where they were sworn-in to their posts. The Carter Cabinet is now complete with the swearing-in of these two men.

Decision rests with Smith

City deadlocked on tax board

The Big Spring City Council was deadlocked this morning over the question of how the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board will be allowed to vote.

The council met in special session today to discuss the method of selecting members to the board and whether each member will be allowed to vote once appointed. The council and other taxing agencies in the county must make a decision about this matter before Oct. 1, said City Manager Don Davis.

Following today's deadlock, the decision was put off until Tuesday, when members will again consider it during the regular, 9 a.m. meeting of the council.

Three options are now being considered:

—If no action is taken, State Bill 621 will automatically go into effect. This bill specifies that only five members will serve on the board, with no representation for special taxing bodies such as the water district or Howard College.

—Three-quarters of the nine taxing agencies in the county may vote to change the method of selection of board members, and elect a member for each of the nine agencies represented. Then the same plurality may vote to give each member an equal vote.

—Three-quarters may vote to allow representation of each of the nine agencies. But the same plurality may then vote to give each member a weighted vote based on the amount that the agency he represents contributes to the total board budget.

If the last option were chosen, some agencies would have representatives on the board but no vote because of their small contribution to the operating costs.

It is this last provision that brought disagreement among council members.

Members Ralph McLaughlin and Mayor Wade Choate supported the provision, saying that a larger contribution from such agencies as the Big Spring Independent School District, Howard County and Howard College entitled their members to a larger portion of the vote.

Councilman Bill Henkel and Larry Miller argued that each member of the board should be entitled to an equal share of the vote; one man-one vote.

Newly-appointed council member Jack Y. Smith was present at the meeting, but chose to wait until the regular meeting Tuesday to be sworn in. The issue will arise again during that meeting, and Smith is expected to break the deadlock one way or another.

Commissioners interview librarian hopeful

County follows city's lead

By DON WOODS

Howard County Commissioners tabled a resolution voting to give agencies in the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board equal votes after learning that the city had tabled their resolution this morning.

Howard County Commissioner David Barr said county commissioners didn't feel that smaller entities such as Forsan and Coahoma would approve the measure unless all votes on the board counted equal.

Commissioners interviewed Ronald Tester of Texas City for the recently vacated Howard County librarian's job.

Tester said he had become concerned that the health of his family was in danger in Texas City due to the proximity of the Monsanto, Union Carbide companies and major refineries.

He said people who live in the area take the risk of explosions and breathing toxic gases. "People who work in the plants make $9 to $10 an hour and it makes it worth their while," he said.

He also complained of the budget being heavily weighted in favor of the Parks and Recreation Department in Texas City. He said that in the "soft services" part of the budget, $700,000 went for things such as "handball courts and saunas" while the library budget was under $200,000.

Tester was head librarian in Texas City from 1975 to August 1978. He said while he was there he saw their library budget climb.

Tester was pleased when told of the Big Spring's library budget of $113,000. The Howard County librarian's salary will be $12,492 in the 1979-80 budget.

Tester received a master's degree from North Texas State in 1970 in library science. In addition to his work in Texas City he has worked in libraries in San Angelo and Denton. He supervised 13 people in Texas City.

His wife is from Denton. They will be married a year in December and have an 11-month old baby.

He said if hired he intended to live in Big Spring permanently. He would be able to begin work in early October.

His wife is a teacher in Texas City but would be able to give two weeks notice to the school board there.

Commissioners said they'd give Tester their decision after lunch.

In other action, commissioners voted to give county employees working in the maintenance shop allowance to have their uniforms cleaned.

Four jets shot down?

Israeli, Syrian planes engage in air battles

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli and Syrian warplanes battled in the skies south of Beirut today, and two to four Syrian jets were reported shot down. It was the second dogfight between the old enemies in four days.

Lebanese government sources said two Syrian fighters crashed in flames near Beirut International Airport but their pilots parachuted to safety.

An Israeli military command spokesman in Tel Aviv said four Syrian planes were downed and all Israeli aircraft returned safely to base.

Associated Press reporter Mohammed Salam said he saw a large explosion near the airport when he was driving to work.

"There was a big orange flash and a big explosion and then smoke," he said.

The air clash came at a time when the United States and other countries are growing increasingly critical of Israeli military actions in neighboring Lebanon. But Israel vows to continue

Sewage plant funds

19 years of higher water bills looming

By JAMES WERRELL

Big Springers may be paying higher water and sewer bills for the next 19 years in order to finance improvements at the local sewage treatment plant.

The city had originally been promised approximately $1.7 million from the federal Economic Development Administration in order to make the improvements. Work at the plant was scheduled to begin before the first of next year in compliance with a mandate from the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

But when the three bids for the project were opened last week, the low bid was approximately $1.3 million over the amount budgeted by the city.

In order to come up with the difference, the city will have to work fast, according to Joe Smith, financial adviser. He provided the council with a table of payments on certificates of obligation to be paid back over a 19-year period.

"I am ready to go on this. We should determine by Tuesday what method we will use," said Smith, during a special 10 a.m. meeting today.

As outlined by the adviser, the certificates of obligation would be issued in the amount of over $1.8 million to make up the difference needed to complete the project. This would be paid back in 1999.

In order to finance the certificates, customers will be required to pay between 25 and 50 cents more on their monthly water bills. Since the city has already raised the bill by $1.25 in order to finance junior liens for the project, the net increase would total between $1.45 and $1.75 for 19 years, said Don Davis, city manager.

Interest on certificates of obligation over the 19-year pay-back period could total as much as $4 million, estimated Smith.

Smith presented an optional plan to finance the project using revenue bonds instead of certificates of obligation. This plan would cost between a half and one percent more in terms of interest, and is not available, said Smith.

Jack Watkins, former councilman, also brought up the option of shortening the pay-back period to 10 years. This, said Smith, would increase the needed increase in water rates to at least $2.

"That's just too much to ask. I have to live in this city," said Councilman Bill Henkel. "I suggest that we pursue the 19-year plan."

The rest of the council concurred, and scheduled first and final approval of such a plan for Tuesday's regular meeting.

'No Nukes' rally lures 200,000

NEW YORK (AP)—It was billed as a protest against nuclear power. By the time it ended, sunny skies, free music and a controversial issue drew an estimated 200,000 people to the tip of Manhattan for a "No Nukes" rally.

Why did they gather here on the crisp first day of autumn?

"It was mainly for the music that I came, and to remember Woodstock and the '60s," said Princeton student Janine Verbinski, 20.

"People here will learn about the cause," said Jonie Miller, who came to take a stand against nuclear energy and sat in the front row.

The peaceful day-long gathering was the largest anti-nuclear, pro-solar rally in history and the focus of a day of similar protests nationwide. There were no arrests or other incidents here.

Elsewhere, however, protesters blocked the main gate to the Vermont Yankee nuclear plant in Vernon to disrupt its annual refueling, and police arrested 167 persons on charges of unlawful trespass.

The festive crowd on the edge of New York Harbor heard speeches on the dangers of nuclear power from political and environmental activists and listened to the music of a loose new alliance of musicians committed to a solar society—including Pete Seeger, Bonnie Raitt, Jackson Browne, and Crosby, Stills and Nash.

"We are here to propose a conversion program from a nuclear to a non-nuclear society, community by community, state by state, region by region, to an age of solar energy and renewable resources," said activist Tom Hayden, who heads the Campaign for Economic Democracy. His wife, actress Jane Fonda, also spoke.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged the crowd to oppose presidential candidates who favor nuclear power and support those who oppose it, making energy a major political issue in 1980.

"To stop nuclear energy is patriotic. It is fighting the cancer war," he said. "Do you have the will?"

The crowd responded with chants of "No nukes! No nukes!"

Barry Commoner of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems in St. Louis announced the formation of a new political party, the Citizens Party, which he said would lobby for anti-nuclear issues.

Sunday's rally, organized by a committee sponsored by the non-profit Musicians United for Safe Energy, capped a week of concerts at Madison Square Garden by major rock performers who volunteered to raise money for political action against nuclear power.

Those concerts were not free, but Sunday the crowd was only asked to place donations for the anti-nuclear effort in red plastic bags. It was not known how much was donated.

Broken leg might delay Davis trial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The judge in the Cullen Davis murder solicitation trial delayed until Tuesday a decision on whether the proceedings will hold up because a juror broke her leg.

State District Judge Gordon Gray said today he would wait until he learns how long juror Kathryn Holman, 53, will be out. She broke her leg this past weekend and underwent surgery today.

Both sides have indicated a willingness to wait 10 days to two weeks.

The case could continue with 11 jurors, but not 10.

How Mrs. Holman broke her leg was not disclosed.

2,837 homes flooded

HOUSTON (AP) — A Red Cross survey indicates last week's heavy rains flooded about 2,837 homes in Harris and Brazoria counties.

By comparison, the downpours spawned by tropical storm Claudette the last week in July flooded 7,004 homes.

A Galveston County survey had not been completed.

Bill Barron of the Red Cross said 1,937 Harris County homes were flooded last week with 250 of them falling in the major damage category.

Barron said about 900 Brazoria County homes were damaged, with Liverpool being hit the hardest. He said Liverpool had 10 homes destroyed and 44 with major damage.

Claudette damaged 3,428 homes in Harris County and 3,576 in Brazoria.

No damage estimates have been compiled on last week's flooding but Claudette was estimated to have caused $750 million, including $200 million in Harris County.

Sheriff had no choice

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — The Hidalgo County sheriff testified today he felt he had no choice but to call federal law enforcement officials after hearing tapes of local district attorney Oscar McInnis allegedly arranging to have someone killed.

"I realize I had a problem a lot bigger than I was capable of handling," Sheriff Brig Marmolejo said today as McInnis' civil disbarment trial entered its second week.

Marmolejo furnished a tape recorder to a jail inmate, Daniel Rodriguez, after the prisoner told him McInnis wanted a man assassinated in Mexico. The sheriff did not believe Rodriguez's story of the alleged plot and gave him the recorder to get proof of the dark scheme.

The intended victim of the alleged plot, Noe Villanueva, who was not killed, is the ex-husband of a woman McInnis represented as a private lawyer in a child custody battle.

The State Bar of Texas wants to strip McInnis of his law license due to allegations of professional misconduct. One of the allegations is that McInnis acted improperly by trying to get Rodriguez to arrange Villanueva's death.

The bar will try to get State District Judge Joe B. Evans to allow use of the taped conversations between the district attorney and Rodriguez as courtroom evidence.

Ex-dictator accepted?

PARIS (AP) — Deposed dictator Jean Bedel Bokassa took to the skies again today, heading back to Africa in search of asylum after spending 56 hours at a military base west of Paris in an abortive effort to gain sanctuary in France. Unconfirmed reports said the Ivory Coast agreed to accept him.

But official French sources who reported Bokassa's departure declined to give the precise destination of the former self-proclaimed emperor of the Central African Empire, overthrown in a bloodless, French-backed coup Thursday by former President David Dacko.

Vance vows protection

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States gave assurances at the United Nations today that it intends to protect "the legitimate rights" of the Palestinian people in any Middle East settlement.

