Germans Give Up Ardennes

Vicious Nazi Blows In Northeast France Absorbed By Yanks, French

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 12—The Germans dropped all organized resistance in the western Ardennes salient today, headed east toward the Reich across the snowfields, and three Allied armies in hot pursuit plowed along behind them in three and four-mile advances.

As the tide of battle ebbed here, it rose abruptly in northeastern France, but doughboys were healing breach in the old Maginot line and had driven the enemy from all but the south edge of Rittershoffen, a village eight miles south of the Reich border north of Strasbourg.

Most of Forces Removed

With skill born of similar reversals on the Russian front, the Germans withdrew from their extended positions in Belgium without stranding sizeable forces, although Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army succeeded in cutting to ribbons their troops boxed east of Bastogne.

The U. S. First Army struck three miles south from Laorche, at the northwest corner, overrunning a number of abandoned villages.

The British Second Army moving four miles in from the west joined up with the U. S. Third Army near the fallen southwest cornerstone city of St. Hubert, lopping off the westernmost seven miles of the Ardennes.

Roadblocks, Minefields

Here the three armies racing across 100 square miles of abandoned territory had to contend primarily with roadblocks and minefields, but farther east the Germans were stiffening against First Army surges against the northern shoulder.

The northern shoulder must be held if von Rundstedt is to win this round and pull out his forces for fresh blows somewhere else. Already Americans are two and a half miles from his main escape route.

In order to salvage his forces for this stand, von Rundstedt was accelerating the withdrawal on the southern flank where the Third was lunging at his lines at two points from Bastogne 10 miles east to the mountains of northern Luxembourg.

Where the Germans will elect to stand was a question.

Kept On Defensive

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army troops kept the Germans in the Bitche salient to the west on the defensive, reoccupying Althorn, six miles south of Bitche and hammering the enemy from all sides of this salient.

Ten miles south of Strasbourg, the French raided enemy positions below Kraft, and stirred up a nest of armored resistance. The Germans threw in two attacks in this area and both were repulsed.

The Germans, massing 100 tanks or more, still appeared to be feeling for a soft spot in the French and American lines.

As the Germans broke off the engagement on the western Ardennes battleground, they attacked with renewed fury with tanks and infantry in northeastern France, trying to exploit a break through the old Maginot line eight miles south of the Reich border north of Strasbourg.

Paid Heavy Toll

The attacks were in nowhere near as great strength as the costly breakthrough in the Ardennes, which was achieved only with the destruction of six to seven German armored divisions, uncounted thousands killed or wounded, and more than 30,000 troops captured.

The U. S. Third Army, which accounted for at least 80,000 killed, wounded and captured, sent the Germans reeling eastward today by crushing powerful box positions southeast of Bastogne and seizing 3,400 more captives.

One front dispatch said tonight the German withdrawal might continue all the way to the Reich frontier, although there were indications the enemy might elect to anchor strong positions on St. Vith, four miles inside Belgium.

Nazis Say Reds Open Offensive

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 13—Berlin reports said last night that the long-awaited Russian winter offensive in southern Poland, "the biggest of all time," had begun at dawn yesterday on a broad front west of the Vistula river bridgehead town of Baranow, 120 miles below Warsaw, and had penetrated German lines amid "extremely violent fighting."

The new push came as Moscow announced that Soviet shock troops had hurled the remnants of the German garrison at Budapest into a five-square-mile pocket in the heart of the Hungarian capital.

Nazis Blow Up Houses

A midnight Soviet bulletin also said that Hungarian patriots had risen, and were firing on the Germans from cellars, rooftops and street barricades. In retaliation, the Germans are blowing up houses and public buildings without warning and "thousands of civilians are perishing in the ruins," Moscow said.

A late report from Berlin to the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter described the Russian-Polish offensive as the greatest yet launched. The Russians are attacking "with 500 heavy guns, two air fleets, several tank armies and innumerable infantry divisions," it said.

The drive apparently was aimed at Kielce and Krakow, last major strongholds protecting German Silesia. When fighting subsided last August in this area—the shortest route to Germany's heart—the Russians held positions only 20 miles southeast of Kielce, rail town connecting Krakow with German-held Warsaw, 93 miles northeast of Kielce.

Russians Are Silent

Moscow's regular communique did not mention the new offensive but the Soviet high command customarily is silent at the beginning of major operations.

Inside wrecked Budapest the Russians, using flame-throwers, tanks, and tommy-gun teams, captured another 135 blocks, and also took the city park (Varosliget), the Kerepesi cemetery, an oil refinery, arms factory, and other buildings. All these are in Pest, the half of Budapest lying east of the Danube, and Soviet dispatches said Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army units now were only a mile from the river, having penetrated half-way through the core of remaining German positions.

West of Danube

The encircled German garrison in Budapest now holds only one-fifth of the capital. Most of this area is on the eastern side of the Danube.

On the Western side of the Danube, the Buda part of the city, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine Army units had driven to within a mile of the Danube from the west, the midnight communique said.

Thomas Given Death, New Trial Sought

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Jan. 12. — Formal plans to save Jim Thomas from the electric chair were being implimented late today by the 50-year-old convict's defense counsel, who filed a new trial motion with 106th special District Judge J. E. Garland at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

A jury that reported at 11:45 o'clock this morning said by its verdict that Thomas was guilty of the Oct. 26, 1943, slaying of Dr. Roy E. Hunt, 36, of Littlefield, and recommended the death penalty.

A 64th district jury at Plainview had returned a similar verdict Aug. 30, after deliberating 2 hours 40 minutes. That conviction was set aside after a subsequent hearing had developed there was misconduct in the jury room, and 64th District Judge C. D. Russell on his own motion changed venue to Dawson county, outside his district.

Whereabouts Undisclosed

Thomas' counsel, declining to disclose the convict's whereabouts, said Thomas nevertheless would be in this sections several days, inasmuch as he would institute appeal action were Judge Garland to decide adversely on the new trial motion. The new trial motion "almost certainly will be controverted by the state," it was expected.

The defense likewise declined to reverse context of the motion filed today, but told newsmen "no new testimony material to the case has been discovered — but the defense feels there have been material errors calculated to injure the rights of the defendant."

Bill Of Exceptions

The bill of exceptions that would be filed to the court of criminal appeals with the transcript and statement of fact in the four-day trial should the case be appealed "would be lengthy, but there would be nothing sensational in any of it," it was said.

Counsel declined to speculate on Judge Garland's eventual ruling on the motion, or "guess at when he will make his decision."

It did allow its anonymous statement, however, that its bill of exception, if appeal is made, would seek to show that the court's allowing of Jo Ann Hunt, 6-year-old daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Hunt, to testify was a reversible error.

