First Sandhills Celebration Draws Many 'Old-Timers'

Super. . . great. . . fabulous. . .wonderful!

These and other adjectives were oft-spoken Saturday as the first Sandhills Celebration transpired. Pronounced a success, plans are already in the making for a bigger and better day next year.

Comments are solicited from area residents - criticisms, so they may be corrected; suggestions, so that the 1981 celebration will be even better. Comments may be written or called in to the Chamber of Commerce office, 285-2292, or to the Enterprise, 285-2631.

Promptly at 10 a.m., the parade wound its way down Main Street and around the square before disbanding. Joining the horseback riders and bicyclists were a little pageant winner from Amarillo, Bill Sarpalius, candidate for the Senate, numerous vehicles and an Oklahoma woman who was the first baby born in Olton after the town was established.

Parade marshal was longtime resident, W.B. Dickenson Sr., whose father was first sheriff of Lamb County. Riding in the parade were four generations of the Dickenson family with W.B. Dickenson Jr., Gary Dickenson and Don Dickenson joining the entourage.

Gathering under the big tent set up for the occasion, whiskered gentlemen were judged with Raymond Powers recognized for the "fullest beard," Bill Kemp, the "ugliest," Jack Alirez, "tickliest," Marvin Griffin, "most pleasing" and Gregory Ramon, "scraggliest."

Tall tale time came next with Elmer Moore winning the liar's contest. Dr. Travis Hart was emcee for these two events.

Olton Lions sold charcoaled hamburgers while soft drinks were sold by members of Olton Softball League.

Afternoon festivities got underway with the cow chip fling. Mike Williams was winner in the men's division with a toss of 81'8". Beverly Ivins tossed the "prairie wood" 74'9" for the women and Joy Muller threw it 70' for the young set.

Mrs. J.I. Brothers was the fastest "washerwoman," scrubbing three garments on the rub board, wringing and hanging them in just 19 seconds. In the junior division, Ron Dickenson did the feat (minus the application of lye soap for the younger contestants) in 29 seconds.

D.M. "Bub" Holt was master of ceremonies for the pioneer recognition ceremony. Forty-four people registered as having lived in the Sandhills Area 50 years or more.

Charlie Jones received the plaque for having resided in the area the longest time, living here since his birth 84 years ago.

Thirty people who are 70 years or older signed the guest register. Receiving plaques as oldest man and woman were R.J. Caviness, 87½ years, and Ruby Brown, 83 years 10 months. Three other women were 83 years young, Madge Petty, 83 years eight months, Mae Bley, 83 years six months and Edna Butler, 83 years two months.

Audrey Melton Perry traveled the greatest distance to attend the celebration, coming 2200 miles from her home in Murray Hill, N.J. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Roebuck came 2100 miles from their home in California.

Learning of the celebration at 9:30 p.m. Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson came from Mountain View, Okla. accompanied by her sister, Azzie Evans of Canadian. Mrs. Thompson, the former Ola Olton Brown, was the first baby born on the townsite after the town was established in 1908. Her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. T.F. Brown, moved their home into town and operated a general store and post office in their small house which is still located one block south of the Church of the Nazarene.

Mrs. Thompson learned of the celebration when her daughter, Mildred McQuaid of Mineral Wells, "happened through" Friday enroute to Farwell. She phoned her parents that night to tell them of the celebration. They left home at 2:30 a.m. Saturday and arrived in time for all the events of the day and were immediately put in the parade.

Kids Time came with all sorts of fun including frog races, sack races and other events.

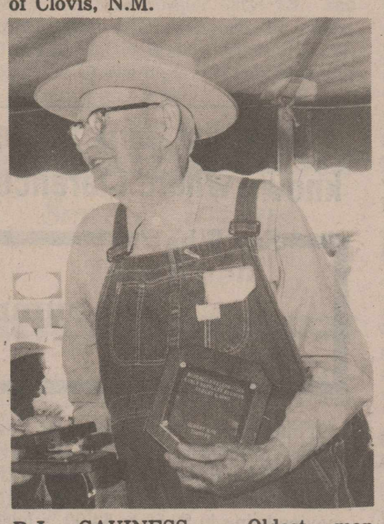

C.M. Moss was named champion horseshoe pitcher. George Richardson was in charge of the event.