In a major policy speech, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance called also for preserving Lebanon's integrity. He said a shaky cease-fire must be built up to a broader truce.

Hours before he spoke, Israeli and Syrian warplanes engaged in a dogfight over Lebanon and two to four Syrian jets were reported shot down. Last Thursday, Syria's Damascus Radio reported Syrian jets had driven off Israeli aircraft flying over southern Lebanon.

The United States and other countries have been growing increasingly critical of Israel's military activity in Lebanon, but Israel has vowed to continue its policy of striking Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon.

Farm markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were mixed at midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 33 points to 62.62 cents a pound Friday for the ten leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Late afternoon prices were 15 cents a bale higher to $1.15 lower than the previous close. Oct. 66, Dec. 66, and Mar. 66.

Gas more plentiful, prices still rising

Gasoline availability in Texas has improved dramatically since Labor Day and prices have moved up around a half-cent per gallon each week during the month of September.

The first of a series of monthly surveys of 390 service stations conducted by the American Automobile Association shows that 35 percent of the stations are now staying open later than 8 p.m. on weekdays, compared to 30 percent when AAA issued its 17th and last weekly Fuel Gauge Report at the end of August.

Fifty-four percent of the stations are pumping gasoline on Saturday nights, compared to 44 percent in the earlier survey. Thirty-eight percent are open on Sundays, the same percentage as in August.

The survey revealed an increase in the number of stations open 24 hours a day, from 5 percent of the total to 6 percent, and a sharp decrease in the number of stations out of one or another grade of fuel, from 7 percent in August to 2 percent this month.

Gasoline prices rose from 1.5 to 2.5 cents per gallon in the three weeks between the surveys. Current average full-service prices (previous survey's prices in parentheses) are regular 92.5 cents per gallon (90.3); unleaded 95.9 cents (94.1); and premium 97.9 (95.4).

Average self-service prices are regular 89.5 (87.7); unleaded 93.2 (91.7); and premium 95.0 (93.1). The average price of diesel fuel is 95.6 cents per gallon, compared to 93.3 in the earlier survey.

Ron Brooks, Tammy Wise win steer, goat champs

A steer entered in the Howard County Steer Show Saturday by Ron Brooks took Grand Champion Steer of the Show honors. The Reserve Champion award went to a steer entered by Joe Lopez.

The Junior Steer and Heifer Show was chairmaned by Lloyd Robinson and Aubrey Lankford. The 9 a.m. judging was conducted by Richard Spencer of Fischer County.

In American Cross class, Walter Stone placed first. His entry was the champion cross while a second-place entry of Laurie Daniels' took reserve champ.

Joe Lopez's heavyweight British Cross took championship of that class while Tim Tate's entry took second place and reserve champ.

In the lightweight Cross class, Brian Burcham placed first.

Champion of heavyweight Exotic Cross steer class was Ron Brooks first-place entry. Wade Ingram's entry took second place and reserve champion Exotic Cross.

Cole Hunt's entry placed first in lightweight Exotic Cross class.

Grand champion of the Goat Show was an entry by Tammy Wise. Chris Stone's goat took reserve grand champion. The champion aged honors went to Tammy Wise's goat while Chris Stone's took reserve champion aged.

Shawn Proffitt's goat won champion kid while reserve champion kid went to Dan Driver.

Howard County Agent Don Richardson served as superintendent of the goat show which was judged by T. Paul Hopper of Knott.

Local Toyota dealer 'ambassador' to Japan

Big Spring has its own 'Ambassador' to Japan.

Travis Floyd, accompanied by his wife Claudene, is one of 1,050 dealers across the United States to be invited by Toyota to use the 1980 models and visit the company's headquarters and production facilities in Japan.

Floyd has been named "Ambassador" to reflect his role as a goodwill representative of Big Spring, his dealership and the Toyota organization in the United States.

The Sept. 25-Oct. 5 trip to Japan, called the Toyota Goodwill Ambassadors 20th Anniversary Thank You Event, marks the culmination of Toyota's celebration of 20 years of business in the U.S. It also represents Toyota's latest efforts to encourage cultural exchanges between the people of Japan and the U.S.

One of the goodwill aspects of the trip will be presentations of gifts from the mayors of New York, Los Angeles, Detroit and Boston to the mayors of their Japanese sister cities, Tokyo, Nagoya, Toyota City and Kyoto.

The Floys will tour Toyota manufacturing plants and get a preview of the 1980 Toyotas before their official introduction in the U.S. next month.

Floyd's dealership, Mesa Valley Toyota, Inc., is located at 511 S. Gregg.

Weather Autumn officially arrived Sunday

By The Associated Press

Autumn officially arrived Sunday, but you wouldn't know it by the weather. It's still summer in Texas.

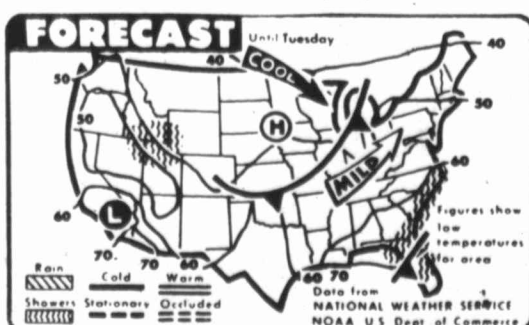

The National Weather Service forecast temperatures in the 90s for all of Texas today except for the Panhandle and the mountains of far West Texas, where maximums in the upper 80s were likely.

Skies were clear early today over the state, with no precipitation, although fog was forming in the lower coastal area. Visibility dropped to two miles an hour at 4 a.m.

Gold prices skyrocket; dollar sags

LONDON (AP) — The dollar slipped to its lowest afternoon price in 11 months against the West German mark today following a revaluation of Europe's strongest currency. Gold prices shot up by $7 an ounce or more in early trading.

In Frankfurt, dealers "fixed" the dollar rate at 1.7653 marks this afternoon. That was down from the morning rate of 1.7697 but still up from Friday's close of 1.7635.

It was the lowest afternoon fixing rate, however, since the fixing at 1.7367 marks to the dollar on Oct. 31, 1978, the day before President Carter announced a massive dollar rescue plan.

Some dealers suggested that the dollar's afternoon weakness against the mark indicated steps to realign currencies of the European Monetary System which were announced early today, may not take pressure off the dollar.

Trading was described as moderate compared with panicky activity late last week.

Gold dealers in London set their pre-fixing early morning price for bullion at $377.50 a Troy ounce, up from $369.00 Friday.

In Zurich, gold opened at $376.50, up from $369.50.

The revaluation of the West German mark was announced in Brussels after a meeting Sunday of finance ministers and central bank governors of eight of the nine European Common Market countries.

The eight nations are members of the European Monetary System currency alignment. Britain is the only common market country not in it.

The mark was revalued upwards by two percent against the French and Belgian francs.

G. Robinson

Govie Robinson, 63, died at 6 p.m. Sunday in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be held in the Baker A.M.E. Chapel Methodist Church and burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park. Further arrangements are pending at Sheppard Funeral Home.

Born April 19, 1916, in Leon County, he married Rachel Urdy in 1966 in Big Spring. He was a nursery man, a member of Bakers Chapel, and had lived here for 33 years.

Survivors include his wife, Rachel, of Big Spring; three sisters, Mrs. Lillie Mae Jones and Mrs. Cora Brown, both of Buffalo, and Mrs. Eva Price of Stanton; and several nieces and nephews.

'This is our time machine'

Church's freedoms in Russia

SUZDAL, U.S.S.R. (AP) — "This is our time machine," the guide said, gesturing around the inside of the bus speeding east from Moscow's skyscrapers toward this 12th century museum of Russian Orthodoxy.

Father Valentine, a Russian monk, was waiting for the bus. He escorted his guests into a dining room in the All Sorrows Church, where religious services no longer take place but the table groaned with specimens of old Russian cooking.

Iced bottles of vodka appeared. Course after course disappeared only to be replaced by another. Shots of vodka, drunk in toasts, lubricated the palate. The monk Valentine, with the girth of a Soviet weightlifter, did all the cooking. He had trained as a chef before going to the seminary. He ate only salads, however, because he was fasting.

The next day was a high holy day, the Assumption of Mary, and the Soviet Council of Religious Affairs had arranged for Western reporters to visit the ancient Russian cities of Suzdal and nearby Vladimir to view the ceremonies and to show skeptical Westerners there really is freedom of religion in Russia.

The monk Valentine lives in a new, detached and privately owned house resplendent with rich oriental rugs, cabinets full of crystal and a pantry of food that many Russians would seldom have the chance or money to buy.

He ministers to a small flock of little old ladies, whose brightly colored headscarves and black coats made them look like a patchwork quilt as they stood jammed shoulder to shoulder in a small nearby church for a service on the eve of the Assumption.

Such a congregation could scarcely support the monk's lifestyle, and one of the Council of Religious Affairs officials allowed that Father Valentine had other sources of wealth. Just what they were was left unclear.

In general, the Russian clergymen seemed to lead privileged lives and seemed, too, to be eager to please Russia's avowedly atheistic government.

Orthodoxy was the official religion of Russia before the 1917 revolution. When the czar fell, Lenin carefully separated the church from his government and Soviet education.

A system of anti-religious propaganda was put in place. Later the Council of Religious Affairs was set up as the official go-between that purportedly sees to it that the church does not break the law and that the government does not infringe upon religious rights.

When the new Soviet constitution was adopted on Oct. 10, 1977, Article 52 said, "Citizens of the U.S.S.R. are guaranteed freedom of conscience, that is, the right to profess or not to profess any religion."

The new constitution also changed the theme of propaganda regarding religion. It no longer is called anti-religious. It, instead, is pro-atheistic. Soviet regulations restrict most church proselytizing.

There are 11,500 Russian Orthodox churches still operating in the Soviet Union. Ten times that number are estimated to have served the country before 1917.

On the day of the Assumption festival, a day made more special because it marked the first service in five years in the ornate 12th century Assumption Cathedral in Vladimir, the archbishop of Vladimir directed the service, attended by more old ladies.

There was only an occasional man. A small boy was being directed through the crowd by one old lady who held the tyke by the ear.

The cathedral, constructed between 1158 and 1160, has been undergoing restoration for the past five years. The archbishop said the Moscow patriarchate contributed $1.8 million to the project.

Returns feeling proud

Rep. Leland makes quick trip to Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Mickey Leland made a quick trip to Cuba last week on the U.S. mission to retrieve released American prisoners, and the freshman Democrat from Houston returned feeling proud of himself.

"I feel that it was a tremendously exciting kind of involvement that I had,"

Leland said on his return to Washington.

"For me to have played a part in a venture like this, I think, brings a lot of understanding to bear that blacks can indeed involve themselves in foreign affairs," he said.

Leland traveled to Cuba last May and heard Cuban Premier Fidel Castro promise that the last U.S. prisoners would be released if President Carter did the same for four Puerto Rican nationalists.

The Texas congressman represents some of the poorest areas of Houston, and he said his growing interest in foreign affairs would not jeopardize his work on domestic programs.

