TEC office says filings increasing

The latest figures for unemployment in Scurry County reflect a 5.6 percent estimate — a slight drop from last month's figure of 6 percent — but local TEC workers say this may not accurately reflect the county's current job situation.

"I don't think we're getting a good picture of how it's going right now, mainly because it's just happening too fast," said Rae Adams, local TEC staffer.

She noted that her office is "as busy as it's ever been," mainly with new applicants filing for unemployment benefits.

No official records of applicants are kept at the Snyder office, since it is a branch of the Sweetwater-based TEC regional office.

"The word from Sweetwater is they're swamped," Adams said.

The latest unemployment estimate for Scurry County profiles the month of February, a time when the dramatic downward spiral of oil prices was just beginning.

The word from TEC representatives this week, however, is that job layoffs in the oil patch have been numerous.

We're seeing a lot of new faces," Adams said. And she noted those out-of-work "cover the gamut," from rig workers to mid-level management.

She added the mood of these workers "isn't one of panic."

"They know they have a certain period when unemployment benefits will help out, and most of them seem confident that they'll find work."

The procedure followed when local applications are made is to provide those filing with the necessary paperwork, then to refer them to the Sweetwater TEC office where the application is made.

She said she and Jerre Howard,

Suspects indicted for capital murder

Scurry County grand jurors — meeting in a called session which began shortly after 8:30 a.m. Friday — have returned indictments for capital murder against both suspects in the slaying of Allsup's convenience store clerk Jack Huddleston.

Now ordered to stand trial are Dorsey Johnson, 19, and Amanda Lynn Miles, 19, both of Colorado City.

Huddleston was killed March 23, apparently during a robbery of the local convenience store located in the 3900 Block of College Ave.

With the return of the indictments, District Judge Gene Dulaney set bond for the defendants at $150,000 each.

Friday, both remained in the Scurry County Jail in lieu of bond.

If convicted of capital murder, both Johnson and Miles could be sentenced to death by lethal injection.

Additional charges of aggravated robbery had also been filed against the pair at the time of their arrests Tuesday night.

Friday morning, District Attorney Ernie Armstrong did not seek indictment on those counts. The charges have not been dropped, however.

Johnson also faces charges of robbery and attempted murder in connection with a Colorado City convenience store holdup which occurred Tuesday.

During that robbery, the store owner was shot and stabbed, but survived the attack. A third suspect — the 30-year-old brother of Lynn Miles — is being held by Colorado City authorities in connection with that incident.

Wildflower walk offered on campus

County residents are invited to take a wildflower tour this weekend of an area marked and mapped on the Western Texas College campus.

As of Friday, some 21 varieties of wildflowers had been identified on the plot of ground immediately in front of the Scurry County Museum parking lot and the farm to market road which fronts the campus.

A map has been prepared (see page 14) to assist locals identify the flowers. A 20 to 30 minute time period is estimated to complete the tour.

An exhibit of watercolor paintings featuring almost half of the identified wildflowers is now on display at the Scurry County Museum, open from 1 until 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The wildflower path has been set up as part of Wildflower Day activities scheduled here next Friday and Satuday — April 18-19.

It is designed to allow locals to see the flowers in their native environment.

Event sponsors note there is a scarcity of plants this year due to the lack of rainfall. Individuals making the tour are asked not to pick any flowers.

A numbered maker has been placed adjacent to each variety of flower identified. It corresponds to the map provided in this issue of the SDN.

The tags identify each wildflower to include their com-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Subtlety is saying what you think and getting out of the way before it's understood."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Rain is on everyone's mind, and George Dolan, writing in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, reminds us that rain never suits everybody.

"Rain always falls with too little or too much frequency to suit anybody. People here are complaining about the lack of it.

"But former Azle banker Joe Bonfield, who does his coupon-clipping these days in Magdalena, N. M., figures Oregonians would welcome some dry periods.

"He says this bumper sticker was spotted on a pickup truck in Las Cruces: 'Last year in Oregon, 677 people fell off their bikes and drowned.'"

Danny Hukel, in the Gatesville Messenger, declared, "What a difference a day makes." To prove his point, he penned the following:

"In one day--

"Americans print more than a quarter million dollars of counterfeit money, but some 90 percent is seized before it reaches the public.

"The U.S. Postal Service handles 176 first class letters. About 800 are reported lost.

"Americans gobble up 75 acres of pizza.

"Americans spend $3.6 million on toys and accessories for their pets. They spend $27,000 a day on pet clothing.

"Americans buy 25,000 new cars and 2,500 new motorcycles. Americans smash up 50,000 cars and trucks and 1,500 motorcycles. Americans junk 20,000 cars and 4,000 trucks and buses.

"Americans spend $2.5 million washing their cars.

"Some 137,000 Americans stay home from work because of colds. Some 164,000 children stay away from school with the same excuse.

"Two hundred have their breasts reduced, and 35 have them lifted or aimed in some other direction.

"Six million tons of manure hit the ground behind U.S. farm animals.

"Americans change 60 million diapers and 48 million are thrown out after one use.

"Americans collectively grow six square miles of skin."

With those facts, one can surely make it through the weekend.

Ask Us

Q. — How will the price of oil be established to determine the value of Scurry County oil property for next tax year?

A. — That value is established by the oil valuation firm Thomas Y. Pickett and Associates of Dallas. In theory, the value of oil as of Jan. 1, 1986 could be the value used. In practice, appraisal district officials say, the firm attempts to set a price taking into account what the price of oil was at the beginning of the year and what it is expected to be at year's end.

Homosexual rights groups blast insurance AIDS test

CHICAGO (AP) — Healthy people are unfairly being denied insurance because some leading insurance companies now require tests for the AIDS antibody before approving types of health coverage, gay rights activists say.

The tests are necessary because the fatal disease is potentially "the biggest risk faced by the insurance industry," a spokesman for one company told the American Medical Association's weekly American Medical News.

An article in today's issue said the estimated 1 million to 2 million people who have been exposed to the AIDS virus are among those who could be denied individual health, life or disability coverage as a result of the tests.

A positive test indicates the presence of AIDS antibodies. That in turn means the person tested has been exposed to the AIDS virus. It does not mean the person has AIDS.

Health experts estimate that 10 percent to 20 percent of the people who have the AIDS antibody may be diagnosed with AIDS within five years.

