During the football season each year, and I guess the same could be true for basketball, baseball, soccer, hockey, and any other game in which the score tells the story, sports writers, sport casters, and all the other folks that write, show or tell the results of the games are faced with a multitude of really neat ways of sounding really inventive with the head lines.

Things like "Bulldogs tree Bearcats 9-6", or "Indians frostbitten by Blizzards" are okay. But then there are some even stronger descriptive words like slaughter, smash, destroy and more—just let your imagination run wild, we do.

Perhaps the U.I.L. should set forth some strict guidelines about the headlines, or maybe H. Ross Perot and Mark White, the House Bill 72 guys.

Some suggestions for whoever sets out to perform this most important chore would be to set limits on when which descriptive words can be used.

Like maybe, if the difference in scores is only a few points, the sports writer must use very mild words like "Slip by" or "Edge past". The greater the difference in scores, the stronger the words.

One team might "Bomb" another with a score difference of, say, 15 to 20 points. Smash might be a good one here, too, or whip.

A warning, however. In order for words like "Annihilate", or "Slaughter" or the like to be used, the sports reporter must make sure the point spread is 30 or 40 points, or more.

This is one of those areas that, for some reason, has been largely overlooked and needs attention.

Maybe action by Congress would be in order to establish headline guidelines for sports events.

That just might give some of those elected officials something to do besides give themselves huge pay increases every year.

You know, ever so often, I get kinda fed up with the way the so-called competitive, bigger city television news (wish they were super stars) folks handle stories.

In reporting the police beat, nearly all the news hounds take the information leaked or handed to them by the authorities as pure fact. We (news types) just assume that, because the folks giving us the information wear a badge or hold some office like county attorney or district attorney, the person arrested or being tried, really did commit a crime.

Too many times the story gets reported from that stand point. While, most of the time, the facts we are given parallel the investigation and the final verdict in the courtroom, we just might be overlooking something really important.

Overlooked could be the basic premise of our judicial system, that a person is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. At other times, under the guise of in-depth reporting or investigative reporting, the news types in their attempt to impress the rest of the world with their importance, just might violate another of our judicial standards, double jeopardy.

We saw, in the past few weeks and months, a glaring example of such irresponsibility on the part of some of the news media in Abilene.

They reported only what was told them by the county attorney regarding charges filed against the police chief of an Abilene suburb. They didn't

Blizzards put Jim Ned on ice with 26-7 win

Continuing to pick up momentum, the Winters Blizzards upped their season record to 3-1 as they put the Jim Ned Indians away Friday evening with a score of 26-7 and brought Jim Ned's first winning season in several years to a grinding halt.

Winters dominated Jim Ned throughout the game both on the field and in the stats department. The Blizzards tallied 11 first downs to Jim Ned's eight and rushed for a total of 241 yards on the ground and in the air while the Indians were only able to cover 148 yards.

The Blizzards were the first to get on the score board when an Indian punt was returned for 70 yards for the score. The PAT, off the toe of Richard Lett added the extra point.

The second period of play was the only one in which the Blizzards did not make the trip across the goal line.

After intermission, the Blizzards returned to the field to pick up another touchdown with the bonus points. Also, in the third quarter, an 18 yard field goal brought the score to 17 for Winters.

A Jim Ned score in the third quarter, with the extra points got the Indians on the score board to end the period with the score at 17-7.

The Blizzards started the final quarter with a seven yard run on the first play to again reach pay dirt. With the point after, the score stood at 24-7.

Queuing on Indian mistakes midway through the final quarter, the Blizzards sacked the Indian quarterback in the end zone to pick up the final points in the game. The safety came as Jim Ned was attempting to bring the ball out from its own two yard line.

This week, the Blizzards are back on the road again as they go to Stamford for the final non-district game of the season.

It could be that the Blizzards really look into the other side of the issue.

Perhaps it was easier, and more sensational, to do what they did.

Even after an investigation that spanned almost nine months didn't produce enough to convince a jury in a week of costly court time that the real victim of this crime was innocent—the police officer was trying to do his job.

None of the Abilene media was interested in looking beyond what information was provided them. That information (See Wait page 8) will have their hands full with Stamford's Bulldogs who are now 3-1 for the season after shocking Ballinger's Bearcats last Friday with a 9-6 win. That School attendance/funding

There are 893 students currently enrolled in Winters Public Schools for the 1988-89 school year. With allowance for part-time P-K and K students, our membership is 852.

If these 852 students have 98% attendance, the state allots funds of $1,799,190.00 to the Winters ISD.

If attendance falls to only 95% attendance, WISD would receive $1,725,036.00, or a loss of $54,154.00.

If attendance dropped even loss dropped Ballinger's record to 2-2 for the season.

Winters and Stamford will face off at 8:00 p.m. Friday in Stamford.

lower to only 92% daily attendance, then Winters ISD would experience a $108,467.00 loss in funding, receiving $1,670,723.00.

You can easily see that our school district loses money daily through school absences.

As a parent interested in your children's education, and as a taxpayer concerned with tax dollars, you will want to have your children in school each day. The accounting period for school attendance will be the entire month of October.

