Death Date Is A Celebration Day

(By The Associated Press)

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., March 30.—By a coincidence the anniversary of the death of Theodore Roosevelt has been made a sort of Christmas holiday in Porto Rico by order of the late president's son, now governor there.

"Three Kings Day" hereafter will be a legal holiday in Porto Rico, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., having signed a bill designating January 6 as the day for its observance.

Porto Ricans have observed "Three Kings Day" as a time of gift-giving and festival for a century.

New Rail Line Will Furnish Hundreds Work

Actual Construction Of Gulf And West Texas Railway Is Begun; Connects Panhandle With Gulf Ports

(By Associated Press)

FREDERICKSBURG, March 30.—Construction of the Gulf and West Texas Railway, which will give Fredericksburg a through railroad and connect the Texas Panhandle with the port of Corpus Christi, was begun near here today under supervision of the Southern Pacific railroad, which acquired the Gulf and West Texas permit.

The initial project consists of construction of an overpass at the intersection of highway 20-A, two miles west of Fredericksburg. Another overpass will be built at the intersection with highway 9, near Fredericksburg, according to R. W. Barnes, chief engineer, while work of building the grade will start within a few weeks, or as soon as all the right-of-way is obtained.

Work For Hundreds

About 20 men were engaged on the project started today, but work will be available for hundreds after the right-of-way is settled, Barnes said.

Cost of constructing the new line will cost in excess of $6,000,000, H. M. Lull, executive vice-president of the Southern Pacific, stated.

New track will be laid from Fredericksburg to Brady to connect with present lines now entering those places. Existing lines, south from Fredericksburg and west from Brady, to be used by Gulf and West Texas trains will be rebuilt with rails sufficient to accommodate the heavy traffic the new line expects to draw, Lull said.

Plains Fruit Crop Damaged By Blizzards

Reports From Agricultural Authorities Indicate That Chances Of Bountiful Crop Are Diminished

Mercury Declines

Following Cold Wave Of Last Week, Thermometers Again Register Low Temperatures Throughout Monday

MONDAY'S severe weather following so closely on the heels of the storms of Thursday and Friday of last week, was expected to further diminish chances of a bountiful fruit crop on the plains.

Monday's temperatures ranged from a maximum of 43 to a minimum of 30 degrees.

Consensus last night was that what little early fruit there might be left after last week's low temperatures, would be destroyed by the storm, which began Monday. All blooming fruits were so severely damaged that there is no hope of their blooming again.

Ray Of Hope

The one ray of hope left, according to all reports, is the fact that grapes,apples and pears have not begun to show signs of swelling buds. A few of the late bearing cherries also were included in the fruits that may bear.

"All the apricots, peaches and a large part of the cherries have been destroyed by the freezes we have had," C. H. Mahoney, of the horticulture department at Texas Technological college, said last night. Most of the California or Japanese cherries and the hybrid cherries also have been destroyed. Some of the late cherries, that have not begun to show color may be all right. I can cannot say as to them."

Eaton Gives Report

D. F. Eaton, county agent, made a strikingly similar report. He said he believed that the plums would be saved unless an additional freeze came. Likewise, the big cherries will probably make a crop. "All early bearing fruits have been frozen out," he added. "I believe that we will get some grapes, apples and

Dr. C. E. Collins Shot While Talking With Sheriff; Lynn County Farmer Held In Jail

One Shot, Piercing The Heart, Fired From .38 Calibre Pistol; No One Knows Cause Of Trouble Between Two Men But Family Affairs Hinted By Close Friends

(Special To The Avalanche)

O'DONNELL, March 30.—Dr. C. E. Collins, about 45, prominent O'Donnell physician, was shot through the heart while standing in front of a local hotel about 8:30 tonight. He died instantly.

A farmer living near here was arrested at the scene of the shooting by Sheriff B. L. Parker of Lynn county, who was standing only a few feet from Dr. Collins when the shooting occurred. The man was taken to Tahoka and lodged in the Lynn county jail. Preliminary hearing is scheduled to be held Tuesday morning at 9:30.

Only One Shot Is Fired

Only one shot was fired, it taking effect in the physician's heart. The gun was a .38 calibre.

Sheriff Parker, who was standing immediately behind Dr. Collins, said the farmer, who did the shooting, was only about ten feet away. The bullet did not go clear through the physician's body, its point just barely breaking the skin in the back.

The victim is survived by his widow, from whom he was said to have been estranged for the past several years, a daughter, Dorothy and a son Charles, 27, of Amarillo. The widow and daughter are in California. The son was notified of his death.

The doctor had lived in O'Donnell for the past seven or eight years, being engaged in his practice during that time. His widow had never lived here.

Although no one knows definitely except the parties involved, it was stated here tonight that family trouble was the cause of the shooting. There had been no previous trouble between the two men.

Sheriff Parker declared there were no words between the two men prior to the shooting and that no warning was given by the farmer as he opened fire.

Funeral arrangements were not announced, pending the arrival of the son here Tuesday.

Questions Are Turned Aside By Fred Burke

Officers Glean But Little In Attempts To Make Alleged Killer Talk; Fights "A Tight Case"

(By The Associated Press)

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 30.—Fred Burke, termed the nation's most desperate killer, set out today to fight "a tight case."

That was his description of the Michigan murder charge which brought "the most dangerous man alive" back from Missouri.

He took the first step by refusing to waive preliminary examination. Justice of the Peace Joseph Collier bound him over to April 3 when he must show why the state could not hold him for the slaying of traffic policeman Charles Skelly.

Is Stolidly Silent

Stolidly silent, Burke indicated only in court he would plead not guilty to the count which might send him to Jackson prison for life.

Later, a deputy sheriff asked him a random question about the shooting.

"That's a serious matter," he snapped back. "I don't want to talk about it. They've got a tight case against me here."

Others Bob Up

Other "serious matters" bobbed up. Chicago detectives, who wanted him for the St. Valentine's day massacre, gave up their investigation but in the afternoon Capt. Patrick McVeigh and Sergt. Michael McNamara of New York city arrived to question him about the slaying

Nancy Palmer, Charged With Murder, Released Monday On $500 Bond To Await Action Of Grand Jury

Nancy Palmer, 38-year-old negress, charged with murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of her husband, Ed Palmer, 43, Sunday night, was released of $500 bond at noon Monday.

Palmer died with a severed jugular vein at the Lubbock sanitarium 15 minutes after being attacked by his wife.

The stabbing occurred shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday night between the walk and the curb in front of 1511 Broadway. A resident called the police and ambulance and Palmer was taken immediately to the hospital.

Police officers took the woman into custody at the hospital, where she had followed her dying husband.

