There's some interesting material in a report titled "Getting the Most from City Streets," compiled by the Highway Research Board. Joining the board in sponsoring the special project were The Automotive Safety Foundation, the Automobile Manufacturer's Association and the American Petroleum Institute.

Purpose of the research project is to improve the traffic flow, the utility and the safety of city streets.

One item that may be of interest if one-way streets in some of the larger cities confuse you, is a report indicating that one-way streets not only are more efficient, but they may well be better for adjacent business firms if traffic is particularly heavy and the streets involved are narrow. The report shows that businessmen in some major cities who opposed one-way streets now favor them for the simple reason that it is much easier for motor vehicles to turn into their respective business parking areas than from two-way streets. If traffic is exceptionally heavy, few vehicles on the opposite side of the street are able to turn toward a business house if there is opposing traffic in the intervening lanes.

Also, it was interesting to note reports on the "scramble" system for pedestrian crossings at intersections. The scramble system involves halting traffic from all directions and permitting pedestrians to cross intersections diagonally if they desire. Some cities who have tried the scramble have now limited the procedure to a few intersections that have special problems, while others have abandoned the plan.

Throughout the report, the traffic problem of major cities appears to be one of the major stumbling blocks to modern transportation, while a lot of smaller towns are trying to figure out ways to lure more vehicular traffic inside their boundaries.

PRINCIPALS IN SABAH CRISIS — President Ferdinand Marcos, left, of the Philippines signed the law Sept. 18 "incorporating" the Malaysian state of Sabah into the Philippines. Tunku Abdul Rahman, right, the Malaysian prime minister, said the action was "tantamount to aggression" and vowed to "meet force with force." (AP Wirephoto)

Malaysians Stage Protest

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia informed the Philippine government officially today it is suspending diplomatic relations and asked it to withdraw its customs officers from the North Borneo state of Sabah "at the earliest opportunity."

Malaysia's note was handed to Philippine Charge d'Affaires Romeo T. Cristobal at the foreign ministry.

Meanwhile, the Sabah government whipped up anti-Philippine feeling, and youths in Kota Kinabalu, the Sabah capital, burned Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos in effigy to protest the Filipino claim on their Malaysian state.

More than 10,000 of Kota Kinabalu's 60,000 population watched as a group of youths punched, spat on and burned an effigy of the Filipino president hanging from a makeshift gallows in this capital city.

Led by Sabah Deputy Chief Minister Khoo Siak Chiew and other officials, the youths then paraded the flaming effigy through the city's streets.

The government declared a public holiday and called on the people to turn out for demonstrations "to give our answer loud and clear to the Philippines."

The protests were triggered by Marcos' signing of a law declaring Sabah Philippine territory. Malaysia retaliated by suspending diplomatic relations with the Philippines and canceling the treaty under which it was cooperating against smugglers who rob the Manila government of an estimated $100 million a year in customs.

Sabah, formerly British North Borneo, became part of Malaysia in 1963 when the former British territories in Southeast Asia were merged. The Philippines claims Sabah should have reverted to it because part of the territory was ceded to a British syndicate by a 19th century sultan of Sulu, and his descendants are now Philippine citizens.

Although Filipino leaders emphasized they had no intention of resorting to force, military forces in Sabah have been put on the alert. The director of the Sabah Vigilante Corps called for more volunteers "in view of the present situation."

Fair Concessions Arrangements Due

Clubs and organizations who want to operate concession stands at the Scurry County Fair have been asked to contact L. M. Dawson, President of the Scurry County Fair Association.

Dawson may be reached by telephone at 573-9797.

Most organizations who have been interested in concessions at fairs in the past have already been in contact with fair officials, Dawson said. However, there may be others interested this year and they are urged to make arrangements as soon as possible.

Too Absent Minded To Be Good Thieves

DALLAS (AP) — Two pistol-packing robbers forced clerks and customers to lie on the floor while they gathered a sackful of cash Wednesday at the D. T. Grocery Store.

Both men then ran out the door—and both forgot the bag of money. It was still there when police arrived.

Senate May Fatten Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — An emaciated $1.619-billion foreign-aid appropriation bill has been tossed by the House to the Senate, which may fatten it up some.

It passed the House Thursday in record time and with a record 45 per cent cut from funds requested by President Johnson to finance the program for the current fiscal year.

Opponents of the $1.3-billion House-approved cut made only a token fight to increase the funds. They gave up after losing their initial effort by overwhelming voice vote.

Privately they predicted that the Senate would beef up the measure, particularly the allotments for development loans.

Approved only Thursday morning by the Appropriations Committee, the bill's total was the smallest since the aid program was launched in 1948 as the Marshall Plan.

Normally the House could not have considered the bill so swiftly since it has a rule requiring money bills to lie over for three days before being voted on.

It waived that rule before passing the bill by a roll-call vote of 173 to 139. Voting for it were 120 Democrats and 53 Republicans. Against it were 55 Democrats and 84 Republicans.

Deep cuts in funds requested by the President were in supporting assistance allotments, reduced from $595 million to $365 million; in development loans for nations outside South America, from $765 million to $265 million, and in loans and grants for South American nations, from $625 million to $270 million.

Direct military assistance allotments were trimmed from $420 million to $375 million.

Reds' Punch Gone Says US Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some top U.S. military leaders claim the enemy has lost the ability to mount the kind of offensive that jolted U.S. and South Vietnamese forces last winter.

They say that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong apparently have decided to use sustained low level attacks "in hopes of wearing us out."

These high-ranking officers, speaking in private, contend that the enemy launched his expected "third wave" offensive about Aug. 18, but could not sustain the effort.

Publicly U.S. civilian and military officials have avoided giving firm opinions on whether the North Vietnamese and VC had attempted a third offensive.

This caution stems from criticism leveled at some U.S. leaders in the past for voicing optimism which later proved unfounded.

Senior American military leaders attribute what they claim is enemy failure to heavy casualties and very much improved allied intelligence.

One general said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong suffered 70,000 or more killed in last winter's Tet offensive, including many of their seasoned troop leaders and veteran fighters.

Improved allied intelligence was credited by the senior U.S. officer with enabling American and South Vietnamese units to short circuit planned enemy attacks.

Great credit also is given to Air Force B52 and tactical fighter bombers for clobbering enemy forces before they can mount effective large scale assaults.

Intelligence was rated one of the allied falldowns which permitted the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to shock American and South Vietnamese troops at the outset of the Tet offensive last January.

A follow-up enemy offensive in May penetrated a limited area of Saigon, struck at some other South Vietnamese centers and was characterized by rocket attacks on populated communities.

But it was much less severe than the Tet offensive, and American military men regard the August enemy effort as even less effective.

"We are clearly on top of them militarily," one senior general said.

"They have lost the ability to mount the kind of offensive they threw at us in January. There is only one option left to them—sustained low level attacks to inflict casualties and destruction."

Allies Blunt Attacks By North Viets

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces drove back two strong attacks early today by some 600 North Vietnamese northwest of Saigon, killing 67 enemy soldiers at a cost of nine South Vietnamese militiamen killed and 31 of the defenders wounded.

But in three other battles south of Da Nang and in the Mekong Delta, Viet Gong and North Vietnamese forces dealt serious losses to U.S. and South Vietnamese units. The casualty count in those engagements was 24 Americans, 16 South Vietnamese and 91 of the enemy killed, 81 Americans and 81 South Vietnamese wounded.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots shot down their first MIG jet in seven weeks Thursday, the U.S. Command announced. The command also reported that a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by North Vietnamese groundfire and the pilot is missing.

The ground war continued hottest northwest of Saigon, along the jungled invasion routes from Cambodia to the capital, and in the northern provinces. U.S. intelligence officers said they had one "pretty good" report that an attack on Saigon was planned for Monday to mark one of the Viet Cong's numerous special days. But one officer said "we have nothing to back it up and there's no indication of movement."