"I think it has developed a credibility for me, a unique capability for a freshman congressman," Leland said.

Bob Krueger, nominated as ambassador-at-large for Mexican affairs, jumped in without hesitation when a senator asked him to describe his Spanish language ability.

"No puedo negociar en español," Krueger replied, which means "I can't negotiate in Spanish." The nominee then went on to explain in Spanish that he could carry on informal conversations.

Krueger, a former Texas congressman, was promptly asked to translate his reply for those senators at the foreign relations committee who could match his bilingual ability.

The committee was considering whether to approve his nomination. A vote is pending.

Jessica Catto, the sister of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, and her husband Henry have purchased the Washington Journalism Review.

Plans call for the two-year-old publication to become a monthly magazine in January.

Mrs. Catto told the Washington Post she was looking forward to "discussing the problems of the media itself, and some that it may cause."

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES — A newly-elected sign in Knock, Ireland points the way to various places around town for the benefit of the thousands who are expected to visit when Pope John Paul II arrives later this week. Big cities using political pull

Small town mayors losing out

DUNELLEN, N.J. (AP) — Because big cities have political pull, says Mayor Larry Anzovino, small towns are losing out in Washington. As chief executive of this town of 7,200, he's pushing a plan to give Small Town U.S.A. a piece of the action.

Anzovino is executive director of the New Jersey Mayors Association, which lobbies for small towns. That group, which represents 260 of New Jersey's 550 communities, wants to form a national organization to give small communities the ear of the president.

"We feel that there is no closer official to the people than the mayor," he said. "But unfortunately, the great potential of the office of mayor collectively has not been used."

Small town chief executives, he says, are tired of being excluded when decisions are made by the states and federal government.

Big-city mayors "have the opportunity to meet with the president, sometimes at short notice," he said. Major cities are represented by The U.S. Conference of Mayors, which accepts only mayors from cities of 35,000 or more — 700 of the 15,000 communities in the United States, Anzovino said.

They've got their own tremendous problems, and because of the concerns of the large urban cities, the smaller towns are losing out on their problems," he said.

"They don't represent every city in the country," said Livio Mancino, mayor of Kenilworth, N.J., population 9,000. "We don't have a voice now. Who's going to listen to me?"

Anzovino was appointed chairman of the ad hoc Mayors Energy Committee by then-White House energy czar William Simon during the 1973 oil crisis. He said he heard the complaints of big cities and small towns alike while serving on the energy panel. Many times, he said, it was the bigger communities that took priority.

"Just about every piece of legislation that is handed down is most of the time to the detriment of small towns," he said.

He cited mandated building codes intended for large urban buildings, lack of public transportation, the high cost of sewage projects and fear of losing federal revenue-sharing funds.

"Let's take Victor Gardens (N.J.)," Anzovino said Sunday. "They eliminated their entire police department. The revenues from the federal government had almost ceased for them. I'm sure that if they were a city, the government would recognize (the problem). But since it's a small town, they were forgotten."

He has now asked the White House to help organize a national group of mayors from large and small communities to advise the president on every city's needs and is waiting for word from Vice President Walter Mondale, he said.

"I know in the past he (the president) may have turned to the big city mayors for advice, but we want to get involved in trying to solve the energy problems," Anzovino said.

No attempts to bar Glass

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — A former United Pentecostal minister who was dismissed from the church's Texas District last month says he will attend the group's international convention in Salt Lake City anyway.

The Rev. Charles Glass was to be seated as an official delegate to the convention today.

Church officials said no attempts would be made to bar Glass from registering as a delegate.

Some church members have charged that Glass and his wife had departed from Pentecostal practices and were leading bizarre religious fanaticism, including terrorism directed against members of the congregation.

Small town of Celina turns out to help Cindy

CELINA, Texas (AP) — A wish only cost a penny in this small town 48 miles north of Dallas. But the pennies were covered with folding money this weekend.

It cost a quarter to enter the sack races, but some paid with $20 bills and asked for no change.

The carnival was part of Cindy's Day, a celebration to raise money for a teen-age cheerleader who lay in a hospital bed in Dallas.

Cindy Morris was paralyzed from the neck down since Aug. 20, when she fell while performing a cheerleader stunt with the Celina High School squad. She turned 17 Aug. 30.

The townspeople have been trying to help the Morris family pay Cindy's $1,000-a-day medical costs, and Saturday's events were a part of that continuing effort.

Doctors doubt she will ever move again, and have been unable to estimate how long she will have to remain in intensive care.

Cindy is not humorless about her condition. A respirator makes talking impossible, but there are other ways to communicate.

Three nurses who flank her bed lean in close so that they can hear what she is whispering. The words are clear: "Smile. Show me some teeth."

Saturday's events began with a pancake breakfast and ended with a twilight concert. The Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders made an appearance at the small town affair.

Tables groaned under the strain of donated canned goods and bakery items. Out-of-towners pushed toward the tables to make their purchases.

Food and drink, clowns and laughter, dominoes and stories were the orders of the day.

A 7-year-old girl ran across the town square to pick a treasure from a witch's pockets. She smilingly told her mother, "Cindy must be an awfully special person."

A farmer leaned over the small, blond girl and said, "She is, child, she is."

Business world improves Olympic outlook

Let us all hope that it never comes to the point where the United States has to subsidize the U.S. Olympic team.

If that ever happened, the coaches would get so caught up in paper work they would have time to condition the athletes. In short, the bureaucrats would take over.

The world of athletics deals in split second timing. The bureaucrats work by the calendar, as if they were fearful of ever finishing anything.

IT'S TRUE THAT one of the stock complaints of Americans who follow the quadrennial games is the fact that Communist bloc athletes get all the support — financial and otherwise — they need from their governments, while their American counterparts have to be kept in suspense until five minutes before midnight before they learn whether there is going to be enough money to get them there in back.

The situation has improved mightily in recent years, however, thanks to a group of American businesses, which have acted in recent years to redress the balance.

The aim is not to involve the United States government in the Olympics on a mammoth scale. Rather, some of the nation's largest corporations have initiated a unique program in which the athletes are hired, but in jobs — real jobs — while at the same time given all the help they need to train.

In most instances, it has worked out beautifully for all concerned: The athletes are relieved of economic uncertainty and can work out productive training schedules for themselves. The companies, while they cannot advertise the fact that they have Olympians on their payroll (something that would jeopardize the amateur standing of the athletes), nevertheless benefit from the association. Let it be added that some of the athletes also make valued employees in the process.

EVEN THIS, dramatic as it is, amounts to only a drop in the bucket compared to what the Russians, the East Germans and other Marxist states lavish on their athletes.

It does, however, represent a beginning that could lead ultimately to American successes next year in Moscow. And if it means giving the totalitarian states just a taste of their own medicine — well, what's wrong with that?

No logic

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

Madalyn Murray O'Hair. The name has been in the news recently.

Mrs. O'Hair is an atheist who has filed two lawsuits in federal district court in Washington to stop Pope John Paul II from conducting mass at a public mall in the capital.

She has a right to her opinion, of course. But I hope the U.S. Justice Department takes her lawsuits, stuffs them in a pie and smashes the whole thing in her face.

everyones'. The protection is something we pay taxes for and should be used freely.

Also, by not permitting a mass in a public place, the separation clause in the Constitution is questioned. Can the state say a person cannot pray wherever and whenever he wants to, even if it is in a public mall?

The pope is coming to the United States and the same excitement prevails that would if the Queen of England was coming instead.

I COULD NOT think of a bigger insult, than to have him come, and have people who want to see him denied that freedom. With the crowds he will be drawing, it is only logical a public mall be used.

If Mrs. O'Hair's thinking had any logic, which it does not, then the pope should not be meeting with the president, whose salary is paid out of tax dollars.

My biggest objection to her actions, is, she is trying to prevent a person's freedom of choice.

I wonder what Madalyn Murray O'Hair is so afraid of.

POPE JOHN PAUL II is not only a spiritual leader, but also a head of state. He should be given the same respect and consideration any other head of state be given.

Mrs. O'Hair says she wants to keep the church and the state separated, and does not want tax dollars used for things such as security.

I wonder if it occurred to her the pope could walk out on that mall and draw no crowd whatsoever. He will, however, draw a crowd of thousands.

No one is being forced to go to the mass. It is anyone's freedom of choice. The security is there not only for the pope's protection, but for

Papers shredded

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — One of the Water-gate routines was the "deep-sixing" of documents, which showed negligence or worse on the part of government officials. It is a practice, unhappily, that still has not stopped.

Senate investigators were stunned to learn recently that as many as 50,000 grand jury documents had been shredded last March. The documents had been subpoenaed by a grand jury investigating price fixing by the international uranium cartel. The shredding was done with the supervision of Justice Department officials despite their knowledge that the Senate Judiciary Antitrust Subcommittee wanted to examine the evidence.

THE DEPARTMENT'S cavalier attitude toward documentary evidence would come as no surprise to senators if they had seen an internal Justice Department memorandum that was part of the records sealed by the court.

The suppressed memo, which will be happy to make available to the Senate, details a strong case for the prosecution of a California business executive. He allegedly destroyed uranium-pricing documents that had been subpoenaed by the Justice Department for use in its probe of the uranium cartel.

Yet the executive, George White Jr., was not indicted for felonious obstruction of justice, as Justice Department attorneys urged. Instead, he was allowed to plead guilty to contempt of court — a misdemeanor — and was let off with a fine.

This was just one episode in the Uranium Cartel Follies, which was orchestrated by John Shenefield, head of Justice's antitrust division. Yet he was not held in disrepute; on the contrary, he was hailed and promoted. He is coming up for Senate confirmation as Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti's chief deputy.

Shenefield has an upright demeanor about him. He is given to making impressive statements about the evils of economic concentration. He assured our reporter, Sally Ann Denton, that he didn't remember the details of the proposed indictment, which was recommended in a 24-page report by Robert Fabrikant and Kenneth P. Freiberg on Jan. 3, 1978. We're pleased to refresh his memory.

WHITE WAS EXECUTIVE vice president of the Nuclear Exchange Corp. (Nuexco), a uranium brokerage and information clearinghouse in Menlo Park, Calif. It was one of some 40 companies that were issued subpoenas on June 16, 1976, as part of the Justice Department investigation of uranium price rigging. This has cost American consumers many millions of dollars in electric bills from nuclear-powered utilities companies.

Dear Editor:

Ever hear about the wonderful way children used to care for the elders? I'm sure we all have, and I'm certain there were many homes in our country where the elders were kept home, looked up to and sought out for their wisdom and knowledge. But, haven't you also wondered whether the old home base was the rule, or the exception?

Regardless of the answer to that question, alas, times have changed. For good or for bad, the home is not as it used to be. Families are busy raising children and making a living. People are scattered and very few spend their lives in the same community in which they were born.

There is another factor that changes things today. People live longer and there are more older people today. So more and more families are being confronted with the problem of the aging person. It is wonderful when a person survives to old age and is physically and mentally capable of self care and most older people are doing that. But there is a small number of these aging ones upon whom life has taken a toll and they now have various physical and/or mental problems which make it impossible for them to care for themselves.

