Wichita Falls to Pause For One Minute to Commemorate the Armistice

TEXAS TO REMEMBER

Celebrations and Programs Planned in Practically Every Large City

Wichita Falls will pause for a minute at eleven o'clock this morning in celebration of the seventh anniversary of the signing of the armistice ending hostilities between the allies and Germany. A formal proclamation decreeing the minute of silence and prayer came from the office of Mayor Pro Tem N. M. Clifford Tuesday who stated that the amber lights would be kept burning a full minute.

The mayor pro tem requested the co-operation of the citizenry of Wichita Falls in proper observance of the day.

The American Legion will give a dinner tonight at the Kemp hotel as its contribution to the day's memories. There will be no parade or church services.

More or less elaborate programs have been arranged the nation over in commemoration of the day. At Washington President Coolidge will follow the custom of President Harding and place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The capital will also observe a minute of prayer.

In Texas Cities.

Memories Of 1918, What Wichitans Got Out Of The War, Retrospect of Seven Years

Veterans of the A. E. F. have these pictures in mind today. Top: An American cemetery in France, in winter dress. Left: Yanks facing death in the trenches. At top: lower left is a representation of the scene in Marshal Foch's private car when German envoys met with allied officers to agree on the terms of the armistice. This historic scene took place at 5 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 11, 1918. At right is an exterior view of the dining car, now in a museum. At left is a facsimile of the message sent out from General Pershing's headquarters ordering American troops to cease firing.

What Did You Get Out Of The War? Wichitan Says Hard Luck; Others Differ

Seven years ago a document was signed that brought to a close the most colossal armed conflict the world has ever known.

Today, Wichita Falls joins with other cities, states and nations of the world in observing armistice day as a period of rest and appreciation for those men whose sacrifices on land, on sea and in the air made possible the peaceful observances that may be had today.

Nothing elaborate about it; for business will go on just the same in many quarters. The wheels of municipal, state and federal machinery will halt, however; banks will be closed and schools will hold special services in their class rooms. Then the American Legion, ex-service man's organization that is keeping alive the traditions of heroism and patriotism fused beneath the fires of German guns, will hold its own special affairs ending with a banquet at the Kemp tonight.

What They Got Out of It.

Going back to the days when the world's armies were locked fast in a death grip in France and Belgium—what did that conflict do for individuals who had a part in it? The Record News yesterday asked this question of a number of ex-service men in Wichita Falls.

"What did the World war do to you?" was the tenor of a reporter's inquiry.

The answer was, with one exception, an acknowledgement of gain despite the hardships, pain and suffering in the trenches or in the camp.

For instance, to Dr. J. H. Fletcher the war taught the stern truths of patriotism as nothing else could have done.

"The big muddle recently pulled off in France," he said, "taught me many things. Principally, it taught me to give more of my time to the service of the country that tolerated me. I am now trying to pay as best I can a small part of the debt I owe America by maintaining active membership in the volunteer military forces of the country. I firmly believe that every male adult should be compelled to give a reasonable amount of his time in proper military training, this intended as an aid to repel any potential foe. Especially should this be so as regards the youthful student who seems to get everything he can from the government and give nothing in return."

The Love of Doing.

The glory of a garden is not alone the rose,
However much our wages, however poor our pay;
The glory of our labor is not the thing we sold,
But helpfulness and service—the things we gave away.
For someone somehow somewhere a better world has known
Because our hands have fashioned, because our spindle goes—
The glory of our labor is not the gold alone,
The glory of a garden is not alone the rose.

3 TO 1 IN FAVOR SAY VOTERS ON PROPOSALS OF $575,000 SUM

Sewage Plant Has Biggest Opposition But Wins By 239 Votes

FIRE ISSUE POPULAR

Proposal For $75,000 Issue For New Station "Leads The Ticket"

THE RESULT.

City Hall	For	Against
Sewage plant and extension	35	20
Street improvements	37	20
Fire stations	36	19
Park addition	31	25
Court House	For	Against
Sewage plant and extensions	415	191
Street improvements	446	157
Fire stations	456	152
Park addition	428	153

By a ratio of about three to one, Wichita Falls voters Tuesday ratified $575,000 worth of municipal bonds and thus assured a number of much needed improvements in the city.

The election proceeded and terminated just about as it had been expected to do. A little opposition developed; only about eight per cent of the community's qualified voting strength exercising its franchise.

Vote Is a Record.

In polling 691 votes in the two boxes, city hall and court house, all records were broken for this type of election. Heretofore the largest number of votes ever cast for a municipal bond election was about 300, and this was on a $1,625,000 issue. Through strenuous efforts of city officials and chamber of commerce committees, however, enough interest was aroused to bring out double the average voting power.

Of the issues submitted, the one pertaining to sewage improvements had the narrowest squeek—but it came through with a majority of 239 votes. At the court house 415 votes were cast for it and 191 against it; while at the city hall it drew 35 in favor and 20 against. This gave a total of 450 favorable votes and 111 unfavorable or a majority of 239. This issue was for $375,000, of which $300,000 is intended for a sewage disposal plant and $75,000 for construction of additional sanitary sewer mains.

$75,000 Most Popular.

The $75,000 proposed for new fire station was given the most enthusiastic support, for it carried by a 44 vote majority and thus gave indication of the feeling that the city ought to have additional fire fighting facilities. Three new stations are to be constructed with proceeds from this fund.

A $100,000 item for street improvement carried with a 306 vote majority; while the $25,000 item for purchase of eight lots in the Junior college neighborhood got a majority of 270 the second lightest of the lot.

PEACE "LEAK" AND NP PANIC RECORDS FALL

Stock Market in Orgy of Selling Witnesses Exchange Of 3,340,600 Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The bottom apparently dropped out of today's stock market and prices collapsed five to 27 points in the largest day's trading in the history of the New York stock exchange.

Total sales were calculated by Associated Press tabulators at 3,340,600 shares, or 539,000 above the previous 1925 record established on November 4. Today's total also compares with 3,072,000 on December 21, 1916, following the "leak" on President Wilson's peace note to Germany, and with the previous record for all time of 3,270,000 shares on April 30, 1901 just before the "Northern Pacific panic."

Corn at Record.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A corn crop of 3,013,390,000 bushels, one-fifth larger than that of last year and the sixth in the nation's history exceeding the three billion bushel mark was announced today by the department of agriculture in its November preliminary estimates. Iowa, premier corn producing state, has surpassed all its previous records with an indicated production of 477,386,000 bushels.

Auto Tax to Go.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee today voted to slash almost $114,000,000 more from the annual federal tax burden by repealing most of the excess and special taxes now in effect and cutting substantially the levy on automobiles.

Automobile levies received the major share of the excise reductions. The tax on pleasure cars and motor cycles was trimmed from five to three per cent, representing a cut of about $40,000,000 annually in revenue, while repeal of the levies on automobile trucks and wagons, tires and accessories was approved, accounting for about $31,000,000 more.

Mrs. Valentino Will Not Have Any Children, She Says, Because She Is Not Prepared To Forego Everything

The Former Winifred Hudnut, Heir to the Perfume Millions, Docks at New York With a Couple of Dogs in Her Arms

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Winifred Hudnut Valentino, wife of Rudolph Valetino, arriving from Paris today on the Levithan with two pedigreed dogs under her arms, replied to her husband's contention that she gave too much time to her dogs and not enough to him with a pert "pooh! he has about eight or nine dogs himself."

Although the movie "sheik" is in the city, he did not meet his wife at the pier. The Valentinos are on a "marital vacation" due to their differences over the question of a career for Mrs. Valentino who proposed to enter the movies.

Mrs. Valentino had nothing unpleasant to say about her husband. Their difficulties, she said, have arisen over his desire to stay home evenings and his opposition to her seeking her own career. She said he must capitulate to her on the latter point before a reunion is possible. It is all very well to have children said Mrs. Valentino in reply to her husband's recent description of what he regarded the ideal domestic life, but no woman should embark upon this phase of life until she is prepared to give up everything for her children.

"This," she said, emphatically, "I will not do."

Mrs. Valentino refused to describe her husband as a sheik, saying that she never married a shiek but an "admirable person who likes to stay at home and who is fond of sports."

Mrs. Valentino was accompanied by her foster mother, Mrs. Richard Hudnut.

MA AND WROE IGNORE MOODY TEXT RULINGS

They Vote to Accept American Book Company's $400,000 Bid

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—Ignoring the ruling of the attorney general's department Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and H. A. Wroe, members of a sub-committee of the text-book commission late today voted to accept the affidavit of the American Book company as valid and fulfilling all requirements of the law. S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction, the third member of the sub-committee, refused to sign the resolutions presented by Governor Ferguson.

Attorney General Dan Moody advised Superintendent Marrs in a letter today that the American Book company of Cincinnati had failed to fulfill the requirements of the mandatory law in not providing an affidavit before being awarded a six year contract for spellers, which would amount to approximately $400,000. The award was made Oct. 25, and the attorney general declined to approve the contract, when it was discovered that no affidavits had been filed.

Superintendent Marrs said he declined to sign the resolution accepting the American Book company's contract, because the sub-committee was authorized to act only with the "advice and consent of the attorney general of the state," in executing the text book contracts.

Adjutant General Mark McGee, resigned, effective Dec. 1, and Senator Q. P. Watson of Houston, are the attorneys representing the American Book company. The American Book company's speller was the highest priced one offered to the commission, records show.

All letters containing the total of figures on the elephant, whose picture is reproduced on another page of this issue, must be in the postoffice, or in the business offices of the Record News by 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

While the contest draws to a close on Saturday, the prize winners doubtless will not be announced until the middle of the following week, because of the attention which is to be given every answer sent in.

Any reader of the newspaper is eligible for the first prize of $500 or for any of the other prizes, ranging in value from $1 to $300. Details of the contest are given in the advertisement in this issue.

As the date of the contest draws near a close, an increased interest in the contest is evinced. In drug stores, theatres, and gathering places throughout the city, the elephant contest is under discussion.

Many readers have sent in answers to the contest. Many have found magnifying glasses of much use in adding up the total of figures on the elephant, while others have cut the elephant into sections and added the total of figures, section by section.

There are no strings to the contest. Full details are given in the advertisement in this issue. Any person who can add two figures has a chance to win. The figures in the elephant range from 2 to 9, there being no combination of numbers, no trick arrangements, or "catches" of any kind. Each number is plain and distinct. The 6's are distinguished from the 9's and the 2's from the 5's.

To those contestants desiring extra copies of the elephant, the Record News has printed many thousand copies which are available to everybody free. They may be secured by calling at the business office of the Record News.

Atlantic Opens New Area Northwest of Old Sigler

WELL SHOWING PLENTY OF OIL AT 2,453 FEET

Test Is Half a Mile West And a Quarter North Of Old Pool

The Atlantic Oil Producing company has an oil well of some sort and to all appearances one that may develop into something big in its No. 2, Sigler-Waggoner, located in the southwest corner of the northeast 40 acres of the northwest quarter section 61, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, a little better than a half mile west and a quarter north of the old Sigler pool, southern Wilbarger county.

Topped at 2,453

Sand or sandy lime topped at the approximated depth of 2,453 feet, showed about 1,600 feet of oil in the hole immediately after it was topped, reports from the field said. There was considerable gas with the oil and a control head was going to the lease yesterday in event the well started flowing.

According to reports here the drillers went in with a bailer to clean out after a regular screw had been taken, this leaving the depth at about 2,453 feet. Oil followed the bailer out of the hole, giving the first indication that the screw had taken anything more than the usual sandy lime in which the well had been drilling. The hole has the casing up something better than 120 feet and will do considerable underreaming before drilling in further or completing.

Atlantic-Sigler.

Atlantic Oil Producing company owns and owns jointly with the Sigler people, who drilled the original wells on the tract some six years ago, about 1,000 acres in this territory, which by virtue of a contract with the Sigler group it is obligated to develop. Their first well was a small producer in the 2,000-foot pay just north of the old No. 1 well. The No. 2 to the west and north had failed to make a producer in the usual pay and was striking at 2,400 feet for what was considered a last chance. It is believed that the pay will correlate with the deep 2,400-foot pay found elsewhere in Wilbarger county.

Oil Gossip

L. P. (Pink) Hammond left yesterday for his annual deer hunt in New Mexico.

Magnolia stockholders in Wichita Falls are receiving statements of the terms of the offer of the Standard Oil company of New York for Magnolia stock. The statement expresses the purpose of the New York company to effect the "complete dissolution of the Magnolia company."

Superior Oil corporation has started spudding its No. 1-A Noble, in the northwest of the northeast of the northwest of 15-9-6, Sue north of the town of Seminole, Seminole county. It is a rotary test to 2,600 feet, where it will be standardized to test the 2,628-foot sand, that it found in No. 1 Noble, 60 feet to the east and which had to be plugged because of a bad fishing job.

The rumor about a merger between the Texas company and Phillips Petroleum company persist, despite official denials from the heads of the two great oil concerns. The following comes from Tulsa:

A message to Strandberg, McGreevy and company on Saturday contained the following:

"Regarding rumors of a merger between Phillips Petroleum and Texas company, President Frank Phillips of the former company said: 'I want to deny that any negotiations are pending.'

"President Beaty of Texas company also states there is no transaction pending for merger of Texas company and Phillips Petroleum."

Even with the above denials made, Mid-Continent oil men assert that there is something doing and that the future will tell the real story. They cite the fact that Waite Phillips repeatedly denied that there were any negotiations on for the sale of his company, when in New York financial circles the fact was known. Eventually Waite Phillips sold his company through Blair and company for interests that are persistently declared to be the Standard of Indiana.

The well looked like a sure producer and extension to the Cathey pool.

Logan, fee-owner, sold Rosser Pendleton the west forty of the southwest eighty of the same section early yesterday morning and the south forty of the northeast quarter of the section for a consideration of $10,000 cash, a rate of $125 an acre. From the Legion.

To V. N. Armstrong, past commander and present post historian of the American Legion, the war was an education. "I gained an education in army life," he said, "gained something that never could be taught in literature. Every class was brought together and each learned something from the other. I think that many of us were helped from following the paths of least resistance and that army life made men of us."

This theme of education was dominant in the ideas of other Wichitans, also. It gave them, they said, a broader outlook on life; the contact with strange men and things increased their culture and their understanding of what to most of the world are strange and unknown things.

"I profited most by my experience in foreign countries, in meeting people of other nations and gaining a broader prespective of life. It has shown that there is the actual need of a League of Nations that would prevent a war in the future."

This was the statement of J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial commissioner of the chamber of commerce, who saw active service overseas.

Practical Education.

The practical education it gave me constituted the foreign battlefield as one of the greatest of universities, said B. D. Sartin, county judge of Wichita county. "The war had its troubles and its hardships, but it had its practical value, too," he asserted. "It was a training school where practical education was given and was a great university in spite of its hardships. I probably learned more during the war than I did in the six years spent in university training.

"I hope we never have another war, that war is a thing of the past; but America today should maintain a sufficient defense and a navy adequate for her protection."

A need of world peace and the impression it made on the people of the world were the most vivid impression the war left with W. E. George, city attorney.

"The World war has taught the people of the world that there must be a world peace—and as an outcome I believe there will be a universal peace."

The message of the brotherhood and service was driven home to O. T. Ailes, post adjutant of the American Legion, who says that "the late war showed me that we cannot live within ourselves entirely but that we must live for other folks as well." While something of the same sentiment was expressed by Joe B. Hatchitt, a major in the army who is now a practicing attorney in this city. "The World war brought me a new appreciation of the value of friendship," was his terse comment.

A Lot of Hard Work.

Finally, the war meant a lot of hard work and hard times, but at that it had its compensations for Bert Hamric, a veteran of the trenches who is now with the DeLuxe Cleaners here. "I suppose I profited by my experiences over there," he admits.

