High winds torture Texas

■ Hail, rain and tornadoes continue their assault on North and Central Texas.

Associated Press

High winds from at least 18 twisters and large hail damaged houses and toppled power lines and trees Friday after three days of severe thunderstorms dumped more than a foot of rain on North and Central Texas.

Winds flipped over a house trailer as three twisters downed power lines and caused other damage in Limestone County, authorities said. One twister, accompanied by large hail, touched down near U.S. Highway 84, west of Mexia, sheriff's officers said.

"We've got electric lines down and severe hail damage but no injuries as of yet," said a sheriff's dispatcher.

Several homes near Iola sustained roof damage and trees were uprooted by a twister accompanied by golfball-size hail, said Grimes County reserve deputy Edward Howell. In Center, power lines and trees were toppled by a tornado reported near there.

Half-inch hail and heavy rain accompanied a possible tornado near Calvert and near Kirbyville, but sheriff's officers in Jasper and Robertson counties said there were no reports of damage or injuries. Funnel clouds reported near Marshall and Cayuga about 6 p.m. never touched down, authorities said.

The National Weather Service reported a funnel cloud 13 miles northwest of Waco over Madison Cooper Airport. But authorities did not confirm that it had touched the ground and a tornado warning was later cancelled.

To the north, two twisters were moving across open country five miles northwest of Hillsboro and east of Meridian in Hill and Bosque counties. But there were no reports of damage or injuries, said Janet Todd, a Hill County sheriff's dispatcher.

Louisiana authorities also sighted tornadoes northwest of Shreveport and near Longstreet, Bossier City and Converse as the front moved eastward from Texas.

The weather service posted a tornado watch until early Saturday for 29 counties in North Central Texas, including the Dallas-Fort Worth area, and 31 counties in the state's northeastern region.

But the worst damage occurred from storms and tornadoes Wednesday and Thursday in the region.

The rains are being blamed for high water pressure that punctured an oil line under a rain-swollen creek near Gorman. Workers lowered a containment boom Friday to keep the oil from leaking into a lake that supplies water to three North Central counties.

Brownwood, which got 16 inches of rain Wednesday night, was among the hardest hit communities. The central business district was still under water Friday afternoon.

CBN bombing

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — A bomb in a package addressed to the Rev. Pat Robertson exploded Friday at his Christian Broadcasting Network's mailroom, injuring a security guard, CBN officials said.

Authorities confirmed there was a bombing but did not release details.

The package had a North Carolina postmark and was thought to be suspicious, said Frankie Abourjilie, a CBN spokeswoman.

Security guard Scott Sheepers was summoned, and the bomb exploded when he opened the package, Mrs. Abourjilie said.

Sheepers, 33, was taken to Sentara Norfolk General Hospital.

Oil flow

GORMAN, Texas (AP) — At least four cleanup crews on Friday were trying to contain thousands of barrels of crude oil that spilled into a lake here when heavy rains swelled a creek on Thursday.

Environmental Protection Agency coordinator Mike Ryan said late Friday he was confident that the spill would be contained before it got into the water supply of three North Central Texas counties.

Workers lowered a containment boom Friday afternoon and Ryan said he is 90 percent sure the boom would keep the oil slick from moving into Lake Proctor, which supplies water to Eastland, Erath and Comanche counties.

Cooperation

Genscher

Leopolodo Calvo Sotelo, the Prince of Asturias Foundation secretary and former Spanish prime minister, said Genscher won the award for "his vital contribution to the building of the European community, for his decisive role in the process of disarmament, for his efforts to create a Pan-European security system and for his tenacious defense of human rights."

Odessa girl likely wasn't abducted

Staff Report

ODESSA — Ector County District Attorney Gary Garrison said Thursday that new evidence found in the strangulation murder of an 8-year-old girl indicates that she was not abducted.

When the body of Gloria Castillo was discovered last Saturday, a week after she mysteriously disappeared, law enforcement officials said she apparently had been kidnapped.

However, Garrison said, "The information that we (now) have is that the child was not abducted." The conclusion was made following a recent series of interviews with Castillo family members and "others," he said.

Garrison would not release what information his office has in the case but said detailed information in the case would be presented to the Ector County Grand Jury on May 7.

He urged West Odessa parents not to overreact in the wake of the death.

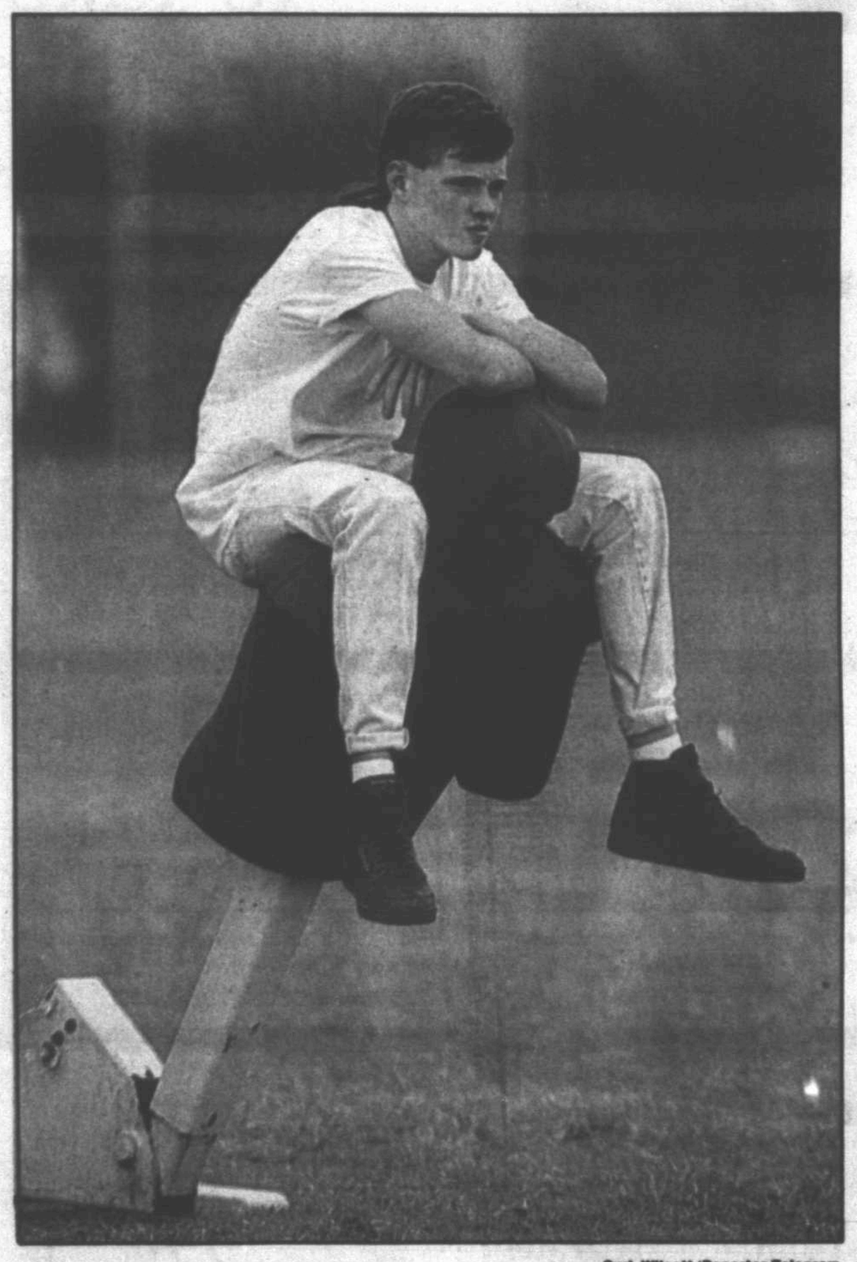

Responding to local residents' concerns about the case, Garrison said he felt the need to assure the public that an "unknown child abductor" is not believed loose in the community "because of newly discovered information."

Since the time of Gloria's disappearance, Ector County Sheriff's Department officials had been looking for an old orange pickup truck driven by a Hispanic man who was reported seen in the area where the girl vanished.

Rumors that the truck or driver played a part in the case or suggestions that the murder was the result of a "satanist abduction" have been dismissed, Garrison said. "There is no reason anyone ought to believe that was the case," he said.

Although Garrison said that he has information that Gloria was not abducted, he confirmed earlier reports that she

City urges 7.9 percent tax boost

■ To fund $1 million in pay raises for city employees and other expenditures, Midland's City Council is proposing increases just under levels that would allow a rollback election.

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

The city of Midland needs about a 7.9 percent tax hike next year to pay for a proposed $1 million in salary increases and other budget expenditures, city councilmen and managers said Friday.

Under the proposal, about 70 percent of increased tax revenue would finance pay increases, while the remaining money would pay for up to 2 percent in non-salary budget increases, Deputy City Manager Mike McGregor said.

Those receiving raises would be firefighters, police officers and select city employees whose salaries fall below average compared with pay for their private-sector counterparts, McGregor said.

The tax and salary hikes were discussed Friday by a salary panel of councilmen, city administrators, firefighters, police officers and citizens.

Councilman John Castro, a salary panel member, said the city will never get out of its financial tailspin and grow without a sharp tax increase.

"We're still in a deficit," Castro said. "Houses have devaluated and our tax base has been dwindling. We have to make it up somehow to maintain city services."

Midland Central Appraisal District preliminary estimates show that the city's tax base has dropped from $2.64 billion in 1989 to $2.62 billion this year, a 0.84 percent decrease.

The proposed hike would be the highest possible without risking a public rollback election, which can be called if a taxing entity raises the rate more than 8 percent over the effective tax rate. The effective rate is the tax needed to levy the previous year's revenues.

Based on early appraisal figures, the city's effective tax rate for next year is about 59.2 cents per $100, while the current rate is 58 cents. The rate could be raised to slightly less than 63.9 cents without risking a rollback election, the estimates show.

McGregor said the city will probably end up with $29 million in expenses and $28 million in revenues at the close of the 1989-90 fiscal year. Revenue is generated from sales taxes, court fines, zoning fees and property taxes among other sources.

City officials in recent years have had to make up deficits by taking money from a surplus account, which has dropped from $14 million to $9 million the past four years, McGregor said. "We've done that so we didn't have to raise taxes," he said.

Councilman Bill Williams, a city salary panel member, said the city must make its employee salaries competitive with those in other cities and the private sector.

Man charged with arson in fire death

■ 26-year-old Jimmy Vanover of Midland faces a charge of arson with bodily injury or death following an inquest into the fire death of the six-year-old son of his common-law wife.

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

Jimmy Vanover, 26, of Midland was officially charged with first degree arson Friday afternoon after a six-person jury in a fire inquest unanimously agreed earlier in the day that he intentionally started a fire in December 1989 resulting in the death of the six-year-old son of his common-law wife.

The charge of arson with bodily injury or death was filed through the Midland County Sheriff's Department, said Judge Keith Jobe, who signed the warrant charging Vanover.

The suspect is expected to be arraigned Monday.

Jobe was also the presiding judge in the fire inquest.

The jurors, made up of four men and two women, took less than 20 minutes to decide the cause of a house fire that killed Derryle Glen Milholland Jr.

Vanover's attorney, Thomas Hirsh, said he would fight the decision.

"I don't think it's a legal proceeding," Hirsch said. "Under statute the inquest should have been conducted by a fire marshal and there should not have been a jury," he said.

The fire inquest, a first for Midland County, was called and conducted by Jobe.

Hirsch had other concerns about Jobe presiding. "Judge Jobe was a quasi-prosecutor," he said.

Jobe played an active roll questioning the witnesses in the inquiry.

And during the actual preceedings, Hirsch claimed that the inquest was more of a trial than an inquiry into how the fire was started. "You can't try someone twice," Hirsch said following the verdict.

Hirsch said he will take the issue of double jeopardy to the Court of Criminal Appeals in El Paso if necessary.

Hirsch was not the only person upset with the decision.

Vicky Milholland, the common-law wife of Vanover and mother of the dead child, wept as the verdict was read.

In key testimony on Wednesday, Rick Womack, a fire origin investigator for the State Fire Marshal's Office, said that he believed Vanover lit the fire intentionally because he was angry at Ms. Milholland and then was unsuccessful in his attempt to put it out.

During the inquiry, Vanover claimed that after arriving home with his stepson and daughter on the night of the fire, he left, leaving the boy asleep in the house.

He said he returned to a bar, Rumors 2, with his 3-year-old daughter to look for Ms. Milholland.

Ms. Milholland testified that she left the bar when she became upset after seeing Vanover dancing with another woman.

After spending a few minutes at the bar, Vanover said he returned home.

Upon entering the house, he claimed he was knocked down by fire and hot air.

Clements says he cannot sign education reform bill

By Rick Brown
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — In a televised appeal to Texans Friday, Gov. Bill Clements said he could not sign a $555 million education reform bill that requires raising the state's sales tax "to an all-time high."

"I won't accept that and neither should you — not when the money we need for education is available in the state treasury," said Clements.

The legislation approved by both houses of the Legislature would require a half-cent hike in the base state sales tax of six cents on the dollar.

In a televised response to Clements, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, told viewers the legislation would "lift the burden of local property taxes off your back as a local taxpayer."

"Governor, let's not kid ourselves," said Montford. "Good schools with good teachers cost money."

Accusing Clements of failing to offer his own school finance ideas in a timely manner, Montford said that "being a responsible leader doesn't mean sticking your head in the sand."

Earlier Friday, Clements engaged in a war of words with Attorney General Jim Mattox, who said the governor is indulging in "brinksmanship" as the state teters toward crisis.

Mattox said "there is absolutely no doubt" Clements has contributed to the severity of the state's education problems, "and it would appear that the governor is going to keep us in this crisis," he said.

Clements accused the attorney general, an unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate, of "showboating" and predicted no dire consequences will result from the state's missing a May 1 deadline for reform set by the Texas Supreme Court.

Justices this past October ruled unanimously that the current school finance system is illegal because it discriminates against students in poorer school districts.

Clements repeated his pledge to call lawmakers back into session on Wednesday.

Travis County District Judge Scott McCown, who the court has asked to oversee state compliance with its opinion, will hold a hearing on the school finance matter on Tuesday.

Mattox, who acts as the state's attorney, said he may ask McCown to impose the dollar allocation formula lawmakers approved, but not the reforms their bill contains. However, the attorney general said he hasn't settled on a final course yet.

Clements said he thinks McCown will grant an extension to allow lawmakers to conduct a third special session on education reform.

In his veto message on Monday, Clements is expected to outline a school finance measure he would sign, including budget cuts that would pay for it, his spokesman, Rossanna Salazar, said.

Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle said the action comes too late to absolve Clements of "playing politics" with the school finance issue. "The schoolhouse has been burning for months," said Slagle.

McCown could enforce an injunction to cut off state aid to schools all together, action that would close some poorer school districts.

Spokesmen for two teachers' groups said Friday they are asking McCown to consider allowing enough state money to flow to districts to allow teachers to continue to receive paychecks.

Failing that, the Texas Federation of Teachers and the Texas Classroom Teachers Association are asking McCown to release teachers from their contracts should districts be unable to pay salaries.

The spokesmen acknowledged that would free teachers to leave their jobs and, if they chose, converge on Austin for protests, as teachers did in Oklahoma prior to the solution of that state's school finance problem.

John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers, said he expects a hundred or so members of that group from across the state to picket the governor's mansion on Monday in protest of the veto.

Jeri Stone of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, said members of that organization are being asked to wear black armbands on Monday.

Water bed saves home

ARLINGTON (AP) — Fire officials say a man's water bed probably saved his home from burning down.

An electrical short in a small oscillating fan started a fire in the mobile home owned by Ken Lloyd Thursday morning, fire officials said. As the fire spread to the water bed, it exploded and doused the blaze, officials said.

The fire caused an estimated $5,000 damage, according to Lt. Gary Pipes of the Arlington Fire Department.

"It's fair to say the fire would have been more substantial" if the water bed had not doused the flames, Pipes said.

Sister 'can live' with verdict in ex-officer's trial

DALLAS (AP) — Ida Lee Delaney's sister says she "can live" with the voluntary manslaughter conviction returned against a former Houston police officer accused of killing Mrs. Delaney.

Fired Houston policeman Alex Gonzales stood quietly Friday in a Dallas courtroom as he heard the verdict from a jury that could have convicted him of a more serious charge of murder.

"I can live with (this verdict)," said Ora Shaw, Mrs. Delaney's sister.

The voluntary manslaughter conviction carries a 2-to-20 year prison term.

Harris County assistant district attorney Don Smyth said he was satisfied by the verdict.

