

Agreement Reached on Electric Rates

By O.G. NIEMAN

Southwestern Public Service Co. and the Texas Panhandle Rate Committee yesterday agreed to a compromise increase in retail electric rates that could be added to monthly bills as early as May.

The compromise rate reflects a 11.1 percent hike for customers served by the utility in the state. The SPC request in January was for a 14.78 percent increase overall.

For the average residential customer, however, the amended rate will mean an increase of 14 percent in monthly bills by as early as May. SPS had requested a residential increase of almost 19 percent.

SPS will file amended rate requests "immediately" with the 66 cities it serves in the Panhandle. Members of the rate committee representing the cities apparently feel the compromise will be accepted by all the cities.

Dudley Bayne, Hereford City Manager and chairman of the cities' rate committee, said the early agreement came because of "uncertain economic factors." Bayne added that "we couldn't have picked a worse time to try and negotiate a rate increase than right now. With inflation and interest rates spiraling at the rate they are now, we knew that prolonging negotiations would have done nothing more than justify the increase to the PUC (Texas Public Utility Commission). After our last experience, we knew we would much rather work this out with the utility than to have to deal with them (PUC)."

Bert Ballengee, executive vice president of SPS, said the utility settled on the compromise "because of the company's need for immediate relief in order to maintain our current construction program and the quality of service our customers require." He warned, however, that because of unstable economic conditions, SPS could be asking for a rate increase again in the near future.

CONGRESSMAN KENT HANCE is to be commended, we believe, for his study of the TRLA controversy here and his attempt to have the situation resolved. An article in today's Brand reports what Hance's office is doing.

Hance didn't say it, but we have the idea that one of the problems is government bureaucracy. Congress sets up, or finds, a bureaucratic agency and the people in the agency make their own rules as they go along. And, many of those actions come as a result of the people trying to justify their continued existence and funding. If they don't have enough to do, they strike out in new areas not actually authorized by Congress.

SPEAKING OF BUREAUCRACIES, we heard a speaker at a recent press convention describing the organization of any bureaucracy: "It is very much like a septic tank--the really big chunks rise to the top."

There are quite a few of these "political laws", making the rounds, but we found a whole list of them in The Snyder Daily News last week. We think you'll enjoy reading them:

Nixon's Principle--If two wrongs don't make a right, try a third.

Napoleon's Theory--In politics an absurdity is not a handicap; indeed, sometimes it is a distinct advantage.

Parkinson's Fifth Law--If there is only one way to delay an important decision, a good bureaucracy, public or private, will find it.

Peter's Political Rule--There are two sides to every issue and both are usually wrong.

Peter's Taxing Formula--Build a better mousetrap and government will build a better mousetrap tax.

Lincoln's Law--The best way to get a bad law repealed is to enforce it strictly.

Peter's Routing Formula--In government bureaucracies, difficult inquiries are passed to the lowest level of obscurity.

Parker's Rule of Parliamentary Procedure--A motion to adjourn is always in order.

Peter's Political Expediency Rule--If you can fool all of the people some of the time, that's enough.

Reston's Principle--The ship of state is the only known vessel that leaks from the top.

Robert's Law of Politics--It's easier to be a liberal a long way from home.

Shaw's Principle of Political patronage--If you rob Peter to pay Paul, you can always count on the support of Paul.

Wilker's Law--Government expands to absorb revenue and then some.

Barkley's Law--A bureaucrat is a Democrat that holds some office that a Republican wants, or vice versa.

Boren's Guide for Bureaucrats--When in charge, ponder. When in trouble, delegate. When in doubt, mumble.

Bowle's Law--Government is too big and too important to be left in the hands of politicians.

Byrne's Law--The nearest approach to immortality on earth is a government bureau.

Frankel's Law--Whatever happens in government could have happened differently, and it usually would have been better if it had.

Truman's Law: You don't set a fox to guard your chickens just because he has a lot of experience in the hen house.

Judge Approves Castro Settlement

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo Wednesday approved an out-of-court settlement in a class-action lawsuit filed by the Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal Aid over the redrawing of Castro County commissioner precinct lines.

Judge Robinson approved a motion by Castro commissioners for a special order governing the election of county commissioners this spring.

The special order approved by Judge Robinson call for the reopening of filing for commissioners' races between next Wednesday, setting the absentee voting period between April 14-29, with voting to begin as soon as possible after ballots are printed during that period and holding the primary election on May 3 as previously scheduled.

The special order affects only filings for county commissioners' races on the May 3 ballot. It will not change previous filing deadlines and determination of ballot places and other procedures in the election of other county officials.

The election will involve only Precincts 1 and 3. Candidates who filed before the regular February deadline included incumbent Ed Bennett in Precinct 1, incumbent Ann Margaret Moss in Precinct 3, Robert Benton in Precinct 3 and Jimmy Howell in Precinct 3.

Thomas Folcon, a fourth precinct 3 candidate, was disqualified when redistricting moved him into Precinct 4.

The redistricting agreed to by Castro County commissioners and TRLA will be the first in that county since 1967. The main changes effected by the compromise are in Precinct 4, which now will contain portions of all three of the other original precincts.

The lawsuit filed by TRLA cited violation of the one-man, one-vote principle in the old precinct alignments and alleged

House Budget Panel Passes Added Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — House budget writers appear on track toward recommending the first balanced federal budget in 12 years, but hard decisions over spending cuts are still ahead.

In its first day of work on the 1981 budget Wednesday, the House Budget Committee tentatively approved cutting $2.6 billion from the budget originally proposed by President Carter in January. Little opposition appeared to be emerging to the revised budget proposed by Rep. Robert N. Giaino, D-Conn., the committee chairman.

The committee was to resume work on the budget today with votes possible on some of the more controversial cuts, such as an end to Saturday mail deliveries and elimination of the state share of federal revenue sharing.

Giaino, who declared Wednesday that rising inflation "makes a balanced budget imperative," recommended a total of $15.9 billion in spending cuts to produce a budget surplus of $1.4 billion for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

In other economic news Wednesday: —New figures showed the profits of U.S. business sagged in the final quarter of 1979, despite a jump in oil company profits. Analysts called the profit figures another sign of an economic slowdown.

—Savings deposits at the nation's savings and loan associations registered the smallest February increase in a decade, rising $1.6 billion last month, another negative economic indication.

In announcing his new anti-inflation plan last week, President Carter called for $13 billion in spending cuts to balance the 1981 budget. However, administration officials said the president has yet to make final decisions on what specific cuts to recommend.

In the absence of Carter's revised budget proposal, Giaino's recommendations — which are generally supported by the congressional leadership and the administration — are emerging as the framework for the 1981 budget.

Giaino also proposed enacting "modest" tax cuts, (See BUDGET, Page 2)

— Signals coming from Iran indicate the American hostages may be held indefinitely, the U.S. government said today. Meanwhile, Iranians celebrated the new year with fiery incantations, lucky goldfish and strolling minstrels after 61 prisoners were freed under an amnesty by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The new year holiday, called Now Ruz, closed government offices for the next week and took public attention away from the slow counting of votes in the parliamentary election last week and the 50 hostages, who began their 138th day in captivity in the U.S. Embassy today.

"The signals which are now coming out of Iran suggest that the detention of the hostages may continue indefinitely," State Department legal adviser Roberts B. Owen told the World Court in the Hague, Netherlands.

"No one in this courtroom has any way of knowing whether the Ayatollah Khomeini will continue to hold the hostages in captivity for a month or for a year or for a decade," he declared.

Owen said that U.S. hopes for release of the hostages were shattered early this month when the U.N. investigating commission left Iran without seeing the captives. He called the World Court the most promising hope for the ultimate release of the hostages and called for an urgent final judgment on the U.S. case against Iran.

Juvenile Board Reveals Job Duty

By PAUL SIMS

Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board, which last year was involved in a controversy over the duties of the juvenile probation officer, Wednesday spelled out a major function of the newly-created and separate juvenile office would be.

Juvenile officer Randy Williams, appointed by the board last month, said that Hereford police had expected him to work on cases involving youthful offenders "from the investigation and offense report all the way through."

Williams said that he had understood that he would work in an assistance capacity with police.

Juvenile board member Mack Tubb told Williams that police would handle the initial call, "then go out and take care of the investigation themselves."

The case then would be turned over to Williams for disposition, Tubb said.

"Unless it's a major incident," Williams added. "In an armed robbery involving a juvenile, they should go ahead and call me."

Williams, involved in his first juvenile-board meeting since he officially took office this week, told the board that he also has been working with Hereford's two junior highs and the high school.

"I've met with six kids who the principals thought were going in the wrong direction," Williams said.

The juvenile office was created by the board to work with both potential offenders and those who already had committed a crime.

The juvenile probation office, maintained by the board, will continue to handle cases involving actual probation.

Probation officer Roger Bowers was fired earlier this month over complaints from city police and school officials.

The office is funded jointly by the Hereford school district, county and city. Representatives of all three entities said last year that they wanted a juvenile officer who would work with potential offenders, not strictly those on probation.

Bowers, they charged, had not fully cooperated with the entities in handling referrals.

The juvenile board Wednesday voted to pay Bowers for three weeks accrued vacation time, authorized County Judge Glen Nelson to advertise for a juvenile probation officer and heard Bowers' regular monthly report.

Bowers said his office handled 47 new referrals in February.

Legal Services Director To Probe Complaints

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock, concerned about the dispute between Texas Rural Legal Aid and public officials in Deaf Smith County, has asked the national director of the agency which allocates funds to TRLA to visit Hereford next week. The Brand has learned.

Dan Bradley, executive director of Legal Services Corporation, will be in Hereford Wednesday to discuss complaints received from Hance constituents with TRLA attorneys, city and county officials and community leaders.

"I met with Dan Bradley Monday. That's the fourth time I've met with him about the continued complaints I've had," Hance told The Brand.

"A week doesn't go by that we don't have four or five calls, and we've gotten numerous letters for the last eight months. There's a problem there, and something's got to be done," Hance said.

The 19th District congressman said he told Bradley that if TRLA will make "some significant changes" in the way it operates locally, "I wouldn't be committed to automatically vote against them."

He was referring to a congressional vote on the funding of Legal Services Corporation, the parent agency of TRLA. The national corporation already is guaranteed funding through Sept. 30, but continued funding is included in the 1980-81 appropriations bill.

"Right now, I'm voting against the funding," Hance said.

"If the day comes that I'm afraid to stand up to a federal agency that I think is abusing its power, I shouldn't be a congressman. And, they are abusing their power."

Hance said that lawsuits filed by TRLA against Sheriff Travis McPherson, the Hereford school board and private firms have "split" the community.

"The real purpose that they were intended for has somehow been forgotten,"

Hance said. "That purpose is to make attorneys accessible for people who could not have had legal representation in the past."

