BAN ON GOLD CLAUSES SENT TO THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 28.—An administration bill to put into effect President Roosevelt's request for a ban on further gold clause suits, was introduced in the house today by Chairman Henry Steagall of the house banking and currency committee.

The bill gives persons holding gold clause securities until Sept. 1, 1935, to exchange them for new ones without the gold payment provision.

The measure denies the right to sue for alleged damages due to dollar devaluation to holders of bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness, treasury bills or any other form of government securities.

Funeral services for William James, 68, who died at his home 508 Riddle street, Ranger, Thursday afternoon at 7:15, were conducted Friday afternoon at Bullcock with Rev. H. B. Johnson conducting the services, assisted by Rev. K. C. Edmonds.

The decedent was born in Groesbeck, Texas, April 6, 1867, and had been a farmer all his life. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rhoda James, two daughters and two sons. He had been a member of Christian church for 40 years.

Lower Interest On New Federal Land Bank Loans Now

HOUSTON.—Further reduction in interest rates on new loans made after June 24 by the Federal Land bank of Houston through National Farm Loan associations was announced by A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land bank of Houston. This new interest cut completes a series of reductions which have lowered the interest cost of farm mortgage loans a full 1 per cent in the last three months.

April 1 the bank lowered the rate on new loans from 5 to 4 1/2 per cent; and April 10 reduced the rate from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent. The latest reduction of 1/4 of 1 per cent completes the 1 per cent cut in three months. Thus loans will be available at the lowest interest rates ever offered farmers by the federal land banks or by any large lending agency.

"This is not an emergency rate," Mr. Williams said. "On June 24, the bank will begin to make loans which will bear 4 per cent interest during their entire life, with the exception of an emergency rate of 3 1/2 per cent for interest payable in the one-year period beginning July 1, 1935. This new, low 4 per cent rate is a direct reflection of the lower rate of interest borne by federal farm loan bonds sold by the federal land banks. It is in keeping with the policy of the farm credit administration to adjust the interest rates on new loans as the rates on their new bond issues vary."

"The interest rate on land bank commissioner loans will not be affected by the cut and will remain at 5 per cent," Mr. Williams said.

Belt Educators To Assemble At Cisco for Meet

CISCO, June 28.—The fall meeting of the Oil Belt Educational association will be held at Cisco, the birthplace of the organization five years ago, it was announced this week by W. A. Rose, Mineral Wells high school principal and association president, in a letter to Cisco Supt. R. N. Cluck.

An attendance of around 600 is usual at these fall sessions which are principally for school executives rather than for teachers generally. The spring meetings, of a more general nature, have drawn attendances as high as 4,000.

However, some of the fall sessions have attracted more than 1,500 out of a total membership of around 8,000 teachers.

The session will occupy one day and night. During the day sectional meetings are held, with the main program reserved for the evening when a banquet is served. The program for the Cisco meeting is yet to be arranged. It will be held sometime in October, it is understood.

France, it was understood, was unwilling to accept a British invitation to send naval delegates to London until it learned the details of German naval building intentions for the next seven years.

OTTAWA, Ont.—Establishment of an Exchange Fund, to be used to protect the value of Canadian money, is being considered by the government.

Authority to set up the fund will be introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance.

Elopers Failed In Connecticut

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Eloperment in Connecticut—from other states—formerly was so commonplace that many justices of the peace earned a sizeable income each year in being called out of bed at all hours of the night to read the marriage service.

Several years ago the legislature passed a law requiring five days notice of intent to marry and the rush subsided, although for a good reason, the probate judge could waive the clause.

ANSWERS TO DESCRIPTION OF MAN SOUGHT

DALLAS, June 28.—Police arrested a 36-year-old man today who gave his address as Socorro, New Mexico, and who, they said, resembled closely the man sought in connection with the disappearance of four Illinois tourists in New Mexico.

Lt. Douglas Walsh, head of the Dallas police identification bureau, said a thorough check of identification revealed a damaging resemblance of the man to a suspect who left a trail of stolen and forged travelers checks to which the name of George Lorius had been forged.

Lorius and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of East St. Louis, Ill., disappeared after they were last seen in Vaughn, N. M., May 22.

The man arrested is accused of attempting burglary of a store in Oak Cliff, Dallas residential district.

