$22,000 Reward For Sniper

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Police pressed one of the most intensive investigations in Mississippi history today for the killer of Negro civil rights leader Medgar Evers. A price of more than $22,000 was placed on the head of the sniper.

Detectives worked around the clock on several leads including a "good" fingerprint from the apparent murder weapon.

Mourning Negroes who had been led by Evers in months of integration demonstrations were called on Wednesday night to start a month of black armband mourning, fasting and abolition of all downtown shopping.

Demonstrators Arrested

Following the slaying, which President Kennedy called an "act of barbarity," 160 Negroes were arrested during spontaneous marches in this tense capital city. There were sporadic incidents of violence, including the stoning of a police car Wednesday night in the Negro section. The vehicle was damaged but there were no injuries or arrests.

Evans, field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in Mississippi, was cut down, at the age of 37, early Wednesday by a single bullet from a .30 caliber sporting rifle.

Evers apparently had some premonition that he might pay with his life for his militant civil rights stand in the Deep South.

Widow Speaks At Rally

His grieving widow and mother of his three small children told a tearful memorial rally Wednesday night that her husband talked with her briefly Sunday night, saying that if he had to die he would rather be killed in the midst of a fight for his people "than to sleep away" to death.

"I don't want his death to be in vain," Mrs. Evers said from the pulpit of a church crowded with more than 900 Negroes. "That would be as big a blow as his death."

Evers was shot at close range as he walked from his car to his neat one-story home following a civil rights rally. The bullet pierced his body, entered the house where his wife and children were awaiting his return and ricocheted off a refrigerator. The bullet was found on a kitchen table.

Slain Negro's Wife Calls for Continuation of Civil Rights Struggle

Head of Apollo Project Quits NASA Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The boss of America's $20 billion Apollo project to land two men on the moon before 1970 is quitting his job.

He told United Press International he believed the Apollo program was firmly enough established that it could be carried out on schedule, the country and Congress willing.

But D. Brainerd Holmes, 42, who on Nov. 1, 1961, became director of the Office of Manned Space Flight in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), wants out of the project.

The frustrations, poor pay, politics, and budgetary haggling which are a part of government service have proved to be more than he can stomach.

He will stick around as long as NASA needs him to help make the transition between the now liquidated Mercury program of one-man space flights and the forthcoming two-man German project.

In the meantime, for "personal, financial, and family reasons," he will be looking for a job in private industry that will pay him more than the $21,000 a year he draws from NASA. Before he went to NASA he was drawing more than $35,000.

Holmes denies it, but some of his friends figure he is leaving the government in a mood bordering on disgust.

NASA said there had been an understanding when he took on the manned flight job that his "obligation for government service" would end in two years.

That was news. NASA had said nothing about the two-year limit when Holmes went to work.

However, in a private letter to NASA Administrator James E. Webb, Holmes had said he would take stock after a couple of years and see whether he wanted to stay on the Apollo job.

School Board Discusses Nurse Training Program

A lengthy pro and con discussion over a proposed Leonwood Vocational Nurse Program in the Pampa School District was the highlight of today's monthly school board meeting.

Result of the discussion was that the school board will not approve the program.

The suggestion was made by Edmondson, who reported that a large number of crises in Texas had the program most of them administered by the public schools or colleges.

Some part of the work would be done in hospitals, but the majority in school classrooms with the school taking the responsibility of administering the program, Edmondson said.

Edmondson pointed out that the schools would be reimbursed by the state to a certain extent for equipment, instruction, etc., and the students themselves would pay a fee for the 12-month course.

Adapts Too Well

LYON, France (UPI) — Social worker Jacques Farin won a municipal election four months ago for his work in adapting himself "in the environment of juvenile delinquents."

Farin was sentenced to three years in jail Wednesday as the leader of a teenage gang of burglars.

Steel Firms May Be Near Contract Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials are pleased today over reports that the nation's big steel firms might be nearing agreement with the United Steelworkers union on contract changes.

Usually well-informed sources said it appeared unlikely, even though the union's position on contract changes is not as strong as it was in 1959.

Officially, the steel industry would not say the matter until a formal agreement is reached. But it is believed that a deal is close.

Officials who deal with labor-management relations said that an accord in the steel industry was doubly important this year.

For one thing, they said, it would remove the possibility of a crippling shutdown of steel plants this year that could upset the economic advance.

And there is a good chance that a new agreement would extend the contract for one or two years, which would mean a long strike-free period in the troubled steel industry running through mid-1965 or 1966.

But administration labor officials regarded the method used to reach a settlement as the most important factor in the steel pact.

Back into the picture through a human relations course soon that worked quickly to remove the possibility of a strike, they were able to operate about the pressure of a contract deadline and away from the battlefield that has marked steel negotiations for the past 25 years.

Sheriff Fred Behrens identified the prisoner as James Latham, 18, who had been in the jail since his arrest in Clarendon after escaping from Latham from Latham, Conn., in connection with a Texas burglary charge. He said he was called from his office and looked the youth in a second floor room in the jail.

When the youth was taken to the jail, Latham was given a bath, a haircut, and a new suit. He was then taken to the jail and put in a cell.

Macmillan Fighting To Avert Resignation

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met with his cabinet in emergency session for the second consecutive day today in a fight to avert his forced resignation.

The 80-year-old Conservative party leader faced a possible open revolt of several of his ministers, but he was determined to resist suggestions that he sacrifice himself for the good of the party.

There were reports that as many as four cabinet members contemplated quitting, and political observers believed that even a single resignation could shatter the administration and force Macmillan out of office.

The secret cabinet meeting went past the tea-hour mark.

Lamont was moving fast, understanding public pressures, and the cabinet seemed to be shifting from the security implications of signed Macmillan's resignation to a political question of whether the prime minister should stay.

Macmillan's resignation was not a political question, the moral aspect.

Ratification of French-German Treaty Set Today

PARIS (UPI) — The National Assembly convened today to approve a historic treaty pledging political, economic and cultural cooperation between France and West Germany.

The treaty, signed by French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last January, already has been ratified in France.

Although French Communist and Socialist have been outspokenly critical of the accord, the government's majority in the assembly made acceptance of the treaty a virtual certainty.

Calling for close cooperation between the two former enemies, the treaty was a warm response to the German government's invitation to France to join an "association of free states."

The treaty also called for a "common market" of free trade in goods and services between France and Germany.

De Gaulle has said it will bring about a complete "reconciliation" between France and Germany, traditional enemies for almost 100 years.

The other common market countries — Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — have also signed the treaty.

The treaty is a step toward a "common market" of free trade in goods and services between France and Germany.

Southern Demos Vote With Republican Foes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today described as "treason" the House defeat of his bill for expanded federal aid to combat unemployment.

He said he will resubmit the measure to Congress shortly in hope of reversing the outcome.

The House voted down the proposal Wednesday in Kennedy's largest legislative defeat of the year. Some viewed the measure as part of the price he must pay for his tough new civil rights stand.

Kennedy issued a second statement in which he said defeat of the proposal "would not have come at a worse time."

"This program must not be allowed to die and it is my intention to give the Congress another opportunity to support it," Kennedy said.

The unexpected upset of the proposed areas bill came on a day when some southern Democrats who had been courted in winning the measure in the administration voted against it.

The "stage defection" could have come at a worse time. The administration pressed for the bill to help the areas need help and scores of local business communities in the South.

New Railroad Is Real Old

FELTON, Calif. (UPI) — The ancient steam locomotive Dixiana Shay with its four 1880-styled passenger cars puffs from the station hourly on the nation's newest — yet oldest — railroad.

It is the Roaring Camp & Big

Trees Narrow Gauge Railroad (RC&BTNGRR) and it carries excursionists through the redwood groves of Santa Cruz County, about 70 miles south of San Francisco. Its maiden passenger-paying run was made on Palm Sunday this year.

Eventually, the road will curve more than 3½ miles from its starting terminal, then back on itself, on a round trip to the top of Bear Mountain.

The locomotive is a genuine steam boiler, made in Lima, Ohio, in 1912 for the Smoky Mountain Railroad in Tennessee. It was purchased by the RC&BTNGRR in Virginia where it had served on a now abandoned railroad out of Dixiana.

The coaches, built by H. A. Pulaski, Inc., of Irwindale, Calif., were used in the 1880's on the narrow gauge Nevada-California-Oregon Railroad along the eastern slopes of the Sierra Nevada.

The rails were made in the same years for the long gone Carson & Colorado Railway. They originally came around the Horn on a sailing ship. The roadbed is laid on hand-split ties.

Explanation Given For Wheat Program Without Quotas

In view of the defeat of the 1964 wheat marketing quotas in the recent nationwide referendum, an explanation to clarify how the program works without marketing quotas has been sent out to farmers this week in the June Gray County Farm Newsletter.

Evelyn Mason, county agricultural manager of the Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, stated in the letter there will be no diversion payment, no price support payment and no certificate wheat, and no marketing quota penalties.

Among other things, the newsletter states:

The wheat allotment shown on notices just sent out is still in effect. Ten per cent will not be added back to the allotment. Defeat of the marketing quotas does not effect the allotment in any way and the same allotment remains in effect.

Only farmers who plant within the wheat allotment will be eligible for price support at 50 per cent of parity, which is approximately $1.25 national average. These farmers will receive no payments for planting within the allotment. Those who plant more than the allotment will not be eligible for price support, but can sell all the wheat they produce on the open market. Under the program now in effect, there will be no penalty for farmers who plant over their acreage allotments.

Farmers with land in the soil bank program will violate their soil bank contract if they exceed their wheat allotment, or 15 acres, whichever is larger, according to Miss Mason.

Future wheat allotment will be reduced if farmers exceed their allotments in any year, the government regulations say. If they exceed their 1964 wheat allotment by any amount, the 1966 wheat allotment will be seven to eight per cent less than it would be if the 1964 wheat allotment is not exceeded.

The 1964 feed grain program will be in effect and farmers will receive the details on this program as soon as the county ASCS office receives the news, Miss Mason stated.

The 1963 loan rate for Gray County wheat is $1.78 per bushel plus a premium for wheat with high protein and sedimentation content. A deduction will be made in the loan rate for wheat with low protein and sedimentation content. If the wheat is stored in an elevator, storage charges will be deducted from the loan rate.

In the 1963 wheat and feed grain program, all excess wheat has been checked and wheat marketing cards are ready in the county office. Feed grains will probably be measured between July 1 and August 1. Diverted acres designated for feed grain must not be grazed between May 1 and November 1 and must not have a crop harvested from them, according to government regulations.

'Stolen' Car Comes Home After Jaunt

Mrs. Joyce Puckett, 516 Lefors, was awakened shortly before 3 a.m. today by the sound of a motor starting up in the driveway of her home.

She heard a car leave, looked out the front door and saw someone driving off in her son's automobile. The son, Billy Puckett, is out of the city.

She notified police, and Patrolman Charles LaFever arrived to begin a search for the missing car. Mrs. Puckett got dressed and joined the hunt in her car.

About 15 or 20 minutes later Mrs. Puckett and the policeman returned to the Puckett home to find that the missing car was back in its original parking place in the driveway.

"Just another of life's little mysteries," said Police Chief Conner at his news conference this morning.

Car-Combine Mishap Takes Top off Auto

Dennis O. Brunson of Big Spring was held in jail today in lieu of a $500 bond on charges of driving while license suspended. The top was sheared off his car as a result of an auto-combine wreck at 9:20 a.m. yesterday on Texas Highway 70, 14 1/2 miles south of Pampa.

