News in brief

Clinton back on campaign trail after releasing health info

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Hillary Clinton returns to the campaign trail Thursday following a bout of pneumonia that sidelined her for three days and revived questions about both the Democratic nominee and Republican Donald Trump’s transparency regarding their health.

Clinton’s campaign responded with a new letter from her doctor Wednesday declaring her “fit to serve” as president and recovering well from her recent illness. The letter — the first substantial update on her health in more than a year — details the medications she is taking, her cholesterol levels and other results from a physical exam.

Trump says he, too, plans to release details from a recent physical, though it’s unclear when that will happen and how much information he will provide. So far, the businessman has only released a widely mocked letter from his longtime physician declaring he would be the healthiest president in history. In keeping with Trump’s unusual approach to transparency, the Republican handed over a one-page summary of his recent exam to Dr. Mehmet Oz while taping an episode of Oz’s show. A release from the show said “Dr. Oz took Mr. Trump though a full review of his systems,” including his nervous system, cardiovascular health, prostate health and family medical history.

Witness says Philippine president ordered killings

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A former Filipino militiaman testified before the country’s Senate on Thursday that President Rodrigo Duterte, when he was still a city mayor, ordered him and other members of a liquidation squad to kill criminals and opponents in gangland-style assaults that left about 1,000 dead.

Edgar Matobato, 57, told the nationally televised Senate committee hearing that he heard Duterte order some of the killings and acknowledged he himself carried out about 50 of the abductions and deadly assaults, including a suspected kidnapper who they fed to a crocodile in 2007 in southern Davao del Sur province.

The Senate committee inquiry was being led by Sen. Leila de Lima, a staunch critic of Duterte’s anti-drug campaign that has left more than 3,000 suspected drug users and dealers dead since he assumed the presidency in June. Duterte has accused de Lima of involvement in illegal drugs, alleging that she used to have a driver who took money from detained drug lords. She has denied the allegations.

The killings of the suspected drug dealers have sparked concerns in the Philippines and among U.N. and U.S. officials, including President Barack Obama, who have urged Duterte’s government to stop the killings and ensure his anti-drug war complies with human rights laws and the rule of law.

Safety recommendations unfulfilled 7 years after Flight 1549

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than seven years after an airline captain saved 155 lives by ditching his crippled airliner in the Hudson River, now the basis of a new movie, most of the safety recommendations stemming from the accident haven’t been carried out.

Of the 35 recommendations made by the National Transportation Safety Board in response to the incident involving US Airways Flight 1549, only six have been successfully completed, according to an Associated Press review of board records. Fourteen of the recommendations issued to the Federal Aviation Administration and its European counterpart, EASA, are marked by the NTSB as “closed-unacceptable.” One has been withdrawn, and the rest remain unresolved.

The movie “Sully,” which opened in theaters last week, celebrates how veteran pilot Chesley “Sully” Sullenberger, played by Tom Hanks, along with his co-pilot, flight attendants, air traffic controllers, ferry boat operators and first responders did their jobs with professionalism and competence, averting a potential tragedy. The plane lost thrust in both engines after colliding with a flock of Canada geese shortly after takeoff from LaGuardia Airport in New York. No one died, and only five people were seriously injured.

“The FAA was very upset back then that we made any recommendations at all,” recalled Tom Haueter, who was the NTSB’s head of major accident investigations at the time. “They thought this was a success story.”

Suspect in mosque fire had made anti-Islamic Facebook posts

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — About two months before Joseph Michael Schreiber allegedly tried to burn down a mosque sometimes attended by Orlando nightclub shooter Omar Mateen, he posted on Facebook that “All Islam is radical” and that all Muslims should be treated as terrorists and criminals.

Schreiber, 32, was arrested without incident Wednesday afternoon and was being interrogated by investigators looking into the fire set late Sunday at the Islamic Center of Fort Pierce, said Maj. David Thompson of the St. Lucie County Sheriff’s Office.

A July post placed on Facebook by Schreiber, who is Jewish, stated that, “IF AMERICA truly wants peace and safety and pursuit of happiness they should consider all forms of ISLAM as radical. ... ALL ISLAM IS RADICAL, and should be considered TERRORIST AND CRIMINALS (sic) and all hoo (sic) participate in such activity should be found guilty of WAR CRIM (sic) until law and order is restored in this beautiful free country.”