"Lots of my patients — and this includes many, many healthy ones — are being denied insurance coverage, allegedly because of their medical histories," Dr. William Owen Jr. of the Bay Area Physicians for Human Rights in San Francisco told the publication.

In a telephone interview Thursday night with The Associated Press, Owen said 25 percent — or about a dozen — of the insurance applications completed by his office for homosexual patients were rejected during the past year. He said he couldn't recall any such rejections for previous years.

Ben Schatz of National Gay Rights Advocates, a San Francisco-based organization that provides free legal aid to homosexuals, said it was unfair for insurers to reject people with the AIDS antibody because most of them probably won't develop the disease.

Schatz disputed insurance industry contentions that screening applicants for AIDS-antibody exposure is no different from asking whether they smoke, drink or are overweight.

"You can quit smoking or lose weight or bring down your blood pressure," he said. "But you can't change your antibody status once you've been infected."

In California and Wisconsin, where insurers are forbidden by law from using the antibody test to determine insurance coverage, companies use another indicator called the T-cell subset test, the article said.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome devastates the body's defenses against disease, leaving a person prey to other life-threatening infections and certain cancers. AIDS is caused by a virus believed to be passed through blood and semen. Groups at highest risk are male homosexuals, intravenous drug abusers and recipients of contaminated blood products.

As of last month, it had struck 18,576 people in the United States and claimed 9,865 lives, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

The Knights of Columbus, the Roman Catholic fraternal society, was founded in 1882.

Dear Abby

What's Up Front or On Top Doesn't Count Much at All

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Why all the letters about bald men? What makes people think a man needs hair in order to be attractive? And why should any man let his thinning hair grow long enough to wrap around his head six times to create the illusion of hair?

My husband is 33, and he's losing his hair but fast. Do I care? Heck, no! He gets more handsome and distinguished-looking every day. I can't wait until he is out of the military so he can start growing a beard. I think guys with beards and little or no hair on their heads are the sexiest-looking men alive.

Bald-headed men and flat-chested women have a lot in common. They feel embarrassed because of what they don't have. Some try to "fix it," which is OK if they think they need it. But once they wise up and realize that what they are has nothing to do with what's on their heads or what's up front, they are much happier, self-assured and together.

I am built like a 12-year-old boy, but my husband thinks I'm sexier than Dolly Parton.

Print this. So many people need to see it.

HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: And I am happy for you. You and your lucky man sound like a peach of a pair.

DEAR ABBY: I am 60 years old and an incurable collector—baby clothes, news clippings, coupons, jars (cleaned, of course) and miscellaneous items. I box and store these items throughout my large house, in the attic, closets, under beds, basement—anywhere they are not in plain view.

My problem is not my collecting, but my children. They are all grown with homes of their own and find my habit distasteful. When I leave the house for work, shopping, vacation, etc., they clean me out. They go through my things and throw away what they regard as unnecessary and take for their own use whatever they want. They have discarded, or taken, some of my parents' belongings, baby clothes (special to me only), household items and my "junk."

I can't change the locks. My husband wouldn't hear of it, and gives me no support.

Don't think I'm trying to defend my habit. I know it's a quirk, but it's harmless. I'm trying to defend my privacy. If it were my husband doing this, I wouldn't like it, but it is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment. My children, however, have no claim here and have no right to go through my drawers and closets and take my things.

Please give me suggestions as to how I can put an end to this. I'm afraid to leave my house.

Thank you for any help you can give me.

BARBARA

DEAR BARBARA: As long as your "collection" does not present a fire hazard, is not in plain view and inconveniences no one in your home, your children have no right to enter your home in your absence and clean it out.

Your husband's failure to support your right to privacy baffles me. You say, "It is his house as well, and I would have to respect his right to live in a clutter-free environment." Can it be your collection is actually an inconvenience and source of irritation to your husband but he has not verbalized it to you? Discuss it with him, and if that's the case, you owe it to him to stop collecting.

However, if it's as you described—"just a harmless quirk"—and you are a competent, functioning adult, if your children refuse to keep out, they should be locked out.

Whites attend classes alone

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The presence of two white students at a black medical school sparked a boycott by the other 1,078 students, who say blacks need the highest enrollment possible to help end a shortage of doctors.

The problem began when Pieter Druger and Darryl Wilke enrolled at the Medical University for Southern Africa in February. The university is South Africa's only medical school established especially for blacks.

The two white students completed pre-medical training at regular universities and entered the school, commonly called Medunsa, because others would not accept them as third-year students.

The predominantly white administration dropped them soon afterward because of black protests, but the Supreme Court ordered their reinstatement last month.

The boycott began March 22. The two whites stayed away, and the school closed down five days later for Easter recess.

Classes resumed Monday, but the rooms were empty. Blacks did not return, waiting to see whether Kruger and Wilke would.

They did on Thursday, and sat alone in their classes.

"All of the other undergraduates are not attending in protest," said Vivienne Martin, a school spokeswoman. She said most were staying in their dormitories.

Libya likely suspect

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl today identified Libya as a suspect in the bombing of a West Berlin discotheque in which two people were killed and 230 others were hurt.

"There are a great many indications that the bombing of the discotheque in Berlin also has a Libyan background," Kohl told a news conference.

He hinted that others, also, may have been involved, but refused to say who. "I have said what I am going to say on this matter, you know that an investigation is going on," he told reporters.

A U.S. Army sergeant and a Turkish woman were killed in the blast. Sixty-three of the 230 people who were hurt were Americans.

Kohl's chief government spokesman, Friedhelm Ost, said Wednesday investigators had indications Libya orchestrated the terrorist blast. But Kohl's statement today was the first time he said publicly the North African nation was suspect.

Kohl, a Christian Democrat and a staunch ally of the United States, refused to say whether he would approve of a U.S. military attack on Libya in response to the discotheque bombing.

The chancellor said, however, he would advise anyone considering such an attack to "be aware of what he is starting and what the end will be, what will come of it. That would be my advice."

Police said Thursday that a Libyan wanted in West Germany entered West Berlin a few days before the bombing.

Father shoots suspect

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The father of a slain teen-age girl smuggled a revolver into a courtroom in a hollowed-out book and fired point-blank at the accused killer, wounding him as the judge dived under the bench, witnesses said.

Jack Spiegelman had been watching pretrial proceedings Thursday when he suddenly rose, pulled a pistol from his pocket and aimed it at the defendant, Daniel David Morgan, who was about six feet away, the witnesses said.

