Bodies Of Two Matador Boys Taken From Waters Of Lake Kemp Sunday

YOUTHS LEAP TO DEATH AS BOAT DRIFTS

Hocks Bring Up Bodies Of Two Boys Sunday At 10 o'Clock

NEITHER COULD SWIM

John Crawford, Game Warden, Leads Long Search For Lake Victims

The bodies of L. B. Groves, 15, and Nenian Birchfield, 14, of Matador, who were drowned Saturday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock at Lake Kemp, were found Sunday morning about 10 o'clock by a party of Wichita Falls fishermen under the direction of John Crawford, chief game warden at Lake Kemp. The bodies were located after several hours of dragging in the waters of the lake.

The two youths were with a large party from Matador which was spending the week-end at Lake Kemp. They had left the party and had rowed out on the lake with two other youths, Elmo Winter and Hardy Williams.

Unable to Swim

According to information of the accident received by Mr. Crawford, the youths had pulled out of a cove in the skiff with only a light paddle, and were unable to keep the boat from drifting when they got out on the main waters where the waves were six or eight feet high.

Becoming alarmed at the high wind and waves and their rapid drifting, the youths leaped from the boat and attempted to swim for the shore which was about 50 yards away. Hardy and Williams reached the bank in safety but did not discover that the other two boys were not following them until it was too late to save them.

Neither of the lads could swim, Mr. Crawford said, and both bodies were raised near the spot where the boys jumped from the boat.

The remainder of the party was 300 or 400 yards away from the scene of the accident.

Searchers Find Bodies

A searching party composed of Mr. Crawford, J. R. Jones, Eugene Sherrod of Wichita Falls, Vance Turner of the state comptroller's office, and C. A. Remington, of the water improvement district, dragged for the two bodies until late Saturday night when the waves forced them to abandon their search. They renewed the hunt at dawn Sunday morning and raised the two bodies about 10 o'clock.

The bodies were found by dragging from a motor boat with large fishing hooks attached to the end of gas pipes. The water in which they were found was between 12 and 16 feet deep, Mr. Crawford said.

The bodies were taken in charge by the Underwood Funeral home in Vernon and will be forwarded to Matador for burial. The fathers of the two boys, G. M. Birchfield and J. A. Groves, will accompany the bodies back to Matador.

Graf Zep Will Open 1929 Flying Season

BERLIN, May 12. (UP)—The dirigible Graz Zeppelin, scheduled to start its second transatlantic flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., Wednesday, will inaugurate the 1929 ocean flying season.

With 20 passengers, its crew of about 40 men and a load of freight, the huge dirigible will be prepared to make a speedy trip with greater comfort for its passengers than on its round-trip flight last year. The flight may be considered the actual inauguration of transatlantic air service, as the first trip was something of an experiment for the German dirigible builders.

Patricia Huckins, Injured in Crash, Taken to Oklahoma City Hospital

Patricia Huckins, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huckins 3rd, who was seriously injured Saturday in an automobile accident near Chickasha, Okla., was taken to Oklahoma City for treatment Sunday, according to information received here at the Kemp hotel of which Mr. Huckins is manager.

Mrs. Robert Kolm, formerly a resident of Wichita, Falls but recently of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Huckins, Mrs. Harry Gray Jr., and a party of severall others were en route to Oklahoma City to visit Mrs. Kolm's relatives when the accident occurred, fatally injuring Mrs. Kolm and wounding the little girl.

Mrs. Kolm's body will be sent to Bowling Green, Ky., for burial. Mr. Kolm was a geologist here until his removal to Abilene 18 months ago.

The little Huckins girl sustained a slight fracture of the skull. It was at first believed that an operation would be necessary, but Clark S. Cate, assistant manager of the hotel, said late Sunday he had been advised this step was not warranted. The car in which the party was riding skidded on the wet pavement 10 miles south of Chickasha and turned over, reports said. Other occupants of the machine escaped without injury.

Services Held For Burk Car Victim

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 12.—Funeral services for Jewell Woods 12, who was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile as she had started on a B. Y. P. U. picnic, were conducted from the First Baptist church here at 4:30 o'clock by Rev. M. B. Hayes, pastor. Burial was in the Burkburnett cemetery.

The accident occurred as the little girl left the group she was with and started across the street. She was said to have been watching a car from the opposite direction when she was struck by a machine driven by T. C. Brightman.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Woods, and four brothers, Leslie, Ray, Joe and William.

Kansas Flood Crest Moves Southeastward

TOPEKA, Kan., May 12. (UP)—Flood crests in Kansas moved southeastward tonight but promise of fair weather Monday alleviated fears of serious floods in central and southeast state sections.

Several streams were overflowing, however, and others were bankfull with crests expected before morning.

HELIUM SENT FROM AMARILLO

U. S. Air Corps Consigned First Car Product

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Shipments of helium from the government's new helium production plant, near Amarillo, has started with the dispatching of tank car U. S. 201, filled with about 200,000 cubic feet of helium to Langtry field, Virginia, it is announced by the United States bureau of mines, department of commerce.

The new plant, which has been designated as the Amarillo helium plant, was built and is operated by the bureau of mines at Soney on the Rock Island railroad about seven miles west of Amarillo. The helium is extracted from natural gas having a helium content of 1% per cent produced from the Cliffside structure lying northwest of Amarillo. Gas from 26,000 acres of land is available to the plant through a contract between the department of commerce and the Amarillo Oil company.

The helium bearing natural gas is transported from the wells to the plant by the natural pressure of the wells, through a welded steel pipeline 11 miles long. In the plant the gas is cooled to a temperature so low that all the constituents except helium are reduced to liquids. This temperature is approximately that of liquid air and is lower than 300 degrees below zero. The helium is drawn off as a gas and the liquids are returned to the gaseous state by allowing their temperature to return to that of the atmosphere. A part of the gas resulting from the evaporation of the liquid is used to generate power to operate the plant and the remainder is discharged into a pipeline which carries it to Amarillo where it is used as domestic and industrial fuel. The process of extracting helium is a continuous one involving pressures as high as 2,500 pounds per square inch.

The car in which this first shipment was made is one of two specially built helium tank cars owned by the air corps, U. S. army. When the car reaches Langley field the helium will be discharged into other containers for use in the army's lighter than air craft and the tank car will be returned to the Amarillo plant for reloading.

World's Oldest Cowboy, 99, Hurt While Bronc Bustin' at Childress

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 12. (AP)—Breaking collarbones by falling out of bed and smashing legs while busting broncbos means little in the life of Reese Barton, 99, the world's oldest cowboy, who today was recovering in a Childress hospital. He was injured on a ranch near here while helping to break a wild mustang.

The animal lunged into a horse Barton was riding, crushing the old puncher's leg.

Not long ago, the old range rider fell out of bed and broke his collarbone.

"That's nothing," he said. "I'll be up and ready to go to work in a few days. When I do, I'll quit acting like a kid. I got careless and wasn't watching my business. It was good enough for me."

A national magazine recently carried a story telling of his experiences when scores of old timers joined him in celebrating his 99th birthday.

OKLAHOMANS TO URGE SALE OF BOUNDARY LAND

Third Effort to Buy Strip Ceded to Texas to Start Today

GROUP IN AUSTIN

Hollis Mayor and Other Okla. Officials Ready For Bout

AUSTIN, May 12. (AP)—A group of Oklahomans headed by Attorney General Edwin S. Dabney arrived here today for another effort to purchase Oklahoma territory to become a part of Texas under the location of the 100th meridian by a supreme court commission.

Other members of the delegation were V. P. Crowe, assistant attorney general, Senators Bill Williams of Mangum and Alvin Moore of Cheyenne, Representative S. W. Carmack of Gould and Mayor W. L. Hollis of Hollis.

Third Parley Today

The six men plan to meet with the Oklahoma boundary committee of the two houses of the Texas legislature tomorrow. This will be the third meeting between representatives of the states.

Williams said members of the Texas committee had expressed willingness to part with the land but had entertained doubt as to the constitutionality of such a procedure. He asserted the Oklahoma group could offer several precedents for such action, among them West Virginia's secession from Virginia.

The Mangum senator declared he thought a fair price would be the amount the government and the state of Oklahoma received for the land. It is doubtful if Texas would accede to those terms even if a transfer of the territory should be decided on because of the increased land values in the strip.

The supreme court has held up ratification of its commission's survey pending an adjustment between the states. Under the newly established location of the 100th meridian, about 40,000 acres of land which has been a part of Oklahoma would be added to Texas.

Mayor Hollis joined the delegation in the interest of the farmers of Harmon county, Okla., whose place of abode would be changed to the Lone Star state. Harmon county would lose more land than any other Oklahoma county. Mayor Hollis said that he brought a petition signed by the farmers affected asking that they be permitted to remain in Oklahoma. Members of the delegation said they believed the sale could be effected if its terms were approved by the governors and legislatures of the two states, the congress and the president.

The body will be held at the home from 10 o'clock Monday morning until time for the burial.

Mr. Lynch has been in ill health for some time but remained in active charge of his drug store at 607 Indiana avenue until a week ago when he was stricken with pneumonia.

He had been a resident of Wichita Falls for many years, moving here in 1886 and making his home here since that time with the exception of a few years when he lived in Seattle.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Eugene Graham, one sister, Mrs. Margaret Hall, and a nephew, Rev. Joe Hall of Plum Tree, N. C.

Reparations Confab Enters Its 14th Week

PARIS, May 12. (AP)—Today ushered in the fourteenth week of the conference of international experts on revision of german world war reparations and the general opinion in conference circles was that whatever the outcome it would be the final week.

The conference hinges on two immediate points. The first is whether the German conditions to the proposal of Chairman Owen D. Young will be accepted by the allies. The second, at present held in abeyance, is whether the allied creditor can agree on a distribution among themselves of the reparations annuities on a smaller scale than each had hoped.

Hoover Commission To Be Named Soon

WASHINGTON, May 12. (US)—President Hoover has definitely decided to name his special commission to study law revision and enforcement during the coming week, it was said at the White House today.

After a long nad careful study of the suggested personnel, he has about completed the slate of the men who are to go into every phase of lawlessness and recommend changes in the criminal statutes.

SCHOOL HEAD AND SECRETARY IN 'MORAL' QUIZ

President of Des Moines U. Accused of Affair With Woman

BOTH DENY CHARGES

Students of Baptist University Stage Riot Over 'Scandal'

TORONTO, Ont., May 12. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields, on his arrival here tonight, said "a wide conspiracy" laid with "devilish ingenuity" caused factional trouble at Des Moines university, where he is president of the board of trustees. Dr. Shields was met at the station by his wife and several hundred members of Jarvis Street Baptist church, of which he is pastor. The crowd cheered.

CHICAGO, May 12. (AP)—Charges of moral turpitude, involving Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board of trustees of the University of Des Moines, and Miss Edith Rebman, secretary, were heard by the trustees at Des Moines last week, the Rev. Isaac Page of Chicago, member of the board, revealed here tonight.

Dr. Shields, president of the Baptist Bible union, and one of the most prominent leaders of the church in the United States, is about 60 year old. Miss Rebman is 40. Both denied the charges, according to Reverend Page, and the trustees indorsed their denial completely.

At the same time, the board ousted Dr. Harry Wayman, president of the school, and his entire faculty, accused of modernistic leanings.

"We heard rumors of these charges, and so we considered it best to call a special meeting to hear them as fully as possible," Rev. Page said.

"We went into session Friday and we completed our investigation Saturday.

"Three students volunteered to testify. They produced the register of a Waterloo, Iowa, hotel showing that Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman had registered there and had been assigned a suite. A photograph was produced showing the interior of the suite, with the connecting door open. But bear in mind that the rooms were unoccupied when the photograph was made.

"The students' testimony failed lamentably under cross examination For instance, one testified he saw Dr. Shields visit Miss Rebman's apartment at 7 o'clock in the evening, carrying a black bag; another fixed the time at 9 o'clock and said the bag was brown, and so forth."

ROMANCE CAUSE OF DEMONSTRATION

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 12. (US)—Startling disclosure colored the Des Moines university riot with a romantic rather than a religious tinge today as Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the board of the institution, sped through Chicago en route to Buffalo to present his side of the case before the National Baptist convention next Tuesday.

The statements associated the president, who is 60, with an alleged affair of the heart, the other side of the affair being named as Miss Edith M. Rebman, secretary and treasurer of the university board. She is in her early forties.

Romance Causes Riot

The reported romance was alleged to have been the cause of the riotous demonstrations on Saturday night, as a result of which Dr.

20,000 Dance at New Mayor's Inauguration

DALLAS, May 12. (AP)—More than 20,000 people danced last night at the inaugural ball of Dallas' new mayor, J. Waddy Tate, the first such function ever held here.

Mayor Tate, whose "hot dog" refreshments at his campaign meetings gained him national publicity, invited the whole state to attend the ball and his guests last night were a cross section of the city, garbage truck drivers, women in elaborate evening gowns and white collar workers rubbing elbows.

THE REASON

All Great Men Are Women-Made, Not Self-Made—Pastor

CHICAGO, May 12. (UP)—The world has no self-made men—they are all women-made—and every successful man owes his eminent position to a mother, wife or sister, Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of Central church, told his congregation gathered today at a special Mother's Day service.

A successful mother, Dr. Shannon said, has accomplished more than a successful scientist, lawyer or educator, but a frivolous mother is a most tragic figure.

"Motherhood, with all of its responsibilities, is unquestionably one of the hardest jobs in the world," the pastor added. "No successful scientist or lawyer or educator can hold a candle to a successful mother."

BECKY GOES ON TRIAL AGAIN

Flapper Bandit's Case To Open Today

LAGRANGE, Texas, May 12. (UP)— Texas' "flapper bandit," the young lady who furnished the southwest one of its most glamorous criminal trials, will break into the limelight again tomorrow when she comes to trial the second time for the alleged robbery of the Farmers State bank at Buda on December 11, 1926.

Rebecca Bradley Rogers, former University of Texas honor student and employe in the attorney general's office, was sentenced to 14 years in the state penitentiary by a jury here in December 1927. Monday's trial comes as a result of the favorable action of the court of criminal appeals, which found that the prosecutor's charge to the jury was "inflammable" an dordered a re-trial.

