Families evacuated

TRINIDAD, Texas (AP) — About 700 people were forced from their homes Friday when a natural gas well in northern Henderson County blew out and started spewing poison gas, a Henderson County Sheriff's deputy said.

The well, located about two and one-half miles southeast of Trinidad, erupted at 11:30 a.m. Friday as workers were repairing a valve, Deputy Danny Wilbanks said.

Deputies evacuated about 700 people from their homes after the poisonous methane gas began spreading. Residents began returning to their homes about 4 p.m. Friday.

Cities attacked

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iranian jets raided six Iraqi cities Friday and Iraq claimed it shot down 11 Iranian aircraft, including helicopters. Iran said its soldiers "punctured" the month-long siege of the key Iranian oil refining city of Abadan.

Eighty-five miles northwest of Abadan, Iranian groundfire drove off two Soviet-made Iraqi jetfighters near Susangerd, Tehran Radio said.

Chloroform possible

ATLANTA (AP) — Investigators are looking into the possibility that chloroform or ether may have been used on two of the 11 children slain in or near Atlanta over the past 16 months, an assistant medical examiner said Friday.

Pope issues warning

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, deploring "excessive" energy consumption by one part of the world, warned on Friday that attempts to manipulate energy resources may increase the risk of nuclear war. The pontiff called energy "a universal possession" and said the world "must recognize that energy, whatever its form or origin, must be shared for the good of man."

Jury declares Cornett guilty

But of assault — not attempted murder

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The jury considering the guilt or innocence of Richard Reni Cornett, who was being tried this week for the attempted murder of his wife last June 30, found him guilty of aggravated assault — not attempted murder — about 1 a.m. today.

The offense carries a two-to-10-year punishment range. An attempted murder conviction could range up to 99 years or life imprisonment.

"It's a victory for me," said the defense attorney, Tom Hirsch.

Cornett's defense attorney, Tom Hirsch of Odessa, held in closing arguments Friday afternoon that the "tussle" that set off the shooting was touched off by Cornett's sister-in-law, 31-year-old Norma Jean Loring, who was wielding a butcher knife, and his estranged wife, Mildred Jo "Blondie" Cornett, who was holding a .38-caliber pistol, when Cornett entered his wife's house to pick up some of his clothes.

A "tussle" ensued, Cornett claimed that his sister-in-law and wife were accidentally shot in the fight. And he claimed he shot his wife's sister a second time after she was charging at him with a butcher knife.

Cornett had testified that his attempts for a reconciliation with his wife were thwarted by her.

He maintained that he was invited into the house, which a divorce court had awarded to his wife of three years. But his wife said he burst into the house, was carrying a pistol, shot her sister twice and then fired at her once. Mrs. Cornett was struck in the arm, chest and shoulder.

"Both the wife and Norma Jean Loring have a history of violence," Hirsch said.

"Would the idea cross Blondie's mind that she was going to set Richard up?" he asked the jurors, who had heard some 20 prosecution witnesses and six or seven defense witnesses and had examined one defense exhibit and 95 state exhibits, including pistols, bullet fragments, the butcher knife, bloodied clothing, color photographs, X-rays and statements.

Hirsch recounted Mrs. Cornett's alleged threats to shoot her husband a year ago after he refused to buy her a new car. The lawyer also accused her of stealing $700 from her father-in-law, Norris Cornett.

"We know that money means a lot to her," he said of the woman, whom he repeatedly called "Blondie."

"She is evidently adverse to earning an honest living," Hirsch accusingly said. But he said his client, Cornett, "works hard. He tried to make an honest living." He was fighting to save his marriage "and to take care of their three children. Two are by previous marriages.

The defense attorney said Cornett, 26, "is not a vindictive person. He is not a violent person."

The chief prosecutor disagreed. "The door was kicked in when he (Cornett) went in and shot these people," District Attorney Vern Martin charged.

Martin noted the superficial cuts on Cornett's left arm. Cornett held that those cuts were inflicted by Ms. Loring during the scuffle. Martin disagreed.

"If you're going to stab somebody, you don't use your off hand; you use the hand you favor," he said.

Paramedic David Smith testified that the knife was in Ms. Loring's left hand when he tried to save her life, as she lay dying on the den floor in the Cornett house. She apparently was right-handed.

The implication was that Cornett

Man gets death in car bombing of newsman

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — John Harvey Adamson was sentenced Friday to die in the gas chamber for the 1976 car-bombing death of investigative reporter Don Bolles, despite his plea for life.

Pima County Superior Court Judge Ben C. Birdsall said he had found no circumstances that would call for leniency.

Adamson showed no visible emotion when Birdsall announced his decision. He walked back to the defense table, put down a court document he had been holding, and walked from the courtroom escorted by his attorneys and sheriff's deputies.

Birdsall ruled there were two circumstances calling for the death penalty — that Adamson did it for money and that Bolles was killed "in a cruel, heinous and depraved manner."

Before the sentence, Birdsall told Adamson there is a provision for automatic appeal of a death sentence.

Before the sentence was pronounced, Adamson had told Birdsall he believed a voided plea agreement he made for a 20-year sentence in the case still should be in effect.

The sentencing came after Birdsall heard some three hours of testimony and evidence in a pre-sentencing hearing, in which the defense attorneys had said a life sentence should be imposed.

Adamson, 36, a former race-dog breeder from Phoenix, was convicted last month of first-degree murder in Bolles' death in 1976.

The prosecution claimed Adamson was hired for $10,000 to kill Bolles, and that he built a dynamite bomb and placed it under the reporter's car in a Phoenix parking lot.

Authorities speculated that criminal figures had Bolles killed because he wrote stories about organized crime, political corruption, Arizona land fraud and the dog-racing industry in the state.

Under state law, the death penalty cannot be imposed unless the state proves the killing involved several aggravating circumstances.

Prosecutor William J. Schafer III outlined evidence that he said proved the existence of three aggravating circumstances. They were that Adamson had killed for money, that the killing was done in a way that could endanger others and that it was done in a "heinous, cruel or depraved manner."

Defense lawyer William H. Feldhacker argued the state failed to prove aggravating circumstances. And defense attorney Gregory H. Martin asked that Adamson be given a life sentence so he could help prosecute others in the killing.

Adamson read a statement saying he was willing to cooperate in the prosecution of others, but not if the state Attorney General's Office handles the case.

"... Should another agency wish to prosecute in the Don Bolles case where the state has let the ball lie, I will cooperate where asked and where given proper immunity," he said.

Adamson said he regretted his actions in connection with Bolles' death, including his testimony against former friends, saying: "There's no immunity for the most feeble punishment of all — regret."

Adamson had agreed to plead guilty to second-degree murder and take a 20-year prison term in exchange for his testimony against others. He testified at the trial of two other men, and both were convicted of killing Bolles.

Christmas parade canceled

Midlanders won't be able to complain that it snowed on their Christmas parade this year. There's not going to be a parade.

According to a spokesman with the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the organization that sponsors the annual event, lack of interest from city groups and difficulty in scheduling forced cancellation of the event. It had been scheduled for Nov. 22.

The November date was earlier than in the past, said the spokesman. But school bands were involved in contests the first two Saturdays in December.

The last Saturday in November fell during Thanksgiving weekend and residents who might participate had claimed they would be out of town then. And the spokesman said the chamber was reluctant to schedule the parade for Dec. 20, the last weekend before Christmas.

Midlanders this year will have to be content with watching Thanksgiving Day parades in the warmth of their homes.

Study group calls for spending, community effort

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

"Massive" doses of money and community effort infused into the south and east sectors of Midland should result in revitalized housing and commercial interests, all to be effected through a non-profit industrial corporation.

This capsule summary of a week-long study by nine members of the Urban Land Institute was presented during a 2 1/2-hour Friday morning forum in the Midland Hilton ballroom. Showing up to hear results of the study and how to reverse the economic decline in south and east Midland were about 75 community leaders and citizens.

The panel also addressed the issue of relocating Midland Air Park with the final conclusion that a move would benefit the city in numerous ways.

The Urban Land Institute is a non-profit, independent research organization dedicated to maximum use of land resources. The Midland study marked the 113th panel assignment since the program was started in 1947.

Chairing the forum was William

Caldwell of Troy, Mich., who summarized the work ahead for the next years with a "shopping list." Assisting him was Robert O'Donnell of Denver, Colo.

FIRST, THE CITY needs to have a complete housing program, said Caldwell, that would include newly-built homes, housing rehabilitation and razing vacated, dilapidated houses.

The panel stressed several times throughout the presentation the need for street paving, landscaping, lighting and other utilities in the study areas.

Also on the shopping list were: —Encouraging commercial development through low interest loans or grants;

—Discouraging industrial development;

—Pushing for higher employment ratios by implementing new day care centers and better transportation for persons in south and east Midland;

—Constructing a parkway along Fairgrounds Road;

—Beginning the revitalization project with the current city operations and garage area at South Street;

—Forming a corporation of business and financial experts to provide seed money and act as a catalyst for new development.

"It will require massive community commitment, much capital, strong political commitment and a pragmatic approach but with bold strokes up front," Caldwell outlined for the Midlanders.

Discussing the housing aspect in detail were Robert Findlay of Arlington and Fred Bryant of Charlotte, N.C.

ALTHOUGH THE STUDY area is spread over 2,000 acres, there are four distinct neighborhoods, said Findlay. These were described as Austin, Crockett, Washington and South Park, each revolving around the school in that area.

In the northeast sector, said Findlay, the major need centered on new construction and housing rehabilitation. In the southeast side, however, getting rid of vacant substandard houses took the spotlight, along with those needs mentioned for the northern part.

The panel recommended new homes with a basic plan of 800 to 1,000 square feet, with a basic-plus house of 1,200 to 1,600 square feet. These should cost $30,000 to $60,000, said Findlay.

To resolve the problems, Bryant suggested residents band together in neighborhoods to accomplish some of the work. The financial community should be charged with the task of bringing in the funds and carrying out a housing program.

TO ACCOMPLISH THE goals of rehabilitation and new housing construction he suggested mortgage loans from a pool of capital put together by financial institutions, a mortgage loan guarantee program, loans from a philanthropic fund, a grant program for housing for the elderly and handicapped, and maximum participation in federal programs for housing rehabilitation and rental subsidy, such as the Community Development Block Grant money.

The first step, he said, would be for the city and county to apply for CDBG funds.

"The housing problem is so massive as to necessitate the strongest possible approach," said Bryant, and that means a joint effort of public and private money and work.

Construction of houses will create more jobs for people in that area and the visual improvements will have an uplifting effect on the spirits of those residents, he added.

The first major housing goal should be to construct 75 houses for working families, build 200 units for elderly and handicapped persons and rehabilitate 100 houses, Bryant related.