Gray, Captain Gray had a number of firsts to his credit. He was the first American to land on the Pacific Northwest shores in Tillamook Bay, August 14, 1788; the first American to circumnavigate the globe; the builder of the first American ship on the Pacific Coast and the discoverer of the Columbia River, which opened a veritable empire to exploration.

The interest of a group of Boston men in the possibilities of trade on the Pacific was aroused by the accounts of the English explorer, Captain James Cook. These men, the owners of the vessel "Pacific" engaged in the South Carolina trade and of which Robert Gray was the captain. To carry out their plans the promoters of the fur enterprises engaged Captain John Kendrick of the Merchant Marines, as commander of the expedition aboard the Columbia and Capt. Robert Gray in command of the sloop Lady Washington.

Somewhere, westward of the Horn, the two ships became separated and Capt. Gray sailed on alone. Later the ship arrived at a point now known as Tillamook Bay, and preparations were made to find safe anchorage. Water for drinking purposes was needed; it was necessary to take ill members of the crew ashore; plus firewood for the ship must be secured and the livestock aboard needed hay.

Hence the rowboat was launched and the Lady Washington was only about 75 land miles from the mouth of the great river of the west. It was almost four years, however, before he would discover it on his second voyage to the northwest coast. Later, at Nootka Sound, Capt. Kendrick gave orders to Capt. Gray to take the Columbia and sail on to China to deliver the furs. On July 30, 1789 he sailed from Vancouver Island stopping at Hawaii and arriving in China December 1789 for delivery of his cargo. Not until February, 1790 did he sail from China bound for home. Sailing skillfully and daringly he rounded the Cape of Good Hope, touched at St. Helena, and sailed into Boston Harbor, August 11, 1790, thus being the first American to carry the American flag around the world.

It was Capt. Gray's second voyage aboard the Columbia that he, while wintering in Nootka Sound, built the "Adventure", the first American vessel built on the Pacific. After its launching on February 23, 1792 Gray began searching for the elusive river many men believed must be in the vicinity somewhere. In May 1792 Gray saw the mouth of a river of fresh water. His unrelenting efforts were rewarded at last. He had found the River of the West. Eight days after his discovery, when he had satisfied himself with proof of the achievement Capt. Gray formerly named the river "Columbia."

When the representatives of Great Britain and the United States met in 1826 to make settlements concerning rights to the territories in the Northwest, our claims to the lands were argued on three grounds, the most important of which was founded on Gray's discovery of the Columbia River.

Captain Robert Gray—200 years later

One of the highlights of my visit with Jeannine in Tillamook, Oregon was our attendance of the Captain Robert Gray Historical Pageant, a musical production celebrating the bicentennial of Gray's discovery of Tillamook Bay.

The pageant was sponsored by the Historical Society with the cooperation of the Performing Arts Association, and directors also.

A crew from Tillamook Bay Community College got into the act by building a fifteen-foot replica of Captain Gray's sloop, the Lady Washington. Plans called for the float to be towed to the fair grounds around town once, then retired to the college lawn for promotion of the Captain Gray Pageant.

Those plans were changed when people saw the sloop. Everyone wanted a chance to use her, including the Historical Society, the Chamber of Commerce, and two more parades.

