Russia Wins Vote Fight But Loses On Polish Issue

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 — The United Nations put their Polish, Russian and leadership rows behind them today and strode forward together on the road they mean to build toward a durable peace.

Without a ripple of dissension which had boiled up earlier between Russia on one side and the United States and Britain on the other, the world security conference voted to:

1. Make the foreign secretaries of the four sponsoring powers—the United States, Britain, Russia and China—co-equal chairmen of the conference. They will preside in turn and consult regularly among themselves on a conference program.

Executive Committee

2. Hand the chairmanship of the all-important steering and executive committees to Secretary of State Stettinius. These are the agencies which will do most of the conference work. They will draft policies and recommendations which the full conference will forge into peace-keeping machinery.

3. Grant representation in a general assembly of a projected world organization to the Ukraine and White Russia. Since the Soviet Union itself will have an assembly vote, this will mean a total of three for Russia.

4. Put 14 members on the conference executive committee.

5. Make the Dumbarton Oaks peace plan, engineered in Washington by the four sponsors, the agenda for the conference.

Polish Regime Sidetracked

In addition, the conference effectively sidetracked Russian efforts to have the present Warsaw government of Poland invited to this conference. This was accomplished by adopting a resolution expressing hope that Poland might be represented when it had a government recognized by all four sponsoring nations.

Russia recognizes the present regime but the United States, Britain and China do not. The result is to place the Polish issue back where it was before the conference began with the Big Three trying to reorganize the government in accord with the Yalta agreement.

For Russia, the day's developments added up to a victory on the three assembly votes, a compromise on conference leadership, and a setback on seating the present Polish regime in Warsaw at this conference table.

For the world, they meant that the conference finally had achieved enough harmony so it could

Captured Generals Bare Nazi Secrets

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, On The Elbe.—German generals who have been flowing into American prison cages like commuters in the five o'clock subway crush, have given some interesting sidelights on life behind the scenes in Germany.

One, whose father was executed among scores of smaller fry in the Hitler plot purge, said that Reichs marshal Hermann Goering knew of the attempt on the life of Adolf Hitler and, although he took no active part in it, made no attempt to halt it.

He said the explosive was smuggled into Hitler's war room in two types of experimental knapsacks. Hitler was known to have a weakness for inspecting all new equipment and had ordered them brought in. This allowed the conspirators to get them past Hitler's watchful guards but the time device for the explosion went off just as Hitler stepped behind the door into an adjoining room.

Another general closely connected with Field Marshal von Rundstedt said that von Rundstedt wanted to give up after the failure of the Ardennes offensive but was kept from doing so by the knowledge that he never would be able to complete the peace negotiations under the eye of the SS.

Another German general who served on the staff of the late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the desert campaign, and escaped from Tunisia the day before the Allies took Tunis, had high praise for General Eisenhower's tactics which wound up the African campaign in May, 1943, with a bag of 340,000 prisoners.

Up to that time, he said, the Afrika korps had suffered only 40,000 casualties itself, although it had lost great numbers of Italians.

Most of the German generals know Hitler's redoubt plans for southern Germany but are unimpressed with the military defense possibilities. For this reason many of them are giving up what they think is a hopeless fight.

"Certainly the Nazis are preparing a redoubt area to be defended to the last," one German general said, "but what of it? Such medieval romanticisms, which is typical of the Nazis, has no place in modern war."

Texas House Passes Chiro License Bill

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 27 — Passed on second reading by a margin of three votes in the House of Representatives today was a bill regulating and licensing chiropractors.

The vote was 56 to 53. It may be considered on final reading next week.

Before the House adjourned until Monday it laid out a bill requiring pre-marital blood examinations of both prospective brides and grooms. This means the bill will be pending business Monday. Present law requires only that prospective grooms be examined for freedom from venereal disease.

Would Cure Defects

The new chiropractic bill, by Rep. W. W. Roark of Temple and others, seeks to cure the defects in the invalidated act, sponsors said. It creates a board of chiropractic examiners, sets up minimum educational standards and requires that all practioners stand examinations before they may be licensed, including those who have passed an examination under the invalidated law.

Opponents claimed the bill was no more valid than its predecessor.

Roark insisted that its final passage would protect the public against irresponsible and ill-prepared chiropractors, many of whom he said are now practicing in Texas.

Bill On Adjournment

By overwhelming vote the Senate today proposed to end the general session of the legislature on May 10 and House proponents of the Senate plan immediately began mustering support for the proposal when it reaches a House vote.

The concurrent resolution was approved by the Senate 20 to 6.

May 10 would be the 122nd day of the session which began Jan. 9. The constitution suggests a 120-day general session but permits a longer meeting. The $10 per day pay per day of members drops to $5 after the 120th day.

House approval of May 10 sine die adjournment would speed the processing of major appropriation bills, none of which has been passed finally. Further, it would result in a scramble by members seeking approval of many other measures on the calendar but May 10 adjournment would seal the death warrant for the great bulk of bills.

Authors of the Senate resolution were Sens. A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, Pat Bullock of Colorado City, Allan Shivers of Port Arthur and Buster Brown of Temple.

Patton Spears Into Austria; Russians Far Beyond Berlin

Another Link-Up West Of Capital Now Is Imminent

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, April 28.—Russian armies, conquering three-quarters of dying Berlin and seizing its last airdrome, left the German capital to dust-choked storm troops yesterday and struck west in twin offensives toward a second link-up with American forces and the isolation of Germany's last Baltic ports.

Berlin, writhing in its final death throes, was a wilderness of crumbled stone and steel swept by flame-tinged winds and, though its defenders resisted fanatically in a vain struggle, its inner and outer defenses were cracking fast.

Several Suburbs Taken

Potsdam, cradle of Prussianism on the city's southwestern limits, fell and with it went the great western suburb of Spandau and the city districts of Schmargendorf, Steglitz, Neukoelln and Tempelhof. The great Tempelhof airdrome, the last air escape and supply route, was overrun.

Enemy broadcasts admitted that the situation was "critical" as the Soviets battered out advances of a mile and more around the blasted inner core of the capital. The Germans insisted that Adolf Hitler still was there, prepared to die a martyr's death in a battle which Germany's fading radios said would decide the war.

With Germany split by a junction of Russian and American First Army forces along the Elbe northwest of Dresden, the Red Army rushed toward a second imminent link-up—this time with the U. S. 9th Army on the middle Elbe due west of Berlin.

Far West Of Capital

Premier Stalin, in one of four triumphant orders of the day, announced that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army had captured Rathenow, 33 miles west of Berlin, in a drive that by-passed the great city of Brandenburg.

Zhukov's sweep in a 22-mile advance from Nauen, carried these Russian troops within 13 miles of the Ninth Army standing on the Elbe at Tangermuende. Additionally, it deepened the band of steel around encircled Berlin and virtually wiped out any Nazi hopes of rushing reinforcements into doomed Berlin through Russian lines.

Stalin meanwhile revealed that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army, which took part in the historic American-Russian meeting on the Elbe river at Torgau, had captured Wittenberg, on

IT'S 'NORTH AND SOUTH' FRONTS NOW—After junction of American First Army and Russians, and other imminent linkups all along the non-resistant central parts of the German front, Germany is now split into 'north and south' fronts for the final clean-up of Nazi forces.

Allied Columns Move Rapidly In Drive On Hideout

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Saturday, April 28 — American tank columns invaded Austria yesterday, advanced 26 miles west of the Nazi citadel of Munich, and crashed into the western end of Hitler's alpine redoubt.

While the U. S. Third Army, plowing unopposed into Austria, made radio contact with Russian southern armies less than 85 miles to the southeast, two U. S. Seventh Army armored divisions went on a tear farther west.

One Column In Landsberg

The Tenth Armored division sent one column spearing 28 miles east into Landsberg, only 26 miles west of Munich, birthplace of Nazism and now considered the northern outpost for the final death stand.

Another column raced 14 miles straight south into the Bavarian Alps, driving 10 miles or so into what is probably Hitler's inner fortress, and reached Kempten, 11 miles from the Austrian frontier.

This push threatened to cut in behind any Germans in the redoubt concentrated around the area of Lake Constance, some 30 miles to the west. The tank crews here were 65 miles from the northern mountain border of Italy.

12th Close On Flank

The 12th Armored division likewise was racing east close on the north flank of the 10th Armored division and, after hurdling the Wurtach river, was about 30 miles west of Munich.

Both columns, with the endless lines of infantry swinging up ponderously from behind, expected to meet savage resistance in Hitler's old home town of Munich.

The Third Army, crossing the Danube repeatedly, also was marching on Munich from the north and last was reported 38 miles away.

While these blows made the formidable and well-defended southern pocket trouble, the battle against the northern pocket was rising in fury.

Similar To Jap Banzai

A field dispatch from the Canadian First Army front said waves of young and fanatic Germans were hurling themselves at the Canadians in a suicidal version of the Japanese banzai charge, and were being mowed down "by the thousands."

