Government files IBM antitrust suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department today filed an antitrust suit against IBM challenging its acquisition of the ROLM Corporation, which last year manufactured about 50 percent of all computers designed to meet rigorous military specifications.

At the same time, in U.S. District Court here, the government filed a proposed consent decree that would require IBM to divest itself of ROLM's Mil-Spec Computer Division within six months.

According to the suit, the acquisition could dramatically lessen competition for "mil-spec (military specification) commercial-based computers."

Manhunt nets 3,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The largest manhunt in U.S. history has led to the capture of more than 3,000 fugitives wanted for crimes ranging from murder and rape to bail jumping and parole violations, according to sources close to the two-month investigation.

More than 100 U.S. Marshals Service inspectors conducted the investigation that rounded up numerous "repeated violent criminals," working alongside local and state police in eight Eastern states.

The FIST operation — the letters stand for Fugitive Investigative Strike Teams — was the seventh conducted by the federal marshals, according to the sources.

The sources, marshals and police officers who worked on the operation, spoke on condition they not be identified until the investigation was revealed officially.

The U.S. Justice Department scheduled a news conference today in Manhattan. Officials said Attorney General William French Smith would announce the results of the probe along with Stanley E. Morris, director of the marshals service.

FIST 7 was coordinated in secrecy from an otherwise abandoned building at Fort Totten in the borough of Queens, which is headquarters for the 77th U.S. Army Reserve Command.

Whitson honors planned

A second retirement is now planned by the woman doubly billed as the Senior Center's busiest volunteer and the WTC basketball program's biggest fan.

The 10 years since Virginia Whitson retired from teaching have been some of the busiest of her life.

Now she has decided to retire again and move from Snyder. In response to this, representatives from both the center and Western Texas College plan to honor her.

She will be the guest of honor at a dinner scheduled at 6 p.m. next Monday, Nov. 26, in the Senior Center.

Everyone who would like to join in the appreciation dinner is invited to attend. Food for the meal will be prepared by the American Food Management firm which operates the Western Texas College cafeteria and tickets are $6 each.

Reservations are to be made by calling Gloria Shaw at the Senior Center, 573-4035, or at her home, 573-5203.

The center will be closed Thursday and Friday for Thanksgiving, but since reservations are due by Friday, Shaw said she will take calls at home.

Virginia Whitson moved to Snyder in 1964 and worked as a substitute teacher in public schools here until she was hired as a music teacher for the 1965-66 school year. She taught at Stanfield Elementary School for seven years and at Northeast Elementary for three years.

A native of Oklahoma, she

Square bypass on slate

Members of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet with local state highway department officials Tuesday to hear an update regarding the chances for a truck route bypassing the Snyder square.

Ed Vernon, resident engineer for the Snyder state office, has been invited to meet with the board.

He will appear during the regular November meeting of chamber directors. They will gather beginning at 4 p.m. at the chamber offices, 2302 Ave. R.

At past meetings, directors have discussed ways to alleviate heavy traffic — particularly truck traffic — from the downtown area.

A truck bypass has long been suggested to correct this problem.

Chamber directors are expected to hear from Vernon concerning the likelihood for state funds for such construction work.

Reports will comprise the majority of chamber business Tuesday. These include reports from representatives of chamber committees dealing with cultural affairs; business development; agri-business; the leadership class program; and the upcoming chamber banquet.

Reports are expected also regarding football playoff games here, the chamber budget, and the nominating committee to replace outgoing chamber directors.

Lake level rise eludes Thomas despite rainfall

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Despite the weekend rainfall of some 1½ inches at Lake J.B. Thomas, no significant amount of runoff was reported for the Snyder and Scurry County water source Monday.

In response to the low lake level, officials with the Colorado River Municipal Water Distrcit reported they have implemented cutbacks in the amount of water now being pumped out of Thomas.

Directly affected by this action is the district member city of Big Spring, which was receiving some 7 million gallons of water from the lake daily. This was mixed with Lake Spence water to cut down the salt content from water received from the reservoir located near Robert Lee.

Big Spring has now been cutback to some 4 million gallons of Lake Thomas water daily.

Snyder normally receives its CRMWD water exclusively from Lake Thomas. The backup water source for Snyder consists of underground wells here, although the district does have the capability of pumping Lake Spence water to Snyder.

In the history of the water district, however, this has never been required.

During this time of year — which begins the low water use period — Snyder receives approximately 2.4 million gallons per day from Thomas.

From the weekend rainfall, the lake did add approximately ¼ ft. of water to its level, according to O.H. Ivie, water district manager. This raised the lake to 2,216 ft., or approximately the same level it was at Oct. 1.

This equals the third lowest level in the lake's 31-year history and is near the second lowest level of 2,212 ft. noted during the extreme summer heat of 1980.

The lowest level recorded for Thomas was in 1971, when the lake dropped to 2,207 ft. The maximum level for the lake is 2,258 and Ivie projected an "average" level at the lake at between 2,235 to 2,240 ft.

"We're not in a comfortable situation up there," Ivie noted, adding that the cutback in water pumped from the lake was implemented to "stretch (the water supply) well into the spring of 1985."

He pointed out also that traditionally from Nov. 1 through March "we write that period off for runoff."

Ivie stressed, however, that

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The more you keep your feet on the ground the sooner you can have them on a desk."

Back in the mid 1970s the CB radio was the craze. We naturally gave in to the trend and put one in each vehicle.

Up until that time, we had never had a speeding ticket. But as soon as we started to rely on the CB information, we got back-to-back speeding citations.

We jerked the CB radio out of the vehicle and once again started to rely on watching the flow of traffic. It works pretty well. If just one person passes you, we have observed you can pick up the pace and the patrolman will generally get the faster vehicle.

From time to time the minister gets in a dig or two about breaking the law, and that driving over the 55 mile per hour limit is just as sinful as taking another man's wife.

Our wife and son reinforce such sermons by constantly saying we deserve a ticket. For this reason, we think it was our wife who snitched on us.

Just last month we met a unfriendly patrolmen between Lamesa and Gail. No one else travels that road at 10 p.m., so we know someone tipped them off that we would be coming east.

Then last week we had a mid-morning meeting in Lubbock to attend. We got to the office early in an effort to get our work done, but such dedication caused us to get a late start.

We assumed no self-respecting patrolman would be on the highway at 8 in the morning, and we concluded any DPS man worth his salt would be in the coffee shop--unless our wife had tipped him off.

So we got our second ticket in less than a month. When we offered to take a lecture rather than a ticket, the fellow didn't even grin.

We decided not to tell the family about this misdeed--but someone always sees you stopped on the side of the road--and one of those someones happens to work at the college with my wife.

We don't know where you get the least amount of sympathy--from the DPS patrolmen, the JP's office or from home.

Hood update

Hospital staffers at Abilene's Hendrick Medical Center said Tuesday that Carolyn Hood, injured in an auto accident Oct. 26 with her husband Bill J. Hood, was expected to be released from that hospital Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the former Snyder school superintendent remained in serious condition at Baylor Medical Center in that hospital's intensive care unit in Dallas.

Family members note Mrs. Hood is to go to a convalescent home for a further recovery period in Dalhart, where her eldest son lives.

