Ambulance Subsidy Passes

Santa Anna Voters Say No

Santa Anna voters were overwhelmingly against the ambulance subsidy but overall Coleman County voters decided last Saturday at the polls to pay a subsidy to help provide ambulance service in the county.

County Clerk Glenn Thomas said that 781 people voted for the subsidy while 449 voted against it.

In Santa Anna the count was 28 for the subsidy and 126 against. Rockwood and Burkett joined Santa Anna in voting against the subsidy. In Rockwood the vote was 9 for and 20 against. In Burkett the vote was 11 for and 19 against. All other areas of the county voted for the subsidy with the city of Coleman showing the strongest vote for, with a count of 484 to 178.

The vote at Gouldbusk was tied at 14 for and 14 against. Absentee votes were 90 for and 56 against.

County Judge Pete Skelton said "It sounds like the people want this, but I do wish we had a bigger turnout."

He added that the County Commissioners must now advertise for bids on ambulance service to cover the county. The Commissioners will probably draw up the bid at their August 10 meeting and select the company at their September 14 meeting, according to Judge Skelton.

The Commissioners scheduled the referendum after a public meeting July 13 in which many citizens expressed their desire for the subsidy.

The County Commissioners had been reluctant to pay a requested $5000 monthly subsidy to Ed Freeman, the owner of Coleman County Medical Services. He had been requesting the subsidy for several months because he said he was losing money.

The Commissioners had said that the subsidy could cause a future tax hike and Jimmy Eisenhower, owner of Santa Anna Funeral Home had said he could operate without a subsidy.

Freeman has indicated he will place a bid to provide the county ambulance service and Judge Skelton says he expects "several Santa Anna people to give us bids," and possibly others. One Ambulance service from Waco had earlier contacted Skelton.

Skelton added that if Eisenhower offers a bid that does not ask for a subsidy, "it would be hard to pass up if he meets the specifications."

WATERMELON ANYONE? Shown is a Tom Watson watermelon raised by Jim Elbert, left, and John Robert at the Elbert place just east of the San Angelo school. The watermelon measures 21 inches long and has a diameter of 14 inches. The two had no way to weigh the melon but guessed the weight to be between 60 and 100 pounds. The lush garden contained many other large cucumbers and vegetables. Notice the two just have a basket for growing things, maybe we could say they have that proverbial "green thumb".

MDA To Have Local Pledge Center

The annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day Telethon is scheduled for September 6th and 7th this year. For the first time in the history of the telethon, Santa Anna will have a local pledge center.

Art Fabrics located on main street (Wallis Ave.) in Santa Anna will be open both days of the event acting as the central pledge center location.

Jim Laubhan and Kelly Malaer will be coordinators. Area residents may either call or come by with their pledges. Art Fabrics will be working in conjunction with KATB Television studios in Abilene via a direct hotline to keep updates on pledges made by area residents.

Local organizations are asked to participate in at least one fund raising project prior to the telethon. Interested organizations may contact either Jim Laubhan or Kelly Malaer who have a list of ideas for fund raising activities.

Volunteers are also needed to man the phones during the two day event. Everyone is urged to volunteer for at least an hour of telephone work during the MDA telethon. Your name may be added to the list by calling or coming by Art Fabrics.

John James Audubon, the naturalist who made bird-watching one of the national pastimes, might have been a Texas citizen except for the negligence of the Congress of the Republic. Audubon, born in Santo Domingo in 1785, arrived in Galveston on April 24, 1837, to study birdlife on the island. Later he went of Houston where he captivated President Sam Houston and his cabinet. So taken were they with Audubon that they got a bill introduced in the Senate granting him Texas citizenship. However it was never reported out of committee and Audubon died in New York in 1851 without becoming a Texan.

The armadillo is the only animal other than man that regularly develops the disease of leprosy. Experts believe armadillos could have originally been infected through contact with humans.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

Jasper McClellan,
Presbyterian Church

Recently, I read a book, "What Did Jesus Say About That" by Stanley Baldwin. In a clear and concise manner, the author dealt with various subjects of real interest to Christians. What DID Jesus say about Faith, Money, Prayer, Marriage and Divorce, The Word Of God, His Return, Freedom and Obedience, and Sin and other subjects.

