Brorman named EH Woman for '89

BY SANDY STAGNER
Lifestyles Editor

Dolores Brorman was named the 1989 Extension Homemaker Club Woman of the Year at the 39th Annual Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council Appreciation Luncheon on Monday at the Hereford Community Center.

Brorman, a 30-year member of Ford Extension Club, was presented a silver engraved tray by John Brooks, managing editor of The Hereford Brand. The paper has sponsored the award since it began in 1952.

Brorman, who has held most every office in her club more than once, has also served as president and served on numerous committees for the Extension Homemakers Council. She continues into the 1990 year as Council recreation chairman. She was presented the award in recognition of her outstanding contribution in extension club work.

The honoree explained, "My work in extension homemakers has been very rewarding. I have made many friends, developed leadership and kept abreast of the new trends in homemaking, cooking and sewing. Home extension is a very worthwhile organization, giving education, developing friendships and getting to know people by working with them."

"My work in the organization and the Council of Catholic Women complement each other," she added. "Both organizations are structured similarly and help educate women in home, family, community and spiritually. The family is the vital link for the community, state and national. Extension homemakers is an important organization to educate everyone in pursuing their place in the world of today."

Brorman, who was born and reared in Hereford, is married to Frank Brorman. They are engaged in farming in the Ford Community and are members of the Immaculate Conception Church in Vega. The couple has six children and two granddaughters.

Also honored at the luncheon held at the Hereford Community Center were Byrdie Fellers of Cultural E.H. Club, Carmen Rickman of Draper E.H. Club, Edith Higgins of North Hereford E.H. Club, Marcie Ginn of Wyche E.H. Club and Martha Rickman of Westway E.H. Club.

The 1989 honorees were recognized for their leadership, growth and development in extension club work and their involvement in the community, church and family life.

Argen Draper of Wyche E.H. Club presented pins, certificates and long stemmed flowers to 50-year member, Tille Scott, and 62-year member, Winnie Wiseman. Flowers were given to Leta Kaul, Vernis Parsons and Pet Ott, who have combined memberships of 174 years.

Women who had 100 percent attendance at club meetings included Mariellen Homfeld, Bippus; Jewell Hargrave, Cultural; Dean Bradley, Mary Brorman and Maudette Smith, Ford; Carmen Rickman, Sherri Blackwell, Johnnie Messer and Tonie Vaughn, Draper; Naomi Brisendine and Martha Lueb, North Hereford; Helen Brown, Westway; and Pet Ott and Clara Trowbridge, Wyche. Women cited for having perfect attendance at Council meetings were Carmen Rickman, Johnnie Messer, Maudette Smith, Grace Covington, Marcie Ginn and Carol Odom. The presentation of awards was made by Mariellen Homfeld, education chairman. She was assisted by Grace Covington, Tonie Vaughn and Virginia Sumner.

Gratitude was extended by Carol Odom of Wyche E.H. Club to The Hereford Brand for its continuing support of Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers. John Brooks was presented a Texas-shaped chocolate cake.

Thanks was also given to KPAN for additional news coverage and to the Deaf Smith County Commissioners for their support of the agricultural extension service program.

The annual luncheon depicted a spring theme.

Following the covered dish meal prepared by Deaf Smith County extension homemakers club members, Maudette Smith, E.H. Council chairman and member of the Ford E.H. Club, welcomed the group. She also introduced the guest speaker, John Stagner, who gave a program entitled "Just A Few Words."

North Hereford E.H. Club member Edith Higgins gave the invocation and the pledges to the flags were led by Jewell Hargrave, E.H. Council corresponding secretary and member of the Cultural E.H. Club.

Sherry Blackwell, E.H. Council recording secretary and member of Draper E.H. Club, recognized special guests: County Judge Tom Simons; county commissioners, John Stribling, Austin Rose, Troy Don Moore and Johnny Latham; Extension Homemakers Council chairman, Maudette Smith; County Texas Extension Homemakers Association chairman, Johnnie Messer; and Texas Extension Homemakers Association district director, Belinda Goode.

The 1988 Woman of the Year was Juanita Perrin of Bippus E.H. Club. Other past honorees include Mariellen Homfeld, 1987; Johnnie Messer, 1986; Carol Odom, 1985; Mary Carter, 1984; Louise Packard, 1983; Gayle Carter, 1982; Cindy Norvell, 1981; Betty Thomas, 1980; Terri Johnson, 1979; Janet Coleman, 1978; Wilma Bryan, 1977; Jewell Hargrave, 1976; Mrs. Bobby Kendrick, 1975; Linda Welty, 1974; Peg Hoff, 1973; Carolee Smith, 1972; Camelia Jones, 1971; Mary Bradley, 1970; Verna Schroeder, 1969; Kate Bradley, 1968; Bell Reid, 1967; Nell Hodges, 1966; Vida Jacobsen, 1965; Robbie Fortenberry, 1964; Jessie Wagner, 1963; Bess Werner, 1962; Helen Caraway, 1961; Juanita Hershey, 1960; Glenna Tooley, 1959; Johnnie Turrentine, 1958; Flora Homfeld, 1957; Roberta Campbell, 1956; Ruth DeHart, 1955; Helen Parsons, 1954; Pet Ott, 1953; and Opai Norton, 1952.

A mild-looking little man walked into the IRS office and looked around. "What can we do for you?" asked the inspector.

"Nothing, thank you," replied the little man. "I just wanted to see the people I'm working for."

Former Hereford resident Pickens Moore will be performing in a "Pavarotti Plus" program on PBS-TV Wednesday night. In Hereford, the show is scheduled on KACV, cable Channel 5 from Amarillo, from 8 to 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Moore sings with the Collegiate Choral, which will be accompanying Pavarotti and his program. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Moore, former residents. Don was choir director at Hereford High School, and Mrs. Moore taught in elementary school.

Word of the television show came in a letter to one of Moore's classmates. The class of 1955 is planning a reunion, and Pickens wrote that he would be unable to attend and invited former friends to tune in the tv show. Moore resides in New York City and mentioned that he had been to the Cowgirl Hall of Fame Restaurant and enjoyed the food.

Congress is working on a new voter registration bill which would allow citizens to register as a voter when they renew their driver's license, collect welfare checks, or visit any government office.

Proponents of the plan say that by making registration easier, more people will vote. Opponents contend that along with making registration easier, there will be more voter fraud. Both sides are missing the point. In a recent poll of citizens that did not vote in the last Presidential election, only three percent cited voter registration as a reason not to vote. The vast majority listed reasons such as lack of interest in politics, ignorance of the candidates, or some other excuse.

The unimpressed voter is a menace to our democratic system. There have been a number of criminals, con men and other crooks elected to high office just because their names sounded familiar to the voter.

Probably the highest cause of voter apathy is the length of our political campaigns. From the filing time through the primary process and the general election, we spend almost a year on a campaign. No wonder the voters lose interest.

Just freely passing out voter registration cards is not the answer. Maybe we need to shorten the election process and concentrate on educating voters on the issues. That might do more toward increasing participation in the elections.

Prisoner pizza order prompts phone change

By CINDY POTTORFF
Staff Writer

Last week, prisoners at the Deaf Smith County Jail decided to add a little variety to their diets: they ordered three large pizzas from the Pizza Mill. What makes this more odd is that prisoners are only supposed to be able to place collect calls from the jail.

