GRAHAM WELL GAUGES 990 BARRELS PER HOUR

Speeding Mail Train Plows Into Huge Motor Bus, Leaving 19 Occupants Dead

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Motor truck mail service has been established between Wichita Falls and Olney and it is announced that similar service will be established between Wichita Falls and Stamford on July 1.

The discontinuance of passenger trains which carry mail is making it necessary to find other methods for the delivery of mail and we can expect to see a continued development of truck delivery which, in many cases, will give prompter service than the railroads were able to give. Mail contracts have been a source of revenue for the railroads which they can ill afford to lose, but if they continue to lose passengers to the bus lines and air routes forcing them to discontinue passenger trains we can expect to see them also lose much of their mail business.

The Wichita Falls Outboard Motor association announces it will build a dock at Lake Wichita for the use of its members. This calls attention to the growing popularity of motor boating with the sport lovers of this section. At Lake Wichita, the Diversion lake and at Lake Kemp there are already scores of motor boats and the number increases each season.

As time goes on greater use is being made of the recreational opportunities afforded by our system of lakes. In this use alone they are becoming an important commercial asset, attracting thousands of visitors to this sectional annually.

Talker has often wondered why there were not more sail boats on these lakes. They are large enough to afford good sailing for smaller craft and there is rarely a day when there is not sufficient wind to fill a sail. Perhaps it is because there are so few here who have had training and practice in the handling of a sail boat. Maybe this development will come later. We rather expect to see a few sails on the lakes this season.

Another well extends the producing area further into the corporate limits of Olney and the Nash and Windfohr well at the outskirts of Graham continues to flow at an estimated rate of 20,000 barrels of oil daily. In many other parts of Young county new wells are coming in, increasing oil production and widening producing areas. Fortune is smiling on our Young county neighbors and we rejoice with them.

Of course prosperity in Olney and Graham and in Young county generally helps Wichita Falls and we are more pleased than ever over the fine highway that brings Olney and Graham and the rest of Young county so close to Wichita Falls. In these days we measure distance, not by miles but by hours and minutes. By this standard of measure Graham is closer to Wichita Falls than Jolly was not so many years ago.

Now that our minutes can mean so much more to us in distance, in contracts and in our business and social activities the question arises as to whether they have brought us greater happiness, made us more useful or broadened our lives. Talker would say that they have; that the lifting of our horizons has broadened our contacts and has made life fuller and better. But there are some who will say that we are merely scattering ourselves about without getting any real benefit out of it. Its a question about which there is room for argument on both sides.

Twenty-four persons are reported to have been killed when a motor bus was struck by a railway train near Albuquerque, N. M. All the motor busses Talker has ridden have come to a stop before crossing a railroad track. But even with the best of precautions grade railroad crossings are dangerous. We hope the time will come when they are eliminated from every important highway in the country. We bear in mind that there are dangerous grade crossings in Wichita Falls and in Wichita county.

James Young of Kaufman county will speak in Wichita Falls Monday night in behalf of his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination. His speech here will be the first to be made at a number of West Texas points. Mr. Young is former congressman and is said to be a man of ability and courage. He entered the race for governor only a few weeks ago and is already recognized as an outstanding candidate.

There are comparatively few voters who have made a choice among the candidates for governor. They are open minded and Mr. Young has the opportunity of winning votes and consolidating support if his platform appeals to the people of this section. The candidate who takes an early lead in so wide a field will have a considerable advantage as the campaign progresses.

'Master Mind' Sought In Fort Worth Bank Holdup

FORT WORTH, April 11. (UP)—Belief that a "master mind" prompted the attempt of two negroes to rob the First State bank of Polytechnic yesterday has resulted in a reopened investigation of the affair.

Izak (Will) Tate and George Terrell, the negroes, were shot to death by City Detectives Ed Weatherford and John Alsup, who had hid themselves near the bank lobby on a tip that the bank would be held up. Officers believe a white man had the negroes make the attempt.

SURVIVORS SAY DRIVER FAILED TO HALT STAGE

Charred, Mangled Bodies Carried to Morgues at Albuquerque, N. M.

VICTIMS UNIDENTIFIED

Pilot of Huge Pickwick Car Made Last Second Effort to Turn

ISLETA, N. M., April 11. (AP)—A fast Santa Fe mail train today crushed a Pickwick Greyhound motor stage, killing 19 persons, all passengers on the bus.

The accident was the worst in the history of western bus transportation. The train sideswiped the stage as the driver tried frantically to swing it clear of the oncoming locomotive and the terrific impact so mangled the bodies of the victims that late today identification of three had not been made. Eight persons were injured seriously.

Two survivors said the driver slowed up but failed to stop at the crossing.

Bodies Burned

Demolished by the collision, the bus was ignited by flames which licked over it from the gasoline tank and the bodies of the victims were robbed of clothing by the fire, which, in some instances, charred the flesh itself.

Two bodies and parts of the bus were carried 200 yards down the right of way by the speeding train which stopped half a mile past the crossing where the tragedy occurred.

Neither the Pickwick Greyhound office at Los Angeles, from which the bus departed at 11:59 p. m., Wednesday, eastbound for Denver, nor the bus driver carried identification for the passengers. The names of the victims were obtained from bits of personal effects which escaped the ravages of the flames.

Survivors Suffer

The sudden crash stunned the survivors, several of whom were seriously injured.

Flames Destroy Newcastle Hotel

Special to The Record News.

NEWCASTLE, Texas, April 11.—Fire that broke out in a storage room at the rear and was fanned to dangerous proportions before the sleeping occupants of the building were aroused destroyed the Jefferson hotel and filling station here late Friday night. Damages were estimated at close to $50,000.

Nightwatchman John Nettleblade first discovered the blaze as he walked his beat at 11:15 Friday night. He aroused the family of J. E. Cole, operator of the hotel, and spread the alarm to the fire department and volunteer fire fighters. All occupants of the building escaped, but the flames, fanned by a brisk wind, had made so much headway that the efforts of the firemen were unavailing and the entire building wits its contents was destroyed.

The hotel, built in 1920, was the property of Mrs. Ella Daschner of Wichita Falls. It stood on the eastern edge of the business district, its isolation on a block lessening the danger of the fire spreading. The structure, one of the largest in Newcastle, stood two stories high and covered an area of 75 by 150 feet.

Modification and Repeal Votes Outnumber 'Bone Drys' in Wichita

A majority of the Wichita Falls voters who have cast their straw ballots in the Literary Digest prohibition poll favor some change in the 18th amendment although the solid drys hold a plurality over both the proponents of repeal and of modification, according to compilations received by The Record News Friday.

Of the 1907 Wichitans who have voted, 782 support the amendment as it stands, while the 1215 majority wants a change. The opponents of the present law stand 697 for repeal and 518 for modification.

The announced vote for the state as a whole showed similar results, the supporters of the dry law outnumbering either the repeal or modification advocates separately but falling below their combined number.

Anti-Manager Petition Must Carry 800 Names To Force Vote, City Attorney Rules

If he is called upon by the city council to give an opinion on the number of signatures necessary on a petition to force a vote here on the city-manager question, Thelbert Martin, city attorney, will tell the aldermen a minimum of 10 per cent of the entire voting strength of the city is necessary, he told The Record News Friday night.

The question of the number of signatures needed to bring about such a vote here was raised Friday afternoon when a petition asking an election on the city-manager plan, bearing 308 names, was presented to W. E. McBroom, city clerk, by Jack Ballard and acknowledged by O. B. Kelley, unsuccessful candidate for mayor in the last election.

It had been previously stated, in error, that signatures numbering as much as 10 per cent of the voters participating in the last election could force the election on the manager plan. It was also erroneously reported that the city charter made such provision. City Attorney Martin pointed out Friday night that the city charter makes no provision concerning the number of signatures required on a petition requesting a change in the charter. Such action, he said, is controlled by state law in the case of every city in Texas, the law requiring a minimum of 10 per cent of the qualified voters of a city to sign a petition asking an election on a proposed change in the city charter.

According to this law, the petition now in the hands of the city clerk lacks approximately 500 names of having the power to force a manager election, Mr. Martin said, the voting strength of Wichita Falls being something above 8,000. The petition will be presented to the council at its meeting next Monday night by Mr. McBroom and any action taken by the aldermen will, in all probability, depend upon the legal opinion given by the city attorney, Mr. McBroom said.

FOUR ARRESTED ON JURY BILLS

Morton Makes $2,000 Bond On Homicide Charge

Four arrests had been made Friday by members of the sheriff's department here out of the list of warrants for defendants named in 16 of the 37 indictments returned Thursday afternoon in the first partial report of the grand jury for the April term of the 30th district court, according to Sheriff W. G. Brailey.

C. E. Monroe, indicted on a charge of wife desertion, was arrested late Friday evening in Electra by Charlie Gant and H. L. White, deputies. Monroe was brought to Wichita Falls and lodged in the county jail.

Cornelius Williams, negro, arrested Friday following his indictment for child desertion, was ordered by Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district to pay $5 a week toward the support of his two children.

Ed Spriggs, also a negro, who was indicted for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Isaac Johnson, a negro youth, was also arrested Friday, Sheriff Brailey said. Spriggs had been at liberty on bond.

R. B. Morton, head of a loan company here, was the first of Friday's arrests. He was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the death of a young woman at a Wichita Falls hospital several weeks ago. Morton was released on $2,000 bond shortly after his arrest, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney. The indictment was entered in the county court at law, the charge being of misdemeanor grade.

The charge against Morton, according to specific allegations, grew out of the young woman's death, which was claimed to have resulted from the administration of bichloride of mercury for antiseptic purposes.

Further arrests on warrants for defendants named in 14 of the indictments were being sought Friday night, according to Sheriff Brailey.

Death Takes Noted Distiller and Wit

EAST GRINSTEAD, Sussex, England, April 11. (US)—Lord Dewar, distiller and wit, is dead tonight at his home here. The famous Scot coiner of epigrams and maker of fine whisky was 66, and unmarried.

Lord Dewar, born in Perth in 1864, managed the firm of John Dewar & Sons, Ltd., distillers, and was interested in other distilling enterprises. He held several prominent municipal offices in London early in his life.

Distiller that he was, and fond of his own product, he still had courage enough to write several pamphlets on prohibition, several of them being known to American readers. But more noted are his witticisms, and his praise of the American sense of humor.

Radio Directs Planes In 'War' Maneuvers

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Calif., April 11. (US)—From far off scattered stations in the sky, units of the blue provisional wing were summoned by radio today to repulse the invasion of an "enemy" air fleet.

Operating under sealed orders the various flights moved into battle with only radio directions to guide them. They took to the air with no knowledge of what their missions of the day were to be.

It was a stringent test of the radio's efficiency in time of war, but one which was met successfully, according to staff officers.

COURT SETS HEARING ON BEARDEN PLEA

Martin to Consider Petition For New Trial of Oil Suit April 26

TEXAS LEASE UPHELD

Bearden Wins Child's Share Of Oil Produced, but Loses Lease Claims

A hearing on the formal notice for a new trial filed Friday in the 30th district court at Graham in behalf of Lee O. Bearden, following an instructed verdict in favor of the defendants in the suit brought by him and others against the Texas company and more than a score of other defendants, will be held here Saturday, April 26, according to information given Friday evening by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court, who presided as special judge in the case at Graham.

Instructed Verdict

The verdict returned by the jury according to Judge Martin's instructions will not affect that portion of Bearden's claim in which he asked a child's share of revenue from oil already produced from land which had belonged to his father, although it denied Bearden's request for cancellation of leases on the valuable oil land in Young county, the judge explained.

The verdict Friday brought to a close a trial which had been in progress since March 31. Judge Martin, of the 89th district court in Wichita county, occupied the bench at the special session of the 30th court at Graham because Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district was disqualified by reason of having previously represented certain of the litigants in the suits as attorney.

The suit was brought following Bearden's return to Young county about a year ago after he had been adjudged legally dead under the seven years of absence statute. A portion of the money claimed by him, it was explained, was distributed among other heirs following his father's death and during his absence. The estate left in his father's will was estimated to be worth about $3,000,000 and was divided among the elder Bearden's wife and their children, including Lee Bearden. Evidence brought out in the trial showed that he had disappeared, however, and after his being adjudged legally dead, the portion of the property left to him was distributed among the other heirs.

Award to Child

With Lee Bearden's reappearance about a year ago, a claim to a full share in all oil produced, past and future, under leases on the land, was filed in his behalf by Judge John Kay of this city, who also sought to obtain cancellation of leases which had been given on the land during Bearden's absence. This latter action brought a large number of oil companies into the suit.

An award of approximately $3,000 and a monthly allowance was made to Bearden's child by his former wife, a resident of California, who sued to protect the interests of their child in any award which might be made to her former husband. Evidence offered in the trial pointed out that Bearden spent most of the time during his absence in California.

Bearden's share in the proceeds from oil production on the land in the past amounts to a one-tenth interest and cannot be claimed for more than two years back, Judge Martin explained. Payment of this amount, which will approximate $200 a month, devolves upon the other heirs, among whom Lee Bearden's share was divided after he was adjudged legally dead, the judge said.

The defendant oil companies in the suit will be liable for payment of Bearden's share in the oil royalties only from the time of his reappearance, no payments having been made by the companies holding the leases since the suit was filed, Judge Martin pointed out. Future royalties from the land will be paid him by the companies.

Graham Boys and Seymour Girls Victors in Finals; Wichita Falls Students Among Declamation Winners

Young and Baylor counties carried off debating honors in the annual district interscholastic league meet Friday when the boys' team of Graham and the girls' team of Seymour were awarded decisions in the final events of the two divisions. The two teams will represent district No. 4 at the state meet in Austin early in May.

Wichita Falls Eliminated

Edwin Graham and Carnye Kemp youthful debaters from Graham, carried their school's colors to victory in the finals by defeating Thomas Milam and C. B. Morris of Seymour. PLOT TO KILL JUDGE PROBED

Man and Woman Held in Fort Worth Case

FORT WORTH, April 11. (UP)—An alleged plot to kill a district judge was disclosed here late Friday afternoon in the filing of complaints against three persons charged with conspiracy.

S. Q. Hutchens and Miss Z. B. Stevenson were named in the complaints as having conspired with Sam Prather to kill Judge James E. Mercer and Dexter Scurlock, attorney.

Scurlock is chairman of the Fort Worth and Tarrant county bar association committee which recently preferred charges against Hutchens that resulted in his disbarment as an attorney. The attorney's hearing was held before Judge Mercer in 67th district court.

Miss Stevenson is associated with Hutchens in his law office. Both denied knowledge of the alleged plot.

Prather is a private detective and was one of the body guards of former Gov. Jake Walton of Oklahoma.

After Walton's impeachment he returned to his vocation as a detective.

He came to Fort Worth from Tulsa.

HIGH PRESSURE THREATENS TO BURST GATES

Tremendous Flow Liberated After Brief Period of Full Control

NEW TESTS STARTED

Five Wells to Drill for Rich Lime Formation Near Gusher

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, April 11.—The entire flow of Nash and Windfohr's No. 1 McCloud, greatest "light" oil well ever drilled in Texas was thrown into storage tanks for one hour late today and the actual gauge showed 990 barrels during the 60 minutes. At that rate the gusher would produce 23,760 barrels in 24 hours.

The tremendous pressure showed signs of blowing out the control head and the stream was liberated after the brief test. The owners said tonight the well cannot be brought under complete control before the middle of next week.