He added that recent (See LEGAL, Page 2)

Cargill Settles Out Of Court in Suit

Cargill Inc., an original co-defendant in a $32 million antitrust suit brought by Dimmitt Agri Industries against that firm and CPC International, apparently settled out-of court with the Dimmitt-based cooperative on Tuesday. The Brand has learned.

Proceedings are continuing in the action against CPC International, the lone remaining defendant in a field of nine firms that were named in the original suit filed by DAI Nov. 4, 1974.

A four-woman two-man jury is hearing the case in U.S. District Court in Amarillo.

DAI is charging that CPC intentionally cut prices on cornstarch and corn syrup to force the cooperative out of the wet milling industry after it had completed its multi-million dollar plant in Dimmitt.

The other eight firms named in DAI's original suit have all settled with the cooperative out of court.

James Witherspoon of Hereford is representing the Dimmitt cooperative along with the San Francisco law firm of Alioto & Alioto.

The DAI suit charges that the defendants "conspired to reduce the price of cornstarch and corn syrup to keep the plaintiff, from making a profit...and as an example to other farm cooperatives which might thereafter be formed for the same purposes."

The suit alleges that the prices of starch and corn syrup were reduced at the time the Dimmitt milling plant came on stream and the price remained low until such time as a lease-purchase agreement was made with the Amstar Corporation, which now operates the milling facilities.

HISD Post To Be Topic Of Hearing

Hereford Independent School District trustees will meet in special session at 7 p.m. today to discuss the possible termination of the duties of a school-administration employee.

Superintendent Harrell Holder, contacted this morning by The Brand, declined to comment about why the hearing was called.

Trustees are expected to meet in executive session to discuss the personnel matter, although the employee will have the option of whether the meeting will be open or closed.

Singer Dragonette

Dies of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP) - Jessica Dragonette, one of radio's most popular singers during the 1930s, has died at New York Hospital.

Miss Dragonette, who died Tuesday, apparently suffered a heart attack while hospitalized for asthma.

Because a fire destroyed her birth certificate in an orphanage where the soprano spent time as a child, her exact age was not known. Her age has been recorded as 65 but she was believed to be about 70.

Born in Calcutta, India, where her father worked as a construction engineer, she was later orphaned in Philadelphia. She lived and studied at the Georgian Court Convent and College in Lakewood, N.J.

In 1924 she won a job in the choir of a Broadway show called "The Miracle," staged by impresario Max Reinhardt who later gave her solo parts in "The Student Prince" and "The Grand St. Follies."

Electricity

"being all smiles," Bayne remarked that "we are not enemies. SPS does a good job, but we must save what we can for the people in our cities."

Bayne pointed out that both sides had agreed to ask PUC to eliminate the differential in summer rates. PUC had put the split-rate system into effect on the last rate increase in an effort to conserve electricity in peak summer months. The system allowed SPS to charge more during the summer months, but Bayne said it "simply punishes people for using electricity when they need to use it the most." Ballegee also noted that SPS doesn't like "the rate juggling simply because it doesn't treat every customer equally."

national publicity on TRLA has been a matter of concern.

"It may be the publicity more than anything else that bothers me," Hance said.

"I really feel bad about the whole thing. It seems like it's turned into a circus atmosphere."

"I just can't understand why the attorneys didn't sit down and settle these things with people. Sure, someone in actual violation of the minimum wage law ought to be following the law, but I wish the attorneys would sit down with that person and try to work things out."

Hance said he is certain that some complaints received by his office are valid, "but I'm sure that some of essentially by rebating the $10.3 billion expected from the president's oil import fee. That fee will boost gasoline prices by 10 cents a gallon.

If cities approve the compromise rate increase, SPS will realize an additional $31.9 million in company revenue. The overall figure is 26 percent lower than the $42.6 million requested by the utility in January.

Giaimo said an additional $3.5 billion could be raised for general tax cuts by increasing user fees for airports and waterways and by reducing tax breaks, such as the business lunch deduction.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., an influential committee member, said the tax cut likely would reduce Social Security taxes by about $10 billion and allow businesses $3 billion for investment tax write-offs on investments.

The tax cut issue provoked the sharpest debate Wednesday as committee Republicans tried to firmly commit the panel to a tax reduction as well as to deeper spending cuts.

"We're trying to lock in a tax cut," said Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y.

The GOP proposal, defeated on a 17-8 party line vote, sought a $20 billion tax cut — $11 billion in fiscal 1981. By mandating sharper spending cuts, the GOP plan still projected a $1 billion budget surplus.

Overall, Giaimo's budget proposal for fiscal 1981 calls for spending $612.4 billion, revenues of $613.8 billion and a surplus of $1.4 billion.

Normally, the president's budget submitted in January serves as the framework for the congressional budget review, although Congress retains final power over spending levels.

This year, however, the process was complicated when Carter repudiated his January budget, which called for a $15.8 billion deficit, and said the budget must be balanced as part of the fight to reduce the nation's 18 percent annual inflation rate.

Since Carter has yet to send Congress a revised budget proposal, the House Budget Committee has turned to Giaimo's plan as the key recommendation.

The spending cuts approved Wednesday included $1 billion from the strategic petroleum reserve, $300 million in deferred park acquisition and water projects and $200 million from construction of veterans' hospitals.

Giaimo has estimated $836 million could be saved by ending Saturday mail deliveries and reducing the subsidy for bulk mail.

Elimination of the state share of federal revenue sharing would save $1.7 billion, dropping anti-recession aid for cities $1 billion, reducing youth and other jobs programs $1 billion and trimming the federal highway program $500 million.

Other possible major savings being talked about include $1 billion by postponing proposed welfare changes, $1 billion by awarding cost-of-living increases once a year instead of twice to civilian and military retirees and $400 million by cutting back the food stamp program.

Hostages

Wednesday the hostages were held under "harsh and inhumane conditions" and were "confined like common criminals."

He said 13 black or female hostages who were released Nov. 16 reported that women were tied to straight chairs facing the wall for 16 hours at a time, that at night the hostages' hands were bound or handcuffed and they were kept under lights around the clock to inhibit sleep, that some were made to sleep on the cold bare floor without blankets, that some were denied changes of clothing and that baths or showers were allowed only rarely.

"On one occasion a student who was interrogating a woman hostage showed her his revolver to let her know that one of its chambers was loaded, and then proceeded to intimidate her by pointing the gun at her and repeatedly pulling the trigger," said Owen. "Happily he stopped in time, but the experience must have been terrifying."

He also denied Iranian charges that the embassy was a spy center. He said it was "a normal diplomatic mission operating as such missions normally do."

The 61 amnestied Iranians left Evin Prison Wednesday and were kissed and hugged by waiting relatives and friends. Most or all were believed to be minor offenders, and it was not known if any had been arrested because of activities while Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was still in power.

Some 400 other prisoners were expected to be freed in the next few days. Although Khomeini's proclamation specified that it would apply to members of the armed forces, the secret police and the clergy during the monarchy, it excluded those accused of killing, torture or misuse of public funds or property.

U.S. Businessman Missing in Kabul

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - An American businessman named Charles Brockunier has been missing in Kabul since the Afghan capital was rocked by anti-Soviet rioting nearly one month ago, Western diplomatic sources said today.

They said the U.S. Embassy has asked the Soviet-backed Afghan regime whether Brockunier was detained along with another American, Robert Lee, but has received no reply.

American diplomats in New Delhi refused to comment officially.

Afghanistan's government radio reported Lee was arrested last month and accused of being a CIA agent.

The U.S. addresses of Brockunier and Lee were not known here.

More than 300 civilians were reported killed in the Kabul riots of Feb. 22-23, when residents of the capital protested the Soviet occupation of their homeland.

The Kremlin has poured an estimated 80,000 troops into Afghanistan to support the nation's communist government and help fight the Moslem rebels opposing it.

Commission Buys Rural Fire Radios

Deaf Smith County commissioners voted three separate times Wednesday to purchase radios for rural fire departments in Dawn, Walcott and Simms.

Commissioners met in special session Wednesday to purchase radios and discuss the reapportionment lawsuit filed against the county. The lawsuit was discussed in closed session.

The commission voted to purchase the radios in regular session last month, but decided that three votes were necessary to avoid the bid-process. The radios will cost $1,350 apiece, and purchasing them together would have meant the county would have had to accepted bids.

County Judge Glen Nelson said that avoiding the bid process will save time. He said that any delay might cause the price of radios to increase.

ACS Crusade Begins With Rural Campaign

The Deaf Smith unit of the American Cancer Society got a good start on its annual Crusade Wednesday with the deposit of some $500 as the result of early efforts of Rural Campaign chairman Rhonda Wagner. Mrs. Wagner's goal this year is $1,500, or approximately eight per cent of the overall Crusade goal of $20,000 for the local unit. The deposit made Wednesday was the result of letters mailed to rural residents March 10 by Mrs. Wagner. "We have reached one-third of our goal, and I am very confident we will reach the goal this year," Mrs. Wagner said. "I would like to wrap the rural campaign up by the first of April, so that gives us about two more weeks to work with."

Persons wanting to donate to the annual Crusade may call Mrs. Wagner at 364-5959, or write to her at Star Route, Hereford, Texas, 79045. Over $1,000 was collected in the rural campaign of the Crusade last year.

The Deaf Smith unit of the ACS has also set the date for the annual Bike-A-Thon, which will be held Saturday, May 10, beginning at the Sugarland Mall parking lot as it has in the past. Entry and sponsorship forms will be available to prospective riders soon, according to unit president Bob Nigh. Prizes for this year's Bike-A-Thon have yet to be decided upon.

The ACS Crusade will conclude this year with the residential campaign April 14 here in Hereford. A goal of $5,000 has been established for the residential campaign.

Probe Made On Children's Home

CORPUS CHRISTI NOTE
By The Associated Press
Authorities in Forrest County are looking into allegations that operators of a second children's home in south Mississippi have physically abused young people at the centers.

Forrest County District Attorney Paul Holmes reportedly is probing reports of alleged abuse at Redemption Ranch near Eastabuchie. Meanwhile, a defender of Bethel Children's Home at Lucedale says marks found on the backs and legs of several students were a result of corporal punishment policy and not of abuse.

The Rev. Wallis C. Metts of the Christian Law Association of Cleveland, Ohio, spoke at a press conference Wednesday held by the Rev. Herman Fountain, Bethel's director. Fountain and three of his assistants are free on bond after being arrested on charges that included assault and battery and disorderly conduct. Two runaways from the Redemption Ranch filed an abuse complaint with youth court authorities shortly after a grand jury visited the facilities two weeks ago. Jan Lewis, Youth Services Bureau director at Hattiesburg, said the two said they had been beaten with a board.

