Round-Up Parade To Bring Calvary Platoon To County

A mounted platoon of the First Cavalry Division, 17 pony soldiers dressed in authentic Cavalry uniforms of the 1880's, will be featured in the Castro County Round-Up Parade at 2:30 p. m. Aug. 17.

The platoon will also present nightly shows in the Dimmitt Rodeo, demonstrating the classic Cavalry saber-charge, mounted practice with pistols and abers, mounted drills and other feats.

Leading the grand march into the arena each night, the Cavalry will also bring to Dimmitt a complete walk-through museum which will be set up on the courthouse square and be kept open all three days of the Round-Up. Other displays will be set up around the museum.

Included in the I-Cav museum and displays will be old weapons and uniforms of all types and Army historical posters plus all the basic weapons used by the Army now, M-14 and M-16 rifles, two jeep mounted recoilless rifles, automatic pistols, 50-caliber and M-60 machine guns, submachine gun, flame throwers, shotgun with 18-inch bayonet and M-72 anti-tank weapon.

This will be the platoon's first appearance in the Texas Panhandle, according to Staff Sgt. Edward J. Harder, First Cavalry Division recruiter, Lt. Col. Edward J. Kelly III, Commanding Officer of the 12th Cavalry, will arrive on the courthouse square by helicopter on parade day. He will present First Cavalry Division awards to local people who worked to bring the platoon to Dimmitt at the rodeo performance that night.

In addition to the Cavalry, the parade will feature colorful floats and riders with first, second and third place trophies to be awarded in seven categories - riding clubs, communities, organizations, civic clubs, commercial area from outside the County and the best dressed cowboy and cowgirl. Cash prizes of $25, $15 and $10 will also be awarded to the top three floats in the communities and organization categories.

Vandals Strike Gin Property

Vandals went on a spree recently at Hart Gin Company. Roland Shepard, owner and operator, reported damages amounting to $750 or more. The wanton destruction also necessitated an extensive clean up operation.

Amid the destruction, Shepard found 56 broken windows; three head lights broken on tractors; clearance lights, tail lights and reflectors and signal lights shattered on trucks; valve stems broken from rear tractor wheels and light bulbs broken throughout the building.

A mirror in a vanity dresser was taken and thieves hauled off several steel Army cots, a ten-horse boat motor, shop hammers, wrenches, tin snips, bolt dyes, pipe dyes and cotton trailer tarps.

Insect spray was poured into the gas tank on one tractor. Locks were broken and other buildings entered also.

Immunization Requirements For School Children Told

When the school bells ring this fall, Texas school children will be among the best-immunized in the country.

The reason, according to State Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy, is the state's compulsory immunization law.

Under the regulations, grade school level children (and those attending day care centers) must be immunized against five communicable diseases -- diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, measles and rubella. Measles immunization is not required if there is a history of measles illness. And smallpox, which originally was a required immunization, was removed from the list by the State Board of Health, which sets immunization guidelines for the schools.

Junior high school, high school and college-level students have lesser requirements for immunizations, said Dr. Peavy.

The Health Commissioner noted that immunizations should have been started by last January 1 and must be completed, according to age levels, before starting school this fall.

"I feel that almost all school children will have completed these requirements," said Dr. Peavy. About the only misunderstanding in the regulation was in the college level, he said. "If a collegian is 19 years of age or over, the only requirement is for the adult type tetanus-diphtheria immunization, or a booster shot within the past 10 years."

Dr. Peavy said local health units throughout the state contributed toward meeting the large demand for immunizations, and private physicians have boosted the total. In 1971 almost 4.5 million doses of vaccine were administered to Texans during regular local health unit clinics and special campaigns.

Dr. Peavy said the immunization law is a good one--one that had been needed for a long time. It forces parents to protect their children and in so doing protect themselves, their friends and relatives from these preventable diseases.

"We are anxious to have children immunized long before they start to school," said Dr. Peavy. "In fact, they should start in the first year of life," he said.

"I feel that the immunization results will be reflected in the preventable disease total," said the Health Commissioner. "From past experience we have seen a steady decline in preventable diseases -- except venereal disease," he said.

Dr. Peavy said it was imperative that the very young children receive immunizations since a lot of diseases appear in those two years of age and younger. "The best prevention is early immunization," he said.

