Greenbrier Prepares To Test Prospective Dawson Discovery

Producing ability of a new discovery from the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian in Central-West Dawson County is to be determined in the near future.

Greenbrier Oil Company No. 1 M. C. Lindsey has perforated the casing at 10,957-967 feet, and is preparing to make a production test on that interval.

Corrected total depth of this prospective new field opener, located 13 miles west of Lamesa, is 10,968 feet. The 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented at that point.

Flowed Oil On Test

The wildcat flowed oil at the estimated rate of 50 barrels per hour on a drillstem test at 10,950-968 feet.

No water was developed with that oil. Top of the Strawn is at 10,948 feet, which is on a datum point of minus 7,897 feet.

Location is 662.5 feet from east and 663.3 feet from south lines of section 132, block M, EL&RR survey.

West Outpost To NE Pecos Opener Prepares To Test

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1 Mae Hall, one-half mile west outpost to the Brown & Throp Drilling Company No. 1 G. R. White-Gulf, new discovery from the Clear Fork in Northeast Pecos County, is at total depth of 3,120 feet in lime and is waiting on cement to cure on seven-inch casing which is set at 2,988 feet.

Operator took a drillstem test from 3,070 feet to 3,120 feet. Tool was open two hours. There was a medium blow of air throughout the test.

Had Clean Oil

Recovery was 70 feet of fluid. The top 60 feet of the fluid was gas cut drilling mud and the bottom 10 feet was clean oil. There was no water.

After the cement sets on the pipe and the plug is drilled, the project will attempt to complete from open hole at 2,988-3,120 feet.

Location of No. 1 Hall is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 12, block 11, H&GN survey and one mile southwest of Girvin.

Magnolia Prospector In C-E Lea Develops More Shows Of Oil

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Black, Central-East Lea County wildcat recovered some free oil and some heavily oil and gas cut mud and water blanket in a drillstem test at 10,929-944 feet.

The tool was open three hours. Recovery was 100 feet of free oil, 2,070 feet of oil and gas cut water blanket and 360 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud.

Flowing pressure was 1,045 pounds. No shutin pressure was reported. The project then cored at 10,947-957 feet. Recovery was nine and one-half feet of lime and shale, with no shows of oil or gas.

Is Now Making Hole

The wildcat is now making hole below 11,099 feet in lime and shale.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 9-15s-36e. It is nine miles west of the Denton multipay field and five and one-half miles northeast of the town of Lovington.

This exploration has already shown as a possible discovery from the Permo-Pennsylvanian contact zone. The shows it has now found are in the lower Pennsylvanian.

Spraberry Trend Area Is Scheduled For Eight Wildcats

Eight wildcat explorations, one discovery offset, 12 field projects and seven new oilers have been added to the Spraberry Trend areas of Upton, Midland, Glasscock and Reagan Counties.

Four miles east of the north side of the Driver-Spraberry field in Southeast Midland County, and in Southwest Glasscock County, Ashland Oil & Refining Company spotted locations for four of the wildcats.

Ashland No. 1-13 Schrock is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of section 13, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey.

No. 2-13 Schrock will be dug 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of the same section. No 4-13 Schrock is 660 feet from south and east lines of the same section.

One and one-half miles south of

Street Parade Sets Off Fire Prevention Week Program Here

The Midland Fire Department was to place all of its fire trucks in a parade at 4:15 p.m. Monday to formally initiate the observance of Fire Prevention Week here.

Fire Marshal Bill Klatt said a radio-controlled truck would head the parade of trucks to pass the word in event a fire breaks out.

Meanwhile, fire-conscious Midlanders were expected to search their premises thoroughly Tuesday for possible fire hazards in the wake of an Inspection Party here.

Starting at the school level, home inspection blanks were given to elementary children to take home as a guide for their parents.

Spot Inspections

Midland businessmen joined with home owners in conducting an inspection of their establishments to eliminate situations where combustible materials might burst into a costly fire.

Fire Marshal Bill Klatt Monday said members of the Fire Department would carry out an inspection in the home of any resident for fire protection purposes, if they will call 4-6661.

Klatt called on all merchants to display their fire extinguishers in a conspicuous place and take advantage of this Fire Prevention Week to instruct their employes in the use of the extinguishers.

Cotton Estimate Reduced Sharply

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Agriculture Department Monday estimated this year's cotton crop at 16,931,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This is 360,000 bales less than the 17,291,000 bales forecast a month ago. It is sharply higher than last year's small crop of 10,012,000 bales and the 10-year (1940-49) average of 12,030,000 bales.

Supplementing the crop are 2,200,000 bales from previous crops.

The department said the indicated yield of cotton to the acre was 284.7 pounds compared with 269.2 pounds last year and 265.9 for the 10-year average.

Condition of the crop as of October 1 was reported at 74 per cent of normal compared with 64 a year ago and 73 for the 10-year October 1 average.

Ginnings High

In an accompanying report, the Census Bureau said 5,467,911 bales had been ginned prior to October 1. This compared with 2,771,959 ginned to the same date last year and 5,306,453 two years ago.

No estimate of cottonseed production was given.

The October 1 condition of the crop, the yield per acre and production, respectively, by states included:

Texas 63, 183 and 4,800,000; New Mexico 80, 436 and 300,000; Oklahoma 62, 174 and 580,000; Arkansas 73, 341 and 1,600,000, and Louisiana 82, 389 and 800,000.

The production of American-Egyptian cotton was estimated at 44,200 bales compared with 64,200 last year and 25,400 for the 10-year average.

A. B. Knickerbocker, Five Others Killed In Traffic Collision

AUSTIN—A. B. Knickerbocker of Austin, former state adjutant general, his wife and four other persons were killed early Sunday in an automobile accident near Austin.

The dead, in addition to the Knickerbockers, were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne D. Tiner, of San Antonio; Marion Voight, 37, of Austin and his sister, Mrs. Leona Voight Scott, also of Austin.

Three persons were injured. They were Nancy Knickerbocker, 17, daughter of the Knickerbockers; Susan Lane Tiner, about 17, daughter of the Tiners, and Mrs. Ruby L. Benight, 33, of Austin.

The Knickerbockers, formerly of Odessa, and the Tiners were returning to Austin from the Oklahoma-Texas A&M football game Saturday night in College Station. Both Knickerbocker and Tiner were officials of the Zachry Construction Company in San Antonio.

State police said the accident happened about 18 1/2 miles east of here at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. Officers said a car carrying the Voights and Mrs. Benight apparently tried to pass the car containing the Knickerbockers and Tiners. Drivers were unidentified.

Police said the Voight car collided with an oncoming truck and the truck crashed into the Knickerbocker vehicle.

ROYAL PROFILES—Soon to see, and to be seen by, the United States for the first time are Princess Elizabeth and the duke of Edinburgh, who arrived in Montreal, Canada, Monday by trans-Atlantic plane. The British royal couple is seen above in an unusual portrait made in London recently by Karsh of Ottawa.

Elizabeth, Philip Arrive In Canada

MONTREAL—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the duke of Edinburgh, came to Canada in a trans-Atlantic plane Monday for their first visit to the North American continent. Their great, 60-ton plane landed at Dorval Airport here at 10:41 a.m. CST. They were 19 minutes ahead of schedule.

As the huge American-built stratocruiser "Canopus" rumbled into view overhead, thousands of Canadians massed at Dorval Airport cheered lustily. A guard of honor snapped to attention, ready to welcome the royal couple on the first stop of their tour, which will include a visit to Washington at the end of October.

The princess and her husband barely missed a drab, chill reception. Threatening clouds lifted and the sun broke through only a short time before the plane came into view. Throughout the night and into the morning a cold rain had fallen.

Airport authorities had made arrangements to handle the crowd of 100,000. Spectators gathered slowly, possibly discouraged by the weather, but when the sun burst through, the size of the crowd increased swiftly.

The plane touched down at Gander, Newfoundland, at 3:50 a.m. for refuelling. There, the princess and the duke were welcomed by a message from Sir Leonard Outerbridge, lieutenant governor of Newfoundland.

The huge blue and silver royal airliner took off Sunday night from London Airport for the month-long visit to this senior dominion and to the United States. It veered south of its scheduled course to avoid rough weather.

The four Big Spring women were together in one of the automobiles. The driver of the other vehicle escaped injury.

State highway patrolmen said the women were headed east on the Big Spring-Andrews highway when their car collided with the other one, headed south.

Mrs. Raney's husband died about 10 years ago, and a son is now serving with the Army in Korea.

Texas Playboy Not Free To Wed Belly Dancer, Says Friend

DALLAS —(AP)— Sheppard King III, Texas playboy who announced in Paris he would wed an Egyptian belly dancer, was remarried to his divorced wife last June, the Dallas Times-Herald said Monday.

The newspaper said the disclosure was made by Mayme Brewer, friend of the King family in whose home the secret wedding took place.

Judge Robert Hall told a Times-Herald reporter he performed the ceremony.

"All this is highly amusing to me," Miss Brewer said. "I believe Sheppard and Gloria are still married."

King and his once-divorced wife still were married before they sailed from New York last month for the continental visit, Miss Brewer said.

Judge Hall was quoted by the Times-Herald as saying Sheppard and Gloria obtained their marriage license in Kaufman County. He said it would have been possible for them to have been divorced before sailing, if a divorce petition already had been filed in Harris County, their legal residence.

It is also possible, the judge said, that the couple obtained a European divorce before King met Samia.

Dwight Painter took over his duties in Midland Monday as driver license examiner.

Midland has been without an examiner the last month.

Reds Resist Foot By Foot In Hill Areas

EIGHTH ARMY, KOREA—(AP)—A thin line of dog-tired American infantrymen Monday edged toward the top of the last Red-held peak on craggy Heartbreak Ridge in Eastern Korea.

