OKLAHOMA PHYSICIAN BURNS TO DEATH IN CAR

Bitter Campaign Expected To Bring Out 320,000 Votes In Okla. Primary

'ALFALFA BILL' AND BUTTRAM WAIT DECISION

Vituperative Assaults End With Sooner Demos At Fever Heat

HOT PERSONAL FIGHT

Gubernatorial Foes Harp On Table Manners And 'The Interests'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 11. (AP)—Oklahoma Democrats, who usually have their own way in the voting, emerged from a brief campaign of biting personal attacks tonight to ponder their choice at the run-off primary tomorrow of nominees for governor and United States senator.

Awaiting their gubernatorial decision were Frank Buttram, made rich before middle age by oil, who campaigned for a "sane" business administration and free text books for school children, and William Henry (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, stormy petrel of politics since Indian territory days, who says he would aid the drouth-ridden farmer by increasing the tax on the rich. Election officials believed 320,000 would vote.

Another oil millionaire, C. J. Wrightsman of Tulsa, senatorial candidate, opposes Thomas P. Gore, who, although sightless, sat in the United States senate for 13 years from statehood.

Murray Favored

In the first primary, July 29, Murray, just returned from an unsuccessful attempt to colonize Bolivia with American farmers, led Buttram by 85,000 votes and since has gained the support of several defeated candidates. Gore had a small margin over the Tulsan.

The contest for the governor's nomination—and Oklahoma always has chosen Democrats for that post—has been by far the most vituperative. Buttram's followers attacked even their opponent's table manners and Murray retaliated with the assertion that he was "common" and that he ate like "common folks." The Oklahoma City oil man was called a "tool of the interests" and a "millionaire tax dodger" by Murray men, and his proponents countered with a charge that Murray was dominated by asphalt interests and the oil trust.

Picture of Poverty

A picture of closed factories and unemployment was painted by the Buttram supporters if Murray's gross income tax proposal goes into effect and the foes of the moustached constitutional author pointed suggestingly to impeachment and ouster of Henry S. Johnston and J. C. (Jack) Walton, the last two chief executives elected. They challenged Murray's eligibility to

Six Persons, Three Of Them Women, Questioned In Fort Worth Blast

FORT WORTH, Aug. 11. (UP)—Six persons were questioned by officials here tonight in connection with the bombing of the Stockyards National bank here Saturday.

The six—three men and three women—were taken into custody late today. It was believed that one of them may have awaited N. M. Martin the bomber, in an automobile outside, then fled after the mechanic hurled the vial of nitroglycerin which wrecked the bank and killed the bomber and Fred L. Pelton, vice president of the bank.

Police said tonight one of the women is alleged to have said that she demanded $10,000 from Martin, threatening to expose certain actions to his wife if he did not.

It was learned that one of the men was with Martin Friday night when the dynamite, used in the bank blast was boiled down to nitro-glycerin.

Four persons, injured in the explosion, were recovering tonight and the bank was conducting business as usual. Only fresh paint and plaster served to remind of the tragedy that took place in the building two days ago. Clyde Benson, policeman, was deafened by the blast but physicians expressed the belief that he would recover his hearing. L. W. Marshall, assistant cashier of the bank, Tol Johnson, night county jailer and Clifton Magers, 8, were cut and bruised by flying glass, but were not critically hurt.

Mrs. A. F. Martin, mother of the bomber has clung to her belief that her son was the tool of another when he entered the bank and demanded $10,000 from officials under threat of destroying the place.

Bombing Plane Bombards Kentucky Mining Center After Labor Disorders

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 11, (AP)—A series of disorders in the Webster county coal fields culminated today in the bombing of mine properties from an airplane. The mines were reopened July 1 after a three months shutdown because of independent strikes over wages and working conditions.

Nine bombs were dropped from an orange colored monoplane, believed to have carried two men, which flew over the town this morning as miners were going to work. Four bombs failed to explode. The five that did explode injured no one and damaged no property, but tore large holes in the ground.

Excitement Intense

Taken by surprise by the sudden air attack, Providence and Webster county were thrown into a state of intense excitement. Only one of the 24 or 30 guards employed by the mines in the country had presence of mind to fire at the plane. He shot twice but without effect. The bomber departed in the direction of Illinois, from whence it came.

All available deputy sheriffs patrolled the mine properties today, but there was little to be done unless the plane returned. All mines resumed operations as usual.

Webster county officials requested Governor Flem D. Sampson to send national guardsmen here on three occasions after homes had been dynamited and miners shot from ambush. The governor replied he felt local authorities could handle the situation.

Governor Silent

C. L. Walker, county attorney of Webster county, said Governor Sampson was not asked today to send troops, his previous refusals having discouraged officials of hopes of any help from that quarter. There was no comment forthcoming from the governor's office at Frankfort when he was informed of the bombing.

A mass meeting was called here tonight to raise a fund for a reward for the arrest of the occupants of the plane. Plans to resist another attack included issuance of extra ammunition to the regular mine guards and augmenting of the guards.

About 75 per cent of the miners returned to work when the mines reopened July 1, and the remaining 25 per cent have been attempting to persuade the workers to lay down their tools again. Nineteen striking miners are under indictment here for banding to intimidate working miners.

U. S. TAKES HAND IN INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Agencies of the federal government's service for regular civil aeronautics undertook today their first official attempt to penalize the use of an airplane for an interstate criminal purpose.

The reports conveyed to Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce, concerning an orange colored monoplane which dropped bombs on coal mines near Providence and Clay City, Ky., where a miners' strike has been in progress, presented the incident.

The assistant secretary said that the operators of the plane indulging in the Kentucky exploit violated several sections of the federal statutes regulating aeronautics. There were listed as transporting explosives without special license; deliberately dropping dangerous objects from aircraft; and, presumably tampering with their license labels.

AIRMAIL INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (US)—Air mail carried during July totaled 698,627 pounds, an increase of 12,967 pounds over July, 1929, it was announced today.

COUNTY CUTS BUDGET $18,000

Tax Rate Reset at 75 Cents By Commission

Wichita county will operate on a revenue of $488,906.90 for 1930, $18,000 less than the 1929 funds, according to compilations completed Monday after the county commissioners court had re-set the tax rate at 75 cents, the 1929 figure. The funds will accrue from a valuation of $59,840,930 as compared with $62,245,928 last year.

A reduction in the amount of oil stored here and the failure of additions to equal natural property deterioration were given as reasons for the lessened valuations. The county was also the gainer in 1929 by the fact that several back assessments were included in the totals for that year. The county will meet the reduced revenue with fresh economy in administration and expenditures, it was pointed out.

At the meeting Monday the commissioners assessed a $3.50 tax on drainage district No. 1. It was explained that the rate was set upon the recommendation of the district commissioners.

The Electra road tax was set at 20 cents involving a $20,000 revenue on $10,000,000 valuations within the district.

Wichita county will pay into the state $421,902.41 in 1930 in accordance with the recently set 69-cent rate. The state tax is divided into three funds, 27 cents for state revenue; 35 cents for schools, and 7 cents for Confederate pensions.

DALLAS HEARS JIM FERGUSON

'Ma's' Husband Invades First Big City

DALLAS, Aug. 11. (AP)—"Farmer Jim" Ferguson tonight invaded Dallas, one of the three largest cities in the state, which usually has voted against Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson.

Neither Ferguson nor his wife's opponent in the governor's race, Ross S. Sterling, had spoken before during the run-off campaign in any of the three most populous cities.

Barry Miller led the ticket in Dallas county in the first primary and Ferguson hoped to attract many of the votes which had gone to Miller. John Davis, chairman of the Miller speakers' bureau during the first campaign, presided. Thomas B. Love, who is supporting Sterling, was second in Dallas county in the initial primary and Sterling was third.

Former supporters of Love, Jim Young and Earle B. Mayfield were on the platform. Ferguson, who was not accompanied by Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, the candidate, was introduced by Alvin M. Owsley, former candidate for United States senator and one-time national commander of the American Legion. Ferguson supported Owsley in the first United States senate primary two years ago.

The rally was held at Fair Park. Ferguson spent part of his time detailing his wife's platform and the remainder flaying his political enemies. He was especially bitter against Sterling, Governor Moody and former Gov. W. P. Hobby, for all of whom he said he had performed favors. However, he did not overlook Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, Mark McGee of Fort Worth, Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt and Jesse Jones of Houston.

Lovers' Quarrel Blamed For Slaying of Girl

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 11. (AP)—A lovers' quarrel instead of bootleggers' vengeance was blamed officially tonight for the death of a young woman whose decomposed, partly clothed body was found on a lonely road near here Saturday.

Sheriff Will Knight announced deputies were searching for a man they believed was involved in a quarrel on the road last month. The sheriff abandoned the theory of his chief deputy, Charles Garibaldi, that bootleggers killed her because they believed she was an informer.

ROSS STERLING REPLIES TO JIM'S CHARGES

'Shameful Condition' of Road Affairs in 1926 Recalled Here

10,000 HEAR ADDRESS

Ferguson's Sale of Farm To Sterling Branded As Falsehood

Drawing graphically the battlelines on which he hopes to "bury the Fergusons" on Aug. 23, and matching every issue raised by James E. Ferguson in his speech here last Friday night, Ross S. Sterling of Houston opened his Northwest Texas campaign before approximately 10,000 persons beside the Memorial auditorium Monday night. Estimate on the attendance was made by C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent.

Refuting practically every allegation brought forth by his opponent last week relative to Mr. Sterling's private and business life in the past; reciting briefly but with great frankness the trend of his own life as pointing his avowed capacity for honesty; and speaking with ample directness in a voice matching his stalwart figure, Mr. Sterling delivered a forcible address which almost instantly erased the confusion and heckling which featured the earlier parts of Monday night's rally.

Bond Issue Muddled

Emphasis was laid by the Houston candidate upon the matter of a statewide highway bond issue, which he said had been discussed in so many various ways that the voters of the state probably could have retained no accurate knowledge of his own position in the matter.

"I have at no time attempted to force or persuade the adoption of any particular bond plan for any particular amount," he said. "I am convinced that the counties and road districts of our state should not be burdened with the financial task of building our highways, for you know as well as I that those paved roads are not local conveniences, but are made to bear the traffic of the entire state and nation.

"As a matter of illustration, let me call your attention to state highway No. 75, which connects Houston with Dallas—two of the largest cities in the state. In one of those counties through which it passes the tax for highway purposes is $1.50 per $100 of property valuation, in another $1.55, in another $1.60, in another $1.20, in another 95 cents, and about $1.50 in another. But how about Dallas and Harris county, at either end of that road, where the large cities are located with their millions of dollars worth of property? Dallas county has a rate of about 20 cents and Harris county 22 cents. You know that that highway means more to either of those cities than it does to all the counties in between.

State Sets School Aid at Rate Of $17.50 per Capita; Book Fund Cut

Purchase of District Bonds to Call for Close Study in Future, Board of Education Decides

AUSTIN, Aug. 11. (AP)—Purchase of high school district bonds by the state board of education hereafter will be preceded by "careful consideration" of the need for the bonds, the board indicated today.

It appeared the sense of the meeting that many districts plan high schools, involving large expenditures, when in fact children of the district might easily be served without the new building. The case in point was a district south of Brownwood, the bonds of which, totalling $18,000 were purchased with the understanding that it would be used for a grade school only.

Bonds Purchased

The proposed school had been classified as a high school although the spokesman for the district said it was planned to make a grade school of it. At the morning meeting the board waived its right to purchase the bonds; but reconsidering this action this afternoon, the purchase was made with the restriction.

The per capita rate for schools was set at $17.50, the board planning to conserve its funds and make the payments by cutting the free text book appropriation from $2,500,000 to $1,750,000.

Legislative recommendations will be taken up at the September meeting, with the high spot of the meeting probably one to be prepared by Superintendent of schools S. M. N. Marrs and his assistant, L. W. Rogers, dealing with codification of the school laws. Need for this was stressed by several members, and it was suggested that Superintendent Marrs and Rogers make their suggestions as being more familiar with discrepancies than any other connected with the state school system.

The text book committee will meet here Oct. 6 to hear arguments of publishing houses on the merits of their respective books, and contracts will be awarded Oct. 13.

Mrs. Neva Watkins, the wife and mother was at work in a downtown restaurant at the time of the fire. The father was not employed.

Payne Pleads for Speedy Death As Case Gets Into Regular Channels

STINNETT, Texas, Aug. 11. (UP)—A. D. Payne, charged with the murder of his wife by placing a bomb in her car, pleaded with county officials tonight for a speedy trial, conviction and execution.

E. W. Thomerson, district attorney, who intimated earlier that a special grand jury would be called in Amarillo today to return an indictment in Payne's case, announced that the trial must take its course in the regular district court term which opens Aug. 22.

