Unocal ship capsizes in typhoon

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A U.S.-owned oil drilling ship with 97 people aboard capsized early Saturday after a typhoon swept through the Gulf of Thailand with 100 mph winds.

Carol Scott, a spokeswoman for the Los Angeles-based Unocal oil firm, said in Bangkok that at 8:15 a.m. (8:15 p.m. EST Friday) a company helicopter spotted a small overturned boat with a number of people clinging to it. She did not say how many people were seen.

Barry Lane, a Los Angeles spokesman for Unocal, said rescue efforts about 270 miles south of Bangkok were hampered by 6-foot waves and 15 mph winds.

He said ships and aircraft had been searching for the 351-foot Seacrest, a Panamanian-registered vessel, following a severe typhoon that lashed the area with 100-mph winds and 35-foot waves.

The ship was spotted with its bottom up by a Unocal vessel Saturday morning, said Lane, who received the news from Unocal Thailand Ltd. officials in Bangkok.

Unocal officials said the crew included 67 Thai nationals and 30 workers from other countries. Lane said the Seacrest is owned by a Unocal subsidiary and operated by Great Eastern Drilling and Engineering Co. of Singapore.

He said of the 97 on board, 77 are Great Eastern employees, one is a Unocal worker and 19 are from various other oilfield companies.

Ms. Scott said a Thai navy aircraft had earlier reported seeing a liferaft in the vicinity but it contained no survivors.

She said that at about 8:20 a.m. a Unocal helicopter spotted the stricken Seacrest about 5 miles northwest of the Platong oil processing platform.

The Unocal subsidiary has aircraft and ships searching the area and they were joined by units of the Thai navy and air force.

Lane said a drilling rig mounted in the center of the ship, which reached 60 feet high, was stacked with drilling equipment and there was concern the ship might have been too top-heavy to weather such a fierce storm.

He said the Seacrest had been operating in the Platong natural gas field and the crew was preparing to run casing into a recently drilled gas well. The vessel drills for both oil and gas.

Officials said Unocal lost contact with the vessel about 12 hours after the storm struck Thursday.

"We have mobilized every available resource to aid in our search for the ship," Unocal chairman Richard J. Stegemeier said earlier.

The typhoon developed suddenly and the crew of the Seacrest had relatively short notice, Lane said.

"This actually was a small storm, a squall, and it escalated very quickly into a tropical storm, and then a typhoon."

Stegemeier said other Unocal facilities in the gulf suffered only minor damage and there were no reported injuries. Unocal had more than 1,100 workers offshore on 46 platforms and 18 vessels at the time the storm struck.

Unocal operates five natural gas fields in the Gulf of Thailand that normally produce about 540 million cubic feet of natural gas daily. Company officials said the Seacrest first went into service in 1978.

Bush backs government pay raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush will support "any reasonable proposal" by lawmakers to win a pay raise for themselves and other top federal officials and judges, his spokesman said Friday.

Bush's support on the politically touchy issue could encourage a new effort to push a pay raise through Congress before adjournment.

House leaders hope to bring the matter to the floor before lawmakers adjourn for the year around Thanksgiving, but they acknowledged that much remained to be done and time was running out.

One congressional source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the package would provide a "cost-of-living" raise for top government officials in all three branches of about 8 percent on Jan. 1.

Pay scales would increase another 25 percent — the amount Bush asked earlier this year for executive-branch and judicial officials — the next January. Members of Congress, in exchange, would give up all outside speaking fees, the source said.

In addition, Congress would adopt a series of other ethics reforms, including eliminating the right of members to keep excess campaign money for personal use when they retire. The House also would set up a new, two-tier ethics committee, with one panel to hear cases like a grand jury and another to act as a trial jury.

But there was skepticism on Capitol Hill that such a move could succeed this year.

"We're just waiting for them to give us a package," presidential press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said. "We'll be supportive if the Congress produces any reasonable proposal."

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., has said repeatedly that congressional leaders consider the president's endorsement critical to the success of any effort to raise the congressional salary above its current $89,500.

Foley and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., met with Bush on Wednesday and outlined their plan to push forward a pay raise accompanied by an ethics reform package.

The president "wanted to make absolutely sure that ... on the ethics side, that our package was pretty-consistent with what he had proposed and I think it is," Michel said.

But Michel expressed doubts a package could be approved this year, especially because the Senate, whose members are generally more wealthy than House members, has so strongly opposed a pay increase — and the ban on speaking fees that is likely to go with it.

"House members aren't all that far away from where the executive branch might be," Michel said. "Our problem area is with the Senate, quite frankly."

Magazine honors Corrales

From Staff Reports

A prominent Midlander's extensive governmental involvement and service to the community has won her a nationwide honor.

Hispanic Magazine recently chose Oralia "Lilly" Corrales, a former city councilwoman and hospital director, as one of 10 women of the year. She will be featured in the magazine's December issue.

She was nominated for the honor by people in the Midland community, said Randy Torres, Hispanic Magazine spokesman.

"She's been a pioneer as far as Hispanic women involved in politics" are concerned, Torres said. "She's had strong community involvement and serves as a role-model type for Hispanic women."

"She's an incredible woman. Quite a few people nominated her."

Hispanic Magazine is a two-year-old, 150,000-circulation publication which Torres described as "a cross between Time and People (magazines) for Hispanics."

Woman free after 9 years in prison

DALLAS (AP) — Tears, screams of joy and a change of clothes greeted a Dallas woman Friday when she was freed from prison after nine years in a court appeal that drew national media attention.

"It seems like for nine years, five months and 24 days, I've been in the twilight zone," said Joyce Ann Brown, 42, "and now I've stepped back into the land of the living."

Ms. Brown was sent to prison in 1980 for aggravated robbery in a fur store holdup that ended in the death of the store's owner. Her conviction was overturned Wednesday by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Prosecutors say they will try Ms. Brown again on the charges.

Ms. Brown arrived at the Dallas county jail at mid-afternoon Friday after transferring from the Mountain View unit of the Texas Department of Corrections. She was taken quickly to a municipal courtroom, where she was freed on bond.

As she stepped into the hall from the hearing, family members screamed "There she is!" and began running down the hall.

"Now I believe it's happening," Ms. Brown said with tears in her eyes. Ms. Brown struggled through reporters in the hallway to embrace her mother, Ruby Kelley, and told reporters later that her mother was her source of strength. "She's what kept us all together," Ms. Brown said.

2,805 ballots cast in Midland's absentee voting

From Staff Reports

Absentee voting for Tuesday's election ended Friday with a total of 2,805 votes cast in Midland County, election officials said.

Under a 1987 law, Texans do not have to give a reason for casting absentee ballots.

Voters will decide the fate of 21 proposed state constitutional amendments. In addition, three local issues will be decided.

Shrimp farmer endorses agricultural diversification

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

Iraan shrimp farmer Jack Parker wants to build a processing plant.

The owner of Parker Seafood Ranch says a rewrite of the 113-year-old Texas Constitution would enable him to do just that.

"We need something like this to give us the seed money to go in and build this operation," Parker said in endorsing a four-part agriculture and diversification initiative at a news conference Friday.

Parker, state agriculture officials and other area farmers are urging passage of Proposition 3 on Tuesday's statewide ballot.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who has been dogged by criticism over his billing thousands of dollars for meals and hotel tabs to a state-federal crop inspection program, was expected to join the local campaign Friday in Midland.

However, an airplane mechanical problem in Lubbock forced the commissioner to cancel the last leg of a three-city tour that began in Wichita Falls, state agriculture officials said.

Jo Anne Noble, district director of Texas Department of Agriculture, said Proposition 3 has been endorsed by more than 200 individuals and organizations who believe that its economic development programs would help rebuild the state's economy and make it more diversified.

"Other states facing difficulties have had success with similar economic development programs," she said.

WEATHER SUMMARY

From Staff and Wire Reports

The wintery nip, which comes and goes, will be gone this weekend. On Friday, the temperature plummeted to a record 27 degrees, which occurred on Oct. 18 — date of a record killing freeze.

But the mercury will just ease to the moderate mid-40s tonight after peaking to the mid-70s earlier in the day, according to the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Winds today are to be southerly at 5 to 15 mph.

For Sunday, the weatherman is calling for a high temperature in the upper 70s.

The high temperature for Friday was 64 degrees, which was far afield from the record high of 86 degrees for Nov. 3 in 1988. The record low for Nov. 4 is 22 degrees in 1936.

STATE

Cloudy skies and scattered showers are predicted along the south Texas coast Saturday. Skies will be fair to partly cloudy over the rest of the state today. High temperatures will be mostly in the 60s and 70s, except in the Big Bend Valleys where the highs should climb into the 80s.

Lows tonight will range from the mid 20s in the mountains to near 60 over the lower valley and along the lower Gulf coast.

Skies across the state were fair to partly cloudy Friday afternoon as a high pressure system continued to change the weather pattern over Texas. The center of the system moved east late yesterday, bringing southerly winds over most of the state.

The southerly flow lifted temperatures into the 60s across most of the state yesterday. But some 70s were reported in the lower Rio Grande Valley. The late afternoon extremes ranged from 58 degrees at Guadalupe Pass in the western mountain region to 77 degrees at Alice.

NATION

The northern reaches of Michigan and Wisconsin were pestered by persistent snow Friday, while thunderstorms doused parts of South Carolina. Low pressure continued to produce snow in the Lake Superior region, where 35 inches has fallen on Hurley, Wis., since Wednesday.

Warm, moist air ahead of a cold front was responsible for scattered rain showers in the Southeast and the mid-Atlantic coastal states. Thunderstorms moved into eastern South Carolina and the east coast of Florida.

The warm spot in the Lower 48 states was Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with a reading of 90 degrees. Miami set a city record with a high of 88 degrees. The high broke the old mark of 87 degrees, set in 1986.

Midland statistics

Fair today with a high in the mid-70s. Winds southerly at 5 to 15 mph. Fair tonight with a low in the mid-40s. Sunny on Sunday with a high temperature in the upper 70s.

Air Force colonel, family arrested on drug charge

MILLERSVILLE, Md. (AP) — An Air Force lieutenant colonel assigned to the National Security Agency and his wife, an NSA psychologist, were arrested on drug-dealing charges Friday when police raided their suburban Washington home.

The couple's son and daughter were also charged after police seized $780,000 worth of illegal drugs, $70,000 in cash, two machine guns, an assault rifle, various shotguns, a motorcycle and a car from the Crofton home, said Joseph Bisesi, a spokesman for the Anne Arundel County Police.

Russell James Hibler, 43, and Suzanne McCabe Hibler, 43, were charged with possession of the drugs with intent to distribute.

Russell Hibler, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, is a psychologist assigned to the National Security Agency and his wife is a civilian.

search psychologist with the NSA, an agency spokeswoman confirmed.

The son, James Todd Hibler, 21, was charged with possession with intent to distribute cocaine, hashish, and marijuana and unlawful possession of automatic weapons, Bisesi said.

The daughter, Jessica Lynn Hibler, 19, also was charged with possession with intent to distribute, Bisesi said.

In the raid shortly after midnight, police found seven pounds of cocaine, 4 1/2 pounds of hashish and between 50 and 60 pounds of marijuana, Bisesi said. He said agents burst in upon Jessica Hibler counting $27,000 in cash in the basement and found as much as $10,000 in bills stuffed in pants pockets around the house.

The raid caps a two-month investigation, Bisesi said.

The Hiblers were being held at the Anne Arundel County Detention Center in Millersville.

Bush angry about summit leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush wants to know who leaked word of his pending summit meeting with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, and White House aides have standing orders to report all contact with journalists. The Washington Post reported on Saturday editions.

Bush was "fit to be tied" over the leaked report of the summit, which appeared in the Post 12 hours before its scheduled simultaneous announcement in Washington and Moscow, the newspaper reported, citing unidentified administration sources.

The president has ordered a "full scale witch hunt," in the wake of the leaked report, the newspaper quoted a source as saying.

"I knew someday this day would come," Ms. Kelley told a reporter.

Her mother had brought some clothes for her daughter, but it was such a mob scene at the courthouse that Ms. Brown never got to change.

Ms. Brown has a daughter and a stepdaughter from her first marriage. After answering reporters' questions, the whole family left for a celebration at Ms. Kelley's home.

Ms. Kelley said it was the first time Ms. Brown had been home since she was jailed because Ms. Brown received no furloughs. The family made the two-hour trip to prison every two weeks to visit.

Her attorney, Jack Strickland said, "Most lawyers, the fact of the matter is, a lot of good lawyers, just by the luck of the draw, never have endings like this, if it is an ending."

Friday's move was the first of several steps Ms. Brown hopes will eventually lead her to freedom. A new trial date has not been set.

During the May 6, 1980 holdup, two women ordered store owner Rubin Danziger and his wife, Ala, to stuff funds into trash bags. As the robbers fled, one of them fatally shot Danziger while his wife begged for her own life.

Rene Michelle Taylor of Denver later admitted shooting Danziger, and her fingerprints were found on the getaway car.

Although there was no physical evidence linking Ms. Brown to the crime, she was found guilty of being Ms. Taylor's accomplice, largely because of the testimony of two prosecution witnesses.

One was Mrs. Danziger, who identified Ms. Brown in a photo as one of the robbers. Mrs. Danziger has declined to comment since Ms. Brown's conviction was voided.

The other witness was Martha Jean Bruce, a county jail inmate who testified that Ms. Brown told her about the robbery when they shared a jail cell before the trial.

After the jury found Ms. Brown guilty, state District Judge Ron Chapman sentenced her to life in prison.

Shortly afterwards, Ms. Brown's attorneys discovered that Ms. Bruce had been convicted previously for lying to a police officer — something prosecutors and Ms. Bruce both failed to mention.

WEST TEXAS IN BRIEF

Sharp receives AGA award

From Staff Reports

Texas Railroad Commissioner John Sharp was honored this week by the American Gas Association with a special public service award for his efforts to increase the use of Texas natural gas around the country.

Sharp becomes the first elected official in the nation to receive the honor from the trade association. He was recognized for his efforts in organizing gas conferences in Boston, Houston and Los Angeles to bring together producers, utility representatives and environmentalists, and for making the benefits of natural gas known around the nation.

Texas State Comptroller Bob Bullcock has credited Sharp's marketing efforts with helping increase state revenues by $83 million for the current biennium.

Upon receiving the award, which was presented at the AGA's annual meeting in Dallas Thursday, Sharp noted that the future of Texas could be built with the revitalization of the gas industry. He said nothing could create jobs faster than increased gas production.

Mother holds 15-month-old son hostage

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman Friday was holding her 15-month-old son at knife-point in her locked car as police tried to talk her out of injuring the child.

The unidentified woman apparently had a disagreement with her mother as they were driving to the Texas Medical Center about 3 p.m. when she pulled the knife, police said. The mother fled the car at an intersection near the Astrodome.

Members of the police SWAT force were called to the scene, and authorities were still talking with the woman more than eight hours after the hostage situation unfolded.

About 11 p.m., authorities approached the car with a baby bottle they hoped the woman would accept by rolling down the car window

Duchess intrigued by NASA toilet paper

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Hoisting a roll of toilet paper she discovered on a flight controller's desk at NASA's Mission Control, The Duchess of York, Sarah Ferguson, found out Friday that not everything in the American space program was high tech.

The duchess, who is married to Britain's Prince Andrew and is five months pregnant with her second child, capped a morning-long tour of the Johnson Space Center with about a 20-minute session in a chair in front of a Mission Control computer console. A live satellite view of Great Britain was aired on a large television screen at the front of the control room.

Immediately after being seated, she removed a large "Flight Director" sign from atop the console and then spied the roll of toilet paper, holding it up for the dozens of people in the flight center to see.

"We're on an austerity program and that's what we use in lieu of tissue paper to clean up spills and what not," Wayne Hale, the NASA flight director who sat with the duchess and handled her questions, laughed afterwards. "Yes, she found out our deepest darkest secret at Mission Control."

"It's just sitting up there. There's a niche in the flight director's console that holds odds and ends. It's just stuck in there. She spotted it immediately and pulled it right out. She didn't really say anything but laughed and asked me what it was there for."

"She's so calm and cordial," Hale added. "I was impressed with the depth of her questions."

The duchess wanted to know what fueled the space shuttle, what the duties were at Mission Control and also said she would like to fly in space some day, he said.

"She told me several times she would like to fly in the shuttle," Hale said.

Led by Carolyn Huntoon, director of space and life sciences at the Johnson Space Center, Sarah toured a proposed version of the space station, stopping to view exhibits on biomedical experiments in space, food that astronauts eat while in orbit and laboratories for space experiments.

Astronaut Mary Cleave, who flew aboard the shuttle in April, took the duchess through a trainer model of the space shuttle and gave her a flag that was aboard the spacecraft during its flight. Paul Weitz, acting director of the space center, presented her with a picture collage from a recent mission.

Francis Cornish, a spokesman for the British Embassy, disclosed Friday the British Airways flight carrying the duchess to Houston was struck by lightning shortly after leaving England as it flew through a storm.

"It is not a big deal," he said. "I'm not even sure she was aware of it." Earlier in the day, she was greeted with a bouquet of yellow roses and cheers of "We love you, Fergie" as she arrived at Houston City Hall.

"The yellow rose of Texas?" the duchess said as walked over to accept the flowers. "Thank you very much. They're lovely."

The duchess exchanged gifts with Mayor Kathy Whitmire, signed the city's guest book with the name "Sarah" and chatted briefly about maternity clothes and protocol.

"She was absolutely delightful," Mrs. Whitmire said later. "She's very down to earth. She's very excited about getting to know more about Texas and our city."

Friday night the duchess attended the Houston Grand Opera's British Opera Festival performance, a premiere of "Mikado."

She arrived from London Thursday at the invitation of the Houston Grand Opera, which is sponsoring the festival, including a Sunday night performance of "New Year" at the Wortham Theater Center.

Thursday night, the duchess toured the Houston High School for Performing and Visual Arts.

While in Houston, the duchess is the guest of the family of Oscar Wyatt, chairman of Coastal Corp., a Houston energy firm. Wyatt's wife, Lynn, vice chairman of the Houston Grand Opera, invited the British royal family to participate in the opera's salute this season to 300 years of British opera.

It's not the duchess' first visit to the fourth-largest U.S. city. Before her 1986 marriage, she visited the city as an ordinary tourist.

Today the duchess is scheduled to visit the Texas Medical Center's Institute for Rehabilitation and Research and the Baylor College of Medicine's Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Center.

Also on the agenda were a Saturday night stay at the Wyatts' ranch near Hebbronville in South Texas and a visit to Blackshear Elementary to be briefed on anti-drug programs Monday.

Hightower dismisses spending criticisms as merely 'politics'

By HOLDEN LEWIS

LUBBOCK (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower Friday dismissed as purely political recent criticisms that his office billed thousands of dollars for meals and hotel tabs to a federal crop inspection program.

Hightower, a Democrat who has been under attack from Republicans and farmers' groups, launched a bitter counterattack against Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements called for Hightower's impeachment this week after The Dallas Morning News reported that Hightower and his top deputy, Mike Moeller, charged about $7,000 in meals and hotel bills to the Texas Federal Inspection Service, which is supported by growers' fees.

The state auditor's office, at the U.S. Agriculture Department's request, is looking into the program's finances and is expected to release a report soon.

Hightower said the inspection service's expenditures are audited annually and have never before been questioned. He said he believes his political enemies asked the federal Agriculture Department to make an inquiry into the spending to embarrass him a year before the 1990 general election.

"What this really is, is just politics," Hightower said. "This governor and the people talking about this are the same people who were mad at me over the beef hormone issue, the very same people who tried to eliminate the commissioner of agriculture as an elected position in the last session of the Legislature, the very same people who are out actively recruiting a sports star to try to run against me in next year's election, and the very people who are going to try to puff this kind of smoke."

Hightower was referring to controversy surrounding the European Economic Community's ban early this year on beef from cattle treated with growth hormones. Hightower drew the ire of federal and state officials when he tried to find hormone-free Texas beef to sell to Europe instead of protesting the economic community's decision.

He also referred to Republicans' efforts to recruit Texas Ranger pitcher Nolan Ryan to run against Hightower next year.

As for Ryan running against him, Hightower said: "I just hope he knows he's messing with the starting second baseman of the Denison High School Yellow Jackets, and I was a two-year letterman."

Expenditures under the program are for promoting the state's agriculture industry and trade with other states and nations, Hightower said.

"You've got to understand this isn't Hightower going out and buying himself a hot dog at a movie with a credit card financed by this federal inspection service," he said.

He defended an $871 meal in March 1987 at La Mansion Hotel in San Antonio, saying it was for a large meeting of Texas and Mexican officials, including Mexico's agriculture secretary and Clements.

"If a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, then we probably ought to arrest Bill Clements for assault with a deadly weapon," Hightower said. "He clearly doesn't know at all what he was talking about."

He said Clements' calls for impeachment were "silly remarks," said "his tongue is not connected to his brain," and added: "If he wants to impeach somebody, he needs to look in the mirror."

Clements spokeswoman Rossanna Salazar said: "It's typical of Jim Hightower to make jokes when his integrity is being questioned. The governor believes that Mr. Hightower should be held accountable if these allegations of misconduct do indeed prove to be true."

Beer guide tells it like it is LONDON (AP) — If a beer tastes like a wet dog, beer lovers should know it, according to a new guide to British brews.

But if it has "a clean, crystal malt palate with more than a hint of Seville oranges about it," that, too, should be stated out loud without fear of sounding like a wine snob, says the Good Beer Guide.

The guide, recently published by the Campaign for Real Ale — known as Camra, aims to go beyond the time-honored but undiscerning request for "a pint of bitter, please" and put a touch of class into the beer-drinking vocabulary.

Among terms appearing in the guide is "wet dog," as in: "Light, dry and hoppy, often with an excellent finish, but can suffer from a lack of any particular aroma, or smell a little sulphury like a wet dog."

That description is applied to a Kentish brew, one of 342 beers described in the guide.

Other terms include marzipan, rancid, spicy and worthy.

Then there is "Tom Cat" — any brew with a "pungently urinous, skunky" flavor.

The campaign, which fights for regional brews against the inroads of the lager industry, says it didn't ask its tasters to go so far as to swirl their samplings and spit them out, as wine tasters do.

But its tasters attended training sessions to educate their palates, and approached the job like wine experts, sniffing first and sometimes nibbling bread to refresh their taste buds when moving from one brew to another.

"I don't think any member of Camra ever spits out beer unless it is undrinkable," said campaign official Stephen Cox.

Guide editor Andrea Gillies says ignorance about beer is "fueled by a flagrant snobbery about beer in many quarters, the puerile assumption that beer is drunk only by fat, northern, male, clog-dancing whippet farmers — and that beer is just beer."