Five new tests will be ready to begin digging for the fabulously rich lime pay as soon as the danger of fire has been eliminated. This was assured as the result of the four days of trading which followed blowing in of the gusher Tuesday.

More Tests Expected

Work was started today on definite preparations to drill wells northwest, southeast, east and west of the banner producer. Field men believed this number will be greatly increased by late next week when a number of pending trades will have been consummated.

The battle to save every barrel of the 41 gravity oil possible went ahead today faster than ever. Teams dragging graders and scrapers threw up scores of earthen tanks to care for the unrestrained flood of crude overnight, and all ravines, ditches and depressions in the vicinity filled deeper and deeper with oil.

To supplement the work of the Prairie Pipe Line company, which is now taking the maximum oil it can handle from the producer, the Texas company is rushing a pipe line to the McCloud lease. It will be three or four days before this project is completed and in the meantime the well must be allowed to flow uncontrolled, except for the approximate 300 barrels per hour running into the tanks. The other 690 barrels now is allowed to run down the hillside to be caught in earthen traps and creeks.

Rush Continues

The rush of oil men to Graham has not subsided and every hotel was accommodating an overflow of guests. The downtown streets have the appearance of a small city on circus day and indeed Graham now has a show of greater interest than any "big top" ever unfurled here.

Trading operations have gone ahead at a fast clip since the rush began, although it would appear there is much more dickering than actual trading. A rumor on the streets today that Nash and Windfohr had turned down an offer of several million dollars in cash for their McCloud lease as it stands could not be confirmed. The owners were said to be too busy even to talk business with prospective buyers.

The definite results of the trading which has been done so far, however, thrilled business men here who are assured of something like boom activity for months to come.

Wells Located

Roser and Pendleton, San Angelo operators, today closed a deal to drill a well on the McCloud land, about 1200 feet north of the Nash and Windfohr well.

This concern also prepared to begin work on their No. 1 George Arnold, 2000 feet west and slightly north of the giant.

Heavy Robbery Penalty Assessed Leader of Attack on Vernon Jailer

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 11.—A few hours after he had led an attack on Jailer J. D. Linton in an attempted jail break, Virgil Stalcup was sentenced to 45 years in prison after a jury found him guilty on a charge of robbery with firearms in connection with the robbery of a filling station.

Stalcup faces another similar charge here, and has just been indicted for robbery in Wichita county. He was recently sentenced to 30 years in prison on a robbery charge at Amarillo.

The jailer was severely beaten when Stalcup, Delbert Tibbs and Ardell Bloom, also facing robbery charges, and under indictment for similar offenses in Wichita county, attacked him as he was passing out food Thursday night. He was struck over the head five times by a broom handle wrapped with wire before he broke away from his captors and subdued them with his gun. He is reported to be recovering.

TRIO INDICTED HERE THURSDAY

The three prisoners named in an attack upon J. D. Linton, Vernon jailer, in the Wilbarger county jail Thursday night were all indicted on robbery charges in Wichita county by the 30th district grand jury here Thursday, Sam Spence, district attorney said Friday night.

Virgil Stalcup, alleged leader of the attempted jail break, is charged with the holdup of a filling station at Tenth and Denver streets several months ago. He is already under an aggregate sentence of 75 years imprisonment. Ardell Bloom and Delbert Tibbs were indicted here for the holdup of E. N. Neale on the Electra-Iowa Park highway on April 1, Mr. Spence said. All three are under similar charges in Wilbarger county.

contracted to drill their No. 1 Jackson southeast of the McCloud.

Rathke Oil company of Wichita Falls spudded in its No. 1 Phillips-Chandler, about 1800 feet east of the McCloud, but shut down immediately to await lessening of the fire menace, occasioned by the constant gas flow in the gusher.

Pitzer and West, successful pioneers in the Morrison field just northeast of Graham, have erected a rig 300 feet south of the Nash and Windfohr derrick and will begin drilling as soon as it is safe to fire the pots.

Other Pools Attract

The operators gathered here are not forgetting the Shaw-Kissinger pool in the southern part of the county, one of the most active fields in Texas today. Four wells, each approaching 1,000 barrels each, have been completed there recently and others will be brought in within the next few days.

While scouting the northern half of the county the visitors have inspected the new Olney townsite pool where exceptionally good producers are being completed in the 1,000-foot levels. In his area the wells are put down with light drilling machines in a few days' time and the profits for the successful operator are all but unbelievable.

Graham citizens Friday night prepared to witness the greatest crowds here Saturday since the Young county fair was held. A constant flow of automobiles on every highway has brought thousands of persons from near and distant points who want to see a big gusher in action or who want to get on the ground floor in the event the boom assumes more permanent aspects.

Symphony Plays Graham Concert

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, April 11.—The Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra delighted an audience of several hundred people here Friday evening in a spring concert sponsored by the Graham Music club. The performance was given in the new auditorium and attracted one of the largest crowds yet assembled there. The orchestra is conducted by Ethel Allen Nelson.

Miss Harriett Bradley, soloist for the orchestra, charmed her hearers with a group of three songs. Mrs. J. E. Hall and William Luther Donnell, violin soloists, gave several effective numbers, and little Arthur Davis of Temple, Okla., boy musician, won applause with his rendition of the solo theme in "Lovely Mary Anne." Madame Delphine Baleuwa offered a series of interpretative dances.

After the concert, audience and artists joined in a dance on the stage of the auditorium and refreshments were served.

Youngstown Stockholders Vote In Favor of Merger

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 11. (AP)—Ratification of the billion dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem Steel corporation was announced at a Sheet and Tube stockholders meeting today.

The stockholders voted 857,821 Sheet and Tube shares for the merger, 790,741 shares being necessary to carry it.

The inspectors of election ruled that there were no protests allowed.

Resolution Adopted

The number of shares which voted against the merger were not reported. President Frank Purnell of Sheet and Tube declared the resolution for the merger adopted.

Under the terms of the merger agreement approved by the Sheet and Tube board of directors March 12, Bethlehem would begin taking over the $300,000,000 properties of Sheet and Tube immediately.

In the meantime, Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, and his merger opposition forces will continue litigation to declare the merger illegal.

Eaton said he would have a statement later. Ferdinand E. Berstadt of Cleveland, partner with Eaton in Otis & Co., said "this is just the beginning."

Long Session

Attorneys for the merger opponents said, that if subsequent court rulings throw out the protested ballots, the merger would not have enough votes to continue it in force. Opponents say there are 91,000 protested ballots.

The stockholders' meeting adjourned at 6 p. m., having been in seven sessions since Tuesday, when the merger vote was taken.

SUN TORTURES WHEAT BELT

Entire Southwest Broils in April Drouth

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11. (UP)—Mid-summer weather and desert like atmospheres over the grain belt of the Southwest which is costing farmers upwards of $1,000,000 daily, sent farmers to their beds tonight perplexed and worried.

Weather men offered little relief and rain prophecies were for scattered showers tomorrow. The entire Southwest had temperatures in the 90's today. Temperatures tomorrow will recede generally, weather forecasts said.

The unusual weather prevailed from the gulf to northern parts of Nebraska and a strong Southwest wind which tore tender wheat shoots from the soil and which caused severe dust storms added to the destruction of the crop. The wind further damaged the crop by taking what little moisture that was left around the roots of the young wheat.

Temperatures of 90 and upwards prevailed in western Kansas and in parts of Oklahoma. Topeka, Kansas capital, and located in the heart of a rich farming belt, had a new April record and at Manhattan, the mercury soared high enough to break a 71-year-record.

At Kansas City the mercury climbed today for the second time above the all time record for April, established in 1906. The fire menace was imminent. Eighty-four blazes, including several major fires, were reported here.

The unusual weather will cause heavy losses to cattlemen, farm experts said, for much pasture lands is being damaged.

WICHITA COUNTY CROP DAMAGED

Small grain drops in Wichita county and the surrounding territory have already been damaged and are in danger of suffering irreparable injury from continued dry weather, according to a survey by G. C. McGown, Wichita county agricultural agent.

Dry land grain fields not under irrigation must have rain at once if the tender stalks are not to be dried up, the agent declared. The unseasonably hot weather would not hurt the grains if enough moisture could be had, he declared.

Danger to the crops has been increased by an epidemic of chinch bugs which are infesting oats and barley through wide areas, Mr. McGown added.

Liquor Seized In Raid at Electra

One man was arrested and 23 half-gallons and nine pints of whisky were seized Friday afternoon by Dick Morris, deputy sheriff with the aid of Electra officers in a raid on an alleged bootlegging establishment in Electra.

The liquor was found buried in the garden behind the man's house, Mr. Morris reported. A search of the place had revealed no liquor until the buried contraband was discovered. The officers went to work with a spade and pitchfork and unearthed the jars and bottles. The man was brought here and lodged in the county jail Friday evening.

Deputy Morris was assisted in the raid by O. E. Whisenand, Electra constable, and Walter Suttle, Electra police officer.

Annie Lee Marshall and Audia Knight, Graham girl debaters bowed in defeat to the Petrolia team in the first round, and Electra defeated Evelyn Franklin and Charlotte Joiner, of Wichita Falls in the opening preliminaries.

The Bowie repercsentatives, Merle Slaughter and Geraldine Mitchell drew a bye in the first round and were downed by Electra in the second contest.

Maurice Monroe, representative of Wichita county from Iowa Park placed first in the extemporaneous speaking contest, with Hal Ray and Barton Newell of Wichita Falls and Nocona second and third respectively.

Declamations

Winners of the declamation contest Friday night represented six of the 10 counties. Miss Margaret Bone, Wichita Falls representative, won first in the high school girls' contest, senior division, with Dorothy Harmon and Charlie Thomas McGraw receiving second and third places respectively. In the high school senior boys' division, Joe Turner of Electra ranked first, and Joe Witherspoon and William Loving second and third.

Patsy McGregor of Wichita Falls and Roy Nunnally of Electra were chosen for first place honors in the junior divisions. Scott Casey from Olney, Elizabeth Cox from Valley View, J. B. Hubbard of Wichita Falls and Virginia Hammer of Harrold were awarded second and third places.

Rural senior honors were given to Ernest Duckworth of Farmers Valley, and Bernice McDonald of Taylor. Imogene Huber from Bunger and Frances Walker of Weeth received second place honors, and third place was given to Francis Forrester of Newport and Lawrence Klein from Ikard.

TRAIN CRASHES INTO HUGE BUS

19 Occupants of Stage Die In Collision

Davis, said when he realized the crash must occur, he clamped on the brakes and had slowed down to 38 miles an hour when his locomotive struck the stage. The train was partially derailed.

Bodies were strewn along the right of way. Only two large tires remained as mute evidence to the damage wrought by the collision and flames. Tourists and Indians from a nearby pueblo were the first to arrive on the scene. But they could do nothing without ambulances which did not arrive from Albuquerque and other nearby communities until a half hour after the crash.

Victim Crazed

Crazed by the shock and injuries, one survivor wandered about the wreckage calling for his wife and child and, unable to find them, threw himself on the ground with the plea that he wanted to die, too.

"Apparently the bus driver attempted to turn parallel with the track when he saw he could not beat the train to the crossing," said Davis, the engineer. "The locomotive sideswiped the bus and carried parts of it a half mile."

C. W. Atwater of Albuquerque, one of the first to reach the wreck, said, "It was a terrible scene. Bodies were strewn everywhere. Some of them had been decapitated by the impact, some were armless and some were legless."

Driver Killed

Homer Stein and Conrad Heubers credited their escape to the fact that they were on the side of the bus opposite to that struck by the locomotive. Both said the driver, F. D. Williams of Albuquerque, a relief driver between Gallup and Albuquerque, was among those killed. Stein, of San Francisco, and Heubers, of Los Angeles, were traveling eastward together.

Tonight six bodies lay in one Albuquerque morgue, and in another were 12 or 13—there was no certainty. At best, only parts of bodies could be assembled in some instances. The mail train, of which George Irwin was the conductor, was held at the point it stopped from 9:27 o'clock in the morning, the time of the accident, until late in the afternoon awaiting an investigation by a coroner's jury.

Jury Dismissed

The jury, taken to the scene, was dismissed until positive identification of the bodies had been established.

The crossing where the crash occurred is open and on level ground, a half mile from the Indian pueblo. The highway is paved.

The motor bus regulation department of the New Mexico corporation commission ordered a complete report from the Pickwick Greyhound lines of Kansas City, Mo.

Mrs. M. N. Fielder, chief clerk for the bus line at Denver, said apparently the bus was behind schedule.

The stage line has had several other accidents, of a comparatively minor nature, in this territory. Last month a loaded bus skidded on an icy pavement at Tecolote, near Las Vegas, N. M., and overturned, injuring 21 persons, two seriously.

Groom of 60 Held for Alleged 'Attempt to Swindle Bride of 70

An injunction restraining a 60-year-old Clay county man from disposing of property he was alleged to have swindled from the 70-year-old wife he married about a year ago was granted Friday by Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court here for Judge Vincent Stine of the 97th district court at Henrietta. Judge Cook was asked to take the action in place of Judge Stine, who was in Dallas and unable to grant the injunction prior to an examining trial set for Saturday in Henrietta.

It was alleged, Judge Cook said, that the aged man persuaded his wife to sign deeds allowing him to sell land she owned before their marriage. He was said to have disposed of a part of the property in a deal with several other men, she having asked the injunction to prevent his disposing of the remainder. He was subsequently jailed at Henrietta on a charge of swindling and an examining trial was set for Saturday, Judge Cook said.

The 70-year-old woman also brought suit for divorce from her husband at the same time she petitioned for the injunction, the judge said. The restraining action granted Friday was made returnable in Clay county.

Zundelowitz' Love for Wichita 'Easily Understood,' Says Visitor Here

Harry Cowen of Santa Monica Calif., representing the estate of Albert Zundelowitz, philanthropist and former pioneer resident of this city who died some time ago in California, arrived in Wichita Falls Friday on a short business trip in connection with affairs of the estate left by Mr. Zundelowitz.

Legal action seeking to alter the terms of the aged man's will, brought by relatives who claimed undue pressure was brought to bear on Mr. Zundelowitz by other relatives at the time the will was made, was recently dropped, Mr. Cowen said. The purpose of his visit here, he explained, was to confer with J. L. Jackson Jr., manager of the Zundelowitz properties here.

"I wish to express my deepest gratitude to those persons in Wichita Falls who offered their assistance in removing from court the contest of Mr. Zundelowitz' will," Mr. Cowen told a Record News reporter Friday evening.

"The heirs of the estate have expressed their desire to carry out the wishes of Mr. Zundelowitz in Wichita Falls, and we hope to maintain his interests in this city which he loved so well.

"This is my second visit here and I have had an opportunity to drive about the city and to meet its citizens. I can well understand the love Mr. Zundelowitz held for Wichita Falls and its people, for I have learned to love them myself, for their hospitality, friendship and human sympathy."

Mr. Cowen is stopping at the Holt hotel during his visit here.

"We would not fail to mention the exhibit of handiwork in the trade store which furnished us with many ideas. To Mrs. George A. Patterson we express our appreciation for her untiring efforts as secretary of the convention. To the program committee we are extremely grateful for the many inspiring and helpful numbers, and to the local newspapers and the reporters who helped us."

The resolution was signed by Mrs. B. T. Adams of Wichita Falls, Mrs. D. B. Parker of Vernon and Mrs. Charles Smarjain of Quanah.

Following the business session, a special musical number was given by Mrs. E. F. Lyon of the First Baptist church of Vernon, and Dr. W. R. White of Dallas spoke on "The Heart of the Gospel."

