History project quizzed

The construction of a bandstand to be located south of the Scurry County courthouse has been questioned by the Texas Historical Commission, but representatives of the local historical group say they feel the inquiry is only a misunderstanding.

Regarding this, they note plans to construct the facility are moving ahead as planned.

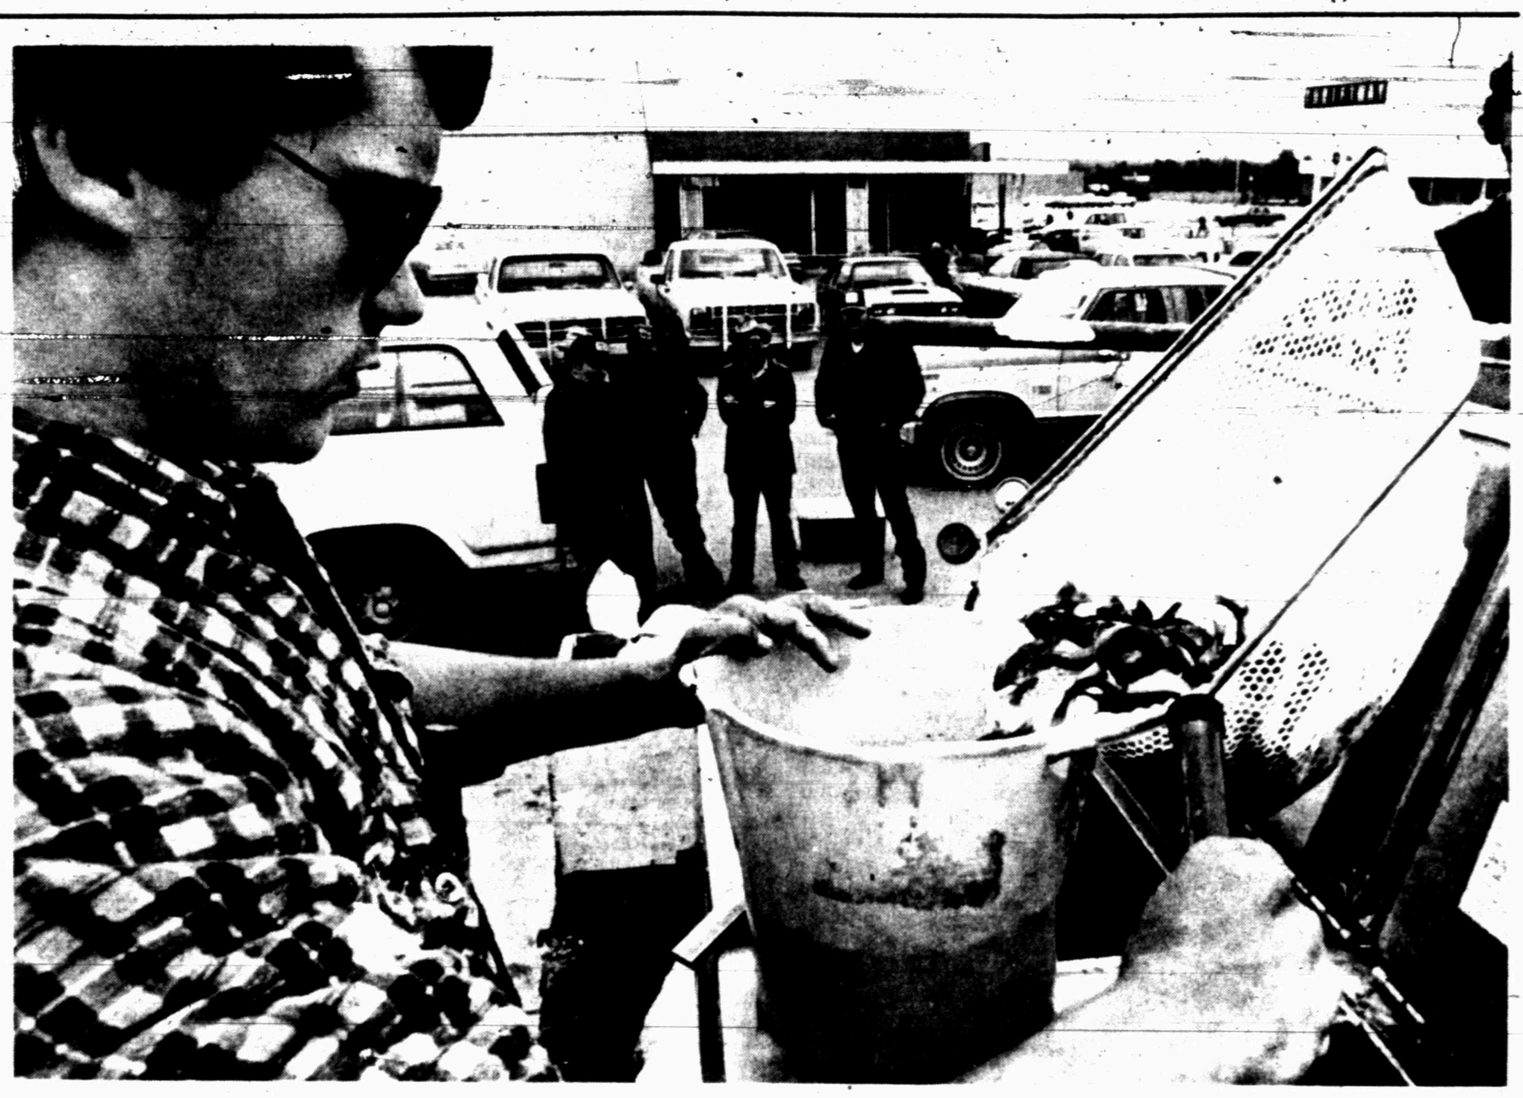

The Scurry County Historical Commission received a letter from the state entity noting that projects such as the bandstand must receive approval at the state level before actual construction can begin.

But Rodger Sullenger, president of the county commission, says he thinks the state is under the assumption that the bandstand is an existing historical structure.

"The letter indicated that all projects involving historic courthouses have to be approved by the Texas Historical Commission," Sullenger said.

"I think they've gotten the idea that we're going to fixup a bandstand already there. Besides, our School urges...

April transfers to avoid tuition

Students who do not reside in the Snyder Independent School District but wish to attend Snyder public schools during the 1985-86 school year must transfer during the month of April to avoid payment of tuition fees.

Those failing to file for student transfers prior to April 30 will be charged a tuition fee based upon the state per capita allocation — the amount of money the district is reimbursed per student.

For next school year, this amount will be $500 or $250 per semester.

To file for transfers, parents should come to the school administration building at 2901 37th St. during regular office hours, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

School offices will be closed Friday and Monday for the Easter holiday, however.

After UIL district meet...

One SHS entrant advances

Snyder High School had only one UIL contest entrant advance from the district meet concluded here Saturday.

Robyn Fambro, a sophomore at SHS, placed second in prose interpretation. She will now compete at regional scheduled April 12-13 at Howard Payne University in Brownwood.

Snyder also qualified four entrants to first alternate positions, a fourth place finish in their respective contests. These students could advance to regional if any of the top three finishers are unable to.

Finishing as first alternates were Brad Vincent in persuasive speaking; Shannon Lunsford in prose interpretation; Missy Trull in editorial writing; and Cindy Martinez in typewriting.