Final guesses

The last SDN Football Contest of the season was once again a tie with the winners missing four games each. The first and second place money was decided by the tie-breaker score predicted in the Snyder-Andrews game.

Benny Scott of 418 29th St. won the first place money and J.L. King of 404 28th St. took second place.

The SDN wishes to thank all of the entrants throughout the season, as well as the merchants whose sponsorship made the contest possible.

Ditch, railroad track, yards separated homes from blast

TLALNEPANTLA, Mexico (AP) — In the pastel-painted cement block homes near the exploding gas storage tanks, people were burned to ashes as they slept in bed, fixed breakfast or tried to flee with their children in their arms.

Only a ditch, a railroad track and 100 dusty yards separated San Juan Ixhuatepec district from the storage tanks of PEMEX, the government oil monopoly. In a roughly 5-by-4 block area, where large and extended families lived in cramped quarters, almost all homes were destroyed or heavily damaged.

At least 264 people were killed when the tanks began exploding early Monday in the working-class district, situated in a flat area surrounded by hills and the snow-capped peak of the volcano Iztaccihuatl.

"The majority were burned. Many were disintegrated," said A. A. Alvarez, a Mexico City policeman. "You could see only the figure of the bodies. They were only ash."

Alvarez said most people did not even have time to get out of bed. He saw the body of one woman leaning over the stove where she apparently was making breakfast. A man was found with his hands on the door as if trying to leave, another body with tortillas in its hands.

"It was a powder keg," said Dr. Luis Sanchez Guerra, coroner for the Mexico state attorney general's office. He was supervising the rescue workers as they brought clear plastic bags of shriveled, blackened bodies into a police station patio. Many of the dead were children.

"We found 16 bodies in one house, 13 in another, eight in another," said one rescue worker.

Dr. Guadalupe Gutierrez, working with a Mexico City police rescue crew, had a list of 29 bodies. "And I have only been in three or four houses," she said.

"In one house where I was, I saw 11 bodies...there were burned people running in only their underwear with their children in their arms," said a Mexico state policeman, who asked not to be identified.

With an estimated 100,000 people evacuated from the area, by afternoon there were only rescue workers in the streets of San Juan Ixhuatepex, and army troops guarding against looters. The dirt streets were littered with glass and cement block rubble, and the burned out shells of cars and a bus.

Trees were blackened. Windows were blown out of homes. Shreds of curtains hung limply in windowless frames. Roofs, window frames and doors were charred, and walls were cracked. But somehow glasses remained untouched on shelves in some homes.

Squares of white notebook paper hung on some doors, bearing only a handwritten number — the number of dead found inside.

NEW LAMINATOR–Janice Mitchell, Scurry County librarian, is pictured with a laminator which was purchased in part through a $100 gift in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Murray Tyler who are buried here. The monetary gift was donated by two daughters, Kathryn T. Rogers of Moore, Okla. and Florine Nelson of Bartlesville, Okla. and a granddaughter, Earline Hadlock of Moore, Okla. The three had been researching their family history this past summer at the library and had decided that the library needed a laminator, Mitchell said. It will be used by library staffers to preserve newspaper clippings etc. (SDN Staff Photo)

Judge Brown will not sign order on blue law in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — State District Judge Dee Brown Walker has taken his second swipe in two weeks at the Texas blue law by declining to order that Gibson Products Co. Inc. be barred permanently from violating the store-closing law.

Walker declined Monday to state his reason for denying the state's request for a permanent injunction against the Dallas-area retail chain, but he has said repeatedly that he believes the blue law is vague and unenforceable.

Walker also signed an order Monday finalizing his Nov. 2 decision in another blue law case. The order strikes down the 23-year-old law as unconstitutional and prohibits Gibson's from suing eight competitors for violating the law.

Assistant District Attorney Karen Beverly, who had requested that Walker uphold the law, said the prosecutor's office will decide whether it will appeal the rulings in both blue law cases after studying Walker's final orders.

In the meantime, the blue law, which prohibits sales of 42 kinds of items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, remains in effect and violators continue to be subject to criminal penalties, Ms. Beverly said.

"It is our position that the blue law has been held constitutional so many times that it's one of our most well-established laws," Ms. Beverly said.

Robert Goodfriend, attorney for Revco Inc., said his client and the other retail chain stores involved in one lawsuit will wait to see if there is an appeal before deciding whether to open for business seven days a week.

Woman says she is addicted to stealing

HOUSTON (AP) — A former bank supervisor who told a federal judge she was "addicted" to stealing received a three-year prison sentence for embezzling almost $200,000.

Barbara A. Malone, 28, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Carl Bue on Monday after earlier pleading guilty to two counts of embezzlement.

The maximum sentence for the charge is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Ms. Malone, a former accounts supervisor at Capital National Bank, told Bue she stole money from the bank from January 1982 and December 1983 by inflating interest rates on certificates of deposit.

She said she started stealing small amounts of money, but eventually embezzled larger sums.

"I got addicted to it and continued to do it," Ms. Malone told the judge. "The only way I could stop was to resign or get transferred."

Ms. Malone said she twice asked to be transferred to another department at the bank so she wouldn't be tempted to steal, but she instead was promoted to accounts supervisor.

In December 1983, she quit her job and opened a janitorial service.

Ms. Malone still operates the janitorial service, but she has filed a bankruptcy petition because the bank has frozen several of her accounts.

Ms. Malone said she has paid back $10,000 of the embezzled money and will "do whatever it takes to make restitution to the bank."

Two more stabbings raise 1984 prison attacks to 362

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Two more stabbings at the violence-plagued Texas Department of Corrections have upped the number of 1984 prison attacks to 362, officials say.

One inmate was stabbed Monday because he failed to pay a debt, and another prisoner was knifed because he supposedly owed a fellow inmate some tobacco, prison spokesman Charles Brown said.

The TDC — the nation's second largest prison system — has recorded its most violent year ever, with 22 fatal attacks so far.

Frank Owens Jr., 36, an inmate at the Ellis I Unit near Huntsville, was listed in serious but stable condition late Monday after another inmate stabbed him with a half-pair of scissors, Brown said.

Owens, serving a life sentence for a Dallas County conviction for burglary of a habitation, was assaulted at about 11:15 a.m. in the unit's main hallway, the spokesman said.

Owens was taken to Huntsville Memorial Hospital to be treated for wounds to his shoulder, chest, side and abdomen, and lacerations to his hands and neck, Brown said. The inmate was to be transferred to the TDC hospital in Galveston, he said.

A suspect, Eliboria Oyservidez, 37, serving a 20-year perjury sentence from Ector County, reportedly told investigators that Owens was stabbed because he had not paid his debts.

Also on Monday, a 21-year-old inmate was stabbed by another prisoner who claimed the victim owed him some tobacco.

Geoffrey Scot Mack, serving five years for aggravated assault in Dallas County and a burglary in Collin County, was treated at Brazosport Memorial Hospital near Lake Jackson for stab wounds to the back, arms, chest and side. He taken back to the Clemens Unit in Brazoria in good condition, Brown said.

Mack was stabbed about 2:30 a.m. with a 6-inch-long circular metal rod while asleep in a dormitory at the unit, Brown said.

Gary Etheridge, 20, serving five years for a Brazoria County burglary, was questioned about the attack, investigators said.

