Like yesterday's science fiction, solar energy is turning into something real today, but it was better known to some of our forefathers than it is to our contemporaries. Drying in the sun was one of their easiest and cheapiest methods of processing foods for future use, especially fruits.

Now, in the Bicentennial year of the nation, they say that use of solar energy is just around the corner for many things. For example, a fast-food chain reportedly is planning to build an experimental hamburger place which will derive its heating power from solar collectors on the roof.

This should be the ultimate test. If the sun can be used to process a hamburger, it surely will have a place in American life.

A lot of people not remotely associated with energy industries have known that the sun had vast potential, however. Remember when you could take the thick bottom from a soft drink bottle and use it to concentrate a sun ray on a piece of paper and set it afire?

But, getting back to the hamburger, this purely Texan Staple, has literally swept the world since World War II. Prior to 1945, not many people "up north" knew what a real hamburer was. We recall ordering what the menu said was a "hamburger sandwich" in a Providence, R.I., establishment, and it turned out to be a small, almost round patty of ground meat which had been charred to a crisp, served with an open bun, with a slice of onion and a dab of mustard. Nothing else.

"Bet you thought you couldn't find a real hamburger up here," beamed a fellow from Boston. We assured him that we now had solid proof.

Athens, Tex., lays claim to producing the first hamburger as it is known today. Some fellow down there had accumulated quite a following by serving a flattened ground beef patty in a bun, surrounded by lettuce, pickles, onions and mustard. As the story goes, he was encouraged to take his product to the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. He set up a stand there, and his new type sandwiches scored a hit.

They became a staple in this part of the country within a few years, but it took the Yankees a long time to catch on.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, May 13, the 134th day of 1976. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanent English settlement in America, Jamestown, Va., was founded.

On this date:

In 1809, forces under Napoleon Bonaparte captured Vienna.

In 1846, the U.S. Congress declared that a state of war existed between the United States and Mexico.

In 1865, the last engagement of the Civil War took place at Palo Pinto, Tex.

In 1915, the United States protested to Germany against the sinking of the British liner Lusitania and the loss of American lives.

In 1940, Queen Wilhelmina and Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands fled to London ahead of Nazi invaders.

In 1974, Italians, voting in a referendum, chose to keep a law permitting divorce after a five-year separation.

Ten years ago: British seamen rejected a personal plea by Prime Minister Harold Wilson to call off a scheduled nationwide shipping strike.

Five years ago: Vietnam peace talks in Paris entered their fourth year with a continued deadlock.

One year ago: U.S. Marines, warships and planes were placed on alert in the Western Pacific after the seizure of an Americna merchant ship by Cambodians.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the French island of Martinique reported to Rhode Island that Martinique had received 100,000 pounds of powder and some firearms and was prepared to exchange it for American produce.

FORD SETS FOUR YEAR GOAL

Regulatory Reforms Urged

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford asked Congress today to untangle 40 years of red tape and give American industry "a declaration of independence from the needless regulations of government."

In a speech prepared for a meeting of small-business men, Ford said he is sending Congress legislation providing comprehensive regulatory reform over the next four years.

He did not say what specific changes the legislation contains.

The White House scheduled a briefing on regulatory changes later in the day.

Ford called for "progress toward real reform" in transportation and agriculture in 1977; mining, heavy manufacturing and public utilities in 1978; light manufacturing and construction in 1979; and in communications, finances, insurance and other service industries in 1980.

The President said the legislation will require a comprehensive review with four major goals:

1. To assure that government policies do not infringe unnecessarily on individual choice and initiative or on the free market place.

2. To find better ways to achieve "our valid economic, health and safety goals at minimal costs."

3. To ensure that government policies and programs benefit the public interest rather than special interests.

4. To assure that regulatoy policies are equitably enforced.

Ford urged Congress to get started on untangling "40 years' work of bureaucratic red tape" and declared:

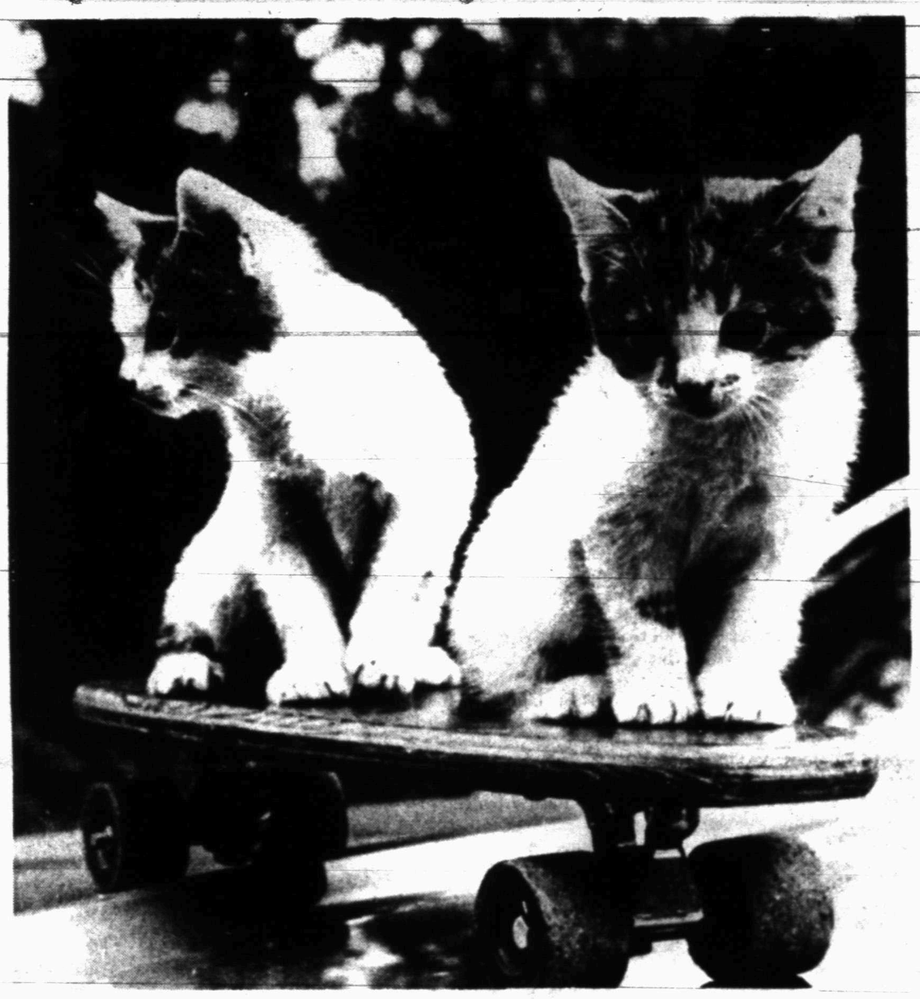

"The government has grown too large, too powerful, too costly, too remote, and yet too deeply involved in the daily lives of the American people."

He said he is "issuing a declaration of independence from the needless regulations of government" and asked the representatives of small businesses "to join me in new struggle for freedom in America."

The President said he looks forward to broad bipartisan support and swift enactment of his legislation and pledged administrative efforts meanwhile to reduce unnecessary and burdensome regulations and to cut back on requirements for paperwork and red tape.

Ford said Sens. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Reps. John Anderson, R-Ill., and Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., have been in the forefront of proposing regulatory reforms.

He said he hopes to work with them in securing passage of his legislation.

FOR FIVE-YEAR PERIOD

Carter Calls For Agreement To Halt All Nuclear Tests

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Jimmy Carter today called for a five-year U.S.-Soviet agreement to halt nuclear testing for all purposes, including peaceful development.

He also proposed a World Energy Conference, sponsored by the United Nations and patterned after meetings on food supply and population.

The former Georgia governor, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, spoke at a conference on nuclear energy and world order. The conference was not an official U.N. function.

"Nuclear energy must be at the very top of the list of global challenges that call for new forms of international action," he said, while repeating his position that "U.S. dependence on nuclear power should be kept to the minimum necessary to meet our needs."

Carter called for a worldwide, voluntary moratorium on the purchase and sale of nuclear fuel enrichment and reprocessing plants because "highly enriched uranium can be used to produce weapons and because plutonium, when separated from the remainder of the spent fuel, can also be used to produce nuclear weapons."

He proposed "centralized multinational enrichment facilities" and said that "the first U.S. reprocessing plant, which is now nearing completion in Barnwell, S.C., could become the first multinational reprocessing facility under the auspices of the International Atomic Energy Agency."

Discussing nuclear weapons, Carter said a U.S.-Soviet agreement reached in April and awaiting President Ford's signature is "a wholly inadequate step beyond the limited test ban." The treaty would ban nuclear explosions above 150 kilotons.

"The longer effective arms reduction is postponed," he said, the more likely it is that other nations will be encouraged to develop their own nuclear capability.

"There is one step that can be taken at once. The United States and the Soviet Union should conclude an agreement prohibiting all nuclear explosions for a period of five years, whether they be weapons tests or so-called 'peaceful' nuclear explosions, and encourage all other countries to join."

In Washington, the White House denied a report that Ford is holding off signing the April treaty because of fears it would hurt his chances in Tuesday's Michigan primary.

Carter, who is a graduate of the U.S. Naval academy and studied nuclear physics while in the Navy, has said previously that the nation's goal should be the worldwide elimination of all nuclear weapons, but today's speech was his most detailed position to date on what steps to take to achieve the ultimate end.

He said he was "aware of the Soviet objections to a comprehensive treaty that does not allow peaceful nuclear explosions." But he said: "I believe the United States and the world community could persuade the USSR to dispose of this issue and accept a comprehensive test ban."

MORE ITALIANS EVACUATED

Rocky Tours Quake Area

UDINE, Italy (AP) — Italian officials today ordered the evacuation of another 2,250 people from four villages in earthquake-devastated northern Italy because of the danger of landslides, adding to the more than 100,000 rain-drenched refugees now huddled in tent cities.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, arriving for a tour of the disaster area, paid a half-hour visit under driving rain to the Alpine foothills village of Osoppo, a town destroyed by Thursday's massive earthquake.

Survivors mobbed him, trying to shake his hand. Visibly moved, Rockefeller told the victims: "It's so hard. I'm so sorry. You have been through a lot."

The vice president's wife, Happy, toured another section of the tent city, also shaking hands and comforting survivors. "You have been through a tragedy. You are great people," she said.

On his arrival at the Aviano NATO base 30 miles from this provincial capital, the vice president praised the government for doing a "splendid job" in reacting to the quake. The Italian government relief efforts have come under some fire from opposition newspapers and some survivors.

Rockefeller and his wife, Happy, accompanied by U.S. Ambassador John Volpe and Italian officials, flew over the area in an Italian helicopter, then landed at the tent city.

The vice president embraced and kissed many survivors and went into some tents to speak with those too weak to come out.

"He kissed me twice, he embraced me. He cares for us and we should feel better," said 73-year-old Lena Casasola, a widow, tears rolling down her face. "I lived alone. I lost the only thing I had in life — my home."

"We are in bad shape," one survivor told the vice president. "We don't want to live in barracks. We need our homes and we thank you for your aid."

"I know," the vice president replied.

Rockefeller was greeted on his return to Udine by a crowd of residents who applauded and shouted "Hey, Rocky."

