Democratic incumbent candidate Ricky Grissam defeated Republican challenger Normalinda Perez by 36 votes to remain in office as Justice of the Peace for Precincts 1, 4. The JP race was the only local contested race in Tuesday's election.

Grissam received 367 votes, and Norma Perez ended up with 331. According to final returns, 168 people in Precinct 1 voted for Perez, while 160 cast a ballot for Grissam.

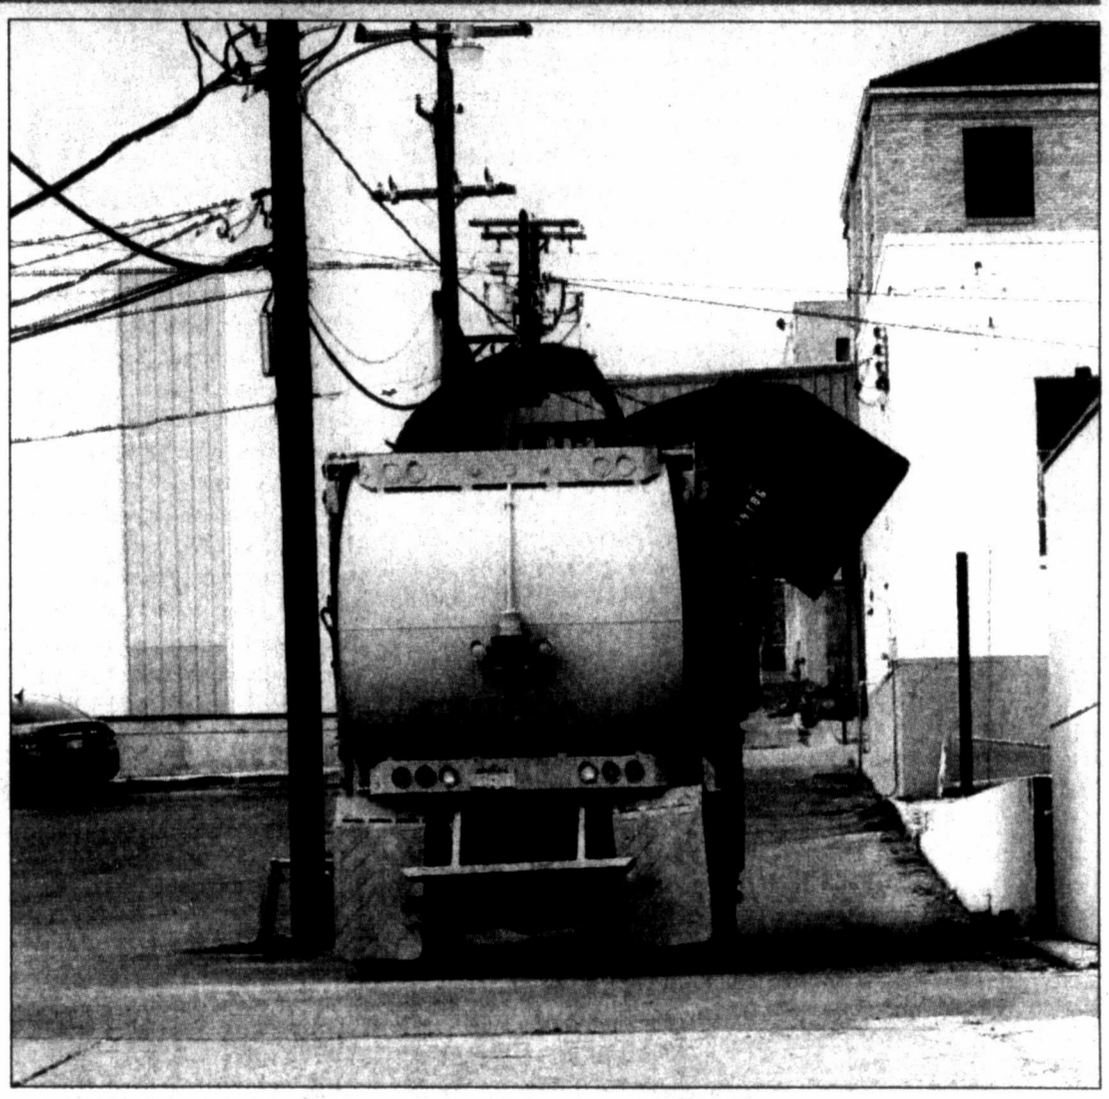

In Precinct 4, Grissam garnered 127 votes to Perez's 77. And, in Precinct 046, 86 cast a ballot for Perez, while Grissam received 80 votes.

CAUTION! CHANGES AHEAD – Due to a steep increase from Republic Services, garbage pickup prices for some businesses will be going up. City Manager David Hoover said that businesses that have paid discounted rates in the past will be most affected.

Republic raises garbage costs to city by $7,700

Businesses may see rise in collection rate

According to City Manager David Hoover, the City of Colorado City received a letter notifying officials of a $7,766.01 monthly increase in the cost of trash pickup services. Hoover said that the city has been able to absorb other price increases, but this steep rate hike will force the city to pass on the increase to some of its commercial customers.

While residential customers will see no difference, some businesses will. Hoover explained that the rate increase will affect the commercial customers who are now paying a discounted rate. Those businesses will soon see an increase to the regular rate for each dumpster.

City officials are currently going through the list of water customers, as all citizens pay for garbage pickup as a combined amount on their water bill.

Businesses that share a three-yard dumpster with at least one other business and have once a week pickup will see the rate of $26.95 per month. Companies that utilize their own dumpster and have a once per week pickup will be paying $75 per month.

Last person in drug case is sentenced

The last of the original 16 people arrested and charged with distribution of methamphetamine over 50 grams has been sentenced. Ivan Ruiz, of Dallas, went before Federal Magistrate Sam Cummings in Lubbock and was sentenced to 252 months, or 21 years, for his part in the conspiracy to distribute crime. Ruiz will also be under supervision for five years after his release.

The investigation, which began in the fall of 2013, led to the indictment and arrest of 16 citizens. In continuing with the investigation, law enforcement officials identified a second group of people who have been indicted, arrested and charged with the same offense.