Paul Melton of Plainview set toes tapping with his fiddle renditions which wooed the judges and won first place.

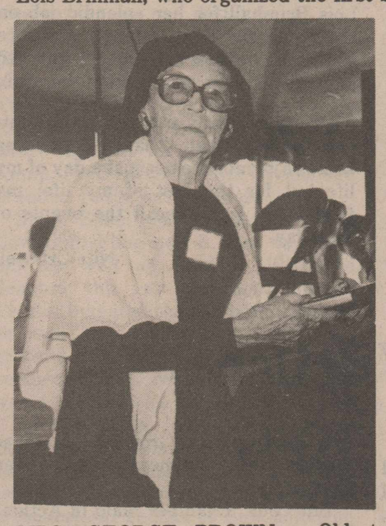

A rousing good time concluded the day as square dancers took to the street to step to the call of Bob Graham of Clovis, N.M.

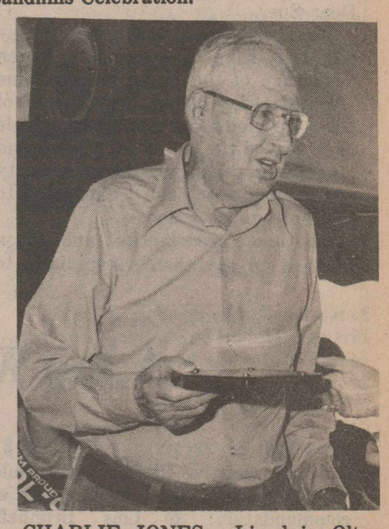

TRAVELED THE LONGEST DISTANCE - Audrey (Cooter Melton) Perry came from New Jersey for the celebration and received a plaque from Chambermaid Lois Brimhall, who organized the first Sandhills Celebration.

R.J. CAVINESS - Oldest man attending the Sandhills Celebration.

MRS. GEORGE BROWN - Oldest woman to attend the Sandhills Celebration.

CHARLIE JONES - Lived in Olton longer than any other person attending the celebration.

BEST FIDDLER title was won by Paul Melton of Plainview. He is accompanied here by Jimmy Ray Davis of Hart.

Oltonites To Challenge Official Census Count

The official count made by the U.S. Census Bureau for Olton has been set at 1968, a figure many Oltonites feel is much lower than it should be.

A check with City Hall shows that in 1970 there were 694 water connections compared to 845 at the close of July 1980. With 694 meters for 1782 persons (official census count for 1970) the number of persons per meter figures to be 2.56. Using that same ratio, the 1980 population should be 2163 (number of meters - 845 - multiplied by 2.56 persons per meter).

Checking with the post office, records indicate that in 1970 a total of 654 boxes were being used by city residents. As of Aug. 6, 1980, a total of 927 boxes were rented by city residents. Using the same method to arrive at a "per person" figure for boxes, in 1970 there was 2.72 persons per box. To arrive at a figure for 1980, 927 boxes multiplied by 2.72 persons gives a total figure of 2521.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company's records show 750 meter connections in the city at the present time. Because no records were available for 1970, a check in copies of The Enterprise showed 632 meters in existance in 1970. This figures 2.82 persons per meter for gas usage. Multiplying the 1980 total meters by 2.82 gives us a total of 2115 persons.

Southwestern Public Service reported 967 meter connections in 1980. Meters totaled 1030 according to a story in the January 1970 Enterprise. This gives a ratio of 1.73 persons per electric meter. To arrive at a 1980 population total, multiply that by number of meters presently being used (967 x 1.73 for a total of 1673.)

