NEW EVACUATIONS IN HARLINGEN

Johnson To Tour Flood-Ravaged Area

Swarms Of MIGS Greet US Planes

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes fought nine battles with swarms of MIG fighters over North Vietnam Wednesday, while the ground war generally slackened and the embattled U.S. Marine post at Con Thien had the lightest day of its month-long artillery siege.

Weekly casualty figures released by the U.S. Command today reflected a lull in the ground war. Last week the United States lost 128 killed and 1,434 wounded, well below the weekly average. Communist losses reported by the U.S. Command for the week were 1,134 dead, also below average.

Most of the American casualties were among the Marines holding positions in the Con Thien area, 2½ miles below the DMZ, against a possible invasion of South Vietnam's northern provinces by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops massed in and near the buffer zone.

Clearing skies enabled American pilots to fly 159 combat missions Wednesday in making a near-maximum effort over the North for the second straight day. The Americans ran into fierce antiaircraft fire and nearly every operational jet the Reds could put in the sky.

Although there were nine dogfights with the MIG17s and MIG21s, no planes were reported damaged or downed in these battles. The one loss listed by the U.S. Command was a Marine A4 Skyhawk jet hit by ground fire above the demilitarized zone, the 685th plane downed over North Vietnam. The pilot ejected over the Tonkin Gulf and was rescued.

The American planes, trying to impair North Vietnam's ability to support its ground forces in the South, struck at communications links and supply points. Air Force planes raked Hanoi's rail lines to Red China and an ammunition dump near Hon Gai, the country's second port.

Flood Area Aid Sought By Churches

Several churches here are taking the lead in collecting contributions for flood victims in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The East Side Church of Christ has made its building available as a receiving center for contributions and will be responsible for delivery of items and funds to the valley.

The Layman Fellowship of First Christian Church is urging its members to contribute to the receiving center at First Baptist Church which was opened several days ago. A truck is stationed there to receive items. Those who cannot deliver items there have been asked to call the First Christian Church or First Baptist Church and arrangements will be made to pick up contributions.

Items of furniture, bedding, clothing, cooking utensils and money are especially needed, agencies in the flood area have reported.

Letters urging contributions went to all members of the First Christian Layman Fellowship. "We are working with other churches to provide such items as we can to relieve to some degree the suffering of these people in our state. Will you help?" the letter asked.

United Fund Work Pushed

Scattered reports were beginning to trickle into United Fund campaign headquarters this morning as workers fanned out over the city in work toward a goal of nearly $40,000.

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, chairman of the business division, has called a formal report session for that division for 10 a.m. Friday at the Steak House.

The tally board at campaign headquarters at city hall listed a little over $3,100 this morning, most of that accounted for in the Pattern Division, which had $2,900 on the board.

Workers have been in the field since the kickoff breakfast Tuesday morning, and progress reports are expected to pick up from here on. Efforts are being made to complete canvass work in two weeks.

Front Brings Nippy Air

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was nippy in the Texas Panhandle and most other sections of the state were noticeably cooler this morning.

Skies cleared throughout the state after the first norther of the new fall season swept southward Wednesday, passing into the Gulf of Mexico by afternoon.

Early morning temperatures tumbled close to freezing in the upper Panhandle, going down to 35 degrees at Perryton and 40 at Dalhart, but there was no report of frost.

Readings elsewhere were in the 40s and 50s except for a 64 at Brownsville at the state's southern tip.

Aside from a few light showers near Waco in Central Texas, skies remained cloudless near daylight.

Rainfall accompanied the cold front on its push downstate. Much of North Central Texas received nearly an inch of moisture, and smaller amounts fell in the state's east and south portions.

Forecasts called for another cool night and fair and warmer weather through Friday.

Dyess Sends Airlift Team

By JACK KEEVER

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — New evacuations took place in this flood-stricken city and Secret Service agents moved in today for the expected arrival of President Johnson in the afternoon.

The White House announced the President hoped to land at Harlingen or possibly Brownsville. He then would fly in a helicopter for a closer look at the flood, set off along the lower reaches of the Rio Grande by Hurricane Beulah.

From 50 to 60 homes in the Spanish Acres area not previously flooded required evacuation of their residents during the night by amphibious vehicles and Army trucks.

The city of 41,000 found itself in a strange and unpredictable flood situation today. Water climbed in some sections and declined slightly in others.

Most of the new water came upward through storm sewers. The Arroyo Colorado, cause of the flooding, was higher than the city, thus forcing new flooding through the storm sewers which often looked like geysers.

The arroyo itself dropped perhaps an inch an hour.

The Weather Bureau warned today of the area downstream from here: "All persons living between the river and the river levees in the Brownsville area, if they have not evacuated, should keep close watch on the river and be prepared to move if the river should rise sufficiently to flood any of the area." The crest is expected at Brownsville next week.

Mexico continued to divert Rio Grande into farmlands to ease the pressure on Brownsville and its sister city, Matamoros, Mexico. Farm residents had been evacuated.

Mayor George Young of Harlingen said that all areas of the city which had floodwater Wednesday night remained flooded today.

State Police said U.S. 83 to Laredo is the only route out of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. A spokesman said the highway has many detours and men with flags are stationed along the route to direct travelers.

In this city, more than 800 homes, many the town's finest, remained flooded, some totally submerged.

More businesses suffered and more streets were awash.

The Air Force rushed a team of airlift experts, 22 officers and men, from Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene. Tactical Air Command units at Langley Field, Va., and at Forbes, Lockbourne, Pope, Edwards and Dyess AFBs were ordered to stand by for airlift of refugees from the area.

C130s at Forbes were ready to take off.

Gov. John B. Connally, who hoped to meet President Johnson in Austin this afternoon with a formal request for federal aid, ordered 300 additional National Guardsmen to join 600 already on duty in the stricken areas.

Red Cross, Salvation Army, Army and Texas Department of Public Safety disaster and relief crews, dog-tired from days of turmoil unleashed by Hurricane Beulah and the subsequent floods, stayed on the job to care for refugees and direct evacuations.

As more water flowed in late Wednesday night, Mayor George Young told Harlingen residents via radio and television, "We'll be in jeopardy for another three days . . . With a little bad luck, we could be in another nasty mess. . ."

"One of the things that could happen," Young said, was for rain to fall upstream. As he spoke, light showers peppered Laredo, 180 miles up the Rio Grande. There also was fresh rainfall on the stream's watershed in Mexico.

France Favors Halt In Bombing

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (AP) — France asserted today that only a decisive initiative from the United States can create conditions to end "the sterile and indefinite pursuit of fighting" in Vietnam.

In a policy speech before the 122-nation General Assembly, French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville asked whether this initiative might be "as many say, the unconditional suspension, and unlimited in time, of the bombing that is ravaging North Vietnam."

