American priest safe, issues statement

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — An American priest, missing in El Salvador for 10 days and feared dead, has turned up safe at the U.S. Embassy here and issued a statement criticizing U.S. support for the embattled junta.

Embassy spokesman Howard Lane said the Rev. Roy Bourgeois, 42, entered the embassy alone Wednesday afternoon and appeared in good health. He was to fly to the United States today, the spokesman said.

Bourgeois "went off on his own free will into the (countryside) and came back the same way," Lane told a news conference Wednesday night.

Bourgeois, a Maryknoll priest based in Chicago, vanished April 26 after he left the Camino Real hotel here, reportedly to buy medicine.

A letter from Bourgeois delivered to The Associated Press office here at the time of his reappearance implied he had spent several days with the leftist guerrillas who are fighting to overthrow the ruling civilian-military junta. But Lane said the priest would not comment on his disappearance until he had returned to the United States.

"It hurts me deeply to know that my country, the United States, is supplying military advisers and arms to a repressive dictatorship at war with its own people," the letter said.

"After much reflection and prayer I have decided to join the poor of El Salvador in their struggle for justice and peace.

"While I recognized that the armed struggle of the Salvadoran people is justified I personally cannot and will not bear arms."

Lane confirmed Bourgeois had written the statement and said "he had intended that the letter be delivered several days earlier to explain his mysterious disapperance, but for some reason it wasn't."

Last Thursday, a body believed to be that of Bourgeois was found in a ravine near here. However, fingerprints flown in from the United States determined the body to be a still unidentified victim of the political struggle that has claimed an estimated 22,000 lives in this Central American country in the past year and a half.

Bourgeois was in El Salvador as an interpreter and "field contact source" for a Chicago television station. His visit was unrelated to his duties as a Maryknoll priest.

A native of Lutcher, La., Bourgeois was assigned to Bolivia from 1972 to 1977 following ordination. The Bolivian government once arrested him for his human rights work with that country's political prisoners and their families.

In the last year, Bourgeois traveled throughout the Midwest crusading against repression in El Salvador and U.S. support for the junta. He wanted others to know "what kind of government our money is supporting down there," said Denise Plunkett, a friend of the priest.

Two nuns of the Maryknoll order were among four American women missionaries slain in El Salvador last December. Bourgeois was deeply distressed by the murders and isolated himself for days afterward, Ms. Plunkett said.

Meanwhile, military sources claimed Wednesday that government troops had retaken all towns held by the guerrillas and that the leftists controlled no populated areas of the country.

Where it stops, nobody knows...

Like a never-ending circle, as one office building is completed another is started. Midland's $90 million in building permit valuations issued for the first four months of 1981 has set a new record for the Tall City and outstrips all cities in West Texas, including El Paso.

Catholics gather to mourn Sands

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — In a drizzling rain, a hearse bearing the coffin of Bobby Sands made a slow funeral procession today through the riot-torn streets of Belfast, packed with tens of thousands of mourners. The march was led by a single bagpiper, followed by the coffin and hundreds of women carrying yellow and white wreaths.

As Catholics mourned the Irish Republican Army hunger striker, some 3,000 Protestants attended a rally to honor victims of IRA violence at Belfast's city hall and sang Britain's national anthem, "God Save the Queen."

The Rev. Ian Paisley, the hardline Protestant leader, led the singing from his position on the back of a truck and said world attention had "unjustly" focused on Sands' funeral.

Security forces were deployed around the city and on alert, but deliberately kept a low profile. Troops threw up vast canvas screens alongside the sole Protestant housing district, Suffolk-Blacks Road, near where the procession passed. Behind the screens, troops and police in full riot gear patrolled.

Dozens of members of the outlawed IRA's militant "Provisional" wing heard the officiating priest at the Requiem Mass call for an end to Catholic-Protestant violence. New fighting, the Rev. Liam Mullan said, "would be an insult to the work, to the life and to the memory of Bobby Sands."

The hearse, carrying the coffin with a black beret and gloves on top, was flanked by hooded IRA men. Sands' family followed in a black limousine for the 3½ mile procession from St. Luke's Church in the West Belfast Catholic district to the Milltown Cemetery, on the edge of another Catholic housing estate, Andersonstown.

Sands' grave is in a part of the cemetery reserved for IRA men and women. Sands, serving a 14-year term at Maze Prison outside Belfast for possession of an illegal handgun, died early Tuesday on the 66th day of a fast in support of the IRA's demand that its members be given political prisoner status. Hours after his death, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said the demand would never be met.

After the service, the light oak coffin, closed and with a single candle on top, was carried outside where some 20,000 mourners waited in the streets of the Catholic Twinbrook municipal housing estate and the surrounding hillside.

Plan's passage near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, looking forward to House approval of his budget-slashing blueprint, crossed his fingers for good luck today and said of the anticipated vote: "wonderful, just wonderful."

With a vote expected at mid-afternoon, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. conceded the number of defectors from the Democratic party is "extremely high."

He said it is conceivable Reagan could win by 90 votes in a chamber where the Democrats hold a majority of 51.

Reps. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, and Phil Gramm, D-Texas, sponsors of the measure, conferred with the president before the House convened today and predicted a victory of landslide proportions when the House votes.

Reagan, posing with Latta and Gramm in the Oval Office for photos, was at first cautious, crossing his fingers and, when asked if the administration would win the vote, saying, "I'll just settle...."

But Latta said "it's going to be big." Added Gramm: "The president's efforts turned our hard-won victory into a landslide."

"No doubt about it," Latta said. "We're going to have a unanimous vote on our side. I can't recall a vote of this magnitude on our side."

Gramm predicted that conservative Democrats would make a strong showing, and added: "I think you're going to see a philosophical coalition here willing to put the interests of the country ahead of partisanship. The American people are for the president's budget and we are going to show them an election works and that the Democratic process still works."

Earlier, House Speaker Thomas P. O; Neill Jr. had conceded that "only the Lord himself could save this one" for opposition Democrats.

It seems there's no end to Midland's building boom

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Midland is going to put those pooh-poohers in their place, those doubting Thomases who scornfully laugh at the thought of Midland taking its place out in the boonies as a city of the future.

It is a city of today, they scoff. And, they say, once its marrow of oil is sucked out of the bone-hard ground, the city will be tossed into the wind with its high-rise office buildings to crumble onto the desert floor.

No longer does that thought float into the minds of even the most pessimistic forecasters. As the months pass, the building continues, the city sprawls farther and the people pour into the once-bust city to grab for its precious jewels. Midland has reached the point, say local economists, where there is no turning back. And that thought was confirmed last week by the unprecedented record set by building permits issued in the first trimester of 1981.

By the close of business on May 1, the city inspections department had issued $90 million in permits for new and renovated construction. Only two years ago, in 1979, the city set a new record with $94 million. And last year the city didn't surpass that mark until the fall when permits went on to set a new record of $138 million.

THE TOTAL for 1981 should be staggering, but not one local forecaster knows or even wants to attempt a guess as to what that figure will be. But it's certain, said one economy-watcher, that the city will hit $100 million in building permits by the end of May. Past that time frame, however, no one will touch, not even with wizard sticks.

The May 1 figure of $90,514,511 was more than double the dollar amount for the same time a year ago, which was $41,471,148. Comparing it on a month to month basis, April this year saw twice the amount in building permits as that of one year ago — $20,993,016 this year to $10,168,118 in 1980.

Midland's building figures far outstrip those of any city in West Texas, even El Paso. And the Tall City's growth ranks it near the top of the 25 biggest SMSA's in Texas, according to a report in the April issue of "Texas Business" magazine.

El Paso, listed in "Texas Business" as having a population of 478,834, had issued $83,355,029 in building permits by the end of April. This is above the figure for the same time last year, said a city employee, which was $69,078,960. Total dollar figure for 1980 was $257,326,027.

Odessa, with an estimated population of 115,000, falls far below Midland (pop. 82,000) on building permits. For the first trimester, Odessa reported $37,538,486. And this figure, said an Odessa city employee, is above that for the same time a year ago. Building permits for April were about half that for Midland — $9,140,450.

LUBBOCK, A CITY almost three times the size of Midland with 211,846, reported a building permit total for the first four months at half that of Midland — $44,638,595. This figure, said Wayne Jennings, a Lubbock planning checker, is above what the city had for this time a year ago, which was $24,994,885.

Midland's $90 million figure already beats what Lubbock reported in building permits for all of 1980, which was $88 million, according to Jennings.

Amarillo, a Panhandle city of about 173,000 persons, falls far below Midland in new construction. To date, the city reported $39,483,090. This is about $20 million below the figure for the same time a year ago, said a city employee. But that extra $20 million went to permit a new hospital, the employee added, explaining that without the $20 million the figures are about the same.

Abilene to the east of Midland was cited in "Texas Business" as "planning on explosive growth during 1981,"

Native West Texan to lead MC

By SUE FAHLGREN

Dr. Jess Parrish, outgoing president of Shelby State Community College in Memphis, Tenn., today was named president of Midland College. The announcement was made by the school's board of trustees at an early morning press conference in the administration board room.

Parrish succeeds Dr. Al Langford, who resigned in March with plans to enter private business in Midland as an independent oil operator.

A native of West Texas, Parrish was selected after an executive session Wednesday in which search committee members interviewed four top candidates for the position.

Parrish, who was the last interviewed, was preparing to return to Memphis Wednesday when Midland College officials stopped him at Midland Regional Airport and asked him to stay to be available for comment at this morning's press conference.

"We have made a diligent and thorough search and have interviewed numerous applicants," said Jack Huff, immediate past president of the trustees. "The board has unanimously selected...Dr. Jess Parrish of Memphis, Tenn. We feel Dr. Parrish meets all of the high standards and qualifications we are looking for," Huff said.

He added that Parrish would be installed as president Aug. 1, while Langford would be retained until the end of that month in an advisory capacity.

"We feel extremely fortunate to obtain the services of Dr. Jess Parrish," Huff continued. "His roots are in this area, he has a distinguished academic background and a record of developing a community college from its inception. His experience and committment to the highest quality of community college education will provide the leadership to keep Midland College moving toward its goal of becoming the finest community college in this state and in the nation."

Parrish, who was born in Ballinger and educated at Texas Tech, said he had already resigned his position at Shelby State before he applied for Langford's position.

Having accepted a position as "regents professor at Memphis State in the Center for Study of Higher Education," Parrish said he had given up presidency of Shelby State and his founding position. "And then, this position came open and I just couldn't resist coming."

Parrish said he would enjoy returning to the West Texas area. Having received his bachelor's, master's and doctorate degree from Texas Tech, he said he has "been out of the state for 14 years."

"I'm obviously very happy with the appointment and very much pleased with the confidence of the board," Parrish said. "I'm happy with this part of the country."

He said he was interested in getting away from Memphis humidity and gaining the friendship of West Texans. "It's the people. It's awfully hard to beat West Texas on the people," Parrish said this morning, adding Tennesseans are generally friendly, but Texans are more so. In addition, he said, "there's a pioneering feeling still in Texas."

Parrish said although he was "not familiar with the campus," he thought "instructional programs will take my first priority" at Midland College.

Parrish, who was one of the founders of Shelby State, which now has a student population around 6,000, said

Texas area forecasts

West Texas - Partly cloudy with widely scattered thunderstorms, some possibly severe east of mountains through tonight. Fair extreme southwest. Fair and cooler north and partly cloudy south Friday. Highs near 80 north to low 90s Big Bend. Lows mid 40s north to mid 60s extreme south. Highs Friday low 70s north to low 90s along Rio Grande.

South Texas - Fair through Friday except some widely scattered thundershowers west through tonight. Highs 80s except low 90s inland south. Lows mid 60s north to low 70s lower coast.

These days you never know when it's going to rain here

No matter how sunny the skies, the best advice these days is to keep an umbrella near at all times.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport is calling for a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms tonight and Friday, some possibly severe tonight.

Winds should be southerly at 10 to 15 mph tonight and Friday. The mercury should drop to the middle 50s tonight and warm up to the middle 80s on Friday.

High on Wednesday was 75 degrees, a far cry from the record of 103 set on that date in 1947. Overnight low was 59 degrees, a warm reading compared to the record of 42 degrees set in 1933.

Precipitation for the month is barely under the 1-inch mark with .99 of an inch. Total for the year is 4.93 inches.

Last of 21 crash victims sought

WALKERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Air Force crews were searching a remote barley field today for the last of 21 people who died when a missile-tracking jet on a training flight blew up and crashed, scattering documents and debris.

The area was cordoned off and state police were scooping up the papers amid conflicting accounts about whether they were classified.

All those aboard the $50 million advanced range instrumentation aircraft were killed in the Wednesday morning crash, which occurred about a mile from this western Maryland community of 8,000, said Air Force Maj. William Campbella.

Twenty bodies, many dismembered, were found before the search was called off for the night, officials said.

The Pentagon said the aircraft was based at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, where it was assigned to the 4950 Test Wing. The flight was to have been a "routine training flight" that ended back in Ohio, said Air Force Lt. Thomas Larock.

The EC-135 four-engine jet, the military version of the Boeing 707, is used to track missiles and unmanned satellite flights.

A Pentagon source said the plane was carrying classified documents when it went down, but Wright-Patterson spokesman Maj. Edward Robertson denied that report.

Papers from the plane were strewn over the area, and state police worked to retrieve the documents, which were sodden from a light rain which fell throughout the day.

Local radio stations were asked to broadcast state police requests that residents who found documents turn them in, said Jane English of WZYQ-FM in Frederick.

Newspaper photographers at the crash site reported having their film confiscated by authorities. But the film later was returned.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Area residents who saw the accident said the plane was a mass of flame before it struck the ground.

"It looked like a ball of fire," said Edward Watson, vice president of operations for the Maryland Midland Railroad, which halted service on its line adjacent to the crash site because a piece of wreckage fell on the rail.

Nancy McCullough, a resident of a nearby housing development, said the plane "went over our development and then I heard this explosion that sounded like a long, loud, thunder clap."

"Within minutes, the entire development was covered with a yellow substance that seemed like fiberglass insulation," she said.

"It apparently blew up in the air," said A.E. Appleby, police communications officer at the Frederick state police barracks.

A spokesman at Andrews Air Force Base said that all witness reports indicated that the plane was exploding as it came down.

Campbell said an Air Force investigation of the accident could take several months to complete.

The Baltimore Sun reported today that the aircraft was flying at 28,000 feet when it disappeared from radar in the Washington Air Traffic Control Center, where it was being tracked.

Dr. Jess Parrish, left, outgoing president of Shelby State Community College in Memphis, Tenn., was named president of Midland College in a press conference this morning. Parrish, a graduate of Texas Tech, will be installed as president Aug. 1, succeeding Dr. Al Langford.

New president named at MC

he would have the same type of commitment to Midland College.

"The role of education is the same if you have 60,000 students or 60," Parrish said. Being at a new school "always challenges the president," he said, adding that succeeding Dr. Langford will be a challenge.

"Dr. Langford and I are very good friends," Parrish said, adding the two met at Texas Tech.

Among his experiences, Parrish has been director of the student union at Texas Tech, director of bands at Hamlin Public School in Hamlin, territory marketing manager for Mobil Oil Company in a 22-county area of West Texas for five years, elementary public school physical education instructor in San Angelo for a year, assistant adviser to foreign students and financial aids and coordinator of men's supervision at Texas Tech, and dean of student life and director of testing and counseling at Angelo State College from 1965-67.

He was vice president for student affairs at Memphis State University from 1967 to 1970. At that time, he was appointed by the Commissioner of Education for the State of Tennessee to become the founding president of Shelby State. The college opened in temporary quarters in September 1972, with 1,100 students. The college now operates in more than 40 locations throughout the Memphis area. Recently, a $21 million campus in the midtown area was completed with plans now complete for a second campus.

"With this type of background, we feel Dr. Parrish will be able to provide outstanding abilities, and a certain continuity of purpose, to Midland College. All the trustees are delighted that Dr. Parrish agreed to accept this position," said Fred Wright, president of the board of trustees.

Thefts, burglaries top crime list

Theft and burglary complaints topped the list of criminal activity during the past 24 hours.

Lisa Davis of 4201 N. Garfield told officers a tent, sleeping bag and mattress were stolen last week during a camping trip at Big Bend National Park.

Kathy Saunders, 706 E. Broadway, said a purse containing assorted credit cards and a book of blank checks was taken from a desk drawer at the Ladd Petroleum Corp., 510 W. Illinois. A similar theft occurred there three weeks ago, police were told.

A cassette player, several tapes and a camera were reported taken from a vehicle of the parking lot of Luby's Cafeteria, 2510 W. Louisiana.

And Alfredo Garcia of 1511 N. Weatherford told police $400 worth of assorted jewelry was taken in a burglary of his residence after someone forced open a rear door, while Mena Wilson of 2300 North A St. said a gold ring and three gold earrings were stolen in a burglary of her home. No value was placed on the jewelry.

Sheriff's deputies this morning were investigating the reported theft of $450 in cash from the office of the Midland Mobile Home Ranch on South Rankin Highway. The theft occurred periodically over the past few months and also included several assorted tools.

Accumulated grease in a vent hood was blamed for a fire at 2502 Cimarron St. shortly before 7 p.m. Wednesday. Minor damage was reported to the hood and adjacent cabinets in the home, which is owned by Tom Allison.

Accused bandit sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — A 32-year-old Houston man who allegedly sent a note demanding $300,000 through a pneumatic tube to a drive-in bank teller has been sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Claudis Joe Latson was sentenced Wednesday by the jury that earlier convicted him in the Nov. 1 robbery of the Oak Forest National Bank.

Assistant District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal said the note, scrawled on the back of a deposit slip from another bank, ordered the teller to put the money in a sack and send it back to him.

"I have two men with guns on you now and two men inside," the note said.

Rosenthal claimed the defendant attempted to escape but his car stalled.

Defense attorney John F. Hirling argued his client was innocent because the teller really was never placed in fear of bodily injury or death.

Residents hear blast, jet crash

WALKERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Karen Green thought lightning had struck her house when she heard an explosion that preceded the fatal crash of an Air Force missle-tracking jet.

"It was loud, really loud," Mrs. Green said Wednesday, recalling how the giant plane exploded and slammed into a grain field near her home in rural central Maryland earlier in the day.

All 21 people aboard the EC-135 four-engine jet were killed.

"At first I thought that lightning had struck the house. I looked out the window at the chicken shed," she said. "There was an orange glow on the roof. I ran upstairs and looked out. Out across the wheat field was all this flame and smoke."

Mrs. Green said she and her husband found yellow, spongy debris outside their home.

Thick, acrid smoke billowed from the burning chunks of the plane, a military version of a Boeing 707.

"We were walking toward it when we came across what was left of somebody by the fence row. We didn't go any further," she said.

Emmittsburg insurance salesman Frank Harris, 29, said he heard "two or three small booms, and looked up and there it was, comng down in an arch, it didn't take long."

"There was a brilliant fireball coming straight down," said Merhle Duvall, a dairy farmer. The plane "sounded like a propane torch and a tin can rattling."

Permian Corp. refused writ

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Supreme Court has refused to grant a writ of error in an appeal by Permian Corp. against an order entered in a class action suit.

W.R. Davis filed the class action suit on behalf of himself and other sellers of crude oil to Permian in May 1979. A Midland County trial court later entered an order requiring that all parties to the suit receive notice.

Permian appealed that order but the El Paso Court of Civil Appeals ruled that it did not have jurisdiction because no final judgment had been entered in the case.

Midland still building; Record permits issued

but it still falls behind Midland on building permits. To date, that city has recorded $35,618,324.

And San Angelo, with a population similar to that of Midland, trails the pack of cities with only $16,349,912 in building permits for the first trimester.

Midland's record $90 million doesn't include any of the new projects that have been announced recently, such as the First National Bank 40-story tower, mall and parking garage; the hotel with high-rise office building; or any of the ClayDesta buildings planned for that $100 million development.

NEW COMMERCIAL buildings accounted for $44,519,524 of the total figure while new residential takes up $39,978,842, according to figures from the city inspection office.

Richard Hennessy, director of the city's planning and community development department, remarked that "you won't find any city in Texas that is growing as fast as Midland, based on the percentage basis for office construction. You would have to look at Dallas and Houston to find as much office construction as in Midland. But their rate of growth percentage-wise would be lower than ours" because of the higher population figures.

Looking at Midland's $90 million building figure with its 80,000 citizens means that construction amounts to about $1,012 per person.

Other cities that would be growing at a similar rate as Midland, said Hennessy, are suburbs of metropolitan areas, such as Round Rock near Austin and Arlington near Dallas-Fort Worth.

"But Midland is unique," he said, explaining that it isn't situated near a major metropolitan area.

While his department tries to keep a handle on expected growth, Hennessy said they were unprepared for this first trimester. But he views it as "an indication of strong growth," he said. "There are other factors to Midland's growth now besides the oil industry that will tend to play a role in the future.

"MIDLAND IS REACHING a size where we will continue to get our share of the general growth pattern that is going on in the southwest part of the country." Midland will sustain this growth pattern, Hennessy believes, if it maintains an image of a good place to live and raise a family.

In the "Texas Business" magazine report, Midland ranked 24th out of the 25 SMSA's in population, related Grant Billingsley, director of the economic development department with the Midland Chamber of Commerce. But the Tall City ranked eighth on its economic SMSA, with the next higher one being Corpus Christi, "which is about four times our size."

"We're in a tremendous rate of increase pattern right now," he said. "We're competing with cities out of our league population-wise."

SMSA stands for Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area and applies to cities with more than 50,000 population, according to Doug Henson, an economist with The First National Bank of Midland.

An SMSA, he added, "is a magical designation that you've become a city rather than a community."

IT'S BASED ON such statistics as building permits, personal income, retail sales and employment figures, according to Henson.

The $90 million figure in building permits amazed Henson, he said, but it "means that Midland will maintain a dominant position for headquarters. We're geographically isolated, but because of the dominance of the petroleum industry, we can't help but stand out."

And the people apparently have noticed Midland. The first three months of 1981 saw a net increase in the population by 1,000 persons, according to Billingsley who keeps tabs on that figure.

In 1980, Midland averaged a net increase of 82 family units per month, he said. For the first three months this year, it jumped to 115 family units a month. A family unit, he explained, is 2.89 persons.

This influx of people has brought on the city's housing shortage, said Bilingsley. Although the residential permits were almost $40 million, he noted they are primarily single family homes. For the first trimester, "there were only 340 multi-family units permitted. We're falling way short in apartments."

Taking a stab at forecasting, J.B. Keaton, who heads up the city's inspection department, said the next 10 years should be good economically. "That's proven each day by the building permits."

"I don't think Midland will become the ghost town that people have talked about. We've expanded too much."

Fitzsimmons fought to the bitter end

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A funeral will be held today for Frank E. Fitzsimmons, who rose from a 22-cent-an-hour truck-loading job to the presidency of the Teamsters Union, the nation's biggest and richest union.

The union's headquarters announced that a private funeral would be held in Palm Springs, Calif., and that a memorial service will be held June 1 at the union's international convention in Las Vegas.

Fitzsimmons, who died of lung cancer at 73 Wednesday at the Scripps Clinic, took over the 2 million-member union in 1967 when the late James R. Hoffa, in federal prison for jury tampering and mail fraud, decided not to seek re-election as president.

Rising through the Teamster heirarchy on Hoffa's coattails, Fitzsimmons inherited a union with a reputation for corruption and scandal. The criminal misdeeds of Dave Beck, Hoffa' predecessor, helped get the Teamsters kicked out of the AFL-CIO in 1967.

When he died, Fitzsimmons was fighting a federal government suit seeking to recover millions of dollars he and other former trustees of the union's $1.4 billion Central States Pension Fund allegedly lost through questionable management.

In 1977, the Labor Department forced him and the others to resign as trustees of the scandal-ridden pension fund. The following year, dissident Teamsters accused him of nepotism, ties to racketeers and using union funds for a lavish lifestyle.

Fitzsimmons, supplied by the union with a $98,000 home, limousine and jet for meetings and golf — in the low 80s — with labor and business leaders, was cleared of the dissidents' accusations by the Teamsters executive board in 1979.

Born in Jeanette, Pa., he dropped out of school and went to Detroit at age 16 after his father died, joining the Hoffa-led Local 299 in 1934. His militant activism impressed Hoffa and he became business agent in 1937.

Frank E. Fitzsimmons

As Hoffa rose to succeed Beck in 1957, he kept Fitzsimmons a step behind. Fitzsimmons served as union caretaker when Hoffa went to jail. His loyalty was so strong that he awaited Hoffa's last-minute decision not to seek re-election before declaring his own candidacy.

Fitzsimmons, many hoped, would help build a new image for the union. He settled into office slowly but grew to relish the job. When Hoffa was paroled and began making noises about returning to power, the friendship deteriorated.

On March 1, 1975, Fitzsimmons called Hoffa "a bum, a has-been. He's soft in the head. He's a liar and a stool pigeon." A week earlier, Hoffa had criticized Fitzsimmons for being "more interested in playing golf" than working for union members.

In July 1975, the possibly of a battle for union control ended. Hoffa disappeared from his Detroit home, presumably kidnapped and murdered.

Williams may gain Teamsters leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of Frank E. Fitzsimmons leaves a Teamsters official accused of mob connections as the leading contender to head the nation's largest union, which has been tainted for a quarter-century by allegations of corruption.

Although maintaining publicly that they did not want to discuss a successor for Fitzsimmons, who died of lung cancer Wednesday in a Southern California clinic, union sources said the top candidate appeared to be Roy L. Williams, head of the Central Conference of Teamsters.

Williams, 66, under investigation by the Justice Department, announced last week that he would seek the presidency of the 2 million-member union in June if Fitzsimmons could not continue in office.

One knowledgeable source said Williams "is clearly the leading candidate, but I think there will be a lot of politicking" during the next 10 days that makes Williams' selection less than certain.

The 73-year-old Fitzsimmons, who had headed the Teamsters since succeeding James R. Hoffa in 1967, was unable to attend a recent meeting of the union's 22-member executive board in Florida because of his failing health.