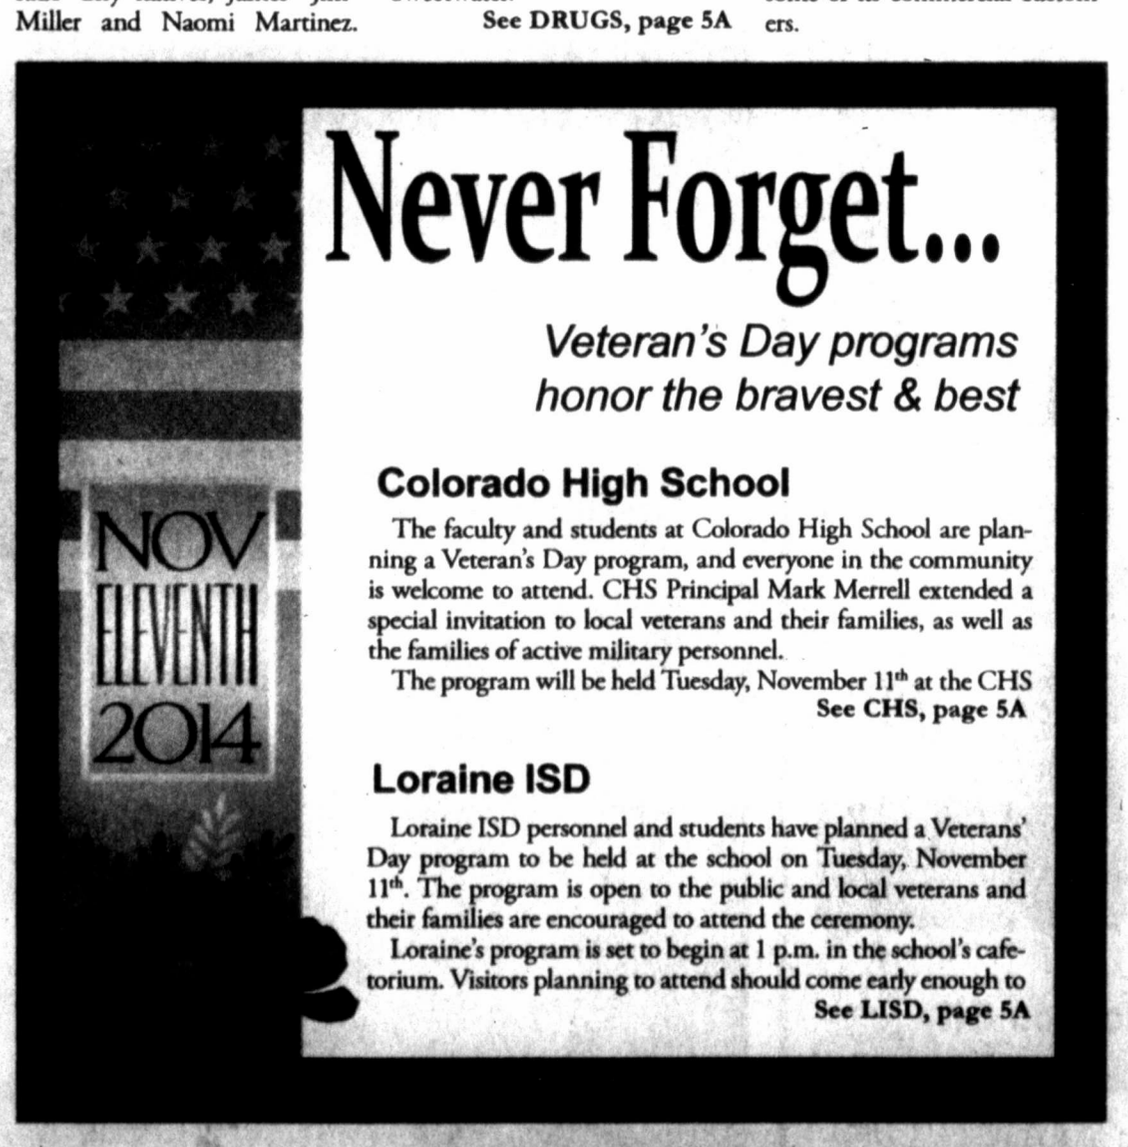

Two people in the second group of indictments are Colorado City natives, James "Jim" Miller and Naomi Martinez. John Hinojosa, of Snyder, is also a former resident of Colorado City.

Others indicted and arrested in the second group are Felipe Ramirez of Roscoe, Lou Michael Royal of Sweetwater, Savanna Havner of Sweetwater, Reniesha Williams of Brownfield and Amy Braziel of Andrews.

According to Mitchell County Sheriff Patrick Toombs, the investigation continues and has progressed. Local deputies served a federal warrant on Mark Brooks of Colorado City recently. He was arrested and taken to the Taylor County Jail in Abilene on charges of meth distribution as well.

Brooks was not the only person arrested in the third group. Others were from Snyder and Sweetwater.

No serious injuries in school bus wreck

Law enforcement officials got a call last Wednesday that no one ever wants to get. There had been an accident involving a school bus full of children and two other vehicles in the 2000 block of Hickory Street.

Officers and EMS personnel were called to the scene of the accident at 3:38 p.m. on Wednesday, October 29th. Anna Lara, 19-year-old driver of a small, red four-door Ford car, was trapped inside her vehicle which had been rear-ended by a pickup, pushing her under a school bus full of children.

Police say that Lara and the school bus were stopped on Hickory, as the bus waited to make a turn. A City of Colorado City pickup, driven by Jaime Espinoza, hit the back of Lara's car and pushed her into the bus. She was trapped in her car, and rescuers had to use the Jaws of Life to extract her from the vehicle.

It took rescuers several minutes to free Lara from the mangled car, and a helicopter had landed on Hickory in case the young lady or children needed to be transported to a larger hospital. Fortunately, Lara sustained only minor injuries and was transported by ambulance to Mitchell County Hospital where she was treated and released.

The accident gave many parents quite a scare, as the Colorado ISD bus was transporting over 30 children at the time of the wreck. Bus driver Bob McNeal was commended by several people at the scene for his calm, quick reaction. He, with the help of other citizens, managed to get all students off the bus and over to a safe location in the Alco parking lot where they waited for parents to pick them up.

Paramedics assessed every child on the bus and found that none were injured, though many were shaken up by the experi-

Trees, lawn, potted plants need extra care

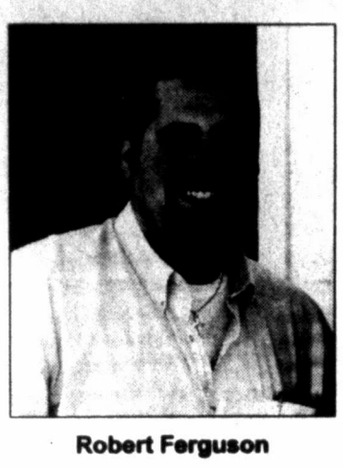

Tips for caring for lawn during winter

By Robert Ferguson
County Extension Agent
Ag/NR Mitchell County

Many folks look forward to the cooler weather of fall and winter as a time to stay inside and relax from the usual work around the house. While winter is generally a less active time when it comes to landscape care, there are a few steps that should be taken to keep your landscape in good condition through the winter and make things a little easier on you in the spring.

