Bank Officials Disclose $11,000 In Currency Missing

No Traces Of Missing Bank Clerk Found

Letter Intercepted At Store, Reveals $1,750 In Currency Under Ice Box; Was Said "Present" In Letter

Probe Conducted

Testimony To Investigators Is Given By Witnesses Who Last Saw Bookkeeper Here About Noon Sunday

COUPLED with announcements late Tuesday no definite traces had been uncovered to establish whereabouts of Burns Kittrell, missing bookkeeper of Lubbock National bank, came a statement of bank officials disclosing $11,000 in currency was missing from the institution.

Police disclosed another unusual development of the case:

Letter Reveals Cache

A cache under an ice box in a downtown store, containing $1,750, was found after a letter mailed from Amarillo on the stationery of a prominent hotel there had directed the person addressed to go down into the basement and look under the box.

The letter mentioned a "present" was there, unimpeachable sources said.

The bank accepted the money as part of that missing, said an official.

Handwriting Is "Familiar"

In $5 notes, the money was recovered after a person sorting mail in the store and assembling invoices had recognized the writing on the envelope to be "familiar." He telephoned police immediately.

Lubbock National bank will suffer no loss through removal of the money from its vault, Vice President John D. Mitchell said.

"The bank is fully protected by $50,000 banker's blanket bond insuring fidelity up to $50,000 of each officer and employe of the bank," Mitchell said.

Total Loss $11,000

He explained a survey of bank records, currency and securities shows the loss to total $11,000.

Negotiable bonds and about $10,000 in silver, near the money taken,

Amendment Is Voted Against

New York State Assembly's Vote Rejects Child Labor Law, 42 To 102; Party Lines Are Split In Action

(By The Associated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., March 9.—Ratification of the federal child labor amendment by President Roosevelt's home state was overwhelmingly rejected today by the assembly after bitter four-hour debate.

The final vote of 42 ayes and 102 noes split party lines wide open. 41 Democrats joining 61 Republicans in opposing the proposal despite repeated appeals by Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman and the president.

Thirty-three Democrats and nine Republicans cast affirmative ballots.

Senate Had Ratified

The Democratic-controlled senate ratified five weeks ago.

Governor Lehman expressed "deep disappointment" at the rejection.

It was the second time in as many years that the assembly rejected the proposal, voting against the measure when Democrats controlled the house in 1935.

Twenty-Eight States Have Ratified Amendment

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP)—Twenty-eight states have ratified the child labor amendment.

Since the beginning of the year, four legislatures — Nevada, New Mexico, Kentucky and Kansas—have approved the amendment. Three states — North Carolina,

Strike Deadlock Ties Up Industry

More Than 75,000 Workers In Chrysler And Hudson Plants Idle; Labor Maps Battle

(By The Associated Press)

THE strike deadlock which persisted Tuesday in the automobile industry left 75,000 idle and threatened further unemployment.

Pay increases benefitted workers in other fields, particularly the packing industry. Packers hiked wages for nearly 100,000 employes more than $22,000,000 a year to a record high level.

Strategy Is Mapped

Meanwhile, opposing labor chieftains mapped strategy in Washington conferences. Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, was chosen by John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization to lead the campaign to enroll 1,250,000 textile mill employes into the United Textile Workers.

House Argues Over More Liberal Pensions While Senate Faces Race Repeal

Nazis Decree Seizure Order For Property

Foreign Property In Germany Would Be Seized In Retaliation For Expropriation Of German-Owned Lands

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, March 9.—Seizure of foreign property in Germany in retaliation for expropriation of German-owned lands abroad was authorized by the German cabinet today.

Although a communique issued after the meeting gave no details, informed persons said they believed the measure was aimed at neighboring countries which might expropriate property owned by Germans close to the German border in compliance with defense laws.

Directed At France

(Presumably the law was directed particularly at France, which has authorized expropriation of land along the Franco-German frontier in cases where the property might be used for war purposes—secret gun emplacements, munitions dumps and the like.)

High German officials said the cabinet might consider tomorrow an answer to Great Britain's request for Germany's ideas on a new western European security agreement.

Although the agenda of subjects for cabinet consideration did not mention foreign affairs, observers saw significance in the fact that Joachim von Ribbentrop, ambassador to London, delayed his return to that city until tomorrow.

Joint Rules Move Is Made In Senate To Prevent Delay

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 9.—The house of representatives continued arguments over old age pension liberalization today as the senate surveyed a fresh tangle in efforts to repeal the horse race betting statute enacted four years ago.

Charges Governor Allred would not have been re-elected without a run-off had he not created an impression he favored liberal pensions rang in the lower chamber where efforts were renewed to loosen eligibility restrictions.

Seek Joint Rules

In the senate a resolution providing for permanent joint rules was introduced and a house committee favorably reported temporary joint rules previously adopted by the senate in attempts by proponents of race betting repeal to forestall any delay by opponents.

Only under the joint rules was there provision for giving house bills precedence in the senate two days in the week, and some thought further action on a race repeal bill slated to take place tomorrow might be delayed until the rules situation clarified.

Work On Emergency Bill

The senate worked on a $200,000 emergency appropriation measure for certain state educational institutions without final decision, declining to take out provision for a number of common school district buildings destroyed by fire.

Its nominations committee held a meeting after Governor Allred sent up names of two appointees to the state board of education and those of W. N. Stokes and C. Y. Welch to judgeships of the Amarillo court of

Suspect May Not Be Man Wanted

A victim in a February 12 armed robbery of a seaman's union at Galveston said Tuesday Bernhoff Bidenkap, charged with that offense, was not the person who had held him and six others at bay and taken $500 in money.

The man's statement, joined with documentary evidence held by the Salvation Army corps at Lubbock, supports Bidenkap's protestations he was not in Galveston on the date of the robbery. Capt. John G. Churchill, corps commander here, has three customers invoices showing the sailor signed for material at two Lubbock establishments on February 12 and 13 and had been here since about February 6. The invoices were produced at request of The Morning Avalanche, which had checked on Bidenkap's statement when the sailor was removed from Lubbock under custody Sunday.

A hearing at Galveston is scheduled for today, said the Associated Press.

Mother Of Mrs. E. L. Reed Is To Be Buried This Afternoon

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. today at Rix chapel for Mrs. Miranda I. Reed, 81, who died Tuesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Reed, 2910 Twenty first street.

Besides the local woman, survivors include: Mrs. Katherine Knox, Santa Ana, Calif.; a son, C. B. Reed, Douglas, Ga.; two sisters, Mrs. Martha Shipman, Sapulpa, Okla., and Mrs. Bettie Hart, Wichita, Kans.; ten grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Dr. E. L. Reed, professor of botany at Texas Technological college, was a son-in-law. Pallbearers, all Doctor Reed's colleagues on the teaching staff, will be: Doctors R. A. Studhalter, F. W. Sparks, L. T. Patton, C. C. Schmidt, Dean O. V. Adams, and J. H. Murdough.

Italian Divisions Are Reported Fighting In Spanish Conflict

MADRID, March 9. (AP)—Official sources late tonight reported government forces were resisting stubbornly two Italian divisions in fierce night-fighting south of Alaminos, less than 65 miles northeast of Madrid.

They asserted the divisions were commanded by an Italian general named Pocci.

Alaminos is south of the Quadalajara road, scene of a new insurgent offensive.

A. Roscoe Tolbert Of League Four Community Is Victim Of Accident Tuesday Night Near Ralls; 3 Not Hurt

Death Is Instant

Mrs. Tolbert And Two Sons Not Injured; Two Are Killed In Train-Car Crash Tuesday At Paducah

(Special To The Avalanche)

RALLS, March 9.—His heavy coach overturning, some said "two or three times," when en route early tonight to Ralls, A. Roscoe Tolbert, 41-year-old League Four farmer, instantly was killed.

His head was crushed.

Mrs. Tolbert, 31, and two sons of the couple, Willard, 11, and Lawayne, 4, were not injured.

Doctor First to Arrive

Dr. W. C. Snow of Ralls was the first person to the mishap scene, chancing to have been making a professional call. He was quoted as saying the League Four farmer apparently was blinded by lights of an approaching vehicle when within three miles of here on highway 207. His machine ran off the highway and onto soft road shoulders recently dragged after rains, and overturned after striking a culvert.

Doctor Snow transferred the four to Ralls almost immediately after the tragedy, which was at 8 o'clock.

Steering Rod Snapped

It earlier had been believed, witnesses said, a steering rod on the Tolbert machine had snapped before the mishap.

Name of the driver of the machine approaching that driven by Tolbert had not been learned immediately.

The body was taken to Will Marr Funeral home. Arrangements for funeral rites had not been announced. Tolbert was an affiliant of the Church of Christ.

Population Is 25,923 In City

Estimate Is Made On Growth Of Lubbock By City Directory's Total Names; Greater Lubbock Is 28,808

Population within city limits of Lubbock, based on comparative figures of the 1930 and 1937 city directories, is estimated at approximately 25,923.

The federal census of Lubbock, taken in 1930, shows the population to have been 20,520. In 1930 there were 11,724 names listed in the directory. Based on these figures, estimates are 1.8 persons to every person listed.

Same Ratio Is Used

In the latest directory 14,402 names are listed. With the same ratio of 1.8 persons to every one named, the population of Lubbock proper is estimated at 25,923.

Greater Lubbock in 1930 was estimated to have a population of 23,448 with two persons in the city to every one named in the directory. With this comparison the present list of 14,402 names in the directory indicates a population of 28,804 persons for greater Lubbock.

Mar Cantabrico Is Reported As Still Afloat And War Prize Of Insurgents

(By The Associated Press)

ARCAHON, France, March—Officers of two British destroyers said tonight that as late as this morning the Spanish government's munitions ship Mar Cantabrico was afloat and moving under her own power, the war prize of insurgent captors.

They confirmed earlier reports that the freighter, which carried rich shipments of war supplies from New York and Vera Cruz, Mexico, consigned to the Madrid regime, had not been sunk in the Bay of Biscay.

The accounts given by officers of the destroyers Echo and Eclipse, which sped out into the bay yesterday in the belief the Mar Cantabrico's distress signals came from a British liner, contradicted the report the commander of the Echo sent the London admirality last night.

He then said he had communicated with the insurgent cruiser Canarias, which reported she had sunk the Mar Cantabrico.

Amelia Earhart Is Testing "Flying Laboratory" For Take-Off On Globe Flight

Famous Woman Flier May Start Jaunt In Few Days

(By The Associated Press)

BURBANK, Calif. March 9. — One hundred twenty-eight pounds of woman completed preliminary preparations today to guide 16,000 pounds of metal through the air around the middle of the earth.

It was, of course, Amelia Earhart, the trans - ocean - flying former schoolmarm. Within a few days—soon as the weather looks right—she will take off from Oakland, Calif., in an $80,000 transport plane on a 27,000-mile globe-circling trip.

Makes Final Tests

Dressed in a checkered shirt like that of a West Texas cowboy and leather-belted slacks, the bare-headed young woman piloted her land plane "flying laboratory" in final tests today for the most spectacular, hazardous venture of her career.

She planned to leave tonight for Oakland, possibly halting at Bakersfield until morning, possibly going straight on to Oakland in a night flying test unless forg interfered.

Manning Navigator

Captain Harry Manning, merchant marine commander, will be her navigator on the 'round-the-world jaunt, longest any woman ever attempted.

At a base average of 150 miles an hour for the 27,000-mile trip, the actual flying time would total 180 hours. But Miss Earhart hopes to do much better than 150 miles an hour under good conditions.

Her longest ocean hops will come in the first 45 hours of her flying time. From Oakland to Honolulu, first stop, is 2381 miles, and Honolulu to Howland island, 1900 miles.

Court Decides Meters Valid

Right Of Oklahoma City To Put In Parking Meters On Its Streets Is Upheld Tuesday By State Supreme Court

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 9 — The right of Oklahoma City to exact nickles for downtown parking was upheld in state supreme court today and an official of a pioneer parking meter company saw a further spread of the mechanical collectors to other cities of the nation.

The Florida supreme court last December also upheld a parking meter ordinance, and 24 cities in eleven states now are using the de-

LUBBOCK'S CASE ON APPEAL

Validity of Lubbock's parking meters ordinance is before the Seventh court of civil appeals at Amarillo. Injunction restraining nickel parking here had been granted several months ago in proceedings before former Judge Homer L. Pharr of Seventy-second district court.

Undue delegation of police power was one of the contentions used to hammer at the meter system which had controlled briefly downtown parking.

Few Texas cases in principle could be cited for precedent, none of them bearing directly on appellate action on parking meters.

vices, said R. J. Benzel, executive vice president of the original parking meter company here.

"We believe the decision is important," he said, "because a large number of other cities in the nation are considering installing meters, and some were awaiting the outcome of this case."

He said other cities in Oklahoma, Florida, Texas, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Virginia California, Ohio and Missouri have installed the meters. His figures included those of competitive companies.

"The right of free use of the streets applies only to use for travel and not to park," wrote Justice Thurman Hurst of the Oklahoma supreme court, with six other justices concurring.

Dawson, N. M., Mother Faces Attempted Extortion Charge

RATON, N. M., March 9. (AP)—Mrs. Selma Lambert, about 40, a Dawson, N. M., mother was held today under $3,000 bond, charged with attempting extortion of $2,000 from a wealthy Cimarron rancher under threat of kidnaping his son.