Etheridge allegedly stabbed Mack six times after Mack told him he didn't have any tobacco he supposedly owed Etheridge, investigators said.

CWC members enjoy meal, music and guest speaker

"Success is not living in the best, wearing the best or driving the best. It is total well-being based in Jesus, the solid rock."

Wanda Williams gave this definition of success to ladies attending the Christian Women's Club luncheon Nov. 14 in the Snyder Country Club.

Telling the women that she had been a Christian since she was nine years old, she said that during the three years she and her husband dated, they argued about which of their churches was right.

After she married, Williams admitted that she still attended church and "did the right things," but that she had separated herself from God. "Whatever you put first in your life is what you worship. I thought about things, mostly antiques, all the time. I spent money we didn't have on them and went into debt at every antique store in town."

After the Williams' moved to Amarillo and joined a church there, she discovered that "God doesn't live in a building but in me. I heard God telling me, 'Put me first; put me in the center of your life.' Then He began to show me the changes I needed to make in my life."

She said that she began to see how much resentment she had built up inside against her father. She told the women that "unforgiveness is acid that will eat us up." Even though her father was critical of all she tried to accomplish while growing up, she learned that by forgiving him, she was better able to develop self-esteem in her own children through praise.

The family returned to Lubbock to enter business with friends. When the venture failed, Williams had to begin working. Believing that "God created the home first to exemplify the life of Jesus Christ," she began praying that she would find a job that would offer the flexibility she needed to be at home with her daughters after school.

Using a sister's suggestion, Williams contracted with interior decorators and building contractors to hang wallpaper. Not only does she have flexibility, her business has been successful as well.

"I'm the first one to pray in that house. Sometimes God gives opportunities to witness to the new family," she remarked.

Through illustrations from her experiences, she tried to show the women that they must see people the way God sees them. "Allow God to be who He is through you. You don't have to grab somebody by the collar. Relax, allow Him to use you the way He has created you to be," she added.

In addition to Williams' remarks, the women heard Debra Martinez, a local gospel singer, perform "Woman of God" and "Holy Spirit, Thou Art Welcome Here."

Local dealers were given opportunity to display Christmas gift items also.

CWC's next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 12 in the Snyder Country Club.

Diet and exercise topics of meeting

Kathryn Roberts, county home economics extension agent, led a program on "Family Fitness" for members of the Honey Do's Extension Homemakers Club on Nov. 15 in the extension office. Diet and exercise were emphasized.

Members answered roll call with suggestions for using leftovers.

Programs for next year and the upcoming Christmas party were discussed. Members were informed that the next Social Security information meeting is scheduled for Dec. 10 at 9:30 a.m. in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Texa Jones provided Christmas favors and refreshments for the meeting.

Those attending included Mae Thornton, Virginia Fogle, Mary Vaughn, Irene Orosco, Shirley Bullard and Texa Jones.

The Durango & Silverton narrow-guage railroad now carries 155,000 sightseers a year through a 45-mile stretch of Colorado's San Juan Mountains, says National Geographic. Opened a century ago, this steam-powered train once hauled gold, lead, and zinc ore between the two mining towns.

Jewish and Irish music is topic at Musical Coterie

Shauna Crane, Donald Burk and East Elementary School's sixth grade choir presented a program of Jewish and Irish music to members of Musical Coterie on Nov. 8 in the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Crane performed selections from "The Irish Flute" and Burk sang "Molly Malone" and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

The choir performed Israeli folk songs and dances. Win now, pay later

By James Jacoby

The latest offering to cross my desk for review is by the fine British writer Victor Mollo. "Winning Bridge" (Beaufort Books) teaches expert bridge with a lighthearted approach that should appeal to all. The first section of the book deals with various problems that confront declarer at trick one.

South won the ace of spades, played a heart to the ace and another to the queen. When East showed out, South played a diamond to the king, which held. Next he played the club queen. West won the ace of clubs, cashed the ace of diamonds, and played a low spade to his partner's jack. It required no great brilliance for East now to give West a diamond ruff.

Declarer played too hastily on the opening lead. If he allows the king to win the trick, the defenders will be unable to maintain their communications to set the contract. Playing low at trick one is sound technique. It often costs nothing, and it may, as here, sever the transportation between East and West.

Mind you, it may not always be right to duck the first trick. What is always wrong is to play to the first trick without planning ahead for the remainder of the deal.

Small 'family bar' scene of shooting

DALLAS (AP) — The "regulars," were mostly over 50 and had been coming to the Harry Hines "strip" from dry suburbs such as Irving, Farmers Branch and Lewisville to drink beer for years. Sometimes they barbecued hot dogs on a grill in back of the Webb Lounge.

The "regulars" moved their watering hole from Jackson's, which was torn down last year, two doors down to the Webb Lounge. About 15 of them were in the lounge Monday evening when a man suddenly opened fire with an automatic weapon.

When the shooting stopped, witnesses estimated it lasted between 30 seconds and a minute, six of the 15 had been shot. One person was dead and five others wounded.

Denton County authorities arrested Charles Walter "Doc" Morrison, 61, of Farmers Branch on a back road in Denton County about five hours later. He was being held in lieu of $200,000 bond.

D.C. Collins, son-in-law of two of the shooting victims, told the Dallas Times Herald, "This was an old-time family hangout."

"Cross the (Trinity) river and it's one of the first places you come to. It's the first stop in wet territory. All these folks had been coming into Dallas to do their drinking for 20 or 30 years," Collins added. "If you were from Lewisville or Irving and you wanted a draft beer, you went to Harry Hines."

Georgette Collins, whose stepfather, Clifford Smith, 55, died in the shooting and whose mother, Michelle Smith, 55, was wounded, said, the Smiths, who lived at Lewisville, had just dropped into the lounge and were preparing to leave when the shooting started.

Mrs. Collins quoted her mother as saying she "just heard a boom, boom, and everyone hit the floor."

"They both got under the bar stools. She knew she was hit in the arm. She said she called out to (her husband) but he didn't answer," Mrs. Collins added.

The "regulars" were close and often fished together, Mrs. Collins said.

Settlement near union leaders say

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Striking International Association of Machinists union officials say they are near enough to a tentative settlement of their strike against General Dynamics that they have called for a mass meeting of union members Wednesday.

Union spokesman Jim Conley said the union and General Dynamics, the only builders of the F-16 fighter planes, must still settle important contract issues before members could vote to end the 16-day strike. Leaders said they would cancel the meeting if an agreement wasn't reached in time.

"We're down to the nitty gritty now. It's getting down to the wire," Conley told the Dallas Morning News.

Conley said, however, the union would not agree on a contract simply to meet the deadline for the meeting.

General Dynamics spokesman Z. Joe Thornton declined comment on the negotiations aimed at ending the strike that began Nov. 4.

The 6,400 members of the IAM went on strike Nov. 4 after failing to reach agreements with General Dynamics on wages, cost-of-living adjustments and health benefits.

Violence erupted during the first two days of the strike, but picketing has been mostly peaceful since that time. Police and firemen used tear gas and water cannons to break up crowds after rocks and bottles were hurled at police and passing cars.

Union members said they wanted to share in record profits being made by the firm. Company officials claimed their final offer before the strike would have been a better contract than their competitor, McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis, offered their union members.

