Aggie Battle Against Girls Starts Today

Directors Of A. & M. Express Belief Girls Not Biologically Adapted To Military Life Of School

(By The Associated Press)

BRYAN, Oct. 31.—Expressing belief that women were "not biologically adapted" either to military life or to agricultural pursuits, members of the board of directors of Texas A. and M. college today defended their action in refusing to admit the daughters of Bryan residents to the college.

They testified in a district court hearing here on an application for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of directors to admit such Bryan girls to the school.

Belief Maintained

The directors maintained their belief that the college was established primarily as a military school and agriculture was added later, to neither of which pursuit women were "biologically adapted."

Col. C. C. Todd, counsel for the plaintiffs, called officials of the college and girls who sought admission to give testimony that many Texas women were now employed in industry and many were seeking better training. Witnesses testified that farmers' short courses were attended largely by women and girls, some of the latter taking prizes in animal husbandry and similar agricultural work.

Arguments To Open

Arguments in the hearing will open tomorrow before District Judge W. C. Davis. All testimony, presented over the objection of Nelson Phillips, chief counsel for the board of directors, who claimed that the law, and not the facts, was the ruling factor in the case, was completed late today.

Rep. George Butler of Brazos county testified that Dr. T. O. Walton, president of A. and M. college, in a conversation with him expressed opposition to the action of the legislature in making it impossible

NRA Looms As Election Issue During 1934

FDR Attacked As Republican Battle Starts

Opening Thrust In Campaign Is Made As Pamphlet Is Put Out Charging Roosevelt Has Broken Pledges

Strategy Planned

"He Kept Us Out Of Chaos," Is To Be Rallying Cry Of The Democrats; Several Charges Made In Publication

BY MARK ETHRIDGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — The NRA, under fire from several angles, was clothed today with the likelihood of becoming the leading issue in the congressional elections of 1934.

The opening thrust in that campaign, Democratic and Republican circles agreed, was made in the issuance of a pamphlet by the Republican national committee charging President Roosevelt had broken pledges given in the party platform and in his speeches last year.

Assault Is Planned

In that pamphlet, the NRA came in for scattered fire, but Republican leaders today were said to be planning to assail it soon as a "means of putting individual enterprise, ambition, initiative, thrift, foresight in a straight-jacket." These were the words used recently by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, in describing the NRA.

The main charge of the Republican congressional campaign, leaders here said, would be that had President Roosevelt incorporated the NRA's principles in his platform, he would not have been elected.

Demos Outline Course

Anticipating the attack, the Democrats have tentatively outlined a strategy which, rather than defending the NRA, will contend that it was nesessary in an emergency created by the ineptitude of a Republican administration in dealing with the economic questions rather than fundamental party principles.

In some Democratic circles, it was suggested that continued support of the president would be emphasized, with the possibility that "he kept us out of chaos" would be the rallying cry.

The pamphlet that opened the Market Continues Its Plunge As Roosevelt Plans Invasion Of Europe In Buying Program

America Anxious For Word From London That Great Britain Does Not Consider President's Operations As Unfriendly Or An Invitation For Launching Retaliatory Measures

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt and his advisors today watched the market run counter to the trend they expected to follow the announcement of his plans for buying gold abroad and quietly prepared to begin making purchases at the earliest possible time.

But before invading the foreign market they were anxious for word from London that the British government did not consider the president's approaching operation as unfriendly or an invitation to retaliatory measures such as would be likely to start a duel in foreign exchange.

London had been assured that the gold buying both here and abroad was a policy dictated by the internal situation here and part of the president's campaign to increase prices and steady exchange rates. Washington wanted assurances, in return, that London would not strike back.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation said today the government purchase of gold in foreign markets would be started as soon as the machinery was set up and he believed this would be completed in a short time.

London Price Drops

A particular source of comment in official circles was an unexpected drop in the London price of gold. Seven and one-half pence were knocked off the value of an ounce of the precious metal and it was quoted at 43 cents less than yesterday. It had turned downward once before—last Saturday.

Officials had expected that by providing a lucrative market for newly mined gold here and keeping domestic production off the world market the world price would rise. With the United States almost ready to step in and buy gold abroad they figured that the London quotation should have moved upward.

Hammer At Price

Speculation ran through conversations here as to whether private financial interests in Great Britain were hammering at the London gold price. This was openly intimated

Big Point Now Remaining For Compliance Is Collective Bargaining; Ford's Answer Is Being Awaited

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — Henry Ford will supply code-required figures to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce by November 6 or 7.

Establishment of this intention today raised definite expectation by Washington officials that his compliance witn the code in all respects would be recorded before long.

One Point Remains

The big point of compliance remaining to be settled was that of collective bargaining with employes. The issues are drawn squarely in the case of the Edgewater, N. J., Ford assembly plant strike, and Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board told newsmen today that a determination was expected soon.

Strikers have been heard by plant managers who referred the demands to Dearborn. Ford's answer, said Wagner, was "expected early this week" and the chairman was not disposed to press the issue until adequate time had been allowed. Asked how much time should be allowed he said "that will have to be decided later," observing also: "there comes a time when there is no longer any negotiating."

Whole Story Told

He refused to express his own opinion as to whether any genuine collective bargaining had taken place, saying the facts at Edgewater smaller companies whose reports and in the parallel situation at

First Benefit Payments Are Made Farmers

Checks Totaling $52,147 Are Sent To Iowa; Average For Checks $107.50; Remainder Is Due In Spring

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — The first government cash benefit payments in the farm adjustment administration's wheat acreage reduction program went today to Iowa farmers in Monona county.

Checks totaling $52,147.60 are being mailed to 485 growers.

The first payment turned out by the administration's robot checkwriter was made on a contract covering the farm operated by Orville J. Eisele of Onawa, Iowa. His check was for the sum of $64.44. The average of the checks mailed to Monona county farmers was $107.50.

The check writer has about $70,-000,000 to distribute to wheat farmers during the next six weeks. The administration reported that up to today 570,263 farmers controlling 51,925,612 acres have signed contracts to reduce their plantings.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

IF WE always could judge our capacities for things, life might be a much more pleasant place in which to live.

If we knew when we had had enough apple pie or picture shows or dancing or good times or companionship, things and people would not grow stale. But most of us have liked some one thing extremely well in our lives and have surfeited ourselves with it—fulfilled all our desires and became so groged that it has disgusted us ever after. We have passed satiety.

That is why some people can't eat olives, why some people don't care for carnivals and why many people can't live together any more. They did not know how to temper their tastes and likes. They had too much of the companionship of one person without any other interests.

That's why all the trouble has arisen over liquor and cards. There are few of us who know when we have enough of anything to make it interesting and yet not so much that it will cloy.

Unspoiled Memories

THERE is such a thing as keeping one's memories if life is to be as beautiful as it should.

I have an idea that our memories were given to us to serve a good purpose. We were to remember things we can cherish more than the things that will make us unhappy.

L. F. Bookman, who represents the Mergenthaler Linotype company and who comes to this office frequently, has an idea on this subject. He didn't see the world's fair in Chicago this year because he didn't want to spoil the memory he carries of the one he saw several years ago in San Francisco. He is afraid that this year's fair might have marred the scene that he carries in his memory.

Many of us could profit by that, for haven't we all spoiled some beauful memory by returning to the thing we enjoyed so much?

Once I drove down a canyon in the night. It seemed deep and wild. There had been a big rain and later the moon came out to be reflected in the river far below. It was a romantic place that night. There was another trip down the same canyon several years later but this trip was made on a hot afternoon so that I saw everything as it is. The romance was all gone and the river was not nearly so far away as it had been reflecting that pale moon in its inky chasm.

You, too, may have spoiled beautiful pictures that you carried in memory by returning to the place in later years. It may have been that old swimming hole, the meadow in which you played as a child, the moonlight scene when you were in love or simply a beautiful day when you were happy—that you saw again under less romantic circumstances and had spoiled.

Mr. Bookman's idea is a good one to apply—this staying away to keep from ruining a memory that is beatiful.

They Last Longer

THERE is one consolation about these autumn bouquets. They last longer.

In the summer you have a choice of many garden flowers but they wither so fast, particularly when your house is closed all day—as mine is. With the arrival of autumn, there are chrysanthemums, marigolds and other flowers that last a week or more if they are given a fresh drink occasionally.

I know, I have such a bouquet given to me by Mrs. Laverne Kershner when I complained that all my flowers withered so fast there was little use in carrying them home. It has lasted for more than a week now and it is composed of just ordinary flowers that anyone can grow in his yard.

EDINBURG, Oct. 31. (AP)—Bond of $10,000 was set for Cam Hill of El Paso upon his arrival today to face a murder charge with three other men in the four-year-old slaying of Claude E. Kelly here.

Hill, former county clerk, was met by officers 17 miles north of Edinburg as he motored toward the city with an El Paso county deputy and an attorney. Before the bond was set, the attorney asked for a habeas corpus hearing.

Mateo Cuellar and Julian Ybarra, two other defendants, were held in the county jail without bond. George C. Beck, also charged, was released yesterday under $2,000 bond.

When brushing the walls, use a long-handled brush and work upward from the base board, as this prevents scattering of the dust.

R. J. Murray Is Chosen To Head Drive Of Army

Campaign Will Open Monday; Option On Site Now Held

R. J MURRAY, real estate man and former president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has been named chairman of the Salvation Army Home Service appeal campaign, it was announced Tuesday. E. Kancher, division freight agent of the Panhandle and Santa Fe, was named vice-chairman.

The campaign will open Monday, November 6, with a goal of $3,500 to take care of the army's budget for the coming year. This includes a building program, the social, welfare and charity work and the religious work. Campaign headquarters are at 1115 Avenue J, telephone 2290. Mrs. Phil T. Rainey, Dallas is director.

Option Is Held

The army has an option on a location at 701-709 Thirteenth street, where it is now located, which must be taken up soon, it was explained by the advisory board. This option will give the army a suitable living headquarters for Captain and Mrs. W. T. Wilson, local commandants and also a hall for meetings, etc., and quarters for the care of transient men.