Tells Of Fight

Following her arrest the woman said her husband first had the knife, that he struck her, she took the knife from him and stabbed him, according to Chief of Police John Lemond. Hospital attaches reported that Palmer's jugular vein was severed, when he was stabbed in the right side of the neck, and that he also received a small wound in the back. The knife was a long

Fate Of Jean Dayle, Young Ex-Cabaret Singer, With Jury

SALT LAKE CITY, March 30. (AP)—The fate of Jean Dayle, youthful ex-cabaret singer, rested tonight in the hands of the jury which for nearly two weeks has been hearing evidence in her trial for the murder of Sam Frank, Memphis jewelry auctioneer.

The jury retired at 6:25 p. m., after more than seven hours of arguments by counsel, during which Samuel A. King, chief defense counsel, demanded the jury either send the defendant to face a firing squad or the hangman's noose or acquit her.

New York Fears Mystery Killer

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—For the second time in less than three days a part of a human body has been found in the vicinity of the Williamsburg bridge connecting Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Workmen in a lumber yard today found a portion of a torso. It had been severed from the rest of the body by a saw, an ax or a knife. The medical examiner could not be certain which.

Last Friday night a woman's thigh was found at the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg bridge. The medical examiner today said it was unlikely that the two parts came from the same body, one reason being that the body from which the section of torso was cut had been dead not more than 48 hours. It appeared to have been from the right side of a powerfully built man.

Oil Proration Looming Today

Present Proration Order Will Expire Wednesday; Limit Of Between 656,000 And 686,000 Barrels Recommended

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 30.—R. D. Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, spent the day working on his recommendation to the commission on proration of the state and of the new oil area in East Texas.

David Donoghue of Fort Worth, technical adviser of the central proration committee, conferred with Parker. The committee had recommended limiting the state's output for the next six months to between 656,000 and 686,000 barrels daily and that of East Texas to between 50,000 and 70,000 barrels daily. The maximum would be reached August 1.

The railroad commission did not say it would make its order but it was considered likely the order would be issued tomorrow. The present order, allowing 643,000 barrels daily, exclusive of the East Texas area, which has not been prorated, expires at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Tex Is Visited

Home Night Club Queen Looted

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 30.—Tex Guinan called for handcuffs instead of hands today.

She discovered that her home in West Eighth street had been entered and ransacked overnight. Various dew-dads were missing. The night club queen, whose slogan is "Give the little girls a hand," estimated the loot was worth from $3,500 to $4,000, and she tabulated it thus

One horse, diamond-studded with ruby eyes, the gift of the late Senator William A. Clark, Montana copper king.

One diamond-studded police badge, presented by Long Beach police after she gave a benefit show.

One gold mesh bag, supposedly donated by the late Miss Ella V. Von E. Wendel, $100,000,000 heiress.

One set diamond cuff links.

Texas said a racketeer visited her recently and demanded $500. She thinks the two events are connected.

Senate Amends Highway Issue

Original Resolution All But Supplanted By New Measure Proposing $212,000,000 For Vote Consideration

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 30.—The senate today amended the $200,000,000 road bond issue resolution six times and recessed with other amendments pending.

The original resolution was all but supplanted by a new one proposing a bond issue of $212,000,000 as the senate adopted an amendment by Senator Moore of Greenville to let counties voting bonds between 1907 and 1917 for state highways purposes participate in the state refunding plan.

Almost in one-two-three-four order the senate adopted amendments limiting $100,000,000 to actual highway construction, proposing to send one fourth of the gasoline tax into the public school funds, to remove real and personal property far distant from liability or a lien under the amendment and making the motor license fees available in payment of the bonds.

Colorado Pays Tribute Today To Storm Dead

School Bells To Be Stilled, Stores To Close And Citizens To Attend Joint Services For Victims

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLY, Colo., March 30.—Side by side, the bodies of five school children and the heroic driver of the Towner, Colo., school bus, who perished in a blizzard last week will lie in state tomorrow as the community pays tribute.

School bells will be stilled and business houses closed and virtually every one in this section of southeastern Colorado will attend joint funeral services. Four Holly ministers will officiate.

Father And Daughter

Near the casket of Carl Miller, the bus driver, will be that of his daughter, Mary, one of the children who died when the bus stalled in the blinding storm. After remaining with the children for many hours, Miller realized he must get aid or all would perish. In the driving storm, after dawn Friday morning, he started out. Struggling on for more than three miles he at last fell exhausted in a corn field only a short distance from a farm house.

In the bus while Miller was making his effort to reach aid, 20 children faced death. Warned by the driver they must keep awake, the older children played games and engaged in boxing contests to keep their blood in circulation. Several gave part of their clothing to smaller companions.

Fifteen children who survived the tragedy are in the hospital at Lamar, Colo., making a gallant fight for life. Physicians say all probably will recover.

State Closes Lingle Trial

Without Disclosing Startling Revelations, State Counsel Confident That Lingle's Slayer Is Identified

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 30 — The state abruptly rested its murder case against Leo Brothers today, confident it had proved who killed Jake Lingle, Tribune crime reporter, and making no attempt to show a motive. None of the startling revelations of gangland activities so confidently expected by many, no hint of the mysterious life of the Tribune reporter, no reason why anyone should want to kill him, had been disclosed.

The prosecution took only five days to present its case. One witness identified Brothers as the man he saw in the Randolph street pedestrian tunnel when Lingle was killed last June 9, and said Brothers tossed a pistol near the reporter's body. He said he did not see the shot fired. Six other persons saw a man run from the tunnel. Some chased him a short distance, and identified Brothers as "fitting the description," "looking like the man," or positively being the same man.

Fitts Threatens "Al" But Gets Laugh From Chicago Gangster

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Jail shadows, not Klieg lights, await Scarface Al Capone in Los Angeles. So says Burton Fitts, district attorney.

"His emissaries came to me while I was in Chicago last week saying a Hollywood motion picture company offered Capone a million dollars to appear in a film here," said Fitts.

Fitts said they asked what he would do. He replied he would jail the gangland chief the minute he set foot in Los Angeles county.

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 30 — Alphonse "Scarface Al" Capone, dismissed with a laugh tonight reports from Los Angeles he had been offered a million dollars to become a movie actor.

"There is," he said, "no deal on for a picture."

"Mr. Fitts as a district attorney is a good press agent. He seems to be more interested in movies than in crime.

"If there were—but there isn't a deal on for a picture, I would go to California and not care whether I saw Mr. Fitts or not."

Committee Reports And Talks On "Visions" Heard At Union Meeting

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THE opinions Miss Dorothy Gandine has of us interested me immensely. She is English and this winter is teaching in the San Antonio schools as an exchange teacher through a plan fostered by the English Speaking Union and the American Association of University Women. Saturday afternoon I had the privilege of drinking a cup of tea and listening to her talk while we were guests of Miss Jonnie McCrery at the Tech practice house.

* * *

Had she said nothing of interest, she would have fascinated me just the same for her English accent—which I like to believe is somewhat typical—her mannerisms and dress. There are so many ways of saying words and so many slight differences in accents and inflections given to words.

* * *

The trend of conversation centered about educational methods as those are the things in which Miss Gandine is most interested. But with it all she had such a spontaneity of opinion and expression.

