer had said the game was a chance for his Lady Vikings "to excell" and in fact they did battle well early. In the end, however, Odessa's quickness, height and overall athletic ability were too much to handle.

The victory puts Coach Ken Hefner's Lady Wranglers at 29-0 on the season. The Wranglers are trying to advance to the NJCAA National Tournament where a national title eluded them by just two points a year ago.

Odessa ran off a 6-2 advantage and led by 10 about nine minutes to play in the first half. By dominating the boards and getting the ball out to the likes of 5-3 guard Donna Wilson on the fast break, the Wranglers managed a 43-24 halftime lead.

All-American candidate Doreatha Conwell paced the game for the Wranglers, who finished the regular season as the nation's No. 1 ranked juco team. The 6-3 sophomore came away with 22 points, 12 rebounds eight steals and five assists.

Renay Daughtery scored 18 points while Wilson punched in 14 and Dedra Ware and Linda Banks added a dozen apiece.

Wilson also had nine assists and six steals.

Grayson, 12-15, shot just 38 percent from the field but got good play from 5-10 sophomore Kasi Higgs. Higgs scored 18 points to lead the Vikings. Lesli Priebe scored 12 points and Kristi Hill notched 11.

Unofficially, Odessa outrebounded the Vikings 36 to 16.

Clarendon overcomes Wranglers

Tia Stewart overruled Cisco's 6-3 sophomore Cara Cranford on a jump ball with six seconds left and teammate Aretha Brown raced untouched for a layup as Clarendon won its first-round game of the Women's Region V Tournament here Tuesday, 57-53.

Stewart had put Clarendon in front 54-51 with 27 seconds left after Brown scored to break a 51-51 deadlock.

Cisco came back when Michelle Henry scored underneath and was fouled with six seconds to play. She missed the bonus free throw and Stewart and Cranford both came down with a share of the ball. Stewart, a 5-11 sophomore, then got the tip to the fleet-footed Brown, who eased in a layup to ice the victory.

"That was too close for comfort," said Clarendon Coach Dexter Irvin, whose team improved to 13-12 with the win.

The game was a close battle all the way - clearly the most entertaining first-round game of the tournament. It wasn't the most impressive perfosmance, however, as both teams struggled offensively.

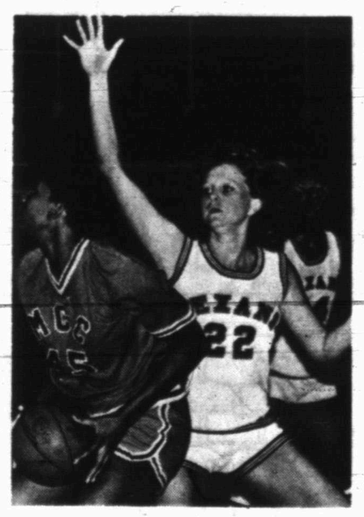

"We wanted to get them out of their half-court ballgame and and we weren't two successful in that. But I thought we played good defense," said Irvin. "I think we were intimidated by their size a little bit. We didn't have a very good game out of our posts."

Both teams were led by their guards, but it was Clarendon's Brown, a 5-6 sophomore, who did the majority of the damage. She popped the next for 33 points - high individual game of the tournament for the first day. Victoria Peacock scored 10 points and Stewart scored 8.

Cisco trailed almost the entire way, save for a 39-37 advantage when Angie Pickard scored with 14:31 to play. Brown answered with back-to-back buckets, however, and the Lady Wranglers were never able to get the lead again.

The Wranglers, 22-5, were led by guard Jeanne Nix, who scored 18 points, and by 6-0 sophomore Valerie Barnett, who scored 14 and yanked down 10 rebounds.

Lassies hit boards to rip Texans

McLennan Community College used its quickness and a dominate board game to outgun South Plains 70-54 in the first game of the Women's Region V Basketball Tournament here Tuesday.

The Highlassies opened a quick lead and expanded to eight, 26-18, when Cheryl Boyle scored a three-point play with 6:46 to go in the first half.

