UNCONFIRMED REPORT CHOLERA BREAKS OUT AT YOKOHAMA JAPAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7. (AP)—Telegraphic communication between Tokio and Kobe has been reopened and one of the first messages sent over the re-established line was that "most of up-town Tokio was saved," according to a cablegram received by Toyo Kisen Kaisha today from Y. Shimada, its Kobe agent.

By the Associated Press.

Although latest reports from Japan lead to the hope that the death toll is not as large as has been feared, the destruction wrought by the earthquake, tidal wave and fire has been tremendous.

A dispatch from Shanghai this morning says that information received there today makes it apparent that the losses, both in life and property, were "much exaggerated."

Different sources agree, however, that two-thirds of Tokio have been laid waste. A message from the American consulate at Shanghai to the state department quotes a British cruiser at Yokohama as authority for the statement that the city has been virtually destroyed.

Three United States destroyers have arrived in Yokohama and taken aboard 200 Americans.

One report, which has not been confirmed, says cholera has broken out in the port.

Tokio home offices still estimate the dead in the capital at 20,000, but make no attempt to strike a total for Yokohama, many coast towns that were in the path of the tidal wave or the other communities that were in the earthquake zone.

The foreign and residential sections in both the capital and the port seem to have escaped the destruction owing to their favorable location, but the slums and the industrial districts suffered severely. However, Tokio's buildings of modern construction also seem to have escaped.

As America hurries supplies across the Pacific the people of the United States are responding generously to the appeal for help and it is believed that the $5,000,000 Red Cross quota can be surpassed.

All missionaries of the Reformed church are reported safe.

JAPANESE GOVERNMENT PROCLAIMS MORATORIUM

OSAKA, Sept. 7. (AP)—The Japanese government has proclaimed a 30-day moratorium for payments falling due from September 1 to September 30. The moratorium is inapplicable outside of the zone of the disaster.

Persons profiteering in essential commodities face imprisonment for three years or a heavy fine, while any one found guilty of spreading rumors with the object of encouraging rioting, damaging property or disturbing the peace may be imprisoned for 10 years or fined.

The promulgation of the moratorium as well as the edicts against profiteering and the circulation of false rumors are made public in the form of emergency imperial decrees.

TWO AMERICAN FAMILIES ESCAPE JAPANESE DISASTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—The International Combustion Engineering Corporation today received a cablegram from Osaka station that George W. Clendon and family of Richmond, Va., and Marcus D. Morley of Fort Worth, Texas, had escaped accident in the Japanese disaster.

The Morleys have a three weeks' old baby which was born in Yokohama. They had arrived in Osaka and were planning to return to America on the steamer President Jefferson.

PEOPLE ARE URGED TO EXERCISE SELF CONTROL

NAGASAKI, Sept. 7. (AP)—Premier Yamamoto appeals to the people to exercise self control in this time of crisis.

"We must show the world," he adds, "that even in times of disturbance and distress the Japanese people are able to keep a balanced mind by doing what is right, obeying orders and showing their love of peace."

The premier insists that all peaceful Koreans must be protected, even if it be true that certain elements in this section of the population have been responsible for rioting. He points out that any attempt at retaliation will be inimical to the spirit of unity and the assimilation of the Koreans.

INDICATED THAT REPORTS WERE MUCH EXAGGERATED

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7. (AP)—All today's reports from Japan indicate that the first estimates of the loss of life and damage from earthquake, fire and tidal waves were exaggerated.

An Associated radiogram intercepted here estimated casualties in Yokohama at 50,000. An Eastern News telegram said 30,000 already had been counted west of Tokio. A Reuters report said all banks were reopening. The Bank of Japan was intact, according to the dispatch.

It is difficult to get a correct picture of the situation in the ruined zone because of varying reports.

SENATOR WILLIS IS FOR COOLIDGE FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Senator Willis of Ohio, who presented the name of Warren G. Harding before the 1920 Republican national convention, came out in support of President Coolidge for 1924 after a call today at the white house.

SEARCH FOR NEGRO FORMER CONVICT IN CASE AT BEAUMONT

BEAUMONT, Sept. 7. (AP)—A negro ex-convict is being sought by the police in connection with the murder here of F. O. Rial, 32, shipping clerk, and Bessie Carl, 16, of Houston, last Saturday night. What evidence the police department has against the negro is carefully guarded, but it is generally believed the evidence against him is meagre.

The man is said to have lived near the scene of the tragedy, but police have been unable to locate him since the bodies were found. Bloodhounds brought here yesterday from the state prison farm at Richmond were returned last night after it had been decided they could be of no value in trailing the slayer.

EXPLOSIVE AVAILABLE FOR ROAD CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Eighteen million pounds of sodatol, a surplus war explosive, will be available for distribution next month through state highway departments for use in road building and land clearing, the bureau of public roads of the department of agriculture announced today. Sodatol was described by the bureau as a high explosive made by mixing T. N. T. and sodium nitrate.

EARTHQUAKE BULLETINS

OSAKA, Sept. 7. (AP)—The Brazilian minister to Japan, his wife and the Mexican minister are safe, the secretary of the Japanese foreign office announced today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Consul Dickover at Kobe cabled the state department today that the American consuls and communists at Nagoya, Nagasaki and Taihoku were safe and that Judge Lobinger of the American consular court at Shanghai and members of his party "with Porter and Husar" also were safe in Kobe.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7. (AP)—British Vice Consul Haigh at Yokohama was killed in the earthquake, says a British naval wireless received here. The wife of Surgeon Commander William Hingston, who was in charge of the Yokohama naval hospital, also was killed, but the remainder of his staff and their families escaped.

MANILA, Sept. 7. (AP)—The current report that the Bonin Islands, off the coast of Japan, were sunk or altered greatly by the earthquakes is doubted by the heads of the observatory here. The scientists explained that such a catalysm was possible thousands of years ago when the earth's crust was thin, but now that the crust is many kilometers thick it would take an unparalleled shock to sink islands the size of the Bonin group.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—While the navy department had no information from its own sources relative to the fate of the two enlisted men of the naval hospital at Yokohama reported dead in state department advices, they were identified from the records as follows:

Paul Raymond Cannon, third class pharmacist mate, of Ardmore, Okla., and Antonio Ingenito, of Middleville, Long Island.

They Say:

"Wichita Falls has an excellent system of schools," said T. H. Shelby of the University of Texas who has been conducting the district teachers institute at the First Baptist church for the past five days. "The building of the junior college here is splendid work. Wichita Falls has always been known for her progressiveness and aggressiveness.

"The junior college will enable students to attend an educational institute in their home town for two years after finishing high school. In addition to that, it will tend to relieve the crowded condition in the university by taking care of many freshmen and sophomores.

"This institute is one of the best in the state," Mr. Shelby stated when asked concerning the ranking of the local institute with others he has attended. "This is because of the high grade of teachers attracted here due to the fact that salaries in this part of the state are higher than in other parts. Then, too, this is the largest institute. The co-operation of the cities and independent districts with the counties in the work brings more teachers to the institute and causes a more democratic spirit."

Mr. Shelby is connected with the extension department of the University of Texas. He was a judge of the school exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma Fair last year, and it is possible that he will again officiate in that capacity this year.

GOVERNMENT TAKES FIRST STEP TO ISSUE LEASES ALONG RIVER

TAKES STEPS TO ISSUE RIVER BED LEASES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Each of the applicants for oil and gas leases in the Red river district bordering on Oklahoma and Texas was asked in a circular sent out by the interior department today to show cause why his application should be considered a preferred one.

The action was the first step toward issuance of leases and the settlement of the claims of 160 applicants. The land has been in dispute since 1911.

Special to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The first step for the issuance of oil and gas leases and the settlement of claims of 160 applications in the Red river oil district bordering on Oklahoma and Texas was taken by the department of the interior today. It consisted of forwarding a copy of a map showing the conflicting claims of various applicants with instructions to each one of them to show cause why their application should be considered a preferred one.

The map as completed by the general land office shows a maze of claims on the more valuable part of the area, consisting of a 15-mile stretch along the river where oil is being produced.

Authority for the settlement of these claims and the issuance of oil and gas leases was placed in the hands of the secretary of the interior by an act of congress passed March 4, 1923.

Barton has been adjutant general since January, 1921, having been appointed when Governor Neff took office. PROFESSOR JOURNALISM UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS IS SAFE IN HONOLULU

AUSTIN, Sept. 7. (AP)—W. D. Hornaday, professor of journalism at the University of Texas and prominent Texas newspaper man, escaped the Japanese earthquake, according to a cablegram, received by relatives here today. He was in Honolulu when the earthquake occurred, the message stated, and now is on his way back to Tokio. Hornsday is touring the far east writing a series of articles for Texas newspapers. He had been in Tokio.

Oklahoma Klan Responsible For Tulsa 'Famous Whipping Pasture' Is Charged by Governor Walton

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 7. (AP)—The Ku Klux Klan was revealed today as the organization charged by Governor J. C. Walton with responsibility for the lash reign in Tulsa county.

Evidence gathered by the military court investigating mob floggings in the vicinity of Tulsa lays authorship of the outrages directly at the door of the klan, it was declared by Aldrich Blake, councilor to the governor. Blake was commissioned by Governor Walton to review the testimony taken by the military authorities and tell the "story of Tulsa."

In all the testimony of more than 500 witnesses examined not a suspicion has been cast upon a single person outside the "invisible empire," Blake declared.

Named as an organization responsible for the whippings that multiplied unchecked in Tulsa county for more than a year until martial law was invoked, the klan was also revealed as the force which Governor Walton charges has honey combed the courts and civil offices of the county protecting floggers and making justice impossible.

Tulsa county's most "famous whipping pasture," a spot a mile and a quarter southeast of Alsuma, was described by Blake—a place of torture from which "strong men stagger away ruined for life." A broad leather strap, "cat tailed," at the tip was the instrument of punishment he pictured.

The files of the military court yield the story of a prominent Tulsa citizen, formerly a member of the klan, who attended a whipping party. A man from some other town conducted the proceedings, he said. "I don't know him—you see they usually have a man from some other klan, a stranger to the community—to take charge," he testified. At least 150 masked men attended the flogging party, according to the testimony.

A woman tells how she was dragged out of bed at night by a band of men and was taken to the whipping pasture with her husband. Both were flogged.

Another victim, an elderly man, was whipped because he signed a petition opposing the local school administration.

One man, a member of a township school board, escaped punishment when he promised to vote for a school head favored by his abductors.

Reports circulated in the state that the klan in Tulsa has offered to disband if Governor Walton agrees to withdraw his military investigators and lift martial law have found no official confirmation. Governor Walton refused to comment on reports that Adjutant General R. H. Markham, who came here yesterday for a conference with the executive, brought with him a peace offer from klan officials conditioned upon withdrawal of troops from Tulsa county.

REQUEST IS REFERRED TO JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—The request of Representative Howard of Oklahoma for a war department investigation into the use of Oklahoma national guard units in enforcement of Governor Walton's proclamation of martial law in Tulsa county was referred today by Secretary Weeks to Major General Bethel, judge advocate general of the army, for an opinion.

Secretary Weeks said he personally did not see where jurisdiction could be found by the war department for the purposes suggested by Mr. Howard, but would not make a decision until he had been given a formal opinion by the army chief law officer.

CHARGE GOVERNOR'S FIGHT IS ONLY AGAINST KLAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 7. (AP)—Charges that Governor J. C. Walton is not interested in the victims of masked violence; that his fight is directed only against the Ku Klux Klan were made here today by N. W. Jarrett, of Oklahoma City, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, who declared in a formal statement that the governor "and all his cohorts never will be able to break the power of the klan in Oklahoma."

The statement alleges that the governor is waging a fight on the organization in furtherance of his political ambitions and adds:

"Walton has taken hold of an iron that has grown so hot that he would be glad to drop it right now if he could."

The grand dragon's statement was occasioned by the issuance last night by Aldrich Blake, executive counsellor, of the first part of Governor Walton's "story of Tulsa," which blamed the Ku Klux Klan exclusively for the numerous cases of masked activity in Tulsa county during the last year.

"Blake's charges," it says, "are too absurd to be noticed."

RED CROSS FUND FOR RELIEF NEAR $2,000,000 MARK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—Early reports to the Red Cross headquarters here today indicated that subscriptions to the $5,000,000 Japanese relief fund were nearing the $2,000,000 mark.

Encouraged by the report of financial support, the executive committee moved swiftly to meet the immediate relief needs as they had been outlined in official advices from the orient. Secretary Hoover bringing to bear his experience from the vast purchasing problems of the Belgian relief commission, the United States Grain Corporation and the American relief administration, personally worked out plans to obtain and ship at once tinned meat, clothing, underwear, shoes, galvanized iron, lumber and tarpaulins for temporary shelter.

Instructions were sent to Pacific coast points to accompany shipments of such commodities as rice with the necessary material with which to build warehouses for the supplies once they reach Tokohama.

Specific actions by the executive committee today included:

Ordered a cargo of timber shipped from Seattle and Portland for erection of shelters for the homeless and warehouses.

Approved the purchase and directed the speediest delivery of six million pounds of food stuffs from San Francisco in ship space available there.

Directed that a cargo of 2,000,000 pounds of foodstuffs and 4,500,000 feet of lumber be sent at once from Seattle on the fastest available ship.

Directed the purchase of 200,000 suits of underwear for men, women and children and 200,000 pairs of socks for immediate shipment.

Harding Will Is Filed for Probate No Appraisement

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 7. (AP)—The will of the late President Harding, filed for probate here today, leaves to Mrs. Harding a life estate of $100,000, the Harding home in Mount Vernon avenue here and a half interest in the building occupied by the Marion Star. The total of the late president's estate can not be determined until the appraisers report.

Upon the death of Mrs. Harding the $100,000 life estate, mostly in government bonds and securities, and the other interests bequeathed her will go to the late president's brother, Dr. George T. Harding Jr., of Columbus, and to his sisters, Charity M. Rensberg, Abagail V. Harding and Mrs. Carolyn Votaw, or their heirs.

Mrs. Harding also was given all personal effects to dispose of as she sees fit.

Dr. George T. Harding, the aged father of the late president, was given a life estate of $50,000 and the residence in which he lives here. Upon his death this property will revert to Dr. Harding's son and daughters.

The will specifically states that no part of the estate shall be used for a monument to the late president excepting for a "modest stone."

Port Arthur City Attorney Indicted In Flogging Cases

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 7. (AP)—Assistant City Attorney Fred White of Port Arthur has been indicted on a charge of assault with prohibited weapons in connection with the alleged flogging of Carl and Clay Dunn, brothers, at Port Arthur last month. The warrant was served by State Ranger Captain Roy Nichols, and White made bond of $500 immediately on being brought to Beaumont.

Ten other indictments have been returned by the grand jury, believed to be in connection with the same floggings. Captain Nichols is expected to serve these during the afternoon.

NEGOTIATIONS IN COAL CONTROVERSY ARE NEAR CLIMAX

UNION LEADERS PREPARE TO RECOMMEND COURSE TO END STRIKE.

NO INDICATION GIVEN OF DECISION REACHED

Associates Optimistic As to Possible Results of Executive Session.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7. (AP)—Miners' union leaders went into session today with delegates of their organization representing anthracite workers determined to recommend a course which may end the suspension of mining. John L. Lewis, the union's president, however, would give no indication of what decision was reached, though his associates were optimistic as to its possible results.

The scale committee meeting broke up at 3:30 with President Lewis withholding any information as to the conclusions reached during the session.