"Last year was our easiest year financially, as far as Lubbock was concerned," Captain Wilson told the directors. "The campaign last year enabled us to do a lot more than we could otherwise have done."

Makes Statement

In announcing his acceptance of the post of chairman of the home service appeal campaign, Mr. Murray said:

"The fall season has arrived and with it has come the annual appeals for welfare and character building organizations. The first organization to make its appeal to the public here is the Salvation Army, which on Monday begins a campaign to raise $3,500 cash for a budget to take care of the building program, social welfare, charity and religious work.

"Lubbock will no doubt respond in appreciation of the splendid work the Salvation Army has done and is doing, every day, for Lubbock citizens. Captain and Mrs. Wilson and their capable staff reach many people who cannot be taken care of by any other social agency in the city.

Is Modern Romance

"People who go to the Salvation Army Sunday school and church services are people who do not go to any other church or Sunday school. The work of this sometimes spectacular organization is one of the modern romances of religion, because it deliberately seeks the type of people that no one else can see much good in, and through their religious, social and charity work, these same people become assets to their community."

Officers and members of the advisory board of the Salvation Army in Lubbock are:

William W. Campbell, attorney, chairman; Dr. J. W. Rollo, physician, vice-chairman; E. Kancher, vice-chairman; Paul M. Hardwick, cashier Citizens National bank, secretary and treasurer; Dan A. Blair, district attorney; Durwood H. Bradley, attorney; Tom Erwin, tin and metal work; J. W. Ford, transfer and storage; A. F. Holt, Ice manufacturer; Dr. J. B. Jackson, dentist; Heard Jones, loan service; Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech; C. C. Lindsey, theater owner; R. J. Murray, real estate; E. L. Pitts, county judge; E. A. Patterson, broker; C. A. Sheffield, hotel manager; Mrs. W. O. Stevens, civic and welfare worker; Olen Stewart wholesale grocer and Neil H. Wright, insurance.

LAXATIVE HABIT ENDED FOR MANY BY COW DISCOVERY

Conquers constipation for thousands. Restores natural bowel action—quick!

AGAIN the cow has come to the aid of mankind and has given us what physicians consider the best and most natural remedy for constipation. For now scientists have obtained from the livers of cattle a new natural product that corrects the stubbornest constipation easily —without further need of injurious, habit-forming physics or laxatives.

The best physicians now prescribe it, and thousands of people can tell you it gets you regular and healthy again in no time.

As you know, most constipation comes from sluggish liver. The liver manufactures a liquid called the bile, which is Nature's own purgative. When not enough bile flows into your bowels, you are constipated. Yet ordinary physics and laxatives never touch the liver.

Now scientists have taken the natural bile from cattle and put it up in convenient little tablets called Kompo and Bile Salts Tablets. They quickly get your own liver working naturally. If you want to stop constipation entirely and quit taking habit-forming physics and laxatives, get Kompo Tablets from your druggist today. Results guaranteed or every cent back.

Double Attraction On Mat Card Tonight; Moran To Fight Van Bebbe

Red Heinz To Meet Tremaine In Main Event

Sled Allen Promises Interesting Program On The Regular Wednesday Night Show Here At Auditorium

One of the "most attractive" wrestling cards promised local fight fandom is coming up tonight when Sled Allen presents a group of experienced matmen in his regular Wednesday night show at the Auditorium.

In the main event, Tommy "Red" Heinz, a crowd-pleaser in two former appearances, meets Andy Tremaine of Tucson. They will go until one has won two falls. There is no time limit.

A "special attraction" that may come close to stealing the show will precede the main event. Sailor Moran, veteran campaigner of the country at large, will go into the ring with Jack Van Bebber, Texas Tech wrestling coach who won several national amateur championships and an Olympic title before coming to Lubbock this fall.

Just A Scrap?

For Moran, known everywhere as one of the roughest, toughest grapplers in the racket, it is just another fight, although he is due to be strutting his stuff because it is his initial appearance on a Lubbock mattress. For Van Bebber, it is his third match since he turned professional two weeks ago tonight, and he faces the stiffest test of his young career. Victorious in his first two matches against Swede Larsen of Amarillo and Pat Garrison of Arkansas, Van Bebber is a local favorite who has been taken into the hearts of Lubbock fandom because of his smoothly functioning, ever-crowding physical machine that gives and asks no quarter. He fights as seriously as he teaches younger Tech athletes, offering little showmanship but plenty of grit and determination.

In Moran, Van Bebber hits a cookie who has never tasted of defeat in several score Texas bouts. He has met and defeated all comers, including Cyclone Mackey, Chief Little Wolff, Tex Watkins, Yaqui Joe and Dutch Mantell. Mantell, who bows his graying head to no man, admits that Moran is the only man who ever beat him in "a straight, fair fight."

Dutch Pops Off

In talking of the Moran - Van Bebber match this week, Mantell, who is the Amarillo matchmaker as well as the chief attraction when Moran is not in town, said: "Moran is a wild and wooly Arkansas Razorback and a wrestling fool. Van Bebber will have about eight pounds advantage over the Arkansas hill billy, but a few pounds more or less never stopped the Wild Irishman. If Van Bebber can stick the 30 minutes with this he-man from the hills and oceans, he will have to go some, and he'll be a dandy wrestler."

Tremaine, the Arizona Wildcat who meets the smiling, cocky Heinz in the main event tonight, mixes science and speed with socks and spills. He has appeared in most of the western states and is popular on the Pacific seaboard, as well as in this circuit. He has a worthy opponent in Heinz, who has won over Pat Garrison and Gorilla Pogi in his local exhibitions.

Tonight's show starts at 8 o'clock. The price scale is the same observed in the last few shows, 75 cents ringside, 40 cents general admission and 10 cents for ladies and children. Extra seats have been installed to accommodate what is expected to be the largest crowd of the season.

Slaton Tigers To Meet Brownfield Friday Afternoon

SLATON, Oct. 31. (Special) — In an important Class B conference game, the Slaton Tigers mix it with the Brownfield High school Cubs Friday afternoon on the Slaton High school field.

The winner of Friday's game is destined to have a crack at the quadrant championship, and go into the play-off for the District 2 title. The largest crowd of the season is expected to be present.

The game is scheduled to start at 3:45 o'clock, Friday afternoon.

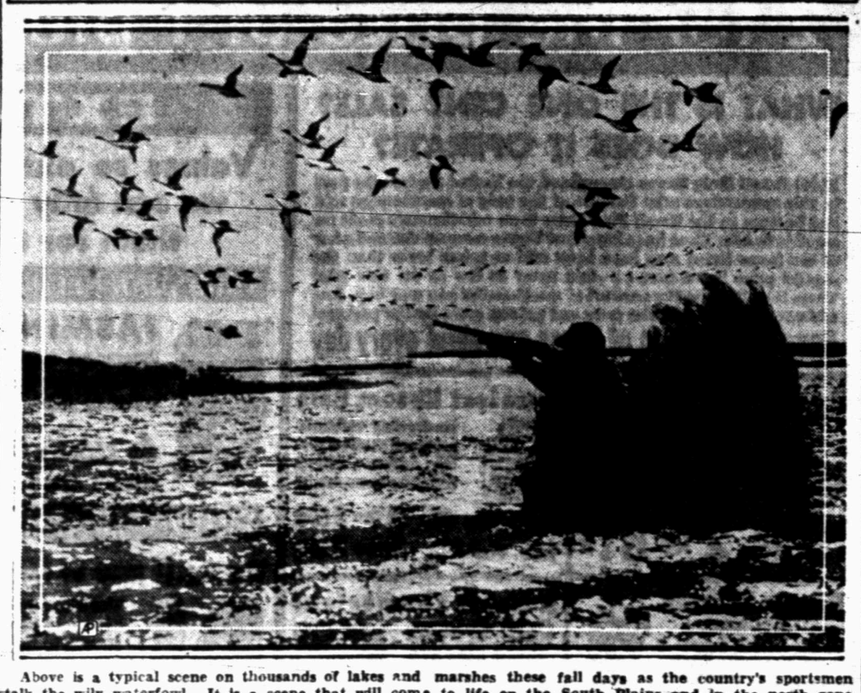
The Tigers have been working out this week against the Slaton Junior high school gridders, who went to Lubbock last week and conquered Coach Mule Davis' Lubbock Junior High school Cowboys, 6 to 0.

Arkansas Razorbacks In For Full Week Of Scrimmages

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 31. (AP) Idle since Saturday, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks resumed practice today, closing the session in rough scrimmage against the freshmen.

Coach Fred Thomsen took advantage of an open date in the Arkansas scheduled this week and announced scrimmage sessions would be held every day until Saturday.

Scenes Like This Are Stylish For Two Months Now



Above is a typical scene on thousands of lakes and marshes these fall days as the country's sportsmen stalk the wily waterfowl. It is a scene that will come to life on the South Plains and in the north zone of Texas today. While government reports from Washington indicate a shortage of ducks and geese over the country, as the story below accounts, there appears to be a plentiful crop on the Plains. Local and sectional hunters, however, are warned to observe hunting regulations, and exercise care in efforts to prolong existence of the birds.

Ducks Nearing Extinction If Hunters Do Not Curb Slaying

Government Reports Indicate Rapid Decrease In Numbers Of Ducks And Geese; Urge Sportsmen Be Moderate

BY F. B. COLTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The future of America's wild fowl and the sport of wildfowling hangs in the balance this fall as ducks and geese wing their way south for another hunting season.

The specter of extinction is flying with the wildfowl flocks. They are believed to have gained little or nothing in numbers since 1931, when the birds were reduced to a record minimum. If the birds prove to be no more plentiful this year than two years ago, say government officials, increased restrictions on hunting will be necessary.

The only hope for the future of both the birds and the sport of duck shooting is in reducing the number of birds killed, says W. C. Henderson, assistant chief of the bureau of biological survey.