Stress busters to help students

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Stress Busters have arrived on the Yale University campus ready to soothe students full of knots and worries over exams, papers and other schoolwork.

They're part of the Student Massage Service, a "nonsexual, legitimate" massage service for the Ivy League students.

"A massage is the best high in the world — better than drugs," said 24-year-old Steven Douglas, who hired some Stress Busters and started the service last week.

Douglas, whose only affiliation with Yale is the business, considers the school his test market. If it's successful, he wants to expand the business to other schools across the country.

D&B Construction largest in area volume siding sales

D & B Construction began in July 1978 under the ownership of Dave and Becky Taylor.

Even though the business started with nothing but a hope and a prayer, today D & B Construction is the largest volume siding dealership in West Texas, serving a large area of West Texas from its office at 5230 34th Street in Lubbock.

Dave Taylor believes that the success of his company is largely due to quality products and quality workmanship. D & B Construction sells and installs U.S. steel siding and overhang covering products. In addition, the company handles several different windows and doors and other quality materials.

D & B Construction employs six full time installation crews that work only for D & B Construction.

There are several reasons for installing siding on your home, not the least of which is the good looks it provides for years to come. In fact, the materials carried by D & B Construction have a life time warranty on the finish, as well as a hail warranty on all steel products. In addition many customers cite greatly reduced utility bills after the installation of siding with strata foam insulation, especially if they install storm windows.

If you would like to forget painting your home, reduce energy consumption, and improve it's face value call D & B Construction. One hundred percent financing is available. Call (806) 793-3173.

Libyan...

Britain seeks details of plot

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Britain is seeking details about two Britons accused of serving on a Libyan assassination squad and about allegations that Libya was plotting to kill British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, sources said today.

The British sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said British Ambassador Michael Weir met with Egyptian Foreign Ministry officials on Monday after the arrest last weekend of Anthony William Gill, 48, and Godfrey Philip Shiner, 47, both of London.

Egypt has accused Shiner and Gill of being part of a four-member Libyan "hit team" sent to Cairo by Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy to kill former Libyan Prime Minister Abdel-Hamid Bakoush.

Libya, in turn, broadcast an appeal on its state-run radio Monday for the overthrow of Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak.

The British sources said Britain was seeking information about Shiner and Gill and statements by Mubarak and Egyptian officials that Libya was plotting to kill Mrs. Thatcher.

But the sources refused to give details of the meeting or say whether Weir received information substantiating the claims that the suspects had related Libyan plans to assassinate Mrs. Thatcher, Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany, King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and several other world leaders.

Mubarak has said Libya also may have been involved in the Oct. 31 assassination of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Gill, Shiner and two Maltese were arrested Saturday shortly before Mubarak announced that Egyptian security had used faked photographs showing Bakoush in a pool of blood to trick Libya into believing he had been killed.

Egypt said the Libyan agents, who were to have hired Egyptian collaborators to carry out the killing, hired undercover police who staged a sham abduction and shooting of Bakoush. The collaborators had pictures showing Bakoush feigning death sent to the Libyan Embassy in Malta.

Mr. Rogers' sweater given to Smithsonian

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A red cardigan sweater, the symbol of what has made the fatherly Mister Rogers a comfy, cozy guest in children's homes for 30 years, becomes a piece of American folklore as it takes its place in the Smithsonian Institution's permanent collection.

Fred Rogers was presenting the zip-up sweater, hand-knit by his late mother, during a ceremony today at the museum in Washington. Officials planned the presentation as part of National Education Week.

"I wear a sweater to make it seem like a comfortable time. It's a symbol of staying a while, of settling down for some quiet time together," said Rogers, who is liked by children because he likes them just the way they are.

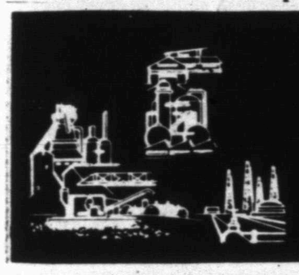

The sweater will be displayed in the National Museum of American History, keeping company with such items as Frank Sinatra's bow tie, the ruby slippers Judy Garland wore in "The Wizard Of Oz," comedian Rodney Dangerfield's red tie and the chairs Archie and Edith Bunker used in the TV series "All In The Family."

"The sweater is the most obvious, visible symbol of Mister Rogers. It's his trademark, his costume," said Carl Scheele, curator of the museum's division of community life.

"It will be displayed in the TV section, but we really want to emphasize his contributions to American education. He's more than a TV personality. He's an educator," Scheele said.

"He is an institution. He's part of pop culture," said David Newell, Rogers' publicist who plays the character Speedy Delivery on the show.

Advisers pessimistic about cutting the deficit without increasing taxes

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan's budget advisers are privately expressing alarm at what they view as the near impossibility of significantly reducing the federal deficit without violating Reagan's campaign promise against raising taxes.

One administration official, speaking on the condition that he remain anonymous, questioned why Reagan issued a firm no-tax-increase campaign pledge in the face of overwhelming odds that he would have been re-elected without it.

At the beginning of the campaign in August, the president said he would raise taxes only as a last resort. But as he continued to berate Democratic challenger Walter F. Mondale for suggesting there would be no way to cut the deficit without a tax increase, Reagan's pledge became more and more firm.

Finally, a few days before the Nov. 6 election, Reagan declared taxes would be raised "over my dead body."

The official said the 12 high-level officials who form the group developing a 1986 fiscal year budget appear to be hopelessly deadlocked as they seek ways to achieve $50 billion in spending cuts.

The group includes the administration's leading pragmatists, such as White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III, Budget Director David Stockman and presidential assistant Richard G. Darman, along with its leading conservative, Counselor Edwin Meese and his sometime ally, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan.

Meese, who will be nominated again in January to succeed William French Smith as attorney general, apparently believes the budget process is his last chance to lay out a conservative agenda for Reagan to follow in his second term.

While the group agreed to a target deficit of roughly $160 billion in 1986, declining to just over $100 billion in 1988, it currently has no idea where the $50 billion savings will come from.

Without further action, the 1986 deficit currently is projected at $206 billion.

Although the group met for more than 12 hours last week, the official said some of the time was wasted with various statements of the obvious, such as "the government needs to make more money."

The quandary the group is facing is that the big-ticket items where the most significant savings could be achieved have been ruled off limits by Reagan.

For instance, the president promised during the campaign not to reduce Social Security benefits, and deputy press secretary Marlin Fitzwater reiterated that pledge again Monday.

Appeals court reverses award

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has wiped out the $50,450 award that a jury gave Otis Hindman on his civil rights damage suit against Paris, Texas.

A three-judge panel Monday reversed U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: There's this guy I've been going with for nearly three years. Well, the problem is that he hits me. He started last year. He has done it only four or five times, but each time it was worse than the time before. Every time he hit me it was because he thought I was flirting. (I wasn't.)

Last time, he accused me of coming on to a friend of his. First he called me a lot of dirty names, then he punched my face so bad it left me with a black eye and black-and-blue bruises over half my face. It was very noticeable, so I told my folks that the car I was riding in stopped suddenly and my face hit the windshield.

Abby, he's 19 and I'm 17, and already I feel like an old married lady who lets her husband push her around.

I haven't spoken to him since this happened. He keeps begging me to give him one more chance. I think I've given him enough chances. Should I keep avoiding him or what?