Among other beers reviewed was one from Stoke-on-Trent, which had a "sweet licorice nose and is dark and sweet — liquid knockout drops." Another is described as "clean-tasting, with gentle flavors of malts and hops leading into a splendid, lingering bitter finish that lasts the journey home."

A Yorkshire bitter is denounced for its "weak flavor, reminiscent of a poor quality home brew — worthy, bland, cloying, with a dirty finish on the tongue."

Councilman censured for making racist slur

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston City Council unanimously approved a resolution Friday censuring a councilman for a racist remark about the renaming of an airport after the late Congressman Mickey Leland.

Councilman Jim Westmoreland, a member of this body, has seriously damaged the well-earned dignity of the Houston City Council by making racially inflammatory statements which incorrectly imply that vestiges of bigotry exist within this diverse body," the resolution said.

The special afternoon session called by Mayor Kathy Whitmire came two weeks after Westmoreland made a racial slur about Leland.

Westmoreland had suggested to a reporter last month that Houston International Airport be renamed "Nigger International" to satisfy council members wanting to rename the airport for Leland, who was black. The longtime Houston Democrat died in an Aug. 7 plane crash while aiding famine victims in Africa.

The resolution said the entire council "finds the remarks of Jim Westmoreland to be morally without character and do not in any way represent the true feelings of any member of this council toward any individuals or groups of individuals regardless of their race."

"I think it makes a statement to the public that the statements that I made do not reflect at all the feelings or the drive and direction of the city council," Westmoreland said of the resolution he moved to adopt.

Westmoreland, a 16-year councilman, is seeking re-election to his at-large seat Tuesday. He has apologized for his remarks, but claims he actually said "Negro International" in joking about the airport's renaming.

The councilman also suggested to the reporter that the white crosses erected at the site of fatal traffic accidents caused by drunken drivers be painted black to please the black citizens and those against drunken driving.

During the council's regular weekly session Wednesday, hundreds packed the council chambers to demand Westmoreland's resignation.

Davis mansion vandalized

FORT WORTH (AP) — Intruders have broken through fences and vandalized the boarded-up Cullen Davis mansion, the multimillion-dollar residence where two people were killed under mysterious circumstances in 1976.

The mansion has been vacant since 1983, when Davis sold it for $33 million to a Dallas developer. A lender foreclosed on the property in 1988 and it later became part of the portfolio of real estate repossessed by federal regulators because of a failed thrift.

"We have constant trouble with people accessing the mansion," said Blair Mercer, senior asset manager with the Federal Asset Disposition Association, which manages the property.

"At the servant's quarters ... two patio doors are busted out and the front door to the unit won't lock," said David Kirk, a code enforcer for the city. "The mansion's still got the fence up. There's one window that was busted out in the mansion."

In July 1988, a steady stream of sightseers visited the mansion, taking fixtures and breaking windows. Police began ticketing visitors for attempted trespassing.

Businessman Davis built the house in 1969 for $6 million. In 1976, a man in black clothes shot two people, including the daughter of Davis' wife at the time. Davis was acquitted of the shootings in 1979.

Two nuns join journey

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two Sisters of Charity of the Incarnate Word have left for Bay City to replace nuns who were injured on a re-enactment journey when their stagecoach overturned.

Sisters Carol Ann Jakerst and Sister Guadalupe Eugenia Ruiz were bruised when their four mules bolted and made a 180-degree turn, toppling the stagecoach Wednesday.

But Sister Mary Brian Sherry and Sister Corine Walsh announced Thursday they would step in for the injured nuns on the remaining legs of the trip designed to commemorate the anniversary of Santa Rosa Family of Hospitals.

The 289-mile journey from Galveston to San Antonio in 1869 led to the founding of the hospital.

"Our sisters left Galveston 120 years ago to come take care of the sick and the poor in San Antonio," Sister Sherry said. "They always finished what they began."

Sister Walsh added: "When they got here, their hospital had burned to the ground, but they just rolled up their sleeves. Adversity did not stop them."

The re-enactment is scheduled to be complete Nov. 12, when the three nuns arrive in San Antonio.

Sister Clare Eileen Craddock, the third of the nuns on the journey, was boarding the stagecoach when the accident occurred and managed to leap clear with the help of driver Virgil Culpepper.

Haircut suit dismissed

EL PASO (AP) — An El Paso judge has dismissed a lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union and two students against the Canutillo school district about the district's haircut policy.

Judge Edward Marquez of the 65th District Court granted a motion made by Larry Baskind, Canutillo Independent School District attorney, to dismiss the suit.

The suit was filed Sept. 20 by the ACLU and students Eric Trevino and Ted Murgatroyd.

Baskind told the court the legal action was filed after the school district agreed Sept. 12 to change its policy and let students have long hair.

Ron Ponton, the plaintiff's attorney was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

"We always said the lawsuit was frivolous," said Canutillo superintendent Wilson Knapp.

"What we have in hand is a golden egg, undisturbed, a complete city that changed with time," said Hassan, director general of Pharaonic monuments. "It's not only a city of the dead, but also a city of the living, side by side. It's something very rare and very important."

and 10 feet deep by the grading equipment.
"Before the bulldozers got here, this was a temple, I think. It's terrible, but we now have to focus on saving what's left," he said.
"There's so much. All you have to do is to look down, and history says, 'Take me.'"

Early historians recorded a number of small coastal cities along Egypt's Mediterranean coastline. Villages of white houses, fishing boats and nets, and later the domes of early Christian churches, dotted the landscape. Vineyards, olive groves, fruit trees and almonds were plentiful. Families on outings sailed to outlying islands to drink wine.

W.A. Daszewski, head of the Polish Archaeological Institute in Egypt and an expert in the Greco-Roman period, said he's delighted with the find.

"This is a great opportunity for us to see how it was. It's a unique chance to understand the quality of housing during this period," he said in an interview.

"This was a landowners' city. ...

"It's unbelievable. Other countries get excited about finding an ancient house. We have a whole city. It's without equal in all of Egypt."

— Ali Hassan of Egyptian Antiquities
Organization

They probably had farms inland, but residents preferred to have their houses along the coast because of the cooler climate.

Excavated houses are large, with complex systems that carried rainwater from the roof to basement cisterns. Some are elaborately decorated with pillars, niches, statues and delicate frescoes.

"The architectural decoration in the city is first class and well-preserved," Daszewski said.

Designs on tombs range from simple pits through small step pyramids to magnificent, multistoried funerary complexes. Daszewski said burials date from the second century B.C. to the end of the third century A.D., but he believes the city existed in some form until the early seventh century.

Daszewski said he knows of two possible names for the city: Leucaspis — white shield — which would refer to a sandpit that protected the harbor; and Antiphris or Antiphra, a city mentioned as late as the fourth century A.D. because of a bishop who hailed from there.

"Both are possibilities, but we have a basilica here, so the city existed during early Christian times," Daszewski said. "I rather think it's Antiphra, but it's possible the city was called one thing, the harbor area another. We don't know."

The Polish and Egyptian archaeologists predict it'll be years before excavation and restoration is completed.

"Maybe 10, maybe 15, maybe more," said antiquities official Ali Hassan.

Wall Street
McDonald's
'tres chic'

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Streeters hankering for a Big Mac can indulge their proletarian urges in an atmosphere suited to their station in life.

Welcome to the upscale McDonald's — where the humble Big Mac is served in a veritable temple, featuring a uniformed doorman, a pianist performing on a black baby grand, and even an electronic ticker for brokers binging on junk bonds and junk food.

"I went to the architects and said, 'I want to build the Taj Mahal,'" said owner Frank Madalone.

The eatery 3½ blocks off Wall Street is distinguished by two massive windows, bordered with black marble trim, the Golden Arches painted discreetly on each one.

Inside, an atrium is graced by 2-story-tall mirrors; sleek, Art Moderne style chandeliers; oodles of plants; and just a hint of violet neon — to match the violet suits worn by the smiling hostesses.

"The ambience is very important," said a pinstripe-clad Joseph D'Angelo of Brooklyn, vice president of an international freight forwarding firm. "I've never seen a McDonald's so keen on service."

The standard McFare is supplemented with espresso, cappuccino and pastries at teatime, and for the pinstriper on the go, delivery orders are accepted on a fax machine.

Kidnapped American nun freed in Guatemala City

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Sister Diana Mae Ortiz, a 31-year-old American nun who disappeared from a retreat house in Guatemala after receiving threatening letters, was freed on Friday, church officials said.

U.S. Embassy spokesman James Dickmeyer said church officials were treating the incident as a kidnapping, and added, "We're very concerned to get to the bottom of this."

"Thanks be to God, everything turned out well," said Monsignor Oriano Quilici, the papal nuncio.

He and Archbishop Prospero Penados de Barrios said Ms. Ortiz, a member of the Ursuline order, was freed Friday morning in downtown Guatemala City and taken to the house of the Maryknoll order.

They declined to give details of her disappearance and U.S. consular officials were not allowed to see her.

"They said she was resting," Dickmeyer said.

The archbishop had said Ms. Ortiz, a native of Grants, N.M., disappeared on Thursday from the garden of the Belene Sisters Retreat House, a former convent in Antigua where she was taking classes.

Ms. Ortiz, who had been teaching kindergarten for more than a year in the town of San Miguel Acatan in Huehuetenango province, received several threats warning her to leave the country, he reported.

Penados de Barrios said another nun, Sister Patricia Denny, 54, of the Maryknoll order, left Guatemala last month after receiving repeated death threats.

Ms. Ortiz taught school in Owensboro and Hawesville, Ky., before coming to Guatemala two years ago.

Neither the national police in Guatemala City or in Antigua, 28 miles west of the capital, would comment on the case.

Since mid-July, Guatemala has been suffering from a resurgence of assassinations, disappearances and other violence like that which claimed tens of thousands of lives in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

Huehuetenango was the scene of some of the worst human rights violations of that era and remains a zone of conflict between leftist guerrillas and the military.

Many observers blame ultrarightists with links to the military for most of renewed violence.

Church workers active in poor communities have traditionally been targets of rightist violence in Guatemala.

In Louisville, Ky., The Courier-Journal said Sister Mary Elizabeth Ballard of the Mount St. Joseph Ursuline Sisters of Maple Mount, Ky., worked with Ms. Ortiz. Ms. Ballard returned to Kentucky because her father died and planned to return to Guatemala on Saturday. The paper quoted her as giving this account:

Ms. Ortiz received at least seven letters since January telling her to leave the country.

She did leave for a time after an incident in Guatemala City in mid-July.

"A man she didn't know called her by name, took her arm and sort of forced her to walk with him while he talked. He knew where she worked and told her to leave."

A stronger threat came on Oct. 12, about a month after Ms. Ortiz returned to Guatemala.

ted,' 'assassinated' and 'rape,' were cut out of the paper and pasted on a paper."

The paper was put under the door of her room at a convent in Guatemala City.

Ms. Ortiz asked her to keep the letters in case they were ever needed as evidence.

The archbishop, who led a peace march of 15,000 children last Saturday, had said earlier he would ask the government to try to locate Ms. Ortiz.

In Grants, fifth-grade teacher Rosella Vigil, a longtime friend and former classmate of Ms. Ortiz, expressed joy and gratitude on hearing of Ms. Ortiz's release.

She said Ms. Ortiz returned to Grants for two months this past summer and at that time discussed her dedication to the people, especially her pupils.

"She was determined to go back... She called them her people," Ms. Vigil said.

U.S.S.R., U.S. sponsor human rights resolution

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union joined for the first time today to sponsor a General Assembly resolution calling on all nations to respect human rights and abandon the use of force except in defense.

The resolution urges all nations to uphold the principles of the U.N. Charter, but offered no specific proposals. Participants in the joint news conference stressed the symbolic value of U.S.-Soviet cooperation on political principles.

"Perhaps the most important thing about this resolution is not its specific language, but what it symbolizes as a new beginning at the United Nations — a new spirit of constructive cooperation," said a joint U.S.-Soviet statement.

Assistant U.S. Secretary of State John Bolton said "The resolution is not the alpha and omega of all issues. I like to think it is the alpha, however."

The resolution calls on all nations to work cooperatively through the United Nations to ensure international peace and security and honor its Charter.

It particularly calls on all nations to "respect the principles of sovereign equality, political independence and territorial integrity of states, and non-intervention in foreign affairs."

WORLD IN BRIEF

High-speed line plans delayed

LONDON (AP) — State-owned British Rail said Friday it has shelved for a year plans to build a high-speed line from London to the English side of the Channel Tunnel.

The announcement followed Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's refusal to help meet the cost of digging part of the 68-mile line underground across south London. Environmental and residents' groups oppose an above-ground rail line.

British Rail said it will still go ahead with the link and has awarded the contract to a private consortium, Eurorail Ltd., led by the British construction group, Trafalgar House.

Eurorail Ltd. said it will still meet the deadline for completing the rail link in 1998.

The underground tunnel has pushed the cost of the high-speed line from $2.7 billion to $5.6 billion.

Most the line will run through the southeastern England county of Kent to Dover, the entry point to the 31-mile Channel Tunnel, linking England and France.

U.S. scientists honored

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — American scientists Lance A. Liotta and Isaiah J. Fidler have won the 1989 Dr. Josef Steiner Cancer Research Award, the Steiner Foundation announced Friday.

They will share a prize of $250,000, which will be invested in cancer research of their choice. This was stipulated in the will of the founder of the award, a wealthy Swiss pharmacist who died in 1983.

Liotta's group from the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., discovered a series of five proteins and their associated genes which simulate and suppress key steps in the process by which tumor cells invade normal tissue and spread in the body, the foundation said.

Fidler, of the University of Texas Cancer Center, was honored for his pioneer work in metastasis research, discovering that metastasis is the result of a selective outgrowth of specialized subpopulations of tumor cells, the foundation said. In other studies, he worked on understanding the role that host defense cells play in the growth and regression of cancer metastases.

Minks freed from ranch

PORDENONE, Italy (AP) — About 600 minks were set free at dawn Friday from a breeding ranch, and police said they suspect animal rights activists in the raid.

Farm attendants captured 450 minks in the countryside.

The action was not immediately claimed but police said it could have been the work of the Front, an organization of animal welfare supporters, which carried out a similar protest one year ago.

The front leaders had been charged last year after they made public their action in a TV interview.

West German officials to brief relatives of Flight 103 victims

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West German officials will brief relatives of the victims of Pan Am Flight 103 next week about their investigation of the bombing, but a spokesman said Friday the information already is widely known.

Three U.S. congressmen said Thursday a group of relatives from among the 270 killed in the Dec. 21, 1988, bombing of the jumbo jet over Lockerbie, Scotland would visit Bonn and Frankfurt to learn what they could about the incident.

"I imagine that these people are seeking information that would help them put together a picture of where the investigation stands," said Detlef Dauke, spokesman for the federal Interior Ministry overseeing the inquiry.

Dauke said investigators from the United States, Britain and West Germany have been cooperating closely in sharing information about the case.

"I can't imagine that any new details will come out," Dauke said. The group is expected to arrive Wednesday for talks with airport administrators and officials of the Federal Criminal Investigations Office, the West German equivalent of the FBI.

Pan Am Flight 103 originated at Frankfurt Airport. After landing at London's Heathrow Airport, passengers and luggage were transferred to a Boeing 747 that exploded and showered fiery debris over the town of Lockerbie after taking off for New York on Dec. 21.

West German and Scottish investigators say a radio-cassette player packed with plastic explosives and an air pressure-regulated timing device exploded in a suitcase.

The Criminal Investigations Office in Wiesbaden confirmed earlier this week that investigators were pursuing clues that the bomb-laden suitcase was transferred to Flight 103 after being brought to Frankfurt Airport unaccompanied on an Air Malta flight from the island nation. Air Malta has denied any connection with the disaster.

U.S. media reports have alleged that the bombing has been traced to terrorists jailed in West Germany who belong to the People's Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command.

Pan American World Airways, facing $300 million in lawsuits over the bombing, asked a U.S. federal court for access to any information showing West Germany warned U.S. authorities of suspicious activity in Frankfurt Airport's baggage handling area 90 minutes before the flight took off.

The Criminal Investigations Office has denied issuing any such a warning and the State Department has denied receiving any.

Soldiers use water cannons to drive off Marcos supporters

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Troops used water cannons and tear gas Saturday to drive off thousands of Ferdinand Marcos supporters who massed at national police headquarters to demand that his body be brought home for burial.

Marcos, president for 20 years, was forced into exile in February 1986 and died in Hawaii on Sept. 28 at age 72. President Corason Aquino has refused to allow his body to be brought to the Philippines.

The demonstrators had permission for an all-night rally outside Camp Crame, but would not honor an agreement made by their leaders to disperse at dawn.

As the sun rose, the remaining loyalists locked arms and jeered when military officers reminded them of the agreement and shouted "Go home! Go home!"

Two water cannons emerged from the main gate at about 6 a.m. and sprayed the Marcos loyalists. Soldiers and police chased groups of them down side streets and the fleeing protesters responded with stones.

There were no immediate reports of injuries or arrests.

An estimated 15,000 protesters assembled late Friday at Camp Crame, headquarters of the Philippine Constabulary, the military national police. The crowd had dwindled to a few thousand when the confrontation began.

Demonstrators moved to Camp Crame after a day-long rally Friday by more than 25,000 people capping a 250-mile march by Marcos supporters from Ilocos Norte, his native province, that took 11 days.

It was the largest show of support for Marcos since 1986 and occurred on the eve of Mrs. Aquino's departure for Canada and the United States, where she hopes to convince businessmen the Philippines is a stable place to invest.

Vice President Salvador Laurel told reporters at the rally that Mrs. Aquino's refusal to allow Marcos to be buried in the Philippines was the "worst mistake" of her administration.

Marcos had lived in Hawaii since a civilian-military uprising drove him from office. Mrs. Aquino has refused, on national security grounds, to allow the return of his body or of his widow Imelda and their three children.

During the rally, the crowd cheered wildly when Laurel asked: "Do you agree that Marcos' body must be allowed home?"

"It is now very clear what the people want," he declared. "You are a very powerful force. The government must follow the peoples' will. If not, you know what to do."

Police gave permission for the rally to be held at a traffic circle in suburban Quezon City, but refused to let the protesters march to military garrisons.

After the rally, marchers defied the order and headed toward Camp Crame, across a major highway from armed forces headquarters and the Defense Department.

About 200 police blocked the street leading to the camp, but protesters pushed through police lines and swarmed around the gates.

Reporters saw some riot police raising fingers in the "V" sign, symbol of the Marcos movement. Marcos supporters chanted "Thank you! Thank you!" to the officers.

Brig. Gen. Rodolfo Biazon, chief of the Manila regional defense command, agreed to let the protesters remain there until midnight.

Laurel and leaders of the New Society Movement, the Marcos political party, later negotiated a formal agreement with Biazon and Local Government Secretary Luis Santos to let the protesters stay until 5:30 a.m.

In a statement broadcast by pro-Marcos radio station DZEC, the late president's son, Ferdinand Jr., said the demonstration was a reaction to the "arrogance of the Aquino administration."

"I congratulate the marchers for their steadfast and courageous actions," the statement said. "You show to the world although we are a moderate, patient people, we Filipinos will not compromise principles."

Camp Crame was the scene last week of protests by Constabulary troops angered by government plans to replace the military national police with a civilian force.

Maj. Gen. Ramon Montano, commander of the Philippine Constabulary, claimed opposition groups were recruiting troops for a new coup attempt against Mrs. Aquino.

The military went on full alert Tuesday and is to remain in a state of heightened readiness until she returns Nov. 13 from visits to Vancouver, Toronto, Ottawa, New York, Dallas and Los Angeles.

Several coups have been attempted since Mrs. Aquino took office, but none has occurred during her frequent trips abroad.

Candidates often have to assert masculinity

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush had to fight "the wimp factor" and Adlai Stevenson was called "Adelade." Thomas Jefferson was lambasted as "womanish" and Walter Mondale as the kind of person who would eat quiche. Edmund Muskie wept, and there went his presidential dream.

Throughout American history, says Bruce Curtis, a professor of American thought and language at Michigan State University, it has been a venerable political tradition to question the virility of candidates for office and portray opponents as sissies.

An offsetting tradition has been for politicians to assert their masculinity.

Thus in 1984 Bush bragged after his vice presidential debate with Democrat Geraldine Ferraro that he had "kicked a little ass" and Richard Nixon, recalling his "kitchen debate" in Moscow with Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, reached for a boxing ring analogy.

"I felt like a fighter wearing 16-ounce gloves and bound by Marquis of Queensbury rules, up against a bare-knuckle slugger who had gouged, kneed and kicked," Nixon wrote in his memoirs.

Curtis sets out his thesis in an article in this month's issue of American Heritage: "Now that the ideal masculine man is farther removed from reality than ever, many nostalgic men, and not a few nostalgic women, demand that our public leaders appear more masculine than ever."

Most recent presidencies, he writes, have been characterized by "compulsive masculinity." He says Lyndon Johnson deplored "nervous Nellies" who wanted to cut and run in Vietnam. LBJ was determined to make Ho Chi Minh, his North Vietnamese nemesis, say "uncle."

That was the term that came to mind when Ronald Reagan was asked at a news conference about his goal in Nicaragua. He said he wanted the Sandinistas to "say uncle." Threatening to veto a bill if Congress sent it to him, Reagan borrowed a line from movie strongman Clint Eastwood: "Make my day."

"Even Jimmy Carter, among recent presidents seemingly the least driven by machismo, revealed during the 1988 campaign his susceptibility to his public demands by remarking that Bush seemed rather 'effeminate,'" notes Curtis.

The tradition is as old as the republic. Thomas Jefferson was called "womanish" because he "took counsel of his feelings and imagination."

Andrew Jackson, the war hero and Indian fighter, described another politician as "Miss Nancy."

Teddy Roosevelt, outraged that Woodrow Wilson initially shied away from plunging America into World War I, said Wilson had "done more to emasculate American manhood ... than anyone else I can think of."

Stevenson, twice the Democrats' nominee to oppose war hero Dwight D. Eisenhower, was "Adelade" to the New York Daily News, which also said he "used teacup words" and had the support of "Harvard lace-liberals" and "lace-panty diplomats."

The need to prove himself tough sent Michael Dukakis, the Democrats' presidential candidate last year, into a tank borrowed from the

"Now that the ideal masculine man is farther removed from reality than ever, many nostalgic men, and not a few nostalgic women, demand that our public leaders appear more masculine than ever."

— Professor Bruce Curtis

Army but the attempt backfired; Dukakis didn't look like he belonged there.

