New Congress may be easier on oil industry, Mahon says

Rep. George Mahon

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

WASHINGTON — The 95th Congress which will be seated Tuesday probably will not be as antagonistic toward the oil industry as the 94th, was, U.S. Rep. George Mahon said Friday.

"We are importing more than 40 per cent of our petroleum and this is a very dangerous situation. No doubt the coming Congress will wrestle mightily with the energy problem. I don't believe the 95th Congress will be as antagonistic toward the oil industry as the 94th has been," he said in a telephone interview.

But, Mahon said, "There still are a lot of people that passionately desire to take punitive action against the oil industry."

The congressman said he hopes that legislation to deregulate the price of interstate natural gas can be passed "but I would be fearful that unacceptable strings would be tied to it."

He said he believes the public is better informed now than it has been and that "consumers are beginning to realize that destroying or crippling the oil industry is going to hurt them."

Mahon said it is too early to tell what attitudes toward the energy matters will be found in Congress, but he is "cautiously optimistic" about the prospects for legislation to encourage exploration and production.

The congressman said he does not know what the effect of James Schlesinger's appointment as head of the Federal Energy Administration in the Carter administration will be. "I am more familiar with his record in the field of defense and atomic energy," Mahon said.

One of the president-elect's plans for reorganizing the federal government is to combine the Federal Energy Administration with the Energy Research and Development Administration, Mahon said, but he does not know what shape the new agency might take.

On the oft-repeated Carter promise to cut approximately $5 billion from the defense budget, Mahon said there has been some "misunderstanding" of what the president-elect means.

Carter may recommend a cut in the amount of increase contained in the budget President Ford will submit to Congress before he leaves office, Mahon said.

But, in two conversations with Carter, "I find no disposition on his part to make drastic cuts in defense" Mahon said.

But, he said, Congress "will write the ticket."

On the topic of relations between the White House and the Congress, Mahon said with a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress there may be "more harmony and agreement on major issues."

Congress will attempt to cooperate with the President but "will, of course, assert its own views and will not become a rubber stamp for the new administration" he said.

Some measures to stimulate the national economy probably will pass the Congress, if recommended by the Carter administration, Mahon said.

One possibility is a tax cut. "I think Congress will go along with the tax cut if it's recommended by the President. Many elements of business . . . and a large segment of

THE YEAR 1977 was barely 10 hours old when the Bicentennial began slipping from our memories much as the Federal Building's official flag commemorating the nation's 200th birthday slipped from its place beneath Old Glory Saturday morning.

Children escape fire in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — As flames rushed through the three-story apartment building, 10 children were dropped safely to outstretched arms below. But later the bodies of eight persons were pulled from the rubble.

"People were yelling and screaming to save the kids," said Patrolman Robert Drobniewski.

With smoke billowing out of the building, adults leaned out of windows on the second and third floors, shouting to people on the street to help with the children, said Carmelo Ortiz, 19, who witnessed the New Year's Eve blaze.

Adults grasped the youngsters by their hands and wrists and dangled them out of the windows.

"A group of people took off their coats," Ortiz said. "And then the people let go of the children and the children fell into the coats."

Ortiz said the children appeared to be unharmed from the fall, but that two women leaped from the third floor and looked like they might have been hurt. Hospitals reported treating nine persons for injuries.

A week ago, on Christmas Eve, 10 children and two adults were killed in an apartment building fire four miles to the south.

In New York on New Year's Eve, a grandmother and three of her grandchildren were killed in a blaze apparently set off by a gas explosion. Six children were killed in a fire in Grand Rapids, Mich. Their bodies were found huddled in a bedroom, and fire officials said they died of smoke inhalation.

The cause of the New Year's fire in Chicago was not determined.

Juan Vargas, 22, who lived on the second floor, said his family was celebrating a birthday late Friday night. Around midnight, his aunt, Conchita Acevedo, 40, opened the door to leave.

"She started screaming that there was a fire in the hall and all we could think of was how to get out," Vargas said.

He said he and his aunt and uncle, Ramon, 43, and their five children climbed out a window onto a sign hanging from the building. The men jumped the 10 feet to the ground and the children were handed down.

All of the eight bodies were believed found on the third floor.

Two of them were not identified.

The others were Daniel Olmeda, 34; Ramon Carrasquillo, 46, Violetta Carrasquillo, 21, Ramon Carrasquillo, 2, Malagros Gomez, 20, and Crelensia Olmeda, whose age was not known.

New Year brings new recruits

By The Associated Press

Spurred on by a New Year's Day deadline that meant a reduction in future GI Bill benefits, volunteers crowded local recruiting offices around the country to sign up for military service.

Some recruiting offices reported that the enlistment buildup began last month, but almost all those surveyed at random agreed that the real flood in applications came in the last week.

About 500 enlistees a day, for example, flooded the Armed Forces entrance and examination center in Los Angeles, a sharp increase over the 70 to 100 volunteers who signed up in the last week of 1975, center officials said.

Other recruiting offices said they had processed about twice as many enlistees in the last week of December as they normally did.

In Detroit, Maj. Robert Joles, executive officer of the Army's Recruiting Center said, "We processed about 80 boys Friday, compared with our average 35 a day."

Army recruiter Sgt. William Calliham in Columbia, S.C., said of the last week's rush: "They were beating the doors down ... It's like Christmas shopping. They waited until the last minute." Calliham said his station had signed up 88 persons in November and December, an increase of one-third over last year's total of 60 enlistees accepted.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said there were no figures available on how many enlistees had joined the services in the last week.

Friday was the last day enlistees could qualify for full GI Bill education benefits. Beginning Saturday, new enlistees have to contribute some of their service pay toward a GI Bill education fund.

Under the new GI Bill, those enlisting in the military service will have to pay $50 to $75 monthly, up to a maximum of $2,700, to receive educational aid.

Another inducement to enlist in the armed forces was a delayed entry program, under which volunteers could enlist by the end of 1976 and get current full GI education benefits as long as they enter service before the end of 1977.

The Army, the largest service, says it has about 30,000 of these delayed entry enlistees signed up.

Military recruiting offices in Cincinnati and Minneapolis stayed open Friday, a holiday for federal employes, to keep up with the applications. In Reno, Nev., Seattle, Oklahoma City, among others, the recruiting staffs worked upwards of 12-hour days during the week.

Paper blasts Ford plan

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — President Ford's proposal for Puerto Rico to become the 51st state drew sharp criticism Saturday from a major newspaper which said the President was ill advised.

The opinion published by El Mundo, the only newspaper to appear on the New Year holiday, reflected the view of outgoing Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon. Leaders of the Independence and Socialist opposition parties have also criticized Ford's action.

Gov.-elect Carlos Romero Barcelo, who takes office today and officially favors statehood for the island commonwealth, said on Friday he welcomed the president's suggestion, but even he said the change should be delayed until economic conditions improve.

Puerto Rico has an unemployment rate of more than 20 per cent and a low rate of economic growth.

El Mundo called Ford's action "regrettable" and said, "It contributes nothing to strengthening the union between Puerto Rico and the United States. He has been very badly advised by people in the United States or in Puerto Rico."

In an interview with The Associated Press just prior to the president's announcement, Romero said the existing commonwealth relationship would have to be retained for the time being. "I have a commitment not to be pushing for statehood until we are well on the way to economic recovery," he said.

Hernandez Colon, who was narrowly defeated by Romero in his bid for re-election last November, blasted the Ford statement as "undue interference" in internal Puerto Rican affairs.

Everyone's tastes differ, meat man says

The average American, it's plain to see, has no moral or nutritional qualms about what passes between his molars, through his digestive track, and into his ever-living fat and fiber.

If it looks appealing and tastes good, Joe Doe will give it a taste and a gulp and let it pass.

"Poppycock!" you say.

Disciplined eating habits are on the wane — if you care to stack the cards.

Just check out the passing physiques, look into the eyes, and listen for the rumbles and murmurs of disturbed bellies and tummies (whichever you prefer).

You'll see.

"Garbage and trash!" you say. "Americans are food conscious, weight conscious and all that." And who isn't?

We all have our special interests and tastes, however general or selective, and our beefs.

And so does the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The board, as if feeling threatened by an onslaught of vegetarians, has published an expose in the form of a booklet entitled: "Meat and the Vegetarian Concept."

The subtitle, "The case for meat in the human diet: a review of the evidence," is suggestive of a Ralph Nader spiel or something the Surgeon General might have warned about, other than cigarette smoking.

The booklet does a par excellent job at card-stacking. And it's almost persuasive enough to make you want to grab the old butcher knife, cut off a hunk of flesh from a steer or heifer, and roast and eat it right at the site of the slaughter.

"Vegetarianism — the practice of not eating meat, fish, fowl or other animal foods — has been a debated issue for most of recorded history," says the booklet on meat in nature's scheme.

Now for the debate:

"Meat-eaters believe that their diet represents a moral, convenient, economical means of obtaining necessary nutrients; that meat is a significant factor in planning a normal well-balanced diet; that meat consumption is an asset to good nutrition," proclaims the meat board.

"And meat tastes good." It says so right here.

The eating habits of the steak-addicted West Texans say so, too.

Slight chance of rain forecast for Basin area

A slight chance of precipitation has crept into the weather forecast, but the weatherman expects tonight to be slightly warmer than recent evening temperatures.

Skies should be partly cloudy through Monday, with a slight chance of rain today, said a spokesman at the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Air Terminal.

The high temperature for today and Monday should be in the lower 50s, with a low today in the lower 30s.

Winds should be from the southwest at 10 to 15 mph today. The probability of precipitation for today is 20 per cent.

Area cities reported generally clear and cold conditions late Saturday night.

Andrews, Rankin and Odessa reported clear and cold weather with some wind. Lamesa was cold and windy.

Stanton was cold and misty, with moderate wind.

Falling temperatures combined with precipitation Saturday night to create dangerous conditions on many Texas highways and streets where law enforcement officials reported numerous traffic accidents.

The Department of Safety said sections of Interstate 10 between Boerne and Junction in South Texas were hazardous because of freezing rain and sleet, the Associated Press reported.

Everyone's tastes differ

Who doesn't like a nice, juicy, cooked-to-order piece of beef?

Vegetarians, that's who, if shunning is not liking.

Why bypass a hunk of flesh at meal time?

Some people do because of religious taboos, "often based on ancient ritual or related to the sanitation problems which were prevalent before refrigeration," says the booklet.

"Other oppose the slaughter of animals" and the use of chemicals in the beef-production cycle.

Still others contend that "eating meat from grain-fed animals 'wastes' food resourses in a hungry world."

Some argue that a vegetable-fruit-nut diet is the best route to physical and mental well-being.

A relatively few say that the brown-rice diet of Zen macrobiotics is the utopia in eating.

Beef-eater David H. Stroud, president of the partisan meat board, offered a few choice words on food and eating.

"The meat board has no quarrel with any individual who chooses a vegetarian lifestyle," he said.

"But charlatans and self-styled nutrition adverturists who distort scientific data in order to hawk their owns nostrums or ideas ought to be called to task," he said in his crusade to get meat in most everybody's diet.

Contrary to the propaganda put out by the advocates of vegetarianism, Stroud said, a strictly vegetarian diet may not be all that simple and nutritional.

"The overall effect, unfortunately, is more likely that of promoting food faddism and nutrition quackery, higher grocery bills and complicated meal planning," he said.

That many converts to vegetarianism "feel better" than before they banned meat from their diet may be attributed to "this new attention they are paying to themselves." He mentioned "more exercise and sleep," "more vitamins or mineral supplements," and a "lower calorie intake."

Stroud and the meat board, for self-preservation and to the health of the nation, recommends a four-prong diet: (1) meat and other protein sources, such as dried beans, (2) dairy products, (3) fruits and vegetables, (4) and breads and cereals.

The meat board's booklet mentions the often poor eating habits of the American people, including Joe Doe and his brother John.

"Over-eating . . . does seem to be a problem many Americans should address themselves to. As a nation, we eat too much and often practice poor nutrition habits in general. But 'too many animal foods' is not likely the problem."

Whatever the problem may be, die-hard vegetarians have found the answer, the solution. So have Stroud and the beefy Chicago-based meat board.

Ask either faction.

Ask anyone.

If not amazed and confused, you'll likely be as headstrong on your slant on foods as ever.

W.H. "Bill" Collyns, center, first winner of Midland Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award (1943), checks program for this year's awards banquet with Doug Henson, right, 1975 DSA winner, and Joe Campbell, DSA project chairman.

Jaycees seeking nominations for boss, outstanding young man

Midland Jaycees will stage their annual Distinguished Service Award-Bosses Night Banquet Jan. 13 in the Petroleum Club. The function will begin with a social period at 6:30 p.m., Jaycee President Larry Bell said.

Midland's Outstanding Young Man" of 1976 will be honored at the banquet, along with the "Boss of the Year."

The Jaycees presented their first Distinguished Service Award in January 1944, when W.H. "Bill" Collyns, charter secretary of the then Junior Chamber of Commerce and now vice president and editor of The Reporter-Telegram, was recognized as Midland's "Outstanding Young Man" of 1943. Collyns also is serving this year as president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Distinguished Service Awards have been presented annually since that time.

Dale Scarth, now of Fort Worth, was selected as the Jaycees' "Boss of the Year" of 1956, when this phase of the annual awards program was launched.

Nominations for 1976's "Outstanding Young Man" and "Boss of the Year" now are being received by the Jaycees, with Friday having been announced as the deadline for filing nominations. Joe Campbell is the project chairnan.

The new DSA winner will be introduced at the banquet by Doug Henson, last year's recipient.

Other DSA winners through the years, in order, have been Clint Dunagan, L.W. Sandusky, John J. Redfern Jr., Taylor Cole, Dr. Henry Schlichting, Art Cole, Perry Pickett, Emil Rassman, Duke Jimerson, James Velvin Jr., Ed Gardner, Tom King, Robert A. Dean, Robert Milam, Jim Allison Jr., Charles H. Priddy, Robert M. Taubman, C.H. Brockett, Dale Scarth, W.P. "Bill" Franklin, W.H. "Bill" Malone, Ted Kerr, Arlen Edgar, LaDoyce Lambert, Manuel Carrasco, Larry Melton, James Mashburn, Doc Dodson, Preston Bridgewater Jr., Jim Kent and Henson.

Twenty-three of the past recipients are still Midland residents. They are Collyns, Redfern, Art Cole, Pickett, Rassman, Jimerson, King, Dean, Milam, Allison, Priddy, Brockett, Franklin, Malone, Kerr, Edgar, Lambert, Carrasco, Melton, Mashburn, Dodson, Kent and Henson.

Winners of "Boss of the Year" awards, in addition to Scarth, have been Ray O. Howard, Murray Fasken, W.G. Marquardt, C.P. Bristol, Robert M. Turpin, John P. Butler, Robert Fendleton, R.W. Lewis, R.D. Hanley, Martin Allday, W.B. Newkirk, Woody Adams, Stanley Moore, Jack Mogle, C.J. Kelly, Winston Barclay, John Grimland Jr., Harry Clark and Wayne Peters.

All but Scarth, Howard, Marquardt, Turpin, Lewis and Hanley still reside here. Marquardt now is president of Texas Electric Service Co., Fort Worth, and Scarth is vice president of the firm.

Midland man shot at lounge

A 24-year-old Midland man was shot to death early Saturday morning in his car outside a Midland lounge and another Midlander posted a $25,000 bond set on a murder charge in connection with the incident.

Kenneth Leon Brown was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine shortly after the incident was reported at 1:47 a.m. He was shot once in the head with a large caliber bullet, Midland police said.

The shooting reportedly occurred at the Pony Express Club, North A Street and Missouri Avenue, but Brown was found slumped over in the front seat of his car which had hit the east side of Permian Pontiac, 701 W. Texas Ave., according to police reports.

Released from Midland County Jail after posting a $25,000 bond was Herman Fliston Coomer, 29, of 4303 Andrews Highway. Judge Pine set the bond on him Saturday afternoon on a charge of murder.

The shooting apparently was the result of an argument, police said.

Indian Communists avoid clash, call off protests

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Communist party of India backed down Saturday from a confrontation with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government, calling off rallies planned as a New Year's Day national protest against rising prices.

The Communist turnabout came after the party reported increasing arrests of its workers in Uttar Pradesh, India's most populous state, where a party spokesman said at least 150 local Communist leaders and supporters had been arrested in the past two days.

A leader of the ruling Congress party warned the Communists against creating problems. "We still watch the situation and will deal firmly wherever the Communist agitation creates a law and order problem," said Zail Singh, chief minister of northern Punjab state.

A Communist spokesman said that according to preliminary reports only two major rallies were held as part of what had been proclaimed "Anti-Price Rise Day." Both were in Chandigarh, capital of Punjab state.

Major demonstrations scheduled for New Delhi, Bombay and other cities were canceled when local authorities refused to give the Communists' permission to hold public meetings. The party decided not to defy the government, the spokesman said.

"We did not intend to violate the law," a senior party official said. "We just wanted to highlight the fact that prices have gone up and the government should adopt certain policies to control prices."

The Communists based their planned protests on the announcement that the government's wholesale price index has increased by about 12 per cent since March.

The Communists have become increasingly disillusioned with what they view as Mrs. Gandhi's rightward shift in her economic policies since proclaiming a state of emergency 18 months ago.

East Germany tightens control on wall

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany tightened controls at the wall dividing East and West Berlin on Saturday by requiring foreigners to obtain a visa and pay a new $2 fee to enter East Berlin.

The East Germans also shortened the deadline for visitors to leave East Berlin to midnight on the day they enter, instead of letting visits run for 24 hours as previously.

Before the new regulation, announced Thursday and effective New Year's Day, non-Germans got free passes that were not stamped into passports.

New Year's visitors returning from East Berlin said their passports had been stamped and that they had to pay a visa fee of $2. This was in addition to the old requirement that a minimum of $2.80 be changed into East German marks.

Thus the minimum cost for a day's trip through the wall to East Berlin now stands at $4.80.

This puts non-Germans into the same category as West Germans not living in West Berlin. They have been paying a $2 fee for one-day visas valid until midnight and also were required to buy the East German marks.

West Berliners fall into another category and pay no personal fees at all. Under an official agreement, the West German government pays for the West Berlin Germans in a lump sum anually.

The East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland described the new regulation in editorial as "a completely normal matter," rebutting suggestions that the Western powers occupying Berlin — The United States, Britain and France — should be concerned about it.

Neues Deutschland said the change was prompted by what it called bargain hunters coming into the Communist part of the city from West Berlin.

Allied military police at Checkpoint Charlie, opposite the main wall crossing point used by non-Germans, said allied military personnel moved into East Berlin as before, without any controls.

Since traffic was light New Year's Day, it was not clear how the new regulation would affect processing when hundreds of people at a time crowd crossing points on the wall.

American soldiers at Checkpoint Charlie said that despite the light traffic, the East Germans had increased their guard strength and that officers came repeatedly to wall openings to see what was happening on the Western side.

Means ordained Episcopal priest

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jacqueline Means, a 40-year-old mother of four and wife of a truck driver, became the first woman formally ordained as a priest in the Episcopal Church on Saturday.

The 90-minute ordination ceremony at the inner city All Saints Church was the first for a woman since the Episcopal hierarchy met in Minneapolis last September and approved the ordination of women.

The decision ended a male-dominated period in Episcopal history that dated back 200 years and opened a new era in which more women are expected to enter the priesthood in the 2.8 million-member denomination, which combines both Catholic and Protestant elements.

The Rt. Rev. Donald J. Davis, bishop of the Erie, Pa., diocese, placed his hands on the Rev. Mrs. Means' head as she kneeled before him for ordination.

"Therefore, oh Father, through Jesus Christ Your Son, give your Holy Spirit to Jacqueline, fill her with grace and power and make her a priest of Your Church," the bishop intoned. Then he presented the newly ordained priest a Bible and embraced her.

Earlier in the ceremony, the bishop asked if any spectators "know any impediment or crime because of which we should not proceed."

Robert M. Strippy, 42, who said he represents the 40,000 member American Church Union and the 541,000-member Coalition of Concerned Churchmen, walked to the front of the church and said:

"Because it is not possible for truth to be conjoined with error, we confess with sorrow that we cannot continue in communion with any national church, province, diocese, or parish where this and similar acts are recognized."

Then Daniel T. Strecker of Dayton, Ky., who said he represented only himself, said he wished to protest the ordination.

Bishop Davis acknowledged the two men, saying, "We recognize and are grieved by the separation that is between us" but "the love of Christ" is a shared commitment. He then went on with the ceremony.

Strecker and Strippy left the church with several other spectators and joined about 25 persons who marched peacefully back and forth in front of the red brick building as the ceremony continued inside.

The Rev. Mrs. Means, a licensed practical nurse who serves as a chaplain at the Indiana Women's Prison, is a former Roman Catholic. She attended Catholic Seminary Foundation in 1974 and completed an 11-week clinical pastoral education program earlier this year.

She became Indiana's first woman Episcopal deacon 2½ years ago.

Her ordination is a major victory in a long battle in the Episcopal Church, which until recently refused even to seat women at its general conventions.

American economy showed signs of life during last week of 1976

NEW YORK (AP) — The American economy showed new signs of life in the last week of 1976.

There were a number of encouraging reports on sales and production in key industries and business leaders seemed hopeful that President-elect Jimmy Carter's economic proposals would be sound.

Among developments:

—The Commerce Department's index of leading economic indicators rose a strong 1 per cent in November to 127.5 per cent of the 1967 average. The index, considered an important forecast of business trends, had gained 0.6 per cent in October, an upward revision from 0.2 per cent.

—November contracts for new contruction throughout the nation rose 37 per cent in November to $7.69 billion, according to McGraw-Hill's F.W. Dodge unit. There was a big increase in apartment building, which had been down.

George Christie, Dodge's chief economist, said, "It appears that the recovery of the construction industry is back on the track."

—Some of the nation's retailers said their Christmas business exceeded the strong totals of the 1975 holiday season.

—Detroit's automakers said that production in January will exceed the year-earlier month by 21 per cent.

—The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, a barometer of stock market activity, broke the 1,000 barrier again in the past week.

—Democrats in the House of Representatives say President-elect Carter is partial to a plan to double or triple the $2 billion public-works program enacted last fall.

—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said the nation's basic money supply rose $700 million in the week ended Dec. 22 to $311.1 billion. Some money market analysts had expected a large drop in the supply of cash in circulation and in checking accounts.

Midland man elected

Bill Miller of Falcon Marine, Inc., Midland, has been elected a district director of the Boating Trades Association of Texas.

Miller, who will be serving his first term as a director, was elected to the position during the organization's recent convention in Austin.

Other directors elected are Kenneth Martin of Wichita Falls, Charles Ferrell of San Antonio, Floyd Crawley of Tyler and Don Dacus of Jacksonville.

Bernie Stumfoll of Victoria and Bill Ferguson of Houston were elected to fill directorships that were resigned.

The Boating Trades Association of Texas, organized in 1957, is one of the nation's largest state marine organizations, serving approximately 500 members.

Bell named HBF head

Larry J. Bell has been promoted to president of HBF Corp., and David T. Leonard has been named vice president.

HBF is a recently formed Midland concern. Mrs. Harriett P. Faudree is acting chairman of the corporation.

Leonard has been associated with Abbott Building Co. and Area Builders, Inc., since graduating from Texas A&M University with a degree in Architectural Construction.

He was construction manager for Area Builders before joining HBF.

HBF is a local property management, realty development company and owner of the recently completed HBF Building, 414 West Texas St.

Harlan Michael

Michael named

Harlan Michael has been named an executive vice president of Western State Bank of Midland, Jon B. Billingsley, chairman of the board, and William J. Mewhorter, president, reported.

Michael will assume duties at the bank Monday.

Prior to joining Western State, he was associated with The First National Bank of Midland.

He is active in local organizations, including the Evening Optimist Club, the Pop Up Toastmaster, the YMCA, American Cancer Society, United Fund and Salvation Army.

He is a member of the Financial Advisory Council of St. Anns Catholic Church.

Prior to coming to Midland 17 years ago, he was associated with a bank in Denver, Colo.

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK

Bond supporters making new plans

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Supporters of industrial revenue bonds are making plans again to try to move a constitutional amendment for such bonds through the Legislature.

Texas is, in fact, one of the few states which doesn't have such bond-issuing authority for municipal governments. And in the past, Texans haven't appeared overly eager to grant such authority.

Voters turned down the idea in 1968, but four years later, Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado won approval of such a plan.

But that law hasn't been usable, because the State Supreme Court (in a test case from McAllen) refused to rule whether the law was constitutional or not.

Texas Industrial Commission Executive Director James Harwell says the Texas Industrial Council (composed of professional industrial development personnel and community leaders) will make another push for such authority in the new session.

Harwell feels Texas needs such authority — especially for smaller communities — to enable it to compete with neighboring states in attracting new industry.

He cites a survey of 36 large companies which looked at Texas and then chose to locate in one of Texas' neighboring states.

The decisive factor, Harwell says, was that the companies could get financing through industrial revenue bonds in Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana or Oklahoma — but not in Texas.

Savings on interest through the use of such bonds is significant, Harwell notes, since interest may be as much as one-third of the cost of a project.

"Everyone," he adds, "is being caught in a money crunch."

A study performed some six years ago for the TIC indicated Texas needed two major tools which other states had to help it compete for new plants, Harwell notes.

One was a start-up training program to prepare workers for employment in new plants. Texas now has such training (through the TIC).

The other was, of course, industrial revenue bonds.

The legislative game plan for supporters of industrial revenue bonds is to get passage of a resolution calling for a change in the constitution, if necessary, to allow use of such bonds, and to get an opinion from Attorney General John Hill regarding whether the existing law could be used after a constitutional change (or if a new law would be required).

Harwell says North Carolina recently joined the states which have industrial revenue bonds — and that North Carolina feels the move will help it compete with other states for industry.

Harwell hopes Texans can be convinced of the same thing.

The State Board of Insurance will meet at 9 a.m. Jan. 12 in the Old Supreme court Room of the Capitol to consider proposed rules and regulations on group and blanket accident and health policy and certificate forms.

The regulations were published earlier, and the hearing was called to receive public testimony and comment on the regulations — which were drafted under legislation passed by the last session of the Legislature to give the board authority to implement basic standards for such policies.

Debt breaks town

SALIX, Iowa (AP) — It was an accident that broke the town of Salix. Its 387 citizens, over half of whom are retired, face a 92 per cent property tax hike in March to raise funds for the six-year-old debt.

"It is a tremendous amount, almost confiscatory to some people," town attorney William Shuminsky said of the tax hike.

The problem stems from a 1970 traffic accident involving the city's single ambulance, in which a man driving another vehicle was killed.

His widow first proposed an out-of-court settlement for $95,000 dollars. But Western Casualty, which insured Salix for $100,000, held out for court proceedings and Salix was slapped with a $188,000 judgement.

After the insurance company paid its share, the western Iowa town was left $118,000 in debt, due to legal fees and interest.

Salix appealed to the state legislature for help, which designed a bill to let the town pay off its debt over a 10-year period. But the law was ruled unconsitutional because it was limited to towns with less than 500 people and with an $88,000 debt — which did not account for the iterest and fees.

Salix has filed notice of an appeal with the Iowa Supreme Court, contending the law is indeed constitutional, but unless the court acts before March, the town will be forced to raise the property taxes.

Domestic oil demand may exceed record

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic demand for petroleum products in 1977 is expected to exceed the record 1973 pre-embargo level.

Crude production is scheduled to receive a boost from Alaska's North Slope but spiraling imports may not be far behind total domestic output.

Domestic proved crude oil reserves, excluding Alaska, are expected to decline a tenth consecutive year, natural gas reserves the ninth year in a row.

Here is the outlook:

Demand—Average petroleum product requirements for the year may approach 18,000,000 barrels a day compared with the 1973 record of 17,308,000 barrels daily.

Production—Domestic crude oil output should drop to about 8,000,000 barrels a day, the lowest level since 1965, and then rebound a bit the last half of the year with the start of North Slope production and the opening of the Trans-Alaska pipeline.

Imports—Early estimates indicate imports of crude and products will average in excess of 7,800,000 barrels a day compared with the pre-embargo average of 6,256,000 in 1973.