BLACK AND BLUE

DEAR BLACK AND BLUE: Avoid him forever. Guys who punch their girlfriends and get away with it become wife beaters. Say goodbye to this bully and make it stick.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Pushing for the Gold" said his wife refused to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary because they had not been married to each other for 50 years. (He had three different wives in 46 years, but she had been married to him for only four years.)

That woman doesn't know what she's missing!

My husband of 13 years came up with this idea six years ago, and it's been copied by many of our friends.

Our invitation read as follows:

SCORECARD

HE	SHE
7 years with showgirl	10 years with engineer
7 years with tennis player	13 years with ole fatso
13 years with blonde
27 years	23 years

So, 27 years plus 23 years totals 50, doesn't it? You are invited to our 50th Fool's Gold Anniversary celebration!

Abby, over 100 guests helped us celebrate this happy excuse for a party. Two of the "ex's" were invited, but only one could make it.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 73-year-old female. I'm 5 feet 5 and weigh about 190. I have high blood pressure and a little heart condition.

My problem is hemorrhoids. I have had them for a long time, and when I strain, I bleed. I stay constipated, so I take a laxative every other night. If I didn't, I wouldn't be able to move my bowels at all.

Where do you suppose the blood is coming from? I'm afraid to check with the doctor, since they say that red- or light-colored stool is bad. I take Apresoline, HydroDiuril and Tenorim for my blood pressure and heart condition. Could these be causing my problem?

DEAR READER — Anyone with rectal bleeding must have an examination. Your bleeding probably does come from internal hemorrhoids, but rectal bleeding also can occur because of cancer, and that is why it simply cannot be neglected. Let your doctor determine where the blood is coming from and what needs to be done.

Internal hemorrhoids bleed, while external hemorrhoids itch and cause symptoms. Internal hemorrhoids may not cause any symptoms at all, other than bleeding. I have discussed the difference between internal and external hemorrhoids in The Health Letter 13-12, Hemorrhoids: New Treatments for an Old Affliction, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The proctosigmoidoscopic examination you are concerned about is not that bad. If the patient relaxes and follows directions, it is not a difficult procedure.

Yes, your medicines may contribute to your difficult bowel movements. The HydroDiuril will cause a loss of moisture from the stools and may contribute to the problem. You might do well with a stool softener. That is not a laxative. Colase is such a softener. Be careful not to choose a product that also contains a chemical laxative. A stool softener, plus a tap-water enema, if needed, may help you to improve your bowel habits. Poor bowel habits or constipation definitely do make hemorrhoids worse. Good habits are part of the program to help control hemorrhoid symptoms.

TAKES OFF – Snyder's Willie Greathouse leaves Mayo Gonzales behind during the Tigers' opener with Lubbock High here Monday night. The scene wasn't typical, however, as Lubbock put on a second-half press to run past the Tigers, 69-50. Gonzales sparked the Westerners with 23 points. Snyder will resume action Saturday in Abilene. In season opener...

Lubbock outguns SHS Tigers, 69-50

Lubbock High School put on a second-half press to race past Snyder's Tigers in the first basketball game of the season for both teams here Monday evening, 69-50.

The loss was no major shock, however, because the inexperienced Tigers have yet to have a full workout together. Six of the players were released from the football program only two days earlier.

Coach Larry Scott took the loss in stride.

"We knew Lubbock High had a real good team. They were picked third in their district and it's a strong district," said Scott. "We were a little out of shape. I kept putting in fresh people as often as I could, but you could still tell it.

"Their press hurt us. I guess that was the difference in the game. We knew where to be, we just weren't getting there. And we tried to dribble through them instead of passing," said the coach.

Snyder led 27-25 at halftime but Lubbock High came out pressing in the third quarter, got three straight buckets and never trailed again. The Tigers had 29 turnovers for the game, most of them coming in the second half.

But Scott wasn't discouraged.

"The big thing we had was effort. A lot of times that's the hardest thing to have and we didn't have one person who didn't give his all. We've just got to get our timing down and get some experience."

Junior guard Mayo Gonzales sparked the Westerner team. Gonzales, who was the District 1-5A sophomore of the year last year, scored 23 points. Toby Christian punched in 15 while Troy Schiermeyer and Israel Gonzales put up 8 apiece.

Snyder got 11 points from Mike McWilliams, one of only two returning players off of last year's squad. Charles Bollinger and Jackie Anderson added 9 each while Bobby Scott contributed 8 and Wade Forga and Willie Greathouse 4 apiece.

In all, nine Tiger players scored and 12 saw action.

"I feel like we'll have the depth to play that many people and not lose anything," said Scott. "We may find that different combinations of players work better together, but we plan on playing a lot of people."

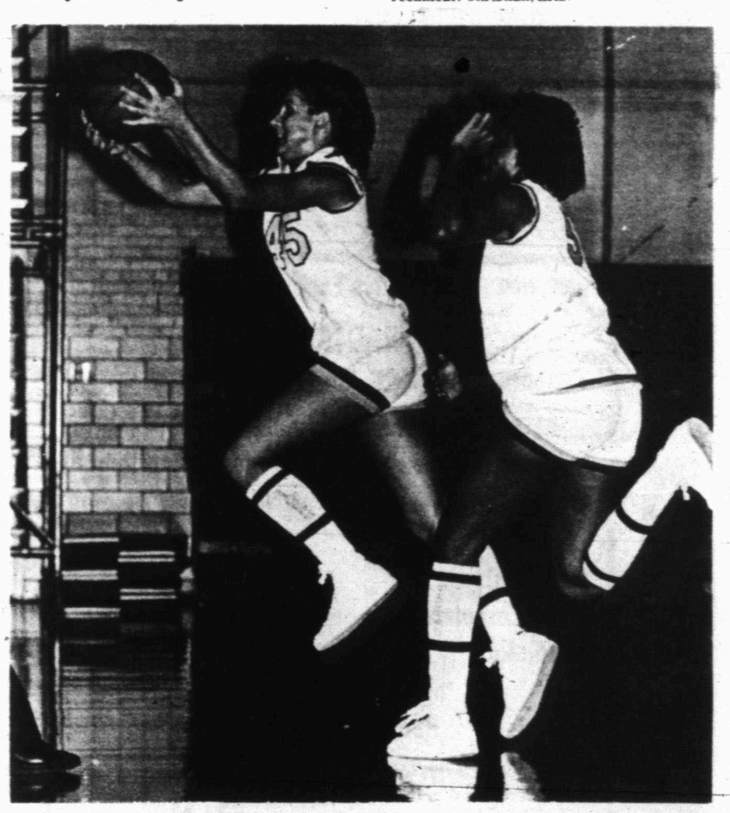

The Tigers bus to Abilene on Saturday to play Abilene Cooper at 8 o'clock. A junior high game will also be held, at 6:15. Contrary to the schedule, there will be no sophomore contest.

Degrate chosen MVP by Longhorn coaches

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas coach Fred Akers had special praise for eight Longhorn defenders even though Texas Christian piled up 483 yards offense, the most ever against an Akers team, in Texas' 44-23 weekend victory.

Akers said of TCU, "They've got a lot of firepower, a lot of talent, a lot of speed - that's a pretty salty combination.