"Everybody in Houston was saying 'You'll never get a conviction.' We did get a conviction," Smyth said. "It's a lesser included charge ... We thought we had a murder case. But we can't be disappointed with results."

Prosecutors said Gonzales and two other off-duty Houston police officers chased Mrs. Delaney's pickup truck on a Houston freeway at about 5 a.m. Oct. 31 after she cut them off in traffic. Mrs. Delaney, 50, was on her way to work.

The officers, in plain clothes and in an unmarked car, chased Mrs. Delaney's truck for about 13 miles before she pulled in front of a highway truck. There was an exchange of gunfire. She was killed; Gonzales was critically wounded.

"She was just trying to go to work like any of us would normally do, any morning. And she was just murdered for nothing, for nothing," said Ms. Shaw.

The trial was moved to Dallas because of extensive pre-trial publicity in Houston. The shooting stirred racial tensions by groups in Houston that called it another example that police are hostile to blacks in Houston.

"This vindicates Ida Delaney. It vindicates the citizens' rights to have an input into their community, and into the institutions that govern them," said Ada Edwards, co-chairman of the Ida Lee Delaney Justice Committee.

"I was very, very, very, very pleased with the whole process. It shows that when people make it work, the process works. We have to keep making it work. It's up to us," she said.

Smyth would not speculate on possible trials for Alexander Romero and R.C. Gonzales Jr., the other two off-duty officers involved.

"I didn't see anything in this trial that would change my position about whether there's anybody else who can be charged. But that's always subject to review."

Teachers' organization endorses Richards

FORT WORTH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards won the endorsement of the state's largest teacher group and a pledge that the organization's 95,000 members would campaign on her behalf.

"Our reasons for this endorsement are obvious," Texas State Teachers Association president Ollie Besteiro said Friday. "School employees are frustrated. School employees are fed up. School employees are mad as hell."

Spokeswoman Annette Cootes said there was no dissension of the endorsement among the organization's 1,500 delegates, who will conclude their three-day convention in Fort Worth today.

"Unlike her opponent, (Ms. Richards) at least understands that local school budgets can no longer be financed by mothers holding bake sales," Ms. Besteiro said of Republican gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams.

Ms. Richards was to address the delegates this morning, Ms. Cootes said.

"School employees and retirees will be looking to a governor who will not raid our pension funds every time there is a statewide budget crunch as our current governor has done on several occasions," Ms. Besteiro said Friday.

> 'School employees are frustrated. School employees are fed up....'
> — Ollie Besteiro, TSTA president

"They want a governor who will not veto our employee health insurance bills, which (Clements) has done twice," she said.

Ms. Besteiro said Ms. Richards, the state treasurer, has a strong agenda on dropouts, drugs, teen pregnancy and illiteracy, and supports higher teacher salaries.

The TSTA's four-step plan to get Ms. Richards elected includes asking each of the 95,000 members to contribute three full work days to Ms. Richards' campaign; registering all school personnel to vote; trying to get retired teachers to support the campaign; and asking each school employee to recruit three voters.

Thursday, the group released a survey that shows that although Texas teachers are earning much more money than they did a decade ago, more are burning out and have serious doubts about staying in the profession.

More than twice as many teachers cite poor working conditions and job stress as reasons for quitting, the survey revealed.

Average salaries among the teachers surveyed climbed 90 percent in the past decade — from $14,113 in 1980 to $26,838 this year. During that period, the cost of living rose about 48 percent.

Other reasons teachers cited for quitting included more job pressures, paperwork and frustration with bureaucracy.

Of the teachers surveyed, 45 percent said they were seriously considering leaving teaching — up from the 38 percent in 1980 who said they were considering a career change.

David Henderson, the Sam Houston State University professor who conducted the survey, said he was alarmed by a shrinking pool of male teachers who are needed to serve as role models.

Houston woman honored as 'point of light'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush on Friday named Shelley Spell, 19, of Houston as a "daily point of light" for her volunteer work in helping victims of child abuse.

Once a victim herself, Ms. Spell founded Teens Against Child Abuse and for the past three years has actively "devoted her life to helping other victims," the White House said in a statement.

Bush names an individual or group each day for exemplifying his "thousand points of light" theme of volunteerism.

Jury's verdict 'saves' Midland firm

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

A Midland petroleum engineer's down-hole business of using microorganisms instead of chemicals to prevent well clog-ups and to enhance oil production apparently was saved by a jury's verdict and a judge's judgment in Midland.

"We went in there (the courtroom) to save my business and to save the bacteria business," said Midlander Fred G. Brown, who won a defamation case against the St. Louis-based Petrolite Corp., the nation's largest oil-field chemical company.

The jury found that Petrolite had defamed a competing product produced by Micro-Bac International Inc. of Austin and had defamed Brown, who distributes the bacteria through his Midland-based National Parakleen Company.

The jury awarded, and Federal Judge Lucius D. Bunton upheld, $1 million in punitive damages against Petrolite, $60,000 in compensatory damages, and $1 in actual damages to Brown. Of the $1 million in punitive damages, Brown was awarded $300,000, and Micro-Bac International was awarded $700,000 and $60,000 additionally in compensatory damages.

"If I didn't win, I would be out of business," Brown said Friday. "We were almost put out of business."

The monetary awards were not as significant as the principles that prevailed in the case, Brown noted.

"I had to get a permanent injunction (against Petrolite) and beat them at the courthouse," he said.

Petrolite was publishing erroneous material that the microorganisms could damage and ruin wells, Brown noted.

Judge Bunton's ordered said that:

- Petrolite be prohibited from "using the test samples" of the microorganisms which a Petrolite field engineer had pilfered from barrels with a turkey baster in 1989 in Vernal, Utah, where Brown was treating wells for Coastal Oil and Gas in the Altamount Field.
- Petrolite cease publishing statements about test samples, which where contaminated and were not an accurate representation of the product.
- Petrolite cease making statements that Micro-Bac products contain sulfate-reducing bacteria, create hydrogen sulfide, do not work, and cause corrosion.
- Petrolite return to Brown "all results" of testing of the bacteria.

Whether or not Petrolite will appeal the judgment is uncertain.

"Depending on what the judgments says, we still have several avenues available to us," Petrolite lawyer Sarah Cowen of Houston said Friday.

Court evidence showed that the Micro-Bac cultures were so effective in unclogging wells, reducing down-hole corrosion, and enhancing production that they were posing a threat to Petrolite's market.

"We were knocking them (Petrolite) off the wells up there (in Utah)," Brown said, "and they don't have a product to compete with it."

The microorganism is a "naturally-occurring bacteria," Brown noted, and, unlike Petrolite chemicals, is not bound by Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

"It's non-pathogenic. It's not harmful to your health, and it doesn't pollute," Brown said of Micro-Bac. "It does have its limits."

Brown's lawyer, Jim Boldrick of Midland, noted that Micro-Bac had "devised a way to use friendly bacteria, compatible with the ecology, to do the same thing" Petrolite's chemicals did in controlling down-hole clogging and corrosion. The chemicals kill down-hole algae and bacteria, while the microorganisms "eat the bad bacteria and well paraffin" that clog up wells.

The friendly bacteria "causes oil to run smoothly at the well bore."

Boldrick said that Coastal Oil and Gas was so favorably impressed with production results (40 percent more flow) of the injected bacteria that Petrolite was fearful of losing business.

Police, firefighters applaud salary review committee

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

Representatives from Midland's police and fire departments Friday lauded city administrators' attempts at unclogging communication lines between upper management and the public safety officials.

The comments came after a city salary panel comprised of city managers, councilmen, citizens, firefighters and police officers discussed possible pay increases for next year.

Lt. John Urby, a Midland Police Department officer who took part in panel discussions, said city managers and councilmen have taken the right steps to improve relations.

Relations between city management and police officers and firefighters eroded following a bitter November referendum in which voters struck down a proposal for a 10 percent pay hike for the public safety officials.

Urby and Sgt. Phil Maxwell, also a panel participant, have been working with city officials to develop a pay hike proposal for next year.

The two, in turn, have been discussing the various proposals with fellow officers during the past week.

Although no definite plan has been agreed upon, police officer morale has improved simply because of the department's participation in the panel.

"The majority of the officers feel that lines of communication have been opened up between themselves and the city managers and the councilmen," Urby said. "Our upper management has also been receptive to the needs of the officers."

Maxwell said an overwhelming majority of his fellow officers approve of a city proposal to increase salaries for those who obtain intermediate and advanced certification. The money amount has not been specified yet.

"It's an incentive for them to improve themselves," Maxwell said. "It would give the younger officers something to strive for."

Fire officials were equally enthusiastic about the city managers' efforts.

"I feel like it's the best thing that could happen," said Capt. Gilbert Carter, also a panel member. "It's nothing but a positive thing here."

However, Chief James Roberts has presented a salary increase proposal which asks for slightly more than a plan being developed by city administrators.

The city has suggested raising fire truck driver and fire captain pay, which ranks well below average in a recent city survey of fire department salaries in Midland, Odessa, Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene and Richardson. Deputy City Manager Mike McGregor said no amount has been specified yet.

Midland firefighter, deputy fire chief and chief salaries, which rank slightly below average in the six-city survey, would not be increased under the city plan.

Managers, though, have recommended a $50 monthly incentive pay hike for firefighters who recertify as paramedics the first time and another $50 raise for the second time.

Paramedics, who make an extra $200 a month than firefighters with no paramedic training, must be recertified every four years.

Roberts suggested raising the pay for paramedic certification to $250, with a $50-a-month incentive bonus for every recertification.

Those who earn intermediate, advanced and master's training certification would receive $25 extra a month for each certification, Roberts recommended.

Meanwhile, monthly base pay would be increased by $285 a month for captains, $185 for fire truck drivers, $100 for firefighters and $295 for battalion chiefs.

In addition, a $600-a-year bonus would be available to firefighters who use no sick days. They would lose $50 of that bonus money for every sick day used.

Carter said the proposal, if approved, could be phased in over a two- or three-year period.

"We feel that it would bring us up to the average in the West Texas area and make us competitive with them," he said. "It benefits the younger hands and the older hands."

Carter added that he and other fire officials were not displeased with the city's plan.

INQUEST: Attorney will 'fight'

(From 1A)

Womack disputed that claim, saying Vanover, who was seriously burned on the forearms and face, could not have entered the house and experienced a back draft caused by the fire knocking him down because the door opened inward.

Other testimony revealed that an unconnected propane hose valve was fully opened, fueling the fire.

Christine Hamlin, Vanover's grandmother and owner of the burned house, said she felt justice was not served.

"It's bad. I think the jury was unfair by his appearance, but that's the way the public reacts. They don't see a man's heart through his appearance," Ms. Hamlin said shortly after the verdict was anounced.

Vanover was brought to the inquest wearing jail garb. According to Hirsch, Vanover was in Midland County jail for parole violation.

Vanover failed to tell his parole officer he had moved after the house he was living in burned down.

"If a person serves time in prison they never let him forget it. It's a bad system," said Ms. Hamlin, who hired the lawyer to represent Vanover.

was strangled and found in a field about five miles west of where she lived.

Sheriff's officials reported that the body — with a rope around its neck — was discovered by four women near Damascus Avenue and 16th Street in West Odessa.

The girl's body was so badly decomposed that an autopsy could not determine the identity. Gloria's mother, Ninefa Castillo, identified the clothes her daughter was wearing.

Sheriff's officials said they are not commenting on the case at this time.

Boy was playing with matches

Staff Report

Midland Fire Department officials have determined that Brian Chapa, 4, had been playing with matches prior to the Thursday morning fire which took his life, fire reports said.

The child's mother, Guadalupe Chapa, 37, remained in critical condition at the Midland Memorial Hospital Friday night, hospital officials said. Ms. Chapa suffered severe smoke inhalation from the fire.

Firefighters responded to the fire at the Chapas' home, 1807½ E. Front St., about 11:15 a.m. Thursday.

The younger Chapa was pronounced dead at 11:58 a.m. by Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine.

TAX: Hike under rollback levels

(From 1A)

"Meeting their needs is going to require a tax increase," Williams said. "We've got the challenge of money in front of us."

Ed Fenner, a citizen member of the salary panel, said rewarding the employees with a salary hike will benefit the public.

"We certainly want and expect better service than average," said Fenner, Parker and Parsley Petroleum administrative manager.

McGregor said the pay increases likely would not be given across the board because some city employee salaries rank above average.

The salary panel recently completed a survey comparing firefighter and police salaries in Midland, Odessa, Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene and Richardson.

In another survey, pay for other city employees — such as secretaries, custodians, welders, mechanics, aides and supervisors — was compared with their counterparts' salaries in the private sector.

Midland's salaries in both surveys ranked slightly below average overall, panel members said.

McGregor said city administrators and councilmen will study salary and tax proposals throughout the spring and summer. Final recommendations will not go before City Council for approval until late summer, he said.

TAEX brags on Texas Arbor Day trees

Staff Report

The tree-planting Texas Arbor Day comes within a week of Earth Day to reinforce "all of the good reasons to plant trees," noted Deborah Benge, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) in Midland.

"And in the Permian Basin, we rarely need an excuse to plant a tree," she said.

Even so, the new Texas Arbor Day gives TAEX "an opportunity to brag on a little known but excellent tree for Midland County: the Chinese Pistache."

The medium-size deciduous tree "gets as near to perfect as a landscape, shade, fall color lawn tree can get," she said.

The tree, which is more attractive and ornamental than its nut-bearing cousin, "was made for West Texas."

"It can take the heat, cold, drought, wind, alkalinity and poor soil conditions," Ms. Benge said. The tree is deep rooted and will "not cause the root problems that many yard trees do with maturity."

For West Texas, the Chinese Pistache is a "near perfect tree," she said. When young, it is lanky, tends to be willowy and may need some pruning to develop good branching. Staking may also be necessary. The mature tree develops into a "beautiful round crowned shade tree with brilliant fall color."

Since the tree's fall colors range for orange to red-orange and burgundy, Ms. Benge said, "This tree could easily be the sugar maple of West Texas."

Hecklers in El Paso jeer as Williams speaks

EL PASO (AP) — Hecklers unfurled a large banner that read "Clayton Williams, Republican for Rape" Friday, but the gubernatorial nominee remained undaunted during an El Paso campaign stop.

The critics jeered and booed Williams while he spoke to a University of Texas at El Paso crowd and some carried altered campaign placards with the same message as the banner. The signs referred to a statement Williams made during the primary election in which he compared rape to bad weather.

"That's the great thing about a free society, everybody gets to put in his two bits worth," Williams said.

Williams invited questions from his critics, who asked about remarks he has made about women and admissions that he patronized prostitutes.

He apologized to the group for his rape remark.

Much of the crowd was supportive of Williams who drew cheers when he pledged to appoint an El Paso resident on the UT Board of Regents. He made the same promise in previous El Paso visits.

Dryer vent source of Odessa apartment fire

Staff Report

Odessa Fire Department officials said that an apartment complex fire on Thursday was caused by clogged tubing on a dryer vent.

Lint was suspected of clogging the vent that started the 12:40 p.m. fire at the Woodview Apartments, 4330 N. Grandview Ave., fire officials said.

Four units were severely damaged in the blaze. No injuries were reported.

Forest service cancels plan for tours

ESPANOLA (AP) — The U.S. Forest Service has scrapped plans to promote self-guided tours of Indian ruins in a community north of here because of residents' concerns that ruins would be damaged and their quiet village turned into a tourist mecca.

The Forest Service instead plans to seek comment from other communities where tours would be established under the proposal, called the Gateway to the Chama River Valley. Those communities are Abiquiu, Ojo Caliente, Canjilon and Gallina.

Gary Schiff, a spokesman for the Carson National Forest, said the Forest Service might conduct door-to-door campaigns to seek public opinion on the proposal.

The plan, which calls for tour maps to be drawn up and distributed to visitors, involves the Carson and Santa Fe national forests, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Residents of El Rito, a small community just north of Espanola where six tour stops were proposed, objected to the plan despite assurances from the Forest Service that it would step up security efforts in the area.

"The Forest Service doesn't have the manpower to keep people from messing up the sites," said one resident, who asked that his name not be used. "Once a pot shard is picked up and taken home, it's gone and no one else can enjoy it."

Schiff said details of the plan were released prematurely, leading El Rito residents to believe the tour plan was finalized.

"That was supposed to be an internal document because it includes maps and locations of the sites, which of course we don't want to get out," he said. "We've had vandalism at most of the sites already."

The 40 El Rito residents who attended a meeting several weeks ago believed the Forest Service was ready to put its plan into action, Schiff said.