District Attorney Mike Moore of Pascagoula said earlier that children who were interviewed at the Bethel youth court hearing had complained of beatings. He said examinations of the youths, ranging in age from five to 18, showed they had been struck on the legs with a belt or rod.

The 38 children in the home were moved to foster homes in other parts of the state or turned over to their parents after a youth court hearing received complaints that the youths may have been subjected to abusive treatment and forced to live in unsanitary conditions.

Some of the children came to the home with stab wounds, Metts said. "They're not out of a Sunday School picnic."

He said the state may not interfere in the Bethel home "unless the children are in imminent danger."

Fountain said he followed the Bible in operating the institution and that the children in his care had received proper medical attention.

Pointing to his Bible, he said, "I use this right here. What the Scripture says is my policy."

Fountain said he was a former heroin addict who was "saved, called to preach, attended Bible school" and eventually went to work as a "soul-winner" for Evangelist Lester Roloff in Corpus Christi, Texas.

He said the staff was giving the children the best education possible, even though they were not accredited. Health officials investigating the complaints told authorities the children apparently had been subjected to unhealthy and unsanitary conditions.

Fountain, during a news conference at the home Wednesday, refused to discuss the charges against him.

Children at the home reportedly were expected to memorize a chapter from the bible each month. Fountain once said: "We train them as children and when they are old they won't depart from it."

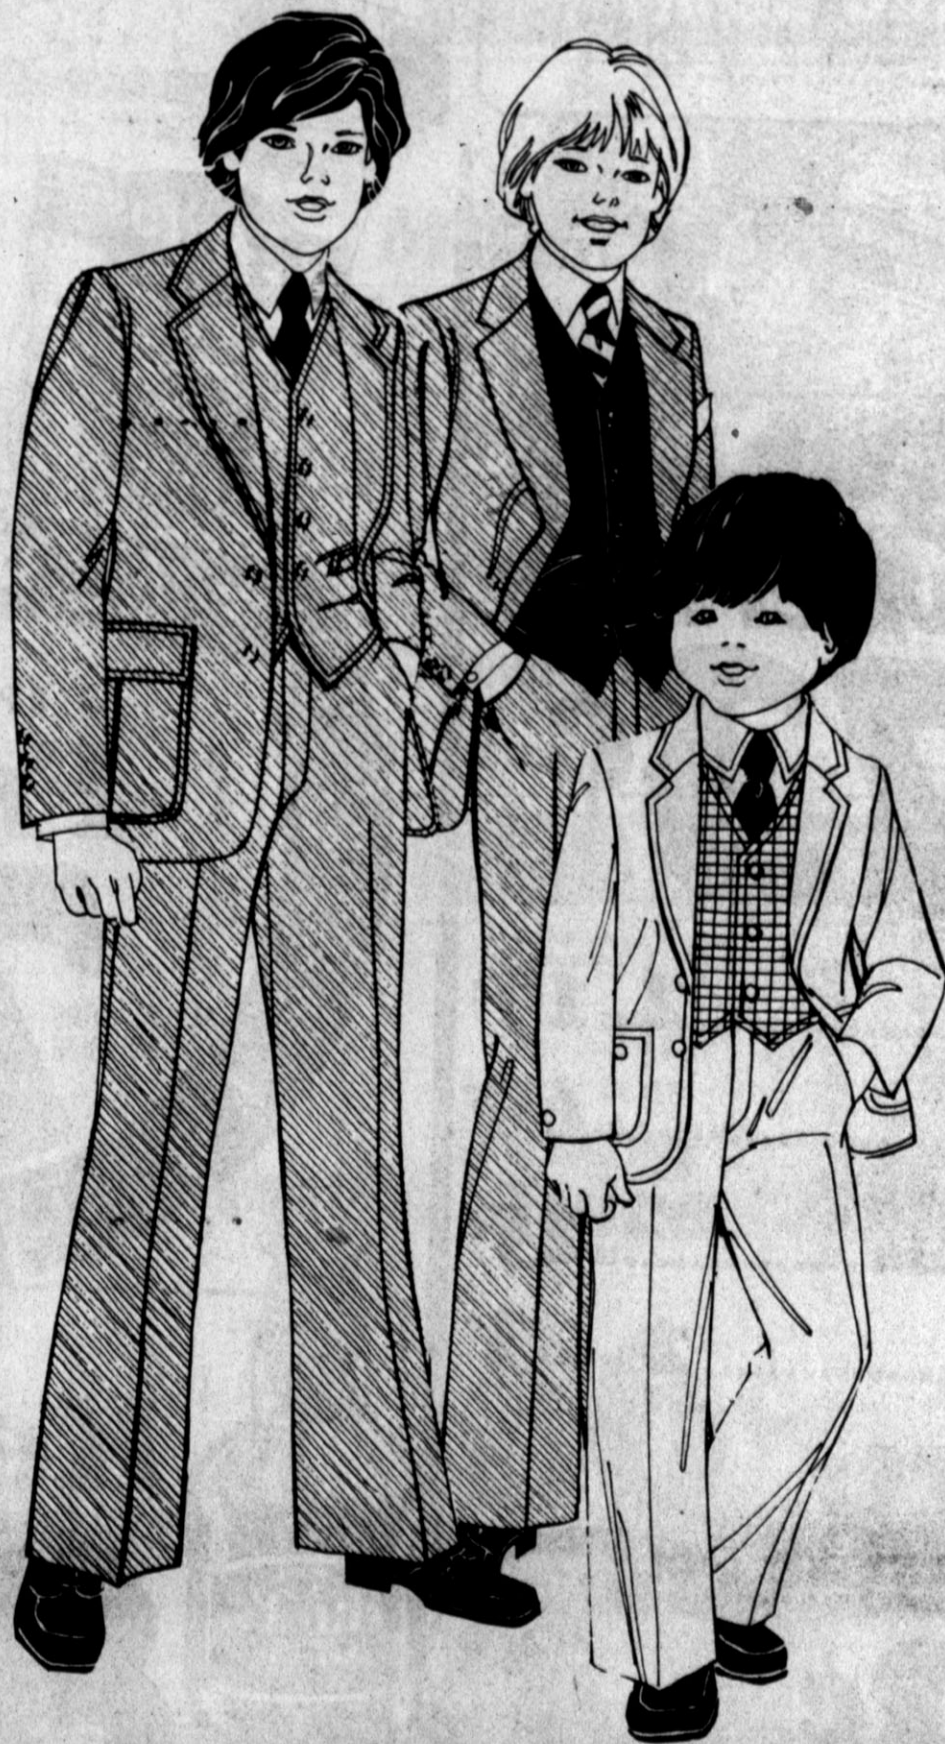

Chancery Court Judge Glenn Barlow of Pascagoula, who presided at the preliminary hearings earlier in the week, said the next step would be additional investigation and a full hearing to determine whether the children were neglected and abused and in need of supervision.

Civil Rights Group Protests Incident

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Border patrol agents were firing at a fleeing truck Feb. 27 near Hebronville when the truck overturned, killing two illegal aliens, claims a local human rights committee.

Civil rights attorney Ruben Sandoval, attorney for the San Antonio Committee for Human Rights, said Wednesday he will meet with President Carter early next month to voice concern over the incident.

Representatives of the committee, which conducted a review of the accident, said it found evidence the pursuing federal officers caused the accident by firing on the truck.

The officers maintain they fired no shots.

The accident killed 6-year-old Estella Salazar and 60-year-old Anselmo Rodriguez. Several other illegal aliens in the truck were injured.

"The Hebronville massacre is a human rights issue of international focus and attention," said the report, which was released to reporters Wednesday.

In the report, committee representatives said a four-day investigation last week confirms initial accounts by the aliens, who said they were fired upon by the officers just before the accident.

The report said Margarita Orta, chairman of the committee, and another investigator interviewed 15 witnesses, who gave statements "to the effect that border patrol officers fired at the truck, causing it to overturn."

The injured were transported to a Laredo hospital, which refused them treatment, according to the committee findings.

All-Female Cadet Class Shaping Up Nicely

SEA GIRT, N.J. (AP) — The nation's first all-female trooper cadet class is shaping up nicely, with no pun — or offense — intended, says New Jersey state police Superintendent Clinton Pagano.

The remaining 67 women of the original 104 recruits, now beginning the second quarter of their 20-week course, are "the committed ones," say academy staff members, who include the only two women among 1,931 state troopers. Graduation is June 27.

Pagano says the dropout rate is normal for recruit classes.

"The people go home over the weekend and reassess things. We get mothers who decide they want to be with their children, we get a variety of reasons.

"It's too early to say if it's the physical training pressure or the discipline pressure," said Pagano, who would not allow interviews with the recruits.

"One said she treated her dog better than we treated her. She wasn't here long enough for a truthful appraisal."

The class began Feb. 13, the result of a federal consent order to add more women to the force.

"It's a one-time thing, an all-female class," said Pagano, who now must concentrate on recruiting minorities because of another court order.

Only two of the remaining female recruits are black. The force now includes only 84 non-white males and one black female.

The "committed" recruits practice in barracks at night with dummy pistols, reread course material and train hard on heavy punching bags to build strength.

They eat quickly because the short time immediately following meals is their own, the only break in a day that begins with exercises at dawn and runs in unbroken military precision through dinner.

Demerits for infractions mean extra duty, so recruits learn to keep their collars neat and not to cut a path across soggy lawns.

Lt. Joseph Kobus said some adaptations had to be made in the training program for women.

"We're finding some differences," Kobus said. "Women need some additional exercises to strengthen their left wrist. They have to qualify firing a pistol with both hands....That's in case you get shot."

Pagano and his staff modified pushup and chinup requirements to compensate for women's inferior upper body strength. "Now we're finding they might have superior lower body strength," he said.

"Our main concern is to get fully qualified state troopers," Pagano added.

The recruits are taught that the chest and head are the "maximum kill area" for gunfire and instructed in the basics of constitutional law, communications, sociology and weaponless self defense.

"I have to impress on them somehow they could get killed," Trooper Walter Jensen said during a break on the pistol range. "Fourteen seconds to get off six shots. The average gunfight is 2.8 seconds at a distance of about six feet. I'm not sure they know what we're into — yet."

Since the founding of the American Red Cross Blood Program in 1948, the Red Cross has collected, processed and distributed over 65 million units of blood.

Soft Rock, Pop Music Worries Soviet Officials

MOSCOW (AP) — The stirring songs that once glorified the toil of Soviet workers — a sort of music-to-build-locomotives-by — are being pushed aside by new sounds of soft rock and pop.

The new tunes mark a swing in musical tastes that has some ideological officials worried.