The incident was pointed out by jail administrator David Castillo as an example of problems with the jail's existing phone system at Monday's Deaf Smith County Commissioner's Court meeting. The phone system is designed to prevent prisoners from calling out and harassing individuals. Southwestern Bell pays the jail a commission on all local calls placed through the system. Problems have arisen because some prisoners have discovered how to circumvent the system by dialing an access code, thus defrauding the telephone company.

Castillo pointed out that, in the past year, he has complained to Southwestern Bell about the problems with the jail's phone system. Southwestern Bell has failed to correct the problems, he said.

In order to correct the problem, Castillo suggested switching the jail's phone system to the Gateway Company.

Gateway's representative, Ramond Reed, explained the system would also be designed to allow prisoners to make collect calls, but would avoid the fraud problem. This is because Gateway is in the business of exclusively servicing jails and has built appropriate safeguards into its computer monitoring system.

In addition, Gateway would pay the jail a higher commission on telephone calls placed through the system. A commission of twenty-five percent would be paid on all calls placed through Gateway's system.

The commission voted to approve the trade with Gateway, subject to checking with Gateway's present customers and finding the company's performance satisfactory.

Castillo also mentioned that he is discussing contracting jail space with Randall County. If the deal goes through, Deaf Smith County Jail would house eight to ten medium to low-risk inmates at $35 an inmate. Additional personnel would not be required to supervise the Randall County inmates, so the deal holds money-making potential for the jail.

Sheriff Joe Brown will set up an account for monies from the profits from the jail commissary, and decide how the money should be spent.

Commissioners decided to repair the leak in the basement of the library by using prisoners to break out the old caulking and then having it recaulked. The cost going this route should be minimal. Handling the problem this way may also avoid extra costs if the sidewalk next to the library is not finished settling. Commissioner Austine Rose is in charge of supervising the repairs.

In the future, the county may purchase a fax machine. Faxes are used for arrests out of county, arrests out of state, and district attorney's office's requests now.

Mike Strawn and Bruce Logan, safety engineers from Crum & Forster Insurance, discussed ways to increase safety as well as minimize potential liability with county commissioners. An additional benefit of using their suggestions could be keeping the county's insurance premiums low.

In other business, county commissioners voted to advertise bids and open bids on March 26 for law enforcement and county public officials liability insurance. They also selected two members-at-large to the salary grievance committee, as well as choosing two alternates.

Opponents criticize Hance

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican gubernatorial hopeful Kent Hance is under fire from all sides after debuting a campaign commercial that criticizes a $1,000 donation GOP hopeful Clayton Williams gave to Democrat Jim Mattox.

Both Williams and Mattox called the commercial false. A third Republican gubernatorial candidate, Jack Rains, said Texas voters don't want such "negative" campaigning.

The Hance commercial, aired for the first time Monday, focuses on a $1,000 donation to Mattox's campaign for governor and asks, "Do we know the real Clayton Williams yet?"

A mailing to 100,000 GOP households also rips numerous

Williams contributions to "liberal" Democrats, including gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards and U.S. Senate hopeful Hugh Parmer.

The Hance assault comes two weeks before the March 13 primary. It follows a Dallas Morning News-Houston Chronicle poll showing Williams with support of 45 percent of likely GOP voters and Hance with 22 percent. Two other candidates, Rains and Tom Luce, received single-digit support.

"Clayton Williams has spent $8 million painting himself to the public as the man who's going to ride on his horse into Austin and change the ways of the evil politicians. That is not who Clayton Williams is," said Mark Sanders, Hance's press secretary, of the new commercial.

"Clayton Williams, in his advertisements says, 'I fought the politicians.' Well, he didn't fight them. He bought them. He is not this great, populist outsider as his ads would portray him. He is the consummate insider, who plays the game in Austin with cash," Sanders said.

The ad is based on a Williams' speech in which he discussed the $1,000 donation to Mattox's campaign. After his ClayDesta long distance telephone company had lost a contract with the state, Williams said Mattox, the state attorney general, solicited the contribution while hinting he might consider state involvement in a lawsuit.

By PRISCILLA POWER

My hero is a man who really knows how to be a man. He does not derive his definition of "manhood" from this crazy, mixed-up world we live in, a world that has, to a large degree, lost its perspective of right and wrong.

My hero is my husband, Michael Power. He has dug deep into the man Jesus Christ, his God, to discover the meaning of being a man.

My hero is a man of God, completely surrendered to the hand of his Heavenly Father. He knows and takes very seriously his position as head of our household. He takes the time to read the Word of God to his family and earnestly prays for us day after day. Before daybreak, my hero can be found on his knees, seeking the will of the Lord. He is setting a fine example as a father to our four children. He is living out before them the faith he is placing in their little hearts.

My hero loves his wife, one of the greatest securities he can offer me and his offspring.

He works diligently and faithfully at his job, counting it as a privilege to be able to provide for his family. He is a man who isn't afraid to express his affections, freely lavishing them upon his loved ones.

My hero knows how to listen. Patiently he offers his ear and takes the time to be interested in what each person who crosses his pathway has to say. My hero can be found counseling with a heart-broken friend, encouraging a weary truck driver, spurring on a discourages fellow employee, playing a game of checkers with his children, or tickling them until they cry for mercy!

In this day when society tries to get us to set up Batman, the stock market or a basketball star to be our hero, my hero has found that Jesus Christ will never disappoint him, unlike those other temporarily admired people and things.

My hero is a real man, and it's because he knows who his hero is, too.

Students study American History

Many fifth grade students at Bluebonnet Elementary School in Hereford made likenesses of people in American history as part of American History Month in February. Using a variety of materials including nylon, coathangers, string, cotton and others, the likenesses depict many important figures. They are displayed at the school's media center.

'Fatsats', 'lightsats' proposed by OTA

WASHINGTON (AP) - Increasing the payload on a spacecraft can make it more economical, but so can sending up a series of smaller satellites, a congressional study says.

The Office of Technology Assessment proposes "fatsats," "lightsats," and "microspacecraft" as possible solutions in the quest for a cheaper space program.

With payloads costing up to $800,000 a pound, the congressional office has been looking at offbeat technologies that can reduce costs. One idea in the study released Monday proposes to launch 10,000 small projectiles a year for as little as $500 a pound for the payload and $20 a pound for the launcher.

"Unless spacecraft costs are reduced, even dramatic reductions in launch costs will have only a small effect on total spacecraft program costs," said the report "Affordable Spacecraft: Design and Launch Alternatives."

The study follows OTA's "Buyer's Guide" to launch options, its "Big, Dumb Booster: A Low-Cost Space Transportation Option," and its study of human spaceflight. A summary report on space transportation will be published in the spring.

Reducing the cost of launchers will have only a small impact on overall costs and new strategies are needed to cut the cost of payloads, the report concludes.

The report proposes: Requiring payload designers to include a margin for weight overruns to avoid the long delays and high cost of redesigning spacecraft that tend to grow in size and weight during production and "gross out" their intended launchers.

-Allowing "fatsats," or spacecraft that are built larger, with less-expensive materials to keep costs down. The money saved can far exceed the increased cost of a larger launcher.