Northwest of Saigon, a battalion of perhaps 300 North Vietnamese came out of hideouts in rubber plantation country and attacked a U.S. 25th Infantry Division camp 10 miles east of Tay Ninh City.

The attackers hit the 200 American defenders with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades, machine-gun fire and small arms, but the U.S. troops—well entrenched for the night-reported only three men wounded.

PAID IN FULL — Cecil Boren, (left) vice president of the Snyder National Bank, accepts "payment in full" from Bill Dryden of the Snyder Jaycees. The Jaycees raised $9,000 in cash and materials to aid the victims of a storm that struck west of Hermleigh May 24. They signed a note to begin the drive and paid it off yesterday.

CONFIDENCE JUSTIFIED

Jaycees Pay Off Note

Can they do it?

That question was answered with a resounding "Yes" yesterday afternoon at Snyder National Bank when the Snyder Jaycees paid off a note that was signed for the purpose of providing funds for the tornado disaster victims at Hermleigh.

The Jaycees have reached their goal of $9,000 in money and materials for houses for the storm victims.

"We don't need any more cash contributions," said Bill Dryden, co-chairman of the aid project for the Jaycees. "The note has been paid off."

Jaycee officials expressed their appreciation to local and area citizens who "helped put the project over the top." They said the response from the general public has "been tremendous."

A substantial amount of the money was raised during a radio - thon here Aug. 24 with contributions of cash and materials being sent in or pledged. About $2,500 was raised through individual contributions after the radio-thon. Included among the contributions is $1,500 from a couple of the victims themselves.

The money was used to pay for four houses that were moved from Muriel Drive to Hermleigh to replace ones that were destroyed by a tornado that struck west of Hermleigh May 24. Other expenses included the cost of construction of new foundations and the cost for moving the houses.

The tornado devastated the area, leveling houses of Bob Lee, Wynn Lee, T. D. (Doc) Leech and Bob Neblett. Only the foundations remained after the quick-striking twister shredded trees in the area and uprooted utility poles. The storm also ripped the roof off the home of Herman Richburg and inundated more than a section of land near Hermleigh.

"I would plant over if I had anything left to plant with," one of the victims said as he stood in the wreckage of his home the next day.

Other comments by the victims recall the powerful winds spawned by the storm. Another victim, describing the tornado, said:

"It was blowing every which way. I started to go home, but then I decided I didn't want to commit suicide, so I waited until it broke."

Thanks to the Jaycees and local and area citizens, the victims now can also remember how helpful their friends and neighbors were.

Wall Street Girl-Watch Out Of Hand

NEW YORK (AP) — The girl-watchers of Wall Street got out of hand Thursday.

Brokers and clerks in the financial canyons of lower Manhattan had been noticing Francine Gottfried, 21, for a couple of weeks. Clad in tight sweater and skirt, she would emerge from a particular subway exit around 1:30 p.m. and head for her job as an IBM machine operator.

The word got around and the crowds began to increase. Thursday, as though someone pulled a switch, the "bulls" and "bears" turned into "wolves."

Miss Gottfried emerged from the subway, about 5,000 brokers, bankers and clerks were waiting along the young lady's line of march to the Chemical Bank of New York Trust Co.

The crowds were thick along sidewalks and in the narrow streets. Those males unable to make it down to street level peered from windows. One man was on a roof. Photographers were out in force.

Miss Gottfried, a 5-foot-4 brunette, had chosen to wear a yellow sweater and red skirt.

Suddenly a cheer went up from the massed males, and the mob crowded around her, many asking for autographs.

Word of the impending scene had spread to police, who managed to steer the besieged girl into a nearby building, out a back door, and to her office by a circuitous route.

Miss Gottfried, who lives in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn and measures 42-25-37, was bewildered by it all.

Eastern Jetliner Hijacked To Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines jetliner with 53 persons aboard was hijacked to Havana today while en route from San Juan to Miami.

The plane, a Boeing 720, was 40 miles southwest of Nassau, the Bahamas, when it suddenly veered to the left and headed for Cuba, said Paul Boatman, area administrator for the Federal Aviation Administration in Miami.

He said the craft swung off course at 9:12 a.m. EDT, and touched down at Havana's Jose Marti Airport at 9:45 a.m.

"There was no radio contact from the pilot," said Boatman. "Communication suddenly halted when the plane veered to the left and took a southwest course for Cuba."

Boatman said 9 persons were aboard but Bill Wooten, an Eastern executive in Miami, said those aboard were 32 passengers, seven crewmen and 14 Eastern employes.

Wooten said a passenger list was not immediately available. The crew members were all Miami residents, he added.

Wooten identified the pilot as Capt. W. T. Babbitt and the first officer as W. J. Richardson.

Neither Boatman nor Wooten had any information about the hijacker or hijackers.

"We won't know anything about how it happened until they get back," said Boatman.

Wooten said Eastern had appealed to the State Department to get the passengers back immediately.

The flight, EAL 950, departed San Juan at 7:30 a.m., officials said, and took the "Yankee Route" to Miami, swinging east of Cuba.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister is very musical. She is also a little nuts. She plays the guitar and makes up songs. She made up a ballad which she calls "THE MEN IN MY LIFE." It has about 30 verses and she goes on and on naming one guy after another. Maybe it's true and maybe it's not, but she sure included a lot of guys, both single and married. I told her she'd better quit singing that song around town or she's apt to get herself in a lot o' trouble. She could get sued, couldn't she? And by the way, how much would it cost to send her to the city to get her head read?

BILLY

DEAR BILLY: I suppose your sister-in-law could be sued for libel or defamation of character but if she's as "nutty" as you say she is, I doubt if anyone takes her seriously. If you send me your name and address I'll be glad to tell you what the local going rate for a "head reading" is.

DEAR ABBY: My daugher, 15, accepted a ring from a boy, 17, after skating with him three evenings. It meant nothing. This is just the way they do things. A boy will give the same ring to three girls in a week sometimes.

Well, my daughter lost the ring. Now his sister called me, demanding that I pay for the ring. She said she gave it to her "kid brother" as a birthday gift.

What would you advise? I really feel no responsibility, but want to do the right thing.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: When big sister gave kid brother the ring, it became his property to do with what he chose. If kid brother feels that a replacement is in order, it's up to him to request it, and up to your daughter (not you) to replace it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll refer to him as "John") passed away recently, and I suffered a great loss as we had been happily married for over 20 years. Ours was a good marriage except for one incident several years ago when John had an affair with another woman. It almost killed me when I found out, but he promised he would stop seeing her.

A week after John's death, his mother told me that John had never really stopped seeing this other woman, and the affair continued right up to the time of his death. This came as a terrible shock from which I haven't yet recovered. How can one be so cruel and heartless? What shall I say if my mother-in-law mentions this affair again?

TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: You can say, "I don't believe it, and since John isn't here to defend himself, I shall continue to feel as I do." And if I were you, I'd avoid John's mother. Her intentions are clearly malicious.

Work Starts On Pipeline For CRMWD

Work has commenced by Wittman Construction Company of Phoenix, Ariz. on a 3'-mile pipeline project for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

First ditch was cut in Mitchell County at the juncture with the district's pipeline from Lake J. B. Thomas to Sun Oil Company in Coke County.

This 11-mile section will be pushed westward to Moss Creek Lake southeast of Big Spring. The lake will become a terminal storage later on the line to the new Robert Lee Lake, but this 27-inch line will give it a direct connection with Lake Thomas.

After this line is complete, the contractor will lay 16 miles of 21-inch from the juncture to the side storage dam above Colorado City. The last section is 10 miles of 42-inch diameter line from Big Spring to Moss Creek lake.

Wittman was awarded the contract on a bid of $2,765,467.

Nixon Sisters In Dallas Politicking

DALLAS (AP) — The Nixon sisters arrived in Dallas Thursday night with only one complaint.

They believe the polls are too good to the Republican presidential candidate, their father.

Julie and Tricia admitted the staff is a little worried that the myriad of favorable polls might cause over-optimism and cut down campaign contributions to their father.

