Price Clinic For South Plains Merchants To Be Held In Lubbock May 8th

Recent government orders controlling retail and wholesale prices for the duration of the war in order to halt swiftly mounting cost of living will be explained in detail at a meeting in Lubbock at 8 p. m. Friday, May 8.

Especially invited to the meeting are all retailers and others of the merchandising trade—owners of large and small stores alike—from eighteen counties surrounding Lubbock. Those counties are: Parmer, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Gaines, Dawson, and Borden.

The meeting will be in the Lubbock Senior High School auditorium, 19th Street and Avenue T. J. D. Hassell, member of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Committee on National Defense will be chairman of the affair.

Full opportunity will be provided at the meeting, or clinic, for all business men to learn about the general maximum price regulations which will become effective May 18. Officials from the Regional Office of Price Administrator at Dallas will be present to speak on the various phases of the regulations. After this presentation, questions sent up from the floor will be answered.

The clinic is one of 31 such sessions being held during May in Texas. The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with OPA and the Business Education Division of the State Board of Vocational Education, is sponsoring and arranging for the meeting as a service to the war program.

To be explained by the Price Administration Specialists will be how the over-all price regulations place an absolute ceiling over substantially all commodities and services sold at retail. The ceiling extends over prices charged by wholesalers, manufacturers, and producers—the ceiling being the highest prices charged by each individual seller for each commodity or service during the month of March 1942.

Price Clinic At Big Spring May 12

Merchants and business men of Lamesa are cordially invited to attend a meeting in the city auditorium in Big Spring, Tuesday, May 12, at 8:00 p. m., which meeting is classified as an OPA Clinic.

It is very essential that merchandisers understand the plan of price ceiling operation, as violators of the program are subject to a very severe penalty. This is one of a series of such meetings being held over Texas to explain the price ceilings.

These price ceilings are effective May 18, making it imperative that local merchants should attend one of these meetings as soon as possible.

County Board Classifies All Dawson Schools Monday

The Dawson County School Board classified the schools of the county in their regular meeting Monday at the Court house.

Every school was based on the requirements set forth for accreditation using the number of teachers employed during the past session. A change in the number of teachers during the 1942-43 session might alter the classification.

It was pointed out by the Board that changes would be made upon request from the local boards provided they find it impossible to maintain an accredited school. The next regular meeting will be held in August.

Schools were classified for 1942-43 according to the following plan:

Notice To Farmers-

There has been a great deal of complaint made to me in the past few days about certain farmers plowing into the road and damaging the right-of-way thereby. There is a very heavy penalty imposed by the state law upon anyone who plows in the right-of-way of a public road of any class.

We would appreciate everyone taking heed of this notice, and if in the past they have been careless and have damaged the right-of-way, we would appreciate their not doing so in the future. It will save the tax-payers' money and themselves trouble.

We thank you for your kind consideration of this request.

KARL CAYTON,
County Attorney.

Inspect Sites For Location Of Proposed Glider Pilot Training School Thursday

Proposed sites for a glider school were inspected here Thursday by John Wilson of Rockport, Ill., who according to reliable sources has obtained approval of the War Department for construction of a privately-owned school for the training of Army pilots.

The proposed school would be operated under government supervision.

It was also reported that a number of engineers and surveyors were in the city, ready to begin work the minute the site is selected and accepted.

It is understood that the City of Lamesa and County Commissioners Court are prepared to sign a long-term lease for the school site, should Wilson and his attorneys approve the location. Two sections of land would be required for the school.

Wilson visited Lamesa April 30 and since that time has been in Washington getting final approval for the location of the school.

It is believed that if a contract is signed between Wilson and the City of Lamesa, construction on the school would begin within two weeks. Estimated cost would be approximately $200,000, with construction to be completed in about 60 days. Temporary buildings would be erected pending construction of more permanent structures.

It has been explained here that around 125 commissioned officers of the United States Army would be students at the school, with approximately 200 others to be in the ground crews and training personnel. Gliding operations would be confined to a nine-mile area.

Progress of negotiations will be announced as soon as a definite agreement is worked out.

Land Use Committee Plans To Keep Farm Families Posted On War Information

Gravestone methods of communication will be put to work to keep Dawson County farm and ranch families up to date on war emergencies related to agriculture, members of the County Land Use Planning Committee and other community leaders were told Tuesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church.

J. L. Chiles of the Grandview community, land use planning committee chairman, presided and explained the purpose of the meeting. He praised farm people for their patriotism and said rural people are eager to do their share in the war effort.