Thompson told a news conference that Schreiber, who has a criminal record, was taken into custody on a street in Fort Pierce by authorities acting on tips from members of the community and aided by surveillance video taken from the mosque and elsewhere. He said the arson charge, coupled with a hate crime enhancement under Florida law, carries a sentence of up to 30 years in prison. Thompson said detectives were still questioning Schreiber on Wednesday evening

Obama’s vow to lift economic sanctions welcomed in Myanmar

YANGON, Myanmar (AP) — Myanmar economists and businessmen on Thursday welcomed President Barack Obama’s announcement that the U.S. will lift economic sanctions and restore long-lost trade benefits to the Southeast Asian country as it emerges from half a century of oppressive military rule.

The nation of more than 50 million is rich in natural resources, and before a military coup in the early 1960s it was among the region’s stronger economies. Today it’s among Asia’s least developed and poorest countries, with more than a quarter of the population living in poverty. Experts hope the lifting of sanctions helps change that by making it easier for U.S. companies to invest and do business here.

“There will be more trading and investment as the result of lifting sanctions on our country. It will really benefit the citizens of this country and be a great hope for Myanmar’s economic development,” said Khin Maung Nyo, a Myanmar economist.

The United States first imposed sanctions on Myanmar in 1997, when the military junta ruled. In 2011, the junta gave way to a quasi-civilian government that was dominated by former military officials but still ushered in some democratic reforms.

BOOKS

“We prefer not to have Reader’s Digest, but we will take them,” said Anthony. Anthony also said that they have a lot of National Geographic magazine and don’t need any more of those either.

Staulcup and Anthony said to just give the library a call if one needs help unloading the books into the basement.

“Someone will help if they can’t get the books in the building,” said Anthony. “Just call.”

The Friends of the Library has been around since the 40s and are responsible for financially helping the library put on some of its most treasured events such as their yearly summer reading program.

“We are a non-profit,” explained Staulcup. “All proceeds go to support the Howard County Library. Whatever the county budget can’t do for the library, we will.”

Just recently, the Friends have bought a people counter for the library, assisted the summer reading program, and gave away two Kindles.

The Friends also provide the funds so that Howard County readers always have the most recent best-sellers.

“We provide the funds for the McNaughton book rentals that send out current reading material to libraries,” explained Staulcup.

The group is also checking into the process of looking for grants to help get e-books into the library.

For more information on donating books to the book sale on October 21-22 or on how to become a member of Friends of the Library, call 432-264-2260.

“The library is a valuable entity,” said Staulcup.

fornia as “hostile territory.” Jones took that information and told listeners that Texas was about to be invaded.

Texas Gov. Greg Abbott added to the controversy when he requested that the Texas State Guard monitor the exercise. Opponents were fearful the operation was just a prelude to many more, until it reached the point that seeing troops in this area became a commonplace occurrence.

Needless to say, that hasn’t happened. Jade Helm came and went quietly, as did a second training exercise, code-named UWEX 16, earlier this year.

No plans have been released for the as-yet unnamed training exercise, but SOC representatives have already begun coordinating with local law enforcement in preparation for next year. Earlier this week, the Big Spring City Council gave its blessing, extending a formal invitation to SOC to conduct the exercise.

Panda Ants

Imagine a panda. Now imagine that panda as an insect. Strange, huh? There is an insect known as the panda ant, and it looks like an ant with a black-and-white panda coat.

Panda ants are part of a group of wasps known as velvet ants. They have a dense coat of hair on their backs that looks like velvet, hence their name. Velvet ants come in a wide range of colors, including orange, red, silver, gold and black and white. The black-and-white ones are called panda ants.

While panda ants may be small, they can be dangerous. When provoked, panda ants will sting, and it can be very painful.

ation. Affected persons include owners of record and the operator or lessees of record of adjacent tracts and tracts nearer to the proposed well than the minimum lease line spacing distance. If a hearing is called, the applicant has the burden to prove the need for an exception.
A Protestant should be prepared to establish standing as an affected person, and to appear at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative and protest the application with cross-examination or presentation of a direct case. The rules of evidence are applicable in the hearing. If you have any questions regarding the hearing procedure, please contact the Commission's Docket Services Department at (512)463-6848. If you have questions which are specific to the Application or the information set forth in this Notice, please contact the Com-