-Making more "lightsats" that weigh less but have fewer capabilities. The idea is that for some applications, launching an array of small and simple satellites instead of one large sophisticated vehicle could cut costs.

-Building small instruments for small, rugged satellites that can be launched by laser-powered or cannon-like launchers.

Club members recognized

Diabetics at risk for disease

Diabetics are four times more likely than other people to develop a serious circulatory condition known as peripheral arterial disease (P.A.D.). Early diagnosis and treatment can save lives.

P.A.D., which affects more than three million Americans, most over age 50, is caused by hardening of the arteries, a gradual process in which fat, cholesterol and calcium accumulate inside the artery. This accumulation, called plaque, may partially or totally block the flow of blood to the legs and abdomen.

P.A.D. is characterized by pain, cramps or tightness in the calves, thighs, hips or buttocks when walking, which promptly subsides at rest. Other signs include general weakness, tingling, numbness or coldness in the legs or feet.

People often ignore these early warning signals, thinking such aches and pains are a normal part of growing old. Left untreated, however, P.A.D. can result in ulcerations, infections and gangrene in the legs. Diabetics, in particular, are 17 times more likely to develop gangrene than non-diabetic patients.

Since poor circulation and high blood sugar causes infections to heal slowly, diabetics should take proper care of their feet. Legs and feet should be inspected every day for blisters, cuts, scratches, infection or a change in temperature and color of skin.

Certain risk factors contribute to the likelihood and severity of P.A.D. in diabetics. These include:

- Being over 50.
- Duration of diabetes.
- Cigarette smoking and other tobacco use.
- High blood pressure.
- High blood cholesterol.
- Obesity.
- Family history of P.A.D., diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure or stroke.

P.A.D. can best be managed when diagnosed early. To encourage more people, especially diabetics, to be tested for P.A.D., a free screening program called "Leg Alert" has been developed by the National Council on the Aging, Inc., and is sponsored by hospitals and clinics nationwide.

In the screening, participants are given a simple and painless test to compare blood pressure at the arm and ankle. A significant difference may signal a blood-flow problem. Participants who show symptoms of P.A.D. are referred to their physicians for diagnosis and treatment.

Therapies of P.A.D. include exercise (especially walking); proper diet; giving up smoking; managing diabetes, high cholesterol and high blood pressure; and taking Trental (pentoxifylline), a medication that improves circulation. The goal of treatment is to alleviate the symptoms of P.A.D. by enhancing the patient's quality of life.

Necklaces topic of program

Perry Keyes gave a demonstration on making button necklaces when members of the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 22 in the home of Wilma Goetsch.

Keyes told the group where to purchase needed material for the necklaces.

Roll call was answered with "my favorite piece of jewelry".

During the business meeting with President Jewell Hargrave presiding, pennies were collected which will be donated to Girlstown. Also, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and the treasurer's report given.

Virginia Sumner presented a reading on the history of pocket change and the pledges to the U.S. and Texas flags were led by Naomi Hare.

The next meeting was planned for 11:30 a.m. March 9 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Brydie Fellers will serve as hostess.

Members present included Nell Pope, Hargrave, Hare, Keyes, Jewell Rogers, Vernis Parsons, Winnie Wiseman, Edith Hunter, Carrie Mae Doak, and Fannie Townsend. Sherry Gilmore was recognized as a special guest.