He said many people believe the sites are inhabited by the spirits of their ancestors and that vandals should not be given an opportunity to desecrate those sites.

"As long as they feel the way they do, the El Rito portion of the plan will be shelved," he said.

Schiff said the Forest Service wants to develop the self-guided tours so visitors can gain a better understanding, appreciation and respect for northern New Mexico's past.

"For years, the Forest Service has been chastised for locking up our resources and not giving people the opportunity to appreciate the past," he said. "We wanted to help them gain respect by sharing these things with them.

"We wanted to give them more than just a corn-and-beans story about where things grew and were eaten. We wanted to show them the legends of time."

Home AIDS test kits reconsidered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration will reconsider its long-standing opposition to home AIDS test kits, officials said this week.

"Some people say it would encourage more people to be tested for AIDS, and if they (test) positive and got into the medical system they could get early treatment," said Dr. Paul Parkman, director of the FDA's center for biologics evaluation and research.

"I'm not sure all that will happen, but that's how we want to evaluate the system."

FDA officials said they were persuaded to rethink their opposition because of medical advances in treatment, such as use of AZT to slow the progression of the disease in its early stages.

Parkman said the FDA still has concerns about the home kits, which would enable people to send a small blood sample to a laboratory and get the results by telephone.

"It's not a sure thing. This is not tantamount to saying the FDA is going to approve this," Parkman said.

"We're still being cautious. We think it's an area that can be studied to see if the risks outweigh the benefits and whether the product can be used effectively."

Also, the FDA licensed the first test kit that detects antibodies to the human immunodeficiency virus type 2, or HIV-2, a second but rare cause of AIDS.

Only 17 cases of HIV-2 infection have been reported in the United States; most HIV-2 infections have occurred in West Africa and Central Africa.

The virus is spread the same way as HIV-1 — primarily through sexual contact with an infected partner, sharing needles with an infected IV drug user and contaminated blood and blood products.

University president investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — American University President Richard Berendzen, who resigned during an investigation of obscene phone calls, is being treated at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, a hospital spokeswoman said this week.

Berendzen has been a patient "a bit of a while," Joann Rodgers said Wednesday, but she refused to say when he was admitted or whether he was in the hospital's sexual disorders clinic as reported by Washington broadcast stations.

Berendzen resigned his university post April 10, saying he was exhausted, and has been out of the public eye since then.

Commonwealth's Attorney Robert Horan said that Berendzen was the subject of an investigation based on a series of complaints made to police in suburban Fairfax County, Va., but that the case also involves at least one other jurisdiction.

"The complaints involve phone calls he made," Horan said.

Anita F. Gottlieb, spokeswoman for the university, said it assisted in an investigation of obscene phone calls after Fairfax authorities approached campus security officials on March 29.

Mall bans brawling teens

By Joe Ruff

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Shoppers are welcome to browse at the downtown ParkFair Mall, but teen-age buyers beware — because of rowdy behavior, the mall has banned unescorted youths on weekday afternoons.

The three-tiered mall has been the site of recent, after-school brawls.

Teen-agers assaulted two police officers trying to break up two fights March 30. More than 100 youths were dispersed and four teen-agers were arrested.

"I was here that day and I was scared," a woman who refused to give her name said. "It was getting rather treacherous with the kids."

The often bustling mall was relatively quiet that day. Tables at the ground floor fast-food restaurants were largely empty.

"Our business is down," said one fast-food clerk, Naeem Muhammad. "But the theory is when we get this cleaned up other people will come down."

Some patrons and shop clerks questioned whether banning an entire group of people from the mall between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. was the answer.

"They can come in here and act like ladies and gentlemen," said Rose Shaffer, 52, who goes to the mall three or four times a week. "They shouldn't punish them all."

One 16-year-old turned away from the mall when he didn't produce any identification said the policy was aimed at blacks.

"They ain't sweatin' it for whites," said Ed Young. "This whole dilemma is strictly racial."

Police are frustrated by lack of cooperation when trouble occurs.

"We have kids coming out ... yelling racism and police brutality and that stuff," Sgt. Garry Gernandt said while on foot patrol around the mall.

"I think basically the problem is you got 10 percent of the kids causing problems for everybody."

The policy was implemented April 16 and backed up by police foot patrols. Private security patrolled inside the mall.

Metro Center Realvest, which owns the mall, said the policy will remain in effect as long as it works.

"It's indefinite at this point," Metro Center vice president Michael Wiese said.

The March 30 incident was the most recent and most dramatic, Wiese said, but the "problem of youths congregating and causing problems inside the mall has been ongoing for some time."

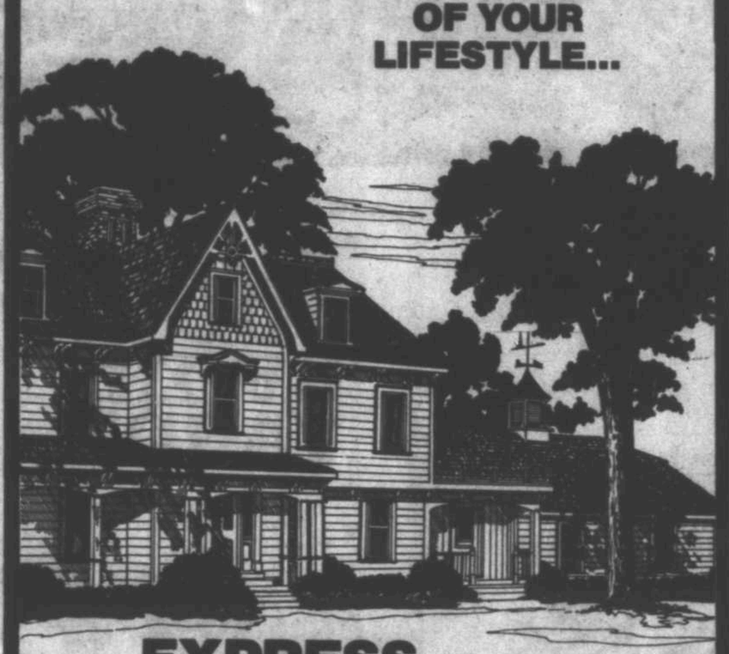

"We have decided at this point that this is the most appropriate way to restore order to the mall," Wiese said. "We have looked at what we feel are a number of legally permissible options, and this is the one we decided to implement."

There are no apparent legal problems with the ParkFair curfew, said Dick Shugrue, a law professor at Creighton University in Omaha.

"Age classifications need only be reasonable in a legal setting. In a private setting, by and large, there isn't any constitutional argument you could make," Shugrue said.

"The question boils down to whether it's a good business decision."

Professor welcomes bad writing

By John Flinn
Hearst News Service

SAN JOSE, Calif. – Scott Rice has an almost supernatural ability to spot bad writing, as if possessed of both William Safire's sensibilities and Superman's X-ray vision.

Here he is, striding through the San Jose State bookstore when, apparently driven by forces beyond his control, he veers wildly to the bestseller rack and rips open a copy of Danielle Steel's latest novel, "Star." He turns right to Page 47, first paragraph, fourth sentence, and reads aloud:

"She was wearing a blue dress the same color as her eyes that her father had brought back from San Francisco."

"Apparently," says Rice sarcastically, "she likes them better than the eyes her mother brought back from Cleveland. How inept! To think she's getting millions for this."

It's a safe bet that Rice has been exposed to more bad writing than anyone in the English-speaking world, although he has nobody to blame but himself.

As founder and chief judge of the annual Bulwer-Lytton Fiction Contest, the San Jose State English professor has spent the better part of the last decade sifting through heaps of tortured syntax, overwrought metaphors and frighteningly awful puns.

The idea of the contest is to compose the opening sentence to the worst possible imaginary novel.

Luckily for Rice, most of the entries, like this past one, are deliciously bad, rather than bad bad:

"The sun rose slowly, like a fiery fur ball coughed up uneasily onto a sky-blue carpet by a giant unseen cat."

Now in its ninth year, the Bulwer-Lytton contest has grown from a "literary drive-by shooting," as it once was called, to something approaching a cottage industry.

Rice has published three compendiums of past Bulwerisms: "It Was a Dark and Stormy Night," "Son of 'It Was a Dark and Stormy Night'" and "Bride of Dark and Stormy."

Together they have sold more than 100,000 copies. In fact, they sell far better these days than the original works of Edward George Bulwer-Lytton, the pompous Victorian-era author whose reputation the contest annually besmirches.

Rice is working on a fourth volume – tentatively titled "Dark and Stormy Night: The Final Conflict" – and has been approached about marketing Bulwer-Lytton T-shirts, coffee mugs and even 365-samples-of-bad-prose-a-year calendars.

His Bulwerisms have been translated into French, Finnish and Portuguese, and this year alone new entries have come in from Kuwait, Greece, South Africa, New Zealand and Switzerland.

Typical entrants, said Rice, "have a sense of perversity and perhaps a desire to get even with their eighth-grade English teachers."

Among the 8,000 entries this year is one from Wayne Shannon, the erstwhile KRON-TV funnyman who is now working on the East Coast.

"Amanda-June kept pencil leads in her empty earring holes for two reasons," read Shannon's succinct entry.

"I think it was Mark Twain who said that Americans are the only people who think it's funny to look stupid," Rice said.

One of the all-time groaners came from Santa Cruz writer James D. Houston in 1984:

"Awash with unfocused desire, Everett twisted the lobe of his one remaining ear and felt the presence of someone behind him, which caused terror to push through his nervous system like a flash flood roaring down the midfork of the Feather River before the completion of the Oroville Dam in 1959."

This year's contest deadline has been moved from the usual April 15 to May 1 to prove that the contest "is more compassionate than the IRS, that other recipient of bad stories," Rice says.

Along the way, Rice has become something of an authority on Bulwer-Lytton, a best-selling contemporary of Charles Dickens known for his turgid, shockingly purple prose.

It was Bulwer-Lytton's classic opener to his 1830 novel "Paul Clifford" – "It was a dark and stormy night ..." – that inspired Snoopy and countless other hack writers.

Rice, for example, knows about the secret society within the Nazi SS based on Bulwer-Litton's novel, "The Coming Place," about a race of people who lived underground.

And Rice was among the few to notice that last summer's box office smash, "Batman," was festooned with Bulwer references.

Robinson NBA's best rookie

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — David Robinson overcame the hiatus he endured between his collegiate and professional basketball careers, and was named the 1989-90 NBA rookie of the year, it was announced Friday.

Robinson, who waited two years to play for the San Antonio Spurs while finishing a Navy commitment, was unanimously named NBA Rookie of the Year on Friday.

Robinson, who led the Spurs to the greatest single-season improvement in league history, said the two-year layoff from organized basketball helped more than it hurt.

Lee diamond gets new name

■ Retiring Midland Lee baseball coach Ernie Johnson will see the field he built take his name today.

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

Twenty-nine years as "the only head baseball coach Midland Lee has ever had" will come to fruition today for Ernie Johnson.

Appearing in his last home game as the Rebels' mentor, Johnson will witness a pre-game ceremony conducted to name the Lee baseball diamond Ernie Johnson Field. The 15-minute ceremony will commence at about 1:45 p.m., then be followed with Lee taking on District 4-5A leader Abilene Cooper.

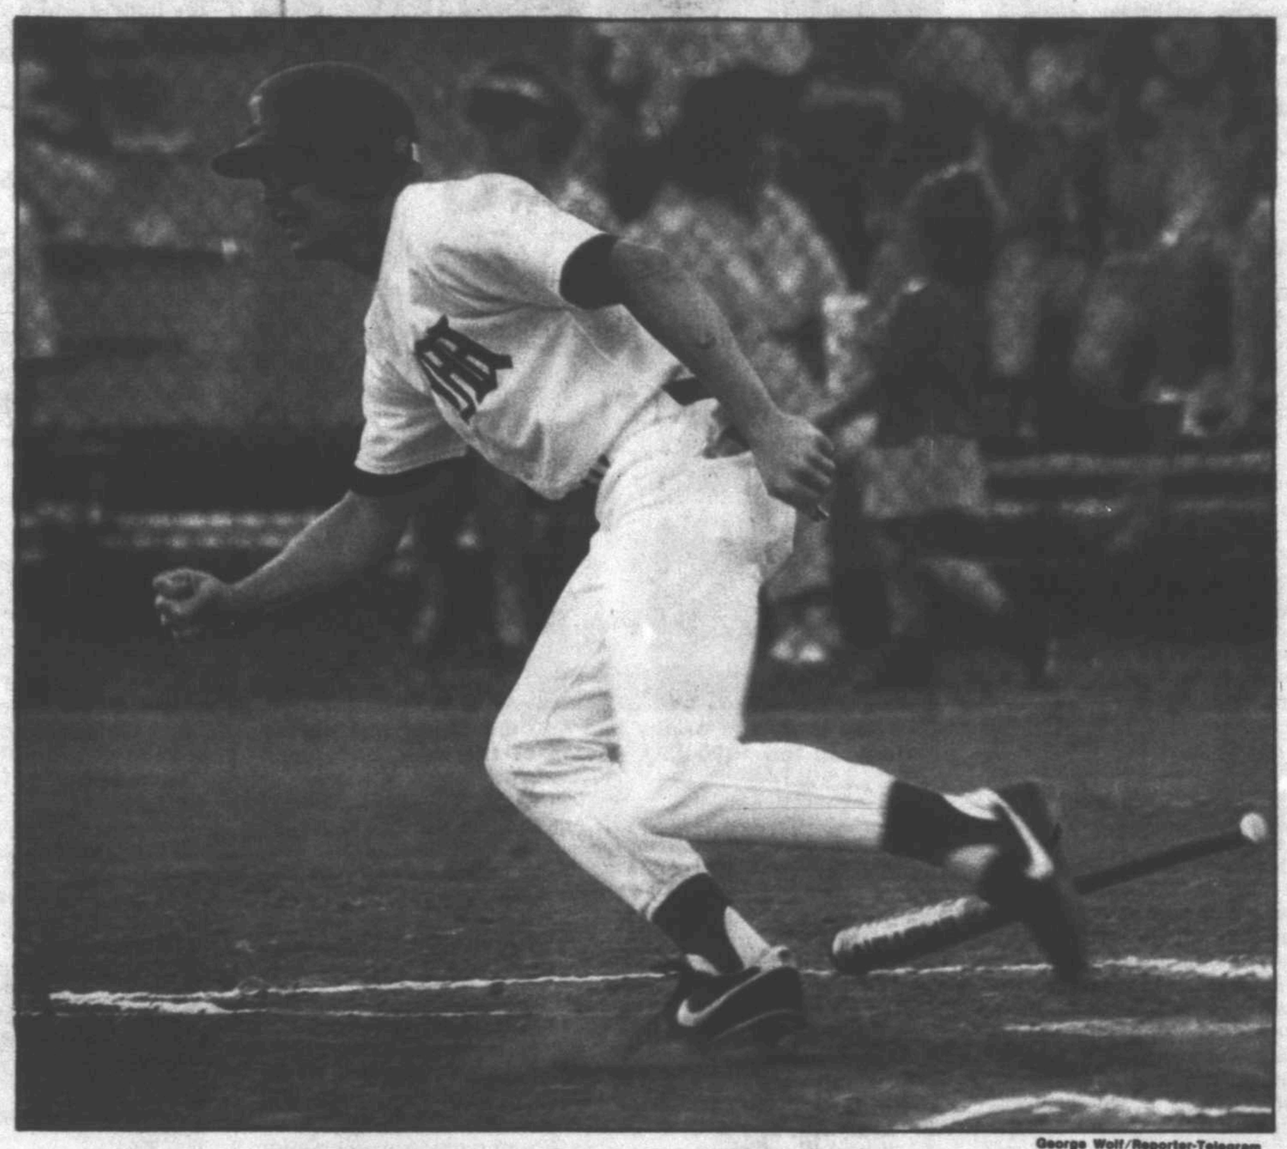

In other 4-5A action today, Midland High will try to solidify its stronghold on the second spot in the league standings by taking on Abilene High at the AHS field, and Odessa Permian hosts San Angelo.

Despite Cooper's impressive 9-2 4-5A record (16-5 overall), fourth-place Lee hopes to present a win along with a plaque to Johnson this afternoon. The Rebels are 6-4 in district play and 11-8 overall, and are coming off their second upset win of the season over Odessa Permian Tuesday.

However, no matter the outcome of the game, Midland Independent School Board members wanted to show what Johnson has meant to Lee baseball when they voted more than a month ago to name the field for the veteran coach.

"It will be a nice way for him to go out," said MISD athletic director Jack Tayrien. "Ernie has done just a tre-

Ameel storms region

■ Midland High netter Elizabeth Ameel played her way into the state tennis tournament by advancing to today's regional finals in Lubbock.