Winter Lawn Care

October is the perfect time to start preparing your lawn for the winter dormancy. It is always a good idea to make a fall fertilizer application around October to give your lawn the nutrition it needs to stay alive during dormancy. It's always a good idea to do a soil test sometime earlier in the year to see what your lawns exact fertilizer needs are (for more information on soil tests, contact the County Extension Office). Another good step to take to keep your lawn free of winter weeds is to apply a pre-emergent herbicide. These are usually a systemic herbicide in granule form that you water into your lawn and will prevent these weeds from germinating. This is especially a good idea if you have bare spots in your yard. When selecting a product, read the label and be wary of "weed and feed" type applications. Many of these may have 2,4-D and other herbicides that could harm your trees. As always, follow the label instructions to avoid damaging your plants or making an ineffective application. Many folks out there believe that once your yard goes dormant, there is no longer any need to wate. This is not the case. You should still try to water at least monthly (especially before a long, hard freeze). Water to a depth of 6 inches to train your root system to go deeper for water. Of course, if we have rain or snow, there is no need to water until things have dried out again.

Robert Ferguson

Winter Tree Care

Fall is a great time to apply or re-apply mulch. Soils around trees and shrubs can dry out over winter. In some cases, drying out causes considerable damage to the plants. Mulches conserve moisture. They also have many other wonderful qualities. For recently planted trees and shrubs, mulch gives new roots more time to develop. Mulch also helps minimize the effect of temperature fluctuations that can heave plant crowns out of the ground. Mulch also prolongs plant dormancy in the spring and reduces the chance of late spring frost injury to new leaves and flowers. This being said, you should avoid the "mulch volcano" and leave a little space around the trunk of the tree. This will help prevent insect damage, rot and other potential hazards. Mature deciduous trees will not need supplemental water after they've gone dormant (with the exception of young trees), but evergreens such as pines and live oaks will need supplemental water due to the fact that they are still producing foliage. Water evergreens on warmer days (above 45 degrees) to help them along. Raking and disposing of your leaves after they've fallen will usually ensure less headaches in the spring. Leaving excess organic matter on your lawn all winter opens your landscape up to disease, rot and insect damages. Plus, raking up the leaves looks neater! If you'd rather use those leaves for something else, they make a great addition to your compost pile.

Potted Plants & Ornamentals

For your perennial and biennial ornamentals in pots, the best thing to do is get them out of the weather before the first freeze. Greenhouses are great, but a garage or shed will do, just as long as they are somewhere dry that keeps a fairly constant temperature. Heat lamps and other heaters are a nice addition, but be sure you are being fire-wise. For your plants that are stationary (planted in the soil or a box), try to protect them for the cold the best you can by wrapping them and covering them with a bucket. Winter is a great time to kick back by the fire and enjoy time with friends and loved ones. If you'll take a few preemptive measures in your landscape this fall, you're guaranteed to have a peaceful winter and a leg up come springtime.

Railhead, Re-Juvenation to offer great weekend of shopping for all

November is here and Christmas is just around the corner, and Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce Manager Amanda Jo Ritchey has an event planned to help with your Christmas shopping. This year, Railhead Trade Days is joining with Re-Juvenation for a great weekend of downtown shopping.

It was previously announced that Ruffles & Rust would be holding a show at the Mitchell County Fairgrounds, but all vendors will now be located downtown to provide better shopping convenience.

Railhead is set to be held Saturday and Sunday, November 15th and 16th at the Railhead Building located at the corner of 1st and Elm, and lots of vendors will be on hand to sell their wares. Several non-profit organizations will also have booths set up at the show.

Doors will open at the Railhead Building at 9 a.m. on Saturday and close at 5 p.m. Sunday's hours will be 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Re-juvenation is holding an antique/cool junk show in the bottom floor of the old Baker Hotel on Friday and Saturday, November 14th, 15th. An additional venue has been added as well. New business T.J. Collectibles, at the corner of Elm and 2nd Street, has opened about two-thirds of the building's floor space to accommodate more vendors.

Booths will open for the Re-juvenation show on Friday at 10 a.m., and shoppers can browse all day until 5 p.m. On Saturday, booths will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

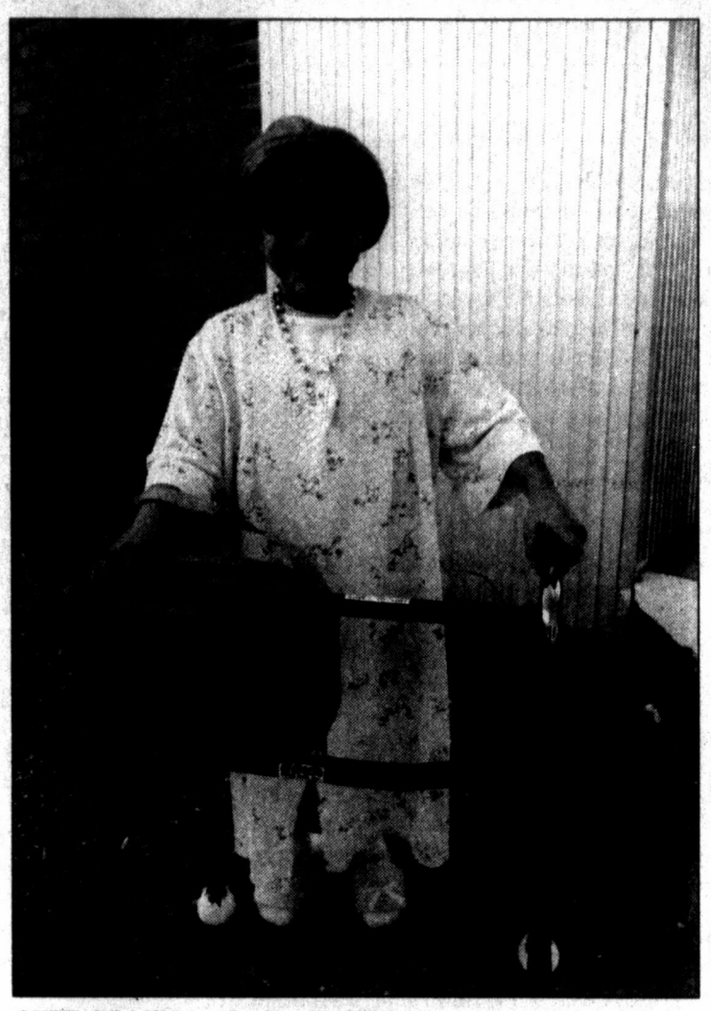

Organizers of both shows say that there will be plenty of great food downtown to feed the hungry shoppers, and food trucks will not duplicate any of the food already sold by restaurants downtown.

Both the Chamber of Commerce and Re-juvenation organizers are still taking applications for booth rentals. Booth prices vary.