Tried for Arson

Mrs. Rogers had previously been tried on a charge of arson in connection with the firing of a vacant building at Round Rock the day before the Buda bank was robbed. In this trial the state sought to prove that the girl burned the building in order to devert the attention of employes of a nearby bank and facilitate the robbery of the institution. The jury disagreed on the question of mental responsibility when the defense pleaded "not guilty because of insanity," and a mistrial resulted.

The Buda bank robbery occurred on a Saturday. Witnesses for the state testified that Mrs. Rogers, posing as a newspaper women seeking agricultural data on the county, entered the bank and asked permission to use a typewriter to write her "story." This was readily given and the young woman began to work. When all but two of the bank employees had departed for the day, the pseudo-reporter drew a revolver and forced the cashier and his assistant into the vault. Then she scooped up approximately $1,000 in currency and fled.

Otis to Aid Mate

A touch of glamor was added to the noted case when Otis Rogers, young Amarillo attorney, revealed a few days after the arrest of the girl that he had married her secretly while both were students at the University of Texas. Rogers, who was stricken with tuberculosis a few days after the trial started and was forced to go to a sanitarium, will be a member of his wife's counsel when the case reopens tomorrow.

The young woman is alleged to have told officers after her arrest that she decided on a bank robbery to finance a literary society in which she was interested.

Prominent Burkburnett Business Man Dies

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 12.—George Cannon, 34, died Sunday afternoon at his home here. He had been ill for the past four days with pneumonia.

Mr. Cannon was one of the most prominent business men in Burkburnett, having been in the drug business for the past 13 years. He and his brother were owners of the Cannon Drug store here.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Thomas, 2; and Dorothy 9. Funeral arrangements had not been made Sunday night.

Rattlers and Lizards Now Infest Hulk of Once Booming Oil Town

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 12. (AP)—The rattlesnake and lizard keep the halls where citizens of Grube, Texas, once gloried and drank deep. The $20,000 theater is to become a sheep and goat shed and other buildings of the town will be used for similar purposes.

Grube was a boom town and at one time was expected to rival Borger and other oil cities. When the rich gushers of the Yates pool came in Grube appeared almost over night with a school, several restaurants, a 30-room hotel and a number of other buildings. Grube lacked the saving power of the gushers, however, and its population disappeared almost as rapidly as it had appeared.

The brick theater almost was completed when the receding tide of population swept from under the town. Today Grube is deserted. The oil men, bootleggers and other camp followers are gone and the ripple of the Pecos river flowing by the town is the only sound to be heard.

George Thompson, who owned the land, obtained a court decree last week recovering the property and all buildings on it not covered by mortgages. He is the only sheepman who can herd his flock in a $20,000 show house.

PEASE AND RED RIVERS RUN BANK FULL

Long Drouth Smashed Over Entire Area in Time To Save Crops

TRAINS-BUSSES SLOW

Six and Half Inch Deluge Breaks Record of 15 Years at Crowell

Prospects of a revived small grain and cotton crops, and of an ideal planting season in the ground were bright all over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma Sunday as a prolonged drouth yielded to continuous rains which drenched the entire section in downpours measured from one to six inches. The rains, most of them gentle and slow, were said by residents of the areas affected to add millions of dollars to the value of crops, planted and to be sown.

Crowell Bridge Out

As the rain continued to fall over widespread areas Sunday night, the Pease and Red rivers rose in their banks, and the waters of the Brazos were reported on the swell.

A 6.5-inch rain at Crowell, the heaviest known there in 15 years, resulted in the washout of the Orient bridge over Pease river nine miles south of the town and stopped train service. Railroad officials expect it to require at least two days of fair weather to repair the damage. The deluge, beginning Saturday night, continued without interruption for 10 hours. In spite of the washouts and overflows, crop and range conditions are regarded as much improved.

At Grandfield the wooden bridge across Red river was closed at nightfall Sunday for fear of a washout, and at Burkburnett a crew of Katy workmen kept watch over the railroad bridge. The waters, slowly rising, were bank to bank late Sunday, measuring higher than they have been for seven years.

The heaviest rain in Wichita county fell at Electra where 6.35 inches were reported Sunday afternoon with the clouds still heavy. Work in the oil fields was interrupted, but no other damage was reported, and the water supply for the summer was considered assured.

Rainfall from one to two inches was reported at Waurika, Gore, Munday and Weinert on the Valley lines. Light showers were recorded at Haskell, Stamford, Anson, Hawley, Girard, Aspermont, Swenson, Jayton and Sagerton along the same road. At Spur one and one-half inches fell but the rain did not reach Abilene. North and south along the Denver road, the downpour was general all the way to Texline.

Rains were heavier in Southern Oklahoma. From three and one-half to four and one-half inches falling all along the M.-K.-T line as far as Tipton.

The goverment weather forecast, distributed by The Associated Press, said Monday would be "mostly fair.' Partly cloudy and warmer weather is the forecast for Tuesday.

Although bus service between Wichita Falls and immediate towns was hampered considerably by the heavy rains and wet roads all schedules to Burkburnett, Fort Worth, Vernon, and Nocona were completed Sunday, according to information received at the bus Union station here.

Northbound buses out of Wichita Falls were able to travel as far as Vernon on the Amarillo route but were forced to stop there because of the condition of the roads.

Bus Service Delayed

Service to Waurika was discontinued Sunday. A bus which was due to arrive Sunday night at 8 o'clock from Duncan, Okla., arrived two and a half hours late because of theroads.

The driver said he was forced to

FLOOD CLAIMS LIFE

PONCA CITY, Okla., May 12. (AP)—The body of John L. McGehee, county commissioner of Noble county, was found today in a flood swollen creek three miles southeast of Red Rock. He apparently had driven his car into the stream in attempting to cross a bridge swept by the high water.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS—Mostly fair, somewhat warmer in the Panhandle and extreme west portions Monday; Tuesday, partly cloudy, warmer in north portion.

OKLAHOMA—Clearing somewhat warmer in north portion Monday; Tuesday, partly cloudy, warmer.

EAST TEXAS—Cloudy, thundershowers in east portion cooler in northwest portion Monday; Tuesday, partly cloudy.

Weather conditions in Wichita Falls and vicinity for the 24-hour period ending Sunday at 5 p. m. were announced by the Texas Electric Service company as follows:

Maximum temperature 87
Minimum temperature 50
Temperature at 5 p. m. 69
Precipitation 2.63
Northeast breeze.
Cloudy.
Average wind velocity 5
Maximum wind velocity 19
Barometer 29.84

go 40 miles out of his way because he was unable to cross Beaver creek which was flowing out of its banks. The service on the Gainesville route was carried as far as Nocona. Officials at the Bus Union station said Sunday night that they would try to continue service to all points Monday morning.

Hail accompanied a 5-inch downpour at Paducah Saturday night, damaging the peach crop and forcing out the railroad dam five miles northeast of town. Damage from flood waters and from washing considered heavy and communications were seriously interrupted.

During Saturday night and Sunday 2.62 inches fell in and around Wichita Falls, although the maximum rainfall in the county, reached at Electra, was 5.35 inches. Farmers in the county regarded the cessation of the high winds and sand storms which have prevailed during the past week as a boon second only to the break in the drouth, G. C. Gown, county agent reported Sunday. A heavy rain fell Sunday night, bringing the total precipitation near three inches.

TWO-INCH FALL IN MONTAGUE COUNTY

Special to The Record News

BOWIE, Texas, May 12.—Almost two inches of rain that fell throughout Montague county between midnight Saturday and 10 o'clock Sunday morning greatly benefited cotton, feed crops and truck in the northern section of the county. Range conditions are improved and all stock tanks are filled. Rains last week broke the drouth around the immediate vicinity of Bowie, but the fall early Sunday morning, reported as general in all directions, is expected to bring great aid to the county as a whole. Skies were clearing late Sunday afternoon.

SMILING IN ARCHER AFTER SOAKER

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, May 12.—Three inches of rain had fallen here before 6 o'clock Sunday and a light drizzle continued into the night. Although the downpour came too late to save much of the wheat crop, cotton and small grains were much benefited. Range conditions were improved, with all tanks full and an 18-foot rise in the lake. Creeks were up late Sunday, but no overflow was expected and no damage was done.

SHOWERS SCATTERED IN HASKELL AREA

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, May 12.—Haskell county remained in the clutch of a drouth here Sunday night although between one-half and one-inch of rain had fallen in the immediate vicinity of Haskell. Weather conditions promised more rain, however, and business men and farmers were still hoping that more showers would save the crops already in the ground. Light showers during the past few weeks have offered temporary relief, but the county as a whole is dry. The shower which fell Saturday night covered only about four or five miles between Haskell and Stamford.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED IN HALL COUNTY

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 12.—A gentle rain continued to fall in Memphis and all over the county Sunday night after a fall of about one and one-half inches during the day. Thousands of acres of row crops, suffering from lack of rain, were much helped by the downpour. The small acreage in wheat within the county is considered beyond aid, but the range the cotton and small grain crops are expected to respond at once. The fall is reported general in all directions, reaching as far north as Amarillo and Texline and southward to Bowie.

SILVERTON HOPES FOR WHEAT CROP

Special to The Record News.

SILVERTON, Texas, May 12.—A slow downpour, that soaked into the parched land as it fell, broke a long drought in Briscoe county Saturday and Sunday, bringing the hope of a salvaged wheat crop to the farmers around Silverton. Barley and oat crops, already planted, were also saved. The rain was gentle and clouded skies promised more than the 1¼ inches which had fallen Sunday night. To the east heavier downpours were reported, but no damage was done.

WALTERS REPORTS TWO-INCH RAIN

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., May 12.—A two-inch rain which fell all over this territory Saturday night and Sunday, growing heavier as it moved toward Lawton, has resulted in generally delayed trains and the stopping of bus service. Creeks are out of banks and communication has been interfered with.

The rain came just in time to save the last of the wheat and to promise a good season in the feed crops. No serious damage is expected to result.

YOUNG COUNTY FARMS SOAKED

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, May 12.—A second heavy rain in the past 24 hours was falling in Graham and all over Young county Saturday night. The Saturday night precipitation fall measured one inch, but no more than twice that much was expected from the Sunday evening torrent, which was accompanied by a high wind.

The downpour has revived hope for a small wheat acreage and brightened prospects for other grains and truck. The Brazos river was reported bank-full, but no bridges were out late Sunday.

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, May 12.—A drizzling rain, which started in Plainview Saturday night continued to fall all day Sunday. A little more than two inches had fallen late Sunday afternoon with prospects for more through the night.

The break in a prolonged dry period, assured a wheat crop and left the land ready for the planting of other crops.

CLAY COUNTY RANGES AIDED

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, May 12.—Prospects were brighter Sunday night for another downpour to add to the benefits of the two-inch rain which fell here Saturday. Some hopes were entertained for a part of the wheat. Stock tanks were filled and the range conditions much improved.

CHILDRESS RAIN TOTALS 2 INCHES

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 12.—Continuous gentle rains, which set in here Saturday night, measured more than two inches late Sunday, with clouded skies promising a further downpour. Small grain crops, cotton, and trucks, were all greatly improved, although the break in the drouth came too late for most of the wheat.

DOWNPOUR FLOODS ELECTRA STREETS

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, May 12.—Electra was temporarily flooded with a 5.35 inch rain Saturday night and Sunday, breaking into a prolonged drouth and insuring an adequate water supply for the summer. Creek banks were overflowing late Sunday, but no damage was reported. Oil field work was temporarily shut down by the force of the torrents, but the grave condition resulting from lack of water through the spring has been relieved.

FREDERICK AREA GETS DOWNPOUR

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., May 12.—Before 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon a little more than five inches of rain had fallen in Frederick, and the downpour continued.

The rain was gentle throughout the day and no damage was reported although Red river was reported full to the banks and creeks all over the county were rising. Crop and range conditions were believed greatly improved by the break in the long dry spring.

QUANAH AREA GETS GOOD RAIN

QUANAH, Texas, May 12.—Rain continued to fall here late Sunday after a 3½ inch downpour Saturday afternoon and night. Except for a washed out abutment on the newly graded Quanah-Chillicothe road, no damages were reported. The abutment had been constructed as the foundation for a bridge over Wander creek.

Cotton and feed crops, including maize, kaffir, corn, and the sorghums, scorched by a two months drouth, are believed saved by the rains.

TWO INCH FALL REPORTED AT ALTUS

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., May 12.—A large cotton acreage, already planted, received material benefit Saturday night and Sunday by a 2.20 inch rain that fell generally through the county. Weather conditions promise a further relief from the dry stretch. Stock tanks are well supplied with water and the range lands are in good shape since the rain.

CROPS HELPED BY KNOX COUNTY RAIN

Special to The Record News

BENJAMIN, Texas, May 12.—A slow, gentle rain which had been falling at intervals all day Sunday, continued Sunday night in the first break of a long drouth all over Knox county. Small grain crops were saved by the fall, and the cotton crop chances greatly improved. Only about one inch of rain had fallen at Benjamin late Sunday but prospects pointed to a slow, drenching fall through the night.

RAIN AT OLUSTEE

Special to The Record News

OLUSTEE, Okla., May 12.—In spite of a heavy rain which fell at Olustee Sunday, and continued into the night, farmers in the vicinity believe that a re-planting of cotton will be necessary. Grain crops were saved by the rain, however, and truck and range prospects are considered good. No damage has been reported through the county.

TWO RIVERS HIGH IN WILBARGER

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, May 12.—More than three inches of rain drenched Wilbarger county and the surrounding territory Saturday night and Sunday. The gentle, slow downpour was considered of inestimable value both to the agricultural and oil interests of the county. The downpour was reported to have been general through the section. Both Pease and Red rivers have reached high levels.

RAIN HELPS CROPS IN PETROLIA AREA

Special to The Record News

PETROLIA, Texas, May 12.—A heavy rain fell here during the night, reviving hopes for an oat crop, and assuring good yields from all row crops.

CROPS SAVED BY DOWNPOUR ON PLAINS

Special to The Record News

FLOYDADA, Txas, May 12.—Rain that totalled from 1½ inch at Floydada to three inches at Dougherty and two inches at Matador fell all through this section Saturday night and Sunday. A light accompanying hail was not destructive except between Lorenzo and Ralls.

The downpour has put the ground in excellent condition for the row crops and saved the small grains already in the ground. The rains grew heavier east and south of Floydada and lighter to the north. Less than one inch fell at Lockney.