At the time of his death, Fitzsimmons was a defendant in a 1978 civil suit by the federal government, which charged that he and other former trustees of the multibillion-dollar Central States Pension Fund had mismanaged retirement money through questionable loans involving gambling casinos, race tracks and risky real estate ventures.

Williams also is a defendant in that suit, which is still pending and seeks to recover millions of dollars in alleged losses.

Williams, called before a Senate subcommittee in August 1980, was questioned about his role as a trustee for a scandal-ridden pension fund and about whether he knew several reputed members of the Kansas City mob. Williams repeatedly invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination, saying he could not answer questions because he was under investigation by a federal grand jury and was the subject of FBI wiretaps.

However, he has denied allegations that he has organized crime ties.

Fitzsimmons took command of the union in 1967 after Hoffa was imprisoned for jury tampering.

Washington may be released from Austin hospital today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Doctors have determined that Rep. Craig Washington, who was hospitalized after complaining of chest pains during a legislative party Tuesday night, did not have a heart attack.

Washington, D-Houston, is speaker pro tem of the House and chairman of the House Human Services Committee.

Speaker Bill Clayton announced Wednesday night that physicians examining Washington found the pains were "nothing associated with the heart."

Washington's pains were the result of "fatigue and an old injury from an automobile accident," Clayton said.

Libyans given eviction notice

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, cushioned by an oil surplus and worried that Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy would try to liquidate his enemies at home and abroad, is giving Libya's diplomats five working days to leave the United States.

The chief of the Libyan mission here, Ali el Houderi, said his government is being wronged but will comply with the eviction notice.

"We don't have anything to do with any hit squad," Houderi said on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program Wednesday night.

The State Department announced Wednesday it has asked the Libyans to close their People's Bureau here — the Libyan name for their embassies — and has given the mission's personnel five working days to leave the country.

The action is one step short of a full break in diplomatic relations.

Libya is the third-largest supplier of oil to the United States, accounting for an estimated 640,000 barrels a day — 10 percent of total U.S. imports.

At the White House on Wednesday, assistant press secretary Mort Allin said he does not believe the shutdown of the Libyan Embassy will effect the $12 billion a year U.S. oil trade with Libya.

'However," Allin said, "the United States response to Libyan policies and actions will not be determined by that relationship."

Nevertheless, U.S. officials speaking anonymously said President Reagan's decision to expel the Libyans was made easier by the current worldwide oil surplus and probably would not have come had there been a scarcity of oil supplies.

State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said the decision was based on a wide range of "Libyan provocations and misconduct, including support for international terrorism."

Khadafy has been accused of waging an intimidation campaign against Libyan dissidents abroad and one U.S. official on Wednesday quoted Khadafy as saying in a speech two months ago, "We will wipe out our enemies wherever they may be."

Late last month, police in New Mexico arrested Eugene Aloys Tafoya, 47, in the shooting and wounding bast October of an anti-Khadafy Libyan student at Colorado State University. FBI officials reportedly believe the shooting was part of Khadafy's anti-dissident campaign.

The Washington Post quoted unidentified sources today as saying the Colorado case and indications that People's Bureau members in the United States were involved in tracking down dissident exiles were factors in the decision to oust all the Libyan diplomats.

A year ago, the State Department expelled four Libyans for participating in the alleged campaign. Also in 1980, eight Libyan expatriates were murdered in Great Britain, Greece and Italy.

Houderi, after being informed Wednesday of the U.S. decision, told reporters he had no idea why the expulsion order was issued.

"We were the scapegoats," he said. "We do not export revolution. The only thing we seek is friendship.

"We came here to build bridges between our country and yours," he said. "The only thing we regret is not finishing the job of building those bridges."

In Moscow, where Khadafy was warmly received during an official visit last month, the Soviet news agency Tass charged today that the Reagan administration "resorted to unsubstantiated accusations against Libya of violating rules of conduct and supporting international terrorism."

"Washington is known to brand as international terrorism the national liberation struggle of the peoples, which (the United States) seeks to suppress by all means," Tass said.

It was not known how many Libyans will be affected by the expulsion order, but a State Department list of accredited diplomats indicates 21 Libyans are assigned here. Houderi was quoted in The Washington Post on Tuesday as saying there are about 60-75 people connected with the mission here, including 25 on the embassy staff and their families.

The State Department is encouraging Americans not to travel to Libya, Fischer said, because the U.S. government cannot provide consular protection or assistance.

Bus crash kills 31

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An express train collided today with a school bus carrying students on a picnic, killing 31 of those on the bus and injuring 20 others, a Jakarta newspaper reported today.

The daily Sinar Harapan said the train slammed into the bus at a railway crossing near the town of Solo in central Java.

Witnesses said the train dragged wreckage of the bus for nearly 150 feet before it came to a halt, the paper said.

Bomb blast kills three

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A pair of terrorists on a motorbike today set off a bomb on a Spanish army car in downtown Madrid, killing three military men and seriously wounding the general who commanded King Juan Carlos' household guard, police said. Police later captured two suspects.

Initial police reports said. Lt. Gen. Joaquin de Valenzuela, the 68-year-old commander of the household guard, had been killed in the attack.

Six Latin students recognized

Six students at MHS earned recognition from the National Junior Classical League and the American Classical League through superior performance on the National Latin Exam.

The test was given to more than 28,000 students across the country. Material covered each level of Latin and third-year students were examined in either Prose or Poetry.

Awards were given for the percentile in which a student scored: 90-100 percent scores were recognized by the gold medal summa cum laude award; 80-89 pecent scores were rewarded by the silver medal maxima cum laude award; 70-79 percent scores merited the magna cum laude award; and 60-69 precent scores received the cum laude certificate.

Among the five first-year Midland students who took the tests, David MacDonald and Deidre Bell received cum laude awards and Dawn Hammock won the magna cum laude award.

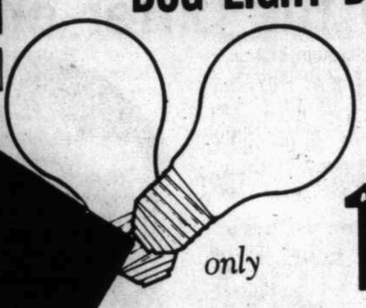

Among the five second-year students who took the test from Midland, Norman Yee received a magna cum laude award and Ted Barnard received the silver medal maxima cum laude award.

Among three participating third-year students from MHS, Melissa Baldridge received a magna cum laude award in Prose.

All of the students are taught by MHS Latin teacher Linda Tervooren.

During the eight-month deployment, his battalion completed many projects on the island, including construction of an ammnuition storage area, two barracks, and a high explosive magazine. The battalion also placed a concrete overlay on the island's pier, dug 30 fresh water wells, performed extensive work at the fuel farm, and developed sewage facilities for a 1,500-man camp.

ROTC Cadet William T. Wright Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wright Sr. of Crane, has been named the 1981 George C. Marshall Award winner from Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

Wright was one of 280 cadets nationwide to receive the prestigious award at Lexington, Va. It is the highest honor a cadet can receive.

"I felt honored to receive this award and considered it an outstanding opportunity to attend this conference to learn about national security," said Wright.

Each cadet was presented an award certificate and an authorized three volume biography of Gen. Marshall. Marshall is best remembered for his leadership as Army chief of Staff in World War II and for his sponsorship of the European Recovery Act (Marshall Plan) while Secretary of State from 1947 to 1949.

No medal for Subic?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has refused to discuss a report that a special awards panel has recommended that Staff Sgt. Joseph Subic Jr. not be given the medal it wants presented to other soldiers held hostage in Iran.

A Pentagon source who asked not to be identified said Wednesday that the panel has decided that five other officers and enlisted men, but not Subic, should receive the Army Commendation Medal.

Craddick's water bill approved

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The House has given final approval to a bill by Midland Rep. Tom Craddick that relates to the powers of the Department of Water Resources to regulate water use and operation of water districts.

The bill increases civil penalties for unlawful appropriation of water from $50 to $1,000 per day, sets out provisions for dam safety, gives the DWR executive director authority to abate the waste of water and eliminates fees for the use of water by political subdivisions to recharge aquifers or to abate natural pollution.

Th measure, House Bill 1349, now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Just kidding or not

Here's hoping that State Rep. Sam Hudson of Dallas was only kidding when he introduced a bill recently for the construction of a $2.5-million Capitol spa. He was kidding, wasn't he?

The Capitol area health facility would include a weight room, indoor track, massage parlor and, or course, a sauna.

Hudson explained the sauna would be needed. "After you get through lifting weights and jogging, you need to finish the job properly and relax the muscles."

The representative's chief concern, it seems is protecting the health of the state's officials. The state's lawmakers are under so much pressure, Hudson noted, that they need a spa where they can relieve tensions and "let off steam."

Just in case Hudson's bill was not submitted in jest, we feel it necessary to remind him of the mood throughout the country regarding extravagance in government — at any level — and of the proper role of a legislator.

We respectfully remind him that state representatives and state senators — like their national counterparts — are servants of their constituencies. They serve at the pleasure of the voters and their overriding concern should be providing the best representation at the lowest cost.

These servants were not elected into a taxpayer-funded private club and the taxpayers cannot be expected to provide for their every want and whim. If Texas' legislators are under such intense pressure, as Hudson claims, let them take part in some of the tension relieving activities more and more Americans indulge in, visits to local gymnasiums, a jog in the park, etc.

On the other hand, if Hudson wasn't kidding maybe the pressure he says he feels in the hallowed halls in Austin is a little much for him. Maybe he'd do better to seek another line of work.

'Ergonomics' no less

Technology provides its compensations. First it brought us the office copier, with an appetite for paper that could be felt all the way to the forests of Canada.

Now, obedient to Newton's law, comes a force in the opposite direction — electronic word-processors that should diminish the demand for paper from the stockroom.

We are told that Jimmy Carter, sitting down to write his memoirs back at Plains, did not sharpen pencils and open a ream of paper. He sat down at the keyboard of a video display terminal, or VDT, punching his words into a computerized typewriter. Instead of filling a wastebasket with rejected rough drafts, as writers do, Mr. Carter will get his prose all smoothed out in the computer before a word goes down on paper.

This puts the former president in the company of an estimated seven million Americans who now do all or part of their work at VDTs — in banks, libraries, newspapers like The Reporter-Telegram, airline and hotel reservation offices, government agencies and other places where words and numbers are the fodder of the day's business.

The scales of compensation tilt both ways. If the VDTs produce a savings in paperwork, they also have produced complaints from people who work with them — eyestrain and headaches or more serious symptoms. It's a relief to hear from the Food and Drug Administration that, contrary to suspicions, VDTs produce no harmful radiation that could account for this.

The trouble, says FDA, is probably "ergonomics" — the problems workers often have when new tools or working conditions are introduced. If Mr. Carter develops some aches and pains, it's because he's not used to watching his words come and go on a screen. They didn't have a VDT in the Oval Office at the White House.

Given the momentum behind this latest electronic innovation, it wouldn't surprise us if President Reagan sooner or later puts one in. After all, he says he wants to reduce government paperwork.

ART BUCHWALD

Japanese sure can use a book of instructions

Art Buchwald

It seems like only yesterday that we signed a peace treaty with the Japanese aboard the battleship Missouri, and told them they would never be allowed to make arms again.

"What should we do instead?" a defeated Japanese admiral asked.

"Why don't you make automobiles?" one of Gen. MacArthur's advisers suggested.

"Ah so. But Americans make automobiles. How can a poor defeated country like Japan hope to compete with your wonderful cars?"

"Well, of course you can't compete in the United States because Americans would never buy a Japanese automobile after what you did to Pearl Harbor. But perhaps you could make something that could be sold in Southeast Asia and other markets where people don't care about quality."

"Ah so. How do you build an automobile?"

"It sounds hard, but I'm sure you people can get the hang of it. Here's a book with the instructions. You see, you put the engine up here and then seats here, and wrap a body around it, paint it a nice color, and you have yourself a car."

"Can I keep the book?"

"Why not? Now that you are a poor defeated country we have no secrets."

"You are kind, sir."

A year later, the first Japanese car came off a jerry-built assembly line.

The Japanese admiral, who was now in charge of Tojo Motors, showed it to the American aide.

The ex-admiral bowed. "Forgive us for this unworthy thing we call an automobile, but we do not have much to work with."

The aide slapped the ex-admiral on the back. "Don't apologize. You did right well with what you had available. I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll bring some of our boys over from Detroit, and they'll give you a list of things you'll need to build a decent vehicle. We'll also send over some of your designers and engineers to the U.S. so they can get the hang of American know-how."

"Ah so? You would do that for a poor little struggling Japanese automobile company?"

"Why not? It isn't as if you're ever going to be able to sell any of those rickshaws in the States."

Several years later, the MacArthur aide, who was now working for a large New York bank, bumped into the ex-admiral in the Waldorf Astoria. "What brings you to New York?" he asked jovially.

"I am arranging dealerships all over America for our 4-cylinder Kamikaze 3x2. It gets 24 miles to the gallon and has front-wheel drive, disc brakes, and a rear defrosting window. Here is a photo of it."

The American looked at it and shook his head. "You're wasting your time, admiral. Americans will never buy a small car, particularly one with front-wheel drive."

"Ah so, but we only hope to take one percent of the market among the teen-agers and college students."

"It won't work. We have a love affair in this country with gas guzzlers and big fenders. As a friend, I'm telling you to save your money, and try to sell your product to the Third World. They will drive anything they can get their hands on."

The ex-admiral bowed and said, "Perhaps you are right. But as long as I am here maybe I will find someone who is interested."

It was 1981 and both the American ex-aide, and the Japanese ex-admiral had aged considerably. When the American walked into the luxurious offices of the ex-admiral, the Japanese stood up slowly and bowed.

"Ah so. And what brings you to Tokyo, my good friend?"

"I've been sent by the president of the United States," the American said. "He knows we go way back, and felt I should bring his message personally."

"What message?"

"He wants you to stop making so many damn Japanese cars."

"But if we can't make cars, what else can we make?"

"He wants you to start making arms."

"But we don't know how to make arms."

"The president told me to give you this"

"What is it?"

"A book of instructions."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Russians going to new depths to match U.S.

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency is, you might say, "Flippering" its lid over reports that the Russians are training dolphins for military and espionage missions. Worse, they stole the idea from us.

Their inspiration was not the movie "Day of the Dolphin," in which some bad guys kidnapped George C. Scott's talking porpoise and trained it to attach an explosive device to the bottom of a ship. Nor did they get the idea from clandestine visits to Marineland.

A top-secret CIA report states that the Soviets' fighting fish program "closely resembles that in the United States and apparently was stimulated by a U.S. Navy demonstration of the military value of marine mammals." The Navy began its studies in 1960 with a dolphin named "Notty," trying to determine whether the beast had any special characteristics that could be built into the design of underwater missiles.

One of the Navy's most successful tests involved a dolphin named "Tuffy," which carried tools and messages to aquanauts 200 feet below the surface in the 1965 Sea Lab II project off La Jolla, Calif. That's the caper that apparently hooked the Russians.

The Soviet program began that very year, and the CIA reports that "the quality of Soviet research has improved steadily and in many areas is comparable" to the Navy's.

The Top Secret Umbra CIA report, slipped to my associate Dale Van Atta, says the Russian navy may be "training dolphins to perform various military and intelligence tasks ... (which) could include attaching intelligence-collection packages and other devices to enemy submarines, and helping divers recover equipment from the ocean floor."

In addition, Soviet scientists are trying to learn more about the way dolphins are able to locate objects under water through the use of echoes.

"The Soviets hope to use the results of this research in developing advanced sonar systems, more efficient hull designs for submarines and surface ships, and improved shapes for torpedoes," the CIA reports.

The Russian dolphin project reportedly involves five Black Sea research stations — including small bio-acoustics laboratories and a dolphinarium.

Like just about everything else in the U.S.-Soviet competition, each side must come up with countermeasures to nullify the other's new weapon. Here the Russians may have opened a dolphin gap.

In one Soviet test, according to another CIA report, the Russian experts were able to "estimate ... a dolphin's ability to detect an object containing an active acoustical emitter under adverse background noise conditions."

And this, the CIA explains, "could enable the Soviets to evaluate the potential benefits of developing acoustical jamming countermeasures to U.S. Navy dolphin programs ..."

But don't think the Navy has been napping on the quarterdeck. Evidently alarmed at the possibility that its Fighting Flipper Force might be incapacitated by Russian jamming, the Navy has broadened its marine mammal research to include sea lions and whales.

In "Project Quick Find," sea lions were trained to locate instrument-laden missiles and other test ordnance fired into the ocean, and to attach recovery hardware to them.

And in "Project Deep Ops," a pilot whale and two killer whales demonstrated an ability to recover objects from even greater depths than the sea lions operated at. The pilot whale proved particularly adept. It learned how to attach a lift bag — which inflated at hookup — to a dummy torpedo resting on the ocean floor 1,654 feet down.

Our Blubber Brigade should give the Russians something to chew on, all right.

UNDER THE DOME — Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., doesn't like to stress his status as an heir to the "57 Varieties" fortune, but he can't escape it. The other day, he complimented a witness before the Senate Committee on Aging in terms as rich and pungent as a jar of piccalilli. The witness evidently felt some return compliment was in order. "Thank you, Senator Heinz," said the witness. "I use your ketchup."

— A New York congressman's aide expressed surprise — and presumably relief — at the performance of freshman Sen. Alphonse D'Amato, R-N.Y. "He is a man of heavy intelligence hidden behind the facade of Long Island tough," said the staff man. Then, thinking of the egghead sophistication of Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., and D'Amato's predecessor, Jacob Javits, the aide conceded that "Alphonse is definitely not what we're used to."

— Sen. John Warner, R-Va., saw his wife, Elizabeth Taylor, perform at least twice when "The Little Foxes" was at the Kennedy Center. But he spent a lot more time than that at the theater. Warner frequently took a briefcase full of Senate homework to the center and worked in Liz's dressing room till she was ready to go home.

— House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill told associates after a recent dinner at the White House that he tried to bring up some serious matters, but all President Reagan wanted to do was tell stories. So they sat around all evening regaling each other with Irish jokes.

— Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., President Reagan's "Man on the Hill," has a constituent's caricature of a sad-eyed, weatherbeaten cowpoke displayed on the door to a staff office. It was given to Laxalt when he first came to the Senate, but there is renewed meaning in the caption: "There were a helluva lot of things they didn't tell me when I hired on with this outfit."

A CHANGING WORLD

NATO should concentrate on taking first things first

John Pinkerman

With Afghanistan and Poland as one background, Persian Gulf oil as another and Soviet penetration of the Far East and Pacific as a third, much geopolitical talk these days concerns expanding the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military command into a global force.

The idea is fine, with a great big IF. But, the "if" concerns a more basic need. Despite Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's recent fence-mending expedition to Western Europe, NATO is in a very unsettled state and if this vital weakness is not corrected and soon, there is no need to even think seriously about expansion into a worldwide defense force against further Soviet expansion.

The United States is doing its share, and more, in the defense of Western Europe — and, of course, the American homeland — but if West Germany, France, Holland, Belgium, Denmark and Norway do not reverse a drift away from military spending NATO soon will be little more than a paper tiger.

The United States spends 5.4 percent of its gross national product for defense, mostly in Europe. Britain, always a loyal ally, spends 3.9 percent. But, the falloff is rapid from there on. France spends 3.9 percent but very little is dedicated to NATO. Holland spends 3.4 percent, West Germany and Belgium 3.3 percent and other NATO allies less.

NATO's problems are everywhere, from the most southern area of Turkey to the most northern tip of Norway, but it is the Central European and so-called northern flank where the need for modernization and an upgrading of both tactical and strategic weapons is the greatest.

Noted defense analyst Dr. Robert Weinland posed the danger in the northern flank clearly recently when he said, "World War III may not be won on the northern flank, but it definitely could be lost there. If the USSR's expanding naval power, increasingly oriented airpower and ground forces in the region convince the Nordic countries that U.S. power, 4,000 miles distant, is no match for Soviet strength in place the war could be lost even before a shot is fired." This means that Soviet policy is to isolate and neutralize, if not control, NATO's northern flank.

Even as Weinland articulates this danger, some of the NATO partners vacillate over their military situation.

While Norway decided recently to increase defense spending, there is growing agitation, led by the left-wing sector of the ruling Labor Party, to cut back on defense and in effect isolate Norway from the rest of NATO. And, all Norwegians are poised to rebel if the Reagan administration pushes the heretofore loyal ally to contribute more to defense.

Britain stands firm and will react favorably to U.S. urgings to do more. What France will do is anybody's guess but whatever it is, it will be done as a loner, with considerable contempt for its so-called friends, particularly the United States.

Holland is in a quandary, particularly on the subject of permitting the basing of 48 U.S. cruise missiles on its soil, weapons vital to the tactical defense of free Europe in event of a Soviet assault. There is great reluctance among the Dutch to accept the missiles, even though they would be formidable weapons in defense of their own homeland.

West Germany, once the strong thrust of the NATO shield, is racked by indecision and voter opposition to military expansion. An economic downturn has contributed to this detour from determined military preparedness, but vast numbers of Germans, particularly the younger ones, are opposing stationing of U.S. cruise missiles and spending plans for more modern German weapons.

The Danes are constantly harassed by Soviet naval maneuvers off their coast and they are, clearly and simply, scared.

This fear is, to lesser degrees, shared by other NATO nations and much of it has to do with a U.S. policy that, until the Reagan administration took office, played directly into Moscow's hands. This policy furthered a perception among NATO allies that Washington might consider much of Western Europe expendable in event of a Soviet adventure. "Piecemeal surrender" was and to some degree still is mentioned as a feared U.S. policy. The Carter administration is blamed for the beginnings of such a policy but the fear still lurks in the minds of Germans, Danes, Dutch and others.

The Weinberger trip to NATO stations was a step in the right direction, but far more needs to be done by the United States to bolster Central European and northern flank posture and to re-establish confidence in U.S. intentions. None of this addresses the additional weaknesses in the southern flank covered by Italy, Greece and Turkey. But, it does show clearly that converting a regional NATO into a global force is ridiculous at this point. First things must come first.

Free concert planned

A free jazz and rock concert will be held Saturday from 3 to 10 p.m. at Cole Park on Cloverdale Road, just east of Midland.

Area groups scheduled to appear include The Pickup Jazz Band, The Parlor Pickers bluegrass band and The Marbles, a rock group.

Program organizer John Amos said the purpose of the concert "is to get musicians from the Permian Basin together for an exchange of ideas and to get to know one another."

Amos added that some "jamming" will take place and that any interested individuals or groups needing more information or wishing to participate in the concert should call him at 684-3878. The public is invited.

Campbell resigns post at Chaparral Center

Larry Campbell

Larry Campbell, manager of Midland College's Chaparral Center since before it opened, has announced he is resigning that post, effective May 31. Campbell has accepted the post of executive director of Burton Coliseum in Lake Charles, La.

He joined the Midland College staff on March 15, 1978. The building's formal opening came in October 1978.

"We regret that Larry Campbell is leaving Midland College and this community," Dr. Al Langford, MC president, said in accepting Campbell's resignation. "He has done an outstanding job in opening Chaparral Center, getting it operating smoothly and making it a facility that was in use constantly by the entire community. He is a professional arena manager and his experience enabled us to get maximum usage of the building from the time it opened."

Burton Coliseum is an arena and exhibit building operated by Calcasieu Parish in Lake Charles. Included in the facilities are a coliseum with 6,500 permanent seats and a maximum capacity of 8,500 spectators, plus an exhibit area of 160,000 square feet.

Campbell commented that, "I have really enjoyed my time in Midland and my association with Midland College. I feel that Midland and the Permian Basin have come to appreciate the many uses for Chaparral Center and that they will come to use it even more in the future."

Chaparral Center, with 5,000 permanent seats and a capability to handle 7,300 for some events, has been utilized for basketball games, banquets, conventions, touring entertainment events, auto shows, antique shows, art exhibits, ice shows and high school graduations.

"Campbell, with his expertise in arena management, enabled Midland College to provide many entertainment, cultural and recreational events for this community that had not been available previously," Langford said. "His contacts with major touring groups and promoters were invaluable."

Campbell's background includes assistant manager of Tarrant County Convention Center, a graduate of Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, Okla., director of the Farmington, N.M., Civic Center, manager of the Mabee Center at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa and event coordinator of Tulsa Assembly Center.

Summer school now available to all

For the first time, special education students may attend summer school this year in Midland.

With the exception of learning disabled students, all special education students, aged six through 21, may attend classes at Bonham Elementary School from June 8 through July 2. Learning disabled students will be included in regular summer school classes, also at Bonham, which will begin June 2 and continue through July 30.

Registration forms have been sent home with students, and parents are encouraged to return forms to the schools by May 15. Tuition for the school will be $55 per child, however, Midland Association for Retarded Citizens' representative Mary Ann Wiesepape said full scholarships are available. Parents or guardians can contact Mrs. Wiesepape at 694-0090 or Mary Ann Stice at 694-8015.

Classes will begin at 9 a.m. and dismiss at 11:50 a.m. While parents are responsible for transportation, Mrs. Wiesepape said arrangements can be worked out with Mid-Tran to transport students for 50 cents per day.

A day care program is available at the Alamo YMCA for students who wish to remain in a scheduled atmosphere for the entire day. Students who want to register for the day care program should plan on bringing a sack lunch. Students will be supervised by a Y staff member while walking to the Alamo YMCA after school.

Genie McCartney of the Alamo Y said a gym and swim program is avilable as part of special ed day care. The gym swim program costs $4 per day and dismisses at 3 p.m., while the day care program begins at noon and dismisses at 6 p.m. and costs $114. Mrs. Wiesepape said scholarships also are available for the day care program.

Students who wish to register for the day care program or day care scholarship should call Genie McCartney at the Alamo YMCA.