To get a more accurate picture, an average of the four totals, 2163 - water; 2115 - gas; 1673 - electricity; and 2521 - post office boxes gives us a guesstimated total population of 2118; 150 more persons than U.S. Census Bureau reports for Olton.

Letters To The Editor

Olton 'Lifer' Says Thanks

Dear Sue,

I have lived here at Olton all of my life and have enjoyed and taken advantage of the many talents, time and dedication of our dear people of Olton through the years. These people have served the churches, schools and other civic groups of the community and seldom ever have I expressed to them my appreciation.

It's time I back-tracked and go on forward to say thanks especially to Lois Brimhall for her splendid job on the Sandhills Celebration. I am sure she went beyond the call of duty to have done such an outstanding job.

There were many others that I know assisted her. To all, "thanks" for adding some enjoyment to not just a day of my life but for the rest of my life; my family and I can recall the events of that day.

Nita Criswell

A Job Well Done

Dear Editor:

As appreciative Oltonites we would like to extend a public word of commendation to Lois Brimhall, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, for the interesting promotional activities she has conceived for our city.

We like her habit of 'mingling among us' wearing one of her many hats, and ever introducing ANOTHER new idea to promote friendliness and simple enjoyment of our home-town days and ways.

We admire her undying efforts to spread her enthusiasm...when some of us would lag along...in the comfort of just drifting.

She has proven, with her designated fourth Saturday night music jamborees', that people like to get together...and listen, even if they do not participate. Growth of these crowds of listeners has been spectacular.

But - our "Chamber Maid in Action" has never been finer than in the recent Sandhills Celebration parade in which she brought up the rear, posing as a clown (behind a huge Texas Yellow Rose).

Her position in the parade was indicative of the whole story...she'd been behind it all the way. Dreaming up the idea of getting Ole Timers and Others together for a day of remembering and just plain fun...she pushed it to a smashing success.

We loved the Celebration...and we're looking forward to NEXT YEAR. We hope we don't have to depend upon Lois for all of the necessary vim, vigor and vitality to produce the Second Annual Event.

Grateful Friends

Say What?

This Summer's Movies

BY FREDDY STOCKDALE

If inflation has "hit" food prices, then it has practically bludgeoned movie prices. Fifteen years ago I went to the movies for 35 cents. Now most of the movies bring in $3.50 to $4.00 a head, which means that tightly-budgeted families are having to choose their cinematic entertainment with great care.

Until recently the situation around my house was no different. In fact, we hardly ever went to a movie unless we were guaranteed it was worth the admission price. But a couple of months ago, I became friends with somebody who is somebody and now I get to see the latest releases, the night before they open at the theaters, at what you might call a very reduced rate. Gratis, to be honest.

My latest freebie was Aug. 1, when another friend of mine, a reporter for an area newspaper and I, attended the West Texas premier of "Hanger 18," filmed almost entirely around Big Spring. The reaction of Big Spring residents to the film was interesting. They were much more interested in recognizing familiar scenery than the action taking place on the screen. As one out of town guest said, "That's the first time I have ever heard an overpass applauded."

But even though the film was popular in Big Spring, it probably won't do too well around the rest of the country because the special effects in this latest sci-fi release just aren't up to the standards set in such blockbusters as "Star Wars" and "Alien."

Please don't take my remarks as a professional critique of the movie because I don't know near enough about the technical aspects of filmmaking to offer a respectable review. I can, however, offer my humble opinion, which you can choose to agree or disagree with.

Compare your opinions with mine on these other movies offered this summer:

THE ISLAND-- If you paid to see this then you know the true meaning of the word "mistake." The movie was just too idiotic and too gory for me.

THE SHINING-- Along with "The Empire Strikes Back," this ranks as a must for moviegoers. Jack Nicholson gives an outstanding performance, and the photography is breathtaking.

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK--Another masterful work from the folks who gave us "Star Wars." The only gripe I have is that the film, billed as a sequel to "Star Wars," is more of a soap opera-like continuation of the story.

FAME--An entertaining musical that is definitely worth seeing.