In the chapter on sin, the author made an analogy that is very helpful. He compared our mouths (speech) to the index of a textbook. If you want to know the subject matter of a book, by consulting the index you soon find out. The index, if properly compiled, will reveal the book's contents.

In like manner our speech reveals the contents of our heart. Jesus Said, "Out of the overflow of the heart, the mouth speaks" (Mt.12:34). Time after time we argue with Jesus' statement. We attempt to "justify" something we said on the grounds that we didn't really mean it. Our negative comments were not intended to hurt. Our smutty joke was really just to get a good laugh. For sure, our racial-ethnic joke was not indicative of our prejudice. All the idle words were just conversation fillers and the really unusual ones were merely Freudian slips. Profanity is used - just for emphasis.

Jesus said that we shall all give account of our idle words. He did not say we could make excuses. All of our words come from what is in our heart.

Mr. Baldwin tells about a very sharp-tongued young lady who tried to justify herself to her friend. "I guess I should not have said it, but if you only knew the aggravation I faced, you would surely understand." Her friend responded, "If you were carrying a pail of water, and someone jostled you, what would spill out?"

"Why, water, of course."

"And if you were carrying a pail of acid, and someone jostled you, what would spill out?"

"Why, acid, of course!"

The only thing that can ever spill out of your mouth, whether you are aggravated or not, is what you are carrying in your heart. The spilling may be someone else's fault; the content is yours.

What Jesus said is clear. Sin is an inward matter of the heart, and the best indicator of your heart's condition is your speech.

What we SAY really does tell others what we ARE, or ARE NOT!

Fannies Funnies

By Fannie Gilbert

"I AM A LUNATIC"

Oh, I am big and fat,
And I'm crazy as a bat
I sit and stare and
I pull my hair
Cause a lunatic is what I am

I like to pout and my tongue hangs out
I look like a fool as
I sit and drool
Cause a lunatic is what I am

I am so dumb that
I suck my thumb
I'm just a nut that
Stays in a rut
Cause a lunatic is what I am.

I know I'm lazy and
Oh so crazy
I'm big as a moose with
The brains of a goose
Cause a lunatic is what I am

You say I'm insane
You can say it again
I'm not all here but
I don't care
Cause a lunatic is what I am

Oh, a lunatic, a lunatic, it was the way I was born
A lunatic, a lunatic, but I don't give a damn
Cause a lunatic is what I am.

Food Labels: Good Health Information

Food labels, which can be a source of important information to consumers, can also be very confusing, especially these days. For example, you may wonder what a company means when it advertizes that its product is "lite" or "low calorie."

CONTENTS

What most labels do, of course, is inform consumers about package content. On most labels, the major ingredient, by weight, is required to be listed first, followed by the second most prominent ingredient, and so on. So, if you read a sugared cereal label and the first ingredient listed is sugar, you know that there is more sugar than anything else in the food. If wheat is listed first, then the product should contain more wheat.

LABEL CLAIMS

If you want to count calories, you should be aware of some Food and Drug Administration regulations about labeling. A food labeled "low calorie" should have no more than 40 calories in each serving. If the food is labeled "reduced calorie" it must contain at least one-third fewer calories than similar foods in which the calories are not reduced. The FDA also requires food to be labeled "imitation" if it is less nutritious than the product it is replacing.

The word "sugarless" can be used very deceptively, because it only means that the product contains no table sugar or sucrose. It may contain corn syrup, honey or sorbitol, all of which have at least as many calories as sucrose. If the product tastes sweet, check for ingredients like aspartame or saccharine to insure that the calorie count is really lower.

Words like "natural" and "organic" may make a product sound like it is better for you—and it may be. On the other hand, there is no legally recognized definition for these words, so you must look carefully at the rest of the label in order to determine whether one brand is really better than others.

FOR MORE HELP

If you need more information on nutritional labeling, you may contact the Food and Drug Administration, Office of Consumer Affairs, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD. 20857. If you need more help or information on consumer problems, contact your nearest Attorney General Consumer Protection Office (in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, and San Antonio). The Whitetail Deer, A Unique Animal

By Ray Bronk

The whitetails of Texas enjoy many evolved physical qualities which give them advantages not enjoyed by other members of the animal kingdom. Many of these qualities are shared by other species, but the wide range of unique qualities would be difficult to find in any other animal.