NEW GUARDIAN IS NAMED FOR YOUNG POETESS

Father Has Not Accounted For Royalties On Child's Books

"Oh, I'm in love with the janitor's boy
And the janitor's boy loves me;
He's going to hunt for a desert isle
In our geography."
—A verse from "The Janitor's Boy."

* * *

"A honeysuckle cast her sheath
Strove hard to hide a mole
The poppy ripped her chemisette
And screamed 'I have soul.'"
—From "Lava Lane" describing a flower saying to another, "Oh, let's take off our gowns," is the above.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The above excerpts are from poems by a child prodigy, whose case has been dragged into court.

In proceedings attributed by associates to unwarranted doubts of her ability, a new guardian has been appointed for Nathalia Crane, 12-year-old Brooklyn poetess, who has published three volumes and gained world-wide recognition as a progidy.

Edward J. Flanagan, a Brooklyn lawyer, was appointed special guardian yesterday upon representation in surrogate's court that her father, Clarence P. Crane, who was appointed her guardian in April, 1924, had failed to make an accounting for more than $500 in royalties, although two volumes have run into large sales here and abroad.

Mr. Crane said he had made an agreement to make an accounting today and could not understand the court's sudden action yesterday.

Surrogate Wingate said the proceedings were a routine technicality.

"This move in court," said Mr. Crane, "followed the visit to our home of two Brooklyn newspaper women. One of the women waved one of Nathalia's books in her face and challenged her authorship of it, declaring that a child of her age could not have written it. The woman demanded to know who was the author.

"Nathalia made this reply to her questioner: 'I do write my poems, don't know a word I want I look it up.'"

Thomas Seltzer, publisher of the poems, scoffed at doubts upon the authorship.

"I am ready to swear," he said, "that Nathalia's works are just as much her own authorship as poems credited to Byron are his. Many of Byron's poems were written when he was very young."

Nathalia's first two volumes, "The Janitor's Boy," and "Lava Lane," have puzzled educators, psychologists and publishers by the profound knowledge of human nature shown in them.

A third volume of her poems set last week.

Ad Club Luncheon Is Held Tuesday

Members of the Ad Men's club spent most of their time discussing the question of whether or not advertisers should patronize out of town publications by buying space in them at Tuesday's luncheon. The question was taken up following the appearance of a solicitor for such a publication not in the trade territory of Wichita Falls. No action was taken by the club.

G. T. Buchanan discussed direct by mail advertising.

Alva Willgus, financial secretary of the First Presbyterian church, announced the poster campaign which the churches will begin in December. George Wilson, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting.

Prognosticators Optimistic About November's Crude

The November forecast for oil made by H. G. James, general secretary of the American Oil Men's association, is an optimistic one. It does not meet with endorsement from many market students here. It follows:

Crude—Demand continues firm. Many refineries threatened with a shortage of crude oil. Everything at this moment seems to indicate early advances in crude oil prices, although many will regret to see crude prices go up at this time.

Refined—October had a depressing effect on gasoline consumption. Demand at this time is strong. Indications are for higher gasoline tank car prices. Export is stronger. Everything indicates a general upward movement.

Erected a Clothes Pole on Sunday ,Is Arrested in Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Grieco today was found guilty of violating the vice and immorality act, a "blue law," by Acting Judge William McGovern in second criminal court. Sentence was suspended. Mrs. Grieco early Sunday erected a clothes pole in her back yard

Many summonses were issued last Sunday to motorists and others in various New Jersey towns for violations of the ancient laws regarding Sunday observance, as the outcome of a movement started by the Perth Amboy ministers' association against Sunday movies. Several motion picture operators were arrested and theaters, golf clubs, restaurants and gasoline service stations were among the places visited by officers.

TO MERGE SCHOOLS

Consolidation of Many Smaller Districts In Tillman Co. Planned.

FREDERICK, Nov. 10.—Talk of further consolidation of many of the smaller school districts in Tillman county into consolidated schools has been heard, with the visit in Tillman county of H. H. Porter, state rural school supervisor and W. A. Jones, district supervisor. Plans are being made to bring this about in a series of meetings at points in the county.

SECOND GYPSY WELL IS IN IN SEAY DISTRICT

Reported Flowing 1,000 Barrels Here Yesterday

Reports to the Record News from Waurika last night were that Gypsy Oil company's second well on the Oscar Seay tract in 33-6s-5w, was flowing at about 1,000 barrels a day from sand topped at 1,455 feet. The report could not be confirmed here but it is given general credence.

The well is near the old No. 1 of the Gypsy which made upwards to 5,000 barrels of oil a day a fortnight ago until it was drilled into water sand and fell off to 540 barrels a day Sunday, a considerable portion of which was water and bs.

The well was regarded as a freak, but the addition of a second producer in the stratum can not fail to have stabilizing effect on the area.

The group is located in southern Jefferson county, Oklahoma.

Ever have ECZEMA?

Hope you never did—hope you never will. Of all the awful itching, burning, agonizing breakings out of the skin, eczema is the worst. It's terrible. You know it, too, if you have it. Makes you miserable all over—just tears your nerves to pieces—embarrasses you and lowers your efficiency.

But listen! You can stop eczema! S. S. S. does it. The blood is where the real trouble is. Poor blood and eczema go together. Lack of healthy, rich, red blood allows impurities to get into the system and break out through the skin. That's eczema.

S. S. S. puts the blood back in fighting trim—puts the "pep" back in the blood. Red-blood-cells destroy the impurities—purify the system. Eczema, boils, pimples, blotches, blackheads, rashes and other skin eruptions vanish—leaving the skin clear, cool and healthy.

Thousands have dried up eczema with S. S. S. Just try it. Get S. S. S. at your druggist. Ask him for the larger bottle. It's more economical.

Impressive Forewell Is Given Waurika's Oldest Church; New $45,000 Home Near Completion

Baptist Congregation Abandons Old Plant for Handsome Structure Now Under Way

WAURIKA, Okla., Nov. 10.—While the Baptist congregation joined hands and sang, "Blest be the Tie That Binds," the last services were held in this city's oldest church house Sunday night when the structure was abandoned for a handsomer and newer $45,000 home.

Construction on the new church is partially completed and services will be held temporarily in the basement.

There was a note of sadness, commingled with thanksgiving, as veteran church members bade the old church farewell, for it was in this building that many Waurika citizens have been baptized and wed, while last sad rites for many a pioneer have been read from the pulpit.

Although lacking in material beauty, Waurikans attached much sentiment to the old building and tears were in many eyes as the last "Amen" was heard and the congregation filed out of the old building—for the last time.

Debate Sanity Of Slayer of Daughter

LITTLETON, Colo., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Although the defense has rested its case in the trial of Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer who is charged with the murder of his 34-year-old imbecil daughter, Hazel, the presentation of expert testimony on the questioned insanity of the defendant continued throughout the day with the examination of alienists offered in rebuttal by the state. A brief speed up the trial.

"He was insane on the day of the homicide."

"He was not insane on the day of the homicide."

These were the conflicting differences of opinion paraded before the jury by defense and prosecution alienists.

JONES AND HIS LOAD

Jones is a plain everyday American. He carries the load because he pays the taxes. He may be interested in knowing that the house ways and means committee of congress has made sweeping reductions in the new income tax bill. First a reduction of the maximum surtax rate from 40 to 20 per cent. Second, personal exemptions are increased from $1,000 to $5,000 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons. Third, normal rates are reduced from 2 to 1½ per cent on the first $4,000 of taxable income, from 4 to 3 per cent on the next $4,000 and from 6 to 5 per cent on taxable income in excess of $8,000. Fourth, to extend the $400 exemption for dependence to apply to children who are in school up to 21 years of age.

This calls for a reduction of $200,000,000 annually, which will be saved to the income tax payers of America, and the increase in personal exemption will remove more than 1,000,000 persons from the income tax roll. Also the 40 per cent maximum surtax rate now applies on income in excess of $200,000, but the 20 per cent maximum set by the committee, would apply over $100,000. It is significant that the committee also voted to retain the present 25 per cent reduction for earned incomes up to $10,000.

According to the congressional leaders of the two great political parties, this measure will be put through congress at the earliest date possible after the holidays, that it will be signed by the president and will become effective before the March payment of income taxes. There is no powerful block in the senate this year led by Fighting Bob. He is dead. There are powerful democratic senators who advocated the Mellon plan long before the coming of Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury. They haven't changed their viewpoints.

Jones has listening ears. His eyes are open. His pocket book has a pulse. There is an important election coming in 1926. It involves the election of a new lower house of congress and many senators. Unless he is given relief, Jones will be there with his ballot.

"DO NOT FEAR HELL OR HOPE FOR HEAVEN"

Heaven and Hell do not exist, except as a state of mind, and they do not need to.

For compensation is the law of life, as Emerson so magnificently shows in his great essay of that name.

Action and reaction we meet in every part of nature;

In darkness and light, heat and cold;

In the ebb and flow of waters;

In male and female;

In the inspiration and expiration of plants and animals;

In the systole and diastole of the heart;

In centrifugal and centripetal gravity.

The same dualism underlies the nature and condition of man.

Every excess causes a defect; every defect an excess.

Every sour has its sweet; every evil its good.

Every faculty which is a receiver of pleasure has a penalty put on its abuse. It is to answer for its moderation with its life.

For every grain of folly there is a grain of wit.

For everything you have missed, you have gained something else; and for everything you gain, you lose something.

If the gatherer of riches gathers too much, nature takes out of the man what she puts into his safe; swells the estate but kills the owner.

It is plain to all of us that nature hates monopolies and exceptions.

As surely as the waves of the sea speedily seek a level from their loftiest tossing, the varieties of condition tend to equalize themselves.

There is always some leveling circumstance that eventually puts down the overbearing, the strong, the rich, substantially on the same ground with others.

What we gain in power is lost in time.

Before the end, every man gets his just dues.

THE WORST POSSIBLE REPLY

If one of alien birth ventures to find fault with American ideas or institutions, the stock retort is, "Well, if yuh don't like this country, why doncha go back to the one yuh came from?"

Which is the worst possible reply.

Americans know very well that their ideas and institutions are not above criticism. Nothing in this world is perfect.

Let us endeavor to answer this fault-finding intelligently.

Let us say to the critical foreigner something like this:

"It is different here from home, of course.

"If it were not, you might as well not have come.

"The differences may not necessarily be faults.

"You say we have no art, no learning. The country is mainly utilitarian, but look at what it is doing.

"European learning has hundreds and hundreds of years behind it, but you have, you must admit, exhausted your initiative.

"What do your learned men at home do? They ponder and puzzle over their souls and pry into the innermost insides of their fellow men. They dissect and split their minutest sensations into fractions of atoms. But what do they accomplish?

"If civilization means anything at all, it stands for service of the individual for the common good.

"Without that there is retrogression and decay.

"The individual must strive to contribute something, much or little, but something, he best he can, to make life more pleasant, more comfortable or more beautiful, as his bent may be but better, anyway.

"While the brains of your world are cluttering and thinking in circles, the brains of ours are wresting gold and iron from the earth, building skyscrapers and roads, realizing instead of dreaming.

"Perhaps we have not come to art yet; we have been too busy building up a country, while the Old World has been simply living on the inheritance of forefathers; but we will come to it, and the decadent artificialities of your world will look pale and sickly in comparison with the wholesome, strong stuff which the young men here will bring forth, once they turn their genius in that direction.

"If you want to get something out of America—and that is what you have come for—you must look at life here subjectively, not try to look down on it as if you stood on Mars.

"Try to understand the American people, to realize what they are trying to do.

Uncommon Sense

YOU CAN'T LIVE ON PRAISE

Most young men beginning work are astonished to discover that they are not praised effusively every time they do a good piece of work.

As children they were accustomed to pats on the head when they were good.

At school a good recitation was likely to be rewarded by a "well done" from the teacher.

But the employer takes good work as a matter of course. He has a right to. He is paying for it.

It is the practice of some men who have many people working for them to lavish kind words upon their help." But as a rule these men are slow to recognize better work with better pay.

And praise cannot either be eaten or worn to keep the winter wind away.

By and by the beginner in business comes to understand that he has no right to ask for anything but his salary for doing good work.

He gets over waiting outside the door, when he has done something especially clever, for the boss to come along and pat him on the back.

When he gets to that stage he is, or ought to be, on his way to promotion.

That maxim that it is more blessed to give than to receive applies especially to kind words.

Too often, if praise is bestowed lavishly it leads the recipients to think a little too well of themselves, and when they get in that frame of mind there is no chance that they will ev be any better.

The wage or salary worker owes it to himself as well as to the firm that employs him to do the best work he can.

Putting everything he has into the job enables him to get more out of it himself—and the experience and the skill he acquires will stand him in good stead later on.

If he works for praise and pats on the back he will be no better off even if he gets them, and will be frequently embittered and disappointed when he does not get them.

If he works for the satisfaction of doing the best he can, and the added ability he gains from concentration, he will be far more likely to secure advancement.

If advancement does not come, if after long hard effort he discovers that there is no chance of doing any better, it is time that he began looking around for another job.

No sense in spending a life time trying to scale a mountain that cannot be scaled, when there are plenty of mountains that can.

But as long as he is in the job, it is his business to put everything he had into it, and feel assured that we will get far more out of it in that way.

Dogs and children love to be patted on the head, but dogs and children do not work for other people, who are intent on getting their work done and making a profit out of it.

As a rule business men are eager enough to get good people to work for them, and on the hunt for those they can promote. For they need brains as well as hands.

But you will find that those who are most often promoted are not the praise hunters, but the people who put their whole attention on what they are doing, turn out the best job they can, and learn to do the next one a little bit better.

Character and disposition count too, but effort is the chief source of promotion. The desire to be praised is natural. But it is better to suppress it, in business.

AT VARIANCE WITH THE KNOWN FACTS.

A college president, speaking to students, says the trouble with the world is that it hasn't enough idealists.

It is more likely that the trouble with the world is that it has too many idealists.

Idealists believe in the power of the spirit, in the goodness which is in the heart of things, in the triumph which is in store for the great moral ideas of the race.

But this faith only too often leads to an optimism which is sadly and fatally at variance with actual results.

We know from history that it is the realist and not the idealist who generally is justified by events.

"We forget," opines Jan Christian Smuts, "that the human spirit, the spirit of goodness and truth in the world is only an infant crying in the night, and that the struggle with darkness is as yet mostly an unequal struggle."

Most of our idealists are young. Someone has said that idealism is the vice of youth.

In what is surely one of the greatest novels of our time, "Of Human Bondage," W. Somerset Maugham observes:

"It is an illusion that youth is happy, an illusion of those who have lost it; but the youth know they are wretched, for they are full of the truthless ideals which have been instilled into them, and each time they come in contact with the real they are bruised and wounded.

"It looks as if they were victims of a conspiracy for the books they read, ideal by the necessity of selection, and the conversation of their elders, who look back upon the passed through a rosy haze of forgetfulness, prepare them for an unreal life. They must discover for themselves that all they have read and all they have been told are lies, lies, lies; and each discovery is another nail driven into the body on the cross of life.

"The strange thing is that each one who has gone through that bitter disillusionment adds to it in his turn, unconsciously, by the power within him which is stronger than himself."

YOU CAN'T FOOL EVERYBODY.

All of us know what a pleasure it is to meet a person who is real—without pretensions, without affectations.

Yet few of us ever allow ourselves to appear to others as we really are.

Be yourself! is certainly good advice from the vernacular.

To affect a quality, and to plume yourself upon it, is just to confess that you have not got it.

Whether it is courage, or learning, or intellect, or wit, or a way with women, or riches, or social position, or whatever else it may be that a man boasts of, you may conclude by his boasting about it that that is precisely the direction in which he is rather weak.

For if a man possesses any faculty to the full, it will not occur to him to make a great show of affecting it; he is quite content to know that he has it.

This is the application of the Spanish proverb, a clattering hoof is a nail gone.

Of course, no man ought to let the reins go entirely loose and show himself just as he is, moles, scars, birthmarks and all.