"I thought our rebounding was the difference - in the second half," said MCC Coach Holly Reynolds. "We only had three offensive rebounds in the first half but we did a better job in the second."

McLennan was a mediocre 30 of 72 from the field but it didn't matter because the Highlassies outrebounded the Lady Texans 43 to 24.

The Waco-based college used its advantage on the boards and its quickness to get a fast break going in the second half. Sharon McCutheon's layup with 6:25 left in the game made it 61-46 in favor of the 'Lassies.

"We lost to them by two points earlier in the season," said Coach Reynolds, who thought that might have had an effect. "They are a real good shooting team and we knew we couldn't afford to zone them. We thought we had an edge in quickness so we matched up and went after them with constant pressure."

Missy Davis led the Highlassies, now 15-10, with 26 points. McCutheon hit double-doubles with 17 points and 10 rebounds, while Jeannie Conde added 16 points.

Lyndon Hardin's Lady Texans were led by Sally Walling's 20 points. Shari Schilling scored 13 points, pulled down 8 rebounds and contributed five 5 assists.

South Plains ends its season at 18-11.

Advance to semifinals...

Dusters outlast Weatherford

Western Texas College's Dusters got balanced scoring from inside and outside to cruise past Weatherford 74-51 here Tuesday and advance to the semifinals of the Women's Region V Basketball Tournament.

The Dusters, 24-8 now, will play Clarendon College at 7 tonight in Scurry County Coliseum. Odessa meets McLennan Community College in the other semifinal game at 9.

It should be an interesting confrontation when Western and Clarendon clash for the third time this season.

"We beat them at their place and they beat us at our place. It should be a real good ballgame," said WTC Coach Kelly Chadwick.

"They have a real good ballclub. They've really come on lately behind the Brown girl (Aretha Brown). She's a great player," he added.

Brown, a 5-6 sophomore, scored 33 points as Clarendon upset Cisco Junior College 57-53 Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Chadwick couldn't ask for a lot more than the effort his Dusters gave against Weatherford.

"I thought we were ready to play, which is what we're going to have to be ready to do against Clarendon," the coach said. "I thought we played very good defense."

Western went inside with 5-10 freshman Brenda Welch and outside with sophomore guard Angela Jeans to keep the Lady Coyotes off-balance. And as usual, Pam Cox hit from near and far.

"That's what we're looking for," said Chadwick of Western's balanced scoring. "We just had a good overall team game."

Cox and Welch snapped the cords for 20 points each while Jeans added 14.

Welch, who played perhaps her best game in several outings, had 16 at halftime as Western run up a 40-25 advantage.

The Dusters were able to get everybody into the act, and nine players scored. One girl who came in early and played a key role was Wendy Milner.

"I thought Wendy did a great job," praised Chadwick. "We need that kind of help from her. She had a great ballgame."

