State agency to continue drill permits in Denton

RRC chairwoman: 'It's my job to give permits, not Denton's'

Associated Press

AUSTIN — A state agency that regulates oil and gas will continue issuing permits to companies seeking to drill in Denton, despite residents passing a ban to prevent further hydraulic fracturing in the North Texas city.

At an event sponsored by the Texas Tribune, Railroad Commission Chairwoman Christi Craddick said she was disappointed in the measure's approval and that she'll continue issuing the permits, The Dallas Morning News reported.

"It's my job to give permits, not Denton's. We're going to continue permitting up there because that's my job," she said Thursday.

Check out the local repsonse to Denton's fracuturing ban in tomorrow's edition of the Reporter-Telegram.

Tuesday's vote in Denton, which sits atop a large natural gas reserve, made it the first Texas city to pass such a ban. The gas fields under it have produced $1 billion in mineral wealth and pumped more than $30 million into city bank accounts. Industry groups have warned the ban could hurt Denton's economy.

Vice President Adam Briggle of the nonprofit Denton Drilling Awareness Group said the ban's passage should have prompted the commission to "adopt a more conciliatory tone" and consider why residents are opposed to drilling.

Opponents of fracturing said it pollutes air and drinking water, while oil and gas organizations say it's cleaner than other forms of energy extraction.

An industry group and the state's General Land Office are seeking an injunction in District Court to stop the ban from being enforced.

City spokeswoman Lindsey Baker said earlier in the week that the city has as much as $4 million in a risk fund for legal challenges.

Takeaways from H-E-B's Feast of Sharing

By Rich Lopez
jrlopez@mrt.com

H-E-B's 12th annual Feast of Sharing was Friday at the Horseshoe Arena. With a projected 8,000 people to serve, the arena floor was turned into a massive dining room with each seat filled or ready to be. The event was from 4-8 p.m. I attempted to be there by 6 p.m. but because of the line of cars waiting to enter the parking lot, I didn't get in until 6:30 p.m.

Here are my takeaways from the event.

Smooth running

With such a crowd, the line for food ran rather smoothly. I decided against eating, but people filed in easily from outside to the main floor. From there, the lines were easy to find and I saw people sifting through quickly and easily.

The meal was a straightforward one. The plate featured turkey, mashed

Texas leads nation in oilfield job growth

■ EIA: The average oil field worker earned $108,000 last year; New Mexico, North Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming among other states with big job growth rates

Rhiannon Meyers
Houston Chronicle

It's a good time to be an oil field worker in Texas, a new government report finds.

The resurgence in domestic drilling made possible by new techniques like hydraulic fracturing and horizontal drilling has created thousands of new jobs since the recession, and nowhere is that more evident than the Lone Star State.

Texas led the nation in the number of new oil and gas production jobs last year, adding 19,000 private positions in the field such as drilling, oil and natural gas extraction and support services, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration.

That was nearly six times the number added in New Mexico, which had the second highest job creation rate in the nation.

And those numbers don't take into account the new jobs created in the corporate headquarters of oil and gas companies in Houston and other cities far removed from the shale plays.

The data should come as no surprise to folks living in the state's shale boom

Ailing male tiger, 14, dies at San Antonio Zoo

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — An ailing 14-year-old tiger has died at the San Antonio Zoo.

Officials on Friday announced the death of a male Sumatran tiger called Raguno. Veterinarians suspect Raguno had cancer of the spleen.

A zoo statement says Raguno showed signs of weakness and had balance problems. A necropsy determined the tiger died Tuesday of complications due to internal bleeding.

A final cause of death should be released later this year.

Judge orders sex offenders be returned to Texas

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A Houston-area judge has ordered two violent sex offenders to be returned to Texas and placed in state custody once they complete lengthy prison sentences for sex offenses committed in other states.

State District Judge Michael Seiler in Montgomery County, north of Houston, issued the order this week for Melvin Cody Whipple, 58, and Lloyd Joseph Wilson, 44. A judge ordered the two to leave Texas in 2004, in an apparent violation of the state constitution, after they had completed prison terms for sex crimes, according to the Houston Chronicle.

Whipple was convicted later in Utah of fondling a boy after showing him pornography and is serving a 15-year sentence. He's scheduled for release in 2022.

Wilson, meanwhile, was imprisoned in Virginia after being convicted of raping a 16-year-old girl in 2005. His term lasts until 2031.

Law experts have questioned whether Seiler's order carries legal weight, despite assurances by prosecutors that Texas still has jurisdiction over the two men. Seiler issued writs of attachment against Whipple and Wilson, a legal maneuver commonly used in civil cases to seize or reclaim property, the Chronicle reports.

"This seems to be more about public relations," said Melissa Hamilton, a visiting criminal law scholar at the University of Houston Law Center.

Because it's a civil matter, she said, the state may not have the same ability to retrieve a person as it does in criminal cases. "It's not a tried and true legal maneuver."

The 2004 orders required Wilson to reside in Virginia and Whipple in Utah. Each man also was told to send Texas prosecutors updates every 90 days on their addresses and information on sex offender treatment they were undergoing. But officials say they only received two updates from each man.

The banishment order brought further scrutiny of a controversial Texas agency, the Office of Violent Sex Offender Management.

Since the inception of the agency's civil commitment program in 1999, more than 300 convicted sex offenders have been ordered into what is supposed to be a treatment program for people who suffer from a "behavioral abnormality" that makes them a continuing risk to society.

No detainee has been released for completing the treatment program in its history, leading legal experts and mental health professionals to question the constitutionality of the way in which the program is operated. Nearly half of the program's detainees have been returned to prison or jail for violating program rules.

Dallas reaches end of Ebola monitoring period

By Nomaan Merchant
Associated Press

DALLAS — Dallas calmly marked the end of its Ebola crisis on Friday when the last of the 177 people who were being monitored for symptoms of the deadly virus were to be cleared at midnight.

Thirty-eight days after Thomas Eric Duncan was diagnosed with Ebola in a local hospital, officials expressed relief and resolve that they were prepared if anything similar — with its resulting panic, fear and constant media attention — ever happened again.

"It's a time to reflect on the sacrifices of our hometown health care heroes and the city, county, and school district employees that worked so hard, along with our state and federal partners, to keep us safe during the Ebola crisis," Dallas County Judge Clay Jenkins said in a statement, calling it an early Thanksgiving for the city.

Monitoring for the last person who came in contact with Duncan or the two nurses who contracted the virus ended at midnight Friday. About 50 people who returned to Texas from West African countries where the virus has killed thousands will remain under monitoring.

Duncan was diagnosed with Ebola on Sept. 30, sending officials scrambling and residents fearing the worst. He died on Oct. 8 at Texas Presbyterian Hospital. Duncan's fiancee, Louise Troh, and three others were confined to their apartment where Duncan had been staying, before they were moved to private housing.

People panicked over the possible spread of the virus. Jenkins was criticized for entering the apartment to meet with Troh, despite public health experts saying it was safe. Some people refused to shake hands with strangers, and others kept children home from schools where Troh's children attended.

In the end, no one in the neighborhood was infected. The two people who contracted Ebola were nurses who treated Duncan; Nina Pham and Amber Vinson both have recovered.

Government officials and the hospital have acknowledged missteps in their handling of the crisis, from initially letting Duncan leave the emergency room after his first visit with Ebola-related symptoms to allowing Vinson to fly commercial to Cleveland and back while she was self-monitoring. Vinson has also said in interviews that she didn't feel prepared to wear the protective equipment necessary to treat Duncan.

The hospital has mounted a major public-relations campaign to apologize for its mistakes. Officials are also preparing an analysis of how it handled the Duncan case. It's likely to be published next year.

And while much of the city can breathe a sigh of relief, those closest to Duncan say they're still angry about his medical treatment and how some have blamed him for bringing Ebola to the United States. With her old apartment torn apart by hazardous materials crews, Troh has had trouble finding a new place to live, as landlords fearful of the virus have refused to rent to her.

Asked about Friday's milestone, Troh's thoughts were brief.

"Thank God," she said.

Bush visits hospital at center of Ebola scare

DALLAS — Former President George W. Bush has marked the end of the Ebola crisis in Dallas by visiting the hospital where a man died of the disease and two nurses became infected.

Bush on Friday embraced one of the nurses, Amber Vinson, during his visit with staff at Texas Health Presbyterian Hospital.

He thanked staff for "enduring" during the Ebola scare and said the hospital plays an important role in Dallas.

Presbyterian is the same hospital where Bush had a heart procedure last year.

Prosecutor: Jury should hear Perry felony case

By Will Weissert
Associated Press

AUSTIN — A special prosecutor leading the felony abuse of power case against Texas Gov. Rick Perry argued Friday that it deserves to be heard by a jury, not thrown out on constitutional grounds.

In three court filings, Michael McCrum rejected arguments by Perry's defense team that the law being used to prosecute the Republican governor and possible 2016 presidential candidate is vague and being too broadly applied.

Perry has filed two motions asking the presiding judge, Bert Richardson, to declare the case unconstitutional, arguing that he was within his rights as governor. In more than 100 pages of briefs, his attorneys said the matter was purely political and raised a string of objections.

McCrum, who responded with about 90 pages of his own Friday, said Perry was no different than any other defendant and his case should go to trial.

Referencing Perry attorneys' specific assertion that the matter was "injecting the judiciary into a political dispute," McCrum wrote: "The wonderful thing about the jury system is it's not subject to any person's control."

The governor was indicted by an Austin grand jury in August on charges of abuse of his official powers and coercion of a public servant. If convicted, he faces a maximum 109 years in prison.

Perry is accused of leveraging his veto power to try and oust a Democratic district attorney whose office oversees the Public Integrity Unit. Perry eventually vetoed $7.5 million in state funds to the unit — which prosecutes public corruption in Texas — when Rosemary Lehmberg refused to resign after a drunken driving arrest.

"In Mr. Perry's view, he could never be prosecuted in connection with a threat or promise made in connection with his power to veto," McCrum wrote. "Surely, this cannot be true."

McCrum's motions came a day after Perry made his first court appearance, sitting stoically as his attorneys argued during a heated pretrial hearing that the case should be quashed on a series of technicalities — including whether McCrum was properly sworn in as special prosecutor.

Richardson plans to rule next week on the technical challenges. He has yet to hold a hearing on the constitutional merits of the case.

Texan gets maximum sentence in dog fighting case

Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A Texas man received a maximum sentence of five years in prison Wednesday after admitting he participated in dog fights in Alabama and Mississippi where the bets on one deadly match could exceed the price of a typical Alabama home.

Demontt Allen of Houston was sentenced Wednesday in Montgomery by U.S. District Keith Watkins. Allen pleaded guilty to conspiracy in April. He testified he usually had four or five pit bulls for fighting and was paid to condition others' dogs for fights. He admitted participating in high-stakes fights near Auburn, Alabama; and Holly Springs, Mississippi. He also admitted leaving one Auburn fight with $35,000 in winnings and being arrested last year at a two-day fight in northern Mississippi that was promoted as the Super Bowl of dog fights.

"I know what I was doing was wrong," Allen, 38, told the judge.

A Lubbock man has been charged with animal cruelty after police say he killed his girlfriend's dachshund and seriously injured two others because she tried to break up with him.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported 39-year-old Keith Chisum has bonded out of the Lubbock County Detention Center after posting $15,000 bond.

Police said Chisum texted the woman that her dogs were bleeding after she refused to go to the residence she shared with him in September. She said she returned to find her dogs Neo and Gimpy seriously injured. She found her dog, Tiny, dead in the backyard the next day.

HOUSTON

Suspect in drug case dies in wreck

A suspect in a Houston-area drug case has died after the stolen SUV he was driving rolled during a police chase.

The Harris County Sheriff's Office said the suspect was dead at the scene early Friday. The vehicle ended up on its roof following an 8-mile pursuit.

Authorities did not immediately release the name of the man who allegedly sold drugs to an undercover Houston police officer before the chase began.

Officials said the driver was ejected when the SUV went out of control and overturned. The suspect was alone in the vehicle.

DALLAS

Man convicted in bad checks case retrial

A North Texas man has been convicted in a $300,000 fraud case for the second time in two years.

The Dallas Morning News reported that 46-year-old Jason Dvorin was convicted of conspiracy to commit bank fraud during a retrial this week. He defrauded Pavillion Bank in Richardson by cashing fraudulent checks.

Dvorin in 2013 was sentenced to two years in prison and ordered to repay nearly $112,000. The U.S. attorney's office in Dallas agreed to a new trial after authorities determined the original prosecutor failed to turn over evidence.

Prosecutors have denied allegations that Dvorin didn't get a fair trial, but they agreed to the retrial to avoid lingering questions of fairness.

AUSTIN

Police: Man dragged woman with car

Austin police have charged a man who they say dragged a woman with his car by her dress.

The Austin American-Statesman reported 28-year-old Delbert Allen was charged Thursday with aggravated assault. Police say he injured the woman as she tried to exit his car in October.

Allen was dropping the woman off at her house in east Austin when she said he became angry over a phone conversation she was having in the backseat. She said he accelerated while she was partially out of the vehicle and that her dress became caught on the door.

Police said she was dragged for several feet and suffered scrapes on her elbow and thigh.

SAN ANTONIO

Trucker sentenced in child sex case

A long-haul truck driver from San Antonio has been sentenced to 33 years in federal prison in a child sex case.

The San Antonio Express-News reported 52-year-old Pelly Lee Mason was sentenced Thursday after pleading guilty to interstate transportation of a minor for sex last year.

Authorities said the victim was a 10-year-old boy who was living in San Antonio. They didn't say where he was transported.

Mason admitted to illegal sexual contact with at least nine other children. As part of his plea deal he won't be prosecuted for other sex crimes.

SAN ANTONIO

Man convicted in absentia hears sentence

A man who skipped out on his trial in the death of his 3-year-old adopted daughter returned to court to hear his sentence after being captured last month in Mexico.