Anyone interested in a booth at Railhead Trade Days should call Ritchey at the chamber office at 325-728-3403.

Those selling antiques, vintage stuff, salvaged and rescued items, should email rejuvenationdowntown@gmail.com for booth information. Also, those interested can visit their Facebook page: Re-juvenation.

There will be food vendors outside, and local downtown merchants will have their Christmas merchandise out, ready for purchase. Unique gift ideas will be plentiful. So, put on your comfy shoes and come out ready for some shopping.

TORCH offers Texans help with insurance purchases

TORCH, the Texas Organization of Rural and Community Hospitals, would like to announce the launch of Texas Community Healthcare Plans, a Private Exchange to help rural Texans purchase health insurance during the open enrollment period from November 15, 2014 through February 15, 2015. The experience of many Texans enrolling and purchasing health insurance during the last enrollment was frustrating. In many cases they enrolled in plans that were not best suited to their needs or were never able to enroll at all.

The Texas Community Healthcare Plans (TCHP) exchange has trained and experienced Texas licensed agents available 7 days a week, 24 hours a day through the open enrollment period to assist with the enrollment process. For those qualifying for tax credits and/or subsidies, TCHP can link to the Federal Exchange to complete the process efficiently. As well, TCHP offers many additional plans and products not available on the Federal Exchange, offering more choice for those not using tax credits and/or subsidies.

In addition to professional enrollment, agents assisting will do 90 day follow up calls to those who enroll through TCHP assuring that the plan purchased meets the needs of the enrollee. Follow up will continue every 90 days during the year to provide service to TCHP customers. As well, TCHP provides solutions for Special Enrollment Periods (SEP) due to changes in the person's individual or family situation. The SEP may allow insureds to adjust or newly enroll in coverage due to marriage, divorce, child birth or adoption, loss of group coverage through employer, death, etc...outside of open enrollment.

Rural Texas employers may also access TCHP to explore options for their employee benefits. Much has changed for employers with new plan options, alternative funding arrangements including defined contribution plans that enable the employer to budget their cost and enable the employee to purchase plans that best fit their individual of family needs.

Access to the TCHP is available October 1 for SEPs before the open enrollment and for Texans to check out the ease of use. The access point via the internet is www.tchealthplans.com. Or you can access the exchange by dialing 1-855-290-9705.

"As a member of TORCH, Mitchell County Hospital District is pleased to be able to promote an outreach program that can provide professional assistance to our community members that are without medical insurance or are under-insured. It is important that our community members have the ability to obtain quality coverage as well as get insurance that can be used at our local facilities, in network," said Robbie Dewberry, MCHD CEO.

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

The mule man's daughter

Ann Reeves of Pittsburg grew up during World War II. "My dad was a farmer during the war and he had all different kinds of crops that went to both servicemen and the local citizens. He had to get his sweet potatoes in one day and couldn't find anybody to help him. He had this one man who was picking up the crates in the field, handing them to my dad and he was putting them on a flat bed truck. There was nobody to drive it. He came to school and got me out of the third grade. I was nine years old. He takes me out there and he has this old truck that has a grandma gear on it. That makes the truck just creep along real slow. You don't even have to put your foot on the accelerator. So here I am sitting on my knees and steering down the row. When we get to the end of the row I slide down, put my foot on the brakes and my daddy comes in, pushes me over, turns the truck around to go down the other row and I get back behind the wheel on my knees. That was my first driving experience."

Her dad, Oren Reeves, had prize-winning mules and showed them all over the country. "I went with him a number of times. Once he said, 'come to the fair with me.' He was going to show his mules. So we got there and he said, 'would you go show this mule for me, I've got to go do something.' I told him I didn't know anything about that. He told me it was real easy and to just go out there and do it I started watching what everybody else was doing and pranced my mule around the arena. Ended up getting reserve champion."

Her fun at the fair didn't stop there. "The next day they had this big deal where all the contestants come into the arena as fast as they can, driving their mules pulling a wagon. There was no place to hold on. I'm sitting there next to my dad and knew any second that when he made a curve I was going to go flying in the air and would probably land in the balcony of that arena. I have never had as hard a time holding on as I did on that wagon."

She says her dad could con her into just about anything. "He kept his mules out on a back lot. He pointed to one and said, 'that mule's tail needs to be lighter. Do you think it'll be OK to peroxide it?' I told him I sure didn't know. He asked me to try it, so here I am putting peroxide on a mule's tail. Halfway through I realized that mule could kick me from here to Timbuktu. But I did fix up that tail just like we were in a beauty parlor. That peroxide didn't change the color of that mule's tail at all."

Ann had a career teaching speech and theater. She was in the movie BERNIE. She is sort of the local historian in Pittsburg and says the city is known for two things: hot links and chickens. The hot links are a popular East Texas sausage made with beef and pork. Bo Pilgrim established his chicken business in Pittsburg and built a home there called CLUCKINGHAM PALACE. He also built a clock tower downtown with a chapel inside it. "You'd be surprised at the number of couples who get married there. The grounds have beautiful walkways and a fountain."

A baby's tears, learning to complain

Better than talking

By Monte Wike

This story is part brag and part observation. The brag is that we went to Longview to see our new great-grandson, (number ten!) Brogan Tyler Dehart, Bruce's grandson. Just a month old, still about seven pounds, he is just a delight, that is until he is dissatisfied. Here's where the observation begins.

He had several "talents" from the very beginning. He could eat and eliminate and sleep and cry, and I do mean loud! Why do babies cry? Because they are unhappy. Things are not going to suit them. They are hungry, hurting, wet or the grandmother is not holding him. Usually the first lesson when they enter the world is getting them to cry and thus, to breathe. (Do they cry before they are born? Do they have likes and dislikes while still in the comfortable womb?)

Is it an inbred human trait to be able to complain? It must be. Things still go wrong, we don't like this or that (or him or her). But to complain is different than throwing a temper tantrum when you don't get your way.

I was up before the rest of the family, prowling the kitchen for a cup of coffee. Brogan was sleeping in the den since we had taken over the spare room, and I heard him stir. First he groaned, grunted, and then whimpered. Still his mother did not come and see what was the matter. So, he began to cry, and then began to really bawl. A very little of that and rescue came.

To complain is as old as the first two folks before the first baby was born. God was very upset with Adam and Eve and yelled, "What have you done? Why are you wearing clothes?" (Casting blame must be inherited, too, for that is what both Adam and Eve resorted to).

The Israelites coming out of bondage should have been joyous and singing. Instead, they were griping and complaining to return to Egypt. And later, "We can't go into that country, there are giants there!" "OK, walk around awhile and cool off," God said. Forty years later they were willing to listen and venture where God said go.