There are, many of us know, evil sides to our nature which require what Schopenhauer calls "the negative attitude of dissimulation," but this does not justify a positive feigning of qualities which are not there.

It should be remembered always that affectation is easily recognized, even before it is clear what is being affected.

Affectation cannot last very long and one day the mask will fall off.

No one can preserve for long a fictitious character; for nature will assert itself.

There is a maxium attributed to Napoleon, "Everything that is unnatural is imperfect."

It is a rule of universal application.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

November 11—Scorpio.

The unfavorable aspects that prevailed yesterday are today replaced with those of a more roseate and hopeful character. Initiative will earn its reward and perserverance will ultimately succeed. It is a particularly propitious opportunity for the closing of deals, consumation of arrangements and also for correspondence. While there will be sensed a feeling of aggressiveness, pugnacity and untactfulness will be conspicious by their absence, and there will be an earnest desire to obtain what you want by persuasion rather than by force. The eventide will be found desirable for lovers and love making and responsiveness will be sensed. It is a very favorable occasion and one fraught with happiness for becoming engaged.

Children born today will, according to the signs, enjoy exceptionally rugged health, but owing to their recklessness and abounding animal spirits, are liable to suffer more from accident than from sickness. They should be trained to avoid the taking of chances. They will be courageous, both physically and spiritally and once their line of conduct is mapped out no blandishment or inducement will make them turn from their course. They will be resolute and determined, not overstudious but sufficiently so to "get by."

If today is your birthday you are fairly reticent, quiet, unassuming but very capable. You never lose your poise, and in face of a great difficulty are always calm and collected which never fails to inspire confidence in those around you.

You posses good executive ability, are able to think logically, act with good judgment and are never impulsive. Although you rarely, if ever, become enthusiastic, you are not lacking in love and sympathy. You despise hypocrisy or any form of appearance other than that of naturalness and sincerity.

Art and music in their higher forms attract you, and while you revel in ease and comfort you are adaptable even to circumstances that are congenial.

You love your home above all else and its ties and obligations are always held sacred by you.

HOW IT STARTED

The Loving Cup.

Where could we find a substitute for the loving cup? What else would so admirably "fill the bill" for an award that in its very nature is a trophy and ornamental to any room, can be left where it is a constant reminder of laurels won?

No wonder the metal cup is so popular, even as a gift or token of a personal nature. For there is nothing more appropriate as a token of gratitude or esteem from one's associates, nothing more in accord with the sentiment actuating it than the presentation of a loving cup. Verily, the cup covers a multitude of graces, and it is with graces though of a different sort, that it had its origin.

In the universities of Great Britain the loving cup is still called the "grace cup." For it was to induce the Scots to remain at the table for grace that the famous Margaret Atheling passed around among her guests, after grace had been said, a cup filled with the choicest wine. And today in England the custom is still observed, the loving cup taking its part at every city banquet or feast at the inns of court. After grace has been said the officials drink to the guests and the cup is passed around the table.

Noel Had Aides On Death Trip, Is Claim

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A stir was created at the trial of Harison W. Noel today when Mrs. Ellen Bogan, wife of the chief of police of Cedar Grove, testified that she had seen two men in Noel's automobile about the time that Raymond Pierce, negro chauffeur, and six-year-old Mary Daly, both of Montclair, were slain last September. Hitherto it had been generally believed that Noel had committed the murders and the abduction of Mary alone. A police investigation into a report that two men had been in the car before the trial failed to reveal any accomplice.

The second day of Noel's trial on the charge of killing Pierce was taken up in making necessary identifications and in tracing the revolver with which Noel is charged with slaying his victim.

SYNOPSIS

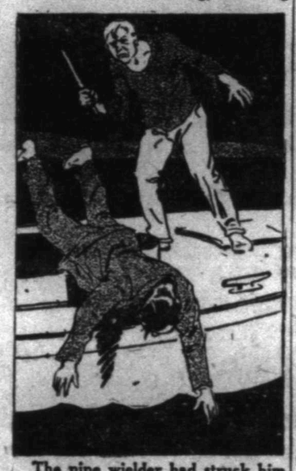

Connemara Moore has just died off the deck of the yacht, joining McTish in the waters of Long Island Sound. There had been a terrible fight aboard, following talk of bootleggers and revenue officers. Aunt Celimena, accompanied by Bing Carrington, Saltonstall Adams and Brewster, the lawyer, is just leaving her Connecticut home—though it's after midnight—to search for Connie. The girl was to have announced her engagement tonight, but—disappeared.

CHAPTER XI—Continued

"I've thought of the very thing," he announced triumphantly. "Harry Harvey's got a motor boat that will take us to Bayville in no time. Harry's in Saratoga, but his engineer knows me, and he lives in the boathouse down by the inlet. You're not to worry, Miss Moore," he repeated soothingly. The role of protecting and advising Aunt Celimena was so novel that Bing couldn't resist playing with it from time to time. He had always had an uneasy conviction that the indomitable old lady preferred Salt to himself as a future nephew-in-law, which naturally did nothing to detract from his enjoyment of the present situation.

A winding country lane led from the Boston Post Road to the particular little inlet from the Sound they were headed for, and at the end of this they found Harry Harvey's boathouse readily enough, but no engineer. The motorboat, a fairly large one, was locked into a slip over which the boathouse straddled.

The unforeseen absence of the engineer was disconcerting, but Bing was in a mood tonight to ride roughshod over obstacles, ethical or physical as the case might be, and he declared boldly that since there was no one to give permission, they must do without.

The pipe wielder had struck him a glancing blow.

Mr. Brewster was inclined to demur at the forcible removal of another man's property, but his protests were swept aside without formality, and he found himself, somewhat to his own astonishment, following the resourceful Mr. Carrington, gingerly, through a broken window into the dark interior of the boathouse.

Salt and Aunt Celimena waited outside until the doors of the boathouse swung open, after which Bing once more disappeared into the darkness within, to loose the motor boat from its moorings.

The storm had blown over, but it was not until they were within sight of the Long Island shore that the moon broke through the clouds, conveniently in readiness to light their passage into Bayville.

Mr. Brewster pointed it out to Miss Celimena as complacently as though he, personally, were responsible for its reappearance.

"A good omen, my dear Miss Moore," he suggested, rubbing his thin hands ingratiatingly.

Miss Celimena ignored him. "What's that?" she demanded of no one in particular, lifting a hand for silence. Salt, who was near her, bent forward in a listening attitude.

The sound was repeated, and this time resolved itself into muffled shouting and a few straggling shots at what appeared to be no great distance from them; though, since the moon once more chose to retire behind the heavy wind clouds racing across the sky, it was impossible to see anything.

"Sounds as if rum runners were out tonight," Bing grunted. "Guess they're in a clash with some patrol boat."

Mr. Brewster was evidently of the same opinion, for he immediately began to urge Aunt Celimena to give up the expedition and order the Filomena's nose pointed back to Connecticut.

"My dear madam, there isn't the slightest need of your undertaking this wild-goose chase," he pleaded. "Let us go back, I beg of you, and these young men can——"

"Pish!" said Aunt Celimena with a brevity and decision that would have been crudeness in anyone less naturally majestic. Unfortunately the full effect of the retort was somewhat marred by her having risen to her feet to peer into the darkness ahead, just as a particularly playful wave hit the Filomena's bow. Aunt Celimena sat down a little hurriedly for either dignity or comfort, and panted, glaring about her.

Bing shut off the engine, and they floated for a time, listening for a repetition of the sound of firing, which did not come. Then the moon made one of its periodic reappearances and showed them a motorboat only a few hundred yards away. She had no lights, and the irregular put-put-put of her exhaust spoke of trouble. She was distinctly down by the bow, and even in the uncertainty of moonlight and shadow it took no expert to see that she had been badly stove in.

Evidently someone on board her caught sight of the Harvey boat at the same moment, for a vigorous hail came across the water, requesting the Filomena to stand by.

"I don't altogether like the look of this," Bing confided to Salt Adams under his breath, his face troubled. "But she's sinking, that's sure. We'll have to take 'em on board, whoever they are."

The other craft was heading directly for them now, laboring heavily, and Bing, leaving Salt to start their engine, went forward again to the wheel.

What happened next was as perplexing as it was unexpected. The navigator on the approaching boat suddenly put his helm hard over, so that the battered newcomer lay full in the path of the Filomena.

Bing, with no time to consider, instinctively selected the side that seemed to offer the better chance of passing, and swung his own wheel. For a moment it looked as though he would get by, but hope was short-lived. The nose of the Filomena grazed, jarringly, along the other craft's side, and Bing found himself sprawling in the bilge.

Before he could disentangle himself from Aunt Celimena, who had clutched him with determination at the moment of impact, a man climbed agilely over the Filomena's rail and swung himself down on the deck. He was a big man in a wet and torn jersey, and as Bing struggled to his feet he had a glimpse over one shoulder of a section of pipe, wielded by one of the brawny arms the jersey covered, descending deliberately in the direction of his own unprotected head. He also saw, to his amazement, that five or six bulky figures had followed the first over the side, and appeared to be hitting senselessly and indiscriminately at anything they saw moving.

Then the moonlight was obscured abruptly for Bing Carrington in a shower of red and golden stars, and, his feet slipping from under him, he shot head first over the Filomena's low rail.

The pipe wielder had struck him a glancing blow, stunning him momentarily, but the plunge into the water revived him sufficiently to realize the advantages of the depths over the surface just then.

By the time bursting lungs had forced him to come up, he was fifty feet or more from the two boats and well in the shadow. A log was bobbing along in the path of the moonlight. Somebody on one of the boats caught sight of it, and immediately a revolver sang out several times, and two bullets spattered the water close to the log. The firer, however, discovering his mistake, desisted, and Bing, with cautious intervals of swimming under water, made his way to the near-by shore.

Behind him on the deck he had left so precipitately, pandemonium reigned for the space of a few long-drawn-out minutes, but at the end of that time the boarders, owing to the surprise of the attack and superior numbers, had things their own way, and proceeded to lay the two boats side by side.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

Truly the Institution of Marriage Has Many Faults, But It Brings Out the Best Qualities in Men and Women, It Endears Them by Mutual Struggles and Hopes, and in End Are Happier Bound Than Free

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widow of 50, with two sons who are about to be married. What am I to do? I don't mean for support, but for companionship? I don't fit in with the young people and, believe me, I spend some mighty lonesome times. Don't say "How about your friends?" You can't impose on them all the time. Most of my friends are married and I hate to stick around with them. What shall I do? YOURS IN HOPE.

Answer: There is one thing to do, and that is not to go and live with your sons when they are married.

There are thousands of well-to-do widowed mothers, such as you are, who saddle themselves on their children when they get married just because they are terrorized by the bogey of loneliness. And the result is almost inevitable disaster.

Don't make this mistake. Believe me, no woman is ever so lonely as the mother is who finds herself an unwanted third in her children's homes, and who realizes that they drag her around with them not because they want her, but because it is the decent and polite thing to do.

Personally, I think that it is a sensible thing for a woman to break up her home when her children get married and go to live in somenice boarding house or family hotel, where there is always some one to talk to of evenings and when one does not have to eat ghastly meals alone. Of course a woman naturally misses her own home, but she can take along the nearest of her belongings, and the society she gets compensates for the loss of her own gas range.

Travel is also a great resource for the women who is left alone when her children marry. If you have money enough to become a globe-trotter you can go anywhere under the sun in the parties organized by the numerous tourist agencies who conduct you wherever you want to go, look after you when you are sick and generally babe h arms.

These tourist agencies are perfect godsends to middle-aged and elderly women, who can make the latter years of their life full of thrills and interests by going to new places.

And of course, you can "see America first" as the slogan goes, and spend your winters in agreeable warm places, and your summers in nice cool ones, any and everywhere you will pick up new and agreeable friends.

If you have only a modest amount of money go into some little business. Keep you rown house and take a few boarders. Start a little gift shop. Start a flower garden. Raise chickens. Do anything that will keep you busy and occupied. Work is the best remedy for loneliness.

I started out with a "don't" and I end with another "don't." Don't marry some man who comes along, and of whom you know nothing, just because you are lonely. There are a lot of dead-beat men who pray on lonely widows. DOROTHY DIX.

* * *

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to a fine man, who makes only a fair living. But we could get along, and even realize our ambition to own a little home, except that he is always lending money to any one who asks him for it. Of course, it is rarely repaid, because he is an easy mark for the grafters, and it keeps us strapped for money all the time: I have remonstrated with my husband over and over again, but it is useless. What can I do about it? MARY.

Answer: I don't know, Mary, unless you can make your husband see how unfair he is to you and the children, and that his first duty is to his family. But I think it is doubtful that he will listen to reason because that kind of man not only lacks backbone enough to stand up and say "No," but he is an egotist who likes to pose as free-hearted and generous.

He gets a kick out of the fact that he is a sort of big man, a moneyed man to whom those without money come to borrow. And you may be sure the ones who get his money flatter and cajole him while they rob him.

A lot of philanthropy is just self-glorification. I know plenty of men whose wives have to almost chloroform them to get enough money to buy a new coat, yet whose names always head every subscription list that is published in the papers. And I know a lot of men, like your husband, who let their families go without the things they need so that they can maintain their reputation as liberal men by always being ready to lend a few dollars to any one who asks them.

Charity begins at home, and his relations or lend money to his friends until he has comfortably provided for the wife and children for whom he is responsible.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix: I adore my wife, but she often makes me very unhappy by bragging about what an aristocratic family she belongs to, when she well knows that I came of poor and humble people. Before we were married I knew I would have this to contend with, but I loved her too much to take it as seriously as I should. Is my wife right in what she does?—Husband.

Answer: Certainly not.

She may have good blood in her veins, but she is not acting as a lady should when she boasts of her family and humiliates you. In your attitude toward her you show much better breeding than she shows to you.

It is just as vulgar to boast of one's ancestors as it is to boast of one's money, and it is something that a real aristocrat never does. The woman who has to proclaim the fact that she is a lady and the man who has to tell the world he is a gentleman are neither.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have always had the impression that when you really loved any one you thought their every act perfect, but I'm in love with a young man who is not as polished in his manners as I would like him to be, nor is his English above reproach. Do you think I could be happy married to him?—Dorothy.

Answer: You will never marry if you wait to find some one whom you think absolutely perfect. Perhaps you are not perfectly perfect yourself. There are lots of qualities in a man more important than his table manner as his grammer. If you are sure you love your rough diamond and he loves you, marry him and polish him up.—Dorothy Dix.

"SMART WOMEN'S APPAREL"

SEVEN years ago today the mammoth guns along the battlefront ceased to belch forth their terrible missiles of death. The bloodiest war in all history had come to an end. A war-ridden world gave itself up to a delirium of joy. People looked forward hopefully to a glorious day of peace and brotherhood. And America, to her undying credit, finally organized a Disarmament Conference which gave concrete expression to this great longing for Peace.

The seventh anniversary of the Armistice again finds the country's ethical and spiritual forces united in intelligent, determined effort toward a "new standard of . . . . friendship and understanding." Enlightened, public-spirited groups and society appeal to every man and woman for support in this great and noble enterprise. We, the undersigned, are proud to help. We recall that millions who made the supreme sacrifice in the great war died in the hope that it might be the "war to end war." We honor their memory today by "waging peace," and may the Spirit of God inspire us, guide us, strengthen us.

Terrell Advises That Cotton May Be Held For 20 Or 30 Days

EVERYTHING TO GAIN, NOTHING TO LOSE, CLAIM

Commissioner Declares a Good Crop Has Been Raised in All States

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Texas growers "have everything to gain and nothing to lose by stopping sale of their cotton for 20 or 30 days," George B. Terrell, agricultural commissioner said today. He predicted "good cotton" within that period would command a premium.

His statement follows:

"The government crop report made public Tuesday, together with the two previous reports has caused a break in the cotton market of about $30 a bale or a loss on the total crop amounting to more than $400,000,000.