These Germans had no choice but to fight before the naval ports of Wilhelmshaven and Emden, for the fall of Bremen had cut them off from the east.

TORGAU, Germany, April 26. (Delayed) — Americans and Russians sat in the warm sunshine on both banks of the Elbe today, drinking champaign from beer mugs, pounding each other on the back and toasting the historic occasion of the meeting of their two armies.

There was singing and dancing and the troops of the two nations, seeing each other for the first time, whooped it up and formed firm friendships despite the handicaps of language. It was enough that they were allies and had whipped the enemy.

Russian Ecstatic

The stocky smiling Russians, looking very young and very tough, were ecstatic. They ceremoniously saluted and shook hands with everyone they met. They crushed your hand until you wondered how many handshakes you could stand. They were filled with spontaneous gaiety.

Almost every Russian had a tommygun slung across his shoulder. Revolvers were in their high-topped boots and their belts were festooned with grenades and knives. Most of them wore medals on their thick chests. All around there was the sound of shooting as the Russians worked off excess energy and excitement.

A Russian sat on a stone wall playing an accordian while Sgt. Andrew Marriock of Hudson, N. Y. joined in the Red Army song—"If war should come tomorrow we will be prepared on land, at sea and in the air." A Russian woman in

Yanks Close In On Okinawa Airfields

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

Forcing the Japanese to abandon their first line of defense on bloody Okinawa island, hard-hitting American soldiers have made general gains along the flaming battle line and are closing in on two important airfields.

The forward surge of the Yanks on Okinawa was reported late Friday in front line dispatches and Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique.

Second Negros Landing

In the Philippines, American soldiers made a second invasion of Negros island near the city of Dumaguete. The Japanese followed their usual pattern, setting fires in the metropolis. On Mindanao island the Yanks made 10 miles through the Apo mountain range and were within sight of Digos, on Davao gulf. From Digos a coastal road twists northeastward 2 miles to Davao city.

The Yanks in the rugged Balete pass sector of Luzon gained high ground dominating that gateway to the Cagayan valley.

Philippine-based American planes hammered Japanese positions in the valley with 730 tons of explosives. They also hit war industries on Formosa and in sweeps against shipping destroyed or damaged 10 freighters and other smaller craft.

At Edges Of Fields

Dispatches from the Okinawa front indicated American soldiers may have reached the northern edges of the Machinato and Yonabaru fields. The Japanese withdrew hurriedly from their first line of defense.

The Yanks battled their way toward Machinato, near the west coast, after bypassing strong Japanese positions in Nakama village. The airdrome is about two and a half miles north of Naha, Okinawa capital and chief American objective.

Along the east flank the Yank soldiers pushed through two villages in their drive on the Yonabaru field.

American naval guns and aerial bombs aided the ground troops. In the center of the line and on the east flank the Japanese poured deadly mortar and machine gun fire into the advancing Yanks. In the mid-section, however, two key hills were taken by the doughboys.

Suicide Rocket Bombs

Suicide rocket bombs are being used by the Japanese in the bloody battle of Okinawa. Admiral Nimitz disclosed that the bombs, carrying a pilot, are launched from the underside of bombing planes. This new weapon, he declared "cannot prevent our continuing success in the war in the Pacific."

Associated Press war correspondent Vern Haugland reported that the bombs attain high speeds but appear difficult to maneuver "and

Draft Extension Goes To Truman

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP) —After approving unanimously a restriction against use of 18-year-old inductees in combat, the House sent to President Truman today legislation extending the draft law.

Without the extension, the act under which the United States has conscripted the biggest Army and Navy in its history would have expired on May 15.

For Duration Of War

The continuance is until May 15, 1946, or until the end of the global war, whichever comes first.

The House action was by voice vote on the question of concurring in a Senate amendment to an earlier House bill extending the draft law without change.

The Senate's amendment prohibited the use in combat of inducted men under 19 until they have had at least six months of training. It grew out of complaints of members of Congress that youths had been killed in action less than six months from the time of their induction.

Withdrew Objections

While the Army had opposed the curb when the House first acted on the bill last month, it was understood to have withdrawn its objection in the light of recent developments on the war fronts.

The restriction does not prevent the Navy or the Coast Guard from assigning 18-year-old inductees to training on combat ships.

Neither does it require the recall from combat of men now in fighting units without six months of training.

Nazis In Italy Seek Surrender

ROME, April 27. (AP) — American Fifth Army troops smashed into the great port of Genoa today, a special Allied headquarters communique announced, as the "Free Milan" radio declared German commanders were trying to negotiate a general surrender of their hopelessly trapped forces in northern Italy.

Allied headquarters did not confirm the surrender report, but conceded that American and other Allied armored columns slashing across the final miles to the Alps were meeting only "generally weak and disorganized" resistance.

Musso Said Arrested

An unidentified spokesman of the Italian Socialist party in Milan and the Italian patriot newspaper La Liberta said Benito Mussolini, "yellow with fury and fear," had been arrested as he attempted to cross the Swiss frontier.

Crushing pockets of resistance, the American Fifth and British Eighth armies sliced across the Adige river at "many points," the communique said, and on the British Eighth Army front the enemy was pressed so closely he had no opportunity to reorganize his scattered and demoralized forces.

Entry Into Genoa

A task force consisting of American 473rd and 442nd Infantry and elements of the 92nd Infantry division made the Genoa entry.

"Italian partisans had previously captured a large part of the city and facilitated the entry of our troops into the city," the communique reported. "The condition of the port has not been determined yet."

The Allied command said nothing of new gains toward Milan, another great city, where the partisan radio said the Germans and Fascists had been ousted.

Goering Said Gone With Great Loot

LONDON, April 27. (AP)—A German announcement that Reichsmarshal Herman Goering had resigned as chief of the now-impotent German Air force because of "an acute heart condition" was followed today by a Moscow report that he had fled by air to an unknown destination.

The Moscow report asserted the portly reichsmarshal — who once boasted that the Allies could never bomb Berlin — was said to have taken with him his wife and loot valued at $20,000,000. The Russians said the Germans doubtless had proclaimed Goering's resignation to hide the fact of his sudden disappearance.

A German general, newly captured by the U. S. Ninth Army, said Goering probably already had been executed.

B-29s Take Another Shot At Tokyo Area

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP) — A third attack by Superfortresses in three days against air installations in the Japanese homeland today (April 28, Japanese time) met with good results, the 20th Airforce headquarters announced.

The B-29s—perhaps as many as 150—carried out their bombing by visual means. One American plane was lost to enemy action.

Headquarters said anti-aircraft fire generally was moderate over the six airfield targets and fighter opposition was weak.

Hitler's Hideout Is Blown Apart

LONDON, Apr. 27 (AP)—Hitler's luxurious Swiss chalet, at Berchtesgaden was blown apart by three hits with six-ton earthquake bombs and other high explosives, air reconnaissance revealed today.

The Air Ministry said photos taken after Wednesday's RAF raid on der fuehrer's alpine retreat show part of the main building and his home were destroyed, and both wings were severely damaged.

SS Barracks Wrecked

Barracks on the grounds housing his hand-picked bodyguard of storm troopers also were wrecked. One entire block of these quarters was demolished and another section levelled by a direct hit, and more than half the top story of a third was destroyed.

Other important buildings close to the chalet were hit and a large section of the residence of the head of the Obersalzburg SS administration was knocked down and the rest of the building badly damaged. Baron von Schenck's administration headquarters and the air raid control center were gutted.

Simultaneously with Wednesday's attack on Berchtesgaden by about 350 RAF Lancasters, 200 Flying Fortresses of the American Eighth Air force inflicted severe damage on the huge Skoda armaments works at Pilsen.

Many Direct Hits

An Eighth Air force communique said today direct hits were made on at least 22 buildings of the sprawling 325 acre plant.

WPB Reinstates 'Spot' Program

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The War Production board today restored to nationwide effect its "spot" reconversion plan for civilian goods production.

The action, a major step in WPB's program to get partial reconversion underway as rapidly as munitions cutbacks occur, puts the plan back in operation in 184 cities and major industrial areas where it had been suspended.

Under the spot plan, any manufacturer who can prove he has labor and machinery not needed for war work may apply to his WPB field office for permission to commence the manufacture of civilian and consumer products.

Suspended Last Fall

When Allied armies stalled at the German west wall late in 1944, and armament demands soared in consequence, the plan was suspended in tight labor areas in order to prevent the diversion of labor from war production.

In announcing that all areas now would be on the same footing, Chairman J. A. Krug emphasized that the relaxation of WPB controls would be "very gradual" because of the need of maintaining full war production necessary to complete the victory in Europe, and keep abreast of quickening operations in the Pacific.

Controls over textiles, leather, lumber, rubber, many chemicals and some other strategic materials will continue for some time, possibly throughout the Japanese war, he said.