Truman in hospital for surgery

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former First Lady Bess Truman was in fair condition early today at a hospital awaiting surgery for a fractured right hip, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Mrs. Truman, 96, who lately has used wheelchairs and walkers to get around, apparently fell from her bed at her home in suburban Independence early Wednesday, an aide said.

Dr. Wallace Graham, the family physican, described the hip fracture as "serious." Surgery at Research Medical Center was planned for late this morning.

Wallace said Mrs. Truman's thigh bone would be removed from the hip socket and the damaged ball portion of the bone replaced with metal. He said the thigh bone then would be replaced in the socket.

Mrs. Truman, the widow of President Harry S. Truman, was discovered on the wooden floor next to her bed by her aide, Valerie LaMere. Mrs. Truman had been sleeping when she was checked about an hour earlier, the aide said.

House backs balanced budget

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After sweetening the pot for teachers, state employees, elected state officials and college professors, the Texas House has voted initial approval of a balanced $26.5 billion state budget bill for 1982-83.

House members climaxed three days of debate Wednesday night by advancing the general appropriation bill on voice vote. The formality of final passage to the Senate comes today.

There's plenty of room for argument with senators, since their Finance Committee's version of the bill is a red-ink document that tops anticipated revenue by $170 million.

Legislative Budget Board staffers said the House bill falls exactly within Comptroller Bob Bullock's latest revenue estimate as required by the Texas Constitution.

"It's right on the nose," said Jim Oliver, the LBB's assistant director.

Oliver said the House bill, though fattened by $50 million worth of amendments, also satisfies the constitutional rule that the Texas budget may not grow faster than the Texas economy. The measure exceeds the 1980-81 budget by 19.6 percent.

The big surprise was the acquiescence of the House and its leaders to the addition of $24 million in teacher pay raises.

Discovery that money requirements for a teacher retirement increase had been overestimated by $28 million enabled the House to pump up teacher pay without a fight.

Counting automatic experience raises that most teachers get every year, the House bill would increase teacher salaries an average of 27.7 percent over the next two years.

"They ought to be happy with that, shouldn't they?" asked Rep. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington.

"Very happy," replied Rep. Hamp Atkinson, D-New Boston, chairman of the House Public Education Committee.

The bill originally provided 26.6 percent. The Texas State Teachers Association wants a 33 percent pay hike, while Gov. Bill Clements has recommended 22 percent.

Also added without a struggle was $19.5 million for state employee salaries, largely in the lowest eight of the 21 pay grades. All employees would get raises of 9.2 percent on Sept. 1 and another 8.7 percent a year later, coupled with the 5.1 percent they received in February. The extra $19.5 million would guarantee low-ranked employees, who received over 5.1 percent in February, the same percentage raises as other government workers in September and in 1982.

Bankers' chorus continues

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators get the second verse of the same song next week in the battle of Texas banks and savings and loan companies versus money market funds.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, asked and received permission, 30-0, Wednesday for a second public hearing on a House-approved bill that, as a result of a Meier amendment, would require money market funds to keep financial reserves in Texas.

He said "fat cats" from New York City has flooded Texas with "lies and misrepresentations" about his amendment.

Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, said he agreed another hearing was needed but for a different reason.

"I think the banks and savings and loans are the ones who shepherded this bill through the House to get it over here," Mengden said, "and they put the amendment on it in committee. I'm sure that you (Meier) are just an innocent victim.

"There is nothing illegal about it and it is totally within the rules. This is just a typical political trick that works within our system." Mengden said.

House Democratic Caucus elects majority leader, whip

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Words like "majority leader" and "majority whip" were alien to the Legislature of the old days.

But on Wednesday, the House Democratic Caucus elected the Legislature's first leaders in modern memory with those titles.

Rep. Bob Bush of Sherman, a former Kansas Republican, was chosen as majority leader, Rep. Gene Green of Houston was elected majority whip.

Green defeated Rep. Lloyd Criss of LaMarque, the choice of the caucus' nominating committee for the job.

Party organization is new to the Legislature, a one-party institution from Reconstruction to the late 1960s, and its future is uncertain.

If the Democratic Caucus grows and becomes permanent, it could provide organized opposition to legislative programs of any future Republican governor. And it could, if it evolves as the party organizations of Congress and other state legislatures, elect speakers and shape House committees.

Besides Bush and Green, the caucus elected a nine-member steering committee: Lynn Nabers of Brownwod, Wilhemina Delco of Austin, Carlyle Smith of Grand Prairie, Foster Whaley of Pampa, Smith Gilley of Greenville, Ron Coleman of El Paso, Irma Rangel of Kingsville, Doug McLeod of Galveston and Wayne Peveto of Orange.

Bush, Nabers and Delco all hold committee chairmanships under Speaker Bill Clayton.

Caucus officers represent a mix of liberals, conservatives and moderates.

Bush, a moderate, called the slate "a good balance" of various political viewpoints, essential if the caucus is to succeed.

Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston, said the caucus election on Wednesday should tell Republicans they need to organize, too, and take a more partisan stance in the House.

Republicans have tended to minimize partisanship and work with Clayton. As a result, they hold several key committee chairmanships.

Bush said the future of the caucus "is going to depend on how wise they are in coming up with programs that win majority support."

"I think we will be trying to evolve into a functioning, active caucus," Bush said.

Rep. Jerry Benedict, D-Angleton, a founder of the caucus, said he was "very happy" with the slate of officers and pleased that conservatives and moderates have joined.

He said 37 of the 114 House Democrats were present for Wednesday's election.

Texan presides during budget debate

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas, found himself in the prestigious position of presiding over the House of Representatives during its extended floor debate — now in its sixth day — on whether Congress should endorse President Reagan's wide-sweeping spending cuts.

Speaker of the House Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill asked the Dallas Democrat to preside "and I was glad to accept," Frost said.

Frost has been able to bask in the recognition that accompanies the honor. Network and cable television have given voters back home a views of Frost in the chair, wielding a gavel and keeping the proceedings in order.

"It's rare a speaker will put a second-term member in the chair, especially on a matter of this magnitude. I've had to rearrange my schedule, but it was the good kind of a problem to have. This has really been interesting," Frost said Wednesday.

Normally, only a handful out of the 435 congressmen will be in the chamber during the discussion of a bill, particularly if it's as involved and prolonged as the budget matter. They go back to their offices to conduct district business, watching the proceedings on closed-circuit television.

Frost has been one of the few congressmen — maybe the only one — who has been in the chamber for the entire budget discussion.

"I don't know that I'd want to listen to all the debate on a bill, but it has been instructive and I've gained a good feel of the views by being there," Frost said.

"And you get a much better feel of floor procedures when you preside. I've learned more about how things operate, so that the next time I want to paricipate in the discussion I'll have a better idea of how things work."

O'Neill normally presides over House proceedings, but generally turns over the chair during bill discussions to Democrats who have a good working relationship both with him and with the chairman of the committee handling the bill.

As part of the Democratic whip mechanism, Frost has gotten to know O'Neill and other party leaders and feels that worked in his favor. Designated a "whip-at-large," Frost attends weekly whip meetings with other party leaders.

Frost has earned the respect he holds on the Hill. It was O'Neill who appointed him, grudgingly, to the Rules Committee two years ago after Frost first took office.

"Texas has always insisted it have a member of the Rules Committee, since it's such an important committee, and I happened to be in the right place at the right time," Frost said.

Texas has a large enough Democratic delegation it has been able to enforce its demand for a spot on the committee, but the more senior members of the Texas delegation didn't want to give up their ranking spots on other committees.

O'Neill had already told incoming freshmen congressmen not to bid for a spot on the Rules Committee since he didn't plan to appoint any of them. But as Texas pushed for representation, it came down to one of the state's eight freshmen who came to Congress in 1979.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, was the only non-freshman from Texas interested in the Rules Committee, but because of an earlier clash with him, O'Neill vetoed that possibility.

Frost had been reared in Fort Worth, the district of Rep. Jim Wright, now the Majority Leader, and Wright's arguments that Frost would be a valuable member won O'Neill over.

Frost became only the second freshman Democrat in the 20th century to gain a spot on the Rules Committee.

The Rules Committee is the place he'd rather be than anywhere else, Frost said. He hopes to stay there for years.

Panel endorses food stamp cuts

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON ((P) — The Senate Agriculture Committee, committed to the food stamp savings sought by President Reagan, is endorsing reduced eligibility requirements designed to cut 1 million recipients from the program.

The committee also agreed to deny food stamps to striking workers.

"We hope to cut out a million people and reduce benefits for millions more," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said in support of the reduced eligibility standards.

Dole, chairman of the Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition, and Sen. Patrick Leahy of Vermont, the panel's ranking Democrat, made Reagan's eligibility standards part of a compromise food stamp package they put before the full committee Wednesday.

Still facing the committee are proposals to put a lid on the amount of money the government can spend each year on food stamps and whether families with children receiving free school lunches should have their food stamp allotments reduced by the value of those lunches.

Lengthy caucuses of Republicans and Democrats on the committee early Wednesday produced what Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the committee chairman, called "a high degree of agreement" on many of the changes for the food stamp program.

But general eligibility standards were not among the issues settled, Helms said. He had proposed even deeper reductions in program participation to more than double the savings sought by Reagan.

"There shouldn't be any illusions about what's going to happen to the program," Dole said. "It's going to be cut. It should be cut. ... However, there are a few areas where I think savings can be achieved in ways which would have a less harmful effect on low-income Americans."

White House budget director David A. Stockman and Agriculture Secretary John R. Block have said the administration does not support congressional efforts to accomplish the same or greater spending cuts in ways different from those Reagan recommended.

Reagan called for cuts earlier this year totaling $1.8 billion in the 1982 food stamp budget. Estimates made by the Congressional Budget Office, upon which Congress relies in making its spending decisions, placed the needed reductions at $1.46 billion.

Student's design chosen for Vietnam memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maya Ying Lin was only 1 year old when the first American soldier was killed in Vietnam. Now her design has been selected for the nation's monument to him and the 57,691 other Americans who died in that war.

Miss Lin, 21, an architecture student at Yale, won a competition over designers with national reputations. Hers was judged the best among 1,421 entered in the biggest contest of its kind in U.S. architectural history.

It is a low, dark, brooding design, in sharp contrast to the soaring, white, uplifting monuments of Washington.

In engraved letters three-quarters of an inch high, it will carry in chronological order the names of all the American servicemen and women who perished in Southeast Asia, from the first adviser who fell in 1961 to the last victims, the 38 Americans who died in the effort to rescue the crew of the merchant ship Mayaquez, seized by Cambodians in 1975.

The monument was authorized by Congress with the provision that it be financed by public donation. So far, $1.2 million have been raised.

It results from the crusading of Jan C. Scruggs, who was a teen-age infantryman in Vietnam. Later, as a government official, he buttonholed congressmen for a law authorizing a monument honoring not the war but those who died in it.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ALL AT ONCE WE SAW HIM RISE STRAIGHT UP!

Dear Friend who loves God: In my first letter I told you about Jesus' life and teachings and how He returned to heaven after giving His chosen apostles further instructions from the Holy Spirit.

During the 40 days after His crucifixion He had appeared to the apostles from time to time in human form and proved to them in many ways that it was actually Himself they were seeing. And on these occasions He talked to them about the Kingdom of God.

In on of these meetings He told them not to leave Jerusalem until the Holy Spirit came upon them in fulfillment of the Father's promise, a matter He had previously discussed with them. "John baptized you with water," He reminded them, "but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit in just a few days."

And another time when He appeared to them, they asked Him, "Lord, are you going to free Israel now and restore us as an independent nation?"

"The Father sets those dates," He replied, "and they are not for you to know. But when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, you will receive power to preach with great effect to the people in Jerusalem, throughout Judea, in Samaria, and to the ends of the earth, about My death and resurrection."

It was not long afterwards that He rose into the sky and disappeared into a cloud, leaving them staring after Him. As they were straining their eyes for another glimpse, suddenly two white-robed men were standing there among them, and said, "Men of Galilee, why are you standing here staring at the sky? Jesus has gone away to heaven, and some day, just as He went, He will return!"

Sites set on gun safety course

HOUSTON (AP) — The Clear Creek school district, despite anticipated criticism, will teach children in grades 2 through 5 how to shoot BB-guns and shotguns as part of a gun safety program.

"If we can maybe save a kid's life at the same time, then we've accomplished something," said Kenneth Royal, principal of the Clear Lake Elementary School.

Royal likened the course to safety courses given hunters and said although the classes had been taught before without complaints, there may be criticism now.

"I guess with the Ku Klux Klan in the news so often and President Reagan's attempted assassination, people suddenly are concerned about teaching little kids how to use guns," Royal said. "I guess they must see us as raising little John Hinckleys."

John W. Hinckley Jr., 25, has been charged with shooting Reagan and three others March 30.

Royal said the course was taught in the summers of 1978 and 1979 but was not offered last year because of a lack of interest. He said the school district would know by the end of the month if it has 15 pupils to pay $30 for 20 days of instruction.

"They'll shoot BB-guns at cardboard targets, and we'll show some films on hunting and environmental-type things," royal said. "We borrow a 20-gauge shotgun for the last day of class, buy some shells and let them fire one at a time at clay pigeons in an open field where it is safe."

Iowa lawmakers oppose sexuality training course

By JUDY DAUBENMIER
Associated Press Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Two Iowa lawmakers are incensed over a teacher training course on sexuality because it includes a film called "A Quickie" and other materials which they consider vulgar.

About 50 reporters, legislators and capitol staff members crowded into a meeting room behind the House chamber Tuesday to view the two-minute film shown by Rep. James Clementy of Davenport and Rep. Karen Mann of Scranton.

In the black and white film, which is in fast motion, a man and a woman enter a room, undress quickly, roll around on a bed and engage in sexual intercourse in several positions, get dressed again and leave.

"It was in very poor taste," said Rep. JoAnn Trucano, R-Des Moines. "I was shocked. It degraded what I would call a very sacred thing and it bothered me a lot and I don't consider myiself a prude, either."

"I didn't think it was obscene or pornographic," said Rep. Sue Mullins, R-Corwith. She said she saw nothing wrong with using the film for teacher training.

Clements also read aloud from a curriculum guide which included the definitions of numerous four-letter words relating to sexual functions and it suggested several classroom activities teachers could use with their students.

The activities include compiling a list of slang terms for human body parts, listing male and female sexual "turn-ons," listing lines teen-agers use to persuade each other to have sex, and listing activities other than intercourse for satisfying sexual desire.

"I oppose this material on the grounds that the state of Iowa has no business sanctioning or promoting material of this nature for use in the public schools," said Ms. Mann.

The two Republicans said they don't object to sex education, but they object to the curriculum guide because it deals with sexual values, rather than simply biological functions. Parents "attempt to offer their children a set of values," she said. "This material tells the student that dependence on adults is childish. The students are encouraged to set their own standards of behavior by group consensus," she said.

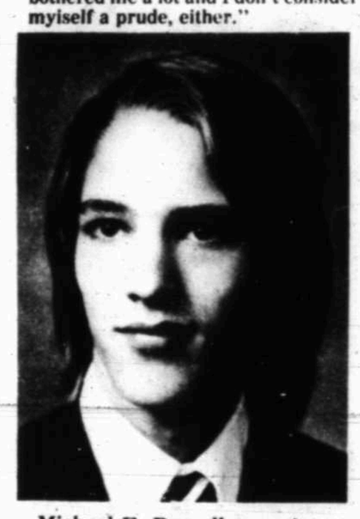

Clements said schools should not talk about values and sex. "I believe that's what we have families for," he said.

"The key to the entire course is as a class the students develop a set of standards which can be used to determine whether sexual behavior is normal or not," said Clements.

Later, two Iowa State University professors involved in development of the course defended it and the film. They said the film and the course help teachers of sexuality education feel comfortable about discussing the subject with teen-agers.

"If teachers are to talk easily with students, they must get over any difficulty they have in dealing with that subject," said Dr. Ruth Hughes, chairman of the Home Economics Department at Iowa State University.

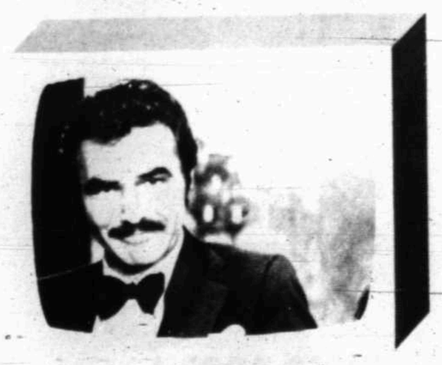

Ms. Hughes said ideally students would get their instruction in sexual values from their parents.

Michael E. Purcell, a senior at Lee High School, has been awarded a Cullen College of Engineering Merit Scholarship at the University of Houston. Purcell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Terrence Purcell of 308 Willowood Drive, is a member of the LHS marching band, National Honor Society and Junior Engineering Technical Society.

Is Soviet involvement concealed?

By BERNARD D. KAPLAN
European Correspondent
Hearst Special News Service

PARIS — Are some Western governments covering up hard evidence of Soviet support for international terrorism to avoid political complications?

Fresh fuel has been thrown onto the controversy over whether Moscow is behind many of the world's terrorist organizations by a declaration by a former chief of Italy's counter-intelligence agency. According to Gen. Vito Miceli, documents linking the Soviet government and its secret police arm, the KGB, to world terrorism have been in the hands of Western authorities for more than five years.

Miceli, who headed Italy's counter-intelligence until retiring in the mid-seventies, asserted the evidence was quietly filed away both by a desire to avert diplomatic problems with Russia and because it would be difficult actually to prove Soviet complicity in individual terrorist actions.

"However, we had significant documentation as early as 1974 concerning links between Italian terrorists and the Soviets," he told a group of journalists in Rome. "Since then, other evidence of various types has emerged."

He said that, in 1972, a Western intelligence coup produced a copy of a memorandum signed by Leonid Brezhnev as First Secretary of the Soviet Communist Party which dealt with the KGB's role in carrying out a destabilization campaign in the Western bloc.

The note is alleged to have directed the Soviet agents to cooperate with local "militant organizations" in undermining especially-weak Western countries. It stressed the need for this during the period of supposed political detente, then in its heyday.

According to Miceli, Brezhnev's memorandum did not specifically mention any country, but appeared to point to Italy and Turkey, two of the NATO nations which were subsequently hardest hit by terrorism.

Accusations that the Soviets and their Eastern European allies, particularly the Czechs and East Germans, were training and furnishing arms to terrorists have surfaced from time to time in the past. Mainly they emanated from ex-terrorists but were largely ignored by Western officials and the media.

At the beginning of this year, renewed allegations came from authorities who were too high to ignore. First, Italy's outspoken president, Sandro Pertini, publicly accused Moscow of being behind Italy's Red Brigades.

Then Alexander Haig, on taking office as U.S. Secretary of State, put the finger on the Russians as the backers and wire-pullers of much of the world's terrorist activity. Haig's view has been challenged by several sources, including officials of the CIA. But a U.S. Senate sub-committee on security and terrorism recently heard testimony from a series of witnesses endorsing Haig's contention.

ASEAN to discuss Cambodia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Foreign ministers from the five members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations will discuss the continued Vietnamese presence in Cambodia when they meet here this week to open ASEAN's new headquarters.

The eight-story secretariat building was formally handed over by Indonesia today to ASEAN Secretary-General Narciso Reyes of the Philippines.

Filipino Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo, who arrived Tuesday, said ASEAN wants the United Nations to sponsor an international conference on Cambodia, which Vietnam invaded in late 1978.

Support sought for dissident

MOSCOW (AP) — Leading Soviet dissident Andrei D. Sakharov has appealed for international support for Alexander Bolonkin, an imprisoned mathematician who Sakharov says faces a third term in labor camp.

Dissident sources said Bolonkin's term on a charge of embezzlement was up April 20, but he was re-arrested April 10 at his labor camp and charged with anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda. The charge could mean 10 more years in confinement, they said.

Unidentified parents, grim but thankful their daughter wasn't more seriously injured, leave a Chicago hospital following the girl's treatment for injuries sustained when a car went out of control and plowed through a schoolyard. Two children were killed and 19 injured. They were leaving Chopin School in Chicago when the accident occurred.

Another Atlanta black youth reported missing

ATLANTA (AP) — Police were searching today for a 14-year-old black boy who disappeared after classes at a special school attended by one of the 26 young Atlanta blacks whose slayings have frustrated police for nearly two years.

Eric Thompson was reported missing Wednesday by Brandon Southern, director of The Challenge School For Boys, a facility for youths with juvenile records, said police spokesman Benjamin Sims.

The case was being handled by the police department's missing persons division, but details were given to the special task force investigating the string of slayings of young blacks since July 1979, Sims said. The task force also is investigating the disappearance of 10-year-old Darron Glass, last seen in September 1980.

Thompson's mother, Elizabeth Jackson, said she last saw her son when he left their southwest Atlanta home Tuesday morning. Southern told police Thompson attended school Tuesday and was spotted making a downtown bus connection after school, Sims said.

But Mrs. Jackson said her son, who has run away from home before, did not come home after school Tuesday.

The seventh-grader has attended The Challenge School for about a year, Mrs. Jackson said.

The school also was attended by 15-year-old Terry Lorenzo Pue, who had been missing one day when his body was found Jan. 23 in suburban Rockdale County.

Another victim, 14-year-old Lubie "Chuck" Geter, was known to have visited the school. Geter's body was found in a wood south of Atlanta on Feb. 5, more than a month after he was reported missing from a shopping center.

Both Pue and Geter had been strangled.

Meanwhile, leaders of the task force told reporters they had gathered many clues in the slayings but hoped for a lucky break that would lead to arrests and convictions.

"The question is not if we're going to solve them but when. And when is not a question we can answer at this time," said Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown.

Car speeds through schoolyard, killing two

CHICAGO (AP) — A man who was picking up his son from elementary school was being held on reckless homicide charges today after his car allegedly sped in reverse through a crowded schoolyard, killing two and sending "kids flying all over the place," officials said.

Nineteen children were injured, two critically, in the Wednesday incident, authorities said.

"It looked really bad," said police officer Robert Gallegos, "everybody screaming, kids flying all over the place. I've never seen anything like it."

One man who accompanied his daughter to a hospital was admitted in fair condition after complaining of chest pains, officials said.

Miguel Vargas, whose father was hospitalized, watched the incident and said, "The car just backed up and hit the whole fence where my (two) cousins and my sister were."

"I saw my cousin's gym shoes sticking out (from under the car). I said, 'Are you all right?' He said, 'Help me.'

"I wanted to help him but they said to wait until the ambulance came. He was trapped," the sixth-grader said as he brushed away tears.

Police charged Cruz Rivera, 50, with reckless homicide, driving on a sidewalk and driving without a license.

Rivera, who was being held overnight pending a bond hearing today, was picking up his son from school when the accident occurred, police said. The boy was not among those injured.

Police Capt. James J. Zurawski said that as Rivera backed into a driveway, he apparently hit the accelerator instead of the brake and either he panicked or the accelerator stuck.

According to witnesses, the accident occurred as Chopin Elementary School was ending classes for the day.

Police Sgt. George Rafalski, who was parked nearby, said he saw the incident.

"All of a sudden we heard tires squealing and we saw a car coming down the (one-way) street in reverse," he said. "There were numerous kids on the sidewalk and the car was just knocking them down."

He said two boys were trapped beneath the car when it stopped. He and Gallegos, used the jacks from their squad cars to free the youths.

"It was hysteria," said Bernice Sullivan, grandmother of three students who were not hurt.

She said the car was moving fast and "his brakes were screeching. Everybody was screaming."

The students killed were identified as Angelica Avila, 12, and Glenda Mollimevo, 9.

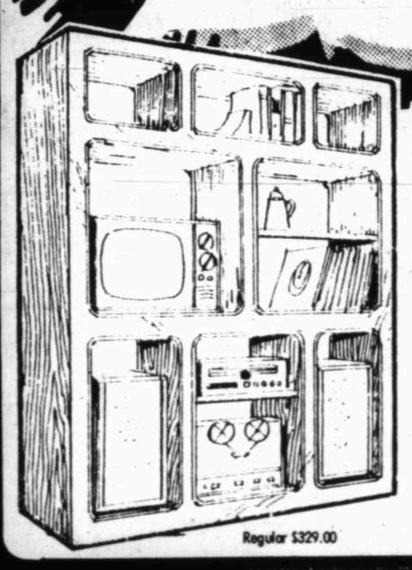

Two others, Benjamin Varela, 9, and Sara Salas, 14, were in critical condition in St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital, where most of the injured students were taken.

One student was in serious condition, two were fair and one was in good condition early today. Eleven were treated and released, according to a St. Mary's spokesman.

One student was in serious condition in Cook County Hospital and another was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and released, officials said.

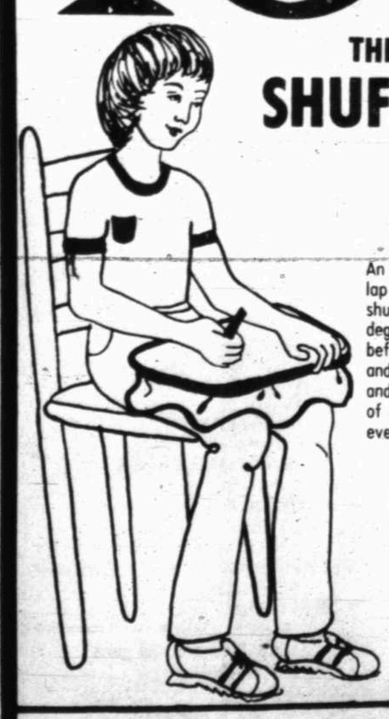

A spokesman at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Al Wood, said Pedro Vargas, 57, came with his daughter to the hospital in an ambulance and later complained of chest pains. He was admitted in fair condition, the spokesman said.

ERA hearings will proceed as scheduled, judge says

Lawsuit challenges extension of deadline for ratifying ERA

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A federal judge says preliminary hearings will proceed as scheduled next week on a lawsuit challenging Congress' extension of the deadline for ratifying the Equal Rights Amendment.