BAYLOR COUNTY WHEAT TO MAKE CROP

Special to The Record News

SEYMOUR, Texas, May 12.—Between one and three inches of rain fell Saturday and Sunday all over Baylor county, reviving the late wheat and oats crops and preparing the ground for the last cotton planting.

At Seymour the rain measured only one inch but 2¾ inches fell to the Howe brothers neighborhood 10 miles south of the town. At Red Springs, 1½ inches fell.

Ranges were greatly improved and all stock tanks filled by the downpour.

Myrick Farms Near Lubbock Stand Out As Plains' Best Poultry Plant

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 12.—A sea of White Leghorn chickens meets the gaze of a visitor to the Myrick farms in the northwestern part of Lubbock county near Shallowater. Dotted among this sea of white fowls are poultry houses, brooder houses, fence for the many pens and other equipment that all go to make the Myrick plant the most modernly equipped poultry plant on the plains.

"We are pushing poultry and we find that it pays," Russell Myrick, manager of the 10,000-acre farm state. "We're more in the breeding game than in the hatching business, however, we do both."

New Brooder Secured

A new Buck-Eye Pierce brooder with a capacity of 12,000 chicks has been added to the plant, putting it in a class by itself in west Texas, as this is the only brooder of this type in west Texas and one of three in Texas. The plant has a total incubator capacity of 44,000 eggs, and a hot water brooder system that has heretofore been used for baby chicks is being turned over to the care of turkeys.

With the new equipment, Myrick can hatch 44,000 eggs at a time, and in addition to his 12,000 capacity brooder for the baby chicks, his old brooder will accommodate 7,000 chicks or 2,800 young turkeys.

Among the other equipment found on the Myrick farm is two large poultry houses, each being 40x216 feet, in size, that are used for production, three houses with four breeding pens each, or a total of 12 pens and 14 single houses with pens.

Myrick's contention that the poultry pays is based on records that he keeps. In fact, he knows much more about his poultry business than the best of business men know about their business. For four years he has kept records of the laying records of his hens and at present he is trapping a total of 4,000 hens to check their record. All hens that have under a 200-egg production record are taken out of the breeding stock and put on feed to be fattened and marketed. During the four years of this work, the Myrick flocks have been built up to a high egg production quality and this has enabled the poultry to pay such good dividens. Right at this time, Myrick has 10 hens entered in the Terleton International Egg Laying contest at John Tarleton college, Stephenville, that are making a splendid egg-laying record along with stock owned by outstanding poultry breeders of the nation.

Buys Good Stock

Always intent upon building up the laying quality of the chickens, Myrick has from time to time bought at exceedingly high prices, foundation stock from the leading White Leghorn breeders of the nation to help breed the flock of chickens to a high egg-laying quality. Just recently a number of high priced fowls were added to the flocks.

Two men are employed to care for the incubator and brooder plants, while four others are employed to look after the laying hens and other poultry. These six men work early and late, in addition to the time that Russell Myrick gives to the poultry.

The farm now has 7,000 hens, a big quantity of baby chicks, 150 geese and 250 turkeys.

In addition to the work of caring for poultry, Russell Myrick has plenty of other work to do on the Myrick farm. The farm is composed of 16 sections of land. Three and one-half sections of virgin soil is being put in cultivation this year, which will make a total of 14½ sections, or 9,280 acres, in cultivation. A total of 2,300 acres have been planted with wheat which is looking fine at this time. Nine renters on the farm take care of 2,500 acres of the land, leaving the balance of 6,780 acres under the direct supervision of Russell Myrick, manager of the farm. Grain sorghums, wheat, oats, sudan, and other crops are raised on the farm. Dairy cattle, and hogs are also found on the farm in good numbers and the management of the farm is considering at this time, the installation of a big dairy plant.

Has Own Stores

The Myrick is just a little empire all of its own. It is complete within itself and has most everything that is needed for the people who live there. The farm has its own grocery store which handles foods and other necessities of life that are distributed to the people on the farm. It has its own power plant, with a capacity to generate 90 killowatts per hour, furnishing lights and power for the farm. Gas supply tanks which store gasoline for use in automobiles, tractors and other motors are on the farm, and are filled from car load quantities of gasoline that the farm purchases.

While machinery is used in every practical purpose, the farm is by no means a "horseless" farm. More than 60 head of good work stock are used on the farm. In addition to this work stock, the farm has 11 high-powered tractors and a big supply of combine grain harvesters, plows, cultivators, and other farming machinery.

Substantial barns, houses, and other improvements are found on the Myrick farms and the hundreds of visitors that have seen the place, declare it to be one of the most complete, from the standpoint on large-scale farming, in the southwest.

Powerful Magnet Draws Needle Out of Baby's Brain, Saving Its Life

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 12. (UP).—A nine-month-old baby seemed recovering in a hospital today after a sewing needle, lodged upright in the center of its brain, had been removed by means of a strong magnet.

Mrs. Jennie Harvey several days ago saw the threaded end of the needle protruding from her infant daughter Rosanna's skull, about three inches above the left eye. She tried to pull out the needle but the thread slipped through the needle's eye and the needle disappeared.

Mrs. Harvey took the child to Pottsville hospital. An X-ray showed the location of the needle in the baby's brain. Today Dr. J. B. Rogers, chief surgeon at the hospital, decided to try to remove it. He obtained a powerful magnet and, working with utmost delicacy, selected the spot on the baby's skull to which he thought the topmost end of the needle was nearest. He applied the magnet, and the needle came through the baby's scalp, blackened but intact.

There is no explanation of the needle's presence. Mrs. Harvey remembered, however, that she sometimes laid her sewing basket beside the baby's crib.

BELL PRESIDES AT WTCC MEET

Kemp, Slated to Officiate, Still in California

STAMFORD, Texas, May 12.—Tom N. Bell of Crowell, director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will preside at the Lower Panhandle District convention to be held in Seymour next Thursday according to Homer D. Wade manager of the regional organization.

J. A. Kemp, W. T. C. C. vice president, of Wichita Falls, who was originally scheduled to preside will not be able to officiate on account of his continued sojourn in California.

The band contest which is being featured by the Seymour Chamber of Commerce with six prizes aggregating $160 is creating much interest among the 30 towns of the Lower Panhandle district. Stamford's Firemen band was the first to notify W. T. C. C. headquarters that it would attend. Dick Roland, director of the band, announced that the fire boys were going to Seymour in a body, confident that they would return with a prize.

Lamar Avenue Baptist Church Calls Fort Worth Pastor Here

Rev. S. F. Martin Expected to Succeed Rev. W. H. Townsend; Growth of Congregation Reviewed

By JESS McLARRY
Written for The Record News

The Lamar Avenue Baptist church in conference Sunday morning called Rev. S. F. Martin of Fort Worth to fill the pastorate recently vacated by Rev. W. H. Townsend, who resigned to go to Olney.

Reverend Martin is a native Texan and before entering the Southwest seminary at Fort Worth, was pastor of the church at Santa Anna. He is a graduate of Howard Payne and also of the Baptist seminary. His ability as a preacher is testified to by the success he has enjoyed in the churches he has served as pastor.

REV. S. F. MARTIN

Colorful History

In event of the acceptance by Rev. Martin of the call, Wichita Falls will receive a preacher whose presence will add much to the standing of local churches, members said. It will also begin another chapter in the somewhat colorful history of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church.

The church was first organized Feb. 11, 1912, and was known as the Fourth Street Baptist church. Some of those who were charter members are active today. These include Mrs. W. N. Rawls, Mrs. W. S. Underwood and N. B. Rawls. Other charter members were Messrs. L. H. Lawler, Otis Burns, Wade Hutchins, Carsie Boone; Misses Bessie Stewart, Bessie Smith, Mary Wiley; Mesdames J. W. Davis, S. W. Roland and G. W. Burns; Messrs. and Mesdames W. L. Daniels, Andy Gray, J. W. Nicholson and E. M. Yeakley.

The organization of the church was brought about through the help of W. W. Brown, W. H. Davis, W. L. Robertson and F. C. Barron, deacons from the First Baptist church. Rev. W. L. Daniels served the church as its first pastor, dividing his time between the church and the work of county missionary. Rev. Mr. Daniels was followed by W. H. McKenzie, R. W. McCann, T. E. Cannaday and K. F. Keller. Rev. Mr. Cannaday was called the second time, following the resignation of Rev. Mr. Keller, and served the church as pastor to Dec. 1, 1917. He offered his resignation at that time, and the church accepted. The congregation was without a pastor until August of 1918, when R. W. McCann, then stationed at Call Field, was called as a supply until a regular preacher could be secured. On jan. 5, 1919, the church extended the call to Rev. A. J. Holt of Fort Worth, who served from then until Dec. 31, 1925. In February of the next year the church elected Rev. W. H. Townsend of East St. Louis, Ill., and he served through March of this year.

Fire Destroys Building

The change of name and location of the church was brought about by a fire which destroyed the old building at Fourth and Travis in 1919. Desiring a more favorable location, a committee was named to purchase property and after some weeks the lot at Fourth and Lamar was purchased.

The congregation then planned to erect a tabernacle, but while soliciting funds for this work, Mrs. Lillis Morgan made a gift to the church of $20,000, to be used by the church in building a permanent structure. This was accepted and the members immediately began a campaign to raise additional funds to complete the building. The church, as it stands today, cost approximately $60,000.

The purchase price of the lot at Fourth and Lamar was $4,500, which was a little high for the congregation. The owner not wishing to lose the sale, decided to make a donation of $500 to the church by reducing the cost to $4,000. Of this amount the church paid $2,000 cash, the amount received from the sale of the old lot and salvage from the building and pews, and the balance in one, two, and three years.

In a call meeting held the second Sunday in May, 1920, the name of the church was changed from Fourth Street Baptist church to Lamar Avenue, since the new building faced on Lamar.

Large Membership

Though the church is by no means the largest in the city, it has a membership of between five and six hundred, with all departments well organized. The Sunday school has an enrollment of more than 400, and organized departments for all ages. The school has been standard for the past two years. Fred L. Cone is superintendent, and has been re-elected each year since his original nomination in October of 1920. Prior to that time, G. W. Anderson was superintendent, but the church licensed him to preach and he left immediately for Abilene to enter Simmons college.

The B. Y. P. U. work is under the direction of Miss Mildred Sturdevant, and is showing constant gains, with unions for all ages from beginners to adults.

Mrs. C. F. Somerville is president of the Woman's Missionary society, and this department of church work is one of the most active, having taken a leading part in all church activities for many years.

With the calling of a new pastor, the members look forward to greater work in the future than any attained in the past. Besides the church property, the congregation owns a home for use of the pastor, as well as an adjoining lot on which they some day expect to increase the size of the church building.

Officers of the church, besides the pastor are: J. J. Nicholson, chairman of the board of deacons; Mrs. A. W. Allen, treasurer; Jess McLarry, church clerk; J. B. Allred, secretary of the corporation.

Members of the board of deacons are: J. J. Nicholson, J. B. Allred, J. J. Bozeman, R. M. Brown, W. C. Burgess, Fred L. Cone, O. L. Derrick, Clarence Lile, W. A. Minick, Bill Nicholson, C. B. Owen and C. T. Walters.

ARCHER CITY CASES CALLED

Two Face Court Today On Liquor Charges

Trials of Truman Del Berry, charged with the possession of a still, and of Hamp Phillips, indicted for the sale of whisky, are scheduled for Monday in the 20th district court at Archer City, according to an announcement Sunday from Sam Spence, district attorney. Both cases are based on indictments by the February grand jury, he explained.

The new criminal docket is to be called for Judge Allan D. Montgomery Tuesday morning. The case against Truman Del Berry, E. E. Patton and George West, jointly indicted for the possession of a still, is to be called first, the district attorney announced. The three were indicted following the seizure two weeks ago of a 300 gallon still near Archer City.

Trials of six other defendants, named in the grand jury report last week, are expected to be disposed of within the week, Mr. Spence declared.

Three Boys Nabbed For Taking Golf Balls

Three ambitious youths found scouring the "rough" at the Country club in search of missing golf balls Sunday afternoon spent several hours in the juvenile ward at the Wichita county jail contemplating their sins.

Their pockets were empty of loot on this occasion, but officials of the club, who took them before J. A. McDonald, juvenile officer, said that their visits to the club grounds had not always been so profitless.

Convinced of the error of their ways, the boys were set free before dark Sunday, Mr. McDonald said.

Kiwanis to Observe National Music Week

A program of music will be presented at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Kemp hotel in observance of national music week, according to P. M. Cordell, program chairman.

Ted R. Williams, baritone, will sing a group of songs, accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey. Kenneth Watson will give several piano numbers, and the club membership will engage in a singsong lead by Bill Young.

Portrait of Horn to Be Presented Texas Tech

Jones and Harrell To Attend Bankers' Meet

Oral Jones, vice president and cashier of the City National bank, will leave Monday for Galveston to attend the meeting of the Texas Bankers association. J. T. Harrell, president of the City National bank, is expected to leave Tuesday to attend the convention.

COULD NOT DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Berlin, N. H.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was in a family way because I was run-down and falling away every day. My food wouldn't digest and I could not do my work. I had to have a hired girl all the time. I took several medicines before I tried yours but none would help me. A friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and told me to try it as it would help me a lot. Your medicines have done me a lot of good and I cannot praise them enough. I will answer any letters that ask me what Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines have done for me."—Mrs. William Amero, 027 Burgess St., Berlin, N. H.

SCHOOL PREXY FACES CHARGE

Des Moines U. Head Denies Accusations

Shields fled Des Moines under police guard, after ordering the university closed.

The disclosure followed the posting of sensational placards by the students, reading as follows:

"The tiger's claw.

"Why look to California for an Aimee?

"Who is our Aimee's Ormiston?

"Was our Aimee's desert refuge suite A and B at the Hotel Russellamson, Waterloo, Iowa?

"Why was our Ormiston occupying room No. A of the same suite on the same date?

"Who saw Ormiston leaving Aimee's apartment on several occasions at early dawn?

Hotel Episode

"Was it necessary for our Aimee and our Ormiston to be in rooms on the same floor of a Los Angeles hotel for two weeks?

"Why did our Aimee change her place of abode temporarily to the local hotel at which our Ormiston was staying for a few days in the spring of 1928?

"The answers to the above questions are in the hands of those who should act.

"Our dictators, our Ormiston, under cloak of the clergy can fool some of the people all the time, all of the people part of the time, but he cannot fool all the people all the time."