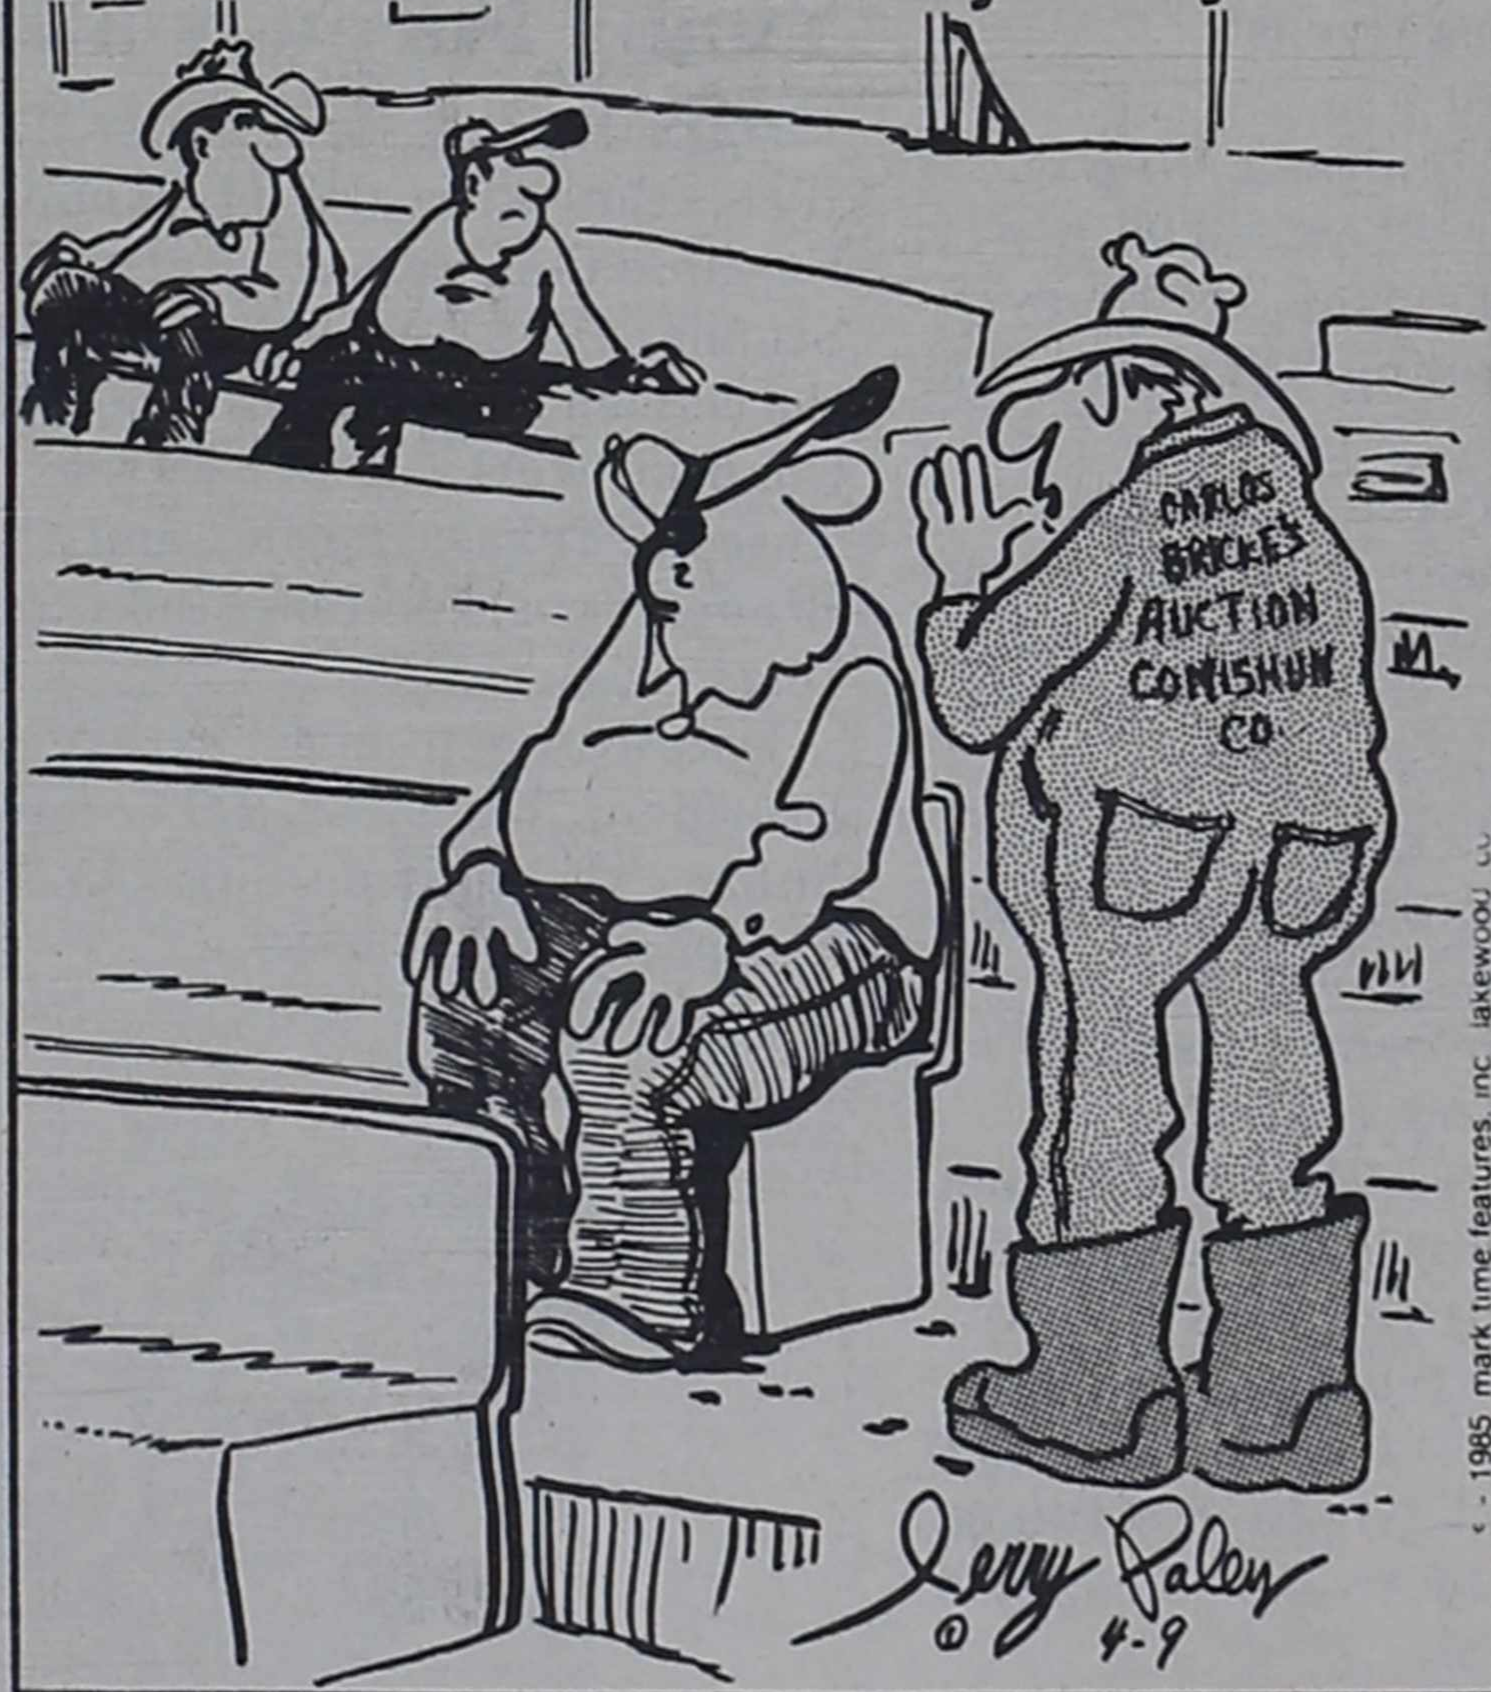

Lady Washington is a vessel that has served far beyond the call of duty. She has been viewed by approximately 12,000 people and has traveled nearly 50 times the distance originally planned. She is now resting in her home port at Community College.

In the early years of America's history there were heroes in the forming of our nation. Some have not been fully accredited by our historians, one of whom was Captain Robert

Nursing Home News

by Billie R. Bishop

We have a new banner for the Bingo Champ. Mary Esquivel painted the banner in a very colorful flair. We're just real proud of it and it has hung on Curtis Morrison's door two times in a row. We think Curtis is attached to it, but he'd better watch out, right folks?

Our hearts are saddened at the passing of one of our dear residents and friends. Mrs. Flora Burton passed away Monday night in North Runnels Hospital in Winters. Flora was loved by all who knew her and she will truly be missed. Our sympathy goes out to her family.

We extend our sympathy also to one of our residents, Inez Danford, in the death of her son. Inez we love you.

Annie Mayo has been in North Runnels Hospital, but is back in her room here at the Nursing Home. Welcome back Annie!

Mike Krause is still in North Runnels Hospital at the time of this writing. We miss you Mike. We hope you come back soon.

To all who have volunteered their time and efforts we say "Thank You". We appreciate all our volunteers.

Olfen Festival set for October 9

The small rural farming and ranching community of Olfen in the southern part of Runnels County was settled in the early 1890's and a church and school combination building was constructed in 1901 to meet the religious and education needs of the community. A second church was built in 1910 and it burned in 1922. A new brick church was then erected and the annual Fall Festival was started to help pay for the construction and maintenance of the church. The community combined their efforts and the annual event of a fall festival was started and has been continued.

This year the Festival is scheduled for Sunday, October 9, 1988, in the remodeled hall facility. The big attraction again will be the noon meal and will consist of homemade sausage (prepared by the men of the community) as well as the traditional turkey, dressing, homemade pies and cakes (prepared by the ladies of the community). Serving will start at 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