GET IN OR GET OUT

Daily Editorial

THE ALIEN groups lifting loudest voice against further restriction of immigration must blame themselves for fast-closing gates.

Their refusal to assimilate—together with a considerable inclination to support unlocal doctrines—are the chief influences shutting their kinsman out of the country.

Too many of such folk have come here from the least progressive regions of Europe, and with no intention of making America their permanent home.

They do not marry our women, and the fewest of them send back for their own.

No responsibility binds them to the fortunes of the United States. The only inducement that drew them, and that holds them, is the wage scale.

Naturalization cannot capture their hopes or allegiance. Their views are moulded by foreign language newspapers oftener than the English-speaking press. They are not aware of our backgrounds, the supreme fervors of our history.

They care nothing for our past, because it does not concern their future plans.

Their compelling interest in this country is momentary and monetary.

WITH NO investments or ties at stake and therefore with no fortunes or families to inherit the consequences of community hurt, any system that offers the quickest personal profit, soonest enlists their applause.

There is no room in America for people who regard the republic simply as a purse, or an experimental station for radicalism.

We continue to welcome all intending partners of our common enterprise, but we have no trust or crust to waste upon more opportunities who decline to contribute fealty and veins to our destiny.

What we most need is a cut-bait-or-fish Americanization act, carrying a definite period within which foreigners must take the oath of allegiance, or return home.

The melting pot won't function for posterity until its ultimatum is, "Get in or get out."

Those Who Run May Be Passed

HARNESSING of elemental and mechanical for the use of mankind through the application of science to media of transportation represents one of the most rapid and amazing developments in civilization to date.

There has been a double quickening of achievement. With each succeeding mode of travel which has been evolved through the endless human conquest of the world, there has come a correspondingly shorter period for its approximate perfection.

It would be difficult to obtain even a fairly accurate estimate as to the length of time through which man moved only by direct pushing of his own arms and legs against land or water. Transportation astride beasts was merely a modification of that primitive means of getting from place to place—muscles supplying the sole motive power, and accomplishing he task unaided.

With the use of ships by sea and wheels by land, inventive genius and aid of the elements was introduced. How many centuries of shallow water paddling and short distance sailing were required for the development of ships which would carry Columbus across the Atlantic!

Then the steamship, and almost simultaneously the steam-drawn wagons which became "the railroad." To their speedy development came the accumulated experience and scientific knowledge of centuries, and within a single human lifetime they had received probably 80 per cent of all the perfection which would be given them for service to mankind.

Twenty-five years ago 99 per cent of our American population had never seen an automobile, and almost that portion knew nothing whatever of its nature or appearance. During the succeeding score of years we stood amazed at the tremendous speed with which manufacturer and public motorized the world. The family which in 1914 bumped along the road in a spring wagon and glared with resentment through a cloud of dust at the automobile which tore madly down the road at 25 miles an hour, glided over paved roads in a closed de luxe model in 1924.

But the automobile's meteoric rise has now been eclipsed in speed quite as effectively as was the old spring wagon on the dusty road. Commercial aviation is the latest conqueror, not only in miles per hour, but in development and acceptance by the public. The automobile accomplished in 20 years what the railroads required four times that long to accomplish; and in approximately three years, commercial aviation apparently has been given as great a degree of development and patronage as the automobile gained in its first score of years.

The growth of transportation facilities for an ever increasing population reflects one of the most tremendous and romantic accomplishments of human intelligence. And it raises the question as to where, if ever, the limit of speed will be reached.

Where the Democrats Are Wet

NORTH DAKOTA DEMOCRATS, in state convention assembled, demand the repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. Indeed, they made the demand the principal plank in the platform upon which the party candidates will make the race for state and national offices next fall. Their leaders declared that they felt the anti-prohibition stand of the party gives it a real chance for victory.

Lest we forget, the plank on the liquor question asserted North Dakota Democrats favor temperance and are against the saloon, but that "10 years under prohibition has resulted in a reign of intemperance in words, expenditure of money, crime and corruption." There is another plank dealing with nation-wide prohibition. It reads as follows: "Prohibition has robbed the farmer of his market for corn, rye, barley and hops, thereby throwing farm production out of balance and resulting in overproduction in wheat, overproduction of feed grains and the general and complete breakdown in land value and ruination to the farmer, not only in North Dakota but in all agricultural districts." North Dakota is an agricultural commonwealth. Many of the leading men of the state are committed to the method of government control now in effect in Sweden, Norway and provinces of Canada.

In 1920 the political leaders of the country, Republicans as well as Democrats, declared prohibition a settled business. Is it? In 1930 it is more acute as an issue than it was 10 years ago.

Cosgrove Continues to Hold the Reins

WILLIAM T. COSGROVE was re-elected president, or rather prime minister, of the Irish Free State. His government was defeated by a majority of two on the old age pension proposal. Cosgrove opposed the measure. He resigned. His cabinet resigned. What happened is ancient history. Another session of the Free State parliament was held. Cosgrove was re-elected by a majority of 17 over Edward De Valera, who is touring the cities of the United States soliciting funds for the establishment of a De Valera daily newspaper in Dublin.

Cosgrave is for peace, prosperity and progress, and the maintaining of friendly relations with all governments. De Valera is for an Irish republic. He would cut loose from Great Britain and north Ireland if an appeal to the sword and the machine gun called for it.

Edward De Valera is American born. He is the son of a Spanish father and an Irish mother. He should remain in America and permit the Irish in the Irish Free State to work out their own destiny.

Stimson & Co. Billed for Return Trip

COL. HENRY L. STIMSON, secretary of state in the official family of Herbert Hoover, and his fellow American delegates have reserved cabins on a big ocean liner for the homeward journey April 22. "Hope for a five-power agreement is being abandoned and the belief is that the conference cannot last much longer than that date," is the substance of a London news cablegram.

George Washington, conqueror of the British in the days long ago and first president of the American republic, in his farewell address warned his countrymen against the folly as well as the danger of alliances with foreign powers. His farewell address has not been expunged from the record of American history. His deeds as a soldier, his sacrifices as a statesman, his messages to his countrymen are as virile today as when he held the reins of government of a tiny republic that has blossomed into the greatest power of modern times.

Jewelers on the Warpath

JEWELERS are wiring protest to their representatives and senators sounding their opposition to the 30 per cent tariff on silver recently proposed in congress.

If Moses the law giver should come back to earth and be crowned official tariff maker for a day, he would be unable to write a tariff measure acceptable to all conditions of men under the skies of America. It just can't be done.

In making a tariff bill, the wise lawmaker plucks the feathers in a way which causes the goose to squawk the least. Clumsy bunglers, mostly among the makers of things, fail to pluck the feathers lightly and now the goose, in other words the common people, is squawking from midnight hour until all the goslings come home to roost.

WALTER WINCHELL

On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Man About Town

He was, until last night, the only Rounder and Big Spender on Broadway we ever knew personally. But, for the past five years we have been amused and interested from a distance, watching him toy with the Canyon's grandest gals and then toss them away as you would hurl rubbish. He is a fast worker. If a girl attracts him, he doesn't care whose gal she is—married or single—if he wants her, he tries to bag her.

"And why not?" he queried after we had been introduced to him, "why not? I can afford it and few girls refuse a $500 note." Then he explained that he never gets fresh with the girls after giving them all that coin. "I take my time," he said, "some day, you know. Some day!"

We listened to him unfold his system. It was amazing. His favorite method of giving a girl coin was to slip it into her hand and then walk away. To arouse her curiosity, he said. "When you give a girl a lot of money they are bound to like you." The mob will tell you that he is successful nine times out of 10.

"I have wondered for a long time," he added, "why you never mentioned my name or my game." We explained that we never intentionally wrote about married men or women who took holidays.

"Do you think I'm a bad man?" he queried.

"No," we told him, "not bad. But you take an unfair advantage over the other fellow. Few men can compete with you and your dough." He chuckled. He liked that. Then after several rounds of fun milk he became moody and sentimental. "Do you know why I go out after every woman I can get?" he asked. And before we could reply he told of a one-time famous beauty whom he adored. "I loved that girl and I vowed I'd chuck all the others for her. I went for ermines, a Rolls-Royce and all the other things, and for a long time she was an the level with me. Then one night I happened into a speakeasy and the head waiter said: 'You don't go around with Miss Soandso, any more, do you?

"I felt that something was wrong and pumped the waiter. 'No,' I said, 'why?'

"Because I saw her with her old sweetheart again at a show last night. So I figured you two had busted up."

The shock of the two-timing drove him mad, he thundered. "But," he said, "I've regretted the night I walked into that speakeasy, for if I hadn't I might not have heard about her cheating. What you don't know don't hurt you and it was the first time I was crossed by a woman. I've evened matters since, though. I go for every gal around town and I get rid of them soon after."

The girl in question died a few months ago. He was criticized at the time for "stranding" her when she needed help most. "That was unfair," he said. "I didn't strand her, she crossed me. And if I never went into that speakeasy I wouldn't have known about it, and I would not have gone away to forget. I would have been here when she was ill and engaged the finest doctors, not the Broadway ham doctors they could afford to get for her. She would have been alive maybe and I wouldn't have been so miserable fooling around these other women who couldn't compare with her." He was on the verge of tears. "I know that I loved her," he continued, "and my only consolation is believing that she must have loved me because they told me that just before she passed away she mentioned my name."

A lad who was seated at the next table had been listening to our gab for hours. He turned and softly said: "If you don't mind, gentlemen, will you please tell me the name of the girl you've been talking about?"

"Sure," said the Spender, and he mentioned it.

The lad thanked him. "I thought maybe I knew her," he said as he took his departure.

"Who was that bird?" the Spender asked us.

"If I told you his name," we replied, "I would tell you the name that was on her lips when she died."

The "what-you-don't-know-won't-hurt-you" adage snugly fits this story, too. It was unfolded the other night in one of the mid-night-to-yawning places and concerns a well known vaudeville headliner. While appearing in a mid-Western city he received word that his brother, Joe, the black sheep of the family, had been killed in a gun fight. The headliner cancelled his bookings and hastened to Chicago to bury his brother—next to the graves of the grandmother and grandfather.

His little old mother, who never quite mastered the English language since she came to America from the old country, asked a neighbor to read a letter that came from her actor son. The actor had written in part: ". . . You will be overjoyed, I know, to hear about Joe. He is on his way to Palestine, where he has a chance to make a name for himself, dear. The job came suddenly, a government job. And he didn't have time to write you about it. It is a fine opportunity for Joe, mother, but I'm afraid the job will keep him in Palestine for many, many years."

The mother, who dwelled in the same state, was thrilled, to be sure. But she wanted more news about her Joe. So she came to Chicago to hear about him from her other son—in their own tongue. Before returning to her home town, however, she visited the resting places of her mother and father, and the irony of it is, that in reaching her parents' graves she had to step over her Joe's.

The neatest trick of the week happened in one of the countless local speakeasies. A federal agent ankled into the place and stepped up to the bar. "Gentlemen," he said in an affable tone, "I'm the new boss around here. Have a drink on me." The owner of the place, who officiates as bartender, asked the stranger if he meant it—that part of buying a drink for everyone in the joint. "Sure I mean it," he said, "give them all a drink." The bartender complied.

"Have another," chirped the federal agent, and the bar hounds were treated to a second round.

After serving the second snifter the bartender said to the federal agent. "That'll cost you exactly $14."

"Very reasonable," said the agent, as he flashed his shield, "give them all another drink and then put on your hat and come with me.

All the fuss in the papers about Yancey and his flight to Bermuda falls off the knife of a certain New Jersey man who has been in the giggle water business of some time. He flies his own plane to Hamilton, Bermuda, in seven and a half hours from a Jersey airport, leaving land at Baltimore. . . . He doesn't seek any publicity, of course and makes the trip frequently and travels a la Lindbergh . . . His record to Montreal is three hours and he once made Washington in 55 minutes from the Highlands with a good tail wind . . . And his intimates will tell you his head has swelled to such a size he now uses a sponge for a shaving brush.

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Terris has agreed to marry her wealthy employer, Frank Patterson, whom she does not love, in payment for a loan of $5,000 to send her sick mother to Arizona. Since making her contract, she has fallen in love with Patterson's nephew, Mark Loring. Loring asks Patterson for her release, but he defiantly refuses. Fania Crandall, a crook posing as a society woman induces Gay to impersonate her at the Van Schyler masquerade. A valuable necklace is stolen at the ball and Gay learns through Paul Ladishaw, Fania's accomplice, that Fania is the thief. Fania learns this and in order to get her out of town, cleverly traps her by sending a wire stating that her mother is seriously ill and requesting that she go to Arizona at once. Ladishaw prevents her going by telling her Fania's plan. She tries to get in touch with Loring at his hotel but learns he has not reported for several days. Penniless, she goes to Nita Rollins, an office companion, and gets temporary lodging. She obtains work as a waitress in a cafe.

CHAPTER XXXIII

The more Gay thought about his absence the more puzzled she became. His business had been finished—his note to her had explained that. She found it again, in her purse, and looked at it a long time. Yes, his business here was finished. . . .

Should she call the farm and find out whether Mr. Patterson had seen him—since that night?

She didn't want to. How could she ask this question of Frank Patterson?

Then because she felt she must find out for herself whether Mark had been at the farm again, she put in her call, and sat quivering at the phone until she got her connection.

A maid answered first—Emma she thought, but she didn't recognize her voice—then Patterson's quick abrupt voice.

"This is Gay, Mr. Patterson. Gay Terris." The agony of talking to him after what had happened yesterday. . . . "I wanted to know if you'd heard from Mark—"

"I don't see why you should ask me that. I should think you'd know where to find him. No, I haven't heard from him—and I don't expect to."

"Oh—"

"Gay—your things are still here. Where do you want me to send them?"

She told him, and was about to hang up, when he asked her if she wouldn't have lunch with him the next day. She refused as politely as she could.

It was when she was arranging the couch for her bed that the thought of Fania struck her. Mrs. Crandall might know where Mark was!

Suddenly she was afraid again.

Nita's comments on her new job still stung a little. Gay bit her lips when she thought of them. Nita's superiority, her conceit never displayed itself more than when she was giving her order to a waitress.

"My dear, you don't mean to say you're a waitress," Nita had exclaimed at breakfast which Gay had prepared. "Couldn't you get anything else to do?"

Gay hadn't answered then, but the remark was fresh in her mind, she couldn't forget it.

She didn't mind the tea room today. There was so much work to do that she hardly had time to think. Her tables were full all the time, and she tried to be as patient as she could. Now and then Mrs. Ross gave her a word of encouragement, for she saw how hard the girl was working.

After the luncheon rush, she had time to slip to the phone and call the Knickerbocker hotel. Again she was disappointed. Mark hadn't come in yet. The idea that Mrs. Crandall had something to do with his strange absence was growing in her mind. She had dreamed about him last night, and mingled in the dream had been Fania, with her green eyes, her thin face, the snake necklace around her white throat. Fania, simple, girlish in the plain brown linen suit. Fania, regal, gorgeous in a gold cloth cape. Fania smoking, dropping her ashes on the white bear skin rug.

Gay had debated whether she should phone Fania, go to see her. Ask her pointblank about Mark. She shrank from it. Tomorrow if Mark didn't come back she would go. After all, he might be away on business. Her mind rejected this, for the note he had left suggested that all his business was completed.