Some of these unique qualities are found at birth. The birth of a whitetail is rapid and apparently bloodless. This important to an animal when predators are near. During the birth process and immediately thereafter, the hair on the metatarsal gland on the rear hocks of the doe will stand erect, emitting a unique odor. If necessary, the doe can dash off, emitting this odor to attract predators away from the fawn. If left undisturbed, the doe will consume any birth residue, keeping the birth site odor free. The fawn is born free of odor. Dogs have been seen walking past newborn fawns without

Mother's Philosophy

By Patsy Wright

Look not down on those lesser than you.

Look not up to those who would lead you astray.

Look straight in the eye those who would put you down.

Look forward to what life is bringing your way.

Look outward for signs to guide you.

Look inward for strength to cope.

Look outside for help where you need it.

Look inside for warmth, love and hope.

Look up to those who have knowledge.

Look after those entrusted to your care.

Look everywhere for good works to do.

Look homeward when you have burdens to share.

Look neither left nor right when you're going straight.

Look up and over those hills to climb.

Look out for obstacles strewn in your path.

Look in and see the peace within.

Look over faults in those you love.

Look beneath the bed for the good inside.

Look back and see the footprints you've made.

Look upward always and with faith.

Texas Facts

The armadillo is the only animal other than man that regularly develops the disease of leprosy. Experts believe armadillos could have originally been infected through contact with humans.

swallowed to the second stomach, starting the digestive process. Another cud is then chewed, until all the stored food has been finally chewed and swallowed.

The whitetail can run extremely fast for short periods of time, but has little stamina for the long chase. It can usually outdistance a predator with a short burst of speed, then has been observed to stop and continue grazing, keeping a wary eye on its backtrail for any continued pursuit. When pursued for lengths of time, the deer has been observed to use cover and water to intelligently confound its pursuer. When cornered, its sharp hoofs are its usual weapon, with the antlers usually not used for defense. The antlers are used mostly during the rut, for pushing, shoving and intimidating, although some fighting bucks have gored their opponent to death.

The whitetail has sharp senses.

It has good eyesight for movement, although it cannot determine color with any great degree of success, and a motionless observer will usually not be detected by sight.

The hearing of the whitetail is superb. The snap of a twig is enough to start it running in flight. Because it relies upon its hearing for protection, the whitetail is uncomfortable and tense during windy conditions. It will usually hole up and wait for wind conditions to improve, since the noise of the wind covers up the sounds of danger.

The nose of the whitetail is extremely sensitive. Even masking scents such as skunk odor will not completely cover the scent of man, and many wary deer are able to pick up the scent and flee.

The whitetail shares some survival qualities with other members of the animal kingdom, although many of its qualities are unique. Few, if any, other animals on earth are endowed with as many protective qualities bestowed on them by nature.

Career Planning and Placement

The Office of Career Planning and Placement, a service of Student Development at Hardin-Simmons University, is available to assist all students and alumni of the university in planning, reviewing, and implementing career goals.

Dr. Paula Windham, BA '52, associate dean for student development and director of career planning; together with Donna Lehmann, assistant director of placement, provide professional assistance to all individuals interested in career services.

The placement office maintains informational files on each graduate that registers one with the office. The file contains background preparation, a resume, and references. "The office will maintain these files for 10 years from the last update. Also, we will keep it as long as the individual contacts the office occasionally with new information, recommendations and addresses," explained Windham.

Career counseling is also provided by the office. Windham meets with each freshman class to acquaint them with the services offered and to offer information and resources in regard to career choices. Interest inventories are also administered to those individuals who wish to focus on their specific areas of interest.

Windham praised the publication, COLLEGE PLACEMENT COUNCIL ANNUAL, which gives excellent assistance to individuals entering the working world. She stated, "I provide a copy for each senior each year. The Annual contains company profiles nationwide, along with the names and phone numbers of personnel officers or contacts."

In response to the current status of the job market, Windham claims, "I feel the job market's pretty sad right now. West Texas, in general, is in a depressed economic situation and the jobs are just not here. I think they will be here again, when, I do not know. It is extremely necessary for people to be willing to relocate." However, she added, "The Austin area, Ft. Worth-Dallas area and possibly the Beaumont, Port Arthur, and Orange areas are pretty good now in Texas."