Had Been Ruled Incompetent

Jo Ann, who was 5 when the bodies of her parents were found lashed together in their bedroom, had been ruled incompetent to testify at the Plainview trial.

It was contended by the defense at that time that she was to immature to realize the sanctity of a court oath.

The child wept at one stage of her brief interrogation here and, visibly distraught, was led from the courtroom. Spectators and some members of the jury were openly affected.

Three Contests At Boys Club Planned

Dates and plans of three contests for members of the Lubbock Boys' club were announced Friday night at a called meeting of the membership held in the club building, 2323 Ave. K.

A membership contest will be started Monday, a kite tourney will be held March 17 and a model airplane contest March 31.

An attempt will be made to increase substantially the club's already high number of members, which is 500. A pre-war bicycle will be awarded the youngster who obtains the largest number of members.

Jimmy Clark, president of the club, presided.

Three hundred and twenty members were present. They viewed a wildlife film shown by W. G. McMillan, Lubbock contractor and hunting enthusiast.

Work Said Assured For All Americans

Heavy Production Spurt Scheduled For Year; Civilian Goods Tighten

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—A "second-wind" production spurt scheduled for early 1945 will guarantee war work for every American who wants it, WPB Chairman J. A. Krug, said today.

Part of it will go to equip newly formed French Army units.

But civilian production took another drastic trimming as the War Production board revealed further tightening of the "spot" reconversion plan for civilian goods manufacture.

Metal Supplies Cut

The supply of metals allotted for spot production was cut so deeply that one of Krug's lieutenants summarized: "Output will be reduced to a driblet." Authorizations already made will not be cancelled, but material may be lacking to fill them and new requests will be held to a minimum.

Half of all munitions programs must rise 65 per cent, on the average, over the 1945 schedules which were set last fall, Krug told a press conference. "Hot" types of planes, including Superfortresses, and jet-propelled fighters, will go up three-fold by June.

WPB and the armed forces now are scheduling about $2,500,000,000 worth of new weapons and supplies, which will bring total 1945 armament output to about $64,500,000,000, somewhat higher than 1944, Krug said.

Jobs For Everybody

"There will be plenty of jobs for everybody in war industry and everybody who wants to get into war industry," he asserted, adding that the apprehension of workers last fall over possible layoffs "can now be dispelled."

Tanks, trucks, planes and weapons for divisions of the French Army now being formed for service with the Allies against Germany account for part of the new increase, Krug acknowledged, but he would not state how much of the $2,500,000,000 increase is destined for France.

The prospective 1945 munitions job is 12½ per cent greater than it was envisioned last October, when the war's end in Europe appeared imminent, Krug disclosed. Already added in, he said, are increases of $1,000,000,000 each in ships and combat vehicles, and a 30 per cent increase in ammunition.

Increases Range Widely

The increases range on various items from five per cent to 600 or 700 per cent.

A nine per cent increase in aircraft, both in numbers and weight, is on the books.

Heavy drains on copper, brass, steel, aluminum sheet, lead and other metals necessitated the new tightening of the "spot" civilian goods program, Krug said. Under spot, a plant with machines and labor not needed for war may apply for authority to make consumer items.

Where manpower and idle materials are available the program can continue to function.

Drastic Worker Control Mapped

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — Drastic new controls to channel workers from 'less essential" firms into war production were revealed tonight, capping these other manpower developments:

1. CIO President Philip Murray told a news conference the way to meet manpower problems is not legislation, but a conference of government, labor, industry and agriculture to plan smooth distribution of work. He favored taking the problem out of "the congressional mess it is in and returning it to the people where it belongs."

Manpower Wastage

2. AFL and railroad brotherhood leaders, after a joint conference, said they had evidence "of flagrant wastage of manpower and money by federal government agencies and by private industries engaged in war production."

3. Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, the Army's plane production boss, told the House Military committee it would be better to apply criminal penalties — fines or imprisonment — to men who won't take war jobs, rather than to induct them into mental tasks in the Army. He favored national service legislation for all men between 18 and 60.

The War Manpower commission dispatched to its regional directors a plan for a nation-wide inventory of less essential firms. It calls for employment "ceilings" for those with eight or more workers, and empowers area directors to apply ceilings to those with less than eight. This would put strict limits on the number of people a firm may hire.

Amounts To Dragnet

The commission's plan amounts to a dragnet for any surplus manpower which then could be shifted to critical war plants.

While capitol hill was busy with proposed legislation to increase the hosts of war workers, CIO President Murray told the government, in effect, to cool off — that there is enough manpower to do the war job. All it needs is smooth distribution, he said.

Filling war plant jobs is a matter of "production and not a military matter," Murray contended.

The AFL in its monthly survey took the same position — that each plant behind schedule should be re-examined by the War Production board.

Leaders Meet Today

CIO officials said they will meet tomorrow with Army, Navy, WMC and WPB authorities to go into causes of shortages in critical war items. The conclusions will be passed on by Murray Tuesday when he testifies to the House Military committee on the May-Bailey bill.

General Knudsen told that committee early in the day he preferred civilian penalties for men who leave their war jobs without authorization rather than induction into special Army-Navy work units as proposed in legislation drafter by Chairman May (D-Ky.)

Opposition to induction of these men into Army labor battalions previously ahd been voiced by spokesmen for the Army and the Navy. They neither wanted nor needed the men, they said, and preferred to see them dealt with under the penal provisions of the Selective Service act, which provide for a $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment for men who disregard the draft board orders.

Slaying Brings Great Manhunt

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 12. (AP)—The most intensive manhunt in Michigan's history was under way tonight for the slayer of Republican State Senator Warren G. Hooper, key witness in a grand jury investigation of bribe-giving and bribe-taking among members of the state legislature.

Hooper's body, three powder-ringed bullet holes in the head and face, was found last night slumped in the seat of his automobile which had been set afire on a Jackson county road. The car, ignition turned off and gear in neutral, had been stopped at a point between Eaton Rapids and Hooper's home in Albion.

Many Agencies Join

Scores of uniformed state police, members of the state detective division, investigators for the state grand jury and local and county authorities joined in the search from headquarters set up at Jackson.

Senator Hooper, who had been promised immunity by the grand jury for his testimony, was described by Special Prosecutor Kim Sigler as an important witness in half a dozen cases pending before the grand jury.

The jury, which began its investigations two years ago, already has named more than 50 men, including members of the legislature. Twenty have been convicted on bribe charges.