HOW TO BEAT THE HIGH COST OF LIVING--This is a cute movie about three ladies who are trying to strike back at inflation. I think it would have been better as a made-for-TV movie, because I'm not sure I would have paid $3.50 to see it.

HONEYSUCKLE ROSE--Even though I'm not a big Willie Nelson fan, I still enjoyed the movie. Worth seeing.

DRESSED TO KILL--If sex, violence and suspense are what you like in a movie, then this chilling film is for you.

CADDYSHACK--Audiences have gone crazy over this movie. There are some hilarious moments, but there are also some pretty dumb ones, too, that almost ruin it. Rodney Dangerfield steals the show.

THE HUNTER--If you are a fan of Steve McQueen movies, stay away from this bomb. McQueen's acting is great, especially considering that the script was probably written by two first graders.

AIRPLANE--This is, without a doubt, the funniest movie of the summer. Don't miss it.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink!

By Mozelle Trotter

"I'm Proud To Live In Olton." That message is proclaimed by blue and white bumper stickers being distributed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Aren't we lucky to live in a community where people care about one another -- where we're sort of one giant family?

And aren't we lucky geographically? Sure we get threats now and then from killer tornadoes and I have genuine respect for their mighty power.

Even so, I'd rather take my chances getting away from a tornado than to live in an area where there was potential devastation from a hurricane.

Folks along the Texas coast must be a hardy breed. I could never get used to the idea that this season might be the one that takes away my home, the possessions I've accumulated, the irreplaceable keepsakes of a lifetime.

Sure, tornadoes do the same. And yet, their very capricious nature makes them less dreaded, I think. They do skip and miss but a hurricane slamming into mainland misses no one. Yea, I'll take high, dry country!

God truly smiles on West Texas. He's so very good to us!

KOYE HULL

Recipe Revue

By Mozelle Trotter

A recent visitor to Olton whose sisters were spotlighted in this column, is featured this week with recipes she borrowed from her grandmother. Koye Hull of Kimball, Neb. and her sisters, Kari and Koni, spent about two months visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sluder, and with aunts in Canyon and Dalhart.

Koye, 15, and her sisters share cooking duties back home with their mother, Peggy Sluder Hull. They admit to some sisterly disagreements but work together well under a team assignment their mother devised.

During her visit here, Koye helped in the insurance agency co-owned by her grandparents. She thoroughly enjoyed typing policies and is eager to take typing when school starts so that she can be more proficient.

Koye took homemaking as an eighth grader and freshman in high school and discovered sewing was no easy task. "It gets me," she says, adding that her former homemaking teacher aunt helped her a lot this summer.

A sophomore when school starts at Kimball High School, Koye is looking forward to athletics. She is an avid sportswoman. She likes almost all sports but is particularly interested in volleyball and basketball. She loves swimming and tennis. She says she is also trying to learn golf.

Horseback riding ranks high on her list of favorite things. Spending time at Lake City, Colo. with her family is also special. Koye is a Methodist and attended services at First United Methodist Church while here. Born in Olton, she was just two years old when her family moved to Kimball.

What wonderful people we have in this town. Everyone really came through and worked hard so that our first annual Sandhills Celebration was a big success. I have a long list of credits and thank yous to a lot of people who worked hard. If I miss someone - please forgive me this time.

Wendell Potts was a great parade director and he was ably assisted by Robert Sivley. I am grateful to everyone who took time from a busy schedule to participate. It was a really nice parade for our first year.

Thanks to the participants in the Beard and Liars Contests - I hope you all saw yourselves on T.V. Thanks to Travis Hart for being M.C. and to our judges - Lillian Green, Inez Yates and Grace Spitter for the beards; Bill Kemp, Fred Long, Delmer Givens and Wendell Potts for the Liars.

Steve Spain was in charge of the Cow Chip Fling and I want to thank him as well as Harold Mills who donated the raw product. Mozelle Trotter invented the rub board contest as well as conducted it and I am grateful to her. Sharla Nicholas performed her twirling routine and was a big addition to the day.