Last reports put them within 200 yards of the summit. Communist grenades and machine gun fire poured down from Red bunkers above as troops of the 23rd Regiment fought forward foot by foot and bunker by bunker.

Across the Mundung Valley to the west, the Ninth Regiment fought fiercely-resisting North Koreans for possession of Kim Il Sung Ridge, named by the Reds for the North Korean premier. The troops took several small hills. Their progress toward the ridge itself was slowed by Communist artillery and small arms fire.

Between Kim and Heartbreak, infantrymen of the 38th Regiment, also of the Second Division, slashed northward and captured a small hill. Tanks attached to the regiment moved into the valley and pounded Red positions on Kim.

Other Allied tanks roared into Satae, east of Heartbreak, for the third straight day. They opened point-blank fire on the Reds but received heavy artillery fire in return.

South Korean troops captured a high peak overlooking the Punchbowl, east of Satae and Heartbreak, but a Red counterattack forced them

Ridgway Accepts Red Bid To Talks

TOKYO—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway Monday night accepted in principle the Communist proposal that Korean cease-fire talks begin anew near Panmunjom.

The supreme Allied commander said a site in the "immediate vicinity" of that Red outpost, six miles southeast of Kaesong, would meet the "fundamental condition of equality of movement and control." The Reds broke off the talks at Kaesong August 23.

Ridgway told the top Communist commanders in Korea he was instructing his officers to meet the Reds at 10 a.m. Wednesday (7 p.m. Tuesday, CST) to hammer out details for re-opening talks.

Reds Temper Demands

The truce talks be shifted to Panmunjom.

The Kaesong five-mile neutral zone be extended to include Munsan, site of the UN Command advance headquarters, about 15 miles away.

Both sides to assume responsibility for controlling the conference site—in effect to establish joint armored control.

"It is my view," Ridgway said, "that all that is necessary is a small neutral zone around the new conference site, with Kaesong, Munsan and the road to Panmunjom from Kaesong, and Munsan free from attack."

The Reds have climbed down from their strong demands made frequently since the talks broke off more than six weeks ago.

In their message Sunday, they finally agreed, for the first time, the talks could be moved from Kaesong.

Reynolds had singled home the tie-breaking run in the fourth.

Road Bond Election Petitions Circulate In Midland Monday

A $500,000 Midland County bond issue election, to finance a proposed paved road into the Tex-Harvey and Driver oil fields, as well as other county road projects, is scheduled to be set this week by the Commissioners Court.

Petitions requesting the election were being circulated Monday, and County Judge Clifford C. Keith said the election probably will be called as soon as the necessary 50 signatures are acquired.

Construction of the trunk road in the Tex-Harvey and Driver fields was urged last week at a meeting of oil company representatives, Chamber of Commerce officials and members of the Commissioners Court.

At that time Judge Keith estimated the 25-mile road would cost approximately $300,000.

Other Road Projects

"We are going to have to pave some other roads in the county within a short time," said Judge Keith, "so we might as well provide for them in this election.

"It would be foolish to have an election now for the oil field road and then call another one in three or four months."

Other road projects to be financed by the bond issue include:

A paved road running from U. S. Highway 80 at Warfield to connect with the proposed road from the Pegasus oil field into Ector County.

Ten or 12 miles of paving in Precinct 2, including the paving of a road from south of Greenwood school to the Garden City Highway.

Mystery Surrounds Two Negroes' Deaths

HOUSTON—(AP)—Detectives Monday were seeking to unravel a mystery shooting and stabbing which left the wife of a negro physician and their 34-year-old son dead and the doctor and the son's wife stabbed.

The scene was the two-bedroom bungalow of Dr. Thomas M. Shadowens, Sr., 65.

The investigators said they found:

The physician's wife, Daisy Shadowens, 65, dead in bed in a rear bedroom, shot in the head.

The doctor's son, Thomas M. Shadowens, Jr., a Dallas insurance man, dead on the living room floor, his throat cut.

The son's wife, Eunice Shadowens, 30, stabbed once in the back below the right shoulder blade.

The physician was lying on the bedroom floor, near his wife's body, suffering from a stab wound in the neck.

T&P Uses Modern Equipment In Rail Betterment Project

Or maybe you prefer to watch an adzing machine, burro crane, creosote machine, a multiple tamper or even a bolt-tightening machine in operation.

Whatever your desires, these pieces of modern railway-building equipment may be seen in operation most any day between Midland and Stanton.

They are being used by the Texas and Pacific Railway Company in its roadbed improvement project now underway between the Martin and Midland county seat cities.

The program calls for the replacing of the old 110-pound rail with new 115-pound rail on 14.2 miles of main line and passing tracks.

It is a tremendous project, and to get the job done in quick order, the T&P is using three extra gangs —105 workers under the supervision of three foremen—in re-laying the new and heavier rail. The Midland-Stanton project is scheduled for completion in December.

Continuing Program

"This project is a part of a continuing program to improve our railroad in order that we may give the finest transportation service possible in the cities and towns through which we are privileged to operate in our growing Southwest," J. B. Shores, director of public and employe relations for the T&P, told The Reporter-Telegram. He said the most modern equipment is being used.

The railroad gang workers and their families reside in dwelling-type cars spotted at three points along the right-of-way. A number of the workers' children attend public schools in Stanton.

Shores said the T&P, in carrying out its general improvement program during the last few years, has modernized or built anew at least 13 freight and passenger stations. Its diesel power has been increased to the point that by next Spring the T&P will be dieselized completely. The line's freight car supply is being augmented continually, he stated. Reballasting continues and new rail is being laid here and elsewhere over the system.

Beauteous Redhead Pleads For Chance To Display Curves

"The men have had it long enough," she remarked. She referred to displaying male stars in scanty attire while the actresses have become more and more clothed.

"It happens to me in nearly every picture," she said semi-seriously. "I've been opposite such men as Sterling Hayden, John Payne and Glenn Ford. While they go around with bare chests, I am wearing dresses that extend from my neck to my feet.

"Once in a while I do get a gown with a fairly exciting neckline. But the trouble is that all dresses are fitted while you are standing up. Whenever I sit down in a scene, the censor says nuh-uh. Then they haul out some lace or a rose or a bunch of flowers and cover me up.

"The rules about showing cleavage are very strict. The result is that most gowns have to be extended almost up to the neck. The only girls who can wear low-cut gowns in the movies are those who are flat-chested and wear pads."

The situation has reached such an extent as this: In her current picture, "Golden Hawk," Miss Fleming gets little chance to display her curves and actually is dressed as a boy in one sequence. With Miss Fleming's figure, this requires no small amount of technical skill.

Veteran Hump Pilot, Two Others Killed In Airplane Crash

LAFAYETTE, IND.—(AP)—A veteran of the China-Burma "Hump" run and two of his six passengers died Sunday as their plane crashed on their return home from a Canadian hunting trip.

Three officials of National Homes Corporation, world's largest manufacturer of prefabricated houses, were injured. The seventh man was unhurt.

The plane, loaded with deer, ducks and fish, clipped off the tops of two trees and plowed a quarter-mile furrow in a rain-soaked field eight miles southwest of Lafayette.

Dead were Dr. Thomas G. Graham, 43, Lafayette, National Homes company doctor; Cecile Clark, 53, painting contractor associated with National Homes, and C. Kenneth August, 37, West Lafayette, the pilot, who flew the "Hump" during World War II.

James R. Price, president of National Homes, was injured critically.

His brother, George E. Price, secretary of the firm, suffered cuts and bruises, and Ralph Shurmeyer, Fort Wayne, a National Homes dealer, suffered serious cuts and burns.

Britons Press War Against Malay Reds With Renewed Fury

SINGAPORE —(AP) —British High Commissioner Sir Henry Gurney, slain by Communists on a jungle road, was interred Monday as Britain pressed her attack on Malaya's Reds with renewed fury.

In Kuala Lumpur, thousands of the peninsula's Chinese, Indians, Malays, Eurasians and Europeans watched in silence as Sir Henry's body was carried to a grave beside those of planters, miners and police who also died at the hands of Communist terrorists in the jungles.

Five and a half companies of British and Gurkha troops sought the Communist band which ambushed the 53-year-old Gurney and his wife Saturday north of Kuala Lumpur as they drove with an escort to a hill resort for a weekend rest.

The Air Force made intensive air strikes in the area.

Michael Hogan, temporarily administering Malaya's government, said the war on the Red terrorists would be pressed with increased bitterness and intensity.

Since June, 1948, the war with the Communists has resulted in 10,000 persons killed, wounded or listed as missing on both sides. The British have battled some 3,000 to 5,000 Reds in the jungle with more than 100,000 Malayan police and 40,000 troops.

Sir Henry, determined leader of the British fight, was regarded by the Communists as their top enemy.

MGM Must Do It My Way Or Not At All—Grayson

By ERSKINE JAHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD —Behind the Screen: "My career is not my life," says Kathryn Grayson, talking about grapevine whispers she's battling with MGM over her contract and screeching like a buzzsaw over Mario Lanza and Ava Gardner stealing marquee honors from her in recent films.

Kathryn, who insists she has no hard feelings for MGM or her co-stars, said she'd give me the right of it:

"I've been at MGM 12 years and I've suddenly realized that my career is not my whole life. I'd like to go on making films for MGM but first the studio will have to let me do some things I've always wanted to do. I had two European concert tour offers this year. The studio turned them down. I want to do television and I want to travel.

"If MGM can't give me these things, I know people who will."

"To Heck With Audience"

Songwriter-Actor Hoagy Carmichael, who looks like him, has mixed portraying the late Jimmy Walker in a movie biog of Manhattan's dapper mayor. Playing himself in Fox's "Belles On Their Toes," Hoagy confided:

"I dropped the idea for two reasons. Young people don't know anything about Walker and we couldn't get a third act in the sense of any great personal accomplishments."