Muskie's tears during the New Hampshire primary of 1972 — his wife had been attacked by the Manchester Union-Leader — dissolved his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination; candidates may not cry.

Bush fought manfully to overcome what Newsweek called, in a cover headline, "the wimp factor" although there was an occasional lapse. Once he was overheard saying he'd have "just another splash" of coffee.

Bumper stickers help undermine Democrat Mondale's candidacy against Reagan in 1984. "Mondale Eats Quiche," they said.

Women in politics, like Ferraro, Mondale's running mate, or Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., who shed tears when she withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1988, "are condemned no matter what they do," notes Curtis.

"If gentle, they are womanish; if tough, they are not womanly. By tradition a female cannot be a courageous, charismatic, wise, effective leader as a woman." Thus even her supporters call Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain the "iron lady."

"The point," concludes Curtis, "is not that the 'manly' characteristics of the myth — courage, assertiveness in the face of aggression, righteous defense of the weak — are undesirable or dangerous in themselves."

Lee Rebel string dies at Mojo four

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

Midland Lee's three-year glory ride over Odessa Permian ended in ashes at the Permian four-yard line at Memorial Stadium Friday night as the Panthers gave out another Mojo enhancing performance for a 17-13 District 4-5A title clinching victory over the Midland Lee Rebels.

With Lee facing a third and goal situation at the Permian five-yard line and only seven seconds left to play, Rebel running back Farris Strambler was given the ball on a sweep play. He was hit hard and the line of scrimmage and fumbled. Permian senior Lloyd Hill, starting for a third straight year, pounced on the ball and ended Lee's bid to become only the second team in history to beat Permian four years in a row.

"I don't know who hit Strambler, but I saw the ball come loose and I went for it," said Hill. "We knew they were going to go with Strambler and there was no way we were going to let him get it."

With a national television audience watching over SportsChannel America, Hill's big play ended Permian's lack of hexing power against Lee. There had to be a thought or two racing through Hill's head that he might go all the way through high school without seeing a victory over Lee.

"The seniors on this club wanted this victory. We pulled together and had the confidence to beat Lee and we did. This is a great victory."

Lee had taken a 13-10 lead with 9:23 left in the game by marching 80 yards and scoring from two yards out on a sweep to Strambler, but Permian quarterback Stoney Case came back to guide Mojo to a game winning 80-yard drive on eight plays as Arvey Villa had a 26-yard run and Chris Comer a 16-yard run to key the drive which ended with Case hitting Alan Wyles in front of Lee's Ty Chambers for a three-yard TD pass.

Lee still had 5:50 left in the game and struck from its own 30 to the Permian five before disaster struck. Strambler's fumble was the only turnover of the game. This one can only add to the lore of the Permian-Lee series.

Lee's Earl Miller, who had never lost to Permian in his first three years at the helm of the Rebels, still felt the telling blow came in the first half when Lee missed an extra point try.

Trailing 7-0 in the second period, Lee drove 70 yards as quarterback Vince Henderson dialed tight end Greg Rich for a 21-yard TD. But there was a bad snap from sophomore center K.C. Jones to holder Ty Chambers and kicker Arthur Donnelly never was able to advance on the ball. Chambers tried to pass for two points, but failed.

"The biggest disappointment of the game was not making the extra point," said Miller. "That forced us into having to go for a touchdown there at the end instead of a field goal to tie, and I can tell you that a tie in this game is a lot better than a loss."

Permian's Chad Williams consoles Lee center K.C. Jones, as Rebel defensive end Steve Ruckman walks past.

Permian struck first in the contest when Case dialed Hill three times, including a 39-yard TD pass with 11:26 left in the second quarter. Hill got behind Chambers, but Chambers recovered and still couldn't stop a brilliant over-the-head catch by Hill.

"There is no way that we can cover a great receiver like Hill with the kids we have in our secondary," said Miller. "We've got only two defensive players who could start for the 1983 team, but they have worked hard to turn themselves into players. We had 5-4 going against 6-0 and that's hard. Our secondary did everything you could possibly ask of them, but Permian has great talent. I thought the defense did as good as they could do."

Hill ended up with 133 receiving yards on five catches and the key fumble recovery. When history looks back on this Lee-Permian game, his name will stand at the top of a star-studded heap.

Strambler, who had only 49 yards rushing in the first half from a stiff Permian defense, ended up with 183 yards rushing on 41 carries. He now has 1,690 yards for the season.

Permian's Arvey Villa had 101 yards rushing on only six carries. He had a big 59-yard run just before the half to set up a 31-yard field goal by Clint Stewart. Stewart's kick rated only a 3.4 on a scale of 10, but it counted for three points and a 106 halftime lead.

There was only two seconds left in the half when Lee defensive back Jason Sever saved a touchdown by catching Villa from behind at the Lee 14-yard line. A touchdown would have been a disaster, but the field goal turned out to be a deciding factor in how the last 30 seconds of the game was played.

Lee offensive coordinator Van Tom Whatley, trying to find some consolation in the way things turned out, said, "Maybe, we should have jumped on Sever for making the tackle so soon. Maybe, he should have let Villa run two more seconds and make the tackle and the five. Then they wouldn't have gotten the field goal. But at the time, I was just glad to see Jason catch him."

Both teams went into the game as defending 4-5A champions along with Midland High, but Permian now reigns as the defender of defenders. Permian's victory ensures that Mojo will meet District 3-5A's second place team while Lee will face the 3-5A champion in the bi-district round of the state playoffs in two weeks.

It isn't known who Lee or Permian will play in two weeks when the state playoffs begin. Amarillo Palo Duro, 8-0 and ranked No. 8 in the state going into Friday night's game, was upset 17-7 by Plainview. That means Lubbock Coronado, Amarillo High, Palo Duro and Plainview all still have a shot at District 3-5A's two playoff berths.

Gaines finally gets win over Lee

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

With Midland Lee at Odessa Permian's five-yard line and seven seconds left to play, Mojo coach Gary Gaines was dancing with that hairy monkey.

Gaines, you see, had never beaten a Lee team. Oh, he had taken his Panthers to the state semifinals twice, but he hadn't beaten Lee. It was that monkey that clung to his back like a leech from a Vietnamese river.

And here was Lee on the threshold of winning for the fourth consecutive time over Gaines. The monkey was still dancing until senior Lloyd Hill, who had suffered with Gaines through the Lee glory parade, pounced on a Farris Strambler fumble at the four-yard line as time expired.

The monkey finally died doing it's last ditch dance. Had Gaines shaken the monkey from his back?

"Well, I guess you can say that if that's the way you want to look at it," said Gaines, "but I feel good for the kids more than I do for myself. We wanted to go out and win the district championship and I'm proud of the players for obtaining that goal. I much more thrilled with that."

I wasn't too concerned about myself."

But Hill knew the monkey had died.

"We got one for Coach and the seniors," said Hill. "All of us had gone through this, but the seniors had confidence that this was the year we were going to beat Lee."

Hill had to be the star of the game if you can single out one particular player. He caught five passes for 133 yards, scored a touchdown and had the big fumble recovery.

"Lloyd is a great player and he had another great game," said Gaines, "but we had to beat a great team. (Farris) Strambler is the best running back I've ever been up against. He proved that tonight. We held him for a while, but Lee came roaring back at us in the second half."

"Anytime Lee and Permian meet, you know it's going to be a knock down, drag out type of affair. There's always a lot of excitement and this one was no different. You can bet I was glad to see that fumble."

Permian quarterback Stoney Case, who threw for two touchdowns and passed for 158 yards, led an 80-yard fourth quarter TD drive that won the game and then had to sit on the sidelines and watch Lee's furious bid for a comeback.

"I was nervous when Lee was inside the 10-yard line, but you could tell they were a little desperate out there. We knew they were going to go with Strambler and we felt on the sidelines that we could stop him."

For Case, it was one of his toughest nights. He was sacked four times from pressure by Lee defensive ends Mantry Dedrick and Steve Ruckman.

"The only other team I can compare Lee to is Marshall, but I think Lee is the best team we have faced this year," said Case. "Lee is tough and I really have a gut feeling that we are going to play again this year somewhere down the road."

While Gaines was getting out from under three consecutive losses to Lee, Lee coach Earl Miller was suffering his first setback at the hands of Permian.

"That doesn't really mean anything," said Miller. "Sure, I would have liked to have had another win, but the thing that disappoints me most is that our kids fought their guts out and lost. That's the tough part."

Miller says his Rebels must now put this tough loss behind and concentrate on other things.

Bronchos rush past slumping Bulldogs

By BILL PRICE
Sports Writer

ODESSA — Odessa High's vaunted rushing attack proved to be too much for Midland High to handle as the Bronchos rumbled to a 34-13 District 4-5A football win over the Bulldogs Friday at Ratliff Stadium.

Patrick Brown scampered for 180 yards in 18 carries for OHS to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the year as the Bronchos closed out their season at 6-3 overall and 4-2 in 4-5A. The 'Dogs, who end their 1989 campaign next Friday at Memorial Stadium against Abilene High, now own a 2-7 overall mark and are 1-4 in loop play.

In addition to Brown, Broncho quarterback Kevin Skinner ran for 94 yards in nine totes. Not to be outdone, MHS' Albert Ray slashed for 112 yards in the Bulldogs' losing effort.

"I wanted to throw the ball a little bit more, but the ground game was working so well I hated to force what was happening on the field," said Jerry Taylor, OHS head coach.

"We played well at times, but we got some kids hurt (running backs Major Williams and James Lee were sidelined in the first half) and that took a little bit away from our offense," said OHS coach Davis Corley. "But Odessa has got good talent. It came down to our lack of speed against their excellent speed."

Even though the final tally showed MHS was outscored by 21 points in the turnover marred game (MHS had four and OHS five), in the first half the Bulldogs gained 160 yards in total offense and were tied with OHS 7-7 entering the second quarter. Brown jumped over the goal line from one yard out with 10:52 to play in the half to put OHS on top 14-7.

Chap cagers post first victory; Franklin unimpressed

By JIMMY PATTERSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland College evened its season record at .500 Friday afternoon with a 92-70 win over Murray State in second-round action at the Chap Classic.

And really, that's about all that deserves to be said of the game.

Oh sure, it was a win, for lack of a better term. As far as on-court progress, the Chaps made none. Zero. Zilch. MC played the same kind of game and with the same amount of intensity as in Thursday's 97-92 loss to Wilson Optical.

Appropriately enough, the two teams combined for 50 personal fouls in a game that featured a 50 minute first half and a 40 minute second half, a needlessly long and tedious basketball game.

MC will meet Western Junior College Athletic Conference rival South Plains College Saturday at 2 p.m. in the consolation finals; the Texans downed Cisco, 88-75, to set up the conference foes' matchup.

Chap Classic

El Paso's Wilson Optical defeated Dodge City, Kan., 73-68, and will face Jacksonville in Saturday's championship game at 7 p.m. Jacksonville downed Garden City, Kan., 94-68, to earn the right to meet Wilson in the finals.

Murray State plays Cisco at noon for seventh place and Dodge City meets Garden City in the third place match-up at 5 p.m.

"At times we played hard," an unimpressed coach Reggie Franklin said. "When I watch the films tonight, I may not be as upset as I am now. But then again, I may be more upset. We played selfish. We didn't pick up defense. There were so many things that we didn't do that we did well during pre-season scrimmages."

In all fairness, it is early in the season, with only two games having been played, which probably accounts for the Chaps' lack of shooting success (44.3 from the field). Murray State, however, at 24 percent, made the Chaps look like master marksmen.

Murray trailed by less than 10 only once in the entire game, briefly making it a three point game in the second half.

"We played so much better (Friday) than (Thursday)," Aggie head coach Bo Overton said. "Our guys looked like they were playing in slow motion (during Thursday's 62-57 loss to Dodge City, Kan.)."

The one bright spot for the Chaps keeps getting brighter — leadership and depth at point guard. With freshmen Ron Johnson having an off game Friday, back-up Kiki Stanley, who sat out Thursday's game due to a one-game disciplinary suspension, came off the bench in high fashion. Stanley's decision-making on offense and near perfection from the stripe (5-of-6) was worthy of post-game mention from Franklin.

MURRAY STATE (70) — Grady Thompson, 9-2 6-8 27; Corey Barnes, 2-13 8-11 12; Terrance Watson, 2-13 6-8 10; Jaime Cortes, 1-7 8-10 10; Marvin Battles, 3-9 0-0 8; Lenny Myers, 1-8 1-2 4; Homer Garner, 0-1 1-5 1. TOTALS:

FG: 16-74 (24.3 percent); FT: 30-44 (68.2).

MIDLAND COLLEGE (92) — Tim Owens, 6-15 1-2 17; Darryl King, 4-8 3-4 11; Kiki Stanley, 2-3 5-8 11; Kevin Harris, 4-7 0-0 8; Fred Campbell, 3-8 2-2 8; Troy Taylor, 3-6 1-2 7; Eric Golightly, 3-6 0-1 6; Keith Hanks, 2-3 0-0 5; Charlie Craine, 2-6 1-2 5; Randy Williams, 2-8 1-2 5; Gerald Woods, 0-4 4-4 4; Ron Johnson, 1-2 0-0 3; Gyn Bice, 1-3 0-0 2; Eric Walker 0-0 0-0 0; Shaun Edwards, 0-2 0-1 0. TOTALS: FG: 35-79 (44.3); FT: 16-26 (61.5).
Halftime: Midland College 42, Murray State 30. Three-point goals: Murray 4-28 (Thompson 3-11, Myers 1-3); Midland College 4-12 (Stanley 2-3, Hanks 1-2, Johnson 1-1, Campbell 0-2, Golightly 0-1, Edwards 0-2). Turnovers: Murray 10, Midland College 21. Rebounds: Murray 31 (Cortes 10), Midland College 59 (Owens 9, King 8). Total fouls: Murray 23, Midland College 27. Fouled out: Cortes, Watson (Murray 50). Technical fouls: Cortes (Murray 3), Franklin (Midland College).

SOUTH PLAINS COLLEGE 88, CISCO 75
Sophomore forward Jeff Stern pumped in 26 points and three other Texans scored in double figures as WJAC rival South Plains upended Cisco. The SPC win sets up a pre-conference showdown with Midland College at 2 p.m. in the consolation finals.

WILSON OPTICAL 73, DODGE CITY 68
Despite a 30 point output from Dodge City's Kenny Rogers, the Wilson Optical team out of El Paso combined a tough defense and a do all offense to complete the final leg of the tour to the championship. Wayne Campbell led Wilson with 22.

JACKSONVILLE 94, GARDEN CITY 68 (OT)
Jacksonville's Malloy NeSmith sunk a three-pointer at the buzzer to send it into overtime. Jville's George Connor scored six points in OT as the Jags outscored Garden City 11-5 in the extra frame.

Candidates often have to assert masculinity

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Bush had to fight "the wimp factor" and Adlai Stevenson was called "Adelade." Thomas Jefferson was lambasted as "womanish" and Walter Mondale as the kind of person who would eat quiche. Edmund Muskie wept, and there went his presidential dream.

Throughout American history, says Bruce Curtis, a professor of American thought and language at Michigan State University, it has been a venerable political tradition to question the virility of candidates for office and portray opponents as sissies.

An offsetting tradition has been for politicians to assert their masculinity.

Thus in 1964 Bush bragged after his vice presidential debate with Democrat Geraldine Ferraro that he had "kicked a little ass," and Richard Nixon, recalling his "kitchen debate" in Moscow with Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev, reached for a boxing ring analogy.

"I felt like a fighter wearing 16-ounce gloves and bound by Marquis of Queensbury rules, up against a bare-knuckle slugger who had gouged, kneed and kicked," Nixon wrote in his memoirs.

Curtis sets out his thesis in an article in this month's issue of American Heritage: "Now that the ideal masculine man is farther removed from reality than ever, many nostalgic men, and not a few nostalgic women, demand that our public leaders appear more masculine than ever."

Most recent presidencies, he writes, have been characterized by "compulsive masculinity." He says Lyndon Johnson deplored "nervous Nellies" who wanted to cut and run in Vietnam. LBJ was determined to make Ho Chi Minh, his North Vietnamese nemesis, say "uncle."

That was the term that came to mind when Ronald Reagan was asked at a news conference about his goal in Nicaragua. He said he wanted the Sandinistas to "say uncle." Threatening to veto a bill if Congress sent it to him, Reagan borrowed a line from movie strongman Clint Eastwood: "Make my day."

"Even Jimmy Carter, among recent presidents seemingly the least driven by machismo, revealed during the 1988 campaign his susceptibility to its public demands by remarking that Bush seemed rather 'effeminate,'" notes Curtis.

The tradition is as old as the republic. Thomas Jefferson was called "womanish" because he "took counsel of his feelings and imagination."

Andrew Jackson, the war hero and Indian fighter, described another politician as "Miss Nancy."

Teddy Roosevelt, outraged that Woodrow Wilson initially shied away from plunging America into World War I, said Wilson had "done more to emasculate American manhood ... than anyone else I can think of."

Stevenson, twice the Democrats' nominee to oppose war hero Dwight D. Eisenhower, was "Adelade" to the New York Daily News, which also said he "used teacup words" and had the support of "Harvard lace-liberals" and "lace-panty diplomats."

The need to prove himself tough sent Michael Dukakis, the Democrats' presidential candidate last year, into a tank borrowed from the

"Now that the ideal masculine man is farther removed from reality than ever, many nostalgic men, and not a few nostalgic women, demand that our public leaders appear more masculine than ever."

— Professor Bruce Curtis

Army but the attempt backfired; Dukakis didn't look like he belonged there.

Muskie's tears during the New Hampshire primary of 1972 — his wife had been attacked by the Manchester Union-Leader — dissolved his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination; candidates may not cry.

Bush fought manfully to overcome what Newsweek called, in a cover headline, "the wimp factor" although there was an occasional lapse. Once he was overheard saying he'd have "just another splash" of coffee.

Bumper stickers help undermine Democrat Mondale's candidacy against Reagan in 1984. "Mondale Eats Quiche," they said.

Women in politics, like Ferraro, Mondale's running mate, or Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., who shed tears when she withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1988, "are condemned no matter what they do," notes Curtis.

"If gentle, they are womanish; if tough, they are not womanly. By tradition a female cannot be a courageous, charismatic, wise, effective leader as a woman." Thus even her supporters call Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain the "Iron lady."

"The point," concludes Curtis, "is not that the 'manly' characteristics of the myth — courage, assertiveness in the face of aggression, righteous defense of the weak — are undesirable or dangerous in themselves."

Lee Rebel string dies at Mojo four

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

Midland Lee's three-year glory ride over Odessa Permian ended in ashes at the Permian four-yard line at Memorial Stadium Friday night as the Panthers gave out another Mojo enhancing performance for a 17-13 District 4-5A title clinching victory over the Midland Lee Rebels.

With Lee facing a third and goal situation at the Permian five-yard line and only seven seconds left to play, Rebel running back Farris Strambler was given the ball on a sweep play. He was hit hard and the line of scrimmage and fumbled. Permian senior Lloyd Hill, starting for a third straight year, pounced on the ball and ended Lee's bid to become only the second team in history to beat Permian four years in a row.

"I don't know who hit Strambler, but I saw the ball come loose and I went for it," said Hill. "We knew they were going to go with Strambler and there was no way we were going to let him get in."

With a national television audience watching over SportsChannel America, Hill's big play ended Permian's lack of hexing power against Lee. There had to be a thought or two racing through Hill's head that he might go all the way through high school without seeing a victory over Lee.

"The seniors on this club wanted this victory. We pulled together and had the confidence to beat Lee and we did. This is a great victory."

Lee had taken a 13-10 lead with 9:23 left in the game by marching 80 yards and scoring from two yards out on a sweep to Strambler, but Permian quarterback Stoney Case came back to guide Mojo to a game winning 80-yard drive on eight plays as Arvey Villa had a 26-yard run and Chris Comer a 16-yard run to key the drive which ended with Case hitting Alan Wyles in front of Lee's Ty Chambers for a three-yard TD pass.

Lee still had 5:50 left in the game and struck from its own 30 to the Permian five before disaster struck. Strambler's fumble was the only turnover of the game. This one can only add to the lore of the Permian-Lee series.

Lee's Earl Miller, who had never lost to Permian in his first three years at the helm of the Rebels, still felt the telling blow came in the first half when Lee missed an extra point try.

Trailing 7-0 in the second period, Lee drove 70 yards as quarterback Vince Henderson dialed tight end Greg Rich for a 21-yard TD. But there was a bad snap from sophomore center K.C. Jones to holder Ty Chambers and kicker Arthur Donnelly never was able to advance on the ball. Chambers tried to pass for two points, but failed.

"The biggest disappointment of the game was not making the extra point," said Miller. "That forced us into having to go for a touchdown there at the end instead of a field goal to tie, and I can tell you that a tie in this game is a lot better than a loss."

With Midland Lee at Odessa Permian's five-yard line and seven seconds left to play, Mojo coach Gary Gaines was dancing with that hairy monkey.

Gaines, you see, had never beaten a Lee team. Oh, he had taken his Panthers to the state semifinals twice, but he hadn't beaten Lee. It was that monkey that clung to his back like a leech from a Vietnamese river.

And here was Lee on the threshold of winning for the fourth consecutive time over Gaines. The monkey was still dancing until senior Lloyd Hill, who had suffered with Gaines through the Lee glory parade, pounced on a Farris Strambler fumble at the four-yard line as time expired.

The monkey finally died doing it's last ditch dance. Had Gaines shaken the monkey from his back?

"Well, I guess you can say that if that's the way you want to look at it," said Gaines, "but I feel good for the kids more than I do for myself. We wanted to go out and win the district championship and I'm proud of the players for obtaining that goal. I much more thrilled with that."

Permian's Chad Williams consoles Lee center K.C. Jones, as Rebel defensive end Steve Ruckman walks past.

Permian struck first in the contest when Case dialed Hill three times, including a 39-yard TD pass with 11:26 left in the second quarter. Hill got behind Chambers, but Chambers recovered and still couldn't stop a brilliant over-the-head catch by Hill.

"There is no way that we can cover a great receiver like Hill with the kids we have in our secondary," said Miller. "We've got only two defensive players who could start for the 1983 team, but they have worked hard to turn themselves into players. We had 5-4 going against 6-0 and that's hard. Our secondary did everything you could possibly ask of them, but Permian has great talent. I thought the defense did as good as they could do."

Hill ended up with 133 receiving yards on five catches and the key fumble recovery. When history looks back on this Lee-Permian game, his name will stand at the top of a star-studded heap.

Strambler, who had only 49 yards rushing in the first half from a stiff Permian defense, ended up with 183 yards rushing on 41 carries. He now has 1,690 yards for the season.