Rosalyn Sorley did a great job as chairman of the pioneer committee who did the registering of the old timers; selected the awards and made the presentation. Thanks to Bub Holt who assisted with this committee as well as being M.C. for the afternoon and many other jobs.

The judges for the Old Fiddlers' Contest were Pearl Hair, L.C. McLain of Hart and Glenn Wardlaw of Hale Center. I really appreciated all the help they rendered.

Renee Williams did a bang-up good job as director of the kids' games and my deep appreciation to George Richardson for directing the horse shoe tournament and to Frank Struve for being judge.

J.L. and Retta Snider worked hard as directors of the square dancing and it paid off in great entertainment for all of us.

Other key workers were Melvin Rape, John Stiles, Raymond Powers, Bill Yoakum, Joe Rivera, Janis Chaney and Sue Cannon. If I've missed anyone, I'm really sorry.

In case you are wondering about the balloon - the nice breeze that kept us cool also kept the balloon from going up. Bill Anderson came about 6:30 and managed to launch one balloon but the breeze was still too strong and it finally sailed off in the direction of the feedyard. We'll try to get him back on a better day.

I am going to be gone for a couple of weeks on vacation and Billie Kelley will be filling in for me at the office. I'll see you all when I get back.

Card Of Thanks

We cannot adequately express our appreciation for the love and concern that helped sustain us at the loss of our father and grandfather.

We truly appreciate each kindness shown, and wish to express heartfelt gratitude for each expressive card, the lovely flowers and delicious food offered for the visiting families. May God bless each of you.

What Troubles?

There are troubles that trouble us day by day;
There are troubles that worry our life away;
But the troubles that worry us most of all, are the troubles that never happen at all.
When some real trouble comes along;
When something or other does go wrong, after all come to think it isn't so bad,
As heap of the troubles we thought we had.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Barton Prestridge recently were her sisters, Mrs. Thelma White of Lawton, Okla. and Mr. and Mrs. Landrum Neely of Pittsburg, Ka.

Those who attended were the honoree, Lois Brimhall, Lillian Green, Inez Yates, Madeline Allcorn, Euna Sides, Cassie Daugherty and teacher of that class, Lenoa Shaeffer.

The Ira Fosters and Ray Culwells received word Thursday their uncle, Paul Culwell of Eldorado, Okla. had passed away. Services were Saturday morning. Neither family was able to attend. He is survived by his wife, Vera and one daughter, and one grandchild.

The two visitors presented banners, greetings and various mementoes of their homeland. Miyawaki, who's been dubbed "Eddie" by acquaintances here, brought a letter of thanks to the local club from the club in which his father is a member. Written in Japanese, he explained it states appreciation to Olton Lions Club for welcoming the youth from their town.

Miyawaki spoke briefly about his home city which he says has a population of 10 million persons. He said he thinks Texas is "very beautiful, very friendly".

Pay-as-you-go has been changed to pay-as-it-grows for a California beef producer near Vacaville. Vince Shaw has successfully developed a direct marketing method whereby the consumer buys direct from the producer. Not only does he buy directly from the farmer, he pays a price agreed on before the feeding even begins. Payments are spread throughout the 12-month feeding period with the final one made when the cut and wrapped meat is delivered. According to Mr. Shaw, the end results provide him with a substantially better profit for each animal while also saving the consumer money as compared to what would have been spent at a retail level. Anyone wanting all the details of how the operation works can write to: Vince Shaw, 3972 Pleasant Valley Road, Vacaville, CA 95688.

INSUR-MATION

We are going to purchase a home for the first time. Would it be better to buy insurance for protection against fire and another policy against burglary and theft or is there a policy which would take care of both?