"A good cotton crop has been produced in nearly all the states, and it is evident that more than 14,000,000 bales have been produced, but it is extremely doubtful whether that much marketable cotton will be gathered because of the recent overflows and floods in nearly every part of the cotton belt.

"People should not be penalized for producing a good crop when the world is clamoring for cotton and can use 15,000,000 bales of American cotton. There will not be that much spinable cotton produced in the south, and the price should have held firm around 25 cents.

"Good cotton will command a premium, and such cotton should not be sold on a declining or unsteady market.

"The December ginning report will indicate what the total production will be and the owners of good cotton will profit by stopping the sale of cotton entirely until the december report is issued which will undoubtedly show less than 15,000,000 bales and a corresponding advance in price. The owners of good cotton have everything to gain and nothing to lose by stopping sale of cotton for 20 or 30 days."

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 10.—Hens continue to decline, both at San Antonio and North Texas markets. Other lines, however, are about steady under very light receipts. Turkeys continued to come forward very slowly.

Eggs, firm on fresh gathered firsts at $11.00@13.00 per case to producers; storage No. 1 candled $10.50@11.40 to retailers.

Butter, unchanged.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Poultry alive firmer; receipts 16 cars; fowls 14@20½c; springs 20½c; turkeys 30c; roosters 14c; ducks 22c; geese 18c.

Eggs, higher; receipts 2,987 cases; firsts 48@53c; ordinary firsts 38@46c.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Turkey markets:

There is a weaker tone to the Texas turkey market today, notwithstanding the fact that receipts are almost inconsequential and counting out the holiday but two more days of dressing for freight than is giving rolling are available. The earliest trade reports inquiry from outside markets extremely light and some of the larger operators are donng more business among themselves in carlots of dressed turkeys than they are doing with outside markets. Meanwhile leading south Texas shippers are watching the heavy sky for rain, which will have the effect of holding back the Thanksgiving offerings past the 15th, the closing day for express rollings from their territory. They point out that this would make for a wonderful finish on the turkeys by December will open, and the restricted Thanksgiving offerings and active demand resulting would carry into that deal and the New Year's deal, both of which are more stable than the early deal, which not infrequently taked in some very ordinary quality, too poor to take the additional expense of storage.

Farmer offerings at present include a heavy percentage of under developed birds which are being discriminated against with a 50 per cent price cut from the quotations of No. 1 stock. In some cases this is having the beneficial effect of returning the young birds to the farm where a few days more feeding will bring the mup to No. 1 quality of eight pounds, up for hens and 12 for gobblers, but the old policy of selling clean is still reported considerably below its actual value in the hope of forcing back or retaining on farms stock that will dress well for the new two deals of this year. Quoting markets fellow:

San Antonio: No. 1 turkeys 22@25c; mostly 25c for delivered offerings. Old toms 22c. No. 2's, going mostly to the local trade 18c. Receipts light.

Fort Worth: Turkey market about steady with weaker undertone. Delivered No. 1's, bringing 23@25c; No. 2's, 12@25c, old toms 20@22c pound liveweight.

Dallas: Receipts moderately. Demand and trading moderate, market weak. No. 1's mostly 23c; No. 2's 12@15c; old toms 20@21c, liveweight.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Vegetable market:

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The cotton market developed quite active trading today and prices were on the upgrade most of the session. There were several good reactions as for instance an early drop of 11 to 15 points followed a rather firm opening and later on a recession from the preceding highs of 14 to 27 points owing to the weakness in stocks but the afternoon developed a decided spurt which carried prices 53 to 59 points above the lows due to active covering by shorts in advance of the holiday in the local market tomorrow. The close showed net gains for the day of 44 to 54 points.

At the start the market opened 9 to 15 points up owing to better cables than due. Soon after the call the market eased off to 18.64 for December, or 11 to 15 points down from the opening high. The decline was due to the fair weather in the belt. The market soon rallied, however, and advanced 24 to 29 points by noon with December trading at 18.90. Good trade buying and some fear of a return of bad weather were mainly responsible for the upturn.

In the early afternoon prices eased off 14 to 27 points from the highs of the morning on the weakness of stocks in New York and March made a new low at 18.54, but in the last hour of trading there was a sharp advance on covering by shorts for over the holiday here tomorrow which carried prices 53 to 59 points above the lows of the day. The close was near the top.

The local market will be closed tomorrow for Armistice day which is a legal holiday in Louisians. Exports for the day totaled 20,289 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The cotton market today recovered half a cent or more of yesterday's losses. January contracts sold up to 19.63, or 96 points above the low level yesterday afternoon and closed at 19.52 or 25 to 52 points off.

Some overnight selling orders for execution at the start, appeared to be readily absorbed and after opening unchanged to eight points higher, prices soon showed further improvement.

Sentiment evidently was influenced by private reports from Liverpool attributing relative steadiness there to absence of hedge selling with Manchester and continental buying. A report from Memphis that spot holders were showing no disposition to follow yesterday's decline in futures, may have encouraged a bullish view of the Liverpool advices, and comparatively little southern selling was reported in the local market.

These features failed to stimulate any really general or aggressive demand but the market continued to work upward at mid-day and a sudden flurry of covering developed around 2 o'clock which sent prices up sharply. December advanced to 20.00 and March to 19.72, active months generally showing net gains of 40 to 63 points. This improvement was not fully maintained, but the market closed within five or 15 points of the best.

Local brokers attribute dthe bulk of the buying to covesing by sellers yesterday or this morning who were apparently influenced by a feeling that yesterday's increased crop figures had failed to bring any great pressure of spot offerings from the south. On the other hand some of the selling attracted b ythe advance was supposed to be based on belief that cotton carried over yesterday's bresk, might come out on a further recovery. Very conflicting opinions of the market were expressed during the day.

Exports today 20,280, making 2,746,116 so far this season. Port receipts 80,031; U. S. port stocks 1,348,884.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—With the volume of trading breaking all records in the history of the stock exchange, stock prices collapsed with dramatic suddenness today in reflection of speculative fears that the raising of the Boston Federal Reserve rediscount rate marked the beginning of the end of the "bull market" which has been under way, with few interruptions, for over two years. Total sales of 3,300,000 shares were nearly half a million above the previous year's record established on November 4, and compared with 3,270,000 the previous record for all time, established on April 30, 1901.

Selling embraced practically the entire list of stock with the extreme decline in the active issues ranging from five to 27 points. Closing quotations were generally or at near the day's lowest figures. Motors and high priced speculative industrials were the hardest hit.

Despite the assurance of bankers that credit conditions in Boston and New York were wholly dissimilar, the stock market acted "nervous" from the start, opening quotations disclosing many losses of one to four points. The market rallied when the first batch of selling orders had been disposed of but the recovery which continued intermittently through the morning was not very convincnv. Shortly after mid-day, bear traders, sensing the uneasiness of operators on the long side, threw tens of thousands of shares of all kinds into the market, which was unable to absorb the material concessions in quoted values.

The rapidity of the decline and the seeming lack of support brought out an enormous volume of profit taking and thousands of "stop loss" orders were touched off. A lowering of the call money rate temporarily checked the reaction in mid-afternoon but a fresh wave of selling broke out in the last hour with the market apparently demoralized at the close.

Stocks in which speculative excesses apparently have been carried to extremes were the hardest hit. Dupont and Chrysler each broke about 27 points, to 127 and 207 respectively, each closing within a few points of the bottom. Hudson fell over 18 points to 107 and then rallied to 110 and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe dropped 16 points to 204. U. S. Steel common, which established a record high for all time at 139¼, last Saturday, collapsed to 128 and then rallied to 130⅝ where it was off nearly five points on the day. American Can, American Car and Foundry, American Ice, American Locomotive, Baldwin, California Packing, Coca Cola, Fisher Body, General Electric, General Motors, Gulf States Steel, Jordan Motors, Mack Trucks, National Lead, Pathe, Pullman, Stewart Warner, United Cigar Stores, U. S. Realty, White Motors and Woolworth were among the many issues to show net declines of five to 15 points.

Rails yielded in sympathy with the industrials, although except in the case of Atlantic Coast Line, which dropped nearly eight points to 215, the losses were on a much smaller scale. Oils developed the temporary burst of strength around mid-day, but support later was withdrawn and they yielded with the rest of the list.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent then dropped to 4½, closing at the low ffigure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a somewhat betted tone. Speculation in French francs quieted down, pending the French parliament's action on the new taxation program of Premier Painleve. Demand bills on Paris ruled slightly firmer just under 4.00 cents. Demand sterling held steady at $4.85 5-16, and other European rates showed only nominal changes.

LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Practically no beef cattle worthy of the name arrived—market nominal. She stock steady to strong. Bulls active and fully steady. Calves slow and tending toward weakness. Yearlings and heifers unchanged.

Tuesday's receipts in the cattle division were one-third less than on Monday and the hog and sheep division were likewise deficient in the number of arrivals. Totals for the day, according to stockyards estimate were cattle 2,600; calves 1,800; hogs 250, sheep 300.

The relative smallness of receipts helped the tone of the trade. Beef steers were almost non-existent, the sole delivery on the early market being two cars of light grassers at $5.

Butcher cows were here in the greatest numbers, taking arrivals as a whole. Early tone of the trade leaned to strength. Individual cows of weight and finish made extreme top of $7.50. Other single sales were made at $7.50 and $7.00, carloads moving at $3.75 to $4.00, with a liberal sprinkling of fair butcher stuff at $3.00 to $4.00.

Heifers fair but choice stuff at $3.00 to $4.00.

Heifers and yearlings were in the "off color" class, low priced and unchanged. Bulls showed activity, taking a range of $3.00 to $4.15, and this took in bolognas and beefy bulls.

Stockers had a brisk call which was far from being met. A decent class of stocker steers moved at $6.20.

Slow trading again marked the movement in the calf division. Receipts were of the same general character as on Monday — ill-favored and little-wanted calves in the majority. This made another market with another lower bent to heavy calves.

The small hog supply had a $11.60 top, 10 to 15c lower, and that was about all there was to the trade. Packing sows and pigs unchanged.

Sheep supply was all in the wool, stocker class.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Wheat took a sudden upward swing in price today, largely as a result of active buying ascribed to a prominent Chicago speculator. December wheat advanced to the best premium yet as compared with May. The close for wheat was unsettled, ⅛ to 2¼c net higher, new style, December $1.50⅜ to $1.50⅞ and May $1.45 to $1.45⅛. Corn finished ¼ to ⅝c down, oats a shade to ⅛ up and provisions varying from 30c decline to a rise of 15c.

Better weather conditions in the corn belt tended to ease down the corn market. The government crop report proved to be about as expected, especially the large yield in the nine principal producing states, 65,000,000 bushels more than was indicated a month ago. Oats trading was nearly at a stand still.

Lower quotations on hogs eased the provision market.

VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov.—10.—Only one Texas car of grapefruit and one of peppers were rolled from this state's loading stations yesterday after the brisk week-end movement. The total movement of the former commodity to date this season for the United States amounts to 1,551 cars compared with 2,439 a year ago, while new crop peppers show a total movement to date of 40 cars against 20 a year ago. Apple rollings were 1,852 cars, 15 of which were by boat. The spinach movement was 10 cars, seven of which were from the Norfolk section of Virginia and three from Washington. Total rollings of other commodities follow: Grapes 89 cars, green peas eight, grapefruit 130, eggplant none, cucumbers four, cabbage 177, cauliflower nine, celery 111, lettuce 25, mixed vegetables 46, onions 131, pears 21, sweet potatoes 23, string beans seven, oranges 93, tomatoes five, potatoes 781.

Shipping point markets on cabbage were fully steady yesterday. Kenosha, Wis., reported Danish bringing $28@30 a ton, usual terms, f. o. b., and Rochester, N. Y., $23@25. At Idaho Falls demand was slow and trading inactive. The trend of the potato market is to hinge largely on the November forecast to be released late today. Extra fancy apples in the Yakima Valley, winesaps yesterday brought $2.15 and fancy $1.90, while extra fancy Johanthans were quoted at $1.70@1.75 carloads f. o. b., usual terms boxed basis.

Market Gossip

R. E. Flowerree and Co., Brokers, Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Fenner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

Buying of contracts in New Orleans was the feature of the day and was responsible for the upturn that occurred in the late trading. The professional element was inclined to the selling side as a result of the government's increased crop forecast and sold pretty.

The persistent character of the buying which was accompanied by much talk of good spot demand first acted as a damper on selling and later brought on a good sized covering movement.

New York was reported a good buyer in New Orleans all day. Spot houses who are most active in the buying are claiming there is two crops this year. One is of good grade and wanted by everybody. The other is the low and poor grades which are not wanted. Conservative spot houses estimate the low grade at least two million bales, one-half of which is so bad that there is practically no market for it. They take the view that it is the demand for the better grade which will shape the course of prices and are buying both spots and contracts freely. The outlook is better, largely as a result of this buying.

GRAINS.

Wheat: There have been no developments of any character in the wheat situation, but the market again reflects the domestic situation.

Available supplies are so small and premiums so great that there is no pressure from any source on the market, particularly the December delivery, consequently prices are responsive to moderate buying.

General trade has been of extremely small volume, but local trade leaders are friendly. Imports are indifferent to the comparative scarcity of offerings of North American wheat, being counter-influenced by very favorable conditions in Argentina, hence the export business is again unimportant in volume of character. There is an active domestic milling demand for higher portein wheat with premiums inclined to show advancing tendency.

We again call attention to the uncomfortable position of shorts in December, as it is believed December is owned by larger milling interests who want deliveries. In advance of any existing news from abroad, our prices may not show any protracted advance but on other hand the situation in cash argues strongly against believing in lower prices.

Coarse Grains: There is no activity in the speculative market, for corn, but the market for current arrivals continues to show firmness. Old corn is in scant supply.

Government crop estimate for corn this afternoon was 3,013,000,000 which was considered bearish, but many believed it has been discounted.

Oats remain almost stationary.

"Beauty is the greatest gift of happiness that God has ever bestowed upon woman, and if we are trained in the world within, there is bound to be a reflection in the world without, because life, light and beauty are governed by the mind," Mrs. Margaret Eastwood, beauty specialist of the Orchid Salon, said in a talk to the health department of the Woman's Forum at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday afternoon.

"When we examine the psychlogy of beauty, we find that 99 per cent is based on the personality and mental action. This is the first principle —Be really interested in yourself," she said.

To bring about beauty, Mrs. Eastwood urged, "Give yourself your undivided attention. When you realize what you may accomplish through the power of concentration, you will make every conceivable effort to develop this art. Your persistence, determination and enthusiasm will never tire until you have made yourself what you desire—a pleasing, charming personality with a beautiful face." Following her talk, Mrs. Eastwood gave the women exercises for prevention of flabby muscles and a double chin.

Mrs. Allen P. Terrell read a paper on "The Muscles and the Extremities," in which she mentioned the various muscles of the body, their functions and how to develop them. She pointed out the strength of the muscles around the ankles and wrists and how they were developed by constant exercise.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. P. L. Myrs, chairman of the health department. Twenty women were present at the meeting, and expressed appreciation for the talks given by Mrs. Eastwood and Mrs. Terrell.

ANGELS OF CITY SAVE 3 FROM FEVER'S GRASP

Value of Welfare Work Proved Out in One Instance in City

Over in North Wichita where the river winds through a red and weed-banked course is a section dotted with rickety shacks of sticks and tin. These homes, for such they are called, offer some measure of shelter to a type of society for which community chests are created. It is a section where rents are superceded by a plan that involves a find-you-a-site-and-build-your-hut schedule. It is a section where building materials are principally discarded tin cans, odds and ends of kindling wood, tar paper that has outlived its usefulness elsewhere and maybe a dozen or so brickbats for weights to hold the roof down.