Some are severe enough that the family cannot adequately care for them. Then comes that decision "what will we do?" If we cannot get live-in help we have to think of that other alternative "The Nursing Home!" This thought stops most people cold. "Is there anything worse that we could do than to pass judgement on mama and sentence her to such a fate?" Then everybody concerned has guilt feelings.

May I ask why? As a nursing home administrator, I believe this is wrong thinking and needless guilt.

When a person is incapacitated and cannot care for himself, the logical thing to do is to get him to a place where there is the right kind of help for his particular needs. For example, when a person has a heart attack or a stroke, we immediately get that person to the hospital with an emergency room, intensive care and wards where there is licensed, trained personnel with the necessary equipment on hand.

When sufficient progress has been made, the patient is discharged. A few of these patients find themselves in a difficult situation. The heart attack or stroke or whatever the ailment might have been, has left them changed physically and/or mentally and even though their condition is stabilized there is still a need for licensed nursing help. This help is at the hospital, but that much help is not needed and besides the cost is prohibitive, as is licensed help 24 hours per day in the home. After all other avenues fail the only place left is the nursing home. What do we find in a nursing home?

A nursing home has a staff of licensed nurses plus nurses aides, orderlies and medication aides along with activity directors, dietary (kitchen) help, housekeepers and janitors, maintenance, laundry, ward clerk, office and administration. A complete staff to care for every need of the patient. But there must be something more than just building and staff if complete care is to be given. The patient needs to be able to look at himself as a person who has taken up residence in a new home, to share in the total life of the home. This can come about only with the help of the staff, the families and the community.

A nursing home is unlike any other place in the world to work. It takes special kinds of people to work there. They must be people with love and compassion for the older people and a desire to serve them. Most of us are in this particular business because we care and want to help give these people the best later years we can. This is our first priority. We cannot prolong nor shorten life, only God can control that, but we can and will endeavor, with all the resources available to us to give them the best possible life in the years they have left.

In my short time as administrator here, I have found a staff who do care for the residents, and are working hard to give the best care possible. We have made some changes and there are more to come, and I feel certain the entire staff will work alongside me to make it a good home for our older residents.

Dialogue

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Reading Sen. Kennedy's daily interview this morning adds not very much to one's store of knowledge about things to come. Mr. Kennedy's progress from an adamant supporter of President Carter to an unannounced candidate for president might well have been written into the "Farmer's Almanac," so clearly programmed has it been. To be sure, it has depended heavily on the maladroitness of President Carter, but after a fairly brief experience with him as president, Mr. Carter's shortcomings could also have been written into the "Almanac" with a fair sense of accuracy a couple of years ago.

It was therefore refreshing to see another story, this one not about an interview with Kennedy, but an account of what a White House aide said to a Kennedy aide, and vice versa, at an extended meeting. Herewith a reconstruction of that conversation, developed from the bare bones of the news story:

CARTER AIDE: You know something, Jan, my man doesn't give up. We all talk about the good of the party, and we'll all continue to talk about the good of the party. But my man is much more interested in staying on as president of the United States for four more years than he is in the health and welfare of the Democratic Party. I've known people who would kill for country, family, church, maybe even for Yale. But there aren't that many people around who would die for the welfare of the Democratic Party.

Kennedy Aide: OK, OK, so both sides will play the same game. But you people should face reality. My man is probably the single most popular political figure alive — right? Check any popularity poll. So if your guy doesn't get out of the way, he's going to be flattened. And the undisputed leader of the movement that flattened him is going to emerge not only as head of the Democratic Party numerically strong but structurally weak — look how it deserted McGovern in 1972 — he'll emerge as leader of a newly energized party, determined to bring back party discipline, determined to restore faith in liberal principles —

C.A.: HEY, HEY, hold up. You're not talking to a trade union convention. Listen: your popularity polls are as reliable as Prince Valiant's. Five out of six of the people who are Kennedy-lovers reject the three or four positions with which he is most prominently identified. My man is not incapable of making this clear —

K.A.: Your man is incapable of making ANYTHING clear.

C.A.: OK, OK, we have our little weaknesses. But my man didn't get to the White House by exhibiting his weaknesses. He got there by displaying his strengths. And one of his strengths is that he can take on the challenger, who comes in on his magic carpet, and by the time the clock strikes midnight, the challenger will be back at McSorley's Ale House, drinking with the boys and prepared to live out a humdrum life as just another senator.

K.A.: Your analysis of the power of my man is about as lucid as your guy's analysis of the energy crisis, which changes every month or two. I don't deny that my man has superstar qualities. How're you gonna remove that? It's like removing a birthmark —

C.A.: "Macbeth shall never vanquish'd be until — Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill — Shall come against him."

K.A.: What ARE you talking about?

C.A.: What we have in mind to do when you begin your usurpation.

K.A.: What's that got to do with Great Burnham? Besides, if I remember English history, it was Burnham the Great, not the other way around.

Hiccups no laughing matter

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My dad is 58 and is in excellent condition except for excessive hiccups. They come and go for no apparent reason. He sometimes hiccups for a week at a time, day and night, without relief. Doctors do not seem to be very concerned, but it is exhausting for him and very embarrassing in his business. Could it be his diet or his nerves? We have tried all sorts of remedies and nothing seems to work. — S.S.

Hiccups are caused by contractions of the muscles that help bring air into the lungs. The chief muscle is the diaphragm, the large one that separates the chest cavity from the abdominal cavity.

Hiccups sometimes result from irritation of the nerve that stimulates these muscles. Such conditions as gastritis (stomach irritation), pleurisy (irritation of the lung covering) and pericarditis (inflammation of the heart covering) may be involved. Rarely, hiccups may be a symptom of kidney disease. In a severe case, which your dad seems to have, such possibilities should be investigated.

Treatment of a chronic case is always difficult. Chlorpromazine has been used. Doctors have also tried Novocaine-like drugs to block the large nerve (the phrenic) that controls the diaphragm muscle.

It is a difficult condition that can interfere with normal life. There are many maneuvers to use for a sudden attack of hiccups — taking deep breaths, breath-holding, drinking cold water, or breathing into a paper bag.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Three years ago my son was diagnosed as having Marfan's syndrome. There doesn't seem to be much known about this. Can you give me some information in it? They seem to think it can strike vital organs. Will it? The doctor has replaced his main heart valve. How long will this valve last? — M.H.P.

Marfan's syndrome is an inherited disease that affects three systems: the eye, the skeleton and the heart. In the eye, the lens can become dislocated. In the skeleton, the tubular bones are excessively long, producing elongated arms and legs, and spidery fingers.

In the heart, the main vessel leading from it (the aorta) has a wall weakness and becomes enlarged. This affects the efficiency of the heart valve leading to the aorta. The valve cannot close adequately and becomes "leaky." Replacement of this valve, which was done for your son, has a good success record. Such replaced valves have remained fully functioning for more than 20 years since the operations were first done in the 1950s.

For readers to have an image of what a person with Marfan's syndrome looks like, it is said that Abraham Lincoln had it. Not all people with Marfan's syndrome have all its symptoms.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter was given an electrocardiogram and was told she had an irregular heart beat. The doctor said it was from using nose sprays. After she stopped using them her heart beat became normal. Have you heard of this? — M.P.

Many nose sprays contain a drug similar to adrenalin (epinephrine). This can be absorbed by the tissues, as can many other locally-applied drugs. If absorbed in large amounts by a particularly sensitive person it can affect the heart's rhythm.

It's well that she had this warning, and not just because of the heart symptoms. Chronic use of nose sprays can cause troublesome rebound effects in nasal tissue itself, making the stuffiness worse as the effects wear off.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can a sinus infection cause nosebleeds? — Mrs. H.S.

Not usually. If the nasal passage itself is infected, then a nosebleed can occur.

NOTE TO D.A. — Why deprive your 79-year-old grandmother of a glass of wine at mealtime if she wants it? Wine is an appetite stimulant and that is why it is often served with meals in the better restaurants. So long as she has not been told she can't have her wine by her doctor, let her enjoy it.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please tell me if it is safe to use pottery or porcelain dishes for hot food and drink after they have become badly cracked? — Mrs. B.

Badly cracked dishes are difficult to clean. Bacteria can live and multiply in these cracks, where they are safe from ordinary cleansing agents. These bacteria can get into food. Those are the medical facts.

I guess you might wonder why half the population isn't ill with food poisoning of one form or another. I don't know why. Neither do I know why people who go through life jaywalking without ending up in orthopedic wards of hospitals. Perhaps some housewife will get herself a brand new set of dishes from all of this. Cracked dishes, if they're old enough and have the right markings on them, are great for garage sales. On the dining table they do pose the risks I mention.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Can we really know anything about God? I look at all the ideas people have, and all the different churches and religions, and it seems to me that everyone is just guessing about what God is like. — D.O.

DEAR D.O.: It is true the world is full of many religions. Humanity is almost incurably religious; no matter how primitive or sophisticated a society may be, the idea of a supreme being is present. You are right — up to a point — in suggesting religious ideas are little more than man's ideas about God.

But can we know what God is like? Yes! Furthermore, not only can we know what God is like, but we can know Him in a personal relationship. That is a wonderful truth, and I pray that you will come to know this great truth for yourself.

How can we know God? We can know God because He has not left us to grope and guess about Him. No, He has instead revealed Himself to us. The Bible says that He has shown us something of Himself in the created world — "his eternal power and divine nature" (Romans 1:20). But the Bible goes beyond this and tells us God's greatest act was when He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world.

The Bible says, "No one has ever seen God, but God the only Son, who is at the Father's side, has made him known" (John 1:18). How do I know Jesus was really God's Son and tells us the truth about God? I know it because Jesus Christ rose again from the dead — and that sets Him apart from all others who have ever lived.

You can know God personally by committing your life to Jesus Christ. My prayer is that you will take that step of faith. Then you will grow in your relationship to God as you learn of Him in your Bible.

Bartering--old idea with a new twist

COLLEGE STATION — Bartering is an old idea with a new twist — to beat inflation, says Bonnie Piernot, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

It's catching on again, even among dentists, lawyers, doctors and other professionals who are bartering for food, gardening services, leisure equipment, ads and other products, she says.

With bartering, families can get living essentials without using their limited money. They can trade time, skills, products and services.

Some include mechanical, sewing, needlework or shopping skills. Swapping can be among friends, families or even within the same family. For example, in your own family, trade babysitting services for sewing skills. Energy savings are possible with bartering, too.

Carpool with someone, or exchange "taxi" services for some other service with someone who cannot share in children's transportation duties. Bartering works for gift giving, too. Give housecleaning for one month or a dinner or child care.

Zoning restrictions in some communities may limit the types of bartering if they become similar to a business. For example, some ordinances limit the number of unrelated children cared for in a household.

Also, health or sanitation rules may limit the bartering of baked goods in any large quantity or with any regularity.

Time can become the great expense in bartering. To combat this, some communities may want to set up a "trading post" to assist residents.

Legal snarls can result if traders aren't careful, such as with bartering homes or vacation cottages.