MAN SOUGHT IN DEATH OF DICKINSON

SANTA FE, N. M., June 28.—The search for the bodies of "the missing tourists" centered today in an area about 30 miles south of Socorro, N. M., after an important new clue was discovered there.

Investigators found the point at which the car of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, of East St. Louis, were wrecked, apparently by the person who killed them.

At the scene the detectives picked up a vanity case, a piece of blood-stained upholstery, a packet of matches bearing the advertising of an East St. Louis concern and a piece of aluminum torn from the car as it overturned.

Central West Texas Oil Field

Breckenridge Area Active
The Hanlon Gasoline company was reported to have reached a depth of 4328 feet on their C. E. Sikes well south of Breckenridge, getting a hold full of sulphur water from 4824 feet to 4328 feet. They will plug back, testing a showing of oil and gas higher up.

An acid treatment was responsible for excellent results in both of these wells.

Buses, Safer Than St. Louis Street Cars

ST. LOUIS.—Travel by motor bus in St. Louis is safer than travel by street car, a recent report of a St. Louis public service company reveals.

The accident percentage is shown by the difference in accident reserve funds which it is necessary to maintain. A reserve for personal injury of 2.6 cents per car mile must be set up for the street cars, while only 1.4 cents per car mile is laid aside for the same fund from bus revenues.

Bus travel in St. Louis and suburbs has increased 23 per cent in the last two years, the same report reveals. In April of 1933 the maximum daily average of buses operated was 360. In April of this year it was 311.

It is not expected that bus travel will supplant street car travel, company officials say.

Millikan carries on his famous cosmic ray research; Huntington Library, mecca for scholars from all over the world; Rancho La Brea, where tar pits have yielded prehistoric animal fossils for most of the nation's larger museums; Scripps Institution of Oceanography; and the Caltech and Carnegie earthquake laboratory.

U. S. Bans Tint For Spaghetti

WASHINGTON.—Artificial coloring of macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and similar products has been outlawed by the food and drug administration.

The administration said added color, regardless of its source or nature, constituted adulteration.

Thirty-seven shipments of the starchy products were seized last month when analysis revealed the presence of soy-bean flour, turmeric (vegetable dye) or yellow coal-tar food color.

The administration said that addition of coloring materials "conceals inferiority, a form of adulteration which no form of labeling can correct."

It was pointed out that manufacturers of other commodities also resort to artificial colors in their competitive efforts. The administration, however, reiterated that wherever the presence of an artificial color conceals inferiority, the food containing it is illegal.

Indian Reservation Gets Buffalo Herd

BUTTE, Mont.—An experiment that may prove of far greater practical value than can now be foreseen—because of its sentiment—is under way on the Crow Indian reservation in southeastern Montana.

It is the establishment of buffalo range along the Big Horn River, one of two such ranges authorized last April by Indian Commissioner John Collier. The other range is on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota.

A herd of 77 buffalo was given to the Crow Indians as a basis of the new herd. They are now being crated—singly because they cannot be shipped like domestic cattle—and shipped from Yellowstone Park by truck to their new home on the Big Horn.

Rigid Laws Cut Automobile Deaths

OAKLAND, Cal.—Oakland, city of 300,000 population, claims the best traffic record of any city of its size in the United States. During an entire month there was not one automobile death on its streets. The safety record is the result of a crusade begun in 1923 by the Eastbay Safety Council, which has resulted in a complete unanimity of law enforcing organizations and civic groups in the desire to halt the traffic death toll.

Police Chief Bodie A. Wallman credits the record to these activities:

1. Cooperation of individual policemen in carrying out orders that all "beat men," whether in traffic or not, issue tags to violators from point to point as accident records require.
2. Strong support of the courts. In 1933, court fines averaged $3,500 a month; so far in 1935 the average has been $9,400.
3. A varied and continuous safety education program, including traffic schools for minors, where youthful violators are "sentenced" to learn the law and their own responsibility.
4. "Unofficial" citations by a

Goodrich Pioneer A Safety Exponent

A score or more years ago when automobiles were beginning to find their place as a vehicle of transportation and more than a curiosity to the general public and a contemptible nuisance to every horse on the road, there began a movement to make motoring safe.

One of the early instigators of safe driving was the B. F. Goodrich company, America's first automobile tire manufacturer, relates Al Tune, Goodrich tire dealer at Texas Service Station.

"When cross-country motoring was in the pioneering stage, the Goodrich company blazed trails and erected warnings and guideposts to the daring follower, Mr. Tune says.