Patterson's chauffeur had rung the bell that morning, just before she had left, with her clothes, packed carefully in her two old suitcases. His contributions to her wardrobe were excluded, she saw thankfully. She wondered whether the wedding dress she had hated so was still hanging in the closet at the farm, or whether it has been returned to the shop where it had been purchased. At any rate, she would never see it again.

A terrible thing she had done. Breaking her word like this. She could not help it. If she hadn't known Mark she would have gone through with the marriage, would have been unhappy all her life. Knowing him had given her happiness.

What if she had married Mr. Patterson, loving Mark? Wanting him? All her life longing for him? The misery of it. The agony.

What if Mark didn't come back? If she never saw him again? She had been afraid to express this fear before. God! Let him come back. . . . I love him so!

At 4 o'clock there were some arrivals for tea—most of Gay's tables were filled again, for the tearoom was immensely popular at all times. She had taken her orders and was coming back from the kitchen with a tray of cakes and iced tea, when she noticed that her table in the corner, most secluded of her lot, was being occupied by a lady. When she had finished her service at her other tables, she approached this secluded one, and slipped a menu into the woman's hands. Fania looked up at her and half smiled.

"You!" Gay backed away a little.

"Yes, are you surprised?"

"Did you know I was here?"

"Of course. Otherwise I wouldn't have come."

Trying to be extremely business like, Gay took her order, and moved off to the kitchen. She was shaking all over, and could hardly control herself as she prepared one pot of the hot water, and another of tea. That Mrs. Crandall should come to seek her out, here . . . What did she want? Why did she have to come?

The girl's lips were pressed together firmly, as she entered the dining room with her tray. Since Fania was here, she could ask her about Mark.

Mrs. Crandall smiled as she poured her tea, and placed a bit of lemon in it.

"Sit down, won't you?" she invited.

"I can't—here," Gay was gripping the back of a chair, looking down at Fania. She was thinking of the last time she had seen her—in her boudoir thankful that Fania had offered her the trip to Arizona. Ready to promise anything to her. Thinking bitterly of Fania's helpfulness, then, Paul was right. She was dangerous. She got what she wanted—always.

What would have happened to her then, if she had gone up in the plane? If Paul's warning came too late?

Fania was asking now for a slice of orange for her tea, so Gay obediently went and procured it, hating the nonchalant way Fania had demanded it. As if she, Gay, were a servant. She remembered how she had ordered Paul about and how he had obeyed . . .

"I want to ask you something," Gay faltered when she came back, and Fania had slipped the orange into her tea, and was holding the steaming cup to her lips.

"Yes?"

"Do you know where Mark Loring is?"

"Mark Loring?" Fania seemed to rack her brain to place his name. "I think you know whom I mean." The knuckles on Gay's fingers were white—she was pressing the chair so hard.

"Mark Loring—child, I haven't the slightest idea who he is."

"I'd like to know where he is—he's been gone from his hotel for several days—and I think you know where he is."

"I don't. Haven't the slightest idea." Fania's eyes met hers, and Gay tried to read them. Impossible. Fania might have been telling the truth or lying. The girl couldn't tell. "How could I know where he is?"

"I don't know, but I think you know."

"I don't go abducting strange men," and Fania laughed, as if the joke were immense. An edge to her laughter that grated on Gay. If only Fania wouldn't be so calm, so horribly calm about it. . . .

Then, suddenly, she didn't know why, except that Fania's laughter excited her, she was angry, furious.

"I want to know where Mark Loring is," she said very softly, but significantly. "You know and you're going to tell me."

"I don't know—"

"I'm going to the police tomorrow if you don't tell me. Tomorrow."

Fania laughed again. Her thin shoulders shook. "How foolish you are," she exclaimed as soon as she stopped.

"Tomorrow," Gay measured the words carefully, and pronounced them slowly, "I'm going to the police with everything. I shall call at Mark's hotel at 9. If he isn't there, I'll go to the police. That's quite final, Mrs. Crandall." She moved away from the table quickly. And she heard Fania laugh again. Tears of anger, humiliation came into the girl's eyes. Fania had no right laughing like that. No right . . . .

Had she made a fool of herself, threatening as she had? What she had said, she had said in anger. Well, she would keep her word. At 9 in the morning, as soon as the girls left she would call Mark's hotel. If there was still no word from him she would go to the police. Until tomorrow she would give Fania.

She busied herself at the other tables, in the kitchen, working twice as hard as she should, because she wanted to forget Mrs. Crandall sitting at the table in the corner, wanted to forget her laugh . . . her scorn.

One of the other girls finally told her her customer in the corner had gone, thinking Gay had forgotten, so she looked over. Fania had gone. She went to the table to clear away the few dishes, the two pots, hating to touch them, wanting to smash them wildly on the floor. The cup was stained with red around the rim. Fania's lipstick. Gay shivered, as she gingerly took it up, and put it on a tray.

Tomorrow—Gay reports to police.

What is your question? Whatever it may be, unless it be a request for legal, medical or financial advice, it will be answered without cost to you, and you will receive the reply in a personal letter. Write your question clearly and briefly, enclose two-cent stamp for return postage, and address The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Do animal sounds record well?—T. N. R.

A.—Animals are hard to take in sound pictures, according to a statement of Dr. Raymond Ditmars. The lion's roar sounds feeble, camels are difficult and wolves refuse to howl into a microphone. The sound record of a rattlesnake is realistic, as is the cobra's hiss. A major difficulty is getting the animal to respond at all.

Q.—What are the names of John Boles' children?—J. L.

A.—The little daughters of this stage and screen actor are Marcelite and Jeanette.

Q.—Have birds ever had teeth?—A. S.

A.—The first birds, which developed from the flying reptiles, all possessed teeth. As they progressed into the later stages of bird evolution, however, the teeth were lost, and there are now no living birds with teeth.

Q.—Who said that his definition of a university was Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and a student at the other?—D. S. H.

A.—This is attributed to James Garfield.

Q.—How did the Mummers' New Year's parade in Philadelphia originate?—E. I. J.

A.—It was the outcome of New Year's celebrations in various parts of the city. As the years rolled on, the individuals formed themselves into social groups and these later became the larger organizations; fantastic costumes were introduced. Later on, street parades were made up of the different marching organizations and in 1901 Philadelphia was looking about for a proper means to celebrate the dawn of a new century and at the suggestion of H. Bart McHugh, Mayor Samuel H. Ashbridge urged upon city councils the passage of an appropriation to make possible a parade in which all of the clubs joined.

Q.—When were Hitchcock chairs first made?—A. W. M.

A.—They were first made in Richtown, Conn., in 1820 by a cabinet maker named Hitchcock.

Q.—Who is the hero of the play, Julius Caesar? Who first played the role?—F. N.

A.—According to the general judgment of critics and actors, Brutus is the hero. He speaks 727 lines; Anthony, 327 lines; Cassius, 507 lines, and Caesar, 154 lines. Richard Burbage first played the role of Brutus.

Q.—How many grocers are there in the United States?—E. R.

A.—It is estimated that there are now from 350,000 to 400,000 retail grocers in this country and from 5,000 to 6,000 wholesale grocers.

Q.—When was the pump invented?—A. P.

A.—The pump dates back to the remotest period. The shadoof of Egypt is recorded as in use in 1500 B. C. Vitruvius, the Roman engineer, described a number of pumping machines. The first centrifugal pump was devised by a French, M. le Demour in 1732. The impulse pump was originally designed by Whitehurst, a watchmaker of Derby, England, in 1772, and perfected by Montgolfier, the famous balloonist, in 1796.

Q.—Where is the original emancipation proclamation?—R. G.

A.—It is in the state library at Albany, N. Y.

Q.—How does the number of miles of surfaced roads in the United States compare with the number in Europe?—H. T.

A.—Europe has 638,000 miles of surfaced roads, exclusive of city streets, as against 169,000 in North America, of which 150,000 are in the United States.

Q.—Are caffeine, nicotine, morphine and alcohol classed as poisons?—C. A. S.

A.—Caffeine is classified as a stimulant; nicotine as a poisonous alkaloid; morphine as a narcotic; alcohol as a stimulant, and when taken in large doses as a narcotic.

Q.—When was music first used in industrial plants? To what extent is it used today?—G. D. A.

A.—As far back as 1886 the head of a southern factory, where cigarets were rolled by hand, placed good singers in his workrooms to increase efficiency and contentment in the plant. There are today several hundred American industrial organizations that encourage musical activities among their employes. A survey conducted by the National Association for the Advancement of Music reports that 32 companies allow the musical programs to be conducted on company time, while 132 allow them to be conducted half on company time. Experiments prove that under the influence of music more work is done and fewer mistakes are made.

Q.—Why was Christy Mathewson called Big Six?—H. F.

A.—At that time the six-cylinder motor car represented the last word in power and efficiency among automobiles. It is thought that the nickname was given to this veteran pitcher because of his ability.

In this way, most of the grease from the bacon will drip down from the potato into the bottom of the broiler. Serve hot garnished with ripe olives.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Married or Unmarried

Question: J. F. asks—"Which live the longest, married or single men and women?"

Answer—Statistics for women show these facts: Self supporting spinsters live longer than other women; widows and divorcees come next, and the greatest mortality is among married women. Married men live longer than single men, and also longer than married women. Widows live longer than widowers, and spinsters live longer than single men.

Cheese and Meat

Question: Mrs. L. W. asks—"What amount of cheese is necessary to take the place of meat at a protein meal? And should the combinations of other foods of that meal be the same as with a meat meal?"

Answer—The food value of cheese is about the same as that of meat. One-fourth of a pound at a meal is usually sufficient for one doing an ordinary amount of exercise. The rules about proper food combinations hold good with cheese the same as with meat.

Central Nervous System

Question: M. K. asks—"Will you please tell me what is the matter with a person when he has something the matter with his central nervous system? Is this a serious complaint and is there danger of it leading to insanity? What is the central nerve system?"

Answer—The central nervous system includes the brain and spinal cord. There are a number of diseases which may affect this system and it would be necessary to know more about the condition before I could give any advice. If you will send me your doctor's report I will no doubt be able to send you advice concerning the treatment.

Bingham Scores Plan To Curb Immigration

WASHINGTON, April 11. (INS)—Declaring its enactment would deal a "death blow" to United States-South and Latin American relations, Senator Bingham, Republican of Connecticut, asked the senate today to oppose the Harris bill curtailing immigration from these countries and Mexico.

He supported the suggestion of Senator Johnson, Republican, California, that the bill be stripped of its curtailing provisions with regard to all nations except Mexico.

The Connecticut senator said the bill actually would have no effect on immigration from South and Latin America anyway, inasmuch as it would set up a theoretical quota based on the national origins clause, and Latin and South American immigration does not approach these figures. It would only injure the pride and self-respect of these countries, he said.

RECIPES

Deviled Ham With Poached Eggs on Toast

Spread slices of crisp buttered toast with deviled ham. Drop a poached egg on each piece of toast and serve with or without white sauce. Two cups of medium white sauce would be sufficient for six servings.

Pineapple Juice Cocktail

Mix one-fourth cup sirup from maraschino cherries and one pint pineapple juice, add one-half pint ginger ale and pour over crushed ice in cocktail glasses. Put a maraschino cherry in each glass and one on the edge of the glass.

Roman Spinach

Two pounds spinach.
One-half cup cooking oil
Salt
Pepper
One clove.
Garlic.

Pour the oil into a large kettle in which has been placed the garlic. Place over the fire. When hot add the washed spinach, a little at a time, stirring constantly. Add the salt and pepper and cook slowly for about 10 minutes. Remove the garlic and serve the spinach with lemon slices.

Molded Manhattan Salad

One package of lemon Jell-O.
One pint boiling water.
One tablespoon vinegar.
One-half teaspoon salt
One cup tart apples, diced.
One cup nuts, chopped.
One cup celery, diced.

Dissolve jell-o in boiling water, add vinegar and salt. When thick, add apples, nuts and celery and pour into molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm and serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Baked Alaska

Whites six eggs.
Six tablespoons powdered sugar.
Two-quart brick of ice cream.
Thin sheet of sponge cake.

Make meringue of egg whites and sugar. Cover a board with white paper, lay on sponge cake, turn the ice cream on cake (which should extend one-half inch beyond cream) cover with meringue and spread smoothly. Place in broiling oven and brown quickly in a hot oven. The board, paper, cake and meringue are poor conductors of heat and prevent the cream from melting. Slip from paper onto a platter and serve at once.

Frozen Cheese Salad

Cream with a fork three cream cheeses and add to them one-half cupful each of chopped green pepper, celery and nuts. (One-half cupful of olives may be added if desired). Add one-fourth teaspoon of paprika, one-half teaspoon of salt and one tablespoon of lemon juice; blend well. Then add one-fourth cupful of double cream whipped until stiff. Put into the tray of an electric refrigerator and with a spatula spread smooth. Freeze until the salad is firm and quite hard, but not until ice crystals are formed. The salad mixture may be poured into a mold or into empty baking powder cans and packed in ice and salt using two parts of ice to one of salt. Freeze for three or four hours according to the size of mold.

Hot Cross Buns

"One a penny, two a penny
Hot cross buns.
If you have no daughters,
Give them to your sons;
But if you have none of these
Merry little elves.
Then you may keep them all
For yourselves."

Carry huge baskets of hot cross buns on their arms, bun sellers of old England ushered in the morning of Good Friday with this ingratiating cry. The buns were carefully covered with flannel and white cloth to keep them warm and fresh. The hot cross bun on Good Friday was as much an institution as plum pudding on Christmas since almost every family had a platter of these spiced and sugary dainties on their breakfast table. Antiquity and tradition, as well as merit, recommend hot cross buns for the Easter season. Butterscotch biscuit or rolls might be substituted in the supper menu given but this recipe is given so that it might be used during the week preceding Easter.

Scald two cupfuls of milk in the top of a double boiler. Meanwhile, place three-fourths teaspoon, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of shortening in a mixing bowl or bread mixer. Pour the scalding milk over this, stir well and allow it to cool until lukewarm (85 degrees F.). Moisten a cake of yeast in one-fourth cupful of lukewarm water and add to the lukewarm mixture. (Two cakes of yeast may be used if the time for rising is limited). Then add three and one-half cupfuls of bread flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise until light and double in bulk. It should be kept in a room where the temperature is between 75 degrees F. and 85 degrees F., if possible. Cut the dough down and add two-thirds cupful of sugar. Two eggs well beaten, one-half cupful each of cleaned and chopped raisins and currants which have been mixed with one-fourth cupful of bread flour and three and three-fourths cupfuls of flour. As flours vary it may be necessary to add slightly more flour to make a dough that can be kneaded. Knead on a floured board and return to the greased mixing bowl; cover, and let rise until double in bulk. If the rolls are desired for breakfast this part of the preparation should be done the night before. Cut down, shape into medium-sized buns and place in greased pans two inches apart. Cover and set in a warm place and let rise again until nearly double in bulk. Glaze the buns by brushing them over with one beaten egg diluted with two tablespoonfuls of water. With a sharp knife cut a cross on top of each bun. Bake them in a hot oven between 400 degrees F. and 425 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Remove from the oven and fill the cross, while hot, with white frosting. Or if preferred, bake the buns and then make a cross on each, using ornamental icing.

Ornamental Frosting

White of one egg.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
Sifted confectioner's sugar.