The San Antonio Express-News reported that in May, 49-year-old Matthew Aranda was convicted in absentia of injury to a child and sentenced to 20 years in prison. He was in court Friday to hear the sentence.

Aranda and his partner, Norberto Velasquez, fostered Melody Velasquez since she was a baby. Her adoption was finalized about a month before her January 2009 death from blunt force trauma to the head.

Velasquez was convicted last year of not seeking medical help for her injuries. But he was hospitalized before his punishment of probation could be officially read, dying three weeks later.

NM airport to get US customs officers

By Juan Carlos Llorca
Associated Press

SANTA TERESA, N.M. — An $800,000 customs inspection center aimed at recruiting more international business to the region opened Friday in southern New Mexico, not far from the U.S.-Mexico border.

With federal customs officers staffing the Santa Teresa jetport, officials said executives and others will be able to fly straight into the burgeoning community instead of stopping for inspections in El Paso, Texas.

The facility replaces a trailer where officers used to inspect passengers but did not meet federal standards — a reason U.S. Customs and Border Protection stopped processing passengers at the airport. The trailer was last used by the agency about three years ago.

The new offices have inspection booths, interview rooms and holding cells.

Jerry Pacheco of the Border Industrial Association said members of the business advocacy group hope this will be attractive to more companies.

Pancho Uranga, chief business operations officer with the manufacturing behemoth Foxconn, which has a computer assembly plant just across the border in Mexico, said having an airport where private jet international travelers can clear customs makes sense.

"If you bring a prospective investor and you have him land in El Paso, you are starting with the wrong foot," Uranga said.

Instead of clearing customs in El Paso and then driving about 25 miles to the industrial complex or doing a 10-minute flight, executives will be able to go directly where the factories are. "You have executives that fly in for a meeting and stay for one or two hours," Uranga said. "At the end of the day, it's all about efficiency."

U.S. Customs and Border Protection spokesman Roger Maier said officers from the nearby Santa Teresa port of entry will be in charge of processing passengers.

Santa Teresa Port Director Ray Provencio said Customs and Border Protection used to process about 180 flights a year before staffing at the jetport stopped. "Now with the growth the area is experiencing, we expect much more," he said.

Asked about the possibility of criminals using the airport to move drugs or illicit-origin money, Provencio said officers will process the passengers and cargo just as any other private flight.

Authorities will also be able to inspect cargo. However, officials said the short length of the runway and the lack of adequate warehouses will restrict the size of cargo to small, urgent shipments.

A new, larger, runway is planned to be built within the next five years, Pacheco said. When built, the new airport will join a sprawling railroad multimodal hub inaugurated earlier this year.

potatoes, green beans, stuffing, gravy and a roll. The arena though had zones of aroma. In some spots, warm bread wafted through the air while walking in, the roasted turkey smelled delicious.

Pie for days

Pumpkin pie was the night's dessert and serving tables were filled with plates of slices. The stackable trays next to the tables were also full of plates. I never saw the stations where the meal was served, but there was no shortage of pie. Although I did hear one volunteer with a tray of plates say, "No one wants pumpkin pie." Oops.

On the side

Outside of dining, there were entertainment options for young attendees. A long line of children and teens waited their turn for the mobile video game trailer. A dance team of toddler girls amped up the adorable factor onstage. In attendance were several groups, such as the Midland County Public Library, the Boy Scouts and Midland College, handing out information. But the candy, balloon animals and coloring books were what caught many kids' fancy.

Sing for your supper

I missed the karaoke segment of the entertainment but I heard that there were many Adele songs sung and a whole lot of renditions of "Let It Go" from the movie "Frozen."

By the numbers

For Friday's Feast of Sharing at the Horseshoe, H-E-B prepared:

■ 2,000 pounds of turkey breast
■ 1,500 pounds of cornbread dressing
■ 90 gallons of gravy
■ 250 gallons of mashed potatoes
■ 62 gallons of gelled cranberry sauce
■ 145 gallons of vegetable medley
■ 8,000 slices of pie
■ 8,000 rolls

Report: Officer cleared in refs' arrest

Associated Press

ODESSA — Texas Rangers have cleared an Odessa officer of wrongdoing after he had two soccer referees arrested last week on charges of interfering with his police duties.

Police Sgt. Tommy Jones was off-duty and not in uniform on Oct. 18, when some parents faced off after his son's soccer game. The Rangers' report said that Jones was taking "action to preserve the peace" and identified himself as an officer, but the 18-year department veteran was one of the adults told by the referees to leave.

The Rangers' report, released Thursday, says probable cause existed for Jones to have the referees arrested on the misdemeanor charge on Saturday. Both referees were freed on bond and deny wrongdoing.

The referees, three coaches and 13 witnesses were interviewed for the report.

Texas Ranger Brian Burney's report states that, under the law, Jones was allowed to exercise the option to not arrest the referees at the time of the incident, though he could have done so without a warrant because he saw what happened, the report states.

A release from the Odessa Police Department states that Jones chose to wait to avoid escalating the situation.

The officer's version of the story was in an affidavit for the Oct. 28 warrant. Jones' supervisor approved the affidavit, the police release states.

The investigation into the referee's cases was expected to be completed soon and will then be forwarded for adjudication to the county attorney's office.

School bus driver cited, indecent exposure

Associated Press

WEATHERFORD — A North Texas school bus driver who allegedly walked naked near a campus on a Sunday afternoon has been cited for indecent exposure and fired.

The Weatherford Democrat reported police on Oct. 26 received a report of a nude man near a middle school. Officers located the 69-year-old Davis in the parking lot.

Cmdr. Chris Crawford said Davis said he was taking advantage of a warm day to sunbathe.

Driver injured in collision

From staff reports

The driver of an SUV was transported to Midland Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon with non-life-threatening injuries after a collision on Fairgrounds Road.

An officer at the scene said the SUV was traveling north on Fairgrounds Road and hit an eastbound truck. He said the collision was due to the SUV's failure to yield the right-of-way. The driver was removed from the vehicle by emergency personnel using the jaws of life.

The wreck occurred at the intersection of Fairgrounds Road and Loop 250. Emergency personnel and police officers responded around 2:30 p.m.

GROWTH

counties where an influx of new drilling activity sparked a building spree of hotels and man camps, traffic backups at rural, one-light intersections and long lines of coverall-clad oil workers at convenience stores.

In the past decade, on-the-ground oil and gas jobs grew at a more rapid pace than the private sector workforce, according to the EIA report released Wednesday.

Between 2003 and 2008, the U.S. added 183,510 oil-and-gas production jobs between 2003 and 2008, a 63 percent increase.

When the recession struck, the industry lost 54,323 jobs as the unemployment rate in the United States ballooned from 5 percent to 10 percent in two years. But the economy rebounded around the same time shale drilling began to take off, and from 2009 to 2013, oil patch jobs swelled another 28 percent to 586,884, according to the EIA.

The jobs are not only prolific but well-paying, too. The average oil field worker earned $108,000 last year, more than twice the average private sector wage, the EIA said. Since 2009, oil and gas production wages increased by 12 percent, outpacing the private sector.

Most of the job growth has happened in Texas, which is home to some of the nation's most prolific shale plays, including much of the Permian Basin in West Texas and the Haynesville formation in East Texas as well as all of the Eagle Ford Shale in South Texas. The Eagle Ford gushed 1.58 million barrels per day in October, enough to satisfy all of Italy's oil consumption for a day, according to the EIA.

Other states that saw big job growth include New Mexico, where four counties encompass the oil-rich Permian; North Dakota, which contains most of the Bakken formation; and Colorado and Wyoming which share the Niobrara formation.

The Marcellus shale gave Pennsylvania a big job boost in recent years, but growth flattened in 2012-13, the EIA said.

FELONY ARRESTS

Buddy Holly's motorcycle back in his hometown

By Josie Musico
Associated Press

LUBBOCK — Waylon Jennings was stunned speechless to receive Buddy Holly's motorcycle as a 42nd birthday gift, the country music outlaw's widow said.

During a presentation of the bike this week at the Buddy Holly Center in Lubbock, singer Jessi Colter described the gratitade her husband felt toward the Crickets band members for the gift in 1979. Lubbock native Holly purchased the bike in May 1958 at Ray Miller's Triumph Motorcycle Sales in Dallas, then died in a plane crash some nine months later.

Jennings would never forget his close friend and rock 'n' roll inspiration, Colter said.

"This motorcycle so represented a time to Waylon when he was most hurt by life's circumstances," she told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The bike — a limited-edition 1958 Ariel Cyclone model — is now on long-term loan at the museum that bears Holly's name. Museum staff shares the appreciation that Jennings, a Littlefield native, felt 35 years ago.

"This is a dream for us. We're thrilled," said Brooke Witcher, managing director.

Colter, who lives in Scottsdale, Arizona, said she rejected "a million offers" for the motorcycle before she finally released it to George McMahan at a "Remembering Waylon" auction last month. The bid by McMahan, a Lubbock resident, wasn't the highest she was ever offered, she said, but his intention for its use was among the most admirable.

"It was in beautiful condition. This would be a dream to any collector."

Arlan Ettinger, president of Guernsey's Auctioneers & Brokers

McMahan said he's happy to see the bike back in the area where Holly and Jennings grew up.

"It is a very iconic piece of history," he said. "We're all so proud to have this bike back on their home turf."

The bike will be on display to the public beginning Nov. 18.

Arlan Ettinger, president of Guernsey's Auctioneers & Brokers in New York City, said as a longtime Holly fan he was honored to help bring the motorcycle to the museum. When he befriended Colter and learned about the bike, he could only describe it with a term collectors use for an item's history.

"It had the best provenance," he said. "When I heard about this motorcycle, I thought it was as good as it got."

The bike has low mileage and it has hardly a scratch, he said.

"It was in beautiful condition," he said. "This would be a dream to any collector."

Permian Basin adds five rigs

From staff reports

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the Permian Basin increased five this week to 567, according to the weekly rotary rig count report released Friday by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

District 8, which includes Midland County, added 11 rigs for a total of 342.

Texas added five rigs for a statewide total of 906. There were 212 rigs in the Eagle Ford, down six; 57 in the Granite Wash, down two; 41 in the Haynesville, unchanged; and 23 in the Barnett, unchanged.

At this time last year there were 469 rigs in the Permian Basin and 834 in Texas.

The U.S. shed four rigs this week for a nationwide total of 1,925. There were 1,568 oil rigs, down 14; 356 natural gas rigs, up 10; and one rig listed as miscellaneous, unchanged.

By trajectory, there were 360 vertical drilling rigs, down five; 1,362 horizontal drilling rigs, up nine; and 203 directional drilling rigs, down eight.

There were 1,754 rigs in the U.S. at this time last year.

The top five basins by rig count this week were the Permian; the Eagle Ford; the Williston with 193, up one; the Marcellus with 82, down two; and the Mississippian with 76, down two.

The top five states were Texas; Oklahoma with 208, unchanged; North Dakota with 181, up one; Louisiana with 109, down three; and New Mexico with 96, down four.

In the U.S., there were 1,859 rigs on land, down three; 13 in inland waters, down one; and 53 offshore, unchanged. There were 51 rigs in the Gulf of Mexico, unchanged.

Canada shed 19 rigs this week for a total of 410 rigs nationwide. There were 225 oil rigs, down 12; 185 natural gas rigs, down seven; and zero rigs listed as miscellaneous, unchanged. There were 378 rigs in Canada a year ago this week.

The total number of rigs in the North America region fell 23 this week to 2,335. There were 2,132 rigs in North America at this time last year.

On Friday, Baker Hughes released its monthly international rig count for October, reporting 3,657 rigs worldwide. The U.S. ended October with 1,925 rigs, more than half of all rigs worldwide.

The following are the international rig counts by region, with the top three rig counts for each region in parentheses:

- Africa: 125 (Algeria: 45; Angola: 14; Nigeria: 14; Kenya: 14)
- Asia-Pacific: 252 (India: 121; Indonesia: 35; China offshore: 28)
- Europe: 148 (Turkey: 44; Norway: 16; U.K. offshore: 15)
- Latin America: 393 (Argentina: 101; Mexico: 83; Venezuela: 73)
- Middle East: 340 (Saudi Arabia: 108; Oman: 59; Iraq: 56)

Feds: Colorado oilman failed to report production

By Ben Neary
Associated Press

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — A Colorado oilman who once filed scores of lawsuits against energy companies claiming that they all had underreported natural gas production on federal lands now faces a civil penalty of his own from the federal government alleging he failed to report gas production.

The Office of Natural Resources Revenue, a division of the U.S. Department of Interior, this week announced it has assessed a civil penalty of $46,772 against Jack J. Grynberg.

The penalty follows a noncompliance notice the agency issued to Grynberg in 2011 alleging he failed to report production on federal leases in Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

"It is mandatory that companies report production on federal leases, so we can ensure that proper royalties are paid on those taxpayer assets," ONRR Director Greg Gould said in a prepared statement.

In a telephone interview, Grynberg said Thursday that he would investigate the penalty and respond to it.

"The answer to it is we have reported production," Grynberg said. "Certain wells were shut in which we may not have reported, but we have corrected everything that was delinquent."

Grynberg said a longtime employee of his company who handles such matters has been ill.

A federal judge in Wyoming dismissed 73 lawsuits Grynberg had filed claiming that natural gas and pipeline companies around the West had underreported their production on federal lands. A federal judge in Washington, D.C., earlier had dismissed a similar lawsuit Grynberg had filed against a number of energy companies.

In bringing the lawsuits, Grynberg had sought payment as a whistleblower under the federal False Claims Act. But U.S. District Judge William Downes of Casper in 2006 rejected Grynberg's claims that the companies inaccurately measured gas production.