Brownie Wilson, prominent and wealthy rancher, called in federal authorities when he received a typewritten letter threatening to kidnap his son Douglas, 7, unless $2,000 was paid.

Mrs. Lambert, arrested by Colvin after trailing her from a spot where a dummy package was left, waived preliminary hearing and pleaded not guilty.

Tribunal "Super Legislature," He Declares In Talk

President, In Outspoken Fashion, Charges Court "Improperly Set Itself Up" And Read Into Constitution "Words And Phrases Not There And Never Intended To Be There"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9—President Roosevelt called for swift enactment of his court reorganization bill tonight to "save the Constitution from the (Supreme) court and the court from itself."

In outspoken fashion, the chief executive asserted the high tribunal had "improperly set itself up" as a "super legislature," and had read into the Constitution "words and implications which are not there and which were never intended to be there."

At the same time, he disavowed any intent to "pack" the court with "spineless puppets who would disregard the law" and decide cases as he might wish them decided, and asserted the processes of constitutional amendment were too slow for the pressing problems of the day.

His address, a "fireside chat" delivered from the small oval room on the ground floor of the White House, was the second devoted to a fighting appeal for passage of his bill to permit the enlargement of the court unless justices over 70 retire.

Want Government Of Laws

"We must find a way to take an appeal from the Supreme court to the Constitution itself," he said. "We want a Supreme court which will do justice under the Constitution—not over it. In our courts we want a government of laws not of men.

"I want—as all Americans want—an independent judiciary as proposed by the framers of the Constitution. That means a Supreme court that will enforce the Constitution as written—that will refuse to amend the Constitution by the arbitrary exercise of judicial power—amendment by judicial say-so. It does not mean a judiciary so independent that it can deny the existence of facts universally recognized."

Answers Three Criticisms

A major section of the address was devoted to answering the three most-frequently heard criticisms of his proposal—that it is an effort to "pack" the court, that it would create a precedent which a future president with dictatorial ambitions could turn to his advantage and that the solution of the problem lies rather in a constitutional amendment.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Mr. President, your speech was beautiful, but:

Why did you support a Republican of more than 80 years old for United States senator from Nebraska against a Democrat, if, in your opinion a man of more than 70 is unfit to serve on the Supreme court because of his advanced years?

Of the "packing" charge, the president said:

"If by that phrase the charge is made that I would appoint and the senate would confirm justices worthy to sit beside present members of the court who understand modern conditions—that I will appoint justices who will undertake to override the judgment of the congress on legislative policy—that I will appoint justices who will act as justices and not as legislators—if the appointment of such justices can be called 'packing the courts', then I say that I and with me the vast majority of the American people favor doing just that thing—now."

Democracy Will Have Failed

"Fundamentally, in the future, if the American people cannot trust the congress it elects to refrain from abuse of our constitutional usages, democracy will have failed far beyond the importance to it of any kind of precedent concerning the judiciary."

And of the amendment process:

"It would take months or years to get substantial agreement upon the type and language of an amendment. It would take months and years, thereafter, to get a two-third majority in favor of that amendment in both houses of congress. Then would come the long course of ratification by three-fourths of the states. No amendment which any powerful economic interests or the leaders of any powerful political party have had reason to oppose has ever been ratified within anything like a reasonable time.

Thirteen Can Block It

"And thirteen states which contain only five per cent of the voting population can block ratification even though the 35 states with 95 per cent of the population are for it."

Analyzing the opposition that has developed against his proposal, Mr. Roosevelt said it came from two groups, one which "fundamentally objects to social and economic legislation along modern lines"—and a second composed of individuals who "honestly believe the amendment policy is the best and who would be willing to support a reasonable amendment if they could agree on one."

Then, obviously addressing a group of congressional independents, typified by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) who have supported most New Deal measures but are opposing the court bill, the president said:

Look At Bed-Fellows

"To them, I say—we cannot rely on an amendment as the immediate or only answer to our present difficulties. When the time comes for action, you will find that many of those who pretend to support you will sabotage any constructive amendment which is proposed. Look at those strange bed-fellows of yours. When before have you found them really at your side in your fights for progress?

"And remember one thing more. Even if an amendment were passed, and even if in the years to come it were to be ratified, its meaning would depend upon the kind of justices who would be sitting on the supreme court bench. An amendment, like the rest of the Constitution, is what the justices say it is rather than what its framers or you might hope it is."

Will Not Infringe

He contended, too, that his proposal would "not infringe in the slightest upon the civil or religious liberties so dear to every American." He added:

"My record as governor and as president proves my devotion to those liberties. You who know me can have no fear that I would tolerate the destruction by any branch of government or any part of our heritage of freedom.

"The present attempt by those opposed to progress to play upon the fears of danger to personal liberty brings again to mind that crude and cruel strategy tried by the same opposition to frighten the workers of America in a pay-envelope propaganda against the Social Security law. The workers were not fooled by that propaganda then. The people of America will not be fooled by such propaganda now."

Finally, summing up, he said he favored action by legislation for three reasons:

"First, because I believe that it can be passed at this session of congress.

"Second, because it will provide a reinvigorated, liberal-minded judiciary necessary to furnish quicker and cheaper justice from bottom to top.

"Third, because it will provide a

Cotton Price Is Nearing 14 Cents

NEW ORLEANS, March. 9. (AP)—Fourteen cent-a-pound cotton loomed as a possibility for the South today. A brisk advance of $1 to $1.25 a bale on the futures market lifted the raw staple close to this level.

The average price of middling spot cotton at ten southern markets, officially considered the representative American price for the staple, was 13.96 cents a pound at the close today.

Futures were not far behind. The March option at New Orleans closed at 13.83 cents and the May option ended at 13.56 cents.

WOULDN'T WE ALL?

CANDIDATE for the police force was asked: "If you were by yourself in a police car and were pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car doing forty miles an hour along a lonely road, what would you do? "After a moment's study the applicant replied, with conviction: "Fifty!"

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: In answer to "What do you think?" I have made the same observations that were mentioned regarding the work of the efficient teachers. The freeing of them from the enslaving doldrums of parent-teacher association program work would be good work on the part of every P.-T. A. in this city.

Let's give the one hour, and one hour only to the speakers designated and to the business of the organization.

Thanks to you, and to the Dupre P.-T. A. president, for the article in last Saturday's column. Sincerely, A Patron.

Thank you for enough interest in the matter to write. We'd like to hear from other patrons and teachers, too, if they are concerned. From viewpoint of one who is on the sidelines, it appears the teachers and students have enough "programs" without preparing too many extra ones. Besides we believe the mamas like to show off once in a while. How about it?

THE CAMELLIA'S RETURN

FASHION story out of New York City Tuesday suggested that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped the pink camellia rise from politics to the Easter parade when she wore a sheaf of them to the Madison Square Garden rally just before the election last fall. The delicate flower is crowding the gardenia for popularity.

Mrs. Roosevelt may have set the trend, but don't you suppose Garbo's latest picture, "Camille," of the "Lady of the camellias" had something to do with the sudden rise of the flower from almost obscurity?

HINTS ON GARDENING

NOW comes the time of year when one needs advice concerning the spring garden. We'd like to help, but flowers won't bloom for us, nor will seeds turn out to be the plant pictured on the envelopes. Peter Henderson, outstanding horticulturist, has written general advice on garden gossip. We're going to let him have the floor for a few minutes. Go ahead Mr. Henderson:

"A sieve is a necessity in flower seed sowing. The soil should be sifted for soil boxes and it is best sifted over seeds when planted in the open ground.

"Order your seeds now. The quality of the seeds you get is exactly the same if ordered later on and the big advantage is that you will have then when needed.

"If you find any of your perennials have been lifted out of the ground by frost, they should be lifted out entirely and replanted.

"Make the care of your garden a part of the day's routine. A few moments each day will be sufficient.

"In transplanting seedlings, move the stronger plants first so as to give better opportunity for the weaker ones to come through. An old kitchen fork is an excellent tool for this purpose.

"Be sure and include petunias in your garden. They are one of the few nearly fool-proof plants blooming freely under almost any garden conditions.

"In planting shrubs and trees, do not get too large specimens. There is such a thing as getting too much for your money."

Gardens Studied By Club Members

Famous Gardens were studied at a meeting of the Athenaeum club Tuesday afternoon at the Hilton hotel. Members answered roll call with names of their favorite spring flowers.

The program leader, Mrs. W. H. Johnston, discussed extensively famous gardens in the United States and Europe, showing pictures. The program included two garden songs by Mrs. Lottie B. Hilton and recitation of four original garden poems, all of which have been published, by Mrs. E. L. Robertson. The poems were:

"Stored" (Texas Poets), "Summer Night in a Garden" (Texas Writers of Today), "Falling Petals" (Diadem of the Muse) and "Shrine" (The Circle).

Twenty-one women were present.

Tech To Name Ugliest Boy

Nominations For Choice To Be Made In Convocation This Morning; Election Set For Next Week

Candidates for the degree of "Bachelor of Ugliness" will be chosen at Texas Technological college at a convocation at 10 o'clock this morning in the gymnasium.

Students will nominate the men students they think the ugliest this morning and will elect one student a week from today.

Accepting the challenge of Texas Christian university and Hardin-Simmons university that Tech find an uglier boy than their candidates, the Toreador, Tech newspaper, will sponsor the voting.

Entertainment Planned

An evening's entertainment will be given for the ugliest boy and the most beautiful co-ed, said Jim Lindsey, editor of the Toreador. Plans have not been made definitely for the entertainment. Tech's most beautiful co-ed is expected to become known next week. Billy Rose, New York showman, is to choose the most beautiful girls from motion pictures which will be sent to him.

The "Bachelor of Ugliness" degree will be conferred in a convocation.

Nominations are to be made from the floor Wednesday morning and the voting a week later will be carried on by secret ballot.

Pictures of ugliest students in the various colleges will be submitted to someone who will select the winner.

No reflection will be intended upon the student chosen. Voting will be carried on in the same spirit in which it has been conducted on other campuses, Lindsey said.

Deadline On Tax Assessments Set

Deputies who will help complete tax assessing, deadline of which is April 30, have been appointed by assessors and collectors of the state and county, City of Lubbock, and Lubbock Independent School district.

Representatives from the offices of A. C. Jackson of the Lubbock school district and W. H. Carpenter of the state and county tax office have been in the field about two weeks. E. A. Shepard is scheduled to start today in making assessments for the City of Lubbock.

Deputy H. D. Stanley is making assessments for the school tax office.

Making assessments for the state and county are W. B. Shelton in the Idalou district, C. E. Reeder in other rural districts, and H. L. Willeford in Lubbock.

Carpenter advised payers of state taxes to render their property before May 1 whether a special assessor contacts them or not so they may benefit by the homestead tax law.

For conversation in his home, the ordinary man uses about 2500 words.

Motion pictures were made by W. G. McMillan of the 16 co-eds chosen by student vote as candidates for pages of the yearbook. Rose will choose the eight winners.

The pictures, in technicolor, were shown to the co-eds Monday and were shown to La Ventana staff members Tuesday in the engineering auditorium at the college.

Applause was given for McMillan's photography.

More Than 200 Reservations Made For Merchants' Program Here This Week

Reservations made for the style show, stage show, and merchants' dance to be conducted Friday night as part of the Wes-Tex New-Mex Wholesale Clothing market totaled 220 Tuesday, members of the committee in charge announced.

The 14th semi-annual market will be held Thursday through Sunday.

All Rooms Reserved

All rooms on the second, third, and fourth floors of the Lubbock hotel have been reserved for sample rooms by wholesale dealers of ladies' ready-to-wear, millinery, hosiery, men's clothing and general lines from important manufacturing centers of New York, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, California, Texas and New Mexico.

The third rehearsal of the 23 mannequins chosen to model merchandise of the wholesale dealers here was held Tuesday night. Rehearsals were held Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Assisting mannequins is Miss Marie Tyson, professional model, ballet dancer and make-up artist, originally of Dallas. She reported the models were improving rapidly and predicted the show would be "very much of a success."

Assist In Courses

She will assist in courses to be offered mannequins after the style show in tap, ballet and ballroom dancing, make-up and modeling.

Music will be furnished by Larrymore and his orchestra. J. H. Brock is directing the style show. A stage show with numbers to be presented between showings is under direction of Lewis Walker and Jack Fuller.

Mason Boy Is Show Winner

Victor Lehmberg Shows Grand Champion Calf At Amarillo; Hale County Club Boys Win Best Carload Of Lambs

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, March 9.—Victor Lehmberg of Mason county exhibited the grand champion calf at the Amarillo Fat Stock show today. The reserve champion was shown by Jack Keim of Tulia.

Edwind Dawson of Tulia received both grand champion and reserve champion awards in the lamb show.

G. C. Whatley of Groom received first award for the best group of five calves bred by one boy, and Lipscomb county club boys received first prize for the best county group of 15.

Top winners in the senior division of the calf show were Keim, Basil Naugle of Stratford, J. B. Waldrop of McLean and Harold Shanan of Lipscomb. Winners in the junior division were Lehmberg, Leland Lewis of Clarendon, Hubert Sherwin of Elk City, Okla., and Byron Campbell of Wildorado.