"No one would approve of such a decision more than France," he said, "and first because it would put an end to the suffering of many Vietnamese. If, following this measure, discussion could be envisaged, as the Hanoi government has stated several times since January, we would also be pleased, and this indeed could probably be the first step."

Couve de Murville recalled that he had appealed a year ago for a return to the geneva agreements of 1954, which would mean the withdrawal of all foreign military forces, he said, and the settlement of the Vietnam problem by the Vietnamese themselves.

He declared that the Vietnam conflict is completely different from the Middle East problem and other world disputes because "one of the greatest powers of our times—perhaps the greatest—has directly involved itself there."

"That is also one reason—after others often mentioned and legal in nature—why it would be quite illusory to try to submit it to the judgment of our organization."

Turning to the Middle East, Couve de Murville insisted that Isreal could not be allowed to hold the Arab territory occupied during the June war.

This, he said, would mean putting off to future generations, if not making impossible, a settlement which would permit Jews and Arabs to live side by side.

His speech followed generally lines previously laid down in statements by President Charles de Gaulle.

SAN FRANCISCO AP) — A rolling quake was felt in San Francisco at 8:39 a.m. PCD today.

The quake shook some downtown buildings.

Many San Fransicans, however, were unware of the shock.

Storm Edith Grows More Disorganized

MIAMI, Fla. AP) — Tropical Storm Edith, forecast to grow into a hurricane but instead became disorganized and weakened, was edging toward the Lesser Antilles today.

Highest winds had dropped to 50 miles an hour and forward speed was down to nine miles an hour as Edith plodded along a west-northwest course.

"At the present time Tropical Storm Edith is moving very slowly and offers no immediate threat to land areas," the San Juan, P.R., Weather Bureau said. "It is however heading for the Lesser Antilles and all interests in the northern windward islands and leeward islands should keep in touch with future advices."

Little change in movement or intensity was expected today, the Weather Bureau said.

At midnight EDT, Edith was centered near Latitude 13.3 north, Longitude 52.9 west, about 440 miles east of Barbados in the windward islands or 930 miles east-southeast of San Juan.

Heads South For Winter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last April, geophysicist-explorer Louis B. Slichter issued a call for a young man to spend the winter at the South Pole.

"What we are looking for," said Slichter 'is an engineer, physicist or a student in these fields who is tired of paper work and has a bit of the explorer's blood in him."

The University of California at Los Angeles announced Wednesday that Fred Walton, a U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey scientist of Washington, D.C., had been chosen.

Some 300 persons applied for the job.

A UCLA spokesman said Walton was heading south as a member of the U.S. antarctic research program, and the survey authorized him to make measurements for Slichter of moon-caused 'tides" in the earth's crust. He leaves in November.

BEHIND THE POLITICAL SCENES

Texas Feud To Test LBJ

AUSTIN (AP) — President Johnson's capacity for restoring outward peace between two warring fellow Democrats — Texas' Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Gov. John Connally — faced a rigorous test today on a flight to inspect areas devastated by hurricane winds and floods.

For various reasons, however, the public may never learn what takes place behind the scenes. The President and the governor are old friends, political and personal.

But when the governor boards the presidential jet it will be hard for him to miss a face-to-face meeting with a longtime political enemy, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex. They exchanged bitter words Wednesday.

Also aboard the plane will be Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., whose infrequent jousts with his Democratic Party opposition in Texas have been much milder than the exchanges between fellow Democrats Yarborough and Connally.

In the trading of verbal punches, Yarborough denounced the governor for not asking Johnson immediately to declare storm-ravaged South Texas a disaster area.

Yarborough told a small Senate audience, including Tower, that "the governor's delay" in requesting the President for a disaster declaration was 'inexcusable."

"The governor is playing politics with disaster," Yarborough asserted. 'We know the numerous laws that are called into play for the relief of the people once an area is declared a disaster area. . .

I know of no modern instance where the governor of an American state, in the face of a natural disaster so overwhelming, has failed so long to ask for a declaration of a disaster area."

Observers in this state capital viewed Yarborough's remarks and the governor's rejoinder as a certain portent of political storm.

Connally, a former Secretary of the Navy, discribed the senator's statement as 'the lowest form of demagoguery and the foulest distortion of facts and truth that I have ever heard uttered by a public official."

The governor spoke at a news conference, at the same time disclosing he would ask the President to declare about 20 South Texas counties a disaster area. Connally said he already had asked $2 million to $2.5 million in aid and emphasized he would ask more.

Yarborough had said Tuesday before a House Public Works subcommittee in Corpus Christi, Tex., that Connally should have asked for the disaster designation at least five days earlier.

The senator, regarded as liberal in Texas, said he had talked with presidential aide Marvin Watson who told him Johnson had received no request from Connally.

During a tour of the stricken areas Monday, Yarborough said he had asked the White House for federal help. He told local officials he could not understand why Connally took no immediate action.

COSTS LIKELY TO KEEP CLIMBING

Officials On Spot, Inflation-Wise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is in the delicate position of trying to quell fears of inflation at the same time it warns Congress of inflationary consequences that could result if the President's tax hike bill isn't enacted.

Most uncomfortable in this situation are such government economists as Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. His agency keeps tabs on prices and Wednesday reported another rise of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs.

While the bureau is scrupulous in reporting the economic facts and staying out of political arguments, officials in the past have tended to lay down price hikes as possibly temporary fluctuations rather than warning signs of inflation.

But the emphasis this time was on the likelihood of further increases in both retail and wholesale prices and Ross even allowed himself to be drawn into giving a plug for Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"I really don't want to get into that," Ross said at a news conference but then proceeded to answer the question.

"A tax increase would mitigate price pressures," he said.

Ross is only one of several administration officials who have first pointed to the latest economic reports on rising prices, surging production, increased retail sales and the prospect of labor shortages that could bid up wages—and then have endorsed Johnson's tax proposal.

Ross also abandoned the bureau's past hesitancy to raise its earlier prediction that 1967 rises in living costs will fotal no more than 2.5 per cent.

"I think it will be cloiser to 3 per cent," Ross said. This would bring 1967 up near the range of last year's sharp rise of 3.3 per cent, the biggest in 10 years.

The August rise of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs brought the bureau's consumer price index to 116.9, up 2.7 per cent so far this year.

This means it cost $11.9 last month to purchase typical living necessities worth $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Wholesale prices went up for rubber, steel, copper, machinery, lumber and petroleum products, the bureau said.

The August retail price increases that reflect the constant rise in living costs were led by a five-tenths of one per cent rise for food, which usually goes down in August. Prices were also up last month for housing, clothing, transportation and medical care.

No Conspiracy Found In Riots

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, quietly at work in cities across the nation, have found no evidence of a national conspiracy behind outbreaks of violence—but believe there is "a loose linkage" among militant Negro leaders.