Put the egg in a bowl, add a tablespoon of sugar and beat three minutes with a silver fork. Repeat until one-half cup of sugar is used. Add lemon juice gradually, as mixture thickens. Continue adding sugar by spoonfuls until frosting is stiff enough to spread. This may be determined by taking up some of the mixture on the back of a spoon and with a caseknife making a cut through the mixture. If the knife makes a clean cut and the frosting remains parted, it is of the right consistency.

Angel Food Sticks

Make batter as for angel food cake but bake it in bread-stick pans, filling pans level full and baking about 10 minutes less time than angel food is usually cooked. Take out of pans while hot. Ice three sides with icing made of about one-fourth pound butter, one package powdered sugar and enough cream to make the right consistency to spread. Roll in chopped nuts, then ice the other side and roll in nuts. These are delicious for parties.

Angel Cake

One cup sifted cake flour.
One cup sugar
One cup egg whites (about 11 egg whites).
Three-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar.
One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.
One-half teaspoon almond extract.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Beat the whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff. Then add the sugar gradually. Fold in flour mixed and sifted with the salt four times. Add flavoring. Bake 45 to 50 minutes in an unbuttered angel cake pan which has been rinsed with cold water and allowed to drain. (Place cake in the center of the oven on a rack and bake at 325 degrees F.). Do not open the oven door often and avoid jarring. After baking invert the cake in the pan on a cooling rack and allow it to cool thoroughly. It should come from the pan by its own weight, but if it does not, it may be loosened around the sides with a spatula when cold. More specific directions were given in the article published on March 13.

Shoulder Straps

If you put snaps on the shoulder seams of your frocks and the other side of the snaps on the shoulder seams of your slips, you can anchor those straps so they will not slip off your shoulder.

White Hats

To clean white felt hats or white straw ones, try very, very fine sandpaper and then art gum. Do not wait until the hat becomes too grimy. Take each spot off as it comes.

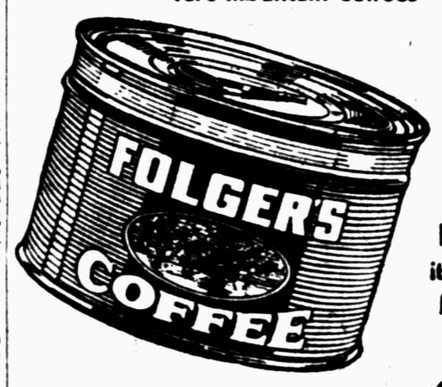

Strawberry Custard

Bake up custards and serve them with crushed fresh strawberries. One box of berries goes a long way and makes the dessert appetizing.

Methodist B.O.P. Class Has Lovely Spring Party

Honoring members of the B. O. P. Sunday school class of the First Methodist church, Mrs. L. S. Aiken, assisted by her circle, entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. H. Knouse, 2004 Tilden street. A perfect spring setting was shown in the lovely decorations of Easter lilies and bridal wreath that filled the home.

In a short business meeting, the circles of the class and committees gave splendid reports, and Mrs. W. B. Taylor gave a beautiful devotional, telling the Easter story.

During the social hour, bunco was played and Mrs. L. Stanley Marlow was winner of high score and Mrs. A. W. Davis was low. Pretty trophies were awarded.

A color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the dainty ice course served and plate favors were tiny corsages of pink sweet peas, tied with green tulle.

Members present were Mesdames Harry Prine, Frank C. Carter, D. M. Roberts, S. R. Johnson, W. A. Kistler, Frank Rowland, G. C. Staton, J. R. Amster, Lee Penick, Robert Penick, S. A. Wood, Lewis G. Cook, C. L. Brown, W. B. Taylor, L. S. Marlow, J. O. Yancey, V. O. E. Wright, Webster Walker, T. A. Crosby, L. F. Chestnut, W. C. King, F. R. Jones, C. A. Stuckey, J. S. Minton, J. R. Weehunt, Ben Howle, A. L. Proctor, Jack Harrell, Cravens, A. W. Davis, E. H. Knouse and L. S. Aiken.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

A Wichita Falls' physician told us one day he enjoyed reading our column and seeing how one thought in it brought on another. He would not enjoy this one, for it is what one might term "mental hash."

We have just read an item that interested us because we love flowers. For two successive seasons in Houston, the forum of civics has bought flower seeds in wholesale lots and retailed them to school children without profit. We can imagine the flowers in the city, for each year they sold 12,000 packages of seeds.

And we ran across a phrase "wings against the sky," that set our imagination to work. First it made us think of the dream we have had so many times of flying; a pleasant dream, where we spread out our arms and soared where we wished. It has deserted us. We have not flown for years.

It made us think of the flash of red bird's brilliant color and the heavenly blue of the blue bird. It made us remember the utterly indescribable grace of so many wings we have seen curving against the heavens and beating against the winds.

Human beings do not always beat against adverse winds as bravely as the birds. A fighting spirit is a glorious thing; a "quitter" could have no loveliness.

And speaking of the red birds make us wonder why the male bird is always the one in gorgeous apparel. There's more than one difference in bird and human being.

Birds are the spirit of vivacity; they are certainly not what one would term "composed." We wonder if they ever suffer nervous prostration. We know we would if we kept up the constant movement of a bird on the ground.

We remember wondering that aloud to a member of our family who told us that they had to be constantly alert watching out for their enemies. In their nests, the females are the quietest of mothers, but their bright eyes are even then watching.

They are as devoted to their young as our own mothers. And speaking of our mothers reminds us of the campaign being carried on to find America's most beautiful mother and child.

Nossett's studio is making pictures to enter in the contest; mother pictures are always sweet, but those of the babies are adorable. We are hoping that some mother and child of Wichita Falls or this vicinity will be named America's "most beautiful."

It's a far step from the lovely pictures to "lovely rolls." We have just found that Mrs. Kirksey, the hostess at the Forum clubhouse, makes and sells to club women her delicious rolls—already cooked or the dough for baking. We will not worry about making bread again.

It is easy enough to write the last paragraph. Just stop.

Bowie Demonstration Club Meets Friday

Mrs. William Fisher was hostess Friday afternoon to members and guests of the Bowie Demonstration club, which in the business session received four new members. A quilt that has already been pieced by hand by the members will be quilted by them in the near future it was announced.

Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county demonstration agent, gave an interesting talk on the essentials of an adequate daily diet, giving a list of things that should be included each day. She talked to the members also on the subject of canning, so that the same essentials might be at hand through the winter.

A delicious refreshment plate was served by Mrs. Fisher to Mesdames G. R. Rambo, E. C. Williams, R. A. Yeager, Sudie McCreary, G. D. Steed, Bob Williams, Rosie Hood, L. H. Anderson, L. B. Bruner, A. L. Johnson, George Stuier, Miss Ethel Louise Webb, Mesdames Ed Dunn, Sam Raley, Clarence Lawson, J. Stearns, Albert Bartell, J. R. McKinney and two guests from Spearman, Texas; Mesdames Ray Nellner and Lucile Wolverton.

Twentieth Century Club Studies George Eliot

Mrs. A. B. Lipscomb was hostess to members of the Twentieth Century club Friday afternoon when George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss" was the subject of study with Mrs. C. E. Deaton as leader.

As usual the roll call was an interesting part of the day's program, each member reporting on her assigned topic.

As the first half of "Mill on the Floss" had been studied at a previous meeting, interest was alert in the closing chapters. A paper on "The Childhood of Tom and Maggie," prepared by Mrs. B. J. Shaw, was read by Mrs. C. E. Deaton who was also leader in the study.

After a social session, a delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames O. B. Albritton, Walter Bachman, J. D. Bright, Roy I. Carter, E. H. Eddleman, H. B. Gilbert, E. B. Lehrack, C. E. Deaton, W. L. Hawkins, T. H. Lawson, C. E. Naylor, R. B. Parker, B. P. Williams and the hostess, Mrs. Lipscomb.

Child's Debt To Parents Depends On Sacrifice Made

How Great Is a Child's Debt to Its Parents?—The Man Who Fell in Love With His Wife After Marriage—Shall This Girl Marry the Boy Who Tells Risque Stories?

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please tell us what you think children owe their parents, and what is children's duty toward the home?
—MOLLY.

Answer—What children owe their parents depends altogether upon what the parents do for the children, upon how well the parents fulfill their obligations toward their children.

I have never been able to see why a child owes any debt of gratification to its parents for merely bringing it into the world. Life even for the most fortunate, isn't so hilarious as all that. For most of us it is mostly a long and weary stretch of hard work, of striving and struggle, of anxieties and cares and disappointments, of sickness and suffering, and just the privilege of undergoing these tribulations doesn't call for our giving a rising vote of thanks to those who thrust this fate upon us.

But having arrived, without baggage and weak and helpless in this vale of tears, it is up to our parents to decide how much gratitude we shall owe them. They can put us under heavy obligations to them, or cancel our debt—if there is a debt—by the way they use us.

Of course, this is not the point of view of most parents. The way that the great majority of mothers and fathers look at it is that no matter how they neglect them or how they misuse them, the child's obligation to them never ceases. In fact, they regard their children as merely slaves that they have propagated.

It is for the parents who exploit their children, and set baby hands to work for them, that we have had to pass child labor laws defending helpless little children against their greedy parents. If you have ever been in any mill town, you have seen the saddest and most horrible sights on earth—big, lazy, husky women and men idling around, while their stunted little children, with tired, workworn faces and bent little shoulders, labor to support them.

And every one of us knows cases in which a gay, frivolous woman has run off with some man, leaving a helpless babe in its cradle to live or die as chance might have it, or some man who deserted his children in their helpless infancy. Then, after 30 or 40 years, old and broken in health and poor, these renegade parents come back and demand that their children shall take care of them the balance of their lives.

More, they actually feel themselves ill-used because their children do not love and honor and respect them.

Certainly children have no obligations toward parents who have failed utterly in their duty to them, but there is another side to the picture and fortunately it is the more common one and the one with which we are most familiar.

There are fathers and mothers whose lives are one long sacrifice to their children. They literally work themselves to death to save their children from the hardships they have known. They go shabby that their children may be well dressed. They pinch and economize so that their children may have the education and the advantages that they never had, knowing when they do it that they are putting their children out of their own class and raising them to a level they cannot reach.

All of us have known parents who gave their children college educations and advantages in life that they paid for with money that was dug out of the earth, with blood and sweat, or made scrubbing floors. All of us have known parents whose sense of duty to their children was so great that it made them follow wayward girls and boys down into gutters and pick the poor derelicts out of the slime and take them back to their hearts, and try over and over again to make men and women out of them.

The debt that children owe to such parents as these is beyond all counting. It is a debt that can only be paid in love and gratitude and appreciation, and in cherishing and caring with all tenderness for the parents when they come to helplessness as their parents cared for them when they were helpless.

And certainly the children of good parents should begin paying installments on this debt as soon as they begin to earn money. They should try to lift the load that has been so heavy for their parents to bear so long. They should try to repay the parents for the sacrifices they have made for them. They shouldn't let father and mother do all of the work. They should set their strong young hands to the task and they should see that father and mother get some dividends on the fun they have missed.

As for the children's attitude toward the home, that should be one of cooperation. I think one of the first lessons that children should be taught is their responsibility toward the upkeep of the home and toward making the home a pleasant and agreeable place in which to live.—DOROTHY DIX.

Easter Program Given by Story Telling Club

Members of the Story Telling club observed the season Friday when they met at the home of Mrs. H. E. Kurtz on Taft street and carried out an Easter program under the leadership of Mrs. Patrick Henry. Instead of roll call, a hymn was played softly while the members bowed their heads in silent meditation on the risen Christ and in a prayer for more consecration at Easter time.

In a short business session preceding the program, Mrs. Jack B. Dale, chairman of the yearbook committee, gave an outline of the interesting meetings arranged for next year.

Mrs. Henry made the Easter talk, opening it with a poem, "Life's Darkest Day and Whitest Day Are Just Three Days Apart." She told in an interesting manner of the origin and observance of Easter, climaxing her talk with Grace Noll Crowell's lovely poem, "I Think He Must Have Been Glad."

Mrs. W. H. Penix gave "Johnnie's Easter Flower," and Mrs. W. A. Scarborough "Catipillars Journey," both Easter readings.

Anderson, assistant district attorney. Following Dismuke's demand for an examining trial, Judge O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, set a hearing for 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Dismuke has been held in the county jail here since his arrest, although no owner has been found to claim the copper wire. He said he found the wire at the side of a road and denied stealing it.

AIR CIRCUS HERE SUNDAY

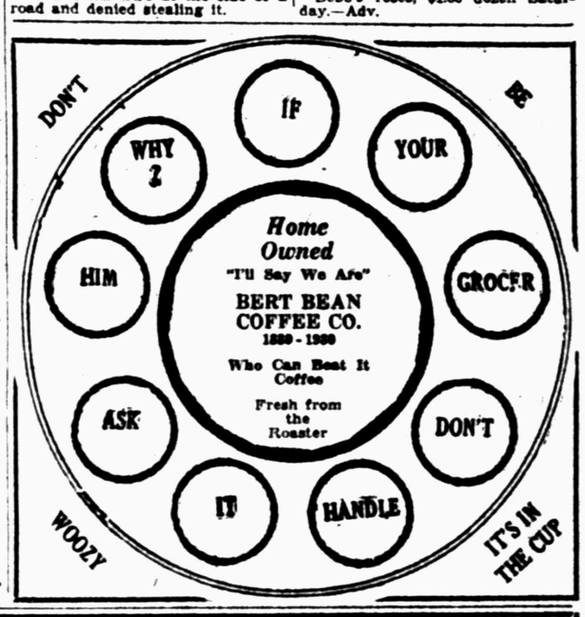

Program to Be 'Greatest Ever,' Sponsors Say

The greatest array of aeronautical feats, stunts, features and contests ever seen in this section of the country will take place next Sunday at the Municipal airport when the all-day air circus being sponsored by the Wichita Falls Flying Club, Inc., opens its program for the day, according to sponsors of the program.

The circus will be heralded by a formation flight over the city with the entire fleet of planes which will take part in the day's program throwing out bombs to remind residents of the gala occasion. At 10 a. m. the first parachute jump will take place. Immediately after the lunch hour, the balloon strafing event will be staged, when airmen will attempt to burst with their spinning propellers a large number of balloons floating high in the air. Until 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, aerial trapeze stunts and plane aerobatics will be presented.

After the coronation of "Queen of the Air," the Wichita Falls girl who sells the largest number of tickets to the circus, the climaxing event of the afternoon will be staged. This will be an attempt by Miss Faye Lucille Cox, a member of the circus, to bring to this city a new world's altitude record for women parachute jumpers by leaping from her plane at an altitude of almost four miles. During and after Miss Cox's attempt, which will require almost an hour, passenger flights, stunting, daylight fireworks and a large number of parachute jumps will be staged. Eleven jumps will be made during the circus, a portion of them as part of a mark-landing contest. Four of the jumps will be initial leaps for persons living in this vicinity. The circus will continue until dark, events taking place continuously.

"Mary Jo was troubled with constipation," says Mrs. T. D. McGinnis, 1028 Drexel Ave., San Antonio. "She was sallow and bilious; didn't have any appetite; couldn't digest her food.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that. It regulated her bowels quickly; improved her appetite and digestion. She has improved right along until friends say she's a regular prize-winner for health."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. Its rich, fruity flavor appeals to children; its pure vegetable goodness is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Next time bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness warn of constipation, try it with your child and see how it helps!

When buying, look for the name California! That marks the genuine, famous for 50 years.—Adv.