"I am not speaking," he goes on, "of a catastrophe far in the future may be seen by most of us."

Canvasbacks, redheads, scaups, blue-winged teal and others of the so-called "diving ducks" are expected to be at an exceedingly low ebb, though pintails, mallards and black ducks may be fairly plentiful. Drought played a part in causing the record shortage of 1931 by reducing the marsh-land breeding areas in the north.

The shortage is mainly chargeable, however, to over-shooting, says Henderson. The slaughter by hunters has not left breeding stocks among the birds large enough to utilize even what breeding areas exist.

"Almost the only encouragement that can be found in the migratory game bird situation," he says, "is derived from the fact that at last the sportsmen in this country and Canada are alarmed and are ready to support any action that may be necessary." He urges that sportsmen practice strict moderation in shooting and kill chiefly from among the more abundant species of birds.

The daily bag limit on ducks this year has been cut from 15 to 12, of which number not more than eight may be canvasbacks, redheads, scaups, teals, shovellers or gadwalls. Possession limits are reduced from 30 to 24 on ducks and on the excepted species named above from 20 to 16.

Shooting near baited areas will be permitted this year, action on a proposal to prohibit such shooting having been postponed. Brant may not be hunted at all on the Atlantic coast because a mysterious disease has almost wiped out eel grass, their principal food in that region.

For the first time since 1930 cackling geese may be hunted during the waterfowl season. In Wisconsin and New York the open season for rails and gallinules is the same as for waterfowl in those states. The possession limit on woodcock has been set at 12.

Johnny Hodapp, Tom Oliver Are Released By Boston Sox

BOSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today gave outright releases to Johnny Hodapp and Tom Oliver. Hodapp, a former Cleveland infielder, was sent to Rochester, and Oliver, who came to Boston from Little Rock four years ago, was sent to Baltimore.

American Yacht Club Will Accept British Challenger

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP) — The challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith, British sportsman who has picked up Sir Thomas Lipton's fruitless life-long quest for the America's Cup, will be accepted formally by the New York Yacht club Thursday night when plans for the defense of the historic old mug will be laid down.

A special meeting of the yacht club has been called by Commodore Junius S. Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, and a member of the banking family that has been associated with the cup defense since the days of the defender's duels with the Balkyrie in the 1890's.

In all probability the cup races will be held next September off Newport, R. I., where in 1930 Sir Thomas, a fading old man, saw the last of his green Shamrock line, the fifth, beaten in four straight races by Harold S. Vanderbilt's slim white Enterprise.

Horned Frogs Plan Defense Against Baylor Bear Squad

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Texas Christian Horned Frogs went into the question of defenses to be used against the Baylor Bears here today. With Dutch Meyer's freshmen in the role of "Bruins," the varsity got its first glimpse of the formations and plays Coach Morley Jennings' team was expected to use in the game Saturday afternoon at Waco.

Coaches Frances Schmidt and Raymond Wolf are somewhat at a loss in their efforts to create a stout defense as the Bruins were scouted only once against the A. & M. Aggies last week, and then the Waco team had the ball very little, especially in territory where they could unleash their best offensive efforts. For that reason, the Purple is being prepared to meet all kinds of plays and their variations from the known Baylor formations.

Former Star Will Face Trial Today

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31. (AP) — Lieut. John H. Murrell, former all-American football star at West Point, will face examining trial before Paul Lockhart, United States commissioner, tomorrow on a charge of criminal attack.

The complaint, filed by department of justice agents on behalf of Miss Blanche Ralls, 34, alleged the attack occurred on the government reservation at Fort Sam Houston here Oct. 22 after Murrell had officiated as head linesman at the University of Texas-Centenary football game.

Defense attorneys announced they had abandoned plans to file a motion seeking continuance of the hearing. Murrell a member of the ninth infantry, pleaded not guilty when the charge was filed.

Held in jail without bond since his arrest last week, Murrell was given a special dinner today by grid officials who rallied to his support.

Miss Ralls came here recently from Birmingham, Ala. She is married and has a 12-year-old child.

Pioneer Of Dawson County Buried Tuesday Afternoon

LAMESA, Oct. 31. (Special) — E. E. Bartlett, 86-year-old pioneer of Dawson county, who died here this morning, was buried in a local cemetery this afternoon. Funeral rites were read by Rev. J. W. Simpson.

Survivors of the old settler, all of whom will attend the funeral, were 10 sons, G. M., of Plains; L. R., of Levelland; W. D., of Hueneme, Cal.; D., of Combs; J. A., of Tahoka; H. T., of Dimmitt, and W. E., N. D., W. H., and N. E. Bartlett of Lamesa, and a daughter, Mrs. Carrie Putnam of Abilene.

Forty-five grandchildren, 47 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild also survived.

They Left Him In The Corner Of The Dressing Room, But He Came To Life And Won For Southern Cal.; Mr. Warburton

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—He lay under a blanket in a far corner of the dressing room, a desolate individual with No. 13 on his grid-soiled jersey.

The coaches' half-time pleadings were meaningless mumbled words to his ears. He was dazed—suffering from slight concussion of the brain the physicians said later—from tackling a goal-ward galloping giant fully fifty pounds heavier than himself.

The team filed out for the second half. He lay there under the blanket unnoticed. Fellow players didn't miss him.

A student manager returned for a blanket. The one in the far corner would do.

Under it he found the 147-pound quarterback, with No. 13 on his jersey.

What was he doing there? He didn't know.

"Isn't It Over?"

"Isn't it over?" The game? Isn't it over?"

The student manager was telling him he would feel better if he went out and sat on the bench with the others. Together they slipped into seats, unnoticed, as the opposing teams lined up for the second half kickoff.

The fourth period started. His name was called by his coach. He bounded to his feet automatically—warmed up—entered the fray, No. 13 on his jersey.

Thirteen plays later—exactly thirteen—he slanted through the line and cut back, a dancing dodging pygmy, eluding giants who would lay their hands upon him and crush him to earth.

Then he whirled clear of the mob. Sixty yards he ran—only the fog swirling around now—and planted the ball behind the goal line.

They Remember

All of a sudden, those who forgot him remembered. The team that had not missed him was slapping him on the back. The coaches were jumping up and down. The 70,000 persons in the stands were wild.

All of a sudden like, they had found the little fellow with No. 13 on his jersey and their voices echoed his name through the Berkeley stadium.

"Warburton—Irving Warburton—Cotton Warburton."

Forgotten a half hour before, he had given the university of Southern California a 6 to 3 victory over California.

Athletic Boss Denies Rumors Of Trade Deal

Connie Mack Says Nothing Has Been Done; Rumors Have It Bob Grove And Others May Go On Trading Block

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31. (AP) — Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, stood in Shibe Park today and emphatically said: "No, I haven't sold any ball players."

Visitors and telephone calls crowded into his circular office in the tower of the ball park with revived reports that he had sold or traded Robert Moses Grove, pitching ace; Gordon S. Cochrane, catching star; "Eagle Eye" Max Bishop, who holds second base, and sundry other players.

"I haven't made any deals," said the veteran leader of the former world's champions. "I haven't completed any negotiations and, therefore. In the face of his denials, the nounce.

"I don't know what the future holds; there may be deals, but right now there is nothing to announce."

But Rumors Persist

All of which Mack has said before. In the fact of his denials, the reports persist from here and there. Men wise in the ways of baseball deals seem to think that before Connie Mack celebrates his 71st birthday on December 23, he will have announced the disposal of one or more of his stars.

The most persistent reports concern Mickey Cochrane. He was seen in Detroit some weeks ago and rumor has him ready to sign up with the Tigers as their next manager. The only hitch, according to report, is that Mack and Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club, have not agreed on price.

Published report says that Navin is willing to give $100,000 and Catcher Johnny Pasek, while Mack wants $125,000 and Catcher Ray Hayworth.

To Red Sox?

Last week report had it that Lefty Grove, Bishop and two other players were to go to the Boston Red Sox for $200,000. This was denied at both ends of the report deal. Today the reports switched Grove to the Chicago White Sox which brought a comeback from Chicago that he had not been offered.

Baseball observers fully expect that Big George Earnshaw who had some differences with Mack during the last playing season will not be with the A's next year.

Rube Walberg is also believed to be destined for some other club.

Up to date reports of deals have involved Pitchers Grove, Earnshaw, Walberg, Freitas and Claset; Catcher Cochrane; Infielders Foxx, Bishop and Williams, and Outfielder Coleman.

Heavy Rail Plan Of Buying Looms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP) — Steel rail orders reaching toward 850,000 tons were foreseen today by Secretary Ickes as he contemplated a plan for direct loans to the rail carriers from the public works fund to finance the purchases.

The public works administrator lost little time in shaping a program following President Roosevelt's compromise yesterday with the steel rail chiefs upon a price lowered to $36.37 1-2 a ton.

The exact rate of interest and the period of amortization for loans to the carriers' would require further study, Ickes said. He mentioned, however, a tentative annual interest rate of four per cent and the possibility of the loans being amortized over 20 years.

At the moment, he added, there appeared no reason for the formation of a separate governmental corporation to handle the financing and purchases, a plan previously contemplated.

Mustangs Brush Up On Ground Plays For Texas Steer Game

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Southern Methodist's Mustangs continued to drill on running plays today as they prepared for their homecoming clash with the University of Texas here Saturday.

Sixteen regulars who played against Arkansas Saturday returned to the squad after a day's rest, and it appeared that the Methodists will be at full strength against the Longhorns. Clyde Carter, regular right tackle, is expected to lend his blocking ability to the team for the first time in four weeks. The husky junior had recovered sufficiently from a broken hand to have played in the Arkansas clash but Coach Ray Morrison refused to risk another possible nijury and has saved him for the tSeers.

Coach Howard Jones of Southern California uses poker chips with the names of football players printed on them to figure out plays and demonstrate gridiron strategy.

At the close of the football season, the Auburn team will have traveled about 6,000 miles. Nine of its ten games were scheduled away from home.