* * *

She was flattered that she, a woman, should be given an audience—that people should listen to her talk so willingly.

* * *

Our women's clubs have interested her for the very number and aims. Even the University Women do not receive the recognition in England that they are given in America, and an English woman belongs to no more than one club, if she is affiliated with any, Miss Gandine says.

* * *

There are lots of tennis clubs and when one moves to a new town the first thought is to join the proper club in order to assure destrable acquaintanceships, she said.

* * *

The lack of outdoor life for women, particularly, is something she deplores among Americans. She feels that we are missing so much in hikes, tennis and other recreations, and feels that this may be due to some extent to co-education which has a tendency to place emphasis on sports among men and retard them among women. When she came to America, Miss Gandine felt that she was entirely in favor of co-education but now she is not so sure of it. In England it is not a common thing at all even for pre-collegiate.

* * *

American girls seem so much older for their years than English girls and have considerably more sophistication, she says, comparing the girls of 13 years. This, too, may be due to co-education here, she says. As to the tendency of modern parents to let children shift for themselves instead of sheltering them, as was done a generation ago, she thinks that this is not confined to America but is customary in England as well.

* * *

Miss Gandine was practically anxious to see a sandstorm while in Lubbock as she had heard so much about them. My impression was that she believed sand blows here continuously. When someone suggested that she must be enjoying our Texas sunshine this winter she explained that in England the sun shines, too—that it is not always rainy and foggy, as we are prone to believe from this distance.

* * *

I was tremendiously interested in what she thinks of our dress but since I was only one guest, and everyone else was comparing educational methods there was no opportunity to ask. However, Miss Gandine wore cotton hose with all of the aplomb any of us could assume with our silks. Haven't we all heard for many years that the English are better dressed than we, in that they are more appropriately clad? It seems that I have been told that the English wear sports clothes for sports, street clothes for shopping and never dress until the occasion demands, when they appear beautifully and meticulously gowned.

THE FEDERATION, AGAIN

RECENTLY someone was wondering why this column is always sponsoring the City Federation of Women's clubs.

* * *

That is because I think it is a useful organization in a town having as many individual societies as Lubbock has. As a sort of melting pot for ideas and projects, a city union seems an advisable sort of thing and I had thought it would be useful as a central society in entertaining the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here next fell. The promotion was a sort of effort to prevent dissolution for it seems that if the Federation does not continue there will be a latter effort to revive it or to form some other sort of union among the club women.

* * *

Keeping this one functioning seemed more advisable to me than an effort to organize another.

* * *

However, another meeting date has passed with no meeting. The weather was too bad for the women to gather, the president pointed out, but Friday's weather was not prohibitive and no other local clubs were postponed because of it. Those who are accustomed to being out felt no hesitancy about leaving their homes on Friday so there must have been a lack of incentive for attendance at the meeting.

* * *

If any sort of program was prepared, no mention was made of it for the Avalanche and Journal made several efforts to get a notice of the program during last week to inform the club women about what to expect.

* * *

Only after several months of ineffectual support, no more effort is going to be made to revive the organization throught this channel. The Federation is not functioning, as I see it, and it might just as well be officially disbanded.

Church Federation Meets For First Time This Year Monday; Is To Meet Three More Times

Miss Jo Wilder Is Speaker On Theme Of "Visions"; Mrs. Fred Sparks Named Union Secretary

Church women of the city gathered at the First Baptist auditorium Monday afternoon for the first meeting of the Church Women's Federation during the current year. The program theme was "Visitors" and a talk was made, in addition to the business session, which consumed most of the afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. Hankins, president, was in the chair for the business session. Mrs. Fred W. Sparks was elected secretary of the organization to succeed Mrs. R. A. Mills, who resigned.

Mrs. A. T. Biggers, chairman of the welfare committee, called on various sub-chairmen for reports. Mrs. Temple Ellis, head of the hospital committee, stated that the federation has paid for eight tonsilectomies during the year and paid the bill for fitting of glasses on a child.

Foster Girls' Society

Mrs. J. J. Clements is chairman of mission work and her report was read by Mrs. R. D. Moxley. It stated that the committee is fostering Camp Fire work among girls in the Sanders school.

The report on civic work was prepared by Mrs. W. B. Price and, in her absence, read by Mrs. Biggers. The resolution of thanks to the Board of City Development for its sponsorship of the clean-up campaign in the city, which was recently drawn up by the Lubbock Garden club, was read and the women voted to endorse it.

Mrs. John Dalrymple reports that ten needy families in the city have been visited weekly by women from the Federation since the first of the year, and the organization has aided the United Charities in caring for them.

Mrs. Hankins told of the establishment of a ways and means committee with Mrs. E. J. Parsons as chairman, assisted by Mesdames George Simmons and Hub Jones.

Mrs. Wilson Presides

The Federation voted to co-operate with the Ministers' Association in asking local theater managers to refrain from showing pictures after six o'clock on Sunday nights.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, who outlined the work for the year. The Federation will meet four times during 1931. Other subjects chosen for discussion are "Tolerance," "Hope" and "Opportunity." Mrs. W. B. Price, Mrs. Mary W. Doak and Mrs. Walter P. Jennings will be the principal speakers.

Group singing was led by Mrs. George N. Atkinson with Miss Hazel Kokanour at the piano.

Miss Mary De Bardeleben, professor of Bible at Texas Technological college, led the devotional on "Visions," and Miss Jo Wilder, secretary of the Tech Young Women's Christian Association, made the address of the afternoon on the same subject.

Mrs. Atkinson sang as a solo, "It Pays to Serve Jesus."

Preceding the program, wives of the pastors of the city, presidents of women's missionary societies and the secretaries formed a receiving line and welcomed those who attended.

Sixty women were in attendance.

Chemical Society To Meet Tonight

A large number of the chemical symbols illustrating its history from the time of Aristotle to the present have been carved in the stone of the chemistry building of Texas Tech. These will be explained at the meeting of the chemical society Tuesday evening, by Dr. William Craig, professor of analytical and physical chemistry, who will talk to the society on "Chemical Symbols."

Photostats taken from original copies of Alchemical books in the Kittridge Folklore collection of the Harvard university library will be on exhibition. Dr. Craig selected the decoration for the chemistry building and the figures were drawn from the originals by Mr. Mack, formerly an assistant in the architectural department of Texas Tech.

The meeting will start promptly at 7:45 in the chemistry auditorium.

BULK METHOD OF ROASTING COFFEE IS NOT EXACT

In Spite of Care It Is Difficult to Develop Uniform Flavor

It is virtually impossible to accurately roast coffee in bulk, because there is no exact way to determine when all of the batch is "done." One roast may be "high" and another "low," with the result that there is variation of flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this uncertainty, by inventing and perfecting a radically different process—Controlled Roasting. By automatic control, a stream of coffee passes continuously through the roaster a few pounds at a time. Positive control of the heat is maintained, with the result that every berry of the rare blend is roasted evenly—to the degree that insures a rich, uniform, full-bodied flavor in every pound.