"You defend your goal line, and we did that well. Most of the bigger effective plays they had were in the passing game, which came about for two reasons. One, we were denying them the opportunities they were looking for running, and they were getting behind and had to go to the passing game," he said.

Of the eight nominated for most valuable on defense, Texas coaches chose defensive tackle Tony Degrate from Snyder as the MVP.

Degrate, a 6-foot-4, 276-pound senior, had 17 tackles against TCU, and 15 were unassisted. He also sacked the quarterback three times, once hard enough to win the team "Strike Award," caused two fumbles and pressured the passer five times.

Akers told his weekly news conference Monday that Degrate should be the leading candidate for the Outland and Lombardi awards.

Gooden selected NL Rookie of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) - Pitcher Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, who struck out 276 batters in 218 innings, was named National League Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Gooden's selection marks the second straight year that the rookie was from the Mets. Rightfielder Darryl Strawberry was the 1983 NL rookie.

Gooden received all but one of the first-place votes, totaled 118 points, and was the only player mentioned on all 24 ballots. Philadelphia second baseman Juan Samuel finished second with 62 points and Los Angeles pitcher Orel Hershiser was third with 15 points.

Also receiving votes were San Francisco outfielder Dan Gladden (9), New York pitcher Ron Darling (3), San Diego outfielder Carmelo Martinez (2), Philadelphia outfielder Jeff Stone (1) and St. Louis third baseman Terry Pendleton (1).

Girls blast Post; host BHS tonight

Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers opened the 1984-85 basketball season with a convincing 65-40 win over Post here Monday night.

The Tigers return to action again this evening as they host Brownfield at 7:30 in the high school gym.

Snyder junior varsity also won Monday, 48-33, and will also play Brownfield tonight at 6.

The Lady Tigers led 14-11 after the first quarter and just 28-26 at halftime, but outscored the Antelopes 25-8 in the third period.

"We started off a little slow," said Coach Housden. "We got in some foul trouble. Carie (daughter Carie Housden) got in foul trouble late in first quarter and she sat out the second quarter entirely," he said of the returning all-district player. "But we came on in the third quarter."

The coach said Snyder didn't change much at halftime, but approached the final two quarters with intensity.

"We changed our offense a little bit but as far as game plan it was the same. We just got everything clicking," said the coach. "We had a great number of turnovers in the first half. We had 20 for the game and I'd say 13 or 14 in the first half. We had some trouble handling their press, but we settled down in the third and fourth quarters," he noted.

"Post had a pretty good ballclub, about the same size we were. We played real aggressive and hustled real well and I think that was one of the factors," the coach added.

Karlene Thompson led the Lady Tigers with 21 points and 14 rebounds. Carie Housden put up 16 points while Stephanie McKnight added 12. Housden also had 9 rebounds and Donna Anderson 8.

Deedra Tomlin scored 11 points to aid Snyder junior varsity to its victory. Leslie Ward and Terri Henry added 8 apiece.

Cats stumble to LHS squad

Snyder junior varsity boys fell to Lubbock High 50-36 here Monday but Coach Bud Birks had only praise for the Cats.

"I think we hustled real well. We've only had one practice and these kids are all new to the system. We'll have a few new players (from football) in the next few days that could give us some extra support, too. I was not displeased at all," said Coach Birks, whose noted he was especially happy with the work from Jeff Rose, Dennis Martinez and Rick Miller.

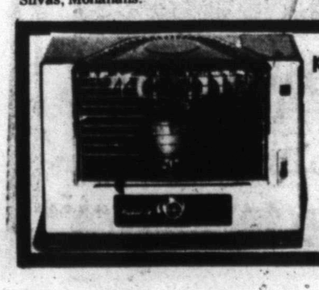

Rose led the Cats with 19 points.

Robbers kick in doors, rob place

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — Authorities were searching today for three men who kicked in the door of a Seguin motel room and robbed the occupants.

Police say they believe the Monday morning robbery was another in a series of what authorities have labeled "kicker" robberies, which have plagued Central Texas for the past two years.

Officers said the robbery at the Best Western Motel off Interstate 10 in Seguin was similar to one Sunday in San Antonio and one last Thursday in San Marcos. Authorities are trying to determine if there is a connection between the attacks.

In each case, police said, one or more robbers kicked in the door of a motel room, flashed guns, and robbed the occupants.

Elinda Woodyard, 35, and Leslie Rutland, 33, both of Houston, told investigators they were asleep when the door of their room at Seguin was kicked in about 3:40 a.m. Monday.

"All the robbers said was 'Just shut up and be quiet,'" said Robert Zoboroski, Seguin assistant police chief. "They repeated that several times while they were there."

Zobroski said two of the intruders pointed guns at Woodyard and Rutland while another man went through the pockets of a pair of jeans.

"They got $30 in cash, that pair of Wrangler jeans, and a belt buckle embossed with the name Linda," Zoboroski said. "I'm hoping that since they didn't get a very big haul here, these people might go elsewhere from now on."

Victims described all three intruders as being in the middle to late 20s and said they were wearing dark clothing.

The dead bolt was fastened on the door that was kicked in Monday, "and it took a good chunk out of the frame," Zobroski said.

AT San Marcos, two men, one with a gun, entered a room at the Shafer Motel and took about $1,200 and a .38-caliber pistol belonging to a guest. On Oct. 1, doors to two rooms at the Shafer were also kicked in.

Students protest milk, doughnuts as breakfast food

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In an ironic turn at the tables, students at a Columbus middle school are complaining about the school cafeteria. But their ire isn't directed at powdered eggs or mystery meat.

At an age when many children consider food inedible unless it's dipped in sugar, about 90 sixth graders are urging Hilltonia Middle School officials to offer something besides doughnuts and chocolate milk for breakfast.

They also want to see less potato chips, french fries and sugared drinks at lunch.

Westmoreland considered walking out on interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland says he considered walking out when CBS News correspondent Mike Wallace surprised him with questions about a 14-year-old Vietnam War controversy, but stayed because he feared that would be considered an admission of guilt.

Westmoreland testified on Monday for a third day in his $120 million libel lawsuit against the network, saying being interviewed by Wallace was like "participating in my own lynching."

Westmoreland, who commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam from 1964 to 1968, sued CBS, Wallace and others at the network over the 1982 documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception."

The broadcast charged Westmoreland deliberately suppressed information in 1967 showing enemy strength was rising. Westmoreland, the broadcast said, wanted to show his forces were winning the war.

As a result, CBS said, President Lyndon B. Johnson and others in Washington may have been taken by surprise when the communists launched the powerful Tet offensive in January 1968.

Westmoreland told the jury that Wallace, who narrated the program, and George Crile, who produced it, persuaded him to come to New York for the 1981 interview by promising the broadcast would be "educational and objective" and not like "60 Minutes," the CBS news magazine that regularly features stories by Wallace.

He was told the topic would be the general role of intelligence and the press in the Vietnam War, particularly around the time of the Tet offensive, he testified. He said he researched those subjects to refresh his memory and prepare for the session.

The interview focused on a dispute in the fall of 1967 between Westmoreland's staff and other analysts over the size of the enemy the U.S. troops were facing.

The broadcast showed Westmoreland contradicting his earlier public statements by saying that throughout the fall of 1967 enemy infiltration of South Vietnam was running at 20,000 troops per month, far more than he had previously acknowledged.