Reserves—Industry estimates of proved crude oil and natural gas reserves at the end of 1976 will not be released until late March. All trends indicate, however, increased explorations and drilling operations were not sufficient to offset 1976 demand growth and will fall short again in 1977.

The American Petroleum Institute has not as yet released its year-end 1976 estimates but it placed January-October demand at 16,847,000 barrels daily. Severe weather in recent weeks, however, caused demand to skyrocket in some areas and the 12-month average should exceed 17,000,000.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America meanwhile has estimated 1976 demand at 17,221,000 barrels a day and has forecast 1977 requirements at a record 17,979,000 barrels daily.

The independents also placed 1976 crude oil production at 8,150,000 barrels a day, compared with 8,156,000 in the Institute's 10-month report.

Domestic crude oil output has declined each year since reaching an all-time high of 9,637,000 barrels a day in 1970 but the independents report some encouraging signs.

"The rate of decline, excluding North Slope, has moderated from 4.9 per cent in 1974 and 4.7 per cent in 1975 to 2.5 per cent in 1976 and a projected 1.8 per cent decline in 1977," the independents report.

They add, however, that 1977 output will drop to about 3,000,000 barrels a day before North Slope production after mid-year starts an upward swing that is expected to give the industry an average of about 8,250,000 barrels a day for the year.

The Institute estimates January-October imports of crude and products at a record 6,910,000 barrels a day. The independents have made a 7,074,000-barrel estimate for the full year and projected 1977 imports at 7,820,000 barrels a day.

A 1976 year-end average approximating 7,000,000 barrels would compare with 6,025,000 in 1975, 6,112,000 in 1974, and the previous high of 6,256,000 in 1973. Imports averaged only 3,419,000 barrels daily in 1970, when the United States recorded its all-time high in crude oil production.

Exlcuding Alaska, domestic crude oil reserves have declined steadily since reaching a record level of 31.7 billion barrels at the end of 1961. Natural gas reserves have had a similar trend since peaking in 1967 at 292.9 trillion cubic feet.

By the end of 1975, the reserves estimates had dropped to 21.6 billion barrels for crude and 196.2 trillion cubic feet for natural gas.

Alaska's reserves, with the prolific North Slope shutin since its 1968 discovery, have been estimated at 10 billion barrels of cude and 32 trillion cubic feet of gas.

Wainoco Oil finals gas, oil producers

HOUSTON — Wainoco Oil Ltd., has announced completion of three wells in Texas, and two in Louisiana.

The firm's No. 1 E. E. Reed, Wilson County, Tex., well, finaled to flow 194 barrels of oil daily, through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,142-6,194 feet in the Buda lime.

Also in Wilson County, six miles southwest of the Reed well, No. 1 Sam Moy finaled for 159 barrels of oil per day, on a 14-64-inch choke and Buda perforations at 7,792-7,846 feet.

The Palo Pinto County, Tex., well is No. 1 Earl Waddell. It finaled flowing 1.7 million cubic feet of gas per day, through a ¼-inch choke and perforations opposite the Bend from 3,874-3,882 feet.

A Frio sand gas well, No. 1 Miller Estate finaled in St. Landry Parish, La., for 2.2 million cubic feet of gas and 15 barrels of condensate daily, through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations from 10,028-10,034 feet, and 10,040-10,046 feet.

A Vermilion Parish, La., well, No. 1 Corbett LeBouef, was completed to flow 94 barrels of oil daily, on a 10-64-inch choke, and Miocene sand perforations at 7,926-7,935 feet.

The wells were drilled as a part of its Wainoco 76 Co. partnership in which it owns a 40 per cent interest. The partnership has 100 per cent of the working interest in the wells in Louisiana and Palo Pinto County, Tex., and 75 per cent of the working interest in the Wilson County, Tex., wells.

Following payout, the average working interest owned by the partnership in the five wells will be approximately 60 per cent.

Granville Dutton

Dutton to speak

The Permian Basin Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will hold its regular meeting Jan. 4 at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

The meeting will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m., and dinner will be served at 7:30.

The guest speaker will be Granville Dutton, manager of joint operations for Sun Production Co. in Dallas.

Dutton is a vice president and director of Canyon Reef Carriers, Inc., the owner and operator of a carbon dioxide pipeline in West Texas.

Dutton's topic will be "The OCS-Its Role in Solving the Energy Crisis."

River fowl saved by helicopter noise

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Noise made by helicopters and cleanup crews apparently saved most of the Delaware River's waterfowl population from being covered by oil spilled from a Liberian tanker, a federal wildlife official says.

Ken Chitwood, of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Commission, said Friday that the majority of the river's bird population moved to nearby inland marshes because of noise from helicopters flying overhead and crews cleaning up the spill from the tanker Olympic Games.

Meanwhile, Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., says a congressional committee may investigate the causes of three accidental oil spills off Delaware, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The hull of the Olympic Games ripped open when the tanker, loaded with 17 million gallons of Arabian crude, struck a rock Monday while attempting a docking maneuver. Nearly 134,000 gallons of the light oil spilled into the river, creating a 34-mile long oil slick.

Chitwood said the bird population at this time of year between here and Artificial Island, N.J., normally ranges from 30,000 and 60,000. Now only about 6,000 remain on the shore, he said.

He estimated that between 500 and 700 birds from the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware shores of the river have died from the spill. More than 200 others have been picked up and cleaned.

The Coast Guard said most of the oil had evaporated or been cleaned up by Thursday evening. Work crews cleaning up the shorelines in three states were hampered by cold weather and ice, the spokesman said. They were reduced for the weekend.

The captain of the ship, Vasilios Vlismas, is free on $50,000 bail pending a hearing in federal court Jan. 17. He is charged with violating federal pollution laws.

Hollings said the Senate Commerce Committee, of which he is a member, has scheduled hearings on Jan. 11 and 12. The committee, chaired by Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., will want to know what caused the Argo Merchant to run aground off Nantucket Island, spilling 7.6 million gallons of oil.

Meeting scheduled

The Permian Basin Chapter of American Petroleum Institute's Division of Production will hold its January meeting Tuesday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

There will be a social hour at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner and the program at 7:30 p.m.

Granville Dutton, manager of joint operations for Sun Oil Co. at Dallas, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Outer Continental Shelf — Its Role in Solving Energy Crises."

Dutton is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a B.S. degree in engineering and he also holds the LL.B. degree from Southern Methodist University.

McCarthy appointed

NEW YORK — Texaco Inc. has announced appointments for vacancies due to retirements.

Robert R. McCarthy has been appointed superintendent of the Bayonne, N.J., terminal.

He succeeds Howard K. Faber who has retired after 20 years with the company.

Gulf grant completed

NEW YORK — The final installment of a $200,000 grant has been made to Rockefeller University by the Gulf Foundation.

The grant, awarded in two $100,000 payments, will endow a perpetual fellowship for students in the biochemical and neurosciences predoctoral programs at Rockefeller.

1977 budget approved

CHICAGO — The board of directors of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) today approved a 1977 capital and exploration budget totaling $2.1 billion, largest in the company's history.

Board chairman John E. Swearingen said the 1977 budget, which is 23 per cent — or $400 million — higher than estimated 1976 capital and exploration spending, reflects Standard's intensive efforts to find and develop new oil and natural gas supplies.

Included in the 1977 budget, he said, are higher outlays for exploratory drilling in the U.S. and Canada, and development drilling and production facilities overseas, principally in Iran, Egypt and Trinidad.

In October Standard reported earnings of $724.1 million for the first nine months of 1976, an increase of 19 per cent over the first three quarters of 1975.

Contractors set meeting

The Permian Basin Chapter of International Association of Drilling Contractors will hold its regular meeting Jan. 11 at the Inn of the Golden West, in Odessa.

A social hour is slated for 6:30 p.m., with dinner and the program to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Jim Mustiss, Keating Zeppa and Ed McGhee, national IADC officers, will be special guests of the Permian Basin Chapter meeting.

Advance reservations for members and guests should be made by contacting Guy Hammer at Bovaird Supply Co., P. O. Box 394, Midland, 79701.

Schneider promoted

IMCO Services, a division of Halliburton Co., has named Jon D. Schneider of its Midland Area, as assistant coordinator—mud logging. He will be located in the firm's Central Area at Oklahoma City.

In his new position, Schneider will report to Olan Moore, mud logging coordinator—domestic operations, in Midland.

Schneider joined IMCO Services in 1970, and formerly was located in the Oklahoma City area. He has experience in logging, geological and drilling situations. A native of Artesia, N.M., he attended New Mexico State University at Las Cruces.

Refinery purchased

Texas American Oil Corp. of Midland announced late Thursday its purchase of a crude oil refinery and related brokerage business from United Refining Co., was consumated Wednesday.

The crude oil refinery knows as Osceola Refinery is at West Branch, Mich. The refinery and related wholesale gasoline and fuel oil brokerage will be owned by Texas American Petrochemical, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Texas American Oil Corp.

The approximately $8 million purchase of the refinery, related wholesale fuel oil and gasoline brokerage business, and inventories was paid in cash at closing.

The retail markets of United Refining Co. were not acquired by Texas American.

The proposed acquisition of the refinery was first announced in July 1976. Closing of the transaction has been delayed pending receipt of a ruling on an exception application filed by Texas American and United Refining with the Federal Energy Administration. The ruling was issued by the FEA Dec. 16. William F. Judd, president of Texas American, announced that the company will appeal the portion of the FEA order which delayed the effective date of the purchase of the refiney from Sept. 1 to the date agreed upon by the parties, until December of 1976.

WASHINGTON OIL

Weather to determine how bad pinch will be

By CLYDE LA MOTTE
Washington Oil Correspondent
Reporter-Telegram

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If the weather continues to be colder than normal for the remainder of the heating season, the pinch of natural gas supplies is going to be felt in many areas.

There is no indication yet that homes or hospitals will go cold, although even that is a possibility in some instances.

What is more likely is that many other users will have their supplies sharply curtailed, even to the extent of forcing some plants to close down and others to operate on a limited basis. This, in turn, will have an impact on the economy and on unemployment.

The threat of such shortages has been present for the past several winters but no hardships have resulted, causing some observers to feel that the talk of supply shortages is mostly scare talk.

What is overlooked, however, is that domestic supply continues to decline while demand continues to rise.

Furthermore, many big fuel users have switched to other fuels in past winters, thereby easing the stress on demand. But there is a limit to such conversions; some big users simply are unable to switch because natural gas is essential to their processing or as a raw material, such as in the making of plastics.

The nation has been fortunate, too, in that the past few winters have been unusually mild. A change to unusually cold weather or even to normal winters would create a big jump in demand.

Gas transmission companies are desperately searching for supplemental supplies, but in most cases these efforts cannot produce results for several years.

For instance, Tenneco, Inc., of Houston, a big supplier of gas to northeast states, recently announced a plan for importing up to 1 billion cubic feet of gas a day from Algeria. However, facilities will have to be built, including 500 miles of new pipeline construction inside the U.S., to handle the Algerian gas. The first flow is not due to start until 1981 and it will be 1984 before the line will be operating at full capacity.

The cost of the imported gas may also come as a shock to northeast users, many of whom have long opposed price hikes for domestic gas.

Tenneco estimates that the price of the Algerian gas, delivered to points of delivery on its existing pipelines in New York and Pennsylvania, will be $4.57 per thousand cubic feet. And the price paid to the Algerians for the gas will escalate upward to equal to New York harbor delivered price of No. 2 oil (for home heating) and No. 6 (for industrial use).

There will be some relief, too, when Alaskan North Slope natural gas begins to reach U.S. narketa. But that is still years away. In fact, a decision on a transportation route for the gas will not be decided until sometime late in 1977.

Offshore drilling in new areas, including the Atlantic Ocean, may result in substantial finds. But this, too, is going to be a matter of years.

This means there is little relief in sight for the current winter and for the next several ones.

If, indeed, there is a supply bind in the months ahead, it will be interesting to see how the general public will react.

In the past there has been widespread skepticism that a supply crisis was close at hand. If one really does develop, the industry may get the blame, just as it did during the oil supply crisis called by the oil embargo three years ago.

However, there appears to be a growing awareness that domestic supplies are falling farther and farther behind demand. That is especially critical for natural gas, since its importation is difficult and expensive and facilities are not now available.

Judd quits WOSC post

Western Oil Shale Corp., Midland-based company engaged in the acquisition and development of oil shale leases, has announced that its board of directors has accepted the resignation of William F. Judd of Midland as president, and has elected Frank J. Allen as president.

Judd, who had been president since May, 1970, cited demands on his time as president of Texas American Oil Corp. in tendering his resignation.

Allen, a Salt Lake City, Utah, attorney, has been secretary of Western Oil Shale Corp. since its formation in 1965.

299 Basin rotaries listed in rig survey

The rig count reported last Friday by Reed Drilling Equipment for the Permian Basin Area remained almost the same as two weeks ago when there were 300. There is a decrease of one active rig, making the over-all count 299.

At this same time last year a total of 276 rigs were reported for this area. This Friday's count is an increase of 23 active units from last year.

The counties have leveled off on their report of rigs drilling in each on this last week in 1976. Eddy and Lea Counties, New Mexico, both have 24 units making hole. Pecos County in West Texas has a total of 22.

Third in the list is Reeves County with 16 and fourth are Ector and Ward counties with 14 each. Andrews has 11 rigs and in sixth place is Ward with 10.

Yarbrough oath scheduled today

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Don Yarbrough, who the State Bar says is not fit to be a Texas lawyer, will be sworn in today as an associate justice of the state's highest court.

Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court will preside at the 3 p.m. ceremony in the historic court chambers.

Yarbrough, 35-year-old Houston attorney, was a surprise winner in last June's Democratic primary over Civil Appeals Court Judge Charles W. Barrow. There was speculation many voters thought they were voting for former Sen. Ralph Yarborough or twice-defeated liberal Democratic gubernatorial candidate Don Yarborough, also a Houston attorney.

Before the primary Yarbrough told reporters that God told him to get in the race. Afterwards, he credited God with bringing him the nomination.

Yarbrough had no Republican opponent in the November election and easily defeated two write-in candidates, Houston lawyer Tom Lorance and District Court Judge Sam Houston of Denton.

Yarbrough is a defendant in 15 civil suits including one by the State Bar seeking to take away his lawyer's license. The disbarment suit, which has not been brought to trial, lists 53 grievances including 12 alleged acts of professional misconduct and eight violations of state and federal law.

Zarb says decontrol may not be noticed

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

If the Ford administration and Congress abolish gasoline price controls in January, it isn't likely to make much difference to the average motorist — at least not for awhile.

Frank Zarb, chief of the Federal Energy Administration, says the administration has begun work on a decontrol proposal for presentation to Congress Jan. 4 when it reconvenes. By law, gas price controls will be repealed unless Congress acts to disapprove within 15 days — making the deadline Jan. 19, the day before Jimmy Carter will be sworn in as president.

But the American Automobile Association says a spot-check of more than 3,700 retail gas outlets in all regions of the country indicates motor fuel prices are holding fairly steady, even though they could rise considerably before hitting the present ceiling.

For example, the AAA found that regular gas costs an average of 61.5 cents per gallon even in holiday periods and has dropped four-tenths of a cent since early September.

Premium gasoline averages about 65.8 cents per gallon and unleaded 63.8 cents. Diesel fuel prices are averaging 53.3 cents per gallon, the AAA reports.

The highest fuel prices in the nation were found in Mammoth Lakes, Calif., a resort area, where regular grade fuel was selling for 75.9 cents per gallon, premium was 79.9 cents and unleaded was selling for 77.9 cents.

Lowest fuel prices were discovered in Houston and Beaumont, Tex., where you could buy a gallon of regular grade gas for 45.9 cents, premium for 50.9 and unleaded for 49.9.

On a regional basis the highest average prices per gallon were found by AAA in the mountain states of Arizona, Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, where gas was being pumped for 64.4 cents per gallon for regular, 68.5 cents for premium and 66.6 cents for unleaded.

The Pacific region ranks second, with regular selling for an average of 62.5 cents per gallon, premium for 66.4 and unleaded for 64.7 cents a gallon in California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington.

At the bottom of the price range were states in the West South Central region — Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas — where gas was selling for 59.9 cents for regular, 63.7 for premium and 61.8 cents per gallon for unleaded.

K. W. Keene

Long tours observed

Announcements of service anniversaries have been made by Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S., for employes in its West Texas operations.

K. W. Keene of Odessa, senior geologist in the Crane area of the Midland Production District, has worked for Gulf 25 years. He joined Warren Petroleum Corp. as a geologist, and transferred to Gulf in 1958 as a special staff geologist. He also has served as area production geologist and senior production geologist in addition to his present position.

D. R. Davis, Odessa, production technician in the Midland District office of the Midland Comptroller District, is observing a 10-year service anniversary.

He joined Gulf at Odessa as a well tester, and later served as instrument man. He transferred to his present post last October.

Gerald Reeves

James C. Lowe

Exxon honors hands

Two Exxon Co.-USA employes, engaged in the company's West Texas operations, have observed 30-year service anniversaries.

James C. "Cotton" Lowe and Gerald Reeves were honorees at dinners held in their honor, and at which they were presented service awards.

Lowe is claim agent, Seismic Data Acquisition Project, in the Southwestern Exploration Division in Midland.

He joined Exxon in 1946 in Sunland, Fla., as a seismic helper. Subsequent geophysical assignments took him to various area of Southern U.S. He was named claim agent in 1967 and he moved to Midland in 1969.

Reeves is assigned as technical foreman in the Midland District, Midcontinent Production Division.

He joined the company as a roustabout in Louisiana, transfer-ring to West Texas four years later. He has held field production assignments in Snyder and in 1960 he was transferred to Midkiff as technical foreman, later serving in Abilene until moving to Midland in 1971.

Coal deal announced

DALLAS — Sabine Royalty Corp. has announced that it has joined with other owners in signing a letter of intent with subsidiaries of Texas Utilities Co., concerning the sale of coal to be mined from properties owned by the selling group in San Juan and McKinley counties, N.M., and providing for the sale of the undivided interest in these properties.

The letter of intent covers the sale of a one-third interest in the coal properties to the Texas Utilities companies, based on reserves to be mutually agreed upon, and a long-term sales agreement covering coal to be mined from the remaining interests.

The letter of intent comtemplates that the closing of the proposed transactions, including the signing of definitive agreements covering the development of the properties, will occur Jan. 25, 1977.

Changes reported

FINDLAY, Ohio — Marathon Oil Co. has announced several management changes, effective Jan. 1.

Howard L. Ewart has been appointed to the newly established position of manager, North Sea pipelines, for Pan Ocean Oil (United Kingdom) Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Marathon.

Carl D. Clay succeeds Ewart as western division manager of Marathon Pipe Line Co., another Marathon subsidiary, in Casper, Wyo.

Doyle L. Jones has been named manager of the purchasing division of Marathon succeeding Clay.

OPEC price increase 'not very bullish'

By HELEN L. CALL
Copley News Service

"I don't think this is very bullish for the international oil companies," commented Robert E. Golden, petroleum analyst for Paine Webber, Jackson & Curtis, when OPEC announced its new price schedule.

Golden, who is one of the country's leading oil analysts, said in a telephone interview that the ARAMCO partners (Exxon, Texaco, Standard of California and Mobil), who lift the oil in Saudi Arabia, "do not pay the Saudi government for the crude on the basis of the official price but on the basis of whatever Petromin (the government oil company) gets for the crude it sells.

"If Petromin is able to get 10 per cent more, that is what ARAMCO will pay."

Herman Roseman, a vice president at Argus Research, said in a telephone interview, "We never say put all your chips in the game or take all your chips out.

"We are telling our institutional investors they should be 70 to 80 per cent invested. We think that at some time in 1977 we are going to have a moderately higher, or substantially higher market.

"We want some reserves to be able to pick up stock at lower prices in early 1977. We would buy across the board and not try to be too cute. We would just look for good companies in virtually any industry and stick with higher quality. Some investment advisers want to get more speculative and move down the quality scale, but we don't agree."

With the possibility of natural gas deregulation coming up again, Hornblower & Weeks, Hemphill-Noyes is keeping tabs on two in the industry: American Natural Resources, for above-average yield and Transco Cos. as a turnaround speculation.

Hornblower's analysts also like Kemper Corp. as a high-quality, undervalued, leveraged opportunity in the insurance industry. Houston Oil & Minerals is for the "very aggressive investor" who can work with the "above-average volatility of the stock."

Michael L. Pollard

Pollard joins MGF

Michael L. Pollard has joined MGF Oil Corp. in Midland as manager of Financial Reporting.

His primary area of responsibility for the Midland-based oil and gas firm covers all aspects of financial reporting, including the preparation of financial statements and the coordination of the annual audit by independent accountants.

Prior to joining MGF, he was employed four years by Elmer Fox, Westheimer & Co., a national accounting firm. In June 1975, he transferred from Fox's Dallas office to Midland as senior auditor. While at Fox, his responsibilities included audit senior on one of Fox's largest publicly-held clients.

Pollard earned a B.B.A degree from Texas Texas University.

Iran trying to curb runaway boom

The Los Angeles Times

TEHRAN — Iran is trying to curb its runaway economic boom, the result of a three-year spending spree that sprang from the quadrupling of oil prices since 1973.

In an effort to smooth matters out, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi has issued a series of imperial decrees. Wage freezes have followed price freezes, and orders have come down from on high to eliminate waste.

The worst of the chaos caused by these restraints on government and private spending appears to be easing off. But at the same time, the government is embarrassingly short of pocket money and unable to meet some of its bills.

Virtually everyone agrees the problem of tight money is only a temporary one. As Finance Minister Hushang Ansary put it: "When we pay out $2.4 billion in foreign assistance in one year, it's ridiculous to talk about our not paying bills."

The fact, is some foreign firms have been told their payments would be delayed, possibly until the start of the new Iranian fiscal year next March 21. The government is negotiating a $500 million loan with an 11-bank consortium, headed by Chase Manhattan, and perhaps twice that amount may be sought by the national oil company and from the money market.

According to the Iranians' Bank, the non-oil trade deficit widened in the first six months of the Iranian year by $70 million, a 41 per cent increase over the same period last year. This was an improvement, as the previous increase had been 100 per cent.

Rather than go deeper into a cash deficit, the government is going in for barter deals, including a conventional $3 billion trade deal with the Soviet Union, and more recently, trading off future oil deliveries for British military equipment.

The Shah's ambitious military buildup, which currently takes an estimated 10-15 per cent of the total import bill, is in part responsible for the tight money situation. The revised development budget, more than doubled since oil prices began to soar, is even more to blame.

The result was a boom such as never before experienced here, without the necessary coordination or — more importantly — the infrastructure to handle it. It was a heyday for cost-plus crash projects. And it was a time when middlemen made millions, because without them, Iranian bureaucracy is near impenetrable for outsiders.

Confusion and disorganization were the inevitable result. The ports were clogged, with freighters and waiting as long as 250 days to unload, and perishable cargoes rotting in the intense heat of the Persian Gulf.

Costs soared as demurrage bills were tacked onto normal transport costs. Desperate importers parted with large sums just to get priority handling in the ports and storage yards.

Scarcity of labor meant a wage inflation of up to 45 per cent by some estimates, a matter of little concern when cost-plus contracts were the rule. Prices soared at the same time, up to perhaps 30 per cent, and there were signs of labor unrest.

Statistics are unreliable. Government officials say inflation is now running at a modest 6 per cent, but bankers put the figure at around 20 per cent.

Government expenditures soared 130 per cent in a single year two years ago. Last year, the increase was reportedly down to 26 per cent.

Now, the Shah has ordered a 15 per cent to 25 per cent cut in government expenditures. He has limited pay raises to 1 per cent.

Iraq, Turkey prepare to open 615-mile long crude pipeline

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Iraq and Turkey are about to open a 615-mile pipeline that will eventually pump the equivalent of 245 million barrels of Iraqi crude oil a year to a terminal on Turkey's Mediterranean coast.

The Turks said they expect to earn about $100 million a year on the project, which so far has cost them about $600 million.

Premier Suleyman Demirel of Turkey will lead a delegation of top officials to Kirkuk, where the pipeline begins in northeastern Iraq, for a formal inaugural ceremony Monday, government sources here said.

They said a similar ceremony will held Tuesday at the terminal near the Turkish village of Yumurtalik, on an inlet of the eastern Mediterranean about 275 miles southeast of Ankara.

Negotiations with Iraq over construction of the pipeline took four years, with the Turks expressing concern about the continuity of the oil supply because of possible political instability in Iraq. Once the negotiations were completed, the pipeline took two years to build.

It extends for 215 miles across northeastern Iraq to the Turkish border and another 400 miles across Turkish territory to the coast. Each side financed and built its own section of the pipeline.

The Turkish section is owned and controlled by the Botas Co., a subsidiary of Turkey's state-owned oil company.

Facilities at the terminal consist of a 1.2-mile jetty and four loading platforms. Two of the platforms can accommodate tankers of up to 300,000 tons, while the others can take tankers up to 150,000 tons.

The loading of crude oil from the terminal is scheduled to begin March 20, Botas officials said. They added that the pipeline's initial capacity will be the equivalent of 175 million barrels a year and will increase later to 245 million barrels.

For the first three years, Turkey will have the option of making annual purchases of 70 million barrels of crude pumped through the pipeline, with increases to 84 million in 1980 and 98 million in 1983.

Government sources said Turkey expects to gain revenues of about $100 million a year in transit fees from the pipeline. Part of this income would go toward repayment of foreign credit used to build the Turkish section of the pipeline, the sources said.

It's time to use dormant oil sprays

Favorable weather that held through the last week of December has enabled most area cotton producers to complete field harvest of the 1976 crop. There is still some backlog at gins and some cotton still to be moved from ricks on turnrows to the gin, but essentially field harvest is complete. Farmers have generally been well pleased with grade and quality of this year's crop and prices have generally been good.

Lice can weaken cattle, stunt their growth and make them more susceptible to other diseases. That's why it's important to check cattle periodically for the tiny pests. It's especially important to check cattle in the fall, winter and spring months because lice are attracted to the cooler skin temperatures of animals. Both blood-sucking and biting lice are parasites of cattle.

Biting lice feed on pieces of hair, scabs and skin secretions of the animals and can cause cattle to scratch and rub off pieces of skin. The loss of blood caused by bloodsucking lice can keep young animals from gaining and can affect meat and milk production in older animals. Lice are most numerous on the neck and shoulders of an animals and are more common on poorly fed cattle.

Lice can be controlled by spraying, dipping, dusting or a self-treatment rubbing device. The insecticide use depends on the application method and whether it is for dairy or beef cattle. The most effective way to apply an insecticide is to wet the animal to the skin. This usually takes from one to two gallons of spray for mature animals with heavy hair coats. The application should be repeated in two or three weeks and cattle should be inspected periodically after that.

Now is the time to apply dormant oils for the control of scale insects, mites, insect eggs and some hibernating caterpillars. In the West Texas area the principal need for dormant spraying is for scale. Most of the "worms" such as the elm leaf beetle, the webworms and the butterfly caterpillars do not hibernate or overwinter on the tree proper and thus dormant sprays are not effective for their control.

Some gardeners are afraid of dormant sprays because of confusion about temperature restrictions. Dormant oils are best applied when temperatures are between 40 and 65 degrees and freezing weather is not expected within 48 hours. Best insect control is usually obtained when these oils are used in late winter or early spring. At this time, the insects are in a weakened condition and are easier to kill. Dormant oils, which are basically light-weight, highly refined petroleum distillates, kill insects either by suffocation or by penetrating their tiny breathing tubes. Most insect eggs are killed by interfering with the exchange of gases through the egg shell.

Use dormant oil sprays only on plants having a scale or other insect problems that can be controlled with the oil. No need to spray all the plants or trees in your yard with dormant oil when the euonymous is the only plant having a scale problem. Elm trees never need dormant spraying as none of the insect that commonly attack them during the growing season overwinter on the tree. By the same token, dormant spraying of trees will not do a thing toward controlling borers.