Yanks Punch Forward In Luzon Drive

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Saturday, Jan. 13—Sixth Army Yanks captured the five-highway junction at San Carlos Thursday as they punched forward in force to points 12 miles from their beachheads along main roads leading to Manila, nearing apparent enemy defense areas.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said "our drive southward from Lingayen gulf continues unchecked" but mentioned more stiff fighting on the left flank and declared "increasing enemy contacts indicate our forward units are entering a zone of enemy concentration."

Jap Columns Smashed

Harassing enemy attempts to bring reinforcements north, American warplanes in low strafing assaults on motor columns destroyed more than 200 vehicles and five tanks. Many locomotives and 40 freight cars were wiped out.

Forty-six small Japanese freighters and one large transport attempting to unload at San Fernando, port 45 miles north of the Yank beachhead, were erased by naval units and torpedo bombers.

Torpedo planes attacked at dawn Wednesday but were driven off by intense anti-aircraft fire. Five U. S. destroyers then steamed in and made short work of the audacious enemy reinforcement try, sinking or badly damaging the entire enemy fleet.

Turn Guns On Shore

The warships then turned their guns to shore and shelled the port area, destroying three large ammunition dumps.

The first real evidence that the Japanese might put up a fight for the northern part of the central Luzon valley materialized Wednesday when the American spearhead pushing southeastward on the Pozorrubio road called for air support to smash what the ground patrol believed was a strongly defended position.

Associated Press correspondent Spencer Davis said the Yank ground forces called for air support. Navy Wildcats responded with a 30-minute rocket barrage. The infantrymen then pushed ahead and found a number of abandoned pillboxes, two machine-guns and five dead Japanese.

Frontline dispatches disclosed the use of tanks in the American advance, although none had been mentioned in the communiques. The open country is highly advantageous for tank warfare down the 100 miles to Manila. The Japanese used light tanks in their southward march down the same broad valley three years ago.

American warplanes, harrassing enemy attempts to rush reinforcements northward, ripped airfields, communications and troop columns from Lingayen south to Batangas, below Manila.

Other planes cooperating with guerrillas blocked strategic defiles for enemy troop movements.

Japanese air activity still was negligible. Two enemy planes, termed "itinerant" in the communiques, were shot down over Lingayen.

Planes Sweep Area

American planes again swept oft-bombed enemy airdromes in the central and southern Philippines, and harassed shipping at Miri bay and Brunei bay on northern Borneo.

Targets to the south and east included Celebes, the Moluccas and the northern New Guinea area, where an Australian warship shelled enemy coastal positions at Wewak.

Four Convoys Ripped Apart

Third Fleet Undamaged And Battle Off Indo-China Continues Unabated

By LIEF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Jan. 12—Carrier planes of the U. S. Third Fleet are continuing to attack our Enemy convoys off French Indo-China after sinking 25 ships, including a cruiser, several destroyers and 12 loaded transports, the first day of the assault yesterday.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the sinkings and damage to 13 other enemy ships in a communique today.

Tonight in a second communique he disclosed as additional details that the ships sunk included six enemy transports at Saigon and at least six more transports at Quinhon harbor, 250 miles to the northeast.

Massed For Luzon Aid

These transports were being massed for a countersmash at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's invasion scene at Lengayen gulf on Luzon in the Philippines, less than 1,000 miles west of Saigon.

The fact the Transports were loaded meant heavy losses of enemy soldiers.

Nimitz said tonight that Thursday's attacks off Indo-China cost four American planes, a surprisingly low figure measured in terms of achievement and penetration of so-called enemy waters.

Hundreds of American carrier planes of Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet, whose armada so far has suffered no damage, are ripping into four Nipponese convoys which were being organized to send against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's invasion scene on Luzon. The bag of 38 ships was achieved yesterday.

Jap Battleship Lost

Fleet Adm. C. W. Nimitz, in his first communique on the decisive action 1,000 miles west of Manila, also announced the destruction of the new Japanese superbattleship, the 45,000-ton Musashi by air attack last Oct. 24 in the second battle of the Philippines sea, has been confirmed.

The admiral disclosed also that the Musashi's sister ship, the Yamato, was damaged by bombs in the Oct. 24 action. These two vessels were the two most powerful battleships in the Japanese Navy.

The four Japanese convoys intercepted by Adm. William F. Halsey's audacious thrust across the South China sea apparently were organizing into an expedition for reinforcement of Luzon from the French Indo-China port of Saigon and Camronh bay.

Fliers Sweep Inland

Halsey's airmen sank one Katori class light cruiser and several destroyers and destroyer escorts guarding the convoys.

While the convoys were being slashed, Halsey's fliers also swept inland Indo-China air bases from Saigon 250 miles northeast to Guinhon harbor. Thirty-nine planes were destroyed.

Halsey seemed to have achieved almost complete surprise. Fully 18 Japanese planes were seen airborne over Saigon, Indo-China's first commercial port and a Japanese base since shortly after the fall of France in 1940.

American Hellcat and Corsair fighters shot down 10 of the feeble 18-plane force protecting Saigon.

Grave Blow To Japs

The enemy's loss of his superbattleship Musashi was one of the gravest blows suffered by the Japanese fleet in the second battle of the Philippine sea. Four Nipponese carriers also were sunk in that great sea fight.

Nimitz' communique said:

"Conclusive evidence has been obtained" showing that the Musashi "blew up and sank" under air attack by Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier fliers.

The Musashi and the damaged Yamato presumably were in the powerful force including five battleships and 10 heavy cruisers caught by Mitscher's planes in San Bernardino strait.

Heavily Armored

Armed with nine 16-inch guns and a very heavy secondary battery, the Musashi went under construction in 1937 and joined the imperial fleet in the autumn of 1942. She was 870 feet long and had a beam of 139 feet and could cruise at more than 25 knots. The Yamato joined the Japanese fleet about the time of the Dec. 7, 1941 Pearl Harbor attack.

With Halsey's airmen striking Indo-China airfields simultaneously with carrier plane attacks on the four enemy convoys, it was plain that the Japanese forces were caught almost as they left the great harbor of Camranh bay east of Saigon.

The American fleet probably was little more than 100 miles off the Indo-China coast in carrying out the coordinated blow both at sea and on land.

Eight Planes Destroyed

Fifty Japanese planes were found at Chanh Son Nhut airbase north of Saigon. Eight of these were destroyed.

Twenty flying boats and seaplanes were destroyed in Camhanh harbor and Cat-Lai anchorage near Saigon, and at Quinhon harbor, 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

Another bomber was intercepted and shot down off the Indo-China coast.

Nimitz' first report of the fleet's dramatic Indo-China foray strongly suggests that Halsey smashed a major Japanese effort to send aid to Luzon before it was well started.