"But that hasn't happened yet and things are really bright," commented Julie, the bubbly 20-year-old fiancee of former-President Dwight Eisenhower's grandson, David Eisenhower.

David is expected to join the Nixon girls in Dallas late today for an all-day canvass project and GOP rally Saturday.

Tricia and Julie, enthusiastic and at ease with the press after a summer of campaigning, stressed the importance of youth support for their father's presidential bid.

"His greatest appeal to young people is that he's a very honest person," testified Tricia, the 22-year old blonde sister.

"He doesn't say all the problems will end overnight, but he admits that change takes time. Young people believe that and like it."

Julie stressed that Nixon refuses to try to appeal to "an alienated group of young people by making a promise he can't keep."

Nixon's daughters, too, have learned the art of confidence—in themselves as well as their paternal canddate.

"Criticism really doesn't bother us," Julie said. "Except we don't appreciate personal criticism. Political criticism is good because it clarifies the issues for the voters.

Big Blaze As Gas Line Ruptures

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Flames roared 200 feet into the air after a 20-inch natural gas line broke 34 miles east of here Wednesday night.

The pillar of fire burned unchecked for 40 minutes until an emergency crew dispatched by United Gas Co., which owns the line, could reach a shutoff valve and halt the flow of gas.

A United Gas spokesman said the cause of the break, in an open field near the Sutherland Springs community, had not been determined.

Gas erupting from the pipeline under pressure of 600 pounds per square inch gouged a crater 30 feet across and 15 feet deep. Trees, fences and utility poles were burned for several hundred feet in the direction the gas was flowing.

Residents of San Antonio could see the towering blaze. One thought it was a house afire closer at hand and turned in a false alarm.

Scores of spectators flocked to the scene from the neighboring towns of Floresville and Lavernia, hampering efforts of the emergency crew.

Officials said the broken line had no effect on service to natural gas customers served by the company.

BOSTON STREET RALLY

HHH Faces Loud Hecklers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and George Wallace raised funds Thursday while Hubert H. Humphrey met the raised voices of antiwar hecklers whom he called people of hate, not peace.

Humphrey, besieged by hundreds of shouting protestors, at a Boston street corner rally, said afterwards, "It is time to blow the whistle on those who would deny the American people the right to reason together."

The vice president said the hard core hecklers believed in nothing and added, "Take a look at them, filled with hate and bitterness. Look at their faces filled with violence."

Nixon faced a friendly audience of fellow Republicans over a closed-circuit television network linking 20 fund-raising dinners that brought in $5 million and told his backers, "You've made a good bet."

He predicted victory in November and said, "You're going to win this bet, and you're going to win it big."

Wallace raised more than $250,000 for his third-party effort with a luncheon, dinner and rally at Montgomery, Ala., where he told a crowd of 15,000, "We're going to show them that we represent the mainstream of thought in America."

The antiwar demonstrators chanted criticism at both Humphrey and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who endorsed the Democratic candidate.

Kennedy, whose brother, Robert, was assassinated as he sought the nomination, said, "I think if there is one lesson of 1968, it is that there is no room for anarchy, that there is no room for violence, and there is no solution to difficult and compelling problems by shouting and screaming."

Humphrey told the hecklers, "Your actions are going to disgust the American people and harm the cause of peace."

Nixon, in a speech at Springfield, Mo., promised to include dissenting opinions in a Cabinet that would have Democratic and independent members as well as Republicans if he is elected president.

"I don't want a government of yes men," he said. "I don't believe in government by the Gallup poll."

Humphrey went from Boston to Sioux Falls, S. D., to receive the endorsement of Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., a rival for the nomination and critic of the Vietnam war. The vice president moved on to Springfield, Ill., today where he renewed a challenge to Nixon for a debate, either face to face or on television.

In other political developments:

—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the Democratic nominee for vice president, said one reason for his failure to draw big crowds is a lack of organization. "The other answer," he said, "is that not enough people know me yet. But they're going to."

—Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP choice for No. 2, said AFL-CIO President George Meany might be violating federal restrictions if personnel paid with union dues are used for political purposes in a voter education and registration drive.

—Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien called Nixon a "cosmetic candidate" and said, "Before this campaign is over, we'll have that make-up off. He cannot duck and evade the issues for seven more weeks."

—The Rev. Channing E. Phillips of Washington, D.C., who became the first Negro ever to have his name placed in nomination for president last month at the Democratic convention, threw his support behind Humphrey today.

Ike's Progress Very Good Says Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's surgeon general describes former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recuperation from repeated heart attacks as "miraculous" and says the former president now gets out of bed several times a day.

"We are very pleased with the progress that Gen. Eisenhower is making at the moment," Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton said Thursday.

Heaton said Eisenhower now gets out of bed several times daily to sit in a chair, eats well, no longer uses oxygen and looks "very good."

He added, however, that the 77-year-old Eisenhower is not out of danger. He declined to speculate on when or whether he could go home to his Gettysburg, Pa. farm.

Heaton's comments were made at a White House ceremony during which President Johnson declared the week of Oct. 13 as "America" Salute to Eisenhower Week."

In handing a copy of the proclamation to Eisenhower's son, John, the President said America "has always spoken with one voice and affection for a beloved leader."

Eisenhower has been a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital since last May after suffering his fourth heart attack since 1955. He suffered three more attacks while hospitalized, the last on Aug. 16.

Session On Road Work

ROBY — The Texas Highway Department held a Pre-Construction meeting, Thursday at the Fisher County Courthouse to permit county, state and law enforcement organizations to discuss the problems that might arise during the construction of FM Highway 1606 from 3.8 miles East of Scurry County Lines to FM Highway 611, in the Southwest portion of Fisher County.

This work began Sept. 13, and is to be completed well within the allotted time of 125 days. The Texas Highway Department Resident Engineer stated that the full cost of this work would be approximately $90,000. Public groups present at the meeting included Fisher County officials, Texas Highway Department representatives, and T. B. Brown, representative of T. M. Brown and Sons, Inc., contractors on the project.

SOSATIES FROM SOUTH AFRICA — They're chunks of lamb, onion and dried apricots marinated in a hot and spicy sauce and grilled over charcoal.

Tidbits From Abroad, Moroccan Stews

By HARVA HACHTEN

CAPE TOWN (AP) — From the Pillars of Hercules to the very tip of the Cape of Good Hope, smoke is rising — the smoke of charcoal fires cooking various kinds of kebabs to a tasty turn. All along the Atlantic coast, kebab cookery is a favorite part of African cuisine.

In Morocco, kebabs are served in the most elegant restaurants as well as by street vendors who carry their portable braziers from corner to corne. In finer restaurants kebabs are served as an hors de'oeuvre or the main course. Street chefs sandwich them in a long bun seasoned with a sprinkle of powdered cumin and a smear of volcano-hot cayenne sauce.

Tsitsinga is the name they go by in Ghana where cooks use tomatoes, onions and roasted cornflour, called "ablemanu," is ready-prepared and is used in many dishes.

Farther south in South Africa, charcoal barbecuing has a whole cuisine of its own rooted in the traditions of the Boer pioneers. The Afrikaans term for barbecuing is "vleisbraai." The most popular kebab recipe is for Sosaties and like much of traditional South African cooking, borrows heavily from the spice shelves of the Malayans who were brought as slaves to the 17th century Cape Colony by the Dutch East Indies Company.