As the groups of townsfolk huddled before the placards, Miss Rebman remained in seclusion in the Chamberlain hotel, under police guard to protect her from the harrassments of students who are supporting Dr H. C. Wayman, president of the university and members of the faculty aligned against Dr. Shields.

Students Await Woman

At the same time a number of students were grouped about her apartment near the university campus, in the hope that she might return there. It was even feared that her return would be the signal for a renewal of the riot Saturday, with additional hurling of eggs and other missiles.

The first demonstration by the students came Saturday afternoon, following Dr. Shields' dismissal of the entire faculty on grounds of fundamentalist heresy.

Armed with eggs, the students stormed the administration building as Dr. Shields issued his mandate within the building.

When the Baptist student-clergymen returned to the attack last night, Dr. Shields and members of his board, including Miss Rebman, were reported to have taken refuge in various closets of the board rooms, under tables and desks.

Police to Rescue

Police arrived to rescue the chairman and the board members, but only after some 100 or more rioting students had broken into the building.

Winners in Flag Contest Announced

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 12.—Winners in the national flag contest, sponsored locally by the Girl Scouts council under the direction of Mrs. T. C. Delaney, were announced this week. They are Dorothy Jones and the title "Knight of the Flag" was given to Gerald Mabry as rewards for first place in their respective classes. Medals will be awarded to the winners in the near future.

Ruth Baker was given second place for the girls and J. P. Boles second place for the boys. Honorable mention went to Lena Bayne and Leon Boyd for their participation in the contest.

Local judges who officiated were Mrs. J. Hardin Mallard, Miss Hazel Delaney and Miss Wilma Jarrell for the girls, and Russell Clark, Roy Guthrie and Olin V. Alexander for the boys.

Burk Rotary Club Meets at Stringtown

Special to The Record News

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 12.—The Burkburnett Rotary club held its regular meeting at Stringtown Tuesday, with Dr. Bain Leake presiding. The Stringtown Baptist women served lunch and furnished the entertainment program for the club. Rev. M. B. Hayes, pastor of the Baptist church here, pronounced the invocation.

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the club held Tuesday night, Butler Westerfield was elected as delegate to attend the International Rotary conference to be held at Dallas from May 27 to 31. A. R. Hill was elected as alternate.

"Husband Always Talking 'Orgatone' —Recommends It"

"He Feels That He Has Had a General All 'Round Build Up," Says Wichita Woman

"My husband feels that he has had a general all around build up, since taking four bottles of Orgatone, and is now, always talking 'Orgatone' to anyone and wants to recommend it to everyone," said Mrs. E. J. Perkins, of 200 Paterson street, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"He tried all kinds of medicine and treatments for his case but found nothing that would relieve him, until he began on Orgatone. He always had that tired and worn-out feeling and would have dull headaches continually, and would wake up mornings feeling worse than when he went to bed. In fact, he lost his pep and was feeling worse every day, and was getting in a general run-down condition.

"Orgatone was praised by so many local people, we decided that he should try it. Since taking his four bottles his troubles are relieved, we noticed a big change when he had finished his first bottle. His old ailments have left him now and he has more pep and energy now and feels just fine. He spent lots of money trying to find something that would relieve him, but could only get temporary relief. We think Orgatone now, is the most wonderful medicine there is, it is the best medicine he has ever taken and has relieved him of all his troubles."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new ble preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by the Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Other agencies are the City Drug Store at Burkburnett, Green's Drug Store at Henrietta, and the Tarlton Drug Co., at Electra.—Adv.

W. R. Scurry Chapter U. D. C. Entertains Veterans of County

Confederate veterans of Wichita county and their families were the guests Saturday of the W. R. Scurry chapter U. D. C. in a program and dinner at the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Fred Barron, president of W. R. Scurry U. D. C., presided in the morning meeting. The Presbyterian orchestra gave an exquisite violin trio under direction of Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, "Songs My Mother Taught Me." This was arranged for Mother's Day in the church and was given Sunday in regular services.

Col. Ed C. Wilson of Electra gave a paper on "Mothers of the Confederacy," interesting to everyone.

Readings were given by Miss Mary Jane Mabry and W. R. Little Jr., who gave "Touching Shoulders" and spoke from his heart to the veterans.

Talks were made by Judge Edgar Scurry and Judge P. H. Martin and a duet was sung by Misses Oneita Smith and Mary Virginia Barron, dressed in ante-bellum gowns, owned by Mr. Barron's mothers. They made a quaint picture and were a popular number with the veterans.

Dinner was served in the church basement by the ladies of W. R. Scurry chapter. The blessing was asked by Judge Martin and the guests seated at tables decorated in all spring's lovely flowers—roses, larkspur, sweet peas and masses of others, with everywhere, little Confederate flags.

There was one federal soldier a guest, J. D. Hill of Electra. Col. Ed C. Wilson of Electra was the oldest of the veterans. He is 87 and does not like to be called younger. And he is as agile as if he were 57. He spoke of the ages of his comrades—and pointed out one very young one; "Why he's not but 80," the colonel said.

Veterans from Iowa Park, Shannon, Archer City, Electra and Wichita Falls were present, with the largest delegation probably from Electra. Mrs. C. Newburn, representative of the American Legion auxiliary of Electra brought several veterans in her car.

There were over 50 guests registered beside the entrtaining chapter.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The sun, says an European scientist, is buring itself up at the rate of 250,000,000 tons a minute. What an awful thing to know! Without the sun, our earth is nothing. However, we won't begin to give away our earthly possessions as the Philippine islanders did when the late eclipse threatened the world's end to them; because the same scientist says the sun can burn on at that rate and not be reduced to the size of the earth for approximately 100,000,000 years. And we don't expect to be here by then.

Mrs. Emily Post, the accepted authority for all matters of etiquette, says it is perfectly proper to take fried chicken in the fingers, rather than labor inefficiently with knife and fork. Yet we didn't see anyone doing the proper thing at the Forum May breakfast and lots of good chicken went to waste. We picked up a wing ourselves, and fancied we saw people looking askance at us. But we are willing to be a martyr to help a good cause along.

The New York World says "Trinity churchyard, in the heart of the financial district, has gone modernistic. Late workers in Wall Street have been startled since the New Year's by powerful flood lights which illuminate the yard, throwing into bright relief the graves that have been there so long. Those lights have been placed as a memorial at the bottom of the 39-foot crucifix of white marble which was erected to the memory of Mrs. Wm. Astor by her daughter, Mrs. H. Orme Wilson."

Anyway, Trinity churchyard, is all "lit up."

Miss Sheldon Gives Pretty Party Saturday

Miss Marguerite Sheldon was hostess Saturday night to a group of her B. Y. P. U. associate members and several other friends at her home on Denver street.

The home was beautifully decorated with roses and larkspur and the refreshment plate carried out the pastel color scheme. The evening was spent in playing progressive hearts. The high girls' score went to Hazel Hodge and high boys' to George Nelson.

B. Y. P. U. members present were Mr. and Mrs. Mayers, Misses Hazel Hodge, Lois Earl Shaw, Mildred Burge, Stella Evans, Lois Thompson, Lois Baber, Rebecca Park, Pauline Anderson, and Ruth Etta Martin and George Martin. Other friends were Misses Mary Hyatt, Bernice Trevathan, Mary Sue Elliott, Kathleen Cason, Katherine Keirsey, Lee Ellen Boardman and Mary Virginia Howell.

Cobb School P.-T. A. Holds Last Meeting

Cobb school P.-T. A. held its last meeting for this school year on Friday evening at the school.

The meeting was called to order by R. C. Lowe, president. A brief business session was held at which time a report of the work of the organization was given.

After adjournment, a large number of the people of the community enjoyed a social hour. Old and new games were played and refreshments served to those present.

Travel Club Has Original Program At Lovely Lunch

Saturday's luncheon at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, when the Travel club entertained the Junior Travel and the College Women's club, was one of the most beautifully arranged that has been given in the city. Mrs. T. M. Conrey, as chairman of arrangements, have the Forum dining room a setting of loveliness.

The speaker's table was banked with most exquisite flowers. Along the other tables that made a horseshoe from the speakers, there were great baskets of roses, larkspur, sweet peas and snap dragon and perched on the flowers, seeming ready for flight were lovely pastel shaded butterflies. Butterflies were place cards.

The feature of the luncheon was the toastmistress, Miss Pauline Shirley. Her toasts, her introductions, even her announcements were in clever rhyme.

After a toast of introduction, she introduced in verse, Mrs. Fraser, who toasted the Junior Travel club. Then Miss Shirley turned to Mrs. Ailes:

"To the college women, Mrs. Ailes will speak,
And offer a greeting on this day so bleak."

After Mrs. Ailes' greeting to the college women, Miss Friend responded. The next number on the program was harmonica numbers by Guy Rogers Jr., which were announced:

"All work and no play,
Makes Jack dull, so they say;
All speeches and no music is just as bad,
So now we'll be entertained by the Rogers lad."

Mrs. W. W. Cook, Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. T. A. Hicks and Mrs. Grover were called on in couplets to report on the federation.

Thurman Conrey was introduced happily:

"At our next number, I know you'll rejoice
When I tell you the committee's choice;
Thurman Conrey will play the violin
And Miss Iva Willis will accompany him."

"Polonaise" by Josef Hoffmann was the number splendidly interpreted by Thurman Conrey with Miss Willis accompanying.

Mrs. John C. McDonald is leaving the city for Dallas and Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin made a short talk complimenting Mrs. McDonald and expressing the loss of the club.

Printed Frocks Express New Mode for Summer Wear

There are several factors that combine to contribute to the ultimate success of a frock. The right choice of pattern comes first—considering lines that slenderize the silhouette and details that tend to hide rather than accent the natural human defects such as avoirdupois; very thin arms or very stout ones; round shoulders and so on. Next in importance is the right choice of fabric and especially so this season when prints are outstanding in the mode.

Great strides have been made in the manufactures of fabrics. New attributes of beauty and color have been injected into the most delightful of designs and weaves. Woolens are more desirable than ever because of their lighter weight and supple qualities. Silks have emerged with the new season more lustrous, gayer and lovelier than ever before. Cottons are no longer regarded as house dress and apron materials, but are being worn on every occasion when fresh, crisp and dainty frocks are needed.

The color range for summer is inexpressibly gorgeous, running all the way from the softest and palest of pastels to the deepest of colors. There is a limitless selection and as a result the fortunate woman who makes her own clothes may choose authentic, youthful styles and make them up in materials that express her individuality and enhance her coloring.

In today's group are frocks for every hour of the day, from the neat house dress in Design 1618 to the ravishing early dinner frock in Design 1640. For sports or shopping, Design 1551 will prove delightful and for the matinee or afternoon bridge what lovelier than Design 1641? These frocks are shown in the popular printed fabrics, yet if one wishes, they will fashion equally well in plain colors preferred by the individual.

Young fashionables must not be forgotten with the approach of warm weather, and what smarter and neater than the printed cottons that launder and wear so well. The little girls in the group are dressed in simple, practical frocks that every mother will love to make.

Pattern 1648

This model has the new raglan shoulders so smart for kiddies. Gathers below the yoke give ample fullness and swing to the dress. Good sized pockets are useful as well as ornamental. The frock and bloomers are made of gayly printed pique, percale, linen or gingham. The trimming of collar, cuffs and pocket flaps may be made of white pique.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6. Size 4 requires 2¾ yards print, and ⅛ yard trimming, 36 to 40 inches wide.

Pattern 1313

Dotted fabrics, floral prints and checks are most in favor for small tot's frocks. Design 1313 is a simple, dainty rig with a bit of ruffing for trimming. This may be ribbon, gathered lawn or embroidery. The rounded collar, cuffs and pockets correspond in cunning manner. Swiss, dimity, voile or handkerchief linn would be lovely for this model.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards, 39-inch material and 2 yards ribbon for ruffling.

Pattern 1618

Details of decided interest on this adorable house frock, are the rounded neckline and front panel that creates a long, slender line. Short, sleeves give comfort and freedom when working about the house. Colorfully printed percales, ginghams or rayons suitable fabrics for house dresses as they launder beautifully. Vivid designs on white grounds may use white pique for collar band, cuffs and pockets.

May be obtained only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 3 yards print and ½ yard plain fabric, 40 inches wide.

Pattern 1551

A smart buttoned bodice with becoming turned collar, short widely cuffed sleeves and front pleated skirt section, are the outstanding style features of Design 1551. This chic model is delightful made up in a lightweight woolen fabric such as kasha or jersey, or made in silk pique, linen, crepe de chine or gingham. Color connotations of black, grey and yellow; black, orange and yellow; brown, beige, red and green are striking and very smart. A pastel shade of white would be lovely for summer.

May be obtained only in sizes of 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 3 yards material, 40 inches wide.

Pattern 1640

Printed chiffon or georgette will develop into an exquisite frock if Design 1640 is used. The basque bodice and double flared skirt are entirely new style features. The skirt dips slightly in back thus accenting the uneven hemline. The gracefully flared jabot is adorable and becoming—slimming. Flesh and banana grounds with rich, deep patterns are exquisite in the very sheer fabrics and would be perfect for this model.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 requires 5½ yards material, 40 inches wide.

Pattern 1641

The surplice line is modish and slenderizing; the skirt flare prevades the mode in delightful manner; combined smartness and beauty result. The slim and matured figure, alike, will love this style and rightfully so. Self banding trims bodice, belt and cuffs. Printed silk crepe in small geometric figures fashions the model shown. Dark grounds are very smart for coatless days.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards material, 40 inches wide.

These models are easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary as each pattern comes to you with simple exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. You will be delighted with the fit and simplicity of the patterns.

Patterns will be delivered to you upon receipt of 15c in U. S. coins or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents.

MRS. JOHNSON MAKES MOTHER'S DAY TALK

Mrs. Grover C. Johnson made one of her splendid talks in Floral Heights Sunday school Sunday morning and embodied in it was a legend touching the idea "Mother's Day"

This legend is told that an angel was once sent to earth from heaven in quest of three things that might be selected and brought back to heaven. After a thorough search, a flower, the smile of a baby and a mother's love were chosen. Mature reflection, however, found only one of these adaptable to celestial surroundings. The flower would fade; the beauty in smiling innocence would turn into maturity; mother's love only, of everything kin to earth, was found an immortal jewel with permanent luster,

Clement-Carter Wedding An Event Of Saturday Eve

Mr. and Mrs. Clement will make their home at 2014 Ninth street.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

A Miracle Man—He Who Never Gets Mad!