Thomerson, in company with Sheriff W. N. Thompson, visited Payne at his cell here late today and discussed means of expediting the trial. Payne has dictated a 26,000 word statement to officials in which he confessed planting the bomb in the family car, which killed his wife and critically injured their 11-year-old son, A. D. Jr. Payne said that financial difficulties and hopes of collecting an insurance policy he had taken on his wife's life led to plans to kill her.

It was learned that insurance officials were conferring here today and that the three children of Payne probably would share in the full amount of Mrs. Payne's insurance, which totaled $20,000.

Payne, former Amarillo attorney, who entered and later withdrew from the political race for district judge of this district this year, also said that he has insurance on his own life totaling $21,000 which he hopes that his children will receive.

Undertaker and City Physician Clash When Official Refuses Burial Permit

Backed by an opinion from Dr. W. A. Davis, head of the vital statistics bureau at Austin, Albert's Funeral home here Sunday conducted a burial in defiance of a ruling from Dr. H. D. Fillmore, city physician and registrar of vital statistics, according to allegations made in a complaint filed with L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, Monday. The complaint resulted in a warrant charging the undertaking company with failing to obtain a permit before a burial, a misdemeanor subject to a fine of from $5 to $100.

Mr. Albert explained Monday afternoon that he had taken charge of the body late Saturday, after office hours for both the attending physician and the city official. On Sunday, he continued, he tried in vain to locate the physician who treated the patient. Failing in that, the funeral director said he went to Dr. Fillmore with a request for a burial permit without a death certificate, agreeing to produce the certificate early Monday morning.

When Dr. Fillmore refused, Mr. Albert appealed to Dr. Davis by long distance telephone, he asserted, and was told that the city physician was authorized to issue the permit under those circumstances. The official here persisted in his refusal to grant the permit and the burial was held without the permit, the director declared.

After the complaints were issued Monday, Mr. Albert again talked to Dr. Davis in Austin and was a second time assured that Dr. Fillmore could have issued the permit, according to Mr. Albert's statement.

A similar complaint was filed Monday against Alex Weatherford, negro undertaker, charging that a negro child was buried here without a permit Sunday.

Hearings are expected in the county court-at-law Tuesday.

Bitter Campaign to Bring Out 320,000 Ballots

hold office because he was a resident of Bolivia—not Oklahoma—for the last three years and declared the Republicans, who have nominated Ira Hill, will take the eligibility question into court if Murray receives the nomination.

Proposing to "fire under-clerks" and live in the executive garage while renting the mansion, Murray dared his rivals to try ouster proceedings when, and if, he is governor. Later he amended the garage decision, saying he decided it was "too little to turn around in, even if it did cost Oklahoma $39,000."

Called Incompetent

Murray's Bolivian expedition also has been held up by his opponents as significant of the candidate's "incompetence." The Tishomingo man has answered that Buttram and Herbert Hoover were "successful business men, but Hoover is the worst failure as president the country has ever had."

The senatorial race has been only slightly less bitter. The winner must oppose Senator W. B. Pine, Republican and several independents including Walton, the ousted governor.

Democrats have 11 other statewide contests and the Republicans six. There are three Democratic congressional contests and in two districts—first and fifth—the party hopes to recoup from the Hoover landslide defeats.

In the first district: Wesley E. Disney, Tulsa, and Henry Craig Picher, will contest for the right to oppose the Republican incumbent, Charles O'Connor; in the fifth, F. B. Swank and Gomer Smith seek the Democratic nomination to meet Representative U. S. Stone, Republican. Representative M. C. Garben Republican, was nominated two weeks ago in the normally Republican eighth district. In November he will oppose either W. H. C. Taylor or H. B. King.

Radio pleas ended campaigns tonight for Buttram, Wrightsman and Gore. Murray went home to vote.

City Council Approves Golf Course Amendment

An amendment to the city ordinance allowing miniature golf courses to open at 6:30 a. m., instead of at 8:30 a. m., and the granting of a permit to O. R. Tautenhahn to operate his Derrick Golf course at 1206 Fillmore street featured the meeting of the city council at the Memorial auditorium Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The council also passed an ordinance amendment on the refunding waterworks bonds which consisted of raising the tax levy from 4.2 per cent on each hundred dollars to 7 per cent on each hundred dollars. This amendment became necessary when it was discovered that there had been a miscalculation in the original ordinance passed on Aug. 2.

Wednesday, Jackson and O'Brine will have exceeded the Hunter brothers' mark by one hour, as required under rules governing endurance flights.

STATE: "Not Damaged," with Lois Moran. Comedy, "Romance De Luxe," and Pathe sound news.

GEM: "Sunny Side Up," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. Screen song, "China Town, My Chinatown."

"Anybody's War" is one of those movies that, viewed in the right mood, is killingly funny, and which might bore the more sophisticated. But then, anyone that is sophisticated wouldn't pick out the Two Black Crows for entertainment and would probably never know what he missed.

Before the picture is fairly started, the audience is in such an expectant state that a single grunt from Amos or a twitch of the Heinz terrier's left ear can send everybody into convulsions. Told to one's family afterwards, it doesn't sound so funny, but during the picture one laughs regardless of comedy standards.

Nearly everybody joins in on the screams and wild applause which greet the heroic efforts of the negroes and their dog in No Man's Land. In a case like that, the audience reaction smoothes over whatever faults there may have been in the picture. The human being is so made that if persons on both sides of him yell and beat their hands together, he will also yell and beat his hands together. They did both, together with a little foot-stomping, at the Strand Monday.

The meeting of the American dog with the little brunet "undahslung" dachshund, his future war bride, is one of the most delicious bits of comedy yet presented in the movies. It has all the satirical quality of a New Yorker cartoon and yet is as human and natural as an Octavus Roy Cohen story.

"Anybody's War" is a good answer to a fervent prayer for "family pictures." If Junior doesn't fall off the seat and Grandma doesn't lose her false teeth in their hysterical response to the genius of two blacks and a little white dog, they shouldn not have come Monday afternoon.

DUNCAN BOY IN REFORM PRISON

Nine - Year - Old 'Firebug' Given Sentence

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Aug. 11. (UP)—Eldoris Taylor, 9 years old, who reported to incendiarism in his zeal to abolish chain stores, was sullen tonight as he started serving a 12-year sentence in the state reformatory.

"Why did they bring me to this place when they could keep me in the jail at Duncan just as well?" he asked. "I liked the grub there a whole lot better."

The red haired, freckle faced boy was sentenced today to the reformatory until he becomes 21 years old by County Judge J. W. Scott who heard the boy's confession to "trying to burn up the whole blamed town of Duncan."

"Why did you set those fires?" Judge Scott asked Eldoris. The boy was arrested late Saturday night while setting under a truck "enjoying" the spectacle of five fires. Previously he had set fire to his home. The most disastrous of the fires, the one that destroyed the Long Bell Lumber yard, caused a loss of $75,000.

"I just hate these chain stores," he replied. "They all say they don't pay their share of these taxes. Nobody likes them."

Two of the buildings fired were chain store buildings. Questioned further about the chain stores, he said the papers and the radios "don't like 'em so why not get rid of 'em."

HOOVER HEARS DROUTH FACTS

Series of Conferences Held By President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The seriousness of the drouth situation in certain areas was emphasized to President Hoover today by a long line of callers, including Chairman Payne of the American Red Cross, while the department of agriculture reported crop prospects had declined almost 7 per cent in July as a result of the protracted dry weather.

Meanwhile, the government proceeded with plans to relieve farmers in distress and to insure against possible spread of disease.

Railroad executives continued to offer aid through reduced freight rates and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the association of railway executives, called at the White House to determine the president's plans.

Secretary Hyde conferred with Mr. Hoover late in the day and went over details for the conference of governors of 12 states here Thursday. Replies of acceptance from all 12 governors to the president's invitation were on hand, that of Governor Weaver of Nebraska being the last to arrive. Governor Weaver had said he might not come, but informed the president today he would be present.

Samuel H. Thompson, president of the American farm bureau federation, C. E. Huff, president of the National Farmer's union and Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, were called by the president to a White House conference Friday to discuss the situation. Chairman Legge of the farm board also will be present.

MOODY SENDS WIRE TO PRESIDENT

AUSTIN, Aug. 11. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody today instructed his office here to wire President Hoover asking that drouth conditions in Texas be considered in the event the federal government decides to act on behalf of farmers in drouth stricken areas.

The telegram follows:

"I note from press accounts that you are giving attention to the serious effect of the drouth on livestock and farming in certain sections of the country. Permit me to suggest that drouth conditions in Texas are such as to seriously injure our farming and livestock interests and to ask that in your conference you take into consideration these conditions in Texas and determine what, if anything, the United States government can do in the premises.

"If you are inclined to include Texas among those states whose conditions you are studying, I shall be glad to assemble the necessary data regarding the situation in this state and communicate it to you by wire or otherwise."

U. S. Ship Credited With Saving City

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (US)—The action of the U. S. S. Palos of firing upon bandits looting the city of Changsha, China, is credited with having saved the city from complete destruction, American Consul Richard P. Butrick advised the state department today. The Palos fired in self defense during the communist disorders on July 31. All foreign and Chinese business men agree that otherwise the bandits would have attacked and wiped out the island on which most of the foreign residences are located, Butrick reported.

Forest Fires Rage Through Drouth Area

ST. PAUL, Aug. 11. (UP)—Forest fires blazed tonight over thousands of acres in Minnesota, Wisconsin, the upper Michigan peninsula and in sections of Canada that have been left tinder dry by the drouth of the last six weeks.

Near Menominee, Mich., three fires raged unchecked, with 500 men and women fighting to protect their homes and property. The most serious of these was burning over a width of nine miles, west of Menominee. Another was at Greenwood, seven miles away and the third at Gourley, 35 miles away.

Tokyo Flight Halted By Vancouver Crack-Up

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 11. (UP)—Robert Wark and Eddie Brown's projected flight to Tokyo in four hops from Tacoma, Wash., came to grief today when they crashed their plane into a slough at the end of the Ladner field runway. Wark was injured slightly. Brown escaped unhurt.

Despite the bad luck the pilots announced they would continue their flight after their plane had been repaired. This will require several days.

NATIONS FILES $200,000 SUIT

Writers and Syndicate Named in Petition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, David Lawrence, writer, the Current News Features, Inc., and Hilmar Baukhage, all of Washington, today were named defendants in a $200,000 damage suit filed by Gus O. Nations of St. Louis in the District of Columbia supreme court.

The suit is based on statements contained in a publication Aug. 14, 1929, made in one of a series of articles by Mrs. Willebrandt of the "inside of prohibition." In an advance notice of the article it was said she would tell "how she had to fight the anti-Saloon league to remove a crooked but popular agent."

Nations said that as a result of the publication of the Willebrandt articles he had been brought into disrepute and injured in the performance of his duties as a director of the anti-Saloon league and as an attorney for the league in Missouri.

GOVERNMENT'S DUTY TO COIN MONEY

Editor The Record News: Law is law! All laws are founded on the ancient Mosaic laws and are for the moral benefit of the world. The ten commandments serve as a basis, but back of all this is found the laws of the planetary vices and the natural penalties of disobedience to their virtues.

Planetary laws are inviolable. No one is above planetary laws, and no one can avoid suffering the penalties for breaking them.

America has, for some time past, earned the reputation of being the home of easygoing people who evade, ignore, or actually break the laws of the land with impunity.

In fact, a high church dignitary, and legal light, have publicly stated that "no one is under any obligation to obey a bad law." But who is to be the judge of the law, as to its being good or bad? This borders on anarchy or the taking the law in one's own hands.

Law is law! After being enacted by congress it is passed upon by the supreme court of the United States which is the highest tribunal in the country and after this decision it must be obeyed by the people whether they like it or not, or they must suffer the penalties.

There are several laws which have been enacted, which are deliberately broken by some people, and these delinquents will, sooner or later, be obliged to suffer the penalties.

Among these laws are the constitutional function of congress to "coin money, regulate and establish the value thereof."

This law has been evaded for many years, and a substitute currency issued and granted to private persons and then borrowed back by the government causing the immense public debt, that bids fair to ruin the country unless steps are taken to restore the function of congress to "coin money."

There is hope that this function of congress will be restored in the near future and an era of justice to all the people will reign.

None but the strongest banks can long survive, and when banks cannot pay their depositors, not having funds enough on hand, and when the loans made on mortgages and other investments cannot be collected, nor anyone found to purchase foreclosed property, this country will be plunged into such a state congress will be obliged to function as called for in the constitution.

God works through nature; man works through artifice! It is the same with the function of congress to "coin money," the time is fast approaching when the average person will have no money, nor means to obtain money legally, then congress will have to act and issue its own money, and employ labor, and circulate money as it should be circulated.

It will be found that the federal reserve is not at all satisfactory, and this will lead up to the real function of congress to "coin money" and control the very life blood of humanity.