Exhibited Two Winners

Edwind Dawson exhibited both first and second place winners in the fat mutton lamb class. Lemoyne Cypert of McAdoo, Dickens county, placed third and Reid McLaughlin of McAdoo placed fourth. In the fine wool class Kenneth Mazurek of Amarillo placed first and fourth, Lemoyne Cypert second, Earl Van Meter, jr., of McAdoo third.

Hale county club boys received the award for the best carload of lambs.

Wednesday "Big" Day

Wednesday will be the "big" day of the show. The pig and lamb club auction sale will be held during the forenoon and in the afternoon the Panhandle Hereford Breeders' association will hold its twenty-first annual auction.

More than 500 4-H club boys will view the show and stage a downtown parade during the forenoon and attend theater parties in the afternoon. The parade will be led by Walter Britten of Groom, president of the Texas 4-H club council and the Groom 4-H club band.

Last Year's Price Is Doubled In Angelo Sale

SAN ANGELO, March 9. (AP)—Last year's price for the grand champion club lamb at the San Angelo Fat Stock show was doubled and the price for the grand champion baby beef was equaled at the auction this morning of prize winning entries of the 1937 show.

Dick Jacobs of Jacobs Bros., livestock, order buyers, Kansas City, Mo., paid the top price of the sale by outbidding all and sundry for the lamb, exhibited by Curtis Beck, Tom Green county youth. His bid was $2 per pound to net Beck $220. Jacobs then had ordered the lamb resold and the proceeds donated to the Community Chest here.

Calf Brings 50 Cents

"Jordan's Famous," grand champion calf of the show, exhibited by Clifford Jordan, Mason, sold to the St. Angelus Hotel here at 50 cents per pound.

The top price paid for a calf today was 55 cents for Houston Garrett's "Jack Johnson," an Aberdeen Angus calf, which sold to the First National bank, Mertzon. Garrett is a Mertzon vocational agricultural student.

During the two-hour sale 306 animals were sold.

In yesterday's Hereford auction sale Sol Mayer & Son, San Angelo, paid $525 for a bull consigned by Largent & Harkrider Brownwood. The bull average yesterday was $238.15 and the female average $166.66. Forty-nine bulls and six females were sold.

TRIAL IS SET

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 9. (AP)—Trial of James C. Douglas, charged with using the mails to defraud, has been set for March 25. He pleaded innocent when he was arraigned here in federal court. A grand jury indicted him last week in connection with the $25,000 swindle of Paul Sawyer, Holdredge, Neb., contractor.

Lorene Squire

HARPER, Kas. (AP)—Because she hit with a camera where she missed with a shotgun, Lorene Squire has become one of the nation's leading photographers of migratory waterfowl. Her beautiful prints of waterfowl on the wing, caught with a miniature camera, are displayed in photographic galleries and sought by magazine editors.

"I think if I had ever been able to hit anything with a gun that I would never have started trying to photograph wild ducks and geese and snipe, but I was probably the worst shot that ever crawled into a duck blind," she explains.

Her 10 years with a camera have taught her how to win the friendship of skittish waterfowl. There's nothing she would rather do than snap them in flight and repose.

"I go along very much like a measuring worm," she says, "with my chin almost to the ground, gathering up a natural camouflage of cockleburs as I go."

Flora Finch, Comedienne, Lo! These Many Years, Wants To Do Serious Lot

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 9. (AP) After all these years of being a comedienne, Flora Finch—remember her?—would like to do something big and serious.

To remember Miss Finch, you must go way back to the days of the old Vitagraph movies.

Recalls Early Incident

"My most vivid memory is of the time we were shooting scenes at Coney Island," Miss Finch reminisced today. "My red flannel petticoat dropped around my feet, whereupon the director, very gallantly, dashed over, picked it up and hid it under his coat.

"How long has it been since anyone wore one of those things?"

Miss Finch, of the famous Bunny-Finch comedies, is in the stock company of major studio, has been for a year. She can't keep away from film work.

Gets Occasional Bit

She gets an occasional bit, not enough to suit her, nor serious enough.

Miss Finch recalled the days when she was top comedienne at the old New York Vitagraph studio—working with John Bunny, Florence Lawrence, D. W. Griffith, Mary Pickford and Henry B. Walthall.

After five years with Vitagraph, Miss Finch returned to the musical comedy stage, then free-lanced for a time. She does not want to quit.

TO BUY SHOW

CROSBYTON, (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mauldin, Lubbock, have moved here to operate the Queen theater. It is owned by W. A. Mauldin, Lubbock theater owner. Later the new residents plan to buy the local show house.

Granny At 15

Child Is Married To 60-Year-Old

UMATILLA, Fla., March 9. (AP) Fifteen-year-old Dolly Butler Scates was happy today in the marriage which made her the grandmother of two girls, one older than herself.

She married 60-year-old Reddick Franklin Scates Saturday.

Marriage to Scates, a citrus grove tender, made her the stepmother of six of her husband's children by his first wife. They range in age from 35 to 13 and there are two granddaughters who are 13 and 17.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

CORPUS CHRISTI, March 9. (AP) Mrs. I. M. Alexander of Corpus Christi, state president of the American Association of University Women, will leave Friday for Savannah, Ga., where she will attend the national convention of the AAUW. Fifteen delegates from Fort Worth, Austin, Waco, Stephenville and Tyler will attend. The Texas breakfast will be held March 17 at Savannah.

Grange Master To Attend Session At Roosevelt School

Ralph Moore, state Grange master and member of the National Rural Electrification administration board, will attend a Grange meeting at Roosevelt Rural High school at the auditorium at 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

He will be accompanied by an electrical engineer of Fort Worth.

All patrons are urged to attend, said Roy M. Monk, vocational agriculture instructor of the school, who will direct program arrangements. Plans for building an electric line to the community will be discussed at the meeting.

W. C. Young, vocational agriculture teacher at Slaton, probably will attend, Monk said.

Harold W. Gaulrapp, national Grange deputy of Texas, has called a meeting of all Roosevelt Grange officers at 7:30 o'clock tonight for instructional purposes, said Monk.

INSURANCE INCREASES

GALVESTON, March 9. (AP)—An increase of $56,738,251 in insurance in force during the year 1936 as compared to 1935 was reported at the annual meeting of the American National Insurance company here today when W. L. Moody, jr., and other officers were elected. Insurance in force as of December 31, 1936, amounted to $611,066,983. One new director, W. L. Moody III, vice president, was announced.

Much Land In Area Prepared

Total Of 123,193 Acres In Thirteen Counties Of South Plains Surveyed Preparatory To Contouring, Terracing

A total of 123,193 acres of land in 13 South Plains counties had been surveyed, preparatory to contouring, terracing, and running irrigation ditches, at the close of the last pay period for youths employed on the 17th district National Youth administration project sponsored by county agricultural agents and the Texas A. & M. extension service, according to information from the district NYA office.

The figures are complete through March 3. During the last pay period of two weeks 19,032 acres were surveyed by the NYA youths under supervision and construction of county agents and their assistants. Fifty-eight boys assisted in surveying in that period. Land on 120 farms was surveyed.

760 Farms Affected

Since the project began in December, 137 youths have assisted in running terrace, contour and irrigation lines on 760 farms.

Cost of surveys, exclusive of NYA supervision, amounts to less than 5 cents per acre. Including all supervision, by both county agents, assistants, and NYA officials, the unit cost is less than 5.2 cents an acre.

Of the thirteen counties in the district operating the soil conservation project, Lubbock leads in acreage with 23,595. Lamb county is second with 19,758, Hockley third with 17,810 and Hale fourth with 16,428.

Counties and acres are as follows: Bailey 1,295, Briscoe 6,639, Cochran 6,693, Crosby 7,682, Dickens 3,505, Floyd 6,581, Hale 16,428, Hall 3,895, Hockley 17,810, Lamb 19,758, Lubbock 23,595, Motley 1,880, and Swisher 7,432.

Wage Increases Announced By Two Packing Firms Tuesday

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—Wage increases of nine cents an hour for 92,000 employes in the nation's meat packing industry were announced today by the "Big Four" packing companies.

It was estimated the pay boosts, the second within five months and the fifth since 1932, would fatten the workers pay envelopes by $22,000,000 a year.

U. S. Explorer Is Back Safely After Being Lost Month

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, March 9. (AP) — Lost for nearly a month when his porters deserted him as an "evil spirit," J. G. Le Van, United States explorer and psychologist, returned today from a 3,000-mile trip through jungle and grassland.

His horse saved him.

He had lost 30 pounds and was near exhaustion. In all, he was out of touch with modern civilization for eight months.

Le Van's porters fled from him in terror on the vast savannas, where he dug up the skeletons of warriors killed in a battle 300 years ago. The Porters, he said, thought he was a "kenaima," or evil spirit.

His horse finally led him to a village.

Le Van said the most interesting discovery he had made was the lack of neurosis or insanity among the interior Indians.

Lee Begins Duties As Liquor Board Chief For Area Today

New head of the liquor board enforcement staff of the 24 counties of the Lubbock district will be O. Lee, jr., who is to begin the new duties today.

Lee, former chief of the staff stationed at San Angelo, will succeed N. B. Hilyard, who has been transferred to Austin.

More than 200 liquor cases were filed in the San Angelo district's 17 counties in the year in which Chief Lee directed the staff there, a San Angelo newspaper reported.

Chief Lee was a peace officer in Jefferson county six years before his appointment to the staff of the liquor control board.

John Klantchnek Is Absolved In Liquor Law Violation Case

John Klantchnek, charged with liquor law violation, Tuesday afternoon was absolved of that count by a county court jury. The case had been filed that day.

Two similar cases naming May Grayson were passed for the term, said Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney, due to absence of witnesses.

Set for today are two liquor law charges against Mrs. L. L. Ford and one naming A. Brasfield, Anderson said.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

THESE three men bring the nation to your doorstep. Selected for their ability to get behind the scenes, the veteran correspondents of THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG keep their readers a jump ahead of the headlines, sometimes months ahead of the featured news.

In political Washington, Ray Tucker and Ira Bennett count the pulse beats of the New Deal, point the trend of American history in the making. In financial New York, James McMullin opens doors which are closed to reporters working through routine channels and brings you the inside story of the nation's "Second Capital."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG takes you behind the curtain of propaganda which veils key men and key situations. It puts you on speaking terms with Washington bureau heads, canny political bosses, tough fisted labor chieftains and hard headed leaders in New York's money mart. With an ear to the ground, WHIRLIGIG's correspondents and their contacts provide you always with the real story, the forces and influences which generate streamer headlines to come.

The outstanding source of "News Behind The News," WHIRLIGIG is indispensable to those who want to keep abreast of the news in these changing times. Written in crisp, pungent English, hard-hitting, merciless in its accuracy, WHIRLIGIG turns its binoculars on the nation. Its findings are fresh, illuminating and unimpeachable.

Glacial Units Are Disturbed

Seismologists Concur Tuesday In Ascribing Shocks Felt In Seven States To Disturbance In Glacial Formations

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 9.—Seismologists concurred today in ascribing earth shocks felt in seven Midwest states and Canada shortly before midnight to disturbance of glacial formations in northwest Ohio.

Seismograph records in several cities affected by the tremors and at Harvard university disclosed the shocks occurred at 11:45 p. m. (C. S. T.) and continued with varying intensity for from two to 15 minutes.

The consensus was that the shocks bore close similarity to those experienced in the Midwest last week but were slightly greater in severity. Both disturbances were termed "moderate" and traced to rock crust upheaval.

Felt Over Wide Area

The latest series of tremors were distinctly felt but caused negligible damage in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, West Virginia, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ontario, Canada.

Chicago residents told of vibrator shocks.

P. R. St. Clair said, "the windows rattled; a big mirror moved unsteadily."

Dr. J. M. Nicholson—"It shook the house."

Jack Reith—"It's an earthquake. I'm from California and I know."

Buildings Shaken

Buildings were shaken in Cleveland, Columbus and other Ohio cities. The rattling of windows and dishes startled persons in Detroit, Louisville and Indianapolis, police stations were flooded with inquiries. The question in most instances were whether the disturbance was an explosion or an earthquake.

Attesting to the belief the epicenter was in the glacial region spanning northwest Ohio were observations at Anna, Ohio, that chimneys toppled by the quake of last Tuesday and since repaired, were felled by the shocks last night.

Tentative Approval Is Given For Federal Marketing Plan For Valley's Citrus Fruits

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today tentative approval of a federal marketing plan for grapefruit and oranges grown in the lower Rio Grande valley in Texas.

The AAA said the agreement will apply to handlers of citrus fruits in Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties.

Shipments of grapefruit and oranges will be regulated by volume on a weekly basis or through limitations on grades and sizes, or a combination of these methods.

The AAA said the program will be administered by a growers committee of 12 members selected on a district basis and a shippers committee to represent handlers. Both committees would act on recommendations to the secretary of agriculture for regulations of marketing.

Before determining the amount of fruit to be shipped during any week, the AAA said the shippers committee will consider prices, shipments, track holdings, available supplies of citrus fruits, supplies of competitive fruits and trend in consumer income. It said the shipping quota then will be allocated among handlers who applied to the growers committee for allotments.

