That time of year including and surrounding Christmas and New Year's, known mostly as "the holiday season" left some somber marks this time around.

Texas and New Mexico shared in the black marks. Texas had 60 traffic deaths over the New Year's weekend. New Mexico recorded two bus accidents, one of which was a major tragedy and another which narrowly missed.

Then, there were plane crashes of various sizes and in various locations which helped mark the period as a tragic one.

For some time, it appeared that headway was being made in efforts to reduce traffic accidents. But ever so often, it seems that a sudden reversal occurs. This time it was Texas which established a record for New Year's holiday deaths. The relapse in our state undoubtedly will result in some soul searching among agencies and organizations dedicated to safety. Look for some agitation down at Austin during the upcoming legislative session for tougher penalities for drinking drivers.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, who heads the Texas Department of Public Safety, cited drunk drivers as being responsible for a number of the traffic deaths.

The anticipated rate reductions for home insurance came through and they were just about as expected. This rate change, although not directly attributed to the interim House Committee headed by Rep. Renal B. Rosson of Snyder and Rep. Joe Hanna of Breckenridge, undoubtedly was helped along by the committee's work.

Sometines, inequities may be resolved by merely having someone with authority call them to the attention to those in direct control. That is the least expensive way of getting it done. In a sense, this appears to have happened in the case of home insurance rates.

The State Insurance Board already was looking at the situation but one can't help feel that the prompt action and the scope of the changes were stimulated by the House Committee's work. And the committee made its information available to the board, which also helped things along.

The result so far is a saving on insurance policies on dwellings in this area, and it is a saving that will be significant to all whose policies have been renewed since the first of the year and will be in the future.

OVER PEACE PACT DRAFT

Talks Resume With Clash

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The semipublic Vietnam peace talks resumed today with a sharp clash between the Communists and the South Vietnamese over the peace agreement Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho drafted in October.

Hanoi called for the United States to sign the agreement "promptly," but Saigon denounced the draft as a "disguised victory" for North Vietnam.

Saigon's representative renewed its demand that Hanoi recognize the existence of two sovereign states in Vietnam. Dinh Ba Thi of the Viet Cong said this was "utterly absurd" and a "U.S. maneuver to deny the fact that there now exists in South Vietnam two administrations, two armies and three political forces."

The chief U.S. delegate, Ambassador William J. Porter, called on the negotiators to lay aside the bitterness that has marked past sessions and turn toward reconciliation in what he called the concluding phase of the war.

Deputy negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy of North Vietnam issued a sharp retort at the end of the session, telling newsmen:

"While B52s continue carpet-bombing on the territory of our country, provoking mourning and devastation, today at this conference the American delegate tells us this is not the moment for rancor but is the moment to heal the wounds.

"We told the American delegate that if the United States wants to close the gap between its acts and its words, it must renounce its aggressive aims and acts of war and immediately proceed to sign without delay the agreement to which it has given its consent."

Saigon Ambassador Pham Dang Lam told the 172nd session of the semipublic Paris peace talks: "Unless they admit that their design is to achieve the reunification of Vietnam their way and to place the whole of Vietnam under their domination, the Hanoi authorities cannot fail to acknowledge that there are two distinct states of Vietnam."

He said both are "internationally recognized, each having its own political regime and exercising its sovereignty on its own territory, as in the cases of the two Germanys and the two Koreas."

The four-party talks resumed today after a two-week suspension. Their renewal was a preliminary to the resumption Monday of peace negotiations between U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of the North Vietnamese Politburo.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told the meeting the new year should mark "the concluding phase of this protracted conflict" in Vietnam but added he did not "underestimate the problems which exist and which will face us still for some time."

Porter said the past four years of negotiations had been "largely sterile exchanges which only developed last October into a phase which can today be described as a serious negotiating process."

Today's session was expected to be Porter's last appearance as head of the U.S. delegation before he leaves for Washington to become undersecretary of state for political affairs.

Porter said the negotiators now have to start anew, having learned lessons from this painful history and apply those lessons both to the concluding phase of these negotiations for a settlement in Vietnam and to the new stage of regional relationships which can now develop.

He said this will require "continuing work, patience and a large measure of understanding for continued differences of view and continued suspicions which cannot overnight disappear. I am not inclined at all to underestimate the problems which exist and which will face us still for some time."

Texas Bank Deposits Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virtually every reporting city in Texas told today of record bank deposits as of the close of business Dec. 31.

The reports were made because the comptroller of the treasury issued the quarterly request for figures today.

Reasons given for the increase were varied, including better prices for cattle and the greater flow of crude oil permitted by the Texas Railroad Commission. Some bankers mentioned inflation as a factor.

For the first time in years, Dallas County went ahead of Harris County (Houston) in deposits with a record $8,227,416,603, compared with $6,844,649,491 a year ago.

Harris County reported $8,065,840,282, compared with $7,175,317,978 at the end of 1971.

Dallas held the title of the banking capital of Texas for many years until Harris County surged ahead some time ago, with Dallas regaining the crown in the latest report.

Snyder Banks Set All-Time Records

Snyder banks set all-time records in their year-end reports of deposits and loans.

Total deposits as of the close of business on Dec. 31, 1972, amounted to $44,920,374.07, a gain of nearly $4 million over the report a year earlier and a $2 million gain over the previous record set last April.

Loans totalled $21,003,012.80, also a new record, up from the previous mark of $20,298,909.17 recorded in statements issued last Oct. 10.

The two Snyder banks had deposits a year ago totalling $40,997,243.76 and loans of $19,043,827.67.

The previous record for combined deposits, which was set April 18, 1972, was $42,889,112.84. Last Oct. 10, when the third-quarter call for statements was issued by regulatory agencies of the federal and state governments, deposits totalled $41,937,089.05.

The 1972 year-end reports by banks included these:

Snyder National Bank--Deposits of $26,382,529.91 and loans of $12,596,375.68.

West Texas State Bank--Deposits of $18,537,844.16 and loans of $8,406,637.12.

Bomb Threat Diverts Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — A jumbo jetliner from Madrid with 223 persons aboard was diverted today from Kennedy Airport to mile-high Denver, Colo., after a telephoned threat that a bomb was aboard set to go off below 3,000 feet, Trans World Airlines said.

A TWA spokesman here said the telephone call was made to an airline office in Madrid after the plane was airborne. He added that the call was an extortion threat, but did not elaborate.

In Madrid, airport sources reported the caller had demanded 15 million pesetas, or about $200,000, to say where the bomb was planted.

"Apparently it was a hoax, but we are taking every precaution," he said.

The Boeing 747 was TWA's flight 903 which left Madrid at 5:20 a.m. EST and was due in New York at 12:25 p.m. EST. There were 218 passengers and 15 crew members aboard, TWA said.

TWA said the jetliner was flying to Denver, which is 5,280 via an arctic route and was expected to arrive there between 11:35 a.m. and noon, Mountain time—1:35 and 2 p.m. EST.

Senate Demos Approve Stop War Funds Resolution

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats voted 36-11 today to support a policy cutting off funds for the Vietnam war immediately.

The resolution, similar to one adopted by House Democrats Tuesday was sponsored in the Senate Democratic Conference by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Its only conditions to a complete stop of funds for the war were arrangements to insure safe withdrawal of American troops, return of American prisoners of war and accounting for Americans missing in action.

The conference earlier rejected by one vote, 24-23, a resolution by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to invite President Nixon to meet with the joint leadership of Congress to explain the breakdown of peace negotiations in December and the massive bombing of North Vietnam which followed.

Meanwhile, in the House, there was a battle of words between two representatives at the year's first scheduled committee hearing related to the war.

The House scrap erupted when chairman Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., gaveled the House European subcommittee meeting to order and announced the State Department had refused to send a witness.

The hearing was to be not on the bombing itself but on its effect on U.S.-European relations.

But Rep. Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., accused Rosenthal of calling the hearing with no proper planning of what it should cover and inadequate notification of subcommittee members.

"This is an outrageous abuse of authority by a chairman to hold a mockery of a hearing," Frelinghuysen said. And he asked later:

"What is the point of having a charade like this?"

Rosenthal did not answer the question directly but said he did not learn until late Wednesday that the State Department would not send a witness.

At the White House, President Nixon held what was described as a "general review of the Indochina situation and the Paris negotiations" with key aides.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said those who joined in the conference were Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

New Cold Front Hits Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter swung another mean punch at Texas today, raising prospects for the state's second siege of nasty weather within less than a week.

There already was freezing drizzle in the north part of the Texas Panhandle as a big mass of arctic air pushed southward in early morning along a line from Wichita Falls to Lubbock.

More light snow or rain was promised over most of West Texas tonight and Friday, and prospects were seen for occasional showers or drizzle in other sections.