Dyer Says Prohibition To Be Main 1932 Issue

ST. LOUIS, April 11. (INS)—Prohibition will be the dominating issue of the 1932 presidential campaign, Congressman L. C. Dyer, wet leader of the house, said today upon his return from Washington. It is imperative, he told a reporter, that the Republican platform two years hence declare unequivocally for modification.

Dyer, sponsor of the bill to legalize beverage of 2.75 per cent alcoholic weight, added that the wet and dry question would be a far greater issue in 1932 than it was in 1928. At that time, he explained, there were other questions which tended to obscure the prohibition issue.

HIRAM JOHNSON DECLINES POST

Californian Won't Serve On Expenditures Probe

WASHINGTON, April 11. (UP)—Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, California, today declined to serve as chairman of the senatorial campaign funds investigating committee.

In a letter to Vice President Curtis, who had appointed him to the post, Johnson said he was too busy with other senatorial committees to undertake the chairmanship of the investigating group.

The battle between two Pennsylvania political giants, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Republican financial genius, and President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, will be one of the first to be investigated by the senate committee designated to inquire into political expenditures.

Simultaneously, the inquiry will be directed into the equally picturesque fight resulting in victory for the first woman candidate of a major party for the senate, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick of Illinois.

These twin inquiries at the outset of the committee's work, probably beginning next week, seemed assured today in view of the charges Grundy has made against Atterbury and the private allegations that Mrs. McCormick spent a large amount to defeat Senator Deneen in the Illinois primary last Tuesday.

SAYRE, Okla., April 11.—J. I. Lowry, prominent business man and chairman of the good roads committee of the chamber of commerce, was declared the most useful citizen of Sayre for the year 1929, at the annual get-together banquet of the chamber of commerce.

The ballots were opened and canvassed in the presence of the banquet guests, whereupon it was found that out of more than one-half dozen candidates who had been nominated, Mr. Lowry had received approximately 50 per cent of all the votes.

By a standing vote after the result of the balloting had been announced, the members present unanimously declared him the most useful citizen. A beautiful silver loving cup, furnished by the Sayre Headlight, was presented to Mr. Lowry.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Mournful Thought

'Twas many and many a year ago
That Mac and Bill and me
Said toodle-oo to our happy homes
To be what we could be.

ow Mac is swathed in clothes so fine
And Bill is way up yonder,
hile I munch in cafes, ride the bus
And write the Rambler's corner.

Chorus

Alas, alas, says I, I says
Alack and welladay
I cannot eat, the price of meat
Is far above my pay;
My role as swain has proven vain,
No date relieves my spleen
Because the gals demand a car
And I can't buy gasoline.
O'er stone and stump I trudge and tramp
And heave and sigh and pant,
This pestilential state of things
Would make a cleric rant.
O Job! cries I, O Josh, I cries
Why was it that I am
While others are what I should be
And ain't, alas, and damn!

How Odd! Department

As our 10,879 readers must be aware, the author of this immortal department is on his last gastronomical legs, and in dire need of food. Now don't get impatient, but read this next paragraph:

Did you know that there is a woman in Wichita Falls who in her teens attended the world's premiere of the opera, "The Merry Widow," as the guest of the king of England, and did you know that there is a certain man in Wichita Falls one of whose ancestors was hanged at the order of the English parliament in 1642 because said ancestor omitted the name of Queen Elizabeth from a history of England he had written?

Now here comes the gag. These two stories are being prepared for publication in this the world's greatest column, but they won't appear unless one of our 10,879 readers buys us a meal.

Think of what you will learn about your home city! Color, history, amazing stories. They're right in Wichita Falls! Are you on? Address all communications to Starvation Editor, the Sports Department, care The Record News.

Mr. James Stanley Maxwell, the world's greatest oil editor, suggests to this, the world's greatest column, that a good name for same would be "Zephyrs From the Glue Factory."

And furthermore, the boys down in the pressroom call golf "cow pasture pool."

Oh, these newspaper men!

Speaking of food, as we were in athetic terms a few paragraphs back, these ball players, having plenty of dough, can rare back in ease and indulge in the wildest extravagances. Lin Storti, for instance, insists that he can't play second base at all unless he eats a banana before his evening meal each day.

As this conglomeration goes briskly to press, the third games of the Texas league season remain to be played by the various clubs o'er the circuit, and the old tub of dope that other good sports writers besides myself had filled to the brim has been turned over and battered into a wad of tin.

Of course, there remain some 150 games to be played and to say anything right at the beginning of the season may be premateurish, as we word coiners say. Nevertheless we cannot choose but say hoo-hoo to the Fort Worth Cats, and to prod a few of the sports writers for their comments on the Shreveport Sports.

The Cats, indeed, purred so meekly at the feet of the roaring Steers from Dallas that their two defeats could not but come in for a jab or two by some enterprising commentator on the manly arts. And we hereby predict that our Spudders will defeat the meowsers in two of the three games we play in Fort Worth Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The Sports, dubbed the "dark horse" club of the Texas league before the start of the chase by some of more astute mentalities, appear, at this writing to be, more than anything, the lame nag outfit, the most pronounced limp being in the pitching limb. Of course, Friday's game has not been played as this is being writ, and there's no telling what kind of liniment Art Phelan has been using since the second defeat of his club Thursday. But our diagnosis bolsters our prediction that the Spudders will win two of their three games with the Sports when we go to their home lot a few days hence. Well, maybe all three of them.

LOUISIANANS POUND HURLERS

Smith, Steengrafe, Vincent Fail to Halt Drive

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

After winning two games in a row from the Shreveport nine, the Spudders had an off day Friday, and the Sports, taking full advantage of six errors and swatting Cy Smith and Milt Steengrafe off the mound, defeated Carl Williams' hopefuls, 15 to 6.

Milt Assaulted

Cy Smith, after the Sports had scored three runs in the first, shut his foes out in the second inning, and looked as if he might make the route, but after allowing another tally in the third and three in the fourth he was sent to wash up and Steengrafe came in. Milt shut 'em out one inning after another, but finally was trapped in the eighth when he slid into a hole without taking his ladder with him, and the Sports clouted five hits which netted six runs. Steengrafe then followed Smith to the showers, and Fred Vincent allowed the remaining Sport tallies in the ninth, Holman knocking a home run with Cashion on the paths.

Carl Williams and his Spudders entrained Friday night for Fort Worth, where Saturday, Sunday and Monday they clash with the Panthers in the first out-of-town league games of the season.

Crouch drove three of the Spudder counters in in the second inning, when he lifted one over the left field boards with Bettencourt and Euller on the bases.

Argument Started

The game was a good healthy exhibition of slugging and everything went off well, except that the crowd got fairly well riled up over one of Umpire Floyd Kroh's verdicts on a base runner, and was apparently annoyed at some of Umpire Dominique's judgments behind the bat.

The base running episode came in the third inning, when Starr ran to third on Underhill's infield clout in that direction. Euller fumbled the ball, but recovered, in what was apparently the judgment of virtually everyone in the park, in good time to tag Starr out. Umpire Kroh ruled otherwise, however, and hot words were exchanged, both on the diamond and in the grandstands.

Shreveport took the lead in the first, scoring three runs on Whelan's single to short, Stewart's single to right and Levey's bad throw to first, which scored Cashion. The Spudders managed only one tally in the opener, Levey scoring on a walk and Storti's double to center. The Sports did not score in the second, but in their half of the frame the Spudders went into the lead, scoring three runs on Crouch's homer. Crouch's swat came just after Manager Art Phelan had jerked Estrada from the mound after the latter had walked both Bettencourt and Euller, and the four-base hit, obtained off Underhill, provided one of greatest thrills the Spudders have had to offer so far. Underhill finished for Shreveport, doing a much better job than he did in the opening game of the series, when he was pounded mightily by the locals.

The Sports tied the score in the third, when they made their fourth run on a single by Park, a single by Starr, and Huarte's tap to the pitcher, Smith throwing Starr out at first and Park scoring. The Spudders regained the lead in their half of the frame when Burns scored on a walk, Bettencourt's single to right, and Crouch's sacrifice.

They Hold It

In the fourth the Sports went definitely into the lead by scoring three runs on Huston's single, Cashion's great triple to center and two errors. Cashion's triple scored Hutson. Park, next man up, drove to the infield, Levey tossing the ball to Smith, who tossed to Crouch in an effort to throw Cashion out at the plate. Crouch dropped the ball, Cashion scoring, and Park was safe on first. Holman singled to left, advancing Park to second. Steengrafe took the mound for the Spudders. Starr clouted to first and Holman was thrown out at second, first to short. Park advancing to third. Huarte then lifted to behind second and Levey muffed it, Park scoring and Starr going to second. Estrada went out, pitcher to first to close the inning.

This over, things went along quietly enough, the Spudders scoring a tally in the seventh on Fitzgerald's single, Kloza's futile attempt to reach second on his outfield clout, and Bettencourt's single to center, while the Sports were held scoreless by Steengrafe.

Six More Tallies

But then came the eighth and the Sports' six runs. It started when Huston flied out to right. Cashion singled to center. Park walked, advancing Cashion to second. Holman strolled filling the bases. Starr flied out to left, Kloza making a good catch. Huarte singled to right, scoring Cashion and Park, and sending Holman to third. Huarte took second on the throw in. Underhill singled to center, scoring Holman and Huarte. Whelan singled to right, advancing Underhill to third. Whelan took second on the throw in. Stewart singled to right, scoring Underhill and Whelan. Hutson flied out to left to end the period.

Holman knocked his home run in the last inning with Cashion on, and the Spudders were held scoreless.

THERE'S MORE IN THIS THAN MEETS THE EYE

said the clever housewife, as she lifted the package of White King Granulated Soap.... The fact is, there's more real soap in a White King carton than there is in many a package of soap flakes or bubbles twice its size!

That's because White King Granulated Soap is pure soap—condensed—without "filler" of any sort, and it comes close packed in the carton, like powdered sugar. And a little goes a long way. A teaspoonful in a basin of water, a cupful in a tub is ample. No more!

White King is good for the heaviest or most delicate washing—blankets, dishes, or lingerie. It is the safest, most economical soap made. At your grocer's.

Scribes Favor A's to Repeat

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 1.—For the fourth consecutive year, the boys who peer intently at the proceedings through the wire screens have set forth the pre-seasonal baseball verdict. There is just one answer so far as the American league is concerned—that the Philadelphia Athletics will win again and probably do with hands down.

Exactly 60 of the 65 major league baseball writers and sports editors, who responded to the request of the Associated Press for their opinions, selected the Athletics to make it two in a row. The remaining five, taking a long shot at the advance dope, named the Yankees to stage a come-back and pick up the pennant-winning habit where they left off in 1928.

The A's are the nearest thing to a unanimous choice in the four-year record of the Associated Press consensus. Last year, 53 out of 66 picked the Yankees to win and later regretted it. In 1928, the New Yorkers were the choice of 42 out of 49 critics.

This is the first time the Athletics have been favorites since 1927, when Connie Mack's colorful assembly of Cobb, Speaker and Wheat failed to produce the expected results.

This is the order of finish that the baseball experts look for this year in the American league:

Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Boston.

The most improved clubs in the league, on the basis of the balloting, are the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox.

Dyer Says Prohibition To Be Main 1932 Issue

ST. LOUIS, April 11. (INS)—Prohibition will be the dominating issue of the 1932 presidential campaign, Congressman L. C. Dyer, wet leader of the house, said today upon his return from Washington. It is imperative, he told a reporter, that the Republican platform two years hence declare unequivocally for modification.

Dyer, sponsor of the bill to legalize beverage of 2.75 per cent alcoholic weight, added that the wet and dry question would be a far greater issue in 1932 than it was in 1928. At that time, he explained, there were other questions which tended to obscure the prohibition issue.

Women Club Members Incensed Over Adam And Eve Oil

CHICAGO, April 11. (UP)—Adam and Eve, turned out of the garden of Eden in the dawn of time, are likely to be turned out of the Illinois Women's Athletic club and with less ceremony.

This Adam and Eve are copper-hued (or maybe they're red, there's a difference of opinion) and hang on the walls of the athletic club in an exhibit of paintings by Miss Valentine Vogel, St. Louis artist with modernistic tendencies.

The redskin Adam and Eve in Miss Vogel's much discussed painting have tossed all conventions and fig leaves to the wind and stand, nude, gazing out over a green sea—Eve facing this way and Adam the other.

Members of the athletic club express various opinions over teacups, and threaten to do something about it.

HIRAM JOHNSON DECLINES POST

Californian Won't Serve On Expenditures Probe

WASHINGTON, April 11. (UP)—Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, California, today declined to serve as chairman of the senatorial campaign funds investigating committee.

In a letter to Vice President Curtis, who had appointed him to the post, Johnson said he was too busy with other senatorial committees to undertake the chairmanship of the investigating group.

The battle between two Pennsylvania political giants, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Republican financial genius, and President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, will be one of the first to be investigated by the senate committee designated to inquire into political expenditures.

Simultaneously, the inquiry will be directed into the equally picturesque fight resulting in victory for the first woman candidate of a major party for the senate, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick of Illinois.

These twin inquiries at the outset of the committee's work, probably beginning next week, seemed assured today in view of the charges Grundy has made against Atterbury and the private allegations that Mrs. McCormick spent a large amount to defeat Senator Deneen in the Illinois primary last Tuesday.

Sayre Names Most Useful Citizen

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., April 11.—J. I. Lowry, prominent business man and chairman of the good roads committee of the chamber of commerce, was declared the most useful citizen of Sayre for the year 1929, at the annual get-together banquet of the chamber of commerce.

Ballots were mailed to all members of the chamber of commerce two days before the banquet with instructions to vote secretly and return in sealed envelopes.

The ballots were opened and canvassed in the presence of the banquet guests, whereupon it was found that out of more than one-half dozen candidates who had been nominated, Mr. Lowry had received approximately 50 per cent of all the votes.

By a standing vote after the result of the balloting had been announced, the members present unanimously declared him the most useful citizen. A beautiful silver loving cup, furnished by the Sayre Headlight, was presented to Mr. Lowry.

It was reported yesterday from Valdosta that the young showman had boarded a train for Texas to claim his fortune, but a checkup revealed that he had just been taken to jail.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Mournful Thought

'Twas many and many a year ago
That Mac and Bill and me
Said toodle-oo to our happy homes
To be what we could be.

ow Mac is swathed in clothes so fine
And Bill is way up yonder,
hile I munch in cafes, ride the bus
And write the Rambler's corner.

Chorus

Alas, alas, says I, I says
Alack and welladay
I cannot eat, the price of meat
Is far above my pay;
My role as swain has proven vain,
No date relieves my spleen
Because the gals demand a car
And I can't buy gasoline.
O'er stone and stump I trudge and tramp
And heave and sigh and pant,
This pestilential state of things
Would make a cleric rant.
O Job! cries I, O Josh, I cries
Why was it that I am
While others are what I should be
And ain't, alas, and damn!

How Odd! Department

As our 10,879 readers must be aware, the author of this immortal department is on his last gastronomical legs, and in dire need of food. Now don't get impatient, but read this next paragraph:

Did you know that there is a woman in Wichita Falls who in her teens attended the world's premiere of the opera, "The Merry Widow," as the guest of the king of England, and did you know that there is a certain man in Wichita Falls one of whose ancestors was hanged at the order of the English parliament in 1642 because said ancestor omitted the name of Queen Elizabeth from a history of England he had written?

Now here comes the gag. These two stories are being prepared for publication in this the world's greatest column, but they won't appear unless one of our 10,879 readers buys us a meal.

