Daus also praised the ship's executive officer, Lt. Charles W. Ewing, 30, of Big Spring, Tex., "who was in the damaged area most of the time," and for "the way he handled and coordinated the action and efforts of the crew."

POLICE OFFICER WAS A WITNESS

Girls Hit By Car, Waiting On Bus

Two young girls, waiting for a school bus at Sixteenth and Bluebird about 7:30 this morning, were struck and seriously injured by a passing motorist.

Driver of the car involved was identified by police as Mrs. Lela Maye Littleton, 209 Neal, Odessa. Officers said the 60-year-old woman was reported in shock following the accident and had been taken to Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

She had not been questioned about the mishap, police said. Among witnesses to the accident was Police Patrolman Mickey Meek.

China-Soviet Break Looms

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A break in Moscow-Peking diplomatic relations is a distinct possibility if Mao Tse-tung and Defense Minister Lin Biao win the power struggle in China. It may take time for the smoke to clear. The Russians seem to be waiting and watching, their sympathies with the anti-Mao forces, but apparently without much confidence that they can win out.

There is another side to this, however. The Soviet press has failed to show any superabundance of enthusiasm for any Chinese leaders on either side. Perhaps the Russians already have lost interest in mending relations with their Communist brethren in China.

'BASH THE DOGS'
Yugoslav Communists based in Moscow now consider the Kremlin's relations with Peking close to the snapping point. One Belgrade radio correspondent reports that "discreet hints are being made in Moscow political circles on the possibility that changes may occur in Soviet-Chinese relations." It suggests the likelihood of a break in relations "or something similar."

Soviet patience has been strained. For a week there have been riotous anti-Moscow demonstrations near the Soviet Embassy in Peking, denounced by the Soviet press as "outrages." Peking reported this week that more than a million Chinese in all participated in the demonstrations, among whose milder slogans was "Bash the dogs' heads of Kossygin and Brezhnev." Alexei N. Kossygin is the Soviet premier. Leonid I. Brezhnev is Soviet party chief.

PLOT CHARGE
The provocation for the Peking demonstrations was an incident in Moscow Jan. 25, and that had the look of something deliberately staged by the Chinese. The Soviet news agency Tass said it was "nothing but an undisguised provocation planned in advance."

Matters between Peking and Moscow grow worse by the hour. The Chinese are accusing Moscow of organizing a plot with the Americans and Japanese to move into Manchuria. It is doubtful that matters can be put right again between the two, no matter who wins out in Peking.

A break in relations would begin a new stage in the feud which could result eventually in heavy concentrations of troops of both countries along the frontiers and a period of deep suspicion and hostility which would have a strong impact on the political future of Asia.

Docket Load Down By 3
There was a three case drop in the over-all docket load on file in 118th District Court in January, according to Fern Cox, district court clerk. There were 1,023 cases of all types on file Jan. 1, and 1,020 as the month ended.
The decreases were in criminal and civil cases other than divorce. Divorce suits increased 13 and tax cases were up one. January opened with 199 divorce cases pending. Twenty-six new cases were filed during the month. The court granted 11 decrees and dismissed two petitions. This left the total Jan. 31 at 212. Announcements remained unchanged—six at the start of the month and six when the month ended.
One new tax suit was filed to bring the total for Jan. 31 to 309.
Only 18 new civil cases were filed. There were 460 on hand when the month began. One was disposed of by jury, 18 were handled by the court and 12 were dismissed. This left 447 on file.
Criminal cases started with 50 on file. Four were tried by the court. The total Jan. 31 was 46.
There were 124 cases on file in the court Jan. 31 in which jury fees have been paid.

Trust Buster Plans Return To Teaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald F. Turner, the government's chief trust buster, can joke about an opponent but he's dead serious that "substantial competitors can't merge."

Turner glanced at a set of pictures in an outer office showing his predecessors as chief of the Justice Department's antitrust division. One had been reversed to face the wall.
"That's our little joke for the day," he said. "The picture was of Lee Loevinger, now a Federal Communications Commissioner and currently a Turner adversary in the world of financial marriages."

TURNER'S TOUCH
Turner is a slightly greying, somewhat balding man who looks like the prototype of a New England college professor. But he's a long way from the Harvard University classroom where he once taught antitrust law.

Take this week for example: He induced the FCC — including Loevinger — to reconsider its approval of the merger of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and American Broadcasting Companies Inc.
Confirmed he is looking into the computer industry, 75 per cent controlled by International Business Machines Corp.
Said the department is also checking on the nuclear power industry.
Turner's touch also is being felt in the banking industry. The Comptroller of the Currency's office maintains that the Justice Department is trying to substitute its views for the comptroller's expertise in banking matters.
'CANT MERGE'
FCC Commissioner James J. Wadsworth said Wednesday that the department is trying to substitute its judgement for the "expert judgement" of the FCC. But Turner has a one sentence rule that generally governs the department's attitude toward business mergers: "Substantial competitors can't merge."
He does not believe antitrust law should block natural economic development, but said, "I do believe in using it very strongly (so) that concentration and large size do not go beyond the bounds of what is absolutely necessary."
Turner, 45, said he's "got the best job in the government," but added quickly that he intends some day to return to teaching. "I can't imagine it (assistant attorney general) as a permanent career."

TEXANS AT WAR Morales, Pal Sweat It Out

By The Associated Press

Henry Morales Jr., a Texan at war, lay against an embankment beside a rice paddy, his right ankle torn by a mortar round that literally blew him into the air.
"The kid next to me got hit," recalls the Houstonian. "I tried to give him some water, but a couple of rounds hit my canteen. We didn't have any water after that, so we waited."

GUNNER BLASTED

They waited quite a while, recalls Morales, 28, for the fighting was fierce. Finally, a helicopter landed only 20 yards away. While Morales struggled to get up, the 'chopper gunner was hit in the stomach by small arms fire, and the chopper took off again.

Morales and his buddy waited some more.
"Pretty soon some Hueys and Phantoms came to give us some support," says Morales. These aircraft supplied cover for a helicopter to evacuate the wounded men.

HAPPY VALLEY?
The battle began when Morales' platoon ran into a nest of about 200 Viet Cong in Happy Valley, 12 miles from Da Nang.

"There were 28 of us," he recalls. "Only two of the platoon came out without a scratch. Twenty were killed. 'I don't know why they call it Happy Valley,' says Morales. "The place was full of the little so-and-so's."
Morales is under treatment at the U.S. Naval Hospital at Corpus Christi. He does not expect his ankle to heal completely and probably will receive a medical discharge, ending his Marine Corps career of 10 years.

Exams Slated

Civil service examination for office aide posts have been announced for March 11 at the Big Spring Post Office. Applications for the opportunity to take the test must be in the mail by Feb. 6. Civil Service officials said they are eager to provide any information needed about these posts or others for which examinations are planned.

Look Sues N.Y. Paper

NEW YORK (AP) — Look magazine is suing the New York World Journal Tribune, alleging that the newspaper violated an embargo on material from Look's serialization of the book, "The Death of a President."
The $700,000 suit, filed Thursday in federal district court here, was the third brought by Look against publications since the magazine began its serialization of author William Manchester's book last Jan. 10.
The suit, which was joined in by Manchester, claimed that the newspaper published material from Look's second installment seven hours before release time and also went beyond the press-release limits of 300 words of direct quotation in the editions of Jan. 23. The suit said use of the material amounted to "willful infringement" of the copyright.
Herbert Kamm, executive editor of the World Journal Tribune, said Thursday: "We are not aware that the World Journal Tribune violated any embargo or any other limitation on the publication of the material in Look."
Look paid Manchester $665,000 for the serialization rights to the book, which deals with events leading up to and immediately following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Harper & Row will publish the book in April.
The suit seeks $1 for what it terms each "infringing" copy of the newspaper sold that day. It is estimated in the suit that this would amount to more than $700,000.

Mars Visitors Cinch To Find Heart Of Cold?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Men visiting Mars some day may find the mysterious red planet has a heart of cold.

A warm heart, or core—preferably of molten iron—is necessary if a planet is to form mountains, oceans, continents and an atmosphere, two scientists report.
But, says geophysicist D. L. Anderson of the California Institute of Technology and R.H. Phinney of Princeton University, Mars is really a cold fish at heart.

There's still hope of change, give or take a half billion years. They said their calculations indicate Mars is an evolutionary slowpoke as planets go. Earth, they said, apparently developed from a cold solid body—like Mars—into a planet with a zoned interior and variable surface features.

NO GIANT
Theory has it, they said in an interview, that the earth's molten core is the result of tremendous pressure from gravitational forces, the constant force creates enough heat to keep the core in a liquid state.

Geophysicists say that if Mars does have a molten core, it's a small one, partly because Mars, among planets, is no giant. It's only slightly more than half the size of earth.
Another theory has it that Mars may have a molten core, seated by radioactivity. Anderson and Phinney dispute this.
PRIMITIVE MODEL
"Our calculations show," Anderson said, "that the interior temperatures of Mars are such that iron won't start melting in the center of the planet for another half billion years."
Because earth is larger, they said, it generates more heat at its center and tends to keep the heat better. The iron core formed as molten iron seeped down out of the outer crust, they said.
So what does all this mean? Mars, they explained, may thus be considered a primitive model of the earth.
"The surface of Mars may be like that on earth a long time ago," Anderson said.

Autos To Boost Rail Business?

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The automobile will put the railroads back into the passenger business, says a Maine railroad executive.

Two Loans Granted For Texas Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Loans totaling $16,600 have been authorized for two Texas projects, the Department of Housing and Urban Development said Thursday.
A $4,000 loan was granted Whitesboro for planning water system improvements costing an estimated $217,000.
Dalworthington Gardens in Tarrant County received a $12,600 loan for planning a sewer system to cost an estimated $200,000.

YOUR Horoscope Forecast for Tomorrow

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Beneath all the hubbub on the surface you have a good chance now to get more done that requires cleverness and the ability to see what others have in their minds and to aid them in the pursuit of their definite longings. Be alert to the right thing to say and do which may take more than usual thinking to understand.

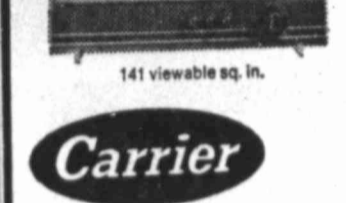

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listening to what associates and friends say will help to get corporate affairs working more efficiently in the future. Be direct in going after what you want. Then you get right results very quickly.
Taurus: (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to be more efficient in your work if you want to get the approval of superiors and co-workers. Be more interested in civic matters. Then your outside activities meet with greater success.
GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) You can rid yourself of some petty annoyances by using a new approach along creative lines. All that minute can be forgotten if you concentrate on the basics. Then you make big headway with ease.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) Show others that you are speedy and efficient in your work by being more efficient in your work. A day to make improvements that sin desires of you. Be sure that these are practical, sensible.
LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be very complimentary with close allies and you please them, relieve tensions that are very annoying. Labor more diligently, and that particular talent of yours brings greater results. Be of a happy frame of mind.
VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Tell us of your ambitions and financial position and you get their support and fine advice. You have to get down to fundamentals if you want to improve finances. Then your efforts become commendable.
LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are thinking very clearly and can handle problems most intelligently right now, as well as please partners with your ideas and to them. Be more positive in buying and selling. Show you have know-how.
SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you want to make infinitely better financial plans for the future, do not confide in others, though. You are able to make investigations easily also and use data wisely.
SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good news will back you in your projects, ideas, if you take the time to plan intelligently, clearly. Get out socially tonight and you can have a delightful interchange of conversation with others. Be charming.
CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you have any happy new year resolutions, then you should be a most productive Saturday.
AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An ideal Saturday to go out with some good comrades and look into new outlets that could be most lucrative. Show that you are alert to what is good. Make the most of that precious quality, also.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to March 20) It will pay you to listen to suggestions of influential individuals you know and also show that you are a true patriot, an A-1 citizen. Make resolutions that relieve you of tensions. Don't suffer needlessly. If you're a CHILD BORN tomorrow or he, or she, will be one of those individuals who early see the solution to rather knotty problems and also understand the fundamental principles of any modern philosophy, project, or arrangement for success with such things. Invest in an education, you possibly can find your most promising property. Give good religious training also.