The owner's insurance coverage may not apply, and in some of these cases liability suits can arise. Also, you can "barter friends away" if you're not careful.

Since guarantees or warranties don't apply, barterers only have personal integrity to rely on. Finally, be sure to discuss values of products or services before you actually trade them.

Any barter should satisfy both parties.

Hyperion clubs reveal themes at council luncheon Thursday

The Hyperion Club Council Luncheon Thursday at the Big Spring Country Club was well attended by the seven Hyperion Clubs of Big Spring and their guests.

Mrs. Rene (Elizabeth) Brown, president, welcomed all present and voiced the invocation.

The 1948 Hyperion Club was responsible for the beautiful fall decorations and won the flower arrangement centerpiece at the head table by having 80 percent of their members present. The large orange basket held an arrangement of daisies, spider chrysanthemums, tiny chrysanthemums and carnations in shades of yellow, bronze and orange with green spikes. A large scarecrow of orange yarn clothed in bright felt coat belted with orange and tan yarn trousers stood to the side in fall harvest fruits, vegetables and berries. The table was edged with English ivy and pyracantha berries.

The 1930 Hyperion Club

planned the menu for the delicious salad luncheon served.

The presidents of each of the Hyperion Clubs introduced their members and presented highlights of this year's projects.

Mrs. Chesley McDonald of the 1905 Hyperion Club presented highlights of their 75th Diamond Jubilee Anniversary celebration in April which will begin with a Diamond Jubilee coffee and antique show at the Heritage Museum Diamond Jubilee Week. A Diamond Jubilee Federation Tea at the Country Club will feature Mrs. H.B. Bratton, Texas Federated Women's Club president. Winding up the celebration will be the Diamond Jubilee Finale at the Rich Anderson RVANCH WITH Governor Bill Clements as the guest speaker.

Mrs. Tom McCann, president of the 1946 Hyperions presented their theme, "We're In This Together.

Their year began with a fall fashion show. Rev. Harland B. Birdwell of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, will present a marriage encounter program in January.

Mrs. R. Bishop, president pro tem of the 1948 Hyperions counted 22 members present to win the fall centerpiece. The program theme of the group is "People, Places and Things." Their programs include China, Jewels on Wings or a study of the Humming Bird; "Travels with Henry" a book review by Mrs. Jerry Dudley on 500,000 miles of air travel with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger by Richard Valeriana, and a study of Robert Frost and his poetry.

Mrs. H.B. Perry, secretary of the 1955 Hyperions presented their theme, "Exploring the World Around Us." Programs include Women in the World of Literature, "Treasurers in the World of Gems," Christmas In The World of Music and Historic Homes in Big Spring.

Eleanor Hunnicut, vice president of the 1930 Hyperions presented their theme in the absence of Mrs. Buckner, their president.

The theme is "A Potpourri of Things of Interest to Us." A number of book reviews are scheduled. Each member is to take a political candidate this year and follow him through, then present his qualifications to the club before election.

Mrs. Jay Wallace, president of the 1970 Club presented their program theme, "Knowing Texas." The group will visit the Petroleum Museum at Midland, have a program on the German Settlement and Birds of Texas.

Mrs. Barbara Ratliff, president of the 1953 Club presented their theme, "A Closer Look at Hobbies," and reviewed their 1978 project of putting a history of the club in their current yearbook. Their motto is "Busy as Bees." Nancy Little will bring a program on stained glass.

Mrs. Charles (Joan) Beil introduced Mrs. Clyde (Annie Matt) Angel who brought an amusing book review entitled "Laughing all the Way with Erma Bombeck, Jane Goodall and Jean Kerr."

J. W. Weidel presides at NARVRE meeting

The NARVRE (National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees) met Thursday, 6:30 p.m. at Kentwood Older Adult Center for a pot luck supper, followed by a regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. with J.W. Weidel, second vice-president, presiding.

Mrs. Opal Williams was welcomed as a new member.

J.T. Gilmore reported that the representative from the retirement board will be in Big Spring Oct. 10.

Mrs. Opal Wells was a visitor. Mrs. W.N. Wood, Mrs. J.C. Cravens, Mrs. Alva Porch and Mrs. J.W. Weidel were hostesses for the evening.

The next meeting will be Oct. 18 with a pot-luck supper at 6:30 p.m. followed by a business meeting at 7:30 p.m.

College 'trekkies' must make special effort

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Belonging to the college community isn't easy if you're a commuter. As a "trekkie," you'll need to make a special effort to get involved in school activities and make friends, says August's Seventeen Magazine.

The chief complaint voiced by most college commuters is a feeling of isolation. "When I was a freshman, the residents all had friends by the end of the first week," one commuter remembers. "But we off-campus students still didn't know anybody. Most college friendships are made at dorm functions or in organizations that meet in the evening. But when you live away from school, it's hard to turn around and go back for an eight o'clock meeting."

If you feel you can't get back for after-class events, look for activities scheduled during the day. Some college commuters spend free hours working on the college yearbook and campus and alumni newspapers. Others plan such daytime activities as doing publicity for the college drama center.

One of the quickest ways to meet new people at college is to join the commuter club, which often holds regular meetings, sponsors parties and helps arrange transportation pools. If your school doesn't have one — start one.

One "trekkie" thinks she's conquered the commuter blues. "After two months of feeling like an outsider, I decided to create a life of my own that was far broader than campus life," she says. "I make it a point to get back to campus once a week for a club meeting, but I'm also involved in community work in my hometown. And I freelance for the local newspaper. That way, I'm not limiting myself to strictly college or community, and I've made close friends in my own area as well as at school. I have the best of both worlds!"

Tween 12 and 20 — When should a girl start dating?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Cynthia, from Santa Barbara, Calif., wants to know how old a girl should be before she starts dating.

Dave King, 17, who lives in Dubuque, Iowa, and Carla Meers, 17, from Elyria, Ohio, will add their two cents. Welcome to all three teens.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 15 and all my friends who are my age are dating and several are going steady.

My parents refuse to allow me to date until I'm 16 and that won't be for another seven months.

Can you please give me your thoughts on this? I hope they are liberal because my mom always reads your column. — Cynthia, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Cynthia: I find it difficult to set an age for the first date. Some girls (and boys) are capable of dating when they are 14, but others who are 15 and 16 are not. Teens are ready to date when they are mature enough to accept the responsibility and abide by the limits set by their parents.

Hi Cynthia: I started dating when I was 14 and so was the girl. We were freshmen and our first date was to our high school football game.

Since high school is an important time in a teen's life both educationally and socially, I think they should be allowed to date when they get there.

Many times parents make more out of dating than there really is. After all, a date is no more than spending time together with someone you enjoy. It just happens that this person is of the opposite sex. — Dave, Dubuque, Iowa

Hello Cynthia: I started dating at 15 and felt very comfortable about it. My oldest sister also started dating at 15 but my youngest sister is now 15, and she says that she has no desire to start dating at this time. I guess if I had a daughter, I would let her date when she was 15.

I do feel that when a teen starts dating, regardless of age, the key word must be trust. — Carla, Elyria, Ohio

If you would like to be a guest teen writer, please write to me, in care of this newspaper, stating your sex and age.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Boat People: Stormy Issue

DEAR READERS: AMERICA FIRST wrote to say that we in the United States were foolish for taking in the "boat people." I disagreed.

Judging from the passionate response from my readers, I touched a raw nerve in a very nervous nation. My mail has been running roughly 200-to-1 in favor of AMERICA FIRST.

Some typical excerpts: "Overpopulation is the basic cause of all the world's problems. Overbreeding Europeans took over America from the Indians. Are we going to let overbreeding Asians take over our country? We should help them only if they agree to be sterilized!"

MT. CRAWFORD, W. VA."

"The immigrants who came here from other countries made this country great. Are we to deny others the same chance our forefathers had? By God, I hope not! If there's room in the heart, there's room in the land!"

A VOICE FROM UTAH"

"I am sick to my stomach seeing our Navy planes and ships wasting our taxpayers' money searching for boat people."

We welcomed the Europeans who have similar lifestyles, but let the Chinese go where they can eat raw fish, ride bicycles, live 20 in a room and smoke opium!"

EL PASO, TEXAS"

"I have as much compassion as you concerning the refugees from Vietnam, but why must the United States take in as many as we can rescue? Some other countries have taken in a token few, but they are too practical to act as emotionally as we."

KAILUA, HAWAII"

"Now it is fashionable to open up our country to Vietnamese who are bringing more diseases with them than we have cures for. I think it's a Communist plot to destroy this country!"

SHELBYVILLE, IND."

"If AMERICA FIRST had suffered one half the misery we in Holland had to endure at the hands of the Nazis, he would open his heart to the poor homeless boat people. I thank God every day for the generosity of America."

GRATEFUL IN SHERMAN OAKS, CALIF."

"The boat people have hit this country like flies, and we are paying for the cost of transportation, food and shelter! People say we have plenty of room in our country for them. I say, 'Baloney!' Why not send them to an unpopulated area like Alaska?"

IRATE IN N.Y.C."

"Assisting the boat people is like the motorist who stops to pick up an attractive hitchhiker, only to have the husband, half a dozen kids, and aunts and uncles cooing out of the bushes for the ride. I'm with AMERICA FIRST; I haven't changed my name or my nose, and I am not anti-anything. Sign me..."

PRO-WASP IN K.C., MO."

"I am a native San Franciscan, employed as a teacher in a city high school. I've seen hundreds of Asian-born students and know their families. As a rule, refugees from Burma, Cambodia, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea do not demand welfare, food stamps or special privileges. They are good workers, good students, good citizens and good neighbors."

FOR THE REFUGEES"

DEAR ABBY: I have a married granddaughter I'll call Shelly. Last night, Shelly's husband, Harry, arrived home at 10 o'clock. He had driven 150 miles to get there after being away from home all week.

When we heard Harry's car in the driveway, Shelly's mother asked her if she wasn't going to the door to greet him. (Shelly was sitting, reading.) Her reply was, "Oh, it's only Harry."

Abby, that set me thinking. "Only Harry." Not long ago, Shelly thought Harry was very special. Of course he is still special, and Shelly would realize it fast enough if he didn't arrive home one night.

A traveling salesman's work is not easy. Sleeping in a strange motel room every night isn't fun either. But that's what Harry does because it's the way he can best provide for his wife and children. He is a loving, caring husband and father. He is something special, and I hope Shelly doesn't wait until after he's gone to appreciate him.

WIDOWED GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: How true. The saddest thing in the world is a kind word left unsaid. Please see that Shelly sees this.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sponsors beef up safety inspections

Snyder man drove explosive tractor

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Sponsors of a tractor-pulling contest beefed up safety inspections Sunday in the wake of a tractor explosion that injured 15 persons, including four who remained hospitalized today.

The accident Saturday night rained shrapnel from the disabled tractor into a throng of spectators at the Tarrant County Convention Center. Eleven persons were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Four remained hospitalized — one in serious condition, one fair and two victims listed in good condition.

'GRANDDAD'S ROCK CONCERT' ...featuring Sam Allen

'Granddad' solos rock concert for seniors

A special night for senior citizens will be hosted by Hillcrest Baptist Church, 2000 FM 700, during its week-long revival this week.