No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros.' process exclusively.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in the vacuum can that keeps it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is extracted from the can and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary cans, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Home Project Work Planned At Crosbyton

Feed Production Main Theme Of Work Being Considered By Vocational Agriculture Students In High School

CROSBYTON, March 30. (Special).—Students of the vocational agriculture classes at Crosbyton High school have set up their plans for their home project work during the year, W. C. Taylor, instructor, said today. The main theme of the work is feed production.

"This plan is considered by the boys as a preparatory move towards the growing of more livestock next year, by making use of their home grown feeds," Mr. Taylor explained.

"The feed production idea, in addition to being a safe farming procedure any year, has been prompted by three considerations, namely: The present local feed shortage, the poor outlook on prices for the common cash crops of the community, and the desire of students to establish livestock production as a more important enterprise on the farms of this community."

A few of the boys, Mr. Taylor added, have undertaken to establish their livestock projects this year, by going into it in a small way. Many decided to wait for another year.

Five hundred acres of land are being used by the boys in their project work. They have six brood sows, eight dairy cows, two dairy heifers, two beef calves, 200 hens and 350 chicks.

Projects number 62 in all. They include: Milo for grain, 16; cotton (the cash crop) 10; wheat for pasture and grain, six; sow and litter, six; dairy cows, six; poultry, five; hegari for roughage, three; sudan for pasture, two; dairy heifers, two; baby beef, two; oats for pasture and grain, one, and home garden, one.

Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Monday night began the first of a series of sermons on "The Seven Last Words."

The titles being used for the sermons of Rev. R. M. Hocker, pastor of the Nazarene church, during revival week are: "Second Coming of Christ," "Signs of the Times," "Christ on Trial," "The Curse of Evolution," "Repent or Be Damned," "The General Judgment," and "Sliding into Hell."

Lubbock Named For Meetings

District And Division Conventions Of American Legion Will Be Held In This City June 20-21

Quarterly eighteenth district convention of the American Legion and the annual fifth division convention will be held simultaneously in Lubbock June 20 and 21.

The plan of holding both conventions at the same time came about by a vote of the delegates at the district convention held last week at Perryton, Glen Hess, commander of Allen Brothers post, No. 148, of the American Legion, said Monday.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with the local legion post to provide a program of intertainment for the 1,000 to 1,200 legionnaires that will be here for the two conventions.

The fifth division is composed of districts 16, 17 and 18, which comprise all of West Texas, from the Oklahoma line to the New Mexico line and from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande.

The district and divisional meetings here will be the last before the state convention, which will precede immediately the national gathering at Detroit.

Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, will be a guest of Allen Brothers post from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. April 24, Commander Hess said.

Invitations to be represented here at the time of National Commander O'Neil's stop will be sent to all posts in the district, the Lubbock Commander said.

"Jake Paralysis", A Study Of The Mysterious Malady Which Baffles Physicians, Released In Oklahoma

NORMAN, March 30. (Special.)—"Jake Paralysis," a study of the mysterious malady which has baffled physicians, recently was released by the University of Oklahoma Press. Two members of the university's medical faculty and an Oklahoma City physician have recorded in the bulletin their experiments with this strange form of paralysis.

Authors of the monograph are: Dr. L. A. Turley, professor of pathology of the university school of medicine; H. A. Shoemaker, assistant professor of biochemistry and pharmacology; and Dr. D. T. Bowden, director of the state health public laboratories. From their experiments with chickens and dogs, observations of many cases of "Jakeitis" in Oklahoma City hospitals, and two autopsies, they concluded that tricresyl phosphate causes the paralysis.

Nerves Are Destroyed

Tricresyl phosphate, even in minute quantities in Jamica ginger, results in paralysis of hands and legs and in some cases death. It usually destroys nuclei of nerve cells permanently.

The malady was most widespread in the latter part of February, 1930.

"The simultaneous onset over the wide geographical area affected, the extraordinary severity of the devastation wrought, the suddenness of cessation of the attack, all mark this as one of the most unusual phenomenon of condition with which medicine has had to deal in the entire history of medical procedure," according to the monograph.

Many Are Afflicted

Estimates of the number of paralytics living at the decline of the siege are between sixty thousand and a hundred thousand.

The geographical area affected was for the most part what is known as the "Old South," that part of the United States south of the Mason and Dixon line, and including Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. Southeastern Kansas, central Ohio, and Connecticut were the only areas outside this region in which any considerable number of cases occurred.

Governor Murray Suggests A "Czar" For Oil Industry

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP)—A "Czar" for the entire domestic oil industry has been suggested by Governor W. H. Murray. He said the states or the federal government should appoint a single umpire. The government, he said, should stabilize prices and equalize production and its curtailment.

Dual Anniversary Being Celebrated

A dual anniversary is being celebrated this week by the Cinderella shop, 1105 Broadway, H. J. Jarett, owner, said in calling attention to the fact that it was just a year ago, April 1, 1930, that the shop was renamed The Cinderella shop.

"We hardly know whether we are celebrating our first birthday anniversary or our eighth birthday" he said. "We opened the Cinderella Shop April 1, last year. But before that the shop was known as Jarett's Fashion shop.

Mr. Jarett has been in the ladies ready-to-wear business for the past 17 years. He was located in Amarillo for a number of years before opening up the Lubbock store eight years ago. Last year he came to Lubbock to devote his entire time to the Lubbock business.

In speaking of the present situation in the ladies ready-to-wear business, Mr. Jarett said that he believes styles this spring were of a wider variety than ever before, both in the modes and in the colors and combinations of colors.

As 1931 Goes Slipping By

ALTHOUGH it was three months ago it seems like only the other day, we were embarking upon a new year. January 1, 1931, was the opening day of another twelve-months' marathon and here we are, on the threshhold of April with the year already one-fourth fled.

"Time and tide," says an old adage, "wait for no man."

We of this country are not so much affected by time but we can see, on every side, that time has a habit of rolling along in spite of anything we'd like to do about it.

1931 hasn't taken the first quarter of 1931 long to step into the lanes of history. It won't take the next three months a bit longer, and before we know it the days of what we only recently called "the New Year" will have joined the limbo of the bustle and the side-saddle store Indian.

Many man's days are numbered here below.

Perhaps the most important tool is time.

And when time flies as it has during the first three months of the current year, we cannot help but be impressed by the fact that all in all we're limited in the time we have to make our mark. We are impressed with the fact that today is golden—tomorrow never comes.

Lubbock and the South Plains—and the various business and professional organizations in this section—have only nine months left to make a mark in 1931. That means only thrice as much time remains as has already been used.

Every time we were up and doing.

Every time we were improving time and talents.

Days are falling off our calendars with surprising rapidity, when we pause to look behind.

INDUSTRIAL OCTOPUSES

It is a piece of every-day knowledge that the size of business units is increasing all the time. The merger as a business phenomenon goes plugging ahead, blindly disregardful of the various stumbling-blocks, chiefly governmental, that have been put in the way. The billion-dollar corporation is here; one need only have business vision to see that. The plain man looks to it with as much pride as though he owned it and no longer dreams of engaging in criticism.