MATHIS

Lunar Opposition
Lining Up

The Pisces moon of spiritual growth is headed for its opposition to the practical Virgo sun. The bottom line: Those who display a high value get a wider array of options to choose from. More money? More options. More intelligence, strength, attractiveness, wisdom, power, beauty -- the world opens wider for each demonstrated asset.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You can't trust a crowd. Do not automatically assume that the others standing in a long line for the exciting thing have any more information than you do. They may be in that line just because everyone seems to be.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Love will have some of the mysterious elements of a suspense drama. What's next? Well, you'll find out when you become the active hero in this story, ready to investigate, confront and make things happen.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Could you finish the whole thing by yourself? Yes. Every last bit. Should you? No. Not at all. That is, unless you want the others to feel left out, inadequate and unwanted. Have a heart; share everything, especially the work.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll be dealing in issues of morality. Just remember that character is destiny. What you do to change your life will refine your character and what you do to refine your character will change your life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You feel compelled to figure out how a certain interesting person works -- to learn what he or she wants and needs. Where are you in this? Honestly, are you setting up a codependent dynamic here?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The

more you love, the more willing you are to suffer for love. There have been times, in fact, when suffering and love were synonymous. And now for something radically different -- temperate, easygoing stability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). In working with others you'll be most agreeable, not the least bit submissive. Anyone who seems to require your submission needs to be shut down politely, succinctly, immediately.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). What is harder than climbing mountains, running miles and accomplishing great things? Getting out of a rut. It will be so worthwhile to invest in something to get you unstuck.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your communication with the world is happening on many levels. As you connect to people and things you'll become a conduit. You'll provide a path for what is needed to get to those who need it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Spending time with new faces, business

Gemini and Cancer adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 22, 41, 20 and 36.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I was born Sept. 27, 1949, at 7:27 p.m. in New Orleans. I've been emotionally connected to this guy for four years. He was born Feb. 28, 1948, at 6:34 p.m. in Lexington, Kentucky. He keeps me at arm's length, but I can't seem to break the hold he has on me. We share a Venus-Pluto trine, and it's very compulsive."

With your Libra sun, Mercury, Neptune, Ceres and South Node, your life focus is on your relationships. Yet you experience inequality with the people you love. With Venus in Scorpio, you might be attracted to self-absorbed men. Or you may like being in a one up/one down partnership. Whatever your reason, in this lifetime, you'll work hard toward finding equilibrium in love. Compulsion is a psychological response, and yours is to selflessly give. No relationship is ever in perfect balance, and learning to be the giver and recipient of gifts may take effort for you. However, you do need to experience both to be happy. You'll always have to be wary of your attraction to partners who aren't good for you, but you can work on improving this dynamic. In this case, consider whether your guy's emotional reserve might be the main attraction: You never have to be truly intimate with someone you can't get close to.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Concerned with world issues, legendary Virgo filmmaker Oliver Stone recently produced the documentary "Ukraine on Fire," an examination of the dangerous potentials of the ongoing Ukrainian crisis. Documentary film suits Stone's talent for confronting audiences with a version of true life they wouldn't have otherwise seen (Venus in Scorpio). Pluto in Leo drives him to the important side of show business.

Annie's Mailbox ®

May I Go Ahead of You?

Dear Annie: I have an etiquette question for you. My co-worker and I are disagreeing on this, and we have decided to accept your answer as the proper way to behave in this situation.

At most larger grocery chains, there are now express lines or self-checkout lines for those individuals who either are in a hurry or want to process their checkout themselves.

More times than not, I have a full grocery cart and I stand in line and wait for the next cashier to check me out. More times than I can count, an individual comes behind me with a few items and begins to pace and sometimes makes verbal huffing noises in an effort to go ahead of me.

My feeling on this situation can vary. If I am not in a big hurry and I see someone with one or two items, I absolutely offer to let him or her go ahead of me. However, there are times when I am also in a hurry, and it's then that I think that these people should go to the express checkout line and not expect me to let them go ahead of me.

My co-worker disagrees with me and says I am being selfish and I should always let someone with fewer items go ahead of me. I should mention that if I have a few items and I get behind someone with a lot of items, I never expect to be let ahead of the person. I either suck it up and wait or look for a shorter line.

Am I wrong? What is the correct behavior in this situation? -- Waiting for Everyone

Dear Waiting: I'm with you on this one. I don't agree with your co-worker that you should always let someone with fewer items go ahead of you in the grocery checkout line. Think of it this way: What if there are multiple people behind you in line who only have a few items? If you were to let every person go in front of you, you would leave the store looking like Father Time. Stand your ground and don't feel bad. They can huff and puff on over to the express lane.

Dear Annie: I am a man who is 5 feet tall. I get a lot of grief for it in stores, bars and even the workplace. I've even been denied employment because of it. It affects my life and total self-esteem. I'm tired of the short remarks. It is painful. I can't count the times I've been rejected and harassed by strangers. I want people to realize how mean they are being. It makes me feel worthless. Please publish this letter so other short men can write in. -- Sick and Tired

Dear Sick: Great things come in all-sized packages. Also cliched but true: It's what's inside that counts. You are not your height, your weight, your face or even your age. You're not defined by any physical attribute. What matters is your heart -- your compassion and love -- something these asinine bullies are seriously short on.