Minimum Pay Law Increases Hospital Costs

By The Associated Press

You'll be paying more for your hospital room in many Texas cities after this week.

And the hospital personnel, from the nurse who waits on you to the cook who prepares your food, will be taking home record amounts of money.

The higher wages resulted from hospitals being included, for the first time, under the federal wage and hour law with a minimum hourly wage of $1 required. Time-and-a-half pay was required for persons who work more than 44 hours a week.

Many hospitals are passing along the costs to the patients. A few say they will absorb the costs or decrease their staff.

$2 TO $20 DAILY

The increases in room rates range from $2 to $20 daily.

Some hospitals raised their rates as much as six months ago, in anticipation of the new wage law, and to reflect medication and generally higher operating costs.

Most hospitals whose rates have remained stable say they are studying the situation.

Hospitals have been hard hit in recent years by competition for skilled nurses with other parts of the nation—and competition with industry for maintenance and kitchen workers.

STAFF SHORTAGES

The result has been frequent staff shortages with the existing personnel working extended shifts or six and seven day weeks.

Hospitals in Dallas and San Antonio and parts of West Texas already pay $1.40 an hour for unskilled persons to keep them from industry, and work their long hours.

This is where the new federal laws hit hardest, some hospital officials say, since hospitals are forced to cut shifts back to 44 hours unless they pay overtime rates.

OVERTIME

"These people don't want to work 40 hours a week," said the administrator of St. David's Hospital in Austin who has received four resignations he attributes to the new law. "They want to work 48 hours."

Salaries for registered nurses are going up to $500 a month in a few cities, such as Dallas. At that figure or above persons are exempt from the overtime requirement.

"It's cheaper to go ahead and pay them this and classify them as professional employees," said one Dallas spokesman. "Salaries for nurses have gone up about $100 monthly in just one year in this area."

PAY BATTLE

Smaller hospitals and rural communities stand to lose in the wage battle for experienced nurses.

Some still pay nurses at $280 a month, said Miss Billie J. Brown of Austin, president of the Texas Nurses Association. Her group is pushing for an annual starting salary of $5,500.

"It's difficult to get nurses no matter what you pay," said a spokesman for Houston's Methodist Hospital where nurses start at $475 and the average is $555 a month.

Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin is challenging the extension of the federal law to hospitals and other facilities, but most hospitals aren't waiting for the outcome of his suit to raise their rates.

ANGELO HIKE

Lubbock's nine hospitals had raised room rates by $2 to $5 last year in anticipation of the wage law.

In Fort Worth, the three leading hospitals raised room prices about $2 across the board and $4 for intensive care, one several months ago in anticipation of the new law. The same was true of Sherman's Wilson N. Jones Hospital, and at the Fort Stockton Hospital in Pecos County.

Corpus Christi hospitals went up from $1 to $5 a day, Kilgore's raise was $4, Valverde Memorial Hospital in Del Rio, up $1 to $3, San Angelo up between $3 and $6 daily, and rooms at one Waco hospital, up $5.

San Angelo's nurses got a 10 to 20 per cent raise and at least one city hospital had a minimum wage of $1.40 an hour.

In Amarillo, only one hospital went up in rates—Northwest Texas—with a $2.50 daily addition to room prices, and nurses' salaries rose from $380 to $455 for beginners.

ROBERT E. MAYO HARRY W. BROOKS

Two Lieutenants Named To Honors, Commended

First Lieutenants Robert E. Mayo and Harry W. Brooks have been named for honor on the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron's Point-with-Pride board.

The two instructor pilots were commended for outstanding duty performance by Lt. Col. Edward W. Luby, squadron commander.

Lt. Brooks instructs students in the T-37 trainer, while Lt. Mayo is a T-38 Talon instructor. Each currently has three regularly assigned student pilots.

Col. Luby called attention to the accuracy, extra hours, and professional competence of both officers. The student pilots assigned to both are above average in their flying proficiency.

In the letter naming Lt. Mayo, Col. Luby's letter pointed out: "His professionalism as a pilot was recently displayed in-flight while performing an afterburner climb to altitude, a fire warning light illuminated. Lt. Mayo immediately took control of the aircraft and covered the appropriate emergency procedures. After ensuring that the student was properly briefed on the extent of the emergency and that

NEW YORK (AP) — It would indeed be quite a night out on any town if it included watching Peter Sellers in two very funny sketches, Sir Laurence Olivier in a song-and-dance bit from "The Entertainer," and Albert Finney in a scene from "Luther."

But television viewers of Thursday night's "David Frost's Night Out in London" on ABC had even more diversion — a few acts, none really distinguished, in London night spots and some humorous commentary between times from the host himself. Color film of the British capital by night was a treat to the eye.

Thirteen of the airmen were from the 3560th Supply Squadron; the others are men recently assigned to the base, whose notification of promotion came from their last station.

In supply squadron, these men were promoted to Airman Second Class, effective Wednesday: Airman Third Class Billy J. Albert, Henry C. Brewer Jr., Ronald L. Griffin, Patrick J. Hentges, Henry L. A. McClark Jr., Larry L. Parker, James W. Ringold III, Herman Schoonejongen Jr., William B. Sebastian Jr., Wallace C. Stuart, Charles A. Underwood Jr., Richard P. Williams and Raymond C. Wuestner.

One man in organizational maintenance squadron was promoted to staff sergeant and four to airman first class. Airman I.C. Alfred J. Young became a staff sergeant. These men became airman first class: Gerald Ruane, Bruce E. Terwilliger, Daniel G. Bodner, Isaac Hampton Jr.

Estes To Testify In El Paso Again

EL PASO (AP) — Billie So Estes will return to El Paso Feb. 27 to testify in bankruptcy proceedings against him.

Estes currently is serving a 15-year prison term in the federal correctional prison at Sandstone, Minn. He drew the sentence after an El Paso jury convicted him in 1963 on charges of fraud in connection with loans on non-existent fertilizer tanks.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ernest Quinn directed Thursday that Estes be brought here from Minnesota.

The bankruptcy hearing will be before referee Malcolm McGregor. Government lawyers are expected to question Estes about assets claimed by the trustees of his bankrupt estate.

New Approach To Relocating Jobless Tried

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A new approach to relocating the jobless is being tried in a pilot program in the state of Washington. It is aimed at solving the problem of homeless workers drifting back to their old homes.

The Washington State Employment Security Department has contracted with the Travelers Aid Society to provide "settling-in" services for families moved to the state.

The experiment is financed in part by a $451,000 federal grant to cover the cost of transportation and shipping household goods and to allow for some cash to be given to the transplanted families to get started in their new homes. Each man and his wife are allocated $108, with an additional $54 for each child.

UNIQUE PROJECT

The first to come under the federal-state program was a jet airplane mechanic who was unable to find a market for his skills in Vancouver, Wash. The next was a cosmetologist from another Washington State community.

"Our project is unique in that it is the only one in the country in which a 'demand' area is reaching out seeking unemployed skills in a 'supply' area," said Arthur W. Burchill, assistant state commissioner of employment security.

Burchill explained that the usual procedure is to start with a community which has workers for whom it has no jobs, and then look for places to relocate them.

GO BACK HOME

One of the main stumbling blocks in the federal government's efforts to match the unemployed with jobs in a labor-short economy has been the difficulty of persuading the poor and unskilled to move to a new area from which the jobless were being moved.

Michael P. Kastanek, of the federal Bureau of Employment, said in Washington Thursday in announcing the new project that about 20 per cent of the 6,000 workers and their families relocated in 21 states in previous experiments gave up and went back home. The Labor Department thinks this is too many.

Rape-Slaying Case Dropped

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Brazoria County authorities have officially dropped the case against a Houston aircraft mechanic whose murder trial ended in a mistrial last summer at Angleton.

Henry Francis Amerson, 40, was charged in the rape-slaying of Mrs. Marjorie Wells, 26, a Houston flight insurance clerk, whose body was found in an icy Brazoria County ditch Jan. 16, 1965.

Amerson's trial lasted 31 days and resulted in a mistrial when jurors could not agree on a verdict.

Brazoria County Dist. Atty. Ogden Bass of Angleton said he filed the motion for dismissal of the indictments against Amerson because there is no new evidence that would warrant the expense of a new trial. Dist. Judge G. P. Hardy granted the motion Thursday.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Richard L. Green, 47, who won a Hollywood motion picture Academy Oscar in 1953 for his screenplay, "Titanic," died Wednesday after surgery. Green was president of the Screen Writers Guild from 1952 to 1953 and first president of the Writers Guild of America.

Luci Expecting Baby In June?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent is expecting a baby sometime in June, the Washington Post reported today in a copyright story.

The article by Marie Smith added that President and Mrs. Johnson aren't talking for publication about the big event, preferring to await Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent's own formal announcement. It would be the Johnson's first grandchild.

Ky Pledges Vote Speed Up In Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today he will speed up South Vietnam's presidential elections. He also said he regards corruption in government as a major problem in this country.

Ky said in an interview he planned to speed the elections so that they will be held within three months of the adoption of South Vietnam's constitution which is being written by a constituent assembly and is scheduled to be finished March 27.

Ky said he is going to invite 1,000 reporters from around the world to witness the elections. He added if U.N. Secretary-General U Thant "wants to come, he can come too."

The premier said it is important "to have a clean and honest election to give the future president true prestige."

Ky, 36, indicated that a new land-reform program would be initiated under which 200,000 to 300,000 Vietnamese families would receive land which formerly belonged to absentee French owners.

They know that a civilian elected government means that South Vietnam has a stable, stronger and official government with all the prestige and support from the population.

On corruption, the premier said that Generals Cao Van Vien, chief of the joint general staff, and Nguyen Van Vy, chief of the armed forces joint staff, were making a systematic investigation into conditions in all four military corps areas.

"In the last 18 months," Ky said, "we have eliminated many bad people. We have made progress but we must keep at it. We must not only eliminate the corrupt commanders but bring justice to the good ones who have been victims of the system."

Four At Webb Given Commendation Medals

Four maintenance men received the Air Force Commendation Medal Friday morning. Col. William K. Knight, chief of maintenance, made the awards.