The second place finish by Fambro contributed 10 points toward the SHS total of 58 earned at the meet. The SHS one-act play, a winner last Tuesday, contributed the remaining 48 points — 35 for the play itself and 13 for individual performances.

If the Snyder production of "Romeo and Juliet" advances from area competition, due Friday in Worsham Auditorium, it will also compete at the regional event in Brownwood.

Overall winner of the District 2-AAAA UIL Literary Meet was Andrews High School. The point total by schools was Andrews, 160 points; Pecos, 108; Lake View, 105; Sweetwater, 85; Snyder, 58; Lamesa, 55; Monahans, 55; Fort Stockton, 13; Midland Lee, 5; and Midland Freshman, 0.

—Lincoln-Douglas debate: Kevin Vernon, Andrews; Jeff Nichols, Monahans; Mary McKeowan, Midland Lee; Tim Beech, Lake View (first alternate).

—Informative speaking: Rhonda Tomlinson, Lake View; Leighton Moren, Andrews; April

U.S. seeking Japanese concessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — With protectionist sentiment in Congress boiling, the Reagan administration is making last-ditch efforts to convince Japan to open its markets to U.S. goods.

President Reagan dispatched personal envoys over the weekend to urge Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone to help reduce growing U.S.-Japan trade tensions.

Meanwhile, a Japanese Foreign Ministry official quoted Nakasone as saying his government will announce a package of market-opening measures on April 9.

Today, Japan is, in effect, ending its government-owned telephone monoply, and officials from both countries have been trying to negotiate regulations that would open the Japanese telecommunications market to American companies.

Administration officials, members of Congress and others have said the outcome of the telecommunications negotiations will be a standard by which to measure Japanese willingness to open its markets for other goods.

In addition, a five-year "voluntary" agreement that limited Japanese automobile exports to the United States expired Sunday and the Japanese have said they plan to boost those exports by 25 percent.

Before the agreement expired, Reagan had declined to ask Japan to renew those voluntary restraints that had limited annual auto shipments to the United States to 1.85 million cars.

Gaston Sigur, a National Security Council member specializing on Japanese issues, met Nakasone in Tokyo on Sunday and delivered a letter from Reagan to underline U.S. concern that Congress will enact stringent protectionist measures if Japan does not remove its obstacles to U.S. products. Sigur arrived in Tokyo Saturday night with Lionel H. Olmer, under secretary of commerce for international trade.