Senior citizens are invited to come out to the church Tuesday for a 6 p.m. meal, followed by a 7:15 p.m. hymn concert. The concert is open to all of the public and admission is free.

Sam Allen, Baptist musical evangelist, will be the featured vocalist at what he calls "Granddad's Rock Concert." "Granddad" Allen sings his hit hymns from a rocking chair on stage.

During his 20-year ministry, he has become an outstanding song leader at southside assemblies and encampments.

He was the soloist for the Southern Baptist Pastors' Conference and Southern Baptist Convention and has been a featured soloist and song leader at many Baptist state conventions and evangelistic conferences over the past 15 years.

Allen has recorded a number of albums including "A Man With a Song," "God's Love Sustains Me," "Granddad's New Sacred Sound," and "Singing I Go."

Allen's personal accomplishments include an outstanding high school and college athletic record. He won a number of honors, including several world records, and was an organizer of the National A.A.U. Women's Basketball Champions. He coached them for five years at Wayland College, Plainview.

A member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, he often speaks and sings for F.C.A. meetings, hurdles and camps.

His family includes his wife, Peggy; three daughters, Anita, Jeanne, and Kathy; and a son, Sam II. The family resides in Lubbock.

Any senior citizens who need transportation to the church may call the church

In a tractor-pulling competition, drivers compete in speed races and in pulling weighted sleds for cash prizes.

R.B. Allen, executive vice president of the Hardware and Implements Association, a sponsor of the event, said the number of safety inspectors to make sure the tractors meet safety regulations was doubled Sunday.

Louis Owen, the center's executive director, said the situation could have been worse if it had not been for help from members of the audience who were not injured.

"I've been in this business now some 40-odd years, and the spectators were absolutely fantastic," Owen said. "They helped, they worked ... you couldn't have asked for anything better."

Owen said workers at the center called ambulances to transport those hurt by the flying metal parts, and that only one person went in a private car for treatment.

After the accident, the remaining events in the semi-annual event were run without any further troubles.

The tractor that blew was a souped-up model owned by the Gray Brothers Pork Producers of Snyder, Texas. It was specially fitted with three engines, said Fire Department Capt. Earl Valentine.

"The clutch went," Valentine said. "It evidently was too much of a strain for the tractor to carry three engines." He said two engines were mounted on both sides of the front of the rig, and the third was balanced over the rear wheels.

Gov. Brown drums up support in Texas

'This country is in a mess'

DALLAS (AP) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., offering himself as an alternative candidate, says if Democrats don't change leadership they are doomed to defeat in 1980.

"I offer an alternative within the Democratic Party. My ideas are sounder on economics, investment, technology, strengthening America," Brown said. "It's obvious the economic policies we've been following have been disastrous. This country is in a mess."

He arrived Sunday to begin a three-day Texas visit here and in Houston, returning to California Tuesday night.

"I'm coming down here to stir up some votes and some interest, and to raise some funds," the 41-year-old California governor told reporters during an airport news conference upon his arrival at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

"And the Democratic Party, if it doesn't want to go down in defeat, needs new leadership," said Brown, who has not formally announced as a candidate for the party's presidential nomination.

He said he was flatly opposed to the development of more nuclear plants.

"The ones we have we're going to have to phase out where that can be responsibly done," he said. He urged reliance on fossil fuels, solar energy, and natural gas to "give us the bridge we need until newer technologies are developed."

Brown, in his second four-year term, said he had a record in California of cutting taxes, but he said Congress was going to have to learn to cut spending.

"The Republicans are just saying cut the taxes and that will somehow make everything all right. I think Congress is going to have to bite the bullet and start curbing expenses."

Brown has not formally announced as a candidate, and his campaign organization is the "Brown for President Exploratory Committee."

"I'm just planting seeds right now," he said. "I think Texas is a state that is looking critically at President Carter and would welcome a challenge based on sound economic ideas, which I represent."

Sometimes, it's quality that pays off for quarterbacks.

—Example: Tampa Bay's Doug Williams completed just five passes Sunday, but two of them went for touchdowns and the Bucs beat Los Angeles 21-6.

Sometimes, it's quantity that pays off for receivers.

—Example: Buffalo's Jerry Butler caught 10 passes for 255 yards and four TDs as the Bills trampled the New York Jets 46-31.

And sometimes, it's a little bit of both that pays off for benchwarmers.

—Example: Sub Craig Morton of Denver came in to complete 11 of 16 passes for 178 yards, throwing three TDs in 2½ minutes as the Broncos rallied for a 37-34 victory over Seattle.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, it was New England 27, San Diego 21; Pittsburgh 17, Baltimore 13; Minnesota 27, Green Bay 21 in overtime; Houston 30, Cincinnati 27 in overtime; Kansas City 35, Oakland 7; Washington 17, St. Louis 7; Detroit 24, Atlanta 23; New Orleans 30, San Francisco 21; Philadelphia 17, New York Giants 13; and Miami 31, Chicago 16.

Dallas plays at Chicago tonight.

Bucs 21, Rams 6

Unbeaten Tampa Bay packed three touchdowns into the second period, two of them on passes by Williams to Larry Mucker for 15 yards and Jimmie Giles for 29.

For the game, Williams finished with 5-of-20 and 101 yards but the quality of his completions outweighed the quantity.

Bills 46, Jets 31

Buffalo was trailing 24-12 when Butler caught a deflected pass and took it 75 yards for a TD on the final play of the first half.

That touched off a Buffalo burst that resulted in 34 consecutive points. Joe Ferguson threw for 367 yards and five TDs, with Butler's scores coming on 5, 75, 74 and 9-yard plays. His 255 yards was the seventh best single game for a receiver in NFL history.

Broncos 37, Seahawks 34

Denver was trailing 34-10 halfway through the third quarter when Morton came off the bench to shatter Seattle.

Patriots 27, Chargers 21

New England built a 20-0 lead but then needed an interception by Steve Nelson to halt a Charger rally in the final two minutes to clinch the victory.

Nelson picked off Dan Fouts' pass from the 10-yard line as San Diego drove for the end zone. Steve Grogan's 5-yard TD pass to Russ Francis supplied the deciding TD.

Steelers 17, Colts 13

Pittsburgh won its fourth straight by coming from behind in the final period for the third time. Terry Bradshaw's 28-yard screen pass to Bennie Cunningham provided the winning TD with 5:41 to play.

The Steelers, who began the game with five starters injured, lost wide receiver Lynn Swann and guard Gerry Mullins with pulled hamstrings.

Vikings 27, Packers 21

Ahmad Rashad grabbed Tommy Kramer's pass on a 50-yard play that gave Minnesota its winning TD against Green Bay.

Chiefs 35, Raiders 7

Kansas City sacked Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler six times, with Art Still recording four, in a victory dominated by the Chiefs' defense. Gary Barbaro returned a Stabler interception 70 yards for one TD and J.T. Smith, former Big Spring Steer Star, returned a punt 88 yards for another score.

Redskins 17, Cardinals 7

Washington yielded 306 passing yards to Jim Hart but capitalized on four fumble recoveries to beat St. Louis. Rookie linebacker Don Hovser recovered one of the fumbles in the end zone for one of the Redskins TDs. The other recoveries halted Cardinal drives deep in Washington territory and the 'Skins also sacked Hart three times.

Lions 24, Falcons 23

Rookie Jeff Komlo passed for two touchdowns as Detroit won its first game after three straight losses. He completed 19 of 35 attempts for 289 yards.

Saints 30, 49ers 21

Archie Manning completed 20 of 28 passes for 355 yards and two TDs as New Orleans won its first game of the year and tagged San Francisco with its fourth loss.

Eagles 17, Giants 13

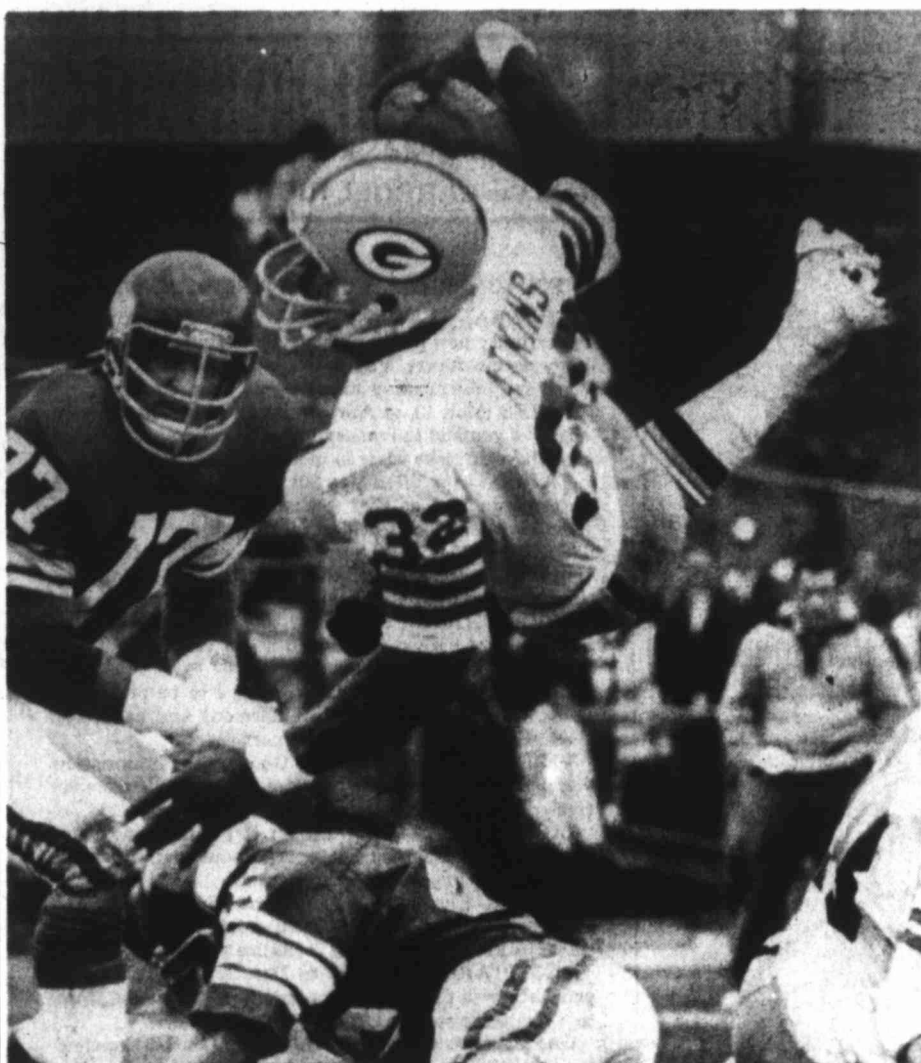

Wilbert Montgomery rushed for 126 yards and scored on a 53-yard pass play from Ron Jaworski as Philadelphia handed New York its fourth consecutive loss.

John Sciarra blocked a punt setting up Jaworski's TD pass to Montgomery and also made an interception halting a late-game Giant rally.