Dr. Peavy said there has been good cooperation from everyone concerning the mandatory immunization law, which has co-sponsorship of the Texas Medical Association.

The law even allows exclusions from compliance for religious reasons, or where a physician licensed by the Texas Board of Medical Examiners feels that immunizations are medically contraindicated.

Many school districts had varying immunization requirements, but none were standard. "Some just had smallpox, while others required several immunizations. Now, however, they will be uniform throughout the state," said Dr. Peavy.

All schools will be required to maintain records of the immunization status of individual students, and this is a king-size job. Total registration for special education, kindergartens and grades one through 12 is expected to surpass 2.8 million students. Of these, almost a quarter-million will be entering first grade.

The end result of the mandatory program will be reflected in better health for all Texans, a goal of the State Health Department in its immunization program, said Dr. Peavy.

Post Stampede Begins Aug. 17

The 32nd annual Post Stampede Rodeo is scheduled for Aug. 17-19, with each night's show to start at 8 o'clock, following the grand entry.

The opening day rodeo parade will be at 5:30 p. m. Aug. 17, with floats competing for $200 in cash prizes, and a dozen or more riding clubs vying for first, second and third place trophies.

Rodeo competitors may obtain entry information by writing Johnny Kemp, Post Stampede secretary, Box 302, Post, Tex. 79356. The rodeo office will open at 8 a. m. Monday, Aug. 14. The office telephone number is (806) 495-3374.

Participating with other scouts, the training included classes in survival and Scouts spent three days and two nights in the mountains with only eight matches, one piece of string, a poncho and pocket knife.

The group learned to make a warm shelter from native materials and to survive on native edible plants.

Twelve boys attended the camp and enjoyed mountain camping, hiking, archery, cooking and conservation practices.

Johnny Newsom, Gary Jackson, Kelly King, Barry George, Bart Bruington and Bobby Alensworth earned merit badges in conservation of natural resources and soil and water conservation.

Other Scouts making the trip were Theron Hawkins, Kelly Jones, Clay Hanes and Larry Cox. Adults providing transportation and leadership were Deryl Clevenger, Duane Clevenger, Richard Franks, C. C. Hanes, Stewart Newsom, Tom Benton and Robert Hawkins. Hart Lions furnished gas for the vehicles.

Free Lunch Income Scale

Tasty and nutritious lunches are served every full school day at the school cafeteria at a cost of 40 cents per student.

Families who feel they cannot provide the cost of lunch tickets for their children may make application for free lunches. An income scale is printed here to assist in determining eligibility for the lunches.

Applications for free lunches are available at school and will be acted upon within seven days after applications are submitted.

Persons who do not agree with the school's decision have the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing Ted Averitt at Hart Independent School. A copy of the hearing procedure is filed at the superintendent's office for anyone to read.

Students will be treated the same as other children and no one will know who is receiving free lunches and who is not.

Bob Price Writes

The House Rules Committee has voted to bring the proposed Constitutional Amendment, which prohibits forced busing, to the House floor for a vote.

I strongly support this amendment which is similar to one I have sponsored. I am opposed to busing of school children just for the sake of numerical balance dreamed up by some statistician.

Quality education took a back seat on the bus under this program and it is now evident that such a program destroys the concept of the neighborhood school and parental support for that school.

It has also become evident that using the color of a person's skin to determine assignment to a particular school is in itself discrimination.

There are those who argue that it takes too long to get two-thirds of the Congress to approve such a measure...too long to get three-fourths of the States to ratify. However, I feel as other parents do, that an amendment is the ONLY guarantee we have that the courts will not be running our schools.

This issue will come up for a vote within the next week... it is imperative that it pass. FEDERAL BUREAURACRY DECREASES

The number of persons on the Federal payroll is gradually decreasing under the Nixon administration. At a high of 2.6 million in 1969, the number of government employees now stands at 2.5 million.

This figure would decrease even more when the Nixon plan for reorganization to cut out duplication and overlapping is put into effect.

Thus far, however, the President has been stymied in this effort by an opposition-controlled Congress which continues to implement more federal agencies.

Castro Co. H.D. Agent

Last week I attended our State Agents Association meeting in Dallas and really enjoyed it. I'm glad to have a little time in the county again.