When planting bare-root trees and shrubs, dig a hole large enough to allow the root system to spread naturally. It is not necessary, however, to dig the hole much larger. Do not allow the roots to dry out. Before planting, cut back any broken or damaged roots. Mound good topsoil in the bottom of the hole to form a cone on which to spread the root system as it grew in the nursery. Backfill the hole three-fourths full with soil worked firmly around the root systems with your fingers to eliminate air pockets. Fill the hole with water and let settle. This should eliminate any remaining air pockets.

Finally, add the remaining topsoil. Unless the topsoil is very deep, it may be advantageous to add organic matter such as peat moss at the rate of one part to two parts soil to the backfill.

Hobby sees no new taxes in 1977

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislative sessions, notes Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, after surviving one, "develop lives of their own."

Despite their unpredictable nature, however, Hobby says the 1977 Legislature won't be forced to look for new or additional taxes.

The last time the legislature had to raise taxes was 1971, and Hobby says, "I can assure you that it will be at least 1979 before this possibility is faced again."

Texas' financial situation, in fact, "is the envy of the other 49 states," says Hobby, alluding to an expected tax windfall of $3 billion.

But even with those extra riches to spend, Hobby says, the legislature will have to make some of its "toughest decisions ever" to hold off new taxes.

The math to support his theory is simple: demands for the public dollar total $5 billion more than they did two years ago.

The requests are so high that Hobby has given up hope of setting aside $500,000 for emergencies, which was first proposed prior to the 1975 session. "It was and is a real good idea," he said in a telephone interview, "but it just isn't the way life works."

Hobby will work with virtually the same senators who were here in 1975. The only apparent major change in the committee structure will be to replace Mike McKinnon, who was defeated for re-election. With Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, as chairman of the subcommittee that screens the governor's appointment.

His special interests center on the numerous recommendations of the "Hobby Commission," which has been scrutinizing state agencies since the last legislature to cut out unnecessary expenses.

One proposal is designed to reduce state employment by five per cent.

"It is time that we de-emphasize growth and strive to achieve some degree of stability in the cost of state government and in the burden which that cost places on taxpayers," Hobby says.

A proposal to consolidate Texas' three water agencies would save "a couple of million dollars," Hobby says. He expects similar benefits if the legislature agrees to realign four state agencies, including the welfare department and youth council, into two. One of the proposed new agencies would deal with the problems of adults, the other with children and youth.

On other major issues, Hobby feels that:

—"Most of the opposition has been cured" to Rep. Wayne Peveto's property tax revisions, which include establishing a single assessing office in each county.

—The Senate will balk at any proposal to permit wiretapping.

—"The main thrust" of a special commission's proposals on medical malpractice insurance will pass the Senate. The recommendations include mandatory screening of all claims by a panel of five health care providers before such claims can be taken to court.

—Gov. Dolph Briscoe will get "only a portion" of the $825 million he has requested from general revenue for highway construction. Hobby said because funds already dedicated to highways have risen sharply, apparently only $400 million would be needed to satisfy Briscoe's request. The Legislative Budget Board recommended $235 million.

Hobby, chairman of the board, noted that the LBB left $1 billion on the table in making its budget recommendations for $977-78. But he recalls that the board did the same thing two years ago, and it was all spent.

Clayton says House to act on crime, school taxes

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — As Speaker Bill Clayton sees it, the 1977 House will be a moderate lot, primed for action on middle class Texans' complaints about school taxes and high crime rates.

Clayton predicts a school-finance package that will mandate property tax reductions by school districts and predicts passage of anti-crime bills backed by himself and Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

And there will be no serious attempt to buck the governor on "no new taxes," Clayton said in a pre-session interview that touched on several major issues.

Clayton, 48, is unopposed for a second term as speaker when the legislature convenes on Jan. 11.

While labor sees the House as more liberal than it was two years ago, Clayton counts three or four more conservative votes but says "both sides have moderated somewhat to the center."

The speaker said all the major proposals for school finance—and there are about five of them—approach the question similarly. Beef up total state aid, reduce local shares of the Foundation School Program and base local contributions on market value of taxable property.

"I think we will find the magical numbers to plug in and have a pretty good school finance bill this time," he said.

He predicted that state funding would increase from about 75 per cent to between 90 and 100 per cent of the total, with a stipulation that local districts lower their taxes.

Clayton and Briscoe have proposed similar packages of crime control legislation, including the use of oral confessions as evidence, procedures for wiretaps, restriction of bail, harsher penalties for crimes committed with guns and mandatory supervision of ex-convicts after their release from prison.

"This is one of the issues that is among the top in public concern," Clayton said.

He predicted the House would at least make a start in allowing prosecutors to introduce defendants' oral remarks—as remembered by policemen—as evidence in trials.

"I think the majority of the anti-crime legislation presented this time will pass. People around the state are not just telling me this. They are telling the members," Clayton said.

He said control of crime is important for the state's economic development.

Clayton predicted that Briscoe won't get the $825 million transfer of general revenue to highway construction that he requested. He said the final figure will be somewhere between that figure and the $135 million recommended by the Legislative Budget Board.

Clayton, a member of the board, views the board's recommendation as "a pretty good indicator that just because the highway department asks for more, that doesn't mean it is going to get it."

He said he has no qualms about holding most agencies' budgets near present levels—"I think they can deliver services to the people at those levels."

But he would like to see tighter controls over how the money is spent, perhaps through between-sessions oversight by either the governor or an arm of the legislature. He is having a constitutional amendment drafted to give such power to the governor and has asked for an attorney general's opinion on legislative oversight.

On other issues, Clayton said:

—He looks for lawyers and doctors to resolve their differences and for the legislature to pass some kind of permanent means of enabling doctors to get malpractice insurance at reasonable rates.

—Eminent domain for coal slurry pipeline rights of way "could come down to a bitter fight" between the utilities that want the coal slurry lines and the railroads opposing them.

A bill setting up a permanent system of presidential preference primaries probably will be considered, and "I am hopeful we institute a presidential primary—I like it."

—Legislation standardizing the property tax system and placing assessment in a single office in each county probably will pass the House.

With BOB TIEUEL

Our Bellringers write: Dear Bob — While our mail service has been going to pot, the costs have been skyrocketing. No group has suffered more than users of second class mail, which includes newspapers. And the end of the rate increases is not in sight.

President-elect Carter favors abolishing the postal corporation and turning the postal service back to Congress and a postmaster-general. The mail service is not a business. It is a service, just like public schools, the highway system and the like. Let's all urge the new President to restore those good old days!

Big business, despite what you hear, is bigger than government. And in bigness there is strength. We have reached the conclusion that there is no way to police big business. Big business and organized labor are exactly alike. The public doesn't bargain with either, bargaining isn't allowed.

In the case of utilities — electricity, natural gas, telephone — we don't even have the choice of doing without! We must have service — and at the price asked. Sincerely yours, H.M. Baggarly, "The Country Editor" — Tulia Herald, Tulia, Texas.

The American Gas Association predicts the nation will run out of its supply of natural gas in 30 years unless the price is raised to permit new exploration for resources. Nevertheless, James Nathan Miller, in a recent article in a national periodical, contends there is enough evidence to the contrary to warrant a stringent and thorough-going examination of the facts before Congress acts on the issue.

The Federal Power Commission has to accept the AGA's estimates, Miller contends, because it hasn't the equipment with which to make its own measurements and because the major gas companies will not release their own data to the regulatory agency. A congressional subcommittee, headed by Rep. John Moss of California, is studying the whole problem.

On South Africa: "So far, the white minority governments in Rhodesia and South Africa have been able to rely on Black policemen and Black soldiers to help maintain their rule. Some day, maybe soon, Black soldiers and Black police officers may turn against their government employers and side with their brothers . . . On that day, the present Rhodesian government will fall by violence. And Kissinger's nightmare of Communist penetration into Rhodesia and South Africa may come true." (Tom Wood in The Black Dispatch.)

Edward and Lillian Struggs are retired educators of Lubbock, "Prof" as he is affectionately known by hundreds of former students and faculty members as well as friends of Lubbock's Dunbar High School, which he headed for more than a quarter of a century, with his wife-Lillian-right by his side, were honored recently. The occassion: 50 years of marital bliss.

Several hundred former faculty associates, school administrators, students, churchmen, and just "friends" gathered in the beautiful Mae Simmons Park Auditorium on Dec. 26, to pay homage and tribute to a couple of people who "really deserved being honored" for sticking it out together for half a century. They came from over the nation and when we inquired of "Prof" as to the thing he looks forward to now, he amusingly replied "Our 75th Anniversary." What hope! What Faith! Isn't that what life is all about anyway? We shared the 25 (silver) and now the 50th (gold). How time flies!

Until later, be a good neighbor. They come in all colors.

It's great, say distaff middies

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Some upperclassmen don't like the idea of women at the U.S. Naval Academy, "but they don't show it," midshipman Susan Stapler said.

Her fellow student during the first year women have been admitted to the academy, Stefanie Goebel, said the reaction of male students is "mixed" and there is some resentment.

"I guess they thought it (the academy) was the last bastion of male supremacy," Miss Goebel said.

As "plebes" during their first year they are allowed to have only professional relationships with upperclassmen, so there is no real problem in dealing with the resentment, Miss Stapler said.

"I think it will get better," she said.

Miss Goebel said the female students "are much more closely scritinized" than the male students. "Our rooms are usually inspected more often," she said. But she believes the extra scrutiny is to be expected this first year.

Miss Stapler, however, said she does not think women are more closely scrutinized. "In a way it's harder because it's the first year," she said but, except for a few necessary adjustments in physical requirements, treatment usually is equal.

The 71 female students are scattered throughout the companies that serve as the organizational units at the academy. The two Midlanders are in different companies. Each shares a room with two other female students.

They both play on the girls basketball team which competes with area college teams. They both also played on the girls volleyball team in the fall. That team won the state championship in Maryland, Miss Goebel said.

Miss Stapler particularly likes the athletic program and, looking back on the demanding physical activities the plebes participated in last summer, it seems easier than academic year" she said.

Miss Stapler said there frequently is just not enough time to study. The students took 20 academic hours the first semester and will take 18 the second semester. Large chunks of the daily schedule also go to basketball practice and company formations.

"It seems like you get caught up in one subject and you fall behind in another," she said.

Miss Stapler said she finds what the midshipmen call "bull" courses, such as history, most difficult. Miss Goebel said the professional courses, such as naval science and naval engineering give her the most trouble.

What do the young women miss most about life in Midland? "Everything," Miss Stapler said. She particularly misses "the atmosphere of being at home" but also misses such things as civilian clothes.

Miss Goebel said she misses her family most but she also misses the personal freedom. "It takes a lot of getting used to the restrictions that are placed on you," she said.

Most of the more bothersome restrictions, such as not being able to ride in a car or date, will be removed next year. Some, including having to jog instead of walk down the halls and being able to listen to the radio or to records only on weekends, may be removed before this year is over, Miss Stapler said.

She said she wishes the female midshipmen were not quite so much a subject of discussion. While they are on campus at Annapolis, interviews are arranged by the academy public affairs office. Miss Stapler said the writer who interviewed her for a Japanese magazine article asked the same kinds of questions American journalists do.

Her advice to students considering the academy: "Seriously look at all aspects of it. Find out everything." She said many of the plebes did not understand what was involved in being a midshipman.

Both of the Midlanders said they plan to stick it out, however. Miss Stapler would like to major in some kind of engineering. Miss Goebel is considering international security affairs.

Miss Goebel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Goebel and Miss Stapler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stapler.

Pickets quit at Superbowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two unions on strike at the Louisiana Superdome removed their picket lines Saturday, hours before the start of the Sugar Bowl football game.

"We removed our pickets because we do not wish to embarrass the city, the Sugar Bowl or the general public," said Clarence Crayton, a top official of the Service Employes International Union (SEIU), Local 275.

Executors well paid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For serving as executors of the estate of J. Paul Getty, his sons, Gordon Peter Getty and Jean Ronald Getty, have each received payments of nearly a million dollars.

And that's only about half of their exector commission totals.

Getty, who died June 6 at the age of 83, left an estate whose estimated inventory is $720 million, according to legal documents.

Based on that inventory, the commissions for executors is estimated at about $7.1 million in all.

Superior Court Judge Neal Lake has ordered the first payments — $960,000 apiece — to the two sons, and a payment of about .1 million to a third executor, Title Insurance and Trust Co.

It is expected to be years before the Getty will clears probate.

Revelry unchecked in Miami

MIAMI (AP) — New Year's Eve merriment went off as planned despite a hotel employes strike at eight major Miami and Miami Beach hotels.

The strike entered its second week with no settlement in sight.

Striking maids, food servers, laundry workers, bellhops and bartenders picketed the Dupont Plaza and Four Ambassadors in Miami, the Doral Country Club northwest of the city and the Doral Beach, Deauville, Eden Roc, Carillon and Shelborne on Miami Beach.

Herbert "Pinky" Schiffman, president of the striking group, defended the walkout, the first in 20 years by Local 355 of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employes Union.

Tourists and local customers enjoyed New Year's revelry with the help of nonunion workers and union musicians and entertainers who crossed picket lines.

"I'd Like to Get a Job, But I Just Can't Afford It"

Sounds unbelievable, doesn't it? But it's true. People who could be doing honest, productive work are instead collecting unemployment compensation and welfare benefits. They do this not because they are naturally lazy or indolent, but because government has made not working more rewarding than working.

We know it may sound old-fashioned, but we don't think people should be paid for doing nothing. And we think a society which encourages idleness, sloth and indifference is headed for trouble. That is what has happened in Great Britain. Unfortunately, the same thing seems to be happening here.

Officially, there are about 7½ million unemployed. But consider these facts:

•Of the 7½ million unemployment, almost half were neither laid off nor fired. Many actually chose to be unemployed. Futhermore, Labor Department statistics suggest that as many as one out of five people collecting unemployment compensation choose to remain on unemployment rather than go back to work.

•One reason they choose unemployment is because they make more money. Harvard Professor Martin Feldstein has demonstrated that some families can increase their take-home income by quitting their jobs and collecting tax-free unemployment benefits. In addition, unemployment benefits are often supplemented by welfare payments and food stamps.

•Unemployment benefits have become so attractive, reports Fortune magazine, that some senior labor union members are now bargaining for the right to be laid off first!

As these facts show, unemployment today is not the same as it was 40 years ago. During the Great Depression long lines of people waited for a handout or for a chance to apply for a job—any job. That kind of unemployment is almost non-existent today.

All Pay and No Work

Today long lines of people form with another purpose-to pick up an unemployment check. Meanwhile, jobs-important jobs-remain unfilled. In fact, statistics suggest that there may actually be a job available for every unemployed person in America. Thanks, however, to our unemployment compensation system, chances are the twain shall never meet.

Present unemployment laws only require a person to take a job "comparable" to the one he left. In practice this means that workers remain idle rather than shifting to a job where their skills are needed. This is the worst of both worlds—workers do not get jobs and employers do not get the workers they need. The result is that all society suffers.

Society suffers too from the direct costs of paying people to do nothing. Last year more than $18 billion was spent on unemployment compensation. In addition to that amount, countless millions more were spent on welfare payments, food stamps, and other benefits to unemployed persons. This is money which must come from Americans who work hard, 40 hours a week, 50 weeks a year.

In addition, there is the cost—both financial and moral—of fraud. As with most programs, fraud in unemployment compnesation is rampant. The state of New York has mailed more than 20,000 unemployment checks to Southern Florida and other vacation spots in a single week. As if to prove that the spirit of enterprise is not dead, one man even set up a company to qualify himself for unemployment benefits. He would pay just enough into the system in order to meet minimum requirments, "fire" himself, and than collect unemployment for the maximum amount of time. The examples are legion. Hardworking, honest citizens are losing as much as $6 billion a year to the cheaters. And the society we all live in is becoming corrupt and apathetic.

What Can Be Done

The cure is simple. Government-both state and federal-must stop allowing people to make a racket out of the unemployment compensation system. It must reduce the amount of time any person can spend unemployed. It must refuse to pay unemployment benefits to able people while decent jobs remain unfilled. It must crack down on fraud and abuse.

These are simple measures. And they are measures which could easily be undertaken.

Already the first step has been taken. By publishing this message, the National Taxpayers Union is beginning to direct the nation's attention to the problem. When enough citizens become alarmed and demand reforms, the politicians will act. That is the way our political system works.

What You Can Do

As we see it, you have three choices.

1) You can quit your job and get in line to collect unemployment checks. (But sooner or later you'd lose out anyway, when the country goes broke trying to pay for it.)

2) You can do nothing and watch our society deteriorate as more and more people take advantage of the unemployment compensation racket.

3) Or, you can speak up.

If you want to help return our unemployment system to what it was intended to be—a buffer for honest people, temporarily out of work—now is the time to say so!

It will only cost you 13. The price of a stamp. By Filling out the coupon at the bottom of this ad, or by sending a letter of your own directly to your representative in Congress or your state capital, you'll be adding your name to the list of those opposing the something-for-nothing attitude fostered by our unemployment compensation system. Either way it's well worth 13 cents to let your opinion be known.

Once you've voiced your opposition to the unemployment racket, get your friends to do the same. The politicians in Washington are slow to learn. With them, it's volume that counts. Each name is a possible vote. The more names, the more votes. Make yours count.

How Can We Affort To Run This Ad

We can't. It's so expensive that we took a risk in running it. But we thought the issue was important enough to warrant sticking our necks out. And we thought given the importance of the issue, that you'd be willing to help.

We hope you'll send a membership contribution along with the coupon so that we can place more adds like this in the papers. The more people we get to oppose fiscal irresponsibility, the greater the chance of stopping it. Your membership will help us get more people involved.

It only costs $15 to become a member of the National Taxpayers Union. We'd like to have you with us.

Oil boom puts people of Qatar in euphoric state

The Los Angeles Times

DOHA, Qatar — The American ambassador here lives next door to a camel market, but he doesn't complain. In this desert boomtown one lives pretty much where one can find a place.

And no one complains about rents, which are high and still rising. A three-bedroom villa brings 18,000 rials ($4,600) a month, and people pay willingly, happy to have a roof over their heads.

The reason for all this is oil. Qatar (pronounced like the ailment catarrh) is situated atop a hugh pool of oil and earns $2 billion a year on exports of about 500,000 barrels a day. That works out to about $10,000 a year per person.

Understandably, the government has trouble spending so much money. The 1975 budget amounted to less than one-fourth of the oil income. American, European and Japanese businessmen would like to help solve the problem, and they keep Doha's two luxury hotels filled year-round.

Before the current ruler, Sheik Khalifa, ousted his son-in-law Ahmed in a family coup in 1972, the oil income was split four ways. One part went to the ruler, a second to the government, a third for investment abroad and the fourth to keep the rest of the ruling Thani family in Rolls Royces.

Sheik Khalifa is said to have ended this practice and it is difficult to get a clear reading on where the money goes now.

Some of it ends up in the pockets of the ordinary Qatari people, perhaps 60,000 strong and one-third of the total population. There is one indication of how they spend it; the automobile advertising signs on Doha's broad, well laid-out streets are not for Chevrolets but for Maseratis and Ferraris.

The Arabs once called Qatar "the land Allah forgot." It is a 100-mile-long sand spit, a geographical thumb sticking up due north into the Persian Gulf from the Arabian peninsula. It is about the size of Connecticut.

In the past it was largely uninhabited, except for a few fishing and pearling villages and an occasional tribe of bedouins wandering in from Saudi Arabia.

Its future appeared to be doomed by its lack of water. Even the name Qatar apparently comes from an Arabic word for a drop of water, and its absence made the area one of the world's most forbidding places.

The climate ranges from intolerably hot in summer to pleasantly hot in December.

"People know about the Arabian nights, but nobody ever talks about the Arabian days," a Western resident said.

The Thani family has ruled Qatar after a fashion since the 18th century, with the usual ups and downs and family intrigues endemic to this part of the world. The Ottoman Turks exercised a loose form of sovereignty until early in this century when the British replaced them, only to leave when Britain gave up all responsibility in the gulf in 1971.

But then came the oil boom.

Since then, Qatar generally has happily accepted a junior role to Saudi Arabia, its increasingly powerful big brother next door. It is now showing some signs of independence, and the two states have much in common beyond oil.

The Thani family originally came from the Jabrin oasis in what is now Saudi Arabia. Both states practice Wahhabism,

Tower engineering change

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans, outnumbered on Capitol Hill and facing an incoming Democratic President, are preparing for legislative battles with the Carter administration by changing the staff and the mission of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

If the committee turns into the forge of ideas and policy alternatives envisioned by Chairman John Tower (R-Tex.), who is making the changes, the Republicans will be able to field a much tougher force against President Carter and Senate Democrats. At the same time Tower will gain a higher profile in the GOP leadership.

Convinced that the committee staff has failed to generate the policy initiatives and thrust needed by the minority, Tower has told intimates that the staff needs "new blood." "I want to get top-notch professionals to produce policy papers," he said recently.

His first step has been to hire Max Friedersdorf, President Ford's congressional lobbying chief, to replace Edward (Ned) Beach as staff director.

In the past, Tower said, Senate Republicans tended to take their policy leads from the Republican White House. But with a Democratic President coming in, "Now we have to take our own initiatives .... The staff will develop ideas. Sometimes, perhaps, in support of the President, more usually in opposition," he said.

Outside the Senate, few have heard of the policy committee. But it has a $422,800 annual budget from the Senate, 16 employes, and offices in the Russell building. Five of the staff are paid in the $37,500 to $39,000 range. The staff's function has been research, vote analyses, and summaries of legislation for the use of GOP senators.

The incoming staff director, Friedersdorf, 47, was a midwest newspaperman for 10 years before going to work for Rep. Richard L. Roudebush (R-Ind.) for another 10 years starting in 1961. Then he moved to the antipoverty program as its lobbyist on Capitol Hill under the Republican administration in 1971 and finally to the White House lobbying staff, which he headed for the past two years.

Beach, 58, is a graduate of the Naval Academy and a former career officer. He joined the policy committee staff as director in 1969. Beach, a historian and author of several books, including "Run Silent, Run Deep," is eligible for a pension. He said he intends to keep on writing.

The fact that he was bumped to make way for Friedersdorf isn't going to hurt him, but the other 15 members of the staff are in danger of losing their jobs.

"I've given Max pretty broad leeway" in hiring and firing, Tower said recently. "But nobody's being purged, and you can't go on the assumption that everybody is going." He conceded, however, that many of the present employes may be dropped.

What will happen, both Tower and Friedersdorf said, is that current staffers who want to stay will be interviewed and considered for retention if it appears they fit into the new scheme.

One high-paid employe, Bill Hatch, had decided to retire on a disability pension, but that decision was apparently made before the reorganization.

So far it appears that only one high-paid employe, Joan B. Baldwin, definitely will be retained, according to Senate GOP sources. "Her performance has been very, very good," one Republican said.

Friedersdorf has already interviewed all the other employes, including two of the highest paid.

Midland's No. 1 need

As Midland moves into 1977, it's time all citizens focus on the community's number one need — the expansion of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Trustees and governors of Midland Memorial Foundation, after extensive studies by a long-range planning committee of leading citizens and physicians, have determined that a $10 million building program is mandatory to put the hospital in top condition.

Trustees now are determining how to finance the needed program and are enlisting the counsel of some 400 Midlanders before making a decision. Citizens will be asked to attend small meetings, hear the needs for the improvements and express their views about the proper financing route.

Possible financing options include a $10 million capital fund drive, asking voters to form a hospital taxing district, or seeking more Midland County appropriations for indigent care. The latter proposal would allow Midland Memorial to raise a portion of the capital funds privately, then borrow the balance based on future appropriations from Midland County.

In the past, Midland Memorial has raised the bulk of its capital funds through private subscription, the small remainder coming from federal grants through the Hill-Burton program. However, the Hill-Burton program no longer exists so financing from federal or state sources is not available.

Thus, Midland is faced with expanding its hospital on its own.

The planned improvement program is essential. It provides for new intensive care and coronary care units, additional surgical suites, an expanded nursery, remodeling and enlarging of the old rooms in the original hospital building and modernized equipment for all departments. The plan takes care of the basic needs for a progressive hospital in a growing city.

Without the expansion program, Midland will not keep pace with other communities. The ability to attract more needed doctors to serve a city growing each year will be next to impossible if these basic needs are not met now.

Midland citizens only recently have shown their willingness to improve their airport, revitalize their downtown, air condition their schools, build their new college and improve their streets. Without question, the number one need now is the expansion of their hospital.

The Reporter-Telegram urges you to put Midland Memorial Hospital on the top of your priority list for 1977 — and back the hospital's trustees in their quest for the needed financing, whether it be private, public or both.

It is our hospital and our challenge.

Salute to Mashburn

James Mashburn concluded his 11-year career as Midland County's district attorney Friday as the year 1976 withdrew from the scene.

Fortunately for Midland, however, Mashburn, who did not seek re-election to the office last year, will not depart the Midland scene, but will continue his residence in the Tall City, engaging in the private practice of law.

Mashburn, one of Texas' best-known and most popular district attorneys, has performed his duties here in a most efficient manner, serving the public fairly, squarely and to the very best of his ability.

He has been active in all phases of youth welfare and is a recognized leader in the fight against drug abuse in West Texas. He has been active in bar associations and is widely known for his leadership role in penal code revision. He also is active in civic, cultural and church affairs.

Midland Jaycees, in January 1972, honored Mashburn by recognizing him as Midland's Outstanding Young Man of 1971. He received the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award at that time.

Jim Mashburn now merits a snappy salute from all Midlanders for a job well and nobly done as Midland's district attorney during the last decade.

INSIDE REPORT:

Warsaw pact's growth causes fear in NATO

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Sudden European worry about the Warsaw Pact's phenomenal growth in conventional military power has given Jimmy Carter more leverage to strengthen NATO than any President since John F. Kennedy.

Western Europe's mood of concern bordering on outright fear over growing Soviet superiority in central Europe is shown in NATO's about-face on a proposed multi-billion-dollar airborne radar warning system. Pentagon officials now believe that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) will approve the system early in 1977. The major reason for the shift: fear of surprise attack.

Even more significant than NATO's changing its mind on the sophisticated warning system, European political leaders are going public to express alarm over gaping holes in NATO's defense.

The most pointed questions about NATO's vulnerability are being raised by Henri Simonet, a brilliant politician in Belgium's Socialist party (scarcely a hotbed of cold warriors). Simonet, outgoing vice-president of the European Community Commission and former economics minister of Belgium, is pointing up some of the thorniest defense problems ever mentioned by any European socialist, as follows:

Communist military improvements in central Europe are developing a massive offensive force; the strategic concept on which NATO was founded has become obsolete because the Soviet Union has reached at least nuclear parity with the West; demands by Democratic Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Republican Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma for fundamental changes in NATO strategy is "only a beginning" of a new American design for NATO which Europe must be prepared to support.

Simonet's questioning of NATO today will appear as a lengthy preface to a meticulously researched, deeply critical book by Belgian Brig. Gen. Robert Close, former director of studies at the NATO defense college in Rome.

A short version of Gen. Close's still unpublished book appeared earlier this year as a memoir with a grim warning. He suggested the ripening possibility of a Soviet surprise attack against NATO sweeping across the northern plains of Germany to the Rhine in a matter of hours.

That possibility is publicly discounted by Gen. Alexander Haig, NATO supreme commander. But it is gaining affirmation among many students of Soviet military potential, some of whom claim that Haig himself privately agrees but is unwilling to say so publicly.

Close's book, updating and fleshing out his earlier memoir, will portray a darkly pessimistic future for the West unless European members of NATO cease what he calls "the demobilization of the minds." By that he means Western Europe's refusal to face the facts of growing Soviet superiority.

That superiority is spelled out by Close in frightening detail. He estimates a Warsaw Pact grand total of 62 satellite divisions and 160 Soviet divisions and claims each Soviet division is either mechanized or airborne. Although Pentagon aides told us the general slightly exaggerated his estimate of Warsaw Pact strength, there is no doubt about the relative weaknesses of NATO forces.

He reveals the Warsaw Pact could put 39 divisions into the front line "in a first offensive wave" within 48 hours; a second wave of 60 Soviet divisions augmented by major Czech forces could be in action within six days. NATO's defensive force, concludes Gen. Close, would be 22 divisions, relying on principal reinforcements from British and U.S. manpower pools far from the scene of action.