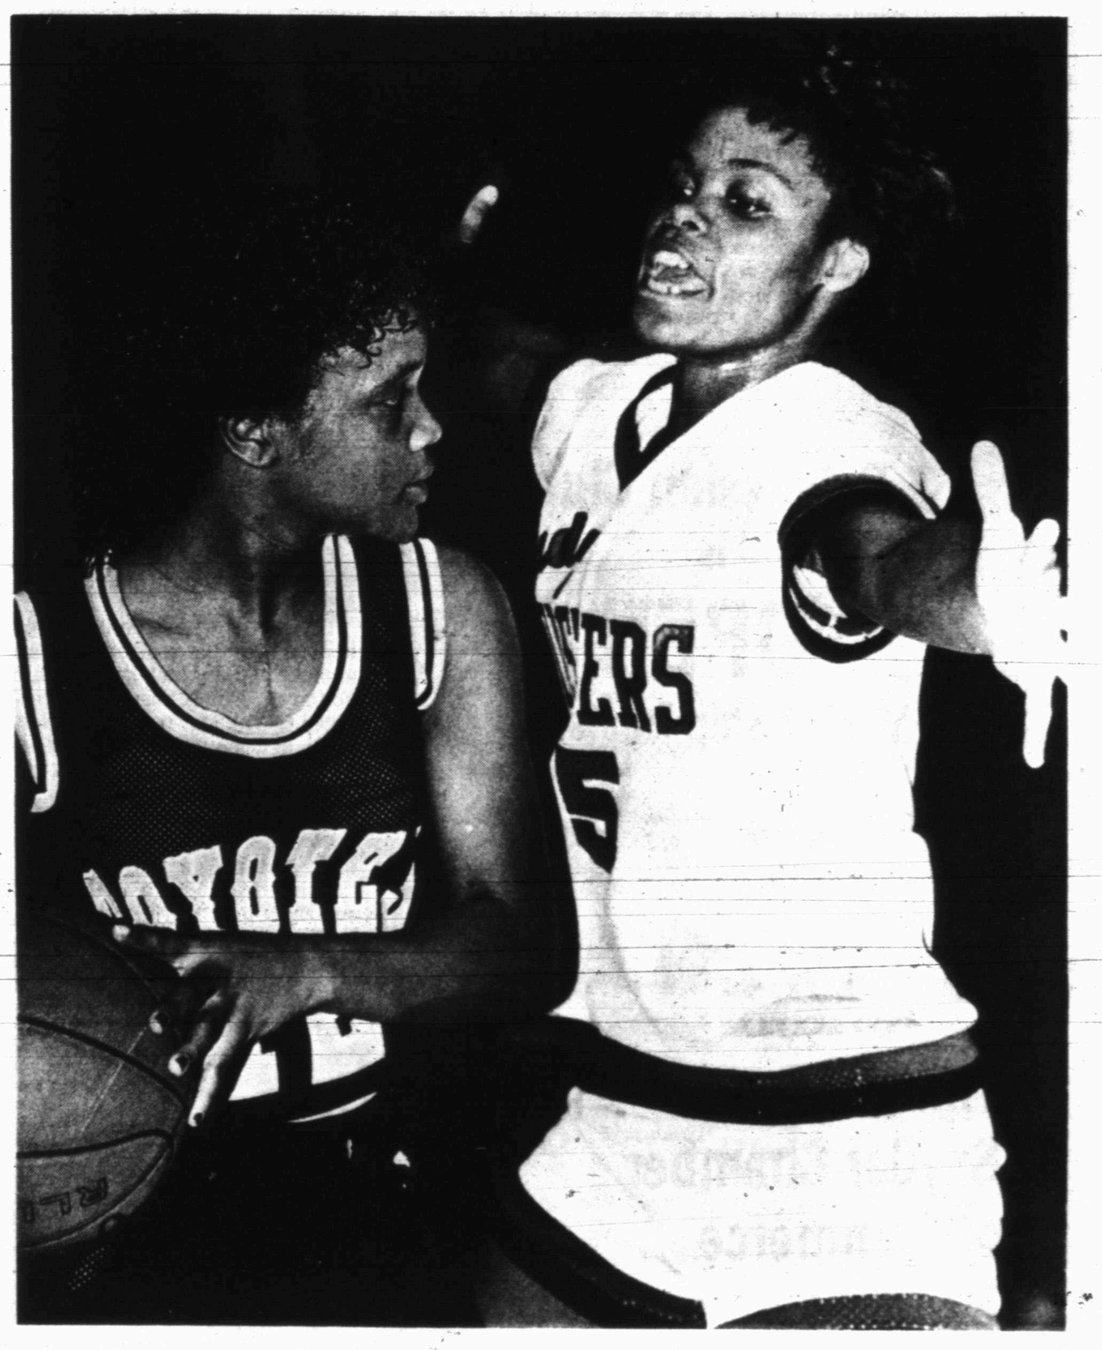

Milner, who has seen spotty action this season, scored 5 points and and pulled down four rebounds. She also had two steals.

Diana Quincy also contributed 4 points, three rebounds and six assists.

Weatherford was led by guards Tia Thomas and Vicki Mason, who scored 10 points apiece. Point-guard Rolisha Goings scored 7 and came away with 11 assists.