Throughout the country motorists were guided by the familiar Goodrich "Safety First" signs, many of which still stand after years of guidance and under the stress of the elements.

In 1912 the first "safety tread" to assure road traction and to prevent skidding was made by Goodrich, a principle still maintained by that company and now generally used in the rubber industry.

Today Goodrich stresses safety, both in driving and in the manufacture of products. The Silver-town Safety League, consisting of a million American motorists interested in saving lives and protecting property, is sponsored by Goodrich.

"Goodrich builds safety into tires the new Goodrich 'Safety' Silvertown with its Life-Saver Golden Ply was designed to combat high speeds, quick stops and starts, wet and icy highways, muddy roads and all other advanced conditions," Mr. Tune says.

Marking the first such shipment of the year, 100 mules will leave here shortly aboard the freighter Sonje en route to Italy.

Rowe ships hundreds of mules to European countries through the port of Montreal every year. He is believed to be the most successful mule exporter in the world. Last time he sent several hundred to India and Italy for use in army work.

Rowe usually accompanies the mules across the ocean himself to see that they are properly taken care of and has never lost one through accident or illness.

Battle of Give And Take Matched For Monday Night

A battle of give and take will be on the program for Monday night, July 1, at the Elks arena.

An array of neck twisters and bone benders are lined up and will display their wares of rough stuff.

First, the notorious Red Rodgers is matched with Doug Henderson, the boy who can wrestle scientifically or get rough if necessary and in this case he will have to resort to roughness.

Red said he was gypped out of his last match with Doug and is going the limit to win this time.

The second bout brings Tiger Billy McEub, who needs no introduction, back for a crack at a newcomer from Sherman, Texas, Tuffy Barnes. Tuffy, as his name implies, comes recommended as a real toughster who will swap anything with anybody, any time.

Pat Swanson, who has the reputation of being able to handle all of the rough birds, has been secured to act as the third man in the ring.

Congress Enacts the Wagner Labor Measure

Senator Robert Wagner of New York is the unofficial leader of organized labor in the United States. He came to this land of the free an immigrant boy. He sold newspapers in the streets of New York.

As a little lad he did everything possible to turn an honest penny to his own advantage or profit. He attended night school. He studied law and he paid his own way with his own earnings. He became a state lawmaker where he represented the wage workers of his district. He won the majority of leadership of his party in the legislature of New York. He was sent to the state senate and there he became a state leader instead of a local advisor. He was nominated to the state supreme court bench and won recognition as a jurist of the highest caliber. He was elected to the United States senate and re-elected. He backed the Wagner victory. His measure was sent from the senate to the house where it received a huge majority and restored to labor the right of collective bargaining that supreme court swept away in the NRA decision. In other words, congress did not delegate its power to the President to frame a new act. Administration democrats declared the bill as "a new declaration of the rights of man." There was no record vote.

Many republican representatives gave the Wagner measure their support. In making the right to collective bargaining the law of the land, the Wagner measure sets up an independent board of three members to arbitrate disputes between employer and employe. In other words, the Wagner bill, in effect, is the new deal answer to the supreme court's duling in the famous chicken case which resulted in the complete smashup of the national recovery act and all its codes for the prevention of child labor in sweat shops and other protective acts or codes for the wage workers of the nation. Senator Wagner is sitting on the top of the world now but there is no telling where he will be after the campaign next year. As for organized labor and its sympathizers it backed the Wagner act to a successful finish and had the influence of the President ever behind the New York senator for his famous battling.

Dictator Mussolini May Defy All Nations

Dictator Mussolini, who speaks for all Italians in the homeland, at least, may tender his resignation to the League of Nations. He may attach himself to Japan and Germany "or lace the world alone." The pact between Great Britain and Germany infuriated the Italian dictator. He is making his plans to take over Abyssinia and he promises to go all the road with his army and navy and his air bombers. Italy has a vast surplus population. There are a few fertile spots left in Asia and Africa that haven't been taken over by the powerful nations of Europe and Mussolini has his eye on Abyssinia and its vast natural mineral and timber wealth. Why not? His European neighbors have huge colonies in Asia and Africa and the islands of the sea. Why should Great Britain object to the Mussolini plan? Why should France or Belgium object? Why should Holland and lastly why should Soviet Russia? The race appears to be to the powerful and for hundreds of years the great and grabbers of Europe have never hesitated to overawe weaker nations or people and strip them of their rights and territory.