Brunson attempted to pass five combines going south on Highway 70 and came into contact with a combine driven by Donald Lee Dillman of Groom, according to Highway patrolman Lawrence Macha.

Dillman tried to make a left hand turn into a private drive and sheared the top off Brunson's sedan Macha said. Brunson was arrested and fined $20.50 for driving while intoxicated.

The collision turned the combine over on its side and caused about $1,800 damage, according to the patrolman, and the car was extensively damaged. The driver was not injured Macha said. He told Macha he laid down in the seat as the car went under the header.

Dillman, who suffered minor scratches and bruises, was taken to Pampa Clinic, treated and released yesterday.

The combine is owned by E. M. Babcock of Groom.

said to be Health Minister Enoch Powell, a 50-year-old intellectual who quit the government once before on a matter of principle.

Expect Stormy Session

Political sources and London newspapers predicted the cabinet session would be explosive and possibly might produce several resignations if Macmillan refuses to step down.

The revolt could mean political death for Macmillan even if he refuses to quit. He enters a crucial debate against the opposition Labor party in the House of Commons Monday on the Profumo affair, and he needs solid support to survive.

Widespread discontent was reported among the Conservative party's rank and file in Parliament. Backbenchers regarded the sex and security scandal a deadly blow to their party already reeling under other security lapses and declining prestige at the polls.

Powell, who often is considered the guardian of the Conservative party's right-wing conscience, declined before the cabinet meeting to comment on reports he would force a showdown.

would cost some vital southern votes, and possibly result in the loss of some of the President's other high priority legislation.

But they had not expected to lose the expansion of the depressed areas program which would have raised to $835 million the ceiling on the aid program.

The surprise blow came after administration forces had easily turned aside on non-record votes GOP attempts to curtail the scope of the existing program and to slash the extra funds the bill would authorize.

Board

icated they felt the program was a good thing and approved of it. There were some objections as to whether the schools would have to become more involved with adult education programs if they began this one, and how much the cost to the schools would be, but most agreed with Dr. R. M. Hampton's viewpoint on the program.

Hampton pointed out that the program as a whole would be a good thing, not only for the students, mainly high school graduates of Pampa High School, but to improve the health needs of the community.

Strongly opposed to the program was board president R. D. Wilkerson. Wilkerson said "Our primary obligation is to educate the youngsters; adults should take care of their own education."

Wilkerson said that the school system did not have sufficient funds for all the things they would like to have for youth education; they should not spend any money for other things.

The matter was finally referred to Edmondson for further cost study.

The board also received bids for gasoline, oil and lubricants: from Texaco, Mobil Oil, Gulf, Humble Continental and Cities Service. Gulf won the bid with the overall low on the three products.

The Citizens Bank & Trust again was named depository for school funds at the same rates as last year.

Bills and invoices for $11,934.13 were approved.

County Bills Are Approved

The County Commissioners Court, with J. M. McCracken presiding, met this morning in County Courtroom and approved Gray County's regular monthly bills.

The total county expense for May is $63,095.90. This includes $40,693.18 for Highland General Hospital bills; $4,978.76 for the general fund; $6,763.20 for miscellaneous bills and $11,660.76 for the four precincts bills.

The commissioners appointed McCracken to preside in County Judge Bill Craig's absence. The commissioners recessed until 10 a.m. Monday when Judge Craig will return.

"The office space and expense is shared by the Chamber, the Jaycees, the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association and the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association. In addition to the office staff, directors of these associations will show visitors through the offices and serve coffee and cookies throughout the day tomorrow, including the noon hour. As they enter, visitors will sign a guest register, Wedgeworth said.

'Cleopatra' Draws Mixed Reviews

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reviews by New York newspapers of the film "Cleopatra" which premiered Wednesday night at the Rivoli Theater on Broadway included:

New York Herald Tribune — at best a major disappointment, at worst an extravagant exercise in tedium. There are indeed some beautiful and impressive photographic effects, with transitions made by having faded frescoes slowly brighten into a live scene or a scene freeze and dim into a fresco. But the sets themselves never create an illusion of permanence within their time. All is monumental-but the people are not. The mountain of notoriety has produced a mouse.

New York Mirror — Cleopatra is a spectacular, sensuous spectacle. It is enormous, and enormity is its forte. The drama unfolds ruggedly and is excellent as an introduction to ancient history, since the script is based on research. But it does not involve the viewer's emotions other than through its spectacular sweep. You may say "wow" but you'll never cry "woe."

New York Times — a surprising entertainment, one of the great epic films of our day. Elizabeth Taylor's Cleopatra is a woman of force and dignity, fired by a fierce ambition to conquer and rule the world. Richard Burton is exciting as the arrogant Antony... a generally brilliant, moving and satisfying film.

Rotarians Told Of Art Looting In World War II

Art treasures looted during World War II was the topic of a talk made by Walter F. G. Stein before the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday at the Coronado Inn.

Although the Germans were mostly to blame, even American troops were involved in the loss and destruction of many priceless art objects and books, according to Stein.

Immediately following the war, the speaker was attached to an intelligence group, G-5, with the 7th Army Headquarters in Bavaria in southern Germany.

He told of some of his experiences in assisting in the recovery of many art treasures. Thousands of art pieces were recovered between 1945 and 1951, he said. Stein also traced the history of art objects and their meaning to the countries in which they originated.

A Pampa resident, Stein is employed as a chief petroleum engineer with the Cabot Corp.

MILK WATER NEEDS — The above chart is quite revealing to irrigation and dryland milk farmers in Gray County, according to Foster Whaley, Gray County Agricultural Agent. The peak period of water by a growing milk crop is the 56th day from time of planting. Irrigation farmers, Whaley stated, should plan to have a plentiful moisture supply available at this peak period. This can be done by pre-watering and by starting to water in plenty of time to have all milk ground watered by the 56th day. "And," said Whaley, "dryland milk farmers should consider their planting date. If planted from June 15 to 25th the milk can escape the usual August 1-15th long hot days. If planted on June 20th the milk will hit the 56th day around the end of August. Nights are usually cooler by this time. Days are shorter, this means the milk's need for water is somewhat reduced because of less plant strain." Prospects for rain-fall seem much better from the August 20 to September 10 period, the agricultural agent said.

Labor Secretary Called 'Farm Labor Czar'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor undersecretary John F. Henning today urged creation of a voluntary farm employment service to replace the Mexican farm labor program.
But the proposed program immediately drew fire from Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who said it would make the labor secretary a "farm labor czar."
Henning appeared before the Senate migratory labor subcommittee in support of a bill introduced by its chairman, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.
Under the program, the Labor Department would recruit farm workers and send them to areas suffering from labor shortages.
Effort at Settlement
Henning said the legislation was intended to bring farmers and workers together to solve a situation in which farmers had found it difficult to find workers at the same time as deplorable unemployment conditions existed elsewhere.
"All too often there has been a heavy reliance upon large numbers of workers outside the United States to meet these agricultural labor needs," Henning said.
The House recently rejected a bill to extend the so-called bracero program which brings Mexicans in to the U. S. for farm work. Williams, in an opening statement, said the program was especially timely because the bracero program probably would not be extended beyond the end of the year.
Cites Major Factor
"Heavy use, particularly in California and Texas, of the bracero program has been one of the major factors, perhaps the controlling factor, why our own large surplus of farm workers has not been efficiently used to meet farm labor demands," Williams said.
Appearing in opposition to the program were Ed Dean, Lubbock, representing the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and Charles M. Creuziger, Sturtevant, Wis., president of the Vegetable Growers Association of America.
Dean said the bill gave too much power to the labor secretary and agreed with Tower that it would make the secretary a czar.

Dairy Farmers Won't Be Exempt from Jury

AUSTIN (UPI)—A bill to exempt Texas dairy farmers from jury duty was vetoed today by Gov. John Connally.
The proposal was one of five bills Connally vetoed today some 24 hours before the constitutional deadline for approval or rejection of bills passed by the 58th Legislature.
The governor also vetoed House Bill 654 revising the insurance code because it duplicated some provisions of Senate bill 215 which he already signed; House bill 975 dealing with the Angleton drainage district; House bill 1053 relating to the Upper Guadalupe River Authority and Senate bill 381 exempting orphans of guardsmen killed on active duty from paying tuition at state colleges.
Connally said he vetoed the bill exempting dairy farmers from jury duty because the law already provided that "when an occasional hardship is caused by the call of jury service, ample provision exists for the judge to excuse these citizens."
He disapproved of the orphans' exemption of state college tuition because "it is drawn in an unconstitutional manner." He said it attempted to amend a statute by inserting a sentence rather than rewriting the entire section, which is contrary to the state constitution.
House bill 975 would have repealed the requirement that the Angleton drainage district obtain approval of the Texas Water Commission prior to spending bond money for improvements.
Connally said such authority belongs to the Water Commission and he preferred to keep it that way "to insure the orderly development of water resources of Texas."
It is said there are about 3,000 different kinds of lizard.

Accent on Health

The Texas State Department of Health is involved in mountains of work after receiving licensing and supervisory authority from the Atomic Energy Commission for by-product materials and small quantities of special nuclear and source materials.

Texas ranked fourth in the number of AEC licenses prior to the State's assumption of the program. Somewhat unique to Texas is the presence of seven research reactors, a uranium mill and the location of the principle refueling site of the nuclear powered Savannah.

Approximately 350 radioisotope licenses have been reviewed and granted out of over 500 federal licenses transferred to Texas by the AEC March 1. All those previously under the immediate supervision of the Commission must have Texas licenses.

Thus, the Division of Occupational Health and Radiation Control of the State Health Department, along with the help of many others, is in the process of contacting and checking each of these groups of individuals.

The AEC, however, retains control of those radiation installations dealing with large quantities of nuclear materials required to sustain a steady chain reaction. This amount is known as a critical mass. When there is a sub-critical mass, no chain reaction can occur.

Licensing authority for radiation users in the State was granted in January when the Governor and the AEC signed a contract culminating over eight years of preparation. After passage of permissive legislation by Congress in 1959, the Commission evolved criteria to be met for placing the regulatory authority in the hands of those states which could prove competency. In 1961 Texas legislation was enacted to permit state

Europeans Rely On United States' Self-Sufficiency

NORMAN, OKLA. (SpI) — The European Economic Community is reliant on the present U. S. policy of maintaining self-sufficiency in petroleum, the general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America said here today.

L. Dan Jones of Washington, D. C., told the Conference on the Common Market at the University of Oklahoma that the EEC policy which appears to be emerging relies increasingly upon imported oil, "and seeks security primarily through a multiplicity of sources of imports."

By contrast, Jones said, the U. S. policy reflected in the present oil import limitation program "has as its primary purpose the avoidance of increasing dependence on foreign sources and the maintenance of self-sufficiency through a strong domestic industry."

Although these U. S. and EEC policies appear on the surface to be contradictory, the IPAA official pointed out that they actually are interdependent, with a strong U. S. industry needed as a security safeguard for the EEC countries.

"As partners in the Free World," he said, "the United States and the Community are tied closely together through mutual international policies."

"It is submitted, therefore, that the petroleum policy being followed in the United States becomes increasingly important to the Community and the entire Free World and that it enables the Community to pursue its emerging energy policy of relying upon imported petroleum," he said.

Rocky Says JFK Masterminding Attack on His Fiscal Policies

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller Wednesday charged the Kennedy administration with masterminding a determined Democratic attack on his fiscal policies.