Jeans also had nine assists for the Dusters. Cox led on the boards with six rebounds.

The Lady Coyotes shot only 23 of 60 from the field and suffered 18 turnovers.

'Team' key to WTC success

Sophomore Pam Cox, whose 20 points helped Western Texas to a victory over Weatherford in Tuesday night's first-round game of the Region V Tournament said it is a team concept that has led to the Dusters' success.

"The key is the whole team, not any individuals," the 5-8 all-conference selection said. "It's everybody. It's not just the starters or the ones that come off the bench first. It's the whole team. We all rely on each other. Every girl is just as important as all the others."

Western Texas came into the game with a 23-8 season record and would have been favored over the Lady Coyotes. That fact certainly wasn't an incentive killer, however.

"We were all ready to play. We've been anxious to play. We weren't concerned about who it was, we just know every game is important. Coach (Kelly Chadwick) really stresses that," she said.

"We've just got to go out and play like we know how. Coach has us prepared. We know what to do. He's got us ready. It's just a matter of us executing," Cox added.

Contra aid not accounted for

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration cannot account for how most of the non-lethal aid to Nicaraguan rebels was spent despite a legal requirement that it ensure proper use of the money, congressional investigators have concluded.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, says that despite initial plans for detailed bookkeeping, the administration had almost no control over $7.1 million — or about 58 percent of the $12.2 million — in non-lethal aid spent for the Contras through Feb. 24.

"The (State) Department does not have procedures and controls which would allow it to provide these assurances" that the aid is going only for non-lethal items, the GAO said in a statement prepared for presentation to Congress today. A draft copy was obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press.

The GAO said the accounting problem occurred "in large measure because those charged with administering the program are unable to verify expenditures made in the (Central American) region, and are unable to observe the end use of procured items to ensure that they were not diverted, bartered or exchanged."

But the GAO said it found no evidence the U.S. money was used to buy weapons or ammunition.

The GAO report comes as President Reagan is requesting $100 million in lethal and non-lethal aid for the Contra rebels, who are fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist government. Reagan's proposal faces strong opposition in the Democratic-controlled House.

A House Democratic task force on Central America issued a report today contending "U.S. policy toward Central America must be centered on diplomacy ... rather than on the use of force or the quest for military victory."

An administration official, who insisted on anonymity, confirmed that the State Department has had trouble accounting for expenditures made by the Contras in Central America, but insisted the department has been "able to abide by the letter of the law" providing $27 million in non-lethal aid.

That law required the president to "establish appropriate procedures to ensure that any humanitarian assistance ... to the Nicaraguan democratic resistance is used only for the intended purpose and is not diverted — through barter, exchange or any other means — for acquisition of weapons."

After three years of covert CIA support for the rebels, Congress barred lethal aid in 1984 but last summer permitted "humanitarian" assistance, such as uniforms, boots, medicines and food.

Honduras, however, objected to use of its territory for funneling supplies to the Contras along the Nicaraguan border and forced the State Department to scrap plans for detailed monitoring of the aid in Central America.

IRS processing returns quickly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chances of getting a quick refund from the Internal Revenue Service are considerably better than at this time a year ago. But the agency still has a big backlog of unanswered taxpayer mail — some of it three months old.

The mail inventory, which includes letters from the IRS proposing adjustments in taxpayer accounts, is more than triple what it was at this time in 1984 and even larger than last year, when the agency operations were slowed dramatically by computer problems.

The General Accounting Office told a House Ways and Means subcommittee Tuesday that 1.13 million pieces of correspondence were pending in the 10 IRS regional service centers at the end of January. Only in the centers at Brookhaven, N.Y., Kansas City, Mo., and Ogden, Utah, were the backlogs lower than at this time last year.

IRS Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger, Jr. told the subcommittee the agency is making continuing reductions in the mail backlog.

"We are doing everything we can to bring those inventories down," he said. Handling the mail problems, he added, has had no ill effect on the processing of tax returns this year.

"I am pleased to report that to date, with a little more than half the filing season behind us, the reports are generally very good," Egger said.