Tech Gridders Drill On Defense Against Tribal Attack Saturday Night

Matador Club Men Invited To Drill Tonight At 8

Brave Heart Chalakee, Striped Neck Palleaf, Big Horse Iron Miles and Little Snake Quarderer—just a few of the painted braves of Haskell institute who leave their Lawrence, Kansas, teepees tomorrow and hit the warpath for Lubbock and Texas Tech.

Names that spelled terror to the early white settlers are calculated to throw fear and anxiety into the hearts of Coach Pete Cawthon's palefaces Saturday night under the floodlights at Tech Field.

With a wild whoop and hurrah, the Indians are coming back to the Plains on to which their forefathers must have ridden after the fuzzy buffalo. But the Buffaloes of the Plains now are limited to those at West Texas Teachers college, and the Matadors, who hold high ranking in these parts, have since done them under.

Warner Coached The Coach

Gus Welch, former quarterback under Pop Warner when the "old master" coached the Carlisle Indians, is the mentor at Haskel. He succeeded Lone Star Dietz this season, Dietz having gone to Boston to coach the Boston Braves of professional football. Warner has said that the two best players Carlisle ever turned out were Welch and Dietz, who succeeded Warner at Haskell. Welch has been coaching in the east for the past half dozen years, and brought a good record to Haskell.

It is in Coach Welch's makeup to train his grid teams along trick lines. While the Indians at Haskell adopt Warner's famous double wingback, and a modified form of the popular Warner "C" formation from which tricky plays are run. Cutbacks, double and triple reverses, lateral passes, end runs, anything is likely to loo up from the Haskell setup.

And Tech's Matadors this week are planning ways and means of stopping such an attack. Against the huskiest members of Coach Dell Morgan's freshman team yesterday afternoon, Cawthon and Smith had their Matadors do special blocking and tackling acts. There was no team scrimmage, but there was plenty of individual scrimmage. The freshmen have been taught some of the tricks used by the Indians, and they are deceptive indeed.

Drill Tonight

There will be no Matador workout this afternoon. Instead, today's practice will start at 8 o'clock, and the gridsters will have an audience. Members of the Matador club, a local organization of business and professional men, are to be guests of the athletic department tonight. No others will be admitted to the field, as "secret practice" still is the vogue.

It will be team scrimmage tonight, and lots of it, with particular atention paid to blocking. The man who doesn't block tonight probably not block Saturday night, because he won't have an opportunity.

Coach Cawthon requests all members of the Matador club to be present on the sidelines. In addition to the scrimmage, a "special attraction" is offered.

Matadors Outweighed

Lines of worry crease the foreheads for the Redskin battle. They are worried as to how their team which averages little better than 175 pounds can handle a veteran team from Lawrence which averages nearly 190. But the Matadors have found strength in numbers before, and the reserve power Saturday night should be at its best.

The Bullfighters emerged from their hard game at El Paso last week with few marks and bruises to mar beauty and physique, and the injury jinx is not due to hamper the local collegians unless practice sessions between now and then take a serious total.

Advance ticket sales indicate an early sell out of choice seats, and the faithful is advised to purchase ducats at once. They are on sale at the J. & J. Sporting Goods company. Reserved seat tickets are going for $1.50, including tax. Bleacher tickets, sold at the gate, will be priced at $1 each, including tax.

Matadors Beware

It would behoove you Matadors out at Texas Tech to plan your offense against the Haskell Indians with little or no intention of running plays to the right. Because Fred Miles, 240-pound left tackle, is playing for the Indians Saturday night when they come to Lubbock. One of the outstanding linemen of his sector, Miles is also considered by experts who have seen him during the last three seasons as one of the prominent tackles of the country.

FLEA-FLICKER EASY, BUT EXACTING

BY ART KRENZ
NEA Service Sports Writer

Whenever the subject of Illinois football is brought up, the conversation generally turns to Bob Zuppke and his famous "flea-flicker" play. This fooler was used with great success at Illinois in the days of Red Grange, and only recently Zup pulled it to turn the tables on Wisconsin.

When Grange was galloping for the Illini, the play was worked as shown in accompanying sketch.

Britton would stand well back of the line of scrimmage and take the pass from the center. Grange would pivot and go wide to the right and take a lateral from Kassel, who had received a forward from Britton. The left guard leaves the line to act as Grange's interferer.

"Success of this play depends upon perfect execution," Zuppke says of the flea-flicker. "The man who receives the lateral must be well disciplined to arrive at the point at the exact instant. He must not be there ahead of time or he telegraphs the play."

Westerners In Skirmish With Cowhand Squad

Lubbock High Reserves To Go Against Olton This Week; Westerners Meet Plainview Bulldogs November 10

With a pair of kibitzing coaches in the backfields, the so-called Cannon-fodder of the Lubbock Westerners battled the Cowhands through a short scrimmage at Fair Park yesterday.

Next Friday evening the Cannon-fodder plays Olton high at Olton and they are going about their homework for this contest with heavy concentration. Not especially heavy at the other positions, the Cannon-fodder will outweigh the Green Bay Packers of Olton at the tackle assignments. Big Harris scales close to 200 pounds, and Morgan Duval carries 280 pounds into the fray.

Huffman Tells 'Em

During practice sessions the last ten days, the Westerners have heard themselves discussed by Assistant Coach Huffman, who, incidently, has a voice like a carnival barker, in terms picturesque but not commendatory. Head Mentor Chapman hasn't said much but he is eating more Fair Park grass these days than is good for him.

Victorious in their last two tries, the local high squad has not extended themselves as their coachers would like. This week and next they have no game carded for the weekend—Chapman and Huffman will be driving them along towards the district game Nov. 10 with the greatly improved Plainview Bulldogs.

Arlington Downs To Hold 21-Day Meet Next April

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Oct. 31. (AP) —Arlington Downs will hold a 21-day spring racing meet from March 29 to April 21. Dates for the spring meet were announced today after a conference between E. P. and Guy Waggoner, representatives of the Texas Jockey club, and Joseph A. Murphy, director of racing at Arlington Downs.

It also was announced that the current 21-day meet at Arlington Downs would not be extended but will close November 11.

The Texas Jockey club announced today it would raise the purses and commencing next Saturday and until the close of the current 21-day meet, the minimum purse would be $700.

To Hold Texas Derby

It also was decided to run the Texas Derby and the Waggoner handicaps at the spring meeting, and both will be built up to par with the outstanding classic of the country. The derby, which will have an added value of $10,000 will probably be run the closing day of the meeting, April 21, and will be a mile and one eighth. The Waggoner handicap will have an added value of $5,000 and there also will be other features to cover holiday and Saturday meetings.

Coming previous to the Kentucky derby, Arlington Downs officials expressed hops that many of the potential candidates for that race will be shipped to Arlington Downs after the Texas Derby used as a preliminary race to fit them for the Louisville event.

Twenty-Five Churches Represented At Methodist Victory Rally Here

Reports Made For The Year

Rapid Progress Is Being Seen And Church Rolls Reveal An Increase; Finances Also In Better Condition

By HAMILTON WRIGHT
Secretary, Lubbock District

Twenty-five charges of the Lubbock district, Methodist church, were represented at the "Victory Meeting" held at the Asbury church Tuesday, presided over by Dr. C. A. Bickley, presiding officer of the district. Only two charges failed to be represented or to turn in reports. Since the conference year began the district shows an addition in membership of 1,316, of which number 568 were on profession of faith. Many of the charge quarterly conferences are yet to be held. A general report will be rendered to annual conference Nov. 8-12, when that body meets at Clarendon.

The meeting opened with a devotional followed by an address by Dr. C. A. Bickley, presiding elder, on "Building the Walls." Rev. Elmer Peterson, pastor of the Morton charge, delivered the morning sermon, "The Royal Exile."

Luncheon Is Served

At noon luncheon was served in the annex of the church, preachers and laymen bringing covered dishes. At the afternoon session Mrs. G. C. Wolffarth, secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, rendered her report which showed great work had been accomplished during the last several months. She said that 50 per cent of the pledges had been raised with three months more to raise the remainder of the $2,500 pledge. The district has 32 auxiliaries. Concluding her speech she introduced Mrs. Lamar West of Levelland, who in turn brought Mrs. C. A. Bickley, wife of the presiding elder, to the chancel and presented her in tribute with a lifetime certificate of membership in the missionary society. Following this Mrs. Wolffarth presented the presiding elder and his wife with an electric clock in token of the appreciation of the thirty-two auxiliaries in the district.

Horace G. Krebbs of New Lynn, Lynn county, and William Hamilton Wright, Jr., Southland, were licensed to preach by the interim committee consisting of A. O. Graydon, J. A. Wheeler, Joe Haymes and Orion W. Carter and Dr. C. A. Bickley. Wright is son of the Methodist pastor at Southland. Both young men propose to secure university education before entering the itineracy.

Wallace Is Speaker

Rev. W. H. Wallace, known generally in Lamesa territory as "Brother Bill," delivered address at the afternoon session, the keynote being "victory."

Rev. J. B. McReynolds, Levelland, introduced a resolution pertaining to the method of raising the conference collections. It failed of adoption by a vote of 15 to 14. It proposed that the local churches make their own assessment with three stewards specially selected responsible for its being raised in collaboration with the presiding elder. The resolution requested the annual conference to memorialize the general conference of the church, the law-making body of the denomination, to adopt this plan. Considerable discussion ensued after its introduction, most of the opposition seemingly coming from the group which feared that it might tend toward the congregational form of church government in contrast to Methodism's representative form.