Jesus was very often in a complaining mood. "I was just learning my Father's business." "Mother, it is not my job to make wine!" "Oh ye of little faith!" "You Pharisees are whitewashed tombs" "Why don't you believe what I say?" "You just want bread and miracles. I want faithful, believing disciples". Or: "One of you shall betray me".

It is very common to complain. So many things upset us. It is easy to disagree, want our own way or think only of our own comfort and desires. But I feel it is totally wrong to practice this in a baby fashion, to scream and cry, throw a fit, or things, and make everyone miserable. When we see an injustice, a crime, or a disgusting something, it is proper to complain, to draw attention to the need. But it should be done in a sensible, mature way, considering the feelings of and effects on others.

Let the babies do the crying. It doesn't take much to satisfy them, and soon they are looking around with that wobbly head and adjusting eyes to see how the rest of us are doing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

Aristotle was a proponent of the evolution of life over 2,000 years ago.

Geologists and naturalists established evolution by 1800 A.D.

In 1859 Charles Darwin presented his life's work garnering examples of evolution from "natural selection". (It was later realized that slight gene mutation offered the variety of individuals from which the fittest are selected over very long period of time).

In 1871, Darwin braved to tell the fundamentalists that man was not a special creation.

Evidence accumulates that all life is continuous to its first creation, on earth, some 3 ½ billion years ago.

I have noticed that the bridge between parent and offspring is the zygote in animals and seed in plant life is passed on – not recreated.

The facts are recorded in geologic strata.

It was deciphered by geologists, paleontologists and archeologists- as professional as any professional.

There are no missing links. In old motion pictures a sequence of still pictures restores motion and events. If you can believe that- you can believe the same of fossils.

You may sit in the theatre of life, close your eyes, nose and ears, focus on your tunnel version of science and recite and preach your scriptures, sing and pray while the show goes on. As for me, the real world, as nature reveals it, is antemporary experience, not totally conceivable but fully acceptable and vastly appreciated.

THROWN UNDER A BUS – Anna Lara was stopped behind a school bus last Wednesday, when the driver of a city vehicle hit her car from behind, pushing her car up under a bus. Firemen used the Jaws of Life to free Lara from her vehicle, and she was transported to Mitchell County Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries.

ELECTION

The majority of Mitchell County voters voted in favor of the only proposition on the ballot. Eime said that 768 people voted for the proposition which would divert funds from the Texas Rainy Day fund to be used for transportation projects, while only 193 voted against the measure.

The measure will divert half of the general revenue derived from oil and gas taxes from the Economic Stabilization Fund, also known as the Rainy Day Fund, to the State Highway Fund for the purpose of providing transportation funding for repairs and maintenance of public roads.

According to ballotpedia.org, it's anticipated that the measure will result in approximately $1.2 billion per year going toward transportation funding.

The proposition, which was highly favored by Texas voters, will go into effect immediately and will apply to transfers the comptroller made after September 1st of this year.

Republican incumbent John Cornyn defeated Democrat challenger David Alameel 964 to 166 locally in the race for U.S. Senator. Rebecca Paddock received 30 votes and Emily Sanchez received 18.

Incumbent Mike Conaway was also an overwhelming favorite among Mitchell County voters. There were 1,036 votes cast to keep the Republican in office as United States Representative of District 11, compared to 91 cast for Democrat Ryan Lange Republican candidate Sid Miller, who visited Colorado City earlier this year, beat Democratic opponent Jim Hogan 889 to 240 to take over the office of Texas Commissioner of Agriculture. Libertarian David Palmquist received 21 votes and Kenneth Kendrick got 18 in the race.

According to statistics released by Mitchell County Clerk Debby Carlock, 456 Republicans in the county voted straight party, with 101 Democrats also voting a straight Party ticket. Three Libertarian straight party ballots were also cast in the election.

Of the 4,567 registered voters in Mitchell County, 1,233 voted in the November 4th election.

uled for garbage pickups twice a week may see their rate increase to $120 per dumpster monthly, and those with garbage pickup three times per week will pay $150 per month per dumpster.

Representatives from Republic told Hoover that rates at the Snyder Landfill have risen from $26 per ton to $31 per ton, an increase the trash disposal company is passing on to its customers.

In the meantime, Hoover said he is looking into other options.

One possibility would see the city resume trash disposal responsibilities for all residential and commercial customers. If officials decide to take over the duties again, they would need to utilize Colorado City's landfill again also, an option that Hoover favors.

He said that several problems have arisen while using Republic for trash pickup. When the company was initially contracted to perform the duties, it was widely publicized that they would be available to make additional collections when necessary.

City leaders have found that the company is not as flexible as it would seem, as they have not been good to respond to such requests.

Hoover said that the city will surely go out for more bids, and he is getting details on costs of other options, such as self-pickup. All options will be taken before the city council.

Regardless of any other changes made, Hoover said that dumpsters will still be utilized for trash collection.

A HULK HOGAN KIND OF HALLOWEEN – Jeff Ellis (in back dressed as Hulk Hogan) escorted Kayden Nelson, Jacob Ellis, Caleb Ellis, and Ellie Nelson around town Thursday to take part in the Chamber of Commerce's annual Trick or Treat Around Town.

Thank You from the Chamber of Commerce and the 24rd Annual Hunters Appreciation Dinner

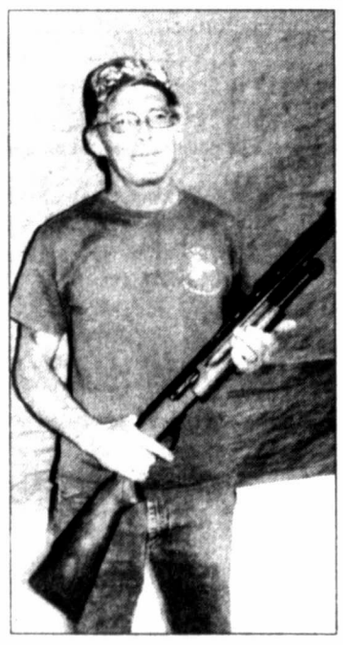

A great crowd was on hand Friday night at the Railhead Building for 24th Annual Hunter's Appreciation Dinner! This event would not have been so successful if it weren't for our hunters, sponsors, volunteers and chamber board members. It takes everyone to pull off an event of this magnitude and the chamber greatly appreciates everyone's hard work. We are already planning and looking forward to the 25th Annual Hunters Appreciation Dinner.

CHS students benefit from academy

CHS Counselor and Grant Administrator Marina Wilcox, along with high school seniors Jonathan Blassingame and Abby Ballard, came to the weekly meeting of the Lions Club Friday. The three talked about the fantastic opportunities Colorado City students have been offered through the college and career readiness academy.

