Johnson appeal process continues

Convicted murderer Dorsey Lee Johnson Jr. may be the first Mitchell County resident executed in Texas since the state reinstated the death penalty in 1982. In fact, according to research conducted at the Mitchell County Library, Johnson may be the first person from the county to ever be executed by the state.

Since his 1986 conviction, the Colorado City resident has been involved in an appeals process that has lasted eight years.

Johnson was convicted and sentenced to death for the killing of an Allsup's convenience store clerk during a robbery in Snyder.

Earlier this week, Federal District Judge Sam Cummings of Lubbock upheld the findings of a magistrate against the defendant.

Johnson is expected to file yet another appeal with the 5th Circuit Court in New Orleans. He has 30 days to file the appeal.

In what most consider a landmark case, the U.S. Supreme Court in 1993 denied his appeal on the grounds of youthfulness. Johnson was 19 at the time of the murder. The case is expected to once again find its way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Some time during or after the appeals process, the case will go back to the 132nd District Court for a new execution date to be scheduled unless an appeal is granted.

In a brief hearing in the 132nd District Court on September 1, 1993, Johnson was ordered to die by lethal injection on November 12.

When Johnson's lawyer filed a motion for an indefinite stay of execution prior to the November date it was denied by 132nd District Court Judge Gene Dulaney.

Instead, Dulaney set a new execution date for January 27, 1994 at the request of District Attorney Ernie Armstrong.

District Judge Dulaney said he will wait to set another execution date until the case has gone through the 5th Circuit Court or if no appeal has been filed after 30 days.

This would be the third date set for Johnson's execution.

Local trooper remains on administrative leave

According to an internal affairs spokeswoman, more than four months has gone by and the state is still paying local law enforcement officer Robert Maldonado his full salary while he maintains an administrative leave status pending disciplinary action.

Maldonado, a state trooper, was charged with assault and burglary of a habitat at the end of September in Sweetwater, where he confronted his estranged wife and her boyfriend.

However, the charges against Maldonado were dismissed at the request of the victims.

According to Department of Public Safety media relations personnel, Maldonado still receives full benefits and approximately $32 thousand a year salary until a final outcome is determined.

Spokeswoman Sherri Green said there is no way to determine how long Maldonado will be on administrative leave or how long the internal investigation will continue. "Each case [concerning an officer on administrative duty] is reviewed every thirty days," she said.

According to Green, the Department of Public Safety does not keep a record of how many officers are currently on administrative leave; however, internal affairs officers are actively pursuing ten cases at the present time.

"In order to determine that number someone would have to go through each personnel file," she said.

She added that the number of persons employed by DPS is over 62,000 and of that total approximately 27,000 are commissioned officers serving the highway patrol, Texas Rangers or other various state law enforcement agencies.

If investigators determine Maldonado acted without justification he will face one of four disciplinary actions.

"He could receive a formal written reprimand, disciplinary probation, time off without pay or a discharge," Green said.

Junk houses are an eyesore!

It seems like everywhere we look in Colorado City we find an old, uninhabitable house that has been left to simply rot away before our eyes.

Not only are these dilapidated buildings eyesores, but they can also create dangerous situations for children who wander inside them. Additionally, these old homes are fire hazards.

Although it has been a slow process, the City of Colorado City has been making attempts to tear down these structures and reuse what they can of the wood.