Nevertheless, while the average man cheers, the industrialist is beginning to grow a little dubious. The merger as a financial device may be all right, but he is beginning to look upon the huge manufacturing unit, which is one of its results, as an idol, that has a great deal of brass mixed with its gold and most certainly has clay feet. It has not come up fully to expectations. It has failed to perform the miracles claimed for it or to develop hoped-for virtues. It has, on the contrary, sprouted a number of unexpected ills.

Industrial managers are finding, in many cases, that their factories are too large to be efficient—that production has defeated its own ends. Large operations are also dividing their huge consolidated units into many small units scattred over one or more states and mainly in small cities and towns. It was only a few years ago that they were closing up small units in these same cities and towns to consolidate them into one vast plant in or near a large city.

Man doesn't reap what he sows unless he works the crop.

Even book etiquette does not stamp leaving a man after his talk becomes boresome as impolite.

Little girls are punished for making faces. But not after they grow up.

Some fellows work their way through school; others have their parents.

Practical Health Problems

CHRONIC HEADACHE

By DR. FISHBEIN,
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Migraine headaches recur over long periods of time and usually affect individuals whose families have been susceptible to headaches. As in the case of many other disturbances of the nervous system, women are much more frequently affected by migraine than are men.

The attacks usually come on suddenly and are frequently preceded by periods of nervous strain. Nervous strain is meant emotional excitement such as is associated with disagreements, with eyestrain, suffering from long periods of reading particularly poor light close mental work, such as is involved in mathematical calculations, insufficient sleep, digestive disturbances, and excesses of all sorts, including overeating, visual excess, and other forms of dissipation.

The numerous theories that exist as to the cause of migraine indicate the possibility that one of the theories is correct and the still further possibility that there may be several causes of the various types of disturbances involved.

Studies of the anatomy of the tissues involved indicates to some investigators that the onset of the attack is associated with spasm of the small blood vessels in the brain. On the other hand, the reason for the onset of the spasm may be some anatomical abnormity, some unusual condition of physiology, some chemical disturbance, or perhaps a hypersensitivity to certain protein substances.

Recent investigators have found that there are remarkable changes in the amount of certain chemical constituents in the blood during the attack, and it may be that the chemical changes in the cells are the real cause.

The attack of migraine usually begins in childhood or youth, but rare cases are described in which the attacks first come on after 30 years of age. Sometimes the attacks stop spontaneously after 40 or 50 years of age, but cases are reported in which the condition has persisted throughout life.

The attack of migraine is different from the ordinary headache. Before it begins, the person may have a sense of fatigue or depression, be slightly ill and be disturbed by unusual visual disorders. He may say they see a flash of light in the field of vision which enlarges and has a colored border. Others merely complain of blurred vision.

* * *

The pain usually begins around one eye and then spreads over various parts of the head, even involving the entire head. Less commonly it begins in the back of the head. The pain is increased by bright lights, noise, or by mental effort. Sometimes the whole head seems tender to the touch. The pain and discomfort may increase until the person has nausea and vomiting, after which there may be relief.

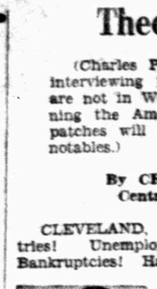

One of the facts which makes physicians believe that the condition is allergic is the association with the headache of such symptoms as diarrhea, chilliness, flushing, disturbances of vision, sweating, and dizziness, which disappear when the headache passes. The treatment of migraine demands the most careful possible attention from every point of view in order to remove such exciting factors as may be found in the specific case. When these exciting factors are brought under control, and the hygiene of the individual is placed on a reasonable basis which minimizes these factors, there ought to be prompt improvement.

Theory Said Hope

(Charles P. Stewart is touring America, interviewing powerful political figures who are not in Washington, and otherwise scanning the American vista. His daily dispatches will contain interviews with many notables.)

By CHARLES P. STEWART,
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., March 30.—"Stagnant industries! Unemployment! Distressed agriculture! Bankruptcies! Hard times the country over!"

Peter Witt

Pete Witt, powerful political radical of Cleveland, enumerated the subjects of as many of the speeches as he could remember hearing at the recent conference of political progressives in Washington; itemized also as many as he could recall of the various remedies he had heard suggested at the conference, to counteract the evils referred to.

Pooh! He brushed them aside impatiently—for the single tax.

* * *

PETER WITT is one of the last—perhaps THE last—of the original single taxers.

They were powerful folk a quarter of a century ago—not numerically so formidable maybe, but at the very forefront of the intelligentsia of their era—and Henry George was their prophet. Among his apostles, Tom L. Johnson, mayor of Cleveland in the early part of the Twentieth century, was the outstanding personality, and Witt, by many years his junior, was the redoubtable Tom L.'s most militant of adherents.

Call the muster roll today, however and except for Pete Witt's, I doubt whether the voice of a 100 percenter will answer. Henry George, himself, Tom L., Joseph Fels, Herbert Quick, Louis F. Post?—dead. The remainder?—more or less strayed after other Messiahs. Not out-and-out deserters but inclined to view the faith of their youth as somewhat Utopian.

* * *

WITH his pencil Witt drew a circle on a pad before him.

"Let this circle," he said, "represent a reservoir into which each and every producer in America, whether a small producer or a large producer, a mere working man or a great manufacture, tosses all his products—the sum total of our national production.

"Each is entitled to draw out in proportion to his contribution.

"But there is one individual who contributes nothing, and yet he draws out constantly.

"That individual is the landlord.

"He holds title to the land that the producers must use, in order to produce, either industrially or agriculturally, but he himself is not a producer.

"Nevertheless, he draws heavily from the common pool.

"Whenever a point is reached where he is taking so much that the amount remaining for the others is too decidedly and noticeably less than they are putting in, naturally they stop putting any more in.

"Such a situation is what we call 'hard times'."

* * *

"HARD TIMES," continued Witt, "react unfavorably on the landlord.

"Production having ceased, the erstwhile producers' competition for his land, on which to produce, ceases likewise. The land's value slumps, with the slump in the demand for it.

"Finally the landlord's exactions for its use decline sufficiently to encourage the producers to resume production.

"Thereupon business improves as we say. Presently the country considers itself prosperous again. Gradually, too, the landlord increases the proportions of his drainage from the general reservoir, and ultimately the old program is repeated.

"That's the commercial cycle."

* * *

"THERE'S only one cure," said Witt, "for a condition of this sort, and that's removal of the land monopoly by a major operation. All other advertised remedies, at best, are merely temporary palliatives."

Witt obviously had in mind the proposals he had listened to at the progressives' Washington conference.

"Oh, they were well meant," he agreed, "but superficial—except," he added, "Senator Bronson Cutting's." The New Mexico solon's talk at the Washington gathering dealt with the necessity for a return to representative government, emphatically at a tangent from the present tendency, mentioned by him, in the direction of an executive autocracy.