The vice president is also expected to discuss American aid for the victims of the quake. The United States has spent more than $600,000 so far in supplies, medicine and foodstuffs, American officials said. President Ford's proposal to spend another $25 million is now before Congress.

WTC To Confer Degrees On 121 Graduates Tonight

Associate degrees will be confered upon 121 graduates at Western Texas College in commencement exercises at 8 o'clock tonight.

R.J. Becker of Denver, Colo., president of Chevron Oil Co., Western Division, will be guest speaker for the program, to be held in the Central Courtyard. Diplomas will be presented by William A. Jones, president of the WTC Board of Trrustees.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Thomas Jordan, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church, with the benediction by the Rev. David Robertson, pastor of the First United Methodist Church.

Candidates for the Associate in Arts degree will be introduced by Dr. Ben Brock, WTC vice president. Dr. Gene McClurg, Dean of Occupational Education and Technology, will introduce candidates for the Associate in Applied Science degree.

Students receiving the Associate in Arts degree will be:

Sellars Rites Set Friday

C.C. Sellars, 68, of Dunn, died at 9 p.m. yesterday at his home. He was born May 22, 1908 in Coleman Co. He was a retired farmer and had been a long time resident of Kent and Scurry Counties.

Funeral service is set for 2 p.m. Friday at the Bell Seale Chapel. Rev. Buck Hatfield will officiate and burial will be in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

He married Dell Marie Cumbie, Sept. 24, 1931 in Knott. She survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Norma J. Sellars of the home and Wanda Illene Coffey of Sweetwater; two sons, Michael D. Sellars of the home and Chris Sellars of Canyon; a sister, Mrs. Oma Blythe of Rockdale and four brothers, Walter Sellars, Clint Sellars and Grady Sellars, all of Snyder and Elmer Sellars of San Angelo and seven grandchildren.

Sales Taxes On Energy Opposed

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. John Wilson and his frequent adversary, the president of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co., agreed on one thing today: hard-pressed gas and electricity customers shouldn't have their misery compounded with sales taxes.

Wilson, D-La Grange, and Bill Greehey of Lo-Vaca testified before members of three House committees whose work could determine whether there will be a special legislative session on utility rates.

The committees on energy resources, state affairs and ways and means are trying to learn whether it would be worthwhile for Gov. Dolph Briscoe to call such a session.

"Whether you think the sales tax amounts to anything, at $1.97 (per 1,000 cubic feet of gas) it makes a difference to us," Wilson said. He added that revenue from the 5 per cent state-local sales tax was rising by an estimated $120 million over the current two-year fiscal period because of higher utility costs.

"Whether you call it 'new taxes' or not, it is new tax revenue coming from the pockets of those least able to afford it... We don't need it with a $2.6 billion surplus," Wilson said.

The chairman of ways and means, Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, said at the start of the hearings Tuesday that repealing the sales tax on utilities would deprive cities of more than $20 million a year in needed revenue.

Greehey also recommended elimination of the sales tax, as well as a reduction in the amounts city-owned utilities add to bills in lieu of property taxes as a means of shoring up their general funds.

He supported the Texas Railroad Commission's proposal that would base gas well allowables on what purchasers say their needs are. This would replace the present use of producer estimates of output as the basis for allowables.

This, Greehey said, would reduce obligations under "take or pay" contracts that result in purchasers paying for high-priced new gas they do not need.

Greehey said the take or pay requirements have "cost our customers as much as 11 cents per 1,000 cubic feet in a given month."

He also said gas should be taxed at so many cents per 1,000 cubic feet instead of a per cent of value, as it is now, even though this would not reduce costs to consumers.

Greehey denied that Lo-Vaca's 100 per cent pass-through had caused it to pay more than the market warranted for gas and had bid up the price other companies must pay.

"In some instances we matched the highest price others bid on a package of gas, but we have not exceeded their bid," he said.

Colorado City Blast Kills 1, Injures Another

COLORADO CITY, Tex. (AP) — An oil tank on the Col-Tex refinery tank farm one mile southwest of here exploded while being dismantled by two Colorado City men Wednesday afternoon, leaving one dead and the other injured.

Johnny Lee McKinney, 20, died en route to Webb Air Force base at Big Spring. He was to have been transported to Brooke Army Hospital in San Antonio for burns treatment.

His father, John McKinney, 49, was in a stable condition at Root Memorial Hospital here Wednesday night.

The two were cutting a steel stairway from a tank when the explosion occurred, officials said.

Colorado City Fire Chief Pat McKinney, who is not related to the victims, said the dead man was on top of the tank cutting away steel beams which support the stairway when the explosion occurred.

He said the cutting torch apparently touched off fumes at the top of the tank, setting off the explosion.

Johnny Lee McKinney was thrown about 30 feet from the tank by the explosion and suffered burns over 60 per cent of his body.

The fire burned late into Wednesday night.

VIEWPOINT

The Great Disillusion

While the Texas Legislature was pondering its creation last year, this newspaper expressed misgivings about the proposed State Utilities Commission. Now that it has been created and is poised to begin its work, there is no evidence that the picture has changed.

Indeed, more potential pitfalls are apparent. As the commission has moved to establish itself and prepare for full operation, it has taken on the character of a typical government bureau, which is bad news. Most of its proposed rules smack of Washingtonism, of which this country already has absorbed an over-dose.

Rules that would penalize utilities firms for taking active roles as business citizens in the communities they serve are under fire because even the most elementary assessment indicates that they would cost the consumer more, rather than save him money. A closer look indicates that many of the proposed rules point toward eventual nationalization of the utilities. And if the state commission figures it will have a significant role when that occurs, it really is dreaming.

But the sad fact of the matter is that the commission is not likely to add one British Thermal Unit to the energy supply and it is not likely to save the consumer one cent on his utility bills. Instead, the consumer is certain to wind up with an extra deficit---paying for the operation of the commission with its endless hearings and other red tape type functions.

The only hope the consumer has for more energy and lower prices is for the governments---federal and state---to get their hands off and let industries that possess the proven expertise get on with the business they are in. Those looking to the state and federal governments for the solution are headed for king-sized disillusion.

Toiling For Taxes

No one is going to notice any difference in his paycheck, but May 1 was "Tax Freedom Day." That was the day, according to calculations by the Tax Foundation, Inc., that Americans finished working for the government(s).

Last year, "Tax Freedom Day" was April 30, and the year before that May 4. It moved back in 1975 and 1976 because of the tax cuts enacted by Congress.

It takes two hours and 39 minutes out of an eight-hour working day to pay for all taxes in 1976, says the Foundation. That breaks down into one hour and 41 minutes for federal taxes and 58 minutes for state and local taxes.

In terms of the amount of work to earn the money, taxes are by far the largest item in the average family budget. Housing and household expenses, for example, are one hour and 32 minutes; food and drink one hour and five minutes; transportation 39 minutes; medical care 25 minutes, and recreation 19 minutes.

Kissinger Says Trip Beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today new U.S. policies toward Africa have reduced the possibility of another Cuban intervention there.

Reporting to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his recent trip to black Africa, Kissinger declared: "We made, I believe, an immense and welcome impact in Africa on those ... who truly care for peace, independence and justice."

He said an important result of his trip was agreement by a number of African leaders that outside powers should not deal directly with liberation movements in southern Africa.

This means, the secretary said, that "I believe that it is becoming more unlikely that other African countries will invite Cuban troops."

He said Cuban participation in the Angolan civil war was considered an inevitable development by African leaders, something beyond their power to prevent.

"I believe many African leaders now see that there is an alternative," Kissinger said, "and that they can coalesce around a peaceful approach which will deprive the Soviets and Cubans of any plausible reason for remaining in force in Africa."

Kissinger, who returned from Africa May 7, reviewed his two-week trip and the programs he outlined in the six nations he visited.

These included pledges of economic development support for the now-underdeveloped countries as well as political, moral and economic backing for nationalist movements in southern Africa.

Concerning the growing possibility of a major conflict in white-ruled Rhodesia, Kissinger said that "the possibilities of a negotiated solution have been greatly enhanced" by his trip.

He said many African leaders now tend to believe "that we share their aspirations that justice, self-determination and prosperity spread throughout the continent."

No longer, he said, do moderate African officials feel the United States is not interested in their future.

Two More Hughes Wills Filed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wills purportedly written by Howard Hughes are popping up from coast to coast, and a long-time employe of the late billionaire says: "I think it's becoming apparent there are a lot of people who can write like Howard Hughes."

At last count Wednesday, there were five documents claimed by various people to be the one and only authentic Hughes will.

The atmosphere turned carnival Wednesay, when two "wills" were delivered to the Clark County courthouse, and a New York newspaper said it received another in the mail.

Further adding to the hubbub was a claim that the first and most seriously considered will was a gag.

A genealogist hired by distant relatives of Hughes told a Chicago news conference Wednesday he had contacted a person in Salt Lake City who claimed to be one of five forgers who wrote the document as a joke.

However, William A. Jones, of Nashville, Tenn., was vague about "the person."

Clark County officials found the situation less than humorous.

"To the public at large it may be a carnival, to the people who may be sending this stuff in it may be a carnival, but certainly it's not a carnival to the court or any of its attaches," County Probate Commissioner Russell S. Waite said.

A man identifying himself as Grover Walker of Las Vegas walked into the county clerk's office Wednesday accompanied by three apparent bodyguards and filed will No. 3.

Walker said the will was delivered to him by Richard Robard Hughes, who claims to be Hughes' illegitimate son. Joseph Michael Brown, who changed his legal name to Richard Robard Hughes, claimed last year that he and his "father" communicated by tiny radio transmitters implanted in their heads.

Later Wednesday a document printed in green was sent to the manager of the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, where Hughes lived in seclusion between 1966 and 1970. A cover letter with will No. 4 was signed "Howard Hughes Jr." It listed his return address as the Oasis Motel in Banning, Calif.

"The spelling errors are unreal," said Asst. County Clerk Elda Hanks, referring to that purported will.

The alleged junior Hughes said, "I do not want to clame (sic) any of my father's inheritance." The document leaves all of the money except a few million dollars "to the government of the United States to give jobs for the people."

Hughes' fortune, estimated between $1.5 billion and $2.5 billion, may be the largest probate case in American history.

House Expected To OK Budget Ceiling Today

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears ready to settle on a $413.3-billion federal budget ceiling that assumes continuation of individual income tax cuts through all of 1977.

But the congressional ceiling for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 is $17.5 billion above what President Ford wants and could trigger another monetary confrontation between the Democratic Congress and the Republican White House.

The Senate approved the budget ceiling by a vote of 65 to 29 on Wednesday and there were indications the House would give the plan final approval today.

The measure is based on the assumption that temporary individual tax cuts in effect this year will be continued through 1977.

The floor manager for the bill, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, quickly warned Ford against touching off a budget battle with Congress.

Moss told the Senate that efforts by Ford to use a veto to cut Congress' spending closer to his own $395.8 billion proposal would bring "a long summer of futile confrontation between Congress and the White House. If the President wants political confrontation instead of a sound fiscal policy these differences can become a battlefield and the public will be the loser."

Democratic backers of the budget legislation contend the higher spending figure, including $6.3 billion to be used to create 1.1 million more jobs, is needed to maintain economic recovery, but Ford contends higher spending risks more inflation.