Official forecasts held out chances Wednesday night for some of the snow to spread into North Central Texas but the predictions today made no mention of snowfall in that area.

Travel warnings were out for icy roads in the Texas Panhandle and for near-zero visibility because of early morning fog in several counties around Victoria near the coast.

Temperatures near dawn dropped to 20 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle, where it also was foggy; 21 at Amarillo, 25 at El Paso, 26 at Lubbock, 27 at Childress, 28 at Abilene, 29 at Wichita Falls, 30 at Midland and 32 at Wink. Readings at other points stood in the higher 30s to low 50s except for a 62 at Brownsville.

Sunshine warmed much of the state Wednesday before the fresh onslaught of cold, sending afternoon temperatures into the 60s at many points. The top marks ranged from 69 at Alice in South Texas down to 43 at Amarillo in the Panhandle.

TBA Proposes New Penal Code

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Bar Association again is proposing the first revision of the Texas Penal Code since 1857.

The new code has a better chance of passage than the one rejected by the legislature in 1971 because several changes have been made, and drugs and abortion are omitted, Justice T. Gilbert Sharpe of the Corpus Christi Court of Civil Appeals, chairman of the bar's penal code committee, said Wednesday.

Inclusion of those two emotional issues might have endangered the entire proposal, Sharpe said.

It will be up to individual legislators to propose laws on drugs and abortion, he said, but the bar's board of directors supports reduction of first offense marijuana possession from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Left in the new code is a provision on capital punishment, which could be imposed for any one of eight kinds of murder, including one in which "the murder is done with extreme atrocity or cruelty or under circumstances which show exceptional depravity on the part of the actor."

It was during a discussion of this section that the harmony of Sharpe's news conference began to show cracks.

Frank Maloney, a director in the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association, said some members of the bar's penal code committee will oppose individual sections of the new code, including this one.

Representatives of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association, which opposed the new code in 1971, said enough changes have been made in it to win their support.

But Houston Dist. Atty. Carol Vance admitted that the capital punishment section probably would have a greater chance of surviving a test in the U.S. Supreme Court if it made death mandatory for the listed crimes rather than give the jury the option of a life sentence, which conceivably could be paroled in 9½ years with time off for good behavior and the donation of blood.

Raids Costly To N-Viets

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam announced today that a preliminary survey showed 1,318 persons were killed and 1,261 wounded by U.S. bombing raids on Hanoi last month.

A communique of a special investigating committee said that, in 10 days of bombing between Dec. 18 and Dec. 29, American planes made more than 1,000 sorties against the North Vietnamese capital. This included 500 B52 attacks.

It said 40,000 tons of bombs were dropped, devastating densely populated areas.

Economic, educational, social and cultural establishments were razed in 353 places, it said. Some areas were hit as many as 10 times, it added.

The workers' quarter of An Duong was obliterated on Dec. 21 by 600 bombs from the huge B52 bombers, the communique asserted.

Cook Rites Set Friday

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church for G. S. Cook, 86, who died early Wednesday.

The Rev. Ken Andress, pastor of the church, and the Rev. O.L. Gober, pastor of the Ira Baptist Church, will officiate at the service. Burial will be in the Ira Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A retired farmer, Mr. Cook had been a resident of Scurry County for the past 40 years.

Salt Lake City To Host Olympics

NEW YORK (AP) — Salt Lake City was selected today by the United States Olympic Committee as the nation's candidate for hosting the 1976 Winter Games. The selection by the USOC Board of Directors was unanimous.

Salt Lake City Mayor Jake Garn estimated the Games would cost $30 million.

Change names? I'll second that

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I named our son John Allen Jones II after my husband. We used "the second" because we didn't want to call the baby "Junior." We were later told that "the second" should not be used when a boy is named after his father. It is used only when a boy is named after another relative bearing the same name. We know several people who have used "the second" when naming a son after his father. Have all these people made a mistake or has the rule changed?

In this state [Tennessee] we have one year in which to make a change in a name without any difficulties. Please tell us whether we should change "the second" to "Junior."

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Change your son's name from "the second" to "Junior." A child bearing the same name as his father is Junior. If a child bears his grandfather's name, which is different from his father's name, he is "the second." If grandfather, son and grandson all have the same name, the father of course is "Junior" and the grandson is "the third."

The use of "the second" indicates that the bearer of the name is a cousin, nephew, or grandson of the original holder of it.

DEAR ABBY: We are two girls who are having a big argument. She's 17 and I'm 18. She's a virgin and I'm not, and she says a guy can tell whether a girl is a virgin or not by the way she walks.

I say a girl doesn't walk any differently after she's gone all the way with a guy than she did before.

We'll be looking for your answer.

WAITING IN COLORADO

DEAR WAITING: You can't tell if a girl is a virgin by the way she walks. But you can sometimes tell by the way she TALKS.

DEAR ABBY: The other day I was with a young friend who told me [with no shame whatsoever] that she was using her husband's telephone credit card given to him by his firm to be used for business calls only. She bragged that she made long distance telephone calls to her parents and friends all over the United States and thinks nothing of it. And she said her husband said it was okay.

This young woman has four children and she would be furious if one of her children "stole" anything. Yet that is exactly what she is doing. I can't understand some parents. No wonder their children don't respect them.

I am sure her husband would lose his job if his firm ever caught on. Or do all businesses expect a certain amount of chiseling? NO NAME, NATURALLY

DEAR NO NAME: I'm sure they don't. Your friend is not only dishonest, she's stupid. Somebody should tell her husband to wise up, get his credit card back and go straight. Companies check up on that sort of thing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED IN CEDAR RAPIDS: My doctor said: "Tell the 49-year-old lady with the 52-year-old husband to keep her guard up. She is not beyond the age of child-bearing."

Queen, Prince Booed In London

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prime Minister Edward Heath were the objects of boos and jeers as they attended the opening of a month-long festival to celebrate Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Some 200 antimarketeers who gathered about the entrance to the Covent Garden Opera House also threw some stink bombs during the demonstration Wednesday night.

The protestors carried placards condemning Common Market membership for Britain and booed and chanted when the Queen arrived at the opera house for "Fanfare for Europe."

When Heath greeted the Queen, the crowd chanted, "Heath out."

Inside the opera house, decorated with an estimated 10 million flowers, more than 200 singers, state trumpeters, opera musicians and top stage personalities performed.

Cold Damages Israeli Crops

TEL AVIV (AP) — A warm Mediterranean sun brought relief today from an 11-day cold wave that damaged Israeli crops and cost the export trade millions of dollars.

Crops of avocadoes, strawberries, bananas, tomatoes, cucumbers and other vegetables were seriously affected. The temperature dropped in places at night to 19 degrees.

Five Die In Combat Last Week

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that five Americans were killed in action in Indochina last week and another 24 are missing, raising the two-week casualty toll to 109 since the start of the Hanoi-Haiphong blitz Dec. 18.

Most of the casualties were airmen lost in air raids over the northern heartland. The casualties are the heaviest in nearly two years.

During the first week of the blitz, from Dec. 18 through Dec. 23, the weekly casualty summary reported seven Americans killed and 73 missing or captured.

The U.S. Command also reported 13 Americans wounded last week and three deaths from nonhostile causes.

The South Vietnamese command reported that its total of battlefield deaths declined last week for the third successive week. The total of 293 was the lowest since North Vietnam launched its offensive last March 30.

Another 1,056 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded, and 29 were missing, the Saigon command said.

It claimed that 1,288 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,928 killed in action, 10,294 deaths from nonhostile causes, 303,597 wounded, 1,806 missing or captured.

South Vietnamese — 162,041 killed, 432,915 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 919,615 killed.

The two occupants, District Judge Wayland Holt, 3102 Forty-first Street, and his brother, Garland Holt, Fort Worth, were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service. The condition of both was described as good. Judge Holt was admitted for observation and his brother had minor rib injuries.

Storm Halts Services

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Utility companies hoped to make progress today in restoring electricity and telephones service to ice-laden regions of Kansas, Missouri and Iowa.

All through Wednesday and Wednesday night it was a losing battle as wires broke under burdens of ice and falling tree branches.

"After spending 6,000 manhours, we are in worse shape tonight than we were this morning," Don Landes, director of public affairs for Kansas City Power & Light Co., said late Wednesday night. "It is the worst storm in our company's history.

"At least 75,000 of our customers have been affected, with a peak of 50,000 at one time. We still have 40,000 meters out of service, the same as earlier in the day. But they are not the same 40,000."

He estimated 35,000 customers would be without electricty this morning, when 21 more emergency crews were scheduled to enter the battle. Six of the crews were coming from the Kansas Gas & Electric Co. and 15 were recruited from private power and tree-trimming contractors.