That preliminary indication is in line with the report of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to President Johnson's Commission on Civil Disorders

Senate sources disclosing it said there are weeks, perhaps months of investigation ahead before any report will be ready on the inquiry.

Hoover appeared before the President's antiriot commission Aug. 1 and said that on the basis of his knowledge of 52 riots in the past three years, he found no indications of a conspiracy. But he did say there were indications outside agitators were involved in some of these disturbances.

David Ginsburg, executive director of the commission, said after the FBI chief's appearance that the outside agitation was not something to which Hoover "gave a great deal of weight or with which he was greatly concerned."

As the Senate investigators worked, word came Wednesday from Philadelphia of an allged plot to start a race riot there this summer which, authorities said, involved a plan to poison hundreds of Philadelphia policemen.

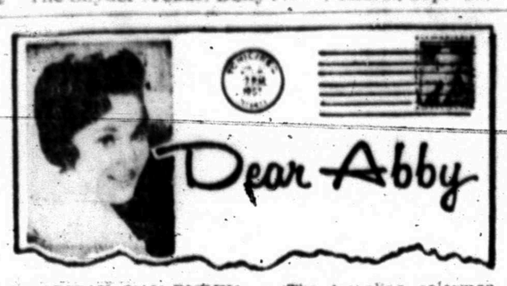

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, announcing an arrest in the case, said the plot was the work of members of the Revolutionary Action Movement— RAM—a Negro extremist group. Specter said his own life and those of the mayor and police chief 'were to be taken."

RAM members previously have been connected with a conspiracy to kill moderate Negro civil rights leaders and with a plan to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other American monuments.

The Senate, assigning its permanent subcommittee on investigations to undertake an inquiry into racial riots in U.S. cities, set next Monday as the deadline for an interim report.

There will be a report of sorts, but it will contain no findings, sources said. Instead, it will cover the steps taken to launch the investigation.

Subcommittee investigators have compiled a list of 137 cities hit by racial outbreaks. The investigation itself will cover 60 to 75 of them.

DEAR ABBY: After 35 years of marriage, my husband has become involved with a divorcee 20 years younger than he is. She has four children. Her youngest is the same age as one of our five grandchildren.

My husband moved out of our home and into an apartment, where this tramp visits him regularly. He is spending our money on her, and this includes our life's savings, which helped him accumulate thru 38 years of teaching school (I am 59.)

My husband wants a quiet divorce. But I'm not to get any alimony or consolation money. I am going to end up either broke or crazy if he has his way.

Shall I let him dump me for a younger woman, or should I fight it out in court?

TRUE STORY

DEAR TRUE: As I see it, you've already been "dumped." And unless you settle it out of court, your only aternative is to "fight it out" IN court. Don't wait until you end up in the poor house — or worse yet, the nut house. Get legal advice now!

DEAR ABBY: A gentleman I know was asked to be my escort at a hotel wedding reception, which would have cost him nothing, but he refused. He merely said he didn't think he "belonged" there. Would you consider this a slap in the face to me? I have never been so humiliated in all my life.

LET DOWN

DEAR LET DOWN: Don't take it personally. Perhaps for reasons that didn't concern you, he was right in feeling that he didn't "belong" there.

DEAR ABBY: It's about time someone spoke up for the traveling man. I'm sick of hearing that we're a bunch of hard-drinking, woman-chasing playboys.

Most of us work long hours, and then take to the highways long after everything closes up in order to be in the next town bright and early the next morning.

The traveling salesman who is greeted warmly by his wife, and gets plenty of affection while he's home, is not likely to stray.

I'll bet less than 5 per cent of us are guilty of what 95 per cent are accused of.

Barnes Says Conservatives Worry Demos

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— Texas House Speaker Ben Barnes says Democratic state lawmakers are concerned over an apparent upsurge of conservative sentiment of the Republican variety.

Barnes said, however, there is no movement by state-level party pros to ditch President Lyndon Johnson as the party's 1968 presidential nominee.

"The Republicans," Barnes told reporters Wednesday at the National Legislative Conference, "seem to have a feeling they could beat the President if they just didn't have to run a candidate of their own."

Barnes said most Democratic legislators from the South feel California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be the most effective candidate the Republicans could run for president. He said many feel an independent candidacy by ex-Alabama Gov. George Wallace would be a disadvantage to Democrats.

"A lot of Democrats who have been in office 18 or 20 years are concerned and uneasy," said the 29-year-old Texan. "But they don't really think they will be beaten."

Barnes says Republican legislators feel former Vice President Richard Nixon will be the GOP nominee in 1968 and that Gov. George Romney has virtually killed his candidacy recently.

He said Democrats attending the convention would meet to discuss the seeming rise in conservative Republicanism.

"The leadership is going to get together formally or informally to discuss how to present more effective campaigns— how to tighten our flank and protect some of the weak points of the Democratic Party," Barnes said.

In July and August, the slopes of Japan's Mt. Fuji are ded with as man y as18,-rwco crowded with as many as 18,-000 hikers a day.

Creditors Study Assets Of Firm

AMARILLO (AP) — A lawyer for the largest creditor of Bravo Smokes, Inc., said Wednesday that an adjustment of the firm's $848,699 list of assets showed only $211,500 against $705,546 in liabilities.

Robert Smiley of Pittsburgt, Pa., who represents General Nutrition Corp. with a claim of more than $300,000 requested that the reorganizational bankruptcy plan filed by Bravo Smokes be terminated and the firm be thrown into bankruptcy.

The first creditors' meeting since the petition was filed Sept. 5 began Wednesday in the U.S. District Court here with about 60 persons attending. The session will continue at 9 a.m. today.

Federal Bankruptcy Referee Frank Murry of Lubbock, presiding at the meeting, withheld a ruling on Smiley's motion.

Puzant Torigian is president of Bravo Smokes. The firm was opened at Hereford, Tex., as the nation's first lettuce cigareete factory.

Torigian insisted that he had a plan which he would reveal at the proper time for reorganization of the firm. He later asked creditors to allow him to continue the Bravo operation as the debtor in charge.

The executive assured the creditors he would repay 100 cents on every dollar if he is given the opportunity. "We're not in bankruptcy," he said while on the witness stand Wednesday. "We're going strong."

Blinds Are On Outside In Venice,

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

VENICE — Window blinds in Italy usually are outside the windows and they are used for the purpose intended — to screen out the sun. But unlike indoor blinds, they need not be vacuumed, waxed and scrubbed periodically. A good rainstorm is the perfect cleanser for outdoor blinds.

Blinds are controlled from indoors, usually with narrow tapes. Venetian blinds used in Italy aren't the blinds known in the United States. The usual blinds on small and large homes are heavy slats that remain in a fixed position, permitting a sliver of air space and light, but they effectively seal out sun and keep a room cool.

