4-Year-Old Rescued From Well

EL PASO (UP)—Four-year-old Susan Kay Najera escaped uninjured from 55 terror-filled minutes Friday night in the bottom of an eight-foot well.

Police dug a parallel hole two feet from the well shaft while her father comforted her, tunneled over to her and lifted her out. She was rushed to a hospital where an examination showed she was not injured.

Susan Kay fell feet first into the well while her father was filling it with sand. Her brother, Robert, saw her plummet out of sight and started crying.

Detective Philip Lopez, who lives in the neighborhood, organized rescue operations. Her father, Fernando, stood at the brink of the well and soothed her.

"Daddy, I've got sand in my eyes," she called out. "Close your eyes, honey," he said. "We'll have you out in a minute and I'll get some candy for you. Don't cry."

The problem was to keep the sandy soil from caving in and smothering her.

"We were lucky," Detective Preston Cook of the rescue crew said. "After we got down two and a half feet we hit sand but it held. We didn't have any slide trouble."
"God was really with us," Susan Kay's Uncle Charles Najera said.

Knife, Fork Club To Hear Dr. Spaeth

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, radio personality and author, will close the current Knife and Fork lecture series when he speaks at the Pampa group's banquet, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Travis Lively Sr., local president, anticipates a large gathering at Pampa High School for the affair.

Though dedicated to radio, Dr. Spaeth takes a few months off each year for his popular lecture tour. As past president of the National Association of American Composers and Conductors, he is well qualified to discuss the current trends and significance of music in the United States.

To make a point, Dr. Spaeth takes to the piano, one of the reasons his programs are always first rate.

As "Tune Detective" of the air, Dr. Spaeth has spent many years tracing the origin of popular music for the benefit of his fans. During intermission on the Metropolitan Opera broadcast, Dr. Spaeth can be heard on the panel of experts of the Metropolitan.

Dr. Spaeth has authored innumerable books on music, notably "The Common Sense of Music," "The Art of Enjoying Music," "Stories Behind the World's Great Music," "Barber Shop Ballads" and "Read 'Em and Weep."

He has some reputation as composer and lyricist and has made a hit on the lecture trail.

Fans say, "You have to see him to appreciate him," and "There's nothing long hair about Spaeth." Members can purchase tickets at Thompson Hardware up until Wednesday at 1 p.m.

election to a second term. Alvis-Vandygriff, 47-year-old Austin attorney, announced his candidacy with a blast at "indecisiveness and lack of leadership in our state's highest office."

Daniel will learn Monday night whether he will gain another opponent, a major one, in the person of Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Holding his political cards close to his vest, Yarborough was scheduled to return to Texas Saturday night from Washington amid mounting speculation over whether he will seek re-election or run for governor.

Yarborough announced Friday in Washington that he will reveal his political intentions in a radio speech Monday night.

But even his own son, Richard—running his father's Austin law office in the Senator's absence—said he didn't know what his father will say.

"He hasn't told me what he is going to do, I'm sure he has made up his mind, but I doubt if he has revealed it to anybody," the younger Yarborough said.

Already announced as Democratic candidates, in addition to Daniel, are Joe A. Irwin, a Dallas insurance and real estate man and Don Booker, an Orange insurance underwriter and former active Republican, who charged the GOP "deserted me."

Vandygriff, a lanky six-foot, four-inch tall, served almost eight years as chief clerk of the General Land Office, and was the first executive secretary of the Veterans Land Board when that agency was created in 1949.

Vandygriff quit his state post in 1950 to open his own law office in Austin, and until 1953 served as general counsel for the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

Jaycees To Sponsor Rodeo Today

Forty Pampa, Canadian and Miami students will drive in the Pampa Jaycees' Annual Teen Age Rodeo, starting at 2 p.m. today on Atchison, west of Starkweather across from the Plains Creamery.

Four judges will score the contestants on their driving ability. The winner will receive a $25 War bond.

Students who have either their driver's license or permit can still enter the Rodeo by showing up at the starting line to take the written test.

Clyde Dickerson, Rodeo chairman, advises students who have not taken the test to bring their parents to the starting line so that officials can get the parents' signatures and administer the test.

The participants in the Jaycees' safe driving contest will demonstrate a wide variety of driving skills as, one by one, they follow the specially set up course.

Judges will be Terry Cully, Pampa High School driver training instructor; Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Pampa Sub District of the Texas Highway Patrol; Chief of Police Jim Conner; and Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan.

The winner here will go on to the Jaycees' Regional Rodeo and if he gets as far as the National contest will receive a Jaycee scholarship.

The Rodeo is open to both boy and girl drivers but more girls have registered so far.

DeMolay Day Observance Is Tuesday

On DeMolay Civic Day Tuesday, the boys of the Pampa DeMolay Chapter will take over the City and County offices, in an honorary capacity, for the day. The boys will get their jobs in much the same way as the men who hold public office as they are elected by popular vote.

Dickie James will fill the office of mayor, Ralph DePee, commissioner for ward 1; Robert Collette, ward 2 commissioner; Gene Shirley, ward 3 commissioner; and Pat Carter, commissioner for ward 4.

Teddy Mastin will take over as City Manager with Larry Bohlander, City engineer; Clay Byerly, water and sewer superintendent; Jack Williams, sanitation superintendent; Terry Joe Haralson, street superintendent; Jerry Carlson, tax assessor and collector; Bobby McCain, electric and plumbing inspector; Winton Edd Rowtree, chief of Police; Jimmie Crouch, assistant chief of Police; Gary Dalton, Darrell Kirble and Grant Cambren, policemen; Norman McElrath, Fire chief; Harold Burgess, assistant Fire chief and George Wilson, Terry Niemeier, Joe Robinson and Robert Wood, firemen.

Taking over at the Court House will be Charles Reed as County Judge; Rodney Strawn, John Wagener, Gary Hackely and John Cecil Carter from commissioner precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4; Rocky Fide as county attorney; Corky Cambren, treasurer and auditor; David Parker, sheriff; Bobby Conley and Kenneth Cambren, deputies; Allen Wise, constable; Milton Lynn Saltman, tax assessor; Duke Garren and Robert Sidwell, justices of the peace; and Joel McElrath, county clerk.

The Pampa DeMolay Chapter is sponsored by the local Scottish Rite Masons and meets every Monday in the Masonic Hall. Winton Edd Rowtree is master counselor; Elmer Radcliff is Chapter dad.

Following DeMolay Civic Day, the boys will hold their annual Sweetheart Dance to the music of the Mellow Aires. The dance will take place at St. Matthew's Parish Hall Friday, under the sponsorship of the DeMolay Mothers' Club.

The Pampa Rainbow Girls will be in charge of decorations and refreshments assisted by the mothers of the Club. Guests will be the DeMolay Chapters from Borger and Dumas. All DeMolays, Rainbow Girls and their guests will attend. Admission will be by invitation only and no admission will be charged.

Others on the program are Bill W. Waters, District Attorney, and Mrs. Jack Foster, Business-Employees Division co-chairman.

Dr. Wunder is a Commander in the Naval Reserve and is a veteran of World Wars I and II. He is a nationally known specialist in human and public relations and began his career as a social worker in Cincinnati and in New York City. He has lectured from coast to coast several times and is a former executive vice president of the Hollywood Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. As a life-long friend of the late Dale Carnegie, he assisted Mr. Carnegie in establishing classes in human relations and effective public speaking in many cities and states. He has met many national figures in debate including Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Norman Thomas, Clarence Darrow and others. He is listed in "Who's Who in America." His topic will be "Can Pampa Afford Not to Have a Youth Center?"

The dinner will be served promptly at 7 p.m. A program of organ music will be given by Maxine Milliron. Johnny Campbell, general campaign director, has announced that there will be no funds solicited at the dinner. "The purpose," he stated, "is to inform our citizens of the need and to urge their cooperation so that soon the greatly-needed Youth Center will be a reality, and in use every day and night by the young people of our city."

Friday, Campaign chairmen and can be no compromises on—or retreat from—the essentials of this legislation.

Touches Off Action
An hour earlier, McElroy had told newsmen here that "there will be no retreat in our effort to achieve, through adoption of the President's proposals, a modernized defense establishment capable of meeting the necessities of our time."

The flurry of unusual Saturday action came after McElroy's testimony before the House committee Friday had been widely interpreted as opening the way to a compromise.

He tried to smooth over sharp conflicts with the congressional committee by proposing to work out some re-wording of the new law.

This conciliatory attitude, the Eisenhower and McElroy statements said Saturday, should not be confused with compromise.

"While the secretary of defense properly has not insisted on rigid adherence to words and phraseology," the Augusta White House statement said, "he has confirmed to the President that no changes in the meaning of any feature of the modernization program has been implied by any testimony of his."

The statements, coupled with strong opposition stands taken by strong congressmen, guaranteed a major fight in which Congress holds the top card—the final law-making authority.

Predict New Bill
Members of Rep. Carl Vinson's Armed Services Committee brushed aside earlier threats by the President to take the fight to the people. Several of them said flatly today that the Eisenhower program will be scrapped as "unacceptable" and a milder set of changes written.

"It will have to be a new bill," said Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.). "There are too many things in this one that look like things we've turned down in the past."

On five major points and many minor ones, the majority on Vinson's 37-man committee has not yet been sold. Opposition has centered around claims the President's plan would:

—Make the nation's security too dependent upon a few men, by concentrating too much power and responsibility in the hands of the defense secretary and the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

—Give too great authority over the 40 billion dollar defense budget

Dr. Wunder Speaker For Center Dinner

Dr. Clinton Wunder of Fort Worth will deliver the principal address at the Pampa Youth and Community Center dinner to be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Palm Room of City Hall.

Dr. Joe R. Donaldson, president of the Center Board of Directors will be the toastmaster. The invocation will be by Rev. Woodrow Adcock and the benediction by Father Otto Meyer.

Invitations have been mailed to all the leaders and workers in the current campaign, to all local clergymen and to many other citizens.

Others on the program are Bill W. Waters, District Attorney, and Mrs. Jack Foster, Business-Employees Division co-chairman.

Friday, Campaign chairmen and workers held a report meeting in City Hall. New pledges of $3,573 boosted the Building Fund to $152,180.

The Center Board of Directors will sponsor a ground-breaking ceremony on the site of the new Youth Center next Sunday.

The Divisions will not meet for reports until Thursday, in the Palm Room, at 10 a.m.

'Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up' Due

The Spring Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Campaign, sponsored by the City of Pampa and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee, starts Monday and will run through May 15.

The Campaign will be carried on by City trucks with the cooperation of all residents of the City's four wards.

Homer Craig, Fire Prevention head, requests all Pampans to place their trash and debris in the alleys so that the trucks can pick it up.

Coupled with the spring clean up is a rat eradication campaign, sponsored by Ralph Thomas, Gray County agent. Thomas invites property owners to his office in the Gray County Court House to pick up some highly effective rat and mouse bait.

The Clean Up will begin in Ward 4 and go through the other three wards. Pick up dates are:

Ambassador, Minister Talks Are Rejected

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia Saturday rejected a Western demand that Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko meet jointly and immediately with United States, British and French ambassadors to break the East-West deadlock on a summit conference.

Officials said the rejection, announced by the State Department, added to doubts here that Russia is interested in a heads-of-government conference that would lead to fruitful negotiations.

The Soviet action came as diplomatic sources reported this country has told its allies it will decide by May 5 whether it will agree to a modification of the Western Disarmament plan.

The big question is whether the United States is ready to split the Western package plan and agree to halt nuclear testing without insisting on other disarmament steps at this time.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said Russia's rebuff of the West's latest summit proposal was contained in a note delivered to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson in Moscow Saturday morning.

Embassy Reports Rejection
The text had not been received here when White made the disclosure. But he said a preliminary message from the embassy "indicates the Soviets have rejected our proposal of April 24 designed to facilitate progress toward making adequate preparations for a summit meeting."

The United States, Britain and France asked Gromyko, in effect, in a terse note delivered Thursday to quit stalling on summit preparation talks.

It called on him to start holding joint meetings with the three Western ambassadors. He has been calling them in individually for "separate interviews."

The Big Three also demanded an immediate start of the joint meetings and said the preliminary discussions should concentrate on matters to be included in a summit conference agenda.

Dulles Summons Advisors
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles held an extraordinary two-hour meeting with top advisers at his home Saturday to discuss the disarmament issue.

The State Department said the meeting was designed "to carry forward the continuing review of our disarmament policy."

White declined to say whether any decisions were made. He said the group discussed "disarmament generally" but would not say whether they concentrated on specific points.

In its Thursday note, the West had told Gromyko that his insistence on talking with the Big Three ambassadors separately (See Meeting, Page 3)

JOHNNY CAMPBELL
... in Demo Primary

State Post Is Sought By Pampa Man

Johnny Campbell, Pampa insurance man, announced his intention Saturday of entering the State Democratic Primary on July 26 as candidate for the office of State Representative from the 8th district.

In his general statement, Campbell gave six points that would govern his actions in the Legislature.

"I am entering this race for the sole purpose of representing the people of Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth Counties in Austin," Campbell stated. "I will apply myself diligently to this assignment if elected and in accordance with this will base my campaign and my future actions on certain fundamental principles. These are:

"1. Government should be of laws, rules or principles and not people. Men should be instruments of government guided by principles.