Without electricity, many home furnaces would not operate, and people scrounged for ways to beat the chill as the temperature dropped into the teens.

Some schools and other public buildings were opened as shelters for persons who couldn't keep warm in their homes.

Five inches of snow followed the freezing rain that coated trees and wires until they sagged to the breaking point. Wind gusts up to 28 miles per hour Wednesday night caused more damage. Huge trees were uprooted in some spots. Broken limbs blocked streets and damaged parked cars.

Schools remained closed today in the storm's main path.

The Missouri Public Service Co., which supplies power to about 50,000 customers in the area east and north of Kansas Cith, reported half of them had power failures Wednesday and 10,000 still lacked service Wednesday night.

Hunter Is Fined

A Colorado City man, about 30, was assessed a $100 fine by a jury in Justice of the Peace Court here yesterday after the jury determined that he was guilty of shooting turkeys from a roost.

The offense occurred south of town several days ago. He was arrested by the game warden at Colorado City.

Panel Proposes Credit Revisions

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national commission has proposed major revisions in the consumer-credit field to make credit cheaper and easier to get, but members said the panel was not unanimous in its recommendations and urged caution in adopting them.

The head of the National Commission on Consumer Finance said in a report to Congress Wednesday that the chief goal is to promote greater competition in the consumer-credit market.

"Only once workable competition is achieved can rates be left free from regulation," said commission chairman Ira M. Millstein, a New York City attorney.

The panel urged free entry into the market by small-loan companies, savings and loan firms, banks on competitive terms and retail businesses.

The commission, created by Congress in 1968, is composed of three members appointed by the president, three senators appointed by the president of the Senate and three congressmen named by the speaker of the House.

In its lengthy report, the commission made 85 recommendations to safeguard both consumer and lender rights including elimination of harassing collection methods and restrictions on such practices as garnishment and repossession.

"Because credit is so important to American consumers, the commission believes that it should be available to every creditworthy applicant on a nondiscriminatory basis," the report said.

It urged states to prevent "widespread instances of unwarranted discrimination in the granting of credit to women," and called for treatment of the basic causes of poverty and unemployment to handle the problem of granting more credit to poor people.

It said it found no evidence of widespread racial discrimination, but concluded that lenders often must deny credit to worthy consumers because of "difficulties creditors have in collecting debts in certain areas of inner cities."

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., a member of the panel and principal author of legislation that created the commission, told a news briefing the panel has done valuable work, but she said she hopes state legislatures won't rush into action hastily.

"I don't think any of us are completely happy with the final report," she said. "Most of the recommendations are staff recommendations, which is probably inevitable in the case of a commission of this sort."

Stuntman Escapes Injury In Accident

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Stuntman Evel Knievel has escaped injury in an accident that caused some $6,000 in damage to his $200,000 jet-powered motorcycle.

Knievel was sitting on the vehicle while it was being refueled Wednesday when there was an explosion and fire.

He is here for a week-end motorcyle show at the Convention Center.

Six Die From Cold In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Six deaths from exposure were reported today in Uttar Pradesh, bringing the state's toll from three weeks of cold wather to 81.

A spokesman of the state agriculture department in Lucknow, 260 miles southeast of New Delhi, said severe frost also threatens the state's winter vegetable crops.

County Court Pleas Entered

Two guilty pleas were entered in county court this morning.

Kenneth Thurman Havins and Gary Denver Hays of Colorado City each pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Havins received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term, which was suspended for six months. Hays received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term.

Austin School Plea Refused

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Officials in Austin, Tex., must come up with a new school desegregation plan utilizing an order of a federal appeals court, whether they understand that order or not.

That's the effect of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals' refusal Wednesday to clarify its ruling on Austin schools—a ruling that has confused a district court judge, school officials and even members of the 5th Circuit.

The 93-page ruling in 1972 told the Austin Independent School District and the Texas Education Agency to remedy discrimination in public schools. If they couldn't do it, the 5th Circuit said, the district judge in Austin was to remedy it.

The Austin case was one of the legal storm centers in President Nixon's opposition to school busing as a means to achieve racial balance.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Jack Roberts of Austin had decided on a school desegregation plan, rejecting the HEW plan for busing.

HEW appealed to the 5th Circuit and Nixon, in an extraordinary move, repudiated the HEW busing plan.

The 5th Circuit, despite Nixon's opposition to busing, reversed Roberts in the August ruling.

The appeals court said the district judge could not "totally reject the use of busing."

Certain other guidelines were to be followed, but neither the school officials nor the district judge understood the guidelines.

The school district filed a motion asking the 5th Circuit for clarification, but the appeals court refused Wednesday.

The refusal—a terse, one-sentence denial—came in a bitter 9-5 split with dissenting judges calling the majority opinion an "example of how a reviewing court can pass the buck ... and confuse the district judge."

"A denial of the motion for clarification just may be construed as evidence that the majority of this court did not know or could not articulate the reasons for their so-called remedy," said the five judges in a barbed three-page dissent.

No one could understand last August's majority ruling, they added.

"When the litigants and the trial judge are unable to understand what the Court of Appeals is trying to say ... it is an error to deny a motion for clarification," said the written dissent.

One of the dissenting judges, Walter Gewin, said the August order fails "to offer any guidance on the key, substantive questions: 1. How much desegreation is required? and 2. How much busing is too much?"

Two Mishaps Are Reported

Minor damage resulted from two motor vehicle mishaps investigated here yesterday by City Police.

The first one occurred in the 4000 block of Austin at 8:28 a.m. Wednesday. Involved were a 1961 Model Chevrolet driven by Melinda Kay Huffman, Box 848, and the parked 1957 Model Pontiac of Lewis Wayne Monroney, 3614 Avenue B.

The other one occurred at Twenty-third Street and Avenue I at 5:15 p.m. Involved were the 1956 Model GMC pickup of Dewey Lee Moore, 3810 Noble Drive, and a 1971 Model Ford driven by Earline Chitsey Stroud, Route 3.

Barge Is Raised, Sealed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Salvage workers raised a sunken barge temporarily this morning to seal hatches that were leaking a toxic and highly flammable chemical.

Authorities allowed normal activities to return around the port area although no ship traffic was allowed in or out of the port.

When the barge sank Wednesday night, all electric lights were ordered off and the area was barred to vehicles for several blocks around.

The barge, owned by Alamo Barge Lines of Houston, went down while unloading 9,600 barrels of vinyl acetate, a chemical used in manufacture of nylon and rayon.

Five of the barge's seven hatches were open when it sank. After sealing the open hatches this morning, salvage workers allowed the craft to sink again before actual salvage was attempted.

Although the chemical is toxic, officials said the principal danger was from an explosion if a spark had reached a concentrate of the highly volatile and flammable liquid.

Workmen wore special breathing equipment to avoid dizziness and eye pains that could result from breathing fumes.

The captain of the tug New Work, Jim Hutton, said the barge sank when its bilge tanks overfilled during the unloading.

To lessen fire danger, a Central Power & Light Co. plant across Corpus Christi Bay and the Centex Cement Co. plant, which operates a kiln, shut down operations. A light south breeze kept vapors away from Corpus Christi for a while. Winds later died.

Crewmen evacuated a Mexican merchantman, the Maya, which was docked close to the barge.

Hostel Provides Independence For Handicapped Young People

By KAREN HILGEMANN
Waterloo Courier Writer

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa (AP) — A "helping house," called a hostel, bridges the gap between dependent life at home with parents and an independent life for handicapped persons.

The hostel is operated by the Exceptional Persons, Inc., Goodwill Industries, and Rehabilitation, Education and Services Bureau of the State of Iowa. It provides in-between service for nine young men.

Exceptional Persons is currently establishing a similar hostel for women.

Houseparents Mr. and Mrs. Ken Lewis are called Ken and Pam by "their boys". They live with them and provide any guidance and help the residents might need.

Most of the young men work at Goodwill Industries where they receive job training. Some attend River Hills School.

For them, the hostel is home. They live two or three to a room in the spacious house's four bedrooms upstairs.

During the two years the hostel has been open, it has provided a special service to men who have lived there. It has taught them independence and offered a positive alternative to entering an institution such as a county home or hospital where custodial care is provided.

Of the first men who lived in the home, there was a 60 per cent success record of independence.

The men have ranged in age from 16 to 40, but most are in their early 20s.

The Lewises moved into the group home two years ago when it first opened the day after their honeymoon. They have developed a philosophy and perception about being hostel "parents."

"We're not here to baby them," Pam explains. "Sometimes it seems cruel, but we'll let them make mistakes to learn," Ken adds.

Such mistakes might be letting them oversleep if they do not wake up to their alarm clocks. Then they learn the consequences of being late for the bus and missing work, which means less pay, and maybe walking to work.