The idea of an international bank of the world, controlling the very sinews of government, and enriching the private owners, will be useless, and be the cause, later on, of taking over by the government.

Bills pertaining to this vital matter have been in the committee rooms, in congress, for a long time, but the time will come when a minority report will be acted upon by congress as a matter of dire necessity.

Yours truly,
DR. E. HAECKLER,
Archer City, Texas.

Commissioners Lose Mileage Under Census

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 11 (UP)—County commissioners of Greer county cannot receive mileage compensation for supervision and inspection of bridge and road work because the 1930 census places the county under the jurisdiction of the general state statute governing county commissioners' salary, attorney General J. Berry King ruled today.

Greer county's 1920 population was 15,836, placing it under a statute that allowed county commissioners $5 a day for road work with the provision that the salary cannot be paid for more than 150 days a year.

The 1930 census was 20,307, which placed it under the general statute that does not provide for such mileage pay.

Bottle With Message Explains 1902 Mystery

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Informed today that a bottle containing a message he wrote in 1902 had been found near Franz Joseph Land, Evelyn Briggs Baldwin said it proved the expedition returned because of low fuel supplies and not because of disputes between Norwegian and American members.

Baldwin, now a worker in the historical section of the navy department, was the leader of the party which established a base in Franz Joseph Land for an attempt to reach the North pole. The note, found in a bottle by a Soviet Arctic expedition, asked for fuel, sleds, dogs and food.

Olustee Area Feels Pinch of Drouth

Special to The Record News

OLUSTEE, Okla., Aug. 11.—Crop conditions around Olustee are growing serious, owing to the continued drouth. Some of the best farmers in this section say that if it does not rain by the middle of August the cotton will be ruined. The week ending Aug. 9, showed the greatest deterioration since the drouth began.

Much of the feed is already ruined and rain would not help it any. The same can be said of some of the young cotton.

Many wells and stock ponds have dried up and farmers are kept busy hauling water from town for the stock and home use.

First Impressions

today business demands healthy men and women—and more than ever it is the survival of the fittest...

POOR health is a distinct drawback to progress in business or social life. Underweight, lack of appetite, sluggishness, a dull mentality, nervousness and even skin disorders—boils and pimples—show their mark on the body, face and mind when the red-cells are deficient in number. (See enlarged blood picture above.) Moreover a low red-blood-cell condition makes the system an easy prey to disease. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous.

The way to correct this condition is to take S.S.S.—the tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Shaw's Drunken Father Mother More Important Vause's Six Years Talking and Listening

By EMILE GAUVREAU

"If you can't get rid of a family skeleton," writes Mr. George Bernard Shaw, "you can still make it dance." And he proceeds to do so by producing a frank account of the life of his drunken father. All of which will shock many good people. But those who think will know that Mr. Shaw's genius comes from his mother, who bore him and brought him up while trying to reform her drunken husband. That was character, and Shaw inherited it.

Shaw would not be nationally known today if he had a great father. The great mothers are seldom known but they produce the great sons. Shaw's talented mother, artistic, sensitive, transmitted her qualities into him. And Shaw's drunken father gave his artistic, sensitive son something to think about. A great sorrow often helps to create a great thinker. Even though Shaw's father couldn't hold his liquor, he was a means to an end. Dickens criticized his own father for the same reason and used him as a character in one of his great novels. Fathers do not matter much. A mother is a mother all the days of her life. A father is a father 'til he gets a new wife.

A few days ago you read of Judge Vause, a crooked jurist, who debauched the power of the bench to gratify his own ambitions and desires. The graft he collected was split with gentlemen higher up whose names will not come out. They have seen to that. The judge got six years in the penitentiary. Now comes a 28-year-old bellboy, who also wanted money. He held up a milkman and took from him six cents' worth of cigarets and five bottles of cream. He has been sentenced to 15 to 20 years in Sing Sing. The crooked judge who seduced justice will smile over that.

Floyd Gibbons, human talking machine on the radio, who can talk 200 words a minute, spends the Sabbath as a guest of President Hoover at his Rapidan river retreat. Mr. Gibbons, being a good reporter, talked little and listened a lot. Mr. Hoover, probably remembering his silent predecessor, may have thought that talking is easier than doing, promising easier than performing.

Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle Jr., pays $77,000 to the customs officers to bring $300,000 worth of diamonds and furs into the United States to display them at social functions. She will probably think it was worth it. Think this over when you are inclined to wonder why heads of starving families grow violent in Union Square.

Mr. John Henry Mears, ready to fly around the world to break the Graf Zeppelin record, unfortunately comes to grief at Harbor Grace. He will be disappointed, but what he says can be done is more important. He plans to have breakfast in America and dinner in Ireland. All this will come about when we have mastered the art of manufacturing real engines for airplanes.

The British air ministry will not permit the officers of the R-100 to float the big dirigible to the United States. Repairs will be made in Canada. The ministry contends that the sole object of the flight was to demonstrate the practicability of a flight between England and the Dominion. That is important to England, for hundreds of years mistress of the seas, and who must now find out how to be mistress of the air.

"I never noticed the weather fer I was busy the blessed day makin' watermelon preserves an' ackowledgin' candlesticks," said Mrs. Em Mastr' niece, who was married last month. The 158-year-old Turk feller's in this country to git a set o' teeth, is very enthusiastic about dentistry, but waits till he pays fer the teeth.

Judging from the fate of Mexican presidents, the Mexican congress is said to be considerably flattered now that one of its members has been assassinated.

The March of Progress

THE 48 states of our union seem very small sometimes, very closely related indeed. Just the other day Capt. Frank M. Hawks arose in the morning, ate breakfast, climbed into his airplane in New York City, and arrived in Los Angeles in time to see the sun set on the Pacific. Just a day's journey as the crow—or rather, the modern birdman—flies.

Once upon a time it would have taken torturous months to have made such a trip. Spring would have ended and summer and fall would have been gone before the caravans could have battled their way across the plains, through the mountains and into the western land.

We who fly so high and fast today forget the immensity of our nation. We also forget the years of weary toil which were necessary to make the wilderness burst into the colored flowers which are everywhere today. We somehow have the opinion that all we need to do is wave a wand and things will happen.

Other lands, where centuries have passed while life worked its way toward a faroff fulfillment, envy us our strength. America looks toward the future, raises her head to clear, bright skies, while they look down the long lanes of memory.

Europe is proud of things that she has done. She has made a painted story-book of her past which she will open for you, page by page, as you wander through her cities.

America has the long, long look ahead. And the upward look, for much of her recent progress concerns the air trails.

Once upon a time a wise man remarked that old men should dream dreams and young men should see visions. We are fulfilling the latter part of that prophecy.

It isn't so important whether Captain Hawks beats Colonel Lindbergh's record for transcontinental speed. It is the winged spirit of progress that makes America not satisfied to rest on past accomplishments, the winged courage which sends her out again and again, that counts.

When the first covered wagon went slowly through the green cathedral of the forests, eyes out for lurking animals and Indians, the coast to coast journey seemed like a far trip from which there could be no returning. But other wagons came. Then trains followed. Automobile roads were built. And now the ships sail the skies in 15 hours.

The more we try anything, the easier it becomes.

The lands of the eastern world have given up. The western world is just beginning.

Beautiful—And Not Dumb

ADD another tribute to the already glorious record of 17-year-old Dorothy Dell Goff of New Orleans, who was chosen "the world's most beautiful girl" at a recent Galveston beauty pageant: she's truthful.

For Dorothy—beautiful, but by no means dumb—candidly admits that washing dishes gives her a great big pain and cooking is something she despises. A more romantic and less straight-forward beauty contest winner would prate for hours over her alleged joys in puttering around the kitchen, as most of them have done in interviews.

It's the customary thing for newly-crowned feminine celebrities to pose as neat little home-makers, but when you come right down to it no girl likes to cook and wash dishes any better than a boy likes to carry out the furnace ashes or mow the lawn. Therefore, Dorothy is to be congratulated on having the courage to speak out.

Sure, there's a lot of romance in home making . . . but that doesn't include cooking in a hot kitchen . . . or mopping bathroom floors . . . or bathing a stack of dirty dishes almost as high as one's self after every meal.

If you don't believe it, just ask any housewife.

Farm Problems Not Political

FARM problems are not political. Arthur M. Hyde is secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover. He appeared before the Midwest Retail Merchants council, Kansas City, and made the emphatic declaration that farm relief laws are no substitute for the law of supply and demand.

Preaching the gospel of wheat acreage reduction, Secretary Hyde quoted figures to show that domestic production in the last seven years had outrun demand by an average of 43,000,000 bushels annually, piling up a surplus. He outlined the Hyde remedy for the present farm price situation:

By regulating production of farm products to the limits of market demand. By balancing production and therefore supply against and within probable demand. By limiting acreage planted to such as will, under normal conditions, produce all the foods and fibres needed, plus a reasonable carry-over.

Secretary Hyde is a lawyer and a farmer. He is the proprietor of a number of Missouri farms. His contention is that the economic law of supply and demand cannot be set aside by politicians or by the enactment of laws. Is he speaking for the Hoover administration?

New Executive of the Katy System

NOW the general managership of the Katy System in Texas is in the custody of Frank W. Grace. He is 50, he started life on a Texas farm; he left high school to join the railroad force as a messenger boy at 14. He made all the rungs—he was a freight and passenger brakeman, yard clerk, a yard master, a train master, a terminal train master, a division superintendent, and then general superintendent of the entire Katy system.

He has a faculty for remembering facts and faces; he is optimistic of the future of railroads, and is said to see near improvement in business conditions the country over. "All along the Katy line Grace is known as the man who knows more rail workers by their names and faces than does any other employe of the system," is the closing sentence of a tribute paid to the farm boy who grabbed a messenger job at 14 and at 50 is perched on top of the ladder of success.

Is there a place at the top? There is for the boy who is willing to play the game, to give it all his time and ability, to march with the advancing procession and to study and think as well as watch and play.

Complaint

The nights slip past and fade — a vague caress,
I walk alone as lads should never do;
All laughter dead, and in the quietness
Of moon-drenched streets my thoughts wing back to you.

Strange lips are murmuring phrases to you now,
So quickly said—so easily forgotten;
And I court bitterness and know somehow
That love is dead—and life is stale and rotten.

Yet love goes over—and in time to be
I will recall the fragrant nights we shared
Without the slightest hint of poignancy,
And wonder why I suffered—why I cared.

I'll laugh at all the tear-drops shed, I fear,
But meantime sleep comes rather slowly, dear.
—BROOKE EDISON.

"Always Belittlin' "

That Fred Allen person is going gay again telling gags about us. Allen says that a chorus girl fainted on Broadway in front of the Palace theater and had to walk three blocks before she could find a place to fall down.

A policeman flat-footed up to her. "Are you sick," he inquired. "Do you want an ambulance?"

"No," she gasped. "I'm a little weak, a little hungry. I'll be all right in a minute."

The cop reached for his hip pocket. "A little hungry, eh?" he said. "What ja have for breakfast, kid?"

"Nothing," was the devastating reply, "but a Lucky Strike and Winchell's column."

Heheheh

Fred, by the way, calls the vaudeville stage "The Illuminated Scaffold"—the place where actors die standing up. "And," he inquires, "does Mark's vaudeville tour entitle him to spend his old age in the Actor's Home—or didn't you see the act?"

Add Similes

Suggested for Mr. Wilstach's Simile Dictonary, Damon Runyon's; "Sealed tighter than a dying gunman's lips."

Repartee

Frisco's latest comeback is reported in this manner. The comedian was swapping wordage with a movie mogul, known best for his sarcasm.

"Oh," groaned the magnate at his star during a rehearsal, "lend me your derby and cigar and I'll double for you!"

"Yeh?" stuttered the fast-thinking Frisco, "Lend me your desk and your checkbook and I'll double for you!!!"

Funeral Services Friday

Ned Williams avers he actually eavesdropped it on the Great Street of Small Minds. A man and his wife were ankling along Broadway. The squaw chirped: "That was an attractive couple we just passed."

The husband absent-mindedly replied: "Was HE good-looking, too?"

Epigram

If Love should visit me again
In the most artful of disguise,
I am satisfied of this—
I would know him by your eyes.
—LOUISE B. HIRSH.

Scene

It happened in a stay up late spot the other yawning. A group of snobs seated at a ringside table were belittling others in the place. As a young and obviously-from-the-country lass danced by, a 'sassy member of the snobs audibly cracked: "Will you look at her dress? Isn't it a scream?"

"Maybe," maybe'd a Rounder, "your dresses wouldn't be so hot, either, if you didn't have soandso's husband buying them for you?"

The squelched Keptive choked. Then the shock of the merciless but truthful crack brought her back to her senses and she amazed the witnesses by going over to the girl she belittled and apologized before the mob.