Farm Machinery

Simultaneously WPB announced restoration of almost the entire tonnage of steel slashed on April 10 from the farm machinery production program. Lowering of military demands for steel made the action possible, it was stated.

The tonnage is less than necessary to complete 100 per cent of the authorized farm machinery production, WPB said, but will render it unnecessary for farm machinery companies to cancel orders on steel mills.

Regents Start Talk On Texas U. Prexy

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP) — The first tentative step in the direction of selecting a new president for the Uuniversity of Texas was taken today when the board of regents met with a faculty committee named to advise with it for that purpose.

Chairman Dudley K. Woodward of the board of regents, in announcing the executive session, said it would be chiefly in the nature of a get-acquainted session, and that no further statement would be issued by the board in connection with it.

There will be no statements after future meetings between the board and members of the faculty committee, Woodward said.

Dittmar Surrenders, Says War Will End In Few Days

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, In Germany, April 25. (Delayed) — Fox-faced, wasp-waisted Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, most widely quoted strategist of the German high command, surrendered today and told American officers that the Reich lost the war militarily when it failed to stop the Normandy invasion and lost it politically when Hitler escaped assassination last July.

Dittmar, whose shrewd commentaries on German military movements were quoted by Allied press and radio for five years, gave up to U. S. Ninth Army troops guarding Elbe. Crossing the river in a rowboat under a white flag, the nervous little expert said he wanted to negotiate the surrender of a number of German troops who were terrified by the approach of the Russians.

The quality of German resistance since last summer was minimized by the slight, shriveled man, generally known as the voice of the German Army and the wehrmacht's most informed spokesman. Patting his balding head nervously, he insisted that the war was bound to end in a few days and asserted there had been no wehrmacht strategy for the past six months.

Insisting Hitler was still in Berlin, Dittmar said the Nazi leader would either be killed or commit suicide there, that he would never face an Allied trial as a war criminal. The only important German resistance left, he said, was that sparked by the Gestapo, stormtroopers and Elite Guard which would cease upon Hitler's death. He said Reichmarshal Hermann Goering probably already had been executed.

American authorities, although admitting the possibility that Dittmar's surrender was an enemy plant, seemed to entertain little doubt that the information he gave was genuine or that the man himself desired to seek grace with eleventh hour honesty.

Friday, April 27.

DEAR: ----------

Thousands of dollars of damage were occasioned early Tuseday when a two-alarm fire, started by an explosion in the kitchen of Ben's cafe, 913 Thirteenth, quickly spread to other offices and business establishments at Thirteenth and Texas Ave. Firemen Woodrow Quinn and W. B. Williams were taken to the Lubbock General hospital after a second explosion had toppled part of the cafe's wall but their injuries are not serious.

Draughon's Business college that maintained an office at 1303 Texas, on the ground floor, and the entire second story of the building, extending from Texas 125 feet eastward to the alley, counted heavy damage, including damage to 100 typewriters and total loss for calculators, adding machine and other equipment. The college had planned to move to new classrooms soon in the Ferguson building at Fifteenth and Texas.

Only water damage was counted at Shook Tire company.

A heavy loser was the Evans toy manufacturing company which was not insured. Finberg Trading company at 911 Thirteenth was the other place burned out.

Ely Fonville and Howard Gholson have resigned as district rationing officer and director, respectively, of the Office of Price administration and it is rumored that Owen McWhorter, chief of the legal division and principal advisor to Gholson on matters of policy, and Earl Kerr, supervisor of boards in the 71 counties of the district, will resign.

All of the men have desired to return to private business for some time but Gholson's resignation followed recent differences between the Lubbock and Dallas offices over matters of policy. The break came when the Dallas office filed misdemeanor charges against the 3-man gasoline panel in El Paso, which touched off almost a community-wide revolt in the border city and resulted in the El Paso business and civic leaders appealing directly to OPA administrator Chester Bowles in Washington, to veto action of the Dallas regional office.

Gholson's successor, temporarily at least, will be J. Bryan Miller, executive officer of the regional set-up in Dallas. He was city manager of Lubbock 1930-31.

Gholson will return to the oil business, in which he is associated with his brothers. Fonville is to enter the insurance business here.

Lubbock is falling short in its drive for used clothing to be sent to the peoples of liberated Europe. By mid-week slightly over one-tenth of the quota of 250,000 pounds had been realized, according to F. A. Kleinschmidt, chairman of the drive which ends Monday.

County Federation of Women's clubs is sponsoring a project to plant trees and shrubs along the highways and in parks as tribute to the thousands of men and women in the service. The State Highway department will direct the actual planting.

Carol Krueger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Krueger, 2703 Nineteenth, was one of 10 most beautiful University of Texas co-eds chosen by Bob Hope from a collection of 400 photographs.

After receiving treatment at Bakersfield, Calif., for injuries received in a March 6 plane crash on a mountain near there, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cone have returned to their home here. Mrs. Cone, who received a broken back in the crash, is recovering satisfactorily. Mr. cone was pilot of the private plane which struck a tree when he brought it below the clouds only a few yards before it would have been clear of the mountains.

New OPA Head Here To Be West Texan

A West Texan, probably from Lubbock, will be named as successor to Howard R. Gholson as director of the West Texas district of the Office of Price administration, J. Bryan Miller, executive officer of OPA's six-state region centering in Dallas, said here Friday morning.

Miller, who was Lubbock city manager for 11 months during 1930-31, arrived from Dallas last night and will spend several days here in conference with Mr. Gholson who resigned earlier in the week.

"The regional office will pick a well-qualified man to succeed Gholson," Miller said, adding that he anticipated no changes in personnel, except to fill vacancies that will exist due to resignation of two other executives. These positions will also be filled by local men if possible, he said.

Fonville, Kerr Resign

Ely Fonville, district rationing officer, and Earl Kerr, district board supervisor, have turned in their resignations to Gholson.

Miller explained that he seeks to become acquainted with the district personnel. He will then return to Dallas and plans to be back in Lubbock a few days before Gholson's resignation becomes effective May 12, at which time he will take over as district director temporarily.

He added there would be no change in policy in the district office. He had nothing but praise for the efforts of Gholson, stating that he had done "a wonderful job."

While Gholson has made no statement, his resignation was laid to differences of opinion between the 71-county district office here, and the Dallas regional office, regarding policies.

Large Group To Finish At LAAF

The largest group of student officers yet to finish at the big AAF Instructors school for instrument pilots at Lubbock Army Air field is to be graduated today, the fourth class of combat veterans to complete the intensive "post graduate" course of advanced instruction in "all weather" instrument flying to receive diplomas.

After receiving their diplomas, the combat veterans will start returning to their base stations throughout the nationwide AAF Training Command from California to Florida where they will train other fliers in the latest methods of "all weather" instrument flying as they were taught it at LAAF.

New Class Due Sunday

And starting Sunday the sixth class of veterans will begin arriving on the post to start the process of getting settled down and getting into the swing of the next six weeks course. A majority of the new class will be on hand by Monday noon it is expected, and actual work for the new group of student officers will get under way Tuesday.

The fifth group of veterans has reached the half-way mark in their course of study and will graduate in three more weeks.

Included in Saturday's class of graduates are seven officers finishing at LAAF for the second time, men who originally received their wings on the field. They include 1st. Lt. Howard A. Lindsey of Class 43-I; 1st. Lt. Lawrence R. Muldoon of Class 43-F; Capt. Eual E. Stone, 43-D; 1st. Lt. Harvey Dockery, 44-B; 1st. Lt. Kenneth E. McCain, 43-G; 1st. Lt. John C. Moak, 43-H; and 1st. Lt. James D. Vandergrift, 43-K, all veterans of many missions against the enemy.

Also in the class were several other officers with impressive records in combat, among them being 1st. Lt. Charles L. Cobb of Marion, Mass., a P-40, P-39 and P-38 pilot and a veteran of almost two years in the Southwest Pacific back when the Japs were blasting their way close to Australia. Lt. Cobb has seven Jap planes shot down to his credit, was shot down in the jungles, rescued and went back into action and has travelled over the nation during the Fifth and Sixth War Loan campaigns.

Westerners Play To 6-6 Deadlock

Cashing in on the breaks in the late stages of the ball game, the Lubbock Westerners White team came from behind to gain a 6 to 6 tie with the Blacks in the second game of the spring football camp at Chapman field Friday afternoon.

The Blacks took a lead in the first quarter, and appeared headed for their second win of the series, but the Whites struck late to push over a touchdown as John Lanham smashed over from the two yard line for the touchdown.

Fumble Starts Drive

The Whites set up the touchdown when Gerald Davis, veteran end, pounced on Rampy's fumble on the Black 14 yard line. Lanham and Don Austin began to pound into the Black line, and pushed to the two, where Lanham plunged over.