During the day visitors may shop at the Country Store for a variety of homemade items and crafts. Fish pond, washer pitching, games and other booths are available for all ages to enjoy. There will be an auction beginning at 2:30 p.m. Cotton

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright

Virginia Plumley and Robert Wright Wed

Miss Virginia Plumley and Mr. Robert (Bob-O) Wright exchanged wedding vows Wednesday, September 21, 1988 at 8:30 p.m. in the Wilmet Baptist Church. The Reverend Gayland Broadstreet, pastor, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Plumley of Wilmet and Mrs. Dale Wright of Ballinger and the late R. R. Wright.

Nine-point candelabra holding cathedral candles with yellow roses and English ivy decorated the altar. Music was provided by organist, Nina Rodriguez of Ballinger.

The bride wore a full length satin gown overlaid with Valenciennes lace and seed pearls. The gown featured a Queen Ann neckline with a gored skirt gathered onto a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and was accented with a wide band of lace at the hemline and a chapel train. The bride wore a headband of white silk flowers and pearls to which the fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached. The bride's gown and veil were creations of the bride's mother.

Amy Halfmann, maid of honor, wore a tea length gown of pale yellow dotted swiss, featuring a rounded neckline, accented with a satin sash. Both the bride

Pre-Schoolers learn about autumn

The Lutheran Pre-School has completed their first month of school. It has been an exciting month for the 41 children enrolled. We have learned about autumn, by studying the changing leaves on a nature walk; we and her attendant carried silk rose bouquets fashioned by the bride.

The groom's attire was a black western-style suit.

Serving as best man was Don Johnston of Ballinger, who was also dressed in a black suit.

Serving as ushers were Steve Plumley of Winters, brother of the bride, and Ronnie Wegner of Lubbock.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was linen laid and centered with a three tiered wedding cake, a confection prepared by Mrs. D. J. Goetz of Winters. The cake was adorned with yellow roses, lace streamers, pearls and topped with traditional wedding bells.

The bride, a graduate of Winters High School is employed by Keel Drug of Ballinger. The groom, a Ballinger High School graduate, attended San Angelo State University and is employed by Higginbotham Brothers and Company of Ballinger.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Buchanan, the couple will be at home at 206 Fourth Street in Ballinger.