Think of what you will learn about your home city! Color, history, amazing stories. They're right in Wichita Falls! Are you on? Address all communications to Starvation Editor, the Sports Department, care The Record News.

Mr. James Stanley Maxwell, the world's greatest oil editor, suggests to this, the world's greatest column, that a good name for same would be "Zephyrs From the Glue Factory."

And furthermore, the boys down in the pressroom call golf "cow pasture pool."

Oh, these newspaper men!

Speaking of food, as we were in athetic terms a few paragraphs back, these ball players, having plenty of dough, can rare back in ease and indulge in the wildest extravagances. Lin Storti, for instance, insists that he can't play second base at all unless he eats a banana before his evening meal each day.

As this conglomeration goes briskly to press, the third games of the Texas league season remain to be played by the various clubs o'er the circuit, and the old tub of dope that other good sports writers besides myself had filled to the brim has been turned over and battered into a wad of tin.

Of course, there remain some 150 games to be played and to say anything right at the beginning of the season may be premateurish, as we word coiners say. Nevertheless we cannot choose but say hoo-hoo to the Fort Worth Cats, and to prod a few of the sports writers for their comments on the Shreveport Sports.

The Cats, indeed, purred so meekly at the feet of the roaring Steers from Dallas that their two defeats could not but come in for a jab or two by some enterprising commentator on the manly arts. And we hereby predict that our Spudders will defeat the meowsers in two of the three games we play in Fort Worth Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The Sports, dubbed the "dark horse" club of the Texas league before the start of the chase by some of more astute mentalities, appear, at this writing to be, more than anything, the lame nag outfit, the most pronounced limp being in the pitching limb. Of course, Friday's game has not been played as this is being writ, and there's no telling what kind of liniment Art Phelan has been using since the second defeat of his club Thursday. But our diagnosis bolsters our prediction that the Spudders will win two of their three games with the Sports when we go to their home lot a few days hence. Well, maybe all three of them.

Burkburnett Cagers Are Awarded Sweaters

BURKBURNETT, Texas, April 11.—Twelve members of the Burkburnett High school basket ball squad were awarded sweaters Wednesday morning by Coach Jesse Johnson. The following received sweaters: Capt. Grear Harrison, Edgar Blair, Erwin Daniels, Alfred Ragsdale, Carlton Roye, Henry Greene, Walter Morley, Hansell Burke, Garland Smith, Dale Johnson, Leo Salyer and Gordon Bryan. Harrison, Blair and Daniels are three-year lettermen and are graduating this year. The remaining players are new material, but have made an exceptionally good showing as promising contestants next year. Ragsdale, Burke and Johnson form a combination that is hard to beat for youngsters. The former will assume the captaincy next year.

T. C. U. Spring Grid Training Grind Ends

FORT WORTH, April 11.—Spring football training at Texas Christian university closed this week with a game between two teams taken from the squad. The contest resulted in a 6-0 victory of the Woolwine Wolverines over the Martin Mavericks. Coaches Schmidt and Wolf were very well satisfied with the six weeks of spring practice. Most of the boys on the squad were first-year men, and the training was invaluable in acclimating them to the Schmidt style of play.

LOUISIANANS POUND HURLERS

Smith, Steengrafe, Vincent Fail to Halt Drive

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

After winning two games in a row from the Shreveport nine, the Spudders had an off day Friday, and the Sports, taking full advantage of six errors and swatting Cy Smith and Milt Steengrafe off the mound, defeated Carl Williams' hopefuls, 15 to 6.

Milt Assaulted

Cy Smith, after the Sports had scored three runs in the first, shut his foes out in the second inning, and looked as if he might make the route, but after allowing another tally in the third and three in the fourth he was sent to wash up and Steengrafe came in. Milt shut 'em out one inning after another, but finally was trapped in the eighth when he slid into a hole without taking his ladder with him, and the Sports clouted five hits which netted six runs. Steengrafe then followed Smith to the showers, and Fred Vincent allowed the remaining Sport tallies in the ninth, Holman knocking a home run with Cashion on the paths.

Carl Williams and his Spudders entrained Friday night for Fort Worth, where Saturday, Sunday and Monday they clash with the Panthers in the first out-of-town league games of the season.

Crouch drove three of the Spudder counters in in the second inning, when he lifted one over the left field boards with Bettencourt and Euller on the bases.

Argument Started

The game was a good healthy exhibition of slugging and everything went off well, except that the crowd got fairly well riled up over one of Umpire Floyd Kroh's verdicts on a base runner, and was apparently annoyed at some of Umpire Dominique's judgments behind the bat.

The base running episode came in the third inning, when Starr ran to third on Underhill's infield clout in that direction. Euller fumbled the ball, but recovered, in what was apparently the judgment of virtually everyone in the park, in good time to tag Starr out. Umpire Kroh ruled otherwise, however, and hot words were exchanged, both on the diamond and in the grandstands.

Shreveport took the lead in the first, scoring three runs on Whelan's single to short, Stewart's single to right and Levey's bad throw to first, which scored Cashion. The Spudders managed only one tally in the opener, Levey scoring on a walk and Storti's double to center. The Sports did not score in the second, but in their half of the frame the Spudders went into the lead, scoring three runs on Crouch's homer. Crouch's swat came just after Manager Art Phelan had jerked Estrada from the mound after the latter had walked both Bettencourt and Euller, and the four-base hit, obtained off Underhill, provided one of greatest thrills the Spudders have had to offer so far. Underhill finished for Shreveport, doing a much better job than he did in the opening game of the series, when he was pounded mightily by the locals.

The Sports tied the score in the third, when they made their fourth run on a single by Park, a single by Starr, and Huarte's tap to the pitcher, Smith throwing Starr out at first and Park scoring. The Spudders regained the lead in their half of the frame when Burns scored on a walk, Bettencourt's single to right, and Crouch's sacrifice.

They Hold It

In the fourth the Sports went definitely into the lead by scoring three runs on Huston's single, Cashion's great triple to center and two errors. Cashion's triple scored Huston. Park, next man up, drove to the infield, Levey tossing the ball to Smith, who tossed to Crouch in an effort to throw Cashion out at the plate. Crouch dropped the ball, Cashion scoring, and Park was safe on first. Holman singled to left, advancing Park to second. Steengrafe took the mound for the Spudders. Starr clouted to first and Holman was thrown out at second, first to short. Park advancing to third. Huarte then lifted to behind second and Levey muffed it, Park scoring and Starr going to second. Estrada went out, pitcher to first to close the inning.

This over, things went along quietly enough, the Spudders scoring a tally in the seventh on Fitzgerald's single, Kloza's futile attempt to reach second on his outfield clout, and Bettencourt's single to center, while the Sports were held scoreless by Steengrafe.

Six More Tallies

But then came the eighth and the Sports' six runs. It started when Huston flied out to right. Cashion singled to center. Park walked, advancing Cashion to second. Holman strolled filling the bases. Starr flied out to left, Kloza making a good catch. Huarte singled to right, scoring Cashion and Park, and sending Holman to third. Huarte took second on the throw in. Underhill singled to center, scoring Holman and Huarte. Whelan singled to right, advancing Underhill to third. Whelan took second on the throw in. Stewart singled to right, scoring Underhill and Whelan. Hutson flied out to left to end the period.

Holman knocked his home run in the last inning with Cashion on, and the Spudders were held scoreless.

FORT WORTH, April 11.—The Texas Christian University golf team, in an effort to build up the sport at T. C. U., is playing an unusually large number of meets this year. All of the Horned Frog matches, however, are played on the Rivererest Country club course.

The Frog golfers take on the team from Baylor Saturday, and S. M. U. comes here for a match Monday. The T. C. U. team is composed of Vic Robertson, Bill Thompson, Bob Parker and Leon Taylor.

Primo's Managers Invent New Title

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11. (UP)—A new division in boxing, the heavy heavyweight class, has been invented by managers of Primo Carnera so that a "title" will be at stake if the Italian giant meets George Godfrey, huge negro, in a proposed bout in Los Angeles next June.

Lee See, Carnera's manager, announced here today the so-called man mountain had been signed with Godfrey for a 10-round bout in Wrigley field for the "heavy heavyweight championship of the world."

said the clever housewife, as she lifted the package of White King Granulated Soap.... The fact is, there's more real soap in a White King carton than there is in many a package of soap flakes or bubbles twice its size!

That's because White King Granulated Soap is pure soap—condensed—without "filler" of any sort, and it comes close packed in the carton, like powdered sugar. And a little goes a long way. A teaspoonful in a basin of water, a cupful in a tub is ample. No more!

White King is good for the heaviest or most delicate washing—blankets, dishes, or lingerie. It is the safest, most economical soap made. At your grocer's.

Scribes Favor A's to Repeat

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 1.—For the fourth consecutive year, the boys who peer intently at the proceedings through the wire screens have set forth the pre-seasonal baseball verdict. There is just one answer so far as the American league is concerned—that the Philadelphia Athletics will win again and probably do with hands down.

Exactly 60 of the 65 major league baseball writers and sports editors, who responded to the request of the Associated Press for their opinions, selected the Athletics to make it two in a row. The remaining five, taking a long shot at the advance dope, named the Yankees to stage a come-back and pick up the pennant-winning habit where they left off in 1928.

The A's are the nearest thing to a unanimous choice in the four-year record of the Associated Press consensus. Last year, 53 out of 66 picked the Yankees to win and later regretted it. In 1928, the New Yorkers were the choice of 42 out of 49 critics.

This is the first time the Athletics have been favorites since 1927, when Connie Mack's colorful assembly of Cobb, Speaker and Wheat failed to produce the expected results.

This is the order of finish that the baseball experts look for this year in the American league:

Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and Boston.

The most improved clubs in the league, on the basis of the balloting, are the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox.

NEW YORK, April 11. NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 11. (AP)—Cotton was comparatively quiet today and prices worked moderately lower following an early advance. Reports of financial trouble in Japan coupled with realizing proved sufficient to carry May off from 16.22 to 16.08, the option closed at the latter figure for a net loss of 9 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 8 to 14 points.

Big Orders Stem Selling Tide As Market Falters on Tokyo Closing

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 11. (US)—The stock market faltered on announcement of closing of the Tokyo exchange today but recovered gradually when big supporting orders were thrown in for pivotal stocks and had made up most of the lost ground before the close. Traders were in rather nervous mood due to uncertainties in the copper situation and widespread advice that corrective reaction was overdue when the Tokyo news reached the street. Heavy selling immediately broke out but was stemmed within a short time when big blocks of Steel, General Motors and others were taken in good manner. Steel finished the day with loss of 1¾, while Radio lost 1, General Motors ⅞, Anaconda 1¼, American Can 1, Westinghouse 2½, Sears Roebuck 1, New York Central 1⅞, Studebaker 1⅜, and Electric Power 1⅞. International Telephone gained 1½, while Columbia Graphaphone advanced 1¾, Public Service 1 and Johns Manville 1. Standard of New Jersey led a strong Oil group with fractional gain. Call money held at 4 per cent throughout. Turnover increased to 5,600,000 shares.

Sudden announcement on the ticker that the Tokyo stock exchange had been closed was the signal for selling wave that gave the market a welcome correction. The Tokyo happening should have no effect on our markets as none of our stocks are traded in there. From reports received it would seem that stocks of two spinning companies were heavily sold and the authorities closed the exchange to prevent a panic. It is said that short selling is not allowed in that market so that when big liquidating orders are received they catch the market without sufficient foundation. The manner in which offerings of Steel, General Motors and other leaders were taken during the hours in which the Tokyo happening caused nervousness here was further evidence of the sound foundation below the market at the present time.

Further quiet absorption of Standard Oil shares as well as such independents as Skelly, Mexican Seaboard, Standard of California and others followed the announcement of the advance in Mid-Continent crude oil price. The price of crude oil in California will be raised next week, according to confident expectation in the trade. This second advance will mean substantial increase in earnings of all the companies producing in the California fields. Belief is expressed also that there will be further upward revision in gasoline prices in the West in the very near future and that another advance will be made in eastern markets within the next month.

Buying of American Tobacco and others in the Tobacco group is based on expectation that cigaret prices will be advanced next week. Report of merger of Johns Manville and Raybestos was in circulation again but denied in semi-official quarters. There is some likelihood of Raybestos and Bendix getting together, however, it was claimed. The Johns Manville quarterly report will be out next week and, according to all reports, will be better than has been expected. Further evidence of the strength of the group working in General Motors was given in support evidenced during wave of selling around noon. At a dinner of 21 representatives of statistical and advisory departments of leading stock exchange firms U. S. Steel was voted the most popular stock on the list on the question of desirability of holding from all angles.

Recent strength of Associated Dry Goods reflects knowledge of substantial improvement in business of the company during recent weeks. Similar betterment is reported in sales of other dry goods and chain store companies. It is regarded as resulting from the combined influence of improvement in consumer sentiment and the approach of the Easter holidays. The main factor influencing the "buying mood" of the public, it is emphasized, is optimism engendered by the sustained strength of the stock market. Sales of Associated Dry Goods this month, it is claimed, are running 25 per cent ahead of last year. As a result there is expectation that special dividend action may be taken at the next directors' meeting.

Sterling turned soft in a generally unsettled foreign exchange market. Disturbing Liverpool cables early in the day influenced heavier selling of cotton. Wheat and other grains rallied after early weakness.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 11. (AP)—Little change was apparent in the cash grain situation today. Exporters were nominally bidding $1.14@1.15 for ordinary No. 1 export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports. Mills were getting considerable wheat on the basis of $1.17@1.18 for ordinary No. 1 hard and a cent more for 13 per cent protein delivered Texas common points. Demand for sorghums was strong, and prices were higher. Corn, barley and can seed were in good demand.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid.

Corn—No. 3 mixed 95½@96½c; No. 2 white 99c@$1.00; No. 2 yellow 99½c@$1.00½; basis delivered group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 94@95c; No. 2 white 96@97c; No. 3 yellow 96½@97½c.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 58@59c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 55½c; group three one cent more.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal, 73@75c

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.88@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.80@1.82.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per 100 pounds according to type, germination, origin, and clean out $4.05@4.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 11. (AP)—Some moisture relief and indications of more tonight for drouth stricken grain fields southwest made wheat prices average lower today. Holders of the May wheat delivery, representing wheat available for use, were persistent sellers. Export buying of wheat from North America was small.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ½@1⅛c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3¼c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c off and provisions at a shade to 5 cents advance.

An unofficial summary showing that spring wheat acreage in Montana, North and South Dakota and Minnesota apparently would be decreased 10 to 15 per cent.

Corn and oats prices were inclined to sag on account of fine weather for field work in the corn belt.

Provisions, although easy at the start, turned firm later in response to higher hog prices.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, April 11. (US)—Late reports from the Southwest were to the effect that scattered rains were being received. The first of these arrived in time to cause the closing dip in wheat prices. However, no general precipitation is looked for and expectations are for good buying support to continue on any easiness which may result in the opening trade because of scattered showers.

Liquidation and selling continued in corn. With favorable progress on the planting and preparations for seeding and a lack of demand sufficient to offset the continued rather heavy arrivals in the spot market there is not much enthusiasm toward the bull side just at present.

Weather in Argentina is reported generally favorable for the movement of wheat and labor conditions now seem to be fairly satisfactory, cables state.

Broomhall says "According to various cables received, the French export situation still remains unclarified and our Paris agent states that the French senate on April 2 ratified the law concerning the bonus of 100,000,000 francs to facilitate the export of 8,000,000 bushels of wheat and a good business has subsequently been worked. Other authorities state the issuance of export permits has been slightly restricted."