"In my judgment," prophesied Witt, "the country has a coming statesman in that young southwesterner. As for the rest, with their multiplicity of little issues?—all they seem to see are economic symptoms."

* * *

THE WARLIKE Peter Witt alone, in his office in Cleveland's huge new railroad terminal tower, as electric railway expert for the vast Van Sweringen interests, upholds the single tax in all its pristine purity.

It isn't dead or dying, either, he says, though sick; he admits that.

"The despotism of the war period crushed it for the time being," he explains, "and it needs leadership to revive it."

Student scientists who claim to have removed the knock from gasoline are under a delusion. Only lower prices, increased mileage and lower taxes can do that.

THOMAS DE QUINCEY ATE A POUND OF OPIUM A DAY.—Thomas de Quincey, great English prose writer, commenced making opium a part of his daily diet at an early age as a cure for rheumatic pains in the head. By the time he was 28 he was a confirmed opium fiend able to assimilate astounding quantities of the narcotic. His maximum was one pound, which is capable of killing 1,100 people. He is the author of 150 bookks, and their dreamlike prose is unmistabeably the result of his pernicious habit. See: "Confessions of an Opium Eater", by Thomas Quincey.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

The famous diamond necklace of Lady Hardway is stolen by Thomas Herridge, a notorious crook, in London. Slinking along the street after the robbery, Herridge is accosted by two men, who handcuff him, take the diamonds and promise to take him to Scotland Yard for questioning. On the way, the burglar suddenly leaps out of the car and escapes into the fog. To free himself of the hand cuffs, Herridge makes for the home of Ginger Murdock, another crook.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 3

Mr. Herridge's way lay through Pentonville, and as he climbed the hill, he realized to his horror that the fog was perceptibly thinning. This would never do, he must keep to the lower ground. He swung round and set out once more at a slightly increased pace. And at the very first corner he almost collided with a policeman.

He might still have saved himself, but the encounter was the final blow to his shattered nerves. In a sudden and unreasoning access of panic he took to his heels and ran blindly in the first direction which presented itself.

The policeman, amazed at this confession of guilt, gave immediate chase. Even then Mr. Herridge might have escaped, had his terror not been so extreme that he failed to notice the curb on the oppsite side of the road. He tripped and fell, and before he could drag himself to his feet the policeman's hand was upon him.

"'Ere, what's the game?" asked the policeman indignantly. "Think you're playing a game of tip and run, or what? 'Ullo, what's this?"

Mr. Herridge's hands had fallen out of his sleeves, and the handcuffs glinted patently in the light of the policeman's lantern. The latter examined them with puzzled interest. But Mr. Herridge's wits were coming back to him. This man at least had evidently not been warned to his escape, and in the fact lay the glimmer of a chance for him.

"What's this mean?" asked the policeman sternly.

"It's a bet," replied Mr. Herridge earnestly. "There was a couple of chaps in a pub what bet me I would not walk across London in these 'ere things without being copped. I'll be getting back and pay up."

"Plenty of time for that," remarked the policeman pleasantly. "You come along with me and tell the sergeant all about it. He's a rare chap for a bet. And I'd come quietly, too, if I was you."

Mr. Herridge's heart sank. The policeman's hand had closed round the chain of the handcuffs and there was no possibility of escape.

"You've no call to march me through the streets like this," he whined. "I'll come quietly enough if you'll take these blasted things off. Why, people will think I'm arrested!"

"Funny how people make these little mistakes," replied the policeman impe turbably. "If we meet any of your friends I'll explain that we're merely having a stroll together. Now, then, come along and don't let's have any more of your swank."

The police station was not far way, and they reached it without further adventure. Mr. Herridge was led before the sergeant, who regarded him with marked disfavor while the constable told his story. But what filled Mr. Herridge with amazement was that he was obviously not recognized. Was it possible that during the hours he had spent wandering through London the news of his escape from the plainclothes men had not been circulated? If this were so, there was no point in his giving himself away before he need.

"It's as true as I stand here, sergeant," he protested. "Couple o' chaps in a pub at Islington bet me I wouldn't walk to the Bank and back without being spotted. Bet me a fiver, they did, and seeing that it was a bit foggy-like, I took them on. Only came up to town today, I did. Thought I might find a job o' work to keep my wife and kids. What would be the good of my lying to you, sergeant?"

"Some folks tell lies because it comes natural," replied the sergeant. "We'll fix you up with board and lodging for the night, anyhow, till we find out a bit more about you in the morning."

"But you can't put me in the cells!" expostulated Mr. Herridge. "I ain't done nothing you can charge me with."

"Charge you!" exclaimed the sergeant. "I'll charge you all right. Being in unlawful possession of a pair of handcuffs, the property of His Majesty the King. Put him in number six, George."

* * *

As a result of a telephonic message from the sergeant to Scotland Yard, Detective Inspector Brooks of the C. I. D. arrived at the police station in the early hours of the following morning. Brooks was an imposing and formidable figure, standing well over six foot in his socks, with a chest like a bull and a voice like a foghorn. He had risen from the ranks by the merit of several brilliant pieces of work. Behind his massive appearance he had a quick and shrewd brain, and a

Highway Will Be Inspected

State Division Engineers To Make Survey This Week Of Highway 137; Inspection To Start At Odessa

Inspection of the proposed route for state highway 137 in Andrews and Gaines counties is to be made by the two division engineers here, Guy R. Johnston and Joe H. Caldwell, this week. The trip was planned for last week but was postponed because of weather conditions.

The two men will go to Odessa to inspect work there and then came north through Andrews and Seminole, to Lubbock.

Preliminary survey work on the route through Andrews county has been finished by a crew from the Lubbock division offices. The crew working in Andrews county has not completed its work, but is expected to soon.

"There will be very little change in the new route from the present one," Mr. Johnston said. "The road will be just about as straight as it can be."

The attorney general has not formally approved the Gaines county bond issue but has the abstract of the recent election before him, according to latest reports.

"No state maintenance will be had at this time on the highway, Mr. Caldwell explained. "We will not begin our maintenance work until after the road has been paved and then accepted by the state from the contractors."

Juarez Distilleries Are Hard Put For Corn To Make Liquors

EL PASO, March 30. (AP)—Distillers in Juarez were hard put today to obtain corn to keep their plants running. The Mexican government, as a part of its anti-alcholic campaign, recently prohibited the use of native grain for the manufacture of alcholic beaverages. Under a presidential decree, importation of corn now has been banned as protection against what Mexican authorities claim is a corn parasite. Distillery men expressed hope of obtaining special permission to import corn from the United States, of which they could use 3,000 carloads yearly.

Officials To Pick Winners

Failure To Tabulate Data Of Two-Day Meet Necessitates Delay In Announcement Of County Winners

Due to failure of officials to tabulate data concerning winners in the annual Lubbock county Interscholastic League meet held here Friday and Saturday, county schools will be forced to wait until Wednesday morning to learn the victor in the annual contests held at Tech college. Officials will meet in the office of Mae Murfee, county school superintendent, tonight in an effort to compile data on the contest to determine the winner.