In summer it is a desolate stretch of parched and sun-baked sand that reflects back the blistering rays of an August day in waves of suffocating heat. In winter when the blue northers whistle in from Oklahoma, it is an area of frosty isolation where the wind plays a chill and mournful melody through the cracks and holes of swaying shanties. In periods of drouth the dust, lying ankle-deep all around, fogs up in sheets and pillars of red alkalinity. When the clouds open and rain comes down in torrents, it is a bottomless quagmire of mud and water through which men and animals struggle with difficulty.

Late in August.

The time with which this particular story deals was late in August. It was one of those days that saw the thermometer mount to 110 degrees and which closed with the weather man waxing optimistic with a prediction for the morrow of "continued fair and warm."

It was plenty warm enough down in that section those days—and especially was it in one particular hovel that served as home for a father, mother and four children. The father and head of the house labored by day as driver of a trash wagon. By means of this he managed to bring in a frugal pittance each week and at least keep the wolf from the door. It was scanty pickings, though, from the scarred, unpainted table that did duty in the kitchen. A pot of beans, now and then a little bacon—and always a fresh loaf of bread usually made up the meals. He hauled garbage from a downtown bakery every day, you see, and this institution gave him a loaf on every visit in appreciative token for the reliable service he offered.

As for water, it came from a shallow well off on the prairie. A lot of surrounding houses used it, unconcerned, even if it was surrounded by open toilets and served practically as a catch for filth and dirt.

That was why, probably, one of the youngsters came down with typhoid fever that month. The fever appeared, at any rate, and stark disaster stalked across the threshold. Then, while one lad suffered, it appeared again and a second member of the family was stricken. Then again, as if that was not enough, a third member of the family became ill—and he was the father.

Neighbors Aid.

A more deplorable state of affairs may have existed somewhere before, but if they did——.

Neighbors helped out for a while. They were a kindly set, drawn together perhaps by a bond of human suffering. At some time in the past, no doubt, they had all faced a blank wall of illness and poverty. They saw to it that enough sustence was supplied to keep the sufferers from starving; they did the necessary work around the place and offered what help and comfort they could.

It couldn't continue, though. More skill and resoureeful assistance was imperative if any of that family was to survive; so an appeal was made to the welfare council. Then the machinery of civic relief began to turn. Red Cross nurses went to the home and took charge. They found the house, fly infested, with unboarded floors, unscreened windows in all but one little lean-to nearby in which were beds, no pretense of sanitation, an empty larder, no medicine. That lean-to, by the way, had been bequeathed the family shortly before by an old man who went to the county farm to eke out his remaining days.

It was a herculean task, bringing order out of chaos. The nurses had a hard time deciding at first just where to begin. But they went to work. The place was cleaned; medicine was supplied; proper foodstuffs were provided. The patients went on a regular typhoid diet; they got proper curative administrations by the city physician; pure drinking water was obtained; nutritious milk was brought in.

The Salvation Army was appealed to and sent down a lot of clothes, old but clean and servicable to take the place of the tattered rags all members of the family were wearing. They got them, they said, from the piles of garbage their dady gathered up down town.

Despite the Holes.

"Sure," a little girl told the welfare workers, "we find nice stockings and dresses sometimes. They've got holes in 'em maybe, but they look nice and we put 'em on and wear 'em."

To make a log gstory short, the Red Cross and the Salvation Army labored long and patiently—a labor that in the end brought a crown of success. All three patients recovered —almost. The father went back to work. One of the youngsters regained his health, but the third, a boy of five years now, may never be normal. Heart trouble developed and he has been a chronic sufferer ever since. Doctors say that if he would go to the hospital and remain constantly in bed, under treatment, possibly for months he might recover. That isn't certain, though, but as it is he isn't even in the sanitarium. His parents objected to his leaving home, so he's still there. A Red Cross nurse visits him every day or so; they try to keep him in bed; but just yesterday morning when the nurse made her call he was sitting on the floor playing with a spoke from a broken Ford wheel. His face and stomach were bloated, caused, the nurse said, by irregular action of the heart and consequently faulty blood circulation.

He was in charge of a 14-year-old girl who was washing some dirty clothes in a pan of tepid water on the stove.

"Where's mama today?" the nurse asked him.

"She out picking cotton."

"Sister taking care of you?"

"Yeh! Mama tell her tay home fum school today."

The nurse put him to bed, gave some instructions and a promise to return next day.

Just an Instance.

This is one instance of welfare work as it is practiced in Wichita Falls. The timely intervention of the Red Cross and the Salvation Army last August without doubt saved three lives—maybe more. "Bring us good luck," this year's community chest campaign slogan, was one with a practical application in that particular instance. Bringing the means of saving life, it would seem, is good luck multiplied to a maximum degree.

On November 23, 24 and 25 Wichita Falls will be asked to contribute $55,000 to this year's community chest. A part of that fund will go for relief work in cases just as appealing as this one with a river bank setting and background of impending death.

Realty Board In Forfeiture Debate

The regular weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board was held Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel with an unusually large attendance. Several matters relating to the activity of the realtors organization were discussed the most important being the subject of forfeiture of earnest money in real estate sales. Principal speakers were J. M. Bland, J. P. Marrs, John Monroe and others.

A. L. Huey, J. N. Prothro and J. P. Marrs were appointed a committee to draft a special, uniform clause to be added to sales contracts, which will provide for payment of the commission in the instance of forfeited deals. Each member was given a pamphlet containing the constitution, by-laws and purposes of the local board.

Anneuncement was made by the president, Walter S. Curlee, of the illness of W. M. McGregor, president of the First National bank, who was to have addressed the board on local industrial problems.

Those present for Tuesday's meeting were: W. S. Curlee, A. H. Harris, Linn A. Boyd, W. E. Wilson, Henry C. Welch, A. L. Huey, J. R. Monroe, Clarence Dodge, Junker, Jas. R. Buchman, Roscoe Staton, L. H. Franks, W. M. McGinnis, Otto Stehlik, J. P. Marr, W. M. Williams, Jim Baber. B. R. Lemon, M. R. Weaver, J. W. Tanner, Paul B. Scott, J. N. Prothro, Mrs. Ida Lee Corder, W. H. Allen, A. M. NOBELSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The murder trial of D. C. Sparks ruled out character testimony which the state sought to present in rebuttal.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT CONSULT YOUR DOCTOR

Drink Lots of Water All Day and Take Salts If Back Aches

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorder often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complaints.—Adv.

CLUB WOMEN SUPPORT PLAN OF CHATAUQUA

First Sessions of Annual Federation Meeting Get Under Way Tuesday

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—(AP).—Establishment of a "chautauqua of the southwest" at Santa Fe, N. M., was agreed on today by the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in convention here. Creation of the "summer cultural colony" was recommended by Mrs. Henry Redmond, president. The federations of New Mexico, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Colorado are expected to join with the Texas federation in the project.

Santa Fe was selected because of the splendid art museum there, Mrs. Redmond said. Dr. Edgar Lee Hewett, director of the Santa Fe art museum, along with James Chillman, Jr., director of the Houston art museum, were special guests at the afternoon session.

The the federation pledges itself anew to working for entrance of the United States into the World Court and League of Nations, "as one of the steps toward insuring peace," and that headquarters of the federation be continued for two more years at Fort Worth were among other recommendations of the president unanimously adopted.

Speaking of the proposed colony at Santa Fe, Mrs. Richmond said, "with thought of this chautauqua of the southwest has come an enlarged vision o fthe need of renewed family life. New interest in the real work and pleasures in the family as a unit of society is seen in the determination to find a suitable place in the southwest for a family summer home."

Mrs. Redmond, acting president, said in closing her report that in 1924-25 she has traveled 14,162 miles in interest of the federation.

Other speakers of the afternoon session were Mrs. J. K. Beeretta, San Antonio; Mrs. J. U. Fields, Haskell; Mrs. M. P. Bewley, Fort Worth; Mrs. W. L. Stoner, Victoria; Mrs. Florence C. Floore, Cleburne; Mrs. L. T. Shaver, Dallas; Mrs. Alex Adams, San Antonio, and C. M. Cureton, chief justice of the Texas supreme court.

MILWAUKEE—Allen Schultz and wife, Dorothy, were fined $5 and costs for kissing in a parked automobile. Schultz maintained a man could kiss his wife when he pleased, but the partolman and judge had different views.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood In Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly absorbed. All druggists sells lots of it.

Americans All!

"Whether one traces his Americanism back three centuries to the Mayflower or three years to the steerage is not half so important as whether his Americanism of today is real and genuine; no matter on what various crafts we came here, we are all now in the same boat."

Address of President Coolidge, before American Legion convention, Omaha, Nebraska, Oct. 7, 1925.

President Coolidge, in the address quoted above, expressed a thought which this bank heartily endorses.

The Eskimo reclines at ease
Beside the snow clad Arctic seas.

When blows the wild and wintry storm
His igloo keeps him snug and warm.

When he requires his evening meal
He shoots a walrus or a seal,

And takes these creature's furry skin
To make the clothes he dresses in.

He does not need to fret or frown
When stocks or real estate go down.

He never is distressed or sad
Because his golf is going bad.

Our worries, be they great or small,
He simply hasn't got at all.

The joys we crave he does not miss
His ignorance of them is bliss.

Contented with his kids and wife
He leads an ideal tranquil life—

While we, with our complex affairs
Are bowed with troubles, trials and cares.

But would we share his happy lot?
Perhaps you might. But I would not.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE LITTLE ELVES—IX.

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

THERE WAS ONCE A WICKED WOMAN WHO WAS UNKIND TO HER STEP-DAUGHTER. THE THREE LITTLE ELVES WERE HER FRIENDS. AFTER MANY HARDSHIPS THE LOVELY GIRL MET AND MARRIED THE KING. A YEAR LATER THEY HAD A BABY SON. ONE DAY, WHEN THE KING WAS AWAY HUNTING, THE STEP-MOTHER, WISHING TO MAKE HER OWN DAUGHTER QUEEN, THREW THE REAL QUEEN FROM A WINDOW OF THE CASTLE INTO A STREAM THAT FLOWED BY.

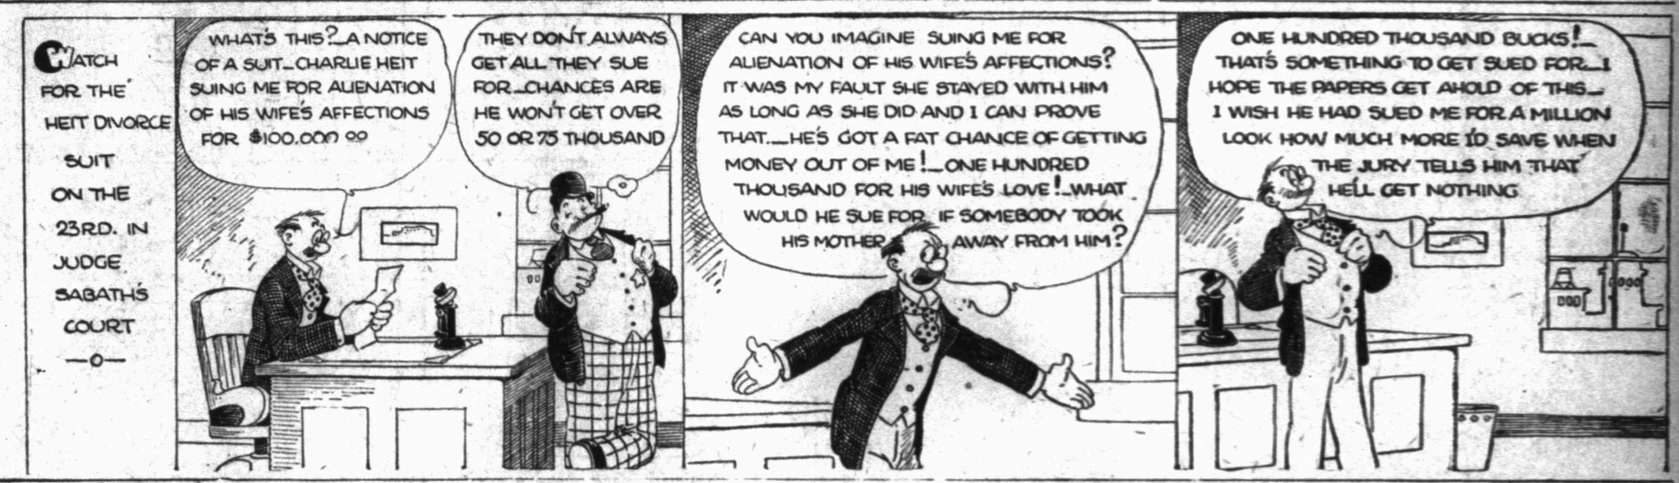

DURING THE NIGHT A LITTLE KITCHEN BOY SAW A DUCK SWIMMING UNDER THE QUEEN'S WINDOW AND HEARD IT SAY: "WHAT IS MY LITTLE ONE DOING?"

"HE'S FAST ASLEEP IN HIS CRADLE," SAID THE BOY. THEN THE DUCK TOOK THE FORM OF THE QUEEN AND WENT QUICKLY BUT QUIETLY INTO THE CASTLE AND UP THE STAIRS.

SHE KISSED HER BABY, TUCKED HIM IN HIS CRADLE, SMOOTHED THE COVERLET AND, RETURNING TO THE STREAM, CHANGED INTO THE DUCK AGAIN AND SWAM AWAY. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THIS HAPPENED FOR TWO NIGHTS AND ON THE THIRD THE DUCK SAID TO THE BOY: "GO TO THE KING AND TELL HIM TO TAKE HIS SWORD AND WAVE IT OVER ME THREE TIMES ON THE THRESHOLD OF OUR HOME."

Pack Has Battling Ire Aroused On Eve of Tiger Contest

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

HEAVY GRID CARD

The present week is a heavy one in a football way. Instead of the usual week-end clashes we have a long line of high school tilts billed for this afternoon followed by play in the same class Friday and Saturday along with the university games also slated for those two days.

* * *

The Wichita Falls sector is very busy today. Mosley's Junior college Indians perform with McMurray at Abilene. The Coyotes battle the Tigers at Electra. Burkburnett takes on Seymour at Spudder park. And you sport lovers who can't find time to attend the Electra game certainly should take in the fest at Spudder park. That contest should be a warm affair.

* * *

IMPORTANT GAMES

There are a string of highly important clashes in university circles scheduled for the week-end. The outstanding games are:

Yale-Princeton, at New Haven.
Brown-Harvard, at Providence.
Columbia-Army, at Polo Grounds, New York.
Penn State-West Virginia, at Morgantown.
Pennsylvania-Pittsburgh, at Philadelphia.
Chicago-Dartmouth, at Chicago.
Navy-Bucknell, at Annapolis.
Minnesota-Iowa, at Minneapolis.
Notre-Dame-Carnegie Tech at South Bend.
Georgia-Georgia Tech, at Atlanta.
Syracuse-Colgate, at Syracuse.
Michigan-Ohio State, at Ann Arbor.
California-Washington, at Berkeley.

Baylor-S. M. U., at Dallas.
Texas-Arizona, at Austin.
Texas Aggies-Rice, at Houston.
Arkansas-T. C. U., at Fort Worth.

* * *

THE DOPE

Yale should beat Princeton.
Brown may topple Harvard.
Army beats Columbia.
Penn State stops West Virginia.
Pennsylvania downs Pittsburgh.
Dartmouth wallops Chicago.
Navy noses Bucknell.
Iowa beats Minnesota.
Notre Dame licks Carnegie Tech.
Georgia Tech beats Georgia.
Syracuse shades Colgate.
Michigan beats Ohio State.
California-Washington a toss up. Strange to say, Washington has the pre-edge game.

S. M. U. should beat Baylor.
Texas has it on Arizona.
Texas Aggies ought to whale Rice, but beware of that Owl jinx.

You probably are surprised to hear Arkansas rates an edge over T. C. U. That contest carries another of these so-called psychological jinxes, however, with the Frogs on the jinxing end. Time and again, just as has been the case with Rice and the Farmers, the dope meant nothing when Horned Frogs hooked up with Razorbacks. The Porkers should win, however.