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

LUBBOCK — Elizabeth Ameel, not Harper Essex, will represent Midland High at the state tennis meet in Austin.

Ameel, a senior, breezed through three matches at the Region I tournament here Friday and assured herself of a state berth by landing in today's finals at the Lubbock Tennis Center.

Essex, the No. 3 seed and a defending state doubles champion turned singles player, had his hopes for a repeat trip to state dashed by unseeded Rod Stogner of El Paso Coronado, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

Midland's other three entrants at the regional event failed first-round tests and were eliminated.

Lady Bulldog Susan Johnson was turned back by Amarillo Tascosa's Wilson Pate, the No. 2 seed in girl's singles, 6-3, 6-4. Pate advanced to the finals and will play Ameel at 10 a.m. today.

"I played like a rollercoaster, up and down," said Johnson. "I certainly didn't play my best."

Midland Lee's doubles team of Ben Bacon and Jason Gooch dropped a fiercely fought 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 opening match to Trent Craig and Jason Green of Weatherford. The Rebs were ahead 5-4 and serving in the third set but failed to close the door on their opponents.

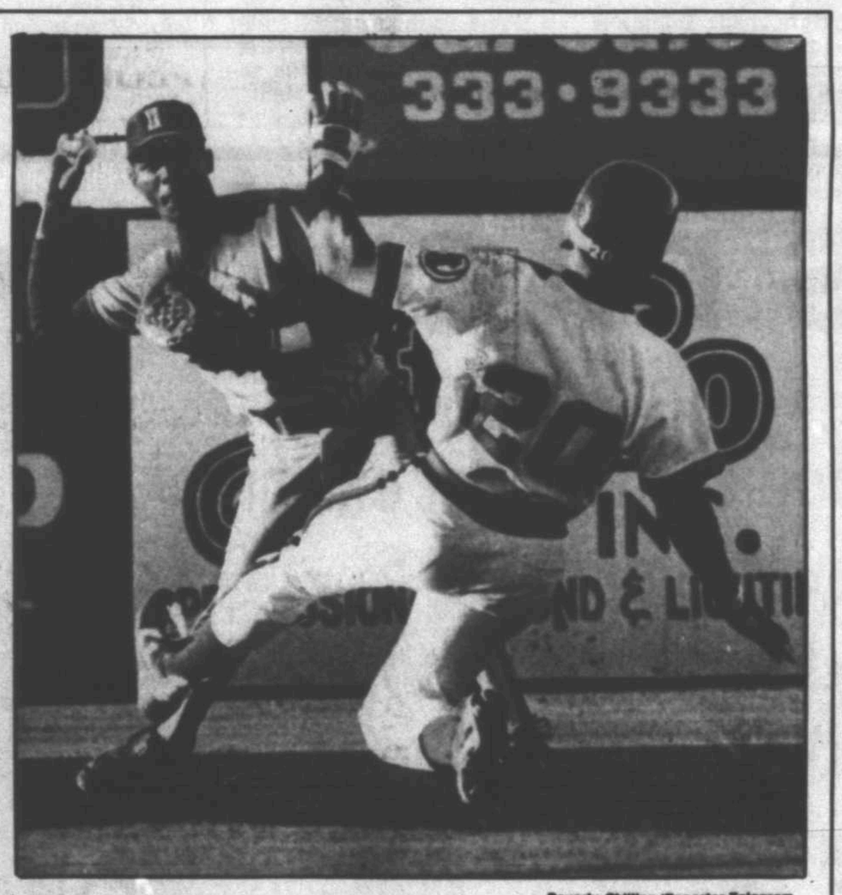

Lee's junior-sophomore duo may return to regional action at a later date, but Rebel tennis coach Bobby Connell will not. Connell is stepping down after 17 years as the Lee tennis coach.

"When I first came to Lee as coach they'd never had a boys' doubles team do much of anything," Connell said. "But we took a team to regionals that first year, and I guess it's fitting that we were able to do it in my last year.

"I just guess we'll wait and see what these guys can do next year," he said.

Essex, a senior, was thinking only of the present when he faced off for three long sets with Stogner. But after taking a 3-1 lead in games during the rubber set, Essex seemed to lose some of his consis-

Wrangler hurler takes complete-game win

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

Wichita starting pitcher Pedro Martinez carved his own tiny little niche in baseball history Friday night, hurling the first complete game of the 1990 Texas League season, defeating Midland 7-1.

Martinez allowed the Angels just nine singles while walking only one through nine innings.

And Midland's inability to mount any sort of drive was the source of Angel manager Eddie Rodriguez' ire.

"They need to do some real soul searching," Rodriguez said of his team. "They just need to take the bull by the horns and do it. Enough said. We're just not getting it done."

After scoring 26 runs in their last three games, the Angels managed to advance runners as far as second base only six times, and past second just twice. Midland's only run Friday came in the fifth when catcher Mike Knapp singled and scored on a Ruben Amaro grounder.

The only other serious threat the Angels made was in the second when they connected for three singles. But all three runners — Mark Howie, Jim Aylward and Scott Cerny — were left stranded to end the inning.

"(Martinez) pitched real well. Real well," Rodriguez said. "We couldn't put anything together. We can't get enough runs."

On the mark Friday was the split-fingered fastball and change-up of the 21-year-old Martinez. A second-year pro player and last year's Carolina League Pitcher of the Year, Martinez said making hitters ground out was the key to his win.

"When I have somebody on base I usually get a lot of good balls," Martinez said. "That's what happened (Friday) night."

Fifteen of the Angels' 25 balls hit for outs were to the infield.

Former major league pitcher Jon Matlack, now the Wranglers' pitching coach, said Martinez is making excellent strides for a youngster.

District runners primed

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK — The dreams and hopes of two Midlanders were dashed here Friday afternoon in the Region I track meet at Texas Tech University, but overall, District 4-5A is looking for good things when today's running finals are held.

Midland Lee senior Sheena Parker placed seventh in the girls triple jump with a 35-11, a full foot better than her season best, to fall from state qualification while Midland High junior Jack Kelso, the surprise 4-5A qualifier with a 13-6, managed only 13-0 and didn't place in the pole vault.

"I couldn't get my mark because the runway wasn't long enough. I really wanted to get around 37-feet," said Parker, who watched El Paso Andress' Bridgette Peace set a Region I record with a 40-4.

Kelso said, "The 13-feet wasn't as good as two weeks ago and I had hoped to do as least as well as I did in the district meet. I'll be ready for them next year if my parents buy me the pole I want. I hope to come back and be around 16-feet or 16-6."

However, the rest of Midland's field qualified for action today.

Midland High's Annette Glover qualified for both the 100 and 200 finals with the sixth best time (25.78) in the 200 and eithth overall in the 100 (12.24), neither of which are personal bests.

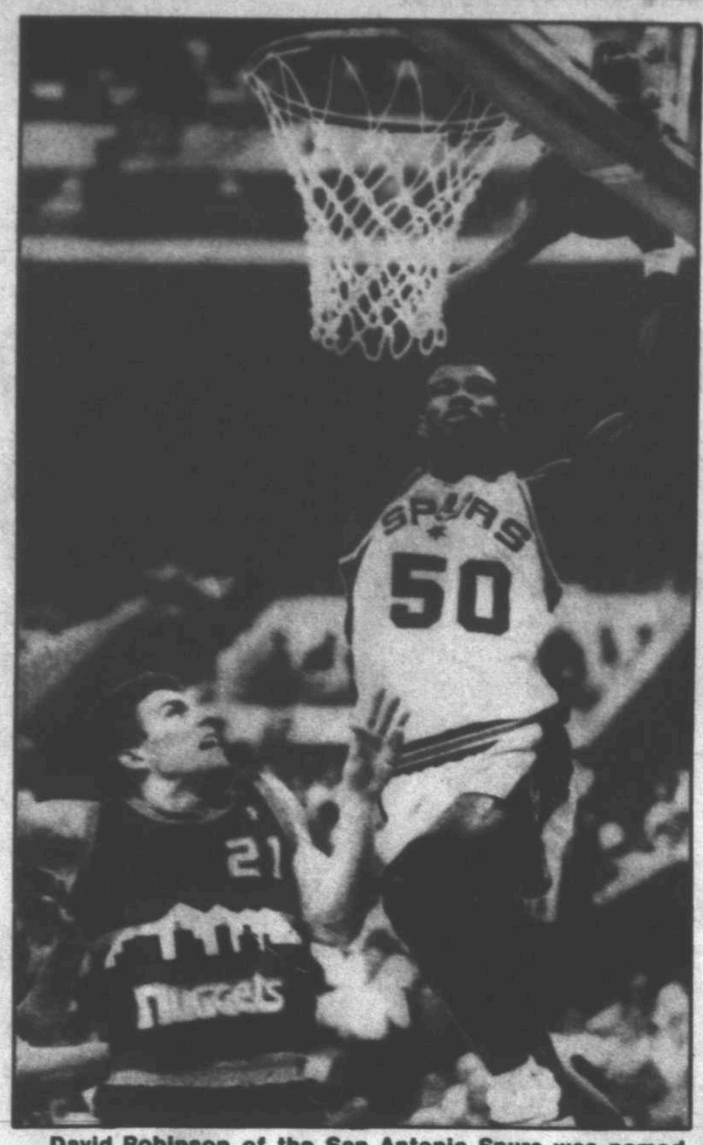

"I was last out of the blocks in the 100 and I'm usually a fast starter," said Glover. "I'll have to do much better in both races Saturday."

Surging Lee sophomore Traci Logan overcame a bad case of nerves to turn in the best local performance, churning out a season best 46.04 in the 300 hurdles, the third best qualifying time of the day. She finished second in her heat to El Paso Hanks' Chandra Hooper, who turned in the first region record in the new girls event with a 44.92.

"This just doesn't compare to any normal meets," said the youthful Logan. "These people are good. I've never prayed so much in my life. I prayed all

Spur center named best NBA rookie

David Robinson of the San Antonio Spurs was named Friday as the 1990 NBA Rookie of the Year.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For David Robinson, the wait was worth it.

Robinson, who waited two years to play for the San Antonio Spurs while finishing a Navy commitment, was unanimously named NBA Rookie of the Year on Friday.

Robinson, who led the Spurs to the greatest single-season improvement in league history, said the two-year layoff from organized basketball helped more than it hurt.

"I learned to be patient, not to fight things and keep my stress level down," he said. "It's helped me greatly this season. I'm mellow and I refuse to let things bother me."

Robinson, who averaged 24.3 points, 12 rebounds and 3.9 blocks per game this season, was the first unanimous selection as top rookie since Ralph Sampson in 1984. The 7-foot-1 center received all 92 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

"This is one more thing in a great line of things that have happened to me this year," said Robinson, who won every Rookie of the Month award this season. "All this stuff is just coming so fast it's almost hard to appreciate it all right now."

Asked what he's doing with all his awards, Robinson joked: "Actually I've got a big pile at home. I just throw stuff on it."

Robinson led the Spurs to the Midwest Division title with a 56-26 record — a 35-game improvement over the previous season and the most victories ever by a San Antonio team.

He finished 10th in the league in scoring, second in rebounding behind Akeem Olajuwon and third in blocked shots. Robinson also led all rookies with a .531 field-goal percentage.

"I'm sure people are surprised I've done as much so fast," Robinson said. "But it counts more that the team also has played well. I think any player would tell you that individual accomplishments help your ego. But if you don't win, it makes for a very, very long season."

Even Spurs coach Larry Brown has been surprised by Robinson's great all-around play.

"I had no idea he'd be such a force at both ends of the court," Brown said. "There are times he plays like he's inexperienced and hasn't played a lot, but when you consider his overall year he stacks up with anybody in the league."

Brown called the Spurs "David's team."

"He is the heart and soul," Brown said. "I'm not sure he realizes that yet because everything has happened so quickly."

The Spurs made Robinson the No. 1 pick in the 1987 draft, but he spent the next two years stationed at a submarine base in Georgia. Some NBA observers thought Robinson would have a hard time adjusting to pro ball after his two-year layoff, but they were wrong.

"I just wanted to continue to improve during the season, and I think I did," he said.

Robinson had 26 points and 13 rebounds Thursday night as the Spurs beat the Denver Nuggets 119-103 in the opening game of their first-round playoff series.

Winning games is Robinson's main goal, not winning awards. When it comes to personal goals, Robinson likes to be precise.

"I'm a mathematician. I like things that are either there or they're not," he said. "The answer is right or it's not right."

Jordan leads Bulls to win

Associated Press

NBA Playoffs

The Michael Jordan Show, co-starring Scottie Pippen, gave the Chicago Bulls a winning start in the NBA playoffs Friday night.

Jordan scored 38 points and Pippen had 17 points, 13 assists and 10 rebounds to lead the Bulls to a 111-97 victory over the Bucks, a team they have managed to handle with ease in recent years.

The victory was an extension of the Bulls' mastery over the Bucks in recent seasons. Chicago held a 4-1 edge in the regular season and has defeated Milwaukee 12 times in their last 13 meetings.

"The first game is very important," Jordan said. "If you lose it, you can't keep the homecourt advantage."

The Bulls broke the game open in the fourth quarter with a 13-2 run that gave them a 96-82 lead with 6:31 left.

"We turned up our defense a notch," Jordan said. "Our fourth quarter defense unleashed everything. We started to rebound and got our transition game going."

"You work hard all year to get the homecourt advantage and you don't want to lose it in one game," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "I was impressed with our overall performance. Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen were terrific."

Pippen's triple-double was his first in the playoffs and the second of his career. He also had one against New Jersey in February.

"I wasn't doing the things I wanted to do in the first half," said Pippen, who had only two points, one rebound and six assists in the first half. "I had to do something. I was happy with my rebounding and my defense."

Jazz 113, Suns 96

Stomach flu put the brakes on Phoenix guard Kevin Johnson, allowing Utah to pull away in their Western Conference opener.

The first opening playoff series since 1974 matching teams with more than 50 victories saw Phoenix labor without Johnson, who played just nine minutes and was held scoreless.

Lakers 101, Rockets 89

James Worthy scored 34 points, including eight as the Lakers took command early in the fourth quarter, and the Los Angeles Lakers opened the NBA playoffs with a 101-89 victory over the Houston Rockets.

The victory in the first game of the best-of-5 series was a milestone for Lakers coach Pat Riley. With 99 career playoff victories, Riley tied former Boston coach Red Auerbach as the all-time winningest playoff coach in the NBA.

The Lakers trailed 35-22 early in the second quarter, but after leading 69-67 to begin the final period, they reeled off a 12-1 spurt to go up by 13 just 2:44 into the quarter.

Worthy, who made 17 of his 22 shots during the game, led the charge with four baskets, including a steal and solo fast break that made it 81-68 with 9:16 to play.

Coach wants Mavs to get tough

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — According to Dallas coach Richie Adubato, the Mavericks need to do two things to win a playoff game in Portland.

"We have to be more physical and we have to get better shooting, the kind of shooting we're capable of," he said.

Adubato got the tempo he wanted in Thursday night's slow, bruising series opener. But Portland used a 20-8 offensive rebounding advantage and clutch performances by Terry Porter and Buck Williams to escape with a 109-102 victory.

Game 2 of the best-of-5 series is Saturday night at Portland.

Neither team shot the ball well Thursday. Dallas was the more accurate at just under 51 percent from the field. But the Mavericks' best shooter, Rolando Blackman, was plagued by foul trouble and dogged by Portland's Clyde Drexler during a 6-of-17 shooting night.

Portland, meanwhile, shot just 45 percent from the field and missed 20 layups. Drexler was 7-for-19.

"We seemed to get some awfully good opportunities in the first quarter and we couldn't seem to get anything to go down," Blazers coach Rick Adelman said. "Then we started pressing a little bit because we seemed to be getting to the basket and not scoring."

The Blazers, who haven't won a playoff series in five years, were simply happy to get out with a victory. On Saturday, they plan to increase the tempo but show more patience.

"We just have to push the ball up as much as we can," Porter said.

Porter scored 28 points in the opener, including nine of 10 free throws in the final minute. He set Portland playoff records by making 14 free throws in a row and 15 of 16 in the contest.

"Terry down the stretch was just tremendous," Adelman said. "He was having big fun out there. He was just hoping they'd foul him."

Williams, the former New Jersey Net playing in his first playoff game since 1986, had 21 points and 16 rebounds.

Dallas packed its defense inside and dared Portland to take the outside jumper.

"We kept taking the first thing they gave us," Adelman said. "A lot of times we were open for jump shots, but if we make two more passes, we may get a layup or an easier jump shot with guys on the boards. We didn't have the patience to move the ball a little bit more and see what we had."