The Blacks staged a brilliant 70 yard march down the field in the first quarter, and Charles Pressley smashed from eight yards out for the Black score.

Stevenson Injured

The game was played without the services of Lloyd Stevenson, blocking back, who joined the Westerner hospital brigade Thursday afternoon with a back injury that will keep him out for several days.

The squad was bolstered for the game by several of the boys released from the track squad, but two boys counted on heavily for football this fall are still with the track squad. They are George Brewer and George Etz.

The outstanding boy in the game Friday was little Don Austin, who stood out in the lineup of the Whites both on the offense and defense. A pair of linemen in the Blacks forward wall were showing up well with Billy Petree at end and Ike Modewell at tackle doing some fine work.

Another bright spot in the picture was the showing of the rival centers in the game, Kemper McGowan and Don Holton, both of whom were looking good.

Bible Plans Protest On Signing Of Culp

AUSTIN, April 27 (AP)—Athletic Director Dana X. Bible of the University of Texas said today he would make a protest over the signing of Longhorn pitcher Henry Culp by the Memphis Chicks of the Southern Association.

Baseball Coach Blair Cherry said that Culp departed for Memphis without notifying him Wednesday. Culp had been scheduled to pitch for the Longhorns today in a game with Southern Methodist university at Dallas.

Bible said that he realized he had little basis for protest to the baseball commissioner since there is no rule regarding the signing of college players by professional baseball teams, as there is in pro football. Bible said he hoped a protest might start a movement to prevent other cases.

Culp was discharged from the Army Air Corps in November after 19 months service in the South Pacific.

A's Hand Bosox Eighth Defeat

PHILADELPHIA, April 27. (AP) The hapless Boston Red Sox ran afoul of the masterful right arm of Russ Christopher today and dropped their eighth straight 5-3 to the Philadelphia Athletics.

It was big Russ' third successive victory.

A flock of errors almost ruined Christopher's six-hit performance as the Sox came from behind to knot the score 3-3 in the seventh.

But the A's snapped back quickly, scoring once in the last half of the seventh on Charley Metro's single—his first safe blow of the year—and Bobby Estalella's mighty three-base blow. Metro doubled in the eighth to score Joe Burns with the A's final tally.

Second baseman George Myatt starred for the Senators, getting four hits, stealing three bases and scoring two runs. He high-lighted the Nat's three-run fifth inning, singling with the bases full to score two runners.

Kid softball took the spotlight in Lubbock Friday afternoon with every team in the Lubbock grade school softball league race taking the field for games that provided some of the year's best performances.

K. Carter Coyotes, Central Ward Spurs and Hunt Pioneers all turned in clean sweeps of their twin bills, while the Wilson Wranglers and Dupre Dogies divided the honors.

K. Carter's softballers came up with the day's most sensational pitching when the boys won over Sanders 8 to 1 and the girls rolled to an 18-0 win. The Carter pitchers were not announced.

Wayne Stroud pitched the Hunt Pioneers to a 12-4 win over Guadalupe in the boys game, while the Pioneer girls were awarded their game on a forfeit.

Central Ward turned loose with a heavy barrage of base hits, and Neil Vaughn pitched the Spurs to a 22 to 4 win over Bean in the boys game, while DeNaune Guest weathered the storm for the girls from Bean, 34 to 19.

BROOKLYN, April 27. (AP)—Bill Voiselle, ace righthander of the New York Giants, registered his third straight victory of the season, his second over the Dodgers, as Mel Ott's first placers defeated Brooklyn today, 5-0.

Ott hit his third home run of the campaign in the sixth inning, but it was Steve Filipowicz, who followed the manager with another circuit clout in the same inning, who starred at bat for the victors with four hits. Besides his homer, the former Fordham football hero bashed two doubles and a single, and drove in three runs.

Curt Davis started for the Dodgers and lasted seven innings, giving up four runs and 10 hits.

REDS TRIP CARDS

CINCINNATI, April 27. (AP) — Dain Clay's timely hitting and big Ed Heusser's four-hit hurling today gave Cincinnati's Reds a 2-1 victory over the world champion St. Louis Cardinals before 1,084 shivering fans.

Clay, sophomore centerfielder, singled in Kermit Wahl who had walked in the fifth, and doubled his pitcher home in the seventh after Heusser had forced Joe Just.

Heusser, who reported late to spring training from his Utah home, had plenty of zip all the way although he walked seven against three passes by Ted Wicks, his opposing moundsman. He fanned one, Wilks two. Two of Heusser's passes, however, came in the ninth when with two out, both Debs Garms and Glenn Crawford, the latter hitting for Wilks, drew free tickets. But Bergamo flied to end the threat.

CUBS SPANK BUCS

CHICAGO, April 27. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs made the most of loose Pittsburgh play to spank the Pirates, 7-3, today for their fifth straight victory and big Paul Derringer's third successive mound triumph.

Derringer was handed a 4-0 lead in the opening frame when outfielder John Barrett lost Don Johnson's fly in the sun for a three-run error.

Victim of all four Pirates miscues was Truett "Rip" Sewell, who allowed four hits in four innings and was charged with the loss.

Steers, Owls, Aggies In Track Meet Today

HOUSTON, April 27. (AP) — A preview of the Southwest Conference track and field meet will be run here tomorrow when Texas, Rice and Texas A. and M. hook up in a triangular affair the Longhorns are expected to win but not to hog by any means.

Absence of Andy Shurr, star Texas sprinter who will be competing in the Drake Relays, makes the dashes a free-for-all with little George Walmsley of Rice matched against Charley Tatom, Earl Collins and Frank Beneke of the Longhorns and W. A. Wilson of the Aggies.

Before the war, there were about 3,500 psychiatrists in the United States.

LAAF Baseball Nine Makes Fine Showing

Lubbock Army Air field's baseball nine made an impressive showing Friday afternoon in the season's first ball game at the West Base, and slammed out a 14 to 3 over the colored team at the field.

Capt. Don Safely started on the mound for the Whites and looked impressive during his stay on the mound. He was followed to the hill by Avis, who also looked good while pitching the last part of the seven inning game.

Two more boys who made an impressive showing were Wilhite behind the bat for the Post team, and Elwood at second base. Elwood and Gartrell led the attack with two hits each.

Odie started on the hill for the losers, and looked good at the start, but hit a snag in the fourth inning when the Post team opened up the attack. Bedford also stood out for the losers, playing a flashy game at the hot corner.

Swedish Hurdler Cops Penn Relay Feature

PHILADELPHIA, April 27 (AP) Haakan Lidman, the timber-skimming sports writer from Sweden, hammered out the only story of the Penn Relays today as he raced to an easy triumph in the invitation 120 yard high hurdles race, feature of the first day of the 51st annual track carnival.

Pushed along by a chilly northwest wind that hampered performances throughout the afternoon, Lidman skimmed over the barriers in 14.4 seconds to win the first outdoor race of a second tour by a ten yard margin. The time was only one tenth of a second slower than the carnival record set by Jack Keller of Ohio State in 1933.

Lidman's more famous countryman, Gunder Haegg, is scheduled to make his farewell appearance here tomorrow in a handicap mile run in which he will give handicaps up to 180 yards to a group of American college runners.

Morton Cooper Jumps Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 27 (AP)—Big Mort Cooper, the pitching half of the famed St. Louis Cardinal brother battery, failed to leave for Cincinnati with his teammates, it was learned today.

Lee J. Havener, attorney for the Coopers, refused to reveal the pitcher's whereabouts but said his failure to depart with the team "resulted from the brothers' salary controversy with Owner Sam Breadon."

Walker Cooper, the catching half of the battery, remained at home also since he is to be inducted into military service at Jefferson Barracks here Monday.

Breadon said Mort had called yesterday to say he would not make the trip to Cincinnati, but gave no reason. Breadon declined to elaborate.

Walker said he had not seen his brother since Wednesday night.

"I don't know where Mort is," he said.

A call to Mort's home revealed the telephone had been disconnected.

Longhorns Come From Behind For Victory

DALLAS, April 27. (AP)—Coming from behind to tie the score in the ninth inning, the University of Texas Longhorns went on a four-run rampage in the tenth today to defeat Southern Methodist, 6-2, and retain first place in the Southwest Conference baseball championship race.

The Longhorn's, suddenly weakened on the eve of their crucial northern trip when their star pitcher, Henry Culp, signed with Memphis in the Southern Association, now have three victories to their credit in the conference. They have not been beaten in the league. Today's loss was the second in five starts for the Mustangs.

SMU was donated the game by errors which produced two runs in the seventh, then gave it away in the eighth.

The Steers engage TCU's Horned Frogs tomorrow in a doubleheader at Fort Worth and conclude their northern road jaunt.

COBB TO COACH

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP) — Ty Cobb, who holds a lifetime batting average of .367, today was named by Director James W. Crosett as coach of the West team in the Esquire All American boys game to be played in New York's Polo Grounds this summer. The East team won last year's game, 6 to 0.