Just for the Records

We were telling one of the tougher bandits that a certain novelist kept referring to a state's prison as "the can."

"Maybe I've been wrong all along," we said "I never call a jail the can.' I always thought 'the can' meant a police station, a lock-up, the cooler, a small town hoose-gow."

"That's right," replied the Lad Who Oughta Know, "you never should call Sing-Sing 'the can.' "

"What do you call it, then?" we queried. " 'The Big House?' "

"Naw," was the reply between smiles, "you call it 'The College.' "

In Case You Didn't Know

What might easily have been another air tragedy has just come to to light: An air mail pilot, bound for the West Coast a few nights ago, suddenly saw a huge black object loom up ahead of him. He thought it might be a mountain, though there were none in that vicinity, or possibly a fog bank, though the night was clear. He nosed his plane upward and zoomed across the top of it.

The black object was the dirigible Los Angeles, which is now equipped with lights all the way around.

Cynic

For those who say that love's a sham,
A vague mirage—a phantom hazy;
I really do not give a damn,
Because they're crazy!
For those who say that love's a gem
Of pure delight—this little verse
Was surely never meant for them—
Because they're worse!—J. P. S.

The Retort Swell

Ben Hecht, who with several other intellingentlemen is readying a new magazine, asked Bugs Baer, the best of the newspaper clowns: "How does a new editor get some circulation?"

To which Baer bounced: "Put a bunch of copies on the roof some windy day."

Speaking of Critics

Life, the mag which recently underwent a shakeup, seeks an able dramatic critic. Mr. Ralph Barton having resigned last week to join the New Yorker staff. Not as critic, however, Robert C. Benchley having that post. Mr. Barton decided that reviewing and drawing pictures was too strenuous in the torrid time of the year.

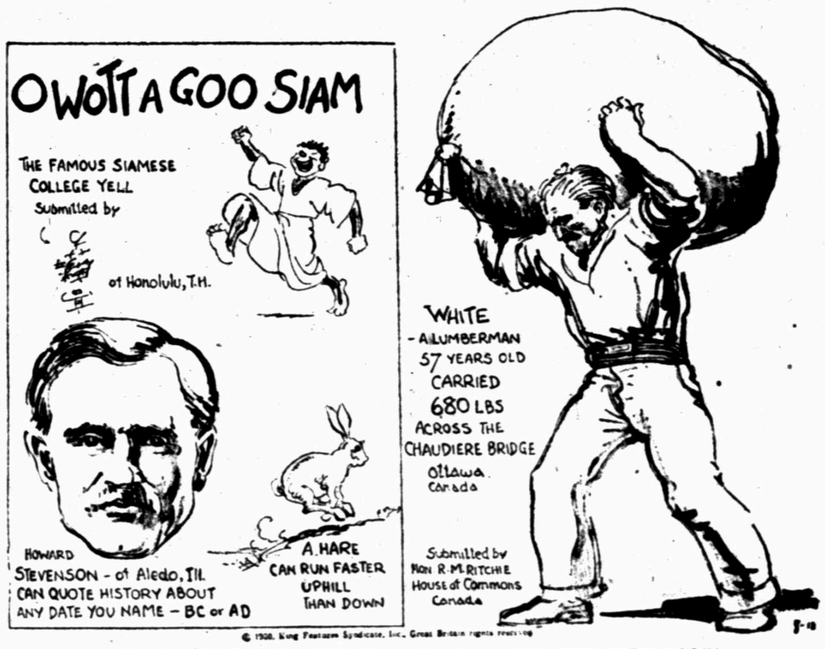

We recommend Miss Baird Leonard, of Life's own staff, to Life's new editor. She should prove a shrewd show commentator, as she is clever and intelligent and anyway, all along, she has been unbiased, unafraid and underpaid.

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith, who is trying to establish her identity, finds that Julie Drew is the author of the letter which sent Kay to San Francisco on a false trail. Kay is in love with Dane Talbot, Julie's fiance, and realizes that Julie's jealousy of her prompted the letter. Since the accident, Kay has discovered only two things—that she has musical ability and that she is afraid of "Larry."

"Happy, Kay?" he asked softly.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

It was Kay who first spied Dane and Julie dancing. She and Gordon had come into the night club and were following the head waiter to a table.

Nothing would do when Dane saw them, but that they sit at his table. Julie was visibly annoyed. Gordon, himself, was not so pleased. He had planned to have Kay to himself.

Kay and Dane were the only ones satisfied with the arrangement. Kay, because she hadn't seen Dane for several days and had missed him terribly. Her face was aglow as she looked around the cabaret. The place, which had seemed tawdry to her when she had come in, was resplendent now. Everything was a blur of gold and silver, soft, hazy to her eyes. The dance floor of glass, shining like a lake, the music, calling, calling. Even Julie seemed different, kinder, more beautiful. Julie, gowned in white chiffon shot with crystal beads, her arms tinkling with bracelets, Dane's ring shining on her finger.

Kay had not especially wanted to come, but Gordon had been so eager that she had consented.

Then she was dancing with Dane. He was holding her in his arms. Kay thought she had never been so happy before. How was it that you could love someone so much, so terribly much, and you were not loved in return? Her eyelashes were wet with tears as she danced on. She hoped Dane wouldn't see her cry—she couldn't help it.

"Happy?"

"Happy, Kay?" he asked softly. She thought for a moment that his arms tightened around her, but she wasn't sure.

She nodded, for she didn't trust herself to words. She didn't want to go back to the table, to Julie and Gordon. She wanted to stay on the floor forever, dancing with Dane. In his arms. . . .

Julie watched them closely as they neared the table. Indeed her eyes had never left them on the floor, for she had told Gordon she didn't feel like dancing, so they had talked instead.

"Nice dance?" she inquired when they sat down. "I've a beastly headache."

Dane was solicitous.

Julie turned her attention to Kay. "Dane and I have been having an awful time deciding on our wedding day—"

The girl shivered, and tried to smile. Her dance with Dane had boosted her to the skies, and now Julie's innocent remark brought her castles crashing to earth.

"Yes," Julie went on slowly, "the holidays will be coming, and that will be a bother, but we've decided on Dec. 29."

"Can't see why you want to be married in the holiday season," Gordon grumbled. He wished the music would start again so he could dance with Kay. Miserable sitting here when he wanted to dance with her, talk to her.

"Dane and I have decided it's silly to wait any longer, Gordon—and the holiday season will make no difference."

December 29th. Kay kept repeating the date to herself. That wasn't so far off. Dane would be Julie's husband, forever, and ever and ever. . . . The evening had started off so well, seeing Dane here, dancing with him. Then this—

I knew it all the time, Kay explained to herself over and over again, I should have been prepared.

It was nearing midnight, and new crowds were pouring into the Crystal Palace. Women in elaborate evening gowns, men in full dress. There was not an empty table. Julie nodded to some of the guests.

The orchestra started another tune, and Kay stepped out on the floor with Gordon. She heard not a word he said to her. She was thinking of Julie and Dane dancing somewhere on the crowded floor, too. Dane holding Julie as he had held her. Dane marrying Julie. December 29th, Julie, his wife.

It was hot and stuffy in the cabaret. Cigaret smoke curled up to the mirrored ceiling langorously, until the glass seemed blue, and frosted.

Dane and Julie passed, and Dane smiled. She watched them as they swung away back into the crowd. Julie so tall, Dane taller, Julie's dress white against the dark of Dane's tuxedo, the crystals flashing weirdly under the blue light that flooded the place.

Julie in white. She would be in white when they were married, she and Dane.

Kay Longs for Dane

Kay's plain taffeta seemed hateful to her now. Too simple, too girlish beside Julie's extreme sophistication. She did not know that the rose lent a flush to her skin, a brightness to her eyes, deepening the color in her lips. It clung closely to her slim body, and the long skirts made her appear taller than she really was.

She was glad when the dance was over, and Gordon led her back to the table. So loath to go back when she had been dancing with Dane, so eager to go now.

Gordon was on his feet pulling Julie's chair, when the waiter came and slipped a note on Kay's lap. She looked up at him dismayed.

"Gentleman told me to give you this," he whispered, then hurried off, without any more explanations.

The girl fingered the piece of paper in her lap. Torn from a notebook, she thought, folded once down the middle. She knew no one here. . . . She was about to open it when Dane spoke. "This dance with me Kay?"

She arose happily, forgetting the note, forgetting everything but Dane and her dance with him. The paper she crumpled in the palm of her hand. When she returned and sat down, she spread the paper out on her knee and opened it. A few words penned quickly. The lights were dim and she could not read them at first. Slowly they took shape.

Washington is the world's greatest storehouse of all kinds of knowledge. You can draw on it free of charge through our bureau there. Any question of fact you may ask will be answered promptly in a personal letter to you. Be careful to write clearly, give your full name and address, and enclose two-cent stamp for reply postage. Send your inquiry to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Where was Oscar De Priest, the Chicago congressman, born?—A. A.

A.—He was born in Florence, Ala., in 1871, but moved with his family to Kansas in 1878. He attended the public schools in Salina and the business department of the Salina normal school. He was a painter and decorator by trade. He went to Chicago to follow this trade as a very young man.

Q.—What is the secretion thrown off by shrimps which discolors the water?—F. A. S.

A.—The bureau of fisheries says that shrimps do not throw off a secretion which discolors the water, but that this fluid is discharged by the squids which frequently travel in schools of shrimps. This discharge is a thin black fluid which occurs in sacs in the bodies of all octopods, and is used as a protection to enable the animal to escape when being pursued.

Q.—Did the Indians communicate with each other at night by flaming arrows?—O. J.

A.—James Mooney gives the following regarding shooting a flaming arrow at night as a signal: "Methods of setting fire to an enemy's camp or fortified village by means of lighted combustibles attached to arrows were in general use down to a recent period, but the statement by one author that the Sioux had an elaborate system of signaling at night by means of fiery arrows requires confirmation."

Q.—Can a ship be held in the Sargasso sea by the tangle of weeds found there?—C. W. F.

A.—The widely credited possibility of ships becoming embedded in the weeds and being unable to escape was disproved by the expedition of the "Michael Sars" under the direction of Sir John Murray in 1910, which found the surface covered with weeds only in patches not continuously. The Beebe expedition later verified this statement.

Q.—Where are Smithfield hams produced, what are the hogs fed, and what type is best?—J. S. H.

A.—Smithfield hams are produced in Smithfield, Va. The lean type or bacon-type of hog is used for this purpose. Some of the companies use Virginia and North Carolina hogs while others ship them in from the West and cure them according to the Smithfield method or formula. The hogs are fed largely on peanuts as the flesh is softer than when the hogs are fed on grain.

Q.—In teaching children is it better to start blackboard lessons in script or printed letters?—R. A.

A.—The office of education says that a great many primary teachers are using the script letters and a great many are using the printed letters. The use of the printed letters followed the use of script but is not considered less preferable. No scientific investigation has been made on the use of either. Some primary school teachers use both.

Q.—Is it true that if a poisonous snake is injured, it will commit suicide by biting itself?—R. L. McR.

A.—The bureau of biological survey says that the biting which an injured snake sometimes inflicts upon itself is spasmodic, and should not be considered intentional and suicidal. The bureau says further that the poisonous snakes are known to have a certain resistance to their own poison, but that they could be poisoned by the venom of another snake.

Q.—What is meant by the macchi of Corsica?—C. S.

A.—The macchi is the dense tangle of arbutus, myrtle, thorn, laurel, broom, and other flowering shrubs, with which the mountain sides of Corsica are covered. The aromatic fragrance of it can be detected far out at sea. It was to this fragrance that Napoleon referred upon his deathbed, when longing for the island of his berth, he said that he would know it by the smell of its soil, even though he were blindfolded.

Q.—Can an octopus be kept for display purposes in the Middle West?—B. E. B.

A.—It is very difficult to transport live octopi even from place to place on the sea coast, and this difficulty becomes almost insurmountable to a spot far inland. Octopi must be kept in running sea water of equable temperature, and the feeding presents a difficult problem since octopi relish small fish and mollusks which should be alive. There is no way to prevent an octopus from discharging the black fluid which it employs as a protection, and the water becomes clear after such a discharge only when the discolored water has all run out.

'Soft Soap' Keeps Many Marriages Happy, Says Dix

"What's the matter with the X's," asked a woman the other day in speaking of some mutual friends. "I simply don't know two finer people than they are. When they got married I thought it was one of the matches that are made in heaven and that it would end in the fairy-book way by their living happily ever afterward.

"But instead of their marriage turning out a success, it is a total loss. Of course, they are too well bred to fight in public, but every now and then they deal each other a venomous, stealthy, stiletto stab that simply makes your blood run cold, and both of them say sneering, bitter things about matrimony. And they've got sour and disgruntled, which is no way for a young couple with good health and a good home and a nice baby to be."