Several companies personally interview on campus. The office attracts as many companies as possible to participate in on-campus interviewing. It also publicizes the interview to all related departments, letting them know the date, time, room, and makes available copies of the job prospect's file to interviewers. Twenty-five to 30 companies interview on campus annually. "Our office receives extremely positive comments on the quality of people hired from here," reports Windham. State Farm Insurance is one company that has returned to interview because they are will pleased with the people they have hired from HSU. Other companies include West Texas Utilities and Pride Refining. Brookshire Grocery Company hired its third graduate this summer.

The biggest drawback is getting companies to come interview at a smaller university. "For some companies it is not economically feasible, but for the companies who do interview, we receive positive comments on the quality and professionalism of the students interviewed," Windham also explained, "I feel the chances of our students getting hired looks as good for our graduates as for any graduate anywhere because of the positive experience companies have had with our graduates. The only problem is making contacts and getting the opportunities for them."

Areas highest in demand on the job market include accounting, computers, and engineering. The Department of Labor as well as private research firms suggest that the health care field is going to be an excellent field of employment. Another suggested industry is the personal service industries: travel, food service, hotel & motel management and tourism. Public relations is also beginning to look up as a career field.

The office is currently undergoing changes. The files and career information is being placed on computer programs. Also, a networking system with the alumni office is beginning. Plans include keeping in touch with former graduates and their areas of employment. When openings in these areas become available, the office can give current students a chance to apply.

In addition, beginning in the fall, the name of the placement office will change to Career Services. Windham explained, "I am excited about the proposed changes and networking. I feel it is necessary to update our office as the job field expands and changes."

The placement services are provided for you. Feel free to visit the office and update or begin your placement file.

The Moore Reunion

The descendants of the late Sam A. Moore and Nola Tarver Moore of Santa Anna, Texas, met for their annual family reunion at the Brownwood Lake.

The get together was July 31st-August 1st and 2nd, 1987, at the Lake Shore Lodge with 36 in attendance.

On Friday night everybody enjoyed a fish fry. Dale Hawthorn of Crane, Bob and Gerald Penny of Kansas, played guitars and entertained everyone.

After a delicious covered dish supper on Saturday night, the group got together and sang songs from the old song books that came from the Cleveland Church of Christ. A tape recording of the Moore family singing at the 1985 reunion was furnished by Ed and Ozella Moore of Tomball, Texas, and was really enjoyed by all.

The families dispersed shortly after the Sunday noon meal, as some had quite a distance to travel home. It was decided they would meet again, next year.

Those in attendance were Velda Mills, Louise Moore, Pete and Iona Moore, Edd and Ruby Hartman of Santa Anna, Ed and Ozella Moore of Tomball, Odell and Re Box of Brady, R. D. and Doris Penny of Robert Lee, Wayne and Helen Hawthorn of Crane.

Also Bob, Nancy and Deanna Penny of Olathe, Kansas, Gerald and Sharon Penny of Topeka, Kansas, Jim Box of Benbrook, Dale, Valerie, Annie and Kyle Hawthorn of Crane, Eddie, Mary Ann and James, Hartman, Stan and Judy Hartman from Santa Anna, Daryl, Cindy, Matthew and Shannon Boyle, Harry, Sandra and Stacy Walker of Bangs.

Texans seem to be opting for pickup trucks for transportation rather than a car. According to information provided by Detroit-based R.L. Polk Co., 39.36 percent of the 323,666 new cars and trucks registered during the first five months of 1987 were pickups and 39.9 percent of the new vehicles registered in Texas last May were pickups.

Ford eased out Chevrolet in the registration of new pickups in May, accounting for 23.8 percent of the new trucks registered to Chevrolet's 22.8 percent market share.

New car registrations in May were 35,940 units, down from the 47,438 registered in May 1986. Year-to-date new car registrations were down 21 percent from 1986 to 1987, 207 during the first five months of this year.

New truck registrations totaled 53,953 in May and 117,359 year-to-date.

Business Loans Available For Texas Rural Residents

Authority is available to guarantee loans for Texas rural residents for use in creating new business or expanding existing enterprises, J. Fynn Futch, FmHA State Director, said today.

"Although the Farmers Home Administration guarantees a loan made by a commercial lender, we are interested in the economic health of our rural communities and welcome inquiries about this program," Futch said. "Our business and industry program was created primarily to provide jobs in rural communities and towns up to 50,000 in population."