Congress' auditing arm, the General Accounting Office, agreed.

"We believe that the 1986 filing season is progressing more smoothly than last year," said Johnny C. Finch, associate director of GAO. "Our work ... disclosed no new systemic problems affecting IRS' ability to process tax returns."

But 2.3 million fewer returns than expected have been received this year, Finch said, and that "could result in a deluge of return filings during the April peak period, which could in turn strain IRS resources and cause refund delays."

Treatment of hypotension

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — About a year ago my mother's blood pressure was found to be low. For years she has had dizzy spells and blurred vision. She was put on salt tablets. Her symptoms have gotten worse; she now passes out for a few seconds and is left very weak, and she sometimes has spastic-like seizures. She has seen a half-dozen doctors and nothing has helped. Is there anything new that would help people like her?

DEAR READER — Your mother's hypotension (the body's inability to raise blood pressure on demand) is a condition that may affect elderly patients. It is probably due to a neuromuscular imbalance — that is, the arteries don't appropriately constrict their walls in order to raise the pressure of the blood within them.

Although some physicians believe that the use of elastic stockings (to prevent pooling of blood in the legs) may help, I suspect that your mother might achieve the most benefit from being examined in the circulation clinic of a university hospital. She may have a deficiency of certain nerve hormones that could be corrected.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor found a hydrocele in my scrotum. He said that although it was not exactly normal, it was nothing to worry about at my age (72). Could you comment on this condition?

DEAR READER — A hydrocele is an accumulation of fluid within the thin membrane surrounding each testicle. In young men, it can be removed by surgery. However, in older men, it usually requires no treatment, since it is painless and harmless.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Four times in my life (1959, '79, '83 and '85) I have lost my sight to the extent I cannot read, dial a phone, etc. This will last about 30 minutes. It starts with a glare on everything I look at, then gets worse. What could cause such a thing?

DEAR READER — Temporary loss of sight can have serious causes. A common one is called "embolic phenomena." Tiny blood clots may break off from the walls of arteries and be carried to the retina, where they cause visual disturbances. You have had two episodes since 1983, so your body may be warning you to get immediate ophthalmologic evaluation before you experience loss of sight that can be permanent. Retinal clots can be the prelude to a more ominous event: a stroke. See an eye specialist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take birth-control pills and always have a serious vaginal itching. Is this caused by a yeast infection?

DEAR READER — Many women on birth-control pills will notice a slight vaginal discharge. This is not harmful; the itching can be controlled by meticulous cleaning and occasional douching. If you do have a low-grade yeast infection, your doctor can obtain appropriate cultures and prescribe a specific antidote. Sometimes changing the brand of contraceptive pill will help to control this kind of problem.

Cadet highest ranked woman

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A 20-year-old marketing major from Houston has become the highest-ranked woman ever in the Texas A&M University Corps of Cadets, officials say.

Amanda Schubert, who had been the highest-ranked woman in the 1,700-member Corps under her old title of administrative sergeant, was named the 1986-87 deputy Corps commander Tuesday.

"I know to everybody else it's news that I'm the first woman," she told The Battalion, A&M's student newspaper. "But in my mind I try to block that out totally because it's a distraction. I look at it the same way anyone else would."

SACROC eyes oil price drops

priced at $20 and possibly $15 per barrel.

Pointing to SACROC studies using $15 per barrel oil as a basis, Daniel said Tuesday that at this price some 365 wells would be shut-in — 120 more "uneconomic wells" than if oil continued to be sold at $27.50 per barrel.

The SACROC field contains 1,600 wells. As recently as early January, some 900 were producing wells, 450 were used for injection purposes and 250 were shut-in.

At $15 per barrel oil, the number of producing wells would drop from 900 to 780.

Also to be affected by the decline in oil price will be the number of workover jobs ordered for SACROC wells.

No projection was offered on how many will be planned this year, but Daniel said the reduction would likely be "significant." During 1985, SACROC completed 565 workover jobs at its wells.

Daniel noted also that Chevron and SACROC personnel face several key decisions during the upcoming year, the most important being the renewal of its C02 delivery contracts.