S. Sgt. Cesar A. Jaime, flight chief of Hotel Flight (T-38 Talon), distinguished himself by meritorious service as crew chief with Detachment 1, 460th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam from April 1 to Oct. 10, 1966. The citation read in part: "Sgt. Jaime's outstanding professional skill and initiative aided immeasurably in identifying and solving numerous problems encountered in the accomplishment of his duties."

SERGEANT AMSDEN

S. Sgt. Charles E. Amnsden, maintenance analysis technician, received the Commendation Medal for the period Nov. 24, 1965 to July 24, 1966.

The sergeant "distinguished himself by outstanding achievement as a volunteer augmentee for the 636th Air Police Squadron, Clark AB, Republic of the Philippines. He contributed more than 400 hours of his off-duty time augmenting the base-wide anti-theft and pilferage campaign."

AIRMAN SIEGERT

Airman I.C. Gerald G. Siegert distinguished himself by "outstanding achievement" as the airman-in-charge of the grave shift aircraft servicing section while assigned to the 6200th Organizational Maintenance Squadron, Clark AB, Republic of the Philippines and while on temporary duty with the 46th Fighter Wing, Da Nang AB, Vietnam from March to August 1966.

The citation accompanying his award commended the airman for "willing cooperation and unselfish devotion to duty which enabled him to overcome the many obstacles encountered in night shift duty in the combat zone." He was assigned to do maintenance work on B-57 aircraft.

Airman Siegert arrived at Webb in November 1966. He is a jet mechanic on J-Row, T-38 Talons.

Bledsoe Takes Retirement

Blake O. Bledsoe, 70, retired from government service Tuesday after a long career. He has worked in the materiel storage and issue section of base level supply for 11 years. He began his federal service with the U.S. Army April, 1917. At that time he was assigned to the 9th U.S. Infantry Regiment, 2nd Infantry Division, as a wagoner.

He went to France in 1917 and took part in the Chateau-Thierry, Soissons, St. Mihiel, Blanc Mont and Argonne-Meuse campaigns. His unit was awarded a French citation for meritorious service.

After ranching for several years, he went to work for Pyote AFB, in 1943. He came as a civil service employe to Webb in 1954.

Diphtheria Death

PORT LAVACA, Tex. (AP) — Calhoun County had its first confirmed diphtheria death since 1962 today. The victim was Laquita Schmidli, 3.

Officials said anyone in direct contact with the girl or her father, chiropractor Roy H. Schmidli, in the past 10 days should report to a physician.

IDENTITY NOT MADE CLEAR

An item in Thursday's Herald referring to a Sandra Payne being taken to the Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital should have been more explicit in the identity.

Police records show this to be Mrs. H. C. (Sandra) Payne of 1318 Mesquite.

The person involved was not Mrs. James A. (Sandra) Payne of 1402 Stanford, and she is in no way figured in the case.

The Herald extends its apologies for not having given full information on the matter.

The Answer Is In Trade

Chile has rightly been praised for showing self-reliance and independence by forgoing further U.S. budget-support loans when the Eduardo Frei administration determined it could balance the national budget without that credit aid. However, that is not the whole story, and there is a lesson in this incident for Washington and the other advanced industrial nations. Chile can now balance its budget mainly because the world-market price of copper has gone up, largely under Vietnam war effort pressure. And Frei stopped borrowing for operating expenses as soon as he could, because he wants to avoid as much of the future burden of foreign-loan repayments as he can. He, like Latin America generally, does not want to mortgage his nation's future development any more heavily than is unavoidable.

nations less involved in aiding Latin America, is that the region needs improved terms of international trade much more than it needs either grant or credit aid. In a recent decade, the widening gap between Latin America's export and import prices—called adverse terms of trade—cost the region more than it gained in foreign aid from all sources.

Latin Americans now generally realize that they cannot rely indefinitely on direct aid for social progress and economic development, and certainly not on credit aid that soon will be draining their exchange reserves through repayment requirements. What they need, what they want, and what it is in the U.S. interest to try to get for them, is better trade markets and higher export prices. That is the only lasting solution to Latin America's economic ills.

The lesson for the U.S., and other

Our New Coach

The search for a head football coach and athletic director for Big Spring schools has ended with the employment of W. T. (Spike) Dykes.

Big Spring has had occasion in the past to observe his work as a coach when he held that position at Coahoma, leading that team to the semifinals. More impressive was the manner in which he engendered spirit among the players and the community. Although young, he is a proficient craftsman who is completely wrapped up in his calling.

Dykes would give it all he had on any account, but we suspect that he will give even an extra measure of effort here because part of his heritage is in Big Spring and on three occasions he has lived here. Here's hoping his fourth sojourn will be the longest and by far the happiest for him and the town.

Advocating Wage-Price Controls

WASHINGTON—President Johnson has surrendered partly to the expediency of practical politics but mostly to sheer frustration over the economic complexities of the day as he accepts the conclusions of his Council of Economic Advisors. For, after several years of experience with so-called "guideposts" as a supposed restraint on wage-and-price rises, the Council finds it necessary to abandon them and to tell both business and labor that hereafter they are on their own.

This could mean the biggest wave of strikes and costly interruptions of business that has been witnessed in a long time.

UNION LEADERS naturally are pleased that the "guideposts" are no longer to be officially revered, and the Democratic administration, which has been heavily supported by campaign contributions from labor, doubtless can expect now even more intensive political help from labor.

But the cost to the American people is incalculable. Already the auto industry is laying off thousands of workers due to a slump in sales. Labor contracts expire this year in many big industries—autos, railroads, trucking, metal mining, rubber, farm-equipment manufacturing and meat packing. Employers will have to resist big wage increases or accept higher costs.

THE PRESIDENT is asking that business and labor apply "the utmost restraint and responsibility in wage and price decisions." But this is not likely to be regarded as anything but an exhortation without practical value. It may be, of course, a forerunner of the inevitable enactment of wage-and-price laws. This has happened on three other occasions in wartime.

WHAT THE President's message amounts to is an unwitting confession that the economy cannot be managed effectively as long as labor-union leaders refuse to obey "guideposts" or any other form of advice from the government which isn't compulsory. It is conceded by the administration, to be sure, that the cost of living has risen and that wages will have to be modified to take this increase into account. But it is also true that many workers unorganized by labor are unable to get higher wages. Many of the marginal businesses, moreover, are imperiled because they can't afford to pay the wage scales agreed upon by their larger competitors.

THE PRESIDENT gives a lot of space in his economic message to the hike in prices with only casual references to what pushed them upward. He says:

"We are not satisfied with our record on prices and we expect to improve on it this year. There are many reasons why we refuse to tolerate rapidly rising prices . . .

"If unions now attempt to recoup in wages all of the past or anticipated advance in the cost of living—in addition to the productivity trend; if businesses now seek to pass along rising costs when it would be possible to absorb them or do not reduce prices when costs fall; then the result will be just such a spiral—damaging to business, damaging to labor, and disastrous to the nation."

"EXPERIMENTS in persuasion," however, have already been tried and have failed. There is nothing left to do except to impose wage-and-price control by law. The President is reluctant to do this as it might antagonize labor and lose him political support in the 1968 election. The economy might be artificially stimulated, of course, until after the election. But if public confidence meanwhile weakens, the administration could find itself compelled belatedly to put into effect wage-and-price controls although they are unpopular. The mere threat of it in the meantime, as well as fear of a diminished demand by the consumer, might become a major influence toward self-restraint. (Copyright, 1967, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

LBJ Echoes Peace Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson using a news conference to make a major appeal for peace in Vietnam, admitted frustrations nine times but the irony in what he said is that he said it all before.

This time he simply pulled a bunch of the pieces together, dipping all the way back into 1965, and presented them in one big bundle to a listening world with the obvious intent of showing his earnest desire for a settlement.

He was clearly answering the critics of American foreign policy and probably had no effect on them since nothing he has said along the same lines before did.

NINE TIMES, in one form or another, Johnson said, "In all candor, I must say that I am not aware of any serious effort that the other side has made, in my judgment, to bring the fighting to a stop and to stop the war."

After his Honolulu conference last February with South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Johnson and Ky in their communique said they "noted with regret the total absence of a present interest in peace" by North Vietnam.

Thus, through repetition, Johnson attempted to show the consistency of the American position in wishing peace while being ignored by the Communists.

THERE was nothing off-the-cuff about Johnson's performance. Vietnam had been high in the news for days, with speculation that the North Vietnamese were beginning to throw out hints they wanted to discuss an end to the fighting.

The President came prepared against any slip of the tongue. He had a loose-leaf book with notes in front of him and glanced at them constantly as he gave his lengthy answers to short questions.

The news conference lasted nearly 30 minutes and almost all of it was taken up with questions about Vietnam. Under ordinary circumstances Johnson could have said all he had to say in about three of those minutes.

THE FACT that he took up all the time he did is pretty good evidence that he wanted to make Thursday's appearance before the televised news conference a major production on Vietnam.

As long ago as April 7, 1965, at Johns Hopkins University Johnson had said "We remain ready for unconditional discussions." Thursday he said the same thing.

Johnson even repeated, with a slight variation, the picture of his troubled self lying awake at night thinking about the war.

At Johns Hopkins he said, "Every night before I turn out the lights to sleep, I ask myself this question: Have I done everything I can to unite this country? Have I done everything I can to help unite the world, to try to bring peace and hope to all the people of the world? Have I done enough?"

How Are You Fixed For Onions?

I read by the junk mail that the honorable onion has a distinguished record as a cold cure.

HAVING THE sniffles at the moment, I'm toying with the idea of going out and buying a sack of onions. The word from one New Yorker is that if you will bind slices of raw onion to the soles of the feet, it will draw the cold out overnight. Of course, this may get you kicked out of bed. And, on the plus side, it may put a stop to this grumbling about athletes feet. I suspect that onion feet is worse.

Some home nostrums prefer to boil the onion slices with sugar until a thick sauce is made. This mixture should be taken one or two tablespoons every hour. If that won't drive the cold back to your head and the recesses of your chest, then nothing will.

THE PRESS release, to which I referred in the beginning, brushed the onion remedy off as being medically unsound. I'm not so sure. A friend of ours, after being sick as a billiard ball for years, began to grow the nicest head of white hair you ever saw. Pressed for his secret, he said it was to cut a large Bermuda onion and rub it over the scalp, massaging the juice into the follicles. A few tried it on the sly, but complained about lack of results, but our hair-grower steadfastly contended, with a twinkle, they had not used a Bermuda onion. But the point is, if an onion can grow hair, why not overcome a puny cold?

OTHER FOLK remedies favored for treatment of a cold include binding of scaled herrings to the soles of your feet overnight; chewing raw, seasoned peanuts; washing down garlic capsules and vinegar pickles with beer; rinsing the eyes morning and night with eye wash; or washing down nothing with ample portions of spiritus frumenti. The latter may not cure, but it gets the patient to where he doesn't care.

Grandma used to go long on poultices of tallow and turpentine, or a good, strong mustard plaster that made you think something was happening. Some few dug to the back side of the kitchen safe and hauled out a bottle of whiskey kept in secret for such dire emergencies, and made a mixture of the liquor and sugar, or maybe an egg, too, just to rally the strength.