Great Britain and Germany as Future Partners

Statesmen of Great Britain and Germany, speaking of two powerful nations represented by John Bull and Adolf Hitler, have signed a naval compact. A London cable carries the news that the statesmen of Great Britain "regard the program as being satisfactory to all parties concerned."

Well, Brother Jonathan was not consulted. He was not invited to sit in. Later along he may be given a bid. The fathers of America fought naval battles for the freedom of the sea. This was in the long ago. Regardless of this, Great Britain claims to be the mistress of all the seven seas and Brother Jonathan has taken it on the chin in all years known as the machine civilization. He demanded the freedom of the sea at the close of the World War.

He had furnished millions of soldiers to the Allies. He loaned billions of dollars to the allied governments. He mortgaged the American people for a hundred years to come to pay the loans. To date all loans have been repudiated. When Brother Jonathan sits in on invitation at another world conference he should carry the farewell address of George Washington, the first liberator, who advised his people to avoid entangling alliances with foreign nations and attend to their own business through the coming years. George Washington was a very wise man, a great soldier, a patriotic leader "and ever first in the hearts of his countrymen."

The driver who does not respect the equal rights of others to use the highways is not fit to have a license to operate a motor vehicle.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Katharine Strykhurst, 20 and beautiful, allows her emotions to rule when she marries Michael Heatheroe, young riding instructor who comes into a title and fortune. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother is snobbish.

The night following his marriage Michael is injured in a traffic accident and when he regains consciousness his memory is impaired. He forgets the marriage. Katharine, heart-broken, believes he has deserted her. She goes to New Mexico to forget. Wandering off for an early morning stroll, Katharine becomes lost in the desert.

Michael arrives to explain and beg forgiveness. He hires a plane to search for Katharine. After a long hunt she is rescued.

Now Go on With the Story
CHAPTER XLIV

Zoe said, "My dear, I'm terribly sorry. I knew you'd have to know sooner or later, but I hoped it would be some other way."

The marriage certificate of Michael Heatheroe and Katharine Strykhurst lay on the table between her and Dr. Kaye. He glanced at it, glanced away.

"But I had thought," he said in a puzzled tone, "when she left I certainly thought—"

Zoe patted his hand. "I don't know what this is all about," she said. "But I'm certain Katharine never meant to hurt anyone. She must have had a very good reason for not telling us."

The lean, ascetic young doctor flushed under his recent tan.

"I don't doubt it."

"You—you were crazy about her, weren't you?" Zoe asked simply. He nodded.

"I've been there, myself," she added after a moment. "I guess you know about that. Loving anyone and finding out you don't count, and feeling nothing's worth while... but you know all about that. You saved me from something terrible. I'll never forget it. That's why I wish I could help now."

"It's all right," Dr. Kaye muttered. "It's my own fault. I was just a fool, I guess."

Much, much later, after he had gone, Zoe reviewed the scene, remembering the way he had looked—the hurt in his eyes. She had tucked the tell-tale document away in an envelope and had mailed it to Katharine at Silencia, Rosme, New Mexico. With that out of her hands, she felt definitely safer.

It was a pity Dr. Kaye had had to learn the news thus. If it had not been for Gracia and her hateful shepherd dog it never would have happened. Gracia was definitely a trouble maker, but this time she had been an unwitting one.

Zoe went through the morning room. Gerda was picking up fallen flower petals; there were late chrysanthemums in all the vases. Gerda turned, holding something out to Zoe. "I guess the doctor dropped this."

Zoe took it. John Kaye's pigskin glove. It was a special golfing glove, one of an old and beloved pair. She recognized it.

"Thanks, Gerda. I'll see he gets it."

She went upstairs. Her own beautiful room was in perfect order. Her dinner dress, an affair of delicate blue lace, was laid out on the bed. Her little buckled slippers and transparent stockings were there, too. Gerda flung herself down on the taffeta-covered chaise longue and closed her eyes. She had John Kaye's glove in her hand. How he must have loved Kaye, to look so troubled when he learned of her deception!

Zoe shivered a little; there was a man any girl might love with an aching tenderness. She had always noticed him, growing up.