New travel guide available

Charging, splashing, larger-than-life mustangs have greeted visitors to Las Colinas, near Dallas, for years. Now, the majestic sculpture also brands the cover of Texas, an all-new travel guide just released by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Don Clark of the department's Travel and Information Division called the new book "a comprehensive travel guide to the Lone Star State." He said it will be a primary tool for increasing tourism to and within Texas.

"We know what Texas deserves," said Clark, "and we've been aiming at this for five years—the finest state travel guide ever produced in the United States."

"Clark concluded, "The Lone Star is on the rise again!" The 248-page book was released to 500 travel industry professionals at the Texas Travel Summit in San Antonio. Rita Clements, chairperson of the Texas Tourism Advisory Committee, received a special first-edition copy.

With more than 600 color pictures and descriptive text, the book is designed to inspire explorations of the great ranches of Texas. Keyed to grid codes of Texas' official highway travel map, the book's lavish details describe museums and historical sites, recreational opportunities at state and national parks, lakes and coastal beaches, and public tours of caverns and Texas wineries.

The book pictures bustling cities, eerie ghost towns, desert dunes, soaring mountains, and moss-draped wildlife sanctuaries in every corner of the state. Special bonus sections deal with Texas flowers, birds, climate and fresh-and saltwater fishing. Travelers will also find tidbits about Texas history and folklore, little-known Texas facts, and travel into Mexico.

The new Texas State Travel Guide joins a family of travel-planning literature produced by the highway department.

From A Goldfish Bowl

By Pastor Steve Byrne

Last Friday I was driving my pick-up from Winters to Fort Worth for a meeting on Saturday. I was thinking about all kinds of things. I had two hospital visits to make while I was in Cowtown. I would get a chance to visit with my sister since I would be spending Friday night with her before my Saturday morning meeting.

It was just the other side of Eastland on I-20 that my thoughts gave way to the sense of sight. It was overwhelming and took my thoughts by surprise.

The folks who designed that stretch of highway must have appreciated the natural beauty of west-central Texas. An Expanse of grass lay all around. The wide expanse in the median. Even larger expanse of grass on the gently sloping hill that rolled from my lane to the service road.

It was green from the recent rains. Not brown like it had been this summer. You wouldn't notice dead grass; you certainly wouldn't be overwhelmed by it. But a beautiful expanse of green, spreading evenly, gently, majestically. From asphalt to pasture. It made me feel that I was wrapped in velvet. I took a breath and slowed down my heartbeat and my mind's activity a little bit, even if I didn't slow the pick-up down measurably from my 65 mph pace.

The grass looked dead this summer as I travelled past it on several occasions. But a little rain and it comes back to life.

The contrast. The surprise. The transformation. It got my attention. When I see life coming out of seeming death, I suppose it always gets my attention one way or the other.

Jesus. His death and resurrection. Life coming from death. That was God's way of getting our attention. Overwhelming the people He loves with such majesty, beauty and surprise that we have no choice but to notice. Even if we are going 65 on the Interstate, with a thousand and one other things on our minds.

May God never cease to surprise us with his gentle (and sometimes not so gentle) reminders that out of death comes life. It puts long drives and longer meetings into perspective. And gives hope. And peace. And helps us breathe a little easier and maybe a little slower.

8th Grade Defeats Jim Ned

The Winters 8th grade football team defeated Jim Ned 16-0 last Thursday. Winters was led by Albert Bernal who scored once on a 30 yard run, and also threw a touchdown pass. Winters took the opening kickoff and marched the ball downfield and scored on Bernal's touchdown run. David Roman ran in the two point conversion to make the score 8-0. In the second quarter, Winters again went on another scoring drive. It was completed when Ricardo Rangel caught a Bernal pass which was tipped by Josh Bahlman, for a 15 yard scoring strike. David Roman again ran the two point conversion to make the score 16-0.

In the second half the Winters defense continued to shine. "I thought we played very well today," stated Coach Chuck Cathey after the game. "Today we showed much more intensity than we did last week." "The kids, I think, decided that football was fun and as long as we will continue to work hard we will be successful."

Winters evens it's record 1-1 after last weeks opening loss to Hamlin.

This week the 8th grade entertains Stamford at the Blizzards field on Thursday at 6:00.

Commended Student in 1989 Merit Program

Winters High School has been notified by National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) that James M. Willtrout has been designated a Commended Student in the 1989 National Merit Scholarship Program. The principal, Michael Grantham, announced today that this senior placed in the top 50,000 of more than one million participants in the 34th annual Merit Program and will receive a Letter of Commendation in recognition of outstanding academic promise.

An official of NMSC stated, "Being named a Commended Student in the extremely competitive Merit Program is a credit to these young men and women and the schools which play a key role in the development of academically talented youth. We hope the recognition these students have earned will increase their motivation to use their abilities to the fullest, for they represent an important intellectual resource which our nation needs."

The over one million participants in the current Merit Program entered the competition by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October 1987 as high school juniors. Although their qualifying test scores are very high, the 35,000 young people throughout the nation who are Commended Students scored slightly below the level required for Semifinalist standing in their respective states. Only the 15,000 Semifinalists, whose names announced on September 15, will continue in the competition for some 6,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1989.