* * *

Harvard may come out of her lethargy and stop Brown. However, Brown has had a habit of surprising vaunted Crimson machines. It is possible, not probable Minnesota may fool Iowa. Also, West Virginia may fool Penn State, doubtful. There should be no slip-up unless Bucknell surprises the Midshipmen. Not likely, however.

* * *

THE WHY

Winter leaguers starting early. Can't even wait until the football season is over before the hot stovers start milling. Various rumors, some wild, some otherwise, have been circulating the past several weeks as regards our noble Spudders and the Witchita Falls outlook next summer. On each yarn we've heard we have endeavored to get the lowdown and tell you whether you're right or wrong. We've succeeded on several, but, of course, haven't heard all the rumors going the rounds. So if any of you sporting gentlemen have anything on your mind about the Spudders, let us know and we'll try to dig down and get the dope for you.

* * *

THE STARTERS

Frank (Tommy) Thompson, the great grandstand manager, has tried to beat us to it on what will be the Spudder starting lineup in that opening game next spring, regardless of whether it is played in Wichita Falls or elsewhere.

Thompson has milled around and uncovered what he considers should be the opening batting order regardless of who the manager may be, even if he should have to take the reins himself. He declares that with this lineup he could whip the Fort Worth Cats, as you know, six-time Texas league champions, any old day in the week and on Sundays twice.

* * *

OUGHTA KEEP QUIET

There are one or two men in his batting order who right now do not belong to the Spudders. This includes Alex Metzler and Howard Fitzgerald, sold to the Cubs at the close of the 1925 season in what Thompson terms probably was a "cover-up" deal. He has moved Distel from shortstop to third, and places another Texas leaguer, who he declares will be obtained by the Spudders before the winter is out, at the shortfield. The player's name is withheld, Thompson says, because he doesn't want to affect any trade Spudder moguls may have in mind toward acquiring this athlete. Thompson confided, however, that the infielder's name starts with a D. Now it's your turn to guess at it. Personally, we don't think he should have given such a broad hint.

* * *

That batting order:
Metzler, lf; Distel, 3b; Fitzgerald, cf; Bodie, rf; Washburn, 1b; Turgeon, 2b; D., ss; Query, c; Morgan, p.

* * *

This is going to be Metzler's year, says Thompson. He'll hit .340. He also calls attention to the murderer's row composed of Fitzgerald, Bodie, Washburn and little Petey Turgeon. Not expecting to jerk Morgan, but should it be necessary, Sutherland or Martin would be sent to the hill.

SCRAP DOPED TO BE TOUGH ONE ALL WAY

Coyotes Depend on Buck Steed to Carry 'em Through

Electra's Tigers and Wichita Falls' Coyotes resume grid relations this afternoon at 2:30 on the Tiger field in the first game of the play-over series ordered by interscholastic league headquarters for the eastern half of district 1 which is composed of Vernon, Wichita Falls and Electra.

Wichita Falls fandom, or rather a goodly portion, apparently believe the Pack will find the going soft at Electra this afternoon. There they err, according to the dope, for the battle is expected to be hard and with it a great possibility Reese's eleven will triumph over Bud McCallum's outfit.

The Tigers lost Dell Coolidge, powerful tackle, through ineligibility ruling, but the Coyotes have dropped ex-captain Rowdy Curtin, plunging halfback. In the loss of Curtin the local club is without a player who is more valuable to them than Coolidge is to the Tigers. Both clubs will go into the game without their one-time stars.

Pack Has Fighting Spirit

The Coyotes know that they will have to fight to win, and fight they will. Throughout the last few days of practice the club has displayed a great fighting spirit. With the work Bud McCallum did to get them another shot at the championship the club has taken a new lease on life and will enter the game this afternoon with a fighting lineup.

A report from Electra says that the stores and schools will be closed tight and everybody is going to the game. A large crowd of Vernon fans and players also will be on hand for the contest, according to E. E. Rogers, of Electra.

Brown McCallum, assistant coach, announced that he would vouch for the condition of the line which he has for some time been working on. The Coyote forward wall is in great shape and ready for the battle. Bud McCallum, has been working mostly with the backfield men, and they too, are in great shape for the game.

Bud Steed, broken field runner de luxe, has been slow in getting started this year, but now seems to be in wonderful form and his work will be watched closely by Coyote fans this afternoon. Steed and Francis will have to do their best to make up the punch missed through the loss of Curtin to the club.

McKinney Twists Ankle.

The only recent injury in camp was a slight twist of an ankle by young McKinney, linesman, but this injury may be ok before this afternoon and McKinney probably will see action in the game.

There is some talk of using Dempsey Moore at tackle on the defense and at fullback on the offense. Who will be called upon to back up the line is yet unknown, but it probably would be Edmondson.

With Curtin, regular punter out of the game the duty of kicking may fall to Tank Horton, end, or Hunky Ray, guard. Both of these men are good booters and one of the two will be chosen for the punting job. They may alternate at kicking.

Jack Leggett, guard and tackle, is rounding into shape at last after a long session on the sidelines and may get into the game. Leggett is a hard hitter and a good charger. He should make the club a good linesman in 1926 if he doesn't get the chance to star this year.

The probable starting lineup for the Coyotes will be: Penny at center, Ray and Gillum at guards, Walnscott at Edmondson at tackles, Flippin and Horton at ends, Powell at quarterback, Sted and Francis at halves, and Moore at fullback.

PIRATES RELEASE ENS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—(AP).—Jewel Ens, utility infielder of the Pittsburgh Nationals, was released unconditionally as a player today and then signed as a Pirate coach for next year. It was explained that the action will result in little change in Ens' duties, but will provide room for an additional player.

CATS TO GET NEW PLANT

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Announcement was made this afternoon that a new baseball plant, one of the finest of minor leagues, will be erected in Fort Worth in time for the 1926 season. The stand will be all steel, the capacity of the grounds about 20,000 and the location three blocks east of the present site.

Legion Fight Program Nearly Completed—Pollock Jumps Out And Shows Worms Real Speed

The legion's weekly fight card slated Thursday night at the Scott Street ring has just about been completed, announced Promoter Wofford Tuesday.

Dave Pollock, the Georgia Cracker, clashes with Duke Trammel of Fort Worth in the 10-round main event.

Wildcat Monte and Eddie Murdock, Wichita Falls feathers, hook in a return 10-rounder. This, as most of you ring lovers know, is a "grudge" fight.

Black Sam meets Battling Nemo, the compress champ, in a six-rounder. These dark boys are heavyweights.

There is to be a four-rounder, also, said Wofford.

Pollock romped through a fast 10-round exhibition mill yesterday afternoon in the legion ring before a large number of fight followers who had gathered to see what this next opponent of Duke's looks like. He won approval of quite a few of the ringsiders.

Spurred somewhat by a story carried in The Record News Tuesday morning to effect that in his workouts Pollock stacked up to grab the loser's end of the decision Thursday, the Atlanta lad stepped out with a burst of speed during the afternoon session just to show those on hand that he's liable to give Trammel more than he can carry.

From the action displayed by Pollock yesterday it begins to appear the Fort Worth slugger is in for a real battle.

The Georgia boy is undoubtedly the faster of the two, and he's said to pack a surprisingly stiff punch for one of his lightness of foot. The fight means a lot to Pollock, for this is his first invasion of Texas and he wants to get over big. Incidentally, he has a match billed for San Antonio with Tommy White pending the outcome of his scrap with Trammel. His manager, Sam Brown, has lined up three bouts in California, also.

Tigers Confident Of Turning Back Coyotes' Thrusts

Reese's Team Ready For Titanic Mill Billed Today

ELECTRA, Nov. 10.—The Tigers are in readiness for their second conference clash of the year with Wichita Falls' Coyotes on the Tiger field armistic day. The Tigers will enter the Wednesday clash confident although they are seriously handicapped by injuries and ineligibilities. John Lebus, first string quarterback is out with an injured hand and there is little hope of his seeing action in the Coyote clash. Bob Moore will probably take over Lebus' quarter position with either Willis Carnhan or Louis Kent holding down Moore's half with Carnahan as the best be for this assignment although Kent has entered a strong bid for this post. The ineligibility of Dell Coolidge has been a severe blow to the locals. Coolidge has been holding down the fullback position this year until Reese has recently shifted him to Ralph Turner's tackle while Turner took charge of Pug Sanderlin's end. Turner will probably take Coolidge's tackle Wednesday with a lame shoulder received in the Vernon game but he is a likely starter. In case he is unable to go in Kent will probably take his place.

Confidence Prevails.

Tiger hopes were dimmed Monday afternoon when Vincent Tramill, one of the main cogs in the Tiger backfield reported his doubt of his eligibility. This was straightened out Monday night however and Tramill will be ready to step at fullback when the referee's whistle announces the opening of this all-important clash on armistice day.

Confidence prevails over the Tiger camp although the Tiger mentors have taken great care to prevent over confidence. The locals will take the field Wednesday realizing that they have one of the hardest battles of their career before them and they will put up one of the stiffest tussles of the school's history. The first team was sent through a stiff workout Monday afternoon with no scrimmage on the program although Assistant Coach Cake sent the second and third stringers through light scrimmage sessions.

All set Now.

The regulars were sent through a lengthy signal practice after the usual passing and puting session. Willis Carnahan was at Tramil's fullback position Monday afternoon as the coaches were doubtful as to whether the latter would be permitted to participate in the coming battle. Sanderlin worked at right end with Mike Brown on the other wing. Budly Aven and Ralp Turner were at tackles. Jesse Weaver, husky line man has been showing up well of late and he was placed at Buzzy Smith's guard for part of the afternoon and it is possible that he will see action at this post although Smith will probably be started, with the former favorite to open the fray.

The probable starting lineup will be: Brown, left end; Captain Sanderlin, right end; Aven, left tackle; Turner, right tackle; Buzzy Smith, left guard; Gilger, right guard; Roy Coolidge, cented; Bob Moore, quarte; Wright and Carnahan or Kent, halves and Tramil, full. First string subs will probably be Lendon, Smith, Brewer Smith, Weaver, Simms and Sargent.

Spudders Declare 17 1-2 Per Cent Dividend For '25

J. A., Lloyd and J. Will Are Elected as Club Officers

Fred Weeks, C. E. McCutcheon, Lloyd Weaver, William E. Huff, E. G. Hill, E. P. Bass, L. H. Cullum, R. O. Harvey and J. A. Gardner were elected directors of the Wichita Falls baseball club of the Texas league in session of club stockholders Tuesday afternoon.

Stockholders also voted to pay 17 1-2 per cent cash dividend for the fiscal year ending yesterday.

R. O. Harvey, retiring Spudder president, was voted thanks for his earnest and efficient handling of the club the past six years.

Directors gathered after the stockholders' meeting and formally elected J. A. Gardner, who last week purchased a controlling interest in the organization from Harvey, president elected vice president and J. Will Gray was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

The PASSING HOUR ~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

(Gresham, Enright and Hay, three enlisted men of the 16th infantry, killed in a German raid on the American trenches at Ansauville, were the first men of the AEF to fall.)

From Ansauville—From Cheppy
The echoes come again,
Where once were raised the crosses
To mark the hallowed slain;
And once again, are, once again
The bugles sound to tell
How stubbornly the Yankee line
Avenged the lads who fell.

The chapel bells of Toul ring clear
Where once their muffled sound
Whispered of terror, stark by night,
The threat of Hun-held ground;
Scant ear-shot from their silvery peal
Beneath their helmets rest
The three who formed the slender point
For those who marched on west.

From Dun-sur-Meuse—from Belleau Wood
Today's the message sped
To Argonne drifts that shelter now
The stacked arms of the dead;
No frowning cannon thunder now
Where still they hold the loam
They living won, but softly call
The bugle notes of home.

They may not know a world at peace—
So high a price they paid—
They may not see the mates they knew
Today on dress parade;
But when the bugles sound once more
Where the skies at home are fair,
Their shining souls are marching, too—
The Unseen Host is there!

Pups No Game For Friday Yet

The Coyote Pups are still undecided as to who they will meet here Friday afternoon, but someone will be brought into the Coyote lair for a game. According to Roy Brackett, who recently talked to some of the Burkburnett players they seemed all set for a clash Friday.

The Pups have been given some new plays and are working hard for the chance at winning their first game of the season. The club is working every afternoon.

FROG TACKLE OUT

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Wolf, star tackle of the Texas Christian university eleven, will be out of the game the rest of the season as the result of an injury sustained last Saturday in the game at A. and M. A piece of bone was clipped off his elbow.

It's Skating Time But Helen And Hilda And Rest Of Aquatic Stars Are Busy Laying Summer Plans

While football players are plodding through the drab days and rain-soaked fields these fall days and the winter sport lovers are oiling up their skates and getting the latest thing in snow toggery our leading mermaids are making their plans for the enticing days of next summer.

Recent dispatches tell of some of these plans.

For one thing, Helen Wainwright, one of this country's foremost swimmers and divers, is now resting happy in the thought that her challenge to Miss Hilda James, British star, for a series of matches to decide the world feminine professional swimming title, has been accepted. The American star now an instructress of swimming in Tampa, Fla., issued the challenge some time ago. Miss James but recently turned professional after amassing a score of records in amateur events and is now more than willing to have a meeting or series of races with Miss Wainwright arranged.

Having cornered a room full of trophies and several pages of records in the amateur ranks, Miss Gertrude Ederle and Miss Aileen Riggin, two more of America's wonder-maids, are contemplating entering the professional field and devoting their time to teaching the art and giving exhibitions about the country later on. The possibilities are that they might later be included in a series of matches with Misses Wainwright and James. What an assault on the records these stars would make pitted against each other.

Miss Ederle holds most of the international free style swimming records. Miss Riggin, at the age of 20, h s won Olympic fame as a swimmer and diver and holds, among others, the record for the 400-yard relay swimming.

She won the world's fancy diving title in the Olympic games at Antwerp when but 15, pitting her skill against that of grown women.

Miss Wainwright, after winning a score of indoor records in Florida last winter to swell her achievements in the water, turned professional and during the last summer smashed several pro records. Her speed in many events has approached that of the greatest men swimmers.

OLNEY PLAYS ARCHER CITY TEAM TODAY

Coach Hill's Olney team will invade the lair of Coach Wilson's Archer City eleven this afternoon for one of the hardest battles of the season. Though both teams are inexperienced and the odds point to an Olney victory, Hill is preparing for no easy win, if at all. Coach Hill is sure that his culb will have to fight as there is some bit of rivalry between the two schools. Coach Wilson's men will fight to the last. Hill also knows Wilson's ability to develop a team quickly and places much confidence in his ability.

Hill used to coach at Iowa Park The last game his team played Archer City the latter won by the score of 41 to 0. Olney is hoping to be victorious in this battle. Hill is expecting to be forced to use every play he has given the team.

The fans from both Olney and Archer City should get their money's worth out of this game for as far as can be learned both teams are in first class condition. The Archer City-Iowa Park game and the Olney-Wichita Falls clashes were called off because of bad weather thus assuring no injuries to either club.

The probable starting line-up for Olney is: Harville, center; Wells and Maxwell, guards; Barclay and Webb or Crain, tackles; J. Dunogan and West, ends; K. Gragg, quarter; B. Dunogan and Russell, halves; Watkins, fullback.

GR-R-R-R-R-R! THAT'S TIGERS AFTER BLOOD

Princeton Seeks Revenge Over Yale Bulldog This Week

Forty-eight times have football teams representing Princeton and Yale clashed on the gridiron under various rules and conditions.

And taking such rules and conditions as they were the Yale Bulldog licked the Princeton Tiger just 26 times.

Which is nothing to make a purring kitten out of the latter. You may subdue a tiger by knocking him for a goal, but you don't progress very far in winning his friendship by such methods. Your blood only smells the sweeter to his nibs.