The panel focused on two areas for commercial development — along Lamesa Road and Lee Street. More commercial development should occur along Lamesa Road, but the panel revealed an alternate idea for Lee Street.

Commercial development plays an important role in the growth or decline of a community, explained Herbert Quiroga of San Antonio.

LAMESA ROAD SERVES as a main street through east Midland and Quiroga pointed out a "lack of interest from financial institutions to develop this area." He talked with one east-side businessman who said he tried to get a loan for a restaurant, but a local bank told him no money was going into that part of Midland.

Many businesses along Lamesa Road are small, provide little or no parking and have no room for expansion. Quiroga focused on a former shopping center at Nobles and Lamesa which is being used as a nightclub and printing shop.

"This is not the highest and best use," he said. "The building should be rehabilitated to provide a vital need to the area and stimulate new commercial viability. Revitalization would start commercial development along Lamesa Road."

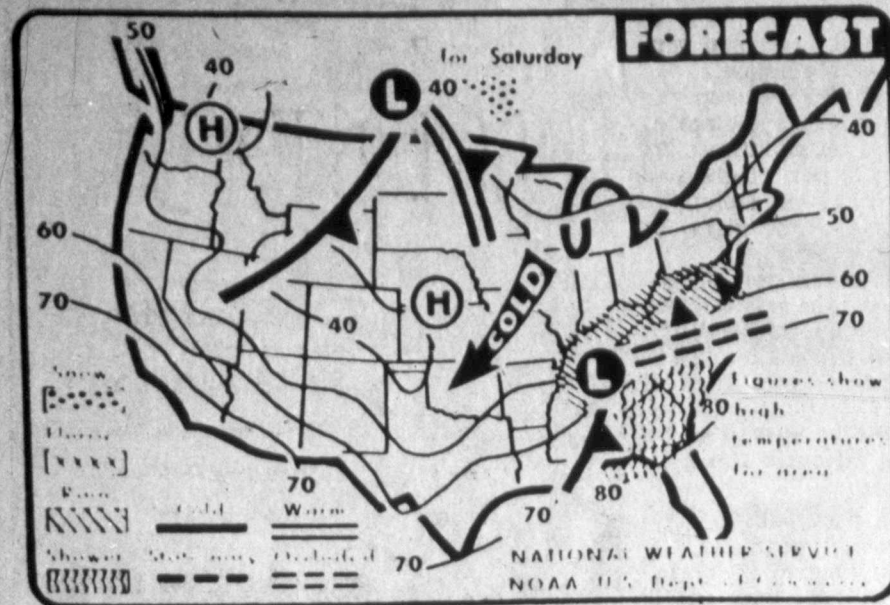

He predicted the intersection of Wadley Avenue and Lamesa Road will become a prime commercial site. Also needed in the east side are child care centers and a medical doctor.

Lee Street, the major entry into south Midland, could not be revitalized in the same manner as Lamesa, said Quiroga. With its bars, cafes and garage, this street has brought "a loss of pride in that community."

Instead, he suggested a new entrance to south Midland be opened at Carver and Highway 80 with the focus here to be on residential development and some small commercial ventures at that intersection. And the entrance at Fairgrounds Road could be improved with landscaping.

Jury continues to ponder case against Cornett

(Continued from Page 1A) had self-inflicted the wounds after the supposed scuffle in an effort to "frame" his sister-in-law.

Testimony of Cornett's 5-year-old

Clear skies due here by Sunday

Overcast skies and a chilly mist covered the Permian Basin Friday, but an end may be in sight.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport said the weather should clear Sunday. The forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies today, with decreasing cloudiness tonight and becoming clear Sunday.

The high today and Sunday should be in the lower 50s, with the low tonight to be a little colder with temperatures falling to the lower 30s. Winds should be easterly at 10 to 15 mph today.

Friday's high, recorded at midnight, was 52 degrees. The afternoon high was only 44 degrees. The record high for Friday is 85 degrees set in 1933. Friday's low was 44 degrees. The record low for today is 13 degrees set only four years ago in 1976.

Theft suspect free on bond

Peace Justice Robert Pine set bond Friday at $2,500 for Charles David Hancock, 18, Route 2, Space No. 15, on charges of theft by exercising control.

Hancock was arrested in connection with possession of stolen property from a burglary of a warehouse storage room. The property was valued at about $400.

Peace Justice John Biggs set bond Friday at $4,000 for Rodney Wayne Watson. Watson was charged with theft over $200 but less than $10,000 in connection with $363 in cash stolen from St. Paul's CME Church, 409 S. Lee St. According to police reports, the church had raffled off a television, and Thursday the money was stolen. The theft was reported to police Friday.

Police Roundup

The Midland Fire Department was called to a car fire and a grass fire Wednesday afternoon, both on Highway 80.

The car fire occurred at 2:04 p.m. at 801 E. Highway 80. The grass fire, which turned out to be a false alarm, was reported as seven miles west of Midland on Highway 80. There was also one medical run by an ambulance.

Mafia five convicted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five reputed Mafia figures were found guilty Friday of racketeering conspiracy and some were convicted on other charges, but all five were acquitted in the gangland murder of informer Frank "Bomp" Bompensiero.

The verdicts came after eight days of deliberations. Jury foreman William Wasil had reported earlier in the day that the jurors were close to returning verdicts, and said the confusion over what constitutes conspiracy was "our only stumbling block."

Two of the men were found guilty of extorting money from a pornography operation, which was set up by the FBI as a ruse to lure the mob into exposing its alleged plan to shake down pornographers throughout the Los Angeles area.

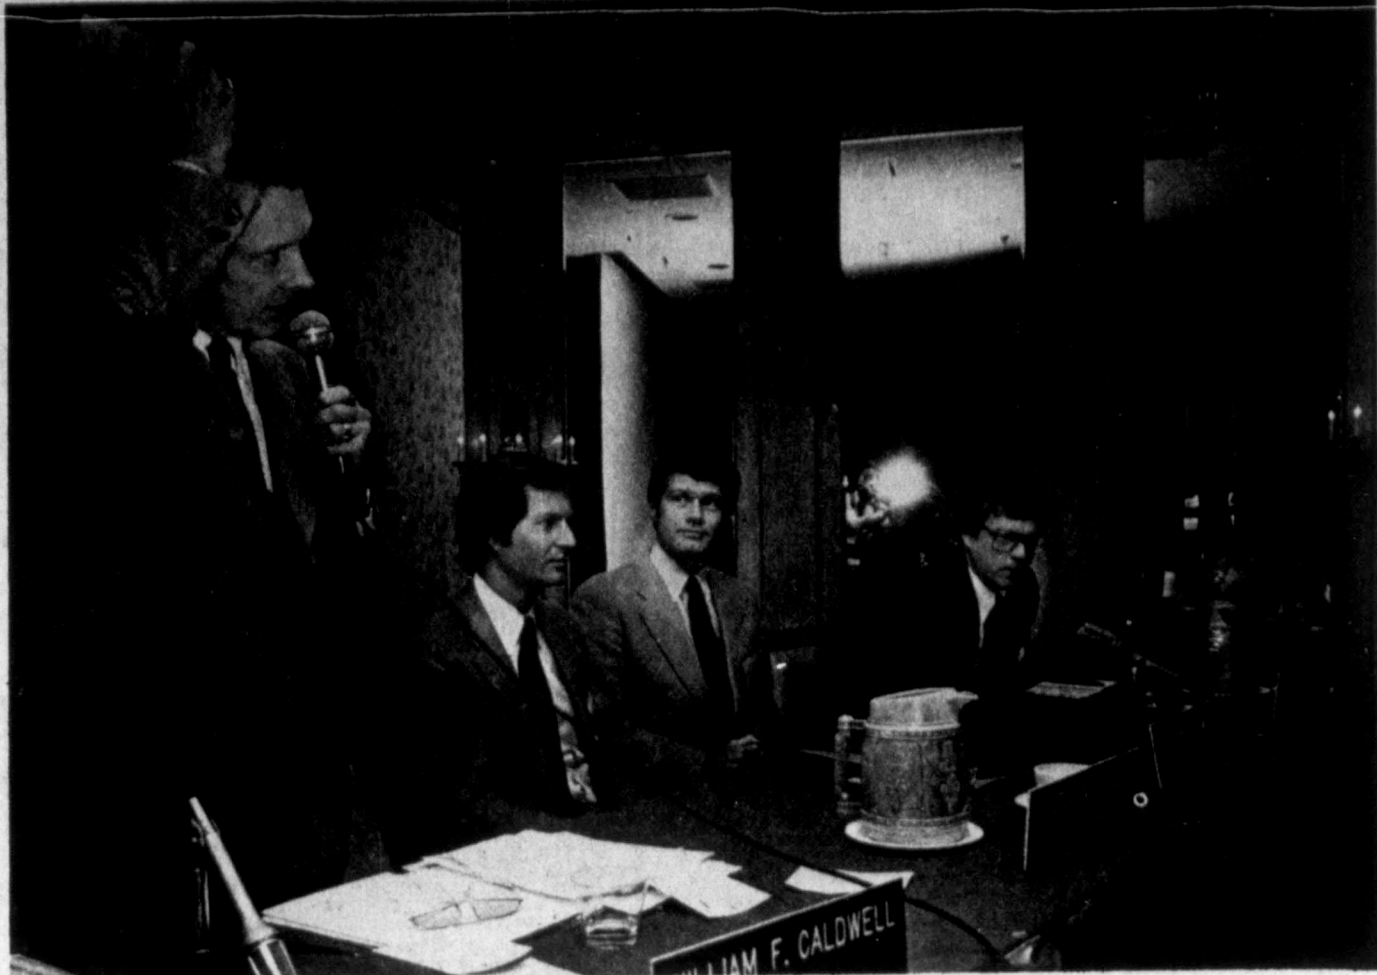

With the conviction on the conspiracy counts, the jury apparently determined that all five men had participated in the extortion plan even if all of them were not at the shakedown scenes.

The verdicts indicated that the jurors believed certain portions of the testimony of the government's star witness, Aladena "Jimmy the Weasel" Fratianno, but disbelieved him on the crucial allegation that the defendants had conspired to murder Bompensiero in San Diego when they found out he had turned informer for the FBI.

Fratianno is a confessed Mafia executioner who made a deal to testify and avoid the death penalty. He was the key to the government's case and the most valuable Mafia insider since Joseph Valachi spilled his story to the McClellan Rackets Committee in 1963.

The five defendants were Dominic Philip Brooklier, 66; Samuel Orlando Sciortino, 62; Louis Tom Dragna, 59; Michael Rizzitello, 52, and Jack LoCicero, 68.