Italians lower the blinds before sun hits the windows and keep them lowered until the sun goes down. In many hotels with terraces, the blinds are pulled down at night over doors, providing a sealed chamber. This permits one to keep the doors open and get some ventilation, in addition to screening out early morning sun and light.

One seldom sees an exposed window pane from the outside on a sunny day.

One type of blind with heavy slats is outside the window but recessed within the facade by a cornice of one sort or another, falling straight down, hugging window or doors. Another type of blind with lightweight slats pushed out on a rod from a window forming awning-like shade. Occasionally, one sees shutters similar to those used on American homes, but they are actually used and are locked from the inside during the hot part of the day.

American shutters are usually ornamental. Few home owners even in hot and semitropical areas bother to shut their blinds during the heat of the day or even when a great rain storm hits. Every four or five years all shutters are removed, scraped, painted (a nasty job) and returned once again to their hinges where they continue to be ornaments. And because they are painted — unlike most Italian shutters — the once-movable louvers are stuck so that they can not be raised or lowered.

Similar shutters without louvers are used in many places locally and some houses improvise with large drapery hangings over windows and doors, operating them manually.

Such outdoor fabric draperies could be made of waterproof fabric — sailcloth or vinyl — and used outside picture windows, especially in resort areas.

Outdoor blinds are particularly practical for picture windows and can be made attractive so that even when drawn they offer aesthetic potential. In the dining room of a Venetian hotel, the Excelsior Lido, blinds outside the large glass doors and windows have a beautiful design on them, rust color, Japanese style, and lend to the atmosphere when drawn. From even a short distance away indoors, diners speculate whether the blinds are wood, fabric, plastic. It takes awhile to perceive that the blinds are outdoors.

Window blinds to be serviceable need not spoil the facade of a house. Heavy wooden blinds used outside window panes may be built in just as windows or with cornices and facings concealing the outer rim.

Is gas really cool?

You bet. Here's proof:

We turned a gas burner up to high for five minutes. Then we turned it off and immediately set a frozen pitcher of ice on it! Nary a crack! The pitcher remained intact and good as new. (The reason is no hangover heat with gas.) We tried the very same experiment with an identical pitcher... but on another kind of range. It was a shattering experience. When it comes to being cool, gas makes the difference.

US Casualties Approach 100,000

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped sharply last week but the total of U.S. casualties since the fighting began nearly seven years ago approached 100,000.

An unofficial survey of casualty figures for this year, gave no sign that last week's drop in casualties was part of any long-term decline.

The U.S. Command said 128 Americans were killed during the week, 1,434 were wounded and four were missing. A week earlier, U.S. forces lost 236 killed, 1774 wounded and four missing.

Most of last week's casualties occurred south of the demilitarized zone, where U.S. Marines blocking possible Communist invasion routes to the south have received nearly continuous shellings.

Henry Cabot Lodge, then the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, had predicted in January that the percentage of U.S. casualties in Vietnam would drop this year.

"I believe the purely military part of the war, which is what the Americans are engaged in, will make tremendous progress in 1967 and that the percentage of American casualties will start declining," he told The Associated Press in an interview.

But official reports show that the rate of U.S. casualties has increased during the year. By March 31, the Pentagon reported U.S. combat deaths running 66 per cent above average weekly losses in 1966.

The number of Americans killed rose from 67 in the first week of January to a peak for 1967 of 337 killed in the week of May 14-20.

By unofficial tally, 13,493 Americans have been killed in Vietnam and 84,877 wounded, a total for the war of 98,370.

Following are Vietnam casualties from Jan. 1 in four week totals; except for two weeks in September. Figures for wounded were not given until April.

	Dead	Wounded
Jan. 1—Jan. 28	465	—
Jan. 29—Feb. 25	559	—
Feb. 26—Mar. 25	892	—
Mar. 26—Apr. 22	966	5,197
Apr. 23—May 20	1047	6,306
May 12—June 17	846	5,660
June 18—July 15	892	5,400
July 16—Aug. 12	506	4,147
Aug. 13—Sept. 12	632	5,039
Sept. 10—Sept. 23	364	3,208

Casualty tolls for South Vietnamese, allied and Communist forces also declined last week. South Vietnamese military headquarters said 96 government troops were killed, 380 wounded and 15 missing, compared with 215 killed, 591 wounded and 47 missing a week earlier.

Other allied forces lost 37 killed, 88 wounded and none missing. A week earlier, the total had been 46 killed, 126 wounded and none missing.

The U.S. Command said enemy casualties included 1,134 killed, compared with 1,744 a week before.

STANKY'S CREW EXPIRES

Chisox Reject Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky's Walking Dead finally appear to have died, stricken with the last lethal blows from a most unexpected source.

Poised to seize the lead in the daffy American League pennant race Wednesday night, the Chicago White Sox instead tumbled to fourth place, just an eyelash away from elimination.

The villains were the usually harmless Kansas City Athletics, whose lease to the cellar has been locked up or weeks. The A's swept a twi-night doubleheader from the White Sox 3-2 and 4-0, leaving Chicago with nothing more to hope for than a slim chance of forcing a playoff.

Front-running Minnesota bowed to California 5-1 and Boston dropped its second straight to Cleveland 6-0 Wednesday afternoon. Detroit was idle. That meant that when the White Sox took the field against the A's, they were a mere one-half game behind the Twins and led the three other contenders in the vital loss column.

Less than six hours later, they were on the brink of being completely out of the picture. The double loss left them with an 89-70 record and a maximum possibility of 92 victories if they sweep their three remaining games against Washington.

Minnesota has already won 91 and Boston 90. Those two teams play their last two games against each other. If they split, Chicago must sweep to tie Minnesota. If Boston wins both games, a White Sox sweep would tie the Red Sox. If Minnesota wins both games, the White Sox are through, regardless of what they do.

In the National League, San Francisco beat New York 7-2 and Houston edged Philadelphia 1-0 and Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 1-0.

It was a characteristic lack of hitting that did the Sox in. They managed just seven hits in the doubleheader and that, Virginia, is not the kind of attack that wins pennants.

Jim Gosger's three hits drove in three runs for the A's and Chuck Dobson handcuffed the Sox on two hits until the ninth inning of the opener. Then Chicago pushed across both its runs but Paul Lindblad pitched out of the jam and saved Dobson's 10th victory.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter won his 13th in the nightcap, allowing just three hits and started Kansas City's winning four-run rally in the sixth inning with a single.

"Do I think we have a chance?" asked Stanky, the White Sox manager. "How do I answer that?"

"I've been in baseball 30 years. I've seen seven runs in the last of the ninth this year. I've seen a winning streak of 10. I've seen us first place. I've seen us in sixth place.

"We win three and I'm happy. I'm paid to manage the White Sox 162 games, or more, if necessary."