"2. Texas should take the lead in restoring state rights through exercising strong and able state government. The best government is that nearest to the scene of the governed.

"3. Freedom (Economic, Political, Academic, Religious) are in one bundle. One cannot be surrendered without jeopardizing the others.

"4. Moral restraint is still a more powerful control than legal restraint. Passing more laws (legal restraint) is not always the right answer to solving our problems.

"5. Economic justice can best be won by free men through a free enterprise system.

"6. There are many necessary government expenditures but not all are sacred. Relating spending to equitable and reasonable taxation is necessary to prevent ultimate confiscation of property and incomes.

"These are principles by which I will live, vote and crusade as your State Representative. These are principles by which you can hold me accountable in performing the duties of this office.

"I will appreciate the opportunity to discuss my candidacy for this office with any individual or group in the area," commented Campbell.

A Navy veteran of World War II, Campbell was employed as a research engineer by the Cabot Company for four years and has been a partner in the Panhandle Insurance Agency in Pampa for the past five years.

He has served on the Board of Directors of the Pampa Kiwanis and Optimist Clubs, Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce, the Pampa

Clatterbaugh In Commissioner Race Here

L. T. "Tom" Clatterbaugh, Pampa builder, said Saturday that he would enter the political race for Gray County Commissioner from Precinct 2. Clatterbaugh said he will make his platform public at a later date.

A commercial and industrial builder, Clatterbaugh has been in the construction business 30 years. For the past 15 he has worked in Pampa and before that in Borger.

Clatterbaugh has a family of two, who he says are both grown. His home is at 736 Deane Drive, Precinct 2 in Pampa and vicinity.

Trading Picks Up In Stock Market

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — The stock market during the past week absorbed a mountain of adverse financial and business news with nothing more than momentary hesitation in a broad advance.

Trading picked up sharply with daily average volume at its best since the week ended Jan. 3. Industrial shares set a new high since March 11, rails set a top since Oct. 30, 1957, and utilities reached their best level since Oct. 4, 1950.

Bad news included sharply reduced income reports for leading steel and automobile companies, some dividend cuts, further dips in auto output and steel production, and a poorer-than-expected aid plan for the railroads.

Most of these had been anticipated and hence had been discounted. There were many items on the favorable side to shift the balance to the bulls.

D.J. Average Up
These included a statement by President Eisenhower that the recession was slowing down, optimistic statements from steel, electrical equipment and auto executives, firmer copper prices, a rise in machine tool orders, lowering of prime interest rates, and some excellent earnings reports plus a few dividend increases by consumer industries companies.

The Dow-Jones industrial average closed at 454.92, up 5.61 points on the week and within 3.71 points of its 1958 high of 458.65 set Feb. 4. Rails closed the week at 111.52, up 1.34 points and only 0.08 away from the high since last Oct. 30 set on Monday of this week. The utility average at 77.38 was up 1.02 points.

The market rose in each session except Tuesday when moderate realizing brought prices down a bit. On Wednesday the dip continued but industrials and utilities came back and closed higher with rails recovering from their lows. Rails were hit that day by disapproval over the administration's relief plan which was seen as too little in the way of real aid.

The worst report of the week was Chrysler's which showed a first quarter net loss of more than 15 million dollars against $5.34 a share profit in 1957. Ford's net was down to 42 cents from $1.85 last year. Bethlehem Steel showed net of 52 cents for the quarter against $1.18 a year ago and Jones & Laughlin's net fell to 37 cents from $1.19 in 1957.

American Motors Improved
The steel companies retained their dividends even though they were not earned. Chrysler cut its dividend to 25 cents from 75 cents. Aluminum Limited and Electric Auto Lite cut their dividends and Pennsylvania Railroad omitted its dividend for the second quarter. Chesapeake & Ohio declared the regular. Consolidated Edison and Standard Brands raised their payments.

American Motors issued a highly favorable report—earnings of more than 7 million dollars contrasted with a loss of more than 5 million dollars a year ago.

American led the market in volume with sales of 585,800 shares, set a new high at 12 1/2 and closed the week at 11 1/2 up 10 points. General Motors gained 1 1/2 points and Ford 1/2 while Chrysler lost 1 1/2 points.

Steels had gains ranging from nearly 4 points in Youngstown, American Smelting rose nearly 3 in a firm copper group. Oils generally showed gains ranging to more than 3 in Honolulu. Consolidated Edison, up more than 3, and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, up 2, touched new highs in the utilities.

Chicken Feed To Farmer Was Excess To US

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (UP) — It was chicken feed to poultryman Stanley Yankus of Dowagiac, but to the government it was wheat grown in excess of the federal quota.

Yankus, 39, was penalized $3,848 because he exceeded the wheat acreage allotments set by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for the past four years. He refused to pay.

The government Friday took the first step to collect the penalties by seizing Yankus' $3,400 checking account at the Dowagiac National Bank.

Now Yankus has another problem. Shortly before the government action, he wrote a $767 check for chicken feed and he's not sure that the check cleared through his account.

Yankus contends the agricultural regulations violate his constitutional rights. He said all wheat produced on his 100-acre farm was fed to his laying flocks.

YOU... and YOUR HOME

PLACE AND SHOW

What is it that makes one room stand out while other rooms equal, or more expensively furnished seem just run-of-the-mill? We've come to the definite conclusion that the answer to this question word individuality.

is to be found in one simple word—individuality.

How is individuality achieved in a room plan? By expressing your own personality — by choosing what you like of the furniture of different periods and combining this furniture with colors and fabrics that please you most to create a room setting that expresses you and suits the way you live today.

Today's smart homemakers find no satisfaction in the slavish copying of the periods of the past — even good ones. They prefer home decor that expresses their own time and place.

Unmistakable charm and individuality are evident in the sitting room sketched above. While the furnishings are slightly reminiscent of the past, the colors and treatment of the room as a whole are of today.

Color scheme is composed of subtle, soft grey and vibrant strawberry, red. The large areas—walls, draperies and carpet — have been kept to one soft shade of grey. Against the neutral, almost understated background, the strawberry red chairs have been placed to show up dramatically. Mahogany wood tones add a rich touch.

Jakarta that Solok fell Thursday afternoon after central government forces had been closing in on it from three directions.
Rebel army Commander Col.
Achmad Hussein had moved his headquarters to Solok when the central government invasion force captured the seaport of Padang.
Pirngadie said Sjafruddin narrowly escaped capture when he unknowingly drove into the town of Allahanpandjang Thursday, the day after it had fallen into central government hands.
Allahanpandjang is 20 miles south of Solok.
Pirngadie said Sjafruddin was in a convoy of four automobiles.
Loyalist troops captured all four vehicles and three of the rebels, he said. Three others were killed and three wounded but the rest escaped with Sjafruddin, apparently on foot, he said.
He said two rebels were killed and 18 wounded in the battle of Solok. No loyalist casualties were mentioned.
He said two columns from the Solok and Lubuk Djambi areas had set out to capture Batusangkar, where the rebel cabinet was reported to have taken refuge.
Another arm of the loyalist forces was reported within 12 miles of the rebel capital of Bukit-tingi.
There were widespread reports in Singapore, supported by some rebel sources, that the revolutionary high command was planning to move its regiment to Menado,
North Celebes.
Some of the reports said the rebel leaders had already fled to Singapore.
The North Celebes rebellion is being led by Lt. Col. Ventje Sunual and is supported by planes which the rebels of central Sumatra do not have.

MIGHTY HAPPY

"Mighty happy" with her new American parents is Jeanine (center) daughter of Master Sergeant and Mrs. J. M. Messinger. Charming French Girl Daughter Of Pampans

By RONNIE CROSS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Charming, pert, and very cute are words which describe little Jeanine Messinger, newly adopted French daughter of Master Sergeant and Mrs. J. M. Messinger. Jeanine, 10 years old, sandy haired and brown eyed, was adopted by the Messingers while he was stationed at Chambley Air Force Base which is near Metz, France. They became acquainted

AMERICANS WIN, LOSE

PALERMO, Italy (UP) — Greg Grant of Los Angeles and Paul Cranis of Brooklyn, N.Y., won a first-round doubles match in the Palermo International tennis tournament Thursday, but Dick Leslie of Battle Creek, Mich., and his partner were eliminated. Grant and Cranis defeated G. E. Maggi and George Tacchini of Italy, 6-2, 6-4. Leslie and Emanuele Cascini of Italy bowed to Orlando Sirois and Nicola Pietrangeli, 7-5, 6-4.

when Jeanine and her French playmates visited in their home and Mrs. Messinger and Jeanine began to teach each other their own languages.

Adoption in France is a rather long and drawn out thing. First it is necessary to get the consent of the French parents. Twice after the French parents had decided to give Jeanine up to the Messingers they decided they could not go through with it, but knowing that there was little future for the girl in France they decided it would be for the best of the child to give her up. After they signed the papers before a Notary Public, it became final, but to make it legal the Messingers had to hire a French lawyer who in turn took it through the courts. It was also necessary to publish it in a French newspaper so the French people will know about it.

The parents adopting a French child also have to meet certain requirements. They must have been married for at least 10 years, one or the other of the parents had to be at least 35 years old, they had to have no children of their own, and they were thoroughly investigated by a French General.

When she was adopted, Jeanine could speak hardly any English, and by the time she started to school she could speak the English language well enough not to have any difficulty with the American lessons. Jeanine is a straight A student in Lamar Grade School, where she is in the fifth grade. She says her favorite subject is spelling and while in France she won a spelling bee at the Air Force Base. Her "least favorite" is fractions. Her dislike for this subject is because she was ill at the time it was taught in France and she is a little behind because of this, but seeing how very alert a child she is, no doubt she will catch up very quickly. Favorites of hers are American food, fried chicken and French fries; French food, steak, French fries, and green salad; Western movies in the way of television programs; and her favorite comic strip is Joe Palooka. It seems Jeanine is a typical American.

While on the boat bound for America, after little Jeanine had been finally adopted by the Messingers, other passengers found it hard to believe that Jeanine wasn't American. One of the main reasons for this was that Mrs.

Messinger was teaching her to speak English without a French accent and now Jeanine has no French accent at all.

The first thing Jeanine wanted to do upon reaching America was to go to the top of the Empire State Building. She says she likes almost everything about America. It seems that in France the French girls wear the same thing day in and day out and to keep their clothes from getting soiled they wear aprons over the dress. It is plain to see why Jeanine loves the American way of dressing children.

Jeanine took piano lessons while in France twice a week and her entire family is somewhat musical and she is learning very quickly to master the piano. She plans to continue her lessons in America.

Jeanine is also a Girl Scout. She hasn't joined a troop as yet in Pampa but hopes to very soon. Master Sergeant Messinger has already taken the time to start teaching Jeanine to drive a car and says she should someday be a very good driver.

Jeanine is a little undecided about what she intends to do after finishing school, but like any other ten-year-old has some very good ideas. Here are some of the things she named: Airline hostess, interpreter, and professional pianist; and after talking to Jeanine it is easy to imagine her being a success no matter what she decides to do.

Mrs. Messinger said that she firmly believed that they had a mission to accomplish when they were first sent to France, and now she is certain that Jeanine is the reason that they were sent. She believes it was God's will that they adopted Jeanine because it seemed that everything seemed to be ready and waiting for them when they got to France.

Of course, one of the first things they plan to do is to make Jeanine a citizen of the United States and it's evident the U.S. would do well to have many citizens like her.

'THE SHEEPMAN'

Glenn Ford and Shirley MacLaine team romantically in M.G.M.'s "The Sheepman," unusual action-Western with a comedy slant, filmed on locations in the Colorado Rockies. It's the story of a man who uses both his nerve and wit in a successful attempt to bring his sheep into hostile cattle country. The movie, in an all-southwest premiere, is showing at the LaNora Theater Sunday through Wednesday.

Berle Is Secretly Delighted Over 'Emmy' Show Hubub

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Milton Berle, bombarded from all sides for his alleged "heat" of last week's Emmy show, escaped to movieland to talk about a new TV series while his detractors continue to blame him for lousing up the big award program.
Needed by Steve Allen, Jack Benny and Eddie Cantor during the show, and by scores of other performers since, Berle is resigned to his role of scapegoat. Uncle Miltie says Ed Sullivan, Danny Thomas and Phil Silvers delayed proceedings as much as he did.
NBC backs up the unemployed comic. The network says the show was 14 minutes behind schedule before Milton began hamming it up. Berle's material was 2 1/2 minutes too long — and everyone agrees the show would have been a shambles even if he had run 2 1/2 hours long.
While the controversy rages, Berle is relaxing on the golf course, secretly delighted with the storm he has stirred up.
"I'm really enjoying myself," he said.
"No one's to blame for what happened on that Emmy show. But I must admit I was surprised to get blasted by some people I considered close friends. This is a tough, competitive business, though, and a performer can't be too sensitive."
Miltie's success on the much-debated award splash has resulted in several TV offers—which is what his critics claim he was seeking.

"The Kraft Theater" people have given me a firm offer to begin a half-hour comedy show next fall with a 30-week guarantee," he said. "I haven't decided whether to take it."
It's possible Berle may choose to make occasional appearances as he did this year—a total of three.
How can he afford to brush off big money offers?
"Very simple," says he. "Under my long-term contract to NBC I earn $100,000 a year whether I work or not. I'm in no hurry to get back on the air."
All of this may sound pretty complicated because it was. To a great extent, it was just too big a lump for a 90-minute show to chew. The development of the characters of the jurors was, of necessity, kind of skimpy and the relationship between the mother and her attorney was a little hazy.
Yvonne De Carlo as the mother turned in a pretty crisp job.