The governor speculated at a news conference that either President Kennedy or his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, was behind the campaign aimed at his pay-as-you-go and "fiscal integrity" program. He said it was possible the attack was being leveled because he is considered a potential rival to Kennedy for the presidency next year.

Rockefeller defended his fiscal program and said that as of now he intended to finance next year's state spending without increasing taxes or fees.

The governor accused state Comptroller Arthur Levitt, a Democrat, of lending his office as the spearhead of "a Democratic propaganda campaign under way to discredit the fiscal integrity and the soundly solvent fiscal policies of this administration."

"Comptroller Levitt is a partisan, organization Democrat, not an independent, non-partisan, non-political watchdog of the public treasury as he likes to be projected," Rockefeller added. "He is a well-disciplined Democrat, too."

"Do you feel that this campaign against your fiscal policies has been directed by the White House?" a newsman asked.

"Or the Justice Department," Rockefeller replied.

"Is it because you are being mentioned as a presidential candidate?" he was asked.

"That is a good assumption," the governor said.

Landolt, eye physician, first used "optometry" as a word to describe use of the optometer to measure or refract the eye.

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Fernando Belaunde Terry is a handsome, darkly intent man who as an architect has large-scale plans for altering the map of Peru.

Now, as Peru's newly elected next president, he may have a chance for at least a start-on putting those plans into effect.

His dream is of a "forest edge" road which would open up the untapped resources of eastern Peru, and benefit Colombia, Ecuador, and Bolivia as well.

He explained those plans to this correspondent a few weeks ago, spreading maps on the floor of a pleasant room off a sun-filled patio of his home at the edge of Lima. On the walls of the room were mementoes of his travels by horseback and canoe along the eastern edges of the Andes which divide Peru into coast, high sierra and jungle.

Spans 3,000 Miles

The road Belaunde foresees would run 3,000 miles along trails which, in Peru, Belaunde himself has travelled.

He estimates its total cost at $216 million, with Peru's share amounting to $81 million.

The project already has been partly surveyed and Belaunde hopes the job can be finished under the Alliance for Progress.

Peru, Belaunde says, has only about one-half acre of arable land per person at present.

He estimates that every mile of the new road would open up more than 3,000 acres of land, doubling the amount now available.

Opens Three Rivers

It would open up access to the Amazon, Orinoco and Rio Del Plata, three of South America's greatest rivers, thus extending its benefits to Argentina and Brazil as well.

And it would make available vast new resources of oil, gas, manganese and jungle products.

Along with his opponents in last Sunday's general elections, Belaunde considers Peru's six million poverty-stricken Indians as the nation's greatest problem. The road, he believes, would go far toward improving their lot and bringing them into the national economy.

For them he also would establish 200 pools of farm machinery and tools to help modernize present primitive farming methods.

The Popular Action Party which Belaunde heads is considered moderately left, between the leftwing APRA Party headed by Victor Raul Haya de la Torre and the rightwing Odría Union of former President Manuel Odría, the other two major candidates whom Belaunde defeated.

The winning party is nationalistic but, Belaunde explained, nationalistic within a framework of continental cooperation.

Belaunde specifically rejected Communist support and called for encouragement of private industry and investment and for coordination of Peruvian and United States efforts.

Belaunde ran second to Haya de la Torre in last year's elections which an army take-over annulled on grounds of fraud. In this election there remained doubt that the army would have permitted Haya to take office even had he won. The armed forces approve of Belaunde.

SAVES "MOTORIST"

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI)—Police Sgt. J. B. Johnson was lauded today for skidding his motorcycle into the path of a runaway car.

Two-year-old Leo Millet, who had slipped the car out of gear, was saved.

"He sure flunked his first driving test," Johnson said.

Kansas Lake With Bounce To The Ounce

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) —

Toss a rock in a lake here and it may bounce back.

The lake has a rubber bottom.

The man-made lake, the second of its kind, was fitted with a butyl rubber bottom to keep its salt water from seeping into nearby streams. The saline solution is vital in removing liquified petroleum gas from underground storage caverns.

It took 45 tons of rubber to cover the six-acre lake bottom. It will hold about 300,000 barrels of salt water.

Underground caverns are used for storage of liquified petroleum.

During summer months, the fuel is pumped into the caves. When winter comes and demand for fuel rises, the salt water is flooded into the holes and pushes the two million barrels of liquid gas into pipelines.

In summer, when production exceeds current demand, the fuel is pressured into the caverns and the salt water is forced back into the lake.

Cities Service Oil company was faced with the problem of storing the salt water. Fresh water could not be used because it would dissolve the walls of the salt formation caverns. So salt water and the rubber bottom lake were devised.

Conservation men demanded that possible contamination of fresh water be avoided, so the butyl rubber was installed. Mobile built a similar rubber bottom pool earlier in Texas.

Deep wells are used to acquire more water when needed and to dispose of surplus.

CHINESE - STYLE BAKED PEAS... part of charm lies in the sauce combination of tastes and textures.

Ideal Center For Finger Food Plate

An ideal center for an attractive well-planned finger food plate is an arrangement of various cheeses. First use a cookie cutter to cut down about 1/4-inch into the center top of a small Edam or Gouda with its appealing red paraffin coating. Remove the top layer carefully and use a small ball cutter to scoop out cheese balls from the interior without disturbing the top design. After removing a dozen or more balls take out excess crumbs and drop the balls carefully back into the cheese shell.

Surrounding this center piece place other cheeses such as Swiss, aged Cheddar or a brick variety which can be sliced to produce round, rectangular, square and triangular shapes. These can be overlapped neatly in straight or curved rows, depending on the shape of the tray and the design you wish to create.

Radiating from this center, a great many tasty finger foods such as chicken fried in a crushed po-

One of the questions often asked about Chinese crisp, tender vegetables is "How do they do it... and there's nothing mysterious about it. Part of the charm lies in the suave combination of tastes and textures.

In this recipe, garden-fresh frozen green peas are combined with bean sprouts and crisp water chestnuts, bathed in a creamy mushroom sauce and garnished with crunchy chow mein noodles. Here is a real taste treat to serve with your favorite roast for a re-

Fading Of Graduation March Signal For Congratulation Parties To Commence

The last strains of the graduation march have faded. The young graduates have signed the last autograph. The coat lockers have been cleared of the last notebook.

But the great event of high school graduation is not over. The celebration is merely moved from the school corridors to a variety of homes filled with relatives and friends waiting to add their good wishes.

If your home is to be the site of one of these post ceremony parties this June, you will want to serve refreshments which have been prepared earlier and are now ready and waiting to make a pretty impression.

To fulfill the requirement, try Honey Graduation Punch for your party. It is delicately sweetened with Honey, uniquely flavored with berries, oranges, lemons and tea, and lightly sparkled with ginger ale.

Wonderful accompaniments are thin slices of Apricot Honey Nut Bread adorned with dainty mounds of Whipped Honey Cream Cheese and topped with just a bit of cherry.

2 cups double strength tea, freshly made
1 pint ginger ale
Crush berries and combine all ingredients except ginger ale. Chill. When ready to serve add ginger ale and crushed ice. Yield: 20 servings.

APRICOT HONEY NUT BREAD
1 cup (5 ounces) dried apricots, cut in pieces
1/2 cup hot water
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1/4 cup Honey
1/4 cup sugar

1/4 cup white vinegar, plus apricot water and milk to make 3/4 cup liquid
2 eggs, beaten
Soak apricots in hot water for 1 hour; drain, reserving liquid. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture is fine. Blend in nut meats. Combine Honey, sugar, apricot liquid, eggs and apricots; add all at once to dry ingredients; stir until flour mixture is dampened. Pour into greased 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan. Bake in a 325 F. (moderate) oven about 1 hour. Cool slightly. Remove from pan. Slices best one day old. Yield: 1 loaf.

Before erecting screens for the summer, get rid of all bits of dust that clog the mesh. Scrub with a strong, hot solution of soda concentrated.

THE WIZARDS OF SPACE (4)

When it officially opened shop on Oct. 1, 1958—almost exactly a year after the beginning of the space age—fledgling National Aeronautics and Space Administration inherited a confusion.

U.S. rocket and space research was uncoordinated, scattered among a number of groups. Some, like Army's Ballistic-Missile Agency, which put up America's first satellite, Explorer I, were absorbed by NASA. All former facilities of National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics were also taken over.

Today, NASA maintains nine major research installations around the country, with headquarters and numerous planning offices in Washington, D.C. In fiscal year 1964, it plans to increase its manpower by 4,000—from 28,500 to 32,500. Construction of new ground facilities will run $800 million. This is the "brick and mortar" side of the conquest of space.

NASA's first budget in 1955 was $5,000. Its last in 1958 was about $200 million. When NASA became NASA, budgets were expected to level off not far above this figure. But within three years, the cost of space was edging a billion. Now, for 1964, NASA is asking Congress to appropriate over $5.7 billion. This is an "austere" and rock-bottom figure, according to administrator James E. Webb.

Officials currently estimate the agency's budget will rise to about $6.5 billion in 1965, then

Britain's Reluctant Peers Singing 'Call Me Mister'

LONDON (UPI) — Once upon a time every British boy was believed to dream of the day when he would have a title. Now an increasing number of Britons—titles are dreaming of the day when they will be plain "Mister."

For "Mister" is a title that carries with it an opportunity—the trend of the times denies the doughty dukes, the belted earls, viscounts, the marquesses and barons.

Namely, a chance to be prime minister.

The pressure from "reluctant peers" who fear their political careers will be ruined by their being forced to sit in the House of Lords—instead of the House of Commons—is so great that the cabinet has approved legislation that will enable them to assume the status of commoners.

The government timetable could make this law by July, which would be a big victory for Anthony Wedgwood Benn who nearly two years ago first pleaded for the right not to inherit his father's title as Viscount Stansgate.

Under the present government proposals, anyone who inherits a title would have the right to surrender it for his lifetime. His decision would not affect his heirs.

He would then be able to run for the House of Commons in the knowledge that he could not be forced out of it by the fact he was eligible to sit in the House of Lords—as happened to Wedgwood Benn.

No member of the House of Lords has been prime minister since the Marquess of Salisbury in 1895. None is likely to become one again in the foreseeable future.

If the proposals become law, Viscount Hailsham, Minister for Science, and the Earl of Home, World's largest machine tool plant is located in Cincinnati, Ohio.

FRATERNITIES

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Dr. William Koch Jr., professor of diagnosis at the Washington University school of dentistry, thinks dental fraternities are worth their weight in gold.

Koch said the public needs to be made aware of the contributions of fraternities. He said they help develop leadership and responsibility in its student members toward institutions of higher learning.

LOSE VOICE BOXES

MIAMI (UPI) — A Miami surgeon says that 35,000 to 40,000 persons lose their voices every year because of smoking cigarettes.

"Most of these people who lose their voice boxes are heavy smokers, almost without exception," said Dr. Nathaniel M. Levin, a pioneer in developing rehabilitation for persons who had their larynx removed.

Eagles have a life span of between 25 and 30 years.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — CBS-TV's "Steel Hour," a radio and television fixture for 18 years, made its farewell appearance Wednesday night and gave itself a decent funeral.

It called up Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, for nearly four decades the theatre's first couple. It cast them in Sir James Barrie's irresistibly warm-hearted romance of an old English charwoman who writes to a World War I soldier she doesn't know, tells her friends he is her son—and finally is adopted by him.