Last Thursday, the Senate voted 92-0 in favor of a nonbinding resolution urging Reagan to impose quotas and tariffs if Japan does not lower trade barriers. Binding measures also have been introduced.

Sigur said "some progress was made toward solving problems" when Morio Koyama, Japanese vice minister of posts and telecommunications, met Olmer and other officials in Washington last week.

Friday one-acts scheduled

The schedule of performances for Friday's area UIL one-act play contest was announced Monday.

The competition will begin at 1:30 p.m. at Worsham Auditorium with Levelland High School's production of "Close Ties."

It will be followed by Lubbock Dunbar High's production of "The Diary of Adam and Eve" at approximately 2:15 p.m.

The third performance will be Pecos High's production of Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" at about 3:05 with Snyder High School's "Romeo and Juliet" to finish the competition at approximately 4 p.m.

The Levelland and Dunbar productions were both declared winners of the District 1-AAAA contest last Tuesday while Snyder and Pecos advanced from District 2-AAAA competition held here the same day.

EMULSION SPRAYING UNDERWAY — City of Snyder street maintenance crews began their annual spraying of oil-based emulsion on city streets last week. As of Monday morning, work on the project had been halted due to broken spraying equipment. Work is expected to resume later in the week following equipment repairs. (SDN Staff Photo)

Swimming pool fee increased

An increase in swimming pool use fees was approved Monday by Scurry County commissioners for the Towle Park facility.

For youngsters under age 18, the daily fee will go from 35 cents to 60 cents. For adults, the fee will go from 75 cents to $1.25.

Parks Superintendent Jimmy Ward told the court that the pool operated last summer at a $13,000 deficit. He estimated total expenses at some $20,000 with revenue generated from use fees totaling some $7,000.

Ward also noted there has been no increase in the pool charge for the past six years.

The wading pool for children age 5 and under is still free to the public.

Commissioners also approved purchasing two typewriters for the county attorney's office and appointed Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. to the county post on the

Duarte's party claims victory

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte's Christian Democrats claimed they wrested control of the National Assembly from a right-wing coaltion in elections conducted in a festive atmosphere and marred by only scattered violence.

An independent broadcasting company said an exit poll it commissioned backed the Christian Democrats' claim. However, the conservative opposition said it had won a large majority in Sunday's balloting for 60 members of the assembly and 262 mayors.

Western observers doubted the accuracy of both claims of victory. Actual results of the election were not expected until mid-week.

Scattered violence by leftist rebels who have been fighting the U.S.-backed government for more than five years did not disrupt the voting.

A firefight broke out late Sunday between government soldiers and rebels in and around a remote hamlet in Chalatenango Province, about 62 miles north of the capital. An army spokesman said about 150 government troops were engaged in the battle at San Fernando, a village near the border with Honduras.

The military press office in San Salvador said the fighting lasted at least six hours. It said one soldier was killed and 10 were wounded, but gave no casualty figures for the rebels.

The Spanish International Network, a Spanish-language broadcasting company with 250 affiliated television stations in the United States and Latin America, said an exit poll it commissioned indicated the Christian Democrats had won. It said war zones and places where guerrilla activity is strong were among areas where Duarte's party did well.

At a news conference late Sunday night, jubilant Christian Democrat leaders claimed victory and said they will have a clear majority in the National Assembly. However, they declined to say how many seats they thought they would fill.

Alejandro Duarte, son of the president and the mayor of San Salvador, said the Christian Democrats won 41 of the 50 cities in which votes had been tabulated, including Santa Ana, the country's second largest city.

Roberto d'Aubuisson's Nationalist Republican Alliance, a conservative party known as ARENA, sharply disputed the Christian Democrat claims, saying its coalition had defeated Duarte's party by a margin of almost two to one.

Most observers believed that was unlikely, and diplomats from four Western countries contacted by reporters said their observations led them to doubt the size of the reported Duarte victory.

U.S. ag continues to outdo Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest figures show the United States continues to lead the Soviet Union in agricultural efficiency, although the Soviets dominate in the production of some commodities.

According to recent Agriculture Department reports, for example, Soviet milk production this year is expected to increase again to about 99 million metric tons from 97.6 million last year.

In the United States, which is plagued by dairy surpluses, production also is expected to increase, possibly to 62.5 million tons from 61.4 million tons in 1984.

But the difference, according to the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, is that the Soviet Union's milk supply will come from 43.5 million cows, while U.S. milk production will be from about 10.8 million cows.

In other words, the Soviets will use quadruple the cows to produce only about one-third more milk than American dairy farmers.

While not a new development, the productivity superiority of the United States over the Soviet Union shows little indication of narrowing significantly. Grain production is a classic example.

In 1984, the Soviet Union after decades of exhortation and planning, had another poor year because of weather problems. Total grain production, according to USDA estimates, was about 170 million tons. That was down from 195 million tons in 1983, a relatively good year in the Soviet Union.