Girl Scouts take the lead

Girl Scouts of Winters are preparing for another year of fun and challenges in learning to "take the lead" as future leaders of their local community, state and nation. During the past year, over 55 girls and adults have been active in Girl Scouting in Winters, with four troops and many individual members participating. Their activities included: field trips, troop-campouts, attending council-wide events and playdays, participating in the annual cookie sale, learning new skills, attending summer camp and having lots of fun.

The women and men who volunteer to lead Girl Scout troops are making substantial investments in our community. They are stepping in to see that our girls do not become part of the growing group of young people abusing alcohol and drugs, dropping out of school, facing unemployment and giving up on life by committing suicide.

Girl Scout leaders form key partnerships with girls. They help girls realize their worth, develop sound values and decision-making skills, and turn potentially destructive behavior into positive action. These leaders invest time and support. Girls gain self-confidence and begin exploring their future roles as women. With their personal lives in focus, girls move on to become responsible citizens and make valuable contributions to society.

A good investment pays out dividends for many years. The investment of a Girl Scout leader helps ensure a positive future for girls and for our community and it gives volunteers the benefit of knowing that they have helped mold tomorrow's leaders.

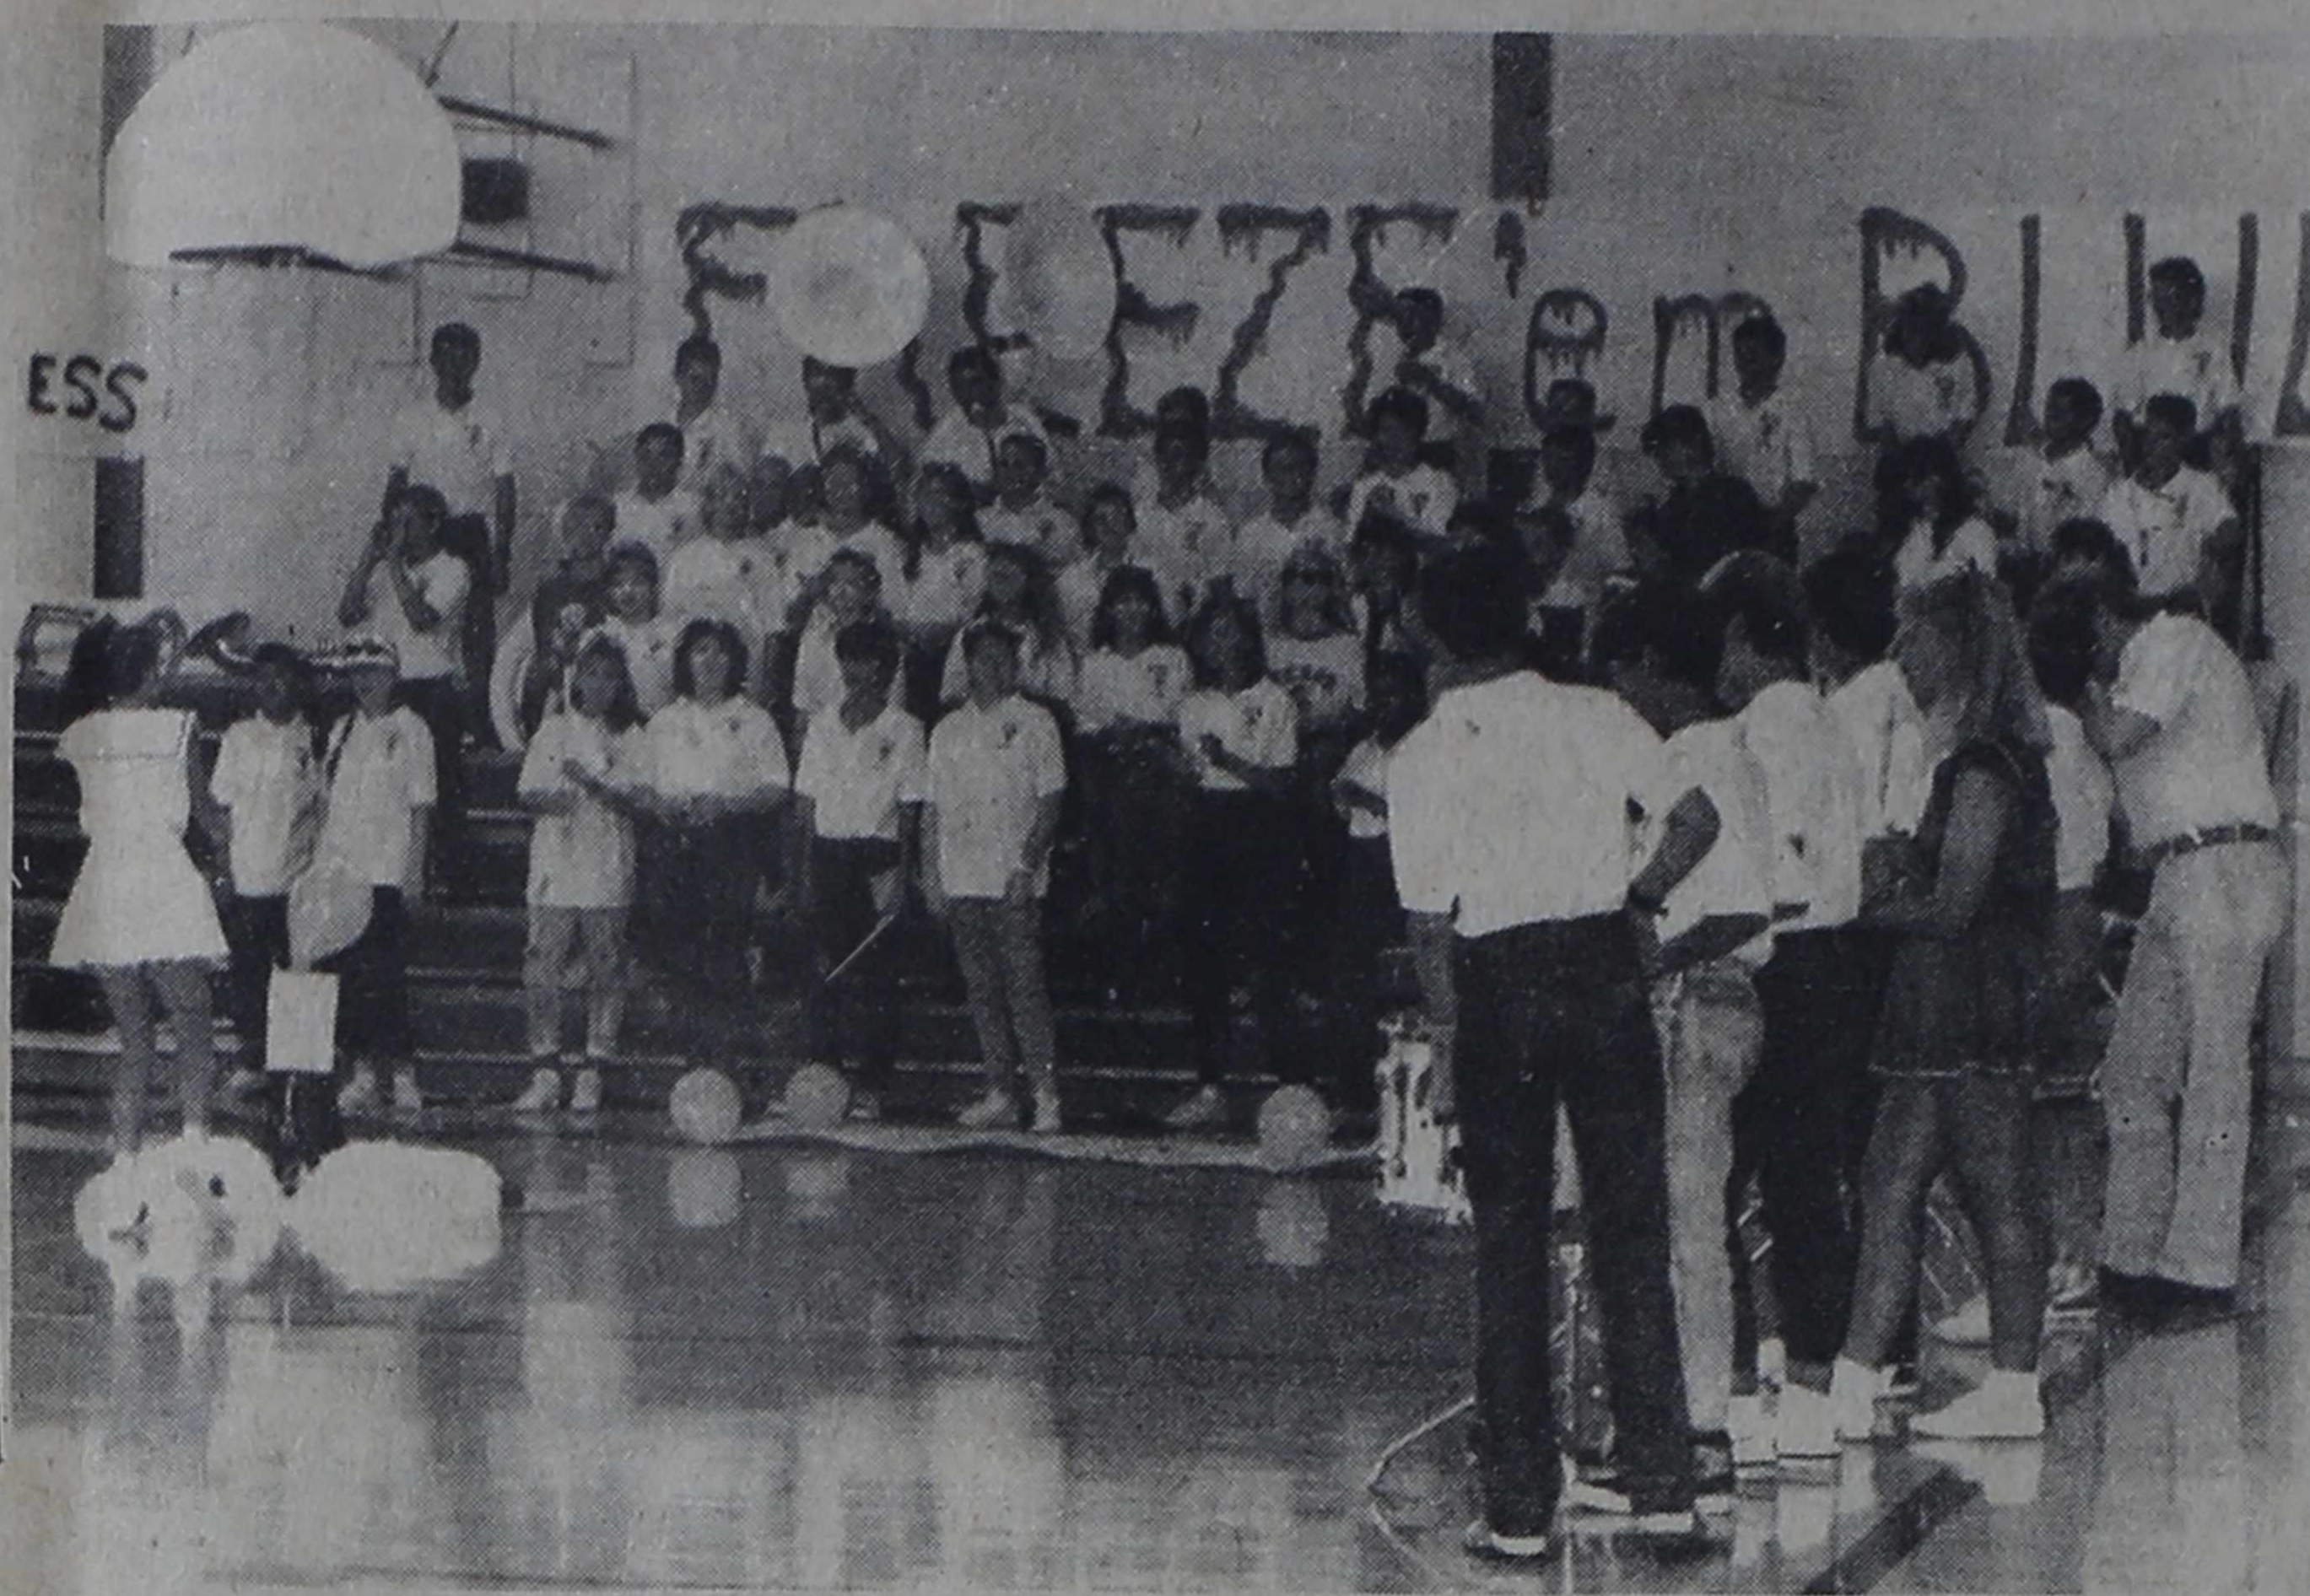