Downes concluded that most of Grynberg's knowledge of the companies' gas-measurement techniques was secondhand or speculative. Federal law requires that to collect a bounty, a person must show the government new information about the fraud they allege.

"Grynberg deliberately chose to make sweeping allegations of fraud against nearly the entire industry, based in large part on rank speculation," wrote Downes, who retired a few years ago. "By employing such odious tactics he now becomes the instrument of his own undoing."

The 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver upheld Downes' dismissal of Grynberg's cases and the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear the matter.

Downes in 2011 took the unusual step of ruling that Grynberg's whistleblower lawsuits were frivolous, and that accordingly he was responsible for the legal fees and costs incurred by the companies he had sued.

The litigation over the fee question continues in federal court in Wyoming before U.S. District Judge Alan B. Johnson of Cheyenne.

Lawyer denies wrongdoing in handling BP claims

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — A lawyer accused of taking kickbacks to speed up settlement claims from the catastrophic 2010 Gulf of Mexico oil spill denied any wrongdoing at a federal hearing Friday and contended that he never acted improperly even as he took a hefty fee for a claim that he was processing.

Lionel Sutton III testified in a case where he is accused of accepting kickbacks while he was a lawyer for a center processing damage claims against oil giant BP. Accused along with him is his wife, Christine Reitano, who also worked at the claims center.

The hearing was convened by U.S. District Judge Carl Barbier to look into the allegations, which were spelled out in a 2013 report commissioned by Barbier.

"I wasn't a paid insider," Sutton testified. "I did not advance any claims for anybody."

The proceedings before Barbier are not criminal in nature. None of the lawyers has been charged with a crime.

Barbier appointed former FBI director Louis Freeh to investigate allegations of wrongdoing inside the claims center that was established after the Deepwater Horizon offshore rig disaster sent millions of gallons of oil spewing into the Gulf.

Freeh accused Sutton and Reitano of working with two lawyers to illegally advance claims but found no misconduct by Pat Juneau, the head of the claims office.

Nuclear plant to restart in Japan

Associated Press

TOKYO — A governor gave final approval Friday for a nuclear power plant to restart in southern Japan, the first to resume operations under new safety rules imposed in the wake of the 2011 Fukushima Dai-ichi meltdowns caused by an earthquake and tsunami.

Kagoshima Gov. Yuichiro Ito said the two reactors at the Sendai Nuclear Power Station would be restarted despite concerns among some local residents.

"All things considered, I must say that we still need to rely on nuclear energy, and it is extremely important for us to steadily carry out the plan," he told a news conference hours after the prefectural assembly endorsed the restart.

The Sendai reactors are expected to go back online early next year following on-site checks by regulators. Japan's Nuclear Regulation Authority gave them passing grades in July under stricter safety requirements that factored in the lessons of the Fukushima meltdowns.

At the Fukushima plant on Friday, three workers were injured, one seriously, when a steel railing fell from the top of a tank being constructed to store contaminated water, the plant's operator, Tokyo Electric Power Co., said. The workers were not contaminated with any radiation, but one was unconscious and was airlifted to a hospital. He later regained consciousness, while the two others had less serious injuries.

Massive amounts of contaminated water continue to leak from the damaged Fukushima Dai-ichi reactors, hampering the plant's decommissioning, which is expected to take decades.

All 48 workable reactors in Japan have been off line for safety checks or repairs since the 2011 disaster, except for two that operated temporarily for about a year. The Sendai plant would be the first to restart under new safety rules imposed after the Fukushima crisis.

The plant's host town, Satsumasendai, has already voted to restart the plant. The governor's endorsement completes the required process of local consent.

Low oil prices slam Transocean

Associated Press

In a sign lower oil prices are starting to take their toll on the industry, offshore rig owner Transocean announced it would take charges totaling more than $2.7 billion because demand for its rigs is falling.

Transocean said the charges forced it to delay its third-quarter earnings report scheduled for Friday.

Companies that explore for and produce oil are dialing back investment because of sharp declines in the price of oil, which is reducing rig demand and lowering rates for Transocean's rigs.

Brent crude, the most common benchmark for global oil, has fallen 28 percent since late June. Friday it traded near $84 a barrel, not far from its lowest level in four years.

Judson Bailey, an analyst at Wells Fargo Securities, wrote in a report that Transocean's charges should serve to alert investors to the deteriorating market for oil rigs, which "will only be made worse if Brent prices remain in the low-$80s."

Transocean said Friday that it expects results from the quarter to include a non-cash charge of nearly $2 billion tied to the decline in the market valuation of its contract drilling business. It also anticipates a $788 million impairment of its Deepwater Rig asset group. The company said it was delaying its earnings report due to the "complexities involved in determining these impairments."

A look at what's next for gay marriage in US

By Mark Sherman
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A decision by a panel of federal judges to uphold anti-gay marriage laws in four states has created a split among the nation's appeals courts and made it very likely that the Supreme Court will review the same-sex marriage issue.

But it is unclear whether the matter will reach the justices in time for a decision in June.

Lawyers for same-sex couples in Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio and Tennessee said they plan to ask the high court to reverse Thursday's 2-1 ruling from a panel of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

That court found that nothing in the Constitution gives same-sex couples a right to marry.

It was the first time an appellate court ruled in favor of state bans since a Supreme Court decision struck part of the federal anti-gay marriage law. Most courts have taken that decision to mean states cannot forbid same-sex unions.

The Supreme Court is under no obligation to the take case, but Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg recently said a split among the appellate courts would make her court's involvement likely.

Last month, before there was such a division, the justices turned away appeals from five states that sought to uphold their bans, even though same-sex plaintiffs who won in the lower courts also pressed the Supreme Court to intervene.

The effect of the Supreme Court's denial, and a subsequent appeals court ruling in the West, was to permit same-sex marriage or remove the legal underpinnings of state bans in nearly three dozen states.

Some essential things to know about the gay marriage movement and where it's headed:

When does the issue return to the Supreme Court?

The biggest question now appears to be one of timing.

If both sides can file their written arguments by late December, the justices should have enough time to schedule argument in the spring and decide the matter by late June.

The court usually fills its calendar for the term by mid-January, so if a same-sex marriage case is squeezed out, it would be pushed back into the term that begins next October. An argument in the fall of 2015, and a likely decision in the spring of 2016, could make gay marriage more of an issue in the 2016 presidential campaign.

Another issue for the justices is which case to take.

Federal judges in Kentucky and Michigan struck down each state's gay marriage ban. The cases from Ohio and Tennessee were more limited.

One other possibility is Idaho, which lost its case at the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, and could appeal that ruling to the Supreme Court.

Idaho's attorney general, Lawrence Wasden, said the state intends to appeal, "but we don't have a firm timeline for when that will happen."

How can an appeals court rule against same-sex couples after four appeals courts have decided in favor of same-sex marriage?

Federal appeals court have no obligation to fall in line with each other, and indeed, disagreement on important matters is a major factor in Supreme Court review.

The surprising thing has been how one court after another has lined up in support of gay marriage since the Supreme Court's June 2013 decision in Windsor v. U.S. But that decision itself divided the court 5 to 4, and while support for same-sex marriage has increased dramatically, there is still significant opposition.

Of course, Circuit Judge Jeffrey Sutton made clear in his ruling Thursday that what he thinks about same-sex marriage as a policy matter is beside the point.

Sutton wrote in his majority opinion that lower courts remain bound by a one-sentence decision dismissing a gay marriage case from Minnesota in 1972, even though other courts have said the decision no longer carries any force. He also disagreed with the other courts when he said judges should let the political process play out, not impose their will through judicial decree.

One last note on judges: All the judges who have voted to uphold anti-gay marriage laws are Republican appointees. Rulings striking down state bans have been made by Democratic and Republican appointees alike.

What is the status of gay marriage cases in other appeals courts?

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has scheduled argument in January in cases from Texas, where a judge struck down the state's ban, and Louisiana, where the ban was upheld.

Florida Attorney General Pam Bondi has asked the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta to review a judge's ruling that state law limiting marriage to a man and a woman is unconstitutional.

Cases also are making their way through courts in five states covered by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis that do not permit same-sex couples to marry. A state judge and a federal judge in Missouri have ruled in favor of same-sex couples, but those rulings do not apply statewide.

The tally

Same-sex marriage is legal in 32 states, the District of Columbia and parts of Missouri.

Kansas, Montana and South Carolina are continuing their legal fight against same-sex marriage, despite rulings from federal appeals courts that oversee those states that concluded gay and lesbian couples have the right to marry.

Gay and lesbian couples may not marry in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, most of Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee and Texas.

The Supreme Court last year struck down part of the 1996 Defense of Marriage Act that forbade the federal government to grant tax, health and other benefits to legally married same-sex couples.

Federal appeals judge is swing vote on key issue

By Dan Sewell

CINCINNATI — Once again, Judge Jeffrey S. Sutton was the unpredictable man in the middle on a major national issue.

The 2003 George W. Bush appointee who stunned some conservatives three years ago by ruling in favor of President Barack Obama's health care overhaul also wrote the majority opinion Thursday in a 2-1 decision by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that upheld anti-gay marriage laws in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Sutton wrote that such a major social change as redefining marriage should be decided through the political process, not the courts.

He said it is better to have change "in which the people, gay and straight alike, become the heroes of their own stories by meeting each other not as adversaries in a court system but as fellow citizens seeking to resolve a new social issue in a fair-minded way."

The decision was at odds with rulings by four other federal appeals courts, creating a split that dramatically increases the likelihood the U.S. Supreme Court will take up the issue.

The 54-year-old Ohio State University law school graduate has a reputation among lawyers and court-watchers as a thoughtful and thorough jurist whose conservatism doesn't automatically mean conservative rulings.

Sutton was the first Republican-appointed federal appeals court judge to give support to the Obama health care overhaul.

"By most accounts, he's considered a conservative judge, yet he ruled against us in the Obamacare case," said Robert J. Muise, attorney for the American Freedom Law Center. "I think it showed he's a judge of integrity in the sense that he's going to rule on the way he thinks the law is, not based on what somebody thinks he should rule."

University of Richmond law professor Carl Tobias said Thursday's ruling again shows Sutton "tries to call them as he sees them," and demonstrates a belief that "the voters and elected branches, rather than unelected judges, should make changes like marriage equality."

During Aug. 6 arguments in Cincinnati, in which the panel heard six cases from four states in the biggest hearing of its kind on the issue, Sutton's questions and comments made it apparent he would be the swing vote, if not which way he was headed.

Judge Deborah Cook, also a George W. Bush appointee, appeared clearly in favor of the states' arguments, while Judge Martha Craig Daugherty, appointed by Democratic President Bill Clinton, insisted that it is right for the courts to intervene when people are being deprived of their constitutional right to equal treatment.

Some of Sutton's questions signaled his eventual ruling, as he asked attorneys for same-sex couples whether the courts are the best place for legalizing gay marriage.

"I would have thought the best way to get respect and dignity is through the democratic process," Sutton said during the arguments.

Sutton expressed a similar philosophy in the 2011 health care ruling, concluding Congress had the right to require people to buy health insurance or face a penalty. He wrote that time would show the strengths and weaknesses of the mandate, "allowing the people's political representatives, rather than their judges, to have the primary say over its utility."

Sutton, state solicitor for Ohio in the late 1990s when Republican George Voinovich was governor, got his bachelor's degree from Williams College and his law degree in 1990. He clerked for Supreme Court Justices Lewis Powell and Antonin Scalia. The conservative Scalia a few years ago called Sutton "one of the very best law clerks I ever had."

Bush nominated him to the federal bench in 2001, but because of liberal opposition, he wasn't confirmed until 2003.

Obama authorizes more troops for Iraq

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama authorized a broad expansion on Friday of the U.S. military mission in Iraq that will boost the total number of American troops there to about 3,100 and spread advisory teams and trainers to the north and west where fighting with Islamic State militants has been fierce.

The president's decision to escalate the U.S. effort in Iraq comes just three days after a bruising American election and amid persistent arguments that more U.S. troops are needed to bolster the struggling Iraqi forces. In particular, there have been calls to send troops to the western Anbar province, where extremists have been slaughtering men, women and children.

Obama authorized the Pentagon to send 1,500 troops to Iraq in addition to the 1,600 previously allowed. He also is asking Congress for more than $5 billion to fund the fight. Rear Adm. John Kirby, the Pentagon press secretary, said the military will set up several training sites across Iraq to instruct 12 Iraqi brigades, and also establish two operations centers.

The Marin County sheriff's office released the autopsy results Friday.

Robin Williams' autopsy found no illegal drugs

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Robin Williams' autopsy found no alcohol or illegal drugs were in his body when he killed himself at his Northern California home in August, sheriff's officials said Friday.

The autopsy results released by the Marin County sheriff's office found that the actor had taken prescription medications, but in "therapeutic concentrations."

The coroner ruled Williams' death a suicide that resulted from asphyxia due to hanging.

Sheriff's officials have said Williams was found in the bedroom of his home in Tiburon on the morning of Aug. 11. His death had been preliminarily ruled a suicide, with sheriff's officials saying he hanged himself with a belt.

Sheriff's Deputy Stewart Cowan said Friday that his office was not releasing further information from the report.

Williams' wife, Susan Schneider, has said the actor and comedian was struggling with depression, anxiety and a recent Parkinson's diagnosis when he was found dead by his personal assistant.

Williams had publicly acknowledged periodic struggles with substance abuse. He had entered a substance abuse rehabilitation program shortly before his death, and Schneider has said he was sober at the time of his suicide.

Williams' wife likely was home at the time he killed himself, Marin County sheriff's Lt. Keith Boyd has said.

Williams was last seen alive by his wife when she went to bed. She woke up the next morning and left, thinking he was still asleep elsewhere in the house.

Shortly after that, Williams' personal assistant became concerned and went to the home — and found the 63-year-old actor clothed and dead in a bedroom, according to sheriff's officials.