Boys Club Has Fast Show Of Ring Bouts

The fastest and best ring battles of the season were unreeled at the weekly fight show at the Lubbock Boys club Friday night as the club scrappers continued to narrow the field down toward the championships of each division.

Nine championship fights and one exhibition rounded out a ten fight card which was declared as the best of the year.

Jimmy Jackson, 45, took a popular decision over Jimmy Alley, 50, in the exhibition battle.

Keith Newman, 79, won by a technical knockout over Dennis Atkins, 75, in a battle that provided plenty of leather slinging before the bout was ended in the third round. It was one of the best on the card.

Another TKO win was turned in by Charles Rand, 92, over Robert Whisenant, 95, in another fast battle.

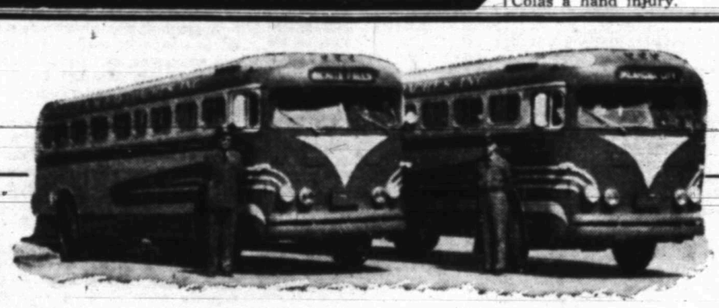

Billy Gray, 74, won the curtain raiser over Jim Hawkins, 80. Jimmy Sexton, 86, punched out a decision over Pat Warren, 96, in another good battle. Willie Gleaton, 112, won over Bobby Snodgrass, 109; David Allen, 70, lost to John Terry, 74; Ted Matthews, 94, beat John Wilkerson, 103; Robert Ferguson, 114, lost to W. A. Sikes, 109, and Pat Wallace, 115, beat Dwain Peters, 112.

Rice Beats Aggies On Sloppy Ag Play

COLLEGE STATION, April 27. (AP)—Wild pitching by Elmer Purtle coupled with seven miscues afield by Texas Aggie teammates today gave Rice Institute's nine enough of a lead in the first three innings to win the game. The score was Rice 10, Aggies 3.

In the second the Owls scored three runs on one hit, one error and three bases on balls. In the third they scored four runs on three hits and two errors. The Owls added three more in the sixth to clinch matter with a walk and four clean hits.

LaGuardia Misses FDR

President's Death Stymies Him

THE DEATH of the late President Franklin Roosevelt very probably will have a profound effect upon many international and domestic affairs and not the least will be its effect upon the career of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York City.

The fiery "Little Flower" was looking longingly at a fourth term at the helm of the world's most important commercial citidel and planned to make the race if he could secure continued support of Mr. Roosevelt. But when the President died, most of Mr. LaGuardia's chances for re-election went out of the window.

Reports from Gotham now indicate that LaGuardia will decide not to run again.

Bob Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic National committee, is now the No. 1 backstage Democrat, and although he hails from Missouri he will dictate the choice of his party's New York mayoralty favorite. Mr. Hannegan doesn't like Mr. LaGuardia in the first place. In the second place, he thinks the Democrats should have their own New York standard-bearer instead of throwing in with a political mongrel. Therefore he has hit upon William O'Dwyer, popular Brooklyn lawyer, prosecutor of "Murder, Incorporated," and currently a brigadier general in the Army.

But had Mr. Roosevelt lived, it is entirely possible he would have continued his support of LaGuardia, for the two were longtime personal and political friends. Hannegan's opinion would have cut little ice and the "Little Flower" would have had at least a fighting chance for re-election — which New York observers agree he doesn't have now.

Thus the passing of the former President makes itself felt even in avenues ordinarily not connected with the White House.

Framing Up On The 'Skeeter

SCIENCE IS wonderful, and never more so than when it comes up with an achievemen like that of Dr. Morton C. Kahn, the New York public health professor who is proposing to eradicate the mosquito by a strange and ingenious plot. It is his plan to record the love song of the female mosquito, play it on a phonograph, and trap the hordes of male mosquitoes who come flocking for romance.

Probably it had not occurred to many persons that mosquitoes had a love call. The only sound most individuals have ever heard them make is the steady and malignant buzzing which announces that they are about to pounce upon an arm or ear.

But Dr. Kahn is authority for the statement that mosquitoes do have their softer moments when their thought turn to romance and love. At such times the female mosquito utters what Dr. Kahn describes, rather slightingly, it seems, as a low bellow. To this the assorted males in the vicinity respond with a high, thin wail and buzz in like a squadron of dive bombers in full attack.

It is not hard to imagine a male mosquito's rage when he finds himself trapped in Dr. Kahn's device by a mechanical siren yodeling, in mosquito language, "come up and see me some time." But it's all right with most persons. And they should know enough in the future to get out of the way with all possible speed whenever they hear a mosquito uttering a low bellow!

More Uses For Airplanes

SOME of the uses which will be found for airplanes after the war are to be found in requests which the War Production board is filing away for reference when production controls are relaxed.

To date 350 such requests have been received. A pipeline company wants a plane for use in inspecting its route. A company with extensive cotton land in the South would like a plane to dust its cotton crop. Ranchers are asking for small craft equipped with machine guns to kill coyotes and other predatory animals. Lumber firms need planes to spot timber fires before they get out of control.

A physician with widely-scattered patients thinks he could make better time on wings. Several industrial executives seek planes to keep in personal touch with remote plants. Flying schools comprise the largest group of applicants. They want planes for use in teaching novices to fly.

Some day, in the not too distant future, the bans will be lifted, and plane factories will begin to fill these and similar orders. When this time comes, not only will the skies be full of planes, but many jobs will be available for young men who, after war-born experience in the clouds, will be back in civilian life and will want to continue airplane operation on a permanent basis.

KONSTANCJA

Jozef Elsner wrote:

"—Frederic's heart and mine bleed for the trouble at home. It has upset us more than we can say. Frederic longs to go back, if he could but stand the strain of the journey—"

The door opened.

"Professor!"

It was the voice of Monsieur Jollet, his landlord. Jozef Elsner did not look up from his writing. He did not want to be annoyed. "If you don't mind, Monsieur—"

Monsieur Jollet was not alone. In the doorway was a woman and when Jozef Elsner raised his eyes and saw that it was Mlle. Konstancia Gladowska his pen dropped from his hand.

"—I brought you this lady," Monsieur Jollett said; "and I brought you this letter, too," he said, handing Jozef Elsnor an envelope.

"Yes, thank you. Thank you. But you, my dear," Jozef Elsner said staring at Mlle. Gladkowska. "You, my dear—tch, ach—"

Monsieur Jollet closed the door.

"—Let me look at you! In Paris—eh? When did you leave home? Did you run away?"

The result of the long trip from Poland was apparent in the appearance of her clothes and in the strained look on her face. She was an older woman by many years than when Jozef Elsner had last seen her. Yet there was still a shining beauty in her features and in her figure also. But it was a hard beauty.

She shook her head. She said no, she didn't run away. She was in Paris because she had been sent to Paris. She had gone to Pleyel et, Cie and they had told her where to find him. She had asked for Frederic. There was a harshness in her tone when she said his name. They would tell her nothing. They said everybody wanted Frederic and they were not permitted to say anything about his whereabouts.

"—Eh?" Then Jozef Elsner added: "Naturally. He is very famous, Mademoiselle—"

"I knew I wouldn't find him with you."

"—You knew that. Eh?"

"Your letters may have fooled Madame and Monsieur Chopin. They have not fooled me. Not one letter from Frederic!"

"—He's been very busy — very busy. You have no idea!" Jozef Elsner paced the room. He opened the envelope he had been holding in his hand. He glanced at it. He waved it aside.

"Where is Frederic?"

"—A good question. He's at Nohant—and in very good hands, too. Madame Sand is a very gracious hostess—"

"Does he know what is happening at home! Does he ever think of it!"

"—Think of it! Tch, tch — he thinks of nothing else!" Jozef Elsner tried hard to be convincing.

"I was sent to Paris on the bare chance—on the bare hope— that he hasn't entirely forgotten."

Then in a quite voice Mlle. Gladkowska told Jozef Elner what had been happening in Poland. She said that hundreds of patriots had been jailed and that hundreds had been murdered — some clubbed to death, some hanged, others slashed with sabers. But resistance was not dead.

"There are only a few leaders left," she said. "Those who are not dead are imprisoned." Yet there was still hope, because it was still possible to bribe the jailers. They willingly take money.

She said: "If anything in the past—just a small spark—is still alive in Frederic—"

Jozef Elsner threw out his hands. "Don't you suppose if he could—!" He tried hard not to bluster. "Money! Do you think he has it? Enough to live, that's all! The sale of his music brings very little—certainly not enough.