The $413.3 billion spending target envisions a federal deficit at the end of the fiscal year of $50.8 billion, compared with a deficit estimated at $44.6 billion under Ford's budget proposal.

The ceiling is part of Congress' new machinery for setting its own federal budget rather than simply acting on presidential proposals.

The $413.3 billion is broken down into 17 spending ceilings, which congressional committees and then the full House and Senate are to meet in approving regular spending bills.

When the new fiscal year starts Oct. 1 Congress will set final, binding limits on the spending it can approve.

The $100.8 billion target for defense spending included in the Congressional measure is only $300 million below Ford's proposal.

But Congress included major increases of $23 billion for education, training and employment — 5 billion more than Ford proposed; $3.9 billion for health — $2.4 billion above Ford's figure; $15.7 billion for energy and resources — $2 billion above Ford's figure.

Congress' ceiling also include $19.5 billion for veterans benefits, which is $2.3 billion above Ford's proposal, and $139.3 billion for income security, $2.2 billion above Ford's figure.

Magazine At WTC Rated First Class

The Western Texas College fall magazine, Phase Five, recently received a first class rating from Associated Collegiate Press, national honor service in Minneapolis, Minn.

Editors were Paula Cornoyer of Sweetwater and Paul Gilbert of Snyder.

The publication earned 1590 total points in the general magazine, junior college division.

Marks of "excellent" were given in editorial standards and production, and "very good" in content balance, features, cover design, editing, makeup and layout.

Adviser was Mike McBride, assistant professor of journalism.

Burglary Is Reported Here

City police reported the burglary of a house that resulted in the theft of two items with a total value of approximately $135.

Police reported that a tape player-radio combination and a .22 caliber pistol had been taken in the burglary of the house owned by Pearline Selmon in the 1100 block of Twenty-ninth Street. The value of the tape player-radio combination was estimated at $100 and the .22 caliber pistol was valued at $35.

The burglary is believed to have occurred sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m., Wednesday. Entry was made into the house through a northeast window.

British forces retreated from North Carolina in 1781 and surrendered in Virginia.

WTC's Golf Course Closed To Visitors

The golf course now under construction on the campus of Western Texas College has been closed to all visitors until furhter notice, Tom Jones, Director of Grounds Maintenance, has announced.

This includes all traffic, whether on foot, bicycles, motorcycles, or cars. Only authorized personnel are to be on the grounds.

The golf course is due to be finished this fall, Jones said, with six of the greens planted and the remaining three to be planted within the next two weeks. Two of the fairways and tee boxes now have grass germinating and the others are being planted as rapidly as they can be prepared, Jones added.

By closing the course to visitors, the maintenance personnel can step up their activities. The irrigation system will be programmed to operate automatically, for example, without the possibility of wetting visitors, and time now spent repairing damage caused by vehicles and visitors can be spent on preparation of the grounds.

Fishing will no longer be allowed in the lake and chemical weed control efforts will be intensified.

"We request the cooperation of all local residents in this matter," Jones said. "If the course is to be completed on schedule, we feel we must close the area to visitors. 'No Trespassing' signs have been erected and we ask that they be respected for the good of all."

Workshops In Reading Scheduled

ABILENE—Two reading workshops for school personnel are scheduled during the first summer term at Hardin-Simmons University as a part of the newly instituted professional certificate program for reading specialists.

Dr. Jack Longbotham, chairman of the Division of Education, said those attending one or both workshops can take several approaches, and can earn up to six hours of graduate credit.

From June 1-18, Dr. Esther Plank will conduct sessions on Development of Reading and Language. This course will be held from 8-12:30 daily, with a laboratory period included.

From June 21-July 7, Dr. Betty Morgan will offer "Teaching Reading in the Content Fields," also from 8-12:30 and with a lab included.

Persons attending either or both workshops may also enroll for an afternoon course during the June 1-18 period. Two courses will be offered from 1-4:30 p.m. Dr. Longbotham will teach Child and Adolescent Development, while Dr. Lois Martin will teach Advanced Educational Psychology.

The workshop to be conducted by Dr. Plank will stress the significance of acquisition and development of language, experiences, visual and auditory perception as the foundation for the development of basic reading processes and skills, Dr. Longbotham said.

The workshop conducted by Dr. Morgan will stress development of reading skills and abilities viewed as a continuing process fused with the teaching of content.

The reading specialist program approved this past winter at H-SU is designed to cope with serious reading and writing problems now being recognized among school children across the nation, Dr. Longbotham said.

"Our purpose is to prepare teachers to handle these problems," he said. "Dr. Plank and Dr. Morgan not only have vast experience in school reading programs but they are competent in the field of assessing reading difficulties and prescribing remedial efforts."

The study program at H-SU leads to a master of education degree and to certification by the State Board of Education.

Butz Hints Of New Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he's prepared to offer "new evidence" to a Senate subcommittee trying to determine if former Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway used improper pressure to win permission to expand his Colorado ski resort on federal land.

But Butz, scheduled to testify today as the Interior Committee's subcommittee on the environment resumes its hearings, wasn't saying in advance exactly what the "new evidence" would be.

Subcommittee chairman Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., said in an interview that he's got no idea what's on Butz' mind — unless Butz plans to follow through on an earlier claim that he's prepared to list members of Congress who have sought to influence Forest Service decisions.

The panel is attempting to determine if Callaway, as Army secretary and later as chairman of President Ford's election committee, used improper influence to get the Forest Service to approve expansion of his Crested Butte ski resort onto a nearby federal mountain.

The service, which is part of the Agriculture Department, tentatively approved the expansion in December, overruling a preliminary recommendation against the expansion.

Haskell recessed the hearings last month after Callaway protested that the panel hadn't called his original accusers to testify.

Those witnesses, Crested Butte Mayor Tom Glass, Gunnison County, Colo., Judge John Levin and Myles Arber, a Crested Butte newspaperpublisher, are scheduled to testify following Butz.

Haskell has said the three first came to his office in the fall of 1975 to accuse Callaway of trying to pressure the Forest Service into approving the expansion of his ski resort.

Butz became involved when a panel investigator said a note in Butz' handwriting was found on an Interior Department memo urging that the Forest Service be encouraged to approve the resort expansion.

Truck Fire Extinguished

City firemen reported a minor truck fire that occurred yesterday at 11 a.m., approximately 10 miles west of Snyder on the Lamesa Highway.

The firemen said that the two left rear tires of an oil rig pulling unit had caught fire. The fire was extinguished and no one was reported injured.

Leonid Brezhnev Meets With Vets

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party general secretary Leonid Brezhnev, wearing his Army uniform and new marshal's star for the nation's highest military rank, has met with surviving wartime comrades of the 18th Army.

The 69-year-old Soviet leader congratulated the veterans Wednesday for their "huge contribution to the victory over fascism and your work during the years of peace."

College Board Sets Meeting

The board of trustees, Scurry County Junior College District, will meet in special session at 7 a.m. Friday, May 14, 1976. The meeting will be held in the board room, and the purpose of the meeting will be to consider the welding shop construction and to discuss the 1976-77 budget and personnel matters.

Piano Recital Presented

Mrs. James B. Lamb presented her students in a spring recital Monday night, May 10, 1976 at the Fine Arts Theater of Western Texas College. Those performing at the piano were Katrina Humble, Laura Bruben, Anne Beuerlein, Notosha Bills, Mary Lynn Crawford, Sarah Lynn Fagin and Debbie Inman. Performing on the clarinet was Martha Womack, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Bob Womack. Six of the students were presented their National Guild of Piano Teachers certificates and pins after the program.

A reception was held in honor of the students at which time Martha Womack, Mrs. Lamb's clarinet student, received special recognition for winning four first place medals in various solo events during the past year.

Those attending the recital were families and friends of the performers.

THE CHARLESTON IS BACK!—This group of gals will be dancing the Charleston Tuesday, May 18 when Elaine Lambert presents her spring dance recital. The recital will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Snyder High School. Pictured are (from left) Eva Williamson, Wanda Wilson, Tracy Brice, Mary Claire Reed, Nancy LaRoux, and Rylene Stoker. The public is invited.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a Kelsey hand where bridge logic and a little bit of luck bring home a contract that most players would miss.

West opens the 10 of hearts. You win and play two more rounds of trumps. West follows with the nine and eight while East sheds a club and a diamond. You take a successful club finesse (the little bit of luck), cash dummy's ace of clubs and ruff a club. West follows to all three clubs and produces the six and jack of diamonds when you cash your ace and king of that suit.

At this point in time you have a cinch play for your contract provided that West has at least five spades to the ace for his vulnerable overcall.

Just play your king of spades. West takes his ace. If he continues with the queen of spades he will collect three spades and then give you a ruff and discard. If he leads a low spade to his partner's jack, East will cash a diamond and give you that needed ruff and discard.

Ask the Jacobys

Here is another question about honors in rubber bridge. Some people insist that they must be claimed before the first trick is played to.

The answer is that it is unnecessary for declarer to claim them until the hand is over and both improper and unnecessary for a defender to claim them early.

Solar Reality Signs Emerge

NEW YORK (AP) — "Use of solar energy to supply fuel needs of small residences and large buildings showed many signs during 1975 of suddenly evolving from the experimental stage into an important worldwide commercial reality," says Electrical Marketing.

But, it adds, "as the situation stands now, it would seem the export market for solar heating equipment to a world market even more starved than the U.S. for energy may be far more important than the domestic market."

Snake Owner Says They're Nice Pets

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Louise Milko says snakes have been getting bad publicity since the days of Adam and Eve. She maintains, however, that snakes make nice pets.

Mrs. Milko should know — she has 33 boa constrictors.

She bought her first pet boa from a pet store, and the second from a Connecticut Public Television auction three years ago.

The 8½-foot mother and 9½-foot father snakes took three years to reproduce. Mrs. Milko said she plans to sell the 31 baby snakes, but only to people who will take proper care of them.

"I feel strongly that they should not be sold to someone who will get tired of them like an Easter duck or something like that," she said.

Mrs. Milko said the baby snakes are able to get along on their own after they are born. They don't look like "baby" snakes, but like miniature adult snakes, she said.

Mrs. Milko, whose interest in snakes goes back to her childhood, encourages her children to like them.

Much of her time is devoted to changing the bad image she said snakes have acquired over the years. Since Adam and Eve, she said, snakes have always been spoken of "in connection with something bad."

She gives demonstration lectures to schools and camps emphasizing the crawling creatures' good points. Mrs. Milko said she teaches children at a young age not to fear snakes. She says that way they won't grow into adults who have been "brainwashed" by the snake's bad press.

Coast To Coast

By Dick Maurice

More a legend in his own time than ever, TRUMAN CAPOTE will next shine as a movie star with his role in "Murder By Death," which also boasts ALEC GUINNESS, JAMES COCO, PETER FALK, ELSA LANCHESTER, and MAGGIE SMITH amongst the cast. The diminutive little writer who brought us "Breakfast at Tiffany's" and "In Cold Blood" is currently working on a new novel and continues to be as urbane as ever. "I'm really not jarred by anything except a certain kind of middle-class pretentiousness," confesses the Pied Piper of the upper classes. "I've always said I can go first class or third. But I could never go second." Truman, a big favorite with such chic and beautiful people as JACQUELINE ONASSIS, LEE RADZIWILL, and GLORIA VANDERBILT COOPER, won't be taking economy flights for a long time.