The communique's report that Halsey was continuing his attack discloses two likely weaknesses at the heart of Japan's empire line running from the homeland to Singapore, 675 miles south of Saipon.

Big Warships Missing

A light cruiser was the largest Japanese vessel so far reported in the Indo-China convoys protecting force. Probably the Japanese fleet, sorely crippled in its October defeats, was not able to muster any capital ships to screen the convoy. In any event, Halsey clearly was trying to knock out all the combatant Japanese ships he could find.

The second apparent Nipponese weakness was in land-based planes on its Indo-China fields. Halsey would not be able to continue his attack unless he was sure his carrier fighters could balk an assault by land-based Japanese planes.

Now holding a great superiority over the Japanese, the Third Fleet can cruise wherever it wants to in the Pacific, with always a consideration for "calculated risks" of possible damage by land-based plane attacks.

Turks Permit Supply Shipments To Russia

LONDON, Jan. 12. (AP)—Turkey is permitting war supplies to be shipped through the Dardenelles Strait to Russia, a British foreign office commentator discloesd today.

The only reason supplies previously had not been sent through the strait to Russia, the foreign office source said, was because of the danger of air attacks. Shipments began without any objection from the Turkish government once the German air bases in the Ionian sea and the Balkans had been neutralized by the Allies, he asserted.

"There really is nothing political about it," the commentator said, "it is purely a military matter which has been solved by a change in military events."

Minister To Finland Is Revealed By Grew

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. (AP) — The United States extended a friendly but cautious hand to Finland today after turning the diplomatic cold shoulder for six months.

Joseph C. Grew, acting secretary of state, announced that Randolph Higgs, an American diplomat now in Stockholm, is being dispatched to Helsinki to look after American interests and that he will be joined shortly by Maxwell M. The announcement stressed that Hamilton's assignment "does not constitute a resumption of formal diplomatic relations."

Paradox On Meat Supply; Stock And Feed Faces U. S.

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — The nation was confronted today with the paradox of a tightening meat supply and dwindling livestock production amidst millions of bushels of idle livestock feed.

This appeared to be the major factor in the farm-belt criticism of the new ceilings on live cattle. It is the farmers' contention that the government should encourage full use of feed supplies for stepped up production of meat.

That feed supplies are not being fully utilized is a fact reported by the agriculture department itself. Stocks of feed grains on farms on Jan. 1 were reported at near record levels. Yet numbers of livestock, particularly hogs, poultry and sheep, are far short of record livestock levels.

The department reports that less grain was used during the first three months of the current feeding season (which began Oct. 1) than during the corresponding period of any feeding season since this country entered the war.

Critics of the cattle ceiling action contend that government price policies affecting livestock are responsible for this decline in use of feed and in the production of meat. They contend that the ceilings will discourage beef production. This the government denies.

Most of the idle grain is in the midwestern corn-hog belt. It reflects a sharp contraction in hog production in 1944, brought about by feed shortages and a reduction in the government price support on hogs from $13.75 to $12.50 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis.

But record harvests of corn, wheat, grain sorghums and bumper yields of other feed grains last fall replenished feed supplies to the level prevailing in the fall of 1943 when hog production was at its peak.

OPA Approves Cotton Compressing Charge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP) — Warehousemen may charge up to 50 cents a bale for recompressing cotton from standard to high density in cases where ceiling prices were "frozen" below that level.

The OPA, announcing this today, said the prevaling 17-cent emergency surcharge may be added to the 50-cent ceiling. The measure is effective Jan. 17.

Berlin's Ruins Harbor Gangs Who Loot And Pillage City

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 12. (AP) — The ruins of Berlin and other large German cities have become hideouts for gangsters who emerge from them at night to loot stores of food and clothing, and even to steal weapons and ammunition from Nazi military establishments, a neutral informant who has lived in the German capital said today.

The informant gave this picture of gangsterism in the Reich:

Outlaw Germans who have deserted from the Army, evaded call-ups or refused to work in war factories, and foreign workers, are hiding in mountains of debris which stretch block after block. Beneath collapsed walls which have not been cleared away they have burrowed an intricate system of tunnels and rooms until now the areas are absolute rabbit warrens.

The underground hideouts are virtually impregnable. Even police officers are afraid to venture into them, knowing that the occupants not only have vast stores of food, but also weapons cached away.

At night these gangs emerge and forage through the cities which now are thinly patrolled because of the manpower shortage and the call-up of well-trained German police. On one occasion 50 Berlin stores were cleaned out in a single night. Clothes, shoes, foodstuffs, even ammunition and weapons which are stolen from the Army, subsequently find their way into the black market.

Many of those who live in these hideouts are teen-age youngsters who have been left to shift for themselves after losing their homes and parents during bombing raids. However, a far greater number of them are foreigners who were imported from subjugated countries for labor in Nazi plants.

DEAR:—

Jim Thomas was given the death penalty for the murder of Dr. Roy E. Hunt of Littlefield when a jury in 106th district court in Lamesa returned a verdict of guilty and recommended the extreme penalty Friday morning.

This is the second time the 50-year-old paroled convict from Galveston county has been assessed the death penalty, the first time being last August in a trial at Plainview. A new trial was obtained because of a jury irregularity and was set for the 106th district court with J. E. Garland as special judge.

Immediately after the verdict was read Friday morning, the defense counsel filed formal motion for a new trial.

The bodies of Dr. Hunt and his wife were found in their Littlefield home, Oct. 26, 1943. Thomas was arrested the next day in Galveston.

Lt. (jg.) Marion Ernest Winter, pilot of a Navy dive-bomber in the Philippines, is missing in action in that theater, friends here have been advised. Lt. Winter was married last June to Miss Genevieve Decker, who is now making her home with her parents in Childress.

Hospital nurses in Lubbock are rallying to the Army-Navy pleas for aid. Lubbock hospitals and the Red Cross, which is charged with the responsibility of securing nurses for the armed forces, have been peppered with questions this week by young women eager to get into a uniform before the President's proposal that nurses be drafted becomes law.

I. A. Stephens has bought the building at 1502 Main which has been occupied for more than 10 years by the Stewart and Benson clinic and it is reported it will be made headquarters for an interior decorating firm. Dr. M. H. Benson, owner, and now a commander in the U. S. Navy, sold the building the first of the year. The clinical facilities are to be moved to West Texas hospital clinic within the next few months, according to Dr. Stewart.

Had you heard that H. N. (Rusty) Russell, for more than 20 years a high school football coach in Texas, has signed a contract to serve as head coach at Southern Methodist university until the return of Matty Bell, now a commander in the Georgia Pre-Flight school, Athens, Ga.? Russell has just finished a season of coaching at Highland Park High school, Dallas, in which he carried his team to state finals where it lost to Port Arthur 20-7. It was during the time Russell coached at Masonic home that he came into statewide and national prominence.