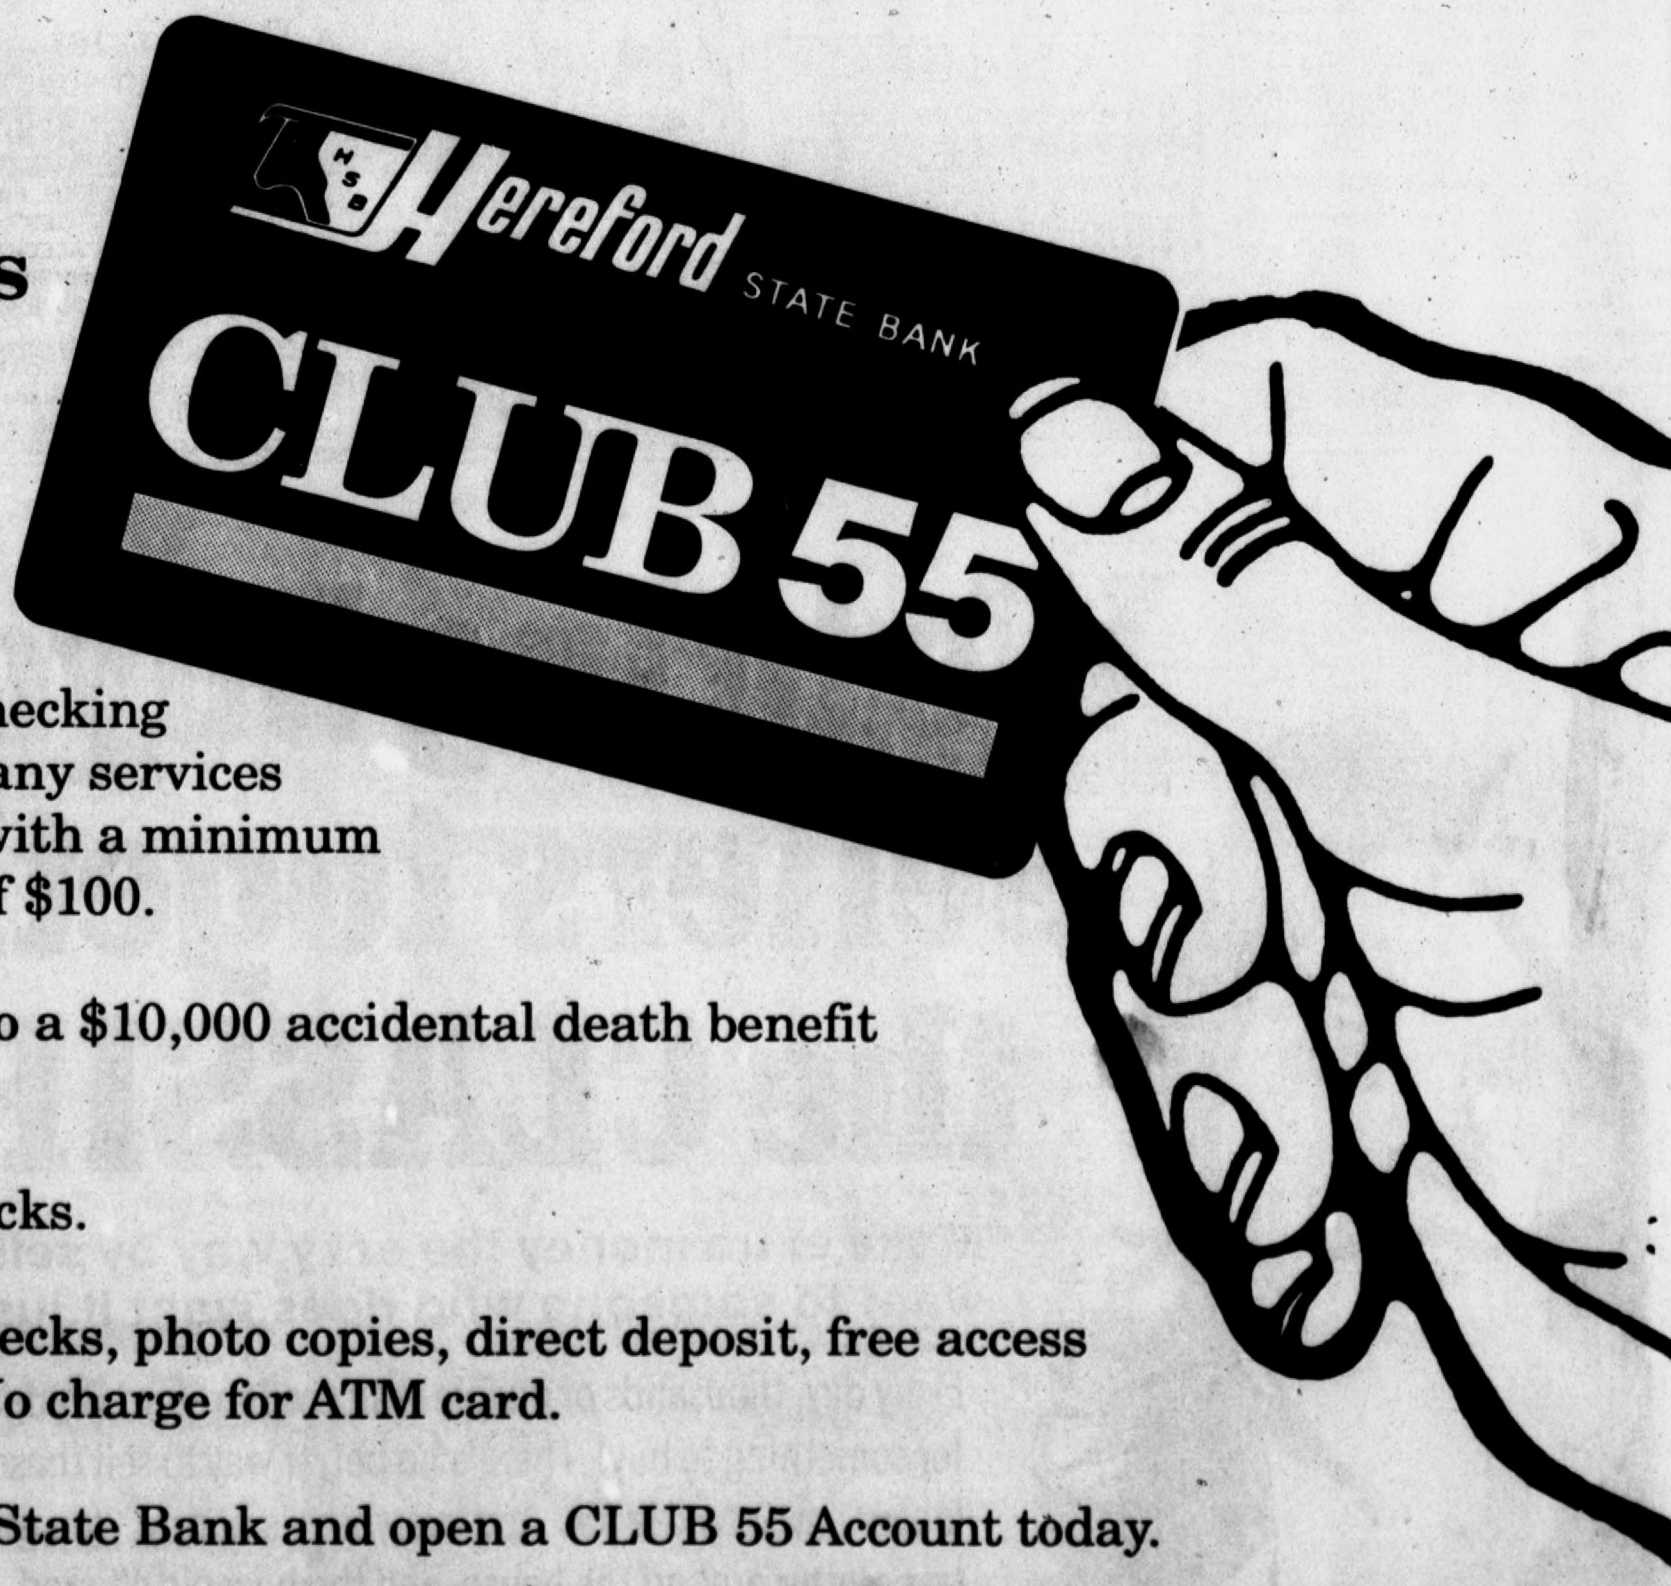

The first Presidential news conference to be televised was held by President Eisenhower on Jan. 19, 1955.

Three Lady Whitefaces named to All-District hoop squad

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces had three players named to the All-District 1-4A girls basketball team announced Monday.

Sophomore post Shantel Cornelius was named to the first team while seniors Cande Robbins and Stacy White received honorable mention.

Cornelius was the leading scorer and rebounder for the Herd, averaging 14.2 points and 6.8 boards per game.

White was the second-leading scorer at 10.7 ppg and led in assists with 3.1 per game. White was also the team's three-point threat, connecting on 48 treys during the season for a .410 average from long range. White's set career, single-season and single-game school records for three-point field goals made at 76, 48 and five (against Dunbar on Jan. 2).

Robbins averaged 8.5 points and was the second-leading rebounder at 6.3 per game.

"This is great that we were able to have three of our players chosen," said Lady Whiteface coach Dickie Faught. "We're really going to miss Stacy's perimeter shooting and Cande's inside play next year," he added. "They're going to be tough to replace."