Permian's Arvey Villa had 101 yards rushing on only six carries. He had a big 59-yard run just before the half to set up a 31-yard field goal by Clint Stewart. Stewart's kick rated only a 34 on a scale of 10, but it counted for three points and a 10-6 halftime lead.

There was only two seconds left in the half when Lee defensive back Jason Sever saved a touchdown by catching Villa from behind at the Lee 14-yard line. A touchdown would have been a disaster, but the field goal turned out to be a deciding factor in how the last 30 seconds of the game was played.

Lee offensive coordinator Van Tom Whately, trying to find some consolation in the way things turned out, said, "Maybe, we should have jumped on Sever for making the tackle so soon. Maybe, he should have let Villa run two more seconds and make the tackle and the five. Then they wouldn't have gotten the field goal. But at the time, I was just glad to see Jason catch him."

Both teams went into the game as defending 4-5A champions along with Midland High, but Permian

now reigns as the defender of defenders. Permian's victory ensures that Mojo will meet District 3-5A's second place team while Lee will face the 3-5A champion in the bi-district round of the state playoffs in two weeks.

It isn't known who Lee or Permian will play in two weeks when the state playoffs begin. Amarillo Palo Duro, 8-0 and ranked No. 8 in the state going into Friday night's game, was upset 17-7 by Plainview. That means Lubbock Coronado, Amarillo High, Palo Duro and Plainview all still have a shot at District 3-5A's two playoff berths.

Gaines finally gets win over Lee

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

With Midland Lee at Odessa Permian's five-yard line and seven seconds left to play, Mojo coach Gary Gaines was dancing with that hairy monkey.

Gaines, you see, had never beaten a Lee team. Oh, he had taken his Panthers to the state semifinals twice, but he hadn't beaten Lee. It was that monkey that clung to his back like a leech from a Vietnamese river.

And here was Lee on the threshold of winning for the fourth consecutive time over Gaines. The monkey was still dancing until senior Lloyd Hill, who had suffered with Gaines through the Lee glory parade, pounced on a Farris Strambler fumble at the four-yard line as time expired.

The monkey finally died doing it's last ditch dance. Had Gaines shaken the monkey from his back?

"Well, I guess you can say that if that's the way you want to look at it," said Gaines, "but I feel good for the kids more than I do for myself. We wanted to go out and win the district championship and I'm proud of the players for obtaining that goal. I much more thrilled with that."

I wasn't too concerned about myself."

But Hill knew the monkey had died.

"We got one for Coach and the seniors," said Hill. "All of us had gone through this, but the seniors had confidence that this was the year we were going to beat Lee."

Hill had to be the star of the game if you can single out one particular player. He caught five passes for 133 yards, scored a touchdown and had the big fumble recovery.

"Lloyd is a great player and he had another great game," said Gaines, "but we had to beat a great team. (Farris) Strambler is the best running back I've ever been up against. He proved that tonight. We held him for a while, but Lee came roaring back at us in the second half."

"Anytime Lee and Permian meet, you know its going to be a knock down, drag out type of affair. There's always a lot of excitement and this one was no different. You can bet I was glad to see that fumble."

Permian quarterback Stoney Case, who threw for two touchdowns and passed for 158 yards, led an 80-yard fourth quarter TD drive that won the game and then had to sit on the sidelines and watch Lee's furious bid for a comeback.

"I was nervous when Lee was inside the 10-yard line, but you could tell they were a little desperate out there. We knew they were going to go with Strambler and we felt on the sidelines that we could stop him."

For Case, it was one of his toughest nights. He was sacked four times from pressure by Lee defensive ends Mantry Dedrick and Steve Ruckman. "The only other team I can compare Lee to is Marshall, but I think Lee is the best team we have faced this year," said Case. "Lee is tough and I really have a gut feeling that we are going to play again this year somewhere down the road."

While Gaines was getting out from under three consecutive losses to Lee, Lee coach Earl Miller was suffering his first setback at the hands of Permian.

"That doesn't really mean anything," said Miller. "Sure, I would have liked to have had another win, but the thing that disappoints me most is that our kids fought their guts out and lost. That's the tough part."

Mutts says the Rebels must now put this tough loss behind and concentrate on other things.

Bronchos rush past slumping Bulldogs

By BILL PRICE
Sports Writer

ODESSA — Odessa High's vaunted rushing attack proved to be too much for Midland High to handle as the Bronchos rushed to a 34-13 District 4-5A football win over the Bulldogs Friday at Ratliff Stadium.

Patrick Brown scampered for 180 yards in 18 carries for OHS to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the year as the Bronchos closed out their season at 6-3 overall and 4-2 in 4-5A. The Dogs, who end their 1989 campaign next Friday at Memorial Stadium against Abilene High, now own a 2-7 overall mark and are 1-4 in loop play.

In addition to Brown, Broncho quarterback Kevin Skinner ran for 94 yards in nine totes. Not to be outdone, MHS' Albert Ray slashed for 112 yards in the Bulldogs' losing effort.

"I wanted to throw the ball a little bit more, but the ground game was working so well I hated to force what was happening on the field," said Jerry Taylor, OHS head coach.

"We played well at times, but we got some kids hurt (running backs Major Williams and James Lee were sidelined in the first half) and that took a little bit away from our offense," said "Dog" coach Davis Corley. "But Odessa has got good talent. It came down to our lack of speed against their excellent speed."

Even though the final tally showed MHS was outscored by 21 points in the turnover marred game (MHS had four and OHS five), in the first half the Bulldogs gained 160 yards in total offense and were tied with OHS 7-7 entering the second quarter. Brown jumped over the goal line from one yard out with 10:52 to play in the half to put OHS on top 14-7.

Chap cagers post first victory; Franklin unimpressed

By JIMMY PATTERSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland College evened its season record at .500 Friday afternoon with a 92-70 win over Murray State in second-round action at the Chap Classic.

And really, that's about all that deserves to be said of the game.

Oh sure, it was a win, for lack of a better term. As far as on-court progress, the Chaps made none. Zero. Zilch. MC played the same kind of game and with the same amount of intensity as in Thursday's 97-92 loss to Wilson Optical.

Appropriately enough, the two teams combined for 50 personal fouls in a game that featured a 50 minute first half and a 49 minute second half, a needlessly long and tedious basketball game.

MC will meet Western Junior College Athletic Conference rival South Plains College Saturday at 2 p.m. in the consolation finals; the Texans downed Cisco, 88-75, to set up the conference foes' matchup.

Chap Classic

El Paso's Wilson Optical defeated Dodge City, Kan., 73-68, and will face Jacksonville in Saturday's championship game at 7 p.m. Jacksonville downed Garden City, Kan., 94-88, to earn the right to meet Wilson in the finals.

Murray State plays Cisco at noon for seventh place and Dodge City meets Garden City in the third place match-up at 5 p.m.

"At times we played hard," an unimpressed coach Reggie Franklin said. "When I watch the films tonight, I may not be as upset as I am now. But then again, I may be more upset. We played selfish. We didn't pick up defense. There were so many things that we didn't do that we did well during pre-season scrimmages."

In all fairness, it is early in the season, with only two games having been played, which probably accounts for the Chaps' lack of shooting success (44.3 from the field). Murray State, however, at 24 percent, made the Chaps look like master marksmen.

Murray trailed by less than 10 only once in the entire game, briefly making it a three point game in the second half.

"We played so much better (Friday) than (Thursday)," Aggie head coach Bo Overton said. "Our guys looked like they were playing in slow motion (during Thursday's 62-57 loss to Dodge City, Kan.)."

The one bright spot for the Chaps keeps getting brighter — leadership and depth at point guard. Freshmen Ron Johnson having an off game Friday, back-up Kiki Stanley, who sat out Thursday's game due to a one-game disciplinary suspension, came off the bench in high fashion. Stanley's decision-making on offense and near perfection from the stripe (5-of-6) was worthy of post-game mention from Franklin.

FG: 19-74 (24.3 percent); FT: 30-44 (68.2).

MIDLAND COLLEGE (82) — Tim Owens, 8-15 1-2 17; Darryl King, 4-8 3-4 11; Kiki Stanley, 2-3 6-8 11; Karwin Harris, 4-7 0-0 8; Fred Campbell, 3-6 2-2 8; Troy Taylor, 3-4 1-2 7; Eric Gougherty, 3-8 0-1 6; Keithus Hanko, 2-3 0-0 5; Charlie Craine, 2-8 1-2 5; Randy Williams, 2-8 1-2 5; Gerald Woods, 0-4 4-4 4; Ron Johnson, 1-2 0-0 3; Glyn Bice, 1-3 0-0 2; Eric Walker 0-0 0-0 0; Shaun Edwards, 0-2 0-1 0. TOTALS: FG: 36-79 (44.3); FT: 19-26 (69.2).

Halftime: Midland College 42, Murray State 30. Fouled out: Cortes, Watson (Murray St). Technical fouls: Cortes (Murray St), Franklin (Midland College).

SOUTH PLAINS COLLEGE 88, CISCO 75
Sophomore forward Jeff Stern pumped in 28 points and three other Texans scored in double figures as WJAC rival South Plains upended Cisco. The SPC win sets up a pre-conference showdown with Midland College at 2 p.m. in the consolation finals.

WILSON OPTICAL 73, DODGE CITY 68
Despite a 30 point output from Dodge City's Kenny Rogers, the Wilson Optical team out of El Paso combined a tough defense and a do all offense to complete the final leg of the tour to the championship. Wayne Campbell led Wilson with 22.

JACKSONVILLE 94, GARDEN CITY 88 (OT)
Jacksonville's Malloy Reanith sunk a three-pointer at the buzzer to send it into overtime; Jville's George Connor scored six points in OT as the Jags outscored Garden City 11-6 in the extra frame.

Steers survive Andrews in key 4-4A battle

By GEORGE BRZEZINSKI
MRT Correspondent

BIG SPRING — They say the good teams will get the job done when they need to.

The Big Spring Steers did just that Friday night, defeating Andrews 35-33 in an important 4-4A battle.

Andrews' Senior Matt Carroll, rushing 26 times for 228 yards, ran through the Big Spring defensive line all night, scoring four touchdowns and powering through gaping holes his blockers opened consistently. But with less than four minutes to play and his team down two, Carroll was shut down on two consecutive runs, the second ending in a fumble and a Steer recovery.

"We couldn't stop him all night, but when the pressure was on the boys did their job," an elated Steer coach David Thompson declared. "It was a real big win for us."

The win keeps Big Spring's District 4-4A record perfect at 5-0, 6-2 overall, while Andrews falls to 2-3 in the loop and 4-4 on the season.

After a 36 yard pickup on their first play from scrimmage, Steer back Jermaine Miller fumbled and the Mustangs recovered on their own 33. Carroll set the pace when he took a delayed handoff from Mustang QB Robert Morris 63 yards into the end zone for the games first score.

Later in the first quarter, the Steers mounted an impressive 14 yard drive which included a 4th and goal situation in which Miller made up for his earlier miscue with a 2 yard score.

Big Spring dominated a high scoring second quarter, scoring three times on typical Steer drives. Neal Mayfield's 10 yard run capped the first drive highlighted by Miller's 33 yard rush during which he fumbled and had the ball kick back up into his hands.

A key missed extra point on the Mustangs ensuing drive may have been the turning point in the game. After marching 62 yards in 10 plays, Andrews faked the extra point, electing to try for two. The run worked, but the Mustang's were called for clipping and the extra yardage proved too much and Eric Perucca's kick was short.

The Steers next score was set up by Neal Mayfield's 56 yard pickup and Otis Riffey's 16 yard scramble. Miller scored his second TD on the evening with a 6 yard end around.

Steer quarterback Rance Thompson got into the action on the next possession, finding Mayfield and Miller for 13 and 17 yard gains. But his favorite target, tight end Joe Downey was wide open in the end zone and the score put Big Spring up 28-13 at half.

After the intermission, Andrews' Carroll chipped away at the Steer defense, setting up Morris' TD run early in the third and picking up six himself with 1:54 remaining in the quarter.

The ensuing Big Spring drive included the games most impressive run. Senior Otis Riffey, at times overshadowed by the rushing of Mayfield, changed directions and ran 82 yards into the end zone which proved to be the game winner.

The Mustang's refused to die, however, and scored on a 13 play, 80 yard drive which included an interesting guard run in which Ashley Anderson picked up 25.

It looked like the Steers had the game rapped up, but a Riffey fumble gave the Mustang's its final shot, which ended on the Carroll turnover.

Although the Steer's appear to be playoff bound, Coach Thompson would not look past his final regular season contests.

"We've still got two tough ones ahead."

The Steers travel to Snyder next week.

Stanton nails down share of 5-2A title

By DANNY BOBBITT
MRT Correspondent

STANTON — The Stanton Buffaloes knew the Iraan Braves were coming in with their backs to the walls and that Friday's 5-2A title contest would be tough. The game lived up to all expectations as the Buffs captured at least a share of their second consecutive district crown with a 16-10 victory over the Braves.

"They had to have this game," Buff coach Dale Ruth said during the lockerroom celebration. "Iraan kept the pressure on the entire game. Our kids just hung in there and pulled out a win."

The win leaves Stanton alone atop the district without a loss, while Iraan has one loss and McCamey two heading into next week's loop finale.

Junior halfback John Paul Barry and Senior Jesse Montez each chalked up more than one hundred yards as the Buffs rushed for 275 yards. Barry had 130 yards on 17 carries and Montez 102 on 14 attempts. "Jesse had an outstanding game," said Ruth. "The past few weeks the defenses have been keying on him, but this week he really broke loose."

Despite breaking the century barrier, neither took the game's top honors for rushing yards. Iraan's sophomore tailback Riley Malone tallied 134 yards on 21 totes.

Neither offense could get on track in the first quarter. Stanton managed only 33 total yards and Iraan 60 by the end of the initial stanza. The second quarter saw things lived up some when the Buffs drove 84 yards in 10 plays to break the ice when quarterback Randy Navarez capped the drive with a one-yard sneak. Barry carried four times for 59 yards during the drive, including an exciting 50-yard jaunt to the Iraan three-yard line. The point after attempt was good by Tony Moses and Stanton led 7-0 with 8:03 left before the half.

Aided by a 15-yard penalty, the Braves started their next possession at the 50-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Malone burst through the middle, stepped outside and outran the Buff defense for 50-yard score. Corby Maurer added the extra point and the game was tied at 7-7 with 7:48 left until intermission.

Stanton returned the kickoff to their own 22-yard line and four plays later fumbled the ball away on their 30-yard line. The Braves moved the ball to the 13-yard line before Maurer came off the bench to boot a 30-yard field goal that gave Iraan its half-time lead of 10-7.

The third quarter resembled the first, as neither offense could string anything together.

When two teams are playing with the intensity of these two, there is often a turning point or just a big play that makes the difference. Such was the case last night. Trailing 10-7 and having just been stopped, Stanton lined up to punt. Senior Richard Villa kicked a 68-yarder that put Iraan in business at their own 18. Three plays later Iraan was forced to punt. But an 11-yard punt gave the Buffs possession at the Iraan 37-yard line.

Navarez hit sophomore split end Kenny McCalister with a five-yard pass then Montez ripped up the middle for a 32-yard touchdown run. Moses as the extra point and Stanton led 14-10 with 7:36 left in the game.

Stanton's final points came on a safety when Iraan took possession on their three and after being unable to move the ball, chose to give up the two points to gain distance for their punter.

Stanton can claim the title outright next Friday when it travels to Marfa for its final 5-2A contest. Iraan host McCamey next week in a battle for second place and the remaining playoff.

McCamey routs Presidio, 40-0

From Staff Reports

McCAMEY — Eight different players scored points as McCamey ran to a 40-0 victory over Presidio here Friday night in a District 5-2A contest.

McCamey is now 2-2 in district play and 5-4 on the year while Presidio fell to 3-6 and 0-4.

McCamey scored 27 points in the first period as the route was kicked off by Billy Lynch on a one-yard run. Quarterback Chris Phillips scored on a 20-yard run, threw a 40-yard TD pass to Jimmy Salinas and passed for two points to Stephen Terry for a good outing. He passed for 173 yards while throwing 30 times and completing 19.

Lamesa dominates Slaton, 46-19

By BILL RIGGS
MRT Correspondent

LAMESA — The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes dominated their last home game of the season against the Slaton Tigers with a score of 46-19. Slaton simply could not move the ball downfield on the Tors.

The two teams traded the ball back and forth until Lamesa recovered a fumble by Michael Brown, which set up the Lamesa offense for the first score of the night and the beginning of more touchdowns in the first half.

"We got a lot of big play potential," Coach Earl Overton of Lamesa said. "We realized that Slaton had a lot of speed in their backfield. We knew we had to contain Davis." Overton also said that being able to move the ball on the ground seemed to be working so they stuck with it. He attributed the win to having a good team effort.

Lamesa had to win this game last night to stay in the running for a playoff spot in District 3-3A. Denver City and Post had to lose for Lamesa to advance to the playoff berth.

Odessa Permian's Chris Comer tries to run away from Midland Lee's Mantry Dedrick during 4-5A shootout at Memorial Stadium.

MHS countered with a drive to the Broncho 33, but the series stalled when the Dogs turned the ball over on downs.

After that, the Broncho track team, disguised as a backfield, broke the game open as the OHS eventually built a 28-7 lead midway through the third quarter. By then, it was a matter of playing solid defense to guarantee the win, Taylor said.

"I felt we were in pretty good shape at that point. Our defense was playing well. Midland got the ball a couple of times with good field position, but I felt pretty secure in what our defense was doing."

"Albert Ray ran hard and when we lost James Lee, he knew a lot of the work load was going to come to him," Corley said.

"But it was the same old story for us offensively. We have some passes intercepted and turned the ball over on fumbles. We have been that cycle all year and it's hard to get out of it."

"I was a little surprised they were able to move the ball on us in the first half as well as they did," Taylor said. "They did it in a methodical manner. Even though I was disappointed that we allowed them to move the ball, we were able to hold them out of the end zone."

Eastland forfeits unbeaten record
EASTLAND (AP) - The unbeaten Eastland Mavericks are out of the playoffs this year after being forced to forfeit four games because they used an ineligible player.

The Mavericks were 8-0 in Class 2A this season and 3-0 in District 8-2A before the forfeits. The forfeits mathematically eliminate them from the playoffs.

The student, a backup lineman was not named.

It's almost ironic that Lee lost this one much the same way that Midland High lost against Lee in a 32-27 thriller earlier this year. MHS was at the Lee 11-yard line, needing a TD to win when an interception by Steve Ruckman gave Lee the victory.

On the other side of the ball, Lee felt the same heartbreak as Rebel bodies fell to the ground, knowing that it was over. The whole nation, via TV, got a glimpse of what it's like to win and lose in District 4-5A.

"Our kids did everything we asked of them. But now this thing is over and we've got to set some new goals," said Miller. "That's something we haven't done in the past after this game and we don't have a very good playoff record to show for it. Maybe now is time to set some new goals with the kids and do a better job in the playoffs."

The one thing both coaches probably feared in this game was getting blown out on national TV. Of course, that didn't happen as national TV got one of its best games of the year.

"At least we didn't throw up our skirts on national TV," said Miller.

That was one monkey no one wanted to dance with!

San Angelo shuts down winless War Eagles, 20-3

From Staff Reports
SAN ANGELO — A tough Bobcat defense held hard-luck Abilene High to a first quarter field goal Friday night, topping the War Eagles 20-3. San Angelo moved past Midland High in the District 4-5A standings as the 'Cats now stand at 2-3 with one game left, the Bulldogs at 1-4. Abilene High fell to 1-8 and a winless 0-5 in district.

LSC cellar between teams winless in league games. Losing streaks are 7 games for CSU slouchy and Southwest Oklahoma State, 5 and 6 games for Cameron since victory over Fort Hays State, Kan., Sept.
18. Both teams, now in their second years in the LSC, rank at the bottom in total offense. Aggressiveness 311.1 yards and 12.9 points, while CSU gets 266.7 yards and 15.8
points. Last week Cameron fell 44-14 to Angelo State while CSU lost to West Texas State 26-24 on a

gelo State, San Angelo, 2 p.m. — Rama faces must-win situation to stay contention before season-ending showdown with top-ranked Texas A&M in Kingsville Nov. 11. But ASU may be without senior quarterback and LSC leader, who went out with a sprained knee in first quarter of 44-14 victory over Cameron last week. Sophomore Danny Keaton placed Russell. Rama defense got eight turnovers, including five interceptions. Russell, who rushed for 111 yards and 11 touchdowns, was the only rusher to run over 100 yards in LSC rushing at 91.3 yards, all-LSC at quarterback last year, has thrown over 1,000 yards and 14 TDs. He top receivers are junior Myron Turner

Trick plays help push Rangers past Kermit

From Staff Reports

KERMIT — The Greenwood Rangers pulled out all the stops to stay alive in the District 4-3A race with a 30-20 win over the Kermit Yellowjackets here Friday.

The Rangers, 4-5 overall and 2-2 in district play, are one game behind Kermit, 6-2, 3-1, in the race for the second playoff spot in 4-3A.

Greenwood took the lead for good on a 32-yard field goal by foreign exchange student Chris Engler in the second period, but the Rangers really took control on a 39-yard scoring pass from quarterback Randy Marquez to quarterback Cody Mebane in the third period.

On the play, Mebane went in motion during the snap count, allowing Marquez to take the snap and toss the ball downfield to a wide-open Mebane for a score that made it 23-13.

Mebane later added a 79-yard scoring run. Earlier, the junior QB had thrown a TD pass to split end Tim Flowers.

Greenwood travels to Clint next Friday, while Kermit hosts district leader Cranle.

From Staff Reports

GARDEN CITY — Allen Hoelscher threw three touchdown passes and ran for a fourth to lead Garden City past Water Valley, 40-8, Friday night.

The Bearkats' three first-half strikes were all at the hands of Hoelscher, as he found James Soles for a 9 yard touchdown pass, Eric Seidenberger on an eight yarder and Jim Bob Scott on a five yard toss.

But passing was not the only story from Garden City as Bearkat runners combined for 438 yards on the ground. James Soles carried 21 times for 176 yard and scored two rushing touchdowns in addition to the one via the pass. Seidenberger toted 12 times for 154 yards.

Hoelscher completed seven of 12 passes; the 'Kats' downfall was penalties, as they were flagged 12 times for 106 yard s.

Rankin blanks Sterling City

From Staff Reports

RANKIN — The Rankin Red Devils scored in almost every way imaginable Friday night, blanking Sterling City 35-0 and running their record to 7-1.