A generation ago, famous patriotic melodies blared out with bugles, drums and massed choirs were leading instruments of Soviet propaganda for the masses.

The strident "Song of the Motherland," the triumphant "Boldly Forward, Comrades" and a host of others boomed from factory loudspeakers. They typified the Soviet Union's early years and the battles of World War II.

The old songs have held on to some popularity and are still regulars on radio and television. But new composers are steadily cutting away at the brass band tradition, writing instead gently lyrical songs — even for patriotic themes.

And many new songs have nothing ideological about them at all.

The national trade union newspaper, Trud, complained in a recent editorial that the national song repertoire has turned increasingly to "songs of love, modern versions of gypsy romances and light Western tunes."

The top songs in Moscow at the moment include "Summer Night," a soft rock love song; the lyrical "Looking for You," on a similar theme by top Soviet singer Alla Pugacheva, and "Summer Rains," a love song by Mark Minkov.

Miss Pugachev's lusty singing covers a variety of themes, from love to the problems of women in modern society to the effect of stardom on her own life.

Revivals of traditional Russian folk songs are popular, too, as well as rock and pop from East European countries. Authorities seem to have made their peace with rock as a genre, including Western tunes, which regularly turn up on state radio.

But authorities still call for more songs on "worthy" and "significant" themes.

One modern pop group that has received official praise is the group Pesnyari, one of whose members, Leonid Bortkevich, is married to former Soviet gymnastics star Olga Korbut.

The group has a lyrical song extolling the western Soviet republic of Byelorussia among its hits.

Another patriotic number, the rock song "My Address is the Soviet Union" by the group Samotsvety, is a dancing hit at Soviet youth cafes.

The Moscow Summer Olympics, too, have found their way into pop music. One contemporary composer in good standing is David Tukhmanov, who has a hit called "Olympiad-80." It includes the line, "Welcome to the Moscow Olympics, welcome to beautiful Moscow."

Despite such songs, Trud complained that many other composers do nothing to bring listeners a Communist spirit, "not to mention any cultivation of high aesthetic tastes."

The same issues came up last November at a nationwide conference of the Union of Composers. A Moscow composer, Eduard Kolmanovsky, said songs with "deep, significant themes" were being forced into the background by light, Western-style tunes.

Netters Split Matches

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Brand Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface varsity tennis team had a little change-of-heart, but the transplant didn't necessarily pan out for the squad considering it netted a cohesive 13-5 team victory over the Clovis Wildcats Tuesday and then contrarily slipped to a 6-10 ledger against the Lubbock High Westerners here Wednesday.

Put simply, it was only a half-hearted alteration that probably could have used a little help from a pacemaker. The boys squad stifled their opposition by racking up six of nine possible matches while the girls staggered out of the day's duel against the Westerners bolstering a 0-7 mark.

"We really played better and showed some improvement even though we didn't do well in the girl's competition," said head coach Robert Cox of his squad's Wednesday performance. "When we played Lubbock earlier in the fall, we didn't take one single match over them and the fact that we grabbed some this time indicates improvement."

"Right now the girl's team is sitting in the middle—they need more improvement, but yet they've come a long way since the beginning of the year," he said. "The main thing both the boys and the girls need to work on is to quit splitting sets—with our opponents. "We did that all day yesterday and we need to stop that in order to be successful."

With the exception of one game in the boys singles competition, the Whiteface managed to split at least one set.

Adolfo Garcia lost his first set to Lubbock's Mark Goss, but later went on to win the match 6-2, 6-0 while HHS netters Robert Castro and Raymond Duncan each split a set apiece in their respective games before eventually outlasting their competition.

Whiteface Tim Hamlet grasped a win over Greg Teeter 6-3, 6-4 as the only exception to the rule for the Whitefaces - in gaining ground with straight set victories.

In the girls segment of the duel match, Karla Driskell was defeated by Westerner Jennifer Smith 6-2, 6-3. Clary Montemayer took one set 6-1 go-around.

Shawn Hoffmann and Jennifer Smith defeated Karla Driskell in the first game of the day and the Jane Butler-Shawn Smith team upended Clary Montemayer and Carol Zinser in the final round.

The next slated action for the HHS tennis team is scheduled for Friday and Saturday in the Borger Tournament.

In that competition the Whitefaces will be pairing off against the likes of Pampa, Plainview, Lubbock Estacado, and host Borger.

over Shawn Hoffman and then lost the final two sets. Carol Zinser was lambasted by Shelly Williams in straight sets 6-0, 6-0 while Bety Frye and Lisa Snyder both slipped a dropped games to Lubbock's Jane Butler and Christie Smith.

And the doubles competition turned out to be more of the same for the girls this

Watson Hopes for Win

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tom Watson stops short of calling the Tournament Players Championship one of golf's major events.

But it's one he wants to win.

"It's our showcase tournament, the showcase tournament on the tour. The championship of the touring players. It's an extremely well-run tournament. I'd very much like to win it," Watson said before teeing off today in the first round of the $440,000 event.

"If we get the conditions we usually do — by that I mean wind — it's a great test of golf."

"I like the golf course. It takes a lot of talent to play here and win. It's the kind of golf I like to play," said the man who had been the game's most proficient performer over the past three years and comes into this one as the only 2-time winner of the season.

But the ambitious tour-namment, which seeks a stature in golf equal to that enjoyed by the currently recognized Big Four, has not yet advanced to the level of the majors, Watson said.

"I don't think it has the stature of the Masters or the U.S. Open or the British Open or the PGA," the painfully honest Watson said. "I don't know if it ever will."

"This tournament is only seven years old. It takes time to build the traditions and the history that the others have. And tradition and history are a big part of making a tournament one of the majors."

Watson, now the dominant player in the game, has taken to weeks off from competition and says he is "refreshed, which might make up for any loss of touch."

Watson, a runnerup to Lanny Wadkins in howling winds in this event a year ago, faces the strongest field of the year in the 72-hole chase over tough Sawgrass, a 7,000-yard links-type course. It contains all but one of the top 144 leading money-winners from the last 12 months, plus British open Champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain. The only absentee is Al Geiberger, who is ill.

Chief among Watson's challengers are Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, each on a continuing, comeback crusade. Miller capped his return from a 3-year slump with a victory in his last start, at Inverrary.

Nicklaus, considered by many as the best the game has ever known, came close his last time out. The 40-year-old Nicklaus, who is working on his game as hard or harder than ever before, lost a 2-hole sudden death playoff to Ray Floyd last weekend in Miami.

It was his best American finish in 20 months, but Nicklaus said his comeback won't be complete until he wins.

Astro Second Baseman Laughs at Cincinnati Resentment, Says He's Not Washed Up Yet

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Joe Morgan left Cincinnati with the boos of unsentimental fans in his ears and the knowledge that many observers think the National League's two-time Most Valuable Player is through.

But Morgan laughs when asked if he's out to prove people wrong.

Spreading his arms wide,

he said, "I've accomplished all this."

Then he held his thumb and forefinger an inch apart. "And now you're telling me I have to accomplish this to prove something?"

The sparkplug of the mid-1970s dynasty called "The Big Red Machine" is now 36, and coming off two of the worst seasons of his 15-year career. He was angered last season when booed even though he was playing hurt, and there were other problems he won't discuss ("I wanted a change of uniform. They couldn't have kept me there for $10 million.")

Morgan was one of least-rewarded free agents this winter, signing with Houston for just $250,000 (not counting bonus clauses).

Morgan thinks he'll bounce back this year, but showed his feelings that he's not out to prove anything with a nonstop, 15-minute talk.

"It's an important year for me because I want to have a good year. It's not an important year for me the way people seem to think it is."

"No one can play forever. If I can't play like I want to anymore — this year or in 10 years — I'm going to quit, and I'm still going to be very proud of myself. I've accomplished so many things in this game that a lot of great players have never done. I've got over 600 stolen bases, I've got over 200 home runs...

"If somebody would have told me when I left home to play this game, 'You're going to be Most Valuable Player two years in a row, hit .320, hit 27 home runs, drive in 100 runs, steal 60 bases; you're going to win gold gloves, you're going to drive in the winning run in the seventh game of the World Series with two out in the ninth inning,' I would have been pretty happy."

"So how could I be despondent if the time has come for me?" he asked.

"You only have to prove something if you have doubts yourself. If I didn't think I could play, I wouldn't say, 'Well, if they think I can play, I'm going to take their money.'"

"When I look in the mirror, I don't ever lie to myself, because I'm going to be Joe Morgan long after I quit playing this game."

"Even last year, my year (.250 batting average, nine homers) was a lot better than a lot of people's. I feel in my own mind that I can play, if I stay healthy."

"I'll say this to you: if I can go out and play 150 games, my statistics will be very good."

Rangers Pledge Support Of Major League Baseball Strike

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Texas Rangers have pledged their unanimous support for a major league baseball players strike if such a walkout is called by the Players Association's executive board.

The team met Wednesday with Marvin Miller, the association's executive director, and voted 37-0 to back the strike. The Rangers are carrying only 37 players on their major league roster, three under the spring training limit.

The vote, along with strike votes taken by other major league teams, precedes an April 1 meeting at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, where each team's player representative will decide when a strike, if necessary, would be called.

Miller, who met with the Rangers prior to their exhibition game with the New York Yankees, said he was unimpressed with the decision by negotiators for the owners to drop a proposed salary scale for players.

"The players were never fooled by that. We expected it. I gather the owners think that with drawing a meaningless, asinine proposal entitles them to a reward," Millers said.

"It's almost as if a man who's been beating his wife for years stops and says, 'Don't I deserve a reward?'"

Miller said the next negotiating meeting with the owners' representatives will be next Wednesday in Phoenix.

Louisville, No.2 Iowa Meet In Semifinal Contest

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Louisville Coach Denny Crum calls Darrell Griffith, the Cardinals' star, "a true All-American, the best all-around guard in nation." But Iowa Coach Luke Olson, whose unfanked Hawkeyes will go up against the No. 2-rated Cardinals Saturday in the semifinals of the NCAA Basketball Championships, feels just as strongly about his team's backcourt ace, Ronnie Lester.

America," Olson declared. But that's the catch — "when he's healthy." How well the Hawkeyes do may hinge on just how healthy Lester is. The senior and leading scorer in Iowa history, missed 15 games this season because of a knee injury, and in his absence Iowa was a very ordinary 8-7 team. With Lester in the lineup, the Hawkeyes are 15-1.

Lester showed the after-effects of his injury last weekend, as Iowa beat Syracuse and Georgetown to win the East Regional. At times he limped while on the court, and never did he display the blazing speed that had the pro scouts raving about him a year ago.

"I'm still not 100 percent," concedes the 6-foot-2 Lester. Olson says it's more like 75 percent.