"Let me tell you where money is made: concerts! Yes, that's true. But concerts for Frederic are out of the question! What would you have him do? Eh? Concerts! No, Mademoiselle, they are not to be thought of—he is too ill for concerts—"

Mlle. Gladkowska was unimpressed. "I would have him beg, if need be. Beg—or steal. Just as we do. We have no shame—no pride. Let him use his reputation for the cause of Poland. Let him go to his friends—the great people of France—and beg them for help—for the money that they can give. Yes, on his hands and knees—without shame or pride—!"

She spoke the truth and Jozef Elsner knew it.

"Do you ever see him?"

Jozef Elsner fumbled with the letter in his hand. His eyes now fastened on it. "—Humph." He looked at the letter again, then once more. And now, with a look of triumph, he handed the letter to Mlle. Gladkowska. "Do I ever see him? An amazing question!"

As Mlle. Gladkowska read the letter, obviously unimpressed, Jozef Elsner continued to talk. "I see him constantly! Yes, constantly! Do you doubt it now—Eh? Tonight in the salon of the Duchess of Orleans—Oh, I have been there before, too—Yes, as I wrote you—but you didn't believe it. Tonight Frederic will play and I am asked to attend. Naturally."

"This letter is not from Frederic."

"—Humph."

"It is from Franz Liszt." Mlle. Gladkowska was puzzled.

"—Of course. Franz Liszt! Frederic's friend—my friend."

"And you are going tonight, Professor?"

Jozef Elsner paused in his walk about the room. Was he going? Who would keep him away?"

"When you see him, Professor, will you give him this?"

Mlle. Gladowska took from her bag a small package tied with string.

"—It is important, Professor. Very important."

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

AT a recent auction a "Ming ivory white 'soft paste' porcelain bottle" brought $1,050 and an "eggshell white reticulated Pi Tung jar" $1,025.

A number of other antiques brought equally high prices.

We had quite an argument about antiques at my house the other day.

I said I didn't know the difference between antiques and junk, and my wife replied that I had no culture.

BRANDEIS

There is a house for sale not far away from us which, in my opinion, is worth about $10,000, but for which the owner asks $25,000 because it's more than 150 years old, a real New England salt box and contains the original wide floors and dutch ovens.

You can't use the ovens and the floors squeak every time you walk on them and are perfect hideaways for wasps and ants and many other kinds of bugs.

Not far away from that house is another one, in much better condition, with many modern conveniences. But the poor thing is only twenty years old, so the owner wants only $15,000 for it.

Every Sunday, the real estate man tells me, at least a dozen people look at the old house and admire it, while the newer house doesn't arouse the slightest bit of interest and home-seekers stick up their noses at it.

We have a lot of antiques in our own home. One of them is a four-poster bed with a canopy over it. The only reason George Washington didn't sleep in it is because he didn't come up this way.

I had to sleep in it the other night because one of my wife's relatives insisted on sleeping in my own bed so that she could talk to her half the night.

Well, I spent about the most uncomfortable night in that bed I had experienced in many a year.

Yet a visitor offered $250 for it last week and went into ecstasies over it.

I wanted to sell it at once but my wife wouldn't think of it.

I CAN understand this antique-worship when the articles mean something to you, when they are part of your own life.

But just because they are old and musty and ramshackle and moth-eaten — you may call it broccoli, I call it just plain junk.

Or maybe you would like to buy one of my three-legged chairs that stand out in the barn. You can't sit in them but they are more than 100 years old.

They're worth about $1 for the lot—but I'll let you have them for $75 a piece.

How about it?

Reconversion Started

War Production Cutbacks Are On

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A FAIRLY sharp falling-off in production of weapons, together with an increase in the output of civilian goods, has taken place since the first of January, although the popular effect of recent new cutbacks will not be felt until about midsummer.

Employment in munitions factories and in plants indirectly associated with the war effort dropped 10 per cent in the first quarter of 1945, as compared with the same period a year ago. Consumers' expenditures and retail sales jumped from 7 to 10 per cent in the first three months of this year, again as compared with January-March of 1944, reflecting more plentiful inventories.

TUCKER

Cancellation of Army, Navy and Air Forces contracts have totaled many milions of dollars since the Patton - Bradley - Patch sweep through Germany, and the advance of the Russians to Berlin. On April 12th, the day of President Roosevelt's death, numerous notices of termination were forwarded to war plants.

The War Production board, after many months of delay, has finally given permission for manufuture or repair of $50,000,000 worth of machine tools for the automobile industry. Under this dispensation it is expected that the Detroit makers will turn out at least 250,000 passenger models in the last quarter of this year.

Washington is not advertising this partial V-E day trend lest it generate too much optimism as the United Nations prepare to mobilize their forces against Japan. But these moves provide the first faint signs of a return to those forgotten happy days.

CUTBACKS: A special survey of military needs and production capacity, based on victories in Europe and fighting conditions in the Pacific, offers high hope for greater civilian output than had been forecast only a few weeks ago.

Washington economists would not be surprised if the 30 per cent cutback of war supplies predicted by James F. Byrnes for the third quarter after Germany's defeat could be increased to 40 or 45 per cent. Commerce and Treasury experts will hazard no specific figure, but they agree that it should be above the Byrnes estimate.

The first favorable factor for a more balanced manufacture is that the Japanese conflict will not require so many heterogenous weapons. The chief need in that sector will be heavy bombers, bombs, artillery and shells.

Thus many small factories now engaged in making more varied and complicated articles for the European front can be reconverted. The second factor lies in the prospect that a vast amount of materiel can be shipped from Germany to our Far Eastern forces. Russia may also supply us with her surplus weapons, especially fighter planes.

HOMES: It is understood that priorities on manufacture of civilian goods in so far as possible, will be given to kitchen utensils, stoves, refrigerators etc. Researchers have discovered that there may be a great deal of unnecessary food spoilage unless stocks of such equipment are replenished.

Paint, home furnishings and house replacements will come next, as serious deterioration will set in unless real estate can be given a helping hand.

Most of the orders of this reverse trend were issued and excuted before Mr. Roosevelt's death, and they were due wholly to the circumstances described. But it is recalled that President Truman, as chairman of the Special Senate Investigating committee, usually sided with Donald Nelson when the former WPB chairman championed the consumers in his clashes with the Patterson-Wilson clique.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

LOOK for new frenzied onslaughts by the Japs. They are now conjuring up ghosts to fight our men in Okinawa.

Such a report about almost any other race would properly be considered fantastic nonsense. Idealistically, all nations speak of the spirits of their departed heroes as inspiring the living. John Brown's "soul goes marching on." But the Nips are actually convinced that they can haunt their enemies.

LEMAN

United States radio monitors picked up a broadcast by General Korechika Anami, new War minister, urging the island garrison to "beat back the invaders and even after death to defend the imperial land with their souls."

Because of what we already know about the Oriental zealots, the threat is not dismissed by our military authorities. The weird belief may prompt Jap soldiers to throw away their lives in desperate counterattacks or last-ditch stands, confident that they will return as spooks and fight again.

SUICIDE: This contempt of death is one of the reasons that the Japanese are hard to beat. It accounts for the madness of "suicide fliers," whose reckless deeds the Navy admits are damaging our warships.

This type of assault has now been extended to aircraft operations against British task forces in South Pacific waters. A cable reveals that one pilot of a daredevil group got through the flak and succeeded in crashing his plane on the upper works of a man-of-war.

So thrilled are the equally crackbrained Nazis by the strange form of selfsacrifice that a German publication, Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, printed in full the instructions given by Jap commanders to their doomed men. Here are a few excerpts:

"Returning alive is absolutely out of the question, for you are going on a mission which means certain death. Physically you will die, but spiritually you will never die. You must therefore keep your bodies sound to the last moment. You must also keep up your ramming training in order that your death shall not be in vain.

"You must not be in a hurry to die. If you find no proper target for your attack, return and start again as many times as may be necessary, till you find something worthwhile. It is highly important to choose that death which will produce really great results for the cause of your empire. Do not seek, overhastily, the death of a man in despair."

The article was digested at the U. S. Command and General Staff school, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and distributed to our high ranking officers to acquaint them with the inexplicable nature of the foe they must defeat.

STRANGE: The age of a Kamikaze or "suicide aviator" varies betwen 20 and 30. The most determined devotees belong to the Japanese Naval Air force. Already, according to German propagandists, more than 20 squadrons have been cited as having accomplished their objectives.

Army fanatics name their planes from passages in a patriotic poem called Toko Fujita. Other designations are "Morning Sun" and "Cherry Blossom."

The attitude of the Nipponese to many things we consider sacred is so strange that Occidentals are always baffled by their acts. In the early days, Americans were shocked on the Aleutians to observe the Japs cold-bloodedly killing their wounded while retreating rather than allow them to fall into our hands. We are horrified now by authenticated reports of their cannibalism.