The No. 5 ranked Red Devils got three touchdowns from Brian McCravy, the first coming on the Devils' first play from scrimmage, a 96 yard run.

In the second quarter, McCravy scored on a 29 yard interception return, the first of two defensive scores on the night.

Louis Gonzales brought back an INT 80 yards in the third as Rankin held a commanding 21-0 lead at that point.

Quarterback Kirk Kennedy came alive in the fourth quarter, hurling two scoring strikes to complete the Red Devil scoring. Kennedy found Michael Ramos from 29 yards and McCravy for an 11-yarder.

McCravy finished with 150 yards on seven carries.

Rankin finished with 304 yards rushing; the Devil defense held Sterling City to 7.8 yards.

The Red Devils meet Robert Lee next week.

Bird flies high early to lead Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird was tired of waiting. He already had missed nearly an entire season.

So on Friday night, he wasted little time reminding fans and foes what they had missed. He scored Boston's first six points and 13 of its first 17 and led the Celtics with 32 as they opened their season with a 127-114 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

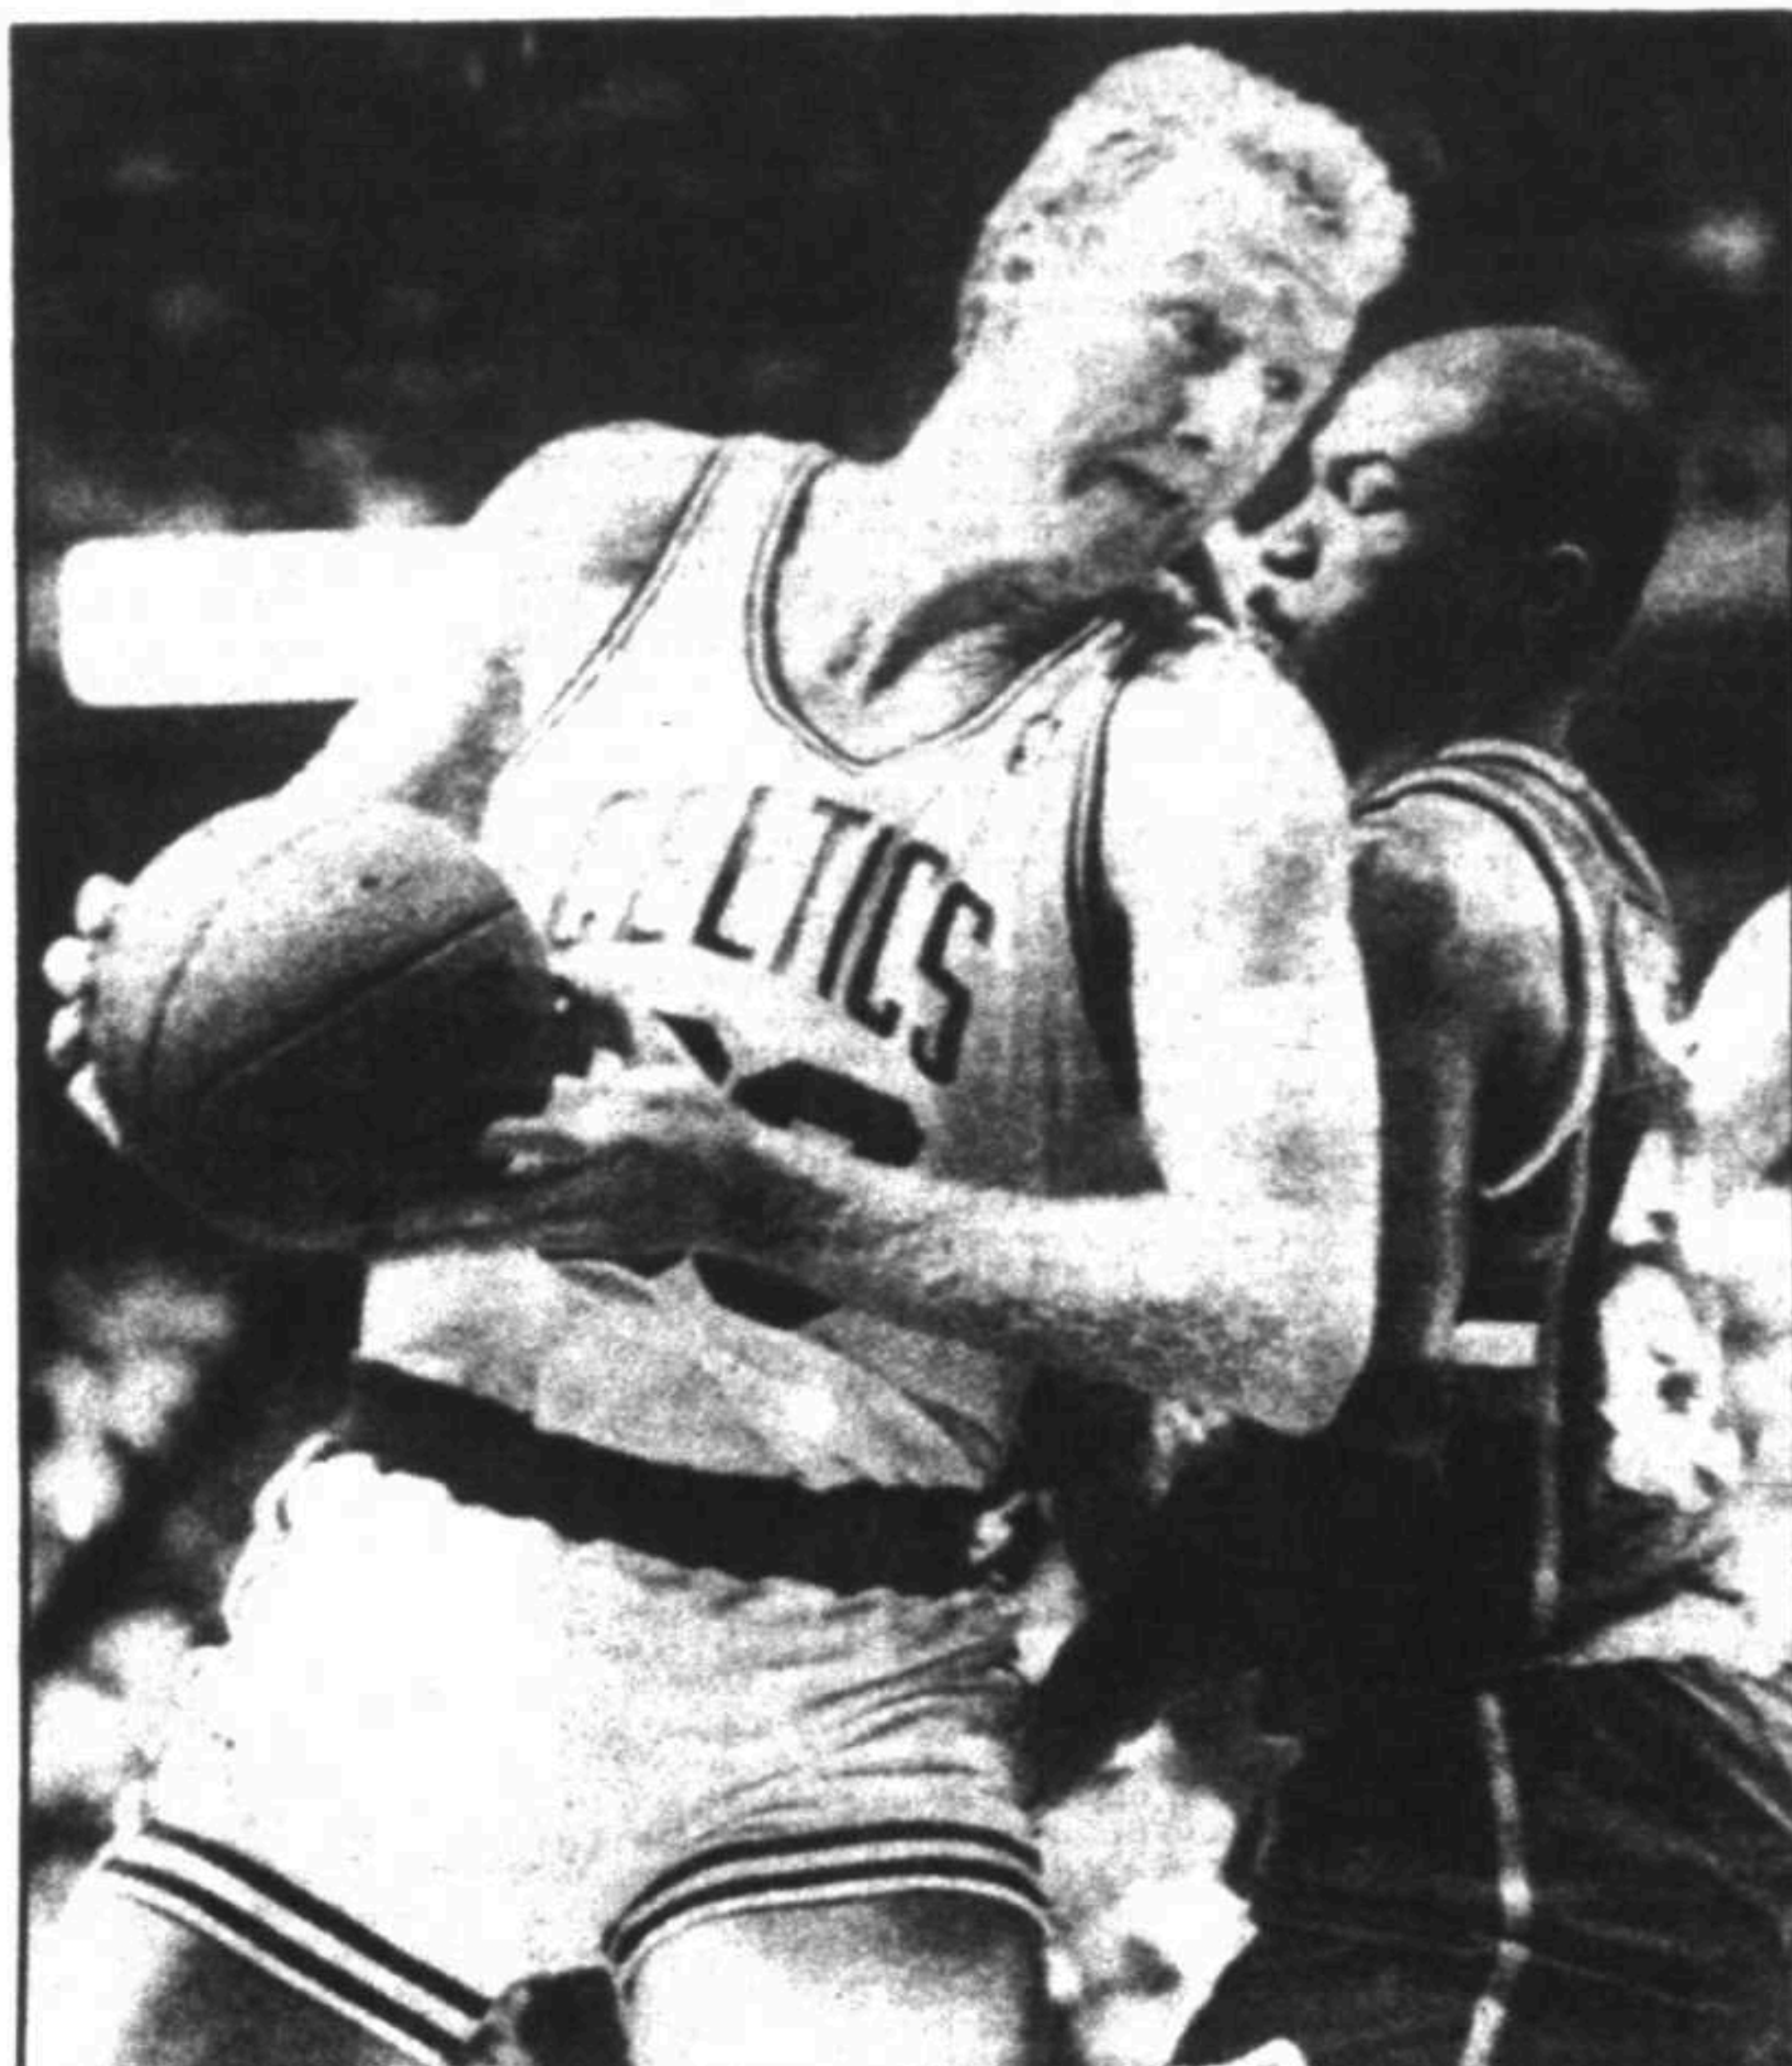

"I wanted to play well after the long layoff," he said. "I was very fired up for this game."

"I feel good," said Bird, who showed no ill effects from the season-ending heel surgery he had last Nov. 19. He led Boston with 33 minutes and made 10 of 17 shots, including one of two 3-pointers, and 11 of 12 free throws. He added eight rebounds, four assists, one steal and had four turnovers.

Bird played only six games last season.

Bird wasn't the only local hero making an eye-catching return. Former Boston College guard John Bagley, an off-season acquisition from New Jersey, had 13 points and 16 assists for the Celtics.

Milwaukee was led by Ricky Pierce, who hit four 3-pointers and matched his career high of 35 points, Fred Roberts with 17 and Humphries with 16.

Boston's Larry Bird works against Milwaukee's Ricky Pierce during Friday's season opener for both teams.

off last season, sweeping the Los Angeles Lakers for the title. The Knicks, who won the Atlantic Division last season, swept all four regular-season games with the Pistons last season, making New York the only team Detroit didn't beat.

Lakers 102, Mavericks 94

James Worthy scored 22 points for the Lakers, including 11 during a decisive third-quarter run.

Mychal Thompson, replacing the retired Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in the starting lineup, chipped in 18 points and 4 rebounds for the Lakers.

Magic Johnson scored 20 points, and broke down the Mavericks' defense with his sharp passing, including three no-look assists. Johnson added 12 assists and 9 rebounds.

Roy Tarpley, moving into a starting role with the Mavericks, scored 23 points, and Adrian Dantley added 18.

The Mavericks, who trailed by 14 points after the first period, had pulled to 58-50 with 7:39 left in the third period before Worthy took charge.

The Lakers forward countered with a pair of field goals to make it 62-50, and two minutes later he scored five consecutive points to make it 74-57.

Los Angeles led 80-64 after three periods.

Dallas closed to 92-86 on Dantley's two free throws with 3:26 left, but Johnson scored six points down the stretch to ice the victory. The Lakers took an early lead, scoring the last nine points of the first quarter for a 28-14 lead. Dallas pulled to 50-41 at halftime.

Nets 110, Heat 90

Dennis Hopson scored 12 of his 19 points in the first quarter as the Nets rode a hot start to victory.

Charles Shackelford had 18 points and 16 rebounds and rookie Mookie Blaylock scored 17 for the Nets in their first game under Coach Bill Fitch.

Miami trailed 35-13 after one quarter, tying a team record for the lowest point-total in the first quarter. The record was set on opening night last season, the Heat's first in the NBA.

Miami, which shot 38 percent from the field for the game, missed 13 of 19 field goals and six of seven free throws. Joe Barry Carroll scored to start and finish a 12-0 run by the Nets that put them ahead 25-8.

Chicago 124, Cleveland 119, OT

Michael Jordan scored 54 points — 10 in overtime — to lead the Bulls, making Coach Phil Jackson's NBA debut a success.

Jordan scored Chicago's final eight points and had 14 rebounds in what proved to be a tougher game than expected since the Cavaliers were without injured starters Larry Nance, Mark Price and Brad Daugherty.

Pacers 126, Hawks 103

Reggie Miller scored 36 points and Vern Fleming added 28 to power the Pacers.

Miller, a third-year player, equalled his career scoring high. The former UCLA star scored six straight points midway through the final period to put Indiana ahead 100-93 after Atlanta had gotten within three points at 94-91.

Bullets 116, Hornets 96

Jeff Malone scored 28 points to lead the Bullets.

The Bullets outscored Charlotte 20-12 over the last six minutes of the third period and took an 88-74 lead into the final quarter.

John Williams scored 24 points for the Bullets and added 11 rebounds, while Darrell Walker had 12 points, 11 rebounds, eight assists and six steals, four of which came in the final period. Bernard King added 19 points.

Reds tap Piniella to turn it around

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have asked Lou Piniella to pick up the pieces. Piniella was given a three-year contract Friday to manage the Reds after spending the last 16 years with the New York Yankees as a player, coach, manager, general manager and just about everything else.

Piniella, who wore No. 14 while a member of the Yankees, replaces Cincinnati's most famous No. 14, Pete Rose.

Piniella, whose contract will pay him a reported $350,000 annually, succeeds Rose, banished from baseball on Aug. 24 for allegedly gambling on baseball.

From the first day of spring training last season, the Reds went through a nightmare. There were daily stories about Rose's gambling and the club played poorly, finishing fifth in the National League West with a 75-87 record.

Piniella said he is not concerned about taking over Rose's Reds after their disastrous season.

"Not at all. It's a new start," Piniella said.

Baseball

"The most important thing is to go to spring training and instill a positive attitude in the players ... I don't think we'll have an attitude problem."

Piniella said he thanked Yankees owner George Steinbrenner for releasing him from a $400,000-a-year personal services contract that would have bound Piniella to the Yankees for two more years. Piniella had played 11 years for the Yankees, served twice as manager and did a three-year hitch as general manager. He said Friday he did not want manage the Yankees again.

"One is usually enough. Two was certainly enough. It was time for me to go on the field somewhere else," Piniella said. "I thought I did a good job managing in New York. The owner got a little impatient at times, but that's his prerogative."

With the Yankees, Piniella was 224-193. Piniella becomes the 41st manager since 1900 for the Reds, who begin the 1990 season April 2 against Houston in their traditional National League season opener.

He and his son, Derrick, donned Reds caps at Friday's news conference as Piniella's wife, Anita, watched.

Reds general manager Bob Quinn, a former Yankees general manager who worked with Piniella before being hired Oct. 13 by the Reds, said his familiarity with, and respect for, Piniella helped in hiring the new manager. Quinn said Piniella's effectiveness in handling pitching staffs was considered a big plus in his hiring.

"This club here has good pitching. They have a wealth of good, young arms," Piniella said. "This is a good ballclub I'm coming to. It's not like I'm going into a rebuilding process. This is a ballclub that can win next year."

Quinn said Steinbrenner gave the final go-ahead Thursday night to his Piniella and the hiring will not require any compensation from the Reds. "For that, we thank George," Quinn said.

Rose denies he bet on baseball games

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose denies in his authorized biography that he ever bet on baseball, but he admits he deserved to get suspended from the game he loves because of his associations and illegal gambling.

The former Cincinnati Reds manager also says in the book, inadvertently released Friday by Macmillan bookstores, that he agreed to loan one of his main accusers $10,000 to try to keep his illegal gambling a secret.

Rose said he eventually accepted a lifetime ban from baseball last August because it was the best deal he could get in light of his admissions of betting with bookmakers.

His agreement last August permits him to ask for reinstatement after one year. It contained no formal finding that he had bet on baseball and Rose neither denied nor confirmed he had done so.

"I have no regrets," Rose says in the book, "Pete Rose: My Story." "I did some bad and stupid things. I deserve to be punished. Making this settlement was the right thing for me to do."

The book, Rose's official biography, was written by Roger Kahn. It contains one chapter dealing with the gambling allegations that eventually led to his lifetime ban.

The book was supposed to be released next Wednesday by Macmillan Publishing Co., but was accidentally shipped to some stores early, according to Macmillan spokeswoman Susan Richman. It showed up on some store shelves Friday afternoon.

"We ship to suppliers. Some of them jumped the gun," Richman said.

The book contains no major revelations. It does repeat Rose's denials that he bet on baseball or that he knew his close associates were involved in drug dealing.

Kahn writes in the book that he believes Rose's denials.

Giant-killing Raiders seek 'Horns

Associated Press

Those giant-killing Texas Tech Red Raiders get another chance to knock off another top 25 team.

Coach Spike Dykes' Raiders, already with victories over Arizona (then No. 20) and Texas A&M (then No. 19), get a shot at Southwest Conference-leading and 22nd-ranked Texas in a 1 p.m. game Saturday at Memorial Stadium, which has been a graveyard for most Texas Tech teams.

Tech hasn't defeated Texas in Austin in 21 years, and the Red Raiders have won there only twice in the 61-year history of the series.

The 5-2 Red Raiders, off to their best start since 1977, will be playing their first road game in a month. Both teams were idle last week.

SWC Football

Texas has a big payback to the Raiders.

Tech shocked the Longhorns with the greatest fourth quarter comeback in the school's history en route to a 33-32 victory in Lubbock last year. No previous Raiders team had ever won after trailing by as many as 17 points in the final quarter.

"What a time to catch them," Dykes said. "Quarterback Peter Gardner has given them a spark. I'm surprised they haven't appointed (coach) David McWilliams to some office down there."

"Their defense is tough to move the ball on and they have an excellent kicking game. It's tough enough to play them in Austin without them being the undefeated conference leader."

Texas, 4-2 overall, is 3-0 in the SWC and has had its own success against top 25 competition.

Arkansas was undefeated and ranked No. 7 before Texas won at Fayetteville, 24-20, on Oct. 21. That came one week after Texas stunned then-No. 15 Oklahoma, 28-24, in Dallas.

The Longhorns were a 7½-point favorite over Tech, which has lost to Baylor and Arkansas.

In other games Saturday, No. 20 Texas A&M was a 45-point favorite over Southern Methodist in Kyle Stadium at 2 p.m.

Texas A&M hasn't lost to an SWC opponent in Kyle Field in five years.

Colorado, Nebraska battle for Big Eight crown

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — They laughed when Bill McCartney designated Nebraska as Colorado's "official" rival shortly after he was hired as the Buffaloes' football coach in 1982.

In his first few seasons, McCartney deployed several psychological devices the week before Nebraska games, including old-fashioned pep rallies, bonfires, hiring a hypnotist to work with the team and donning black jerseys instead of the blue jerseys that CU wore at the time.

None of it worked. The promotion of the mighty Cornhuskers as lowly Colorado's biggest rival clearly was contrived.

It wasn't until later that McCartney conceded, "You really don't have a rivalry until both teams are of the same caliber."

After losing to the Huskers 60-19 in 1983, the Buffs gradually began reducing the point differential, to 24-7 in 1984 and 17-7 the following year.

Finally, in 1988, Colorado knocked off the then-third-rated and unbeaten Huskers 20-10 in Boulder.

Colorado has dropped the last two meetings, but they're not laughing any more — not in Lincoln or Boulder or anywhere else.