I'd like to say that we've had a slight misunderstanding about the names of two clubs and I'd like to get that cleared up. The Easter Club is Happy Helpers and Frio Club is Jolly Workers. Sorry about the confusion and I appreciate both clubs patience in getting this matter cleared up.

The 4-H Jr. Leaders Club did a good service Sunday afternoon when they collected hundreds of beer cans and bottles that were littering the local landscape.

Here is this month's landscape notes.

1. Plan now for next year's annual flowers. Make notes of the varieties that did well under your growing condition and those that need to be eliminated another year.

2. Zinnias and portulaca seeds planted now will produce color for this fall.

3. Gibberellic acid applied to camellias from August 15 to September 15 will force them to bloom earlier.

4. Dig, cure, and store gladiolus corms about eight weeks after they have finished flowering. Destroy any corms that show evidence of decay.

5. Move peonies if they have become too crowded. New plants may be set out from now through October. They are seldom productive south of Dallas. Plant them in rich soil, in full sun, placing the bud or eye from 1 1/2 to 2 inches deep.

6. Don't allow plants with green fruit or berries to suffer from lack of moisture. Hollies will frequently drop their fruit under drought conditions.

7. For fall vegetable garden, sow seeds now. Suggested plantings include seeds of beets, carrots, lettuce, mustard, radish and turnips.

8. Control powdery mildew on crepe myrtle in order to prolong the flowering season. Karthane as a spray or dusting with a fine grade of dusting sulfur will usually control the mildew.

9. Prepare beds now for September planting of Shasta Daisies, day lilies, and bearded iris.

10. Time to establish a new compost pile allowing the old one to decompose and be ready for use on flower beds.

11. Be on the lookout for interesting seed pods and foliage for fall and winter dried bouquets.

12. Check lawn and landscape plants for insects and follow recommendations given in L-199 for control.

13. Select and order spring flowering bulbs for planting next month.

14. Make arrangements for some one to look after the lawn and garden while you are on vacation.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

A burned child is not a pretty sight, and protection for children against some fabric burns is on the way, says the Texas State Department of Health.

A new law has just become effective which eventually will lead to the use of flame resistant material in children's sleepwear and children's outer clothing through size 14.

At this time, children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6x must be resistant to flames or have a warning placed on it that it is flammable. At the end of next July this clothing must be flame resistant.

The labeling option in sleepwear gives manufacturers a year in which to begin using flame resistant fabric, but on July 29, 1973, all children's sleepwear through 6x must meet the standard or not be sold, says the State Health Department.

Compliance date for larger sizes of sleepwear and outer garments will be announced in the future, and manufacturers will again be given 12 months to comply following the announcement. Also covered will be mattresses and protective pads.

Incident after incident in Texas point up the need for flame resistant fabrics. When a person's clothing ignites, there's more than a good chance that the person will be burned—sometimes horribly, sometimes fatally, but always painfully.

Burns in the United States are killing and crippling more people than polio did in its peak epidemic year in 1954. In 1954, about 50,000 persons contracted polio and 1,500 died of it. In contrast, according to National Safety Council figures, 6,700 persons died in fires and of burn injuries in 1970, and 250,000 suffered disabling injuries.

In clothing, says the State Health Department's Bedding and Product Safety Division, it is the quickigniting fabric which causes the greatest human losses. These soft fabrics, usually highly-flammable, are put into children's clothing as well as nightgowns and robes worn by adults. All too often the frills which decorate these fabrics burn rapidly, adding to the speed of ignition of the garment itself.

Experience has shown the need to protect our children—as well as adults -- and the sleepwear standards in the Texas Hazardous Substances Law are a breakthrough in solving this life or death problem in the state.

TOWER OF STRENGTH

Maybe you know her as Miss Lizzie or Granny Hill or Aunt Mary Jones. Through the years she's been a tower of strength in her community... helping with the sick, sharing with the poor... a friend to all.

She doesn't seem to worry about the future, just looks to the brighter side and is happy. You envy her, thinking she gets much out of life that you miss. Does she have a secret, a magic formula?

No, you can't say that her fellowship with God is a secret, for God is for everyone!

Would you like to possess some of her strength to look ahead, to face danger and conquer fear? The Church can help you reach this goal. All through the years it has strengthened mankind and helped him find the best in himself and in others.