Sticks and stones may break your bones, but words can only hurt you if you let them. So don't. Refuse to give them that power. Remember this, which Eleanor Roosevelt said: "No one can make you feel inferior without your consent."

The bidding:

Opening lead — four of clubs.

Declarers who rely solely on percentages occasionally are disappointed when things don't go in accordance with the odds. The proper approach to sound declarer play is to anticipate bad breaks and do everything possible in advance to overcome them should they occur.

Consider this deal where West led a club against four spades. Declarer saw immediately that if the missing clubs were divided 3-2, he would lose at most two hearts and a club.

But if the clubs were divided 4-1 — a possibility made more likely by West's lead of a club even though North bid that suit — the contract was in jeopardy. South therefore took steps to deal with that possibility.

He won the club with the king, drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. He then played the ace and another heart.

East won the heart with the jack and continued with the queen, but by now the defense was helpless. If East remained on lead with the queen, he would have to return a diamond, allowing South to discard a club while ruffing in dummy, or else lead a club from the Q-J-9. In this latter case, South would score a trick with the ten sooner or later regardless of which club East returned.

Alternatively, if West overtook East's queen of hearts with the king, he would be forced to concede a ruff-and-discard on his next play. Note also that the outcome would be the same if West, rather than East, started with four clubs originally.

The key to the winning line of play was South's foresight in eliminating all the diamonds and hearts from both hands in order to force a losing lead from the defenders at the tail end of the play. Had the clubs been divided 3-2 all along, South's method of play would have proved a useless exercise, but a good declarer should always be willing to expend a little extra energy when the contract is at stake.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

This Date In History

Today is Thursday, Sept. 15, the 259th day of 2016. There are 107 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Sept. 15, 1963, four black girls were killed when a bomb went off during Sunday services at the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, Alabama. (Three Ku Klux Klansmen were eventually convicted for their roles in the blast.)

On this date: In 1789, the U.S. Department of Foreign Affairs was renamed the Department of State.

In 1807, former Vice President Aaron Burr was acquitted of a misdemeanor charge two weeks after he was found not guilty of treason.

In 1857, William Howard Taft — who served as President of the United States and as U.S. chief justice — was born in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In 1890, English mystery writer Agatha Christie was born in Torquay.

In 1935, the Nuremberg Laws deprived German Jews of their citizenship.

In 1940, during the World War II Battle of Britain, the tide turned as the Royal Air Force inflicted heavy losses upon the Luftwaffe.

In 1950, during the Korean conflict, United Nations forces landed at Incheon in the south and began their drive toward Seoul (sohl).

In 1955, the novel "Lolita," by Vladimir Nabokov, was first published in Paris.

In 1972, a federal grand jury in Washington indicted seven men in connection with the Watergate break-in.

In 1981, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted unanimously to approve the Supreme Court nomination of Sandra Day O'Connor.

In 1994, a tape recording of John Lennon singing with his teen-age band, The Quarrymen, in a Liverpool club on July 6, 1957, was sold at Sotheby's for $122,500 (it was at this gig that Lennon first met Paul McCartney).

In 2000, the 2000 Summer Olympics opened in Sydney, Australia, with a seemingly endless parade of athletes and coaches and a spectacular display; Aboriginal runner Cathy Freeman ignited an Olympic ring of fire.

Ten years ago: Ford Motor Co. took drastic steps to remold itself into a smaller, more competitive company, slashing thousands of jobs and closing down two additional plants.

U.S. Rep. Bob Ney, R-Ohio, agreed to plead guilty to two criminal charges in the congressional corruption probe spawned by disgraced lobbyist Jack Abramoff. (Ney served nearly a year and a-half of a 2-1/2-year prison sentence.) Italian journalist Oriana Fallaci died in Florence at age 77.

Five years ago: President Barack Obama bestowed the Medal of Honor on Sgt. Dakota Meyer, a young and humble Marine who had defied orders and repeatedly barreled straight into a ferocious "killing zone" in Afghanistan to save 36 lives at extraordinary risk to himself. A single rogue trader at Swiss banking giant UBS was arrested after allegedly costing the storied institution an estimated $2 billion. (Kweku Adoboli was later convicted of fraud and served about half of a seven-year sentence.)

'Cassatt in the Basin!' residency returns

Cassatt members are Muneko Otani and Jennifer Leshnower, violins; Ah Ling Neu, viola; and Elizabeth Anderson, cello.

The New York based Cassatt String Quartet will begin its annual Cassatt in the Basin! residency in Midland, Texas from Sept. 19-24.

A full residency schedule is posted at www.CassattInTheBasin.net.