And if "Steel Hour" personnel had as much boulevardierish buoyancy as the aging Lunt, and as much roughish gaiety as Miss Fontanne, the series would still be alive and kicking.

For all practical purposes, the "Steel Hour" expired of exhaustion, having suffered a sharp decline in quality over the past few years—but the tears in Wednesday night's play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," were intended. It is true that the play was unashamedly tearjerking; that it defies serious criticism because it is not worth it; that it was so slight, as to require only the minimum talents of the Lunts, and that they gave it approximately that, especially Mr. Lunt.

But though there was little heat, there was much warmth—and that is a theatrical virtue that must be grasped at with thankfulness nowadays. When one is subjected to the barbaric, icy comedies of a Doris Day, when one is told to admire the hard, brittle films of a Billy Wilder, when one is deluged by dramas seeking routes instead of roots; when simple pleasantness and style are buried by massive crude messages with plebeian prophets—then an hour of gentleness can seem almost shocking.

In Wednesday night's play, Lunt was the omnipresent narrator. Miss Fontanne was, of course, the charwoman, and Donald Madden the young soldier. In brief, the story develops when Madden returns from the front and thinks he has received his letters, cakes and socks from an aristocratic lady whose name Miss Fontanne has signed. Through a clergyman he learns the real sender and at first is angry with her.

Soon she softens him up, gently, convincingly, offering him the best food and board she can give him at her humble dwelling. He cannot resist. He takes her theatre and chic restaurant—it is a fairy tale, really. He has no family, and he adopts her as his mother. When he is killed in battle, he leaves her everything, including his medals—and though she is still poor, she is lonely no more with her memory.

Miss Fontanne played the kind of little old lady there used to be before they started drag-racing in Hollywood, and thence eastward.

CROP INSURANCE — Gov. John Connally is shown here at his desk in Austin proclaiming June 12-22 as "Crop Insurance Week". Standing (right) is Ben A. Jordan Jr., state director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., College Station. In his proclamation Gov. Connally congratulated the nearly 12,000 Texas farmers who carry $30 million in Federal Crop Insurance protection and said "Not only does it give the means to survive crop disaster and continue in business, but also it protects the communities against severe economic loss in the event of total crop failure". Occasion for the proclamation is the 25th anniversary of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., an agency of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, which offers farmers non-profit insurance to cover approximate crop-production costs against all causes of crop loss.

8,500 Texas Guardsmen Begin Advanced Training

AUSTIN (Sp1) — A three-pronged training objective during summer camp lies ahead for 8,500 Guardsmen of the 36th (Texas) Infantry Division, commanders were told here this week.

Major subordinate commanders from throughout the state heard that the division would pursue an advanced individual training mission, a continuation of basic unit training at the platoon or battery level and there would be an increased emphasis of unit maintenance.

Lieutenant Colonel Jack Fisher, assistant chief of staff for training, pointed out to the high-echelon officers that 16 of the division's 98 federally recognized units begin an advanced individual training program on an accelerated basis while nine additional units must enter a complete AIT program to complete Military Occupational Specialty (MOS) training.

The advanced training program is contemplated for those units which have been converted from one branch of the service to another because of the just-completed reorganization.

The remaining 73 units will continue their current training mission, according to Lt. Col. Fisher. He also pointed out that the third training point — maintenance — is of particular interest. There will be an increased emphasis in the area of unit maintenance which requires individual T-Ratchers to be well versed in maintenance procedures on all items of equipment. This type training will run concurrently with all other missions.

Major General Selden Simpson, commanding general from Amarillo, said that "advance preparations are moving along smoothly for the annual summer encampment at North Fort Hood. We expect to undergo a rugged schedule during the two weeks which find us at the military reservation, but we expect to accomplish our training objectives."

Slightly more than 8,500 T-Patchers move into North Fort Hood, in Central Texas, June 30 to begin their annual field training. They return to their home stations in 98 different Texas towns on July 14.

Location of the 16 units which begin an advanced AIT program include the split unit between Amarillo and Dumas and those single units located in Alice, Borger, Brady, Brownwood, Canyon, Carizo Springs, Corpus Christi, Edna, Houston, Lampasas, Plainview, Port Neches, Robstown, Stephenville and Whitney.

Dear Abby....

Apparently Wife

Doesn't Give A Darn

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a man in our crowd who is loaded with money, but we have never seen him without holes in the heels of his socks. He has many pairs of socks, but they ALL have holes in the heels. He's not careless about the rest of his attire. He wears tailor-made suits, and expensive shirts, but his holey socks spoil his appearance. Should we write his wife an anonymous letter telling her to do something about it?

ED'S FRIENDS
DEAR FRIENDS: If Ed has holes in ALL his socks, he knows they're there and doesn't care. Leave his wife alone. She apparently doesn't give a darn.

DEAR ABBY: I know you have had many screwball people write to you, but I assure you I am not one of them. I want to do something to benefit mankind and I can't think of anything better than to give my life for scientific research. If you know of any institution that wants a live, healthy body for a scientific experiment, please let me know. I hope you will not print my name because I have already shocked enough people with my ambition. I am dead serious.

HUNTSVILLE
DEAR HUNTSVILLE: You may be "dead" serious—but you are still very much alive. I know of NO institution that would accept your generous offer.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is going to be an usher at a wedding soon. I know that an usher is expected to "look after" a bridesmaid, but where do I come in? We're out-of-towners, and I know no one on either side, so I'll have to go to the wedding alone. At the reception, am I supposed to sit and watch my husband dance with the bridesmaid all evening? Also, the night before the wedding there is a rehearsal supper party. I am not invited to that, but my husband will escort the bridesmaid. One of the other ushers is married, but HIS wife is a bridesmaid, so she'll be included in everything. Am I supposed to forget that I'm married during the wedding festivities, and let my husband run wild with his bridesmaid?

SIZZLING
DEAR SIZZLING: Your husband's role as a husband takes priority over that of an usher. And his role as a MAN should justify his asking the bride and groom where his wife comes in.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HERMAN:
One Frenchman put it very well. He said, "There is no such thing as a 'pretty good' omelet'."

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

When You Can't Beat 'Em... Then Join 'Em

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Scribbling on walls, doors and other surfaces is not a bad habit of 2-year-olds only. I happen to know a 7-year-old who was caught doodling dreamily in black pencil all over my night stand while she chattered on the phone. She is the same young lady who will draw on fences, refrigerators and walls. The blackboard and sketch pad are limiting to her big-picture ideas.

"If you can't lick 'em, join 'em," is the way one homemaker summoned up a simple Saturday morning project which gave her daughter all the scribbling surface she could wish for. In her small room, the old-fashioned panel door was transformed with plastic-finished hardboard into a king-size space for writing, drawing, painting. There is enough room for two or three youngsters to scribble at one time.

The finish on the paneling resembles that on a refrigerator; a dry cloth will remove crayon or wax pencil marks. A wet sponge wipes off water paint.

King-size scribbling space is offered by a door sheathed in plastic-finished hardboard. Composition board, top, takes thumbtacked pictures and messages.

Morrow-Burnett Say Nuptial Vows

CANADIAN (Spl) — The First Christian Church of Canadian was the scene recently at one o'clock of the wedding of Miss Alice Ann Morrow and Dennis Robert (Ricky) Burnett of Miami. Myrl Powers performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Cecil Morrow of Perryton and has resided in Canadian for several years with her sister, Mrs. John Whitsett. Mr. Burnett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Victor Burnett of Miami.

For her wedding, the bride chose a simple organly street-length dress styled with rounded neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirt was of alternate inset rows of lace and tucks. She wore a small blue hat with fingertip veil and matching gloves. Her bouquet was of white carnations with blue streamers.

Mary Ann Howard of Glazier, a classmate of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a blue street-length dress with rounded neckline and full skirt. Her hat and gloves were of white and she carried a white carnation bouquet.

Pat Guerrero of Miami attended the bridegroom as best man. Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. They will be at home in Miami after June 9.

The bride is a recent graduate of Canadian High School. Mr. Burnett graduated from Miami High School and is associated with his father as a contract builder.

Ohio ranks first among states of the Union in production of timothy seed with 8.5 million pounds annually.

Miss Morrow Is Shower Honoree

CANADIAN (Spl) — Miss Ann Morrow, bride-elect of Ricky Burnett of Miami was honored at a breakfast and personal shower recently in the home of Mrs. Jack King. Karol King assisted her mother as co-hostess.

An arrangement of pink roses and Baby Breath centered the table, which was laid with a green cloth. A ceramic bride and groom stood beneath the floral arrangement. Pink roses on the napkins and bridal slipper favors filled with pink and green mints carried out the color scheme.

Guests in addition to Miss Morrow were her aunt, Mrs. J. C. Cain, her sister, Mrs. John Whitsett, her fiancée's sisters, Misses Ronnie and Penny Burnett of Miami. Also, Misses Vickie Flowers, Janet Greene, Kay Abraham, Mary Alice Robbins, Raellene Waters, Annette Arnold, Mrs. Preston Hutton and Mrs. Keith Johnson.

Mrs. D. Ritter Has Gabettes Meeting

GROOM (Spl) — The Gabettes Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Donald Ritter. Mrs. Johnny Brooks had charge of the business meeting.

Those attending were one guest, Mrs. George Britten and members, Mmes. Jack Bivens, Bill Britten, Art Britten, Johnny Brooks, Fred Brown, Dean Burger, George H. Clark, Billy Fields, Kenneth Hunt, Arletus Ruthardt, Jerry Thornton, Dan Ashford and the hostess.

Attractive Lap Trays Come To Aid Of Over-Generous Hostess At Party

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The disquieting moment in a hostess's life when she realizes her generous impulse to invite has overreached her facilities to serve is a rather common upset at this time of year.

Just the other day, I gaily invited 10 ladies to lunch to meet a newcomer, then realized I had only eight dining room chairs and six place settings of "good" china.

To dig out of this impasse, we turn hopefully to buffet service. Fingers crossed that everyone will find a place to perch and that the food won't skid off the plates. Borrowing china to "piece out" is a high-risk venture that may break cup and saucer.

As a compromise, a resourceful friend of mine suggests a tray-buffet which is long on color and charm but short on cost.

Pastel-tinted trays, bought from

TO YOUR HEALTH... For those who have to dash to work, an orange egg nog provides a healthful, delicious breakfast-in-a-glass. The nog is high in vitamin C as well as protein. For 2 servings, add 1½ cups Florida orange juice to 2 beaten eggs. Beat with rotary beater until foamy; serve in tall glasses.

the dime store, are decked out with pretty plastic mats, striped ones perhaps, in similar pastel shades of pink, green and aqua. Set with flatware, the individual tray makes a solid base for a tankard of milk or tea plus the plates of food.

One unsuspected advantage is that most youngsters, accustomed to cafeteria tray service at school, can handle this fancier version without spilling.

An attractive, and almost unbelievably inexpensive, solution to the tableware needed for 10-12 guests is to be found in American-made glass plates, bowls, cups and saucers. The simple designs in white fit well with colored mats and napkins. If a cup or saucer breaks, a replacement for pennies, is as near as the variety store.

A trick to lift these simple ingredients into the party mood is to use interesting service dishes and a jaunty touch, such as a flower on each tray.

Take It From Kathy

by Kathy Peterson
Dear Kathy: My mother thinks I am old enough for dates and permits me to go out when my father isn't home. I'm afraid to even talk about a boy in front of my dad. He won't let me speak or even wave to a boy. Would you please give me some advice about how to get my father to understand? Please answer as soon as possible.—J. S.