"I was under very bright lights and there were two cameras going," Westmoreland said. "When Mr. Wallace was talking, I didn't know I was on camera. I was wetting my lips, preparing to answer his questions."

Westmoreland's attorney, Dan M. Burt, asked if he became angry during the interview.

"Indeed," Westmoreland replied. "I realized I was not participating in a rational interview. This was an inquisition. I realized I was participating in my own lynching. The problem was, I didn't know what I was being lynched about."

"They wanted to go to my jugular," he added. "I realized that I was being ambushed."

After a long conference with lawyers for both sides, U.S. District Judge Pierre N. Leval ordered the jury to disregard Westmoreland's description of the intentions of Wallace and Crile.

Board to raise issue of death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Representatives of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were to meet with Fort Worth Police Chief H.F. Hopkins and other police officials today to discuss the fatal shooting of a Fort Worth teenager.

Hopkins was to meet with Ray Bell, president of the Fort Worth chapter of the NAACP, at city hall at 2 p.m. to discuss the preliminary findings of an investigation into the death of David D. Jefferson, 15, who was shot to death by police last Friday.

Jefferson was shot six times with .357-caliber revolvers fired by patrolmen Kevin S. Foster, 24, and Kevin W. George, 22, according to an autopsy report issued Monday.

Jefferson was shot three times in the back, twice in the groin and once in the pelvic area, Bill Faubian, a spokesman for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The gunshots that hit Jefferson below his waist entered the front of his body, said Tarrant County Medical Examiner Nizam Peerwani.

Peerwani said laboratory tests revealed no trace of drugs or alcohol in Jefferson's body. Police said they found the youth was carrying two capsules of heroin and cocaine.

NAACP official Bell had first demanded that the officers be fired, but said Monday they should be removed from street patrol.

"The first shot was excessive. I don't think an unarmed 15-year-old boy should have been shot," Bell said.

Hopkins said at a news conference Monday that the two officers acted in self-defense when they fatally shot Jefferson during a drug investigation.

Hopkins said Jefferson had taken a service revolver from one of two officers who shot the boy six times.

"I certainly can't fault the officers. We're talking about a matter of seconds," Hopkins said. "There's no question in my mind that the officers were in fear of their lives. The results indicate that they should have been in fear of their lives."

Hopkins said George fired three shot that struck Jefferson in the back because his back was facing George. He said Foster then fired four gunshots at Jefferson after he fell to the ground. Three of them struck Jefferson below the waist, Hopkins said.

Asked why Foster fired four shots at Jefferson after George had shot him three times, Hopkins replied, "He didn't know the other officer had shot him – we're talking about seconds."

In all, Hopkins said, the officers fired 11 shots, seven at Jefferson and four at the unidentified person suspected of wounding George in the ankle.

A warrant was being prepared for a 17-year-old youth suspected of being George's assailant, according to Homicide Detective A.J. Tiroff.

"We're not through with the investigation. We just felt obligated to release the preliminary information," Hopkins said.

The police chief said that witnesses who were only a few feet away said they saw Jefferson with Foster's pistol while others who said Jefferson was unarmed throughout the incident were standing across the street.

Officers were attempting to handcuff Jefferson and arrest him for suspected possession of narcotics at the time of the shooting, police said.

Lawmakers study tuition increase

AUSTIN (AP) — State legislators, stymied in attempts to raise college tuition for more than a decade, again are looking at a tuition hike.

Tuition for Texas residents at state colleges and universities has been $4 per semester hour since 1971. But officials say the cost of educating students has risen sharply during that time.

Texas ranks in the bottom 10 states in tuition charges, which pay 3 percent of a Texas student's education costs.

Student fees for buses, labs, parking and other services push that figure to 13 percent of total costs, but Texas still lags behind other states in what students are charged.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, chairman of the House Higher Education Committee, defeated attempts to raise tuition as part of a tax bill passed during the Legislature's special session this summer. But to rally votes to kill it, Ms. Delco had to promise to study a tuition increase in 1985.

"I'm not one to weasel on my commitments," she said while working on legislation last week.

Ms. Delco, whose district borders on the main campus of the University of Texas, is trying to prevent the kind of legislative end run that brought tuition before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee this summer.

"There's a tuition attack every session. Now it's just a matter of which bill passes. If we keep it in the Higher Education Committee, it will be in an arena where all the involved parties can deal with it," she said.

A bill coming out of another committee could be expected to be tougher on college students, she said.

Gov. Mark White has indicated that he doesn't favor a tuition increase, although he has stopped short of promising to veto such a measure.

"I would like to have every alternative exhausted before we do that. I don't think we have to do that," he said.

The governor has endorsed raising tuition for out-of-state students and those in medical, dental and law schools, but raising those tuitions wouldn't raise many dollars for a tight state budget.

Currently, there are two proposals for raising tuition.

Ms. Delco's plan would increase tuition for Texas residents from $4 to $6 per hour in 1985, then by $2 per hour each year through 1994 to a maximum of $24 per hour. Out of state rates would increase from $40 per semester hour to $192 in the same period.

Texas medical and dental students would see tuition moving from $400 per year to $2,400 per year by 1994. Out-of-state medical and dental students would see their tuition increase from $1,200 per year to $7,200 per year in that time.

The second proposal, which Abilene Rep. Gary Thompson offered during the summer special session, would raise tuition during a six-year period.

Thompson, a teacher at the private Abilene Christian University, proposed raising tuition levels so they would pay a greater share of the costs — from the current 3 percent by 2 percent a year until tuition covers 15 percent of the cost of education.

Thompson wants to take the issue out of the Legislature and have it indexed so it stays roughly at 15 percent of the cost of education.

"It's extremely hard to raise tuition in the political arena. But it does not make sense for taxpayers to subsidize well-to-do students," Thompson said.

Ms. Delco opposes indexing tuition, saying families couldn't budget for college expenses without a fixed tuition rate.

Furthermore, she said, she has always worked for low tuition to "make college available to more people. It's the best bargain for the state."

Virginia Whitson to leave city received the bachelor of science and the master of education degrees from Southeastern Oklahoma State University at Durant.

When Western Texas College opened a Senior Center in the Learning Resource Center on the campus, she begin visiting there. By the time the center was moved from its present location at 2603 Ave. M in 1979, she was very involved in its programs.

"She's been my right arm," said Gloria Shaw, director of the center since 1977.

Virginia has given more volunteer hours to the Senior Center than any other one individual and now serves as Coordinator of Volunteer Services as well as pianist for the Sunshine Choir and Kitchen Band.

She arrives at the building well in advance of the 8:30 a.m. opening and often stays past the 4:30 p.m. closing time each weekday.

Through her association with WTC, she became one of the best known fans of the college's basketball teams and her favorite seat in the coliseum was given a special name plate.

Over the years, she's attended most of the home games and has received recognition from the men's and women's coaches along with the team members.

The upcoming Duster Classic, scheduled Nov. 23-24, and the Westerner Classic played Nov. 16-17 were both dedicated to the No. 1 Fan.

A combination of circumstances helped Mrs. Whitson decide that her second retirement would be wise. Her health is not as good as it once was and keeping up a house and yard has lost its appeal.

She will be moving to Mineral Wells where she will reside in a retirement center, the old Crazy Water Hotel made famous years ago when Mineral Wells was known as a health center.