The jurors also implicitly decided that the men were members of the Los Angeles family of La Cosa Nostra — the first time that the government has ever made such an allegation in a federal indictment.

including Mayor Thane Akins, far right — ponder the suggestion of applying for even more federal funds. (Staff Photos by Bruce Partain)

Panel makes its recommendations

To improve Front Street, an off-shoot of Highway 80, Quigro suggested landscaping and sign control.

TO ACCOMPLISH these goals, John Leak of Atlanta, Ga., pushed for public-private partnerships. Formation of a local redevelopment organization would help small and minority businessmen with loans and grants and assist them in getting money under various federal government programs, he said.

First, comprehensive planning is needed to decide what areas would be best for commercial revitalization and then use the money to make the strongest impact, said Leak. If this goal is accomplished, he predicted citizens will see more tax revenues, more bank deposits and more employment out of south and east Midland.

The revitalization of Lee Street would entail relocation or elimination of undesirable establishments currently there, said Leak. Trying to turn Lee Street into a major commercial area will be a waste of money, he added. The only businesses recommended are those providing local neighborhood services.

Leak suggested a task force be formed to concentrate on south Midland and Lee street and to purchase the King Building and Workmen's Club for use as a community center or by agencies.

In addition to calling for an updating of all store fronts and removal of vacant buildings, Leak recommended putting in a police precinct on Lee Street with two shifts of officers seven days a week to resolve that community's fears of no police protection.

TWO SITES ON the far east side were studied for industrial development by Steven Lee of San Antonio and Leland Smith of Seattle, Wash. But the final conclusion was that not enough industries could be attracted to make it a viable industrial area.

Instead of allowing Fairgrounds Road to turn into a hodge-podge of commercial, residential and industrial spots, the panel recommended housing subdivisions with landscaping along the road. Echoing earlier suggestions, Smith said child care centers and better public transportation would allow more women to work, increasing the employment base there.

Thomas Hodges of Little Rock, Ark., outlined the pros and cons of relocating Midland Air Park, coming to the conclusion the city would benefit if the facility is moved.

He noted that urban development is encroaching the boundaries of Air Park and noise level in the future could become detrimental.

Hodges suggested the airport be placed near Loop 250 and Fairgrounds Road, allowing close proximity to downtown and offices along Wadley Avenue. Selling the land could be a "substantial financial asset to the city," he concluded.

TO EFFECT THIS MOVE in the most advantageous manner, Hodges suggested a non-profit development corporation be created to purchase Air Park. Money left over after developing the land would be channeled into the south and east sides.

It is this corporation, arbitrarily named the Midland East Development Corporation, that would be in charge of pulling together all projects within the study area. In short, it would be the catalyst to get the ball rolling.

The panel's game plan called for the corporation's board of directors to consist of seven people from the Objectives for Midland task force and community. Capital to purchase Air Park would be obtained in a similar manner as used by the Industrial Foundation, said Caldwell.

"The corporation would be used as a tool for investments to stimulate private investments, provide low-interest high-risk loans," Caldwell continued. "It would implement rehabilitation and clearance of lots. It would provide leadership and achieve public action."

Targeted as the first project was to move the city's dump and garage facilities from its location at South and Carver. The panel noted it is in a residential area close to downtown and should be moved "outside the study area."

THE REVITALIZATION, which would include housing construction, would start with Hidalgo Park and De Zavala Elementary School. Once the residents see what can be accomplished, said Robert O'Donnell, it would cause a ripple effect and spread to the far north and south sides.

In concluding the panel's presentation, Caldwell said these programs suggested for implementation in the next 10 years "will require massive community commitment. But you have an excellent track record and I urge you to shoot high in the decade ahead."

Before starting the forum, Caldwell had warned the listeners that "success will require years of massive financial support" — even more massive than what an affluent community like Midland is accustomed to giving.

Improving south and east Midland was the priority goal of the Objective for Midland in the 80s program. Under the auspices of that program's advisory committee, Mike Williams gathered data on housing and businesses in that area and compiled it in a notebook for the panel's use. The nine members of the ULI panel received no money for their work.

Tropical storm stalled in Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tropical Storm Jeanne — confronted by cold, dry air flowing down from Canada and losing power by the hour — remained stalled Friday in the Gulf of Mexico.

Forecasters said Jeanne was still classified as a tropical storm but had shrunk in size, with winds at a maximum of 45 mph.

"We still look for some kind of a northward drift but we expect it to be absorbed into the (cold) front by sometime tomorrow morning," said Daryl Covey, a forecaster at the National Weather Service.

Jeanne, which had been predicted to veer toward the Louisiana coast, was stalled 140 miles east of Brownsville, Texas, near latitude 25.8 north and longitude 95.2 south.

Mother denied damages in death of son

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

LuAnn Bearden, whose 18-year-old son was accidentally struck and killed by a Midland police patrol car 2½ years ago, was denied damages Friday by a 142nd State District Court jury, which ruled that the son — and not the patrolman driving the car — was negligent.

The seven-woman, five-man jury determined that the son, Joe Bearden, who was lying, presumably unconscious, on an unimproved roadway in far north Midland, failed to keep a proper outlook and was negligent.

Preacher apologizes for remark

DEL CITY, Okla. (AP) — The president of the Southern Baptist Convention, while insisting he was only "teasing," apologized Friday to anyone offended by his remark in a "Jews got funny-looking noses."

"I sincerely apologize to anyone who was offended by my teasing," said Dr. Bailey Smith, the Oklahoma preacher who leads the world's largest Protestant denomination.

Smith said the remark about noses, made Sept. 14 at the end of a sermon on God's special people and special places to his suburban Oklahoma City congregation was "an aside."

Two weeks before the remark, Smith had sparked controversy when he told an audience of 15,000 at a National Affairs Briefing in Dallas that "God almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew," because Jews do not accept Jesus as the Messiah.

Theodore Freedman, director of the program division of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, in New York, said, "His comment... in my judgment, reflects at the very least stupidity and at the most, a manifestation of anti-semitism."

gent in lying in the roadway on the early morning hours of June 29, 1978.

The trial, presided over by Judge Perry D. Pickett, lasted 1½ days. And the jury, following 1½ days of testimony, ruled that the patrolman, Terry Garner, 31, who was driving the patrol unit, was not negligent. However, the jury said said the city of Midland was aware that there was "a body in the roadway" but did not "warn" Garner of the situation.

TWO PATROL units, driven by Garner and Joe Ortiz, 37, had been dispatched to the far north A Street, near Midland Air Park, on an emergency call to investigate an apparently abandoned blue pickup truck and, by some accounts, a body lying on the caliche-lined street. Bearden's companion, however, was asleep in the pickup cab.

Mrs. Bearden, ex-wife of Midland attorney Bobby Bearden, had been seeking $178,000 in damages under the Texas Wrongful Death Statute from defendant Garner and the city of Midland.

Mrs. Bearden, represented by Odessa lawyer

Tom Sneed, had held in the suit's petition that the patrolman was operating his unit at an unsafe speed, failed to keep a proper lookout, and failed to "heed warnings given to him (via radio) to be on the lookout for a pedestrian lying down in the vicinity."

The defendant, represented by Midland lawyer Charles Tighe, countered by holding that Joe Bearden was negligent, that Bearden "failed to keep a proper lookout for his own safety," that "he was intoxicated," and was "lying down in a roadway at night with dark clothing on."

POLICE WERE notified of the pickup and the body in the roadway by Randy Isenberg and a companion at 2:16 a.m. after they had left Air Park (Bowling) Lanes.

"We stopped and recognized the situation," Isenberg said on the witness stand Friday.

"It (the body) was lying very still," he observed.

He said the youth was on his back, face up, and his hands behind his head.

"Out of caution to ourselves, we decided not to (get out), drove off and called police," he said. Moments later, two patrol units were speeding to the scene. Ortiz's car was in the lead; Garner's unit was trailing.

Testimony and taped recording of police radio transmissions on that June 29 indicated Ortiz saw the body, lying between 65 and 70 yards from the pickup truck, managed to avoid hitting young Bearden and radioed to Garner but apparently his transmission was garbled.

A playback of that garbled segment of the tape picked up "...ran over..." from Ortiz's voice, but Garner failed to get the message.

Seconds later, the tape played "...subject lying here... hit him! I ran over him!" The voice apparently was that of Garner's.

About a half hour after the initial call, Bearden arrived at Midland Memorial Hospital, and seemed to improve, but later died from internal injuries.

Among those who testified were the patrolmen, other police officers and Mrs. Bearden, who now lives in Temple. She and Bobby Bearden, who was at the trial, were divorced in 1976. Two months before the death of their son, their daughter, Rayanne, 15, was struck by a car in Odessa and was killed. Their surviving child is Thomas Edward Bearden, 22, a chemistry-engineering student at Texas A&M University.

IN HIS closing argument to the jury, Sneed focused on the alleged negligence and haste of Officer Garner.

"There's not one of us in this town who at some time has not been guilty of negligence," he said.

Sneed maintained that Garner was in too much haste, as he drove to the scene.

"...He had watched too many 'Starsky and Hutch' (detective) television programs, where you go racing out there," Sneed said.

He noted that Garner's vision that night was obscured by dust unsettled by the Ortiz's leading patrol car.

"You should exercise more care when you know your vision is obscured," he said.

Sneed admitted that young Bearden had been drinking at Dudes & Dolls (now, Dimensions, a disco) with a friend that night. "I know that he was drinking as late as 11 o'clock," said Sneed. He said that hospital staffers, after analyzing a sample of Joe Bearden's blood, detected a "slight elevation of blood alcohol."

"I know that he laid down beside the road. I don't know what he was sick...or asleep," he said.

In arguing the case for his city's and Garner's defense, Tighe said that the situation for the patrolman "is a little bit scary" in responding to a nighttime call and with scant information.

"There's a pickup; it's abandoned, and there's a body. It's nighttime; it's hard to see," Tighe said in trying to depict the drama of the night for Garner.

"I'm sorry for the accident," he said. "I wish it hadn't happened. I can't express the regret Terry Garner has for it."

But the mishap wasn't the officer's fault, he said.

"I don't believe Terry Garner is negligent."

"I believe the entire negligence was on Joe Bearden for lying out there."

NEWSPAPER BIBLE

You can have this constant joy

We are Christ's ambassadors. God is using us to speak to you: we beg you, as though Christ Himself were here pleading with you, receive the love He offers you—be reconciled to God.

For God took the sinless Christ and poured into Him our sins. Then, in exchange, He poured God's goodness into us!

As God's partners we beg you not to toss aside this marvelous message of God's great kindness.