The union officials then went to the capitol for the scheduled conference with Governor Pinchot.

The operators left the meeting shortly after the miners' representatives arrived with the announcement they would return at 7 o'clock tonight. The miners, however, were still with the governor.

MINE NEGOTIATIONS HEAD TOWARD CLIMAX

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7. (AP)—Governor Pinchot's attempt to end the suspension of anthracite mining was headed toward a climax today. Leaders of the mine workers were scheduled at 3 p. m. to decide whether a full acceptance of his terms could be given. For the mine operators a practically complete acceptance of the governor's peace proposals has been guaranteed, and the governor was expected to have the union's decision late today.

The operators' group agreed in behalf of the employers to grant a 10 per cent increase to all anthracite workers, to establish the eight-hour day, to recognize the union and to concede the principle of collective bargaining, the four things asked by the governor.

However, John D. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his associates in the conduct of the negotiations were still holding out on the two principal demands of the union which are unsatisfied by the governor's peace proposals. They asked the "check off" system for collection of union dues and that day workers in the anthracite region who number nearly 100,000 men, be given more than a 10 per cent increase in pay. They did accept the 10 per cent offer, insofar as it applies to the rates per ton for mining coal, which govern the earnings of the contract miners, who number perhaps 50,000.

Statement Made by Ambassador Following Session of the Council Greek Acceptance Means Peace

PARIS, Sept. 7. (AP)—The inter-allied council of ambassadors after considering the Greco-Italian dispute, announced upon adjournment this evening that the decision taken would be kept secret pending the dispatch of a note to the Greek government, a copy of which will also be sent to the council of the league of nations now sitting at Geneva.

The text of the note, it was promised, will be made public tomorrow noon.

Baron Avezzano, the Italian ambassador, informed the council at the beginning of the session at 3 o'clock that Italy was ready to accept the ruling of the ambassadors council provided certain of the essential demands in the Italian ultimatum to Greece were maintained.

At the conclusion of the session the Italian ambassador told the newspaper correspondents that "the council's decision was quite satisfactory and would probably be acceptable to the Italian government should Greece meet the council's demands.

PARIS, Sept. 7. (AP)—The inter-allied council of ambassadors after a lengthy session this morning adjourned until after noon to await definite word whether Italy is prepared to accept the mediation o the council in the present Greco-Italian dispute. All further discussions, it was said, are contingent upon Italy's reply.

During the morning session the ambassadors discussed the advisability of sending a commission to the scene of the massacre of the Italian boundary mission to conduct an investigation and report upon the responsibility for the crime.

The French government favors to attempt settling the Italo-Greek question by every possible means before appeal is made to the League of Nations, and things the ambassadors council is the most authoritative body to deal with the crisis, it is stated in authoritati e circles.

It is expressly pointed out, however, that the French viewpoint embodies no implication of the league's incompetence, but owing to the opinion expressed among the small-er nations that the league's prestige would greatly suffer should it fail to settle the question the French would keep the supreme test from the league and recommend it only as the last resort.

MAY APPLY ARTICLE 16 TO ITALIAN CONTROVERSY

GENEVA, Sept. 7. (AP)—Many of the delegates at the fourth assembly of the league of nations remark that the climax of the Greco-Italian negotiations will come when the council decides or declines to apply the famous article 16 of the league covenant because as a member state she has defied the competency of the international forum to regulate her dispute with Greece.

The impression continues to grow that the council must act in some way and the question is being asked whether the executive body will dare apply article 16, which would mean the cutting off of the financial relations of the member states with Italy and a veritable economic boycott of the Italian nation. Delegates are also speculating as to whether members of the league would obey such an injunction, if imposed.

SAYS U. S. WOULD BE JUSTIFIED IN APPROVAL

ROME, Sept. 7. (AP)—Italy's attitude in refusing to recognise the competence of the League of Nations to intervene in her dispute with Greece should have met with approval, above all in America, said Premier Mussolini in an interview with a correspondent.

"Indeed," he said, "the attempt made to refuse a great power like Italy the right to defend her own honor was a tangible demonstration of the danger Americans were the first to detect in this organism which far from facilitating a solution of such controversies between states, renders them more difficult and more dangerous."

Italy is firmly convinced of the rightfulness of her position he said, and she asks "nothing better than that Greece accept as soon as possible her demands for reparation, thus ending the present situation."

Mussolini said he had been painfully impressed by the unjust criticism directed against Italy by some American newspapers. "American public opinion," he continued, "can not fail to be struck by the gravity of the crime committed in Greece by the massacre of the Italian delegation."

The people of the United States must realize, he added, "that the country on whose territory this crime was committed can not but be considered morally, materially and politically responsible, not only because this is a principle of international law universally accepted, but because everybody knows of former political crimes that have occurred in Greece, one of the worst of them staining the present Greek government.

"Besides, the action of the characteristic Greek bands that have worked particularly on the Greco-Albanian frontier is well known. It is also universally known that they were notoriously encouraged by the government. Athens several times has been warned of the dangers coming from not checking if not helping, the actions of these bands.

"Under these conditions the responsibility of the Greek government is much graver than that of any government on whose territory political crimes have been committed."

MEETING OF COUNCIL OF LEAGUE IS POSTPONED

GENEVA, Sept. 7. (AP)—The council of the league of nations decided to hold no meeting today. It was also agreed that the scheduled session of the assembly should be postponed, the controlling reason being a desire to avoid dangerous discussions at a plenary meeting of the delegates until the council has seen some light as to its duty in the Greco-Italian negotiations and is able to make some report to the assembly.

The council yesterday postponed decision on the question of the league's competence to intervene in the Italo-Greek situation. It decided instead to forward the minutes of its discussions to the council of ambassadors in Paris, thus in effect submitting the matter to the latter.

Before the war when marks were worth 23.8 cents each, the marks that could be purchased for one dollar today would have cost $17,601,760.

U. S.-MEXICO AGREEMENT TO BE SIGNED SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—The two claims conventions between the United States and Mexico negotiated at Mexico City by Charles Beecher Warren and John Barton Payne will be signed by American and Mexican plenipotentiaries tomorrow at the state department.

The first of the conventions provides for the creation of a commission to have jurisdiction (exclusive of war) of American claims against Mexico arising from revolutions in Mexico. The second creates a mixed claims commission which will have jurisdiction over all other claims of Americans against Mexico and of Mexicans against the United States. Some of these go back as far as 1868.

The umpire of each commission will be appointed by the president of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague. The United States and Mexico each will have one representative on each of the commissions.

Mr. Warren and Mr. Payne both returned to Washington today and their presence here gave rise to a belief that they had been named as plenipotentiaries to sign the conventions with Secretary Hughes for the United States.

Patrons Play Fair With The Youngsters

Just because your children have rosy cheeks and bright eyes, don't make the common mistake of taking it for granted that your youngsters must be perfectly well. What do you know about eyes, throats, ears, teeth, lungs, skin?

These helpless little children are dependent upon you to save them from the lifelong unhappy consequences of neglected colds and infected adenoids. Do not let sickness keep your boys and girls from getting the education they will need in future years.

Make sure that your children are in fit condition to start to school. There are four things at least to do immediately.

1. Eyes. Children who cannot see clearly are under a constant nervous strain which is bound to affect their health. Have your children's eyes examined by a competent eye specialist.

2. Throats. Have your children examined for adenoids and diseased tonsils. Total deafness and many serious illnesses often come from neglecting this danger zone.

3. Ears. Thousands of children are thought dull in school because they cannot hear distinctly. If anything is wrong with your child's hearing consult a specialist.

4. Teeth. Much sickness comes from decayed teeth. Physicians say that poisons may be carried in the blood from the teeth to other parts of the body. Take your children to a dentist.

Send your boys and girls back to school this fall as healthy as possible. The day is not far off when these youngsters of ours will be the backbone of the nation—make them strong!

Eliminate as much of the middleman's profit. Reduce the cost of living. Lower the family expense budget. One of the great items of the family expense is life and accident insurance. But this can be materially made by joining the local mutual aid life and accident association recently organized by leading citizens of the county. In this way save many dollars to each member of the family that may be used to educate the children, buy a home, or save for old age.

The Wichita Home Insurance Company is now the largest mutual aid company in Texas, and the only one of Fort Worth in Texas. This organization has recently made the following announcement:

"Every person accepted for insurance is classified according to his age, as follows:

Class AA—Ages 10 to 45
Class A—Ages 10 to 45
Class B—Ages 10 to 45
Class C—Ages 10 to 45
Class D—Ages 10 to 50

The first class covers accident insurance.

1,500 members are to be included in each group, thus always assuring a full membership. Members agree to pay $1.10 for each death and $1.00 each six months for the expense fund.

Only healthy white men, women and children of good moral character between the ages of 10 and 50 years are accepted. Under this plan insurance may be had at actual cost.

Leigon to Fight Proposal to Drop Name of Castle

FORT WORTH, Sept. 7. (AP)—Proposal to change the name of Vernon Castle Boulevard to plain "Boulevard" will be contested by the American Legion, according to Harwood Davis, adjutant of the Bothwell Kane post of the legion. Haynie several months ago, was found guilty by a jury yesterday in district court here and was sentenced to life in prison. Haynie was killed while driving some of Graham's chickens from the former's garden. It was announced that the case would be appealed.

ENFORCEMENT TWO HOUR PARKING ORDINANCE DECREASES VIOLATIONS

That the institution of a penalty for overtime parking has brought about a marked reduction in the number of violations is evidenced by the police blotter. For the first two weeks after the ruling was put into effect before a penalty was assessed there was an average of 18 violations daily. Since September 1, when the violation became subject to a fine, the number has been reduced to between 10 and 15 violations.

Friday morning 15 charges of violation of traffic ordinances were on the docket, ten of the number were charged with parking overtime, the remaining five were booked for speeding and driving without lights. Fines of $5 and $10 were assessed in the traffic cases that came to trial. Two charges of drunkenness and one of vagrancy were brought up for disposal at the Friday morning session.

URGES CREATION OIL SURPLUS FOR STABILIZING PRICE

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Sept. 7. (AP)—S. L. Collins of the Collins Oil company of Knoxville, Iowa, told the meeting of independent oil jobbers and refiners here last night to stabilize the oil and gasoline market by creating a surplus for future distribution. By protecting the market at a time when the stability of the market is threatened, he said, the oil dealer is not only protecting himself, but the public.

The meeting is atended by 125 oil men from Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri and they will continue their sessions today.

"I do not think that 20 cents a gallon for gasoline and 15 cents for kerosene are exorbitant prices," said Mr. Collins. "Get your feet on the ground. If you don't you are going to have trouble later. Get a broader view of your self and the public. Nobody is going to be ruined unless you desert the common economic law."

The recent over-production of some wells in California was given by Mr. Collins as the reason for the present condition of the market. He said this was no unnatural thing and predicted that if the oil men of the country do not prepare for the time when the production will fall off, they will not perform their duty to the public.

WOMAN WAS SAVED FROM OPERATION

Mrs. Morris Was So Weak Before Taking Stella Vitae She Couldn't Sit Up.

"I was taken to hospital for an operation but was too weak to stand it, so they took me back home and I recovered my health and strength by taking Stella Vitae," said Mrs. W. O. Morris, 424 Hopkins St., Waco, Texas.

"When my baby was born I suffered agony and had to stay in bed for a long time. An operation was necessary—at least that was what they said. But when they examined me they said it might prove fatal as I was in no condition to stand it.

"I began taking Stella Vitae and gradually my strength returned. I gained five pounds and the operation was never necessary. I got along fine and although that was ten years ago I have never had any return of my trouble."

Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief.—Adv.

NEW SURE WAY TO END BILIOUSNESS

Torpid Liver Fills Body With Poisons—Pepsinated Calomel Guaranteed to Relieve Between Sundown and Sunup—No Nausea.

Calomel is the only medicine that will actually reach the liver, but ordinary calomel is so drastic that many have deprived themselves of its fine effects because of its harshness. This objection has been overcome in Pepsinated Calomel. Many who formerly could not take calomel are finding a most acceptable remedy in Pepsinated Calomel because it is English Calomel (which doctors recognize as the standard of purity), treated with pepsin and other soothing ingredients that not only stimulate the liver to normal action, but sweeten the stomach and aid digestion. Many report that the use of Pepsinated Calomel unclogs their systems of poisonous waste, brings back appetite, causes dullness to disappear and makes them "feel like new!"

Palace Drug Store and all reliable druggists recommend and guarantee Pepsinated Calomel to bring relief between sundown and sunup or your money refunded. Try it—no guarantee you'll feel better tomorrow. (Adv.)

Father Convicted Of Murder Charge Sons Go to Trial

NEWMAN, Ga., Sept. 7. (AP)—With their father convicted of first degree murder, Grady and Jeff and their brothers-in-law, Floyd Weldon and Leonard Goodrum, will go on trial here today for their lives in connection with the death of Millard Trouton, another brother-in-law, J. W. Minter, head of the family, will probably be sentenced to pay the death penalty today, he having been convicted by a jury after a short trial yesterday.

Trouton, weighed down with rocks fastened about his body by a plow line, was thrown alive into a shallow creek near here a month ago.

Trouton was sentenced to death by the Minter family, according to evidence brought out at the trial yesterday. The Minters charged him with having whipped his wife, Mrs. Minter Trouton.

ARMED CONSPIRACY IS CHARGE MADE AGAINST MEMBERS OF CABINET

SOFIA, Sept. 7. (AP)—Armed conspiracy against the state is charged against the Bulgarian national agrarian league and members of the Stamboulisky cabinet in the indictment on which the government will base its prosecution of the ex-ministers in their forthcoming trial.

The document, made public by the state attorney, alleges that the representatives of the agrarian executive committees were instructed in orders issued last May to organize battle units everywhere which would constitute an army to be directed against all political opponents of the government, rendering them ineffective for at least twenty years.

He demands that the 12 surviving members of the Stamboulisky government be punished by prison sentences of three to ten years and that they be deprived of political rights.

Minister of Justice Sumiloff announced in Sofia on August 23 that 11 members of the Stamboulisky cabinet would be tried on capital charges, including bribery, murder and indictment to riot.

RECOGNITION DOES NOT MEAN OFFICIAL APPROVAL SAYS SENATOR BROOKHART

DES MOINES, Sept. 7. (AP)—Recognition of the soviet government of Russia does not mean official approval of that government by the United States any more than it means approval of the acts of several other governments that have been recognized, Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa declared in a statement published here today in the Iowa Legionaire, organ of the Iowa department of the American Legion. Such recognition, said the senator, was advocated by him only on the ground that it might have a far reaching effect in restoring world prosperity and eliminating world unrest.

Senator Brookhart's statement was a reply to a resolution recently adopted by the State American Legion convention in which the ex-service men opposed recognition of the soviet government. Mr. Brookhart is a member of the legion.

NO INCREASING STRENGTH IN WEEK'S WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Rather more inquiry is reported in the wool market this week, although no large volume of business has been done and prices have not shown any increased strength as a reaction from the London sales.

"The stronger tone at London, however, has not hurt this market and undoubtedly has prevented a further slump as some feared might result in case of weakness at London. Prices here, generally speaking, are without material change from a week ago.

"Since the opening in London prices have shofn some slight tendency to strengthen, although Bradford prices on tops are from 1 to 2 pence below the parity of London wool values. South American clip prospects are favorable, but a big decrease in low cross breeds is expected in Argentine.

"The goods market is still more or less chaotic, although slow progress is reported in clearing the congestion. Fall Texas hair is beginning to be shorn and a few small clips are reported contracted at low prices.