But even that is remarkable when you consider that Lester underwent knee surgery in midseason.

"I thought when Ronnie had surgery his season was over," said Olson. "But he left the recovery room at 4 a.m. and by 10 a.m. he was lifting weights with the leg. If you don't think he wanted to come back, you're mistaken." And now?

"He is a little better each day," Olson said. "He's still a great player, but he doesn't have that blazing quickness back yet. He's a little reluctant to turn it on. But by Saturday, you will see the after-burners going."

Iowa figures to need Lester operating at or close to top speed against Louisville, which clobbered a tough Louisiana State team 86-66 in the Midwest Regional final even though Griffith played just 17 minutes because of foul trouble.

"It was very frustrating for me not to be able to play," said Griffith, expressing a feeling that Lester knows all too well. "But the other guys just took over. I was just another cheerleader. It made me feel good to see them go ahead and play well without me."

The win over LSU had Coach Crum crowing that Louisville is "not a one-man show," and Griffith agrees. "I get all the nicknames and labels and stuff like 'Dr. Dunkenstein,' and I really do appreciate them," Griffith said. "But basketball is a team sport. It's the University of Louisville, not the University of Darrell Griffith."

That same point was made by Purdue Coach Lee Rose, who contends that there is more to his Boilermakers than 7-foot-1 All-American center Joe Barry Carroll.

But the fact remains, stopping Carroll will be the major task confronting the UCLA Bruins when the teams square off in Saturday's second semifinal. And UCLA's starting center, sophomore Mike Sanders, is only 6-6.

The Yagua Indians of the Amazon Basin still stalk jaguars with blowguns and poisons on darts.

Murphy Nicks Knicks

HOUSTON (AP) — Between the "Chicken Man" and Houston guard Calvin Murphy, the New York Knicks never had a chance.

Murphy uncorked a season-high 38 points, including 15 in the third quarter when Houston hit a sizzling 19 of 20 field goals, to lead Houston to a 139-113 victory over the Knicks Wednesday night and keep the Rockets' playoff hopes alive.

Guard Mike Duleavy, dubbed the "Chicken Man" because of his uncanny ability to hit the magic 135th point that gives Houston fans a free chicken dinner at a local restaurant, did the trick for the fourth time in two years.

But Duleavy's shot came well after the Rockets had iced the game with their amazing third quarter that saw Houston stretch 63-51 halftime lead to a 111-77 margin at the end of the period.

Talking about his team's scoring streak, Houston coach Del Harris said it was "the most in a row that I have encountered. I've seen so many games and I don't remember one where we've hit that many in a row."

Murphy and Houston forward Rudy Tomjanovich, who totaled 27 points in the game, combined for 35 points in the first half to keep New York behind.

"It was great," Tomjanovich said, talking about his team's third quarter shooting.

"We just kept coming down the court. We were putting the ball up and it was going in. New York was playing good defense, but they were spread out and we got a lot of inside shots."

Harris said he altered his team's offensive plan for Tomjanovich, who has indicated this may be his last season as a Rocket.

"I involved him in a different way in the offense," Harris said, "so that he is in a position to get more of a piece of the offense."

New York coach Red Holtzman benched his starters in the fourth period and the reserves reeled off 23 points to Houston's six before the Rockets regained their offensive punch and outscored New York 22-13 in the last five minutes of the game.

"If you keep dwelling on this loss and not go forward, you can be in a lot of trouble," Holtzman said of his club's defeat.

NIT Champ Virginia Contends It's One of Best Despite Poor Season

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Virginia Cavaliers believe their victory in the National Invitation Tournament qualifies them as one of the best college basketball teams in the country — despite their 10 losses and fifth-place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

But with three of the NCAA championship tournament's final four were also-rans in their own conferences, who's to say Coach Terry Holland and his team are wrong?

"I believe we're as good as any team in the country when we play well," said Holland after Virginia defeated Minnesota 58-55 in the championship game of the NIT Wednesday night.

"We didn't get enough time to jell together during the season, but we played well in the tournament," said Jeff Lamp, whose four free throws in the last 19 seconds secured the victory. "We had our ups and downs all season and the adversity pulled us together."

Lamp, who scored 30 points in Monday night's semifinal victory over Nevada-Las Vegas but was held to nine in the championship, was referring to Virginia's season-long struggle to adjust to highly recruited freshman center Ralph Sampson.

The 7-foot-4 Sampson, amazingly mobile and agile for his size, was named the NIT's Most Valuable Player after scoring 15 points and 15 rebounds Wednesday night following his 26 points and 15 rebounds Monday.

"You can't really call him a freshman anymore," said Holland. "This was his 34th game (Virginia finished 24-10) and that's a lot of basketball. He has developed into an exceptional player."

Virginia shot only 38.2 percent for the game to Minnesota's 41.7 percent, leading Lamp to say, "We won the game on defense. Intensity throughout the game and the tournament was the reason we won."

"We had lots of desire and hustle defensively, but didn't have any offensive movement," said Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher. "We just didn't move to the basket strong enough. Almost all of our turnovers were on intercepted passes."

The game was almost a free-throw shooting contest at the end. Sampson hit two with 1:31 remaining to give Virginia a 54-53 lead before Lee Raker intercepted a pass with 1:08 left.

Then Sampson pulled down a key rebound of a missed Virginia free throw, forcing Minnesota to foul again. But this time it was Lamp, who hit 84 percent of his free throws and once hit 48 foul shots in a row this year, who went to the line.

He hit both with 19 seconds left for a 56-53 lead, then Kevin McHale made it 56-55 with two free throws for the Gophers before Lamp iced it with two more free throws with two seconds remaining.

"I've been in a lot of 1-and-1s this year," Lamp said. "I admit I was a little nervous, but I was confident, too."

Asked if he was glad to see Lamp go to the line twice in the crucial final seconds, Holland replied, "Are you kidding? He's one of the best free throw shooters in the country."

The NIT has been criticized as a "loser's tournament" in some basketball circles, especially with 48 teams in the NCAA tournament this year. Lamp answered by saying, "There are only two happy teams in the nation when the season ends, and we're one of them."

In the consolation game, Illinois got 25 points from Eddie Johnson to defeat Nevada-Las Vegas 84-74.

Real Estate Tips

Is there an answer for those of us with restricted income who feel we are just priced out of the market for a home? Look for mortgage assumptions. You might go to the county hall of records and search to find the names of people who have bought homes with FHA or VA mortgages. The law of averages will probably "catch up" with some of these homeowners in that some will likely be transferred or caused to sell their home for some other reason. You and your broker might send out letters to a number of these homeowners, expressing your desire to obtain a home. Although you might have to wait a while, it's possible you'll find someone with a low-interest mortgage that can be assumed with a low down payment.

Texas Briefs

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — The confirmation of rabies in a bat found last week in the area has prompted officials to move up an area rabies vaccination clinic originally scheduled for May.

A bat which bit a Killeen man working March 10 in a mini-warehouse on U.S. 190 in Nolanville, about 5 miles east of Killeen, was confirmed by the Texas Public Health Laboratory in Austin to be rabid.

The man has been taking anti-rabies vaccine shots since the rabies confirmation, and seven veterinarians in Killeen, Harker Heights and Coppas Cove announced plans to conduct the rabies vaccination clinic Saturday.

Another bat believed to be rabid was found in Harker Heights March 7 but no one was bitten by the bat and it has since been disposed of.

The veterinarians said they hope to vaccinate 70 to 80 percent of the dogs in the area. Emphasis is placed on vaccination of pets of persons living in rural areas where there is "a real potential problem" and to animals in mobile home parks, where the animal population normally is denser.

HILLSBORO, Texas (AP) — Two men, one armed with a pistol and the other believed armed with a sawed-off shotgun, robbed the First National Bank of Hillsboro Wednesday afternoon of an undetermined amount of money.

Ordering employees and customers to lie face-down on the floor, the pair took money from an inside vault and ran from the bank, leaving in a late-model white pickup truck they had left in a parking lot in front of the bank.

No shots were fired, and no one was injured, although bank officials said one man was bumped on the head with the butt of the shotgun.

A helicopter from a neighboring county was called in to help with the search. Bank officials said the pair was in the bank "about seven or eight minutes" and dropped one batch of bills as they ran from the bank.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Department of Highways and Public Transportation officials said an overturned truck forced the closing of U.S. 62-180 in Hudsport County Tuesday.

A department spokesman said a truck carrying oxygen and hydrogen bottles overturned shortly after noon near the West Texas community of Salt Flat.

Traffic was diverted onto state highway 54 and FM 1111. Officials said the highway would be closed indefinitely.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Severa de la Pena had a real hot-seat on her hands when her toilet caught fire. It took the fire department a couple of weeks to solve the case.

Fire Marshal Abel Zapata said Wednesday a 4,000-gallon leak of gasoline over a two-month period from a service station was the source of the fire. The gasoline seeped into sewer lines leading to Mrs. de la Pena's house, and fumes accumulated in the plumbing underneath the woman's bathroom.

The service station was closed pending repairs. Zapata said a natural gas pilot light on a water heater apparently ignited the fumes in the woman's toilet, creating a fire that charred the seat and the top of the holding tank.

No one was in the bathroom when the commode caught on fire.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Lawrence Smith, conductor of the Oregon Symphony for seven years, was named Wednesday as the new music director of the San Antonio Symphony.

Smith, 43, replaces flamboyant Francois Huybrechts, who was fired last November after two years as the local symphony conductor. Huybrechts was often at odds with the symphony's executive committee.

Smith, the fourth conductor in the orchestra's 43-year history, is scheduled to begin his tenure here in September.

"We are fortunate to have a man of Larry's talent and breadth of experience in taking on the leadership of the orchestra," said William McCrae, chairman of the symphony board.

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A civil defense warning system that uses cable television is "the best thing that's been done for emergency response in this country," according to a civil defense official.

Called the "MECA Alert Box" and created by Gary Rose, a cable television manager in Clear Lake City, the device will allow direct transmission of emergency warnings to about 80,000 homes, said Galveston County Civil Defense Director Bill Brady.

Rose says a small box that runs off house current or a standby battery will emit a small beep, followed 15 seconds later by a civil defense warning.

The box will cost cable subscribers $35, said Rose.

Collecting Items

Fritz Backus, left, Gary Kriehauser, Larry Waltescheid and Dennis Gerber have been collecting items to auction off in the Country Auction during the annual St. Anthony's Parish Carnival on Sunday. The auction is scheduled to begin opening bids at 1:45 p.m. Among several of the items to be auctioned-off will be electric tools, seed, feed, pool table, oil, wrenches, household items, and a set of Oklahoma Sooner Dominoes. The carnival which will be open from 12 noon until 6 p.m., is a yearly fund-raising project which benefits the local parochial school.

found his car and now he says they should pay for it.