U.S. District Judge Marion Callister turned down a request by the National Organization for Women on Tuesday seeking to delay the hearings while a federal appeals court considers another motion by NOW to disqualify Callister from presiding over the case.

Callister said the hearings would be held May 13-14 to dispose of all remaining motions in the suit, which was filed two years ago by state officials and legislators in Idaho, Washington and Arizona. Once motions are disposed of, a trial date likely would be set.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco held a hearing Monday on NOW's other petition to disqualify Callister because the judge was a Mormon Church official. The Mormon Church opposes the proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

The appeals court gave no indication when it would rule.

The suit by the Idaho, Washington and Arizona officials seeks to overturn a vote by Congress on Oct. 6, 1978, to extend the deadline for ERA ratification by three years.

The suit also seeks to force Congress to recognize votes by legislatures in five states — Idaho, Tennessee, Kentucky, Nebraska and South Dakota — to rescind their previous ERA ratification. Congress has said a state cannot rescind ratification after its first vote.

Thirty-five states have ratified the proposed amendment, three short of the 38 required to make it part of the Constitution. The new ERA ratification deadline is June 30, 1982.

In asking to have the hearings delayed, NOW said they would be a waste of time if the appeals court ruled Callister should be disqualified.

"If the hearing continues as scheduled, no question, including the question of disqualification, would be jeopardized," Callister said in denying a delay.

"The court would note that the case has been pending for almost two years without any action on the merits, even though the cross motions for summary judgement were filed shortly after the case was filed," Callister said. "Any further delay at this juncture of the case would not further the ultimate resolution."

Meanwhile, NOW reportedly planned to sue Missouri Attorney General John Ashcroft for $10 million today, alleging its civil rights were violated by an antitrust suit Ashcroft filed against the women's group three years ago.

The Kansas City Star obtained an advance copy of the U.S. District Court suit and reported Wednesday that NOW would accuse Ashcroft of pressing his antitrust suit because of personal opposition to the ERA and to "further his own personal, political interests."

Ashcroft's suit contended that NOW's convention boycott of Missouri — one of 15 states where the Equal Rights Amendment has not been ratified — was a violation of federal antitrust laws. The boycott urged organizations not to hold conventions in Missouri and other states that hadn't ratified the amendment.

U.S. District Judge Elmo B. Hunter ruled in February 1979 that the boycott was a legal expression of NOW's First Amendment rights and did not violate antitrust laws. The U.S. Supreme Court refused last fall to hear Missouri's appeal of the decision.

NOW, which has been joined in the boycott by other groups, has said the boycott has cost states and major cities more than $100 million in lost convention business since it was imposed in 1977.

Marital discord blamed in murder-suicide case

DALLAS (AP) — Police say marital problems apparently drove a 30-year-old housewife to kill her 14-month-old son with a single shot to the head and then commit suicide, leaving a note that begged forgiveness from her relatives and God.

Patricia Schulman and her son, Zachary, were found wounded Tuesday by her husband Larry in their rented home in the University Park suburb of Dallas. They were rushed to Parkland Memorial Hospital, where both died several hours later, police said.

University Park police found a .22-caliber pistol and the suicide note near the bed in the child's room that cited the couple's marital difficulties.

Schulman told police his wife had sent him to the grocery store and he found the bodies when he returned to the couple's duplex. He said he was gone only 15 minutes.

Federal prison inmates stage peaceful strike

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Inmates who have staged a three-day hunger strike to protest the quality of meals at a minimum security Federal Correctional Institute have not yet submitted formal complaints to prison officials, a spokesman says.

"They've been talking about the quality of the food, its preparation and variety. They want more meat, more pastry and a different variety of vegetables," institute spokesman Ray Farrow said.

No formal list of greivances has been presented in the peaceful protest by the 430 fasting prisoners, but an anonymous typewritten page of complaints was discovered Wednesday on a supervisor's desk, he said.

He said the sheet contained no formal demands or threats.

All 480 prison inmates have continued to carry out their work assignments since the meal boycott began Monday morning, said Farrow.

"I don't think they have a valid reason (for the strike)," he said. "In the age of inflation and budgetary constraints, we're doing the best we can."

Man, what a way to spend the night!

AP Laserphoto

Larry Amberson, 20, a University of Texas student from Houston, peers from a manhole at a construction site in Austin. Amberson revisited the spot where he had been trapped early Wednesday for seven hours after falling in the open manhole shortly after midnight Tuesday.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — What was intended as one small step for Larry Amberson wound up as a 10-foot stride — straight down into a manhole where he spent seven hours.

Amberson, 20, had just watched his hometown Houston Rockets lose a basketball playoff game on television when the underground ordeal began.

"I had parked my car and was walking to another friend's house, took a step and I was down in a deep, dark hole," the University of Texas student said.

The 10-foot deep manhole was covered when work stopped at the Red River Street site on Tuesday, according to workers. No one knows who lifted the lid and left the hole opened. Amberson, for one, would like to know.

"If I ever catch him, I'll kill him," he said.

Amberson said he struggled valiantly to free himself, but, "It was like trying to climb out of a Coke bottle."

The manhole is narrow at the top but opens to about four feet wide at the bottom. Condensation on the concrete lining in the hole prevented his escape. At various times during the underground ordeal, Amberson tried to use his belt, shoes and pants to free himself.

Austin police were contacted after someone heard Amberson's yells for help. The fire department showed up to complete the 7 a.m. rescue.

"A nurse heard me yelling for help and I guess she called the police," he said. "She probably heard me through her toilet."

Lawyer says KKK leader needs psychological test

HOUSTON (AP) — The grand dragon of the Texas Ku Klux Klan should undergo a psychological examination and, if found insane, then be committed to a mental hospital, says a lawyer representing Vietnamese fishermen. —

Attorney Morris Dees made the request in a motion he filed Wednesday seeking protection for himself and other lawyers representing Vietnamese refugees living in the Galveston Bay area.

Dees accused Grand Dragon Louis Beam of harassment and claimed the KKK leader once chanted "You die, you die, you die" at another lawyer representing the Vietnamese.

The refugee settlers filed a lawsuit April 16 alleging intimidation and harassment by Klansmen and others who object to their fishing in Texas waters. The suit cited federal anti-trust and anti-racketeering laws and asked for protection of the Vietnmese by federal agencies.

Dees' motion accused Beam of being "mentally deranged" and said he has "exhibited bizarre behavior" toward the Vietnamese and their lawyers during the past week when depositions were being taken.

Beam should be examined and if found insane, he could be committed to a mental hospital, the attorney said.

According to the motion seeking protection, attorney David Berg, who also represents the Vietnamese, twice found cards at his home and office saying, "You have been paid a social visit by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Don't make the next visit a business call."

Dees also noted that Beam recently sat for nearly an hour, in what the attorney called "a semi-conscious state" and chanted "you die" over and over.

On Monday, when Beam was asked who he had invited to a Klan rally set for Saturday, he replied, "I have invited the Greensboro (N.C.) hero from that shooting.

Chemical trial deliberations to resume

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Federal court jurors have asked for copies of testimony by a waste supervisor in the trial of a chemical company, its former operators and three other firms accused of lying about disposal of toxic wastes that later exploded at an Elizabeth site.

The U.S. District Court jury was scheduled to resume deliberations today after adjourning 4½ hours after receiving the case Wednesday.

Jurors asked for copies of testimony by Carl Soriano, a defense witness who is waste supervisor at National Starch Co. in Plainfield.

Defense attorneys have claimed Soriano's testimony reveals that there was no attempt to cover up the destination of drums of toxic waste allegedly bound for Chemical Control Corp.'s Elizabeth plant.

Jurors also asked for the testimony of an FBI agent who interviewed Soriano for the prosecution.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy and submitting false reports that they burned the toxic wastes that instead were stored at Chemical Control.

The firm's Elizabeth site exploded last year in a fiery mushroom cloud, creating a mess that still is being cleaned up.

Assistant U.S. Attorney A. Patrick Nucciarone said the government is taking a new approach in prosecuting the defendants, accusing them of mail-fraud offenses.

All previous federal pollution cases were pressed under the U.S. Clean Waters Act, which prohibits filing false reports on chemical storage, Nucciarone said.

"It's fair to say it's the first federal criminal prosecution of its type — on land — in New Jersey," Nucciarone said.

Carl Enis

Carl Enis likes to keep busy. He enjoys playing dominos and cards at the Senior Center, fishing, bowling, dancing and cooking.

Carl, who is retired from the oilfield business, and his wife, Virginia, live at Hillcrest Manor. They moved to Midland three years ago from Cyprus Cove, a retirement center 35 miles north of San Antonio.

He is a former president of a Hillcrest Manor residents group. He and his wife belong to the 55 Club Dance group and a senior citizen's bowling league.

Carl says he develops his own recipes by adding to or changing other recipes to suit his tastes.

Following is his recipe for Pepper Steak. He notes that the difference between pepper steak and peppered steak is that pepper is simply added to pepper steak, while it is pounded into peppered steak.

PEPPER STEAK

2 tblsp. oil
1½ pounds round steak, cut into strips
1 envelope beefy-onion soup mix
2½ cups water
3 blades celery, chopped
8 medium-sized mushrooms, sliced
1 4-ounce can peeled green chilies, chopped
1 8-ounce can sliced water chestnuts
3 tblsp. cornstarch

In large skillet, heat oil and brown meat. Remove meat from skillet and saute celery and mushrooms in oil. Return meat to skillet and add soup blended with 2 cups water and mix well. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.Add green chilies and water chestnuts. Simmer for 10 more minutes or until meat is tender. Add cornstarch blended with remaining water. Bring mixture to a boil and simmer, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened (about 5 minutes.) Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes about six servings.

AT WIT'S END

Walking the line without a net

By ERMA BOMBECK

Can I say a few words on behalf of the men and women of this country who try to find some humor out of a grim, terminal condition that stalks every American? Living?

Men and woman who walk the fine line between good taste/offensiveness/comic relief/sensitivity every day of their lives . . . without a net. God help them when they miss a step.

I've missed a few in my time. We all have. We've all resorted at one time or another to the "cheap shot," the borderline taste test and misery overkill, but no one is perfect.

This is not a piece inspired by an attack by anyone on something I've written. On the contrary, it's a concern I have when I read the paper and see the flak being borne by some of my colleagues.

I've always compared humor to a street light. Everyone wants it, needs it, feels safe and secure with it, agrees we should have more of it -- but not in front of their house.

Humor makes demands. It demands that the humoree possess security about himself, confidence, assuredness, a bit of the absurd, silliness and an "arrangement" with seriousness.

Ironically, the people who want and need humor the most we cannot administer to. Over the years I have kept a file of people who have begged me to put their situations down on paper so they could laugh at them and give them some perspective: blind women, handicapped people, elderly couples, widows and widowers, divorced men and women and ministers' wives and their children. (Other people's children can play in water, but ministers' children have to walk on it!)

They're like everyone else. They need humor to survive their pain and their problems. It's only the rest of the world who would be offended by it.

Since humor is so personal, each must deal with it in his or her own way. But don't let sensitivity smother your capacity to laugh. Whenever you're tempted, think of the following story.

A man with a wooden eye was very self-conscious about going to a dance, but was talked into it by a friend who swore no one would notice.

A girl, very sensitive about her large ears, was also talked into going to the same dance by her friend.

The man with the wooden eye approached the girl with the large ears and said awkwardly, "Would you like to dance?"

Stunned by the offer, she shouted, "Would I?"

He yelled back, "BIG EARS! BIG EARS! BIG EARS!"

Don't lay tile over waxed surface

By GENE GARY
Copley News Service

Q. I have a 20-by-25-foot concrete slab on a sand base. It has been waxed a number of times, then covered with adhesive rug tile which has served us for quite some time. Now the tiles are coming loose — caused, I presume, from moisture coming through the slab.

The room is enclosed with Mylar panels on aluminum framing.

I am planning now to put down a new floor covering. if I take off the old tiles, can I seal the slab or would it be suitable to lay an indoor-outdoor carpeting on top of the old tile? — Capt. R.S.R., San Diego

A. The first mistake was laying the present tile over a waxed surface which prevents proper adherence.

The present tiles will need to be removed and the slab cleaned of all wax, using a good floor wax stripper. Then scrub the floor surface with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate and warm water (2 cups trisodium phosphate to one gallon of water), then rinse well.

When floor is thoroughly dry, new flooring suitable for on-grade floors can be laid. These include vinyl asbestos, some pure vinyl and indoor-outdoor carpeting.

If you believe there is a moisture problem, a concrete sealer should be used before laying new flooring. Also check your drainage to determine that all the area next to the foundation slopes away from the house.

Q. Recently I replaced 28 small Mylar windows on the patio. The original windows were only 6 years old, but took on a "milky and foggy" appearance. The contractor that made the installation is out of business.

Can you recommend the procedure and the material to use to clean these Mylar windows? I have had bad experience with usual glass cleaners, commercial sprays, vinegar, ammonia and so forth. I really need help, desperately. — C.A.W., Oceanside, Calif.

A. We have had several inquiries lately about this problem. One of our readers recently informed us of a product she has found satisfactory — a special plastic window cleaner manufactured by Magic American Chemical Corp., called "Magic."

Judging from inquiries from our readers, we are inclined to believe that Mylar weathers and becomes murky. Another reader sends us a suggestion on how to get spots off windows, apparently caused by rain drops. Clarence Waltner says a can of chrome polish will take them off. He uses it every year and it works. This also mightbe worth a try in keeping Mylar windows clear.

Q. This comes from a reader, Lenora Milligan of San Diego: "My method for bathroom decal removal is simple and quick. Put a cup of dishwasher detergent in the tub. Cover with very hot water and leave overnight.

Most all of the decals will come off in the morning. Remove the remaining bits with nail polish remover. Total time — maybe 15 minutes. This is my own discovery."

A. Thanks for your contribution, Lenora Milligan.

Q. Do you consider it essential to have a dishwasher in a remodeled kitchen? There are only the two of us. — Mrs. M.J.

A. For your personal use, you might not consider it essential. But I think it is important because your kitchen will be out of date without a dishwasher and there's little wisdom in remodeling if you do not remodernize.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Enjoy housework

DEAR HELOISE:

In a recent column you asked for hints on making the most hated jobs of housecleaning easier.

I guess my least favorite chore is folding clothes. I never bother to be too picky as nobody in my family keeps their clothing drawers neat, so the job is all undone within two days, anyhow.

But one thing I've always tried to remember about housecleaning is that I'm the boss and approach it according to my mood.

Some days I make a game of it. Sometimes I do it however I please. One day I'm super fast, another I take my own sweet time.

When I'm in the mood to make a "to do" list, I give myself a certain amount of time, allowing for interruptions, and cross off each job as it gets done. I really feel like I've accomplished something when I see that list get smaller.

The nicest, cleanest houses are run by people who somehow enjoy their work, so I find ways to enjoy mine. Then I enjoy my own free time that much more. — Sue Beckwith

\+ + +

You've got my philosophy down pat! Do what you can today, tomorrow will take care of itself. — Heloise

WHO'S WHOSE

Dear Heloise: When I purchased a few new pillows for the family, I began to wonder why they sewed those tags on the end seams — the ones that give the contents information.

They never seem to serve any real purpose other than causing you to have to make sure they're tucked inside the pillowcase so as not to show.

The idea hit me to write on them the name of the individual who would be using the pillow. This way, when the pillowcases are changed or the pillows aired or washed, the right person always gets his own pillow back. — Gloria Constantinitis

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC

Dear Heloise: I'm retired and live in an apartment. I would love to play my piano but fear I'll disturb my neighbors.

Years ago you told how a piano could be toned down so that the sound was muted. If you could once again tell me how this can be done, I'd deeply appreciate it. — Evelyn Slopanskey

\+ + +

You're right. A dear lady did write in saying a piano salesman told her of a way to tone down the sound of a piano.

You might want to check with a local piano company for specific instructions on how to do it to make sure you don't interfere with any of the working parts.

She was told to make a curtain out of regular felt (hers measured about 4½ feet long by 12 inches). Fold the felt in half over a round kitchen curtain rod, basting to keep it in place. This will make a double curtain. The more thicknesses of felt, the quieter the sound. Experiment to see how much sound you want.

Attach this curtain between the hammers and strings of the piano. Cut slits to allow for any bars going through to allow the curtain to hang smoothly.

This should allow many hours of playing pleasure without fear of disturbing anyone, even someone in the same room.

Don't you wish they made pianos with a volume control like they do organs? — Heloise

DISPOSABLE DIAPERS

Dear Heloise: When the tape tabs on disposable diapers pull off completely or just don't stick, I keep a roll of masking tape on the table with the diapers and powder.

Instead of tossing the diaper or rummaging for a diaper pin, I just tear off a strip of the tape and secure the diaper.

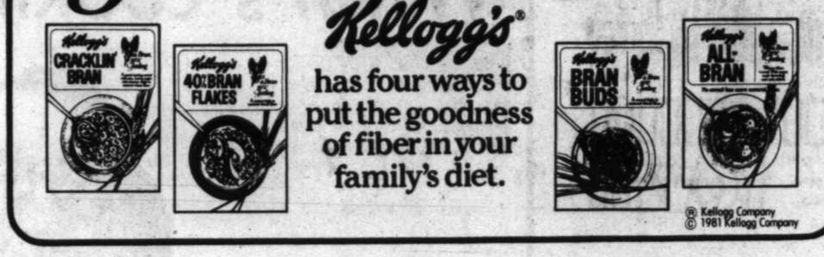

Sure saves time when you have an active baby. — Carol Clatfelter

\+ + +

If you're a mother who has come good tips, send them to Heloise care of this newspaper. She can't answer your letter personally but will use the best baby-raising ideas received in her column.

Book gives hors d'oeuvres a new start

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

When Gloria Edwinn was asked to write a book on the world's best hors d'oeuvres and appetizers, she told her lawyer husband about it: "I'm tempted to do it, but I'm wondering whether I should. After all, I'm not Julia Child." His answer: "If a publisher is willing to take a chance on you, go ahead."

When I phoned Mrs. Edwinn, who lives in Connecticut, I understood why the offer was made and why her book, "Just For Starters" (Viking), is so good. She has traveled and entertained a great deal; she has given informal cooking classes; she has kept records of the recipes she's used over the years; and she is a cookbook collector — 4,000 volumes in all. Best of all, she has discerning taste.

Although my own cookbook shelves house about 50 books on the subject of hors d'oeuvres and appetizers, Mrs. Edwinn's cookbook is in a class by itself. To her, cooking is a joy rather than a chore. She says, "It's a consuming passion. Over many years I have reveled in dreaming up new dishes and watching the gratifying reactions of my family and friends." Now lots of other people can enjoy the Edwinn culinary talents.

GLORIA EDWINN'S STUFFED PEPPERS

4 small green bell peppers (about 1 pound)
One 7-ounce can Italian tuna fish
4 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons pitted and finely chopped oil-cured black olives
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup finely minced parsley
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried basil
⅛ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 egg, lightly beaten
½ cup olive oil

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cut off the tops of the peppers, scoop out the seeds, and cut out the membranes. Combine the tuna fish, garlic, chopped olives, bread crumbs, parsley, salt, basil, pepper, and egg. Use this mixture to stuff the peppers. Pour the olive oil into an ovenproof dish and place the peppers in the oil. Baste with some of the oil, and bake for 30 minutes, basting every 10 minutes with oil. Let them cool to room temperature. They may be prepared as long as 2 days in advance, cooled, and refrigerated. Bring them to room temperature before serving If you are serving these as part of a large assortment of hors d'oeuvres, cut each pepper in half. Makes 4 to 8. From "Just For Starters" by Gloria Edwinn (Viking).

Food Editor's Note: When we tried this recipe, we drained the olive oil from the Italian tuna — there was ¼ cup; we used it instead of the ½ cup olive oil called for in the above recipe. If you place the peppers close together in a casserole into which they just fit, this works well. — C.B.

Get fresh with onions

COLLEGE STATION — Get fresh with onions, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutriton specialist.

She's not kidding—she's talking about gourmet—great and fantastically fine dining with fresh onions served up raw in salads or cooked in any number of great dishes. For real success, learn how to buy, store and prepare onions, says the home economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Buying smart is a key to success with any product, Ms. Haggard says. In buying onions, there are two general types—green onions and dry onions.

DEAR ABBY

Student's teacher untrained in special education

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a very confused and hurting 14-year-old girl. I became very much attracted to my teacher, who is 28 and divorced. I felt a special kind of love for her, and when I told her so, she looked puzzled and frightened and I could tell she didn't have any special feelings for me. She didn't come right out and say so, but I knew that's how she felt.

Abby, she was the only person I could talk to about sex and drugs and boys, but when I told her about my special feelings for her, she turned me off and cut the conversation short.

I still have so many questions I need answers to. For one thing, some boys are pressuring me for sex.

Should I keep hoping for a special relationship with my teacher, or try to forget my feelings for her? Please help me. — HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Don't hope for a "special relationship" with your teacher. She turned you off because she sensed your attraction to her and felt threatened by it.

You desperately need someone to talk to, so please give your school counselor a chance. A counselor is trained to answer all your questions, and can explain those "special feelings" you have for your teacher. It's not uncommon for young girls (and boys) to get "crushes" on their teachers. But this, too, shall pass.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 72-year-old man and I'm as peppy today as I was 40 years ago and show no signs of slowing down. I'm married to a 62-year-old woman who would be happy if I never touched her again. I have been a faithful husband for over 40 years, but right now I would like to meet an older woman with a little life in her and I wouldn't care how old she was or whether she was good-looking.

Our neighborhood is full of widows, and not one of them has any zip left. I knew all their husbands and the frustrations they suffered. Please ask your medical experts why it is that women lose their interest in sex so much earlier than men. — STILL INTERESTED AT 72

DEAR STILL: I asked. And it's not true.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: This Sunday is Mother's Day. Send her a gift. Take her out and show her a good time. Send her flowers. And don't forget to tell her you love her.

DEAR ABBY: We have four children (ages 10, 12, 14 and 15) and like most parents, we do a lot of driving. With the price of gas so high, we all try to car-pool as much as possible, taking turns driving groups of kids to their after-school and evening activities.

Abby, there are a few parents who never drive. They are either "too busy," "too tired" or it's "inconvenient." Yet they have their kids do the phone calling, knowing full well it's difficult to turn down your child's friend.

I've talked to other parents, and they feel as I do about these parents whose kids are always riding along with ours. Is there some tactful way to let these freeloaders know that they are taking advantage of us? We don't want to cause any hard feelings. — RUNNING OUT OF GAS IN BOULDER, COLO.

DEAR RUNNING: If you don't come right out and ask them to please take their turns at chauffeuring the kids, they might think that you a) don't care, or b) don't need their cooperation. Don't pussyfoot around. Let them know they are EXPECTED to do their share of driving.

Flank steak a versatile cut of beef

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

For many of us the arrival of spring is associated with that tender shoot known as asparagus, which is rated the fifth most popular vegetable in the United States.

Since ancient times, this succulent member of the lily-of-the-valley family has been a favorite, hot or cold, and even raw.

The name asparagus comes from a Greek word meaning a stalk or shoot, and it is thought to have originated in the lands of the eastern Mediterranean and Asia Minor where it grew wild. In fact, the ancient Greeks collected asparagus from the fields and ate it but never cultivated the vegetable.

By the second century B.C., the Romans were following detailed rules for the cultivation of the stalks. They not only ate it cooked fresh, they dried the shoots for future use. Boiling produced a dish in minutes, so fast that the Emperor Augustus, an asparagus lover, is credited with coining the phrase "quicker than you can cook asparagus."

The English once ate the vegetable raw and some of our earliest settlers are said to have brought roots with them from England.

Thomas Jefferson is known to have grown asparagus in the greenhouses of Monticello. And as the American pioneers pushed westward, they took along asparagus to cultivate, calling it "sparrow grass."

In France, asparagus was a favorite of the royal court in the 18th century. Louis XV is credited with ordering the first asparagus tip omelet for Madame Du Barry.

In Europe today, asparagus is regarded as the most luxurious of vegetables, especially in Germany, where I once sampled the famed white stalks that are shielded from the sun while growing.

Here's a recipe for asparagus in cream which I had on a visit to Germany.

ASPARAGUS IN CREAM

1 pound fresh asparagus
3 tablespoons peanut oil
¼ cup water
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup heavy cream
¼ cup butter, melted
1 tablespoon dry vermouth

Wash asparagus and slice into 1½-inch pieces. Put oil and water into pan and bring to boil. Add asparagus, eggs, salt and pepper. Cook covered for 10 minutes, shaking skillet occasionally. Add cream, butter and vermouth. Reheat but do not boil. Serves 4. Good with a chilled dry white wine.

Try these quickie food treats

If you need to put a little zest into a lazy day, try Strawberry Spring Tonic: combine two cartons (8 oz. each) strawberry yogurt, one cup each milk and unsweetened pineapple juice and one tablespoon grenadine syrup in a blender container. Cover and blend until smooth. Add four ice cubes and blend again. Serve immediately, garnished with a fresh strawberry slice. (Yield: 4 cups).

•

If your gravy or white sauce becomes lumpy in spite of your best efforts to avoid it, force it through a fine sieve or process in the blender for a few seconds.

•

Did you know that you can substitute one cup of yogurt for one cup of water when making gelatin salads? The change in flavor, taste and texture is delightful.

Greet spring with a feast of asparagus

By MERLE ELLIS

The flank steak used to be one of the cheapest cuts of beef in the meat case. Not anymore. Today, it sells at a price approaching porterhouse. It remains, however, one of the most versatile cuts of beef on the carcass.

There are dozens of great dishes that can be made from flank, from the classic London broil to beef jerky. Almost every beef-eating nation in the world has a specialty made with flank. It is the cut called for in most Chinese stir-fry recipes. A national specialty is "matambre," a flank steak stuffed with spinach, carrots and eggs, simmered in beef broth. Back in Grandmother's day, a flank steak stuffed with a simple bread dressing was a standard when nothing else was affordable.