"Oh," I replied, "there is nothing the matter with the X's except that both of them are dying to have somebody make a fuss over them and neither one of them has sense enough to do it. The domestic machinery in that household is creaking and groaning and about to break down and all it needs to grease it up and set the wheels to going smoothly and prevent a catastrophe is about half a pound of soft soap, liberally applied.

"John wants Mary to tell him how handsome and brave and strong he is and how proud she is to go out with him and to have her flaunt him in the other women's faces. He wants her to tell him that she thinks her guardian angel must have been working overtime when she got him for a husband. He wants her to make admiration over what a great business man he is and to wonder how he ever pulled off that deal or sold that great bill of goods.

"He wants her to quote his opinions as an oracle and to be his showman who puts him through his tricks before company. He wants her to brag a little about how generous and kind he is and to call attention to the pretty clothes he gives her and the presents he makes her. In short, he wants Mary's eyes to be a mirror in which he will be reflected, enlarged and glorified.

"And Mary won't do it. She takes John for granted and all that he is and all that he does is no more than was to be expected of him. Of course, she considers him attractive and good-looking and interesting. He might have sense enough to know that because otherwise she would not have married him. He was not her last chance. There were plenty of other men who wanted her. Of course, he works hard to support his family. So do most men. Of course, he provides well for her. That is his duty as a husband.

"Therefore, Mary doesn't palaver any over John and poor John goes hungering and thirsting for the flattery upon which she refuses to feed him and he asks himself what's the use of slaving his life away for a woman who never appreciates anything that he does for her and who, so far as he can tell, regards him only as a meal ticket. And matrimony seems a poor investment to him because he doesn't get out of it what he most wants.

"And it's the same way with Mary. She wants John to tell her every day of her life how much he loves her and that she is the only woman in the world to him. She wants him to tell her that she grows more beautiful as she grows older and at 30 she is far more fascinating than she was at 20 and that at 40 she is a vamp who can out-conjure any flapper.

"She wants him to notice what she has on and the way she does her hair. She wants him to like to doll her up and take her out and show her off to his friends. She wants him to show her little attentions, to bring her small gifts, to remember her tastes, to do things for her that indicate that he is always thinking of her and anxious for her happiness.

"She wants him to praise her thrift and her cooking and her good management and to tell her that he doesn't know how he could get along without her and that if he ever succeeds it will be because of her help and the inspiration she is to him.

"And John doesn't do it. What's the use in telling Mary that he admires her beyond all other women? Didn't he pick her out for a wife? Why should he tell her that he loves her? Isn't he as domestic as the house cat and doesn't he spend his life working to keep her safe and warm? What's the good of lugging home a box of candy or a bunch of violets or bothering to remember anniversaries when she has a charge account at all the best stores and could buy chocolates by the ton and flowers by the wagonload if she wanted them?

"Of course, she is a good wife and mother. Of course, she stood by him shoulder to shoulder and fought the hard battles without a whimper. Of course, he knows that she would stick to him if all the rest of the world fell away and, of course, in his secret heart, he does understand how fine she is and appreciates it.

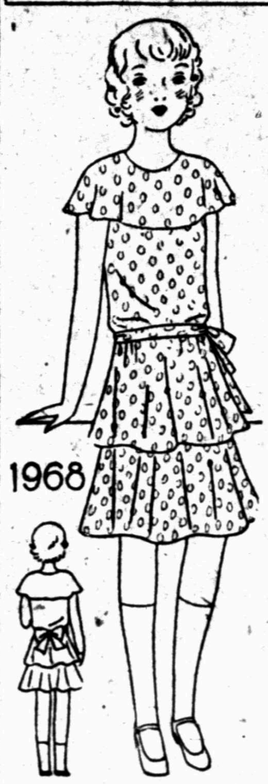

"But he never mentions it to Mary, and poor Mary eats her soul out in longing for the approbation that she never gets, because, so far as she can see, she is only a useful household convenience to her husband, something to make him comfortable and save his money.

"And Mary, who married thinking that she would feast on bonbons the remainder of her life, finds matrimony dust and ashes between her teeth because there is never a sweet word in it.

"And that's what the matter with the X's, and that's what's the matter with nine-tenths of the disgruntled husbands and wives. They want to have their wives and husbands make a fuss over them. That's what they married to get, and the poor, dumb, stupid husbands and wives won't do it, and so the marriage goes blooey.

"For the proof of this look about you. Did you ever see a wife who flattered and jollied her husband who ever lost him to a flapper, no matter how old and fat and homely she got? Did you ever see a wife out on a still hunt for an affinity and somebody who understood her who had a husband who treated her as if she was a lady love instead of being merely the children's mother?". —DOROTHY DIX.

Miss Kennelly Becomes Bride Of Albert Hund

Of interest to numerous friends of the couple is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mollie Kennelly, daughter of Mrs. Edward Kennelly, and Albert Hund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hund, which was solemnized at the Sacred Heart church Monday morning. The Rev. Father F. J. Schiessl read the ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. Father J. F. O'Beirne at 7:30 o'clock.

The church was decorated for the occasion with roses, gladioli and greenery. Prenuptial music included a solo "I Love You Truly" sung by Miss Frances Oechsner, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. W. L. Underwood who also played the processional and recessional.

The bride, who was given to be married by James L. Duffey, wore an imported model in eggshell chiffon with lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Lucille Hund, sister of the bridegroom was her maid of honor and wore a handsome gown of flesh-colored chiffon and carried a sheaf of gladioli. Mr. Hund had for his best man, E. J. Kennelly, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, Rev. Father Schiessl, celebrated the nuptial mass, during which Miss Oechsner and Mrs. M. M. Bates sang "The Rosary" and several hymns and prayers. Mrs. Underwood played accompaniments.

A lovely wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hund left for a wedding trip to San Antonio and other South Texas points.

Mrs. Hund wore for her going away gown, a black canton crepe model with eggshell trimmings, and accessories to match.

The bride was graduated from the Convent of Mercy at Dundalk, Ireland, and Mr. Hund finished school at St. Mary's university at San Antonio. The couple will be at home at 1605 Ninth street after their return from their wedding tour.

Mr. Hund is in the office of the Wichita Falls Foundry and Machine shops, and is a member of one of Wichita Falls' most prominent families. Mrs. Hund is a popular and attractive business woman and has only made her home here a few years, coming to this city with her mother from their native home in Ireland.

Fred E. Holman And Miss Joiner Wed

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Alma Lee Joiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Joiner, of this city, and Fred E. Holman of Taylor, Texas. The ceremony was read by the Rev. The bridal party was grouped before an improvised altar formed in a bay window, of ferns, palms, pink gladioli and purple zinnias. Miss Charlotte Joiner was maid of honor to her sister and wore a blue crepe ensemble embroidered in black and gold with beige accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride wore a blue crepe traveling suit with dusty rose trimmings and accessories to match and also carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Holman had for his best man, William Kutzschbach of Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Holman left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding tour after which they will be at home in Taylor.

Henry Leffman, M.D., Ph.D., D.D.S.,*
Noted Philadelphia Medical and Dental Authority says:
"Colgate's stands in a class by itself"

DR. HENRY LEFFMAN announces, after conducting a series of dramatic tests on eight of the leading tooth pastes, that "Colgate's stands in a class by itself." That is important news to the public. To the dental profession it is not news. For they have been recommending this dentifrice throughout the 30 years of its existence.

Dr. Leffman, recognized as a conservative member of his profession throughout the country, makes a conclusive statement which is reprinted here. Read every word of it.

You will find his opinion is substantiated by scientific authorities, such as Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City; Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University, and others who have been retained to render expert opinion.

All prove that Colgate's stands by itself as a cleansing agent.

Why not accept the judgment of these impartial scientists who know what a dentifrice should do?

Their experiments show how and why Colgate's cleans better than ordinary sluggish, pasty dentifrices. They demonstrate the penetrating power of Colgate's active bubbling foam which rushes down into the tiny crevices where food collects, and flushes away these dangerous decay-producing particles. Thus Colgate's cleans the hidden, hard-to-reach places, as well as the smooth outer surfaces.

This tremendous weight of scientific evidence is behind the claim that Colgate's cleans best. This claim is supported, also, by the Dental Profession, on whose recommendation more people use Colgate's than any other.

Dr. Leffman says:

"I have made surface tension determinations of eight samples of tooth pastes. One of these samples is Colgate's tooth paste. All samples were in original packages as furnished in the open market.

"It is seen that Colgate's exhibits the lowest surface tension.

"Colgate's preparation, therefore, gets into the crevices between the teeth, washing out decaying food, etc.

"The fact that dental authorities agree that a dentifrice, to be really effective, must thoroughly cleanse the teeth and gums, is evidenced by the statement of A. R. Schermerhorn, D. D. S., who states in 'The Dental Cosmos' for July, 1929 (page 690): 'A dentifrice has only one function to perform and that is to clean teeth safely and well.' Low surface tension is conducive to this, while high surface tension works against it.

"Colgate's stands in a class by itself, lowering the surface tension far more than any of the seven other samples. Four of the samples gave a surface tension not much below that of plain water, while the three other samples were intermediate."

Sincerely,
Henry Leffman, M.D., D.D.S.

That Body Of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M. D.

The Mind and Indigestion

The surest way for a patient with "indigestion" to retain his indigestion is to go to a different physician with each attack.

If he really wants to get well, he should stick to the same physician so that he can get a complete "picture of the condition."

Because after all indigestion may have very little to do with the stomach and yet the stomach is the first thing in the mind of the patient.

Dr. W. C. Alvarez of the Mayo clinic made a study of 500 cases of "indigestion" and found only 12 cases of actual organic disease of the stomach and only 167 had any recognizable disease anywhere in the digestive tract. Of these 77 were gall bladder cases, 42 ulcer of first part of intestine, 17 with appendicitis, and only 6 with ulcer of the stomach.

A number of symptoms resembling those of organic conditions; 60 looked like inflammation of gall bladder; 13 like ulcer of the stomach; and 8 like appendicitis, and 16 had abdominal pain for which no cause could be found.

Now why do I write about this?

Because indigestion is one of the commonest ailments known; next to the common cold it must be at the top of the list, and yet here is the report of a research physician who has spent many years studying the digestive tract, and he reports that only 12 in 500 cases were due to a real stomach condition, and only 167 of the 600 had any recognizable disease anywhere in the digestive tract.

What does this mean?

That the cause of indigestion in the great majority of cases will have to be sought elsewhere than in the digestive tract.

And as mentioned before the likely cause of most of these cases is due to the mind, to the emotions and their effects upon the digestive tract.

As you know fear, anger, anxiety, fatigue, pain, or injury will stop the movements of the stomach and intestine; in fact they may reverse the movements and cause vomiting.

Thus at the University of Toronto where it was my privilege to examine and observe the students for a number of years, about the end of February, during March and into April, the number of cases of "indigestion" accompanied by "blue funk" at the thought of the examination was 10 times as large as at any other part of the year.

The thought then is that the worried individual, one who is anxious or afraid of his health or his financial condition, has his digestion so affected by these emotions that he thinks he has some real organic ailment.

Remember Dr. Alvarez's advice, and let your own doctor have a real chance to look you over completely and that more than once.

attention. Come into the corridor for a chat, will you?"

No salutation, no signature. The writing was only a hurried scrawl, but the letters were plainly formed, and fairly legible when she finally made them out.

Dane and Julie had left for the dance floor when she looked around her. The waiter must be mistaken about the note. It could not belong to her. Hastily excusing herself to Gordon, she left the table and started for the door. The waiter was standing near the entrance.

"I'm afraid you've made a mistake," she explained, holding out the note to him. For it couldn't belong to her. She didn't know the handwriting, and besides she knew no one here, who would send a not like that.

"No, Miss, the gentleman told me expressly that it was you. In fact pointed you out. The girl in the rose taffeta dress, he said, with the blond hair. Then he pointed you out carefully, I didn't make a mistake. I was sure, Miss. He gave me a nice tip, too, so it must be right."

"A gentleman, you say?"

"Yes, he had a lady with him. I waited on them. They sat not many tables from you."

Lonliness.

Kay thanked him and moved on out of the door. She re-read the note. The waiter had been sure it was she who was meant. No name on the note. Nothing to identify the sender. The corridor, the note said. When she and Gordon had come in, they had come up in an elevator, which opened on a long corridor, furnished luxuriously, davenports side by side down the long aisle. This opened into a large room, off of which were the dressing rooms, and cloak concessions which led to the ballroom.

A man, the waiter had said. Kay was undecided as to whether to go alone. Her experiences with Jim Whalen came back to her mind. She went back into the cabaret, but the table was empty. Dane and Julie must still be dancing, and Gordon had disappeared.

The note was informal, as if the writer knew her. A chat in the corridor.

A few people passed her going away, while she stood in the doorway. Again she read the note, which was badly crumpled by this time. Not even her name on the outside.