Sampson says his trouble started when someone stole his car and he reported it to police. Even though officers recovered the car six days later, a clerical mixup left the car in a private storage yard for almost eight months.

When police finally notified Sampson that they had recovered his car, storage and towing charges totaled $559.50.

Sampson appeared before city council Wednesday to ask that the city take care of the bill so he could get his car back.

"I frankly think he should get some relief," said Mayor Jim McConn, who said the matter had been referred to the city's legal department. "It's not his fault."

HOUSTON (AP) — The 14th Court of Civil Appeals has affirmed a ruling that an anti-abortion advocate had "no standing" in a suit in which she asked to be named guardian of an unborn fetus.

In a suit filed last September by Eileen Brady, the woman sought to be appointed guardian of the fetus of an unnamed woman who was seeking an abortion from a local abortion referral agency.

The mother has since had the abortion. Ms. Brady's attorney indicated the ruling would be appealed.

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a 20-year-old man already charged with capital murder in connection with the shooting death of a bank teller.

Kenneth Dwayne Dunn was charged Wednesday in the bank-robbery killing of Madeline Peters, 21, during a robbery Tuesday.

Dunn is accused of killing Ms. Peters after taking $10,627 during the robbery. The victim was shot once in the head.

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who told a jury he was wearing a stocking cap to keep his hair neat and gloves to put salve on his wounded back was found guilty of burglary after the panel deliberated only four minutes.

Hubert Walker, 52, was sentenced to life in prison as a habitual criminal Wednesday after his unusual explanation for being caught inside a school by a police dog failed to impress the jury.

Walker was arrested Oct. 22 when the dog, Baron, sniffed him out after going inside a hole that had been knocked in a wall. He said he walked into the school at 4:30 a.m. after running out of gas.

DALLAS (AP) — Ex-stripper Candy Barr was dancing at a Dallas club again this week. But it was a fully clothed waltz, not the knock-'em-out bump and grind that made her famous in the 1950s.

Once a $2,000-a-week Las Vegas stripper, Miss Barr now lives a quiet life on Lake Brownwood. And her past, especially her 15-year conviction for possessing a small amount of marijuana, is not a welcome conversation topic.

"You're not going to bring up all that junk, are you?" she asked during her Dallas appearance as an awards presenter at Buddy Magazine's annual Texas Music Awards program.

The 5-foot-3 Miss Barr is still blonde, but a somewhat less explosive bombshell than in years past. Married unsuccessfully four times, she now has a grown daughter and reportedly at least one granddaughter.

But Candy Barr, whose real name is Juanita Dale Phillips, doesn't discuss that either. Nor does she talk about her age, reportedly in the vicinity of 45.

She did offer one brief comment about the judges and prosecutors responsible for a 15-year prison sentence she received in 1959 for possession of marijuana.

"Let them live with their consciences. My conscience is clear," she said.

She won her freedom after serving three years and four months of the sentence.

She had another run-in with the law in 1970 over marijuana, but the charges were later dropped. Since then, neighbors say, she has led a quiet life and kept to herself.

"I sowed my wild oats in my time," she said in a 1970 interview.

Tuesday night, all she wanted to talk about was music.

"Listen to that bass drive," she said, swaying in a modest beige dress to the music of a band.

Her part in Tuesday night's program took less than three minutes. Afterward she accepted some invitations to dance — not like the old days, but on the dance floor, along with other couples.

"I was raised on the waltz, the two-step, the polka, all of them," she said. "There's nothing I haven't done."

Three Mile Island Residents Angered by Federal Plan

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — Hundreds of area residents, angered and frightened at a proposal to release radioactive gases from the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, screamed curse at federal officials who came to tell them any exposure would be minuscule.

"We hate your guts!" one woman shouted. "You're an animal!" another woman screamed at a biologist.

"Take the message home to Washington: There shall be no peace in Middletown," Steve Reed, a state legislator and Dauphin County commissioner, told officials of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The NRC called the meeting Wednesday to explain a staff recommendation that some krypton gas be released into the atmosphere so cleanup operations can proceed at the plant, site of the worst accident in commercial nuclear history.

This hybrid's record for consistency has made it one of the most popular hybrids on the High Plains. In 77 comparisons over the last four years against competitive hybrids, 3184 has shown an average yield of 183.7 bu./A. with a yield advantage of 14.3 bu./A. over competitors. Bred with outstanding drought tolerance, 3184 can adjust ear size and kernel depth to match growing conditions. And strong stalks keep 3184 standing straight for speedy harvest. It's just what High Plains farmers need in a dependable, high-yielding corn hybrid. And its maturity makes it a good companion for 3183.

Push this one for highest yields! In 43 comparisons on the High Plains in 1979, this hybrid averaged 192.1 bu./A. A sampling of yields from 1979 includes 216 bu./A. for Sheldon Rapp at Hooker, Oklahoma . . . 210.4 bu./A. for Larry Kemp of Muleshoe . . . and 196.7 bu./A. for Doyle Underwood at Dimmitt, Texas. 3183 has demonstrated very good standability and ear retention in this area. Excellent drought tolerance helps 3183 maintain outstanding consistency year after year. And it has been especially impressive on gray soils. Plant 3183 along with 3184. Spread genetic risks and get top performance, too.

Manor Auxiliary Cites Four Service Records

The names of four King's Manor Auxiliary members were added to a plaque denoting more than 100 hours of volunteer service Tuesday afternoon during the group's annual business meeting in the Manor's Lamar Memorial Garden Room.

The four Auxiliary women who have joined those giving more than 100 hours of their time to Manor projects are Dorothy Betzen, Della Stagner, Lavern Schultz and Oleta Davidson.

Betty Olson, Auxiliary president, called the meeting to order and asked for reports from each of the standing committees. Margaret Ann Durham announced that the Auxiliary's "Operation Fellowship," which provides church suppers each month at the Manor, has been well received by the residents of the nursing home, cottages and dormitories.

In other business, the Auxiliary voted to increase the yearly membership dues from $2 to $3.

Approximately 40 were in attendance at Tuesday's meeting. The invocation was given by Mrs. Don Davidson. Refreshments were served under the direction of the social chairman Marguerite Cole.

Sue Coleman was winner of the door prize, a pillow made by the Manor residents.

The program was a book review presented by a guest speaker, Ann Willson of Floydada, who analyzed the book, "I Came to Love You Too Late" by Joyce Landorf. A former resident of El Paso, Mrs. Willson is the mother of five children and has several grandchildren. She is a member of the Methodist church at Floydada, where she is active in several civic and social clubs.

If you have active youngsters who come running home from school hungry for a snack, "Peanutty Tote'Em Cups" is a recipe you'll want to remember. Ready for eating in minutes, these tasty pudding-like snacks are peanutty-rich and dotted with chocolate—sure to be a hit with the kids. You'll enjoy how easy they are to make—it's all done in a blender (even dissolving the unflavored gelatine!), and you can use paper cups to serve them in. Best of all, your youngsters won't forget what a great Mom you are for making this delicious treat for them.

PEANUTTY TOTE'EM CUPS

2 envelopes Knox® Unflavored Gelatine
1 cup cold milk
1 cup milk, heated to boiling
1-1/3 cups peanut butter
1/3 cup sugar
2 cups ice cubes (about 12 to 16)
1/2 cup mini or regular semi-sweet chocolate chips

In 5-cup blender, sprinkle unflavored gelatine over cold milk; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add peanut butter and sugar; process at high speed until blended. Add ice cubes, one at a time; process at high speed until ice is melted. Pour into 5-ounce paper cups and stir in chocolate (about 1/2 tablespoon each cup). Chill until set, about 10 minutes. Makes about 10 servings.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

As a driver of a car, I feel I'm discriminated against. Every three years I must go to the Department of Motor Vehicles and take a test to determine whether or not I am fit to drive a car.

I must know my primary colors: red, yellow and green. I must be able to identify street signs, know who has the right of way, and what speeds are lawful.

Yet, year after year, pedestrians are turned loose on society with a pair of unlicensed feet and no idea of what is expected of them.

Bicycles, motorcycles, trucks, carts and vans ... everything that occupies our roads has a license. But what about pedestrians? What are their rules? I'd like to see the following test given people who walk our streets and roads every day.

1. It is raining and you are carrying a sandwich back from the delicatessen—to the office. Do you: (a) Cross in the crosswalk when the light is green; (b) Cross in the crosswalk, holding up a free hand to bring all traffic to a screeching halt as you pass by; (c) Pop out from behind a parked car in the middle of the block and scare the driver half to death?

2. You are jogging on the wrong side of the street, down the middle of the road. When a driver blows his horn, do you: (a) See your error and go to the correct side of the street; (b) Ride the hood of his car and pretend nothing has happened; (c) Make an obscene gesture?

3. Body signals are important. When you open a car door on a busy street and swing your legs out into the traffic, are you saying: (a) My car door is insured; (b) Everybody change lanes and pray; (c) Short people are cute?

4. A pedestrian may not park: (a) In a traffic lane with her shopping cart while talking with a friend; (b) At a drive-in bank asking directions to the post office; (c) In front of a gasoline pump while talking to a biker; (d) In a driveway leading to a public parking lot; (e) On the freeway with your dog, "Killer."

5. It is a pedestrian violation if you walk: (a) While under the influence of liquor; (b) Recklessly through traffic that is moving; (c) Race another walker; (d) Against the lights.

And finally, a note to pedestrians. Don't pollute. If you must sweat, hitch a ride.

Couple Attends Seminar

Betty and Werner Koelzer of Koelzer Photography recently attended a one-day marketing seminar in Dallas.

Lisle Ramsey and Evelyn Lageman conducted the session, "Success in the Decade of Change." Lisle Ramsey Photography of St. Louis is a consulting firm that provides marketing and management assistance to studio owners in the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

Cathy Koelzer of College Station joined her parents in Dallas. Miss Koelzer will be a spring graduate of Texas A&M University with a degree in marketing. Ramsey is presently planning to locate her with a Fresno, Calif. studio after graduation.

Subjects covered at the seminar were: adjusting to inflation, goal setting, merchandising, departmentalizing, selling, advertising, developing new markets as well as expanding present areas.

Mrs. Koelzer will attend a Bill Stockwell wedding photography seminar in Arlington next week. The Koelzers established their photography business April 1, 1975.

Musical Gamut

Hundreds of organs built to provide accompaniment to silent films half a century ago remain playable. In addition to imitating all the instruments of a band from drums, trumpets and trombones to violins, clarinets and cymbals, they can duplicate the sounds of a clangingrolley bell, the hooves of galloping horses, birds' songs, surf, a train whistle and an Oriental gong.