On Thursday, Sept. 22 at 4 p.m., there will be an outreach event by the Cassatt String Quartet at Polo Park Estates, 2100 Castleford Road, Midland, Texas. The concert program features Felix Mendelssohn's Quartet Op. 13, in a minor and Peter Illych Tchaikovsky's String Quartet Op 11 in D major.

On Saturday, Sept. 24, at noon, in the Bowie Fine Arts Academy Performing Arts Center, 805 Elk, Midland, there will be a triple string quartet performance by students and the Cassatt String Quartet of Peter Lieuwen's GreenSpace. This piece was commissioned by Cassatt In the Basin! Peter Lieuwen is on the faculty at Texas A&M University. This event is free and open to the public, and a reception follows in the foyer.

On Saturday evening, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m., a recital by the Cassatt String Quartet will be held in the Wagner/Brown Auditorium, located in the Allison Fine Arts Building on the Midland College campus. The Cassatts will perform a program that includes: Felix Mendelssohn's Quartet Op. 13 in a minor Quartet; Ellen Taffe Zwillich's Voyage; and Peter Illych Tchaikovsky's String Quartet Op 11 in D major. This concert is also free and open to the public.

The Cassatt String Quartet was the first quartet chosen for Juilliard's Young Artists Quartet Program. Since then, they have performed at New York's Alice Tully Hall, and Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall, Tanglewood Music Theater, the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC, Theatre des Champs-Élysées in Paris, and the Beijing Central Conservatory in China.

Jennifer Leshnower, the Cassatt String Quartet's second violinist, is a graduate of Permian High School and a former member of the Thouvenel String Quartet, formerly in residence with the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale. Jennifer was the principal 2nd violinist with the MOSC from 1991-1994.

Ms. Leshnower is also a former student of Dorothy Croft, long time leader in music education and other cultural activities in Odessa. Additionally, Jennifer is a graduate of the Shepherd School of Music at Rice University and Peabody Conservatory.

Corey Metcalf is the Cassatt in the Basin! residency coordinator, and is the assistant orchestra teacher at Lee High School in Midland. Mr. Metcalf is also an alumni of Cassatt in the Basin!

Texas Tech forms steering committee for veterinary school

Texas Tech University via AP

LUBBOCK — The steering committee for the proposed Texas Tech College of Veterinary Medicine met in Lubbock for the first time in early September.

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board recognized in a report released in July the need for an innovative, non-traditional veterinary school in Texas that could address the critical shortage of large animal and rural veterinarians and the implications this shortage will have on the food supply.

Texas Tech's model for a veterinary school is unlike any other in the United States, serving the needs of the agriculture industry and veterinary medicine students. It increases accessibility and affordability while not duplicating the state's existing veterinary medicine efforts. Texas Tech's model also offers a cost-effective option that reduces student debt and focuses on rural community practice.

The shortage of veterinarians in Texas, especially in rural areas, has been a problem for many years, and to ensure the safety of our food supply and the continued prosperity of our state, we must do what's best for the industry, our fellow Texans and our future," said former Texas House of Representatives Speaker Pete Laney, a member of the steering committee. "As an agriculture state, the nation and our world depend on Texas for food and fiber, and Texas Tech's proposal for a new, innovative veterinary school is a much-needed solution to a severe challenge."

FRIDAY NIGHT UNDER THE LIGHTS

High School Football In Howard County

Buffaloes easily 3-0 after three weeks

By DREW WILLIAMS
Sports Editor

The Forsan Buffaloes are scoring plenty of points, but it's their defense doing the impressing.

The Buffaloes have pitched two shutouts in a row, beating Eldorado 33-0 and Stanton 34-0 in a game in which they were on pace to win 68-0 until the game was ended at half-time due to weather. Throw in their opening week 42-19 win over Coahoma, and the Buffaloes have outscored their opponents 109-19 this year.

"Defensively, they were just flying to the football," Forsan head coach Jason Phillips said regarding Friday's win over Stanton. "The defense is playing really well. Two shutouts in a row is always good."

Phillips said it's not a matter of turnovers, it's just a matter of disciplined play and swarming the ball carrier by his defenders.

"The one thing they do is they fly to the football. We're real aggressive up front and we've got some speed on the back end, and those guys are just flying around making plays. If we continue that, we know our defense can be really good, and so far they're living up to the challenge," he said.

The offense was incredibly efficient as well in the win over Stanton. Tearell McVae led the way with 123 yards rushing and two touchdowns on four carries. Blaze Yeater had one carry for 54 yards and a score, Kobe Richardson had one reception for 76 yards and a score, and Garrett Evans had one reception for 63 yards and a score in a string of big plays for the Buffaloes. Phillips said the plays aren't necessarily drawn up to be big plays, his players are just doing a good job once they get the ball in their hands.