The Chiselers Dig In

Let Americans Draw The Line

DAMON RUNYON is better known in this area as the fashioner of sparkling short stories about New York's Main Stem, "Mindy's" restaurant, "Harry the Horse," and the doings of the thick-skulled among the gambling gentry who frequent Gotham's midtown. Some few remember that it was a Runyon story that skyrocketed Shirley Temple, as "Little Miss Marker," from obscurity to one of the most meteoric film careers in the history of the cinema; and still fewer remember his reporting of a World Series in the early 1920's, in which Mr. Runyon employed quotations from Shakespeare to start the story of each game of the play-off —quotations which, by the way, perfectly fitted each situation.

But in the newspaper craft, Damon Runyon is known as a crackerjack reporter of any sort of news event, and especially good on happenings in the Broadway sector. Damon Runyon knows Broadway like the average Lubbock householder knows his front lawn; like the average West Texas rancher knows the home corral. He knows the shadowy figures behind the glitter of the world's hardest street; who, as well as what they are doing—how and why.

Therefore, it is important when Mr. Runyon reports, as he did recently for International News Service, that the black market maharajahs are showing signs of being "accepted" by some few but weighty individuals in politics, journalism, show business and high finance, just as their bootlegger forerunners were "accepted" toward the end of the prohibition era. Mr. Runyon's observations in this regard are important, because they disclose that some people who should know better still do not realize that the home front food, gasoline, rubber, nylon and other chiselers are enemies of our war effort. Or, if they do realize, those who "accept" the black marketeers are no better than the black marketeers, themselves.

In plying their smudgepot trade, the black marketeers are not only depriving all Americans of equal opportunity to share scarce articles; they also are contributing—even encouraging—inflation. Furthermore, by refusing to "play the game" as all decent, patriotic Americans should, they are breaking faith with the fighting men—with the bleeding and dying men—who protect freedom around the world.

Damon Runyon's disclosures should result, we think, in a nationwide rallying of real Americans who pledge themselves not only to live according to war's home front rules, but also to relegate to their rightful places in the slimy area's under the nation's logs those who operate black markets.

"Those who are not for us, are against us"—and among those who are not for us are black marketeers and those who "accept" them.

The Matter Of Privilege

WHEN the El Paso Symphony orchestra decided to sponsor the appearance of Artur Rubinstein, internationally famous pianist, in that city, it announced that seats would be available only to those who bought War bonds for the privilege.

When Artur Rubinstein heard that Border City people had purchased a total of $542,000 in War bonds to hear him play he was more than slightly impressed. Said he:

"If El Pasoans bought $542,000 worth of War bonds or the privilege of hearing me play, I think I should buy a bond for the privilege of playing for them."

He planked down the cash for a $1,000 War bond.

So a rousing cheer for Artur Rubinstein. His sincerity was so simply and directly displayed it cannot be questioned.

"A minister condemns church bazaars at wrich girls sell kisses at $1 each."—Press report. It would seem to us that it is charity of a high order to sell at $1 each kisses to men who are so unfortunate they can't secure kisses for nothing in these days and times.

With a view to demonstrating to students the futility of playing slot machines, a professor placed a slot machine in the classroom. You guessed it: The first nickel he played in it won the jackpot.

Now that we are in commuting distance from Tokyo with B-29s, why don't we blow up the oficial Tokyo radio and thus stop the Japs from sinking our Navy?

It is undoubtedly humiliating for a superior race of people to begin to realize that they can't lick a bunch of military idiots.

"Doggone my luck, I've wasted a precious shell!" exclaimed a hunter upon discovering he had shot a man by mistake for a deer.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

Breach Of Promise

By RUPERT HUGHES

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: Len and Sue Beckley have been entertaining Walt Hilyard and his family, newcomers to Staton, at dinner. Len has known Walt for a long time but hasn't seen Margaret Hilyard in 20 years. He is thunderstruck at the changes in the once beautiful girl. She is fat and overdressed and seems to take a delight in making other people feel ill at east. Everyone has a miserable evening except young Tom Beckley, home on leave, and Jennifer Hilyard, who are delighted to have discovered each other. Sue and Len are relieved when their guests finally depart. They 'post-mortem" the party and Len speculates on the possibility of legal redress for one partner to a marriage when the other partner doesn't live up to the contract.

VI

HOURS later Sue was awakened from her light and fretful sleep by Tom's fumbling at the door and tiptoeing upstairs to his room. Sue longed to go to him and talk to him for hours; but she knew that he would be drugged with sleep and the fatigue of romance. And in the morning she kept the house quiet, realizing that there was no gift more precious to a soldier than a morning without reveille. Tom woke and had his breakfast while she had her luncheon, and would not talk of the war, but only of Jennifer—his future war, Sue thought, remembering Margaret.

And downtown in his office Len was thinking about Margaret, too, though he was in conference with William Dunbar, a member of the firm's legal department, over the desperate business of renegotiating the firm's contracts with the government after the war was over. Abruptly Len brought up the matter that was haunting him:

"Speaking of terminating contracts, Bill I know you are one of those criminals called corporation lawyers, but do you ever handle breach of promise cases?"

Dunbar nodded: "I tried one or two when I was young and desperate for clients. But it's unsavory business, and going out of style. Why do you ask? Have you been making impossible promises to some trusting gazelle? Doesn't she know you're already married?"

"I'm speaking for a friend."

"That's the way they usually open the subject."

"I'm not involved, I tell you. What I mean is—could a man sue his own wife for breach of promise?"

"Breach of what promise?"

"The promise she made as a bride."

"If she agreed to transfer property or money—"

"It's nothing like that.

"Are you talking about a divorce?"

"No! Couldn't a man sue his wife with the idea of making her fulfill her agreement?"

"I never heard of such a case. Has your wife—"

"Don't be an idiot! Sue's the finest wife a man ever had. Can't a man ask an academic question!"

"Yes, and he can get an academic answer. The question is nonsense, and the answer is No!"

* * *

"THEN they ought to make a law about it. Divorces are gaining on marriages at a terrifc rate. What causes most of the unhappy marriages isn't even mentioned in the books. Last night I was dining with an old friend —I won't tell you his name—"

"You needn't. Walt Hilyard mentioned this morning that he had dinner with you. Has his wife been guilty of breach of promise?"

"I feel like a dog for having let it slip; but you're as fond of Walt is I am. He deserves happiness if ever a man did. But he spends half his life in a slow hell.

"Now take a business partnership, or an ordinary contract. If the other party doesn't live up to the agreement, you dissolve the partnership or sue for damages."