"Mohair is quiet and unchanged."

FORD REQUESTED TO MODIFY HIS OFFER ON MUSCLE SHOALS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. (AP)—The administration has proposed to Henry Ford a modification of his offer for the purchase and lease of the government's power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and the Detroit manufacturer after conferences with President Coolidge and Secretary Weeks, has taken the proposal under advisement. Negotiations on the offer were reopened when Mr. Ford came here yesterday at the request of the president.

The modification proposed by Secretary Weeks involves elimination from the offer of the Gorgas power plant on the Warrior river, which the war secretary is understood to have informed Mr. Ford the government probably would be compelled to sell to the Alabama Power company under the contract agreement entered into with it when the plant was constructed.

HANG WILLIAM OLANDER FOR MURDER IN IOWA

FORT MADISON, Iowa, Sept. 7. (AP) William Olander was hanged here this morning at state prison for the slaying of Berthold Halfpap, a Fort Dodge grocer.

Olander went to his death without show of emotion and without issuing any statement. The execution occurred at 7:30.

Olander asked permission last night from Warden Hollowell to be allowed to walk the corridor alone after the other prisoners had gone to bed. He was granted this and spent the early part of the night pacing back and forth along the cells.

"I am not blaming anybody," he said, "but I do not think I got quite the right deal. Anyway, I am at peace with God and man."

The body will be sent to Ottuwa, Iowa, for burial.

Olander's execution ended a long bitter court battle over the killing of Halfpap, in March, 1921, to which the condemned man pleaded guilty.

THREE MEN DEAD RESULT EXPLOSION; DAMAGE $1,000,000

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 7. (AP) The toll of dead as a result of the explosion last night of five carloads of smokeless powder on the Pennsylvania railroad today was increased to three men who died in hospitals of injuries. Damage caused by the explosion was estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

The dead are James Gillian and his brother, William, of Newark, and Marion P. Helles of Elizabeth, N. J.

County authorities began an investigation to determine whether the explosion was due to negligence.

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 7. (AP) One dead, an unidentified man, and 43 men and boys burned and injured, four of them probably fatally, was the toll early today of explosions and a fire which last night wrecked a train of powder cars on the Pennsylvania road trestle here.

Five of the powder bearing cars exploded, scattering burning timbers and boxes of unexploded powder over an area of an acre. Some of the blazing boxes fell in the midst of a line of motor cars whose occupants were watching the burning train, setting fire to the automobiles and injuring all in them.

First reports of the accident declared at least four persons had been killed. This was disproved, however, when ambulances and police patrols which had been rushed from nearby towns had taken the victims to hospitals.

FATHER OF MAN KILLED AT COLORADO GETS NEGRO CHARGED WITH CRIME

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 7.(AP)—George Taylor, negro, charged with the murder at Colorado last May 19 of Tom Morrison Jr., was returned to Colorado this morning. The negro was arrested Wednesday night at Italy, Texas, by Tom Morrison Sr., father of the slain man. Morrison, a well known cattleman, got wind of Taylor's whereabouts and made a hurried automobile trip to Italy where the negro was arrested by him. Morrison brought the alleged slayer of his son to Colorado by automobile and turned him over to officers there. The negro is under indictment charged with the slaying.

Pat Marr Under Bond for Alleged Misuse of Mails

ELDORADO, Ark., Sept. 7.(AP)—Pat Marr, credited as the discoverer of the light gravity area in the southern Arkansas oil field and rated as one of the most successful as well as spectacular promoters, was under $25,000 bond today to answer to a federal charge of using the mails to defraud.

Marr was arrested yesterday at the instance of government agents who based their charges of advertisements in connection with stock selling campaigns which they declared made promises which "no human being could fulfill."

Marr came to Eldorado about a year ago with little more than railroad fare, but during the year acquired properties recently appraised at $6,000,000 and during that time is estimated to have taken in approximately $3,200,000 in promotion projects. His holdings recently were incorporated in a new company and the names of several men of national prominence, including Congressman McFadden, of Pennsylvania, and Congressman Oldfield, of Arkansas, were included in the directorate. Federal agents indicated that these men merely were concerned with the operation of the properties and were in no way connected with the alleged transactions which resulted in Marr's arrest.

SEYMOUR HOST TO DISTRICT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MEETING

SEYMOUR, TEXAS, Sept. 7.—The Wichita Falls district of the Christian Endeavor convened here today in its regular annual session with more than 100 delegates present, practically every locality having sent its delegates here for the occasion. Miss Myrtle Shelton of Bowie, president of the society, arrived here Wednesday to assist in supervising the final details for the convention.

The program begins this evening at 6:30 with the enrollment of delegates, followed at 7:00 o'clock with song service. A luncheon will be served Saturday noon to the visiting delegates, followed later in the afternoon by an entertainment given by the local chamber of commerce at Fair Park, which will include swimming and dinner.

The Christian Endeavors of the local Presbyterian and Christian churches are co-operating in the meeting and are gratified with the success of the occasion which promises to be the greatest session of the convention.

DENY THAT KLANSMEN TOOK DOWN MEXICO FLAG

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Headquarters of the local Ku Klux Klan issued a public statement today saying that members of the klan took down Mexican flags in Liberty Hall, but denying that the flags were mutilated.

"The flags were hung in the hall for an American-Mexican celebration over the recognition of Mexico. The klan gave up the hall that night and postponed a lecture to the following night. The night of the lecture an officer of the klan assisted by two other men took down the Mexican flags, the statement said.

The city council passed resolutions yesterday condemning such action and Mayor Dudley and city and county officials asserted that the flags were "torn down."

"The klan has no apology to make," read the klan statement. "The flags were taken down, neatly folded and laid away. No disrespect to Mexico was intended. The klan deemed it proper to hold a ceremony under no flag except the American flag."

Letters from Leslie Prescott to the Gay Little Marquise

I didn't expect to write you so soon again, but there is something that is worrying me, little Marquise. Not a great big worry but a kind of restless conscious feeling like the dull pain of some forgotten and supposedly healed scar.

Ruth seemed so queer when she saw the baby. She picked him up and looked at him until he grew restless and began to cry and as he did that one of his eyebrows raised itself in the middle just as Jack does, and Ruth exclaimed, "Why, Leslie, if Jack was his father this baby could not look more like him."

"I am so glad," I answered. "You know I have a theory, Ruth, that people grow not only be to alike in manner and disposition if they are long together, but they grow more or less to look alike. I expect this baby, by the time he grows into a boy big enough to go to school, to look like both Jack and me. It won't be so hard for him to look more and more like Jack if he already has a few little mannerisms. Besides, you know, Ruth dear, that Jack is a very handsome chap."

When my husband came home, I told him what Ruth had said and he seemed quite annoyed. "I never did like Ruth Ellington very well. Her greatest fault is curosity. It has gotten her into a lot of trouble, not only with her friends, but with her husband. I have always believed that she would have avoided much of that talk which has surged about her in connection with Walter Burke if she hadn't been so curious to know just how far Walter would go with a little encouragement. I never did care for these curious women, Leslie."

"But I don't think," I answered Jack, "that it was wholly curiosity which made Ruth encourage Mr. Burke. You must know, dear, that Harry is always deep in an affair with some other woman. A neglected wife has some excuse if she knows that her husband is untrue to her."

"Nevertheless, my dear," said Jack, "I believe it is Ruth's curiosity more than anything else that has always gotten her into trouble. Curiosity is the greatest temptation in the world, you know, and Ruth never has seemed to understand what happened to Bluebeard's wives."

"But I can't understand, Jack," I interrupted, "why she should be curious about the baby. As far as I am concerned, I don't care if he were like Topsy and 'just growed.' The next time she speaks to me about it, I'm going to tell her so."

"That's right, Leslie, but it is probable that she will never speak about it again. By the next time she come here her curiosity will have gone off on another tack."

Nevertheless, dear little Marquise, it gives me a kind of uncomfortable feeling to think that every time I go out with my baby some one is going to make some curious remark about it.

That is what I wanted to tell you in the first place and I told you all the rest just leading up to it.

Tomorrow—Leslie writes to her sister, Alice—The happiness of "natural love."

Cheap Movies and Trashy Stories Blamed for Boys' 'Torture' Deaths

Hubert Forman and Caleb Hubbard (right).

By BOB DORMAN
NEA Service Staff Writer.

BELMAR, N. J., Sept. 7.—"Wild West" movies plus lurid detective tales plus juvenile imitativeness equals tragedy.

Such a sum brought about the death of two boys here, and the arrest of two others, held for the grand jury. The deaths came by fire while the four youngsters were playing "Indian" after the fashion of the cheaper movies.

Caleb Hubbard, 13, his brother, Willie, 16, Hubert Forman, 16, and Charlie Spindler, 11, were the actors in the tragedy. But only Caleb and Hubert are alive to tell the tale. One is in jail in Freehold, the county seat; the other is at home under bail.

Here, for the first time, is the story of the tragedy, as they told it, in an exclusive interview with NEA Service:

After an afternoon of swimming and baseball, the boys began skylarking as they turned their steps homeward.

They wanted to have some excitement, but didn't know just what. Suddenly, one of them, who had been feasting up on detective stories, suggested:

"Let's play sleuths."

In a twinkling, Caleb and Hubert took the lead. As detectives, they seized and bound the other two boys with twine. Then they put them in a large packing case found in a hollow in the woods, back of the gas company's plant. This was the jail.

But this wasn't exciting enough. A search was made of the pockets of the prisoners. Some matches were found.

"Why not burn the prisoners at the stake, like the Indians did?" was the idea suggested by one of the boys looking at the match. No quicker said, than done.

The two bound boys were stood against a tree in lieu of the traditional stake. A small piece of excelsior was fired.

Ordinarily no harm would have resulted— but the boys had failed to take into account the oil-soaked grass.

Flames shot high in the air, enveloping the two victims.

Frightened by the cries of the two burning boys, Caleb and Hubert dashed in to free them. They broke the twine that bound the boys, burning their own hands as they did so. But the damage was done. Willie and Charlie died soon after.

A sobered Hubert sits at home with his mother. The smile of youth is missing from his face. He is out on bail awaiting the action of the grand jury.

"We didn't mean to hurt them," he says. "We were just playing like we saw in the movies."

His voice is flat, with a dead undertone of horror. From his face, with its high cheekbones and heavy eyelids, his eyes look out on the world with a sullen look of defiance.

He defends his friend Caleb vigorously.

"Caleb is all right. It would have been just the same with any other boys. People don't like Caleb because he's poor."

But Hubert's mother is not as kindly disposed towards Caleb.

"I didn't want Hubert to play with him," she says, "but he would. Now look in what a mess he is."

Who lighted the fatal match is a secret.

With a boy's loyalty, Hubert says "I don't remember."

Caleb, in jail at Freehold, is equally reticent.

He also "doesn't remember."

Caleb is undersized for his age. His pinched face is sallow, with sullen eyes looking forth suspiciously upon a world that has never held much of pleasure for him.

He admits his fondness for lurid detective stories.

Tears came to his eyes when questioned about his dead brother.

"We didn't mean any harm," he cries. "I loved Willie, and wouldn't have had anything happen to him for anything.

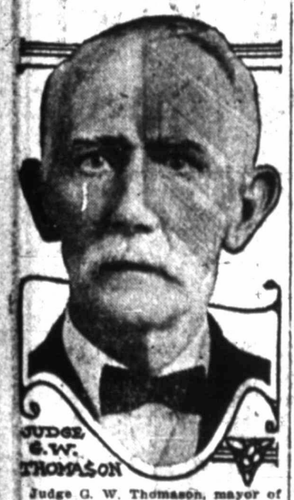

"I carried him to the water after we had broken the string that bound him. My hands were all burned." He displayed two hands on which the burns were still visible.

The tears rolled down his cheeks.

But, like Hubert, he refuses to say who lit the fire.

Trashy literature and cheap movies have once more taken their toll.

Alabama Mayor Says Tanlac Restored His Health

JUDGE G. W. THOMASON

Judge G. W. Thomason, mayor of Warrant City, Alabama, widely known and highly esteemed pioneer citizen, recently gave his unqualified endorsement to the Tanlac treatment.

"Chronic indigestion brought me to the verge of a general breakdown three years ago," said Judge Thomason, "and nothing seemed to afford much relief. I was eating scarcely enough to keep going on, and food stayed in my stomach like a rock, causing pain and extreme nervousness. Sleep was often impossible, and I gradually weakened so I could hardly attend to my office duties.

"The first bottle of Tanlac improved my appetite and digestion wonderfully, my nervousness disappeared and I rested better at night. Each successive bottle gave added impetus to my returning strength, and I felt ten years younger when I finished the sixth bottle a short time later. Tanlac gave me new zest in life that still remains with me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—Adv.

This Little World

LOS ANGELES

By DON RYAN
NEA Service Writer

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—Los Angeles is as full of grotesquerie as a medieval city. For instance, along East Fifth street, there are many nuances, many eerie overtones in the symphony of life. Where else is there a chiropodist who seats his patient on a platform along the sidewalk and gives him a Police Gazette to read while his corns are being scraped al fresco?

Or where else a Scotch dentist with a blaring red mustache, who plays the bagpipe to attract custom, standing in his white starched apron beside his white, enameled dentist's chair in the middle of a room with three sides, and a big sign over the open front reading, "Free Dental Clinic"?

There is Madelon, the lady barber. There are no doors to her one-chair shop. Everything is in plain view. But if a customer, unabashed by this publicity, attempted to get fresh with Madelon he would be unpleasantly reminded of his inferiority. The lady barber is muscular—and she has the razor.

Famous figures of the films stalk self-consciously through the grounds of the Monroe Centennial and Motion Picture Revue, now in progress here. Visitors stare and nudge and whisper. Extras parade through the grounds laid out in buildings borrowed from the Aztecs, and bask in the visitors's belief that they are stars.

A girl in wig and rose-colored dress of the period of the Grand Monarch. Dark-skinned youth made up like Valentino in Spanish garb, flabbergasting girls from Nebraska. Sailors in the tinted costumes of H. M. S. Pinafore. Romans, Arabs, Merry Villagers. Color for the hungry eyes of the movie fans.

The Montmartre Cafe on the grounds is the scene of a banquet for the South American diplomats attending the exposition. Palm branches on poles overhead make a pleasant canopy for the banqueters. Between the branches are thin slices of the pale blue evening sky.

Los Angeles newspapers, fond of announcing, ever so often, that another "Big L. A. Murder Mystery" has come to gladden our hungry hearts, have overlooked a news story of a different sort, which will be read with interest in distant countries.

It is the discovery of an alleged original painting by Corot, greatest of the French landscape artists. Boris Deutsch, a Russian and a struggling young artist here, bought it for a song.

Connoisseurs think it is genuine. If it proves to be a real Corot it will be worth anything up to $200,000.

The section awards made in the roller chair parade include:

Western states: "Miss Portland," first; "Miss Tulsa," second; "Miss Dallas," third; "Miss Fort Worth," fourth, and "Miss Houston," fifth.

SALVATION ARMY TO RECEIVE FUNDS FOR JAPANESE RELIEF

Word has reached Wichita Falls from the national headquarters of the Salvation Army to the effect that the loss suffered by the Army in Japan as a result of the recent disaster is tremendous. Eighteen institutions including rescue and maternity hospitals, orphans' homes, corps and administration buildings, and all other departments of the work which were established in the stricken area, have suffered almost total loss. It is also stated that hundreds of native Japanese who were active in the work as well as European and American missionaries have lost their lives.