On Saturday, it's No. 3 Nebraska at No. 2 Colorado in a game that could decide the Big Eight title and an Orange Bowl berth as well as the national championship.

The Nebraska-Colorado series hasn't attained the riveting importance of the traditional Nebraska-Oklahoma season-ending showdown, but it's gaining. This year, at least, it's bigger, since Oklahoma has already lost three games, including a 20-3 loss to Colorado last week.

"This is the biggest game I've been involved in as a coach," said McCartney, who was defensive coordinator at Michigan from 1977-81.

"We're trying to keep it in perspective, but I feel our players are mature enough to know the importance of this game," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said.

Both teams bring 8-0 overall records and 4-0 Big Eight marks into the nationally televised contest.

Both teams like to run — Nebraska ranks No. 1 in the country in rushing at 400.4 yards per game and Colorado is No. 3 at 376.1. When they throw, they tend to do it effectively — CU's Darian Hagan and NU's Gerry Gdowski rank 1-2 in the Big Eight in passing efficiency.

The defenses are solid. The Cornhuskers are eighth nationally, yielding 260 yards per game, and Colorado is greatest chance for victory," McCartney said. "Both of our passing games have the most success when we're running the football. If we're running it effectively, it opens up the whole game to us — and the same is true for Nebraska. When they're consistently moving the football on the ground, that's when they're the most dangerous in the air."

Colorado would appear to have an edge in special teams. CU punter Tom Rouen leads the nation with a 46.5-yard average, and the Buffs also are first in kickoff returns and net punting and fourth in punt returns.

"This is certainly the best Colorado team I've seen in the last 10 or 15 years — and maybe the best I've ever seen," Osborne said. "I don't see anything they don't do well. They have a great option game. Hagan is very quick and makes good decisions. And when they throw it, they're completing 60 percent of their passes. They have a sound defense and an excellent kicking game. It's a complete package."

McCartney, by contrast, has seen a parade of good Cornhusker teams.

"This Husker team presents problems with play-ac-

19th, surrendering 301.1.

"The defense that can shut down the run has the tion passes," he said. "When they're having success running the ball, their passing game is very effective because it looks like a running play coming at you. The same guy who looks like he's going to block you passes you up and gains a step or two on you, and that's how they make big plays in their passing game."

"They rank among the top teams in defense. They're always hard to run on."

I-back Ken Clark, who sat out last week's game with sore knees but will start on Saturday, leads the Huskers with 833 yards rushing, followed closely by Gdowski, who has topped 100 yards in three straight games and has 750.

Hagan, a sophomore, leads Colorado with 708 yards. Senior tailback J.J. Flannigan, filling in for the injured Eric Blenimy the last two weeks, has 702. Blenimy, who fractured the fibula — the small, non-weight-bearing bone — in his right leg three weeks ago, will be available if needed, wearing a protective pad.

Nebraska has a history of playing in big games; Colorado does not. But the Buffs feel they're prepared because of having played a tougher schedule this season, including games against Texas, Illinois, Washington and Oklahoma.

Yank kickers wonder about alleged offer

FENTON, Mo. (AP) — Coach Bob Gansler and several American players say they have heard rumors that Trinidad and Tobago and Costa Rica have offered money to El Salvador as an inducement for Sunday's World Cup qualifying match against the United States.

The United States, trying to qualify for its first World Cup since 1950, would need to beat Trinidad on Nov. 19 if it ties or loses to winless El Salvador. If the Americans win Sunday, they would need only a tie against Trinidad to gain the second and final berth in the North and Central American and Caribbean region.

U.S. midfielder Eric Eichmann said rumors were widespread that the Salvadoran contingent had been offered as much as $1,750 per player by Trinidad and Costa Rica. They could not explain why Costa Rica, which already has clinched a World Cup berth, would care about this game.

Eichmann, fellow midfielder Tab Ramos and backup goalkeeper David Vanole all said they believed El Salvador also had been offered money to play at its best before the teams played in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, on Sept. 17. The United States won that game 1-0.

"At that time, they were already virtually mathematically eliminated," Eichmann said. "One of our players spoke with them at the airport the day after the match and they indicated that Costa Rica and Trinidad had offered them money — and very good money, I might add, for what those guys make down there — to beat us."

Eichmann and Ramos both said they had heard that Trinidad had offered to pay $750 per player and Costa Rica had offered $1,000 per player.

"That's all hearsay and rumors, but it fits the puzzle," Eichmann said. "I'm not naive enough to think that thing wouldn't happen."

John Polis, public relations director for the U.S. Soccer Federation, said these kind of rumors surface in every big soccer game but are never proven.

"It's nothing new with respect to international soccer," Polis said.

Gansler said this is the third game he has heard rumors about possible payments. He said he wouldn't let it affect his team's preparation.

"It makes for a good story," Gansler said. "Whether it goes on, who knows? But it can't affect us in any way, shape or form. We've still got to go out and take charge of our own destiny, so to speak."

The United States, 3-1-2, has eight points, one less than Trinidad, 3-1-3. But the Americans have two games left. Costa Rica completed its schedule with a 5-2-1 record and 11 points.

The U.S. team will be without midfielder Hugo Perez, its top scoring threat. Perez missed the first four qualifying games, scored the winning goal in the first game against El Salvador, then tore a muscle last month playing for his club team, Red Star of the French second division.

But the United States does get back Eichmann and Ramos, who missed the Guatemala game because of one-game suspensions for getting their second yellow cards.

The United States outshot El Salvador 19-5 in the game at Honduras and outshot Guatemala 16-7.

"We dominated both of those games," Gansler said.

Belmont Stakes winner Easy Goer eats a lump of sugar from the hand of assistant trainer Buzzy Tenney after the horse's Friday workout at Hallandale, Fla. Easy Goer will run in Saturday's Breeders' Cup Classic.

Derby, Belmont winners battle

Breeders' Cup

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — As if Easy Goer isn't enough to worry Charlie Whittingham in Saturday's Breeders' Cup Classic, the wizened trainer of Sunday Silence invoked the ghost of Man o' War for good measure.

The $3 million Classic, the richest race on the richest day in racing, drew eight entries but is considered a two-horse race between Triple Crown rivals Easy Goer and Sunday Silence with Horse of the Year honors on the line.

Whittingham hopes so.

"I think those others are a notch below, but you never know," Whittingham said Friday.

"They beat Man o' War, didn't they?"

The legendary Man o' War's only loss in 21 starts came when he was beaten by Upset.

Some observers feel Upset would be called Present Value on Saturday.

"He is good right now," Whittingham said of the 5-year-old horse who has won his last two starts for seven wins in 16 races this year.

This will be the fourth meeting for Easy Goer and Sunday Silence, and no other horse in the first three could finish better than third. Sunday Silence beat Easy Goer in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness and finished second to him in the Belmont.

Easy Goer, ridden by Pat Day, was the 6-5 early favorite. He has won five straight Grade I stakes, starting with the eight-length win in the Belmont, and his record for the year is eight wins and two seconds in 10 starts for earnings of $3,162,150.

Since the Belmont, Sunday Silence, the early 2-1 second choice, has finished second in the Swaps and won the Super Derby for a record of six wins and two seconds in eight starts this year. He has earned $3,228,454.

Back for a third straight Classic is Cryptoclearance, who finished fifth in each of the previous two years for a total of $300,000. The winner's share this year is $1.35 million.

Sunday Silence will be ridden by Chris McCarron in place of Pat Valenzuela, who is under a 60-day suspension for testing positive for cocaine.

McCarron already has been involved in three rousing Classics. He finished second on Gate Dancer by a head to Proud Truth in 1985, and he was a nose behind Ferdinand on Alysheba in 1987. Finally, last year, he won, riding Alysheba to a half-length win over Seeking the Gold.

The victory by Ferdinand clinched Horse of the Year for the Whittingham-trained colt.

A victory by either Easy Goer or Sunday Silence would clinch the title this year.

The two favorites will have the field surrounded at the start, Easy Goer on the rail and Sunday Silence outside in the No. 8 post.

Post time is 5:30 p.m. EST.

The Classic will be highlight of the seven-race, $10 million Breeders' Cup card at Gulfstream Park, offering both the most money and the most equine talent in the sport. NBC will televise from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. EST.

Grass specialists from both sides of the Atlantic will go at it at a mile and 1 1/4 miles on the turf.

The owner of some sprinter will win $450,000 from a $1 million purse in 70 seconds or less.

Two Kentucky Derby winners — Winning Colors in addition to Sunday Silence — will be in action, as will a dozen colts, whose owners and trainers hope will turn out to be Derby contenders next year.

Trainer D. Wayne Lukas will have a total of seven fillies in the fight for two other $1 million purses.

A total of 68 horses were drawn to the sixth Breeders' Cup series, but there is a possibility that it will be another Lukas celebration.

Kristiansen takes different approach

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingrid Kristiansen, the prohibitive women's favorite in the New York City Marathon, is taking a different approach to Sunday's race.

Instead of saying she will try to become the first woman to break the 2-hour, 20-minute barrier, as she often has in the past, the Norwegian insists she will be running just to win.

"This is the only big marathon I haven't won," she said. "I have won London (four times), Boston (twice) and Stockholm (twice). I would like to win this."

Kristiansen, the fastest woman's marathoner in history, with a 2:21:06 clocking at London in 1985, has run New York four times. Her best finish was second, behind New Zealander Allison Roe, who set the course record of 2:25:29 in 1981.

Although Kristiansen has no plans to chase her world best, she does have designs on Roe's record.

"This is a very important race to me, because I want to win," she said. "I'm not in shape to run 2:20, and this is not the course to do it."

"But if I don't run under 2:25, even if I win, I will be very disappointed."

Breaking 2:25 should not be difficult for Kristiansen, even if she is not at her peak. She already has done it six times, most recently at Boston in April with a time of 2:24:33.

If Kristiansen does it again Sunday, it most likely will be on her own. No one else in the women's field of approximately 5,000 appears capable of seriously challenging her.

The second-fastest time, 2:26:51, belongs to Priscilla Welch of Britain.

Stewart challenges Holyfield in key bout

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — When you talk about knockouts, you talk about Mike Tyson. You talk about Mike Tyson. And Alex Stewart.

The major difference, of course, is that Tyson is the undisputed heavyweight champion with 37 straight victories, 33 by knockout, and millions of dollars to show for it. Stewart is a contender — or will be if he makes Evander Holyfield his 25th straight knockout victim Saturday night.

Stewart's 24 consecutive knockouts is a record, but it was set against the likes of Dave Jaco, Arthel LaWhorne, Fernando Montes and Terry Armstrong.

Who?

"It's what I've done to my opponents," Stewart said. "Every heavyweight fighter, has to develop."

"I'm proud of my record. Not even Tyson knocks out everyone."

But Tyson knocks out somebodies, people you've heard of.

Stewart's string of knockouts and wins will be severely tested against Holyfield, the No. 1 contender with the WBA, WBC and IBF. The 1984

Boxing

Olympic bronze medalist — Stewart, representing Jamaica, lost in the second round of bouts at Los Angeles — is 22-0 with 18 knockouts, and has beaten much better fighters than Stewart has defeated.

"He's got something to prove," Holyfield said. "I'm sure he wants people to stop saying he's beating fighters who aren't much."

"He'll be right there for me to hit and I'll be right there, too. He's never fought anyone on my level and I've been in there with a lot of good fighters."

Stewart isn't scared of Holyfield, of course.

"I don't envision Holyfield dropping me," said Stewart, of Brooklyn, N.Y. "Maybe he'll hurt me. If he does drop me, I wouldn't want to be in his shoes when I get up."

The winner's shoes will be a good place to be. A shot at Tyson certainly is in the works for Holyfield if he beats Stewart. And a victory for Stewart would catapult him into the title picture.

"That's where the titles are and that's where the big money is," said Holyfield. "That's where I want to be."

"DAD' HAS ALL THE IMPACT OF 'TERMS OF ENDEARMENT' YOU'LL LAUGH AND YOU'LL CRY. Jack Lemmon is sheer brilliance, Ted Danson has never been better and Olympia Dukakis outdoes her role in 'Moonstruck'."

— Pat Collins, WWOR-TV

"DAD' IS A SPARKLING FILM ABOUT THE JOY OF BEING ALIVE. It's moving, fun and wise. Everyone who loves a dad will love this 'Dad.'"

— Patrick Steiner, PBS

"WINNER, WINNER, WINNER!"

Jack Lemmon gives the performance of his life. 'Dad' will make you laugh and cry, and make as indelible an impression as 'Terms of Endearment' and 'On Golden Pond.'"

— Marilyn Beck, Syndicated Columnist

"DAD' IS A JOY TO WATCH."

A special event. It's an engrossing comedy-drama with robust good humor, honest and open emotions, and real affection."

— Jack Garner, GANNETT NEWSPAPERS

JACK LEMMON • TED DANSON

is the first one.

Disagreements between two Baptist factions escalating

By HOLDEN LEWIS

LUBBOCK (AP) — Fundamentalists and moderates are expected to wrestle for control of the state's largest religious denomination when the Baptist General Convention of Texas holds its annual meeting next week. At least 4,000 delegates are to attend the two-day meeting beginning Tuesday to elect a new president, vote on a $68.8 million budget and consider resolutions on social issues, including abortion.

There are almost 4,000 Baptist churches in Texas with a total of 2.4 million members. The state convention administers Baylor University in Waco.

Like the 14.7 million-member Southern Baptist Convention, the Texas organization has been split by two factions, known as fundamentalists and moderates. Things are so touchy, though, that the factions prefer to be called "conservative."

Though fundamentalists control the Southern Baptist Convention, moderates have maintained control of the Texas organization. The struggle between the factions has escalated in the last few weeks with letters to fellow Baptists concerning a pastors' conference the day before the meeting officially begins.

The letter said the fundamentalists plan to "take over Baylor" by winning elections for president and the two vice presidents.

"It is absolutely essential that conservative Texas Baptists travel to Lubbock to repel this assault upon our agencies and institutions," the three moderates wrote.

Scarborough responded with a letter to pastors in which he noted that several prominent Baptists are scheduled to preach at the pastors' conference. He said calling their preaching a pep rally "must grieve the heart of God."

"I think you and I need to ask ourselves why so many are working so hard to discredit our conference," Scarborough wrote. "Is it possible that some are fighting very hard to maintain the control over our state convention that they have held for many years?"

Sonny Foraker, Retta Baptist's associate pastor, said Friday the pastors' conference was scheduled before organizers knew Texas Baptist Men would be meeting at the same time. He said Monday afternoon was the best possible time for the meeting.

"We're not in any way, shape or form doing anything to harm the Baptist Men," he said.

Prison chaplain sees seed of God's love in every inmate

Minister believes possibility that any one can change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Prison is a mean and ugly place. Life is defined by roll call and steel bars, and, as singer James Taylor put it, time is measured by "a clock with no hands."

But for Baptist preacher Gary Sims, the Ohio director for Prison Fellowship Ministries, the state's nine juvenile and 21 adult prisons are fertile ground.

"If you look for bad, you find bad," said Sims, 35, who prefers the title chaplain to reverend. "I think Mother Teresa was asked, 'Mother Teresa, why are you still in the streets?' ... and she said, 'When I see people on the street, I see Christ.'"

"When I look," Sims said, "I see Christ in those people — regardless if that person's in for rape, murder, whatever the situation may be. I think that there is a seed in every person that demonstrates the love of God. And that person has the potential of being changed. I'm not saying that he will change, that he will choose to change, but there is always that possibility."

Sims, an intense and quiet man, is no naive do-gooder. He knows that three of every four inmates he sees likely will do time again, that drugs, poverty, poor education and despair create a vicious cycle that few can break.

"It's unrealistic to think that the ratio of your having an effect would be 85 percent. Maybe 2 or 3 (percent). And sometimes you may not see a person make any positive change in maybe three years. But you're planting seeds. And someone will come along and water that seed," he said.

Sims came to Ohio's prisons in a roundabout manner. After obtaining a master's degree in education and special education from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh and spending several years teaching school, his call to the ministry took him to the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, and later back to Duquesne. He planned to become a hospital chaplain.

He put in a year's internship in clinical pastoral education but couldn't find a hospital job. "That opened this door here, to be a chaplain at the Orient (Ohio) Correctional Institution," he said.

After a year as a state-paid chaplain at Orient and 2½ years at the Ohio Correctional Reception Center, Sims on July 31 was named to head the Ohio office of the privately financed Prison Fellowship Ministries. The interdenominational program was founded by Watergate figure Charles W. Colson in 1976 and is now active in 550 federal and state institutions.

"For lack of a better term, one has to be bilingual," Sims said. "I say bilingual in the sense that it is a different culture, it is a different world. It is just like going into an area of missionary work. People go into different countries — South America, the Middle East, Africa — yet there's missionary work right here in America."

Baptist minister Gary Sims stands outside the fence at Ohio Correctional Reception Center in Orient, one of the 21 Ohio prisons Sims visits as state director for Prison Fellowship Ministries.

The work, with its 14-hour days, sob stories that must be taken with a grain of salt and burden of bearing additional bad news to people whose lives are bounded by bars, is hard. Sims said that to the best of his knowledge, no state or federal money is spent on his program, which has a 1990 budget of $120,000 and is financed largely through private donations. He plans to open a Cleveland regional office, then regional offices for each corner of the state and in Columbus.

Sims said he had never been imprisoned, but he is not a stranger to the personal effects of crime. His home has been burglarized, his truck stolen and someone tried to break into his car, he said.

"You definitely feel violated, you feel angry, and I think as a parent you think more of your family's safety than anything," he said.

But he is not interested in seeing the culprits imprisoned simply for the sake of punishment.

"I think that the principle of Prison Fellowship is restorative justice. Not that the person go to jail and the state gets paid, but as a victim I get paid," he said.

"Let that person do some community work ... so that the person can understand, hey, you've offended someone, you've violated someone, and the reason why you're doing this type of work" is to pay a debt to society in a meaningful way.

Sims described his job as attacking the vicious circle of prison, parole and back to prison in a manner consistent with what he believes God planned.

"Whatever he chooses for me to do, I will do it," Sims said. "Gary didn't want to be in prison ministry; I wanted to be a hospital chaplain. But God said: 'No, that's not where I want you now. This is where I've called you to be.'"

RELIGION IN BRIEF

First Baptist has conference

First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave., is hosting Neil T. Anderson in a "Resolving Personal and Spiritual Conflicts" Conference Sunday through Nov. 11.

Anderson is an associate professor of practical theology and chairman of the Practical Theology Department at Talbot School of Theology, Biola University in California. He has his doctorate degree from Pepperdine University and a master of arts degree and a master of divinity degree from Talbot.

He also has an electronics engineering degree from Arizona State University and worked as an aerospace engineer for four years before entering the ministry. He was reared on a farm in Minnesota, served in the U.S. Navy and worked his way through college as a wrestling coach.

He had 15 years of pastoral experience before coming to Talbot. Conference sessions include "Spiritual Identity," Sunday, 8:30 p.m.; "Walking by Faith," Monday, 7 p.m.; "Renewing the Mind," Tuesday, 7 p.m.; "Healing Emotions," Wednesday, 7 p.m.; and "Freedom of Forgiveness," Friday, 7 p.m.

On Nov. 11 the schedule is registration from 8 to 8:30 a.m.; "Position of the Believer," 8:30 a.m.; "Authority of the Believer," 10 a.m.; "Protection of the Believer," 11 a.m.; "Vulnerability of the Believer," 1 p.m.; and "Steps to Freedom in Christ," 3 p.m. Cost for the Nov. 11 seminar is $20 per person or $30 per couple. Refreshments will be available on breaks Nov. 11. Lunch will not be provided.

Divorce seminar planned

"Some Answers to the Divorce Dilemma," a divorce adjustment seminar, will be held at Golf Course Road Church of Christ Nov. 18.

The annual seminar, presented by Tom Vermillion and Ron Ellison, will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m. It will cover such topics as "The Adjustment Journey," "Emotions of Divorce," "God's Healing for the Divorced" and "Children and Divorce."

Vermillion, singles' minister for the church, conducts numerous seminars throughout the United States for singles and has published numerous articles on ministry to the divorced. Ellison, director of Counseling Services for Agape Association in Montgomery, Ala., is an approved supervisor in marriage and family therapy.

The seminar is free to those who are currently in the process of divorce or who have recently divorced. Child care is available by pre-registration through the church office.

During the weeks following each seminar, a weekly support group meeting his held to provide encouragement and aid to those who attend. Attendance at the seminar is not mandatory to be a part of the support group. For more information, call Vermillion, 694-8836.

New building dedicated

Friends of St. Andrews Presbyterian Mission are invited to the open house and dedication service of the new addition to the mission building, 1708 N. Fort Worth St., at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Bobby L. Stallcup will be the speaker for this event. Stallcup was minister of Christ Presbyterian Church, now Grace Church, and a member of the Midland Presbyterian Corporate Ministry Board in 1978 when the St. Andrews Mission building was completed. He is minister of Parkway Presbyterian Church, Metairie, La.

The many outreach programs offered by St. Andrews Presbyterian Mission include a growing latch-key class, story hour, after-school recreation, Bible classes and other community services. This additional space will make it possible to respond to future needs for more programs to serve the community.

Rev. Beights joins staff

The Rev. Cletus Beights has joined the staff of St. Luke's United Methodist Church as associate pastor of Christian Outreach.

Beights assumed his responsibilities at the church Nov. 1. He comes to St. Luke's UMC with experience as associate pastor at Lovers Lane United Methodist Church, Dallas; First United Methodist Church, Wichita Falls; Overton Park United Methodist Church, Fort Worth; Spring Valley United Methodist Church, Dallas; Alamo Heights United Methodist Church, San Antonio; and First United Methodist Church, Fullerton, Calif.

He also served as organizing pastor at St. Paul United Methodist Church, Midland, from 1955 to 1962. Beights graduated from McMurry College, Abilene. His theological training was obtained at Perkins School of Theology, Dallas, and at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn.

He and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of five children.

Churches having seminar

ODESSA — First Church of Christ Scientist, Midland, and First Church of Christ Scientist, Odessa, are sponsoring a free talk entitled "The End of Your Rope Is the Beginning of Freedom" in the Fine Arts Auditorium um of Odessa College at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The presentation by Helen L. Gordon of Tulsa, Okla., a member of the Christian Science Board of Lecturers, will present the thought that there never need be a time when man has reached the end of his rope — when he feels utterly hopeless.

Illustrations of fear, threatened violence, poor health and bad finances and how they are healed will be discussed.

Mrs. Gordon is a lifelong Christian Scientist who has illustrated children's books and stories and does free lance art work. She graduated from the Kansas City Art Institute, attended the Art Students League of New York and was director of Education at Philbrook Art Center in Tulsa, Okla.