A flank steak recipe that has become a favorite around our house is Italian-style Stuffed Flank. It's a great way to make an expensive flank steak into a relatively inexpensive meal for a crowd, with enough good sauce left over for additional family meals — Italian style.

ITALIAN STUFFED FLANK

1 large flank steak
2 T. Parmesan cheese
6 slices bacon
4 slices Provolone or Monterey Jack cheese
6 slices Italian Salami
4 hard-cooked eggs, shelled
1 small onion, sliced thin
Vegetable oil
1 recipe Quick Italian Gravy

Butterfly the flank steak. To accomplish this, place the flank on a counter or cutting board. Using a sharp knife, slice horizontally almost (but not quite) through, leaving a hinge along one side so that when folded open, the steak is twice as large and half as thick as it was to begin with. (If he's nice, you might get your butcher to do this for you, but don't count on it.)

Open the steak out flat and put it between two plastic bags — the kind you use to package your lettuce. They work wonderfully well for pounding any kind of meat, since they don't split and tear the way waxed paper often does. Pound the steak out evenly with a mallet or the bottom of a heavy skillet.

Remove the top plastic bag and sprinkle Parmesan cheese over the surface of the meat. Place the strips of bacon across it. Then cover with slices of cheese, salami and onion. Place shelled hard-cooked eggs on top of the onions.

Lift up on the bottom plastic bag to help you start, and roll the flank as tightly as possible. Tie the roll loosely lengthwise along the seam, tucking in the ends to hold the filling. Put another string lengthwise around the roll. Then tie strings around the roll at about one-inch intervals, starting in the center and working toward the ends. Tie these strings tightly to stretch out the roll to its maximum length.

Dust the roll lightly with seasoned flour and brown in hot oil in a Dutch oven or deep covered casserole dish. Turn often to brown evenly on all sides. Cover with Italian Gravy (see below). Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer gently for about 1-1/2 to 2 hours, until meat is tender. Set roll aside. Skim any fat off the top of the sauce. Slice the roll into 1/2- to 3/4-inch slices and pass the sauce. Serves 6 to 8 — even more with a hearty pasta as a side dish (the sauce is great on pasta). Save and freeze any leftover sauce.

QUICK ITALIAN GRAVY

2 T. olive oil
3 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 C. onion, chopped
1/2 C. parsley, chopped
3/4 C. fresh mushrooms, sliced thin
2 29-oz. cans tomato puree
3/4 C. red wine
2 T. dry basil
1 T. oregano
2 tsp. salt
1 T. sugar
1 tsp. pepper
1-1/2 C. water

Saute garlic, onion, parsley, and mushrooms in olive oil until just limp, not brown. Add remaining ingredients; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Pour over stuffed flank and cook as directed.

If you have more than you need, this can be frozen and used on a variety of meat dishes, from Italian sausage to meat balls or veal cutlets.

Gandy's QUALITY CHEKD®

Fresh cheeses spiked with orange peel and ginger are served with strawberries for an elegant and easy appetizer.

Strawberries tasty fruit treat

Company's coming...and you'll be home from work just minutes before they arrive! How can you manage to put together a meal and serve it in time?

To gain some valuable extra minutes in the kitchen, have some hors d'oeuvres ready and waiting for arriving guests. Then, as they munch on the tidbits you've set out, you can slip away to cook the entree and set the table.

For an easy and attractive hors d'oeuvre that's an impressive change of pace from ordinary vegetables and dip, serve a trayful of luscious red strawberries, acompanied by fresh homemade cheeses. the cheese spread is a snap to make by blending cottage cheese, cream and yogurt, spiked with orange peel and ginger. Spooned into a strainer or mold with holes in the bottom, the cheese sits overnight to drain.

Serve the cheese with a knife or spreader so guests can spread the cheese on a strawberry. The contrast in flavors between the creamy cheese, zesty ginger and the fruity flavor of the strawberries is extraordinarily delicious!

LITTLE FRESH CHEESE WITH STRAWBERRIES

1 cup creamed cottage cheese
¼ cup whipping cream
¼ cup unflavored yogurt
2 teasp. grated orange peel
¼ teasp. ginger
Salt, to taste
1 pint basket fresh strawberries, stemmed and halved

In container of electric blender combine cottage cheese, cream and yogurt. Blend until smooth, scraping sides of container as needed. Stir in orange peel, ginger and salt. Line a small strainer or small coeur a la creme molds with triple thickness of cheesecloth, rinsed and wrung out. Scrape cheese mixture into strainer. Suspend over bowl, cover and refrigerate overnight. (If using molds, place on plate to drain.) Unmold cheese onto serving plate. Carefully remove cheese cloth. Serve with strawberries as an appetizer.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Unusual twists to zucchini

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

An interesting book called "The World Atlas of Food" divides vegetables into two categories: Old World and New World. Those of the Old World range from broccoli to soybeans. But what surprised me was inclusion of squash in the New World.

I had always thought these gourd-shaped vegetables of various colors originated far from the Western Hemisphere. But it seems they were grown in Peru as long as 2,000 years ago and Indians called them askutasquash, meaning "green thing eaten green."

The pumpkin, basic ingredient in a number of dishes from soup to pie, is perhaps the best-known member of the squash family in America, but zucchini has gained many fans here. It is especially good stuffed, because its delicate flavor does not dominate the dish.

Squash is divided into two types: winter, such as acorn and butternut, which are on the market from fall until early spring; and summer, including yellow crookneck and zucchini.

Zucchini, which is also known as Italian marrow, is available in some food stores the year round, but the peak season runs from May to July.

If you decide to grow your own zucchini, you will find it flourishes with a little care, but keep an eye on it and pick when ripe. I once planted some and later went away for several weeks. When I returned, the zucchini were as big as watermelons, which didn't do much for the flavor.

If you decide to stuff zucchini, pick a filling that doesn't have too pronounced a flavor. Tarragon and parsley are good seasonings. So is oregano, particularly if you have a meat filling. Here's a recipe for a lamb stuffing which is a good way to use meat leftovers.

8 small zucchini, about 6 inches long
1 cup cooked lamb, minced
1 cup cooked rice
2 tablespoons onion, minced
½ cup green pepper, chopped fine
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
1 ounce dry vermouth
Sour cream, enough to moisten filling
Salt to taste
3 cups tomato sauce, seasoned to your taste

Split zucchini lengthwise and remove some of pulp. Mix lamb, rice, onion, parsley, green pepper, oregano, vermouth and sour cream. Add salt, and stuff zucchini. Put zucchini in baking dish and cover with tomato sauce. Bake in 350-degree oven about 30 minutes. Serves 4 persons. Good with a chilled rose wine.

Crop projection due next week

By DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will begin next week to unfold new projections on this year's crop prospects.

A summary of a forthcoming feed situation report had been scheduled for release Tuesday afternoon, but reporters were told at the last minute it would be delayed until May 15.

Walter Spilka Jr., the report's coordinator, later said it was held up so that new information about U.S. and world crop prospects could be reviewed and incorporated into the analysis.

The timetable calls for the department's Crop Reporting Board to issue on May 11 a new estimate of U.S. winter wheat production this year. Also scheduled are the first estimate of world grain production for 1981-82, including the department's first of the season for the Soviet Union's 1981 grain harvest.

On the following day, May 12, the department will issue a "supply and demand" analysis, including the first 1981-82 forecast for individual grains and soybeans.

The early-season forecasting will be based mostly on an analysis of trends, weather and economic factors and "on the the judgment of USDA analysts," says Dawson Ahalt, deputy assistant secretary for economics.

Except for winter wheat, which is nearing maturity in parts of the nation, official production estimates based on actual field surveys are still weeks away. The department's first U.S. corn estimate, for example, will not be ready until July 10.

Meanwhile, weekly reports on weather and crop conditions continue to show that many farmers are still bogged down by wet weather as they try to plant this year's corn crop.

As of early May, corn planting was about 24 percent completed in the 17 major producing states, 12 percentage points behind its progress a year ago and two points behind the average for this time, the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility reported Tuesday.

The facility, which is operated by the departments of commerce and agriculture, said progress was behind normal in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio.

However, cotton planting reached 45 percent of completion during the week of April 27-May 3 and was 11 percentage points ahead of a year ago, the report said.

"Soybean planting was under way in most major producing states, but only minor acreages have been planted thus far," it said.

Winter wheat, which was planted last fall, was rated "fair to mostly good in all major producing areas." Heading of the crop was "well underway in Kansas and just beginning in Nebraska," the report said.

"Early-planted fields (of winter wheat) across the South were ripening," it said. "Fields in Arizona were maturing rapidly, and harvesting was expected to get underway soon."

These chicks tops in record books

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's hens have a couple of new records to cluck about.

U.S. hens laid a record of 69.7 billion marketable eggs last year for food processors, groceries, hatcheries and export markets, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

What's more, the department added, the record was produced by almost 2.5 million fewer birds than the 289 million on hand in 1979.

"Why more eggs and fewer hens? Because the average laying hen produced 243 marketable eggs, up from the previous high of 240 in 1979," a new report said. "So, despite the smaller flock, U.S hens produced nearly half a billion more eggs than in 1979."

Back in the 1950s, an average hen produced only about 120 eggs a year. However, improved feeding, lighting, housing and other management practices have "created a revolution" in egg production, the report said.

Marketable eggs are those actually suitable to sell. If eggs had sturdier shells — so they wouldn't break so easily — average marketable egg output may have been as high as 260 eggs last year, the report said.

Allen Baker, a department economist, said breakage means a direct cash loss to producers. Also, he said, it causes other problems, since one broken egg in a carton can soil other eggs. That causes them to be classified as "dirties," reducing their market value.

The dirty eggs cannot be sold to consumers as edible eggs. Instead, they are sold at lower prices as "breakers" to be used in processed food.

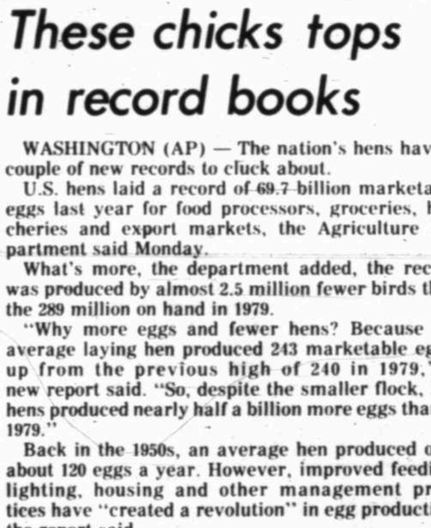

"A more serious problem — quality deterioration and possible bacterial contamination — can leave producers or processors with a carton of eggs of little or no market value," Baker said.

If there had been tougher eggshells last year, around 5 billion additional marketable eggs may have been produced, according to one researcher, David Roland of Auburn University's poultry science department.

Those would have been worth about $60 million at last year's retail prices.

"Of course, economists are quick to point out that such an increase in production might have lowered retail prices — also lowering the $60 million for additional sales," the report said. "But within the industry, some producers and processors say that new markets could absorb the extra eggs without a serious blow to prices."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Standards 'unfortunate'

Dear Dr. Solomon: As a 66-year-old widow, I have become acutely aware that a sexual double standard continues to exist. While single men my age can go to bars to seek female companionship without any eyebrows or questions being raised. I cannot do the same in seeking male companionship. And in case you are wondering, by "companionship" I also mean "sex." As a doctor, would you have any suggestions about how single women can get around this prejudice? — Mrs. A.L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Unfortunately, the kind of double standard you describe does exist. Moreover, from a medical standpoint I am concerned about the health consequences that stem from society's different attitude towards the sexual behavior of older men and older women.

These consequences result from the deliberate denial, control, and repression of sexual feelings by many older women, and are reflected in symptoms such as anxiety, insomnia, depression, phobias, and physical signs such as backaches and headaches. The extent of the problem is suggested by studies that were conducted at Duke University, and which showed that 75 percent of women in their 70s still experience some degree of sexual desire. Obviously, sexual dreams and fantasies are not the exclusive province of younger women.

For many older women who were taught in their childhood that sexual feelings were bad and had to be repressed, some counseling may be helpful. In many cases, this could be provided by an understanding family doctor rather than by a psychiatrist. As a physician, my own approach with my older patients is to convey to them the feeling that sexual desire at any age is natural. The issue you raise is particularly important in view of what has been called "the graying of America" — the increasing number of Americans in our population who are 65 years of age or older, and the fact that the large majority of these are women.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it true that aspirin can prevent cataracts? I've heard it claimed that aspirin is a wonder drug, but I never realized it could do so many things. Every week or so it seems that aspirin is being prescribed for something new, but the claim that it can prevent cataracts is the strangest yet. Is there anything to it? — Wally.

Dear Wally: In many ways aspirin is indeed a wonder drug, but it would be premature to claim that it is of value in preventing the formation of cataracts. What is known is that the prevalence of cataracts was found to be lower in a group of patients taking aspirin for rheumatoid arthritis than in a similar group that was not taking aspirin. Other studies also have suggested a slower rate of cataract formation among aspirin-users; however, there is a vast difference between something that is "suggested" and something that is "proved."

The possibility that aspirin may delay cataract formation is sufficiently strong to warrant further research on the subject. As of now, however, nothing has been proven.

California family can't go back on welfare

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A former welfare family that spent an $83,000 windfall in less than a year won't be allowed back on welfare, state officials say.

The unidentified three-member family, from the Stockton, Calif., area, reported nine months after receiving $83,000 from an "outside source" that it had spent all of the money on drugs, gambling, cars and gifts to friends.

But state Social Services Director Marion Woods ruled last week that the family is ineligible to receive Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps or other welfare.

Currently, a family of three receiving AFDC payments gets $463 a month.

Woods overturned an Aug. 19 ruling of a state hearing officer who said welfare should be restored, retroactive to September 1979.

The hearing officer ruled after the San Joaquin County Board of Supervisors refused to reinstate the family because it offered no proof of how the money was spent.

County officials, angered at the hearing officer's ruling, appealed to Woods.

Said Harry Brodie, the county welfare director: "It's ridiculous to have to support this family."

Employees of Continental Airlines march from a rally near the Colorado Statehouse to a Denver hotel where Continental stockholders were meeting. The Continental employees, many dressed in the black uniforms of flight crews, were protesting Texas International Airlines' bid to take over Continental.

Airline vows to fight TIA bid

DENVER (AP) — Texas International Airlines, foiled in a bid to stop a proposed employee takeover of Continental Airlines, will continue to press a legal action aimed at blocking the plan, a company official says.

But Continental President A.L. Feldman said at an emotion-charged shareholders meeting Wednesday that the airline will "fight for ages" if necessary to prevent a takeover by Texas International.

"If we're in court for years over this, it's because we believe we are doing the right thing for the company," Feldman said.

Feldman ruled out of order a motion by Texas Air Corp., parent of Texas International, that would have prevented Continental from issuing additional stock or creating an employees stock-ownership plan witout priorstockholder approval.

Texas Air Vice President Phil Bakes, who tried to present the motion, said, "We didn't expect them to allow anyone to vote on this ... It's been clear from the beginning that Continental doesn't want to put it to the shareholders for a vote," he said.

The rejection of Bakes' motion left only one apparent obstacle, Texas International's lawsuit, to implementation of a proposal that Continental double the amount of its stock and sell 51 percent to employees.

The suit contends that federal securities laws would be violated by issuing the 15.4 million shares of common stock the employee ownership plan would require. Texas International also contends the new stock would threaten the $93 million investment the Houston-based company has made in Continental, the nation's 11th-largest carrier.

Texas International has acquired 7.5 million shares, or 48.5 percent of Continental's 15.3 million outstanding shares of common stock — there are no preferred shares — and wants to assume control of that airline.

Texas International had sought to elect its own slate of directors at the annual meeting here, but the Civil Aeronautics Board vetoed that effort last week.

Although the Continental board has not made a decision on the employee takeover proposal, it has appointed a special committee to study the plan. The proposal has received the endorsement of Feldman and Continental Chairman Robert F. Six.

Meanwhile, Continental reported a $25.8 million loss for the first quarter ended March 31, compared with a loss of $5.1 million a year earlier. It blamed the loss on start-up costs associated with settlement of a flight attendants strike late last year. Continental lost $27 million in all of 1980.

Texas Air reported that its first-quarter earnings fell to $1.1 million, or 15 cents a share, from $1.53 million, or 22 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1980. In addition to Texas International, the corporation also owns New York Air, which began service last December.

Under the employee proposal, in exchange for the stock, Continental workers would give up 50 percent of their pay raises over the next five to seven years. Feldman said that would amount to a reduction in total salaries of about 15 percent.

It has been estimated the stock — which would be sold at market prices — would cost more than $185 million. Feldman said potential lenders have given tentative commitments for more than $200 million in loans to cover the purchase.

Cowboy Hall of Fame bill advances

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma House has given overwhelming approval to a bill designed for use as a vehicle for creating the proposed state park around the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in northeast Oklahoma City.

Lawmakers on Wednesday approved the bill on an 86-8. It now goes to a joint House-Senate committee, which will add language to carry out an agreement between Gov. George Nigh, Oklahoma City officials and Cowboy Hall trustees to keep the western shrine in Oklahoma City.

The vote came after some criticism from lawmakers who questioned the advisability of using state funds to maintain Oklahoma City streets in the vicinity of the hall.

The measure originally was designed to give the state control over Lincoln Boulevard and Northeast 23rd Street in the Capitol area, but was expanded to encompass the Cowboy Hall as a state park.

It was introduced before Dean Krakel, executive director of the Hall, announced objections to certain developments near the hall and warned it could leave Oklahoma if certain actions were not taken by local and state officials.

Krakel initially asked for a two-square-mile state park around the hall, but the Hall of Fame Board of Trustees last month rejected that idea and agreed to a more modest area encompassing only publically-owned land.

House members voted 43-38 against a proposed amendment by Rep. Donald Koppel, R-Bartlesville, to require Oklahoma City to continue maintenance of city streets involved in the state park.

They also tabled a tongue-in-cheek amendment offered by Rep. Helen Arnold, R-Tulsa, to extend the proposed state parkway along the Turner Turnpike to Tulsa to encompass a riverside park that city is attempting to finance.

Rep. Charles Ford, R-Tulsa, debated against the bill, accusing Krakel of "a flim-flam" against the state and Oklahoma City.

He said if everyone had considered the amount of money it would have taken to relocate the hall, "They would have known it was a flim flam."

But Rep. Don Johnson, D-Pawnee, noted that the trustees of the hall greatly scaled down the demands of Krakel. He said he felt the western museum was important enough that the state should make "every reasonable" effort to keep it.

Rep. Cleta Deatherage, D-Norman, urged approval.

Failure to pass the bill, she said, "would be going back on our word."

Columbia space shuttlle astronauts John Young, left, and Robert Crippen wave to a massive crowd that greeted them for a ticker-tape parade through Chicago's financial district Wednesday. This was the first of many parades planned for the astronauts since their successful April 12-14 shuttle flight.

Shuttle astronauts cheered

CHICAGO (AP) — A blizzard of shredded paper filled the air as about 25,000 people cheered space shuttle astronauts John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen in the city's first tickertape parade in 12 years.

The pilot and co-pilot of spaceship Columbia rode in a convertible Wednesday through the financial district to City Hall, where Mayor Jane Byrne presented them with crystal statues symbolizing the shuttle's takeoff from Kennedy Space Center.

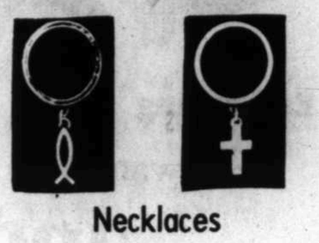

Young, a 50-year-old retired Navy captain, and Crippen, a 43-year-old Navy captain, waved to the cheering crowd.

Mrs. Byrne called the astronauts "our two new national heroes. We're a little bit prouder and a little bit bigger for your efforts."

After the City Hall ceremony, the mayor and astronauts went to the Museum of Science and Industry for a question-and-answer session with high-school students and a luncheon with the city's political, civic and business leaders.

The tickertape parade was Chicago's first since a 1969 parade for the Apollo 11 crew, the first moonwalkers.

Brain surgeon sues, claiming chimp bit his finger off

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The chimpanzee Washoe, who won national fame for her ability to learn sign language, is at the center of a $2.75 million lawsuit filed by a brain surgeon who contends the "wild and vicious" animal bit off one of his fingers.

Dr. Karl H. Pribram, a San Jose, Calif., neurosurgeon, alleged in the federal court lawsuit that he was "permanently disabled" in April 1980 when the chimp pulled his right hand and arm through the bars of her cage.

He said he was visiting the University of Oklahoma's Institute of Primate Studies at the time.

In the suit, filed against Washoe's trainer, the university, and the company that built her cage, the surgeon said the chimp bit off his middle finger and severed and "severely damaged the nerves, muscles and tendons" of his right hand.

Pribram alleged that Washoe is a "wild and vicious" animal and was not safely secured.

Pribram's attorney, Fielding D. Haas of Norman, said that Washoe had bitten university personnel about 20 times before she allegedly bit Pribram.

Washoe and her trainer, former psychology professor Roger Fouts, became known during the 1970s for experiments in which the chimp learned American Sign Language gestures.

Fouts left the university with the 16-year-old chimp after the 1979-1980 academic year to accept a position at Central Washington University in Ellensburg, Wash.

Fouts said Wednesday in Ellensburg that Pribram's finger was cut and his hand damaged on a sharp metal edge of Washoe's cage.

"Had she wanted to bite him, she could have. But she didn't," Fouts said.

Fouts said the cage had a "faulty design" which he brought to the attention of unpversity officials, but nothing was done.

He also said Pribram was experienced at working with chimpanzees and should have been more careful.

Rhino wanders from zoo

GRAND PRARIE, Texas (AP) — A 7,000-pound male rhinoceros shouldn't be able to lumber along a busy boulevard in a peaceful Dallas suburb without attracting too much attention.

But at 3 a.m. Wednesday, this rhino had the road to itself and managed to meander just far enough to frustrate officials at the International Wildlife Park here.

Park personnel spent a patient hour and a half Wednesday coaxing the mountainous mammal to retrace just half a mile, park spokeswoman Cynthia Scott said.

But not before Grand Prarie police rhino-sat the beast and blocked off traffic.

"We just went out there and stood by until the wildlife people were called. That was our only involvement," said Lt. C.A. Mezzell.

Park officials have deduced that a neighbor's cattle apparently pushed through the park gate in search of the grain fed to the rhinos, Ms. Scott said.

No-hitter eludes Blyleven

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

John Mayberry was saying before the game that he would rate Bert Blyleven's curveball a perfect "10."

"He's got the best curve in the majors," the Toronto Blue Jays slugger said, "certainly the best from the right side. It breaks sharp, and you can't pick it up, and he can control it."

Wednesday night, Blyleven showed he deserved the "Bo Derek" rating. The 30-year-old Cleveland Indians pitcher took a no-hitter into the ninth inning against Toronto. He lost it — and his shutout — on a double by Lloyd Moseby and single by pinch hitter George Bell, but Blyleven emerged with a 4-1 victory.

The hit that stopped the no-hitter came on Blyleven's first pitch in the ninth. Moseby hit a curling line drive to left-center. Defensive replacement Larry Littleton overran the ball, allowing it to skip past him for a double.

PRESSBOX opinion was split on whether the official scorer should have called it a hit or an error, but Blyleven said he couldn't protest too strongly.

"It's a call that goes both ways," he said. He added: "There's always disappointment when you go with a no-hitter in the ninth inning and lose it. You'd like to get it. It just didn't work out, but I'm very happy with a two-hitter. I'll take that any day."

Blyleven said Moseby hit a fastball that "didn't sink, and he hit it good."

Littleton said he lost Moseby's drive in the lights, and by the time he found it, "it had cut more than I thought, and that's when I tried to turn back and it hit me in the hand."

Blyleven allowed just three baserunners through the first eight innings, two on walks and one on a fielding error by Joe Charboneau, who started in left. Blyleven, who threw the American League's last no-hitter on Sept. 22, 1977 against California when he was with Texas, struck out nine.

All four of Cleveland's runs were unearned off Jackson Todd, 1-3. The Indians scored three in the third on errors by shortstop Alfredo Griffin, right fielder Barry Bonnell and third baseman Danny Ainge. A throwing error by second baseman Garth Iorg gave Cleveland another run in the eighth.

Orioles 5, Twins 4

Al Bumbry scored the winning run in the ninth inning after Minnesota's second rundown on the same play went awry.

Trailing 4-3, Baltimore tied the score on a walk to Rick Dempsey and singles by Lenn Sakata and Bumbry. Mark Belanger then hit a ground ball to third, and Sakata was out when he was caught in a rundown. Belanger also was caught off base, but Twins second baseman Rob Wilfong dropped the ball when Belanger ran into him, allowing Bumbry to score.

Rangers 4, White Sox 2

Texas came up with two runs in the seventh inning to snap a 2-2 tie and beat Chicago. One run scored on a single by Bill Stein, and Al Oliver's fielder's choice grounder delivered the other.

Bump Wills had two hits and scored twice for Texas.

Chicago erased a 2-0 deficit in the top of the seventh. Carlton Fisk, Greg Luzinski and Lamar Johnson hit consecutive singles for one run, and pinch hitter Bobby Molinaro drove in another with a single.

Red Sox 3, Royals 1

Dennis Eckersley tossed a four-hitter, retiring the final 17 Royals, and Dwight Evans smacked a two-run homer to pace Boston over Kansas City, which has lost three of its past four.

Kansas City led 1-0 on George Brett's RBI single in the first inning until Evans unloaded in the eighth. Boston added a run in the ninth on an RBI single by Rick Miller.

Eckersley, who hadn't won at Royals Stadium since 1978, struck out two and didn't walk a batter.