The international headquarters of the army is already rushing workers to the stricken area and every possible effort is being put forth to relieve the panic stricken natives and to reestablish the work which has been destroyed.

It has been requested by the national headquarters that all Salvation Army posts throughout the country take special offerings in each of their services this week, both on the street and in the regular services, this fund to be used in the relief work which is already being carried on.

The local corps has also decided to have a kettle and stand such as is used at Christmas season on a prominent corner all day Saturday to receive contributions which will be forwarded immediately to the headquarters and sent along with contributions from all American cities to the relief headquarters in the stricken area.

No solicitation for funds will take place but it is believed by all those interested in the local work that a good sum will be sent from Wichita Falls Monday morning to help in this great work.

REVIVAL MEETING AT CHURCH OF CHRIST TO BEGIN FRIDAY EVENING

Evangelist J. I. Reagan of Dallas will begin a revival meeting for the Church of Christ on the corner of North Tenth and Broadway streets Friday night to continue indefinitely.

Mr. Reagan is said to be one of the best evangelists in the south. His manner is said to be altogether pleasant, yet very positive and pointed. He employs the Scriptures very freely to impress his hearers with the importance of respecting the Word of God above everything in the world. He has had a wide experience and the public is invited to hear him from time to time as the revival will be very pleasantly located in the open air and can accommodate all who may find it convenient to come. Many from nearby towns are expected to attend. The singing will be a special feature and all who come will be expected to join in the songs if they will, as the singing will be of the congregational type.

The services will begin each evening promptly at 7:45 o'clock.

Send the Whole Child to School

Here's a question every parent should ask himself:

"Am I sending my WHOLE CHILD to school?"

A WHOLE CHILD means a child possessed of ALL its faculties, and few handicaps are so disasterous as eyes that are only partly efficient.

The tragedy of it lies in the fact that usually neither the child, the parent, nor the teacher has any way of knowing that it is the eyes which are responsible for the backward development.

Our thorough eye examination will reveal any existing eye strain or impaired vision.

Teachers' Institute Closes Friday Morning After Selecting Wichita Falls as Their Next Meeting Place

The teachers institute, which has been in progress at the First Baptist Church since Monday morning, was adjourned for the year at 11:46 o'clock Friday morning. Teachers from Clay, Archer, Baylor, and Wichita counties, and the cities of Wichita Falls, Vernon, Chillicothe, and Quanah were assembled for the institute, with an attendance of over 700.

At the business session at the close of the meeting Friday morning, the resolutions proposed by a special committee were adopted. Besides thanking the people of Wichita Falls for their interest and cooperation with the leaders of the institute, the resolutions called for the raising of the institute fee for next year to $1.50; the naming of Wichita Falls as the meeting place of the next institute; and the recommending of the removal of the office of county superintendent from politics. The resolutions suggested electing a man to this office as the city superintendent is elected, by a special board.

As one of the resolutions set forth by the committee, it was also voted to support Lee Clark, formerly superintendent of the city schools in this city and now holding that position in the Gainesville city schools, as president of the state teachers association at the next election. Mr. Clark is an active member of the association.

Need of Institute.

T. O. Borden, representative of the state department of education, delivered the principal address of the morning session Friday. Mr. Borden spoke on the interest taken in the institute, and said that at present there was no law authorizing institutes or legalizing the paying of salaries during institute week. He stated that if the salaries of the teachers was suddenly stopped there would be something doing.

"The state department is recognizing institutes without the authority of the law," he explained. "If the sentiment of the teachers is against the institutes, your state superintendent will be in favor of abolishing them. The life of the institute remains with the teacher alone.

"There is more in our profession than a lot of knowledge in books. Many teachers merely teach lessons found in text books and do not go to the building of real character. Therefore the teacher needs to attend an institute to get the training that this institution affords."

As he ended his talk, Mr. Borden said that there was an interrogation mark placed around the teacher because of inefficiency. "The present school survey marks clearly this interrogation mark."

At the assembly of the institute Thursday night, Mr. Shelby again spoke on the topic of scientific school surveys. The survey, according to Mr. Shelby, would tell how Texas ranged with other states in educational resources. It would give the percentage of students in the high school in contrast with the percentage in the elementary schools. It would also tell the exact number of teachers in the state and what rate certificate these teachers held.

The only other address of the evening was a talk by Prof. W. L. Hughes, special representative from A. and M. College, on the subject of "Boys." Mr. Hughes explained how to handle boys and how to apply boy psychology. The large assembly of teachers and citizens at the church Thursday evening was entertained with an organ recital by Mrs. F. R. Collard.

"Tll say I did some killing," she said when interviewed today. "My husband and children all said if I didn't face it and do some wholesale killing there'd be no more sleep in our home.

"Yes, I killed them a-plenty—flies, mosquitoes and bed bugs and now my tired husband can sleep nights and our house is free from filth-carrying flies, poisonous mosquitoes and disgusting bed bugs."

"Fly-Flu is the wonder worker that did it and it is just as destructive to ants, roaches, fleas and moths. Our home never was so sweet and sanitary as it is now. Fly-Flu disinfects and deodorizes too, you know."

FIVE TEACHERS TAKE LICENSE EXAMINATION

All the teachers who took the examination Friday and which will continue Saturday are seeking to secure higher grade certificates than the one they now hold.

MEN WHO BROKE JAIL AT STAMFORD CAUGHT

Speck Omary and E. C. Johnson, the two men who broke jail at Stamford early this week, are both in the county jail. Johnson was arrested Thursday by Officer Belcher but Omary made his getaway. Officer Shook of Electra on his way home Friday noon apprehended Omary and placed him in jail. The Stamford authorities have been notified.

Waited For Men 24 Hours; Finds They're in Jail

One of the deputies of the sheriff's department of Wichita county spent 24 hours recently in watching for two men who were wanted by Archer county officials on a charge of swindling an aged man out of $1,000.

The deputy sheriff found that the two men he sought were registered at one of the local hotels and further discovered that their grips and hand bags were still in the room. Accordingly, he instituted the watch and wait policy and remained on duty for over 24 hours.

The next day the watch was again taken up and a few hours later it was learned that the two men had been arrested in Archer county and placed in jail only a few hours after the first message was sent to this city to be on a lookout for them.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Lo, children are an heritage of the Lord: happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them.—Ps. 127:3-5.

What gift has Providence bestowed on man that is so dear to him as his children!—Cicero.

VERNON'S RECORD OF AUTO TOURISTS.

An item from Vernon reports that 8231 tourists registered at the Vernon free tourist park in the month of August. Probably several times this number passed through Vernon without stopping, although it must be admitted that Vernon's inviting tourist park is a temptation to all tourists.

The automobile tourist travel grows each season. Travel most anywhere and you will meet flivvers in great numbers. When summer days come, the city man and the farmer as well load up the wife and kids, ties a bundle of blankets in a canvass on the running board, and they're off, maybe for a week or a month, and it's pretty hard to tell where they may go and what they will see before they get back home. The trip is certain to be educative for all the family. It usually brings everybody back home refreshed and invigorated from their outing. Another thing it does that is worth noting and that is that it brings them back better satisfied with their own homes.

We have an illustration of this in the story of a Wichita county farmer. His wheat made only a small yield. It appeared that his cotton was about to succumb to the drouth. His feed crop didn't amount to much. There was little to keep him at home, so he cranked up the flivver and made a long tour. After some weeks he came back home, hitched up the team and started plowing. After seeing considerable territory he returned satisfied that Wichita county had its advantages after all. If he had not taken the trip he might have sold his farm and moved to California or some other Utopia.

BOOZE-CRAZY.

Twice as many Americans were driven crazy by liquor last year as in 1921. This is claimed by numerous insanity authorities, including Dr. Horatio M. Pollock, of New York state hospital commission.

It means that booze is steadily getting more poisonous, rather than that people are drinking more in spite of prohibition.

The old-time rum-hound who "saw snakes" had it easy compared with the victim of bootleg hooch. Dr. John A. Houston, head of a state hospital for the insane in Massachusetts, reports:

"The patients who now come to us after alcoholic drink has rendered them insane are in a condition almost wholly different to that of patients whom we took in before prohibition.

"Our alcoholic insane today are in a much more confused mental condition and they are very sick physically. They do not have the hallucinations and fears which characterized the alcoholic insane in former days. But the most notable thing is their awful physical sickness.

"This is, of course, due to the poisonous drink which they have taken. They are in such a condition that they are really, at least for a time, a puzzle to the diagnostician."

There have always been a great many grades of liquor. Drunkards in the old days knew that certain brands of whiskey "packed more headache" than others. At the bottom of the list is bootleg, and that is why so many veteran drunkards, knowing liquor and sampling the sort that circulates today, have gone on the water wagon.

Even when comparatively "pure," bootleg liquor at its best is green liquor. In saloon days every self-respecting bartender apologized if the whiskey were less than seven years old.

AMERICA TO JAPAN.

There has been friction in the recent past between the Japanese and the American people. The Japanese are aggressive and ambitious. The interests of the two peoples have appeared to conflict in some of their contacts. There has been perhaps mutual suspicion and jealousy.

But now the Japanese nation and the Japanese people have been prostrated by one of the greatest catastrophes that has ever visited a people within the recorded history of the human race. Thousands upon thousands are dead and maimed. Millions are homeless and without food and clothing.

Such circumstances must arouse our sympathy and compassion. Throughout the United States the American Red Cross is organizing to receive and forward contributions to this stricken people. The American government has already acted to give immediate relief. The American people are preparing to follow up the efforts of their government. In the face of this disaster that has befallen the Japanese people all differences have disappeared and in the true spirit of charity America is preparing to lend her aid.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EVERYTHING TO WIN.

Unfortunate as it may seem to you to have lost all—as you often feel that you have—you are really at that time more fortunate than ever. For then it is that you have everything to win!

You cannot win all the time. Neither can you lose all the time.

The greatest thought that can come to you is that you have everything to win. Have you never thought of it in this light?

Henry Ford was a poor man at 40. At 60 he is the richest man in the world. And he is rich in much more than mere money. You see he had everything to win—and so he went ahead with faith in himself to win.

You are apt to say, because you are discouraged today, that this day won't count and that you will try and forget it. But remember this, if you have failed today, you have all the rest of your days in which to win.

So I would say: Go to sleep tonight with the dream of winning and of happiness in your heart. And then tomorrow will take care of itself, and of you.

Life must be kept ahead of us. Too many people keep it behind them.

And remember this: The greatest thing you can give to the one you love or to the world, is the richness of yourself. For when we feel that we have truly given to someone else, we feel that we have fulfilled the most divine purpose within us.

There really isn't time for regrets.

That which is ahead of you is what counts most. Let this be the thought that spurs you on: There is everything to win!

JUST FOLKS

—By—

EDGAR A. GUEST

RIGHTING A WRONG.

There is a cedar cottage next door,
Quaint and lovely and old,
And the logs still carry the bark they wore
When they were young and bold.
And the children who dwell there know that they Must never tear bits of that bark away.

Last night the father and mother stood
By the side of the porch and frowned—
One of the logs was bare to the wood,
There were thread-like wisps on the ground.
"We didn't do it!" the children said,
And for that "untruth" they were sent to bed.

I can see that porch through my window pane
As I sit at my desk to write,
And this morning I saw, and I can explain
Those two little tots were right.
"We didn't do it"—I'll pledge those words;
That havoc was wrought by two busy birds.

I watched them carry that bark away,
Strip by strip to their tree,
Doing their work at the break of day,
Thinking that none would see.
And so, despite of the children wronged last night,
And that is the reason these lines I write.

I shall show them the nest in the maple tree,
I shall tell them the things I've seen,
I shall set those punished children free
And wash their records clean.
And I'll say: "It is true as your children said;
You should have sent those two little birds to bed."

SPOILED.

My neighbor, Richard Rinktum Roe, has long lived next to me, and finer people seldom grow than Richard used to be. He was a modest, quiet gent, in those dear bygone days; about his useful chores he went, and made no grand stand plays. And when he talked it was of things that made a strong appeal; he spoke of books and wedding rings and art and linseed meal. I liked to gossip with him then, and when he went away I begged that he would come again and talk for half a day. He put some money in a ditch in Oklahoma soil, and now he's with the newly rich—his ditch produces oil. And now that he has many bones this Richard is a bore; he brags of everything he owns, and makes his neighbors sore. He walks the streets with kingly stride as though he owned the earth; he's swollen with unwholesome pride which stirs the boys to mirth. He thinks men envy and admire as up the street he wends, but his loud actions only tire the chaps who were his friends. They think him, when he looms in view, a dismal also-ran; "Gee whiz," they sigh, "what wealth can do to spoil a decent man!"

TODAY

Remember Japan,
Blaming the Creator,
Wages 22 cents a week.
$40,000,000 targets.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1923, The Star Co.)

At the end of the fire in San Francisco, Japan contributed to the relief fund $254,000, more than the total amount contributed by all other foreign nations.

San Francisco requested no assistance. She rebuilt herself with miraculous speed and energy.

None the less the generous act of Japan, now so dreadfully afflicted, should not be forgotten. This nation should advance to Japan what she wants more than mere individual charity, substantial loans, on most reasonable terms.

Complete disappearance of one Japanese island with ten thousand population has been officially confirmed, but news comes of a new island, 30 miles long, 15 miles wide, raised above the sea near Yokohoma.

Earthquakes and scientists have taught human beings one thing at least, not to blame the ruler of heaven and earth when things go wrong. In the 18th century New Englanders were shaken out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning. Governor Phipps began his proclamation ordering a day of fasting and penance as follows:

"It having pleased almighty God in a most awful and surprising manner to manifest his righteous anger against the provoking sins of men by terrible and destructive earthquakes and inundations."

We are not quite so foolish or irreverent now.

Some Germans have become insane trying to figure out costs, etc., in marks. No wonder. Yesterday you could buy a million marks for two and a half cents, and even cheaper. German coal miners have agreed to work for nine million marks a week—22 cents in our money. How does that impress American workers? War does not pay, win or lose—especially lose.

Flying machines dropping bombs that cost a few dollars have again demonstrated for the benefit of the American people that battleships are obsolete. The old battleship Virginia used as a target was sunk in 36 minutes by a flier, 10,000 feet up. How many forty million dollar battleships will this country build to supply amusing targets some day to foreign fliers?

Forty million dollars spent wisely on flying ships, with a few more millions on submarines would make fighting fleets unnecessary, and attack by any nation foolish.

Foreign countries know how to do things that are too much for this glorious republic, where the people rule—or think they do.

In Japan with people starving, food scarce, prices started to rise. The government gave orders to sell food at cost, and food was sold at cost. If it hadn't been, the sellers would have gone below to join the victims of the earthquake in death.

In Egypt, the Italian-Greek trouble interfered with trade and threatened the cotton grower. Immediately the Egyptian government entered the market as a heavy buyer of cotton to protect growers and dealers. Egypt isn't as rich as the United States, by a good many hundred billions, but common sense some times is better than money.

Kemal Pasha comes back to the front page by preventing restoration of the harem in Turkey. It was once as difficult to imagine a Turk without many wives as of a Chinese without pigtail. The pigtail is gone, and the harem wives are going. Wise Kemal says that one Turkish wife, of the new woman type, is as much as any one Turk can or ought to own.

Chaplain Reed, of the Ohio penitentiary, has a plan to give convicts education via correspondence schools. In their idle hours the convicts will be helped to replace ignorance with knowledge.