Hoagy's project for 1952 is a TV show. "In my show, nobody will mug right into the camera," he shuddered. "I'm going to pretend the audience isn't there. To heck with them."

UI is after Janet Leigh for a co-starring film with hubby Tony Curtis. . . . Dane Clark returns to Broadway next month for "The Number." . . . MGM still has a soft spot for Judy Garland. The studio is loaning her the wardrobe and props from several of her films for her act at New York's Palace theater. . . . The Yvonne de Carlo-Joel McCrea co-starrer, "The San Francisco Story," will be the first turn-of-the-century film about the Bay City not featuring the earthquake. With Yvonne in the film, who needs an earthquake?

Boniface Mike Romanoff about the deportment of his restaurant customers:

"New Yorkers, not movie stars, are my most demanding customers. I wish they'd never leave New York."

Lou Costello is hailing color (for "Jack and the Beanstalk") as the "greatest thing that's ever happened to Abbott and Costello. He enthused: "I never knew I had eyes until I saw myself in color. They do a lot of talking for me."

Inside on the agreement of Mario Lanza to make "The Big Cast" for MGM is the studio's give-in to Mario's demand to buy "Carrousel" for him. There also will be major script changes in "The Big Cast' story line about a star who goldbricks his way through the army.

Jean Arthur has the fan mag lensers boiling. When they tried to snap some candids of her on the "Shane" set, Jean screamed and fled to her dressing room.

Bob Stack, who was refused a labor permit to play in the British film, "The Gift Horse," is being replaced by James Donald, who was replaced by Vic Mature in "Androcles and the Lion." Confusing, eh?

A screenwriter was relating the plot of a story to a producer. He reached the point at which a gangster takes over a country store.

"A great switch," the scribe enthused. "A gangster and all these rural characters. I wish I had a title for it."

"Why," grinned the producer, "don't you call it 'Hood-Lum and Abner'?"

• • •

Mary Castle, Rita Hayworth's ringer, is concentrating on TV films with a contract to star in a dozen half-hour pictures for the small screen. No look-alike taboo in TV. . . . Dan Dailey's sudden absence from the glitter dens is a buzz-buzz item among the night-life set.

Arlene Dahl and John Payne will co-star for Pine-Thomas in a musical—"Time and Again." . . . New wrinkle in Hollywood musicals: The 50 per cent plot, 50 per cent music cycle. It started with "The Great Caruso" and continues in "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick" and "Somebody Loves Me."

Midland K&F Club To Open New Season Here Monday Night

A near-capacity attendance is expected, according to President Carroll L. Thomas, who will preside.

The dinner-meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

MacDougall, club officials said, will present a program of top-notch entertainment.

He will tell of his many and varied experiences and will demonstrate some of the skills which have made him such a terror to card sharpers and denizens of the underworld.

"Entertainment of the highest order" is the pledge of club officials concerning the Monday night program.

Mrs. Selman J. Lones Sees The World Behind Her Desk

By SUE POWELL

Travel-worn at the end of each day without having traveled at all except the distance between her home and her office is Mrs. Selman Lones, owner of the Lones Travel Service in the Leggett Building.

Happy because, she says, with every ticket she sells, whether for airplane, steamship, train or bus, she derives more than monetary benefit from the transaction.

Mrs. Lones truly has the world at her fingertips! Seated at her desk here in Midland she can immediately make contacts to set world-wide travel machinery in motion by reaching for her telephone. And too, the 10-by-16 foot mural of the world on the wall beside her helps her to visualize the places her clients are planning to go.

"Serving the traveling public is interesting and educational," says Mrs. Lones. "Daily, I am transported to Hong Kong, Naples, Winnipeg; any place a client goes in body, I go in mind. Many nights I stay awake wondering if the little retired school-teacher I sent home to Miami, Florida, by way of an extensive trip to South America is making her connections; if my oilman client arrived in New York in time to meet the deal's deadline; if the car with English-speaking chauffer I hired in Rome is waiting when my globe-trotting client arrives."

Also Is Homemaker

Mrs. Lones is a homemaker with a husband and a grown daughter. She and her husband, Selman J. Lones, have traveled a great deal, seeing Old Mexico several times, Central and South America, Canada and points of interest in the United States.

History and geography were her favorite subjects in school, and her interest in travel seemed naturally to grow out of these school-day interests.

Mind On Travel

When an opportunity was presented in 1949 for her to take over management of the General Travel Company, then in Midland, Mrs. Lones did not hesitate. But Lones had not worked in an office since her marriage and her family was conscientious objectors. Mrs. Lones and her daughter, Shirley, were a bit skeptical about what would happen to the home if the homemaker became career-minded.

"Now Selman and Shirley are about as travel-minded as I am and spend much of their spare time browsing through travel literature, scanning colorful vacation posters, or reading foreign news releases sent to my office," explained Mrs. Lones. "We eat and sleep travel. Oftentimes when we are at meals if one of them happens to mention the Midland weather, I am likely to chime in with 'It's snowing in Switzerland, it's raining in Hawaii, or a tornado is raging in the Caribbean!'"

Purchases Agency

Last September 1, just two years after Mrs. Lones became manager of General Travel Company, she purchased the agency. The name was changed to Lones Travel Service.

One of the biggest kicks her work affords, Mrs. Lones says, comes from planning honeymoon trips. Usually these are planned well in advance of the wedding and all papers in connection with a trip are kept in a special file under lock and key so the lovers' secret is safe. Planning a no-limit honeymoon trip has its points but the real pleasure comes in giving a nice trip to those short of time and with little money.

No Sunday Travel

One very religious client was to make an extensive trip by air. She left all details up to Mrs. Lones with only one stipulation: that she not be in the air on any Sunday. She wanted to be able to attend church. Mrs. Lones had to do some figuring but the client completed the trip with only week-day travel.

Then, there was a Midland mother whose daughter was living in Tokyo. She came to Mrs. Lones' office and said, "I'm homesick to see my daughter. How soon can you deliver her a prepaid ticket home? In one hour, not only was the ticket delivered into her daughter's hands but $100 "landing" cash money was handed over, as well. The mother paid for the accommodations here in Mrs. Lones' office. In a few days the daughter came in to thank Mrs. Lones for the remarkable service.

"Travel has been so simplified and become so much more economical," said Mrs. Lones, "trips to foreign countries are as possible for the secretary as for the millionaire, if not on such an elaborate scale. Where a trip to Europe was once the event of a lifetime, it is now a common occurrence."

Off To Paris

One day recently a ranch couple came into the travel office. They explained to Mrs. Lones they had just sold a load of calves and wanted to take a trip. They had no idea where they wanted to go. "How much money do you want to spend?" Mrs. Lones asked. When they named the amount, she said, "How about two weeks in Paris?" In 24 hours they were in the skyways headed for France.

An airplane business trip to New York one day and back the next, says Mrs. Lones, is almost as ordinary as a car trip to Lubbock or Abilene.

A lot of things can give Mrs. Lones concern about her travel clients. Weather is the number-one worry about her air travelers. Recently, the seamen's strike on the Atlantic seaboard held up some of her steamship tourists in New York for several days. But with the strike ended and travel resumed, the clients found hotel reservations, conveyances and other accommodations waiting as scheduled. On many days, Mrs. Lones plans to many as 50 trips, with no two alike.

Although she spends only regular office hours at her desk, she is on call 24 hours a day. Symbolic of her work is the constant traffic through her office in the lobby of the Leggett Annex.

"These two years in travel," said Mrs. Lones, "have made travel a career for me. I love it!"

Inspiration For All

You have to salute ccurage wherever you find it. And since August 11 it has been continuously and conspicuously present in the day-to-day behavior of a group of major league baseball players called the New York Giants.

Run through the world's roster of trouble—Korea, Indo-China, Iran—and baseball or any other sport looks like the most microscopic trifle by comparison. Yet, whether the goals be great or small, the triumph over obstacles, the comeback from apparent sure defeat always is a lesson and example.

Early in the year this team, touted by many as the likeliest winner of the National League pennant, confounded its advocates by tumbling into an 11-game losing streak. The prophets quietly interred the Giants for 1951.

With the spotlight off them, their manager, Leo Durocher, began reshuffling the Giants' lineup. Slowly they began to win, to pull up. But by this time their chief opponents, the Brooklyn Dodgers, were thundering along at high pace and winning plaudits as one of baseball's great teams of recent memory.

• • •

No one gave the Giants a chance—except the Giants. On August 12 their miracle was born. They won two games and sliced one game off the Dodgers' seemingly insurmountable 13 1/2-game lead. The next time the Giants lost it was August 28, and in the interval they captured 16 in a row.

The Dodgers' lead was down to five. For days thereafter, it hovered around the five, to seven-game mark.

But by now time was working for the Dodgers. With just two weeks to go, the sturdy Brooklyn team was holding its margin. Still the Giants fought on. They snipped half a game off the lead, another half, then a full game.

Yet the discouragements were not over. In Cincinnati, the Giants lost a precious game in the late innings, and fell 4 1/2 games back. There were just 10 days to go.

The sports writers were saying now that the Giants couldn't win it, the Dodgers could only lose it.

You didn't have to tell the Giants. So they did their part. They went out and won their last seven games in succession. That gave them 37 victories in their last 44 contests.

That left it up to the Dodgers. And here, on the verge of sealing their triumph, the men from Brooklyn faltered. Tired, harried by their pressing pursuers, they lost their shine and poise and look of greatness. They lost their lead two days before the end, and had to hang on doggedly to finish the season in a dead heat.