The waiter had been given instructions. He was positive she was meant.

With a little sigh, she turned, and went through the cloak room, coming to the corridor. It was almost empty of people. The party that had passed her was just taking the elevator. Only three of the davenports were occupied. A man, holding his coat and hat, a woman with an ermine wrap on her shoulders sat on one. Two others held only men, one of them impatiently looking at his watch. All were in evening clothes.

Four people. One of them must have written the note. She felt lonely and strange as she stood there.

WHITE PITCHES SPUDDERS TO SECOND VICTORY OVER CUBS, 13-8

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Here's the latest dope on the contest to pick the fastest Spudder runner from the plate to first.

You remember that Jack Burns was in the lead last week with a mark of 3.5 seconds, set when he beat out a bunt. Levey, you remember, was second with a time of 3.9 seconds set when he hit one to the pitcher. Fitzgerald and Bettencourt were tied for third place with the time of 4.1 seconds.

But Levey and Burns, fighting it out for the honor of being called the fastest, are now thoroughly deadlocked in a tie for first place.

Last Friday, in the game with Beaumont, Levey, on his second time at bat, laid one down the third base line and equalled Burns' time on running out a bunt, which was 3.5 seconds. Then on Sunday, in the game with the Waco Cubs, Levey made the same time on a bunt on his last trip to the plate.

Meanwhile Burns, on his last time at bat in Sunday's game, hit the ball to second and blazed down to first to tie Levey's mark of 3.9 seconds, established last week in the Dallas series.

So here's the way it stands: Burns has tied Levey's time on a hit, and Levey has tied Burns' time on a bunt. And remember, Burns has the advantage over Levey because he's a left-handed hitter.

In short, this contest has simmered down to one of most sensational races the old Rambler has ever come across. Those two men have speed and plenty of it.

As for the other runners, Bettencourt has improved his standing by one second and is in undisputed possession of second place with a time of four seconds flat, established in Friday's Beaumont game when he beat out a bunt down the third base line. Fitzgerald has failed to better his mark of 4.1 seconds, set in last week's Dallas series, and is in third place.

The above figures come from Harry Van Emden's stop watch. Incidentally, Jingles Hayes of Burkburnett brought his stop watch along Sunday and contributed his figures. They were the same as Van Emden's in several instances, and where there were discrepancies they didn't average over two or three-tenths of a second. It was interesting to see the figures of the two timers, but it would hardly do to use first one man's figures and then another. Therefore, Van Emden's figures will be considered as official in this contest. However, if anyone else wishes to come down and time them, they are welcome.

Timing of the runners will continue this week as Burns and Levey strive to outdo each other. Both have hordes of followers who have picked them to win the contest, hoping thereby to receive the autographed baseball announced as the prize. And remember, the fan who first picked the winner will, in addition, get one of Slick Ansley's meals free for nothing.

Levey and Bettencourt were the only runners in Friday's game worth shucks. Levey, on his second time at bat, tied Burns' mark of 3.5 seconds in beating out a bunt, and Bettencourt, beating out a bunt on his third time at bat, set his best record of four seconds. Here's the table showing the time of runners Friday:

Player—	1	2	3	4	5
Levey, ss	...	3.5	...	...	4.6
Storti, 2b	5.2	...	4.8	4.5	...
Fitzgerald, cf	4.3	4.3	...	...	4.3

Bradbury, c	5.7	4.6	...	5.0	...
Euller, 3b	...	4.7	5.0	...	...
Caldwell, p	...	...	...	...	...

But if last Friday's game was rather dull, outside of Levey's and Bettencourt's efforts, it was all made up for Sunday.

Levey was the sensation of the day. He bunted down the third base line three times, and was safe at first every time. On his second trip to the plate he laid one down and beat it out in 3.8 seconds. On his second time up he flied out to center, so his time of 4.5 seconds didn't amount to much. On his third time up he doubled to left. The fourth time up he bunted and made it in 4.2 seconds, which was not so good. The last time, however, he bunted and made it in 3.5 seconds, thereby tying Burns' mark for the second time in two games.

Burns, on his second time up, grounded out, second to first, and made it in four seconds flat. On his fourth time up he did the same thing, but ran faster, making it in 3.9 seconds to tie Levey's mark.

Figures for the runners Sunday are given below:

Player—	1	2	3	4	5

LESTER'S SWAT STARTS RALLY

Foe Bounces Wiltse Out To Take Early Lead

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Big Lester White came to the rescue of Hal Wiltse after the latter had allowed four runs off seven hits in the first three innings of yesterday's game with the Cubs, and won his game, 13 to 8, despite erratic fielding support. The Cubs scored only three runs off White and two of them were unearned. With the score 7 to 6 in the last half of the eighth, slow-moving Lester came to the plate and drove a home run over the left field fence for the tying run and started a six run rally which salted the game away.

It was the second straight victory over the Cubs, and kept the Spudders in second place in the league standing, with Fort Worth still a game ahead by virtue of another victory over Beaumont.

Error Proves Costly

Mr. James "Where's-Tha-Life" Levey nearly threw Monday's game away. With one out and a man on first and third in the third inning, Piet grounded to Levey, who had a perfect double play in front of him, but the flash threw high and wide to Storti, allowing Speer to score from third. Molesworth, who had been Levey's logical victim at second, went to third on the error. Becker's single to right scored Molesworth and Piet after the side should have been retired.

Wiltse had an off day. Bischoff's single and doubles by Munson and Speer scored two in the first. In the third, Crouch's interference allowed Bischoff on first, Munson singled, and the Speer proceeded to double, scoring Bischoff and Munson. Rye's single to right which advanced Speer to third disposed of Wiltse and White came in.

White made Stuvegen ground out, Levey to Burns, and Molesworth hit to Levey, who tagged Rye out off second. This set the stage for the double play which would have retired the side had Levey not tossed the pill away.

Levey made another wild heave in the fourth, a high throw to Burns that was instrumental in filling the bases, but White handled the pinch well, retiring the side scoreless. In the fifth Tate scored on his single and singles by Bischoff and Munson. White held them hitless in the sixth and seventh, and two fast double plays in the eighth and ninth sent the Cubs to their hotel a beaten bunch.

Levey to Everybody

The double play in the eighth inning was of an unusual variety. With one out, Speer singled to center. Sanguinet, who had replaced Rye in left field, grounded to Levey who threw Speer out at second. Storti then threw the ball over Burns' head. Sanguinet started for second, but Crouch, the catcher, who was backing up Burns, recovered the ball and threw Sanguinet out at second, the double play reading Levey to Storti to Crouch to Storti.

Kloza and White were the Spudder distance sluggers. Kloza bounced one out of the park in the second inning for the first Spudder tally. Two more were scored in the second. After White had grounded out Levey walked. Storti doubled to right, Levey going to third. Fitzgerald sacrificed to left, scoring Levey. Kloza lined one over Becker, who knocked it down, the ball rolling towards second. Storti scored and Kloza was safe at first on the throw from second. Burns struck out.

Passes to Storti and Fitzgerald and sacrifices by Kloza and Burns scored another in the fifth.

Lagging behind the Cubs' four-run lead, they started swatting in the seventh and didn't stop until the riotous eighth was over. Storti doubled to center and scored on Fitzgerald's single to open the seventh. Kloza singled to center and Fitzgerald went to third. Papa Pratt jerked Becker and sent in Thurman, who pitched to only one man. He was Burns, who doubled to right, scoring Fitzgerald and Kloza. Thurman was thereupon relieved by Brancheau who made a nice job of stopping the rally, the next three going out in order.

The Big Show

But they mauled him in the eighth. Les White started it with his home run. Levey walked. Storti bunted to the pitcher who threw to second but Levey outran him and was safe at the keystone sack. Fitzgerald sacrificed, pitcher to second, who covered first, Levey and Storti advancing. Kloza grounded a hard one to right for a single, scoring Levey and Storti. Burns doubled to left, scoring Kloza. Bettencourt doubled to right, scoring Burns. Crouch tripled to right, scoring Bettencourt. Euller walked, but White hit into a double play, short to second to first.

The teams conclude the series today.

Babe Anderson Defeats Norwood To Win Junior Singles Championship

Ted Norwood, youthful tennis prodigy whose success in the boys' division matches of the municipal tournament have attracted notice the past few days, went down in defeat in the junior class Monday when Babe Anderson won the decision from him in the finals of the junior singles and paired with John Graham to defeat Norwood and his partner, Carlyle Norwood, in the junior doubles.

The score of the singles match was 6-0, 6-4, and the score for the doubles match was 6-2, 6-2.

Through error, it was announced in Monday morning's issue of The Record News that the Anderson-Graham match with the Norwoods was played Sunday, and that the former team had won the junior doubles championship. The announcement was made by Tom McCarty, of the recreation division of the park department, under the auspices of which the tournament is being held.

Play in the girls' division was completed Monday, McCarty announced, with Wynona Gregg's triumph over Louise van Emden in a hard fought match, 6-2, 7-5. Miss Van Emden forced Miss Gregg to come from behind in the second set. Miss Gregg was formerly high school and district champion.

Two matches remain to be played. Raymond McPhail and Clifton Haynes face a battle for the championship in men's singles, and Juanita Morey and Jewell Williams must fight it out for the women's singles title. The two matches probably will be played Tuesday, McCarty said.

Champions in the various divisions will represent Wichita Falls at the state tournament at Dallas Aug. 22 and 23.

Vic Frasier Leaves Steers for Chisox

DALLAS, Aug. 11. (AP)—Victor Frasier, young right-handed pitcher bought by the Chicago White Sox from Dallas of the Texas league at the end of last season, left tonight for Chicago.

The action apparently ended a long period of bickering between Frasier and the White Sox management during which the pitcher refused to report for duty. It came after a conference between Frasier and President Sol Dreyfuss of the Dallas club. Dreyfuss said he told Frasier he was "throwing away" a promising baseball career.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (AP)—After making new low records for the life of the active contracts during today's early trading on reports of rains in Alabama and Arkansas, cotton rallied partially on trade buying and covering. The new October contract declined to 12.15 during the morning but later rallied to 12.31 and closed at that figure compared with 12.36 last Saturday. The general market closed steady at net declines of 4 to 8 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 11 to 15 points in response to reports of rains or showers in the South over Sunday and the relatively easy showing of Liverpool.

A good part of the selling was attributed to a renewal of the liquidation promoted by the crop report of last Friday, and scattering pressure inspired by the somewhat better average of the weather news or the relatively easy Liverpool cables. Very little Southern selling was reported after the first hour, while the detailed weather reports showed rather less rain than anticipated by some of the early sellers here, and there were reports of trade buying orders below the market, which promoted covering after the break into new low ground.

Liverpool cables said there had been hedging with local and Bombay liquidation in that market on rain reports from the South. Exports today were 8,806, making 50,616 so far this season. Port receipts 12,619. U. S. port stocks, 1,577,351.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11. (AP)—The virtual breaking of the drouth in portions of the central belt, some rain in the West and prospects for more rain in that section coupled with lower cables were responsible today for a further decline in the cotton market.

Following an opening decline of 8 to 12 points the market declined during the morning until losses of 21 to 22 points from Saturday's close were shown. There were moderate rallies due to trade buying but they did not hold. The market gradually improved after mid-session owing to covering and some buying on the prospect for continued fair weather in West Texas. Prices recovered 17 to 18 points from the lows and the close was steady at net declines for the day of 6 to 7 points.

Liverpool came in 3 to 5 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 10 to 12 points. As New York opened still lower than the local market and weather advices were favorable to an early ending of the drouth, prices eased off further after the start until by the middle of the morning October traded down to 12.16 and December to 12.35, down 21 to 22 points below the previous close. From this low level there was a moderate rally on fair trade buying on the scale down.

Prices recovered during the period after mid-session on some disappointment at the rains in the West and made new highs at 12.33 for October and 12.53 for December and closed 2 to 4 points down at net declines for the day of 6 to 7 points.

Port receipts 17,271, for week 29,728, for season 101,442, last season 77,022. Exports 8,806, for week 10,036, for season 48,516, last season 50,320. Port stock 1,598,830, last year 593,494. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 25,142, last year 23,722. Spot sales in southern markets 12,967, last year 5,639.

Continued Short Covering Influences Slightly Higher Prices in Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (US)—Continued short covering was reflected in a slightly higher price level on the stock exchange today. Ignoring virtually all external developments, the stock market was adjusting itself after the sharp break of the last week-end. Large-scale bear operators whose success in breaking prices gave them the desired opportunity to cover were inclined to await further improvement in price before renewing their selling. In all parts of the list the relief from pressure was noticeable. The buying demand was not particularly large, as indicated by the volume of 1,744,000 shares. However, the market's firmness was established in the face of generally lower prices for the farm commodities, and advance in call money from 2 to 2½ per cent. The latter resulted from some withdrawals of funds by out-of-town banks.