"Jack had a gun in his hand, leaned over the railing and held it in both hands and fired," said Assistant District Attorney Thomas Norman, who was prosecuting.

Superior Court Judge William D. Stein said he was taking notes on the testimony when Spiegelman fired.

"I looked up and saw a man standing there with a gun in his hand. I heard one or two shots, and I went down under the bench," Stein said. "Then I heard some more shots, and I looked up, and the defendant was lying on the floor."

Morgan, 39, was shot three times in the right arm, and the fourth shot grazed his scalp, said Sheriff's Department spokesman Ray Towbis. A spokeswoman at San Francisco General Hospital said Morgan was in satisfactory condition late Thursday after two hours of surgery.

After the shooting, Spiegelman dropped the gun and surrendered, said police Inspector Jeff Brosch, who was testifying at the hearing.

Spiegelman, 47, a Los Angeles accountant, smuggled the gun into the courtroom in a hollowed-out book, said police Inspector Manuel Barretta. He was booked on charges of suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder and carrying a concealed firearm. No bail was set.

Book Review

DOWN TOWN. By Viido Polikarpus & Tappan King. Arbor House. 293 Pages. $16.95.

"Down Town" is one of those truly bad novels that makes the most inane television program look like an attractive alternative to the unfortunate reader.

It's badly written, the prose is often purple in hue, and cliche-riddled — consider, "Allie dove into the food ... like there was no tomorrow." It's obviously derivative — "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "The Wizard of Oz" are two sources that come immediately to mind — and the speech patterns of the heroine, the aforementioned Allie, are as irritating as metal scraping along concrete.

The hero is a 12-year-old wimp named Cary Newman, who by book's end has grown to heroic stature, but by then it's too late for both him and the reader. Angry with his mother, Cary dashes into New York City's murky subway system and by some whim of the gods finds himself in a different world.

This world is called "Down Town," and it's literally below New York. It's a place where time is out of joint, where the people, styles, buildings, etc., that have been discarded by contemporary New York have gone for refuge.

It's not a bad place, but there's trouble in Down Town. A bad guy named Miles Brand is trying to take over the place and put it in the hands of some really bad guys, namely the Gnomes of Wall Street.

BARBECUE SPARERIBS

1 cup chopped onion
1 cup peach preserves
1 tablespoon ketchup
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ cup white vinegar
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
4 pounds spareribs, left whole
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 lemons, thinly sliced

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In a saucepan, combine the onion, preserves, ketchup, sugar and all the seasonings; simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Rub salt and pepper into the ribs and place them in a shallow roasting pan, meaty side down. Brush ribs with some of the sauce and bake 30 minutes. Turn the ribs, brush with some more sauce, and put the lemon slices on top. Bake another hour, brushing with sauce as the ribs cook several times more, removing the lemon slices before the last time. To serve, slice into serving portions. Serves 4.

When you're learning how to ski, your instructor tells you to lean forward on your skis. That goes against your natural impulse to rest your weight on your heels. But following your natural impulse will land you flat on your back. There are natural impulses in bridge, and usually it's OK to follow them. But watch for exceptions. See if you, as declarer, can get high marks on today's deal, when East plays the diamond king on his partner's opening lead. For a true test, cover the East and West hands with your thumbs.

Did you take the ace of diamonds and lead a club to the jack? East will win and return a diamond. You might go to dummy and play another club. West will win and force out your last diamond stopper. If you then go to dummy to play still another club, West will take two more diamonds to set you. Or if you try hearts instead, they do not split. And no, the queen of spades does not fall under the A-K. So what's to do?

Stifle your natural impulse and let East win the king of diamonds. When he plays another diamond, win the ace and cash the queen (remember, you still have the jack), pitching the ace and king of spades from dummy. Now play the jack of spades and continue that suit until a defender takes the queen. Even if the defender who wins the spade queen does not play another diamond, you have the heart queen for entry to those good spades and can make three no-trump.

Pep rallies set to lift spirits

MIDLAND and ODESSA, Texas (AP) — High school bands played rousing marches, a rainbow of balloons floated into sunny skies and pep talks echoed notes of optimism as these twin cities gathered to forget the slump in oil prices and celebrate their grit.

"We had some rough times in the 30s, the old-timers tell me. We were so down we had to reach up to touch bottom," former Midland mayor Hank Avery told some 800 people assembled in an auditorium in downtown Midland.

Midland and Odessa will survive because of their people, said Avery, who was mayor during the area's last recession in the mid-60s.

Several organizations sponsored simultaneous rallies Thursday afternoon in the two West Texas cities, which are separated by a 20-mile stretch of State Highway 80 lined with oil-related and oil-dependent businesses.

Midland and Odessa are capitals of the Permian Basin, which produces more than 20 percent of the nation's oil. Both cities have been hit hard by the decline in the price of oil, which was selling for $13.58 a barrel on Thursday for the May futures market, up 58 cents from the previous day.

In Odessa, about 500 people showed up for the 4:45 p.m. CST rally in front of the Odessa College Sports Center.

Mario Saavedra, 29, carried a placard that read: "Bag of Ice 99 Cents, Gallon of Gas 75 Cents." Bar owner Ronnie Lewis carried another placard: "Case of Beer $12.50, Barrel of Oil $8.75."

"Maybe this will cheer him up," said 15-year-old Mary Madrid of her father, a worker in an oil tank company who has been returning home earlier each day as his hours are cut down.

The rallies kicked off a four-month media campaign dubbed "People With Character: Fueling Progress In the Petroplex."

The balloons — blue and yellow in Midland and four colors in Odessa — symbolized that the Permian Basin has "nowhere to go but up," said Joan Baskin, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

"It's to remind folks that they are the area's greatest asset," she said. "We can't control OPEC or the federal government or speculators. But we're toasting all folks in Midland and Odessa. They've been down this road before."

The crowds at both rallies were mostly composed of office workers and business people, apparently not among the numbers of unemployed that reached 7.8 percent in Midland and 9.3 percent in Odessa for February.

"If you dwell on it, you could feel pretty low," said Tom Wageman, president of Republic-Bank First National Midland, who attended the Midland rally with his wife. "It's not over yet."

Wageman, who helped carry a white banner with his bank's name in red letters, said he let 300 of his workers off early so they too could attend the rally. Thirty workers remained to close the bank.