The Giants, dazed by the miracle of their own ascent from obscurity, found themselves in a three-game playoff with the Dodgers. Riding on the momentum of their spirited drive, they won the first tense fight.

Then, standing on the threshold of sporting glory, the Giants suddenly broke open. The Dodgers crushed them, 10 to 0. The final test was at hand. And when Brooklyn leaped into a late 4 to 1 lead, it looked as if the Giants would fall one vital chapter short of finishing their bright story.

But the New York team had forgotten the ways of defeat. To them, a chance remaining was a chance to be seized. And seize it they did, in the last inning of the last game, when a plucky Scotsman named Bobby Thomson smashed out a three-run homer to give them victory by 5 to 4. The Giants' miracle was complete.

It's only a game, this baseball. But on some future Heartbreak Ridge, young men who saw or heard what the Giants did in 1951 may remember. And they, too, may battle back from defeat—not least because of what they remembered.

Russian Brand Of Logic

A good deal of the time the Soviet Union scoffs at the U. S. economy as outmoded and ultimately doomed. Pravda's propagandists continually forecast a shuddering collapse into a new and probably fatal depression.

Thus it strikes American ears oddly to hear Russia demanding that the United States pay half the yearly operating costs of the United Nations, instead of the present 39 per cent.

The Russians argued that the American economy appears quite capable of bearing the extra load. Indeed, a Mr. A. A. Coldatov declared comparative studies of various national incomes proved it.

You see the overpowering logic of their position, don't you?

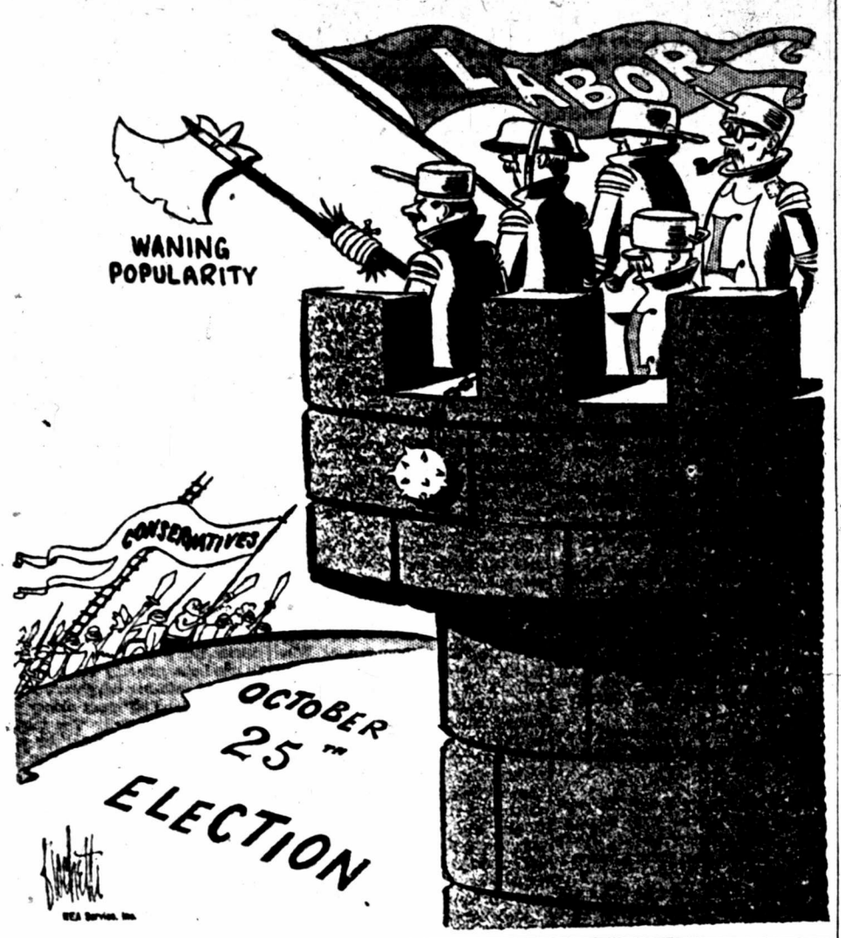
Toss all their thoughts into one hopper and here's what you find the master propagandists saying:

"Your capitalism system is through, America. It's on its last legs. It will topple any day now. So kick in another 10 per cent to UN expenses. You can stand it better than the rest of us—the figures prove it."

Catch on?

It doesn't count if you're an optimist only because you are too lazy to kick.

The Watch On The Thames



• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Chiang's aide keeps son out of U. S. Army; Creates fictitious embassy post to circumvent draft; Chief Justice Vinson stays down-to-earth.

WASHINGTON — A new and interesting little scandal has turned up regarding the chief of staff of the Chinese Army.

Last Summer this column dug up some amazing facts regarding Gen. C. J. Chow, who is Chiang Kai-Shek's right-hand man, and who sidetracked $444,706.53 into a private bank account in New York. The money was supposed to pay for U. S. war equipment, but was transferred instead to the name of a fictitious firm, the Lee Sun Company in the National City Bank.

Despite this, General Chow is the man who will handle the spending of the new $300,000,000 which the American taxpayers and Congress have just voted to hand Chiang Kai-Shek.

And on top of juggling American aid money, this column now has learned that the same General Chow also pulled wires to keep his son out of the draft.

His son, I. Shi Chow, was studying at San Mateo College, California, and after the Korean war started, General Chow heard that his son as a resident alien might become subject to the American draft. So Chow hastily pulled strings to have the boy transferred to the Chinese Embassy staff.

Actually, young I. Shi Chow never came near the embasy. He has continued studies at San Mateo College as a diplomat-draft-exempt.

The order, creating a fictitious post for the son of the No. 2 Nationalist, was transmitted January 12 to the Chinese air attache, Col. Tseng Ching-Lan. Here is a translation of that order, signed by Chow Ming Hsiang, General Chow's uncle, who frequently speaks for the general. The term, "young brother," is a Chinese expression of intimacy and courtesy.

"Young brother I-Shih is studying in U. S. A. and subject to the draft laws of the government there," wrote Chow. "Loo Ying-Teh (chief of the Second Chinese Air Force) has written to you and asked your favor in arranging a nominal post for I-Shih, without pay, at the attache's offices so that he may continue his studies. Kindly accomplish the arrangement immediately."

Chinese Ambassador Bows

Since General Chow is second in power to Chiang Kai-Shek himself, conscientious Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo reluctantly went along with this trickery and forwarded an official note to the State Department on April 17 requesting a "change in the residence status of Mr. I. Shi Chow.

"Mr. Chow was admitted at Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, on November 14, 1948, by a plane of the China National Aviation Corporation, as a temporary visitor. He has since been appointed as a clerk in the office of the air attache of the embassy and assumed his duties on January 1, 1951," the ambassador reported untruthfully to the State Department. Actually, young Chow hasn't worked a day at the embassy.

The State Department accepted the Chinese ambassador's word, notified him on August 15 that "Mr. Chow has been granted a change of status from section 3 (2) to that under section 3 (1) of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended, as an accredited official of the Chinese government."

Note — High Chinese Nationalists not only have diverted American aid money into private bank accounts, but have used it to speculate on the commodity market, tax free. This money also has been used to finance the smear campaigns against Secretary of State Acheson, General Marshall and anyone else reluctant to untie the American purse strings for Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

This high-powered, highly paid China lobby has tried to convince the American public that anyone who opposes Chiang automatically is a Communist. The real truth is that the most effective opposition to the Chinese Communists come from guerrilla bands inside China, having no connection with the Nationalists. The Defense Department is in touch with these guerrilla bands, and is arming and aiding them — completely independent of Chiang.

Vinson's Yellow Shoes

Homespun, down-to-earth Fred Vinson, chief justice of the United States, goes out to dinner occasionally, but hostesses sometimes tear their hair over his clothes.

The other day he turned up at the home of Mrs. Arthur Gardner dressed in a gray suit and tan shoes. Some guests were horrified.

Mrs. Gardner come from Detroit. Her father incorporated the original Ford company when Henry, Sr., first began making automobiles, and got paid off in stock. It made him a millionaire. Now a Washingtonian, Susie Gardner gives gay, select dinner parties and this one was in honor of retiring U. S. Ambassador to Ireland George Garrett.

Although some of the smartly clad guests turned up their noses at the chief justice's yellow shoes, he didn't pay any attention. When you're boss of the Supreme Court, you can afford not to.

On another occasion the chief justice was seated unobstrusively at a dinner given by glamorous Gwen Cafritz when she called on Greek Ambassador Politis to speak.

"My country," he said, "is known for two things—its poverty and its key position between the Communist world and the West."

Chief Justice Argues

Next Madame Cafritz asked the chief justice to speak.

"I find myself taking vigorous exception to the Greek ambassador," began Vinson with a tinge of ferocity. "I don't agree with him. He's just all wrong."

No diplomat stationed in Washington likes to be reprimanded by the chief justice. Guests looked apprehensively at Ambassador Politis.

"The ambassador described Greece as a poor country," continued Vinson. "But what country is poor that gave us democracy? What country is poor that gave us the Acropolis, Grecian art, Grecian architecture, and its great philosophers?"

The chief justice continued to recount the glories Greece had given the world, then concluded: "No, what little we Americans have given Greece today in food, money and military support will never equal what Greece, through the centuries, has given us."

The ambassador beamed. The nervous guests relaxed.

More Americans Buy, Hold Defense Bonds

WASHINGTON —(AP)— More people are buying more defense bonds —and hanging on to them—than ever before, the Treasury reported Sunday.

A new peak of $34,566,000,000 in defense bonds outstanding was reached October 1. The previous high was $34,542,000,000 in July, 1950.

Through August of this year, bond sales were 17 per cent below last year in dollar volume but the number of bonds sold was at a five-year peak, six per cent above last year. Sale of $25 bonds was up 16 per cent but a 38 per cent drop in the sale of $1,000 bonds cut into the dollar volume.

• JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For NEA Service

Brooklyn was once known as the city of churches and now seems to be most famous for its baseball team. It is also raising a large crop of young bridge experts, so maybe Brooklyn will soon have another claim to fame.

Four of these young men, barely out of their teens, made up a team in the recent national championships at Washington, together with Mrs. Augusta Cantor, of New York. In their very first round they showed the quality of their game by knocking out a strong Cleveland team that has several national championships notched on its belt.

The hand shown today played an important part in their victory. Mrs. Cantor made the key decision with the North cards when she bid three no-trump instead of rebidding her hearts.

It was unusual, of course, to prefer a no-trump contract with a hand that contained a strong six-card major suit and a singleton. Mrs. Cantor's reason was that East was bound to be short in spades and might be able to defeat a heart contract by ruffing spades. She had three spades in her own hand, counted on South to have at least three for his bid of two no-trump, and counted on West to have at least five for his opening bid. That left two at most for East, with a very strong chance that East had only one.

Opening lead—♠ J

The play at no-trump was very simple. West led the pack of spades, which rode around to declarer's queen. Jerry Baraha, the Brooklyn expert who was playing the South hand, next developed the diamonds and clubs, and eventually fell back on the hearts to make his game contract. East couldn't gain the lead with the proverbial crowbar, so declarer's king of spades was safe against attack. Barsha made ten tricks for a score of 630 points.

When the hand was played at the other table, the Cleveland team got to four hearts doubled with the North-South cards. The singleton spade was opened, and East managed to ruff two spades with his low trumps. The ace of spades, two spade ruffs, the ace of diamonds, and a natural trump trick were enough to set the contract two tricks. North actually became annoyed and dropped an additional trick, for a loss of 800 points. The total swing on this hand was therefore 1430 points.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

1 Diamond	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-4-2, Hearts K-J-9, Diamonds 3-2, Clubs A-K-10. What do you do?

A—Bid two spades. Your high-card strength is substantially more than what you would need for a minimum opening bid of one no-trump. Hence you have a sound jump response. If your partner cannot raise spades, you are quite willing to rebid in no-trump, thus showing the general nature of your strength.

TODAY'S QUESTION

With East-West vulnerable, the bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 Heart	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades Q-6-5-3, Hearts 4-2, Diamonds K-J-8, Clubs A-10-9-7. What do you do?

Time Element Key To All-Out Atomic Weapon Production

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Connecticut Senator Brien McMahon's challenging idea to spend more money on the new atomic weapons in order to cut down expenditures on conventional weapons is regarded by some military experts as a booby trap.

There is a great temptation here to hail Senator McMahon, who is chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, as another Billy Mitchell — the pioneer of a new kind of warfare.

The gimmick in the McMahon doctrine is the time element. How long will it be before these new super-weapons are ready? Senator McMahon himself says it would take three years.

A lot of false hopes may have been put in the minds of many people by recent official announcements on new weapons. New plants to build a hydrogen bomb. Atomic warheads for artillery shells. Contracts let for atomic-powered planes and submarines.

Navy revelation that atomic bombs now have been reduced in size so they can be flown from aircraft carriers. Air Force revelation of the organization of the first B-61 Matador guided missile squadron. President Truman's San Francisco speech on "fantastic new weapons."

People read about these things in the newspapers and then ask, "If we've got such stuff, why don't we use it in Korea and get the war over with there?"

Quantity Production

The simple, honest and direct answer to this question is that quantity production of a lot of these weapons may be three and even five years away. And until such time as these new weapons are proven, "We must be able to defend ourselves and win battles with tested, available armaments," as Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett puts it.

Congress just now is in the process of appropriating the second half-billion dollars to build the plant in which hydrogen bomb materials presumably will be manufactured.

While Army and Navy have let contracts to build the airframe and the submarine hull that presumably will be driven by atomic-powered engines, the land-based prototypes of those engines have not yet been built at the Atomic Energy Commission's Arco, Idaho, reactor center.

The one most positive, new atomic warfare development on which it is possible to pin some hope is the Exercise Desert Rock maneuver to be held on the Nevada test site this month. Five thousand troops—a regimental combat team equal to a third of a division—will assume a combat position, complete with trenches, gun emplacements and barbed wire.

The troops then will withdraw a safe distance and one of the new baby atomic bombs will be dropped. The troops then will move back into position—amply protected against radiation hazards — to see what would have happened to them if they had stayed put.

Smaller Operations

The most interesting thing about this exercise is that it indicates use of a bomb considered tactically adequate to attack a regimental position. Not a divisional front target, and not a whole city like Hiroshima will be the target, but an area approximately half a mile square.

Senator McMahon in his speech declared that "If we mass produce this (atomic) weapon . . . the cost of a single bomb will become less than the cost of a single tank." The senator was not speaking specifically of the baby bomb, but of A-bombs in general. Maybe baby bombs could be made cheaper. But the average cost of a medium tank today is around $250,000.

That's still considerable money for one bang. But if three or even four such bombs could be used effectively to destroy an enemy division, the cost would be only $1,000,000, which would be cheap.

The problem which Senator McMahon poses therefore becomes something for the slide-rule boys. It is the economics of destruction, if you please, and which kind is cheaper — atomic or conventional warfare?

A few, very round and very rough, rule-of-thumb figures may give some basis for comparison. It now costs $1,000,000 a day to keep an American division in the field, if you count in all the reserves, supplies and overhead, clear back to the Pentagon.

In the first 15 months of the Korean campaign, American artillery fired more than 8,000,000 rounds of ammunition costing, at today's replacement prices, almost $500,000,000.

Whenever the new guided missile, atomic-type warfare can be fought for less money than that, it will be adopted.

THE STORY: John Clayton, a former civilian scout, is captured and adopted by the Sioux Chief Crazy Horse. Clayton falls in love with North Star, an Indian holy woman, but taboos make this love seem hopeless. Then an old enemy of Clayton's named Slatemeyer kidnaps North Star. Clayton pursues and overtakes Slatemeyer and 30 Crow warriors who assisted in the kidnaping. Clayton slays a guard who is watching Star, and together they flee from the camp just as Crazy Horse and some Sioux arrive on the scene to chase away the Crow warriors.

XIX

IN the rear of the fleeing Crows went the howling Sioux, the whole pack of them being lost in a down-valley dustcloud in less than two minutes. Turning to Star I laughed aloud, the first genuine release from tension in days.

"In all the world," I announced joyously, seizing her outstretched hands, feeling now the full post-danger letdown, "we haven't a thing to worry about but Slatemeyer!"

"Isn't that enough?" The question fell with singular flatness in the morning stillness of the hillside.

Beside me I felt, rather than heard, Star's stiffening gasp.

Slatemeyer stood on the hillside behind us, his back to the morning sun, as quietly at ease as though in Market Square at Kansas City.

Standing there black against the sun he looked enormous. In the card game at Kansas City I had been able to study him only as he squatted on his haunches. I had been impressed then, but not as I was now.

Two silver-mounted pistols hung low and forward on his thighs, the holsters and crossed cartridge belts in black leather and silver. In the cradle of his right arm rested a new rifle. A flat-crowned black hat and black neckcloth with heavy silver slipring completed his outfit.

"Turn around slowly and drop your holsters and the knife."

Turning slowly, I unbuckled my guns, letting them slide to the ground. Reaching inside my shirt for the knife thong I tensed my body for what would likely be my last lunge. If I could strike fast enough to get the blade into him before the lead that would be in me weighted me down, Star might—

"If that knife touches your hand the squaw gets shot." Behind me the dry click of a cocking rifle put the period on his warning. "Pull the thong over your head. Let the knife dangle where I can see it all the time. Then drop it. I don't want to fire a shot. Indians get curious about shots. Drop the knife."

If I didn't drop the knife he would shoot if it brought the whole Bad Face band down on him. He was literal. What he said you'd better believe. I dropped the knife.

"Now turn around."

I obeyed.

"Pick that stuff up, girl."

• • •

STAR glanced at the guns and knife disdainfully, making no move. He stepped in close to her, repeating, "Pick it up."

She spat in his face. He stood expressionless, letting the spittle course his cheek untouched.

"Pick it up, Star." This, tersely, from me. "Pick it up or we're both dead."

"I would rather be," she snarled, her lips drawn back savagely over the white teeth.

"Star. Pick it up. I order you to do it." I used the Sioux phrase with which the brave terminates all tipi arguments when he has heard enough. She looked at me, surprised, hesitated, smiled quizzically and dropped to one knee, picking up the knife and guns.

"Yes?" she queried, turning obediently to me.

"Do as he tells you."

"Throw them over the rocks behind you—down the hill," Slatemeyer ordered.

As she turned to do so he stepped quickly in behind her. When she threw the weapons he struck her across the head with the barrel of the rifle. She dropped soundlessly. "She'll keep," he said, not even glancing down to see if she would or not.

Facing me, he added, "Back up, in between those rocks. Those two high ones that wedge together."

I stepped back until my shoulders touched the boulders. They were 12 feet high with smooth vertical sides. A puma couldn't have gotten out of that spot. The only way was through the figure fronting the opening.

"They're yours," he grunted. "All you have to do is to get them." As he spoke he drew his knife, starting in toward me. "No noise," he explained, tonelessly, making a slight twisting gesture with the blade.

• • •

I SUPPOSE no man is totally without some shred of the actor in him, some raveling of humor in the cloth of his makeup. Deep inside Slatemeyer lurked a maverick strain of mirth. His weakening to it in this moment was one of those weird split-hair things; the sort of featherweight foolishness that has cost many a man many a battle. Pausing five feet from me, his eyes never leaving mine, he made his memorable sally into sarcasm.