Cook Of J. A. Ranch Cowboy Too; Ropes, Ties, Brands Bull With A Horseshoe

CLARENDON, March 9.—This cook-and-bull story drifted across the Texas Panhandle, but something less than fifty million punchers of the vast "J.A." ranch say it is true.

Regardless of this overwhelming verification, only a sad-eyed cow pony saw Emmit (Segundy) Akins, cook for the fencing crew of the big spread, rope, tie, brand, and mark a four-year-old maverick bull.

The fencing crew was camped at the head of Barrel creek wiring off a big canyon where wild cattle multiply, while the boys in chaps ran out the mavericks to mark and brand.

Cooks for a big outfit are reputed to be sedentary, doleful fellows, with no interest in beef but cooking it; but, says Robert Fulton, foreman of the fencing crew, when Segundy Akins saw a bunch of wild cattle racing toward camp, he went into action.

"He grabbed a rope, a horseshoe, and a fast cow pony. After a 300-yard dash, the cook roped and tossed a four-year-old bull and rushed on the 'J.A.' brand from the horseshoe heated in a mesquite fire. He held the hot shoe with a pair of pliers."

Meanwhile the pony looked on.

Segundy returned to camp and served dinner on time.

Production Of Crude Chalks Up Another New High Figure

TULSA, Okla., March 9. (AP)—The production of crude petroleum established another new high for the week ending March 6, a total of 3,808,859 barrels daily, or 12,009 more barrels daily than the week before, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

While most of the major producing areas showed an increase in production Oklahoma declined 25,875 barrels daily to 578,125 barrels. East Texas increased 4,901 barrels to 460,398 daily and the total state of Texas was up 19,018 barrels to 1,359,780 barrels daily.

Louisiana increased 3,160 barrels daily to 246,265 barrels, California increased 1,350 barrels to 584,500 barrels daily and Kansas had an increase of 4,175 barrels daily to 187,350 barrels.

Pershing Says Texas "Seems To Be Going Forward" Rapidly

DALLAS, Mar. 9. (AP)—Gen John J. Pershing, traveling across Texas from Arizona to Nebraska, said today this state "seems to be going forward" rapidly.

"There is a business attitude everywhere and people seem to be going places."

The general, with his sister, Miss May Pershing, and his chauffeur, drove from Midland here during the day. They are en route to Lincoln.

Maritime Body Is Appointed

Permanent Five-Man Commission Is Nominated Tuesday By President; Joseph P. Kennedy Is Chairman

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Roosevelt nominated today a permanent five-man maritime commission, headed by Joseph P. Kennedy, of New York, former chairman of the Securities commission.

Kennedy will serve the remainder of the unexpired two-year term of George Landick, jr., which began September 26, 1936.

Other members and their terms: Thomas M. Woodward of Pennsylvania, for the remainder of the unexpired term of three years from September 26, 1936, of Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, retired.

Rear Admiral Henry A. Wiley, retired, present chairman, for a term of four years from September 26, 1936. He was appointed during the last recess of the senate.

Edward D. Moran, jr., former Democratic congressman from Maine, for a five-year term.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, retired, for a six-year term.

Wiley is the only member of the present temporary commission of three to be reappointed.

Even A Republican

Brownsville Gives Story On Fishing

BROWNSVILLE, March 9. (AP)—Even a Republican has been known to catch tarpon near here in April, the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce wired Sen. Morris Sheppard today.

In 1920 the then president-elect, Warren G. Harding, spent several weeks in this section as the guest of Republican National Committeeman R. B. Creager, it was recalled by officials trying to get Mr. Roosevelt here this year in May.

The message was in support of the argument that May will not be too early for Mrs. Roosevelt to catch tarpon on the Texas coast.

"If the president does not catch tarpon on our coast in May, in view of his consummate skill as an angler, it will be purely an act of God", said the telegram.

BRAKEMAN DIES

SAN ANGELO, March 9. (AP)—Dana Gantt, 37, of Eden, Santa Fe brakeman, died in a local clinic at noon today of injuries sustained Saturday night in a rail crossing crash here.

Five other persons were hurt in the accident. Funeral arrangements had not been completed.

Farmers Will Meet Tonight

First Of Series Of Meetings In County On 1937 Program For Agriculture Is To Be Conducted Tonight

Farmers of four Lubbock county communities will meet tonight at Woodrow for the first of a series of discussions of the 1937 agricultural programs. Subsequent meetings are to be held this week at Slaton and Idalou.

Speakers at the meetings will discuss new regulations involved in this year's farming program, and committeemen for 1937 are to be elected. Tonight's meeting embraces Union, New Hope, Slide Southwest Ward, and Woodrow.

Urges Farmers To Attend

Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent, has urged all farmers in the county to attend the sessions. In a statement issued announcing the meetings, Thompson said:

"The main purposes of these meeting are: first, to elect local committeemen in the respective communities of Lubbock county to administer the new 1937 farm program; and, second, to discuss the rules and regulations of the new farm program as it applies to farmers of this county.

No Changes In Boundary

"In order to comply with instructions, it was necessary to call these district meetings in the county for the various communities that make up each district. These communities were organized into six districts last year, and no changes have been made in the boundary lines.

"Each producer is urged to attend his particular community meeting so he may be eligible to vote in his community election. The present community committeemen will be voted upon first. The one receiving the highest vote shall be retained on the community committee. Then nominations from the floor will begin and old committeemen, county committeemen or state committeemen, may be nominated and re-elected in these meetings as community committeemen.

Begin At 7:30

"All present committeemen are urged to attend each of these meetings. All meetings of the six districts are to begin at 7:30 p. m."

Thursday night farmers from Slaton, Posey, Acuff, McClung, and Roosevelt will attend a community session at Slaton. Friday night Idalou farmers are hosts to representatives from Northeast Ward, Estacado, Becton, and Canyon.

Young Man Is Sentenced To Life As Habitual Criminal

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 9. (AP) —Wayne Scott, 24, held at one time as a suspect in the mysterious disappearance of four Illinois tourists in New Mexico, was sentenced to life imprisonment in district court here today as an habitual criminal.

He had pleaded guilty before Judge James B. McGhee on a charge of stealing an automobile. Sheriff Dwight Lee of Eddy county said Scott had served terms in Texas for major crimes.

College 5's To Challenge In AAU Play

Of 40 Entries In National, 14 Are From Colleges

DENVER, March 9. (AP)—The influence of higher education has been missing from the closing stages of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament for several years now.

There are several college teams that mean to do something about it at this year's event, which starts in the Denver auditorium Sunday.

Forty quintets by today had posted their official entries. Fourteen of these are college outfits.

Whether any of them is strong enough to conquer such giants of the indoor pastime as the Missouri Valley A. A. U. teams or the powerful Pacific Coast independents only the cage marathon can tell.

Texas Teams Entered

But several appear good enough to give their older—and generally bigger—foes from the independent field a battle. Among the outstanding college teams already entered are Long Island university, Stephen F. Austin Teachers of Nacogdoches, Texas, Southern Oregon normal, West Texas Teachers, Central Missouri Teachers, Hardin-Simmons of Abilene, Texas, and Denver university, eastern division champion of Rocky Mountain conference.

Central Missouri Teachers and Greeley, Colo., State were the only undergraduate combinations to reach the quarterfinals last year, and both tripped there.

Washburn College of Topeka, Kas., was the last college team to win basketball's most coveted blue ribbon, turning the trick in 1925.

Other college teams already signed up for this year's meet include Southwestern and Central Oklahoma Teachers, Oklahoma City University, Arkansas State Teachers, Idaho, Southern Branch, Drury college of Springfield, Mo., and Las Vegas, N. M., normal.

The four top-favorites—Bartlesville Oilers, Hollywood Stars, Denver Safeways and Kansas City Trail—are posted.

Entries to date are: South Bend, Ind., Brakes, Amsterdam, N. Y., Mohaks, Winston-Salem, N. C., Spachs, St. Louis Royal Hearts, Walla Walla, Wash., Mitchells, Oakland Golden States, Wichita Gas, Denver K. C. Life, Colorado Springs Antlers, Slaton, Texas Oilers, Milwaukee, Harvesters, Gary, Ind., Club Sar, Salt Lake City Beckers, Denver Furniture, Penn Athletic club and Greely, Colo., Independents.

Women Golfers To Compete In Ladies' Day Play Today

Mrs. Ford Benham is to be hostess at the "ladies day" program at Lubbock Country club today.

With fair weather prevailing, a large turnout is expected for the regular second Wednesday day of golf. Prizes will be offered winners of special events.

Luncheon will be served at the clubhouse at 12:30, after which the women golfers will enter nine to 18 holes of competition. The Lubbock Country club's women's golf association urges a full attendance, and is anxious that a large number of players begin steady play and practice so that a representative group may attend the Women's West Texas tournament at San Angelo in June.

Plans for a local invitation tournament are to be made soon, officials have announced. The tournament is to replace the annual women's city open, it was said.

Rookie Infielders Pleasing To Hornsby In Second Drill

SAN ANTONIO, March 9. (AP)—Two young infielders have caught the eye of Manager Rogers Hornsby who put his St. Louis Browns through their second long spring workout today.

Gerard Lipscomb, who was drafted from Atlanta during the winter, promises to give Tommy Carey 'a fast race for his second base post. He is 25 years old, a hard hitter and can field with the best of them. The snappy actions of Johnny Barclay, a shortstop from Childress, Texas, who was released by a Virginia club in the Class D league, was the other youngster who drew plenty of attention at today's session.

HUGHES' NOSE BROKEN

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 9. (AP)—Roy Hughes, Cleveland Indians' third baseman, suffered a broken nose today when struck by a hopping ball batted by Manager Steve O'Neill.

Outstanding College Team Of State To Meet Champions Of Southwestern AAU; Both To Play In National AAU

A basketball game of statewide significance, a climax to all the basketball played in Texas this season, is coming to Lubbock and the Texas Tech gymnasium Thursday night.

The Stephen F. Austin State Teachers college Lumberjacks of Nacogdoches, East Texas' outstanding collegiate team, participants in Olympic trials last year and champions of the Lone Star conference this year, are to clash with the Slaton Oilers, famous Independent team which last week won the Southwestern Amateur Athletic union basketball championship at Dallas.

En Route To Denver

The teams will be making their last Texas stands before going to Denver to compete in the National A. A. U. tournament next week. The Lumberjacks qualified for the national tournament by winning its conference title and being generally recognized as one of the outstanding collegiate court aggregations of the entire Southwest this season. Manager Joe Bob Stephens' Slaton Oilers, by defeating the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys and two Dallas clubs on which were playing members of the Southwest conference championship S. M. U. club, won the sectional AAU event and thereby qualified for the Denver joust, starting Sunday.

Coach Bob Shelton's Lumberjacks, who have either won, tied or taken second place in the L. I. A. A. or Lone Star conference ever since they have been in existence, are en route to Denver tournament. Matching of the post-season classic here was announced by Coach Berl Huffman of Texas Tech yesterday.

Tech Stars To Play

"We are fortunate in bringing these teams to Lubbock for such a game," Huffman said. "It really should settle the basketball championship of Texas. The Stephen F. Austin team is considered the outstanding college team of the state, and certainly the Slaton Oilers are the best independent club."

Bulk of the Slaton team is made up of Huffman's former Texas Tech stars. The team playing against the Nacogdoches club tomorrow night will be the same talkative bunch that made a large impression at Dallas. Two members of this year's Tech team—Hugh Snodgrass and Leroy Crews—played on the Slaton team at Dallas. Two former members, both of them captains—Wilson Gilmore and Alvin Crews—are leading members of the Slaton club. Jim Neely, former Hardin-Simmons star, has been the Oilers' standout during the season, and will be with the club tomorrow night.

The game starts at 8 o'clock. Admission will be 50 cents to all, and best seats will go to the early comers. Largest basketball crowd of the season is expected to jam the gymnasium.

The Oilers, sponsored by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce in the A. A. U. tournaments, will leave Friday, probably by chartered bus, for Denver and the national tournament.

Hirsch Family Luck Holds With Horses; Young Buddy Trains Widener Cup Champ

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—The luck of the Hirsch family still holds.

Papa Maxie Hirsch started it last May when he saddled Bold Venture to win the Kentucky derby and Preakness.

Then 23-year-old Mary, first woman to be granted a trainer's license by the Jockey club, sent out No Sir to beat the great Pompoon in one of the two races the 1936 juvenile champion lost.

Now brother Buddy, 27, is on top as the result of Columbiana's smashing triumph in the $50,000 Widener challenge cup at Hialeah Park.

Buddy bought Columbiana from his dad.

Buddy turned down an offer for his speedy filly last year not long before she ran third to Bright Plumage and Dnieper in the derby consolation stakes at Tropical Park. She won only three races in 10 starts last year but Buddy brought her up to the Hialeah stake in condition.

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 9. (AP)—The hold-out troubles of the Washington Senators ended today with the signing of pitcher Buck Newsom.

Tahoka To Stage Cage Tournament

TAHOKA, March 9. (Special.)—Coach Prentice Walker of Tahoka High school today announced an invitation basketball tournament to be conducted at the Tahoka High school gymnasium starting Thursday night of this week.

About six teams already have indicated they will enter. Walker is anxious to lineup twelve or sixteen clubs.