Rush Registration Party Scheduled This Evening

The Hereford Panhellenic Association will be hosting its annual Rush Registration party today at the First National Bank Community Room at 7:30 p.m. All senior girls who plan to attend college and their mothers are invited to attend.

At the party, senior girls will be told how they can register for rush at their prospective college and through the local Panhellenic Association. Attending the party will be college girls from Texas Tech and West Texas State University. These girls will be able to answer any questions and will be speaking on sisterhood, scholarship, finances, and extra-curricular activities of sororities.

It is essential that those girls who are interested in going through Rush next fall register through Hereford Panhellenic so that recommendations may be sent to all the sororities represented at the college of their choice. The deadline for turning in information to Hereford Panhellenic is June 1. Registration through Hereford Panhellenic and through the college does not obligate a girl, but can be invaluable in the event that she does go through Rush.

The Hereford Panhellenic Association was organized in 1977 to help to educate Hereford's college-bound girls about sororities and to help them to join the sorority of their choice through the recommendation of local women.

Pidgin Shakespeare

The Bible, technical and medical books, laws, comic strips and Shakespeare have been translated into pidgin English. The Folger Library in Washington, D.C. devoted to "Shakespeareana," contains a book in which Anthony, delivering his funeral oration over the body of Julius Caesar, says: "Me kam tasol long plantin Kaesar," literally meaning, "I come to plant Caesar."

Lassen Peak, the most recently active volcano in the continental United States, is located in Lassen Volcanic National Park, Calif.

Americans produce 400 billion pounds of garbage each year, enough to bury Manhattan under 13 feet of refuse.

Approximately 40 local women belong to the Hereford Panhellenic Association, representing 13 national Greek letter sororities from 10 colleges and universities in six states.

Five meetings are held annually, with business meetings in September and January, a style show-guest night in November, Rush Registration party for the senior girls in March, and Rush Information party for new graduates in June. Any woman holding membership in a Greek letter sorority is invited to join. The 1979-80 officers are: president Carolyn Canon, vice president Lynn Carter, secretary Dolores Foster, treasurer Roberta McNeese, publicity chairman Janice Carr, and Rush and recommendation chairman Marsha Winget.

The Rush Information party will be held June 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the First National Bank Community Room to give college bound girls an idea what to expect from Rush. They will be given some ideas of what to wear to the parties and what some of the actual procedures are.

Ann Landers Ketchup Lover

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year I married a man who seemed normal in every way. Now it appears he has turned out to be a ketchup freak. He puts ketchup on his scrambled eggs, cottage cheese and vegetable salads. He literally drowns French fries in the stuff. (He also puts ketchup on baked potatoes.)

We had dinner at the home of friends last night, and they served barbecued ribs. The sauce was delicious. It was the hostess' super-special secret recipe. Everyone raved but it wasn't good enough for Jerry. He had the nerve to ask for ketchup. She tried to make a joke of his boorishness and laughed, "Jerry could never be a blood donor because he probably doesn't have any blood, only ketchup." Everyone roared. Then Jerry piped up, "I eat ketchup on everything! Wait till the dessert comes."

A few minutes later the cherry pie a la mode was served. Jerry emptied one-third of the bottle on his pie a la mode and ate it! The big jerk had downed several martinis, and I was hoping and praying he would get sick as a dog -- but he didn't. He is healthy as a horse and has a digestive tract like a cement mixer. Can all this ketchup hurt him? Any suggestions? -- Better Red Than Dead

DEAR BETTER: Ask Jerry's doctor. He will probably say no. Meanwhile, keep plenty on hand and make no mention of his passion for the red stuff. Like a spoiled kid, he'll only use more to irritate you and get attention from others.

DEAR ANN: I am 72, have four grandchildren -- two boys and two girls. Whenever they have had a serious problem or needed anything, I have always come through. I've bailed both grandsons out of jail for minor misdemeanors and set each one up in business. One boy failed, and I set him up a second time. I put them both through college and subsidized special career training programs for my granddaughter. This girl calls me whenever she needs advice or gets into a mess. The other granddaughter has never been very affectionate, but I have come through for her on several occasions, also.

Then came Christmas 1979. I did not receive even a greeting card from any one of my four grandchildren. Where did I go wrong, Ann? No self-pity here ... just wondering. -- Bewildered In Miami

DEAR B.: To the casual observer, these four sound like a quartet of spoiled, ungrateful brats -- and I'm sure they are. But the reason for their repeated failures goes much deeper. Maybe YOU failed them by coming through. Perhaps you would have done them a bigger favor had you let them get their lumps and take full responsibility for themselves.

As for the absence of any word at Christmas -- it's inexcusable, but it does bring to mind that old French proverb: "No good deed will go unpunished."

CONFIDENTIAL to Feeling Better Now That I've Given You a Piece of My Mind: I'm glad I could be of service, but I don't think you should have given me the last piece. You came across as a small-minded, nose-in-the-air bigot with a lot to learn about priorities, values and man's inhumanity to man.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Advocating Recession Ripped

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — To John Winthrop Wright, whose investment firm handles $1 billion of individual and institutional investments, the idea of curing inflation by promoting a recession is equivalent to phlebotomy.

That practice, more commonly known as blood-letting, was thought to be a universal cure many years ago when medicine was still in a very dark age. But still no darker, he says, than some of modern economics.

Recession, says Wright, a conservative, blue-chip investor, produces two effects he thinks should be obvious to everyone by now: it reduces the numbers of independent, competitive businesses and compels government to borrow in order to finance jobless benefits and welfare programs that deplete the nation's industrial capital.

A recession, thus, not only weakens the subsequent recovery but sets the stage for the next recession. And as the patient grows weaker, the doctors see no alternative but to let more blood.

Wright spoke Wednesday at the annual Symposium on American Capitalism, which he sponsors at Fairfield University, a short distance from the Bridgeport, Conn., offices of Wright Investors' Service.

As he sees it, the designers of fiscal and monetary policy continually cut the veins of the patient, in this instance the private domestic economy, instead of attacking the disease that leads to the ailment.

The disease, Wright told an audience of business people, academics and students, is Eurodollars. No, he does not attribute all blame to them, but he does believe they are an obvious and unchecked monetary problem.

Do not let "Eurodollar" throw you; it is really a simple term. All it means is a dollar borrowed from a foreign bank. That borrowed dollar is an IOU to the bank. It is an asset. It is a dollar asset. And when a bank has an asset it lends it out.

That dollar asset does not take on the configuration of a dollar bill imprinted with the figure of George Washington. It is a credit dollar, the very same as that created when you borrow from your local bank.

As we have seen, the Federal Reserve can limit lending and borrowing in domestic banks, but there is no formal regulation of those dollars produced overseas. And, Wright points out, they now total $450 billion, or only $50 billion less than the domestically produced total.

Once upon a time, Wright observed, anyone wanting U.S. dollars would buy them on the foreign exchange market, creating a demand that would lift the price and protect us from imported inflation. If the dollars were valued higher, for example, oil might cost relatively less.

The dilution of dollar value is likely to continue if Eurodollar production is not slowed, said Wright. If unchecked, he forecast the Eurodollar total will triple the domestic dollar supply in five years.

"There is no way of stopping the inflation of dollar prices all over the world, no way of stopping the escalation of Middle East oil prices payable in dollars," Wright told his audience.

"No way of avoiding the ever-rising cost of energy in the U.S.A. and the inflation which inevitably accompanies it; simply no way of accomplishing these basic objectives without first ... recognizing and acting on the obvious principle that the United States must control the creation of U.S. dollar credits and deposits everywhere!"

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, March 20, the 80th day of 1980. There are 286 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 20, 1942, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, "I shall return" as he left the Philippines for Australia during the early days of the Pacific War.

On this date: In 1852, the controversial slavery novel, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," by Harriet Beecher Stowe, was published.

In 1969, a federal grand jury in Chicago indicted eight policemen and eight demonstrators in connection with the violence at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

London fired several shots into the car carrying Britain's Princess Anne and her husband Mark Phillips. They were unhurt, and the assailant was captured.

Five years ago, South Vietnam was hurrying to complete evacuation of its northern sections as refugees from the central highlands streamed southward.

Last year, the government reported business profits up more than 25 percent in 1978, triggering angry questions about the effectiveness of the fight against inflation.

Today's birthday: Actor Michael Redgrave is 72.

Thought for today: The most manifest sign of wisdom is continued cheerfulness. — Montaigne (1533-1592)

Enjoy Ice Cream, Mellorine For a Refreshing Texas Treat

AUSTIN--Texas ice cream producers cranked out 37,435,000 gallons of the tasty treat last year, reports the Texas Department of Agriculture.
Ice cream comprises the largest single part--63 percent--of all the frozen dessert products manufactured in Texas, notes Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. But while ice cream production was up by 2 percent in 1978, overall output of these products declined 1 percent.
As usual, Texas continues to lead the nation in manufacture of mellorine, even though production declined by 13 percent from 1977.
When used as a topping, nuts are best if finely chopped. They can be used raw, or in the case of peanuts, roasted. Fruits make delicious toppings when used whole, sliced or mashed.

New PEO Chapter Founded Locally

The 169th P.E.O. chapter in Texas was established here Saturday morning during an organizational meeting at First United Methodist Church.

P.E.O. Chapters are dedicated to the furthering of education among women. Their projects include funding Coty College, the Educational Loan Fund, International Peace Scholarship and continuing education. The meaning of the P.E.O. initials is kept secret by the membership.

Presiding at the organizational meeting here was Francille Moore, who organized the Texas State chapter. She was assisted by members of Chapter W of Clayton, N.M.; the sponsoring chapter, Chapter FM of Amarillo; Chapter EC of Greeley, Colo.; and Chapter CS of Pampa. The local unit has been designated as Chapter FO.

Following the business meeting, the membership adjourned to the E.B. Black Historical House for a luncheon.

Officers of the new chapter are Mary Cameron, president; Berta Ottesen, vice president; Virginia Holmes, recording secretary; Caryn Davis, corresponding secretary; Roberta Caviness, chaplain; Lois Scott, guard; and Patricia Fisher, treasurer.

The points at which the sun crosses the equator are the equinoxes, when day and night are most equal. The points at which the sun is at a maximum distance from the equator are the solstices. Days and nights are the most unequal.

Organizing Chapter Here

A number of local women assembled at First United Methodist Church Saturday morning for the organizational meeting of Chapter FO of P.E.O., an international organization dedicated to the furthering of education among women. Present for the initial meeting were, back row from left, Mary Lou Ward, Karen Abney,

The Making of a President

Startling, isn't it, how fast a President of the United States can go from longshot to favorite -- just because some bearded fanatic 6,000 miles away shakes his fist in our face?