This comports with findings by Sens. Nunn and Bartlett after personal inspection. They concluded it would take far longer than six days — perhaps even two to three weeks — to put the full British complement of 139,000 troops at the Rhine and to airlift U.S. reinforcements across the Atlantic.

If the Pentagon is correct in believing that NATO will approve the extraordinarily costly new airborne warning system, precious time will be added to the West's safety margin. But that will not happen for several years.

Henri Simonet and Gen. Close want something more. In the first draft of his preface to Gen. Close's book, Simonet says, "One must, as a first requisite, convince public opinion" of the desperate need to modernize and reinforce NATO's conventional power. Convincing public opinion is one of the hardest tasks in a democracy, but President-elect Carter — if he really cares — may find the case has been half made for him by the worried Europeans.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

It's time for 'a look ahead'

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The English sage G.K. Chesterton once observed, with his customary perversity, that the most important event in English history was something that didn't happen — a violent political revolution like the French upheaval of 1789.

The restrained preparations for the new Carter administration, and the relative calm that has marked the brief Ford era, are hopeful reminders of a crucial event of our time that didn't happen.

Two presidents predicated much of their Vietnam War policies on the fear that if we suffered a humiliating defeat, it would be followed by a descent into national demoralization, a plague of divisiveness, a revival of McCarthyism that would rend society.

After all, something of the sort had happened following the victories in World Wars I and II when the peace went sour, and at the end of the Korean War when we settled for a tie. So there was reason to believe the turmoil that would follow an out-and-out defeat could be calamitous.

Well, we were defeated in Vietnam, but the orgy of recrimination didn't occur. Perhaps the internal tumult that this misadventure caused exhausted the national emotions, explaining the calm. But I am impressed by the contrast between the reserve, low-key mood today and the tumultuous one that was boiling up in the aftermath of World War II when I first joined this column under Drew Pearson.

Sometimes, the view ahead becomes clearer if we pause a moment to look back on the course we have covered. Drew Pearson, who like the rest of us, was not infallible, was often a true prophet of the times. He had supported the war against Hitlerism; still, he anticipated the post-World War II binge of Americanism and dollar imperialism.

It was his view of history, reinforced by the World War I cycle that instructed his formative years, that war and its aftermath infected a democracy with totalitarian viruses and a corrupted ethos. A prolonged national war footing, he believed, fostered a mentality intolerent of dissent and of individual rights.

It exalted secrecy while making openness suspect. Its glorification of battlefield brutality fevered the robed and unrobed vigilantes. Its dislocations opened voids that invited the repressive demagogues. Its grab-bag of arms contracts and economic controls was bound to stimulate a plague of fixers and wirepullers.

It raised to power those whom Drew held as least fit to govern a democracy — authoritarians developed by the hierarchies of arms, acquisitiveness and efficiency; namely, the generals, the Wall Street financiers, the production czars.

Wherever a self-proclaimed patriot raised his voice, Drew half expected to find not just an imposter but a crook. Wherever imperial pomp surfaced or government secrets were guarded with obsessive zeal, he devined that another travesty of the democratic process was afoot. And whenever generals took up the portfolios of diplomats or ex-financiers gathered to assist in rebuilding some unfortunate country, Drew sniffed about for a mouse.

He was thus directed by a philosophy which led him into occasional error but which, on the whole, positioned him aptly for the events of the coming era. In expose journalism, receptivity is the key. It was to Drew believable, even likely, that those who had become fat on the war-bloated economy were scoundrels.

He pursued them with the zest and exhiliration of an irrepressible idealist.

But the most noxious virus, poisoning the body politic, was the notion that the United States should initiate a preventive war, preferably nuclear, that would cripple world communism before it overtook us.

For adherents more sensitive to public relations or less willing to face up to the gore, the preventive war panacea took the form of a diplomacy of ultimatum and showdown, of confrontation and provocation, from which Joseph Stalin and Mao Tse-tung were supposed to back down.

In domestic affairs, the same adherents called for what amounted to a patriotic orthodoxy suitable for the rigors of world struggle, to be achieved by unmasking supposedly widespread treason, making lists of the disloyal and lukewarm, censoring unhelpful news, fumigating libraries, classrooms and pulpits, broadening the cloak-and-dagger functions of the FBI and the CIA, and reinterpreting away whatever constitutional prohibition might interfere.

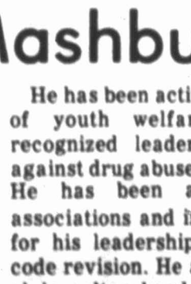
Gone from the air we breath are the grandiose notions of world mission, the chimera of unlimited U.S. resources, the grand agenda for domestic transformation. Gone, or at least subdued, are the advocates of Armageddon. Gone, too, is the excitement, the dynamism, the sense of vaulting purpose and great deeds ahead.

Is it because we have grown more mature, less tempestuous or because we have grown soft? Is it because we have gained something or lost something? Both, probably. The absence of hysteria, jingoism and messianic visions is a gain, but the apathy and resignation of the day may be the reverse side.

The trouble with history, by definition, is that it doesn't give any answers in advance. We will have to find out at our own hazard.

NICK THIMMESCH

The United Arab Emirates — A real Cinderella story



Nick Thimmesch

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — Not long ago the United Arab Emirates pulled back its veil, peered intently, and asked, "Mirror, mirror on the OPEC wall, who is the richest oil state of them all?"

The mirror's emphatic reply caused a blush to cross the U.A.E.'s face, because on a per-capita basis ($16,000 per year), this is the world's richest oil nation, if not the richest land on the globe as well.

Now is a particularly euphoric time for the 700,000 souls who inhabit the seven emirates on the Persian-Arabian Gulf which federated five years ago. To begin with, it's a modest wonder that this federation survived, but now with the oil boom, people here are exuberant and a bit stupefied with the turn of events. The main streets and roads are festive with colored lights, giving the place a Christmas-tree look to celebrate its sixth birthday.

A few years ago, the name of the capital city, Abu Dhabi, made most people think of Africa or India. Even then, a quick geography lesson that the United Arab Emirates were bordered by the Gulf, Saudi Arabia, Oman and Qatar (whoever heard of them either?) would leave only a fleeting impression.

And only a dozen years before the British relinquished control of this area, the 250,000 people who lived in the coastal state were pretty much occupied with fishing, pearl diving and primitive farming.

In 1952, there wasn't a single public school in this area, there were few paved roads and poverty and illiteracy were the rule. The ruling sheiks quarreled and were disciplined and maneuvered by the British who were quite ready to give it all up as a bad show. The British would never have imagined that seven sheiks could ever get along well enough to hold it all together one day.

But under the leadership of U.A.E. President Sheik Zayed, who also rules Abu Dhabi, the richest emirate, and with the luck of the oil bonanza, it has happened. The federation is hardly the strength of the Gulf, but it works reasonably well. Sheik Zayed, a self-educated Bedouin from the oasis village of Al-Ain, has endured the bickering and clamoring of the other emirates. He has established a system of ministries, a common currency, a superme court (based on Islamic law), and unified the armed forces of the emirates.

To keep the smaller and poorer emirates viable (they don't all have oil), he has centralized the government and finance system so that it can dispense money and services to the lesser emirates. Sheik Zayed is elected by the Council of Rulers (the other six sheiks), which in turn consults with an assembly of 40 men representing various constituencies in the U.A.E. The federation has a constitution, still in the formation process, and even has an association of women considered progressive in an Islamic state.

The U.A.E. is far different from its big neighbor to the West, Saudi Arabia. Islamic practice in the U.A.E. is far less severe. There is considerable toleration of non-Islamic religion, and a much freer atmosphere. Sheik Zayed himself has welcomed the arrival of Roman Catholic and Anglican clergymen, and assisted them in obtaining land for their churches.

There is no harsh punishment, no hand-cutting or beheading. Women are allowed to drive cars and increasingly participate in public life. Hotels and restaurants sell alcoholic beverages. Newspapers criticize the government, though sparingly. Tourists are welcome, there are nightclubs, and even one strip-tease establishment.

The U.A.E. shares the Saudis' boom atmosphere, however. Hiltons and Sheratons spring from the desert. Fifty banks prosper. Camels and ancient rowboats provide both a romantic touch and transportation, but the U.A.E. also has four international airports and two more are planned. A $300 million dry dock, three times the size of the Empire State Building, is being constructed at Dubai. Dubai will also have a huge trade and exhibition hall, a 33-story building, and already brags about its brand-new traffic tunnel which makes you think you are in New York City.

With oil revenues estimated at a whopping $7 billion in 1976, th U.A.E. expects a trade surplus of $4 billion. One-fourth of its budget goes to foreign aid — probably a world record. A welfare system which pales Sweden's provides schoolchildren with pocket money, families with subsidized food, divorced wives with allowances, everybody free education at all levels (including overseas universities), full health care and, if one knows how to work the bureaucracy, a free plot of land and easy loan to build a house.

Though the U.A.E. isn't as exacting as the Saudis about development plans, refineries, liquid natural gas plants, fertilizer, aluminum, steel and petrochemical plants — costing $5.2 billion — are planned. The British and Japanese have been the leaders in getting contracts, but U.S. firms are coming on fast. Item: Bechtel has a joint $600 million liquid natural gas plant construction job.

Mark Russell says

This new cabinet is our fault. Carter heard all those hillbilly jokes and said, "I'll show 'em — Hello, IBM? Send me a Cabinet."

•

So now we have it: Just down-home folks sittin' 'round the ole cracker barrel on Park Avenue.

•

We expected simple country folk and wind up with directors of IBM, Chase Manhattan and Gulf. I can't wait to see Jimmy in a vest.

•

Ted Sorensen has already formed a plan to retake Saigon with the Georgia militia.

ART BUCHWALD

Bite your tongue, 1976

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As with every year people said a lot of things in 1976 that they're sorry for. Here are possibly a few of them.

Aren't you glad you're not the person who said to Ronald Reagan, "If you want to win the Republican nomination you have to take Pennsylvania, and the only person who can do that for you is Sen. Richard Schweiker."

Or the advisor who said to President Gerald Ford, "They're all good men, but the only way to beat Jimmy Carter is to take Robert Dole as your running mate. You're a nice guy and you need a hatchet man."

Or the fellow who said to Sen. John Tunney, "You're not going to believe this, but guess who the Republicans are going to run against you — a 70-year-old English professor of Japanese ancestry named Hayakawa. Ha, ha, ha!"

And lest we forget the friend of Congressman Wayne Hayes who said, "Wayne, I'd like you to meet Elizabeth Ray — Elizabeth, I'd like you to meet Congressman Wayne Hayes."

Or the chap who said to Prince Bernhard, "Your Highness, I want to introduce you to a friend of mine from Lockheed Aircraft. He only wants a few minutes of your time."

Or the agriculture official who said to Secretary Earl Butz on an airplane, "Mr. Secretary, did you ever tell John Dean why the blacks don't vote Republican?"

And how about the public relations man attached to the Joint Chiefs of Staff who said to Gen. George Brown, "There's a newspaperman outside who wants to interview you about Israel. I think it would be good for your image."

Not to mention the campaign aide who said to Jimmy Carter, "When Playboy talks to you, be sure and tell them what's in your heart."

Or the man who said to Prime Minister Tanaka, "Mr. Prime Minister, I want to introduce you to a friend of mine from Lockheed Aircraft. He only wants a few minutes of yor time."

And while we're at it let's not forget the three comrades of Madame Mao Tse-tung, who told her, "Once the old man croaks, we'll take over the country. Ha, ha, ha."

Or the military advisor to Gen. Idi Amin who told him, "The Israelis would never dare challenge the invincible armed military might of Uganda."

Or the assistant to Vice President Rockefeller who said, "There are some student hecklers outside. Why don't you show them with your finger what you think of them."

Or the diplomat who said to the French and British backers of the Concorde, "You just get the plane built and I'll take care of getting permission for it to land or take off."

Or the person who said to Italian Premier Rumor, "I want to introduce you to a friend of mine from Lockheed Aircraft. He only wants a few minutes of your time."

And, of course, the man (or was it a woman) who said, "Mr. Congressman, this is Tongsun Park. He'd like to help finance your election campaign."

As well as the producer who said to Harry Reasoner at ABC-TV, "Three guesses whom you're going to share the news with?"

Or the aide who told President Ford, "In the debates with Carter, don't forget to mention the Polish people."

And the ABC soundman who told his superiors during the first presidential debate, "We're all set to go."

And finally to end out the year, the sailor who said to the captain of the tanker "Argo Merchant" off Nantucket, "Aye aye, sir, we're right on course!"

Where Bell plays unimportant

By WILLIAM RASPBERRY
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — I'm trying to pull together a column on the membership of Attorney General-designate Griffin Bell in two exclusive Atlanta clubs. But I'm having a little trouble assuming the proper attitudes.

I know, for instance, that I am supposed to be deeply offended that this man, nominated for the top law-enforcement office in the land, is a member of the Piedmont Driving Club and the Capital City Club, neither of which has a single black member and both of which may be equally devoid of Jews.

This is a serious matter, I am well aware. But instead of outrage I find myself reflecting with some amusement over the notion of Jimmy Carter, whose church was segregated by official vote of its members, demanding that Bell resign his membership in clubs that apparently are segregated not by official vote but by "gentlemen's" agreements.

The President-elect is aware that, had not Clennon King embarrassed him a couple of days before the election by declaring his intention to desegregate the Carter congregation, Plains Baptist Church would still be as segregated today as it was two months ago.

That is not to say that Carter wanted it that way; the evidence is to tee contrary, the Carter family having voted — and worked — against the segregationist decision. But it was political pressure, not the dictates of Christian brotherhood, that brought about the change in the congregation's polic, and gave its most famous member a graceful exit.

The point, though, is that Carter is not in the strongest position to do more than suggest that his chosen Attorney General give up or suspend his fancy memberships.

As a matter of fact, Bell has indicated that he does intend to get out, though whether permanently or only temporarily, he isn't quite sure yet. After all, he said the other day, he wasn't sure he wanted to forfeit "those initiation fees — upwards of $10,000" — particularly since he "won't be in Washington forever."

In that regard, Bell appears to be acting on the theory that membership in racially exclusive private clubs is not inherently obnoxious, insulting or immoral but merely a conflict of interest. He is quoted by the New York Times as hoping for arrangement whereby he could "resign temporarily or become inactive" — rather like a nominee putting his stocks and securities in blind trusts.

That's an interesting way of looking at it — and some of his critics seem to share it. Parren J. Mitchell, chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, has called Bell's memberships "totally offensive" and promised an all-out fight against the nominee's confirmation. But he indicated that he might reconsider that opposition of Bell would "repudiate" his membership and his earlier support for G. Harrold Carswell, Nixon's rejected Supreme Court nominee.

That is, Mitchell might relent if Bell will divest himself of his interest conflict. (He didn't say anything about opening up the Black Caucus to white people.)

But is race the only important attribute worthy of notice in America? Does the fact that Bell's clubs admit women only as guests make him unfit for high government office? And what of the fact that his clubs, even if they were blind to color and oblivious to sex, would still exclude the overwhelming majority of Americans because of "those initiation fees — upwards of $10,000"? How does it sit for the nation's top law officer, the head of a department called "Justice," to hold membership in organizations that, in quite calculated ways, discriminate against all except rich Americans? Isn't that a conflict of interest, too?

Bell told The Times that, 20 years ago, when he took out his memberships in Piedmont and Capital City, "everything was segregated in those days." What he means is that, back then, he was simply doing what a decent, successful Atlanta white man might be expected to do. These clubs, after all, were not night-riding groups, not KKK chapters whose principal passion was doing black folk in.

If you buy the implication that his memberships would not have been an indication of personal bigotry when he took them out, then it's fair to wonder at what subsequent time he should have resigned in protest.

There are two other raps on Bell. One is his support of Carswell, which he tried to disavow the other day. He told the press conference announcing his own nomination that he hadn't really "endorsed" Carswell back in 1970 — when Nixon put forward that outlandish choice for the Supreme Court.

I don't know what constitutes an endorsement in Bell's mind, but he did write a letter to "recommend" Carswell "without any hesitation or reservation whatever." It's reminiscent of Carter's flip-flop on the fitness of Lester Maddox.

The other, in my view, more serious rap is Bell's mixed record as a federal appellate judge, particularly in cases involving civil rights issues. People competent to decipher these things are currently reviewing Bell's record. So far, they apparently have not turned up anything truly heinous or notably brilliant, although Carter called him a "superlative choice."

If a review of the record exposes Bell as pretty much a run-of-the-mill (though obviously well-connected) lawyer, and a judge of no particular distinction, then that's reason enough why he shouldn't be attorney general.

If the misgivings on these scores prove unfounded — if Bell turns out to have been an outstanding lawyer and a competent, fair-minded jurist, then let him be confirmed. I won't lose much sleep over where he plays his golf.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

Tower's possible foes lining up

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — John Tower's divorce became final last week, providing the occasion for increased speculation on what — or who — the future holds for the top Republican office-holder from Texas.

In fact, a few random shots have already come Tower's way, and the new year likely will see the number of shots and shooters increase.

Tower's political trousers were ripped in Kansas City because of his support (perhaps viewed as greater than it really was) for Gerald Ford.

That distressed Ronald Reagan's supporters in the Texas delegation — and the memory of an elephant, whether Indian, African or Republican, is proverbial.

But Tower's difficulties aren't likely to come from his own party, which is more concerned with regrouping and infusing new life into its rather tattered structure than in punishing its few incumbents for past sins against would-have-been incumbents.

Already, several Democrats are beginning to push forward (in speculation, anyway) as challengers to Tower.

Board of Insurance Chairman Joe Christie, former state senator from El Paso, has confessed that the race has some charm as far as he is concerned.

While Christie has been talked about for awhile as a possible opponent for Tower, some observers feel he would have considerable trouble raising funds necessary to have a chance at defeating the senior senator from Texas.

After Christie, another former senator is mentioned frequently: U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan.

Jordan has great charisma — but observers question whether she could succeed in a statewide race against Tower — or whether she could even gain the Democratic nomination.

Jordan's office has indicated Jordan is thinking about the possibility.

Then there's another colleague of Jordan, who also served with her and Christie on the east side of the Capitol Rotunda: U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Diboll.

Wilson isn't a statewide name — and he, like Christie, would be expected to encounter problems financing his campaign.

Another congressman, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels, has been actively maneuvering in the early going — taking a few shots across the bow from veteran skirmisher Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Krueger's not a statewide name either — and he's a newcomer in the political area.

But he has received a surprising amount of support for a possible race from politicoes in his area — and Krueger admits the thought has been going through his mind.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong has been mentioned, also — when he wasn't being mentioned as a possible appointee for the Department of the Interior secretaryship.

Now that Jimmy Carter has filled that post, speculation has gone back to Armstrong as a senatorial possibility.

Also mentioned as a potential candidate is Houston Mayor Fred Hofheinz.

Hofheinz has the advantage of considerable built-in name recognition and financing capability — and his administration in Houston reportedly has been fairly popular.

But Hofheinz has indicated he's thinking about running for another term as mayor, and observers of Houston politics feel he's a longshot.

Of course, it's always possible Tower might be eliminated by one of his own kind — state GOP Chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas has been mentioned for that attempt.

One thing is certain — as the year goes on, so will the speculation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why vandalism?

To The Editor:

An open letter to teen-agers on Christmas holidays.

Why? Why do the utterly senseless acts of vandalism happen in these warm, wonderful times of the year?

Only you who were involved really know, especially the driver and occupants of a red pickup truck who on the night of Dec. 21 between the hours of 8 and 9 p.m. destroyed Santa Claus and the reindeer decoration on the lawn.

My grandchildren and I spent a happy three hours putting up lights and the decorations on the lawn. It took 30 seconds to completely destroy them by the occupants of the red truck.

So instead of a happy Ho, Ho, Ho, all the grandchildren heard was the roar of a mufflerless car and the gleeful laughter (howls of the predator) of the destroyers.

There were those who would have destroyed the manger and its occupants also — are you one of those?

Return requested

To The Editor:

Last evening (Dec. 29) about 8:30, my wife happened to look out on our front yard and saw two small boys attempting to take the top off our electric yard light. She panicked and rapped on the window, at which the two small boys hooked up to the foot wagon and took off. She did observe that the light in the lower panel (showing 2518) was not lighted.

She came in where I was and told me of it. I immediately grabbed the tool we hunt varmints with and went out into the street. I saw nothing but believe I was seen because of a car stopping on our corner for a few minutes following my return to the house.

The light is short one 15 watt bulb and a glass panel on which is 2518. If the two small boys will return the panel, I will appreciate it very much. In fact, I will give each of them a dollar if they will face me and return the panel. No attempt will be made to punish them nor will I lay a hand on them.

You had guts enough to attempt to rob me. Now, how much guts do you two small boys really have? How smart are you? I am generally asleep from 10 to 12:30 at night and suggest that you do not come during this 2½ hour period. Any other time is acceptable.

The post-election Defense budget

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — President Ford reportedly will request $123.6 billion for the Pentagon in the next federal budget. That would be $12 billion over the present figure.

The armed services had hoped for a budget of about $130 billion.

President-elect Jimmy Carter had promised that he would cut the defense budget by $5 billion to $7 billion.

But it would be extremely difficult to cut that much from the $123.6 billion figure.

Insiders are saying that Mr. Carter's advisers are urging their man to take credit for persuading the Ford administration through campaign speeches to cut the original military request by nearly $7 billion.

•

The Fleet Reserve Association, whose 130,000 members made the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard their careers, has firmly but politely declined President-elect Carter's invitation to serve on the veteran's committee for the inaugural. FRA has participated in the past, helping to arrange for Medal of Honor winners and their wives to attend the inaugural ceremonies here. But not this time, national president Thomas A. Heaney of Middletown, R.I., wrote in response to Mr. Carter's invitation.

Speaking for the sea servicemen, Heaney told Mr. Carter: "We find your invitation to be a paradox, considering your announced plans to pardon draft evaders who refused to serve this nation during the Vietnam War."

•

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., is making progress recuperating from his double arm-breaking a few weeks ago when he fell off a ladder.

Both casts are off now and Mo claims the only thing he can't do is button his collar.

The former pro basketball player (the only one on Capitol Hill) spends a few hours a day in therapy sessions.

•

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., offered to help outgoing President Ford get the post of president of the University of South Carolina.

But Mr. Ford, who has several offers for university administrative and teaching positions, turned it down.

Federal agencies brace for freeze on hiring

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Federal agencies are bracing for a possible short-term hiring freeze that could come shortly after President-elect Jimmy Carter takes office.

Carter Administration planners are intrigued by the idea of a freeze which, on paper at least, could eliminate up to 80,000 people from the federal payroll in 30 days without a single person being fired or furloughed.

The president-elect has talked about a freeze with advisers. Last week he told Time magazine correspondents it is one of the options he is seriously considering as part of his plan to streamline and reduce — or at least hold the line — on federal employment.

Normally the federal government hires about 600,000 people a year and an almost equal (but slightly smaller in recent years) number either quit, retire or die.

Typically in a 30-day period in January or February about 40,000 new people come into the government and another 40,000 leave it. Idea behind a freeze would be to quickly eliminate up to 80,000 persons without any individual getting hurt.

The problem with freezes, of course, is that they never work the way agencies or presidents plan and they rarely last long.

Normally when agencies freeze hiring this starts a chain reaction of panic in government causing many employes who had planned to retire or leave for private industry to stay where they are.

POSITIVE THINKING

New Year's resolution: practice the art of forgetting

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Late on the last afternoon of the old year, one of our country's most successful bankers sat restlessly at his desk. His secretary and other employes had been sent home early so that they might prepare for the New Year's Eve celebration. He himself should have left his office much sooner so that he could dress to attend a dinner party to which he had been invited.

Yet, somehow, he could not leave. He had a sense of things left undone, a vague stirring of unrealized fears. He had always been plagued by an insecure feeling about decisions made. He was continually apprehensive that perhaps these decisions would not turn out right. So, on this particular evening, he found himself beginning to go over each of his business actions of the day and beginning to be afraid that he had made many mistakes, not only during that day, but throughout the year that was just coming to an end.

Being a methodical person, he reached for a pad and a pencil. He filled the first page with a list of the decisions in which he might have been mistaken during that day. It was a long list. On the next page following, he wrote out a still smaller list covering the day before that. When he came to the fourth day previous, he could remember only one decision that troubled him. Further back, he could recall no decisions that had turned out too badly. The sum total of things was in his favor.

Disgusted with himself for these fruitless concerns, he wadded the papers into a ball and threw them at the wall opposite him. The papers bounced off the wall and fell into a nearby wastebasket. And, as the banker watched those papers drop into the basket, he felt a sense of relief, as though a weight had been lifted from his shoulders.

"You know," he said, as he told me this story, "I felt like a new man. And I've felt better ever since. I realized that there was nothing I could do about my past mistakes and that there just wasn't any point in being afraid of them. I couldn't even remember most of them after a few days. The thing I had to do was to look forward into the future."

This man had learned a basic truth. That truth is that it is unhealthy to carry into today and preserve for tomorrow the mistakes and failures of yesterday. Today is designed to carry its own burdens and no more. The Scriptures say that sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, or the responsibility therefor.

Sir William Osler, a great physician, once lectured in 1906 at Yale University. What he said on that occasion is as wise and fresh as when first uttered. He told the assembled students that before they learned anything else, they ought to learn this: Live one day at a time.

He had just made an ocean voyage and he described in his speech how a great ocean liner is so built that its captain, by merely pressing a button, can bring down great iron doors to shut off one bulkhead from another. This safety device often can keep a ship afloat in an emergency. Osler reminded his audience that, in the voyage of life, you must discover how to press a button and make the great bulkheads of your mind come down.

Learn to shut out yesterdays and all their failures, mistakes and unhappiness. Learn, too, how to shut out the unborn tomorrows, so that you are always concentrating your powers on making the best of the day at hand.

Osler said you can learn to live so that when you move into the next bulkhead, the iron door will lift and fall again to shut out both the future and the past. His wisdom was a profound insight into human nature.

As we begin the new year, there is one resolution I can heartily recommend. That is to practice the art of forgetting. Forget those things that are behind, get them off your mind. If you have sinned or made mistakes, get forgiven and learn from your errors. No matter what you have done, forgive yourself as God forgives you, then forget it.

The Bible tells us, "Forgetting those things that are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark." That is the only way to start this new year.

Midland masonic leader named to Grand Lodge of Texas office

Sam E. Hilburn, a longtime masonic leader, was elected Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Texas at its annual meeting recently in Waco.

By the usual annual progression in the Grand Lodge offices, Mr. Hilburn will become Grand Master of nearly a quarter million master masons in Texas in December 1979.

In addition to serving as chief officer in all the Midland Masonic bodies, Hilburn was Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Texas for the 1975-1976 Templar year and as such headed the largest unit of Knights Templar in the world.

Wilburn has also been active through the years in civic and church work while engaged with Demolay and Rainbow Youth organizations, order of the Eastern Star, the Shrine, and for his labors in the Scottish Rite has been coroneted Inspector General Honorary of the Thirty-Third Degree by the El Paso Consistory.

Hilburn and his wife Millie live at 2603 Bedford St. and have reared three children since coming to Midland in 1946.

Two other Midland men who will be serving the Grand Lodge this year as appointive officers are Jack Locke of 1413 Mogford St. as Grand Senior Steward and Frank E. Sauze of 1110 Ainslee St. as Grand Junior Steward.

Coast Guard shells sink bow of shattered tanker

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — The bow of the shattered oil tanker Argo Merchant was no longer a navigational hazard today after the Coast Guard fired 12 cannon rounds at it, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The shots were fired at the bow Friday to release air trapped inside that was keeping it afloat. After it was hit, the bow went down and is now resting on the sandy bottom of the shoals off Nantucket Island.

Although 10 feet of the bow still protruded above water Saturday, the wreckage was not obstructing any shipping lanes, spokesman Bill Van Valkenburg said. He added, "We expect the bow to settle even more and finally disappear beneath the water."

The rest of the tanker went down soon after it split apart several days ago.