A package policy called a Homeowners Policy could include protection against these and many other perils. The number of types of perils you are protected against depends on whether you purchase a Basic Form Homeowners Policy (covering 11 perils), a Broad Form Homeowners Policy (covering 18 perils) or a Comprehensive Form Policy insuring you for most perils except those listed on your policy such as earthquake, nuclear attack, etc. The advantage of a Homeowners Policy is having one policy, one premium . . . less to keep up with. Your property is insured against a wide range of perils and the cost is generally less than if you purchased these coverages seperately.

Reminiscing

By Lily May Silcott

Ora Mae's love of teaching and love of people prompted her to begin teaching piano in 1952. She had taught music in earlier life, before her marriage. She continued this program until her husband became quite ill in 1960. Thereafter she had a few students who came to the home for lessons. Both she and Stansell enjoyed the diversion of their visits.

In the spring of 1967 Mrs. Stansell began writing news items for The Olton Enterprise. She also served as correspondent for Earth, Littlefield and Plainview papers.

Following Mr. Stansell's death in 1968 this remarkable little woman resumed a program of private piano lessons in Springlake and in Olton. She continued with her news reporting also until illness forbade her doing so in 1978.

A lengthy recuperation followed for Mrs. Stansell, spent largely in the homes of her daughters. At one point during this interval she confided to this reporter..."In Nebraska, in the home of James and Ann and their three daughters, I have never been happier. It seems almost as though I were starting all over again...in a home with three little girls and all of their activities."

Two of Mrs. Stansell's daughters married brothers. Ruth, the eldest, married John Carson. They now live in Missouri. Ann, the youngest married, James Carson, now living in Nebraska. Beth, the other daughter is wife of Dwight Joiner, music teacher in Dimmitt schools. Adding great interest to these three families, and to Mrs. Stansell in particular, are eight grandchildren and one great-grand child. Little Amber Dawn, grandchild of the John Carsons, is only two months old.

Two of her sons-in-law are elders in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, of which Ora Lee is a member. While she was visiting in the north last winter, she was privileged to worship in a little church built in 1860...still in use and beautifully kept.

When asked about the philosophy that has guided her through her long and useful life, she smilingly replied, "One principle given me by my father was simply, "Never trouble trouble, till trouble troubles you". One conclusion I have drawn from the good and the ill fortune that has come my way is this..."If we just remember to serve and worship the Lord as we should - we will never have problems but that we can get through them with His help."

Mrs. Stansell candidly states that she has "not minded getting old. I think it is a privilege to have lived this long." She has great faith in the younger generation, and she comments, I really feel that the young people today are the finest I have ever known. As a rule They seem less materialistic than some in previous days...they come nearer seeing the value of individual lives than past generations...and certainly, they are the best informed."

And, by way of keeping herself informed...this spry little lady is still correspondent for a few newspapers, covering local events. She reads - all that failing eyesight will allow, and listens avidly to news and political events...in an effort to determine who will be the best candidate for the 1980 presidential election.

Steeped in the traditions of Collingsworth County, Ora Lee Forbis was born near Wellington, Dec. 21, 1903. The youngest of five children, she was daughter of a real pioneer couple who moved to Wellington in 1888. A part of the land acquired by them then - still remains with family members... lacking only eight years for a century family ownership.

But, she also qualifies equally as a pioneer of Lamb County, since she and her husband, Tom Stansell, moved to the Olton vicinity shortly after their marriage May 31, 1928. She remains on the farm they first made their home some 52 years ago.

Ora Lee began her schooling, when she was almost six years of age, in a one-teacher school. She defends the position that children can learn much in such a situation. Her sister was her first teacher. Her brother filled the position the following three years. He spent the hours from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. instructing students from the first reader through early high school levels. She distinctly remembers, too, how he courageously cared for her and carried her safely home through a blinding blizzard in 1911.

She advanced to a two-teacher school in seventh grade, and thereafter boarded in her sister's home in Wellington until she was graduated from that high school in 1920, at the age of sixteen and one-half years. She laments, "Very few rural youngsters finished high school in those years, for there were no buses to make it possible for them to attend the high schools offered by the small towns."