CISD is one of two school districts in Texas awarded a grant through the Department of Labor to help prepare students for life after high school. Wilcox said that most other districts across the U.S. were much larger than CISD, but many did not receive as much money. Colorado High School impressed grant officials by showing what had already been done to offer paths to college and careers for all students.

CHS now offers up to 50 dual credit hours to students, meaning seniors can graduate with many college credits under their belt. Students looking more toward a career are getting the preparation they need as well.

CISD is partnering with Texas State Technical College in Sweetwater to provide career certifications in five areas for students, including welding, automotive technology, health information technology, computer aided drafting and early childhood education.

The grant has also made it possible to provide a laptop to each high school student. All courses, books and tuition is free. Students can graduate high school with several hours of college at absolutely no charge to them or their parents.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for students in so many ways," Wilcox said.

Blassingame has been accepted to Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls, where he will go to college after graduation. Thanks to the dual-credit courses, he will graduate with 18 college hours completed. Furthermore, courses fit specifically with students' choice of college majors.

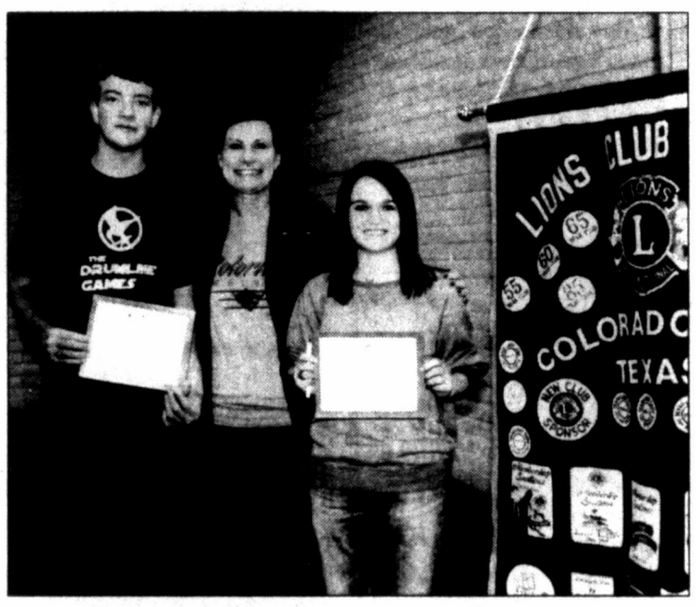

Ballard enlisted in the U.S. Army in March and completed boot camp over the summer. She has been accepted into college and will go through an ROTC program which betters her opportunity for a promotion in the Army.

"It's giving me a head start on life," Ballard said of the college credits she's getting at CHS.

Small schools districts, such as CISD, are typically limited in what can be offered to students. Wilcox said that the district has been blessed by the grant, and in working with community partners, students have a better chance at success after high school.

The 2014 class has 48 members, 13 have already been accepted to college with only two months of their senior year under their belt. The grant also provides for one-on-one counseling for students, a support system that many use.

Before leaving, Wilcox invited everyone to come out to high school and see the changes that are being made and the progress that shows in all students, as seniors show the freshmen how it's done.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE – CHS Grant Administrator Marina Wilcox (center) brought high school seniors, Jonathan Blassingame and Abby Ballard to Lions Club Friday. The three told local Lions about the $3.5 million grant that allows CISD students to take advantage of a college-career academy.

MCLS to be held Jan. 8-10

Plans are being made for the 78th Annual Mitchell County Livestock Show which will be held January 8th, 9th and 10th, 2015. The show is in an opportunity for 4-H and FFA members to exhibit feeding and breeding projects before going on to some of the bigger shows around the state.

It is the hope of the Mitchell County Livestock Association that by participating in the livestock show, exhibitors will use the experiences gained to continue to develop, promote and build a strong and diversified agricultural program in Mitchell County.

Directors for this year's show will be: Brodie Harris, president; Jim Cogburn, vice president; Dee Roach, secretary; Mary-Anne Davila, treasurer; Jeremy Strain, finance chairman; and Dalton Maddox, premium sale chairman.

Livestock superintendents and assistants have been named for the upcoming show. Kent Boyd will serve as the cattle superintendent, with John Senter as assistant. IMPORTANT LESSONS – Colorado City Police Chief Luis Aguilar visited Hutchinson Elementary last Thursday to teach students about various drugs and the dangers associated with them.

Hutchinson Elementary students gathered in the cafeteria last Thursday to hear a program presented by Colorado City Police Chief Luis Aguilar. The law enforcement officer told students about different types of drugs and their dangers.

Many times when adults think of drugs, they think of illegal street drugs. However, Aguilar told the students about drugs like tobacco, alcohol and prescription medication which can be just as harmful. The program was presented in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week, a special week set aside each year to educate students on drug prevention.

Aguilar told students that things like alcohol and tobacco may be ok for adults but are not legal for kids. He also stressed the danger of addiction for people who use these substances regularly.

Students were shown a close-up of a handful of brightly-colored pills. Aguilar pointed out that though they may look like candy, they were drugs. For people taking prescribed pills, they act as medication. For those taking them illegally, they can be very dangerous, he said.

He also told kids about other drugs, more commonly known as street drugs, such as marijuana, methamphetamines, cocaine, etc. Fancy packaging can sometimes mislead young people into thinking the drugs will be ok for them, he said, warning students not to take anything that looks suspicious.

Warning students about peer pressure, Aguilar told the kids that drug dealers would push drugs on them so that they would become addicted. Drug dealers only want money and don't care about the individual's health and welfare, he warned.

After showing the large group of students a video entitled, "I'm Only Me if I'm Drug Free", Aguilar and Investigator Kelsey Alexander gave out bags of treats to all the students.

CMS students raise money to fight childhood cancer

Several campuses of the Colorado ISD have been raising money to help in the fight against childhood cancer, and the fundraising is paying off. So far, more than $1,000 has been raised by students at Kelley, Hutchinson and Colorado Middle School.

Students at CMS, who are involved in Rachel's Challenge, sponsored two events to get things kicked off.