The "human chain of communication" being set up in Dawson County is part of a nation-wide system by which emergency information may be given to and received from every farm family in the county, the farm leaders were told by Lura Lane of the A. and M. College Extension Service. She asked the county land use planning committee to serve as a County Agricultural Victory Council for the duration of the war.

She explained that the communication chain, which involves the appointment of community and neighborhood victory leaders, will be available for use by all authorized agencies of the Federal and state government in any capacity necessary to win the war.

Names of community and neighborhood leaders are to be sent to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard by May 21, Miss Lane said. President Roosevelt asked Secretary Wickard to set up the communication chain which is similar to the black air raid warning system.

Smiling Joy Walls of Houston was crowned Galveston's annual carhop queen, a part of Splash Day activities which opened the beach season. The judges, service men picked from the audience, selected the 18-year-old miss over contestants from South Texas towns.

Victory Pledge Has Many Signers

Requests for 153,500 Victory demonstration pledge cards have already been filled by the A. and M. College Extension Service, and 50,000 more are being printed to fill additional orders. This includes 3,500 printed in Spanish for Latin American people pledging their cooperation to the war effort.

"The Victory Demonstration is a war-time program, encouraged by the Extension Service," according to Extension Director H. H. Williamson. "Texans made it for Texas. The Victory Demonstration has an appeal—a patriotic appeal, and while it was planned primarily for country people, I find urban people like it, too. It points the way for every red-blooded American who wants to help win the war on the home front."

Small red, white and blue lapel buttons are being worn by several thousand Victory Demonstrators in the state. Orders in the last month have aggregated 4,350.

Here is the text of the pledge:

"As a Victory Demonstrator doing my best to help win the war, I will produce food, feed and fiber to assure good health for myself, my family, and others.

"I will take good care of everything I use—food, clothes, furnishings, equipment, machinery, buildings, livestock and the soil as well as scarce articles such as rubber and metals.

"I will buy carefully anything I must have and I will buy U. S. War Stamps or bonds with all the money I can.

"I will work hard with my family and neighbors and help people to be cheerful, to have courage and to take part in all war activities."

Corporal Haworth answers all day long the questions of friends, relatives and sweethearts trying to locate loved ones.

His biggest headache comes from girls attempting to find aviation cadets. They say:

"His name is Johnny. He's tall, good-looking and cute. I think he's from Iowa—or is it Illinois?"

Occasionally, when a cadet cannot be located, the girl will ask Corporal Haworth:

"Well, what are you doing to-night?"

To which the corporal answers with dignity:

"It's a military secret."

 OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Hospitals here are trying to shorten the length of their patients' stay, to be better equipped for war emergencies. It is hoped to cut the average from ten to nine days, largely by dismissing maternity cases earlier than usual.

3 simple ways TO GET THE MOST LIGHT FROM YOUR LAMPS ...and help your eyesight, too!

Here are three simple and economical ways to get more light from your electric table and floor lamps. Follow these suggestions, and you'll help your eyesight, too.

1. Keep lamps clean ... dustfree
Reflector bowls and lamp bulbs gather more dust than you think. The dust collected on them in from one to three months can deprive you of much of the light your eyes need. Cleaning them with a damp rag, or washing will give you from 25 to 30% more light. Remove bulbs and reflector bowls before washing or cleaning with damp rag.

2. Replace dark shades
If your lamps have dark shades or shades now turned yellow inside, you are losing light that your eyes need for easier seeing, less eyestrain. You may be losing as much as 50%. Clean them regularly, or if they're too bad, replace them with fresh shades and you'll get a lot more light. (Even light-colored silk shades will give you more light if brushed weekly.)

3. Place lamps to make light more useful
Put them where they give eyes most help. Often, two or more of the family can use the same lamp when furniture is properly arranged. (One suggestion is shown above.) And don't get too far away from the lamp; a difference of twelve inches can cut your light as much as 50%.

Save Metal by Having Appliances Repaired
Lamps and other electric appliances should be made to last for the duration of the war, if possible, so that vital metals can be conserved. Make your electric appliances as good as new. Take them to an Electric Shop today for repairs.

Milkweed Fatal To Turkeys

A mouthful or two of whorled milkweed may kill a young turkey in a few hours. Because of its deadly character, George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of the A. & M. College Extension Service, advises raisers to eradicate the plant from turkey ranges before young birds are turned out.

Ranchmen long have known that this species of weed kills cattle, sheep and horses on the range each year, and have destroyed the poisonous plant wherever found. Recently, however, whorled milkweed has been proved a killer of turkeys and chickens as well. Immature, tender milkweed plants, prevalent in the spring seem to be more deadly than more mature ones.