The Liberian-registered tanker piled onto the shoals Dec. 15 and broke up in heavy seas, spilling its cargo of 7.6 million gallons of heavy No. 6 industrial oil into the North Atlantic.

The nation's largest oil spill, now 150 miles long and 60 miles wide, continues to float eastward.

Houston cashes in on first bale of cotton

DALLAS (AP) — Sixth-ranked Houston stunned Maryland with three first period touchdowns on the blazing runs of Dyral Thomas and Alois Blackwell and then outlasted a courageous Terrapin rally to whip the previously unbeaten fourthranked Easterners 30-21 in the 41st annual Cotton Bowl.

The Cougars, co-champions of the Southwest Conference, thoroughly dominated Maryland and build up a 27-7 halftime lead before Terp quarterback Mark Manges set fire to his listless in the numbing 29-degree cold.

HOUSTON, MAKING its first appearance in the Cotton Bowl, controlled Maryland with incredible ease in a less than six minute span of the first period as the Atlantic Coast Conference champions' 15 consecutive game winning streak came tumbling down.

With the smallest Cotton Bowl crowd in 30 years huddling in amazement, Thomas bolted 11 yards for a touchdown and Blackwell romped 33 yards for a second scored and barged one yard for a third score.

Manges dashed six yards for a second period touchdown but Cougar quaterback Danny Davis answered with a 33-yard scoring pass to Don Bass.

Maryland, which finished 11- 1, cashed two Houston fumbles into touchdowns in the second half.

MANGES FLIPPED an 11-yard scoring pass to freshman tight end Eric Sievers and Tim Wilson plunged a yard with 8:46 left to put the Terps within winning range.

However, Davis completed a crucial third-down pass and Lennard Coplin kicked a 28- yard field goal with 18 seconds left to ice the Terps.

The key play in Houston's final scoring drive that set up Coplin's field goal originated from the Houston 12-yard line on third and six. Davis faded back to pass, dodged a horde of Terp tacklers, and winged a 13- yard completion to Robert Lavergne to keep the vital drive alive.

BLACKWELL CARVED our a 149 yards in 22 rushes against the Terp defense, which was ranked sixth nationally against the rush. Thomas romped for 104 yard in 14 carries as Houston piled 320 yards overland.

Maryland, which was the second-ranked total defensive team in the country, had not allowed a touchdown on the ground in 22 quarters until Houston's first period blitz.

An estimated crowd of 58,500 watched and a Cotton Bowl official said it was the lowest attendance for a Cotton Bowl game since 1946.

MANGES COMPLETED 17 of 32 passes for 179 yards as the Terps continuously drove up and down the field. Twice Maryland missed chip shot field goals and once drove 86 yards to the Houston one-yard line where the Terps had to surrender the ball on downs.

Maryland was seeking to post the school's unbeaten season.

Two big defensive plays by Houston defensive back Mark Mohr put the Cougars in position for two of their lightning first-period scores. Mohr blocked Mike Sochko's punt and recovered a fumble by Manges on his two big plays that earned him the most valuable defensive player of the game award.

Blackwell, the 5-11, 186- pounder from Cureo, Tex., was named the most valuable offensive player.

Davis' third down toss spells doom for Terps

By TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

DALLAS-As Houston's Cougars came up the long ramp at the south end of the big bowl, their victory trot was punctuated now and then by a raised fist and a boastful and proud "that's Southwest Conference football."

At the top of the ramp, quarterback Mark Manges, who had guided Maryland's fourth-ranked Terps to 11 straight victories, congratulated a Cougar here and there.

Finally, the two players he had been waiting for reached the top of the ramp and Manges offered his congratulations to quarterback Danny Davis and all-american tackle Wilson Whitley as they chatted briefly before Manges joined his silent teammates in the losers lockerroom.

IT STARTED out as one of the worst Cotton Bowl games ever, and had the weather to go with it, thirty degrees and falling and windy and bleak. Maryland hadn't been to a major bowl in two decades and the way the Terps started out, it looked like it might be another twenty years before they received another invitation.

Down 21-0 after a period, and heading into the final half behind 27-7, the Terps showed they weren't all myth by rallying to close to 27-21, scenting a short distance to victory.

Davis, appropriately enough, took it out of reach, with a desparation pass in the fading moments to pull the 10-2 Cougars out of a hole and put them on their way to the field goal that iced it away, 30-21, with 18 seconds remaining on the clock.

Davis was in the process of being thrown for a big loss on his two-yard line when he found wide receiver Robert Lavergne with a sideline pass for a 13 yard gain and a first down.

"It was a regular out-pattern and I go 15 to 18 yards deep," Lavergne said later. "I was the primary receiver all the way. I was suprised when Danny threw the ball to me because I didn't think he'd get it away. And I was suprised I was in-bounds when I caught it. It was third and seven and a big play."

COACH BILL Yeoman disclosed that it was Lavergne who called the play. "Robert wanted to work an individual cut on the defensive man and thought it would go."

Someone asked Yeoman if the play, which saw Davis throw while in the clutches of four tacklers, was designed that way. "No, we are supposed to block those linemen before they get to Danny."

Asked about Houston's 21 first period points against a team that had allowed only 22 first period points all year, Yeoman commented, "I think they were over-anxious and ran themselves out of the play several times. But they settled down. They are a big, strong and aggressive team and I would have been happy to win by one."

When it was suggested that Houston could have thrown effectively in the second period, one of the interviewers chimed in, "weren't you trying to hold the point spread to 21?"

"Yes," Yeoman answered straight-faced and then hastily explained," that's my son, and I've got to put up with that sort of thing when he's around."

MARK MOHR, a senior cornerback from Arlington played a major role in helping Houston jump off to a fast start. His blocked punt set up the second TD from 38 yards out, and moments later, he recovered a fumble to set in motion a 26 yard drive that made it 21-0.

"They rushed their special unit into the game on punting situations. They didn't have a huddle, and tried to catch the defense off-balance," Mohr said of the blocked punt.

"I think someone missed count on blocking assignments, because I ran right between the end and tackle and the punter's personal protector was standing too close to the kicker and I got it. On the fumble in the next series, Whitley stripped the ball loose, and I was just there to recover it."

Mohr played for former Midland High coach John Reddell at Arlington, and commented he's a great coach and person.

With eighteen seconds to go, Houston faced fourth and goal from the twelve, but Yeoman said last week's blocked field goal by the Vikings that was turned into a touchdown against the Rams, didn't make him think twice about the decision.

"The field goal wasn't a big decision. We thought about a possible block, but we also knew it was a chance to win the game on the spot."

HE ADDED Houston could get no rhythm in the second half, "It was three downs and punt. When you keep the ball for six downs you can establish a rhythm, find out who is tired and who is hurting and get something going."

Maryland coach Jerry Clairborne said, "I thought that defensively we turned the ball over too many times. We tensed up and forgot our assignments. We were really fighting for our lives.

"That great drive that Houston made just before the half was the killer," he said referring to a 98-yard march that paid off when Davis passed 33 yards to end Don Bass to make it 27-7 with less than a minute in the half.

Majors' Pitt swan song is bitter tune for 'Dogs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Johnny Majors' swan song as Pitt's football coach ended Saturday after a four-year renaissance with a 27-3 Sugar Bowl rout of fifth-ranked Georgia.

Majors, going back to the University of Tennessee, his alma mater, faced the team he is leaving and did two things for which they had waited all season.

He raised his index finger to signify Pitt is No. 1, and he pinned a "Pitt No. 1" button to his shirt.

"All year long I haven't waved my finger in the air and I haven't worn a No. 1 button," he said. "But after the game I told the team it was No. 1 and they all agree that we are."

ALL WEEK, Majors also had told anyone willing to listen that even with the sensational running of Tony Dorsett, topranked Pitt was more than a one-man team.

The Panthers went out and proved it convincingly as Dorsett overcame a slow start—65 yards in the first half—and went on to set a Sugar Bowl record of 202 yards on 32 carries. While Georgia was keying on Dorsett to no avail, Matt Cavanaugh picked apart the heralded "Junkyard Dogs" defense, completing 10 of 18 passes for 192 yards.

Cavanaugh scored the first touchdown on a six-yard keeper and then hooked up with swift Gordon Jones on a 59-yard strike as Pitt, a sorry 1-10 before Majors, Dorsett & Co. arrived in 1973, virtually locked up its first national championship in 39 years.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS will announce the national champion on Tuesday in its final poll.

Pitt wrapped up a 12-0 campaign in shockingly easy fashion. The combination of Dorsett's running, Cavanaugh's passing and an overlooked, underrated defense that intercepted four passes and recovered two Georgia fumbles was just too much.

"I take my hat off to Pitt," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, whose team finished 10-2 with a Southeastern Conference title as consolation. "Without doubt they proved themselves the best team in the nation. Cavanaugh is a great quarterback, a great leader. They have fine receivers. And what can you say about Dorsett?"

FOR A TIME, it appeared the Junkyard Dogs might have the answer. They kept college foptball's all-time rushing king under wraps in the first half, although he did turn the corner for an 11-yard touchdown two minutes before halftime.

That made it an embarrassing 21-0 and the Panthers' defense, led by linebackers Arnie Weatherington and Jim Cramer, All-American nose guard Al Romano and tackle Randy Holloway, came down hard every time Georgia threatened to get something going.

The Bulldogs were among the top rushing and scoring clubs in the nation, averaging 279.5 yards and 29.5 points a game. But they were choked off with just 135 yards on the ground and 46 through the air on three completions in 22 attempts.

Even that was a slight improvement over Georgia's total of 66 yards in the first half, including just one completion in 13 passes.

INTERCEPTIONS BY Weatherington and Cramer ignited touchdown drives of 74 and 67 yards in the second period and LeRoy Felder and Bob Jury also came through with interceptions before the half as the Panthers saddled Georgia without a touchdown for the first time in 52 games.

"This is what we've worked for for four years," said Majors, who leaves Pitt with a 33-13-1 log. "This team never backed away from anybody."

Surprise thorn pricks Michigan

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A senior quarterback playing the best game of his career and a freshman halfback taking over for an injured All-American combined with a stout defense New Year's Day to give the Southern California Trojans an upset 14-6 victory over Michigan in the 63rd Rose Bowl football game.

"I think that (quarterback) Vince Evans played his best ball game ever," said John Robinson, Southern Cal's coach. "Overall, we wore them down. We ran right at them."

Halfback Charles White contributed the majority of the rushing after replacing Ricky Bell, the team's star who was knocked out in the first quarter.

Both Evans and White scored touchdowns—the senior on a one-yard run in the second quarter and the 18-year-old freshman on a seven-yard burst in the fourth.

Asked if the team was depressed after Bell was hurt, Robinson answered, "We were never down. I don't believe in turning points. We just go out and play 60 minutes of football."

The 41-year-old Robinson took over as head coach of the Trojans this season, succeeding John McKay, who had been at the helm 16 years before going to the National Football League's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

White, who attended the same high school in nearby San Fernando as did former Southern Cal star Anthony Davis, admitted, "There sure was pressure" on taking over from Bell. Then he added, "I was confident I could get the job done. The blocking was just great. Our line just caved the side of their line in on the touchdown run."

Evans explained the passing attack strategy when he said, "They're coached not to get beat deep, and we were able to take advantage of that, slipping a man in front of them and hitting him with short passes."

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said, "I've seen quick teams and strong teams, but I've never seen a team as strong and quick as USC. As far as I'm concerned, they're the No. 1 team in the nation"

With the Big Ten co-champions leading 6-0, Southern California mounted its first touchdown drive in the second quarter. White carried 35 yards in eight runs in an 80-yard drive, capped by a one-yard run by senior quarterback Vince Evans.

In the fourth quarter, White ran seven yards for a touchdown, capping a 58-yard march.

Playing before a crowd of 106,182 and a national television audience, the Wolverines scored first on a 50-yard

Ohio State peels Buffs in Orange affair, 27-10

MIAMI (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Rod Gerald ignited a stirring Ohio State attack late in the first quarter Saturday night and led the 11th-ranked Buckeyes to a 27-10 Orange Bowl football victory over No. 12 Colorado.

Ohio State, the Big Ten cochampion, had minus-20 yards in offense when the 173-pound Gerald took over with his team trailing 10-0.

Gerald raced 17 yards on his first play and then sent tailback Jeff Logan 36 yards through the middle for a touchdown that started the Buckeyes' comeback and snapped their two-game losing streak in bowl competition.

Gerald closed the Buckeye scoring in the final minute with a four-yard run.

Kicking specialist Tom Skladany booted field goals of 28 and 20 yards and Pete Johnson scored his 58th career touchdown on a three-yard run to account for the remainder of Ohio State's scoring.

The Buckeyes, 9-2-1, surged into the lead on a 99-yard drive shortly before halftime and dominated play from the second quarter on with a ball-control attack.

Colorado, which jumped to a quick 10-0 lead on Mark Zetterberg's 26-yard field goal and Emery Moorehead's 11-yard scoring catch from Jeff Knapple, got good field position only once in the second half when it recovered a fumble at the Buckeye 26.

That was erased two plays later when Tom Cousineau intercepted a pass with 11 minutes left in the third quarter and the Buffaloes, 8-4, never threatened again.

The victory snapped a fourgame losing streak in bowls for Big Ten teams, and the defeat for Big Eight tri-champion Colorado was the first in four bowls for the Big Eight Conference.

Gerald finished with 81 yards in 14 carries.

The Buckeyes probably could have turned the game into more of a rout but missed on several scoring opportunities in the second half, taking over five times from near midfield or closer and producing only 10 points.

Senior quarterback Jim Pacenta had trouble getting the Buckeyes untracked despite two long kickoff returns in the opening minutes of the game, 39 yards by Matt Jackson and 49 yards by Logan.

It was a fumble by Pacenta that set up Colorado's first score, the 26-yard field goal by Zetterberg. With Pacenta attempting to pass, Mark Haynes knocked the ball from his hands and Randy Westendorf recovered on the Ohio State 43.

advance in 12 running plays with All-American Rob Lytle scoring from the one. Southern California's Walt Underwood blocked Bob Wood's conversion attempt.

Jerry Zuver, who usually holds for the placements, had been injured during the scoreless first quarter. Curt Stephenson came in as the alternate holder, but it appeared that it was Stephenson's supreme lunging effort that made the play—not an breakdown on the part of the holder.

Bell, runner-up in the Heisman Trophy balloting, was knocked out in first quarter and doctors advised against using him the rest of the game. White, who had taken over for one game when Bell was hurt in the regular season, gained 114 yards in 32 carries.

Michigan, which led the nation in scoring during the regular season with 38.7 points per game, proved unable to mount a passing attack. Meanwhile, Evans hit 14 of 20 for Southern Cal totalling 181 yards.

Shelton Diggs, who caught the winning conversion in the Rose Bowl two years ago when the Trojans edged Ohio State 18-17, caught eight of the throws for 98 yards.

No. 2 Michigan entered the game favored by a touchdown over the No. 3 ranked Trojans, but Pittsburgh's 27-3 triumph over Georgia virtually eliminated the Rose Bowl as a decider of the national championship.

Evans, a senior from Greensboro, N.C., won honors as player of the game. Plaudits also went to the stout Southern Cal defense, where junior linebacker Clay Matthews called the signals that held down the option offense of the visiting midwesterns and provided the Pacific-8 conference with a victory for the seventh time in the last eight Rose Bowl games.

Michigan, co-champions of the Big Ten, absorbed its third loss in as many tries under Coach Bo Schembechler.

Although rain fell late in the week, New Year's Day dawned with sunshine, and the natural grass field was dry for the bowl battle.

Michigan's only other loss this year was to Purdue on natural turf, and the Wolverines' 10 victories all came on artificial surfaces.

Southern California, operating for the first year under Coach John Robinson, lost its opener to Missouri and then won 10 straight, capturing the Pac-8 title before the Rose Bowl made it 11 victories in a row.

The Trojans gained 200 yards on the ground in 55 attempts and added 181 through the air, all on Evans' passes.

The Wolverines gained 155 yards in 45 attempts on the ground and only 76 through the air, with sophomore quarterback Rick Leach completing four of 12 passes.

Evans realizes top goal

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Vince Evans sat smiling amid the joyful bedlam of the Southern California dressing room Saturday and said softly: "My ultimate goal since 1967 was to come to this school and win the Rose Bowl. I'm going out a winner."

The Trojans' senior quarterback not only went out a winner, he wrapped up his college career with his finest game in third-ranked Southern California's 14-6 victory over No. 2 Michigan.

The 6-foot-2, 204-pounder from Greensboro, N.C. completed 14 of 20 passes for 181 yards. He also ran for the Trojans' initial touchdown and directed the offense with poise and authority.

"I fell in love with USC when I was a kid back in North Carolina," Evans said. "I watched O.J. (Simpson) and the Trojans play in the Rose Bowl on television and I said, 'Hey, that's for me.'"

Evans wrote to Southern California, saying he was interested in attending the school and it turned out that the Trojans were interested in him, too.

Evans said the Trojans took advantage of a trait of the Michigan secondary to get receivers open.

"Their secondary has been coached not to get beat deep," Evans explained. "So that enabled us to slip a man in front of them and hit him with short passes."

Shelton Diggs, who caught the last-minute two-point conversion pass that gave Southern Cal an 18-17 Rose Bowl victory over Ohio State in 1975, again had an outstanding New Year's Day.

The senior flanker grabbed eight of Evans' throws for 98 yards.

"Vince was putting the ball right on the money," said Diggs. "He even threw me a couple I should have caught and didn't."

The Trojans' first-year coach, John Robinson, always has been an Evans booster, although the quarterback had drawn a great deal of criticism in the past for his inconsistent passing.

Saturday, Robinson could crow a little.

"Let's hear it for good ol' Vince Evans," the Southern Cal Coach said after the Trojan quarterback was named player of the game. "He was super. There's nothing more pleasing to me than to say that."

Although Pittsburgh virtually clinched the national championship with its easy victory over Georgia earlier Saturday, Robinson and his players still claimed they were No. 1.

"One poll has already voted us No. 1," Robinson said, "and that was in our locker room."

Diggs said he believed that Southern California was No. 1, but reflected sadly on what might have been.

"I just wish we hadn't lost that first game," Diggs said of the Trojans' only loss, a 56-25 setback to Missouri. "I wish we could play that one again."

Bullets riddle Rockets

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Elvin Hayes scored 11 of his game-high 32 points in the fourth quarter Saturday night to spark the Washington Bullets to a 104-89 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets.

The Bullets broke open a close game in the final period, scoring 10 consecutive points to build an 80-75 lead into a comfortable advantage with 7:54 left to play.

Mitch Kupchak, the Bullets' first-round draft choice from North Carolina, came off the bench to score 14 points in the second quarter and finish with 21.

By outrebounding the Rockets 17-4 in the second quarter, the Bullets increased a 27-25 edge to 56-43 at halftime.

Wolverines face test

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The top-ranked Michigan Wolverines, who suffered their first loss of the basketball season last week to Providence, return to action today against the South Carolina Gamecocks.

South Carolina, which has a 4-5 record this season, will employ the zone defense in an effort to stop Michigan, a team which relies more on speed than on size.

Michigan's biggest player is 6-foot-7 Phil Hubbard, who leads the team with 21.6 points and 14 rebounds per game.

South Carolina is led by freshman Jim Graziano, a 6-foot-9 center who is scoring 13 points per game.

Michigan's loss was an 82-81 defeat by Providence. South Carolina's five losses include defeats by Cincinnati, Kentucky and Alabama on two occasions.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr says things won't change because of his team's loss to providence. "The pressure of other teams trying to knock us off won't change one bit because we have lost," he says. "Providence zoned us all the way. We had four chances to win the game, but we missed all of our opportunities."

Midland produces banner sports year in 1976

Midland's Judy Rankin, the Robert E. Lee Rebel football team and the Midland High cross-country track team stole the headlines during 1976.

Mrs. Rankin was the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour with winnings of more than $150,000 while the Rebel football team won the District 5-4A championship, whipped Euless Trinity in bi-district before bowing to Arlington Sam Houston in the regional round of the Class AAAA schoolboy football playoffs.

Coach Edwin Nixon's Bulldog cross-country outfit won district and regional along with five other meets before winding up in the state meet in Austin, bowing to two El Paso teams — Austin and Burges.

Robert E. Lee's basketball team also tied Abilene for the District 5-4A crown, but lost in overtime to the Eagles in the playoff tilt to see who would represent the league against Wichita Falls in bi-district. It was a big disappointment, losing to Abilene after Paul Stueckler's Rebs pounded the Warbirds by some 30 points in the second half of the torrid 5-4A race.

John Reddell, highly-succesful Midland High football coach, resigned his post to take the Euless Trinity job and it was his Trojans that lost to Robert E. Lee's Rebels, 17-0, in the bi-district game in Abilene after posting a 10-0 record.

Reddell compiled a 25-11-4 record in the four years as the Bulldog coach and beat everybody in tough 5-4A in that period of time. His biggest victory came in 1973 when his Purple Pack ended a 20-game winning streak by Odessa Permian, 21-8.

Midland High's James Zachery, a 210-pound senior, was named to the first team Class AAAA all-state football team after a great 1975 season for the Bulldogs. He later received a football scholarship to Texas A&M University.

Junior Miller, Lee's 6-6 all-state cager and Midland High's Craig Dunn, a 6-3 junior, were named to the District 5-4A team following great seasons in the Tall City.

Miller led Lee to a final 21-11 record as the Rebels lost to Abilene, 50-46, in overtime in the 5-4A title game on the Angelo State University campus in San Angelo.

The Midland High School Booster Club met new head football coach Jerry Hopkins in a special get together at the Midland Youth Center. Hopkins came to the Tall City from Seguin where he won three district titles in five years.

Midland High's girls and the Robert E. Lee boys splashed their way to Class AAAA regional swim titles in the Odessa Permian Pool.

The Midland Cubs opened their fifth year in the Tall City with spring training drills at Scottsdale, Ariz. under new field manager Denny Sommers along with General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr.

Mary Dowdle and James Zachery were named the top female and male athletes at the annual Spring Sports Banquet held in the MHS Cafeteria.

Midland College won the national junior college tennis championship, edging past Odessa College, 23-20. Mary Sawyer and Carol Draper led the way for the powerful Chaparrals.

Rusty Laughlin, hard-hitting second baseman for Coach Ernie Johnson's Lee Rebels, was chosen to play in the North-South All-Star Baseball Game in the Houston Astrodome. Laughlin hit .478 in district play and an even .400 on the season for the Rebs.

Thurman L. (Tugboat) Jones announced his retirement as Athletic Director for the Midland Independent Public Schools System and was honored along with his wife, Ruth, at Ranchland Hill Country Club after 10 years of service in which both athletic programs at Lee and Midland took giant strides towards the winning side of the ledger.

James Cagle resigned as head basketball coach at Midland High School, taking a similar post at Duncanville High. Cagle had a record of 175-85 while winning three consecutive District 5-4A titles and went to the state semifinals one year and the finals the next.

Larry Peel was named head baseball coach at Midland High, taking over the post vacated by Arlen Dickson. Peel came to the Tall City from Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio, Antonio. He also was an assistant coach at the University of Texas at El Paso.

The powerful Cincinnati Marlins won the giant West Texas Swimming Meet for the third straight year as the Ohio entry showed plenty of depth in racking up 917 ½ points to runnerup Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. which had 471 poins points.

Midland High made another coaching change, naming Don Humphrey to replaced James Cagle as nead basketball coach. Humphrey was junior varsity and sophomore coach for three years under Cagle at MHS.

Robert E. Lee basketball coach Paul Stueckler was named the North Squad's mentor, losing to the powerful South, 95-90, in Holfeinz Pavalion on the University of Houston campus at the Coaches' All-Star Game.

Steve Whiteside won The Reporter-Telegram's City Golf championship, edging out Steve Cromwell by one stroke 205-206 at Hogan Park.

The Midland Majors and Midlnd Midland Seniors Miss Softball America teams won state championship championships at Midland's Lancaster Park gain spots in the National Miss Softball America Tournaments in Abilene, Tex.

Midland's Majors had to beat Snyder twice by scores of 10-9 and 12-11 to win the state crown while the Seniors won 7-6 in eight innings and 14-12 in the s deciding game over Odessa.

Coach Larry Burgin's Midland Bulldogs knocked off defending Class AAAA state champion Abilene Cooper in the State Team Tennis Tournament in the Tall City. Leading the way were Vicki Vasicek, Cary Garton, Dinah Boyd, Amy Tompson, Sue Ann Clark and Liz Ruwwe. Billy Hickey, Kevin Hopson and Tim Baird also stood out for the Purple Pack.

Lee's Rebels defeated cross-town rival Midland High, 15-6, in seven inches of snow on a cold, wet Friday night and then waited to see the outcome of the Odessa-Odessa Permian game. Mojo came through with a 14-6 victory before more than 19,000 fans in Odessa's W.T. Barrett Stadium to hand the Rebels the 5-4A grid crown and a date with Euless Trinity in the state football playoffs.

Midland High's girls lost 15-7 and 15-5 to Arlington High in the finals of the Class AAAA regional volleyball playoffs at McMurry College in Abilene, ending the season with a 24-5 record.

And lasty lastly, Jim Hall's racing team with Jim Redman at the wheel, won the Formula 5,000 racing title in 1976.

Ken Stabler looks forward to contest

OAKLAND (AP) — This is a week Ken Stabler intends to enjoy, even if there are some annoyances along the way as the Super Bowl XI hoopla intensifies.

"I'm looking forward to the game, but I think it's possible to enjoy everything connected with the Super Bowl. The atmosphere should be exciting," the Oakland Raiders quarterback said as the team prepared to break camp for next Sunday's clash with the Minnesota Vikings.

"This is the first time in the Super Bowl for most of us. I know that, according to the guys who've been there before, some of it's not much fun," he added.

"There will be thousands of press people around. I'm sure we're going to have to put up with a lot of dumb questions. But I'm just going to grin and bear it. It's only one week."

And, as Stabler, the leading passer in the National Football League this season, pointed out, it was a miserable week the past three years.

"I was home crying in my beer at this time, replaying games we'd lost a hundred times in my mind. I watched about half of last year's Super Bowl on television, and I didn't watch at all the two years before that because I was so depressed," he said.

The 31-year-old Stabler became Oakland's starting quarterback in 1973, bumping Daryle Lamonica. He has led the Raiders into the American Conference championship game four straight seasons, but they lost to the Miami Dolphins in 1973 and to the Pittsburgh Steelers twice before dethroning them last Sunday.

Guadalupe rides win

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Pa. (AP) — Quality Hill Stable's Go Go Roger charged down the middle of the track and scored a three-quarter length victory Saturday in the eighth running of the $34,150 Germantown Handicap at Keystone Race Track.

Go Go Roger, carrying 116 pounds including Jesus Guadalupe, covered the 11-16th miles over a fast track in 1421-5.

Rebs draw 5-4A basketball nod

ABILENE — The District 5-4A basketball title will come back to Midland after a year's absence if the sports writers and coaches know what they are talking about.

The eight coaches and five scribes pick the Robert E. Lee Rebels to wear the crown this year. In fact, they are a big favorite to do so.

Last year, Lee and Abilene tied for the 5-4A cage championship and the Eagles won a 50-46 contest in overtime to knock a Tall City team out of the league crown for the first time in seven years.

Midland High won it three straight years and Lee had a three-year string going until losing to Abilene in the playoff battle in San Angelo.

Coach Paul Stuecker's Rebels own a 17-4 mark going into loop play Tuesday when they entertain the Odessa High Bronchos.

Abilene Cooper and Odessa Permian are picked behind Lee. The Rebels got 10 first place votes and 88 points to Cooper's three first place ballots and 74 points. Permian received 70 points and no first place ballots.

Abilene is picked for fourth place finish followed by Big Spring, San Angelo Central, Midland and OHS.

Cooper has a 14-5 season record while Permian stands 12-5 and Abilene is 11-8 on the year.

Midland plays Permian in Odessa while in other 5-4A openers Tueaday, Big Spring is at Abilene and Cooper at San Angelo.

Midland defeats Rebels

Midland High polished off Robert E. Lee, 38-34, Thursday night in a girls basketball game at the MHS Gym.