Court Drama Was Moderately Compelling On 'Playhouse 90'

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Courtroom drama is a natural for TV. The action takes place in a tight arena, the conflict between prosecutor and defender is grasped as easily as the battle between good man and bad man in Westerns.
Thursday night, CBS-TV's "Playhouse 90" unpackaged a 90-minute murder trial, "Verdict of Three," that was moderately compelling. It was one of those very English things about a mother accused of murdering her little boy so she could get her mitts on his inheritance. Now listen, lady, don't ask me why the boy had money. It's much too complicated to go into here.

Anyway, the concern of "Verdict of Three" was not only the trial of the mother, but also the personal entanglements of three members of the jury. Through flashbacks, the drama showed how each of the trio related portions of the courtroom testimony to his own life and ultimately, to a decision to find the mother guilty.
A weird little trio they were, too. One had bumped off her aunt for money, another had seen her husband beaten to death by hoodlums and had her marbles juggled by the event, the third was a 2-year-old boy who sponged off his mother.

I say "seem'd" because at this end of the line about nine vital minutes of the show's sound was swallowed up by technical troubles. The sections of the show that did manage to bust through were of medium interest although a domestic conflict that worked into the plot was unnecessary cargo.
It had to voice any real objection to the hour it would be a mild one — it all seemed very much like a one-hour plug for the sponsor of "Climax" whose missile division in Detroit figured prominently in the plot. I thought that in return for the whopping plug the sponsor at least could have cut out the regular commercials.

Police Admit Drive Is 'Flop'

PARIS (UP) — City police frankly admitted today that their five-month-old "drugged grain" campaign to rid Paris of its pigeon nuisance was a total flop.
Thousands of drowsy pigeons which had nibbled grain soaked in a special sleeping potion were gathered up and released in areas far from the city.
But practically all the birds—recognized by bands attached to their legs—are back at their favorite roosting spots in Paris, police confessed. It is illegal to kill them.

Fred Coe will produce a live two-hour version of Ernest Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls" next season. Mike Stokey, producer of ABC-TV's "Pantomime Quiz," is pitching a couple of other panel quizzes at the ad agencies. CBS-TV is considering nighttime versions of "Dotto" and "The Verdict Is Yours," both of which are racking up good daytime ratings.
Mike Wallace taped an interview with author Aldous Huxley on Wednesday night — he'll air it on ABC-TV in May. Mike plans to tape record sessions with Cyrus Eaton and William Douglas on May 3 in Washington. The auto sponsor who is dropping the ABC-TV "Patrice Munsel Show" has signed on for eight one-hour Bob Hope shows on NBC-TV next season.

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

Foreign News Commentary
United Press Staff Correspondent
The week's good and bad news on the international balance Soviet Union.
The United States and Soviet Russia tangled in arguments on three diplomatic fronts this week. Russia charged in the United Nations that American nuclear-weapon planes were endangering peace by flying over the Arctic in proximity to the borders of the Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a letter to President Eisenhower, rejected American proposals for a study of possible disarmament controls. He again called on the United States to follow Russia's example and suspend tests of nuclear weapons. He also complained bitterly of the threat which American air bases in foreign countries present to the Soviet Union, as well as of the Arctic flights.
The United States, Britain and France called on Russia to get down to business if it really wants a summit conference on world issues.
The three Western allies asked that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko start four-man talks with their ambassadors in Moscow on preparations for the summit conference. They insisted also that the ambassadorial talks must include the substance of East-West issue which might be discussed at the summit conference, not merely physical arrangements for it. Gromyko had received the envoys separately last week, trying to avoid detailed discussions of cold war issues.

Russia suffered a severe defeat in the U.N. in its complaint that American Artie-flyer planes endangered peace.
Eight of the 11 members of the Security Council supported the United States in rejecting the complaint. Sweden took no stand. This Russia, the 11th member, was isolated. Faced with certain defeat, Soviet delegate Arkadiev Sobolev withdrew the complaint.

when the National Assembly rejected Premier Felix Gaillard's conciliatory North African program.
Popular Republican Georges Bidault, who favors a tough policy, was called on first. He failed to get the support of even his own party, and gave up.
Coty next called in Rene Pleven, of the UDSR (Resistance) Party, who favors a policy of compromise.
President Tito of Yugoslavia enraged the Russians by proclaiming anew his insistence on complete freedom from Kremlin domination.

Thygerson Top Man At Relays

Alton Thygerson, Pampa High School's 100 and 220 yard dash man, scored first place wins in both events yesterday at the Red Raider Relays in Lubbock. Thygerson was also high point man at the meet with 20 points. His time in the 100 was 9.8, running against the wind, and 21.7 in the finals of the 220. However, Thygerson was credited with setting a new record in the 220 with a time of 21.3 in the preliminaries. There were 60 schools at the relays and approximately 250 boys.

Drake Relays See Collegiate Record

By ED SAINSBURY United Press Sports Writer DES MOINES (UP)—Jim Grellie of Oregon scampered to a new collegiate mile record for the Drake Relays Saturday, upsetting Australian Alex Henderson with a spurt in the last 220 yards for a time of 4:07.9.

Grellie's clocking broke the record of 4:10.7 set by Deacon Jones of Iowa for collegiate competitors in the Drake program last year. He was the underdog to Henderson, who Friday set a new collegiate record of 8:51.3 for the two-mile.

Henderson Sets Pace Henderson set the pace for the first three quarters, but Grellie, whose best this year was 4:05.7 indoors, never was worse than fourth. He moved into second place on the third lap and then passed Henderson with half a lap to go.

From then on his finishing kick simply widened the margin and he had a 10-yard advantage at the tape. Henderson, too, broke the old record with a time of 4:09.4. Grellie's performance, in 45-degree temperature before a crowd of 15,000, stood out even though one other individual meet record and two relay records were broken.

Jack Smyth of Houston, one of two defending individual champions to retain a crown, set a new hop, step and jump mark with 48 feet 9 1/2 inches. He held the old mark of 48 feet 5 1/2 inches, attained last year.

Relay records fell to Howard Payne with a time of 7:39.4 in the college two-mile relay and to Tennessee A&I with 1:25.6 in the college half mile relay. Arizona State held the old two-mile mark, a tenth of a second slower, while North Texas State had the half-mile record of 1:25.8.

Wheeler Wins Again Wheeler of Iowa City, a former University of Iowa runner, repeated as victor in the invitational mile, but his time was 4:11.1, compared to 4:06.9 which he registered a year ago.

Ira Murchison, Western Michigan, won the 100-yard dash in 0:09.5, a tenth of a second off the record, while Bob Henry, Minnesota, took the shot put with a toss of 55 feet 9 inches. Burke Parker, Texas, took the javelin with a throw of 224 feet 5 inches, while there was a three-way tie at 14 feet 4 inches in the pole vault between Ed Boyle, Marquette, Arizona State, Ron Mitchell, Illinois, and Bertil Holmgren, Southern Methodist—leaped 6 feet 6 inches.

One of two defending champions, Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas, was dethroned in the high jump when three men—Jim Whetstone, Arizona State, Ron Mitchell, Illinois, and Bertil Holmgren, Southern Methodist—leaped 6 feet 6 inches.

Texas' touted relay teams came through in only two events, taking the university mile in 3:11.9 and the distance medley in 9:57.8. The Longhorns were upset by Oklahoma State in two others, the half-mile in 1:24.9 and the quarter mile in 0:41.4.

Silky Sullivan Thrills 'Em; Finishes 4th

By JOHN G. DIETRICH United Press Sports Writer LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Mrs. Lora Birt's Belleau Chief scored by a nose over Gona Fishin' in the Stepping Stone Purse Saturday, but most of the Churchill Downs opening day crowd of 20,000 was watching Silky Sullivan stage one of his sensational stretch runs, only to finish fourth.

The crowd stood through a chilling rain to see Silky make his Kentucky debut in the Kentucky Derby prep, and they saw a typical Silky performance. He was 32 lengths off the pace after a quarter mile of the short seven furlong route, and didn't start his run until he was swinging into the final turn—and the other five Derby eligibles in the race were almost hitting the head of the stretch.

The crowd began to roar as jockey Willie Shoemaker turned him loose and Silky began his heart-stopping run, but some of the cheers turned to boos when the effort left him 2 1/2 lengths short at the end—even though he made up a little more than 11 lengths in the final furlong. While all this was going on, Benedicto—owned by bartender Tony Lellardi—was taking an early lead down the backstretch with Llangollen Farm's Gona Fishin' in hot pursuit.

Gona Fishin', which beat Silky in California a week ago, took over the lead on the turn, and it looked like a stretch battle between him and Benedicto. Belleau Chief, ridden by Johnny Heckmann, made his move from fourth place in the final eighth, and just barely got his nose in front at the wire to win in 1:22.4-5, only a fifth of a second off the track record set by Black George in 1951, although the track Saturday was listed as no better than "good."

The outstanding effort boosted Belleau Chief's Derby stock considerably, and it was announced immediately after the race that Steve Brooks would ride him in the Derby next Saturday.

Harvesters Down Childress In 2 Games

Two-Game Losing Streak Is Broken By 13-4, 7-0 Scores

The Pampa Harvesters snapped back from two straight losses to take both ends of a double header, 13-4, and 7-0, from the Childress Bobcats yesterday, in non-conference tilts.

The Harvesters played heads up baseball in both games, getting a total of 20 runs on 20 hits in the two games.

In the first game, Pampa won, 13-4, with Robert Langford the big gun, going three for three, two singles and a home run, and driving in four runs. The Harvesters scored four runs in the first and six in the second to put the game on ice.

In the second game, Mike Conway and Bill Brown led the Harvesters attack with two hits apiece. Conway tripled and doubled, driving in three runs and Brown singled twice, driving in one run. Pampa looked like a different club, snapping a two-game losing streak that included losses to Borger, 16-8, and Plainview, 9-8. The Harvesters made only two errors in both games.

Yager and Hill shared the pitching chores for Pampa in the first game with Yager getting the win. He struck out three and walked four, giving up three runs on six hits. Hill pitched the sixth and seventh innings allowing one run on two hits, striking out four and walking none.

In the second game, Wills and Huffacker were the pitchers for Pampa with Wills being the winning pitcher. He gave up three hits and no runs in five innings, striking out three and walking two. Huffacker gave up no runs on one hit, walked one and struck out four.

Pampa meets the Amarillo Sandies Tuesday in a District 3-A game. Should the Harvesters win, they will still have a good chance to win the district title.

Plainview Bulldogs Dump Harvesters

The Plainview Bulldogs upset the Pampa Harvesters in a District 3-A baseball game here Friday, 9-8. The loss shoved the Harvesters two games behind the league-leading Amarillo Sandies, who stand 5-0, while Pampa is now 3-2, in district play.

The Harvesters, although macking only three errors, didn't play like the team they are, missing opportunity after opportunity to score.

Coach Deck Woldt was very displeased with Pampa's showing Friday. He said the Harvesters made too many mental errors. Pampa got off to a good start, looking like they were going to have no trouble winning the game. They scored six runs in the second inning as Langford led off with a double, Conway and Glover were hit by pitched balls, leading the bases, shortstop Bill Brown then walked forcing Langford to put Pampa ahead 1-0. Third baseman Strickland then unleashed a bases-loaded double, scoring Conway and Glover to make it 3-0. Pampa-Shipp walked to keep the bases loaded and Merl Terrell doubled, scoring Brown, Strickland and Shipp, to put Pampa ahead 6-0. Stephens and Cruise then struck out to end the inning.

Plainview struck for two runs in the top of the third. Laird grounded out short to first, Morrison singled, Hadley singled and Jones walked to load the bases. Reese layed down a perfect bunt to score Morrison. With the bases loaded and two out, Rich singled, scoring Hadley, then Reese was caught in a double steal to end the inning. Pampa scored a run in the third. Conway was out on a fly to right, Glover walked, then was safe at second on a stolen base. Bill Brown singled, scoring Glover to make the score 7-2. Pampa's Brown was out stealing second and Strickland was out on a fly ball to end the inning.

Then came the fatal fourth inning for Pampa. Plainview scored six runs on only two hits, two walks and a hit batsman, plus mental errors by Pampa players. At the end of the fourth, Pampa was behind 8-7. But the Harvesters still didn't give up, scoring a run in their half of the fifth to tie the score 8-8.

The winning run for Plainview scored in the sixth, when Laird struck out, Morrison flew out, Hadley singled, Jones walked and Reese singled in the winning run. Mike Conway started on the mound for Pampa and was touched for eight runs on six hits, striking out two and walking three. Kip Williams pitched the sixth inning for Pampa and was the losing pitcher.

Yankees Snap Losing Streak As Giants Remain In 1st Place

Yank's Turley In One-Hitter

BALTIMORE (UP)—Fireballing Bob Turley pitched a spectacular one-hitter Saturday for his second straight shutout over Baltimore as the New York Yankees snapped their two-game losing streak with a 2-0 victory over the Orioles.