Despite the loss, Adubato was encouraged by his team's performance. The Blazers swept the regular-season series from Dallas 4-0.

"We didn't have a great game, yet we showed ourselves that it's possible to play competitively here," Adubato said.

In order to win, Blackman said, the Mavericks must do better on the boards. Portland led the NBA in rebounding and had a 47-33 advantage in that department Thursday night.

"We have to win the war of the boards, keep things even to give us a chance to win the basketball game," he said.

One of the bright spots for Dallas was Roy Tarpley, who scored 22 points and grabbed 14 rebounds.

"He was challenging everything," Adubato said. "But he needs to get some help from some of the other people to contest Portland's great rebounding."

Tarpley, who missed much of the season because of substance abuse, said he plans to play Saturday despite a painful groin injury.

Koch jumps into lead at USF&G

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was the best round of the year for Gary Koch, and he felt it was overdue.

Koch shot a 5-under-par 67 Friday to take a one-stroke lead over Mark O'Meara after two rounds of the rain-delayed USF&G Classic.

"I had a 67 at Doral, but I think I played better today," Koch said. "I've seen some signs of improvement over the past few weeks, but nothing to indicate I'd be sitting here as the leader after two rounds."

Koch was 24th on the earnings list in 1988, but fell to 138th last year and came into the USF&G 177th on this year's standings.

"A typical pro golfer — tinkering with my swing in the off-season, then coming out here not knowing what I was doing," he said. "The last week or so, I've gone back to what I used to do when I was winning."

Rain delayed play for two hours and forced suspension of the second round with 23 golfers still on the course. They were scheduled to finish on Saturday before the start of third-round play.

Koch, who finished Thursday's first round a stroke off the lead at 70, parred his first three holes Friday, then made the first of five birdies on the par-4 13th hole, his fourth of the day.

He said his best shot of the day was a 15-foot par putt on his 16th hole, rather than any of the birdies.

"I hit a 5-iron long and left, which is the one place you don't want to go on No. 7. I hit a 60-degree wedge, and it went on past the hole about 15 feet.

"If I hadn't made that putt, I might not have birdied No. 8. It really got me going."

He was at 137 after two rounds.

O'Meara, one of four tied at 69 after Thursday's first round, shot another 69 on Friday, overcoming a miserable front nine with a 30 on the back side.

"I was determined to get it back after going three-over over on the front. I wanted to go three-under on the back, and I was fortunate enough to go six-under," he said.

First-day leaders Brian Tennyson and Steve Elkington shot 70s Friday and were tied with Corey Pavin at 139. Pavin shot a 67 on Friday.

Caps, Bruins advance to semis

Associated Press

Playoff sensation John Druce scored 6:48 into overtime Friday night as the Washington Capitals beat the New York Rangers 2-1 to advance to the Stanley Cup semifinals for the first time in their 17-year history.

Druce, who started the season in the minors and had just eight goals in 45 regular-season games for the Caps, scored his playoff-high 12th goal and eighth of the five-game series when he tipped Geoff Courtnall's shot from the left.

That shot ended eight years of frustration for the Capitals, who had failed to get past the Patrick Division finals in their seven previous playoff appearances.

It was a disappointing finish for the Rangers, who won their first regular-season division title in 48 years and blasted the Capitals 7-3 in the series opener. But the Capitals won Game 2 at Madison Square Garden, then took 7-1 and 4-3 victories at the Capital Centre.

It also assured that the Rangers' Stanley Cup drought will extend to at least 51 years.

The game was a goaltending duel between Vanbiesbrouck and Mike Liut. Both were superb, with Liut making 29 saves and Vanbiesbrouck stopping 31 shots.

Vanbiesbrouck kept the Rangers alive in the overtime by stopping John Tucker from point-blank range, then foiling Druce after Courtnall sent him in alone.

The Rangers, though dominated for most of the first two periods, trailed only 1-0 entering the third.

Bruins 3, Canadiens 1

The Boston Bruins advanced to the Stanley Cup semifinals as Glen Wesley's 25-foot slap shot with 1:13 left broke a 1-1 tie and boosted them to a 3-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens.

Boston, which captured the Adams Division final 4-1, will face Patrick Division winner Washington, which also beat the New York Rangers 4-1.

Two years ago, the Bruins beat Montreal 4-1 in the division final and reached the Stanley Cup final, where they lost to Edmonton 4-0.

Goals by Boston's Randy Burridge in the first period and Montreal's Stephan Lebeau in the second tied the game 1-1.

The Canadiens were trying to become the third team in NHL history to win a series after trailing 3-0. They won Game 4 in Montreal 4-1 on Wednesday night.

Hyde shoots 81

Staff Report

LUBBOCK — Jenny Hyde, Midland's lone entrant in the Region I Golf Tournament, shot a first-round 81 Friday and sits in 10th place going into today's final round.

Hyde, a Midland High senior, started six over on the first four holes, then recovered neatly down the stretch. She is scheduled to tee off at 9:30 a.m. at Shadow Hills Golf Club.

San Angelo's Lisa Balsch, who beat out Hyde for the District 4-5A title, scored a 71 and leads the field by one stroke over Sonya Perales of El Paso Andress.

TRACK: Abilene girls look for team title

From 1B

the way up here. The hard part is now over. Getting to the finals is tough and I'm just a sophomore. All these girls will be gone next year."

Lee's Bill Swearingen had a close call with elimination, placing eighth overall in the boys 400 with a sub-par 50.24. But he made the finals.

"It felt real slow," said Swearingen. "I couldn't get any bounce. This track isn't too good."

Lee's Marcia del Llano also qualified eighth in the girls 800 with a 2:26.57, but she beat Abilene High's Nena Hernandez, who won the 4-5A 800 title.

"It felt slow. The high breeze kind of hurt me. I didn't start strong enough, so I'll have to do that in the finals," said del Llano.

Odessa High's Dallas Cowan is set to earn three state berths for the second year in a row after being in the winning heats of the 400 relay, 100 and 200. However, the OHS sprint relay team may have hit trouble when Kevin Skinner had a leg pull. OHS may have to insert sophomore Brad Givens today.

Cowan won easily in the 100 with a 10.56, but had to come from behind to beat Sherman's Damon Giles with a 21.29 in the 200.

"The 200 was the best," said Cowan. "This is really the first competition I've had this year and I like the competition. I had to give it may all to beat Giles. Who knows? Maybe he was just running relaxed. We'll see on Saturday."

Skinner pulled up on his handoff to Cowan in the relay, but Cowan and Devorick Taylor had the best handoff on the next leg.

"Kevin pulled up short on me on the first leg, so we didn't have a good handoff," said Cowan.

San Angelo's Daren Childs broke the 60-foot barrier (60-5) for the first time in his career to win the shot put and start the Bobcats on the way to what may look like a Region I team title.

The Bobcats' Joey Bonds and Gary Owens both qualified for both hurdle events and look like they are on the way to a 1-2 sweep in the intermediates.

San Angelo also has a mile relay, but was beaten by Permian for the second week in a row after beating the Panthers in the district meet.

Permian's Lloyd Hill won his heat in the 400 with a sub-par 49.04, and like Swearingen, said the track made a difference.

"It's hard to get used to running on this track because we don't run on any like this one, but the wind also slowed me down. I just try to maintain a good stride," said Hill.

The Abilene High girls also have a slim shot at the team title. Ernestine Pyle had a third place in the triple jump and won her heat in the 100 hurdles. The Lady Eagles also won their heat in the 800 relay and Thelma McDow won her heat in the 400. LaRhonda Kendrick is also in the point hopefuls in the 200.

Oilers pleased with defensive draft selections

By Michael A. Lutz
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers can put up a "mission accomplished" sign beside their 1990 NFL draft.

They wanted immediate defensive help and they got it, starting with first round draft choice Lamar Lathon, a possible rookie starting linebacker from the University of Houston.

Defensive coordinator Jim Eddy's mood improved even more as the draft progressed and the Oilers took Notre Dame defensive tackle Jeff Alm in the second round and Miami defense end Willis Peguese in the third round.

By draft's end, the Oilers had chosen six defensive and six offensive players to try to improve on last year's Oilers (9-7), who reached the playoffs for the third straight year.

Now it's up to Eddy to pull his defensive picks together as a unit.

The Oilers' defense sagged last season, partially hurt by injuries, and finished 26th among 28 NFL teams in points allowed.

Pardee, who replaced Jerry Glanville in January, has changed the Oilers from a 3-4 to 4-3 defensive alignment and expects to see fewer points for opponents.

"When you go from a 3-4 to a 4-3, you're really concerned about defensive linemen, because there aren't that many out there to come in and make an immediate impact," Eddy said.

"We got a big inside guy that can do it in there and we picked up a rushing guy that can do it on the outside, and that's a pretty good start."

Two of Houston's three starting down linemen, Doug Smith and Ray Childress, missed part of last season with injuries.

Smith missed the start of the season because of knee surgery and is recovering from a gunshot wound prior to the start of this season. Childress missed the playoffs with a broken leg.

"I'm very confident Doug will be able to play, but it wakes you up and makes you ask yourself 'what if,'" Pardee said. "This gives us some big guys who can step in there."

Lathon, 6-3, 250, doesn't expect to take long to step into a starting role.

"My goal is to be rookie of the year and I can't do that sitting on the bench," Lathon said. "I don't like to compare myself to other guys. I feel I'm the best."

Alm played in a containment type defense at Notre Dame that was not conducive to the tackle making sacks.

Alm, a native of South Chicago, said he was happy to be selected by the Oilers.

Bowl threatens to sue Cards

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl is threatening to sue the Phoenix Cardinals and Arizona State University, claiming the Cardinals' scheduled Dec. 29 NFL season-finale is too close to the annual New Year's Day game.

Don Meyers, the chief consul for the Fiesta, said his bowl has exclusive rights to the 74,000-seat stadium three days before the annual Jan. 1 game.

"The Cardinals want to come in here and take the focus away from the Fiesta Bowl," Meyers said. "We're not going to tolerate it."

Tom Sadler, the university's staging director, said the school's contract does not give the Fiesta Bowl exclusive use of the stadium other than on game day and the day after the game.

He said the bowl must request university approval if it wants sole use of the stadium for the three-day period leading up to the game and so far "they haven't asked."

Sadler also said that according to the lease, the Fiesta Bowl cannot sue the university in such a dispute and is bound to go to arbitration to resolve it.

But Meyers said "if we couldn't agree to arbitrate it, then we would file a lawsuit."

The squabble erupted after the NFL released its 1990 regular-season schedule Thursday that showed the Cardinals hosting the Philadelphia Eagles on Dec. 29.

The Cardinals, who moved from St. Louis to Phoenix in March 1988, ended their home schedule on Dec. 18 in 1988 and Dec. 16 last year.

The Fiesta Bowl has been played at Sun Devil Stadium since its inaugural game on Dec. 27, 1971. It became a New Year's Day bowl in 1982 and has hosted national championship games in 1987 and 1989.

Meyers said the Cardinals' season-finale will disrupt the Fiesta's field preparations plus its annual high school band pageant scheduled for Dec. 29.

Joe Rhein, the Cardinals' executive vice president, said the team asked the university in early February whether the Dec. 29 date was available and was told that it was and relayed that information to the league office.

"The Cardinals do not want to do anything to try and hurt the Fiesta Bowl," Rhein said. "We have no interest in interferring with Fiesta Bowl activities in any degree. We're still willing to try and discuss it with them, but it's not something they're willing to do at this time."

Meyers called the NFL team and the university "ungrateful and arrogant" and said the Cardinals scheduled the game just to fill the stadium with Fiesta Bowl fans already in town.

"We bring 30,000 people in from out-of-state and they see an opportunity to go in there and grab 10,000 fans and put those people in the stands for their game." Meyers

Ryan had no-no stuff

By Denne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON (AP) — Watching Nolan Ryan pitch in the first inning, Jeff Torborg looked around the Chicago White Sox dugout and mumbled, "Oh, oh, he's got no-no stuff."

The White Sox manager was right. If not for a check-swing bloop single over a tangle-footed first baseman, Ryan would have pitched his sixth no-hitter Thursday night. Instead, he ended up with a record-tying 12th one-hitter in Texas' 1-0 victory over the White Sox.

Torborg is an expert on the Ryan Express because he caught Ryan's first no-hitter 17 years ago with the California Angels.

After Ryan tied Bob Feller's record for career one-hitters, Torborg claimed the 43-year-old pitcher is better than ever.

"He has better control, better mechanics, and a better curve," Torborg said. "What we saw was greatness. That was a no-no. The hit was a fluke. It just shows you have to be lucky to get a no-hitter.

"I guess I shouldn't be amazed by him because he was a teammate. But I still am."

Ryan took no-hitters into the ninth inning twice last year and lost them.

This time, it happened early. Ron Kittle checked his swing on a curve outside the strike zone in the second inning and the ball fell just outside the reach of first baseman Rafael Palmeiro, who stumbled trying to turn.

"The thing about a no-hitter is that everything has to fall in place," Ryan said after his 58th career shutout. "Tonight is an example of why they're so hard to get."

Ryan said Kittle hit a bad pitch.

"I tried to get him to chase a bad curve in the dirt but I didn't make it bad enough," he said.

It was the 17th time Ryan has allowed one hit or less in a game, a major-league record. He also set a club record with 16 strikeouts — the 15th time he's had 16 or more in a game and the 200th time he has fanned 10 or more in a game.

At 4-0, Ryan has matched the best start of his major-league career and is only seven victories short of No. 300.

"I'm looking forward to that day," Ryan said. "It's really the only record I've ever thought about going after."

Ryan said his 95 mph fastball was good, but his out pitch was his curve.

"When I throw a high percentage of my curves for strikes then I have a high percentage of strikeouts," Ryan said. "I had great stuff. The one hit was just a fluke, but that's the way it goes."

Brewers maintain hot streak

Morris can't shake recent woes against Milwaukee

Associated Press

Milwaukee hit five doubles and got three RBIs from Greg Brock in a 9-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers for the Brewers' eighth win in their last nine games.

Jack Morris (2-2), who is 0-6 in his last seven starts against Milwaukee, was tagged for seven runs on 10 hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Bill Krueger (1-0), the second of three Milwaukee pitchers, worked three innings to get his first victory and Chuck Crim got his second save.

The Brewers overcame a 6-2 deficit with a five-run rally in the sixth inning that featured three doubles off Morris.

Paul Molitor, who had two hits in four at-bats in his first game of the season after recovering from a broken thumb, started the rally with a double, moved up on Gary Sheffield's single and scored on a single by Robin Yount. Brock's ground-rule double scored Sheffield, Greg Vaughn doubled Yount across to tie it 6-6 and Ed Nunez relieved Morris.

After an intentional walk to B.J. Surhoff, Glenn Braggs singled Vaughn home with the go-ahead run.

Brock singled Dave Parker home in the seventh. Parker also added a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Surhoff singled Vaughn home in the second but Detroit's Larry Sheets doubled Lloyd Moseby across in the bottom of the inning and Alan Trammell gave Detroit a 2-1 lead with his first home run in the third.

Yount's double and an RBI single by Brock pulled the Brewers into a 2-2 tie in the fourth but the Tigers answered with three runs in the bottom of the inning.

Cecil Fielder started that rally with a single, went to third on a single to right by Sheets and both scored on Chet Lemon's double. Lemon overran second and was tagged out but Jamie Navarro hit Tracy Jones with a pitch and was relieved by Bill Krueger.

Mike Heath singled in the Detroit fifth and moved around to score on a stolen base, wild pitch and a throwing error on Brewers catcher Surhoff.

AL Roundup

Rangers 7, Royals 6

Ruben Sierra's two-run misjudged double off ace reliever Mark Davis with one out in the ninth inning rallied the Texas Rangers over Kansas City, sending the last-place Royals to their fifth straight loss.

Sierra hit a line drive over the head of left fielder Pat Tabler as the Rangers scored four times in the ninth off Davis (0-1). The Rangers rallied for five runs in the ninth Tuesday to beat Chicago at home.

Gary Pettis singled with one out, moved to second on Mike Stanley's walk and scored on Julio Franco's single to make it 5-4. Sierra followed with a liner that Tabler misplayed by turning the wrong way.

Geno Petralli followed with a two-out RBI single before Jeff Kunkel grounded out to end the inning.

Jeff Russell (1-1) pitched 1 1-3 innings for the victory, allowing a run in the ninth.

Steve Jeltz singled in two runs in a four-run first inning with his first hit of the season for the Royals.