Beth Thomason was high scorer for MHS wih with 21 points followed by Karen Cook with 16.

Patty Adams and Sandra Poole led Lee's attack with nine points each.

In the B-team game, Lee won, 36-19 with Lisa Bowden ripping the cords for 21 points.

Netters grab wins

DALLAS — Vicki Vasicek of Midland, won the championship in the Cotton Bowl Tennis Tournament Saturday, defeating League City's Tracie Bluemtritt, 6-4, 5-7, 6-1, in the girls 18 finals.

Miss Vasicek teamed up with Carol Kunkel of Fort Worth to win the girls 18 doubles title too. They polished off Kathleen Mallory and Mary Funderberg, 6-0, 6-3.

Tim Baird of Midland won the boys 18 singles championship, beating Jerry Sharp of Dallas, 7-6, 3-6, 6-2.

Midland's Jeff Bramlett lost in the boys 16 finals, losing to Greg Kardon of Dallas, 6-1, 6-4.

Cary Garton of Midland upset the No. 1 seed entry 7-5, 6-2, but then lost to Cindy Hill of Dallas, 6-3, 6-1.

Top cagers will meet today in college game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two of the nation's top college basketball players, UCLA's Marques Johnson and Houston's Otis Birdsong, will be showcased today in the nationally televised match between the Bruins and the Cougars.

Eighth-ranked UCLA brings a 9-1 record into the afternoon game at Pauley Pavilion, while Houston is 9-2.

Johnson, coming back from a knee injury, scored 31 points in the Bruins' latest victory, an 88-68 romp over Utah State.

That outing was the best of the season for the senior forward, as he shot well from outside and inside.

Birdsong ranks among the nation's leading college scorers, and has hit more than 60 per cent of his floor shots this season. The All-American averaged more 25 points per game last season.

He comes off a 35-point performance in the championship game of the Rainbow Tournament in Honolulu, and was named the tourney's MVP.

Houston lost the final game, however, 86-81 to the University of San Francisco Dons.

Both the Cougars' losses this season have, in fact, been at the hands of the third-ranked Dons.

Deacons win 9th

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Forward Jerry Schellenberg scored a career high 32 points and led seventh-ranked Wake Forest past Richmond 84-73 Saturday in a non-conference basketball game.

Wake Forest, playing without leading scorer Rod Griffin, who is injured, trailed by as many as 10 points in the first half and was down by four at intermission.

The Deacons went ahead to stay on Skip Brown's jumper with 13:36 remaining.

Commission to issue report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Commission on Olympic Sports will issue its final report in the next two weeks with recommendations aimed at restructuring amateur athletics in the United States.

The two-volume report, to be made public Jan. 13, is expected to include specific recommendations dealing with the national sports governing bodies and the criteria under which they should operate. It will also establish a mechanism for resolving franchise disputes and protecting athletes' rights.

The report also will analyze each of the 28 Olympic sports and the country's multisport organizations, such as the U.S. Olympic Committee, the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, among others.

It also will present a summary of the problems confronting amateur athletics, such as the historical feud between the AAU and the NCAA.

"The criteria under which the national governing bodies must operate is most important to eliminate disputes such as the one between the NCAA and the AAU and dispose of the power blocs in some sports that have gone on for years," said Michael T. Harrigan, commission executive director.

Harrigan declined to discuss in detail recommendations of the 22-member commission but said legislation would be introduced in the new Congress to carry them out where legal authority is needed.

"There could be six or seven congressional committees which could have jurisdiction for action or legislation," he said.

Harrigan said the report will set out factual information and recommendations on such subjects as finances, the military, the handicapped, sports medicine and the international viewpoint of amateur athletics.

"We also deal with the subject of amateurism," he said. "We have found that certain national governing bodies have stricter rules on eligibility than the international federations."

In an interim report last Feb. 9, the commission suggested that a single organization, created under the authority of the federal government, might provide the leadership necessary to pull together all the fragmented parts making up amateur athletics in the United States.

At that time, the coommission said its fact-finding activities had made "it very evident that the current structure of amateur sports is fragmented, ill-defined and non-directed.

"Improvements in the areas of organization, management and finance are required before the system as a whole can operate effectively, efficiently and in the best interests of the public," the panel said.

"There seems to be a need for a single, comprehensive organization to provide the leadership, direction, coordination and support necessary to effect change within the current system.

"We see this organization as concerned with all amateur sports that are played competitively at the international level rather than just those sports currently on the Olympic roster since the problems of Olympic sports cannot be dealt with effectively in isolation from the other amateur sports," the report said.

The commission suggested then that the sports authority be created within the federal government, though free of political control, or chartered by Congress and then run by either the USOC or the AAU.

Harrigan declined to say what form of structure the commission has recommended but replied, in answer to a question, that it would be non-governmental.

Ara may not coach in 1977

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian said Saturday he is leaning toward remaining out of coaching in 1977.

Parseghian, who resigned from Notre Dame after the 1974 football season with a 95-17-4 record in 11 years, said he has discouraged conversations with National Football League teams, although several clubs have approached him. He did not identify the teams.

Parseghian has often said he will never return to college coaching.

"It was very difficult being away from football the first year, but it's grown less difficult with each passing year," said Parseghian, here to serve as ABC-TV color commentator for the Pitt-Georgia Sugar Bowl game.

"I still miss being around the players and I miss preparing for a game, making the game plans, but I don't miss the recruiting.

"My feelings about getting back into coaching might change this month, but I doubt it."

Parseghian hinted he might be interested in becoming an NFL general manager rather than a head coach.

Parseghian spent 1976 working for ABC-TV, running his insurance agency in South Bend, Ind., and doing some public relations work.

"I have plenty to do," he said. "More than enough."

Espadas retains crown

TOKYO (AP) — Guty Espadas knocked down Jiro Takada, closed his left eye and stopped him in the seventh round Saturday to retain the World Boxing Association flyweight championship.

Referee Lay Servio of Panama stopped the fight at 1:46 of the seventh after the Japanese challenger's manager threw a towel into the ring.

It was the first defense for Espadas, of Mexico, who won the championship from Alfonso Lopez of Panama Oct. 2, 1976.

Espada, who weighed 111 ¼ pounds to 112 for Takada, was in command from the outset and scored the knockdown in the third round with a series of head punches climaxed by a hard left flush to the face.

Takada began bleeding from the nose in the fifth round and his left eye completely closed in the sixth, causing the ringside physician to examine him in the corner after the round.

The World Boxing Council recognizes Miguel Canto of Mexico as flyweight champion.

Danneberg wins ski jump title

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, West Germany (AP) — Jochen Danneberg of East Germany leaped 306.5 and 308 feet to beat Austrian favorite Toni Innauer in the traditional New Year's Day ski jumping event and took the halfway lead in the German-Austrian four-hill tournament.

Danneberg, runnerup to Innauer in the opening event at Oberstdorf, West Germany, two days ago, showed near-perfect form to win with 235.2 points on the 1936 Winter Olympics hill.

Innauer soared 283.5 and 295 feet, the second jump the highest scored of the day, for 222.3 points. He slipped to second in the combined standings with two events to go at Innsbruck Jan. 4 and Bischofshofen, Austria, Jan. 6.

Harald Duschek of East Germany placed third with 220.1 points on leaps of 292 and 293.5 feet and moved up one place to third in the combined.

Gators, Aggies face Sun Bowl test today

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The fiesta is over at the 42nd annual Sun Bowl and it's time to get down to the business of deciding whether the 10th-ranked Texas Aggies are indeed a touchdown better than the explosive Florida Gators.

The oddsmakers have favored the Aggies but after a week of banquets and touring the sites of downtown El Paso and Juarez just across the Rio Grande in Mexico sometimes it's the team with the most sleep which wins.

El Paso officials like to call it the "Fun Bowl" and thousands of Aggies and Floridians followed their teams here for a week of partying and today's 2 p.m. CST kickoff.

The nationally televised game pits the rugged Aggie defense led by All-American middle linebacker Robert Jackson against Florida's flashy offense which averaged 28 points per game.

The Aggies were 9-2 with the only losses to Southwest Conference co-champions Houston and Texas Tech.

Florida (8-3) stubbed its toe twice in the Southeast Conference but flogged Houston 49-14 to give you an idea of how high-octane the Gator attack can be when quarterback Jimmy Fisher is on target with his passes.

Fisher paced the SEC in passing and halfback Tony Green provided an overland punch. Split end Wes Chandler is one of the finest in the country.

Both teams operate from the triple option Wishbone-T but the Aggies do so in a more deliberate style. Quarterback David Walker is capable of completing the clutch pass but mostly the Aggies live on the thunderous gallops of 240-pound fullback George Woodard and the darts of tailback Curtis Dickey.

A sellout crowd of some 36,000 was expected for the game which was the earliest SRO in the history of the classic.

Three Americans advance

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Charles Pasarell, the No.15 seed from Puerto Rico, led three Americans into the second round of the Australian Open tennis championships Saturday, but Vic Amaya was ousted.

Pasarell beat tempermental Bob Hewitt of South Africa 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 7-6; Peter Fleming downed Australian Barry Phillips-Moore 6-0, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 and Eric van Dillen tamed Aussie Chris Kachel 6-3, 6-2, 6-0.

Australian Dick Crealy overcame Amaya 6-3, 1-6, 7-6, 1-6, 75.

Hewitt, attempting to untrack Pasarell and unleash his own anger, repeatedly hit away the ball after losing points and at least twice shouted abuses at an unfriendly crowd at Kooyang Stadium.

Dog food inspires Pitt to maul Georgia, 27-3

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tony Dorsett gave Georgia's vocal, red-clad fans a pat on the back for inspiring top-ranked Pittsburgh in its Sugar Bowl triumph.

"I was never as ready to play a game as this one, just because of the Georgia Bulldog fans staying at the hotel where we were," Dorsett said after rushing for 202 yards and a touchdown in his last game as a collegian.

"We'd go out on the street and they were agitating us quite a bit," said Dorsett, especially miffed at hearing Georgia chants of "Dog food, dog food."

"I really don't think they understood what they were doing," he told dozens of newsmen crammed into a post-game conference room at the Superdome.

"We didn't like it, and the guys wanted to go out there and show the Georgia Bulldogs who was the dog food."

Dorsett also joined his teammates in proclaiming Pitt number one, no matter how Michican and Southern Cal fared in their Rose Bowl matchup, which they were billing as the national championship game.

"They are making a claim but I think we claimed it," Dorsett said after breaking the old Sugar Bowl rushing record of 199 yards set in 1944 by Georgia Tech's Eddie Prokop.

Quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, voted the game's Most Valuable Player after passing for two touchdowns, was even more emphatic about the contention from the Rose Bowl.

"I think it's bull," said the normally reserved Cavanaugh.

"There's just no question to everyone that we're No. 1."

The Georgia football players began raising their heads, throwing back their shoulders, talking about the 10 victories, forgetting the two defeats, and thinking about next year.

Saturday's 27-3 trouncing by Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl came in the first game played under a three-year agreement that makes the Southeastern Conference champion the host team in the bowl.

"Darn right, we'll be back next year," said tight end Ulysses Norris.

"No way we're going to miss another shot at this. We'll be back next year," said reserve quarterback Tony Flannagan.

"I'm proud of our football team," said Coach Vince Dooley. "There's no way I can be happy about today. I'm as disappointed as they are.

"But when you look back on the whole season, you have to be proud of these men."

As the Georgia team filed into its dressing room, cornerback Johnny Henderson sniffed and sobbed deeply as the door closed behind him. So did offensive guard George Collins.

But the tears were gone shortly afterward.

Over and over in the somber dressing room, the same refrain was heard: "They're number one."

Pittsburgh came into the game ranked first in the nation and apparently cinched that spot in the post-season poll.

"I take my hat off to Pittsburgh," said Dooley, baring his bald pate. Dooley joined several players and assistant coaches in shaving their heads as a symbol of team unity during the season. He said he did it because of a commitment to his team.

"I've benefitted from associating with this group—a group which pulled together and dedicated themselves as they did.

"The players were very disappointed and hurt, as they should be. But I told them how proud I was of them and reminded them of how far they had come.

"They've had a great season."

AIAW having pains

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, nourished by the federal government's Title IX ruling, is having growing pains.

"It is staggering how we have grown, just unreal," said Betty Giles, women's athletics director at the University of Tennessee Martin.

Miss Giles is one of 600 representatives attending the fourth annual delegate assembly of the AIAW here Sunday through Thursday.

She was a delegate to the AIAW's first session in Kansas City in 1973, the same year that the Health, Education and Welfare Department enacted Title IX requiring women's programs in college and high school athletics.

Only 200 delegates showed, she said.

"This is definitely an important convention," Miss Giles said as she reflected on the group's progress. "We're right at the crossroads of where we are going. There are so many crucial things to consider."

Majors picks six coaches

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Johnny Majors said Saturday that six members of the University of Pittsburgh staff will go with him to Tennessee, where he takes over as head coach next season.

In addition, Majors said he will retain Robbie Franklin and George Cafego from the present Tennessee staff.

The Pitt coaches moving to Tennessee are Henry Lee Parker, administrative assistant to Majors; Joe Madden, assistant head coach and secondary coach; Joe Avezzano, offensive coordinator and line coach; Bobby Roper, defensive coordinator and linebacker coach; Bill Cox, quarterback coach, and Jim Dyar, defensive line coach.

Majors' announcement came following Pitt's 27-3 Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia which gave the Panthers a 12-0 record and all but assured them of college football's national championship.

Finley may set precedent in federal court case

CHICAGO (AP) — Charlie Finley didn't set baseball precedents when his Oakland A's won the World Series in 1972, 1973 and 1974. But he may do so now—in federal court.

Finley, the A's owner, president and general manager, sued Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, and the trial resumes Monday in U.S. District Court after a week's recess.

IT IS the first time a major league owner has sued a baseball commissioner over a decision, and both the plaintiff and defense think the outcome could change the administration of baseball.

Here is why Finley went to court:

On June 15, he tried to sell pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each and pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million.

He offered and reoffered the players to other teams in trade. He struck a cash bargain with General Manager Dick O'Connell of Boston and Yankees President Gabe Paul that would have netted him $3.5 million but no new players.

BEFORE HE and Paul reached a final agreement, though, Finley signed Blue to a new contract. What Finley sold was not Blue but Blue's salary and contract. Paul testified that he insisted on a signed player to prevent Blue from delaying signing with the Yankees.

That is when Kuhn stepped in. He heard about the $3.5 million sale and talked to an executive council of five owners on June 16. Three days after the sales were announced, he told Finley he would not allow the sales and sent a letter voiding the sales.

KUHN SENT Fingers and Rudi—who suited up as Red Sox on June 16—back to Oakland. Blue remained in Oakland.

Finley sued the next week, seeking the $3.5 million he would have received for the sales. He told Fingers and Rudi they could not play for Oakland until the suit was resolved. But his team threatened to strike for their right to play. Kuhn complained about the sidelined stars, and Finley relented.

At the end of the regular baseball season, Fingers and Rudi became free agents and left Oakland for more money. Fingers went to San Diego and Rudi went to California. Blue, because he signed a contract before the abortive sale, still is with Oakland.

FINLEY SAYS he was pressured into the deals to get cash for new contracts with his unsigned players for cash to buy new players in November, and for his operating expense.

Oakland ranks among the lowest major league teams in attendance revenue. Finley moved the A's from Kansas City, because of low attendance but now competes with the National League's San Francisco Giants in drawing from the Bay area.

Finley wants to make his own trades and set his own prices— to conduct his baseball business freely. He sees the commissioner's office as an intrusion into free enterprise.

To Kuhn, the commissioner has to protect both the owner's interests and the public's interests—however they are defined. Thus, the suit raises the issue of who defines the best interests of baseball—the owners, players, commissioner or someone else. And on what basis.

Owners sought a way to police the game. So they set up a commissioner with power to investigate and take action on anything "detrimental to the best interests of the national game of baseball." That has been amended to read: "not in the best interests of baseball."

AS EVIDENCE of the owners' intentions, Kuhn's attorneys cited a statement by former Pittsburgh Pirates President Barney Dreyfuss, who was on the drafting committee for the agreement.

"At the meeting of Nov. 12, 1920, we wanted to give him (the commissioner) unlimited powers over baseball and that is what was been carried out in this section. Power without any review—that is the basis of this thing."

Nebraska Cornhuskers erase bad memories

HOUSTON (AP) — Talkative quarterback Vince Ferragamo, silent running back Richard Berns and a corps of big-play artists helped 13th ranked Nebraska erase some sad memories with a 27-24 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl victory over Texas Tech.

"This game followed the same line of some of the others we lost this year," Ferragamo said after he twice capitalized on big plays by teammates to pull the Cornhuskers from 10point deficits to victory Friday night.

"That's why it feels so good to win one like this now," Ferragamo added, speaking of the frustration he and his mates had felt through an up and down 9-3-1 season.

"This team played with all kinds of adversity. Unfortunately, We had a couple of bad plays (in the regular season) or we'd be No. 1 right now. It's great to go out like this."

After being ranked No. 1 in the nation in the pre-season, the Cornhuskers watched the big play become their enemy, losing to Missouri on a desperation 98-yard touchdown pass-run play and then falling to Oklahoma in the final 38 seconds.

The loss to the Sooners dropped the Cornhuskers out of the Orange Bowl and made them wonder what they'd have to do to get the big plays working for them.

They found out against the Raiders, beginning in the second quarter. Trailing 17-7, Nebraska got its first break when Raider defensive end Harold Buell received a 15-yard penalty for spiking the ball after narrowly missing an interception.

That kept a Cornhusker drive alive and allowed Nebraska to go in with a 17-14 halftime deficit. A 49-yard halfback pass and partially blocked punt set up the winning 14-yard surge.

"It's going to be great for our recruiting," Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said after winning his third bowl game in four appearances. "It's been a tough year for our seniors and our coaches, but this win will give us momentum to go into next season."

Berns, a sophomore from Wichita Falls, Tex., was thrust into the starting tailback position when Monte Anthony suffered a season-ending wrist injury.

Berns, shy and unaccustomed to the limelight, responded with 118 yards on 27 carries against the Red Raiders.

Tech quarterback Rodney Allison, earned the game's Most Valuable Back honor after rushing 89 yards on 14 carries and hitting 15 of 23 passes for 193 yards and two touchdowns.

More losers than winners in sports

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — "If you believe that winning is everything, then a lot more of us are losers than winners."

So says Dr. Thomas Tutko, a professor of psychology at San Jose State University who has studied the psychology of sports and its impact on athletes for nearly two decades.

But he adds that an athlete doesn't have to be a loser. He can change by controlling his moods and consistently "repeat the best day you ever had."

How to do that is outlined in his recent book, "Sports Psyching—Playing Your Best Game All The Time."

The book, written with Umberto Tosi, outlines the procedures based on interviews with scores of professional athletes in which he discussed mental pressures and how they affect athletic performance.

The book also teaches how to psych an opponent, how to get the most from high-priced instructors and how to practice. What the book doesn't explain is how the author got into sports psychology.

"I got started in sports back in a little coal mining town in Pennsylvania," he said. "If you didn't play ball in Gallitzin, you didn't do anything."

He conformed in Gallitzin and continued sports during his tenure in the military and while doing undergraduate work at Penn State and Northwestern. After earning his Ph.D, he began teaching at San Jose State, where he met colleague Bruce Ogilvie. They began their quest for knowledge about what makes the athlete tick.

"I don't like to do research where there are 7,000 other similar investigations going on," Tutko said. "Sports seemed a natural.

"When we first started studying teams as a unit, we found they were as gun-shy as we were. They had the common misconception that psychologists can look into your face and tell everything about you."

Tutko and his associates set up tests for teams such as football's San Francisco 49ers and Los Angeles Rams and a number of others. They would then discuss the results with the coach and the individual players.

"When we first were asked in, it was to analyze a star's problems," he said. "But it later became obvious that you can't solve only the individual's troubles, you had to deal with the team as a whole."

The problems that create stress on professional teams differ from the pressures on the amateur and weekend athlete Tutko found. With many amateurs, the hope of getting ahead—possibly into a pro career—can overshadow other difficulties.

With the professional, pressures come from coaches, owners and families. The long hours of practice and the longer hours on the road deprive him of a normal life.

Tutko also said the huge salaries professional athletes demand are creating a negative image for the nation's herostarved youngsters.

Among players he says have overcome the negative image is Bill Bradley of the New York Knicks. "He's sensible. He knows that sports is a temporary thing and it's there to be used. He emphasizes education."

Tutko says that women are in a much better position to take the right attitude toward sports. "But there are powerful women who want to go the same route as men," he added. "Women have a chance to change sports for the better—I hope they take it."

But opportunity won't be without psychological problems.

"They are crossing the cultural barrier, going outside their cultural roles," he said. "They have to create aggression, which is not part of their repertoire."

Edmonton Oilers buy two players

EDMONTON (AP) — The World Hockey Association's Edmonton Oilers acquired forwards Wayne Connelly and Claude St. Sauveur from the Calgary Cowboys Saturday in a straight cash deal.

Connelly, 37, among the league's career scoring leaders, has six goals in 25 games this year. St. Sauveur, 25, who had 24 goals for Atlanta in the National Hockey League last season, has yet to score in the WHA.

Scalpers face cold

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Would-be scalpers ran into unusual trouble attempting to unload Sugar Bowl tickets for the New Year's Day college football classic between Pittsburgh and Georgia.

One man said he stood outside the Louisiana Superdome in 36-degree weather for more than 1½ hours but failed to sell his $12 extra ticket despite dropping the asking price from to $10, then $8 and finally $4.

"Won't somebody please buy this ticket, I'm freezing," One young woman said. Someone did—for $3—and then tried to resell it for a higher price, without immediate success.

LOCATION COUNTS

Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are: "Location, Location, and Location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice.

Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your home long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and immediate neighborhood.

Select a location where the raw land and home values have an increasing price trend. Naturally, listings will be scarcer in these areas because demand will be greater. But precisely because of this increased demand, future prospects will increase the value of your investment dollars. Remember, you can always change a house, but you can never change a location.

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON JOHNSON realtors, 7602 Andrews Hwy. Phone 683-5333. We're here to help! (come in for your free copy of "Homes for Living" magazine.)

Emergency room borderlines on terror

Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — At 4 p.m., the brightly lit room is quiet.

The cot-like beds covered with their crisp, white sheets stand vacant atop a spotless gray and white flecked linoleum floor. Nearby the stainless-steel counters are empty of litter.

Shiny stethoscopes hang limply from rows of pegs attached to the hospital-green walls. Above them is an X-ray viewing screen where the skeletal outline of a pair of hands are bizarrely illuminated.

Nobody is watching them.

The room is empty.

But the doctors, nurses and orderlies who staff the South Bay Hospital emergency room are ready, waiting.

They wait accompanied by the sounds of a clacking typewriter, the humming of an air conditioner.

Before this night is over, they expect the quiet scene to change.

Says Dr. Robert Sanford, who is nearing the end of his 12-hour shift, "It's almost like being an airline pilot. There are hours and hours of sheer boredom separated by a few minutes of sheer terror."

Most emergency room visitors, although frightened and in pain themselves, are part of the routine for Sanford and the others.

A tow-headed 9-year-old arrives shortly after 4 p.m.

The only evidence of his injury is a rip in the knee of his guaranteed-to-be-authentic cowboy jeans and a small gash in his jutting chin.

This wound takes three stitches inside, then one long, running stitch on the surface of his skin.

But before the doctor begins his neat, even artistry, he covers the boy's face with a mask-like draping leaving only the tiny mouth and gash in view.

As the pain-relieving needle comes closer, the youngster begins a mantra-like chant of one-two-three.

The numbers come faster and faster, higher and higher as the needle moves closer.

Then after a few moments, the ordeal is over.

When the mask is peeled away, the boy is allowed to go home, evidence of tears still blurring his eyes.

Some of the nurses, having a moment to themselves, laugh about some "remember when" situations.

One of them recalls the case of a young sculptor who was making a plaster model of his head when the material hardened too soon.

He arrived at the emergency entrance with the plaster cast stuck on his head, two straws sticking out of his nose.

Then there was the case of the bride in full white wedding regalia who missed a step on her way out of church, falling flat on her face.

She spent her wedding night recuperating from plastic surgery while her new husband, clad in tuxedo complete with boutonniere, paced the corridors outside.

Sounds of "wake up, wake up," float out of the emergency room.

Near the back, nurses are trying to rouse a 15-year-old girl who has taken an overdose of equinol.

Her dirty feet tied to the bed and her nose flattened with pinchers, the teen-ager is moaning after having her stomach pumped.

Her mother hovers around the curtain-enclosed bed as the decision is made to have her daughter admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit.

The girl is wheeled there shortly before 8 p.m.

At 8:30 p.m., an anxious couple arrives with a small infant, flushed red with fever.

Nurses place her in a large crib, where they strip the child, then wrap her in tepid rags in an attempt to lower her 105-degree temperature.

As the mother and father take turns fanning the baby, her toothpick-sized arms and legs shake. They listen intently as Dr. Myron Pedigo tells them to give her aspirin round-the-clock and as much fluid as she can take.

An hour later, with her temperature lowered two degrees, the baby is taken home.

After her departure, the emergency room comes alive with the victim of a skateboard accident, a woman who has been beaten by her boyfriend, and a 16-year-old who has cut his ankle with an ax.

Reports must be filled out on each of these patients.

Three new cases arrive — one complaining of insect bites, another who has injured his left foot playing footbll and a third who has stepped on rusty wire.

Dr. Garry Whitlow, the doctor now on duty, fills out the paperwork on them. As he charts, the sounds of an aria come softly from a radio turned his way.

Then with a rush, a man is brought in by ambulance. His chest is reddened with blood from a cut on the inside of his right arm.

The arm is swathed in bandages but his fingers are splattered with blood and his toes polka-dot red and white.

With the emergency room workers clustered around him, the man gasps as his arm is unbandaged.

His feet coil in agony, his knees clench together, his toes twitch. Pain distorts his face.

After the doctor checks him for nerve damage, new bandages are applied. Their whiteness turns a fiery red within seconds.

As pain-killing medication begins to take effect, the man is told he faces surgery and a stay in the hospital.

All this time, nurses are smiling at him, stroking his other arm, his brow, in an attempt to comfort him.

After he drifts into sleep, the emergency room is quiet again.

MIDLAND'S FIRST BABY of 1977 is Courtney Michelle Lambert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lambert, 2010 Douglas. Courtney was born at 4:42 a.m. Saturday at Midland Memorial Hospital and will receive an assortment of gifts from several Midland merchants. Midland's New Year's Baby weighed in at 7 pounds, 12 ounces.

Baby misses mark

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The first baby born in Rhode Island in 1977 was the sevenpound, eight-ounce son of Dr. and Mrs. Patrick T. Conley of Cranston, chairman of the state's Bicentennial Commission.

The father, while proud, was disappointed.

"I was hoping the baby would be born an hour earlier so 1976 would go out with a boom," said Conley.

Thomas Byfield Conley, born at 12:49 a.m.

DALE EVANS AND ROY ROGERS lead Tournament of Roses Parade.

Roy and Dale travel 'happy trail' again

By WILLIAM C. REMPEL
The Los Angeles Times

PASADENA — Roy Rogers and Dale Evans logged another 5 1-2 miles of happy trails Saturday along the friendly route of the Rose Parade.

The "King of the Cowboys" and the "Queen of the West," the parade's grand marshals, left their horses back at the ranch — riding instead in a gold-plated, $115,000 Stutz d'Italia.

"Trigger was never like this," Rogers quipped, as he settled into a saddle of cushions and yellow roses.

And as the grand marshals' car eased out to the parade line, the 64-year-old singing cowboy tipped back his white hat, waved and sang a greeting to well-wishers:

"Happy trails to you..."

It was the start of another in a series of Rose Parade appearances for the cowboy couple dating back more than 20 years, but it was their first appearance as grand marshals.

They became the first husband-wife team to serve as grand marshals, taking their places after celebrating their 29th wedding anniversary on New Year's Eve.