The 1984 U.S. total grain harvest was 312 million tons, up sharply from 206 million tons in 1983 when drought and government acreage curbs reduced production.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Osteoporosis can affect jaw

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Five years ago I had a complete hysterectomy. My dentist has noted some bone loss in my jaw and I think I can detect the beginning of a "dowager's hump." My doctor says that hormones might pose a risk of breast cancer. I'm 67. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER — Whether you need estrogen or not depends on whether you have a deficiency. You probably do, since bone loss in the jaw, around the roots of the teeth, often is a sign of osteoporosis (dissolving bones). When a dentist sees this condition, he should ask the patient to see a physician about it. Also, when a patient has osteoporosis, a physician should be sure that the patient's dentist knows about the condition.

Women who smoke are more likely to lose teeth than are non-smokers, since cigarette smoking increases osteoporosis.

The dowager's hump in the middle of the back is common and is caused by the loss of bone from the vertebrae. The vertebrae become wedge-shaped, which causes the curving and the loss in height.

Regardless of a woman's age, if she has osteoporosis, she can benefit from preventive treatment. This can help to prevent fractures and progression of the disease.

Estrogen taken by postmenopausal women does not cause breast cancer. There has been a lot of controversy about this, but that is the thrust of recent reports from the national Centers for Disease Control. It is also the conclusion of a large study of 1,610 women with breast cancer, conducted by the Boston University School of Medicine. Ask your doctor to read this report in the Journal of the American Medical Association (vol. 252, p. 63, 1984), which summarizes that study. You also could increase your calcium intake to help slow the bone loss.

To update you on how to manage or prevent osteoporosis, I am sending you The Health Letter, Special Report — 24, Osteoporosis: Porous Bones. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a painful foot condition that two doctors have diagnosed as a tumor of the nerve ending. I am reluctant to have this removed surgically, since a friend who had this done said the operation was very expensive and the condition returned within a year. Is this a newly discovered ailment? Is surgery the only solution? Do these tumors ever disappear without treatment?

DEAR READER — The drawing you sent suggests the typical location for a tumor of the nerve (neuroma) between the bones that join the toes (metatarsal bones). The ends of these bones sometimes rub together and create friction and pressure on the nerve. The nerve responds by forming a neuroma. When the neuroma is squeezed, such as by the shoe or by grasping the front of the foot with the hand, it may cause pain from pressure on the neuroma. This is a well-known and long-recognized ailment. Injections can induce temporary relief. A modification of the shoe (inserting a quarter-inch metatarsal bar at the outside of the shoe) may provide relief. Otherwise the neuroma may require removal. However, a proper shoe is still important to prevent a recurrence after surgery.

Jewish marchers in Austin protest Soviet oppression

AUSTIN (AP) — Between 150 and 200 Austin Jews have marched three miles in protest of the Soviet Union's oppression of the Jewish race.

The marchers, from toddlers to retirees, carried protest signs Sunday bearing slogans such as "Free Soviet Jewry," "To Be Silent is to Forget," and "Let Our People Go."

Marcher Linda Greenberg said participants also carried a long white paper chain that symbolized the bondage of Soviet Jews.

"The march is symbolic because Passover is coming up, and that's when we celebrate our release from bondage," she told the Austin American-Statesman.

Passover begins Friday. The celebration is an eight-day holiday commemorating the deliverance of the Hebrews from Egyptian slavery.

"The importance of this occasion is that our children learn what it is like to be Jews in this world and to be free in this world," said Jeff Friedman, former Austin mayor.

Soviet Jews are living under the reign of a "modern day Pharoah," said Rabbi Cary Kozberg, director of the Hillel Foundation at the University of Texas.

He said Jews in the Soviet Union are harassed and fired from their jobs.

As the group marched from Temple Beth Israel to Congregation Agudas Achim for a rally, passers-by gave them curious, perplexed looks.

Laboratory develops new lighting systems

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Life on Earth would be impossible to sustain without light. Yet, an understanding of how to employ lighting for optimum visual clarity is at rather a low level in which untested observations and prejudices are the rule.

The days of guess work appear to be numbered, however, since lighting designers are beginning to systematically test their practices in the lighting laboratory. Though there are only a few such laboratories, their use is expected to grow.

One of the newest lighting laboratories is at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City. The lab was designed by Douglas Baker and opened in 1983. Installed in a ceiling grid in the 1,800-square foot room are examples of many of the lighting fixtures now available. The lights are run by a computer program (also developed by Baker) and can be turned on and off by computer to demonstrate the differences between incandescent, fluorescent and high intensity discharge lights.

A lighting laboratory is a far cry from a home or office. A stark room whose ceiling is open to reveal the type of electrical connections and mounting necessary for the various fixtures, the laboratory is an almost disturbingly ugly room. Along the sides of the large barn-like room lean panels of various textures and colors.