Tigers 3, A's 2

Tom Brookens' sacrifice fly in the Detroit eighth snapped a 2-2 tie and handed Oakland only its sixth loss of the season. Al Cowens started the inning with a grounder to third baseman Wayne Gross, whose throw was wild for an error. Cowens got to third on a fly ball by Rick Leach, the former Michigan quarterback.

Milt Wilcox scattered seven hits for Detroit, and Rick Langford pitched his fifth complete game of the season for Oakland. Langford allowed just five hits but walked eight.

Yankees 5, Angels 2

Bucky Dent hit his fourth home run of the year, a two-run shot in the fourth inning, and added two more RBIs with a double to pace the New York attack. Dent left the game when he was hit by a pitch on his left forearm his next at-bat. X-rays were negative.

Ron Guidry went five-plus innings for the victory, and Rich Gossage mopped up, earning his seventh save.

Mariners 12, Brewers 1

Mike Parrott snapped a personal 18-game losing streak, one shy of the AL record, and Seattle made a success of the managing debut of Rene Lachemann. Lachemann replaced Maury Wills, who was fired Wednesday.

Parrott, who had not won since opening day in 1980, worked seven innings, allowing five hits and striking out five. Jim Anderson drove in five runs for Seattle, and Tom Paciorek had three RBIs.

Bulldogs face Steers, eye 2nd half pennant

Midland Lee missed a golden opportunity to tuck the District 5-5A pennant safely away in its trophy case when the Rebels lost to Abilene Tuesday and now may be confronted with an intra-city dog fight with crosstown rival Midland for the second half title.

Midland can set up a battle for all the marbles in the second half by defeating Big Spring in a makeup game at 4 p.m. today on the Memorial Stadium Field.

Lee, which tied with Abilene and Abilene Cooper, for the first half title, could have ended all of the supense Tuesday, but the Rebels loss to the Eagles left the door open to Midland, which can win the second half outright by winning its final two games against the Steers and Midland Lee at Lee Saturday.

That would force the Rebels to playoff with Abilene and Cooper for the first half title with the survivor meeting Midland for the overall title.

Lee, of course, still could settle the confusion with a win over Midland Saturday, but the last time the two teams played it went nine innings before the Rebels managed a 3-0 win.

While Lee was losing Tuesday, Midland was beating Cooper, 8-3, which is 1-4 in the second half after sharing the first half title.

LA Rams cut Hacksaw Reynolds

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams have parted company with still another of their key players, linebacker Jack Reynolds.

The National Football League club announced Wednesday they have released the veteran middle linacker, who became a free agent after last season.

In another move Wednesday, the Rams acquired tight end Henry Childs from the Washington Redskins in exchange for two future draft choices. Childs, in an apparent setup for the deal, had been acquired by Washington from New Orleans last week.

Reynolds, 33, is the third Ram to depart within recent weeks because of failed contract negotiations with the club. Quarterback Vince Ferragamo signed with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, and linebacker Bob Brudzinski was traded to Miami.

Reynolds, a former collegiate star at Tennessee, was the hub of the Ram defense for the past nine years. He reportedly was seeking a guaranteed, no-cut contract after having made an estimated $125,000 last year.

The 11-year NFL veteran nicknamed "Hacksaw" can now sign with any other NFL team.

Coach Ray Malavasi said he believes five-year veteran Carl Ekern can move into the middle linebacker spot.

Yankees manager Gene Michael waves a finger in face of umpire Ken Kaiser after plate ump called Yankee outfielder Jerry Mumphrey out for interference on catcher's throw to second at Anaheim Wednesday.

Perry notches 292nd victory

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

At the start, Gaylord Perry looked shaky, which is about what you'd expect from an old man in a young man's game.

But it only took the 42-year-old Atlanta right-hander two batters to shed his senior citizen image Wednesday night and handcuff St. Louis for the 292nd victory of his brilliant career.

After a leadoff single by Garry Templeton and a home run by Tony Scott, Perry limited the Cardinals to just four more hits and coasted to a 10-2 victory.

CHRIS CHAMBLISS drove home five runs, three of them on a ninth-inning homer, as Perry won his third game in five decisions for the Braves, the sixth team he has pitched for in his 20-year major league career.

Perry signed as a free agent with Atlanta last winter and looked like a kid again, mowing down the Cardinals. St. Louis had won 12 of its l. 14 decisions before running into the crafty Perry.

"He can go as long as his enthusiasm carries him," said Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox. "Right now, he's pumped up."

"I've got three wins and I've got three complete games," said Perry. "When you win, it gets you going. It makes you want to win more."

Scott's homer gave the Cards a quick lead but the Braves bounced back. Glenn Hubbard tripled home a run in the second and Atlanta took the lead in the sixth. A hit batsman, Claudell Washington's single and Chambliss' force play grounder tied the score. Then hits by Dale Murphy and Biff Pocoroba moved Atlanta in front.

Singles by Ed Miller and Chambliss around a triple by Washington produced two more in the seventh. Then Chambliss' three-run homer highlighted Atlanta four-run wrapup rally in the ninth.

Padres 13, Expos 5

Broderick Perkins drove in five runs with three hits including a homer and Ruppert Jones contributed three RBIs as San Diego ripped Montreal pitching for 19 hits.

"It was just one of those games that everyone has now and then," said freshman Padre Manager Frank Howard, whose team has had precious few of them. "I'm just glad we were on the winning side of it."

The 19 hits were one short of the Padre club record and Perkins' big night boosted his average to .409.

Reds 9, Pirates 8

Cincinnati rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth on clutch hits by Dave Concepcion and Johnny Bench to overtake Pittsburgh.

"Both teams hit the heck out of the ball, but they just had the last crack," said Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner.

Comcepcion contributed three hits and drove in two runs, giving him a league-leading 25 for the season. George Foster homered for Cincinnati and Dave Parker and Mike Easler connected for Pittsburgh.

Giants 6, Mets 4

Jack Clark trpled and scord in the third inning and then singled home another run in the sixth, helping San Francisco past New York.

Bullpen ace Greg Minton shut the Mets out for the final 2 2-3 innings and evened his record at 1-1. He has five saves, sharing the National League lead with Bruce Sutter of the Cardinals and would have preferred a sixth, since Al Holland was the pitcher of record. But Holland was judged ineffective by the official scorer and so Minton got the win instead.

"I'd rather have the save," he said. "That's my job. I don't care about won-lost records, even if it were 2-10. A save is far more important in my book."

Dodgers 2, Phillies 1

Ron Cey's fourth-inning home run gave Los Angeles its victory over Philadelphia with Burt Hooton pitching a sharp five-hitter for his fourth straight victory.

"I was looking for a ball I could drive and I got it," Cey said.

Two of the Phillies' hits were by Pete Rose, who is just six away from tying Hank Aaron for second place on the all-time National league list at 3,600. Rose needs 37 more hits to break Stan Musial's record of 3,630.

Cubs 2, Astros 1

Chicago won its fourth game of the season when Ken Reitz drilled a two-out RBI-sihgle in the 11th inning to beat Houston.

Reitz' hit scored Steve Dillard, who had walked and advanced on a sacrifice by Tim Blackwell.

Reitz, acquired from St. Louis last December, hnesday's game.

"I've had bad starts before, but when you're playing every day, it's easier to pick it up," he said.

Celtics, Rockets hoping to learn by mistakes

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics aren't shooting well, but they're surviving on defense and determination. The Houston Rockets aren't rebounding well, but they're hoping to learn from their mistakes.

Trying to avert the transformation of their carriage back into a pumpkin, the Cinderella Rockets take on the Celtics tonight in the second game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

Despite 43 percent shooting and 19 turnovers, Boston staged a late surge Tuesday night to score a 98-95 victory in the opener of the best-of-seven playoffs.

"I'm not concerned with the offense," said Boston guard Chris Ford. "Defense is what wins championships. We've been playing tough defense when we have to. The offense will come."

The Celtics held Houston to just four points in the final 5:17, continuing the strong defense down the stretch they displayed in comeback victories in the final three games of their Eastern Conference championship series with Philadelphia.

The Celtics have trailed at halftime in their last six playoff games and have won four of them. They shot just 45 percent against the 76ers after hitting at a 50-percent clip during the regular season.

"This team can't lead at halftime for some unknown reason," said Boston forward Cedric Maxwell. "What's going to win the series for the teams is defense."

"We played only a couple of 'Philly Series' on defense," said Boston Coach Bill Fitch. "We would like to apply better pressure. Their guards were effective and Robert Reid played a great game."

Reid, Houston's small forward, led all scorers with 27 points but didn't get enough help from his teammates.

"We lost this one through mental errors and offensive rebounding," he said.

Reid and Billy Paultz referred to the roughness of the game and the lack of fouls called in the closing minutes.

"You learn a lot in the first game of a series," said the 240-pound Paultz. "You learn how physical it can get. You learn how much the refs mean. If they (the Celtics) can push and shove, I can push and shove, too. It could be war out there Thursday night."

Memphis seeks NFL expansion berth in future

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Lamar Alexander led a group of Tennesseans who met Wednesday in Washington with National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle in hopes of getting an NFL franchise in Memphis.

Alexander, interviewed in his Nashville office after he returned late Wednesday afternoon, said Rozelle made no commitments. But, Alexander said, the commissioner did say that Memphis would be considered as a site for one of two NFL expansion teams when the league turns its attention to expanding.

"I'm cautiously optimistic," the governor said. "We didn't get any commitment, didn't expect any commitment, but I'm glad to know Memphis is on the right track. I think there's a good chance Tennessee will have a professional football team sometime during the 1980s."

Alexander said Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had asked Rozelle to meet with him, Memphis Mayor Wyeth Chandler, Avron Fogelman, owner of the Memphis Chicks minor league baseball team, and Fred Smith,

Dodgers defeat Cubs, 10-8

SAN ANTONIO—Right fielder Tom Grant continued to be the lone bright spot for the otherwise dismal Midland Cubs, who lost again to the San Antonio Dodgers, 10-8 before 1,789 fans here Wednesday night.

The Dodgers built up a big early lead, 8-2, and then held off the Cubs' belated efforts to catch up.

Offensively, the eight-run, 10-hit attack was one of the high points for Midland this season, but the pitching failed and the defense cratered with five miscues.

Carlos Gil, coming off the disabled list and the first of four Midland pitchers, was tagged with the loss. Oral Hershiser, who got a save in Tuesday's win, picked up the victory this time, snuffing out a Cub rally in the eighth and retiring the side in the ninth.

San Antonio took command early with a four-run second as Dave Sax, Tom Beyers, and Dale Holman batted in runs and a fourth tally came home on third baseman Carmello Martinez' throwing error.

Mark Bradley hit a solo homer in the third and Ross Jones greeted relief pitcher Phil Nastu with a homer in the same frame.

Mike Wright and Rob Blyth held the Dodgers to two unearned runs over the final 4 1/3 innings.

The Cubs pecked away with a two-run Martinez homer in the fifth and then Grant hoisted a two-run homer to left in the sixth. It was Grant's eighth of the season.

Grant had a two-hit night, which extended his batting streak to 15 games and raised his batting average to .454 for the season. Grant is batting .563 over his last four games and he is only two homers shy of his 1980 season total of 10.

Sexual bias...Pigs, take cream pies in the face

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) — Two women students, claiming sexual bias in the Waynesburg College athletic program, flung cream pies into the faces of the school's two top sports administrators.

"For a while, it put my college education on the line, which is more important to me than any athletic concern," said Sue Tolson.

"But in the respect that we are getting publicity for our concerns, I don't regret it at all," she added Wednesday night in a phone interview. "I think people have opened their eyes to what's going on."

The women wore ski masks as they made their raid on Waynesburg's recent sports banquet.

Miss Tolson, a volleyball player on an athletic scholarship, splattered Athletic Director Hayden Buckley.

Accomplice Mary Lee Novak, a member of the women's softball team, hit Buckley's assistant, William Hardisty, with another pie.

Wills thrown out as Seattle pilot

SEATTLE (AP) — Maury Wills, base-stealing king of the 1960s, has been thrown out at Seattle.

Wills was fired as manager of the Mariners Wednesday. He was replaced by veteran minor-league manager Rene Lachemann from the Mariners' Class AAA club in Spokane.

The third manager in the Mariners' five-season history, Lachemann took over Wednesday and the team drubbed the Milwaukee Brewers 12-1 in the game at Seattle.

LACHEMANN, 36, managed the Spokane Class AAA farm club of the Pacific Coast League since 1979. He INDOOR SOCCER— The Major Indoor Soccer League will allow its Hartford, Conn., franchise to move to Memphis, provided 6,500 season tickets are sold by June 1, MISL Commissioner Earl Foreman announced.

Beside the season-ticket goal, Foreman set two other conditions for the transfer of the team to Memphis — a pledge from city officials to consider expanding the 9,600-seat Coliseum and culmination of a deal between the Hartford club's owners and the potential buyers before the MISL's June 8 meeting in Denver.

Loman's single in 10th nips Sox for Diablos

By Associated Press

Doug Loman's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 10th inning Wednesday night gave the El Paso Diablos a 7-6 Texas League baseball victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox.

In other Texas League games, Shreveport slipped past Arkansas, 3-2 in 11 innings, San Antonio edged Midland, 10-8, and Tulsa shut out Jackson, 3-0.

Loman's single broke a 6-6 tie to give El Paso the victory. Bob Skube had two homers for the Diablos. Joe Lansford and John Alvarez homered for Amarillo.

Jim Koontz was the winning pitcher. Syd Church was the loser.

Jim Wojcik singled home the winning run in the 11th inning as the Shreveport Captains beat the Arkansas Travelers, 3-2.

A two-run homer in the eighth inning by Paul Szymarek had given the Captains a 2-2 tie.

The winning pitcher was Mike Tucker. The loser was Greg Pimentel.

Tony Fossas allowed only four hits in pitching the Tulsa Drillers to a 3-0 shutout victory over the Jackson Mets. Fossas struck out seven Mets and allowed two walks.

Tulsa scored on a double by Don Scott, a single by Mike Jirschele and a single by Bobby Ball.

North Stars need one more victory

By SCOTT PAPILLON

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Shortly after the Minnesota North Stars were airborne Wednesday on their charter flight to Calgary for tonight's game with the Flames in the National Hockey League playoffs, they were greeted by the voice of the Air Canada pilot.

"Welcome aboard charter flight No. 51 to Calgary," sad Capt. George MacLeod in his usual salutation to the passengers. "We'd like to congratulate the Minnesota North Stars and wish them good luck against Calgary and then against the Islanders in the finals."

The finals?

The North Stars, who lead the best-of-seven semifinal series 3-1 after Tuesday's 7-4 victory, still need one more triumph before they can set their sights on New York and the defending Stanley Cup champion Islanders.

Lou Nanne, Minnesota's superstitious general manager, was asked if it was bad luck for an outsider to make such a daring prediction.

"He said that?" asked Nanne, a look of alarm in his eyes. "I didn't hear it, but maybe it's prophecy. I sure hope he's right."

Minnesota Coach Glen Sonmor believes that the North Stars' future is now. He said he realizes that if the Flames are allowed to pull within one game of the Stars, the momentum may shift irreversibly in Calgary's direction.

Kings lose sponsors, but support surprising

By LINDA DEUTSCH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tennis star Billie Jean King and her husband, Larry, have lost some potential sponsors of their planned team tennis tournament since Mrs. King's public admission that she once had a homosexual love affair.

"This has put most of our sponsors in a holding pattern," Larry King said of the tournament which is set for July 6.

But King said his wife's surprise disclosure has brought an "unbelievable" outpouring of support from friends and celebrities who have sent her more than 500 telegrams and letters.

"They said they thought she had courage and had handled the matteer in a dignified matter," King said of the messages from Marlo Thomas, Phil Donahue, sports promotor Jerry Buss and others.

"She's overwhelmed with how positive it has been," King said of reaction to his wife's announcement. Mrs. King is currently in Japan to play in the Bridgestone world championship in women's doubles.

She and her husband have been involved in a movement to bring back team tennis — a project that has been jolted by the publicity surrounding her affair.

"We have been working on the television deal (for the tournament)," King said. But now, the real question is what the public impact is going to be."

He said potential sponsors have pulled back $150,000 in backing for the tournament.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department commissioners met April 22 and adopted changes in Texas hunting, fishing and trapping regulations for 1981-82.

In a public hearing in Austin, the commission reviewed comments obtained from public hearings in 241 counties and also heard testimony from individuals on various proposed changes. Some of the changes were subject to approval and disapproval by county commissioners' courts in 30 counties. Approved were:

FRESHWATER FISHING: A "slot limit" was approved for largemouth bass in Lake Monticello near Mount Pleasant.

Any bass less than 14 or longer than 18 inches may be retained, including fish less than the 10-inch minimum in effect for most of the state's waters.

Biologists recommended the experimental limits to protect a segment of the bass population which currently is being overharvested.

A special limit also was approved for two small North Texas area lakes. On Bryson in Jack County and Cottonwood in Wise County, a 14-inch largemought bass minimum along with a five bass per day bag limit and possession limit of 10. Trotlines, throwlines and juglines are prohibited on these tow lakes.

A daily bag limit of five striped-white bass hybrids, with a possession limit of 10, was approved for Lake Calaveras near San Antonio.

A minimum length limit of 16 inches was adopted for all introduced Nile perch and peacock bass.

HUNTING: A proposal affecting a large number of regulatory counties which have the standard white-tailed deer season will fix the closing date as the first Sunday in January, which allows the season to always end on a weekend. This would apply also to the turkey season in those counties.

Another change re-defined buck deer to a deer having hardened antlers protruding through the skin in Comal, Kendall, Kerr, Medina and Real counties. This is designed to remove the special protection for spike bucks. Studies show that spike bucks are genetically and nutritionally inferior and should not receive special protection.

The commission also eliminated the requirement for aoudad sheep hunting permits in eight Panhandle counties where aoudad sheep populations have reached high levels and continue to be underharvested under the permit system. Harvest will be controlled by landowners.

A reduced white-tailed deer bag limit was adopted in 13 Possum Kingdom area counties. It establishes a three deer, no more than one buck limit, instead of the three deer, no more than two bucks limit. Archery limits will be the same as the gun season limits in each county.

The either-sex base limit, which allows hunters to harvest antlerless deer without antlerless permits, was approved for 19 additional counties. In these counties, hunters will only be required to attach tags from their hunting licenses to anterless deer harvested, similar to the procedure for bucks. The counties located in the Edwards Plateau and South Texas regions include Bandera, Comal, Crockett, Edwards, Gillespie, Hays, Kendall, Kerr, Kimble, Kinney, Lampasas, Llano, Mason, Medina, Real, San Saba, Sutton, Uvalde and Val Verde. The either-sex limit will remain in effect in 20 counties which had this regulation last year.

In Pecos, Terrell and Jeff Davis counties, the white-tailed deer and mule deer seasons both will open on Nov. 28. The mule deer season will end on Dec. 6; the whitetail season on Jan. 3.

The commission approved allowing taxidermists to possess the peks of furbearers at any time if the pelt is affixed with a tag showing the name and address of its owner.

The commission will keep quail seasons the same as 1980-81 with bag limits being set after the late summer census is completed.

A fall gun and archery turkey season was set for Palo Pinto County where Department restocking efforst have restored populations to approximately, 4,000 birds.

Holmes defends title against Spinks June 12

DETROIT (AP) — Larry Holmes says he has everything to lose and almost nothing to gain — except money — when he defends his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship in a June 12 bout with former champion Leon Spinks.

"Leon ain't got no money, ain't got no teeth; he ain't got nothing to lose," Holmes told a large gathering after the bout was announced at a news conference Wednesday by promoter Don King. "I have everything to lose. I'm fighting to be your champion. I want to be the people's champion."

Then Holmes flatly predicted he would retain his crown.

"I'm going to make a promise I've never made before in my life. I'm going to win," Holmes said. "If I don't win no more fights, I'll win this one."

The purse for the scheduled 15-round fight at Joe Louis Arena — a 20,000-seat arena along the Detroit River — hasn't been set, King said. It will be the first heavyweight title bout in Detroit since 1970.

Mayor Coleman A. Young said he had been trying for more than a year to get a heavyweight show into the arena to honor Louis, the longtime heavyweight champion who grew up in Detroit. Louis died three weeks ago.

NM returns to old system

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — New Mexico high schools competing in Class AAA have voted to return to a system which ensures that both a district champion and runnerup advance to the playoffs in football, volleyball, basketball and baseball.

During the current school year, only eight teams advanced to the playoffs in the various sports. With five Class AAA districts in the state, that meant that two of the districts were allowed to send only their champion. The remaining three districts sent both the champion and runnerup.

The rule drew widespread criticism from coaches throughout the state, especially during the football and basketball seasons.

Illinois seriously considers Big 10 withdrawal

(Compiled from R-T wire services)

Talk that Illinois may withdraw from the Big Ten continued to circulate and Chancellor John Cribbet said the university is "quite serious in considering it an option. And we don't really have many options. We would like to stay in the conference if entirely possible. We have not received any feelers from the Big Eight, nor have we put out any. We have not reached the point of looking where we might land."

Illinios is reeling from the severity of sanctions imposed on it by the Big Ten in the eligibility case of quarterback Dave Wilson, the junior-college transfer played last season after taking the Big Ten to court when it failed to grant him permission to play. Among charges levied by the Big 10 against Illinois are misrepresentation, deception, lack of cooperation and failing to abide by conference rules...

Running back Terry Metcalf, after three years in Canada, began a two-day tryout with the Washington Redskins Wednesday. "We will test Metcalf today, by himself, and again Thursday with the team," said Coach Joe Gibbs. "You can learn more during testing with a team than running plays by yourself." Metcalf, 29, was cut by Montreal...

Atlanta pitcher Phil Niekro thinks a meeting between owners and player reps could help avert a strike May 29. "The way it is with third parties doing the negotiating, you can't get a straight answer. I don't think the real, true feelings of everybody are coming out."...

Kansas City Kings NBA cage attendance dropped almost 39,000, but revenues from the playoffs kept the club profitable. "We did come back after a horrendous start," said president Paul Rosenberg. "The playoffs did it for us."...

Raycom Inc., a Charlotte company has sued the ACC, charging it with federal and state antitrust violations by limiting the telecasts of ACC basketball games and also also accuses the C.D. Chesley Co., a TV production firm, with violating antitrust laws through an agreement with the ACC to telecast league games...

Chris Evert Lloyd won over Yvonne Vermaak 6-0, 6-0 while unseeded Lucia Romanov upset former Wimbledon champion Virginia Wade 0-6, 6-3, 6-1 in second round Perugia Open Women's Tennis play while Rosalyn Fairbank defeated Kim Sands 6-2, 4-6, 6-2; Holly Vessies downed Judith Harrington 6-1, 5-7, 6-4; and Tania Harford ousted Duck-Hee Lee 7-6, 3-6, 6-4 and Kathy Horvath defeated Kathy Renaldi 6-2, 1-6, 6-4...

Oklahoma State's Donald Lee Briggs, a member of the 440-yard relay team, was killed when he lost control of his car and it struck a tree... Jerry Matthews, head coach at San Antonio Lee, is new assistant basketball coach at East Texas State. Matthews compiled a 284-87 record in 13 years at Corsicanna and was voted coach of the year in 32-5A last season...

Mariners agree, it was time to change pilots

SEATTLE (AP) — It was time for a change in the Seattle Mariners' baseball club, team members said of Manager Maury Wills' sudden but not unexpected firing.

Players and management were mixed in their sentiment on the firing, but agreed that the Mariners — last in the 14-team American League — needed a change in command if the club is going to turn around its .250 record.

"Maury's a fine man. I have a high regard for him. It just didn't work out for him in this place and time," said the club's principal owner, George Argyros.

Some Mariner players were less kind in their assessments of Wills' tenure.

"It was obvious a change had to be made," said designated hitter Richie Zisk, one of the few bright spots for the team so far this year.

"Something had to be done on a positive note," Zisk said. "It will change the atmosphere here. It was depressing. There are a lot of younger players here who had never been confronted with this type of situation. The atmosphere in the clubhouse was not good for them."

Pitching coach Wes Stock, who has been with the team since its inception, said, "You don't have to like your manager but you do have to respect him. I think Maury lost the respect of the players."

Rookie third baseman Dave Edler said, "Wills said one thing and did another. It got to the point where I was reading in the paper about what would happen to me. There was a lot of turmoil in this clubhouse — a lot of questions being asked about decisions Maury made."

"A manager is no better than his players," said Dan O'Brien, president and chief executive officer of the team. You have to have a cohesive performing unit and when that happens then the talent takes over and you start to play and start to win. And that wasn't happening," O'Brien said.

Wills' firing was "not only in his best interests but those of the club. It was best that we change the picture," O'Brien said.

O'Brien had praise for Wills and said the firing "certainly wasn't for lack of an all-out effort."

A shocker in making for loyal trivia buffs

Throw out the tidbit of a .367 lifetime batting average and nine straight batting championships and any trivia buff will snap both up in one gulp. Ty Cobb, naturally. Geez, gimme something difficult like the winning rbi in the 1912 World Series. You know, after Merkel and Snodgrass committed their famous faux pas.

Well, if The Sporting News has its way, .367 and nine straight American League batting championships will be a couple of wrong answers. And if Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has his, Cobb's storied statistics will remain sacred, something that shall not be tampered with, although if you want to monkey with Tris Speaker's statistics, you have Bowie's permission.

It all revolves around the 1910 batting championship, which according to TSN research smells as fishy as a Portuguese fishing trawler returning to Provincetown with a day's haul of cod.

RESEARCH of daily box scores that year reveal Napoleon Lajoie, not Cobb, won the 1910 batting championship.

The records show that Cobb finished at .385 that season 70 years ago and Lajoie hit .384. A review of the box scores showed that Lajoie had an extra at bat that wasn't recorded, so he wound up at .383.

Cobb, on the other hand, escaped two hitless at bats on May 26 and August 10, simply overlooked, and was awarded a 2-for-3 game which never happened. That would lower his average to .382, giving Lajoie the title. In addition, somehow a 1-for-8 stretch in 1906 had been omitted from Cobb's career statistics when his first two games in the American League were somehow overlooked. Consequently, Cobb's lifetime average plummets to a rather mundane .366 and Pete Rose was only 633 hits away from Cobb's adjusted career record 4,190 hits going into the current season.