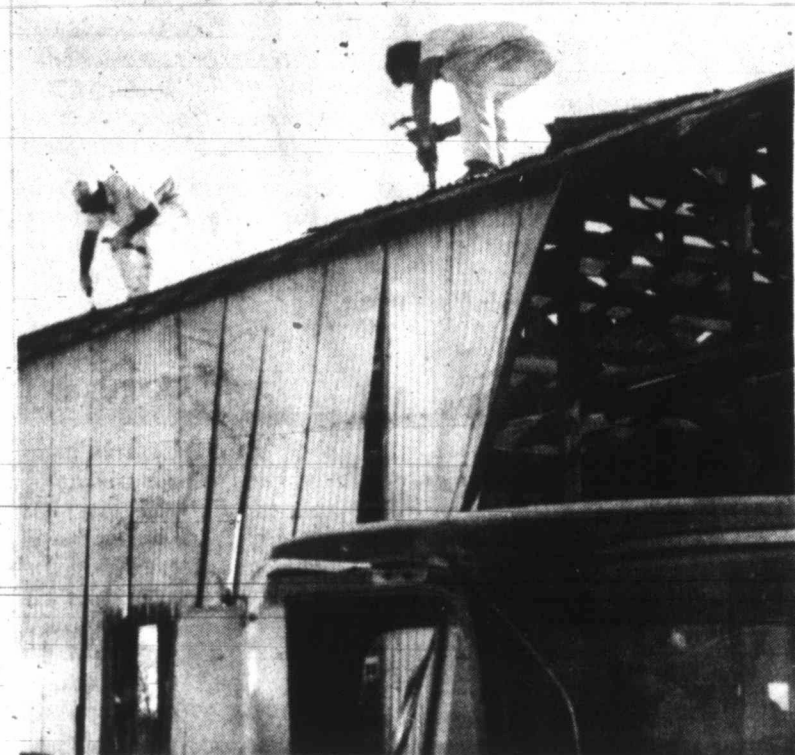

James Rich, who is in charge of the city's demolition project, said that in the last year or so the city has torn down at least eight of these structures.

"After tearing down those old buildings, we salvage what lumber is good and the prison reuses it at their horse pens to build sheds and other [similar structures]," he said.

According to city personnel the city keeps a revolving list of buildings slated for demolition; every time one is taken from that list another is added.

City Secretary Connie Hershaw said part of the difficulty in tearing down these structures is locating the owners.

THESE WALLACE UNIT INMATES have been helping the city tear down one of its old city barns, located on Concho Street next to the Colorado River. City employee James Rich said the barn held "over 40 years worth of stuff."

Taco Johns, Subway due for completion in April

If all goes as anticipated, Colorado City will have two new eating establishments by the end of April.

According to Junior Heidelberg, owner of West Texas Building System of Stanton, construction on the proposed Subway facility will be completed by mid-March, with completion on the new Taco Johns expected to be 30 days behind.

According to Heidelberg, work on the proposed facilities began in September 1994, but had been delayed because the company was waiting for approval on building designs from both Subway and Taco Johns franchise headquarters.

Subway gave its approval in early January and Taco Johns is expected to approve plans early this week.

Heidelberg said part of the delay comes from the fact that both establishments will be larger facilities than normal.

"The Subway will be 1,570 square feet and sit 48 people," he said. "Taco Johns is expected to be about 1,500 square feet."

The establishments will be built 140 feet apart and will both provide drive-up windows for patrons.

Klein Construction Company of Colorado City will be doing the concrete work, exterior wall finish and tile work.

According to Heidelberg all the utility lines are already in place.

Pickup drawing will be held July 1st

In conjunction with its plans for the High Plains Junior Rodeo, the Colorado City Police Department's Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education program will hold its drawing for a 1995 Ford pickup on July 1, the rodeo's last night of events.

The DARE program will be accepting donations of $20 each up until two weeks before the drawing. At that time 15 semi-finalists will be drawn.

The semi-finalists will be invited to a special dinner in their honor, where they will be able to meet some of the children involved in the DARE program, their parents and instructors.

One week before the final drawing, five individuals will be drawn from the semi-finalists. These finalists will be invited to the rodeo on July 1 where they will be awarded DARE jackets and a final winner will be drawn.

The rodeo, which is co-sponsored by DARE and the Chamber of Commerce, will also act as a fund raiser for the program. It is scheduled for June 30-July 1.

Tickets can be purchased at the police department, the Chamber of Commerce, City National Bank, the credit union, Woods Boots and the Rainstick.

Harassment legislation sought

At the request of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, Sen. Jim Turner of Crockett and Rep. Allen Hightower of Huntsville have introduced legislation aimed at stopping harassment of prison guards.

If passed, the law would deny inmates access to personal information about prison employees.

"The inmates are making a mockery of the Texas open records law when they use public information to threaten, taunt and harass prison employees," Turner said. "Not only have the inmates created an abusive and potentially dangerous situation, they force the state to waste tax dollars responding to their demands."

TDCJ executive director James A. Collins said that open records requests from inmates for prison employee information have increased dramatically in recent years, including 105 requests in

He added that many of the individual requests seek information on more than one employee, including one inmate demand which sought records on 108 prison guards.

Collins said prison officials are particularly concerned about family and personal information which inmates might obtain about female prison employees.

Hightower said it is obvious to him that "these inmates have nothing better to do than clog public agencies with requests for information for which they have no constructive need or use."

Turner added that a strong open record law is essential for open government and an informed public; however, a convicted felon does not have the same rights and access.

According to Collins, TDCJ has not granted inmates' requests for public information about employees. Instead, all requests have been referred to the Attorney General's office for an official ruling.