Dad confronts kidnapper, saves daughter

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — A Utah dad foiled an attempt to kidnap his young daughter from her bed early Friday after confronting a man carrying her across the lawn.

The 5-year-old girl wasn't hurt in the frightening experience, but the incident has evoked haunting echoes of when 14-year-old Elizabeth Smart was snatched out of her Salt Lake City bedroom in 2002. She was held captive for nine months before being found.

The suspect in this case entered the home through an unlocked door at about 4:30 a.m., in Sandy, a middle-class suburb south of Salt Lake City, Police Sgt. Dean Carriger said.

The intruder was in the family's basement searching through things when he came upon the girl sleeping in her bedroom, Carriger said. The suspect took her out of bed and carried her upstairs, making noises that woke the parents.

The girl's father went to the door and saw the man carrying his daughter on the front lawn. He ran outside and confronted the man, asking him what he was doing and demanding that he give back his little girl.

The suspect handed her over to her father without confrontation, Carriger said.

The suspect then fled, and the father called 911.

Officers set up a perimeter, and with the help of police dogs, launched a search. The suspect went into a second home two blocks away through a doggy door in an attempt to evade capture. The dogs at that house alerted the residents, who yelled at police already in the area to come get him.

Police captured the 48-year-old man outside the second home thanks to a police dog that bit the suspect in the upper shoulder, Carriger said.

The family told police they had never seen and don't know the suspect, who police have identified as Troy Morley of Roy, Utah. Police don't know yet why the suspect was in the house or if he had a planned it, Carriger said.

Morley was arrested and booked on charges of child kidnapping, burglary, trespassing and resisting arrest. Morley isn't on Utah's sex offender registry and online court records only show a pair of divorces and DUI charges.

Carriger said the family is doing pretty well considering what happened. A man who answered the door at the one-story house said the family wasn't ready to talk about their experience.

"It obviously was a very scary, traumatic situation," Carriger said. "The sanctity of our home is huge and for somebody to enter that and grab your child, it's got to be one of the worst nightmares a parent could face. . . If those parents were not awakened to go out and investigate, he could have easily left undetected with the girl."

Rangers overcome slow start, turnovers to beat Pecos

It didn't have to be pretty for Greenwood on Friday night, it just had to be good enough.

The Rangers overcame five turnovers and a stagnant offense with some solid defensive play in a 14-3 victory over Pecos on a night where Greenwood dedicated the new field at J.M. King Memorial Stadium to Bob and Patti Purser.

With the win, the Rangers (5-5, 3-2 in District 2-4A Division II) secured a playoff spot and the third seed. They will play Iowa Park in the bi-district round at 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15 at Abilene Wylie.

Greenwood coach Shad Hanna and his staff have an extra day to prepare a Ranger team that seemed out of sorts from the get-go.

"We have a lot of stuff going on with the dedication and parents' night, we had a lot of distractions," said Hanna, while standing on Purser Field. "I think we also overestimated ourselves and underestimated Pecos. I think we got frustrated, I know I got frustrated and that kept us from moving the ball. I'm proud that we're in the playoffs but we've got to play better in order to continue playing past next week."

Greenwood only had 45 yards of offense in the first half as Pecos took a 3-0 lead into the locker room on a 32-yard field goal by Marco Cordova.

But even with the Rangers struggling as much as they were on offense, their defense stepped up and kept the Eagles (2-8, 1-4) from taking advantage of Greenwood's woes.

"I thought the kids fought hard defensively and they tackled hard," Hanna said. "I thought the secondary played pretty well and didn't give them much underneath. When you have five turnovers, it's hard to win a ballgame, so we were probably lucky to come out of

In a season of squandered opportunities, Midland High did not waste the climactic moment of its season.

Up three points with one minute remaining until halftime, the Bulldogs exploded for seven touchdowns over its next seven offensive possessions against rival Lee. The stretch ultimately buried the Rebels 59-14 and vaulted Midland High (5-5, 2-3 in 3-6A) into the playoffs.

The Bulldogs' 59 points scored is the highest total by either MHS or Lee in team's 54-year rivalry. With the victory, Midland High will take on District 4-6A champions Arlington Martin at 7 p.m. next Friday at home in the bi-district round of the playoffs.

"It was a big rivalry for us, and that was a big part of it," senior tight end Trevor Abney said. "But the bigger part was that we needed to get into the playoffs and Lee was in our way, so we decided to go through."

Midland High had perhaps its best offensive stretch of the season, and it was paced by a pair of sophomores.

Running back Ricky Hubert and wide receiver Courtney McMaryion combined for seven touchdowns and led the Bulldogs to what could be the first of a many playoff appearances for the Class of 2017.

"We just try to put our heart into the varsity for the seniors," McMaryion said. "We got to do for them what we can to try and get to the playoffs."

Hubert, viewed as a potential star by many entering the season, had a game that finally backed up that billing. Hubert dashed for 194 yards on 20 carries to go along with four touchdowns.

Running backs highlight blowout victory by MHS

LEN HAYWARD

There's no question that the lore of running backs in Midland is long and talented, and even in Midland High's 59-14 romp over rival Lee a pair of runners helped to keep that tradition alive.

Friday night saw Lee running back Aron Dobbins finish a disappointing season by never quitting and continuing to run hard until the final whistle.

Meanwhile, Midland High may have found its next running star in sophomore Ricky Hubert.

Hubert got the better of Dobbins on this Friday night with 194 yards and four touchdowns, but Hubert might have learned something from Dobbins as well. And that's to never give up on yourself of the team around you.

Dobbins was a bright spot for the Rebels during a dismal 1-9 season, which was the worst in the last 45 years of the storied program.

Dobbins rushed for more than 1,000 yards and was able to put his name in the top 5 of Lee's career rushing list, alongside the likes of Cedric Benson, Farris Strambler and Josh Norman.

But what Dobbins will most be remembered for was how he did his best to keep Lee going in the right direction while the season was falling apart.

Dobbins was praised by coach James Morton and his teammates for being a leader when he could have easily focused on his individual goals. And even on Friday night, when the game was starting to get out of hand, Dobbins still found a way to have fun.

"It's just focusing on the next play," said Dobbins, who rushed for 76 yards on 23 carries and also saw time at quarterback in Lee's

Few predicted K-State-TCU game would be top game in Big 12 this week

OSCAR LEROY
oleroy@mrt.com

The beauty of college football is that sometimes things don't go as planned.

Sure, you can listen to the preseason prognosticators and scribes from across the country talk about the favorites going in and about which teams are going to struggle, but the truth is none of us really know for sure. Believe it or not, we just think we know what we're talking about.

Like nobody could have predicted that on Nov. 8 the biggest game in the Big 12 Conference would be No. 7 Kansas State (7-1, 5-0 in Big-12) at No. 6 TCU (7-1, 4-1) in a primetime game on Fox.

Most would have predicted the Baylor at Oklahoma game to take center stage, but the Bears and Sooners get the honor of waking up at the crack of dawn for an 11 a.m. game on Fox Sports 1. Even Iowa State at Kansas got the 2:30 p.m. time slot on Fox Sports Southwest.

There's no doubt that with the seasons Kansas State and TCU are having, they deserved this time slot and recognition this week as this game could not only hold conference championship implications but College Football Playoff implications as well.

Here you've got the second best scoring offense in the country in the Horned Frogs going up against the best defense the Big 12 has to offer in the Wildcats.

A sidebar is to see how two coaches with contrasting styles and personalities react during a game like this as TCU's Gary Patterson brings some fire, while Kansas State's Bill Snyder is like a grandfather, who's a little more quiet, but at the same time, is always demanding perfection.

NASCAR's Kurt Busch facing assault investigation

By Randall Chase
Associated Press

DOVER, Del. — NASCAR driver Kurt Busch has been accused of domestic assault by his ex-girlfriend, and police in Delaware said Friday they are investigating.

The Dover Police Department said the allegations were brought to the department Wednesday. Busch's ex-girlfriend, Patricia Driscoll, 36, said the allegations involved an incident inside his motorhome at a race at Dover International Speedway in September. The couple broke up about a week before.

Driscoll has filed court documents asking that a judge order Busch to stay away from her and not contact her. She also is asking that Busch undergo a psychiatric evaluation and be evaluated by a certified domestic violence treatment agency.

The documents, filed Wednesday, say Busch was despondent the night of Sept. 26 after his poor performance at the qualifying session.

"He was verbally abusive to her and said he wished he had a gun so that he could kill himself," the documents say.

Driscoll said Busch, 36, called her names and accused her of "having spies everywhere and having a camera on the bus to watch him." He then jumped up, grabbed her face and smashed her head three times against the wall next to the bed, Driscoll says in the documents.

Midland Christian 23 FW Nolan 20, OT

In a game that was a defensive battle, four quarters were not enough for Midland Christian and Fort Worth Nolan Catholic on Friday night. The Mustangs held on for a 23-20 overtime victory at Mustang Field.

Midland Christian kicker Travis Causey kicked three field goals, but his most important came in overtime as he nailed a 21-yarder to clinch the game.

With the win, the Mustangs finished the regular season at 6-4 overall and 4-3 in TAPPS Division I District 1, and they now await to see who their possible playoff opponent will be. Midland Christian will likely go in as a wild card into the TAPPS Division I playoffs, but they will know their playoff fate today.

Fort Worth Nolan, who is a three-time and defending TAPPS Division I state champion, fell to 3-7 and 2-5 in district play.

Garry Powell led Midland Christian with 125 yards on 20 carries, and also completed 5-of-18 passes for 96 yards. Justin Fender also had two touchdowns.

Midland High's Ricky Hubert stretches for a touchdown Friday night at Grande Communications Stadium.

aggression, flashed his top-end speed to separate from defenders on multiple occasions and was also shifty in the open field. Hubert opened the scoring in both the first and third quarters, and finished the game with three second-half touchdowns.

"I saw my offensive line opening up a hole and kicking everybody out, and I saw a wide open hole and I took it," Hubert said. "I still have a lot more I have to work on. But I'm making my point and I'm going to try and keep with it."

Hubert's production was matched only by fellow sophomore McMaryion, who had a dominant night through the air.

McMaryion totaled 142 yards receiving on five catches to go with three touchdowns. The sophomore displayed speed, breaking away for a 68-yard score on a slant, and ball awareness, nabbing a touchdown to end the first half in between two defenders.

"I have an amazing quarterback," McMaryion said. "And (everything) was amazing."

The sophomore duo paced the Bulldogs offensively, but it was still the most complete performance in what could have been a disappointing district campaign for Midland High. The Bulldogs had been within a touchdown in each of their district contests in the second half, but managed to come away with one victory in four games.

The Bulldogs did not allow that to be an issue against Lee (1-9, 0-5 in 3-6A), and now they're heading to the playoffs for the first time in three years.

"It was a huge weight (off our shoulders)," Abney said. "We knew we needed this win to get in the playoffs so, we went out there and gave it our all and we got there."

While it's redemption for Midland High, it's the end to a disappointing campaign for Lee. The Rebels 1-9 record is the worst for the program since they went winless in 1969.

Things just never came together for the Rebels. And while they were in many games this season, the seven straight touchdowns allowed over the final two quarters in change are a microcosm for their entire season.

The Bulldogs, though, had to have a win, and the team rallied together for what is their most impressive performance of the season.

The victory has given Midland High at least one more game in what has been a perilous season. And for the sophomores, it's the first of what they believe is countless games to come.

"This is first of many," Hubert said. "We're making our statement."

Wildcat package on Friday. "I tried not to worry about the score or what the record was. We just tried to play our game. Coming into the game we knew it was the last time for the seniors and try to enjoy it. At least I tried to enjoy it."

Dobbins has carried the load for Lee this season both as a running back and as a leader, and even on the final play from scrimmage, Dobbins still found enough left in the tank to run for a 4-yard gain right as the final buzzer sounded.

"I told him after the game, 'I hope you get to play at the next level,'" Midland High coach Craig Yenzer said. "He's a great kid, a great player, and what a special kid for Lee. What else can I say. I think he's a special player."

That's high praise coming from an opposing coach, who also mentored the likes of Baron Batch, Darius Miller and Tyler Middleton.

Dobbins' place in Lee history, though, likely won't be for what he did on the field but for what he did off it.

"I learned what it takes to play at the next level, and I know what it takes to be a leader and how to be a leader," Dobbins said. "Hopefully I can take it to the next level."

Midland High's Hoppel continues rise in cross-country with state appearance

By Chris Hummer
chummer@mrt.com

Bryce Hoppel was confused as to how he got there so fast.

At the Region I-6A cross-country meet last week, Hoppel crossed the finish line and saw 14, as in 14 minutes. It was then he started to freak out.

Entering the race, Hoppel had just hoped to run a personal best of 15 minutes, 40 seconds and potentially earn a state berth. Instead he smashed that number en route to a time of 14:54.01, which allowed him to finish second in Region I.

"I don't know what happened," Hoppel said. "I felt good and just kept going."