SCIENCE SAYS none of this does any good, that there is not yet a cure for the common cold, and that none appears on the horizon for the reason that there are 150 cold-causing viruses, not to mention all sorts of allergies which mock the cold. But the best science can do is to advise you to go to bed, keep warm, gargle to ease a sore throat, take aspirin for the discomfort, and go see the doctor if it won't get better. Kind of inadequate, with a twinkle, is it? Now about that onion. hmmm. —JOE PICKLE

Face Up—The City Is A Goner

WASHINGTON—But which of the mice is going to bell the cat? I mean the big, slinking feline that walks in the dark and eats up everything it can catch.

The cat has many aliases—the urban problem, the big city blight, the central city rot, but its real name is history. Many things are happening in the U.S.A. because we have reached a seventh heaven of industrialization, dynamic competition, enduring prosperity and a Darwinian separation of the fit and unfit. But we don't know what to do about those decaying cities.

IT'S QUITE a cat, and if the mice knew how—or dared—to tie a bell around its neck, maybe we could tell more about its whys and whereabouts. But the mice (which are men somewhat dwarfed by the size of the problem) aren't very eager for uncompromising confrontation. They prefer flanking movements on the feline.

Sen. Muskie (D., Maine) has an investigation going on "environment." He appreciates pure air and water, he tells me, because there's plenty of both in his state. If I understand him, he hardly expects to turn back the clock as it's been running throughout most of America, but is concentrating on the future. He mainly intends to collect a large body of scientific knowledge which may help to prevent further mistakes. But that isn't exactly belling the cat.

SEN. NELSON (D., Wis.) has a probe going on the uses of scientific manpower. He is convinced, and quite rightly, that the systems-analyses used by big industry and the military might well be applied to national planning. The senator mentioned a Wisconsin dairy farmer who got more milk by piping music into his cow barn. And he mentioned Teacher Corps experiments which indicate that it's better to assign a troubleshooter to the half-dozen laggards in a classroom than to try to reduce the size of the classes. These are, you might say, matters of marginal improvement, but do they bell the cat?

SEN. RIBICOFF (D., Conn.) has a program for re-financing and rehabilitating the city slums. He divides his plan into Private Section and Public Sector; but when you study the Ribicoff blueprint for the Competent City, you find that he's relying entirely on the federal government. Business is not going to be lured back into the slums (having escaped therefrom) by artful loans and tax incentives. That's no way to bell the cat.

THE ONLY WAY to do it is admit what's happened. We have passed through the historical phase of the teeming metropolises. Worthwhile people move to the suburbs—therefore, suburbs are right, not wrong. New plants are locating where the population is light. Ergo, they shouldn't be expected to do anything else. The slums are getting worse, not better, under all the federal spending, and they should be unromantically razed, not sentimentally propped up.

THE FIRST mouse who summons the nerve to tell this to the other mice will have made a beginning at belling the cat. For the bell that should be hung on the prowling menace is one that rings farewell. The city, or that part of it which gives uicers to those trying to save it, is a historical genre in our time. (Copyright, 1967, The Washington Post Co.)

Marquis Childs
Charles Percy, New GOP Star

WASHINGTON—In the 1968 Republican sweepstakes a new entry is moving up fast. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois is among the front runners and by agreement of the rail birds he is crowding the favorite.

The favorite is Gov. George Romney of Michigan who has had his troubles lately over what he did or did not say to reporters at one of those ambiguous background sessions. But the contrast between the respective positions of the two men is not merely one of personality and viewpoint.

TAKING HIS SEAT in the Senate following his defeat of the veteran Democrat, Paul Douglas, Percy has a distinct advantage. He is where the action is. For all the hopeful talk about creative federalism and turning back revenue to the states—in some distant tomorrow—power is concentrated today in this capital. The governors are on the periphery and it is hardly fair to expect Romney from the distance of Lansing, Mich., to come up with the answers on the big issues, including the war in Vietnam.

WHAT IS MORE, Percy is taking to Washington and the Senate like a duck to water. With the full cooperation of the senior senator from Illinois, Everett McKinley Dirksen, he has been given advantageous committee assignments—Banking and Currency; Aeronautical and Space Sciences; and the Joint Economic Committee.

Percy is confident that on Banking and Currency he will be able to push his proposal to get private industry into urban low-cost housing on a guaranteed loan basis. This may be no more than the wish fulfillment fantasy of a new member of the club. But it has already got him considerable mileage in publicity, since it is a concept that various highly placed persons in the Johnson administration loved with before it was filed and forgotten.

AS BETWEEN Percy and Romney, the Michigan governor has never been forgiven by the conservatives for failing to support Goldwater in 1964. It was probably, however, the reason he was re-elected to a second term. Percy did stand by the head of the ticket and that was one of the reasons he was defeated in his race for governor of Illinois against the incumbent Democrat, Otto Kerner. As between the two, Percy would seem to be a more likely compromise if the Republican convention splits along conservative and moderate lines.

ALL THIS, it is hardly necessary to add, is speculation, since politics can hardly be computerized. Percy says that he came very close to announcing a year ago that he would not run against Douglas, even though private polls showed that he was the only Illinois Republican who could come close to beating the presumably unbeatable Douglas.

Whenever the question of the presidency came up during his campaign—on the assumption that he might win the Senate seat—he would back away with the demur that even with a year and a half of experience in the Senate by mid-1968 any such talk was premature.

HE IS REMARKABLY photogenic, projecting on television the image of a young—he is 48 and looks 10 years younger—and determined but fair-minded advocate. He speaks with a natural ease of manner and gives the impression at least of being willing to answer any question. His critics in both parties say he is too slick, too glib, too eager, having been on both sides of all questions.

But he is something new and in many ways novel on the Washington scene. (Copyright, 1967, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—The Confirmed Bachelors' Club at Auburn University appears to be fighting a losing battle against the lure of matrimony. The club started with four members—and at last count they were the only ones left.

To Your Good Health
When X-Rays Don't Show Gall Stones

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Why don't X-rays show gall stones? I was in such pain that I was hospitalized and given a shot for pain every two or three hours. Now X-rays show nothing again. — P. H. D.
Your letter doesn't make quite clear what happened, but here are some possible answers: First, you may have had a gall stone which caused the pain until the stone finally was forced through the duct and you got rid of it. Second, X-rays of the gall bladder are taken by administering a dye which goes to the gall bladder and makes it visible. Sometimes a diseased gall bladder will not absorb the dye so the X-rays don't show anything. In such a case other symptoms indicate whether surgery is required.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am 35 and diabetes was diagnosed two years ago. I started at 12 units of insulin but am now down to six. Tablets were tried at first but they nauseated me. Nurses and even some doctors have indicated surprise at the small amount of insulin I take. Would you comment? — D. H.

There are four other types of oral medication for diabetes that might be tried. If they all upset you, then you must settle for the insulin. Small doses are not unusual, and can mean the difference between good or poor control of your diabetes. The amount depends in part on your diet, in part on severity of the disease.
Dear Dr. Molner: My mother and sisters say that birth control pills stop your monthly period. I say it just regulates it but does not stop it. Please settle this for us. — G. G.
The "pill" does not stop menstruation. The instructions for use say to start on the fifth day after a period starts, and then take a pill daily for a given number of days. (There is some slight variation, depending on the type being used.)
If the pills prevented menstruation, there would be no way for you to know when to start taking the pills each month.

In many instances an irregular cycle will be regulated by use of the pill, so you are right in your contention.
What the pill does primarily is prevent ovulation, which occurs about mid-cycle. If no ovum is produced, there can be no pregnancy.
"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. Don't Have Dry Skin Before You Are Old

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely writes: My skin is seriously dry. There are patches of flake around my nose and little wrinkles are beginning to appear at the sides of my eyes. Since I am in my early thirties, the condition seems premature. Please suggest a treatment, a simple one. Having three children, I am short on time.

The Answer: The early thirties is indeed an early dry skin to be a problem. However it can be controlled, when your health is normal, by proper skin care and diet. The trouble is most likely caused by a case of diet deficiency.

The simplest treatment yet devised is medicated cold cream for dry skin, which can be used to cleanse and for night care. Applications provide much needed moisture, along with soothing oils and antiseptic properties. The latter feature is most helpful in overcoming flake and multiple sub-surface abrasions.

When time permits, steaming your face, after creaming, over a basin of hot water of facial sauna is beneficial. The vapors soften the flaked skin, and open the pores to let the cream penetrate. Always, before going outdoors, you should give your skin a protective application of foundation.

And that brings us to diet:

I'M NOT THAT OLD

Be sure your daily intake includes extra amounts of the vitamin-A foods: eight ounces of citrus juice, two raw carrots and two dark green vegetables.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, "The Eyes of Youth." To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Vietnam Veteran Visits In Knott

KNOTT (SC) — Cpl. Terry Hughes of Oxnard, Calif., is on leave from duty in Vietnam and is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. W. G. Shaw, and other relatives in the area. A former Knott resident, Cpl. Hughes, will return to Vietnam Feb. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Nichols are visiting relatives in Plainview.

Mrs. Carrie Langham is in Midland as a guest of the Roy Webbs.

Mrs. J. E. Peugh and members of the Girls Auxiliary, which she serves as sponsor, visited Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John McGregor, Mrs. W. B. Thornton and Mrs. Herschel Smith.

Birdwell Lane Methodists Will Furnish Cookies

Plans to furnish cookies for the Big Spring State Hospital on March 3 were made during the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at North Birdwell Lane Methodist Church.

Mrs. Johnny Welborn presided as Mrs. Joe Barbee gave the report from a recent meeting of the United Council of Church Women, and Mrs. Vernon Kent gave the devotion.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Carmey Dickinson, Mrs. Wesley Carroll and Mrs. Jack Smith was named to present a proposed slate of officers for election March 1.

Mrs. Welborn announced that the annual WSCS meeting will be held March 7-8 in Amarillo. A bake sale, sponsored by the group, will begin at 8 a.m., Feb. 15, at the Piggly Wiggly on Eleventh Place.

The next meeting will be March 1 at the church, and members were asked to bring greeting cards to be sent to missionaries overseas.

WESTBROOK (SC) — The Carr Home Demonstration Club met Friday at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Tom Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Hendrix spent the weekend in Corpus Christi with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hendrix.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rees have returned from a visit in Mesquite with their son-in-law and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Wilkerson who have recently moved there from Midland. They also visited in Mt. Pleasant with relatives and Mr. Rees' sister returned with them for a visit.

She Wears The Pants

Tight-fitting afghan or rajah pants are the mainstay of white satin cotton wedding gown shown by Jacques Esterel this week in Paris at his spring and summer fashion show. The hemline at gown's front is way above the knees while the rest of it is cut so the rear spreads out and back to form the train. Veil is just about big enough to do double duty as a mosquito net. Esterel calls it "Extreme Centre." (AP WIREPHOTO by cable from Paris)

Midland Minister Speaks To CWF

The Rev. Robert Gartman, minister of Memorial Christian Church in Midland, was guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Christian Woman's Fellowship at First Christian Church.

Speaking on "Re-Structure," Rev. Gartman detailed points in several areas. He discussed the Christian brotherhood as it now functions, gave his explanation of re-structure, and followed it by answering questions from members.

Rev. Gartman, who has held pastorates in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, was introduced by Mrs. Don Williams.