Six days ago in New York, Turley pitched a four-hit shutout against his ex-teammates and he was even better Saturday. The only hit off the husky right-hander was a bouncing single to the right of shortstop Gil McDougald by Al Pilarcik with two out in the sixth inning. Pilarcik stole second to become the only Oriole to advance that far all afternoon, but Gene Woodling lined out to Hank Bauer in right field.

Buhl's 9th Win Over Phillies

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Bob Buhl of the Milwaukee Braves notched his ninth straight victory over the Philadelphia Phillies since 1956 Saturday with a five-hit, 4-2 victory.

Eddie Mathews led the attack with three hits in four times at bat, including his fifth homer of the year, a five drive over the right field fence in the fourth. Joe Adcock also contributed a home run to the Braves' seven hit attack, hitting a tremendous drive high into the center field bleachers in the sixth.

Buhl was last beaten by the Phillies June 12, 1956. The win, his third of the season, was achieved over the Phillies' Roman Semproch, who left the game in the eighth inning when the Braves scored two runs to break a 2-2 tie.

Tigers Defeated By Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UP)—Rookie Jim Grant's four-hit pitching gave the Cleveland Indians their fourth straight victory, 4-1, over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Ray Boone's triple and Charley Maxwell's sacrifice fly in the fifth inning accounted for the only run off Grant, who scored his second full-route victory in three starts this season. The Indians scored three runs on four hits off loser Frank Lary in the first inning. Mickey Vernon, Russ Nixon, and Chico Carrasquel batted in a run apiece with singles. Carrasquel also drove in Cleveland's final run in the third inning, singling behind a double by Vernon.

San Francisco Dumps Cubs

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Willie Mays homered and hit two doubles Saturday and Johnny Antonelli hurled his first victory of the season as the San Francisco Giants remained in first place by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 3-1.

Mays scored all three of the Giants runs while the big southpaw struck out five batters and walked two. Antonelli, who went into the game with a record of 12 walks in 11 2-3 innings, got into jams only twice and pitched his way out of it on each occasion. In the fifth inning, rookie John Goryl and Elvin Tappan opened the frame with singles. But Antonelli got the next three men out as he fanned losing pitcher Glen Hobbie and retired Tony Taylor and Lee Walls on outfield flies.

In the eighth Walls hit his fifth home run of the season, a line-drive that carried 361 feet down the left field line, for the Cubs only run of the day. The blow came with one out and Ernie Banks followed with a double off the left field screen. Antonelli then got Walt Moryn and Bobby Thomson out on fly balls.

Mays' home run was his first of the season. It came in the sixth inning when he led off with a sky-scraper hoist which floated over the left field barrier about 364 feet. A crowd of 19,284 turned out to watch the Giants win their fourth straight game and to see a San Francisco pitcher go the distance for the second straight time. Ramon Montant did it Friday night when he blanked the Cubs, 2-0, with a four-hitter.

Chisox In 7th Straight Loss

CHICAGO (UP)—The Kansas City Athletics capitalized on the scattered seven-hit pitching of young Ralph Terry and three errors Saturday to beat Chicago, 7-1, and tag the White Sox with their sixth setback in seven games.

The loss was charged to Dick Donovan, hefty White Sox right-hander, who failed to finish for the third time this season. Donovan left for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning after the As had scored four runs on 11 hits.

Chicago errors, two by Earl Torgerson, gave the As five unearned runs. The first baseman threw wildly in the fifth inning in an attempted forecourt on Frank House's grounder. The play moved Bob Cerv to third and Woody Held to second. Cerv scored when Joe DeMaestri hit into a force and Held came in on Terry's single to left.

Cardinals Hit Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, sparked by rookie outfielder Gene Green's first major league homer, punched over six runs in the seventh and eighth innings Saturday to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-4, before 30,795 fans in Memorial Coliseum.

Losing pitcher, Danny McDevitt pitched six innings of stout baseball as the Dodgers gave him a two-run cushion until Green got his homer in the seventh with Ken Boyer on base. Green's homer tied the score at 2-2, but in the eighth inning, the Cards pushed over four runs on as many singles, two of the tallies being charged to McDevitt and two to reliever Clem Labine.

Pirates Thump Redlegs, 8-4

CINCINNATI (UP)—Two home runs by Bill Mazeroski and the fine relief pitching of Don Gross enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to defeat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 8-4, Saturday for their third straight victory.

Mazeroski broke a 4-4 tie with his first homer, a bases-emphy wallop off loser Charley Rabe in the eighth, then unloaded again with two aboard off Johnny Klippstein in the ninth.

The home runs were the first of the season for the 21-year-old second baseman, who didn't join the Pirates this spring until April 6 after a six-month Army stint. Gross, traded to Pittsburgh by the Redlegs last December, gave up a double to Gus Bell, then didn't allow another hit in the four innings he worked to gain his first win. The performance was his third successive runless relief effort.

Bosox Fall To Senators

BOSTON (UP)—Reliever Truman Cleveland put down a ninth inning uprising Saturday as the second-place Washington Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox, 7-5, and kept pace with the league-leading New York Yankees.

Cleveland, a former Red Sox hurler, came in for Dick Hyde in the ninth after the submarine ball specialist walked Billy Conso and issued his first hit in 3-1-3 frames of relief to pinch-hitter Gene Stephens. The Red Sox got one run when Eddie Yost bobbled Don Buddin's grounder, but Cleveland forced Pete Runnels to hit into a double play and then after walking Ted Williams, fanned Jackie Jensen.

Reapers Fourth In Meet

The Pampa Reaper track team placed fourth, scoring 10 1/2 points in the district meet of the Panhandle Junior High Athletic Association Saturday. Dumas placed first, Borger second, Stephen F. Austin, third and Pampa fourth.

Pampa boys scoring were Miller, fourth in the 100 yd. dash; Stephenson, second in the low hurdles; Hazel, fourth in the high hurdles; Cooper, tied for fourth in the pole vault; Giese, third in the shot put and fourth in the discus; and Carter third in the discus.

Although hampered by injuries and sickness, the boys made a good showing in the meet which had the eleven teams of the conference represented.

Coach Norman Phillips stated that he hoped all the boys would continue to compete in track in high school, for a number of them show promise of being contenders if they continue to work hard in the years to follow.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

ONE OF THE NOTWORTHY EXPERIMENTS THIS SPRING WAS DETROIT'S RE-TOOLING OF HARVEY KUENN

...FROM SHORTSTOP TO CENTER FIELD, WHERE HE'S NOT ONLY CAUGHT ON STRONGLY

I FEEL LIKE A TIGER AGAIN

...BUT THE CHANGE HAS SEEMED TO RESTORE THE VIGOR IN HIS LIVELY BATTING STRIDE!

Switches Could Make Tigers Chief Hope Against Yankees

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

Harvey Kuenn

NEW YORK (NEA) — The jury is still out, of course, but early indications are that the Tigers' two noble experiments will work out beyond even the greatest expectations.

This would mean that Billy Martin can make all the plays at shortstop and Harvey Kuenn, freed of fielding pressure there, has regained the batting touch as a trim center fielder. It was these switches that made Detroit the most interesting club in training.

And if they stand up, the Martin-Kuenn combinations will be pounds more formidable than the one that trotted out Kuenn and Bill Tuttle, who did not hit enough to play the outfield with a contender.

It will be just as well for the American League if Martin and Kuenn keep moving at their new posts, for baseball people are already alarmed about not having anything in the way of competition for the Yankees. Judging by the early pace, the Tigers have the best chance of supplying it.

...OTHER OUTFITTS HAVE tried to beat the Yankees with ex-Yankees without success save for the season in which Joe Gordon second batted the Indians down in front in the record-breaking attendance year of 1948. Gordon was a front-line Yankee, you see. So was Martin and the Detroit owners can thank the Copacabana caper which put Billy the Kid in Weas' doghouse. Martin took charge of the Detroit infield — and club, for that matter. The super-aggressive young man from the wrong side of the Oakland tracks immediately became Jack Tighe's "other manager," just as he was for Casey Stengel. He was the hardest worker in camp, fielding balls hit in the hole and coming in for slow grounders by the hour. As Tighe points out, he has Tigers running who never ran before.

up, but possesses added incentive in what he calls the bum rap which Martin never has had to be fired sent him to Kansas City. To him, the deal which put him in Detroit flanne) was like a reprieve, for it again gave him the opportunity to do something for a club capable of going somewhere.

KUENN WASN'T NIETY enough laterally to stand out as a shortstop and when his hitting fell off last summer the holes began to show. His straight away speed is considerably more than adequate however, and with nothing more than fly balls to pursue and time to concentrate on his sound swing, the Wisconsin alumnus headed for the Tigers' first 1958 invasion of Yankee Stadium with an average of .471.

Jack Tighe, the most concerned, already figures that Martin and Kuenn have it made. His principal concern now is secondary pitching beyond Jim Bunning, Billy Hoelt, Frank Lary and Paul Foytack.

Dodgers' Farm Hurlers Playing Top Baseball

By UNITED PRESS

Los Angeles Dodgers pitchers may be taking their lumps but their International League buddies at Montreal are doing fine down on the farm.

For the second straight night, a Montreal Royals pitcher tossed a one-hitter against the Miami Marlins. Bob Gialombardo turned the trick Friday night as the Royals beat the Marlins, 4-1, in 10 innings. Don Landrum's fourth inning double was the only Miami hit. The Royals won it with three runs in the 10th to drive out loser Dallas Green.

Tom Lasorda of Montreal pitched an 11-0 victory against Miami Thursday night, also with a one-hitter. The two great pitching performances stretched the Montreal winning streak to six games and kept the Royals in first place, a half game in front of the Rochester Red Wings.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

If we knew all the angles to fishing, there probably wouldn't be much more fish caught after a few months than is being caught now. The reason for this is in a few months all the choice ones would already be caught. However, it is trying on the brain to figure out a way to catch a dish pan full, especially when you know they are swimming around in the lake and you can't get a strike. Sometimes some particular lure will really do the trick but there are times when fish simply won't bite. Usually choice shiner minnows will get the job done but sometimes fish ignore them.

The entire skill of successful fishing is puzzling to me, however there are always a few fishermen per thousand who seem to have good luck on every trip. A former Abilene policeman that I once knew seemed to always bring back enough three to eight pound bass for himself and all the neighbors. This fisherman made his own lure which was about two-thirds the size of a teaspoon and shaped like a spoon. It was made from common lead, painted black, and was equipped with two wires so as to make it weedless. The fisherman lure into a likely looking place, told me that he would cast the let it sink to the bottom for a few minutes, then move it a few inches every once in a while.

Another group of successful fishermen from this area is a party from Phillips that goes to Lake Marvin at regular intervals. From what I have heard these fellows set up camp while one of them is plugging. They alternate at fishing around the clock until the bass start striking, then they all start and keep fishing until the fish stop hitting.

Of course if a person really made a study of the art of angling, the skillet would be warmed up more, but what seems to be the object of a majority of average fishermen is to enjoy a weekend away from the everyday affairs of the office, job or whatever the daily routine might be. Camping out among the tall cottonwoods, watching the deer, turkey, squirrels, wild birds and other creatures of nature at play is top recreation.

Where is a good place to go fishing? My guess would be Buffalo Lake for several reasons. It is the largest lake in the Panhandle, it is well stocked with black bass and channel cat and, chiefly, the lake has been treated several times during the last few years by Game and Fish Department Aquatic Biologists. The treatments consisted of several applications of rotenone with just enough strength in it to kill the rough fish, carp, shad, buffalo, goldfish and hybrids of goldfish carp. Hundreds of tons of these undesirable fish were taken from the lake. It seems to me that with this amount of fish taken from the lake the bass and catfish should be looking for something to eat. There are thousands of large black bass, over four pounds, and channel cat over ten pounds in the lake, plus other species. More than seven years ago, Bill Gunn, of Amarillo, liberated several flat-head catfish in the lake that went over twenty pounds, with one of them weighing over forty.

Each fisherman in the Panhandle is allowed an aggregate of twenty hooks. If a party of four went to any lake, set out four trotlines of, say, eighteen hooks each, that would add up to 72 hooks for the group and each would still be permitted two hooks more for rod and reels. With good bait I believe four fishermen could spend a night or two at Buffalo Lake and really hit the jackpot. In fact, I am going to try it in a few weeks just to see, if for no other reason, if one fisherman can't catch at least ten pounds of channel cat and black bass.

Bobwhite Quail

Last week the ground was almost completely covered with hail about the size of mocking bird eggs. Did this harm the bobwhite quail? Seems as though it would but a few years back Jack Woodford and I spent the night in camp and the hail came down as big as hen eggs. From the way the twigs and leaves covered the ground under the cottonwoods and from the force with which the hailstones pounded the earth, it would seem a safe calculation that no small bird could survive such a storm. However, next morning broke bright and clear. We hadn't driven from camp more than three hundred yards when Jack observed a covey of twelve bobwhites feeding near the bar ditch and not one appeared any worse off from the hailstorm.

Even though we have hailstorms and high water we will have a bumper quail crop in the eastern parts of the Panhandle if we have a wet July. All winter long the bobwhites have been very inconspicuous, even to the point where some cowboys said there aren't any. Since spring is here and the birds have paired off and scattered, they are seen more often. Willa Sheets, who has been building earthen tanks via bulldozer, said last week that he has seen more than forty pairs of birds on the ranch where he is working. Weather conditions have been near perfect until now for upland game birds, and if we have a wet July then it will put the finishing touches to what is needed. Then the hunters can get set for the harvest in December.