That is good work for the convict, even better and more important for the outside world. Crime is based on ignorance. Kill ignorance and you will kill crime—at least such crime as prison walls confine.

One nation's earthquake may be, temporarily, another's prosperity. Yesterday morning steel stocks became excited. Some companies kept up the excitement.

Japan will need 400,000 miles big iron pipe, 100,000 kegs of nails, great quantities of copper to rebuild supplies of all kinds.

But this country will pay a higher price for silk and many other things. What hurts one nation, in the long run hurts all nations.

Summer Poisons

The desire to live is the strongest instinct in the human race. Were it not for poison we might live to be centenarians.

During digestion different poisons are formed of are already in our food.

Were it not for the fact that the liver destroys many of these poisons we would swiftly die. The kidneys, bowels and skin eliminate poisons. This is why we quickly fall ill if these organs do not function properly.

Drink enough water to offset elimination. You should drink a glassful on rising, another before noon and several during the afternoon. Two quarts is not too much for a warm day. If in normal health keep it up the year round. Water to excess should be avoided by those subject to dropsy, kidney and heart trouble or enfeebling diseases.

Poisons affect the stomach and gastrointestinal tract most in the summer. Little Bobbie may take a taste of grandpa's paris green. His baby sister may try some poisonous berries.

When the poison's nature is unknown it is safe to administer common salt and ground mustard in lukewarm water. Give copious draughts. It will come up quickly. Continue until the stomach is empty.

For poison ivy, wash with hot soap suds, using a clear antiseptic soap. A saturated solution of common soda will afford relief, or cotton saturated with lime water, during the day time. During the night use a simple ointment of cold cream, oxide of zinc or diachylon, diluted one-half.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Godfrey Cornet sends his son Ned, on a voyage to Northern Canada and Alaska to exchange two thousand silk and velvet gowns with the Indians for fine furs. The profits are to be split 75-25, the lion's share to Ned.

Eight persons go on the voyage. With Ned is his fiancee, Lenore Hardenworth, and her mother, Mrs. Hardenworth. Bess Gilbert goes as seamstress. Captain Kuntzen is assisted by McNab and Forest. As the weather grows colder much discomfort is felt by the Hardenworth women who have come unsuitably clothed for a sea voyage. Bess has plenty of warm clothing to protect her from the cold. Mrs. Hardenworth objects to eating at the same table with the seamstress. Bess avoids the three aristocrats.

Now Go On With the Story

The bottles were greeted with shouts of delight. Ned went immediately to the sideboard and procured half a dozen glasses.

"All hands partake tonight," he explained. "It's going to be a real party."

He mixed whiskies-and-sodas for Lenore and Mrs. Hardenworth; then started to make the rounds of the crew with a bottle and glasses. He did not, however, waste time offering any to Bess. The latter had already evinced an innate fear of it, wholly apart from sentimentality and nonsense.

But Ned found plenty of customers for his whisky. McNab, at the wheel, wished him happy days over two fingers of straight liquor in the glass, and Kuntsen, his pale eyes gleaming, poured himself a staggering portion. "Go ahead," Ned encouraged him when the seaman apologized for his greediness. "The sky's the limit tonight." And Forest in the engine room, and Julius in the kitchen, absorbed a man's-size drink with right good will.

Ned was able to make the rounds again before the call for dinner; and the attitude of his guests was changed in but one instance. McNab seemed to be measuring his liquor with exceeding care. He was a man who knew his limits, and he apparently did not intend to overstep them. He took a small drink, but Kuntsen, his superior, consumed as big a portion as before.

It was an elated, spirited trio that sat down at the little table in the saloon. Not one of them could ever remember a happier mood. Julius served the dinner with a flourish; and they had only laughter when a sudden lurch of the craft slid the sugar bowl off the table to the floor.

"Hello, the ship's drunk, too," Ned commented gaily.

They were really in too glad a mood to see anything but sport in the suddenly rocking table. The truth was that the wind had suddenly sprung into a brisk gale, rolling heavy seas and bobbing the little craft about like a cork.

Ned made his way through the gale that swept the deck, and procured Lenore's and Mrs. Hardenworth's heaviest coats. He noticed as he passed that Bess had sought refuge in the engine room. Ned waved to her then returned to his guests.

The room was already noticeably colder, not so much from the drop in temperature—a thermometer would have still registered above freezing—as from the chilling, penetrating quality of the wind that forced an entrance as if through the ship's seams.

There was no opportunity to make comment before Kuntsen lurched into the room. "It's tough, isn't it?" he commented. "Mr. Cornet, I want another shot of that stuff before I take de wheel."

Ned, not uninfluenced by his cups, extended the bottle with a roar of laughter. "You know what's good for you," he commended. "Where's McNab? Let him have one, too."

"He's still at de wheel, but I don't think he'd care for one. He's a funny old wolf, at times. Mrs. Hardenworth, how do you like de weat'er?"

"I don't like it very well." She held fast to the slipping table. "Of course, you'd tell us if there was any danger—"

"Not a bit of danger. Just a squall. Dis isn't rough—you ought to see what it would be outside dis chain of islands. But it's mighty chilly." He poured the stiff drink down his great throat, then buttoned his coat tight.

Ned, for a moment secretly appalled by the storm, felt his old recklessness returning.

"There's only three or four shots left in this bottle," he said, holding up the second of the two quarts he had taken from the case. "You'd better have one more with us before you go. A man burns up lots of whisky without hurting him any on a night like this. Then take the bottle in with you to keep you warm at the wheel."

Kuntsen needed no second urging. He was of a race that yields easily to drink, and he wanted to conquer the last, least little whisper of his fear of the night and the storm. He drank once more, pocketed the bottle, then made his way to the pilot house.

"You're not going to try to ride her through?" McNab asked, as he yielded the wheel.

"Of course. You're not afraid of a little flurry like dis."

McNab stared into his glittering eyes, and for a moment his lips were tightly compressed. "This isn't a little flurry," he answered at last coldly. "It's a young gale, and God knows what it will be by morning.

The storm met the two adventurers with a yell.

You know and I know we shouldn't attempt things here that we can do with safety in waters we're familiar with. Right now we can run into the lea of Ivan Island and find a harbor. There's a good one just south of the point."

"We're not going to run into Ivan Island. I want to feel dry land. We're going to head on toward Tzar Island."

"You run a little more of that bottle down your neck and you'll be heading us into hell. Listen, Cap'n," McNab paused, deeply troubled. "You let me take the wheel, and you go in and celebrate with the party You won't do any damage then."

"And you get back to your engine and mind your own business." Little angry points of light shot into Kuntsen's eyes.

McNab turned to the door, where for a moment he stood listening to the wild raging of the wind. Then he climbed down into the engine room.

There was nothing in his face, as he entered, to reveal the paths of his thought. He was wholly casual, wholly commonplace, seemingly not in the least alarmed. He stepped to Bess' side, half smiling.

"I wonder if you can help me? he asked.

The girl stood up, a straight, athletic figure at his side. "I'll try, of course."

"It depends—have you any influence with young Cornet?"

Bess slowly shook her head. "I'm afraid I can't help you," she told him, very gravely. "I have no influence with him at all. What is it you wanted me to do?"

"I wanted you to tell him to put up the booze. Particularly to keep the captain from getting any more."

"There's only one way." The girl's lips were close to his ear, else he couldn't have heard in the roar of the storm and the flapping of the sails.

McNab looked at her as before now he had looked at strong men with whom he had stood the watch. "What are you getting at?"

His voice was gruff, but it didn't offend her. She felt that they were on common ground.

"You know as well as I do. I promised his father before I left that I'd look after Ned. He was in earnest—and Ned needs looking after now if he ever did. Mr. Cornet won't blame me, either. Show me how to get down in the hold."

McNab suddenly chuckled and patted her on the back with rough familiarity, yet with feverent companionship. "You've got the stuff," he said. "But you can't lift them alone. I'm with you till the last dog is hung."

X

On the exposed deck the storm met the two adventurers with a yell. For the first time Bess knew its full fury, as the wind buffeted her, and the sleet swept like fine shot into her face. They clung to the railing, then fought their way to the hold.

Hidden by the darkness and the sleet, no one saw them carry up the heavy liquor cases and drop them into the sea. The noise of the storm concealed the little sound they made. Finally only two bottles remained, the last of a broken case.

"You take one of those and ditch it in your room," McNab advised. "I'll keep the other. There might come a time when we'll find real need for 'em—as a stimulant for some one who is freezing."

"Take care of both of them," Bess urged. "I'm not sure I could keep mine, if any one asked for it."

"I don't know about that. I believe I'd bet on you. And now it's done—forget about it."

Soon they crept back along the deck, McNab to his work, Bess to her stateroom.

They had all but encountered Ned on his way to the hold. His bottles were empty, and the desire for strong drink had not left him yet. In the darkness under the deck he groped blindly for his cases.

They seemed to evade him. Breathing hard, he sought a match, scratching it against the wall. Then he stared in dumb and incredulous astonishment.

His stock of liquor was gone. Not even the cases were left. Thinking that perhaps some shift in the position of the stores had concealed them, he made a moment's frantic search through the hold. Then, raging like a child, and in imminent danger of slipping on the perilous deck, he rushed to the pilot house.

"Captain, do you know what became of my liquors?" he demanded. "I can't find them in the hold."

"Of course I don't know anything about 'em—but I'll help you investigate in the morning," Knutsen answered. "I'm very sorry, Mr. Cornet—that it should happen aboard my ship—"

"To hell with your ship! I'm going to investigate tonight."

Ned started out, but he halted in the doorway, arrested by a sudden suspicion. Presently he whirled and made his way to Bess' stateroom.

He knocked sharply on the door. Bess opened it wide. Then for a long second he stared into her deep-blue, appealing eyes.

FIRE-EATERS

A committee of lawyers, reporting to the American Bar Association, is alarmed because it understands that there are a million and a half radicals in the United States.

This shouldn't alarm even an 1850-model mind. For, out of these 1,500,000 radicals, at least 1,450,000 of them don't want to do anything except talk.

Free speech is democracy's safety valve.

WRANGLING

Goethals, army engineer who built the Panama Canal for Uncle Sam, scoffs at commissions and boards. He attacks them as inefficient in principle because they have no responsible head and the members can pass the buck to each other.

Goethals prefers one-man responsibility. Lincoln called commissions devices for the purpose of defeating government. Man still is in the individualistic stage.

CHINA

China, famed as a peace-loving nation, now has a standing army of more than a million and a quarter soldiers. However, this is a police force rather than a military organization.

There's one soldier for each 400 Chinese citizens, a job that would be "pie for Royal Mounted Police or Texas Rangers. But the Chinese soldiers can't maintain order in their country.

Nations are destroyed from within more often than from without, but in every country the people always imagine their great danger is from outsiders.

MOTHER

Convicted of beating his aged mother and throwing her out into the street, a young man in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is sentenced by the judge never to see her again.

His mother, of course, will soon forgive him—probably already has.

Mother love is more than an emotion. It is a definite force, like gravity or magnetism. A great many of the things we call emotions are natural forces, too powerful to be controlled by the individual. In their clutches, we get our great inspirations or make our big blunders. Man is a violin played by the bow, nature, producer of more discord than harmony.

IN

Sugar now heads the list of our imports from other countries. Raw silk formerly had the leadership. Americans are the champion sugar gluttons of the world. The effect on us nationally? Increase in diabetes, destruction of teeth and overburdened digestion. Sugar is a stimulant. It's chemically an alcohol. Plenty of sugar drunkards.

For skin blemishes use Resinol

Don't be annoyed and embarrassed any longer by an ugly, blotchy skin. Apply a little Resinol Ointment and use Resinol Soap for your toilet, then note how much better your skin looks and feels. This wholesome treatment seldom fails to restore that healthy color and clarity of skin which every man desires.

Resinol Shaving Stick soothes tender skins. These three products at all druggists.

Women to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working silently. Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry.—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S., since 1826, has been riding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

HORRORS OF EARTHQUAKE THAT DESTROYS JAPANESE CITIES

Eye Witness Tells of Destruction And of Pitiable Plight of People As Buildings Crumble to Earth

By DUKE N. PARRY.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1923.

KOBE, Japan, Sept. 4.—(Delayed In Transmission.)—A slight tremor seemed to shake the room in which I was conversing with the commercial attache of the Germany embassy in Tokio at 11:58 o'clock Saturday morning. Dr. Kolb, the German trade commissioner, broke off his discussion with me concerning rumors of the German-Japanese-Russian alliance.

"An earthquake!" he exclaimed, as he arose from his chair and dashed through the veranda on to the lawn of the German embassy, the earth continuing to vibrate violently. Sounds of falling buildings were heard in all directions, and groups of Japanese and Germans joined us on the lawn.

The earth continued to rock like a cradle. It was the hardest shake of the most severe earthquake which has struck Japan since 1855.

As it continued unabated, Dr. Kolb and I believed each moment the earth would open up and we would be engulfed.

At the first lull in the quake I boarded a taxicab and started for the Japan Advertiser office, where I hoped to find facilities for sending the news to America.

Walls Were Crumbling.

As I passed the ministry of war I noticed that the walls of the building were badly cracked. The walls of the foreign office were crumbling as we drove by. The great navy wireless towers were still standing but the navy building below showed signs of disaster.

Driving through Hibiya park I first noticed the conflagration and saw the great crowds of hysterical Japanese, who thronged the open spaces seeking places of safety.

I returned to the Advertiser office where I found representatives of the leading British and American newspapers gathered in front of the building, fearing to enter the place, as a second quake which had opened three-inch fissues in the street, threatened to topple over the building.

Fire had broken out around the Advertiser office and the wind which had been blowing furiously all morning, fanned the flames to increased fury and caused the blaze to spread in every direction.

Seeking a Refuge.

So anxious were people to secure means of transportation to other parts of the city at least 50 persons offered my chauffeur $25 for the use of his taxi, but he drove me to the Imperial hotel, in the far northern section of the city, through streets packed with small carts, crowded with refugees, each moving his belongings he knew not where, hoping against hope to find a refuge from blazing buildings and trembling earth.

The full effect of the catastrophe was just beginning to dawn on me. Here a dead man was being covered up by his friends; there a sobbing mother covered her boy she had dragged from the wreckage of their match-box home when they were forced from the place by the approaching flames.

At this point I was forced to abandon my taxicab owing to the dense crowds that were blockading the streets and I made my way on foot.

Building In Flames.

Eventually, when I reached the Imperial University, the library and administration buildings were in flames. I rushed to the observatory, hoping to find the wireless in operation.

The superintendent of the observatory informed me that this was the greatest earthquake shock ever recorded in Japan. The observatory was a mass of broken scientific instruments and flames were threatening the structure. Assistants were busily engaged endeavoring to save the official archives.

Dr. A. Imamura, superintendent of the Wireless plant at Tomoku, told me that the earthquake had originated 103 kilometers south of Tokio, the island of Oshima being the center of the disturbance.

At its maximum the earthquake showed a horizontal movement of 12 centimeters and the vertical movement was also severe.

The last great earthquake in Tokio, several months ago, had a horizontal movement of five centimeters.

Two recording instruments at the observatory were demolished when the big shake was at its maximum, but two other seismographs were undamaged and continued to record minor tremors.

Effort to Save Books.

After leaving the observatory we passed the Imperial library, where employes were endeavoring to save some of the books of that institution by throwing them from the windows to the ground below as the flames swept nearer.