"There may be many people in rural areas of Texas who are not familiar with the opportunities available under the B&I program, especially the fact that we can guarantee loans for a variety of sizes of business, including family-size enterprises," he added.

"We are especially interested in anything we can do to help improve job opportunities for farmers who are trying to find new occupations."

Harold D. Kennedy, local County Supervisor, stated that inquiries have been increasing statewide about the guarantee program. He also stated that participation by a local or area bank or savings and loan association in an application of preapplication is essential.

Mr. Futch said information about the program can be obtained from the FmHA office located at 510 East Lee, Brownwood, Texas, telephone number (915) 643-1555.

Carrying On A Notorious Texas Name

By Ken Brodnax

(Editor's note: The following feature column appeared recently in the Odessa American and was sent to us to share with our readers. Ken Brodnax, who wrote the article, is a feature writer for that newspaper.)

Five-year-old Sean McLeish asked an age-old question the other day. Fresh from a visit to the Alamo with his father, Odessa attorney Michael McLeish, the youngster was shocked when a family trip took them through the Coleman County community of Santa Anna.

He wasn't the first to wonder why a Texas town would share a name with one of the most infamous characters in the state's history.

After all, Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, the dictator of Mexico and commander of his country's military forces during Texans' bid for independence, made heroes out of Crockett, Bowie and Travis by killing them at the San Antonio mission. Without Santa Anna's contribution, a lot of schools wouldn't have names.

Sean's father, who is an enthusiastic reader of history, couldn't explain the connection. He wasn't the first without an explanation.

In fact, many of the people who live in Santa Anna aren't sure how the name came about.

The community's postmaster, Gary Absher, himself a history buff, said, "As it turns out, Santa Anna the town is not named for the general. But that's a common misconception."

The name he pointed out, comes from the Santa Anna Mountains, which really fit the description of hills that lie near the town. And they got their name from an Indian chief.

But that's only the beginning. Absher said local legend has it that the town was to be named Satanta, after a rather notorious Indian who hid out in a cave on the largest of the hill and ambushed passing wagon trains.

But when the township's proposed name was sent to the proper authorities, it came back Santa Anna.

Indeed, there was a rascal named Satanta who did his share of terrorizing in West Texas.

But Roy D. Holt, writing in a 1966 book entitled, "Heap Many Indian Chiefs," said, "Pioneer residents of Santa Anna, in Coleman County, Texas, passed down the legend that the town had originally born the name Satanta but that postal authorities changed the name to Santa Anna. This story was told so long that it became accepted as fact. But the story is without fact, since there is not record of any sort associating the same Satanta with the locality."

Besides, Satanta may have been even more savage than Gen. Santa Anna. The Kiowa chief eventually was sentenced to life in prison for first-degree murder and committed suicide in 1878 by jumping from an upper story at the prison.

Author Holt, however, unearthed information that a Comanche chief was named Santa Anna. No one knows how the chief came to have the name, but it is believed he raided in northern Mexico during the time Gen. Santa Anna was in power. Also, there is speculation that he could have been named after an early Texas priest who was named Santa Anna.

History links that chief to the hills outside the current township.

In 1835, a party of surveyors was captured in Comanche territory and taken to the chief, who was camped in winter headquarters just south of the mountains that now bear his name. The surveyors were saved from execution by the grace of the chief.

According to Holt's research, Santa Anna traveled to Washington, D.C., after Texas obtained statehood and met with President James Polk as a representative of a number of Indian nations.

The chief apparently died within a day's ride of his favorite camping spot in those Coleman County

"mountains" that served as landmarks and sentinel points for soldier, Texas Rangers, surveyors, trail drivers and settlers.

And, as Holt wrote more than two decades ago, "The Santa Anna Mountains for well over a century have thus served as a natural monument to the Comanche chief—the white man wondering whence the name and idly conjecturing as to what manner of man would keep the name Santa Anna alive in Texas."

Texas Facts

The beauty who inspired the hit tune "San Antonio Rose" still lives in the Alamo City. In 1936, allured by the rose she always wore in her hair, her musician-husband, Robert Symonds, wrote the famous lyrics to his wife while sitting one day at their dining table. Four years later, Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys introduced the number, and it became one of the all-time country western hits. Symonds died in 1976. His 77-year-old "rose of San Antonio" still lives there and still wears that flower daily.