Dumas To Risk Its Lofty Perch

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dumas risks its high place in Class AAA against most dangerous Amarillo of Class AAAA and Three Rivers and George West battle the aftermath of Hurricane Beulah in an effort to get in the most important game of Class A as Texas schoolboy football rumbles through its first month.

Dumas, which started out on top, felldown the ladder after a tie with Amarillo Palo Duro, then surged back up to second on the heels of smashing triumphs over Pampa and Phillips, can either jump into first place by upsetting Amarillo or drop away off the pace with a defeat.

Amarillo will be the toughest team the Demons have met and it should be a great test for the terrors of the Panhandle.

Three Rivers and George West were scheduled to meet at Three Rivers Friday but with the latter under water, they transferred the game to George West and set the clash for Saturday night.

This is the big game of the south for the season. The winner will become the favorite for the finals of Class A.

It's a big week for conference play, with games counting in the standings dotting the gridirons from Panhandle to Gulf. But few of the leading teams appear in danger of falling, other than Dumas.

Abilene Cooper, No. 1 in Class AAAA, for instance, has no game this week. Ennis, No. 1 in Class AAA, also is idle. Jacksboro, leading the parade in Class AA, meets three-time loser Bridgeport to open the conference race. It would be the upset of the season should Jacksboro lose that one.

Seagraves, No. 1 in Class A, could find Sudan tough but ought to win. Sudan, like Seagraves, is undefeated but does not have a record as impressive. Seagraves has rolled up 122 points to 34 in its three games. Sudan has whipped up 70 against 19.

Most No. 2 teams appear in good position. Port Arthur of Class AAAA plays La Grange of Louisiana. Dumas is No. 2 in AAA while Wichita Falls Hirschi, No. 3, gets a tough assignment in a clash with AAAA Wichita Falls.

Daingerfield, the runnerup of Class AA, meets Hughes Springs and should win with a minimum of trouble while Spur, No. 2 in Class A, meets twice victimized Lorenzo.

San Angelo, the defending Class AAAA champion having trouble getting anybody to recognize it, plays Amarillo Tascosa, which could be a fair test for the Bobcats, who hold the longest winning streak in the state—seven straight.

Area Teams Face Action

With the exception of the Snyder High Tigers, there is a full schedule of football activity in the Snyder area this weekend.

The Hermleigh Cardinals will return to action following an open date, going to O'Donnell for a game Friday night.

The Ira Bulldogs will host O'Brien, while Paint Creek visits Hobbs and Gail goes to Dawson.

Snyder's junior varsity goes to Sweetwater tonight for a game beginning at 7:30 p.m. Lamar 8th grade plays Big Spring Goliad at 6 p.m. and Lamar 9th hosts the Big Spring Toros at 7:30, both games to be played in Tiger Stadium.

On Saturday, Travis 9th graders go to San Angelo for a 4 p.m. engagement with Lee Junior High.

Top Punter Blocks, Too

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State University sophomore fullback Eddie Ray, who leads the nation's collegiate football players in punting, is respected by his Tiger teammates more for his blocking than for his kicking.

Ray averaged 40.3 yards with six punts in LSU's 20-14 comeback victory over Rice last Saturday night. The punting average surprised Coach Charles McClendon.

But McClendon was not at all surprised that Ray turned in an outstanding performance clearing the way for LSU ball carriers.

'He's a butt-er," said McClendon of his unheralded youngster from Vicksburg, Miss. 'By that, I mean he really butts people."

Senior quarterback Nelson Stokley, who benefitted most Saturday night from Ray's crisp blocking, had nothing but praise for the sophomore, who won a starting job at fullback over several veterans.

"He was tremendous on the option," said Stokley, who gained 95 yards on the ground. 'Eddie's real good and he's going to get better."

Viewing the game film, McClendon stopped the projector to show how Ray knocked a Rice defender flat on his back with a driving shoulder block, opening a big hole for Stokley to scamper through.

"That's just one example," the coach said. 'He did that all night."

John Yovicsin, a native of Steelton, Pa., is in his 16th season as a head football coach. He coached Gettysburg five years and the last 10 at Harvard.

Linebacker Don Chiofaro of Belmont, Mass., Harvard football captain, made 59 unassisted tackles last season.

Shinnick Honored

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Shinnick of Baltimore, who has intercepted more passes than any linebacker in National Football League history, has been named defensive Player of the Week in the NFL by The Associated Press for his play in Sunday's game with Philadelphia.

The 32-year-old veteran of 11 pro seasons picked off two passes against the Eagles to run his lifetime total to 35. However, he never has run one back for a touchdown and does not expect to.

"If I coach when I'm through playing," Shinnick told NFL publicist Don Weiss, "I'm going to tell my linebackers to fall down or run out of bounds after they get an interception.

'A linebacker isn't trained to run with the ball. He barely has time, if he's concentrating on his defense, to practice catching it. How many times have you seen a linebacker intercept a pass, run a few yards, get hit and fumble the ball back to the other team?"

Shinnick got the ball back twice for the Colts in the 38-6 victory over Philadelphia. He brought back the first interception three yards, giving Baltimore field position at the Eagles' 40. The second interception came in the third period with Baltimore leading 14-6 and the Eagles on the move toward a TD that might have put them back in the game.

Pat Fischer, the St. Louis Cards' little cornerback, was a big man in his club's upset of Pittsburgh. Fischer intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble, all in Pittsburgh territory, during the first 20 minutes of play. The interceptions led to the Cards' only touchdown and a field goal as they opened up a 16-0 lead.

America's Undeclared Wars Outnumber Declared Ones

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has been denounced in and out of Congress for using the Gulf of Tonkin resolution to justify America's deepening involvement in the war in Vietnam. But history is on his side.

He has congressional blessing for doing what other presidents have done, some with, some without, such approval. There have been only five declared wars in American history but six undeclared ones.

Altogether the armed forces have been used 137 times without a formal war declaration and in most cases without any say by Congress. In some actions, presidents at first had hearty public and congressional endorsement. Later, when enthusiasm cooled, they were attacked or politically ruined.

On Aug. 7, 1964 Congress overwhelmingly passed the Gulf of Tonkin resolution when Johnson requested it after North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the gulf.

It said Johnson, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, could take all necessary steps to repel any armed attack on those forces and "to prevent any further aggression."

While the Constitution says the president is commander-in-chief, it also says Congress alone can declare war. It doesn't say who can use the armed forces without a declaration.

But presidents all the way back to George Washington thought they could do so when they felt they should. It became a custom, not always followed, to ask Congress for approval or authorization.

There were five declared wars: 1812—war with England; and in 1846 — Mexican War; 1898—Spanish American War; 1917—World War I; 1941—World War II. Three of them might have been avoided.

Two days before Congress declared war in 1812 England had yielded to American demands but Congress didn't know it—there were no transatlantic cables or telephones.