I AM tempted to start a fund for a memorial to be erected in honor of this Miracle Man after he dies. I would appeal to harassed wives to subscribe to this fund so that his memory and glory would be perpetuated.

THE other day, at a bridge party, there was a bit of heated chitchat after a hand. One of the ladies at the table at which he was playing (she was his partner) said: "The reason I like to play with you, as badly as you do sometimes play, is that no matter how much I bawl you out, or how, you never get mad, even when I shouldn't bawl you out."

He chuckled and said quietly, "I never get mad. I have never gotten mad in all my life."

We all looked up in astonishment. His wife, sitting at another table, overheard him.

"What he says is the truth," she said.

"But sometimes," he said, "I'd really like a little bit of peace."

There was no venom in what he said or in his manner; and it struck us as being delightfully witty. It also created in us the real belief that what he said, as astounding as it was, was the truth.

I SEE a special understanding of life and groping human beings in a man who can quietly say, "I never get mad," and finds his own wife an eager witness to support his gently uttered and yet amazing claim.

I found him unique and delightful in other ways. He talked about birds in those intervals during which we changed from table to table and showed me a booklet containing the pictures of almost every known kind of bird.

Theodore Roosevelt was a lover of birds. He had a capacity for indignation that was excited only when he considered political outrages and the wrongs committed upon the American people. He was essentially gentle and understanding otherwise.

Mark Twain was a lover of birds, and boys, and life of all sorts. He had understanding. Therefore he loved.

And that is just what love is—understanding. And understanding is that special quality which gives us control and control varies inversely according to our capacity of understanding.

DO YOU wonder that, breathless and dumb with astonishment and admiration, I am thinking of a memorial to that gentle and genial and witty soul who actually never gets mad!

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Lewster Portrait Sold for $250,000

By GERALDINE FITCH

NEW YORK, May 12. (US)—Frans Hals' "portrait of Judith Leyster" has just been sold for $250,000 to an unnamed Washington collector, by the Ehrich galleries, according to an announcemen today.

This early 17th century masterpiece has never been publicly shown. The new owner will allow it to be exhibited at the Ehrich galleries for one week beginning Monday, before it is placed in his permanent collection in Washington D. C.

The picture has been in the collection of E. Grainger, British connoisseur, for many year.

It depicts Judith Leyster, Holland's only woman painter at the time of Hals, in her early twenthies. She was also a pupil of the great Dutch master and only a recent years have certain pictures been proven her work instead of Hals'. She married Jan Moleaner, another pupil of Hals, in 1633.

Engagement of Mangum Girl Is Announced

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., May 12.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Florence (Peggy) Doolen to Russell S. Crowther of Shenandoah, Iowa. The wedding will be an event of July 31 in the home of Miss Doolen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Doolen. For the past year Miss Doolen has been first violinist with the orchestra at radio station KMA at Shenandoah, where Mr. Crowther is secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Three Popular Hostesses Have Series of Beautiful Parties

A spring musicale Saturday was the climax of a series of social events given during the past week by Mesdames J. T. Montgomery, Allan Montgomery and J. H. S. Bonner.

During the week four bridge parties were given, each a lovely event in itself. Spring flowers and favors were used in each party.

On Saturday, Mrs. J. T. Montgomery's home was fragrant with the masses of roses, sweet peas and larkspur used, and a program given by lovely young girls carried out the idea of youth in entertainment as well as in decorations.

Misses Dell Hatchitt and Helen Cline ushered during the afternoon. Miss Hatchitt announced the program as follows:

"May Night" and "The Sea" by Palmgren, and "Nocturno," by Grieg, were lovely piano numbers by Miss Elizabeth Langford.

Miss Rose Marion Art, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. L. Art, sang "Springtime" by Becker, "Wild Bird" by Lieurance and "Ouvre Tes Yeux Bleus" by J. Massinet.

Miss Joline Wood read "By Courier," O. Henry, and "The Penitent" by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Miss Mary Virginia Barron, dressed in a quaint gray antebellum costume, sang "When Honey Sings An Old Time Song" and "The Lass With a Delicate Air."

Miss Mathilde Donnell, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary Elizabeth Donnell, gave two exquisite violin numbers: "Graceful Adraine," by Ethel Allen Nelson, and "Waltz Francoise," by Hans Spialek.

An ice course was served to the 150 guests who attended the musicale. Approximately 400 were guests during the series of parties. Out of town guests were Mesdames Harold Wescott and Harry Thomas of Oklahoma City, Mrs. C. B. Campbell of Chickasha, Okla., and Mrs. Edgar Shumate of Dallas.

'Higher Education' Often Takes Children From Parents, Says Dix

Heroism of Parents Who Educate Their Children Above Themselves—Should the Children of This Poverty-Stricken Family Be Given Adoption?

Dear Miss Dix—Is it not possible for one to be overeducated? Nothing can be finer than the motives prompting poor parents to send their children to schools that give them the advantages they never had themselves, but do they realize that in doing so they are sacrificing forever the camaraderie of their children?

To graduate from college and to return home full of great ideals—ambition, knowledge—to find nothing changed but yourself; to discover that the pleasant connections of home have become impregnable barriers within which one must be confined; in other words, to have outgrown the nest is tragic. It is not lack of affection or unseemly pride or baseness of any sort to wish to leave, but how can one get away without feeling guilty of ingratitude or without injuring those whom one least desires to hurt?

—ALL BEMUDDLED.

Answer—I think no men and women ever do a more heroic thing than do those parents who give their children a better education than they have, well knowing that by so doing they are breaking the bond of comradeship between them. But I think the parents who make this sacrifice do it deliberately, because they put their children's wellbeing so far above their own that they are willing to give them up for their own good and even to make the still further sacrifice of not trying to keep them in the home nest and that they are glad to have their youngsters stretch their wings and fly away.

Just how great is this sacrifice of parents who raise their children above themselves, only the parents themselves know, because there is a curious vanity that makes every man and woman supremely desire the oracles, to look up to them and defer to them, and it requires super-human courage and self-abnegation to give this up and to put themselves in a position where their children will look down upon them and criticize them and often be ashamed of them.

Sometimes if the children turn out very successfully, this hurt to the parental vanity is atoned for by the pride the father and mother feel in their children's achievements, and in their boasting about John's fame as a doctor or a lawyer or the money he has made in business or the fine position that Mary holds or the big match she has made they are repaid for the fact that there are no other man and woman in the world with whom they are so little acquainted and of whom they are so much afraid and with whom they feel so ill at ease as they do with Mary and John.

The situation is full of difficulties for both the parents and the children. All of us know fathers and mothers who have pinched and scrimped and saved and gone hungry and shabby and worked themselves almost to death to send their boys and girls to college and whose reward has been to be patronized by arrogant, self-conceited sons and daughters who criticised father's and mother's grammar and pronunciation until they were afraid to speak.

Who interfered with all their mode of living; who turned out all of the old, comfortable furniture that was endeared to them by a thousand memories and associations and installed in its place back-breaking cubic or arty stuff which ran father back to his office for a comfortable place to sit and made mother take to the kitchen for a familiar cook stove on which to rest her eyes.

Worse still, we have seen boys and girls come back from college to mock at their parents' religion and deride their ideas on every subject under the sun and to break their parents' hearts because their children were following after new gods.

And we have seen children whose parents had lifted them above themselves, trying to repay the sacrifices that had been made for them by staying at home in an environment that they had outgrown and in which they were utterly miserable.

They were bored to tears by the home conversation that went round and round the domestic circle and the neighbor's back yard and had never a new thought in it or an inspiration. They had nothing really to say to father or mother, who no longer talked their language. And no matter how much they loved and respected father and mother they winced at father's and mother's grammar and table manners.

So it seems to me that the only way out of the muddle is for the super-educated children to go away and follow their own fortunes. That does away with the daily friction between them and their parents. It gives the youngsters a chance to go to their own country, for which their parents have paid the passport, and it leaves the parents free to lead their own lives in their own way.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a distracted woman who needs your advice. My husband is a wonderful father to our six lovely children, who range in age from 2 to 12 years of age, but he has been out of work and we are poverty-stricken. Our relatives suggest that we allow some very wealthy families to adopt our children, as this would give them opportunities for an education, but we love them so much that we cannot bear to do it. Should we sacrifice our own happiness for theirs?

—MRS. A. S. M.

Answer—It is a monstrous thing to think of giving away your children. You would never know a minute's happiness if you did, so don't do such a rash thing.

Rather than do so, humble your pride and ask aid of some charitable organiastion until your husband can find work and you can get upon your feet again. Perhaps you could put some of you babies in a children's home where they will be well cared for until times are more prosperous with you.

As for its being any advantage to your children to be adopted by rich people, that is problematic. In my opinion no amount of money, no fine clothes and indulgences can make up to a child for a mother's and a father's love and tenderness and understanding.

Perhaps the rich people who adopted your children might bring them up properly, with the right sort of ideals, but again they may be frivolous and light-minded people who would lack the patience and wisdom to rear your boys and girls into fine men and women.

Nor does it follow that because a child is brought up by wealthy people who can give it so-called advantages, you secure its success in life. About the greatest advantage that you can give any child is poverty, the necessity to put forth every effort and use all of its talents to get the things it wants, the necessity that makes it stick to a hard job and fight on with its back against the wall. Most of the successful men and women in this country were poor children.

So don't give your children away. Keep them with you. It is best for you and best for them.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We are twin sisters, 28 years of age, and have always been very close to each other and pals in everything. My sister is going to be married and has asked me to make my home with her. I love her dearly and want to go with her, but I am afraid that if I should go to live with her it might interfere with her happiness. What is your advice?

—MILDRED.

Answer—Don't think of doing such a thing, because her husband would be more than human if he was not jealous of you. He would rightly think that if his wife doesn't love him well enough to go off with him alone, she doesn't care much for him. No man wants to have some other woman tagging along every time he takes his wife out of an evening and listening in on every conversation they have.

Don't go to live with your sister. Don't even visit her too often. Any third party in a home is a menace to it and it is especially dangerous to the newlyweds.

Daily Editorial

THERE'S enough substance in a year's news to fill a fresh volume of the Britannica per annum.

Miracle-mongering proceeds at such a dizzy pace that the best-informed brain in town can't hope to keep its reference cells to date.

Half of us aren't yet aware that carbaloy cuts through materials which hitherto dulled the hardest tool steel, and saves incalculable expense for a hundred departments of manufacture.

Radio's latest contributions are messages from the North Pole to the South Pole, and an airplane siren which automatically turns on landing-field lights.

Dr. Jacques Risler, experimenting at Paris, produces a vacuum tube which becomes red hot on contact with wireless waves and promises central generating stations, from which cities may some day be heated without the use of fuels, radiators or furnaces.

Map-makers and yardsticks to the contrary, the distance from New York to Nome is 45 hours. And "when mightier motors are designed," planes will cover the distance between dawn and dusk.

Surgery eliminates one more era of guesswork by devising a tiny electric-lighted camera which the patient swallows, and enables the diagnostician to study stomach derangements as though through a windowpane.

A magnetic metal, forty-fold as powerful as any ore nature can furnish, makes its bow and invites the investigation of dynamics.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who gives attention to his dress is wise."

Clothes do not make the man, but clothes and character of the man and a man is largely judged by his dress.

Mabel Walker Willebrandt told United States district attorneys to prosecute only "good strong cases" under the Jones law. Now bootleggers will be putting more water than ever into the stuff.

Chicago gunmen are said to have established a proving ground for machine guns on an island in Rock river. They are said to be enthusiastic over the system which beats proving in court all to pieces.

The Efficient Gangster

THIS is an age of specialization and efficiency. Quick disaster overtakes the man who does not keep himself strictly abreast of all the most modern developments.

It isn't surprising, therefore, to read that the Chicago gangsters have taken over a desolate, wooded island in the Rock river, below Rockford, Ill., and made it into a proving ground for their machine gun shock troops.

Press dispatches indicate that the gangsters went about their work in a highly systematic way.

The island was a lonely place, not apt to be spied upon by outsiders. So the gangsters fixed up a sort of target range on it. To the island they sent their machine gunners, to spend several days popping away at targets, studying the use of their new weapons with all the earnestness of a battalion of doughboys preparing for service on the battle line.

The machine gun, spraying bullets as a garden hose sprays water, is one of those weapons with which you can hardly miss what you're shooting at anyway, if you hold the trigger down long enough. But the gangsters, evidently, would not be satisfied with any slip-shod methods. Good marksmanship, they felt, was necessary, even if the day of the sharpshooter is ended.

Hence the island proving ground, where the business of murder can be put in line with other up-to-date practices.

This mechanized age has wrought changes in every line of endeavor. No one, however, has been quite so affected as the crook.

From a disorganized mass of drifting, maladjusted plug-uglies who realized that the odds were always against them, the criminals of a major American city have become a cohesive, well-organized, amply-financed and shrewdly-led band that has the odds all in its favor. The new age has put splendid new weapons into the criminals' hands, and they know how to use them.

Automobiles, machine guns, bullet-proof vests and such-like things are in their arsenal. Clever lawyers are in their councils. Vast sums from the liquor traffic are in their war chests. They have alliances with politicians and police officials.

Yet, in the face of all this, we continued to fight them with the same weapons we use din Civil war days!

Our law enforcement machinery has practically stood still. Naturally, it has bogged down, so that crimes of violence are commonplaces, rarely punished.

You can't subdue the underworld with out-of-date methods—not in a day when the underworld maintains its private target range for its machine gunners.

Mr. Colquitt's Confirmation

CONFIRMATION of the appointment of O. B. Colquitt, former governor of Texas, as a member of the railway mediation board comes with little rejoicing, except on the part of Mr. Colquitt himself, or with little regret.

Mr. Colquitt is not a man of outstanding ability or qualification for the position to which he has been appointed. President Hoover might have done worse and he could have done much better. The responsibility is the president's and he is entitled to whatever credit or discredit there may be in the appointment of the former governor of Texas.

Contrary to a belief that was somewhat general the president was not required to appoint a Democrat to the place to which he appointed Mr. Colquitt. There was no political requirement for the position and Mr. Colquitt fills that lack of requirement admirably.