Between the pause and the speech I gathered myself to counter his attack.

"In all the world," he began, his mimicry of my stupid announcement to Star being painfully good, "I have nothing to worry about but Slatemeyer—"

"—and Crazy Horse." The deep Sioux gutteral dropped into the end of Slatemeyer's sentence and left no room for argument.

The whiskey runner froze and I swept my gaze upward past him. Fifteen yards up the hill stood the war chief and 10 Oglala braves.

Congress Takes Air Force To Task For Release On Missiles

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Air Force has been asked by a congressional committee to explain why information was released to the press and public on the new guided missile "Matador."

The request, by the House Military Appropriations subcommittee, was disclosed Sunday in a report of committee hearings on the multi-billion dollar military public works program.

Chairman Mahon (D-Texas) described the release as "outrageous."

The Air Force announced September 13 that it was forming its first guided missile squadron, equipped with the pilotless bomber, "Matador." Mahon said the weapon was not mentioned by name in the committee hearings and that committee members discussed it "in hushed tones."

Spraberry Operators To Meet Here October 19-20

Operators with holdings in the Spraberry Trend oil fields of Midland, Martin, Upton, Reagan and Dawson Counties are to pool their geologic and operations brains here October 19-20. The meeting is sponsored by the Texas Petroleum Research Committee.

They hope to save time and expense of individual trial and error by developing the most efficient means of producing from the huge sandstone stratum, estimated to hold one of the world's largest oil reserves.

Spraberry production is from a sandstone, unlike the limestone producing areas of West Texas. Present production is believed coming only from crevices. New methods will be necessary to produce from a vast majority of the area, where oil is held in a hard and solid formation. The Spraberry Trend is estimated to extend six miles wide and possibly 80 miles long through five counties.

The sponsor of the symposium is a joint organization of the University of Texas, Texas A&M and the Texas Railroad Commission. It was organized three years ago to seek means of increasing the total recovery of oil from Texas fields through improvement of production methods and new methods.

On Leave From University

Dr. George Fancher, on leave from the University of Texas, is director of the committee's research program.

Representatives of companies operating in the area and other petroleum experts will discuss history and development of the Spraberry Trend, stratigraphy and structure, relationship of fractures to accumulation of oil, drilling and casing problems and mud problems in the first session.

The first day's session will begin at 9 a.m. and include papers on geology, drilling techniques and reservoir engineering, according to C. E. Cardwell, Jr., of Midland, who is in charge of arrangements.

For Second Day

The program for the second day, starting at 8:30 a.m., will be devoted to completion practices.

Banquet speaker will be Dr. Harold N. Fisk of the Humble Oil and Refining Company whose subject will be, "Joint Fractures in Rocks." The banquet, to be held the night of October 19 will be in Hotel Scharbauer, with William J. Murray, Jr., member of the Railroad Commission of Texas, as toastmaster.

Banquet reservations are being handled by Harward Fisher, Post Office Box 1663, Midland. The banquet accommodations will be limited to 250 persons.

Veteran Kills Two Women To Stay Out Of Mental Hospital

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(AP)— The mother and grandmother of a Harvard-schooled war veteran were found slain in their mansion off Angel Street Monday, and police quoted the veteran as saying he killed them because he feared they would send him back to a mental hospital.

Strangled in their nightgowns were Mrs. Celeste Fisk McConihe, 50, and Mrs. Flora J. Capron Fisk, 81, both widows.

Seized by Connecticut police after an automobile accident and later committed temporarily to Norwich Hospital, an institution for mental patients, was Warren Fisk McConihe, 27.

Lt. Robert Rundle of the Connecticut State Police quoted the son as saying he strangled his mother and "smashed them with a paperweight."

Rundle said McConihe was undergoing routine questioning after being arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident in East Hampton, Conn., late Sunday. Suddenly, Rundle said, McConihe leaped upon two troopers in the Colchester Barracks and tried to grab them by the throat.

He was removed to Norwich Hospital and there, Rundle said, McConihe "suddenly broke down and confessed the murders."

Providence police were notified. They forced a window in the three-story mansion and found the bodies in a second floor bedroom.

Medical Examiner John A. Picozzi said the grandmother was garroted with the son's striped pajama top. The mother, he said, was garroted "with the belt from the same pajamas."

Lt. Thomas J. Gorman said the slayings apparently occurred "either Saturday night or Sunday morning."

He said the son was discharged from a private mental hospital last July "at his mother's request."

Paratrooper Leaps To Death From Bridge

MEMPHIS, TENN.—(AP)—A young paratrooper plummeted 115 feet to death here when he jumped off a Mississippi River bridge because of a "dare" from his two companions.

Inspector U. T. Bartholomew identified him as Pfc. Norman Seidenzahl of Baltimore, Md., stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky., with the 11th Airborne Division. The body was not recovered.

His two paratrooper buddies told police Seidenzahl vaulted the bridge rail after they had jokingly challenged him to make the jump. They said he wrenched away when they tried to hold him.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And Voices Talking

Uncle Bunkum lives at the zoo. He likes to live there in his monkey cage, but now he was happy to visit in the Great Forest. He had come to visit with Daddy Ringtail, and now he was down in the chicken yard with Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy.

Said Uncle Bunkum: "You say the Featherman grabs away feathers from the rooster, just to see the rooster jump?"

"Sure," said Mugwump, "and it sure is fun to do it."

"Yes sir," said Uncle Bunkum, "I bet it is fun to do it," but just as Uncle Bunkum said these words—

"Bong-g-g!" came a mysterious noise from nowhere. The voice was Uncle Bunkum's conscience.

"Uncle Bunkum!" said the voice of his conscience. "Shame, shame on you, Uncle Bunkum. Oh, you can't see me, but I go with you wherever you go. I am your conscience. I try to keep you out of mischief. It is hard, hard work to do it."

"Sorry to keep you so busy, Mr. Conscience," said Uncle Bunkum.

"Oh, I like to stay busy, just as long as I keep you out of mischief. Now don't you grab away rooster feathers!"

"Well, sir," said Uncle Bunkum—and he was about to say he would leave the rooster alone—but another voice began to talk.

"The voice said: "Hey there, Uncle Bunkum! Hey there, Mugwump! What's the matter with you fellows? Why don't you grab away rooster feathers? It ought to be fun to do it!

"Who—who are you?" Mugwump asked.

"Oh, you can't see me," said the voice, "but I go with you wherever you go, trying to get you into mischief. I am the Other Mugwump, and now let's see you grab away some rooster feathers for mischief!"

"Don't do it!" said the voice of Uncle Bunkum's conscience. "Don't do it!" And oh, it was really exciting to hear the voices arguing about it, and neither Mugwump nor Uncle Bunkum knew which of the voices to listen to. Really now, those rooster feathers are in terrible danger, and tomorrow I'll tell you about the fight between the other Mugwump and Uncle Bunkum's Conscience. Happy day!

Yes—if you want a Cadillac, come in and order it. And then stand firm until you get it.

It's far, far better to wait—than be sorry. For, remember, there is nothing that can take the place of a Cadillac.

Bulldogs To Meet Poly High Saturday Night In Cowtown

Dangerous Poly High School of Fort Worth furnishes the opposition for the Midland Bulldogs this weekend as Midland tries to move back onto the winning track after losing its first contest of the year, a 19-13 affair to Brownwood Friday night.

The game will be played on Fort Worth's Farrington Field, with kickoff time set for 8 p.m. Saturday.

"Poly is dangerous," Coach Tugboat Jones said Monday. "The Parrots have scored 53 points in their last two ball games."

Using a dangerous aerial attack, Poly overwhelmed Greenville, 26 to 13, Friday night. The week previously, Plainview had defeated the Cowtowners, 40 to 27.

Around the area, the beginning of loop play in District 1-AAAA highlights action, with 5-A teams seeing second-round action in family squabbles.

In AAAA play, two unbeaten teams meet in Odessa Friday night, with Borger playing the Bronchos. San Angelo goes to Abilene, Lubbock is at Amarillo, and Pampa is idle.

District 8-AA lines up this way: Littlefield at Seminole, Lakeview at Monahans, Pecos at Ozona and Kermit at Andrews, in the first conference contest of the year.

Pecos, Seminole and Kermit all have looked potent recently, and any of the teams could muddle through to the title. Only Andrews and Monahans looks too weak to contend for the crown, with district play due really to begin next week.

Conference Games

Second-week conference clashes in 5-A see Alpine at Fort Stockton, Marfa at Wink, Crane at Big Lake, and McCamey at Iraan.

The McCamey-Iraan clash should be a lulu. Iraan surprised the experts by crushing Big Lake, 46 to 0, last week, while McCamey breezed past Alpine, 26 to 0.

Wink, however, still is the favorite. The Wildcats walloped Crane, 42 to 20, last week. Marfa nudged Fort Stockton, 20 to 19, in the other clash last weekend.

The 33-0 win for Sweetwater over San Angelo caused 1-AAA teams to eye Pat Gerald's Mustangs warily Monday. It was the first win in four starts for the Mustangs, who expect to be rugged, once the district play gets underway.

Big Spring gets a much-needed rest this week, after absorbing four defeats, the latest of which was a 40 to 0 loss to Ysleta. Plainview also is open.

Vernon plays weak North Side (Fort Worth) at Vernon Friday night, while Lamesa expects to have little trouble with Mineral Wells in a contest at Lamesa Friday night.

Stanton goes to Seagraves for a "homecoming" Friday night. Leo Fields, Seagraves coach, tutored Stanton the last three years, and the fur is expected to fly when the two teams get together. Stanton has failed to score in four games, losing 6-0 to Crosbyton last weekend.