Do you realize it has been only four months since Ronald Reagan was leading Jimmy Carter in the public opinion surveys? In four months the President has come from five points behind to 34 points in front of everybody.

And all because of a "foreign crisis."

It does make it easy to understand why Presidents -- indeed members of Congress also -- might be tempted to create foreign crisis.

If you could write the scenario for the next nine months you could ensure the re-election of Jimmy Carter.

If tensions ease in the Middle East, if the hostages are released, and/or if Soviet troops are withdrawn from Afghanistan, President Carter's supporters can credit his "leadership in a crisis." If the hostages are not released, if the Soviet troops do not get out of Afghanistan, the President's supporters can resurrect the dependable political plea, "We must not change horses in midstream!"

Either way, President Carter has moved from unelectable to unbeatable on somebody else's strength.

I do not believe Jimmy Carter to be a devious man.

I think he has lucked into one of those situations which motivates Americans to close ranks behind their leader.

Some of us are infinitely more anxious about the erosion of our nation's currency than about the pitiful Ayatollah Whatzis-name.

Productivity of Americans declined last year. We have more to lose from lazy Americans than from Lousy Communists. That has not changed.

Our leaders should be asserting all-out leadership to move the obstructionists out of the way so that we can build more power plants and develop more energy of all kinds -- of our own!

If we should have to move our military arsenal to a war 6,000 miles from home we'd run out of gas on the way!

We have cities in the United States going broke -- while our government's emissaries are touring Pakistan inviting them to help themselves to your money.

You know what might be a good rule-of-thumb to help us determine who and what are worth fighting for?

We stumbled into our Mexican War though Lincoln opposed it. We stumbled into the Spanish-American War for greed. Our disastrous misadventure in Vietnam resulted from shortsighted leadership.

Before we blunder to another bloody dead-end in the Persian Gulf -- let's determine the justification for future intervention like this:

If the enemy is enough a threat to justify obliteration with our super-bombs -- they let 'em fly! Such a criterion helps us to recognize the Afghanistan and Iran are not worthy targets.

But from now on we kill no enemy one at a time; that's too painless for the politicians.

Oil-Spill Nightmare Over

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The 10-month-long nightmare known as the Ixtoc 1 oil spill appears over, says the Coast Guard.

"I think the emergency is largely over," Capt. Gerald Hinson said Wednesday. "I don't think we have a great deal to worry about."

Hinson, on-scene coordinator of a team monitoring the spill, has ordered oil containment equipment removed from the water at the southern tip of South Padre Island. The booms and skimmers were deployed after patches of oil were seen earlier drifting south of Texas.

The oil slicks have not been sighted again.

Hinson also halted weekly surveillance flights to the offshore Mexican well responsible for the spill that blackened South Texas beaches last summer.

Officials had feared a repeat last summer's spill before but crews reduced the well's flow to almost nothing and made the chances of a second oily onslaught very unlikely.

Hinson gave South Padre Island tourist officials the good news Wednesday morning.

The resort community at the southern tip of Texas suffered financially last August and September when runaway Mexican crude drove away tourists and their money.

"We've received nothing as positive as this news," said tourist bureau director Ralph Thompson.

The captain's phone call signaled an end to the problem for all practical purposes, Thompson said.

"We're very confident.

This comes at the ideal time for us. We're at the peak of our advertising and we're leading into our summer season," said Thompson, who added that hotels are booked solid through the Easter weekend.

The oil containment equipment will remain at the South Padre Island Coast Guard station for a few weeks as a precaution, Hinson said.

Hinson said he based his optimism on the small quantity of oil seen at the well and the infrequent sightings of oil patches near Texas.

A surveillance flight Tuesday showed a 25-foot circle of light brown oil over the crippled well. The pilot reported an absence of the usual "plume" or long finger of oil stretching out from the well into the Bay of Campeche.

"He couldn't tell if it (circle of oil) was residual or if it's still coming out. If it is leaking, it isn't a very large quantity," Hinson said.

Pemex, the Mexican oil monopoly that owns the well, says hardly any oil is coming from the well that once gushed 30,000 barrels a day.

Bad weather slowed attempts to control the well and some strategies tried by the international team of experts at the site failed completely.

A steel sombrero, designed to fit over the well, failed to funnel enough crude oil out of the water. Metal balls fired under pressure into the well could not choke off the flow.

Crews finally drilled two relief wells that intersected Ixtoc 1 underground. Salt water and drilling mud were pumped into the main well and Pemex now reports it is close to sealing the shaft with cement.

With the flow reduced, the next major oil spill battle likely will be waged in a courtroom.

The state of Texas, the federal government, businessmen and fishermen have sued to recover alleged losses and costs of fighting the spill. The defendants include Pemex, a private Mexican drilling contractor and SEDCO, the American firm founded by Texas Gov. Bill Clements that leased the rig used at Ixtoc 1.

Scientists say they lack the needed $7 million to conduct an extensive study of possible environmental damage from the spill.

Names in the News

LONDON (AP) - Now, a British weekly news magazine, has obtained exclusive rights - for an unnamed but "substantial sum" - to first international publication of extracts from former President Nixon's upcoming book on foreign affairs.

"I read the book in two hours and immediately made a bid for it," Editor-in-Chief Anthony Shrimley said Wednesday.

Excerpts of about 15,000 words of "The Real War" will begin appearing April 11.

The magazine also plans an interview with Nixon, Shrimley said.

"I think it's a formidable book... a very well written book. It's based upon direct personal experience and the Watergate business will not be seen to reflect upon this in any way," he said.

Shrimley added that Nixon's policies had commanded "considerable respect" and that Europe regarded "American foreign policy in the Nixon years as rather more in their interests than American policy since then."

NEW YORK (AP) - "Caroline is happy with Phillippe. Stephanie is a delight, and Albert has never caused us a moment's worry. What more could a mother ask?" Well, a grandchild would

HEALTH

Bleeding and cancer
Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I was worried good red blood for many years during my menstruation. Now at age 59 I had good red blood when my period started. I didn't think it was normal to menstruate at 59 so I went to the doctor and he did a D and C to scrape out the lining of the uterus. He said I had endometrial hyperplasia which he said was a thickening of the tissue. He said a number of women have this condition and if the bleeding recurred, that he would recommend a hysterectomy. I told him that I didn't want to have my uterus removed if there was nothing wrong with me.

I don't understand how the tissue got thickened and I'm writing to ask you what this condition is and if there's anything that can be done to correct it. Is there a special diet I could follow or any corrective medicine I could take?

DEAR READER - You did the most important thing - seeing a physician to find out why you were bleeding. Any unexplained bleeding, which includes sudden onset of apparent menstrual bleeding in a woman in your age group, deserves immediate attention. It can be an early sign of cancer.

The lining of the uterus is called the endometrium. That lining is shed with each menstrual period. The large medical term your doctor used (endometrial hyperplasia) merely means that the lining has grown thicker than usual. The examination you've had eliminates the possibility that there is any cancer of the uterus at this time. But I do believe that it is a warning that you may be at increased risk and you should carefully follow your doctor's advice and return regularly for checkups. And if there's any other bleeding or problem you'd be wise to follow his advice.

No one wants an unnecessary operation but if there is a danger that your endometrial lining is showing some abnormal changes, it's far better to have a hysterectomy than it is to suffer with the problem of endometrial cancer at a later date.

No, there are no reliable medicines and certainly no diet that would correct your problem for you.

You are right. It is not normal to menstruate at age 59. Any woman who bleeds then is either on medicines that induce artificial menstruation when they are stopped periodically or has a medical problem. Hormone imbalance can cause the cells lining the uterus (endometrium) to grow abnormally or cause overgrowth. The use of estrogens after the menopause have been linked to these changes and possible development of endometrial cancer.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-12 on Hysterectomies, Cystocele and Rectocele. Other readers who want this information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Trunk smells musty

DEAR POLLY - I would like to know how to get the musty odor out of an antique trunk. Please help me. - JANICE

DEAR JANICE - Fill some net bags with cedar shavings if they are obtainable at your local lumber yard. If not, crumple newspapers and fill trunk. Close tightly and leave a couple of weeks. If any odor remains repeat. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Goldie wanted to know how she could use leftover, pre-cut latch hook yarn. I had some so I bought a yard of latch hook canvas and made a rug that is worked in squares. It is beautiful so I am now making another in a design of stripes. - BONNIE

DEAR POLLY - When spring comes Goldie can put that leftover yarn outside where the birds will pick it up for lining their nests. - ETHEL

DEAR POLLY - One of the readers wrote that she was having trouble with dampness in her closets. Make bags of strong but lightweight material (I use an old shirt and some T-shirt material) and fill each of them with a commercial product used in kitty's box. I do not like to make the bags too heavy - no more than a pound of the product in each one.

Sew shut and then place the bags on the closet floor and shelf. They absorb the dampness and then I put them in the sun a while so they dry out. They can even be hung on the clothesline. By using these bags I have kept my basement dry and free of any musty odor for about 20 years. - BERNICE

DEAR POLLY - My son has found a great way to hold tacos upright on his plate while he is filling them. He slides the taco shells onto the prongs of a fork and can dress two at one time. - DONNA be nice, adds Princess Grace of Monaco. "I'll be delighted to be a grandmother," she said in an interview in Good Housekeeping's April issue.

But that's up to Caroline, her elder daughter, now married to Phillippe Junot, says the former actress Grace Kelly.

Offering a rare glimpse of family relationships, she also commented on her 22-year-old son, a student at Amherst and heir to the throne ("his grades are good, he's active in sports"); 15-year-old Stephanie (shy, but with a very strong character) and her own life.

"Being a mother, being a wife, being a princess all require effort. I have been married since 1956 and I think the reason my marriage has lasted is because both my husband (Prince Rainier) and I have worked at it. We have worked hard, too, at being good parents because we feel that's terribly important."

CLEVELAND (AP) - A cold and sore throat have sidelined singer-composer Neil Sedaka until next week, his spokeswoman says.

Sedaka opened at the Front Row Theater in suburban Highland Heights Tuesday despite his illness, spokeswoman Joan Emser said.

But his concerts through Sunday have been canceled.

NEW YORK (AP) - "They've got a certain something, a distinctive look... excitement that lights up TV and movie screens, the printed page, their private lives," says Good Housekeeping.

They're the 10. most beautiful blondes.

According to author Lois Wyse, whose new book "Blonde Beautiful Blonde" is excerpted in the April issue, the top ten are (in alphabetical order): Candice Bergen, Catherine Deneuve, Bo Derek, Farrah Fawcett, Cheryl Ladd, Dina Merrill, Deborah Raffin, Barbara Sinatra, Meryl Streep and Cheryl Tiegs.

The article also includes tips for would-be blondes, a table of blonde personality traits and tidbits of blonde folklore.