Mr. S. B. Whittenburg said to me once, "Have you ever noticed that people who feed birds never wish to shoot them?" Maybe it could be added that people who feed wild game never wish to kill the game. It is a great pleasure to be driving along a ranch road and observe a covey of bob crossing the road in front of the car, drive on for a short distance and let an untrained pointer pup out of the car. Carefully maneuver the pup so as to let him find the birds and observe his reactions. Possibly the pup will instinctively react to what has been bred into him for more than a hundred years or perhaps he will not do as you expected him to do.

Nevertheless, when a man gets into the field with his dog and has the opportunity, he is in another world, so to speak. We here in this part of the state haven't had this opportunity for some time but this appears as though it might be the year. I have two pups, one by National Champion Palamontum, whose parents, grandparents and ancestors further on back were National Champions. (There is only one National Champion per year in the U. S. A.) I, too, will be interested in observing "Palamandy" when she finds her first wild quail.

Are LA Dodgers Still In League?

By FRED DOWN

United Press Sports Writer
The San Francisco Giants can't match those huge Los Angeles crowds but they're in a position today to repeat one of baseball's most famous questions: "Are the Dodgers still in the league?"

Bill Rigney's astonishing mixture of untried rookies and creaky veterans soared into first place in the National League Friday night when they beat the Chicago Cubs, 2-0, behind Ramon Monzant's fourth pitching. The Dodgers, meanwhile, escaped falling into the cellar when they beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3, before a crowd of 60,833 that set a league night game record.

San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney is unlikely to repeat Bill Terry's famous question of some 20 years ago — and how it came back to haunt him! — but he has a right to tell the experts they were all wrong again. For these same Giants who lead the league today were chosen almost unanimously to finish in the second division and were picked last in some quarters.

Night Of Surprises
It was a night of surprises all around as the Baltimore Orioles scored two runs in the ninth to beat the New York Yankees, 3-1. The Cleveland Indians made it three out of four against the Detroit Tigers with a 12-2 triumph and Bob Rush, 7-24 lifetime against the Philadelphia Phillies, bested Robin Roberts to give the Milwaukee Braves a 4-0 decision. The Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 6-5, in 12 innings to end a five-game losing streak. The Washington Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox, 2-0, and the Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs in other major league activity.

Monzant, a 25-year old native of Venezuela, who had a lifetime 5-8 record in the majors before this season, struck out seven and did not walk a batter in posting his second win. The Giants scored their first run off Jim Brosnan when Bob Schmidt tripled and Monzant singled in the third inning and added "their other run on singles by Willie Mays and Hank Sauer and a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Musial Gets Four

The huge crowd at Los Angeles saw Stan Musial smash four straight hits to raise his batting average to .533 but that great performance was not enough to prevent the Cardinals from dropping their seventh decision in nine games. Fred Kipp, aided by Ed Roebuck's late-inning relief, picked up the win as rookie Norm Larker showed the way with a two-run triple and a key single. The crowd surpassed the previous league mark of 51,786 for a night game, set May 27, 1947, in a Dodger-Giant game at New York, and gave Los Angeles 301,865 total attendance for seven games this season.

Hornsby Remains Happy As Hitting Coach For Cubs

By SCOTT BAILLIE

United Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Rogers Hornsby, who will be 62 Sunday, is thoroughly satisfied with his job as hitting coach for the Chicago Cubs and has no further desire to be a manager.

"The way baseball is nowadays, a manager has to go around with a briefcase under his arm and be told by the business office who to play," the great hitter of another era growled. "I'm satisfied just to show these kids how they should bat."

Hornsby, who hit and managed the 1926 St. Louis Cardinals to a World Series victory over the New York Yankees, afterward had several stormy years with other clubs and once wrote an article on conversation only so long as he can share the pleasure with someone else, that is, speaking of a normal human being. There might be some who can derive genuine pleasure from outdoor sports solo but my guess is in this type of person is in the hermit or miser category.

Each week I sit down to the desk and commit myself on ideas, facts and so forth, about the outdoors. Each week, month, year, there is scarcely a trickle of mail commenting on what I think or say. Have you ever been in a group when someone did all the talking or have you ever commanded the floor at a get-together? If so, then you can understand what the idea is. It is this — I would thoroughly enjoy hearing from some of the readers. I have thought of something like this — sometime say that there was a rancher who crossed a peafowl with a guinea and that he had a brand new wild game bird specie. If this wouldn't do, then think up some other idea that was far more preposterous and add it to these lines just to get a rise out of the readers. I won't do that but I would like to hear a few comments from the listeners since I am always doing the talking.

litled, "How To Get Fired." He would neither attack nor defend the short left field barrier in Los Angeles which as of Friday had helped produce 24 home runs in six games.

"They've got it there and they have to play with it so why say anything more?" Hornsby asked. "It wouldn't have made any difference to me when I was a player because most of my hits went to left center."

The bluff old right-handed hitter, whose eyes pierce just as sharply today as they did when he led the National League in hitting for seven years, thinks that all ball parks should standardize the distance to their fences.

Hornsby batted .424 in 1924, .408 in 1925 and .401 in 1921, swinging a bat that usually weighed 45 ounces for the Cardinals.

"Now if a bat is over 31 ounces they say it's too heavy," he mused.

Hornsby said that players are shuffled in and out of the lineup too much nowadays.

"I'd like to see a ball game with the same nine guys staying in it all the way," he said. "It hurts a kid's confidence to be taken in and out of the lineup. A lot of us, including myself, wouldn't be here if we had been shuffled around."

Conley Not Injured By Pitched Ball

MILWAUKEE (UP) — X-rays taken of Milwaukee Braves' pitcher Gene Conley, who was struck on the head by a ball during infield practice Friday night, proved negative, the Braves said today. Conley was taken to Milwaukee hospital for the X-rays after he was hit by the ball prior to Friday night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies. He asked to go to the hospital after the game as a precautionary measure. stzUP11 NIXON ET245P 4-26 ..

Moore's 200th Bout Proves His Outstanding Durability

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Ancient Archie Moore goes into his 200th "recorded" ring battle against Will Beamanoff at Louisville next Friday on the eve of the Kentucky Derby and only by looking back over the years can you appreciate the amazing durability of this lightweight champion.

Archie, whose mother claims he is 44, has been fighting since 1936. At that time, heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson was a one-year-old; Rocky Graziano was 13; Bobo Olson was eight; Jim Braddock was the heavyweight champion; Sam Sneed still was one year away from playing in his first U.S. Open, and Johnny Longden was still two years away from his first riding championship.

And Archie believes he still has time to win the heavyweight championship of the world.

Doubt Silky's Chances
Silky Sullivan, the stretch-running fireball from California, rates as one of the red-hot favorites for the Kentucky Derby but veteran horsemen say he should be at least 6 to 1 or better. Very few turf experts give him a chance of winning the Rose Run at Churchill Downs next Saturday. Their theory is that he can't spot that kind of lead to class horses like Tim Tam and Jewel's Reward and make it up against them in the stretch, which may mean another Irish "potato" famine.

Duke Hancock, a professional caddie for 40 years, gives the modern golfers all the worst of it in an article in the May issue of Golf Digest. Hancock names Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen as the two best players he ever saw and insists the game was better in the 20s. Duke claims today's golfers are rarer among true gentlemen are rarer among today's golfers and tabs Shelley Mayfield as the best. He picks Dow Fingertwald, Don January and Mike Souchak as the future greats.

Indianaapolis insiders looking ahead to the famed 500 on Memorial Day claim the car Juan Fangio is slated to drive is a "bucket of bolts" and predict he will wind up in one of the famed Novis. A Novi never has won the big race because it is heavier and causes bad tire wear. An eight-cylinder job, where the other cars are four-cylindered, it actually has too much power and can't get through the corners... but they'd like to see what Fangio could do with one.

Speaking of the 500, this probably will be the last race for Tony Bettenhausen and Freddie Agabashian. Like most race drivers, these are extremely superstitious. Each will be making his 12th start—and they don't figure to go for 13.

Ad For Boxing Champion Brings Promising Boys

By PETER UEBERSAX
United Press Sports Writer
LONDON (UP)—The noble art of self-defense is dying in the homeland of the Marquess of Queensberry.

This is the conclusion from an extraordinary experiment carried out by Arthur Boggis, one of Britain's leading fight managers. Two weeks ago, Boggis played a full-page advertisement in London's Boxing News. It offered free tuition, training, financing and, possibly, "one million dollars" to any lad willing and qualified to go through the ordeal of becoming the heavyweight champion of the world.

"World heavyweight champion wanted," advertised Boggis. "Must be under 21. Must be 6 ft. or over. Must be tough and able to punch. Must love a fight. Experience unnecessary." The response: A fist full of letters—mostly from cranks, bums and mothers eager to dump little Johnny on someone else. Less than half a dozen applications from the hungry, lean and eager kind of kid whom such an offer might send off on the road to fame. "I've found two lads so far that look somehow promising," said Boggis, a former fighter who, at 47, still goes into the ring with his boys. "Maybe there's a couple more hidden among those I haven't interviewed yet."

Among the replies Boggis singled out as "promising" were:

—A southpaw Paris horse butcher. ("Tough enough, no doubt," said Boggis.)

—A boy who has "no mother, and father must look after the five of us, and we have to put up with any kind of meal." (Hungry fighters make good fighters.)

—A youngster who "never had a big fight," but thinks he "can knock out anyone." ("Good boy, no complexes.")

Sports World Mourns Death Of Outstanding Grid Coach

WASHINGTON (UP)—Football coaches and players, the men who knew Herman Hickman best, mourned him today as "a great man... a great asset to sports and people in general."

The 46-year-old Hickman, an always jovial 300-pounder who loved to eat and looked it, died Friday at Providence Hospital. He had undergone an operation Monday to remove a gastric ulcer and was recovering satisfactorily until he developed an acute hemorrhage Thursday night.

He rallied Friday morning when he regained consciousness and spoke with his wife, Helen. His condition deteriorated in the afternoon and he died shortly after.

Hickman had been a television and radio sportscaster for the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York since 1952, when he resigned as head football coach at Yale. He had coached at three other colleges before that after playing guard for the University of Tennessee. His sports career also included three years of pro football with the old Brooklyn Dodgers and some 500 professional wrestling matches. He also was an author, poet, after-dinner speaker and story teller supreme.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Jacksonville, Fla., where Hickman's mother, Mrs. O. M. Howard, lives. Burial will be in Ponte Vedra, Fla., near Jacksonville. Hickman had been living in Woodbridge, Conn., a suburb of New Haven.

Hickman left a lasting impression on everyone he met. Gen. Bob Neyland, his college coach and now athletic director at Tennessee, called Herman "a great man... one of the finest boys and men I have ever had contact with. We had something like a father-son relationship."

Asset To Sports
Levi Jackson, Yale's first Negro football captain who starred under Hickman, said: "A lot of people in sports and elsewhere are going to miss that wonderful guy. He was a great asset to sports and people in general."

Hickman could quote pages of poetry from memory and wrote many poems himself. If he wasn't reciting poems, he was telling stories about his kinfolk from his home town of Johnson City, Tenn. While he may have stretched accuracy, he always left 'em laughing.

He spent four years as head coach at Yale, quitting after he served only one year of an unprecedented 10-year contract. His first coaching jobs as assistant at North Carolina State and Wake Forest led him to Army as line coach under Earl (Red) Blaik from 1943 through 1957.

a ten-months course at the University of Illinois, with a stipend of $3,000 and $300 for each of four dependents.

The purposes of the Academic Year Institute for 1958-59 at the University of Illinois are to enrich the teachers' mathematical background by acquainting them with some modern developments, and to provide them with specific techniques in teaching.

Last summer, Strickland attended the 1957 Summer Institute for Teachers of High School Mathematics, on a scholarship sponsored by the National Science Foundation at the University of Iowa.

Since Strickland, a graduate of Abilene Christian College, came to White Deer in the fall of 1952, the mathematics department has made outstanding progress. On the Iowa achievement tests given to juniors in the high school last fall, the students showed greater improvement, over their freshman stand, in mathematics than in any other field. The three seniors who took the national Merit Scholarship tests last fall all ranked exceptionally high in mathematics. One of last year's graduates won the freshman scholarship in mathematics at the University of Rochester, and another won the Bausch-Lomb national scholarship and is now attending the University of Rochester, and all White Deer students enrolled in major colleges are doing consistently superior work in mathematics, attesting to the quality of work done in high school under Strickland's supervision.

HEAVIES MEET
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — Zora Foley of Chandler, Ariz., the second ranked heavyweight, will meet Art Swiden of Pittsburgh, in a 10-round bout here May 5. Foley fought to a 10-round draw with Eddie Machen at San Francisco earlier this month.

Judge Otto Dent, member of the State Water Board, will be the guest speaker for the formal dedication. Judge Dent was largely responsible for helping Ochiltree County to regain title to the land and the water rights for Lake Fryer.

Tentative arrangements include a water show by the Amarillo Boat and Ski Club. Also picnics, outdoor games of all types and swimming and boating.

TO MATCH PASTRANO
STUTTGART, Germany (UP) — Matchmaker Willy Knoerzer is attempting to arrange a heavyweight bout between Willie Pastirano, the third ranking heavyweight from New Orleans, La., and German and European heavyweight champion Heinz Neuhaus. Neuhaus scored a 10-round decision over Joey Maxim of Cleveland, Ohio, two weeks ago.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
West was engaged in the delightful process of trapping his opponents. He kept quiet until South jumped to three no-trump and then boomed out a double.