Church Progressing

Individual reports rendered showed that the church is progressing financially this year as compared with last year. Becton reported 21 additions, 12 on profession of faith, salary 63 per cent paid and benevolences 12 per cent. It raised $186.53 for the orphanage. Brownfield reported 22 additions. Buls showed 54 additions, 35 on profession of faith. Draw-Grassland had 38 additions, $950 raised on salary and $200 on benevolences. Idalou reported 20 additions with salary $200 behind. Lamesa station had 138 additions, 80 percent of salary and 60 of benevolences paid. The pipe-organ was paid out. Lamesa circuit had 60 additions, salary $750, $200 spent on parsonage. The circuit is being divided into two circuits another year, the new circuit being known as Welch circuit. The new pastor, to be assigned at the annual conference, will find a new parsonage for occupancy.

Southland Reports

Southland reported 18 additions on profession of faith, 13 by certificate, $870 on salary and $118 on conference collections and around $200 for the orphanage. There were 64 conversions on the circuit during the year. New Lynn paid out in full.

Levelland reported 57 additions with $10,000 raised and salary and benevolences probably be paid in full. Lorenzo reported 22 additions, 80 percent of salary and 50 per cent of conference collections.

Morton had 96 conversions, with 64 additions to the church. Meadow showed 42 additions and O'Donnell 38. Plains had a gain of 10 members. Robertson had 9 additions, Slaton, 70, Seagraves 33, Shallowater 35, Tahoka 20, Wilson, 45.

Local Church Report

Asbury Church, Lubbock, had 51 additions on profession of faith and 117 on certificates, 75 per cent of salary was paid, $450 still being due; benevolences will probably be paid in full. There were 113 training credits, being exceeded only by First Church, Lubbock.

First Church, Lubbock, reported 58 additions on profession of faith and 175 by certificate, with 78 percent of pastor's salary paid and 61 percent of the benevolences.

Lubbock Circuit, East, report ten additions with salary probably to be paid in full and about 70 per cent of the conference collections. Lubbock Circuit, West, reported 40 additions, with good financial report. Ralls shows an addition of 45 members with $1,100 in salary paid and 50 per cent of the benevolences in.

This is the last rally of the preachers before leaving for annual conference at Clarendon Nov. 8. At that conference the preachers will be assigned for another year. It is understood that there are to be many changes among the preachers this year.

Dr. C. A. Bickley, who has served this district as presiding elder for the last four years, will surrender this post in accordance with Methodist usage. He probably will be stationed in a pastorate.

The members will gather at the church at 5 p. m. for a basket luncheon, following which Dr. C. A. Bickley, presiding elder of the Lubbock district, will preach. He will then dedicate the structure. Then will follow the adjourned session of the fourth quarterly conference.

Union is part of the Wilson Charge served by Rev. Hershel Thurston. Thurston reports salaries and benevolences in full.

Union Community Plans Dedication

Methodists of Union community, south part of Lubbock county, expect to make Wednesday a red-letter day. The church at that place, built about eight years ago, had been paid out and will be dedicated.

Rumors Of New Hiding Place Of Big Amount Of Ransom Money Are Heard

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP) — Federal authorities today said they knew of no efforts being made to contact a person who might know where some of the Charles F. Urschel kidnap ransom money is hidden.

Reports that negotiations to return some of the money were started through the placing of a classified ad in a newspaper by Mark McGee, local attorney. McGee declined to discuss why he had placed the ad in this newspaper and added that "it was a confidential communication between an attorney and a client."

The ad read:

"Well digger, Wise county, Texas: Your letter about glass jars received. Will appreciate more details about proposed well. Will guarantee square deal. No publicity and will execute contract to your satisfaction. Owner at present away but I am his partner and can personally represent him. Address P. O. box 1146, Oklahoma City, so that meeting can be arranged between us."

Frank J. Blake, chief agent of the department of justice in this section of the state, said that he would request the Oklahoma City office to investigate the ad.

The postoffice box given in the advertisement is that of the T. B. Slick-Urschel estate in Oklahoma City. Urschel was kidnaped from his home July 22 and held prisoner on the R. G. (Boss) Shannon farm in Wise county, near Paradise, until $200,000 was paid for his release. About $125,000 of the money has never been recovered. Of the sum $73,250 was found buried on the Cass Coleman farm near Coleman.

Coleman, uncle of Kathryn Kelly, one of six defendants to draw life sentences for their part in the Urschel kidnaping and kidnaping conspiracy, was recently sentenced with Will Casey at San Angelo on charges of hiding George Kelly, one of the defendants while the latter was the object of a nation-wide search.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP) — Hugh S. Johnson's itinerary for a ten day or two week swing through the western states begins with a speech in Chicago Saturday.

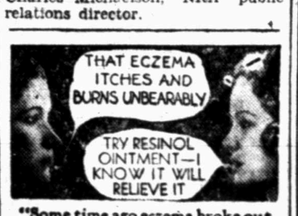
The rest of the stops are to be announced late today, after Johnson has opportunity to study the schedule prepared for him by Charles Michaelson, NRA public relations director.

Cyclonic Disturbance Over Oriente Province Reported

HAVANA, Oct. 31. (AP)—The national observatory reported today that a cyclonic disturbance of moderate intensity was passing over Oriente province, with the center estimated near Santiago.

Santiago, the capital of the province, reported heavy rainfalls the past forty-eight hours. Five rivers in the province went out of their banks ten to fifteen feet, destroying crops and several small houses.

No loss of life or injury was reported.



"Some time ago eczema broke out on my leg. After weeks of special treatment during which time the itching and burning was so severe I could hardly stand it, I was told nothing more could be done for me. A friend of mine urged me to try Resinol Ointment, which I did. I am happy to say it healed my leg completely and I have never had any breaking out since." (Signed) Mrs. E. P.* Pawtucket, R. I.

How Black-Draught Stops Bad Feeling

"I have taken Thedford's Black-Draught for about twelve years, when needed, for dizziness, and it is a wonderful medicine," writes Mrs. Elmer Leverett, of Carrier Mills, Ill. "I can usually tell when a headache is coming on by the bad taste in my mouth and a dull feeling. If I begin taking Black-Draught then, I can keep off the headache."

Choice tobaccos—and no loose ends—make Luckies burn smoothly

This young lady is one of a small army of inspectors. Her job is to examine Lucky Strike—to make sure that it comes up to the exact standards we set. Every Lucky Strike she passes is full weight, fully packed, round and firm—free from loose ends. And no Lucky that she examines leaves without this OK. That's why each and every Lucky draws so easily—burns so smoothly.

Russian Recognition Nears

AS FORECAST in this column weeks and weeks ago, American recognition of Soviet Russia is more or less of a foregone conclusion. Certainly, with Russian commissar for foreign affairs, Maxim Litvinoff, nearing our shores, recognition of the Big Bear is closer than it has ever been before.

Opponents of Russian recognition in Lubbock, and everywhere else, must bear in mind that not unless preliminary investigation and discussion had convinced Mr. Roosevelt that Moscow is ready to meet terms best calculated to protect America's interests would the President have invited Stalin's representative to Washington to discuss the matter personally. FDR, in other words, is in a better position than anyone else to judge the value and the efficacy of recognizing the Soviets.

It is beyond dispute that sentiment on the question of recognition has undergone much change in the last few years. Much of the former opposition has disappeared. An important factor in causing this change has been the trade possibilities that would be opened up by recognition. The United States is in need of additional markets for its goods. A great demand for products such as this country can supply exists in Russia. There is a question of the ability of the Russians to pay for them. The answer is not clear, but Russia has been buying, and paying for considerable quantities of American goods during the non-recognition period. Economic and industrial conditions in the Soviet remain obscure. Some improvement does appear to be taking place. This, if it continues, will strengthen Russia's financial position.

Among the obstacles to recognition have been certain debts owing Americans under the czarist regime and which the Soviet government refused to recognize. There also was the mater of propaganda fostered by Moscow in an effort to spread Soviet doctrines in other countries. Fear that recognition would give free rein to this in the United States has been a factor in the refusal of previous administrations to extend recognition.

These and other related matters, it is to be assumed, have been studied by Mr. Roosevelt and will be explored further in his discussions with the Soviet commissar who comes to Washington in response to the President's invitation. It is not for the United States to deny recognition on the grounds that the Soviet form of government does not fit the ideas of Americans. Stability usually is considered in deciding the question of recognizing a new government. The present Moscow regime has been in power 16 years and seems to have demonstrated its stability, thus meeting this requirement.

The probability is that Russia, needing the prestige that diplomatic relations with this country will give it as well as wanting the material advantages that will flow out of recognition, is prepared to go far in meeting America's terms.

After all, the form of government adopted by any country is not our affair and recognition or no recognition, Russia has gone a long way down the road of its own choosing and we have been losing business all along the line. While The Morning Avalanche has no admiration for the Russian form of government nor respect for its principles, we are perfectly willing to leave Russian problems to Russians and are committed to recognition only upon the basis of commercial expediency.

GREATER WORKS

"Greater works than these shall he do."—John 14:12.

We have already seen this come to pass to a certain extent. The preacher today preaches to more people than did Jesus. More people have accepted His way of life in this generation than accepted it in His own.

There are other things besides these numerical comparisons. We preach against war and slavery, while Jesus never explicitly mentioned these.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

ASSISTANT SECRETARY of Agriculture Rex Tugwell's drive to develop further the well-tested laws on truth in advertising of foods, drugs and cosmetics through passage of a new Food & Drug act has won two new and important converts.

BATTLERS: The United Medicine Manufacturers of America, at their recent Chicago convention, devised 17 points of attack on Tugwell's proposed new bill.

J. M. Ewing, Pennsylvania manufacturer and president of the association, and Clinton Robb, Washington counsel, will lead the battle. It takes in publicity of every imaginable description, a lobby on Congress, support of advertising media drawing revenues from proprietary ads and the enlistment of allied industries such as manufacturers of cartons, tubes, boxes and bottles.

The inalienable right to self-mediation is their battle-cry.

FIRELESS: Operation of President Roosevelt's Forest army has been quite an expense—a little better than $1,000 per man—but it has accomplished a lot in one desired direction.

A new all-time low record for forest fire loss has been established since the lads of the C.C.C. have been answering reveille.

For the first nine months of this year there was a decrease of nearly 60 per cent in burned areas as compared with the same period in 1932.