The men learn how to get along living with other people — part of the natural socialization process. "Some who come have a lack of understanding of cooperating in a community," Pam says. "They don't know what responsibility is."

For the handicapped, who may have been coddled at home, the learning process may seem difficult.

Common everyday habits and things the average person may take for granted may be strange and frightening at first.

"They learn, it just takes longer," Ken says. "We just need to explain or remind them 200 times instead of two. They weren't taught because people didn't think they could learn, but they can" he says.

"Sometimes things were done for them, like dishing their food, not because they couldn't do it, but because it was more work for someone else to clean up if they should spill," Pam says. She and Ken patiently let them do for themselves.

By the end of the period the men live at the hostel, they will have learned good grooming habits and other kinds of skills not taught to persons who have been institutionalized.

They learn how to plan a practical budget. The men's bills for room, food and toilet articles are paid for them. They receive payment for work and then spend it on clothes, entertainment, extra food, cigarettes and other items such as transportation. They also learn to save money and the process of opening a savings account.

On Saturday and Sunday, the men learn to cook for themselves. Each is allowed to select the food he wants and the house mother helps him prepare his meal.

Each learns to use a washer and dryer and takes care of his own clothes. Several have their own library cards and check out books at the library.

For those who have completed their time at the "helping home" to become independent, it's like leaving home for the first time: nice to be on your own, but sad to leave.

Queen's Stresses Are Made Vivid

QUEEN VICTORIA. From Her Birth To the Death Of the Prince Consort. By Cecil Woodham-Smith. Alfred A. Knopf. 486 Pages. $10.

Queen Victoria and the Duke of Wellington must be running neck and neck in their bid for biographical attention. There is doubtless much nostalgia in our current interest, at the twilight of the British Empire, in two such eminent Victorians.

Going back over half a century, many of us can remember Lytton Strachey's biography of the great queen — artistic, rhetorically beautiful, impressionistic, a bit sketchy, but delightful. One of the best was Lady Longford's recent full-scale biography, more thoroughly researched in more hitherto private sources than any of its predecessors.

Both Lady Longford and now Mrs. Woodham-Smith have had free access to the Royal Archives. The results are surprisingly different. It should be said here that since the latter brings her subject up only to the death of the Prince Consort, another volume presumably is planned.

All the biographies stress the trials of the Princess Victoria before she became queen. Her father, the Duke of Kent, was relatively poor for the son and brother of kings, and died when his daughter was only a few months old. Nor, for some years, was there any certainty the young princess would accede to the throne.

Above all, there was the inconsiderate and selfish treatment she received from her own mother, the Duchess, who hoped to be regent and queen herself in everything but name for some years after the ascension. And behind the mother, and egging her on, was the ambitious, ruthless, almost sinister Sir John Conroy, the duchess's private secretary and confidential adviser. Mrs. Woodham-Smith has described this immense psychological and emotional strain, under which the tough will and endurance of Victoria almost gave way, better than any other biographer the present reviewer can recall.

Beginning with the queen's marriage, Mrs. Woodham-Smith's touch becomes less remarkable. The book expands into something like an account of the impact of European history on Britain and particularly on the royal family.

CASUAL, DELUXE--Cut, color and care are watchwords of fashionable hair designs from Paris. Jacques Dessagne rolls hair into tiny chignon "en escargot" and fastens it at the crown with tortoise shell pins. Wisps of fine tendrils fall from the hairline to frame the face. For evening, hair is all sophistication and feminity. Smooth, hairstyles end in a braided chignon at the nape of the neck, fastened with a braid. Shorter hair is news for the future, especially cut round as a ball to accent the cheekbones and flatter the face with a long fringe of bangs that sweep to the side. The style can be worn smooth and sleek or fluffed and frothy. All are from Helene Curtis.

Poetic Justice

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — "Call it poetic justice if you will," said the Albuquerque lawyer whose client's home was burglarized.

Defense lawyer John Carmody said the home of Willie Barrera Blanco, 25, was entered recently while the owner was away.

Blanco was unable to stay home and protect his property, Carmody explained, because he was being held in the Bernalillo County Jail here after pleading guilty to burglary.

Blanco was sentenced Wednesday to 2 to 10 years in prison

Move Into Retirement With Speed And Zest

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are going on to a new home at retirement, you should be speedy about winding up your affairs. "A quick excision is better than a lingering malaise" is the way one woman put it. And after you make the move — don't look back, she added.

The transition from the old to the new home can be made easier if you adopt an adventurous spirit whether you are leaving a rented home or one you owned. Some ideas gleaned from recently retired folk include these:

... Look forward happily to the new home. Think of it in terms of advantages — easy care, less expensive to maintain, recreational opportunities, better climate or whatever. The new home must appeal to you for some good reason, so look at it as a silver lining.

... When you are sorting out your furnishings, make a decision about each thing. Don't invite remorse. Adopt the attitude that it is a great chance to unload a lot of old things for which you no longer have use. An inventory might include feather boas, senior prom dance cards, old school programs, campaign buttons and letters from people you don't even remember. All these things are space robbers. One woman found a good closet with shelves that had been loaded with old dress materials, ribbons and needlework. Though the ribbons were carefully wound, they had faded with age. On the top shelf she found hundreds of Mason jars that hadn't been used for 20 years. (Even at the finish line she was muttering that some day maybe she would get around to making some preserves ...)

Choose what you are going to take with you, decide what you are going to give away and to whom, arrange to sell whatever you can sell, and give what you cannot dispose of to charitable organizations. And remember to get an early start — it takes a long time to dispose of junk.

... Sit down with a floor plan of your new home when you are deciding what you will need in the way of furniture. And don't be too hasty in discarding such expensive pieces as upholstered furniture. Slipcovers can change the entire picture. One woman had white slipcovers made for her comfortable upholstered chairs that were to go to a new home in the South. There would be no reminders of the old nome if she were to slipcover the old furniture as soon as it was brought into the new home. And whatever you do, she says, do not discard your husband's favorite chair. Paint it. Slipcover it. Reupholster it. But don't throw it away. If you do, he will never be happy with a new one, she predicts.

She also painted old tables in bright sunny colors. The dining table and chairs were done in a pale yellow. Nothing resembled the old dark woods they had lived with so long. Although this woman did all the work before she took off for her new home, she carefully covered all the furnishings so they would not be scratched.

One may want to travel more lightly if one is going overseas as it is so expensive to ship furnishings. One couple decided they would live in rented apartments and they took only small things of value they loved. "Paintings and pudding pans" is the way her husband put it, but his wife pointed out "everybody has his thing — mine is cooking ..." Such decisions keep the whole thing on a happy keel, although her husband did draw the line when she wanted to take an enormous paella pan to Spain where the famous dish was born.

... And don't be tempted to go back to your old house and neighborhood for a visit. This nostalgic notion may prove to be depressing. A former home owner was aghast at the changes new people made. Lovingly planted trees and bushes had been removed from their dream house. One woman was heartsick to see that her tiny white Cape Cod was now a grim blue, completely out of character, she thought, and her lifetime of garden care had been turned into a sandbox. Better to remember things as they were.

... More upsetting to some people are the improvements new owners have been able to make to a house and its grounds. One man had always wanted to clear out brush and trees that concealed a pretty stream near his house. But the project was more than he could do himself and the expense couldn't be justified with all their pressing needs. Seeing another accomplish it made him very sad.

Women Wear Paintings

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — What is a portable, washable and knitted painting? It's a sweater.

The new art form at Axis, a kitsch Left Bank gallery, only looks good on a body.

There used to be plastic shrubbery, satin apples and painted ice cream sodas in the gallery. Now, there's a two-tone jacquard knitting machine, borrowed along with its technician from Woolmark.

It's busy knitting "paintings" at the rate of 25 a day, all signed and designed by seven contemporary artists: Adzak, Hernandez, Rougemont, Ado, Maglione, Rancillac and Lourdes Castro.

"They had already made rugs and were delighted with the idea of seeing their art walking around. They're painters very much a la mode," explains Laurence Dumaine, who runs Axis.

The customer herself — or himself — chooses among 23 colors and various shapes — turtleneck, V-neck, tee-shirt, sweatshirt or blouson. The prices range from $35-45, but will be about double that figure at the New York Fifth Avenue store now negotiating to ship over some "paintings."

The severe in taste lean toward barbed-wire stripes or alphabet graphics. The romantic like a landscape of trees and tubes.

For the Pop set is a bass fiddler clutching his instrument or two big hands placed strategically on the sweater so as to clutch you-know-what.

The design titled "Woman Smoking a Cigarette" looks like two big jagged pieces of a picture puzzle. More realistic is a row of little hatted people walking down the street.