Keith Thomas, personnel director at Texas Instruments' plant here, said his company had grown from 300 workers in 1980, when he arrived, to between 1,000 and 1,500 now. He declined to give the exact number of employees because of security reasons, as the plant manufactures microchips and other products from the military. His company is not feeling the downturn as much because it is not dependent on the oil market, he said.

"But when I go home, I see it from my neighbors, I see it in church. People who've lost their jobs. There is a concern," he said. "I wish we could do more."

The audiences were given a sneak preview of several short video clips that will be used on television during the campaign. Charlie Daniels and other Country and Western performers saluted Midland and Odessa and told of how they were able to carry on when times were tough.

Austin council delays decision

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin should care for its own poor before establishing itself as a sanctuary for Central American political refugees, several residents have told their city council.

"Show me what you can do with your own right here," said Della Green, an East Austin woman who opposes the sanctuary proposal.

But supporters of Mayor Frank Cooksey's sanctuary proposal said it is a humanitarian necessity.

"It would be an example of civility and compassion that other cities in the Southwest might follow," said Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, a former gubernatorial candidate.

The council listened to four hours of testimony Thursday before deciding to postpone action until after another hearing next Thursday. More than 80 people signed up to testify.

A majority of the council has said it supports the sanctuary plan.

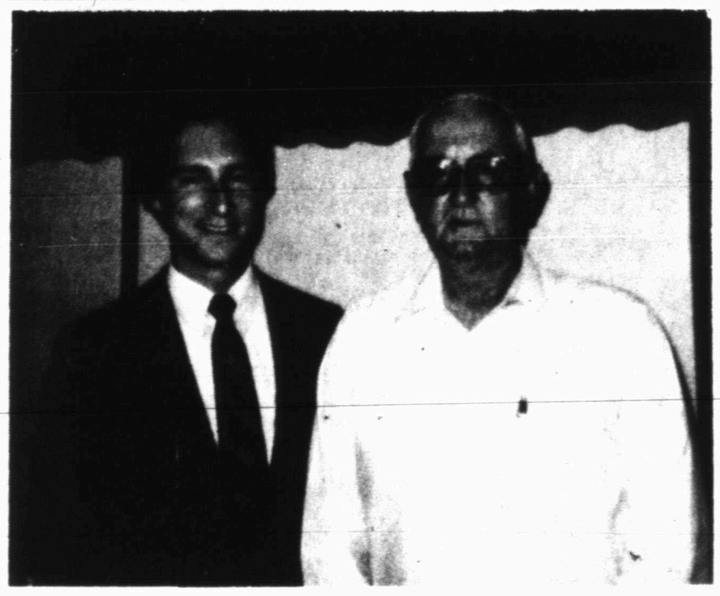

About 18 other cities, none in Texas, have declared themselves sanctuaries for political refugees. Cooksey's proposal says Austin police would not help federal officials pursue immigration violators.

It also encourages Austinites to work with shelters to "provide needed housing, transportation, food, medical aid, legal assistance and friendship" to refugees.

The proposal urges Austinites to "comply with the Constitution, the laws and treaties of the United States."

But a U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service official testified that the resolution is a call for law-breaking.

"They are illegal aliens. Transporting illegal aliens is a federal crime," said Richard Casillas, INS district director in San Antonio.

In Beirut...

Irish teacher said missing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An Irishman who teaches at the American University of Beirut was reported missing today in Beirut's militia-ruled western sector, a university spokesman said.

There were fears that the teacher, Brian Keenan, had been abducted.

He is the fourth Western teacher to disappear in west Beirut since March 28.

Keenan, who teaches English at the university, failed to arrive at the seaside campus for classes today, said university spokesman Radwan Mawlawi.

Two Britons, political science professor Leigh Douglas, 34, and International Language Center director Philip Padfield, 40, disappeared March 28.

There has been no claim of responsibility for their disappearance.

French teacher Michel Brian, 42, vanished Wednesday as he walked to work at the College Protestant Francais. A group calling itself the Siffine Islamic Organization claimed Thursday it was holding the Frenchman.

Keenan was the 50th foreigner to be kidnapped or reported missing in Lebanon, mainly west Beirut, since January 1984.

Twenty-six have been freed. The bodies of three kidnap victims have been found.

Six Americans, nine Frenchmen, three Britons, an Italian and a South Korean are missing.

Iacocca: VP Bush is right

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca is standing shoulder to shoulder with Vice President George Bush on the controversial question of falling oil prices.

"I don't think George Bush said anything wrong," Iacocca told the American Society of Newspaper Editors on Thursday.

He offered that endorsement immediately after saying that if he had a vice president who differed with him the way Bush appeared to differ with President Reagan on oil prices, "I'd fire him."

Immediately after Bush said it was essential to talk to Saudi Arabian leaders about "stability" in oil prices, White House officials said the president's policy was to rely on "market forces" to set prices.

The president told a news conference Wednesday night that he saw little difference between his position and what Bush said.

Fugitive kin eludes police after shootout

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — A fugitive wanted in three states eluded police here after his brother was killed by a mortally wounded police officer in a bus depot shootout, authorities said.

Officers armed with shotguns, rifles and automatic weapons were to search throughout the night for Edward Neil Smith, who fled on foot after the shootout here, Police Lt. John Gross said Thursday.

About 100 officers combed residential areas around the bus depot, checked junkyards and along the railroad track, but "we haven't really come up with a whole lot," he said.

"We've had a lot of reports of possible sightings," he said. "So far, none have been valid.

"We really don't know where he is," he said. "There is no evidence that he's still here or that he's left."

Edward Smith's brother, Donald, 30, and Officer Gary Maas, 28, died in the gunbattle late Wednesday, said police spokesman Officer John Jung.

Maas, who was wearing a bulletproof vest, was the first officer killed in the line of duty in the department's 72-year history, Jung said. He was shot in the head and pelvic area.

Sensible use of sweeteners

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR.GOTT — Which is safest for children: sugar, NutraSweet or saccharin?

DEAR READER — This is a tough question because it is disarmingly simple.

Many nutritionists believe that Americans eat too much sugar. Although the substance itself is safe for general use, a problem may arise because of quantity.

Some authorities have questioned the safety of heavy reliance on aspartame (NutraSweet or Equal) in children's diets. Again, the question is one of quantity. Aspartame must not be used by people who have the genetic disorder called phenylketonuria (PKU). Similarly, saccharin is probably best limited to small doses.