Dalhart, Lamesa to meet here in area playoff

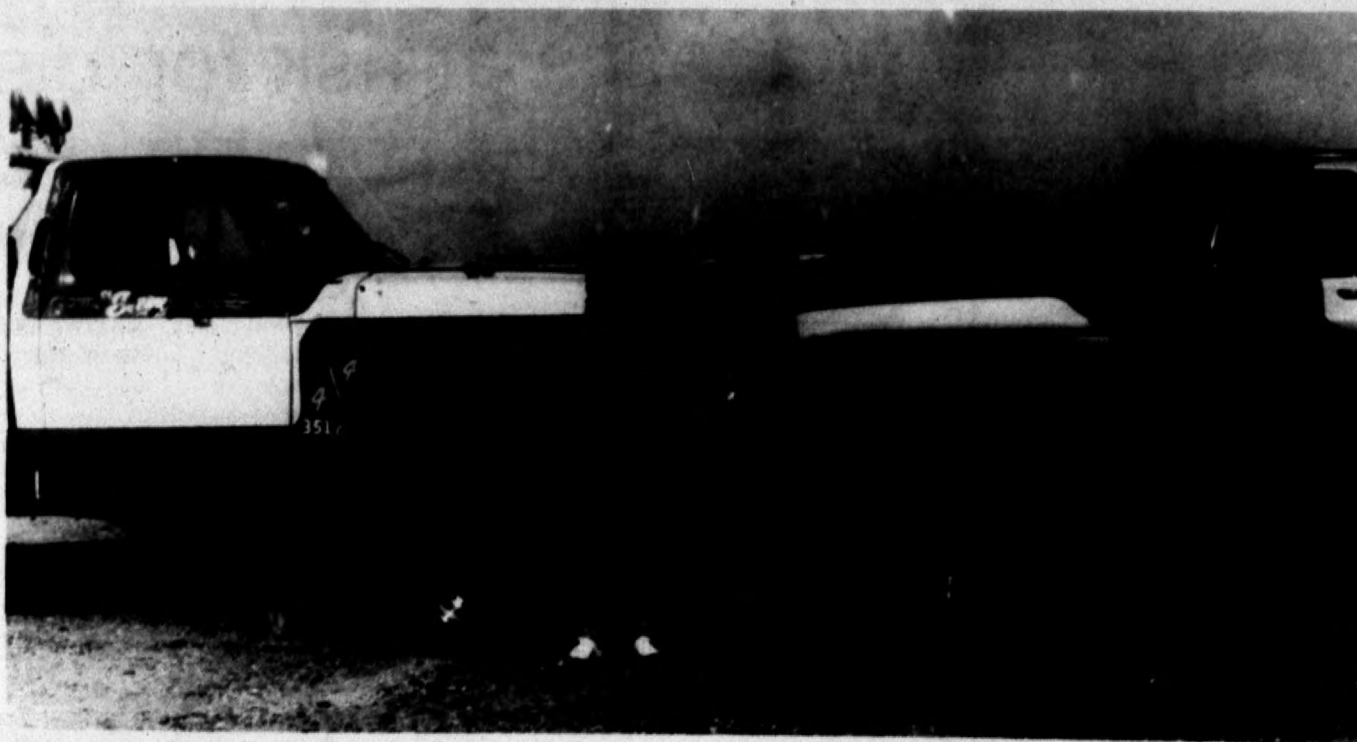

Whiteface Gymnasium will be the site of the Class 3A area-round boys basketball playoff between the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes and the Dalhart Golden Wolves at 7:30 p.m. today.

Lamesa (26-6) is the District 3-3A champion while Dalhart (24-6) is the District 1-3A runnerup behind Canyon.

The Tors dropped Clint, 79-73, while the Wolves topped Dimmitt, 70-67, in bi-district games to reach area play.

The winner of tonight's game advances to the Region 1-3A Tournament in Lubbock.

Admission to the game is $3 for adults and $1 for students.

Sand draggers

Lucy Hasting, left, and brother Sammy Hasting of Hereford display plaques they received at the 17th Annual Sand Drags held Saturday and Sunday along the Canadian River. Lucy placed second in the women's Long Wheel Base A Modified Production Class while Sammy claimed third in the men's competition of the same class. The siblings father, Jim Hasting, placed third in the Experimental Class.

Golfers 6th in Blue Ribbon

The Hereford Whiteface and Lady Whiteface golf teams both finished sixth at the Blue Ribbon Classic at Fort Stockton in the first tournament of the year for both teams.

The boys shot a two-day total of 679 to finish 70 strokes back of tourney winner Big Spring in the 20-team field. The Herd completed the first round in fifth place 23 strokes back at 329, but Snyder picked up 21 strokes Saturday to push the Herd to sixth.

The boys team was led freshman Jayson Mines, who finished eighth out of 100 golfers in the medalist standings with a two-round total of 161. Mines posted rounds of 79-82 to finish 20 strokes behind Big Spring's Chad Freeman.

"We played pretty well for the first tournament," boys coach Stacey Bixler said. "We made a few birdies and a few of the others, but I was pleased with the results."

"The greens were really fast with lots of break and lots of slope," he added. "We just don't have much of that around here and it showed."

Bixler added unseasonably warm weather had an effect on play.

"The temperature was about 85 degrees both days and that took a lot out of us Saturday," he said. "What with playing 18 holes both days and the long drive down their it all took a toll."

In the girls division, Andrews blew the other 12 teams away, taking the top four spots in the medalist standings to finish at 629, 97 strokes better than second-place Snyder. The Lady Whitefaces shot 414-399 to wind up 184 strokes back.

Naomi Grijalva was the only Hereford player to crack the individual top 10, finishing sixth out of 85 golfers with a score of 173, 20 strokes behind Andrews' Lisa McQuaters.

"Our goal was to break 400 on Saturday and we did that," girls coach Donnie O'Rand said.

"Krystal Sims played three nine holes good but had a nine-hole round that hurt us and so did Naomi," she added. Paula Britten settled down Saturday and played a good round and our freshman girls (Dusty Saul and Stephanie Walls) did a good job being the first tournament they have played in."

Both teams will take part in the Hobbs, N.M. Invitational Friday and Saturday. The boys will take A and B squads with the A playing the Hobbs Country Club course while the B tees up at Okatia Park Golf Course.

Roddy, West pace girls track team

The Hereford Lady Whiteface track and field team was forced to run with the big girls at the Comanche Relays in Fort Stockton and finished sixth in an 11-team field that included five Class 5A schools.

The Herd accumulated 35 points in the meet with 20 coming from sprinter Daphne Roddy.

"We didn't score as many points as we had figured," Coach Martha Emerson said, "but we still did some good things."

"The field included some very tough competition in Odessa Permian, Abilene Cooper, San Angelo Central and Midland Lee."

Roddy, in her first meet since undergoing knee surgery last year, brought home gold medals in the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Roddy turned in a time of 12.9 seconds in the 100 while clocking 25.7 in the 200.

"She ran a great time in the 200,"

Emerson said. "Her best in 1988 (24.84) set the school record. And she ran the 100 for the first time in three years."

Jill West added 10 more points to the Herd's total with a second place in the triple jump with a personal best of 34-1 and fifth in the long jump with a 15-3 1/2 effort.

Shantel Cornelius added another fifth-place finish by clearing 5-0 in the high jump while Cande Robbins hurled the discus 98-10 for sixth.

The 1600 relay team of Lisa Zepeda, Brandi Webb, West and Roddy was the only Hereford relay squad to qualify for the finals a 4:20.2. Roddy missed the finals after becoming ill and the revamped team finished sixth at 4:26.5.

The Lady Whitefaces will take another long trip Saturday when they run at the Concho Belle Relays at San Angelo.

Smith sets new PR at Frenship meet

The Hereford Whitefaces got the 1990 track and field season off to a slow start Saturday at the ABC-Tiger Relays in Wolfforth.

The Herd, which had several athletes compete in only one event or held out altogether after being on the track for only a week, scored 16 points to finish ninth in the 10-team field.

Tate Smith picked up nine of the points by taking second place in the high jump and sixth in the 110-meter hurdles. Smith equalled the winning height with a personal-best 6-4 in the high jump, but was placed second on the basis of fewer misses. He added another point with a 16.56 seconds in the high hurdles.

Philip Betzen and Leo Brown added points in the field events. Betzen tied for fourth in the discus with a toss of 130-8 while Brown placed fifth in the triple jump with a leap of 39-8.

The Herd's other two points came when the sprint relay team finished sixth in 46.15.

The Herd will return to action Saturday at the Lubbock Invitational.

Baseball talks put on hold for now

NEW YORK (AP) - Some players say the fight over salary arbitration eligibility isn't worth endangering baseball's opening.