"It is a waste of resources for both TDCJ and the Attorney General, but it would cost us even more to actually fulfill the requests," Collins said.

The Turner and Hightower bills, Senate Bill 388 and House Bill 949, would close the records of all public agencies to inmates; however, inmates will still be able to get records involving themselves, such as information as to why they were turned down for parole.

CMS students participate in UIL meet

On Saturday, January 28, 12 Colorado Middle School students and two sponsors attended the 1995 Stamford UIL math/science meet at Stamford High School.

Mrs. Sonja Hanks and Mrs. Cathleen Tutt sponsored the students, who competed in grade level divisions in Number Sense, Calculator Applications and Science Contests. More than 12 area schools participated.

Students attending included sixth graders Ashton Anderson, Andy Crockett and Chase Ratliff; seventh graders Archie Goodman, Ben McNeal, Jennifer Petty, Mark Sheets and Lacy Watson and eighth graders Kristen Browning, Adam Myers and Aaron Sanders.

Archie Goodman placed seventh and Mark Sheets placed 10th in the seventh grade division of Number Sense. Goodman also received a second-place trophy in the seventh grade science division.

The UIL math and science teams will attend the Abilene Cooper High Meet on Saturday, March 4. The UIL district meet for all academic events has been scheduled for Saturday, April 29 in Greenwood.

However, the city may go through a noticing process to acquire ownership of the property and then proceed with demolition plans, she added.

Currently, the city is having trouble locating the owners of eight of the houses on the city's demolition list.

City Manager Steve Shutt said that because the city is "somewhat limited in equipment and manpower" progress has been slow.

He added that the city has received help from prisoners in tearing down city owned property, saving the city both manpower and tax dollars.

The next house set for demolition, at 432 West 4th, is expected to be torn down early this week.

Good recordkeeping is key to successful farm

By Mary McMullen C.E.A.-F.C.S.

Tax time has rolled around once again. Farmer/Rancher Brown quickly gathers his "Boot Box" accounting software package and carefully and quietly "downloads" it and its contents of receipts, cancelled checks, gin receipts, livestock auction tickets, deposit slips, empty snuff boxes, etc. by placing it on Mrs. Farmer/Rancher Brown's office desk.

Is this the picture around your farm or ranch at this time of year? Today's farmers and ranchers are facing some of the most difficult economic situations ever faced by America's agricultural community.

Declining profit margins, changing farm programs and tight credit requirements have challenged many farmers and ranchers to become "good farm and ranch managers" rather than just good farmers and ranchers.

Good recordkeeping is essential to the success of any farm or ranch operation. Farm and ranch financial records are used to analyze the financial conditions and performance records of the operation, monitor the production of the operation and they can also be used in short and long term planning.

These records are also used to generate reports for you, your creditors and most importantly, for the Internal Revenue Service.

What is a good recordkeeping system? It should be easy to use and should provide important information that is easy to retrieve.

What system do you need? Remember, it's your system and you need something that will work for you and, more importantly, you need a system you will work with. A very simple handwritten system that you can and will use is preferable to a complicated automated system that is never utilized.

Remember, a recordkeeping system will not guarantee success, but it usually results in a better decision-making process. Without records, farmers and ranchers often make decisions based on "gut" feelings. This can lead to lost profits and failure.

We often view farming and ranching as a special way of life, and it is—but it is too expensive to view as a hobby. Treat it as a business you want to pass on to your children or grandchildren.

Take advantage of good farm and ranch recordkeeping systems and other business management tools available to you. You will increase your profits and improve your chances for having a successful farm or ranch operation.

LEGAL
NOTIFICATION TOTAL COLIFORM VIOLATION
The Mitchell County Utility Company water system collected four water samples during the month of December 1994, that contained Coliform bacteria. The Mitchell County Utility Company water system is required to submit a minimum of four water samples each month for bacteriological analysis. The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) sets drinking water standards in Texas and has determined that the presence of total coliforms is a possible health concern. Total coliforms are common in the environment and are generally not harmful themselves. The presence of these bacteria in drinking water, however, generally is a result of a problem with water treatment or the pipes which distribute the water, and indicates that the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possible jaundice, and any associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease-causing organisms in drinking water. The TNRCC has set an enforceable drinking water standard for total coliforms to reduce the risk of these adverse health effects. Under this standard, no more than 5.0% of the samples collected during a month can contain these bacteria, except that systems collecting fewer than 40 samples/month that