Refreshments were served in Fellowship Hall, with members of the Rosa Ann Parks group as hostesses. Approximately 50 persons attended. The next meeting will be March 2.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Keep Head Scarves From Going Astray

Dear Heloise: I have lost many head scarves by sticking them into my raincoat pocket (or any pocket for that matter) when I take my coat off.

Know what I did? Using a razor blade, I undid the stitching on the top and the bottom of all the labels in the back of my coats.

Now when I take off a scarf I use my finger to push the end of it through the label.

I haven't lost one in over a year now.

Don't you think that was tricky? ... Robbin Bobbin

Not only tricky, but nifty I would say. ... Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have a suggestion that helps me, and the members of my family, to remember birthdays and anniversaries dates.

When the new calendars come out, I mark all the special days for the entire year and hang the calendar by the telephone.

This way we are able to observe special dates at the right time. ... Bobbi Williamson

Dear Heloise: I wrap coat and suit buttons in heavy foil before taking them to the coin-operated cleaning service, and find it helps prevent discoloration and chipping of large buttons.

Dear Heloise: Whenever taking a baby on an overnight trip, always take his cereal in a clean baby food jar.

All you need do is add formula and feed him with a plastic spoon. No clean-up, or dishes and half-filled boxes to cart home. ... Mrs. D. McWilliams

Dear Heloise: We've discovered that when old shoe laces lose the plastic tip on the ends, you can put glue on the frayed string ends. Just twist and let dry to make them almost as good as new.

We used glue on our child's white laces and washed them. The ends stayed together.

This saved us much aggravation trying to push the frayed ends through the holes. ... M. A. Waronsky

Dear Heloise: While feeding my dog, I discovered a great idea.

I have to feed him one can of food a day and I usually give it to him all at once. I cut off both of the ends of the can and pushed out the meat. Then I use the can to chop it up with.

good gravy if made according to directions and then thickened with flour.

Broth is great for hot pork sandwiches.

Onion soup makes a good gravy for beef. ... Betty L. Elkin

I filed a baby food jar full of water and replaced the top. Then punched a hole in the lid large enough to put the brush through.

This way a child can paint away without worry on your part.

The hole is just large enough to put the brush in to wash it off, but if the jar tips over, very little water (if any) runs out. ... Glendena Paugh

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits.

However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

(Write Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald.)

No messy silverware to wash.

either. ... Pam Washburn

Dear Heloise: This is a good way to cut down on the risks of spilling water when children are painting.

Dear Heloise: Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits.

However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

'Message Is There' In Graham Feature

"All the defeats and victories of a newly-committed Christian are in 'For Pete's Sake!' It spoke to more... it had a greater personal impact upon me than any other film with a religious theme that I have ever seen. It stirs the emotions, and you will laugh and you may weep, but the message is there."

This is the word of Billy Graham regarding the color motion picture coming Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to the Ritz Theatre.

Like its predecessor, "The Restless Ones," it is basically religious and details the story of Pete Harper, whose life was re-arranged by God. This involves the tribulations, the heart-aches and the joys of a man seeking to be a new creature in Christ.

First showings each of the three days will be at 4 p.m., and two others will follow in the evening. At each of these, the churches of Big Spring will have volunteer counselors present to talk with any who may have a decision to make. At the showing of "The Restless Ones," there were numerous decisions by young people, and by some adults.

The film is coming here under auspices of Citizens for a Better Howard County, and tickets are being bought by individuals, businesses and others for distribution to all who will want to see the film. Dr. H. M. Jarratt, president of the sponsoring group, urged church people to buy tickets and put them in the hands of young people or others who will use them.

JESUS PINPOINTS LOVE IN PERSPECTIVE FOR PHARISEES

The spirit of love is cast in bold relief against meaningless, outward manifestations of spirituality in the International Sunday School Lesson.

Out of an admirable beginning, some 250 years BC, when they sought to protect the religious purity of their faith, the Pharisees had lost sight of their original vision. They had become ingrown and legalistic, bound by outward rigidity and inward frigidity.

When one of them sought to take Jesus to task for coming to the table unwashed, Christ unmasked his hypocrisy with a series of questions. Is it more important that the outside or the inside of a cup be clean? Can a man hide his own uncleanness from God by professing outwardly to be pure? Jesus quickly puts matters in perspective and takes the Pharisees to task for overlooking the spirit of love.

Then he makes two remarkable statements: "Seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you," and "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." The Scripture sums up succinctly that where "your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

The Scripture passage is from Luke 11:37-44 and Luke 12:29-33. Daily Bible readings are: Monday, Luke 11:14-26; Tuesday, Luke 11:29-36; Wednesday, Luke 11:37-44; Thursday, Luke 12:1-9; Friday, Luke 12:13-21; Saturday, Luke 12:22-34; and Sunday, Luke 12:35-48.

Ancient Buddhist relief uncovered in excavations at Nagarjunakonda in southern India shows the Lord Buddha, astride a horse and surrounded by worshipful retainers, riding off to renounce the world and all worldly things.

India Hopes To Save Buddhist Art

The Nagarjunakonda Valley and its priceless relics with deep work.

The Indian government in a recent announcement said that in 1954-60, archaeologists worked there, uncovering much more than what had been known about Buddhist edifices and also the prehistoric archaeology of the valley.

The relics that could be saved will be placed in the museum. Others will be patched together from bits and pieces that have been found. Many, however, will be reconstructed out of original material on one hill site.

One original, titled "Stupa worship," is a detailed relief depicting Buddhists in ancient times worshipping a stupa, or stone pillar which represents a god or goddess.

Another outstanding work shows the Lord Buddha, astride a horse and surrounded by worshipful retainers, riding off to renounce the world and all worldly things.

Lord Buddha, a wealthy, self-indulgent prince, gained enlightenment in India. He renounced all his worldly belongings and took to preaching.

His followers subsequently spread his teachings throughout Asia and Buddhism became one of the world's great religions.

Ironically, Buddhism all but died out in India. Of the nation's 495 million people, about 445 million are Hindus. Nearly 50 million are Moslems. Christianity, Buddhism and other religions also are present.

Determined To Convert Her

By HENRIETTA LEITH
NEW YORK (AP)—In a Manhattan publishing office, a pretty girl reads travel books and dreams of adventure.

On Alaska's northern coast, a middle-aged mechanic works on the DEW line — Distant Early Warning — and dreams of getting back to California for Christmas with his wife and six children.

It's unlikely that Helen Klaben, 24, and Ralph Flores will see each other again.

But there is a strong, lifetime bond between them.

For Helen Klaben, the adventurous Jewish girl from Brooklyn, and Ralph Flores, the Mexican-born Mormon convert from San Bruno, Calif., are the pair who 3 1/2 years ago spent 40 terrible days together on a mountain in the Yukon — 40 of those days without food.

Helen was 21 and Flores was 42 when they met in Fairbanks, Alaska, early in 1963. Flores wanted a passenger on a flight home to California. Helen had gone to Alaska with another girl on a lark, and she wanted to get to San Francisco in hopes of joining a group going to Mexico.

She agreed to fly with Flores. Since their rescue, she and Flores have corresponded occasionally. She got a Christmas card from him.

But the last time she saw him, on a visit to California in the spring of 1965, Helen decided she had better not keep up the friendship.

For Flores, who in the tradition of the Mormon Church is a lay minister, was just as determined to convert the Jewish girl to the Mormon Church as he was during their long ordeal, when he kept telling her their rescue depended on her acceptance of the divinity of Christ.

And Helen is just as determined as ever to stick to "my faith in my friend God."

So, while she still thinks of Flores as a wonderful person to whom she owes her life, Helen doesn't plan to correspond with him any more.

Some Still Worship Sun

CAIRO (AP)—The ancient Egyptian sun cult of Amon-Ra is now long dead, but the sun is still venerated in the villages of Upper Egypt where sun worship once saw its zenith.

Peasants living near the city of Luxor and the district of Abu Tig still turn to the sun seeking a realization of their hopes and sometimes making confessions and confiding troubles.

There, when a child loses a tooth the customary thing he does is to stand with his mother holding the tooth facing the hot disc of the sun and addressing it:

"Oh sun of all luminous stars... take this buffalo-like tooth... and give me a pretty, bride's tooth."

And then the child hurls the tooth in the direction of his ancestors' god.

Luxor is the ancient home of god Amon-Ra's sun cult. There people still swear by "the life of the liberal sun." Of course they don't worship the sun—as they are predominantly Moslems—but they believe it is near to God.

The district of Abu Tig, a cluster of mud huts reminiscent of a Biblical village, still reveres the sun. And peasants confess their troubles at dawn before the rising sun almost the same way Catholics make confessions before priests. The peasants also whisper their cherished aspirations to the rising sun.

There in Luxor and Abu Tig men and women have tattoos on their hands and arms showing the disc of the sun with spreading rays. The tattoos are believed to help avert the evil eye, peasants say.

Other equally interesting customs show how present-day Egyptians are still faithful to their ancient ancestors' traditions. After more than 20 centuries of foreign domination by a succession of invaders ranging from the Romans and the Greeks to the Arabs, French and British, habits as old as the pyramids still permeate the day-by-day practices of Egyptians in this area.

Plurality of wives, now a predominant feature of the Moslem religion, is an ancient Egyptian practice — although it once was strictly a privilege reserved to pharaohs, Egyptologists say.

Training Class Dates Announced

A worker's training class, called "Teaching as Jesus Taught," will be held at the Goliad Assembly of God Church, 2205 Goliad, beginning Monday and continuing through Feb. 10.

Rev. Tom Lakey, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church at Coahoma, will be the teacher, according to Mrs. J. D. Ragan, pastor. Classes start at 7:30 p.m. each day, and visitors are welcome.

The congregation has moved from the old location and changed the name from Faith Assembly of God.

LONDON (AP)—The fact that Westminster Abbey had become a national shrine is both a blessing and a curse, the Rev. Eric James, director of the Church of England's Parish and People movement, said in a 900th anniversary Abbey sermon.

"A national shrine, with its royal occasions and its graves and memorials, in the main for top people, can so easily miss the heart of the gospel, which speaks of a carpenter's Son whom church and state rejected and killed," he said.

DALLAS (AP)—Proceeds of the $2 million estate of Miss Ann Oldham of Abilene will be used to print and distribute Bibles overseas.

George L. Shearin, associate secretary of the Baptist Foundation, said the plan was worked out recently by Miss Oldham, who died recently at the age of 63.

The foundation will administer the estate and turn over net proceeds to the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

DETROIT (AP)—The roughest critics of the Christian faith are inside the churches, says a clergyman.

The Rev. Warren C. Hultgren of Tulsa told Southern Baptists here that the real confusion caused in the minds of the world stems from the religious leader who obscures spiritual truth by a web of words and denials of essential doctrines on which faith is based.

Revival To Begin Sunday At Berea

One of America's most dynamic young evangelists will be leading the revival crusade starting Sunday at Berea Baptist Church. Arthur Blessitt, the evangelist, has preached throughout America in revival and youth crusades.

Evangelist Blessitt came to national attention in 1965 with his battle against prostitution in Nevada. The Californian has delivered his message of Christ in night clubs, gambling casinos, strip and GoGo clubs, teen hangouts, and beach resort areas. He has been termed, "The Billy Sunday of the 60's."