Talks broke off Monday as the union leadership headed to Phoenix for an executive board meeting today, the 13th day of the spring training lockout. Players say they won't return to the bargaining table until owners make a better offer.

George Brett and Pete Incaviglia joined the ranks of players who don't think rolling back arbitration eligibility from three years to two is an issue so important that camps should remain closed.

"I know there are 649 other players and some of them feel the same way I do and some feel three years is too long," Brett, the Kansas City first baseman, said. "Personally, I feel three years is enough."

"Is two years arbitration really that big a deal that we have to really punish the fans and everybody else and the owners to get that?" Incaviglia, the Texas Rangers' player representative, said. "... I don't think it's worth it. For one year, I mean, if the guy's any good, he's going to make his money in the third year as well as the second year, in my opinion."

"I'm not afraid to speak my mind," Incaviglia told WBAP radio Monday. "We've got to find out whether we're really willing to sit out and take away 15 to 20 games this season."

Incaviglia said many players are willing to end the fight over arbitration rights, if that would make the owners end the lockout of spring-training camps.

Union chief Donald Fehr said he hadn't heard any complaints from the players.

Fehr canceled Monday's negotiating session when owners didn't come up with anything new.

"My expectation is that after the Phoenix meeting the great likelihood is that I will see players in two or three other places before coming back to New York," he said.

A delay in negotiations puts April 2 season openers at risk. Owners and players each say a minimum of three weeks of spring training is needed plus several days for players to travel to camps.

Commissioner Fay Vincent, commenting late in the day to reporters gathered around his desk, talked quietly about the failure to reach agreement.

"The season is in very heavy jeopardy," he said.

Vincent sympathized with fans, recalling his own feelings during the 50-day strike in 1981.

"I think that the ordinary fans doesn't give a damn about the issues," he said. "All the fan cares about is the appearance, and the appearance is that of two giant organizations overwhelmed with riches, fighting in circumstances where there's a national obligation or trust at stake. I find it tragic to the point of absurdity."

So do some of the nation's governors. Fourteen of them sent a letter to Vincent on Monday, calling the labor dispute "a national disgrace."

Although minimum salary, the benefit plan and roster size are still in dispute, both sides agree that arbitration eligibility is the key. The union claims it conceded the issue in 1985 only because management pleaded financial distress. Management says it got the year back as part of the overall bargain.

There is little optimism among players that Fehr can win back what he has already given up.

"I have a lot of respect for Don Fehr," Incaviglia said. "We believe he's doing the right thing. The problem is it's hard to give back what you got."

Several Rangers disagreed with Incaviglia.

"It's a big thing for us," said catcher Geno Petralli. "The players will stay together. Maybe it's better the talks stopped. If you're not making progress, it can help to step back and re-evaluate."

Third baseman Steve Buechele said, "If the only issue was whether arbitration should be after two or three years, it seems this could be settled soon."

"But the issue is more than that," Buechele said. "It's compensation for all players with less than three years. It's an important issue."

There's no indication when talks will resume.

"It really depends on his meeting," management negotiator Chuck O'Connor said of Fehr. "At the earliest, I probably could hear from him Wednesday. But, yes, it could be a week before we get together again. I hope not, but it could be."

Dave Gallagher of the Chicago White Sox said the union's view of the arbitration issue was correct.

"I'd rather wait this out and see something done because it's had a negative effect on me the last two seasons," said Gallagher, nine days short of two years service. "I feel strongly about the strength of the union. They don't want the younger players to be sacrificed."

San Diego player representative Dennis Rasmussen agreed. "I feel strongly that we should get that year back," he said, "and I think that's the overall feeling of the majority of players."

Gauchos trip up No. 2 UNLV, 78-70

By The Associated Press

The last time UC Santa Barbara beat UNLV, the Gauchos earned quite a prize - the school's first-ever invitation to the NCAA tournament. They're hoping it works again this season.

UCSB took a giant step forward in its bid to join the NCAA field by beating No. 2 UNLV 78-70 Monday night. It was victory No. 19 for the Gauchos, who extended UNLV before losing 69-67 at Las Vegas earlier in the season.

"I think it will help get us in the tournament," Coach Jerry Pimm said after UCSB handed UNLV its fifth loss in 29 games. "We're just hoping the committee will see four teams from the Big West."

With UNLV a tournament shoo-in and New Mexico State (23-3) also a strong candidate, UCSB figures to rate only third in the fast-improving Big West. Long Beach State (18-7) would appear to rate fourth in the league because of double defeats against UNLV and UCSB and a split with New Mexico State.

In another game featuring a late-charging tournament hopeful, Ohio State beat No. 18 Illinois 86-80.

UCSB helped its cause by making the Runnin' Rebels play their second strength-sapping game in three days. The Rebels were extended on Saturday in beating then-No. 16 Louisville 91-81.

"They played tired," Coach Jerry Pimm said.

UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian preferred to credit UC Santa Barbara with a game well played.

"You can blame it on a lot of things," Tarkanian said, "but Santa Barbara just played better."

"They were well-prepared defensively and they extended us well. They did a good job of taking the ball inside and getting Larry (Johnson) and David (Butler) in foul trouble."

Johnson, who picked up his fourth foul early in the second half, was limited to 10 points before fouling out with the issue still in doubt with 2 1/2 minutes to play. Butler, the team's No. 2 scorer behind Johnson, fouled out with 2:12 left.

Patience was a virtue for the Gauchos, who shot 51 percent (28 of 55), with Carrick DeHart hitting of eight of 13 attempts in scoring 24 points. Eric McArthur, the No. 2 rebounder in the country, collected 20 in pacing the Gauchos to a 47-31 advantage. McArthur also scored 15 points.

Greg Anthony led UNLV with 18 points, Stacey Augmon had 13 and David Butler 12.

Although UCSB set the tone throughout, the dangerous Runnin' Rebels were always within reach. UNLV trailed only 39-36 at halftime and 61-57 midway through the second half when UCSB made its decisive push. Paul Johnson scored on a layup and a rebound, and DeHart contributed a baseline drive that made it 71-60 with 3:31 remaining. That proved to be too big a margin to overcome for a UNLV team that made only 40 percent (24 of 60) from the field and lost its top two scorers to fouls.

Ohio St. 86, No. 18 Illinois 80

Jim Jackson matched his career high with 28 points and Perry Carter scored 14 of his 18 in the second half and grabbed 13 rebounds for Ohio State. The Buckeyes are 14-11 overall and 8-7 in the Big Ten.

Kendall Gill scored 23 points, Marcus Liberty and Steve Barbo had 17 apiece and Andy Kaufmann had 11 for the Illini (19-7, 9-7).

The game was marked by wild turnarounds. Ohio State led by as many as 19 points in the first half, but Illinois outscored the Buckeyes 23-2 over a 6 1/2-minute stretch for a 45-43 lead early in the second half.

Ohio State, 11-2 in St. John Arena this season, took the lead for good at 58-56 on a 3-point basket by freshman Alex Davis with 10:29 left.

Smith honored

Loy Gene Smith, center, was honored recently at a reception at Deaf Smith County Courthouse. Smith is moving to Lubbock to accept a job with the Lubbock County District Attorney's office as an investigator. He has been with the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department for over 11 years where he has served as chief deputy for past six years. Sheriff Joe Brown and co-workers presented Smith with a western suit. Pictured with the honoree is his wife, Sue Smith.