In 1898 Spain yielded to American demands two days before President William McKinley sent his war message to Congress. He was informed of it but went ahead because he was weak and yielded to the country's war fever.

And President James K. Polk baited the Mexicans into war in 1846 by sending troops into territory claimed by Mexico. He wanted California from them and, as a result of the war, got it.

Here are the six undeclared wars: 1798-1800—naval war with France; 1801-1805—war with Tripoli pirates; 1815—brief war with Barbary pirates; 1916-1917—war with Mexico; 1950-53—Korean war; and now the Vietnamese war.

In 1798 Congress approved the naval war, authorizing U.S. ships to seize French vessels which had been preying on American shipping. Sentiment for this boiled when it was learned the French foreign minister, Talleyrand, asked for a $250,000 bribe. Later the public mood changed and helped wreck President John Adams politically.

Presidents Adams and Washington had already paid almost $2 million in blackmail to North African pirates not to pick on American ships and to release American captives. But Tripoli got greedy and rough. Congress authorized action. It did the same against the Barbary pirates in 1815.

When Pancho Villa, a Mexican rebel, massacred Americans on both sides of the border, there was great American indignation and demand for action. President Woodrow Wilson sent almost 6,000 men into Mexico with Congress' okay. The mood changed to wanting out as full war with the Mexican government got closer. Wilson was glad to pull out.

President Harry S. Truman neither asked nor got congressional approval for going into the Korean War. But the United Nations, of which the United States was a member, asked quick action. At first he got big backing. This turned to harsh criticism as the war dragged on.

Johnson neither asked nor got congressional approval for sending troops into the Dominican Republic because, he said, it was necessary to protect American lives and prevent a Communist takeover. But this kind of action was an old story.

He was doing what presidents, starting with Washington, had done when they thought it necessary, ranging from crushing a whisky rebellion to bulldozing Japan into opening up trade. Some of the actions were arrogant and inexcusable.

Nor did President John F. Kennedy in 1962 ask congressional endorsement when, in his showdown with Moscow, he forced the Soviet Union to take her missiles out of Cuba.

Junior Editors Quiz on STONE AGE

QUESTION: What was the Stone Age and why is it called that?

* * *

ANSWER: Historians tell us that metals first began to be used about 5000 years ago. But they say man had existed a long time before that. In those far-off times, stone was used instead of metal for tools and weapons — and so those distant days beginning about one million years ago are called the stone age. Scientists base their conclusions on tools and weapons they have found, some of which are shown in the picture. There are three stone age periods, as we show. In the old stone age, tools were crude, merely pebbles with sharpened edges; the weapon was the spear, with a clumsy stone point. But the use of fire was discovered during this time; the tools improved. Men began to live in caves and later drew wonderful pictures on cave walls. By the middle stone age, the bow and arrow had been discovered; fishhooks made of bone were being used. The new stone age marked the great point where man discovered how to raise and harvest crops and domesticate animals. He also learned to build houses. With the use of metals, civilization was on its way.

Remarks To Burn Up The Boss

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Anonymous remarks that every boss gets tired of finding in the office suggestion box:

"Did you know that the guy who was boss here before you is alive and doing well in Argentina?"

"We've tried everything else—so why not put some gin in the water cooler and see if THAT'll pep up the office."

"It has been 23 years since I've had a merit raise. What are you trying to do—set a new record for stinginess?"

"Roses are red, violets are blue, the senior vice president is a muttonhead—and so are you!"

"Little holes can sink the biggest ship, and being wasteful in small ways can wreck a business. For example, I have figured out that every one in the office could retire a year early if they would just use a single paper towel when they wash their hands, instead of two or three."

"This wouldn't be a bad place for a nice girl to work if only the executives wore boxing gloves. The next one is going to get sprayed with insect repellent—and I'm not joking."

"Hey, boss, I'm one of the cutest secretaries in the office, and I've had a crush on you for months and months. I would just love to paw your chubby cheeks and run my fingers through your thinning hair. Now, don't you wish you knew who I am?"

"Enclosed in this envelope is a dead cockroach. I killed it in the company cafeteria. I'm giving you fair warning: If I find another one there, I'm going to turn the company in to the Board of Health as a public menace."

"I love to listen to the piped-in music as I ride up to our floor in the automatic elevator. But they never play anything by Mozart. Does our firm have an anti-Mozart policy? If they'd just play a Mozart symphony, I'm sure I'd be happy riding up and down in the elevator all morning."

"There is only one surefire way of improving this joint, but who wants to be arrested for arson?"

"In the locker room I overheard one of the guys in the treasurer's office bragging that he had sneaked home three office pencils this week for his kids. How long are you going to let him get away ith it?"

"There's nothing wrong with office morale that a 15 per cent Christmas bonus wouldn't improve."

More Cities To Vote On Sales Tax

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

From the high and dry plains of West Texas to the soggy disaster zone in the Coastal Bend country, city dwellers voted today on whether to levy a one per cent municipal sales tax.

Today's elections affected about 400,000 people in Corpus Christi, Aransas Pass, Wichita Falls, Electra, Henrietta and Texarkana.

Adoption of the tax, a controversial item in the last Texas Legislature, got off to a booming start Wednesday. El Paso voters approved it by a 3-to-1 margin. Nacogdoches turned out a record number to sanction it overwhelmingly and little Elgin and the coastal town of Orange Grove followed suit.

City councils held emergency night sessions to carry out the voters' mandate. The cities have only until Oct. 1 to make the new law effective as of Jan. 1.

Gov. John Connally proposed the municipal sales tax as a last-ditch effort to help the worsening financial straits of Texas cities.

The fight was one of the hottest of the legislative session, with opponents claiming the levy hit the little man too hard and pointing to tax breaks for the big pipeline companies. Proponents said it would affect tourists and Mexican nationals who work in Texas, maintaining that low-income groups would not suffer because most of their money goes for fixed rate items such as rent.

In El Paso, the tax proposal lost in only six of the city's 70 voting precincts on the way to a final margin of 17,031 to 6,005. The six precincts were in the predominantly Spanish-American, low-income south side of the city.

Mayor Judson Williams said the approval would "allow El Paso to get on with the job ahead." He estimated the tax would bring in $1.5 million a year and pointed out that El Paso's tourists and the thousands of Mexicans who live in neighboring Juarez and buy in El Paso will pay for city services.

The Nacogdoches vote total was a record and the tax won 1,328 to 189. Based on 1965 retail sales in the East Texas city, it would bring in about $150,000 annually.

At Elgin, 26 miles southeast of Austin, the vote was 334 to 40. Orange Grove's vote was 80-44.

Mayor Oscar Swenson of Elgin estimated the tax would net his town $25,000 a year. A big property tax raise would be necessary, he said, if the sales tax fails.