I believe that moderation is the best approach, although all three substances are probably harmless in the quantities ordinarily consumed. Potential trouble may arise if both natural and synthetic sweeteners are ingested in excessive amounts.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A few years ago, my grandson, 14, was injured in an accident. He suffered a blood clot and had to have surgery on his head which left his left foot and hand in bad shape. Sometimes his hand tightens up, and he also limps on his left foot. Can anything be done to help him?

DEAR READER — Once damage from an accident has developed, it is usually permanent. However, your grandson may be helped by a program of rehabilitation supervised by a physiatrist, an M.D. who specializes in rehab medicine. Many hospitals have a department of rehabilitation medicine; I think this would be an appropriate option for you to explore.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 69-year-old male and have what my doctor says is peripheral neuropathy in both feet. He has not given me a very understandable explanation of what this ailment really is or how it developed. Can you do so?

DEAR READER — Peripheral neuropathy means that certain nerves to the extremities — in your case, the feet — are malfunctioning. This can be caused by vitamin deficiency (particularly of the B-complex group), toxic minerals (like lead), nerve irritation (such as ruptured discs between the spinal bones), poor circulation, metabolic diseases (especially diabetes), nerve infection (like shingles) and injury, drug effects (from a variety of medicines), or a host of less common diseases.

Most neuropathies are treatable once the precise basis has been identified. Because nerve dysfunction has so many causes, it can be considered a symptom, rather than a disease itself.

Gasoline prices decrease again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale gasoline prices fell at their steepest-ever clip last month, down 21.9 percent to pace an overall 1.1 percent drop in prices one step short of the retail level, the government said today.

Even better news: So far this year, wholesale prices across the board have plummeted a record 12.4 percent.

March's huge drop in gasoline prices dwarfed the 0.3 percent gain registered by food costs, their first rise this year.

Ask The Preacher

"Does God Know Everything?"

Well, it would be very easy to answer this question by saying, "Yes!" and then leaving it at that. But there is a little more to be discussed here.

Psalm 147 says, "Great is our Lord and mighty in power; His understanding has no limit." (NIV) The King James Version says, "His understanding is infinite."

The idea here is that God's knowledge has no boundaries, no limits, no hindrances. That means there is not anything that God does not know!

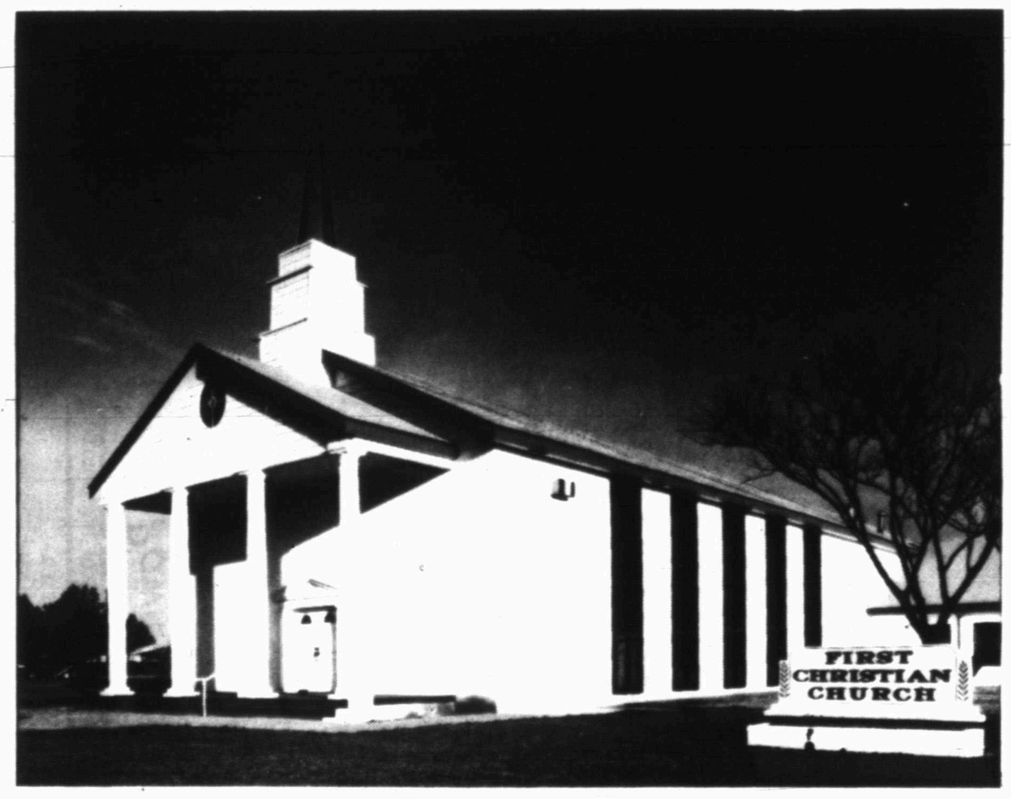

There are a lot of passages like this in the Bible. One of my favorites is Job 28:24 which says, "God views the ends of the earth and sees everything under heaven."

The Bible is very explicit--God knows everything.

SHS welcomes state-ranked Eagles in key game tonight

Snyder's Tigers come up against their third straight state-ranked opponent in a row here tonight and this one may be the toughest of them all.

The Tigers, who dispatched Brownfield and Andrews in succession, now host the sixth-ranked Pecos Eagles at 8 p.m. on the Moffett Field diamond.

Tonight's opponent is more than another state-ranked foe for the Tigers, however. Leadership of the District 2-4A standings is on the line this time. Both Snyder and Pecos are 2-0 in loop play and tonight's winner will walk away with sole possession of first place - if only temporarily.

Starting on the mound for the Tigers will be Don Osborn, a senior righthander who gave up just three hits in five innings of relief work to propel Snyder past Brownfield. Jimmy Velasquez, the Tiger "ace" who defeated Andrews earlier in the week, will be in the wings, if necessary.

Elsewhere, a key district game is scheduled in Lamesa this evening where the Golden Tornadoes and the Andrews Mustangs match 1-1 loop records. Lamesa is 5-8-1 for the season. Tenth-ranked Andrews is 11-6. Also, Monahans, 0-2 and 5-7, is at Fort Stockton, 0-2 and 5-5.

Both of those games are scheduled for 7 o'clock starts.

Pecos comes into tonight's game with an 11-5 season record. Snyder is 11-7. This will be the first meeting of the season between the two teams.

In addition to a new face on the mound for Snyder, the Tigers have altered the batting order somewhat to try and take advantage of Ricky Hunter's hot bat. Hunter, the Tiger catcher, has ignited the Tigers offensively in their last several games.