Numerous inquiries were made at the Avalanche-Journal Sunday and Monday regarding the victor in the contests, this being the first year that the information was not available for the schools the day after the contests were over.

Literary events occupied the first day of the meet, while athletic events were held the second day.

Individuals Named

Names of individuals winning literary events of the meet were announced Saturday and Sunday. Not, however, until the data of the entire meet is compiled can awards made to winning schools be announced.

Among awards to winning schools this year, are two cups. One cup will be given to the school receiving the greatest number of points in literary events, the other cup will be given to the school receiving the most points in both literary and athletic events.

Rumors that Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion who is now campaigning among the heavyweights would supplant Stribling as Schmeling's opponent were denied.

CHICAGO March 30—Promoters of the forthcoming heavyweight boxing championship battle gathered in Chicago today and immediately reports flew about that Mickey Walker instead of Young Stribling would get the first shot at Max Schmeling's crown.

The Walker report was built around the activities of his manager, Jack Kearns, who was in conference with Damon Runyan, sports writer and matchmaker for the New York Milk Fund William D. Carey president of the Madison Square Garden, was expected to join the conference later in the day.

Schmeling was expected to toss his title in the ring at Soldier Field Chicago, some time in June probably on the 19th. During the past two months it was understood that Stribling was to be his opponent.

Wilson Basketball Letters Given To County Champions

WILSON, March 30—(Special)—Seven letters have been awarded to Wilson's basketball team, champions of Lynn county for five years district champions twice and a strong contender for the championship this year. Those receiving letters are: Captain Stiles Treweek, Coleman, Emory, Leroy Crews, Olen Crews and Key Stiles. Coleman and Stilers will be lost this year by graduation. Leroy Crews has been elected captain for the 1932 team.

This season Coach Brady Nix's crew won 18 out of 22 games and scored 614 points to their opponents 466. Leroy Crews scored a total of 239 points, and Treweek and Stiles each scored above the 100 mark.

Wilson is already laying plans for another district championship in 1932.

INDIANS HONOR BARNARD

NEW ORLEANS, March 30 (AP)—The day of reckoning over the 9-inning route for Cleveland Indian pitchers was postponed for two days when rain prevented today's exhibition game with New Orleans and tomorrow's contest was cancelled in respect to Ernest S. Barnard, late American League president.

Willis Hudlin, right hander, was cheated out of his first full game tryout to see if he is "coming back." He or Wesley Ferrell may get the call Wednesday.

Orcutt Shoots 75 For Honors

Maureen's Score Better By Two Strokes Than Glenna Collett Of 1926; Van Wie Second With 77

BY DILLON GRAHAM

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30. (AP)—Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., one of the longest and straightest drivers among the nation's women players, today shot a 75 to win medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the 29th annual north and south tournament, and set a competitive course record.

Her 75 was two strokes better than Glenna Collett's record of 77 in 1926, which was equalled today by Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, who finished second. Miss Orcutt's victory marked her second successive year as medalist here. Last year she shot at 80.

Playing over the difficult Number 3 layout, with its deep traps and rolling fairways, Miss Orcutt kept pace with men's par all the way out to reach the turn in 35. Coming back, she encountered trouble and soared to a 40.

Four strokes behind in third place came Miss Martha Parker, New York, metropolitan champion, with an 81.

Tied for fourth at 82 were Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., who was runner-up to Miss Collett last year, and the veteran Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City.

Sutter, Quick And Lott Take Opening Round

Three Top-Seeded Favorites Win New Orleans Opening Rounds In Invitation Net Tournament

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, March 30.—Fewer than one third of the scheduled first round matches were played today in the Annual New Orleans Country club invitation tennis tournament, start of play being delayed by rain, but the three seeded men who played won their matches with ease.

Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, seeded No. 1 in the tournament, outstroked out-generaled his first opponent, Jack Simpson of Atlanta, South Altantic doubles champion, winning 6-2, 6-2.

George Lott, of Chicago, seeded No. 2, and expected to meet Sutter in the finals, disposed of John Barr, of Dallas, Texas doubles titlist, 6-4, 6-1.

The other seeded player of the day, James Quick, of Dallas doubles champion with Barr in their home state, made short order of his meeting with Louis Lange, New Orleans municipal champion, 6-2,6-3.

Rice Player Wins

In the other matches Quin Connelly of Rice Institute, Houston, eliminated Fred Baggs, New York veteran, 9-7, 6-3, and in the day's only three set match Charles Hume of Tulane University won, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4, from Jack Potter, Houston player.

John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, who, with Lott, defends the tournament doubles title, was leading Jack Norton of Houston 2-0 in games in their first set when play was halted by a steady rain which concluded the day's events. They will meet again tomorrow morning.

Canyon Teachers Lose Only One From Champ Cage Team

CANYON, March 30. (Special.)—The athletic committee of the West Texas State Teachers College awarded the basketball letter to the following members of the Buffalo squad: Otis Burk, of Ralls; Edwin Comer, Clovis, New Mexico; Joe Fortenberry, Happy; Bob Clark, Turkey; Captain Hatcher Brown, Canyon; Glen Fitzgerald, Borger; Frank Monroe, Canyon; Milton Morris, Perryton; Guy Richards, Ralls; and Leo Cooper, Lockney.

Captain Hatcher Brown is the only one to be lost by graduation this year. All the other men have two and three more years of competition. The Buffs should reign supreme on the hard-wood floor for the next two or three years, since the 1931 team was made up for the most part, of freshmen and sophomores, and were able to top the list in the T. I. A. A. this year. The Buffs won the Western section by sweeping through the season with eight victories and no defeats, and took two of the three game series from East Texas in the Conference play-off.

Seven Hundred Horses To Start Races At Tanforan

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. (AP)—Famed old Tanforan track will echo to the beat of flying hoofs again tomorrow.

More than 700 horses, the pick of Western turf and many outstanding mounts, will fill the starting stalls during the 21-day meet, which ends April 25. There will be no Sunday racing, nor on good Friday and April 7, opening of the Pacific Coast league baseball season.

Elect Officers For East Texas Baseball League

HENDERSON, March 30. (AP)—Harry Wanderling of Fort Worth was elected temporary president of the proposed East Texas baseball league at a meeting of sponsors here today. Anderling organized the first Texas League in 1927.

T. F. Williams of Henderson was elected secretary. The proposed league would include Marshall, Tyler, Longview, Kilgore, Palestine and Henderson.

Wanderling and Williams said they planned to visit each proposed site of a club this week to assist with organization.

REDS ON WAY HOME

TAMPA, Fla., March 30. (AP)—One gleam of cheer appeared on the horizon of the Cincinnati Reds as they broke training camp today and headed north by easy stages. Manager Dan Howley received word Harry Heilmann, slugging outfielder, was able to move his right arm and fingers on his right hand for the first time in two months, indicating the arthritis attack has started to loosen its hold on the veteran.