But he had been Katharine's special friend. Then the night he had worked over Zoe, after her mad attempt to kill herself, she had begun to think of him again. She had refused to admit it, hating to mark herself as light and fickle, but actually before she had reached Colorado on her trip in search of health she had admitted Dr. Kaye to the secret places of her heart. Gibbs had thus been easily bottled out. She could look back at Gibbs now as at a far-off figure in another existence. She had grown up since that night.

She wouldn't be foolish about this. She'd keep out of John Kaye's way. She respected him, honored him. If the sound of his quiet, authoritative voice stirred her more than a little, she would let her feeling go no further than that... but, oh what a lucky girl she would be who was singled out by this serious, gentle, hard-working young man!

"Not for me," said Zoe, springing to her feet and dashing into the bathroom to run a luxurious tub.

"Talking to yourself, darling?" Mrs. Parker wandered in, wrapped in a negligee of dull rose, her pretty hair set in scalloped and delicately pinned waves.

"I was just muttering away," Zoe said gaily.

Zoe's mother established herself on the chaise.

"I was just talking to Daddy about the move into town, and he's for it," she said animatedly. "He found a penthouse in a building over east—57th street, I think he said. Anyhow, the oddest thing—Dr. Kaye lives in the building."

Zoe, bending over a half-opened drawer of gossamer underthings, felt a rosy tide of color flooding her cheeks. She gave herself a steady moment before she answered.

"That comes under the head of coincidences, doesn't it?"

MAGNIFICENT $1,000,000 'HALL OF STATE' TO DOMINATE TEXAS CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION

This tentative sketch of the $1,000,000 hall of state which will dominate the entire Centennial Central Exposition at Dallas suggests the magnificence of the proposed structure. To be built of Texas buff stone, designed in semi-classic style influenced by Latin-American trends, the structure, 450 feet long and 250 feet deep, will feature a semi-circular Colonnade of Independence. The semi-circle bounded by the colonnade will be known as the court of states. At the left, a hall will exhibit Texas of 1836; on the right will be presented Texas of 1936. An underground amphitheater will seat 1000 people. Lights of changing color are to play upon the building at night. A 700-foot reflecting pool will center the esplanade. Varied exhibits and the federal building will flank the approach to the state building.

"OUT OUR WAY" By Williams

'Typhoid Flies' Would Be a Good Name for Common House Fly

Effort to change the name of the common house fly to typhoid fly is the motive behind a movement started by Dr. L. O. Howard, government entomologist.

The name, "house fly," is too tame. The fly is accepted as a nuisance, but not considered as the dangerous insect it is. Government health authorities have proved that the common flies that buzz about homes and kitchens carry bacteria which can infect human beings with at least a dozen diseases in addition to typhoid.

Dr. Howard states, "Even if the fly were a creature difficult to destroy, the failure on the part of people to make any effort to reduce its number could properly be termed criminal neglect. As it is now an easy matter to do away with flies, this neglect becomes an evidence of ignorance. It is the duty of every individual to guard against the occurrence of flies upon his premises."

As Dr. Howard says, it is no longer difficult to rid a house of flies. Research at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh made possible by a fellowship provided by the Rex Research Corporation has developed a liquid which when sprayed in a fine mist kills flies. Commercially this product is known as Fly-Tox.

Invisible Eye is Gold Brick Guard

By United Press

STOCKHOLM—A brick of pure gold from the Swedish Boliden gold mines, guarded by an invisible photo-electric eye, was one of the attractions of the Water Power Exposition in Stockholm, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Swedish Water Power association.

The brick is valued at 50,000 kronor, ($22,690).

By means of the photo-cell arrangement, invisible electric rays guarded the treasure, so that if any one put a hand too close, alarm bells were set ringing.

Delightful Hour at Home Of Mrs. E. H. Mills
A covered dish luncheon given at the home of Mrs. E. H. Mills, 1201 Oddie street, Thursday at 12:30 o'clock, complimented members of the Martha Dorcas class of the Methodist church and their guests.

The entertaining rooms were decorated with a variety of summer flowers.

Following the luncheon a musical program of piano and song selectinos was given by Miss Mary Bond and Miss Mary Elizabeth Campbell.

Many lovely miscellaneous gifts were later taken to the home of Mrs. Lyle and presented her by members of the class.

A short business period presided over by Mrs. J. L. Turner, class president, brought the hour to a close.