The time has allowed Hoppel to go even farther this week, as the junior will compete in the UIL Cross Country State Championships today at Old Settlers Park in Round Rock. Hoppel's race is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

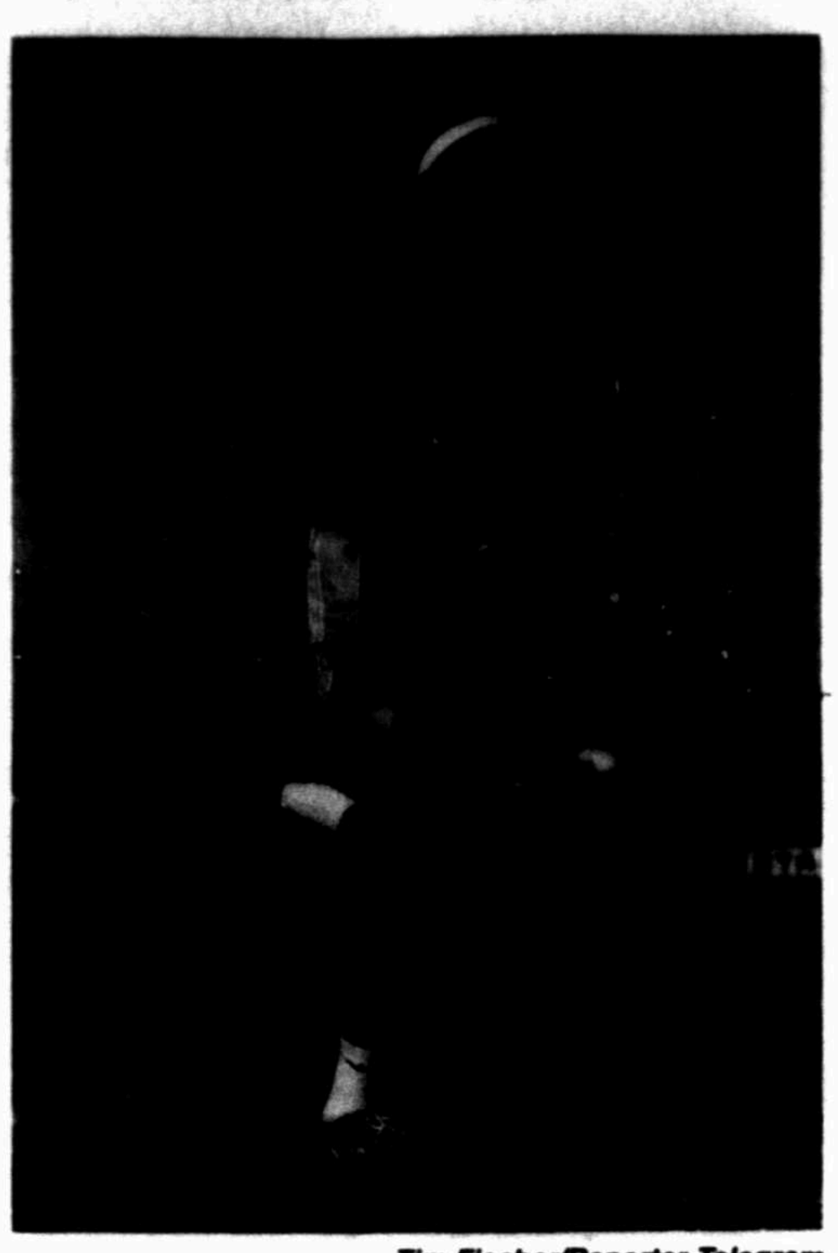
Hoppel appearing at the state meet is a huge accomplishment for the Midland High cross-country program. According to head cross-country coach Hil Ochoa, Hoppel is the first Bulldogs runner to make the state cross-country meet in over four decades.

"It's huge," Ochoa said. "Not only for Bryce but for our cross-country program and Midland High. I'm just so shocked how fast he's come on and how quickly he's taken on the sport. He's just a heck of an athlete."

Fast is the only way to describe Hoppel on the course, and it's the necessary description for his development as a cross-country runner.

Hoppel began running cross-country a little over a year ago, and even then it was just to prepare him for soccer season. But since then, Hoppel has transformed into one of the top racers in the state.

It's an ascent that's paralleled the program's upward momentum. Ochoa took over as coach four years ago, and the team has made major strides since. This includes the Bulldogs' first district championship of the century a few weeks ago.



Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

Midland High's Bryce Hoppel runs at UTPB Park during an Oct. 23 cross-country race.

"From my perspective it's grown a lot," Hoppel said. "Coach Ochoa and coach (Bobby) Alvarez are great coaches and they've really brought this program far."

Ochoa also gave Hoppel a lot of credit for helping to elevate the program. He added that Hoppel's achievement will help push his teammates forward next year.

"These guys are all talking about going to state next year (as a team)," Ochoa said. "What Bryce has done is impressive. These guys look up to him, and think 'I can be like Bryce, I could run that fast.'"

But the other six runners that run with Hoppel on varsity shouldn't be written off for this season. Each of them has practiced with Hoppel this week as if they were preparing for a meet. That means running an extra 40-50 miles for no other reason than assisting a teammate.

His teammates will also be alongside Hoppel today to cheer him on at the race, hoping to help push Hoppel to his goal of finishing among the top 5 in the state.

Hoppel said he couldn't believe how fast he ran last week at the regional meet, but now the time is his standard. Hoppel said he's ready to perform well at state, building on his personal best and lifting the program up with every step.

"I'm really excited for it," Hoppel said. "It's just unbelievable. I never thought I would make it this far when I started running… But I just want to keep going, and hopefully it doesn't end here."

RUBEN GUERRA ALSO MAKES STATE: Because of a few ineligible runners, Midland High junior Ruben Guerra will also compete in the state meet with Hoppel. Guerra finished 22nd at the Region 1 meet last week, and was the next eligible runner available to run in the race. Guerra had originally missed out on a spot at state by just two places, but now his 15:29.84 is good enough to send him to Cedar Park.

Q&A with Greenwood's Sammy Magallan

Greenwood's Exalander Magallan, who is also known as Sammy, may only be a sophomore, but he's heading to state for today's UIL Cross Country State championships.

Magallan qualified for the race by finishing 20th in the Region I-4A Cross Country Championships last week, where he ran a personal best time of 16 minutes, 36.34 seconds. The time qualified him for one of the 10 individual berths awarded for the state championship, and is the reason he'll race today in Round Rock at 10:40 a.m.

The MRT spoke with Magallan about his expectations heading into the race, among other things, and here is what he had to say:

Magallan

Did you expect to get to state? "That was the goal all along, and I trained hard this summer. I was kind of on the line at that point and I knew all the work could pay off. So that was the goal."

What was your reaction when you found out? "I didn't know until 30 or 40 minutes after. I PRed (set a personal time record) and was glad to be done. I knew I was close, but we didn't know. We went to the board and it said they'd notify us later. My coach found out and told us. And I was excited and shocked."

How would you describe the accomplishment? "This is like a stepping stone. I accomplished my goal, now it's fuel to the fire. This opportunity allows me to see better competition and know what I need to get better on. I had a lot of people help me with this and it's exciting to make those people proud."

What are your expectations for the state meet? "I want to personal record at state. Get as close to breaking 16 minutes as possible. Placing, not to sure, I want to get done as fast as I can, and at that point, see where I end up."

Why did you start running cross-country? "I started playing soccer is what it started with, played that beginning in third grade. In seventh grade I was told to try out for cross-country and that I'd be pretty good at it. I had a good year, and I kind of fell in love with the sport"

What is your favorite thing about the sport? "Crossing the finish line. When you cross and know you gave it your all, and knowing everything that you put in finally paid off. Making the coaches proud and making your family proud."

What are you thinking about while you're running? "It varies all the time. Typically I try and stay focused on staying ahead of people and staying in front. I think about my goal of what I'm running for, so I have a goal at the end of it. I want to accomplish something for a specific reason."

How many miles do you run a day? "Six or seven depending if it's a speed day or a long day, and it can be 40 or 50 a week."

Hamlin wins pole for critical race at Phoenix

By Jenna Fryer
Associated Press

AVONDALE, Ariz. — With their title hopes on the line, most of the championship contenders delivered Friday with strong qualifying runs at Phoenix International Raceway.

Denny Hamlin led five Chase for the Sprint Cup championship drivers in the qualifying session, turning a lap at 142.113 mph to put his Toyota for Joe Gibbs Racing in the top starting spot for Sunday's race.

Six of the eight drivers competing for a shot at the title qualified in the top seven. Only Carl Edwards (13th) and Ryan Newman (20th) failed to crack the top 10 in qualifying.

All of them are vying for the four spots in next week's championship race at Homestead-Miami Speedway. Hamlin is in decent shape: He's tied with Joey Logano for the points lead and only needs to finish 11th or better Sunday to make the finale.

He won't be conservative.

"I think the competition level is just too close and tight to be able to think you are going to coast to an 11th-place finish," Hamlin said. "You've got to go all-out on every single lap. We have to go out there and perform on a high level or else we aren't going to make it."

that one right there."

Greenwood running back and linebacker Jake Rogers said his team came in a little too hyped up and said the team had to settle down at halftime.

"We got the boys together and we pulled together as a family, and got it done," Rogers said. "It was overconfidence at the beginning. We don't usually take it this lightly, but we made a mistake like we did against Lamesa. We thought they were going to lie down and give it to us, but they went out fighting."

Hanna added that quarterback Zach Redwine threw the ball better in the second half. But Redwine did most of the damage with his legs as he rushed for 100 of his 124 yards in the second half.

A 55-yard run by Redwine helped to set up a 24-yard touchdown pass to Austin Ulcak. After a two-point conversion run by Josh Swopes, the Rangers had an 8-3 lead early in the third quarter.

Redwine, however, left the game when he turned a toe on a run. Hanna said he held him out as a precaution and also wanted to get Cole Dickie some reps at quarterback.

Dickie helped to ice the game early in the fourth quarter on a 15-yard touchdown run.

The Rangers now look forward to continuing their season as they make it back to the playoffs after going 2-8 last year.

"It means that we're moving on to the next game," Rogers said. "You can only take it one game at a time, so you can't get too far ahead of yourself. It just means one more week of football and at least one more week with the family."

Oklahoma, Baylor to meet in key Big 12 showdown

By Cliff Brunt
Associated Press

Baylor wide receiver and Midland High grad Antwan Goodley tries to break a tackle by Iowa State defensive back Kamari Cotton-Moya (5) after making a reception during a Sept. 27 game in Ames, Iowa.

NORMAN, Okla. — Ex-Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer often boasted that his Sooners would "hang half a hundred" on opponents.

Fifty points might not be enough when Oklahoma plays Baylor today. The 10th-ranked Bears (7-1, 4-1 Big 12, 12th in the College Football Playoff rankings) lead the nation with just over 50 points and 590 yards per game.

"They're really good," Oklahoma coach Bob Stoops said. "Look at the yardage they're putting up, the points they've put up."

The 16th-ranked Sooners are capable of keeping up. Oklahoma (6-2, 3-2, 15th in the CFP rankings) is eighth nationally in scoring with 41.4 points per game and averages nearly 500 yards per contest.

Each team showed what it could do last week. Baylor rolled up 669 yards in a 60-14 win over Kansas, while Oklahoma gained 510 of its 751 yards on the ground in a 59-14 win over Iowa State.

Though both defenses are statistically among the best in the conference, they have been vulnerable against top teams. Oklahoma allowed 37 in a loss to TCU, 31 in a loss to Kansas State and 33 in a win over West Virginia. Baylor gave up 58 in a win over TCU and 41 in a loss to West Virginia.

Baylor needs a win to keep its Big 12 title hopes and playoff aspirations alive. The Bears are No. 12 in the playoff rankings.

"We're looking at Oklahoma right now, nothing past that," Baylor quarterback Bryce Petty said. "We have to make sure we execute well because it's going to be a hostile environment, one that you're excited about as a competitor. But at the end of the day, it's about us."

Here are some things to watch when the offensive juggernauts meet today.

SHEPARD'S HEALTH: Oklahoma receiver Sterling Shepard, who ranks third in the nation in yards receiving per game, suffered a groin injury on the Sooners' first offensive play last Saturday against Iowa State and did not return. Oklahoma's coaches said they expect him to be ready. It will be interesting to see if he has his usual wiggle and explosiveness.

BAYLOR RUN GAME: Baylor is known for its passing attack, but the Bears lead the Big 12 in rushing, and Baylor's Shock Linwood is the conference's rushing leader. Stoops said stopping Baylor starts with slowing the running game.

"They want to run the ball," he said. "They're persistent about it, and they're good at it. And from it is where they try to get all of their big play-action passes. It begins with being great against the run game first."

OKLAHOMA'S PRESSURE: Petty missed time earlier this season with two cracked transverse processes in his back, the same injury currently ailing Dallas Cowboys quarterback Tony Romo. Petty hasn't taken too many hits since his return, but Oklahoma is better than most at pressuring the quarterback. Sooner linebacker Eric Striker is among the Big 12 leaders with 5.5 sacks this season. He may be able to get Petty thinking about protecting himself instead of lighting up the scoreboard.

LeRoy

From 1B

"Back at home. Game nine against a really good Kansas State team. You don't have to say much about them. They've been doing it awhile," said the always eloquent Patterson about this game.

Snyder stayed true to his cool, calm but cautious demeanor when asked about his team playing three of the last four games on the road.

"My only thinking right now is TCU and we will worry about the others when we come to them," Snyder said. "There are a lot things that we need still have to get corrected going into the TCU ballgame. We all know the quality of TCU's football team, players and coaches. How well prepared we are today is what is important to me, and I will know that after practice."

This game will also feature two outstanding quarterbacks in TCU junior Trevone Boykin and KSU senior Jake Waters. Boykin's emergence has been nothing short of impressive as he not only leads the Big 12 in total offense (2,472 yards passing, 432 yards rushing) but his name has been tossed around about for the Heisman. Whatever Sonny Cumbie is doing as the co-offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach is working wonders for a player, who was mediocre to say the least in two previous seasons.

"I think (quarterback) Matt Joeckel and Sonny Cumbie helped a lot with that," Patterson said. "At some point, you get tired of people telling you what you can and can't do, so you start trying to prove them wrong and show what you can do.

"For two years, they said he couldn't play quarterback, we won't win and can't do this and that. He's like anybody else I know who has a fire in them. They're going to try to prove people wrong. Like I've been saying for the last two years, he's one of the more difficult quarterbacks I've played against every day in practice. We just weren't getting it done on the field. This is the game he's going to get judged on."

Waters will not be second fiddle to Boykin in this game as he is in his second year after transferring from Iowa Western Community College, and personifies what Snyder wants in a quarterback: He's steady and doesn't make mistakes.