Other Games

Other games include:

Thursday: Bowie El Paso at Cathedral El Paso, Sunset (D) at Jesuit (D), Reagan (H) at Sam Houston (H), Port Neches at Beaumont.

Friday: Ysleta at El Paso High, Jefferson (El Paso) at Highland (Albuquerque), Riverside (Fort Worth) at Fort Worth Tech, Waco at Sherman, Longview at Tyler, Galena Park at Baytown, Lufkin at Orange, Austin El Paso at Brownwood, North Dallas at Breckenridge, Arlington at Weatherford, Paris at Denton, Cleburne at Gladewater, Forest (D) at Corsicana, Paschal (FW) at Palestine, Arlington Heights (FW) at Temple.

Houston Slips By Texas Tech, 6-0

HOUSTON—Gene Shannon fled 32 yards with a touchdown in the final period Saturday night, as the University of Houston beat Texas Tech, 6 to 0.

With only 10 minutes remaining, Frank James, Houston guard, fell on a fumble at the Tech 32-yard line. Shannon, on the first play, skipped the distance to score.

Shannon picked up 126 yards in 15 carries. Bobby Cavazos of Tech rolled up 103 yards in 22 carries, but couldn't dent the rugged Houston line in the clinches. Houston led in first downs, 19 to 16.

SMU, Notre Dame Tilt Heads SWC Football Schedule

DALLAS —(AP)— H. N. Russell, coach of SMU, says Notre Dame's team is as good as the 1949 eleven that won the national championship.

Thus, he declared Monday, Notre Dame should be a four-touchdown favorite over SMU in their game at South Bend, Ind., Saturday.

"My scouts report that Notre Dame has the same type team as 1949 when we were four-touchdown underdogs before we played them," said Russell. "That should be about the same margin this time." Notre Dame beat SMU, 27-20.

He described Notre Dame as "big, powerful and potent and anything you want to say about them. They have some sophomores to be sure but when a sophomore makes the Notre Dame team he's bound to be a great boy."

Russell said the fans should not be deceived by the SMU showing last week in crushing Missouri, 34-0. "That's the weakest Missouri team in some time," Russell said. "I don't know whether I have a good team or not."

Strong Running

Leahy, here to scout the game, said SMU had a fine team—good blocking, good defensively, strong running. "I was surprised at the running game showed by SMU," he said. "I didn't know they had anything like that."

Leahy remarked that his season had already run its course. "We won't be scoring many points from here on out," he said.

"Mr. Leahy is a fine, southern gentleman who always says nice things about you," Russell commented. "I know he's not trying to make us over confident at all. He's just a very nice gentleman who likes to be complimentary."

Russell said he expected his squad to be at full strength Saturday when it goes to South Bend. "I am hopeful we can make it a good game," he added.

Hornsby To Pilot Browns

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— Rogers Hornsby, ex-major league great, has signed to manage the St. Louis Browns of the American League for three years, Owner Bill Veeck announced Monday.

No financial terms were disclosed except that Hornsby's salary will be the greatest ever paid a Browns' manager.

Hornsby came East for the World Series from Seattle, where he managed the Pacific Coast League entry the last season. He managed the Browns briefly during the Thirties and starred both as a manager and a player with the Cardinals, St. Louis' National League team.

Veeck said Hornsby's coaches would be determined mutually later.

When Hornsby left the coast on his series trip he said he was considering three offers to return to the majors. None was identified.

Hornsby replaces Zack Taylor.

Taylor has been promised a job with the Browns' organization.

Hornsby is in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown. In his major league career, which started in 1915, he won the National League batting championship six times in a row, starting with 1920 when he had an average of .370. In 1924 he reached the amazing batting mark of .424.

In his long career as a second baseman, he served in turn with the Cardinals, Giants, Braves and Cubs in the National League and the Browns in the American League. He was player-manager of the Cardinals in 1925, and in 1926 led the Cardinals to the pennant.

Since 1937, when he was released by the Browns, Hornsby has been active in both major and minor league baseball.

There are 50,000 Indians in New Mexico.

If At First You Don't Succeed—

NEW YORK — (AP) — Charles Dressen, whose Brooklyn club blew a 13 1/2-game in seven weeks to lose the National League pennant to the New York Giants, will manage the Dodgers in 1952, the Associated Press learned Monday.

A top Brooklyn official said the announcement of the rehiring of Dressen for next year will be made "Four or five days after the end of the World Series."

'Not Hitting,' Says Stengal

NEW YORK —(AP)— Saved by rain from gambling on Johnny Sain, Manager Casey Stengel switched to Allie Reynolds (17-8), his Yankee ace, in an effort to even the World Series in Monday's fourth game at the Polo Grounds. Reynolds was to go against Sal Maglie (23-6), the Giants' best.

Stengel was fully dressed in his uniform when Ford Frick, in his first act as newly-elected commissioner, called off the game at 11:23 a.m. (EST). Frick surveyed the field, listened to the thunder, watched the rain and announced the postponement. It poured most of the rest of the day.

It was the first rainout in the series since 1941 when the third Dodger-Yank game at Brooklyn was postponed. The Yanks and Giants had a wet time in 1936, finishing the first game in a heavy storm and calling off the second.

Sked Moved Back

As is customary in all series, tickets for game No. Four were honored Monday and the entire schedule will be pushed back a day. They'll play at the Polo Grounds again Tuesday. If it isn't over then, they will return to the stadium Wednesday and Thursday.

The Giants all showed up at the park because they had a meeting to decide how they'd split the series cash. They can't announce what they did until the commissioner approves the division. Only a few of the Yanks came up town, hearing by phone or radio of the postponement.

The few Yanks who did make an appearance still were talking about Saturday's "drop kick" by Eddie Stanky out of Phil Rizzuto's glove.

"You can't kick or squawk about anybody kicking" Stengel commented in Stenglesese. "If you take the ball out of a man's hand it's obviously intentional. But when they kick it, who knows? They knew the name of the man (Stanky), knew what he was. Only thing I hollered about was I didn't think he ever touched second base."

Stanky's "field goal" started the Giants on the way to a big five-run inning, capped by Whitey Lockman's homer with two on, and knocked out Vic Raschi.

There seemed to be no chance that either of the clubs would be able to use their crippled right fielders in the series. Mickey Mantle is lost to the Yanks and Don Mueller to the Giants.

Stengel summed up the series so far when he said "We've been playing like we thought it was all over. And it's not over. I said to myself last night it looks like we're expecting to go home. Sure I've been disappointed in Reynolds and Raschi. But we're just not hitting. They (Giants) have been doing pretty good with three home runs —one against Brooklyn and two against us. Two men on each time. We got two but nobody on base.

DiMaggio Says He Has 'Just Been Lousy'

NEW YORK —(AP)— Joe DiMaggio, whose failure to hit safely in the first three World Series games has the entire baseball world feeling sorry for him, Monday said he had asked Lefty O'Doul, his old manager, for help.

The Yankee outfielder, probably the best ball player of our time, has gone 11 for 0 during the Series, and has left 10 runners stranded on the bases while the Yankees were losing two out of three to the Giants.

"I've just been lousy," Joe admitted frankly. "That's all. I'm not looking for sympathy. I don't want any."

O'Doul had called for discussion of the post-season baseball tour to the orient which Lefty is conducting, and DiMaggio asked him:

"What am I doing wrong up there? I think I've lost the strike zone."

O'Doul advised him to cut down on his swing and change his stance slightly.

TCU May Lose Ace Back, Mal Fowler

FORT WORTH — (AP) — TCU faced the loss Monday of its star quarterback, Malvin Fowler.

Fowler reinjured his knee, on which an operation was performed last Winter, in the game with Arkansas.

Trainer Elmer Brown said it would be several days before an accurate estimate could be made on Fowler's chances to play any more this season.

Knee ligaments were strained and possibly torn.

Bullet Bill Dudley, halfback for the Washington Redskins, was born on Christmas Eve, 1921, in Bluefield, Va.

A couple of predictions we made 'way back last Winter come to mind.

We said: (a) That the New York Giants and New York Yankees would meet in the World Series, which they did and (b) that our wife would present us with a full-back, which she didn't.

Neither prediction has caused us any displeasure, however, since the Giants and Yanks are tangling in a red-hot series and the little girl we proudly call Cheryl Ann is a four-pound, eight-ouncer, with a lung capacity which some day should make her quite a cheer leader.

The Yankees, Giants, daughter and mother all are doing fine, thank you.

Cleveland Browns Up To Old Tricks

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The folks who have been sounding taps over the Cleveland Browns, including Browns' Coach Paul Brown, can take it all back.

The National League pro champions looked just about as good as ever Sunday as they thoroughly trounced the slightly-favored Los Angeles Rams, 38-23.

The New York Giants, who figure to battle it out with the Browns for American Conference honors, whipped the Washington Redskins, 35 to 14, on an effective pass defense and Charley Conerly's strong right arm.

The Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers come through with upsets. The Cards trounced their cross-town Chicago rivals, the Bears 28 to 14. Green Bay blew a 28-point lead but rallied to nip Pittsburgh's Steelers, 35 to 33.

The Philadelphia Eagles beat the San Francisco 49ers, 21 to-4.

Bob Samuels of Houston, Tex., first baseman on Brandeis University's baseball team, is a pre-rabbinate student.

Stengel To Return As Yankee Pilot

NEW YORK—(AP)—Casey Stengel, who tied a record by winning a pennant in each of his first three years as manager of the New York Yankees, will be back next year as pilot of the club.

Stengel said improvement in his physical condition had prompted him to change his mind about retiring after the World Series. He still has a year to go on a two-year contract, calling for an estimated $75,000 a year.

'Jackets Trounce Lamesa, 26 To 12

FORT WORTH — Arlington Heights Yellow-Jackets spotted the Lamesa High School eleven a two-touchdown lead, then roared back to win, 26 to 12, here Saturday night.