TO BATTLE FARM PROGRAM CUTS

Rural Congressmen Call Session

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rural representatives on Capitol Hill say the Nixon administration's cuts in popular and long-standing programs of federal aid to agriculture are a challenge to the power of Congress.

Calling House colleagues to a strategy session today, nine Democrats and five Republicans said the Agriculture Department's decision to terminate some farm programs "is not a matter solely of agricultural concern, or of partisan concern—it concerns all members of Congress."

Administration budget-cutting recently ended two conservation programs for which Congress had specified more than $200 million a year. Other actions call for phaseout of emergency farm loans by the Farmers Home Administration, plus a halt to low-cost direct loans by the Rural Electrification Administration.

"We feel that the termination of these programs can have disastrous consequences in agriculture and, beyond that, that the department's unilateral action is a challenge to the authority of Congress," the 14 Congressmen said.

They made the statements in a note urging fellow congressmen to attend a bipartisan caucus arranged by Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., head of a House Democratic task force on agriculture.

Melcher told reporters Wednesday that the administration's actions have prompted "the most crucial, critical confrontation between the legislative and executive branches of government."

Instead of just impounding funds, Melcher said, the President has in effect repealed long-standing laws without consulting or gaining approval of Congress.

Meanwhile, Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., told newsmen Wednesday that he intends to hold thorough hearings "at the earliest possible time" to examine the cutbacks "so that the members of this body, and the people affected, can have a voice in deciding what is good and what is bad for rural America."

Talmadge said he thinks the President's Office of Management and Budget, in a bid to hold federal spending to $250 billion a year, regards the farm population as "so impotent politically" that it is a good subject for cuts.

Vickers New Demo Director

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Harrison Vickers, a 24-year-old Houston lawyer whose first political activity was managing Dolph Briscoe's Harris County campaign last year, will be the state Democratic party's new executive director.

State Chairman Calvin Guest of Bryan announced the appointment Wednesday. "We are extremely fortunate to have a young man of Harrison Vickers' caliber," Guest said, calling him "a brilliant young attorney."

Vickers said his responsibilities would include "making the internal operations of the party more efficient" and retiring "a rather large debt." The debt, about $20,000, was incurred "over a period of time for printing, decorations for conventions and other things," Vickers said.

Vickers has been in Austin since Nov. 15 working on arrangements for the inaugural ball to be held the evening before Dolph Briscoe and Bill Hobby are sworn in as governor and lieutenant governor Jan. 16. That ball is a major part of the debt repayment plan, he said.

A native of Orange, Vickers received a law degree from the University of Houston, where he taught for one year before entering practice with Miller, Gann, Perdue and Draughn in Houston.

Harris County was not a Briscoe stronghold, giving him less than 40 per cent of its vote in the June primary runoff with Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi and about 46 per cent of November general election vote when his opponent was Sen. Henry Grover. Grover is a Houston resident, and Mrs. Farenthold moved there several months ago.

Vickers' appointment probably will go before the State Democratic Executive Committee for approval, a committee member said. The rules do not specifically require such approval, but it has been the normal practice followed by SDEC chairmen, the committee member said.

Smith Issues Warning

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith, who has less than two weeks to serve before leaving office, indicates he's not going to be the lamest of ducks.

Smith spoke Wednesday to supporters and civic leaders who gathered for what was promoted as Gov. Preston Smith Appreciation Day.

He said he has a memory like an elephant and warned that "a lot of people are going to find that out in the next few days."

Although the state was rocked by the Texas stock fraud cause, Smith said Texas has the finest state government in the United States.

He said he never had done a "dishonest thing" while he served 22 years in the legislature, senate, the lieutenant governorship and governorship.

"When we leave state government, we will leave Texas in the finest financial condition it, or any other state has ever been in," claimed Smith.

Smith told newsmen during the day he plans to go back to his hometown, Lubbock, "and assume the full responsibilities of a citizen."

He continued, "As far as being a candidate again, I have no anticipation of this, but I don't ever burn my bridges behind me."

At a breakfast, Smith was praised for work on various projects, especially the University of Texas facilities which are sprouting on huge tracts of land in northwest San Antonio.

Smith, who finished fourth both locally and statewide in a bid for re-election in the Democratic primary, responded that any officeholder who expects gratitude is a "damn fool."

Mills Plans Review Of Internal Revenue Code

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sweeping review of the Internal Revenue Code, leading to a tax-reform bill for House consideration this summer, is planned by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

But Mills cautioned, in an interview, against expecting either a substantial increase in government revenues or a general lowering of taxes to result from the reforms.

"I don't think you increase revenues by tax reform," the Arkansas Democrat said. "You usually find that a gain here is offset by a loss there." And, he added, in its present fiscal situation the country cannot afford an over-all tax cut of any size.

Mills said he expects to begin hearings by late January or early February, depending on how quickly the new House completes its organization, and to continue about six weeks.

He said the review of tax laws will have no particular targets, but in discussing possibilities he indicated some areas that might get special attention:

—Reform of estate and gift taxes, with emphasis on discouraging such devices as trusts which relieve one generation of tax liabilities.

—Capital gains. Mills has suggested several times that the present six-month period for holding an asset before its sale results in low-taxes capital gains—may be too short.

—The minimum tax, a provision in the 1969 tax act intended to ensure that wealthy persons taking advantage of special tax preferences would pay some tax in any case. Mills said the tax has not produced nearly as much revenue as had been anticipated, suggesting that its terms may be too loose.

—Municipal bonds. He said he still favors a provision, lost in the development of the earlier act, by which local governments would have the option of taking a government subsidy on interest rates, rather than issuing bonds whose yield is tax-free.

He said local officials are coming to realize that such an arrangement would broaden the market for their securities beyond the institutions and wealthy individuals who now buy municipal bonds because of the tax advantages.

Mills indicated he is not optimistic about chances for some of the changes often advocated by tax reformers, such as repealing special depreciation rules enacted in 1971, or subjecting the income of U.S.-owned foreign corporations to current tax.

Mills said he does not intend to re-introduce the bill he offered last year that would have repealed more than 50 tax preferences in present law unless Congress voted to retain them.

Forecasts Of Quake Feasible

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — Earthquake forecasts as reliable and precise as hurricane warnings will be feasible in 10 years or earlier, a U.S. Geological Survey research chief predicts.

"We are on the threshold of spectacular breakthroughs. We anticipate success," Jerry T. Eaton said Wednesday in an interview. Eaton is chief of the survey's office of earthquake research and crustal studies.

"All the elements of our work are coming together now. This means that we can judge the site, the time and magnitude," he said.

Japanese and Russian research efforts also are progressing on a major scale, Eaton said, and those nations are pooling their information with that developed by American scientists.

Eaton said that, while there has been notable progress in earthquake-prediction ability over the last eight years, "we can't venture a scientifically based prediction yet.

"I will make an out-on-a-limb guess that there will be no catastrophic quake (in the San Francisco-Bay area) of the 1906 San Francisco scale for at least the next 20 to 30 years."

The Dec. 23 Managua, Nicaragua, earthquake with its huge toll in human lives and destruction underscores the worth of a reliable quake-predicting system, Eaton said.

"It's simple to say what causes a major earthquake. It's the release of stored elastic energy jammed up in the rock faces locked together in plates of the earth's crust moving in opposite directions," Eaton said.

Laser and computer instruments developed since the great Alaska earthquake of Good Friday 1964 make it possible to record minute fault creeping and to detect symptoms of fault failure, Eaton said.

"With laboratory simulation of rock-strain endurance, plus other clues, we can construct computer models of when there must be a failure in a fault locking system," he said.

He said California's 700-mile San Andreas Fault system is nature's contribution to the study.

"It will give us a number of 5 Richter magnitude quakes — just below destructive scale — and we will be able to prove and test out all we have found out," he said.

"We'll have to have the dry-run experience with San Andreas quakes of magnitude 5 or less before we can have full confidence in our capability of predicting a really major quake," Eaton said.

Fife Says Coordination Needed Now

HOUSTON (AP) — A representative of the Organization of American States says contributors have been over generous with relief efforts for Nicaragua and now there is a need for coordination to get the donations to the needy.

The OAS official, Louis D. Fife, conferred Wednesday with Dr. Rodolfo Garcia, consul general of Nicaragua in Houston, and heads of agencies which have participated in relief activities.

Fife also is making visits to Miami, Los Angeles and San Francisco. The four cities are key points for shipment of relief goods from the U.S. to earthquake torn Managua.

"I don't know yet to what extent relief has piled up here," Fife said. "There have been some problems in getting it out."

Fife said he had no complaint about the way goods had been sent to Nicaragua but felt the many diverse efforts needed coordination.