His confirmation was not opposed by either of the Texas senators. In view of the fact that there was no requirement that the place be filled by a Democrat and the further fact that there could be no valid objection made to the appointment on other grounds, the Texas senators did right in acquiescing to President Hoover's wishes in the matter. In this connection Senator Connolly issued a statement that puts the responsibility for the appointment where it belongs and ought to be satisfactory to everybody. Senator Connolly said:

"The law governing the United States board of mediation does not require that the vacancy to which Mr. Colquitt was appointed shall be filled by a Democrat. The wide-spread view that the vacancy must be filled by one affiliated with the Democratic party is not correct. Neither does it require that it be filled by a Republican. The president is privileged to appoint anyone he may choose, without regard to the political affiliation of the appointee.

"Of all the Democrats in Texas, of all the Republicans in Texas and of all others President Hoover selected Mr. Colquitt. I did not recommend Mr. Colquitt for appointment. I have never supported Mr. Colquitt in any of his campaigns for governor or United States senator. I opposed his policies and disagreed with his administration.

"However, confirmation does not imply approval of the appointment. Confirmation follows as a matter of course, unless charges as to character or fitness are filed and substantiated. After a hearing on protests filed and evidence submitted the committee reported unanimously for confirmation.

"In view of these considerations, I did not interpose objections to confirmation."

Certainly no Democrat, with this understanding of the lack of political requirement, would be warranted in objecting to confirmation.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS — By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 12.—It is easier for the outsider to get into a strange night club than it is for a New Yorker. The man from Topeka or Paducah or any other place doesn't encounter half the trouble that the man from West 71st street or West End avenue or Greenwich Village will experience.

I don't know what system they use, but the men at the night club doors always can tell the stranger within the gates. Sometimes—as Miss Texas Guinan found out—they can be sadly mistaken. The clubs depend a great deal upon taxicab drivers to guide likely looking parties to their drink and entertainment and gyp parlors. Buyers from out of town frequently are taken to the clubs by buyers for local stores. It's business, you know, but good business. Also, many hotels will supply guests with cards that will admit them to certain night clubs.

What the visitor finds, once he gets in, usually is disappointing. The entertainment isn't much better than what he might expect to get in a burlesque theater—not as good, often—and the only added attractions are the drinks and the price. If you bring your own you are levied with a cover charge of $3 and up. The ginger ale or White Rock is served at $1.50 a bottle. Food, often not of the best quality, is dispensed at ridiculous prices. A party of four or five will find their bill, exclusive of liquor, at least $50 or so.

Congeniality usually is missing in these places. There is the air of harsh business. The "hostesses" have a formal conviviality that is chilling to the extreme, unless you don't happen to be sober. The places that do the big business frankly cater to the suckers from out of town. Don't think, however, that the suckers are missing in New York. There are plenty. But they become discouraged unless they can produce regularly.

It is not in a spirit of sour grapes that I wonder where the lure in a night club lies.

◆ ◆ ◆

There is indeed a happy advantage in being able to turn from the depressing subject of night clubs to the less spectacular institution known as the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. It is celebrating its 25th anniversary.

Its founders were such men as William Dean Howells, Augustus St. Gaudens. Edmund Clarence Stedman, Samuel L. Clemens, John Hay and Edward MacDowell—William James, I think, also was later identified with the movement in an important way.

The academy, patterned after the Academic Francaise, has its own building and is taking the initiative in promoting the interests of creative work in the United States.

I refer to it here because it is doubtful that the telegraph wires of the nation will be burdened by many press dispatches concerning the academy and its achievements. They would be crowded out by scandals and the trials of night club hostesses.

◆ ◆ ◆

It is quite true that the American academy does not enjoy the prestige and popular esteem in this country as does the Academy Francaise in France. Our highly commercialized and politicalized life precludes such honor to mere letters and mere sciences. After all, there are highly seasoned intrigues and murders to attend to. But our own academy goes on, day after day, furthering the interests of arts and sciences.

However, it will take some time—and much publicity for it to equal in power the French academy. There is a story told by the secretary to the late Anatole France which illustrates the esteem and respect the academy enjoys even among the peasants. I shall, however, for various reasons, be forced to expurgate the story.

France one day, while traveling through a meadow, met a maidan. He began to flirt with her, quite violently, to say the least. The girl's mother, observing this from afar, rushed up to France and denounced him roundly and vehemently for his impertinence. (Did I say "impertinence"? Well, we'll let it go at that). She demanded apology and what not. Mr. France extended his card. It bore the name of the French academy.

To the woman the name France meant little. But, oh, Monsieur! The academy, indeed! Oh, Monsieur France, would he please forgive her hasty wrath and would he not stay for supper and, please, monsieur—ah, the academy! and—

Well, that's the idea, anyway.

There are about 1,000,000 square miles of lake and river surface on the land, and 1,910,000 square miles of islands in the seas of the earth.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WITH MR. HOOVER IN THE TROUT STREAMS

(According to newspaper stories, the president has had the brooks in Hunting creek especially stocked with grown trout and left nothing undone to assure successful fishing.)

◆

Mr. Hoover (at a cabin telephone, after putting in a call for Washington): This is Mr. Hoover speaking. What about my orders regarding trout down here?

PHILLIPS

Secretary: They were carried out, sir. I'm sure. What seems to be wrong?

Mr. Hoover: There are no trout in Pool 6, Section 17-A.

Secretary: Pool 6 Section 17-A?

Mr. Hoover: Yes. Ten days ago I instructed you to get off a letter to the trout department ordering fish into Pools 5 to 17, Sections 10-A to 23-D, at once. My orders were evidently not executed.

Secretary: I got the letter off, sir, and I have a carbon as evidence. I even set a blueprint of the streams and specified that you wanted full-grown trout.

Mr. Hoover: Well, there's gross inefficiency somewhere. Connect me with Battersby, chief of the trout department in charge of stream stocking.

Mr. Hoover: Is this you, Battersby? This is Hoover. What about that requisition for trout in Pools 5 to 17, Sections 10-A to 23-D, sent you on the 5th inst?

Battersby: Just a minute while I consult my files. . . . Ah, here it is. . . . I personally gave the orders to the delivery room and feel positive they were executed. Are you sure they were not?

Mr. Hoover: I've just been out casting and didn't get a single strike in Pool 6.

Battersby: Are you sure you're in Pool 6, Section 17-A, Stream No. 3, sir?

Mr. Hoover: According to my blueprints, I am.

Battersby: The delivery department is in charge of one of our oldest and most reliable trout brook stockers, and I can't believe he didn't put the fish in the places designated. Maybe if you will try just a little longer you'll get a strike.

Mr. Hoover: If things were properly systematized I wouldn't have to wait. Have you that big map showing the streams and the best fishing spots?

Battersby: Right before me. There are red tacks marking the spots where the best should be.

Mr. Hoover: Well, where can I find those two-pounders that were sent down last month?

Battersby: They're in Rapids 3 to 8 in Brook No. 7, and also in Shallows 6 to 11, Brooks 5 and 6. Our charts show that they should be feeding at just about this time.

Mr. Hoover: Good! I'll try those spots.

COST OF DRY LAWS EXPOSED

Taxpayers Out $936,000,000 on Prohibition, Claim

WASHINGTON, May 12. (US)—Prohibition cost the taxpayers of the nation $936,000,000 last year, according to an economic study completed by the association against the prohibition amendment today.

This amount includes only charges passed on by the taxpayer, and does not deal with the economic phases nor the moral and ethical phases of prohibition, it was emphasized.

The survey, issued under the title, "Prohibition and Your Income Tax," was said to be based on "careful and conservative analysis of all official figures and representing almost a year of exhaustive research."

Enforcement Costs

Setting the cost at $936,000,000, the survey continues:

"This sum includes an accurate apprisal of fereral expenditures for enforcement and an adequate but conservative allowance for the loss of federal and state revenue.

"The loss of federal and local revenues is by far the largest item and comes to $900,000,000 a year. In this estimate we have allowed for the spread of state prohibition and have assumed that there would be on consumption in the 19 states which permitted importation for personal use.

"Federal appropriations for enforcement and the annual loss of federal revenue totals $886,000,000. This sum is slightly in excess of the $882,727,114 paid last year to the federal government in personal income taxes.

"After crediting fines collected from prohibition violators, there still remains practically $200,000,000 of direct outlay for federal enforcement during the first nine years of the prohibition experiment.

Larger Cost Predicted

"If congress and the several states yield to insistent demands for larger appropriations, the total annual cost of prohibition will soon exceed a billion dollars. In the last session of congress there was a protracted debate over an additional appropriation of $24,000,000. In November, 1928, Commissioner Doran testifying before a congressional committee said, 'It is a matter of policy whether congress wants to embark on the police business. If congress wants to embark on the police business it will take $300,000,000 a year and a system of United States courts covering the land—I feel that in the distinctly federal sphere, the federal government is doing a pretty creditable job but it is unfortunately expected by some people to do work which congress has never by its appropriations policy, at least, indicated that it should do.'

"The implication of this is clear. The prohibition commissioner in effect calls upon the states to contribute at least $250,000,000 new money for local enforcement. This would bring the total prohibition bill to nearly $1,200,000,000 a year."

Spur Girl Scouts Club House Is Dedicated

Special to The Record News

SPUR, Texas, May 12.—The formal dedication of the Girl Scouts clubhouse was held in front of the scout home, and several interesting talks relative to the work and plans of the club, were made.

Those taking part on the program were M. C. Golding, George S. Link Sr., Mrs. Dr. T. H. Blackwell, V. B. Lee, and Clifford B Jones who made the principal address of the evening.

Mrs. T. W. Wigham, who is lieutenant of the Spur troop, will assist in the work at Camp Mary White this summer, and plans are being made for a large number of the scouts from Spur to be with Mrs. Wigham on this splendid outing, which means so much to the girls from the standpoint of healthful habits, and character building.

Health And Diet Advice

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

"THE FAST WAY TO HEALTH"

Restaurant Diets

Everyone who tries to follow a good diet has experienced the difficulty of securing the right type of food in the average restaurant. Frequently, the food is unappetizing or improperly cooked. There is generally a super-abundance of starchy food and there is very apt to be a lack of the raw salads. The cooked non-starchy vegetables are often cooked in too large a quantity of water and the valuable alkaline elements are dissolved and thrown into the sink.

Do not be afraid to make your wants known. Restaurant owners are naturally anxious to please their patrons and when the public demands properly prepared food, they will undoubtedly be served. There is less difficulty now than even a few years ago in securing good food. The man who is on a diet is no longer looked upon as a freak. One large chain of restaurants observes the correct food combinations enough to avoid mixing starch and acid in the same dishes. Their vegetable soups are made entirely of non-starchy vegetables. Another large chain of restaurants recently tried to go "vegetarian" and avoid serving meats, but this was a mistake they have since rectified.

Although inns and taverns have existed since recorded history, the first modern style of restaurant was established in Paris in 1765. Since that time we have had a good many changes and evolutions, the two principal offsprings of which are the cafeteria and the lunch counter. The cafeteria is undoubtedly one of the best places to eat, as such a large variety of food is served in a fancy manner at a reasonable price that anyone who has made a study of simple dietetics can secure a good meal which is palatable and nutritious. One of the best features of the cafeteria is that the patrons can see the food before choosing, and such foods as salads are presented in such an attractive way that one can hardly pass them by. Many people have undoubtedly learned to eat a large variety of salads after being unconsciously educated by seeing these foods displayed.

The ordinary restaurant cannot be run at a profit unless business is very good at the lunch hour, at which time the rushed patron hurriedly gulps down his lunch and then goes back to work and is handicapped all afternoon with a dulled brain and a stuffed stomach. Every corner drug store caters to this noon lunch. The special plate and sandwich lunches often served in these places are steadily ruining the digestion of office workers who frantically rush through bad meals to keep an appointment with an early death. Fortunately, many of the lunch counters are now serving more wholesome plate lunches or "a la carte."

Fortunate, indeed, is the man who can dine at home where the family cook has a reasonable attitude toward the diet question. However, if the family insist on using wrong food, the best plan is for the health seeker to take his meals in a restaurant where he can get the necessary food and not be bothered by the tempting dishes of unhygienic food served at the average family table.

Whether you eat out or at home, you should endeavor to form the habit of choosing the best kinds of food and being careful to avoid inharmonious mixtures of even good foods.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Deafness

Question—Mrs. J. H. writes: "I am writing you in the interest of a little boy who is almost deaf. One specialist claims that his ear drums have not developed. Also, what would cause his extremely heavy breathing? Please give us some advice about deafness."

Answer—Deafness is usually caused by some catarrhal condition or an obstruction of the eustachian canal by enlarged tonsils or inflammation. If the little boy's deafness is caused by the ear drums not developing, it is possible that artificial ear drums could be used. A catarrhal condition is probably partly responsible for his heavy breathing. I suggest that he be given several short acid fruit fasts, being given a well balanced diet without much starchy food between the fasting periods.

Harmful Reducing

Question—Mrs. D. G. F. asks: "Is a cupful of vinegar, a fourth of a lemon, a half-teaspoonful of sugar and enough water to dissolve the sugar, taken every morning after breakfast, good for reducing? Is it harmful to the health? Why?"

Answer—The only way such a combination could help you to reduce is through injuring your digestion. If you took nothing else but this combination, you would certainly lose weight, but with not the good results you would obtain by using the straight lemon or orange fast.

Baby Is Constipated

Question—Mother writes — "My baby is now more than a year old. I am feeding him nothing but raw cow's milk and orange juice, but he is very constipated."

Answer—If your baby is constipated I would suggest that you increase the amount of orange juice. This will undoubtedly solve the problem. Also, send for my article on Children's Diet which gives the correct diet for a year old baby.

Lawton Dairy Men Boost Proposed Factory

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., May 12—Herds containing 400 cows were signed up by the Comanche County Dairy association for the proposed cheese factory here at one meeting which was held at the Flower Mound school house. SPUDDERS TIE NIGHTCAP AFTER DROPPING OPENER TO CATS

JIM'S TOSSERS RALLY GAMELY

Draw Second Game, Called By Darkness in Seventh

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our crippled Spudders rallied twice in the last innings yesterday—but the best they could get was a tie and a defeat. The Panthers from Fort Worth took the opener of the double bill, 8 to 6 and the nightcap, carded to go seven innings by agreement, was called at the end of that round on account of darkness, with the score 4-all.