History of Federation of Women's Clubs told

The Pioneer Study Club met recently at the Casion House with Mary Panciera presenting a program on the history of Federation of Women's Clubs.

Panciera told the story of Jennie June, who was a leading influence in the General Federation of Women's Clubs. June was born in England in 1829 and moved to Massachusetts as a teenager. She lived with her brother who was a unitarian minister.

Her writing began by preparing a semi-monthly newspaper for her brother's church. It expanded to syndicated fashion articles and other ventures for women.

At the age of 26, she moved to New York and worked for a number of newspapers and published five books.

In 1868, Charles Dickens ended his reading tour of U.S. in New York. The New York City press was honoring Dickens at a banquet. June applied for a ticket to the banquet and was refused because she was a woman. She was angered and decided to form a club for women only.

When the club, named Sorosis, was nearing its 21 birthday, June decided to gather representatives from women's clubs throughout the country. In March 1889, 61 delegates from all over the nation met in New York City at a "conference to form a permanent Federation of Women's Clubs".

A year later in April of 1890, the first convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs was held in New York City.

Panciera presided over the meeting and led members in voicing the club collect. Catherine Gripp repeated the Pledge of Allegiance and Rosemary Thomas repeated the salute to the Texas flag.

Gladys Miller presented a story about George Washington and Willie Wimberly gave a memorial honoring Lucy Fay Coconougher.

The March meeting will be a covered dish luncheon at the Heritage Room at the Deaf Smith County Library.

Lunch was served to Gripp, Billce Johnson, Miller, Panciera, Fern Sigle, Thomas, Wimberly, Mary Jane Burrus, Nell Culpepper, and Maria Escamilla.

Q. What potato can I use to make the American fried potatoes and hash browns I remember from my childhood? B.L., Minong, WI

A. For best results, use new or russet potatoes. Boil until tender then cool slightly before frying. You can pare if desired.

Q. How long will green onions keep? K.J.B., Mariposa, CA

A. Fresh onions with crisp green tops will keep three to five days refrigerated in plastic bags or containers. Wash onions as they are used and not before storage to prevent them from getting tough.

Q. I'd like to triple the recipe for my hickory cake. Do you have any special suggestions? M.H.L., Sullivan, WI

A. We don't recommend doubling or tripling recipes for cakes because it is difficult to mix and bake them properly. There also is a build-up of flavors.

Guest artist performs for Bay View

Dee Anne Trotter was the guest artist for a recital of classical piano selections when the Bay View Study Club met recently at First United Methodist Church.

Trotter prefaced her performance with a presentation of information about the composers whose works she would be playing, with special emphasis on the life of Frederick Chopin. Three short selections by Bach, Mozart and Haydn were used to contrast their techniques and styles with those of Chopin's. The music was performed on the grand piano in the church sanctuary.

A social hour followed in fellowship hall with Mrs. Carroll Newsom and Mrs. Dyal Garner serving as hostesses. The refreshments were served from a tea table centered with an arrangement of spring forsythia.

Mrs. Paul Scott and Mrs. J.A. Burran served coffee and punch.

Special guests for the afternoon were Mrs. G.D. Caison, mother of Dee Anne Trotter and Mmes. Jim Arney, Roy Carlson, Dan Berger, Lee Roy Carlson, Frank Barrett and Curtis Trawek.

The next regular meeting of Bay View will be at the Hereford Country Club on Thursday, March 1, with Mmes. Burran, M.M. Morrow and Jack Gilliland as hostesses. The program will feature Art Stoy discussing the wildflower of Texas.

Members attending the Thursday meeting were Mmes. Charles Bell, Burran, R.W. Eades, Alton Fraser, Garner, Don Graham, Justin McBride, Morrow, Newsom, Austin Rose, Scott, Howard Gault, Gilliland, and W.S.Kerr.

To remove chewing gum from clothes, press ice cubes against the gum until it become brittle and breaks off. Then use a spot remover to vanish the last traces.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	14	2.80
2 days per word	24	4.80
3 days per word	34	6.80
4 days per word	44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines (those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Plans and specifications including minimum wage rates as provided by Law are available for inspection at the office of Jerry L. Raines Resident Engineer, Pampa, Texas, and at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Austin, Texas. Bidding proposals are to be requested from the Construction Division, D.C. Greer State Highway Building, 11th and Brazos Streets, Austin, Texas 78701. Plans are available through commercial printers in Austin, Texas, at the expense of the bidder. Usual rights reserved.

The Constitutional Convention was convened in Philadelphia May 25, 1787, after enough delegates had shown up for a quorum. In the months that followed, the delegates drew up the United States Constitution, which to this day remains the basis for America's national government.

KNOW YOUR LIMITS...

SPEED LIMIT 65

Maximum legal speed for cars, motorcycles, commercial buses and light trucks in rural zones of Interstate designated highways.

SPEED LIMIT 55

Still the maximum legal speed permitted in most highway zones.

Soup it up with cheese

Any time of year is a good time to enjoy one of the quickest and easiest of winter warmers—a can of soup. Boring? Not if you enrich it with the flavor, plus the calcium and protein of real cheese.

And many soups provide an instant sauce for casseroles, chicken or fish fillets. Try cream of broccoli or mushroom fortified with shredded or diced cheese to make almost any vegetable more tempting.

A surefire family favorite is mild, nutty tasting Jarlsberg: mellow in consistency, it melts rapidly and smoothly. Classically produced and aged, using part-skim milk, Jarlsberg is also significantly lower than most other natural cheeses in calories, fat and cholesterol and lower in sodium, too.

Paired with plain soup, it can turn leftover rice or pasta into something special. Pour over sliced pot roast or meatloaf before heating, then top with colorful chopped peppers to give yesterday's dinner fresh appeal.

Be aware of safety features

The next time you shop for or just dream about a new car, take a closer look at the automatic crash protection and other safety features being offered.

All new cars now offer a variety of automatic safety belt systems and air bags. Automatic safety belts look much like the ones in older cars, but they do all the work instead of the driver.

The belts move into place as the doors close. Air bags are also a lifesaver. They remain out of sight until they're needed, such as in a serious frontal crash. They do not interfere with control of the car at any time. Safety belts and air bags used together provide the best protection.

Put safety on your checklist of things to look for when car shopping.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My son, now 15, has had fever blisters for years — maybe one every 18 months. I've been told all my life that they were caused from constipation or a stomach ailment. About four months ago I took him to his doctor for allergies and he had one on his lip. The doctor told me it was herpes. I almost had a heart attack. I nearly passed out in his office right then.

He told me you get this from a virus. Please give me some information on this before I lose my mind. How can a virus cause this? What is the difference between both types? Is it curable? We are very clean and no one else in the family has this.

His doctor gave me a prescription for Zovirax cream to apply on his lips when he feels one coming up. He will be dating soon and I'm very concerned. How in the world can you catch something like this? Please answer before this mother goes over the edge.

DEAR READER: Relax! Your son has herpes simplex. Between 20 percent and 40 percent of the population in the United States have these. Evidently as many as twice that number have been infected with the virus even though they may never have "cold sores" — meaning 50 percent to 80 percent of the population is infected with the virus.