He said Nacaraguans still could use whatever anybody wanted to contribute but especially needed food, primarily dried beans or white corn.

"There is no starvation now but there may be in the next few days if we don't get these things," Fife said.

Garcia said a shortage of funds for financing air freight to the stricken country has been overcome with a single cash donation of $22,000.

NO WINNERS IN A MODERN DAY WAR!

ADVISES MARKET AUTHORITY

Invest $100 Monthly And Become A Millionaire

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is at this time of year, when the mail brings bills rather than greetings, when reality closes in upon the spirit, that the working stiff takes pause to brood upon his financial plight.

The postholiday letdown may be responsible for the mood or probably it has something to do with early dusk and the realization that winter has just begun and that vacation time is months away and that junior needs his tuition money now and Uncle Sam wants his by April 15.

Whatever, it is a time when everyone needs relief from bleak reality, when the spirit craves an infusion of hope to nourish dreams. And so, here it is.

Would you like to become a millionaire? While you consider your response to this perplexing question, here is some factual information on how it might be done, depending upon your age.

If you are young enough, say 25, you might accomplish this goal if you can invest $100 a month for 40 years, and never dip into it except for taxes.

If you're middle-age you may have to settle for less, something ranging from a half-million dollars down. But your approach would be the same — to set aside $100 a month every month and never vary from that schedule.

The advice comes from a noted stock market authority, a conservative investor with a fascination for slide rules and the magic of compounding, a man who began his own advisory service because Wall Street gave him opinion rather than fact.

John Winthrop Wright describes the plan in his book, "Q-V-T, The Three Keys to Stock Market Profits." "Q-V-T," or quality, value, timing, is the basis of his investment philosophy.

"In the stock market," says Wright, "the competent investor can expect an average total return — dividends and capital appreciation — of from 8 per cent to 10 per cent a year." This from blue-chips, not speculations.

"By following sound, proven, professional investment methods he can increase that return to as much as 15 per cent a year. At that rate, he can double his money every five years if he compounds his profit.

"With an investment of as little as $100 a month and immediate reinvestment of all dividends and capital gains, a 25-year-old person can be worth just about $1 million by retirement at age 65.

"His total investment from personal savings will be only $48,000; the $1 million will be net, after payment for all income taxes!"

This is how your money would grow, assuming you achieve that 8 per cent or 15 per cent return each year and reinvested all dividends and capital gains. Brokerage commissions are deducted, but taxes are not.

At an average annual return of 8 per cent, compounded quarterly, your original investment after 20 years would be $24,000 but it would have a market value of $58,132. After 30 years, $36,000 and $146,477. After 40, years $48,000 and $341,549.

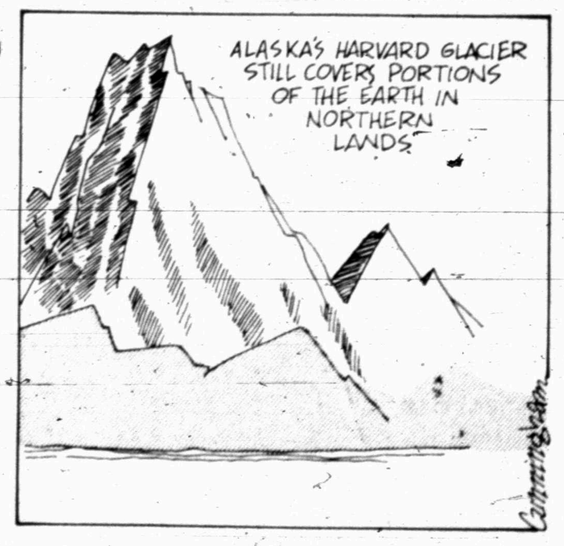

If you achieve a 15 per cent return, and Wright maintains you should strive for nothing less your original investments would be the same, of course, but your market values would be $144,103 after 20 years, $655,000 after 30, and $2,883,924 after 40.

Now the taxes. If you earned 15 per cent for 40 years and paid income taxes from your portfolio each year, your net worth would be just under $1 million. This assumes taxes will remain about where they were in 1970.

However, if you prefer to borrow against the portfolio to pay your taxes each year and then pay only interest on the loans until you make a total repayment at age 65, you would have a portfolio of close to $2 million.

Feel better? Now get to work.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE ICE AGE

QUESTION: What caused the Ice Age?

ANSWER: A million or more years ago the world was very cold and massive sheets of ice developed over the northern areas of both North America and Europe. The summers were very cool, and the snow and ice of the winter piled up.

The Ice Age or glacial period consisted of four periods. While the weather remained cool, the ice advanced southward. From time to time, the earth grew warmer. Then the heavy ice melted and retreated back toward the North Pole. This advance and retreat of ice occurred four times, according to the geologists. The progress of ice-leveled hills, filled valleys, formed lakes and changed the course of rivers. Some animals were unable to cope with the change in climate and died out. It is thought that man appeared during the later Ice Age.

Scientists think we are now on the verge of a new Ice Age. They predict the last 20 years of this century will become colder. Some advance the theory that a ring of gasses, caused by pollution, is encircling the earth.

Boyle Makes List Of Don'ts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — They say that what you don't know can't hurt you.

If that is true, then it must also be true that what you don't do can't harm you.

Acting on that theory, I plan to stay out of trouble, because in 1973 I'm not going to —

Get in a dogfight with Lassie.

Snap Mae West's garter.

Ask my landlord to repaint my apartment.

Steal the keys to Ft. Knox.

Write a poem on the walls of the Taj Majal.

Become a munitions salesman in Indochina.

Become a tree surgeon and perform an appendectomy on an oak tree.

Tweak the muscles of a 90-pound weakling at the beach.

Drag a red, white or blue herring across anybody's trail.

Rub out a mobster.

Pick a fight with City Hall.

Entice away any gangster's moll.

Denounce in print motherhood or the federal highway program.

Buy a pig in a poke.

Plant weeds in any man's garden.

Patronize any second-floor massage parlor unless it has been given a seal of approval by the king of Sweden.

Bear false witness against my neighbor who, after all, outweighs me by 30 pounds, is 20 years younger, and also had a longer reach and used to box in college. Why would I want to lie about a nice guy like him?

Weigh a butcher's thumb in the balance and find it wanting.

Make any blind dates at cocktail parties where everybody gets blind.

Kite a check.

Run off with any other guys' wive, for a man over 40 this would be like snitching rhinestones from a dime store jewelry counter.

Perform any mircles in the office. If you perform one miracle in the office, the next day they expect you to perform two — and three on the day after that.

Count the calories of my dieting friends, there's nothing more fruitless.

Tell my boss that I've been watching his work, too, and that it also could bear a little improving.

Hide my light under a bushel — or my money under a mattress.

Help finance another trip to the moon. There must be a less expensive place we can go to bring back rocks from.

Repeat all the sins that bored me during 1972.

Coxes Host Reception

MOSCOW (AP)--Tricia Nixon Cox and her husband Edward have played host at a U.S. Embassy reception to the son and daughter of Soviet Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev.

Among the guests Wednesday night were Galina Brezhnev, daughter of the Soviet leader; her husband, and Brezhnev's son Yuri.

During the reception, President Nixon's daughter and her husband also talked with Yekaterina Furtseva, the Soviet minister of culture, and Vladimir Promyslov, Moscow's mayor.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox are in the Soviet Union on a private trip which has taken them to Britain, Italy and Greece. They arrived in Moscow Saturday and are to remain in the Soviet capital about a week.

Astrodome Bid Turned Down

HOUSTON (AP) — The NCAA has turned down an offer by the Astrodome for a rent-free football game between national champion USC and runnerup Oklahoma as a benefit for Nicaraguan earthquake victims.

Arthur J. Bergstrom, NCAA controller, said two rules prevented his office from sanctioning the game, proposed by Ruben Askanase, president of the Astrodomain Corp., and Roy Hofheinz, senior chairman of the Astrodomain board.

They proposed that the game be played as a memorial to Pittsburgh outfielder Roberto Clemente, killed in a New Year's Eve crash aboard a plane flying supplies to the disaster-torn country.

Bergstrom said any special event must be certified at the April meeting preceding the year the event is to be held. He said another rule bars member schools from participating in two post-season games.

USC defeated Ohio State in the Rose Bowl and Oklahoma whipped Penn State in the Sugar Bowl.

Even if the NCAA had agreed, the coaches involved saw insurmountable problems.

"I wouldn't want to play the game," USC's John McKay said. "Three of our players have already left for the Hula Bowl in Hawaii. A few others are committed to the Senior Bow. We're recruiting now. We're way behind in that."

"Our kids are between semesters Oklahoma Coach Chuck Fairbanks said. "They're all over the country. So are the coaches; they recruiting."