In one area, small boxes line a wall; each is covered with an identical piece of printed fabric, and a different type of light can be shone into each box. This makes it possible to demonstrate the effects of light on colors.

Despite its lack of visual appeal, this room helps professional designers study the effect of light, which will in turn lead to more comfortable, efficient and beautiful living and working spaces.

The lab is used to train design students at the school. It is also the setting for seminars for working professionals. Recently, for example, it accommodated working designers and architects in a two-day course presented by Alexander F. Styne, an industrial designer who is currently an instructor at the University of Miami on the subject of lighting and color.

Styne and the designers considered how to enlist what is currently known about the ways in which human beings see to improve the lighting in public and private spaces. He told the designers fluorescent lights and high intensity discharge lights (such as metal halide and high pressure sodium lamps) are likely to become the workhorses of design in the future. Incandescent light with which we are most comfortable in the home is too inefficient to continue as the lighting of choice as energy costs continue to rise.

With the resources of the laboratory, the students were able to compare the effect of incandescent light with various formulations of fluorescent lighting within the same room. The demonstration indicated that deluxe warm-white fluorescent light comes closest to reproducing the effects of incandescent light among the widely available types of fluorescent bulbs.

An even better type of fluorescent is what Styne called a triphospher bulb. It has been manufactured under different trade names, such as "Ultralume." The bulb is widely used in Western Europe, but is not well-known in the United States, according to Styne. It is quite costly compared to other fluorescent bulbs.

Tripping over your own feet

By James Jacoby

Is it possible that having too many high cards in dummy may have a hypnotic effect? That seemed to be the case in today's deal, when declarer inexplicably defeated himself in a slam contract that was easy to make.

On West's opening lead of the diamond seven, the 10 was played from dummy, East played the queen and declarer took the ace. The slam could certainly not be made on a crossruff, so South naturally pulled trump. He played a club to dummy, and then another of dummy's high clubs. Only then did he stop to wonder how he was going to make the hand. Eventually he cashed the spade ace, came to his hand with the club ace and took a spade finesse. He later lost to the king of hearts.

The right play is really simple. At trick two, South should play a heart to the queen. If West happens to hold the heart king, declarer will either win the trick with the queen, or at least establish a parking place for the jack of spades.

Although it is right to draw the opponents' little trumps before they can do any damage, there can be an overriding consideration. On this deal, pulling trumps immediately used up an important entry to declarer's hand and cost the slam.

Girls lose 2-4A tournament but crank out 100-stroke margin over 3rd place

Snyder's Lady Tigers didn't [illegible] that they were shooting for, but they may have earned a berth in to regionals anyway after Saturday's play here.

The Tigers battled the wind, the cold, the water and a tough Mustang squad to finish with a 402 in the second girl's District 2-4A golf tournament of the season at Snyder Country Club. Andrews A squad won the 18-hole meet with a 395.

Those outcomes leave the Lady Tigers 15 strokes behind the Mustangs as the girls prepare for the final 2-4A match of the season, scheduled for April 13 in Pecos. Andrews A has a 767 after two tournaments; Snyder A a 782.

Though Snyder was unable to take advantage of its home course to make up ground on the Mustangs, the Tigers did come away with a 100-stroke lead over Fort Stockton, the third place team.

Fort Stockton shot a 478 here, and now has a total 882 after two tournaments.

Other scores were a 487 from Sweetwater, a 505 from Monahans, a 510 from Andrews B team and a 643 from Snyder B team.

Since the district's first and second place teams advance to regionals, Snyder's chances of making the May 1-2 tournament in Brownwood are exceptional.

"I feel like the kids have performed pretty well. We would like to be leading the district, but 100 strokes out of third is not bad. We're g[illegible]," said Snyder Coach Jan Kruse, who still has hopes of catching Andrews in the April 13 tournament.

"We're 15 back but we've come from that far down before."

The Tigers were led again by Leslie Light, who shot a tournament-low 87. Light, medalist in both district tournaments, has a 172 total now and leads the individual race by 10 strokes. Andrews' Genny Kovacs is second with a 182.

Xalyn Harris came up with a sub-100 99 to aid the Tiger cause. Others on the Snyder A team were Camille Reed and Michelle Holder with 108s and Angie Lay with a 115.

Playing for Snyder B squad were Stacy Dunk with a 146, Tammy Watkins with a 157, Missy Trull with a 156 and Tara Krueger with a 184.

WTC competes with juco best

DADEVILLE, ALA. -- Western Texas College started off slowly and ended up with a ninth-place 926 in the Southern Junior-Senior Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, held at Still Waters Resort here last weekend.

Palm Beach, Florida, won the 54-hole tournament with an 860. Ten strokes back were defending national junior college champion McLennan Community College of Waco, and Brevard, Fla., with 870s.

"We played well the second round. We hurt ourselves in the first round with a 307," said WTC Coach Dave Foster, whose Westerners carded a 302 of the second 18 holes. "The last round we played well considering the rain and wind. The field was very strong. I expect the national champions to be right out of this field," he said.