It's been no secret that the frequent problems in the LEE and FARRAH FAWCETT-MAJORS marriage have stemmed from the competitiveness of their careers. Well, as another illustration that all is well in the Majors' household, (the first being Lee's full-page advertisement in a Hollywood trade paper denying any marital rifts) he's made sure that Farrah and LINDSAY WAGNER have met and become friends. Lindsay, of course, is TV's "Bionic Woman," a character created on Lee's own series, and before any whispers could start Farrah and Lindsay became frequent shopping partners and eventually good friends. Obviously Lee is going to make sure no rumors start about his marriage.

JIMMY WALKER, the happy go lucky "Jay Jay" on "Good Times" is under a lot of pressure by his peers for his indifferent attitude toward signing autographs for his fans. One actor friend of Jimmy's has been quite vocal in his remarks that while signing autographs isn't always convenient Jimmy should at least fulfill the requests of youngsters. "Kids have very few heroes to look up to these days." The actor says, "And if you are one of them, you shouldn't slough them off."

If you're into collecting ELVIS PRESLEY's diet and fitness hints, you can take note that his new passion is for handball, the better to firm up the flab and to tone up his generally lacking health.

GEORGE KENNEDY is confiding to his friends that unless the never ending problems that have plagues his "Blue Knight" series from the outset are promptly resolved, he'll have his legal representatives initiate an effort to get him out of his contract. Reportedly, members of the show's crew are having to all but walk out in order to get their paychecks, the production schedule demanded of them is outrageous and the morale is at an all-time low for any TV series.

Speaking of the Kennedy's, a near fatal accident has made Mrs. George Kennedy one of those actively working to pass anti-choke legislation for restaurants. She almost choked to death on a piece of steak in a Hollywood restaurant recently, and said she was saved only by the presence of a trained nurse in the restaurant. Now she's trying to convince everyone that every restaurant should train its employees in anti-choke precedures. She may have a valid point since many people do die that way.

MCA Records took out a record $25 million insurance policy on ELTON JOHN's life.

HELEN REDDY's husband, Jeff Ward, gave her a surprise birthday gift of 5 acres of land in New Zealand. The only problem is, Helen's kept so busy she can't make time to go see her present.

CANDICE BERGEN says she's always had a BRENDA STARR complex as a child. And that's why she loves her work as a photo journalist more than her acting.

Swedish Looking For Greta Garbo

KATRINEHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Swedish judicial authorities are looking for Greta Garbo.

The world famous Swedish movie star is entitled to receive a legacy of $760 from her late uncle.

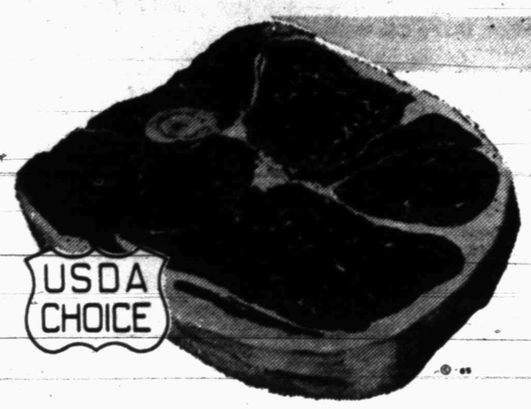

When the district court in this small mid-Sweden town failed to trace Miss Garbo's U.S. address after the estate inventory it simply advertised for her in the official gazette.

If she does not appear within five years from the date of the advertisement she will have failed to secure her part of the legacy. An equal amount will go to eleven other inheritors.

"We are convinced that contact will be established with Garbo in one way or another she is not especially unknown," Per Danielsson, executor, said.

ABA Issues Statement On New Credit Conditions

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When a divorced woman goes to a bank in search of credit she would be wise to bring along a copy of the court order stipulating the size and terms of the alimony she receives.

Who says so? The American Bankers Association, which has just completed a statement on some of the new credit conditions introduced recently because of laws, social pressures, and changes in banker attitudes.

The new conditions, some of them relatively minor in themselves, add up to a significantly new credit world for the 15 million divorced or widowed women, a world that many of them still might not understand.

One of the biggest changes is that regular payments awarded to a woman in a divorce action can be used to demonstrate creditworthiness. Before last October, most creditors automatically discounted its importance.

A provision in the Equal Credit Opportunity Act changed that. Creditors now must consider alimony, child support and maintenance payments in assessing a woman's ability to effectively handle credit.

And then, as there is in most matters matrimonial, there is the other side of the story.

The woman is liable for debts taken on jointly with the husband, whether she is divorced or widowed, although she is not liable, of course, for debts the man took on individually.

"If your ex-husband's bad credit history damages your chances of getting credit, you should be prepared to present the creditor reasons why that should not reflect on your personal willingness or ability to pay," the ABA says.

Perhaps, it suggests your husband had personal habits that kept your family over its head in debt, or maybe was laid off or injured and couldn't work.

"Proof of this type of situation may help convince your creditor that you were not responsible for the black marks on your credit history," the ABA says, summarizing with this interpretation:

"Simply stated, then, if your husband — as your partner — had a good history, you can take advantage of it. If he had a poor history, you don't have to take the blame for it."

Federal law now makes it illegal for creditors to force women to reapply for credit, or to impose new conditions on existing credit, solely because of divorce or the death of a husband.

Creditors retain the right, however, to determine whether the financial arrangement with the former husband is an oral or written agreement or a court order, and to ask how long and how regularly payments have been received, and how good the ex's credit is.

Instead of ignoring part-time income, creditors now must consider whether it might be considered reliable, but in doing so they may question whether this income will continue to be received.

Therefore, says the ABA, a signed letter from the employer, verifying the long-range stability of the part-time employment, may help in obtaining credit.

When a woman applies for credit on her own she can capitalize on the credit history of accounts carried in her ex-husband's name, if she also used those accounts.

It is also to the woman's benefit if she cosigned with her husband for a mortgage, car loan or personal loan, and these were paid off properly according to the loan agreement, the ABA says, adding:

"It even counts in your favor if you can show — through check records — that you managed the family finances and were responsible for seeing that installment loans and credit bills were paid off, even though your name was not on the loan."

But the law says lenders can ask a woman to file a new credit application if the ability to pay seems seriously affected by the new status, the ABA says. And because of lower income, the woman might have to offer collateral.

Significant also is that creditors no longer can ask a woman to obtain a cosigner on a loan that a married man or bachelor with the same credit record would obtain without an additional signature.

NO PACKAGE COST DEALS

Dutch Heart Patients To Be Airlifted To Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — Hospital spokesmen here say no package cost deals have been made for patients a Dutch organization says it plans to send here for corrective heart surgery.

A Dutch association of heart patients announced Wednesday in Amsterdam it plans to begin airlifts to Texas, where it says members will undergo open heart surgery—at a package cost of $10,000 a person.

A spokesman for the Dutch group said airlifts of 25 persons a month have been arranged by the Dutch Heart Patients Association, which has 30,000 members, because Dutch clinics can't handle them.

The spokesman said the patients will be flown to St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital here and the operations will be performed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley and his team.

Henk Flevet, chairman of the Dutch association, said his group has already received hundreds of applications for the Houston flights from persons unable to get an operation in the Netherlands.

However, a St. Luke's Hospital spokesman discounted the $10,000 perperson fee quoted by the Dutch association.

The spokesman said each patient is evaluated as an individual.

She said that depending on the complexity of the heart surgery, rate of recovery, complications and other factors, every bill is "truly different."

The hospital spokesman said any large group of surgical patients would have to make advance arrangements for rooms and diagnostic examinations "so as not to just appear and swamp the facilities."

She said no dates have been set yet for the first of the heart patient airlifts.

Cooley's office said the internationally known heart surgeon would have no comment on the announcement from the Netherlands, but a hospital spokesman confirmed Cooley had talked with a representative from the Dutch group about the plan.

However, the spokesman said neither Cooley nor any member of his team, which includes six other cardiovascular surgeons, would talk about costs of operations.

It is widely known that Cooley's group and other Houston doctors who got large numbers of international patients often perform surgery free or for minimal charges.

Hospital costs, however, must be billed and fees for evaluation tests, intensive care units and other items can mount into thousands of dollars, depending on length of stay.

Another St. Luke's spokesman said Flevet, a former St. Luke's patient, was so happy with his surgery he organized a trip for others.

"There is no way you could have a package deal price," she said." Some patients might come in and not need surgery. Surgery might not help others."

The Dutch association said the first group of 25 will leave next month and another 80 are on the waiting list for later flights.

Flevet said Dutch clinics could perform only 1,600 operations last year and 6,000 were requested.

A St. Luke's spokesman said Cooley and his staff perform 4,000 heart operations a year.

"Thousands of people here are just left to get on with it," Flevet said. "People who could lead a normal life after a heart operation instead of dying prematurely.

"I saw the way things should be run while I was in Houston making final arrangements with Cooley. It shows what can be done if hospital personnel are prepared to work hard instead of attending endless meetings as they do here."

Flevet said his patients' association is demanding that health insurance companies to which all Dutch citizens belong pay for the airlift.

AMPI President Addresses Meet

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) says inflated costs of producing milk have not been adequately recognized under the price support program.

Irvin J. Elkin said it is time for Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz to recognize his legal mandate to consider long range prospects for adequate supplies of milk.

Elkin, a dairy farmer from Amery, Wis., addressed a meeting Wednesday of the AMPI board which represents the organization's 32,000 members.

"We think it is time for a national policy to encourage the maintenance of our amazingly productive family farm enterprises," he said. "The manufacturing milk price should be supported at 90 per cent of parity, an increase of more than $1 over the present $8.17 per hundred pounds."

MENTAL CONDITION STILL ISSUE

Patty Will Not Stand Trial With Harrises

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mental condition, the subject of intense debate since her kidnaping more than two years ago, still is an issue as she prepares for her second trial.

Her attorney raised it again Wednesday in asking that Miss Hearst not be required to enter a plea to kidnap, assault and robbery charges because there is doubt as to her mental competence. Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler set May 28 for a hearing on the question.

The newspaper heiress' appearance in court was her first since suffering a collapsed lung last month. It also marked the first time since last September that she has been in the same room with two Symbionese Liberation Army members who were her fugitive traveling companions — William and Emily Harris.

All three are charged with 11 felony counts stemming from a May 1974 crime spree that began when the Harrises were accused of shoplifting in an Inglewood sporting goods store.

Except for a single, icy stare that Mrs. Harris leveled at Miss Hearst before leaving the courtroom at the conclusion of the proceedings, there was no interaction between the couple and Miss Hearst; no indication that they even knew each other. They sat at the same counsel table but were separated by their attorneys, and they were kept apart as they entered and left the courtroom.

But Miss Hearst, 22, won a legal battle against the Harrises when Brandler declared it will be impossible for her to stand trial with them. Their trial is scheduled to begin June 1.

Brandler said separate trials are necessary because of Miss Hearst's commitment for at least 90 days of diagnostic tests, because her attorneys have filed no pretrial motions yet and because her attorney's contention that "divergent defenses" might eventually require severance anyway.