BUT don't go away. The method of how Lajoie did or did not win the batting title proves intriguing. While Cobb, confident he had the batting title wrapped up, took the final week of the season off, Lajoie collected three hits in eight games, two hits in two others and eight hits in the season-ending doubleheader during the final 17-game stretch.

With a .376 average going into the final day at Cleveland, Lajoie tripled down the left field line his first time up and then bunted safely seven straight times. Seemingly, it gave Lajoie the bat title. But then it was revealed a St. Louis Browns' teammate had unsuccessfully tried to bribe the official scorer to do well by Lajoie on a sacrifice ruling. Nothing was changed, but when word got out, American League President Ban Johnson demanded a thorough probe.

THAT'S WHEN the incorrect additions were made, according to TSN investigation, to Cobb's batting statistics.

If it were just one little ol' batting championship involved, perhaps the corrections would be made and okayed with a minimum of fuss.

But in this case, it would result in a major change in one of baseball's major records, Cobb's 12 batting championships and that amazing run of nine titles in a row. It would be like discovering Joe DiMaggio went 0-for-4 in the 40th game of that 56-game streak and nobody noticed.

It would make Rogers Hornsby the major league leader with his six straight bat titles for the Cardinals from 1920-25.

BOTH Kuhn and American League president Lee MacPhail are opposed to tampering with the past, in this case. MacPhail says, "If we had a project to examine all records, and the Cobb-Lajoie error was one of the results, I'd approve the change. But just to zero in on one isolated record after all these years seems unfair."

TSN retaliates, "21 revisions in the record of Hall of Fame outfielder Tris Speaker sailed through without a ripple in 1980."

The ensuing debate could keep things interesting during the strike, which begin May 29. Let's see, that couldn't be called the Hot Stove League in midsummer...how about, Wallowing in a Long Hot Summer without a Fan. be?

Watson begins quest for fourth straight title

DALLAS (AP) — When Walter Hagen beat Joe Turnesa 1-up at old Cedar Crest Country Club in Dallas back in 1927 he did something that to this day has yet to be equaled on the professional golf tour.

It was Hagen's fourth consecutive PGA title, a feat never equaled by such greats as Bobby Jones, Byron Nelson, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus.

And, yes, Tom Watson.

Watson had a chance to do something about it starting today in a classic named after Lord Byron Nelson himself — win a tournament for the fourth consecutive time.

f course, ifWatson could emerge the winner Sunday after 72 holes he would be the first to do it over the same course (Preston Trail) and stroke play.

Hagen carved his piece of golf history over four different courses, French Lick, Ind. CC, Olympia Fields CC, Salisbury Golf Club in Westbury, N.Y., and Cedar Crest, now a municipal course. All his victories were match play.

"It's definitely a challenge," said Watson. "I was surprised to hear it had been done only once before."

Watson is an absolute terror on the par 70 Preston Trail Golf Club where he is a dues paying member and has had personal instruction from Lord Byron himself.

Watson has won $196,626 in the Nelson — more money at the same tournament than by any other player.

He won the tournament in 1975. After victories by Mark Hayes and Ray Floyd Watson has claimed the trophy the last three years with eight under, five under and six-under totals, respectively over the demanding 7,000 yards with large, rolling and lightning fast greens.

With The Masters and the New Orleans Open titles already tucked away along with $193,465 in prize money this year, Watson entered today's play supremly confidant after a week's rest.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, May 8, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: President Harry S Truman was born on this day, as was singer Ricky Nelson. Although other people continue to influence your destiny and shape some of your ideas this coming year, it is personal effort alone that will determine your financial fortunes. A special career or business ambition moves closer to realization. Take extra care to guard any jointly held funds. Industrious and cautious, you are likely to have a nice little nest egg tucked away. Long-term investments suit you much better than risky speculative ventures. Be wary of loaning money to relatives, friends. Keep romance exciting by showing your affection openly, paying deserved compliments.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Someone else's ambition may slow you down today. Do not despair. Your time will come. Events at a distance could affect your finances in a positive way. Romance is exhilarating!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some unexpected good luck could put you in the driver's seat. Accept any genuine offer of help. You are faced with an important decision involving love and money.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Loved one may cause you to change your weekend plans at the last minute. Be gracious about doing so. You will be glad later on. Keep a tight hold on your purse strings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Children add sunshine to an older person's life. Avoid taking risks if going out tonight. Keep your money and valuables in a safe place.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Vocational and financial gains are easier to record now. Stress cooperation when dealing with colleagues. A pleasant evening lies ahead. Confide in loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Major developments taking place behind the scenes could affect your career in a positive way. Have confidence in yourself and loved ones. Seek the company of good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may be able to put together a lucrative deal today. Be sure you go to work fully prepared! Reserve time for relative or friend who has a problem, and listen rather than judge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take the time to study a proposal prior to giving your opinion on it. You may have to solve some practical details before tackling the financial side of a new project. Consult expert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you want to complete a special project before the weekend starts, enlist the help of friends. Romance may have to be postponed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Words of encouragement will get the weekend off to a happy start. Leave business cares behind. Concentrate on enjoying the company of your family.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You will have to proceed at your own risk if you begin a project without first obtaining full approval. You would be wiser to be patient and wait.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Social obligations can be met at minimum cost if you decide to entertain jointly with an old friend. The work and expense will be halved, doubling your enjoyment.

Opening lead: Queen of ◇.

For an extra 70 points South elected to play in a no trump slam rather than in clubs. Unfortunately, his appetite was greater than his ability — to the tune of some 1700 points.

North made an intelligent bid at his second turn when he elected to raise his partner's suit with only a doubleton ace. After Blackwood revealed that North had the missing ace, we admit we would have bid a grand slam with the South hand, but this particular South was on a losing streak and was content to settle for a "sure" profit. His decision to place the contract in six no trump, however, was not the safest way to attain that goal.

West led the queen of diamonds, and declarer was quite happy with his dummy. It looked like there were thirteen tricks on top, so declarer won the king of diamonds, cashed the ace of hearts and entered dummy with the ace of clubs. He discarded a diamond on the king of hearts, then tried to run clubs. Unfortunately, East turned up with a club stopper. Since declarer could not come to twelve tricks without clubs, he surrendered a club to East. East led a heart to his partner's queen for down one.

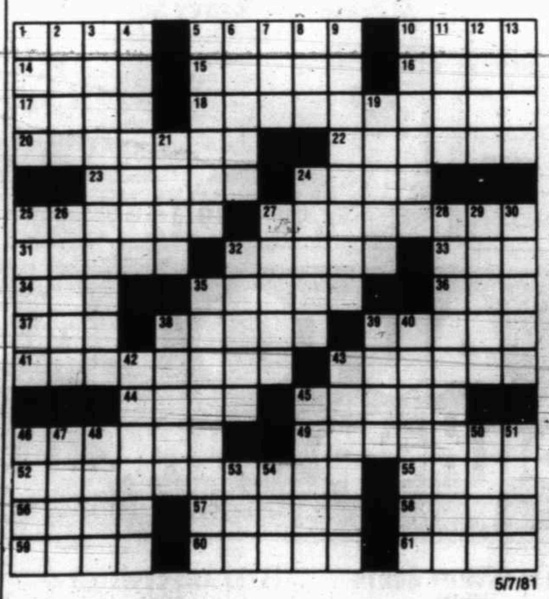

South was as much a victim of bad luck as of his own voraciousness. Had he been content to play six clubs, he would have been in an unbeatable contract. More to the point, however, is the fact that six no trump should also have been made.

The only thing that can defeat six no trump is a 4-1 or 5-0 club division. Declarer can do nothing to overcome a 5-0 split, but he can counter a 4-1 break. After winning the diamond opening lead and cashing the ace of hearts, declarer should lead a low club to dummy's eight. East wins the trick, but he can do declarer no harm. South wins any return, crosses to the ace of clubs and takes a diamond discard on the king of hearts. He can get back to his hand with a spade to run the clubs, which are now high.

Princess Margaret

Royal luncheon cancelled, reset

TORONTO (AP) — A luncheon planned here for Princess Margaret this summer has been scratched, but officials say it's not because of the controversy that was generated by its price tag.

The luncheon, which had been tentatively set for July 7 by the Metropolitan Toronto council, was canceled because the Queen Mother's departure from Toronto is planned for the same time, according to Walter Borosa, protocol officer for the Ontario government.

Alderman Tony O'Donohue hotly opposed the luncheon, complaining it would cost taxpayers about $50,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Elizabeth Taylor is battling bronchitis, the 49-year-old actress isn't about to let a 102-degree fever interfere with her Broadway debut tonight, according to a press agent.

Pat Dale, publicist for "The Little Foxes," a revival of the Lillian Hellman play previewing at the Martin Beck Theater, said the Wednesday matinee was canceled on the advice of Miss Taylor's doctor.

But Miss Taylor performed Wednesday night and was expected to perform at tonight's opening and the rest of the week despite the bronchial infection, Ms. Dale said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Secret Service agents and a Washington, D.C., police officer who were guarding President Reagan on the day he was shot in an assassination attempt will be honored by the New York City Police Department.

The three — Secret Service agents Tim McCarthy and Jerry Parr, and Police Officer Tom Delahante — will be inducted into the department's Honor Legion, which salutes officers who "faced imminent death" in a dangerous situation.

●

ATLANTA (AP) — Television comedian Junior Samples has been released from Northside Hospital after spending 10 days for treatment of hardening of the arteries, according to hospital officials.

Dr. Fred Bennett said Samples, a regular on the country music television show "Hee Haw" since 1969, was hospitalized April 27 after suffering chest pains.

He said the hefty actor was released from the hospital Wednesday.

Tests showed that Samples had not suffered a heart attack but coronary atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, Bennett said.

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Rita Jenrette says she regrets posing nude in Playboy magazine and will never do it again because "I have to establish my credibility now."

The estranged wife of former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., told students at Nassau Community College Wednesday that she did the nude layout "to get money for my husband's defense" against his conviction in the Abscam scandal.

"You will never see me take off a stitch of clothes again, not even a shoe," she added.

Mrs. Jenrette, 31, also told the students that her husband is asking her for alimony while living with another woman in Miami.

NEW YORK (AP) — The defendant, judge and jury members look like their real-life counterparts. The courtroom is precisely duplicated, down to the wall clock, judicial portrait and the "In God We Trust" inscription behind the bench.

NBC-TV's two-part dramatization tonight and Friday of Jean Harris' trial for the shooting of Scarsdale Diet developer Herman Tarnower doesn't depart from the trial transcript. Tarnower, Mrs. Harris' long-time lover and a millionaire cardiologist, is not portrayed.

But the lawyer for the former headmistress says the program shows a "blatant disregard for the rights of the defendant, whose case is still on appeal."

Corrections officials said Mrs. Harris, convicted of murder and sentenced to 15 years to life, would watch "The People vs. Jean Harris" in prison.

But her lawyer, Joel Aurnou, said she "vigorously opposes" the TV dramatization and contends any trial re-enactment will jeopardize her legal position.

He said neither he nor Mrs. Harris had consented to their portrayals by Martin Balsam and Ellen Burstyn and had not been consulted.

Because of her opposition, only those events that are a matter of public court record can be reproduced.

Thus there is no portrayal of the 69-year-old Tarnower, shot to death in the bedroom of his Purchase estate last year, no scene with Lynne Tryforos, the 37-year-old divorcee whose relationship with Tarnower allegedly drove Mrs. Harris to murder.

Paul Klein, the executive producer, said the trial re-enactment was drawn from actual testimony to show the "real drama," and that a courtroom artist and the trial stenographer both were used as consultants to aid in faithful reproduction.

The movie includes some of the duller moments of testimony about Tarnower's bullet wounds.

Omitted is the revelation by Tarnower's housekeeper that she kept diaries of his overnight female houseguests.

The movie begins with a portion of Mrs. Harris' testimony, which did not actually occur until two months into the trial.

"I simply wanted to get dying over with," Mrs. Harris says, explaining why she drove to Tarnower's home from The Madeira School for girls in McLean, Va., where she was headmistress.

She contended her lover of 14 years was shot by accident when he tried to prevent her suicide. The prosecution said she shot Tarnower in a jealous rage over his romance with Ms. Tryforos.

As the stylish defendant, Miss Burstyn wears silk and pearls, as did her real-life model. As Aurnou, Balsam is mostly confined to asking Mrs. Harris questions that elicit such emotional statements as "I was a person sitting in an empty chair." But he doesn't cry as Aurnou did at his client's words.

Peter Coyote as the young prosecutor, George Bolen, has the task of accusing the 58-year-old Mrs. Harris of being a liar.

Coyote's reading of the "Scarsdale Letter," in which Mrs. Harris vilifies her younger rival, is similar to Bolen's dead-pan reading of the document that jurors later said helped destroy Mrs. Harris' credibility.

Richard Dysart as trial judge Russell R. Leggett has copied Leggett's folksy dialogue.

Playboy bunnies protesting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The high heels make it hard to stand, the fluffy tails make it hard to sit down and the whole outfit makes it almost impossible to take a quick bathroom break, say some of the bunny dealers at the new Playboy Hotel & Casino.

And their bunny mother, who claims she is "fighting for my girls," has quit the hutch in protest.

Sandee Vogelson has resigned her post as bunny supervisor at Playboy's new $150 million, 500-room ,casino hotel on the Boardwalk.

Mrs. Vogelson contended her 148 bunny dealers have encountered serious problems in their first three weeks on the job, including occupational hazards springing from the scanty uniform that marks the Playboy bunny.

But Playboy spokeswoman Lori Teblum said Wednesday that Mrs. Vogelson's recent resignation was "a personal matter" not completely related to bunny concerns. Most xplayboy bunnies, Mrs. Teblum said, "are thrilled to be bunnies."

Mrs. Vogelson charged that Playboy bunnies who work as dealers are shivering in the chill of the air-conditioned, three-level casino. Pit bosses, she said, tell the women to "think warm."

Also, she said, bunny dealers are forced to work 10-hour shifts while bunny cocktail waitresses work only six hours.

Bunny dealers then must stand in high heels and cannot sit down correctly because of their fluffy tails, Mrs. Vogelson said.

Consequently, she said, many bunny dealers "ache all over" after work.

Rock group in concert

The Australian rock group Air Supply will make its West Texas debut at 8 p.m. Sunday at Chaparral Center. Tickets are now on sale in Midland at both Music Hauls, Endless Horizons and at Chaparral Center. They are on sale in Odessa at Flip Side and Endless Horizons. All seats are reserved.

'Dallas' ends season with a new cliffhanger

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The newest cliffhanger on CBS's "Dallas" is more of a "Who-Is-It?" than last year's whodunit involving the shooting of J.R.

Who is the dead woman Cliff Barnes found in the swimming pool at Southfork Ranch as J.R. looked down from the balcony?

There are at least six possibilities. J.R. Ewing spreads threats around the way most people say hello.

The larger-than-life prime-time serial, television's highest-rated series, ended its third full season last Friday with the new cliffhanger. Last year's mystery over who shot J.R. generated such world-wide interest that the solution broke all viewing records.

According to the A.C. Nielson Co., the latest "Dallas" episode had the highest ratings of the week.

The show had a rating of 32.9, which means of all the nation's homes with television, nearly one in three — 32.9 percent — saw at least part of the concluding episode, according to Nielsen. The figure represents 25.6 million homes.

Not only is the identity of the victim unknown, but so is the means of her death. Did she merely drown? Or was she murdered before being thrown into the pool? Was it suicide?

We do know that J.R. Ewing, played by Larry Hagman, is implicated in the death. After diving into the pool, Barnes looked up at J.R. on the balcony and said, "She's dead, you bastard!"

Here are the prime candidates for the lady in the pool:

—Sue Ellen Ewing, J.R.'s wife, played by Linda Gray. J.R. swore he would get her if she took their son from the ranch — and young John Ross is gone.

—Pamela Ewing, J.R.'s sister-in-law, played by Victoria Principal. J.R. also threatened her if she took John Ross. At the end of the episode a guard said she had taken the child.

—Leslie Stewart, J.R.'s mistress, played by Susan Flannery. She tried to nail J.R. at a State Senate hearing, but J.R. slipped out of the trap. J.R. was accused of spending $10 million to start a revolution in a Southeast Asian nation to regain control of his oil interests there.

—Kristen Shepard, the woman who shot J.R. last year, played by Mary Crosby. Kristen was trying to shake J.R. down for more money for their son, born of their illicit affair, but J.R. was resisting.

—Afton Cooper, Lucy's sister-in-law, played by Audrey Landers.

—Louella Lee, J.R.'s secretary, played by Meg Gallagher.

Tryouts are scheduled for Summer Mummers

Tryouts for the 1981 Summer Mummers will be held Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in the Redfern Room at Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. This year's performances will start July 3 in the Mummers' new home, the Yucca Theatre.

Sunday tryouts will be held at 3 p.m. while the Monday and Tuesday tryouts will be at 8 p.m. An additional day of tryouts is set for 3 p.m. May 17 for those interested in appearing in olios and blackouts.

Auditions to be a summer member of the Pickwick Players will be held at 1 p.m. May 30 in the Blakemore Room at Theatre Midland.

Students in the 7th through 12th grades are eligible and must prepare some demonstration of their theatrical talent or interest, such as a memorized poem, scene or other creative work.

Also, Midland Community Theatre's new assistant director, Ted Strickland, will be offering two acting classes during the summer.

They will be scheduled on Mondays and Tuesdays beginning June 1 and running through Aug. 4. The Monday night class is designed for the experienced actor who wishes to sharpen his skills and explore new techniques.

Each class will last approximately two hours, with a total of 10 classes over the summer. The cost is $25 for MCT members and $30 for nonmembers. Enrollment is limited.

For more information call the theater's business office at 682-2544.

String quartet to offer final concert of series

The final concert of the Thouvenel String Quartet series will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Allison Fine Arts Auditorium at Midland College.

Works to be presented include Debussy's "L'isle Joyeuse," Krenek's "Quartet No. 8" and Schumann's "Piano Quintet." Krenek's work was commissioned by the National Endowment for the Arts and written for the Thouvenel String Quartet.

Saturday night's performance will be the first preview performance of the Krenek "Quartet No. 8," which has its world premiere June 7 in New York City.

The quartet, returning this week from East Lansing where the members attended the Juillard Quartet Seminar, will be included on a CBS-TV feature of the seminar to be aired at the end of May on the Charles Kuralt Sunday Morning Show.

The featured artist Saturday will be Tokyo-born Shigeo Neriki, currently professor of piano at Indiana University. Neriki has been in the United States since 1971.

In 1974, he won the award for best accompanist at the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow.

In 1976, he won the Southwest Piano Foundation Competition in Tucson, Ariz. for which he received an opportunity to play with the Boston Pops under the late Arthur Fiedler. Impressed with Neriki's talent, Fiedler invited him to play in the Bicentennial concert in Boston for an audience of 400,000.

Shigeo Neriki

Since then, he won first prize in the Three Rivers Competition of Pittsburgh. He has performed with the Chicago Symphony, Pittsburgh Symphony, the National Symphony of Denver, Colo., and the National Symphony of Minnesota.

Neriki has toured throughout America, Europe and Japan since 1976 as recital partner with concert cellist Janos Starker.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Countdown begins for graduation day

Thirteen more school days for seniors! The countdown has begun. With all the last minute excitement, graduation will be here before you know it. Seniors, be sure to pick up a sheet on graduation activities from the office if you have not already done so.

Both Midland and Lee Youth Centers are busily getting ready for the fund-raising country and western concert this Saturday night. Entertainers Tom T. Hall and Bill Anderson will appear at Chaparral Center beginning at 8 p.m. Both are members of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry and host television series of country music.

Tickets to this concert are still available at Chaparral Center, both Music Hauls and Endless Horizons. So pull on your boots and cowboy hats and come on out for some "Grand Ole" fun!

Tuesday, the MHS girls golf team traveled to Austin for state playoffs. Team members Ann Coombs, Kelley Mobley, Janice Littlefield, Teresa King and Melissa Baldridge are working hard to walk off with the championship trophy. They have an excellent chance of doing just that after practicing and skillfully playing as much as they have this year. These girls owe much to the dedication of their coach Mary Baird who have done a tremendous job of urging them onto victory.

Baseball season for the 5-A teams this year has been rather slow due to the unexpected changes in the weather. But, the Bulldogs are doing fairly well with a tie with Lee for district champs in the second half. The team needs your support so come out and get in on the excitement and possibly a good suntan.

Senior wills are still being accepted by the journalism department. The cost is $2 per column inch and the deadline is May 11. These must be typed double spaced. This is a good time for seniors to tell it like it is, revenge an enemy, or let someone know how

Opree slates Saturday show

ODESSA — "Saddle Tramp" is the featured band for the upcoming Odessa Brand New Opree at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Globe of the Great Southwest. Also appearing on the Opree will be Elaine Miller, Larry Thiebuld, Martha Cooper, Billy Dowden and the Boulder River Band.

Admission is $3 for adults, $1.50 for students and senior citizens and $1 for children under 12. Tickets go on sale at the Globe box office at 7 p.m. Saturday.

A $10,000 grant from Atlantic Richfield Foundation and a matching grant from the National Endowment for the Arts will enable the Midland-Odessa Symphony and a former Odessan to present a premiere performance of "A Permian Symphony" at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Involved with the performance and grant are, from left, Bob Walker, ARCO business manager; Lynn Davis, co-chairman of the Midland-Odessa Symphony; John Ochsner, co-chairman of the Midland-Odessa Symphony; and Clarence Cardwell, vice president of the Permian district of ARCO.

Atlantic Richfield sponsoring symphony's season finale

Atlantic Richfield Foundation is sponsoring the world premiere of "The Permian Symphony," the final concert of the 1980-81 Midland-Odessa Symphony season, at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Monday's concert will be in Odessa at Permian High and Tuesday's performance will be in Midland at Lee High.

The foundation has donated more than $16,000 to the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, $10,000 of which has been applied to the Gifts and Matching Program of the Texas Committee for the Humanities. The $10,000 gift resulted in a $20,000 grant for the performance of this major composition, with text based upon the traditions and folklore of the Permian Basin.

Dorine (Cheryl Colson) tries to pull Valene (David Walton) away from Mariane (Jodi McElligott) in this scene from the upcoming Midland Community Theatre production of Moliere's "Tartuffe," which opens Friday. The play runs through May 23 in Theatre II. Reservations may be made by calling the box office at 682-4111 or by going by the theater at 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

MCT will stage comic masterpiece

The comic genius of one of France's greatest playwrights, Moliere, comes to life as Midland Community Theatre presents his comic masterpiece, "Tartuffe," Friday through May 23 in Theatre II of Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

The MCT production is directed by the theater's new assistant director, Ted Strickland.

Born Jean-Baptiste Poquelin, the son of an upholster, in 1622, Moliere refused to follow in his father's footsteps. At the age of 20 he joined a troupe of actors and took the name Moliere.

After touring the provincial towns of France for 16 years, the troupe finally received an invitation to perform at the Court of Versailles for King Louis XIV.

The play, "The Doctor in Love," was written, directed, choreographed and featured Moliere. It was such a hit that he quickly became the unofficial playwright for the king. During the next 15 years Moliere wrote 27 plays, most of them receiving their premieres at court with Louis XIV occasionally appearing in a minor role.

"Tartuffe" was first performed at the Court of Versailles in 1664. Focusing on a consumate con-man who uses religious piety as a means to usurp the wealth, position and even the wife of a wealthy nobleman, the play created an uproar. Those who found it perhaps too close to home succeeded in preventing a public performance of the play for five years.

However, when finally presented publicly in 1669, it was an instantaneous hit and quickly achieved the reputation as Moliere's comic masterpiece. It has been so popular that the name "Tartuffe" has become in many languages a synonym for the word "hypocrite."

According to Strickland, the production of "Tartuffe," which is funded in part by a grant from The Western Company, continues MCT's commitment to provide a broad range of the best that theater can provide.

Carnegie Hall has birthday bash

NEW YORK (AP) — Carnegie Hall gave itself a 90th birthday bash Tuesday night that it'll be hard pressed to top when it turns 100.

The New York Philharmonic played the same program that it played May 5, 1891, to inaugurate the hall. Then, Tchaikovsky conducted his festive "Marche solennelle" and Walter Damrosch conducted Berlioz' "Te Deum," Beethoven's "Leonore Overture, No. 3" and the opening piece, the hymn "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," followed by "America."

ENTERTAINMENT

At the 90th anniversary celebration, Zubin Mehta conducted it all, the Beethoven so beautiful and clear it pointed up, once again, the acoustics of this auditorium. "Te Deum" was impressive and loud. It uses so many instruments it even has two tubas, which gave the two players an unaccustomed task of blending with another tuba. They worked that out in rehearsals.

The Westminster Choir, Oratorio Society of New York and Brooklyn Boys Chorus also worked out smoothly blending their huge forces — so huge it took them 10 minutes to walk off stage at the concert's end.

After the hymn, a greeting from first lady Nancy Reagan and a proclamation from Mayor Edward I. Koch were read by Carnegie board chairman James D. Wolfensohn.

After the concert, 450 people went to an elaborate party under a tent set up in the parking lot next door. Beverly Sills and other music and society personalities were present but most interest was centered on newlyweds Gov. and Mrs. Hugh Carey, obviously enjoying dancing to the Michael Carney Orchestra.

There was a six-course dinner, with four wines, and mirrors and lilies-of-the-valley in the center of the round tables. Sparkle dust was sprinkled on the white floor and 1,000 slides of historical pictures taken in Carnegie Hall were shown on the white walls by four projectors. At midnight, Bobby Short hosted a 20-minute show by Broadway singers Gregory Hines, George Rose and Eartha Kitt.

Short sang new words to "You're the Top" — "At the top, in a studio dwelling," recalling when he lived in one of the apartments put in on the top floor in the 1890s to bring income to the hall.