Rogers and Evans rode into the hearts of a generation of movie-goers in the 1940s, riding Trigger and Buttermilk through scores of Westerns. The couple appeared in their last feature film together in 1952.

Trigger and Buttermilk retired long ago from the horse operas and are preserved in Rogers' Western museum in Apple Valley.

"I know Trigger and Buttermilk are thinking about us today," Rogers said, recalling past parades in which the horses carried the couple down Colorado Blvd.

Appropriately, on this trip through Pasadena, the grand marshals' Stutz followed a Calgary float depicting two cowboy boots strung together by the message: "Happy Trails."

And many of the people lining the route remembered that theme from hours spent at Saturday matinees in their youth.

One middle-aged mother at curbside excitedly told a friend about the time she shook Rogers' hand when she was five years old.

But nearby, an impatient 5-year-old from another generation peered down the long row of parade entries — past Roy and Dale — and demanded:

"Where are the Osmonds?"

Hayes, 89, sings last tenor note

BOSTON (AP) — Roland Hayes, the son of a former Georgia slave who became an internationally renowned concert tenor, died Saturday after a long illness. He was 89.

Born in Curryville, Ga. on June 3, 1887, Hayes was recognized for his interpretation of classics and traditional Negro melodies. He was a pioneer in introducing Afro-American spirituals as concert music.

Hayes, who lived in Brookline, Mass., was an expert in German lieder, traditional national songs. He was the recipient of the Spingarn medal for most outstanding achievement among black people.

His daughter, Afrika Lambe, a noted soprano, said today her father was "the first black artist and paved the way for people like Marian Anderson and Paul Robeson."

"Before that, people considered that no black person was a serious artist," she said when reached by telephone at the family home. "He proved that they were."

New Year starts with bang

By The Associated Press

Signs of the times, Jan. 1, 1977: West Berlin Police report being called to 221 fights or arguments, compared to 98 the year before. The first baby of the year in Salt Lake City was illegitimate and the mother said, "I feel great." Donald Ibsen goes water skiing.

Ibsen, who is 66, carried the idea of the cold shower the morning after to its ultimate and did it a day early to boot. He marked his 50 years of water skiing with a spin on Lake Washington near Seattle, carrying a sign welcoming the new year. Temperatures were in the 40s.

For most others across the nation, New Year's Eve and the first day of 1977 were a bit more traditional: Friday night it was the usual reveling — 50,000 persons were reported in Times Square and 31,000 in Boston Common — and Saturday it was parades, football games and hangover cures — possibly even the cold shower Ibsen so exaggerated.

President Ford spent his New Year's Eve drinking champagne with about 60 friends and went skiing at Vail, Colo., where he is vacationing, on the first day of the year.

Ford also awarded the nation's highest civilian medal, the Medal of Freedom, to 21 Americans ranging from poet Archibald MacLeish to a fellow they called the Yankee Clipper, Joseph Paul Dimaggio.

President-elect Carter went to bed early but, with his daughter Amy, set the alarm for 11:55 p.m. to be awake for the beginning of 1977 by watching Guy Lombardo on television. "Five minutes after midnight, we were back in bed asleep," he observed.

For football fans, New Year's Day was the Rose Bowl, the Cotton Bowl, the Sugar Bowl and the Orange Bowl.

In Pasadena, Calif., the Rose Bowl parade drew a crowd estimated at 1.3 million. Officials had predicted 1 million to 1.5 million spectators would spend the night along the parade route, but only between 150,000 to 200,000 camped out because of chilly weather.

African students may boycott schools

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The South African government faces its first test of the new year when schools reopen Tuesday. Black students say they may continue their six-month boycott of classrooms.

The first day of the new school year pits students, led by the Soweto Students Representative Council, against the government, which recently announced a number of new programs to upgrade nonwhite education.

Since student-initiated unrest began in mid-1976, the student council has virtually become an invisible government in Soweto, a black township of more than a million people outside Johannesburg. The council is the most organized of the country's black student groups.

The black uprisings that swept South Africa last June began in Soweto with student protests over the compulsory study and use of the Afrikaans language, derived from 17th century Dutch and the language of the original white settlers.

The students said they preferred to study in English because that language is more universally used in the academic world. The government compromised and said both English and Afrikaans could be used.

A 19-year-old black student leader from Soweto's Sekamo-Ntoane High School told The Associated Press in an interview that the school boycott will continue unless students among the country's 320 detainees are released, and students who fled to neighboring countries are allowed to return without arrest.

In addition to the school boycott, the Soweto council was successful in getting students to refuse to take final examinations in November, in forcing the closing of backyard liquor stores called "shebeens" and in fashioning a boycott of Christmas in order to mourn the more than 500 people killed countrywide in 1976 rioting.

During the now-ending summer vacation, there were no major outbreaks in Soweto. However, the fire-bombing of three schools last week may be an indication of what is in store for 1977.

The Soweto student council condemned the arson attacks, saying, "We are responsible people and will never be deterred from the cause by rabble rousers."

The council also called for an end to the separate educational system for blacks. "We demand the total scrapping of Bantu education immediately because it is only domesticating blacks to be the tools of the white man," it said.

To improve African education, M. C. Botha, minister of Bantu administration and education, has said all black senior high school students would receive free textbooks in 1977.

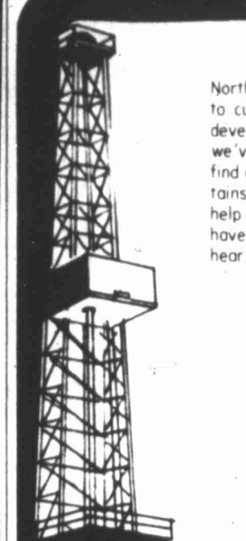
SOUTHWEST PERSONNEL SERVICES 407 KENT Suite D 683-4221



Northwest Pipeline presently transports natural gas to customers in seven western states. In order to develop new gas reserves and other energy sources, we've lauched an extensive exploration program to find and develop new resources in the Rocky Mountains and elsewhere. We need qualified individuals to help with our drilling and production programs. If you have experience as one of the following, we want to hear from you.

SENIOR DRILLING ENGINEER

Must have a BS degree in petroleum engineering or related field. Knowledge in drilling and completion techniques is a must with a minimum of 3 years total experience as petroleum engineer. Must be capable of planning wildcat drilling operations and preparing realistic well cost estimates.

DRILLING FOREMAN

Three years or more experience as drilling foreman, driller, tool pusher or equivalent is required. Prefer someone with completion of technical courses covering drilling and completion practices.

Experience or knowledge of fishing, cementing, perforating, fracturing, drilling mud, drill stem testing and logging is desirable for both positions. The successful candidates will have a permanent location in Farmington, New Mexico and will provide well site supervision at various Rocky Mountain locations up to 2 weeks at a time. The candidates will also supervise drilling operations in the San Juan Basin.

If you're interested in a rewarding and challenging career, contact us now. Forward your resume to our Employment Supervisor.

A HARVEST BALL was held by the auxiliary in September in the Midland Hilton, and members assisted with decorations for the WTGS and PBGS Christmas dance. Left to right, are Mrs. William W. Henry, auxiliary parliamentarian; Mrs. James J. Storrie, director; Mrs. Glenn D. Gardner and Mrs. Fred K. Yates, also directors, and Mrs. E. Leonard Shepherd, dance chairman. The auxiliary meets the second Thursday of each month. Eligible women may contact Mrs. Clyde A. Pine, 683-3016, for information.

LOOKING OVER the scrapbook of past activities are, left to right, Mrs. Lawrence J. Seright, telephone co-chairman; Mrs. Henry C. Libby, program and entertainment chairman; Mrs. Clyde A. Pine, membership chairman, and Mrs. James P. Murphy, corresponding secretary. Auxiliary members also have attended a membership coffee, breakfast with tips on travel, couples' patio party, dessert and card parties, a luncheon and style show. The card party in January, brunch with Art Cole as speaker in February and a luncheon and style show in March will conclude this year's activities.

Methodist ceremony unites couple

Linda Ruth Fallin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis Fallin of 215 N. Eisenhower St., and Fred Thomas Nobles, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Nobles Jr., 2200 Country Club Drive, were married at 7 p.m. Friday in St. Paul United Methodist Church.

Officiating for the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Tommy Nelson.

Mrs. Becky Hooper was the matron of honor, and John O. Nobles III, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bridesmaid was Kim Fallin of Granbury, cousin of the bride. The bridesmatrons were Mrs. Carol Darden and Mrs. Doris Braun, sister of the bridegroom.

The groomsmen were Wendell Fallin, brother of the bride; John C. Braun, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Larry Phillips of San Angelo. Ushers were Alan Kudla of San Diego, Calif., Tommy Stone of Lubbock and Bill McKay of Abilene.

Sloan Sheffield of Brownwood, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, and John Braun, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Hugh Dickson was organist for the ceremony.

Mr. Fallin presented his daughter in marriage. She wore an A-line gown of silk sheer and Venise laces. The fitted Empire bodice was enhanced with a sheer yoke edged in scalloped lace and overlaid with Venise clusters. It was fashioned with a high Victorian collar overlaid with the scalloped lace, as were the cuffs of the sheer bishop sleeves. Appliques accented the skirt, which ended in a chapel train. Edging the hemline was scalloped lace. Her fingertip veil of French illusion edged with lace was gathered to a matching lace and pearl Camelot headpiece. She carried a cascade of white roses.

A reception was held in the church, before the couple left on a trip to Miami, Fla., and Orlando, Fla. They will reside at 4405 N. Garfield St.

The bride was graduated from Columbia Secretarial College in Odessa. The bridegroom is a graduate of Texas Tech University.

The bridegroom's parents had the rehearsal dinner in the Garden Room of Midland Country Club.

How to 'give a fit'

Copley News Service

Please don't tell on me! I just discovered a marvelous way to fit a pattern to a child without his knowing what you are doing.

Lie.

Wanting to make a ski vest for our youngest for Christmas, I had to figure out a way to check the pattern size without giving away the surprise. So, with one hand holding up the pattern, I scratched his back with the other. He never knew the difference.

The front piece is on its own, however, since I couldn't get him to close his eyes. (I don't think he trusts me.)

Dear Betty: For a pretty historical quilt, cut thirty 16-inch squares. In solid fabrics cut five white, two blue and two red (for the nine-block center of the quilt). Make 21 crazy-piece blocks, stitching the pieces to cotton backing. Use knit scraps of reds, whites and blues for the pieces.

On the nine solid center blocks embroider or applique historical data and symbols. On the crazy pieces embroider or paint names and important data of friends and relatives. Use any lining you like and either tie or quilt. Presto! — a quilt to remember. Mrs. Clarence Gibson, Springview, Neb.

News of son comes hard

By ERMA BOMBECK

"Wasn't it wonderful having our son home for the holidays?" I asked my husband.

"It certainly was," he smiled wistfully.

"I didn't realize we'd miss him so much. He's grown taller, hasn't he?"

"And looks a little too thin? I suppose a mother would notice those things before a father, wouldn't she?"

"How's he doing in school?" I asked. "He'd talk those things over with a father, wouldn't he?"

"Not really. He has matured quite a bit though, hasn't he?"

"A father would observe that right off the bat."

"If you want to know the truth," said my husband, "I never set eyes on the kid the entire three weeks he was home."

"You're kidding," I gasped.

"No, I thought I saw the back of his head once as he was backing the car out of the driveway, but I couldn't be sure. How's he doing?"

"I never saw him either."

"He WAS here, wasn't he?" asked my husband.

"Oh yes, I'm sure of that. I could see him mounded in the center of the bed. He'd get up around the crack of noon and take a shower and once I handed him the phone through the door."

"You actually saw him?"

"It was steamy, but I'm pretty sure it was him."

"Wait a minute," said my husband. "Does he have a gray sweater with three stripes on the sleeve? I think I saw him one night holding both refrigerator doors wide open like he was welcoming a convention."

"That wasn't our son, that was Mark."

"I wish I had known that. I apologized to him for not spending more time with him."

"It's a natural mistake. He was here the entire Christmas vacation. Wait a minute. There's the phone."

"Who was it?" asked my husband minutes later.

"Mark's mother. She wanted to know how her son looked and if he needed anything."

"Any news of our son?"

"He's fine and says he doesn't know if he can get home for spring vacation or not."

"How will we know for sure?" shrugged my husband.

"Just feel the hood of the car."

LABOR SALE

Amazing as it seems, that is what Hines-Wood is offering for a limited time. Just select your fabric from Hines-Wood beautiful array of stocked fabrics and the craftsmen at Hines-Wood will upholster your furniture with no labor charge.

HINES-WOOD IS MAKING THIS OFFER FOR 3 REASONS:

1 The miracle of volume buying direct from the mill, permits us to purchase fine fabrics at a better price than most upholstery shops pay per yard on a short yardage basis.

2 The miracle of good credit permitted Hines-Wood to purchase more fabrics than we can pay for, in this slack period. The mills want money instead of the fabrics returned. We offer you this opportunity that we may meet our financial arrangements with the mills.

3 We feel that if you, the people of Midland really know the advantages of reupholstering, our furniture business would be increased.

Students express their expectations of Jimmy Carter

BY LANA CUNNINGHAM

Gun control, unemployment, oil price controls, taxes, amnesty, energy.

All were issues during the 1976 Presidential campaign. With the start of 1977, these issues are foremost on the minds of everyone, but not just the voters.

Sixth grade students at Bowie Elementary School have been keeping tabs on Jimmy Carter, following him through the election and his activities since then. As with the rest of the nation, these students have their ideas of what they expect Carter to do as president.

Essays written in social studies classes show gun control, unemployment, oil price controls, taxes, energy and amneaty to be the major issues facing Carter come Jan. 20.

Before listing what they expect Carter to do, several students expressed their doubts about Carter as president and then several gave Carter a blanket approval.

Nicole Pearce wrote, "I wondered how Carter would be as president. He looks friendly to be a president."

Susan Lamphere gave her approval to Carter when she wrote, "He can't do anything just awful because no president is just terrible."

Cindy Triplett obviously was a Gerald Ford supporter. She wrote, "I think Jimmy Carter will make a pretty good president even though I wanted Gerald Ford. He (Carter) will finish the job Ford has begun."

One essay ended with a subtle word of warning to Carter. "If he makes too many promises and can't carry through with them, he may not remain president very long," Mark Edgar wrote.

Dana Todd wrote what many people expect of Carter. "I expect Carter to do what's best for this country; to be a leader and a good enough one for the U. S. to want to follow him."

Gun control was on the minds of several students, and a majority disagreed with Carter.

Dana Todd wrote, "I think that people have a right to protect themselves and that taking all the guns away would not reduce crime that much. It might even increase the crime rate."

Whitney Hughes added, "If a criminal wants a gun he will get it. How are (you) going to protect yourself if the criminal has got the gun and you don't?"

But, Jim Martin wrote that he expects Carter not to pass any gun control laws "...because people would just buy and sell them illegally."

Several students favored Carter's plan to grant amnesty.

"Other counties won't let refugees and deserters back in, but our country should be different," Dana Todd wrote optimistically. Then, as if in support of the deserters, she added, "Everyone has the fear of dying, especially in war."

Taxes were on the minds of many students. Elsie Hodges thinks Carter "has made a promise to try his best to lower taxes for (the poor) and raise (taxes) on rich (people)."

Oil and price controls and the resulting effect on oil company employes disturbed several students.

According to Whitney Hughes, "Probably Carter will put a price control on the gas and oil prices which will make it much more harder for the oilmen to make money. In turn, the oilmen will make less money and will not have enough to drill for more petroleum.

"The United States will have to import more oil from Saudi Arabia and an energy crisis will start if we don't pay their high prices because they won't sell it to us" Whitney added.

Dana Todd described the energy situation pictorially in eight words. "The Arabs have got us on our knees."

In covering education, Whitney wrote he thinks Carter "will not stop forced busing or desegregation in the public schools...."

Elsie Hodges expressed her hope that Carter will improve schools. "I think he will really be good and open-minded more than most people would because he has kids and has faced some of the problems parents have had," she wrote.

Several students are expecting more jobs to be created for the unemployed persons. "He might create more employment for the unemployed" Greg Bartus wrote.

Whitney added that he expects Carter "...will be giving out welfare to people who can't work or won't if they are unemployed or have a very low income."

In choosing cabinet members, Greg Bartus bluntly predicted, "He will most likely dump (Henry) Kissinger."

Jim Martin is wanting Carter to "...improve foreign policy with Korea and other shaky countries."

A few students believe Carter will buy more military arms. Russ Owens feels Carter will purchase more equipment "to even it out with Russia." He added, "But, I don't think we should get as much as he wants to buy. We have some of the highest technolized war heads and armor divisions are less in number but more powerful."

Gregg Bartus also thinks Carter will buy more military equipment, but for another purpose. He wrote it would be done "...so we might be the same as Russia and could start a war."

But, one student, Russell Owens, took a slightly different look at what Carter will do as president. "He might use the ..media to sell his peanuts for him and his family," he wrote.

Then, taking a "wait and see" attitude, Russell wrote, "But, on the other hand, just because he is a peanut farmer we can't judge a man by his occupation."

Methodist women schedule annual Call to Prayer

The United Methodist Women of First United Methodist Church will have its annual Call to Prayer and Self-Denial observance from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Each woman participating is requested to give for others by denying herself, and to cultivate through prayer a spiritual oneness with planners, mission workers and those served in church-related ministries.

All interested persons are invited to attend. A nursery will be provided.

The Women's Division of the Board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church sponsors the Call to Prayer and Self-Denial and has designated two aspects of the mission program to benefit from this year's special offering. In the United States, the offering will be used for Young Adult Ministries and Neighborhood Development. Overseas, the offering will be directed toward Community Action for Development.

How to reinforce pocket seams

When sewing for children, reinforce the seam of the pockets by sewing bias tape to the seam on the wrong side. This makes the pocket strong enough to hold a child's collection of nails, screws, marbles, crayons and other things he or she picks up.

Mrs. Charles Ray Moore

Miss Hayes becomes bride of C. R. Moore

Luanne Hayes became the bride of Charles Ray Moore of Midland in a Saturday evening ceremony at the First Baptist Church here.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Harold Watson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Hayes of Whitesboro. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Welton D. Moore of 2511 Maxwell Drive, Midland.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk mist, accented with Alencon lace and pearls. The gown was designed with a fitted bodice featuring a cameo yoke on English net and Belgium lace forming a high neckline and accenting an overlay of matching lace. The long bishop sleeves had scattered appliques of Venise flowers.

The skirt was accented with lace flowers and the hemline was bordered with a double tier of Alencon and Belgium lace which extended to a chapel train.

The chapel veil of imported illusion, bordered with Alencon lace, fell from a headpiece of matching lace, accented with seed pearls.

The bride carried a single glamellia with grape leaf clusters and knotted white streamers on a white Bible.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Jane Hayes of Denton. Bridesmaids were Susan Hayes of Whitesboro, the bride's sister; Sandra Moore of Lubbock, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Mark Gibson of Richardson, the bride's cousin, was bridesmatron.

Randy T. Whisenhunt of Lubbock was best man. Groomsmen were Douglas A. Moore of Sulphur Springs and Capt. W. Randolph Moore of Del Rio, both brothers of the bridegroom, and William R. Smith of Midland.

Ushers were James E. Hayes of Dallas and William A. Hayes of Whitesboro, both cousins of the bride, and Jeffrey Mercer of Lubbock.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Albert Sutton of Whitesboro, organist; Mrs. Dearl Neal of Whitesboro, pianist; Susan Hayes, flutist, and Gail Walsh of Ardmore, Okla., soloist.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall was held following the ceremony.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moore of Graham, Tex., the bridegroom's grandparents.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal luncheon at Hobo Joe's Restaurant in Sherman.

After a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

The bride is a junior elementary education major at Texas Tech University where she is a member of the Texas Student Education Association and Major-Minor, a physical education organization.

The bridegroom is a senior mechanical engineering major at Texas Tech University. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

DEAR ABBY

She doesn't know when to disconnect her hang-up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a "sickness" that you've probably never heard of, and it's costing me a small fortune. It's telephonitis!

I am constantly calling friends all over the U.S. and Canada, and once I get started, I hate to hang up. I can talk an hour!

I don't want my husband to know how much my phone bills are, so I sometimes reverse the charges, and then send them a check to cover it. I've even charged some calls to my husband's business, but he hasn't caught on to that yet.

Right now I am fighting the urge to call the newspaper to find out how I can reach you by telephone instead of writing this letter. (I lost. I phoned the newspaper, but they said you had an unlisted number!)

This may sound dumb to you, but I assure you it is a serious problem. Please, please tell me what I can do about it.—AFFLICTED IN KANSAS

DEAR AFFLICTED: When you get the urge to make a long-distance call, write a letter, take a walk, take a bath, bake a cake or read something. And if you can't stay away from the phone, call a local shut-in and talk until the urge passes.

DEAR ABBY: It was like an answer to my prayers when I saw a letter in your column from a man who was worried because ever since his wife became pregnant, she'd been craving Argo laundry starch! Wherever did she buy it? If I could find some, I'd be the happiest woman in the world because that's what works best for my nylon net curtains.

For years I've been searching for Argo starch, but no store in my area has it. All they have is liquid starch, which doesn't compare to the old-fashioned kind that used to come in a blue and white box and looked like chalk.

Can You help me find some?—CARLA IN SANTA MONICA

DEAR CARLA: I'll try. Does anyone out there know if Argo laundry starch is still available? And if so, where?

DEAR ABBY: Sometimes the Lord answers our prayers in strange and unexpected ways.

For years when I'd see my mother bathing, I would pray that I would never have sagging breasts like hers.

I recently had a double mastectomy and am free of cancer, thank God, and I also know that I will never have sagging breasts!

Isn't it strangely ironic how the good Lord answered my prayers?—FLAT CHESTED AND GRATEFUL

DEAR FLAT: Yes. Now thank God for your good health!

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. J., SALEM, ORE.: I'm on your side. Go to a trade school if that's what you want to do. To quote John Gardner:

"An excellent plumber is infinitely more admirable than an incompetent philosopher. The society that scorns excellence in plumbing because plumbing is a humble activity and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because it is an exalted activity will have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy. Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Shine with dye

When a white crinkle patent handbag does not come clean, wash it thoroughly, removing all polish. After drying apply shoe polish dye in circles so there will be no streaks and, when dry, rub to a shine. The clean handles and sidefolds are left white. The dye holds even in the rain.

Charles Louis Renaud marries Kansas woman

PRAIRIE VILLAGE, Kan. — Lynn Pollard of Leawood Friday became the bride of Charles Louis Renaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benham Renaud of 1205 Lawson St., Midland, Tex., during an evening double ring ceremony in St. Ann's Catholic Church here.

The Rev. Phillip Winkelbauer officated the double ring vows, and Kathy White, harpist with the Kansas City Philharmonic, provided wedding music.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alec Pollard of Leawood.

When presented in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing her mother's ivory satin wedding gown. The yoke and upper train of rosepoint lace embroidered in seed pearls also were part of the wedding gown worn by the bride's great-grandmother in 1898. She wore a miniature muff trimmed with the lace, and carried a spray of baby's breath filled with white roses.

Attendants of the couple were the father of the bridegroom, best man, and Pam Pollard of Leawood, sister of the bride, maid of honor.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The couple will honeymoon in San Francisco, Calif. and Las Vegas, Nev.

The bride attended Newcomb College of Tulane University at New Orleans, La. and graduated from The University of Texas-Austin. Her husband is a graduate of St. John's Preparatory School at Danvers, Mass. and Tulane University. Both the bride and bridegroom attended The University of Texas Graduate School. He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen and the Permian Basin Landmen's Association.

The parents of the bridegroom were hosts for the rehearsal dinner held Thursday evening in the Nina Restaurant of Alameda Plaza Hotel in Kansas City.

Mrs. Charles Louis Renaud

Fire proof your curtains

You can cut down fire hazards by making your cotton curtains fire proof. Dip them in a solution made from 7 ounces of borax and 3 ounces of boric acid dissolved in 2 quarts of hot water. Let dry and iron or stretch on curtain stretchers in the usual way.

Press Women slate dinner

Texas Press Women, District 2, will hold their annual get-acquainted dinner Saturday in Midland Country Club, Lamesa Highway.

A social period will be held beginning at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8:30. Guests are invited, which includes prospective members, dates, husbands and friends.

Reservations should be made by Wednesday by dialing Tricia Shelton at 683-6437; Patsy Gordon, 682-5311, ext. 144, or Mary J. Goodwin, 694-9809.

Family gets first female

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. John Turkopp became the parents of Trica Jo, the first girl to be born in the family in 88 years.

The last female to be born in Turkopp's family, originally of Columbus, Ohio, was his late great-aunt, Alvina Turkopp, born in 1888.

Wooden cabinets give outdoors look to create garden effect in kitchen

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. I am remodeling our home's old kitchen and I'd like very much to create a garden atmosphere. However, I don't have very good luck with live plants in my kitchen. I would merely like to look out through glass into a garden. Do you have any suggestions on where to go for ideas on garden kitchens? — W.P.

A. I do not know of any single source for garden kitchens but I have seen an increasing number appearing in the better home fashions magazines. However, one kitchen cabinet manufacturer, Long-Bell, offers an innovative look you might be interested in.

Long-Bell's cabinets can be installed and staggered when attached to open studs to create a garden look when the studs are sealed above and below with glass. The warmth of the wood when combined with the natural light and lush foliage of the outdoors can be stunning.

Q. I would like to do my living room over in something Spanish. Our dining room has Spanish furniture. Our chairs are carved at the top with cane backs and green velvet seats. The china cabinet is quite large and off on a wall by itself. There is one window on the one wall and doors on the other wall. The two rooms are L-shaped. I have a black leather couch and chair and wrought-iron lamps with off-white shades. The window has gold velvet draperies with off-white sheers which I have just purchased. The walls are a pale gold and the end wall is paneled in a fairly hard wood.

Could you please give me some ideas to make the room quite Spanish looking? — S.C.

A. If you have access to library books on the architecture of Spain (not just the decorative arts), you will find much that is authentically Spanish such as exciting hand-crafted tile insets, white, heavy stucco walls, beamed ceilings, terra-cotta tile floors, wrought-iron grills, and paintings of the Spanish school (available in excellent reproductions). Fabrics of Spanish heritage are also available from documentary collections of fine fabric and wallpaper houses. Woven wools often in delicate colors are offered along with those more traditional Spanish combinations of reds, olive greens and golds.

Heavily textured fabrics often have an affinity with the honest, deep-toned woods associated with Spanish design.

Be careful not to try to get too gimmicky with Spanish. Look to refined, restrained designs, such as Majorcan lamp bases with creamy beige linen shades.

Your dining room sounds like you've a Spanish start there. Why not give your room the finishing touches with Spanish accessories such as a reproduction tapestry of a medieval schene and a pair of wooden wall sconces for candlelight dining.

In the living room, you have a start with your black sofa and lamps and gold draperies. If you have wooden floors and could use area rugs, why not look into the lovely collection of Spanish-inspired rugs.

Perhaps you could find one in off-white, gold, green and black with heavy fringed edges that would tie all your colors together. With gold draperies and white sheers, you could use pale gold or ivory for the wall color. If you need a chair or two, you might look for some rather high-backed designs in a gold and green floral or stripe fabric with wood frames. If you build shelves, look for interesting turnings or dowels to give a Mediterranean look. For accessories use interesting bookends, heavy ceramic and glass cache pots or planters, perhaps a collection of old maps, an ornate mirror on your wall to reflect and give more width to the room.

Karen Dumas marries

Virgil Bradley Winchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Latham of Slaton, married Karen Ann Dumas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dumas of 3511 Baumann St., at 6 p.m. Saturday in Crestview Baptist Church.

Officiating for the double ring ceremony was the brother of the bridegroom, Kenneth Winchester of Slaton.

Music was provided by Glenna Applewhite, organist, and Ginger Brown, soloist.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional A-line gown of silk sheer, Knottingham and Venise laces. The fitted bodice had a sheer yoke edged with Venise lace, a ring neckline and full bishop sleeves. Wide Knottingham lace panels highlighted the center front from neckline to hemline. Identical lace panels enhanced the sleeves and chapel train. Her mantilla of French illusion edged with Venise lace was gathered to a matching Camelot headpiece. She carried a Bible with a cascade of white orchids, roses and stephanotis accented with ivy.