Miss Hearst is undergoing court-ordered psychiatric evaluation at the federal prison in San Diego to help her judge determine how much her maximum 35-year prison sentence on a federal bank robbery conviction should be reduced.

That is only the most recent such inquiry into her mental state in the wake of events that began Feb. 4, 1974, when she was dragged from her apartment in Berkeley. Speculation about brainwashing by the SLA began soon after, and since her capture, her atorneys have insisted it was an issue in defending her.

The fact that she is undergoing psychiatric evaluation raises doubt about her mental competemce an should be explored further, even though she was judged competent to stand trial in San Francisco, defense lawyer Albert Johnson argued Wednesday.

He said that to support that claim at the May 28 hearing, he wants to take private psychiatrists into the San Diego prison to interview her. But he expressed doubt that authorities there would allow it.

If Johnson is unable to present a mental competence case to Brandler but still advises Miss Hearst not to enter a plea, the judge said he will enter a plea of innocent for her. That is what the judge did at her federal trial in San Francisco.

Dr. Lamb

Big buildup for isometrics

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard that one can build up his muscles by doing isometric exercises only a few minutes a day. Is this true? I would like to increase the strength in my arms and shoulders particularly, and if I could do this with just a few, simple isometric exercises it would certainly be great. Would you explain a little bit about how important isometric exercises are and how one can use them to build up the strength and size of the muscles?

DEAR READER — An isometric exercise refers to contracting the muscle without changing its shape or length. A good example would be if you tensed your arm firmly so all the muscles in your arm are contracted even though you didn't move the arm or any part of it.

When you are tensing the muscles really the different muscle groups are contracting against each other. The biceps of the upper arm that tends to bend the elbow is contracting against the triceps, the muscle on the opposite side at the back of the arm which straightens the elbow. These two opposing muscles then are really contracting against each other with equal force and holding the elbow in a steady position. You can do this with almost any opposing sets of muscles in the body. You can tighten the leg muscles, arm muscles, hand muscles and in all of these instances the muscle will gain some strength with the procedure.

Some of the claims for the effectiveness of isometric exercises have been grossly exaggerated. Don't expect to build a Mr. America body with a few isometric exercises a week.

One of the biggest disadvantages of isometric exercises, particularly for middle-aged and older people, is their effect on the heart and circulation. While the muscle is tense or contracted it prevents the flow of blood through that muscle. This in turn induces sharp rises in the blood pressure and in some susceptible people triggers off extra beats of the heart which may not always be desirable. Once a muscle is relaxed, of course, there is a sudden rush of blood into the muscle.

Isometric exercises with the arm, for example, held in one position will not develop a smooth, even, well-developed muscle. It may end up being bumpy and it will be strengthened only in those fibers that apply leverage against one point of attachment to the bony skeleton.

The blood pressure may increase as much as 120 points from a single isometric contraction. For this reason I would prefer that anyone who wants to use isometric exercises have a medical evaluation first.

I'd like to point out that isometric exercises are not the same as weight lifting. In moving weights you move them through distance. This changes the shape of the muscles as it shortens and lengthens and is an isotonic exercise.

I am all for your idea to develop your muscles and gain strength. This will help you with your posture which may in turn, if done properly, help prevent backaches. It will help improve the function of your lungs and general health. But I believe you need a more balanced program. For more information about the use of isometric and isotonic exercises send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-10, Exercise, Posture, Strength. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Nancy Responds To Goldwater's Blast

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Reagan says she feels "as if I'd been stabbed" by Sen. Barry Goldwater's criticism of her husband's stand on the Panama Canal.

The wife of the former California governor responded at a news conference Wednesday to questions about Goldwater's statement that Ronald Reagan's views on U.S. sovereignty over the canal stem from ignorance or "a surprisingly dangerous state of mind."

Reagan has said that the canal is U.S. property and that if elected president he would not give it up.

Goldwater said Reagan's position could "needlessly lead this country into open military conflict."

Mrs. Reagan said she was "surprised, hurt. Of course everyone knows what my husband did in 1964 for him. I feel as if I'd been stabbed."

Reagan defended Goldwater against charges of extremism in 1964, when the Arizona senator was the GOP presidential nominee.

Wiseman Oldest In Swimming Project

WINDSOR, Canada (AP) — It's 624 miles from here to the Olympic site in Montreal and 74-year-old Boyne "Ben" Wiseman has covered about half the distance — swimming.

However, he's not stroking across Lake Erie and down the Welland canal. The project is part of a recreation center swimming program and the participants do their swimming in the pool.

The program was set up for people who swim during the noon hour, and Wiseman is the oldest of 13 participants. He's also leading.

His philosophy: "Life begins at 70 and I'm only four years older than that."

Females May Bunk With Firemen

DALLAS (AP) — Female firefighters may soon be bunking in with the boys in Dallas.

The city has entered into an agreement to hire 15 per cent of the fire department's work force from women trainees.

One complication may be sleeping arrangements.

Some new fire stations have separate bedrooms, but most have only a large dormitory shared by all.

"Of course a lot of wives will raise Cain about women sharing bedrooms with men," said Lt. Jim Carlin, "but the situation hasn't come up yet, so we'll have to wait and see how it works out."

A long-standing dispute betwee Indonesia and The Netherlands was settled when an agreement to transfer the administration of Netherlands New Guinea to Indonesia was signed at the United Nations, Nov. 2, 1949.

Red Sox Finally End Losing Streak

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.
Eye of newt and toe of frog,
Wool of bat and tongue of dog.
Three bloop hits, a fly, a balk
Ended all the panic talk.
Witch from Massachusetts came;
Boston's Red Sox won a game.

Make room in the Witches' Hall of Fame for Laurie Cabot.

For 12 days in May and the last seven in April, the Red Sox hadn't won a game as the Texas Rangers, Kansas City Royals and Cleveland Indians cast 10 consecutive spells over the defending American League champs, the club's longest losing streak since 1960.

Manager Darrell Johnson, at a loss what to do, kept sending the same pitchers out day after losing day. Then, a Boston radio station signed a free-agent witch, Laurie Cabot of Salem, Mass., to do something about the hex.

"I don't know a thing about baseball," she said.

A slow-starting witch, it took her 11 innings to come up with the right spell. She said incantations are not part of her routine, but rather the use of clairvoyance.

So with Ms. Cabot sitting behind the Boston dugout in flowing black witch's garb, Doug Griffin, leading off the 12th, clairvoyanced a bloop single off Dave LaRoche and, after a sacrifice, so did Cecil Cooper. That sent Griffin to third and he scored the tie-breaking run on Carl Yastrzemski's long fly. Cooper took third on another bloop hit by Rick Miller and scored — hex, hex! — on a balk by Tom Buskey, giving the Red Sox a 6-4 witchery — er, victory — over the Indians. Earlier, errors by first baseman John Lowenstein contributed to a pair of unearned Boston runs while Cleveland had one runner cut down at the plate and another at third.

"Those are things that have usually been happening to us," Johnson said. "I'm glad it happened to somebody else for a change."

In games played without resorting to the occult, the New York Yankees edged the Detroit Tigers 7-6, the Baltimore Orioles used a grand slam by Reggie Jackson to defeat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6, the Kansas City Royals clobbered the Minnesota Twins 17-5 and the Texas Rangers nipped the California Angels 1-0. Oakland and Chicago had the night off.

Yankees 7, Tigers 6

Graig Nettles and Lou Piniella homered for New York but someone apparently put a hex on the Tigers. Two decisive runs scored as they committed three errors on one play. With the Yankees leading 5-1, Jim Mason and Mickey Rivers singled with one out in the fourth inning. Roy White lifted a fly ball to center field where Ron LeFlore dropped it, but recovered in time to throw Mason out at the plate as he tried to score from second.

However, catcher John Wockenfuss, thinking it was the third out, rolled the ball toward the mound and the speedy Rivers kept running and scored. Pitcher Bill Laxton retrieved the ball but threw wildly past third base and White romped home with what proved to be the winning run.

Orioles 8, Brewers 6

Reggie Jackson blasted his first home run for Baltimore, a grand slam that keyed a six-run sixth inning. Jackson's blast off rookie left-hander Jerry Augustine gave the Orioles a 7-6 lead. Lee May homered on the next pitch for the final run.

Royals 17, Twins 5

Rookie Tom Poquette drove in four runs with two doubles and a triple and Al Cowens drove in four more with a pair of doubles as the Royals pounded out a club record 22 hits. Every Royal starter scored at least one run and got at least one hit.

KC starter Steve Busby was removed in the fifth. The Royals announced the ace right-hander experienced stiffness and soreness in the pitching shoulder which hampered him earlier in the year.

Rangers 1, Angels 0

Consecutive singles by Mike Hargrove, Toby Harrah and Jeff Burroughs with one out in the eighth inning produced the only run of the game as the Rangers edged California behind the nine-hit pitching of ex-Angel Bill Singer.

Five Enter Preakness

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, his chief rival, Honest Pleasure, and four other 3-year-olds were entered today for the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

Joining Bold Forbes in the 13-16 mile second race of the Triple Crown Saturday will be his Laz Barrera stablemate Life's Hope. Others entered were Elocutionist, third in the Derby; Cojak, sixth in the Derby, and Play The Red, eighth in the Derby.

The post position order is: Play the Red, Cojak, Life's Hope, Bold Forbes, Elocutionist and Honest Pleasure.

Barrera's Preakness entry developed when Life's Hope, who runs from off the pace, won the Illinois Derby the same day Bold Forbes won the Kentucky Derby. After the Illinois Derby, Louis Wolfson, owner of Life's Hope, wanted his colt to join the Triple Crown competition. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

Barrera said he will discuss the race with jockey Angel Cordero but "when you have a good rider on your horse, you don't give instructions on how to ride your horse."

Bold Forbes broke on top in the Derby and stayed in front all the way for a one-length victory over Honest Pleasure. It is impossible to say whether a horse will break on the lead, but Barrera said, "One thing I'm going to tell you, he ain't going to be behind anyone for long."

The Preakness shapes up like the Derby — a duel on the lead between Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure, with the others hoping the two speed burners will falter so that they can make a winning run in the stretch.

"That's the wish everybody got — they kill each other and they come from behind," said Barrera. "But you better believe one thing. Bold Forbes hasn't stopped on the lead yet."

Honest Pleasure, the 1975 2-year-old champion who had a nine-race winning streak snapped in the Derby, worked Wednesday, going five-eights of a mile in 58 3-5 seconds, with the half in 46 3-5.

"Before all of his good races he had the same type of blowout," said trainer LeRoy Jolley, who has had little to say to the reporters since the Derby.

BOSTON (AP) — Dennis Brogna, a University of Arizona graduate, has been named trainer and traveling manager of the Boston Lobsters of the World Team Tennis league.

Hockey Playoff Tied

HOUSTON (AP) — The deadlocked World Hockey Association (WHA) semifinal playoff series between Houston and New England has been a succession of heroics by little used substitutes.

The best of seven series, tied at 2-2, resumes here tonight and if the past trend continues, a backup will step forward to figure in the outcome.

Jan Popiel, who had not been in a game since April 25 against San Diego, fitted into one of the Aeros' re-shuffled lines Tuesday to help Houston even the series with a 4-3 victory.

Popiel scored his first goal of the playoffs in the first period when Houston zoomed to a 3-0 lead.