* * *

DUNBAR laughter dryly: "Are you proposing that a man should sue his wife for damages because she—well, depreciates in value, with the wear and tear of ordinary usage?"

"But a man and wife oughtn't to depreciate with the years. They change, yes. But their life ought to ripen and sweeten. We speak of a married couple as one. Well, they ought to get more and more one the longer they live. Happiness and sympathy and mutual understanding are — don't you lawyers say, they're the essence of the contract? Marriage is the sacredest contract there is.

"I'm talking as if I were crazy with the heat, but married life ought to be one long ecstasy. And it can be, if both parties keep the contract. Walt doesn't want a divorce. He doesn't want to dump Margaret on the world. But he ought to be able to force her to keep her promises, implied as well as sworn at the altar."

Dunbar smiled unhappily: "And if she won't, you suggest that he go to law to enforce the contract, or sue her for damages? How would you assess such damages?"

"That's your business. You're in the law, make one. Don't you have things you call loss of good will and loss of efficiency, intense mental pain and suffering, and all that sort of thing? All I'm thinking of is saving Walt from a ruined life."

"I wish I could help you—and him. I haven't met his lady, but I've noticed that he's not so cheerful since she's moved to town with him."

"Coming here used to be an escape for Walt. Now his wife has taken up the slack in his chain. It's a terrible thing for a man to have no home to go home to. It must be worse to find in it nothing but the living skeleton of an old love."

Dunbar nodded glumly: "There are a lot of wives, too, who wonder what's become of the romantic young men who used to bring them flowers and golden promises."

"God, yes! It works both ways. That's why I say, there ought to be a law."

They had to leave it at that.

FLAVORS CANCELLATION

GALVESTON, Jan. 12. (AP)—E. S. Holliday, president of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers association, said today he would recommend to the board of directors of the state association that the convention scheduled for June 7-9 at Fort Worth be cancelled in line with wishes expressed in a message from War Mobilization Director Byrnes. The directors meet Feb. 10 to make the decision.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

YOU probably read about that recent auction of Tommy Manville's home furnishings and how hundreds of people, mostly women, crowded the auction room and bid the most ridiculous prices for the stuff.

For instance, two plain, ordinary garbage cans went for $30 each, and a pair of ash receivers —the kind that you see all over for much less—sold for $66.

Finally the OPA stepped in and put a stop to all the nonsense. Thereafter nobody could pay more than ceiling prices, although according to the newspaper dispatch I read, the officials couldn't quite make up their minds what the ceiling price should be on the nude pictures that were in Tommy's art collection.

* * *

I think you know that we are supposed to live in a Democracy and that in a Democracy there is something about all men being equal. (Wasn't it Lincoln who said it?)

How is it then that we are such terrific class worsippers in this country?

How is it that we pay outrageous prices for something that has belonged to a multimillionaire or a celebrity?

How is it that we will hock ourselves for a week's pay just so that we can spend an evening in a restaurant or a night club where the rich and the famous eat and drink?

How is it that one of the most potent appeals in all our advertising is the snob appeal?

Just let Mrs. Vanderrocks or Countess Gobbleincky put her stamp of approval and thousands will rush to buy the particular article at fancy prices?

How is it that people stare at and admire persons with titles when there is really nothing to admire about them?

Don't ask me, I don't get it.

* * *

AND here is another mystery I have never been able to solve.

Most of our American girls are pretty darn decent. The average fellow wouldn't dare to insult them.

And yet, these selfsame girls fall hook, line and sinker for perfumes and other cosmetics with names that imply that every user of them is a professional golddigger.

Mind you, I like perfume. I think it's charming, exhilarating, stimulating.

But for Pete's sake—Koekuk isn't Paris and Cleopatra never did any welding in a war plant.

Why can't we be American? Why can't we be satisfied with all the nice things, the nice smells and the nice manners that are our own and that are natural to us.

America has become great by being original.

We don't have to ape, we can create.

In the words of the cop who said to the immigrant who complained about America:

"If you like it so well why don't you go back—where you came from?"

Secrecy Ires Congress

FDR's Hush-Hush Policies Hit

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE secrecy with which President Roosevelt has shrouded all military and diplomatic operations may produce the most revolutionary reform in congressional procedure since the Progressives smashed "Uncle Joe" Cannon's one-man rule more than 30 years ago.

The hush-hush policy, which has concealed battlefield blunders, command changes and personal diplomatic negotiations, has strengthened the movement permitting Congress to subject administration officials to personal questioning on the floor of House or Senate. In no other way, many members have concluded, can they learn the facts about the war's progress or commitments which may have been made to Stalin, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek.

TUCKER

The idea to act for greater official frankness, which is an everyday practice in England, has been kicking around Washington for many years. Its most prominent advocate was the late Senator Couzens of Michigan, who saw its value after he made a private investigation of Treasury favoritism to generous party contributors in the Harding and Coolidge eras. Its present sponsor is Rep. Estes Kefauver, a Tennessee Democrat.

So far, however, he has met cold opposition from White House leaders on Capitol Hill. They pat him on the back and express a sympathetic attitude to his plan. But he cannot even get a hearing for his resolution before the House Rules committee, which takes its orders from the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

* * *

RESTLESSNESS: The Administration strove with some success to check the demand for this parliamentary reform during the first three years of our participation in the war. It has recently issued orders that the proposal for periodical examination of executive management of domestic and foreign affairs must be killed.

But the now-you-see-it-now-you-don't character of the Atlantic Charter, as well as untold weaknesses and mistakes of calculation on the eve of the von Rundstedt drive into Belgium and Luxembourg, convinces many backers of the ministerial responsibilit scheme that they have been taken for a buggy ride. Here is how:

Whenever a war crisis brought criticism and restlessness on Capitol Hill, FDR arranged for Secretary Stimson, Chief of Staff Marshall or some other high officer to talk to Congress.

Sometimes the War department spokesmen vouchsafed interesting, if not valuable, information. They satisfied the curious but not the critical. Moreover, all arrangements and control of the program at these off-the-record conferences remained in the hands of the executive representatives by prior agreement.

* * *

SECRETS: The listeners were made to feel that a rich privilege had been granted them. They were not allowed to ask pertinent—or impertinent—questions. They were permitted no real insight into matters affecting them and their constituents—the American people.

There was about as much give-and-take freedom of opinion and querying as there is at a White House press conference. And congressmen, like average men and women, are quite awed when beribboned and decorated heroes condescend to talk to them. They got no worth-while information at these get-togethers.