MOROCCAN KEBABS

1½ pounds lean beef or lamb, cut in 1½-inch cubes
½ to ¾ pound beef or lamb fat, cut in 1-inch pieces
3 medium onions, finely chopped
½ cup finely chopped parsley
Salt, cayenne pepper and ground cumin to taste

Place all ingredients in a shallow dish, tossing well so onions, parsley and seasonings are blended and meat is thoroughly coated. Marinate for several hours. Insert meat and fat cubes alternately on skewers. Grill over a very hot fire, seasoning with more cumin when half done. Provide each diner with a small dish of cumin and one of hot pepper sauce. Morocans dip each cube first in cumin, then in the sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SOSATIES

2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon grated coconut
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 tablespoons curry powder
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon turmeric
2 cups cider vinegar
2 cups water
4 bay leaves
3 pounds boneless leg of lamb, cut in 1½-to 2-inch cubes
4 medium - small onions, peeled with roots left on and quartered
½ cup dried apricots
½ cup raisins

Heat oil; stir in flour; remove from heat. Stir in coconut, sugar, curry powder, salt, pepper and turmeric. Gradually stir in vinegar and water, keeping smooth. Cook, stirring constantly, until boiling; simmer about 5 minutes; add bay leaves. Cool. Mix with meat, onions, apricots and raisins. Refrigerate, covered, overnight. On long skewers, insert meat, onion and apricots. (Leave any small pieces of onion in sauce.) Grill over glowing charcoal. Meanwhile simmer marinade and serve with Sosaties. Accompany with rice, chopped peanuts, chutney and grated coconut. Makes 8 servings.

Food Editor's Note: This makes a very hot and spicy dish that proved popular with tasters who enjoy food of this kind. To cut the acid flavor, you might like to use 1 cups cider vinegar instead of the 2 cups called for.

Story Told By Letters

THE INSURRECTION OF HIPPOLYTUS BRANDENBERG. By Roy Friedman.

Hippolytus is one of those pests who write crank letters to everyone from Betty Crocker to Chairman Mao, and the tricky thing about this novel is that it consists entirely of letters to, from and about him, plus memoranda and reports by investigators trying to figure out what he's up to.

The old boy is sixtyish, lives in a New York tenement with his dog, has no visible means of support and thinks he is entitled to tell people how to run their affairs. In the beginning he writes nasty letters to his employers at an insurance company, and gets fired because he has sold only one small policy. Among others who catch his letters are an extreme right-wing Air Force major, the Secretary of the People's Republic of China and a dog food company.

He pesters the president of the New York Yankees with a proposal to conduct a hunger march in Yankee Stadium, and this leads the FBI to take an interest in him. The Central Intelligence Agency also gets into the act, under the impression that he is some sort of spy, and before long the FBI and CIA are at odds over getting in each other's way.

The author has a fairly clever gimmick in the format of this novel. He manages to make Hippolytus into an image of the underdog who never gives up. But the book is much too long and the letter gimmick gets a bit overdone.

Cheese Bread

1 cup unsifted regular flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup (lightly packed) medium - grated sharp cheddar cheese
1½ teaspoons caraway seeds
1 egg
½ cup buttermilk

Grease entire inside of small loaf pan (7½ by 3½ by 2¼ inches); line bottom with wax paper; grease paper. On another sheet of wax paper stir together flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; stir in cheese and caraway seeds. In a medium mixing bowl beat egg until ivory color; add buttermilk; beat to combine. Add dry ingredients; stir until moistened but still lumpy. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in preheated 350 - degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 35 minutes. Turn out on wire rack; remove paper; turn right side up; cool. Slice and serve with butter. Store leftover loaf in tightly closed tin box or wrap tightly and refrigerate. If chilled, slice, wrap in foil and heat in moderate oven.

Tomato Medley

1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, undrained
1 can (7 ounces) whole - kernel corn, drained
1 cup finely cut celery
1 teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon sugar

Gently mix together all the ingredients. If vegetables are to be served hot, heat. If to be served cold, chill. Serve in sauce dishes. Makes 6 servings.

BEYOND THE CIMMARRON. By T. R. Havins. The Brown Press, Brownwood, Tex. $4.75.

The Comanches, the hair shirt Texas and Oklahoma wore for decades, may have been the most fluid military organization ever formed.

There you were, everything peaceful, and suddenly they hit. Here came the soldiers to run and punish them and like a miracle there were no Indians to fight.

A pretty sound military man, Maj. Earl Van Dorn, discovered this Indian mobility when he was sent into Texas to stop the Comanche raids as related by T. R. Havins in a new book.

This was in 1858 and 1859, and Buffalo Hump was active, roaring out of Oklahoma and striking deep into Texas. He was arrogant, strongheaded and he paid absolutely no attention to efforts to pacify him.

Then came the soldiers, and the Wichita Expedition got under way. The troopers pinned down about 400 or 500 at Rush Creek in Oklahoma and killed 56.

The remainder fled and couldn't be found, although it is probable they circled and headed south for more depredations.

While all this was going on, the Texas government was crying for federal help to stop the raids and the federals were demanding a Texas militia. Texas took the view that the Indians were Washington's responsibility, meanwhile busily counting its dead Texans.

The soldiers at Rush Creek captured most of the Indians' horses—which did not have its desired effect of immobilizing them. The Indians simply went on foot and stole some more.

The big fight came at Crooked Creek beyond the Cimarron River in Kansas. It is hard to say who won. The soldiers killed 50 Indians, including eight women, and destroyed much property. The others escaped and raided again and again, terrorizing the frontier for more than a dozen more years.

The author has been connected with Howard Payne College in Brownwood in several capacities since 1923 but always with an interest in Western history. He retired in 1961, and became a professor emeritus.—The AP.

THE SLAVE ECONOMY OF THE OLD SOUTH. By Ulrich Bonnell Phillips, Louisiana State University Press, Baton Rouge, paperback, $2.95.

Ulrich Bonnell Phillips was one of the great essayists of the early 1900, concerned largely with the history and economics of the Old South.

Eugene D. Genovese has collected a group of these essays to show what Phillips thought about the economics of slavery.

Slavery was expensive. But if you wanted to own a huge plantation you couldn't find hired workers. Thus the slave system arose.

Phillips does not defend slavery. He actually takes no moral position because he wrote of things as they were. And he found that although the plantations could not exist without slaves the system was economically questionable.

He goes into the total picture and finds less mistreatment of slaves than some have found. Phillips even predicted the return of the plantations—without the slaves, of course. He probably would be startled to see how the new farm factories developed.

The emergence of the new Negro makes Phillips' discussions of what he considered their traquaint. These sections mainly are valuable to show the public viewpoint of that time.—The AP

ANTEBELLUM NATCHEZ. By D. Clayton James, Louisiana State University Press, Baton Rouge, $10.

Atlanta may be the focal point of all eyes when a Southern city is considered. But for pure Old South of the crinoline skirts, mint juleps and plantation architecture take Natchez.

It would be nice to say that a new book by D. Clayton James of Mississippi State University had all the elements of a romantic novel of the South. But Professor James had to cling to the facts.

The facts themselves are startling enough even though he closed his eyes, nearly, to Natchez-under-the-hill, noted in its time or, at least in legend as just about the wildest scrap of land on earth.

The key to the story is that Natchez never amounted to much in comparison to other cities before the Civil War—if you excepted cotton.

About 40 families were the ones that stood out in Natchez. They were the plantation owners. A doctor or lawyer had little interest in his profession for he would catch the plantation fever and head for the countryside.

Profits of plantations were staggering. A net of a quarter million a year was not unusual for a usual plantation. Taxes were non-existent. Labor cost was the corn fed the slaves. Bacon was two cents a pound.

Natchez nabobs became money mad.

All this wealth should have provided enough fallout to make Natchez residents well-to-do. This was not the case. The planters sold their cotton direct to Great Britain. They bought from Britain, New York or New Orleans.

The Big 40 ignored local politics although taking some interest in national affairs.

But it was a closed community of the rich. It all fell with the Civil War partly because the planters withdrew from reality and allowed what the author calls radicals to lead the state into the Confederacy and decades of turmoil and poverty.—The AP.

CURE FOR SICK SOCIETY:

Make Home Life Happier

Cure for a Sick Society: "Make American Home Life Happier," Says Noted Psychiatrist

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — America is suffering from a national nervous breakdown, says a noted psychiatrist, "but it isn't malignant.

"It isn't like a cancer of society—it is more like a disease that has a crisis and runs its course," said Dr. Frank S. Caprio, Washington, D.C., specialist. "Things will get better.