At least two of Lubbock's independent clubs, one of which is the Peel Packing company, a team from Post, others from New Home, New Lynn and Lamesa have indicated they will enter.

Other clubs desiring to compete are urged to get in touch with Walker, at the Tahoka High school, Wednesday. He may be reached by telephone or wire.

All games will be played at night. Finals are scheduled for Saturday night.

PHILLIES ALL SET

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Manager Jimmy Wilson let it be known today he would be a stern taskmaster this year, beginning with the first official workout of the Philadelphia National leaguers tomorrow.

Thirty players have checked in at the training base.

Watch The Athletics In '38 Is Mack's Message To Fans; Youngsters Catching On Fast

Bunch Of Green Kids, Just Husky And Smart Enough To Go Surprise Stunt, Give Veteran Skipper Plenty To Work With And Hope For; At 74, Connie 'Builds Back Up'

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 9. (AP)—The word from Connie Mack to the folks back home in Philadelphia is:

"Watch our smoke in 1938."

At 74 Cornelius McGillicuddy is going gaily about the business, down here under Mexico's beaming sun, of building another winning team for the fans in the city of brotherly love.

Sandlotters, collegians, minor leaguers and major league rejects, with one or two matured stars, are his materials; that, and the baseball lore 53 years as player and manager have stored up in his wise old head.

Scribes Are Hopeful

The Athletics' "kid team" will be green this year, may—although Connie thinks not—occupy the cellar berth again in the American League, but, say seasoned sports scribes watching practice here, it might—just might—"catch fire" and spring a surprise.

If that happens, pitchers will be the answer — pitchers, and Bill Werber.

Of the dozen pitching candidates he has down here, the veteran pilot looks to three to be consistent winners.

One is Harry Kelley, the 30-year-old right-hander from Wynne, Ark., who came up from Atlanta last year after 10 years in the minors and, with his great curve ball and change of pace, won 15 games while losing 12.

Werber Is The Key

The others are Herman Fink and Lee Ross, young North Carolina fast ball pitcher who did heavy duty with the A's last season.

Werber who came from the Red Sox in a trade for Pinky Higgins, is the key man in Mack's infield.

Called the best third baseman in the American League, the ex-Duke collegian is expected to steady and pep up young Alfred Lovell "Chubby" Dean, another Duke product whose performance last year clinched the first base position; veteran Bill Cissell, second baseman back in the majors after two years in the bushes, and, probably, Jack Peerson, shortstop, late of Albany, whose hitting seems to give him the call over the better fielding Lamar Newsome.

Catchers All Set

Behind the plate, as in the outfield, the Athletics have no worries. Frank Hayes, 22-year-old catcher who found himself last season after he cracked four doubles in one game for a record off Mel Harder of Cleveland, will have assistance from Earle Brucker, steady catcher up from Portland.

With the veteran Bob Johnson in left field, Lou Finney, released from first base duty by Dean's swift rise in center, and Wally Moses, not yet signed but expected into camp shortly, Mack will have three gardeners who not only can roam with the best, but hit .300 or better.

BATTERY TEAMS WIN

HAVANA, March 9 (AP)—The New York Giants staged two intracamp games today. Fred Fitzsimmons led a team of pitchers to a 9-6 triumph over Carl Hubbell's squad, then the Gus Mancusos beat the Mel Otts 3-0 in the infielders' and outfielders' game.

Holdouts Can't Complain About Slow Publicity

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—Baseball's most conspicuous holdouts won't get all the money they are demanding but they can't complain about publicity this spring . . . Major league openings are still more than a month off so that little danger exists that any of the balky performers will emulate Johnny Kling, Mike Donlin or Eddie Roush, all of whom made their arguments stick in bygone days by staying out for all or part of full season. . . .

Lou Gehrig still is far behind Babe Ruth in home runs, wages collected, and length of salary arguments . . . Yankees' iron man has been paid aggregate of $256,400 in salary, plus "cuts" in five World Series . . . Babe was paid around $900,000, and collected shares in ten World Series. . . .

National Tennis Open?

Pro tennis revival this year, with Vines-Perry tour setting pace, likely will strengthen moves for National Open championship . . . So far international authorities have balked U. S. efforts to bring tennis professionals and amateurs together in title tournament, as golf does . . . Golf and polo offer amateurs about only freedom they can enjoy, in company of professionals, without finger of suspicion being pointed at them . . . A. A. U. rules are strictest in forbidding any mingling of those competing for cash or glory . . .

Trend is toward picking Champion Jim Braddock in forthcoming title match with Joe Louis in Chicago but most fight writers do not take seriously talk of "business men's deal" . . . Few important heavyweight fights have been free from rumors, before or after, but rarely has evidence of conniving been produced.

When Brother Tony Punched His Nose, Joe Got Serious

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—Joe Matisi, brother of Tony Matisi, star tackle of Pitt's Rose Bowl football champions, is the East's No. 1 amateur boxer today.

Joe says a punch in the nose from Tony started him to success.

Heavyweight champion of the New York Daily News Golden Gloves tournament, Joe started boxing a year ago against Tony in their home at Binghamton, N. Y.

"I wasn't doing very good until Tony hit me one on the nose," Joe remembers, "and then I really started to fight. After that I got on pretty well with him and I decided to try the amateurs."

Joe's victory over Clarence (Hairy) Hapes of Memphis, the favorite, was the upset of the tournament.

Picard-Revolta Team Advances

Rain Or No Rain, Defending Champions In International Four-Ball Tournament Move Toward 3rd Straight Title

MIAMI, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Henry Picard, and his partner, Johnny Revolta, put in a bid for a third straight victory in the annual four-ball matches today with sub-par golf in a steady rain.

Picard's deadly pitching gave him and Revolta a 4 and 3 victory over Gene Sarazen and Jimmy Hines, whom they defeated 4 and 2 in last year's final, as the field completed the 36-hole quarter finals.

Their opponents in the 36 hole semi-final tomorrow will be Jimmy Thompson and Harry Cooper, who emerged one-up from a tussle with Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon.

In the other bracket Lawson Little and Tony Manero beat Johnny Farrell and Willie Klein 2 and 1, while Willie MacFarlane and and Frank Walsh tamed the youngsters, Sam Snead and Ed Oliver, 4 and 3.

ROLFE'S FINGER OKAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees was convinced that Red Rolfe's broken finger won't cause any trouble this season after watching the third sacker in a two-hour workout today.

Sailor Tex Makes 'Farewell' Appearance Here In Main Go With Roughster From Canada

Strutting Gob And Snarling Lumberjack Fight 'Natural' At Auditorium; Bozinis Is To Meet Tremaine

IN THESE CORNERS

The openers — Larry Schaaf, Indiana, vs. Abie Freeman, New York. One fall or 20 minutes.

The raisers—Andy Tremaine, Tucson, Arizona, vs. Nick Bozinis, Elmira, N. Y. One fall or 30 minutes.

The callers — Sailor Kirby Watkins, Post, Texas, vs. Rod Fenton, Edmonton, Alberta. Two out of three falls to a finish.

The broadcasters — Judge Landis and Cowboy Kyle, direct from the Auditorium ringside, via. Station KFYO, at 8 o'clock.

And that's just about 'nuff said. Except maybe to say that Schaff and Freeman are a couple of newcomers, making first appearances here, and believed to have the goods; that Nick Bozinis, the bowlegged Greek with a cheerful grin for friends and a treacherous look of innocence for ring enemies is known to be more vicious than ever, and that Sailor Tex Watkins is making another "farewell" appearance at the Auditorium.

Sailor Swelled Up

Watkins, to date, is thoroughly convinced that he has served his purpose here. "I've licked 'em all. If you want me to hang around, bring me some tough guys. I've cleaned out this bunch of sissies for you, so I'll be moseying on to a place where I can at least get a little exercise."

There's a lot of braggadocio in them words. Watkins, it is true, put away Walter Stratton, Dale Haddock, Andy Tremaine and other top notchers of the circuit. Tonight he meets another, and Rod Fenton, the Canadian lumberpack, takes offense at Watkins' words. Fenton is considerable of a roughster himself, although somewhat quieter and more docile in street clothes or in the dressing room. He saves his wind and his actions for the ring, and he has plenty of both.

To say that Watkins and Fenton are fighting the main event tonight is sufficient to send Promoter Allen on the search for additional ringside chairs. He expects a sellout. Advance ticket sales at the Hotel Drug indicate the same. Both scrappers are of the rough and tumble school, with no regard for the law of the ring. It's a natural.

Watkins takes leave of the circuit after tonight's engagement here and a tilt at Amarillo tomorrow night. He goes to El Paso for a few weeks of solid booking, then to Mexico City for a "rest."

Nick Bozinis, who no doubt will be seen today trotting along the sidewalks dressed in shorts and undershirt and nothing else—especially if the weather is cold—is back after some months of wrestling in other leagues. His opponent is the rapidly improving Andy Tremaine, who is one of the best "natural" wrestlers the circuit has ever seen. He has everything it takes, including a pair of flashy fists and the best drop-kick ever demonstrated here. His fault lies in a slow-to-heat temper. Once he gets going, he's hard to handle.

Of the newcomers, Schaaf and Freeman, little is known just now except that they have prospered in some of the better middleweight circuits.

Dizzy's Missing So Cards Having Fun, No "Fueds"

By PAUL MICKELSON

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Down the sports trail and into the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals for a change of gas.

Not in years has the spirit been higher in the gashouse gang camp. Everybody's speaking to everybody else. Not a single fued is going on. The reason, explains writers, is that Dizzy Dean is staying away from camp.

Last season, the great Dizzy visited camp frequently and got everyone sore at everyone else by talking big talk and telling the players they'd be just "second division bums without me."

Brother Paul Lonely

The only one who hears from Diz is Brother Paul, who walks around like a lonely bridegroom.

Paul played badminton and took up calisthenics in a Dallas Y. M. C. A. during loafing months, but reported fatter than ever. He has grown out of his old uniform.

Lonnie Warneke tickled Manager Frisch the first day in camp. His trunk didn't come on the same train with him, but that didn't stop Lon. He bought a new outfit, including shoes that set him back $18, and went right to work.

Same Ol' Pepper

"When I heard that," commended Owner Sam Breadon, "I knew Warneke was a real Cardinal. Not one baseball player in a thousand would have done that."

Ol' Pepper — he's the same old Pepper Martin, sliding head first into that bag even in exhibition games, and the life of the party. A typical night scene in Daytona is ol' Pepper riding 12 of the boys down town in his station wagon.

Dogs Guide Blind; They Meet In School At Morristown, N. J.

DENVER, March 10. (AP)—A school soon will open here where eight blind persons and eight German shepherd dogs will study each other.

Then, acquainted with each other's temperaments, the dogs will become "eyes" for their blind masters.

The animals were especially trained in Morristown, N. J., to aid blind persons. They were brought to Denver through the Colorado State Blind commission to be sold, at nominal cost, to blind persons who desired them.

In the past four and one-half basketball seasons, the University of Iowa cagers won 35 games and lost 12 on their home court.

Trans Wynn, 2-year-old Texas race horse, was named by combining the names of his sire and his dam — Transmute and Winnie O'Wynn.

Challenge To Individuality

HARRY HOPKINS' warning that we shall probably have at least 4,000,000 people "normally unemployed" in even the best of good times is a sharp reminder that we can't expect rising business indices to solve all of our problems for us.

We might as well make up our minds, says Mr. Hopkins, that a good many people are "going to have to get their share of the national income by means of various types of government benefits."

Why? Because, he explains, we don't need all our man-power to produce the goods that we can consume; because there is always a certain number of people who just can't earn their own living, anyway; because people keep on living after they get too old to work.

IF Mr. Hopkins is correct—and he ought to know what he is talking about, having had his nose up against the relief grindstone for a long time—we are going to have to accept the fact that the relief problem is a permanent responsibility.

This carries along with it some far-reaching implications about the functions of the national government.

A continuing responsibility like this one will inevitably be left in the lap of the government. By accepting it, the government must automatically make itself responsible for the under-privileged as a group—not merely for the people who are actually on relief, but for all the low-wage people who will go on relief the moment the economic machine slips its gears a bit.

That is to say that the government will be expected to see to it that a square deal is provided for the people from whom the relief rolls are recruited—the sharecroppers, the tenant farmers, the casual and migratory workers, the unskilled laborers, and so on.

All of that adds up to quite a load of responsibility. No one can expect that the government will carry it indefinitely without demanding the power that goes with responsibility.

Now it is extremely unlikely that the average American wants to see his government given that power—for it would involve, among other things, the power to fix hours and wages in industry, and the power to regulate agriculture, both powers that returned to the dust when the NRA and the AAA died.

Yet that is the sort of thing we are facing if we sit back and resign ourselves to the continuing existence of a government-supported army of 4,000,000 unemployed.

HERE, then, is the supreme challenge to private initiative. If it can absorb these unemployed, prove that consumption in a free land can keep pace with production, and, in short, solve the problem by abolishing it, we can forget about this talk of giving the government wider powers. If it can't, we are going to hear such talk in ever-increasing volume.

MOVING ALONG

The robust health of the recovery movement is illustrated by a business review published in the March issue of Banking, the official journal of the American Bankers' association.