"I think one of the very first things we talk about (when it comes to quarterbacks) is their decision-making process and how well they can handle the system itself," Snyder said. "(Waters) has done well and feels more comfortable with it all the time. That is not taking anything for granted and taking every day as a new day. I am pleased with the progress he's made."

This should be an entertaining one to watch, even though not many of us predicted that this would be a few months ago.

Such is the life in college football.

TODAY'S TEXAS CAPSULES

FROM WIRE REPORTS

NO. 9 KANSAS STATE (7-1, 5-0 BIG 12, CFP 7) AT NO. 6 TCU (7-1, 4-1, CFP 6), 6:30 P.M. EST (FOX)

Line: TCU by 6.

Series Record: Kansas State leads, 4-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

This game has huge implications in the races for a Big 12 title and a spot in the first four-team College Football Playoff. Kansas State leads in the Big 12 standings, but TCU is a spot higher in the playoff rankings. The Horned Frogs are playing their fifth ranked opponent in six games, and have won all but one so far — that 61-58 loss at Baylor when they blew a 21-point lead in the fourth quarter. K-State is playing the first of three road games against ranked teams in the final month of the season, including No. 10 Baylor.

KEY MATCHUP

TCU dual-threat quarterback Trevone Boykin vs. Kansas State defense. Boykin apologized to his team after a subpar performance at West Virginia, a victory on a game-ending field goal. Boykin is the Big 12 leader with 362 total yards per game (309 passing and 53 rushing). The Wildcats have the league's best defense, allowing only 321 total yards per game — 220 passing and 101 rushing.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Kansas State: WR Tyler Lockett is second on the school's career lists with his 2,877 yards receiving and 23 touchdown catches. The leader in both categories is his father, Kevin (3,032 yards and 26 TDs from 1993-96).

TCU: CB Kevin White held the West Virginia receiver with the same name without a catch the last three quarters, and 27 of his 32 tackles are solo stops.

FACTS & FIGURES

Kansas State QB Jake Waters has played five consecutive games without a turnover. ... TCU coach Gary Patterson was born in Kansas and went to Kansas State. He is 0-2 against his alma mater. ... The Frogs are the nation's most improved offense from last season in both total yards (+205 yards) and scoring (+23 points) per game. ... Kansas State is 52-18 in November games under coach Bill Snyder.

NO. 24 WEST VIRGINIA (6-3, 4-2 BIG 12) AT TEXAS (4-5, 3-3) 2:30 P.M. (FOX SPORTS 1)

Line: West Virginia by 3 1/2

Series Record: West Virginia leads, 2-1.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Texas is still fighting to get bowl-eligible in coach Charlie Strong's first season. The Longhorns need two wins in final three games, two of which are against ranked teams. Texas is 1-7 in last eight matchups against ranked opponents. West Virginia must overcome last week's devastating last-second home loss to TCU.

KEY MATCHUP

West Virginia's standout receiver Kevin White against Texas' physical secondary: White was held in check by TCU, denying Mountaineers quarterback Clint Trickett his favorite target. Texas' secondary has held up fairly against some of the league's top receivers and cornerback Quandre Diggs can deliver the blockbuster hit that can change a game.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

West Virginia: Trickett had a bad game against TCU with two turnovers and a season-low 162 yards passing. He also knocked out of the Texas game last year with an injury. How West Virginia responds to last week's loss likely depends on Trickett.

Texas: RB Malcolm Brown had Texas' first 100-yard rushing game of the season last week, which took some of the pressure off erratic QB Tyrone Swoopes.

FACTS & FIGURES

Since winning Big 12 in 2009, Texas is 21-20 in the conference ... West Virginia had five turnovers last week and is minus-12 on turnovers this season, one of the worst marks in the country this season ... Mountaineers RB Andrew Buie rushed for 207 yards against Texas in 2012, more than he has this season (202).

NO. 10 BAYLOR (7-1, 4-1 BIG 12) AT NO. 16 OKLAHOMA (6-2, 3-2), 11 A.M. (FOX SPORTS 1)

Line: Oklahoma by 6 1/2.

Series Record: Oklahoma leads, 21-2.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Baylor and is trying to stay within reach of leader Kansas State in the conference race and in the mix for a spot in the playoff. A second straight win over the Sooners would be another key step to the Bears establishing themselves as a Big 12 power. Oklahoma entered the season with national championship aspirations, but lost to TCU and Kansas State by a combined five points. A third loss would be tough for the fan base, given the high preseason expectations.

KEY MATCHUP

Oklahoma defense against Baylor run game. Baylor is known for its passing game, but the Bears lead the Big 12 in rushing. Conference rushing leader Shock Linwood sets up the Bears' play-action passing game.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Baylor: QB Bryce Petty. He averages 290.6 yards passing per game and spreads the ball around to multiple targets, including Corey Coleman, KD Cannon, Antwan Goodley and Jay Lee. Oklahoma's defense will need to be disciplined.

Oklahoma: WR Sterling Shepard. He went down with a groin injury on Oklahoma's first offensive play last Saturday against Iowa State and didn't return, but coaches say they expect him to play. He leads the Big 12 in yards receiving per game and ranks third nationally.

FACTS & FIGURES

Baylor leads the nation in scoring offense (50.4 points per game) and total offense (590.3 yards per game). ... Oklahoma is 11-0 against Baylor in Norman. ... Baylor is 0-11 on the road against ranked teams under Art Briles. ... Oklahoma has scored at least 30 points in 13 consecutive games. ... Oklahoma has won 22 straight November home games.

TEXAS A&M (6-3, 2-3 SEC) AT NO. 3 AUBURN (7-1, 4-1 SEC), 2:30 P.M. (CBS)

Line: Auburn by 21 1/2.

Series Record: Texas A&M leads, 3-1.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Auburn is third in the College Football Playoff rankings and trying to stay in strong position with road games against No. 17 Georgia and No. 4 Alabama awaiting. Texas A&M could go a long way toward turning the season around with an upset after losing three consecutive SEC games.

KEY MATCHUP

Texas A&M's pass rush against Auburn's offensive line. The Aggies have racked up 30 sacks, led by freshman Myles Garrett with 11. That breaks Jadeveon Clowney's SEC freshman record. Auburn has allowed a league-low six sacks, partly because QB Nick Marshall is so elusive behind a veteran line.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Texas A&M: Freshman QB Kyle Allen is making his first start either in a league game or on the road and it's his show with Kenny Hill suspended. Allen passed for just 106 yards against Louisiana-Monroe in his starting debut but still became the first Aggies freshman quarterback to win his starting debut since 1992. He faces a defense that has given up 757 passing yards in the past two games. The Tigers shut down LSU freshman Brandon Harris in a similar situation earlier this season.

Auburn: RB Cameron Artis-Payne is the SEC's leading rusher and has gained 310 yards in the past two games against South Carolina and Mississippi. Texas A&M is 12th in the SEC in rush defense, giving up 177.8 yards per game on the ground and 15 rushing touchdowns.

FACTS & FIGURES

Auburn has won 14 consecutive home games, the longest current streak in the nation. They've won at Jordan-Hare Stadium by an average score of 41.5-19.0 under coach Gus Malzahn. ... Texas A&M won 63-21 in its only previous trip to Jordan-Hare, in 2012. ... The Aggies have outscored opponents 89-30 in the fourth quarter. Auburn has a 79-31 edge in the final 15 minutes. ... Marshall's 1,699 career rushing yards is 185 behind the school record for a quarterback set by Phil Gargis from 1973-76.

FLORIDA ATLANTIC (3-6, 2-3 CONFERENCE USA) AT NORTH TEXAS (2-6, 0-4), 6 P.M. (FOX COLLEGE SPORTS)

Line: Florida Atlantic by 3 1/2.

Series Record: Florida Atlantic leads, 6-3.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

Florida Atlantic and North Texas both have to win all of their remaining games to be bowl eligible, so one of them will be eliminated from postseason contention. North Texas goes into the 1,000th game in program history looking to end a four-game losing streak. The Owls have lost the last three games in the series.

KEY MATCHUP

FAU junior Luck Whitehead and UNT junior Carlos Harris, two of the league's top all-purpose players. Whitehead is second with 154.3 all-purpose yards per game, and Harris is fourth at 149.5 yards per game. Harris is second in the league 77.9 yards receiving a game, just ahead of Whitehead's 69 yards per game. Both average about 24 yards on kickoff returns.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

Florida Atlantic: DBs Sharrod Neasman and Damian Parms each had 14 tackles last week against Rice. Parms is the team's leading tackler with 75.

North Texas: LB Derek Akunne leads Conference USA with 9.1 tackles per game. He has led the Mean Green in tackles the past four games, averaging 13.3 a game in that stretch.

FACTS & FIGURES

North Texas has scored exactly 21 points three times this seasons — all losses. They are 0-10 when scoring exactly 21 points in coach Dan McCarney's four seasons. ... FAU special teams coach Chris Hurd played at North Texas from 2000-03, where he went from walk-on to 2003 Sun Belt Conference defensive player of the year. He was a graduate assistant coach for the Mean Green from 2004-06. This will be Hurd's first game coaching against his alma mater. ... North Texas returner Darvin Kidsy is one of three players in the country this season with a punt and kickoff return for a touchdown.

SMU (0-7, 0-3 AMERICAN ATHLETIC CONFERENCE) AT TULSA (1-7, 1-3), 11 A.M. (CBS SPORTS NETWORK)

Line: Tulsa by 12 1/2.

Series Record: SMU leads, 13-7.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

The end of a long losing streak for one of the teams. SMU is trying to avoid a 10-game losing streak going back to last season, while Tulsa is looking to snap a seven-game skid since opening this season with a 38-31 double-overtime victory over Tulane.

KEY MATCHUP

Tulsa offense vs. SMU defense. The Golden Hurricane are fourth in the American with 431 total yards per game, while SMU is last in the league in total defense (554 yards per game), scoring defense (48 points a game), rushing defense and pass defense.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

SMU: Linebacker Stephon Sanders has 4 1/2 tackles for losses among his 40 tackles this season.

Tulsa: Sophomore WR Keevan Lucas is 71 yards receiving shy of becoming the Golden Hurricane's first 1,000-yard receiver in five seasons. He has 75 catches for 929 yards and eight touchdowns.

FACTS & FIGURES

Tulsa and SMU have two of the smallest ungraduate enrollments among Division I FBS schools. Tulsa is the smallest at 3,007, with SMU at 6,357. ... SMU walk-on junior quarterback Garret Krstich has six interceptions and only two TDs in five games. ... Tulsa has run 136 more offensive plays than its opposition, and held the ball 5 more minutes on average (32:42 to 27:27). ... The Golden Hurricane have used 16 first-time starters this season.

MISD HONORS THOSE WHO MADE LASTING IMPRESSIONS IN SPORTS

Meet this year's Hall of Legends inductees on Page 2C

Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

MISD Hall of Legends inductees Friday night before the Midland High vs. Lee game include members of the 1973 girls golf team. Randy Velarde, Rees Langston, Barbara Camp, Gary Brewster and Ted Battles.

RANDY VELARDE

REES LANGSTON

MEET THE INDUCTEES

GARY BREWSTER
Midland High School basketball player

Years played in MISD: 1970-72
School: Midland High
Sport: Basketball

About Brewster: Brewster is considered one of the best basketball players to ever wear a uniform in Midland ISD. Brewster, who was inducted into the Texas High School Basketball Hall of Fame in 1987, led the Bulldogs to a state tournament appearance in 1972. During his junior year, Brewster was a first-team all-district player and missed out on being the district's most valuable player by one vote. A year later, he was the district's MVP, averaging 24.1 points a game. He had 50 different schools contact him and eventually settled on playing for the legendary Don Haskins at the University of Texas-El Paso. He played at UTEP from 1973-76, earning all-conference honors in 1975 and 76, and scored 23 points and had 10 rebounds in his first game as a freshman, which was the first year freshmen were eligible to play. As a junior at UTEP, Brewster averaged 15.4 points and 8.3 rebounds a game and was one of the team's top defenders. During his senior year he played 26 games while battling a back injury and missed his last three games.

He was a third-round pick for Buffalo in the 1976 NBA draft and played seven years of professional basketball in Italy, Austria and Mexico. He was inducted into the UTEP Hall of Fame in 2012, and was also an assistant under Haskins. Brewster currently teaches at Midland High.

Brewster on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "To be chosen is a great honor and to be in the company of Doc Dodson and Tom Brahaney makes it even that much more special."

RANDY VELARDE
Lee High School baseball player

Years played in MISD: 1980-81
School: Lee
Sport: Baseball

About Velarde: Velarde's 16-year Major League career had its roots on the fields of Midland and at Lee High School. Velarde said that as a freshman, former Lee assistant baseball coach Tim Whalen taught him how to have fun playing baseball, and longtime Lee coach Ernie Johnson taught him about routine and regimen and how to play the game the right way. Velarde later went on to play for legendary coach Larry Hays at Lubbock Christian University and won a national title in 1983. He was drafted into Major League Baseball in 1985 and played for four different teams during his career: the New York Yankees, Los Angeles Angels, Oakland A's and Texas Rangers. Velarde played in 1,273 Major League games, had a career batting average of .275 and hit 100 home runs and had 1,171 hits.

Velarde, 51, a father of four, lives in Midland, where since his retirement he has helped coach baseball at Midland Christian and Midland College.

Velarde on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "It's just an honor because you know you did something right. The only thing I regret about the game was I didn't have as much fun as I should have. I had to play with anger because I was always the 25 1/2 guy on the roster. I had to earn (a spot on the roster) every year until late in my career. That's the only thing I regret. My mom would say, 'You don't smile enough,' and I never could do it."