LUMBER: This is important in line with the President's desire to bring our forests around to a national lumber yield that will match the demand.

The jittery lumber market came to light after the C.C.C. asked for 300,000,000 feet to build winter camps for the boys in the south. When replies came in the Forest army chiefs got a notion that there wasn't enough domestic lumber to meet the order.

This was soon straightened out. The C.C.C. took that amount of second-grade lumber (about ten days' sawing) previously a drug on the market. But for a while they thought they might have to use steel and other materials.

HORRORS: Uncle Adolph, the Iron Man of Germany, is using his carefully-controlled press to give the Nazis an idea the United States is armed to the teeth, according to our army and navy officers.

Hitler and his propaganda minister, Dr. Goebbels, are having all possible pictures of American battleships, tanks, artillery batteries, etc. run in the papers over such captions as "What have we got against this terrific menace?"

A recent night air pageant over Broadway was publicized as "collossal war maneuvers which had New Yorkers shuddering." Probably the show didn't even get a rise out of the blase theatre crowds.

NOTES: The C.C.C. has just ordered 2,000 snowshoes for the lads in the New England camps, to say nothing of bright red and black mackinaws. . . . They'll look like a lot of college boys out for winter sport. . . . When President Roosevelt's yacht Sequoia was nosing up the Chester river ten days ago a shiny speedboat darted out from shore and circled 'round nad 'round the presidential party. . . . At the wheel was John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic National committee, but he must have gone unrecognized for he got no applause at all. . . . After the World series was over the October meet at the Laurel race track held great attractions for a number of the New Dealers. . . . Their colleagues and aides are glad the Laurel meet is over.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE Cuban witches' brew is simmering to another boil.

A general condition of anarchy prevails outside of Havana. Courts are not functioning and crimes go unpunished. In Santiago a 20 year old boy has seized the mayoralty and surrounded himself with his gang. In Havana the Communists grow stronger daily. Official estimates of their numbers are all too low. So far they haven't made much progress with the army but they are biding their time until Grau San Martin can no longer meet army payrolls. Then they mean to move fast.

The situation is so bad that even the moderate radicals now want no part of official power. Mendieta—of all people—has requested his followers to lay off their campaign to put him back in the presidency.

MONEY: Few Americans realize what a tough spot would-be Cuban dictators are in when it comes to paying the troops. Unlike some other countries they can't just order a fresh batch of bills off the printing press for the simple soldiers. Why? Because Cuba has no paper money. American bills are the only valid currency. They can't get those unless they export and their exports are dead.

Now there's a movement in Cuba to establish paper money and compel the citizens to accept it by law. Other South American nations have found this system profitable. It's true that such action is forbidden by their treaty with us. But what's a treaty in the face of a national emergency—especially when there is small chance we would intervene on such an issue?

FAMINE: Informed observers predict that the American Red Cross will be called upon to relieve a Cuban famine before the end of the winter.

Live stock has been slaughtered recklessly and without regard to the future. No sugar cane fields have been burned because they are still too damp but you can expect wholesale incendiarism within two months.

Silver lining to the New York speculator: That ought to help the price of sugar.

RUSSIA: Speaking of credit, Soviet Russia has bought four and a half billion dollars' worth of foreign goods since trade was organized and has taken great care not to renege a nickel's worth.

Since recognition of the Soviets became a certainty the New York offices of Amtorg have been flooded with applications for jobs in Russia. Experts on everything from accountancy to vodka distilling are offering their services. One Amtorg official is willing to match the number of these job-seekers with that at Democratic National headquarters.

LABOR: The Federation of Labor has done a marvelous unpublished job in calming the strike fever. One of their hardest chores has been the education of the multitude of new federation members. For some time nearly every group that joined paraphrased the traditional slogan of army recruits by inquiring "When do we strike?"

CZARISM'S EVIL SPIRIT

Konstantin Petrovich Pobiednoscew (1827-1907) was a Russian law teacher and statesman who for 25 years occupied the important position of chief procurator of the Holy Synod. In this position the arch-reactionary is said to have wielded a most sinister influence with the last two Czars, counseling the policies which proved most disastrous to the country. A curious play on his name is very popular in Russia.

STRANGE CRAFT

The circular boats of the Tigris are made of close willow work coated with bitumen and tarred skins. They are called koufas by the natives. They have not changed at all since the times of Babylonia and Assyria, when they were represented in the stone carvings of monuments. They were a familiar sight to Harun al Rashid, of the Arabian Nights, who ruled the city nearby.

Forgotten Sweetheart

by Mary Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, comes to Memphis in connection with his father's new textile plant. He falls in love with JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl.

The romance progresses happily until Joan and Bob are invited to a house party in Mississippi. Through the scheming of BARBARA COURTNEY, who is trying to win Bob, Joan and Bob become estranged.

Joan drives back to Memphis with JIM WARFIELD. During the next few weeks Bob turns to Barbara's flattery for consolation but when he sees Joan at a dance he realizes that he still loves her. He decides to see her next day and try to bring about a reconciliation.

The same night Joan's sister PAT, is in an automobile accident and her escort, JERRY FORRESTER, is killed. Bob's father reads about the accident and learns Pat is Joan's sister. He asks Bob not to see Joan again.

Pat, miserable and heartsick, runs away to New York. Joan leaves on the next train after wiring the Travelers' Aid to hold Pat for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

A woman representing the Travelers' Aid and wearing the official badge of that organization, approached Pat as she entered the New York terminal. "Are you Pat Waring from Memphis?" the woman asked. "I have a telegram for her."

Pat's heart leaped, but she was a clever little actress and her nervousness was not apparent. She glanced indifferently at the telegram and shook her head.

"My name is Rose Lee," she said pleasantly.

The woman hesitated, still eyeing Pat doubtfully.

"There was another blond girl in my car," Pat said easily. "Just about my size, too." She looked back and saw that the blond girl who had sat near her was examining her luggage.

"Thank you," said the Travelers' Aid representative and moved on. Pat started off calmly but quickened her steps a moment later.

"I want a taxi in a hurry," she told the red cap. She breathed a sigh of relief a moment later when she was spinning along the streets in the cab. So the family had sent a wire, no doubt pleading with her to come back! Well, she wouldn't go back! If they only knew what torture it had been! Already she was feeling better, as though she had left the old Pat behind and had assumed a new identity. She would write tonight telling her mother not to worry, but she would not give them her address until they became accustomed to the idea of her being away, more confident that she could take care of herself.

There was no lonelier, more troubled girl in all New York than Joan Waring when she moved along with the crowd through the gates into the big railway station. Searching the lobby, she saw the Travelers' Aid desk, identifying it by the lighted globes, the two hemispheres which symbolize the agency's far-reaching service.

Joan spoke to the alert, pleasant-faced woman at the desk, "I'm Joan Waring from Memphis. I wired about my sister—"

"Yes, Miss Waring. We received the telegram and we believed we had found your sister but—"

"She isn't here?" Joan cried.

"We stopped a girl who answered the description but she said she was not Pat Waring. Perhaps we should have held her, but she talked so naturally and said there was another blond girl in the same coach. This other girl's relatives appeared while Miss Bell was questioning her."

"What was the first girl like?" Joan asked unhappily.

The woman began a careful description of Pat's dark blue suit, curly blond hair, and small hat. Even before she mentioned the heavy silver locket with flat links, Joan was nodding miserably. Tears roiled unheeded down her cheeks.

"That was Pat," she said. "She has lots of poise for her age, but she's really inexperienced. I'm so frightened, so afraid of what may happen—!"

"Nothing will happen," the older woman reassured her. "From Miss Bell's description, I feel sure your sister will take very good care of herself. She has funds?"

"She could take care of herself for a month or six weeks on what she has."

"By that time she may find work. If she doesn't, she will decide sensibly, no doubt, to take a train home, or at least communicate with your family."

The brisk, matter-of-fact, cheerful voice helped, but Joan knew that as soon as she was alone again the terrible doubts lurking in her mind would spring out to terrify her once more.

"Shouldn't I go to the police?" she asked.

"That might be very embarrassing for your sister. Why don't you try the employment agencies first—the easily accessible ones where you'd be likely to go if you were looking for work? That's the place where you'll probably find her. I'll give you a list of addresses."

While she was writing, the Travelers' Aid representative glanced at Joan's white, anxious face and said

AUSTIN, Oct. 31 (AP)—Rep. Harry N. Graves of Georgetown has become known as the chief of the house investigators.

There scarcely has been an investigation undertaken by the house since he became a member that the peppery Graves has not been appointed as a member of the committee to either make or direct the inquiry.

His latest assignment is on the special committee that will investigate purported bartering in state jobs. Graves was a member of the sub-group of the house appropriations committee that started the investigation in the closing days of the session and was named by Speaker Coke Stevenson to continue the job.

Graves gained considerable repute as a prosecuting attorney in Williamson county.

His colleagues on the investigating committee include Rep. Gordon Burns of Huntsville, also a former prosecutor.

Rep. Joe A. Greathouse of Fort Worth, who authored the original mortgage foreclosure moratorium law at the regular session and sought to extend the term of its effectiveness at the first special session, was greatly perturbed when the bill died in the senate.

He attributed its defeat to senator from southeast Texas regarded as a prospective candidate for lieutenant governor.

Saying that he had something he wanted "to get off his chest," Greathouse spoke to the house on personal privilege. "I'll take care of t gentlemen's campaign in F Worth," he said.

Mrs. Marianne Harling Bak who attended the wedding of t Duke of Wellington, has died Gomshall England, aged 102.

Large Gusher In Yates Pool

Well Flows 2,835 Barrels Of Oil In One Hour; Depth Is Corrected; New Gusher Is Pinched After Test

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 31. (AP)—No. 1 W. F. Robertson, drilled by M. D. Bryant and Eppenauer Drilling Co. of San Angelo, yesterday became the largest well in the present development campaign in the Yates field in Pecos county when it flowed 2,835 barrels of oil in one hour, a rate of 68,040 barrels daily, on an official proration test.