Rose sang "Modern Major Gzneral," as he does in "The Pirates of Penzance" every night on Broadway, adding a new verse ending "This is the very model of a modern major Music Hall."

Carnegie Hall was named Music Hall from 1891 to 1894, when it was decided that sounded more like vaudeville than classical music. So it was renamed for Andrew Carnegie, who gave $2 million to build it.

Art exhibit to open

ROSWELL, N.M. — An exhibition of five contemporary Hopi Indian artists at the Roswell Museum and Art Center will open Sunday with a reception from 3 to 5 p.m.

The artists include Neil David, Delbridge Honanie, Michale Kabotie, Milland Lomakema and Terrance Talawaima. Some of the artists will be present at the opening to show slides and discuss their works.

The exhibit will be on display through June 14.

Marine band to perform

The United States Marine Band, directed by Lt. Col. John Bourgeois, will perform at Chaparral Center at 7:30 p.m. Oct 3.

This is the band that plays at all official functions for the President of the United States and is considered his official band.

The concert is being sponsored by the Marine Corps League, Permian Detachment. Additional details will be available late this summer.

Country concert slated

Country and western entertainers Tom T. Hall and Bill Anderson will perform in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday at Chaparral Center. The concert is the Midland-Lee Youth Centers' major fund raising event of the year.

Tickets may be purchased at area record stores and Chaparral Center.

Jazz concert slated

ODESSA — The Odessa College Jazz Ensemble will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Fine Arts Auditorium at OC.

Admission to the concert will be $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

Guest soloist will be Ashley Alexander, clinician, educator and jazz artist. Alexander is director of bands and jazz studies at Mt. San Antonio College at Walnut, Calif. He has recorded several selections and was nominated for a Grammy Award.

Alexander will conduct a brass clinic at 2 p.m. Saturday and an improvisation clinic at 3:30 p.m. Saturday. Both clinics are free to the public.

Following Saturday's performance, the public is invited to a reception for Alexander, hosted by Permian Distributing Inc., at the Coors Hospitality Center, Highway 80.

Art exhibit, sale to be presented

A special exhibition and sale of original oriental art work will be presented at Midland College Tuesday and Wednesday in the Allison Fine Arts Building's McCormick Gallery.

The show is being presented by Marson Ltd. of Baltimore, Md. This firm specializes in exhibiting for sale a collection of original oriental art totaling approximately 800 pieces from Japan, China, India, Tibet and Thailand. The show will be on display from noon to 4 p.m. Tuesday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Prices vary from $15 to $1,500. Marson Ltd. is an art dealership that specializes in arranging exhibitions and sales of original oriental art at colleges, universities and museums throughout the United States.

N. Ford Chapman and Stanley Moore, two electees to the Permian Basin Petroleum Museums's Hall of Fame, received certificates of election at the Hall of Fame dinner held Wednesday night at Greentree Country Club. Guest speaker for the event was H.E. "Eddie" Chiles, who began his oil career in the Permian Basin in 1939.

Four oil veterans honored at Hall of Fame Dinner

By CONNIE W. HARDING
Oil Staff

Four outstanding oil veterans were inducted into the Permian Basin Hall of Fame Wednesday night before an audience of more than 450 at the Permian Basin Museum Hall of Fame Dinner at Greentree Country Club.

The Petroleum Museum began recognizing electees to the Hall of Fame in 1968. Outstanding individuals in the Petroleum industry whose careers have contributed to the development of the oil and gas industry in the Permian Basin and whose characters or civic service have framed a worthwhile example for the industry are eligible for the honor.

A special committee chooses among names submitted by anyone and nominates no more than four who are then elected by the museum's volunteer boards.

This year's selection committee was chaired by Kenny Jastrow.

An audio-visual presentation "Four" recapped the career and personal lives of this years inductees to the Permian Basin Museum's Hall of Fame with family album pictures and memorabilia. Certificates were presented to the following four honorees and their families by Maurice Bullock, partner in the law firm of Bullock, Scott & Neisig and currently chairman of the museum's Borard of Executors:

N. Ford Chapman, Jr. who kept alive the art and lore of cable-tool drilling for oil, coupling the ancient skill with important discoveries in the Permian Basin.

Chapman drilled many wells for himself and found important fields in Reeves, Culberson and other counties.

An enthusiastic backer of civic projects, he was honored by the Schreiner Military Institute at Kerrville and supported the petroleum museum since it's beginning in 1967.

Jessee Clement Barnes did well in several fields before beginning his oil career in East Texas in 1936.

One year later he began a career as an explorer and producer in Midland.

He extended the Keystone Field in Winkler County and assisted in defining the TXL Field in Ector County.

Known as a pioneer and advocate of deeper drilling, he opened the Emperor Deep Field in the Permian Basin and portions of the Anadarko Basin in Oklahoma.

A 32nd degree Mason, he gave generouly of his time to civic and public causes and was active in his church.

Barnes died in Fort Myers, Florida in 1975 at the age of 83.

Charles Vernon Lyman was a successful wildcatter and producer in the Permian Basin.

He attended the Uiversity of Virginia and Sewanee and served in World War I.

He entered the Texas oil business in 1921 and opened fields in Winkler and other West Texas counties as well as in South Texas.

A true conservationist, he sought to save and use the tremendous amount of gas produced from his own wells when flaring was a common practice. His diverse personality was portrayed in his love of athletics and music.

He died in 1977 in Phoenix at the age of 83.

Stanley Moore attended Rice University in 1937, held several jobs and still had time to "court his wife" while finishing school. One writer said he "took a cut in pay" when he got his first engineering position with Hughes Tool.

Moore founded Drilco and built it's success on response to the technical needs of rig hands' complaints and suggestions. Drilco later became a part of Smith International.

Extremely generous, he has supported Rice University and many non-profit organizations in Midland.

Introduced by John F. Younger, H.E. "Eddie" Chiles, who began his oil career in the Permian Basin in Seagraves, Texas in 1939 with an oil well acidizing company boasting only two trucks, was special speaker. Chiles' company has grown into a lucrative million dollar a day operation with 13 rigs drilling offshore by contract.

"Politics and Petroleum", a discussion of the past, present and future of the Permian Basin oil industry, was his subject and Chiles touched onthe era of the mid-1950's and the petroleum boom during the Eisenhower administration.

The Basin saw 600 rigs working during that time, according to Chiles and "we see a similar period with 600 rigs again working in the Permian Basin, he added.

"The Bureaucrats must keep their hands off if this contry is ever to be secure again", said Chiles.

"We need to get rid of two DOEs", he said, "the Department of Energy, we can save $14 billion a year in waste and inefficiency and take 20,000 unemployed from that department for the army, and the Department of Education, which would save $10 billion and give us 12 or 15 thousand people for the navy.

With the DOE's out, we wouldn't have so many bucks going up there."

Chiles advocates the removal of Price controls and the Windfall Profits Tax, which must be done by Congress, in order to make possible new endeavors in infield drilling in the Permian Basin. He commented that the Permian Basin could then utilize tertiary recovery methods, test deeper sections, enter old wells and drill holes between wells and enter a new era of greatness.

Chiles also recommended that the government be purged of liberals and socialists, that federal lands be open for leasing and accessible to oil company's for extraction of the hoard of minerals, that these lands not be utilized and available to only "backpacking Hippies".

Chiles summed up his speech by recommending the 1982 election of conservatives and stating that he desires only three things:

"Guard our shores, deliver the mail on time and leave me alone."

Activities filed for Howard, Pecos counties

A field test has been announced in Pecos County and a completion reported in Howard County by the Texas Railroad Commission District 8 headquartered in Midland.

PECOS COUNTY

The Three-B Oil Co. of Monahans has announced plans to drill a 2,100-foot field test in the Payton field of

ENERGY
OIL & GAS

Pecos County, three miles south of Grandfalls.

The site is 7,637.6 feet from the south line and 330 feet from the west line of section 81, block 8 of the H&GN RR survey.

Location is 1,000 feet northeast of the No. 1 Atlantic, a dry and abandoned Mississippian (9,561 feet) and Devonian (10,506 feet) site, abandoned July 7, 1957 and just south of a Payton Pool Yates, South production unit.

HOWARD COUNTY

The McCann Corp. of Big Spring has announced the completion of a discovery well in Howard County, four miles southeast of Coahoma.

Producing from perforations made from 6,982 to 6,988 feet, fractured wth 5,500 gallons, the well is potentialed at 45 barrels of 35 gravity oil and 60 barrels of water. The gas to oil ratio is 1333 to 1.

Drilling topped the following formations from an elevation of 2,298 feet: Canyon Sand, 7,320; Strawn, 8,406, Mississippian, 8,618; Woodford, 8,768; and Fusselman, 8,801.

Total depth of the well is 8,900 feet with a 4 1/2 inch casing set at 7,915 feet and plugged back to 8,600 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the south line and 467 feet from the east line of section 19, block 30, T-1-S of the Texas and Pacific Railroad Co. survey.

Dual discovery announced in Nolan County

Parallel Petroleum Corporation of Midland has announced completion of an oil and gas discovery 26 miles south of Sweetwater in Nolan County.

The No. 1 H.P. Arledge flowed on an initial potential test at a rate of 384 barrels of 45.5 gravity oil and 441,000 cubic feet of gas per day through a 16/64 inch choke, tubing pressure 450 psi, with no water.

Production was through Ellenburger peforations from 7,165 feet to 7,180 feet acidized with 500 gallons.

The project was completed at a total depth of 7,192 feet with ground level elevation reported at 2,483.3 feet.

Other tops reported were the Coleman Junction 3,550 feet, Noodle Creek at 4,000 feet, Crystal Falls 4,400 feet, Breckenridge 4,675 feet and the Odom Lime at 6,650 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west of section 15, block 1-A, H&TC survey 26 miles south of Sweetwater.

The site is six miles south of the nearest Ellenburger production.

Kubiak pushes gasohol bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Dan Kubiak says his years of fervent fighting for gasohol will face a fierce test next week when his colleagues decide whether the fuel should be exempt from the gasoline tax.

Kubiak said Wednesday he would fight the watered-down version of his bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee and then will push his original bill.

Speaker Bill Clayton, who looked in on Kubiak's news conference, predicted House approval of the Kubiak version.

The Central Texas legislator says the gasohol industry will never get going in Texas if the state does not nudge it along by exempting the fuel from the five-cent per gallon tax. Twenty-seven other states exempt gasohol from the tax.

Gasohol is a mix of 10 percent alcohol and 90 percent gasoline.

Kubiak, D-Rockdale, wants gasohol to be tax exempt until it is competitive with gasoline.

"We will either allow Texas to get into production of gasohol on a major scale or we will not have it at all in this state," he said.

The Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, was hostile to the bill, he said.

The Texas Good Roads Association has opposed the bill because it fears the tax exemption would cut road funds.

Dist. 7-C reports wildcats, finals

Tom Green County drew two wildcat locations, confirmers were finaled in Schleicher and Upton counties along with a stike reported in Runnels County in District 7-C of the Texas Railroad Commission.

TOM GREEN COUNTY

Ike Lovelady Inc. of Midland will drill the No. 2 Weatherford as a 5,200-foot wildcat in Tom Green County, 1.2 miles east of Veribest.

The location is one location north of its No. 1 Weatherford, a Strawn oil discovery, finaled May 5, 1981.

Drillsite is 660 feet from the north and east lines of section 2216 of the F.W. Schultz survey.

****

Daniel Oil Co. of Houston will drill the No. 5 E.H. Jones "A", a 5,500-foot wildcat, eight miles southwest of San Angelo in Tom Green County.

Location is 1,400 feet west of the southwest corner of the J. Jung No. 888 survey and 840 feet north to location in the M.J. Fernandez No. 100 survey.

SCHLEICHER COUNTY

The Eldorado, South (Canyon) field of Schleicher County gained its fourth Canyon producer, two miles southwest of Eldorado.

Designated the No. 1 Green, Jack Huff of Midland completed the well for a calculated absolute open flow of 120,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with a gas to liquid ratio of 120,000 to 1.

Production was gained through perforations made from 6,348-6,457 feet acidized with 3,500 gallons and 115,000 pounds of sand.

Location is 467 feet from the south and east lines of section 106, block A of the HE&WT survey.

UPTON COUNTY

The Willrode (Cisco and multipay Strawn) field of Upton County gained its current second Cisco producer with the McCann Corp. of Big Springs No. 1 McElroy, 13 miles northwest of Rankin.

Producing from perforations made from 9,007 to 9,181 feet acidized with 3,000 gallons, the well is flowing 298 barrels of 40 gravity oil, no water, with a gas to oil ratio of 980 to 1.

Wellsite is 467 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of section 140, block E of the CCSD&RGNG survey.

RUNNELS COUNTY

Clear Fork Inc. of Abilene has completed as an upper Gardner discovery its No. 1 Williams six miles south of Lawn in Runnels County.

Producing from perforations made from 4,097 to 4,105 feet acidized with 500 gallons and fractured with 10,500 gallons, the well is potentialed to pump 24 barrels of 40 gravity oil plus one barrel of water. The gas to oil ratio is 667 to 1.

The well was drilled to 4,895 feet with a 4 1/2 inch casing set at 4,889 feet and plugged back to 4,874 feet.

The location is 467 feet from the north line and 1,320 from the west line of the L.D. Counts No. 2 survey (Abstract 1369).

MC offering new round of defense driving courses

In an effort to assist motorists who feel a sense of apprehension about other motorists, Midland College periodically offers a three-evening short course in Defensive Driving. For those who cannot attend classes during the week, the college also offers the course on the second Saturday of the month during May, June and July.

"Our next Saturday course begins May 9, and the week-night course begins May 12," noted James Bramlett, director of the MC Department of Community Services. "I believe that defensive driving is one of the most effective courses we schedule. It's in such demand that we hold it more often during the year than any other course in our short course curriculum."

Bramlett pointed out that the defensive driving course differs from the regular MC Drivers Education course. "Defensive driving is for the already-experienced driver. What we emphasize here is sophisticated defensive technique."

Bramlett explained that many students seem to feel that driving a car is becoming a battle for survival. "It is no longer a matter of getting behind the wheel and turning on the ignition," he said. "Drivers need to know how to spot a difficulty before it becomes a situation, how to handle the unexpected, and how to react and maneuver in a tight situation. This is what we are teaching in the defensive driving course."

Participating students learn through a series of audio-visual displays, instructor lectures and filmed re-creations of accidents which are followed by discussions and analysis.

The course is open to new students as well as to those wishing to renew their certificates for auto insurance discounts. It is limited to 35 students accepted on a first-come basis.

Hours for Saturday's course are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m., May 9.

Hours for the upcoming week-night course are 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, May 12-14. Course fee on either is $15.

Because the number of students which can be accepted is limited, Bramlett suggests early pre-registration. This may be completed now in room 156 of the MC Administration Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. The office is open during the lunch hour.

More information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

MMH plans health fair during Hospital Week

Midland Memorial Hospital, in conjunction with National Hospital Week, will sponsor Health Fair 1981 May 16 at Midland Park Mall.

The Health Fair will feature free blood pressure screening, a free pulmonary functions study, free blood typing and free glucose screening. There also will be free information available on hepatitis, tuberculosis and immunization requirements for children and adults.

A CPR exhibit with Resusci-Annie will include information on public classes. Information on cancer risk factors and an explanation of how to do a self-examination for breast cancer will also be a part of the fair.

In addition, shoppers can get a look inside an ambulance and see what a cigarette can do to lung tissue.

Critical care, emergency, obstetrics, physical therapy, radiology, recovery and surgery departments of the hospital will be represented at the mall.

OC radiology students place

ODESSA — Odessa College radiologic students took second place in a statewide contest sponsored by the Texas Society of Radiologic Technologists last weekend.

Placing second in the state "prep bowl" were OC students Jerry Sutphen, Sven Phillips and Beth Hughes, all of Odessa.

The team was coached by Sue Leach, X-ray instructor at OC. Kay Flood serves as program director and associate professor of radiologic technology at the college.

ANNOUNCING THE GRAND FINALE OF THE CHERBOURG CRYSTAL OFFER.

THE LAST WORD IN ELEGANCE FROM MIDLAND NATIONAL BANK.

HERE IS YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY TO ACQUIRE THIS FINE CRYSTAL AT A VERY LOW PRICE.

Sooner or later, all good things must come to an end. So it should come as no surprise that after May 29, the Cherbourg crystal collection will no longer be available at Midland National.

And that is truly a pity. For the crystal of Cherbourg is most remarkable. Crafted in France from 24% lead crystal, the Cherbourg collection is, both in form and in function, a superb example of especially fine crystal.

Remember. The day is soon coming when you will not be able to profit from this incredible offer.

So take the time now to acquire or complete your collection of Cherbourg leaded crystal. Because after May 29, your time will be up. And our crystal will be gone.

A FITTING END TO A REMARKABLE OFFER FROM MIDLAND NATIONAL BANK.

From now through May 29, each $50 deposit in your Midland National savings account will enable you to buy a matched pair of Cherbourg French leaded crystal for only $6.95 (plus sales tax).

So do come soon to Midland National Bank. See the lovely Cherbourg collection. And take advantage of a wonderful offer that, unfortunately, won't last forever.

Lopez Portillo blasts U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — In a veiled attack on the United States, President Jose Lopez Portillo lashed out at enemies of Nicaragua who he said are seeking "in the name of democracy" to destroy a democratic country.

Welcoming the leader of Nicaragua's Sandinista National Liberation Front, Daniel Ortega, the Mexican president accused the Reagan administration Wednesday night of promoting an international public opinion campaign aimed at destabilizing the leftist government of Nicaragua.

Ortega, coordinator of Nicaragua's ruling junta, flew here Wednesday to meet with Lopez Portillo. Diplomatic sources said he was looking for ways to offset U.S. pressure on his nation.

"The campaign against Nicaragua is carried out in the name of democracy," Lopez Portillo said. "It is no small paradox that it proposes the destruction of a democratic regime."

The Reagan administration has accused the Sandinista government of allowing Soviet arms shipments to be funneled through Nicaragua to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador. It also warned that Nicaragua could be used as a Communist foothold in Latin America.

Lopez Portillo, who is scheduled to meet with President Reagan in Washington next month, ridiculed "the expedient of presenting Nicaragua as a transcendent domino in a vast conspiracy to destroy Western democracy."

"A false idea does not become true if it is repeated millions of times," he said, "but its repetition stereotypes it as a propaganda formula that fulfills determined political objectives.

"Mexico will be consistent with its principles and compromises — Mexico will defend as its own the cause of Nicaragua."

Bishop asks Kennedy for help

BOSTON (AP) — The acting Roman Catholic archbishop of El Salvador has asked U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to use his "position in the Congress" to see that military aid to the war-torn country is stopped.

Bishop Rivera y Damas, quoted in today's Boston Globe, asked the Massachusetts Democrat in a letter to work toward a "process of dialogue that will bring about a just and peaceful solution to the present conflict and violence."

Kennedy responded to the bishop Wednesday, promising to "do all that I can" to halt U.S. military aid, the newspaper said.

Suzuki to discuss Japan's defense

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki are holding two days of talks that U.S. officials hope will lead Japan to take more responsibility for its own defense and help guard sea lanes from an expanding Soviet navy.

Officially a get-acquainted session, the meeting opening today was intended "to set the framework" for more intense and detailed talks at lower levels.

Hours before Suzuki's arrival in Washington on Wednesday, an administration official characterized recent Japanese defense spending trends as "healthy" but nonetheless contended that if faced with a full-scale attack Japan probably could not mount a credible defense.

The official emphasized that Japan is not being asked to replace American forces in the Far East or to take on a high visibility military assignment contrary to the anti-war provisions of its constitution or to the traditions that have developed since the end of World War II.

Rather, he said, the United States seeks Japanese recognition of the increasing seriousness of the strategic threat from the Soviet Union and help to meet that threat by increasing surveillance over some of the vital sea lanes in the North Pacific.

He said the United States would like to see that coupled with a beefed up defense of the Japanese homeland and increased Japanese assistance to the economies of other nations important to the non-communist world.

"A larger Japanese maritime self-defense force would be an appropriate measure," said the official, who spoke with reporters on the understanding he not be identified.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger recently asserted that the United States spends six times more than Japan to keep Far Eastern defenses strong and that Japan must spend more on defense than the current rate of 1 percent of its gross national product.

"It's no secret that it would be far preferable from the point of view of American officials to see that rate gradually increase to reflect a recognition of the increased threat," the U.S. official said.

He said he couldn't "hold out much hope" that the Suzuki visit will produce instant or concrete decisions.

A prime purpose for the meeting, he said, is to give Reagan and Suzuki an opportunity to establish a personal relationship.

"The visit is important from a psychological point of view and it is fully assumed its principal objective will be harmony," the official said.

After his arrival Wednesday afternoon, Suzuki met with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery.

During his stay, Suzuki also was scheduled to meet with Haig, Vice President George Bush and members of the House and Senate foreign affairs committees.

In addition to defense, topics high on the agenda are the problems caused by Japanese auto and high-technology exports to the United States and Japanese displeasure over the administration's handling of the decision to end the U.S. grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

Also expected to be discussed are the recent sinking of a Japanese freighter in a collision with an American nuclear submarine, long-range energy programs, relations with China and American efforts to round up contributions to the shaky economies of Turkey and other countries.

The auto import issue, long a point of contention among beleagured U.S. automakers, apparently will not be a dominating factor in the sessions because Japan recently agreed to reduce imports and thus made it unlikely that Congress would set mandatory import quotas.

The agreement called for an import cutback of 7.7 percent for one year, with a promise to re-examine the situation next year in the light of the performance of the U.S. auto industry.

Japanese car manufacturers, who last year sold 1.82 million cars in the United States, had resisted the reduction. They charged that the Japanese government had yielded to pressure in hopes of eliminating the issue as a cause for controversy at the meeting between Reagan and Suzuki.

Khadafy changes sides in Chad's civil war

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy has withdrawn military support for Chadian President Goukouni Oueddi six months after helping him win a civil war and has backed a new challenger for power, kindling 10 days of fresh fighting, reports from Chad said.

Military analysts say Libya has kept an estimated 12,000 troops in Chad, its southern neighbor, since intervening on Goukouni's side last December against forces led by former Defense Minister Hissene Habre.

Khadafy backed Goukouni because the president permitted Libyan annexation of the uranium-rich Aouzo strip in northern Chad. A conflict arose, however, when Goukouni loyalists urged the withdrawal of the Libyan troops along with an unspecifed number of Soviet, East German and Cuban military advisers.

The Libyan leader, who recently returned from a trip to Moscow, is now backing Goukouni's former foreign minister, Ahmat Acyl.

Chadian diplomats familiar with the power struggle said the Libyans backed Goukouni on the premise he had significant military support when he took over. Acyl, described as "totally loyal to Khadafy," was kept as "the ultimate pawn on tap in case Goukouni should turn against them," the diplomats said.

Khadafy announced Jan. 6 he planned to merge Libya with Chad, the North African desert country's neighbor to the south. "If Acyl takes over, the planned merger with Libya will most probably be consummated," one well-informed source said.

Diplomatic sources in Sudan, which shares borders with both countries, said Wednesday about 70 Soviet-backed Libyan troops have been killed fighting Chadian troops who objected to "the heavy Soviet and Libyan presence in Chad."

They said the fighting broke out April 27 in the eastern city of Abeche, where the airport has been expanded to accommodate MiG-23 fighter jets, radar installation and a broadcasting station directed at Sudan and the Central African Republic.

Refugees are coming out of Abeche into Sudan "in large numbers," Western relief sources in Sudan said.

Earlier reports from Chadian travelers arriving in Cameroon said 100 people had been killed in Abeche.

Paper hits artistic freedom

PEKING (AP) — China's army newspaper has launched its second attack on a famous military playwright, and literary sources said the articles indicated disagreement in the Communist Party over the limits of artistic freedom.

Three critical articles appeared in the Liberation Army Daily this week, in the latest round of a literary tempest over the film "Unrequited Love."

Chinese literary sources said the criticism in the restricted circulation army paper would not be reprinted by leading newspapers because they oppose the army's position.

The paper called the script by Bai Hua "a distortion of fact" that "injures people who love the motherland."

The story concerns the plight of a Chinese painter who returns from abroad, where he had lived in relative luxury, only to be persecuted to death during China's 1966-76 Cultural Revolution. It was made into a movie which was withdrawn from distribution last March because of attacks in the military press.

The journal's latest criticism was more temperate than its initial review, which accused Bai Hua of being "anti-party and anti-people." This time the daily merely accused him of lacking "any sense of political responsibility."

The army publication objected to Bai Hua's contention that intellectuals find greater freedom of expression abroad than in China.

"Quite a few of our comrades in the army became indignant," ith said. "This is a bizarre and ridiculous story created at the whim of the author."

The article concluded that democracy in the arts never should be used as an excuse to oppose China's Communist Party.

EASTMAN WHIPSTOCK...

LEADERS IN DIRECTIONAL DRILLING

We're the first, the largest, and the best!

The first deviated relief well was guided by John Eastman in 1934. In 1972, almost forty years later Eastman merged with Whipstock Incorporated, its major competitor. As a subsidiary of Petrolane Incorporated, Eastman Whipstock is still growing and pioneering new technology in directional drilling. The following is a career opportunity available at Eastman Whipstock.

DIRECTIONAL DRILLER TRAINEES: Our Midland district operation has an immediate need for directional driller trainees. Specific requirements for the positions include a minimum of 2 years drilling rig experience and deep hole drilling experience below 15,000 feet. On site training will encompass utilization of Eastman Whipstock's tools and specialized directional drilling concepts.

Interested and qualified applicants should contact: Dick Giffhorn or Ray Warner at P.O. Box 5577, Midland, Texas 79704, (915) 563-0511. If unable to contact the aforementioned, please call the Houston headquarters, Steve Pitt, at (713) 741-2200. An equal opportunity employer, m/f.