Aeros backup goalie Wayne Rutledge replaced all-star Ron Grahame to win the second playoff game against New England when Grahame was in a slump.

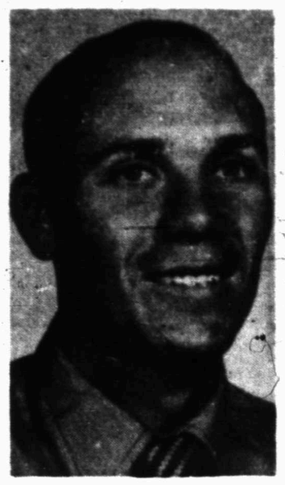

The Whalers' biggest surprise has been goalie Cap Raeder, a rookie who ended up in goal after a succession of injuries to other Whaler goalies. New England's Don Borgeson came off the bench to score the winning goal in the Whalers' 4-1 victory Sunday.

"Sure, it's pretty hard to sit and wait all year for a chance to play," Jan Popiel said. "Especially when you played regularly for another team for three years." Popiel was a WHA all-star in 1973 while a member of the Chicago Cougars.

"I'm just glad I could make a contribution when the team needed me," Popiel said.

The Aeros traded Borgeson and Jimmy Sheriff to Denver for Popiel but the Denver team folded. Borgeson says he's bitter about his lack of ice time.

"I really could have helped this team out," Borgeson said. "But you can be sure I won't be back next year."

WES POARCH

TOM DOYLE

Two Assistant Coaches Hired

Two new coaches have been hired for the Snyder High School athletic department.

Wes Poarch has been hired as the first assistant and defensive coordinator for the varsity football team.

Wes is a graduate of West Texas State University. He has been coaching for the past eight years. The last four years, he was defensive coordinator at Hart, where his teams compiled a 34-9-1 record, including three district championships. Poarch is 32. He and his wife, the former Connie Robinson of Snyder, have two children: Kelly 8, and Calley 3.

Tom Doyle has been hired as offensive and defensive line coach for the varsity football team. A graduate of Texas Tech, Doyle served as line coach at Texas Tech for three years with the Freshman football team. He also was line coach at Lamesa for three years. Tom was a starter for Texas Tech on its 1964 Sun Bowl team. Doyle is 33. He and his wife, Nancy, are expecting a girl Aug. 31.

Golden Warriors Played It Safe

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors played it safe this time against the Phoenix Suns.

"I never felt we were in control," said Warriors guard Charles Johnson, although the scoreboard was in disagreement through most of the National Basketball Association playoff game which ended with Golden State on top 111-95 Wednesday night.

Three days earlier in Phoenix, the Warriors felt they had earned a victory and wound up losers in double overtime.

"We had that game won four or five times and let it get away. A lot of us were awfully upset about that," said Phil Smith, top scorer with 25 points in the Wednesday night victory which gave the Warriors a 3-2 advantage in the best-of-seven series for the Western Conference championship.

The sixth game, Friday night in Phoenix, could end the championship dreams of the underdog Suns, but Coach John MacLeod noted, "We're just down three games to two and we're certainly not going to give up."

They gave the defending champion Warriors, who led by 19 points at halftime, cause for some concern by twice cutting the difference to 10 points in the second half even after losing star center Alvan Adams, the NBA's Rookie of the Year.

Adams slipped and sprained his left ankle in the opening minutes of the third period. MacLeod said, "He wasn't able to go back in the game, but it's just a mild sprain and we're hoping he'll be ready Friday night."

Golden State zipped into a 40-24 lead after one period, with Smith and Johnson scoring 10 points apiece and center Cliff Ray adding nine. Rick Barry scored 10 of his 23 points in the second quarter.

Phoenix outscored the Warriors in the second half, when Curtis Perry got most of his 23 points and game-high 18 rebounds.

Hall Of Fame Hires Painter

DETROIT (AP) — Nationally known painter Robert Thom of Grand Rapids, Mich., has been commissioned to do a series of paintings depicting some memorable moments in baseball. The paintings will be placed in the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Bengals Sign Davis

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals have signed Tony Davis, a 6-foot-2, 212-pound running back from the University of Nebraska.

Davis, 23, was selected in the seventh round of the NFL draft and scored 22 career touchdowns at Nebraska, 18 of them rushing.

"Tony is a very complete running back," said offensive backfield coach Jack Donaldson. "He was an outstanding tailback, then was switched to fullback where he became a top notch lead blocker."

To Meet Fourth Time

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Tony Lopes, an 18-year-old high school senior from Brockton, Mass., is making a pro boxing career of fighting veteran Beau Jaynes of Lowell, Mass.

Lopes and Jaynes will meet for the fourth time tonight with the schoolboy defending his New England welterweight championship in a scheduled 10-round bout.

Lopes won the vacant New England title with a split decision over Jaynes, 28, in Portland last Oct. 23. Jaynes captured the title with a split decision over Lopes in Boston Dec. 20. Then Lopes regained the crown with a split decision April 26 in Boston Garden.

Crowds Follow Guthrie

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — While virtually everyone fawns over Janet Guthrie's every move, a curious thing is happening to a lot of other drivers preparing for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

Their cars aren't going fast enough.

Not fast enough to chance a qualifying run, not fast enough to warrant timing, not fast enough to even attract any interest.

"You've got three guys running 189, 190 miles per hour, and except for five other guys, no one else is even over 176. That's got to have a few people worried," said one veteran observer. "The word is, no one is going to accept a qualifying run under 182 m.p.h. the first weekend. If that's the case, the way it stands now, we're only looking at six or eight qualifiers."

Drivers only had today and Friday to find the extra speed they needed before pole position qualifying, scheduled Saturday.

"The speeds will go up, you can bet on that," said veteran Lloyd Ruby. "It's just a matter of some drivers getting their act together."

Ruby predicted it would take speeds "at least the same as last year" to make the field for the $1 million May 30th race. The slow qualifier in 1975 was Mike Hiss at 181.754 m.p.h.

"There's more good cars than last year, fewer variables," Ruby added.

Last year, there were 14 different types of tires alone to choose from. This year it's down to "front, back and backup," according to tire suppliers.

The early line on the three front-row qualifiers is Johnny Rutherford, fastest in practice so far, Al Unser and A.J. Foyt.

Foyt won the pole position for the last race here with a speed of 193.926 miles per hour, but new power restrictions might keep speeds below that this time.

Rutherford cracked the 190 m.p.h. barrier for the first time this year, in practice Wednesday. Officials agree he did it, but the electric timing clocks didn't catch it.

Others among the swift group are Gordon Johncock, Tom Sneva, Wally Dallenbach, Pancho Carter and Mario Andretti.

Andretti will be forced to wait until the second weekend of qualifying, since he's left to compete this weekend in the Belgian Grand Prix.

Another driver likely to qualify the second weekend is Miss Guthrie, whose crew just can't seem to keep her car running more than just a few laps at a time.

Her hopes of completing the final half of her rookie test Wednesday were dashed by a persistent, mysterious electrical problem.

Miss Guthrie, the first woman to compete at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, hoped to finish up the final 50 miles of the test today or Friday and qualify Saturday or Sunday.

"I have no idea how fast I can go until I get the rookie test out of the way," Miss Guthrie said.

So far, her top speed has been 164.414 m.p.h., which was limited to less than 165 m.p.h. under provisions of the rookie test rules. Under the second phase of the test, she would be able to exceed 165 m.p.h.

Tigers Can Win Crown

The Snyder High School baseball team can win the District 3-AAA championship with a victory at Brownfield tomorrow. The two teams collide at 5 p.m. on the Cubs' diamond.

Snyder also hosts Lamesa at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on the Moffett Field diamond. A victory in either the Brownfield game or the Lamesa contest would sack up the crown for the Tigers. Coach Speedy Moffett is hoping the local lads can wrap it up Friday.

Snyder is 15-14 for the season and 6-4 in district play. Brownfield and Lamesa both are 5-6 in district action.

The veteran Tiger mentor listed a possible starting lineup for tomorrow's game, according to batting order, as follows: Bobbie Doe 3b, Dray Sikes 2b, Kelly Ragland ss, Tracey Witherspoon c, Alvin Ollison lf, Kyle Sikes rf, Tony Lewis 1b, Randy Gressett cf, and Gary Greenlee p.

Player Eyes Colonial Title

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "You've got to have patience," explained Gary Player, a non-winner on the American golf circuit last year for the first time in his lucrative career.

"You can't force it," he said. "What you've got to do is bide your time. Then, bang, all of a sudden you win one, and I'm going to win one."

The classy little South African figures the drought could quite possibly end here this week in the $200,000 Colonial National Invitational golf tournament.

"This has been a good course for me," said Player of the 7,-190-yard, par 70 Colonial layout, a rose-ringed bit of treachery on the banks of the Trinity River.

"This is a fantastic golf course, a tough golf course," Player said. "It's not only one of the best on the tour, it's one of the best in the world. And it is in excellent shape."

A field of 102, with an eye on the turbulent sky, was poised today for the first lap of the 72-hole chase for the first prize of $40,000.

All the big names, excluding Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, were on hand and most participated in Wednesday's prelude pro-am, headed by Tom Watson with a 67 shortly before a deluge soaked the course.

Player, who fashioned a one-under-par 69, said:

"I've been playing nice golf this year. I've played in eight tournaments and won $40,000. I've been up there all the time. But you can't force it. It's like Hubert Green. At Orlando, he never made the cut ... then he won three in a row.

"It's coming."

Player, off the U.S. tour since the Masters, said he is honing his game for the Open, at Atlanta's Athletic Club course in mid-June. And he's got a good reason.

"An Open victory is what I need for a second grand slam. If I can win it, then Jack Nicklaus and I will be the only two to ever win two Grand Slams," he said.

Nicklaus is the only player in the world to have won at least twice at the Masters, the Open, the British Open and the PGA.

Player said that regardless of what happens this year, he feels he has "10 more good years" to shoot for the major titles. Which led into another area.

Player admitted he missed the heady days of the "Big Three" when he, Nicklaus and Palmer were the scourge of the golf world and no field was without them.

Acknowledging that some of his colleagues dismissed the "Big Three" as a news media myth, Player laughed and said, "but we won all the majors, didn't we?" No one could argue with that.

"It's nice to win any tournament. But the final examination is winning major championships. I think that's what really counts. And the Big Three won them.

"It did golf a lot of good. It really helped. I think we did our part for this game."

FCA Plans Banquet

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes will hold a banquet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 18 at the Snyder High School student center.

The banquet will be for F.C.A. cuddle and huddle members and their dates. Any adult who is a chapter member may attend at a cost of $4. For students, admission if $2.50.

Doug Kingsrider, a tight end for the Minnesota Vikings, will be featured on the program along with his wife. Entertainment will be provided by Percy Mays of Canyon. He is a singer, and also plays a musical instrument.

Reservations should be made no later than 5 p.m. Monday, May 17. You can make reservations by calling 573-5682.

Mafia Figures Seen In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mafia figures have been spotted in several Texas areas, reports the Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council.

Dallas police told the council they have identified members of five Mafia families.

This leads the police to believe syndicate figures think Dallas is "up for grabs" rather than an exclusive territory for one family, the council's annual report said Wednesday.