Sound investments promise high returns with a minimum of risk. Girl Scouting is one sure investment that yields excellent benefits for girls and their communities, requiring only an enthusiastic commitment of time and talent.

A Girl Scout program is open to all girls ages five through seventeen. As troops begin their fall activities in Winters, girls and adults who might be interested in joining the fun of Girl Scouting are encouraged to contact the Heart of Texas Girl Scout Council, 915-646-1516 for more information.

tion was not questioned. No one was interested in whether, or not, the whole thing was a smoke screen, to divert attention away from those that were so anxious to prosecute the officer.

Not only that, but after the jury found Chief Young innocent of all charges, one television station, KTXS, continued for another 24 hours with interviews that were so lacking in accurate information they were not called as witnesses in court as well as allegations that were without basis.

Perhaps, we as journalists and reporters, should look beyond the end of our noses.

The 4-H Program

No one can question the fact that young people are the future of American, and the 4-H program is continuing to play a vital role in preparing youth for the future by providing training in leadership, citizenship and coping skills.

Thus the theme for the upcoming National 4-H Week October 28 "4-H for Youth for America," points to its country's richest resource, its young people.

"Through 4-H we try to provide youth with opportunities to learn and experience what life has to offer," said H. T. "Tom" Davison, assistant director for 4-H and youth programs with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service is the parent organization of the 4-H program, an informal, out-of-school educational program for youth from the third grade to 19 years of age.