"I wish I could do that," Phillips said of designing big plays. "They're more designed for us to see how they're going to adjust to certain formations and certain plays. It's plays that we like the best at practice during the week, and we think we have a good shot at, but it's not always going to work out like that. Scoring on the first two plays was just kind of a

No win, but Steers confident 26-21 final score "exciting" for Finley and Big Spring players

By DREW WILLIAMS
Sports Editor

While the bookkeepers won't count Friday's 26-21 final score as a win for the Steers, their play in the game against Monahans was a welcome sight for Big Spring head coach Clint Finley.

"It was exciting to see our kids come out offensively and make some plays. The previous two games, there were plays out there that we weren't able to make, but they were out there to be had. So it was nice to see our kids go out there and attack the defense the way we practiced, and we were able to get some things done," Finley said.

While the offense put up big numbers, it was the first time the Steers' defense looked outmatched. They had given up their share of points in the first two games, but a lot of that could be credited with lack of offense that caused the defense to be on the field for the majority of the four quarters of play.

"Defensively, we didn't do a great job of tackling. They (Monahans) play a little bit different style of football than the two passing teams we brought in to start the season," Finley said. "It's just a different style of football and something we're going to have to get used to at some point, and we plan to do that."

Despite the points and yards given up by the defense, the Steers did win the turnover battle for the first time this season. Robert Valencia intercepted the first pass of the game for a momentum-changing touchdown, and Riley Henson caused a fumble near the goal line that stopped what looked like another sure scoring drive for the Loboes of Monahans. Finley praised the playing style of Valencia Monday after his second consecutive game with a takeaway.

"He's got a real nose for the football, and got a real knack for being around the football. Things just seem to happen for him. It's not always done exactly the right way, but great football players have a knack for it, and he's got that," Finley said. "He's been very opportunistic, and I hope that continues."

Finley also said that though the win won't officially count, the game ending with more points scored than allowed was huge for the morale of his team.

"They felt good about it. There was a lot of football to be played that night. But when it was all said and done, we had more points than the other team, and the kids felt like we did enough to

Finley happy with his offensive line after their showing Friday

The protection starting quarterback Dylan Cantu had Friday was something head coach Clint Finley didn't want to go unnoticed. He praised the play of his offensive line and the blocking from his running backs for the fast start the Steers got off to against Monahans. "They were hustling so well. Whenever Dylan would drop back, they'd give up a little bit of pressure, but they'd keep fighting and they'd keep scrambling to make a block so that he was able to step up into the pocket, and be able to escape the pocket," Finley said. "We had several big plays, and it all comes down to the offensive line. If they don't protect or they don't block for the run, we're worthless and won't be able to get anything done. It all happens in the trenches." He added that offensive linemen hardly ever get the credit they deserve "It's a special kind of guy that can go down there and block, never get the ball, never score touchdowns, never get their name called on the radio or in the newspaper, so we've been very pleased with those guys. They're special people," he said.

Future looks bright for Steers as underclassmen learn system

By DREW WILLIAMS
Sports Editor

The junior varsity and freshmen teams are getting better when it comes to executing Clint Finley's system. "They're coming along nicely," he said. "They're learning to play without the stuff that they've counted on in the past. I think it's a good thing that's going to make them stronger for whenever they get up to the varsity level. They can learn how to be self-reliant, and make plays and not to allow the big plays." He added that the freshmen team shouldn't have a loss on their record. "The freshmen, they've done a good job. They're 1-1, and should be 2-0. I'm very excited about that group. They're going to be a very good football group. The future definitely looks bright here in Big Spring," he said. Years in the new system, compared the first-year players at the varsity level, should be huge for the junior varsity and freshmen once they become upperclassmen. Finley is excited about it, and admitted that the current varsity team is at a bit of a disadvantage compared to where the JV and freshmen players will be in a couple years. "The kids (varsity players) are still trying to get comfortable with what we do and how we do it. It's still kind of a mystery in a lot of ways, but they're also starting to see the light and figure out how this all kind of goes together. They've been working the base offense and base defense for so long that now that we're starting to get down to the nitty-gritty, we can see the different ways that we can operate and the different ways we can present things. "It kind of sparks them a little bit. It starts to be a little bit interesting.

Hopefully they got a glimpse of it last week and enjoyed it, and we'll see what we can put together again for them again this weekend," Finley said. "Those younger groups, they have the luxury of getting to run this offense for their whole high school career. This varsity group, they haven't had the luxury of running the base offense and the same plays over and over and over again out of the same formations every week before they're starting at varsity. We're throwing everything, we're throwing the kitchen sink at them. It was a crash course on the base offense and defense."