"The root cause of our society's sickness today is the widening gap between parents and teen-agers. Our enemies have found our Achilles heel. They are trying to exploit it by fomenting racial tensions and campus unrest in order to establish a negative image of American life."

"The cure is for parents, teen-agers and society itself to assume a greater responsibility in avoiding harmful things."

Dr. Caprio, 62, a short, jolly faced man who looks like a friendly teddy bear with a mustache, is no breast-beating Cassandra. In a just-published book, "Parents and Teenagers," he presents in detail constructive ways in which he thinks the generation gap can be lessened.

The book, his 25th, is based on more than three decades of professional experience and is coauthored by his 22-year-old son, Frank B. Caprio, who is pursuing a doctoral degree in social psychology.

"As a matter of fact, it was my son's idea," said Dr. Caprio. "We are both optimistic, and believe the problem of the generation gap can and will be solved.

"But it is necessary to adopt a positive attitude. A tremendous majority of our 25 million teenagers are better than the youth produced in any other period of our history.

"They are more idealistic, more interested in education, and more sensitive to injustice and hypocrisy. They are basically fine. Only three to five million are problem teen-agers —those who are maladjusted and drop out of society, burn draft cards, smoke marijuana, become hippies. The rest are fairly well adjusted."

Dr. Caprio feels it is useless to place the guilt for the present degrees of estrangement between the generations on either parents or their offsprings.

"But the future of the world does depend upon how much parents are willing to contribute to peace by teaching their children the true meaning of love and giving them a healthy sense of values.

"World peace should start in the home. It must begin with a happy family."

This, in his opinion, requires greater cooperation between parents, children, and society as a whole. All have a role to play in creating greater understanding.

"A father has to realize that merely being a good provider isn't enough," he said. "He has to realize that giving his son expensive clothing and a new automobile doesn't necessarily prove he's a good parent.

"He must remind himself that teen-agers today need and want emotional security as well as material things. They need to feel accepted, inspired, guided and encouraged. It isn't true that they resent discipline; they do resent negative scolding."

On the other hand, Dr. Caprio suggested, teen-agers, too, have a responsibility in the creation of a more wholesome, less tense family atmosphere.

"They should show more respect to their parents and forgiveness. Parents are human, too. Just as a teen-ager appreciates compliments from his parents, parents like to get a compliment now and then from their teen-agers."

What about hippies who leave home?

"Most of them are misfits, seeking revenge against their parents and society," he said. "They want a life of love without responsibility, but all they do is leap from the frying pan into the fire and ruin themselves.

"The answer is to make happier homes. You don't run away from a happy home."

A Junior Editors Quiz About PRISMS

QUESTION: What are prisms used for?

* * *

ANSWER: Prisms are solid shapes with several flat surfaces, often made of glass or crystal. When light comes through a transparent triangular prism it is bent, or refracted, in different ways. This makes such prisms very useful in optical instruments. It was through experimenting with a prism that Sir Isaac Newton, in the 1660's, discovered that a beam of sunlight could be split into the rainbow colors. White light contains all the colors. As it passes through the prism, each color is bent a little differently, so the colors come out in a beautiful spectrum band. If you can get a glass prism, you will have a great deal of fun experimenting with it and will learn a lot about light and color. Prisms are used in the modern kind of field glasses called prism binoculars. Each half of these has two prisms inside. By the reflection of the light back and forth, the image becomes much brighter and clearer than in the old fashioned opera glasses. Because the front lenses are set further apart than the eyepiece lenses, greater depth and truth of vision is obtained.

Retirees Finding New Satisfaction

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many retired executives and professional men throughout the United States are finding contentment these days in giving away what it took them a lifetime to learn. They are donating their know-how free.

These are the members of IESC and SCORE, acronyms for International Executive Service Corps and Service Corps of Retired Executives. IESC assists foreign businessmen. SCORE does the same domestically.

Many of these retirees are finding a satisfaction that couldn't be provided by sun, golf and rest. In fact, participants actually have left the calm of retirement communities to get back into action.

Earlier this year Everett Huntoon of Sun City, Ariz. left with his wife for a six-month stay in Cyprus, where a drygoods merchant had requested help. Huntoon, 67, received a daily living allowance as his only financial compensation.

Rewards in other areas were great: the satisfaction of helping a fellow man in need, of being a useful member of society, of improving international relations, of learning about a foreign culture.

The drygoods merchant had requested a man such as Huntoon and told IESC he was willing to pay a fee of about $1,000 a month. Huntoon, who spent 27 years with Montgomery Ward, was chosen from 4,400 names in IESC files.

Applicants, who apply to 545 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y., are chosen very carefully, but once chosen they ask for more. Nearly every man who has carried out an assignment has asked for another.

IESC's annual report, released during the summer, shows that in its four years 1,139 projects have been accepted and 583 completed. These figures will grow more rapidly from now on, for IESC has reached what it terms its first plateau, the ability to accept 500 new projects a year.

It does this on a budget of little more than $2 million, 40 per cent of which comes from American corporations or is received in service fees, and 60 per cent of which is provided by the U.S. government.

Even on such a low budget the operation is becoming more efficient. Projects that cost $20,000 in the first year now average only. $10,000, the result of increased activity and growing efficiency.

Domestically, SCORE handles the same type of assignments with 3,000 volunteers in 180 offices. It was begun five years ago by the Small Business Administration, but volunteers ask little from SBA beyond space and clerical help.

Members accept no money from clients other than out-of-pocket costs. The rewards, though not financial, are great, as shown by the letters in SCORE files.

Said the proprietor of a tiny chocolate factory about the volunteer who saved her from ruin by correcting her management methods and methods of production: "He was just like a good, good friend. I wouldn't have had any business otherwise."

Tigers Strike By Land, Air; Chiefs Fall, 48-0

SAN ANGELO — It was Custer's Last Stand in reverse. This time the Injuns were surrounded. And when the battle was over the Tigers, who struck by land and air, had won 48-0.

Snyder completely dominated its 3-AAA clash with Lake View in Bobcat Stadium at San Angelo last night. The win evens the season (and district) record for Bengals at 1-1 while the Chiefs were dropping their second straight.

The only real contest around was between the Bengal defense and offense as each unit tried to outdo the other. So ferocious was the defense that Lake View never got outside its 37 in the first quarter or past its 25 in the second period.

Two second half drives carried the Tribe past midfield to the 22 and to the 28, but both thrusts were wiped out by the aroused defenders. For the night, the Chiefs had only 35 yards rushing, and it is doubtful they gained an inch "tackle to tackle."

Eddie Ray McClain led the defensive charge, crashing through several times to spill Chief runners in their own backfield. All of the defenders looked sharp, though, including Mitch Rambin and David McGinnis.

There were several heroes in the Bengal camp. McGinnis, perhaps, turned in more heroics than anyone else. Not only was he outstanding on defense, but he also scored four touchdowns as the Bengal offense jelled suddenly, penetrating the Lake View barricades for seven touchdowns while rolling up 430 yards total offense. The Tigers seemed to improve with each quarter, scoring seven points in the first, 13 in the 2nd, and 22 in the third, closing out with six in the 4th. For the record, the quick-hitting raiding party netted 313 yards overland and 117 through the air. Led by Lee McNair, Tiger aerialists completed 7 of 18 passes, including one for a TD.

But, getting back to McGinnis. He fielded a punt at his 33 late in the first quarter, headed towards the west sidelines and burst into the clear about the Lake View 30 and scored easily. Mitch Rambin's kick from placement made it 7-0 with 45 seconds left in the first period.

Snyder had hammered at the Chief goal throughout the initial stanza and McGinnis' run came when it began to appear the Tigers were snakebit. They had reached the two yard line midway in the quarter after a fumble recovery by Kenneth Keller at the Chief 32. A 4th down McNair - to - McGinnis pass for 12 yards kept the drive alive and subsequent runs by the senior fullback carried the Black and Gold to the shadow of the goal. Then, a penalty moved them back and Rambin attempted a field goal from the 15 on fourth down. It missed.