Kurt Stillwell, who has hit in 10 of his last 11 games, homered with one out in the first. Stillwell also had an RBI single in the sixth.

Tabler singled, but was forced by George Brett. Brett stole second and was awarded third base when shortstop Jeff Huson was called for interference.

Gerald Perry walked and Willie Wilson was hit with a pitch. Mike Macfarlane, coming off a three-hit game, hit a checked-swing tap in front of the plate, and Brett made it in ahead of Hough's throw.

Yankees 5, Angels 4

Pinch-hitter Deion Sanders' infield grounder scored Roberto Kelly from third base with the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning to give the New York Yankees a victory over the California Angels.

Kelly opened the inning with a single off reliever Willie Fraser (0-1) and went to third on Rick Cerone's single. Sanders batted for Mike Blowers and hit a chopper to short with Donnie Hill's only play being to first base as Kelly scored.

Indians 7, Twins 2

Joey Belle, Carlos Baerga and Candy Maldonado each hit a two-run homer, leading the Cleveland Indians past the Minnesota Twins.

Cleveland starter Bub Black took a shutout into the ninth inning, but Fred Manrique and Kirby Puckett led off with solo home runs. Manrique had three of the six hits allowed in eight-plus innings by Black. Cecilio Guante got the last three outs.

Mariners 4, Orioles 3

Dave Valle hit a two-run homer and Erik Hanson allowed three hits in eight innings as the Seattle Mariners beat the Baltimore Orioles for their third straight victory.

Two of the three hits off Hanson (2-0) were infield singles. Mike Schooler earned his fourth save and his 52nd career, to tie the Seattle record held by Bill Caudill.

White Sox 6, Blue Jays 1

Greg Hibbard allowed one run and two hits in eight innings as the Chicago White Sox beat the Toronto Blue Jays.

Ivan Calderon drove in three runs for the White Sox with a sacrifice fly and two-run homer.

Red Sox 7, Athletics 6

Ellis Burks' two-out, two-run single capped a three-run ninth inning as the Boston Red Sox ended Oakland's eight-game road winning streak.

ANGELS: Desire not lacking

From 1B

"We're just trying to get him to use his pitches effectively on both sides of the plate," Matlack said. "He was up (in the strike zone) a little early in the game, but he pitched a fine ball game.

"He's young but he's got good stuff. If he keeps progressing there's no telling how far he'll go."

The Wranglers, who scored four runs in the final four frames did the most damage in a three-run fourth.

Guillermo Velasquez led off the inning with a solo homer over the right field wall. Tim McWilliam followed with a single and Mike Humphreys doubled. Both later came in on a ground out by Dan Walter and a run-scoring single by Juan Villenueva.

Rodriguez stopped short of blaming the Angels' effort on a lack of desire, but said unless the losing situation corrects itself soon "changes will have to be made.

"(Lack of desire) is not it right now. We're just finding ways to get beat. We're not taking the game to them. We're not able to counter punch."

One of the lonely bright spots for Midland was Steve DeAngelis' eighth inning single which allowed the hot-hitting right fielder to extend his hitting streak to 14 games.

With the loss, the Angels fell to 4-14 on the season, but are 3-3 in their last six games.

Rookie Kyle Abbott is on the mound for the Angels today at 7 p.m.

ANGEL NOTES: Another three Wichita stolen bases were recorded against Midland catching Friday night, bringing Angel catchers a lowly .179 season percentage (7-for-39) at throwing runners out. On Wednesday, nine Wrangler runners stole off Angel catcher Mike Knapp ... Thursday, in Midland's final Pack the Park Night of the Wichita homestand, a crowd of 4,336 was recorded, believed to be the largest crowd ever at Angel Stadium.

IOC looks at boxing

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The International Olympic Committee said Friday, in an effort to prevent mismatches and make Olympic boxing safer, it will try to reduce the number of bouts at the Games.

IOC president Juan Antonio Samaranch said he hoped the move would "prevent situations in which inexperienced boxers meet experienced ones."

The IOC is seeking ways to trim the size of the Summer Games and is asking help from the federations governing Olympic sports. Samaranch said the 1992 Summer Games in Barcelona would be limited to 10,000 athletes and 5,000 officials, virtually the same as the last Olympics.

But, boxing is being studying by a special commission appointed after a series of controversial decisions at the Seoul Olympics.

As the IOC's executive board wrapped up four days of meetings, Samaranch reiterated that the committee would consider readmitting South Africa only with the consent of other African nations.

"The IOC was the first to close doors to South Africa, and we hope to be the first to open them again," he said.

The last time South Africa took part in the Olympics was in Rome in 1960. After that, it was banned from the Games and most other international sports.

Met pitchers stifle Houston 1-0

Associated Press

Frank Viola allowed only two bunt singles before leaving with a stiff back after five innings, and Mark Carreon homered as the New York Mets beat the Houston Astros 1-0 Friday night for their fifth straight victory.

Viola (4-0) retired 14 of the 16 batters he faced. John Franco pitched 1 2-3 innings for his sixth save as the Mets limited the Astros, losers in four of their last five games, to three hits by Eric Yelding.

Carreon hit the first pitch from Mark Portugal (1-3) over the left-field fence to start the fourth with his third homer.

Viola, who struck out five in his first career appearance against Houston, experienced tightness in his lower back and was replaced by Wally Whitehurst to start the sixth. The New York bullpen is unscored on in seven games.

Viola retired the first six batters before Yelding led off the third with a bunt to second baseman Gregg Jefferies. In the fifth, Yelding bunted down the first base line, and Viola couldn't make the play. Yelding's final hit came off Whitehurst in the eighth.

Portugal benefitted from several good defensive plays, including a diving catch by second baseman Bill Doran in the first and left fielder Casey Candaele's belly-flop catch in the sixth.

Yelding stole second after his first two hits and was thrown out by catcher Barry Lyons trying to steal third to end the fifth.

NL Roundup

Reds 2, Expos 0

Chris Sabo singled off reliever Tim Burke with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the surging Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Drew Hall (1-2) walked the bases loaded. Hall walked leadoff batter Mariano Duncan, intentionally walked Joe Oliver with two outs, then walked pinch-hitter Luis Quinones to bring up Sabo, 0-for-4 at that point.

Sabo hit the second pitch from Burke through the hole at shortstop to give the Reds their 11th victory in 13 games.

Montreal tied the game in the eighth on a two-run single by rookie Marquis Grissom.

Spike Owen, who had three hits, singled with one out, chasing Tom Browning. Norm Charlton came on, gave up a pinch single to Junior Noboa and threw a wild pitch that moved Owen to third and pinch-runner Otis Nixon to second.

Charlton walked rookie Delino DeShields, bringing on Rob Dibble (1-0), who gave up Grissom's hit. After a stolen base by Grissom and an intentional walk to Tim Raines, that loaded the bases, Dibble retired Tim Wallach on a popup and struck out Andres Galarraga.

The Montreal defense, with only eight errors coming in, undermined a six-hit performance by Zane Smith with four misplays in seven innings. He allowed an unearned run in the first on a single by Barry Larkin. Rolando Roomes hit his first homer in the seventh.

The Expos were errorless in 44 innings until committing two in the first. Sabo led off with a grounder that third baseman Wallach flubbed for an error. Smith made a wild pickoff attempt, allowing Sabo to reach third. Larkin followed with a one-out RBI single.

Smith allowed just three more hits over the next five innings. He appeared to tire in the seventh, when Roomes homered with one out.

Grissom opened the fourth with a double and advanced on a ground out. But Browning, who allowed five hits and struck out seven in 7 1-3 innings, fanned Wallach and Galarraga. Owen doubled with two out in the fifth, but Smith struck out.

Phillies 7, Braves 1

Carmelo Martinez hit a grand slam in the eighth inning, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to their fifth victory in six games, 7-1 over the hapless Atlanta Braves.

Martinez reached reliever Rick Luecken for his first homer of the season and the third grand slam of his career after the Phillies loaded the bases against reliever Mike Stanton (0-3). Lenny Dykstra started the winning rally when he was hit by a pitch. Tom Herr, who had a homer among his three hits and two RBIs, and Von Hayes followed with singles to load the bases for Martinez.

Dennis Cook (3-0), lifted for a pinch-hitter to start the inning, allowed four hits, two walks and struck out two in seven innings.

The Braves, losers of four in a row and 11 of 12, gained a 1-1 tie in the fourth when Mark Lemke doubled into the left-field corner and scored on a single by Lonnie Smith.

Cook retired the first 10 batters he faced before Lemke's double. The run ended his string of 22 2-3 scoreless innings.

Lemke's hit also snapped a hitless streak of 10 2-3 innings for the Braves, going back to Dale Murphy's two-out, second-inning single against Houston on Thursday. The run ended a string of 17 2-3 scoreless innings for Atlanta.

Philadelphia took a 1-0 lead in the first on Herr's second home run, over the right field fence off Marty Clary.

Dykstra added an RBI single in the ninth and Herr followed with a run-scoring double.

Orel goes under knife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Orel Hershiser, one of baseball's best pitchers since the mid-1980s, underwent extensive surgery on his right shoulder Friday and will be sidelined for the rest of the season.

Dr. Frank Jobe, who performed the surgery, said the injury was more serious than previously thought, but that Hershiser should be able to return by the start of next season.

Jobe said it was determined through arthroscopic surgery that Hershiser's shoulder required reconstruction of the anterior capsule and tightening of ligaments.

"Initially, there were certain things on the MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) study that were obvious and that's what led us to do the surgery," Jobe said.

"We did the arthroscope exam and we were able to see what the inside of the joint looks like.

Rookie crashes at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Steve Barclay, the oldest rookie driver entered in this year's Indianapolis 500, was hospitalized with a concussion and several broken bones Friday after his car crashed against the second-turn wall at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The crash occurred during the first day of the annual Rookie Orientation Program and was the first serious injury in the program's 10-year history.

Barclay, a California land developer who took up racing in the mid-1980s, drove 51 laps during the morning test session, with a top speed of 185.109 mph.

Dick Jordan, a spokesman for the U.S. Automobile Club, said Friday evening that the 45-year-old Barclay was "a little bit groggy but awake."

tency. He staved off six match points before folding on a broken serve in the end.

"Winning that second set gave me some confidence, and I felt pretty good going into the last one," Essex related. "Then, after I got the early lead, I had a lapse in concentration.

"But he (Stogner) played well and came up with the big shots when he needed them. If I was tired there at the end, it was because I was going all out on my serve," he said.

And then there was Ameel, the No. 1 seed whose service was broken only once during her three visibly easy matches.

After dispatching El Paso Del Valle's Maribel Garay, 6-0, 6-0, in the opener, she gunned down El Paso Coronado's Merideth Hodges 6-2, 6-3 to reach the semis. There, she lost the opening game and suffered the service break later, but still outplayed Lubbock Monterey's Heather Hunt, 6-2, 6-1.

"I feel great," Ameel beamed after the state-clinching effort. "I finally started hitting the ball well toward the end of both sets.

"If I can win the final, it will give me an easier first round at state — well, they're all hard at state — but it is still important to me," Ameel said. "I want this region. It's my last year."

ERNIE: Not quite finished

From 1B

mendous amount of work on that field. He started with Lee's very first team, picked rocks off the field, mowed it and groomed it. It was only fitting the field be named for him.

"Not only that, but from my point of view, he's a class person with extremely high ideals. He's a very demanding coach, but he treats all his players the same. He's fair, and I think the young people appreciate him for that.

"There's no telling how many young lives he's influenced and nobody deserves it as much as he does, no doubt about it."

The Rebels, along with the rest of the 4-5A teams, have been plagued by rainouts for much of the league season, and were rained out earlier this week in a what was supposed to have been a makeup game with Abilene High. That game was rescheduled for Monday at Abilene.

"We had originally planned for the ceremony to be at Ernie's last game, but with all the rainouts it was made impossible. But it will be his last home game," Tayrien said.

In addition, a fish fry supper has been planned for 5 p.m., or following the game, at the Lee Youth Center and all Lee boosters are invited.

BARRING MORE inclement weather, MHS will get to play AHS today. The Bulldogs are one game off of Cooper's pace, but can only hope for a Lee win if they have any chance to win the 4-5A championship.

But the 'Dogs (16-8 overall and 7-3 in district) do appear to have the inside track to a playoff berth, with a one-game lead over third place Permian, and AHS (2-7 in 4-5A) and San Angelo (3-6) remaining on their schedule.

If Lee does drop Cooper today and MHS wins its final two games, the 'Dogs would then play Cooper in a district playoff next week to determine the district champion and accompanying No. 1 playoff seed.

"We can't worry about what anybody else is going to do. We just have to watch out for ourselves and win these last two ball games," said MHS coach Tim Whalen. "Of course, it would be nice for Ernie, the kids at Lee and for us if Lee wins."

HSU center debates on attending UCLA

ABILENE (AP) — Hardin-Simmons University's 7-foot-6 sophomore Mike Lanier was ready to sign with UCLA on Friday but decided to delay the decision after a late-night soul-searching session, his coach said.

"We spent 2½ hours talking together, then later he called and said it was off," said Hardin-Simmons coach Dennis Harp, who is helping his players choose new schools after regents decided to eliminate scholarships and seek NCAA Division III status.

Lanier told Harp that UCLA still is in the picture, but he may not be ready to make a decision until next week. Lanier also indicated he may go to Hawaii.

The giant sophomore, who still has a redshirt year left is the prize in the school's dispersal of basketball talent. Four players already had signed with other schools and three others besides Lanier are closing in on decisions.

"It's been a zoo with Lanier," Harp said. "Even (James Madison head coach) Lefty Driesell came in here last week and spent an entire day with him. We've had about 80 schools interested. That redshirt year makes him especially attractive."

Lanier, who weighs 260 pounds, is considered a project by many coaches. Last year, he averaged 10 points, six rebounds and two blocks. He had averaged six points and three rebounds as a freshman.

"He's turning down people that wouldn't even have considered him out of high school," Harp said. "And there's been a lot of negative recruiting going on."

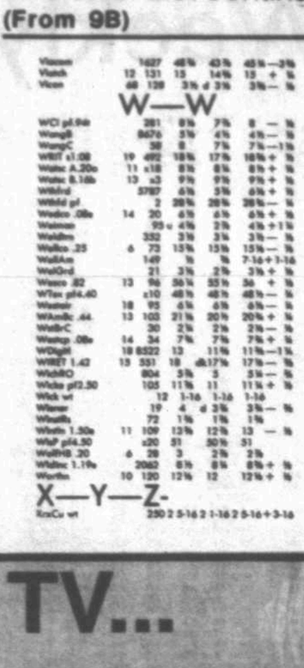

Lanier could not be reached for comment on Thursday. A person who answered at his college dormitory room on Thursday morning said he did not know when he would return.

Harp, who plans to remain the school's basketball coach, said it has been hard to watch players drift away in what amounts to a bargain-basement sale of college basketball talent.

"The frustrating thing about it was we were a young basketball team," Harp said. Hardin-Simmons was 9-18 last season, but had played a solid schedule and expected to fare well this year.

DECISIONS and CHOICES

God chooses to give us life. That is God's decision. How we live it and what we decide to do with it, that is our choice.

God is for us. He loves us. God is on our side. He cares for us. Even though God asks some hard, sometimes incomprehensible things of us, we should trust God's wisdom, power and greatness. We may not always totally understand God's final decisions or the difficult choices we have to face.

Each of us is responsible for his or her own actions. It is important that we make the right decisions and choices. It is a test of deciding and choosing right from wrong. The decisions we make today will ultimately be the choices we will have to live with tomorrow.

Let your relationship with God be your guide. Choose to worship in His house this week.

The concert is a prelude to the church's "Here's Hope" revival services at 7 p.m. Sunday through Thursday. Guest speaker for the revival is the Rev. "I realized that everything I have or will have I owe to the Lord's graciousness," Garrett says. "The talents I have are gifts He has bestowed on me, and, for reasons, He has deemed it necessary to be who I am."

Garrett has performed before thousands in concert at the Praise Gathering with Bill and Gloria Gaither, the New Gaither Vocal Band and the National Religious Broadcasters Convention in Washington, D.C. Individual Christians and the Odessa Scripture Shop are sponsoring the event. Tickets, priced at $5, may be purchased at OSS, 8th and Jackson.

The Acapella Vocal Band (AVB) is one of two full-time ministry groups from the Acapella Ministries' headquarters in Paris, Tenn. Originally created in 1986 as a back-up group for the nationallly known singing group Acapella, the Vocal band has developed into a separate full-time singing group.

Their music ranges from the slower and traditional songs to more soulful and comtemporary numbers. While retaining many of the sounds characteristic of Acapella, AVB has matured as a group into its own personality and style.