Molly Rolesen of Blytheville, Ark., who sat South did not boom out her redouble, but she did redouble.

West opened the queen of spades and sat back to enjoy the hand. He had overlooked one little point. The hand was torture, not pleasure.

Molly took the king of spades and ran her five diamond tricks. West had to make four discards and he had no trouble with the first three which were two clubs and a heart. The fourth discard was the deuce of spades. He could not afford to throw a second heart because Molly could run the entire heart suit if he left his king with only one guard.

Now all Molly had to do was to knock out the ace of clubs and let West take his three good spades.

West's double was very bad. He had too much strength and it was a clinch that his partner would hold a blank hand. In addition, his stuff was in the wrong place. He had nothing in diamonds back of the diamond bidder and his king of hearts was obviously unneeded.

Laborer Is Adjudged Sane Fight Results

TRENTON, N.J. (UP)—A psychiatrist has adjudged sane a 24-year old laborer who shot three nuns and terrorized a residential neighborhood last Saturday night.

Louis Felipe Marrero currently is being held in $100,000 bail for charges of atrocious assault and battery with intent to kill as a result of the shot gun rampage.

Dr. J. B. Spradley reported Thursday that Marrero "knew the difference between right and wrong and the nature and quality of his acts at the time of the commission of the crime."

Peg O' Pampa

ASSUMING YOU ARE READING the newspaper over a cup of coffee and a Sunday morning breakfast roll... let's just get in a little educational note in our first paragraph... don't really mind, do you?... for instance... did you know that 90 per cent of the business done in the United States involves checks, rather than greenbacks... close to a billion checks a year are written... and that you can legally use almost anything for a check, so long as it has the name of the bank, the date, the amount, the name of the payee and your signature... plus the small detail of enough funds in your account to cover the check!... somebody once used an eggshell... and somebody else once used a shingle... and they were honored as checks... and one last little dollop of our fascinating course in checks is... that bank officials have learned that there are about 275 checks in a pound... assuming the average bank cashes a few thousand checks a day, think of all the muscles the tellers develop!

JUST NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'LL READ NEXT?... well, let's get down to more personal things... such as the growth of the dandelions on your lawn this year... really, isn't this the year of the most beautiful dandelion display in ages?... but other flowers are coming along... we hope that the flowering fruit trees are still pretty today... they were the middle of last week, then we did a little exploring about town to report on who's who in flowers... if you take a drive today, check the following spots (unless we have had a bad freeze since this column was typed)... first and foremost, see the fabulous backyard of Inez Carter... redbud, peach... and others in profusion... and across the street, north, at Tex Evans'... if you park on 18th street, between the two houses, you'll never see a more fabulous sight... redbud, blue roof of house, forsythia... flowering peach... pink border flowers... red tulips... green grass... then move on down the street and view the Frazer's orchard of, is it cherry?... we think so... and turn the corner on Mary Ellen... a beauty spot with brick wall and flowering fruit trees... for another beauty spot, drive by the John Bradleys... where a red bud in its glory contrasts with a Scotch Pine with its soft greenness... and the Irvin Pursleys were displaying a flowering peach... the R. E. Batsons have planted white hyacinths under an evergreen tree in their front yard on Mary Ellen... a very charming effect... take a look at the flowering fruit tree the James Evans' have in their yard... and speaking of yards, Dr. Brown certainly has a beauty of a green one... as do the Gene Sidwells... take a look while you are on tour at the redbud at 1331 Russell... seems to us the trees have never been prettier... we just hope they still are by today... the weather could make all these travel notes obsolete, to our infinite dismay... but anyway, we'll go on with the tour.

THE DISPLAY HOME of the week prize goes to the George Crees... where beautiful, new-looking, pale green trim on their house sets off the forsythia and matching yellow daffodils at the front and side of the house... the Bob Tripplehorn's have a display of grape hyacinths and red tulips, crowned in glory by a flowering peach... and check at 1715 and 1710 Williston... the Buck Millers have two gorgeous redbuds and a pretty green lawn under them... and Mrs. Harry Schwartz has a beautiful back yard with a flowering peach that we swear looked last week as if it were made of crepe-paper... forsythia and redbud in abundance... the Floyd Immlers have been rewarded for planting work by a display of gorgeous grape hyacinths at their home on Charles street... the Clauds Robinsons at 414 East Browning have pretty forsythia bushes... and we checked Vi Wells' home on East Francis; for she usually has a fantastic garden around her cute home... by now, unless the frost has ruined them, she should have a glorious display of tulips... when we checked, they were not quite in bloom yet... too bad Perie Mitchell can't see her pinkly flowering shrub in the corner of her yard... by the by... the Crees, Opal and George will meet her and her daughter in Europe in a short time... guess they'll go on to the Brussels Fair... have heard that the Mitchell duo are in Paris at the moment... ahhhh, Paris in the Spring... shades of Broadway songs... "I love Paris in the Springtime"... come back to earth, Pampa earth... Don Conley has matched their yellow door with a forsythia near by... sounds as if we are reporting Spring costumes... but we think the grounds around a house merit some consideration... after all... would YOU plant an orange posey in front of a red door?... or would you?... our Mayor and his wife have oodles of violets in a small little plot by the driveway... and sure enough, when we looked closely we saw what we would call a spyreea in bloom... the K. I. Dunns at 1300 Garland have the most elaborate double tulips and some white narcissus... and there are four pretty pear trees in a row at 1144 Terrace... of course, you must have seen all last week the fire of blossoms south of the Medical and Surgical Clinic on Hobart... how could anyone miss it... and of course, the yellow about the Hospital grounds... we've run down at last.

HERE AND THERE WITH THE OLD EARS... we garnered the following... we have never heard a man say he liked the new fashions... Earl and Helen Clayton are back from a world tour... a fantastic trip we hear... Ted Hicks is planning some sort of a jaunt... and J. Kittie says she is just as excited about that as the rest of the trip... hope Elmer Fite is better... he was in the hospital last week... Jean Duncan was wearing a real middy dress with a long tie the other day... she looks very charming and pretty, always... saw W. R. RUTH MILLETT

Girls, don't waste your time on a man —
Who takes you out just to talk about a girl who has given him the gate. If all he wants is a build-up from a good listener, let him find sympathy somewhere else.
Who is a talker, instead of a doer — the kind who is full of impossible schemes, for making money without working for it.
Who tries to make you jealous by talking about other girls or who has such a roving eye he can't concentrate on you for a whole evening.
Who is so cynical he doesn't trust anyone and seems to think everyone is out to gyp him.
Who has a low opinion of women in general, but assures you that you are different from the rest.
Who has an ungovernable temper, but is so sweet when he is ready to make up that he is irresistible.
Who thinks he is too good for his job, but seems content to take his dissatisfaction out in low-rating his boss, the firm and feeling unappreciated instead of making plans to get out and tackle something new.
Who is so possessive he accuses you of flirting if you seem to enjoy talking to anyone but him.
Who is perfectly content to sit around your house night after night, but seems reluctant to take you anywhere that might cost a little money.
Who is so moody you never know whether he will be on top of the world or down in the dumps.
Who seems to want your sympathy more than your admiration and respect.
It's foolish for a girl to waste time on these types. For if they are interested in matrimony (and often they aren't) they are likely to make poor husbands.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
I know a young woman whose divorced parents separated when she was five years old. She still remembers the night of the separation.

She was awakened by the sound of her father's shouting. She heard her mother begin to cry. Gradually, the shouting became a murmur and the crying stopped. Then all at once the two voices rose again, competing, louder and louder until she put her head under the covers to subdue them for herself.

When she dared listen again, there was silence. It was broken by the sound of her father's car. She heard it back down the drive under her window.

Then the door of her room was flung open. Switching on the light, her mother cried, "Wake up! Daddy's gone! He doesn't love us any more!"

Of this heartbroken appeal for strength, the grown child said coldly, "Mother had no right to say that Daddy didn't love me. He did. He still does. It was Mother who didn't love. I'll never forgive her for trying to drag me on to her spot with her."

I thought, "Children whose homes are dissolving around them must not be asked for anything." The child of a marital split is too split himself to tolerate any pull on his loyalty. If we insist on claiming him for our side of the adult tug of war, we set up new problems for ourselves in resentment we may never be able to overcome.

The parent sinking in marital disaster is in no position to register this. Lost in panic, he will grab at any human contact in sight to escape the realization of his aloneness.

So warning him that it is dangerous to grab at his child is like telling a drowning man that he is also a friend's responsibility to strike at the hysteria of parents drowning in marital distress.

A responsible lifesaver plans the drowning man whose panic hampers his own rescue. He strikes at the hysteria. I think it is also a friend's responsibility to strike at the hysteria of parents drowning in marital distress.

If we love them, it is our duty to say sternly, "Leave the child alone! Here, take my hand instead."

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After a man reaches the age of 40 or 45 he is expected to have a ring, but my husband isn't even 30 yet and he has had two already. I can't understand it either as he seems very happy at home. Isn't there some way I can keep him true to me? I am a good cook and housekeeper and even bake my own bread.

GOOD WIFE
Dear Good: Man cannot live by bread alone. Even home-made bread. Find out what he likes for dessert.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 20 and my parents will tell you themselves they never had any trouble with me. I'm in love with a boy, 22. He has a good job and goes to night school to better himself. My parents have tried to break us up because they say a boy who comes from a broken home is a poor risk for marriage. We love each other, Abby, and I don't think it's fair to blame him because his parents were divorced when he was small. Please give me your opinion.

A GIRL IN LOVE
Dear Girl: Most children from broken homes make better husbands and wives. Having learned from bitter experience how tough it is to be raised in those circumstances, they try doubly hard to make a "go" of marriage.

Literary Topic
For TC Forum

Mrs. Frank Kelley was hostess to the Twentieth Century Forum Study Club in her home, 1715 Christine, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Russell Holloway presented the program on "The Short Story and Its Place in Literary History."

"Although tales and narrative sketches appear in ancient literature, including the Bible, the short story as a consciously artistic literary type is essentially an American product of the early 19th Century," she said.

Mrs. Holloway read "The Blue Serge Suit" by John Langdon, which won an award in 1958 and is published in the collection by Martha Foley, "Best American Short Stories of 1957."

Mrs. Athur Teed had as her topic for discussion, "An evolution of the curriculum of the English Department of Pampa High School. She pointed out that Pampa High School ranks the best in the nation in their selection of courses offered and required.

Eighteen members were present. turned last fall from a world trip will speak at 10 a.m. on April 30. For six months during the spring and summer of 1957, Mrs. Salsbury visited and studied the work of the Christian Church in India, Thailand, Indonesia, Hong Kong, the Philippines, and Japan.

She has been a Presbyterian officer, and is now serving on the interdenominational Board of the Emergency Committee for German Protestantism and the American Joint Committee of the Veterans and Louisiana Christian Medical Colleges.

She is also a member of the Women's Planning Committee of International Christian University, Tokyo, Japan.

'Television: Good Or Bad' Discussion
For Twentieth Century Culture Club

Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. L. Hasse with Mrs. N. D. Steele as assistant hostess. A social hour preceded the business meeting and program.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Hasse, members were reminded to bring books that had been purchased for the Lovett Memorial Library to the next meeting.

Members met Oct. 13, 1958, as the date for the club to be hostess at Senior Center.

Plans were discussed for the installation of new officers, which is to take place on May 13 at a coffee to be held in the home of Mrs. J. R. Donaldson.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn gave the devotional which she read from a past article written by Doris Wilson, women's editor of the News, in which Mrs. Wilson spoke of "The Christian woman we would all like to be"

Mrs. Michael Wilson introduced the subject for the afternoon's program, "Television: Good or Bad," which was given in a form of a panel discussion.

Mrs. G. L. Craddock said that TV is the biggest new force in the American home with three out of every five homes possessing a TV set. "Since it is so new, there are more contradictions than conclusions made regarding its influence."

Mrs. Craddock continued, "Some of the ill effects are: keeps people from going places; creating things; thinking for themselves; discourages reading; encourages rudeness to guests."

"Claimed as good influences of TV are, enables travel to foreign lands; stimulates curiosity in many subjects; keeps the family together; breaks down regional barriers and makes for better understanding of many different people; allows for an actual look into our government."

Mrs. Wilson then discussed the possibilities of television in the field of education. "Educational channels," she said, "are licensed by the FCC and are not allowed to broadcast commercials. This makes it necessary for sponsorship to be by an individual organization. Oklahoma City has the closest such channel, although Amarillo will have one soon. These TV programs do much to encourage adult education."

Mrs. Doyle Osborne discussed the programs that are available here in Pampa. She discussed the best programs in each category, western comic, quiz show, dramas, musical and variety, mystery and news.

Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer added that an outsider cannot pick the shows best suited for other families. "Just as in other influences in our lives, we are the ones that must choose what is most enjoyable and most beneficial for our own individual families."

Miss Flowers and her mother received the guests.

The wedding date was revealed in telegrams delivered by Lou Anne Wright, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright. The telegrams were inscribed with "Charlotte-Henry, June 4."