The juco teams shot so well that the senior college division winner Troy State would have placed fifth overall. The Alabama team, defending NAIA champs, shot an 883.

Western was led by freshman Pat Fitzpatrick, who shot a 228. Sophomore Jim Batjer carded a 231 and freshmen Ron Nedry and Barry Fletcher shot 236 and 242 respectively. Jack Fallin, sophomore, turned in a 244.

Tournament medalist was Rick Emmons of Palm Beach. He shot rounds of 67, 70 and 71 for a 208. Teammates Jasper Parnevick and Roger Salazar carded 209s.

Western's next action will be Western Junior College Athletic Conference play on Friday. The 18-hole tournament will be held in Roswell, N.M.

SHS Tigers 7th at Angelo; ready for Oil Patch Relays

SAN ANGELO -- Snyder used the field events for 22½ of its 30½ points and took seventh place in the San Angelo Relays here Saturday.

Kyle Freeman continued to be the Tigers' mainstay. The senior won the shot and discus, and placed third in the 100 meters.

Freeman had thrown a career-best 170-2 to win the discus on Friday, the first day of the two-day event. He won the shot on Saturday with a 54-8½, and ran an 11.52 in the 100 meters.

Snyder's next best finish were a couple of fifth places. Chris Garrett went 5-10 in the high jump for fifth and Robert Patterson cleared 12-foot in the pole vault for the same outcome.

While the Tigers took seventh overall in the meet, they were fourth among the eight District 2-4A teams entered.

Depth-strong Monahans won the meet with a whopping 142 points. Kerrville Tivy was second with 96, followed by Dumas with 57. Fort Stockton was fourth with 51, Canyon took fifth with 40 and Andrews was sixth with 35½.

Monahans, Fort Stockton and Andrews are from 2-4A, as are Sweetwater, Lamesa, Pecos and Lake View, which finished eighth through 11th, respectively.

The Tigers are still being plagued by injuries. Jumper-sprinter Willie Greathouse did not compete, and sprinter Tommy Holladay was held out of the 200 meters. Several other Tiger trackmen were hampered by injury and either did not compete, or were limited in their competition.

James Powell, who has been running the 400 meters, ran in the 800 event for the first time. Coach Kevin Wiseman said the senior will continue to work on the 800 for awhile.

"It was his first meet to run the 800 and he had about the ninth or 10th fastest time," said Wiseman. "If he can run in the low twos (two minutes), we'll leave him there. James had a good meet. He ran well in the relay also."

Wiseman said he was particularly pleased with freshmen Craig Watkins and Dan Krenek.

"Craig ran the 400 and dropped his time nearly two seconds, to a 53.5," said Wiseman. "Dan didn't run as well in the 400, but he did good for a freshman and he did a good job in the 1600 relay," added the coach.

Next up for Snyder will be Thursday's Oil Patch Relays in Andrews. The Tigers will not compete in Abilene on Friday, as some schedules read.

Cambodian brothers reunited with family

DUBUQUE, Iowa (AP) — Ten years after Samnith Tath was told her sons were killed in Cambodia, she wrapped her arms around the two tired but very much alive teen-agers and sobbed. And sobbed. And sobbed.

"They're speechless," Mary Kay Schwind of the Dubuque Area Chapter of the American Red Cross said of Mrs. Tath and her husband, Khong, after the couple was reunited with the boys.

"They're so happy they can't even speak. They just want to sit and hold their boys."

Sedah Tath, 18, and Phalla Tath, 13, were greeted by their parents, two brothers and a sister in a spring snowstorm at the Dubuque airport Sunday afternoon at the conclusion of their three-day flight from Bangkok, Thailand.

Family members were surrounded by more than 125 balloon-waving well-wishers as they wound their way through the airport to their car.

"Thank you, thank you very much for everything," Mrs. Tath said between sobs.

The family was forced to trade information for permission to bring the boys into the United States, according to U.S. Rep. Tom Tauke, R-Iowa. The Taths agreed to turn over to the State Department the names of underground operators who had offered to help smuggle the boys into the country.

The Taths, both 41, lost touch with their sons in 1975 when an offensive by Khmer Rouge rebels prevented the boys from returning home after a visit to their grandparents.

The parents were told that their sons had died, but in 1979, while they were in a Thailand refugee camp waiting to emigrate to the United States, they received word that the boys might be alive.

"They didn't have anything solid," Ms. Schwind said, "so they came (to the United States). They really didn't have much choice."

For the five years since their arrival in Dubuque, Khong Tath attempted to locate his sons through an underground communication network in Southeast Asia. He shared his information with the American Red Cross, which aided the effort.

"We found those boys and lost them more times than I want to think about," Ms. Schwind said.

Early in 1980, the youngsters were located near Khaoidang, Thailand, and Ms. Schwind contacted Tauke to help speed their immigration.