Another drive on the next possession came to grief at the Tribe 29 when Reggie Brother's came up with an interception. However, McClain and Valvin Garcia hit Ricky Dunaway so hard on the next play he fumbled and McGinnis recovered at the 32. The Chiefs held by inches and didn't begin to fold until the next punt.

McGinnis scored the second TD 3½ minutes deep in the second period on a two yard sweep to the left, and Rambin's second conversion try also was accurate. The TD capped a 7-play, 32 yard march that began following an interception by McGinnis. Biggest gainer in the drive was a 4th-and-four pass, McNair to Joe Greer, for 18 yards at the seven.

Snyder was hammering at the goal again moments later when McClain grabbed a fumble at the Lake View 33 during the return of the ensuing kickoff. The Tigers made it down to the two again with Randy Levens, Rambin and Steve Holder contributing valuable yardage. Following a penalty, the Tigers decided a field goal was in order, but a fumble spoiled the attempt.

Moments later, Efrain Cervantez shook loose on a 23-yard left end run to the goal, but a penalty pushed the Bengals back. On 4th down, needing nine, McNair went around left end for a 1st and goal at the seven, then McGinnis collected his third TD on a romp over right guard with Garcia leading the blocking. A run for bonus points was stopped short, leaving the score at halftime 20-0.

Snyder's fourth TD came with only a couple of minutes expired in the third period. It covered 47 yards and required only four plays. Cervantez collected 43 of the paces in three runs. The payoff was an agile ramble around left end from the 18. Holder rolled out left for a two-pointer, boosting the count to 28-0.

A couple of minutes later, the Tigers marched 95 yards. It took just one play. McGinnis chugged around left end and appeared to be trapped at midfield along the west sideline. He cut back to elude one defender, then went another 10 yards before cutting back again to outmanuever the safety. He went the last 50 yards running diagonally at the northeast flag with the safety only a couple of steps away. McNair made a quick toss to Willis Harrison as the count soared to 36-0.

With 35 seconds remaining in the third quarter, McNair lofted a 16-yard pass to Rambin. He made a smooth catch at the 12 without breaking stride, then faked the defensive right halfback out of his socks at the five and sailed across the goal. A pass attempt for bonus points failed to click.

The TD pass followed a 15-yard penalty that threatened to halt a Bengal drive from the Chief 43. McNair also contributed a 17 yard run in the march.

That last TD in the fourth period was a thing of beauty. With the end drawing near, Harrison fielded a long punt at the Tiger 42. He was near the sideline, so he shot upfield ahead of his blockers, then cut back behind the wall and went down the west line all the way. Two defenders were about to nab him at midfield before Willis cut behind the protecting wall. But McClain wiped them both out with a vicious block. A run for more points fizzled.

Rambin made an interception a few seconds later as the gun sounded. That long run by McGinnis was set up by another interception — by Merce Hernandez. The steal halted the best march of the night by the warriors — from their 27 to the Tiger 22. In the process, Johnny McAden completed two passes (half of the Chief connections) to Brothers and one (a 29-yarder) to Dunaway.

The "Houston veer," as operated by the Chiefs, veered the wrong way most of the night as the Bengal defenders crashed through time and again to break it up behind the line. In old football parlance, McAden took his lumps. But then, so did all of the Chiefs.

Next Friday, the Tigers will be at Slaton.

Ags Hope Something Will Happen

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

Texas A&M Coach Gene Stallings says there won't be any new slogans at College Station this season. The one they've got has served well.

"We've had it for three years now, and we're just going to keep it," said the personable coach of the defending Southwest Conference champs.

The "Make Something Happen" boys will try to live up to their motto Saturday night at Baton Rouge, La. in their 1968 opener against Louisiana State.

But, unless the Aggies can turn the trend of recent years, they are destined to start the year with a loss. The Tigers have whipped the Texans eight of the last nine meetings—they tied in 1966.

The other seven conference members also open their seasons Saturday and with the exception of Texas Tech, they're all expected to have their hands full.

The Aggies will open without the services of injured fullback Wendell Housley, but Stallings feels the champs are about as ready as they're going to be.

"We've had plenty of time to prepare," he said. "We can't be at our best with Housley not playing, but the one's we've got in there are ready and anxious to play."

There's a similar feeling around Austin, where the University of Texas hosts the University of Houston, fresh from its gaudy 54-7 victory over Tulane last week.

"I don't know what's in store Saturday night except that we play a great football team," said UT Coach Darrel Royal

Fans Await 'Big One' At Austin

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP) — Houston fans and coaches call it "the big one."

Texas fans joke that the Houston team will fly to Austin—without a plane.

"They're going to be snorting blue flames out of their nostrils," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal.

It has stirred more excitement in the Southwest than any game in years, probably since Texas and Oklahoma fought it out in 1963 for the No. 1 national ranking.

It matches Texas, perennial powerhouse in the Southwest Conference, against Houston, a large independent school beginning to flex its muscle.

The Longhorns, unhappy with three consecutive 6-4 seasons, is rated no. 4 in the Associated Press poll. Houston, unranked in the pre-season poll, moved up to no. 11 after thrashing Tulane 54-7 last week.

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium, which seats just under 67,000. Estimate are twice that many would pay dearly to get into the stadium.

Houston's Cougars can explode from anywhere on the field, as they showed in rolling up almost 600 yards total offense against Tulane. They led the nation the past two years in offense.

Paul Gipson was ninth in the nation in rushing last year, with 1,100 yards on 187 carries. Last week he sped for 115 yards although he played only about 1½ quarters. Quarterbacks Ken Bailey and Rusty Clark threw three touchdown passes against Tulane, two to Elmo Wright, the split end who runs the 100 in 9.4.

Texas, apparently stronger after three good recruiting years, also has a fine runner in Chris Gilbert, who carried 205 times last year for 1,019 yards, the second consecutive year he had rushed for more than 1,000 yards.

Another three-year starter, quarterback Bill Bradley, and 212-pound Ted Koy and 204-pound Steve Worster fill out the backfield that Longhorn fans think may be the best since the all-conference backfield of 1952.

Both teams are loaded with veterans on offense and defense, although Texas will start seven sophomores from its 1967 freshman team—called the best in SWC history.

It's Cooper Vs. Permian

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas Schoolboy fooball rumbles innto its second week tonight with a battle between Class AAAA powerhouses, Abilene Cooper and Odessa Permian, taking the spotlight.

Cooper, ranked No. 2 in the Dallas Morning News high school poll, knocked off Brownwood, the No. 2 ranked Class AAA team 13-0 last week.

But Permian, ranked tenth in AAAA, will be trying to get off the floor after losing its opener to Amarillo Tascosa, 21-13.

Tascosa, top-ranked in Class AAAA, plays Borger.

The No. 1 ranked Class AAA Team, Perryton will travel to Woodward, Okla.

The No. 1 Class AA team, Iowa Park, goes after its second straight win in a home game against Decatur. Iowa Park whipped Burkburnet 18-6 last week.

Poth also will be trying to uphold its top ranking in Class A in a match against Shiner.

Lady Champ May Repeat

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Ann Rathmell of Houston was within two victories of her fifth state Women's Amateur Golf title as the semifinals got under way today.

Mrs. Rathmel, who has won the tournament the past two years, defeated Mrs. Marty Griffith of Fort Worth 2 and 1 in the quarter-finals Thursday.

It was a rematch of last year's championship round at Tyler, when Mrs. Rathmell won 4 and 2.

Mrs. Rathmell wrapped up the match on No. 17 Thursday, but played the final hole and carded a medal score of 74, a competitive record for women over the Lubbock Country Club course.

Mrs. Rathmell's opponent today is Mrs. Edna Shelton of Dallas. Mrs. Wanda Hendrix of Tyler will play Mrs. Polly Alexander of Garland in the other semifinal match.

The 36-hole championship round is scheduled Saturday.