Those present: Mmes. A. N. Larson, Mills Davenport, C. D. Woods, W. M. Brown, C. H. Martin, J. M. Bond, J. T. Killingsworth, Fred Wilson, Howard Elwood, W. O. Barrett, G. T. Williams, S. W. Whitley, J. S. Reynolds, J. L. Turner, John Hassen, G. O. Strong, L. E. Wolfe, C. A. Smith, V. W. Wetter, E. P. Mills, E. K. Smith, and guests, Mmes. Roy Jameson, L. H. Flewellen, Colonel Brasher, S. P. Boon, V. V. Cooper, H. D. Bishop, J. W. Weaver, and L. H. Flewellen and Rev. J. M. Bond.

Two New Members Added To Y. W. A. Roster

One of the most interesting meetings of the season was held at Central Baptist church last evening when the Y. W. A. of the church met with their sponsor, Mrs. George Robinson, opening the program with devotionals.

A special program feature was the trio composed of Misses Pauline Fulwood, Juanita Smith, and Fay Davis, in favorite songs. Program plans were made for the district meeting which convenes here the second Sunday in July. A visit to the Eastland county farm will be made by members in the near future.

Two new members were added to the roster and a good number of members present for the program.

"TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION" FOR PAST 25 YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this voluntary letter from Mr. Lecour: "I have been troubled with constipation* for the past 25 years. I tried practically every cathartic without results.

"Recently, I determined to give Kellogg's All-Bran a fair trial. Kellogg's All-Bran has not only helped me, but I believe it is an actual relief for chronic constipation."—Mr. Henry E. Lecour, 4 Vaughan Ave., Worcester, Mass.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Kellogg's All-Bran provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is gentle. Often more effective than "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoons daily. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A Rare June Day—a la Oregon!

After glancing at this scene, folks sweltering in summer heat will agree that the poet should have written, "What is so rare as a day in June—in Oregon!" To these men, trying valiantly to drive a path through a 40-foot snowdrift to open the Mackenzie Pass highway, it's a lot of hard work. But hot weather sufferers generally wouldn't mind swapping with them.

PERSONAL LIBERTY AND LAW
Temperance Lesson
Romans 14:13-21; 1 Cor. 8:9-13

Paul wrote the letter to the Romans from Corinth during his three months' stay in Greece in the course of his third missionary tour A. D. 57. As he preached in the beautiful but wicked city he must have observed deeply into the lives of his converts.

He saw many go as a social courtesy and eat meat that had been offered to idols. They themselves said, "It is not evil to eat this meat because idols are only stone and wood," and took no thought for the new convert, who was still weak and abhorred the "tainted" meat.

He must have seen, studied and analyzed human nature until he knew that the demand for personal liberty was its chief attribute.

His picture of the convert swaggering off to the feast in the wicked heathen temples is also the picture of the disloyal Christian today who says, "I will have my personal liberty. I will answer to one but God," and fails to study God's word and falls into the clutches of the devil in ignorance.

But how different is the Christian who walks after God. Love for all humans is in his heart. His understanding is opened to the beauties of God's grace and the weakness of his companions whom he would help upward. His good deeds are not spoken evilly of but are "acceptable to God, and approved of men." He follows "after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another" realizing that "For the Kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

The apostle exemplifies the solution of the disloyal Christian in 1 Cor. 8:9-13: "But take heed by any means this liberty of yours becomes a stumbling block to the weak." The indifferent Christian today says, "What difference does it make if there is a saloon on every corner? I can take a drink or leave it alone." Swaggering—he does not see that some day at the judgment seat he will have ruined and blasted lives perhaps with blood on their hands to answer for. He did not think of the weak or perhaps the reformed drunkard to whom one taste of the vile liquid would cause him to stumble and fall so hard that he would never arise in decency or right-mindedness again.

"For through thy knowledge he that is weak perisheth, the brother for whose sake Christ died. "And thus sinning against the brethren, and wounding their conscience when it is weak, ye sin against Christ."

Can any Christian claim God's protective power in his life and sin against Christ in his indifferent plunge after self in the search of personal liberty.

For there is no power but of God; and the powers that be are ordained of God (Rom. 13:1). How puny self looks beside that statement. How protective it looks to the loyal Christian who looks to God and is "in subjection to the higher powers," and who "seek good, and not evil, that ye may live."

How pitiful it is to see a capable young man puffed up in his conceit of his knowledge that makes him successful, turn to strong drink. Perhaps he starts drinking as a social courtesy. He does not realize that it is a poison, running all the organs of the body and especially the brain. The word "intoxicate" comes from the Latin word "toxicum," which means poison.