Former Secretary Hull conferred frequently with bipartisan delegations from the House and Senate, particularly before the Dumbarton Oaks powwow. But he never told them that the Atlantic Charter document was only a myth. He never narrated the President's conversations with Stalin, Churchill and Chiang Kai-shek at their meetings.

In view of the Tennessean's honesty and integrity, it was the congressional presumption that he was—and that successor Stettinius is—quite as much in the dark as they were and still are.

"The fact is," growled a ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, "that I don't know any more about what's cooking than any reader of the newspapers. Perhaps not as much. And yet, some day I will have to vote on peace treaties and agreements touching the lives of 130,000,000 people."

It is this kind of reaction that may yet force presidential agents to disgorge their secrets and let the American people know what's going on and why!

* * *

DIES: Although the initial battle for effective continuance of the House committee to investigate subversive and un-American activities was won on the floor, the key struggle is on now.

The administration, which regards the House action as a dangerous thrust at its CIO political allies, hopes to win a rear-guard action by depriving the new unit of funds and facilities. It also seeks to rig the membership so that friendly partisans will dominate the body once headed by the anti-Roosevelt Martin Dies of Texas.

A careful study of the vote perpetuating this group suggests that the White House is headed for another defeat. Only a few Democrats on the Appropriations committee, which will decide how many clerks and how much money the new organization will have, voted against the Rankin resolution. Presumably the majority of the appropriators favor generous treatment of the congressional brain child.

The House Ways and Means committee, by custom, should select the membership, unless Speaker Rayburn tries to arrogate its responsibility. As only a small number of W-and-M-ers lined up against Mr. Rankin, it is apparent that the committee will not load the examining group with men unsympathetic to his scheme.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

NEW Allied activities on Luzon and in Burma, plus the acceleration of other campaigns in the Orient, have lashed the Japs into augmenting their war effort by employing "suicide fliers" and transferring munitions works to Manchuria.

President Roosevelt's message to Congress, advocating greater vigor in prosecution of the conflict, indicates that the government intends to pile up mountains of equipment as a means of shortening the struggle.

LEMAN

Military and production chiefs now look upon the German armistice, when it occurs, as an incident in one continuous war and warn civilians to expect no letup at that time. Otherwise, one of the worst internal explosions in the nation may result.

Unless Congress erects bulkheads against spontaneous reconversion on V-E day, labor will stream from Victory plants in search of security jobs and business will plunge into cutthroat competition.

Veterans of battles in France will rage at being shipped to the Orient across the American continent where they will observe the home front feathering its nest while they are en route to more hardships and dangers.

Wives and sweethearts of fighters will bitterly resent the unfairness of another abnormal separation from their men while other girls enjoy the companionship and bankrolls of highly paid civilians.

U. S. Cavalry Still Rides!

By LARRY HALL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

FORT RILEY, Kas.—The Cavalry thinks it's high time someone mentioned that their "sneak and peek" boys are the spearheads for both infantry and armor.

Cavalrymen cite the work of the 81st Reconnaissance Battalion in North Africa. They recall that cavalry units were first into Messina and Rome, that reconnaissance troops spearheaded the breakthrough at St. Lo.

They are proud that cavalrymen were the first Americans to set foot on Japanese soil — on Kwajalein atoll in the Marshall islands—and glory in the role of the cavalry at Attu, in the Aleutians and especially on Bataan.

The cavalry, in short, would like the world to know that the old tradition, stemming from the days of the Indian fighters, is still being carried on.

* * *

The Hell-For-Leather Spirit

IT'S true the flashing sabers and horses have been largely displaced, but the old hell-for-leather spirit of Custer and Sheridan still lives.

Here at the Cavalry School where the doctrines of reconnaissance are developed for the Army, Lt. David C. Waybud of Piedmont, Calif., summed up the cavalry's role in modern war:

"The cavalry is just like a dog harrassing a grizzly bear. It can't really harm the bear; it can only inflict a few wounds. But it sticks with the bear, and behind that dog is the man with the gun—the rest of the Army."

Lt. Waybur, trained at Fort Riley, is the first OCS graduate in this war to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, awarded for knocking out an Italian tank and holding off three more, although severely wounded and armed only with a tommy gun.

Maj. Gen. William M. Grimes, commandant of the cavalry school, says:

"What is generally overlooked is that every army, every army corps, every armored division and every infantry division has mechanized cavalry units attached to it for reconnaissance.

"Cavalry is the basic ground arm of reconnaissance. A commander uses his cavalry units to seek out the enemy and gain information on which to base his tactical or strategical operations."

* * *

Cavalrymen With Wings

CURRENTLY the cavalry school instructors, loaded with combat ribbons from every theater of war, are experimenting in the use of light, unarmed liaison planes for a two-way exchange of reconnaissance information—from the air to the ground and from the ground to the air. It has worked well in battle maneuvers.

At the same time, while cavalrymen thus are sprouting wings, don't count the old Missouri mule out of the picture.

* * *

THE cavalry school hasn't forgotten that in some terrain—China, for instance, or Burma—tanks are helpless and animals must be used. That's why the 129th cavalry squadron, the only active horse unit in the Army today, is quartered here for instructional purposes.

"We never know when a theater commander will need horse cavalry," says Gen. Grimes. "We want to be ready and for that reason we are training a nucleus of officers and enlisted men in the arts of packing, horseshoeing, saddlery and pack radio repair."

Lt. Col. Daniel E. Still, head of the school's department of horsemanship, cites his own experiences with Merrill's Marauders in Burma to show that under certain conditions "operations absolutely are dependent on animals."

* * *

Underestimating The Mule

"WE couldn't get vehicles in there," he explains. "We were operating in the jungle behind Japanese linss. We packed our own supplies, equipment and ammunition on real Missouri mules and we couldn't have operated without them.

"The unit went where the Japanese thought we couldn't. We had the satisfaction of listening to the Japanese broadcast stating that ours was a parachute attack on the Mytikiang airfield. The Japanese underestimated us and they had sadly underrated the old Missouri mule and his hard bitten packer."

Lt. M. E. Winter Said Missing In Action

Lt. (j.g.) Marion Ernest Winter, pilot of a Navy dive-bomber in the Philippines is missing in action, it has been learned here. He was on his second overseas assignment and had been in the Pacific since September.

Lt. Winter, who was an outstanding Westerner football player while in High school here, had completed his junior year in a pre-med course at Texas Tech when he went into the Navy. He was married last June to Miss Genevieve Decker who is now living with her parents in Childress.

Son of Mrs. Norman LaGrand now of South Gate, Calif., Lt. Winter remained in Lubbock to attend school and lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tate of 2304 Fourteenth.

Before going to the Pacific theater, Lt. Winter was in action in Europe for several months. He was home on leave between assignments in September.