For God says, "Your cry came to me at a favorable time, when the doors of welcome were wide open. I helped you on a day when salvation was being offered." Right now God is ready to welcome you. Today He is ready to save you.

We try to live in such a way that no one will ever be offended or kept back from finding the Lord by the way we act, so that no one can find fault with us and blame it on the Lord.

In fact, in everything we do we try to show that we are true ministers of God. We patiently endure suffering and hardship and trouble of every kind.

We have been beaten, put in jail, faced angry mobs, worked to exhaustion, stayed awake through sleepless nights of watching, and gone without food.

We have proved ourselves to be what we claim by our wholesome lives and by our understanding of the Gospel and by our patience. We have been kind and truly loving and filled with the Holy Spirit.

We have been truthful, with God's power helping us in all we do. All of the godly man's arsenal—weapons of defense, and weapons of attack—have been ours.

We stand true to the Lord whether others honor us or despise us, whether they criticize us or commend us. We are honest, but they call us liars.

The world ignores us, but we are known to God; we live close to death, but here we are, still very much alive. We have been injured but kept from death.

Our hearts ache, but at the same time we have the joy of the Lord. We are poor, but we give rich spiritual gifts to others. We own nothing, and yet we enjoy everything.

2 Corinthians 5:20-21; 6:1-10

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, November 16, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Those born on this date are blessed with keen intelligence and a strong sense of purpose. In the months ahead, you get valuable experience that will lead to more rapid advancement in career, business. Money demands lessen, allowing you to build up savings. For romance to flourish, you might need to relinquish some of your treasured privacy. Do so cheerfully. You could find that periods of togetherness become as essential for your happiness as those hours of solitude.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Adopt a more subtle approach when attempting to resolve differences with loved one. You are cheered by the influence that romance has on today's plans.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Children may play a key role in certain long-range decisions that you make today. Community responsibilities can cause a switch in plans. Be flexible. An influential friend or neighbor will go to bat for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friendship can take precedence over romance today. The ties of love are emphasized at a family get-together. A new sense of commitment may develop after talking things over with mate, spouse.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get an early start today if you have a creative or artistic project to pursue. The afternoon is apt to find you tending to the needs of friends, relatives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Maintain a low profile when part of the crowd. This is not a good day to request personal favors. A romantic duo is wrapped up in their own concerns. Seek companionship elsewhere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You need to get out and about more. Accept invitations that will give you the opportunity to meet prominent people. Friends offer sound advice regarding a personal goal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Friends play a dominant role in your life right now. Arrange to split expenses if going out on the town. A for-mer co-worker may attempt to play matchmaker with surprising results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A short trip can be a welcome change from your usual Sunday routine. Avoid talking shop at a family get-together. Instead, look around you and observe the new alliances which are being formed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Personal finances look more promising, and there may be a new chance to travel. You have your hands full if responsible for the care of small children this week-end.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Another's accomplishments may inspire you to slowly expand your hori- zon. Heed loved one's re- quest for privacy. Too many questions could damage mate's confidence in your re- lationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can avoid unneces- sary domestic tension by be- ing honest with a concern- ed relative. The trust is not nearly as upsetting as what this person has been imagining.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your personal popularity is on the upswing now. Try to remain behind the scenes if attempting to resolve a fami- ly dispute. Be wary of a jeal- ous child.

Fiance 'not too pleased,' new Miss World quits

LONDON (AP) — Eighteen-year-old West German Gabriella Brum renounced her new title as Miss World 1980 on Friday after saying her 52-year-old Los Angeles fiance was "not too pleased" with the victory. Pageant organizers said they would name a new winner Monday.

Miss Brum, 18-year-old Kimberly Santos, a travel consultant who finished second in the contest Thursday night, was flying home Friday via San Francisco without knowing she was the potential replacement.

Miss Brum, a blue-eyed blonde who stands 5-feet 11-inches tall, was crowned before a capacity crowd of 6,000 at London's Royal Albert Hall and a worldwide television audience estimated at 400 million. The title carries a cash prize of $12,000 and a $36,000 contract for 12 months of traveling commercial and promotion work.

The first indication that all was not well came at the traditional morning-after champagne breakfast with the Lord Mayor of London, where Miss Brum told reporters she had called her fiance, Benno Bellenbaum, a film cameraman in Los Angeles.

He was "not too pleased" she had won, Miss Brum said.

"I think he did not expect it, like I did not expect it," the British Press Association quoted her as saying.

Miss Brum, tipped third likeliest to win among the 67 contestants, added that she had ambitions to follow Bellenbaum into the movies.

Shortly after the breakfast, Miss Brum met with pageant officials for an hour to tell them she was resigning.

Pageant organizer Julia Morley issued the announcement, saying Miss Brum "told us she does not wish to hold the title of Miss World 1980 and having discussed the matter with her, we have agreed to respect her request."

She declined to spell out why Miss Brum renounced the title, saying simply "This morning she was a very happy young lady and looking forward to her time as Miss World."

"I think if any of us had any idea of this before the contest we would have liked to have been told."

As Miss Brum left London for an undisclosed destination, British newspapers quoted Bellenbaum as saying he hoped she had time for him during her year-long reign.

"We got engaged two months ago and we want to get married soon. I am the jealous sort, but not violent. You can't put a girl of 18 into a kind of jail like this," the New Evening Standard quoted him as saying.

But in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in Los Angeles, Bellenbaum said "I'm surprised to hear this" when asked about her resignation. He confirmed he was her fiance and said the two met last year in Germany.

Seventeen-year-old Miss France, student Patricia Barzyk, came in third in the pageant; Miss Israel, Anat Zimmerman, fourth; Miss Britain, Kim Ashfield, fifth; Miss United States, 17-year-old receptionist Brooke Alexander from Kailua, Hawaii, sixth and New Zealander Vicki Lee Hemi was seventh.

The 29-year-old pageant has witnessed drama before. American Marjorie Wallace was sacked 104 days after taking the title in 1973. After a series of tempestuous romances, the organizers said she failed to maintain "a first class public image."

In 1974, unmarried mother Helen Morgan of Britain quit after four days. Officially she left on her own, but said afterwards: "Let's be honest, I was sacked."

Prince Charles fails to make anxiously awaited announcement

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles celebrated his 32nd birthday Friday without the present his countrymen were waiting for — the naming of his bride.

Britons had worked themselves into a fever of anticipation that the day would bring an announcement from Buckingham Palace about the prince's engagement.

Charles went fox hunting. Lady Diana Spencer, 19, the woman speculation has centered on as his choice, was nowhere in sight.

After his day's ride through the rain, cold wind and mud of the Quorn Hunt, Charles said, "I've had a good day. It's shaken up my liver."

The prince was said to have helped ride down one fox but lost another.

A palace spokesman said Charles had "no public engagements" on his calendar. Royalty-watchers said the prince was celebrating his birthday with a small private party at his 18th-century country house, Highgrove, in rural Gloucestershire.

They expected Lady Diana to attend.

In a radio interview broadcast Friday, Charles spoke about his faith in the "good old British bloke," but declined to talk about marriage or Lady Diana.

The heir to the British throne said his country must meet the challenge of changing from an empire to "a really rather minor state in the 1980s."

Despite all of Britain's current problems of economy and morale, the prince said, he has confidence in the way Britons "react so marvelously to hard times." He said, "I love this country and I want to see Britain great again."

Charles once said that "around 30" was a good time to choose a bride, and the British public has taken him at his word. Rumors have grown up around almost every woman he has escorted in recent years.

Lady Diana, a blue-blooded kindergarten teacher, is the fourth child of the 8th Earl of Spencer, a family with years of ties to the royal family.

A shy, pretty blonde, she is said to have the approval of the prince's mother, Queen Elizabeth II.

Britain's most active royalty-baiter, lawmaker Willie Hamilton, criticized the spending of taxpayers' money to celebrate the 80th birthday of Queen Mother Elizabeth.

He was told in a written parliamentary answer that last Tuesday's dinner for the Queen Mother at 10 Downing St., given by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, cost the taxpayers $5,000.

"Why should the Queen Mum have a free meal?" Hamilton asked. "She could have paid for the dinner herself as a gesture."

"It is outrageous that a few select people should sit down and squander taxpayers' money like this while I have constituents living on the breadline," said Hamilton, son of a coalminer. Hamilton is a Labor Party member of Parliament for a Scottish constituency.

In the past, Hamilton has predicted that the monarchy will disappear before the end of the century, suggested selling the royal yacht for cash to support strikers and called the royal family "our only living museum — the human equivalent of the London Zoo but giving much less pleasure than the chimpanzees' tea party."

Pilot says Garwood had rifle, spied on Americans in prison

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A helicopter pilot, called to the stand as lead-off witness in the court-martial of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood, testified Friday that Garwood carried a rifle and spied on other Americans while being held captive by the communists.

Chief Warrant Officer Francis Andon, who spent more than five years in Vietnamese prison camps, was the first witness in Garwood's much-delayed trial — the first court-martial on charges of desertion and collaboration since the end of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Anton fidgeted nervously as he told of encountering Garwood in two prisoner-of-war camps.

Questioned by chief prosecutor Maj. Werner Hellmer, Anton said Garwood lived apart from other POWs and acted as an interpreter for the enemy.

"Did the accused ever have a weapon?" Hellmer asked.

"Yes, sir," Anton replied. "On one occasion he had a rifle. I can't tell you what kind of rifle, but it was a rifle."

Asked if the rifle was loaded, Anton said Garwood removed the clip from the weapon and showed it to another POW who wanted to know if there was any ammunition in it. "I don't know if the clip had any ammunition in it," Anton said.

Garwood, a balding 34-year-old Indiana native, is on trial before a jury of five Marine officers on charges of desertion, collaboration, trying to entice American troops to surrender and mistreating two fellow prisoners. If convicted, he could be sentenced to life imprisonment and made to forfeit $143,000 in back pay now being held in escrow.

Anton said he saw Garwood wearing an enemy uniform without any insignia of rank and that a group of POWs once found Garwood spying outside their tent.

A dark-haired career Army officer with bushy eyebrows, Anton said under cross-examination by defense attorney John Lowe that he never doubted Garwood wanted to return to the United States.

Prosecutors have indicated that part of the foundation for conviction on the desertion charge would be that Garwood remained voluntarily in Vietnam.

"I believed all along that if they offered him to go home on any one day he would have gone," Anton said in response to a question by Lowe.

"Was there ever any serious question in your mind that he did not want to go home like all the other prisoners?" Lowe asked.

"No, sir, there was never any doubt," he said.

Garwood disappeared at age 19 while driving a jeep in the Da Nang area in September 1965. In March 1979 he passed a note to a Finnish businessman in Hanoi with a request to be repatriated.