Last week-end the well flowed 1,000 barrels hourly when it stopped drilling at 1,313 feet. Steel line measurement later corrected the total depth to 1,328 feet. The proration gauge yesterday was through two ..-inch lines to tanks. Gas was not gauged but was estimated between six million and ten million cubic feet daily. The big pay was topped at 1,313 feet.

The new gusher after being tested was pinched, as are all the Yates wells, as it must share with 1,014 other producers a total allowable for the field of only 47,500 barrels daily. The allowable was cut to that figure from 44,700 barrels daily by state order, effective yesterday. The Bryant-Eppenauer well was drilled on 3.97-acre vacancy in the heart of the pool, under which Judge W. F. Robertson of the 126th district court at Austin owns one-half of the royalty, the public free schools of Texas the other half.

M. D. Bryant soon will start a north offset on the Bob Reid vacancy, also of 3.97 acres.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas Co.'s No. 23 Smith-Taylor, west offset to the Bryant-Eppenauer producer, yesterday gauged 554 barrels of oil in one hour, a rate of 13,296 barrels daily, on an official proration test. The difference in the yield of these wells, only 320 feet apart, was attributed to the fact that the Mid-Kansas well struck heavy gas above the pay while the Bryant-Eppenauer did not.

Agriculture

President Roosevelt do everything in his power to keep out foreign grains, oils, fats and other competing farm products.

Speed Up Refinancing

Speeding up of mortgage refinancing, a policy to permit applications to the farm administration for refinancing to be filed without payment of the required fee in advance, and reappraisal of farms where less than 75 per cent of the appraised value is the basis for a loan, were urged.

The governors, in return, pledged themselves to do everything in their power to prevent mortgage foreclosures and evictions until the federal program has permitted refinancing of farm mortgages.

The preface to the recommendations commended "President Roosevelt for his efforts to find an effective and just solution of the farm problem" and asserted "we also recognize the progress which he has made thus far made."

Drastic Steps Needed

However, the governors continued, unless drastic steps are taken at once to relieve its (agriculture's) condition, its members will not only become entirely pauperized, but they will drag down into poverty other groups who are dependent upon their buying power for their prosperity and prosperity."

"We believe that certain, immediate action, supplementary to action taken by the national administration is imperative," the governors said.

In his minority report, Governor Langer suggested an "immediate embargo be declared by the governors of all agricultural states on all non-perishable agricultural products until those in authority have fixed minimum prices at a point where parity shall have been attained and identical promises redeemed.

Fail To Keep Pace

Governor Langer said "the prices received for agricultural products have dismally failed to keep the pace with the rise in prices for what the farmer has had to buy."

Prior to announcement of the reports, Arnold Gilberts, president of the Wisconsin Farm Holiday association, telegraphed leaders to halt their non-marketing campaign temporarily.

"Wisconsin has been one of the focal points of disorder in the farm price since the campaign started on May 21. There was some uncertainty, however, as to the outcome of Gilbert's order.

"Two strikes are in progress in the state—one by the farm holiday group, and another by the Wisconsin cooperative milk pool which started last midnight.

Election Issue

campaign was not for circulation to the general public, but was issued as a hand-book for the 500 or more state Republic leaders as the opening step in the congressional campaign.

Pledges Are Broken

It charged that the administration had broken its pledges as to sound money: reduction in the cost of government and balancing of the budget; the number of men put to work by the use of public funds in the works program; solution of agricultural problems; lowering the tariff by subsidizing American exports; buying food and clothing; protecting bank depositors; strengthening anti-trust laws; removal of the government from certain fields of private enterprices; and decreasing crop production.

Leaders denied that there was any intention to "smear Roosevelt," but it was affirmed that the Republicans intended henceforth to be "political auditors" and to "hold the majority party to strict "accountability." The issuance of the pamphlet came about four months in advance of the first primaries in congressional races, in Illinois.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Cotton was a narrow affair today and prices developed no special trend during a quiet session. Final prices were net one point up to three down. With traders keeping a close watch on the government gold policy and the action of other markets, local exchange directors ordered trading as usual for tomorrow, marking the first time in exchange history that business will be conducted on All Saints' day, a legal holiday in this state.

The opening was barely steady. Liverpool cables were about as due and sterling was a shade easier. First trades here showed losses of 4 to 5 points but the market soon rallied on a better opening of stocks and an advance in the price of gold to $32.12 per ounce. December advanced to 9.47 and March to 9.68, a recovery of 4 points and unchanged to 1 point down compared with yesterday's close.

The market turned easier during the second hour of trading owing to hedge selling and a reaction in stocks coupled with easier wheat. December dropped to 9.39 and March to 9.61 down 8 points from yesterday's close. Later in the morning prices rallied again with stocks and December traded as high as 9.49 and March at 9.73, up 10 to 12 points from the lows and 2 to 4 points above the previous close.

The market ruled quiet all afternoon with prices keeping within the earlier range and fluctuating within 2 to 4 points. December closed at 9.47, net unchanged for the day, March at 9.70 or 1 point net up and July at 9.95, down 3 points net.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today with a moderate early decline followed by recoveries on trade buying and covering. December contracts after selling off to 9.44 closed at 9.53, with the general market steady net 3 points higher to 4 points lower.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 6 points. There was some buying on the relatively steady Liverpool cables which appeared to be readily supplied by realizing and overnight selling from the south. Active months worked about 5 to 14 points net lower during the morning with May selling off to 9.79, but the comparatively light offerings were absorbed by trade and commission houses and the market showed a generally steady undertone during the afternoon. May closed at 9.87 with last prices generally showing rallies of 8 or 10 points from the lowest. July which had been relatively firm yesterday was relatively easy today showing the maximum decline.

The falling off in the volume of general business was attributed to a disposition to await a further development of the administration's monetary policies or possibly a better line on the probable showing of the next government crop report. Exports today 61,986 making 2,362,362 so far this season. Port receipts 101,002. U. S. report stocks 3,947,870.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31. (AP)—Fed steers and yearlings scaling under 1,000 lbs. cleared at steady to weak prices as compared with Monday's general trade, but offerings of heavier weight found a limited outlet at around 10 to 25 lower. There was no dependable outlet for steers scaling over 1,000 lbs. The majority of fed steers and yearlings were of quality to sell around 4.25@5.75 with numerous loads of steers with weight under 1,025. Chicago listed 1515 lb. beeves at 4.50. A few loads of light mixed yearlings and fed heifers turned at 5.75@6.40, the outside price being secured in Chicago for 772-lb. heifers. Little change occurred in trading for replacement cattle, most steers selling around 3.25@4.75 with a few yearling stockers up to 5.25. Receipts for two days at ten markets this week totaled 242,900 as compared with 148,682 last week and 132,171 a year ago.

Steady to 15 lower prices prevailed on hogs with Chicago listing a top of 4.25.

Native and range lambs closed at steady to 25 lower levels with a spread of 6.00@6.75 securing the bulk and a few natives in Chicago up to 6.85.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP) — Demand was good for corn on the Fort Worth cash grain market today but other grains were slightly slow. Receipts included wheat 2 cars; corn 10; oats 2; sorghums 3.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth freight paid to delivery point: Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate or Texas common points: wheat No. 1 hard 93 1-2@94 1-2; Barley No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominal 1.00 @1.03; No. 3 milo nominal 98@1.01; No. 2 kafir nominal 95@97; No. 3 kafir nominal 93@95.

Delivered Texas common points: oats No. 2 red 43@44; No. 3 red 42@43.

CHICAGO GRAIN REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP) — Grain values crashed downward at the last today for want of any adequate buying support.

Stop-loss selling developed as prices tumbled. There was at no time any evidence that United States government-sponsored agencies were making fresh purchases of wheat, and throughout a large part of the day price setbacks formed the rule following reports of a tentative British-American agreement for stabilization of sterling and the dollar.

Setting aside of the Hoover administration order to suspend for sixty days the Chicago board of trade as a contract market was not generally known until just before business ended. The announcement had no perceptible market influence.

Wheat closed unstable 1 1-2 to 2 5-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 2 1-4 to 3 cents down, oats 1 5-8 to 2 1-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Favorable weather conditions over the corn belt tended further to weaken prices of corn and other grains.

Provisions sagged, responsive to action of the hog market and of cereals.

L. J. Wardlaw, of Fort Worth, member of the board of directors, said the board's action last June admitting the daughters of employes of the college living in Brazos county to the college for this year was an emergency measure, caused by the fact that drastic salary cuts and the danger of losing some of the teaching force made it necessary to seek added compensation. He said such action was within the discretionary power of the board.

College Inn, 2424 Fifteenth street. A similar call came from Pinson's drug No. 1, 1519 Avenue Q.

A barrel of trash was piled out in the 2400-block of Eighth street. College avenue at Twenty-second street was reported to be blocked. A like report came from Nineteenth street and Avenue X.

Police believed that other water mains were opened and not reported. They indicated they would prosecute any persons caught tampering with the hydrants.

Hideous and grotesque faces paraded downtown. Boys carried strips or rubber and paddles, using them frequently on unsuspecting persons. During the early part of the night the streets were crowded.

Rev. R. C. Campbell officiated and buriel was in Memorial Park cemetery.

Henry Ford To Meet Demands

Code-Required Figures To Be Given Auto C Of C By Nov. 6 Or 7; Full Compliance In NRA Is Expected

Chester, Pa., "tell the whole story."

Ford's intention to supply the wages and hours figures was announced by the NRA, and it was done without singling out the Dearborn manufacturer for special attention such as caused vigorous-worded protest from the Ford company last week.

A press release stated that Hugh S. Johnson had been advised by the NACC that practically every manufacturer had submitted the required wage and hours reports or had promised it not later than November 10. First was given a list of 24 are in. Then in alphabetical order a list of 27 other firms with the dates by which they expected to report.

Virtually every big company was in the list and Ford was in his proper place.