MARKET SUFFERS LOSSES

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—The stock market today suffered its first average loss of the week and, while selective advances were fairly well distriuted, rails and many industrial leaders backed down fractions to more than a point.

The lengthy push to highest levels since 1937 tended to inspire additional profit cashing on the idea the list was exceptionally vulnerable to bearish news. Numerous stop-loss orders in the carriers helped depress this group.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point at 59.7. The market retained its breadth, 965 issues showing on the ticker tape. Of these, 484 were down 277 up and 204 unchanged.

As in yesterday's proceedings, International Telephone was the liveliest mover, jumping 1½ points to 22⅝, a new high for the bull swing. Graham-Paige, second fastest sprinter, was up ⅜. Ahead were Emerson Electric, American Cable and Radio, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Public Service of N. J. and Texas Co.

Prominent on the offside were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester.

Bonds were irregularly lower.

Among curb gainers were Segal Lock and American Gas.

Idalou Cagers Split With Service Teams

IDALOU, Jan. 12. (Special) — Idalou High school cage teams split a twin bill with service teams from South Plains Army Air field here tonight, the schoolgirls winning a free scoring 42-33 battle in the opener, while the soldiers rolled over the Wildcats, 37-27 in the finale.

Individual scoring honors for the opener was as merry battle as the the ball game, and four players figured well in the scoring. Sawyers of the Idalou club set the pace for the night with 19 points, and got lots of help from Capshaw, who dropped in 12 points. Sparkman paced the service team with 13 points, closely followed by Douglas with 11.

In the boys game, Adams paced the soldiers to the win with 11 points, aided by Logan, who dropped in nine points. Mahan of Idalou also turned in nine points, followed by Becknell with six.

Amarillo Cagers Nose Out Lubbock Westerners, 30-28

Amarillo's Golden Sandies nosed out the Lubbock Westerners in a battle of free throws Friday night at the Westerner gym, winning a listless ball game with a last half rally that brought the Sandies a 30 to 28 victory.

The win gave the Sandies a clean sweep of the double header, the Sandie B team putting on an impressive show of power to roll to a 35 to 17 win over the Westerner B team.

Scrubs Steal Show

McDowell, bantam star of the Amarillo club, made a great hit with the fans as he sparked the Sandie B team to a win by dropping in five field goals for ten points, and top scoring honors of the night.

Allen and Mauman followed with eight points each as the three set the Sandie pace.

Crawford set the pace for the Westerner B game, getting seven points, while Davis and Booker followed with four each.

There was plenty of fast action in the feature game of the night, but never offered the crowd pleasing basketball that the "little brothers" staged in the opener.

The Westerners bounded away to an early lead and reached the end of the first quarter with a 10-4 advantage over the Sandies. The Westerners held their own in the second period, and reached the halfway mark with a 20-15 lead.

Sandies Pull Up

Coming back for the second half, the Sandies began to clip away at the Westerner lead, and pulled within one point of the Westerners at the end of the third period, to trail 23-24.

In the second period, the Sandies moved out into the lead a 28 to 25 advantage over the Westerners as they neared the finish, and began to play a stalling game, passing the ball in midcourt, and waiting for the final whistle.

The Westerners staged another rally, with Charles Pressley leading the splurge, and zoomed back into a tie at 28-28. Just before the game ended, Turner went out on fouls, and Seale converted both free tosses to win the game.

A grand total of 35 fouls were called, a large part of them in the last half, and accounted for 22 points of the total score. Fouls cost the Westerners the services of R. W. Moyers early in the second half, and Turner late in the ball game.

Eighteen fouls were called against Lubbock, and Amarillo converted on 14 out of 21 free pitches. Seventeen fouls were called on Amarillo, and Lubbock converted on 8 and missed 15. This was the difference in the two ball clubs.

Scoring honors of the game went to a pair of Lubbock lads, with T. J. Price dropping in ten points and Verdell Turner getting eight. Waghorn paced the Sandies with seven points.

COACH CHANGES JOBS

JACKSONVILLE, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP) — Bailey Drennan, football coach of Uvalde High school for the past five years, has signed a contract to coach Jacksonville High school. Drennan played at Cleburne High school, Allen Academy and Texas A. and M. and coached at Yoakum two years before going to Uvalde.

Horned Frogs Nose Out Texas Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs eked out a 30-27 victory over the Texas Aggies here tonight in one of the roughest basketball games seen in Deware field house in many years.

The Frogs committed 20 fouls and the Aggies were close behind with 18, and one player on each side was put out for roughing.

High scorers were Schmidt and Pasco of the Frogs and Ellis of the Aggies with seven each and next was McCormick of the Aggies with six.

The half-time score was 16 to 11 for TCU.

Razorbacks Nose By Oklahomans In Tilt

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 12. (AP)—Perfectly executing a two-minute stall to protect their slender margin, the skyscraping University of Arkansas Razorbacks slipped by the Oklahoma A. & M. Cowboys 41-38 in a see-saw cage classic before a crammed house of 3,000 here tonight.

It was largely the work of six foot-ten George Kok and Guard Ken Kearns who put the game in the bag for the Porkers after the lead had changed hands 12 times.

Kok, enjoying his best night of playing opposite seven-foot Bob Kurland, heralded A. and M. center, set the individual scoring pace with 14 points. Kurland sank 10, but little Weldon Kern, speedy forward, led the Pokes with 12.

The teams will tangle again tomorrow night at El Dorado.

SPAAF Host To Carlsbad Cagers

With 184 points to their credit in their last two games, South Plains Army Air Field's high-flying Winged Commandos will be aiming for another elongated score when they meet the Carlsbad, N. M., Army Air Field team at 8 o'clock tonight in the post Recreation hall.

Nothing is known here about the Carlsbad team, which will fly here with an eleven-man squad for the tilt tonight.

With All-American Leason McCloud hitting his peak in the Amarillo game Thursday night with a high of 36 points — highest McCloud has scored to date in one game — and Douglas Wakeland, Ed Kalfain, John Kline, Bob Edwards and Roy Cox also getting into stride with sparkling offensive and defensive play, SPAAF appears to be hitting their stride.

The Commandos have never been defeated on their home court, but will be severely tested this weekend by Carlsbad on Saturday night and the national champion Phillips 66 Oilers on Monday night —highlight game of the season for the Commandos.

The Amarillo game brought McCloud's total in seven games to 142 points, giving him a 20-point a game average for the season so far. Diminutive 5 foot, 8 inch Roy Cox scored 15 points in the second half, although guarded by 6 foot, 6 inch Hollis Dietz. Kalfain and Edwards drew plenty of praise for their fine defensive play.