Gospel singer Dick Seaton will direct the crusade music each service. He is a member of the Arthur Blessitt crusade team.

The Berea Baptist Church, 4204 Wason Road, services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., with crusade services at 7:30 p.m. The revival continues through Feb. 12.

"Everyone in the Big Spring area is invited to bear this young team during the crusade," said Rev. Bill O'Dell, pastor. For information or transportation, residents are invited to call AM 7-8438.

Hymn Singing Set For Sunday

The Loraine Quartet, the Tri-State Quartet from Sweetwater, and many other singers will present a variety of favorite religious hymns Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Apostolic Faith Church, located at Fourteenth and Goliad.

Everyone is invited to attend the singing, presented by the Howard County Singers. Bob Spears is the president of the group and he promises the singing will be the best.

Flying Warrior At Work

San Francisco Warriors 6-foot, 7-inch forward Rick Barry (24) gets a wide berth from Philadelphia's center Wilt Chamberlain (13) and forward Bill Cunningham (32) as he goes for a layup Thursday night. Barry normally has been in virtual hand to hand combat with opponents as a result of his high scoring in his second season as a super-star. (AP WIRE-)

Warriors Use Tape To Help Beat 76ers

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — U.S. Open champion Billy Casper studied the expensive scoreboard in the press tent and decided he was in good position as play resumed today in the third round of the $10,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.
Veteran Gene Littler and Don Massengale were the co-leaders at 139 starting out in what everyone hoped would be a calm round in contrast to Thursday's windy sandstorm.
By name Casper counted 26 professionals ahead of himself and 42 in front of Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.
But Casper was five strokes behind the leaders, and Nicklaus and Palmer only six, and including today's round, this tournament has 54 holes to go.
"And we have the two toughest courses behind us," said Casper, referring to himself and apparently Arnie and Nicklaus, and the courses they have played — La Quinta and Eldorado.
The other two clubs in play — Indian Wells and Bermuda Dunes — are regarded by the golfers as less evil. Par on each of the four is 36-36 — 72.
Casper, still eyeing the scoreboard, was anxious to determine some of the others who had also played La Quinta and Eldorado. There were only two who had better scores than himself, Bob Charles at 142 and Frank Boynton at 143.
Casper, putting poorly, had a 75 for his 144.
The 36-year-old Littler, who has won but two tournaments in the past two years — the World Series of Golf in 1966 and the Canadian Open in 1965, shot a 67 Thursday.
Palmer had a 72 for 145, and tied with him, among others,

Pro Football Draft May Be Set For March

By The Associated Press
The latest word on the pro football draft is that it probably will be held in the third week of March after both the National and American football leagues have had separate meetings.
The NFL, which struggled unsuccessfully to come up with a formula for the common draft last month in Los Angeles, will hold its annual meeting starting Feb. 20 in Honolulu.
The AFL will meet at Miami Beach, the week of Feb. 13.
In the meantime, the college seniors who have finished their careers can sit and wait.
No date has been set for the stocking of the New Orleans franchise with NFL veterans.

Jayhawks Oppose NMMI Saturday

Howard County Junior College, reeling from the effects of five straight basketball defeats, will return to the friendly confines of their home court Saturday night for a Western Conference engagement with New Mexico Military Institute. Tipoff time is 7:30 p.m.
The Hawks, after a great start, have slumped to a 12-11 record. Buddy Travis' team has not won since Jan. 6, at which time it toppled Lubbock Christian College here, 74-60.
That means almost a whole month has gone by since the locals have won a game.
HCJC also plays here Monday evening, at which time it plays host to winless Frank Phillips College of Borger.
When HCJC and NMMI clashed in Roswell, the Jayhawks managed to win, 95-78. They were at the top of their game then, however. How far they've slipped and how much NMMI has improved remains to be seen.
HCJC played a fine game at Lawton, Okla., earlier this week but lost, 102-86, to Cameron's Aggies. The Hawks have also yielded to Odessa College and New Mexico Junior College in recent starts.
Probable starters for HCJC tomorrow night will be Leon

HENRY WILLIS

Smith, Henry Willis, Bill Sinche, Lee Leonard and Jack Hosley.
NMMI will pick its lineup from a squad that includes Dale Casey, Paul Cavanaugh, Dennis Distel, John Hardeman, Bob Pennington, Steve Atkins, Jack Wisdom and Steve Zabel.
Distel is the leading basket threat for the Cadets.
NMMI won only two of its first 13 starts this season and stands 2-5 in conference.

Steers Visit Odessa To Oppose Permian

Inability of Big Spring to win on the road in District 2-AAAA games has robbed it of a chance to be in first place in the standings.
The Longhorns have won only once away from home. That was against Odessa High in the second game of the season.
Big Spring will try again tonight to finish on the long end of a score in a road game, at which time it goes to Odessa to oppose dangerous Permian.

Abilene High, the league's pace setter, must lose twice in its next four starts in order for the Steers to have a chance in the pennant scramble. That isn't likely to happen.
Permian boasts the leading scorer in the district in Chuck Smith, who can hit from anywhere on the court. Others who will play for the Panthers include little Pat Gooden, Jerry Ballard, Tom Snoddy, Bill Melton, Roger Collins and John Campbell.
Last time two teams met, Big Spring rallied at the very end to pull out a 58-53 victory.
Big Spring will carry an overall mark of 23-6 into the court. The Steers need only one more victory to equal the school record of court successes. In league play, the Steers are 6-4.
Probable starters for the Longhorns are Robert Jackson, Wayne Johnson, Charley Tubb, Danny Clendenin and Richard Green.

B teams of the two schools square away at 6:15 p.m.

Goliad's 8th Wins Again

Goliad's eighth graders won their 16th basketball decision in 20 starts by topping San Angelo Lake View, 44-19, here Thursday night.
In the ninth grade engagement, the Lake View team finished in front, 84-63. The Mavericks had a better scoring punch than in any of their recent starts but couldn't defend the visitors.
Danny Glover again led the Goliad eighth graders with a 21-point effort. Jimmy Farris tossed in 21 points and Tommy Ryan 16 for the ninth grade Mavericks.
Goliad's ninth opens play in the San Angelo tournament at 12 noon today against Brownwood. The eighth graders return to the court Monday in Andrews against the Andrews ninth grade B team.

Forsan Cops Two Games

COAHOMA — Forsan Junior High's girls won the right to represent the zone in the district basketball playoffs by edging Coahoma Junior High, 33-31, here Thursday evening.
The Forsan girls now have a league record of 7-1 and are 12-0 over-all.
Forsan also won the boys' game, 55-20, to finish second behind Stanton in the zone race. In league competition, Forsan is 5-3 and is 10-7 over-all.
Bob Davis had 16 points and Jack Willis 12 in the contest.
The two Forsan teams will take part in a tournament in Sterling City next week.

Runnels Five Is Champion

Runnels Three closed out regular play without a defeat in the Seventh Grade Basketball league by subduing Goliad Two, 27-25, here Thursday night.
Mike Hande and Ken Johnson each counted eight points for Runnels in the engagement. Randall Brock tossed in six for Goliad.
In other games, Runnels One won over Goliad Three, 36-17, to finish second in the race while Goliad One turned back Runnels Two, 40-26.
Arthur Guess led the Runnels One surge with eight points.
An all-star team will be selected at each school for a game scheduled Feb. 13, probably in the high school gymnasium.

Brooks Robinson Signed By Orioles For 75 G's

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson, whose early-season hitting helped carry the Baltimore Orioles to the 1966 American League pennant, has signed his 1967 contract for about $75,000.
"It's the best raise I've ever gotten," Robinson said before getting an 8:30 a.m. flight out of Baltimore for a weeklong series of appearances in Montana and Canada.
Robinson, at 29 the oldest Oriole in point of service, jumped from about $35,000 to $50,000 after being named the league's Most Valuable Player in 1964. Last season, after a brief holdout, he signed for approximately $55,000.
Outfielder Frank Robinson, at $100,000 is the only higher paid Oriole.
"I'm looking forward to a good year," Brooks said. "Last season I didn't do as well after the All Star game, and this year I've got to keep on a more even keel."
The slick-fielding third baseman got off to a fast start at the plate in 1966. He had 70 runs batted in by mid-season, and led the league until Aug. 10.
Brooks was hitting .306 through July 22 with 81 RBI and 19 home runs before going into a slump which lasted the rest of the season. For the last 60 games, Robinson hit .206 with 19

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hort

The best attribute quarterback Gary Mullins of the San Angelo Bobcats has going for him is "leadership," says coach Phil George of Angelo State College.
George thinks Mullins has "wanted to go to the University of Houston from the start."
Original plans were to "red-shirt" Simon Terrazas at HCJC for a year but the former Big Spring High School cage star proved to be such a good student coach Buddy Travis decided it would have been foolish to ask the boy to stay over in junior college a third year.
For that reason, Simon got into his first game with the Jayhawks at New Mexico Junior College last Saturday night in Lovington, N.M.

A man close to the scene at Odessa says the Odessa Bronchos are having so much trouble in basketball this season because coach Harold Green has never settled on a starting lineup.
Green, this observer stated, doesn't platoon but is apt to designate first one and then the other as a starter. Consequently, the boys never know where they stand with the coach.
Odessa was picked to win the championship in 2-AAAA this season.
Ted Williams, who may have been the greatest hitter baseball has ever known, was always a tremendous admirer of Stan (The Man) Musial's diamond talents.
"Stan's the only man I've ever seen who with two strikes against him will still take his full cut," Williams once said of Musial. "Everyone else, including myself, shortens up a bit and guards that dish, but he gives nothing to the pitcher."
Williams wound up with a higher batting average and slugged more home runs than did Musial.
Moberly, Mo., probably deserves its rating as the nation's No. One junior college basketball team in the land, although the buffs around Ranger, Texas, may beg to disagree.
Moberly recently invaded Grand View, Iowa, and crushed that city's junior college team, 84-39. The Missourians allowed Grand View only 13 points the first half.
Moberly is in Fred Price, a boy who made the high school All-American last year and a 6-2 guard named Harrison Stepter who rated the junior college All-American in 1966.
Some people close to pro football say the next Super Bowl game will go to New Orleans rather than to Miami.

LSU, Alabama, Oklahoma and Arkansas are out-of-state schools who figure they still have a chance to land Bridge City's Steve Worster, the all-state fullback.
Worster, who has had offers from 50 colleges, is also considering offers from Texas, Houston and Texas A&M. He's a B-plus student.
There's a golf ball now being made that's guaranteed "against cutting, tearing, smiling or anything that would render it unplayable through 180 holes."
Furthermore, it's supposed to attain a velocity equal to the conventional ball you buy from the pros. It's called the Super Durable ball.
There is a catch, however. It won't be sold through regular channels but only as an advertising specialty through industrial accounts.

Bob Tyldesley To Take Part In Austin Meet

Bob Tyldesley of the Big Spring High School swimming team will take part in the University of Texas Invitational State championships at Austin today and Saturday.
Young Tyldesley received a special invitation to the water carnival extended by Hank Chapman, university swim coach through Bill Lewis, the Steer mentor.
Tyldesley has had consistent clockings in the 50-yard freestyle of 23.8.
The entire Big Spring team has shown much improvement since the season began and recently picked up several fifth and sixth places against the state's finest competition in the Dolphin Relays at Lubbock. Eleven teams were on hand for the Lubbock water show, among them Midland High School, the state champion coached by Don Fogelsong.
John Poteet of San Angelo and Jim McNally, Texas Tech swim coach, have commented favorably on the fact that the Big Spring boys are doing an outstanding job for their first season of competition.