This gas used for secondary recovery injection is now purchased from hydrocarbon mines in the Val Verde Basin area of South Texas.

A pipeline also owned by the SACROC working interest owners is used to transport it to the Scurry County fields.

By November of this year, the bulk of these contracts for C02 will expire. Daniel noted that regional supervisors for Chevron rather than SACROC personnel are now involved in the negotiations for these new contracts.

In addition, a reoccurring problem was noted with corrosion causing leaks at an absorber column unit at the North Snyder Gas Plant C02 removal facility.

Attempts to patch and repair the column have twice proved insufficient, the group was told, and SACROC expects to make a decision by late summer regarding how best to repair it.

Oil prices dip below $12 a barrel

By The Associated Press

The major grades of oil from the United States and Britain have dropped below $12 a barrel, reaching levels that analysts say could force some producers to shut down oil wells.

The main U.S. crude, West Texas Intermediate, slipped to $11.63 a barrel at midmorning today in contracts for April delivery on the New York Mercantile Exchange after dropping to $11.98 a barrel Tuesday. That's a plunge of 63.3 percent from the November high of $31.70.

Oil ministers of six Persian Gulf nations scheduled a special meeting Saturday in Saudi Arabia to discuss the sharp fall in oil prices, the United Arab Emirates official news agency WAM reported today.

In the United States, oil last sold for under $12 a barrel in early 1978.

quired will be done only with the board's approval.

In other action, members approved a request from SCOOP (Scurry County Options and Opportunity for People) for printed mailing labels on oil royalty and working interest owners in the area. SCOOP will provide materials.

Two years ago, board members had filled a prior request from the local United Way campaign for the same information.

Those attending Tuesday's session included Ross Blanchard, Dwaine Williams, Pete Hester, John Reed, Mairl McFaul, L.R. Peveler, chief appraiser, and Larry Crooks, assistant appraiser.

WTC fence struck

Police report a fence on the Western Texas College dormitory parking lot was apparently struck by a vehicle which fled the scene sometime prior to 8:58 p.m. Tuesday.

It was the only traffic accident reported in Snyder for the day.

Correction...

A news report Monday regarding the burglary at a West Snyder residence indicated a safe had been removed from the house during the incident.

The safe was not removed, but was left inside the residence.

Multiple murder defendant denied counsel, lawyers say

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Night Stalker" defendant Richard Ramirez was told his mother would be haunted to her grave if he did not tell police about a series of murders, rapes and burglaries that terrorized the Los Angeles area last year, his attorneys said.

In a document released Tuesday, defense attorneys contended that Ramirez repeatedly asked for a lawyer after his arrest, "but the officer's only response was to ask him more questions and urge him to talk to him because a lawyer could only tell him to be quiet and the police would never know the details of the charges."

The attorneys, Daniel and Arturo Hernandez, who are not related, asked the judge to exclude from evidence any items obtained as a result of the taped interview. Their motion said the questioning led police to Ramirez's car and to two pistols and jewelry found in a bus depot locker.

Municipal Court Judge James Nelson said he did not plan to rule on the request unless prosecutors attempt to introduce such evidence. Nelson allowed reporters to look at the documents for the first time, however.

Tuesday was the second day of a preliminary hearing for Ramirez, 25, who is charged with 14 counts of murder, five attempted murders, 19 burglaries, six robberies, seven rapes, five acts of forced oral copulation, seven of sodomy, three lewd acts with children and two kidnappings.

The hearing will allow the judge to decide if there is enough evidence for Ramirez to stand trial on the charges.

The motion filed by the Hernandezes contended police told Ramirez they would "stick him with all the crimes," including child-molestation counts, if he did not talk.

"Defendant could save everyone a lot of suffering and make things easier on himself, and if he loved his mother it would help to tell details of the crimes and which ones the defendant did not commit," the lawyers said Ramirez was told.

The documents also quoted officers as saying, " 'It would haunt his mother to her grave,' if defendant didn't tell police everything. If it was 'your brother or sister' you'd want to know who did it."