Dolphins 31, Bears 16

Larry Csonka scored on TD runs of 1, 9, and 12 yards — the first time in his 11-year career that he has had three TDs in a single game — leading Miami past Chicago.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Dolphins, who came from behind on the precise passing of Don Strick, filling in for Bob Griese.

HIGH FLYER — Green Bay Packers back Steve Atkins took to the air routes courtesy of Minnesota Vikings defender Tom Hannon whose actions forced the Packers into a punting situation in the third quarter of action Sunday. Minnesota won the game in overtime, 27-21.

Rally from 24-0 deficit against Bengals

Oilers gain OT victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips had room to second-guess himself after Sunday's 30-27 overtime victory against the Cincinnati Bengals, since the Oilers nearly fumbled away Toni Fritsch's chance to kick a 29-yard field goal to defeat the winless Bengals.

"Hindsight is always better, but that was poor coaching," Phillips said. "I probably should have kicked it on the first play. You saw what we did on the next."

Earl Campbell had rescued the Oilers from a fourth-and-inches situation at the Bengal 33-yard line, but Houston again sent Campbell up the middle for one yard rather than kick. On the next play, Campbell carried wide and the ball was jarred loose.

The Bengals recovered, but defensive end Ross Browner was detected off-sides on the play. Houston got the ball at the Cincinnati 12-yard line with 38 seconds left, and Fritsch kicked a 29-yard field goal that bounced off the left upright and through the goalposts.

Campbell finished with 158 yards in 34 carries, including an eight-yard touchdown run. Quarterback Dan Pastorini passed for two touchdowns, and Fritsch kicked three field goals, altogether, as Houston upped its record to 3-1 and Cincinnati fell to 0-4.

"It hurts to lose. There's no way to describe the hurt," said Bengal Coach Homer Rice. "But we'll bounce back. It's still early in the season."

The Bengals dominated the first 24 minutes of play behind rookie quarterback Jack Thompson, subbing for the injured Ken Anderson. Dick Jauron picked off two Pastorini passes, Pete Johnson scored twice on one-yard runs and rookie Charles Alexander on a two-yarder and Chris Bahr kicked a 52-yard field goal.

"Everything we did early went against us, and the same thing for them in the second half," Phillips said.

"The two interceptions killed us, but then we hit on our basic stuff," said Pastorini. "We made early mistakes but were able to make the adjustments we needed."

Pastorini hit Kenny Burroughs in the endzone with a 35-yard scoring pass with just under five minutes left in the second quarter and Fritsch kicked a 43-yarder to close the half.

"Houston seemed like they were out of the ballgame, and we allowed them to lull us to sleep," said Bengal defensive end Gary Burley. "Once you let down, you give the other team the momentum."

Steer Boosters meet Tuesday

The Big Spring Sports Boosters will meet Tuesday to see a film of the Snyder football game and for other business.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Goliad feds win consolation

The Goliad Girls Volleyball team traveled to Lamesa this weekend for tournament play. The Black team won consolation after having been beaten by Seminole. In a total of seven individual games, Gloria Bustamonte was high point scorer with 36 points. Delia Correa was also impressive including points on the board with 12. The White team fell to Lamesa in Seminole after beating Brownville. Alice Lopez and Tonya Gilstrap led in scoring in three matches played. Everyone played well with spirit and enthusiasm.

Houston falls to 1 1/2 behind
Reds overcome Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati's Frank Pastore found respect in the Astrodome Sunday and Houston catcher Luis Pujols discovered his juggling act was costly and not too entertaining for the Astros.

"I'm sure they felt after beating our best pitchers they wouldn't have much trouble with me," the steel-nerved Pastore said Sunday after pitching the Reds to an important 7-1 victory over Houston in the race for the National League Western Division title.

"I could have thought the same thing and said who am I to beat these guys," said Pastore, sent to the minors earlier this year after being shelled by Los Angeles. "But I've learned a lot this season. I just tried to stay calm and be myself."

By remaining calm before the frantic 42,067 fans in the Astrodome, Pastore helped the Reds avoid being swept in the three-game series and they also escaped with a 1½-game lead over the Astros going into the final week of the regular season.

The Reds scored five runs in a controversial fourth inning when Umpire Joe West ruled Ray Knight safe on a close call at the plate on a play that would have been the third out. The Astros would have been out of the inning trailing only 2-1.

Instead, West ruled that catcher Luis Pujols juggled the ball while making the tag and that cleared the way for a five-run inning from which the Astros never recovered.

"It turned the game around," Astros Manager Bill Virdon said. "There was an apparent juggling of the ball. There seemed to be a question of whether Knight touched the plate and if he didn't the umpire shouldn't have made such a quick decision."

Knight said he tried to slide into Pujols as he went for the plate. "When I hit him, I saw the ball squirt up and the umpire saw it too. I knew then, that I was safe."

Expos vs. Pirates in NL East

Crucial series begins tonight

By The Associated Press

For the Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos, there was no time to savor the latest crucial victory. The next "must-win" game was only a day away, and both teams knew it would stay that way — for the next few days, anyway.

Because tonight the Pirates and Expos play a two-night doubleheader to start a four-game series that, in the words of Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, "could decide the (National League East) title."

"This four-game series now has become the most important series of the year for the Pirates and the Expos," he said.

So by the time the last pitch had been thrown, Jim Bibby's three-hit, 6-0 masterpiece over the Chicago Cubs had been shunted to the background — it lay behind the Pirates, not ahead.

"This game was just as important as any coming up in the Montreal series," said the Pittsburgh right-hander, aware the first-place Expos had beaten the Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 to maintain a one-half game lead over the Pirates in the National League's East Division.

"That one-half game," said Tanner, "doesn't mean a thing."

It meant a lot to Expos catcher Gary Carter.

"Our fate is in our hands," he said after Andre Dawson hit two solo homers and Chris Speier drove in three runs with a single and a two-run homer to back Bill Lee and Montreal. "The whole season could be riding on that (Pittsburgh) series."

Pirates 6, Cubs 0

Willie Stargell cracked a two-run double in the fifth inning that carried the Pirates past the Cubs. Bibby, 11-4, struck out six and walked one, allowing a single to Larry Bittner in the first, a double to Ivan DeJesus in the third and a single to Steve Ontiveros in the eighth.

Expos 7, Phillies 4

Montreal beat Philadelphia for its 24th victory in the last 28 games. But the Phillies' Pete Rose extended his hitting streak to 21 games with a fifth-inning single and was one hit away from a major-league record 10th 200-hit season.

Rose has hit in 28 of his last 29 games, and in the 14 games since he was returned to the leadoff spot has gone 29-for-55 — a .524 batting average.

Cardinals 7, Mets 4

Lou Brock became baseball's all-time greatest base stealer, copping the 938th of his career in the fifth inning against the Mets. The theft erased the all-time mark held by Billy Hamilton, who played from 1888 to 1901.

But Hamilton's record was set under rules that credited "stolen bases" for advancing bases on infield outs and fly balls before the modern criteria were established. Brock had set the modern record with his 893rd steal on Aug. 29, 1977, when he eclipsed Ty Cobb's mark.

Angels close to AL West title

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Royals are knocking on the California Angels' penthouse door.

And tonight, they get a chance to break it down a little. "Realistically, we have to sweep," says Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog as the Royals open a do-or-die, three-game series with the American League West pacemakers.

The Royals remained three games behind the Angels by beating Oakland 4-2 Sunday while California was defeating Texas 6-1. Two victories by the Angels in the Kansas City series will give them the West title.

Winning pitcher Marty Pattin contributed to Kansas City's latest victory with seven strong innings in a rare starting assignment.

Angels 6, Rangers 1

Carney Lansford's three-run homer keyed a six-run fifth inning and Dave Frost spun a six-hitter as California beat Texas. Frost, 16-9, allowed Texas' only run in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Willie Montanez. Frost struck out five and didn't issue a walk.

After being limited to one hit by Ferguson Jenkins, 15-14, the Angels chased him with five consecutive hits starting the fifth.

Indians 4-1, Orioles 3-3

Eighth-inning doubles by Wayne Cunniff and Dave Rosello snapped a tie and led Cleveland past Baltimore in the first game of their doubleheader.

Mike Flanagan gained his

The Orioles lost to Cleveland Saturday but nevertheless clinched the AL East title when second-place Milwaukee was defeated by Minnesota.

Brewers 8, Twins 7

Gorman Thomas hit a three-run homer in the first inning, his 44th, and Don Money's pinch single in the sixth scored the go-ahead run as Milwaukee beat Minnesota. Jerry Augustine, 8-6, was the winner.

Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5

Tommy John reached the second 20-victory season of his career as New York beat Toronto. John, 20-9, allowed six hits, struck out one and walked none before getting relief help in the ninth from Rich Gossage, who recorded his 17th save. John was 20-7 in 1977 with the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 25, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to accept an opportunity now present which can enable you to build a more secure future. Figure out what obstacles to overcome and take positive steps to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Analysis of the work ahead of you and the money involved is wise early in the day. Take no risks while in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure your tasks are better organized so that you will be more efficient in handling them. Don't neglect civic work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An important conversation with an associate can lead to better things. Improve your prestige by taking positive action.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Come to the assistance of a loyal friend who needs your help at this time. Show others you have wisdom.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be patient at home if you wish to have more harmony and happiness there. Follow the advice of an expert.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after the information you need to advance in your line of endeavor. Be more active and accomplish a lot more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Try to put more money in bank so that you need not worry about your finances. Take time to improve your appearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Something could happen unexpectedly now that brings your goals closer to realization. Health treatments can revitalize you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Have that talk privately with the one who means much to you and come to a fine understanding. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the best method for gaining your needs without hurting anyone. Be more willing to please allies and get good results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A civic problem comes up unexpectedly but it is for your benefit, so take it in stride. Maintain a cheerful manner.

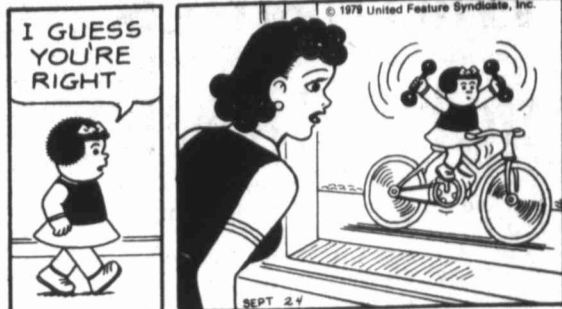

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study the situations ahead of you from a different angle and you get the right perspective. Follow your intuition which is accurate now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily understand the ideas and needs of others, so direct the education along such lines as law, medicine and government work for best results. Allow to express musical talent early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Three damage suits filed Oil spill costs guessed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Damages to Texas caused by oil from a crippled Mexican well that has stained the state's southern coastline may not be over yet.

But the autumn shift of Texas offshore currents to the south has helped push many large oil patches away from shore, Coast Guard officials say.

And in the Bay of Campeche, Mexican authorities report they are on the brink of placing a cone over the runaway well to reduce the flow by 85 percent.

So far, seven weeks after the world's largest oil spill began blackening South Texas beaches, damage claims and cleanup costs total at least $360 million.