Tests by specialists of the U. S.

Department of Agriculture show that young turkeys fed as little as one-seventh ounce of milkweed leaves for each pound of body weight go into spasms within an hour and usually die less than five hours after feeding.

Generally, poultry and livestock will avoid whorled milkweed, but if other green feed is scarce they will eat enough of the weed to cause death. One of the best safeguards, McCarthy says, is to supply poultry with plenty of green feed, and wherever possible, destroy the whorled milkweed.

Mrs. S. W. Benson and Mrs. Viola Caldwell spent Sunday in San Angelo visiting with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Medlin of Pecos spent the week end here visiting with the mother, Mrs. Medlin.

Governor Signs Cotton Week Proclamation

Gov. Coke Stevenson, recognizing the part that Texas' greatest agricultural product will play in winning the war, signs a proclamation designating May 15 to 23 as National Cotton Week in Texas. Issuing on as Luther Sharp of Agricultural Trade Relations, chairman of the National Cotton Week Committee directing the program for the Texas Statewide Cotton Committee. Cooperating in National Cotton Week are farmers, manufacturers, chain stores, independent merchants, wholesalers, extension service, women's clubs and other groups.

Cotton Farmers Won't Be Worried

Insects and weather won't scare approximately 42,000 Texas cotton farmers this year regardless of the damage they do.

Reason is the new federal all-risk cotton crop insurance which protects either 50 or 75 per cent of the average yield on their farms.

"We have 331,694 cotton allotment farms in Texas and about 15 per cent of them went all-out against unavoidable hazards this year by taking out crop insurance," Donald L. Cottrill, state crop insurance supervisor, has announced.

According to tabulations in the state AAA office, Mitchell County farmers led the state with 64 per cent participation. Concho County ranked second with 58 per cent coverage while one-half of the cotton farmers in McCulloch County signed up.

Collin County, with 1,593 applications covering 2,223 insurance units, led all other counties in total policies sold.

Other counties in the state reporting one-third or more sign-up include Donley, Floyd, Irion, Williamson, Archer, Reeves, Trinity, Coleman, Grayson, Pecos, Tarrant, Burnet, Delta, Correll, Coke, Hamilton, Sterling and Llano one.

Approximately 46 counties show more than a 25 per cent sign-up. Mr. Cottrill said.

Final closing date for taking cotton crop insurance on this year is March 31.

Texas Wheat Faces Shortage Of Storage Space

About 12,000,000 bushels of Texas wheat will be without a home this year unless more storage space is constructed.

Estimated wheat crop for the state is 37,842,000 bushels while bulk storage capacity is estimated at 25,317,000 bushels. These figures do not take into account the Oklahoma crop, a portion of which normally moves into Texas. Estimated combined Texas-Oklahoma crop will approximate 93,000,000 bushels with storage space in both states which will take care of approximately 49,000,000 bushels.

Terminals in Texas are full; sub-terminals are nearly full; and country elevators are from 80 to 90 per cent occupied. Best bet for Texas wheat farmers is vastly increased farm storage," George Slaughter, chairman, Texas AAA committee, announced.

The Texas USDA War Board has been advised that supplies for wooden bin construction will be available but that other materials, ordinarily used, are being diverted into war channels.

"If controlled production of wheat cannot be stored satisfactorily, just think of the serious problem an uncontrolled flood of wheat would create next year and the next," he adds.

For the second consecutive year, Texas wheat farmers voted in the national wheat marketing quota referendum Saturday, May 2. Aim of marketing quotas is to divide a limited wheat market cooperatively and democratically among wheat farmers and provide orderly production, marketing, transportation and storage.

Air-Borne Infantry

Far cry from the "doughboy" who marched for days to capture his objective, are the troops whose mission it is to fly where their support is most needed, step from their transport plane and taking their place in the line, fully equipped, surprise and overpower the enemy. Accompanying them to the ground and ready for instant use are machine guns, the automatic rifles which they carry themselves, and even motorcycles and the multi-useful "peep." Airborne infantry also is equipped to disrupt communications and destroy command posts far behind the lines of battle.

LOW TEMPERATURE MADE THE DIFFERENCE

It pays to cook meat slowly. The pictures above show two standing rib roasts before and after cooking. The roasts weighed the same before they were cooked and were cooked to the same degree of doneness (medium). Oven temperatures made the difference. The roast on the left was cooked in a moderate (300° F.) oven. The roast on the right was cooked in a hot (500° F.) oven. The advantages of roasting meats in a moderate oven are (1) less shrinkage—more servings, (2) meat is juicier (note the larger amount of drippings from the roast cooked at the high oven temperature), (3) better flavored.

tem in most cities. The secretary then delegated the responsibility to the Extension Service.