Donna Dumas was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Pam Sessom and Judy Waters of San Angelo. Paula Isaacks of San Angelo was bridesmatron. Lighting the candles were Jo Nell Chism of Denton, cousin of the bride, and Mrlisa Jones of Slaton, the bridegroom's cousin.

The best man was Darrell Eastman of San Angelo. Malcom Latham of Slaton, brother of the bridegroom, Mike Downey of Roscoe and Jimmy Caswell of Levelland were the groomsmen. Ushers were James Dumas, brother of the bride, and Steve Springer of San Angelo.

Mrs. Virgil Bradley Winchester

The newlyweds will reside in San Angelo after a trip to Nrw Mexico. She is a distributive education graduate and the bridegroom is a physical education graduate of Angelo State University.

Parents, help your children receive better school marks

You might help Your child do a bit better in school —if you helped him or her a little less.

Education experts say parents should not do their heir's homework or the youngster will not learn the subject. Parents should, however, provide the proper setting and material for doing homework: the right light, a quiet place, and Dens, pencils, papere and reference books.

Another useful tool is a Student Math Kit. It makes a great gift and features a calculator that follows the natural math process, and is designed especially for the needs of junior and senior high school students. It also includes a special, comprehensive 80-page how-to book, a strong carrying case with orange "racing stripes" and an A-C adaptor.

You can also help your child in school these ways:

—Do see that he is in good health. Learning demands the best that's in him.

—Don't manage his allowance for him. Taking charge of it himself will help him understand finance and math.

—Do help him see that our modern civilization is built on math.

—Don't let him fear to deal in big numbers. He'll need them in his world of the future.

THE VISIBLE WOMAN

Chewing on 'Crazy Salad'

By JANET LOWE
Copley News Service

I've been carrying Nora Ephron's book, "Crazy Salad," around for several weeks. The reviews have been good. Portions of the book are reprinted from Esquire and Rolling Stone, so they must be reasonably interesting. But the title isn't good, and for that reason I waited until there was nothing else to read around the house.

It's a shame the title's such a put-off. The book is worth looking past the title and cover.

The first essay, "A Few Words About Breasts," sets the tone for the entire book. She elaborates — with wit — on her early despair over being flat-chested, and the mark it's left on her life.

Breasts (or absence of them) have become the major hang up of Ephron's life, despite the fact that many of her bosomy friends tell her it's better to be too small than too big. She replies, "I have thought about their remarks, tried to put myself in their place, considered their point of view. I think they are full of baloney."

Ephron feels the same way about women who claim it's a handicap to be born beautiful. She's totally unsympathetic.

The book, now out in paperback, is subtitled "Some Things About Women" and that's exactly what it is, a variety of things about women. Much of the book is really about Ephron and her experiences in a consciousness-raising group.

These essays have a rambling, confessional quality and lead the reader deeper and deeper into the mind of Ephron, until finally the reader is led down a narrow hallway with a door at the end. When the door is opened there is a room of mirrors, and the reader sees only herself.

These writings do help me, and perhaps other women like myself, hook up the wires between our personal lives and the women's movement. In "Fantasies" she says, "So many of the conscious and unconscious ways men and women treat each other have to do with romantic and sexual fantasies that are deeply engrained, not just in society but in literature. The movement may manage to clean up the mess in society, but I don't know whether it can ever clean up the mess in our minds."

The essay which seems least relevant and the most frivolous was the one in which she lambastes Wellesley calling it "damned irrelevant." I'm as unimpressed with that as Ephron is with the problems of beautiful and busty women. "It was much worse for them, they tell me. They had a terrible time of it, they assure me. I don't know how lucky I was, they say," writes Ephron regarding her superendowed friends.

Jodie Powell marries K. Jones of San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO — Jodie Jeanette Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Powell of Midland, and Keith Evan Jones, son of Dr. and Mrs. George W. Jones of San Antonio, were married at 3 p.m. Friday.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Royce Makin in the Central Christian Church. George Gregory, organist, and Phyllis Jones, cousin of the bridegroom, soloist, provided the music.

Judy Graham of Bedford, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Beverly Jones, sister of the bridegroom, and Sharon Peel were the bridesmaids. The bridesmatron was Becky Dossett of Lubbock.

The brother of the bridegroom, Steve Jones of Bryan, was the best man. The groomsmen were Sid Gregg, John Thornton and Steve Beissner. Guests were ushered by Rene Gonzales, Justin Jones, cousin of the bridegroom, and Rick Gregory.

Mr. Powell presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown which her sister wore at her wedding. It was in formal styling of candlelight satin in princess silhouette. A center panel of pearled re-embroidered Alencon lace was framed with satin ruffles. Ruffles also marked the stand-up collar, cuffs of the long sleeves and the hemline, which ended in a chapel train. A Juliet cap of lace and pearls held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of red roses with greenery.

A reception was held in El Tropicana River Room.

The bride is a graduate of Texas Tech University, and the bridegroom was graduated from Stephen F. Austin State University. They will reside in Nacogdoches.

Mrs. Keith Evan Jones

Proper storage keeps food nutritious

When people shop for food, they are careful to select the freshest looking meats and produce available to make sure their family will get proper nutrition.

But there is more to the nutrition story. The way you store and prepare foods can affect their vitamin and mineral content, according to the Metal Cookware Manufacturers Association.

Green leafy vegetables keep best in moist air in the hydrator of the refrigerator or in plastic bags. High temperatures and exposure to air and light can destroy many of the vitamins they contain.

Store cherries and berries in the refrigerator, loosely wrapped. Too much moisture around them encourages mold and rot. Root vegetables can be stored out of the refrigerator in a cool dark place.

Wrap foods to keep them from drying out. Store meats in the coldest part of the refrigerator, loosely wrapped. And use all fresh foods as soon as possible after purchase.

For cooking, properly covered metal cookware shields food from both air and light and makes quick cooking, another essential for retaining vitamins.

Cardboard 'donuts' used in making pom pons

By ERICA WILSON

DEAR ERICA: Thought your readers would be interested in a little something I learned from our family's well-used dictionary: pom pom (n): a one-pounder automatic machine cannon, named for its drumming sound. Pom pon (n): an ornamental ball, as of silk or feathers, for women's costumes; a tuft or ball, as of wool, worn on the front of a hat in the military.

Speaking of pom pons, I make them by using two small cardboard "donuts" as you suggested in one of your columns, but I cut a wedge out of both circles so I can wrap the wool easily around and around instead of having to stuff it constantly through the tiny center hole.

Another method is to use a ruler or a cardboard cut to proper size, and to lay a piece of yarn down the length of the ruler (this will be the yarn that ties the loops together at the end). Then you slide all the loops off the ruler, tie the length of yarn that holds them tightly together and cut and trim the finished pom pon. If you prefer, you might just leave the loops uncut for a different effect.—Miss Marilyn Bull, Berkley, Mich.

DEAR MARILYN: I must confess that I knew the correct spelling of "pom pom"—oops, "pom pon"—but always forget because I called them "pom poms" as a child and can't seem to break the habit. Now I hope you've cured me for all time.

Thanks so much for your tips on making pom pons. I might add that when using the ruler method, it's a good idea to keep your wrapping lengths not more than six inches, because anything longer might slip off the ruler or cardboard and will be difficult to tie together with the thread you have laid down first.

Also, my thanks to Phyllis Livengood, a reader in Battle Creek, Mich., who sent along the news that handy, reusable pom pon "donuts" can be bought—readymade—in notions stores.

DEAR MISS WILSON: I am a woman of 75 years of age and am interested in fancy crewel work. I have made a free-hand drawing of violets from a small painting and am puzzled as to how I transfer it for crewel work. I bought a Nepo marker. What do I do next?—Mildred Jarnecke, Chicago, Ill.

DEAR MS. JARNECKE: Your crewel embroidery is best worked in a hoop frame or on stretcher strips—the first being found in a needlework shop, and the second, in an art supply store. Either one you choose will keep your fabric nice and taut for easy stitching.

For the material, choose a neutral-colored linen with a close weave, and mount it in the frame or on the stretcher strips. Then, outline your drawing with very clear lines using your felt-tipped marker.

Tape the drawing face up on the bottom side of your linen with masking tape. Then, hold it up to the light (a goose neck lamp will give you more control over the light), and you will be happy to see that your violets are silhouetted, and the lines beautifully clear for tracing.

The last step is the tracing itself—onto the linen using your black marker once again. (If you don't want frazzled nerves, be sure to use the kind of frame that has a support so that you can work with both hands free).

THE WINE DRINKER

Chardonnays rated high

By TOM GABLE
Copley News Service

Many wine drinkers were shocked when some 1973 Chardonnays from California finished ahead of the best of France in a blind tasting held in that country with local experts as judges.

Prepare for further shocks: the 1974 Chardonnays from California are just hitting the market and they are even better than those from 1973. In fact, across the board, they probably have the greatest overall quality of any varietal ever produced from a single vintage in California.

And they come from such varied areas as Sonoma, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa and Santa Clara counties.

Sterling Vineyards, a modern Napa Valley winery that issued its first wines just seven years ago, produced an above average Chardonnay in 1973 and followed with a great one in 1974. It has a very sharp, gold color, a good balance of oak and fruit in the aroma and bouquet, and a rich, soft body with a luscious, lingering aftertaste. This style wine goes superbly with good fish dishes and, particularly, a Coquilles St. Jacques. The cost is about $7.50.

Of similar style is the 1974 Freemark Abbey Napa Valley Chardonnay. It has the same sharp, gold color, almost buttery overtones from the ripe grapes and wood aging, and a rich, highly viscous body.

This is the type of wine that some refer to as "oily" because of its texture and ability to fill the mouth with flavors. It sells for about $6.50.

Chateau Montelena, in the far north end of the Napa Valley at Calistoga, was the surprise winner in the French tasting with its 1973 Chardonnay. The 1974 is as good, although crisper and lighter in style than the Sterling or Freemark Abbey. It is made from grapes grown in both Napa and Sonoma and sells for $8.

Two other Napa Valley Chardonnays from the 1974 vintage of excellent quality are from Heitz Cellars and Spring Mountain. The Heitz sells for $7.50 and is in limited distribution.

It is similar to his 1973 wine because it is slow to develop; the greatness of the wine doesn't start to show until about three years after the harvest when the combination of fruit and wood aging unfold and reach a balance.

Sharon Ann Bray becomes bride of John Hogan Webb

Mrs. John Hogan Webb

The First Presbyterian Church was the setting for the marriage at 7 p.m. Thursday of Sharon Ann Bray and John Hogan Webb. Dr. Ray Riddle of the First Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Adolph Kaler, O.M.I., of St. Ann's Catholic Church performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Earl Bray of 3102 Lockheed St. and James David Webb of Northglenn, Colo., and the late Mrs. Webb, formerly of Midland.

Organist for the ceremony was Robert Poer. Stephanie Ward was soloist.

Mr. Bray presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of candlelight imported re-embroidered Alencon lace traced with bridal seed pearls appliqued on ivory silk organza peau. The molded Basque bodice veiled with the imported lace and enhanced with a sheer yoke of the organza was fashioned with a Victorian neckline and long bishop sleeves sprinkled with lace appliques and gathered to wide cuffs. The slim controlled skirt enhanced with appliques of the jeweled Alencon lace had a deep band of silk peau at the hemline, which had a wide chapel train.

The bride's fingertip veil of French illusion was edged with scalloped Chantilly lace and was held by a matching lace and pearl Camelot cap. She carried a Bible and cascade of gardenias, stephanotis and bridal pink roses entwined with Hahn's ivy.

Linda Beard of Houston was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Martha Pardue, Martha Copeland and Janet Webb, sister of the bridegroom.

Jefferson Webb of Austin was his brother's best man. The groomsmen were James Webb Jr. of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom, Scot Northern and William Rhotenberry.

The ushers were Terry Hagood of Merritt Island, Fla., nephew of the bride, Everett Coon and Peter Scherer.

Kelly Flournoy, cousin of the bride, and Jane Ann Hogan of Breckenridge, cousin of the bridegroom, were the flower girls, and Jill Webb of Northglenn, sister of the bridegroom, and John Hogan of Breckenridge, cousin of the bridegroom, were ring bearers.

Candle lighters for the ceremony were Christopher Hagood of Merritt Island, nephew of the bride, and Shawn Ward, cousin of the bride. The rice bag girl was Cassandra Hagood of Merritt Island, niece of the bride.

The reception was held in Midland Country Club.

Following a trip to Sea Island, Ga., the couple will reside in Austin. The bride is a junior elementary education major and the bridegroom is a junior finance major at The University of Texas-Austin.

The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. James D. Webb in Midland Country Club. Mrs. Morgan Copeland and her daughter, Martha, were hostesses to the bridesmaids' luncheon in the Chesa Nova Restaurant.

Tulsa girl marries Bruce Mailey in Oklahoma evening ceremony

TULSA, Okla. — Debra Sue Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Connor of Tulsa, and Bruce Henry Mailey, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Mailey of Midland, Tex., were married at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Jacob Males of the Church of Madalene officiated for the single ring ceremony.

Candy Carr of Norman was matron of honor for her sister. Kristi Connor, sister of the bride, and Betsy Hoey of Huntington Beach, Calif., were the bridesmaids.

James Mailey of Midland, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The groomsmen were Jim Frey of Kingsville, Tex., and Bill Barnett of Houston, Tex.

Mark Tibey was guitarist and soloist for the service.

Mr. Connor presented his daughter in marriage. She wore an A-line Empire silhouette of candlelight French net and re-embroidered lace bodice with scooped neckline and full bishop sleeves with lace bands. The gown had a chapel train, and her fingertip veil edged with matching lace was held by a lace-trimmed Camelot headpiece. She carried a bouquet of ivory Cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the Social Hall of the church.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will reside at 3131 Timmons St., No. 302, in Houston.

The bride, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, is a seismic analyst with Seismograph Service Corp. The bridegroom, a graduate of The University of Texas-Austin, is a petroleum engineer with Mobil Oil Corp.

Tammy Sue Porter weds Randy West of Monahans

Tammy Sue Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audie L. Porter, Route 1, and Randy Paul West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. West of Monahans, repeated marriage vows at 6:30 p.m. Friday in Fort Worth and Jax Streets Church of Christ.

Marty Wayne West of Buenos Aires, Argentina, was the officiating minister for the double ring service.

After a trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will be at home on Route 2. The bride is a graduate of Midland High School. The bridegroom, a graduate of Abilene Christian University, is employed by Simpson & West, Custom Homes.

Terrie Leigh Porter, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Y'Londa West of Odessa, sister of the bridegroom, and Dana Spurlock. Jody Stanley was the bridesmatron. The flower girl was Diana Pruitt of Farmington, N.M., niece of the bridegroom, and the ring bearer was Stephen Ray Porter, brother of the bride.

The brother of the bridegroom, Monte Robert West of Snyder, was best man. The groomsmen were Tony Porter, brother of the bride, Jim Hadley of Abilene and Bernie Berhard of Bryan.

Guests were ushered by Gary Davis of Houston, Chris Moore and Greg McClellan.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white satin overlaid with white organza. The Empire bodice had a high neckline and tufted sleeves with deep cuffs. The gathered skirt ended in a ruffle. Her chapel-length veil with re-embroidered lace rose appliques was edged with lace matching that which trimmed the gown. She carried a crescent bouquet of gardenias, carnations, plumosa fern and baby's breath.

The reception was held in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Mrs. Randy Paul West

Kim Furry-Kendall Kent united in double ring evening ceremony

Kim Furry of 2412 Storey St., became the bride of Kendall Ray Kent of Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., in a double ring evening ceremony in St. Paul's Methodist Church. Officiating was the Rev. Tommy Nelson.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Furry, 2412 Storey St. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Joseph O'Neil and Farrell Kent, both of Midland.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace. The bodice formed a V at the waistline and the full sleeves gathered onto deep cuffs which formed points over the bride's hands. Pearl buttons trimmed the bodice front. The skirt was designed with overlapping rows of Chantilly lace and formed a train in the back.

Her veil of illusion was trimmed with matching Chantilly lace and formed a long train.

The cascade bouquet was made of white and peppermint carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants to the bride were Karen Kent of Midland, the bridegroom's sister, and Cayla Surritt of Midland, the bride's sister. Flower girl was Chantile Conner of Odessa.

Best man was Curtis Barker of Chanute AFB. Charlie Fuller of Abilene was groomsman while Wade Barker and Richard Collins, both of Midland, were ushers. Ringbearer was Shawn Hardin of Midland, the bride's nephew.

A reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall.

After a trip to San Angelo, the couple will reside at Chanute AFB near Rantoul, Ill.

The bride had been employed by Tall City Pipe Service. She is a graduate of Commercial Business College.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Midland High School and is in the United States Air Force.

One meal a day causes problems

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

One of the more common mistakes made by people trying to lose weight is the attempt to save calories by skipping meals and eating one meal a day.

Breakfast is convenient to eliminate and lunch can be omitted by turning their attention to other activities, and thus the meal they concentrate on is dinner which is often extended into continuous evening snacking.

Overconsumption in the evening is rationalized into acceptance by having gone all day without eating thereby earning the right to eat (and eat and eat) in the evening.

This eating pattern will not lead to a weight loss, but rather it is almost certain to add pounds.

Depriving yourself of nutrition during your active day hours will reduce your energy level, causing fatigue and reduced mental agility as well as producing irritability. People following this eating pattern seem to catch more colds and are subject to infections.

The victim is usually completely unaware of a connection between diet and problems. The "loser" attitude of self-pity and blaming other people or environmental circumstances for personal failure is common among this group.

Their failure to lose weight, even though they are "sacrificing two meals a day" is seized upon as additional evidence that fate has stacked the cards against them.

Nutrition has an effect upon emotions and mental processes, as well as phyzical health. Poor nutrition can cause depression and inhibit thought processes. It can deprive you of the energy required to do your best work and your sharpest thinking. Overweight itself slows you down and reduces energetic activity.

Beneficiaries gain billions

NEW YORK (AP) — Life insurance companies paid $22.5 billion to beneficiaries, policy holders and annuitants in 1975, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. Less than half the total went to beneficiaries of policyholders who died.

Manufacturers' tips keep cooking ware new

Once upon a time caring for cookware was simple because most of it was made of cast iron, tin or copper, and mother taught daughter how to care for it.

Then came modern technology and the development of stainless steels, aluminum, and all manner of colorful exterior and interior finishes. The new materials produced attractive cookware that heated more evenly than anything Grandma had in her cupboard, but they also brought confusion about how to care for them.

Follow these tips from the Metal Cookware Manufacturers Association.

—Allow cookware and bakeware to cool before washing as a safeguard against warping.

—Wash cookware after each use and dry it immediately.

—Utensils with non-stick interiors will need to be re-seasoned after washing in an automatic dishwasher.

To remove burned-on foods, soak the utensil and wash in hot sudsy water.

Pendleton-Gravley marry

Julia Harriette Pendleton became the bride of Gordon James Gravley II in a double ring ceremony held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Herbert Pendleton of 2014 Bedford Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon James Gravley of Childress.

Dr. Larry Grimm officiated. Mrs. Harold Heckathorne was the organist, and Mrs. Robert Pollard was soloist.

The matron of honor was Mrs. John O'Brien of Norman, Okla. Jeanne Rooker of Midland, Rhonda Cartwright of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Kim Krist of Houston were the bridesmaids.

Rick Barry of Lubbock was the best man. The groomsmen were Don Bagwell of Midland, cousin of the bridegroom, Rick Gorskie of Lubbock and Keith Mills of Brownfield. Ushering the guests were Kent Wood of Childress, Craig Manaugh of Midland and Michael MvKay of Kermit.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of antique ivory chiffon veiled over peau de soie. It had an Empire bodice overlaid with lace, a portrait neckline and long fitted sleeves. Lace bordered the pyramid skit, and unpressed pleats swept into a wide chapel train. Her veil was attached to a matching calot. She carried a nosegay of white Phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and Hahn's ivy.

A reception was held in the Midland Hilton before the couple left on a trip to Los Angeles, Calif., and Hawaii. They will be at home at 201 Indiana St., 318F, in Lubbock after Jan. 10.

The bride is a senior elementary education major and the bridegroom is a senior electrical engineering technology major at Texas Tech University. She is a member of the Women's Service Organization.

The bridegroom's parents entertained with the rehearsal dinner in the Midland Hilton, and Mrs. R. E. Johnston was hostess to the bridesmaids' luncheon, also held in the Midland Hilton.

Mrs. Gordon James Gravley II

Use tips to clear snow

You can clear a path in the snow safely and easily by following these tested tips from the experts at the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute.

1. Read the owner's manual. Test your machine and become familiar with it before attempting to remove the snow.

2. Never direct the discharge at bystanders—debris may be hidden in the snow—and never allow anyone in front of the machine.

3. Adjust height to clear gravel or crushed rock surfaces.

4. Do not allow children to operate the machine or allow adults to use it without proper instruction.

5. Disengage all clutches and shift into neutral before starting motor. Keep hands, feet and clothing away from power-driven parts.

By following these tips when you are snowed under this winter, you will be able to clear walks and driveways with ease and safety.

Carton furniture good for newlyweds

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We're planning our first apartment home as newlyweds and want to create an interesting and personal kind of place that will be easy to do and to take care of, because we both will be busy going to school and jobs for awhile. We like contemporary things but will have to buy most everything except a bedroom set, which we were given as a gift. — H.V.

A. Designers JoAnn Barwick and Maria Aasland created an interesting personal environment which might give you some ideas that you could carry out in your own way, considering your choices of colors and fabrics.

The designers teamed laminated window shades and unassembled furniture (that can go home in a station wagon) to produce lots of charm and comfort. They chose a contemporary ultramarine and white abstract print to stretch on the window shades across one wall of the apartment, repeating the print in pillows and cushions around the room. Chrome tubing was put together for shelving, the low table grouping and the sofa base.

Q. We are having a house built with a country kitchen. It will be 20x20 feet and have an open beam ceiling with wood between the beams. The fireplace will be used brick with a wood mantle. We want wood paneling and wallpaper. Our furniture is distressed maple. We would like this room to have an Early American look. What kind of wood should be used for this and the kitchen cabinets? Also how much paneling should there be?

We were thinking maybe of a chair rail height at the eating end of the room and a three-fourths or dish rail height at the fireplace end. What kind of floor covering would you suggest? — M.N.G.

A. I think pine or knotty cedar would give you the informality you would desire in cabinets and for beams, finishing it in a warm medium wood tone. I think your idea to use some wallpaper is excellent because it will give you some color and pattern to relieve the wood in the room. A chair rail would be interesting in the area where you will be dining and you could put the paneling below and wallpaper above the rail. I do not think I would have both a chair rail and a three-fourths or dish rail, too, because I feel the different heights in the room would give a confusing look.

For the floor you might like a vinyl in a simulated used brick pattern in terra-cotta or off-white. You might add a braided or hooked rug to the dining area if you desire.

by Sam Day

You may have heard people who sound like they know what they are talking about order a wine by its year, say a Bordeaux Cabernet 71. The vintage year is the year in which the grape is harvested. Wines from a good vintage year remain good in the bottle for a long time. Poor years mean wines that start badly and do not last long at that. With the more commerical regional wines, vintage years mean little since the quality of the wine depends more on the skill of the blender than the weather conditions of the given year. If you are buying a Chateau or estate bottled wine though, check your years before you make an investment.

We at IMPERIAL LIQUORS, 3209 W. Wadley, 694-4256 will be happy to advise you in selecting a wine to meet your taste and budget. We feature a full selection of imported and domestic wines. Come in and see Sam and his friendly moustache for your new year's eve party needs. Please accept our best wishes for health and happiness in the new year. Hours: 10-9 Mon-Sat.

WINE WISDOM:
To improve on the best American red wine, buy the best you can find and put it away for two years or so to give it roundness and bouquet.

Mrs. F. Joe Lyles

Debbie R. Drost weds F. J. Lyles

In a double ring evening ceremony Saturday at Calvary Baptist Church Debbie Rae Drost of Midland became the bride of F. Joe Lyles of Midland.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Drost of Route 3 and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyles of 505 Devonian St.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white velvet with fur trim on the cuffs of the long slender sleeves. Fur also trimmed the hemline of the full A-line skirt. A silk organza cape extended into a chapel train in back and was trimmed with fur. The attached hood had fur trim.

The bride carried a bouqet of crystal and wood fiber white, pale aqua and turquoise roses.

Mrs. Florence Kiss of Detroit, Mich., was her niece's matron of honor. Other attendants included Evon Theis of Phoenix, the bride's cousin, and Martha Looper, Carroll Addy and Cheryl Von Gonten, all of Midland. Flower girl was Tammy Thurmon of Midland.

Best man was the bridegroom's father, Frank Lyles. Groomsmen were Buzzy Singleton of Broddus, Abel Natividad, Jim Tarpley and Eddy Drost the bride's brother, all of Midland.

Ushers were Harry Marshall of Allen Park, Mich., and Andy Kiss of Detroit, the bride's uncle. Ringbearer was Billy Clements of Midland.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Loyd Lester. Music was provided by Mrs. Eileen Welch, organist, and Paula Edwards and Linda Davis, soloists.

A reception following the ceremony was held at West Texas Banquet Room.

After a trip to Jackson Hill Marina at Broddus, the couple will be at home at 1306 W. Tennessee St.

The bride is attending Midland College and is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Robert E. Lee High School and is employed by Shoprite Foods, Inc.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Sun., Jan. 2)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you find that if you make some changes for the improvement of your ideas and ideals, you will find that new beginning soon making itself felt in your life and activites. You can also study ways to be more articulate in the years ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend the services of your choice and gain wisdom so that you can guide your life more intelligently in the future. Visit with good friends and relations. Be careful in motion.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Elevate your consciousness so that you are able to realize a greater abundance in the future and be happier. Consult with an expert who can give you good ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be as personal as you like in going after personal aims and state to others what you desire. Accept invitations offered you today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy gathering facts needed to make the future brighter for yourself. Try to please mate

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to contact good friends and to deepen relationships. Personal aims that have been difficult to gain are easy to get now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do some important charity work but do not neglect the philosophical either. Handle credit affairs well. Become a pillar of your community through right activites.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Analyze how far you have come toward your goals and then plan exactly how to reach them. A good day to make new contacts that could be helpful to you. Make a good impression on others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study how to get conditions working to your benefit in the future and become more successful. Get mate to go along with a project you have in mind and plan how to put it across successfully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to add to prestige via the goodwill of associates. Good day to study into any changes you want to make in contracts so you can take action tomorrow. Relax tonight and build up energy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to . Jan.20) Make it your business to show appreciation to those who have been good to you and add to goodwill now enjoyed. Take the health treatments you need to have a more successful life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan early the kind of recreation you want to have later in the day, and contact congenials. Then get your good ideas across to others by being clever.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to please those who live with you and have more harmony in the future. Plan to do entertaining of those who have done you favors. Show your appreciation and gain further goodwill.

(Mon., Jan. 3)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to get together with associates and figure out the best way to have greater productivity in the future. State your views clearly so your listeners will understand them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact the right persons who can give you the data you need. A new project you have in mind needs more study to be successful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make plans to have greater abundance in the future. Look over your surroundings and make needed improvements.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Begin week properly by carrying through with the plans you have made. Attend a social affair tonight and enjoy friends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Schedule your activities so you can be more successful through present avenues of expression. Try to please mate more.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to return a favor of a social nature that is important. Avoid one who is a detriment to your progress.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Start the new week right by keeping promises you have made. Meet interesting new personalities who can be of help to you now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) One of a different background can assist you greatly in a career matter. Be sure to show your appreciation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find better ways and means of handling your regular responsibilities and get better results. Use utmost care in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over daily dealings with associates and come to a better understanding. Strive for happiness and harmony at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Cooperate more with coworkers and get excellent results. You can now come to an agreement with one who has opposed you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Work on those creative ideas that come to you at this time. Make sure that your reputation is above reproach.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take time to entertain at home and express happiness there. Take no chances with your health. Use moderation in all things.