Anton, who is stationed at Fort Dix, N.J., was captured when his helicopter was shot down in January 1968. He was a captive for 62 months.

During opening statements earlier Friday, Hellmer said the government would prove Garwood committed all the crimes he is charged with.

"The government will prove without a doubt that he (Garwood) acted as an informer, interpreter, indoctrinator and, last but not least, as a guard of other Americans," Hellmer said in his 20-minute statement.

Youths in Belgium hijack bus with school children aboard

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Three youths armed with a sawed-off rifle and purported box of explosives seized a school bus and 16 children in a bizarre hijacking Friday to demand social reforms.

The eight-hour, 80-mile drama ended when police overwhelmed the hijackers, aged 16, 18 and 20, as they entered the Belgian broadcast center to read a statement over the French-language radio station.

There were no injuries, although at least two shots were fired from the bus as negotiations were being conducted in the broadcast center's parking lot.

The trio had with them a box that they said contained explosives. State Prosecutor Francis Poelman declined to say what was in the box, but said "the whole thing was very amateurish."

One of the freed children, 14-year-old Philippe Cornelis told reporters, "I never felt in danger....

They were rather nice with us. I think they did it for the publicity."

Two other hostages were the bus driver and a male teacher who boarded the bright orange vehicle to calm the children. One of the hostages, a girl, was freed during the parking-lot negotiations when she complained she was ill.

Authorities identified the two oldest kidnappers as Michael Stree, 20, and Mark Frank, 18. The third was believed to be Frank's 16-year-old brother.

All three were from the small eastern town of Vielsalm, where they seized the bus at 9 a.m.

Little hope held out for twins

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Doctors separated 5-month-old Siamese twins Friday after the brain of one had ceased to function, but doctors had little hope that either twin would survive.

Valerie and Natalie Wackler remained stable throughout the operation, which took more than eight hours. Children's Medical Center spokesman Phillip Stofan said.

The infants, joined at the base of the spine, were born June 17 in Piqua.

Doctors had planned to separate the twins next month, but when tests showed Valerie had suffered what the hospital called brain death, the emergency operation was performed.

Part four: Reagan reign

Queen Nancy and her royal court

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the last of a four-part series by Los Angeles Herald Examiner staff writer Wanda McDaniel, with reporting assistance from Caroline Cushing, tracing the life of Nancy Reagan, wife of president-elect Ronald Reagan.

By WANDA MCDANIEL and CAROLINE CUSHING

In a 1971 interview printed in a Smith College publication, alumna Nancy Reagan said, "A woman, I would hope, would be a help to her husband no matter what he does. Of course, the more successful he is the more important her role becomes."

Now, the wife of Ronald Reagan can finally appreciate just how important her role can be. In January she will ascend to the throne of first lady, and for four years will help her husband rule the land, as she has said, "no matter what he does."

She is well aware that during the Carter presidential term, the nation has taken note of Rosalynn Carter's spiral to probably the weightiest advisory position in government. She knows, as a result, that the country is watching Nancy, wondering if the Oval Office powerbase will emerge as a permanent His And Her oligarchy.

SO WHAT WOULD the reign of Nancy Reagan be like? Her royal court, like the woman herself, would be far more complex than the surface belles, more than pillbox hats and White House decorating tours.

"She has solid social status and is one of the best hostesses I've ever known," says Hollywood writer Dorothy Manners. "She is a well-balanced, intelligent woman of taste, not extravagance," says dean of fashion Eugenia Sheppard, "and she would not be a frivolous first lady."

The Reaganites who will follow the first couple to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue will include Western politicians, the socially significant, lofty members of the Hollywood hierarchy, wealthy Los Angeles Westsiders, and the "Kitchen Cabinet" elite. Suddenly, everyone's racing to stake a claim in Reagan country, no matter how tenuous. But not many will succeed.

Mrs. Reagan is a member of a startlingly tight-knit social group in which she and her husband function almost exclusively. They party together, dine together, vacation together, and most importantly, they have all shared charter memberships in building the foundation of Reaganesque politics. Some of the men function as actual advisors, others as sounding boards. The women are as close as sequestered sorority sisters. They are all quite rich and very successful.

FOR AS LONG AS any social observers can remember, no one new has broken through the group's bond in two decades. Sure, there's constant flitting around the periphery. But so far, outsiders have been left floundering for the password.

"They don't want any new players. They want the same wine, the same food, the same faces, the same ideas," scolds a top matron who's gotten close, but never inside. "What that close-knit group is all about is insecurity. They don't want anyone encroaching, anyone breezing in with something that's not as boring as they are. All of them are reactionaries. It's like self-hypnosis, that clan."

It is the hottest clique in Los Angeles. And what infuriates the status-conscious doyennes is that they know there is no way they're getting in. They are emerald green with envy.

The tribal Reaganites feel unfailingly proud and fiercely protective. Many of the friendships were formed first among the wives — a twist in the typically man-centered social universe where female follows male.

After 20 years of snug togetherness, the women, in particular, appear extraordinarily alike — all sharing the same shopping habits (the couture department at I. Magnin's), the same hairdo (short, pert bouffants), the same lunching place (the Bistro Garden), the same dining haunt (Chasen's), the same florist (David Jones), the same designer (Adolfo), the same party affiliation (Republican) and the same friend (Nancy). And through it all, the glue which has held the entire group together is named Reagan.

FROM ALL ACCOUNTS, the Nancy Reagan assemblage falls into several friendly tiers, the uppermost populated with such names as Betsy Bloomingdale, the best-dressed wife of Diner's Club founder Alfred Bloomingdale; Betty Wilson, the heiress-wife of ranch developer William Wilson; Marion Jorgensen, wife of steel magnate Earle Jorgensen; Bonita Granville Wrather, the former actress and wife of entertainment mogul Jack Wrather; Jean French Smith, wife of Reagan's personal attorney William French Smith; Jane Bryan personal attorney William French Smith; Jane Bryan Dart, the former actress and wife of Dart Industries chief Justin Dart; and Virginia Tuttle, wife of auto dealership kingpin Holmes Tuttle.

These are the women with whom Nancy is in touch almost daily — even when on the campaign trail. They are the most familiar faces on the Reagan's small dinner party circuit.

When Mrs. Reagan celebrated her birthday this summer at Chasen's the small circle was enlarged to include such second-tier Hollywood chums as the Frank Sinatras, the Jimmy Stewarts, Irene Dunne, producer Hal Wallis and wife Martha, the Joseph Cottens, Mervyn and Kitty LeRoy, Mrs. Jack Benny, Janet and Freddie deCordova, Mrs. Jules Stein, and producer Ray Stark and his wife Fran.

During dinner, Reagan stood to give such a tender toast to his wife ("that skinny kid from Chicago") that several guests wept.

IF YOU KNEW NANCY Like They Know Nancy....

Betsy Bloomingdale: "We chatter on the phone almost every day, talking about everything from shoes to politics. She's the most loyal friend, she's like a member of the family. The Reagans have never changed. They've always remained the same. I don't think they're that much out of step. They are back in style."

Bonita Wrather: "The fact that Ronnie will be the next president of the United States is a little awesome. It's very hard for Nancy. She's a strong woman, but she's vulnerable. She'll talk about anything, from recipes to issues. But she lives politics. I think we need people to look up to in the White House, we need a little style, elegance and quality. Nancy has that flair."

Senator Strom Thurmond: "She's a very fine lady of high ideals who'd make a terrific first lady. I wouldn't be at all surprised if she's Ronnie's most influential adviser. I've always maintained the women you love and the women you sleep with are the people you can trust the most."

Then what will happen when Nancy Reagan finally inherits the throne? What changes would be wrought in the capital city?

Roll out the carriages. Polish the trumpets.

And get ready for a new flourish of Washington parties. No more Willie Nelson hoedowns on the South Lawn. No more Rosalynn Carter/Joan Mondale handcrafted table centerpieces from Appalachia. No more punch and cookie afternoons or sit-on-a-blanket picnic lunches.

WITH THE REIGN of Nancy will come the restoration of the Sans Souci, that elegant French restaurant of Washington elite which has fallen on harder times thanks to the ribs and barbeque Carter regime.

Watch for liquor to once again replace orange juice at stylish private meals in the White House.

And watch for a notably toned down, cleaned up brand of humor to replace all those Billy Beer jokes.

(According to friends, Nancy Reagan likes to tell a joke nearly as much as her husband. Her versions, however, tend to be her own. An example of a Nancy-fied joke which has been making the rounds of Reagan acquaintances goes like this:

(Someone says to Nancy: "What's the definition of a nymphomaniac?" Answer: "A woman who gets screwed an hour after she gets her hair done.")

(Nancy chuckles, demurs and passes the joke on later, saying, "What do you call a woman who makes love right after she's had her hair done?" Answer: "A hypochondriac.")

Embassy Row will be in again, with the presidential motorcade seen speeding up Massachusetts Avenue, flags flying, for early evenings "at the French or British." But those limos will whirr back to the White House by 10 p.m., the hour when the Reagans like to retire.

The Reagans will no doubt frequent the presidential box in the Opera House of the Kennedy Center. Appropriately festooned in bright royal red and gold, it offers the proper trappings for nobility. In again will be jodphurs and hunting pinks on weekends, white tie and Galanos for night, and California wines and champagne.

MAKE NO MISTAKE, it will be elegant and classy, a change in administrations from down home Southern to worldly Western as dramatic as the restoration of the Hapsburgs. There would be absolutely nothing tacky about Nancy Reagan's White House.

When Nancy Reagan is in the White House, she will hold court over America in the same effective way she has ruled her entire life. "She will make the White House comfortable with good food, cocktails and lunches. All their non-Jewish friends will be there," says pal Rupert Allen.

Down home will move Uptown. Informality will give way to formal. There will be Frank Sinatra where once there had been Bobby Byrd's country fiddle. There will be no barbecues for gospel singers and stock car racers, no lemonade and cookies in the East Room.

There will, instead, be The Establishment GOP all the way. And Nancy Reagan will be the queen of it all.

Nancy and Ronald Reagan stroll with their horses through the northern Virginia countryside during a break in recent campaign appearances for Reagan. The Reagans, with Nancy's guidance, are expected to revamp and revitalize Washington's social life in the coming years. (AP Laserphoto)

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle Aquarium's sea otter population continues to grow with the arrival of yet another pup, the third born here in the last 18 months.

"This new pup appears to be in good health," said Jim Styers, 31, biologist in charge of mammals at the aquarium. "The mother appears to be doing everything right."

The aquarium captured three female sea otters — Etika, Kiska and Katsko — in Prince William Sound in Alaska in 1976. It captured a male sea otter — Tak — in the same sound in 1977.

Reagan makes his first two major appointments

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan announced on Friday the first two appointments of his administration.