Corpus Christi was to have 30 polling places open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today. The city council scheduled a special session for 9 a.m. Friday to canvass the returns.

If local elections are held after Oct. 1, the tax cannot be collected until April 1.

The law permits cities to take their tax bite at the same time they collect the two per cent state sales tax levy.

Elections to authorize the tax can be called by either the city council or by petition of 20 per cent of the voter . It can be gotten rid of by the same way after two years.

Residents of Taylor will vote on the tax. Austin citizens take it up Saturday.

GAS STATION GIMMICKS

Sweepstakes War Still Hot

NEW YORK (AP) —Its banners shouting about free prizes, its pennants and shimmering ornaments swaying in the wind, the gasoline station continues to glimmer in the sun like a year-round carnival.

As most motorists know very well, this carnival air is more than appearance. Games are played, money is won, premiums such as radios and toys are awarded. "Even born losers win," one oil producer advertises.

It is now close to two years since the giveaway games and sweepstakes replaced price-cutting as a business stimulator in many of the nation's gasoline stations, and the fad, if it is that, shows little sign of abating.

Several major oil producers admit their dislike of the promotional gimmicks but claim an inability to do much about them. "If our competitor has a game, we must have one to offset his," they said.

There is some truth to this, for soon after Tidewater Oil Co. introduced a cash game in January 1966 sales soared at many of its stations. That did it. Others followed and the sweepstakes war was on.

In theory, when games and gimmicks reach the saturation point they tend to offset each other because nobody has an advantage any more. This, at least, has been the experience some supermarkets have had with trading stamps.

The games and sweepstakes now being played at service stations seem to be avoiding that experience. Games have been refined, their prizes enlarged, as happy customers.

Some oil producers explain that the games, or some sales stimulant, are as necessary to good customer relations as wiping the windshield.

"A customer cannot feel, taste or personally consume the product," one marketing executive explained. "He cannot tell the difference between high quality and low quality gasoline."

The fact is, however, that there are great differences in the quality of gasoline products. If only the industry felt it could effectively promote these differences, oil executives say, the games might go.

Aside from games and product quality, the other major areas of competition are price and service.

Although the price of gasoline is now less than it was a half century ago, largely because of soaring volume, competition by price has fallen into some disfavor after many ruinous price wars.

Lodge Denies Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I never advocated a U.S. invasion of North Vietnam or a bombing of every conceivable target in the North," Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared in a statement Wednesday.

The former U.S. envoy to South Vietnam issued the statement after a report of remarks he had asked to be placed off the record was published in an account of his speech to the World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh.

"I never said that restrictions which limit U.S. forces to South Vietnam aid only the enemy," the statement continued. "Nor did I say anything about committing more American soldiers.

Lodge, now a senior State Department adviser in Washington, said none of his remarks during the speech "went beyond the previously and clearly stated position of the U.S. government with respect to Vietnam."

SEVEN MILLION GUESTS EXPECTED

San Antonio Throws Party

By PAUL RECER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — This one-time Spanish mission village that bloomed into a major population center, is throwing a $156-million birthday party next year and more than seven million guests are expected.

The "party" is HemisFair '68, an international exposition which will mark the Alamo City's 250th year.

HemisFair, which opens for six months on April 6, already dominates this city of 695,000. Residents are everywhere — from drawings on the cover of the nearest telephone book to the nearly completed 122-foot Tower of the Americans that soars above all the other buildings in the city and can be seen from miles away.

The exposition site, two blocks from the Alamo in the heart of downtown, is now 92 acres of dusty trails, concrete ditches, skeleton-like structural steel and immense holes.

But an around-the-clock construction schedule is expected to turn it into a park of svelte landscaping, sweeping modern buildings and slick-styled exhibits.

Tickets went on sale July 3 and more than 1.1 million have already been sold. Some of the city's hotels took their first reservations for fair visitors months ago.

Twenty-three governments including the United States and the states of Arkansas and Texas, have signed on an exhibitors. Texas is sinking $10 million into a permanent structure and the United States is paying out $6.7 million for a two-building exhibition.

Fifteen private or industrial exhibitors are also drawing up plans for HemisFair.

All exhibits will center on the fair's theme, "The Confluence of Civilizations." The concept will pay tribute to the many cultures that helped create America.

Theme structure of the fair is the Tower of the Americas, a concrete and steel spike with a restaurant and observation decks on top. The resaurant will revolve slowly, giving diners an estimated 75 miles of Texas countryside to look at while they eat.

Admission will be $2 at the gate—if tickets are bought in advance of the opening date. Admission for children is $1. Once inside, officials say, the tourist will find most exhibits are free.

Come Sunday, Kids Will Be Picketing The Church

By JOSEPH SWEAT

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Come Sunday, they'll be back on the picket lines in front of the church, raising the devil with the older generation.

"Who's delinquent?" asks a typical picket sign. And it's obvious that these young people are casting a suspicious eye at some of their parents.

Before you start having visions of smart-alecky hippies using flower power against the elders of the church, hold your fire, brother.

These kids are straight—straight from Sunday school, that is. And their beef is that too few adults are making the scene with them.

About 150 teen-agers dropped out of Sunday school classes at Brookdale Baptist Church last Sunday and demonstrated against "Parent delinquency" from adult Bible classes. They picketed for an hour and 15 minutes.

The youths plan to be back again Sunday picketing with signs like: "Truth reaches youth," and, "Come alive—attend church."

Church leaders have given the rebellion their blessing.

"We know we can get the children here if we can get the parents," said Albert Hornstra, the Sunday school superintendent who organized the demonstration. "And now some parents are being made to realize there is a need for them to be here."

He said enrollment in both young people's and adult Sunday school classes has been declining in the last few years.

"It's not just us," Hornstra said. "It's due to our affluent society. There is a lot more vacationing and weekends on the golf links."

Hornstra said his philosophy in this campaign has been taken from a Bible verse: "Train up a child in the way that he should go and when he grows old he will not depart from it."

Fifty Mexico Bakeries Padlocked

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Authorities said today they traced a deadly insecticide blamed for Tijuana's mass poisoning to a warehouse from which bakery products were distributed.

Fifty bakeries were padlocked and posted with guards, and 35 persons linked to the supplier and bakeries were held for questioning. No charges were filed.

By the thousands Tijuana residents trooped across the U.S. border to San Ysidro, Calif., for bread.

Hector Valdivia, deputy district attorney, said the insecticide parathion was found stored in the warehouse near flour, sugar and possibly other ingredients used in foods. He refused to identify the warehouse.

Valdivia said, "Until we get test results from Sacramento, we won't know for sure what food or ingredient was poisoned."

In Sacramento, Calif., chemists of the California Department of Agriculture were examining samples of flour, bread and sugar flown from Tijuana.