Admission is free, and child care will be provided.

Schorr to be ordained

Steven James Schorr will be ordained as a minister Monday at First Presbyterian Church.

Schorr, 29, received a bachelor of arts in psychology from Colorado College and earned a master of divinity from Fuller Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.

A native of Denver, Schorr has served as a short term missionary in Europe and received his clinical pastoral training at Los Angeles County Hospital. In addition, he completed an internship working with a church youth group in Monrovia, Calif.

Schorr and his wife, Kathy, came to Midland's First Presbyterian Church in January. As director of Christian Education, he oversees the church's nursery, Mothers' Day Out and preschool programs, as well as two-year-old through sixth grade Sunday schools. In that capacity, he has implemented a new Biblically-based developmental approach to Christian education.

Schorr also teaches a young adult Sunday School class and is involved in the church's growth and evangelistic efforts.

The ordination ceremony will be held at 7 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church.

Amos to speak at Aglow

Gail Amos will speak to the Midland Outreach Aglow at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the roadway Inn, 3601 W. Wall Ave.

Prior to the meeting, a buffet dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Cost of the meal is $6.50.

Several years ago, Mrs. Amos and her daughter were assaulted and shot by a trucker near Colorado City and left for dead. Her testimony will include this life changing experience.

For more information call Pat Jones, 682-8386, or Jannie Linney, 1-756-3888.

Parents workshop planned

The Family Ministry of Golf Course Road Church of Christ will present a workshop for parents from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday entitled "Building Self-Esteem in Your Child."

The workshop will be conducted by SueJan Herber, licensed professional counselor in private practice in Midland.

"The workshop is offered for all parents and will offer practical methods at helping children build self-worth and face life's challenges," says a release from the church.

Mrs. Herber is a leader of numerous support groups, a teacher at Midland College and a wife and mother. The workshop is free to the public. Child care is provided through pre-registration Monday by calling 694-8836.

Silent Friends to meet

The Silent Friends of the First Baptist Church are having a week-end of spiritual renewal today and Sunday.

Bob Parrish, consultant to the deaf for the General Baptist Convention of Texas, will be here to lead a workshop entitled "Maturing as a Christian," beginning at 1 p.m. today.

Lunch will be served at noon in the Activities Building.

All those interested are invited to attend.

Frazee to speak at forum

Dana Frazee will address the regular forum of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Midland, corner of Neely Avenue and Midkiff Street, at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Ms. Frazee is the executive director of Planned Parenthood of West Texas. In her talk, "Are You Part of the Mushy Middle," she will address the issue of a woman's right to have an abortion.

The public is invited to attend this discussion.

Bazaar set for today

Greater St. Luke AME Church, 604 S. Adams St., is holding a Family Fun Bazaar from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. today.

The bazaar features for sale home-baked cakes, pastries, cookies, candies and breads; home-canned preserves, pickles, jams and jellies; hand-pieced quilts, aprons, arts and crafts; clothing and jewelry; toys; furniture; musical instruments; and odds and ends.

Booths will offer soft drinks, pickles, popcorn and hot dogs. Dunking, fishing and croquet booths will also be available.

The bazaar is set up down the street from the church, across from the Bunche Early Childhood Development Center.

Annual fiesta to be today

Living Way Foursquare Church's annual fiesta will be held in the church's parking, 415 Alta St., today.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Games and food booths, including Mexican and American foods, will be part of the day's activities.

The money raised goes to the church's foreign missions program. The church's assistant pastor, the Rev. Troy Smith, invites the public to attend.

Bazaar to be Nov. 18

Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 3309 Neely, is holding its Christmas Bazaar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 18.

The bazaar will include a variety of Christmas crafts, jewelry, decorations, baked goods, white elephant items and refreshments.

LIFESCOPE

Bogged Down With Committee Meetings? Lifescope Says, "They Are Nothing New!"

While Paul and Barnabas were at Antioch, some men from Judea arrived and began to teach the believers that unless they adhered to the ancient Jewish custom of circumcision, they could not be saved. Paul and Barnabas argued and discussed this with them at length, and finally the believers sent them to Jerusalem to talk to the apostles and elders there about this question.

Peter said, "God chose me from among you long ago to preach the Good News to the Gentiles, so that they also could believe. God, Who knows men's hearts, confirmed the fact that He accepts Gentiles by giving them the Holy Spirit, just as He gave Him to us. . . . He cleansed their lives through faith, just as He did ours. And now are you going to correct God by burdening the Gentiles with a yoke that neither we nor our fathers were able to bear? Don't you believe that all are saved the same way, by the free gift of the Lord Jesus?"

James said, ". . . this fact of Gentile conversion agrees with what the prophets predicted. For instance, listen to this passage from the prophet Amos: 'Afterwards' [says the Lord], 'I will return and renew the broken contract with David, so that Gentiles, too, will find the Lord - all those marked with My name.' . . . And so my judgment is that we should not insist that the Gentiles who turn to God must obey our Jewish laws, except that we should write to them to refrain from eating meat sacrificed to idols, from all fornication, and also from eating unbled meat of strangled animals. For these things have been preached against in Jewish synagogues in every city on every Sabbath for many generations."

Then the apostles and elders and the whole congregation voted to send delegates to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas, to report on this decision.

Baptist convention to elect new president

LUBBOCK — Election of a new president and consideration of a $68.75 million budget will top the agenda at the 104th annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

With "Mission Texas . . . Now!" as their theme and their rallying cry, more than 6,000 people from Southern Baptist churches throughout Texas are expected to gather for the annual meeting of the 2.4 million-member denomination. Mission Texas is a five-year Texas Baptist emphasis on missions, evangelism and discipleship that was launched in 1985.

Elected messengers to the convention will choose new officers, consider resolutions on major moral and social issues, hear reports from 23 educational and human welfare institutions and vote on a proposed $68.75 million Cooperative Program Budget.

Through the Cooperative Program, Texas Baptists help support 7,500 missionaries, six seminaries, the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission and other worldwide causes, as well as providing funds to 23 Texas Baptist hospitals, universities, child care facilities and homes for the aging.

BGCT Executive Director William M. Pinson Jr. will present his annual report at the opening session. President Joel Gregory, pastor of Travis Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth, brought his final president's address Tuesday evening.

B.O. Baker, retired pastor from Irving, will preach the convention sermon on Wednesday morning. E.V. Hill, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Los Angeles, Calif., will be featured in a Wednesday evening evangelistic rally.

Other speakers include: Darrell W. Robinson, director of evangelism, Southern Baptist Home Mission Board; Charles Fuller, pastor of First Baptist church, Roanoke, Va.; Bailey Stone, pastor of First Baptist Church, Odessa; John Bisagno, pastor of First Baptist church, Houston; Herb Pedersen, pastor of First Baptist Church of Oak Cliff, Dallas; Rudy Hernandez, pastor of Metro Park Baptist Church, San Antonio; and Darrell Gilyard, pastor of Victory Baptist Church, Richardson.

Bishops call for condom education revision

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of bishops is calling for the Roman Catholic Church to drop its qualified support for teaching about condoms in public schools, and stick to traditional church teaching in the debate on AIDS.

The church should uphold chastity outside of marriage as the only "sound" way to prevent the sexual transmission of AIDS, said a report released Thursday by the Ad Hoc Committee on the HIV Statement of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

"There is no such thing as safe, or safer, sex. That's an illusion," said Los Angeles Archbishop Roger Mahony, committee chairman.

AIDS activists criticized the bishops' proposed policy reversal on condom education.

"To deny these children this information is abandoning them to death. I don't see anything moral about that," said Jay Blotcher, a spokesman for ACT UP, the AIDS Coalition to Unleash Power. "If the church intends to save its kids, they're going about it entirely the wrong way."

The new statement — "Called to Compassion: A Response to the HIV-AIDS Crisis" — will be presented to the conference at its fall meeting

Nov. 6-9 in Baltimore. The committee drafting the statement was made up of Mahony, Cardinal Joseph L. Bernardin of Chicago, Cardinal Bernard F. Law of Boston, Archbishop William H. Keeler of Baltimore and Bishop Raymond W. Lessard of Savannah, Ga.

Seminary courses offered in Basin area

The Presbytery of Tres Rios and Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary have joined together to bring to West Texas extension seminary courses for those in the Midland/Odessa area and others who are interested, but are not able to regularly attend classes at the seminary in Austin, according to Dr. A.J. Moreau, director of the West Texas Extension of APTS.

The next course, to be held in the spring semester, 1990, will be "American Church History," taught by Dr. R. Ken Peters, adjunct professor at APTS and pastor of the New Braunfels Presbyterian Church, New Braunfels.

Dates for the course, to be held at First Presbyterian Church, Odessa, will be Friday night/Saturday: February 9-10; February 16-17; March 9-10; March 30-31; April 20-21; and May 4-5.

This is a six credit-hour course in which participants explore how Christianity in America developed in relation to a larger and largely secular, historical context. The course seeks to avoid the kind of narrowly institutional focus which is characteristic of so much denominational history.

Topics to be studied among others, are: Spanish Catholicism in a New World environment; how the reformation came to America; reconsidering Presbyterianism and American Politics; and Protestantism's uncertain future.

Anyone interested in quality theological education may participate. The program will be especially attractive to persons interested in beginning work toward a Master of Divinity degree, persons working toward certification as Christian educators, lay persons interested in deepening their knowledge and competence.

Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary is a seminary of the Presbyterian Church (USA), located in Austin. The seminary has been educating people for the Christian ministry since 1902. The seminary is fully accredited by the Association of Theological Schools of the United States and Canada, and by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. It offers the highest quality of graduate theological education.

The West Texas extension program began this summer to meet the need for quality graduate theological education in West Texas. Additional extension courses will be offered each spring and summer.

The subject of other courses under consideration to be offered are: Introduction to the Old Testament; Introduction to the New Testament; Reformed Theology; Ethics and Biblical Interpretation. Special attention will be given to include courses which lead to certification as educators in the PC (USA). The seminary will not offer Greek and Hebrew as an extension course. They must be taken on campus.

A student enrolling for these classes will be classified as a "special student" and may apply up to 100 of the needed 200 credits toward the degree at Austin Seminary. For the second 100 credits, students must be enrolled in the Master of Divinity Program.

The course may also be taken as an audit course. There is still space available, but please call for enrollment information as soon as possible. There will be required reading prior to the first class.

For enrollment information, Moreau may be contacted at P.O. Box 5111, Midland, 79704, or 682-2514.

Bishops celebrating turbulent history in U.S.

"For it is incredible how hateful to non-Catholics in all parts of America is the very name of bishop . . ."

— The Rev. Ferdinand Farmer, American missionary (1773)

By DAVID BRIGGS
Associated Press

Wearing the bishop's mitre in the Roman Catholic Church in the United States has never been easy.

From the day in 1789 when Pope Pius VI established the Diocese of Baltimore and named John Carroll the first U.S. Catholic bishop, the church here has had to defend the American way of life before the Holy See and to calm the fears of non-Catholics that it was controlled by a foreign power.

As its bishops meet in Baltimore this week to celebrate the bicentennial of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States, with a conservative pope seeking greater central authority and the abortion battle fueling critics' claims that the church wants to set moral standards for the nation, the church is still trying to find its place in the American experiment in democracy.

"I think the current leadership of the U.S. Catholic Conference needs to continue to articulate to the Holy See the unique characteristics of the United States," said Bishop James Malone of Youngstown, Ohio, past president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. "The task of Carroll vis-a-vis the Holy See and the task of the current church leadership vis-a-vis the Holy See is basically the same."

But this time around, the American church is no longer the new kid on the block.

The 53 million-member Catholic Church in the United States has grown from a persecuted minority in an isolated outpost to the nation's largest religious group and one of the most influential voices of Catholicism in the world.

If a pope today tried to correct the errors of "Americanism" with a scolding papal encyclical, as Pope Leo XIII did in 1899, "it just won't be paid attention to," said Jay Dolan, a historian at Notre Dame.

The United States' revolutionary experiment in democracy made its mark on the Catholic hierarchy from the start.

Heading pleas from 18th century Jesuit missionaries such as Ferdinand Farmer that appointing a bishop would only antagonize Americans suspicious of the church's independence from Europe's Catholic nations, the pope did not appoint Carroll as the first American bishop until 1789, a century and a half after the church was established in Maryland.

One of the first issues the new bishop had to face was trusteeship. Following the example of Protestant churches around them, many Catholic churches were run by lay trustees, who even took upon themselves the role of selecting priests. Carroll trod lightly on that issue, leaving to his successors the battles to reestablish the hierarchy's right to appoint priests.

As American Catholicism grew with waves of immigrants in the 19th century, groups such as the Know-Nothing party and the American Protestant Association forced the still young and struggling church to defend itself against charges it was aiming for ecclesiastical control of the new nation.

Catholics also experienced more basic persecution. In 1834, rumors that nuns were murdering illegitimate children in convent basements prompted rioters to burn the Ursuline Convent in Charlestown, Mass. Ten years later in Philadelphia, 13 people died in the torchings of two Catholic churches.

The challenges confronting the church already had brought its leaders together in unprecedented fashion as early as 1810. American bishops gathered, again a highly unusual thing to do in the church at that time, in Baltimore in 1852, 1866 and 1884.

At one meeting, the bishops took their first significant stand, deciding to defend the Knights of Labor, the first national union and with a majority Catholic membership, against charges it was communistic. Cardinal James Gibbons of Baltimore appeared before the Holy See in 1887 and averted a papal condemnation of the Knights.

In the late 1800s, Rome became concerned about the influence on other nations of such American ideals as religious liberty and church-state separation, and the "Americanist" controversy erupted.

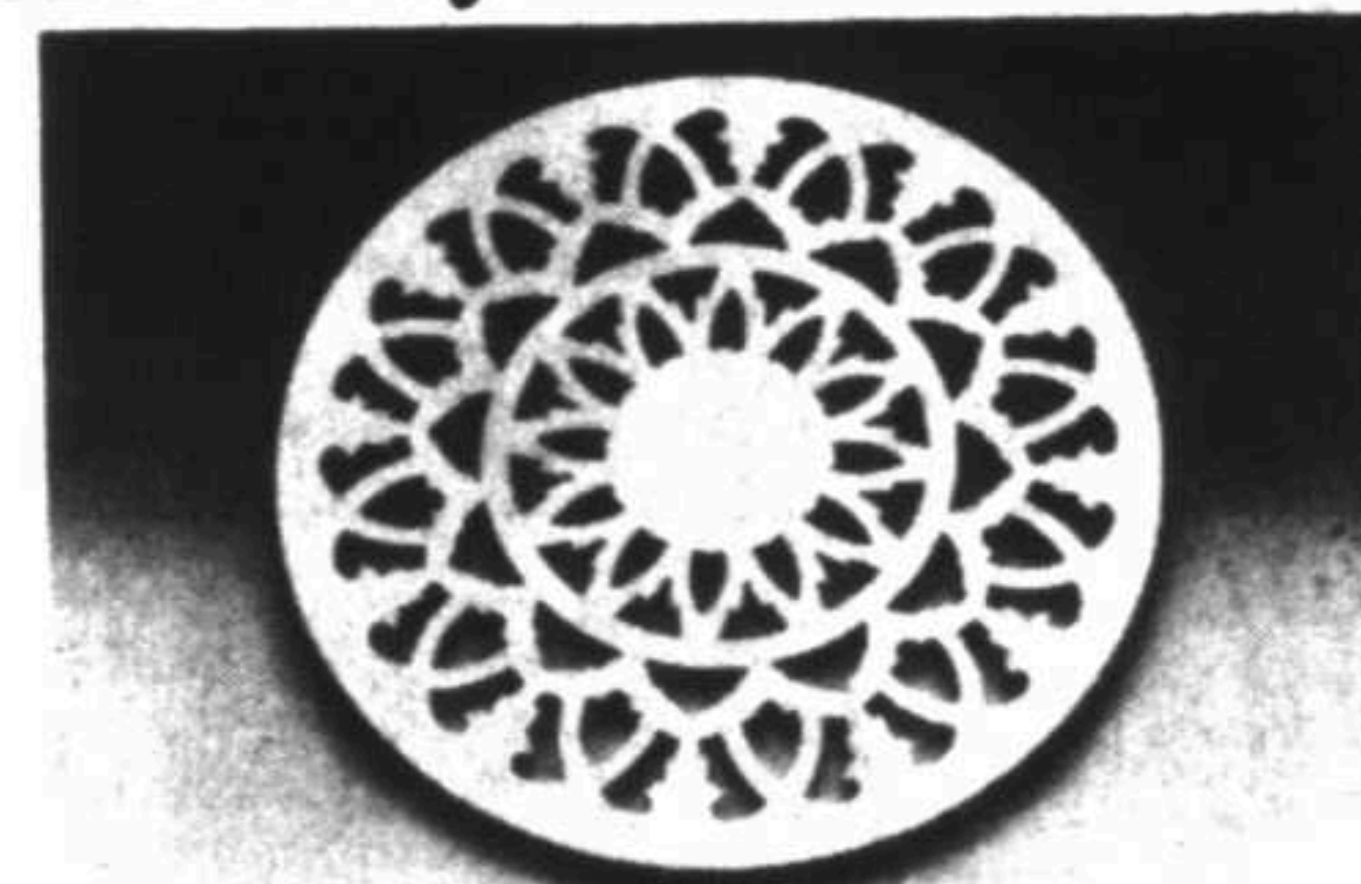

Pope Leo XIII's encyclical decrying the idea that the church should adapt its doctrine to the modern age and that the American church could be different put a stop to doctrinal ferment for decades, but U.S. church leaders continued to organize.

In 1919, the National Catholic Welfare Conference was founded. The Bishops' Program of Social Reconstruction, which opposed child labor and urged minimum wage laws and other social reforms, was published that year. Catholics in other nations didn't begin this sort of activism until the 1950s.

"The church in the United States was very conscious of the way the U.S. was organized politically," said Monsignor Joseph Gremillion, a scholar-in-residence at Notre Dame. "The church leadership in the United States felt the need of comparing notes, consulting with one another taking positions."

Feminist groups launch Brazil's first pro-choice campaign

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Feminist groups in traditionally Roman Catholic Brazil have launched the country's first pro-choice abortion campaign.

Though abortion is illegal, except when the mother's life is endangered due to pregnancy or in cases of rape, independent researchers say 3 million to 5 million clandestine abortions take place a year.

That would make Brazil the world's leader, accounting for 4 percent to 7 percent of the World Health Organization's estimate of roughly 65 million abortions that take place each year.

Ivany Buzzo, director of the Feminist Health Collective, based in Sao Paulo, said Brazilian women have been discussing abortion for more than 10 years but never lobbied for legalization.

"Abortion is an extremely delicate issue in Brazil, particularly with the church's influence," said Ms. Buzzo, a leader of the pro-choice drive.

About 85 percent of Brazil's 145 million people are listed as Roman Catholics.

The pro-choice campaign was officially launched at the 10th National Feminist Meeting in mid-September.

The coalition is planning street rallies, a media campaign and public debates and will lobby Congress in support of a bill introduced in early September by Rep. Jose Genoino of the pro-Marxist Workers Party, calling for the legalization of abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

"Abortion is a human rights and class question," Ms. Buzzo said. "Everyone knows where the clandestine abortion clinics are, including the government, so for upper- and middle-class women it's essentially legal."

The average cost of an illegal abortion runs from $200 to $850. But even $200 is far beyond the means of the majority of women.

"It's pure hypocrisy," Genoino said. "Brazil is the world champion in abortions. But the law forces poor women to risk their life if they want to terminate their pregnancies."

Carmen Barroso, a sociologist with Sao Paulo's Carlos Chagas Research Foundation, estimated that about 10,000 women die each year after using crude methods for self-induced abortions, such as knitting needles.

His research also indicates that about 200,000 women a year are admitted to public hospitals due to medical problems stemming from self-induced abortions.

Feminist groups also complain that in the case of rape, legal requirements are so stringent that few Brazilian women are able to get abortions on those grounds.

Rape victims need reports from the police and the government's Legal Medical Institute confirming a rape occurred. A judge then must authorize the abortion.

"By the time all the requirements are met, the child is already in school," Ms. Buzzo said.

In addition, the Legal Medical Institute won't classify an attack as rape unless the victim has physical injuries and if sperm is found in the vagina. If a woman did not "resist," Brazilian law does not consider rape to have taken place.

Only 20 percent of the women who go to the institute claiming they were raped are able to have the crime classified as such, Ms. Buzzo claimed.

She said few judges will authorize an abortion even if all requirements are met because of personal opposition or fear of negative publicity.

In 1987, Rio de Janeiro became the first city to pass specific legislation implementing the legal-abortion law and two public hospitals were designated to perform abortions on rape victims. The need for a judge's authorization was dropped.

But figures from the Rio de Janeiro State Health Department showed only two women had legal abortions nearly two years after the law went into effect.

"Few women have the courage to admit they were raped," said Dr. Sara Sorrellino, also a member of the Feminist Health Collective. "They don't know about the law, or they are unable to prove the attack took place."

Pro-choice supporters don't believe legalization of abortion will take place any time soon.

But Ms. Buzzo contended, "A democratic society must grant women the right to bear a child or not. It's going to be a struggle, but ultimately we'll win."

President Bush waves during a campaign stop in Richmond for Virginia gubernatorial candidate
for lieutenant governor.

Bush discusses crime, drugs in campaigns for underdogs

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — President Bush campaigned for underdog Republican gubernatorial candidates in Virginia and New Jersey Friday, talking of crime, drugs and other "challenges of tomorrow" but avoiding the lightning-rod issue of abortion as the off-year election campaign entered its final weekend.

Stumping for J. Marshall Coleman in Virginia and James Courter in New Jersey, the president resurrected themes from his 1988 campaign book, including his pledge against raising taxes.

But he steered clear of the abortion controversy.

Democrat L. Douglas Wilder has made support for abortion rights a central theme of his campaign for governor of Virginia, and recent polls say he is leading Coleman by margins varying from four to 15 points.

Rep. James Florio is favored to return the governorship of New Jersey to Democratic control after eight years in Republican hands. Abortion also has been in the forefront of the campaign in that state.

Wilder campaigned Friday in Portsmouth, where he told students at a high school that if he is elected they can expect to be expelled from school if they get caught using drugs.

Wilder, who also spoke at a northern Virginia senior citizens' center Friday, will spend the weekend before the election in the far southwest mountains of the state, where United Mine Workers have been on strike since April against the Pittston Coal Group Inc.

Barbara Bush, meanwhile, was in New York City campaigning for GOP mayoral candidate Rudolph W.

Giuliani in his race against Democrat David N. Dinkins.