Congress will try to save benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Working against deadline pressure and the will of President Reagan, House Democrats will try this week to save federal unemployment benefits for 339,000 jobless workers.

On Tuesday, the House Ways and Means Committee is scheduled to consider a $270 million proposal to extend the program through June 30. An alternative that several House Republicans support would cost $100 million and phase out the program to allow people already on the federal rolls to collect their full benefits.

The federal supplemental compensation program, which was set up by Congress in 1982 as a recession stopgap, provides up to 14 weeks of payments to jobless workers who have exhausted their 26 weeks of state benefits.

President Reagan opposes any extension of the program, citing federal statistics that show the growing economy is creating 300,000 new jobs a month.

"The place now for people who are having problems is our job-training program, particularly job training directed at those who have to be relocated because something has happened to the industries that they formerly worked in," Reagan said at his last news conference.

Action on the extension measure is complicated by the fact that the House is scheduled to adjourn for its Easter-Passover recess at close of business Thursday, two days before the unemployment program is to expire.

House Majority Whip Thomas Foley has given notice that action could come as early as Tuesday on the House floor. However, the attempt could be blocked if Republicans invoke a rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the House before bills can be moved that quickly.

In the Republican-controlled Senate, the Finance Committee also has scheduled a Tuesday meeting on the federal program, but chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., says he opposes anything more than a phase-out of benefits.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, noted that the Democratic proposal is only a temporary extension and said last week he hoped for a compromise.

On other matters, meanwhile, there were signs that the Senate's angry reaction to Japan's trade policies could spread to the House.

courthouse is not officially a historical building," he added.

This is due to the fact that the courthouse has undergone extensive outside renovation — including an entirely new outside facade — and no longer qualifies as an historic building.

Sullenger said the letter indicated the state commission became aware of the project through a story printed in the SDN.

Burglary of coin machine among weekend incidents

Snyder police detectives are investigating a coin machine burglary and two misdemeanor thefts reported over the weekend.

The Birdwell Kwik Kar Wash — near the intersection of Ave. E and East Highway — was apparently burglarized sometime Friday night.

The owners of the business reported discovering that coin boxes at the facility had been broken into early Saturday morning.

There was no estimate for the amount of money missing from the car wash.

Steve Payson of 3203 Ave. T filed the weekend's first misdemeanor theft report at 1:23 p.m. Sunday.

He told police that his Schwinn 10-speed bicycle had apparently been stolen from his residence sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

W.E. Cox of 2100 Huffman Ave. filed the second theft report at 5:31 p.m. Sunday.

He told investigators that a rotary tiller had been stolen from his residence.

Value of the missing tiller was estimated at $400.

10 arrests noted

City officers logged 10 misdemeanor arrests during the weekend.

One suspect was jailed for unlawfully carrying a weapon, one for driving on a suspended license and one for soliciting without a permit. The remaining arrests were for various alcohol-related violations including one for DWI, three for public intoxication and three for being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol.

Vehicle flees in pole wreck

Two minor traffic mishaps including one hit-and-run incident were reported in Snyder over the weekend.

At 8:20 a.m. Sunday, officers discovered the hit-and-run mishap in the 4500 Block of College Ave.

According to reports, a traffic sign owned by the Texas Highway Department and a Texas Electric Service Co. street light pole had apparently been struck by a vehicle which fled the scene.

Involved in the weekend's first mishap at 8:25 a.m. Saturday were a 1980 Ford driven by Loyd Gaddis of Snyder and a U-Haul Trailer he was pulling.

According to accident reports, the trailer came loose from its hitch and collided with the rear of the Gaddis vehicle.

Brothers Get Walking Papers After School Bus Suspension

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The whole town is talking about two brothers, ages 9 and 11, who were suspended from using the school bus for five days because they created a disturbance on the bus.

The boys' parents refused to drive them—they made the boys walk 14 miles a day to teach them a lesson!

Well, it got into the newspapers all over the nation, and the parents received phone calls from California, Wisconsin, Florida and Switzerland, from people calling to congratulate them. The parents said they told their sons that if the type of behavior that got them kicked off the bus in the first place ever occurred again, they'd be walking for 10 days instead of five. The boys' father said he followed them in his car to assure their safety.

Personally, I think making kids that age walk 14 miles a day borders on child abuse. How do you feel about it, Abby?

J. IN CONWAY, ARK.

DEAR J.: As long as the boys were in no danger, I think the punishment fit the crime. I see no child abuse here. In my book, those parents care enough about their children to discipline them. They should be cloned—not criticized.

DEAR ABBY: I am 59 and the lady I am marrying is 50. This is the second marriage for both of us. Both of our spouses are deceased.

All our friends want to come to our wedding and they will probably give us gifts. Here is the problem: We have two of everything—two toasters, two steam irons, two blenders, etc., and we do not need any more things.

I would like to insert the following in our wedding invitations: "We do not need any wedding gifts, so instead of registering for china and silver with a department store, we have registered with the ( ) travel bureau for a seven-day cruise.