Neither coach seemed anxious to settle the national championship with such a hurried meeting.

"The cause is certainly a worthy one," Fairbanks said. "But another thing, it sounds a little too like the purpose might be to determine the national football championship."

McKay said, "Did Colorado beat Oklahoma this year or did I read some bad information?"

The Trojans finished 12-0 and Oklahoma 11-1.

$500,000 Purse In New Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Oooooh-weeeeeee."

Arnold Palmer emitted a long, low exclamation, then let that famous grin spread across his face.

"Now they're getting up into my kind of figures—money that I like," he said.

"Hell, I might even start practicing again."

He was exclaiming over the announcement of a new pro golf tournament, offering a total purse of $500,000 with $100,000 to the winner—by far the richest the game ever has known.

The World Open, scheduled for a 240-man starting field including the Open champions of 35-50 foreign countries, is set for Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 6-18.

The tournament was announced Wednesday by Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the PGA tournament players division; Robert S. Ewing of the sponsoring Moore Memorial Hospital of Pinehurst, and William H. Maurer, president of the Diamondhead Corp., the owner of the club's facilities at Pinehurst.

The format calls for 144 holes of stroke play, broken into two sections. The first 72 holes will be played Nov. 9-12 on the Nos. 2 and 5 courses at Pinehurst.

The field then will be cut to the low 70 players and ties. Those players will be eligible for the final 72 holes, all on the famed No. 2 course at Pinehurst Nov. 15-18. Players who fail to qualify for the final 72 holes will receive $500 each.

Grant Teaff Is Coach Of Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 1972, Grant Teaff gave Baylor more football victories than it had earned in the three previous years.

For his efforts, Teaff has been voted the Texas Sportswriters Association Senior College Coach of the Year for the fall.

Teaff, who made Angelo State a winner before he came to Baylor last year, guided the Bears to five victories, including a 27-0 thumping of Missouri, and a third place tie in the Southwest Conference.

The TSA award followed previous accolades given Teaff including The Associated Press SWC Coach of the Year.

Teaff compiled 578 points, including 59 first place votes. Earnest Hawkins, who guided East Texas State to the NAIA title, was second with 18 first place votes and 402 points.

Other finishers in the balloting by the 237-member TSA included Al Conover, Rice, 387 points, Warren Woodson, Trinity, 371 points, Darrell Royal of Texas, 349 points, and John Symank, Texas-Arlington, 223 points.

Baylor had won only three games in three years when Teaff arrived. He recruited heavily in the junior college ranks added a dash of football savvy, and suddenly the Bears were no longer a "breather" on the schedule. Baylor had been picked dead last.

Hawkins did about the same at East Texas where the Lions were selected third behind Texas A&I and Southwest Texas. East Texas lost only one game and defeated Carson-Newman in the NAIA title game in Commerce.

Super Bowl Blackout Lifted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National Football League, assured of a sellout crowd for Super Bowl VII on Jan. 14, has lifted local television blackout of the National Football League championship playoff for the first time.

Final assurance came Wednesday when the participating clubs, Miami and Washington, reported sale of their allocations of 12,000 tickets each. The game will be televised nationally by NBC.

"Heck," said a spokesman for Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, "we've had 24,000 inquiries for tickets since last March when we learned the game would be played here. In fact, we've had that many in the past week."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL announced last October that the blackout that has existed for each of the first six games would be lifted if the game was sold out 10 days in advance.

In 13 seasons at Notre Dame, Knute Rockene-coached teams won 88 per cent of their games.

Greene Named Best Defender

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Brown of the Washington Redskins, who ran aound and over waves of tacklers, and Mean Joe Greene, who made waves of tackles, were named today The Associated Press Players of the Year in the National Football League.

Brown, the running back who rolled up 1,216 yards to lead the National Conference and helped carry the Redskins to the NFC championship, amassed 41 of the 67 votes for NFL Offensive Player of the Year cast by a nationwide panel of pro football writers.

And Greene, the tackle who anchored the Steelers' line which had opposition quarterbacks running for their lives and running backs looking for places to hide, garnered 32 of the 67 votes cast to easily take NFL Defensive Player of the Year honors.

There was a three-way tie for runnerup in the offensive category as O.J. Simpson of Buffalo and Earl Morrall and Larry Csonka of Miami received five votes apiece.

Simpson provided the Bills with most of their offense and, surpassing the injured Brown in the regular season's final game, won the league rushing title with 1,251 yards.

Morrall replaced injured quarterback Bob Griese in the fifth game of the season and proceeded to direct the Dolphins the rest of the way to a perfect 14-0 season and to the American Conference East championship. Csonka was the mainstay of Miami's record-setting ground attack as he bulled for 1,117 yards, second only to Simpson in the AFC.

Closest to Greene's 37 votes in the defensive balloting were linebackers Nick Buoniconti of Miami with eight and Chris Hanburger of Washington with seven, followed by defensive tackles Bob Lilly of Dallas with four and Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles with three.

Only a minor leg injury—which forced Coach George Allen to bench Brown for the final two games of the season in preparation for the playoffs—kept Brown from winning the NFL rushing title.

Still, Brown won plenty of recognition on his own.

And when the fourth-year pro from Kansas State heard himself compared to other brilliant running backs like Jim Brown and Gayle Sayers, he replied:

"Let me be myself. Let me succeed or fall on my face as Larry Brown without being compared to others. I just want to be my own man."

Greene, who led a defense that helped bring Pittsburgh its first divisional title—the American Conference Central crown—in 40 years, literally overwhelmed opposition ball carriers.

He finished the season with 42 unassisted tackles, 34 assists, six pass blocks, 11 quarterback sacks and a fumble recovery.

Seventh Grade Tournament Set

There will be a 7th grade basketball tournament at Travis Junior High this weekend.

There will be four games during the first round Friday. Lamesa A meets Lamar White at 4:15 p.m., Lamesa B meets Lamar Gold at 5:45 p.m., Colorado City B meets Travis Black at 7:05 p.m., and Colorado City A meets Travis Blue at 8:25 p.m.

Second round tilts on the winners' side of the bracket are on tap for 10:45 a.m. and 12 p.m. Saturday with the consolation tilt at 5 p.m., the battle for third place at 6:20 p.m. and the championship match at 7:40 p.m. Saturday.

Phillips Loses In Net Finals

John Phillips, former Snyder High School tennis star, reached the finals of the Sun Bowl Intercollegiate tennis tournament.

Phillips now is junior student at West Texas State University. In the first round, he defeated Stanley Morris of Texas Tech 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. In the second round, he bested Blake Avery of North Texas State 6-4, 6-2. In the semifinal, he beat Joe Wade of Pan American University 7-6, 3-6, 7-6. He was beaten in the finals, 4-6, 2-6, by Dan Courson, No. 1 player from Texas A&M University.

Phillips won the state singles while in high school.

Michigan State's 19-12 upset of Ohio State in 1972 gave the Spartans a 7-6 edge in the football series with the Buckeyes.

Yankee Skipper Sees Clear Sailing Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Burke has assumed control of the New York Yankee ship and the suave, new captain sees clear sailing ahead.

"We think we can take all the marbles in 1973," the modish, grayhaired Burke said after his 12-man business group took control of the American League baseball team in a $10 million deal with CBS Wednesday.

The syndicate pulled off the deal for the relatively cheap price because the CBS network apparently had become disenchanted with the once-powerful franchise.

Burke, who will continue as Yankee president, said that CBS was at times embarassed to have a less successful team after earlier years of power.

But, despite the selling price—$3.2 million less than CBS paid for the franchise in 1964—Burke said that the network "broke even" over the years. CBS had some financially profitable seasons, said the new owner.

The change of ownership won't mean a change of location, insisted the new owners at a press conference.

"The Yankees belong in Yankee Stadium, said Cleveland shipbuilder George Steinbrenner, another of the new bosses. "and, they should always be winners. We don't plan to move anywhere except upward in the standings."

Steinbrenner and the rest apparently plan to leave full control in the hands of the seasoned Burke.

Names of the other new owners were not immediately disclosed. Burke said that a majority of them were from outside the New York area, however.

The deal was sparked when Burke and Steinbrenner were introduced through a mutual friend and began discussing the possibilities in September. Burke, a former CBS vice president assigned to operate the team, negotiated the purchase with his former boss, William Paley, president of the network.

The Yankees had won their 29th pennant when CBS took control eight years ago. But since the network takeover, the New Yorkers have finished no higher than third in the American League.

In 1972, attendance at antique Yankee Stadium dropped to 966,328. It was the first time that the Yankees had failed to draw a million in a season since the Second World War.

Manager Ralph Houk, who signed a three-year extension to his contract late last summer, and the rest of the organization "will remain intact," according to Burke.