Named as counselor to the president with Cabinet rank is Edwin Meese III, a lawyer from San Diego who was Reagan's campaign chief of staff and is heading the president-elect's transition team.

Appointed as White House chief of staff is James A. Baker III of Houston, Texas, a top aide in President Gerald R. Ford's campaign in 1976 and adviser to George Bush during the presidential primary season.

Baker joined the Reagan camp after Bush withdrew from the White House sweepstakes. Bush subsequently became Reagan's running mate.

Reagan stated that Meese will have responsibility for Cabinet administration, the domestic policy staff of the president, and the staff operations of the National Security Council.

Meese will also be a presidentially designated member of the National Security Council.

Baker will be responsible for directing all functions of the White House staff, including congressional relations, administration, press relations and the White House personnel office.

He will also be a presidentially designated member of the NSC.

Asked why both Meese and Baker will be on the NSC, Reagan said, "I think that goes with the jobs."

Reagan's decision was relayed to news reporters here by spokesman Joe Holmes.

Later, Reagan talked to reporters outside the barber shop that he had just visited. Asked for his reaction to the scuttling by the current "lame-duck" Congress of any plans for a tax cut such as Reagan has advocated, he said, "that'll leave me something to do when I get there — like in the first 24 hours."

The announcement of the staff appointments came only hours after Reagan had told reporters he had made no decision on appointments and did not talk to members of his transition staff during a week-long vacation.

Wearing battered Western boots and faded blue denim work clothes, Reagan talked briefly with reporters on his return from a five-day vacation at his mountaintop ranch 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles near Santa Barbara.

Asked if he had been conferring by telephone with members of his transition staff during his vacation, Reagan replied, "No, no, we've just been ranching."

He added that it was still too early for reporters to ask him about any specific appointments to his White House staff or the Cabinet.

"I think there's been a lot of speculation ... but there's been no decision made in regard to appointments to the administration," Reagan said.

Reagan's press secretary, Lyn Nofziger, interrupted other questions about the new administration, limiting the impromptu news conference to questions about the president-elect's vacation activities.

Reagan confirmed that he intends to make his 688-acre Santa Barbara ranch his chief vacation retreat, but said he would not allow the kind of elaborate staff offices and communications center that was built at former President Richard M. Nixon's San Clemente estate.

"I'll stand there with a shotgun in my arms and say no changes," Reagan joked when asked about plans for the ranch.

But he confirmed that he probably would use the ranch as an informal Western White House from time to time.

"I hope that on vacations and every opportunity that I can, just as other presidents before have had everything from Hyannisport to Augusta, Ga., to Plains, to Key Biscayne — ours would be the ranch."

The ranch presently has very limited accommodations — a small two-bedroom adobe house where the Reagans stay, a trailer for a caretaker, a trailer for the Secret Service and a stable and tack room.

And that's all Reagan wants there. The president-elect said he wants it to remain a place where he goes to get away from things.

Reagan plans to meet this weekend with leaders of his transition staff before flying Monday to Washington, where he is scheduled to meet with President Carter and other government leaders.

Capitol Hill visit slated by Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP)

Working hard to ensure a friendly Congress, President-elect Ronald Reagan will travel to Capitol Hill for two days of meetings and lunches next week before paying a first visit to his future home at the White House.

Reagan also will receive national security briefings and meet with supporters and transition aides before he meets President Carter for the first time since defeating him in the last week's election, aides said Friday.

They also released a list of 14 economic advisers who will meet in Los Angeles this weekend to thrash out details of Reagan's overall economic plans.

Those advisers, who include a number of prominent economists and former Cabinet members in the administrations of Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford, will discuss "how to implement, not what to implement," said transition press officer James Brady, emphasizing that the group is not pushing for changes in Reagan's stated policies.

One subject sure to be discussed, he said, will involve possible ways to meet Reagan's pledge to cut the federal budget by 2 percent.

In other matters related to the transition from a Carter to a Reagan administration:

—A Reagan economic task force, in a report to be discussed at this weekend's Los Angeles meeting, is recommending that bigger tax breaks for individuals who save money and invest profitably in stocks.

Family's third child dies of rare blood disease

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Four-year-old Shannon McClanahan will be buried Saturday, the victim of an extremely rare and hideously destructive blood disease that also claimed the lives of her two brothers, Timmy, 16 months, and Scott, 5.

Over the past 17 months, Bill and Angie McClanahan of Lake Elsinore have watched helplessly as all three of their children died from FEL, a genetic disease of which only 36 known cases have occurred since 1976.

Inexplicably, the blood defense system goes wild when attacked by FEL, or familial erythrocytic lymphohistiocytosis.

The disease, masked as a mild virus, swiftly invades one organ system after another until it has destroyed the spinal column, the brain and finally the heart.

Specialists say children may live about six weeks after the symptoms first appear, but there is no cure.

The McClanahan's oldest child, Scott, was stricken first. He was under treatment in Children's Hospital in San Diego a year ago in June when they brought in his brother, Timmy. When the younger boy died seven weeks later, his mother went to Scott's room to tell him.

"The doctors told me to tell him the truth, that Timmy had died and that it was a very rare disease and that he had it, too," Mrs. McClanahan, 32, said Thursday.

"But Scott already figured out that Timmy had died when he saw all of the nurses crying. And when I told him, he said, 'I know.'"

Scott was allowed to go back to his home near Lake Elsinore for Thanksgiving. He died after Christmas.

McClanahan, a 36-year-old machinist, recalled: "It seemed like a miracle, but it wasn't to be. I really think he came home to give us the strength and prepare us for the rest of it."

Before Scott died, he was paralyzed as if he were an old man after a massive stroke and was unable to eat or talk. His face was twisted and his sight was gone. Doctors say Timmy died first because he was the weaker of the two.

Believing that the recessive genes that caused FEL in their sons was linked to their sex, the McClanahans thought Shannon would escape.

When she fell ill in September, she told her mother: "I have the same thing Scott had — am I going to die?" "We all are going to fight our best," her mother said.

Shannon died last week.

Dr. Gary Hartman, a hematologist at Children's Hospital, said that when parents have the rare genetic pairing that causes FEL, there is a 25 percent chance that their children will develop the disease.

He said the 36 cases documented since 1976 occurred among 21 families. But he said he did not know if three cases had ever before occurred in one family.

McClanahan, a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or Mormons, says his religion teaches that when children die before the age of accountability "they go back to heaven and live with God."

"We know our children are there now," he said.

Angie McClanahan looks at a portrait of her children, now all dead of a rare blood disease. Shown in the picture are Scott, Timmy and Shannon. All died in a San Diego hospital (AP Laserphoto)

Moneysupply should tighten as Fed raises discount rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board on Friday raised to 12 percent the interest rate it charges to member banks. The action should tighten the money supply and eventually could make it tougher and more expensive for consumers to borrow money.

In addition to raising the rate from 11 percent, the board imposed a surcharge of 2 percentage points for large banks that are frequent borrowers from the Federal Reserve.

"These actions, which are effective on Monday, were taken in view of the current level of short-term interest rates and the recent, rapid growth in (money supply) and bank credit," the board said.

A rising money supply and heavy credit fuel inflation, which currently is running at a 12.7 percent annual rate.

As for the rate banks charge their own best customers, these have steadily risen in recent months to a current level of 15.5 percent.

The discount rate last was raised in late September — from 10 percent to 11 percent — for similar reasons. The discount rate was as high as 13 percent in late May before dropping to 10 percent and starting to rise in late September.

Six of the board's seven members voted for the twin steps Friday. Nancy Teeters dissented.

The surcharge above the basic discount rate will apply to short-term borrowings by financial institutions with deposits of $500 million or more, the board said.

"It will be charged when discount borrowing occurs in two or more successive weeks in a calendar quarter, or when borrowing takes place in more than four weeks in a calendar quarter," the board explained.

When market interest rates are higher than the rate charged by the Federal Reserve, banks tend to borrow at the more attractive interest levels.

For example, banks now can borrow from each other at about a 14.5 percent interest rate, known as the federal funds rate.

That is far less a bargain than borrowing at the Federal Reserve's window at the current 11 percent rate.

Alan Sinai, senior economist at Data Resources Inc., a private forecasting firm, said Friday's move should be met positively by Wall Street. "I read it as probably the last nudge of tightening in terms of the discount rate," Sinai said.

The two percentage point surcharge, he said, should be seen as a temporary measure, similar to the extra three percentage point charge imposed last March when the Federal Reserve imposed a series of tight money controls.

U.S. continues apparent climb out of recession, figures show

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy continued its apparent climb out of recession as industrial production rose 1.6 percent in October, the biggest monthly jump in more than two years, the government announced Friday.

Production of U.S. factories and mines has improved rapidly since declining in the depths of last spring's economic downturn. After six consecutive monthly drops, output has increased 4 percent since July, the Federal Reserve reported.

Industrial production remains 4.4 percent below October 1979 levels, however, and private economists caution that the recent, steady improvement probably will not continue.

Rising interest rates and persistent, double-digit inflation are taking a renewed toll on retail sales. In addition, unemployment is expected to remain high, further dampening people's consumption.

These factors could bode ill for future industrial production: Much of the current improvement occurred in the consumer sector, particularly among durable goods such as autos and home products.

"The economy is weakening again and could fall back," said Lawrence Chimierne, head of Chase Econometrics Associates, a private forecasting firm. He attributed part of the resurgence in overall production to the end of credit restraints imposed earlier this year.

Auto sales have been flat and will continue to feel the crunch from high interest rates, Chimierne said, and home goods also will be adversely affected as rising mortgage rates again dampen home sales.

Banks now are charging their best customers 15.5 percent interest, while mortgage rates exceed 15 percent in some home markets.

Those interest rates may climb higher in the wake of the Federal Reserve Board's decision Friday to raise to 12 percent the discount rate it charges member banks to borrow. It also imposed a 2 percent surcharge to big banks that are frequent borrowers from the Fed.

Economists say Friday's action should tighten the ability of financial institutions to loan money and eventually could force consumers' interests rates up.

"The most recent evidence on sales does indicate that increased interest rates are choking off consumption somewhat," said David Ernst, of Evans Economics in Washington. "This should lead to slower production rates in coming months."

Earlier this week, the government reported that overall retail sales edged down slightly in October after rising 1.5 percent in September. Sales of durable goods, particularly autos, were down more sharply.

The Federal Reserve said the 1.6 percent jump in industrial production was broad-based and unmatched since August 1978. Before then, the largest one-month spurt was a 2.2 percent rise in August 1975.

The Federal Reserve also revised upwards its production figures for August, from 0.6 percent to 1 percent, and for September, from 1 percent to 1.3 percent.