On September 24th, middle schoolers joined students at Kelley and Hutchinson to participate in a PJammin/Hat Day. Students were allowed to wear pajamas or a cap for the small price of $1 per student. They raised $253 which will be sent to St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

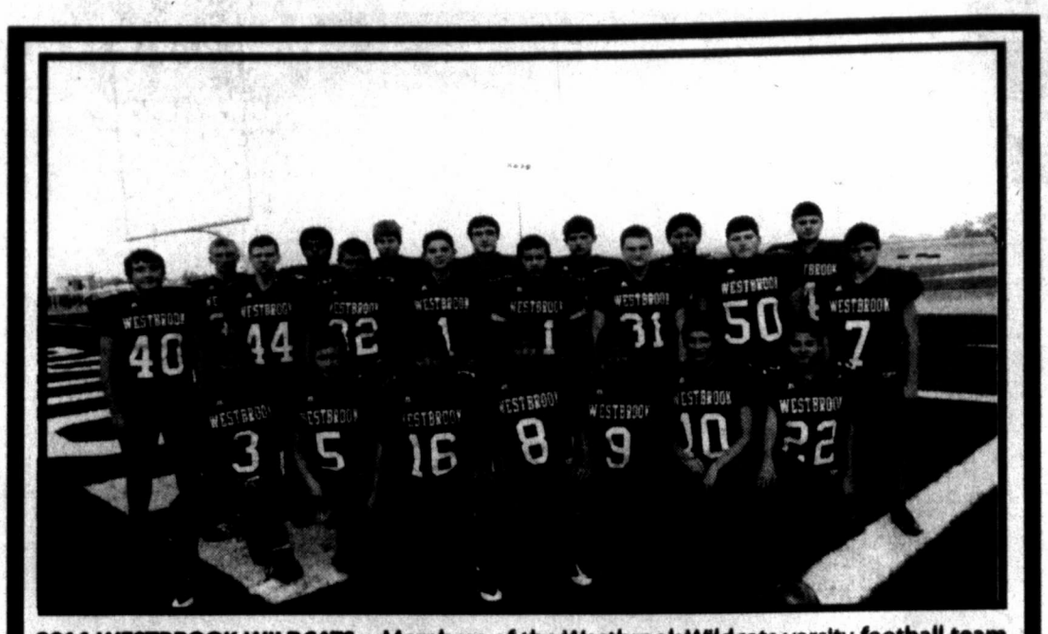

On October 9th, a coin drive was started at CMS. For two weeks students collected coins and turned the drive into a competition. After all the coins were counted, it was found that the kids at middle school raised over $1,000.

"They far surpassed my expectations," Counselor Kaci Griffith said. "I have never been more proud of a group of kids. We had four classes that raised over $100."

Mrs. Morrow's class won the competition, collecting $173.68. Students in the class won a cookie and drink party.

Antelopes leap past Wolves in fourth quarter, 21-12

Post squeezed by the Wolves Friday 21-12 and clinched to runner-up spot in district 4A.

The Wolves will have to wait until Friday night to see where they finish in district. Colorado City and Coahoma are tied with identical 2-2 district records, with the winner of Friday's contest claiming the 3rd seed and loser being the 4th seed.

Post used a tenacious defense to shutdown the Wolves' offense holding runningback David Sanchez to only 8 yards rushing.

"We couldn't keep up with the quickness on defense, especially the nose tackle," coach Dan Gainey said. A.J. Reed, a 5'10", 160-lb sophomore was all over the field and disrupting the Wolves' offense.

"It was a big win for us", Post head coach Michael Pittman said Monday. "We caught a couple of breaks late in the game and feel very fortunate to win. Colorado City is well-coached and always a tough place to play."

The Wolves trailed 8-0 after the 1st quarter, but a Dillion Gainey 2-yard run with 9:49 showing on the clock put the Wolves on the board trailing 8-6. A pass interception and 92-yard return touchdown by Sanchez put the Wolves up 12-8 late in the 2nd quarter.

Two field goals and a 25-yard pass interception touchdown late in the 4th quarter gave Post the lead which they never gave up. The Wolves did manage 160 yards passing, as quarterback Gainey went 11 out of 29 with 2 picks.

Sanchez needed less than 100 yards rushing to reach the 1000-yard plateau but was held to only 8 yards rushing on 8 carries. He's averaged 7 yards per carry this season. Pip Jackson was the leading receiver, with 4 receptions for 37 yards.

Receiving the offensive player of the week honors was Pip Jackson while his brother Trinnon was awarded the defensive player of the week. Best lineman in the Post game was Tom Rivera.

Wolves face Coahoma in district rivalry

It's Coahoma vs. Colorado City Friday night in Coahoma. A big rivalry, playoff implications and it's the last regular season game that should produce the usual fireworks.

"Our kids should play well and I know the kids are excited about play Coahoma," coach Dan Gainey said.

"We match up well, speed-wise," Gainey said, "and we need to be prepared for almost anything."

The Wolves squeaked by Coahoma last year and it should be another close one.

The winner will represent the district as the number 3 seed while the loser will be the 4th seed and play Sonora in the 1st round of the playoffs.

The 3rd seed will have to wait until Friday night's games are over to see who represents District 4 as the runner-up. Teams that could be the runner-up include Grape Creek, Crane, Alpine or San Angelo TLCA.

Game time in Coahoma is 7:30 p.m. and as usual a big crowd of Wolves is expected to make the trip.

Wolves JV lose to Post

The Wolves' J.V. lost to Post last week 37-0.

Not many highlights to report in the shut out. J.V. coach BJ Graham along with head coach Dan Gainey both said the Post J.V. is very good and will be a very strong team in the future.

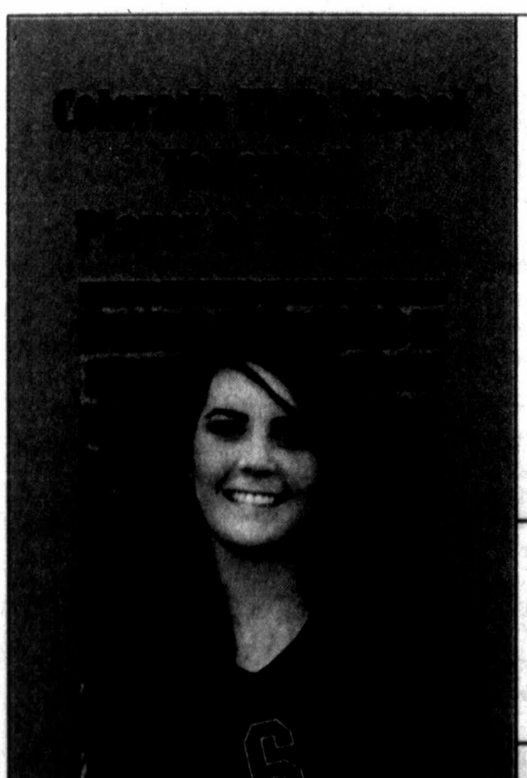

The J.V. Wolves will close out the 2014 season Thursday night at Wolf Stadium with Coahoma.

C-City could host play-off games

Wolf Stadium may be the site for some play-off games as several teams have called about using the facilities.

Commitments will be made following Friday night's games. Head coach Dan Gainey may want to flip a home and home coin toss if opponents agree.

In years past, traditionally teams have had a hard time finding a place to play since the UIL allowed 4 teams to enter the play-offs.

Bulldogs lose to Blackwell

Blackwell outscored Loraine last Friday night in Loraine 80-66 and took control of the district standing with a 2-0 record while the Bulldogs fall to 1-1.