The only thing that will not remain intact will be Yankee Stadium itself. The 50-year-old structure will undergo a $24 million remodeling after the 1973 season.

Lamesa Will Be Here Tomorrow

Snyder's Tigers will meet an old nemesis—Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes—in the Scurry County Coliseum, at 8 p.m. tomorrow night.

It will match the two teams that shared the co-championship in District 3-AAA last year. Snyder won the playoff in a thrilling contest in Levelland and represented the district.

Veteran Coach O.W. Follis of Lamesa again has a talented crew. The Tornadoes are 15-2 for the season. Both losses were to Levelland in the finals of tournaments. Pacing the Tornado attack this season are Kent McCurley and Harry McCurley. Both were named to the all-tournament team at the Lamesa tourment.

Snyder's Tigers are 13-7 for the season and will be competing in District 4-AAAA this season. But, tomorrow night's game should be a good test for the Tigers. Lamesa is always tough.

Coach Bob Moore of the Tigers probably will start Jerry and Gary Brooks, Fred Liner, Kevin Jones and either Moell Blalock or Welton Cobb. Jimmy Don Dyess has returned to action and probably will get in the game. Others who can be counted upon are Charlie Anderson, Charles Cain, Tim Jones, Richard Gorman, V.T. Roberson and Larry Johns.

The program will begin at 6:15 p.m. with the junior varsity tilt. Meanwhile, the Snyder sophomores will host Big Spring at 6:30 p.m. tonight in the Tiger Gym, weather permitting.

Air Force basketball coach Hank Egan is a 1960 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. He played three varsity seasons at Annapolis.

Bombing Halt Seems To Relieve Soviet Leaders

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special COrrespondent

From what Moscow has said and done — or, perhaps, failed to say and do — it seems Soviet leaders are as relieved as anybody outside North Vietnam by suspension of the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong.

This suggests a clue to things to come. Possibly, Moscow foresees a whole new chapter in superpower relations that cannot begin to unfold until the Americans find some acceptable way out of the Indochina mire. Maybe — just maybe — the Russians even might be willing to provide a little extra shove to help matters along.

Why were Soviet leaders so clearly worried and so meticulously careful about their reaction to the fierce U.S. bombing of their ally?

Obviously, Moscow ardently has wanted to avoid upsetting the new trend in U.S.-Soviet relations for down-to-earth practical reasons involving the Soviet economy and its troubles. But there are deeper reasons, perhaps. Can it be that the Russians are worried that endless U.S. involvement in Indochina paralyzes American policy planning and inhibits developments of a sort the Kremlin would like to see take shape?

Is it that Leonid Brezhnev has reverted to an old notion of Nikita Khrushchev that it might be possible to insulate the two superpowers against the possibility of blundering into war with each other?

Back in the 1950s, Khrushchev threw out broad hints, scaring West Europeans in the process, that the Americans and Russians might do worse than stake out spheres of influence in a sort of superpower coexistence that the rest of the world would have to accept.

Khrushchev was repudiated eight years ago, but the notion of whacking up the world seems to be popping up again. Whatever their goal in the present circumstances, the Russians had to have important reasons for the way they spoke and acted when U.S. B52s rained destruction on Hanoi. Figuratively, they wrung their hands. They said it wasn't right. They denounced it as barbarous. They said it might affect Soviet-American relations. Might. They didn't say postively.

That was a good deal less than they could have said and probably much less than North Vietnam wanted them to say and do.

Meantime, the Russians walked on tiptoe in the Middle East as if to suggest they didn't want anything untoward to happen there, thus affronting the Egyptians. They made a big pitch for detente in Europe. They engineered a new, peaceful-looking relationship between the two Germanys. They talked affirmatively with the Americans about a number of things all the way from strategic-arms limitation to commerce.

Moscow might see some important benefits from a modus vivendi under which both superpowers observe "no trespassing" signs.

The United States did not interfere when the Russians crushed a reform movement in Czechoslovakia, and Americans officially appear resigned to the idea that Communist-ruled Eastern Europe is the Soviet backyard.

The Americans, too, are being passive about growing Soviet influence in South Asia through India and Bangladesh and the flag-showing activities of the Soviet fleet in the Indian Ocean. Actually, the Americans are pulling out — or trying to pull out — of the Asian mainland.

On the other hand, the Russians seem tacitly to indicate that they don't want to step on sensitive American corns in the Middle East and that Latin America also is the American backyard.

That sort of idea would have frightened Europe in the 1950s. Today, it is less worriesome. The Common Market, now expanded from six to nine nations, wields mighty economic power. The Americans have said that, if they can get out of Vietnam, this will be the "year of Europe" in U.S. policy making.

There have been assurances that the Americans do not plan to withdraw their troops from Europe. Yet the continued U.S. presence in Europe need not disturb the Russians too much, provided they can achieve an arrangement that insures their hegemony in the East while protecting the Soviet Union during a long period of badly needed internal economic building.

In fact, China might be a good deal more worried. A Soviet-American detente leaves the Russians freer to attend to whatever they might regard as threatening from the Chinese direction and to pursue a contest with China for dominating influence in the rest of Asia. But China, too, has seemed careful in her reaction to the Vietnam events, as if just as anxious as the Russians not to interrupt processes set in motion by the events of 1972.

Plant Accidents Kill 1, Injure 32

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Texas industrial accidents at about the same time Wednesday but some 200 miles apart—at Tyler and Houston—left one man dead and 32 injured, most of them with serious burns.

A large kettle of molten steel tipped over and exploded in a burning spray of white hot metal as it touched wet ground at the Tyler Western Foundary.

Twelve men were taken to Tyler's Mother Frances Hospital. Two others—Bennie F. Millstead and Fred Moore—were rushed to the burns center of Dallas' Parkland Hospital. Moore's clothing was burned off and Millstead's shirt was burned away. They were listed in critical condition.

One of the 21 workers with a flaming rain of horror.

Burns specialists went into action at the Tyler hospital. Administrator Tom Beck said the victims suffered varying degrees of burns over many areas of their bodies.

The Houston explosion occurred in the synthetic detergent alcohol plant of the Ethyl Corp. on the Houston Ship Channel, sending up a mushroom-shaped cloud of smoke. Officials said a fire was extinguished quickly.

Darrel Kirkpatrick, 49, an employe of Bovay Engineers, Inc., was dead on arrival at Pasadena Bayshore Hospital from injuries suffered in the plant.

Bob Maeser, Ethyl's general superintendent of administration, said the full extent of damage could not be determined until the area cooled.

G.M. Richardson, 57, and C.K. Rogers, 37, both of Houston, were listed in very serious condition at Pasadena Bayshore. Listed in fair condition were Joseph T. Krafick, 36, and David Holland, 37.

Jules Simian, an employe of French Limited, Edier Connor, 42, and D.W. Barksdale, all were listed in good condition.

W.L. Cox, 31, of Houston, was in serious condition at Pasadena Bayshore.

Carl G. Porter, 43, S.J. Allison, 39, and A.L. Zarbock, 47, all were hospitalized with third degree burns at Pasadena Memorial. None were listed in critical condition.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxapyers.

★ ★ ★

Q. I plan to take the standard deduction on my 1972 Federal income tax return. Can I still deduct the political contribution I made this year?

A) No. You may deduct political contributions only if you itemize your deductions. However, you may take a credit against your income tax of one-half of your political contributions up to $12.50, if you are single, or $25, if married, filing jointly. This credit may not exceed tax on line 18 of your Form 1040, less the amount of any retirement income credit investment credit and foreign tax credit you might have.

Q) Is it true that corrections are being performed during returns processing at Internal Revenue Service Centers?

A) Yes. The Internal Revenue Service has initiated a program to correct unallowable items identified on a return during processing. If your return contains an unallowable item you will receive a letter of explanation from the Service Center. However, if you feel you have a legitimate claim to the deduction, you may either submit additional information by mail or request that your return be transferred to your district office for an interview. You do not have to agree to the proposed correction without a hearing.

Q) When must I pay the balance of my 1972 estimated tax?

A) You have until Jan. 15, 1973, to pay your last installment of estimated tax. However, if you file an individual income tax return, Form 1040, on or before Jan. 31, 1973, paying the full amount of tax due for 1972, you will not have to pay your last installment.

Q) I plan to sell off some of my losing stocks at the end of the year. Can I buy them back in January and still deduct the stock losses on my 1972 return?

A) No. When you sell stocks or securities at a loss and within 30 days, you buy them back (or acquire a contract or option to buy them) so that you continue to hold substantially indentical stock, a wash sale occurs. Losses from such transactions are not deductible. Note, however, that the gains from wash sales are taxable.

For more details, see IRS Publication 550, "Tax Information on Investment Income and Expenses." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue district office.