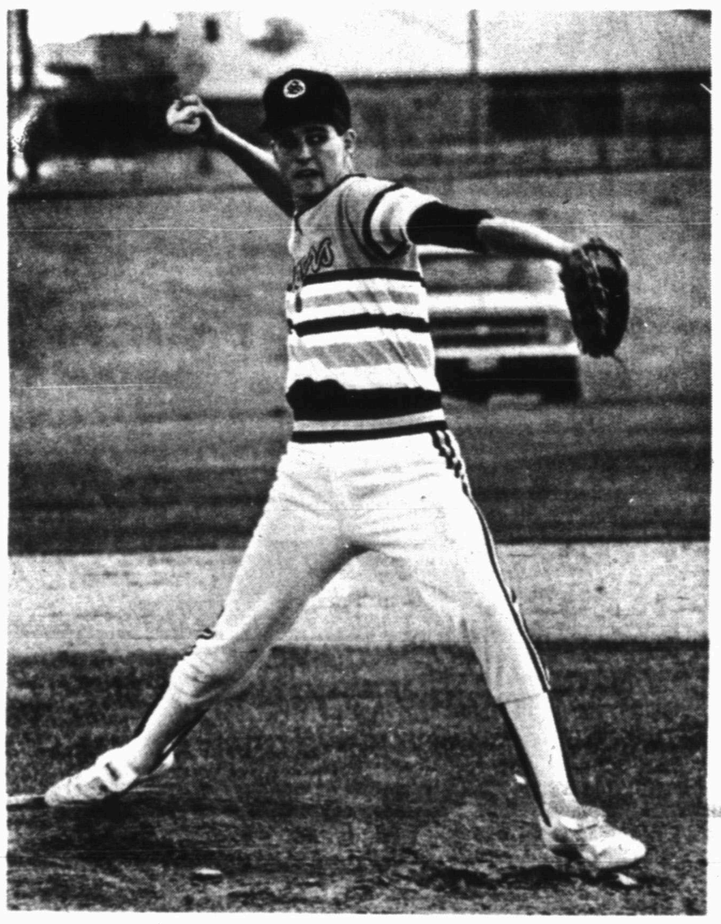

He'll lead off tonight and be followed by second baseman Chris Fryar, third-sacker Justin Webb and Velasquez, who will be in right field. Batting fifth will be first baseman Kenneth Pickering. Brad Holcomb, author of two home runs against Andrews earlier this week, will take his swings in the seventh place spot. The order finishes out with centerfielder Mike McWilliams, left fielder Michael Long and designated hitter Todd Odom - batting for Osborn.

In a tentative lineup for Pecos, Jesse Abila will lead off and play second base, followed by Lupe Gabaldon at first; Larry Avila at right field and Lance Windham at centerfield. Next up will be David Vejil at left and either Tony Urquidi or Javier Solis at third. Jaime Mata will likely play short stop. He'll be followed in the order by pitcher Oscar Mariscal and catcher Ponchito Bafidis.

Mariscal is the Eagles' usual starting short stop, so tonight's game is causing Pecos to fill in at that position with Mata. Solis could play short stop if Urquidi is at third.

Windham, batting .444, leads the Pecos sticks. The senior has six of the squad's 13 home runs this season. Avila is batting .429, Solis and Urquidi .417 and Vejil .348.

Mariscal is 1-0 with one save. He has fanned 15 batters in nine and two-thirds innings and given up four runs on seven hits. Three of the runs have been solo homers.

STARTS TONIGHT - Don Osborn will start on the mound for Snyder tonight as the Tigers take on Pecos in a District 2-4A ballgame at Moffett Field. The contest is scheduled to begin at 8. (SDN Staff Photo)

Tigers to run on new track at Bulldog Relays Saturday

PLAINVIEW -- Snyder will be among the first varsity teams to compete in the renewed Bulldog Relays, scheduled here Saturday on the new track at Plainview High School.

The relays began back in the middle 1960s, but were discontinued in 1981. Major work on the track was done over the summer and other than practices and a junior high meet, Saturday's meet will be its debut.

The field promises to be a good one with Amarillo High and Amarillo Palo Duro expected to be the favorites. Also entered are Hereford, Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock Monterey and host Plainview. Junior varsities from all seven schools will compete also.

Field events and running prelims are scheduled for a 9 a.m. start. Finals will get underway at approximately 1:30 p.m.

Several Bulldog Relays records could be snapped this weekend. Palo Duro's Billy Wells should threaten three of them, weather permitting. Wells has ran a 10.4 100 meters, a 21.6 200 meters and long jumped 25-1. The existing relays records are 10.6, 21.9 and 23-3½, respectively.

Also, Amarillo's Sam Reagan is expected to challenge the meet record of 10:18.9 in the 3200 meters. Reagan has run a 10:13.3 this season.

Saturday's meet will be the final tuneup for Snyder prior to the District 2-4A Relays, which are scheduled April 19 in Monahans. Snyder has been led this season by pole vaulters Robert Patterson and Reggie Price, and by Jimmy Hunter, who throws the shot.

Girls may not be full power for track meet at Levelland

LEVELLAND – Snyder's girls could be the favorite or the underdog here Saturday, depending on who makes the trip to the Levelland Relays.

The single-day meet gets underway at 9:30 a.m. with the high jump, triple jump and shot put. At 10:30, the discus and long jump begin. Prelims begin at 11, followed by the 3200 final at noon. Running finals commence at 2 p.m.

Teams entered include Snyder, Levelland, Aspermont, Lamesa, New Deal, Lockney, Lubbock Christian, Plainview and Valley High.

The field would normally be considered a good one for the Tigers, who will use the meet to get ready for next weekend's District 2-4A meet. But intangibles, including injuries, make Snyder a question mark going in.

First, the Tigers could be without leading point-getter Karlene Thompson for most of the meet. Thompson is scheduled to take her ACT test and may miss the long jump, triple jump and prelims in the 200. She hopes to enter the 800 and 1600 relay events, however.

Also, the Tigers could be without hurdlers Cristi Comer and Tonya Holladay. Comer is suffering from a bruised hip and Holladay from a possible pulled muscle.

"I just don't know how we'll do because we are probably going to have several girls out. I'll look at everybody this afternoon and we'll make some decisions," said Coach Grimmett. "We don't want to risk anybody getting hurt further this soon before district."