A nine-touchdown first quarter by both teams put 66 points on the scoreboard.

Sonny Benivamondez scored first for the Bulldogs, Patrick Tillis followed with 3 touchdowns and Sebastian Benivamondez added the last Bulldog touchdown in the 1st quarter. Oscar Gonzales was good on three extra-point kicks, and the Bulldogs led 36-30 after the 1st quarter.

In the 2nd quarter Blackwell outscored the Bulldogs 4-2. The two Bulldog touchdowns came when Tillis scored on a 43-yard run and J.T. Cooper 19-yard pass to Javon Walthall with 0:1 second remaining in the half.

Gonzales again connected on both PATs.

Tillis rounded out the Bulldog scoring with an 18-yard touchdown in the 3rd and passed to Sebastian Benivamondez for the Bulldog's last touchdown.

Blackwell had 611 yards of total offense while the Bulldogs piled up 378.

Tillis rushed for 156 yards on 21 carries. The Bulldogs lost 3 fumbles.

Defensively, the Bulldogs were led by Tillis recording 13 tackles, causing 1 fumble and had 1 fumble recovery.

Sebastian Benivamondez had 9 tackles, 2 for an 8-yard loss, and had 1 fumble recovery.

Sonny Benivamondez recorded 7 tackles, as did Walthall. Cooper was in on 4 tackles with a fumble recovery and Gonzales recorded 2 tackles.

'Dogs need win Thursday

District leading Blackwell is 2-0 while Trent and Loraine are 1-1. The Bulldogs play winless Moran while Trent plays Blackwell.

Moran is 0-2 in district and 1-7 for the season and coming off a 80-38 loss to Trent last week.

Blackwell is the districts leading team at 2-0 and should beat Trent. But a Trent upset throws the district standing in a three way tie.

Wildcats loss to Highland ends play-off hopes

Westbrook lost to Highland last Friday night 59-14 in Highland ending any play-off hopes for the Wildcats.

Highland scored first and often as the Hornets took a commanding 38-8 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Westbrook was able to score one touchdown in the 1st quarter, a 56-yard kickoff returned by Andrew Fuentes and a successful PAT kick for their only 1st quarter score.

The Wildcats added another touchdown in the second quarter, a 6-yard pass from Bryson Dominguez to Jay Williams. The PAT failed.

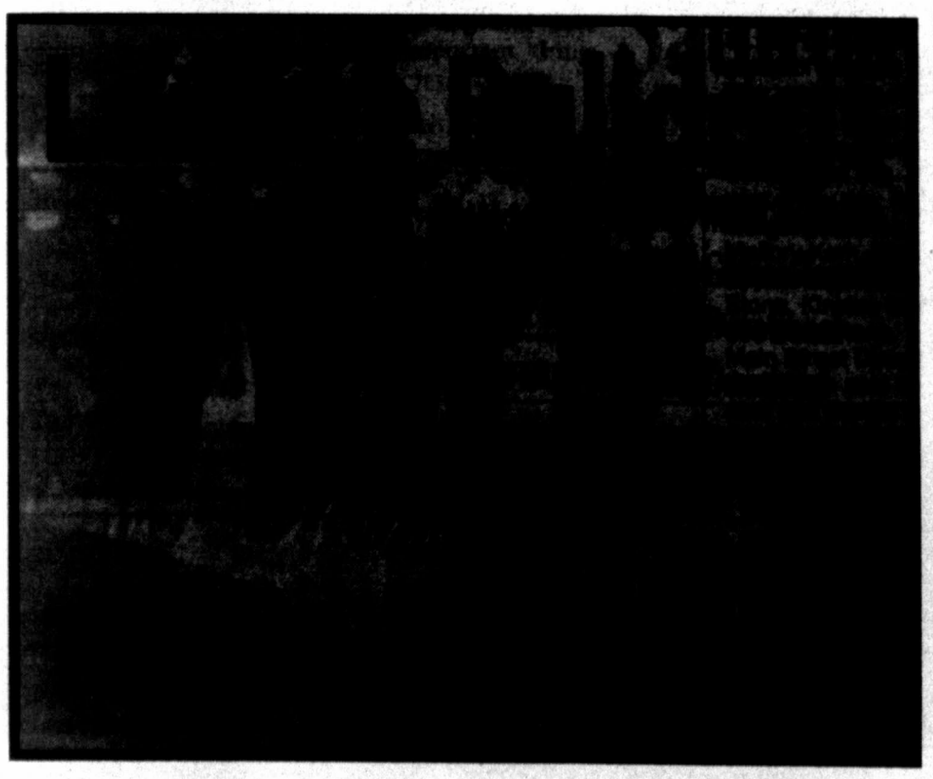

Westbrook could manage only 149 yards of offense as the Highland defense held the Wildcats in check most of the game.

Westbrook (4-5) (0-2 district) will host Hermleigh Friday night to close out the 2014 season.

LOCAL NEWS

Sales tax revenue up for cities

Last month, Texas Comptroller Susan Combs distributed $622 million in monthly sales tax revenue to local governments, and all three cities in Mitchell County saw an increase in third quarter payments.

The City of Loraine's sales tax rebate of $2,645 was up by a whopping 123% from the same period last year. While it's a difference of only about $1,500, it brings Loraine's yearly total to over $17,000.

Colorado City saw an increase in the third quarter payment as well. The city received a little over $64,000, an increase of over 6% from last year's payment in October. Sales tax allocations are up almost $107,000 for the year.

Rebate payments to Westbrook also showed an increase for the period. Last year, the city to the west received $5,828.42 in October, and this year's allocation totaled $6,483.52. The 2014 payments to date are closing in on last year's quickly, with Westbrook receiving over $29,000 so far.

Mitchell County took a bit of a hit in the third quarter of 2014. The county's payment of a little more than $36,000 represents a decrease of almost 7%. However, payments to the county in 2014 total .17% more than 2013's payments.

Revenue payments received in October represent monthly sales made in August.

"Significant growth in sales tax revenues occurred across all major economic sectors, reflecting strength in both business and consumer spending," Combs said. "The gains were led by remittances from the oil and natural gas-related and manufacturing sectors, as well as from restaurants and retail trade."

After receiving its highest tax rebate payment in July, Snyder has recorded another increase. Allocations received in October were up by 37%, bringing the city's yearly total to a little over $3 million.

The story is much the same for Lamesa. The third quarter rebate was up over 16% for the Garza County town.

Sweetwater's rebate amount reflected a drop in sales in August. Down by over 10%, the Nolan County seat received $262,000 in October.

CONTEST WINNERS – The Colorado City Rotary Club held a costume contest last week and winners were awarded $50 gift cards from Barnes & Nobles.