It was evident from the opening that the bears would make another effort to dislodge additional stock on a large scale, but in this they were unsuccessful. When the covering movement began, it found offerings relatively light in some stocks but on an advance in prices sufficient stock was for sale to prevent any substantial net gains. Atchison, for example, rose almost seven points principally on a 1,000-share covering order by a bear operator, who placed it "at the market," supposedly to test the extent of overhanging offerings. The sharp run-up in the start instigated a general covering movement which advanced the entire list, but the net gains ranged about a point on the average.

It was remarked that the public utilities seemed to experience more difficulty in rallying than the other leading groups. A few of the utilities, however, reflected persistent demand, National Power and Light in particular being aggressively bought. The stock, which had lost all of its recent recovery in last week's break, was bought from the opening by interests aware of important developments pending which, it is expected, will increase earnings. A bearish advice on the food stocks, sent out over the week-end of a statistical service, resulted in sluggishness in this group. The stocks mentioned in the letter Borden, Corn Products Refining, General Foods, Loose-Wiles, National Biscuit, National Dairy products, and Commercial solvents. The care exercised in the letter can be appreciated by its inclusion of solvents as a food stock.

The market quite evidently was responding to short covering more than any other factor. The market ignored the steel tonnage figures showing a 53,000-ton increase in July; attempt to interpret this bullishly being met by the statement that the gain reflected more than anything else the extremely low operations last month Steel common closed up ½ point. Decline in Sears-Roebuck to a new low was a disturbing factor. Renewal of selling in Warner Bros., reputedly led by a former chief executive of a rival motion picture company, found the stock still susceptible and it broke to a new low.

While wheat sold off over two cents and other grains except corn were also lower, the government crop report, issued after the markets had closed, may prove a sensation. Disclosing as it does a decline of 600,000,000 bushels during July in the corn crop, the complete harvests may result in the lowest crop of this commodity since early in the 20th century. Veteran grain experts hesitate to forecast the outcome of the confused crop situation, particularly the nationwide drouth reached its severest stage since issuance of the government report, as of Aug. 1. The indicated wheat crop on that date was 821,000,000 bushels, compared with 807,000,000 bushels on July 1, and 806,000,000 bushels as of Aug. 1, last year. The hope is, of course, that the corn shortage will draw upon the surplies of wheat sufficient to restore stability to the entire farm situation, without impairing the general purchasing power of the entire agricultural community.

Another after-market development of importance was the stock exchange disclosure the ratio of loans to stock values reached a new low figure on Aug. 1, at 5.49 per cent, compared with 5.83 per cent a month ago, and 8.87 per cent in August last year. From the standpoint of loans, the stock market is virtually in impregnable position.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 11. (AP)—There was practically no trading on the Fort Worth cash grain market Monday with all interests awaiting the government crop estimate due at the close of the market. All prices quoted by traders were nominal and largely guess work with the prospect that dullness would continue if prices moved very far either way on the report.

Fair domestic demand for wheat was reported but exporters were holding off. Export bids were nominally 96½ to 97c for ordinary wheat delivered Texas gulf ports. Milling bids were indicated at around 98 to 98½c for ordinary No. 1 hard with 14 per cent protein at 99 to 99½c and 15 per cent at $1.00 to $1.00½.

Estimated receipts for the two-day period: Wheat, 175 cars; corns, 5; oats 4, and sorghums 5.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged nominally as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.12@1.13; No. 2 white $1.14@1.15, and No. 2 yellow $1.14@1.15.

Oats—No. 2 red 51@51½c.

Barley—No. 2 nominally, 73@75c, with market very dull.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.85@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.75@1.80.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn $1.15@1.16; No. 2 white corn $1.17@1.18; No. 2 yellow corn $1.16@1.17; No. 3 white oats 51@51½c, to which add one cent for delivery Texas group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (AP)—Sensationally pessimistic unofficial field advices turned corn values upward late today despite good rains in drouth territory and notwithstanding widespread relief from abnormal heat.

Wheat values sympathized to some extent with the renewal of corn price advances, but fell back again at the finish, dominated by general and correct belief that the government crop report due after the close would make a bearish exhibit as to wheat. Besides, export demand today for wheat from North America appeared to be at a standstill, and the United States visible supply total showed a fresh increase of 10,307,000 bushels.

Closing quotations on corn were firm ⅝@1⅛c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Wheat closed unsteady at 1⅝@2⅝c net loss, with oats ½@1c off, and provisions showing 5c@25c sag.

Corn traders focused their attention most of the time today on comprehensive summaries issued by leading private experts who have just returned here from first hand examination of crops, and who have covered the corn belt from end to end.

One of these experts furnished information about corn in Iowa and Northern Illinois which temporarily tended to give an advantage to the selling side of the market. He said that the crop both in Iowa and in Northern Illinois, two of the most important sources of the country's commercial supply, is still promising a yield of not far below normal, as a result of the stand of corn in the region referred to being heavier than elsewhere.

Holders of provisions showed themselves disposed to realize profits and to ignore an upturn in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat Sept. 89⅛c, 97⅛@97½; Dec. 95⅝@95½c, $103¼@1.03½; March 99⅞c, $1.08; May $1.02⅞, $1.11⅛; Corn Sept. 94⅞, $1.05¼@1.05⅜; Dec. 98⅛@98¼c, $1.01⅝@1.02; March 93c, $1.03½; May 96c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 11. (US)—A reduction of more than 250,000,000 bushels from the average of the private estimates on corn made the government report look highly bullish to traders after the close of today. The surprisingly small figure of 2,212,000,000 bushels for the crop assumed a rather sensational aspect in view of the fact that some of the most unfavorable weather was received after Aug. 1, the date on which the report was based.

Wheat traders found two surprises in the wheat figures. The first was the estimate of a total spring wheat crop 5,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. However, this was overshadowed by the production of winter wheat which was raised 39,000,000 bushels from the previous months figure and showed a crop 19,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago, instead of 30,000,000 bushels smaller.

Those friendly to the constructive side of wheat saw in the corn figures a more favorable outlook for the wheat market, although they did not appear to expect an immediate response in that grain owing to the rather bearish figures on wheat and the continued hedging pressure.

Extremely low condition of pastures was looked upon as another probable bullish factor in corn trading.

Announcement was made today that the Farmers National Grain corporation during July, the first month of the new crop year, had purchased 17,121,718 bushels of wheat, corn, oats and barley.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Cattle receipts around the 11-market circuit were fairly liberal with the estimate placed at 71,500, killing classes found a slow outlet at steady to unevenly lower prices. Choice quality light weight fed steers and yearlings held about steady; and packers at some markets showed moderate interest in common grass steers at steady values. Packers remained very bearish on beef steers with weight and maximum losses of 25 to 40 cents were reported. CROP REPORTS SHOW DECLINE

Lowest Corn Yield in 30 Years Forecast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. (AP)—Crop prospects in the United States were reported today by the department of agriculture to have declined nearly seven per cent during July as a result of drouth and hot weather.

The indicated production of all wheat was placed at 820,613,000 bushels, compared with 807,000,000 bushels last month and 806,000,000 bushels last year.

The preliminary estimate of winter wheat production was announced as 597,392,000 bushels, compared with 558,000,000 bushels indicated last month and 578,000,000 bushels produced last year. The quality of winter wheat is 93.4 per cent compared with 86.7 last year.

Durum wheat production is indicated at 48,290,000 bushels, compared with 57,000,000 bushels last month and 52,000,000 bushels last year.

The indicated production of all other spring wheat is placed at 174,932,000 bushels, compared with 193,000,000 bushels, indicated last month, and 176,000,000 bushels produced last year.

The indicated production of oats was announced as 1,316,369,000 bushels, compared with 1,329,000,000 bushels indicated last month and 1,234,000,000 bushels produced last year.

Oats remaining on farms Aug. 1 is estimated at 5.4 per cent of the 1929 crop, or about 66,965,000 bushels, compared with 88,816,000 bushels a year ago, and 73,472,000 bushels, the average stocks on Aug. 1 for the five years 1924-28.

Barley remaining on farms Aug. 1 is estimated at 4.1 per cent, of the 1929 crop, or about 12,599,000 bushels, as compared with 17,071,000 bushels a year ago, and 6,643,000 bushels, the average stocks on Aug. 1 for the five years, 1924-28.

The condition on Aug. 1 of the principal crops was announced as follows:

Corn, 62.0 per cent of a normal; durum wheat, 67.5; other spring wheat, 60.7; oats, 78.9; barley, 75.7; buckwheat, 71.7; flaxseed, 62.3; rice, 80.3; grain sorghums, 62.6; hay, tame), 69.5; hay, (wild), 69.9; pasture, 56.4; beans, 77.3; soy beans, 70.5; peanuts, 69.2; apples, 48.6; peaches, 46.1; pears, 63.1; grapes, 85.5; potatoes, 75.9; sweet potatoes, 65.1; tobacco, 64.4; sugar beets 85.2; broomcorn, 71.8; and hops, 73.0.

"A rather wide belt from the middle Atlantic states westward to the Mississippi valley," the crop reporting board said, "has had the driest growing season of record, while the shortage of rainfall for June and July in some south central states was far greater than for any previous year for which records are available. Temperatures have been abnormally high, with many previous heat records equalled or broken in the central and parts of the southern states.

"On the basis of crop conditions on the first of August, the crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture estimates that yields per acre will be 5.5 per cent below those secured last year, 9.1 per cent below average yields during the previous 10 years and the low yields secured in any of the last 20 years except 1921. Unlike 1921, however, the shortage is chiefly in feed crops.

"The corn crop is expected to be the smallest since 1901. The hay and grain sorghum crops which together with corn make up half of the total acreage of crops, seem likely to be the smallest crop in more than 10 years. Prospects for oats and barley have been further reduced by drouth in the Dakotas.

"The feed shortage is accentuated by pastures far poorer than in any previous summer months for 50 years or more, with many farmers already compelled to feed hay and new crops.

"The drouth has been felt farther North each week as the season progressed and is now affecting even New York and Michigan. It is hurting most late fruits and vegetables except where they are irrigated. It is daily reducing prospects for corn, flaxseed, peanuts, sweet potatoes, tobacco, eastern beans, Kansas rice, cotton west of Alabama and various other crops.

10,000 HEAR ROSS STERLING

Houston Man Romps On Jim Ferguson

There are 10, or perhaps 20, cars on that road from Houston or Dallas to every one from any of the intervening communities. Yet the farmer who lives maybe 20 miles off that highway, who seldom uses it, must pay $1.60 for each $100 of property he owns, while down in Houston, where Ross Sterling has his property, the tax is only 22 cents on that same valuation. Now it is that situation which I want to relieve."

Let Gasoline Tax Pay

Mr. Sterling said also that opponents have charged that he favors a bond issue which will tax property in order to create funds with which to retire such highway bonds. On that point, he declared that he has never considered supporting any highway bond movement other than one designed to create its retirement funds entirely from the gasoline tax, or its equivalent, so that "the highways are paid for by the traffic which wears them out, instead of by taxing citizens' homes." Thirty-three states of the union already have highway bond plans of that kind, Mr. Sterling said.

"This highway matter is mentioned not because it remains an issue," he continued, "but because it has been so misrepresented and beclouded by Jim Ferguson and his cohorts, who like to bring up every issue except the real ones. This campaign has resolved itself into a one-issue fight: that of responsible government against irresponsible government. You have been told before about the advantages of getting 'two governors for the price of one.' Consider for a moment what it cost this state in 1924 to 1926 to have that kind of a double-deal. The sane judgment of the people of Texas will not allow a reproduction of the shameful travesty which defaced this state in the eyes of the nation at that time. We are not here to curse Jim Ferguson, and the wife behind whose unknowing skirts he carries on his activities: we are here to bury him so deep on Aug. 23 that he will never scratch again."

Deploring the emphasis placed allegedly upon personalities since Mrs. Ferguson announced for the gubernatorial race, Mr. Sterling referred to the "costly mansion" maintained in Austin by the Fergusons.

"House of Pardons"

"I have never bothered myself," he said, "to count Jim's bathrooms to see whether he has 29 or more; but this I know, if he had 60 bathtubs, in this 'house of pardons,' it would not be enough to make him come clean. To remove the filth which that man has created would require a dipping vat, with an unusually strong solution. He knows that he cannot say in my presence the things which he invented to tell about me here last Friday night. He was 500 miles from me then, but he knows, and you know, that he can not face Ross Sterling and make the statements which he made here."

Referring to his connection with the oil business, the speaker declared that during the past six years he has had no connection whatever with any oil company, major or independent, although he does retain some royalty interests. He described briefly his leadership in the fight 15 years ago to obtain the common carrier bill for which independent oil producers were asking, and which was passed.