Sports summary

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (AP) - The NBA announced that it will hold its draft lottery May 11, along the same guidelines as last year when the format was instituted.

The lottery will determine the order of selection of the first-round picks of the seven non-playoff teams, except in cases where the No. 1 pick previously was traded. The draft will be held June 17.

The New York Knicks, Los Angeles Clippers, Indiana, Phoenix, Seattle and Golden State have been eliminated from the playoffs. With the regular-season ending Sunday, Chicago and Cleveland are in contention for the remaining playoff berth.

GENERAL

NEW YORK (AP) - Pete Axthelm and Larry King, who had featured roles on NBC-TV's National Football League pregame show, will not be rehired, the network confirmed.

Axthelm appeared on the show for the past seven years, mainly as a betting analyst. King, a national radio and TV talk show host, worked only last season on the "NFL '85" program.

BOXING

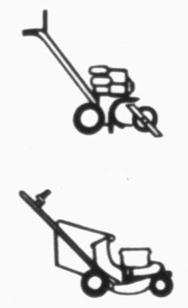

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Professional boxer Jerome "Kid" Coffee has been charged with receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with a burglary at the office of country singer Waylon Jennings, authorities said.

Coffee, 28, cashed two $1,000 bills at a Nashville bank that had allegedly been stolen from Jennings' offices during the past weekend, authorities said.

Andrews looks to clinch 1st; SHS girls eye second place

SWEETWATER -- They don't even have a girl's golf team but Sweetwater is hosting the final District 2-4A tournament of the season here Saturday.

On the other hand, it probably wouldn't matter. They'd be chasing Andrews and Snyder anyway.

Defending champion Andrews geared up for the final 18-hole tournament with a comfortable, 34-stroke lead over second place. Boasting a three-tourney total of just 1,075, Andrews appears almost untouchable going into the tournament.

In fact, the only team even capable of catching the Mustangs is Snyder, sitting in second place with a 1109. But while the Lady Tigers have only scant hopes of overtaking Andrews for first, they can be content that second place is theirs and theirs alone.

The Lady Tigers are in second place by 100 strokes over third-runner Fort Stockton, which has a 1,209 in three tournaments. Fourth place is Andrews B, at 1,257.

The real question to be resolved here Saturday will be that of district medalist. Snyder's Leslie Light and Andrews' Genny Kovacs tee off the 9:30 a.m. start tied at 259 apiece.

Playing for Snyder, either on the A-team, B-team or as individuals, are Light, Xalyn Harris, Angie Lay, Michelle Holder, Camille Reed, Lea Ann Thompson, Rachel Everett, Kristi Neill, Michele Anderson, Stephanie Blair, Missy Trull and Stacy Botts.

Boys wind up golf season at Western Texas College

District 2-4A winds up its regular boy's golf season here Saturday and Andrews and Monahans should walk away with top honors.

Tee time is 9 a.m. at Western Texas College Golf Course instead of the unual 9:30 starting time. The change came about because several schools also have teams entered in the girl's tournament at Sweetwater, and have decided to arrive this evening.

Andrews, the defending district champion, is set to repeat again. The Mustangs go into the final tournament with 635 strokes. Monahans is in second place with 653 - 18 strokes back.

Should Monahans stumble, however, a whole group of teams are willing to take over the all-important runnerup spot. Lamesa is 17 strokes behind the Loboes at 670, followed by Fort Stockton at 671, Andrews B team at 672 and Sweetwater at 675.

Pecos, at 678, and Snyder, at 682, are given little chance of catching the Loboes.

Snyder does have a chance at finishing third, however.

"It would take a miracle for us to finish second but it's possible to finish third. I think we're going to make up some ground at our course," predicted Coach Mackey Greene.

The Tigers are sparked by Shane Gann, whose combined 166 leads the group. David Holley and Wade Hatter go into the 18-hole tournament with 171s. Michael Trull has a 176 and Marc McQueen a 179.

B-team members include Jason Polk, a 185, Terry Hildreth, a 190, and Jeff Franklin, a 202. Mark Murphy and Ken Meckley have played in only one tournament each, and turned in scores of 95 and 87, respectively.

First and second place teams and individuals through the three tournaments qualify for regional competition.

Greens fast, faster at Masters tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Tom Kite called them the fastest greens he had ever seen, but they certainly didn't faze Ken Green and Bill Kratzert.

"I made about four or five no-brainers today," Green said Thursday after sinking four birdie putts of 35 feet or more in composing a 4-under-par 68 that gave him a share, with Kratzert, of the first-round lead in the 50th Masters golf tournament.

Just how fast were the greens?

Gary Player, the three-time Masters champion from South Africa, four-putted the ninth and had a 77.

British Open champion Sandy Lyle of Scotland, who won his first tournament in the United States last week at the Greater Greensboro Open, three-putted twice and had a 76.

Bernhard Langer, the West German who won this major title last year, also three-putted twice in his round of 74.

"The greens were so fast you couldn't stop the ball," Langer said. "It kept going, going and going."

Johnny Miller putted from the back fringe into the water on No. 12 and took a triple bogey 6. He eventually shot 74.

The lush Augusta National Golf Club course is known for its fast greens, but they were faster than usual Thursday because of swirling northwesterly winds that began in the morning and lasted throughout the day.

Gary Koch, winless since claiming two victories in 1984, and Taiwan's T.C. Chen, who led the U.S. Open after three rounds last year, were one shot behind the leaders with 69s.

Tom Watson, a two-time Masters winner, headed a group of six at 70 that also included Australian Greg Norman, Tommy Nakajima of Japan, Dave Barr of Canada and Americans Tom Kite and Bob Tway.

Seve Ballesteros, seeking his third Masters title in seven years, was among seven players at 71, a group that also included 1984 Masters champion Ben Crenshaw and PGA champion Hubert Green.

Sherrill says...

Nothing wrong at Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The National Collegiate Athletic Association is not investigating Texas A&M University's football program about allegations made by a Dallas newspaper last December, football Coach Jackie Sherrill said.

"We're not under investigation," Sherrill told The Houston Post. "The NCAA is not on campus and no NCAA investigators are here. We haven't been notified by the NCAA of anything."

Sherrill, however, did confirm Wednesday that the NCAA had investigated an allegation by a Dallas television station that quarterback Kevin Murray received several improper payments and use of a car from Dallas businessman Rod Dockery.