Dear J. S.: Your father may think that dating is wrong at your particular age, but an occasional date would certainly be less harmful than growing accustomed to deceiving him. It will be easiest to start trying to get approval for an occasional special date with a boy whose parents are familiar to him, perhaps at an afternoon event. Your mother can use her influence a bit.

Time, of course, will make a difference because even the strictest parent has to recognize the fact that his little girl is growing up. Be as dependable and mature as possible because your behavior in other situations will affect your father's attitude about this one.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Snap-On Toys Ends Super Market Stooping

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Make super-market shopping with your toddler easier on both of you by taking two feet of stout string and attaching one end to a snap-on clothespin and the other to your child's favorite toy. Snap the clothespin to one side of the push cart so that while he rides in the basket he will have something to occupy himself while you shop. There is no danger of the toy being dropped on the floor or being lost. Merely unsnap when ready to leave. — MRS. E. L. R.

DEAR POLLY — If you have a couch that opens to make a bed, sheets usually are wrinkled from the bed being folded up. If two contour sheets are used, the top sheet will be tucked under to really stay in place and be less wrinkled when the couch again is used as a bed.—V. W.

GIRLS — When the bed is opened for use, just pull down the two top corners and fold back the covers as you would a straight top sheet.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — It will pay great dividends if you take the time to show your little girl how to sew on buttons. I started my four-year-old by having her sew a large button on to a couple thicknesses of brown paper. The bottom of a paper bag works fine. Hitting the holes is no problem and the firmness of the paper enables inexperienced little fingers to become acquainted with the successful management of a needle and thread. Pretty shapes, bright thread and encouragement add to the enjoyment.—MRS. G. C.

GIRLS — I tried Mrs. G. C.'s method on my 4-year-old granddaughter. The paper works like a charm and Kit was delighted with her own success.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I was so glad to learn through the column that elastic should be shrunk. I had always wondered why the cotton-grograin ribbon on sweaters pulled and ruined the sweater's appearance after it was washed. Our sewing teacher taught us that rick-rack shrinks, too. I slip mine from the cardboard into a pan of hot water and then lay it on a turkish towel to dry, so very little pressing is necessary.

Nylon hose used for stuffing work best if they are cut into small pieces. I use an old toothbrush, with the bristles removed to push pieces into small places when stuffing toys, etc. It is smooth and does not catch on the material.—ELSIE

DEAR POLLY—I wonder if the readers who sew remember to shrink straight seam tape before using it. When the tape dries you will be convinced that it shrinks by the shape of the card.—MRS. J. D. A.

Area 4-H Team Wins PCA Award at State Contest

Steven Maddox and Bill Skaggs of Pampa, representing the Top O Texas 4-H Club, were presented awards for their first place finish in District One competition of the Farm and Ranch Management Demonstration contest at the Texas 4-H Club Roundup held recently at Texas A&M College.

The team's demonstration was entitled "Can You Afford A New Tractor?" which outlined profitable agricultural management practices. Team coach was Foster Whaley, Gray County Agent.

Maddox, 15, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Maddox, Star Route and has completed his junior year at Pampa High School. Skaggs, 14, lives on Star Route 2 and was a student at Robert E. Lee Junior High School the past year.

The Farm and Ranch Management Contest is sponsored by the Production Credit Associations of Texas. Lin Warthan, general manager of the Corsicana Production Credit Association, and chairman of the state contest committee, presented awards to the winning teams at College Station.

"It is a great pleasure for our agricultural financing institutions to sponsor this contest for these fine contestants," Warthan told the competing teams. "Proper management practices are extremely important for profitable agricultural operations, and the study and preparation these teams undertake in providing them a very fine foundation for good management practices in their own future operations."

The Canadian Production Credit Association serves the Gray County area and has offices in Pampa, Canadian, Wheeler and Perryton.

The weasel-worded Republican statement of civil rights principles achieved last week by G.O.P. senators says little and means less. The Senate Republicans committed themselves to a series of generalized statements and some applause for their party and for Abraham Lincoln.

The moment of truth for Senate Republicans will not come until they must stand up and be counted for or against the Kennedy Administration's civil rights proposals. The Republican Party position on the issue of civil rights will not be fixed, however, until the Republicans have nominated a presidential candidate and the nominee says where he stands. But the nominee's stand won't mean anything, either, unless he is a man of courage.

There will be a Republican platform, of course, and a Democratic platform, too. But platforms are shady documents written more to appease pressure groups and to lull the voters than to commit the party to any course of action whatever.

Platforms A Sham
Party platforms have come to be both a shame and a sham, conceived in conspiracy to delude and defraud the voters. If this were not true the civil rights showdown now approaching in Congress would have taken place during the first weeks of the Kennedy Administration. Both parties wrote into their 1960 platforms noisy claims of undying love and understanding for the Negro and his problems.

The Democrats out-promised the Republicans on civil rights, words being cheap and the Northern Negro vote being necessary to the reborn Democratic Party if it hopes to elect a president of the United States. It did not occur to the Senate Republicans last week to refer to their own 1960 Republican platform for a statement of civil rights pledges principles.

There are three or four pages of civil rights pledges and principles in the Republican platform, the lot having proved to be worth somewhat less than the paper it is printed on. So long as the voters are willing to accept campaign promises but do not compel performance after the election, politicians of both parties will continue to defraud the citizens by making promises they have no intention of keeping.

Campaign Pledges Ignored
A lot of presidential campaign oratory is the same kind of political guff. But a presidential candidate is available to be challenged after a political campaign. He can be cornered and his campaign baloney can be repeated to him. This happened once to the late Wendell L. Willkie after he was defeated in 1940 for the presidency. In a senate committee hearing, Willkie was confronted with some choice passages of his campaign speeches and asked for comment.

"That was just campaign oratory," Willkie replied, and no one in the room or in the nation was either surprised or outraged.

So it is with civil rights. Senate Republicans came up with a lot of double talk in the form of a statement of civil rights principles. But they ignored wholly their own party's civil rights pledges in the 1960 platform.

Brings Bitterness
The Democrats under President Kennedy suddenly have discovered a civil rights crisis in the United States. So, they decide that the emergency required them to make good on some of the 1960 platform promises they so happily made to win Negro votes in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and elsewhere.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) —Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & G6. feels that common sense dictates that the market's near term must be appraised carefully to determine how much of the business news has been already discounted, particularly in the more volatile blue chips.

However, Ward says, unless there is a sudden unpredictable change in the news picture, it seems most probable that the public will take a more active part in the market and that a shift some of the neglected secondary issues will be witnessed.

L. Palmer of J. W. Sparks & Co. feels that a correction in the market is long overdue and that caution should be exercised regarding the near term course of the market.

Investograph Stock Survey editor Walt McKibben says the market is now consolidating around the 720 level in the Dow-Jones industrial average and he believes the market will reach new highs soon. He believes that once the new highs are reached it will be possible a few months afterward to see dimly beyond 1963 and then the 1964 outlook will begin to dominate the market, but he feels it is too soon to venture a prediction.

Plowboys Plow Up Pampa, 16-5

CANYON (Sp) — The Graham Plowboys of Amarillo outslugged the Pampa Colts, 16-5, in a free-swinging Tri-State League game last night.

Each team hit two home runs, but the Colts could never put together a big inning as the Plowboys got seven runs in the third frame and held the margin all the way. Ex-Colt Kippy Williams took the win, giving up five hits, two walks and four runs while striking out six in five innings. Roy Sherrod took over for the last four innings and gave the Colts only one run and two hits, allowing three walks, but striking out eight in his four-inning stint, setting the side down on "Ks" in the eighth inning.

Roy Perrin went the first four innings and took the loss, with Royce Harnsberger going two and Jerry Glover the last three. Six of Pampa's seven hits were picked up by the first four batters, with Butch Crossland poling a home run and double and Roy Don Stephens a double and single. Cleanup hitter Terry Haralson also poked a four-bagger. Cagle Davis got both of Graham's four-ply blasts, one with the sacks loaded, to send home seven runs.

Haralson homered with nobody on to open the game, but the lead was short-lived as Richard Barker doubled in the bottom of the frame and scored on a passed ball to tie it up. Graham went ahead in the second inning, 2-1, on singles by Benny Sherrod and Roy Dean.

The hosts then exploded for seven runs on six hits in the third inning to wrap it up. Big blows in the frame were back-to-back doubles by Benny Sherrod and Dean, with singles by Richard Barker, Paul Hyatt, Craig Dye and Williams.

Errors gave the Colts two runs back in the fourth, with the Plowboys getting one back in their half on two more hits.

Crossland led off the fifth with a home run, but Graham got two in their half on Dean's double and Davis' homer. The hosts belted Harnsberger for four more tallies in the sixth when Davis swung on the first pitch for his second circuit clout, this one with ducks on all ponds.

Roy Sherrod allowed doubles by Crossland and Roy Don for the Colts' last run in the seventh, and then faced only 10 more men, striking out five of them.

The win makes the Plowboys 2-0 on the Tri-State League season, and hands the Colts their third straight loss. Pampa hosts Woodward Saturday night.

Youth Baseball

Your Laundry crushed B&B, 18-5, and Crall topped Ruff, 12-7, in the Northern League, and the Misfits shut out Cabot, 5-0, in the Eastern League, in Optimist Youth Baseball last night.

Sammy Heasley was reached for 11 hits, but took the win over the Druggists, striking out 12 and walking only one. Richard Gordy and Cal West backed him up with three hits each, as the Laundrymen got 13 hits off loser Johnnie Moore and two relievers. Moore and Mark Stephens each had two hits for the losers.

Crall took its third straight win to lead the league as Gary Parrish hurled a five-hitter. Relief pitcher Johnny Eperon was nailed for the loss. Don Barnhill of Crall led the hitting with two safe blows.

Al Gomez pitched the first no-hitter of the season, allowing one sixth-inning walk to break his bid for a perfect game. Gomez struck out 14 batters for the Misfits and was in control all the way. Elmer Rippetoe gave up only four hits for Cabot, but walked 10, striking out five. Doug Davis got two of the four hits. The Misfits are now 2-0 on the season.

In a game Monday night, B&B slammed over C&M, 18-1. Jik Hollis took the win, facing only 18 men and striking out 13. Hollis led his own cause with a perfect night at the plate, including two doubles and two singles. Davis homered for C&M's only run.

peting in his first major tournament since the 1962 Masters. The little Texan has been practicing for almost a week on the Westchester Country Club's championship west course for his latest comeback.

In a tuneup round last Sunday, Hogan admitted he was "still a little rusty," but still managed to turn in a respectable two-over-par 72 on the 6,550-yard course with its narrow fairways and tricky greens.

Sneed, who plans to use this tournament as a final tuneup for another bid at the National Open crown that has eluded him throughout his career, stole the show in Wednesday's pro-am benefit with a three-under-par 67.

The West Virginian pocketed $775 for his individual triumph but he's more interested in the $25,000 prize that will go to the Thunderbird winner following Sunday's final round.

Sneed was bracketed with Julius Boros, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer as the leading contenders for this rich 72-hole classic.

Boros is the hottest of all the pros right now. In his last five tournaments, he gained two victories and spread-eagled the field in winning last weekend's Buick Open by five strokes.