O'Brien Eyes Mile Event

NEW YORK (AP) — Having given American runners a lesson in the two-mile, Australia's Kerry O'Brien is moving down to the mile.
O'Brien has run the two fastest two-miles of the indoor track season, setting meet records in the Millrose Games — 8:39.6 — in New York and the Boston A. A. games — 8:38.4.
However, since he will be running the two-mile in his last American race, at the Philadelphia Inquirer Games Saturday, the 20-year-old runner decided to take it easy at the shorter distance in the New York Knights of Columbus meet Friday. His best time for the mile is 4:02.7, run outdoors at the British Empire Games in Kingston, Jamaica, last August.

DEAR ABBY

He's Afraid Of Dentist

DEAR ABBY: Have you any suggestions for getting the world's biggest coward back to the dentist? My husband recently had four ulcerated teeth pulled and now he refuses to go back and let the dentist finish up. He only went the first time because his teeth ached so bad he could not stand it, but now that he is free from pain I can't get him back there.

The dentist keeps calling me and telling me to send my husband in — that there is more work to be done and if he does not do it my husband will lose his teeth.

Abby, this big baby is 44, a former truck man for Cal, was a Navy lieutenant, got the bronze star and the purple Heart in World War II, has a nine handicap in golf, but I can't budge him. Can you help me?

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been on the bench for a good many years. We would not dream of addressing a judge and his wife as "MR. AND MRS." — yet much of our mail comes to us addressed that way. Some comes from friends who are doctors and dentists, who would be the first to resent the omission of the "Dr." before their names.

We are not snobs, Abby, but I feel that my husband should be addressed by his title the same as any other professional person. What do you think? And what would be a dignified way to call people on it?

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steadily with a boy for six months. That is, we date on weekends and for school functions. (We are both 17.) He has hinted that he doesn't want me to date other boys, and I don't, but here's the catch. He won't exchange class rings with me. (Exchanging class rings means "hands off!")

DEAR ABBY: Tell your hero if he doesn't get back to his dentist, he's headed for more pain, clickers and NO purple heart, this time.

DEAR ABBY: Is the judge as bothered about this as you are? I have my doubts. Forget it.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

So because he wears his own class ring and I wear mine, he gives the impression that he is available. Then, too, other boys try to date me because I'm not wearing his ring.

Ain't I wrong to expect him to exchange rings? I can't be forward and ask him right out, and it would be too vain of me to tell him that other boys are trying to date me. What should I do?

RINGLESS: Be honest with yourself. Do you really want his class ring so other boys will quit trying to date you? (You need only to say no.) Or is a boy's class ring a status symbol among girls? Don't pressure him for his ring or you might lose him entirely.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been on the bench for a good many years. We would not dream of addressing a judge and his wife as "MR. AND MRS." — yet much of our mail comes to us addressed that way. Talks Set On Role Of JC

AUSTIN — Junior colleges in the U.S. are becoming increasingly important in the country's over-all higher education picture, and the role they are and will be playing in the future is to be explored in depth during a two-day meeting opening here Feb. 18.

The 26th annual Junior College Conference, sponsored by The University of Texas and the Association of Texas Junior College Board Members and Administrators, will be held in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel. It continues through Feb. 14.

About 300 junior college administrators and board members from throughout Texas and from Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona are expected. (Virtually all members of Howard County Junior College's board are planning to attend.)

Speakers and their topics will be:

Roger H. Garrison of Washington, D.C., staff associate for faculty, American Association of Junior Colleges, "Junior College Faculty—A New Breed"; Dr. Jack Williams, commissioner, coordinating board, Texas College and University System, "The Legislative Program for Higher Education in Texas"; Miss Jane Matson, Washington, associate in counseling for American Association of Junior Colleges, "Guidance and Counseling in the Junior Colleges"; Dr. Chester Hastings, dean of McLennan Community College in Waco, "Guidance and Counseling from the Administrator's Viewpoint"; Dr. Edmund J. Gleazer, Washington, executive director of the American Association of Junior Colleges, "The Junior College of the United States — Its Future," the conference banquet address, and "Some Pertinent Thoughts on the Junior College."

Quiet Whiz Kid Prefers Astrophysics To Dates

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Wilczek, at 15, is a quiet scholar who prefers astrophysics to dates. He's one of 40 finalists in the annual Westinghouse Scientific Talent Search.

While most teenagers are having fun on the weekends, Frank is engrossed in astrophysics, mathematics and philosophy. He relaxes by listening to classical records, his favorite pastime.

"Once in a while I go to an occasional party," he says. "I'm tied up every Saturday taking courses in mathematics and astrophysics in Columbia University's science honors program."

LONG-HAIR NIXED — Frank will be 16 years old on May 15 and a few weeks later will be graduated from Martin Van Buren High School in Queens. He is graduating at such a young age because he skipped the third and eighth grades.

"I hope to attend the University of Chicago and study mathematics and physics," he says. "They both are interesting rather than both being related."

While being a long-hair record collector, Frank doesn't wear his hair long like many young people.

HORRIBLE FAD — "It's silly," he says, "and it's silly to object. I'm completely indifferent."

The mod style of dress, he says, is "horrible. A fad they're trying to put over."

Frank is 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. His talent search project that will take him into the finals in Washington in March was an attempt to relate semigroups and groups in the field of algebra.

"I got really involved in mathematics," he says, "due to a certain teacher I had in my sophomore year. He got me very interested in it. I really don't know how I picked philosophy up."

Frank says he spends one or two hours on his school work at home each night.

mathematics and philosophy. I take up topics I'm interested in."

His father, Frank J. Wilczek, is in the electronics field, in research and development. Frank has one brother, 10.

Philosophizing about his generation of teenagers, Frank says "juvenile delinquents are amoral. They are a very small number."

"In general," he adds, "you can't specify this high school generation as better or worse than any other. The generalization of such a large number of people, I don't think can be valid."

"I think it's excellent that students are finally speaking up on things that concern them, things like the free speech movement. I think it was a very good effort. When it turned to filthy speech, I lost my sympathy for it, but I think the original goals and efforts were fine."

Cuban Government Seeks Silver Deal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government has offered to buy silver from the people at 1.25 pesos an ounce.

This price, announced in a Havana radio broadcast monitored here, compares with $1.87 on the U.S. market. A peso is officially pegged at a dollar, but brings much less on the free market.

Death Of Tot Due Grand Jury Probe

EL PASO (AP) — An El Paso County grand jury will be asked to investigate the death of Dolores Kosakowski, 22-month-old daughter of Army Pfc. and Mrs. Anthony Kosakowski.

The child was murdered by persons unknown, Justice of the Peace Charles Windberg ruled Thursday in an inquest.

He continued the case so counsel for the parents could question material witnesses.

The girl was dead on arrival at an El Paso hospital Jan. 23. Death was from a blow on the stomach with a blunt instrument, an autopsy report showed.

The report further stated that the body bore bruises and a previously broken arm was indicated by an X-ray examination.

Southwest College Drops Loyalty Oath

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Southwest Texas State College, the alma mater of President Johnson, has dropped its requirement that students sign a loyalty oath.

President James H. McCorklin said the decision was based on an opinion issued by Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin. McCorklin said the loyalty oath still could be required of employees of the school.

Mom Whips City Hall

DETROIT (AP) — Carlyn J. Kalnins fought City Hall and won.

Last April, the suburban Taylor Township mother of three refused to accept a suspended fine of $10 set by Municipal Judge John H. McCartney of nearby Inkster after she was found guilty of driving her car through a red light.

Insisting she was innocent, Mrs. Kalnins posted a $100 appeal bond and took her case to Wayne County Circuit Court. The case came up Wednesday.

Armed with maps drawn by her husband, Alis, a layout and design trainee at Ford Motor Co., time tables and driving manuals, she went before Judge Thomas J. Foley.

"I've got statistics from the road commission on time intervals for lights changing from green to amber to red," Mrs. Kalnins said.

But Judge Foley dismissed the case because the Inkster city attorney failed to appear.

Anderson Goes To Annual Clinic

HOUSTON — When some 3,500 music educators meet in Houston Feb. 9-11 for their annual clinic-convention, six educator-advisors will be special guests. This committee represents the viewpoint of all Texas school administrators toward choral, instrumental, and elementary music education.

They compose the Administrators' Advisory Committee of the Texas Music Educators Association (TMEA). The six include S. M. Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District.

Harry Lantz, TMEA president, said the group improves "our lines of communication" and provides "valuable criticism of the operations of our association and our annual clinic."

When news breaks anywhere in the far flung combat areas of Vietnam, you can pinpoint the exact places involved if you have this comprehensive and detailed new Hammond map, offered for sale now as a public service.

Families of boys in Vietnam will want it to hang on their wall, as will every intelligent newspaper reader who wants to keep in touch with the explosive situation in southeast Asia.

Printed in handsome full color on heavy paper of high quality, this 21x29 inch map folds compactly to fit in a handbag, desk drawer or glove compartment.

Da Nang, Hue, Chu Lai and hundreds of other places are shown, including major air bases, United States marine and army landings, roads, railroads, mountain passes, falls and rapids, rivers and other topographical features that help you understand the strategy of the fighting.

Besides the large detail map embracing North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, there are smaller maps showing elevations, Communist dominated countries, and the continent of Asia as a whole; also an economic map of southeast Asia spelling out the agricultural, industrial and power resources of individual countries. Another "extra" is a chronology of events since World War II. An atlas type index lists and locates cities, towns and physical features in North and South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The map is produced by C. S. Hammond & Company, a leading organization in its field. Get your copy today.

- Detailed 18" x 24" reference map of Vietnam and neighboring countries
- Additional economic, topographic, political and pictorial maps

NO, KIRBY!--I'D HATE MYSELF FOR EVERY SACRIFICE YOU HAD TO MAKE!--AND, SOONER OR LATER, SO WOULD YOU!
THEN I... WE'LL NOT SEE EACH OTHER ANY MORE!

REX MORGAN

DR. MORGAN I JUST HAD SOME WONDERFUL NEWS!
DR. WADE JUST LEFT! HE EXAMINED MY LEG AND SAID THAT IT'S COMING ALONG FINE!
THAT IS GOOD NEWS, VERONICA! INCIDENTALLY, THE POLICE WANT TO TALK WITH YOU! ARE YOU UP TO SEEING THEM NOW?
MUST I? I DON'T WANT TO MAKE TROUBLE FOR MR. ARRODINE! MAYBE...
WOULD YOU FEEL DIFFERENTLY ABOUT IT IF I TOLD YOU THAT I JUST CAME UP FROM EMERGENCY... THAT ZILL, YOUR ROOMMATE, WAS BROUGHT IN LESS THAN THIRTY MINUTES AGO... DEAD?