It said output of consumer goods in October rose 1.2 percent, reflecting a large gain for durable items, but almost no change for nondurable products.

Autos were assembled at an annual rate of 6.7 million units last month, compared to September's 6 million-a-year pace. Auto analysts in Detroit say sales have "plateaued" at a yearly rate of about 6.6 million.

Production of home goods — such as appliances, carpeting and furniture — advanced 1.9 percent in October, although output of these items remained nearly 9 percent below year-earlier levels.

After three months of little change, production of business equipment increased 0.7 percent in October. It had declined 3.6 percent last spring.

Production of defense and space equipment again rose sharply in October. Output of construction supplies advanced 1.7 percent, somewhat less than during the previous two months.

Reflecting the sharp downturn in housing during the recession, production of construction supplies was down 12 percent from September 1979's level, Federal Reserve officials said.

Rebels seize breaks to beat Bulldogs, 14-0

Lee muzzles rushing game

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

The game was supposed to mean so little. Oh, it was a battle for the coveted city championship trophy, and everyone wants to go out on a winning note. But there was no title on the line — that was being played 20 miles down the road. But make no mistake about it — it was war at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

The Midland Lee Rebels used two Midland High turnovers to take a 14-0 victory, earning their fifth straight win in the 20-year city war and giving the Rebs a 10-8-2 edge in the series.

But this was more than the average game. The two teams pulled out all the stops for this one, producing more than its share of oddities.

For one thing, MHS quarterback Michael Feldt said adios to Bulldog football by throwing 44 times and completing 19 for 258 yards. Meanwhile, Lee held the Bulldogs to 12 yards rushing and the Dogs ran only two, designed running plays in the second half.

MIDLAND High became the first 5-A team to hold Calvin Riggs, the leading loop rusher, below 100 yards. Riggs managed only 77 yards rushing and it was quarterback Barry Corley who carried the Rebs in this one with 88 yards rushing and a key touchdown.

And maybe this one proves that defense wins games. After all, that's where the Rebs lived and died this year, finishing with a 6-3-1 record while MHS ends even with a 5-5 mark.

The Bulldogs got to the 13-yard line in the first period and to the Lee five in the fourth quarter, only to come up empty handed as the Rebs got mean when it counted. The Rebels acted like they were trying to defend Atlanta from an air raid.

Lee got its first break of the game in the second period when end Wade Colburn knocked Feldt loose from the ball and linebacker David Cornelius pounced on it at the MHS 18. Six plays later, Rodney Hemphill, who later had a 52-yard TD run nullified by a holding penalty, scored from one yard out on a key block by Clyde Smith and Van Gravitt added the first of two extra points with only 21 seconds left in the half.

Then in the third period, Smith intercepted a Feldt pass at the Lee 39 to set in motion a 61-yard Lee TD drive. Corley had a run of 15 and Riggs had one of 12 to set up Corley's 23-yard scamper to paydirt. Corley took the ball on the option play, broke a tackle at the line of scrimmage and found himself all alone, a fact that seemed to surprise the gutty scrambler.

MIDLAND High had its chances as Feldt threw bombs all night to Wade Johnson, Devin Alsop, Kyle Ford and David Bledsoe. But the Lee defense would not break when the Dogs got close.

In the first period, MHS got to the 13 after Bruce Fisher recovered a Lee fumble on the opening kickoff. But Lee got stingy at that point as Colburn and Terry Thompson dropped Feldt for a seven-yard loss and Cornelius, playing his best game, broke up a fourth down pass in the end zone.

In the third period, Feldt hit Johnson with a 36-yard pass to the Lee five. But a Feldt pass to Johnson again for the TD was called back for an illegal receiver down field and on fourth down Riggs chased Feldt to Lamesa and back before tossing the MHS threat for a 22-yard loss. It could have very easily been 14-14 at the end.

Midland High's huge defensive line, which was anchored solidly by Joe Goebel and Jerry Dedrick, did a good job of keeping Lee in check most of the game. The Rebs vaulted rushing attack managed only 191 yards rushing, but two of MHS' four turnovers in the game proved to be the big difference.

Lee played its usual steady football game and took advantage of the mistakes given them. In the end it paid dividends. But the victory should go to the Lee defense, which withstood an aerial display by Feldt that hasn't been seen on the Memorial Stadium turf in years.

At least the fans didn't get cheated in this one. It was worth the price of admission.

Bronchos tie Permian, but Panthers wear crown

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

ODESSA — Odessa Permian wears the District 5-4A football crown after barely escaping the Odessa High Bronchos in a 14-14 tie before 20,000 fans in W.T. Barrett Stadium Friday night.

All the Panthers needed was a victory or tie and a tie was what John Wilkins' crew had to settle for from the battling Bronchos.

Leading 14-6 with a little over a minute left, Permian have Jerry Millsapp's team the break it needed when a 26-yard pass interference play down to the Panther nine, gave the Bronchos new life. Hector Sanchez almost broke for a touchdown when he raced to the two and on the next play, quarterback Johnny Subia knifed over for the TD to cut the lead to 14-12. Subia also ran over for the two-point conversion to tie the game, 14-14 with 53 seconds left in the game.

OHS tried an onside kick and it almost worked with Mike Williams falling on the ball at the Permian 49 for Mojo.

NOT satisfied with a tie although in the state playoffs, Permian tried to score. Quarterback Jerry Hix gained six yards and tailback Kent Sager six more and the Mike George gained on to the OHS 39. On the next play with only six seconds left, the Black Cats tried a flanker pass from Terry Mohler to Jimmy Morris, but it misfired on the Broncho one as the gun sounded, ending the game.

Permian takes a 9-0-1 record into the Class AAAAA state playoffs against Sherman next week while OHS winds up 8-1-1 on the year to share second place with Abilene Cooper. Mojo's district record winds up 6-0-1 while OHS and Cooper finished with 5-1-1 league marks.

It was a classic battle with the Bronchos taking a 6-0 lead in the first period. OHS drove 71 yards in eight plays to stun the Panthers with the big play a 31-yard pass from Subia to Sanchez. The touchdown came when Subia fired a perfect strike to Dwayne Conklin from 24 yards out, but a missed extra point by Junior Cobos loomed bigger and bigger as the game went on. The score came with 4:18 left in the opening period.

PERMIAN cranked up and drove 80 yards in 18 plays to take the Hix doing some great scrambling. The longest play was a 16-yard pass from Hix to Sager. Hix capped the drive by banging over from the one with 2:02 left in the first half and Roy Dunn booted the extra point for a 7-6 lead at halftime.

OHS missed a golden opportunity early in the game when Subia picked off Hix' first passing attempt at the Panther 28. Mojo dug in and then Subia misfired on a 40-yard field goal attempt which was short by quite a bit. He also missed a chip shot from 26 yards out prior to Permian's long drive.

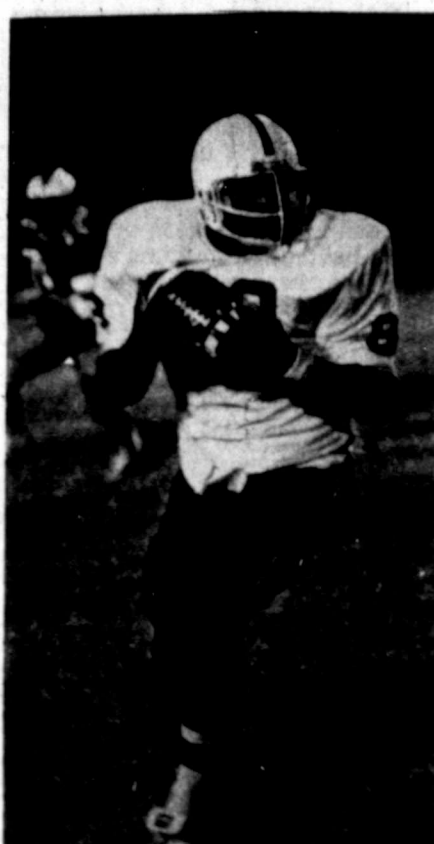

In Permian's first possession of the second half, the Panthers went 57 yards in nine plays to score. The big play came on fourth and one at the OHS 24. Hix gambled at hit Morris at the one to set up the TD. Mike George went over from the one and Dunn's PAT made it 14-6 with 5:49 left in the period.

The Bronchos moved from their own 25 to the Panther one where on a fourth down, Subia was thrown for an eight-yard loss by linebacker Kirk Street. A 39-yard pass from Subia to Sanchez, moved the ball to the Mojo 10.

THEN came OHS' final drive, with the help of the penalty to tie the game, ending Permian's bid for a perfect 10-0 season record.

McCamey levels Clint to wrap up district title

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

MCCAMEY — The McCamey used three long-distances scoring plays to dump Clint, 46-16, and win the District 6-AA championship Friday night in Badger Stadium.

Ben Ferguson set the tone for the game when he bolted up the middle for a 69-yard score on the second play of the game. Joe Rodriguez missed the extra point and McCamey was on top before the smaller then expected crowd was settled down.

McCamey's second possession of the evening ended the same way. B.J.

Hugo Montellano brought the Clint fans to their feet when he took the Badgers' kickoff and raced 91 yards to score. An officials handy flutter to the turf on the Clint 37 erasing the TD.

Not to be denied, Clint proceeded to march 63 yards in seven plays for a score. Jerry Martinez caught a 20-yard aerial from Pablo Estrada and Gus Montellano added the PAT to cut the Badger lead to six points with 4:20 left in the opening stanza.

With 1:22 left in the quarter, Ernest Velasquez stepped in front of an Estrada pass and picked it off at the Lion 21. It took the Badgers just three plays to record their third TD of the night. Ferguson picked up his second TD on a nine yard scamper. Rodriguez drilled the PAT giving the Badgers a 20-7 advantage after one quarter.

Clint came roaring back. Taking the kickoff, the Lions moved from their 33 to the McCamey 16 before the drive stalled. Montellano tried a 23-yard field goal but it was wide to the

It's bowling day for SWC elevens

By Associated Press

The last time the Baylor Bears played the Rice Owls in Houston they were so humiliated the disaster became a rallying point for Coach Grant Teaff's program.

Teaff's Bears hope to show how far they've come since 1978 in the same Rice Stadium Saturday when they can clinch the Southwest Conference football title and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

"Believe me we have a lot of respect for Rice," said Teaff on the eve of Saturday's tussle. "We were humiliated (24-10) in 1978 but it became sort of a psychological springboard for our program."

"We totally reevaluated everything and became much better because of the whipping. We beat Texas the next week and now we've won something like 20 of our last 24 games. The lesson at Rice is well remembered."

BAYLOR is a 14-point favorite to beat the Owls for only the third time in their last eight Houston confrontations.