Palmer, like Hogan, will be launching a comeback of sorts. The Pennsylvania strongman rested for the last five weeks and should be full of vinegar again. So should Nicklaus, the leading money winner on this year's tour who sat out the Buick Open because of his infant son's illness.

Softball League

The Pampa Stars took a double header from the Cabot Clowns last night at Lions Park, 5-4 and 8-6, to move out in front of the Industrial Softball League by a three-game margin.

Homer "Squirrel" West sneaked to the win in the first game when Pampa tied the game in the fifth and final inning and then scored the winning run when a single rolled through Cabot's left and center fielders for a three-base error and the ball game. Cabot continuously ripped the cover off the ball, but West was rolling in luck as fancy fielding by his mates pulled him out of jam after jam. West allowed seven hits, walked two and struck out two. Ray Howard lost the heartbreaker, being reached for eight hits, although allowing only one walk while striking out six.

The second game was a slugfest for Cabot, while the tired Howard allowed only three hits, but three walks and five errors behind him set up the winning margin.

P. D. James weathered a tremendous storm for the win, being reached for home runs by Don Bigham and Gene James, each of whom added a single, with Doug Burris and Jerry Wright also connecting for two safe blows apiece.

The two homers scored three runs for Cabot in the first inning, but Pampa tied it up on a tremendous clout over the left field trees by Harold Deering. The Stars then pulled it out as Taylor batted in five runs on two straight hits, to offset the Clowns' three-run rally in the final frame.

James gave up 10 hits, walked none and struck out two. Howard gave up three hits, but they batted in eight runs, while walking three and striking out five.

'Unlucky' Adcock Leads Cleveland To Contention

By United Press International

The ugly duckling of Milwaukee is becoming the darling of Cleveland.

He's Joe Adcock, the gangling, drawing, free-swinging first baseman from Coshatta, La., who spent 13 years with the Braves before they decided he was unlucky and traded him last November to the Indians.

Big Joe said at the time that he couldn't understand the trade. Today it's quite likely that neither the Indians nor the Braves can fathom what possessed the Braves to make it either.

Adcock, 35, is one of the major reasons why the Indians are surging into American League contention with six straight victories and nine in their last 10 games. He's hitting a hefty .304, has collected eight homers and knocked in 24 runs.

Adcock drove in three runs with a homer and two singles and Jerry Kindall also had three hits Wednesday night as the Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers 12-6 to reach the .500-level at 26 wins and 26 losses.

Pitch Sidelines Davaillo Kindall entered the game as a pinch-runner for Vic Davaillo, the Indians' fine young center fielder who suffered a broken arm when hit by one of Hank Aguirre's pitches. Davaillo will be lost to the Indians for at least a month.

The New York Yankees regained first place by a point when they beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-2, the Los Angeles Angels defeated the Chicago White Sox 5-0 after a 3-1 loss, the Kansas City Athletics drubbed the Minnesota Twins 12-4 but the Twins rebounded for an 8-1 win and the Boston Red Sox topped the Washington Senators 5-3 in other AL action.

U.S. Opens Cup Play

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The United States, hopeful of making a comeback in world tennis, opens its 1963 Davis Cup campaign today against Iran in a best-of-five elimination series.

Eugene Scott of St. James, N.Y., meets 18-year-old Reza Akbari of Iran in the first singles match. Allen Fox of Los Angeles, fourth ranking player in the United States, opposes Taeghi Akbari, 17-year-old brother of Reza, in the second match.

The doubles are scheduled for Friday and the series will be completed with a pair of singles on Saturday.

Iran is competing in the Davis Cup for only the second time and is not considered a serious obstacle to the United States.

Scott and Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., will play the Akbari brothers in Friday's doubles and if the United States acquires an unbeatable lead after that match, Dell will substitute for Scott in one of the closing singles matches.

The Yankees dealt the Orioles their fifth consecutive defeat when Roger Maris' 10th-inning single drove in Bobby Richardson with the decisive run. Marshall Bridges, who took over for the Yankees in the 10th, gained credit for his first win while Stu Miller suffered his third defeat.

Bob Turley allowed one hit—Pete Ward's sixth-inning single—to earn the Angels a split after Johnny Buzhardt pitched a three-hitter to win his seventh game for the White Sox.

Chuck Essegian and Ken Harrelson each hit a two-run homer to lead Kansas City's first-game 17-hit attack that brought Dave Wickhermsma his fifth win, Harmon Killebrew's ninth homer helped Camilo Pascual win his ninth game for Minnesota in the nightcap although the Twin ace left the game after the fifth inning with a strained muscle in his shoulder.

Ed Bressoud, Dick Stuart and Carl Yastrzemski hit homers to lead the Red Sox' seven-hit attack that dealt Dave Stenhouse his seventh defeat. Bill Monbouquette pitched an eight-hitter and struck out 10 to win his eighth game for the Red Sox.

COLTS GET PAIR BALTIMORE (UPI) — Offensive backs Bob De Wald and Bill Wood have signed contracts with the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League. Both were free agents.

Longer Quail Hunts Suggested At Hearing

The quail season will be extended one month in the Panhandle, and permits to hunt aoudad sheep will be issued for the first time in over five years, if suggestions made at a Game and Fish commission hearing yesterday go through.

The public hearing, which was to give recommendations made by area game and fish authorities for changes in this area from last year's hunting and fishing laws due to certain circumstances, and also to hear suggestions made by Gray County citizens on extensions or restrictions on same, was held yesterday at the County Courthouse.

Presiding over the hearing was Weldon Fromm of Amarillo. The suggestions committee was composed of Lonnie Peters, fish biologist from Canyon, Dick De Arment, game biologist from Wheeler, and George Farr, game warden from Shamrock. Gray County game warden Jack Woodford was not present, presiding over another county's hearing yesterday.

Among the proposals to be made to the state commission meeting July 11, was to extend the Panhandle quail season from Dec. 1-Jan. 15 to Nov. 16-Jan. 15. The early two weeks is suggested in order to allow hunters to get a better quail harvest and allow the Fish and Game officers a chance for better quail management, the last two weeks is to conform with the rest of the state.

Aoudad sheep could be hunted through Dec. 13-15 by permit. The sheep have been protected for the last five years, and there should now be enough herd increase to justify hunting. The date was picked because it would not interfere with the breeding season. The game officials pointed out that the first year would probably see only 30 to 40 permits issued on an experimental basis.

The antelope season would be cut from nine days to four-Sept. 28-Oct. 1. Findings have shown that nine days is too long. The harvest is usually taken in the first two days. A recommendation of four days, allowing two extra for inclement weather, should cover the antelope hunting properly.

A suggested change in deer laws would make it unlawful to hunt antlerless deer without a permit on person. This would stop hunters shooting the first deer they see and then going back to get a permit to fit the type of deer killed.

An extension of beaver trapping for pelts to match the muskrat trapping season-Dec. 1 to Feb. 28 is being suggested. This is to encourage Panhandle trappers as beaver is abundant here, but very few pelts are taken.

Goldfish have been added to the list of rough fish. Biologists reported that they have established themselves in some of the Panhandle lakes and apparently will spread. They are an undesirable fish in a class with buffalo, carp, etc., and should be exterminated for the better propagation of game and eating fish.

Final changes suggested concerned nets. Heretofore 40-foot seines have been legal in the Canadian River, although the rest of the Panhandle is limited to 20-foot nets. It has been found that the minnow supply in the Canadian has been depleted too fast due to the use of the larger nets.

It was also recommended that fishermen be allowed to use nets to take brim and sunfish, as well as minnows, for bait.

Added To NCAA

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—

The six-mile run — a new event — will climax tonight's opening competition in the NCAA track and field championships at the university of New Mexico Stadium.

Twenty runners are entered in the grueling race, which is a substitute for the 10,000-meter run six mile race is 396 yards short held during Olympic years. The six mile race is 396 yards shorter, and unlike other events on the three-night program had no qualifying standard.

Most of the first night's competition will be trials in the dash events as the NCAA weeds out the best of its 403 individual athletes who comprise 583 entries in the 42nd annual championships.

The meet was stretched over three nights for the first time this year, with the extra day affording more rest for runners during preliminaries. The night events offer relief from the summer New Mexico heat and windstorms of the day.

WILL WONDERS never cease? The AAU but a few short weeks ago, when Randy Matson was competing in U.S. Track and Field Federation meets, had stated firmly and emphatically that he and almost 100 other Texas high school boys were banned for life from AAU, Olympic and international competition due to a ruling (which no one had ever heard of before) that they had violated the MacArthur agreement by participating in said meets.

Upon the declaration by the USTFF and the Texas Interscholastic League that the boys were allowed by all standards to participate in the meet, the AAU backed water. Threats of suspension "for life" dropped to "an indeterminate period" down to "if the boys say they are sorry and didn't know what they were doing, we will reinstate them."

EVEN THIS watery threat was still too much for Pampa Track Club coach Norman Phillips. Retorting that he was not sorry, that Randy had a legitimate right to be there and had permission from any source necessary, plus the formation of the Pampa Track Club as a Federation member, Phillips refused to apologize for any wrong that Randy had supposedly done. "If there was any wrong doing, it was my fault," said Phillips, "certainly not a high school boy, and as we did nothing wrong, I will not apologize!"

Anyone who thought this was an extreme viewpoint found out that it was the only stand to take with the AAU. Meet threat with counterthreat and the AAU, like a bully who meets someone who is not afraid, will back water.

THIS WAS found out Tuesday and Wednesday, when the AAU literally fell all over itself helping Randy to become eligible for the AAU championships in St. Louis next week, which will determine the American athletes who will compete in the International Competition with the U.S.S.R., Poland, Germany and other European countries this summer.

It seems that Randy's winning of the USTFF shot put championship qualified him for competition in this meet, although Pampa Track Club officials were unsure as to whether the AAU would allow him to participate or whether "sanctions" were still being imposed upon him.

A telephone call to the meet headquarters in Missouri Tuesday elicited a prompt and immediate response that Randy Matson was more than welcome to compete and that an entry blank would be sent out airmail special delivery.

UPON RECEIPT of the application Wednesday, it was noted that competitors must register with or be certified by the district AAU committee, and that a travel permit for competition outside his own Association territory must be obtained by each athlete from his district. PTC officials felt that this might kill Randy, since, while it was possible that the Missouri commission might have forgotten or overlooked Randy's sanction, the Texas district, which had inaugurated the penalty against Randy in the first place, would surely disallow him.

Nothing ventured, nothing gained, so a telephone call was placed to Leonard Ehlers of Lubbock, West Texas chairman. When informed that Randy wished to participate in an AAU meet, Ehlers immediately okayed the trip, said he would take care of all the necessary forms and papers, assigned Randy a registration number on the spot, and said to list him on the entry blank as representing the West Texas AAU.

RATHER A sudden and sweeping change, don't you think? We wonder whether this would have happened if Randy had been applying for a USTFF meet? We also wonder whether the threats would have been applied in the first place if the AAU had known that Randy's talent would have been so great that within two weeks of his first competitive 16-pound shotput he would have been a national champion and eligible for AAU meets?

While we are grateful that the AAU changed its tune so completely, and thus gave Randy a chance to become one of the few high school boys in history eligible for international competition; we feel that it is a rather shabby letdown to what appeared to be a national issue. It appears that the AAU first put out the threat, as coach Johnny Morris of Houston said, "to scare the high school boys when they couldn't scare the collegians." When one of said high school boys became a drawing card for the AAU as well as the NCAA, not only were any threats of sanctions, penalties, etc., completely forgotten, the Texas directors were overjoyed to be sponsoring Randy from their area. It would seem that the AAU uses the threat of sanctions as a very handy weapon, to punish with or withdraw from as it appears most useful. Something is drastically wrong somewhere.