TERRY

I'M SORRY, MISS MACHREE, BUT I WILL HAVE SOMETHING TO DO SHORTLY.
WITHOUT ME? COLONEL, "MOTHER" MACHREE DIDN'T GET TO BE THE OLDEST SURVIVING CORRESPONDENT OUT HERE WITHOUT DEVELOPING SOME USEFUL INSTINCTS.
YOUR OPERATIONS MAN CALLS AND SUDDENLY THE SQUADRON COMMANDER IS GOING TO PUT IN SOME OVERTIME.
TRIVIAL! MAYBE...
BUT JUST IN CASE, "MOTHER" MACHREE LOVES THOSE OUT-OF-THE-ORDINARY STORIES-- ESPECIALLY WHEN SHE HAS AN EXCLUSIVE!

SMITTY

MY PICTURE IS ALL OVER TOWN-- I'M FAMOUS!
HI, HERBY! WHERE ARE YOU GOIN'?
TO A PICTURE SHOW-- LIVE 'D COME WITH ME?
PICTURE SHOW? GEE, THANKS!
I DIDN'T SAY MOVIES! HOTSY'S TOTSYS!

Postal Receipts Reported High

Postal receipts at the Big Spring Post Office showed a $10,353 gain for the past four week period over the same four weeks in 1966, Frank Hardesty, postmaster, announced.

Receipt for the current four weeks were $48,537. For the comparable period in 1966, the receipts were $38,183.

Hardesty noted in the four weeks just ended the local postal income was fattened importantly by a huge catalogue distribution handled by the Big Spring office. Postage on these catalogues was $8,562. Mail volume, too, the postmaster said, continues to increase year by year.

'Screaming Eagles' To Outfox Reds?

PHAN RANG, Vietnam (AP) — The "Screaming Eagles" have come down from a year in Vietnam's highland jungles with new combat tactics designed to beat Communist guerrillas at their own game.

The "Screaming Eagles" — the 101st Airborne Division, of which one brigade is in Vietnam — were best known until recently for saying "nuts" to the Nazis from snow-covered Bastogne. Vietnam has thus far offered no such dramatic moments. But the brigade's fit, gray-eyed commander, Brig. Gen. Willard Pearson, is no less determined that his elite troopers will also write history in this year.

This week, Pearson brought his 5,000-man force to their coastal camp at Phan Rang after 372 days of combat operations — an endurance record unthinkable in conventional warfare.

RULES REWRITTEN
Practically every American unit in Vietnam has been in the process of rewriting the rule book, but none has advanced plans as far-reaching, and sometimes controversial, as Pearson's team.

In general the formula of the Screaming Eagles blends the helicopter and American firepower with the lessons learned by the British and Australians in Malaysia's 12-year guerrilla war.

Pearson is a physical fitness addict who once playfully ran a reporter into exhaustion on a two-mile trot. His men are similarly fit and his new tactics call for it. He sometimes requires his long-range patrols to lighten their loads by carrying rice and powdered soup in place of heavy American rations.

COPTERS NOISY
One of Pearson's somewhat heretical notions — for an airborne general — is that the helicopter makes too much noise. Troops should enter a guerrilla battlefield on foot, stealthily and in small units. The helicopters can then come thundering in with reinforcements, making all the noise they want — but after the smaller units have flushed or pinned the enemy.

Another view not shared by other generals is in the use of harassing artillery fire in support of ground operations. It doesn't do much good and discloses what friendly units are in the area, Pearson says.

ROUGH KNOCKS
Pearson believes that it is better to have night patrols operating in the area, ambushing the Viet Cong or ferreting them out for a later kill.

The genesis of this "semi-guerrilla warfare," as it's called, came along with some rough knocks and hard-won successes for the Screaming Eagles.

In the 17 months it has been in Vietnam, the brigade has killed or captured 3,300 Communist soldiers by actual body count. In the same period the brigade lost fewer than one soldier to every 10 Red losses. The wounded figure is in the range of 1,500 but the big majority returned to duty.

HIT-AND-RUN
The brigade's first battle came in September 1965 when the Viet Cong 2nd Provincial Regiment made a stand-up fight of it against the 502nd Battalion of Lt. Col. Henry (Gunfighter) Emerson, a hell-for-leather fighter now back at the Pentagon pushing updated tactics for beating guerrillas. In that fight the Airborne won hands down — killing almost 500 Communist soldiers — and the Reds in the highlands began to fall back on their proven, small-unit hit-and-run tactics.

As the Communists grew harder to find, Pearson naturally concluded that in Vietnam the real problem was not killing enemy forces but in finding them and setting them up.

By last December he had polished the brigade for a battle which a veteran military observer termed a minor classic of antiguerrilla warfare. That battle came in an operation known as Geronimo.

such a check without the accompanying signature of a second company officer. So the bandit had Post call in assistant treasurer Edwin Gillis, 36, and have him cosign the check.

After obtaining Gillis' signature, the bandit told Post to inform the bank that a messenger would be arriving to cash the check. He also ordered Post to furnish the messenger and Post complied. Neither Gillis nor the messenger was aware a robbery was in progress.

LOCKED IN TRUNK
When the money arrived, the bandit took it and ordered Post to hand over his car keys. When told Post didn't have one, the robber ordered him to "borrow one from a friend." Post did.

Then the holdup man ordered Post into the car and drove away.

He parked near a medical center, ordered Post into the car trunk, and fled.

Police said the company didn't learn of the robbery until an anonymous phone call informed them Post was locked in the trunk of a car near the hospital.

Ex-Inspector Suicide Ruled

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A former Houston police inspector who was acquitted in 1954 of a charge of illegal concealment of narcotics, was found shot to death late Thursday in a parking lot of the Criminal Court-house Building.

Foy D. Melton, 53, was shot in the mouth by his own .45 caliber pistol, which lay nearby, Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, Harris County medical examiner, ruled suicide.

Melton was an investigator for the Harris County district attorney's office at his death. Investigators said two notes in his pockets gave brief instructions on the funeral home to be used and the disposal of the pistol.

A newsmen quoted him as saying earlier in the day that he felt "like the oldest man in the world. Every bone in my body aches."

Melton was indicted in 1954 on a charge of concealment of heroin seized in a raid. He was a vice squad captain at the time.

Two other persons drew prison sentences in the case but Melton was acquitted after a lengthy federal court trial in Corpus Christi. He was later reinstated.

Desk, Derrick To Hear Byrd

Kenneth K. Byrd, manager of systems and economic planning for American Petrofina Co. of Texas in Dallas, will speak to the Desk and Derrick Club Monday in Furr's Cafeteria at 7 p.m.

A native Texan, he served in the Navy during World War II, then graduated with honors from the University of Texas. After 10 years with a CPA firm, he was three years secretary and treasurer of Bayview Oil Co., before joining Petrofina in 1965.

In 1954, he received the John B. Alfred Award for Outstanding CPA. He and his wife have a daughter attending the university.

Bandit With Business Knowledge Robs Firm

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A bandit with business knowledge robbed Mueller Macaroni Co. of $24,640.

Police said the bandit — young and well-dressed — entered the company offices Thursday and told a receptionist he had an appointment with the firm's president.

Told the president was out of town, he asked to see the treasurer, Richard Post, 55. Post took the man to his second-floor office. The bandit then drew a revolver and demanded the company books. After inspecting them, he ordered Post to write a check for $24,640.

Three Get Cash Awards

Three civilian employees at Webb AFB in the maintenance complex received award certificates for their suggestions recently. Col. William K. Knight, chief of maintenance, made the presentations.

The first award was presented to Ellis G. Poitevint, foreman of the J-35 Engine Shop. He was given an award of $480 for the contribution of his suggestion to replace rivets with bolts. This was an additional award approved by Air Training Command. The suggestion contributed $123,232 tangible savings.

Hilton H. Fields, aircraft mechanic in the Aircraft Repair Shop, Building T-9, received the second award. He was awarded $100 for his suggestion to remove eight screws from the T-38 Talon aircraft fuselage during each 200 hour inspection to assure easy removal during emergencies. The suggestion has been adopted throughout ATC.

Fields has held a civil service position in the repair shop since February, 1958.

The third award went to James R. Christmas, flightline electrician in the field maintenance squadron electric shop. He received $200 for a suggestion to improve the fire warning system on the T-38 Talon and F-5 Freedom Fighter aircraft.

Christmas has worked in the FMS Electric Shop since 1956.

Do you have an FM Radio in your car?

Have you ever traveled across country and wished you had some way of knowing about FM broadcast stations in the area you were traveling? We have come up with about the smartest answer to this problem you ever saw. We have used our ounce of brain power and especially designed an FM Radio Guide. It lists all the cities in the Southwest that have FM stations. It gives the call letters and dial locations plus telling you if you can hear the station in Stereo. They'll be out of the printers in just a few days and then we'll mail you one free. All you do is ask for one.

District Governor Plans Visit With Kiwanis Club

Rex Kyker, governor of the Texas - Oklahoma Kiwanis District, will make an official visit to Big Spring March 17 and will be guest of honor at a dinner at the Cosden Country Club that night.

V. Ward Jackson, lieutenant governor for Kiwanis Division 22, announced plans for the district governor's visit here at the meeting of the Big Spring club Thursday noon.

The district governor is a faculty member of Abilene Christian College and his visit here will be one of the few occasions when the Big Spring club has had opportunity to be host to the governor of the club organization in the two states.

Jackson made the announcement with a brief report he made to his home club on his first month as lieutenant governor. He said eight new members have been enrolled in the district in the past month and no losses have been reported. His goal is 22 new members in 1967 for the district and he urged the Big Spring club to exert special effort to help him reach this goal.

He concluded his program with a film strip on club activities prepared by Kiwanis International.

Bill Johnson, president, called attention to the forthcoming 15th Annual Kiwanis Pancake Supper. This event, which has become a tradition in Big Spring, will be the night of Feb. 17 in the Howard County Junior College Student Union Building.

Tickets are now on sale at 75 cents. All profits go to the club fund for aid to needy boys and girls of the community.

The club has been divided into teams by Don Lovelady, ticket sales chairman, and each team headed by a captain. A contest in ticket sales will be staged and the winning team will get a steak dinner.

Garland Helton is captain of No. 1 team. His members are Clyde Bryant, Roscoe Cowper, Earl Stovall, Nat Shick, Dan Bustamante, Lee Herndon, Jay Banks, Elmer Boatler, Travis Waller and Zack Gray.

Dawson De Viney's team is Sherman Smith, Ed Corson, Delaine Crawford, Roscoe Newell, Glenn Faison, H. W. Smith, Ken Bates, John Coffee, G. I. B. B. B. Morehead and Doc Hardy.

Edgar Phillips' team: J. C. Pickle, Jack Lee, Jasper Atkins, Charles Warren, George Franks, Bob Dunson, Sam Blackburn, Stan Ballou, Soc Walker and Don Lovelady.

Bill Jay's team: Leon Taylor, T. B. Atkins, Jim Beam, Ernest

Newspaper Reports Birth Of Five Girls

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Excellent reported today that Maria Flores, 26 and the mother of three boys, gave birth Thursday to five girls. One died shortly before birth.

The newspaper said Dr. Rafael Gutierrez attended the multiple birth with candlelight at the humble home at the village of Chavarria, eight miles from the Cacahumilpa Caves, a tourist attraction.

The mother and the other four babies were described as in delicate condition.