The Spudders tallied three runs in the ninth of the first game and made the final pastime a deadlock with a brace of tallies.

Both games were started by left-handers, but old man Jimmy Walkup was the only chucker to go the distance. Jimmy bested Harold Wiltse and Fred Stiely in the first game, with Hal charged with the defeat. Ed Taber was Skipper Jim's hill choice in the nightcap but didn't last long and was replaced in the second round by Rusty Cromer. The kid righthander did very well the rest of the route.

Here is how the Spudders scored their runs in the seventh of the final:

Crouch batted for Cromer and walked. Benton singled to left, advanceing Crouch to second. Gordon sacrificed, Meadows to Grimes. Fitzgerald popped to Pierce. Bennett singled sharply to left, scoring Crouch and Benton. Bennett was safe stealing second when Harrington dropped Rensa's throw. Eldred strolled. Fitterer replaced Rufus Meadows, a young southpaw who had pitched very well until that seventh, and caused Snyder, hitting for Sullivan, to force Eldred, Harrington to Pierce.

1,400 See Pastimes

More than 1,400 fans paid to see the bargain bill at Athletic park, a surprising turnout considering the inclement weather, lowering clouds and a chilling gale making it unpleasant for baseball; and in view of the disappointing play of Galloway's gallopers in recent days.

Wiltse wasn't his usual effective self in the opener and Hooks retired in the pastime in the fifth inning, after seven runs had been tallied, aided by eight hits. Fred Stiely hurled excellent ball thereafter, the Panther run being due to a home run by Larry Cox, whose drive lodged and stuck on the ledge in right field, while Brick Eldred raged in impotence waiting for the ball that never did come down.

Except for the second, when the Spudders bunched four hits with a base on balls to tally three runs, and the ninth, Jimmy Walkup was in fine fettle.

Taber gave up three runs and four hits and none was out when he was replaced by Cromer in the second inning of the nightcap. Rusty did very well for a young man out to make his mark in this cruel world and if it had not been for an error in the sixth that permitted the Panthers to score their fourth run would have won the ball game in the light of ultimate events.

Jim Alters Lineup

Skipper Jim revised his lineup, sending Fitzgerald to first base, shifting Sullivan to center and placing Eldred in right. The move seemed okey oakley, Howard handling himself like a seasoned first sacker. The Spudder defense still was ragged, however, but that is to be expected with an outfielder playing first base and a rookie at second.

Red Bennett was the fair-haired boy on the attack, smacking three hits, including that very, very timely smash in the seventh, in the nightcap and getting one blow in the opener. Eldred got three hits in eight trials and Benton three in nine times up as their efforts for the afternoon. Joseph Bonowitz, returned recently to the Texas league from the American association, smote a brace of doubles and two singles in the first game.

Mr. Benton also obliged with some very scintillating shortfielding, handling 15 chances flawlessly and starting one double play. The Spudders, incidentally, completed a pair of two-ply killings in the second game.

Their loss in the first contest made it five straight the Wichita Falls clan has dropped.

Errors Help Cats

Loose defensive play gave the Panthers a run in the second inning of the first game. Bonowitz' hit hopped over Bennett for two bases. Baker lifted to Eldred. Eldred dropped Harrington's fly, Bonowitz going to third. Pierce popped to Benton. Bonowitz scored when he worked a double steal with Harrington.

The Spudders tallied three in the second. Bennett led off with a base on balls and was called safe at second on Eldred's bounder to Walkup. Sullivan forced Eldred, Harrington to Pierce, Bennett advancing to third. Swenson singled through Walkup to center, scoring Benton. Crouch hit to left, tallying Sullivan from second. Wiltse singled sharply to center, scoring Swenson from second.

A brace of hits let the Cats tally one in the fourth. Bonowitz started it with a two-base knock to deep right. Swenson made a sparkling stop of Baker's harsh bounder over third and threw him out, Bonowitz going to third. Harrington singled to center, scoring Bonowitz.

Panthers Score Five

The Panthers went ahead in the fifth with five runs. Moore led off with a single to left. Urban bunted and was safe when Fitzgerald dropped Swenson's low throw. Cox hit to center, scoring Urban. Urban moved to third and Cox to second on a wild pitch. Grimes struck out. Bonowitz singled to center, scoring Urban and sending Cox to third. It was Joe's third hit. Gordon went far to his right to throw out Baker, Bonowitz going to second. Harrington singled to center, scoring Bonowitz, and went to second on the throw-in. Pierce hit to left, tallying Harrington. Stiely replaced Wiltse and cauped Walkup to hoist to Sullivan.

The Spudders filled the bases in the sixth with none out but failed to score.

The Spudders rallied in the ninth, but fell short of tying the count, although five straight hits tallied three runs. Lapan, batting for Stiely, singled to left after one was out. Benton hit to center and Gordon to left, filling the bases. Fitzgerald singled to left, scoring Lapan and Benton. Bennett singled to left, scoring Gordon. Pierce took Eldred's lift. Sullivan struck out.

Cats Get Taber Out

The Cats converted three hits into a tally in the first inning of the nightcap. Moore led off with a single to center. Urban hit to right, advancing Moore to third, but was out at second, Eldred to Swenson to Benton. Cox singled to left, scoring Moore.

Fort Worth tallied two in the second, which saw the end of Taber's tenure on the mound. Rensa and Harrington walked. Pierce singled to right, scoring Rensa and sending Harrington to third. Cromer replaced Taber, and passed Meadows, filling the bases. Lapan dropped Benton's throw on Moore's grounder to catch Harrington at the plate.

The Spudders scored two in their half. Eldred started it with a single to center and took second on Sullivan's hit to left. Swenson forced Sullivan, Pierce to Harrington, Eldred going to third. Lapan doubled to the center wall, scoring Eldred and Swenson. Cromer struck out. Benton singled to center but Lapan was out at the plate trying to score from second.

Atz' men scored in the sixth. Rensa beat out a roller to Cromer and went to third on Harrington's single to center. Pierce popped to Lapan and Meadows lifted to Benton. Gordon failed to snatch Lapan's throw and Rensa scored on a double steal with Harrington.

NOTES OF THE GAME

The league-leading Waco Cubs, from whom the Spudders swept a two-game series recently in the Bruins' baliwick, opens a three-day stand today out at the lot.

George Payne probably will be Jim's hurling choice.

Tomorrow's pastime will be started at 2:30 o'clock, in order that it may be concluded before the Shrine ceremonial.

There was no little bickering of players over umpires' decisions yesterday and Payne was banished by Donnelly from the Spuds' dugout in the second game.

Del Baker provided one of the fielding features of the day when he snatched Benton's foul near the far end of the Panther dugout.

The close Texas league race saw several changes of positions yesterday. Fort Worth moved from fifth to fourth; San Antonio went to fifth; Dallas fell into a tie for sixth with the Spudders and Beaumont moved to within half a game behind Wichita Falls and the Steers.

Peter Turgeon was in uniform yesterday but it will be several days before his sprained ankle will permit him to play. Bud Stapleton will be out about two more weeks with his broken digit finger on his throwing hand—the left.

Seriously Ill

WALTER JOHNSON

The Washington Senators, floundering around the cellar, are without the aid of their manager in their efforts to escape the submerged place in the standing. Walter Johnson, pilot of the Solons, is ill.

NEW SPUDDER

Infielder Ray Andrews Recalled From Farm At Abilene

Reinforcements have rushed to the faltering Spudders. The new aid to the cause of the homelings is Ray Andrews, and he was due to report to the Spudders today. Andrews is a young infielder who was recalled by President J. Alvin Gardner from his ranch at Abilene.

Andrews has been playing at third base for the Abilene Aces and Carl Williams, manager of that club, says Ray is one of the greatest young ball players he has ever seen. And when Carlos puts his stamp of approval on a kid tosser you may wager the family jewels that the young man will deliver.

Andrews was in the Spudder-Ace camp here this spring. He is a husky youngster but fast. It is probable that he will be inserted in the Spudder lineup in today's game.

CUBS TROUNCE BUFFS BY 6-4

Dumovitch Effective; Johnson, Windle Bat Hard

WACO, May 12. (AP)—Halted by three showers, one delay lasting 45 minutes, the Waco Cubs won the first game of a scheduled double bill from Houston today, 6 to 4, due to great pitching by Dumovitch and brilliant hitting by Windle and Johnson. The second game was called off because of the condition of the field and the late hour. Score:

The SPORTLIGHT

The Uncaptured Outpost

American entries at one time or another have won the British open, the British amateur and various Wimbledon titles, but the British women's golf championship has still remained beyond their reach.

This is one outpost that has remained beyond their attack. French girls have been more successful, but only when Joyce Wethered was in retirement.

The British have had two remarkable women players to depend on. The first was Cecil Leitch. The other was Joyce Wethered. They met in the final round two or three years ago and Miss Wethered won a terrific match on the thirty-sixth green. She retired from tournament play after that occasion, where over 20,000 spectators made it almost impossible to get around the course.

Now Miss Wethered is back again in the championship that starts at St. Andrews this week where America's best chance rests with Glenna Collett, Marion Hollins and Marion Turpie. All three are fine golfers, but the odds against their breaking through the British barrier are still rather heavy. Miss Wethered isn't the only good woman golfer in Great Britain, but she is still believed to be the best in the game.

Miss Turpie is the Southern star who gave Miss Collett her hardest fight in the recent North and South championship, and as she was born at St. Andrews her play this week will be worth watching.

The Hardest Battle

It is already apparent that the Yankees have a much rougher road to face this season than they tackled last year. The Athletics have better pitching to bank on and almost as much power in attack. The Athletics, with some seasoning of their younger stars, appear to be a much better ball club than they were a year ago, when too many veterans cluttered up the landscape and cut down their speed.

The Yankees must get better pitching than they had the latter part of last season and the earlier of this season to win another pennant. Ruth and Gehrig can't be expected to blast their way through a whole season, although they came close to doing it last year.

The Athletics have the strongest club Mack has sent to the post since 1914, with good pitching, good defensive play, hard hitting and one of the best catchers baseball has ever known in Cochrane. Grove and Walber, two fast ball pitchers, may have their troubles with the Yankees, but they will bag a flock of ball games from the other six clubs before the season ends.

Lafayette's Strength

Dear Sir: Don't forget to keep an eye on Lafayette's baseball team this spring. It will be worth watching. In the first place, Joe Coughlin possesses three of the best pitchers that have ever graced a pitcher's box in college. Mike Murburg, Chot Morrison and George Hibberd are the young men who deserve that distinction. They are big boys, have a world of speed and can work all day with the same exertion. The infield is one of the greatest of the institutions. George "Mike" Wilson is at first and leads off for the Maroon and White. He finished last year well up in the .400 class and led the club in stickwork. On second reposes Long George Dimmerling, a converted outfielder, who hits them a mile and throws like so many bullets. On short and third we have Shellenberger and Chimenti, respectively, two football stars, and boys who can't miss the leagues. Shellenberger is every bit as good as Mike Gabella, who was his predecessor by a few years. A natural born ball player and another one of those mortals who can go to his left as well as his right for anything. Vince Chimenti is a great fielder with a good head, and plays smart baseball all day. In the outfield are Captain Purcell, Johnny Thompson and Billy Reasor, who is also a catcher. There is power in this garden trio, both defensively and offensively. They will bear watching this season and will no doubt prove to be the sensation of the intercollegiate circles.

The Crew Outlook

If any crew is to stop California's winning spin at Poughkeepsie the answer seems to be Columbia. The Californians have now won something like 11 races in a row, dating back to last season. They still look to be the pick of the water, but Columbia will have quite enough to give the Western stars one of their hardest afternoons in June. Glendon has done remarkable work at home of the Blue and White and with another five weeks in which to put on the finishing touches he will have a crew that only a great crew can beat.

"I see," writes H. K., "that a reader wants some instruction as to how one should play out a heel print in the sand. What I'd like to have is some instruction that will keep me away from the heel prints in the sand."

With certain examples before them there is a chance that coming young heavyweights will be a trifle careful before signing up with more than four managers at one time.

Wichita Bowlers Beat Dallas Five

Wichita Falls bowlers defeated Coca Cola team of Dallas yesterday in three straight games on the Spudder alleys. Kurtz, Davis, Merrick, Riesen and Sweeney comprised the Wichita Falls team; Burton, Wilson, Hamilton, Moss and Williamson made up the Dallas five.

The local team rolled high score for a single game of 2,754. Davis had 614 for high single game and Riesen's 246 was high as a single effort for Wichita Falls, while Hamilton rolled a 250.

CLARA FORMS NEW DISTRICT

Seventh Independent Area Added in 29-1 Vote

Special to The Record News.

CLARA, Texas, May 12.—With only one dissenting vote, residents of the Clara community Saturday voted to establish an independent school district to replace the common school organization now in effect. The vote was 29 to 1, only a small percentage of the qualified voters coming to the polls.

The three trustees who have been in charge of the district were reelected and four others were named at the Saturday election. The reelected officials are J. S. Rogers, N. M. Mathews, and R. G. Remond. The new members include O. W. Prechel, Henry Schroeder, H. M. Myers, and J. C. Muller. Their election was unopposed.

The new board will probably meet for reorganization early this week, Burl Bryant, county superintendent, announced Sunday. They will take over the management of the district at once, he said. The creation of the independent district was proposed in an effort to meet financial difficulties by a slight raise in property valuations, Mr. Bryant explained.

The Clara district is the seventh independent school to be organized in Wichita county. The others are Wichita Falls, Electra, Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Fairview, and Valley View. Nineteen common school districts remain.

BOND ELECTION AT HASKELL

Road Paving Project Faces Voters June 8

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, May 12.—An order calling for an election to be held in road district No. 7 on Saturday June 8, for the purpose of voting on the issuance of $125,000 bonds was passed by the commissioners' court last Friday. The bonds if voted, will be expended for paving Highway No. 18 from the Jones county line through Sagerton to the Stonewall county line, approximately 17 or 18 miles. It is understood that state and federal aid has been promised if the bonds are voted. Petition for the election presented to the commissioners' court was signed by over 125 property owners of the district and it is stated that sentiment for the issuance of the bonds is strong throughout the district.

RADIOS MAY 'GET' LONDON

Gigantic Hookup of Nations Is Planned

By JERRY QUISENBERRY

NEW YORK, May 12. (UP)—Forty million Americans, gathered about their radio sets this fall, may be able to tune in on London with the same ease they now hear New York.