When he deliberately takes this poison, his mind has forgotten that the body is the temple of the soul, and should be cared for religiously. "The Spartans denied intoxicating drinks to their sons, and compelled their slaves, the Helots, to get drunk in the presence of their young men, that they might witness the degradation of drunkenness. Their aim was to develop a superb physical manhood."

To betray a trust is an act of cowardice. Every Christian should remember first of all Christ, then the struggles of our forefathers who fought against hardship and dangerous untold to make this a land of the free and the home of the brave, with homes of comfort, ing. Strong drink is the arch enemy of all that is good. It would destroy the home, church and schools, enslaving the men and women of the nation, baiting them with personal liberty.

The man who drinks may exercise his personal liberty but what of the wife and children who are denied the right of a decent home and perhaps the right of healthful food.

In the coming events of this summer all need to remember the Golden Text: It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything, whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.—Romans 14:21. Poem by Rev. C. H. Mead, D.D.: God give us men!—determined, brave, and strong— "Who stand for right and dare to smite the wrong; Whole-hearted men — unselfish, fearless, bold— Whose love of truth outweighs the greed for gold; Devoted men, who think and pray and plan How best to serve and help their fellow man. While selfishness misrules, and greed and lust Entice and drag their victim in the dust, Send up a prayer, again and yet again, With faith unflinching still—God give us men!"

Stamford Reunion To Be Policed By An Unusual Force

STAMFORD.—Law and order will prevail in Stamford during the sixth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion which opens here Tuesday, July 2, to continue through July 4.

Adjutant General Carl Nesbit, six Texas Rangers, eight State highway patrolmen and one company of national guard will be here during the reunion besides members of the sheriff's department, the city police department and visiting sheriffs and police.

From past experience, it is not expected that any of the array of police will be needed except for traffic regulation, as the Cowboy Reunion has gained a reputation of being one of the most orderly and sober gatherings in the state.

General Nesbit and the Rangers are coming just to attend the Reunion. Capt. Tom Hickman of the headquarters company, Austin, will be one of the rodeo judges. He will be accompanied here by Ranger Stanley of Austin, Capt. Fred McDaniel of Fort Worth and three men from his company of Rangers are to attend.

Capt. L. G. Phares, chief of the highway patrol, will be here as a visitor, but the eight patrolmen from his force will be on active duty directing traffic on the highway approaching the gates of the Reunion grounds. Local Boy Scouts will have charge of parking of automobiles inside the grounds.

Company K, 142nd Infantry, the Stamford unit of National Guard, commanded by Capt. F. M. Locke, will be on police duty inside the Reunion grounds and guardsmen also will serve as traffic police in the business district.

Chief of Police G. C. Flournoy will have general charge of traffic and police and Sheriff Jim Lee Gordon and members of his force will be on duty at the grounds, which are outside the city limits.

Chief of Police R. D. Thorp of Austin will be among the visiting peace officers attending the Reunion. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Thorp. J. M. Rooney, chief special agent of the Santa Fe Railway, Dallas, is also expected. Lee Simmons, Huntsville, head of the Texas prison system, is an annual reunion visitor.

Large Cemetery Open For Burial of Pets

By United Press
READING, Pa.—The love of man for his dog is represented in a new cemetery established near here.

Dr. Earle E. Romberger, of the Reading Veterinary Hospital, had a "cemetery" on the Philadelphia pike for many years, but found that it was inadequate. Another tract was obtained.

The bodies of more than 400 dogs, cats, a canary and a duck buried in the original cemetery were disinterred and moved to the new plot. Headstones for the most part are uniform in size and arranged in neat rows. A few owners purchased fairly large stones. Each has the pet's name, year of birth and death.

This Party Swept Hollywood Stars Off Their Feet!

Discarding dignity, poise and aplomb to stagger, slide, whirl and plunge through one of the maddest and merriest evenings in the history of Hollywood, 200 film notables saw to it that the Venice "Fun House," in which Carole Lombard gave her gala party, lived up to its name. In the scene at left, Marlene Dietrich tries to remain on her famous legs in the revolving barrel, while William Haines, behind her, is evidently having trouble, too. At right, from bottom to top, Cary Grant, Toby Wing, Mitchell Leisen, Betty Furness, Caesar Romero and Lois Wilson cling on for dear life just before landing in a merry heap at the bottom of the slide.