I was picked up by the automobile of a director of the Formosa Bank, who was rushing to his office for an emergency meeting. He told me that a terrible calamity to all the business sections threatened and Japan's future might be involved.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Tokio was burning in many sections. Pushing my way to the Ginsea (the Broadway of Tokio), I found old men, women and children in a panicky crowd, while flames poured from the side streets and no attempts were being made to check them. This was because the water mains had been broken. A roaring inferno was threatening the center of the city.

When I returned to the Imperial theater, the Metropolitan police station was burning, as was the beautiful and palatial new business section, including the Palace hotel, the Yusen and Marunouchi buildings, the Yurokai theater and the Tokio central station. These fine structures were already cracked and toppling.

Unspeakable Horrors.

The night came on with its unspeakable horrors. Then began the tragic exodus of the foreigners from the doomed city.

Ambassador Wood immediately assumed charge, and began moving from the American embassy with his staff and offered a temporary asylum to the foreign refugees at his home in Zaimokuche with a man named Sneffen who was there in charge.

The flames were pressing closer upon the embassy and the Skura museum—a place of great tourist interest—when the prince regent, appearing before the cabinet then in session, conferred with the ministers and called out two divisions of infantry to guard the city. Then, emerging from the tottering building, already in flames, he met while passing through the yard of the foreign office, Yamazaki, secretary to Uchida, minister of foreign affairs, who carried in his hands a small basin of water. The prince regent paused to wipe the grime from his face, and then, turning to me, said:

"Yamamoto, who has been appointed premier, will assume the duties of the premiership on Sunday despite this disaster."

Splendid Spirit of Japan.

This declaration of the prince regent, made in most dramatic fashion and in a moment filled with horror and direct forebodings, seemed to me to indicate the splendid spirit of Japan in the midst of what seems overwhelming misfortune.

The prince, continuing, said that it appeared that Tokio will be cut off from the world for several days and that the ministry feared for the worst and did not dare conjecture what terrible lengths would go this, the most terrible disaster in the history of modern Japan.

The naval radio and all communication stations refused to accept messages and word was brought into Tokio that Yokohama was in still worse straits than the capital city. Advices also were conveyed to us that the earthquake had extended as far north as Karuisawa, a summer resort, located about 75 miles north of Tokio in the mountains, a place much frequented by Americans and Europeans. North of Karuisawa, the places were reported to be undamaged. The great earthquake was felt with destructive fury south of Yokohama, hitting all villages and practically annihilating them for miles around.

Refugees Pack Streets.

When I left Tokio at midnight fierce fires were sweeping from three directions toward the center of the city. All the government buildings were apparently doomed. The Japan Advertiser was a mass of flames. Refugees packed the streets and the public parks, the narrow thoroughfares and small open places being their only shelter.

Now was going on a tremendous and dramatic flight and thousands upon thousands of the unfortunate homeless populace, with hope abandoned of salvaging homes or belongings journeyed by foot, cart and motor car under a sky of blazing red toward another great disaster. Believing that safety and refuge waited for them toward the south, they started blindly for Yokohoma.

They did not know that this great seaport was already virtually obliterated.

Leaving shortly before midnight I passed through scores of small villages south of Tokio and found each bearing its tragic mark of destruction. The people of each village, kept up by the irstoical courage and the fatalism which has been born of other visitations, were caring for the refugees and their own wounded. The hospitals in Tokio were destroyed and relief was therefore unorganized.

Trip Continual Nightmare.

The wounded were being treated by amateurs in the parks and other open places. The trip from Tokio to Yokohama was a continual nightmare. Half way between the capital city and the great seaport we paused in the roadway and saw a great light lurid in the distance. It was Yokohama burning.

I looked in another direction and saw the sky lighted from the flames of burning Kawusaki. Seven hundred people were killed in the latter place, it was said.

Looking back toward the burning capital I saw that the road was gashed by many wide fissues, one of these being at least five feet across and many feet deep. It was here that I met Dr. Richmond, a prominent dentist of Yokohama with a lady. Their faces were burned and grimed with smoke. They asked me where I was going. I answered "Yokohama."

"There is no Yokohama any more," said Dr. Richmond. "If you are going you must buy food and drink and carry them yourself, otherwise starvation faces you."

In spite of blistered feet and with shoes torn and burned by the hot stones and the almost incandescent wires which had fallen across the roads, I continued on toward blazing Yokohama.

When at last I got a view of what was once a great world seaport I saw a wide area resembling a place under terrific shell fire in war.

The great Standard Oil distributing station was burning, and the skyline and sealine was under a pall of glowing smoke.

Sights of Terror.

The streets of Yokohama were filled with sights of terror, the dead covering every corner. Men were running from the fire like rabbits smoked out of burrows knowing not whither they were bound. Many of these were caught in the narrow streets and burned to cinders. The great dome of the Silk Association building flared like a colossal torch in the middle ground toward the north.

I went past the American consulate at Nippon Odori, one of the chief streets of Yokohama, where Acting Consul General Max Kirjassoff had been buried under the wreckage with his wife.

I then passed the British consulate and customs building. These were levelled into a mass of smouldering ruins. Thence I proceeded toward Kaigan Dori or the Bund, once so beautiful—and found its piers burning in the distance.

When I reached the water front there were great throngs of all nationalities waiting for small boats to carry them out to the ships in the harbor. Here I saw beautiful sights and heard pitiful tales from the survivors of the tragedy.

The opressive heat and horried visions of Gabriel Dante were before me.

Digs His Way Out.

R. S. Young, of Berkeley, agent for the American Express company, told me as I stepped upon the Bund that he was inside the American Express building when it collapsed under the awful shock, and that he dug his way out.

Across the street he saw the International Banking Corporation of Yokohama building and the offices of the Japan Advertiser in flames, and the employes rushing to the city park five blocks away.

Young said he heard moans on all sides and witnessed terrible things. One man was cut in twain before his eyes by a falling piece of roof. He saw a spark fall upon a man's head and instantly his hair blazed up like a torch. He heard cries of mothers for their children, believing in their anguish that the world itself was coming to an end. Leaving everything behind, many, forgetting the park as a place of possible refuge, ran to the water front and there were burned to death by the flaming oil of the huge storage tanks.

All day Saturday and far into the night the wounded stayed on the perilous Bund. Men, women and children were dying all around.

M. I. McCarty, of the North American Trading Company of New York, told me he saw the congested portion of the city where the Chinese live, shaken down and engulfed in flames. His greatest fear was that the water mains would burst and thus the populace would be without water.

Streets Waist Deep.

McCarty said he saw thousands of Japanese rush from their homes bewildered and imploring aid from where they knew not. They placed their children on broken doors and other large pieces of flotsam because the streets were now waist deep with water from the tidal wave, the water hiding the roads and the deep crevices formed by the seismic convulsion. Into these deep fissues many fell and were drowned.

Hundreds were killed by electrocution in Yokohama. One section near Donokui, a bluff summer resort, was a veritable inferno. Twenty Japenese bodies were found in various poses, showing that death had caught them instantaneously while they were sitting, standing, climbing and with outstretched arms in an effort to get away. Here a man was stretching his hands toward the cliff, there a mother holding her baby close to her breast, hoping to place it on an elevation of safety; there a man had fallen as he was running from the common terror. All had died upon the instant the all heavily charged wires dropped about their heads.

Captain U. R. Webb of the United States naval hospital, left the buried wreckage of that building three hours after it crumbled. He is now quartered on the Canadian Trans-Pacific liner Empress of Australia.

Mrs. Komor, Austrian wife of the famous curio man, was being dragged from the wreckage of her home when a sudden burst of flame swept over her and burned her alive, in sight of friends, who stood by helpless.

Odor of Burning Bodies.

All day Sunday the horrible odor of burning bodies filled the air. Water and food became scarcer and scarcer.

The scenes on the water front were appalling. Americans and other nationalities, including the Japanese, pleading with launchmen to take them out to the craft in the harbor. In their mad efforts to escape from the stricken city they clubbed each other.

The body of the French consul general, Paul D. Dejarden, who was killed in the collapse of the French consulate, was laid out in the front yard of the consulate. The French ambassador, Paul Claudel, walked the entire distance from Tokio and held the funeral over his countryman on Monday morning. The consul general was buried in a rude coffin, the first victim of the disaster to have interment.

The bodies of many Americans have not yet been recovered.

Upon the arrival of the Pacific liner President Jefferson at Kobe, a most pathetic scene was enacted. The ship sent its boats laden with clothing for the sufferers and when the crew landed the articles of wearing apparel, it seemed as though a thousand hands were outstretched, the hands of the refugees and of their friends.

From Kobe the President Jefferson will sail for America on the fifth and will carry the first refugees to Seattle. Practically all Americans are leaving Tokio and moving to Osaia and Kobe.

Has Its Last Curtain Been Dropped?

More like an American theater than a Japanese did the exterior of the Imperial Theater of Tokyo look. It is reported to have been destroyed by fire when flames finished the work of destruction started in Japan by violent earthquakes.

Youth Near Waco Knocked Down by Mule and Killed

WACO, Texas, Sept. 7. (AP)—Senon Phillip Jr., aged 15, had his neck broken and died almost instantly Friday afternoon when he was knocked down by the hoof of a mule, the team becoming frightened and running away, the wagon, loaded with cotton seed, passing over the body and crushing him.

The accident occurred on the farm of Dr. Ralph Steiner, former state health officer, 12 miles below Waco. Something went wrong with the harness and the boy alighted to repair it, when one of the mules reared up and began pawing, the blow felling the boy.

Williams, their heirs and assigns, the unknown claimants of the hereinafter described lands, are defendants, and said petition alleging that heretofore, and on, to-wit, about the 21st day of July, 1917, plaintiff was the owner and entitled to the possession thereof of all the west one-half of a certain 320 acre tract of land known as abstract 29, certificate 811, issued to B. B. B. and C. R. R. Co. and patented to B. N. Childress and Brothers by letters patented No. 14, in volume 15, located in Wichita Co., Texas, that on the same date plaintiff and his wife did make, execute and deliver their certain oil and gas mining lease to W. A. Turner and wife, Ina V. Turner, wherein they conveyed to the said W. A. Turner and wife, Ina V. Turner, the right and privilege to enter upon said lands and explore the same for oil and gas during a period not exceeding five years from that date, unless oil or gas should be found in paying quantities, and in which last event the tract of land under certain conditions was to be conveyed as long as oil and gas, or oil or gas, should be found and produced in paying quantities; that no oil or gas was ever found on said tract in paying quantities, except two small wells on the south twenty acres of the north forty acres of the north eighty acres of said tract of land, which said two small wells are now in the possession of the defendant, C. S. Taylor, and also two small wells in the possession of the defendants, G. W. Whitman and D. D. Crowley located on the north twenty acres of the south forty acres of the north eighty acres of said tract of land aforesaid, but that by the provisions of the original lease so made, executed and delivered by the plaintiff and the said W. A. Turner and wife each of said wells only carries with it acreage to the extent of five acres per well; that by the terms and provisions of said original lease the defendants were bound and obligated to develop the respective properties and in failing to do so they forfeited all right, title and interest, claim and demand in said property, save and except five acres surrounding and adjacent to each of said wells as now located upon the above mentioned portion of the original lease so granted to the said W. A. Turner and wife, and that upon the balance of said lease no oil or gas in paying quantities has ever been found, and that said lease by its terms, except as to the five acres surrounding each of the above wells has become and is now null and void and without further force and effect, and all rights thereunder granted have become lapsed, forfeited and terminated and said oil and gas lease on the remaining portion thereof is no longer of any force or effect but by its terms is ended. Plaintiff alleges that the above named defendants, both personal and corporate, are now asserting some claim thereto under and by virtue of some pretended claim of conveyance of a part or all of the aforementioned leasehold estate from the said W. A. Turner and wife, but that the lease aforesaid, under and by virtue of which the above named defendants claim title or an interest therein, having become null and void under and by virtue of the terms of the said lease contract, the defendants asserted claims thereon have cast a cloud upon the title of this plaintiff in and to said oil and gas mining leasehold estate, and that plaintiff is now entitled to have said pretended claims cancelled, annulled and the cloud cast upon the plaintiff's title removed. That plaintiff is in possession of the surface of the soil and as such owner of the fee and the reversioner of the oil and gas leasehold mining estate, he is entitled to bring this suit as herein set forth, and alleges prayer for citation and for general relief and as to said four wells above mentioned the court enter its decree setting apart the particular five acres to each well and that the cloud cast upon his title by virtue of the claims of said several defendants to all the balance thereof be cancelled, annulled and removed, and for such other and further relief as he may show himself entitled to under the law and the facts, as in duty bound he will ever pray. JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

UNDER THE GROUND

Story by Hal Cochran — Drawings by Lee Wright

Jack was ready to follow the little coal men when one of them suddenly reached into a big chest and pulled out a little lantern. "Put this on your head," he said to Jack. "You can't see here without a light." And as soon as the lantern was fastened to Jack's cap the trip was started.

Darker and darker it grew as Jack followed the coal men. Now and then Flip would bark at a shadow that was cast by the light on Jack's cap. Finally, there came a large opening and as the little guides hesitated one of them said, "Now you will see a famous old man."

Then they passed through the rough edged doorway and into a much larger room. This was lighted by many of the lanterns like the one Jack had been given. Jack looked around him and then was surprised to see a friendly old man sitting up on a very beautiful throne. (Continued.)

CATS CLINCH PENNANT BY TAKING FINAL FROM SPUDDERS

Lefty Johns Once More Displays Supremacy Over Spudder Hitters While Osborne is Pounded Hard

Another Texas League pennant race went down in history Thursday afternoon. Though there are still 10 more games for each club in the league to play, not including postponements, the race is over. The champion Cats—and they have earned that name for four consecutive seasons—clinched the 1923 pennant Thursday by beating the Spudders, 8 to 2, in the Fort Worth club's final appearance here of the season. The Bears in second place are 11 games behind the Cats and there remain for each of the clubs but 10 games.

The Beaumont Exporters open a two-game series with the Spudders Friday.

Lefty Johns, who has been decidedly effective against the Spudders throughout the season, southpawed the Cats into a certainty for the flag. He gave the hopefuls but two runs and six hits and at least one of the runs was due to his own error. While Johns was silencing Spudder bats, Bob Osborne was bumped hard until relieved by Dick Morgan, the new flinger from Lubbock. Morgan went in in the fifth inning with two on and no outs, after having thrown but a few minutes in the "bull pen."

Morgan Stops Cats.

The two men that Osborne left on the bases counted before the newcomer was fairly warm, but after that he held the Panthers scoreless. Five rounds he allowed four hits, walked one and struck out two.

Edington singled for the Cats and Coombs for the Spudders in the first, but neither hit materialized. The Cats put over a run in the second, Hoffman starting with a dauble against the rightfield fence. Haworth popped a single back of first and Hoffman went to third. Rapp forced Haworth and Tavener's fly to Bescher counted Hoffman. Rapp went to second on the throw and was out at the plate when Johns singled to center, Coombs nailing him with a perfect throw.

Tanner opened the second with a double. Rapp made a good snare of Barrett's line drive and after Berger walked, Locker hit into a double play. The Cats got another in the third when Edington doubled and Kraft singled after two were out. The hopefuls tied it in their half of the inning. Bischoff walked and Osborne was safe on John's fumble. Bescher advanced the runners with a sacrifice. Bischoff scored when Coombs filed to Edington. Weiss double to left counted Osborne.

Fifth Decides It.

The Panthers got another in the fourth on consecutive hits after two were out. Johns doubled and Calvo tripled. Calvo's hit was an ordinary single that bounced high over Weiss' head. The home club went out in order in the fourth.