Herpes simplex type 1 is responsible for the sore on the lip. It is usually contracted in early life, even in infancy when one of those infected individuals kiss the baby or the cute child. And it can be transmitted by someone who doesn't know he or she has it when they don't even have a sore on the lip. There is a very good bet that all of your family has the virus, and you could detect it with blood tests to measure the antibodies the virus has produced. I hope that thought doesn't upset you.

The type 2 virus is usually contracted after puberty, when sexual contact commonly begins. I have explained the differences and how to manage both in Special Report 63, Oral and Genital Herpes, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/63, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Once you have the virus, many things can activate it and cause a sore on the lip, including digestive upsets, colds and exposure to sun and wind. DEAR DR. LAMB: I am interested in obtaining some information on what sort of changes occur in the male body during the change of life. I have been unable to find any in the medical books I have checked and my doctor says that is not causing any of my problems.

DEAR READER: The reason you can't find such information is that there are no changes in the male body that are caused by the "male menopause." Men don't have a menopause. They do not have a sudden decrease in male hormones in the middle years comparable to the decrease seen in females when the ovaries fail. The testicles continue to produce the same amount of testosterone until late in life. The exception is if a person has some illness or has abused alcohol. That is also why women develop osteoporosis starting after the menopause and healthy men do not until much later in life.

Men have changes, but they are related to aging, disease and bad habits, not decreased hormones. There may also be psychological changes related to life's events or because of a tendency to depression.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have condyloma acuminata (genital warts). I have received conflicting statements from several doctors. You said that it was "mildly contagious," but previously you said it was so contagious that it had been contracted by hospital staff who had breathed in the particles of "lasered" warts. I must have had it on my cervix first because I developed dysplasia, but I had been married two years before I developed them in the genital area.

I have been told that it can only come from sexual contact and I've also been told that it has been found in "virginal children." Why hasn't my husband contracted it after being with me for three years? Can he have tested negative but have had it at one time or does that mean he never had it? I have only been with one man before my husband.

DEAR READER: There certainly is a great deal of uncertainty about warts. Genital warts are no exception. They are caused by a virus that is a different strain from the virus that causes the common warts on the hands or elsewhere. Condyloma acuminata grow in moist locations — the vagina, around the rectum and on the glans (head) of the penis.

Many women do have genital warts of the cervix and never know it. Some strains of these are thought to increase a woman's chances of cervical cancer. But I must say that you can have cervical dysplasia or even cervical cancer and never have been infected with the virus.

Condyloma acuminata are "mildly contagious" and may be transmitted sexually. Yes, I did cite the point that operating-room personnel have contracted these warts in the nose and throat when the warts were being removed. The nose and throat are also moist areas. My point was that you could get the virus and develop warts without engaging in sexual activity with a person who already had the warts — not that these observations proved that the virus was highly contagious.

Your husband has probably not had the virus and does not have a dormant case. But he is probably resistant to the virus. Just because you have physical contact with the wart does not mean you will get the virus. And your warts may have developed independent of your sex life.

I have included a discussion of condyloma acuminata in Warts and All, which I am sending you. Others who want more information about warts can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for the discussion to THE HEALTH LETTER/33-02, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 30-year-old woman and weigh 114 pounds. I would like to know if there are hormones I could take that would enlarge my breasts. After having two children, I am left flat and sagging. I hear that men can grow breasts taking female hormones. Would this work for me?

DEAR READER: Breast development does occur under the influence of female hormones. Once you have matured physiologically and have normal hormone levels, taking additional female hormones is not likely to help. If you were deficient in hormones for some reason, then you might expect some improvement. Women who are too thin may also lose breast size.

Men develop breasts if they take female hormones or various medicines that neutralize male hormones. But men start with low estrogen levels, which is not true of normal women. Alcohol may cause male breast development because it decreases male hormone levels.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Radon: What to watch for

In 1988, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) identified radon exposure as one of today's most serious health hazards, responsible for 20,000 of the country's annual lung cancer deaths.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas produced by the natural decay of radium and uranium in rocks, soil and water.

In September of 1988, the U.S. Surgeon General issued a national health advisory stating that most homes should be tested for radon. Currently, the EPA is also conducting tests on radon exposure in schools.

As a major indoor air quality problem, the issue continues to raise consumer questions about problems and risks. With this in mind, a new brochure has been developed to answer the 16 most commonly asked questions about radon gas. Designed as a brief overview for readers unfamiliar with radon issues, the brochure comes from Honeywell, a firm that's been in the indoor air quality business for three decades. It presents a general background on what radon is and how it's measured. It also describes corrective actions that can be taken to reduce exposure in the home.

The brochure, "Answers to 16 of the Most Asked Questions About Radon Gas," is free. For a copy call 1-800-343-9519 or write Honeywell, Radon Products, 1985 Douglas Drive North, Golden Valley, Minn. 55422-3992.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A woman wrote to you and said her husband had committed suicide many years ago, when her children were young. She never told them the truth and asked if perhaps she should. You said, "Tell them, but don't be surprised if they already know." You were 100 percent right.

I am 19, and it was only a short time ago that I learned my father committed suicide four months before I was born. My mother never talked about him much. I grew up feeling there was something about his death that was being kept from me. I used to make up wild stories about the way he died. My schoolmates were mystified when they compared some of the tales I had told.

A few days before I left for college, I decided I had the right to know the truth. I demanded of my mother that she tell me exactly how Dad had died. She said, "He had a nervous breakdown."

Later, when I asked a teacher how this could be, she said, "People do not die from nervous breakdowns." I went back to Mother again. She said, "Well, dear, actually, your father had a heart attack after his nervous breakdown."

I knew then that she was hiding something, and I decided to go see the woman my father had been engaged to before he married my mother. She said, "Your dad committed suicide."

Since that disclosure, my life has made a lot more sense. I no longer feel that there are missing pieces. I urge all parents who are withholding from their children the fact that a mate died by suicide to tell them. They are entitled to that information, and it's your duty to give it. -- No Name

DEAR N.N.: Thank you for a letter that will help more people than you will ever know.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is a belated response to "Southern Dilemma," who was honest enough to admit that she had no maternal instincts and was feeling guilty.

I have always had an intense dislike for children and can barely stand my own. The boys, now 11 and 16, are excellent students and have never been in any trouble. I must have been born under a lucky star, because I married a man who is not only a terrific father but a wonderful mother. He has told me many times that I shouldn't feel guilty about my lack of maternal instinct, because he has enough for both of us.

I have always worked downtown. After our first son was born, I couldn't wait to get back to my job. I found a competent woman to care for the baby, and my husband rushed home after work to take over. Why I had the second child, I'll never know, except that my husband thought we should give "Joey" a brother or sister. He promised if I had another baby, he'd take care of it, and he kept his word.

I spent many weekends away on my motorcycle, and nobody complains. The household functions a little haphazardly at times, but we are happy with the way we have worked things out. I'm sure many of your readers will think I am some kind of screwball, but I am truly content, which is more than most of my friends can say. -- Free To Be Me (Minn.)

DEAR FREE: You've written a very frank letter, for which you deserve to be complimented. Take good care of your husband, dear. That man is a jewel.