"You have been told that Mrs. Ferguson's first act, if elected, would be to turn out 2,000 convicts from our penitentiaries. Now you know that idea didn't originate with her—that's Jim's idea. Mrs. Ferguson should not be blamed. She has so little idea of the matter of being governor of the state that she would know little about what she might do. But the results would be as disastrous—for she would do what Jim said to do. Consider your own community—who will be turned back on you if a sweeping release of convicts should be effected?"

When he became a member of the state highway commission along with Cone Johnson and Judge W. R. Ely, in 1927, Mr. Sterling said they found affairs of that department in a deplorable condition. Machinery belonging to the state, he said, was scattered all over the state, in the hands of "contractors and individuals who had retained possession of it so long as they thought it belonged to them." Some units, he declared, were being leased back by the month to branches of the state highway department by contractors to whom they formerly had been loaned. Rangers had to be used to recover some of this machinery, Mr. Sterling added.

Department in Debt

"The department was $6,000,000 in debt because of gross mismanagement under the Ferguson administration," the speaker continued. "Many laborers for the department had not been paid for six months, and they began calling my wife soon after my appointment to see when we were going to pay off. We paid off. Today the Texas state highway department is prominent among similar organizations of the nation. Its accounting system is the equal of that of any large corporation in the country. Go into any of its offices, and you can find out almost instantly anything you want to know about any part of the system, and the finances covering its construction and maintenance."

Mr. Sterling's address opened with a brief review of his own life, in which he frankly called attention to factors in which he "believes there are lessons for any person." Following 20 years of farm labor, which had been interrupted by only nine months of country schooling, he suffered an injury which rendered him incapable of physical labor. Applying himself to the "three r's" for one year at home, he became assistant postmaster of a small postoffice which was called into being by a petition of his own circulation. One year later he bought a small store, and began the business career to which he devoted the rest of his life until 1925, when he retired as head of the Humble Oil company, an organization which he had founded.

Mr. Sterling was introduced by Charles I. Francis, a vice president of the local Sterling club, as "a man whom I believe to be one of the best qualified citizens of this state to occupy the honored post of governor. For the purpose of defending Mr. Sterling against tales told here last week by "the petticoat candidate," Mr. Francis declared his intention of answering "two or three of these charges."

Farm Deal Denied

Referring to Mr. Ferguson's statement that about 25 years ago he sold Mr. Sterling a farm "without a dollar down," Mr. Francis declared that the only business transaction between the two candidates involved a timber land deal in which Mr. Ferguson took possession of $24,000 which was in his bank in escrow pending his provision of title to the land. Title was never produced, Mr. Francis declared, but the money was never repaid. He branded as an outright falsehood an account of Mr. Sterling's having called at the governor's office when Mr. Ferguson was governor to ask aid in avoiding difficulties with the state banking commissioner. Referring to the failure of an insurance company recently in South Texas, in which Mr. Sterling recently had purchased a few shares of stock, Mr. Francis declared that the Houston candidate voluntarily agreed to reinsure every policyholder in other companies, and executed a $35,000 guarantee bond to assure completion of the deal.

"I believe it would be far better for us to burn our state building at Austin than to return the Fergusons to power." Mr. Francis declared.

Heckling which began at the opening of the meeting in one wing of the audience reached its peak during the address of Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, campaign manager for Clint C. Small during the first primary campaign. Senator Woodward expressed his regret that personalities had entered into the gubernatorial campaign.

"Throughout the first campaign," he said, "all other candidates conducted themselves as gentlemen. But whenever a Ferguson campaign is staged, it means that other candidates must defend themselves ("Hurrah for Ma!" loudly from a heckler). Any one who comes to a public meeting where issues are to be discussed with the intention of disturbing a speaker is not a gentleman, either."

Disturbance from hecklers reached its height following Senator Woodward's arraignment of the Ferguson administration of 1924-26 for its pardon-issuing activities. Replying to one heckler's outbursts for Mrs. Ferguson, Senator Woodward turned and challenged him:

Woodward Cracks Hecklers

"I'll bet she pardoned you, or one of your kinfolks."

The Ferguson supporter made his way at once to the stand, shouting his willingness to call the bet. Challenged then to "stand on his head and shake a dollar out of his pants with which to make a bet," he tossed from his pocket to the platform coins which were announced a moment later to total 13 cents. As the man retired to his place in the crowd, the speaker resumed:

"I may have been mistaken in guessing that you or one of your relatives already has been pardoned; it is apparent that you are expecting the pardon at a future date."

Senator Woodward launched at once into direct citation of cases in which pardons were said to have been granted by Mrs. Ferguson.

Later Ratliff was convicted of participating in the "Santa Claus" bank robbery at Cisco in which two officers were killed and several persons wounded. In an attempt to escape the death penalty, Ratliff pleaded insanity but died at the hands of mob before he was given a hearing.

"That's what happened after Mrs. Ferguson gave that man a pardon—do you endorse that?" Woodward demanded.

He cited also the case of murder in West Texas, in which the convicted man had pushed his wife into the river, seized her by the throat and held her under water until she drowned for the purpose of collecting the $1,000 of local mutual insurance on which they had paid premiums that day while in town. Following his confession, Senator Woodward said, the man was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He was pardoned two years later by Mrs. Ferguson, the speaker declared.

"Now I have nothing against Jim Ferguson personally," the speaker continued. "I'm like the farmer who said he had nothing against boll-weevils, but just didn't like the way they made their living."

Concluding his remarks upon the subject of Ferguson pardons, Senator Woodward said:

"If Mrs. Ferguson is elected to the office of governor, turning the reins of government over again to Jim Ferguson, I shall propose in the senate at its next session a measure repealing the pistol law, so that citizens of the state may carry guns with which to defend themselves against the criminals which will be released speedily."

Senator Woodward took cognizance of an advertisement which appeared in the Daily Times Monday afternoon over the name of the Ferguson organization here, citing a challenge issued to him to debate nightly with B. Y. Cummings, of this city the comparative honesty of Mr. Sterling and the Fergusons. He had been asked by the message referred to, he said, to share his time on the platform with Mr. Cummings for such a debate.

Challenge to Cummings

"We have not discussed the honesty of Mrs. Ferguson," he said. "We are in this campaign as Southern gentlemen, and we have nothing to say about the question of honesty as between Ross Sterling and Jim Ferguson. But, if Mr. Cummings is present, or if he has a messenger here, let him receive this word: while it is true that we have bigger fish to fry than to monkey with Yancey Cummings, and while we are after sharks rather than minnows, I extend him this challenge. If he will get Jim Ferguson to sign a written statement agreeing that the newspapers may publish what we say about him without fear of libel claims, I will meet him at any time or place. We will sign a statement—with Ross Sterling's signature—granting the newspapers full permission to publish anything he says about Mr. Sterling. But understand, we will not take the oral word of Jim Ferguson as to what he will do. He made a promise four years ago to Dan Moody as to what he would do if Mrs. Ferguson did not beat Dan by 50,000 votes in a given election, and then he crawfished out of it.

"Jim Ferguson has been libelling Ross Sterling all over this state, but hiding behind his wife's skirts, has declared that if the newspapers publish what we say about him they must pay for it. He assumes the privilege of a candidate to slander his opponent at will, but exercises the privilege of a private citizen to stop any attempt at the same tactics by his opponents. That is his type of honesty."

"The question of honesty has never entered into a gubernatorial campaign here except when Jim Ferguson has his foot in it," declared Judge John C. Kay in a brief talk which preceded his introduction of Senator Woodward. "I am sorry that a whole people must be haunted throughout a generation with these Fergusons. No one ever threw a brick at Ross Sterling until he became a candidate for governor. We want a man like him, who knows the difference between his own and the state's money, a man whom people of other states may respect instead of one who makes us the laughing stock of the nation." With the first show of heckling, Judge Kay was challenged with the shouted query:

"How did he get all his money?"

The speaker promptly replied, from Tennyson's poem, "In Memoriam:"

"He broke his birth's invidious bar,
And beat against the brow of circumstance,
And grasped the skirts of happy chance,
And grappled with his evil star."

Judge Kay was introduced by Judge R. E. Huff, president of the Sterling club. The speaking was broadcast through radio station KGKO.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 11. (AP)—James R. Adams, Fort Sam Houston soldier cook, was held in custody today in connection with the death of Mrs. Lillie Adams, his wife, whose body was found in a wrecked automobile in the Salado creek Saturday midnight. No charges will be filed until investigation determines whether Mrs. Adams was killed on the United States military reservation or on state property.

Several wounds, apparently inflicted by a heavy sharp instrument, were found on Mrs. Adams' head which was wrapped in a towel.

CLUB HEARS HEALTH HINTS

Physicians Give Talks At Kiwanis Luncheon

Both precept and practice in the maintenance of good health among residents of the city during the hot summer weather were included in the program given Monday noon before members of the Kiwanis club, under the direction of Dr. C. W. Stevenson.

Following a number of short talks by physicians belonging to the club on the subject of health preservation, a collection amounting to $12.17 was contributed to the Times and Record News milk and ice fund which is used for the benefit of those who are unable to supply those summer necessities for themselves.

Local water, and swimming pools, came in for general approbation in the talks given. Daily tests of Wichita Falls' water supply reveal a very low bacteria content, according to Doctor Stevenson, and assure safety in drinking it. Compliance with health regulations by local swimming pools is commendable, he added.

Ringworms were discussed by Dr. Austin F. Leach in a talk on skin diseases prevalent in the summer. They usually result from contact with mangy dogs or cats, he said, rather than from any germs acquired in swimming. Bathing pools were absolved from blame in connection with skin diseases by Doctor Leach.

Speaking on the eye, ear, nose, and throat, Dr. O. W. Wilson warned against swimmers' jumping feet first into the water, stating that such entry is much more apt to be injurious than a head-first dive.

Inoculation, good diet, and ample exercise were recommended in the order named by Dr. F. R. Collard as preventives of typhoid fever, which he termed the most dangerous summer disease.

W. E. Young led a short singsong with M. A. Ellis playing accompaniments. Plans for taking a local delegation to the district Kiwanis convention soon to be held at Lubbock were discussed by Tom Medders.

Bar Names Nicholson Special Wichita Judge

In the absence of the judges of the three district courts here, members of the Wichita County Bar association Monday met to name E. W. Nicholson, former county judge, to act as special magistrate during the vacation period.

Judge Nicholson will be available for the signing of special court papers and the handling of emergency litigation until the return of Judge W. W. Cook, of the 78th district court late in August. The attorneys in the county have agreed to postpone contested cases in every possible instance during the month of August.

Rev. B. H. Hobbs Dies At Home in Kansas

Word was received here Monday of the sudden death in Hutchinson, Kan., of Rev. B. H. Hobbs, father of Dwight Hobbs, cashier in Pond's laundry. Rev. Mr. Hobbs dropped dead in his Hutchinson home, telegraphed information said.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pond, relatives of Mr. Hobbs, and the son expect to leave here for Kansas early Tuesday morning.

In 25 months fliers of the New York-Atlanta-Miami air mail route covered 2,470,882 miles.

K. H. Hendricks Named Iowa Park Constable

The county commissioners court Monday appointed K. H. Hendricks as constable at Iowa Park to succeed J. P. Williams, resigned. Williams is under indictment on a charge of accepting a bribe and is to face trial here on Sept. 8. The indictment was returned after the operator of a raided Iowa Park home protested that he had paid for protection in the possession and sale of liquor. The court Monday took under advisement a proposal to install a private branch telephone exchange in the courthouse to replace the individual telephones now in use.

The first Pan-American aeronautical congress will be held in February, 1931, in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Was Sterling Afraid to Have the Question of His Honesty Discussed in His Presence at Wichita Falls by Senator Walter Woodward, Who Is Accompanying Him and Making His Speeches for Him, and B. Y. Cummings?

Apparently He Was for He Has Declined to Answer the Telegram Which We Sent Him, Which Is as Follows—

"Wichita Falls, Texas, August 9th, 1930.
"Sterling Headquarters, Houston, Texas.

"Since Mr. Sterling has been quoted by the press as having stated that honesty is the main issue in this campaign between himself and Mrs. Ferguson, will you agree that Senator Walter Woodward divide his time at Wichita Falls, and other West Texas points, with B. Y. Cummings for discussion of the question of honesty of the respective candidates. Please answer collect.

"(Signed) F. W. Fischer, Chairman Ferguson Campaign Northwest Texas."

Since Mr. Sterling preferred not to have this important question discussed in his presence while at Wichita Falls, then in order to let the people of this community know the facts regarding this man who seeks the governorship of this state, B. Y. Cummings will address the citizens at the Memorial auditorium grounds at 8:30 o'clock Tonight, August 12th. This meeting will be no namby-pamby or pink tea affair, as Mr. Sterling's past record, his present connections and the purpose of his candidacy will be laid bare and Mr. Cummings will not use gloves in doing so. Everybody interested in knowing the facts are invited to be present.