The Cats drove Osborne from the box in the fifth and ran the total for the round to five with Morgan pitching. Two passes and a single filled the bases and Barrett's error of Haworth's roller let in two runs. Osborne left two runners on and both counted on Morgan. Bischoff drew a pass to open the Spudder half, but Morgan fanned and Bescher hit into a double play.

The visitors got one hit each in the sixth and seventh and Morgan put them down in succession in the eighth. Coombs opened the sixth and Bischoff the eighth with singles, but succeeding Spudders failed to bring them around. Bescher followed Bischoff's hit with a double, but Coombs and Weiss both lined to Calvo. Rapp's hit in the ninth proved harmless. Tavener followed with a Texas Leaguer over second, but he was robbed of a hit when Rapp ducked his head and beat it back to first, allowing Coombs to force him at second.

DANFORTH IS CLEARED AT LEAST IN THE EYES OF ST. LOUIS FANDOM

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.(AP)—Dave Danforth, southpaw pitcher of the St. Louis Americans, not only has dispelled all charges of having employed illegal methods, but has won the title of "gamest man in baseball" in the eyes of local fans.

Danforth, who recently was suspended because of charges that he had tampered with the balls, demonstrated conclusively, according to local fandom, that these charges were unjustified, when he succeeded in holding the New York Americans to three hits, despite the fact that 56 balls were used during the game and virtually every other pitch was made with a new ball.

SHERMAN TAKES FIRST GAME IN PLAYOFF SET

SHERMAN, Sept. 7.—Sherman defeated Austin 2 to 0 Thursday afternoon in the opening game of the Texas Association post-season championship series between half-season winners. The teams will play here Friday and Saturday and then complete the series at Austin.

Sherman took the lead in the first inning with one score when Scott walked Dockery with the bases filled, forcing in Meanor who had singled ahead of walks given McKay and McIver. Another run was scored in the sixth.

NEW ORLEANS RACES OPEN THANKSGIVING

By Universal Service.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—The Shrewsbury race course which was recently threatened with inundation this fall resulting from a dam which had been erected with the permission of the Jefferson parish drainage commissioners, will be "opened, ready for business, on Thanksgiving Day," according to Attorney Middleton, spokesman for the association.

Following a recent press announcement that "the dam would prohibit racing at the Jefferson course," an injunction was granted against the board of commissioners, which will mean the removal of the dam.

FIRPO NOT SO GREEN AS SOME THINK

(Editor's Note.—This is the first of a series of articles by Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, sizing up Champion Jack Dempsey and Challenger Luis Angel. It gives a good insight of the Argentine's ring tactics.)

By JESS WILLARD

Former Heavyweight Champion

Is Luis Angel Firpo a second Jim Jeffries?

I don't propose to answer that question, although I worked up a tremendously intimate and comprehensive acquaintance with Firpo one evening in July. But I offer it to fight fans as a fertile subject for speculation.

It is true for a certainty that the talk about Firpo as he faces his championship battle with Jack Dempsey is exactly on a line with the dope on Jeffries when he tackled Bob Fitzsimmons.

The experts objected that Jeffries was too green and lacking in polish. They had to admit he was strong and game, but they didn't allow him a chance against the experienced title holder. But everybody knows what happened.

Thrives on Tough Ones.

Firpo is a great big tough fellow who thrives on hard blows. Your fist simply bounces off him. In the seventh round of our fight, for instance, I shot two hard ones in succession straight to his jaw. I pressed the button for him, all right, but it didn't turn out the light. He seemed to come on stronger and stronger every round.

And when Firpo hits, it's like a blast from a siege gun. He puts a hole in you. That is just what he does.

An opponent may be ever so clever, but Firpo takes a lot of the cleverness out of him when he sinks one of his punches. He sapped my strength in our fight by a hail of kidney punches. When he lands one, it rocks you all over.

Awkward, Yet Clever.

There isn't any fancy stuff about Firpo. He is not a nice looking boxer. But in an awkward sort of way he is clever. Don't forget that. Firpo's greatest asset, I believe, is his ruggedness. He is the kind of fighter who can let his opponent wear himself out and break his hands on pounding on him. And then Firpo can finish him. Incidentally, he is handiest with his right hand, and it is a deadly weapon.

The critics keep referring to his inexperience. That is not to be denied, although he appears to be making quick improvement. But it is a mistake to undestimate him. Firpo isn't a popular personality, but if you want a fighter, that's what he is.

I don't say Firpo will win from Dempsey, but he has more chance than most people think. Take it from me that he is a real wild bull, he has been fighting steadily without any soft living and he is ready to do his best with everything to gain and nothing to lose.

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service.)

In his next article, Willard will discuss Dempsey's merits and demerits.

THE LOOKOUT by Al Parker

The Cats are gone and nobody around these parts is sorry. If ever a club had it on another, those Cats have the Spudders. Of the 23 games this season the Panthers have won something like 18, just enough to assure them a pennant. Had the Spudders been able to win just half their games from Fort Worth, it would have been a far better pennant race, especially from a Wichita Falls point of view.

The Cats should not be begrudged their fourth straight pennant. Fort Worth boasts the best ball club in the league and the best club is the one that is supposed to win.

The hopefuls still have a chance to finish second best, San Antonio being but two and a half games in the lead, while Dallas in third place, is one game ahead of the Bergerinoes. The Spudders have 11 games yet to play, closing a week from Sunday with a double-header with Galveston.

While the Cats have sewed up their fourth successive flag, New Orleans is almost in in the Southern League. While New Orleans has not yet mathematically cinched the pennant, nothing but a miracle can oust the Pels from the leadership. In the Western League Tulsa has regained the leadership from Wichita and is in front now by a sizeable margin. A few days back Wichita seemed to command a comfortable lead, but the club has been losing regularly of late. Oklahoma City also is in a threatening position in the Western. It is not likely that the Dixie series will be a three-cornered affair this year.

Spudder fans didn't seem to take to Goldie Rapp, the Cat thirdbaseman; in fact, he came in for most of the razzing that Kraft usually gets at Wichita Falls. It seemed that the noisy bugs forgot about Kraft and bent their energies toward Mr. Rapp. Many seem to wonder how Rapp held his job with the Phillies as long as he did. The wonder should be, though, how come the Phillies let him go. He has helped the Cats a lot since coming to the Texas League and any player who can help the Cats certainly ought to be able to help the Phils. Rapp's style at bat is decidly peculiar, if not radical. It causes one to wonder just how he ever gets a hit. But its results that count and Rapp has hit above the .300 mark.

Denver Grigsby is a shining example of what form means—or rather what it does not mean—at bat. Grigsby hit .350 in more than a hundred Texas League games, and that lad takes a most peculiar swing at the ball. He hits straight up at the ball, but somehow or another he can smack about as many line drives as the next one and he hits 'em mighty hard.

In golf the hitting of the stationary ball is quite different from hitting the moving ball in baseball. Form counts for everything in the world in smacking the little white strawberry, and if you believe it doesn't, just try making a few haphazard swings at the golf ball and see where you get off.

Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls' chief claim to golfing fame, has just returned from a trip to several south Texas cities where he took part in matches with the best golfers in the state. Tommy played at Austin, San Antonio, Houston and Orange. His toughest matches were at Houston, where he, paired with Jack Tarrant of San Antonio, failed to win a match from Ossie Carlton, Texas amateur champion, and George Rotan, five times state titlest and a member of the American team of amateurs that defeated the English team in England last spring. However, Houston was not the only place where the sledding was rough, for at Austin, Tommy shot a par 72 for 18 holes only to find himself seven down at the 18th. Tommy says that he held his own with the south Texas crooks and won about as many as he lost. It is expected that Carlton, and probably several other of the state's leading amateurs, will visit Wichita Falls immediately after the River Crest invitation tourney at Fort Worth the latter part of the month. Cochran says.

Wichita Falls golfers are already at work sharpening up their games for the River Crest tournament and the old burg is going to be well represented in Fort Worth's leading golf event of the year.

Billy Evans Says—

Barrett is White Sox Find. Began Career as Pitcher. Scouting System Wrong? Star Sandlot Twirlers.

It looks as if the Chicago White Sox had picked up a star outfielder in Bill Barrett. He was recently secured from the Reading club of the International League. Barrett is a big, husky fellow, about six feet tall and weighing about 175 pounds. He is very fast, takes a healthy cut at the ball and has a wonderful arm. He bats and throws right-handed.

"Barrett is one of the best recruits I have seen in years. He reminds me very much of Happy Felsch, and to my way of thinking there never was a better outfielder than Felsch," remarked Kid Gleason to me the other day. "Barrett has everything to make one of the greatest outfielders the game has ever produced. He needs only the experience to polish him off." Some boost from a veteran like Gleason. Incidentally, Eddie Collins entertains the same opinion.

It is a rather interesting fact that Barrett began his big league career as a pitcher. It so happens that Connie Mack, the discoverer of so many big league stars, dug Barrett up. Mack used him as a pitcher and shortstop. He had a great arm but lacked control. For some reason Mack passed him up. Now he comes back to the big show as an outfielder and a mighty good one. In this connection it might be mentioned that Charley Jamieson of Cleveland, generally regarded as one of the greatest outfielders the game has ever produced, started in the majors as a pitcher. Of interest also is the fact that Connie Mack once had him and turned him over to Cleveland.

Are the major league scouts making a mistake in not paying more attention to the sandlots and the semi-professional fields in their efforts to discover promising major league material? Most of the scouts how to a beaten track and confine their attention largely to the minor leagues. It seems that it would be a mighty wise move for some scout, willing to introduce an innovation into the scouting game, to confine his attention entirely to the sandlots and small towns.

This thought is brought about by the remarkable success attained by Pitcher George Uhle of the Cleveland club, and Genewich, a recruit with the Boston Braves. Uhle is today regarded as one of the greatest right-handers in the majors. Not in years has a youngster done so well in his first season as Genewich. Both were secured direct from the sandlots, didn't cost their clubs a cent. All year Genewich had pitched great ball for the Braves. He has been a thorn in the side of the New York Giants, and his most recent exploit was turning Cincinnati back 2 to 1 in 10 innings.

WILLIAMS UNDERGOES OPERATION AND WILL BE OUT FOR SEASON

Chalmers "Red" Williams, Spudder outfielder, suffered an acute attack of appendicitis Thursday afternoon and underwent an operation Thursday night at the general hospital. The operation means that Williams is out for the remainder of the season. He had returned to the lineup only a few days ago after pulling a "charley horse" on the South Texas trip and had played in but two games in the past two weeks.

El Paso Charges 'Klan' Tore Down Flag of Mexico

EL PASO, Sept. 7. (AP)—Tearing down of Mexican flags at Liberty Hall the day following the reception meeting there was laid indirectly to the Ku Klux Klan by the city council today.

The council passed resolutions "condemning the tearing down of Mexican flags" after Mayor Dudley had expressed the belief that the klan was responsible.

"It has been the boast here that El Paso has a branch of the klan, but has had no acts of violence," Mayor Dudley told the council, "but this looks like violence to me."

"The city owns a large number of flags of foreign countries, and these were placed in Liberty Hall the night of the recognition for decoration. The hall had previously been engaged by the Ku Klux Klan for a klan speaker and released for the recognition meeting. Just before the klan meeting the following night some one went through the hall and tore down the flags.

"The Mexican people have just cause to be offended that it is also an insult to the city and to the United States flag. I feel that an apology is due from the people who used masked methods in accomplishing this act."

C. L. Simmons, kligraph of the local klan, said today he did not know the flags were torn down.

JURY IN DAMAGE SUIT DISCHARGED BY JUDGE MARTIN

Disagreeing as to the amount of damages to be awarded the plaintiff in the suit of H. C. Sims et ux against C. C. Jones, the jury was discharged by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The jury had considered its verdict throughout the day, with the exception of two hours when one of the jurors was summoned home on account of the illness of a relative, and when the foreman reported at 5 o'clock that they stood 10 to 2 on one of the issues with no chance of reaching an agreement, the jury was permitted to go.

The plaintiff asked for $20,000 damages because of an alleged attack made on his wife in a local hotel.

CHAMPION STARTS WORK OF TAPERING OFF HIS TRAINING

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 7.(AP)—Jack Dempsey Friday began the tapering off process of his training grind for his fight with Luis Angel Firpo next Friday. Already in fighting trim he will engage in work designed mainly to develop his speed and sharpen his boxing skill.

Light sparring partners will be pressed into service, among them the Jamaica Kid, a negro whirlwind weighing 170 pounds, and Jimmy Delaney, the St. Paul light heavyweight, a protege of Mike Gibbons.

Pickling his face and hands in a combination of beef brine and vinegar to toughen the skin will be a part of Dempsey's finishing touches. The champion soaks his big hands in the mixture several times daily and rubs his face vigorously. This "pickling," Dempsey says, hardens the skin so there is less danger of a cut from a grazing blow.

Experienced observers after watching Dempsey rip into Farmer Lodge and George Godfrey for two rounds each, agree that the champion is in much better condition than he was in Great Falls, Mont., two months ago while preparing for Tommy Gibbons.

The legal action started by Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, negro challenger, in attempting to prevent the Dempsey-Firpo match because Dempsey declined to fight Wills first, exploded like a bomb shell in the champion's camp. Dempsey declared he never would give Wills "a shot" at the title as long as he is champion.

"That means the end of Wills so far as I am concerned," Dempsey snapped.

"I never had the slightest objection to fighting Wills. We intended to close this match after disposing of Firpo provided I won. Both Mullins and Wills knew this. I would just as soon have fought Wills as Firpo, but there is not a promoter in sight to stage it."

FIRPO BACK TO WORK AFTER DAY OF REST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7.(AP) After a hard earned day of rest Luis Angel Firpo returned Friday to the training grind for the battle with Jack Dempsey in New York September 14. Five days of the training period remain for the South American and he plans to fill every minute with hard work.

John Lester Johnson, New York heavyweight, one of the men that Dempsey met in New York early in his career, and young Bob Fitzsimmons were to report for sparring duty in the Argentine's camp Friday morning. Leo Gates, the Mohawk Indian fighter, who had been expected here, may cancel his engagement because of the fact that he is to fight in one of the preliminaries to the Firpo-Dempsey match.

Luis Angel is in good humor. He has been having all the excellent food he can eat; his new motor car arrived Thursday, the sporting writers are conceding him an excellent chance to win the world title; his South American friends tell him they are sure he will win.

Firpo's cottage now is filled with friends from his native land. Besides his trainers and sparring partners there are some of the comrades of his youth. They never cease to marvel at his pugilistic improvement. They read to him the nice magazines have to say, they sing things that the South American songs that have been written for him.

MORRISSEY IN MAIN BOUT AT BURKBURNETT

Lee Morrissey of Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Jimmie Carroll of Fort Worth, welterweights, are scheduled in the 10-round main event of the American Legion boxing show at Burkburnett Friday night. Kid Snyder of Burkburnett and Dick Bowers of Vernon, lightweights, are the semi-finalists in eight rounds. Bill McKinney and Kid Kosse are billed in a six-round preliminary, and the promoters promise other good preliminaries along with a battle royal.

Meat and Vegetable Combinations Make Cheap, Wholesome Summer Food Which May be Nicely Varied

By SISTER MARY

Vegetable Hash.

To make a little meat go a long way, try mixing it with vegetables in a sort of aristocratic hash.

Many men object to "made" dishes and insist that "plain meat and potatoes is good enough." But while vegetables are in season and plentiful, they are cheap and absolutely necessary to health, and if half a pound of meat can be "fixed up" to serve four persons and at the same time furnish a more wholesome diet, why not be firm but kind with the men folk and serve the cheaper and ideal summer food?