Valdivia told a news conference Wednesday that 16 died from poisoning since Sunday. About 25 persons were hospitalized, and an estimated 300 others were released from hospitals and clinics after treatment.

Only two or three new cases of sickness were reported Wednesday, authorities said. The dead were all believed to be children under 10.

Navy Planes Collide Over Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two Navy airplanes—one of them under radar control from the ground—slammed together during a driving rainstorm Wednesday and plunged to earth amid a shower of debris and bursts of flames.

Six men were aboard. One body had been recovered before darkness and rain forced a halt in the search. One officer said all aboard were believed dead.

The Navy said one of the aircraft was an SP2H Neptune patrol aircraft with five men aboard and the other a one-seat RF8 Crusader, a photo reconnaissance jet that is often used as a hurricane hunter plane.

Witnesses said both planes were in flames as they spiraled toward the swampy ocean-front land.

The Neptune, which had two jets and two conventional engines, plunged into about six feet of water in the Atlantic near the Intracoastal Waterway which parallels the ocean shore.

The collision occurred at 6:40 p.m. over a sparsely settled section of Jacksonville Beach, about 14 miles east of Jacksonville.

San Antonio, host for HemisFair '68, will build a soaring Tower of the Amerisas.

Association Ok's Budget

The Scurry County Association for Retarded Children approved its budget for 1968 at a meeting Monday night.

Budgeted are funds for such items as salaries for special education students in work training programs, special education equipment and the possibility of a regional summer camp.

Plans were made to sponsor a spaghetti supper soon and to sell Christmas wreaths again this year.

The Region 3 annual fall meeting of the State Association will be held Saturday at the Starlite Inn in Abilene. All members of the association and other interested persons have been urged to attend the regional meeting. The registration fee, which includes lunch, is $3.

By WARREN QUINLAN

Each of us makes three important decisions during our lifetime. First, we decide whom we're going to marry. Second, we determine how we're going to earn a living. Third, we resolve how we are going to select the proper thoughts so our mind will be on the highest scale to solve our problems.

Many of us have a good batting average with the first two. It's the third area, however, which determines our fate — and too often we strike out instead of batting in a better living average.

A good illustration concerning the importance of choosing the right thoughts is an independent business man from West Texas named Ray. During a period of eight years Ray built a good reputation in his industry, but in the last 18-months, Ray lost some of his optimism because of two poor investments, and the loss of two big accounts. Because of this, late last summer his nerves were sticking out like wires and curling at the ends.

If you met Ray at that time you wouldn't have forgotten him soon. His frown resembled an arc, and his facial expression carried the weight of the world. You could sense he was carrying his troubles from the past, present, and future. Like a steam boiler his pressure gauge showed danger signals.

After Ray had discussed, or disgusted his situation with us, he began to argue about bad luck. Arguing, as many of us know, is a game two can play, but it is a strange game, which neither opponent can win. So, instead of arguing, we asked Ray to concentrate on the other side of the coin — what is right.

After a little persuasion Ray began to think straighter. His family, children and relatives were no problem. . . Overall, his friends, business acquaintances, and customers were right. . . By the time he finished his list, 90 per cent of the events and happenings in Ray's life were right, and only 10 per cent were wrong.

"How can you cash in on this fact," we asked.

In a few seconds, Ray started to grin, "Well for one thing I can start concentrating on the 90 per cent that are right, and not get bitter and ulcerated about the 10 per cent that are wrong."

Soon after our discussion, Ray decided the one thing which would come under the category of the 90 per cent factor would be to take his family on a long overdue vacation. After his return Ray discovered that a large percentage of the 10 per cent factor which was wrong, worked itself out naturally.

As Ray concentrates on what is right, he maintains a positive attitude which will help him bear up under adversity and misfortune. We can take action, too, and concentrate on the 90 per cent which is right, instead of the 10 per cent which is wrong.

Court Hears Testimony Of Airman

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A Texan seeking discharge from the Air Force because serving in Vietnam would violate his beliefs told a federal court Wednesday he would fight for his country if it were invaded.

Airman 3.C. Richard A. Saunders of Baytown was scheduled to go to Vietnam this year. The Air Force removed his name from the Vietnam-bound list two days before Saunders filed a federal court suit seeking discharge on the ground he is a conscientious objector.

Saunders, who enlisted and has served three years, told the court he came by his conscientious objector's beliefs in October of 1966. He is attached to a unit doing military intelligence work at Offutt AFB at Omaha.

At the start of his hearing Wednesday, Saunders told U.S. Dist. Judge Richard Robinson he objected to the words "so help me God" in the oath usually given witnesses. He said he did not believe in a supreme being and to him such an oath would be meaningless.

He then took an oath promising to tell the truth under penalty of perjury.

Saunders testified he believes any instigation of force is immoral. At that point, Judge Robinson asked, "If the U.S. were invaded, would you fight?"

"We would not be instigating force then," Saunders replied.

The judge said, "What if the possessions of this country were threatened. Should we fight?"

"If the freedoms of individuals were infringed on—yes," Saunders said.

The hearing was recessed until Friday.

Texas Highways Build In Safety

AUSTIN (AP) — The Highway Department tries to give drivers a head start on safety when it designs the roads on which they travel.

Built-in safeguards are designed both to prevent accidents and to make accidents 'softer" when they occur.

Some of the safety features incorporated into highway design standards are obvious: divided lanes, wider lanes, median rails and fences, paved shoulders, striped edges and wider bridges.

Others are not quite as easy to discern.

As cars got lower and sleeker, the department modified signs and striping for better visibility. No passing zone highways stripes are now longer (from nine to 15 feet) and signs are positioned higher.

Signs also have better reflectors for good night visibility.

Highway engineers try to keep a minimum of objects above the surface of the ground along the highways, and potential obstructions as far as possible from the traffic lanes.

Engineers also have designed highways that 'sing" when wheels stray outside the proper lane, electrically heated bridges that banish dangerous ice in freezing weather, and grade separations, interchanges and median dividers to prevent head-on and collision-course crashes.

Breakaway signs are one of the newest devices on Texas highways. In tests, a car traveling 60 miles per hour crashed into a large breakaway sign and received only bumper, hood and headlight damage. Upon the cars impact, the sign post gave way permitting the driver to bring the car under control and to a safe stop.

About 16,000 breakaway signs have been installed on Texas highways and in more than 75 collisions with breakaway signs there have been no fatalities and only one minor injury attributable to the signs.

Breakaway light standards are based on similar principles. Rigid steel transformer bases of light poles have been replaced with cast aluminum bases which shear on impact, thrusting both the pole and base away from the colliding vehicle and allowing the driver to bring the car to a controlled stop.

High-level floodlighting is being developed to give night motorists a panoramic view of expressway interchanges.

Highway engineers believe that such panoramic lighting at expressway interchanges will give drivers time to make decisions, to react to merging traffic or to slow down for exit ramps.