It has been three years, speaking of blood, since the Tiger has nipped the Bulldog. And that victory wasn't anything to crow about, Princeton winning 3 to 0, the obvious scoring of a field goal. The following year Yale got real mad and ran up 27 points while holding the Tiger scoreless. Last year Yale repeated the scoreless dose and scored 10 points.

Anything here to put a smile on the face of the Tiger?

While Yale was garnering its twenty-sixth victory last year Princeton boasted of but 13 victories over the Blue. Nine of the games to date have been ties. Princeton won the first game, played back in 1873, by the score of three goals to one.

This year's game is to be played at New Haven, home of the Bulldog.

Yale goes into the game with a better showing for the season. Up to the Harvard game Princeton's most important frolic had been that with the Navy, which ended in a 10 to 10 tie. Yale, meanwhile, has trounced the supposedly formidable Army eleven 28 to 7, beaten Brown and fought Pennsylvania to a 16 to 13 score, losing, however.

Tribe Will Battle McMurray at Abilene

The Junior College Indians tangle this afternoon with the McMurray club at Abilene for the second game of a two-year contract with that school. This club last year was in the Junior college conference but at the beginning of this season they dropped out, becoming a four-year institution.

This gives the Redskins a non-conference game before the big Weatherford contest here Saturday, their third conference tilt of the season.

Two more games will then conclude the season for the Tribe. Cordell, Okla., Junior college then the Decatur Baptist college on Turkey day for the fourth and final conference affair.

The work of this afternoon will be closely watched by Mosley as the coach intends to use several substitutes in order to get a line on them for next year. James "Babe" Gonce, Sconky Daniel, Robert Norris, and several other subs will see action, according to Coach Mosley.

This should also prove to be a tester for the first stringers to get in shape for the remaining pair of conference tilts.

The Indians probable starting line-up will be: Clary, center; Karns and Hirschi, guards; Weeth and Gonce, ends; Deems, quarterback; Dunogan and West, halves, and Beatty, fullback.

Vernon Pepped As It Trains For Monday Contest

Lions Play Winner Game At Electra Today On Monday

VERNON, Nov. 10.—Enthusiasm and pep are the main features noticed in the Lion practice session this week as Baggett's men go through the daily workouts in preparation for the game next Monday, which will decide the championship of this end of the Interscholastic league district. While the executive committee was making its rulings on the eligibility of certain players in this end of the district, Coach Baggett was letting the Lions take things easy, and the squad appears to have more pep than ever before.

The field hardly looks the same with Captain Robinson out of the line-up. His tackling is particularly noticeable by its absence. Ralph Parker has taken the former captain's place at center and is showing up good on the offensive, although there appears to be little possibility of him ever equaling Robinson's work on the defensive.

Parker Won't Rove.

Coach Baggett says that Parker will not be allowed to play roving center, as did Robinson. The Lion center indicated that some other player would probably be brought back out of the forward wall when on the defensive. It is probable that Roy Key, who has been playing right guard this season, will be chosen to fill the shoes of the former roving center. Key has been the outstanding defensive player in the Lions' primary defense this year and is the logical man to take the place of the hard-tackling Robinson.

Gelhausen Captain.

Gelhausen, hard-plunging fullback, has been chosen captain to fill the place of Robinson. Gelhausen has been one of the most consistent ground gainers on the local club this season. Christened Willie, his hard-hitting line plunges have won for him the nickname of "Bad Bill."

With Ryan, Crouch and Gelhausen, all in excellent condition in the backfield, it is probable that Baggett will be able to place the strongest all-around machine in the field next Monday that he has used this year. Hollar, left end, who has a swollen ankle, is the only man who reports any injuries.

BURK CLASHES WITH SEYMOUR AT PARK TODAY

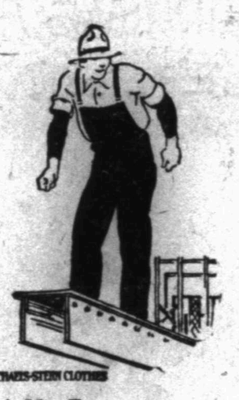

Great Battle Expected To Be Staged Between Class B Elevens

The Burkburnett Bulldogs and the Seymour gridsters hook up this afternoon at Spudder Park at 3 o'clock to play off a pair of scoreless ties in the class B conference. Both clubs are very evenly matched and the game should be a highly interesting one to the Wichita Falls fans.

A big crowd is expected to be on hand. Both clubs are confident of winning but from the two games already played they certainly cannot afford to be overconfident. No official lineups have been announced but they probably will be as follows:

COLLEGE MAN IS SENTENCED FOR BURGLARY

Star Athlete Admits He Robbed Fraternity House

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Lee Derry, University of Arkansas student and athletic star, entered a plea of guilty to charges of grand larceny and burglary in district court here today and was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the state reformatory at Hutchinson by Judge Hugh Means. Derry was charged with robbing the house of the Sigma Chi Epsilon Fraternity here Sept. 10 of clothing and watches valued at more than $500, the property of members of the fraternity. He was apprehended at Fayetteville, Ark., where he was attending the state university, and much of the stolen property was found in his room there, officers said.

Derry was brought to Lawrence and placed in the county jail. No effort had been made to make bond for him. He had entered a plea of not guilty, but changed his plea today and was immediately sentenced.

Dartmouth Will Go On Mid-West Scout

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The East's hopes of pulling the major portion of intersectional football irons out of the fire rest this week on the capable shoulders of Dartmouth's unbeaten eleven as the green invades the middle west to clash with Chicago.

Holds Main Interest.

This battle will hold the main intersectional interest next Saturday while such traditional rivals as Yale-Harvard, Syracuse-Colgate, Pittsburgh-Pennsylvania, West Virginia-Penn State, Williams-Amherst, Ohio State-Michigan, Minnesota - Iowa, Georgia Tech-Georgia, Alabama-Florida and California-Stanford are having it out among themselves in various sectors of the gridiron map.

So far the east has run up a big lead in intersectional frey but the thorn in the side of this showing is that the middle west has triumphed in three out of the five clashes between "big ten" outfits and major eastern teams.

On to Chicago.

Illinois and Michigan, with smashing victories over Pennsylvania and the Navy, lifted high in the middle west's prestge, but the eastern partisans are hoping that Dartmouth's forward passing attack will engulf Chicago as it did Harvard and Cornell thus squaring a few accounts on behalf of the realm along the Atlantic seaboard.

The Dartmouth-Chicago battle looms as the most important intersectional contest yet to be played. A victory for the green would go far toward establishing its claims to national championship recognition.

Still Further West.

Earlier in the campaign with Iowa and Southern California booming along at a great rate the clash between these two at Los Angeles, Nov. 21 loomed all important on the horizon. It still holds a high place but Iowa's defeat last week at the hands of Wisconsin, following U. S. C. downfall before Stanford has taken some of the edge off this fray.

Longhorns Await Arizona University

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Preparations for the game Saturday against Arizona university was started today by the Texas Longhorns. The players went through their formations with extraordinary spirit because of the holiday granted them Monday by Coach Stewart as a reward for their victory over the Baylor Bears.

The orange and white coaches expected to meet in Arizona a forward passing eleven of exceptional ability, and much attention will be given the next few days toward perfecting a defense against an aerial offensive.

Leo Baldwin, Penney or Olle will take the end the place of "Sailor" Shearer, who suffered a fractured elbow in the Baylor game. Coach Stewart expressed himself well pleased at the work of Matt Newell in the Baylor game and this big wing man is certain to start Saturday.

THIMBLE THEATRE— BY SEGAR.

"Please Be Careful What You Write," Dr. Grafton Pleads of Peggy Piedmont Who Interviews Three Of His Sisters On Nat, a Preacher's Bad Boy"

Once Nat Ate 24 Batter Cakes so He Wouldn't Have to Cook Any for His Brother; Then on Another Occasion He Put a Loaded Cartridge on the Schoolhouse Stove and Caused Pandemonium—That Was Years Ago

By PEGGY PIEDMONT.
Record News Staff.

Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has been getting away with a lot of things in Wichita Falls now for about 15 years, but he made one fatal mistake. That of allowing his three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Brown of Midlothian, Mrs. Henry N. Nycum of Waxahachie, and Mrs. A. T. Gitzgerald of Brinkham, Okla., to visit him and tell about his childhood days.

PEGGY GETS THE LOW-DOWN ON HIM.

Hereafter when Dr. Grafton, with his stately mien—with sober expression—speaks out in his best Sabbath day voice, may your thoughts casually turn back a few years, and think of the many pranks he played; the many things he did when he was a boy.

After the amusing things we have heard told concerning his childhood, we wonder if in the man, the congregation has ever had any curiosity as to what kind of a boy their pastor was.

I got on to the fact the other day that his three sisters were visiting him. Now, for my part, I never in all this world would let three brothers of mine get together in the same house with me at one time. So I took it upon myself to call up Dr. Grafton's three sisters, arrange for an interview, and "get the low down on him."

HE PERSISTS IN HEARING THE STORY.

Nat, as they called him, was there. The four of us, the three sisters and myself, tried to shoo him out of the room, but nothing doing. So under our protests he remained.

You will immediately say, "I know he was a mischievous one, because all who know jovial Dr. Grafton—the man—know that he had to be that sort of boy (because he hasn't with the years quite outgrown that trait in his personality.)

When asked about his boyhood, his younger sister, Mrs. Fitzgerald, (who acted as spokesman for the three), smiled and with a twinkle in her eye at the fond remembrances, immediately replied, "Well, I'll tell you one thing, he sure was 'all boy.'

ELEVEN CHILDREN AND HE WAS THE TENTH.

There were eleven children in our family and Nat was the tenth one, and I am the oldest," Mrs. Brown said, "and Nat says we are distantly related." I have been married and away from home so long that most of what I know, is what I have heard them talk about, Mrs. Brown continued. Mrs. Fitzgerald can tell you more about him than any of us, as she was with him more. We older children grew up in Tennessee, while these younger ones were reared in Denton and in Waxahachie.

"Another brother, Lou, was next to Nat, and there was only 14 months difference in their ages, and I want you to know that they sure made things merry for all at home. Our father was a Presbyterian minister and had a disposition very much like Nat. He could always take a joke and those two boys didn't fail to play them on him.

ONCE HE SKIDDED DAD INTO THE WATER.

"One of the funniest things to me, that they did," she continued, "was one time when father was out of town, they made a dam of that black mud, you know the kind where Waxahachie is located and made it slick with water near the swimming hole where the three of them went in swimming. So when father returned, they immediately invited him to come and go swimming, which he did, and when he stepped upon this dam, he slipped right on down into the water before he had time to change his clothes or make any preparations whatsoever. You may be sure he caught it at once that they had planned this joke on him, and such a ducking as he gave those two boys.

DR. GRAFTON USED TO SNOOZE IN CHURCH.

"Nat shouldn't be too hard on any member of his congregation that happens to take a little snooze durinng services because his behavior at church was not always that of a model," another of the sisters said "one time I remember quite well, he was seated up pretty close to the front, and was sound asleep until the preacher spoke out a little loud and disturbed his slumbers. And what do you think he did? Why he just jumped straight up kind a startled like and lit right out of the window to the manse and went to bed, and when the rest of us came home he was sleeping soundly just like he had been there all the time. We never did know whether he was fully awake when he did that or not.

"And on another occasion, when he was in church, seated almost on the front row, and I think snoozing again, a loud remark from the preacher aroused him and he called out as loud as he could 'I think its time to quit.'

TWENTY-FOUR BATTER CAKES AT ONE EATING.

"And another stunt that was very amusing to us was one time when father and mother took a trip to see Mrs. Brown, our oldest sister, who had been married and keeping house for herself for many years and I, too, was married and had a home of my own. Nat and Lou in our absence did their own cooking. They were both very fond of batter cakes and they decided that Lou would fry Nat all he could eat, and then Nat in turn would fry Lou some. Well, just to show you how very mischievous Nat was, all the time he was eating, he was planning how he could get out of cooking those cakes for Lou. He decided the only way out was to eat so many of them that there wouldn't be any milk with which to make more, so how many do you think he ate? He ate 24, and poor Lou cooked and made cakes until, sure enough, when it came Nat's turn to fry some for him, there was no more material to make them out of. This infuriated Lou so much when he saw what a joke had been played on him, that he certainly gave Nat one good whipping. You see Nat was so full of cakes, he couldn't fight much.

FATHER CAME UP WITH A SWITCH IN HIS HAND.

About this time, Dr. Grafton himself stepped in right in the middle of an animated conversation, and one of his sisters said, 'Nat this lady wants to know something about the mean things you did when you were a boy, you know more about them than anybody else, suppose you tell her a few of your escapades.'

Reminiscence of boyhood days, brought a smile on his face as he replied:

"Do you want to know the meanest thing I ever did do?"

We told him we did, after which he said that one of the most outlandish tricks he ever played on anybody, he thought he played on his father, after that austere gentleman's hair was gray, and now when he thinks back about it, he said he wonders how it ever kept from crippling him.

"I had just finished reading 'Peck's Bad Boy,' and I was trying to imitate the leading character in the story. My father, brother and I had been setting out some peach trees, and my father had gone in the house, when it occurred to me to stretch the clothes line and let it down and catch him when he started back out in the yard. I immediately got upon a box, and as father started out the back door hurriedly (he always walked that way) I let the clothes line right down and caught him under the nose. I skinned his nose and threw him to ground, but believe me, he sure was angry. Just as he went down he grasped one of those newly set out peach trees and brought it up with him when he arose, and I sure got one of the hardest whippings I ever had in my life."

J. S. PITMAN'S SISTER WAS HIS TEACHER.

And this "all boy's" activities were not always directed to those of his family and at home, his sisters continued.

Mrs. Fitzgerald said, "I think he was pretty bad at school.

"Well, one of the outstanding capers of his in the school room, centers around one time when Miss Emma Pitman was his teacher at Denton (and right here he paused to say) "by the way, she is sister to J. S. Pitman, right here in town.)

His desk mate handed him a blank cartridge and dared him to put it on a hot stove nearby. Of course he couldn't refuse a dare, so when the teacher's back was turned he set it end down on the stove. Of course as soon as it became heated, it exploded. And you should have seen that school. The children and teacher too went in every direction. It really almost broke up the school for awhile. Finally when all was beginning to settle down again, one kid looked up at the ceiling where had been a knot hole, and yelled as loud as he could, 'look there Miss Pitman, that cartridge made a hole in the room,' where upon it was investigated and Nat got his daily whipping.

HE NEVER PLAYED MARBLES FOR KEEPS.

"Dr. Grafton, did you ever play marbles?" they asked.

"Why of course I played marbles," he replied.

"Well, did you ever play for keeps?"

"Not that anybody knew of," he said.

"Well if he ever played for keeps, he sure kept it to himself," one of his sisters said, "I can assure you our father and mother knew nothing about it.

"You get these girls to tell you something of themselves," Dr. Grafton urged, "they were not perfect by any means."

"No, we were all of us pretty much in evidence," said Mrs. Fitzgerald, "for there were eleven children, six boys and five girls, our father was a preacher and we always lived in the manse near the church, and you may be sure our home was a lively one. There are only two of the boys living now, Dr. Grafton and his brother, Lou, who is also a minister and who held a protracted meeting at the First Presbyterian church two years ago.

"BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WRITE," HE SAYS.

While all these explanations were being made, Dr. Grafton himself had been an interested listener. He was the goat and he knew it, so it was with an air of resignation but fervent hope as well that he remarked as the interviewer rose to go: "Well, all right; go ahead; but for Heaven sake, young lady, please be careful what you write."

Tiny Corpse Found In a Packing Case

An official investigation was under way Tuesday afternoon into circumstances surrounding the death and burial of a baby boy, evidently but a few days old, who was found Tuesday morning in a rough pine box in an improvised grave in Riverside cemetery. The body is being held at the Merkle Undertaking parlors pending the outcome of the investigation.