IN ANY CASE, Randy is getting his chance and the Pampa Jaycees are asking your help in doing it. The Jaycees are sponsoring Randy, raising the necessary funds for travel money and expenses and for entry fees, AAU fees (You don't get in for free, anyway), etc., for the Pampa Track Club to send him. Anyone wishing to help Randy and to promote the name of Pampa as well as asked to contact Eddie Polnac at MO 4-3277 or MO 5-5569.

Arizona Plays Texas Again

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Arizona had the downhill pull today in the NCAA national baseball tournament semifinals.

The Wildcats ride into tonight's game against Texas as the only team to survive the first three rounds in the battle for the collegiate diamond championship without a loss.

Missouri, the pre-tourney favorite, felt the sting of Arizona power Wednesday night and has its back to the wall in its collision tonight with Southern California. The loser of that game goes home.

Back-to-back homers by Jim Sevcik and Bob Maxwell helped propel Arizona to a 6-4 win over Missouri Wednesday night. In losers' bracket competition, Texas ousted Penn State 6-4 in 10 innings and Southern Cal survived a ninth inning threat to beat Florida State 4-3.

Hubble Remains Unconscious

AMARILLO (UPI)—Professional boxer Luther Ray Hubble lay unconscious and in critical condition today as doctors continued their fight to save his life.

The 24-year-old father of four has been in a coma since collapsing in his dressing room last Friday night after being knocked out in the third round of a four round light heavyweight bout against Willie Franklin, 27.

Doctors said the back of his neck struck the ring ropes as he fell to the canvas, but that he had not suffered brain damage.

Hubble's injury is similar to the one that caused the death of featherweight champion Davey Moore in Los Angeles on March 25 after a bout with Sugar Ramos.

Cincy Jim O'Toole Sets Red-Hot Victory Pace

By United Press International
Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole, who a year ago was just emerging from an early-season slump that doomed his 20-victory chances, is setting a pace this year that may make him the National League's most successful lefty in 28 years.

The 27-year-old southpaw scored his 11th victory and fifth shutout of the season Wednesday night as he pitched the Reds to a 3-0 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

With a start like that O'Toole is in position to reach the 25-win mark for the season—a total no National League left-hander has achieved since Carl Hubbell won 26 games for the Giants in 1936.

Only a year ago O'Toole was bogged down at 4-7 and even a strong finish earned him no more than a 16-13 mark for the season. O'Toole and Jim Maloney (9-2) have kept the Reds "alive" and still hopeful that they can improve their current fifth-place standing if Joey Jay and Bob Purkey round into form.

Rap Pirate Pitching
The hatchmen for the Reds Wednesday night were Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson, who have been making mincemeat of Pirate pitching all season. Each had two hits, scored a run and drove in a run. Pinson is hitting .405 in 10 games against Pittsburgh pitching this season while Robinson's average is .486 with six homers and 13 runs batted in.

The San Francisco Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers routed the Houston Colts 9-1, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2, and the Milwaukee Braves romped over the New York Mets 9-0 in other NL activity.

Strikes Out 14
Bob Bolin pitched a four-hitter and struck out 14 batters to win his third game for the Giants. Willie McCovey drove in all San Francisco's runs for the second straight game when he clouted a pair of homers off Bob Buhl, whose record was squared at 5-5.

Johnny Podres scattered 10 hits to win his fourth game for the Dodgers behind a 13-hit attack that included four hits by Maury Wills and three by Tommy Davis.

Wills also stole his 15th base of the season as the Dodgers dealt Don Nottbart his fourth defeat against five victories.

Art Mahaffey went 6 2-3 innings to win his third game as the Phillies knocked out Ron Taylor and Bobby Shantz with separate three-run rallies.

Hank Aaron hit his 18th homer of the season and drove in five runs to make it a breeze for Lew Burdette to win his sixth game.

Coaches Told Meet The Best

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), told coaches at the NCAA championship meet Wednesday night that it is "the blue ribbon event for this sport in our country."

Then, in a slap at the Amateur Athletic Union, Byers added that "it's clear that the number of schools and colleges promoting track and field are firmly established."

Babe Ruth League

Fannon rolled over the Lions, 10-3, and Kist crushed Enco, 24-6, in Babe Ruth League games at Optimist Park last night.

Fannon, the former "Orphans," have found a home and a victory streak, taking their second straight win as Troy Edwards hurled a two-hitter, walking eight and striking out eight. Dickie Henley took the loss, being reached for 11 hits, three walks, and striking out three.

Edwards led his own cause with three hits.

Kist pounced on H. D. LaRue and Nick Albus for 15 hits and as many walks. Larry Jones led the assault with two doubles and two singles. Steve Williams coasted to the win, giving up six hits and five walks while striking out nine.

Cree-Fannon and Bankers vs. Ideal are tonight's twin bill.

Lions 0 1 0 0 0 2—3 2

'Let Freedom Ring'

There's a movement underway in the nation to place additional emphasis upon the concept of independence and freedom on July 4, 1963. There are a number of factors which are worthy of support and encouragement.

We understand that a bill is before the Congress which embodies a resolution that on July 4th this year and each year hereafter, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence is to be observed with the ringing of bells throughout the land.

The movement carries the colorful title, "Let Freedom Ring." We understand that Columbia Pictures plans to make a film feature of some of the famous bells and carillons in several of the states and doubtless this film feature will appear in movie houses and possibly on television.

Some of the state legislatures (Connecticut, California and Illinois) have passed resolutions setting the time for the ringing of the bells at 12:00 noon Central time, so as to synchronize the chiming from coast to coast.

We understand that a special ceremony in Philadelphia will be televised and that a number of state governors have joined in with the program and will encourage a general ringing of bells at that hour on July 4th.

Locally, there has been no official action taken, but we think it would be appropriate for the bells in the churches and schools of Pampa and the Top O' Texas area to ring out for emphasis on freedom.

It appears likely, in view of the rather significant support this idea is receiving, that come July 4th we are going to hear some bells ring, and in itself this isn't a bad idea.

We noted many years ago that the importance of July 4th as a national holiday was being played down. It used to be considered our most important political observance. Now it has lost favor and

Detour

When the truth rises up to block the route you are taking, you are on the wrong road.

Don't Give Too Much

Did you ever hear of the Poultry Products Section, Inspection Branch, Poultry Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture? It's hardly likely that you have, but the Mionne Packing Company, in Newberg, Oregon, certainly has.

Mionne sells chickens packed in glass jars, and it has found a market which it pleases. But a while ago an inspector from the Poultry Products Section, etc., etc., found that it was guilty of illegal labeling. The labels said the jars contained a pound of chicken. But, when weighed, it was found that there was more—17 ounces.

A Mionne spokesman explained that the jar supplier hadn't been able to provide a container holding a precise 16 ounces. So the company was giving the buyer more than was claimed. And, boy, that's illegal! Mionne has changed its label, showing that there are 17½ ounces of chicken inside, not just 16, and the trouble is apparently over.

Such are the ways of bureaucracy. Write your own moral.

Pull Up A Chair

Many folks who are skeptical about fine American wine-growing possibilities should visit some of our quality vineyards in California, Ohio, New York State and even Maryland, and they will find a pleasant revelation. The United States produces some of the finest wines in the world today and we know some will lift their eyebrows when we say several of our domestic products are equal to those of France. We enjoy good wine and have visited and tasted the wines from the vineyards of France, Germany, Italy and even Chile. But on a recent trip to the Green Spring Valley in Maryland, we had an opportunity to stop by the Boordy Vineyard, operated by Philip Wagner, Editor of the Baltimore Sun, and were in for another surprise. The Editor's excellent wines brought back memories of provincial France. Started as a hobby, Wagner now produces wines in a limited quantity for some quality outlets in Baltimore, New York, Chicago and parts of the middle west.

Between the Bookends

A BOOK ABOUT TROUBLESOME PEOPLE AND IDEAS

Every cause has leading spokesmen to whom supporters turn for information, guidance, and reinforcement. One of today's leading conservatives (consequently a favorite target of the liberals) is William F. Buckley Jr. There is hardly anything political or economic on which Buckley has not offered a public opinion.

Author of two best-selling books on the conservative approach, Buckley has come forth with yet another, "Rumbles Left and Right" (G. P. Putnam's Sons, 200 Madison Ave., New York City, $4.95). Unlike his other books, this one is primarily about people rather than ideas. And when dealing with flesh and blood, Buckley is most articulate spokesman—is more articulate than ever.

People On Both Sides

In reading "Rumbles" one gets the idea that Buckley wrote it at least partly for fun. Writing about people with whom he disagrees is to him an exercise, and a very pleasant one. The field is wide open because, as the title suggests, he disagrees with many people on both sides of controversial questions.

Controversy is Buckley's stock-in-trade, and he sells it charmingly. He has a way of making his opponents like it, for he sees nothing wrong in giving credit to his opponent for those things for

Whence Hope Has All But Fled

Christian Economics

THE POWER OF THE PLANNERS
DEAN CHARLES C. ABBOTT
Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Virginia

What in the 20th century has come to be known (erroneously in my opinion) as the liberal program, is admittedly failing. By the "liberal" program I mean "big government," heavy taxation, big spending, faith in the omniscient wisdom of growing bureaucracy, increasing reliance on economic planning, great emphasis on materialistic measures as the tests of a good society, trust in the policy of containment as the principal method of combating communism, certainty that a dollar spent by a government agency is somehow more beneficial than a dollar spent by a private individual or company, conviction that if two wrongs don't make a right two regulations are always preferable to one and certainly better than none at all.

One of the chief causes for the deteriorating situation at home and abroad has been distrust of the free market process, disregard of the necessary functions profits perform in a free economy, and the disrepute into which profits have fallen in public school children in some state-wide spelling contests: abattoir, Bertillon, buses, caliber, gantlet (run the), gauntlet, (glove), liaison, mantel (fireplace), oligarchy, restaurateur, supersede and ukulele.

During the past 15 years or more, too many people have been willing to believe that profits are something illegitimately gouged out of the consumer or that they are some sort of surplus, as the Marxians argue, that rightfully belong to the workingman or, at best, some sort of happy accident incidental to the general production process that is not the result of the efforts of any identifiable man or group of men and hence might just as well be appropriated by anyone who has the power. Too many people have forgotten that the hope for profit is one of the most effective forces for stimulating economic action, and that the chief alternative to this inducement is force and fear. Too many people have been blind to the fact that, when resources are consumed in the production of goods and services, if a profit does not result the world is not wealthier than it was before; and if the world is not better off as a result of producing new goods, the disappearance of the resources that have been used up is difficult to justify, whether done by a socialist government or a business concern that is in the red. We have glossed over the fact that reinvested earnings form much the larger portion of business capital, upon which both jobs and technological advance depend, and if reinvested earnings do not grow, it is difficult to see how employment will increase or technological advance continue—both of which are now explicit national policies.