Bulldogs look to end skid

The Coahoma Bulldogs, off to an 0-3 start, will have a tough challenge when they travel to Bangs to face the 2-1 Dragons on Friday. "Bangs, they're a sound football team, they seem to be well-coached, and they have a few good athletes that can hurt you if you don't keep them bottled up. Our mindset is to take care of the football and don't give up the big plays, make them snap it again, and don't have any negative plays in the special teams. Those are our focal points this week," Coahoma head coach Fred Dietz said. Dietz said the one thing he doesn't want to see against a team like Bangs is allowing the big play. "We feel like if we can make them snap the football enough, eventually they'll make a mistake and get off schedule and get into an 'and long' situation, and that's our goal. We want to have some positive plays early on defensively to get that kind of offense off schedule and get them into second and long, and third and long, and get them out of their comfort zone. We want to make them do some things differently that they're not really accustomed to doing," Dietz said. While Dietz said Bangs looks on film to lean towards the run about 80 percent of the time, they will try and use the run to open up ball fakes and passes downfield, specifically to their senior wide receiver Kevin Blaine.

Forsan faces Owls of Reagan Co.

Reagan County will get its second dose in seven days of Howard County football when the Forsan Buffaloes travel to Big Lake Friday. Howard County fans, however, will be rooting for a different outcome as the Owls from Reagan County beat the Coahoma Bulldogs 47-14. "They are really physical. They're a really physical football team, especially on the offensive and defensive lines. We've done a great job of playing well up front this year, but we're going to have to take it up a notch even more this week because they're good," Forsan head coach Jason Phillips said. "Their offensive line is quick, and their defensive line is physical. We've got to make sure we control the line of scrimmage on both sides of the ball." Reagan County also runs a Wing-fluke thing. But I do wish we could do that all the time." While the plays weren't designed for huge gains, the first few plays were scripted. "We played well. Offensively, we scripted the first several plays and the guys followed the script to a T, and they're doing a great job of executing the game-plan, especially early in the first half. And then early in the second half, the adjustments we're making at halftime, they're really taking those and running with it," Phillips said. For McVae, it was his second big game in a row. He finished with 18 carries for 144 yards and two touchdowns in the previous game against Eldorado. "He's just a special athlete, number one," Phillips said. "Number two, we're doing a really good job of blocking for him, the offensive line and our receivers. Any time you get big plays like that, you know the receivers are doing a good job of blocking down the field. Offense, it's cliché, but it's a team effort. When we hand him the ball, we know we've got a good chance to make something happen because he's a good athlete, but those other 10 guys have to do their part, and they've been doing that." The preseason conversation regarding a two-back system is holding true for Forsan and the Buffs. While the numbers aren't high, full-back Ashton Voight has consistently shown up in the box score and has an important role in the Buffalo offense as they move closer to district play. "He's definitely our change of pace. When he comes in he's kind of our power runner. He's strong, he's built low to the ground, he comes in there and gives the defense a different look. And plus, he can run really well. Having those two guys as a one-two punch, it's fun to have," Phillips said. The one thing going against Forsan right now seems to be injuries. While starting quarterback Bryce Hergert has been battling an ankle injury all season, he did play Friday and is looking close to 100 percent. But Phillips said he still expects some starters to miss some time Friday against Reagan County. "We still have a few that are banged up. We'll have a couple out for sure, more than likely," he said.

“They're kind of all over the map, they've lined up in just about every kind of formation you can draw up on a board. They're a run-based football team. They're a Veer team first and foremost, and then they run some other concepts off of that. They want to line up and run the football and play-action pass off of that,” he said. “They have a couple of weapons. They have a kid, number 12 (Blaine), who can really fly. He's a good receiver, and they use him all sorts of different ways. They throw it to him short, they throw it to him deep, they try and lull you to sleep and then get him behind you deep in the secondary. He's kind of their guy they throw it to. They have a few others they can throw it to, but that guy is a really good receiver. If you back off of him, he'll run a little stop route, and the second you screw up and get in his face and try to take that away, he'll try and run past you and hit you deep.”

Dietz did say the Bulldogs and their coaching staff were able to recognize which formations will and won't feature the play-action pass, perhaps making Coahoma defenders' lives a bit easier.

“It depends on formation,” Dietz said regarding the play-action pass. “They will get in the shotgun some and max protect and just throw it out there to 12 or the tight end. They like to throw it to him some too. When they're under center, I would say the majority of their passes are play-action. When they get in the shotgun and max protect, they're pretty much a straight dropback team.”

Regarding his own offense, Dietz said he's avoided some of the complex schemes in the playbook this week make things a bit easier for his position players.