Business, this review points out, seems to be indifferent to trouble these days. A paralyzing shipping strike on the west coast is scarcely noticed in the general business picture; a great automobile strike merely slows up the tempo of improvement; disastrous flood losses seem to have had little effect; the prospects of strikes in the steel and coal trades do not seem to be causing any pessimism among business leaders.

Indeed, the review points out that the principal effect on business of the shipping and motors strikes was that news of their settlement gave a further boost to activity and to the prices of common stocks.

A recovery movement that moves along in that style must be healthy indeed!

"Lehman Carpenter thoughtlessly bid in a rolling pin at Sam Lawrence's sale last week, and upon second thought was afraid to take it home," Jess Mitchell says in the Muleshoe Journal. "He gave it to ye editor remarking, 'your scalp is already peeled.' (Ya, editor's scalp was probably peeled by an irate subscriber!)

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Woe to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practice it, because it is in the power of their hand.

And they covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his heritage. Micah 11: 1-2.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

DOUBLE GOLDEN WEDDING

On April 19, 1933, Mrs. Edward Fields, age 82, and her daughter, Mrs. George Long, age 64 both celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries and were honored on the unique occasion by the members of the Edison Review of the Women's Benefit Association of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Fields, age 81, is Mrs. Field's third husband, whom she married on the same day, April 19, 1838, as her daughter married Mr. Long—hence the circumstances which permitted mother and daughter to observe their 50th anniversaries on the same day.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT, charming young New York advertising executive, rents her deceased father's Connecticut estate to LARRY SMITH, attractive young architect, and promptly likes him tremendously. Daphne has one sister, six years younger, JENNIFER, who is just home from college and at her first job.

Jennifer resents Daphne's guidance and proceeds to date whom she pleases including TUCKER AINSLEY, playboy and one-time Daphne's beau. Next she learns that Larry is not married and makes a play for his attentions. This develops a struggle between the two sisters for the same man.

One night Larry arranges to date Daphne. Jennifer, meanwhile, announces she is going to see Tuck again. Daphne refuses her permission, protesting against Tuck's sophisticated crowd. Then Daphne leaves for the evening with Larry. Soon after, Jennifer, defying her sister's wishes, accepts a date with Tuck's young set. It is a crisis in the personal relationship of the Brett sisters.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

Larry Smith slipped his hand under the great collar of Daphne's coat and pushed it up around her ears. Then he whistled for a taxi. It was the tenth taxi he had tried to get. An icy wind tore through 53rd street but Daphne didn't feel it.

"Let's walk," she said, "we'll never get one with this theater crowd. My place is only a few blocks."

"You don't think I'm going to let you go home, do you? We're seeing the town, young lady. TAXI!"

Then, laughing because they had darted across the slippery pavement to triumphantly capture the prize, they continued to laugh. They'd been laughing all evening, Daphne remembered, laughing over nothing. She laughed because he told her that when he was a little boy he had wanted to be a house wrecker when he grew up and had decided that was the beginning of his wish to be an architect.

And he had laughed because she confessed that she used to wear her mother's clothes and pretend she was a great actress. So they'd both gone on and now they knew more about each other than any other person knew about either of them.

They talked so long over their pigs' knuckles and sauerkraut they'd been late for the theater and the next day neither of them could have told you what happened at the theater because they'd been aware of nothing but each other.

Larry found her hand and swallowed it in his own.

"Having fun?" he asked.

She murmured something that sounded like "Umm." But he knew. They both knew something that needed no words. They needed nothing but to be together.

They went to the most expensive night club in town and sat looking into each other's eyes. She hadn't heard from him, he said, as though it was important to explain everything to her from now on, because he'd been off on a business trip. His uncle, in whose firm and whose footsteps he was one day to follow was bidding for construction jobs in a midwest exposition.

"Do you often go far away for such a long time?" she asked and felt suddenly bereft, as though loneliness in the future was already weighing her down.

"Perhaps you'll be glad to have me away when you realize how much of you I want to see."

Her eyes denied it.

He said: "Look, we've got to arrange our program." He had already told her that the Smiths would like to stay on at the Hall; his "old girls," as he called them, refused to be moved unless Daphne wanted the place for herself. Daphne was only too glad of that extra money; it was helping to meet the new need for Jennifer.

"Are we going to have a program?" If anyone other than Larry had said that, she'd have dismissed the idea immediately. She was too busy—knew too many people—to permit any one person to assume that he had a right to make plans for her.

But Larry wasn't any one person. "We'll have to discover what plays you want to see. And how you feel about winter sports—"

What she wanted!

Later Daphne would wrap herself in the warm comfort of what that meant, his complete regard for the things that would make her happy. Now she was content to listen.

"And what about hockey? And the six-day bicycle race?"

"Love them both," she responded promptly. But if he had said, "Do you like to stand for hours watching men excavating?" she'd have said it was her favorite pastime.

"We'll do them all. Let's begin with a new show on Saturday. Sunday, if it's clear, we might try skating and later we'll go—"

"Wait a minute," Daphne implored, laughing. "It's Thursday now and Saturday and Sunday are so nearly here. Aren't you rushing me?"

"Certainly," he said, "but I'm twenty-eight years old and up to now my life has been misspent. I've got to make up for those years."

There was wonder in Daphne's eyes that looked back into his—and into the years ahead.

This has never happened to me before, Daphne thought. I must be careful because anything that can open such doors to my heart—this new feeling of coming home—can hurt me.

The years ahead unfolded before her and tempted her to gaze on what they could mean. Not just the early happy laughing years, but those good, quiet years rolling on and weaving a lasting tapestry of the lives of a man and a woman and their children.

It frightened her that she dared to think of them. That she, who had been trained to responsibility, to clear, conservative thinking, to guarding herself against thinking of her own future, should suddenly admit their temptation.

That this was her first time alone with Larry Smith and she could rush headlong into such conjecture, was a little frightening.

Later she would straighten it out with herself. Now she could sip her drink and give herself to the moment.

"Saturday, it is," she said. She thought of Jennifer's method of "keeping 'em dangling."

Jennifer!

Daphne looked at the watch on Larry's wrist. It was 10 minutes past 2.

"Larry, I must call Jennifer. I told her I'd be home by midnight and she might worry about me. Do you mind? I'll only be a moment."

The telephone booth was out beyond the lounge at the entrance. Threading her way through the tables that crowded the edge of the dance floor Daphne was contrite because she had neglected to telephone Jennifer. Because she was herself so happy she repented her severity toward Jennifer. She might have told Jennifer that she could go to the party with Tuck if she had promised to return early.

At first when her number didn't answer, Daphne thought that Jennifer was sleeping but when the buzz had been prolonged and repeated, she knew that Jennifer had deliberately disobeyed her orders. Why hadn't Jennifer defied her and said she was going anyway? Daphne would have preferred that to Jennifer's doing it under cover.

The floor show was on when she came out of the booth. The lights were dimmed save for the flood light on the dancing chorus. The white light threw greenish shadows on the faces of the guests, distorted them, yet at once Daphne saw Tuck Ainsley.

She withdrew into the shadows until the lights came up. Waiting to see who was with him. Waiting to see Jennifer yet not be seen by Jennifer. She didn't want to spoil Jennifer's night.

But Jennifer was not with Tuck. It was obvious that he was one of a party of four which did not include Jennifer.

She quickened her footsteps and returned to her table. She didn't sit down.

"Larry, I've got to go now. Our telephone doesn't answer and I'm worried about Jennifer."

He agreed they should leave at once.

Worry haggled at the back of her mind the lush delight of her happiness dissolved. The taxiride to her apartment was a silent one.

"Thank you, Larry, for a grand evening." She gave him her smile but her eyes were still clouded.

"I'll call you in the morning," he said.

Then he was gone. Hours later, as the light deepened and the night became morning, Daphne pacing the floor to the tempo of her rising fears, thought desperately, I need him. He'd know what to do.

Four o'clock. Five o'clock. Five-thirty. Jennifer was gone! Her evening wrap and the white satin

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE question uppermost in Washington's sharpest minds is whether President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis have an unwritten but working agreement in their attack upon industrial problems.

Mr. Roosevelt hurled his Supreme court plan into the headlines when the Lewis-Sloan negotiations had struck a snag, and F.D.R. followed this thrust with talks on new hours and wages legislation. Mr. Roosevelt also stood pat on the 40-hour Walsh-Healey act as the basis for a new N.R.A. The plain implication was that even if the auto industry defeated the strike, it would only be leaping from the Lewis frying pan into the Roosevelt fire. Therefore it was more advisable to surrnder while the surrendering was timely.

The same strategy was applied to the steel industry, with a few new wrinkles. There were threats to reopen the government's armor plate plant, although naval experts secretly advised it could not be put into operation for several years. Miss Perkins dropped mysterious hints that foreign steel might be imported with tariffs removed. F.D.R. never denied publicly that, as C.I.O.-ers boasted, he wanted steel workers to join the union. There was—and is—an intangible but effective tieup.

BLUEPRINTS: House Agricultural Chairman Marvin Jones has been slipping through the side door of Secretary Wallace's office lately, but these shy farmers dodge questions about revival of the old A.A.A. with semi-compulsory crop control. For the record they haven't made up their minds on anything.

But they are willing to discuss the ever-normal granary idea volubly and eloquently, and both favor it. That's where they trip themselves up. Other A.A.A.-ers tell you that the granary system is a fantastic scheme unless it is accompanied by rigid, governmental control of production of major crops. Otherwise the granaries would burst with surpluses and depress the market as the Farm board's holdings did in Hoover days. There must be some method for restricting acreage when federal barns are full, and expanding it when the reserve supply runs low.

Publication of new A. A. A. schemes, like everything else at the capital, apparently revolves around the Supreme court controversy. When the right moment to recruit the farmers appears, there will probably be announcements that the crop control blueprints have been drawn, but will be withheld pending creation of a 15-man court that will hold them constitutional.

EXPECTANT: It's impossible to soothsay the Supreme court, but the venerable jurists may outsmart New Deal legalites in passing upon Washington's minimum wage law. The Rooseveitians have been awaiting an adverse ruling in the hope it would play into the President's hand.

In throwing out a similar New York law, the high court has had good precedent. It has already been declared unconstitutional by the New York State Supreme court, which contains several Smith-Roosevelt appointees, and is regarded as a fairly liberal body. While not a compelling factor, rejection of a law in its own state is sometimes good ground for a similar decision up above. It amounts to judicial refinement of the states rights idea.

But the Washington law was upheld by local judges. Moreover, it was drawn on the basis of several Supreme court decisions on the same subject, and lawyers believe that it is comma-tight. It therefore presents practical difficulties to the court—and to the expectant New Dealers.

MERIT: The Supreme court has penetrated New Deal drawing and living rooms as an evening pastime. It has supplanted "murder" and "scavenger hunt" as a form of entertainment.

Guests—masculine and feminine—are asked to impersonate various members of the Senate, and slips are pinned on their lapels so they won't forget their assumed identity. It contributes to the hilariousness if pro-Roosevelt individuals are required to pose as Senator Borah, Senator Wheeler or Senator Vandenberg, and vice versa. Then, half seriously, half humorously, the group stages a debate, each side submitting its strongest arguments.

Two votes were taken at a recent party of official and semi-official New Dealers. They were asked to vote first on the basis of the arguments they had just heard, and secondly on their own beliefs. The first vote was 10-10; the second was 15-5 in favor of F.D.R.'s proposal. It was generally admitted afterward that an emotional loyalty to the President rather than the merits of his program accounted for the second result. Several forecast that the real Senate's reaction will be similar.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

INFORMED New Yorkers get word that Secretary of State Cordell Hull is eager to negotiate a trade agreement with Great Britain as the capstone of his reciprocal treaty structure. He has been working on it quietly behind the scenes for some time. The British government, it is unnderstood, is willing enough to play ball with him as a matter of principle. But certain serious obstacles must be surmounted first.

A reciprocal trade treaty involves give-and-take on both sides. Secretary Hull has a virtually free hand in such matters. Not so the British authorities. The Ottawa agreement is still in effect and the British dominions are not going to give up the advantages of "imperial preference" without a struggle—or a quid pro quo.

Financial leaders agree that an Anglo-American trade treaty would do more to promote world stability and world peace at this juncture than anything else in sight. Nothing much can be accomplished before the Empire representatives foregather at London for the coronation. Then the wheels of diplomacy are expected to start turning in earnest. Big time New Yorkers will be watching and hoping they mesh.

ALERT: Not many people realize how extensively the executive and directorial personnel of United States Steel has been renovated in the past couple of years.

Chairman Myron Taylor is of course a veteran. But Edward Stettinius—son of a former Morgan partner who is being groomed to head the giant corporation—is under 40. Several recent additions to the Board of Directors—notably George A. Sloan and Leon Fraser—are well under 50.

The replacement of case-hardened dolsters by adaptable young men is called by insiders a significant element in the corporation's abrupt reversal of its traditional attitude towards "outside unions." Comment runs that a new generation is coming into command of American industry—a generation alert to the need to keep abreast of changing social and economic conditions.

TALENTS: Keep an eye on George A. Sloan—one of the "youngsters" among Big Steel's directors, who also recently became a director of the conservative Bankers Trust. He is rated an up-and-coming figure in the business world with a big-time future ahead of him.