Crazy Water was the trade name for a widely known mineral water and the hotel was named for it.

Mrs. Whitson will also be near a niece and nephew when she moves to Mineral Wells.

The retirement home has a series of activities planned for its residents, she has found out, and no doubt she will be involved in those before long.

Her talents as a piano player keep her in demand at any gathering and her experience in organizing volunteer services might also be put to use.

"But I'm not going to get so involved there," she insists.

Lake level remains same

"assuming we have our average runoff in the spring, there's no problem. We'll still have plenty of water."

As a further hedge, the water district is now planning to accept bids to re-equip six underground wells in Snyder. This would bring the number of backup wells inside the city to 12 with a pumping capacity equaling the approximate average daily water requirements of the city.

As for the lake level through the remaining part of 1985 and into 1986, Ivie noted that the ideal time for catching runoff water is near past.

Assuming no further heavy rains occur here, he said the lake level will continue to drop slightly due to evaporation through the winter.

Hit and run wreck filed

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported here Monday including a hit and run incident noted around 1:28 p.m.

Adolfo Flores of 3409 Ave. U filed the hit-and-run report with city police at 1:28 p.m.

According to officers, a 1981 Chevrolet owned by Flores was apparently struck while parked at Special Moments in the Junction Shopping Center on South College Ave.

The 900 Block of 24th St. was the scene of the day's second mishap at 7:10 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1983 Chevrolet driven by Gregory Todd Odom of 212 36th St. which struck a City of Snyder owned trash dumpster.

Motorcyclist files $79 million lawsuit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The federal government and two park rangers are facing a $79 million lawsuit because they allegedly failed to arrest a man 10 hours before he struck and injured a motorcyclist.

Randy William Crider, who lost an arm and a leg in the July 1983 head-on collision, says the rangers should have arrested 19-year-old John Lee Landry 10 hours earlier because he was intoxicated.

Crider, 30, and his wife, Mila Abud Cride, 23, of Corpus Christi filed the suit in U.S. District Court last week.

Three arrests drink-related

Snyder police officers logged three misdemeanor arrests Monday.

Two suspects were jailed for driving while intoxicated and one was arrested for public intoxication.

Cut your own taxes and save

There's still time to set up an IRA

By Robert Metz

There's no stepping back into yesterday. Once the year ends, the tax books are closed. The only thing most can do to reduce the past year's taxes is pay into tax-deferred retirement plans, Keoghs and IRAs.

Here are some facts on Individual Retirement Accounts.

You can add to an IRA until April 15, 1985. Also, you can set up an IRA from scratch at any time before that deadline.

IRAs are an efficient way to cut taxes. You're not only deferring taxes on that much income, but, because your contributions to a retirement account are subtracted from your gross income, you may also drop yourself into a lower tax bracket.

Income placed in an IRA is not taxed until you withdraw it — usually upon retirement when you are likely to be in a lower tax bracket. The interest and dividends you earn in an IRA also accumulate on a tax-deferred basis until the funds are withdrawn.

Tax Tip: In this high-cost era, we need all the tax deferral help we can get in preparing for retirement. The IRA should be viewed as a welcome supplement to Social Security and pension benefits.

IRA sums are not paltry. You may contribute up to $2,000 of your earnings to an IRA. If your spouse works, each of you may set up a separate IRA and contribute up to $2,000 for a family total of $4,000.

The way the law is written, one can contribute $2,000 to a 1984 IRA even if that sum represents the worker's entire earnings for the year. That's a godsend to part-timers, particularly working mothers.

If the taxpayer has a non-earner spouse, the IRA family contribution maximum is $2,250. This form of IRA is called a Spousal IRA. You and your spouse may apportion this money between you any way you like so long as no more than $2,000 is apportioned to one spouse.

Tax Tip: The sooner you act, the sooner your tax-sheltered income will begin earning tax-sheltered money. Actually, you should set aside your IRA money as early as you can. It is not generally realized that IRA funds can be put to work for 1985 as early as next Jan. 1, 1985. That puts the money to work for you on a tax-sheltered basis for 15 1/2 months before the deadline for filing your 1985 tax return.

Tax Trap: If you add to your retirement account after the close of the calendar year, be sure to specify to your financial institution which year the contribution is for.

Tax Tip: For 1984, a non-working divorced spouse gets a tax break by putting up to $1,125 a year from alimony and other payments into an IRA. Spousal IRAs must have been set up at least five years before the divorce. In 1985, it will be possible to contribute up to $2,000 if receiving alimony up to that amount.

Tax Trap: If you must withdraw some or all of your IRA contributions before you are 59 1/2 years old you pay a penalty. Look for two charges. You are immediately charged 10 percent of the amount withdrawn as a penalty tax. And, the full amount withdrawn is subject to income tax. Remember, you didn't pay income taxes on it when you put it in the IRA.

Tax Trap: If you set aside more than the maximum of $2,000, you face a 6 percent penalty tax on the extra amount. The tax is assessed year after year, so long as the excess remains in the IRA. No penalty tax is imposed if the excessive sum is withdrawn before income tax deadline.

How to construct different Christmas wreath

By The Associated Press

Instead of the usual wreath of pine needles, pine cones and holly berries, why not welcome the Christmas season with something a bit different?

Here are directions for a simple-to-make, inexpensive dyed straw wreath. All of the supplies can be purchased from any supermarket or flower shop:

Use a sink or container large enough to hold the wreath and fill it with enough boiling water to submerge it. After soaking the wreath for several minutes in clear, boiled water, remove it and add an entire bottle of a dye, such as Rit dye. Stir to mix well, then place wreath in dye solution, weighing down wreath so it will not float, using a heavy object inside an aluminum pan or bowl.

Remove wreath from dye solution and transfer it to bathtub. Let dry by standing up against side of tub. Or dry outdoors. Trim stalks of flowers and wheat to about 12 inches and dye them scarlet, using the same method as with wreath.

To assemble: arrange branches of baby's breath on right and left sides, overlapping layers and ending blooming areas several inches above center bottom. Use florist pins to attach elements to wreath. Place five pieces of wheat on each side on top of baby's breath in an open-fan arrangement, pin in place. Place dyed flowers in layers over wheat until blooming area is several inches above center bottom.

Roll one end of ribbon back on itself and form a 3½-inch loop. Gather over-lapped area together by wrapping tightly with wire. Next, form six loops beneath first one (or three bows forming one half of bow at a time); gather and secure each loop beneath first loop by wrapping tightly with wire. Run florist pin through wire on back and attach bow to center bottom of wreath.

Twist a small piece of wire together to form a hanging ring and attach to top back of wreath with florist pin.

Artist honored by Knox City bank

KNOX CITY — John Gibson of Snyder has been selected as Artist of the Month by Citizens State Bank. His paintings, four in watercolor and six in oil, will be displayed in the bank through the end of November and range from landscapes to portraits.

Gibson's work is known in the area because he has taught college extension classes through the local high school.

Tyrone Power Jr., the 23-year-old son of the late actor, will make his movie debut with his father's motion picture studio — 20th Century Fox — in the science-fantasy film, "Cocoon." Also in the cast of the movie is Don Ameche, with whom Power's father co-starred in "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "In Old Chicago."