(Hand) Writing On Wall: Dallas 24-17

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay's chances of rolling to a fourth straight National Football League title should be easier to rate after Sunday's meeting with the Minnesota Vikings who roughed up Atlanta 47-7.

The Packers had no serious trouble with the battered Philadelphia Eagles in their opener, but the Vikings' revitalized attack offers a challenge.

Although the two clubs split in 1967, the pick here is the favored Packers, but in a close game.

With a complete 13-game program on tap in the NFL and AFL, here's the way it looks from here. All games are Sunday unless otherwise indicated.

NFL

Green Bay 28, Minnesota 20—Bart Starr is on the beam and both Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski are healthy. The Vikings unveiled a new threat in Clint Jones, who rode the bench in '67, and Joe Kapp looked like a winner against the Falcons. Could be an upset but Packer defense should hold the fort.

Baltimore 30, Atlanta 7—John Unitas was throwing during the week but Earl Morrall is capable of shredding that Falcon defense. Atlanta threw a scare into the Colts last fall but folded the second time around. Another rough day for Randy Johnson.

Chicago 28, Detroit 14—Two clubs trying to bounce back from opening game disasters. Gale Sayers usually has big day against Lions who still are shaken by that 59-13 beating in Dallas. However, Sayers will be playing with a minor back injury. Bears won't have to worry about Sonny Jurgensen this week but must watch out for Earl McCullouch.

Dallas 24, Cleveland 17—Don't think Browns have forgotten that 59-13 rout in the playoff game last December. Cowboys rolled for 542 yards against Lions, with Don Meredith playing only first half. This may be the year for Dallas to go all the way. That front four got Greg Landry five times last week. Beware, Frank Ryan.

New York 30, Philadelphia 21—Giants made mistakes but still beat Steelers handily, showing new spark in Ronnie Blye. Eagles still without Norm Snead. Fran Tarkenton might run at Eages, openin them up for bombs to Homer Jones.

Los Angeles 31, Pittsburgh 10—The Rams' defense ruined Jim Hart and the Cards and could do the same for Kent Nix. Roman Gabriel should find Steelers' deep defense easier to pierce than Cards'. Clubs haven't met in regular season since 1964.

San Francisco 21, St. Louis 20—Toughest game on the list. 49ers still busy installing new system under Dick Nolan. Cards must bounce back from tough game Monday night. If John Brodie can avoid those interceptions, 49ers should squeak home in first meeting since '64.

Washington 27, New Orleans 17—Bombs away. Jurgensen takes to the air again. Pat Richter was the main target last week. This time it might be Charley Taylor's turn. Billy Kilmer was intercepted three times last week as Saints offense looked sad.

AFL

San Diego 24, Houston 7 (Saturday night)—Chargers have rested since Sept. 6 opener with Cincinnati. Oilers with George Webster, Hoyle Granger and Pete Beathard can be rough. They split last year in two tight games.

Oakland 31 Miami 10 (Saturday night)—Raiders manhandled Buffalo so badly, 48-6, that Joe Collier was fired. Bob Griese erratic in Dolphins' opening defeat by Houston. Oakland should be able to call the score.

Cincinnati 14, Buffalo 7—How can an expansion club be favored over an old established club? Paul Brown's men knocked off Denver last week after losing to San Diego. Buffalo has been edged by Boston and bombed by Oakland. Anything can happen.

Kansas City 35, Denver 7—No trouble for the Chiefs, still smarting from 20-19 loss to Jets. Kansas City won both games last year and holds 15-1 edge in series.

New York 28, Boston 14—Patriots always make things rough for Joe Namath who did excellent job against Chiefs last week. Game will be played in Birmingham, Ala., although it is Boston home game. Alabama is Namath country. Mike Holovak had two weeks to get ready.

PGA Nixes Golf Plan

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — A new proposal by touring pros for a 14-man executive committee was rejected Thursday by the Professional Golfers' Association.

The plan calls for seven tour players, three PGA officials and four businessmen to make up the executive tour committee. Sponsors would be allowed two representatives but no voting privileges.

Sam Gates, attorney for the pros, announced the counter proposal in Oklahoma City where the players are participating in the PGA team championships.

"The new proposal, under any circumstances, is not acceptable to the PGA," said Robert T. Creasey, executive director of the PGA.

Creasey said Max Elbin, PGA president, had authorized him to announce the pros' plan was unacceptable.

"That's the situation," Creasey said. "We don't know what the next move will be."

A plan similar to the one announced by Gates was submitted three weeks ago by Arnold Palmer and was also rejected, Creasey reported.

PALMER, NICKLAUS 2-STROKES OFF PACE

By RALPH COLE
Associated Press Sports Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — It took young Mike Hill twice to satisfactorily complete the official PGA Tournament school, but brother Dave Hill believes he learned his lessons well.

"Mike saved three fantastic pars," Dave said Thursday after the brother team carded a nine under par 62 to take the first round lead of the $200,000 PGA team championship.

Mike, who is 29 and a spring graduate of the PGA school after failing to pass last fall, had equal praise for Dave.

"Dave's a great player," he said. "It's quite an advantage for me to play with him."

The brother team from Jackson, Mich., held a two-stroke lead over veterans Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus going into the second round of the tournament today.

Palmer and Nicklaus, defending team champions, fired a 64 Thursday with each carrying his share of the load.

"Jack could have stayed in the clubhouse on the front nine and I could have stayed in on the back nine and we still would have had the same score," Palmer said.

The Hill brothers and the Palmer-Nicklaus combination played at Twin Hills Country Club Thursday, the 6,700-yard par 71 course that produced the best scoring.

Four teams were in a tie for third place at 65. They were Bobby Nichols and George Archer, Larry Hinson and Bunky Henry, Bert Greene and Randy Glover and Jack McGowan and Dick Crawford.

A 25 mile per hour wind caused high scoring on the Quail Creek course, but the Twin Hills layout is partially protected by trees.

The Hills are both listed in the top 60 money winners for the year. Dave is 43rd with winnings of $31,439 while Mike is 55th with $25,488.

Scores at Quail Creek Thursday were higher than those at Twin Hills. The best score at Quail Creek was a 66 by Lou Graham and Steve Spray.

They were tied for fourth place with the teams of Jim Ferrier and Larry Mowry, Tommy Aaron and Charles Coody, and Bob Dickson and Labon Harris Jr.

Billy Casper, the top money winner on the PGA circuit this year, teamed with Gay Brewer to shoot a 68 at Quail Creek.

Masters champion Bob Goalby and partner Mason Rudolph were in trouble at Quail Creek and shot a 73, while U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino and Homer Blancas carded a 73 at Twin Hills.

The field of 124 teams will be cut to 60 after today's second round, with golfers changing courses for play. The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be over the Quail Creek course.

GIANTS FLAIL SERIES BOUND CARDINALS 11-5

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

What do you do for an encore after two consecutive no-hitters?

Well, as far as the St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants are concerned, not much—except, maybe, give the hitters a chance to unvent some pent up frustrations.

Windy Candlestick Park was the site of two straight no-hitters Tuesday and Wednesday—by the Giants' Gaylord Perry and St. Louis' Ray Washburn.

But, it took only a matter of minutes Thursday to remove any chance for a third masterpiece and change the joint from a pitcher's paradise to a hitter's haven.

The two teams combined for no less than 23 hits in the Giants' 11-5 victory over the World Series-bound Cardinals.

Jim Hart cracked a grand-slam homer and Bob Bonds hit a pair of homers and scored four runs to pace San Francisco's 15-hit attack that helped rookie Rich Robertson to his second straight victory.

Meanwhile, Detroit's Denny McLain won his 31st game, although one of his deliveries enabled Mickey Mantle to take over sole possession of third place on the all-time homer list, as Detroit's Americar League champs subdued the New York Yankees 6-2.