Miss Flowers, chosen colors of blue and white were used in the decorations. The table was covered with a white linen cut-work cloth, stitched in blue and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, blue and white chrysanthemums. Appointments were in silver. Mrs. Glen McGibbon presided at the silver tea service and Mrs. Virgil Castle served cake.

Other members of the hostess party were Mrs. B. C. Holly, grandmother of the bride-elect, Mrs. J. W. Draughton and Mrs. Harlan Hawk.

Miss Flowers was graduated from Perryton High School and will graduate from West Texas State College in Canyon in May. She also attended the University of Hawaii.

Mr. Hale graduated from Perryton High school and has attended West Texas State College.

CARPETS KEEP NEW LOOK

With proper care wall to wall carpeting will retain the new look.

Correct cleaning methods have seemingly been a mystery and controversial even to carpet manufacturers. After much research a product is on the market that cleans and fluffs up beat down carpet paths plus removal of spots thereby maintaining the new look. The textile engineer of a large carpet mill says—"It's the best we've found."

The product is Blue Lustre. It is easily applied with a long handle brush. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

RUTH MILLETT

"Even such suggestions as, 'You help me with the dishes and when we are through I'll help you wash the car,' fell flat. His attitude was always, 'I have my jobs and you have yours.' So I finally quit trying to change him over to fit the 'togetherness' pattern. And guess what? I found I liked it that way, too."

"So, perhaps you could advise other brides not to beat their heads against a stone wall as I did trying to make their husbands conform to a pattern set up for marriage by outsiders."

"No man with a mind of his own is going to give in gracefully to his wife's wish for him to conform to some idealized picture of a husband she has got from reading women's magazines."

"The bride who realizes that from the start will not have to waste the effort I did trying to make my husband fit into a pretty picture."

"By the way, we are as happy as can be now that I have quit worrying about our not doing everything together."

Think it over, brides. There's a woman who has learned a lot in less than five years of marriage — more than some wives learn in a lifetime.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in the Eighth Grade and was the first girl in the class to kiss this new boy who just moved here from El Dorado, Texas. He has a very cute accent and wears a nailhead belt and boots. I kissed him on his lunch hour and gave him my telephone number but he didn't call me. Next day he said he had so many telephone numbers in his wallet he didn't know which one was mine. Do you think this was a good excuse or should I quit him.

PONY TAIL

Dear Pony: Your Texas cowboy doesn't let any cactus grow under his boots. Everything grows taller in Texas... including the tales. Let him locate your number and chase you for a while.

DEAR ABBY: We had a sitter who used to tell our little boy stories about wild animals and witches who live in the Panhandle. I have tried to tell him these stories are all made up, but it doesn't do any good. He is terrified of the dark. Please tell us what to do.

MRS. T.

Dear Mrs. T.: Try a "night light" and also a cuddly little toy animal to keep him company in his bed. If this persists, better ask your doctor to recommend a child-behavior specialist.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and my parents have been divorced three years. All of a sudden my father comes back and my mother is letting him live with us. We have a one bedroom apartment and a studio couch in the front room. I would rather not say who is sleeping where but I think if my father wants to live here he should hurry up and marry my mother again. Am I correct?

EMBARRASSED

Dear Embarrassed: You are correct. And you are old enough to call this to your parents' attention.

DEAR ABBY: May I put in my two cents worth about some of the pitfalls encountered by those who have tried to quit smoking? The first week, my family said to me, "Will you please break down and have a cigarette? Your disposition is so ugly nobody can live with you!" I replied, "I took a solemn oath to quit smoking and I am not smoking here so I won't smoke there." That shut them up.

Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Mrs. C. writes, "I'm worn out with my 4-year-old's bedtime fears. Sometimes she doesn't get to sleep until 10 p.m. The strain is getting me down because I'm weaning her baby brother..."

Let's suppose, Mrs. C., that you had a mother-in-law you resent. One morning your husband tells you to invite her to dinner. You agree, not daring to express your resentment of her.

The moment you're alone, you'll begin to worry. You'll start wondering whether your daughter will make a bedtime fuss and attract her grandmother's criticism of your training. You'll wonder if the guest will notice your new permanent and think, "Poor Fred, how this woman spends his money!"

You'll wonder if her critical presence will infect your husband so that he becomes faultfinding.

You will cook up these threatening bogeyman possibilities to punish yourself for resenting your mother-in-law instead of loving her.

This is exactly what you child is doing with her bedtime fears of witches, werewolves, tigers and other threatening bogeys.

Just as our forbidden hates express themselves in apprehensions of disaster, so your child's forbidden resentment of you is expressing itself in fear of disastrous encounters with witches and werewolves.

If we know how our own hates produce anxious expectations of disaster, we know exactly what to do with a child's anxious expectation of it at bedtime.

Lying down beside her in the dark, we say, "Are you mad at me for spending so much time with baby brother today? If you are, I don't mind. You see, I know you love me more than you hate me. So you can tell me all about how much you hated me today and it won't bother me a bit. Come over closer to me and tell me about it..."

I don't know whether Mrs. C. can manage the idea that her

Bride-Elect Feted With Courtesy

Miss Carylon Shafer, bride-elect of Paul David James, was honored with a bridal shower on Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Tommy Hill, 1304 Christine. Assistant hostesses were Mmes. Jennie Waller, George Oakes, Everett Leonard, J. O. Russell and Leon Howell.

A white carnation corsage was presented to the honoree. Mrs. M. Shafer, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. M. James, prospective bridegroom's mother, were presented with pink hyacinth corsages.

The serving table was covered with a white linen cloth centered with an arrangement of pink Spring flowers. Mr. Waller presided at the silver coffee service. Cookies, mints and nuts were also served.

child's bedtime fears express hate of her. We are so trained to fear hate as evil that we resist admitting we feel it for others or that others feel it for us. It is very bad training, as hate is only obstructed love that has been made afraid to show itself.

Perhaps Mrs. C. can use these words of British psychiatrist Dr. Ian D. Suttie. He writes, "Hate is merely a frustration-form of love itself, distorted as protest, reproach and that kind of aggression which is originally intended to compel attention."

Brighten Meals With Lamb-Cuts

MEAL WITH LAMB

FULLY AUTOMATIC OVEN COOKING

Because a perfectly adjusted gas flame cooks cooking vapors, you have the wonderful advantage of cleaner, cooler Closed-Door Baking with a new gas range.

Even the best cook in the world can't be more accurate than her cooking appliance. And that's why the best cooks prefer GAS. Take your Gas Oven, for instance. It offers you perfect temperature control for perfect cooking results. The thermostat on a fully automatic modern gas oven is as accurate as the finest precision instrument you'll find in a scientific laboratory. It alone can hold temperatures within two to five degrees of the dial setting, and that means your angel food cake will be lighter than the touch of a spring zephyr... it means your meat will show less shrinkage because the lowest roasting temperatures can be maintained. Nuclear Secret?

The vocal clamor that surrounds nearly every major issue in America often obscures more truth than it reveals.

Right now a debate is raging among top scientists as the question whether or not nuclear tests can be conducted in secret. Obviously a determination on this point is vital in considering a proposed ban on tests.

But long before there was any public hint that it might be possible to hide nuclear tests, many key men were arguing against a test ban on totally different grounds.

They contended, and still do that there is this danger: The Soviet Union, having signed a ban agreement, could go on preparing for further tests. There seems to be little question that such preparatory work can be conducted in secret. When ready, they could launch a test in violation of the ban.

Under this argument, it is assumed we would know about it. But having ourselves honestly observed the test prohibition, we would have made preparations to resume nuclear experiments. According to this view, we would at that point be severely and perhaps critically handicapped in matching or surpassing possible Soviet nuclear advances through new tests.

Others think, of course, that we would not be thus trapped, that we could in fact make up any lost time while we were "sitting by."

Up to now the fear that we would be handicapped has been one of the decisive factors in our refusal to accept a test ban.

The thing to remember is that we must still be satisfied on this point, even if it should be demonstrated conclusively that tests cannot be held in secret.

In other words, we must not imagine that the feasibility of the test ban idea stands or falls on the secrecy issue. It did not before and there is no reason why it should now.

It would mean little to be able to detect nuclear tests if after agreeing to a ban the Soviet Union should spring surprise experiments that might gravely compromise our national safety.

The important thing is that we must recognize that any agreement, any ban or any compromise that the Soviet Union makes, must be considered in the light of the past record and their avowed belief that such agreements are made only to be broken. The record shows that we cannot trust them and anyone who feels that they can be trusted is uninformed as to the record or woefully stupid.

American Inventors

"Liberals" bemoaning the status of creative scientific endeavor in the American defense project obscure the real impediment to more rapid advancement in this area. For, whereas "liberals" berate security precautions designed to keep valuable information out of the hands of Communists, the flow of scientific invention has, in fact, been hindered by the collectivist tendencies of the government.

A Georgetown University survey of 500 leading inventors, for example, discloses that they dislike dealing with the bureaucracy (38 per cent said they had refrained from bringing devices possible useful in defense to the attention of the government) for these reasons: (a) insufficient pay for their inventions; (b) too much red tape; (c) antagonism from government administrators; (d) denial of invention rights.

The study shows inventors prefer to work with industry rather than government because the financial rewards are greater, there is less red tape, and the people are more interested and helpful.

Cited in connection with the inventors' fear that their invention rights will be taken from them is an October, 1957, issue of the Journal of the Patent article by patent attorney Richard Spencer, in the Office Society. Spencer traces the decline of American invention, and the antagonism between inventors and the government to the inception of the New Deal. The bugaboo of "technological unemployment," Spencer points out, made the New Dealers unfriendly towards advances in the natural sciences. Consequently, administrative and court decisions were forthcoming to balk inventive zeal—primarily through the invalidation of patents. ("One appellate judge stated that as long as he sat on the bench he would never sustain a patent.")

"The advancement of the natural sciences..." Spencer relates, "lost out to the development of the social sciences, as represented in the New Deal by Messrs. Harold Ickes, Harry Hopkins and Henry Wallace."

This backward glance into causes brings to mind even more ancient declaration, to wit: "...visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation."

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Newspaper Alliances

Few people realize the importance of reading a newspaper that is not lined up with any group seeking special privileges. Such groups as politicians or manufacturers or labor unions all trying to put over any special privilege for their group.

A newspaper that is beholden to manufacturers that believe in protective tariffs can hardly permit letters to the editor or features to be published in that newspaper that take a stand against protective tariffs. The reason is that it could not harmonize what it was advocating with the Coveting Commandment and the Golden Rule that it gives lip service to being its guide.

Of a newspaper that is operated with union labor contracts cannot really discuss how fair wages are to be arrived at. They really cannot accept letters to the editor that advocate a free and unhampered market for the products of labor.

The reason they cannot accept these kinds of letters to the editor is because they would be greatly embarrassed because they would not be able rationally to answer the man who was contending that wages should not be established under duress. They would be embarrassed if they tried to. And there is less embarrassment to the publisher to refuse to run rational letters to the editor that were trying to promote the belief that wages can only be fairly arrived at by letting all workers help set wages; that a free market for labor agrees with the ideologies set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Golden Rule and the Decalogue. The editor dare not try to refute a free market for labor by reasoning.

If the publisher was consistent in what he advocated, he, of course, couldn't be embarrassed. But if he were not and should accept rational letters to the editor on a free market for labor, he would make the union members angry and they would run up his costs by producing less per hour or by limiting apprentices or making a contract that sooner or later would break him. He would also have the union members who actually believed that total wages were higher because of unions inclined not to take his paper. So the publisher has to refuse to accept letters to the editor that are promoting on this subject the American way of life.

Thus, the readers only get a watered-down interpretation of human relations. They get only wishful thinking that total wages can be raised without increasing production. They thus do not have an opportunity to get both sides in order to form a rational belief.

Or the newspaper that is lined up with some political party because it wants to keep them in power in order to get legislation passed that will give them or their group a special privilege, is not a newspaper that can really impartially interpret the news. Their opinions will be out of harmony with the ideologies of the Declaration of Independence that all men, not just some men, are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

On the other hand, the newspaper that is striving for equality before civil law, as man is before the laws of God, is always glad to get letters from those who believe in any form of socialism and advocate collective bargaining that takes away from an individual his right to make an individual bargain, because it gives him an opportunity to explain the blessings that come from respecting human initiative of each and every person. It gives him an opportunity to be of service to his readers.

I believe it was Ben Franklin who said he always wanted something in his newspaper that was useful to his readers or entertaining. And it is hard to think of anything more useful to the readers than to get them to be able to recognize contradiction and think in harmony with eternal principles.

The kind of a newspaper a man takes has a lot to do with the kind of a man he becomes—whether he becomes a man who respects human initiative of everybody or whether he advocates special privileges for some at the detriment of others.

Reds Back Down On Another Agreement

WASHINGTON — Russia is negotiating on another international agreement.

This latest flouting of a solemn pledge is the Soviet's deliberate ignoring of the March 1 deadline for the submission of summaries of scientific papers to be presented by nations participating in the Second International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy, in Geneva, September 1-13.

The U.S. sent in 900 such abstracts, dealing with a wide range of peaceful nuclear developments. Britain produced several hundred; and a considerable number came from France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland and other countries.

Russia alone of the 80-odd member nations of the International Atomic Energy Agency, that will attend the Geneva parley, failed to submit a single summary.