“I've kind of simplified things offensively for us. I want to make sure that we do exactly what we do correctly. I've taken our gameplan and I've simplified it as much as possible for us, so we're going to go and do what we do. We have an identity offensively, and that's being able to take what the defense gives us and be balanced. We want to be able to run the football and throw it, so we're going to take advantage of the places that the defense vacates,” Dietz said. “We've slimmed it down a little bit this week to make sure our kids know exactly what to expect and what they're doing. So we're just going to go an try and execute those plays Friday.”

Even though his team hasn't started the way he wanted and the way they're capable of, Dietz said the locker room is still in high spirits and that no one is hanging their head.

“Our kids are still bouncing around and coming to work ready to work. They understand that there's still a lot of football left to be played. We've shown some glimpses and some good things, and showed that we have the ability to do some good things at times. Our kids see that and our kids understand that we've got a football team that has a chance to win some football games. And I really feel like we're going to,” he said.

The trip to Bangs will mark the first road trip of the year over 100 miles for the Bulldogs as they travel 160 to Dragon Stadium.

“I almost prefer it to playing at home sometimes from a mental standpoint because our kids don't have all the distractions and don't have the things going on around them that they do at home. We can kind of get together as a team on that bus, and lock in and think about what our job is and be all business from the time we leave to the time the football game begins,” Dietz said.

Coahoma and Bangs will kick off at 7:30 p.m. at Dragon Stadium in Bangs.

T offense, something the Buffs are used to playing against, but haven't faced much of so far this season.

“We've seen a couple people get into it a little bit, but it's something we've seen in the past. We play them every year, and they run the same stuff every year and they run it well. It's one of things where we'll have to take care of our responsibilities, or they're going to score,” Phillips said.

Like Coahoma coach Fred Dietz last week, Phillips said the key is to be disciplined on defense and not get out of position by falling for ball fakes.

“It's responsibility football when you play them. Everybody has to make sure they can secure their gap. But the first thing we've got to do is get lined up correctly. If we get lined up correctly and play the way we're capable of, we think we've got a good chance at stopping them. But it's going to be a tough test for us,” Phillips said.

Forsan and Reagan County will kick off at 7:30 p.m. in Big Lake.

get it done,” he said. “It was good to see the kids happy, and it was good to have something positive happen for us.”

He added that the game also gave the players more confidence in the teachings of the coaching staff.

“It's always good, because you feel like you start to lose the kids little by little, but we were able to reel them back in little by little as we had more success,” he said.

Now that the Steers have shown that they're capable of putting together good games on both sides of the ball, the question becomes whether or not they can have both sides of the ball play their best on the same day.

“That's the million-dollar question right there. We're all searching for that right now. If we can get them all to put it all together and have their best game at the same time, then we'll know we've made some progress,” Finley said.

They will need to do exactly that in Friday's game against Canyon, a team that beat Monahans 55-34 the week before the Lobos came to Big Spring.

“It'll be the first time we take our team on the road, and we'll find out exactly who we are. Every team has their own personality, and we have to find out who we're going to be. We're still searching,” Finley said. “I've had teams that have played better on the road than they did at home. There's no distractions so they can handle it better.

They have more time to think about what they have to do. And then I've had teams that have just fed off the excitement of being at home. So we're going to find out, and it's going to be fun to find out what we're made of.”

He said the key to the game will be executing fundamentals. Canyon, a big, physical team, doesn't do anything out of the ordinary. Their gameplan will be to just play stronger, and execute better, than the Steers.

“We don't know a whole lot about them other than the game they played against Monahans, but it'll be a good measuring stick to see how we match up compared to how Monahans matched up. It's going to be a physical football game. They're big, they're strong, they're fundamental. They're pretty simple on both sides of the football, they just execute at fundamentals, and they count on you not to be fundamental,” Finley said. “So that's the key, we'll have to be very fundamental.”

The game will kick off at 7 p.m. at Canyon High School.

Enter To Win $50 At These Participating Merchants

Rules: Find this week's games between the merchants' ads on this page. Choose the teams you think will win. Clip and fill in the official entry blank on this page with your team choices. The entry with the most correct picks will win $50 and a Pizza Inn Gift Certificate. You must be 18 to enter. No Photo Copies Accepted. In the event of a tie, the tie breaker will determine the winner. For the tie breaker, the entry with the correct team will win. If both entries have guessed the same team, the second tie breaker will be the one closest to the total points. Decisions of the judges are final. Employees and family of The Big Spring Herald are ineligible. All entries must be received at one of the participating merchants by 1 p.m. Friday of the week played. Do not drop your entry form at the Big Spring Herald. Winners will be announced in the next Pigskin Contest Page.