The U.S. Coast Guard reports $5.4 million has been spent or earmarked for beach cleanup and protection of inland bays. An additional $1.1 million is available for oil removal operations and more funds probably would be authorized by the U.S. Coast Guard commandant if that amount runs out.

Fears that the oil would kill thousands of birds, fish and marine animals have not come true.

Three damage suits seeking a total of $355 million have been filed. The defendants are Pemex, the Mexican national oil company that owned the well; Permargo, a Mexican drilling contractor hired to operate the well; an SEDCO, a Dallas-based company that leased the offshore rig used at the Ixtoc 1 well.

Way cookie crumbles

MONTROSE, Minn. (AP) — Tim Kowalke's romance began over a plate of chocolate chip cookies. When his fiancée returned the ring, he asked for a breach of promise settlement — 4,380 chocolate chip cookies.

Kowalke and the woman, who preferred to remain unidentified, were to have been married next month. He had bought a small house for them to live in after they were wed. But in May, she returned the ring.

"I felt that I should have some recompense," he said. He asked her for a dozen cookies for each day they had been together.

The 24-year-old woman missed an Aug. 22 deadline, but finished up the job last week. Her debt was paid and Kowalke's freezer was full.

"I've given away at least 100 dozen," said Kowalke.

Unusual grabage

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 30-year-old man just left the party for a stroll and some fresh air. But he forgot to pocket the key to the street door. And rather than rouse his neighbors, he tried to get back in the Stockholm apartment house through the garbage chute.

A newspaper carrier found the repentant reveler early Sunday morning, firmly wedged halfway in the chute. The boy called police, but a fire brigade had to apply axes and picks before the man was finally freed.

Hot time for juniors

MOAB, Utah (AP) — A high school parade float exploded into flames after decorative napkins apparently were ignited by a smoke-producing chemical.

The Moab Volunteer Fire Department was called out Friday to extinguish the blaze, which destroyed the junior class float in the Grand High School homecoming parade.

The pickup truck pulling the float and the trailer on which the float rested were not damaged. Authorities said there were no injuries.

The float depicted a large thermometer. Its theme: "Devil Pride Is Hot Tonight."

Kiss A Baby' campaign slated in Sand Springs

SAND SPRINGS — Mrs. Colton (Sandra) Wright and other individuals will be conducting a door-to-door campaign in this area this week on behalf of the Lone Star Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's "Kiss A Baby Week" campaign.

Mrs. Wright of Sand Springs is the local chairman of the Sept. 24-28 fundraising event. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation serves millions of lung-damaged children across the United States so that they can lead longer, more normal lives.

"Just breathing is a struggle for these kids," according to a foundation spokesman. "They must have constant care and treatment. Some must take as many as 50 pills a day to fight infection, aid digestion and breathe a medicated mist from a face mask each day."

The much needed funds raised from the campaign will go to support research, care and education programs aimed at lengthening lives and finding a cure for CF. These programs include support for more than 100 Cystic

Fibrosis Centers across the nation which provide diagnosis, treatment and referral to children suffering from asthma, chronic bronchitis, "childhood emphysema," and recurrent pneumonia, as well as cystic fibrosis.

In addition to finding a cure for CF, researchers are hoping to find a test to detect carriers of the CF gene, and also a method of diagnosing the disease at birth. Early diagnosis and treatment helps extend and improve lives.

In 1955, when the CF Foundation was established, most children with CF died before reaching 3 years of age. Now, more than 50 percent can be expected to live past age 19. But, CF want to make it possible for all children with cystic fibrosis to live normal, full lives.

Cystic Fibrosis is still the number one genetic killer of children. Approximately one in every 20 Americans is a symptomless carrier of the recessive CF gene. Cystic Fibrosis is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene. At the present time, no cure for Cystic Fibrosis is known.

Oil well capping continues

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican oil workers hope to finish capping the runaway Ixtoc-1 oil well today after lowering a 125-ton steel cone into place over the maverick gusher that has fouled Gulf Coast beaches from Mexico to southern Texas.

The capping operation, aimed at reducing the flow of oil and natural gas by 85 percent, was halted by darkness Sunday. A team of 300 technicians, divers and engineers from the Mexican state oil monopoly PEMEX had worked for a dozen hours Sunday to lower the 35 foot by 69 foot cone onto the underwater superstructure over the well.

"The cone is in place on the structure and (Monday) we will rotate it 90 degrees to put it over the mouth of the well," said Jose Luis Garcia Luna, a senior PEMEX engineer working on the project, dubbed "Operation Sombrero."

A company spokesman said the team hoped to complete its work by the end of the day.

"The purpose of the cone is not to plug the well, but to turn it into a producing well" until it can be closed, said a PEMEX spokesman in Mexico City, who declined to be identified. "Fifteen percent will still possibly spill into the ocean and have to be collected."

PEMEX says it has spent about $1 billion so far on several attempts to cap the runaway test well, located 50 miles off the Campeche Bay shrimping port of Ciudad del Carmen in southern Mexico. It also is drilling two relief wells at angles to the blowout in hopes of eventually shutting it down completely.

About 84 million gallons of oil have spilled into the bay and drifted as far north as the southern Texas coast. In the seven weeks since oil first began blackening South Texas beaches, U.S. damage claims and cleanup costs have climbed to about $360 million.

Three suits seeking a total of $355 million in damages have been filed in Texas against PE-MEX and firms working under contract to it at the well site.

U.S. Coast Guard officials fear more oil may stain the Texas coast, but they say the autumn shift of offshore currents to the south has helped push many large patches of crude away from the coast.

In one of its earlier attempts to cap the well, PEMEX workers forced about 80,000 steel and lead balls down the well under pressure. The company says that effort stemmed the flow of oil by one-third, from 1.3 million gallons a day to about 420,000 gallons.

LUDMILLA TAKES HER BOWS — Clutching two large bouquets ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova takes her curtain calls at the end of her season's debut with the Bolshoi Ballet in Moscow Sunday night. She was the center of world attention last month when the U.S. held a Soviet airliner at New York for 72 hours to determine if she was leaving freely after her husband defected to the U.S. during the Bolshoi's American tour.

Firing appealed

Big D schools inquiry

DALLAS (AP) — A top school administrator fired after an internal investigation into corrupt business practices has appealed the firing, a newspaper reports. Dr. Weldon Wells, assistant superintendent for support services, submitted a copy of his appeal to school officials last week. The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

Wells is one of eight employees fired by School Superintendent Linus Wright on Sept. 14. The firings took place after school attorneys reported to the school board on 11 separate internal investigations into irregular business practices.

Wells' attorneys also have asked that Wright and his predecessor, Dr. Nolan Estes, be on hand for a hearing because they might be called as witnesses, the newspaper said.

Some results of the internal investigations have been turned over to District Attorney Henry Wade, and the Dallas County grand jury last week issued an initial flurry of subpoenas in connection with the information.

Wade has said he expects some criminal indictments to result from the investigation.

The newspaper said that letters Wright wrote to Wright last week indicated Wells will request that his hearing before an administrative panel be closed to the public.

His attorneys asked that Wright spell out in detail why Wells was fired so attorneys can point out any errors that might have been made, the News said.

School board members went along with the firings by Wright, but have not been made privy to details of the investigation that convinced Wright that firings were necessary.

Board members said they did not want to know details at that point, because they would have to act as a jury in case appeals were made by those fired.

Brock steals record?

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets couldn't keep Lou Brock from stealing second base — and another page in baseball history books.

Brock, who is retiring from the St. Louis Cardinals at the end of the season, Sunday broke the career stolen base record of 937 set by Billy Hamilton more than 70 years ago.

Hamilton played from 1888 to 1901, and his record included stolen bases credited for advances on infield outs and fly balls. The rules were later changed, and Brock set the modern record in 1977 with 893.

To seek reconciliation

PARIS (AP) — Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, who broke away from the Roman Catholic Church three years ago, says he will seek a reconciliation with Pope John Paul II.

Lefebvre, 74, who leads a traditionalist movement, was suspended from priestly duties by Pope Paul VI after he ordained 13 priests in defiance of a papal ban. He said he will go to Rome next month to heal the rift.

"The pope absolutely wants a solution," Lefebvre said Sunday. "I am now waiting for action by the Holy Father to facilitate relations."

Pope asks for prayers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II appealed to a crowd of 50,000 at the Vatican to pray for him on his upcoming U.S. visit so that "I might accomplish my service in the land of Washington."

He said that on his tour of Ireland and the United States, beginning next Saturday in Dublin, he will be fulfilling a service "for the glory of God and the good of men, my beloved brothers and sisters."

The pontiff, who addressed the crowd in St. Peter's Square before his traditional Sunday noon blessing, flies to Boston Oct. 1 and to New York the next day to speak before the U.N. General Assembly. During the six-city U.S. tour, which ends Oct. 7, he will meet with President Carter and his family at the White House.

Segretti 'private person'

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Six years after serving time for his role in the Watergate scandal, Donald Segretti is quietly building a law practice here and trying to avoid the limelight.

"I'm not a public person anymore," says Segretti, now 36. "I'm a private person and I'm trying to live a private life."

Segretti was among the first of the Watergate defendants to plead guilty and go to prison. In 1973, he served four months and 20 days of a six-month federal sentence for election law violations.

Hollywood assailed by Kremlin press

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press is calling Bob Hope the "Pentagon's comedian" as the Kremlin steps up its swipes at that most American of institutions — Hollywood.

The list of film stars and movies attracting Moscow's attention is growing almost weekly, including Elizabeth Taylor, Jane Fonda, John Travolta, "Apocalypse Now," and even James Bond's "Moonraker."

The latest target of Soviet barbs is Hope, whose recent trip to China irked Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said this weekend, and not just because of what it said was his "low standard of comedy" about Chinese laundries.

"Now this clown, an envoy of the American military establishment, has visited China and made a movie whose goal is to advertise the Pentagon-backed policy of military and political rapprochement between Peking and Washington," Tass maintained.

It said Hope will be involved soon in a "New venture of a dubious nature," involving the Middle East.

According to the news agency, Hope has instructions from Washington to star in a show in Cairo commemorating the second anniversary of President Anwar Sadat's precedent-setting journey to Jerusalem.

Just last week, Tass denounced Miss Taylor's just-completed trip to Cairo, noting that not too long ago her films were boycotted in Egypt because of her strong pro-Israeli stand.

Why this avid Soviet interest in Hollywood's people and products?

The reason may well be that as more and more Western influences penetrate Soviet society, the government is feeling the need to combat what it sees as Hollywood's dangerously alluring glitter.

A Siberian schoolteacher proudly displays a West German magazine cover of teenidol Travolta, though she has never seen his films.

And Soviets line up to see Miss Taylor's U.S.-made "Cleopatra," now showing at local movie theaters, though it is years old.

Soviet citizens go to the cinema an average 17½ times a year, making them one of the world's leading movie-goers, behind Singapore and Hong Kong. In America, people go only about five times a year.

And the price of a movie ticket here is cheap, ranging from 45 to 75 cents. While many Russians may