The tiny corpse was wrapped in medicated gauze and then wrapped in layers of absorbent cotton. It was all encased in a small box fashioned from a packing case. The name of a local transfer company was stenciled on the side and the whole was buried in a shallow grave about seven or eight inches in depth. The small mound was on the brink of the Wichita river which flows along the north side of the cemetery.

Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn was called and after an inquest held that the baby was prematurely born. It was buried, but was later exhumed again and turned over to the undertaker to be held for further instructions.

LONGEVITY IS ON DECREASE; SAYS DOCTOR

Hysterical Tendency In Middle-Age Is To Blame

DALLAS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The hysterical tendency of modern living has brought a decrease in life expectancy despite the tremendous strides in medical development, Dr. William D. Haggard of Nashville, Tenn., president of the American Medical association, declared in an address before the Southern Medical association here tonight.

Adjustment of the middleaged man to his environment to increase longevity is the problem confronting the physician today, said Dr. Haggard, warning his brethren of the profession to avoid "emotional complexes" in order to steer their patients from "this maelstrom of physical disaster."

J. J. Perkins Says Chest Is Deserving

"I am entirely in sympathy with the Wichita Falls community chest and the splendid work it has accomplished. I think it is an excellent plan, deserving of the most hearty support of every Wichitan who is able to add his bit in any amount to the fund for the care of these unfortunates requiring assistance.

"It seems to me that there can be no better indication of a city's acknowledgement of its responsibilities than a liberal and hearty support of the move to provide a chest fund. A city that recognizes its duty to the needy; that recognizes the need for safeguarding the morals of its boys and girls, men and women, is a city peopled with thinking citizens who are building on a firm and solid foundation.

"I have entire confidence in the success of thi syear's community chest and am sure Wichita Falls will put it over the top in short order."

This was the comment Tuesday of J. J. Perkins, prominent Wichita Falls business man and capitalist, when asked as to his attitude on the community chest plan. His statements speak for themselves and lend unquestioned endorsement to the method this city has adopted for caring for its worthy poor, protecting its helpless youngsters and erecting bulwarks of moral worth around its boys and girls and its men and women.

The chest fund this year will be raised in an intensive three-day campaign, November 23, 24 and 25.

Notice!

The cut of the Elephant shown is the same that has been used throughout the entire campaign. Several times the print has been dimmed or blurred, but the original has always been the same. If your copy is dim or blurred, call at The Record News and we will give you another FREE!

The white spot in the center is a number that has been removed so that the correct solution is only in the hands of The Record News.

WHAT IS THE WEIGHT OF THE ELEPHANT

Here's a Way to Win Your Christmas Money

25 Cash Prizes!

Try Your Skill Now!

What Is the Sum Total of the Figures Forming the Elephant?

Simply Add Them Up to Get the Solution

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone.. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42". The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the state of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

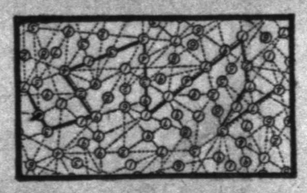

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

DECIDING TIES

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of the chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

TRAVELERS AID VALUED WORK IN COMMUNITY

Under Mrs. Davidson's Leadership Many a Wayfarer Is Cared For

Down at the union station each day is a kindly lady who has become something of an institution in the bustling and never-quiet center of life. She is Mrs. W. O. Davidson, Travelers Aid secretary whose duties are multitudinous ones requiring a vast amount of patience, tact and perseverance.

The work of the travelers aid is primarily that of assistance to the traveling public; but the secretaries scattered throughout the country pay special attention to one of the biggest problems of modern life—that of protecting and caring for girls who find their way into a strange city where they may fall into channels leading to—most anything. This protective work can be carrie dout most effectively, of course, at the railway stations where a girl coming in from some distant point finds her first contact with the city.

Appeals Answered.

An appeal to a travelers aid secretary is never ignored, and if, in the opinion of this worker, a case merits attention it is turned over to some other organizations—the Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A. or similar groupe for further care and attention.

Mrs. Davidson could tell of any number of such cases handled in Wichita Falls which have without doubt saved trouble for some girl.

The girls, however, are not the only ones. For all the thousands of transients who swarm through the station daily she acts as an information bureau, utilities office, confidential advisor and mother-confessor generally. Look at the report of her work last year: general information given in 4,846 cases, persons assisted to trains 150, assisted with tickets 75, directed to city 528, sent to rooms 256, sent to welfare board 28, sent to Salvation Army 57, sent to Y. W. C. A. employment bureau 53, children taken in charge 97, friends and relatives located 508, assistance to sick 19, long distances calls handled 377, telegrams 1,212, special cases handled 62, total cases handled 8,263.

Work of such varied nature is proof in itself of the busy days experienced by the secretary and the service she renders the public generally.

Partakes of Chest.

The Travelers Aid office is maintained under the Municipal Welfare Board's direction and accordingly finds a place in the Community Chest. It was financed from this fund last year and will be again in the coming 12 months. Hence, it too will make its appeal November 23, 24 and 25 when the chest campaign is launched here with a $55,000 goal as the aim. In the name of the stranger wtihin the gates it asks that the fund be oversubscribed.

AUTOMOTIVE DEALERS MEET

Only a Few Members Attend Weekly Session Held Tuesday.

The Automotive Dealers association held their weekly luncheon at the Wichita club Tuesday, with only a few of the members present. The committee appointed at the last meeting to make plans for an open meeting to be held in the near future reported nothing definite had been decided on. The open meeting will be fore the purpose of a get-to-gether of all dealers and their employes; to get better acquainted and work a closer working co-operation.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if his prescription does not banish every sign and symptom of the disease he will gladly return your money without comment. —Adv.

Through a Woman's Eyes

Beauty Insurance.

Beauty insurance—that is the latest innovation of beauty specialists abroad. It has caused such a furor of discussion and such a dash for it has been made by the women of fashion over there, we hear, that the next season will certainly see it an institution here.

The idea is that one's lifted cheeks, flattened ears, permanently waved hair or doctored complexion are "insured" to "keep" for a certain length of time. If the improvement should not last for the prescribed length of time, milady collects on her insurance—an indemnity or a new job done free of charge.

We do not know exactly what the insurance rate is, except that it is said to be very high. But that cuts no ice, we are told. According to the news from the fashion centers, women will pay any price to secure their looks. Just the certainty that their newly acquired beauty can be counted on to last for a certain length of time at least, say those "in the know" at resorts like Deauville, Cannes and Monte Carlo, just the freedom from worry when they go to bed at night as to whether it will be there in the morning, makes beauty insurance cheap at double the price!

Far be it from us to inveigh against artificial aids to beauty! Even those of us who are too busy with the house and the children and the club to be very ardent devotees of the beauty parlor are willing to admit that within the limits where they remain aids to beauty, they are a very good thing.

Far be it from us, too, to raise any objections to insuring beauty, whatever the cost. If a doctored complexion improves a woman's looks and its lasting is uncertain, it is good business to insure it.

The comment that we can not escape, however, is that women who will pay any price to preserve their artificially acquired beauty, will not bother about the cheap and obvious insurance of their natural charms. Many a woman who will make any sacrifice, not only in money, but in pain and torture, artificially to bring back life to a faded complexion, will ignore the simple rules, involving only small sacrifices, that would keep it naturally alive and beautiful.

And so—it might sound like bromide, but it is nevertheless true—we are all prone to look for the expensive and the complicated means and to ignore the insurance that is available to all of us free, and that will preserve our natural beauty, to which no artificial aid can be compared. There is the certainty of beauty in the good color and the clear eye that come of exercise and enough sleep and reasonable restraints—cheap insurance which is available not only to the woman of wealth and fashion, but to all of us.

There is the freshness of the quick smile, the pleasing face upon which tension and nerve strain have left no marks, the mouth which remains firm and good humored with no downward sagging from frequent anger and discontent, these are the rewards of an insurance for which no fee is charged but self-discipline and self-control. Even when age takes its inevitable toll of the beauty that was youth, one is still secure in retaining the fundamental elements of real and lasting beauty is one has maintained through the years the natural beauty insurance and kindliness and love of life. It is that beauty insurance which makes some women really beautiful at sixty and lack of it that has caused the faces of others to draw and harden and fade even in early youth.

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Those Uncomfortable Friends.

The girl of today is her desire for overwhelming popularity gets into the habit of seeking everyone's favor—she beams on the humblest of her followers just to keep him in love with her.

When she dances with a boy who she knows admires her but whom she finds frightfully dull she flatters him and flirts with him and leaves him with the impression that he's one big hit with her.

Small wonder then, if the poor boy seeks to follow up the dance with a call—and then more calls and more dates until he feels himself one of her best friends.

Even if he doesn't make love to her, his lady hates to be with him—she dreads the evenings she has to spend with him—she yawns through one after the other—and breathes enormous sighs of relief when he takes his departure.

And yet, for fear of losing his admiration—for fear of being one date short per week, she continues to see this impossible bore.

And as time passes she finds it more and more difficult to find a way out of this uncomfortable friendship.

The boy, perhaps admires her tremendously, is proud to call her his friend—asks nothing more than her friendship—but in asking that is boring our heroine to tears.

You man say this is an exaggerated case, but on the dozens of girls one hears exclaiming. "Oh, darn it, this is the evening when Al comes over to the house and tells me all his troubles. He's been doing it for two years, now and I've never had the courage to stop him. Somehow he seems rather pathetic—hasn't many friends, you know. It wouldn't be so bad if I liked him at all. But I can't stand to talk to him, even. Such a bore."

And Al keeps coming until the girl has grown up, has found the man she loves and is settling down to married life.

Even then the old friend can't be let down. He insists upon becoming friends with the new husband—he wants to be invited but to the new home for dinner now and then.

By this time of course even the most hard-hearted girl in the world would hesitate to refuse to see him any more.

Al becomes a sort of family pest and has to be humored. The evenings of his visits are dreaded as much as these with Aunt Delilah or Cousin Kate.

Don't make mistake of allowing a boy to think himself your very good friend—if you find him a dreadful bore.

You may feel "Well this chap doesn't ask anything of me but kindness and sympathy. I might as well let him come and see me."

A little friendship with some boys is a dangerous thing. They may get to depend on that friendship with you till you haven't the heart to stop it.

And you may be laying the foundation for lots of future boredom and trouble when you encourage some dull boy to call you his pal.

Before you enter into any friendships, make up your mind that they're not going to be uncomfortable.

You can dismiss a sweetheart more easily than you can a friend.

(Mimi will be glad to answer any inquiries directed to this paper provided a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Also she will be glad to send food for conversation and how to overcome self-consciousness.)

JUST PLAIN HONEST

There was a time when we envied the fellow who was commonly referred to as a "shrewd" trader. But we have changed our minds. It is a compliment we no longer cherish. There has been entirely too much "shrewdness" in the used car business. We prefer to be known as just plain HONEST.

Scouts Celebrate Father and Son Day

Boy Scouts of the First Christian church troop and their fathers, numbering two hundred and ten in all, attended the Father and Son banquet sponsored by the Men's Bible class at the church last evening. A number of others were turned away because of lack of room.

The program of the evening opened with a toast by Jack Pitman, "A Son's Challenge to the Fathers to Carry on," Edwin Sutton, scout, gave a resume of the scout laws and the scout oath and offered them as a challenge to the fathers.

"A Father's Challenge to His Son to Carry On," was the toast given by Luther Hoffman. He urged the fathers to work together with the boys and the boys to work with their fathers. He pointed out that if a man is unselfish and thoughtful of his boy, the boy should be thoughtful and unselfish in his attitude toward his father.

John Tevis, scoutmaster of troop four, briefly told how scouting, through reverance taught its members, makes a boy better by having had the work than to have done without it.

Judge Joe S. Dickey spoke on "Our Spiritual Heritage of Father and Son." He gave a series of touching reminiscences of his own father and of their lives together.

Wayne J. Holmes led the songs which were sung throughout the evening. The program closed with the duet, "End of a Perfect Day," sung by Mrs. J. S. Dickey and Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes; the singing of "Blest e the Tie That Binds," by the assembly and the benediction by William J. Spreen.

One More Game Of Football And Jack Durand, Millionaire's Son, Goes To Prison For Thrill Burglary

Friends Cheer Him as He Stars For Grid Team; Plays His Last Game Next Sunday

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—One more good game of football and then several years of prison.

Such is the career young Jack Durand, foster son of the millionaire Scott Durands, glibly laid out for himself today. He was still enjoying the plaudits of an admiring society group which gathered to cheer as he demonstrated his gridiron prowess.

Jack is under sentence to serve from three to twenty years in the Illinois state prison for robbery. With millions in his family, he robbed for the thrill. Now, with a sentence hanging over him, he's making the law look funny, also for the thrill.

Friends Cheer Him.

As Captain Jack Durand of the Durand all stars he performed for three quarters as halfback against the Lake Forest town team. Society friends, including his foster mother, cheered as he ran his team into the lead. A couple of hard bumps in the head then put him out of commission and the Durand All Stars went down to defeat.

But Jack is not daunted.

"We have a game next Sunday," he explains, "after that I figure to go to prison, take my punishment and get it over with.

Picks His Prison.

Young Durand already has decided that he prefers the Joliet penitentiary to the one at Pontiac. He inspected them both, interviewed those in charge, made a pleasant survey of the accommodations offered and decided to take Joliet. The many pictures made during the inspection all showed him enjoying the outlook immensely.

Durand, with a group of young friends, last winter robbed the home of F. Edson White, millionaire packing company executive.

He has been mixed up with the law on a number of occasions and now is to feel its effect. Whether the experience will change his personal cheerful outlook remains to be seen.

DENY REDS TO BLAME FOR ROW AT MISSOURI U

Communist Move Against Military Training Denied

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 10.—(AP) Denials that "reds" and "communists" among the students of the University of Missouri were the cause of the agitation against compulsory military training here was made today by Henry Depping, president of the student body. At the same time Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the university, said he would not say it was "reds" or "communists" who were responsible. Depping's statement was in reply to the declaration in New York yesterday by General Mark L. Hersey, honorary commander in chief of the military order of the world. General Hersey characterized the "youth movement" as a branch of the communists' propaganda to undermine the United States government. He appealed to the public to write to friends of the University of Missouri faculty in an attempt to defeat the student referendum on compulsory military training here, Nov. 17. The general asserted that "reds" through their various organizations are attacking the "first line of defense of the country," its youth, and that the opening wedge is being driven in by agitating the question of the military training in the land grant colleges which have compulsory military training.

"The University of Missouri is not a hot bed of pacifists," Student President Depping said in his statement. "Out of 4,000 students I doubt if 25 are pacifists. The issue is not pacifism against the national defense, but it is compulsory military training against elective training. The objecton is not against military training but against the compulsory feature. To say that there is a wave of communism and radicalism here is unfounded. Who ever makes such a statement is doing the students of the University of Missouri a great injustice."

Add Speed Contest To County Meeting

IOWA PARK, Nov. 10.—Officials of the Wichita County Interscholastic met in the office of Superintenden W. R. Bradford at Iowa Park Monday evening and worked out plans for activities of the league during the coming year. It was decided that all boys playing on the sub-junior basket ball team must not have been over fifteen years of age the first day of September last. Juniors must not have been over sixteen years of age on that day.

Plans were drawn up for a volley ball tournament to be held sometime during the first week in February and for the county basket ball tournament to be held the second week in February. Both will be held at Iowa Park.

It was decided to let the senior volley ball winner get ten points, the runner-up five points; the junior volley ball winner get seven points and runner-up three points toward all-around county championship.

The directors also voted to add a speed contest in twpewriting at the county meet next spring, actual details of this to be left to the commercial departments of the various schools.

The county officials voted also to request district officials to adopt the rules for the volley ball contest of the district which will be used in the Wichita county tournament. These are contained, it is understood, in in bulletin 2222, of January 8, 1922. The district meet will be held about March 1, of 1926.

Seven schools were represented at the meeting, these included Electra, Clara, Burkburnett, Fairview and Iowa Park.