The devious intent of this hold-out is unmistakable. These abstracts are being circulated among all the Conference nations. That makes it easily possible for Russia to get a complete fill-in on every scientific presentation which will be made, while maintaining drum-tight secrecy on its plans and pronouncements.

Thus the way is open for the Reds to pull one of their characteristic propaganda coups, with some spectacular claim or maneuver.

This likelihood is strongly indicated in an Atomic Commission report to the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee. In restrained language the Commission summarizes this extraordinary situation as follows:

"Deadline for submission of abstracts to the United Nations was March 1, and the final papers to be in UN hands by June 1. All the participating nations, except Soviet Russia, honored the March 1 deadline, and submitted their abstracts in accordance with the agreed rules. All nations, except Soviet Russia, are also expected to honor the June 1 deadline for submission of the complete scientific papers."

"The result may well be that the Russians will gain an insight into the papers of other nations, without showing their own hand, and will thus be in a position to exploit the gaps which the Soviet sees in other countries' presentations."

The first world Atomic Conference was held in Geneva in 1955. It was a direct outgrowth of President Eisenhower's historic atomic-for-peace address before the UN General Assembly in December 1953.

TELLTALE OMISSION — Head of the U.S. delegation to this year's parley will be Dr. Isidor Rabi, noted Columbia University scientist, chairman of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, and member of the NATO Science Council.

as well as at all other international atomic gatherings.

Strauss' indicated absence from the September meeting is therefore being viewed as a significant tip-off of his departure from the Atomic Commission when his term expires June 30.

Early this year the one-time New York banker let it be known he had decided not to seek a second term. He told friends his wife and he wanted to retire to the "quiet and peace of private life." But last month, Strauss apparently had a change of heart.

Leaders of the Joint Atomic Committee were sounded out on Strauss' chances for Senate approval in the event he was reappointed by the President.

The reaction to these inquiries was strongly hostile. Senators Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), vice chairman and Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) bluntly served notice they would do their utmost to block Strauss' confirmation.

Whether this discouraging response was the cause, or some other reason, it now seems set that Strauss will definitely leave the Atomic Commission. That is the interpretation insiders are putting on Dr. Rabi's selection as head of the U.S. delegation to the Geneva parley.

In addition to the five official delegates, this country will also be represented by eight "congressional advisers," five State Department officials, and 150 technical assistants. The latter will include leading U.S. scientists.

They will present the 100 or more American papers which will be delivered orally at the Conference. They will deal with basic science and technology, controlled thermonuclear development, isotopes, and progress in atomic reactors.

Britain is planning to have the largest display at a trade fair during the Conference. The British have leased 64,000 square feet of display space, as against only 32,000 by the U.S. France has applied for 40,000 square feet, and Russia 10,000. Prominent among the displays will be reactors and other nuclear equipment that will be offered for sale.

FALLOUT — Those widely-discussed U.S. nuclear tests in the South Pacific will get underway this weekend with a "shot" in the megaton range — weather permitting. Fifteen to 18 tests have been scheduled over the next three months. They will include warheads for various missiles, among them the Navy's still-untried POLARIS, and one explosion of a nuclear weapon at more than 150 miles in outer space. A radioactive leak caused the shutdown of an experimental reactor at the Atomic Commission's Oak Ridge, Tenn., plant. However, there was no danger to the plant's personnel as all the radioactive material was contained inside the reactor. That's what the Commission has reported to the Joint Atomic Committee. Representative Melvin Price (D., Ill.), chairman of the Joint Research Subcommittee, has summoned Dr. James Killian, scientific adviser to the President, for an explanation of a reported rejection of a plan to speed up development of an atomic-pow-

Editor,

There is a matter of paramount importance that I would like to call to your attention.

A month ago I had a thirty-five minute conversation with President Eisenhower... an hour and a half with Vice President Nixon... and talks with such senators as John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson. In addition, I made it a point of talking to a number of our leaders in various fields of government responsibility. In all of these conversations we discussed the moral deterioration in the United States and the Communist penetration abroad. In almost all of these conversations I found a spirit of pessimism. Several of these men asked me what I thought ought to be done. I replied that we must maintain a strong economy and build a powerful military force—but more! We must rebuild our moral defenses.

How can this be done? George Washington once said: "A nation's moral strength has its roots in religious revival." I am convinced that only a genuine revival of true religion can restore the moral qualities to the various phases of American life.

This coming Sunday we are beginning our evangelistic crusade on the West Coast. We will be at the Cow Palace in San Francisco for a number of weeks. I believe this will give us an opportunity to speak to the conscience of the country once again. Beginning May 3 and every Saturday night thereafter the meetings will be carried on television from coast to coast.

In addition, would you join with us in this spiritual crusade by carrying news stories in your daily newspaper? This has a tendency to focus interest in a spiritual event of enough magnitude to attract attention and cause discussion.

The Doctor Says:

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M.D.

Some of the facts connected with the worldwide outbreak of Asian influenza are now known. Others will take time to study and evaluate.

The so-called Asian flu is caused by a particular strain of the influenza A virus. This virus can be considered responsible for the second great pandemic, or epidemic, of the century, the first having occurred in 1918-19.

The exact point of origin of this worldwide epidemic is not known, but apparently the first outbreaks occurred in China in February and March of 1957.

By April of last year epidemic influenza had appeared in Hong Kong and had spread to other areas bordering the western Pacific Ocean. By May the virus, carried principally along shipping routes, had spread through Malaysia, the Philippines, Guam, Okinawa, India and Indonesia. DURING JUNE, 1957, more than 29 countries in various parts of the world became affected with Asian influenza for the first time.

It reached the Middle East in epidemic proportions in July. By the end of August the epidemics had declined in most countries of Eastern and Western Asia, but true epidemics began being reported from Europe and North America.

Widespread occurrence of Asian influenza began in the United States in September. The epidemics in most communities affected persons of high school age first, then elementary school pupils and lastly, the grownups.

Although it affected people 65 years and older last of all preliminary reports showed the highest proportion of deaths among these older members of our society.

By mid-October influenza in the United States appeared to have reached its peak and is believed to have affected at least 20 million persons throughout the country.

IN LESS THAN a year this Asian strain of influenza had attacked people on every continent, probably even including Antarctica. Conditions of crowding and poverty often resulted in high attack rates.

Deaths caused by Asian influenza did not read the same numbers as those caused by the influenza of the 1918-19 epidemic. Nevertheless, most countries which kept good statistics did record an increase in the mortality rates, probably partly the result of the Asian flu. At this time it is still uncertain whether the pandemic is over or not.

The complete effectiveness of the influenza vaccine which is now available is also questionable. Rumor has it that this vaccine does not by any means prevent everyone from getting the flu. Whether it makes the disease milder in those who have been vaccinated than in those who have not will doubtless be reported on at a later date.

There is no doubt that much valuable information will be gathered from this experience which could not have been obtained in influenza pandemics of the past.

While this is certainly not the total answer, yet at least it is an attempt to do something. Last summer tremendous interest was created in the New York Crusade and it had its repercussions all over the nation. I believe we can see even greater results from San Francisco this spring and summer. It is my prayer that God will see fit to sweep the country with the fires of religious revival that will restore the moral strength that has been slowly but surely ebbing away for the last years.

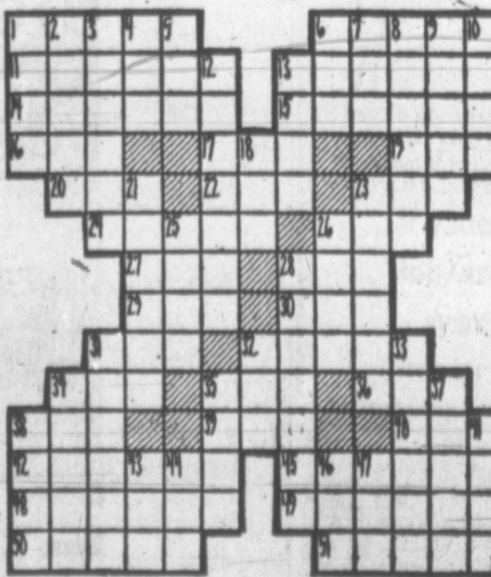

With warmest personal greetings, I am Cordially yours, Billy Graham

If Depletion Tax Allowances Cut, Price Increase Expected

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has quietly warned Congress that if it cuts the petroleum industry's 27 1/2 per cent depletion tax allowance prices of all oil products would be raised. It said bluntly that higher prices would be the only alternative because there would not be enough capital to continue the large-scale exploration necessary to maintain adequate supplies of fuel. Hence, it said, the revenue would have to come from the consumer. The warning was issued even though all moves in the current Congress to cut the allowance have been sidetracked. But Jersey Standard apparently was looking into the future. Each year the allowance is brought under the tax laws. Other companies and trade associations have been issuing similar warnings. Special Deduction The allowance was enacted in 1926. It enables an oil or natural gas producer to deduct 27 1/2 per cent of his gross income before paying taxes but with the stipulation the deduction cannot exceed 50 per cent of net income. In passing the law Congress recognized the fact that oil and gas removed from the ground can not be replaced even though they are capital assets. It also recognized that a producer, to stay in business, must spend money to discover new deposits — a necessity which Jersey Standard called "one of the riskiest known." The company, in a defense of the law in its house organ, "The Lamp," said "criticism of the depletion provision sometimes arises from the fact that some individual oil men are wealthy, and this fact excites emotions of resentment or envy." No Exceptional Profits "The industry, as a whole, however," it continued, "has not earned exceptional profits as compared with other industries." It added that the average cost of a wildcat well today is $100,000, and only one out of nine produces oil. "If the depletion allowance were reduced or eliminated," it said, "prices of crude oil would have to be higher to meet vital needs of the civilian economy and of national defense. This would mean increased costs of all products, including gasoline and home heating oil." Moreover, it is by no means likely that the government would increase its tax take. To the extent that the deduction has provided incentive to increased investments in oil production, its effect has been to increase the size of the oil industry and thus the total amount of taxes it pays.

MRS. LEDBETTER'S ART

Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter demonstrates her picture-taking prowess in front of Pampa High School where she teaches Chemistry. Mrs. Ledbetter has her own dark room at her Skellytown home. "You can do wonderful things with a camera," says Mrs. Ledbetter, speaking of her favorite hobby.

Mrs. Ledbetter Enjoys Photography Hobby

By WALLACE TRUESDELL
Pampa News Staff Writer

You don't have to be a professional to take good pictures, as Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter shows. And you can get good pictures out of any camera as the woman behind the camera proves.

Mrs. Ledbetter teaches chemistry at Pampa High School and spends her off hours in the dark room at home in Skellytown. She has already won two national prizes and is aiming for a third and higher one.

"Teaching is my first love," she says. She majored in biology and minored in Chemistry at the University of Oklahoma and got her Master's from North Texas State. In college she did her own photography developing and teaching in Oklahoma, sponsored the high school annual.

"We took our own pictures and developed them," says Mrs. Ledbetter, "and the prints that weren't good enough for the Annual, we sold."

Then eight years ago she set herself up with some simple dark-room equipment and picked up a Brownie Traveler.

With her Traveler she won two prizes in a national contest. She was lucky enough, say say, to have pictures go to Washington, D.C. With one, she won $25, which is the minimum prize for pictures judged in Washington, and twice as much with the other.

Only then did she invest in a new camera, a German Linhof, and with that she won another $25 prize.

The top prize is $1,000 and Mrs. Ledbetter thinks there's no use shooting if she isn't going to shoot for the best.

"I do enough to pay expenses," says the part-time photographer. "It's an interesting hobby. You have to get into it to make it worthwhile."

She took a photography course at the University of Colorado one summer and is taking a correspondence course from the New York summer and is taking a correspondence course from the New York Institute of Photography. "Of course," she says, "A correspondence course is no substitute for getting out and working with people. There used to be an adult camera group here but it closed."

Mrs. Ledbetter is well-enough equipped so that she can blow her scenic shots up to mural size to decorate her living room walls. Her husband, who shares her interest in photography, helps her make them up.

When she was a girl in Tonkawa, Okla., she owned a little Brownie and had fun. Some of the best pictures she has seen were made with a pin hole camera which doesn't even have a lens.

Which all goes to prove that even if she wins $1,000 instead of $50, she won't buy a thousand dollar camera and she also won't quit teaching school.

On The Business Scene

By UNITED PRESS
Charges that Bethlehem Steel Corp. used tie-in sales to drive small producers out of the market were denied in Federal Court. Two defense witnesses in the government antitrust suit against the merger of Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. issued the denials.

C. L. Jacobson, vice president of Chrysler Corp., testified that requiring federal sales taxes to appear on a new car would put dealers in "an impossible position." He said the disclosure would make it easy for buyers to figure out how much the car cost the dealer and would make it extremely difficult for the dealer to convince the customer his markup is fair and reasonable.

Domestic petroleum refiners made drastic cuts in processing activities last week to bring supplies in line with demand, the American Petroleum Institute reported. Meanwhile, crude oil production was increased, but the gain was more than offset by a reduction in imports.

Heavy construction awards this week amounted to $325,733,000, against $304,489,000 last week and $439,627,000 a year ago. This lifts the cumulative total for the first 17 weeks of 1958 to $5,414,600,000 or 10 per cent below the corresponding 1957 period.

(Special to The News)

Ike Schedules Two Conferences

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower scheduled two important conferences this morning before flying South for a golfing weekend at the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Club.

He was scheduled to fly back here Monday.