Mattie Phenix, county home demonstration agent, explained how the set-up will be completed. The county will be divided into communities and a man and a woman will serve as Community Victory Leaders for that area, she said. The communities will then be sub-divided into neighborhoods with a certain number of rural families assigned to each Neighborhood Victory Leader. In this way, war-time information may be dispatched to every rural family in the county within a short time.

Division of the county into 26 communities was made by the committee members under the direction of B. J. Baskin, county agricultural agent. The new system will make it possible to distribute the responsibility so that no leader will be overburdened, he explained. Community leaders were asked to appoint their neighborhood lieutenants and report their names to the county extension office by Saturday night.

Those attending the meeting were: Welch, Mrs. Everett Turner; Grandview, J. L. Chiles; Woody, U. R. Middleton; Harmony, E. O. Kirby; Hancock, Mrs. O. F. McLendon and M. M. ONE GOOD REASON FOR CUFFLESS PANTS

BRISTOW, Okla. (AP)—Lew Nichols says cuffless pants have at least one good point. Fellows who tell their wives they are out to lodge or a board meeting cannot be embarrassed the next morning when a red poker chip falls out of the cuff as the pants are being dusted.

Garland Nix Is Recovering

Garland Nix, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Nix, continues to show steady improvement from pelvic and internal injuries sustained last week in a fall from a truck.

Garland was with his father as they used a truck in rounding up cattle near their home on the outskirts of the city. High wind caused young Nix to miscalculate his step and fall beneath the truck wheel, severely fracturing his pelvis and producing other critical injuries.

THE UNIFORM

We're not ashamed of the uniform And if you are a friend You'll not say against it Any word that will offend. It has covered honored bodies And by heroes has been worn. Since the days of the Republic When the Stars and Stripes were born.

Uniforms have many patterns. Some are khaki and some are blue. And the men who choose to wear them Are many patterns too. Some are men of wealthy parents. Some are college graduates. Some have manly virtues. Some are simply reprobates.

We have many skilled mechanics. Men of brains and letters who Loyally have served their country That they are a credit to. No indeed they are not all angels. Blackguards? Yes we have a few of those. But when they came into the service They all wore civilian clothes.

Men of all kinds when they are drinking. Misbehave, act rough and swear Drunken soldiers or civilians. Are disgusting anywhere. Grant us your kind forbearance. We'll appreciate it more. Than a lot of noisy cheering. When we are leaving for war.

We have seen through you in public And have smelled your whiskey breath. Heard remarks insane and silly Nearly boring us to death. Though we offered no objections When in theatres we were met You would exclude us From that most exclusive set.

If you meet us out in public. On the streets or anywhere. We don't merit sneering glances. Or a patronizing stare. For we have an honored calling As our garments plainly show; You may be a thief or parson. How on earth are we to know?

I don't care for your profession Occupation or what you do. When you're gazing at a soldier. And he's looking back at you. Who is there to judge between you As you stand there man to man. Only one, the Great Almighty Name another if you can.

From your proud and haughty bearing. And your egotistic pride. Get acquainted with the soldier. And the heart and soul inside. Test and try to analyze him. Criticize him through and through And you are likely to find him. Just as good a man as you. Sgt. Ball, 5th Aero Squadron, Call Field.

This poem was brought to us by Mr. Bill Roberts, who served with Sgt. Ball during the World War I. Mr. Roberts carried this poem in his pocket book for seventeen years.

This Is America's Last Chance; What Are You Doing About It?

"America and Britain control the seas"—yet Nazis sink tankers in sight of New York; the Japs shell California.

Our Navy can repel any invasion—but now the Axis Navy outnumbered ours.

We lull ourselves to sleep with the things we WANT to believe, and while we sleep our enemies close in from either side.

Listen to the talk in factories, offices—and legislative halls. Oh, yes, the war is terrible, and it must be won—BY SOMEBODY ELSE. We must keep our social gains, our easy hours, our lush profits, our personal powers... The enemy who will take them ALL away is closing in.

There is only one way for any business man, labor leader, politician, or workman to decide everything—"Will it help win the war?" There is no compromise with that question. Because too many in every one of these groups asked, instead, "Will it help me?" We have had Manila, Singapore, Java, Rangoon. Make no mistake—New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Omaha can be next.