"They are loved by all ages, but especially by youth groups all over North America," says a release from the local sponsors.

The Acapella concert in Midland and Odessa the past year have experienced over flow crowds, the release says.

Anti-abortion organizers work for record turnout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-abortion leaders are hoping for "a massive display" of opposition to abortion at a rally Saturday at the Washington Monument that will help put their movement back on the offensive after months of political setbacks.

"We hope to impress the Congress. We hope to impress the nation," said Dr. J.C. Willke, president of the National Right to Life Committee.

President Bush will address the crowd by telephone hookup, as he has done at previous anti-abortion rallies and as President Ronald Reagan did before him. Vice President Dan Quayle will speak in person to the crowd.

The National Right to Life Committee, the leading anti-abortion lobbying group and the rally's sponsor, declined to predict the size of the crowd. But Willke said he hoped it would be the largest rally ever on the Washington Mall, exceeding past crowds of more than a quarter of a million people.

"Yes, it's a numbers game," Willkie said in an interview.

Willke said their intent was "to take more of an offensive ... to give a massive display" of opposition to abortion.

In the works for more than a year, the rally comes at a time when anti-abortion forces have sustained a series of losses in elections and in state capitals.

Since the Supreme Court's so-called Webster decision last summer, in which states were given more leeway to impose restrictions on abortions, supporters of abortion rights have succeeded in a series of major elections.

Candidates who support legal abortions have won elections for governor of Virginia and New Jersey and lieutenant governor of Virginia, and they have succeeded in blocking abortion restrictions in many state legislatures.

In addition, a number of candidates for office this year have switched positions to support abortion rights. And despite a strongly anti-abortion plank in the Republican Party's platform, party officials have made clear they do not want the issue to be a litmus test for the party's candidates or supporters.

"They have a public perception problem," Eddie Mahe, a political consultant to Republican candidates on both sides of the issue, said of the anti-abortion forces.

"There is clearly the perception the movement is on the pro-choice side," Mahe said.

Willke disputed the suggestion his group is on the defensive.

Inflation accompanies first quarter growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy grew at a surprising 2.1 percent rate in the first quarter, the government reported Friday, but analysts said an "ugly" inflation rate could mean higher interest rates that would slow growth later this year.

"We have set ourselves up for a halfway decent first half of 1990," said Donald Straszheim, chief economist for Merrill Lynch Capital Markets in New York. "But, by the end of the year, the economy will be slowing."

In addition to the strength in the gross national product — the nation's total output of goods and services — the Commerce Department reported that inflation jumped 6.5 percent, its steepest jump since a 7.7 percent increase in the fourth quarter of 1981. The GNP inflation rate for 1989 was 4.5 percent.

"The inflation number was absolutely ugly," remarked Robert G. Dederick, chief economist of the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago.

He and other analysts said the pace of inflation — boosted in part by the weather — probably will slow during the current quarter to the 4.5 percent-5 percent range.

But that still means the Federal Reserve will not lower interest rates and may decide to boost them further to slow the price spiral, they contend.

J. Antonio Villamil, the Commerce Department's chief economist, called the inflation report "disappointing news." Without the weather effect and a federal pay raise that went into effect in January, prices still rose 5.2 percent during the quarter, he said.

Some Indians flee reservation violence

ST. REGIS INDIAN RESERVATION, N.Y. (AP) — Some 2,000 Mohawk Indians began evacuating their reservation Friday to escape factional violence that has left roadways lined with burned cars and caused residents, including children, to brandish arms.

Gov. Mario Cuomo, meanwhile, stood firm on his refusal to send New York State Police or National Guardsmen to restore order on the St. Regis Mohawk Reservation, despite pleas from one Indian leader and some outsiders.

One man was critically injured in the violence and another was missing.

The reservation straddles New York and Canada, but the violence so far has taken place on the United States state.

After a week of nightly confrontations between Indians who support casino gambling and bingo on the U.S. side and those who oppose it, Canadian Mohawk leaders on Friday evacuated women, children and the elderly from the village of St. Regis in Quebec, which is near the violence on the New York state border. They were sent to nearby Cornwall, Ontario, just outside the reservation.

"It has become a very tense situation and we can no longer guarantee safety for our people," said Lloyd Benedict, chief of the Canadian band council.

Governor signs anti-takeover law

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — The nation's toughest anti-takeover law was signed Friday by Gov. Robert P. Casey, who said it would discourage corporate raiders from stripping jobs and economic vitality from Pennsylvania.

Within hours, the law was challenged by two lawsuits filed in federal court that claimed unconstitutional infringment on shareholder and investor rights.

The law, which took effect immediately, is expected by analysts to create ripples in boardrooms and legislatures throughout the nation.

For the first time in any state, corporate raiders will be forced to surrender short-term profits from takeover attempts. The law also restricts the voting rights of raiders and preserves labor contracts when corporations change hands.

Casey said the buyout spree of the past decade had left a wake of broken dreams for both workers and companies. The law, he said, would protect their interests in the face of greed-driven profiteers.

"We're interested in long-term, stable economic growth. We're not interested in corporate raiders that see short-term profits for narrow interests," Casey said.

Hostile takeovers have cost Pennsylvania thousands of jobs and such corporate mainstays as Gulf Oil Co., which closed its headquarters in Pittsburgh after it was merged with Chevron Oil.

Casey signed the bill at city council chambers blocks from the corporate headquarters of Armstrong World Industries Inc., the floor covering manufacturer the legislation was first drafted to protect.

Its enactment comes three days before Armstrong's annual stockholder meeting, at which the Belzberg family of Canada plans to wage a proxy fight to place four of its representatives on the company's board.

Regulators seize largest state thrift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulators Friday seized Massachusett's largest savings and loan, Home Owners Savings Bank, charging it with operating unsafely.

The Treasury Department's Office of Thrift Supervision took control of the savings bank and turned it over to the Resolution Trust Corp.

Home Owners had $3.6 billion in assets and fell $106 million short of required capital at the end of December.

Regulators had tried to rein in the thrift in February, imposing a cease and desist order requiring it to better manage its securities portfolio, which was vulnerable to interest rate swings.

Home Owners operates 15 branches in Massachusetts and 11 in Maine under the name Sun Savings. Home Owners Savings Bank of Fergus Falls, Minn., operates under a separate charter and was not placed under government control.

The thrift is one of more than 400 put under government management since enactment of S&L bailout legislation in August.

Ad lacks third-time charm

NEW YORK (AP) — What will those rogue historians at Lipman, Richmond, Greene claim next — that Columbus arrived in America in 1493?

In promoting Yonkers Raceway's 40th anniversary Friday, the agency produced two radio spots featuring three wrong dates.

"The year is 1950 and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is president," according to an ad broadcast recently on New York radio stations. "The Army-McCarthy hearings are going full blast."

Wrong on both counts.

Harry S. Truman was president in 1950. The Army-McCarthy hearings began in 1954.

The ad was redone, with Truman replacing Eisenhower and Bobby Thomson's famous home run for the New York Giants substituting the hearings.

Wrong again.

Thomson's "shot heard 'round the world" resounded in 1951.

"So, we were off by a year or two here and there," said a beleaguered Richard Lipman, head of the agency.

The first two mistakes were made by an agency employee, Lipman said. The Thomson date was provided by the raceway. In the end, a third version of the commercial dropped the reference to Thomson and did not replace it.

"We finally gave up on trying to be factual," Lipman said.

Polhill has growth on his vocal cords

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freed hostage Robert Polhill has a growth on his vocal cords, a doctor disclosed Friday as a silent Polhill said through his wife he hoped soon to be welcoming others home from captivity in Lebanon.

Polhill, in a statement read for him by his Lebanese-born wife, Ferial, said he and his family hoped his release Sunday marked "the beginning of the end to the hostage situation."

A biopsy is to be performed soon, probably early next week, to see if the growth on his vocal cords is a tumor or an infection, said Dr. Russ Zajtchuk, deputy commander of clinical services at Walter Reed Army Medical Center where Polhill is being treated.

Polhill's wife described him as "physically weak but mentally very, very strong."

She read his statement to the American people and answered questions outside the hospital where her husband arrived Thursday for a stay that doctors said could last as long as three to four weeks. After his release, Polhill spent three days in another Army hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany, before being flown to Washington.

"I regret that, at the moment, I am unable to thank you more directly and personally," Polhill said in the prepared statement. "But my voice decided to go on vacation before I did."

Seventeen Western hostages, seven of them Americans, are still held in the Middle East.

Mrs. Polhill said she and her husband, a business professor at American University in Beirut before he was seized by terrorists three years and three months ago.

The doctor said Polhill, 55, "has lost a lot of weight and has a growth on his left vocal cords."

Telescope eye open, electronics down

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Hubble Space Telescope orbited with its big eye open Friday after ground controllers overcame communications problems and lifted its lens cover, but its electronics were shut down due to a malfunction.

Those problems, however, were not the immediate concern of shuttle Discovery's astronauts, who prepared for Sunday's return to Earth.

"You've been released from Hubble support. It's on its own," Mission Control's Story Musgrave told the five crew members.

"That's great news," replied Discovery commander Loren J. Shriver.

"There are handshakes and smiles all around up here. I'll bet it's just that way back down there, too," added mission specialist Steven Hawley. "Who's buying tonight?"

"We'll buy when you all get back," Musgrave replied.

Flight director William Reeves said it was too early to cheer.

"We still have an important part of the mission to go," Reeves said. "We reserve our celebration until the crew is safely on the ground."

Discovery is to land at 9:48 a.m. EDT Sunday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Landing would have been delayed a day if astronauts Bruce McCandless and Kathryn Sullivan had had to perform a space walk to crank open the telescope's lens cover, or aperture door.

The shuttle trailed 50 miles behind Hubble when the aperture door opened 380 miles above Earth, but passed 3.7 miles beneath the telescope later in the day.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned to release its first test image from the $1.5 billion telescope on Tuesday, showing an open star cluster in the constellation Carina. But Steve Terry, director of orbital verifications, said that would be delayed by problems with Hubble's high-speed antennas. Scientific data will follow in a month or two.

Hubble's 10-foot aluminum aperture door was opened to the heavens at 10:30 a.m. EDT, nearly four hours later than planned, exposing its finely polished 94.5-inch mirror to starlight for the first time.

NATION IN BRIEF

Michigan firms recall sausage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Michigan food processors are voluntarily recalling 3,500 pounds of sausage because the products may contain sulfite, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

Dave's Sausage Factory in Detroit recalled 3,000 pounds, and Mancini Sausage Co. in Harpers Woods 500 pounds, officials said.

"Sulfites can pose serious health risks for people who are sensitive to these compounds," said Lester M. Crawford, head of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

The sausage links produced by Dave's are sold under the names "Wisbisky's Polish Sausage," "Vero's Italian Sausage" and "Dave's Pork Links."

The Mancini Sausage Co. product is sold only to delicatessens under the name, "Polish Brand Sausage" and is also in clear plastic bags, with a weight of 1½ pounds each.

Lightning kills pelicans

BROADWATER, Neb. (AP) — Sixteen pelicans found dead near here were killed by lightning, wildlife officials said.

"It's unusual for this to occur," said game warden Joe Ulrich, who investigated the birds' deaths southeast of Broadwater. He said weather patterns seldom have such an impact on migrating birds.

Pelicans, which are not unusual in Nebraska, are mong the largest of all flying birds. They have wingspans of up to 9 feet.

The American white pelicans probably were flying at an altitude of several hundred feet when they were caught in a thunderstorm earlier this week, said Dr. Stephen Kerr, a Gering veterinarian and wildlife enthusiast who examined the birds.

"It's unusual because birds usually avoid bad weather," he said Thursday.

Kerr said his examination showed that the birds died before hitting the ground. Marks on some of their plumage showed probable contact with an electrical current, he said.

Girl loses arms, legs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A 6-year-old girl's arms and legs were amputated after a rare form of toxic shock bacteria infected chicken pox lesions on her body, doctors said.

"This is exceedingly rare," said Dr. John Bradley, director of the division of infectious disease at Children's Hospital.

He said he knew of no documented case of this strain of bacteria infecting children, although there have been dozens of cases involving adults and it is fatal about 30 percent of the time.

Jessica Lynn Esquivel was admitted to the hospital April 1 with what was believed to be a routine case of chicken pox. But a toxin-producing streptococcal bacteria infected the lesions on her body caused by the chicken pox and spread to the other parts of her body.

Because the illness had obstructed circulation to her limbs, doctors severed Jessica's legs at the knee and her arms at the elbow on April 18, Bradley said Wednesday.

Jessica had been in critical condition after the surgery, but was upgraded to serious this morning, said hospital spokeswoman Sharon Goss.

Jerusalem's holy sites closed to protest Jewish settlement

WORLD

JERUSALEM (AP) — Church bells tolled, black flags fluttered in the breeze and the doors of Jesus' burial site were shut Friday for possibly the first time in 800 years as Christians protested a Jewish settlement in Jerusalem's Old City.

In an unusual show of unity, about 150 clergymen from nine major Christian sects gathered to oversee the closing of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, which marks the site of Jesus' crucifixion and burial.

Latin Patriarch Michel Sabbah, Greek Orthodox Patriarch Diodoros I, and Armenian Orthodox Patriarch Torkum Manoogian recited the Lord's Prayer in Arabic, Armenian and Greek before the massive wooden doors swung shut.

Wajih Nusseibeh, a Moslem whose family keeps the key of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, said it was the first time the doors were closed since the Crusaders were driven out of the city by the Islamic warrior Saladin in the 12th century A.D.

The Church of the Nativity, which marks the site of Jesus' birth in Bethlehem, and holy sites throughout the country were also closed in the daylong protest. Church bells rang in somber, funereal cadence for about five minutes every hour.

In an act of solidarity, Moslem leaders closed the Al Aqsa mosque and Dome of the Rock shrine to visitors. Only worshipers were permitted in the complex.

Bishop Samir Kafiti, the head of the Anglican Church in Jerusalem, told reporters Christian leaders were dissatisfied with an Israeli Supreme Court decision to evict the 150 Jewish settlers by next Tuesday from the building where they are living.

The building is in the Christian quarter of Jerusalem's old walled city. The Old City is on land seized by Israel during the 1967 Middle East War and is divided into Moslem, Christian, Jewish and Armenian quarters.

Kafiti said the court decision Thursday was ambiguous because the judges did not return full control of the building to the Greek Orthodox Church, which owns it. The church alleges the settlers are in the building under an illegal sublease.

"It is a half solution," Kafiti said, referring to the court's decision to allow 20 guards and maintenance staff to remain in the building pending a final ruling on the tenancy dispute.

George Hintlian, secretary to Manoogian, said if the courts did not eventually rule in favor of the Greek Orthodox Church, "stronger protests will be considered by the heads of churches, probably longer periods of closure."

The settlers moved into the 72-room St. John's Hospice on April 11, touching off angry protests from Palestinian Moslems and Christians and bringing international condemnation.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Jerusalem Mayor Teddy Kollek said the settlers would be evicted by police if they did not leave peacefully by Tuesday.

He accused Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's caretaker government of acting in an "underhanded" way by secretly providing $1.8 million to the settlers.

Is Your Child Too Small?

Growing up always has its hazards, but for some children just the process of growing can be difficult. For these children, a normal growth rate does not occur because they lack an essential hormone.

By three years of age, children should grow at least two inches a year until they are 10 to 14 years of age, when they experience an even faster growth. If children are not growing at this rate and are smaller than children their own age, they may have hormone deficiencies.

Odessa Women's and Children's Hospital is offering a FREE Growth Screening for children. By taking an accurate measurement of height. We can determine if their height is normal for their age group. And, if below normal, further evaluation and assessment will be recommended.

SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Travel and events at a distance play a key role in your career and business decisions now. You are eager to see things for yourself. Your differences with a loved one can be resolved if you refuse to let pride stand in the way of a true reconciliation. An intuitive understanding of what others are feeling gives you all kinds of advantages in both romance and business. You are asked to be a special negotiator or mediator. Accept the assignment with good grace. Success beckons!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Lionel Barrymore, President James Monroe, comedian Jay Leno, actress Ann-Margret.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): An excellent day to purchase items for your home. The domestic scene should be pleasant but uneventful. Invite close friends to join the family circle for a relaxing evening. Eat lightly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Those special qualities that make you stand out in a crowd receive new attention today. Ensure your future financial security by taking a leadership role. Your associates are eager to join forces.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Special ties and alliances pay off royally now. New work methods will have to be adopted if profits are to increase. Something that has eluded you in the past moves into easy reach.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A sense of humor helps alleviate tension at work. If a project is to be completed on time, those with cold feet must be urged forward. Hesitation could cause a loss of confidence.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A new career opportunity appears on the horizon. Be on your best behavior at place of employment. Check with a loved one before making a final decision regarding a financial commitment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Push harder to put your plans into operation. Although financial backing is available, strings could be attached. Be willing to make concessions. Marriage could be on your mind. Know what you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use your time efficiently. Avoid people who intrude on your privacy. The financial picture shows signs of improvement. Romance looks happy. Don't spend too much money this weekend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You ended the work week on a confident note. Profits are rising despite increased expenses. Go ahead and sign agreements and contracts. Loved one may share some great news tonight. Celebrate!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Give loved ones a chance to make decisions on their own. Keep your mate's or romantic partner's secrets. Exercise is a healthy way to relieve tension. Avoid tackling too much too soon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stay in the background until ready to make your move. You learn a lot from observing the mistakes of someone who thinks he has all the answers. A promotion or pay raise is possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Employ more tact at work and home. Sudden quarrels can be settled amicably. Be serious about employment affairs. A raise or promotion is pending. Invest in new clothes without going overboard.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Work on your own whenever possible today. A professional associate offers helpful suggestions. Expenses can be cut if new methods are employed. If an old friend calls, make plans to get together.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are perfectionists, determined to do a good job. Happiest when self-employed, these Taureans show a real aptitude for figures but hate being tied to a desk. Travel will be a lifelong passion. A strong curiosity about people and events could lead to a career in journalism. Despite their genial manner, they have a secretive side. A tendency to be overweight is linked to their love for good food and aversion to exercise.

Leland twins go home

HOUSTON (AP) — The twin sons of the late U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland went home from Texas Children's Hospital — more than three months after their births.

"They have turned into fat, healthy babies," said their mother, Alison Leland. The babies were taken home late Wednesday.

The pair were born Jan. 14 — about 10 weeks premature — at Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta where Mrs. Leland had accepted an award honoring her late husband. They were transferred to Texas Children's Jan. 31.

One twin weighed 3 pounds, the other 2 pounds, 11 ounces at birth. Now each tips the scales at about 8 pounds.

Mrs. Leland said she already is hard put to tell the identical twins apart.

"I can see I'm in for a lifetime of them tricking me into thinking one is the other," she said.

She named the twins Cameron George and Austin Mickey. George is her late husband's real name; Mickey was the nickname he used more frequently.

Mrs. Leland was about six weeks pregnant when her husband was killed in an Aug. 7 plane crash in Ethiopia while on a hunger relief mission.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Ronald Reagan, moved by a newspaper account of a little girl blinded by cancer, visited her at the hospital, chatting with her about dogs, horses and unicorns.

Reagan

Reagan traveled across town Thursday to Childrens Hospital to comfort and chat with 4-year-old Kati Sleeman, who suffers from a form of eye cancer and a brain tumor. The cancer has spread and her prognosis is poor.

In a recent Los Angeles Times article, officials at Childrens Hospital noted the cheerful, energetic and loving spirit of the little girl.

"She's amazing," said nurse Cammie Lancaster. "If people could only view the world the way Kati views it. ... She just radiates love."

When Reagan arrived, he brought a stuffed pooch. Immediately the little girl asked him if he had a dog.

"Yes," the former president answered. Kati pressed him on the name.

"Rex," Reagan replied.

She wanted to know if he had horses. When Reagan assured her he did, she asked if they were unicorns. The former president laughed.

After visiting with Kati, Reagan visited other children suffering serious illnesses in the hospital.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Christian singer Beverly Butler, who occasionally performed at Dallas Mavericks and Dallas Sidekicks games, died Tuesday of liver cancer. She was 38.

Mrs. Butler, who spent much of the year on concert tours, served as president of the Dallas County chapter of the American Cancer Society in 1989. She was on the board of directors of Dallas Prayer Ministries.

In addition to Christian music, Mrs. Butler also performed musical salutes to composers such as George Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Dallas.

Survivors include her husband, John Butler, a son and a daughter.

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Jack Cox, considered by many as the father of the Republican Party in Texas, died Friday in an Abilene hospital after a 5-month battle with cancer. He was 68.

Best-known as John Connally's tough Republican foe in Texas' colorful 1962 gubernatorial race, Cox not only saw Connally later follow his example in abandoning the Democratic Party, but also supported Connally's brief presidential bid.

Cox, a writer and filmmaker, lived to see much of the Communist influence he so deeply opposed — including that in Central America — crumble away.

A West Texan noted for his fiery oratorical style, Cox remained busy almost until the end. His most recent plans included a book on political strife in El Salvador — an undertaking halted by his bout with cancer.

Survivors include his wife, Joyce Cox of Abilene; a son, Jack Cox Jr. of Abilene; a daughter, Callan George of Dallas; a sister, Lois Johnson of Houston; and two grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home Chapel of Faith, U.S. Highway 277, with Mel Holt officiating. The body will be cremated.

Memorials may be made to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, 4601 Hartford, Abilene, 79605.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Retiring Associated Press Capitol Correspondent Bill Feather was commended Friday by eight men who have served as New Mexico's governor during his tenure in Santa Fe.

Gov. Garrey Carruthers presented Feather with a certificate of appreciation and a newspaper opinion column the governor drafted on behalf of himself and all seven living ex-governors whom Feather covered.

Carruthers said he will send the column, with himself and the seven ex-governors in the byline, to newspapers and broadcasters across the state with a request to publish the composition.

In thanking Feather for the excellence of his work, the governors said his professionalism and timely reporting would be missed.

Gorbachev fields complaints of foul water, air in Soviet city

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev was besieged with complaints Friday about foul water and air in a city so polluted that children have drawn pictures of smog and written: "I don't want to die!"

After two days of addressing residents' worries about the sagging economy in the Ural Mountains city of Sverdlovsk, Gorbachev traveled to nearby Nizhny Tagil and confronted a new issue: pollution.

"Metal is metal, but people, Mikhail Sergeyevich, are not iron," a metalworker told the president as they met on the shop floor of the Nizhny Tagil Metallurgical Complex. The comment was reported by the Tass news agency.

The city of 403,000 people is among 36 in a government "black book" listing the most polluted areas of the Russian federation, Pravda reported in September. Other news reports have said smog from the 45-year-old coke-burning furnaces at the steel complex burns children's skin as they walk to school and causes serious lung and heart problems.

Factories in the area, 900 miles east of Moscow, spew out more than 600,000 tons of pollutants annually, about 1.5 tons per resident.

Local children last year sent the complex's managers drawings of "smokestacks, smog enveloping living areas and the handwritten words: 'I don't want to die!' " the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda reported.

Huge demonstrations have been reported in Nizhny Tagil and other Soviet cities as residents demand a cleanup of air and water.

They say the pollution was caused by a government policy that emphasized production at all costs, even at the expense of people's health.

The Kremlin chief saw the pollution and its sources first-hand Friday, taking a walking tour of the sprawling metallurgical complex, stopping occasionally to field what a Soviet television correspondent said were thousands of workers' questions.

Soviet TV's nightly newscast "Vremya" showed Gorbachev, wearing a white hard hat with a visor to protect his eyes from the intense light, walking past coke furnaces that spewed orange flames.

Lithuanian suicide victim protests Soviet 'occupiers'

MOSCOW (AP) — A man who burned himself to death was sending a message to President Mikhail S. Gorbachev "that Lithuanians will not live in a Lithuania that is not independent," according to suicide notes released Friday.

In the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius, Russian truckers lay down in front of their rigs and blocked rush-hour traffic to protest the Baltic republic's declaration of independence on March 11.

The suicide victim, Stanislovas Jamaitis, 52, died Thursday of burns suffered when he doused his clothes with gasoline and set himself ablaze in front of the Bolshoi Theater in central Moscow.

Jamaitis, a Lithuanian, left suicide notes to his wife, Stasala, and to Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis. The Lithuanian Supreme Council, or parliament, released the texts Friday. Spokeswoman Rita Radzevicius translated them from Lithuanian to Russian and read them over the telephone.

The official Soviet news agency Tass also reported the existence of the note but did not mention any political motive. Tass said the letter "spoke of an impossible family life and a desire to commit suicide."

The version released by Lithuanian authorities apologized for "something bad" in his marriage, but stressed political motives.

"I went to Moscow to set myself on fire in Red Square," he said. The Bolshoi is a few blocks from Red Square, where security is heavier.

"The occupiers have cut off energy supplies and people are being thrown out of work," wrote Jamaitis, who officials say was recently laid off.

"I have lived my whole life in occupied Lithuania," wrote Jamaitis, who was born two years before the Soviet Union forcibly annexed Lithuania and its sister republics of Latvia and Estonia during World War II.

He was killing himself, he said, to "let Gorbachev know that Lithuanians will not live in a Lithuania that is not independent," said the note read by Ms. Radzevicius.

The suicide recalled the 1971 self-immolation of a Lithuanian student, Romas Kalanta, in the western Lithuanian city of Kaunas. That act was a symbol of Lithuanian resistance in the 1970s and 1980s, activists say.

The truck blockade in Vilnius marked a new level of protest by non-Lithuanians in the republic. Demonstrators lay down in front of their trucks in the center of Vilnius to protest "adventurist decisions" of the Lithuanian parliament, Tass said.

Supporters of the Lithuanian popular front Sajudis dragged the trucks from the streets with tractors, Tass said. It also reported that local authorities released truckers arrested in the protest to keep the peace.

Because of gas shortages caused by the Kremlin blockade, rush-hour traffic was much lighter than usual Friday. Many people walked to work or used the city's extensive trolley system.

The blockade, shown on the Soviet evening TV news show "Vremya," involved about 50 trucks and was organized by members of a Lithuanian Communist Party splinter that remains loyal to the Kremlin. Other organizers were members of Yedinstvo, consisting mostly of Russian residents of Lithuania, said Ms. Radzevicius.

Just over 80 percent of the republic's population is Lithuanian, and some Russian, Polish and other minority residents have expressed fear their rights will be violated.

Gorbachev has ordered curbs on supplies of oil and natural gas to Lithuania in an effort to stem the independence movement, and Lithuanian and Soviet media stressed the hardships caused by the embargo. Gorbachev also has refused to negotiate with Lithuania.

Soviet authorities have restricted Western reporters from traveling to Lithuania, except by invitation on trips organized by the Foreign Ministry. The Associated Press was not invited on one trip currently under way.

In London, maverick Soviet politician Boris Yeltsin criticized Gorbachev's handling of the Lithuanian independence crisis.

"I would consider it immoral to declare an economic blockade in regard to one of our republics," he said. "Even if it were a foreign country, Gorbachev wouldn't have behaved in that way because people would have sat at the negotiating table and would have sought a way for political settlement."

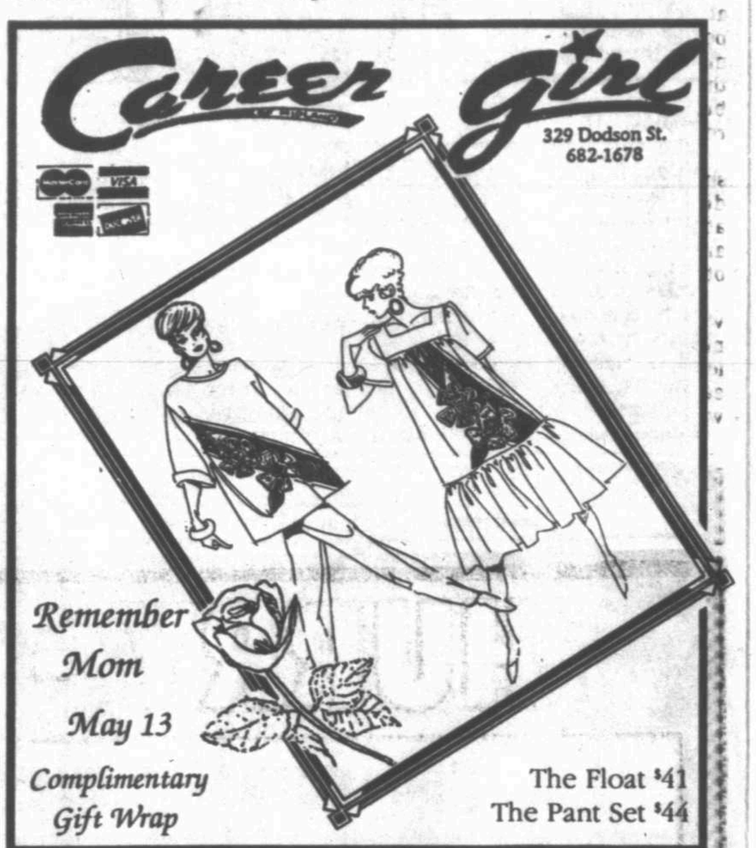

Kremlin officials have said Lithuania might become independent, but at a slower pace, and Gorbachev's actions appear designed to stem secessionist movements in other republics.

The parliament of Estonia has voted to become independent at an unspecified later date, and Latvia is scheduled to vote on the issue next week.

South Korean police storm shipyard

ULSAN, South Korea (AP) — Thousands of riot police firing tear gas stormed the world's largest shipyard at dawn Saturday, clashing with striking workers barricaded inside and armed with steel pipes, propane gas tanks and homemade cannons.

There were no immediate reports of arrests, but at least three policemen were reported injured.

An hour after the attack began at 5:40 a.m. (4:40 p.m. EDT Friday), police said they controlled the main buildings and had made their way into the shipyard itself, but that pockets of resistance remained.

The three-day-old strike had shut down the Hyundai Heavy Industries Co. shipyard in this city about 200 miles southeast of Seoul and was threatening to spread to other industries.

Talks to try to end the strike, which centered on worker demands to free four jailed labor leaders, had broken down hours earlier. Authorities said the strike was illegal.

Police bulldozers ripped down steel barricades the workers had erected at the gates to the sprawling shipyard, and an estimated 10,000 riot police rushed in, wearing gas masks and helmets and carrying clubs and shields.

They were backed up by at least 10 armored vans firing tear gas.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Five leading ANC exiles return home

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Five long-exiled leaders of the African National Congress made an emotional return to South Africa on Friday to prepare for groundbreaking talks next week with the white-led government.

The five, who arrived from the group's exile headquarters in Lusaka, Zambia, will join ANC Deputy President Nelson Mandela for discussions with President F.W. de Klerk's government May 2-4.

"As I was saying before I was so rudely interrupted 27 years ago, 'We are really on the way,' " said Joe Slovo, a member of the ANC's National Executive Committee. He fled South Africa in 1963.

"We who left by the back door ... have now entered the very front door of South Africa," said Slovo, the ANC's highest-ranking white. "It's a remarkable feeling."

In addition to Slovo, the group included the ANC's secretary-general, Alfred Nzo; head of foreign affairs, Thabo Mbeki; commander of the movement's guerrilla wing, Joe Modise; and head of the women's section, Ruth Mompati.

'Cry Freedom' returns

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)— When the movie "Cry Freedom" appeared in South Africa in 1988, it was greeted by a storm of controversy, two bomb blasts and a police order confiscating the film hours after it opened.

The movie reopened Friday without fanfare.

The film began showing at more than 40 theaters nationwide to moderate crowds and no incidents, according to police, theater managers and the film's distributor, United International Pictures.

"People have accepted changes," said Dave de Villiers, general manager of Ster-Kinekor theaters in Johannesburg and surrounding areas. " 'Cry Freedom' opened like an ordinary movie, and we expect it will do decent business. It's not a controversial blockbuster like it was two years ago."

"Cry Freedom" is about black activist Steve Biko, who died in police custody in 1977, and Donald Woods, a white newspaper editor who befriended him.

"Cry Freedom" contains the most emotional and violent scenes involving South African police and black citizens ever shown in a general release movie in South Africa.

Currency devalued

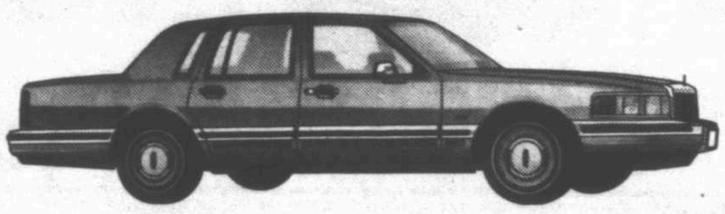

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's two-day-old government slashed the value of the national currency in half Friday in an effort to patch up the battered economy, but it left angry consumers with wads of virtually worthless banknotes.

Prices shot up accordingly, but the wages of most Nicaraguans, many of whom earned the equivalent of $30 a month before the devaluation, did not.