Other millions of Britons, listening in at the same time, may flip the dials and pick up an American program.

It all is part of a scheme now under way to link the two great English speaking nations in a vast radio hookup. When completed, the horde of radio listeners scattered through the farms and cities of the United States will find that the distance between this country and England has been reduced to a mater of wave lengths and that a piccadilly dance orchestra and a Broadway blues singer can both crowd under the lid of one superheterodyne.

Details of the new project were announced today by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company, on his return from abroad. Conferences with Sir John Reith, director general of the British Broadcasting corporation, resulted in his complete cooperation in the international hookup plan, Aylesworth said.

"We hope," he said, "to be able to have the people of England and America listen in simultaneously on Thanksgiving day this year to a suitable program originating in New York, Washington and London."

At Brookman park, near London, British engineers are constructing a giant station which it is hoped will be heard regularly in America. In addition, plans are under way to construct a "short wave" apparatus to transmit programs to New York, where N. B. C. will pick them up and rebroadcast them throughout the United States.

B. Y. P. U. HERE ATTAINS NEW WORLD'S ATTENDANCE RECORD

SESSION HAS 1,768 PRESENT

Sherman Church's Mark Is Bettered

With 1,786 persons present in eight departments, the young peoples' unions of the First Baptist church Sunday night set a new world's record for attendance at a single regular session of Southern Baptist Young Peoples' unions, according to J. W. Mason, educational director of the local church.

Under the direction of T. C. Gardner of Dallas, secretary of the state B. Y. P. U. organization, Baptist churches in Texas have been engaged for the last several months in a prolonged attendance contest. The world's record was first broken by the First Baptist church of Sherman early last fall, it was said, but within a short time Cliff Temple Baptist church of Dallas registered an attendance of almost 1,200 persons, setting a new record which maintained until May 5, when the First Bantist of Sherman climaxed a week's campaign with a still higher mark of 1,581.

Through the services of practically the entire membership of the church during the last week, Mr. Mason said, almost 1,800 persons of this community were interested in the effort being made Sunday night and crowded all of the eight separate department rooms for the special programs which were given.

The Mother's Day theme prevailed in most of the departmental programs given during the first part of the B. Y. P. U. hour. Each union then conducted the lesson in the regular course of study. The entire gathering assembled in the main auditorium at 7:30 p. m. to hear the attendance report. A message giving the results of the drive was dispatched to Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the church, who is attending the annual convention of the Southern Baptist church in Memphis, Tenn.

The report by departments showing Sunday night's attendance was given as follows:

Adult, 661; senior, 313; intermediate, high, 234; intermediate, low, 157; junior, high, 152; junior, low, 135; primary, 128; general officers, six.

Two Electrans Face Charges After Raids

Mrs. Ila Allison of Electra Sunday made a $500 bond before United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz on charges of possession of beer. The charges were made following a sheriff's department raid Saturday afternoon in which 59 pints of beer were seized. Mrs Allison is 50 years old. She was not taken into custody Saturday, but was allowed to make bond Sunday.

Charges were also filed against I. G. Whitley of Electra, arrested Saturday afternoon after 149 pints of beer had been discovered buried in the ground underneath a trash pile, Dick Morris, deputy sheriff, announced. Whitley was released under a $600 federal bond.

Daniel Pays Tribute to Mothers In Address Before Kay Bible Class

Speaker Refers to Great Figures in History in Showing Value Of Christian Motherhood

Roy J. Daniel, teacher of the Kay Bible class, paid tribute to motherhood in his address Sunday morning, declaration that "when God has need of a great man, He first makes a great mother."

Referring to numerous historic figures, the speaker pointed out that many men not only bore striking resemblance to their mothers, but frankly attributed the characteristics throug which they gained success to their maternal heritage.

"Mother is the true teacher. Mother teaches not only by precept, but by every action, thought and attribute of character. Mother love is a great surging, divine current that plays forever through humanity. The saddest thing in the world is the ungodly sight of a man who overlooks the sacrifices a good mother has made for him, and continues to add gray hairs to her saintly head and tears to her weary eyes by his rascality," said Mr. Daniel.

The text of his address follows:

The prophets of the Old Testament have commonly been thought of as mysterious persons. They were not, however. The immediate task before them was to rebuke the sins of their contemporaries and to establish the rule of God in the world. They were mighty preachers of righteousness to their day and generation. The most illustrious men of Israel were not her kings or priests, but her prophets. They form the high water mark of religion before the appearing of Christ. A prophet learns his message in the secret places of his soul and amid his daily contacts. Next to the brilliant Isaiah the greatest of the early prophets was Jeremiah. Jeremiah, whose messages portray a broken hearted man, labored about a century after Isaiah's time, when the approaching fall of Jerusalem was evident, and near the end of his life he witnessed the deportation of the Jews by Nebuchednezzar.

Truth Unpopular

Jeremiah was 20 years of age when he was called to his office of prophet. When the call came Jeremiah said, "Jehovah, I am just a child." But Jehovah told him not to say he was a child but to speak what God told him to speak. And God promised to be with him to deliver him in case of need. Jeremiah has been called "the prophet of sorrow." He told what God told him to tell straight from the shoulder, and what he said was not popular because it was the truth. He told the people that destruction would come to Jerusalem. It would be rendered desolate as was Shiloh. Shiloh was in the centre of Palestine, and was the place where Joshua had placed the ark and the tabernacle. Falling into idolatry Shiloh lost its greatness, and it was captured by the Philistines and destroyed. So when Jeremiah made the prophecy that the fate of Shiloh would come to Jerusalem he was accused of blasphemy by the religious leaders. His conduct at this trial is most worthy of note. He said that he had spoken only what God had placed in his mouth. He called upon the people to turn from their wickedness and wayward ways, and told them if they would turn again to God that the destruction of Jerusalem would be averted. Concerning himself Jeremiah said, "It does not matter what you do with me. Do with me as you please. If you kill me why that will be all right. Innocent blood will be on your hands. Turn from wickedness and return to God." Jeremiah was found not guilty of blasphemy but he died a broken hearted man because the people of Israel would not heed his burning message.

Seventeen years ago congress passed a resolution setting aside the second Sunday in May as Mother's day on which to honor our mothers. It is all together fitting and proper that this should be done, but really every day ought to be Mother's day. At the head of a list of great mothers let us place Mary, the mother of Jesus. When the Savior was a babe she fled to Egypt to save his life. In His last hours the Savior, pointing to His mother and turning toward John, said, "John, behold thy mother." Then he said, "mother, behold thy son." Abraham Lincoln said, "All that I am and all that I ever expect to be I owe to my angel mother." It seems that when God has need of a great man, first He makes a great mother. George Washington had a noble mother. When a boy he started to join the British navy. But after his trunk had been placed on the boat to carry him away he saw tears in his mother's eyes as he kissed her good-bye. How bravely she struggled to keep them back and to hide them! He said, "Mother, if that is the way you feel about my joining the English navy I'll not leave you." He ordered the slave to return his trunk from the boat to the house. So Washington by his mother's tears was saved for America and became our great soldier and father of his country.

Though it may seem rather strange, it is true that most great men of history resembled their mothers. Napolean was the image of his mother, and in the days of his glory she saved from the money he gave her because her mother's heart told her that her son's star that rose at Lodi would some day go down in a field of human blood. James A Garfield greatly resembled his mother. When a boy he ran away from home. But each night his mother placed a burning coal-oil lamp in the window and prayed for his return. Her prayer was answered for one night he came in and found his mother on her knees. He knelt down beside her and vowed he would make himself a man of whom she could be proud. He returned to school and became the president of a great college and then president of the United States.

Famous Mothers

You remember that William McKinley's mother sat upon the platform and saw him take the oath of office as president of this great republic. The first thing he did before that immense concourse of people, before those assembled thousands, was to walk over where she sat and to kiss her. She told him she was proud of him but rgretted that he was not being made a bishop in the Methodist church. At the age of 19 Sam Houston wanted to go to the war of 1812. His brothers said, "You will disgrace the family going as a common soldier." But his great mother said, "Let him go," and taking his father's rifle from over the door she handed it to him and said, "My son, either come back in honor or never come back at all." The Spartan mothers told their sons to return with their shields or return lifeless upon them. You are all familiar with the Spartan courage and self sacrifices of southern women in the American civil war. The anguished southern mother, with breaking heart and streaming eyes, gave her boy her parting blessing and said, "Go, my son, I give you freely and commit you to God and to the defense of your beloved Southland."

Mother is the true teacher. Mother teaches not only by precept but by every action, thought and attribute of character. Mother love is that great surging divine current that plays forever through humanity. It can never be estimated how much men of genius owe their mothers.

One word that mother knows not the meaning of is selfishness. No night ever gets too dark, no hour too late but what she gladly rises to serve her loved ones. The saddest thing in the world to me is the ungodly sight of a man who overlooks the sacrifices a good Christian mother has made for him, and continues to add gray hairs to her saintly head and tears to her weary eyes by his rascality.

During the world war I stood near Buckingham palace in London and saw England's queen pass by. I bowed my head and instinctively took off my overseas cap. She is a mother, and on her mother's brow there seemed to be a crown brighter and more dazzling than the crown of state. After the grand procession had passed by, I leaned against an ancient English oak that could tell tales of Cromwell and the Roundheads, and my mind crossed the ocean to the memory of my own happy home. It was evening. The chores were done. The wood for the stoves had been placed upon the back porch. The lessons had been studied. My mother had tucked her boys into bed and kissed us good-night. It seemed to me that I heard her angel spirit say, "Oh God! Take care of the soldier boys and return them all safely home." The tears unbidden started down my cheeks and I cried, "God bless England's Christian queen, and also bless America's queen — the American mother."

If I could walk through the floral gardens of the world and pluck the flowers of rarest beauty and sweetest perfume, and then select from the crowns of kings and queens the rarest jewels that glisten there, I would fashion them into a more beauteous crown, and then with the hand of love I would place that crown upon the brow of America's uncrowned queen, my mother.

Poet's Words

Jesus inspired Charles Wesley to write that beautiful song, "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Jesus lover of my soul,
Let me to Thy bosom fly
While the nearer waters roll,
While the tempest still is high.

Home inspired John Howard Payne to write those words so dear to us all:

'Mid pleasures and palaces, though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home.

And mother inspired the poet when he wrote:

Mother of Mine, O mother of mine!
If I were hanged on the highest hill,
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

Mother of mine, O mother of mine!
If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

Mother of mine, O mother of mine!
If I were damned of body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother of mine, O mother of mine!

Today if you wear the red flower signifying your mother is in the land of living, send her a letter or a telegram or a gift of some word of love and greeting. If you wear the white flower signifying your mother is in heaven, as mine is, breathe this prayer from your heart of hearts, that from this time on you will seek to live in such a way that you will meet her there."

49 Haskell School Seniors to Graduate

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, May 12.—Forty-nine seniors will graduate this year from the Haskell high school and they will wear the caps and gowns. This custom was begun last year.

The final exercises will begin Sunday morning, May 19 at which time Rev. E. Gaston Foote, pastor of the First Methodist church of Haskell, will preach the baccalaureate sermon. On Monday night, Judge J. E. Hickman, chief justice of the court of civil appeals of Breckenridge, will deliver the commencement address.

Miss Elsie Bradley will be valedictorian and Miss Martha Lou Rogers, salutatorian. A cedar chest was awarded Miss Martha Lou Rogers for making the highest average in home economics.

RAIN REDUCES BIBLE CLASSES

Sunday School Attendance Drops 1,000

With access to many local churches rendered difficult by the unusually heavy rainfall Saturday night and Sunday morning, attendance at more than 25 Sunday schools dropped approximately 1,000 below the mark set on the preceding Sunday.

In spite of the general depletion of classes, three churches in the city reported slight increases in attendance over May 5. These were the First Christian, Buchanan Street Church of Christ, and the Lory Memorial Baptist church.

The total number of pupils reported present for May 12 was 6126, but reports could not be obtained from the Ray-Massie community and Scotland Baptist church Sunday schools.

Teaching Favored Profession Of College Graduates, Survey Shows

School teachers within the next few years will most suddenly come to the realization that their particular line of endeavor has a larger following than would seem apparent, if other schools throughout the country contain as large a following for this profession as may be found at the Wichita Falls Junior college.

A questionnaire recently submitted to 51 of the 61 prospective graduates at the local institution revealed that of the 16 various professions that the graduates designated their intentions of following the teaching profession received the largest number of potential followers. Twelve of the prospective graduates expressed their desire of teaching school, and all but one of this number were girls.

The engineering profession received the second highest following with six males signifying their intentions of following this particular field of profession. The various kinds of engineering preferred by the students included architectual, aeronautical, civil, administrative and radio engineering.

An interesting fact disclosed in the questionnaire was that of the 51 students answering the query, but three were "undecided" as to what profession or career they would follow when they left school. Two of the three "undecided" students were boys.

Results of the questionnaire were as follows: teachers, 12; engineering, 8; law, 6; doctor, medicine, 3; some form of business, 3; one for each of the following professions: art instruction, minister, banker, language expert, newspaper man, contractor, agriculture, pipe organist, stenographer, interpreter and librarian. Four of the girls anto profess in dramatics, public speaking, or expression.

Memorial Service At Lake Creek Postponed

Because of the condition of the roads after the Saturday night rain, residents of the Lake Creek community postponed the annual memorial service planned for Sunday. J. A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, who was to have been the principal speaker, said a later date would be set during the week.

Return from Panhandle

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Blanton, 1106 Eighth street, have returned from Panhandle where they attended the funeral of Mrs. J. M. Nickell, Mrs. Blanton's aunt. Mrs. Nickell, formerly lived in Wichita Falls.

Rites Held Sunday For Mrs. Brown

Funeral services for Mrs. Olin E. Brown, 27, who died Friday at her home, 1700 Taylor street, were conducted from the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was in Riverside cemetery.

Pallbearers were Julian McFall, Elmer A. Sauer, O. G. Stephens, C. K. Dodge, C. E. Millican, and C. G. McNutt.

She is survived by her husband; two children, James, 6, and Dorothy Jo, 2; her mother, Mrs. J. L. Fair; five sisters, Mrs. Carl Burch, Mrs. Max Ross, Misses Helen, Alice, and Eloween Fair, all of Dallas, and one brother, Glenn Fair of Archer City.