LIZ (NORTON) TINNEY
Lee golfer

Years played in MISD: 1973-76
School: Lee
Sport: Golf

About Tinney: While Tinney was a freshman when the Lady Rebels won the first UIL state girls golf title in 1973, she certainly had plenty of success in her career as a golfer at Lee. The former Liz Norton is the only girls high school golfer from Midland to have ever won a medalist title at the state tournament. Tinney's family moved from Houston when she was in the second grade, and she began playing golf shortly after that. She said she would swim at Ranchland Hills Golf Club and then when her parents got near the pool would play three or four holes before heading back to the pool. Tinney was a three-year varsity letter winner at Lee, winning the medalist title her junior year. Tinney said she knew she had a talent for golf when as a freshman after she would play against boys at Ranchland and beat them. "It kind of came easy to me, and I know that's kind of silly to say," Tinney said.

She went on to play at the University of Texas for two years. Tinney, 56, lives in Denver, where she is an asset manager. She has two grown sons.

Tinney also helped the Rebels to a state tournament appearance in 1976 as a senior and was named the Lee female athlete at Lee in 1976 when Junior Miller was named Lee male athlete. Tinney also is a three-time champion of the Midland Women's City Tournament, winning in 1994, 1997 and 1998.

Tinney on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "I think it's an awesome thing; it's a pretty big honor. When (Teresa Garcia) called me, I didn't even know they had that and they started it not too long ago."

Lee coach Shirley Stephenson on Tinney: "She was a super player, and to be a medalist at state, you know how good you have to be. She was such a competitor. She could just hit the ball so very well and control it."

THE 1973 LEE GIRLS GOLF TEAM

REES LANGSTON
Lee swimmer

Years competing in MISD: 1971-73
School: Lee
Sport: Swimming

About Langston: It's hard to have a Hall of Legends and not have Langston in it because she carved out a legendary legacy in her three years swimming for Lee. From 1971-73, Langston won six gold medals, five individual medals and one team medal. It's a feat that wasn't matched until Monica Stroman came along more than 20 years later. Langston won a state title in the 100-yard freestyle three straight years (1971-73), and then won the 200 freestyle title in 1972 and 1973. She also helped the Rebels win a girls state team title in 1971 as a sophomore. Langston, 58, was one of the first swimmers who was part of the new City of Midland Swim Team in the late 1960s, a program that has set the standard for swimming in West Texas for more than 40 years. "They hired Terry Gathercole from Australia, and he really made the program as strong as it was for so many years," Langston said. "We swam during the high school season, and with the City of Midland program we swam all summer long. We had an excellent coach, and he motivated all of us. Midland had a really strong swimming culture."

Langston was also named the top female athlete at Lee in 1973 as a senior. She lives in South Padre Island and works for a software company.

Langston on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "It's pretty neat. I'm really excited about it and really honored that they've chosen me for this honor. I especially like the fact, and I understand that this is the first they are inducting any women into the hall."

BARBARA (LAIN) CAMP
Midland High and Lee tennis player

Years played in MISD: 1959-61
School: Midland High & Lee
Sport: Tennis

About Lain: Camp has the rare honor of winning a state championship wearing both the colors of Lee and Midland High. Lain was a sophomore when Lee opened in 1960 and a year later her class at Midland High was split and she went to Lee as part of the first graduating class. But the change in uniform did little to slow down her success as a doubles tennis player. The former Barbara Lain won the 1961 girls doubles state title with partner Betsy Worden while playing for Midland High, and then a year later won another girls doubles title with Carol Nix while at Lee. "I played for David Kent at Lee, and he went on to coach at Texas A&M and he made a doubles player out of me," Camp said. "I didn't lose a match my senior year, and I had a fun time. It was a great experience."

While Camp's honors as a tennis player are important, it might be her career after high school that probably defines her most. She went on to a successful career as a coach and athletic administrator for nearly 40 years, helping to pave the way for women's intercollegiate athletics. Camp helped to start the women's athletic program at SMU in 1969 and then went to California-Irvine and finally finished her career at Auburn, where she was an associate athletic director and senior women's administrator. She retired from Auburn in 2006. Camp, 70, lives in Frisco.

Camp on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "One of my greatest honors was being inducted into the Texas Tennis Hall of Fame back in 2006, and it's kind of hard to express what a great honor it is. I had an amazing 40-year career, and to think it started in Midland is one of the greatest things that ever happened to me. I'm extremely honored."

TED BATTLES
Midland Reporter-Telegram Sports Writer

Years at Midland Reporter-Telegram: 1953-1989

About Battles: Ted Battles arrived in Midland in 1953 for a short career stop, but because the Mrs. liked the people, loved the sunny days, and tolerance of the midnight-at-noon sand storms, he stayed and served as the sports editor for the Midland Reporter-Telegram until 1989. From the "catbird seat" of his column, 'The Battle Scene,' Battles used his encyclopedic knowledge of sports history and trivia to keep readers apprised of a variety of sports in West Texas, the state, the nation and even internationally with "tomorrow's scores" from Australian football leagues. He interspersed his popular travel articles with droll humor and a unique perspective.

During his tenure, Battles covered the resurgence of MHS football in the 1950s with the likes of Wahoo McDaniel and coach "Tugboat" Jones, the emergence of Tall City high school basketball that included a No. 1 nationally ranked MHS team in the early 1960s, with three all-staters, state-contending teams from Carver High, and the opening of Lee High. This resurgence helped to serve as the foundation for Midland's many years of success that included state championships in football, baseball and basketball. He worked to expand participation in the junior high ranks that resulted in sustained high school sports excellence in many sports and state championships in football, baseball and basketball.

Battles' writing garnered multiple awards for him and the Reporter-Telegram from the Associated Press Managing Editors and Texas Sportswriters associations. As noted in an early 21st century Reporter-Telegram article, Ted, now 90, is a "historian, institution, integral part of Midland's sports community and represents what is right about the business. (He is a) treasure."

Battles on being elected to the Hall of Legends: "For someone who was only going to stay here a year, it's a surprising honor. When I came here I planned to stay a year because I figured my wife would have a fit, but she liked it. It wouldn't have been my first choice to live but it's been great and I wouldn't trade a minute of it. Some people when they retire they move on to someplace else. This is home for me, and I'm very grateful for the recognition."

Former Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor Terry Williamson on Battles: "It seems like I owe my whole career to Ted Battles. He hired me in 1970, and I've been writing for the Midland Reporter-Telegram for almost 43 years now. Ted, however is more than a mentor to me. He's more like a friend — or maybe even a second father. I sure owe him a lot, and I think Midland also owes him a lot."

THE 1973 LEE GIRLS GOLF TEAM

Players: Pam Barb (St. Clair); Martha Rowan (Krenz); Jan Lupardus; Kappy McCollough; Deborah Featherston (Fry)
Coach: Shirley Stephenson
Accomplishment: Won the University Interscholastic League's first Class 4A girls golf state championship

About the team: Girls golf had been a program at Lee before 1973, but it wasn't until that year that the University Interscholastic League began sanctioning the event and allowing players to play for a state title. And the Lee girls team certainly took advantage of the opportunity. The Rebels won the district title and then went on to win a regional title at Maxwell Golf Course in Abilene by 18 strokes over crosstown rival Midland High. The team shot a 690 during the 36-hole tournament as Kappy McCollough and Martha Rowan each had a two-day total of 168.

Then in the state tournament at Jimmy Clay Golf Course in Austin, McCollough said it was Pam (Barb) St. Clair that likely saved a state championship. McCollough said St. Clair hit a shot that looked out of bounds but asked for a ruling. The ball was ruled in play, and the Rebels won the title by one stroke over San Antonio MacArthur.

"It was just wonderful because otherwise we wouldn't have won that state championship," McCollough said.

PAM BARB (ST. CLAIR)

About St. Clair: St. Clair was a junior on the team and shot a two-day score of 210 in the state tournament, and her shot that was in bounds instead of out of bounds helped clinch the title for the Lady Rebels. St. Clair lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma, where she is a ballet teacher. She has four children and three grandchildren.

St. Clair's memories of the 1973 season: "I just remember what fun the five of us had together. We were used to playing golf on really bare fairways without much grass, and I wasn't sure whether I'd ever hit off clover before. All of the sudden there was grass everywhere (at the state tournament). There wasn't much hoopla back then, but it is really special that we are getting this recognition now."

MARTHA ROWAN (KRENZ)

About Krenz: Krenz was a senior on the team that year and shot a total of 192 over the two days at the state tournament at Jimmy Clay Golf Course. Krenz now lives in San Antonio and is a retired school teacher.

Krenz on the 1973 team being honored this weekend: "It's an honor. It's great fun to think about your high school teammates, and we had a lot of fun playing golf. Coming back to Midland is a wonderful thing for me. My grandfather was the sheriff in Midland County for 36 years, and Midland is dear to my heart."

JAN LUPARDUS

About Lupardus: Lupardus was a senior on the Rebels golf team that year and shot had a two-day total of 206 in the state tournament. She still plays golf a couple times a month and also played golf for Midland College's women's golf program at one time. Lupardus lives in Midland and works for a doctor on insurance billing. She is one of five children and has a twin brother. She has two daughters and four grandchildren.

Lubpardus on the 1973 season: "You know, we just kept winning tournaments. When we found out we were going to Austin, we all got excited. It was just amazing how well we were all playing."

On the 1973 team being honored: "It's special. I was just so shocked that they are doing this. I never really thought it was any big deal, but I still have all my trophies and pins."

KAPPY MCCOLLOUGH

About McCollough: McCollough had the best score of the two days for the Rebels in the state victory, shooting a 92 and 91 in each of the two rounds and finished third overall. McCollough said that on the final day of the tournament, she had lost a contact lens and played much of the round being able to see clearly out of only one eye. McCollough, who served in the U.S. Marine Corps for 6 1/2 years, is a retired certified public accountant. She lives in Paris.

McCollough on the 1973 golf season: "They took very good care of us, but we didn't have any kind of welcome home or 'Great, you all won the state championship,' or anything. It was just kind of odd. It was a good team, and we all got along really well. I'm just really happy that they are going to give them some kudos after all this time."

DEBORAH FEATHERSTON (FRY)

About Fry: Fry had a two-day total of 219 during the state tournament and was a senior on the team. Fry, who went to college at Texas Tech University, lives in Scottsdale, Arizona. She and her husband, a former golf professional, own a cleaning company.

Fry on playing that season in 1973: "It was always fun to go and play, and we played in San Antonio quite often, and it was just great fun going and playing different courses. It was really nice going to play a golf course that had huge trees and lots of grass."

Fry on the expectations of the team that year: "You always expect to win when you play, but it was a pleasant surprise that we won."

COACH SHIRLEY STEPHENSON

About Stephenson: Stephenson coached girls golf and basketball during her nearly 30-year tenure at Lee High School. Not only did Stephenson help the Rebels win the girls golf title in 1973, but also helped Lee win a handful of district titles in girls basketball during the early years of the program. Stephenson is retired and lives in Bracketville. Her brother is longtime MHS boys basketball coach Jack Stephenson.

Stephenson on the 1973 team: "I just think we had some really good kids, and they got along with one another really well. We had to win district, we had to win regional first, and I'm sure we went to some other tournaments around Texas. I thought we had a pretty good team. I don't think we ever thought about it being the first."

On the team being inducted into the Hall of Legends: "I think that's great because we've recognized football, basketball, baseball and all of that and we don't recognize golf very often. I think it's wonderful for these kids, I know they are not kids anymore, but to me they are still my kids. It's wonderful for them to get that recognition."

Unhappy blond sees red in battle over hair color

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17, and my mom won't let me dye my hair! Earlier this year, she finally let me color it red, which I have wanted for years. I went blond for my sister's wedding, but I'm naturally blond and I don't like it because it's boring. A ton of people compliment me on my hair, but I don't care what people think. I just want to be me and not anyone else.

So, my mom is being too controlling. She says I have to stay blond until I can pay for it myself, and I don't have a job. My parents are very strict, and I would never be allowed to get a tattoo, but I want my red hair back. How do I go about convincing her that no matter how much people love the blond, I don't like it and I want a change? — NATURAL BLOND IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR NATURAL BLOND: When a person changes hair color more than twice in one year, it can seriously damage the hair. Also, red is the hardest color to keep up because it tends to oxidize and turn "brassy." (I am speaking from experience.) It can also be expensive.

If you want to "go red," once you're working and can afford it, you can make your own decision. But in the meantime, listen to your mother — she's looking out for your interests.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my 20s and finishing up two degrees at university. I am an only child, and my mother is one of the youngest among 10 siblings, so I have many cousins.

I have always been the "good one," the one who is responsible, not addicted to drugs and who has a promising future. Because of this, my childless aunts and uncles and those with irresponsible children have looked to me for moral support and guidance during their golden years. Many of them are now in their 60s.

Abby, I already have to take care of my parents as they grow older. This stress as an only child and the "responsible cousin" weighs heavily on me. What would you advise? — THE GOOD ONE

DEAR GOOD ONE: Recognize what your limitations are and pace yourself accordingly. As you start your professional life and, eventually, your own family, it's important that you not allow yourself to be spread so thin you make yourself sick.

Your first responsibility must be to yourself, your immediate family and your parents. If looking out for your aunts and uncles becomes more time- and energy-consuming than you can handle, consider enlisting the help of a social worker.