Police, however, have "no conclusive evidence of the extent of syndicated crime activities by these families in that city, if any, and feel that none have gained any significant grip on criminal activity in Dallas," the report said.

Other areas reporting the presence of suspected Mafia figures include Houston, Texarkana and Cameron County in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Two members were reported in Texarkana, together with "five associates," and two in Cameron County, plus "approximately 22 associates."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who released the report, said increased trafficking in narcotics represents the most serious organized crime problem facing the state.

An estimated 64,000 pounds of heroin, at street purity, are required to supply the approximately 40,000 users in Texas, according to the report.

The Department of Public Safety estimates there were at least 1,173 bookmakers in the state in 1975. "Football season represents peak bookmaking activity in Texas," the report said.

"In September, the athletic department of the University of Texas was beseiged with frantic calls, many from out-of-state, asking for the exact score of a football game which had been stated differently (by one point) in news accounts. The discrepancy vitally affected the point spread placed on the game by bookmakers," the report said.

Prostitution in Texas more and more is using massage parlors as fronts, the report said. A San Antonio police official told the council that "women working in some 20 massage parlors in that city now wait for the customer to suggest sexual massage, a possible form of entrapment if an undercover officer were to make such a suggestion," the report said.

Austin police reported 11 massage parlors "involving an estimated 100 prostitutes," the report said.

Massage parlors are becoming a problem in Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties, as well as Odessa and Waco, the report said.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

* * *

Q. I sponsored a Vietnamese refugee family of four, who are unrelated to me, by providing housing, medical and financial support. Am I entitled to claim dependency exemptions for the refugee family members on my tax return?

A. For you to claim an unrelated person as a dependent, the person must live as a member of your household for the entire year, and earn income of less than $750. In addition you must furnish over half of each person's total support which may include financial help, clothing, medical services and out-of-pocket expenses.

Q. I don't understand how the new earned income credit affects filing of my income tax return this year. What can I claim?

A. The earned income credit is available to certain taxpayers with adjusted gross income or earned income, whichever is larger, of less than $8,000 for 1975. To qualify for the credit you must maintain a household in the United States as your principal residence for the entire year. At least one child under 19 years of age or a student, whom you claim as a dependent, must live with you. If married, you and your spouse must file a joint return. Your taxable year must represent a full 12 months, and you must not be able to exclude from gross income any amount of income you earn from sources outside the U.S. or within U.S. possessions. Qualified taxpayers receive a credit of 10 per cent of the first $4,000 of earned income, up to a maximum credit of $400. The credit is reduced by 10 per cent of the amount by which your adjusted gross income (or earned income, whichever is larger) exceeds $4,000.

For example, if your only income was your $5,000 salary, you must subtract $100, that's 10 per cent of the extra $1,000, from the $400 maximum earned income credit. Your earned income credit would be $300.

If the credit is more than the tax you owe, you will get a check for the difference. If you owe no tax, the total amount of the credit will be returned to you as a tax overpayment. However, to receive the earned income credit, you must file a Federal income tax return, even though you may not otherwise be required to file.

Q. I am an elementary school principal, and I studied in Florida last summer working towards a degree in Administration. My school system did not reimburse me for any expenses. What expenses am I entitled to deduct on my Federal income tax return?

A. You may claim the ordinary and necessary expenses for education which meet the express requirements of your employer or which are required by laws or regulations to help you keep your salary status or employment; or which maintain or improve skills required for the performance of duties in your present employment.

When traveling away from home primarily to obtain education, expenditures for travel, meals, and lodging may be deducted if the expenses for the education are deductible. However, such expenses for side trips that include vacation or primarily personal trips, or incidental personal activities, are not deductible.

Expenses exceeding reimbursement for tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and similar items are deductible as miscellaneous itemized deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040. Expenses for travel and transportation are deductible as adjustments to income on line 39, Form 1040.

Leader Of Jailbreak To Surrender On Gun Charge

DALLAS (AP) — A former Marine who led a raid on a Mexican prison that freed 14 U.S.citizens is now facing the possibility of going to prison himself for violating the U.S. Neutrality Act by carrying unregistered weapons into Mexico.

Don Fielden, 31, an unemployed truck driver described by his attorney, Ernest Kuehne, as a "typical East Texas country boy," was planning to surrender to U.S. marshals today.

The husky former Marine sergeant said earlier this week he was aware of the possibility of charges being filed against him, but added he was not worried about them. "Like that old song says, 'if you can't do the time, don't do the crime'," he told newsmen.

Kuehne said Fielden faces a possible two-year sentence and a $25,000 fine.

Fielden was named in an arrest warrant charging him with violation of neutrality laws following an investigation by U.S. Customs officers of his activities in connection with the March 12 raid on the Piedras Negras jail. Fielden had told the Dallas Times Herald Sunday that he and two other Dallas men conducted the raid which was financed by a Dallas psychologist, Sterling B. Davis, whose son was jailed in Piedras Negras on a drug charge.

Young Davis and 13 others were released by Fielden and his companions who held 10 policemen at gunpoint while opening the jail cells. Most of those released swam back to Eagle Pass across the Rio Grande and surrendered to county officials or simply made their way to their homes. Young Davis turned himself over to authorities to face charges of parole violation and is currently at El Reno prison in Oklahoma.

"In simple terms, he (Fielden) is accused of taking guns across the border without declaring them," said U.S. Customs Agent Charles Conroy in Houston.

Kuehne declined to say how Fielden would plead to the charges, "because there are other potential charges and because of some possibility of plea bargaining."

Kuehne said Fielden "is prepared to meet the charges. He was prepared before this thing became public."

Kuehne said the names of Fielden's two companions have not been revealed.

Ironically, one of the companions, according to Fielden, ended up with the $5,000 paid by Dr. Davis. Fielden said he had to pay him the money and had to pay his second companion $500, but went ahead with the raid because "I had made a commitment and when I make a commitment, that's it. I'll follow through."

Governor Picks Up Hamburgers

DIX, Neb. (AP) — "Is it too late to order some hamburgers?" a woman called to ask a small cafe in this western Nebraska town. "Good," she said when told it was not too late. "I'd like six.... I'll have the governor of Nebraska pick them up."

CB Interference Irking Modelers

DALLAS (AP) — The model airplane enthusiast works his radio controls, putting a plane worth about $250 into a power dive.

On a nearby freeway, a CB radio operator traveling in a car picks up his microphone and depresses the transmit button. His radio has been boosted beyond the legal limits through addition of electronic components.

The modeler attempts to bring the plane, traveling nearly 200 mph, out of its power assisted dive. There is no response, and the plane burrows into the ground, a total loss.

This sort of scenario is getting to be a little too commonplace for members of the Academy of Model Aeronautics (its members refer to it as "the other AMA").

Johnny Clemens of Dallas, president of the modelers group, says that "souped up" CB radios bleed into the channels assigned to radio control at 27 and 52 mhz, preempting the modelers' control of their planes.

"We are very anxious to continue our operations in a safe and sane manner. We're asking the Federal Communications Commission to help us in our recreational activity," Clemens says.

Clemens is quick to point out that he and his group have no quarrel with CB operators who play by the rules.

"The legal limit for CB power is five watts. But these things can be souped up to 50 or more watts, and when that happens, they're powerful enough to get into the radio control frequencies," Clemens says. "When that happens, the modeler loses control of his airplane."

The president of "the other AMA" points out that the money loss is a factor, but that there is also a safety factor to be considered. Some of the model planes have wingspreads of six feet and are capable of inflicting damage when they strike an object. For this reason, most members of Clemens' group carry a $1 million liability insurance policy.

Clemens thinks it would be best in the long run to let the CB users have the 27 mhz channels. "I think then we can get some other protected frequencies from the FCC. Our Washington people had a meeting last week on the matter, and it looks pretty good."

Should the modelers have to change their operating setup, conversion to new frequencies would run about $50, according to Clemens.

Those who pursue the relatively expensive hobby of radio controlled model flying are predominantly professional people. Clemens said the group has always been self-policing and enjoys a good image with the FCC. There are currently 60,000 members in the model academy.

Clemens says the CB interference problem is most severe with model airplanes. "The radio controlled boats and cars operate in two dimensions. Their chances of surviving a loss of control are greater."

In 1901, President Theodore Roosevelt said: "Speak softly and carry a big stick and you will go far."

EXAMINING ARTIFACTS FROM DIG—Kathy Barr, left, of Snyder, and Janice Bass, right, of Canyon, assist Chuck Hood, graduate student at West Texas State University, in examining artifacts from an archaic Indian site on the Bitter Creek Ranch near Clarendon. Recent explorations at the "dig" did not produce many of the usual things, such as flint projectile points, grinding implements, knives, etc, said Dr. Jack Hughes, WTSU professor of geology. An oddity was the fact that two-thirds of the artifacts were on top of the ground, while the rest were within three inches of the surface. "It has been a very stable surface, which is surprising," said Hughes.

Ford Says Michigan Victory Is Must

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

President Ford says victory in Michigan is a must in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, and he's asking his home-state voters for more than a comeback against Ronald Reagan. He wants a mandate.

Challenger Reagan is taking over the Michigan GOP stage with a night and day of campaigning beginning in Kalamazoo tonight.

Meanwhile, Democratic frontrunner Jimmy Carter was scheduled to address a conference on nuclear energy and world order at the United Nations in New York. Carter aides billed the speech as the first in a series of major policy statements by the former Georgia governor.

Ford spent 10½ hours in a crowd-pulling hunt for votes in Detroit and its suburbs on Wednesday, returning to Washington late Wednesday night. He'll be back in Michigan for the weekend.

His stepped-up campaign itinerary — he had planned only one Michigan trip — was evidence of the Ford camp's concern at a campaign pattern that has seen Reagan win five of the last six primaries.

"We knew that May would be the most vulnerable time," Ford said in Detroit. Despite Reagan's lead in GOP delegate commitments, Ford said "we are in pretty good shape" with uncommitted delegates.

"But we can't rest on our oars," he said. "We have to win in a state like Michigan, we have to do well in Maryland and we have to do well in some of the other primary states."

Michigan and Maryland hold primary elections next Tuesday.

Through a long day of speechmaking and handshaking, Ford sounded over and over his theme of prosperity, peace and trust. He said he brought those hallmarks to a government shaken by Watergate when he took over from the resigned Richard M. Nixon on Aug. 9, 1974.

The turnout in Birmingham was estimated by police at more than 10,000 people, and there was another big crowd at the Roseville shopping mall, in an area that supplied a crop of votes for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace when he won Michigan's Democratic primary four years ago.

Wallace is entered again, but has lost his punch in the Democratic primaries and Ford strategists are afraid conservative Democrats may decide to cross into the GOP primary to vote for Reagan.

Ford made a point of saying that he wants crossover votes, too. "I want every person in the state of Michigan who identifies with my political philosophy, who believes in the program that I've outlined of prosperity, peace and trust, to vote for me ... whether they call themselves Republicans, Democrats or independents," he said.

Asked whether he expects to win, Ford replied: "You bet I do."

Ford came to the Michigan campaign after a primary election day on which he won West Virginia but lost to Reagan in Nebraska, where both Republican contestants had spent more time and money.

He acknowledged he had suffered primary disappointments, but said that wouldn't keep him from winning the nomination.