Their complete lack of interest in an individual's fate destroys initiative and makes them slaves to orders.

A veteran from the Buna-Sananada theater tells how Nips built jungle foxholes and covered them with logs a foot thick.

"We threw evrything in the book at them," he says, "but they did not budge. For several weeks each enemy soldier ate, drank, slept and fought from a space a few feet square. The Japs neither counterattacked nor retreated. They stuck there because the order was, 'Stay put.'"

"Woman Who Swallowed 271 Pins May be Crazy."—Headline. Well, yes. either that or downright eccentric.

Franklin Roosevelt Missed At Conference

But Task Is One For Many Men

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO — Something is missing from this United Nations conference here.

It strikes you forcibly so often, like the remembered gesture or the tone of voice of someone gone forever. It comes upon you suddenly in the midst of all the bustle and excitement in the hotel lobbies here, the buzzing whisper as some international figure moves swiftly across the thick carpet surrounded by a covey of protective secretaries and assistants, in the solemnity of formal convocations.

STOKES

What is missing, of course, is the lifting spirit of Franklin Roosevelt, who was identified so closely—not only here but all over the world — with the fight for freedom against Nazism and Fascism, and with the effort to create an international organization to keep the peace.

Absence Noticeable

It is particularly noticeable at the opening session of the conference, which he had planned to attend in person. The trappings were all at hand. The scene was well prepared in the War Memorial Opera house for the much-advertised opening. A large crowd had gathered outside long before the time of meeting, hopeful for a chance for the few seats available for the public or at least for a look at the celebrities.

The background inside was like that furnished by Hollywood for one of its musical extravaganzas — a sky-blue backdrop, in front of which were three garish, orange-colored columns, with the flags of the 46 nations standing between them and, at the front of the stage, four gilded chairs. These were not, as we supposed, for "The Big Four," but for Secretary of State Stettinius, Mayor Roger Lapham, Gov. Earl Warren, and Alger Hiss, general secretary of the conference.

THESE gentlemen were preceded on the stage by a group of service men and women, 16 of them, sailors, soldiers, Marines, WACs, WAVES and SPARS, who filed in solemnly and lined up across the stage. They stood there during the brief, half-hour ceremony.

The opening session was dignified, but routine and hardly impressive or inspiring. President Truman's voice came over the radio loud-speaker, but it lacks any thrilling quality. Secretary Stettinius still impresses the onlooker as the business man giving a report to a board of directors. The ceremony went through mechanically as something that had to be done.

Franklin Roosevelt could have done much with this half hour.

Yet, as it went on, there suddenly came the realization that one man cannot do the job to be done here, that even if Franklin Roosevelt had been spared to be here, he could only have offered an inspiring beginning. His absence emphasized that one commanding figure can not do it all —for Woodrow Wilson failed before—nor can a few men do the work to be done here, if it is properly done.

Truman Understands Situation

President Truman seemed to have an appreciation of this. He pointed out that differences are bound to exist between men and nations, that it is wholesome they do exist, and that, as he put it, "all progress begins with differences of opinion and moves onward as the differences are adjusted through reason and mutual understanding."

There are many differences here, and there must be much reason and mutual understanding, not among just a few men, the leaders, but among all those gathered here, representatives of small as well as big nations.

IT CANNOT be done with words, as President Truman pointed out. It cannot be done in impressive plenary sessions. It must be done around the table in committee rooms by men of good will, determined to achieve success despite all the handicaps, despite national rivalries and jealousies which already have begun to crop up, as they do at all such conferences.

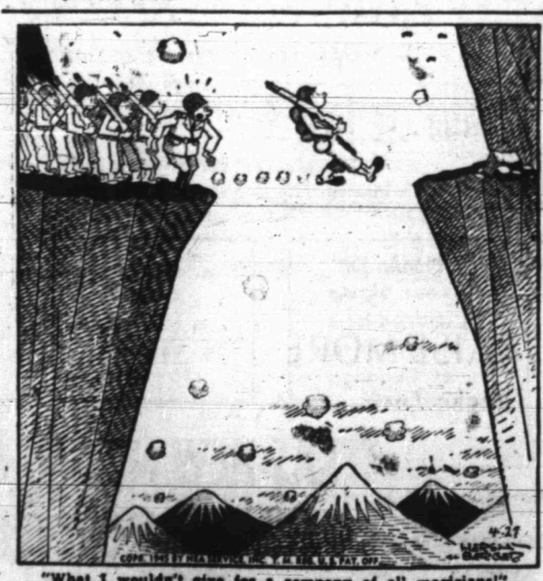

They must "rise above personal interests" as the President said. In making his appeal he made it in the name of "a great humanitarian" who was called away before this conference, but who, as Mr. Truman put it, "surely is with us today in spirit."

A symbol, though no one seemed to notice it, was a three-year-old youngster, clutching his mother with one chubby hand and holding in the other a huge wooden pistol. It recalled that famous Low cartoon during the Versailles conference of a quarter of a century ago with "The Big Four" of that day confronted by a youngster about the same age wearing the label "Class of 1940."

There must be no Class of 1965.

Using a training device closely resembling a big twin-motored flying boat, the Navy presents bomber trainees with real flight conditions, and has them use real flight controls and instruments. Take-off, flight and landing problems are all encountered by the trainees and their reactions electrically recorded, so that the instructor can keep a check on all members of the crew.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Patton Slashing Toward Munich

came reports that the civilian population had but a three weeks supply of food left, which put not only the Dutch but the 100,000 Germans holed up there in dire straits.

A report from the Third Army front said that a junction with the Russians was expected shortly, shearing Czechoslovakia's arsenals off from the German fortress of the south.

Regensburg Captured

The U. S. Third Army, while invading Austria, likewise completed the destruction of the Danube river line by seizing Regensburg and Ingolstadt, twin strong holds 35 miles apart on the stream north of Munich.

The French First Army hammering at the fortress' western battlements stormed through weak defenses and captured Constance, on the lake of the same name, where high Nazis first took refuge against the Allied storm.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's battered armies of the south were falling back all along the great arc closing inexorably on the redoubt of mountains, lakes and rivers.

Reports current on the front said Kesselring had been trapped in Regensburg along with its garrison, but a field dispatch reporting fall of the city made no mention of him.

Augsburg's Fall Near

Augsburg, Bavaria's third city 32 miles northwest of Munich, was about to fall to the U. S. Seventh Army. When American columns roared up six miles from the city they were met by emissaries ready to surrender the city.

They were told to return, remove mines and roadblocks and disarm the Nazi garrison, and were warned the city would be razed by artillery if American troops were fired upon.

Austria, seventh nation of Europe to echo to the tramp of the Allies of the west, was invaded by the U. S. Third Army at 6 p. m. Thursday in another surprise dash that caught the enemy off guard.

The Allies had to fight their way into France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Germany and Czechoslovakia, but they invaded Hitler's native land without firing a shot.

Reports Prove False

Pilots had reported the Germans were massing to meet the dashing 11th Armored division at Passau, 70 miles northeast of Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat.

The tanks then roared on east and crossed into Austria 21 miles northeast of Passau at the hamlet of Lackenharser, two miles south of the junction of the Czech-Austrian frontiers.

Thirty-three miles southeast of them was the big Austrian communications center of Linz, whose fall would cut off the last links between the Czech arsenal cities of Pilsen and Prague and the mountain retreat.

Reds Call Americans

Through the field radio the Americans heard a Russian, with Marshal Tolbukhin's Second Ukrainian Army pounding westward through the Danube valley, call:

"This is the Red Army. This is the Red Army calling the American Army. We are now seeking to establish radio contact."

A Russian colonel liberated by the 11th Armored only the day before picked up a transmitter and replied: "Acknowledging your message. The Americans now are in radio contact with you."

Significantly, unobserved artillery fire was forbidden these American spearheads snaking through the forested, now-laced Bavarian foothills lest they hit a Russian.

While the Third Army put on intense pressure from the north, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's U. S. Seventh Army broke through the German First Army lines on the west and was racing down the Munich super highway.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Increased offerings of spot cotton attracted by sharp advances in values and uncertainty over government plans for the staple in both the domestic and export field restrained trading interests in the futures market today. Hedge selling and liquidation depressed prices as much as 30 cents a bale in early dealings but when the selling dried up the market turned upwards and closed 5 to 20 cents a bale higher.

Mills were the principal buyers along with short covering in May. Private advices reported a considerable increase in country sales of spot cotton including 1943 loan equities during the past week which has been reflected in larger hedging operations in futures.

World Conference

buckle down to work.

The fight over issues had been restricted to the steering committee. It found solutions without too much trouble today and unanimous votes of the full conference quickly sealed the agreements.

On three-votes-for-Russia and on the Polish question, delegates had pretty well called the shots in advance.

But a 24-hour tug of war over leadership ended only when Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov agreed to four chairmen and the appointments for Stettinius — a compromise the Russian previously had spurned.