The first Van Dusen-Harrington report indicates that the spring season has opened with unusually favorable conditions.

MILK COOLING GIVEN STUDY

Speaker Urges Care in Handling Product

Attendance of almost 30 dairymen and farmers of this community at the meeting held at the courthouse Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the interest of better dairying bespeaks an active an increasing interest in the furthering of that industry in Wichita and surrounding counties.

Not only the community of Wichita Falls, but that of Archer City and Clay county was represented in the group which gathered here Friday to hear discussions by dairy leaders in this state. Particular interest was taken in Prof. Shepeardson's discussion of cooling systems adaptable to dairying in this community. It developed the most of the smaller producers in this area are using the same system now in use at A. & M. college, which consists of running the milk over a cooling cone before placing in cans. Approximately 25 pounds of ice to 100 pounds of milk is necessary to bring the product down to 50 degrees or lower, it was said, while about twice that amount of ice would be required if the milk is to be held at a low temperature for once-a-day delivery.

The speaker urged the use of wet blankets or canvas over cans of milk brought to the wholesale plants here, so that low temperatures will be retained even through any delay which might occur in unloading.

Crew of Wrecked Ship Picked Up by Steamer

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, April 11. (AP)—Ship-wrecked when their vessel was dashed to pieces on a reef and stranded on an island in the West Indies, five members of the crew of the three-masted Schooner Geneva Kathleen of Mobile, Ala., were landed here today by the tramp steamer Eros of Kingston, Jamaica. They had been unheard of three weeks.

Subsisting on stores washed ashore on the coral island of Grand Cayman in the Caribbean, the crew suffered no hardships, First Mate S. O. Foster said. Other survivors were K. A. Debnam, Ferris Massey, white seamen, Enrique Parret, Filipino, and Sam Johnson, negro. The rest of the crew remained on the island with the stores.

Profitable Dairying

EAST LANSING. (UP)—A dairy cow which produced 200 pounds of butterfat gives only eight per cent of the value of her product to the owner and the rest goes to pay her feed bill, according to figures released by dairy specialists at Michigan state college. However, the cow that produces 400 pounds of butterfat a year pays her owner 34 per cent of the sale value of her butterfat, it is revealed.

Bureau Here to Show How Repairs May Transform Houses

Directors of the Home Modernization bureau met at the office of J. C. Mytinger in the Waggoner building Friday morning and laid plans for beginning definite work on residential property during the coming week, according to W. S. Curlee, chairman.

Opening the program of property improvement, a residence which is in need of repair or remodeling will be obtained by the bureau as a specimen, and its improvements will be made under the supervision of the Home Modernization bureau, it was said.

Any property owner having a house on which work is needed, and who would be willing to allow the bureau to direct the completion of such repairs or alterations as the owner might desire to have made, is asked to communicate with P. M. Cordell, chairman of the commitee in charge of that plan, it was said.

Whatever compartment in the hall of cinematic fame was set aside for Norma Shearer following her sensational court room work in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" must now be shared with the heretofore playful Dot Mackaill. For over at the State, in a story very similar in setting and moral purpose (see Will N. Hays) to the Dugan trial, Dorothy accomplishes quite as effective emotional acting as that contributed by Norma a year ago.

Those who put Miss Mackaill among the third-string performers following such so-so pictures as "Strictly Modern," "Hard to Get," etc., will enjoy a pleasant surprise in her assumption of the heavy dramatic role of Betty Brown in "The Love Racket." If tragic situations demand that the fate of nations hang in the balance, this story isn't tragic; but if the story of individuals who act quite like those who live in your block, and become involved in that sort of social entanglements which keep many of our courts busy throughout the year—if these situations and personal distresses constitute tragedy, the story is fairly adequate.

At least one reservation should be made in voicing commendation of "The Love Racket." During the climatic revelations of Betty in the jury room before the last ballot, the brake was applied quite often to permit effective close-up shots of the lady-juror. But the brothersome brake seemed to jamb, and held up traffic frightfully for some moments, as it always does, you know.

Alice Day likewise turns in a highly creditable performance as the second victim of George Wayne, philanderer (Edmund Burns). Both Miss Day and Dorothy have been kept on so steady a diet of giddy laughter and adolescent slang these many months that this hour of screen-seriousness is downright pleasing. Sidney Blackmer—a newcomer—does very nicely as Betty's prospective spouse after the clouds are all cleared away. In lieu of a mustache with sinister upward twists at either end, the prosecuting attorney utilizes a distardly sneer.

Assisting Norma Talmadge in building a program for the Majectic for four days, starting Saturday, will be another of the brightest inventions thus far introduced in audible short films: "Silly Symphonies," put out by the Columbia fun laboratories. Pictured narratives which issue from the prolific and ingenious pen of Cartoonist Disney are amazingly synchronized with popular concert orchestral compositions. "Sprfngtime," which ran concurrently with "No, No, Nanette," recently at the Strand, and "Summer," shown two weeks ago at the Majestic, actually "got a hand" at almost every turn—and moving the talkie audience of today to palm-banging is something few pictures attain. The new chapter, opening Saturday, will be "Cannibal Capers"—a subject which should afford Mr. Disney and his supporting musicians material for ample delectable nonsense.

So long as "Silly Symphonies" can tickle the public taste so obviously, and Ruth Chatterton refuses to appear in a back-stage bromide as the virtuous but oppressed little hoofer, our flag shall fly high in token of unquenched hope.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Why she didn't want to kiss him

Halitosis (unpleasant breath) has broken up many a love affair and friendship.

Don't fool yourself that you never have it. Because you simply cannot be sure of that. Halitosis never announces itself to the victim. But it does to others—and offends them.

Therefore, before meeting others, rinse the mouth with full strength Listerine. If halitosis is present, it destroys it. If it isn't (and you cannot tell) your mouth receives the benefit of a refreshing and invigorating treatment.

Listerine overcomes halitosis because it is an active antiseptic and germicide which kills germs of all kinds in 15 seconds. Therefore, it checks food fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then, being a powerful deodorant, it gets rid of the odors themselves.

Keep a bottle of Listerine handy in home and office. Use it often. It pays. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

DAIRY EXPERTS STRESS FEEDS

Good Cows-Good Dairymen Assure Success

Thorough discussion of the importance of feeding and handling of cattle in successful dairying by Prof. C. N. Shepeardson, head of the dairying department of A. & M. college, was heard by more than 20 dairymen of this community at the courthouse Friday afternoon.

Elements in feeding and care of dairy stock upon which commercial success may be built were outlined and discussed in some detail by the speaker. He stressed particularly the need for depending more largely on home-grown feed, maintaining ample water supply and adequate pasture convenient to the barns, and affording both summer and winter shelter for dairy cows.

"The importance of feeding will be apparent," Professor Shepeardson said, "when you recall that feed costs are half the cost of milk production with the average farmer or dairyman. The trend of all business now is to lower costs of production as the surest way to make a profit, for selling prices are inclined to come down slowly rather than to increase.

Grow Feed at Home

"There are two requisites for successful dairying: good cows and good dairymen. To be a good dairyman, you must like your work, and understand it. Your cows are the machines which manufacture milk from the raw materials you put into them as feed.

"We have, in the past, grown too small a part of our feed. The truly successful dairying communities are found where practically all of the feed is grown at home. We have lacked pastures, therefore have lacked sufficient amounts of bulky food. We have lacked succulent feeds. These elements can be supplied by developing our pastures, and building silos."

Professor Shepeardson stressed the fact that milk is made primarily from roughage, rather than from grain. Pastures, he said, may be made to furnish the best form of roughage, under the most ideal conditions. Sudan pasture, sweet clover, and alfalfa are the best pasture crops for this section of the country he said. Sweet clover particularly is being developed extensively, it was said, and provides an excellent rough food, with plenty of protein content.

"Good silage is indispensable to the maximum development of dairying," the speaker declared. "It enables the dairyman to provide the type of food required for heavy milk production the year round. Our lightest yield here is in the winter; but in sections where silage is commonly provided, the winter's production of milk is the largest of the year."

Sufficient silage crops are raised in this locality, it was said, to take care of this community's needs. Silage keeps as long as four or five years, according to the speaker.

The need for dry roughage in the feeding plan also was emphasized by Professor Shepeardson. Production of milk is as great a strain on the cow's physical strength as a hard day's plowing in the field is on a horse, he said, and declared that inclusion of some portion of grain in the ration is equally necessary for both animals. Alfalfa is the best roughage food thus far discovered, he said, and should be the basis of hay feed. Sorghum and various grains are the best substitutes for alfalfa, he said, when the latter can not be grown. Referring to the ration of grain for dairy cows, the speaker said about one pound of grain to every three pounds of daily milk production with Jersey cows, and one pound to four with Holstein cows, had been found the most satisfactory.

Habit Important

On the handling of dairy cattle, Professor Shepeardson emphasized the statement that "the cow is definitely a creature of habit," and must be so treated. Regularity in feeding, watering and milking is requisite to successful production of milk, he declared.

"There should also be a minimum of disturbance when the cow is being milked," the speaker continued. "You can not always keep visitors out of the milking barn during the milking period, but if you want to know just what your company cost you, weigh the milk and deduct the amount from the normal yield. Any kind of disturbance shows in the production. Gentleness with the cows is fully as important as regularity and quiet. The good dairyman can walk up to any of his cows, place his hand upon her neck, and lead her quietly to the barn."

Stating that water makes up more than four-fifths of the content of milk, the speaker emphasized the value of having water available to the dairy cow at all hours of day and night. The cow which is watered morning and evening—no more—gives 15 per cent less milk than she does when she can have water at her own pleasure at any hour, it was said.

"Pasture and, shelter are highly important in obtaining the best results," the speaker continued. "The pasture should be near the barn. A cow loses much strength, therefore milk productivity, by having to walk every day to a distant pasture and back. While we do not need in this country the expensive, elaborate shelters required in the North, it is very true that too many of our herds spend the year in the shade of a barbed-wire fence. During the cold snap in January of this year, production dropped from 30 to 35 per cent because of inadequate shelter and insufficient food and water."

Selection of Stock

Inexpensive sheds, but tight enough to keep out cold winds, should be provided for every dairy herd, Professor Shepeardson urged.

Cleanliness of handling determines the value of the milk for marketing, the speaker said. Clean barns, clean utensils, clean cows, and clean coolers are necessary, according to his discussion.

Following Professor Shepeardson's talk, D. T. Simon of Fort Worth, secretary of the Texas Jersey Cattle club, spoke on the selection of cows for a successful dairying business. His discussion referred to the careful breeding of stock for the development of high-production cows, and the culling out of stock which has too low productive capacity.

Those present participated in a lengthy open discussion of various phases of the dairying business following the two addresses.

Mr. Simon and Professor Shepeardson came here from Plainview Friday morning, following their attendance at a dairy show in that city on Thursday. G. C. McGown, county farm agent, also attended the show at Plainview, and returned just ahead of the two speakers for the local meeting.

Joe N. Sherrill, chairman of the agricultural committee of the commerce, presided at the meeting Friday afternoon, and introduced the speakers. M. B. Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth & Denver railway, also was present. This was the second meeting sponsored this spring by the agricultural committee in its program for the year.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND ITS SOLUTION

Editor, The Record News:

I have been reading your recent editorials on "unemployment." As interesting as it may sound, it reminds me of doctors who treat symptoms instead of causes. Why suggest "revolution," "dole system," etc? What good could that do? There is no better form of government than that of the United States of America, but it is not being lived up to its constitutional enactments. "Money" is the power that is at the helm. "Money" is at the bottom of every question, even of religion. It was "money" that ruled "slavery" and it is "money" that is ruling the "liquor question." "Money" covers up crimes and helps the criminal. But we hope times are changing and that it is not very far off.

Civilization has been founded upon brute force, inherent royal rule, religious superstition, and the power of wealth. Each had its turn, and at present there are remnants of all forms, but we are more recently under the rule of "wealth." "Wealth" controls brute force, inherited royalty, religious superstition, and all, without "wealth" even religion cannot survive. Some religions have assumed the power of wealth, vain show, and magnificent splendor, combining itself with wealth; but the great masses are gradually seeing that it is by taxation the scheme is supported and are turning to agnosticism. Thus we have the radical extreme in Russia, eliminating all forms of religion, however unwisely, and turning to "education" as a remedy for capitalism and capitalistic religion. Russia is making wonderful changes but will sooner or later see the difference between a superstitious God, a God of "belief" and a scientific God, or the great self-existing creative force which is eternally creating all things.

But speaking of the subject—the causes of unemployment.

There are rumblings of total bankruptcy in the financial affairs of some of our cities. It seems to be growing, and the newspapers and magazines can no longer withhold the news from the public. Did you ever stop to think what would happen to our cities if they actually became bankrupt? Is it possible to turn over our cities to their creditors and let them pass into private hands? What is a city? How is it financed and what will become of it when it is bankrupt? The constitution of the United States gives the sole power to coin money, regulate and establish the value thereof to congress, hence all real money must come from congress. There is a bill in the committee of congress to allow states, counties and cities to borrow money from congress, build public works and conduct affairs of municipalities, paying back to the federal government in 25 years, the debt, so that all parties are benefited, and no one suffers. This bill has been in the committee of congress for a long time and until it is reported, and adopted more and more of our cities will go bankrupt until gradually the whole country will be plunged into a chaotic condition. The ever increasing army of unemployed cannot pay taxes, nor can those who can pay be further taxed to build poor houses to care for this great army of unemployed, but money must be forthcoming from somewhere and taxes and bonds have reached their utmost limit. In this extremity we must turn to the national government, and lo, and behold, we find there is a plan already in the constitution, to "coin money" by congress, but strangely enough, this is ignored. I am not a calamity howler, in the least, but anyone can see that we are going into the worst part of a crisis. There must be an issue of "real money" soon, to stay the crisis, as we are already bonded way into the future, and cannot be taxed more, to meet the interest. Imagine the ease and benefits to be obtained by a city borrowing money directly from the national treasury and paying back the loan on a certain date. Congress could issue the amounts required as the constitution grants congress this power. The amounts could be used to employ labor, both professional and manual, on improvements, public buildings, roads, and other necessary and cultural affairs, and once constructed the public would have them intact and at the allotted time the loan could be cancelled. No one would benefit financially but the government which is all the people, whereas the private, privileged "money-trust" benefits enormously at the expense of the people under the present system.

Yours truly,
DR. E. HAECKLER,
Archer City, Texas.

PRISONER HERE SEEKS RELEASE

Man Held for State Agent Files Habeas Corpus

Habeas corpus proceedings were brought Friday in behalf of Hope Nicely, who has been held in the county jail here for the past few weeks following his arrest by police as an escaped prisoner from the Nacogdoches jail, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

Nicely was said to have been a prisoner in the state penitentiary, having been taken to Nacogdoches on a bench warrant to face charges against him there. While in the jail in that city he made his escape, Mr. Bralley said. Police here arrested him but when penitentiary officials refused to accept the prisoner due to the order of the state prison board, he was turned over to county officials. A telegram from the penitentiary later notified officers here to hold Nicely in the county jail until the arrival of a deputy to remove him again to the prison.

The writ of habeas corpus was served Friday by Robert K. Crain, attorney for Nicely. The writ was granted by Allan D. Montgomery, judge of the 30th district court. A hearing was set for 9 o'clock Saturday morning.