"Rice is a solid, aggressive football team," said Teaff. "They are bigger than we are and we're concerned about getting manhandled."

Baylor is two games ahead of the SWC hordes with two games to play. If the Bears stumble against the Owls, they'll have another shot to wrap the title the next week against Texas.

In other games, Southern Methodist was a

Fight cancels college contest

ATLANTA (AP) — Saturday's football game between Morehouse and Clark colleges was cancelled by the schools' presidents Friday after hundreds of students armed with guns, sticks and bottles clashed with each other Thursday night.

"I'm just kind of thankful we don't have anybody in the ground over a football game," said Carrell Smith, the public safety director at the Atlanta University Center campus, of which both schools are part.

Lee, Midland girls open cage season with road contests

By MIKE CRUVER

Sports Writer

Girls basketball is just around the corner.

In fact, the Midland Lee Rebels and Midland High Bullpups open the 1980-81 season this weekend with both on the road.

Coach Shirley Stephenson's Rebel crew opens play in Lubbock tonight against the Monterey Plainsmen while Midland High and Coach Jane Young tangle with Abilene Christian High in Abilene.

In four seasons of girls basketball at Lee High School, coach Stephenson's club has won or shared three district titles. Lee had qualified the two previous years for the regional tournament, but fell short last season.

Losing to Lewisville, 60-49, in a bi-district playoff on the McMurry College campus. The loss ended Lee's season at 25-9.

THIS SEASON, Stephenson has a rebuilding job with only one starter and two experienced letterman returning when the Rebels step on the floor Saturday.

The starter, Gale Wilson, a 5-foot-10 senior has been all-district for two straight years and, along with 5-6 senior Wathena Henry and 5-6 junior Maudie Atkins, will provide the nucleus the Rebels will use to build around.

Stephenson says, "We are young, but have good quickness." Stephenson added, "We'll have to get better day by day. I think we well."

The Rebels will run a high and low post along with a double low post on offense according to Stephenson.

Defensively, Stephenson said, "We will press a lot and I will run players in and out. I have 13 players out and think all of them can play, so all of them will see a lot of playing time."

The biggest weakness facing the Rebels will be their youth and lack of height said Stephenson. Lee has one player, Wilson over 5-10. Next tallest players are juniors Rozena McCabe and Suzanne McGaha, both 5-8, up from the junior varsity.

Lee has three seniors: Wilson, Dana Pinkerton and Henry; seven juniors: Ludres Duran, YoYo Goodley, Julie Gallagher, Akins, Kelly Nolan, McCabe and McGaha; and two sophomores: Yshun King and Yunshun Harris on its varsity.

OVER AT Midland High the problems are similar. Coach Young welcomes back one starter, Lucy Miller, 5-8 senior, and four letterwinners: 5-4 junior Janice Littlefield, 5-4 junior Missy Larremore and 5-11 senior Diane Hogan.

Last season MHS finished with a 20-14 mark good for third in the district. Two years ago the Bullpups tied Lee for the district championship.

Coach Young stated, "We are young and inexperienced but are going to be working hard. We are going to have to get better every game."

MHS has height with three players standing 5-11. Unfortunately, junior Jelika Long has no experience and junior Velda Royals played as a freshman but didn't play last season. Hogan is the other squad member standing 5-11. According to Young, "We're just going to have to work hard every minute."

Other varsity members on the Bullpup roster are seniors: Leslie Parke, Tonya Burton, Julie Guyton and Connie Cato; and junior Denette Parker.

Both coaches feel that the district race will be wide open. Stephenson stated, "Any team can beat another on any given night." Young noted,

"Lee, Cooper and San Angelo will be tough—they're all going to be tough."

McCamey Badgers capture 6-AA title leaped into the end zone from three yards out. The PAT failed, leaving McCamey on top 26-10.

On the first play after the kickoff off another Estrada pass found its way into the hands of a waiting Badger. This time Jerry Stacy picked off the pigskin at the Clint 24. Mike Hanks bulldozed three yards for the score following the Badgers' three play drive. Rodriguez tackled on the PAT and the halftime score was 33-10.

In the second half of play the Badger defense kept up the Clint offense bottled up. Only twice did the Lions manage to move into McCamey territory.

On the other side of the pigskin, McCamey added a score with 6:36 left in the third quarter when Ferguson tallied his third TD, dancing in from four yards away.

The final touchdown came with 4:49 left in the quarter when Estrada tried to hit Kerr Henson in the flats. Junior defensive end Donald Mann stuck out his hand and picked the ball out of the air. With clear sailing, Mann rambled 65 yards to score. Rodriguez added the final points of the evening with his third PAT.

Clint, not being able to run effectively against the Badger defense put the ball in the air 23 times. The Lions completed nine but had six passes picked off. Jerry Stacy record three of those thefts.

Ferguson and Terry lead the Badger ground attack, each going over the 100 yard mark in rushing. Terry, with a tender ankle, only played a few minutes of the second half.

The loss ends the Lion season a 6-4. McCamey end the regular season at 8-2 and will face Plains in a bi-district at a place and date to be determined later this week.

Wink holds off Rangers in hair-raising finish

GREENWOOD—Trailing 34-21 midway through the final period, Greenwood's Rangers struck for two touchdowns passes only to be foiled on two two-point conversions attempts as Wink held on for a 34-33 District 6-A win here Friday night.

A 71-yard Kilt Foshee pass to Tommy Pyle produced one score with 7:03 left and then with 2:53 to go Larry Dickerson, who had thrown two earlier touchdown passes, hit Homer Lopez for a 28-yard TD that put victory within reach, but it wasn't to be.

Four conversion kicks by Raymond Dodd proved the difference as Wink, finishing 6-4 for the season and 6-1 in conference, scored 21 points in the third period to wipe out a 21-7 Greenwood halftime lead.

After a three-yard run by Steve Eggleston, set up by John Henderson's 47 yard run to the nine with a fumble, gave Wink a 7-0 first period lead, Dickerson passed eight yards to Pyle to make it 7-6 heading into the second quarter.

Greenwood scored on 13 and four yard passes from Dickerson to Todd Brooks to build up its halftime edge.

Wink went ahead with 5:57 left in the third period on a six-yard run by Ronnie Thomas after a 73-yard interception return put the ball in scoring position.

Eastern viewers like pros

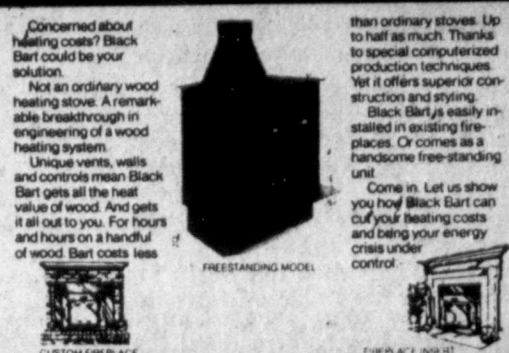

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers in the New York, New Jersey and Connecticut area prefer professional sports to the college game by a wide margin, according to a recent survey of subscribers of Sportschannel, a cable sports programming company.

The survey, based on 324 responses to 2,000 questionnaires distributed to Sportschannel subscribers, showed that 93 percent of those responding watched the New York Yankees and 90 percent the New York Islanders.

Among college sports viewers, basketball claims the most viewers, with St. John's games drawing 38 percent of the viewers and Columbia attracting 24 percent.

Sportschannel has rights to games of the Yankees, New York Mets, Islanders and New Jersey Nets among its sports properties.

Lacy warms up for winter tour

Charlie Lacy put together the kind of bowling over the past two weeks that should be inspirational in his attempt at the Professional Bowlers Tour Winter circuit this winter. Lacy, who has found a sponsor for this winter's tour, began his torrid pace with a 715 series in the Air Park Scratch League on Oct. 20 with games of 222-246 and 247. Then he really erupted on Sunday Nov. 2, when the Basin Travel League stopped at Super Bowl. There Lacy unleashed sets of 730, 631 and 611 over a nine game stretch. His 730 series consisted of games of 269 and 258.

TITO Velasco and Efrain Peral were the top qualifiers in the Miller Doubles Local In-house qualifying round at Dellwood Lanes. In all 10 qualifiers will travel to Houston in December to participate for $15,000 in state prize money and a possible crack at the $125,000 total purse at the national level.

Mike Martin of Odessa was the winner of the Permian Basin Mixed Handicap Association Tournament held at Air Park Lanes on Nov. 9. Martin earned the $100 first prize over Kenny Hostetter. Also placing were: Eddy Sullivan of Ft. Stockton; Ross Graham, 4th place, of Midland; and Lucy Williams, 5th place, of Midland. High game non-casher was Stan Green of Ft. Stockton.

Kenny Hostetter was the top qualifier, but fell to Martin who battled his way up from the second runnerup position. Graham was the fifth runnerup, and he defeated fifth seeded Lucy Williams 230-220. Sullivan then defeated the talented Graham, 199-186, and Martin defeated Sullivan 221-198. Then Martin crushed Hostetter, 234-190 to claim the $100 first prize.

QUALIFIERS in the Miller Doubles Local Qualifying at Air Park Lanes were: 1. Tito Velasco-Efrain Peral, 2. Ruben Urias-Rosie Urias, 3. Linda Bernal-Silver Bernal, 4. Fierro bags HP eagle

An eagle was recorded again this week at Hogan Park Golf Course.

Al Fierro eagled the par 4 number 12 hole. Al holed a wedge shot after playing partner Esslinger had hit his second shot 15 feet from the hole. This eagle was Al's first eagle on a 4-par hole.

Congratulations Al.

The practice area will really be a welcome addition to the Hogan Park Golf Facility. Golf Course Division Head, Rick Haywood, had really been busy with the construction of the new practice chipping and putting green. Rick and his crew moved several loads of sod from Midland Country Club this week and plan to sod the new green and have it playable as soon as possible.

Saul, Joe, Jesse, Jimmy, Tony, Pete, Ysidro and Manuel said on Thursday, after cutting and moving sod, that they would not be out dancing for a couple of nights. The crew really worked hard on this new area, so all golfers should be aware of and appreciate of their efforts. They have completed several projects and have several more lined up for the fall and winter season.

We give a big thanks to Rick and his crew for all their hard work and beautification projects which will make Hogan Park Golf Facility one of the finest in the country.

LAST Thursday, Ginny Plette won the Low Net playday event held by the 9-hole division of the Hogan Park Women's Golf Association. They will have an important general business meeting for their members in the Snack Bar at 9 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 20. A turkey shoot event will follow the meeting.

Also on Thursday, Nov. 20, the 18-hole division will have a general business meeting with a turkey shoot event to follow for which you make your own pairings.