After attending Clarendon Methodist Junior College for two years, the young Miss Forbis began her teaching career. Among her students of that era, several have made their way west also, namely Mrs. J.L. (Dorothy) Carson and Lloyd Graham, both of this city.

When she first received her teaching certificate, she was very eager to secure a position. To illustrate her driving ambition she relates, "I heard that the Quail School needed a teacher. I applied for the position by dressing my very best, donning high heels and gloves, and personally visiting each of the seven farmer-trustees. As I trudged through those sandy hills they must have realized that I really wanted the position...as it turned out, there was really no opening, after all."

The late Alvin Hysinger had been a college classmate in Clarendon. Before the year was over his father, a school trustee, wrote requesting that she come to the Margaret school, in Foard County, to complete the year in elementary grades.

Continuing her education she attended West Texas State Teachers College in Canyon each summer. She taught in country schools of Pleasant Point and Fresno, which she had attended as a child. Determined to earn her degree before her marriage, she entered WTSU in January, 1927 and in June was proud possessor of a bachelor of arts degree. Her teaching experiences during this time had included an assignment with the first five grades, and later as principal of a school of nine grades (which included two classes of high school level). She was so employed when at the close of the term, she and Mr. Stansell were married May 31, 1928. The ceremony was performed in Silverton.

Stansell was a Veteran of World War I. She only saw him once before he went into service. He was older than she, and she did some growing-up while he was in the army. He was in England when the Armistice ended hostilities, but was sent on in to France for a time anyway. She says that he always spoke of the good care the government gave the men during those war years...when it was raining so much of the time.

It was sometime during this period that Mrs. Stansell first remembers seeing an airplane. It flew over her school. She also remembers her first ride in an automobile, "It belonged to a guest who came to my sister's wedding, and it produced a lot of excitement."

The first time Ora Lee was privileged to see this south plains area, she and her family had made a camping trip to Santa Fe, N.M. in 1920. Returning via Las Cruces, Big Spring and Lubbock they camped at a school building in Lubbock, which was then about the present size of Dimmitt. She was tremendously impressed with the entire south plains and made the statement that she "wished she could live in a country as pretty as this was."

Eight years later she realized this dream by moving to the present home place, west of the city.

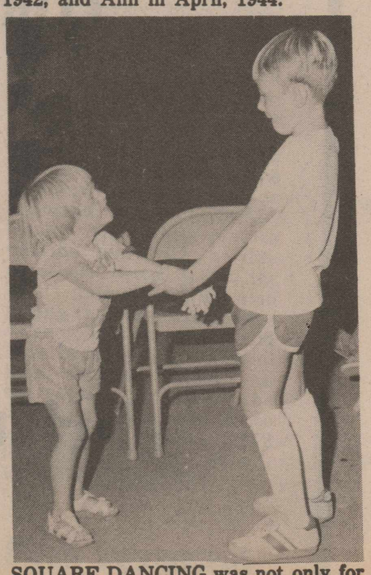

The first two years the Stansells lived in a small 'box and strip' house, still standing as an out-building. She relates, "The strips didn't always cover the holes...it was a very open affair and very hard to heat with the coal we burned."

In 1930 they built the present home. Mr. Higgins, father of her good friend and neighbor, Mrs. Juanita Adams, was the builder. Mr. Stansell lent assistance.

She tells of many hard times during the early years here, of milking cows, raising chickens and turkeys, helping her husband in the fields by running a go-devil, heading maize and pulling bolls. But she really likes the out-of-doors better than being in the house, and she adds, "My husband had such a marvelous sense of humor...we had lots of fun, too."

She did little teaching after arriving in this area, only the last half of 1930 and the full term, 1930-31. There was a ruling against using married women on the school faculty during some of those years.

The Stansell's first daughter, Ruth, was born in 1937. Two little sisters arrived later, Beth on Christmas day 1942, and Ann in April, 1944.

SQUARE DANCING was not only for those in the "squares". Grandchildren of K.Y. Givens joined on the sidelines.