Other companies to report tomorrow or later included: Buick, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Fisher Body, Humpobile, Nash, Oldsmobile, Packard, Studebaker, Willys-Overland and a long list of less widely known firms.

Official comment was not forthcoming. Newspaper men waited until late in the evening for the usual Tuesday conference with Johnson, but it was finally called off because the NRA head was in President Roosevelt's study for an extended conversation on issues of the recovery administration.

Government Cooperation In Foreign Lending Proposed

HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 31. (AP) — Government cooperation in foreign lending and possible expansion of foreign lending was recommended today by the foreign securities committee of the National Investment Bankers' association convention.

After stating that the present is probably an unfavorable time to organize bondholders committees to act for American interests in defaulted foreign securities now totaling more than two billion dollars, the committee said.

"Based on a study of the experience of Great Britain over a period of many years, your committee believes that the present distressing situation surrounding many of the loans made by the United States should be permitted to discourage a dispassionate consideration of future policy."

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 31. (AP) McClelland Barclay, artist and illustrator, was released today from the Fairfield county jail where he had been a prisoner for five days on a charge that he had failed to pay alimony to his first wife, Nan.

Barclay gained his freedom without posting $35,000 bonds which had been demanded originally.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cathey of the 1600-block of Avenue N, charged Monday with liquor law violation, were released in bail of $500 each by United States Commissioner Victor Lindsey yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Cathey Monday was permitted to arrange for the bonds.

A 38-year-old Corpus Christi man, wanted for passing a worthless check, and the V-8 Ford tudor sedan, storage of which resulted in the arrest of the man and a woman here, will be returned to Sinton, Lubbock police were informed yesterday. A Sinton officer will come here. The man, arrested Monday, pleaded guilty of driving an automobile with improper license and was fined $15.

G. L. Beene, assistant state and seed analyst, has re-opened a branch laboratory, Texas Technological college, having returned from Austin where he had been working with the state department of agriculture.

A 28-year-old Floydada man, charged with theft of a pair of leather gloves owned by a policeman, pleaded not guilty yesterday. Heavy fog in many sections of Lynn county is delaying cotton picking until late in the morning, John Milner, ginner at T-Bar, said here yesterday afternoon. Mr. Milner said when he left his gin at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, only two bales had been brought in. Pickers do not start out until 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning.

Fifteen additional cotton checks were received Tuesday at the county agent's office, it was announced. The checks amounted to $6,520.

The entire program was under direction of wives of Lions, "take-offs" being presented on various committee reports. Mrs. G. O. Walker, jr., was program chairman. She was assisted by Mrs. John Mitchell and Mrs. Newt Walton.

Dance numbers were given by Misses Emma Sue Gunn and Ruth Leberstein, pupils of Mrs. Aubrey Walker, who accompanied them at the piano. Mrs. O. A. Thomas gave a humorous reading followed by a violin solo by Mrs. Walton, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Waldo Trotter.

At the close of the program, President S. J. McFarland made a brief talk.

Gold Buying

Saturday in dispatches from London.

Despite the drop at London the domestic price was advanced today to another new high, $32.12, 16 cents above yesterday and $1.07 higher than the world price. This quotation is fixed each day by officials here after examining reports from abroad. It has moved upward with each daily announcement.

Exchange Goes Back

Foreign exchange went in the opposite direction from that which would please administration economists. The pound opened at $4.75 1-2, a figure 3 1-2 cents stronger than yesterday's close. During the day it fluctuated in a narrow range to close at $4.76 7-8 or 2 1-8 stronger than the finish yesterday.

The commodity markets, an upward trend in which is the first objective of the Roosevelt recovery program, slumped, and induced light trading in a narrow range on the stock market. Cotton was quiet. Wheat lost 1 1-2 to 2 5-8 cents.

Scout Leaders Meet Tuesday

Dinner Meeting Is Staged At Legion Hall; Riley F. Huie Named Commodore; Others To Rule Ship Chosen

In a nautical setting, a dinner meeting of instructors, students, and officials of a Sea Scout leaders training course was conducted at American Legion home last night. The course is sponsored by the legion.

Speakers included H. H. Jons, member of the training course committee and Riley F. Huie, legion post commander. W. G. McMillan, president of the South Plains Boy Scout council, appointed Huie a commodore, and the latter announced selection of a ship committee. Members of this group, comparable to the regular Boy Scout troop committee, are C. C. Schmidt, Tom Carter and Jons.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN, No. 9

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Suddenly it occurred to Tarzan to discover it the language of this tribe was the same as that of his former ape-family. "Who are you? he asked. "Who threatens Tarzan of the Apes?" The brute addressed looked his surprise. "I am Akut," he replied in the same simple, primal tongue. "I am now king. Go away or I shall kill you. None is so great as Akut."

"Let us be friends," said Tarzan. "You cannot kill Akut," replied the other. "None shall be king but Akut." For answer the ape-man hurled himself upon the great brute, who during this conversation had slightly relaxed his vigilance. In the twinkling of an eye the man had seized the great ape's wrist, whirled him about and before the other could grapple leaped upon him.

Down they went together. Slowly Tarzan brought that awful pressure to bear upon the neck of the beast. "Ka-goda," whispered Tarzan to the ape beneath him. In the language of the apes it meant, "Do you surrender?" Akut thought of the creaking sound he had heard just before Molak, the king's neck had snapped, and, shuddering, he struggled to free himself.

But of a sudden a torturing pressure upon his vertebra brought an agonized "ka-goda" from his lips. Tarzan relaxed his grip and Akut rose slowly to his feet. Shaking his bullet-head and growling angrily, he waddled toward his tribe. Presently the whole pack moved off into the jungle, leaving Tarzan, sore from the many wounds inflicted upon him, alone once more upon the beach.

Forgotten Sweetheart

kindly. "You look very tired, my dear. We could make you comfortable in our rooms downtown until you decide where you want to stay."

"Thank you. You are very kind but I think I'd better get settled right away."

"There's a very nice woman's hotel I can send you to. It's not expensive and it's near the heart of the city." The woman wrote down the address and handed the slip of paper to Joan.

A short while later Joan was established in a decorous little room, fastidiously neat, with ruffled curtains at the window to add a home-like touch. But she did not feel at home. She was unutterably lonely and discouraged and heartsick.

She went to the window and looked out, but turned away with a shudder. Pat was so young to be alone in this great, bewildering place, spread like an enormous, glittering net about her. Pat was alone here tonight, just as Joan was. Poor little brave, unhappy Pat!

Joan's head was throbbing. She decided to go to bed. Tomorrow she would begin her search for Pat, the search which must succeed soon! Joan got into bed, turning her face against the pillow which was soon wet with tears.

Two weeks of loneliness, of small bills mounting to large ones. Two weeks of stifled fears and determined courage, Joan became conscious of commiserating glances when she entered the hotel lobby. She passed through the lobby on her way to the street, through it again to go to her room. The process seemed mechanical. It was so exactly the same every day.

She had visited all the employment agencies on the list given her by the Travelers' Aid representative and many others, as well. She had interviewed personnel managers in department stores. She had searched crowds on the streets until her eyes ached, her heart leaping at the sight of every slender, blond girl who for a moment looked like Pat.

She had inserted a message in the classified columns of a morning and evening newspaper, begging Pat to call her. She had tried every means she could think of to find her sister, every means that had been suggested to her, and she had failed.

Joan's face was thin and worn from strain, worry and weariness. One day at noon she sat in a small restaurant on Broadway, eating a frugal meal of soup and crackers and milk. Her thoughts were running their troubled course. Her funds were very low. Unless she could find work she must return home soon. Counting pennies and practicing petty economies would not help much longer.

"I can't leave without Pat!" Joan thought desperately. "I'll stand in the bread line first!"

Two girls, attractive, self-assured, with the unmistakable stamp of those who earn their own way in the world, sat down at the table. Their animated chatter flowed about Joan. It was Saturday afternoon and the girls were planning to attend a movie.

"Have you seen Norma Shearer at the Capitol?" one of them asked, turning to Joan. "She's swell!"

Joan shook her head. "I've been too busy to see any shows lately." Then on impulse, she asked, "Do you know where I could get a job?"

Both girls stared. "You've got to hustle to grab a job these days," one of them volunteered. "You need a 'never-take-no' look in your eyes. What can you do?"

"I can sing," Joan answered, wondering a little that she felt no resentment at the other's casual manner. She added, "I have coached students preparing for college."

"Heavens!" The exclamation spoke volumes. "Well," the other girl went on. "if you land a job it won't be coaching. Maybe, though, you could be a model. That's what I do—at Himbel's store. And sometimes I pose for snap advertisements. My face isn't my fortune but my arm holding a snow white cake of soap—well, you wouldn't believe it!"

"I don't know," said Joan hesitantly, "If I could do anything like that—"

"Aren't sold on the proposition, are you? Well, you have the right to suit yourself. If you ever want to talk your troubles over, call me up." She drew a card from her purse and scribbled across it.

Joan took the card and read. "Kate Jones, Woodmere Apartments," followed by a telephone number. She thanked the stranger who said, "Forget it! You'd make a swell model. If luck runs away from you, call me."

A week later, frightened by her fast diminishing funds and with the stabbing fear that she must leave New York without finding Pat. Joan took up the telephone and called the number Kate Jones had given her.

Robbery Suspects To Be Questioned

George Eubank, assistant chief of police, and John Croft, patrolman, will go to Clovis, N. M., today to question two men and a woman arrested there as suspects in the bold burglary of two display windows of Grollman's a woman's apparel shop 1015 Broadway. The trio was arrested late Monday on information from Lubbock police.

An automobile, a Ford roadster, believed to have been used to carry away the loot, valued at more than $500 wholesale, also was held by Clovis police, they reported.

The store windows, apart from the store proper, were opened and left bare early Oct. 13. Within the day, Lubbock police began testing a tip, partly corroborated, leading them to suspect the trio arrested Monday in Clovis as having effected the burglary.