Getting Acquainted With City Employees

VICKI WRISTEN, SECRETARY FOR THE CITY OF SANTA ANNA. Vicki has been the City Secretary now for two years. Born and raised in Coleman, she is the former Vicki Laws, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Laws. She and her husband Lin have two small daughters. When she is not working or taking care of the children, Vicki and Lin like to spend their leisure time playing golf. As City Secretary, Vicki keeps minutes for the Council meetings and sees that they are recorded. She keeps tabs on bank accounts and gets everything in order for the accountant who does the detailed bookkeeping.

ALYS FELTON, BILLING CLERK, CITY OF SANTA ANNA. Alys is the daughter of Patsy and D.D. 'Tex' Wright. She is a graduate of Santa Anna High School where she was active in many school organizations. She is also a graduate of Central Texas Commercial College of Brownwood and has been employed by the city for about two months. Alys is an avid wrestling fan. As billing clerk, she is responsible for getting the water bills out each month and enters information into the computer. As time goes by the staff will hopefully be doing more of the bookkeeping and record keeping with the computer, lessening the need for outside accounting services.

Make Mexican Food "Light"

If you love Mexican food—but not the extra calories—try making "light" Mexican dishes at home, suggests a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service Nutritionist.

"Mexican foods served in restaurants and the prepared foods sold in grocery stores often contain a generous amount of fat," says Dr. Alice Hunt. "But by using lower-fat ingredients and alternate cooking methods you can make similar dishes with fewer calories."

She gives the following suggestions for adapting Mexican food recipes:

+For tamales or chile, use lean cuts of meat, or trim off all fat before cooking. Also remove the skin from chicken and trim fat before cooking for chicken tacos and chalupas or chicken with squash.

+When using ground beef, cook it the day before, refrigerate and then skin off the fat before reheating. Make your own chorizo with ground beef and spices, since the store-bought variety contains a great deal of fat.

+Use low-fat cheese in enchiladas, tacos, chalupas and chiles rellenos.

+Use vegetable oil rather than lard, and use as little oil as possible when scrambling eggs, cooking rice and fideo and refrying beans. Use chicken broth rather than oil to soften tortillas for enchiladas and other dishes.

+Avoid frying tortillas. Corn tortillas for tacos can be baked with the meat already in them and brushed lightly with margarine for a nice color. Brush tortillas lightly with margarine and bake for nachos or chalupas. For soft tacos, microwave the tortilla, then fill with a meat or bean mixture.

"The meat, beans and cheese in many Mexican foods are a good source of protein," Hunt says. "However, the meal may lack nutrients from fruits and vegetables."

To get a balanced meal, she recommends serving vegetables as a side dish or adding chopped vegetables to the main dish. This is also a good way to stretch the meat in fillings for tacos, enchiladas and other dishes.

A fruit salad or fruit for dessert will help round out the meal, adds the nutritionist.

Free Trees Given By Foundation

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free trees to each person who becomes a Foundation member during August, 1987.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

A Colorado Blue Spruce, White Flowering Dogwood, Pin Oak, White Pine, Red Maple, Birch, American Redbud, Silver Maple, Red Oak, and Sugar Maple tree will be given to members joining during August. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10. They will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions.

These trees were selected to provide benefits every season of the year: Lovely spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors, and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds, according to the Foundation.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to each member contributing $10 during August.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by August 31, 1987.

BAKED LOBSTER STUFFED WITH CRAB

- | | |
|--|------------------------------|
| 4 live lobsters | Milk |
| 1 pound crab meat | Dash of garlic powder |
| 16 Saltine crackers, crushed fine | Salt & white pepper to taste |
| 2 Tablespoons (1/4 stick) butter, melted | 4 thin slices Cheddar cheese |
| 1 Tablespoon dry sherry | |

Place lobster on its back; cut down with a sharp knife between body shell and tail segment to sever the spinal cord. Split lobster in half lengthwise. Remove the stomach, just back of the head, and the intestine that runs from stomach to tail, but leave in all else. Crack the claws. Preheat the oven to 400°F. Pick over crab meat. Add crumbs and mix with butter, sherry, enough milk to moisten, and season with garlic powder and salt and pepper. Stuff high, with as much dressing as possible in the body cavities and spread over the surface of tail meat. Place a half-slice of cheese over each. Bake for 20-25 minutes until lightly browned.