In other games on a limited schedule, Atlanta tripped Houston 4-1 and Los Angeles defeated Cincinnati 3-1 in the NL. The only other AL game scheduled—Washington at Cleveland—was canceled because of [illegible]. Mantle, whose 535th career homer in the eighth broke him out of a third-place tie with Jimmy Foxx, admitted, "I got the feeling he (McLain) wanted me to hit it."

But McLain, a big grin on his face, refused to say whether he deliberately served up the gopher ball, although he said Mantle was his idol and "still is."

The Tigers had a 6-1 lead at the time and after getting two strikes, Mantle motioned for McLain to give him a letter-high pitch.

McLain did, and the ball wound up in the upper right field stands. While Mantle trotted around the bases, McLain saluted him.

"It's got to be one of the best thrills I've had in baseball," said the 36-year-old Mantle, who trails only Babe Ruth, 714, and Willie Mays, 585.

McLain, who posted the Tigers' 12th straight complete game, scattered eight other hits in boosting his record to 31-5 to become the first pitcher to win that many since Lefty Grove turned the trick with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1931.

Just one more victory will make him the winningest pitcher in 52 years.

Norm Cash provided the Tigers all the ammunition they needed with a solo homer in the fourth and a two-run blast in the sixth, his 24th of the season.

Felipe Alou became the first man to pick up 200 hits this season with a two-run, second-inning triple that helped the Braves past Houston. It also was Alou's 1,500th hit of his career.

Rookie pitcher Alan Foster drove in what proved to be the winning run with his first major league single to lead Los Angeles past Cincinnati.

Foster, who also picked up his first big league triumph, gave up only four hits and one unearned run in six innings before yielding to Jim Grant.

Follows In Dad's Path

FT. WOLTERS, Tex. (AP) — Warrant Officer Candidate David D. Baker is following in his father's footsteps. More specifically, he's flying in his dad's rotor-wash.

Candidate Baker, by completing his primary rotary wing flight training at the Army Primary Helicopter School last summer, reached the first milestone leading to a career as an Army aviator.

That is the vocation from which his father, Raymond E. Baker, retired in 1966 after more than 20 years in the military.

Young Baker, 20, a 1966 graduate of Mineral Wells High School and attended Weatherford Junior College before entering the Army in November 1967.

City Under Two Flags

FORT WORTH (AP) — Fort Worth apparently is a city under two flags.

This came to light recently after the City Council adopted an official flag.

Then, after a tip from a newspaper reader, it was discovered that a flag designed for the city by the late flag maker J.M. Langever was in existence.

The old flag was stored in Heritage Hall, a downtown museum.

A newspaper story in June 1948 told of a flag collection given by Langever to the public library.

The collection contains, the story said, "probably the first and only city flag of Fort Worth. Approved by city officials and the Chamber of Commerce in 1912, the flag was . . .copyrighted and manfactured at that time by Langever."

—Which is official? Take your pick.

"Let love be without dissimulation." Romans 12:9.

Whether we center regard on a dog or a cat;
We are yet born to love — it's as simple as that.
Our parents, our children, our husbands, our wives
May all hold a bit of our love in their lives.
And though our capacity of love is so great,
We yet glorify war and dignify hate!

Wins Battle For Child From India

AP Regional Service
By PEGGY SIMPSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Methodist missionary in Henderson, Tex., has won Congress' backing in her two-year struggle to bring up in the United States an orphaned teen-ager she adopted in India.

Miss Maude V. Nelson, 68, succeeded in getting her ward, John Theodore Nelson, 16, legally classified as a child under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

He now will be able to qualify for permanent residency and later seek citizenship if he wishes.

Without Congress' help, the boy would be sent back to India after his temporary visa expired and would have to wait his turn for re-entrance under the heavily loaded nonpreference category of immigration for Indians.

The bill is before President Johnson for his signature.

Miss Nelson was superintendent of a home for preschool children in Bareilly, India, when she first saw her ward.

"John was brought to the baby fold where I was in charge when he was 2 days old—that was in 1952," she recalled in a telephone interview from her home.

"He was handed to me by a man who said his mother had died in childbirth."

She nursed the infant through attacks of diarrhea and a light case of polio. When he was 4, she placed him in a foster home.

But the parents returned three years later and gave the youngster up. They said John, who weighed only 28 pounds, just wouldn't grow.

"Of course, by this time he was seven years old, and it was obvious I was the one to take him," she said.

"I gave him the love and dedication necessary to restore his health."

A doctor diagnosed John's illness as the inability to digest fat. With a better diet, daily liver injections for 80 days and other medicines, he improved. Within three months, he began attending school although the effects of his medical battle lingered for three years.

Under Indian laws she had legal custory of him but could not adopt him. As her retirement neared, she began petitioning members of Congress for help.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. introduced the bill which cleared the way.

In the meantime, Miss Nelson gained legal adoption of John.

The congressional action bends two immigration rules to recognize the adoption, since she is not married and a two-year period has not elapsed since adoption.

At any rate, John and Miss Nelson no longer have to worry that he might someday be sent back to India and they can plan for the future.

"He wants to be an engineer," said Miss Nelson, "and he is also working as a sack boy for a grocery store."

Researchers Find Violence Contagious

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A University of Tennessee husband-wife team of researchers has found evidence that mice react to violence by trying to join the action.

Dr. Bruce Welch and his wife Annemarie said they found that mice which witnessed violent action experienced a significant increase in the rate of release of a brain chemical that transmits nerve impulses, became excited and tried to join the fight.

Their findings on a series of experiments conducted at the university Memorial and Research Hospital are reported in the proceedings of the National Academy of Science.

The chemical which the Welches were studying is norepinephrine, a substance released by nerve cells in the brain of man and mouse alike. They say there is evidence that this chemical's production and release in the brain is related somehow to the emotional status of the brain's power.

The Welches' findings support the theory, long held by many sociologists, that violence is contagious.

"We were primarily interested in determining the role of this chemical in the brain's responses to purely psychological influences," said Welch, who served as organizer for an international symposium on aggressive behavior held recently in Milan, Italy.

For the experiments, the Welches rigged some mice in a wire basket so they could see some other mice fighting. The Welches said the noncombatant mice got so excited they tried to gnaw their way through the wire mesh and join the fight.

Analysis immediately following the experiment showed the norepinephrine levels in the lower brain stem of the excited but frustrated observer mice were about 32 per cent below normal.

In other words, Welch said, a lot of norepinephrine stored in mouse brains had been released to perform its nerve impulse functions, for good or ill, simply because the owners of the brains had witnessed violence by others.

Welch said one reason he and his wife chose to study norepinephrine concentrations in the brain was because of growing evidence that serious emotional disturbance in man may be associated with abnormal metabolism of this chemical and related neurotransmitters.

Buy Bonds where you work.

They do.

Why do our servicemen buy U.S. Savings Bonds? Their reasons are the same as yours and mine: saving for the future, supporting freedom. And because they're fighting for freedom, too, maybe servicemen see the need more clearly than many of us. Buy Bonds. In more than one way, it makes you feel good.

NOW—Higher Rates!

Savings Bonds now pay 4.25% when held to maturity—and Freedom Shares (sold in combination with E Bonds) pay a full 5%. The extra interest will be added as a bonus at maturity.

And now you can buy the Bond/Freedom Share combination any time—no monthly commitment necessary. Get the facts where you work or bank.

Fundamental Belief in GOD

Dreamed of by millions, searched for by many, discovered by a few:
Established, built, maintained and governed by a Fundamental Belief in God;
That is America — these United States, our home, if you please, it is you and me. How else could the heritage we hold come to be? A system? Not so! But surely it is a dedicated, consecrated way of life as set forth in the Sermon on the Mount.
And through the grief and misery suffered at Valley Forge, shines the same light which has illuminated men's minds since time began.
That same light, the light of Faith found in the holy word of God, is now lighting and showing the way, the way of truth to us as a nation and as individuals.
And just so long as we, each of us each day, rededicate our lives to a Fundamental Belief in God can we endure.

Then, let us worship in the true Faith of Our Fathers in the sanctuary of our choosing every week. A-Men.