DEAR ABBY: During meals, my girlfriend uses her fingers to push the food on her plate onto her fork. She does it not only when we're at home — just the two of us — but also out in public at restaurants. This can't be proper manners, can it? How can I get her to stop without upsetting her? Or am I better off not bringing up the subject? — UNCERTAIN IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR UNCERTAIN: What your girlfriend is doing is considered poor table manners. Because she's having trouble maneuvering her food onto her fork, suggest to her that she should do what some Europeans do — push it onto the fork using the blade of her knife.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Nov. 8, 2014

This year you seem to be a very different person from the one your close loved ones know. You become much more open and trusting. You still might choose to discuss heavy, bottom-line issues, but ultimately there is newfound sociability in you. If you are single, you might be overly anxious to find Mr. or Ms. Right. Be patient, and you are likely to meet a potential suitor through a friend or loved one. If you are attached, the two of you often can be found cozying up together, laughing and smooching. GEMINI likes your mind and loves to relate to you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ You seem to be filled with ideas that please an older relative. This person relates best on a one-on-one level with you, and he or she appreciates that special time. You might decide to do the unexpected; be careful with how you explain what you've done. Tonight: At a favorite spot.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ You will want to try a different approach with a money matter or when doing some shopping. You recently might have decided that spending less would be more beneficial or efficient. You seem ready to test that thought. Tonight: Make it your treat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ You could have a conflict with someone involving the nature of your plans. You might want to spread your wings, but this person seems more interested in some one-on-one time. Aim to make both of you happy. Tonight: The world is your oyster.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★ Allow greater give-and-take between you and a loved one, as this person will want to hear more of your opinions. At this moment, you might decide to read a book or watch a movie at home because you need some downtime. Tonight: Not to be found.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ You are likely to head toward your friends with a goal in mind. Your ability to get past a problem is noteworthy. Once you see your pals, you might discover that the world seems to revolve around them. Tonight: Only what you want to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ You could be extra tense about a situation that surrounds your personal life. Be willing to walk away from a problem to enjoy a child or loved one. You, too, need a day of leisure once in a while. Know when to say "no" to more responsibilities. Tonight: In the limelight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ Reach out to someone at a distance, and make a point of catching up on his or her news. Investigate alternative pastimes that would delight both of you. Your mind could start to wander, as you might want to detach from the here and now. Tonight: Tap into your imagination.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ You might want to head in a new direction and touch base with a loved one. You would love this person's company on a day trip to a favorite spot. Those closest to you often leave you feeling enchanted. Tonight: Togetherness is the theme.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You can't seem to restrain your adventurous personality, nor would anyone want you to. You tend to draw an interesting circle of people toward you, whether you're at a party or just having lunch with friends. Tonight: Opt for more togetherness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ You might have been putting off some work or a project. Now is the time to start working on it, as long as you can discipline your social personality. You also could decide to blend them together. Know that you have options. Tonight: You might want to call it an early night.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ You have a way of evoking the wild child in nearly everyone you meet. Your ability to give others permission to reveal themselves will be clear. As a result, you are likely to experience some memorable moments with a loved one. Tonight: The party goes on.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★★ Your personality melts boundaries, and it also allows others to be themselves. You might choose to spend a relaxing day at home with family. If you are single, you could be surprised by who strolls through your door. Be sure to keep an open mind. Tonight: Order in.

NOTICE OF DRAFT PERMIT AND HEARING FOR BRINE MINING INJECTION WELL NABORS COMPLETION & PRODUCTION SERVICES COMPANY
RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS, OIL & GAS DOCKET NO. 08-0288780

Nabors Completion & Production Services Company, 515 West Greens Road, Suite 900, Houston, Texas 77067, has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit for a Brine Mining Injection Well. The applicant proposes to inject into the Salado Formation, in its NWS Midland Well No. 2. The proposed brine mining well is located 4.7 miles northeast of Midland, Texas, in the Spraberry (Trend Area) Field, Midland County, Texas. The proposed injection and brine mining interval will be from 1,940 to 2,620 feet below the ground surface.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the public and to all interested persons that under the legal authority and jurisdiction of Title 3, Oil and Gas, Subtitles A, B, and C of the Texas Natural Resources Code, Chapters 26, 27 and 29 of the Texas Water Code, and TEX. GOV'T CODE ANN. Art. §§ 2001 et seq. (2013), the RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS will hold a hearing in Oil & Gas Docket No. 08-0288780, on DECEMBER 8, 2014, at 9:00 a.m. at the Railroad Commission of Texas, William B. Travis State Office Building, 1701 North Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas. This hearing will be conducted in conformity with the TEX. GOV'T CODE ANN. §§ 2001 et seq. (2013). For room assignment, on the date of the hearing please check the bulletin board in the 1st Floor lobby. Persons planning to attend this hearing are urged to contact the applicant immediately prior to the hearing date to be sure that the hearing will proceed on the scheduled date.

This hearing will be held to consider the application of Nabors Completion & Production Services Company for a brine mining injection well pursuant to Statewide Rule 81, for the NWS Midland Lease, Well No. 2 (API No. 42-329-38265), located in Section 33, Block 38, T&P RR Co. Survey, T-1-S, Abstract No. 26, Spraberry (Trend Area) Field, in Midland County, Texas. The facility is located approximately 4.7 miles in a northeasterly direction of Midland, Texas, and as proposed, will inject up to 4,000 barrels of water per day into the Salado Salt Formation at a subsurface depth interval from 1,940 to 2,620 feet.

In accordance with Statewide Rule 81, attached to this Notice is the Draft Permit. Public comment on the Draft Permit will be accepted by the Railroad Commission of Texas for at least 30 days from the date of publication of this Notice, and pursuant to Statewide Rule 81(1)(7)(c), extended to the close of any hearing on the Draft Permit. Comments regarding the Draft Permit should be directed to the Railroad Commission of Texas at (512) 463-6848, and questions regarding the application should be directed to the Applicant's representative, Clay Nance, at (512) 477-7543. If you have any questions regarding the hearing procedure, please contact the Railroad Commission of Texas, at (512) 463-6848.

Public comments should be submitted, in writing, referencing Docket No. 08-0288780, to Docket Services, Railroad Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 12967, Austin, Texas 78711 (Telephone 512-463-6848).

DRAFT PERMIT TO CREATE, OPERATE AND MAINTAIN A BRINE MINING INJECTION FACILITY

ISSUED TO:
NABORS COMPLETION & PROD SERV CO
515 WEST GREENS ROAD, STE 900
HOUSTON, TX 77067

Based on the information contained in the application (Form H-2 dated October 22, 2012) and in accordance with the applicable provisions of Chapter 27 of the Texas Water Code, Chapter 91 of the Texas Natural Resources Code, and pursuant to applicable rules of the Railroad Commission of Texas, Nabors Completion & Prod Serv Co. is hereby authorized to create, operate and maintain a brine mining injection facility designated as follows:

Nabors Completion & Prod Serv Co (Operator No. 598911)
NWS Midland Brine Station (Lease ID No. To Be Assigned)
Well No. 2 Spraberry (Trend Area) Field
Midland County, Texas District 08

Authority is granted to produce brine by injection of freshwater to dissolve salt from the Salado Salt through the wells identified herein and subject to all applicable provisions of the Texas Water Code, Texas Natural Resources Code, the Commission's Statewide Rules, and the following special terms and conditions.

A. Injection Interval. Brine may be produced by the injection of fresh water into the Salado Formation within the approximate subsurface interval from 1940 feet to 2620 feet in the following wells:

Well No. 2 (API No. 329-38265), UIC No. To Be As signed), located 2,350 feet from the north line and 303 feet from the east line of Section 33, Block 38, T-1-S, of the T&P RR Co. Survey, Abstract 26, Midland County, Texas

B. Completetion. The well shall be completed and cased such that the injected fluid is confined to the injection interval.

C. Injection Pressure. The surface injection pressure for each well shall not exceed 900 pounds per square inch gauge (psig). The maximum allowable injection pressure at the casing seat in the wells shall not exceed 0.8 times the overburden pressure at that depth.

D. Monitoring and Reporting. The amount and specific gravity of brine extracted shall be recorded and tabulated daily. The total volume of brine produced from the wells shall be recorded monthly. Records of the volume of brine production shall be kept for the life of the wells. Brine production data shall be provided to the Commission as soon as practicable upon request. The Commission may direct the operator to conduct sonar caliper surveys of the wells or other tests in the event data indicate the solution-mined interval has become structurally unstable or otherwise represents a hazard to the environmental health and safety.

E. Mechanical Integrity Testing. Mechanical integrity shall be demonstrated annually by means of a hydrostatic fluid pressure test. The results shall be reported annually to the Commission's office in Austin, Texas.

F. Cavern Volume. The maximum permitted cavern capacity (cavern size, not brine storage volume) shall not exceed 1,000,000 barrels. The permittee shall apply for an amendment to the existing permit to increase cavern capacity in excess of this volume.

G. Injection Fluid. The injection fluid is limited to fresh water pumped from water supply wells owned by the permittee. The injection rate of fresh water and the total amount of fresh water injected shall be recorded and reported annually to the Commission's office in Austin, Texas.

H. Groundwater Monitoring. The designated monitor well is the water supply well located within approximately 300 feet in a southeasterly direction from the subject brine mining well. Until the brine mining injection wells are properly plugged and abandoned, the designated monitor well shall be sampled at least once a month and analyzed for specific electrical conductance. The baseline value for electrical conductance is 2250 μmhos/cm. The upper limit value for specific electrical conductance shall be 2813 μmhos/cm (125% of the baseline value). If the results of a routine sample analysis show that specific electrical conductance exceeds the upper limit value, the permittee shall immediately cease injection operations and notify this office.

I. Completion Report. Any change in well completion requires filing a new Form W-2 in duplicate with the District office.

J. Storage and Disposal. This permit does not authorize the storage or disposal of any substance other than the resident brine within the cavity developed through injection for fresh water.

K. Plugging and Abandonment. A plugging and abandonment plan shall be submitted to this office for review prior to plugging operations.

L. Operator Change. This permit is not transferable without the consent of the Director. Any request for permit transfer shall be filed with the Director or Director's Delegate.

MAKING HOME AFFORDABLE

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
I grew up hearing the expression, "fighting like cats and dogs." My father said it every time my brother and I started our daily squabbles. In all fairness to Dad, my brother and I probably mimicked a good animal fight. Needless to say, I grew up thinking that dogs and cats were sworn enemies like my brother and me. Since I've owned a cat, Jessie, for the past ten years, the thought of adding a dog seemed like a bad idea. Then I saw an ad giving away a dog, named Shaggy, because the owner was too old to care for him. I just had to take Shaggy and hope Jesse wouldn't bully him around. To my surprise they were like old friends from day one. Jessie sleeps next to Shaggy at night and now has a much better temperament. Do you think these guys are an anomaly or do others have this same experience? Could it be that "fighting like cats and dogs" is only used by parents to describe their children's rivalry?

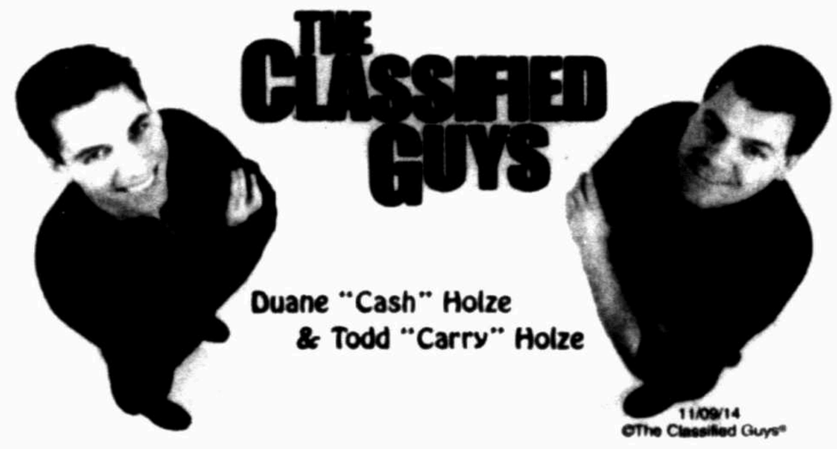
Cash: If Jessie and Shaggy can get along, then there may be hope for you and your brother yet.



After all, animals can teach us new tricks everyday!

Carry: It's unlikely that your dad is the only one using the phrase "fighting like cats and dogs." Although the origin of the saying is unknown, the two animals are notorious for not getting along.

Cash: Your situation of these sworn enemies is not completely unique. Much like maintaining a family, getting cats and dogs to get along is possible.

Carry: As you know, dogs love to chase. It's an instinct they have, called "prey drive". Likewise, cats have a survival instinct as well to protect themselves against predators. These traits do vary among breeds and temperaments, making some animals better suited for each other.

Cash: It's possible to train cats and dogs to get along or at least leave each other alone and not tear apart the house. Getting them to share bed space, however, is slightly more difficult.

Carry: You are very fortunate that your two pets hit it off right away without any training. It could be that Shaggy was exposed to cats before and therefore living with Jesse isn't much different. And maybe Jesse was just waiting for the right dog. Regardless, the previous owner will be very happy to know that Shaggy has found a comfy home and a new companion.

Fast Facts

Friend or Foe

We could learn a few things from animals. National Geographic produced a special entitled, "Unlikely Friends" showing some strange relationships between different species. The special shared stories of an orangutan whose best friend was a dog and a cat who's playmate was a crow. If that's not odd enough, then you may appreciate the fawn that bathes a cat or the dog that befriended a duck. The strange relationships now have experts wondering if animals can process complex emotions like humans.

He Said, She Said

While anyone with a brother or sister has probably experienced sibling rivalry, the severity can vary greatly. According to a recent poll by a well-known parenting magazine, about one-third of all parents reported that the relationship between their children constantly shifts between "truce" and "war". Nearly 7% stated their children were worst enemies and 25% felt their kids occasionally get meanspirited. Fortunately, the other one-third of those surveyed said their children were best friends.

Dog Gone It

In my neighborhood everyone owns a dog and each one has its own personality. Some are well trained to heel by their owner's side, while others look like they are taking the owners for the walk, pulling them down the street.

One neighbor who walks by my house always catches my attention. His dog is very well behaved except for the constant barking as they walk. When I encountered them on the street one day, we got to talking and I asked if the dog is ever quiet. "Sometimes," the gentleman said, "but after all, he is part Bloodhound and Labrador."

"What does that mean?" I questioned.

"Well," he laughed patting the barking dog, "that makes him a Blabrador!"