"We also lay the groundwork to help 4-H members explore opportunities for personal growth and to gain skills that will be useful in later life," Davison said. "In addition, 4-H helps youth to deal with stress and self-esteem and to learn to help others. We like to say that 4-H takes up where school leaves off. We offer experiential education."

Texas boasts some 388,000 4-H members; nationwide, 4-H is more than 4.5 million members strong and is the nation's largest youth organization. More 4-H members today live in suburbs and cities of more than 50,000 population.

Recent research shows that former 4-Hers are more likely to assume community leadership, political and other citizenship roles than people who participated in other youth organizations. "4-H membership teaches youth that the community and giving to the community are important," said Davison.

Vital to the 4-H program are volunteer leaders.

"Volunteer leaders are the backbone of the 4-H program as they provide the organizational leadership for local 4-H clubs as well as training and resources in a host of subject-matter areas," said the 4-H official.

Almost 620,000 volunteer leaders support the 4-H program nationwide, with more than 30,000 of those in Texas. The time, travel and support contributed by these volunteer leaders across the U.S. is estimated to have a value of more than $1 billion a year.

Looking at the 4-H program in Texas, Davison said that the most popular project area is foods and nutrition. Other projects that attract large numbers of 4-Hers include energy, embryology, health (eye care) and safety.

The number of 4-H clubs and special interest groups in the state totals more than 3,300.