Resolution On Poland

On Poland, the conference adopted this resolution:

"The governments of the United Nations express to the people of Poland their sympathy and admiration. They hope that the constitution of a Polish government, recognized as such by the sponsoring nations, will make it possible for Polish delegates to come and take part as soon as possible in the work of the conference."

Once the conference had ratified steering committee action, delegates settled down in red velvet chairs in San Francisco's luxurious Opera house to listen to speeches by delegation chiefs. They spoke alphabetically, Australia's Francis M. Forde first.

Forde opposed a "too rigid constitutional form" for the forthcoming peace organization.

Belgium's Paul Henri Spaak urged that the conference give smaller nations a role more vital than that assigned them under the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

Bolivia's Victor Andrade asserted:

"In the community of nations the possession of power and strength imposes upon the powerful, obligations and duties, the neglect of which would bring immediate damage upon the smaller nations, and would in the end bring ruin or the threat of ruin upon the powerful nations."

The day's last speaker, Canada's W. L. Mackenzie King, declared that "nations everywhere must unite to save and to serve humanity."

uniform sang in a sweet, throaty voice. It was pleasant on the waterfront in the warm sun.

Easy Informality

A Russian captain took us across the river and we walked to a Russian regimental command post. Along the road Russian troops snapped smartly to attention and saluted whenever we paused. There was an easy informality between officers and enlisted men, but at the same time it was noticeable that discipline was strict.

At the command post there was a milling throng of Americans and Russians about tables loaded with fried eggs, bread, sardines, salmon and spaghetti. One of the busiest men there was Pfc. Walter Hajdamach of Manville, N. J., who could speak Russian.

Maj. Mitri Livitch of Marshal Konev's 58th division welcomed the Americans by saying: "Today is the happiest day in all our lives. The most difficult for us were those days when the Germans were at Stalingrad. Now we meet one another and this is the end of our enemy. Long live your great leader! Long live our great leader!"

Emotional Outburst

The entire day was a fantastic, memorable one, crammed with emotional outbursts, from the time a column of the 69th Infantry set out for Torgau on the Elbe, where contact had been made with the Russians the previous day.

As the doughboys marched a long a road from the Mulde river to the Elbe they met thousands of German civilians fleeing before the Russians, hoping vainly to find safety within American lines. The pain and misery of defeated Germany was etched in their faces.

Columns of German soldiers marched along the road to the west without anyone to guard them. They had had enough and were quitting the fight. Many still carried their sidearms. Liberated British prisoners of war walked in long columns alongside the German soldiers and Hitler youth. It was a league of nations on the march.

Turns Into Real Party

As the American column, composed principally of jeeps, rolled into the market square of Torgau, the Russians emerged from the buildings and the doughboys made a concerted rush to meet the Red Army men. From that point on it was a party.

Each of three American patrols which made the first contacts with the Soviet troops within a few hours of each other on Wednesday afternoon were from the 273rd Infantry regiment which a week before had captured most of Leipzig.

Col. C. M. Adams of Hazelton, Pa., commander of the 273rd, said the honor of being the first patrol to meet the Russians belonged to a 28-man "task force" led by Lt. Albert L. Kotzebue of Houston, Tex. He said Kotzebue and his men met Cossack foot infantry at 1:32 p. m. at a point less than four miles west of Riesa.

Other Contacts Made

Another patrol of 31 men led by Maj. Fred W. Craig of Friendship, Tenn., made contact with Cossack horse-mounted infantry at Clanzschwitz, five miles northwest of Riesa, at 3:45 p. m.

A third patrol of three men led by Lt. William D. Robertson of Los Angeles made contact at 4:40 p. m. in the middle of the Elbe at Torgau. Robertson and a Russian private squirmed across a girder on a bridge blown up by the Germans earlier in the day, shook hands and pounded each other on the back.

Robertson brought four Russian officers back to 69th division headquarters, and a formal meeting later was held across the Elbe from Torgau between high Russian and American officers.

an oratorical opportunity, two sessions of the full conference were scheduled for tomorrow, at 12:30 p. m. (CWT) and 5:30 p. m. (CWT).

In accordance with the rotating chairmen plan, Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong will preside in the morning, Molotov in the afternoon. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gets his chance to bang the gavel at another meeting Monday.

Man Charged After 'Bluff' With Shotgun

James Baker, 22, was put under peace bond Friday after he admittedly went to the home of his estranged wife and used an unloaded shotgun as a "bluff" to see their two-day-old infant.

Baker also was charged with aggravated assault.

Baker had not posted the $1,000 peace bond last night. The affidavit, sworn to by Edith Ingle, alleged Baker had threatened the life of Louise Baker.

His wife and baby were at 2509 Ave. J.

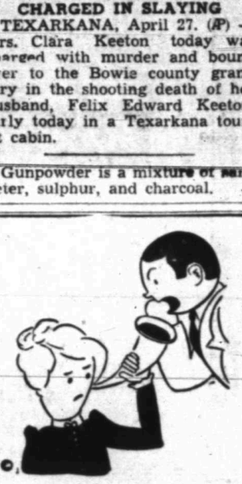

A cab driver who accompanied Baker to the police station about midnight Thursday, where Baker freely told of his action, informed police that the gun had been used to break glass in the front door, after Baker had asked the driver to examine the gun and search him to determine he had no shells.

The actions were filed in the justice of peace court of D. W. Robertson.

Dean Acquitted By LAAF Court Martial

A special court martial has acquitted Pvt. Clifford N. Dean, 23, of simple assault and taking an automobile without consent of its owner, it was announced Friday from Lubbock Army Air field.

The paratrooper, of Ft. Benning, Ga., was heard by eight officers of LAAF on assignment of Ft. Benning.

The announcement, which said that an earlier charge of armed robbery promptly was modified into the lesser charges after investigation had disclosed it was not warranted by evidence, was made by LAAF's public relations officers.

Witnesses who accused the young Ralls paratrooper totally failed to make their case against him, and Dean's own witnesses testified as to the accuracy of his own claims.

Charges were based on a March 22 investigation of municipal and military police.

Longview Panel To Ignore Sugar Order

LONGVIEW, April 27. (AP)—The food panel of the Longview division of the Gregg county rationing board said today instructions from the Dallas district office to cut home canning sugar allotments five pounds per individual would be ignored.

Thomas Rush Brown, food panel chairman, said D. R. Pryor, district food rationing officer, exceeded his authority in ordering a reduction from 20 to 15 pounds the maximum issuance of sugar to home canners.

Brown said other cities in the Dallas district and cities in other districts are continuing the 20-pound maximum.

Between 100 and 150 American Superfortresses, striking the same targets for the second time in 24 hours, bombed a half dozen Japanese airfields on Kyushu island just 325 miles north of Okinawa. All of the big bombers returned safely to Marianas bases.

Radio Tokyo acknowledged that Japan, cut off from southern regions, was having a tough time keeping its air force going due to shortages of fuel and light metals. It added planes would be made of wood and stockpiled metals and fuel from potatoes and pine root oil.

Rolling southward in Burma toward the great port of Rangoon, British tanks penetrated new territory beyond Toungoo, captured railway town. Toungoo is about 150 miles north of Rangoon and if the British keep up their present pace they may reach the city by May 15.

This indicated that Red Army and American patrols may be meeting along a 50-mile front extending from Wittenberg southwest to Riesa. At any rate, Konev's troops at Wittenberg were only 17 miles east of other U. S. First Army positions at Dessau.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army at the same time was striking out on a 63-mile front across the plains of Mecklenburg province below the Baltic coast north of Berlin, sweeping westward toward Rostock and Hamburg.

With the apparent intention of cleaning out northern Germany in conjunction with the western Allies, Rokossovsky's Army advanced up to 13 miles while Red Air force bombers blasted the Baltic seaports of Swinemuende and Greifswald, apparently the next Red Army objectives.

News Briefs

Michael Smith, five-year-old son of Rep. and Mrs. Preston E. Smith of 2520 Twenty-fifth, suffered extensive lacerations about the head early Friday night when he was attacked by a neighbor's dog. The child received emergency treatment at West Texas hospital and was released. Hospital attendants said that his condition was considered satisfactory.

Slight improvement was noted by a physician Friday night in the condition of Mrs. Herman S. Weiss of 3412 Twenty-first, wife of an automobile mechanic and garage operator, and a leader in church and P-TA circles. Her condition, however, was still believed serious. Mrs. Weiss suffered a paralytic stroke affecting her right side after she had been weakened by successive attacks of influenza and bronchial pneumonia.

Mrs. Marilyn Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Riggs of 2123 Main, will leave this morning for Exeter, N. H., to attend funeral services for her husband, Capt. William Paul Sullivan, who was reported Thursday as one of the victims of a plane crash near Smyrna, Tenn. Capt. Sullivan formerly was an instructor at Lubbock Army Air field.