"Cut out the old dewberry and blackberry vines now," says J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist. "Leave three or four of the new canes and when they get about three feet or a little better, top them," he says. "All this makes for increased production next year. Also, picking will be easier."

Tomatoes are suckering too much, due to recent rains, Rosborough states. The thing to do is to pinch back all except three or four suckers and when these have set a cluster of fruit pinch their tops off so all the strength of the plant will go into development of quality tomatoes.

Old railroad ties for posts with two strands of wire run between two and four feet above the ground doubled the yield of berry vines owned by Manco Morrow in Marion county. The berries were trained to grow on the wires. Morrow has been able to sell all that he grew and is increasing his patch to an acre.

If the rows in her garden were laid end to end and 324 more feet were planted, Hilda Thielman, second year club member of the Lamar Home Demonstration club in Fort Bend county, would have to hoe one mile of garden. She has reported 366 feet of dewberries, 488 feet of tomatoes, 1,026 feet of leafy vegetables, 2,478 feet of other vegetables, and 488 feet of peanuts, making a total of 4,846 feet. PEARSALL—Progress from a yard thickly set with black brush to one which is showing excellent shrub and tree arrangement in MARLIN—Pastures are one of his big paying crops, according to C. D. Stone of Blevins community in Falls county. Last fall Stone planted four acres of rye grass along with oats for winter grazing. The freeze during February killed the oats, and Stone thought the rye grass was also killed, but he says the grass put out again in March and has furnished grazing for eight head of work mules this spring. The rye grass made a heavy dense sod which permitted grazing even in wet weather on black land. It is making seed now and Stone plans to harvest these and increase his acreage of this grass for pasture another year.

He has also planted 40 acres to sudan grass for summer pasture and is grazing 40 head of yearling steers on it. He plans to feed these cattle a light feed of meal through the summer and finish them off on grain for the early market this fall.

much less time than a year has been made by Mrs. J. T. Preston, yard improvement demonstrator for the Dillely home demonstration club, according to Marie Neff, Frio county home demonstration agent.

In the fall of 1934 Mrs. Preston started her work of clearing the yard preparing for planting. She now has her yard planted according to a well made plan with one screen planting which will hide the view of barns, 22 trees consisting of elms, ash, crepe myrtle, mock oranges, persimmons, figs and apricots.

Also, in interesting groups around the house and in corners of the yard, Mrs. Preston has 12 native shrubs well started which she transplanted from pastures consisting of senisa, mountain laurel, nandina and a native fern. She was far sighted in setting these shrubs out in that she allowed space for growth of the shrubs so they will not crowd too much when they have reached maturity.

In addition, the Prestons have planned shelter from the sun for their chickens by planting seven trees in the chicken yards, consisting of elms, mulberries and hackbarries.

Texas Has Been Under Seven Flags Woman Declares

AUSTIN.—Texas has been under the flags of seven ruling nations instead of six as heretofore recorded in history. This discovery was made recently by Mrs. Mary Jordan Atkinson, author of a volume on Texas Indians which is soon to be released by the Naylor Publishing company. In delving into dusty archives and ancient Spanish Government records in the University of Texas Library, she has brought to light many interesting and heretofore little known facts connected with the Indian tribes who inhabited Texas at and immediately after the time of the first coming of white man to this vast domain. She has found that the Comanches who roseto control over a large part of what is now embraced in the area of this State had their own flag which waved over the villages in their vast barbaric empire.

The rise of the Comanche began with the spread to the lower brush region of Texas of wild mustangs in the sixteenth century. The horses which were first introduced by the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, were the progenitors of the mustangs which in later roamed at will in great droves over the Southwest. Their coming sounded the knell of the buffalo and transformed the Comanches and other Indian tribes from peaceful fighting redskins.

The Indians of Texas were sun worshippers. The glaring orb of day was an important factor in their lives. The theme of the sun runs through all of the Indian lore unearthed by Mrs. Atkinson. "Among the flags that waved over Texas have never been mentioned the standard of the sun and the blood red banner of the Comancheria," Mrs. Atkinson recently wrote. "The first of these, having had its inception in the twenty thousand years preceding the arrival of Coronado, greeted the French and Spanish explorers, while the second marched and counter-marched with San Antonio and Nacogdoches for something like three centuries."