Store Blast Stumps Lawmen

WILLS POINT, Tex. (AP) — Federal agents, Texas Rangers and local peace officers said today they are stumped over the bizarre bombing of the Brookshire Food Store here Wednesday.

Investigators said a pickup truck carrying two container drums loaded with explosives was aimed at the storefront, put into gear and left to crash into the building.

Texas Ranger Stewart Dowell said the drums carried detonators but they could not be located.

Damage was estimated at around $350,000.

A spokesman for the food store chain said the blast was one in a sequence of bombings carried out against the chain. He said the bombings are "baffling," and definitely not a labor problem.

"We're taking great precautions," the spokesman said.

The driver of the pickup apparently vanished after the blast, and officers said they have no clues to his or her identity.

Van Zandt County Sheriff B.W. Ward said this is not a case of harassment.

"The man who did it is sick, and he could have blown up half the town," Ward said.

T.J. Boyd, market manager of the store, said he was due there at 5:30 a.m., but awoke late and was drinking coffee across the street when the blast rocked the store.

"God was really watching over me," Boyd said.

Dear Abby

Ashamed of Son's Transsexual Mate

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: About three months ago my son, who is 37, divorced and the father of two, introduced me to his fiancee—a nice-looking, intelligent, refined person. I took to her right away. (I'll call her "Agnes.")

My son told me that Agnes was a "transsexual." I never knew such people existed, Abby. He explained that she was born a male and lived as a man for 26 years, but always felt she should have been a woman. She had a sex-change operation two years ago and is now a normal woman, except that she can't bear a child.

Agnes looks as much like a woman as I do. Nobody would ever know she wasn't a born female. Anyway, I had a hard time accepting all this, but when I saw how happy she is making my son, I couldn't hold it against her.

Nobody is our family knows her background, and I don't want them to, but Agnes is going on a national TV show to tell her story. (She says it will help other transsexuals.) If she goes on TV, all our friends and relatives will recognize her, and I don't think I could hold my head up. My son says he doesn't mind, and he's considering going on TV with her!

Don't you think they should consider me and keep this whole thing a family secret?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Agnes' first consideration is to herself. If she and your son want to go on TV, it's up to them. Ask Agnes to tell you more about the transsexual phenomenon. Nature sometimes makes mistakes, but God has divinely inspired men with the medical and scientific knowlede plus the surgical skill to correct them. Hold up your head. You have nothing to be ashamed of.

DEAR ABBY: I am a magician, and one of the best in the business, but I'm out of work now. How can I get a job?

BRANTINO

DEAR BRANTINO: YOU'RE a magician and you're asking ME?

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a card club that has eight members. The other night I won first prize, which turned out to be a set of brass candlesticks.

I tactfully said that I liked them, but I didn't think I could use them. One of the other ladies spoke up and said that she could use them. She asked if I would please sell them to her.

I asked the hostess how much she paid for them, and she said she thought I had a lot of nerve to ask. It created a scene, with members taking sides. I resigned and so did two other members.

Well, I went home without my prize or the money. When I told my husband about it, he said I should have accepted the prize and kept my mouth shut. What do you think?

LOST OUT

DEAR LOST: I think with a husband as smart as your husband, you don't need to write to Dear Abby.

House, Senate Panels Tighten Tax Loopholes

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rich investors whose large deductions for interest and other expenses allow them to escape paying federal income tax may be in for an unpleasant surprise when they file their tax forms next year.

The House and the Senate Finance Committee have voted to close some loopholes and raise taxes of the wealthy by about $1 billion a year.

The Senate committee, in voting 10 to 0 Wednesday for tightening the loopholes, also approved a $270-million tax break for wealthy Americans who do pay large sums to the federal government.

Congressional tax experts had no immediate estimate of how many persons would benefit from that tax break, aimed at those who now pay as much as 70 per cent of their income to the government.

But they said that under the plan for cracking down on investors who don't pay taxes, the number of persons subject to a minimum tax would jump from the current 30,000 to 40,000 to some 540,000.

The current minimum tax on the type of shelters used by those who pay no taxes is 10 per cent.

Under the Senate committee's plan, the tax rate would be raised to 15 per cent, a $30,000 exemption would be removed and the individual would be allowed to subtract his regular income tax or $5,000, whichever is higher, from the minimum he would have to pay.

This would raise the minimum tax for those already paying it and would increase the number of persons subject to the tax, experts say.

The House approved a similar plan that would bring in slightly more money but would apply to only 130,000 wealthy Americans.

The loophole-tightening plan adopted by the Senate panel fell short of what liberals demanded. But chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said, "I think it's about the best we could hope to achieve at this time. I don't think you are going to get to heaven in just one leap."

The Senate committee approved the $270-million tax break for the rich at the insistence of Long. This was done by allowing a lower rate of taxation on a share of investment income, such as that from rent and dividends, to those who now pay large tax bills.

The Internal Revenue Service released a report last week showing that the minimum tax, adopted in 1969, is not assuring that every individual with significant income pays some federal tax.

IRS reported that 244 individuals with incomes above $200,000 and 3,053 persons making $50,000 to $200,000 paid no tax in 1974. Five of them are millionaries.

These non-taxpayers, acting within the law, used large deductions, mainly interest, depreciation and charitable contributions, to reduce their taxable incomes to zero.

Tornadoes Dance Across State

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes danced across numerous areas from North to Southeast Texas and storms dumped flash-flooding rains in turbulent weather which broke out during the night and persisted in some sections today.

At least two of the twisters inflicted property damage but there was no word of any persons suffering injuries. There also were reports of widespread minor damage from hail at many points as the thunderstorms kept spreading across the state toward the southeast.

In the wake of a cold front generating the rough weather, skies cleared west of the Pecos River in West Texas and in parts of the Panhandle-Plains sector by this morning.

It was at least partly cloudy everywhere else with rain continuing in Southeast Texas, where a flash flood watch covered the countryside east of a line from Bryan to Palacios, and Southwest Texas from around Del Rio toward the southeast.

One of the tornadoes struck northwest of Fort Worth near Weatherford, wrecking two barns and injuring a cow. Another knifed into a suburban business center on the north side of Austin and tore the roof off a building.

As the worst weather still lashed at Southeast Texas, police spotted a funnel cloud over Port Arthur shortly before 6 a.m. today. It caused a brief tornado warning for Jefferson and Orange counties.

Sightings of still other twisters—none apparently causing damage—were reported south of Haskell in West Central Texas; in the Fort Worth-Dallas vicinity near Haslet, between Arlington and Grand Prairie, and close to Carrollton and Lewisville; west of Gainesville and west of Greenville in North Texas and close to Jefferson in extreme Northeast Texas.

Still more rain was expected across the southeast quarter of the state as the cold front kept working toward the coast.

Behind the frontal zone the early morning temperatures dipped as low as 45 degrees at Lubbock and 46 at Amarillo in the Panhandle-Plains section. At the same hour it was still 77 in Brownsville at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Wednesday's top temperatures climbed into the 90s at half a dozen points, going as high as 97 at Presidio in far West Texas.

Airport Fight Back In Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A legal fight over whether all air lines that serve the Dallas-Fort Worth area must use the new $600 million regional airport is back in federal appeals court.

Lines that use the new Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport, known as DFW, appealed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals after they were enjoined against pursuing Southwest Airlines in state court.

They asked that a federal court injunction be canceled so that a state court suit, filed in Austin, may proceed. The 5th took the issue under advisement Wednesday with no indication when it will rule.

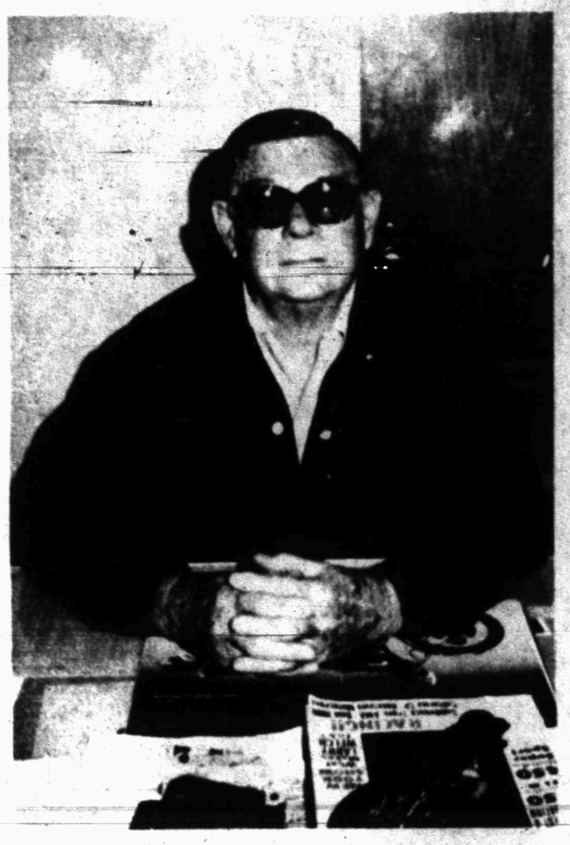

Southwest operates between Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. It has stayed at Dallas' old, convenient and cheaper Love Field despite outcries from air lines lodged at the new airport.

For Dallas residents, Love Field is closer. It takes $3.50 for the cab ride, compared to $20 to DFW. And critics complain that almost every move one makes at DFW costs 25 cents or more.

Other air lines contend that Southwest's refusal to move to the newer airport gives it an unfair competitive advantage and indirectly costs DFW lines an extra $1 million a year.

But when they filed suit in state court at Austin, a U.S. district court said that amounted to an attack on a 1973 federal court judgment won by Southwest stating it could not be forced to leave Love.

New Home Costs Rising 22% Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices of new homes are rising at an annual rate of 22 per cent, throwing "a big question mark" over the ability of builders to construct houses that are cheap enough for families buying their first home, a government agency says.

The median sale price of a new home in February was $43,000, compared to $38,000 in February 1975, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Wednesday in its monthly economic analysis newsletter.

Prices rose 13 per cent in the 12-month period, but soared at the 22 per cent annual rate during the last six months. And early indications were that the median price rose to nearly $44,000 in March, the board added.

The median price of $43,000 means that half the new homes in the country were sold for less than that sum and half were sold for more.

The board, which regulates the savings and loan associations that provide most home mortgages, said the rising prices "throw a big question mark over the ability of builders to reach more of the mass market of first-time home purchasers."

The sharp upswing in house prices is "surprising" because it "is completely out of proportion to the improvement in the financial state of the average consumer," the board said. It also appears "to contradict the publicity about the increasing importance of 'no-frill' housing."

Many builders have reduced lot and house sizes and eliminated luxury trimmings in an attempt to keep new-home prices within reach of first-time buyers who otherwise would be squeezed out of the market.

But the board indicated that strategy may not be working, saying the figures suggest that the relatively affluent, whose old homes have soared in value, are buying expensive new homes at a faster rate than the less affluent buy their first houses.

These more affluent homeowners were "less affected by the recession and inflation and generally own an existing home that can be sold at a profit," the newsletter noted.

The board indicated concern that the rising prices may imperil the housing industry's revival as well as putting home ownership out of the reach of many Americans.

Housing construction has perked up recently following lean years in 1973-75, when interest rates were high, mortgages difficult to get and the home buyers discouraged by the recession.