Baked Hash.

One-half pound round steak, one and one-half cups chopped carrots, one cup chopped raw potatoes, three onions, one cup milk, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon minced parsley.

Put meat, carrots, potatoes and onions through the food chopper. Mix thoroughly and add milk and seasoning. Put in a casserole, cover with coarse bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake an hour.

Farmer's Chowder.

One-fourth pound salt pork, two medium sized potatoes, one and one-half cups milk, two cups corn cut from the cob, two onions, three tomatoes, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Cut the pork into tiny pieces. Fry a delicate brown. Add onions chopped, the potatoes pared and cut into inch dice. Cover with boiling water and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Add corn, milk, tomatoes and pepper and cook 15 minutes longer. Dip soda crackers in cold milk and place in soup tureen. Pour chowder over them and serve at once.

Corn and Veal Ramikins.

Two cups sweet corn cut from the cob, three-fourths cup chopped left-over veal, three tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one teaspoon minced onion, one green pepper, buttered crumbs.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Dip pepper in boiling water, then in cold water and rub off outer skin. Remove seeds and white ribs and chop very fine. Add salt, pepper, corn, meat, onion and pepper to white sauce and mix well. Turn into buttered ramikins or a large baking dish and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Snow Balls.

One-half cup rice, four cups boiling water, one teaspoon salt, four potatoes, one-half cup cold chopped meat, one teaspoon minced onion, four tablespoons shredded celery, two tablespoons shredded cabbage.

Add salt to boiling water, and slowly add rice. Boil half an hour, drain and hold under cold water. Drain. Scald tomatoes and slip off skins. Remove seeds and centers and chop shell. Mix meat, tomatoes, onion, celery and cabbage. Season with salt and pepper. Put a large spoonful of rice on a six-inch square of cheesecloth, flatten and spread to within one-fourth inch from the edge of the rice with meat mixture. Brush over with melted butter and brown slightly in a hot oven. Serve with white sauce to which one-quarter cup chopped cheese has been added.

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—There was considerable realizing and hedge selling at the opening of the cotton market today. First prices were 2 to 4 points higher on December and later months, but October was 2 points lower and active positions generally sold 5 to 10 points below yesterday's closing after the call. Offerings appeared to be readily absorbed around 26.00 for October and 25.73 for January, however, and the market soon firmed up on the higher late cables from Liverpool and fresh buying believed to be for both trade and speculative account. October advanced to 26.32 and January to 25.90 during the early trading or 12 to 17 points net higher.

There was enough realizing to cause reactions of 15 to 20 points from the 26.50-cent level for December contracts, but the market quickly firmed up again. The buying was stimulated by the weather map showing further showers or rains in eastern belt sections which evidently increased apprehensions of a further reduction in crop estimates. There were also numerous reports of an advancing basis in the south and trade buying continued on the advance here which carried October up to 26.75 and December to 26.60 around mid-day or about 45 to 65 points net higher on the general list.

There were reactions of some 20 to 25 points from the best under realizing during the early afternoon but offerings were absorbed by scale down buying orders and the market was steady around 2 o'clock with October selling at 26.55 or about 45 points net higher.

Cotton futures closed steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—The advance in cotton continued today and in the first hour of the session prices were 41 to 45 points higher, carrying October up to 25.90. All months reached new high levels for the buying movement which set in some time ago. Spot interests were credited with being large buyers and some market observers claimed that purchases were being placed by southern mills. Fixing of prices appeared to be going on in a large way. Hedge selling met the advance without checking it. Too much rain in portions of Texas and several other cotton states helped stimulate the demand.

The late trading brought reactions of about 30 points from the coming in while longs took profits highest levels, much hedge selling in a large way. Some of the selling was induced by private messages from the western belt predicting record breaking ginning to the first of September. At 12:30 o'clock October stood at 25.79.

Private reports of a broadening business in the cotton goods markets of this country and Liverpool cables claiming that a good business had been done in Manchester during the day, further strengthened the market which toward 11 o'clock rose to 26.02 for October with the list at net gains of 51 to 58 points.

Cotton futures closed very steady at net gains of 21 to 41 points.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Reduction of Canadian crop estimates as compared with latest previous figures had a bullish effect on the wheat market today during the early dealings. The president of the Canadian Pacific railway was quoted as saying 250,000,000 bushels was his estimate of the western Canada yield this season. Other authorities had yesterday put the total at 400,000,000 bushels. Opening prices, which ranged from ¼ to ⅜c higher with September 1.01½ to 1.02 and December 1.06 to 1.06¼, were followed by material further gains.

Falling off in the amount of domestic primary receipts helped later to sustain prices. The close was unsettled ¼ to 1⅛c net higher, with September 1.03 and December 1.06⅝ to 1.06⅞.

Cool weather gave independent strength to corn and oats. After opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, December 65¼ to ⅜c, the corn market scored a decided general advance.

May delivery reached the highest price yet this season. Closing quotations were unsettled at ⅛ to ⅛c net advance, December 65⅝ to 65⅞.

Oats started ¼ to ⅜c up. December 39⅛, and later continued to ascend.

Notwithstanding lower quotations on hogs provisions were firm as a result of decreases in western stocks of meat.

WICHITANS SEEK BLANKETS EARLY FRIDAY MORNING

A cool mild norther, that sprang up at 4 o'clock Friday morning, aroused many a Wichitan betimes arising, they sought more bed covering and again arose a few hours later to find the temperature most pleasant. The thermometer's low mark for Friday mroning was 62 degrees.

Throughout the day the north wind continued to blow, but the sun, unobstructed, was able to chase the mercury in the bulb up to the 82-degree mark by one o'clock.

Similar weather conditions existed throughout the section of the state touched by local railroad lines. No rain was reported at any point and the agents further remarked that there were no signs of rain.

Two Fort Worth Young Men Face Liquor Charges

FORT WORTH, Sept. 7. (AP)—W. T. Waggoner, member of one of the state's wealthiest families, and John Googins, member of a prominent family here, faced a federal liquor charge here today following their arrest last night at a country club dance. They furnished bond for their appearance in federal court November 1. Officers said the young men had liquor with them at the dance.

FIVE INCH RAINFALL IN LOCKHART TERRITORY

LOCKHART, Texas, Sept. 7. (AP)—A number of small bridges have been washed away along Peach creek, south of here, and farm work is at a standstill owing to the heavy rains this week. Five inches has fallen here since Monday and it was raining again today. San Marcos river is reported rising rapidly at Fentress.

Question Is Referred.

HOUSTON. — The question of whether a special election must be held to elect successors to "hold-over" members of the school board of the Houston independent school district has been submitted to the attorney general's department at Austin for ruling by County Judge Bryan. It probably will be some time before the controversy over board members is settled, it is stated.

There's Always a Market

SOMEBODY is always willing to buy a substitute for Darcova Cups—some. But then comes the annoyance of having to re-cap long before re-capping ought to be necessary. See that your next order specifies "Genuine Darcova" and no imitations accepted.

Get the long-wearing cups that stay on the job and purse oil. They were first in the market, and now, after fifteen years, their quality is unequalled by any other make.

None genuine without the name—Darcova!

Deep Test Near Ryan Becoming Interest Center

RYAN, Okla., Sept. 7.—A great amount of interest is being manifested in the operations now under way in the deep test on the Oscar Seay ranch near this place, which is nearing completion.

Operations have been delayed to some extent on account of the water coming in through a leak in the packer. The hole, which has not been thoroughly cleaned out, having at present in the neighborhood of 1,000 feet of mud and water, continues to seep oil to the top in good quantities and is being bailed as rapidly as possible.

Interest has been centered in this particular locality for the past several years due to the favorable geological report made by the government, which has resulted in the drilling of a number of other tests in the vicinity. Several good acreage deals have been made in the past few weeks and it is expected the coming fall will find other tests drilling in the surrounding territory.

Attention Men!

HOOK'S CASH & CARRY GROCERY

2208 Avenue F

Just because times are prosperous is no reason why you should throw your money away. Trade where you can buy the cheapest whether it is with me or the other fellow. When I started in business I realized that to get the business I must sell cheaper than the other fellow and in order to do that my expense would naturally have to be less. Our motto is quick turn over, in other words, if we sell a box of aspirin for 15c and make 3c and sell three hundred a month we make more than we would by selling them for 25c or a profit of 13c and sell fifty boxes a month.

We have no rent to pay. Our insurance is small — we take our discounts — we buy in large quantities — we know how to buy right.

Do not wait for our ads—they also cost money—trade with us and you will not have to worry whether or not you get stung.

FINAL BUGLE CALL SOUNDS THURSDAY FOR J. B. SMITH

Taps sounded Thursday night for J. B. Smith, a Confederate veteran of the civil war and one of the well known residents of Wichita Falls. Death came suddenly and unexpectedly at the home of a daughter in Fort Worth.

Mr. Smith had made his home with a daughter, Mrs. R. W. Morgan, in this city for the past eight years, and Thursday as he stepped from the train at Fort Worth he fell. He proceeded to his daughter's home, where 30 minutes after his arrival he died.

Mr. Smith, who was 77 years of age, was known to hundreds of people in Wichita Falls and had always taken an active part in all patriotic demonstrations.

He is survived by two daughters, three sons and 16 grandchildren.

The body was shipped to Greenville, Texas, Friday morning, where funeral services were held Friday afternoon.

INVENTIVE GENIUS MAKES CALOMEL DELIGHTFUL

Most Valuable of Drugs, Now Purified and Refined From Its Nausea and Danger—"Calotabs" the Name

The medicinal virtues of calomel are in no way connected with its nauseating and dangerous qualities, as is proven by the fact that the purified calomel tablet, called Calotabs, is free from objectionable effects yet retains all of the liver-cleansing and system-purifying qualities of the old-style calomel. For biliousness, constipation and indigestion, the new de-nauseated calomel tablet is a practically perfect remedy.

To inspire public confidence in their discovery the manufacturers have authorized druggists everywhere to refund the price if the customer is not "perfectly delighted" with Calotabs. Sold only in trade-marked packages. Price ten cents and thirty-five cents. One table at bedtime, with a swallow of water, that's all. No taste, no nausea, no griping, no salts. You wake up in the morning with a clean liver, feeling fine, and a hearty appetite. Eat what you please—no danger.—adv.

Lack of Bread and Meat For His Family Impels Man to Take Joints Of Tubing He Says in a Statement

Out of work for the past two months and with his family in destitute circumstances, Joe McBride told officers Thursday evening that he appropriated some joints of tubing in the Northwest oil fields early in August in order that he might buy bread and meat for his wife and two children.

McBride and his brother-in-law, Greenie Trotter, were arrested Thursday afternoon by Officer W. W. Belcher and charged with theft of property over the value of $50.

On August 14, the Skelly Oil company lost 41 joints of heavy two-inch tubing and several days ago T. F. Smith, field superintendent of the company, identified several joints of the missing tubing while looking for some oil field material in a junk shop operated by M. Plank south of Bradley's corner.

Mr. Belcher went to work on the case and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock returned to this city with three men under arrest. Both McBride and Trotter made statements regarding the pipe.

They declared that they had hauled the pipe at night and delivered it to the junk yard the following morning. Each one received $26 for his part of the spoils.

Plank was charged with failure to keep a record on second-hand goods purchased as required by statute. He perfected bond and was released.

Iowa Park Community Fair Will Have Many Entertaining Features

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 7.—The entertainment committee of the Community Fair to be held in Iowa Park, September 18 and 19, composed of J. H. Danner Jr., Scott Ralston and M. B. Cain, have arranged a program of entertainment so that there need be no dull moments for the visitors during the entire two days and nights. It is now planned to rope off Yosemite street from Cash to West Park avenue, and in this space to have the various forms of amusements and concessions. With proper lighting at night this can be made into the "Midway" or "White Way" which is one of the main attractions of the larger fairs. Many concessions will be sold, and the never failing "Nigger Babies" "Balloon Peddlers," "Hot Dog Stands," "Confetti Throwers" and many other popular pastimes which the fun-loving American public likes so well, will be in evidence.

Among the amusement features decided upon by the committee are: Horseshoe pitching tournament, winner to receive loving cup. This feature is getting to be one of the most popular forms of sport in the country, and several local champions are practicing daily that they may take home the "pewter mug," suitably engraved, showing their prowess at "Barnyard Golf." Old fiddlers contest, Ford reverse race, tennis tournament, community concert first night, chocolate pie eating contest, slick pole pillow fight, boxing matches, tractor race, wrestling match, three-legged race, merchants vs. farmers race, street dance at night.

The various heads of the different departments are working hard to get a large number of exhibits in their departments, and from present indications, the first Community Fair of Iowa Park promises to exceed the greatest expectations. Fair catalogues are being gotten out and mailed to the entire county, and everywhere the country people are talking the fair. The merchants have responded liberally when solicited for premiums, and those in charge of the work are feeling jubilant over the success met thus far. The dates, as stated last week, have been changed in order that they might not conflict with the Burkburnett Community Fair, and will be on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 18 and 19, instead of 21 and 22 as previously reported.

The many rules that have fallen of late will add materially to the agricultural exhibits, and it is planned by T. J. Pace, superintendent of this department to take the exhibit to the Texas-Oklahoma fair at Wichita Falls, which opens the following Monday.

Mrs. Charlotte D. Rhodes will accept a limited number of pupils in first and second grade, beginning Sept. 10 at 1010 Pearl. Phone 5692. —adv.

Benjamin Man Is Painfully Injured Cranking a Ford

BENJAMIN, TEXAS, Sept. 7.—Henry Edge of Benjamin was painfully injured, having his shoulder thrown out of joint, and his face and breast badly bruished, when he cranked his automobile which was in gear. The car forced him through a fence and against a tree and he had some difficulty in getting free. He is resting easily at present.

School will start at Benjamin September 10th, all of the teachers having been selected. Mr. W. W. Graves was selected as superintendent again this year. It is thought that the attendance this year will be larger than it has been.

Benjamin has had two rains this week, which have delayed cotton picking to some extent. There are quite a lot of leaf and army worms in the cotton around here, but not much damage has been done yet, and the farmers with the assistance of the county agent, H. M. Cantrell, are now busy poisoning these worms. While the grasshoppers, black worms, and the long drouth cut down the yield of cotton to a great extent, yet the farmers will make over a quarter of a bale of cotton to the acre this season, and some places will make a half bale to the acre.

There have been several cattle buyers from Iowa, Illinois and Indiana here this week, and several car loads of calves and yearlings are being shipped out direct to the above states. The cattlemen have received a good price for all their cattle sold in this way, and are very enthusiastic over their deals. The Wichita-Brazos Cattle company recently organized here has been bringing cattle buyers from the northern states to Benjamin and they are buying direct from the cattlemen here.

SAN ANTONIO KLANSMAN IS SPEAKER AT McLEAN

The meeting was held in a pasture one mile west of the city under the fiery cross, although the electrical display could not be made to work and the speech had to be made by the light of a lantern.

FOUNDLING BABY IS NOT LITTLE LILLIAN M'KENZIE

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—All ides that a foundling baby girl now in a Brooklyn hospital might be three-months-old Lillian McKenzie, who was stolen from her carriage last month while her mother, Mrs. Peter McKenzie, was shopping was abandoned by the police today.

The father clung to the belief that the foundling was his child, but Mrs. McKenzie finally was convinced to the contrary. Family physicians, brought for an opinion said they treated too many children to be able to say.