"You may make a donation to the ( ) travel bureau in our names. But remember, attending our wedding is all the gift we really want."

You may not agree with this approach, Abby, but doesn't it seem silly to get a lot of presents at our age when a wedding cruise would be more practical?

Sign me ...

LONGING FOR THE LOVE BOAT

DEAR LONGING: If a few of your close friends were to spread the news about the cruise, you would have smooth sailing. But to insert a pitch for a cruise with your wedding invitation would be going overboard.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: If you can tolerate one more letter regarding the lady who found a diamond ring in a Chicago hotel, I would like to tell you what is going on in Kentucky. Unlike Illinois, Kentucky doesn't have an estray statute that specifies the rights of finders. As a result, the law is unsettled and sometimes unfair. A recent case involved a young student who found $35,000 cash in a brown paper bag in the garbage can at his college. He did the honest thing and turned in the money. Despite his good deed, the Kentucky Court of Appeals recently ruled that he would not receive one cent for his honesty because he couldn't prove that the original owner intended to abandon the money! This proof would be difficult to present because the true owner has never been heard from.

Many people are hopping mad about the legal system's treatment of this young man. Unless the laws are fashioned to protect finders of lost property, honest people like the lady in Chicago and the young man in Louisville will be discouraged from turning in the valuables they find, making those who have been innocently separated from their property the biggest losers of all.

CONCERNED CITIZEN,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Israel has seized more than half of the land

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel has taken control of slightly more than half the land in the West Bank of the Jordan River since 1967, and is choking growth in Palestinian areas, a new report says.

The 98-page report, prepared by the West Bank Data Base Project, said 51.6 percent of the West Bank is under direct or indirect Israeli control. The project, which released the report Sunday, is an independent body funded by the Rockefeller and Ford foundations.

About 45,000 Jews now live in the territory seized from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war, not including East Jerusalem, which Israel unilaterally annexed. But, according to the report, 7 percent of the West Bank has been reserved for housing for 1 million Jews. There are about 800,000 Palestinians in the area.

The report was supervised by Meron Benvenisti, an Israeli who abandoned leftist politics in 1982 to monitor demographic developments in the West Bank.

It said 567,125 acres of the West Bank's 1,375,000 acres were seized for military purposes, Jewish settlements, road building and nature reserves, or were declared unused property of the state.

Severe restrictions were placed on Palestinian development in an additional 142,500 acres, said the report, which was compiled from official government figures.

The report said Israel's policy was designed to "force the Palestinian population into rigid boxes which prevent natural expansion."

"The legitimate requirements of 800,000 people and their communal needs are consciously ignored," the report said. The Israelis created a system "segregated on ethnic lines, a patchwork of hostile, alienated and severed regions."

Embassy worker freed unharmed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — French Embassy employee Danielle Perez, abducted in mostly Moslem west Beirut nine days earlier, was freed unharmed. However, the leader of Beirut's Jewish community was abducted — the fourth Jew kidnapped in four days.

Police said 65-year-old Ishaq Sassoun, leader of the Jewish community in Beirut, was kidnapped Sunday near his home in west Beirut by three gunmen. There was no claim of responsibility for his kidnapping, or the three previous kinappings of Jews.

Mrs. Perez was the third Westerner whose release was foretold by a mysterious group calling itself the Khaibar Brigades. There was no word on six other Westerners who have been kidnapped since March 14.

French Embassy spokesman Marcel L'Augel said Sunday that Mrs. Perez had been released, but refused to provide details. He said Mrs. Perez, 34, the embassy's cultural section secretary, "was well treated, and she is in excellent health."

In London, the Sunday Times reported that the United States has threatened military retaliation against Iran if Americans abducted in Lebanon by pro-Iranian factions are tried or executed.

The weekly quoted unidentified Western intelligence sources as saying the White House sent the warning to Iran via the Swiss diplomatic mission in Tehran in early March.

The message did not specify possible retaliation, but the sources said the U.S. guided missile cruiser Texas, in the Persian Gulf area, might be used to strike at Iranian ports, the Times said.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman declined to comment on the report, but said: "President Reagan and other administration officials have expressed our determination to respond with whatever actions we deem most appropriate against those responsible for terrorist attacks."

British oil company executive Brian Levick, 59, freed Saturday, said his abductors seemed to be Moslems with "strong religious beliefs."

Levick told reporters Sunday he was held in a "seven feet-by-five feet room ... with a mattress and several blankets on the floor."

"I had a great deal of difficulty in convincing them that I was English. They appeared to have a very deeply felt view that I was an American," Levick said.

"My general treatment was good," he said.

Levick, who was with his wife, Ann, looked tired and spoke slowly. "I feel weak and weepy," he said. He was kidnapped March 15.

British metallurgist Geoffrey Nash, 60, was freed Wednesday after being held for two weeks.