Jerry Millsapps, who was great in defeat, passed 21 yards to Marshall Crawford for an early touchdown. Ray Taylor, Lamesa end, grabbed a Yellow Jacket fumble out of the air and raced 55 yards to send Lamesa to a 12-0 lead.

But the Fort Worth eleven drove back for 15 first downs, pounded out 260 yards on the ground and took the verdict.

SMU, Irish Coaches Trade Compliments

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

SMU battles mighty Notre Dame this week in the headliner of a Southwest Conference football schedule of great interest and portent.

Until Saturday night the annual Texas-Oklahoma game would have been the glamor boy of the card. But Oklahoma took a 14-7 tumble before the Texas Aggies and that robbed this colorful contest of much of its shine.

It's certain the Cotton Bowl will be bulging with the crowd, but it just can't pack the interest of SMU's fourth try against Notre Dame.

Those who watched twice-beaten SMU wallop Missouri, 34-0, Saturday saw hope that the Methodists might give Notre Dame a most interesting afternoon. It appeared SMU finally had fashioned a ground attack to go with Fred Benner's passing.

The Texas-Oklahoma game will draw 75,349 fans—all who can get into Dallas' Cotton Bowl. Weeks ago the last tickets were sold. Texas has a glittering opportunity to break the Oklahoma jinx.

The Longhorns, noted for their defense, forgot about stopping the opposition and decided to outscore them. The Longhorns smashed North Carolina, 45-20, Saturday. Their battle with Oklahoma will be the first real comparison of the two rated Southwest Conference powers—Texas and Texas A&M.

Gil Bartosh

Baylor last week added luster by whipping a good Tulane team, 27-14. Arkansas lost to TCU, 17-7, by not taking advantage of its opportunities and because of Gil Bartosh stepped back into his accustomed place as the man of the minute in TCU's attack when Malvin Fowler, who had beaten him out for quarterback, left the game because of a knee injury. Fowler may be lost the rest of the season.

TCU takes on Texas Tech at Lubbock while the Aggies plays Trinity, also beaten two times this season, at San Antonio.

Notre Dame has won two games, smashing Indiana, 48-6, and Detroit, 40-6. SMU had scored only seven points in losses to Georgia Tech and Ohio State before breaking loose against inadequate Missouri.

Rice was the only conference team to lose an inter-sectional game last week. The Owls bowed to LSU, 7-6. Navy was tied by Yale, 7-7, and last week lost to Princeton, 24-20.

Gib Dawson of Texas has taken over the conference scoring lead with 30 points. He made 15 against North Carolina.

Doug Ford Holds Edge In Kansas City Open Tourney

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— Youthful Doug Ford held a two-stroke edge Monday at the start of the final 36 holes in the Kansas City Open Golf Tournament.

Four players were bunched close behind him, including Cary Middlecoff, who slammed a hole-in-one Sunday.

Ford turned in a 68 to go with his 64 on opening day. His 132 total on the 6,500-yard Milburn Country Club Course was 12 under par.

Jim Ferrier and Dave Douglas were right on Ford's heels with 134.

His ace came on the 130-yard sixth hole and brought him a roaring ovation.

30 Or More Planes On All-Texas Tour Visit Air Terminal

The Midland Air Terminal was a busy place—on the ground and in the air—Sunday afternoon as more than 30 planes, carrying approximately 75 persons, visited the airport as a scheduled stop on the Third Annual All-Texas Air Tour.

The private planes started landing here about 1:45 p.m. for refreshments, conversation and refueling, and by 3 p.m. all were on their way to San Angelo for an overnight stop. They came here from Monahans.

On hand at the terminal to greet the visitors were Chamber of Commerce representatives, city and county officials and a large group of interested spectators. The official greeters included Mayor Perry Pickett, County Attorney Reagan Legg, Burvin Hines, assistant C. of C. manager; R. D. (Bob) Scruggs, immediate past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Clyde Sharrer, director of aviation for the City of Midland.

Tour Officials Listed

The air tourists were headed by Tex Anderson, president of the Texas Private Flyers Association and representing the Texas Flying Farmers; Cliff Green, director of aeronautics for the State of Texas; Asa Burroughs, assistant director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission, and Mike Hakadorn, Humble representative.

Several of the planes were piloted by women.

The visitors were lavish in their praise of Midland Air Terminal—its fine runways, terminal building and aircraft facilities.

"It is one of the finest, largest, most modern and best-equipped airports in the Southwest," one of the visitors commented.

The private fliers left Temple Saturday afternoon and will complete their 3,000 mile tour next Saturday in Laredo.

Hearing On Feed Rate Cut Injunction Delayed Two Days

AUSTIN —(AP)— A hearing on the request of 33 railroads for a temporary injunction against a freight rate reduction on livestock feed was postponed Monday until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Judge Charles O. Betts refused the railroads' request for a week's postponement after Attorney General Price Daniel opposed that long a delay.

The emergency rate reduction was ordered by the Railroad Commission on the plea of stockmen who said the drouth had damaged range feed prospects for this Winter.

The railroads secured a temporary restraining order to prevent the cut rates from going into effect October 1.

Knickerbocker—

of Manor, Texas, apparently was not injured.

Knickerbocker was Texas adjutant general under former Gov. Coke Stevenson who was in office from 1941 to 1947.

Knickerbocker, 54, was quarterback of the famous Texas A&M football team of 1919 that won 10 straight games without having its goal line crossed, and also with the great Aggie team of 1920.

He had served in the Navy in World War I after his graduation from the preparatory school at Southwestern University, Georgetown. Knickerbocker was a construction engineer, and became superintendent of the pipeline building division of the Zachry Company after he left the office of adjutant general.

But a polio patient at that city, Jesus Garcia, seven, died in the lung Sunday night.

The Midland Fire Department answered a request for the respirator and then came the request for the lung. It was the iron lung used here last week for a polio patient who was taken to Abilene. The lung belongs to Big Spring.

Kiwanis Hears Talk On Europe

A Midland man who has just returned from a three-month tour of Europe described some of his experiences Monday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

The speaker was C. W. Chancellor, who made the trip on the maiden voyage of the new United States luxury liner S.S. Constitution.

"We just have no idea how conditions are over there," said Chancellor, "and they don't know how we live here.

"I think every community ought to get together and send one person over there for several months, let him observe life there, take pictures and keep notes and then come back home and tell his neighbors what he saw."

He described a visit he had with the Pope while visiting in Rome.

"I showed him the proper respect when I was introduced," said Chancellor, "but I didn't kiss his ring. I was too busy trying to see what the ring looked like."

The speaker at the meeting, held in Hotel Scharbauer, was introduced by Perry Pickett.

Allies—

off by nightfall.

The ridgelines and valleys echoed to the roar of 37 Allied warplanes that bombed and strafed Red positions.

Tanks, Massed Artillery

Across the war-torn peninsula on the western front, British and American infantrymen ground slowly forward on both sides of the upper Imjin River against bitterly resisting Reds. The UN troops were supported by tanks and massed artillery. The Reds met the attacks with heavy artillery and mortar barrages of their own.

There was little but patrol action in the west-central front. Sunday, American troops in that area captured Bloody Baldy, a dominating peak, and two other objectives.

Bloody Baldy dominates most of the U. S. First Cavalry Divisions' sector north of Yonchon.

The Allied advance Sunday was made behind one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war. The UN's big guns fired 20,683 rounds in 12 hours.

VISITING IN AUSTIN

Mrs. Mollie McCormick, 217 West Tennessee Street, is visiting in Austin with her son, George D. McCormick.

Here's why Fordomatic puts them all in the past!

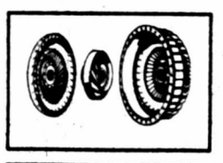
For the past year, automotive writers, engineers and owners have been raving about a new kind of automatic driving . . . and here's why you get it only in Ford Cars:

All the power you need when you need it is yours with Fordomatic. You'll find it the most thrilling experience you ever had. You'll discover the advantages of having . . . the smooth going that automatic drives employing torque converters can give you . . . plus the zip, control, and savings that cars with automatic gears can give you. For Fordomatic combines the finer features of all other automatic drives!

IT GIVES YOU INSTANT "GO"! Because Fordomatic gives you a combination of the best features of all other automatic drives, it delivers instant "go" for exceptionally easy, exceptionally smooth starting, passing, and hill climbing. Its extra Intermediate Gear gives you a push of extra power any time you want it . . . extra braking power, too, that's outstandingly smooth.

Some automatics have this

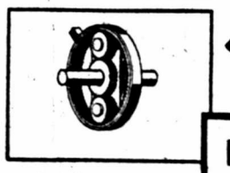
The automatic drive some cars offer you is a torque converter which multiplies torque without the use of gears. Its advantage is a smooth flow of power. Its disadvantage is a smaller range of torque multiplication which requires more power from the engine and an uneconomical axle ratio which increases costs.



But Fordomatic has both

Some automatics have this

Other cars offer an automatic drive that uses automatic gears (as illustrated in simplified form at right) instead of a torque converter. The advantage here is more "go," more control and greater economy. The disadvantage is that this system is not as smooth, nor as jerk-free as a torque converter.



IT PRACTICALLY DRIVES ITSELF! Fordomatic drives your car for you better than you could ever drive it yourself. It brings you a completely new thrill in no-shift-lever, no-clutch-pedal driving, because its development began where all other automatic drives left off!

Yes, Fordomatic has a torque converter plus automatic gears. It brings you only the advantages of both drives and eliminates the disadvantages.

Unlike cars with only a torque converter (which start and cruise all in one drive gear), Fordomatic starts fast and smooth in Intermediate Gear then shifts itself into Drive Gear.