Mr. Sloan was formerly president of the Cotton Textile Institute, where his record attracted the attention of some of New York's most influential citizens. He is an expert in two important fields—labor relations and technical research. His talents in the research line are expected to be particularly useful to U. S. Steel when the labor excitement dis down. Finding new uses for old products is one of his specialties.

It is significant that the Cotton Textile Institute under his leadership, sponsored one of the first shorter week moves by a major industry before N.R.A. was even thought of. The cotton textile industry also adopted the first code of fair competition under N.R.A., setting a precedent for the 40-hour week and elimination of child labor.

FUTILE: Settlement of the steel industry's labor problems greatly minimizes the chances for a soft coal strike. Representatives of the coal operators and the United Mine Workers will probably go on bickering all this month. But there will be no malice behind their dissensions, and a peaceful compromise solution is indicated.

There is just one possibility in sight at present that might lead to a mine workers' walkout. Officials of one of the biggest companies in what is known as southern territory are understood to feel that it might be smarter to force a strike now than to wait until John Lewis is in a still stronger position.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS, No. 45

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Tarzan led the expedition forward once more, he held a strange fascination for the Indian carriers, who looked upon him as a spectre. According to their age-old superstition, he was a marked man, doomed to be devoured by the giant man-eating plants.

Soon Tarzan saw a hill ahead, and he decided to ascend it in the hope of catching sight of his elusive foe. "Follow the trail," he told George and Ula; "I will join you later." And he left Nkima with them to fetch him in case some emergency shoud arise.

Nkima was glad enough to remain. He had seen the terrifying incident of the carnivorous plant, and he was reluctant to venture into a forest in which even the plants could not be trusted. So Tarzan swung away on what the carriers believed was his last journey.

Half an hour later, Ula and George came suddenly upon the bodies of the Indians Ragian had slain. They drew back in horror. And now the savage fellow-tribesmen of these harmless dead peered out from ambush and made ready to swoop down on the bewildered whites!

Borger Ends Party In Wee Sma' Hours

BORGER, March 9. (AP)—This city in the Texas Panhandle celebrated until the wee hours of today its 11th birthday anniversary.

Starting as a boom town and developing rapidly into a well-founded community, the city was host yesterday to thousands of visitors from the Panhandle area.

Among the notables attending were Harry Hines of the Texas Highway commission and E. O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad commission. Each expressed the belief that Borger as an oil center would witness a further rapid growth during the coming year.

Merchants kept their stores open throughout the day and the influx of business on general sales was pleasing.

The big day was topped by a banquet attended by state officials and representatives from nearby towns. One of the colorful events was a street parade. The celebration was closed with a dance.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—Selective strength gave the stock market a rallying appearance today despite declining trends evident in many parts of the list.

Metals were in the forefront as export copper prices were given a new lift and lead was raised another $5 a ton. Tin and zinc rates slanted upward along with steel scrap and pig-iron. A further hoist of steel alloy was forecast for April 1.

Tobaccos suffered a slump and the majority of motors gave ground although Chrysler managed to end unchanged at 127½. The utilities enjoyed a brief run on the theory this group was behind the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .2 of a point at 74.8, thus regaining half of Monday's set-back.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—Active buying returned to the cotton market today and lifted prices $1 to $1.25 a bale to new high levels for the season.

At one time gains averaged $1.50 a bale but the usual last minute profit-taking and realizing sales cut down some of the early advances.

The upturn more than recovered the set-back in Monday's session and all positions finished above 13 cents a pound. March sold at 13.83c at the close, May at 13.55c, July at 13.44c and Dec. at 13.03c. The brisk advance carried spot cotton to within a few points of 14 cents a pound for middling.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—Cotton resumed its advance today on a renewal of foreign trade and Wall Street buying. May sold up from 13.42c to 13.75c and closed at 13.67c with final prices 19 to 23 points net higher.

The market opened 3 points lower to 4 higher in the face of a further decline at Liverpool.

Active Liverpool buying then developed and as prices worked higher, fresh outside buying appeared. Contracts were generally scarce although when prices had advanced about $1.50 to $2.50 a bale above the lows of Monday, realizing and hedge selling developed late in the day.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 13.96c a pound; past thirty days, 13.23c a pound.

Labor Situation

zation.

Company and union officials conferred at Detroit on the strike which shut down nine Chrysler corporation plants there Monday and threw 55,000 wage earners into idleness but reported no progress.

Chrysler officials announced the corporation had not receded from its decision to deny recognition as the sole bargaining agency for 67,000 employes to the United Automobile Workers of America, a decision which precipitated the sit-down strike. Another conference was called for today.

To Resume Conferences

Conferences will be resumed today also in the Hudson Motor Car Co. strike, which began Monday and put 10,000 out of work in three Detroit factories.

More than 13,000 workers affected by two disputes in General Motors plants at Flint, Mich., returned to their jobs pending adjudication of differences.

Chrysler officials announced stop orders had been issued to suppliers, with whom, they said, the corporation spends $50,000,000 a month. The order threw 4,500 out of work in the Briggs Body plant at Detroit, 1,300 in the City Auto Stamping Co. plant at Toledo, and 600 in the Globe Machine and Stamping Co. at Cleveland. Further reductions were reported in prospect with the demand for parts shut off.

Newcastle, Ind., Unit Closed

A Chrysler unit at Newcastle, Ind., was closed, but four scattered units were to continue operating while supplies held out. The corporation said production had been 6,000 cars a day, with a daily payroll of $500,000.

The "Big Four" of the packing industry led the day's pay increases with the fifth wage hike since 1932. The largest groups affected were in Chicago, but many additional thousands scattered over the nation were benefitted. The boost put the basic wage scale for common labor at 62½ cents an hour.

Pay raises were assured for 20,000 employes of the Illinois-Bell Telephone Co., adding an aggregate of $2,000,000 annually to their income.

Several steel firms were among those boosting pay. Among these, the National Steel Corp., raised wages of both mill and office workers.

BAN FROG LEGS

HANKOW, China (AP)—Frog legs have been cut out of the Chinese bill of fare. The ministry of industry, believing that frogs destroy insects harmful to crops, has issued orders that no frogs are to be killed and eaten in Hupeh province.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—Big international export sales, around 3,500,000 bushels, together with word of many dust storms in domestic dry areas, hoisted wheat values 1¾ cents today.

Although heavy profit-taking on the part of recent buyers led to some reaction from the day's top prices, Chicago wheat futures at the close were ⅜-1¼c above yesterday's finish, May, $1.36⅜@1.36½; July, $1.19⅛@1.19¼; Sept., $1.16¼@1.16⅜; corn also ⅜-1¼ up, May, $1.09⅝@1.09¾; July, $1.04¾@1.05; Sept., .98⅞@.99c; oats, ½ to 1 cent advanced, May, .47⅞@.47¾; and rye showing ½-⅝ gain, May, $1.06⅞. The outcome in provisions varied from 2 cents decline to 20 cents bulge.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, March 9. (AP)—Demand for grain was limited here today.

Wheat, No. 1 soft red winter, $1.52½@1.53½.

Barley, No. 2, nominally, .99c@$1.00.

Sorghums, No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs., nominally, $2.08@2.10; No. 2 white kafir, nominally, $2.08@2.10.

Corn, shelled, No. 2 white, $1.33¾@1.34¾.

Spanish Ship

ed today to St. Jean-de-Luz, France. Some of their officers then said the munitions ship was ploughing through the Bay of Biscay under her own engines, convoyed not only by the Canarias, which halted her dash for a friendly port, but also by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera.

The British officers said they believed there were two United States citizens aboard the Mar Cantabrico. They were said to be aircraft experts taken along from Vera Cruz when the freighter sailed Feb. 19 to supervise assembling the airplanes and parts in the Mar Cantabrico's holds.

Previously a Spanish sailor who had escaped from the Mar Cantabrico and the skipper of a French fishing vessel which had been at the scene of the encounter testified they had seen the munitions ship being taken to port by her captor.

Captain Borel of the French ship Cameleyre said the last thing he saw of the Mar Cantabrico she was moving off toward the Spanish coast, about 120 miles away, "under her own power," with the Canarias and smaller insurgent vessels sticking close to her.

Juan Boo, the sailor from the captured freighter, was rescued by Borel's ship after he had jumped into the sea. An Italian with him drowned.

The rest of the crew of 150 and 17 passengers, including two "North Americans" had been transferred to the Canarias, Boo declared.

"All the Spaniards were shot," he said.

The confusion as to the ship's identity, which resulted in fear a British passenger vessel had been attacked, was due, the sailor said, to the fact the name "Adda of Newcastle" had been painted on the vessel and SOS messages sent out under the Adda's radio call letters.

"We changed the name to 'Adda' as a precautionary measure," after leaving Vera Cruz," Boo asserted. "There is a British ship of about the same tonnage, but the Canarias discovered the subterfuge."

(In London, Spanish Ambassador Pablo de Azcarate y Florez said the vessel "carried huge quantities of war stores" required for an intensive new government offensive.

Liquor Bill Returned

The house returned to committee a general liquor regulation bill intended to tighten enforcement, transferred to the state affairs committee a bill to limit graduate work to the University of Texas, A. and M. college and Texas Tech and passed to final reading a measure to remit taxes in Hardeman, Foard, Cottle and Wilbarger counties for two years to aid the Pease River flood control district.

The liquor bill was re-committed after objection made and denied that it contained a tax on beer importers. The liquor traffic committee set a hearing on the bill for next Tuesday, and then killed a measure prohibiting liquor or beer sales within 1,000 feet of a church or school.

A bill to raise the minimum age of workers in mills and other industries from 15 to 16 years was introduced.

Swift Enactment Of His Plan To Reorganize Supreme Court And "Save Constitution From The Court" Asked

series of federal courts willing to enforce the Constitution as written, and unwilling to assert legislative powers by writing into it their own political and economic policies."

Compared To 3-Horse Team

Early in his address, Mr. Roosevelt referred to a passage in his speech of last week comparing the three branches of the government to a three-horse team, plowing a field and the need for all three to pull together.

"The three horses are, of course," he said, "the three branches of government—the congress, the executive and the courts. Two of those horses are pulling in unison today; the third is not. Those who have intimated that the president of the United States is trying to drive the team, overlook the simple fact that the president, as chief executive, is himself one of the three horses.

People In Drivers Seat

"It is the American people themselves who are in the driver's seat.

"It is the American people themselves who want the furrow plowed.

"It is the American people themselves who expect the third horse to pull in unison with the other two."

Mr. Roosevelt contended the Constitution is an "easy document to understand" when it is recalled that it was written to supplant the articles of confederation which had showed "the need of a national government with power enough to handle problems."

Gave Congress Power

He said the basic law gave congress power to meet every problem of a national character at the time the document was drafted, and then "went even further."

"Having in mind that in succeeding generations many other problems then undreamed of would become national problems, they (the framers) gave to congress the ample broad powers "to levy taxes . . . and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.

"That, my friends, is what I honestly believe to have been the clear and underlying purpose of the patriots who wrote a federal constitution to create a national government with national power, intended as they said 'to form a more perfect union . . . for ourselves and our posterity.'"

Labored Long On It

The president had labored long on the address because, the White House said, he desired to make sure that his arguments were understood by "the man in the street."

The "chat" followed by five days his victory dinner address sternly criticizing recent Supreme court opinions and demanding action "now" to permit legislation on problems which he contended could not wait.

While he spent much of the day drafting and then revising tonight's address, the president also sent two federal court judgeship nominations to the senate. With much of the court debate centering upon the president's objections to age on the bench, observers were quick to note that the men named were 38 and 50 years of age.

They are J. Earl Major, Illinois, promoted from the district court to the circuit court of appeals, and John C. Collet, of Missouri, named to the district court for that state.

Farley Invades South

Meanwhile, Postmaster General Farley invaded the South with two speeches in North Carolina supporting the court bill and asserting that the Republican opposition was "merely seeking tre repeal of the election of 1936."

Public hearings on the president's bill are scheduled to begin tomorrow before the senate judiciary committee. Attorney General Cummings will present the administration case as the first witness.

Opponents of the measure, working in close concert, designated Senator Connally, hard hitting Texas Democrat, to cross-examine the cabinet member. Republican members of the committee had previously declined to assume the cross-examination, leaving the opposition to members of the president's own party.

Administration witnesses will be heard for the rest of this week, and next Monday, the opposition will be given its innings. Its first witness will be Senator (D-Mont). Invitations have been sent to Raymond Moley, once an influential New Deal advisor, and Robert Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.

Woman And Three-Year-Old Child Victims Of Crash

PADUCAH, March 9. (AP)—A grade-crossing crash killed three-year-old Charles Flemming and Mrs. Lee Mitchell and critically injured two other persons here tonight.

Mrs. Mitchell died a few hours after an eastbound Quanah, Acme and Pacific passenger train struck a light truck and flipped it into a ditch. The child was killed instantly.

Mrs. Mitchell's husband, who was driving the truck, and Mrs. Forest Flemming, the child's mother, were injured. Mrs. Flemming was considered the more seriously hurt, although the extent of their injuries had not been determined.

Mitchell was quoted as saying he failed to hear the train's whistle as it approached, at slow speed, the crossing in north Paducah.

News Briefs...

A man who had not been reported arrested Tuesday night had been charged that day with swindling by worthless $5 check. J. A. Farris, complainant, also charged another man had swindled him by $5.35 worthless check. He had not been arrested.