Physicians said Howley would know by May 1 when Heilmann could get back into the game. Macon, Ga., was the Reds' first stop.

SPUDDERS-BAYLOR SERIES

WICHITA FALLS, March 30. (AP)—A cold rain which lasted most of the day cancelled the first game between the Spudders and the Baylor University nine, and on report that a colder wave was headed in this direction, Prexy Huff wrote out a check covering the visitor's expenses, sent them back to Waco this afternoon, and decided that sufficent unto the day in the evil thereof. The Baylorites were due to play here Tuesday also.

Carnera-Sharkey Bout In Air But Officials Deny

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 30.—Despite official denials, the conviction grew today that Primo Carnera, the man mountain, and bombastic Jack Sharkey have agreed to a heavyweight battle at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn some time in June under the auspices of Jimmy Johnston.

Because of Carnera's lack of standing with the New York State Athletic Commission and the board's strict rule forbidding promoters dealing with suspended fighters, none of the parties concerned would admit the negotiations, regardless of how far they may have gone. Carnera has been under commission ban here for a year.

His reinstatement is believed to depend upon his agreeing to box for Johnston, who recently switched from managing fighters to promoting at Ebbets Field, with the added proviso the bout with Sharkey be staged in the interests of charity. Johnston said today he had Sharkey's verbal agreement for three matches this summer.

Max Schmeling, suspended here and stripped of world heavyweight title recognition for failure to give Sharkey a return match, is due to settle one half of the problem when he tackles Young Stribling, the southern contender, somewhere in the mid-west in June. A battle between Sharkey and Carnera would provide the second finalist for a match later in the summer to product an undisputed world champion.

Title Fights Feature Card At Tech Hall

Simmons And Langford To Box For Heavyweight Title At Gym Tonight; Fencing And Tumbling Acts On Program

Once each month the Texas Tech athletic department entertains the men of Lubbock and of the college with an open house "fun nite." Tonight at 7:45 the March program will open with a frolic by the Tech Matador band and an intramural championship boxing bout. The bill contains a list of events that bid fair to put previous entertainment of its kind in the shade and extra seats will be added to the limited capacity in the gymnasium to care for an overflow crowd of men. Women are not invited.

Chief among the attractions offered free of charge at the gymnasium tonight are two championship boxing and two championship wrestling matches, a fencing exhibition and a free throw basketball contest between varsity cagers. Included on the bill is a fancy tumbling act presented by Dr. Harbough's athletic class, an army balancing act by Professor Ben Condray's military boys and the awarding of silver footballs to intramural all-stars and a gold trophy to the winner of the basketball throwing contest.

Garner and Cunningham, a pair of 175-pound hefties, will open the fight card with a battle for the campus championship in that weight class. Fighters appearing on the program gained a right to the finals by defeating their opponents in preliminary rounds of the intramural boxing and wrestling season which closed week before last.

Hodges and Tad in Contest

Tad Tadlock and Clarence Hodges will vie for basketball honors in a free throwing match, the winner to receive a gold award given by Cage Coach Crip Golightly. "Kid Knocho," alias R. J. Purtell, and "Meano Toro," alias Herman McArthur, will fight for the campus championship in a 145-pound class wrestling match.

Fencing, tumbling and balancing exhibitions will find their places on the program between fights. Teague and McGrady will box for the championship in the 155-pound class and "Chessy" Owens will meet "Colonel" Sparkman for the heavyweight wrestling crown.

A feature fight is saved for the last and entails a bout between "One Lick" Al Simmons and "Big 'Un" George Langford.

Dizzy Dean Forgiven And Reinstated By Cardinals

BRADENTON, Fla., March 30. (AP)—After being barred from the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp here for two days, Pitcher Dizzy Dean was restored to good standing today by Manager Gabby Street.

Repentant and tearful, the 20-year old Texan asked Street for another chance and was given permission to work out. Gabby told him the next "false step" would mean a ticket for one of the Cardinal farms.

For some time Street and Dean have been unable to agree on when Dean should sleep. Dean much prefers the daytime, generally when the team is working out.

ATLANTA POUNDS RUBE

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30. (AP)—The Atlanta club of the Southern Association took a liking to Rube Walberg's pitching today and cracked out a 5-2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics first team, in charge of Eddie Collins.

Baseball Lovers Pay Final Tribute To Ernest Barnard At Funeral Bier

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, March 30.—Hundreds of baseball fans, players, and former players, bankers, business men and laborers passed by tonight to pay final tribute to Ernest Sargent Barnard, whose career in the national pastime, ranging from player to club owner and American league president, was ended by death last Friday.

Baseball notables and other friends and associates gathered to attend final rites here tomorrow afternoon. Among them was Kenesaw M. Landis, national baseball commissioner.

Mrs. Mary Sargent Barnard of Parkersburg, W. Va., mother of the late league head, arrived today and joined the widow.

Rev. Miles A. Krumbine, pastor of Plymouth Church in Shaker Heights and friend of Barnard, will participate in the funeral ceremony at Masonic Temple under auspices of Allenby Commandery No. 73, Knights Templar.

After burial in the Mausoleum at Knollwood cemetery, attending baseball leaders will leave for Spencer, Ind., to attend the funeral Wednesday of Ban Johnson, whom Barnard succeeded as league president four years ago and who followed the Clevelander in death by a few hours.

The NUT CRACKER

Outfielder Is A Bird Who Lugs Four Bats To Plate And Then Throws Away Three Of 'Em

BY JOE O'GOOFTY
Former Big League Pitcher

SAN ANTONIO, March 30.—While at the training camp of the White Sox and New York Giants I have been trying to find out for my self the qualifications of an outfielder.

Manager McGraw is breaking in several outfielders this year, chief among whom is Freddy Lindstrom. McGraw probably figured that after nine years at third base, Lindstrom ought to make a swell outfielder. Besides, with the lively ball, all bunts got away from the old outfielders last year, so something had to be done about it.

Batting experience is also a desirable requisite in an outfielder. Mel Ott came to the Giants as a catcher by trade, but McGraw chased him out after the flies. Ott has been playing in what baseball players call "the outer garden" ever since. Next year I understand McGraw intends putting Bill Terry in left, Travis Jackson in center and will play in right himself.

Lindstrom tells me that playing the outfield is easy, and that he is thankful to Mr. McGraw for the vacation with pay. "He's a lucky devil," is the concensus of opinion about Lindstrom among the other infielders.

Even Bill Terry looks upon the outfield as a good place to take a quiet nap, though a first baseman hasn't much of a holler coming, because even a left-hander can play first base, and that's the only slab where they suffer southpaws to perform.

Clarence Mitchell is only 40 years old and has been pitching about half that time. He should be ripe for an outfield job in a few more seasons. If you think outfielding is hard, just go over to the White Sox park and watch Smead Jolley play a whole game in one place.