The president's wife spoke at a fund-raiser that brought in $360,000 for the underdog Giuliani campaign. She said the former prosecutor "knows that the New York City schools are our first and best hope for the people and the future of this very great city. With Rudy at Gracie Mansion, we have at last a real chance to turn things around."

The two gubernatorial races and the contest to succeed Ed Koch as mayor of New York were getting the most attention this light political year. In addition to other election factors, Wilder would be the nation's first black elected governor and Dinkins New York's first black mayor.

Elsewhere on Tuesday, Houston voters will fill the late Rep. Mickey Leland's seat, and hundreds of contests for mayor also will be decided, including in such major cities as Detroit, Cleveland and Seattle.

Coleman and Courter found themselves on the defensive this summer and fall when their anti-abortion stands — views similar to those forcefully expressed by Bush in two recent vetoes — became central issues.

Bush, speaking to several thousand Coleman supporters at Old Dominion University, asked what were the state's problems, "Virginia's challenges of tomorrow," and answered that "they're the same challenges we face in Washington" — educational reform, environmental protection and a need to maintain a strong military.

Earlier, he spoke at a rally in a park in downtown Richmond as several dozen pro-choice demonstrators heckled from the back of the crowd, some carrying signs that said "Keep Abortion Legal."

Recycling themes from last year's presidential race, Bush praised Coleman, a former state attorney general, for strong stands on crime, drugs, education, the environment and no-new-taxes.

"With Marshall Coleman in the statehouse, taxpayers won't feel like there's a bull's eye painted on their backs," Bush told the rally.

For his part, Coleman told Bush, "I will seek to emulate you by following the highest ethical standards."

Over the past few weeks, Bush has vetoed two spending bills over a provision that would extend eligibility for federally funded abortions for poor women to cases of rape and incest. Current law — which Bush supports — only permits the use of tax dollars to pay for abortion when the woman's life is in danger.

Coleman and Courter both have strong anti-abortion views, which their Democratic opponents have actively sought to turn to their advantage by trumpeting their own pro-choice positions.

Public opinion polls have shown the abortion issue to be a major factor in both states, especially among female voters.

Coleman opposes abortion in all cases except where the life of the mother is endangered, although he has said he would not propose legislation to outlaw abortions in cases of rape or incest.

In New Jersey, Florio has made an issue of Courter's history of anti-abortion votes in the House. Courter has said that, if elected, he will not seek to change state laws that permit abortion.

Nasty fliers fill New Jersey mailboxes in tight campaigns

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Glossy, sophisticated and downright nasty fliers are filling mailboxes around New Jersey in a campaign that some state lawmakers say has never before been so concentrated, glitzy or vicious.

One campaign flier depicts Assemblywoman Marion Crecco as a poodle, decked out in sunglasses seated in the front seat of a Jaguar sports car.

"She promised to fix our insurance problem," says the Democratic attack on Ms. Crecco, noting instead she introduced a bill to provide health insurance for pets.

"I think it's deplorable. This is about the lowest form of campaigning," said Ms. Crecco. "It's very demeaning to all women in government to depict me as this poodle, sitting there in sunglasses. This is gutter campaigning."

Stakes are high in the state Legislature race. If the Democrats, who already control the state Senate, can wrest control of the Assembly, they would be able to redraw the state's congressional districts in line with the 1990 Census to give their party an edge in U.S. House races through the decade.

David Welch, a Washington-based consultant responsible for the Republican mailings, said mail warfare has been used in California since the 1970s. And it is particularly attractive for New Jersey candidates because they usually can't afford the cost of television ads in the expensive New York and Philadelphia broadcast markets.

"If California is the major league, states like New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois and Florida have become the triple A league," he said.

"The pieces are designed to deliver a very purposeful and specific message," he said, and if most are negative it is because the campaigns are nasty.

But Cliff Pintak, the Republican's strategist for Assembly campaigns, said one candidate's view of nasty is another's "comparative campaigning."

"Contrasts are what voters make their decisions on. Just like they want to know the difference between a Dodge and a Chevy, they want to know the difference between the people they vote into office," Pintak said.

The scurrilous Assembly attacks come after the 1988 U.S. Senate race in which challenger Peter Dawkins referred to Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., as a "swampdog."

And this year's race for governor, pitting Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., and Rep. James Courter, R-N.J., is also particularly vicious, with each using television commercials in which their opponent's nose grows a la Pinocchio with every lie allegedly told.

Even the lovable lion from the "Wizard of Oz" is not sacred.

Democrats in northern New Jersey used a sepia photograph of the Oz cast member to attack Assemblyman Pat Roma.

"There's something he doesn't have ... C-c-c-courage!" says the ad, charging Roma promised both sides of the abortion debate that he would side with them.

"It's a desperate attempt by the opposition to cloud the real issues of the campaign," said Bea Kroncke, a Roma aide.

Another Democratic ad features a "DiGaetano cocktail." Inside the flier, the glass is filled with a putrid purple liquid and attacks former Assemblyman Paul DiGaetano for voting against a storage-tank licensing bill that he considered flawed.

"Go ahead, take a sip," the ad invites voters.

About 100 different pieces of campaign mail have been stuffed into mail boxes in about a dozen hotly contested districts. Eleven days before Tuesday's election, Assembly candidates had shattered previous spending records, pouring $5 million on into their races, most going to direct mail.

Steve DeMico, a Democratic strategist in New Jersey, said the mailings hold opponents accountable for their records, and do it with style.

"We're competing with a very sophisticated mix of media out there in the New Jersey market. We've got to produce pieces that catch the eye," DeMico said. "It's high quality, high impact stuff."

In the 10th District along the Atlantic coast, where Republican Assemblyman Robert Singer is fighting a challenge by Democrat Marlene Lynch Ford, both sides have gone for the jugular.

One flier features a tough-looking President Bush and his famous "Read my lips" no taxes pledge.

Open it up to learn: "Bob Singer didn't listen" because he broke his vow to fight tax increases by voting for two hikes.

Singer struck back with a mock cereal box called "Flakes," emblazoned with Ms. Ford's picture. It advertises her as "Extra Sugar Coated" and promises a free American Civil Liberties Union membership card to anyone voting for her.

Ms. Ford's campaign struck back with a flier that shows the children's "Slinko" toy.

"It flips, it flops, it bounces ...," the ad says, attacking Singer for flipping on his tax pledge and talking tough on crime while backing a bill making it easier to buy handguns.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE

NEW YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You will thrive on change and variety. Exciting business ventures attract you in January. A shift in job status will increase your earnings and prestige. Having expressed little interest in settling down, you meet your match at Easter. Take your time; this attraction could be fleeting. Traveling in early August will give you a fascinating new perspective. You know what you want to do with your life. The ability to speak a foreign language will put you in touch with a lively social group by fall.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: rock star Bryan Adams, actress Tatum O'Neal, cowboy Roy Rogers, actor Sam Shepard, singer Paul Simon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A new romantic challenge has you walking on cloud nine. Use your powers of persuasion to get what you want. Encourage younger family members to be more discreet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your popularity is on the rise. Special favors and invitations come your way. Enjoy the attention, but do not neglect your responsibilities. Romance will surprise but delight you.

Be affectionate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Control your temper when differences arise with roommates or family. You are too quick to judge. Your suspicions are unjustified. Spend more time with your children.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Insisting on having your own way could result in a loss of prestige and respect. Partner offers help. Show your appreciation in a meaningful way. Be less critical of others' suggestions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accept new responsibilities with good grace. The extent of your ambition could be revealed to you in an unusual way. Do not expect to get something for nothing. Attending church lightens your spirits.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Sound advice from a loved one will save you from an embarrassing experience. Remember past decisions when confronted with fresh choices. Your morale gets a giant boost, thanks to a telephone call.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You gain a deeper recognition of loved one's needs. Remain loyal to friends or relatives having a difficult time. You may not agree with what they did, but they deserve your support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You should be in a positive mood today. Expect your optimistic attitude to spur your progress all week long. Exercise greater caution when handling money. Devote more time to personal matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Routine matters can be handled in record time, freeing you to relax with your loved ones. A change of scene proves stimulating. A close friend is eager to get in touch with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your finances could be topsy-turvy now. Tackle bookkeeping chores so you know exactly where you stand. Keep in touch with old friends. Romance is on a favorable course but may move slowly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Review your priorities. Impulsive statements or actions could boomerang. The events of the next few days should leave you feeling more optimistic about the future.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A surprise gift could change your whole outlook today. Romance will be especially happy for someone who has been feeling left out. Focus on family matters. Discuss household finances.

Fonda's daughter to do community service for interfering with police

NEW YORK (AP) — Vanessa Vadim, daughter of actress Jane Fonda, was ordered Friday to do three days of community service for interfering with police when they arrested her boyfriend on drug charges.

Vadim, 21, was arrested Oct. 6 on Manhattan's Lower East Side, where her boyfriend, Thomas Feegal, was allegedly buying heroin.

As police seized Feegal, Vadim reportedly got between him and a policeman and said, "If you're going to arrest him, you have to arrest me."

Police charged her with obstructing government administration, disorderly conduct and loitering. The police complaint alleged that she tried to prevent Feegal's arrest by "intimidation, physical force and interference."

Feegal allegedly told police, "We were only buying the drugs for a school project." A hearing on his drug possession charges is scheduled next week.

Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Judy Kluge adjourned the case and told Vadim that if she does the community service as required and stays out of trouble for the next six months, the complaint will be dismissed.

"When she was arrested, we felt she was guilty of nothing and this disposition bears that out," Vadim's lawyer, Robert Kalina, said outside court.

Assistant District Attorney Paul Shechtman said, "She made no physical contact with the police. I'm not saying it was a bad arrest, but it's not the crime of the century."

Shechtman said an agreement will be worked out within the week on whether Vadim will do the community service in New York or in Providence, R.I., where she is a student at Brown University.

Vadim, whose father is French movie director Roger Vadim, and a woman Kalina said was her sister Natalie, left the courthouse without speaking to the crush of news people.

NEW YORK (AP) — George Burns, who has been in show business for 86 of his 93 years, is getting another salute, this one a black-tie tribute Sunday by the Museum of Broadcasting at the Plaza Hotel.

The guest list includes comic Henry Youngman and Joan Benny, daughter of the late funnyman Jack Benny, one of Burns' closest friends.

PARIS (AP) — Mayor Jacques Chirac bestowed one of the city's highest awards, the Grande Médaille de Vermeil, on American jazz composer Miles Davis at the 17th-Century city hall Friday.

Davis

Davis accepted the gold-and-silver medal which Chirac said symbolized "an old and faithful friendship" between the trumpet player and the French capital.

"You have never stopped being one of the rare musicians who can win the lasting favor of the widest public without ever abandoning the least bit of your art," Chirac said. "You have often been followed, but never been a follower."

Davis, 63, was in Paris for the 10th annual Festival of Jazz. He first played before a Parisian audience in 1940.

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Gov. Bob Miller's wife, Sandy, gave birth to a girl Thursday night on the couple's 16th wedding anniversary.

All were described as "doing well" by Larry Henry, spokesman for the governor.

The baby, named Megan, was delivered at Carson-Tahoe Hospital and weighed six pounds, 14 ounces. Miller, 44, and his wife, 40, have two other children, Ross, 13, and Corrine, 12.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A tiff over a master tape of a new Tiffany album has surfaced in federal court, where MCA Records is suing a producer for the pop singer.

A federal complaint alleges that producer George Tobin threatened to sell to another company a master tape of a new Tiffany album containing songs, the copyrights of which are owned by MCA.

Tobin signed an exclusive contract with MCA in April 1986 under which the record company had sole rights to manufacture and distribute Tiffany's records, cassettes and compact disks, according to the lawsuit.

Tobin said the lawsuit was a move by Tiffany and MCA to force a change in his recording agreement with the teen-age star.

"I've got a California court-approved contract and I'm not going" to change the contract, Tobin said. He said he offered the tape to another company because MCA declined to release it and accused the company of breaching their contract.

Tobin said Tiffany had stopped recording with him and that he had about 40 unreleased songs. Tiffany's two albums have sold about 9 million copies.

CONWAY, S.C. (AP) — Former congressman John Jenrette has begun 200 hours of community service as part of his shoplifting sentence, working in the Horry County public defender's office.

"I've done volunteer work all my life, but this is the first time it's gotten so much publicity," Jenrette told reporters as he left the office to have lunch Thursday, his first day of work.

"It's been a fun day," he said. "I've been helping them fix up their library."

Jenrette, who served two years in federal prison for conspiracy and accepting a $50,000 Abscam bribe in 1980, now operates a consulting firm.

He was ordered to complete 200 hours of community service after a Virginia jury convicted him of stealing a pair of shoes and a tie and of altering the prices on two garments in a department store last year. He also served 20 days in jail.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Talk-show host David Letterman is paying off a World Series bet to a local couple with a shoe-shine machine, a case of scotch and a trip to New York for an appearance on his show.

Maurice and Darlene Shank, who had a two-week running telephone conversation with Letterman after he made a random call looking for someone to make a bet, won by going with the Oakland Athletics.

The two will be met at a New York airport by limousine, rushed to an evening performance of the Broadway musical "Les Misérables," and put up at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel near Central Park.

"It isn't often this happens to some old Kansas couple," Mrs. Shank, 69, said. Her husband is 76.

NATION IN BRIEF

Bush signs bill for Treasury funding

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — President Bush signed legislation Friday appropriating funds for the Treasury Department, but told Congress that several sections were unconstitutional.

Bush raised objections over a section of the bill he said limited his ability to require government employees in sensitive positions to sign agreements promising not to divulge classified information.

He also complained about a provision preventing the Office of Management and Budget from modifying agricultural marketing regulations advanced by the Agriculture Department.

Bush said his ability to supervise the executive branch had been hampered in both cases and that he deemed both sections to be unconstitutional.

"Accordingly, I direct that executive branch officials implement the provisions ... in a manner consistent with the Constitution," Bush said.

The president also said that other parts of the legislation that made spending on certain item contingent on later approval by congressional committees appeared to resemble a "legislative veto" already ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. "I will treat them as having no legal force," Bush said.

U.S. allegedly discusses Flight 103 with Syria

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department disclosed Friday it had discussed with Syria a possible terrorist connection to the bombing of a Pan American Flight 103 that killed 270 people and was "not satisfied" with the Syrian response.

Spokesman Richard Boucher also said Syria was urged to "take action" against the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, General Command and other "terrorist groups."

Boucher said the talks with Syria about links to terrorist groups began before the Pan Am disaster. He did not say whether any specific group was suspected of the bombing.

Several terrorist groups operate with Syria's support in the country as well as in areas of neighboring Lebanon under Syrian control, Boucher said.

"The United States is not satisfied with the Syrian response to date," the spokesman said. "We will continue to press our concerns."

A seven-member presidential commission decided on Thursday to look into Pan Am's allegation that 36 hours before the Dec. 21 crash over Lockerbie, Scotland, the Israeli intelligence agency warned U.S. authorities of a possible terrorist attack.

The commission also agreed to investigate Pan Am's contention that West German authorities had reported "suspicious activities" at the Frankfurt airport within 90 minutes of the flight.

Rep. James Traficant, D-Ohio, said Friday an insurance investigator's report convinced him the CIA had been tipped in advance that terrorists might attempt to blow up Pan Am's plane, but remained silent. He asserted the report, which he did not release, concludes that the CIA was "covering up a drug run," protecting the terrorists' Frankfurt-to-New York heroin route in exchange for contacts that might lead to the release of American hostages.

The CIA immediately denied Traficant's charges and labeled the report as "nonsense."

Besides Syria, Boucher said discussions were held with "other countries which may have information about terrorist groups." He did not name the countries.

Coliseum walkway closed

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — On the eve of a sold-out Rolling Stones concert, a much-used pedestrian walkway to the Oakland Coliseum has been closed because of structural damage from the Oct. 17 earthquake.

Fans attending the concerts Saturday and Sunday afternoons will be transported by shuttle buses from the Bay Area Rapid Transit System's Coliseum station to the Coliseum.

Shuttle buses also will take fans to the Golden State Warriors' first regular-season home basketball game Saturday night, said Sy Moubert, BART spokesman.

Following the quake, engineers had said the walkway was damaged and couldn't bear crowds. Still, the walkway stayed open for an Oct. 25 Warriors pre-season game. But barriers had been placed to limit the number of users.

Coliseum officials Thursday ordered the walkway closed because of an anticipated 15,000 BART riders for each concert this weekend.

"We're just more concerned because of the larger numbers of people using the facility," said Coliseum President George Vukasin. He said he believes the walkway can be fixed in a matter of weeks.

California, Nevada shaken

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A mild earthquake centered in rural Alpine County, Calif., rattled western Nevada and parts of the Sierra late this morning.

The quake at 11:09 PST registered 4.3 on the Richter scale, according to Pat Jorgenson, spokeswoman for the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, Calif.

She said the initial tremor was followed three minutes later by a 3.2 aftershock.

She said the quake was felt from Reno south to Alpine County. People in Carson City and around Lake Tahoe said they experienced a rolling sensation for about two or three seconds.

There were no reports of injuries or damage.

Ms. Jorgenson said the quake was centered about 30 miles south of Carson City and 15 miles southeast of the small Sierra town of Markleeville, Calif.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage and 5, considerable damage.

Speeders pay in pennies

BELLEVIEW, Ill. (AP) — Three motorists given speeding tickets sent the St. Clair Circuit Clerk thousands of pennies, and the clerk, whose thoughts were anything but nice, says he won't accept the coins.

Workers opened three heavy boxes Thursday to find thousands of loose pennies, said Circuit Clerk C. Barney Metz. Each box contained $50 in pennies and the citations.

"It was very disgusting to me. We are merely processing the paperwork. We had nothing to do with the ticket," Metz said Friday. "I will not accept it as payment. They can come and pack them up or they can send me the money."

Dixon B. Callahan, 22, and twin brothers Terry M. Grant, 23, and Gary Grant, all of Chatsworth, Ga., who were driving separate vehicles, were given the tickets Oct. 20 by an officer using radar, officials said.

The three, who were returning from a hunting trip in Colorado, have until Dec. 12 to make payment or face losing their driver's licenses, Metz said.

Secret cargo divulged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secret military cargo that will be launched from the space shuttle Discovery later this month is a signal intelligence-gathering satellite weighing nearly 6,000 pounds, an industry magazine says.

The Air Force, adhering to custom, refused Friday to comment on the report, which will appear in the Nov. 6 issue of Aviation Week and Space Technology.

"This satellite is designed to ferret out voice, telemetry and other broadcast signals from Soviet military installations," the magazine says. The spacecraft will be operated by the National Security Agency.

Discovery's crew of five will be commanded on the scheduled four-day mission by Air Force Col. Frederick D. Gregory. The launch will be on Nov. 20.

Judge rules bombing trial may proceed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court said Friday the government may proceed with its prosecution of three people implicated in the bombing of the U.S. Capitol and other government buildings.

The court reversed an April 11 decision by U.S. District Court Judge Harold Greene, who said the same evidence is being used in successive trials on different charges against Susan Rosenberg, Timothy Blunk and Alan Berkman. Such a procedure violates the double jeopardy clause of the Fifth Amendment, said Greene, but the appeals court disagreed.

"We find no support for the use of a 'same actual evidence' test in assessing whether successive prosecutions violate the double jeopardy clause," said appeals court judge Abner Mikva.

Rosenberg, Blunk and Berkman were convicted in separate trials in Pennsylvania and New Jersey of conspiracy to possess unregistered firearms, explosives and false identification. They were then indicted in Washington, D.C., for the actual bombings and were listed as undicted co-conspirators in an alleged scheme involving four other people to carry out the bombings.

The appeals court did say that the government cannot rely solely on a legal theory of vicarious liability, in which a jury is asked to infer guilt from the defendants' involvement in a conspiracy.

That could prove troublesome for prosecutors, since as the appeals court noted, "the government apparently has little evidence linking the three" to the bombings and had planned to use the theory of vicarious liability.

"The government is not precluded from prosecuting ... for the Washington bombings on a theory of liability of aiding and abetting or on a theory of direct participation in the bombing," said Mikva. "Nor is it precluded from using any evidence introduced at earlier trials" and it may rely in part on the conspiracy theory.

Seven people are accused of bombing the U.S. Capitol, the National War College Building at Fort McNair, the Computer Center at the Washington Navy Yard and the Officer's Club at the Navy Yard in 1983 and 1984.

Help your reader visualize the item you have for sale.

You will sell your merchandise much more quickly if you include a very specific and accurate description of the item in the ad copy. You should include all of the essential details of an effective one-column ad—age, condition, size, brand name and price.

Let your reader know when and where to contact you.

There is nothing more frustrating then trying to make a call only to receive no answer. Don't make it difficult for potential buyers to contact you! Be sure to include in your ad the hours you will be home to answer inquiries about the items you have to sell. Remember, a potential customer probably will not call twice!

Don't use abbreviations. Nvr. frust. a pot. cust. w. abb.

You want to make the process of reading your ad easy for your potential customer. Most readers will not take the time to try to decipher confusing ad copy. Limit your use of abbreviations to the following ten: approx. (approximately), ave. (avenue), blvd. (boulevard), bldg. (building), condo (condominium), rec. room (recreation room), refrig. (refrigerator), rd. (road), sq. ft. (square foot), st. (street).

Choose a consistent ad schedule. To insure great results, plan to run your ad for several days. If you run the ad only once, you run the risk of missing the buyer most in need of what you have to offer. If you run the ad for several days, you will draw the maximum response. Remember, you can always cancel the ad as soon as you find a buyer!

BUICK LESABRE. THE MOST TROUBLE-FREE CAR BUILT IN AMERICA.

Until now, this kind of quality was known to only an elite group, Le Sabre owners Great Selection of New 1990 fully loaded LeSabres in stock now!

$16,395*

(List Price $18,949, Stock #11049)
* Price includes discount & rebates

The latest J.D. Power and Associates Initial Quality Survey* states something Buick LeSabre owners can be proud to know and something all new-car buyers should know. The fact that Buick LeSabre is the most trouble free full-size car sold in America. Import or domestic.

The Initial Quality Survey, which measures things gone wrong with new vehicles during the first 90 days of ownership, marks an improvement in Buick quality for the third year in a row. And today, the Buick nameplate ranks as the most trouble free American brand. Higher than Lincoln. Higher than other prestige cars costing thousands more.

But way of thinking, it all means that if you're looking for quality, you should just look down the Great American Road for the Buick LeSabre. The new symbol for quality. The sign of your Buick dealer.

*J.D. Power & Associates, 1989 Initial Quality Survey covering November and December, 1988. Based upon owner-reported problems. Terms & conditions apply.