"The NCAA has investigated the matter and has the information," Sherrill, who also is the school's athletic director, said. "That is between Kevin Murray and the NCAA. It does not involve Texas A&M and the NCAA. We'll just have to see what happens."

The coach said an internal investigation at the school, triggered by allegations made by the Dallas Times Herald in December, included interviews with about 300 people. No wrongdoing was found, he said.

At the time, Sherrill denied any knowledge of wrongdoing and issued a statement through the school refuting the allegations.

"The people doing the investigation do not have anything to do with me," Sherrill said. "They report directly to the president's office. They are confident there is nothing wrong."

"They are continuing to investigate. If something was turned up, we'd report it, correct it and be the better for it," he

Toronto's Tom Henke, who played for the Rangers for three years, gunned 'em down again Thursday night.

Henke struck out four Rangers in two perfect innings of relief to earn the 11-10 victory.

On Wednesday night, he got the save in a 3-1 Toronto triumph.

Henke was left unprotected in the compensation pool two years ago and the Blue Jays got him.

Back to back homers by Willie Upshaw and George Bell in a three-run eighth inning tagged Greg Harris with the loss.

Henke said "I just threw strikes and they couldn't hit 'em. That's the name of the game."

He added "It always feels good to win, no matter who you beat."

Henke was declared the winning pitcher by official scorer Burt Hawkins, who felt that his effectiveness merited the victory.

Toronto used five pitchers and starter Jimmy key lasted only one-third of an inning as he yielded five hits and five runs.

Wilkins crams hoop for 57

by The Associated Press

Fun is scoring 57 points, as Dominique Wilkins did. Not so much fun is having to win a game at Boston Garden, which the Cleveland Cavaliers must do.

Wilkins laid waste to the New Jersey Nets Thursday night in posting the highest individual scoring performance of the NBA season in a 126-117 defeat of the Nets.

"It's something that I'm enjoying, because it's just a fun thing to be involved with," Wilkins said of the chase for the NBA scoring title. He leads with a 30.3 average to 29.8 marks for Utah's Adrian Dantley and Denver's Alex English.

Dantley and English face uphill struggles if they are to overtake Wilkins in the last weekend of the regular season, but it's nothing like the barrier standing between Cleveland and the final Eastern Conference playoff berth.

Thursday night's 102-101 loss to the Milwaukee Bucks dropped the Cavaliers a game back of Chicago in the battle for the 16th playoff spot in the 23-team NBA. Cleveland hosts Chicago in Sunday's regular-season finale, but by then it may be over. That's because tonight the Cavs must visit Boston Garden, where the Celtics have lost only once in 39 games this season.

manager of the regional office, are now attempting to more accurately document the increase of the jobless in the six-county region served through Sweetwater.

The February estimates for Snyder figure a civilian labor force of 10,024 individuals. This figure is some 600 less than the number estimated in February of 1985.

The labor force total is reached by adding together two figures, the number estimated working and the number estimated "actively seeking employment."

As of February, it was estimated that 9,462 individuals were employed and another 562 were seeking work. The 562 seeking work comprise 5.6 percent of the two estimates combined.

In addition to Scurry County, unemployment estimates for the five other counties served through Sweetwater were released. These include:

—Nolan County: 8.9 percent unemployment figuring 6,908 individuals employed and 679 on file as looking for work.

—Mitchell County: 11 percent unemployment figuring 3,660 individuals employed and 452 on file as looking for work.

—Fisher County: 7.7 percent unemployment figuring 2,153 individuals employed and 180 on file as looking for work.

—Stonewall County: 6.2 percent unemployment figuring 1,026 individuals employed and 68 on file as looking for work.

—Kent County: 6.5 percent unemployment figuring 493 individuals employed and 34 on file as looking for work.

Private school issue will now be sent back to state solons

AUSTIN (AP) — A committee of the State Board of Education voted 4-0 today to toss the issue of regulating private schools back to the state Legislature.

The Committee on Students approved a resolution which asks the 1987 Legislature to decide the issue of regulating private schools. The resolution also included guidelines to determine the definition of private schools.

The measure will go to the full board Saturday. Committee Chairman Jack Strong of Longview said he favored today's action after being told at the hearing the Texas Legislative Council has issued an opinon saying the matter is out of the authority of the state education board and must be handled by the Legislature.

Today's meeting followed protests on Thursday by opponents to new regulations for private and church schools who had a double-barrel argument — the state shouldn't make any changes. And, if it does, the Legislature should handle the revision.

More than 75 witnesses, including 17 state legislators, appeared Thursday before the Students Committee of the State Board of Education to protest any new controls over non-public schools.

"If they go ahead with these changes, we will sue them in court," GOP gubernatorial candidate Kent Hance told an enthusiastic rally of the opponents Thursday.

"I have been approached by a number of clients who say they want me to file suit for damages against each of you if this is passed," Dallas attorney Curtis Brown told the committee.

"The threat of legal action will not keep us from doing what we think we should do," replied committee chairman Jack Strong of Longview, a former state senator.

More than 1,000 jammed the auditorium and about twice that many filled the corridors and adjoining rooms to listen to the proceedings through speakers.

Outside, hundreds more kept their rally going with speeches, hymns and patriotric songs.

The proposed new regulations, which were postponed from the board's March meeting, mandate that a private or parochial school — which includes classes held in the home by parents — must be approved by the state.

Such schools also must teach a course of instruction similar to that required of public schools and have adequate physical facilities, and its students must take an annual achievement test.

The only current requirement of a private or parochial school is that it offer a course in citizenship.

Many of the more than 75 witnesses, including a number of legislators, claimed the board had no authority to lay down the rules because the constitution gave them control only of public schools.

"We won't allow bureaucrats to infringe on the fundamental family traditions in Texas," former Gov. Bill Clements, a GOP candidate for governor, told the pre-hearing rally.

"I think the force behind this is the attorney general, who wants to get support in a case he has against home schools," said Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Dallas. "If a change is needed, this board should make recommendations to the 1987 Legislature."

Rep. Phyllis Robinson, D-Gonzales, said the new rules would "choke the very breath of life" out of the way of life of a number of Amish families that have moved into her district.

"This is legislation by bureaucracy," said Rep. Bill Clemons, D-Lufkin. "This is best left to the Legislature."

Attorney Kelly Frels said his firm represented about 25 school districts in the Houston area, who count on the daily attendance for state funds.

"They need clarification and guidelines on what the law means and how it can be enforced," he said.