During the last 10 years, when national income increased more than 50 per cent and the compensation of employees more than 66 per cent, profits have showed no upward trend at all. As the Council of Economic Advisors pointed out in their annual report, during the postwar years:

"Corporate profits after taxes as a share of corporate sales were at their highest level in the 1947-50 period, when they were between 4.1 and 5.1 per cent annually. Since 1951, the profits-after-tax share has been lower, fluctuating between 2.6 and 3.6 per cent."—nearly a 50 per cent drop! The decline is less, but still very substantial, when after-tax profits are compared with income originating in corporations. And, as might be anticipated, when the trumpet of profits sounds an uncertain note, plant and equipment expenditures of business, with their vitalizing effects, fluctuate downward, despite the large cash flow of business concerns.

The alternative to the free market process and the profit system is economic planning. In a free or unplanned economy the consumers and the investors spend their dollars in the same way that voters cast their votes in a free political society—as they choose. Neither the economic nor the political consequences are foreordained. The results in the one case are determined in the market place, in the ballot box in the other.

The essence of freedom in economics, as in politics or religion or any type of human activity, is choice. Compel the parishioner to attend a particular church and there is no religious freedom. Allow the voter only one party and only one candidate, and political freedom vanishes. Permit the consumer only one product and one price line and he is no longer free, for he is no longer free to choose. Tell him how much he must spend and how much he must save, and he has lost another liberty. Offer the investor only one outlet for his savings, and he is not a free man, for he is not free to dispose of his property as he might wish. Tell the businessman that he is not free to raise prices, or to lower them, or to merge, or to add a new product line, or to drop a loss-producing service, and he ceases to be a free agent and becomes simply another digit in the economic plan.

Economic freedom depends on only one thing: whether I am allowed a choice as regards my own property and the property for which I am responsible. And the wider the range of choice I have, the greater is my liberty. We have learned to distrust and to condemn the political elections of the authoritarian state and the pre-planned election results of the Nazis and the Communists. We have not yet learned to distrust the pre-determined goals of economic planning—whether these goals be four per cent annual growth in GNP, supported agricultural prices, channeling of consumer expenditure into one area and away from another, restricted profits, or so many billions of new capital investment per year. We have been slow to comprehend that the criteria used by planners in selecting their goals in advance of the event are no more likely to reflect the actual wishes of the population in the economic than in the political arena.

The public mind has been slow to realize that politically regulated prices mean politically regulated profits, and that regulated profits mean politically determined property values. Thus a controlled economy means that determined by the government property values are ultimately regulators, not by the free play of the market and the wishes of consumers and investors. Perhaps, most important of all, we have been hesitant to realize that the planners necessarily come to acquire immeasurable power, not always because they planned it that way, though this has commonly been done—but because it is inherent in the planning process that power comes to reside in the planners.

Administration Civil Rights Strategy: Start in House, Vote Late July—And Avoid Early Senate Filibuster

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy Administration has picked the House of Representatives as the opening battleground on the highly controversial legislation to bar discrimination in public accommodations.

This strategy, mapped at an unannounced White House meeting between Democratic congressional leaders and the President, calls for the civil rights measure to be brought to the House for a show-down vote late in July.

It was decided to delay Senate action until after House consideration to avoid a filibuster that could logjam the major features of the President's legislative program, including his much-publicized tax cut.

By following the House-first strategy, administration leaders believe they can maneuver consideration in that chamber of the tax bill, Youth Conservation Corps, mass transportation proposal and federal aid to colleges ahead of the party-splitting civil rights' clash.

The unannounced decision to tackle the explosive civil rights issue in the House first came after Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., and House Democratic leader Carl Albert, Okla., voiced belief it will be easier to pass the legislation there than in the Senate.

They stressed that Southern opposition, which can stall civil rights legislation for weeks in the Senate by filibustering, cannot resort to this powerful device in the House. The two leaders also claimed the opposition lacks the votes in the House to defeat the measure.

Speaker McCormack suggested that "since it will take several weeks to hold hearings and obtain favorable action by the Judiciary and Rules Committees, we should delay a showdown until after the tax bill is disposed of in July. This delay will also give us the time needed to act on your other major legislative proposals."

"That plan sounds realistic to me," replied the President. "But what about the Rules Committee? That is always a problem."

"Not under present circumstances," replied McCormack. "There will be some delay in that committee, but we will have the votes to force action. The bill can be stopped only if the Republican members opposed it, and they can't afford to do that with presidential election facing them next year."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., fully concurred with McCormack. Also they agreed that it will take many weeks to bring the legislation to a vote in the Senate.

THE BIG MESS — Congression

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Will a man with real convictions on human relations that he believes would produce goodwill, peace and prosperity refuse to answer rational questions about his convictions?"

Answer: It is hard to believe that if a man has such convictions he would not want them examined and tested so that he would find out whether his convictions were false or reality. The fact that a man who professes to have convictions on improving the well-being of mankind of this earth will not be precise in explaining them is evidence that he is in error or that he really has no convictions at all and is only pretending to have convictions.

It is hard to believe that anybody who has convictions can keep still about them. It is to his self-interest, if nothing else, to get more people to understand the moral climate that will promote goodwill, peace and prosperity.

This man who believes his convictions are of value, knows that all true principles are in harmony with every other principle; that increased understanding and knowledge and accumulation of tools benefit everybody in the world. And it is hard to conceive of a man who had convictions not wanting to explain it to all who cared to listen.

It might be a pretty good rule not to pay much attention or have much confidence in the party who professes to have convictions as to how to have better education, better understanding of the laws of the universe but will not answer questions about them.

al investigators are making a powerful case for establishing a national research data processing and information retrieval center.

A special House Labor Subcommittee, probing the need for such an agency, has uncovered striking evidence that scientific research in the U.S. is increasingly bogging down in its own wasteful duplication.

The legislators' preliminary findings, submitted by Representative Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., chairman, contend that the failure of scientists to know what others have discovered or are working on has resulted in "wasteful duplication of research estimated at 50 per cent of our current $15 billion effort in research and development."

The survey, slated to be the basis for a sweeping investigation of the handling of research data, cites the following startling examples of duplication:

"The General Accounting Office reports two government agencies were working on the same type of missile for over a year before the duplication was discovered. The cost of duplication involving NASA's Atlas Agena B and the Air Force's Atlas Vega missile was $18 million.

"One major U.S. company spent over $250,000 and five years of research in an attempt to solve an electronic switching problem important to military communications. The team of topnotch mathematicians doing the research found the solution. However, they also discovered the solution was available in a manuscript six months before the research program started.

"A cloud-seeding experiment has recently been made by a government agency at a cost of $3 million. Shortly after the completion of the experiment, it was discovered that the same experiment was performed at an earlier date, costing only $256,000.

"In one of our ballistic missile programs, a special valve was needed to solve a tricky fluid-handling problem. After several months of research, the solution was realized. In addition, it was discovered the information on this valve existed before the research was started. In the meantime, missile firings were held up for several months.

"A leading manufacturing firm paid over $8 million for the invention of one of its products before it realized someone else had developed the same product.

"One Air Force project for storing and retrieving research reports rediscovered 3,000 reports worth $36 million."

"Much of this costly duplication could be avoided," declares the study. "If a national center is established to compile and disseminate all scientific and technical information. The root of this evil is that facts are accumulating at a far higher rate than they are being disseminated or compiled. Science is becoming bogged down in its own products."

The subcommittee produced some striking statistics on this chaotic state of affairs, as follows:

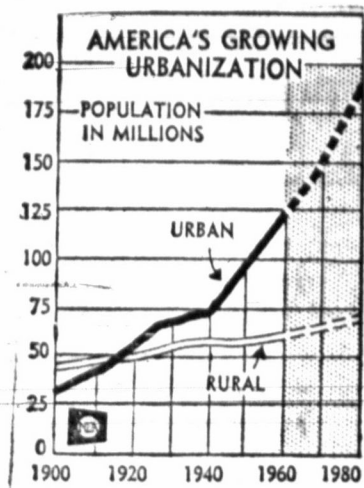

"During the last 33 years, there has been a 10-fold increase in the number of scientists and engineers; from 50,000 in 1930 to over a half million today. Indeed, one authority estimates that the number of scientists now living is greater than the number of all scientists who ever lived before. "The prodigious output flowing from this ocean of creative activity is overwhelming. Over 130,000 research and development projects per year are of government origin, representing two-thirds of the $15 billion our country now spends on research.

"We have over 120,000 technical journals in the world. Our patent office has over 7 million patents in its files. There are over 500 specialized science information services. Indeed we have reached a stage in the accumulation of knowledge where manual searching for information is becoming an impossible and extremely costly task."

The subcommittee, which will hold public hearings this summer to publicize this problem, is flying to Moscow next month to study Russia's data processing and information center.

Called VINITI, it is the largest technical and research library in the world. An intelligence report claims more U.S. research information, gathered from U.S. technical publications, is stored in this Soviet Center than in any institution in the U.S.

Members planning to make the trip are Representatives Pucinski, John Brademas, D-Ind., Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y., Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., and Paul Findley, R-Ill.

CITY FOLK—The growing divergence between rural and urban populations in the U.S. is strikingly shown in Newschart, above. Last census figure was for 1960; broken lines in shaded portion are estimates up to 1980. At that time, there will be as many people (185 million) living in cities as there was total population in 1962.

North America has more than 400 species of mammals, of which about one-fourth are mice.

New U.S. CoC President Thinks Businessmen Are Getting 'Soft'

WASHINGTON — Edwin P. Neilan, the new president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, believes that the average businessman "has become soft and is taking things a little easy; he needs to buckle down."

When he calls businessmen "soft," Neilan, a former semipro football player, explained that he means that they are not taking the initiative to mobilize local talent and resources to solve local problems.

He said he is convinced that a revival of grass roots initiative and a sense of responsibility is badly needed. He remarked, "Our cities and counties are being nationalized right out from under us."

Neilan is president and chairman of the board of the Bank of Delaware at Wilmington. He took office May 1 as president of the Chamber. He said he is determined to intensify Chamber programs to encourage businessmen to help their communities solve their own problems.

"Government must be kept at home as much as possible," Neilan said. "When it gets as far away as Washington, you just can't control it."

For the steady growth of the federal government and the budget, Neilan credits the career servants. "Never quote me as blaming the Kennedy or Eisenhower Administration for the big budget," Neilan said. "The creators of the budget are the career policymakers. They lose in one session of Congress or one year of an Administration —and they get it all back the next year."

Neilan was born on his grandfather's farm in Mason County, Mich., October 24, 1905, and grew up in Leeds County, Iowa and Omaha, Nebraska.

He graduated from Omaha Central High School and attended the University of Omaha for two years. To earn money, he apprenticed as a carpenter for a year. His family moved to Texas, and he received a BA in business administration from Rice Institute in 1928.

He played six years of semipro football as a tackle and end for the Houston Athletic Club.

Neilan's banking career began during his senior year at Rice when he became a railroad analyst in the Investment Department of the Houston Bank & Trust Company. In 1933 he became chief trust examiner with the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, and between 1936 and 1940 he served as a field examiner for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Philadelphia. He joined the Bank of Delaware, then known as the Security Trust Company, as associate trust officer in 1940.

Neilan was promoted to Executive Vice President in 1952. In 1956, he became President and in 1959 was elevated to Chairman of the Board and President.

He married Julia Ellen Motheral, a native of Texas, in 1929. They have no children.

The Neilans live on Holly Farm in Bear, Del., a few miles south of Wilmington. Neilan's hobbies include swimming and growing fruits and vegetables. He swims a quarter of a mile in his pool before breakfast each morning, from as early as the first week of May to as late as mid-October.

Neilan has been a member of the National Chamber's Board of Directors since April 28, 1959.