A 5-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. O. W. English, Danield "Bo" English, Tuesday night apparently had improved from a chest condition that had not been diagnosed completely, it was said at West Texas hospital. His condition had been considered extremely serious.

Mrs. Bob Hodges of 901 Avenue L, in West Texas hospital for medical treatment, late Tuesday night was believed to be considerably improved. Her condition Monday night apparently was grave.

Trucie Sink, grand chief of the Pythian temple, will be here for the regular meeting of the Pythian temple tonight. Local candidates are to be initiated, and San Angelo members will be guests.

Bond of $100 was set Tuesday for Marlin Forbes, who pleaded not guilty of swindling when arraigned in the court of J. J. Dillard, county judge.

A radio announcement Tuesday night said J. Frank Norfleet, internationally known sleuth of Hale Center, would appear on the Phillip Morris radio program next Tuesday night from 7 to 7:30 o'clock. The announcement said he would fly to New York for the broadcast.

Roy Fitzgerald, 42, Yoakum county rancher, is showing rapid improvement in his condition at Lubbock sanitarium, where he is receiving treatment for pneumonia, Lubbock relatives reported last night. He was admitted Thursday. He is a brother of Mrs. W. W. Pollard of 1617 Seventeenth street.

When Seventy-second district court was recessed Tuesday afternoon, plaintiffs in the damage action of Carl Claborn and others against Sisters of Mercy hospital had rested their case, said Judge Daniel A. Blair. More defense testimony was scheduled for hearing today. Nineteen-year-old Claborn of Lynn county is asking $11,500 damages for injuries allegedly suffered at the Slaton institution when his feet were burned by hot water bottles when he was being treated there.

D. H. Snyder, Brownfield feeder, sold 27 steers Monday at Fort Worth that averaged 848 pounds, for $8.25 per hundred pounds.

F. E. Snyder, Chicago bus company salesman, is spending several days here visiting Joe W. Bowman, manager of South Plains Coaches. Mr. Snyder's company some time ago sold the Lubbock concern two new machines and Mr. Snyder came here to check them over.

One white and one negro juvenile Tuesday were transferred by Sheriff Tom Abel of Lubbock county to Gatesville to serve correctional terms for theft convictions. Another white boy, 16, was transferred to Scurry county, where he was under suspended sentence prior to a recent conviction on a similar offense here, for theft. Authorities said they had been informed he had been in a bicycle theft ring.

A man who recently had "laid out" a fine assessed for drunkenness and who Tuesday was charged in the court of S. E. McMillan, justice of peace, with forgery of a $20 check, had not been reported arrested late in the day. W. E. Adkisson was complainant and the charge was prepared by Burton S. Burks, district attorney. The name of S. R. Cathey had been signed to the instrument, the charge set out.

Authorities, investigating an alleged forgery of his father's name to a $10 check, Tuesday afternoon ran against what they said they believed was another infraction. They said a check he had presented had been "raised" from $5 to $15. The suspect was arrested by Don Reeder, police identifications officer, and Sid Caraway Tuesday.

Theft of a cedar chest containing baby clothes and linens Tuesday was reported to city police by Sherman Vance of 1211-A Ninth street.

Charles E. Becker, president, and W. L. Dugger, vice president, of Great American Life Insurance company of San Antonio, were dinner guests last night of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Mitchell of 1901 Twenty-fourth street.

A negro woman, "last name unknown," Tuesday was charged with aggravated assault on Christine Penegar, another negro woman, Sunday in the Flats, negro quarter. Affiant alleged she had been cut with a knife. Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney, prepared the complaint.

A. V. Bullock, supervisor of Amarillo, Lubbock, Big Spring and Abilene National Youth administration districts, returned to Lubbock Tuesday afternoon after inspecting NYA projects in operation in the Abilene district. He also inspected projects in the East Lubbock district. On his week's tour he was accompanied by his wife and son, Jerry.

Two permits authorizing construction of residences in Lubbock were issued at the office of the city building inspector yesterday. One was to Wesley Smith to construct a frame residence at 1524 Twenty-fourth street. It is estimated to cost about $2,000. W. L. Cone and Son is contractor. The other permit was to C. B. Moore, owner and contractor, to build a box-frame house at 405 Fifth street at an approximate cost of $135.

were not disturbed.

Loss was discovered Monday by Mrs. Ray Red, secretary to the bank, when she went into the vault to check bonds which happened to be with the currency, said Mitchell. She called Lorenz Ellis, assistant cashier, who had placed the currency there, and the amount of the loss was ascertained.

Investigators Expected Here

Federal investigators were notified and were expected to be in Lubbock soon. Police and sheriff's departments were aiding in the investigation.

Mitchell said currency found in the store basement was not examined closely to identify it positively as the bank's property, but that he had accepted it for the bank.

The missing currency was in bills of $5, $10 and $20 denominations.

Authorities disclosed avenues of exit from Lubbock had revealed no trace of Kittrell's having purchased a ticket for transportation, and he had no automobile. That led to belief he had ridden from Lubbock, assuming he had left Lubbock, with someone other than a common carrier.

Check Made At Amarillo

At Amarillo, officials checked hotels bus, rail and plane transportation records in an effort to determine whether he had been there and, if so, whether he had gone. The fine combing, apparently, had been ineffective at midnight.

In the meantime, authorities at Lubbock had relaxed no whit in efforts to associate every possibility consistent with the 25-year-old man's disappearance.

J. Allen Moses was asked to relate incidents growing out of their association Saturday night and early Sunday.

Kittrell last was seen, authorities had been informed by other witnesses, at Broadway and Avenue J at approximately 11:20 o'clock Sunday morning after spending the night with Moses in a downtown hotel.

Guests At Steak Supper

Moses said the bookkeeper and he were guests at a steak supper at the 2117 Twenty-fifth street residence of Herbert Bannister Saturday night. Kittrell registered at the hotel possibly an hour before midnight.

Moses said Kittrell left his room early Sunday, returned after a brief time, then left again.

W. Woody Rogers, clerk in Bowen's Hilton pharmacy, said Kittrell was in that establishment between 9:30 and 10 o'clock Sunday morning, bought cigarets and accepted "change" from a $1 check.

A few minutes before noon he left Bowen's Drug store at Broadway and Avenue J, said Luke Tannery, clerk there. Kittrell was seen standing at intersection of Broadway and Avenue J at about 11:40 o'clock by Pete Caldwell, Caldwell told authorities.

No Other Traces Found

From that point traces apparently were lost in Lubbock.

Investigators did not disclude in their theories a possibility the young man, unmarried and well liked, had been victimized by violence. It was cited he might have met with foul play. There was more than veiled reference to possibilities he could have been abducted by gunmen and forced to enter the bank and, later, to accompany them.

General broadcasts of the police shortwave station at Lubbock continued to send out discriptions of the missing bookkeeper. Announcers asked that any information indicating Kittrell's whereabouts be given immediately.

Kittrell is 5 feet 10 inches tall and has black hair. He is slender, clean cut and handsome. A carefully arrayed man, he was wearing a brown suit, brown kangaroo boots, brown hat, and brown overcoat when last reported seen. His eyes are dark, his face thin.

Wally Moves To A New Retreat

MONTS, France, March 9. (AP)—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson arrived today at her new retreat, 400-year-old turreted Chateau de Cande, accompanied by her riviera hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers.

Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux, wife of a New York industrial engineer, greeted Mrs. Simpson and her friends at the chateau.

The party had tea with Mrs. Bedaux and other guests at a gay house party. Mrs. Simpson then retired to her room, bathed and rested, and was understood to have telephoned the Duke of Windsor before dinner.

Discussing their plans, Rogers said the party would be at the chateau for "at least a month."

Some members of the house party hinted "a very distinguished person" may come to the chateau. They declined to disclose this person's identity but some mention was made it might be "one of the duke's entourage."

Residents of this little town, about 10 miles south of Tours, expressed the hope the wedding of the Duke and Mrs. Simpson might be celebrated in France in event her divorce becomes final April 27.

Concert Tonight Is To Climax Tech Band Uniform Campaign

New Military Uniforms Are To Be Exhibited As Players Put On Concert; Business Club Aided In Sales Drive

"Off with the old; on with the new" will be the cry of Texas Technological college band members this evening when they don brand new military uniforms and present their benefit concert in the college gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

The program to be presented by the band climaxes the uniform benefit drive which is being sponsored by the American Business club and by the Student council of Tech.

Replace Corduroy Uniform

The new suits are replacing red and black corduroy uniforms bought by band members individually in the fall of 1934. Not since November, 1930 has the college or the business men of Lubbock assisted the organization in purchasing new apparel.

The 73 new uniforms, costing $33 each, are of strict military style, with scarlet coats, black trousers, and white Sam Brown shoulder straps, said Claude Thompson, president of Tech student body and student council yesterday.

Knapp To Open Program

The concert program will be opened by President Bradford Knapp with a congratulation to the band and an appreciation of the cooperation of Lubbock and Tech. D. O. Wiley will direct the band in concert.

The following program has been announced by Director Wiley:

Francaise Militaire, march, Saent-Saens; William Tell overture, Rossini; Willow Echoes, cornet solo, Frank Simon, played by Clovis Clough; Procession of the Sardar from "Caucasian Sketches," Ippolotow-Ivanow; Napoli, Bellstedt, baritone solo, played by Robert Fielder.

Strains from Erin (Irish tunes), arranged by Cailliet; Through the Air, August Damm, picollo solo, played by William E. Brady, formerly with the United States army band at Washington, D. C.; Blue Danube, waltz, Strauss; Hear Me Norma, from the opera "Norma," Bellini, trombone duet by Gurthal Gilligan and Joe Foote; My Hero, march paraphrase, Straus-Alford.

Two vaudeville numbers will be presented, one by Dr. C. M. Clough, blackface comedian who formerly appeared on Pantages and Orpheum circuits. The other will be a juggling number by Mundee and June.

Underprivileged Boys Club Talked At Lions Session

Tentative plans for formation of a club for boys among the underprivileged boys of the city, were discussed yesterday noon by members of the Lions club, at the weekly luncheon. Following the meeting a number of interested men met with Berl Huffman, chairman.

Gordon Gaines, local soloist, gave two numbers. Mrs. Ethridge W. Eagan was his accompanist. Clay Anderson was program chairman for the day. President H. C. Pender named M. B. Head as acting tail-twister for the day.

President Pender announced the board of directors at a meeting Monday noon, had given approval to a tentative suggestion to organize a group among boys not affiliated with any other group or organization. The plan is to reach boys not now touched by any local organization, he explained.

Volunteers for the work are needed, he said. Mr. Huffman, an athletic coach at Texas Technological college, has accepted the post of chairman of the club's committee, the president added.

Several Lions spoke on the plan, including W. H. Evans, Jess Levens, Captain John G. Churchill, Dr. M. H. Benson and Joe W. Bowman.

Bill To Extend Act Approved

House Agriculture Committee Favors Annual $500,000,000 Payment To Farmers Until 1942; States Are Slow

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9. — The house agriculture committee approved today a measure to continue until 1942 the annual payment of $500,000,000 to farmers complying with the federal soil conservation program.

The present act, enacted last year to replace the invalidated AAA, provides that the conservation program go on a state basis next year. The federal government would make grants to states for their programs instead of making benefit payments to individuals.

Chairman Jones (D-Tex), author of the amendatory measure, said it was requested by the agriculture department because the states had been slow in setting up conservation programs.

Approximately 3200 cubic feet of helium, 95 to 98 per cent pure, is required to support 200 pounds.

do these telephone mishaps ever happen to you?

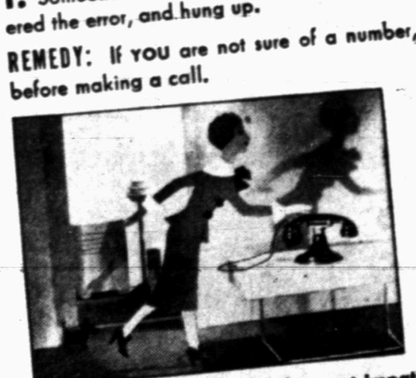

● Your telephone bell rings . . . you pick up the receiver, and . . . there is no one on the line . . .

Here are some ways to avoid this . . . for yourself and for others:

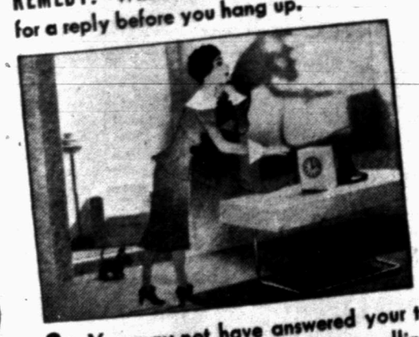

1. Someone may have asked for your number by mistake, discovered the error, and hung up.

REMEDY: If you are not sure of a number, look in the directory before making a call.

2. Someone called you, but got impatient and didn't wait a reasonable time for you to answer.

REMEDY: When YOU make a call, wait about a minute (10 rings) for a reply before you hang up.

3. You may not have answered your telephone promptly; by the time you answered, the person calling had hung up.

REMEDY: Always try to answer your telephone promptly.

Simple remedies, these . . . but important. They help us give you better telephone service.
